YMCA official resigns amid allegations

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

The executive director of the Wayne-Westland family YMCA has resigned amid allegations that she violated the youth organization's policies.

Janet Gillies, the Y's director for nearly four years, resigned Oct. 31 in secrecy that even left some local YMCA board members puzzled.

The Y's service area includes Garden City and Westland.

In an emergency meeting called Monday, Nov. 4, officials from the metropolitan YMCA headquarters in Detroit met with the local board to discuss Gillies' departure, though several board members said they didn't get the answers they wanted.

In fact, board members remained so baffled that they said they have requested another meeting with Detroit Y officials.

One local board member said the board was told of allegations of policy violations — some of which involved money. However, they were quick to stress that the metropolitan officials didn't accuse Gillies of taking money herself.

GILLIES, CONTACTED Friday by the Observer, refused to discuss her departure from the Y, on Wayne Road between Cherry Hill and Avondale. It has 854 members from Westland and other communities such as Garden City and Canton Township.

"When I'm ready to make a comment, I'll let you know," she said.

Mary Rose Cartwright, the local Y's program director, has assumed Gillies' duties temporarily. It was not immediately known Friday when Gillies would be replaced.

Janet Gillies

Cartwright declined to discuss Gillies' resignation.

"We don't really have anything to say right now," she said, but she added that the YMCA continues to operate "smoothly."

Gary Unruh, the Y's senior vice president of operations in Detroit, said the organization and Gillies agreed to remain hushed about the details of her resignation.

"Really I think we owe that to Jan," he said. To elaborate on the

Critics: Artley's tactics spurred attacks

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Reports that personal attacks against city councilman Thomas Artley helped crush his re-election bid have angered his critics, who contend that they were merely responding to negative campaign tactics by Artley and his running mates.

Artley supporters blamed his defeat in part on campaign fliers from challengers Sharon Scott, David Cox and William Ziemba that suggested a potential conflict of interest because Artley voted on the city budget while his son worked at different times for the city's private rubbish contractor, the city attorney and the 18th District Court.

The claims infuriated Scott, a successful council candidate, who said Friday that the attacks on Artley emerged in response to what she called earlier smear tactics by Artley and his running mates, Glenn Anderson and Charles Pickering.

Scott, Anderson and incumbents Pickering and Thomas Brown won the four council seats at stake in Tuesday's election. Artley, Cox, Ziemba and candidate Dorothy Smith lost their council bids.

Scott, a former Wayne-Westland school board member, accused her opponents of trying to discredit her campaign by telling voters that she raised their school taxes. She also said they took cheap shots at Cox and Ziemba.

"I didn't raise the (school) taxes," Scott said. "I just voted to place it (the June 10 tax issue) on the ballot. The people voted to increase the taxes."

SCOTT LASHED out at her opponents for accusing her "of being a tax person." In fact, Scott campaigned for controlling city taxes and said at one point that "the frivolous spending of our tax dollars by

School board recall targets file lawsuit

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Three Wayne-Westland school board members threatened by a recall campaign have filed a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court seeking to halt the effort.

The suit, filed Wednesday by board members Kathleen Chorbagian, Leonard Posey and Andrew Spisak, seeks to overturn an Oct. 28 decision by the Wayne County Elections Commission to approve the wording on the recall petitions.

It also asks for a court-ordered injunction forcing recall committee chairman Steven Lind to stop circulating the petitions, which school board members say contain lies that would cause them "immediate and irreparable injury."

The elections commission and Lind have been ordered to appear Wednesday before Circuit Judge Kathleen MacDonald to refute the proposed injunction, which would block the petition drive until MacDonald decides whether to overturn the commission's decision.

The latest development marked a dramatic escalation in the bitter battle between recall organizers and the three school board members. The recall committee, called New Beginnings for Our Children, wants to oust the board members for approving a two-year, 11.9-percent teacher salary increase amid threatened school program cuts.

On Friday, Chorbagian called the allegations in the recall petitions "a lie" and vowed that she will "do whatever I feel is my legal right" to refute the charges.

"I never give up a fight for the (school district) kids, I never give up a fight for the taxpayers, and I will not give up a fight for myself and my integrity," she said.

LIND BLASTED the latest effort as "preposterous" and singled out Chorbagian as trying to stall a recall election so that she can step down — instead of being ousted — when her board term expires in June. Chorbagian has said she won't seek re-election.

Kids learn to save with their own bank books

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

At age 9, Jason Lesniowski accomplished what many adults can't in these recessionary times. He opened a savings account.

He hopes his initial $3 deposit will grow to $200 by May. "I want to buy a Super Nintendo," he said.

Lesniowski, a fourth-grader, is among 200 Titus Elementary School students saving money through a school-business partnership with Manufacturers Bank. The children will make monthly deposits through May and earn 4.5-percent interest.

They've been given their own savings account numbers and identification cards. Bank books in hand, they lined up in a school hallway Thursday to make their first deposits.

Parents Andrea Wroblewski and Jill Nichols, PTA members, handled the deposits. Linda Larsen, assistant manager of the Manufacturers branch at Cherry Hill and Inkster Road, was on hand to take the money to the bank.

The students can't withdraw their money until May, at which time cashier's checks will be issued to them by Manufacturers. The only exception for early withdrawal would be if a child moves.

The partnership is expected to include two field trips — one to the local Manufacturers branch and another to the downtown Detroit headquarters, said Titus teacher Jerry Malzahn. He organized the project after his wife, a Manufacturers employee, told him about a similar partnership on Detroit's east side.

THE PROJECT gives the students a sense of adult responsibility, Malzahn said. "They can be just like their parents."

When they opened their accounts Thursday, the children received free gifts of coloring books and Crayons, pencils and ink pens. They'll also be given instructional booklets explaining how a bank operates.

"When they see their money grow in their savings books, it will begin to click with them," Nichols said.

Titus principal Celestine Sanders said the project also will help students sharpen their math and critical thinking skills.

"We're trying to help students be better citizens in life. What better way than to help them begin to understand the banking system," Sanders said. "We're hoping to make them more productive citizens."

The project also reflects the school district's push to open the schools to the community, said Thomas Svitkovich, deputy superintendent.

SECOND-GRADER HEATHER Lebert, 7, smiled after she had deposited $10 Thursday. "I like it so far," she said of the project. "I just want to buy stuff."

Fourth-grader Bianca Albert, 10, deposited $2 and hopes to save $20 by May.

"This is fun because you can save a lot of money," she said. "I'll probably spend mine on clothes."

the mayor and the council must stop."

Cox and Ziemba also called for fiscal responsibility during their campaigns, as did most candidates.

The campaign literature attacking Artley and — to a lesser extent — Pickering and Anderson was circulated by Scott, Cox and Ziemba only after they learned of similar plans to smear their campaigns, Scott said.

Scott also made it a point to distance herself from a letter from former Westland Mayor Charles Griffin that accused Artley of being "a negative, destructive force in the city of Westland."

"I had nothing to do with that letter," Scott said.

The council race, described early on as quiet and amicable, grew increasingly bitter in the final days of the campaign.

Even after Artley conceded defeat on election night, he warned his supporters to keep watch so that the city finances don't deteriorate as the school district's did in recent years, an apparent reference to Scott's school board tenure.

IN OTHER post-election developments, Scott criticized Mayor Robert Thomas — who supported Artley, Anderson and Pickering — for not calling her to congratulate her on her election victory.

"All I can say is that since I've been elected, I have not heard from him," she said.

"The mayor could have at least made a phone call. That tells me that he doesn't want to work with me."

However, she said she's "willing" to try to work with the mayor in an effort to resolve their differences.

THOUGH THOMAS said Scott may not agree with some of his policies, he, too, indicated a willingness to work with her. The mayor said he doesn't necessarily view Scott as an adversarial opponent.

In the election aftermath, Thomas said he doesn't forecast any dramatic shifts in the council.

"I don't think there will be a real change in direction on the council," he said, adding later that he believes his relationship with the council will be "pretty much business as usual."

Among his top priorities, Thomas said he wants more direction from the council on the zoning of vacant city properties. Developers have had difficulty proceeding with projects because of a lack of consensus among city officials, he said.

resignation could place the organization "in jeopardy" legally, he said, adding that he could not comment further without written permission from Gillies.

SOME BOARD members privately commended Gillies' job as director. And some voiced frustration about the lack of information they have received from metropolitan YMCA officials.

"If it was a firing, I want to know it," said one board member who did not want to be named.

Local board member Sandra Cicirelli stressed that Gillies' departure was not the decision of the Wayne-Westland board and that the matter was handled by metro Detroit Y officials.

"I myself was very surprised about it," she said.

Mary Rose Cartwright, the local Y's program director, has assumed Gillies' duties temporarily.

Though Detroit officials have cited policy violations, Cicirelli said "that's all we've heard at this point" and that local board members "have not been presented with very much information."

Sharon Arthur, who chairs the Y board, declined to comment on Gillies' departure.

"I really don't want to talk about it at all," she said. "Jan resigned, and I just don't feel like it's something I can talk about."

Youngsters were picked from the Westland Center to play musical instruments during a program to welcome Santa to the community.

Hundreds greet Santa at center

DON'T WORRY if you had troubles recuperating from Halloween. You won't time to think about because the Christmas shopping season is here.

Three weeks before the Thanksgiving weekend, the season opened Saturday morning when Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus came to Westland Center.

The arrival began with about 800 youngsters and parents in the center's auditorium to hear Mrs. Claus read from " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas" and students from a Livonia dance school perform holiday routines. Several children were also called up from the audience to play musical instruments.

Then Santa and his partner walked through the mall, arriving at the center court throne and being greeted by scores of children waiting to sit in St. Nick's lap, tell him what they want for Christmas and have their photos taken with him.

He will be available to hear children's holiday requests from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon-6 p.m. Sunday through Dec. 24.

The students from Sheryl's School of Dance who performed the "Doll Dance" were the Miniature Sharylettes, made up of Courtney Bracken, Brooke Myshock, Nicole Spallone, Bridgette O'Grady, Julie McCarthy, Jaclyn Sanchez and Laura Becoster.

Performing the "Snowman Dance" were members of the "Sharylettes and Company"— Jennifer Miracle, Jessica Mueller, Shannon Bracken, Amy Shamanski, Annette Hohl, Liz Bays, Sarah Chester and Connie Cothran.

Santa Claus was escorted through Westland Center Saturday morning by dance school students.

Tara Richardson, 5, of Redford Township was one of the first youngsters to get to present her Christmas wish list to Santa.

Jim Northmore, 5, of Canton had a written gift list for Santa.

Livonia teachers to get raises

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

More than 350 retirement-age Livonia school district teachers have until Jan. 15 to decide whether to retire and accept a bonus that could amount to $20,000 each.

The remaining teachers in the district, which represents the northern section of Westland, will get at least a 5.75 percent pay increase over the next two years and an even larger pay increase if a substantial number of teachers opt to accept the bonus and retire in 1992.

The Livonia school board is scheduled to vote tonight (Monday) on a historic tentative agreement reached last week between the district and the Livonia Education Association, which represents teachers in collective bargaining.

THE TENTATIVE agreement, reached months before the present three-year contract expires in August, links the actual pay increase teachers will get in 1992-93 and 1993-94 to the number of teachers who tell the district by Jan. 15 that they plan to retire in 1992.

Reaching an early contract extension shows how dramatically relations between the district and the LEA have changed since the last negotiations two years ago, when Livonia teachers threatened an 11th hour strike.

"Two years ago we had a major overhaul to the contract," said Steve Naumcheff, LEA spokesman. "The contract was working at this time so we can reasonably extend it. I have not heard members say the contract was not working."

The early agreement also shows the weight the district is now placing on getting retirement-eligible, top-of-the-pay-scale teachers to retire in this time of declining state aid and economic uncertainty.

Under the pact, teachers who tell the district by Jan. 15 that they will retire by June 30, 1992 will get a $5,000 bonus.

The retirees also can get a second, $10,000 bonus, if 50 or more teachers opt for retirement next year. This second bonus could jump to $15,000 if 60 or more teachers retire, giving retiring teachers a total bonus package of $20,000 in 1992.

UNDER THE PACT, the salary for all teachers will rise 0.01 percent beyond 5.75 percent for each teacher who by Jan. 15 signs a letter of intent to retire by June 30, 1992.

For example, if 50 teachers opt to retire by that date, the remaining teachers will get a 6.25 percent pay increase in both 1992-93 and 1993-94. Under the current contract, teachers this year got a 7 percent increase.

The tentative contract boosts the top salary made by a teacher with a master's degree to $58,447 in 1992-93 and $61,808 in 1993-94.

The starting salary for those two years for a teacher with a bachelor's degree will be $28,934 and $30,598 respectively.

None of these salary figures includes the 0.01 pay increase that will kick in according to the number of teachers who retire.

The district has between 350 and 400 teachers eligible for retirement, said John Rennels, assistant superintendent for personnel.

Once the number of retirements are known and figured into the 1992-93 budget, the district can concentrate on other areas vital to the district, Marinelli said.

"The district is involved in many projects. Our financial situation has changed dramatically. We're working on our blueprint for the future. And building improvements are needed.

"We need to be working harmoniously as a family on these initiatives and projects. This agreement goes a long way toward keeping us focused on these priorities. It's a win-win situation for all of us."

THE SAVINGS gained through retirements will free up funds for the teachers' salary increases and for improvements needed in the district, he said.

The savings also will reduce layoffs and help the district balance its budget, he said.

"We need up-front money to do this as well as labor peace. Our fund equity helps us to pay the front-end cost of retirement. We recognize economic realities and the state of the economy."

Many teachers will have to do some soul searching between now and Jan. 15, Naumcheff said.

"We want teachers to look at the advantages and disadvantages. We want them to make an educated decision. We're not going to encourage or discourage this."

Teachers who notify the district by Jan. 15 that they plan to retire have seven days after that to retract their decision, Rennels said.

"The more who retire, the more we'll get a payroll savings and it enhances the salary for those who stay."

Board votes on contract tonight

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

The proposed contract extension for teachers goes to the Livonia Board of Education tonight with the official blessings of the faculty union.

The union already has voted to ratify the extension, Tuesday night by a 689-50 vote.

Both district and union officials have praised the tentative contract. The Livonia district includes the northern section of Westland.

UNDER THE extended contract, school officials will know early how many teachers, all at the top of the pay scale, will retire this year and thus can budget better for the next school year.

"The savings from the early retirements will provide for the salary increases and give us the resources to pursue strategic planning and to balance the budget," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli.

Union officials see the retirement incentives as a way to cut down on layoffs. Last spring, the district laid off 114 teachers. All but 14 have been recalled.

"We're looking for zero layoffs," said Steve Naumcheff of the Livonia Education Association. "But it all depends on the number of teachers who retire."

Susan Noonan-Forster, executive director of the LEA and the Northville Education Association who helped negotiate the tentative pact, said potential teacher layoffs in these uncertain economic times helped push the LEA into negotiations for an early contract settlement.

"We had all those teachers laid off last year and their life was disrupted. There never is a surety they will be recalled. So it makes sense to do this. We'll know better who's retiring. This will do something to reduce stress and improve morale."

Besides normal pension benefits, said John Rennels, assistant superintendent of personnel, teachers would get the following if they retire under the proposed pact:

- Termination pay of $200 for each year of service to the district. For a teacher with 30 year's service, that amounts to $6,000.
- $225 a month until age 62 if a teacher retires before being eligible for Social Security.
- The $5,000 bonus.

School board recall targets file lawsuit

Lind predicted the recall committee will prevail during Wednesday's hearing.

"(Chorbagian) is going to have to stall a lot more than one week," Lind said after the school board's suit was filed Wednesday. "We will not give up.

"She's given us a boost in morale," he continued. "The publicity we've gained from her has been priceless. She's the one keeping this recall alive."

Last month, the three-member elections commission ruled in a 2-1 vote that its only obligation under state recall legislation was to decide the clarity of the petition language. It's up to school district voters to accept or reject the allegations as true, the commission ruled.

In their suit, Chorbagian, Posey and Spisak claim that the commission "arbitrarily and capriciously determined that it would not inquire into the veracity of the charges" and "incorrectly determined that the reasons for recall . . . met the statutory test for clarity."

"We feel that we have a very substantial issue," said Richard James, an attorney representing the three board members. When asked if he believes the decision will be overturned, he added, "We feel that we have at least a 50-50 chance."

THE RECALL petition states that during a Feb. 11 meeting, the board members "voted in favor of proposed cuts causing a reduction of school busing; reduction of the senior high academic day by one hour; elimination of elementary art, vocal and instrumental music, and physical education; and reduction in classroom supply and textbook accounts." It also notes that the teacher pay raises were approved during the same meeting.

On Thursday, James argued that board members voted not to make the cuts, but only to "inform the electorate" that the cuts would be made if a school tax increase failed in the June 10 election. It passed by a narrow margin.

