Officials worry over new cuts in state aid

By Maurie Walker
staff writer

Officials are worried about what effect a delay in state aid payments will have on school and city budgets.

Mayor Charles Pickering said that the city will face a delay of $250,000 in revenue sharing payments. If that money isn't received by the end of April, the city could be forced to borrow money.

But city officials are more worried how the city will cope if the money is permanently cut out. The city already faces a deficit of nearly half a million dollars. The Wayne-Westland school district expects to lose more than $4 million next month after Gov. James Blanchard's decision to delay more than $500 million in state aid to schools.

Depending upon the length of the payment delay, the district could face a period where it can't meet its payrolls.

The loss could go as high as $5 million, said a school administrator.

Even with management actions that have cut $2 million in expenses from the district's $62.1-million budget (which was approved at the beginning of the fiscal year last July), the board still is facing extreme difficulties, said a school official.

The cuts included layoffs and staff reduction by attrition — employees who retired, resigned or went on a leave of absence were not replaced.

Even with contract concessions from employees' unions, the budget increased, with most of it being fixed expenses such as utilities and insurance premiums.

John Baracy, assistant superintendent for business and finance, said the district doesn't yet know the full details of the cuts and what it will mean to the district.

"We haven't received any information about the state aid delay other than that which has been reported in the newspapers," he said.

"What we are concerned with is just what does the state mean by deferral of the payment, is it for a week or two, a month, or for how long?"

"We were slated to receive between $4.5 million in state aid in February. If we don't get it, that will be a devastating blow," he added.

Blanchard had said Monday the delay in payment was indefinite but added, "I hope that these are indeed deferrals, but it's quite possible — depending on how we handle the fiscal problem — that they may turn into cuts as well. We will delay them as long as necessary to meet our obligations," the governor said.

BARACY SAID that delay in state aid will harm the district's cash flow.

"We are getting our winter tax money now, but if the delay in state aid includes that which we are due to receive on April 1, it means the district will be out between $8-10 million."

He said if that happened, the district would be unable to meet its payroll.

"It would put us in a bad situation for a long period of time. In fact, we would have to go a long period of time with no paydays," he added.

William Taylor, assistant superintendent of employee relations, said all employee groups, representing seven unions, have taken wage concessions. The seven unions represent approximately 1,754 employees with the Wayne-Westland Education Association being the largest.

Superintendent Timothy Dyer warned at Monday night's meeting that there may be very difficult times ahead.

He said the district will go back to all employee groups, except the teachers' union, to try to get $230,000 in additional concessions.

It was explained at the meeting that the teachers have already agreed to additional concessions.

This bird flies to top in Autorama contest

By Sandra Armbruster
editor

Three-year-old Nickie Zuk is following in his father's winning ways when it comes to cars. Last week young Nickie won first place in the go-cart/small auto body class at the 31st Autorama in Cobo Hall.

His car was a miniature, but fully operational, 1963 Thunderbird sport roadster convertible built by his dad, Nick Zuk Sr.

Nickie's yellow replica of the original sits in the family garage in Westland alongside other winning, full-size cars, including a 1969 Mustang drag car and a 427 Maverick drag car. Also trophy winners, those cars were entered in Autoramas during the 1970s by Nickie's dad.

The project of building the T-Bird started about a year ago, shortly after Nickie's first experience at the wheel of a car.

"The major reason I decided to build the car is that one day my wife pulled the white car out (into the driveway). This was when Nickie was 2. He pulled it from park into drive and went through the fence," explained Zuk.

"I always wanted a '63 T-Bird, but I couldn't afford one. So I thought the next best thing was to build one for my son."

ZUK BEGAN building the car in March. It took about 2,500 hours and $800 to complete. The wheels and inflatable tires alone cost $140.

"We hoped to have it done for Christmas, but I didn't make it. I was still putting things on it when they carried it out the door to take it down to Cobo," said Zuk.

The project began with a clay model Zuk built with the help of his uncle Dan Gorney of Canton Township. From that model, a fiberglass mold was made to build the body.

The car is powered by a two-horsepower Briggs and Stratton lawn mower engine that Zuk bought for $12 at a swap meet. It has chrome bolts. Hand levers instead of pedals operate the gas and brake mechanisms. That way both Nickie and

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Nick Zuk's car-making skills placed his three-year-old son in the driver's seat at last week's Autorama where this miniature replica of a 1963 Thunderbird won first place in the go cart — small auto body class.

Zuk's wife, Rachel, can operate the car.

"I want her to drive it in the Westland parade," said Zuk, who works in the quality control department of Ford Motor Co.'s Wayne Assembly Plant.

On the dashboard, a button activates the horn, and switches are used to turn on the working head and tail lights and to start the ignition.

The frame for the car was custom built by Zuk from one-inch square tubing. The steering wheel was taken from a hot rod and cut down. Zuk painted the fiberglass body yellow, and the black upholstery work was done by Richard Blout of Plymouth. Also helping with the project were Gene Kosak of Hamtramck and Jim Hart of Canton.

Young Nickie helped with the sanding and sat in the car as measurements were taken, his father said. His mother made the fuzzy pair of dice that hang from a miniature mirror made by his father.

The sport roadster convertible also bears chrome bumpers and a California license plate that reads, "I surf."

BUILDING CARS has become a family hobby for the Zuks.

The next big project is refinishing a Mustang 302 that the Zuks traveled to Texas to buy for Rachel to drive.

"It had no rust," explained Zuk. He added that he finds out about cars available through his friends and goes to auto swap meets a lot.

"I've built everything from miniatures to real ones. I've been into models for a long time," said Zuk.

His wife has built a small model car and young Nickie has an array of cars and trucks he keeps in the family's trophy room with a lighted showcase of their work.

"Cars and trucks are all he knows," said Zuk.

Board asks for better school offer

The Wayne-Westland school board has received two offers for the Norris School site, but it decided Monday night to wait for a better one.

The site, on Palmer Road just west of Merriman, contains 5.31 acres in an irregularly shaped parcel of land with about 917 feet of frontage on Palmer.

On the property are a two-story, 5,390-square-foot building built in 1930 and a one-story, 11,954-square-foot addition.

One offer to purchase the site came from Costa Willa Gresham, the president of which is Dr. T. Cortex Spann, who offered $125,000.

ANOTHER offer came from the Kahan Co., which offered $135,000. Both offered an 11-percent interest rate.

Spann is seeking the site for a seminary and church while Kahan would use the property for an activities workshop for developmentally disabled persons.

Manuel L. Lentine Jr., executive director for purchasing for the school district, said an appraiser had recommended the district wait for a higher offer since both proposals received were below market value.

The board, in approving the recommendation to wait, said the two potential buyers can come back with a counter offer should they want.

Lentine said that while the two offers were "quite similar, there are some substantial differences in the offering price, down payment and commission to be paid.

"It should also be pointed out that these are merely offers to purchase and nothing more," Lentine said.

"Any or all of the specific items may be negotiated," he added.

BOTH FIRMS had proposed a seven-year term. Spann's firm offered a down payment of $15,000; Kahan Company, $27,000.

Asked by the board if he would recommend waiting for a higher offer, Lentine said, "I'd be amiss if I didn't."

Seeks legislative clout

Barns looks at 'hard year' ahead

Justine Barns expected Wednesday to be a big day. That's when the former city councilwoman, who was recently elected a state representative, figured she would learn if she received any of the committee assignments she wanted.

Which ones does she want? The list includes education, roads and bridges, towns and counties, public health, senior citizens and economic development.

"I asked for a lot. I want to work hard," said Barns, making an appearance at last week's council meeting, where nominations for her successor were taken.

Barns already has been chosen secretary of the Democratic caucus in the state House, a post she welcomes.

"It gets you into what political groups are doing in regard to issues," she explained.

Barns added that she's looking forward to the challenge with a lot of excitement, although she recognizes that legislators have a "hard, hard year" ahead.

Justine Barns

LOCAL OFFICIALS can look forward to a lot of legislative support for the area with Gary Owens, D-Ypsilanti, taking the post of speaker of the House, and William Faust, D-Westland, continuing in his role as Senate majority leader.

Barns believes area legislators will be working closely with new Governor James Blanchard.

"He (Blanchard) talks to us. He knows who we are," she said. "I'm impressed with his appointments, and someone from his staff calls us before the Governor announces his appointments.

Barns, whose successor likely will be chosen at the next council meeting Jan. 17, hopes the person selected will be "objective, sensitive to the people and someone who doesn't try to use people."

Barns said that she has no one in particular in mind, but added that the person chosen should have "participated in the community in something other than coming out now to be appointed."

Elderly to get tax form help

Westland senior citizens will get free help on their Michigan property tax rebate forms this month.

