School budget to erase deficit

After several years of financial crises, the Wayne-Westland School Board adopted a budget last week which not only eliminated a projected deficit but included a modest surplus.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A newly approved $92.4 million Wayne-Westland School Board budget is expected to bring the district out of deficit spending in the wake of a 3-mill tax that voters supported last Monday.

Rather than a $6.4 million deficit that had been earlier projected, the district could end the next fiscal year on June 30, 1996, with a $448,696 surplus, according to a financial analysis by Patricia Brand, assistant superintendent for business.

The rosier outlook is only partly due to the two-year, 3-mill tax that will generate $3.3 million a year. Several other money-saving measures also will help to erase the $6.4 million deficit:

- Four elementaries — Stottlemyer, Titus, Monroe and Fischer — are being closed.
- An early retirement bonus of $50,000 was accepted by 181 teachers and administrators, who will be replaced by new educators much lower on the salary ladder.
- Forty-three teaching positions have been eliminated. Moreover, teachers ratified a contract with a two-year pay freeze.

Although the district will end the current fiscal year on June 30 with a $2 million deficit, the cost-cutting

This grandmother is really soaring

BY DARRELL CLEM

Peggy Chora felt a strong gust of wind as she began plummeting 120 mph toward the earth.

And to think that this 62-year-old Westland grandmother had gone to the Parahawk Skydiving Center in Marine City that day only to watch her daughter, Kathy Grix, make her 600th jump.

"It's one of the best things I've ever done in my life, and I wasn't scared," Chora said. "I am so happy that I did it."

Strapped to veteran skydiver Bob Lewis, Chora jumped 11,000 feet from a Cessna 180.

"I had no sense of falling at all, especially not that fast," she said.

The wind seemed to be of hurricane force until Lewis pulled a rip cord and the parachute opened.

"Instantly it got so quiet," Chora, a retired travel agent, said. "Then it was like playing in the sky. When we hit the ground, it was like landing on marshmallows."

Gang 'wars': gunfire, attempted murder

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A youth gang confrontation that erupted into gunfire, injuring a 17-year-old Westland boy's finger, has left two Westland teens facing attempted murder charges, police said.

Michael Maggio, 15, and Ronny Willis, 17, were arraigned Wednesday in Westland 18th District Court on charges of assault with intent to murder and felony firearms, Westland police Sgt. Scott Fetner said.

Maggio is being treated as an adult, Fetner said. Both teens remain jailed in lieu of a $100,000 cash bond.

The charges stem from an incident that occurred while the injured victim and a friend, both 17, were riding in a car on Christine, south of Bayview, at 4:08 p.m. June 12, Fetner said. The two passed by two other youths, who were walking on the street, and "gang signs were flashed" between the youths, he said.

The dispute continued as the youths in the car turned onto Nancy and eventually got out of the car, police said.

The confrontation escalated when one youth pulled a .25-caliber automatic pistol and handed it to the other. Maggio is accused of firing four to six rounds at the youths who had gotten out of the car, Fetner said.

One victim suffered an injury when the pinky finger of his left hand was shot, Fetner said.

Amolsch murder charges may be dropped

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Murder charges could be dismissed against a 38-year-old man accused in the stabbing and strangling death of his girlfriend at her Westland Meadows mobile home.

Westland police have learned that the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office is planning a hearing to determine whether first-degree murder charges should be dropped against Ricky Alan Amolsch.

A radio report had indicated that the charges already have been dropped, but Westland police Sgt. Terry Donohue said Friday that a decision won't be made until a hearing is conducted.

A date for the hearing hasn't yet been set, Donohue said.

"We've asked for more time," he said. "We want to take a look at it."

A radio report has indicated that another suspect is being investigated for the death of Jane Fray, who was found on the morning of Aug. 23 in the blood-spattered bedroom of her Westland Meadows mobile home on the northeast corner of Van Born and Merriman.

Fray had been stabbed 22 times, strangled, bashed on the head and bitten on her left temple.

A dental expert testified during a hearing in September that the bite mark matched Amolsch's teeth.

Lisa Lindsey, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, could not be reached for comment on why the charges against Amolsch could be dismissed.

Amolsch is free on bond. He had been jailed, and bond had been denied, since the killing, but a Detroit Recorder's Court judge earlier this month set a $200,000/10 percent bond, and Amolsch's family posted the $20,000.

measures and the 3-mill tax increase have helped officials to plan for a balanced budget next year.

Moreover, the tax will result in the restoration of busing for middle and senior high students and the elimination of student pay-to-play fees for extracurricular activities.

According to Brand's financial analysis, projected revenues for 1995-96 are $92.4 million while expenditures are expected to be $89.9 million. Despite the $2.5 million difference, $2 million will be absorbed by this year's deficit, the new figures show.

A summary of expenditures shows this breakdown of the $89,971,277 budget:

- Classroom instruction will cost $53,887,758.
- Classroom support, such as libraries and counselors, will amount to $8,583,523.
- Expenses for principals will total $5,099,729.
- Building maintenance will cost $10,815,029.
- Transportation will cost $3,555,111.
- General administration expenses will total $5,006,759.
- Other expenses, such as insurance, food service and athletics, will amount to $3,023,368.

As always with school budgets, there are some potential problems that could change the improved scenario.

The board has set aside $1.5 million for its portion of a shortfall in county special education programs. If that amount increases, Brand noted in a memo to the board, "we will have a problem."

Also, the budget is based on a 15,000-student enrollment, but the district could stand to lose $5,559 per student in state aid if the enrollment comes in lower.

A lawsuit over prepaid teacher retirement also "could have a detrimental effect" on the district. If the district has to pick up the tab rather than the state, each 1 percent increase in cost would amount to $540,000.

"We currently do not know what and when any resolution may be reached," Brand said in her memo.

Maggio and Willis were arrested a short time later when they were found hiding under a tree in a nearby neighborhood, police said.

The defendants are scheduled Thursday for a preliminary hearing in Westland District Court to determine, whether they should stand trial on the charges.

The attempted murder charges are punishable by up to life in prison upon conviction. The felony firearms charge carries a mandatory two-year term.

the same plane and, at one point, was nearly close enough to touch her mother. Another skydiver, Paul "Slugger" Mykes of Canton Township, filmed Chora's June 4 jump as he descended.

"I must have watched the video 50 times the next day," Chora said, sitting with her husband George, a 63-year-old retired schoolteacher, in their home on Chirrewa. "I was pulling strangers off the sidewalk and showing them my video. I still get goose pimples when I watch it."

Chora's skydive came 17 years after her husband jumped with their daughter, who was then making her 100th dive.

"I was scared. I made the mistake of looking down before I jumped," he said. "But after I did it, I went out the next day and bought a parachute."

He had jumped before during a stint in the Air Force, but it had been 26 years. His last skydive was in 1987, and he has jumped 120 times.

"It's just beautiful when you're up there," George Chora said. "It's so quiet. When you look down, everything seems so clean and so perfect."

Grix, who works for an advertising agency, was 18 when she made her first jump in 1977. Since then, she has jumped from a 727 jet, a hot air balloon, a helicopter, among other aircraft, and she has landed at such places as the Garden City Festival and the International Freedom Festival.

Grix has jumped in groups as large as 48 people, and her highest dive, which required the use of oxygen, was from 22,000 feet. Her 13-year-old daughter, Kim, already wants to dive.

It was Grix who coaxed her mother into jumping.

"Before I knew it we had her up in an airplane," she said. "I was surprised. I didn't think she would do it. But she did very well."

"I am not a brave person," Peggy Chora said. "I am not athletic."

After the free-falling stopped and Chora's descent slowed, her skydiving partner slightly loosened the straps that bound them together.

"I felt like I might slip and fall down," Chora said.

"I am so thrilled that I did this," she said. "I never ever thought I'd say this, but I think I would like to do it again."

Would she do it alone?

"I would never ever go by myself," Chora said. "I would be scared to death."

Tinkham Center band to make radio debut

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

It might seem ironic that a band with a name like Rif Raf would extol the virtues of staying in school and staying away from drugs.

But that's the message of a six-member band, formed at the alternative education Tinkham Center in Westland, that will soon make its radio debut on WDTR-FM (90.9).

"We wanted to show that we could take something negative and turn it into something positive," said 32-year-old Wendell Massey, a student monitor who works as a lyricist, co-producer, vocalist and keyboardist in Rif Raf.

With a rap tune appropriately titled "Alternative Ed," the group is hoping to score a hit. Band members spent $1,600 of their own money to record the cassette track at Talent Live Studios in Canton Township, and a 10-song CD is in the works.

Lead rapper Skoniee, a 20-year-old adult education student, isn't shy about his aspirations.

"I want to get paid," he said. "Why be shy about it?"

If diversity breeds success, then this band is headed for the top of the charts. This multiracial group's ages range from 16 to 53.

Some members, like Massey, use their real names. Others, like Skoniee, prefer a stage name.

Other members include rapper Jill "Lady J" Cronk, 16, a Tinkham Center student; rapper Luscious Red, 18, an adult education student; executive producer/art designer Jane Sadley, 53, a student monitor; and co-producer/lyricist/drummer Brad Stottlemyer, 41, a Tinkham Center custodian.

"We each have different talents, and it all just seems to fit together," Sadley said. "It's an interesting mix of personalities and ages in the group."

With "Alternative Ed" marking the band's first release, the group is hard at work on other tunes for a full-length CD that will be titled "Heal the Madness." They hope to finish it this year.

Much of the music for their four-minute, copyrighted, debut tune came from synthesizers at Talent Live Studios. The band is available for commercial jingles.

Sadley views the group not only as a potentially lucrative venture, but, just as importantly, as a way to help once-troubled youths stay out of trouble and strive for a better life.

"If adults don't try to work with kids, then there's no hope," she said.

The adult band members have launched Alternative Class Productions Inc. If the group succeeds, the members want to start an after-school recreation center where youths could go to stay off the streets and out of trouble.

For now, though, the band's big push is to try to make a hit out of "Alternative Ed."

"This is our big start," Massey said.

One hurdle to recording, however, is a lack of money. Anyone interested in donating may call 458-0256.

The song and a band interview will air on WDTR-FM (90.9) on June 20 and 27 at 8:30 a.m.; on June 22 and 29 at 1:45 p.m.; and June 23 and 30 at 4:30 p.m.

A program also is in the works with radio personality Mr. Positive on WCAR-AM in Garden City. The show will air on a Saturday between 9-10 p.m., but a specific date isn't yet known.