James and Chorbagian also said the recall petition insinuates that the program cuts were made, when in fact they were only proposed.

Lind refuted that claim and stressed that the petition contains the word "proposed."

"There are no false facts on that petition," he said.

On Friday, the recall committee hadn't yet begun collecting signatures on the petitions — a move that is expected to be delayed until Judge MacDonald rules on the proposed injunction.

James, meanwhile, said he expects that MacDonald will order a trial within 90 days in which she will decide whether to overturn the elections commission's decision to approve the petition language.

1 man arrested, gunman still sought in car theft

By Bill Casper
staff writer

A 22-year-old Detroit man, who had three fingers shot off by an accomplice in a Halloween car theft outside a Redford Township house, was arrested by police Thursday morning at his house.

The gunman still is at large after he wounded a 20-year-old Westland man in the face with the same blast from a sawed-off shotgun, Redford police detective Lt. Wilson Bailey said Friday.

But police investigators are following leads they hope will result in the arrest of the gunman, Bailey said.

Joe Louis Taylor Jr. is being held without bond in the Wayne County Jail after he stood mute Friday to three felony charges before Redford's 17th District Court Judge Richard Manning, who entered not guilty pleas for the defendant.

Manning scheduled a Nov. 19 district court preliminary examination for Taylor, who is charged with armed robbery, auto theft and soliciting murder.

THE MURDER charge stems from the man's order for the gunman to open fire on the Westland man, who was confronting the auto theft suspects, Bailey said.

The robbery and murder charges each carry maximum life prison sentences, while the auto theft charge carries a maximum five-year prison sentence, he said.

Police investigators suspect the men were involved in a previous armed auto theft earlier that night in Detroit before they robbed two women of their purses at a Detroit fast-food restaurant and a Southfield gas station, Bailey said.

Southfield police have obtained a warrant charging Taylor with one robbery and Detroit police may seek a warrant charging him the other robbery and auto theft, Bailey said.

The car theft in Redford occurred at about 9:30 p.m. on Lenore at Plymouth, west of Telegraph, where the auto owner and a friend, both of Redford, were listening to the radio in the 1988 Ford Mustang before visiting other friends at a nearby house, township police said.

TWO MEN in a Chevrolet Cavalier stopped to ask directions to Beaverland Street in Detroit, police said.

After the suspects were given directions, the passenger stepped out of the Cavalier with the shotgun and told the two Redford men, ages 23 and 22, to get out of the Mustang, police said.

The two suspects then took the coats the Redford men were wearing and left in the Mustang, leaving the Cavalier behind, police said.

Friends of the Redford men in the house on Lenore heard a disturbance outside and went out to investigate, police said. After they learned of the car theft, several of them got into two cars and began chasing the suspects, police said.

They caught up to the suspects after a short, three-block chase and one driver used his car block the path of the suspects after they stopped for a stop sign on Wormer and Plymouth Road, police said.

Several people went to confront the suspects and the passenger in the Mustang fired the shotgun at the Westland man as he approached the driver's side of the car, police said.

Several pellets from the shotgun blast struck the man and the hand of the man driving the Mustang, police said.

He was able to drive away and went to Mount Sinai Hospital in Detroit, where he was admitted for treatment to his hand, police said.

The Mustang was found near the hospital, police said.

The Westland man was taken by ambulance to Botsford Hospital, Farmington Hills, but was transferred to another hospital, Bailey said. The man was listed in stable condition Friday, Bailey said.

Police pieced together information to come up with the name of a suspect, who was identified by the Mustang owner and his friend from a group of photographs obtained from Detroit police files, Bailey said.

The woman, whose purse was stolen at a gas station at Eight Mile and Shiawassee in Southfield, also identified the same photograph as man who stole her handbag, he said.

SHARING IS CARING

In 1898, the New York World hailed The Salvation Army kettles as "the newest and most novel device for collecting money." Now, 100 years after the first kettle was set out, instead of just providing Christmas dinner, the money raised is also used to provide grocery checks so families can buy and prepare their own dinners at home. And this is important when times are as tough as they are, because you never know who will need that extra bit of help...it could be your neighbor, a friend, a relative, or it could be you. Help The Salvation Army, join us in standing together to help meet the needs of those going through difficult times. Contact your local Salvation Army or stop by a kettle for more information.

Local leaders say Madrid talks a start

AP — Jewish and Arab leaders from Oakland and western Wayne counties are optimistic that Middle East talks can bring an end to the 43-year conflict over Israeli territory.

"Anytime you can have a meeting as momentous as the Madrid conference where people are speaking to each other rather than shooting at each other, there has to be some optimism," said Mark Schlussel, a Southfield lawyer and president of the Jewish Federation of Metro Detroit.

"Words are better than weapons," said Terry Ahwal of Livonia, a Palestinian and assistant to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

Arabs and Israelis began talks late last month in Madrid over the land dispute that has led to wars and uncountable acts of terrorism.

Though the talks were fraught with anger and controversy, Israelis, Jordanians and Palestinians agreed to meet again in the future, but they did not set a time or place.

"EVEN THOUGH both sides sound defensive, that is the way of politics," said the Rev. George Shalhoub, a Syrian and pastor of St. Marys Antiochian Orthodox Church, Livonia. "People have acknowledged each other's existence by sitting around the negotiating table."

Jeannie Weiner, president of the Jewish Community Council of Metro Detroit, was not surprised at the initial rancor coming from both sides in the talks.

"You always begin negotiations with your toughest stance. It's even more true in the Middle East," Weiner said.

But Jessica Daher, regional coordinator of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination League, doubted the talks would bear fruit any time soon.

"It would be naive to think that after 40 years this is going to be resolved after a few days of talks," she said.

Senate caps malpractice damages

26-bill package now heads to state House for debate

Leaders of medical organizations rejoiced as the state Senate passed the final two bills in an "affordable health care" package.

The bills would cap nearly all "pain and suffering" jury awards at $250,000 and set up five regional boards as alternatives to courts in malpractice cases. They also cap attorneys' fees.

"We are particularly encouraged that the Senate realized the devastating effects of our current medical liability system on access to health care," said Spencer Johnson, Michigan Hospital Association president.

"At Senate hearings around the state this summer and fall, the medical liability crisis was singled out again and again as a major cause of higher health care costs and reduced availability of health care services.

THE 26 BILLS are now before the House of Representatives, where hopes are dim because of Michigan Trial Lawyers Association opposition.

"We urge members of the House to act on these bills promptly, since access to health care is jeopardized each day a solution is postponed," said Eugene Oliveri, Farmington Hills osteopath and president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons. "It is the patient and the general public who will gain most from the medical liability reforms included in this package."

SB 248 passed 26-10, and SB 249 passed 25-11. All area members voted the same on both bills.

Favoring them were Republicans. Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, Robert Geake of Northville and Democrat William Faust of Westland.

Opposed were Republican David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Democrats Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills and George Hart of Dearborn.

HONIGMAN OBJECTED that the arbitration boards were "sewed to the defense (medical practitioners). If you bought a lemon of a used car, would you want to go before a panel of used car dealers?"

Faxon said "these panels could be costly, duplicative, time consuming, and they are all subject to subsequent judicial review . . . Nor do I see any assurances that insurance companies themselves are necessarily going to alter their current rate structures to accommodate the newly created panels.

"Physicians who live in my district want the Legislature to do something. But what they want the Legislature to do is stop people from suing them."

The package also includes bills to:

- Improve physician discipline procedures, coupled with bills requiring closed meetings and secret records.
- A 180-day notice of intent to file a suit and a revised statute of limitations.
- A sliding scale for attorney contingency fees. Currently, attorneys receive one-third of a jury award.

THE HOSPITAL Association, Medical Society and Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons headed a coalition of 41 groups supporting SB 248 and 249.

Other members included the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau, Grocers Association, and the Manufacturers Association.

State cuts affect county seedling program

Wayne County's largest tree sale program could be chopped down by tighter state budgeting.

Wayne County Soil and Water Conservation District tree sales could be eliminated due to state budget cutbacks. An estimated 115,000 seedlings were sold this year in spring and fall sales, district administrator Faye Long said.

Tree sales help support area soil and water conservation districts, which primarily serve farmers. Offices in heavily urban areas, such as Wayne County, have also designed water retention ponds and wild life habitats near factories and offices.

Because of Wayne County's dwindling farm land, officials said the downtown Wayne soil and water district office could be consolidated with the Ann Arbor office. The local office has two full-time workers.

Staff hours are already being cut, district chairman Thomas Gill said.

Districts have traditionally been financed through the state Department of Agriculture. The state's 83 conservation districts seek $1.3 million in state financing. Gov. John Engler has recommended $1.1 million, though district officials said that money depends upon a supplemental appropriations bill.

Budget cuts could be even greater, district officials said, because the state money is used to secure an additional $14 million in outside grants.

You won't notice any difference, but your country will.

The five minutes you spend registering with Selective Service at the post office won't change you. But it will make a difference to your country. So when you turn 18, register with Selective Service. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

A public service message of this publication and Selective Service System

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO GO THROUGH YOUR GARBAGE.

Every week, more than 500,000 trees are used to produce the two-thirds of newspapers that are never recycled

American consumers and industry throw away enough aluminum to rebuild our entire commercial fleet every three months.

We throw away enough glass bottles and jars to fill the 1,350-foot twin towers of New York's World Trade Center every two weeks.

We throw away enough iron and steel to continuously supply all the nation's automakers.

The ordinary bag of trash you throw away is slowly becoming a serious problem for everybody.

Not only are we running out of resources to make the products we need, but we're running out of places to put what's left over.

Write the Environmental Defense Fund at: 257 Park Avenue South, New York, NY 10010, for a free brochure that will tell you virtually everything you need to know about recycling.

The few minutes you take to learn how to recycle will spare us all a lot of garbage later.

IF YOU'RE NOT RECYCLING YOU'RE THROWING IT ALL AWAY. EDF Ad Council

More Detroit suburban travelers
The SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either The Detroit News or Free Press.
In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.
And that's not all.
According to the 1991 Belden study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more—and spend more.
▶ 146,100 more suburban vacationers than the daily News (55,400 more than the Free Press).
▶ 91,800 more suburban purchasers of airline tickets than The News (9,700 more than the Free Press).
▶ 80,700 (and 7,900) more suburban business travelers.
More suburban boat owners, travel agent customers...

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.
Shouldn't you be advertising in SPRING more?

Engler takes whack at political egos

Tim Richard

THE LEFT wing has been shrill and merciless: "John Scissorshands," "Grim Reaper," "cruel," "mean-spirited," "destroyer of culture."

As the left curses Gov. Engler's budget vetoes, you would never guess:

1. Engler signed the biggest welfare budget in Michigan history — $5.8 billion.

2. As of Nov. 1, he raised grant levels for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

3. He increased state aid to public schools, community colleges and state universities 4 percent.

4. All this was done without a tax increase (though there are some fee increases tucked away).

Hardly the record of a scissor-handed meanie. What's going on here?

ENGLER'S VETO messages, rarely read, tell the story. He cut:

- Natural Resources money for the Conservation Corps and another job program because they should "be coordinated through the Michigan Department of Labor."
- The State Police secondary road patrol and local grants for a training council because lawmakers failed to act on "the additional civil infraction surcharge built into the revenue base."
- "Foreign student support." The state can't afford to support "a particular category of students which is inconsistent with the purpose of the school finance formula — to equalize available resources on a per-pupil basis."
- Five other line items in the education budget because the hefty school aid increase "should give most in-formula districts enough additional revenue to maintain the most important portions of these programs if they so choose."

(Did you note how Detroit school officials squawked about a $231,000 cut for school security without mentioning their state aid increase?)

- Professional development for educators. "It funds services which can be assumed by the districts . . ."
- Westland's public library project and the Taymouth Township (Saginaw County) water decontamination project because "local governments (should) provide the necessary level of support for special local projects."
- $190,000 for the math early placement test — "worthwhile" but "more properly allowed through the continuing expansion of Math-Science centers at the K-12 level, and extended support for K-12 operation in general."
- Oakland University's labor education service program and community services of Oakland — "worthwhile" but "a lower priority than the more basic purposes of Michigan's state universities."
- Wayne State University's professional school district program — ditto.
- The Education Department's Office of Hispanic Education — "duplicative." It should be consolidated with the Office of Minority Equity and "coordinated with the Commission on Spanish Speaking Affairs."
- The Education Department's Project Outreach — "this public surveying and polling function is an inappropriate use of state resources."
- The educational teleconsortium — "because community colleges have the option to use some of their increased 1992 appropriations to support this effort."

ENGLER'S BUDGET style is to increase basic social programs and education, and to whack line items that boosted many political egos.

He eliminated most of general assistance (adults) to save AFDC (kids). (I would fault him, however, for terrible timing. The economic recovery that started with the stock market still hasn't been felt at the bottom. And it would be more merciful to whack GA in warm weather than on Oct. 1.)

Engler is far different from ex-Gov. James Blanchard, who constantly put a dime into a tuition program, a quarter into a neighborhood corps program, a nickel into a youth program — all with much ribbon-cutting and PR hullaballoo.

Engler knows precisely where the political skeletons are closeted and is cleaning them out, for better or worse.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional news.

Company was auto supplier

To the editor:

I was most interested in your feature story of Oct. 19 re: William Widger's business venture as a Domino's franchise in Europe. I would like to correct one inaccuracy in this article, however.

W and M Products was co-founded in 1940 by G. Russell Widger (William's father) and Clarence E. Macdonald. Hence the — W and M Products. This automotive supply company became very successful as a supplier of undercoating products to such major corporations as Chrysler Corp. and Kaiser-Fraser.

In fact, as a college student in 1950, I helped to roll the first drum of material down the line to the loading dock.

My father retired in 1958 and has resided in Bloomfield Village with my mother Serine Macdonold for more than 35 years. This year they celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary.

Pay more, but get less

To the editor:

How happy I was to read Phil Power's column regarding a part-time legislature.

This has been a crusade of mine (unsuccessful) for lo these past 10 years, at least. I used to go round and round with the Republican State Committee over how to win votes and influence taxpayers: Make the legislature part-time.

If you've read the Governor Warner biography, you'll remember how in 1910 when the Legislature met for five months only every other year it was the same ball of wax; except that when a man (or woman) has to earn their living some other way they are much more attuned to public thinking; they have to live under their own laws, close to their own neighbors at home, and much less accessible to lobbyists. (Warner also had plans to get rid of them.)

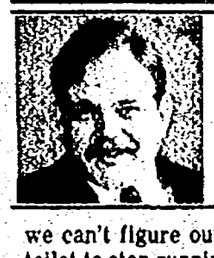
Issue is plumbing, not politics



Jeff Counts

Sexual harassment, racism, peace in the Middle East and homosexual rights. Those loom as the big issues of the day. But the real issue is fixing the plumbing.

Sexual harassment is a moot point when you have to go to the bathroom and the toilet isn't working. Chances are Clarence Thomas would have been thinking about other things if the plumbing in his office had been broken.

And solving the problem of racism doesn't loom so large when you've got a sink full of dirty dishes and no water.

And of course, homosexuals have their own version of what a restroom should be used for. Broken plumbing is a moot point here.

In the Soviet Union, chances are an entire collective is needed to fix the plumbing, and when they're done, it probably won't work. It's no wonder the Russians always look so uncomfortable. If they stand in such long lines for food, you can just imagine the line for the restroom.

AND ALL this comes during a decade of high technology. We have speed dialing on our phones and a computer in the den, but some how we can't figure out how to get the toilet to stop running after we flush it.

For those of us who have attempted to repair plumbing, a return to the days of the outhouse seems to be a viable option.

Many of us have found ourselves at the wrong end of a wrench crouched under the sink trying to figure out which way to turn things to keep the pipes from dripping.

I've been doing it for nearly 20 years, without much success, and was astounded when lifestyle sections of newspapers started describing home repair not as drudgery, but as part of the cocooning trend for yuppies.

There were pictures and stories of yuppies armed to the teeth with Craftsmen tools from Sears charging into the house. The era of going out for dinner and calling the plumber was over. Yuppies were staying at home now.

IT WAS the first trend that I was ever ahead of, and I was ready to go out while others of my generation were headed home. At least it explained to me why I was so lonely at Bennigan's.

Since I'm ahead of the home repairs trend, I've got some advice for fellow baby boomers. The first step is to take the tools back to Sears and get your money back. The second is to find a good plumber.

I ignored my own advice recently and attempted to replace a toilet seat. By the time I was done, there was about an inch of water on the bathroom floor and the toilet bowl was broken.

I had succumbed to the macho image I have of myself. But when I realized what I had done, I did what everybody should do — I called my father for help. When he saw the mess I had made, he suggested that I never again touch plumbing.

I'm predicting that most other baby boomers will soon receive the same advice from their fathers and quit working on the plumbing and go back to their computers and political causes.

We can just hope they make less of a mess out of the economy and political scene than they have of the plumbing. But, somehow, I doubt it.