The Westland Department of Aging said volunteers from the American Association of Retired Persons, Chapter 1642, will help persons 60 and older with their Michigan homestead tax forms between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. the week of Jan. 24.

The tax assistance will be available at the Whittier Community Center on Ann Arbor Trail west of Inkster Road, and the Seniors' Friendship Center on Marquette east of Newburgh.

Madonna enrollment sets winter record

Registration is continuing, but already the student population at Madonna College has reached a record high of 3,506 for the winter term. Students may continue to register until the term begins Jan. 10.

Madonna President Sr. Mary Francilene said the undergraduate enrollment of 3,409 is a one percent increase above last year. The inauguration of a master of science in administration program has attracted 97 students, adding to the increase.

The total student headcount represents a 3.6 percent increase over 1981 and nearly 100 percent more than the 1,789 students enrolled in 1975.

"The growth of the college has been a true story of success in light of declining enrollments at other colleges across the state," she said.

Sr. Francilene believes that the college's location and its flexible class scheduling have been factors in attracting students.

As in the past, the current student body represents a diverse population, including 24 percent men, 95 percent commuters, one percent out-of-state and two percent from foreign countries.

The average student carries 9.2 semester hours of classes and is 29.5 years old. Student ages, however, range from 16 to 76.

A leader in providing education to the handicapped, this year Madonna will enroll 60 deaf and hearing impaired students, 30 who are visually impaired, mobility limited, epileptic and/or learning disabled.

Madonna is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia.

Youth awards selection begins

Douglas Ritter of Canton Township has been named by U.S. Rep. William D. Ford to chair his seventh annual Congressional Medal of Merit Awards program for outstanding youth.

An analyst with General Motors, Ritter served on last year's 17-member award selection panel.

He is charged with enlisting community leaders to represent each of the municipalities and townships in the 15th District to select young people who have made special contributions to their community, performed unusual heroic acts and/or have given significantly to humanitarian causes.

"I originally made the congressional medal of merit awards in 1976 in recognition of the nation's bicentennial celebration. I found that the Downriver community was so enthusiastic about recognizing its promising youth that I decided to continue the program on an annual basis," Ford said.

"Too often there is a tendency to be critical of our young people. Through this program we pay tribute to the wealth of understanding, conscientious and well-meaning young adults," he said.

TWO AWARDS will be given in each of the 20 communities in the 15th congressional district.

One will be for boys and girls aged 14 through 18 who are in high school. The other will be for high school graduates 18 through 22.

To qualify for consideration, the accomplishments of these people should represent a broad range of interests and activities.

High school students get computer training for jobs of the future

By Maurie Walker
staff writer

Within 10 years, 80 percent of the jobs will require technical training. That prediction by the U.S. Department of Labor is being recognized by more people, young and old alike.

That's one reason why computer classes are growing in popularity. High schools have added computer courses to their curriculum and are finding them popular.

Garden City High, John Glenn and Wayne Memorial High Schools have basic computer courses.

The William D. Ford Vocational-Technical Center in Westland is swamped with requests for information on their computer courses.

Of 18 different courses offered at the center, the most popular is business data processing/computer programming, according to principal John Lange.

There are computer classes six days a week at the center, with some 300 persons taking courses.

Classes are held from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. with two teachers conducting classes. The Saturday schedule runs from 8 a.m. to noon.

"The students range from 10th graders all the way up to people in their 40s and 50s," Lange said.

"With enrollments open now for our spring semester, we are being swamped with calls regarding computer classes. In two days we had 200 inquiries," he said.

He added that the classes have proved so popular, a six-week course will be offered this summer.

LANGE SAID some of the computer students are employed. Others have computer experience but are seeking further education in that field.

"A person actually needs more than a year of computers. Employers are seeking those with more training," Lange said.

A student first learns how to operate and enter information into a computer and then how to program it.

"Our first semester is learning data entry, the second semester is programming. They then go into advanced programming."

Women account for 55 percent of the class members.

"We don't get many dropouts. There are some who find the course difficult, especially if they don't have typing skills."

"The computer keyboard is laid out like a typewriter keyboard, and if a person isn't familiar with it, they have difficulties," Lange said.

WHILE MOST of the students are aiming for a career in computers, some aren't.

Patricia J. Baker, a senior at John Glenn, said she had taken basic computer at Glenn and that this was her first semester at the center.

"I'm not going into computers though. I have an eye problem, and computers don't help," she said.

Jim Gibson, a senior at Wayne Memorial, is hoping to be a computer programmer after he gets out of the Marine Corps which he will be entering soon.

"I'm going to study computers while in the service," he said.

"I'll get instruction on computer repair, and then later I'll attend college while in the service and study programming."

"If I can't get a job as a programmer when I get out, I'll have training in repair," he said.

Another student who hopes to be a programmer is Steve Hagerty, a Wayne Memorial High School senior. He took a computer course at the high school before signing up at the center.

"This is my last semester here but I plan to take a computer course when I go to Michigan Tech," he said.

Julle Sciba, a John Glenn senior, said she is in her first semester at the center.

"I want to get a job in data processing and plan to take another year here after I graduate from high school."

She said her only experience with computers was a video game at home.

For Michele Toye, a John Glenn student, a career as a programmer is her goal.

"This is my first semester here. I'm going to study computers when I go to Eastern Michigan University," she said.

GARDEN CITY HIGH is just getting into computers. At the present time, there are 50 students who meet five days a week in two classes. That figure is expected to climb to 150 next year.

Paul Renko, computer instructor, was a math teacher at West High School where they had one computer.

Computer students are taught how to operate and enter information into a machine such as this one, and then how to program it.

It's a new world for high school students getting computer training for the job world.

Dan Letobar gets computer advice from Glenna Webber, an instructor at the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland.

Garden City priorities ranked in public survey

City Hall wants local community group leaders, city officials and municipal employees to rank their public service priorities.

City Manager Cam Caldwell has sent survey forms to representatives of the service and civic organizations, city workers and members of city boards and commissions asking them to complete the survey by the end of this week.

Purpose of the survey is to help the city administration get a feel for how residents rank services in planning the upcoming operating budget for the 1983-84 fiscal year.

In his cover letter, Caldwell said the survey of community priorities was sent to persons "who play a key role in the city or who represent community opinion."

Caldwell admitted in his letter that the "policy issues listed are sometimes difficult to balance and may be perceived to be in possible conflict, depending upon your perceptions as to priority."

"Part of the purpose of the survey is to determine the priority in which you and other community representatives will value these respective choices."

There are 10 specific listed in the survey although those responding may add other subjects of their own.

- The 10 topics are:
- Resolving the problem of eroding city revenues.
 - Maintaining or increasing the level and/or quality of city services.
 - Implementing a realistic plan to increase commercial and industrial tax base.
 - Keeping the costs of government as low as possible for residential taxpayers and business people.
 - Compensating all city employees fairly as compared with equivalent positions in other communities.

Developing community leaders to serve Garden City for the next 20 years.

- Building greater credibility in city government and in its ability to be efficient, effective, and responsive.
- Educating community residents regarding the key factors that affect city government operations.
- Amending and updating the city charter to eliminate present deficiencies.
- Completing important capital improvement projects, including road and storm drain improvements.

The survey is different than a 39-topic one sent out late last fall in which residents were asked whether specific services were good, average or unsatisfactory.

Maplewood has programs for all

The Garden City recreation department is sponsoring classes for all age groups to help residents "beat the winter gray days," a spokeswoman said.

The programs are at Maplewood Community Center, on Maplewood west of Merriman.

For youngsters, there are art classes from 9:30-11 a.m. Saturdays, baton lessons from 6:30-7:30 p.m. Wednesdays, square dancing lessons from 9-11 a.m. Saturdays, and boxing from 6:30-9 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays.

Adults can register for a DanceFit class scheduled Tuesday and Thursday nights.

All ages can sign up for karate lessons, 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, and golf lessons from 7-8 p.m. Tuesdays.

Information on registration and fees is available by calling the center at 421-0610.

Pursell panel frowns on state tax increase

By Mary Klemc
staff writer

Every department of state government may be asked to make reductions of 2 to 5 percent when the expenditures subcommittee of Gov. Blanchard's Fiscal Crisis Council submits its report, according to Carl Pursell of Plymouth.

Although he is a Republican and a congressman, Pursell is chairman of the nine-member subcommittee, one of three such panels drafting recommendations on the state's budget problems. He said the committee would probably not ask for a tax increase.

"You don't tax to improve prosperity," said the third-term congressman. He said the panel's recommendation would probably ask for a property tax freeze "up front" and reductions from almost every department. A possible exception is the Corrections Department which runs Michigan's prisons.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE heard testimony Dec. 2 in Lansing. Pursell said the speakers included representatives from the areas of mental health, general government, the fiscal agencies of the state Senate and House, the Michigan Chamber of Commerce and the state auditor general, along with former state legislators.

