Cantonite charged in string of burglaries

By Teri Banas and Sandra Armbruster staff writers

Police in cities throughout Wayne County are checking into their unsolved burglaries to determine whether a 21year-old Canton Township man arrested by Livonia police Oct. 28 may be responsible.

Westland police last week charged Gregory Selix with two counts of breaking and entering and one count of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree. A police spokeswoman said that Selix is believed to be responsible for 40-42 previously unsolved break-ins and sexual assaults in the northern sexual conduct. Tuesday Selix waived area of the city.

A plea of not guilty to the felony charges was entered on Selix's behalf at his arraignment.

SELIX, A former Westland resident who had dropped out of Franklin High School in the Livonia school district in April 1979 before graduating, now is being held without bond pending a preliminary exam before 18th District Court Judge Thomas Smith at 9 a.m. Monday.

In Livonia, police have already charged Selix with five counts of breaking and entering and criminal tion with a number of burglaries and his right to preliminary exam in Livonia's 16th District Court and was bound over to Circuit Court for arraignment.

Selix stood mute at his arraignment Monday before Judge Dunbar Davis in Plymouth's 35th District Court on two counts of breaking and entering and indecent exposure. Bond was set at $15,000. His preliminary examination has been set for 9 a.m. Nov. 18.

SELIX WAS arrested after an offduty Livonia police officer spotted him at a traffic signal. The officer recognized Selix as a man wanted in connecfollowed him to a house.

Police were able to secure a warrant and arrest Selix.

Selix, who police said was unemployed, was arraigned before Livonia Magistrate Walter Guth. Selix stood mute to the charges against him and Guth set a $100,000 cash bond. Unable to meet bond, Selix is being held in Wayne County jail.

Westland Policewoman Laura Moore said that Selix was a suspect for awhile before he was arrested. She said that his name had come up from a description and from people in the area.

"That's why it was so difficult (to solve the cases) because not that many people had seen him." Livonia Police Officer Anne Dempsey said there has been a similarity in the method of breaking into a number of area homes. "There was a particular way in keeping the doors left open and dumping the purses outside," she said. The homes were occupied when the break-ins oc-"THE MAJORITY of the cases were curred, and money and jewelry were Dempsey said empty purses and wallets were later found on the lawns of some of the homes.

Lt. William Collins, head of the Livonia Detective Bureau, said local police had wanted Selix for about one month prior to his arrest.

MOORE SAID the incidents in Westland took place in the area bounded by Joy, Warren, Inkster and Merriman roads. She said that Westland police began a surveilance of the area with six officers. Those officers later were

Police honor 3 girls for honesty

Honesty is the best policy.

That's the code lived by three Graham Elementary School students-Christie Davy, 10, Karen Hines, 11, and Tracy Tyre, 11.

They were honored this week by the Westland Police Officer's Associ-, ation for returning $74.75 they found in a plastic bag alongside of the curb on their route to school.

The money had been taken by burglars who had broken into a home Oct. 28 in the area near where the

"The burglars ran from the home taking money belonging to the residents," Hayes said.

"One of the burglars dropped a plastic bag containing the money near the corner of Norma and Milton streets. They were arrested a short time later.

"The burglars had some of the homeowner's money on them when arrested but told police they had lost the rest of it. We searched the area but couldn't find it," he added.

THE THREE girls found the bag of money and gave it to their principal, James Jennings, who called police. The money was returned to its

Westworld alters plans, ownership but stays open cy rules. Former owners Matt Locricchio and Alex Bardy had vowed to sue the City Council in September after it had der nied site plan approval for the complex. The plans for bumper cars and ing homes had drawn the ire of residents in the area. The new owners, who formerly were silent partners with Locricchio and Bardy, have bought them out and have closed the family restaurant.

"THERE WAS friction within the organization because of the aggressive attitude the other two took," said George Cartsos, one of the new owners. Joining him in that venture is his wife as well as Mr. and Mrs. Irving Glancy.

The game, which has been played from 8-11 p.m. Saturday evenings for the last two years, was patterned by its creators, Homer Stone and Kevin Galbraith, after the board game DUN-GEONS & DRAGONS,

Dyer noted that the district "can deny use of any facility to anyone if its denied to everyone." He added that a preliminary report from the district's insurance carrier advises against allowing the use of district facilities due to the danger of the game. The game came to the attention of the school board after it had become so popular that police attention was drawn to the adjacent Wilson School where players parked their cars. > BRIEFLY DISCUSSED by the board on two previous occasions, the "Death Quest" game again was brought to its attention by Sandra Greer of Melton Street who protested both "Death Quest" and the playing of DUNGEONS & DRAGONS in school.

> "I think the game has anger and rebellion," she said. "Too many kids are getting involved in something they don't know anything about."

She said she also objected to D&D because it talks about some character being resurrected, refers to an anti-Christ and is -teaching-things not morally sound."

Greer said that children are keeping the playing of D&D secret from their parents and work out their parts in secret under the direction of a dungeon

Stone said that "Death Quest" is just a game and compared it to the involvement people have who watch soap operas on TV. "It's not that violent. It's based on

Stone described himself as a very religious person and added that his father has been a minister for four years.

Stone said he has had phone calls about the game and denied that any of the reports of live sacrifices in the woods and hanging children upside down have actually happened. "I INVITE all of you to come out next spring," he said, adding that the game was stopped to allow the district time to "get people out of there who are digging holes." Stone pointed out the group's record of not having one police report of an incident, despite it having been played

The game is played in the dark, according to Stone, for the visual effect of glowing light sticks used during the game and the kind of excitement experienced around Halloween.

"You don't know what's going to jump out at you next," he continued.

Stone said that all players are required to register and that weapons must be approved before being used. He added that the rules are being revised to prohibit any hits to the head. Stone believes that the game keeps young people away from drugs and al-joined by a contingent of six Livonia police officers, and the two groups worked the area along the Livonia-Westland border. In addition, uniformed officers patrolled the area.

The surveillance also caused an "amazing drop" in other crime in the area, according to Moore.

But it wasn't until after police had "zeroed in" on Selix, that they learned other area departments also may have cases against the suspect, Moore said.

Moore said that the Livonia police were able to get a set of fingerprints used to solve the first case. Lineups were held for other cases in Westland. Moore said that Selix cooperated with police once they got the first warrants issued.

IN WESTLAND, the charges stem from incidents on Oct. 2 on Shackett Street and Oct. 15 on Gilman Street. In the Gilman Street incident, a doorwall was pryed open and one of the women in the house was molested.

In the Shackett Street incident, a German shepherd dog chased a suspect out of the house he had broken into after performing a sexual act on the porch of the home. In Livonia, Selix faces a total of three charges of breaking and entering of an occupied dwelling, one count of assault with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct and one count of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree.

THE CHARGES involve break-ins of an Oxbow Street home Oct. 28, the break-in of a Deering Street home Oct. 21 where a 22-year-old was raped, and the break-in of a Dover Street home Aug. 17 where a teen-age girl was dragged from her home by the burglar. She escaped without injury.

Finding first job made easier

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

Finding a job is tough - no one denies that. But when it comes to making contacts and developing a flair for interviews, Growth Works makes the chorè seem easier for young people.

"We assist people in finding unsubsidized employment," said Paul Chamberlain, program director.

Western Wayne County residents, aged 16-21, who meet the income requirements of CETA (federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act), can take advantage of Growth Works' employment dynamics program. Its offices in downtown Plymouth can be contacted at 455-4093.

State work force shrinking—Taylor

Michigan's unadjusted unemployment rate during October was 14.9 percent, up from the September rate of 14.5 percent, according to estimates released last week by S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The rate is the highest ever recorded for the month of October, Taylor said. It means 637,000 workers were without jobs, 13,000 more than in September, when 624,000 workers were out of TAYLOR ATTRIBUTED the rise in unemployment to layoffs in the auto in-.dustry, because of continued weak sales causing cuts in production and inventory size.

The number of people in the labor Torce also fell 28,000 during October to 4,279,000. The number of people in October's labor force was 65,000 fewer Ithan October a year ago, when the labor force stood at 4,344,000.

Taylor said the labor-force decline is significant "because it indicates a continuing weakness in the economy. People are becoming discouraged about the long-term unemployment and dropping out of the labor force or migrating to other states.'

THERE WERE 3,642,000 workers

by age: 20-21, 18-19 and 16-17.

Chamberlain said.

"For example, for the 20- and 21-year-olds, the focus is on providing short-term experience that will enhance their ability to sell themselves to the private sector. We help them define their expectations and those of potential employers to promote success."

"We design a work activity we can control, like renovations to our building or painting a neighboring school building," Chamberlain explained.

We create a learning environment. It's not that they're being trained for a specific job, but we're getting them to recognize the skills and behavior associated with on-the-job training," he

AFTER THE training period, students get ready to join the labor market. They define their personal goals and list three occupations — in order of preference — they would like. Resume writing is the third step.

even for those who have never worked before. "We show them how to fill out a job application. Many times they don't fill them out thoroughly or neatly. Then we give them practical experience in in-

THE SIX-WEEK program is divided terviewing," Chamberlain said.

"If their hair is long, we tell them they may have to cut it or shave their beard, or buy a dress. If you want to get a job, you have to play the game,"

THE FINAL phase is job searching. During the first week, participants look for jobs that are their first priority. They are required to make 60 contacts a week, including phone calls and interviews.

"It won't take them long to discover if their goals are unrealistic. If, after a week, the person can't find a job of-the first choice, then he or she will move on to the second choice," Chamberlain

"And an individual who lives up to the 60-contacts-a-week expectation usually has a job within two weeks."

Anyone who doesn't live up to the expectations of the program leaders is asked to leave.

GROUP SIZE ranges from 10-12 persons. Last year about 150 participants went through the jobs program which is funded primarily through federal CETA grants. It also receives money from the Plymouth Community Fund, the Plymouth-Canton school district and the Office of Juvenile Justice.

Last year it operated on a $250,000 budget. Four paid staff persons administer the program.

Patience counts when Braillists map out a project

By Craig Piechura staff writer

After six years of transcribing printed text into Braille, Fran Hoetger has gotten pretty good at punching out dots read by the blind.

President of the 68-member Nardin Park Braille Transcribers volunteer group, Hoetger said transcribers have made Braille texts from school textbooks, foreign language books, mathematics lessons, greeting cards, recipes, diplomas, menus and dietary instructions.

Virtually anything that appears in printed form - including graphics - can be transformed into Braille if you've got time to wait. Students who need a Braille textbook for fall classes usually submit the text to the transcribers by spring to make sure it'll be ready.

A 369-page print textbook, Hoetger said, translates into 900 pages of Braille bound in nine volumes, with each page 11-by-1114 inches. The job takes a trained transcriber 502 hours, she said.

"Last week I finished a bond portfolio for E.F. Hutton who wanted it for one of their blind clients," Hoetger, of Farmington, said.

She jokes that she's often asked if she ever transcribed Playboy magazine into Braille. She hasn't but some of the novels she's transcribed were pret-

"YOU CAN'T edit the writer's book at all," Hoetger said. "That's censorship. If there's a printing error, we put it in. If there's swearing, we swear. If you blush easily, you blush."

It didn't faze her, she said, when she had to make raised line drawings of the male-reproductive system for a young man's biology class.

"I'm sure they're just as curlous about the process as anybody else," she said matter-of-factly.

First priority in transcribing requests, she said, is textbooks needed for classes by blind students. Some books are widely used throughout the country and may already have been transcribed by some-

Before a transcriber begins a Braille transcription of a book, they are supposed to contact the American Printing House for the Blind which keeps a current list of catalogued books in Braille. When the book is completed various groups around the country will make copies for persons in other cities who would like one.