Three of the cutest little baby faces

Jacob, Brighton

Morgan Elizabeth, Saline

Katie Marie, Canton

plus 387 more born last month at St. Joe's

Why do so many babies get their start in life at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor? Maybe it's the choice of birthing options we give to moms and dads. Not too many other hospitals offer both LDR and LDRP suites. Maybe it's the availability of doctors in Plymouth, Canton, Brighton, Saline and the Ann Arbor area. Maybe it's the family-focused nursing care provided day in and day out. Or the classes to help make even first-time parents feel like experts. Maybe it's the options for pain relief, including labor epidurals and Jacuzzi bath tubs.

If you're considering a new addition, come see for yourself what St. Joe's has to offer. Call to receive an information packet, to schedule a tour or for a referral to a doctor near you.

Sen. Geake tackles judges, gender bias in Friend of Court bills

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State Sen. Robert Geake and bipartisan colleagues have two major battles to fight in their effort to reform Friend of the Court, the office which advises judges in divorce proceedings.

First, the senators want to take authority over FOC away from circuit judges, where it has been since 1919, and give it to general county government.

"That's our most unpopular recommendation," Geake, R-Northville, admitted in a June 14 news conference in Lansing. "The public wants a forum where they can complain and be heard. But the judges don't want to lose control. The Friend of the Court doesn't want change. And county commissioners don't want responsibility."

Second, they want to amend the Child Custody Act to state there is "no presumption against joint custody." Hundreds of unhappy divorced parents — particularly fathers — saw gender bias built into the system and told Geake's panel so in months of hearings across Michigan.

"I'll support any law keeping both parents in a child's life," said John Bauman, West Bloomfield resident and state secretary of the National Congress for Men and Children. "We've destroyed fatherhood in this country. The system focuses on how we can get more money out of somebody. I'm the father of this child and I'm (treated like) a visitor. A visitor!"

Bauman, who works for an area development company, has a license plate saying 'I MISS JW," a reference to his daughter.

Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, said the panel reached consensus on many changes: splitting of state aid between school districts in joint custody arrangements, making it a felony to file false charges of child abuse, changing the word "visitation" to "parenting time," abolishing the presumption against joint custody, and allowing the non-custodial parent access to the child's school and medical records.

"Friend of the Court offices are understaffed," Dingell said. "I called every day in Wayne County for three months and got a busy signal every single time. How can you deal with an agency you can't get through to?"

Airport golf course irks commission

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County commissioners angrily questioned an assistant county executive and shouted at each other Thursday regarding a golf course that Metro Airport has purchased and continued to operate without commission approval.

In the ensuing confusion, a vote to "temporarily" approve greens fees that are already being charged failed because one commissioner had left the room. A special meeting was called for 10 a.m. today to take another vote.

Airport Director Robert Braun said Friday that he was advised the course would be closed until a fee structure can be approved.

The par-three course, Tall Oaks, is on Wahrman Road just off Eureka between I-275 and the airport. Commissioner William O'Neil, D-Allen Park, characterized it as a "cow pasture par-three course."

Airport expansion

It was bought for $1.2 million late last year as part of a property-acquisition program so that a fourth parallel runway can be built. Ninety percent of the money used to buy the golf course came from the federal government. The remaining portion came from bonds the county sold. The course is expected to be closed permanently in late 1996 when construction begins on the new runway.

Since the previous owner chose not to continue running the course, airport personnel called in the Wayne County Parks Department to supervise the continued operation.

"We thought it would be a great community service to keep it in service as long as we can," said Braun.

Parks director Hurley Coleman said four to five parks employees are now running the course. The parks department is supposed to keep enough money to cover expenses and send what's left over to the airport, Braun said.

The issue reached the commission when a request was made last week to raise greens fees. Commissioners balked on several points. Commissioner Ed Boike Jr., D-Taylor, questioned Wilbourne Kelly III, an assistant county executive for airports and major county construction, about the legality of buying a business for the purpose of expanding a government enterprise, then running the business.

Purchase legal?

Kelly said it is legal "in this particular case" because golf is a recreational activity.

Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, asked Kelly if the exception would also apply to The Landing Strip, a topless bar in the vicinity of Metro Airport, "which is a recreation facility for some."

Commissioners likewise bristled at the idea that a golf course could be bought by the airport, taken over, and run by the Parks Department without commission approval of any kind. "Why is it operating as a Wayne County park if we haven't done that?" Boike said.

Commissioners particularly objected to being asked to increase greens fees that they never voted to set.

"I request that this golf course be shut down until we have a fee ordinance," said commissioner Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe. "What they're doing out at the Tall Oaks course is illegal."

Heated debate

The debate grew so heated that the usually taciturn commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and Livonia east of Middlebelt, chastised her colleagues. "We're just spinning our wheels about how we acquired (Tall Oaks)," she said. "The bottom line is it's ours. Let's just get off of the soap box and go."

Commissioners voted 13-2 to reject the fee increases, with all Observer area commissioners voting yes, but failed to muster the eight-vote minimum to approve the current fees. Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, had suggested that current fees be approved "temporarily" pending their examination in the ways and means committee.

The vote on Beard's suggestion, however, occurred while commissioner Jewel Ware, D-Detroit, was out of the room, causing a 7-7 tie. Commissioners opposed to setting the fees included Plawecki, Patterson and Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Friend of Court

The 1994 panel consisted of Geake, Dingell and David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield. Honigman, who has not attended Senate sessions for more than a week, missed the press conference, too.

Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfeld said she attended "a couple of hearings, and everything you (Geake's panel) said is true."

"It's a great step forward in the spirit of bipartisanship," added Sen. George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn.

"Most employees and judges are working conscientiously," Geake said, but hard work isn't enough in a society that is overburdened with divorces. While he praised Wayne County's Chief Circuit Judge James Rashid for making "a number of improvements," his subcommittee's report still advocated placing FOC under general county government because:

"Currently, the chief judges in many jurisdictions do not appear to be giving the FOC the attention it deserves and public access to complain to judges is very limited.

"In addition, grievances against the FOC are handled by the FOC. This makes people wonder if their grievances are getting a fair hearing since the party being complained about is the same party investigating the complaint."

Geake said the Senate panel considered, but dropped, the idea of creating a "Family Court." Meanwhile, Sen. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison, said the FOC discussion would have an impact on the Senate Judiciary Committee's discussion of reorganization of all four state lower courts into a single "trial court" and on proposals for full state funding of trial courts.

In hearings, circuit judges objected vehemently to losing control of FOC operations.

On this point, Dingell agreed with the judges and disagreed with Geake and Honigman. "FOC clearly conducts quasi-judicial activities," said Dingell. He added that bringing FOC under general county government may violate the constitutional requirement of separating executive, judicial and legislative functions.

Dingell's view, however, received a blow from Attorney General Frank Kelley. Earlier in the day, Kelley issued a formal opinion that judicial appointment of the head of FOC didn't violate the state constitution because "the friend of the court is an employee of the circuit court" who is "a public employee rather than a public officer. . .The recommendations by the FOC are not binding on the court, nor can they be used as the sole basis for the court's ultimate findings on contested issues."

Geake's panel issued its findings last August, but not until last week were bills drafted to implement them. Forty bills have 15 sponsors from both parties, he said. Among sponsors — besides Geake, Dingell, Honigman and Hart -- are Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, and Loren Bennett, R-Canton.

The subcommittee report was compiled and drafted by Bill Sullivan, a former Geake aide who now works for Bennett.

Senators will conduct hearings on the bills "later in summer," said Geake, hoping for legislative action in fall.

Other bills in the package would:

- Require FOC offices to process child support payments within two weeks.
- Require the Department of Social Services to put a system of electronic funds transfers in place by the year 2005.
- Make it a felony to conceal income or misrepresent one's income in FOC proceedings.
- Make child-support payments part of a person's credit report.
- Grant grandparents visitation rights.

The Senate bills were not numbered at press time. Refer to the August 1994 Findings and Recommendations of the Senate Family Law Committee on Friend of the Court Operations when writing to your state legislator.

Officials hope to limit county jail movie list

BY RALPH R. ECHITINAW
STAFF WRITER

Suburban Wayne County commissioners are upset because prisoners at two downtown jails have been permitted to watch videotape movies.

Although the commissioners would prefer to ban movies at the jails, a 1988 Wayne County Circuit Court order requires that recreation be provided to prisoners, including "movies, chess (and) checkers."

The next best solution, they feel, is to regulate the type of movies that prisoners are shown.

"We are hamstrung by this Circuit Court order which says we have to show movies," said commissioner Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe.

So commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, are co-sponsoring a proposed ordinance amendment by Richner that would remove violent fare from the prisoners' movie diet.

The proposed amendment says the "Jail Commissary Board shall not purchase nor rent motion pictures or videotapes which may have the effect of inducing or provoking violent or assaultive behavior, including sexually assaultive behavior."

Furthermore, no movies may be shown that "normalize the use of violence as a means of resolving interpersonal conflicts and frustration, or of settling property disputes, or by depicting homicide, assault, or sexual attack as a principal plot element . . . have a movie industry rating of R, H&R, U or X . . . depict racial conflict, racial violence, insurrection, or prison or jail disorders; or have not been pre-screened and recommended as appropriate for jail use by a three-person panel of jail security officers."

The issue arose June 1 when commissioners were asked to approve a $25,200, five-year contract with Films Inc. of Chicago for lease of videotape movies to show prisoners.

Although the county is reimbursed for the cost of the tapes by the prisoners, whose purchase of candy, gum and magazines finance the mass movie rental, commissioners remain upset.

"That money should be going back to the victims or to the communities in which the crime was committed," said commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and Livonia east of Middlebelt.

Plawecki, McCotter and Patterson were among the six commissioners who voted against the lease deal with Films Inc. June 1.

"I don't think sitting on your fanny watching videos is a form of recreation we should support," Plawecki said.

Commission Vice Chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, voted in favor of the movies.

Beard said that the movies probably save the county money by keeping prisoners in a "relatively calm demeanor.

"It makes a big difference in the behavior of the inmates and the staff's ability to run a jail without a lot of fighting and anger."

Among the movies prisoners have been shown in the last five years that would be banned under the ordinance amendment are "Lethal Weapon III," "Commando," "Sliver," "RoboCop III," "True Romance," "The Getaway," "Miami Blues" and "Serial Mom."