Suggestions from speakers included recommendations that cuts be made according to Pursell. "I'm in favor of that principle," said Pursell, a former two-term state senator and member of the appropriations committee.

Pursell said the full committee will meet this week. He said Blanchard wanted the panel to submit its recommendations before the governor's televised state of the state address the evening of Jan. 26.

MICHIGAN WILL get a 78 percent boost in highway construction money from the nickel-a-gallon federal gasoline tax increase, said Pursell, who supported it. The increase will go into effect April 1.

Four-fifths will go to highway work. The remainder will be used for public transportation, figures for which are unavailable.

The money is distributed according to a formula that takes into account population, the amount of highway travel and miles of actual highway.

"The roads had to be maintained or we were going to spend more later on," Pursell said.

Michigan received just less than $189 million from the federal government last year. But it is estimated that under the new formula, Michigan will receive $336.9 million.

That allocation is expected to climb to $378 million in 1984, $400 million in 1985 and $426.9 million in 1986.

PURSELL SAID Drew Lewis, who recently resigned as secretary of Transportation, was "probably the most outstanding transportation secretary we've had in years. I worked with him very closely on programs for Michigan. He was supportive of Michigan."

The congressman said he did not know the total background of Elizabeth Dole, whom President Reagan nominated as Lewis' successor. "But it's nice to see a woman in the Cabinet level," Pursell said.

Drew Lewis (left), then Secretary of Transportation, and U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, made the rounds of Michigan Republicans during the 1982 Super Bowl celebration in Farmington Hills. When Lewis resigned, Pursell called him "probably the most outstanding transportation secretary we had in years."

THERE'S MORE THAN ONE WAY TO GET THE BEST OF THE MONEY FUNDS.

We know of two in particular:
The First Investment Services from your First American Bank.
Both give you the best of the money funds: Immediate access to your money. Competitive money market rates. And no fees or penalties for early withdrawal.
But beyond that, you'll find differences that can make all the difference.

Our Investment Savings Fund.
The rates are high, the minimum's not. With a minimum deposit of just $2,500 (the lowest the law allows), you can earn money market rates. And you can get to your money any time you need to.
Best of all, it's FDIC-insured, up to $100,000 per depositor.

Our Investment Checking Fund. Write any number of checks for any amount. Unlike money market funds, you can write an unlimited number of checks, for any amount large or small.
That's what makes our new $2,500 minimum Investment Checking Fund so attractive to investors looking for money market rates, FDIC insurance and something more.
Which brings us to perhaps the best reason for taking a serious look at either of our First Investment Services.
It's the simple convenience of dealing with people you know, at a place where you do your regular banking. It's an intangible, but an important one.
The First Investment Services from your First American Bank. Suddenly, your money fund alternatives look twice as promising.

Musicians to hold anniversary event

The 10th annual big band dinner-dance, sponsored by the Metro-West Music Association, will be held Saturday, Feb. 26, at the UAW Hall on Van Born west of Middlebelt. The band association and its followers come from numerous communities in Wayne and Oakland counties. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. for the dinner-dance with an open bar at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30 with dancing at 9 p.m. Tickets for the event, which is the biggest of the year for the music association, are $20 per person and include dinner, dancing, reserved tables and an open bar. There is an attended coat room and a patrolled parking lot. "All you have to do is show up, sit down and have a great evening of fun," said Dan Kalifut, who plays saxophone in the band and is its business manager. "The dance for the most part is reminiscent of the big band days with the big ballroom and lots of space," he said. "We always have more than 500 attending, and still the floor is never crowded," he added.

Proceeds are used for band activities, including playing for senior citizen events, school programs and similar activities. "We will decide which other activities we can give to at our first meeting after the dance," Kalifut said.

Benefit dance slated

The Wayne Memorial High School Distributive Education Clubs of America is sponsoring its first annual Muscular Dystrophy Dance Marathon Jan. 28. The dancing, which will begin at noon and run to 10 p.m., will be held in the school commons, Glenwood at Fourth Street. All funds raised will go to help persons with neuromuscular diseases. Sponsorship forms are available at the high school. There will be bands, DJs, food and prizes. The grand prize, an AM/FM stereo cassette recorder, will be awarded to the person raising the most funds for muscular dystrophy. For more information, call Wayne Memorial High School DECA at 595-2283, or the Muscular Dystrophy Association at 381-3838.

IN THE PAST, the band has provided musical instruments for school students, music lessons and contributions to various programs. "Although there are standard tunes like 'In the Mood,' 'Jukebox Junction' and others people love to hear every year, we still add new charts annually. "New charts are often based on requests from the year before so we'll have a lot of new ones for the dance," Kalifut said. Tickets may be obtained by calling 421-9893 during the day or 427-7578 at night. "A lot of people make a party of it, and this year we've already received orders for several full tables, so we advise getting tickets as soon as possible," Kalifut added.

SC board, faculty ratify 2-year pact,

Some 355 Schoolcraft College faculty members were working this week under a new contract that gives them a 3-percent pay increase for this fiscal year.

By a 6-0 vote Monday, the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees approved a two-year contract with the Faculty Forum, bargaining agent for instructors, librarians and counselors. Trustee Laura Toy was absent from Monday's special meeting. The faculty ratified the contract Jan. 5 by a vote of 117-15.

THE AGREEMENT is retroactive to August and is in effect through August 1984.

The contract guarantees a 3-percent salary increase in the first year, and includes a provision to raise base salaries by up to 2 percent if college operating revenues exceed $15.5 million during the current fiscal year. Revenue in the current budget was projected at $15.2 million, a college spokesman said.

A one-time payment of $160 will be made to the 138 faculty members now at the top of the base salary schedules, according to the settlement. The contract covers 155 full-time instructors, librarians and counselors and some 200 part-time instructors.

Maximum salaries — the rates earned by 90 percent of Schoolcraft faculty because of their seniority — in 1982-83 will be:

- $24,955 for faculty with bachelor's degrees, up from $24,228 in 1981-82.
- $29,262 for those with master's degrees, up from $28,410.
- $30,164 for faculty with master's degrees plus 30 credit hours, up from $29,285.
- $31,060 for faculty with doctorates, up from $30,155.

UNDER THE pact, a 2-percent increase in base salaries will go into effect with the 1983 fall semester. The agreement carries a provision to go beyond this percentage if the board agrees to a larger increase for the administrators' bargaining group.

The contract also calls for the college to pay $10,000 and a year's insurance, except long-term disability, to any full-time faculty member who chooses early retirement.

Approximately 40 faculty members — more than 25 percent — are eligible for this early-retirement incentive. Those eligible are at least 55 years old, have completed 10 years service and are at least a full year away from the mandatory retirement age of 70.

THE AGREEMENT provides the 1983 summer session will run six weeks instead of eight. A one-week spring recess was added to the winter-semester calendar for the first time.

The settlement calls for the board to contribute $10,000 a year, beginning 1983-84, to a fund for the retraining of some full-time faculty members for changing programs. The fund will stop at $20,000.

Contract negotiations began in April. Four months later, the previous contract was extended through Dec. 31. Tentative agreement was reached Dec. 14.

Chief negotiators were Michael Pelzack, director of labor relations, for the college, and Richard Arlen, accounting instructor, for the faculty.

Hike income tax 2% WSU's Adamany asks

Wayne State University President David Adamany has recommended a 2-percent increase in the state personal income tax. The current rate is 4.6 percent.

Speaking before Gov. James Blanchard's Michigan Financial Crisis Council, Adamany likened Michigan's current economic crisis to the situation he faced as secretary of revenue in the cabinet of Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin.

Officials raised taxes in Wisconsin to meet the deficit, Adamany said, and later returned some of the money through tax-relief programs.

Given economic improvements, such as increased employment, Michigan might do the same.

"The reductions in our state programs and our educational programs already have been deep and debilitating," Adamany said.

Now everything you've always wanted for less... is less.

Our Annual Sale—
December 26 to January 31
when almost everything is 10% to 40% off regular prices.

At Workbench, we don't have lots of storewide sales. Just one a year. But it's a dilly. Because we mark down all our best stuff. Not just a few things. Not even just a lot of things. But almost everything.

And, unlike a lot of other places, we don't bring in so-called specials. At Workbench we just go through the store with our red pencil and slash prices. Which means that right now you'll find 10% to 40% off on butcher block tables, upholstery, storage systems, bookcases, carts, music benches, desks and chair after chair after chair. Even the already reduced "Foreign Policy" prices on most of our imports have been further price cut for this sale.

Of course, there are a few things currently oversold that we can't put on sale. Is there a catch? Only time. Because our storewide sale lasts only until January 31. So hurry.

Walled Lake out

Lucas pushing 'super sewer'

The "super sewer" project is shrinking even as it wins the approval of Wayne County Executive William Lucas.