HOW A RHEUMATOLOGIST HELPS

A rheumatologist is a physician who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of conditions of joints, muscles, and tendons.

Most of your musculo-skeletal problems can be managed by your regular physician. Orthopedists and sports medicine specialists can care for you if trauma and strain are the basis for your joint complaint. Nor is a specialist required, if your arthritis is of limited extent and your treatment program is stable.

However, if you suffer from a continuing arthritis that requires intensive therapy, or your joint condition is not under control despite institution of appropriate medication, rheumatologic consultation is in order. If you have joint pain and impaired mobility and are without a diagnosis, then you should make an appointment with a rheumatologist, likely at least once, and possibly for long term management.

A specialist is also useful if you are uncertain if your problem is musculoskeletal, or if you are not sure if the present care you receive represents "all that can be done." Rheumatologists are prepared to discuss both these matters.

Seeking help is worthwhile. You more than balance the time and cost involved by the gain in peace of mind from acting on your own behalf.

Canton man named air quality director

Wayne County has a new air pollution control director after a nationwide search.

Rajendra Sinha of Canton was appointed to the post late last month.

Sinha, a native of India, was formerly the division's assistant director for technical services.

"The search committee interviewed several qualified candidates with high credentials, but we found the most qualified for the job in our own office," county health department director Cynthia Taueg said.

As director, Siha said he would seek input from area environmental groups, as well as seek cooperation and mutual understanding among area businesses on air pollution control standards.

Sinha has been a division employee since 1977, first as a public health engineer. He became assistant director in 1989.

He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Rejesthan University and the Birla Institute of Technology and Science, India. He also holds a bachelor's with honors from Tristate University, Angola, Ind. and a master's with honors in chemical engineering from Wayne State University.

Sinha is currently a doctoral candidate at Wayne State.

Rajendra Sinha gets new job

In addition to writing numerous professional and technical articles, Sinha helped prepare Michgian Department of Natural Resources guidelines on controlling dust emissions.

The post had been vacant for the past year, after the resignation of former director Alan Greenberg.

A cut above? New law protects gov, legislators

The state Senate wants a law to punish people who threaten the life of the governor, lieutenant governor, member of the Legislature or their families.

Senate Bill 377 goes to the House after 27-9 passage last week.

Violation would be a penalty punishable by up to four years in prison and a maximum $2,000 fine.

"Elitist," objected Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn. "Members of Congress don't have this. This is an elitist type of law that sets you apart from the citizenry of the state.

"You are not different; you are not better. You took it upon yourself to come here voluntarily, and if the fire is too hot, let's get out of it."

Voting in favor were Republicans Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion and Robert Geake of Northville and Democrat Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills.

Opposed were Republicans Michael Bouchard of Birmingham and David Honigman of West Bloomfield along with Democrats Hart and William Faust of Westland.

New county jail set to open next week

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Inmates will enter the new Wayne County Jail for the first time one week from today — three years after county voters approved a tax increase to finance its construction.

The $61-million Hamtramck facility was completed just slightly behind deadline, but $50,000 under budget. It includes space for 840 inmates.

The new jail is designed for misdemeanor offenders, freeing up space in the county's downtown jail for felony suspects awaiting trial and convicted felons awaiting prison.

An estimated 1,500-2,000 inmates are released early each year due to overcrowding at the old jail, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said.

Though the low security jail isn't designed for dangerous criminals, Ficano said some felons may yet be sent there.

"WHEN IT comes down to hard decisions, judges may send some felons here," he said.

Accountability is stressed for all inmates, regardless of crime.

"We're telling people that if you've ever been in jail before, forget it," sheriff's department Commander Malcom Thompson said. "This is a new facility with a new degree of responsibility."

Responsbilities extend to cleaning and maintaining their cell, repaying the county for medical care — if they can — and participating in substance abuse counseling, if necessary.

Unlike the old jail, both men and women will eventually be housed at the Hamtramck jail. All inmates admitted next week will be men, women's cell blocks won't be open until early next year.

The new jail is being billed as state-of-the art, with computerized records and round-the-clock video monitoring.

Deputies will be able to call up an inmate's complete record, including video picture, at the touch of a button. It is believed to be the most extensive video record-keeping system in any jail in the state.

At the same time, areas inside and outside the jail are monitored in a central command room. Deputies keep watch through a system that includes 70 cameras and 10 video screens.

Deputies Dale Meyer, front, and Stanley Shipp will be among those manning the new jail's command center. Deputies monitor jail activities through a system that includes 70 video cameras and 10 screens.

THERE ARE barred windows and steel doors at the new jail, but you have to look hard to find them.

Most cell blocks feature wooden doors. There are no barriers between the 60 inmates and deputy in-command.

Inmates won't spend too much time in the cell block, though.

Most will be assigned jobs. Some will work in the vast kitchen, where as many as 20,000 meals a day will be prepared for both county jails, as well as the county youth home. Others will work in the laundry, where as much as 800 pounds of clothing and sheets will be washed in an hour.

Those who work at either spot can earn job training certificates, to be presented potential employers.

Inmates will also be encouraged to sign up for adult education classes to be taught by Hamtramck Schools personnel, perhaps working toward a high school equivalence degree. Those who attend classes will be given time off their sentence.

After being brought to the jail, inmates are escorted to a waiting room, not much different from an airport gate.

But it is a jail. Unruly incoming inmates are escorted into glass-enclosed holding rooms, separate from others.

A grim, 32-cell isolation unit, with concrete floors instead of carpeting and metal benches instead of wood, awaits especially troublesome inmates.

For most inmates, though, the philosophy is to keep busy, learn their lessons — and turn their life around.

Food bank seeks help to feed needy

Gleaners Food Bank Week, an event to help feed needy area residents, has been scheduled for Nov. 11-15.

Gleaners formed in 1977, but its president said the need is even greater this year in light of federal, state and local budget cuts.

"More than ever, Gleaners is committed to increasing its efforts in the solicitation and distribution of additional food to help those needy individuals being served by our member agencies," Gleaners president Gene Gonya said.

Special events planned for the week include:

- General Motors Capital Campaign, beginning today (Nov. 11). The automotive giant seeks to raise money for a new warehouse to accommodate the increased demand for food.
- Value Added Processing Program, beginning Tuesday. Surplus Michigan farm products will be displayed at Gleaners' Detroit headquarters, calling attention to its partnership with state farmers, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the Food Bank Council of Michigan. The program began in 1990 with a $100,000 grant. It received a $500,000 appropriation this year.
- Michigan Harvest Gathering Reception, beginning Wednesday. The five-week food and fund drive seeks to raise $110,000 and 110,000 pounds of food to provide 110,000 holiday meals.
- No Family Without a Turkey on Thanksgiving, beginning Thursday. The program, sponsored by Michigan Kroger Co. stores and Coca-Cola, provides holiday meals for needy families. Since July, 78 Michigan Kroger stores have joined with Coca-Cola bottlers to raise $32,000 and provide 3,800 turkeys.
- Buy a Case of Food, beginning Friday. The 80-company event offers cases of food at wholesale prices to be bought and donated to those served by Gleaners.

In addition, cable customers served by Metrovision and United Artists Cable will receive free cable installation for a $10 donation to Gleaners in December.

Additional information on each program is available by calling Gleaners, 923-7855.

State budget ax misses Maybury park

Maybury State Park in Northville Township will apparently be exempt from jobs and service cuts that will affect nearly three-quarters of Michigan's state parks this winter.

Winter services such as snow plowing and trail clearing will be abandoned at 71 of Michigan's 96 state parks, trimming $500,000 from the parks budget.

But Maybury will apparently be among the 25 parks that will continue to receive full winter services.

"To the best of my knowledge, there'll be no changes there at all," assistant state parks chief Hank Zurburg said.

The state parks budget has been shrinking for several years, parks chief Russ Harding said.

Seasonal workers are kept at minimal levels, parks officials said, even in summer, when park use is highest.

Despite cuts, all state parks will remain open. There will be at least one park security officer at each park.

"One thing we didn't want to do is close parks," Harding said. "If people want to walk in or ski in to a state park that isn't maintained in the winter, the only thing to stop them is the amount of snow in some areas."

Cuts will be phased in throughout the winter. Twenty-nine mostly top-level jobs will be eliminated, with administrative duties being transferred to one of 36 "core" parks, Harding said.

Maybury is on eight Mile Road, west of Beck. Proud Lake Recreation Area and Muskegon State Park are among the other lower peninsula parks that will receive full winter service.

Reps back move to keep drug money for schools

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Many Republican lawmakers joined state House Democrats in asking Gov. John Engler to back away from his effort to give $12 million in federal aid to his drug czar, Bob Peterson, and take it away from the state Department of Education.

The House of Representatives Thursday gave 78-27 support to a resolution by Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, that "respectfully" asks Engler to halt the fight.

"They (Engler's staff) made a mistake," said Rep. Susan Munsell, R-Howell, backing Keith's resolution.

Supporting it were Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield, Georgina Goss of Northville, Tom Middleton of Ortonville and Gordon Sparks of Troy, along with all area Democrats.

Opposed were Republicans Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills and John Jamian of Bloomfield Township.

KEITH SAID Engler's executive order would "take federal drug-free school money from the state Department of Education and give it to the drug czar.

"When Congress passed it in 1986, it was heavily debated whether the money should go through governors or schools. It's ironic that (Massachusetts' Democratic Gov. Michael) Dukakis fought the hardest for the money to go the governors.

"Congress wanted it to go to the classrooms to teach children what would happen if they used drugs. It's pointed out 18 specific times that 30 percent went to the governors and 70 percent to the state educational agencies to distribute to local school districts.

"The state has distributed it through the Michigan Model (for Comprehensive Health Education). Some 525 of 564 (public) school districts and 144 private schools have chosen the Michigan Model for doing away with drug use," Keith said.

TO PETERSON'S charge that schools are misusing drug funds to teach kids to brush their teeth, Keith replied, "Youngsters should know that drug use leads to the deterioration of teeth and gums."

Keith said Engler's compromise plan to set up a drug board with three members of the State Board of Education would "subordinate" the state board.

Arguing for Engler's position, Rep. John Strand, R-Lapeer, said, "The drug czar is merely serving as an agent for the funds. This is not a pro- or anti-Michigan Model vote. They (schools) will get their share."

Don Sweeney, director of the Michigan Model program in the Department of Education, said the health program was chosen as the vehicle for school anti-drug programs.

"We have done an analysis, and 74 percent of the material included in health education is aimed at keeping kids from abusing drugs or alcohol," Sweeney said.

Stevenson reigns supreme

Grodzicki goal trips Heritage in OT

soccer

Maybe it was fitting that Livonia Stevenson coach Walt Barrett, the coach of the newly crowned state Class A boys soccer champions, was wearing a pullover sweatshirt inscribed with the word "Lotto" in front.

With 1:16 remaining in the first 15-minute sudden death overtime, Stevenson hit the jackpot when Matt Grodzicki headed in a cross from teammate Travis Roy to give the Spartans an exasperating 2-1 victory over Saginaw Heritage.

It was the fifth state boys soccer title since 1982 for Stevenson and the first for Barrett, who came over two years ago from Southfield High to take the reins of the highly successful program from Pete Scerri.

"It feels damn good," said Barrett, who got the ceremonial cooler of water dumped on in the chilly air following the win Saturday at Bloomfield Hills Andover. "As a coach this is the pinnacle of my career. This is even sweeter than when I was a player (under Scerri) because I get to share the wealth all 23 players."

To say Stevenson dominated the action would be a gross understatement.

AFTER 80 MINUTES of regulation play, the Spartans had outshot Heritage, 23-3. They also held a 9-3 advantage in corner kicks.

The Spartans rode 1-0 lead well into the second half thanks to Scott Wiggins' header on a cross from Roy (off a free kick) with 15:45 left until intermission.

Heritage, meanwhile, didn't get off its first shot (on goal) until the 45-minute mark.

The Hawks, however, made good on only their second attempt, coming off a rare corner kick with 22:48 to play. Eric Rilko was credited for the goal on an assist from Jason Maday. The score was allowed despite a sterling defensive play by Adam Pichler, who officials ruled was inside the goal line as he headed the ball out.

With the match tied at 1-1, Stevenson then missed a series of scoring chances late, misfiring on at least four point-blank shots. They seemed to have the market cornered on shooting wide and high, as well as hitting crossbars and posts.

Somehow, the Hawks' rope-a-dope tactics, along with the sterling play of goalie Kent Boyer, kept them alive.

"We should have won in regulation," Barrett said. "How many tipped balls went over the top of their net?

"After about 45 minutes you had to kind of wonder. I felt sooner or later it was going to happen, but then it was 30 minutes left, then 20, and then 10. You have to give credit to the heart and desire of Saginaw Heritage to stay in the game as long as they did."

THE SPARTANS nearly watched their state championship chances evaporate with 4:27 left in the first OT. Spartan goalie Matt Stabile made a save on a Heritage rush, but could not control the ball.

With a cavernous net in front of him, Heritage halfback J.J. Swanton planted a shot wide and high.

"My heart stopped," Barrett said. "I don't think I could have lived with that."

Pushing the dangerous Roy up front in attempt to generate even more offense, the Spartans continued to carry the action well into the first OT.

Finally, the bottom dropped out for the "game" Hawks.

Roy, a senior who led his team this season with 16 goals, outmaneuvered Heritage's A.J. Wise, sending a cross to Grodzicki, who left little doubt, bringing the title back to Stevenson for the first time since 1988.

"We were so close it was just a matter of getting it in," Grodzicki said. "I missed at least three or four myself (earlier).

"I saw Travis (with the ball) and I raised my hand. We had eye contact. Once the pass got there I knew that was it. I knew it was over.

"This is the greatest, I'll never forget it. This is what everybody worked so hard for the last six months."

Added Roy: "I saw Matt hold up both his arms, then I saw their defender holding to the near post, so I hit it to the far post."

BARRETT PRAISED the play of his three forwards — Grodzicki, Adam Carriere and Todd Krzisnik.

"They never quit, relentless energy, they never slowed down," said the Stevenson coach.

Another key to the win, according to Barrett, was the play of Wiggins, a senior who normally plays defender.

He was moved to midfield to mark Heritage's second leading scorer, Chad Kingsbury.

"We made an adjustment on the their great center-midfielder (Kingsbury)," Barrett said. "Wiggins not only beat him (Kingsbury) to every ball, he made it no contest out there.

"And another big difference was the way our outside backs marked. Bill Lanspeary, Jeff Thomas and Tim McCarley held like stone. They were just outstanding, which allowed us to play Travis up."

Heritage coach Bill Hartle, whose team bowed out with a 21-2 overall record, said the difference in the two teams was speed.

"Stevenson was a little quicker beating us to the ball," he said. "We were not accustomed to that kind of pace.

"They're pretty tough. What they did to us is what we do to most other teams, and that's out-shoot our opponent by a wide margin."

Stevenson finishes the year at 20-0-3.

"The beauty of this team is that we're all interchangable," Roy said. "Guys like Wiggins and Thomas can move up, or a guy like McCarley can play defense. They just do everything they can to win."

Shamrocks' Gusoff grinds up Pontiac

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

football

After teasing Redford Catholic Central football coach Tom Mach on his first run from scrimmage Saturday, senior fullback Dan Gusoff spent the rest of the afternoon pleasing CC's coaching staff.

Gusoff fumbled his first handoff from quarterback Chris Barbara, but finished with a career-high 138 yards on 24 carries as CC beat Pontiac Central, 37-15, in a Class AA first-round playoff game at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium.

CC lost fumbles on its first two possessions of the game and Mach wasn't in the mood to see another, especially with CC already trailing 8-0 on Louis Adams' 40-yard touchdown run midway through the first quarter.

So what did Gusoff do?

HE FUMBLED, only this time the ball bounced right back up to the 6-foot, 230-pound senior, and he carried it for a 10-yard gain.

"I didn't think I'd get it again after that," joked Gusoff. "I thought that was it for me."

Eleven plays later, senior Frank Yoakam capped a 66-yard drive with a 4-yard touchdown run and Brett Walter caught a two-point conversion pass to tie the score, 8-8, and send CC on its way.

"We knew we were far from being out of the game because you can't beat us 8-0," Gusoff said.

The Shamrocks led 23-15 at halftime and scored 22 unanswered second-half points to move their record to 9-1 overall. Detroit Henry Ford beat Dearborn Fordson, 27-17, in the other Region III battle Saturday, setting up a Ford-CC matchup at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Clarenceville.

CC outgained Pontiac Central, 341-48, in total yardage, but suffered five turnovers and had to overcome several penalties before putting away its opponent from the Saginaw Valley League. Gusoff came into the game with 338 yards on 97 carries and seven touchdowns but never had as much fun.

GUSOFF SCORED on runs of 2, 3 and 8 yards and also recorded a sack from his defensive tackle position, which he shared with teammate Paul Nemzek. Dan Kelly also recorded a sack.