The Farmington Hills Braille group gets a lot of requests for copies of a pamphlet called "Warning: Hotels Can Be Hazardous To Your Health," Hoetger said. Blind readers as far away as India and Hawaii have been sent copies of that text.

THE COPIER embosses dots on plastic through a heat transfer process in a Thermoform copier.

Because copies are often made for national distribution transcribers must be very careful not to make a mistake.

A single mistake in Braille usually means more than just a single letter is wrong, said Hoetger. Braille is written with a six-key writer which punches a series of dots. Each Braille "cell" is 1/4inch wide and 4-inches high and form 63 different characters in Braille which correspond to letters, numbers, contractions and punctuation.

Learning Braille transcription takes volunteers eight months in the Farmington area. Classes are conducted once a week from October until May and volunteers are tested at the end for certification by the United States Library of Congress. Mistakes can be corrected but Hoetger said students aren't told about the Braille eraser until their instruction is complete.

"You never mention the word 'eraser' until the end of class," she said, explaining that there's a danger in failing to erase a mistake completely.

"Some blind persons' fingers are so sensitive they can feel a stray pencil mark on a page," she said.

VOLUNTEER Braille duty is satisfying, said Hoetger, because she likes working with her hands and brain.

Lastly, the group has no affiliation with the church, despite the name. Financial support comes from the group's annual sale of Christmas cards.

Anyone interested in joining the group should call Hoetger at 476-4973 or instructor Dee Josaitis at 474-3468.

Oakland Republican leads Lucas transition team

Dennis Nystrom a Lucas fan

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

Dennis Nystrom is a Republican attorney from Oakland County who believes in William Lucas, the Democrat who will be the first Wayne County ex-

Nystrom is so enthusiastic about Lucas that he is heading his transition team with an eye on a top spot in Lucas' administration.

"The sheriff is a very wise man, who is very strong," Nystrom said from Lucas' transition office on the 7th floor of the City-County Building.

Nystrom, 42, of Birmingham, is a senior partner in the law firm of Jenkins, Nystrom, Hitchcock, Parfitt and Nystrom, with offices in Southfield and

NYSTROM HAS represented Sheriff Lucas for the past two years in his fight against the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, which sought to lay off

Does Wayne County really need to borrow?

Wayne County government officials will have to submit daily cash-flow statements to the state Municipal Finance Commission to determine if the county really needs to borrow $10 million to meet its payroll.

While Wayne officials plead poverty, state financial experts reported that the county should end up with a $6-million surplus in November and the same in December.

The county has appealed to the Finance Commission for approval to borrow.

Anton Presecan, the finance commission's deputy director, questioned the need for the county to miss its Oct. 29 payroll before providing employees with checks five days later.

"Based on the information we have, they should have been able to meet the payroll. I really don't know what is going on there yet. We'll have to see the other documents we've requested," Presecan said.

250 members of the road patrol because of chronic deficits.

Lucas and Nystrom lost every point in court, but, to many township voters, the sheriff appeared to be a hero for battling to preserve their county-paid police protection.

"Bill Lucas proved he's the preferred individual to lead Wayne County. He's a healer, who got 50 percent of the Republican vote and two white votes for every black one. He has a strong commitment to responsible, new government. I couldn't be prouder than to be working for Bill Lucas," he said.

On this particular morning, Nystrom was dressed in a blue and grey pinstripe suit, white shirt and cranberrycolored tie. A tattered but bulging briefcase barely revealing two newspapers lay on his desk.

He was comfortable talking about himself and didn't hesitate to say he was a hired advisor in two Republican campaigns - Richard Headlee for governor and Elizabeth Andrus for secretary of state.

"It's no secret I'm a life-long Republican," he said, "but I'm learning to work with diverse groups of people and am sensitive to the needs of people in Wayne County. I've learned to appreciate their perspective and to support Bill Lucas - and not to reflect on my own philosophies."

AS A PRACTICING attorney, Nystrom has represented municipal governments, railroad companies, insurance companies and small businesses. He is corporation counsel for the City of Romulus. He also worked briefly on the 1976 Republican campaign of Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Mur-

Nystrom expects he'll spend about "90 percent" of his time heading the, transition team, just as he has during the 10 months he worked on Lucas' campaign. But his law firm is strong, he said, and can fend for itself during his abserce.

"My main job is to help Bill Lucas get this thing going. Dan Murphy is working very closely with us, offering to do whatever he can," Nystrom said.

AS TRANSITION chief, Nystrom is responsible for recruiting personnel, developing policy position papers and making it as easy as possible for Lucas to "take over the reigns of power as county executive.

"We're looking for the best financial managers, personnel people, engineers, leaders and lawyers," Nystrom said.

"Our search for top people won't be restricted to Wayne County. We want super-qualified people to help lead Wayne County out of the financial morass and encourage businesses to locate here. We expect Wayne County to employ less people," he said.

Lucas' first priority will be getting the deficit-ridden budget under control, Nystrom said. They will deal with the "problems of the Road Commission.

We want to see the Road Commission deliver a higher percentage of the : budget to services, not salaries," he

Tough drunk-driving laws not enough AAA

Alcohol involvement in Michigan highway deaths will continue to increase despite new state drunk-driving laws unless police raise arrest rates and prosecutors and judges properly punish offenders, according to a study released Nov. 3 by the Automobile Club of Michigan.

The study "Under the Influence" points out that the precentage of fatal traffic accidents invovling alcohol in Michigan is increasing an average 2 percent annually. It estimates 917 persons could be killed by drinking drivers in 1982.

"We do not believe that alcohol-related traffic deaths will decline until flaws in the present system are corrected to ensure that drinking drivers receive swift and certain punishment," said Auto Club President Jack Avigforcement agencies and others who deal with this problem.

The report was the basis of the Auto Club's testimony before the Presidental Commission on Drunk Driving, which conducted hearings in Detroit.

Recommendations include increased use of police selective enforcement, more enforcement of laws against selling alcohol to minors and less use of plea bargaining by prosecutors in repeat-offender cases.

The study recommends that judges use a driver's blood-alcohol content (BAC) in determining sentencing and/ or treatment. It calls for the establishment of a statewide computerized court records system.

Avignone commended the Legislature for taking action to improve Michigan's drinking-driver problem.

"The new laws will have a positive impact on the alcohol highway safety problem in Michigan if they are properly and uniformly applied," he said.

"However, stiffer penalties alone are not the answer."

IN 1981, Michigan's 24,000 police of- ment of laws against selling alcohol to ficers issued 55,000 tickets for drunk driving, or only 2.2 per officer. At that rate, it is estimated that only one in 2,000 drunk-driving offenses is ever de-

"To improve this arrest ratio, we suggest that state, county and local police implement selective-enforcement programs," Avignone said.

Selective-enforcement teams would concentrate at high-accident areas on weekends and between 9 p.m. and 3 a.m. when most alcohol-related fatal accidents occur.

A special selective-enforcement program in Oakland County in 1980-81 resulted in a 30-percent increase in the number of drunk-driying arrests over the previous two years.

"Police also should increase enforce-minors and intoxicated persons," he said. "An average of only 37 liquor licensees were cited annually for liquorlaw violations from 1971 to 1981."

THE STUDY further recommends. that prosecutors eliminate the practice of allowing repeat alcohol-related offenders to plead guilty to lesser charges.

Of the 1,273 drunk-driving cases the Auto Club studied, only 21 percent resulted in convictions on the original charge, while the remainder were allowed to plead guilty to lesser charges.

"Under the Influence" suggests that judges use the BAC to determine whether an offender goes to jail, receives a license suspension or is sent to private counseling or long-term resi-

"The BAC provides an important clue to a driver's drinking habits and assures appropriate treatment," Avigonone said. "We also recommend that Michigan's district courts be computerized as soon as possible to provide instant information on offenders.'

A statewide link-up would enable other courts and police to know if a person has a similar case pending elsewhere and would provide a clue to a driver's drinking habits.

MICHIGAN'S NEW drunk-driving laws are expected to take effect in April 1983. They create a 23-member task force to recommend further legislative changes.

"The study contains six legislative recommendations. We hope the task force will carefully review them to hasten faster action by state lawmakers," Avignone said.

Those legislative recommendations include: adminstrative confiscation and suspension of a driver's license, with right of appeal, if an arrestee registers a BAC of .10 percent or more, and allowing on-site breath test results to be used as legal proof of BAC.

Other recommendations are a requirement that drunk-driving charges not be reduced to less than driving while impaired; that an original alcohol-related charge be noted on a person's driving record if convicted of a reduced charge; requiring Alcohol Highway Safety Classes to be taught by certified alcohol counselors and requiring mandatory BAC test for all drivers in fatal accidents.

Help for nearsighted under study

United States are nearsighted. These people cannot see distant objects clear-

Yet some people need 20/20 vision, such as firemen. Air Force pilots and pilots for most commerical airlines.

Until recently, the only ways nearsighted people could correct their vision to 20/20 were with glasses or contact lenses

IN JANUARY, Beaumont Hopsital in Royal Oak began participating in a national study to collect and document information on a surgical procedure to correct nearsightedness.

The study is named the Prosepective Evaluation of Radial Keratotomy (PERK). It is funded by the National Eye Institute.

Beaumont is one of nine centers in the U.S. chosen to gather data on this procedure for the next five years. In the radial kerototomy procedure, the surgeon reshapes the cornea of the nearsighted eye by making eight incisions on it like the spoke of a wheel. The cornea is the transparent tissue which covers the front of they eye. A nearsighted eyeball is longer than a normal eyeball. Light rays come to gether at a point in front of the retina, the inner lining of the eveball where the image is formed. The result: Nearsighted persons cannot see distant objects as clearly as close objects.

When the incisions are made, the central part of the cornea is flattened, reducing the elongation, Light rays then entering the eyeball focus directly onto the retina, producing clear, sharp vision.

PATIENTS SELECTED for the PERK at each of the nine centers go through a stringent screening process based on age, medical history and other criteria.

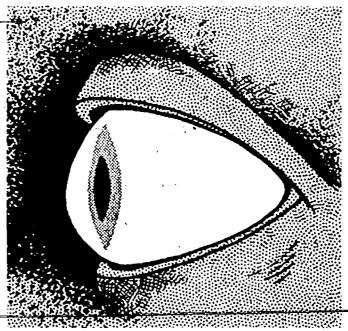

Patients must be reasonably certain they can come back for follow-up visits for a full five years after surgery. This is essential for proper documentation of progress.

William Myer, MD, opthalmologist, is the surgeon who performs the operations for the PERK study at Beaumont. He has been doing the radial keratotomy operation since 1979 in his private practice.

"I think it's a relatively safe procedure," says Dr. Myers. "But there has yet to be a definitive study on it, properly designed and executed." The PERK study, he says, could provide some vital answers.

There are several openings remaining for participation in the PERK study at Beaumont.

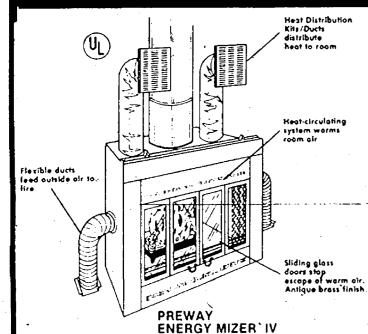

The near-sighted eye has an elongated cornea, which makes distant images out of focus.