"The Walled Lake City Council voted not to participate in the project," reported Duane Egeland, managing director of the Wayne County Public Works Department, which has fostered the project for years.

Meanwhile, the city of Livonia was dropped from an "interim financing agreement," Egeland wrote to 17 communities remaining in the project. "Because of Livonia's nominal design and cost impact on the project, the city could be added to the project at a later date."

"SUPER SEWER" is the nickname of the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, a $210 million sewage treatment plant and interceptor running roughly parallel to the I-275 freeway from western Oakland County to where the Huron River flows into Lake Erie.

In its early stage, "super sewer" was to include Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor in Washtenaw County, western Oakland County as far north as White Lake Township, and western range of Wayne County.

The Washtenaw County committee opted out several years ago, citing environmental reasons and fearing the domination of Wayne County.

Also dropping out have been White Lake Township, Wolverine Lake and now Walled Lake.

The Walled Lake decision came after Egeland had secured agreement from 18 communities to underwrite a $461,000 interim financing agreement to cover engineering, legal and financial work. It meant that the bill had to be reallocated between, and re-approved by, the remaining communities.

These are Novi, Wixom and Commerce Township in Oakland County; Northville city and township, Flat Rock, Gibraltar, Rockwood, Romulus, South Rockwood, Woodhaven and the townships of Plymouth, Canton, Brownstown, Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren.

EGLAND REQUESTED the participants approve the agreement by Jan. 21. Local community share run between $4,700 for Commerce to $180,000 for Canton.

Economic development interests have pushed the project and added County Executive Lucas to the list of supporters. Lucas's letter said in part:

"I am aware of concerns that the project may result in increased out-migration from older communities, but I am satisfied that this problem has been adequately addressed in the extensive planning process. . . . The populations proposed to be served by the project are in conformance with moderate SEMCOG (Southeast Michigan Council of Governments) projections representing essentially inevitable population movement."

Super sewer had been opposed by the city of Detroit, which feared further population loss.

LUCAS CITED these benefits:

- "Elimination of numerous health hazards . . . due to discharge of raw and improperly treated sewage.
- "Stopping the state Department of Natural Resources from imposing building bans in large areas of Wayne County, which would be a staggering blow to the area's already crippled economy.
- "Injection of over $210 million of federal funds into the local economy and creation of over 5,000 jobs for local workers, which will significantly reduce unemployment in the area."

'Up With People' to give concert

Up With People, a group of young performers, will present its two-hour show of song and dance at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Troy Athens High School.

David Hartwig, 19, a graduate of Seaholm High School in Birmingham will be in the cast. Hartwig became interested in Up With People after the traveling troupe performed at Seaholm last year. He will be staying with his family during the stop here, and expects to have lots of relatives and friends at the Troy concert.

His parents are Eugene and Donna Hartwig of Bloomfield Hills. He has a brother Charles, a senior at the University of Michigan, and a sister Cathy, who is a graduate of Michigan State University.

"I never was in one of those Seaholm musicals," Hartwig said, when asked about his performing background. He never really sang and danced before joining Up With People. The group doesn't require musical expertise but rather interest and enthusiasm.

AT SEAHOLM, Hartwig had been active in student government and as announcer for basketball games.

Also talking about the upcoming show was Seclia Maniatis, 19, who said some of her family from Colorado will be attending the show in Troy. Up With People interviews 17-26-year-olds for its cast.

In contrast to Hartwig, Maniatis had been "heavily involved in choir in high school and college." Being on stage, however, was something she hadn't quite mastered. Now she's comfortable in front of an audience.

Marla S. Segal, promotion representative for Up With People, said the Troy program will include a medley of songs from the 1920s-'60s, which the cast performed at last year's Super Bowl at the Pontiac Silverdome, an international medley of songs of places the group has visited, with authentic costumes and dances for that country, and original Up With People music.

Time is past to close book on auto years

This is getting embarrassing — the American way of building cars, I mean. C'mon guys, let's fess up. The Japanese are doing a real job on us and, very simply, we should give it up.

Even the biggest among us, General Motors, is faced with recalling 220,000 X-cars because of a faulty brake design for the front-wheel-drive cars.

Some experts claim that GM just didn't have the technological know-how to do the job correctly. Naturally GM officials take offense.

Gone are the days when the American auto industry dominated the world market. And not only will we never again rule the car-making world, we should get out altogether.

Oh sure, we shouldn't throw in the bucket tomorrow. Gradual withdrawal is fine with me. But for the sake of this economy, sound business planning and our pride, let's quit making automotive fools out of ourselves.

Like someone once suggested about the Vietnam War, let's declare victory and go home.

After all, we've got our laurels on which to rest. For years we built those wide-bodied, fin-laden beauts. Cars of the future, we called them. Well...so we were wrong. Sure was fun cruising down the road in one of those gas-guzzling monsters at 85 or 90 mph.

Remember? Every two years would be the big model changeover. America would wait in great anticipation to get a glimpse of the newest Motor City dinosaur. Press photographers would hide in the bushes around test tracks and feel a victory had been won if they came away with a grainy, tele-scopic glimpse of an American love machine.

Like a robbed Venus, the newest model would be draped with a sheet as a TV announcer extolled this as yet unseen beauty's virtues.

My, how we loved to buy 'em big. My how the American auto moguls loved to build 'em big.

And you know what? They still do.

But the American public just isn't buying the old sex routine anymore. We found out that smaller can be more efficient, more comfortable and better built — maybe not as sexy but less prone to recall.

We also realized the Japanese auto makers can do all these things better. And although the Big Three auto moguls hate to admit it, they know it, too.

In a recent Wall Street Journal article, it was noted that American auto makers are turning to the Japanese for assistance in producing subcompact cars.

And the reasons are obvious. Instead of making money, the American industry loses $1,000 for each subcompact model it builds and sells. Now that's not any way to participate in the free enterprise system.

More reasons to throw in the towel:

- Japanese assemble a subcompact in 15 hours while we do it in 30 man hours costing $8 more an hour.

- Complete cost, starting from scratch with a hunk of iron ore, takes us 190 hours and the Japanese just 100.

- All told, experts estimate the Japanese have a cost edge of $2,500 per subcompact over the American auto maker.

And while American automakers scramble to cut deals with Japanese industry to borrow their know-how, Chrysler with Mitsubishi and GM with Toyota, the American consumer rushes in increasing numbers to buy foreign cars.

Domestic sales were down by 18.84 percent in 1982 as compared to 1981. Fourth-quarter sales alone were down 7.68 percent despite an 8.83 percent increase in December.

The Japanese are clobbering us in the small car market. Last year they sold 49 percent of the small cars in this country. That's up from 45 percent in 1979.

Making cars? Let the people who can do it best, do it.

Computers, anyone?

Human need: big help from suburbia

TWO DAYS before Christmas, I wrote in this space about the need for suburbanites to reach out to others in a season of giving. I noted that more than 700,000 persons were out of jobs in the state. In this suburban area, approximately 12-14 percent of the workers are unemployed.

In that column I listed several agencies which were helping the needy at Christmas. This week I went back and talked to representatives of those agencies.

They were unanimous in praise of the help you gave.

"People in this area have a deep sense of compassion and a feeling for others," said the Rev. Lloyd Thiel of the Capuchin Community Center. "They demonstrated again this Christmas that they are willing to share what they have — not only by donating money but also in giving of time as volunteers."

Thiel said the majority of donations to the Capuchin center are from the suburbs. "I'm tempted to say that 90 percent of our assistance comes from the suburbs. But to tell you the truth, I've never figured it out."

The number of lives touched through the Capuchin Center is staggering. During 1982 the center served 202,716 meals, gave out 14,992 food baskets and responded to 9,616 requests for clothing and furniture.

DUN SCOTUS College and Seminary in Southfield provided food, clothing and financial contributions to approximately 600 families at Christmas. Brother Francis of Dun Scotus said suburban families were assisted.

"For many suburbanites needing help, this was a new experience," Brother Francis said. "They had never been unemployed at Christmastime."

Focus:HOPE began a project this Christmas of finding persons to donate and deliver baskets of food to the low-income elderly.

By the end of the Christmas season, more than 2,700 food baskets had been delivered to the elderly. In addition, approximately $80,000 was donated to buy food for seniors.

"This is the first year we have done this large of a project," said Frank Bugg, project coordinator. "It exceeded our expectations."

WHILE THE Christmas giving was gratifying, the work of these social agencies (and others) must continue year round. Those who were hungry and without heat in their homes in December are no better off in January.

As Frank Bugg said, "Although over 2,700 seniors received food baskets at Christmas, our research indicates there are about 325,000 needy seniors in the tri-county area. We are pleased by what was accomplished, but frustrated because so much more needs to be done."