Gusoff was the perfect complement on offense to tailback Jeff Tibaldi, who finished with 112 yards on 21 carries.

"Our offensive line just blew them right out," Gusoff said. "A lot of teams key on Tibaldi. There were just some big holes and I ran the holes."

"Gusoff ran like a real fullback, he got big tough yards inside, like I was hoping he'd do," Mach said.

The loss ended Pontiac Central's season at 7-3 overall.

Pontiac Central didn't have a full week to prepare for the game after backing into the playoffs late Tuesday when Detroit Mumford was banned from the Region III playoffs for using an ineligible player.

The Chiefs' preparation received another blow after their biggest lineman, 6-foot-3, 275-pound senior Xavier Bond, came down with pneumonia Tuesday and could not play.

PONTIAC CENTRAL trailed 23-15 late in the first half and could have been in better position but failed to score after driving inside CC's 10-yard line in the final minute.

"You can say we could have been, should have been, would have been, but we couldn't match up with their line," Pontiac Central coach Irv Speaks said. "They're fundamentally sound. I wouldn't say they're the best team we've faced, but don't misunderstand, CC is a good ballclub and we couldn't come back."

CC intercepted three of Pontiac Central quarterback Fruquwa Miller's passes in the second half and scored on two of its first three possessions to finish the game's scoring. Miller finished the day six-of-11 through the air for 47 yards but was intercepted twice by CC linebacker Joe Herman and once by Yoakam and Ken Rys.

Yoakam scored two TDs for the Shamrocks on runs of 4 and 10 yards and Barbara completed three of five passes for 41 yards, including a beautiful 21-yard pass to wide receiver Mario Vassallo to set up CC's second score of the game.

CC and Birmingham Brother Rice combined for nine turnovers (in a 35-7 CC win) the last time the Shamrocks played at Wisner so Mach is probably happy not to play again on the field this season.

"It must the field," joked Mach, before getting serious. "In the state playoffs mistakes can mean the difference between winning and losing because emotions are high."

Lady Ocelot spikers pull region surprise

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

It wasn't supposed to happen like this.

Schoolcraft College's supremacy over the regional volleyball world was supposedly at end. Mott CC had fired the opening volley, wounding the Lady Ocelots at midseason with a match victory that ended SC's six-year string of consecutive Eastern Conference wins.

That put Mott on top of SC as both headed into the NJCAA Region 12 Tournament. The only advantage the Ocelots could claim was home-court advantage; they hosted the tournament, which started Thursday and ended Saturday.

But guess what? When the tourney drew to a close Saturday afternoon, the team that was there to collect the trophy represented the same school that took the hardware home last year.

And the year before that. And the year before that, too.

In fact, SC has captured the regional tournament six times in Tom Teeters' seven-year stretch as coach, including the last four in a row. The Ocelots did it Saturday by dominating Lake Michigan CC in the semifinals 15-7, 11-15, 15-3, 15-9, then routing Henry Ford CC in the final 15-9, 16-1, 15-8.

THE TITLE sends SC to the 16-team NJCAA Tournament in Miami Nov. 23-27.

And although it may seem like the same old story — just an updated version — Teeters doesn't think so. "This is a major upset," he insisted after his team collected their rewards.

Mott came into the tournament as the favorite, according to Teeters. The two teams were on the same side of the 14-team bracket — Mott was seeded second, SC third — and would collide in the quarterfinals of the double-elimination tourney, if both survived the first two rounds.

SC made it by beating Muskegon CC 15-7, 15-4 in its opening match Thursday, then toppling Kalamazoo Valley CC Friday morning 15-4, 15-12. That set up Friday night's showdown between the two Eastern Conference co-champs.

It was as close as might be expected. The two teams had split their conference series; on Friday, the Ocelots went in front by scoring the last six points of the first game to win 15-9. They then took a two-game lead by edging Mott 16-14 in game No. 2.

Mott came back with a 16-14 triumph in game three. The fourth game saw Mott rally from a 9-3 deficit to take a 10-9 lead, but the Bears couldn't sustain their momentum — nor could they control SC's Kari Van Deusen, the dominant force in the tournament.

VAN DEUSEN kills accounted for three SC points in a 6-2 run that resulted in a 15-12 win and a three-games-to-one Ocelot victory.

The win put SC into the semis opposite Lake Michigan, which upset top-seeded Kellogg CC.

Ocelots fall in final

Schoolcraft sports

All sorts of factors and elements can be credited in the making of a championship-caliber team, but as often as not, the difference between a good team and a great one is one or two players.

So the last thing Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team needed to happen in its Inter-regional Tournament finale with the College of Dupage, played Sunday in Grayslake, Ill., was to lose their main guy — in this case, midfielder Chris Crawford.

But they did; Crawford took a shot to the leg, above his ankle, just 15 minutes in the match. He never returned. The Ocelots played tough without him, but couldn't score without his creative offensive abilities. The result: a 1-0 Dupage victory.

The win sends Dupage (20-0-2 for the season) to the NJCAA Tournament in Trenton, N.J., Nov. 21-24. SC finishes its campaign with another Region 12 championship and a 13-3-2 record.

"It was a very, very even game," said SC coach Van Dimitriou. "It wasn't a lack of effort on our part. I'm proud of our guys."

DIMITRIOU SAID his defenders — Shane Millner, Jack Abate, Mike Presley and Wayne Worosz — did a solid job marking Dupage's top scoring threats throughout the match, and keeper Scott Hauman was tremendous in the net. When Abate tripped a Dupage player in the penalty area 25 minutes into the match, Hauman stopped the penalty kick.

The game remained scoreless until 27 minutes had elapsed in the second half. Dupage's Dan Lewis took a hard shot that Hauman got a piece of, but couldn't stop.

Crawford's loss crippled the offense, which had been somewhat bolstered by the unexpected return of midfielder Dave Hebestreit. Hebestreit was expected to miss both games due to a stress fracture in his leg, but he played most of the way against Dupage.

But it wasn't enough to offset the loss of Crawford, who scored two goals in Saturday's 3-2 victory over Bethany Lutheran (Minn.). "When you have to mark just one super player instead of two, it makes it that much easier," said Dimitriou. "(Having Crawford) definitely would have made a difference."

It didn't help when Abate also went out with a twisted ankle late in the first half; he, too, did not return.

Still, as Dimitriou had anticipated, defense was the difference. The Ocelots played it well, but so did Dupage. "They (Dupage) didn't make any mistakes on defense," he said.

IN SATURDAY'S semifinal, SC got the wind in the second half and took control of the match, although they were not as dominating as Dimitriou would have liked.

Bobby Hayes got the game-winning goal, firing a shot that deflected off a Bethany Lutheran defender and into the net.

The Ocelots had other chances. "We missed opportunities," said Dimitriou. "But the guys want to make their coach suffer, I guess."

Bethany Lutheran, with the wind at its back in the opening half, opened the scoring with a goal by Jeff Green. SC battled back, though, getting two scores on headers by Crawford.

Nate Stovall set up the first with a cross; Sean Ryan assisted on the second.

Bethany Lutheran tied it with just 1:30 left in the half on a goal by Steve Cain. Hayes' game-winner came midway through the second half.

Dupage advanced with a 1-0 win over Belleville.

Forging ahead

Lady Ocelots opt to try for nationals

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

It's a gamble — there's no dodging that. But after weighing the alternatives, the Schoolcraft College hierarchy has decided to send the women's soccer team to the NJCAA Tournament, which begins in 10 days in Trenton, N.J.

The decision was reached Thursday in a meeting between coach Nick O'Shea, athletic director Marty Nowak and assistant dean of physical education Midge Carleton.

It wasn't an easy decision to make, not after two players were lost to knee injuries in a game played Oct. 20. Nikki Johnson has recovered and resumed practicing last Friday with a brace, but Carol Pietila underwent arthroscopic surgery Thursday to repair a partial ligament tear.

Pietila begins rehabilitation today; her status is doubtful. "There's no telling with rehab," said O'Shea. "Right now, I would have to say she's 50-50.

"Actually, we're not counting on her. We're figuring she won't play. We're making our game plan for 10."

TEN IS the number of players O'Shea will have available if Pietila can't go. Which means the Lady Ocelots will have to play at least two games in two days — and possibly three games in four days — short one player.

Going 10-against-11 in a national tournament may seem foolhardy, but O'Shea believes SC could still reach the finals. "Ten will be a bonus. We haven't had that many for awhile," he said, only half-joking.

The Ocelots have been playing short-handed all season; indeed, they beat Central College (of McPherson, Kan.) 1-0 in a district playoff playing nine-against-11 to earn a berth in the NJCAA Tournament.

The draw favors SC, too. Its first-round match is against Mercer CC, which got an automatic bid as the host school even though its record is mediocre. The top three ranked teams in the NJCAA — No. 1 Meramec (St. Louis), No. 2 Anderson (Anderson, S.C.) and No. 3 Farmingdale (N.Y.) — are all in the opposite bracket, meaning SC could only meet them in the final.

O'SHEA FIGURES his team (ranked fifth) can adjust and has the ability to stay in the game with any of the others, even short-handed. "Defense is not a big problem because we don't play man-to-man. We play a zone," he said.

"Offensively, (playing short-handed) will be frustrating because we'll only have one player to make a run instead of two."

That single forward will probably be Shannon Meath, unless Johnson — normally the center-midfielder — lacks enough mobility to handle her normal position.

O'Shea realizes the gamble he's taking. "I really felt bad for the second-year players," he said. "I mean, they did qualify to go.

"It was a tough decision. One or two injuries, and this could turn into a nightmare. But things could go really well, too.

"I think all our bad luck must be used up by now. It's got to be. Things have to start going our way."

If their fortunes do indeed change for the better, SC could pull off one of the most shocking upsets in NJCAA history.

SC CROSS COUNTRY: Nikole Kenney helped SC's women's cross country team finish second at the Eastern Conference Championships, a single point ahead of Oakland CC, Wednesday at Macomb CC.

Kenney's fifth-place finish in 19:55 qualified her for the NJCAA Championships Saturday in Wichita, Kan.

Macomb won the conference meet easily, sweeping the top three spots and scoring 22 points. SC placed second with 51 points; OCC had 52.

Other Ocelots to score were Leah Bennett, eighth (20:31); Cathy Lenaghan, 11th (21:05); Kristie Cieslek, 14th (24:05); and Kelly Gray, 15th (25:00).

Macomb's Rhonda Linsky, Nicole Pannecouck and Liz Robinson tied for first in 19:21.

Henry Ford CC took a long, arduous road into the final against SC. The Hawks lost Friday morning to Kellogg; they got into the championship round by winning three loser-round games, beating Mott, Kellogg and Lake Michigan — the second, first and sixth seeds. Henry Ford was seeded eighth.

"We had a real good tournament run," said Hawk coach Gary Gray. "The only problem was, we had to come from the loser's bracket."

The challenge wore out the Hawks. SC left them behind in the first game of the final match, breaking away from an 8-8 tie to win 15-9. Game No. 2 seemed a continuation of streak ending the first game; the Ocelots led from start to finish, surrendering just one point to Henry Ford.

The Hawks scored the first two points of the last game, but SC scored the next nine. Henry Ford closed to within 10-7 before the Ocelots ended it.

THE DIFFERENCE in all of SC's wins was apparent — the inside attack of Van Deusen and Renea Bonser. Before the tournament, Teeters had said they would have to hit .350 for the Ocelots to win.

Van Deusen met the challenge. The only time she didn't meet Teeters' magic number in the five matches was against Mott — she hit .333, with an amazing 27 kills in that match.

Van Deusen hit .636 with eight kills against Muskegon; .435 with 12 against Kalamazoo Valley; .561 with 26 against Lake Michigan; and .387 with 12 against Henry Ford. Her efforts earned her tournament MVP honors.

"She and Renea (Bonser) probably handled 85 percent of our attack," said Teeters. Bonser's numbers against Mott and Lake Michigan were also impressive: .383 with 28 kills against Mott and .367 with 24 kills against Lake Michigan.

Gray explained his team tried to contain both girls. "Our defense was to try and stop the middle," he explained.

Madonna wins, district playoffs next

The victory train kept rolling along for Madonna University's volleyball team as it engineered its 27th win in its last 28 matches by trouncing University of Windsor 15-3, 15-6, 15-13 Thursday at Madonna.

The win not only helped the Lady Crusaders (now 41-10) tune-up for the NAIA District 23 Tournament, which Madonna will host Saturday, but avenged the only loss in their streak. Windsor defeated Madonna Oct. 16, in Windsor.

"We're really where we want to be at this time of year," said Crusader coach Jerry Abraham. "Offensively and defensively, we're playing very consistent. We're looking forward to next Saturday's playoffs."

The winner of the district playoffs advances to the NAIA Bi-district Tournament Nov. 23.

Elena Oparka led the Crusaders' attack with 16 kills. Tonia Smith and Dana Hicks-Finley contributed 12 kills apiece and Maureen Paulin had seven. Jenny Sladewski's 15 digs and Melissa Mars' 10 paced the Madonna defense.

Youngster hits 300

10-pin alley

Al Harrison

KIDS ARE TRULY amazing when it comes to bowling.

I was watching 14-year old Jason Johnson at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills as he was taking some extra practice shots. Johnson just fired his first 300 game in the Monday Youth Doubles, where he is carrying a 214 average. He also competes in the Sunday Youth Classic traveling league.

Johnson, a southpaw, was well schooled by his father, Jerry, who took him as far as he could before turning his coaching over to Lee Snow.

How many more 300 games can Johnson bowl? Only time will tell.

Another name to watch for is Scott Moscow. This youngster is only 6 and has a high score of 169 and a high series of 464. Instead of bowling with his peers, Moscow is bowling with 11- and 12-year-olds in the prep division at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills.

Moscow is somewhat unusual with his style inasmuch as he throws without using the holes and his slide is similar to that of former baseball player Pete Rose, where he lands on his stomach. But he can throw strikes.

In addition to his league play, his father, Rick, takes him out for plenty of practice during open bowling.

• Speaking of kids, it's time to register for the Santa Bowl, Dec. 21 at Merri Bowl in Livonia. The event features one game of bowling, shoes and a visit from Santa.

The Santa Bowl is $5 and you must make reservations in advance. Call 427-2900 for more details.

• Merri Bowl was the scene of a 300 game by Fred Young in the Senior House League Wednesday. This young man just recovered from a broken right hand, having the pins removed from the fracture after resuming bowling only five weeks ago.

• Westland's Paul Grauzer has been named September's "Bowler of the Month" by the Metrostaff Hall of Fame Classic League.

Grauzer, a member of the Ansara's Big Boy team, averaged 235.11 during the month. The 36-year old lefty has bowled for over 20 years with eight sanctioned 300 games and four 800 series, including a high set of 856.

Grauzer averaged 231 during the 1990-91 season and recently captured his second Stroh's Beer Michigan Majors title in Grand Rapids.

• I attended the Greater Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame induction last Sunday at the Ukrainian Cultural Center. This year's inductees included Yvonne Barnes, Robert Chamberlain, Robert Goike, Jack Born and Robert Wissmuller.

Palace awaits Payne

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonian Craig Payne, fresh from a month's training in England with former world heavyweight boxing contender Frank Bruno, will return to the ring Tuesday night at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Payne's opponent in the four-rounder will be Ken McCant of Detroit. Both fighters are 2-0 as pros.

Payne, who as an amateur beat Mike Tyson and two Olympic gold medalists (Tyrell Biggs and Teofilo Stevenson), sparred close to 75 rounds with Bruno in Ashby de la Zouch, a small town in central England just northwest of Birmingham in Leicesterhire County.

"I feel better than my old self, I'm hungry and more mature," said the 27-year-old Payne. "Being over there built my confidence and got the weight off (he's down to 265). It was also great sparring."

Bruno, one of Europe's top heavyweights, is back on the comeback trail as well fter losing to Tyson.

"WE'D GET UP early and run, eat fruit, then exercise and do aerobics," Payne explained. "You'd get a massage and then spar five, six or seven rounds. Then go to the heavy bag.

"The people were beautiful over there. I stayed at the Queens Hotel and had my own cook."

Payne called Bruno "a strong, well-built man."

"It was an honor, a pleasure to train with him in their new gym," Payne said. "I have all the respect for him and they helped me a lot. I think they were impressed with my hand speed for my size (6-1, 265)."

Payne's trainer, Paul Soucy of the Livonia Boxing Club, said Payne's comeback "will surprise people."

"He looks awesome right now," Soucy said. "We have another bout (a four-rounder) against Robert Smith on Nov. 29 in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin. We hope to get him two more fights before the end of the year, including another one in Detroit on Dec. 15."

Payne was a promising amateur super-heavyweight during the early '80s, winning the National Golden Gloves and finishing a close second (behind Biggs) in the 1984 U.S. Olympic Trials.

PAYNE, however, he had only one pro fight after relinquishing his amateur status, drifting away from the sport to become a construction worker.