After radial keratotomy, the cornea is flattened and images are properly focused. The incisions leave scars, though usually they're not notice-

Santaland parade will be Nov. 27

It's time to be thinking about the annual Santaland parade.

The Jaycees, who sponsor the event, have issued potential marchers a letter telling of the timetable and requirements for those to be in the parade, scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov.

Theme of the parade is "Christmases of Yesteryear," in keeping with the upcoming Garden City 50th anniversary to be observed next summer.

Olan Barnes, parade chairman, said that plaques will be given for the first-, second- and third-place marching units. Four high school bands are expected to perform, he said.

The only restrictions for the parade participants are that no other Santas be included other than the one from the Jaycees, no floats be longer than 40 feet; no floats be higher than 13 feet; and all units must be in place at the assembly point by 10:30 a.m., a halfhour before the parade starts.

The staging timetable calls for floats to be at the Garden City High School parking lot by 9 a.m. and marching units there by 10 a.m.

The parade will start at Middlebelt and Maplewood, move south to Ford, west to Merriman, and south to the City Park.

Santa will be in his Santaland castle that day until 6 p.m.

Wins promotion

Brian P. Holland of Garden City has been promoted to general manager of Best Syrup, a subsidiary of Coca-Cola Bottlers of Detroit Inc. He will be responsible for the sales, marketing and distribution of the products for southeastern Michigan. Holland holds a bachelor's degree in physiology from Western Michigan University.

Council to meet on goals setting

The Garden City Council will hold a public goals' setting meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 13, in City Hall, 6000

The session will be the third in recent weeks and is part of the council and administration's efforts to set goals before developing an operating budget for the next fiscal year.

Bank trust officers Despite recession told to get ready for '80s asset boom

By Suzle Rollins Singer staff writer

Double-income families with sophisticated investment priorities are forcing traditional bank trust departments to revamp in order to survive, a trust officer said.

Richard W. Heiss, senior vice president and senior trust officer at Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, told a group of estate planners that the "80s represents a challenging business environment for banks.'

"Volatile interest rates will continue, and the baby boom generation will enter a period of tremendous asset accumulation during the next few years and will want to invest it wisely.

"YOU WILL have to be ready," Heiss said.

"Banks must offer more investement-related advice. They have to offer money market funds to compete with brokerage houses. Banks can't wait for deregulation, they must acquire other skills now," he said.

Heiss told the 150-person group in the Westin Hotel that customers want a trust officer to act as a financial advisor, telling them the best way to invest their money.

Depositors presently have invested more than $200 million in money market funds. Now, non-banks such as Sears and Merrill Lynch are providing investment services to customers and competing with banks which offer lower interest rates and not nearly as many investment options, Heiss said.

Banks have to get into futures and options which are all promoted in an active society," Heiss added.

"IRAs WERE the first signficant test of opening up a new range of products," he said.

Heiss is immediate past president of the American Bankers Association Trust Division and presently serves on the ABA Trust Division executive committee and its communications council. He advised trust offers to draft long-range strategies to identify the market they want to serve. 'There are 75,000 major financial institutions in this country, and 100 could easily support the needs of this country. In order for trust departments to survive, they must be competitive. They have to capitalize on what they have," Heiss said.

"There is a need for a greater visibility (of trust departments) because onethird of the major trust departments in business today won't survive the '80s."

The consumption of alcohol-blended fuel, commonly known as gasohol or premium no-lead gasoline, leaped to a record 20.4 million gallons in August, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The August figures, which reflect retail sales of alcohol-blended gasoline in Michigan, show a substantial 47-percent increase from the record-breaking month of July, when 13.9 million gallons of blended product were sold.

This is the third time in as many months that alcohol fuels consumption figures reached record levels in Michi-

the record increase in sales to three major factors: "An increase in the number of retail outlets distributing the product, greater consumer awareness and acceptance of alcohol fuels by the motoring public, and the recognition that alcohol fuels improve engine performance and increase mileage.' Michigan ranks third in the United States in the consumption of alcohol fuels, behind Iowa and California.

HE ALSO announced that the United Foundation's 1982 Urban Progress Fund (UPF) campaign had reached its goal of $2.5 million to support the 1983 activities of New Detroit, Inc.

The UPF campaign, which solicits funds from selected Detroit-area corporations and foundations, has been conducted concurrently with the Torch Drive since 1969.

The Benson Ford Trophy, which recognizes the regular chapter campaign unit achieving the highest percentage of quota, was presented to the Commercial Unit chaired by Eugene A. Miller, president of Comerica, Inc. The amount raised was $7.4 million, or 105.6 percent of quota.

Final totals and percent of quota figures for the other chapter campaign units are: •

• Industrial Unit, chaired by Robert Lund, vice-president of marketing staff, General Motors Corp., $4.99 million, or 94.7 percent of quota.

• Service Unit, chaired by William T. McCormick Jr., president, American Natural Resources Co., $6.3 million, or 103.7 percent of quota.

• Schools, Government and Profes- sions Unit, chaired by Charles T. Smith Jr., managing partner, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., $3.99 million, or 104.1 percent of quota.

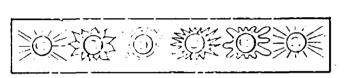

THE AUTOMOTIVE Manufacturers Unit, chaired by Philip Caldwell, chairman and chief executive officer of Ford Motor Co., raised $19.2 million. Community campaigns, chaired by Kenneth Whipple, president of Ford Motor Credit Co., raised $1.6 million, or 101.1 percent of quota. The Special Gifts Unit combined to raise $468,839.

The Pacesetter Campaigns, which includes companies that agreed to run early campaigns, raised a total of $2.4 million, or 111.3 percent of quota. Chairing the Pacesetter Campaigns was William C. Adams, president of Federal-Mogul Corp.

'No scapegoats,' GOP moderates tell conservative wing

By Suzie Rollins Singer and Tim Richard staff writer

Moderate Republicans are looking askance at a faction of the state GOP which calls itself the Michigan Conservative Union and blames "liberal" party leaders for Nov. 2 defeats.

"There should be no scapegoats," in the words of one suburban moderate.

The moderates say they weren't surprised when conservatives met last Saturday in Botsford Inn, Farmington Hills, and resolved to oppose re-election of GOP State Chairman Mel Larsen (who has since declined to run again) and co-chairwoman Ellen Temp-

MODERATES don't believe Larsen and Templin are responsible for the loss of the state ticket.

"I'm not surprised by any group getting together to talk about the future of the party," said former 2nd District Chairman Harry Greenleaf of Livonia.

'The question of leadership is clearly in my mind. The party needs to sit back and determine what to do next," he

But Greenleaf criticized the 40member conservative group — which includes Harry Veryser, chairman, and unsuccessful U.S. Senate candidate Robert Huber of Troy - for pointing a finger at Larsen.

There should be no scapegoats. The party should accept the fact that it was not successful in the gubernatorial election, but that it won some (legislative) seats. The main thing is for the party to get organized and look forward to '84," Greenleaf said.

BEFORE LARSEN departs, he said he would set up an "ad hoc committee of party leadeship" to plan a course of action.

"I'm calling for a new tolerance within the Republican Party," said Larsen, deploring news commentators' remarks about a "disastrous defeat" and "bickering" within the GOP.

He called Michigan a "ticket-splitting state," declining to blame any faction for the defeat of the entire statelevel ticket.

In Larsen's four-year tenure, Republicans added four seats in the state Senate, narrowing the gap from 24-14 to 20-18; seven seats in the state House, starting next term with a 63-47 minority, gained and then lost one congressional seat.

THE - CONSERVATIVES opposing Larsen, former Oakland County legislator, and Templin, Bloomfield Hills resident who ran for the University of Michigan Board of Regents, organized themselves as United Republicans of Michigan.

URM declared it supports the policies and programs of the 1980 national Republican platform and the new economic and social policies advocated by Reagan and his administration.

It said it would "contact" many prominent Republicans, among them party secretary Weldon Yeager.

TEMPLIN, WHO who is eyeing the chairmanship, called the the conservatives' criticisms unfair.

"I worked for the ticket, and we gained some seats," Templin said, adding that the state GOP has been divided for quite a while.

"There are some people who didn't work for the ticket so there's been some crossing of the swords, but that's about it," she said.

As far as Milliken's refusing to campaign for Richard Headlee, Templin said that was upsetting.

"It's too bad he's going out in a shadow. I don't know if Headlee and Brennan would have wanted him, but he didn't handle himself graciously," she WELDON YEAGER, state party secretary, said he, too, may be a candidate to succeed Larsen next year. The party will elect its chairman at a February state convention.

Larsen succeeded William McLaughlin in 1979 after the governor won reelection but the party lost legislative

"The liberals say I'm a conservative, and the conservatives say I'm a liberal," laughed Yeager, a West Bloomfield Township trustee and former state representative. "I try to be in the middle."

Yeager said he hadn't been invited to last weekend but was "delighted to know I'm prominent enough" to be contacted by that group.

If he becomes state chairman, Yeager said he would function as a policy-making person, taking no salary and leaving day-to-day operations to the executive director. Larsen had been pald by the party. "I disagreed with that, though I aven't said much about it," said Yeager Yeager said he personally got along with Larsen, who "had the right instincts but was saddled with internal problems."

One internal problem: the lack of support from Milliken's office. "It's easier for a party with no governor or (U.S.) senator, because the governor controls the purse strings. Mel couldn't be his own man," Yeager said.

He added the next chairman would need to be able to talk to all elements of the party and should emphasize local organization, especially fielding a candidate in every possible legislative and congressional district.

This year there were no Republican candidates in three congressional dis-

SECOND' DISTRICT Chairman Mi-

the conservative Republicans' meeting chael Legg blamed Milliken for bringing down the party, also criticizing Larsen for not exerting his "best leadership. "I will never forgive Gov. Milliken for his actions and for damaging the party," said Legg, a lawyer from Livo-"Larsen did a reasonably good job, but the general economics of the state and the dominance of the women's issues brought Headlee down," he added. Legg also said it was not unusual for the "state party that's in the worst condition in 20 years" to try to reorganize. Larry Littman, GOP delegate from Troy and former 18th District chairman, said the conservative movement was expected but probably not broadly Littman also said it was unfair to accuse Larsen and Templin of killing the party.

"It's the same leadership we had two years ago, when we picked up a lot of seats. I can't see how the party leaders can be blamed. They manned the phone centers and got the mailers functioning very well. I did see some lack of coordination within the campaigns," Littman said.

A resolution opposing Larsen, former legislator from Oakland County, and Templin, a Bloomfield Hills resident who ran for the University of Michigan Board of Regents, contained this three-part indictment:

• "The chairman and co-chairman of Republican State Central Committee have been ineffective in capitalizing on the support of the majority of Michigan voters - Republicans, Democrats and independents — for Republican issues,

• "Republicans have steadily lost seats in the state House, state Senate, U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives, despite the popular shift in Michigan to traditional Republican

ANOTHER RESOLUTION was to form an organization called United Republicans of Michigan. All members support the policies and programs of the 1980 national Republican platforth and the new economic and social policles advocated by President Ronald Reagan and his administration.

The 12-member steering committee of United Republicans of Michigan met for five hours in Veryser's offices Sunday and began the delegate identification and education work necessary to gain the majority votes in the February

1983 Republican State Convention. Noted Veryser, "Control of the Republican Party in Michigan has been impacted by redistricting and the small number of votes for the Republican candidate for secretary of state in last week's general election. The liberals are in for a fight, and I don't think they can win in February."

Girl wins twirl title

Cristen Green, third grader at St. Raphael Catholic School, has won the title of Juvenile Michigan State Novice Solo Twirl at competition held this month at Addison, Mich. She has also won two other first place trophies in the categories novice solo twirl and beginner instate solo twirl.