Focus:HOPE is in special need of suburban volunteers. "Elderly persons are facing serious problems in communities such as Rochester, Livonia, Plymouth and Redford," said Bugg. "But since these areas are remote from our downtown Detroit office, the low-income elderly can only be served through local volunteers."

At the Capuchin Community Center the Rev. Lloyd Thiel worries about the future and the need for more volunteer help in the months ahead. He notes that in 1979 the center served 121,800 meals as compared to 202,716 in 1982. In 1979 6,800 clients were seen as compared to 26,334 in 1982. In 1979 there were 2,236 requests for clothing and furniture as compared to 9,616 in 1982.

"If we continue to see that kind of progression of the needy, how will we cope in the years ahead?" he asked this week.

At Dun Scotus College Brother Francis said their work cannot continue without volunteer workers. "We are strictly a volunteer organization," he said. "If we don't have the women to separate the clothes and the men to gather the food, we can't continue."

Brother Francis said Dun Scotus has helped about 10 families since the first of the year with food and money.

Focus:HOPE, the Capuchin soup kitchen and Dun Scotus are only three agencies trying to attend to the needs of the poor during these miserable economic times. Many churches and organizations continue their efforts throughout the year.

There is a place for you to help solve this problem.

Even though Christmas is only a memory, don't lose that spirit of giving.

Young reporter makes good in NY

DURING HIS more than a half-century of strolling along the river of printer's ink, The Stroller has enjoyed many a thrill.

He was at ringside when Luis Firpo knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring in Yankee Stadium. He rode with Gar Wood when the Gray Fox of Algonac established a new world record in his famed speedboat, Miss America X. He thrilled when he saw his first byline over a story in the Free Press back in 1926.

But the thrill of thrills came the day he walked into the Free Press sports department and was told he was being assigned to go with the University of Detroit football team for a game at West Point with Army.

Imagine that — traveling with a nationally known college football team) working in the press box with the top sports writers from New York City. It was a sign to him he had "made good" on a major metropolitan newspaper.

PART OF THE thrill came when he was asked to report to Phil Reid, the kindly old managing editor, for a chat.

Mr. Reid was a fascinating person. His eyesight was so poor that he had to wear thick glasses, and he held a newspaper up to his eyes to read it. But he was one of the most kind-hearted editors The Stroller ever has met.

the stroller

Edgar

"I understand you are going east this weekend," he said by way of starting the chat. "Well, there are a few things I would like to tell you."

"I want you to remember that when you walk out of this building with your little typewriter, you will be the show window of the paper. So I want you to dress nicely, wear a well-pressed suit, a clean shirt and be courteous to all you meet."

"I want you to stay at the hotel and eat in the hotel dining room. And when you tip, don't be tight. Tip liberally. It may not do you any good, but the next Free Press reporter will get the benefit of it."

With that he stuck out his hand and wished The Stroller well.

THERE WAS the thrill of seeing West Point, dining with the cadets, seeing the beauty of the Hudson River. But a strange moment lay ahead.

At halftime in the football game, he received a message to catch the first train back to Detroit to cover the Lions game on Sunday afternoon.

A quick check revealed that a train could be taken across the Hudson within two hours after the game.

Two cadets were assigned to take him down the hill to catch a ferry boat across the river. Halfway down the hill, the boat was signed leaving the dock. The cadets had to get special orders to continue the journey.

When the cadets had him safely at the train, The Stroller went to tip them. The smallest bill he had was $20, so he gave it to them.

Making out his expense account later, he listed the $20 as special automobile hire. That was aside from charging taxi fare.

WHEN KINDLY old Mr. Reid lifted the expense account to his eyes, he noticed the $20 charge and said, "You certainly learned quickly."

The Stroller explained, and the editor said, "And you only gave them $20?" Turning to his secretary, he said, "Make that $50."

Then Mr. Reid turned to The Stroller and said, "That's OK. You keep the rest as a bonus for the good job you did — on your first trip."

Is it any wonder The Stroller has that trip on the top of his list of thrills?

The like of Phil Reid isn't found in the newspaper world today.

Sidewalks pose walking trouble

To the editor:

I urge our community fathers to be alert to the necessity of private property owners to maintain their sidewalks.

My wife and I like to walk in our neighborhood bounded by Joy, Merriman, Ann Arbor Trail and Farmington. She took a bad fall on a raised sidewalk on Joy Road between Hubbard and Farmington.

She got a sharp blow to her head and injured both hands badly. Her hands are especially valuable since she is a church organist.

Other serious areas exist on Hubbard around Nankin Mills School. Ann Arbor Trail and Merriman is especially bad between Joy and Ann Arbor Trail where you can't walk on the sidewalk because of overflow of growth from poorly kept backyards.

These areas are becoming dangerous for children, oldsters who like to walk, joggers, and any middle-aged people like my wife and myself who walk on public sidewalks.

What responsibility does the city of Westland have, here?

Time to honor Vietnam vets

To the editor:

I thought that it was time that our city finally honor our men of Vietnam, but I worried, as did many of my friends, that they (city council) wouldn't move on it, or would try to make it political.

With this in mind, after weighing the need to have it done, I submitted a request to the Westland City Council. I am very pleased to say that Robert Wagner asked that it be placed on the next agenda for action. At the next meeting, the council did, indeed, act on it.

Finally, our men who served in Vietnam will be honored by a city without it being made political. That makes me very happy that my city was the first of many, I hope, to take this great step that is long overdue.

Kenneth Mehl, a councilman, said that he thought it was a very good idea, and that he would be pleased to support it for immediate action because of what it would mean to our men. (He said) I need not be concerned about it being made political.

For that I also would like to say that if persons in our community would like to do something for our soldiers, then I urge you to contact Mr. Mehl to see how you can help.

I hope that other cities will follow the example set by our council and honor their men, who fought for us when asked, and leave out the politics as Westland has done.

Again, I want to say thank you to our council. I am very impressed with the speed in which you acted, without dragging your feet as I had thought.

I do hope that this will help make up for the neglect from our cities, and that others will follow.

Hits reasoning about deficit

To the editor:

After reading articles in your newspaper concerning Westland's deficit, I was amused by Mayor Pickering's reasoning for it.

He seems to think he is the only elected official in Westland that has to deliver on political promises, and (that) if the Council does, as it did in lowering taxes and street lighting assessment, it is "purely political".

In the last election, several members of the Westland City Council promised to lower the taxes levied for city operating purposes.

They did this even though the mayor proposed substantial increases.

They also rolled back street lighting assessments to the amount actually needed until the mayor could come up with an equitable system of assessing major streets.

Mayor Pickering asked for considerably higher assessments on residential street lighting while people on the major roads were to get lighting for free.

If the council wants to continue to do things for "the taxpayers," I say call them anything you want, Mr. Mayor, but when you give fringe benefit increases to only one city union to the exclusion of all others, and the members of that union gave you more than $3,000 of contributions and additional political literature distribution help, don't expect me to believe it's anything except a pure "political pay-off".

Make resolutions for better photos

Some of our 1983 resolutions should include our photography. By sticking with them, our first-of-the-year resolutions can definitely improve our photography in the coming year.

Here are some ideas that you can use as some of your own 1983 photographic resolutions. But you can come up with some of your own, too.

LET'S TALK to all of you who were lucky enough to find new cameras, lenses, flash units, etc. under your Christmas tree.

Resolve that you will thoroughly read your instruction manuals to familiarize yourself with all functions. You'll be surprised at how much useful information you'll get from an in-depth reading of your camera's instruction booklet.

Make sure all your equipment is in good working condition, all lenses are clean, all batteries fresh.

Make a resolution to insure all your photographic equipment. Insurance premiums are inexpensive when compared to the financial and emotional losses you'll suffer if a camera were to be lost or stolen. Usually all it takes to insure your gear is a phone call.

tions often host photography shows, too.

START LOOKING at photography books. Most bookstores in the area have good photography sections, that welcome browsers. Even consider buying some books to begin building a library for yourself. You'll be glad you did.

Resolve to take more pictures this year and perhaps even of different subjects than you're used to. Maybe last year you brought out the camera only at birthdays and holidays.

Well, that's OK, but just think about how much enjoyment you'll get by shooting at other times, just for fun, and just for yourself. Besides, the more photographs you take, the more you'll learn about photography.

Finally, make a resolution to look "deeper" through your camera by paying closer attention to what you see. Become more aware of your surroundings and, in so doing, you'll be rewarded with a keener insight and a finer tuned sense of vision.

You'll be better able to zero-in on your subject and better able to express yourself through your photography.

© 1983, Monte Nagler

Early morning fog may never have seemed a good time to take pictures, but if you make a New Year's resolution to do something different, you could come up with something as rewarding as this Monte Nagler photo.

Short shots

RESOLVE to take a photography class or join a camera club.