LINDA BACHRACK

All hail the Queen Victoriana rules!

In case you forgot to circle May 24 on your calendar this year, it marked the birthdate of Queen Victoria, 176 years ago. The day was celebrated in grand style at Antiques by Pamela in Rochester, where owner Pamela Krampf also used the occasion to show off her shop's elegant new digs at 319 Main Street.

England's long reigning Queen Victoria, 1837-1901, is the inspiration for many of the items offered in Krampf's shop, including jewelry, buttons, beaded bags, furniture, mirrors, silver, china, glassware and period clothing. Step into this decidedly European montage of lace-framed windows, polished silver and antique columns entwined with old roses, and you may leave with an English accent.

Really respectable

Great great-Aunt Ida's bejewled Victorian watch and watch slide and a $15 Victorian rocking chair were enough to spark Krampf's lifelong passion for antiques and fine jewelry. She took her antique business "on the road" for 16 years before opening her own shop last year. In her study of Queen Victoria's life and reign, she discovered that many facets of that historical era can be equated with life today.

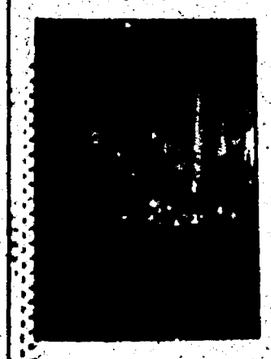
"Victorian calling cards, for example, are forerunners of today's business cards. Their meaning and use in proper social etiquette of the 19th century provide a glance into another place in time," Krampf displays albums of such Victorian paper ephemera, a charming slice of life for beginning collectors.

Nada Grubor works in downtown Rochester and was among the birthday party attendees who ogled Krampf's private collection of Victorians, including historic documents signed by the Queen, medallions, lithographs and priceless memorabilia. Of particular interest is an envelope mailed to the Duke of Windsor on mourning stationery with the Queen's own black seal. It is a free-franked piece, mailed before Victoria adopted penny postage.

"I love the etiquette of the Victorian era," commented Grubor. "It came from a true appreciation of beauty and respect for relationships. I wish we could get some of that back today."

Grubor smiled as she admired some of the niceties of the era. Silver hankie holders, for example, were worn on a woman's baby finger, she practiced a very formal hankie etiquette. "The niceties brought out subtleties in relationships. They were the ultimate flirtations," Grubor said.

Vote for Vicky



Victoriana has become increasingly popular for collectors. If you'd like to start a collection, consider some of the following ideas from Krampf and Sandra McElroy, proprietor of Crimson Rose Antiques, 32744 Franklin Road in Franklin.

Pefume bottles are, ideal collectibles that can be beautifully displayed. "I keep mine on a perfume tray on my dresser," said Cynthia Perry of West Bloomfield. Look for cut glass, etched glass and silver.

Other fun finds from the Age of Innocence include hat pins, garnet jewelry, watch fobs, cameos, Flow Blue china, cloth bags with elaborate silver frames, sugar tongs and picture frames embedded with gemstones. "The Victorians had specific utensils for every single task," said Perry. Adds Krampf, "From tussy mussies to gloves, to lace fans and handkerchiefs and cherubim, collecting Victoriana snowballs. It becomes a passion that never ends."

Somerset North leases come together

Shrouded in mystery, and still a year away from any grand opening, the 110 leases available at the new Somerset North are being signed one by one. Look for a few familiar faces among the retail line-up.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

The leasing of Somerset North in Troy is moving along with several Birmingham shops, including Banana Republic, Victoria's Secret, The Polo Shop, The Limited, Structure, and The Gap rumored to be among the retailers set to join anchors Nordstrom's and Hudson's next fall.

These names confirm the fears of some in Birmingham who worry that Somerset North will attract the national retailers doing business in their city, creating stinging vacancies along the town's main streets.

But the picture isn't as bleak as it appears, according to Gail Gotthelf, director of Birmingham's Principal Shopping district. "Most of these retailers plan to keep their store in Birmingham and open at Somerset North as well," she said.

"After all, we're looking at two different market segments. People who shop in downtown Birmingham come here for many reasons. We have the outdoor ambiance, cultural activities, and diversified dining opportunities that a mall can't provide."

Rebecca Maccardini, director of operations at Forbes-Cohen, owner/managers of the Somerset complex, refused to either confirm or deny the names on the leases signed for Somerset North.

However, through spokeswoman Sally Victor, she said that 75-percent of the retail space between Hudson's and Nordstrom's "has been committed." Victor said there is space for about 110 stores in three levels of the shopping center currently under construction at Big Beaver and Coolidge, across the street from the Somerset Collection.

Maccardini recently announced an opening date for the new mall — Aug. 16, 1996. This was moved up from a projected October grand opening. She also described Somerset North's food court, "The Peacock Cafe." It will feature 10 "distinctive eateries" and cappuccino bars.

Mall officials have said that Somerset North will have retailers with "bridge or better" price points, not quite as high as those across the street at the Somerset Collection.

Pat Schmidt manager of the newly-expanded Victoria's Secret store in the Oakland Mall in Troy, said, "I've heard that all divisions of The Limited will be represented at Somerset North."

If true, look for The Limited, Victoria's Secret, Structure, The Limited Express, Companie International, Abercrombie and Fitch, Limited Too, Henri Bendel, Mast, Bath & Body Works, Classique, Lane Bryant and Lerner New York — all divisions of The Limited, based in Columbus, Ohio.

A manager of the Banana Republic store on Pierce in Birmingham, who identified herself only as Bernie Z, confirmed a Banana Republic location at Somerset North. (Banana Republic is a division of The Gap which also owns Old Navy.)

"The plan I've heard about is keeping our Birmingham location and still opening a store in the new Somerset," she said.

Jill Sosnowski, manager of the Gap store on Woodward and Maple, said the company plans to keep the Gap store in Birmingham, but also open at Somerset North. The Gap at Maple and Telegraph will also remain open.

The rumor mill in Birmingham is in full gear as to who's moving to Somerset North. Redwood & Ross in the Merrillwood Building was said to be leaving, but executive vice-president Jerry Orwin denied it.

"We like our downtown location," he said from his Kalamazoo headquarters. "We've got a long-term lease in Birmingham. We've got a great store and clientle which we're very happy with. Who knows five or six years down the road how things may be, but right now we'll remain at Merrillwood in Birmingham."

Vintage styles for kids

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Designer Diana Licht transforms vintage and modern fabrics into children's clothing sure to become family heirlooms for generations.

From pinafores and jumpers to camisoles, pantaloons, petticoats and christening gowns, Licht's designs recall a bygone era when a young girl looked liked daddy's little darling in outfits dressed with ruffles and lace.

Petticoats, Licht's vintage clothing shop, stocks all her designs in a turn-of-the-century home at 643 N. Mill Street between Liberty and Farmer in Plymouth's Old Village. Most of her customers are gift-buying women, from newlyweds to grandmothers.

Redwood and Ross, with 15 stores in the midwest, recently merged with Gilmore's Department Stores, a family run retail operation also based in Kalamazoo. Gilmore's has 33 stores in 20 markets.

The Polo Store on S. Woodward in Birmingham is also rumored to be heading for Somerset North, but manager Bob Benkert said he wasn't aware of any planned move.

■ The Polo Store on S. Woodward in Birmingham is also rumored to be heading for Somerset North, but manager Bob Benkert said he wasn't aware of any planned move.

"I've heard that we're on some kind of wish list at Somerset, but so far, The Polo Shop will remain in Birmingham," he said.

According to Gotthelf of the PSD there are "about a dozen retail vacancies in downtown Birmingham.

"This does not include the former Jacobson's building or space at the Birmingham Place," she pointed out. "The rents per square foot vary from $18 at 214 Maple, to $23-$28 per square foot elsewhere. I don't know where people are getting that $30 figure that is often reported."

She said numerous businesses are looking at Birmingham, from a national food specialty company to a Rochester merchant who wants a second location. The PSD maintains a list of properties available and mails "recruitment packages" to all interested entrepreneurs.

Gotthelf said Birmingham needs "unique boutiques with character." She is specifically looking for a showcase Hallmark card shop of medium price points, and a nature store of some kind.

Birmingham Mayor Dante Lanzetta said he is "confident the retail district in Birmingham can co-exist and complement Somerset Collection."

"The PSD has been charged with finding the best retail mix possible to keep customers coming to Birmingham for the best in personal service, the best in ambiance, and the best in welcoming warmth," he said.

tage fabrics like 1930s bark cloth from curtains or 1950s tablecloths or chenille bedspreads," said Licht, who regularly scouts antique shows and flea markets for vintage materials.

While Licht recycles old blue jeans into denim children's jackets, new fabrics are turned into vintage-style organdy dresses perfect to wear for a First Communion. Her designs are reasonably priced, $28 for a simple slip-like dress perfect for a flower girl in a summer wedding, to $80 for the pure white Communion dress.

"I like to make the dresses so they can wear them again. I mainly enjoy working with natural fabrics like cottons, flannels, corduroy and velveteen," said Licht.

Garden City grandmother Donna Brown purchases clothing for her daughter's twins at Petticoats because "the clothing is one-of-a-kind."

"Diana does absolutely beautiful work. I love the little camisoles and pantaloons. It's the look from the 1920s, very girlish, and well-made," Brown said.

Licht especially likes designing clothes from white fabrics. She works with several local photographers to provide this white look so sought after by the lensmen's clients these days. Her versatility seems endless when it comes to creating apparel. For $80 to $100 she will turn a customer's old wedding gown into a future treasured heirloom.

"Grandmothers are using their wedding gowns for their grand babies christening dresses," she said.

In addition to children's clothing, Licht designs and sews vests, jumpers and a variety of apparel for women. She also carries children's accessories like hair bows, Goody Goody shoes, flowered brim hats, and handpainted Adirondack furniture by Livonia artist Debbie Malek.

Licht would like to expand these areas of her business when space becomes available in the next few months.

Originally from Farmington, Licht dreamed of owning a shop that would sell her designs while she studied home economics and business at Northern Michigan University. Her mother was her source of inspiration when she bought Licht her first sewing machine 20 years ago.

"In high school, instead of shopping for clothes, my mother took me to buy fabric," Licht explained. Her favorite designers are Ralph Lauren and Laura Ashley.