By winning the state title, Cristen, 8. qualifies to compete in the nationals to be held next July in Indiana.

This latest title brings Cristen's total first place trophies to six wins in three competitions which advances her from beginner to the intermediate classification.

She has been taking baton lessons from Kim Green of Garden City for a year.

Charter changes still needed

To the editor:

I would like to extend my heart-felt gratitude to all the residents of our community that voted in the last elec-

The number of people that turned out at the polls, in spite of the inclement weather, renewed my faith in our system of government, and was a clear indication that the residents of Garden City were determined to be heard.

You showed that you are concerned about what is happening in our community, our state and our country. To those of you that are eligible to vote but chose not to do so, I can only say you passed up the opportunity to be heard and to participate in the workings of the greatest system of government in the history of mankind.

I sincerely hope you will join the rest of us at the polls for the next election so we may make this truly a government of all the people, by all the people and for all the people.

As for the vote on our local proposals, one of our local newspapers, the Garden City Observer, stated the Garden City residents overwhelmingly rejected a possible change in their local government.

The final result of the proposal question, "do you want to change the form of government for Garden City from a city manager form to that of a fulltime mayor?," was 58 percent against change, 42 percent for a change.

This cannot be construed in anyway as an overwhelming rejection, and the wishes of the majority will prevail (as well they should).

At the same time, let us remember the 42 percent who voted for a change is representative of a large segment of voters that are dissatisfied.

The voice of the minority should be heard and their apprehensions should be analyzed and dealt with by the present administration.

The proposal dealing with a charter revision was narrowly defeated by 70 votes from the 9,182 votes cast.

During the campaign, the mayor and four of the present council stressed the need for charter admendments. I sincerely hope they do not choose to rest on their laurals now that the election is over.

To the many friends and neighbors that supported and voted for me for the charter commission, I wish to convey my deep appreciation and assure you and all the residents of our community I will continue to remain active in city

' I sincerely hope the present administration will accept all assistance and contructive ideas offered by interested residents with a positive attitude and not confuse interest and participation in government with antagonism and interference any time they do not agree SEMTA's REGIONAL funds (taxes) collected by the secretary of state on Krause said. license plates and title transfers in ~ Wayne, Oakland and Macomb countles) have been held in escrow during two years of litigation by the Oakland County Road Commission. This now amounts to $21 million.

If an early and favorable ruling is made by the state Court of Appeals to release this money before Dec. 31, the cutbacks and fare increases may not be as severe, Krause said.

Additionally, SEMTA depends on passage of the package of bills in the state Legislature designed to assist all forms of transportation across Michigan. It is expected that legislators will heavily used services would be rediscuss these bills when they reconvene in early November.

SEMTA is also waiting to find out how much aid it will receive from the federal government.

THE REDUCTIONS are severe,

All commuter rail service (Pontiac-Detroit, currently three trains in each direction) would be eliminated.

They include reducing weekday regular route operation from 264 to 98 buses; eliminating all Sunday service and cutting back from 64 to 13 buses on Saturday. This amounts to an elimination of 64 percent of all weekday buses," decreasing service miles by 70 percent, with passenger rides reduced by as much 60 percent.

Only the most productive routes and tained, which essentially means peakhour downtown connections Monday, Friday. All of SEMTA's 43,500 total daily riders would be affected, either because of canceled service or over-

Weekday small-bus operations would be reduced from 200 to approximately 15 buses, which can be supported by subscription service underwriting the total operating cost of those yehicles.

Fare increases would also be required. Adjustments would include raising the basic fare from 90 cents to $1, with a 25-cent zone charge.

Small-bus basic fares for county connectors would increase from $1.80 to $2 and for community connectors from $1.30 to $1.50. Elderly and handicapped would continue to pay half-fare rates.

U-M, MSU offer area income tax institutes

The University of Michigan and Michigan State University will sponsor two-day income tax institutes for tax practitioners in November and Decem-

The U of M tax clinics begin on Nov. 18 and 19 with 15 sessions altogether. The seminars will cover such topics as 1982 provisions of the Economic Recovery Tax Act, lump sum distributions and business use of the home.

MSU tax clinics will concentrate more heavily on tax law for businesses and this year include topics such as bankruptcy and repossessions, farm and urban problems, net operating losses, capital gains and losses. Classes begin Nov. 15 and 16 with 25 sessions.

For registration information contact U-M at 764-5304 (Ann Arbor) and MSU at 517-355-4590 (East Lansing).

U-M DATES and Wayne County locations sessions are:

• Nov. 15-16 - Plymouth Hilton Inn, 14707 Northville Road, Plymouth. • Dec. 2-3 - Holiday Inn West, 17123 Laurel Park Drive, North, Livo-

• Jan. 5-6. - Rackham Educational Memorial Building, 100 Farnsworth east of Woodward, Detroit.

MSU sessions will be held in Plymouth Hilton Inn, 14707 Northville Road, Nov. 29-30 and Dec. 13-14.

Officials must pave way for local road work

THE ISSUES OF any election campaign. someone once said, are the issues of May and June. When the winners take office in January, they are likely to face a new set of issues they never debated.

In 1983 the Michigan Legislature and governor will have to tackle the issue of roads. Our freeways already are a generation old, for the most part, and need resurfacing. Many bridges across the state have been targeted as needing rebuilding. Lots of county roads consist of patches on top of other Outgoing Gov. William G. Milliken, bless his forward looking heart, wanted to face the issue. Last-March, when he proposed an income tax increase, he wanted to earmark part of that money for roads.

He was shot down - for two reasons, it appears. First, the legislature wanted to hold down the size and duration of a tax increase, fearing the wrath of the voters. Second, the road lobby didn't want to be financed out of the general fund because in later years it would have to butt head-to-head with mental health, education and all those good things for general fund tax money.

SO THE CAMPAIGN issue became, in James Blanchard's words, "jobs, jobs and jobs." It was tough sledding to get the candidates to discuss the deplorable condition of our roads - except in Westland, where several candidates whispered grateful mutterings about Ford Road finally being widened and resurfaced.

But not one candidate had the nerve to mention Wayne or Warren roads.

Everyone agrees that both need major work. The city even gave the county a money advance to work on Wayne Road. Sure, the area from Marquette south has received improvement, but the section north of Ford Road is so bad the county has had to lower the speed limit.

The expansion of Westland Center at Wayne and Warren roads, as well as the growth of two new shopping centers'on Wayne between Ford and Warren was bound to increase traffic volume.

Now one wonders how much worse it can get before shoppers decide to give up and head elsewhere. In the last several years, merchants reported waits of up to an hour to travel from Ford to Warren on Wayne Road during the holiday shopping season.

WELL, THE ELECTION is over, ladies and a gents, and the survivors still must face the issue.

Back in the 1960s, Michigan was wise enough to discontinue the practice of "earmarking" certain taxes for education, but we continued the bad habit for roads. The results: When gasoline and weight taxes are high, our road funds are overflowing; when those taxes are down, as they are now, we run short of road money.

For those who tuned into this issue late, here is the situation: Our fuel-efficient cars are burning. much less gasoline, which is taxed on a per-gallon basis. Our vehicles are lighter, so our weight taxes are similarly down.

Total mileage also is down, though only a trifle, due to the depression.

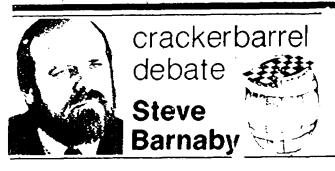

IT'S FASHIONABLE to complain about high taxes, but the truth is that our road-tax fund is something like 20 percent smaller than three or four years ago.

All sorts of options are available. The legislature could simply raise the rates on gasoline and weight faxes. It could dip into the state general fund to beef up the road fund. It could make the gasoline tax advalorem (that is, a percentage of the total price) rather than a specific number of cents per gallon.

Here's a good question: If our vehicles are so much lighter, why are our roads breaking up so badly? One possible answer: Sure, cars are lighter, but Michigan has the heaviest truck weights in the . Union. We may need to consider either a)reducing weight limits or, more likely, b) much higher weight taxes on those 11-axle monsters.

Westland's new state representative for the 38th district, Justine Barns, will have a good grasp of the situation when she heads to Lansing in January. It may be rough travel for a freshman legislator, but Barns ought to begin now to work on solutions to area road problems with our other state and federal legislators.

Our roads need work, and that work will cost

A doctrinaire ideologue is pulling out

NE THING IS perfectly clear. We won't have Dick Headlee to kick around any more. Just ask him. One bid for political office was enough.

The conservative standard-bearer was bitter on election night. He lashed out -- especially at the media. In his world, good guys always win, and in his script he is the good guy. The newspeople, he said, just couldn't get the script right. Neither, apparently, could anyone else, according to Headlee.

But good guys, especially political good guys, compromise — the essential ingredient Headlee left out of his campaign recipe.

Back on the day he whipped Lt. Gov. James Brickley in the primary, election '82 was his for the asking — if he had placed his bets wisely. Headlee's gambling instincts led him to keep his chips on the conservative square when he should have moved them to the moderate. And that was his downfall.

HIS NEEDLESS attack on the Equal Rights Amendment certainly will be cited for years as his downfall.

And indeed, women turned on him in droves. Headlee would only have had to examine the political scene in the suburbs to see the power of the women's vote. More women than ever sit on city councils, school boards, college boards and com-

Those of us who had known Headlee for years were introduced to a new one in the campaign.

Precampaign Headlee was anxious to listen, eager to debate, pleasant and affable. A charmer, some said. He was a responsible businessman looking for responsible solutions. It was to be business and labor working together.

CANDIDATE HEADLEE was someone strangely and uncomfortably different. Gone was the the common-sense businessman who had pulled a floundering insurance company out of the muck. In his place was a narrow, pompous conservative ideologue, unwilling to cross a doctrinal line to find solutions.

Although he testified to George Romney's being his mentor. Headlee apparently never learned the valuable lesson Romney taught the Michigan Republican Party.

Romney talked not as a business man, not as a labor man but as a Citizen. He drove moss-back conservatives crazy.

He drove Michigan labor leaders crazy. While they were trying to deliver the rank and file to the Democrats, Romney wooed them away. Many times he marched into a union hall to catcalls, only to march triumphantly out with a standing ovation.

Workers respected his courage and determination. The press admired his maverick style.

WE SAW NONE of this from Headlee. Instead, he vehemently attacked issues that wouldn't have been ... noticed by a credible candidate.

He attacked teachers for striking when everyone realized that in a matter of days they would be back in the classroom. Instead of sitting down and talking with Coleman Young, he viciously attacked the policies of the three-term mayor of Michigan's

Instead of dealing with political realities, he led a moral crusade against abortion, against an already-defeated ERA, against the well-liked Gov. William Milliken. Days after the governor's wife. Helen Milliken, was hospitalized for cancer surgery, he attacked a report on women's issues she was instrumental in authoring.

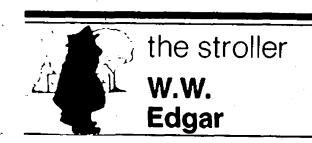

Voters, women especially, questioned his sense of

Even some of his earliest supporters were amazed and embarrassed at his lack of tact and Headlee always claimed he was different from other political office-seekers. He was a citizen trying to get his government back on the straight and narrow. He was no politician, he said.

For once, Dick Headlee was correct. And hopefully, that's the end of that story.