There are an abundance of good classes in the area with qualified instructors. Chances are you'll be able to find a class close to home.

The Detroit metropolitan area also has more than a dozen camera clubs, all of which will welcome you with camaraderie and a willingness to share photographic knowledge.

Resolve to start visiting the many fine photo galleries in the area. Looking at photographs is an exciting and rewarding experience.

Birmingham offers the Halstead and Pierce Street galleries, Rochester the Eloquent Light Gallery, and, for those who on the west side, it's only a short hop to Ann Arbor to the Blixt Gallery.

Many libraries and public institu-

Columnist Monte Nager will teach a beginning photography class series at the Farmington Community Center starting Jan. 19. He also will conduct a one-day workshop at the University of Michigan Botanical Garden in Ann Arbor on Jan. 22. Phone the center at 477-8404 for registration information on both events.

Cranbrook Institute of Science is offering a course called "Nature Photography: Advanced Still-Life Techniques," taught by free-lancer Alar Lowy. It will meet 7-9 p.m. four Thursdays beginning Jan. 13 and have a day long field trip Jan. 23. It will emphasize studio still-life techniques for in-sects and mammals. Fee for non-members: $36.

Area firm 1st to aid hunger fund

The special state fund to attack hunger has received its first major contribution, a challenge and a new name.

League Insurance Cos., of Southfield, sent a check for $26,520 to the trust fund established last week by then-Gov. William G. Milliken.

"Our contribution amounts to about a dollar a week for each of our employees over the next year," said League Insurance President Robert E. Vanderbeek. "I hope other companies and individuals across Michigan might do something similar in the year ahead."

"THIS IS a great way to get the fund off the ground just ahead of the new year," said Jim Jordan, Milliken's executive assistant, adding that the special trust fund will now be called the Michigan Human Emergency Lift Program (HELP).

"The idea of a dollar a week per person is a meaningful, yet realistic challenge for Michigan's corporate and private citizens to help meet basic human needs during this economic depression."

Vanderbeek said League Insurance Cos. will provide a check-off program for those employees who wish to "give their own dollar a week to HELP during 1983."

HE ADDED that the current $26,520 corporate contribution is doubly important because the League Companies were sold this month by the Michigan Credit Union League to CUNA Mutual Insurance Group of Madison, Wis. The companies will continue to operate from their Southfield headquarters.

"This is a significant gesture by our new owners to the people of Michigan," said Vanderbeek. "And it is very much in keeping with the credit union tradition of helping people."

The HELP trust fund will obtain and distribute food to those who need it throughout Michigan. Contributions are tax-deductible. They may be sent to: Michigan HELP, Department of Treasury, PO Box 15128, Lansing 48922.

As a homeowner you may qualify for a MICHIGAN NATIONAL BANK EQUI-LOAN

WHAT IS AN EQUI-LOAN?

An Equi-Loan is a second mortgage secured by the equity in your home. By using your home equity, you can borrow $3,000 or more with liberal repayment terms at simple interest rates. * An Equi-Loan is not a remortgage, but a second mortgage; it will therefore not alter your present mortgage or its rate.

The amount of equity in your home, by the way, is the difference between its appraised value and your first mortgage (if any). This equity provides the basis for borrowing a large amount of money at established simple interest rates with the maximum amount of the loan being determined by the size of your equity.

WITH A SIMPLE INTEREST EQUI-LOAN YOU HAVE THE OPTION OF SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCING THE AMOUNT OF INTEREST YOU PAY.

The earlier you pay back a simple interest loan, the less you'll pay in interest charges. So every time you make an early payment, or an additional payment, you are actually reducing the amount of interest you pay for your loan.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF THE AMOUNT YOU CAN EXPECT TO BORROW.

Each transaction is different and subject to credit approval, however, we are flexible in our lending policy. In general, you can expect that the total of your first and second mortgage will amount to 70% of our valuation of your home. For Example:

Appraised Valuation $50,000
70%
Total Loan Value $35,000
1st Mortgage Bal. $25,000
Available for 2nd Mortgage $10,000

HERE'S HOW TO APPLY FOR AN EQUI-LOAN.

The procedure is much the same as it is for a personal loan. Simply take this ad to the installment loan department at Michigan National Bank West Metro. Or you can phone us at 421-4990 and discuss your plans with a trained loan executive. An appointment can be made if you like.

A great season to hike and watch birds

By Lem Mesee
outdoors writer

Many an area outdoorsperson is finding this season to be a "winter of our discontent," as Shakespeare put it.

The unusually warm weather that has been visiting southeast Michigan so far in the winter of 1982-83 has put some seasonal activities on hold. The ice is too firm for boaters but not firm enough for ice fishing. There is no snow for tracking game, snowmobiling or cross country skiing.

But all is not lost. For example, snow is not a requirement for a pleasant winter walk, according to Pat Carlson, naturalist at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark.

WITHOUT SNOW, she told us, "a lot of people don't have to work so hard to walk. And some things you can see that you didn't know were out there."

Mild temperatures, while providing wildlife with more movement and food gathering, have encouraged more hiking and birdwatching.

"A lot of people come out here and hike the nature trails," Carlson said. "Some like to go out and around and see what's happening. Some like it because they can get the exercise and don't feel cooped up."

Nature lovers will have a chance to get out and around Sunday, Jan. 16, when a free "Winter Wildlife Walk" will be held at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark, north of the I-96 freeway near Milford.

The family program will begin at 2 p.m. Naturalist Bob Hotelling will lead a 90-minute discovery walk on the nature trails. To register, contact the Nature Center in Milford at 685-1561.

SOME BIRDS, such as the junco and purple finch, make their local appearances at this time of year, Carlson said.

The junco has the nickname "snowbird" because it is seen here only in the winter, the Kensington naturalist said. The junco has a wingspread of up to 10 inches, a slaty gray belly and whitish outer tail feathers. It spends summers in evergreen forests in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and in the Upper Peninsula. The junco will eat out of suburban bird feeders in winter.

Wildlife is in abundance, including deer, muskrats, weasels and cottontail rabbits.

The cottontail rabbit seldom seeks winter shelter. It occasionally enters a woodchuck hole for shelter from a storm or to escape enemies.

Carlson advised winter hikers to dress warmly and in layers. Wearing layers of clothing enables the hiker to remove items if he gets too warm. And your feet should be comfortable, she said.

"Boots are fine as long as your feet feel comfortable and warm," Carlson said.

THIS YEAR and next will be the last you can buy tree and wildlife shrub seedlings from the state Department of Natural Resources nursery.

"Each year we grow about 10 million trees and shrubs," said Bill Botti, leader of the timber management unit of DNR. "Three to four million trees are used in the state forests, and the rest are made available to the general public."

Tree and shrub order forms and price lists can be obtained by writing: Forest Management Division, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028 Lansing 48909.

Stroke victims: water babies

By Loraine McClish
staff writer

DETROIT POLICE Officer Dick Tomlinson had his hands tied together and his legs bound about his ankles when he jumped into Mercy Center's swimming pool to give a demonstration of drown-proofing.

His audience was made up of area persons who were recovering from strokes, ready to take their first lesson in a swimming technique leading to water therapy exercises.

"I'll have the reluctant ones floating before the hour is up," Tomlinson boasted. And so he did.

Tomlinson has taught drown-proofing since his college days. It is a method of breathing while swimming with such a minimum of energy expenditure that complications such as cramps, heavy clothing, injuries, high waves, rough waters or long immersion have little or no effect on survival.

Drown-proofing has its basis in applied physics, depending on air rather than muscle and produces rest instead of exhaustion.

"So it works equally well on he's or she's, old or young, fat or skinny, tall or short, smart or dumb and is extremely effective for the handicapped," Tomlinson said.

"Anybody, and I mean anybody, can swim."

TOMLINSON admitted that the class of students he had last week, and has committed himself to see a few more times to perfect their drown-proofing, may be one of the hardest groups he's tackled yet.

"Adults who have never swam are the hardest to teach, probably because of old fears left over from a childhood experience. With these students their handicap builds up yet more layers of fears that have to be worked through."

Even so, he expects success in the same degree he's seen success come to those "with every type of handicap imaginable," he said.

"When the swimmer learns to float, we teach how to cough under water, how to open their eyes under water so they know where they're at, what to do in case of cramps, and most important how to relax because panic is the principal reason for drowning," he said.

"The method works with arms alone, or legs alone or using one of each and it should be learned by fishermen, boaters, swimmers, anyone who uses the water for either recreation or work.

"This technique in the head is worth millions of life-saving gadgets that may be out of reach."

THE PEOPLE who are learning how to drown-proof themselves now are all members of Farmington Hills Senior Center's "Stroke Support Group."

"The group was started just for recreation and socializing away from home," said Maggie Loradis who is the center's senior adult specialist.