After graduation, Licht moved to Colorado, where she began Mountain Rags, now Petticoats, in the early 1980s. Recycling blue jeans into clothing proved so profitable that Licht returned to Michigan to open a shop in Charlevoix with her mother. Later she bought the Old Village home where Petticoats is presently located. A brief move to a pricey Northville address proved unprofitable, so Licht moved Mountain Rags back to the charming Old Village location in 1993 and changed the name of the business to Petticoats.

Along the way it became apparent that her vintage clothing designs had taken a relatively unexplored retail path. Her competition in the clothing business is virtually nil.

"My children's clothes sell well because people like seeing little girls in feminine-looking dresses for a change instead of blue jeans and sweats," Licht said.

Petticoats is open 10 a.m to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Dentistry in the 90s

A WHITER SMILE
Patients who are faced with age-related tooth discoloration can whiten their smiles with the application of bleach in the dentist's office. Bleaching usually requires two to four office visits during which the dentist protects the gums with a lubricant, applies a 35% hydrogen peroxide solution to the teeth, then exposes the teeth to high-intensity light to speed the chemical reaction. This procedure is the least expensive of tooth-whitening options and is most effective in cases where teeth have turned yellow or brown over the years. In-office bleaching will not produce a blindingly white Hollywood smile, but it will lighten teeth a few shades to produce a subtle but noticeable improvement.
Six to eight teeth can usually be bleached during one visit. Bleaching works on teeth much as it does on clothes, by lightening stains caused by coffee, tea, food, tobacco, and age. To find out more about this procedure, call us at LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where we provide cosmetic & general dentistry for the entire family. Please call 478-2110 to schedule a convenient appointment. Smiles are our business. Hours: Mon, Tue, Thu & Fri. 8-5, Wed til 9 pm.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Make desserts tipsy with splash of liqueur

Whenever I stand before the dazzling display of liqueurs at some ambitious wine shop I visualize what Holly Golightly was feeling while eying the windows at Tiffany's. While visions of rubies and emeralds dance in Holly's head, my desires are somewhat more down to earth.

I own a bottle of Grand Marnier, cheap ersatz Amaretto, and a miniature bottle of ginger brandy passed along as a sample at a food show.

But, the thought of a tawny port, a fruity Framboise or an obscenely aromatic anisette are as unique as diamonds. For me, the incredible variety of jewel-like liqueurs, with their range of flavors from fruit to nuts, seeds, herbs, barks and flowers, is a constant temptation. Just a few silky drops of one of these elixirs can perfect an already fine dessert and vastly improve one with less impressive credentials.

Take pies, for example. Our thoughts of them are generally wrapped in clouds of nostalgia for the heart-warming pies of memory that sat cooling on the window sill. Well, those same sound and sturdy pies can be made quite different, even exotic, by a simple touch of liqueur.

Trust me, Momma might be shocked by the suggestion of sullying the purity of her famed peach pie with a shot of Southern Comfort – even she might enjoy the result!

Flavor boosters

The complex composition of most liqueurs gives them flavor that is both unique and elusive. When liqueurs are added to food, interesting chemical reactions take place. Gently heat a sugar or an alcohol and it's flavors intensify dramatically. Add a few drops to a slowly baked pie or custard and they can mystify even those with most discerning palates.

History tells us that the first liqueurs can be traced back to the Middle Ages when concoctions were developed by alchemists to cure baldness, madness, measles and lure potential customers with the eternally seductive promise of "new youth and vigor." By the early 19th century cordials had been considerably refined. Some of the creators of new liqueurs seemed to have soared a little recklessly on the wings of fancy when naming their handiworks.

After dinner sippers during the Belle Epoche could choose liqueurs called Illicit Love, Liqueur Des Belles, Maiden's Cream or even Cream Yvette. It was an era of excesses.

As mentioned before, Momma was never one to "spike" her pies or pastries. The closest thing we had to alcohol in the house was an occasional six pack. On the other hand, Aunt Mathilde would never be caught without her trademark flask brimming with brandy.

Occasionally, a homemade apple pie spiked with some applejack would appear at a family gathering, but it was rare to see a spiked watermelon.

Little splashes

Bananas Foster got me thinking about what a shot of Irish Mist could do to a grasshopper pie. Better yet, wouldn't a splash of Grand Marnier elevate a meringue to new heights over a coconut cream pie? Two tablespoons of Kahlua pressed into a graham cracker crust underneath New York Style Cheesecake and a shot of Cream de Cocoa in the batter would be just dandy on a sultry summer's weekend.

For a lighter touch, a few drops of a fruit liqueur into some whipped cream or non dairy whipped topping adds taste and improves the aroma.

When using liqueurs for cooking, remember that you need only a small amount to infuse the dish with its essence. Use just enough to enhance, not overwhelm the balance of flavors. Also, should you worry about serving one of these desserts to children or an elderly auntie, remember that when liqueurs are heated they leave only flavor behind. It would be most considerate to inform anyone whom you might suspect might not be able to tolerate alcohol.

So when it comes to making dessert, whether for a special occasion or not, consider a dessert that's a little racy, a little glamorous, a little like Aunt Tilli – consider a tipsy pie.

Muer library to catalog success

Memory lives on: "The Simply Great Cookbook," features some of the best-loved recipes from the Chuck Muer restaurants.

With his dazzling bow ties, bright suspenders, big smile, and warm personality, Chuck Muer made everyone feel at home and comfortable at his restaurants.

"The relationship to your guests is a very close one," he said. "They're not walking away with anything tangible. It's not like buying a car or a piece of clothing. You take nothing home but the sense of satisfaction."

Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills hopes to study and learn from Muer's successes and challenges by establishing a culinary resource library in his name on its Orchard Ridge campus.

Two very special events will kick-off OCC's commitment to the library _ Prelude to a Classic, a benefit strolling dinner on Tuesday, June 20; and Culinary Classic, a daylong event Saturday, June 24, featuring a champagne breakfast, culinary seminars by 12 experts including Master Sommelier Madeline Triffon, newly appointed director of beverages for the Unique Restaurant Corp. Triffon, formerly of the Rattlesnake Club, is one of 26 Certified Master Sommeliers, and one of only two female Master Sommeliers worldwide.

"This is a one-of-a-kind event," said OCC Chef Instructor Susan Baier. "We are enhancing our guest's culinary knowledge with our wine and food pairings at the Grand Tasting, as well as during the seminars."

All proceeds will benefit the OCC culinary program, Chuck Muer Resource Library.

"The vision for the Chuck Muer Culinary Resource Library is ultimately to bring every conceivable learning tool to its visitors, from books and videos to computers and cookbooks," said Baier. "It will provide research and reference materials for students and professionals."

Baier, who is co-chairing the event with OCC faculty members Darlene Levinson and Chef Kevin Enright approached Susan Muer about the project, on behalf of the college in January.

Not only did Susan Muer give OCC permission to name its culinary resource library after her father, she volunteered to help. "If I have my name on it, I'll do my best to see that it's a success," she said. For the past three months she's been spending her Friday mornings at OCC helping the committee get ready for the Culinary Classic and Prelude. She's already thinking of ways to make next year's event even better.

Like her father, Muer got to be successful by working hard.

"The guest is number one, especially in the restaurant business," said Muer. "My father could read people, and always emphasized that we were not above anyone."

As director of marketing and secretary for the C.A. Muer Corp., which is celebrating its 30th anniversary, Muer is intimately involved with the 20 Chuck Meur restaurants in five states as well as five restaurant affiliates. She has held positions in the corporation ranging from hostess and server to bartender and pastry chef.

"I've done a lot of work to get where I am," said Muer who earned a bachelor's degree from John Carroll University in Cleveland, and attended the Culinary Institute of America in New York. "I will wash dishes if I see a problem."

The vision for the library, which has yet to be built, is to bring every conceivable learning tool to its visitors from books and videos to computers and cookbooks.

As a tribute to her father, Susan Muer called 300 of his friends and asked them to share recipes and memories of her father who was lost at sea with his wife, Betty, and two friends in the "Storm of the Century" that swept Florida, the Eastern seaboard, and the Caribbean in March of 1993.

"The Simply Great II Cookbook," like the "Simply Great Cookbook," published in 1992, will contain many of Muer's signature dish recipes, and some new ones too. The book will sell for $19.95 and be available for sale at the Culinary Classic and Muer restaurants.

"It will be a spiral book so can open it on the kitchen counter," said Susan who tested all of the recipes in her kitchen to make sure they work. The project took nearly two years.

"Writing this book helped me heal," said Susan. "My parents taught me to be strong and not give in. From my mother I learned good taste. She put a lot of effort into designing the interior of Big Fish in Dearborn."

Rediscover great German White Wines

FOCUS ON WINE
BY RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Paired with fresh broiled fish, crisp, refreshing, fruity German white wines are excellent. So it was appropriate that Chuck Muer's River Crab in St. Clair hosted an all-star lineup of German wine producers recently.

"German wines have a refreshing acidity for cleansing the palate," remarked Leo Biel, president of Chuck Muer Restaurants. "I think a good German Riesling pairs particularly well with king crab, which tends to be a bit briny.

"Another benefit of German wines is low alcohol. Most are less than 12 percent, with many at nine to 10 percent."

Biel recalls that 10-15 years ago the Muer restaurants sold 27,000 cases of German wines annually. Today, it's about one-ninth that quantity. "German wines are fruity with the same crisp character as well-made California sauvignon blanc, but consumers fail to recognize this."

"Since 1989, we've had a string of very good to excellent vintages in Germany," said Friedel Bohn, owner of Weingut (winery) Anton Balbach. "The wines of 1993 are balanced, fresh and fruity."

Gunter Thies of Schloss Schonborn suggests, "Modern American wine drinkers prefer young, fresh white wines. However, the driest German wines are hard to drink when too young. A year of bottle age tends to smooth that aggressiveness."

We observed that both Michigan and Canadian tasters did not appreciate bone-dry German wines, but preferred fruity wines where the acidity is balanced. Germany is the most northern wine-producing country in Europe, near the 50th parallel. Usually, a touch of residual (unfermented) sugar does not make a German Riesling taste sweet but does smooth the acidity while retaining the wine's freshness.

"The most effective way to introduce people to German wines is by pouring them at tastings," German wine exporter Klaus Dillmann noted. "Our experience has been that once people try German wines, they like them." Dillmann's knowledge and experience in export markets has attracted many of Germany's leading estates to his portfolio.