THE KHEDER reply was duly printed. Just recently, however, I saw a copy of the original and noted something that didn't get into print: a list of Beautiful things in life have price

It so happened that years ago, when The Stroller was seeking a plot on which to build a home, he selected a wooded area because he liked trees.

But the other morning when he was raking the fallen beauties, he was reminded of the advice of his old teacher.

These petals of beauty were now a rusty hue and far from beautiful. What's more, they were piled on top of each other about three inches thick. They became a burden to rake, especially since they had to be raked to the street more than 100 feet away.

As he stroked the rake and lifted the leaves, the words of his teacher came faintly through the years: "You will have to pay for everything you get. There is no free ride."

As the raking continued, it seemed like a stiff price. At least The Stroller was stiff at the finish.

OBSERVER AND ECCENTRIC NEWSPAPERS

SLUMPING DOWN in a chair, he didn't take any pleasure at the sight of the pile of these dead beauties he had left for the city truck to haul away.

Instead, his thoughts turned to the future and the job that is sure to face him and the price he will have to pay when the snow falls.

When the earth — particularly The Stroller's portion of it — is covered with snow, it is a thing of beauty. Out in the large lot, the snow remains white for a long time. It is eye-catching until he looks at the driveway early in the morning.

Behind the beauty is the problem of clearing the driveway so that he can drive to work. Mind you, this is early in the morning when no one else is in sight.

What was a thing of beauty the night before now becomes a hazard as The Stroller must get out the snowplow and cut the path for an auto to get out. Snow isn't beautiful then.

As the teacher said long ago: "You must pay for everything you get. There are

Howls from the social services lobby

OMETHING FUNNY is going on between Michigan's welfare lobby and education lobby. I wrote a column about it Sept. 9, and the reaction from Lansing convinces me there is some kind of strange conspiracy.

season; he had it right at home.

The facts can be stated simply, and not even the most vehement defender of the social services budget even bothers to deny them:

Since the early 1960s, the social services portion of the state budget has grown from about 10 percent to more than 30 percent, an increase of about 1 percent a year. In the same period, state spending on all education has dropped from 50 percent of the budget to around the 30 percent mark, a decrease of about 1 percent a year for 20 years.

While many politicians have decried the twin trends, no educator, to my knowledge, has ever put one and one together. Educators have mounted and lamented that state support for colleges and kindergarten-through-12 schools is declining, but have never pointed the finger of blame at the social services budget.

My provocative opus drew lightening bolts from Noble P. Kheder, director of the state Department of Social Services, and Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, a folk hero among social services types but not a word from an educator. Not a peep. Very, very strange.

eight state officials to whom Kheder had sent carbon copies. One recipient was Phillip Runkel, superintendent of public instruction.

It was as if the director of social services was asking the head of education not to reply or, in his words, "not to rise to Mr. Richard's bait."

It is getting to look more and more as if there is a conspiracy among educators not to address the question of why social services costs are rising so rèlentlessly year after year.

The social services lobby sent along a host of pamphlets, reports and articles purporting to prove that the DSS isn't throwing away money right and

UNFORTUNATELY, the champions of social services fail to come to grips with the central issue. They argue that the current depression is to blame. The fact, however, is that the depression has been on for only three years while the social services has been eating away at the education budges steadily for 20 years, in good years and bad.

They argue that education may well be allowed to decline as a portion of state spending because the school-age population is down. Anyone familiar with suburban school district finances can see through that one. What has happened is that state aid as a portion of local school budgets for grades kindergarten through 12 has declined, in some cases to the vanishing point, while school reliance on local property taxes has grown.

At the college level, the same kind of thing has gone on. As state aid as a proportion of total expenditures declines, tuition rises. In other words. today's college students and their parents are picking up the tab for the cancerous rise in Michigan's social services budget.

THEY ARGUE that Michigan's welfare recipients are getting cut, too; that they are getting less per person or per family than two or three years

Again, the social services lobby chooses to ignore the real problem: Social services spending has grown for 20 years as a proportion of the state budget by about one percent a year, and education spending has declined at the same rate over the same period of time. Why, who or what is responsible for a growth in the social services budget that has continued for almost a generation?

And why does the education lobby persist in seeking new sources of revenue, such as the federal government, without pointing the finger at its own worst enemy?

M-DOT expecting another bad winter

Highway income is declining, the maintenance work force is reduced, and many forecasters predict one of the coldest winters of the century for much of the nation.

Depsite those drawbacks, the Michgian Department of Transportation (MDOT) is preparing to keep the 9,500mile state highway system clear for travel through the winter. M-DOT has budgeted $36.1 million for snow and ice removal and provided a $6-million contingency for use if storms batter the state the way they did last winter.

Four weekend storms last January cost the state $8 million to clear the highways. Cities and counties spent millions more.

STATE HIGHWAY maintenance costs in the 1981-82 winter climbed to a record $40.7 million, about one-third higher than the previous year.

Any part of the winter budget which might not be used will be spent for much-needed routine highway maintenance in the spring and summer, said Donald Orne, MDOT's chief maintenance engineer.

The department directly maintains state highways - all the Intersate and U.S. and M numbered highways in 21 counties. It contracts the work out to county road commissions in 62 counties and the larger municipalities.

"Because highway revenues continue to decline, our work force has been cut 13.7 percent since 1980," Orne said. "We still plan to maintain our 'bare pavement' policy on major highways ways is for winter maintenance.

and freeways, although it will be a tougher job for the people who operate the equipment." Orne said 34 percent of the state highway system is considered heavily traveled, with average daily traffic volumes of 3,500 or more vehicles.

UNDER MDOT'S winter maintenance policy, moderately traveled routes, which make up 37 percent of the total system, will be plowed during regular workday hours until the center portion is clear. They will be kept passable at all times.

Lesser traveled highways will be plowed until passable. They will remain snow-covered on weekends and holidays until they can be plowed during normal workday hours.

An estimated 1,200 state and county equipment operators using some 900 trucks will be keeping the highways clear this winter.

Approximately 40 percent of the money spent maintaining state high-

Mark Thompson's art takes many forms. His own car is airbrushed with a decorative creation.

Here he works with airbrush on cartoon-type pictures.

"Thisties" is the name of this picture, which won for Thompson a first prize from the Livonia Arts Commission.

A comic book story with a space theme is next on the Thompson agenda.

By Sherry Kahan staff writer

SK MARK Thompson what he would most like to do with his life, and he'll tell you his goal is to work on artistic special effects at a Hollywood movie studio.

The 23-year-old former Livonian who now resides in Westland took a small step in that direction recently. One of his paintings brought him a first-place ribbon at an art exhibit sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission. His picture of dry thistles against a reddish brown background, along with the other art works exhibited, can be viewed through Nov. 19 in the Livonia City Hall.

"I was quite surprised that I won," said Thompson, a 1977 Churchill High School graduate. "I had stiff competition. I thought at first it was a show for hobbyists, but found they were real working artists. It was a tremendous thing for Livonia. The artists showed a lot of talent."

The young artist, whose work in animation can be seen in current Farmer Jack TV commercials, entered the show because of encouragement from his aunt, Mary Downing. A member of the Visual Arts Association of Livonia, she is one of several people who have influenced his career.

Maybe his mother Ruth Pirschel had some early understanding of his talent, or maybe she was just being motherlike. At any rate, Thompson remembers, she managed to tuck away for posterity several of the drawings he made when he was 2.

"ONE PICTURE was an open can which showed a jagged edge," he said. "I guess they didn't expect that from a 2-year-old.' From second grade on, his teachers let him know art was something he was good at.

His father, the late Fred Thompson. did cartoons for his children.

"He kept me going," said Thompson. "He taught us there was beauty in nature. He opened the mind's eye to an awful lot out there.

"I could see the simple beauty in a spider's web or a thistle, when others might wonder, 'why don't they clean up all that dead stuff?'

The artist as a young man, met Maurice Musick, art instructor at Churchill. "He really got my guns fired up," Thompson said. "He taught me about anatomy, the use of light; scale and perspective."

Musick also urged Thompson to enter scholastic art shows, where he found himself winning prizes. "He helped me prepare a portfolio to use to enter the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit," he said. "I owe him a lot."

With a four-year certificate in advertising, and a major in illustration under his belt, Thompson entered the world of commercial art about two years ago.

HIS FIRST JOB had him doing mechanical and technical illustrations, visual aids and catalogs for the military, Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. Then he worked for a firm that specialized in television, special effects and movie and cable animation.

Have you seen the animated computer in Farmer Jack TV ads? Thompson had a hand in that, along with a number of others.

He has also designed store displays, created logos and letterheaad designs, and done his share of maps, charts, graphs and brochures. He expects soon to be involved in making story boards used in making TV commercials. His job would be to create pictures that show the cameraman what he is expected to shoot.

TODAY, LIKE MANY others, Thompson has been hit by the recession. He works as a free-lance artist and accepts commissions. He can be reached at 421-3890.

Recently he finished a landscape painting. He is working on a comic book with an outer-space theme and is employed part-time at Concept Productions in Plymouth.

He hasn't forgotten his goal to work in a Hollywood studio. But he has a dilemma.

"I don't think there is anything I'd rather do than art," he said. "I put a little bit of myself and love in everything I do, from a picture of a blender or scrub brushes to a landscape pic-

"But I've been wondering if staying in Michigan is the decision for me. The style I like to work in is a decorative style - frilly, fun, bright - which is Californian. Detroit is basically more technically and auto oriented.

"But all my friends and family are in Michigan. I'd be a wreck if I was away from my family and lost my friends. I can't see it yet. I had luck before. I could again."

APPROACHING HIS 24th birthday, the local artist mentioned a few of the joys and sorrows he has experienced in the world of commercial art.

Among the sorrows, for him, is the competitiveness of that world.

"You have to have a name to become really popular," he said. "In some cases I lose out to someone more established. It can be cutthroat. A lot of it is based on who you know."

His dream is to have control of his own work, "but in this business the art directors tell you what and where. I'd like to handle all parts from the beginning composition, a rough rendering of what the ad would look like to the finished production."

In the joys catagory he places the sight "of something coming from my fingers and mind, and then realized in a painting or film. There is real satisfaction because I'm always growing. Everything I'm doing has something better than the last.

"I've got so many ideas. If I had all the time in the world I couldn't get it all out."

Here's Mark Thompson, an artist ready to move ahead.

Foundation has fought leukemia for 30 years

A three-decade battle against lifethreatening blood disorders will be celebrated Saturday, Nov. 13 when the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan holds its 30th anniversary in the Roostertail Lounge in Detroit.

Founded in 1952 by a group of parents who had lost children to leukemia, the foundation raises money for leukemia research and offers support to those experiencing the trauma of the

In its 30 years it had raised $3.5 million for serious blood disease research and $1 for direct aid to victims. It serves about 1,000 Michigan residents afflicted with 11 various disorders, both adults and children. A disorder affecting blood cell production, leukemia causes the proliferation of immature white blood cells which crowd out normal cells leaving the victim without mechanisms to protect against infection.

As a result leukemia victims may succumb to afflictions routinely compatted by healthy persons. A relatively rare disorder, leukemia afflicts one in 10,000 persons, 65 percent of whom are adults, and more men than women.

Those wishing to attend the anniversary celebration may register by calling the foundation at 353-8222.

newspaper in recent years, you know about displaced homemakers.

I decided the other day that what I'm becoming is a displaced housekeeper, and I must say I love it. The man of our house is the one doing the displacing, and I love him too.

There's always been a sharing of tasks on the home front, of course. Even back in the long-ago days when he worked two jobs, he used to take an occasional turn at dishwashing and

And, as in most families, he was always the outside man, in charge of grass-cutting, snow-shovelling and garage cleaning.