"I was young then and made some bad mistakes," Payne said. "You could say I sowed my oats first, instead of waiting until I was older. Now I'm ready to settle down."

Also scheduled on the Tuesday Palace card, which gets underway at 7:30 p.m., is middleweight Anthony Jones, who lost recently to Pernell Whittaker.

Franklin corrals Mustangs in WLAA playoff

girls' basketball

By Brad Emons
staff writer

It was a turbulent week for the Livonia Franklin girls basketball team, but the Patriots banded together Friday for a 65-48 win over host Northville in the first round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs.

"Unfortunately more was going on than the physical things on the floor," Franklin coach Dan Freeman said. "I've never had a team go through a tougher week. It's something I rather not get into, but I'm proud of the way the girls stepped up tonight and the way they played together."

The Patriots had seven days to prepare for the Mustangs, who earlier this season handed them a 50-49 defeat at home. But because of several interruptions, they had only one full-scale practice.

"The first half we were real rusty offensively and it showed," said Freeman, whose team trailed 29-20 at intermission. "But we didn't let it get away defensively. We hung around."

FRANKLIN MADE only five of 20 first-half shots from the floor and got killed on the boards.

Northville's Karen Pump gave the Patriots a major headache with 12 of her team-high 15 points in the opening half.

Meanwhile, Franklin's top scorer, Dawn Warner, who averages close to 27 points per game, had trouble getting a shot off. She had 11 first-half points, but had only five field goal attempts from the floor.

"Northville was running some kind of 'junk defense,' at us," Freeman said. "I'm not sure if it was a box-and-one or a triangle-and-two, but offensively were not opening things up."

The Patriots made some adjustments and came out smoking in the third quarter, outscoring Northville 23-11.

Myryah Shea's basket with 3:17 left in the third pulled the Patriots to within one, 34-33, and four consecutive Warner free throws put them up for good.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, got into serious foul trouble in the second half and started "bricking" their shots from the free throw line.

FRANKLIN PUT IT away down the stretch, outscoring the hosts 22-8 in the final period.

Four of five Northville starters eventually fouled out.

The Mustangs made only 10 of 29 free throws on the night, compared to Franklin's 27 of 39.

"The game slowed down too much for us in the second half," said Northville coach Ed Kritch, whose team fell to 14-4 overall. "We like to play fast, but we ended up watching her (Warner) shoot free throws (14 of 20) and get us in foul trouble.

"Warner decided to take the ball to the rim, and she was able to slice through and get to the line."

Franklin also had players in foul trouble.

Starters Patty Shea and Karen Potempa, each finishing with eight points, were saddled with four apiece, while reserve Lisa Craven exited with five.

"Our bench did a real nice job and the girls hit some crucial free throws," Freeman said. "They gave us some nice minutes in tight parts of the game when they had to play under pressure."

Myryah Shea and Kristi Celeski each chipped in with seven points.

Warner led everybody with 28.

IN THE REBOUNDING department, where Franklin did a much better job in the second half, Warner led with 10. The Sheas, Wendy Rynkiewicz, Potempa and Laura Rumpz hauled down five apiece.

"That's 25 additional rebounds from five other people, which is good to see," Freeman said.

The schedule doesn't get easier for Franklin (14-4), which travels Tuesday to meet Plymouth Salem (14-4).

The Rocks beat Franklin earlier this year, 53-45.

Spartans roll; Daly nets 30 in 1st Churchill win

Livonia Stevenson moved into the semifinal round of the Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball playoffs with a 70-58 victory Thursday over visiting Walled Lake Western.

The Spartans, now 14-4 overall, play host Tuesday to Plymouth Canton, 15-3.

Senior center Teresa Sarno paced the victors with 21 points, hitting seven of 10 rebounds, to go along with 12 rebounds.

Sophomore guard Mo Drabicki had a triple-double, adding 17 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists. Junior forward Karen Groulx contributed 16 points.

Stevenson led most of the way against the Vikings, who were paced by junior forward Bridgette Norris' 19 points and 21 rebounds. Senior Kerri Kobus added 15 for Central, which fell to 9-9 overall.

"We pulled away in the fourth quarter at the free throw line," said Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit, whose team hit 17 of 26 from the stripe on the night. "We're playing four good quarters and the girls are playing well. We're playing like a team."

CHURCHILL 54, FARMINGTON 38: Junior guard Chrissy Daly poured in 30 points, including four 3-pointers Thursday, lifting Livonia Churchill to the victory against the visiting Falcons.

The Chargers snapped a 19-game losing streak, dating back to last season. They are 1-17 in 1991.

Senior center Julie Campau added seven points and 14 rebounds for the winners.

"We're happy with the win," Churchill coach Don Albertson said. "We knew all the work we put in during the year would eventually pay off. I'm happy with the girls."

Junior forward Tammy Allen tallied 14 for the Falcons, who fell to 3-14 overall.

CANTON 46, JOHN GLENN 26: Stephanie Gray, a junior center, scored 23 points and hauled down 14 rebounds Wednesday, leading host Plymouth Canton (15-3) to the Western Lakes playoff win over visiting Westland Glenn (9-8).

Canton outscored the Rockets in every quarter, the biggest margin coming in the final period, 13-5.

Britta Anderson and Amy Westerhold combined for 14 other Canton points.

Jennifer Gorecki scored nine for the Rockets.

LADYWOOD 63, CABRINI 60: Freshman Tara Overaitis scored 16 points, including with game-winning basket with a minute left, leading Livonia Ladywood (10-8) to the inter-sectional win Friday at Allen Park Cabrini.

Ladywood led 49-38 after three quarters before the Monarchs rallied to take the lead in the final two minutes.

Overaitis, a recent call-up from the JV squad, made it 61-60 in favor of the Blazers and Tracy Prybylski added a pair of free throws to seal the win.

Freshman Melissa Campeau added 15 points for the winners, while Janet Davis added nine.

Overaitis and Campeau each scored eight in the second quarter as Ladywood outscored Cabrini, 27-14. Andrea Putti added seven during the surge.

WAYNE 42, SOUTHGATE 30: On Thursday, host Wayne Memorial avenged a Wolverine A League defeat earlier in the season to the Titans as Cindy Potter paced a balanced scoring attack with 11.

Jenny Pohl and Lateefa Moore each tallied eight for the Zebras, now 7-11 overall and 5-8 in the Wolverine A.

Rhonda Chapo took game-high scoring honors for Anderson with 13.

Southgate is now 3-15 overall and 2-11 in league play.

CLARENCEVILLE 45, LUTHERAN WEST 40: Livonia Clarenceville picked up the Metro Conference win Thursday thanks to 16 points from senior Leandra Hoffman and 13 more from junior guard Angie Wakefield.

The visiting Trojans trailed 20-10 after one quarter, but dominated the rest of the way, outscoring the Detroit Lutheran West 11-6 in the second, 13-7 in the third and 16-2 in the final eight minutes.

"We put the press on in the second half and shut them down," Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf said. "We wanted to make the game exciting. It feels good because we brought two freshmen up and both played well."

Clarenceville is 5-14 overall and 3-11 in the conference.

Lutheran West, led by Crystal Greer and Nikole Pettway, each scoring 15, dropped to 2-12 in the Metro.

BETHESDA 48, HURON VALLEY 33: Shenay Brewer scored 14 points and Brett Gilbert added 10 Thursday, leading visiting Warren Bethesda (11-4, 6-0) to the MIAC victory over Westland Huron Valley (7-10, 0-6).

The victorious Eagles led 30-8 at intermission before Huron Valley cut the deficit to 40-28 after three quarters. The Hawks, however, couldn't get any closer.

Sandi Dengel scored nine points in a losing cause. Brenda Mayworm and Nikki List added eight and six, respectively.

Both Mayworm and List connected on a pair of three-pointers in the third period.

St. Michael's captures CYO title

football

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

A rumor started circulating on the Pontiac Silverdome carpet Sunday morning during the Catholic Youth Organization varsity football championship between Livonia St. Michael's and Birmingham St. Hugo's.

"The guys who hold the chains on the sidelines who were from St. Hugo's heard (varsity coach) Jerry (Rioux) was leaving St. Mike's, word was out he was retiring," said Bob Benvenuto, coach of St. Michael's junior varsity team.

Benvenuto quickly dismissed that rumor and then St. Michael's dismissed St. Hugo's, 8-0, to win its fifth CYO varsity league championship in eight years. Reserve quarterback Steve Mondry, playing in place of the injured Eric Gilbo, scored on a one-yard plunge in the fourth quarter to assure the title for the Gaels.

Rioux has spent 15 of his 52 years coaching varsity and JV football at St. Michael's and he'd like to stay at least four more before deciding to call it a coaching career. Rioux, who does not get paid, has coached the seventh and eighth grade with the help of six able volunteer assistants and that's what makes it not only successful, but fun.

His assistants include Jim Rouen, Dave Hatty, Jeff Rioux, John Picano, John Dupule and Ron Curl. Others who deliver a helping hand include JV assistant Dan Hatty, voice of St. Michael's football Frank Bradley and statistician Sam Coppola.

Curl was a former Michigan State All-America lineman from the late 1960s who later played with the Pittsburgh Steelers. The man who makes the entire athletic program tick is Ed Day, the athletic director for 35 years.

"We have excellent people and the good part of the staff is most of them don't have children playing, they just enjoy coaching," said Rioux, who also has coached baseball and softball at St. Michael's. "It's a lot of fun and what makes it fun is the staff gets along real well and we have great parent cooperation."

Rioux is the brother in law of Dave Hatty, the more liberal of the two.

"I think I'm more conservative than Dave," Rioux said. "And Dave likes to open it up more."

"Yeah, when he calls a quarterback sneak, I say, 'What do ya mean, that's outrageous,'" laughed Hatty.

Winning the CYO league title is no small accomplishment with 30 teams, divided in five divisions, vying for the championship. And to think, the Gaels went undefeated from 1987-89, winning more than 30 games straight.

Eight former St. Michael's players start for Redford Catholic Central's defending Class AA state champion and some of the noted graduates include Ken Wandzel (Michigan State), Nick Varajon (Toledo), John Filiatraut (Wisconsin) and Eddie Kasparek (Michigan).

"You'd be surprised how many Catholics in Livonia don't know St. Michael's has a football team," Rioux said.

Danish offers variety

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Mary's Danish may be lauded for revealing a wide variety of musical styles on their release "Circa." There are inflections of Jefferson Starship power psychedelia, B-52s jolly pop fuzz and the bare bones country yearnings procured by X.

Then again, 17½ songs on one disc should reveal some variety.

"When we went into the studio, we had 36 songs," said vocalist Julie Ritter, whose band performs Tuesday, Nov. 12, at St. Andrew's Hall. "We sat around the table and voted on what songs should go on the album. Certain songs just ended up on the album naturally. We needed that many songs."

Mary's Danish unabashedly wears their vast influences like a pollster dons candidate badges during an election year. To deny them would be inappropriate, band members figure.

This can be their finest attribute and Achilles heel at the same time.

Undoubtedly, not every cut on "Circa" will immediately appeal to the listener. Some may find the effort too unfocused, getting the feeling the band is trying to find the light switch in a darkened room during its art-funk moments.

But that would be nit picking and ignores the musical vision of this Los Angeles six-member outfit that constantly explores and seeks better definitions than those already offered.

BAND FOUNDERS and vocalists Gretchen Seager and Ritter write confessional lyrics. At times, they chronicle the turbulence Mary's Danish has endured in their four-year history that has included legal hassles, a record deal gone awry and Seager leaving the band for a short period of time.

Seager's and Ritter's songwriting and vocal styles may be compared and contrasted in self-revealing numbers such as "7-Deadly Sins" and "Cover Your Face." Both songs are saturated with self-doubt and anger.

Ritter's number, "Beat Me Up," focuses on the mental pounding one takes in a relationship gone bad.

"It could be a man speaking. It could be a woman speaking," said Ritter, who met Seager at the University of California-Berkeley. "Anybody can take it to read and apply to their own life."

The life of the band appears to be falling in order. Along with Seager and Ritter, Mary's Danish features David King on guitar, Louis Gutierrez on guitar, Chris "Wag" Wagner of bass and James Bradley Jr. on drums.

Mary's Danish emerged in the L.A. alternative scene, mainly thanks to radio airplay of an eight-track demo "Don't Crash the Car Tonight" on KROQ-FM. The song's popularity necessitated an album, making "There Goes the Wondertruck" (Chameleon) a somewhat hastily pressed debut.

THINGS QUICKLY grew difficult. Nerves became frayed after ensuing tours proved fruitless. In-band bickering led Seager to leave Mary's Danish only to return at her own will.

"I was torn, too," Ritter said. "She didn't really want to leave the band. She was frustrated and I felt frustrated for her. I could speak to her as a friend or on a business level."

Also, Mary's Danish recorded "Circa" last year but Chameleon didn't have a distribution deal. The album's release waited until Morgan Creek stepped in. In the meantime, the band did release a live EP, "Experience."

All of the past turmoil has made the band members more determined to carry on. "Circa" has reaped critical acclaim and publicity, partly due to Seager's scathing tribute to the Guns N' Roses lead singer in "Axl Rose Is Love."

If anything, the outfit has found strength in the diversity that nearly tore them apart. The only thing that could destroy Mary's Danish now would be uniformity.

"I think if one person had complete control it wouldn't be Mary's Danish. If it were my band, it would sound different. If it was Gretchen's band, it would sound different," Ritter said. "There's a good system of checks and balances in this band."

Mary's Danish will perform with Eleven Tuesday, Nov. 12, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For information, call 961-MELT.

LIVE REVIEW

Mural of Reality Benefit — Industry, Pontiac

This was a night for the Picassos and Van Goghs with guitars and drum kits. Six bands, all of whom apparently take their muse very seriously, graced the stage at the artisan oasis known as Industry in a benefit for a new arts magazine, 78 RPM.

For the most part, thankfully, pretension was limited to some of the audience members who came haughtily dressed in enough '70s retro wear to make one wonder if the Bee Gees were conducting a used clothes sale in the parking lot.

The real fashion heroes included a bass player for Majesty Crush with a battered green parka draped over his slumbered shoulders, a pencil thin lead singer of Gangster Fun attired in a white turtle neck and floods revealing some prominent white sock and a guy in Brothers from Another Planet who has a yellow, green and red top hat large enough to guide 747s onto runways.

Aside from threads, these guys can play. The three aforementioned bands were in exceptional musical form with His Name Is Alive also putting forth a mesmerizing 30-minute set as well.

Majesty Crush capped off the five-hour music with a virulent, dissonant set that was simply riveting. Lead singer David Stroughter set the tone spewing street argot with a stare that is menacing and demands and gets your attention.

Stroughter's seizure-like contortions, mixed with Michael Segal's guitar induced psychic fallout and Hobey Echlin's hypnotic bass lines, provided an uneasy tension — perhaps underscoring a taut, urban cacophony that seems to be at the core of Majesty Crush's music.

The band's material — songs such as "Sunny Pie" and "Cicciolina" — were unnerving yet possessed a distinctive groove to make one sway blindly in tribute while a voltage skewed rendition of Lou Reed's "Walk on the Wildside" was pure psychotic bliss. Majesty Crush proved themselves preeminent among alternative bands.

Especially when following the likes of Gangster Fun, whose set resembled something of a nine-man Las Vegas ska review. Undoubtedly, this outfit feeds off the dance-induced frenzy of its own audience and certainly that was the case with bodies flying across the floor.

David Bunkley led the skank charge, sliding down both banisters adjacent to the Industry stage and dancing non-stop for the entire set. Gangster Fun has become visually appealing as well as musically.

Whimsical is the last word to describe His Name Is Alive, who performed an intriguing set of brilliantly orchestrated sounds put forth by Warren Defever and collaborator Jymn Auge that delve deep into the consciousness. At least to those who listened closely.

An acoustic interlude, "The Charmer," with lead vocalist Karin Oliver singing softly without a microphone was marred by audience chatter and a deejay — apparently thinking the set was over — interrupting to say there were free CDs available. Embarrassing, and a bit ironic since this benefit was a celebration of the arts.

Stage presence is what Brothers from Another Planet certainly possess. Led by lead singer James Page, who doffs a rather large chapeau and whipped up some wildly exaggerated dance steps Hammer would gladly put his signature on.

That's only part of the package. The band, featuring bassist Gordon Spencer, guitarist Scott and drummer Bob Dotto, has a chunky and funky metal sound that is rhythmic and pulsating. This outfit was a joy to witness.

Dusk and Slot, two up-and-coming bands, opened the proceedings with rather uneven sets. Dusk presented a moody, sullen brand of alternative music and looked a bit inert in the process. Slot blazed away with 30 minutes of metal/thrash that was minus a succinct groove.

Both bands appear to be still in the process of defining their respective sounds, and it showed.

Joe Mantegna plays Detective Bobby Gold and William H. Macy is his partner, Tim Sullivan, in David Mamet's "Homicide."