"The tendency is for these people to hide, to become house-bound. They don't want old friends and neighbors seeing them in a wheelchair or using a walker. That can be a terrible blow to your pride."

The support group, now facilitated by Cathy Carrier, did its job. As more persons joined the group, more recreation activities were planned. More members stayed on after the weekly meetings of discussion or hearing a speaker, to play bingo or cards or to lunch together.

Florence Viergutz and Roman Galwalski (at left) are two of almost 100 who do aqua-exercises every Friday morning, which are part of the Farmington Hills Senior Adult Center's program. They're on hand now to help Marge Hamina and others recovering from stroke receive the benefits water therapy can offer. The lessons are an off-shoot of the Stroke Support Group initiated by Maggie Loradis, in the pool.

Women's Exchange honors Barton

A Livonia attorney will be among four Detroit area women honored by the Women's Exchange for their outstanding contributions to their communities, to their careers and to other women at the network's second anniversary celebration Monday, Jan. 24.

Attorney Margaret Barton, WJBK-TV sportscaster Anne Doyle, medical social worker Betty Weymouth-Conger and steel industry buyer Joy Wheeler will receive engraved plaques and verbal tributes at the dinner in their honor at the Holiday Inn's The Chamberlin, Dearborn.

Barton, a Livonia resident, has conducted forums on women's issues in the law at Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center. She has represented women in divorce cases and presented a legal overview of divorce to support groups at both the YWCA and the Women's Justice Center. She advises clients of First Step (which assists victims of domestic violence in Wayne County) as a weekly volunteer of the agency and served as a consultant to the "Spouse Abuse Injunction."

Doyle, a Birmingham resident, joined the TV-9 sports team in 1978 and has received Emmy nominations for two of her stories, "Title IX and Women's Athletics" and "Baseball Wives."

WEYMOUTH-CONGER is a social worker at Henry Ford Hospital. The Dearborn resident works within the adolescent pregnancy clinic, hospital-based home care program and social services department.

She also provides counseling and leadership to two support groups: pregnant teenagers and the other for the parents of special care newborns. She is past secretary-treasurer of the Dearborn Civitans, chairman of the Wayne County Special Olympics bowling tournaments and has been a newsletter editor and steering committee member for the Women's Exchange.

Wheeler, of Dearborn, has been employed by Kasle Steel and Aluminum, Dearborn, for the past six years where she is involved in inventory control as well as buying steel. She is active in the 50-member Detroit Lutheran Singers, an area-wide choral group, and served as their first female president. She is also a member of Delta Zeta sorority and has been province alumnae director.

Prepaid reservations are available for the anniversary celebration by sending check or money order to: Women's Exchange, P.S. Box 427, Dearborn Heights, 48127, before Jan. 20.

Jeffrey Bruce
'take pride in yourself'

'Women are uneducated in Michigan. We need you,' Livonian Judy Hepler told Bruce — so he came to Michigan.

When all is equal, the eyes have it

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

When dressing for success, don't forget to apply a little foundation, contour, rouge, eye liner, mascara, lipstick — and three or four shades of eye shadow.

That's the advice businesswomen get from makeup artist Jeffrey Bruce, who knows it doesn't sound very liberated.

While raised by feminist parents to "treat people the same regardless of gonads," the New Yorker still takes his cosmetics earnings to the most attractive banker on duty.

"I won't go to a person who is slipshod in appearance," Bruce told the Rochester Business Women's Roundtable recently, at a luncheon meeting in Rivercrest Manor.

"If you take pride in yourself, you take pride in your work. You succeed a lot faster."

Winner of two Coty Awards and voted Top Makeup Artist in America six years straight by the Fashion Distributors of America, Bruce assures audiences there's "nothing wrong with being smart and looking terrific."

It's advice the beauty consultant to celebrities like Lauren Bacall and Kathy Ford takes seriously himself.

After graduating from the University of North Carolina at 17, Bruce intended to paint portraits. Instead, a friend suggested he try out as a makeup artist for New York hairstylist Kenneth, who hired the teen despite his inexperience.

WORKING WITH clients like Jackie Kennedy Onassis and Dina Merrill led to jobs with makeup entrepreneurs Estee Lauder and Charles Revson of Revlon.

Unhappy with the way Revlon operated, he went out on his own as personal makeup artist to movie stars Ann Margret and Raquel Welch.

"Ignorance is bliss," he said, talking about his rapid rise. "It's amazing when you don't know what you are doing and not aware of the consequences what you can do."

BRUCE BELIEVES part of his job is to educate consumers, who he said have not been taught how to care for skin and apply makeup properly.

He ranted some members of his audience when he told them that Michigan women get more careful instruction than some of his other clients.

The makeup artist said one reason he came to this area was at the request of Judy Hepler of Livonia, who met him when he designed a look for her daughter Heidi's trip to Atlantic City as Miss Michigan.

"She said 'Women are uneducated in Michigan. We need you,'" said Bruce, who hired Mrs. Hepler to be his Michigan representative.

"How many of you have gone into a department store and been made up by someone selling negligees two days before? We treat you individually and teach you to do it yourself."

Bruce opened his own cosmetics firm three years ago and now hosts "Good Morning New York" (twice a week and is a regular guest on "Kelly and Company."

But just turning 36 this month, the young executive admits to surgery on his nose ("I couldn't breathe"), ears and under his eyes where he sometimes covers up the circles.

Looking his age just wasn't good for the growing Jeffrey Bruce cosmetics business, which features non-allergenic products made from the aloe plant.

"I knew it worked because it helped my acne," said Bruce, whose daily skin regimen includes super lemon cleanser, dermal feeder, eye cream, night cream and a facial three times a week.

"I'M VERY pro plastic surgery. You can't go near me with a magnet — I've had everything done," Bruce kidded the delighted audience.

"I'm all for helping yourself if it doesn't look obvious."

Although he advocates using several cosmetics — including blending lipsticks and eye shadows — the makeup artist believes in an understated look.

And he doesn't favor conventional beauty, but urges people ("skin doesn't have any gender") to make the most of what they have.

"I want to see you're taking care of yourself, but if I can see what you're doing it's too much," explained Bruce, who refuses to see $200-an-hour clients if they arrive wearing any makeup at all.

"People should not notice the makeup. They should see you."

While he attacks cosmetics companies for aiming at the masses and assuming "every woman in America is 35 and caucasian," he also believes consumers must be more aware of what they're buying.

"When cosmetics firms rip off people, the people who are to blame are the women who buy those products," he told his listeners. "If something costs $2, how much research could have gone into it."

Admittedly honest to a fault, Bruce took potshots at several celebrities who he feels aren't living up to potential.

In his opinion, Lana Turner "is becoming ET" because of new makeup on Falcon Crest. "I'm going to have a party for Suzanne Somers and introduce her upper lip to her lower," he added with a smile.

HIS UPCOMING book "Beauty and the Best" will feature celebrities wearing "before" makeup ("I don't like naked faces") and after they've been "Jeffrey Bruced to death."

Building a house in Woodstock, NY, the makeup artist hopes to retire when he's between 40 and 45.

In hopes of changing careers someday, he's going to start taking courses this spring at the New School for Social Research in New York City.

"I've been very lucky in business, but I've worked very hard," said Bruce, who's always wanted to be a veterinarian or marine biologist.

Meanwhile, he is traveling around the country training representatives who will pass on his techniques. Locally, his representatives are in LeSalon, Ayon Township; Hair Time, Southfield; George Paul Salon, Dearborn; Sandy Graham, Grosse Ile; and Ginger Group, Birmingham.

And he's educating consumers, who he says are growing more aware of makeup. But sometimes teaching isn't easy.

When asked for shortcuts to help busy women find time to apply his makeup, Bruce showed no mercy.

"Honestly, is 15 minutes too much time? When you're made up, you feel better and know it," Bruce said firmly.

"Go to bed 15 minutes earlier."

Touching task

Tapping a machine, Griep is leading blind to learning

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

IT'S ALL done with fingers. The fingers of Marge Griep tap out raised dots on paper on her Braille writing machine.

Later a blind person somewhere in the country will run the tips of his educated fingers over these embossed dots and understand their meaning.

The system invented by Frenchman Louis Braille in 1829 is still the only way an unsighted person can read. Having a volunteer like Griep produce Braille with loving care is still the only way many blind persons can have access to special publications such as textbooks.

Griep started what she calls "Braille-ing" about nine years after retiring from teaching mathematics in a series of Livonia schools, Riley and Bryant Junior High schools and Franklin High School.

"I was looking for a hobby that was intellectual so my mind wouldn't go blank," said the Livonian.

The result: "I became an addict immediately," she announced with a pleased smile. "Two years later I was teaching the course."