OVER THE years he's added to his skills. I made a point of teaching the girls something about cooking, but he just moved in and read cookbooks and worked up some great specialties. "Dad's fish" and bouillabalse became family favorities.

When I became a working woman, he became a bed-maker. Well, he insisted, that was just because he, as a night worker, was still in the bed when I-left for the office.

For years we had a wonderful lady who came every week to clean our get the place cleaned up.

Wilkens to talk on beauty, health

The Livonia Town Hall audience will learn about beauty, health and fashion during a talk by Emily Wilkens, fashion expert and syndicated columnist, at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 17 in the Mai Kai Theatre, Plymouth and Farmington Roads,

Livonia. Wilkens first gained internataional fame as a fashion designer when she created clothing specifically for teenagers and young adults. For this she received the Coty Award; the Neiman Marcus Award and the Mademoiselle Magazine Fashion Award.

Wilkens was also the first to intoduce such items as the petticoat for juniors and was the prime developer of the fake fur fashion.

She became a consultant on fabrics and color, and became involved as a teacher of fashion design at the New York Fashion Institute of Technology.

Turning her attention to health and beauty, she wrote a book called "A New You." She is a strong proponent of health, beauty and exercise.

Tickets for three remaining Town Hall lectures can be purchased at the door for $18. Single tickets are $10. Others who will be speaking in this season's series are Bob Talbert, Detroit Free Press columnist, who will speak Jan. 19, and Dr. David Burns, psychiatry professor at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, whose talk will be March 16.

Single tickets for the celebrity luncheon which follow the lecture are $7.50. Those wishing to reserve a ticket should send a check to Livonia Town Hall, Box 2143, Livonia 48150....

No reservations or cancellations will be accepted after the Friday preceding the lecture. Groups of eight may request seating at the same table.

Questions about Livonia Town Hall should be directed to Mrs. Norbert Dittmar at 474-7213.

'Moral Perspectives' endures for a decade

By Margaret Miller staff writer,

A quintet of area clergymen are celebrating this week a decade of columns designed to spur the thinking of Observer & Eccentric readers.

"Moral Perspectives," written on a rotating basis by clergy of differing faiths who minister to people throughout these suburbs, began the second week of November, 1972 in the Birmingham Eccentric.

For 10 years the column has appeared, with only a very few lapses when someone missed connections. The endurance record makes it rare, if not unique in the annals of this group of newspapers.

Current contributors to "Moral Perspectives," printed each Thursday on the church pages of the 12 newspapers in the Observer & Eccentric group, are: the Rev. David Strong, pastor of St. Matthew United Methodist Church of Livonia; the Rev. Charles Erickson, pastor of the Congregational Church of Birmingham; the Rev. Lloyd Buss, pastor of Abiding Presence Lutheran Church of Rochester, Rabbi Irwin of Southfield, and the Rev. Robert invitation to Buss. Schaden, campus advisor for Newman House, the Catholic student center on the campus of Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Strong, one of its originators, as a means of expressing "the moral contices of speakers and sales and rummage sales that newspapers printed."

At that time Strong was pastor of Fellowship Methodist Church in Troy and he and the Rev. Richard J. Cassidy, then with St. Hugo of the Hills Gatholic Church, both had been involved in the movement of protest against the war in Seeking a vehicle for commentary on spiritual values as they affect suburban society, they first sought out two more writers, Erickson and Groner.

"Our criteria," Strong remembers, "was that we wanted a range of denominations and we wanted people who would comment on social structure and hopefully could write well."

When the Congregationalist and the rabbi had joined them, they took their plan to the Eccentric.

"We wanted to be paid," Erickson took up the story, "at least enough to get together for lunch once a month. We really wanted the column to appear in a section of the paper other than the church page, because we know some people just skip the church page."

Newspaper exigencies have located the column in the church section more often than not, but the pay and the lunches have gone on for the 10 years the column has run.

And the clergymen involved have kept another covenant they made at the beginning with each other.

"We agreed," said Erickson; "we wouldn't allow each other to use old sermons."

CASSIDY WAS moved by the Detroit Archdiocese shortly after the column was instituted to a post with its office for justice and peace.

To replace him, the group invited the Rev. Bernard Harrington of Holy. Name Catholic Church to take his turn at writing. Within a few months they Groner of Congregation Shaarey Zedek also expanded the group, extending an

"At first we used to sit down and talk over the issues we wanted to discuss," noted Erickson. "Then we realized that our personalities were different enough so the columns would not duplicate each other even if we should tackle the same subject."

While seeking to present what Erickson described as "the broad sweep of moral concerns of society from the concept of the Judeo-Christian value structure," the writers have found they each tend to have their interest areas.

Kenwood starts 2nd generation

Kenwood Church of Christ of Livonia will celebrate its 30th anniversary Sunday by making a new start.

"We are entering this second generation with far greater resources than were available for the first generation at Kenwood," wrote David Baynes, minister, in the church newsletter.

"We now have 230 members, a very handsome building that is debt free, an admirable mission budget, a progressive Christian education program, a full-time minister and the prospect of an associate minister added soon."

Baynes will speak at the 11 a.m. anniverary worship service Sunday, at which there will also be special music and a reading of Kenwood's history. A luncheon will follow at 12:30 p.m.

An anniversary program is scheduled at 3 p.m. with two ordained ministers who grew up in the congregation expected to deliver messages. They are Bruce Long of Cincinnati and Mike Washburn of Edgartown, Ohio.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the anniversary will be the establishment of a second generation charter for Kenwood. It will affirm the purposes of the first charter.

These were "to carry out the commands of Christ as suggested in the Great Commission, to preach the simple and entire gospel of pardon, Christian life and Christian duty at home and abroad, to encourage and admonish each other to mutual edification and Christlikeness, and to exemplify the spirit of Christ in all moral and civic affairs."

All church members are invited to sign the document before Nov. 14. A replica will be given to signers, and the original written in calligraphy by Kathy Danner will be framed and displayed.

A committee of 13 has been meeting since August to plan the celebration. Chairmen are Larry and Suann Dibble of Livonia. Other members are Bill and Virginia Kelm, Herman and Esther Paul, John and Jackie Gores, Roland and Mary Uncopher, Bill and Carol Brown and David Baynes.

A HOME BOOKLET called "Anniversary Reflections" written by committee members will be distributed at the anniversary ceremonies and used for home devotions during Thanksgiv-Ing and Christmas holidays.

The first members of Kenwood church worshipped in the IOOF Hall on Inkster Road. In 1954, two years after it began, the tiny congregation bought the 100-year-old St. Paul Lutheran Church on Middlebelt and Eight Mile. The building was moved down Middlebelt to St. Martins.

Ground was broken for a new Kenwood building on Merriman in November 1969. The building was dedicated in October 1970.

The election is over? It's only the beginning

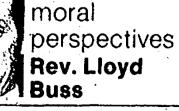

Election day, 1982 is over. Most of the votes have been counted. Almost all of the losers have conceded defeat. Yard signs have disappeared.

Now the citizenry can set politics aside until next year. Right? Wrong. Election day is to the political process what the wedding ceremony is to marriage. Life together is just beginning.

Remembering the observation of the Scotsman who told me that "things will never be right in bolitics until you and I are in charge," it will be important to recognize and acknowledge the limitations of the human adventure. Men and women were elected with the same restraints and limitations of body and mind that we know.

CAMPAIGN RHETORIC must be set aside and the public good must be served. Democrats and Republicans may have run for election, but it is the public that those elected will be serving. Both the served and the serving must counsel together to accent the order of life that nurtures and enriches.

Waiting for failure or gloating in election success hardly serves the community. The fabric of social life is far more inclusive than party politics.

Commenting on the 1982 election results, Republican National Committeeman Peter Secchia of Grand Rapids said: "I don't think abortion and women's issues have anything to do with building a party. Those reflect a candidate's personal preferences, like whether you take a vacation in July or August."

One can hope for more sensitivity and responsibility for issues of such importance, but Peter Secchia is probably more right than wrong. And that illustrates the dramatic difference between effective political campaigning and effection govern-

I WASN'T impressed with the level of campaigning reached in the 1982 campaign. There were moments of political statesmanship, but more of meanness and party pettiness. Campaign rhetoric created few moments for worthy reflection.

Now that is past, and we must share our insights and judgments, our hopes and dreams in the exercise of justice and order for all. Abortion and women's issues may only be personal preferences to party candidates when they campaign for elec-

When they are elected it will be our common responsibility to make sure they are treated with considerably more importance than a vacation in either July or August.

Outlining a program of care and regard for the well-being of all is not an easy talk. We might be able to allow political parties to develop their strategles in the isolation of their mind-set, but once our votes are counted and campaigners become governors, legislators, commissioners, judges et al, then the process of government must include those who govern and those who are governed in that formation and composition of care where the needs of all will be met by the care of all. -That is the art of politics at its best. On Thursday, November 11, 1982

Bentley KOs Stevenson; WLAA cage final on tap

The state tournament has yet to arrive, but Livonia Bentley and Plymouth Salem will be squaring off for third time this season in a key girls' basketball game.

The two teams will be meeting Friday night at Salem in the Western Lakes playoff finals. Both teams advanced to the championship game with semifinal victories Tuesday night.

Bentley rolled past Livonia Stevenson, 54-36, while Salem took care of Walled Lake Central, 39-30.

Each team has a win so far in the series pitting two of the state's top-ranked Class A teams. Laurie Day and Kim Archer keyed a potent Bentley fast-break in the win over Stevenson.

Day hit nine of 13 shots from the floor and finished with 19 points to lead all scorers. Archer, meanwhile, hit five of eight shots and grabbed five rebounds as Bentley increased its overall season record to 17-2.

Sherry Evans and Bev Irwin tallied 13 and 10, respectively, for the Spartans, who dropped to 9-10 overall.

The Patriots put together a strong offensive and defensive effort Tuesday to beat non-league foe Ypsilanti, gaining their ninth win in 16 games. Alicia Lectka paced the winners with 14 points. Mary Pollard and Carolyn Smith each chipped in with eight.

Dulece Jordan tallied 10 for Ypsi, now 5-11 on the season.

"The nice thing is that we outscored them in every quarter," said Franklin coach Tim Newman. "The kids are getting their confidence. We've won four out of five now.

"We finally got a combination of two things (both offense and defense). We've been playing good man-to-man defense all along. They're scrapping and making things happen."

Area prep playoff entries slim for 1982 fall football campaign

Not only did I finish first in the office "Picum" competition, where we three sports "experts" attempt to pick the winners of the high school football games we cover, but I also got my storms up and leaves raked before the first football playoff date. Personal bests on both counts.

Ah, the playoffs. Once again our little chunk of the universe, otherwise known as the O&E Archipelago, will be represented. We've had at least one team in post-season action every season since 1975, the year the state first put the play in the playoffs.

In one memorable year, 1977, we had four teams - Birmingham Brother Rice, Orchard Lake St. Mary's, Plymouth Salem and Detroit Country Day School - in the playoffs. DCDS and Salem were beaten in the first round, but Rice and OLSM went on to win class championships.

Pickings aren't quite as rich this year. Our contingent will be halved after Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Farmington Harrison play each other at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Birmingham Groves High School.

BUT, HEY NOW, how could we be sure this is really the Michigan playoffs if we didn't have a Farmington team surviving somewhere in the pack?

Correct me if I'm wrong, but I believe that two Farmington highs, Harrison and North Farmington, have made more postseason appearances (10) than the football powerhouses from Birmingham (9) or Dearborn (8).