Weingut Dr. Fischer is located along the Saar River, a tributary of the Mosel. The 1993 Ockfener Bockstein Riesling Kabinett from Dr. Fischer ($11) has an attractive appley character, full and well-balanced. By way of explanation, Ockfen is a village name, therefore the wine is an Ockfener. Bockstein is the vineyard name, Riesling is the grape variety and Kabinett is the quality grade, meaning not too dry.

Although German wine labels may be a bit confusing, look for Riesling Kabinett and you'll not go wrong. The 1993 Bernkasteler Graben Riesling Kabinett from Dr. Thanisch ($12) also showed an appley nose, but its taste was more complex, showing some earthiness due to terroir (place of origin). Bernkastel is a town on the Mosel River.

The 1993 Scharzhofberger Riesling Kabinett by Reichsgraf von Kesselstatt ($12.50) is labeled Mosel-Saar-Ruwer. These three rivers give the name to the German appellation where the Riesling grape thrives. It is truly a great wine for the money.

"This wine showcases the character of the 1993 vintage," Dillmann said.

We can't leave the topic of German wines without introducing a wonderfully sweet wine that by itself would make a perfect dessert. It would also make a great aperitif with fois gras or bleu cheese. The 1990 Niersteiner Olberg Riesling Auslese by Weingut Anton Balbach ($13) is such a wine.

It combines the warmth of the Rheinhessen with perfect growing conditions experienced in 1990 to produce a rich, full-bodied, even glycerine-like quality coating the palate. Nierstein is the village name along the Rhein River; Olberg is the vineyard name, and Auslese is the quality that says it's time for dessert.

Make a tipsy pie with any flavor

See Chef Larry Janes' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

With this basic filling, an unlimited supply of liqueurs at your disposal, and a freewheeling spirit of adventure, you can create an almost infinite number of pies — each different and delectable. Choose the most appropriate crust and proceed.

The Amazing Interchangeable, Do-it-yourself Tipsy Pie

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs (about 20 crackers)
3 tablespoons sugar
⅓ cup melted butter

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix all ingredients together and press into a 9-inch pie plate. Bake 10 minutes. Cool

Cookie Crust

1½ cups crushed cookies (Oreo's, vanilla wafers, gingersnaps, etc.)
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Mix all ingredients together and press into a 9-inch pie plate. Bake 10 minutes, cool.

Basic Filling

1 cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
4 eggs, separated
½ cup water

In a small saucepan, stir together ⅓ cup of the sugar and the gelatin. Blend egg yolks with water and any flavorings listed below. Stir into sugar mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until the mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat, cool and refrigerate, stirring occasionally until mixture is cooled and thickened. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add remaining ⅓ cup sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating until the egg whites are stiff but not dry. Fold gelatin mixture into meringue and spoon into prebaked 9-inch pie shells. Serves 6.

Flavoring Suggestions:

■ Butterscotch Collins Pie
5 tablespoons Scotch
2 tablespoons Scotch liqueur
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Garnish with orange slices and cherries

■ Gimlet Pie
6 tablespoons gin
2 tablespoons Rose's Lime Juice
Grated peel of 1 lime
Juice of ⅓ lime

■ Brandy Alexander Pie
5 tablespoons brandy
3 tablespoons Crème de Cocoa

■ Daquiri Pie
5 tablespoons golden rum
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice

■ Black Russian Pie
7 tablespoons vodka
3 tablespoons coffee liqueur

Deep Dish Southern Comfort Peach Pie

filling:
10-12 fresh peaches, peeled and quartered (or two 1-pound, 13-ounce cans of water packed peaches, drained)
½ cup Southern Comfort
⅔ cup sugar
⅓ cup ground almonds
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
pinch of salt
Crust:
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening or butter
2½ tablespoons ice water
2 tablespoons whipping cream or sour cream

Fill a deep, 10-inch pie pan with peaches. Pour Southern Comfort evenly over the top.

Combine sugar, almonds, butter, flour and salt in a bowl and mix together, cutting in butter with a pastry blender or fork, sprinkle evenly over peaches.

Prepare top crust by combining flour and salt in a bowl, work in shortening with pastry blender or fork, sprinkle with water, a little at a time until mixture can be pressed together into a ball. Chill 10 minutes before rollling out.

Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Arrange pastry on top of pie dish, cut a small hole in the center. Crimp edge. Brush pastry with cream. Bake 10 minutes.

Reduce heat to 350 degrees F and continue baking until peaches are tender and crust is a rich, golden brown, about 15-20 minutes. Serve warm or well chilled. Serves 8.

Stir constantly for the best pudding

AP — The secret to smooth success for this lemon-strawberry pudding is even heat, constant stirring and a watchful eye. Heating the milk before blending it with the yolk mixture helps reduce cooking time. Serve in goblets or glass dishes.

Lemon-strawberry Pudding

⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Dash salt
4 egg yolks
1½ cups milk, heated just until steaming
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
½ cup whipping cream
1 pound strawberries, rinsed, hulled and sliced

In medium saucepan, stir together sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add egg yolks and blend. Gradually stir in hot milk.

Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat, until mixture is thick and almost boiling, almost 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon peel; whisk until very smooth. Turn into bowl and cover with plastic wrap, pressing wrap onto surface of pudding to prevent skin from forming. Chill thoroughly, several hours or overnight.

Whip cream until stiff, then fold into lemon mixture. Pudding will be very soft, not stiff. Press strawberry slices around edges of four goblets or serving dishes. Gently spoon in lemon pudding. Garnish with additional strawberries, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Brighten breakfast with eggs

Lift breakfast out of the ordinary with a few flavorful ingredients. For example, scrambled eggs take on a colorful personality when served with a piperade of sauteed onion and red and green bell peppers. Serve with slices of whole-wheat toast. The eggs are flavored with hot pepper sauce.

Scrambled Eggs Piperade

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 medium onion, cut in half and sliced
1¼ green bell pepper, seeded and sliced
1¼ red bell pepper, seeded and sliced
4 large eggs
1 tablespoon water
1¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Whole-wheat toast

In a 12-inch skillet over medium heat, in hot oil, cook onion and bell peppers until tender-crisp, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

In medium bowl, beat eggs, water, salt and hot pepper sauce until well blended.

In 10-inch, nonstick skillet over medium heat, melt butter, add egg mixture. Gently stir egg mixture, lifting it up and over the bottom as it thickens. Keep stirring until desired texture and doneness. Serve with pepper mixture and whole-wheat toast. Makes 2 servings.

Eat cool meals with chicken breasts

BY MELANIE POLK
SPECIAL WRITER

Chicken, long a best-seller in the supermarket meat department, has really taken off in recent years. Per capita consumption climbed from 29 pounds a year in 1960 to 72 pounds last year. Chicken breasts are quick and easy to use, and the white meat is somewhat lower in fat than dark meat pieces such as drumsticks and thighs.

Whether you buy your chicken breasts skinned and boned, or handle this chore yourself, be sure to remove all the skin and as much visible fat as possible before cooking. To guard against the risk of salmonella, chicken should be cooked to an internal temperature of 180 degrees F. A properly cooked chicken breast will be white throughout, with no traces of pink, and the juices will run clear golden rather than red when pricked with a knife point. A skinless, boneless chicken breast will generally cook in 10 minutes or less at medium-high heat.

Chicken is a staple in cuisines from all over the globe, and by mixing it with other grains, fruits and vegetables, you can keep portions moderate as recommended by the American Institute for Cancer Research.

Pair chicken with white beans and pesto for a delicious Italian soup, with apricots and couscous for a steamy Moroccan casserole, or with baby corn, green onions and red bell pepper in a fantastic Chinese stir fry.

Chicken breasts are great on the grill or in cold salads. Grilled lemon tarragon chicken is delicious with a simple pasta salad and steamed asparagus.

Grill chicken breasts coated with a mixture of 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 chopped clove of garlic, ¼ cup olive oil, 2 tablespoons minced fresh tarragon (1½ teaspoons dried), with salt and freshly ground pepper to taste.

Artichokes add an elegant touch and delicious flavor to Chicken and Artichoke Heart Salad, perfect for a summer luncheon or light supper. Although this recipe calls for frozen artichoke hearts, you can use fresh artichokes. Simply remove all the leaves and stems, and steam the remaining hearts for 20 to 25 minutes or until tender. Serve this salad with whole-grain rolls or muffins and the meal is complete.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Summer salad: Chicken and Artichoke Salad is perfect for a summer luncheon or light supper.

■ Chicken is a staple in cuisines from all over the globe, and by mixing it with other grains, fruits and vegetables, you can keep portions moderate

CHICKEN AND ARTICHOKE HEART SALAD

- 4 chicken legs or breast halves, skinned
- 1 9-ounce package frozen artichoke hearts
- ¼ cup low-fat mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons skim milk
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons mustard
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper
- 1 4-ounce jar chopped pimentos, drained
- ¾ cup celery, chopped

Place the chicken in a skillet or Dutch oven with 2 inches of water and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to low and simmer, covered, 25-30 minutes or until done (chicken will be tender and the juices should run out clear when deeply pierced with a fork). Cool.

While the chicken is cooking, prepare the artichoke hearts as directed on the package. Drain. Prepare the dressing by using a fork to beat the mayonnaise, milk, vinegar, lemon juice, mustard, sugar and red pepper in a small bowl.

When the chicken has cooled, remove the bones and cut into bite-sized pieces. In a large bowl, combine the chicken, artichoke hearts, pimentos, celery and dressing. Toss gently. Serve or cover and refrigerate until serving time.

Each of the 4 servings has 213 calories and 5 grams of fat.

For a spiral-bound cookbook featuring over 75 healthy and delicious recipes for the summer, send $6 with your name and address to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. CB3, Washington, DC 20069.

Melanie Polk is director of nutrition education for the American Institute for Cancer Research.

Answers to food questions

For answers to questions about food saftey, nutrition and preservation, call the Food and Nutrition Hot line, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, (810) 858-0904 in Oakland County, (313) 494-3013 in Wayne County.

The Food and Nutrition Hotline is the place to call for all your food concerns. Questions on why your jam won't jell, or how to freeze those extra tomatoes are some common requests answered daily by the trained staff of the hotline.

Emporia State signs Roy

Livonia Clarenceville senior Wendy Roy will attend Emporia State (Kan.) University, an NCAA Division II school, this fall on a volleyball/softball scholarship.

Roy was a three-sport All-Metro Conference standout in basketball, volleyball and softball for four seasons with the Trojans.