'Homicide:' An intelligent thriller

tickets please

John Monaghan

Like any good detective thriller, "Homicide" is as much about the hero's battle with himself as it is about the fight against bad guys. Written and directed by David Mamet, this highly intelligent thriller has opened wide after a successful exclusive run at Bloomfield's Maple Theatre.

Joe Mantegna plays Joe Gold, an inner city police officer with a long list of citations. On the way to a big case, he stumbles upon the routine murder of a candy store owner, an elderly Jewish woman. First on the scene, he is forced to "babysit" the case, even though his interests lie elsewhere.

The victim's family immediately senses his disinterest. Feeling guilty, Gold swears he will find the killer. As he probes deeper and deeper into the possible motivations behind her murder, he must face his obligation to both the Jewish and law enforcement communities.

"Homicide" is the third feature from Mamet and it may be his best. The talented playwright turned film director has a unique way of turning old movie cliches into something incredibly fresh.

THE FRUSTRATIONS of police bureaucracy, even the standard suspense gimmicks that are the stuff of every TV cop show become emotionally charged again.

That's because Mamet serves up such complex characters. For 20 years, Gold has experienced anti-Semitism on the force. His feelings of inadequacy have made him the boldest, gutsiest cop around, "always the first one through the door" in an intense situation.

Throughout the course of the film, which is set just over two days, Gold gets no sleep. He investigates the murder scene shortly before dawn and discovers clues, including an empty machine gun case in the candy store basement. It becomes apparent that the old lady ran firearms to Israel in the 1940s.

More clues lead to an organized band of modern Jews who battle the neo-Nazi literature that has resurfaced on American streets. Stirred by emotions of loyalty he didn't know he had, Gold gets into the group over his head.

Here, the movie, which has been pretty realistic up to this point, starts to wear a little thin. Too much happens in too short a time as he volunteers to break into a hobby store and sniff out the printing press that creates the offensive leaflets.

AGAIN THE scene is incredibly well-filmed. Backed by shelves of antique trains, he pauses by small figures of policeman before entering the storeroom. Among the stock of old Lionel train boxes (what better symbol of American innocence) he finds a stash of Nazi uniforms and flags.

As in Mamet's debut feature, "House of Games," the dialogue in "Homicide" is intentionally stilted. Before breaking into the abandoned apartment where a cop killer may be hiding, Mantegna's partner comments calmly on how "brazen" Gold is. Something makes it work.

Much of that something is Joe Mantegna. Mamet's collaborator and star of choice is well-trained in the director's way of approaching a scene. Mantegna is a no-nonsense actor with perfect timimg who knows how to establish your confidence and trust even when the plot turns topsy-turvy.

It may best to skip 'Last Exit to Brooklyn'

pass the popcorn

LeAnne Rogers

A man and woman are fighting in a doorway as several soldiers walk past heading back to the Brooklyn Army base. The couple and the soldiers start to argue, leading to a fight, joined by the couple's friends. One soldier ends up brutually beaten before the police arrive and separate the combatants.

That's the kind of neighborhood where the characters in "Last Exit to Brooklyn" live. It's a place of abandoned buildings and debris filled streets, where the young men run in packs, rolling johns or performing other criminal odd jobs for a living.

The main source of legitimate employment in the neighborhood is a factory where the workers have been on strike for six months. A rather drawn looking Stephen Lang plays union steward who is running the local strike office. While the strike is becoming increasing volatile, he seems to be more interested in bragging about his union expense account and treating the local guys to beers in the union office.

You get the feeling right away that the union organizer is heading for trouble on the job. His personal life looks even worse with a tense and disinterested relationship with his wife and infant child. It becomes pretty clear that this is a man with homosexual tendencies who has dealt with those feelings in a way that was socially acceptable in 1952.

Tralala, the woman involved in the opening fracas, is one of the local prostitutes and works with a thuggish group, luring johns to an abandoned car where they can be rapped on the head and their money lifted. It's another of Jennifer Jason Leigh's patented bad girl parts. I'm almost surprised to see her in the occasional clothed part.

Actually, Leigh does a nice job showing the self-hatred and disgust that keeps Tralala a prostitute and sliding lower. She spends several days in Manhattan with a soldier who is getting ready to go overseas. At some level she recognizes and accepts his kindness and consideration. Once he is gone, she slips back into the neighborhood and triggers abuse that seems to be almost like a penance.

When the soldier asks Leigh where they should go out, she responds that she doesn't know anything about Manhattan. She only knows the neighborhood in Brooklyn. That sort of says it all for the characters in this film, now on video. They are stuck and for various reasons in their own character can't even see the potential to do something different, let alone actually get out of there.

Even the subplot involving a family headed by Burt Young is headed for a deadend. We all know what has happened to unskilled workers who thought they and their sons were guaranteed jobs forever at the local plant.

"Last Exit to Brooklyn" provides just a slice about the lives of their self-destructive and often violent characters, requiring the viewer to fill in a lot of blanks. The film has a certain style and some evocative scenes but overall its less than satisfying emotionally or intellectually.

"The Rapture" (USA — 1991). An adult phone sex operator (Mimi Rogers) attempts to cleanse her life through the discovery of religion.

MAPLE THEATRE, 4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. Call 855-9090 for show times. ($6; $3.50 twi-light).

"Homicide" (USA — 1991). A multi-layered cop drama about an inner-city police officer whose long-suppressed ethnic background lures him into the darker side streets of loyalty and crime. Another collaboration between writer/director David Mamet and actor Joe Mantegna.

"My Mother's Castle" (France — 1990). The sequel to "My Father's Glory," tracing the childhood memoirs of French filmmaker Marcel Pagnol. Directed by Yves Robert.

"Black Robe" (USA — 1991). A true story based on the adventures of Father LaFourgue and his apprentice as they struggle for survival in the first clash between Indians and Native Americans in 1634. From Bruce Beresford, the director of "Driving Miss Daisy" and "Breaker Morant."

MICHIGAN THEATRE, 603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students and senior citizens)

"Badlands" (USA — 1973), 7 p.m. Nov. 11-12. Martin Sheen and Sissy Spacek play a garbage collector and his teenage girlfriend who embark on a killing spree. Inspired by the Starkweather-Fugate murders during the 1950s. Directed by Terrence Malick.

"Plastic Jesus" (Yugoslavia — 1971), 9 p.m. Nov. 11. Released last year for the first time in 20 years, this mix of comedy and drama examines the effects that World War II had on Yugoslavian identity and culture some 30 years later.

STAR JOHN R, 32289 John R (at 14 Mile Road), Madison Heights. Call 585-2070 for show times. ($6; $3.50 before 6 p.m.)

"The Miracle" (Ireland — 1991). When a beautiful blond American (Beverly D'Angelo) arrives in an Irish seaside town, a teenager's fascination with her grows into an obsession. This very personal film from Neil Jordan ("Mona Lisa") walks a thin line between fantasy and reality. Just don't take its melodramatic storyline too seriously.

"Rambling Rose" (USA — 1991). Laura Dern plays an alluring young woman who has a profound effect on the Southern family she comes to live with.

IT'S TIME TO DISCONNECT CABLE THEFT. SPEAK UP AND COLLECT A CASH REWARD.

We've tried to be nice about it. But some people still haven't gotten the picture. Cable theft isn't a game or a bargain. It's a crime, for which honest subscribers pay the price.

MetroVision is cracking down on cable theft. We're conducting electronic, home-to-home audits, using sophisticated equipment which can detect signal leakage or other signs of unauthorized reception without us having to set foot in anyone's door.

You can help us pull the plug on this nationwide problem. If you have information on the unauthorized reception or sale of cable TV services or equipment, call The Network toll-free at 1-800-241-5689 - 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

You don't have to give your name, and you could receive a cash reward - from $25 for illegal connections or tampered converter boxes to $300 for crimes involving the sale of unauthorized converter boxes.

Speak up today. And help us break some very bad connections.

PULL THE PLUG ON CABLE THEFT

We all pay the price.

A Man's Gotta Do What A Man's Gotta Do

All young men have one responsibility in common. They have to register with Selective Service within 30 days of their 18th birthday. All it takes is five minutes at any post office to fill out a simple form. So if you know a young man about to turn 18, remind him to register. It's one of those things he's got to do.

Register with Selective Service It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Preserve bounty for winter

With the official word coming down from the Department of Natural Resources, this hunting season might go down as the best on record. And if Mother Nature holds up her end, this year should find a majority of hunters with freezers loaded up for the projected, long, hard winter.

So what if you are really lucky in the field? Let's face it, there are only so many ways to properly preserve and store hunting bounty properly. Here are some suggestions that will ensure a safe, efficient method of preservation.

RIGHT OFF the bat, check the condition of the freezer. Every type of refrigerator or freezer has a warm air outlet which must be kept clear. If the freezer is too close to a wall, for example, the warm air outlet may be blocked. This will cause overheating and long, laborious operation of the cooling unit, giving you unnecessarily high electricity bills. Also, make sure the freezer is out of the direct path of a heat source, such as a warm air register or sunlight.

Be sure the door of the unit is airtight. A good test is to close it on a piece of paper. If the paper comes out easily with a light pull, cold air is leaking out, and the door gasket should be replaced or the door latch readjusted.

The biggest mistake owners of manual defrost freezers make is to allow too much ice build-up to occur. Frost and ice cut cooling power, never allow more than ¼ inch ice or frost to form inside the unit.

We all know the importance of keeping the condenser coils free and clear of dust and dirt. Seasonal vacuuming solves this problem.

Even though my home economics teacher will never agree, I must, in all honesty say that the longer the wild game is aged before using, the better it will taste. Venison can hang for 10 to 15 days if a temperature of 34-40 degrees is properly maintained. Game birds can also benefit from aging, improving what is normally a gamey taste. Aging allows the natural enzymes an opportunity to tenderize the meat. Avid hunters have refrigerators used solely for this purpose.

ANOTHER POPULAR method for preserving wild game is the smoker. Fish, fowl and just about any wild game can also be smoked, not simply for the addition of a new flavor, but also for extended storage. Any avid large game hunter will have access to an old refrigerator with the motor and condensor removed, a fire box inserted underneath and a few strategically placed holes for a do-it-yourself smoker. A few hot coals and some dried hardwood like applewood or hickory and the old racks inside the fridge never worked so well.

Venison or duck sausage, coho salmon and even trout are easily smoked. If you don't have access to an old refrigerator unit, regular smokers can be easily purchased at any fireplace shop or outdoors store.

Jerky is a chewable treat treasured by many hunters. Thin strips of any wild game are marinated in a brine solution for several hours and then dried and/or smoked.

When it comes to wrapping your game for the freezer, remember that air is what you don't want. Freezer wraps, plastic freezer bags and burpable airtight containers such as Tupperware work best.

Be sure to label your packages as to the type of eat, cut, weight and the date. Venison and game birds can be kept 8-12 months frozen.

Duck and turkey should be kept no longer than six months and most fish, especially fatty fish are best eaten within two months of freezing.