In 1976 Harrison, then as now a Class A team, toppled Madison Heights Lamphere and then lost to Midland Dow in the first A final ever to be played in the Pontiac Silverdome.

A downsized Harrison won the Class B championship last season, breezing past Marysville and Willow Run and then upsetting Muskegon Catholic in the final. The 1980 Hawks overcame a strong Jackson Lumen Christi team before losing - sort $oldsymbol{of}$ — to Okemos in the B semis.

I say "sort of" because the state later games - including the victory over Harrison — because it used, albeit sparingly, a couple of illegal players. North Farmington made the '78 final, losing to Traverse City after beating Livonia Churchill and Brother Rice.

SPEAKING OF Harrison, some folks may be wondering how Dave Blackmer, the Hawks' place kicker par excellence with a 55-yard field goal to his credit, could miss a little old extra point on a good snap and hold as he did last Friday in that 9-0 win at Avondale.

But did he really miss it?

"I swear to God he made it," said Harrison coach John Herrington, who is generally regarded as an honest man. "Fred Homovec, one of our people, was back shagging the ball, and he said it was good by two or three feet. But he (Blackmer) kicked it so high, way over the uprights.

"Thing is, they didn't have a ref by each post. We're going to tell them (the officials) about that on Saturday (in the playoff game). We want them by the posts.

....ALL THEY COULD talk about last Saturday before the regular-season finale at North Farmington was Rochester Adams' stunning upset of previously unbeaten Rochester High, 14-0, thanks to the supercharged running of Terry Allen the previous night.

"Adams kicked their butts," was one coach's comment.

"Rochester's supposed to have all this speed, but they hardly ever went outside," added another coach. "They went outside once, gained 15 yards, and never used the play again."

Well, Harrison's fans can thank Allen ruled that Okemos had to forfeit a bunch of and Company for eliminating their competition for that final playoff berth in the state's Region 3. Had Rochester won, it would have been in the playoffs, not Harri-

THIS YEAR'S Damn Shame award goes to Livonia Franklin. And it is a damn shame that a great performer like Patriot quarterback Rich Popp won't be in the Despite its one loss, Franklin was still in the running for a Class A playoff spot in Region 4 right up to the final date of the regular season.

What had to happen for Franklin to be in the playoffs was for Grosse Pointe North to upset Grosse Pointe South in their traditional battle last Saturday - and North seemed about to do just that.

North, leading 10-7, was on the South 15 with less than two minutes to play. But then North's best back fumbled. South recovered and scored the winning touchdown on third-down with an 85-yard pass.

The game was witnessed by Franklin coach Armand Vigna and just about the entire Patriot team.

Tough break, but Franklin would have been in easily had it not lost to Dearborn Fordson, 7-3. Bet G.P. South gets heavily pounded by

Schoolcraft runs to 2nd-place finish in conference tilt

Host Schoolcraft College scored its highest finish ever last week with a second place in the Eastern Conference men's cross country championships.

Oakland Community College captured the team fitle with 23 points followed by Schoolcraft (47) and Macomb CC (66).

Schoolcraft's George Hudock was* first overall in the five-mile race with a time of 26:01. The Livonia Franklin graduate also tied the school record shared by teammate Jeff Bristow and ex-Schoolcraft standout Tobin Jones.

Bristow, meanwhile, was fourth overall with a time of 26:30. The SC sophomore, however, will compete this weekend in the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) meet in Utica, N.Y. He earned a spot in the nationals by finishing 11th in the NJCAA Region 12 meet on Oct. 29 at Southwestern College in Dowagiac.

"It was the first time Jeff was beaten by, anybody in the conference," said Schoolcraft coach Steve Montgomery. "He might have been a little tired because he really expended himself in the regionals. And he may have had a little bit of a letdown after qualifying for the nationals.

"But I don't want to take anything away from George Hudock. He ran a great race. He had to if he tied the school record."

Other Schoolcraft finishers in the conference meet included Dan Subject, 11th, 27:31; Dan Ribar, 14th, 27:49; Khalil Karadshi, 17th, 30:10; Dave Batz, 30:40, and Bill Cowen, 20th, 31:26.

Redford Thurston claimed eight of 11 first place finishes Tuesday to swamp Northwest Suburban League (NSL) girls' swim foe Garden City, 71-52, at Garden City.

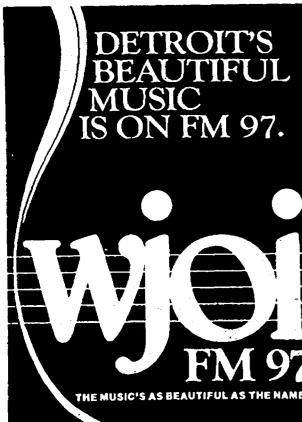

The Cougars had the only double winner in individual events, as Kim Dorsey accounted for two of her team's three firsts. Dorsey won the 200-yard freestyle (2:04.6) and 100-yard butterfly (1:08.0). Garden City's only other first went to Diane Hilliard in the 50 free (27.8).

Winners for Thurston in individual events included Sheri Morse in the 100 free (1:00.9), Kris Helwig in the 500 free (6:03.3), Paige Edwards in the 100 backstroke (1:14.8) and Debbie Ross in the 400 breaststroke (1:25.8). The Eagles also won both the 200 medley (2:14.8) and 400 free (4:20.7) relays. The loss dropped Garden City to 5-7 overall.

LAST THURSDAY, the Cougars edged NSL rival Redford Union, 62-61. Six firsts went to Garden

City, with Dorsey again capturing two: the 200 individual medley (2:22.5) and 100 free (57.1). She also swam on the winning 200 medley relay team (2:30.2), with Hilliard, Jennifer Teter and Nancy

Hilliard won the 50 free (27.6) and Teter took the 100 breast (1:25.6). Joanne Wince accounted for another Cougar first in the 100 back (1:20.0).

For RU, Laura Waligora won a pair, triumphing in the 200 (2:17.1) and 500 (6:04.8) freestyles. Janet Lowham placed on top in diving and the Panthers won the 400 free relay (4:27.8).

Ocelot cagers enact laws for new season

The players are the disciplinarians instead of the coach as the Schoolcraft College basketball team embarks on a new season.

"They drew their own rules and I'm abiding by them," said head coach Rocky Watkins. "They call the meetings. They think.

"This has to be the best team Schoolcraft has ever had because these guys are dedicated to succeeding."

The 15 rules put forth by the players are simple. A sample includes punishment for tardiness, missing class, badmouthing the coach or program, practice effort and off-court conduct.

That's a step in the right direction, according to Watkins.

"They're concerned about being disciplined," he said. "They know they can only beat themselves. If we're a family, we'll win."
Schoolcraft started out last season with a 13-2 record, but faded to 17-12 after two key players were declared ineligible because of poor grades.

The team's leading scorer, 6-foot-6 forward Phil Blevins, made it through the season, but shouldered too much responsibility to make up for the losses. He is now at Eastern Michigan and is expected to be in the Hurons' starting lineup.

ALTHOUGH THE Ocelots have little size on the front line, Watkins is confident his team can get the job done.

summer in the tough St. Cecilia open Northwestern (High School) he did league and reached the semifinals of the post-season tournament.

"We're a small team that is very quick to the glass and very quick on defense," said Watkins. "They're looking very good. I'm going into the season with cautious optimism. The key is being academically sound."

The Ocelots have a lot of local flavor for a change.

"They're more realistic," Watkins said. "We're going with people who will go with me the whole season."

Livonia Stevenson grad Bill Keyes, a 6-3 swingman, is one player Watkins is "He's our captain,", said Watkins!

"He's playing the same way be did in high school. He's learned from last year. No one has worked as hard as Bill Keves.*

Another Ocelot back for his second season is 6-8 Scott Conrad, a Livonia Churchill grad.

"He's improved tremendously," said the SC coach. "This summer he played against some of the great post players around town." KEYES and Conrad will be joined in the starting lineup by second-year veteran Tom Niergarth of Brighton, a 6-3 swingman who is counted on for rebounding, and 6-2 point guard George Meriweather, a starter last year.

"George has been on suspension for two weeks for breaking the rules," informed Watkins. "He missed practice.

"He knows his role is to run the team Some of his players formed a team last my way and I think he will. At what he wanted to."

A newcomer to the starting lineup is guard Carlos Briggs, who sat out last season after transferring from a junior college in California.

Briggs is an explosive scorer who must fit in with team, according to the Schoolcraft coach.

"Carlos didn't play, but practiced with us all last season," said Watkins. "His only problem was his attitude, but during the pre-season he has responded beautifully.

Briggs and Meriweather, according to Watkins, can be Division I players if the parts of the puzzle fit together.

"Carlos is a blue-chip player," Watkins added, "and Freddie Snowdon at Arizona wanted George real bad last season." Although the starting lineup is set, bench strength is a question mark.

Watkins' top recruits are Ricky Johnson, a 6-5 forward from Ann Arbor Pioneer, and 6-3 forward Reggie Newsome, Detroit Cody's leading scorer last season.

PAT MARTIN, a 6-6 forward from Stevenson, will also provide rebounding help along with 6-6 Barry Vaughn, a starter at the end of last season, and 6-4 Darvl Fonchess from Detroit Central.

Guard help will come from Livonia Bentley grad Doug Gates, in his first season, Gary Kucher (Northville), Rick Shavers and Gordon Bonaparte.

Watkins will unveil his team to the public Sunday in a exhibition double-

Canada has been conquered. Now for the nation.

Schoolcrast College's women's volleyball team looked impressive last weekend at the Canadian-American Tournament at the University of Windsor, and now is looking forward to the Region 12 National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) qualifying tournament slated for this weekend at Schoolcraft.

No Canadian team bested the Ocelots last weekend, but a pair of Michigan teams did. Schoolcraft, one of only two two-year schools at the tourney, finished third behind champion Central Michigan and Ferris State in the 15team event

"I have to be satisfied," said Ocelot coach Mike O'Toole. "This was good competition for us. We rarely play this caliber of teams."

THE OCELOTS finished second in their five-team pool, which qualified them for the tourney playoffs. In pool play, Schoolcraft split games with host Windsor (11-15, 15-9), McMasters (15-4, 9-15) and Ferris State (4-15, 16-14) then won a pair from Wilfred Laurier (15-9,

In the first round of the playoffs. Schoolcraft toppled Eastern Michigan, 15-12, 15-8, in the quarterfinals before finally being eliminated from the tournament by Ferris, 15-6, 15-9, in the semifinals.

O'Toole credited setters Nancy Hughes, a North Farmington grad, and Miki Truchan, from Livonia Bentley, and blockers-hitters Karen Kelley (Livonia Stevenson) and Chris Stellberger (Livonia Clarenceville) with solid performances.

THIS WEEKEND, Schoolcraft will be the host team as 13 teams compete in the NJCAA Region 12 qualifying tournament. Play will start Friday morning with best-of-three matches. Once into Saturday's final rounds, matches will be expanded to best-of-

"I guess we have to be the favorite," said O'Toole of the tourney. "But Lake Michigan, Vincennes and Southwest Michigan all have to be considered as

Daniels 'dynamite' in pro bowlers tourney

A stubborn No. 10 pin that wobbled, but wouldn't fall, deprived Cheryl Daniels, one of the younger stars in the Detroit area, of a prominent place in the national ratings last week.

She had qualified for the televised finals of the Belleville (Ill.) Open, pitted against Donna Adamek, one of the top-ranked bowlers.