Terek wins vault

Livonia Franklin's Paul Terek, who recently completed his sophomore season, won the pole vault with a personal best of 14 feet in an open invitational meet Wednesday at the University of Toledo.

Terek, a regional runner-up and Western Lakes Activities Association pole vault champ, was recently selected first-team All-Observer.

Hornets win again

Pitchers Mike Corrie and Mike Anderson combined on a three-hitter Wednesday, leading the Livonia Hornets to a 6-2 Mickey Mantle League (ages 15-16) baseball win over Novi at Stevenson High School.

It was the Hornets' fourth-straight victory after opening the season with two losses.

Corrie, the winning pitcher, allowed two hits and two runs in four innings. He struck out four. Anderson allowed only one hit over the final three innings.

Offensively, Eric Yuhasz and Ed Szumlanski each collected two hits and one RBI. Mike Cotter also contributed two hits for the Hornets, sponsored by Alex Aloe Realtors.

Soccer tryouts

Players, including a goalkeeper, are wanted for a new under-15 girls Little Caesars Premier League soccer team (born Aug. 1, 1980 through July 31, 1982). Tryouts will be scheduled in Livonia.

For more information, call Mike at (313) 464-9114.

■ The Livonia Youth Soccer Club will hold under-13 girls Little Caesars Premier League tryouts at 6 tonight at the Dickinson Center, off Newburgh between Six and Seven Mile roads, in Livonia.

For more information, call (313) 464-0262.

Nike 3-on-3 Shootout

The Nike Triple Crown 3-on-3 Shootout, open to male and female players of all ages and abilities, will be Saturday-Sunday, July 15-16 at Birmingham Groves High School.

Games will be played on small fields and small goals without goalkeepers. The top three finishers in each age group will advance to the National Finals, Aug. 4-6, in Denver, Colo.

With the $80 registration fee, each team receives an official T-shirt and will be guaranteed three games. Registration forms are available at any specialty soccer store or the Detroit Rockers office, 600 Civic Center Drive, Detroit. The registration deadline is Friday, July 7.

For more information, call Kristin Hackley at (303) 989-4084 or Jim Starr at (810) 338-8090.

Area golf divots

Several area golfers will tee for the 84th Michigan Amateur Championship, which begins Tuesday at Red Run Golf Club in Royal Oak.

Among those scheduled to play in the 36-hole stroke play are Claud Johnston, Westland; Brian Mills, Livonia; Ron Borean, Redford Township; David Reese, Livonia; Mark Johnson, Livonia; Michael Nolan, Farmington Hills; Ron Jona, Farmington Hills; Thom Piscopink, Wayne.

Match play begins Thursday with the final slated for Saturday.

Brian Atkinson, 19, of Cassopolis, is the defending champion.

■ Rick Barr, 29, of Livonia, carded an ace on the 136-yard, No. 5 hole 6 during a scramble outing May 26 at Rattle Run Golf Course in St. Clair. He used a pitching wedge.

■ Bob Eisiminger shot a 76 to win the Westland John Glenn Teachers Open last week at Rolling Meadows. Former Glenn athletic director Don Domke was second with a 77.

Academic All-American

Jon Paupore, a junior at Eastern Michigan University from Plymouth Canton High School, has been selected to the academic All-American golf team by the Golf Coaches Association of America.

Paupore has excelled both in the classroom and on the course. He has maintained a 3.58 grade-point average and has a 76.8 stroke average as a three-year letterman for the Eagles.

Paupore also received the golf scholar-athlete award presented by the EMU athletic department and the school's "E" Club at the annual EMU sports banquet.

Adams routs CC in semifinal

Rochester Adams ended Redford Catholic Central's impressive run through the state baseball tournament with a 19-9 victory over the Shamrocks in the Class A semifinal game.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

The public address announcer mistakenly introduced Chris Misiak as Redford Catholic Central's starting pitcher prior to Friday's Class A state semifinal baseball game at C.O. Brown Stadium in Battle Creek.

It must have been a bad omen for the Shamrocks.

Misiak is CC's sure-handed shortstop who pitches only in non-league games and when coach John Salter needs him to give one of his top pitchers a rest.

But with starting pitcher Chris Karney and reliever Kevin Thomas struggling mightily in the first 3⅓ innings and ace Justin Stankewicz not ready to pitch on only two days of rest, Salter had no choice but to give the ball to Misiak.

Adams rocked CC's four pitchers, collecting 16 hits and seven walks in a 19-9 victory that might not have ended without a 10-run mercy rule with one out in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The Shamrocks also committed seven errors, which is about what they made in five previous state-tournament games.

Nine seemed to be the Shamrocks' magic number, as they collected that many runs in five of their six state tournament games. But nine wouldn't get the job done against Adams, which has scored 10 or more runs in 15 of its 27 victories.

"We didn't pitch, we didn't play defense, the only positive thing is we battled back a couple times," Salter said. "We had enough offense, we just ran out of pitching, which I knew would be a problem. They swing the bats well."

The Shamrocks finished 25-9 overall. Adams, 27-8 overall, advanced to its first-ever state title game.

Adams junior ace Chris Wasen showed tremendous resiliency, pitching 5⅓ innings to earn the win. Wasen, 8-1 overall, allowed 10 hits and walked eight but refused to come out of the game with Adams counting on its other pitchers to go in Saturday's championship game against Grand Ledge.

Senior left-hander Eric Wozniak got the final two outs after CC finally sent Wasen to the bench with three runs in the top of the sixth inning.

"This is the hardest I've been hit in two years," Wasen said. "I guess if we won, I deserve it. It's not how I wanted it, but as long as we won."

The game lasted 3 hours and 3 minutes, and it seemed as if the Highlanders were up at least half that time in the bottom of the fourth when they scored seven runs to go ahead for good, 13-6.

Adams coach Andrew Lamkin said he felt the game dragging along an inning earlier.

"I told my assistant coach (Mike Lechner), 'Here it is the top of the third inning and it seems like inning eight,'" Lamkin said.

Adams first baseman Tim Czarnecki went 3-for-4, including a double off the 401-foot wall in center field to drive in one run in the first inning. He finished with four RBI. Chuck VanRobays, Derek Giordano, Wasen, Dan Lambert and Tim Donohue had two hits each.

Karney allowed three runs in one inning of work and Thomas pitched 2⅔ before being relieved with one out in the bottom of the fourth after Czarnecki hit an 0-2 pitch for a two-run single and an 11-6 lead. Thomas suffered the loss, allowing six runs, three earned, on four hits and three walks with five strikeouts.

"He (Thomas) didn't have his curve working so you just had to sit on his fastball," Czarnecki said.

Adams scored four runs, one earned, off Misiak, who lasted 1⅔ innings. James O'Connor was the fourth CC pitcher, and the Highlanders scored five runs, all earned, on four hits and three walks against him in the bottom of the sixth.

Thomas had two hits and two RBI for the Shamrocks.

A pitcher's dual it was not: 26 hits, 15 walks

There was only one 1-2-3 inning in Friday's Class A state semifinal baseball game. It didn't come until Rochester Adams' pitcher Chris Wasen got Jason Couture to miss a curve ball for a third strike to end the Redford Catholic Central fourth inning.

The strikeout came at 8:59 p.m., 1⅓ hours after the first pitch was thrown. The teams combined for 26 hits and 15 walks.

■ CC senior infielder Greg Rogers had to leave the game in the bottom of the fifth inning after taking a bad hop in the neck while playing shortstop.

It was a tough night for Rogers.

He was safe on an error and scored a run in the top of the third, but Wasen won the battle against Rogers with the bases loaded and no outs in the fifth.

Rogers hit a slow roller back to Wasen, who threw home to catcher Chuck VanRobays for a force out. VanRobays then threw to first base in time to complete a double play.

■ The Shamrocks had an unexpected visit from Andy Slankster, a 1994 CC graduate, who now plays at Kalamazoo College.

Slankster plays on a summer league team that regularly plays games at Baily Park. Slankster travels construction-filled I-94 to and from each game.

"The road company is not making it fun on me," said Slankster.

■ The loss to Adams was CC's first defeat outside of the Catholic League.

The Shamrocks, who finished 25-9 overall, won 15 previous non-league games.

■ Adams lost five of its first eight games, but won 24 of its last 27 through Friday's victory over CC.

■ Two of Adams' top three pitchers are juniors and only two of the Highlanders' players in Friday's starting lineup are seniors. Two of CC's top three pitchers are juniors and the Sham ocks likewise had only two senior starters in their lineup.

Could there be a rematch next year?

"I hope so, that would be nice," Chris Misiak said.

All-Area squad

Ladywood Class A qualifier paces girls golfers

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

It was a retirement gift as good as anyone could give a coach.

The Plymouth Salem girls golf team didn't let Jim Stevens' final year as coach pass without a distinguishing accomplishment.

Kowalski

The Rocks produced a Western Lakes Activities Association championship and sent Stevens into retirement a winner.

Stevens, the only girls coach Salem has had and a golf coach since 1965, concludes his long career with one more honor, courtesy of the Observer sports staff.

He is recognized as the Coach of the Year for 1995.

Salem placed two players on the All-Area golf team as did Farmington Hills Mercy and Livonia Ladywood.

Coach Vicky Kowalski and senior Amy Schulkins, a perennial all-area player, led the Marlins to their fourth consecutive Catholic League title.

Other repeat first-team selections include Ladywood's Laura Kowalski, the only Observerland state qualifier, and Sarah Andersen, Salem's Katie Collins and Livonia Stevenson's Kelly Kristy.

Presenting the 1995 All-Area team:

ALL-AREA TEAM

Laura Kowalski, junior, Ladywood: Kowalski (from Plymouth) helped lead the Blazers to a 4-1 record in Catholic League duals, 6-3 overall. She placed second in the league (97) and regional (86) tournaments, and she was 12th overall in the state individual finals.

The Blazers counted her score in every match, with her season best being a 42 against Kingswood. Kowalski lowered her stroke average from 52 last year to just under 47. She also has a 4.0 grade point.

"Laura is an excellent competitor who should be one of the top players in the Detroit area next season," Ladywood coach Phil Heyer said.

Sarah Andersen, senior, Ladywood: Andersen was a four-year member of the Ladywood team and served as captain the last two years.

She averaged 5½ strokes per nine-hole round and shot a season-best of 46 twice against Farmington Hills Mercy and Dearborn. She scored in every varsity match and placed fourth in the league (102).