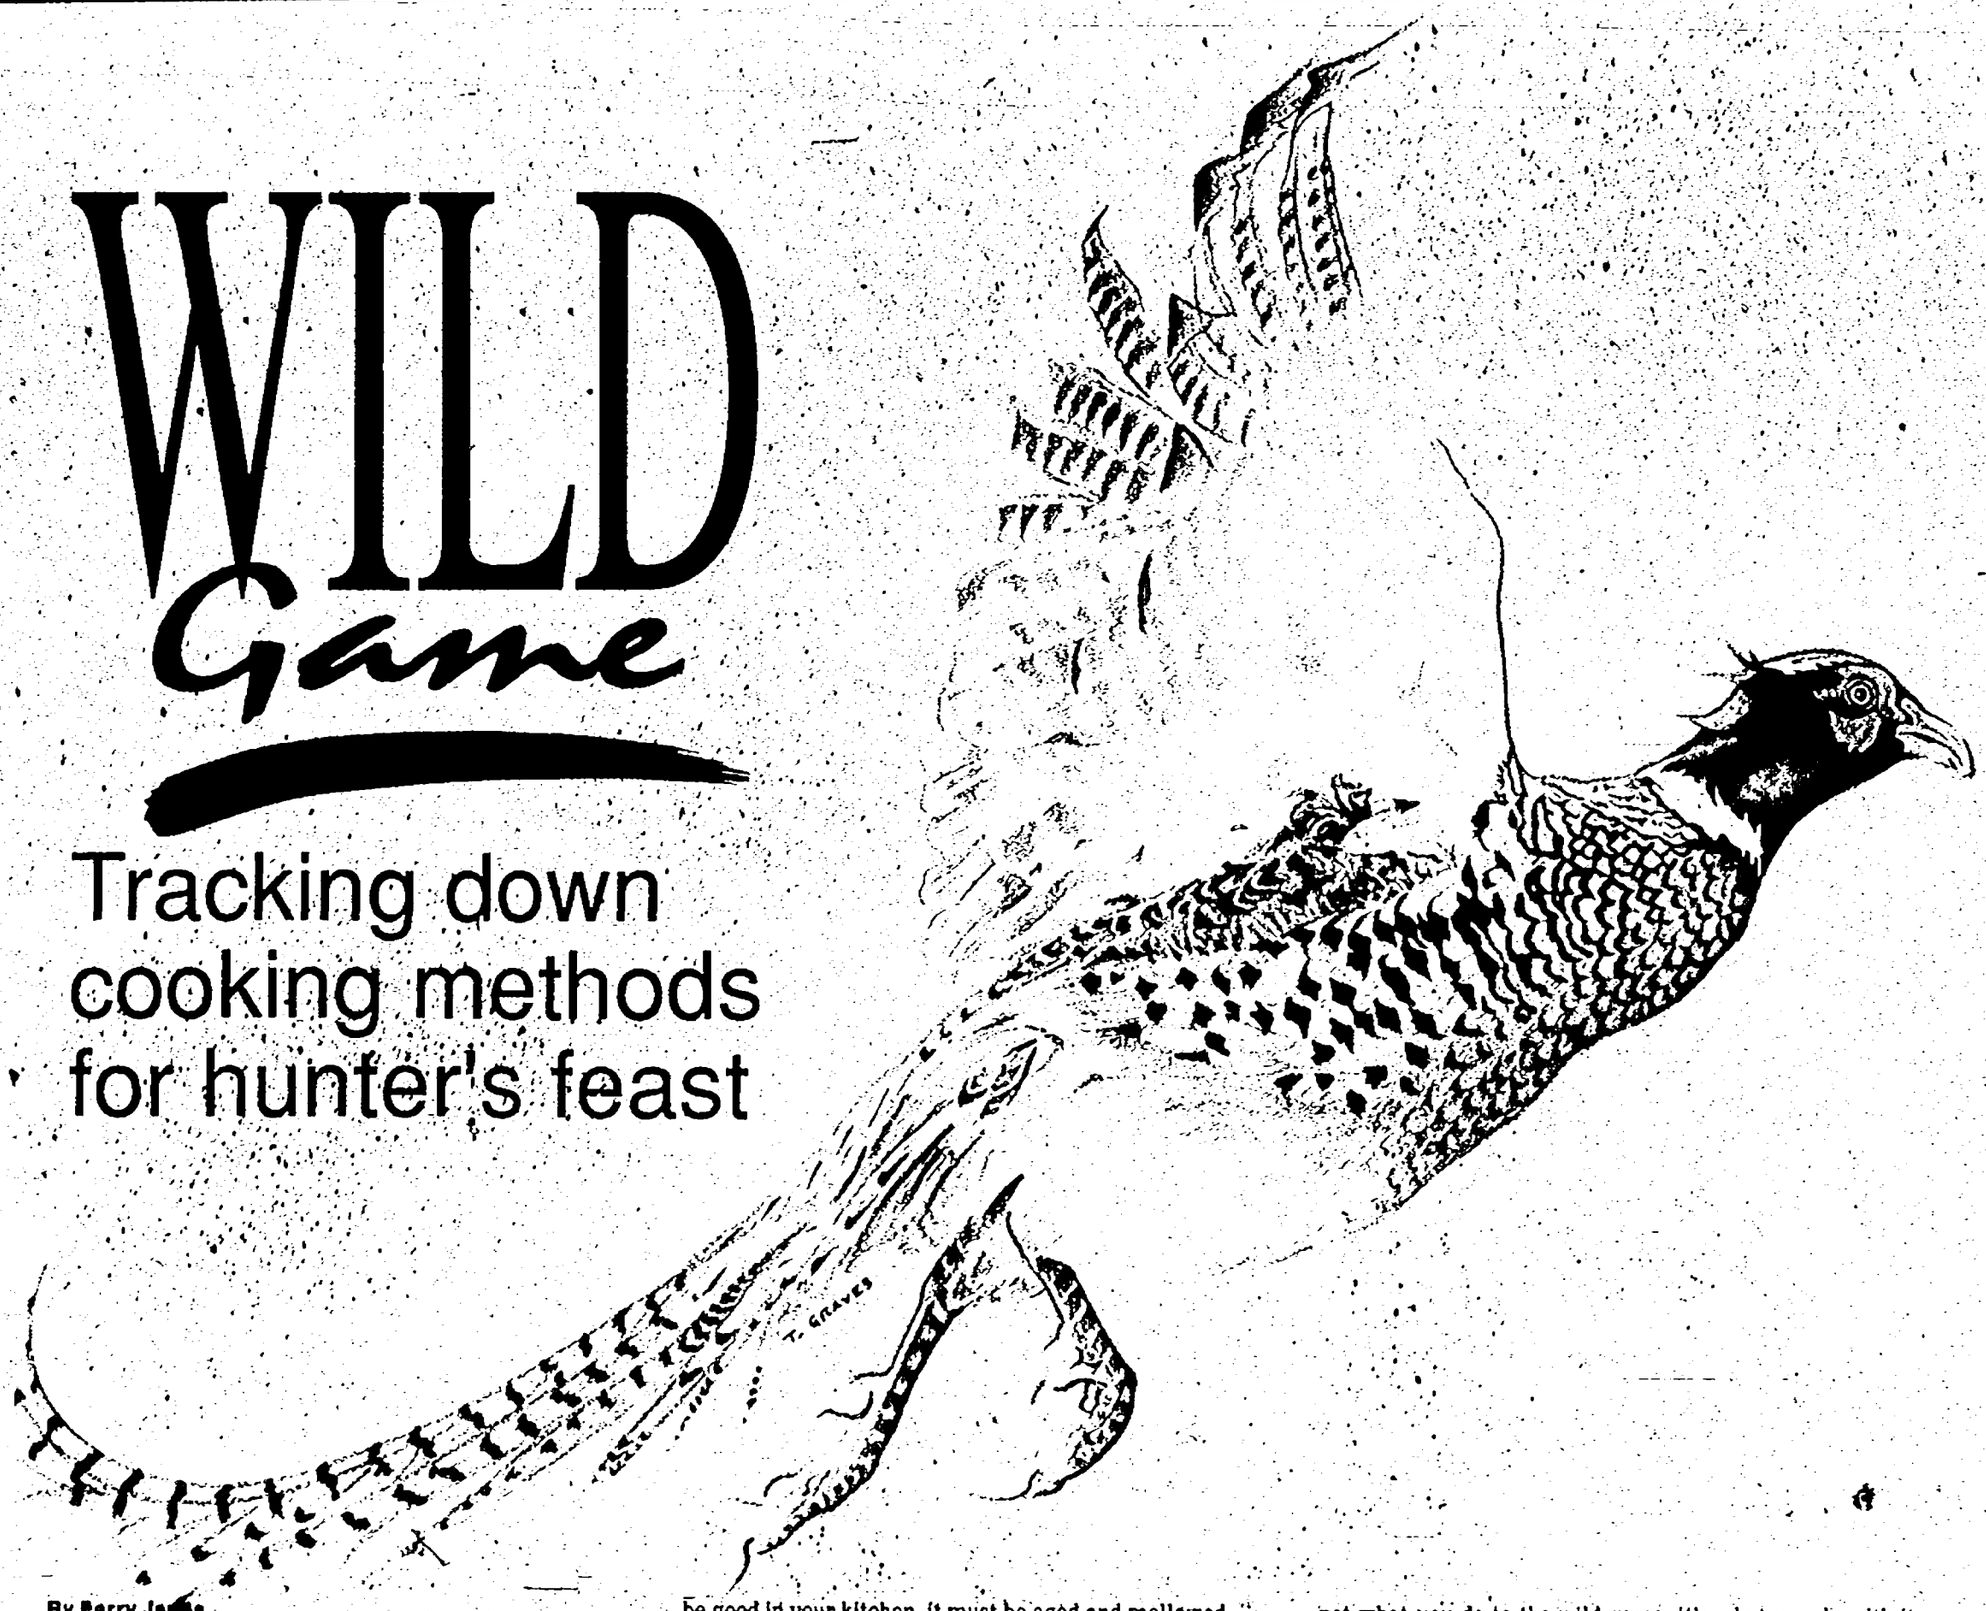
WILD Game

Tracking down cooking methods for hunter's feast



By Larry Janes
Special writer

TRYING TO track down wild game hunters to interview for a cooking story this time of year is like finding prime rib on sale at the supermarket; it's virtually unheard of.

From September through April scads of wild game hunters venture throughout Southeastern Michigan and into the great north woods in search of anything that walks, crawls, flies, jumps, swims or even hangs from trees all the while toting enough firepower to fuel restaurant stoves for days on end.

There's little argument that most of the hunters are in search of deer, with a growing loyalty to duck, pheasant and wild turkey, but while researching this story, yours truly stumbled across hunters who actually search out porcupines, opossums, raccoon and even muskrat. Worse yet, they eat them.

Anyone in Metropolitan Detroit who's into food knows that the area's premier authority on wild game is the venerable Chef Milos Chielka of the Golden Mushroom Restaurant in Southfield. Chef Milos has long been an avid wild game hunter who is as comfortable in the deep woods as he is in a $200,000 stainless steel kitchen. When not stalking deer, Chef Milos can be found hunting other wild game favorites: partridge, woodcock, duck and grouse.

What I thought would be a "quickie" five minute interview between lunch and dinner at the Golden Mushroom turned into a 45-minute discussion on the joys of wild game hunting, and what a little braising, roasting, wine, stock and vegetables can do to a breast of partridge or a leg of venison.

One of the many points of information derived from our discussion was Chef Milos' insistence that for wild game to be good in your kitchen, it must be aged and mellowed.

"Deer should be properly field gutted and then allowed to hang in a cold location for up to three weeks for optimum flavor" claims the notable chef. "As a matter of fact, I have two ducks mellowing in a paper bag in the meat keeper of my home refrigerator, and a six-pointer hanging in the garage at this very moment" he continued, "just waiting to be cleaned and sprinkled with 'the game spices' and then roasted to perfection."

For the unknowing, Chef Milos' "game spices" include a mixture of allspice, bayleaf and thyme.

While not even considering the option of telling this writer where he was so lucky to hunt, Chef Milos was very generous in his offering of cooking procedures for optimum wild game taste and flavor.

"Since wild game is essentially wild, there is little fat," said Milos. "Tougher cuts of venison like the rump and roast benefit from a moist heat cooking procedure requiring the braising of the meat and the addition of either wine or stock with some vegetables and a slow roast for several hours."

"Whole game birds can be roasted, but are best cut up again with the legs and wings braised at a long, slow roast, and the breast portions wrapped and tied with pork fat and being roasted at a high temperature (450 degrees) for as little as 20 minutes or so."

Unfortunately, there are some of us who are not quite as talented in the kitchen as Chef Milos and turn the cooking of wild game over to their spouses only after the initial processing is completed.

For the spouses of great northern hunters who are saddled with the task of cooking up 125 pounds of venison or a dozen ducks, cooking techniques and recipes are too few and far between. I spoke with the wives of some area hunters. They echoed virtually the same culinary thoughts: "It's not what you do to the wild game; it's what you do with it that counts."

One takes some of the toughest cuts from the hind quarter and sends it to her favorite butcher who, with the addition of some fat and spices, turns otherwise tough venison into lovely sausage that can be broiled, baked, casseroled, sandwiched and microwaved.

Another, a devoted fan of Chef Milos and the Golden Mushroom, prefers to use the old standby clay cooker (Romertopf) for a slow, moist cook with potatoes, onions, turnips and rutabagas. "I make everything from roasts to barbecued venison in the clay cooker, most of the time with a splash of cheap red wine and a little Lowry's Seasoning Salt" was her proud response.

For the uninitiated wild game cook, there is plenty of information available at the local library and through your local county extension service. One of the best sources for wild game recipes, however, is a book entitled, "Wildlife Chef," published by the Michigan-United Conservation Clubs, Box 30235, Lansing, Michigan 48909. Another excellent source is "Jack Ubaldi's Meat Book," by Jack Ubaldi and Elizabeth Crossman, copyright, 1987 by MacMillan Publishers. Last, but certainly not least, Chef Milos has put his many years of culinary expertise with wild game on paper just for Observer/Eccentric readers. This packet contains information on care of animals and small game after the hunt, dressing and great recipes from Chef Milos himself. To receive this valuable information from one of the area's most notable chefs, please enclose a self-addressed and stamped business sized envelope to: Metro Media Assoc. Inc.; 2360 Klingensmith Road; Bloomfield Hills, MI 48302.

Field dressing your deer

How to preserve taste, quality of venison

By Bill Parker
staff writer

Let's face it, field dressing your deer is the least favorite aspect of the hunt. But it can also be the most important part of the hunt in terms of the taste and quality of the venison. If you do a half-hearted job and "leave the rest for the processor", you will undoubtedly tarnish and/or loose a bundle of meat.

Once the animal is dead and the proper license attached, the first thing to do is field-dress the carcass. If you've never performed the task, get someone who has to show you the proper technique. If you just go in hacking away you'll likely do more damage than good. There are also video's out on the market that take a hunter through the entire process step by step.

It's wise to throw a pair of rubber or plastic gloves in with your hunting gear so you have something to wear while you dress the animal. The gloves not only make cleaning up a little easier, but they are also a good precautionary measure to protect yourself against contacting Lyme disease.

Lyme disease is transmitted to the human blood stream through the bite of a deer tick. It is not known if the disease can be transmitted through contact with deer blood alone, but it's better to be safe now than sorry later.

THE BIGGEST THING to remember is to get everything out of the carcass.

"A lot of people don't completely field-dress their deer," said Susan Reed, of Reed's Deer Processing in Rochester. "They don't get everything out and that's what you have to do. Sometimes people don't split the pelvic bone and remove the bladder and that's something you should do right from the get go."

Hunters often hang their deer for too long. Many people believe a deer should hang for a several days so the blood will drain and the meat won't taste wild.

"It's good to hang the deer for a little while to let the blood run out, but not for two or three days," said Jack Smith, who has been processing deer at the Regal Market in Westland for 20 years. "If you hang a deer in warm weather it will spoil, and if you hang it in cold weather it will freeze. Most of the blood will drain out in about a half-hour. After that, hanging the meat really doesn't do anything to it.

It pays to take a little time and patience when you dress and transport your deer so your venison will be top quality when it finally gets to the table.

"You don't have any control over the temperature, either," added Smith. "It may drop down to 32-degrees at night then jump up to 60-degrees during the day. That's not good for the meat."

IF YOU CAN'T get your deer to a processor for a day or two, hunters should be sure to keep the carcass of the animal cool and free from flys. Leave the hide on and hang the animal in a cool, shady area. If you have one, cover the carcass with a game bag, and keep it out of the sun.

"If the temperature gets up to 40-degrees, I'd say that's a marginal temperature," said Rick French, the new owner of Antlers and Anchors (formerly the American Fishing Center) in Pontiac. French is a taxidermist and will also be processing venison this fall. "If it stays below 40 for a few days you'll probably be OK, but if it gets up around 50 you'd better get it in to a processor.

"If it's warm, you should pack the carcass with ice and get it to a cool area as soon as possible," added French. "It probably won't go bad, but it will have a stronger taste."

Don Francis, of Butcher Boy Food Products in Warren, suggests hunters should be aware of how they transport their game to ensure top quality in their meat.

"Probably 50 percent of the people that bring deer in don't know how to load it," Francis said. "If you strap a deer to your hood the heat from the engine will taint the meat on the bottom side of the deer. Other people strap the deer down with the body cavity facing the front of the car. When they drive down the road they get dirt and bugs all through the inside of the carcass. The best way to load a deer is on the back of a car with the open part facing back."

It pays to take a little time and patience when you dress and transport your deer so your venison will be top quality when it finally gets to the table.

Braised duck, venison stew — a hunter's feast

CHEF MILOS CHIELKA'S GAME SPICE BLEND

1 cup ground black pepper
¼ cup ground thyme
⅓ cup ground allspice
⅓ cup ground bay leaves
¼ cup ground juniper berries
¼ cup ground coriander

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Keep in a tightly cloxed container. This mixture can be used on all game birds and game roasts.

BRAISED DUCK

1 duck (4-5 pounds) cut into serving pieces
flour for coating
2 tablespoons oil
1 cup chicken broth
1½ cup dry white wine
1 bay leaf
2 onions, peeled and stuck with 3 cloves each
salt and pepper to taste

Coat duck pieces with flour. Heat oil in a large skillet and brown duck on all sides. Transfer duck to a casserole, add remaining ingredients, cover and bake 1½ hours at 350 degrees.

GOLDEN ROAST GOOSE

1 goose (8-10 pounds)
3 cups cooked chopped chestnuts (pe-

What wild game meat tastes like, how to cook it

● Acids tenderize large wild game meat. Deer, bear, moose and elk benefit from marinating in a vinaigrette, tomato sauce and/or Italian dressing mixture for at least 12 hours.

● Take care not to overcook venison. It has short fibers that toughen easily. Venison is best medium to medium-well done and should never be served rare or well done.

● Venison should be served hot as deer fat congeals when it cools. Use leftovers in stews or hash.

● If the ride home is long and somewhat warm, and your hanging game begins to get a "sticky" film inside, wash with a clean cloth soaked in vinegar.

● Beaver is dark, tender and tastes like roast pork.

● Muskrat tastes like turkey and is best when "corned."

Porcupines are vegetarians and will taste like the trees they eat (usually pine or aspen). Best parboiled.

● Rabbit tastes like chicken, and if not careful when skinning, flying hair from the pelt will stick to all meat. Keep a dish towel soaking in hot water to remove pelt hair.

● Racoon must be bled immediately, and is best soaked in ice water with a little baking soda overnight. The meat is dark and sweet.

● Squirrel should also be soaked in ice water for several hours, and since it's not fatty at all, should be cooked slowly with plenty of moisture.

● Dove meat is dark and flavorful and should be cooked slow with plenty of moisture because it has a tendency to be tough.

● Duck has a tendency to dry out during roasting so keep the skin on whenever cooking. Best when cooked on the rare side.

● Pheasant can be cooked like chicken and is all white meat. Baste frequently to keep from drying out during roasting.

● Wild turkeys can be treated the same as domestic birds.

cans can be used)
2 apples, cored, peeled and sliced
1 onion, chopped
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon ground sage
½ teaspoon salt and pepper
1 cup soft breadcrumbs
½ cup Cognac or brandy

Rinse and dry goose. Sprinkle cavity and skin with salt and pepper. Saute onion in butter until tender. Combine with remaining ingredients and moisten with Cognax. Stuff goose loosely. Place breast side up on a rack in a roasting pan. Roast for 1 hour at 400 degrees. Spoon or siphon off fat every twently minutes during roasting. It is not necessary to baste the bird. Reduce the oven temperature to 300 degrees and continue cooking 'til goose registers 180 degrees on a meat thermometer. (Total cooking time, about 3 hours.)

GOOSEBERRY SAUCE
(great with the goose!)

1 can (about 1 pint) whole gooseberries
½ teaspoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients in a small saucepan and heat. Puree in blender or mash and press through a sieve to remove seeds. Reheat just before serving.

CRISP FRIED RABBIT

2 rabbits, cut into serving pieces
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup milk
½ cup cornmeal
¼ teaspoon oregano
3 eggs
½ cup breadcrumbs
salt and pepper to taste
oil for frying

Place rabbit in a large saucepan, cover with water, add lemon juice and boil for 5 minutes. Drain and pay dry. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and oregano. Combine milk and egg. Dip rabbit pieces into cornmeal, then the egg wash, then into the seasoned breadcrumbs. Heat oil in a large frypan until hot. Add breaded rabbit pieces and brown on all sides. Cook until juices run clear, about 10-12 minutes. Drain and enjoy.

VENISON WITH BOURBON

½ cup bourbon
4 pounds venison steaks, chops or sliced roasts
1 carrot thin sliced
1 onion, sliced thin
6 whole peppercorns
6 whole cloves
1-10 oz. jar red currant jelly
salt and pepper to taste

Wash and pay dry venison. Place in a large non-metallic bowl and cover with bourbon, vegetables and seasonings, but not the jelly. Allow to marinate for at least 3 hours (longer or overnight, if possible). When ready to cook, remove meat and place in a covered roasting pan with the vegetables. Roast the venison for 2½ hours at 350 degrees. Brush with a sauce made from the marinade and the jelly mixed together. Internal venison temperature should read 170 degrees.

VENISON STEW

4 pounds venison chuck, cut into cubes
¼ cup butter
6 onions, chopped
1-10 oz. can beef consomme
½ cup water or dry red wine
1 pound tomatoes, quartered
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons Chef Milos' Game spice
1 pound pearl onions
1 pound carrots, sliced
1 pound mushrooms, sliced

Dredge meat lightly with flour. Melt butter in a large dutch oven or covered heavy casserole and add meat in batches with the onion and cook until brown. Reduce heat and mix in consomme, water, tomatoes, salt and seasonings. Cover and simmer 1½ hours. Add onions, carrots and mushrooms and cover and continue simmering for an additional 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Perk up simple desserts for special events

AP —Believe me, there are easy ways to perk up cookies, cupcakes, cakes, or desserts for special events such as birthdays and school or office parties. Some of these ideas may sound extravagant, but they're simple enough that even the kids can help. With a few ingredients from your kitchen cupboard, you can put them together in a matter of minutes.