Undaunted, Daniels opened with six consecutive strikes and was leading when her luck changed. The No. 10 pin stood on the seventh ball. This eventually led to her defeat, 269-248. It was the highest scoring match in the history of the pro bowlers tour.

Daniels missed the title but picked up $1,780 in prize money. Prior to the Detroit standout earned $675. Together they have gained solid footing among the pros and now are rated with the best in the country.

TOM DETHERAGE joined a select a 700 series. His final count of 300 gave him a 750 triple in the Bel-Aire Classic.

Even with that honor, Detherage failed to set the pace for the league as Fred Ringrose scored a 763.

One other perfect game was rolled.

MINDY SAUNDERS/staff photographer

Gloria Anderson of Gloria Anderson Travel in Bloomfield Hills came up with the idea for the auction as a PATA fund-ra-lished throughout Metropolitan Detroit for this year's treasures. Donations so far include a carved elephant from Thailand, a painted scroll from Singapore, boomerangs from Australia, Alaskan jade, enameled brass dishes from India, a pillow cover from Peru, and Korean silk with a shell lei from the Marshall Islands.

YOU CAN PREVIEW auction items at 6 p.m., Nov. 17 at the Gallery Art Center, 18831 W. 12 Mile, in Lathrup Village. The auction begins at 7 p.m. PATA will offer a cash wine bar. One dollar admission tickets can be obtained at the door or from any travel agent who is a member of PATA.

Fred Grossman of the Gallery Art Center said his gallery performs art auctions all over the country for nonprofit organizations, which realize from 22 to 30 percent of the gross profits from the paintings he sells.

The most expensive painting sold at last year's Treasures of the Pacific Auction went for $275, but Grossman carries signed and numbered lithographs by Dali, Chagall, Mirot and Vasarelli. The gallery also carries originals by Michigan artists, including Hugh Parselle of Flint, Lewis King of Warren and Doris Kirby of Oquecoc.

Grossman said last year's Treasures of the Pacific Auction sold 70 items, none higher than $50. Bob Davis of Robert Davis Travel in Bloomfield Hills said you will be able to buy some exotic items in the under-$25 range and can probably buy anything offered for less than $100.

"Most of the donated items were not bought as trinkets or souvenirs," he said, "and most of them were not cheap, even when they were new.

"One of the tourist offices, representing a country that borders the Pacific Ocean, donated an historic old ship's model last year. There were Chinese embroideries and silkscreens as well as wood and ivory carvings."

1-of-a-kind traveler -Iris Jones contributing travel editor Some of the treasures donated for sale last year were sculptured shell flowers from the Phillipines, brass temple bells from Thailand, a silk jewel case from China, buffalo-hide cutouts from Thailand, all of which sold for less than PRIVATE BENJAMIN, Goldie Hawn is Judy Benjamin, the pampered, coddled young lady rudely awakened to life's realities by a stint in the "new" Army as she discovers that boot camp is not quite what she had in mind With Eileen Brennan, Armand (I the Jury) Assante, Robert Webber, Sam Wanamaker, Barbara Barrie, Mary Kay Place, Albert Brooks (briefly) and the great Harry Dean Stanton. A field day with a green recruit that is basically an updated switcheroo on the ole Abbott and Costello Buck Privates and Martin and Lewis At War with the Army.

SAT., NOV. 13 9-11:30PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain)

EVERY WHICH WAY BUT LOOSE. Clinf Eastwood as an easy-going truck driver who regularly defends his reputation as the best bare-knuckle barroom brawler in Southern California. His sidekick and confidante is a hairly 165-pound orangutan, "Clyde", who can always be counted on to add to the hilarity with his bizarre antics. With Sondra Locke, Geoffrey Lewis, Ruth Gordon, Beverly D'Angelo and Popi as the hirsute simian.

Cantata Singers visiting campus

The Ann Arbor Cantata Singers, directed by Bradley Bloom, will participate in a workshop Saturday and a concert Sunday at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Bloom will present a workshop on stylistic interpretative ideas and gestures for the choral conductor at noon in Room F310 of the Forum Building. Using the Cantata Singers, he will demonstrate articulation and phrase structure from various musical periods.

Participants also will conduct the ensemble. Admission is free. Choral conductors are being invited to attend.

The Cantata Singers will perform in concert at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the Waterman Campus Center.

ADMISSION IS $4 for the general public and $3 for students. Tickets are available at the College Bookstore and at the door. For further information, phone the Office of Community Services at 591-6400, ext. 409.

Music will be Arthur Honegger's "King David." Honegger was commissioned by Swiss poet Rene Moraz in February 1921, with the composition of a "King David," which was to be performed in May that same year.

Taking the text from the Biblical tragedy found in the Books of Kings, Samuel and the Psalms, Honegger began work Feb. 25. As soon as a page was finished, it was mailed to the publisher, Foetisch, in Lausanne and from there on to the chorus, which was already in rehearsal.

In the form of an oratorio, "King David" was first performed in German in Winterthur. The first American performance took place Oct. 26, 1925, in New York, with a cast of Metropolitan Opera Company singers taking part.

Bradley Bloom will direct the Ann Arbor Cantata Singers in concert at Schoolcraft College.

Guild to present musical mystery

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford will present a touch of mystery with its season musical "Something's Afoot," opening Nov. 19 at the TGLR Playhouse and running for three weekends — Nov. 19-21, 26-28 and Dec. 3-4.

Performances will be at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays and 7 p.m. Sundays at the playhouse, 15138 Beach Daly Road, just south of Five Mile Road in Redford.

Tickets at $6 can be reserved by calling 522-1526.

"Something's Afoot" was written by James McDonald, David Vos and Robert Gerlach, with additional musical by Ed Linderman. The musical is a thriller in the Agatha Christie tradition, scored and choreographed.

The show features several TGLR regulars plus many local performers new to the community theater group's stage.

LETTIE IS played by Bonnie Adler of Detroit, and Geoffrey is played by her husband, Jeff Adler. Both have appeared in a variety of area college, stock and community theater productions, although this is their first time with TGLR.

Flint is played by David Tucker of Livonia. He has appeared in many TGLR productions, has served as president of the guild and, most recently, designed and produced this summer's theater workshop.

Miss Tweed is played by Ruth Palmer of Detroit. She is active in the Detroit Repertory Theatre. She also appeared in TGLR's production of Music director for "Something's Afoot" is Martha Kuykendall of Livonia, who also served in the same role for last season's musical, "The Robber Bridegroom." Assistant director is Rosemary Tucker of Livonia, a TGLR regular who has served in a variety of roles both on and offstage.

Choreographer is B.J. Sholtz of Dearborn, who brings a wide range of experience, having choreographed more than 150 musicals in the Detroit area.

Family show opening at Actors Alliance

Actors Alliance Theatre Company production of Paul Sills' "Story Theatre" will run Friday through Dec. 19 at the Lycee International, 13 Mile at Evergreen roads, Southfield.

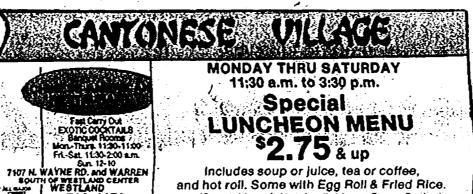

The show is an evening of drama, music and comedy designed for the entire family. Sills, a founding member of the Second City Theatre, based his play on tales from the Brothers Grimm and Aesop's Fables.

Ten self-contained tales range from the macabre humor of "Is He Fat?" and the folk songs and betrayals of "The Robber Bridegroom" to thewhimsical quest of "Henny Penny" to tell the king the sky is falling.

Ticket information for Story Theatre is available by calling 642-1326.

"Story Theatre" is the second production of the theater company's debut season offering five plays in the round.

Scott Joplin's only opera opening

The Michigan Opera Theatre premiere of "Treemonisha," a musical by ragtime king Scott Joplin, opens Friday and continues with nine performances through Nov. 21 at the Music Hall Center in Detroit.

Written and composed by Joplin in the early 1900s, "Treemonisha" is many things, but primarily it is a sweet sermon on goodness. It conveys a social message - education is the road to salvation, and it also dips into women's liberation.

This simple folk fable, filled with rag, barbershop quartet, sentimental songs and dance numbers, revolves around 18-year-old Treemonisha. The only educated person in her black antebellum Arkansas community, she is chosen by her people to guide them from ignorance and superstition into an era of enlightenment

Joplin, known for his piano rags perhaps the most widely recognized is "The Entertainer" from the movie "The Sting" — incorporated many musical elements in his only opera. The ballad, waltz and marches are fused with 19th century European operatic

THE MICHIGAN Opera Thetre production borrows costumes and scenery, designed by France Colavecchia, from the original Houston Grand Opera presentation, which debuted in 1975, and also showed three weeks at Kennedy Center and seven weeks on Broadway.

It was revived by the Houston Grand Opera last year.

In the lead is Carmen Balthrop, the performer most identified with the role of Treemonisha, having starred in both Houston productions, on Broadway and in a recent film.

Detroiter Delores Ivory, featured last season as Serena in "Porgy and Bess," is cast as Monisha, and Dorceal Duckens will play Ned.

Both singers were cast in the Houston revival as well.

Mabel Robinson will both direct and choreograph the Detroit engagement, and Tania Leon will conduct the orchestra. Leon is the first woman to conduct a Michigan Opera Theatre produc-

A ratings guide to the movies

Second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"The Original Dragnet" (1953), 2:30,4 tonight on Ch. 4. Originally 89 minutes. "Dirty Harry" (1971), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 102 minutes.

"Dragnet" and "Dirty Harry" have one thing in common: In both films, a West Coast cop tracks a killer. There the similarities end, though, for these two films are as distinct as the decades from which they come. Jack Webb's Sgt. Joe Friday goes by the book, while Clint Eastwood's Harry Callahan threw the book out long ago. Case in point, a sequence you've seen in a dozen films from the '50s (and more often on television in the '60s and '70s): Goop cop (or sheriff) tracks necrophagous child molester, corners said lunatic and is sorely tempted to blow the fiend away. But no. Good cop/sheriff stiffens jaw

One of the first entries in the burgeoning teen-porn genre of filmmaking thrust Brooke Shields and Christopher Atkins together on a lush, tropical island. "Gilligan's Island," however, was more fun than this film, and Tina Louise more luscious than the manikin Brooke, who, given time, could succeed Jennifer O'Neil as the worst actress of all time. Christopher Atkins, meanwhile, is billed as a young Robert Red-

"The Electire Horseman" (1979), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 121 minutes.

The real Robert Redford co-stars with Jane Fonda in this Sidney Pollack film that's about three times beter than "The Blue Lagoon." In this picture, the actors are not only grown up - the plot, performances and direction are, as well. Redford's 20th-century cowboy and Fonda's crusading journalist could have been as cliched as other, similar characterizations have been (Fonda in "The China, Syndrome," for instance), but they work here.

Valerie Perrine in a supporting role has never given a better performance, and Willie Nelson's film career took seed here. Rating: $3.10.

auditions

Auditions for the Actors Alliance Theatre Company production of Nancy Beckelt's "The Women Here Are No Different" have been scheduled for 1 p.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. Monday. Casting needs are for eight women ranging in ages from 19-50 years.

Jeff Nahan, artistic director, said interested actresses should submit pictures and resumes to his attention at the Actor Alliance Theatre Company, 30800 Evergreen Road, Southfield 48076. All auditions are scheduled by appointment only.

The production of "The Women Here Are No Different" will run Fridays-Sundays, Jan. 14 through Feb. 20. The play will be the third production of the company's debut season.

The play will be presented in-theround at the theater at the Lycee International on Evergreen at 13 Mile roads in Southfield.