Andersen is the top student in her class with a 4.1 grade point, was nominated for the all-state academic team and plans to attend Notre Dame.

"Sarah has been a very consistent player for Ladywood and an excellent role model for the younger players," Heyer said.

Katie Collins, sophomore, Salem: Collins was a major factor in the Rocks winning the Western Lakes championship and finishing sixth in the regional.

She was the runner-up in the WLAA tournament, shot 98 in the regional and just missed a trip to the state finals. She was Salem's medalist for the season.

"Katie takes her golf very seriously," Salem coach Jim Stevens said. "She is a good player now and will improve tremendously in the 11th and 12th grades.

"I'm sure, with her dedication and competitiveness, she'll be a state top-10 competitor and on her way to college golf."

See ALL-AREA, 2C

Katie Murinas, sophomore, Salem: Murinas finished seventh in the conference tournament (105) and earned all division honors. She shot 101 at the Brighton Invitational and 108 at the regional.

"Katie is dedicated to becoming an excellent golfer — and she will," Stevens said. "She will be a college competitor and could reach the LPGA level. She has a natural talent for the game."

Amy Schulkins, senior, Mercy: Schulkins is a familiar face on the All-Area first team, making the honor squad for the third consecutive year.

Averaging 49.7 strokes per nine holes and shooting a dual-meet best of 42 against Ladywood at Glen Oaks, she is a major reason the Marlins have won the Catholic League title four straight years.

Schulkins was eighth in the Oakland County tournament (102) and had a tournament best of 100 in the regional. She is a four-year letter winner and Mercy's top player the last two.

"Amy is dedicated to golf and the Mercy team," coach Vicky Kowalski said. "She spends time practicing on her own and tries her best in every match.

"Amy will be missed, as she was an integral part of the Mercy golf team for four years."

Tina Madej, senior, Mercy: The three-time letter winner averaged 50.9 strokes per nine holes and had a best round of 41 against Northville at Tanglewood.

Madej, a second-team selection last year, placed fifth in the Catholic League with her best tournament score of 103 at Detroit Golf Club. She was second for Mercy with a 104 in the regional.

"Tina consistently strokes beautiful drives," Kowalski said. "Her scoring average has improved each year. Tina is a team player and the encouragement she gave the other team members will be missed."

Kelly Kristy, sophomore, Stevenson: Kristy shot a dual-meet low of 41 against Dearborn and averaged 50.6 strokes in nine-hole matches.

She recorded sub-50, medalist rounds five other times, shooting 44 and 47 twice. She was sixth in the conference (105) and shot 109 in the Saline regional.

"Kelly displayed a work ethic throughout the season that is reflected in her 50.9 overall average," Stevenson coach John Wagner said. "Her superior golf skill will certainly help our team throughout the remainder of her years at Stevenson."

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Summer leagues are alive and well all throughout the area.

The usual format is the Trio League, where only three bowlers on a team compete in a 12- to 13-week season.

It's time for an update on these summer bowlers as the season is well under way. Don't be too surprised at some of the high scores because there's a lot of good bowling going on.

BOWLING HONOR ROLL

CLOVERLANES (Livonia): Just Us Trio — Thomas Shaw, 256; Ric Fisher, 253.

Tuesday Trio — Mike Kozlowski, 259/750; Steve Ibarra, 242/618.

Concealed roster loaded with top-notch players

The roster of the Concealed Security baseball team that plays in the Connie Mack Little Caesars League reads like a "Who's Who" of past and current high school stars.

Concealed, which finished 30-19 last summer while advancing to the Final Four of the AAU World Series in Oklahoma, has five players who were selected in the last two Major League drafts.

The top name is J.J. Putz, a recent Trenton graduate who was selected in the third round of the Major League draft by the Chicago White Sox. Putz, who also has been selected to play for the North Team in the U.S. Olympic Sports Festival later this summer, hasn't signed a professional contract yet.

He was one of four pitchers used in Tuesday's 10-3 victory over Michigan Honig, an Ann Arbor based team that plays in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League. Concealed coach Lou Pirronello, a Livonia resident, is prepared to either have Putz for the rest of the season or not.

If he doesn't go pro, Putz will head to the University of Michigan on a baseball scholarship.

"When I called him to congratulate him on being drafted, the first thing J.J. said was, 'When's practice?' " Pirronello said. "I'm happy for J.J. if he signs or if he stays."

Three other Concealed players, Brian Berryman, Luke Bonner and Greg Ryan, went later in the draft and are expected to remain amateurs. Berryman, a pitcher from Redford Union, was selected by the Houston Astros and Bonner and Ryan, both from Dearborn Divine Child, were taken by the Tigers.

Another Concealed player, Deandre Cooper, who prepped at Allen Park Cabrini and plays for Henry Ford Community College, was drafted last year by the Tigers.

Bonner and Berryman are headed for the University of Michigan and Ryan is bound for Eastern Michigan University.

Pirronello picked up a key addition when Toledo Start's D.J. Eckhart, one of the top catchers from Ohio, decided to change his residency and play for Concealed.

"They don't want to be known as an 'All-star team,' they want to be known as a team that works hard," said Pirronello, who is assisted by Rick Berryman of RU and Mark Falvo of Divine Child. "They're just a bunch of good kids from good programs and it shows in the little things they do, like pick up the (mess in the) dugout after games. It makes it easier on our all-star bat boy, whom we call our MVP (Mark Vince Pirronello).

"Those two guys (Berryman and Falvo) are well known among high school coaches as being very knowledgable pitching instructors. You couldn't ask for two better guys to handle pitchers. There is no one guy here, all put their heads together."

Concealed beat the Oakland A's, a team made up of mostly players in Walled Lake, 5-4, on Thursday at Canton High School.

Berryman earned the pitching decision, throwing a complete-game four hitter.

Pirronello said the team is aided by several players who just completed their freshmen years in college but are still eligible to play because of late birthdays.

Along with Cooper, Concealed has Divine Child graduate Mike Cervenak, who is a shortstop at Michigan; Terry Bigham, a Central Michigan University pitcher from Berkley; and Joe Maceri, a University of Detroit pitcher.

This week's schedule has Concealed playing Bloomfield at 6:30 tonight at Andover High School; at Canton at 6 p.m. Tuesday; Saline (at Riverview Gabriel Richard) at 6 p.m. Wednesday; South Farmington (at Canton) at 6 p.m. Thursday; and Livonia (at Canton) at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Concealed hopes to qualify for the Connie Mack World Series in August in Farmington, N.M.

The highlight of this summer's regular season are two trips to Midland, Ohio, to play the Cincinnati Redskins, the perennial national powerhouse. Concealed play double-headers at 4 p.m. Friday, June 30 and 4 p.m. Friday, July 21 against the Redskins.

WLAA well-represented on Dream Team selections

The state's best girls high school soccer players have been chosen, and four of them are from Western Lakes Activities Association schools.

Which matches the Oakland Athletic League for number of representatives on the 11-person dream team.

The four Dream Team players from the WLAA are North Farmington's Ali Lord, a senior forward; Livonia Stevenson's Laura Fedrigo, a senior midfielder; Plymouth Salem's Mari Hoff, a junior forward; and Livonia Churchill's Marie Spaccarotella, a junior midfielder/forward.

Other Observerland players singled out for honors were Churchill defender Margaret Wirth, a senior; Salem forward Kelly Lukasik, a senior; and

SOCCER

Farmington Harrison keeper Sara Kloosterman, a sophomore, all named to the Class A second team; and Stevenson forward Michelle Block, a senior honorable mention all-stater.

In addition, Salem's retiring coach, Ken Johnson, was one of six regional coaches of the year in Class A.

North's Lord was chosen WLAA player of the year, and it was an honor she earned. In her second-consecutive season on the state's dream team, Lord set a school record by scoring 35 goals this season. She also had 15 assists.

Fedrigo was also first team all-WLAA and served as Stevenson's co-captain for the second-straight year. She scored 12 goals and assisted on seven others.

Hoff led all Observerland players in goal-scoring, netting 38 and assisting on 16 others while leading the Rocks to the Class A state final. Her goal total was also a Salem school record.

Spaccarotella moved to midfield for the Chargers this season, but it hardly affected her goal-scoring. She collected 24 to run her career total to 66 before suffering a knee injury that forced her to miss Churchill's final two games of the season.

Salem (16-4-3) finished second in the Class A final standings, behind state champ Birmingham Seaholm. Churchill (17-5-1) tied for fourth with Brighton, and Stevenson (15-4-1) was sixth.

Recent prep sports year worth tons of memories

C. J. RISAK

It's over.

Finally, some may say. But they may say it for different reasons.

It can be difficult to let go of a moment. The final seconds of the championship boys soccer match, with Graham Wilk punching in the game-winning goal for Plymouth Canton in overtime, is a memory that won't fade quickly.

It was the Chiefs' first-ever state championship in that sport, and it was well-earned. A team of diverse talents and personalities, they blended well when most important; no squad worked harder.

It would certainly rank as one of the brightest moments of the 1994-95 school year, which is now ended. But there were others . . .

Do you realize how close the Plymouth/Canton area came to a soccer sweep? Try 20 minutes. Plymouth Salem tied Birmingham Seaholm at 2-2 with some magnificent work in the early stages of the second half of the girls' state final.

But the younger and smaller Rocks could not handle the Maples. With just under 19 minutes left to play, Seaholm got the go-ahead goal en route to a 4-2 triumph.

Any argument over the Plymouth/Canton area being one of the state's soccer hotbeds?

Now what about basketball? The Canton girls were exceptional, exceeding almost everyone's expectations. They arrived in Battle Creek for the Final Four tournament lacking both the superstars and the size the other three teams possessed.

What the Canton girls did have was sound coaching (courtesy of Bob Blohm) and confidence in their program. It was a remarkable accomplishment for a team that had lost five of its top six players from the year before.

The Canton boys basketball season was also one to be relished. Forget the ending; what can you expect when facing a powerhouse like Pershing in the regionals?

Prior to that, however, the Chiefs upended highly regarded Westland John Glenn in the Western Lakes Activities Association title game. It was a game that made one believe in high school sports, where the outcome isn't decided merely by talent, but where emotion plays a pivotal role.

It was a sweet moment, watching Canton's little man — Ted Docks — burn the Rockets and their Mr. Big, Guy (signed-with-Iowa) Rucker.