Toasted Nuts or Coconut: jazz up all types of desserts. Sprinkle toasted nuts or coconut evenly over the top or in a pattern. Or, dress up frosted cakes or tortes by lightly patting nuts or coconut onto the sides.

To toast nuts or coconut, spread them in a thin layer in a shallow baking pan and bake in a 350-degree F oven for 5 to 10 minutes or until golden brown, stirring once or twice. Watch carefully so they don't over-brown. And, while you're at it, toast some extra to freeze for another time.

Gumdrop Decorations: add a spark of color to cakes, fruitcakes and breads. You can use them whole, flattened and cut into shapes such as stars, or rolled to form three-dimensional shapes such as roses.

To make gumdrop cutouts, sprinkle sugar on a flat surface. Place the slightly flattened gumdrops, one at a time, on the surface. Using a rolling pin, roll out each gumdrop, then use a knife or hors d'oeuvre or small cookie cutters to cut the shapes.

To make roses, roll the gumdrops into ovals, then cut the ovals in half crosswise. Starting at one corner, roll up a half-oval diagonally to form the rose center. Press on additional half-ovals, curving the outer edges to resemble petals. Trim the base if necessary.

Purchased Candies: from chocolate-flavored sprinkles to rainbow-colored edible glitter, give cookies a festive look. Sprinkle candies onto the dough so they'll bake right on. Or, frost a batch of cookies or cupcakes and arrange the candies on top.

You can purchase decorative candies, colored sugars and colored marzipan at most supermarkets. For edible glitter and a unique selection of decorative candies, check mail-order catalogs or stores that carry cake decorating supplies.

Powdered Sugar: sprinkled over the tops of cakes or cookies, creates a simple or an elegant-looking garnish, depending on the technique you use.

To sift powdered sugar, spoon the powdered sugar into a sifter and sift it directly onto the cake or cookies.

For a more formal pattern, place a paper doily or a small craft stencil on top of the cake. Lightly sift the powdered sugar over top, then carefully remove the doily or stencil.

Chowder blends pasta, seafood

Seafood Pasta Chowder blends tiny pasta bow ties in a rich creamy broth with tender seafood and fresh mushrooms.

Seafood Pasta Chowder was one of seven new pasta dishes featured at The Olive Garden Restaurant during their tour of Italy. 10.

SEAFOOD PASTA CHOWDER
(serves 6)

6 oz. miniature pasta bow-ties or shells, precooked
3 oz. butter or margarine
8 oz. fresh mushrooms, sliced, ⅛ inch
Two 1 oz. packets Knorr Newburg Sauce Mix
3 cups milk
1½ cups water
¼ cup dry white wine
¼ cup green onions, sliced, ⅛ inch
3 oz. crabmeat, frozen or canned parsley for garnish

Cook pasta according to directions. Drain and rinse lightly with cold water to prevent sticking together and set aside.

Sort crabmeat to remove any shell pieces remaining.

Melt butter or margarine in a 3-quart non-aluminum heavy saucepan.

Add mushrooms and saute 3 minutes. Add sauce mix and stir well. Add milk, water and wine. Stir well with a wire whip over moderate heat until mixture comes to a boil. Reduce the heat and simmer 5-8 minutes stirring constantly. Add green onions, precooked pasta and crabmeat and stir to combine. Sprinkle with parsley. Serve immediately.

Discover the pleasures of port

focus on wine
Eleanor and Ray Heald

Port is big, round, full-bodied, sweet and wonderful. A glass of port accompanying dessert or served as the dessert course is an exceptional treat.

Vintage port is the greatest among ports, gets a great deal of hype, represents just 2 percent of the total annual production and is expensive. Not to worry, it is possible to enjoy good port on a regular basis, rather than just special occasions, once you learn that not all port is vintage and expensive.

Port is divided into two categories: wood port and vintage port. The former is aged in wood and the latter in the bottle. Vintage ports are produced only in excellent years, blessed with perfect weather conditions. These conditions occur an average of three times each decade.

THE DECISION to "declare" a vintage is made by the shipper with the approval of the Instituto do Vinho do Porto. Vintage port is always blended from wines of the best vineyards, grown in a single year of recognized quality, and has exceptional aroma and taste characteristics.

Vintage port ages 2 to 2.5 years in cask; the remainder of its life is spent slowly aging in a black-glass bottle for at least 10 and frequently up to 30 years. Vintage port throws a heavy crust in the bottle and therefore must be set upright for 24 hours and carefully decanted before serving.

MOST CONSUMERS decide to buy port on Friday and open the bottle Saturday. This is exactly why it is important to learn something about wood ports, which are ready to drink when bought. There are no concerns about vintage, age, decanting or the like, and the price is much more reasonable.

Wood ports are divided by type into ruby, tawny (produced from red grapes), and white. Fermentation is halted by addition of brandy, yielding a sweet wine with 19 to 20 percent alcohol. Young red port is a deep-purple color. It gradually turns ruby (red), then takes on brown hues and eventually becomes tawny (brown or dark amber). Port gains flavors and diminishes in body and color as it ages. It throws a crust in the cask rather than the bottle.

Tawny ports are lighter, more delicate and aromatic, and more expensive than ruby ports due to extended aging in cask. This aging produces a tawny color and a woody, nutty flavor. Better tawny ports have an average age stated on the label. The older wines develop a paler color, lighter body, and carmelized character that is particularly attractive.

VINTAGE-CHARACTER ports are fuller-bodied, mellow rubies, blended from wines of better-than-average years. They have some of the characteristics of vintage ports but have been aged in wood, rather than in the bottle, for four to five years. The increased quality of vintage character ports is dependent on the vineyard and year, rather than on age.

The difficulty for the consumer is identifying these wines on the merchant's shelf. Each shipper uses a "signature" name because this type of port is not strictly defined as is vintage port.

Late-bottled vintage ports are produced from a single, quality harvest, and must exhibit standards established by the IVP. They are asked in cask four to six years and thus have an aged quality compared to vintage ports because they mature faster in cask than in the bottle. These wines are much easier to identify because the label must say Late Bottled Vintage and include both the vintage year and the bottling date.

An opened bottle of port maintains its taste characteristics perfectly for up to a month.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

The following are quality examples and offer a good introduction to the various types of port.

Taylor, Fladgate First Estate Port ($15) is a fruity ruby style crafted from traditional port grapes. With aroma of cherry, red plums and currants followed by jammy flavors, it will enhance any fresh fruit dessert accompanied by blue-veined cheeses, particularly stilton.

Delaforce "His Eminince's Choice" ($17) is a mature tawny port blended from aged reserve ports ranging six to 30 years old. The dried fruit and nutty character in both the aroma and flavor match it perfectly to a fruit compote dessert.

Quinta Do Noval's Noval Porto LB ($17) showcases classic vintage character with its rich blackberry and dark red fruit aromas. It is full bodied, generous, smooth, and rich with expressive port character in the finish.

Taylor, Fladgate Late Bottled Vintage Port 1985 ($18.50) is full, rich, viscous and loaded with cherry-berry fruit. A remarkable depth of flavors lasts through the substantial finish. This is dessert!

Claudia Parker of Livonia, who works in our composing department, has a wonderful recipe for pumpkin pie.

"It's my grandmother's recipe," she said. "She died in 1935, and it's a family favorite. People who hate pumpkin pie like this. It's more like custard pudding."

GRANDMA'S PUMPKIN PIE

Pumpkin

Select one pumpkin, any size. Clean out inside well, cut into one inch wide wedges, peel off skin. Slice into thin slices (⅛ to ¼"), add water to cover bottom of pan, place sliced pumpkin in pan and cook until very soft. Cool, drain slightly, and freeze in 2 cup batches. Use this pumpkin for any pumpkin recipe (To make smoother, blend in blender for about 45 seconds before using). Pie

One single pie crust unbaked (9-10 inch pie pan)

Filling
2 cups pumpkin
3 tablespoons corn starch
2 eggs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon ginger

Put all ingredients into blender. Blend until well mixed, about 30 to 45 seconds, (or mix with electric blender until well mixed.) Pour pumpkin mixture into pie crust and put into an oven set at 350 degree. Bake for about 1 hour, or until knife inserted into center comes out clean.

You may want to dampen the edges of the pie crust with milk to prevent oven-browning.

Pampered Chef, an Illinois-based company that sells kitchen and food preparation items is donating $1 to Second Harvest, a national nonprofit food bank network, for every sales presentation between now and Dec. 31. Tip of the week, compliments of Betty Crocker. Sage is a key herb in many Thanksgiving dressing recipes. It's a flavor bonus for dishes with fish, meats, poultry and pork as well.

Show gets skiers ready for sport in snow time

Alpine, Blue Sky, Boyne, Grand Traverse, Jackson Hole, Killington. If you don't know the subject of this column, you have never zoomed down a ski slope humming "she'll be coming around the mountain when she comes . . ."

Those are just a few of the names on the list of exhibitors in the 1991 Detroit Ski Show, to be Nov. 15 to 17 at the Ladbroke DRC at I-96 and Middlebelt in Livonia.

Mount Brighton, Mount Holly, Pine Knob, Nubs Nob, Searchmont, Shanty Creek-Schuss, Sugar Loaf. You get the picture.

I've just come home from the Caribbean, and I still have sand between my toes, so I am having a little trouble getting use to this idea of SNOW.

Excuse me. The telephone is ringing. Barry Godwin of Shant Creek-Schuss Mountain. Just called to tell me that they opened their ski slopes this past weekend, the earliest they have ever opened them in history.

"We had 8 to 10 inches of natural snow, and we had started making snow a week before, so we opened early," he crowed. Don't tell me he didn't crow, I know an exultant voice when I hear one.

For those of you, like Lou Oles, who are panting to get on the slopes, the Detroit Ski Show is for you. Lou likes to start early, so he goes east to ski for Thanksgiving, skis in Michigan every weekend and goes west whenever he can. Now that's dedication.

The ski show will give him, and you, access to ski resorts and facilities from across the country — American Ski Association, Boyne Country, Colorado Ski Country, National Ski Association, Ski Banff/Lake Louise, Ski New England, Ski Utah, Wilderness Lodging.

It will showcase airlines like American Airlines and Midway, tour operators like Colorado Ski Tours, Great Expectations, Linx Ski Tours.

The highlights will be at the Freestyle Sports Ski Deck and Trampoline Show, hosted by former freestyle Olympic team member Bruce Bolesky and including performances by Olympic and world class skiers Chris Seeman, Ellen Breen and Kris Fedderson.

Hours are 6-11 p.m. Friday, noon to 10 p.m Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $6 for adults. Check coupons offering $1 off in newspaper ads.

I assume that all you skiers will be there, and that you will do a little homework for our Winter Page, coming up Nov. 25. We're going to let you write this page, so send me a postcard or a one-page letter telling me where you like to ski and why.

Where do you ski in Michigan? Do you ever go to Canada or New England? When you go west, what's your favorite slope? Do you have tips that will help your favorite skiers save money?

Send your tips immediately, and we will continue to run them through the rest of the year.

It's better in Bahamas with natives

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

The photograph shows Annis and Emma on the beach in Eleuthera, Bahamas, but it only tells part of the story of my day with the People-to-People Program in the village of Savannah Sound.

It doesn't show the children in their white dresses waiting for me at the African Methodist Episcopal (AME) Church, the crawfish served in the small blue painted house or the moment when I was introduced to the oldest woman in town.

I was the first traveler hosted by the people of Savannah Sound, but more than 1,400 Bahamians have hosted visitors for a day or an evening since the People-to-People program started 12 years ago in Nassau and Grand Bahama Island. It has only recently spread to the family islands, as the other Bahamian islands are called.

A single road, which locals call The Street, runs the 110-mile length of the family island of Eleuthera; the island is less than one mile wide so the road gives alternating views of the Atlantic Ocean on one side and the Caribbean Sea on the other. The people of Savannah Sound live on both beaches.

My hosts Annis Bullard and Emma Sands picked me up in Governor's Harbor, in the center of the island, in time for the morning service at the Bethel AME Church. The last Sunday of every month is Youth Day, so a cluster of young people with scrubbed black faces waited outside the church door: young girls with beaded hair and white frilly dresses, older girls in green, boys in white Sunday shirts.

About 30 parishioners rose in the small church when the youth came clapping and singing up the red carpeted aisle to the raised platform that held the altar and the choir loft. They rocked from side to side singing "He has done great things for me!"

Emma's daughter Mary started the service, although three dignitaries sat behind the altar: the Rev. Daniel Scott, presiding elder from Nassau; Commissioner Harrison Thompson, chief government officer of central Eleuthera; and the Rev. Alexander Bethel.

You don't need an organ when senior choirmaster Vernal Gibson is in church. When Mary announced the hymn, Vernal's voice rose from the pew behind me "I am so glad that our father in heaven . . . " Annis and Emma picked it up in resounding voices and the rest followed.

I turned my head and saw several tiny children in pink Sunday dresses asleep on the second pew or watching the service while the fans blew the wildflowers piled in front of the altar.

"Hymn 461." Vernal's voice began. The congregation rose and moved, singing, from one pew to another, shaking hands and hugging in the spirit of the Lord.

Thompson's sermon raised the roof and set the congregation rocking and stamping and shouting. The prodigal son has never had such a storyteller.

"I HAVE COME TO TELL YOU . . . "

"Yes!" "Yes!"

"I HAVE COME TO TELL YOU ABOUT GOING HOME TO THE FATHER . . . "

"Amen!" "Amen!"

When the service ended, Scott and I were invited back to Annis' house for lunch. Only two places were set at the table. While we ate crawfish and grouper and macaroni and rice and other tasty island foods, Annis and Emma sat a few feet away in the living room. I protested, uncomfortable, but the two women just smiled.

"These two ladies are used to serving others," Scott said. "They are both chefs at the Windermere Club. Emma served Prince Charles before he was married."

After lunch we drove past the houses in the Windermere Club where the British royal family stays in Eleuthera. Emma and Annis told stories about Prince Charles and Princess Di. They had the same pride in their voices when they stopped beside the road to introduce me to Lillian Culmer, the oldest lady in Savannah Sound.

Is People-to-People always like this? I have heard stories about families sharing dinner in Nassau and other stories about guests who sat alone while their hosts cooked behind closed doors in the kitchen. I highly recommend that you try it, however. It is a great way to experience the world.

You can take part in the People-to-People Program by filling out a questionnaire at your hotel or by contacting the Bahamas Tourist Office in the Bahamas, or telephone the midwest Bahamas Tourist Office toll-free (800) 422 4262 for information.

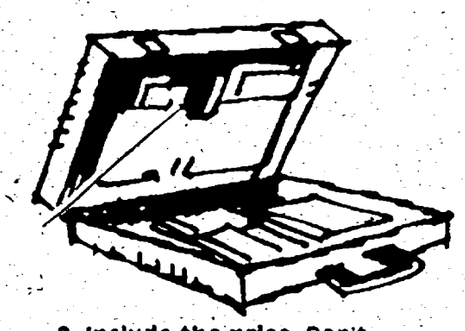
WRITE IT AND REAP!

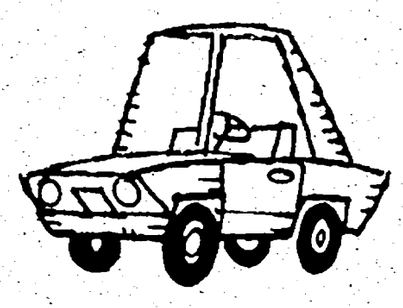
Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

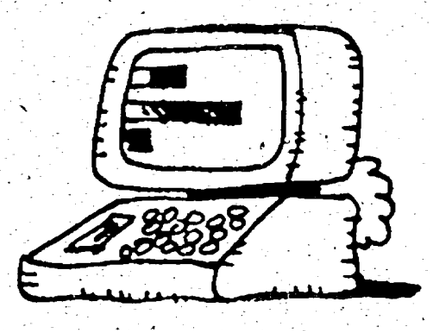


2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.



4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!



5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

SmartCARS

It used to be that buying a car meant choosing between New Car Sticker Shock with instant depreciation or Used Car mystery with high mileage and suspect condition. Now there's an alternative. Smart Cars available only at Bruce Campbell Dodge, are extremely low mileage vehicles. These previously leased buy backs have never been titled to an individual. They're the most popular vehicles available and come with a majority of the manufacturer's warranty. And most important, with the Smart Car, the initial new vehicle depreciation has been eliminated making the purchase price far less than the identical vehicle.