There were other moments, to be sure, like the run Salem's volleyball team put through its WLAA schedule, and the run both schools' track teams put through their seasons, and (of course) the just-ended Salem trek to the baseball state quarterfinals, and Canton's softball regional finish.

It's almost too much to recount.

And yet, what I'll remember most from this year are the losses: the retirement of John Gravlin (Salem baseball), Dave Van Wagoner (Canton boys basketball), Jack Finn (Canton assistant athletic director), Hooker Wellman (Canton swimming), Ken Johnson (Salem soccer — girls, anyway), Jim Stevens (Salem girls golf), and now, Gary Balconi (Salem assistant AD) and Paul Cummings (athletic director).

That's an incredible amount of valuable experience, years of it, and it's on its way out. There's no way to recover it; all one can do now is rebuild and reprogram, and hope the new system produces the kind of success enjoyed during the past year.

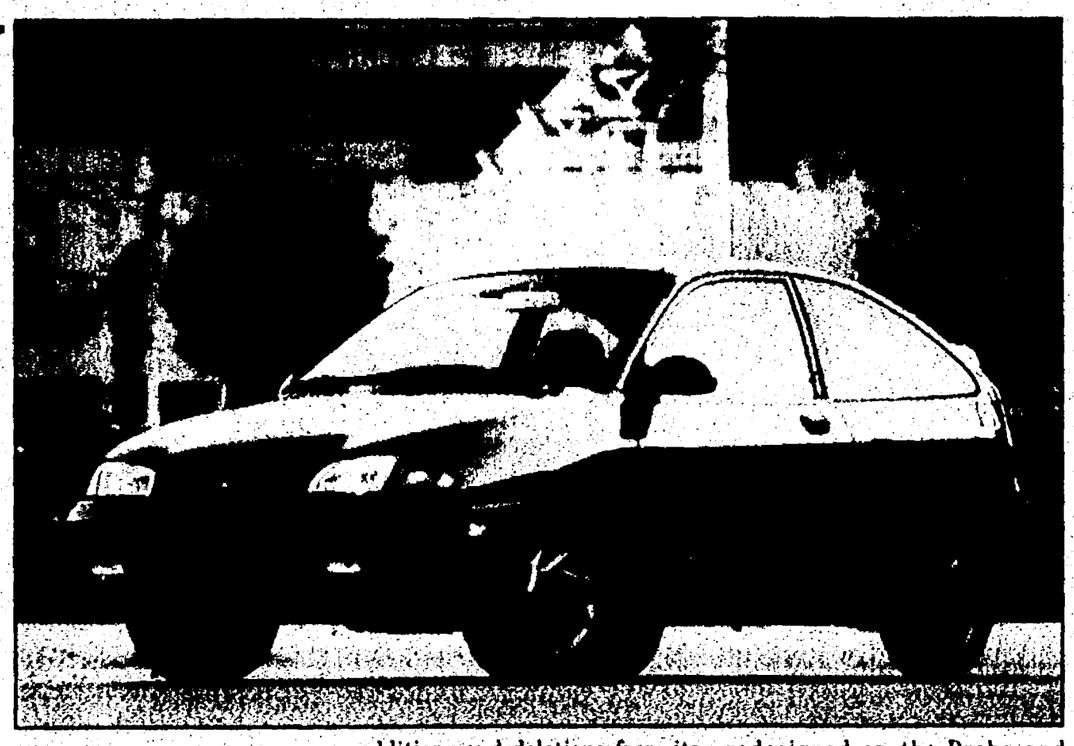
FORD '95 Aspire's the same, but everything else changes



Road Test
By Anne Fracassa

During the 1980s, most carmakers took the back roads when considering redesign of their vehicles. In the hurry-hurry 1990s redesign was the prime directive, and there's been no exception at the Glass House.

Ford Motor Co. is in the midst of bringing to market a truckload of new and redesigned vehicles. The redesigned Explorer and the new Continental made their debuts in January, and a new Sable is coming for 1996.

Meanwhile, there have been changes in almost every 1995 car Ford sells. So sit back and we'll give you a spin around the models that are in dealer showrooms right now.

Introduced in January as a 1994 model, the Aspire has just a few changes on options available. Interior and exterior design remain the same.

Available in two model groups — base three-door and SE five-door — this fuel-efficient subcompact comes standard with a 1.3-liter single overhead cam four-cylinder engine mated to a five-speed manual transmission that produces 64 horses. The automatic transaxle is an option. Fuel economy figures are a whopping 36 mpg in the city and 43 mpg on the highway.

Changes include adding an electronic AM/FM stereo radio with digital clock and a convenience group as standard equipment on the SE model. No longer available on Aspire are the rear window/wiper washer. Aluminum wheels are now restriced to the SE and the automatic transaxle is no longer available on the SE model.

The Aspire is the least expensive car on the market with standard dual air bags and optional anti-lock brakes. There are two new colors added —silver blue mist clearcoat metallic and teal clearcoat metallic — for a choice of seven colors.

Last redesigned in the 1992, the Ford Escort has a number of additions and deletions from its 1994 model. Dual air bags are now standard, the tachometer is now an option and vacuum climate controls replace mechanical controls. The radio antenna has been relocated to the passenger-side front fender.

On the inside, the Escort sports a new instrument panel design that's easier to read. No longer available are the rear ashtray. The leather-wrapped steering wheel and seat tilt adjustment have been deleted from the GT model.

Later in the year, Escort will offer an integrated child seat in the rear, the first passenger car to do so.

There are other refinements on the Escort as well, including a better sound-deadening package, a reduction in engine vibration , a better perfoming air conditioner (with a larger condenser) and an improved speed-control system.

The Probe, first introduced in 1988 as a 1989 model, has a new rear fascia. The taillamp has been redesigned on the Probe and Probe GT. There's now a center trim panel between the taillamp and restyled rear bumper cover on the GT. Also on the GT, the rear license plate is incorporated into the bumper fascia.

Interior changes include a second cupholder, new seat fabrics, restyled interior door panels and new grab handles.

No longer available on the option list: Rear wipers/washers, four-way seat height adjustment, graphic equalizer and heated dual mirrors. Added on the option list are 15-inch, three-spoke aluminum wheels and 16-inch, five-spoke chrome wheels on the GT.

The base Probe comes equipped with a 2.0-liter four-cylinder 16-valve engine, while the optional engine is a 2.5-liter 24-valve V-6. Both engines can be outfitted with a five-speed manual or four-speed automatic transmission. Fuel efficiency: 118 horsepower and 164 horsepower, respectively.

The hot new Mustang, enjoying its second year of a major redesign — and its 30th anniversary — stays just the way it perfectly is this year. The only changes: The power driver's seat is now an option (last year it was standard) and now you can get a CD and premium sound system.

There are three engines available on the Mustang: A 145-horsepower 3.8-liter V-6 (with five-speed manual or four-speed automatic transmission), a 215-horsepower 5.0-liter highoutput V-8 (mated to a five-speed manual or four-speed automatic) and a 240-horsepower 5.0-liter V-8 that comes only with a five-speed manual transmission.

The Mustang is available as a base coupe and convertible, GT coupe and convertible and a limited-production Cobra coupe and convertible. It has dual air bags and optional anti-lock brakes for safety.

The newest Ford out of the bag is the Contour, introduced just a few months ago. Born from the tremendous success of the European Ford Mondeo, the Contour has state-of-the art engines and transmissions, along with a host of technological wonders that add up to handling and response usually reserved for the high-powered sports cars.

Available in base GL, luxury LX and the sporty SE models, each has its own unique blend of standard equipment. The base engine is the 2.0-liter 16-valve dual overhead cam aluminum engine that pumps out 125 horsepower. The sweeter engine, called the Duratec V-6, is a 2.5-liter 24 valve rated at 170 horsepower. The smallest engine in production, it's outfitted with platinum-tipped spark plugs and calls for only routine maintenance — replacement of fluids and filters after 100,000 miles on the road. Both engines can be mated to a five-speed manual or four-speed automatic transmission.

The Taurus has no exterior or interior changes for the 1995 model year. Look for a restyled Taurus to debut next year, however. Rear window defroster, manual air conditioning and solar tinted winshield glass are now standard equipment.

There's also a new decklid spoiler on the SE models.

The Taurus is available in four trim levels and in sedan and wagon models. Standard is a 3.0-liter V-6 engine that has a new piston and ring combination that reduces emissions. The coolant life has been extended from 36,000 miles to 50,000 miles.

Celebrating its 40th anniversary this year, the Thunderbird graduates to become the longest-running nameplated in the Ford family of vehicles. Still rated as the sales leader in the midsize specialty market, the Thunderbird is available in luxury LX and sports version SC models.

The LX comes equipped with a standard 3.8-liter V-6 or an optional 4.6-liter V-8 with automatic transaxle. The Super Coupe high performance model comes only with the supercharged V-6 engine mated to a four-speed automatic or five-speed manual transmission.

The Thunderbird also now comes with a trunk-mounted CD changer with a power antenna.

It's been a short three years since the Crown Victoria got all-new sheet metal all around — and Ford decided to update it just a bit. The exterior has been freshened and there's a whole new interior for the 1995 model year.

On both the front and rear of the Vic are new taillamps, a revised grille, new front and rear bumper fascias, a new aluminum decklid that's wider and lower and new color-keyed body side molding.

There's a new instrument panel with new appliques and woodgrains that are framed by door trim panels. Power seat controls are now on the door for ease of operation.

All new seats provide 10 extra track inches for improved knee room. There are also front and rear passenger-assist handles, a backlighted window and door lock switches. All models feature an on-the-floor 12-point power point for accessories like cellular phones or — ahem — the radar detector.

Ford's family of automobiles has rounded out in the last few years, with nearly every model having either new sheet metal or major revisions. With a new Taurus on the horizon, it'll be interesting what gets the next facelift. Bet it's T-bird. What do you think?

Buying a Used Car Can Be Risky.

Blackwell Ford can help minimize the risk you take when purchasing a used vehicle. Every used vehicle sold by Blackwell Ford undergoes extensive reconditioning and safety inspection before it is offered for sale. If the vehicle does not meet our high standards, it will never be displayed on our lot. In the unlikely event that something does go wrong with your vehicle during the first 30 days or 2,000 miles, whichever occurs first, we will stand behind it 100% and repair it free of charge. It's that simple. We offer new car peace of mind with your used vehicle purchase. Stop in today to see our large selection of quality used vehicles, all priced to sell. And please remember...