FOR A WHILE her machine clackety clacked with literary Braille work. For Griep and her 60 fellow members

Marge Griep demonstrates that there is more to Braille transcribing than "typing" on her Braille machine. Here she uses a ruler-like instrument called a slate. Once all Braille was done laboriously with the slate, but today it is used mainly to correct errors. Note the holes in it. They are the size of the dot groups used in Braille. First Griep must erase the erroneous dots with a teflon eraser. Then with a stylus she pokes in new dots.

As Bruce's Michigan representative, Judy Hepler does consultations in her Livonia home. Here, she counsels Debbie LaCavera of Greenbrae, Calif.

Using a spur wheel, Griep makes a drawing for a math textbook for blind students. The wheel pushes out dots on the reverse side of the paper — the side the blind person will touch. So she must do the drawing backwards.

A touching kind of work

of the Nardin Park Braille Transcribers that meant working on textbooks in history, geography or languages.

"Blind students can sit in classes with sighted students if their textbooks are in Braille," said Griep, explaining the reason behind her commitment in two sentences. "It enables them to be mainstreamed into regular classes."

Later she and three other Nardin Parkers took on an even more difficult project. They learned to transcribe math textbooks. The women are Cara Lynn Pender of Redford Township and Frances and Laurel Hoetger, mother and daughter of Farmington.

"Math Braille is amazingly complex," said Griep. "To learn it we attended a class for seven hours a day once a week for eight months."

THIS IS A new direction for Braille, she pointed out. It was developed by Dr. Abraham Nemeth, a blind professor at the University of Detroit. The system devised by Louis Braille involved a cell of six dots resembling a domino, but much smaller. Dr. Nemeth's math Braille the same arrangement of dots stands for the plus sign.

In the ingenious system devised by Braille, the dots are numbered. The one at the top left is number 1. Below it are dots 2 and 3. At the upper right is dot 4, with 5 and 6 immediately beneath. Dot 1 is the first letter of the alphabet. Dots 2 and 3 mean the letter B.

Many rules and permutations have been devised to get greater use of these dots. For example, dots 3, 4 and 6 put together mean "ing." But in Dr. Nemeth's math Braille the same arrangement of dots stands for the plus sign.

To transcribe the new system calls for an unusual amount of care, patience and attention to detail. But it is not without its creative side — the development of tactile illustrations for blind math students. The four women who do math transcriptions have warmed to the chance to use different tools and materials to create "pictures" these students can feel.

With a spin wheel, griffel, Braille compass, jumbo dotter and Braille eraser, the women devise raised graphs, charts and diagrams. It's a challenge also to introduce sand paper, sand, clay and sponge materials that will help the blind person experience the shapes of things mathematical.

"WE TRY TO handle, all requests," said Griep, who has produced substantial amounts of Braille in French and some in German. Right now the four women are giving first priority to math students from Michigan. Requests have come to them from as far away as New Jersey and Texas. The requests might be for a whole book or merely a chapter.

"There are only about 200 math Braille transcribers in the country," she said.

The Nardin Park Braille Transcribers store all their master Braille copies in the Nardin Park Braille Repository in the Farmington Hills Public Library. They then send the title of the work to the American Printing Co. in Louisville, Ky., which maintains a central catalog of all books done in Braille. Before undertaking a new book, Brailleists call the company to check if a book has already been transcribed elsewhere.

GRIEP, WHO teaches math part time in Huron Valley Lutheran High School and sings with the We-Wa-Co Chapter of Sweet Adelines, only attempts to do her Braille when she has at least two hours to work.

"I often do at midnight," she said. "It is time consuming. But I like the fact it is worthwhile. I like anything to do with book learning. You can work when it is convenient for you. In the Nardin Park group we are allowed to say we don't want to do anything for three months."

"But once we accept an assignment we usually have a deadline. We usually are not asked for a book unless it is to be used right away. Our biggest problem is that teachers don't tell us until June what materials they need by September."

Braille transcribers must be willing to concentrate and be accurate, said Griep. She calls the transcribers "special people who are a delight to be with."

Griep is married to Paul Griep and has four grown children and 10 grandchildren.

Braille classes are offered to potential transcribers in the fall. For more information on the Nardin Park organization, call its president Frances Hoetger of Farmington at 476-4973.

They will live in Grand Rapids where the bridegroom, who earned a degree from Ferris State in graphic arts management this year, is employed by National Correct Color. Gullible's travels

A funny thing, in fact, a couple of funny things, happened on the way to my getting retired. I managed to get completely unbinged by not one but two surprise parties.

My colleagues on the Observer's editorial staff pulled off the first one.

They scheduled it on a Saturday night before Thanksgiving, choosing that date, they explained, so no suspicions would be aroused. Then they managed, right under my nose, to spread the word among 60 or so people over a period of several weeks.

How did they ever put it over, one of my daughters wanted to know. Well, the decoy was perfectly logical, I explained. It was a scheduled dinner date for my husband and me with a longtime associate who said he wanted to take us out before he went on vacation. And indeed he was vacation-bound in December.

INGENIOUS planning, I thought, and it led to a wonderful party.

But I suggested then there might well be a high gullibility factor involved, and later events convinced me I was absolutely right on that score.

The holiday season came and went with its usual quota of celebrations and early deadlines, and in this particular holiday season we added some extra get-togethers with friends and last days of work.

And then it was the last Sunday before departure for Florida and I said a lot of farewells at church and went home for an afternoon of packing boxes.

OUR DAUGHTER had invited us for dinner that evening, suggesting we could watch football more comfortably there than in our stripped-down quarters. We never turn down an extra chance to enjoy granddaughter Katie. I could contribute a salad to the meal, Katie's mother said, but no, she didn't need any help with dessert.

The reason she didn't become apparent when, after we had eaten there were sounds of delayed Christmas carolling outside. Then about 30 church friends trooped in with party makings to surprise Ms. Gullible one more time.

We couldn't have had a better send-off than that evening of fellowship. When we wound it up by joining in the old hymn "God Be with You 'til We Meet Again," I was convinced that what I may lack in perception I more than make up in marvelous friends and colleagues.

The man of our house suggested the headline you read above. It certainly fits. Maybe what I need first in retirement is a course in suspicion-training.

Their wedding will take place Feb. 19 in Franklin.

Sutherland-Gionta

William J.A. and Geraldine V. Sutherland of Livonia announce the engagement of their daughter Julie Lynn to Ronald J. Gionta Jr., son of Ronald J. Gionta Sr. and his wife Margaret of Plum Borough, Pa.

Town is Michigan's midpoint

Travelers find that Clare is halfway to everywhere

Draw a north-south line from the Mackinac Bridge south to the Indiana-Ohio border. Draw an east-west line at right angles exactly halfway down the lower peninsula. The two lines will cross just south of the intersection of U.S. 10 and U.S. 27.

What you'll find at that intersection is the town of Clare, once the midway or overnight stopping place for travelers en route from one part of Michigan to another. It doesn't matter whether you are traveling from Detroit to Traverse City, Alpena to Benton Harbor or Cheboygan to Coldwater, Clare always seems to be the halfway point.

When Alfred James Doherty, a retired state senator, built the Doherty Hotel in 1924, he had a constant flow of commercial travelers and tourists to his table and his bedrooms. His grandson, A.J. Doherty II, still has a constant flow of travelers to his table, especially to his Sunday buffet, but Clare is an insider's destination now, and the insiders like to keep it to themselves.

What happened to Clare was Interstate-75, which now speeds us from Bay City to Grayling, totally bypassing Clare. Insiders slip off I-75 at Midland and take U.S. 10 into the small town set in its low nest of hills.

Most of them park in A.J.'s parking lot at the Doherty Hotel, which now has a newer motel wing and back-of-the-house banquet facilities that weren't there in the senator's time. A.J. recently uncovered old wall murals in the bar that have been there for decades, little green leprechauns and all.

YOU CAN RENT a room at the hotel from $25 to $40, but most of the visitors come for meals. They join the locals at their round table in the bar during lunch, have dinner or crowd the dining room and bar for the Sunday Groaning Board.

A.J.'s Sunday buffet, $7.95 all-you-can-eat, is a masterpiece: huge juicy roast beef along with other savouries, a salad bar littered with loaves of fresh bread and highlighted by a huge bowl of crumbled blue cheese. A.J. doesn't like to even think about what that big bowl of expensive blue cheese costs him every Sunday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. when locals and tourists raid the buffet.

In winter, you will find a lot of people there in ski clothes. Being halfway to everywhere, Clare is a great stopping place for metro Detroiters going to any of the ski areas northwest towards Traverse City, including the Boynes.

About 45 ice fishermen crowd his rooms and his table every January, driving north from Clare to Tip-Up Town on Houghton Lake. (Held this year Jan. 15-16 and 22-23.) Winter lovers go ice fishing on Houghton Lake, snowmobiling in Harrison, and cross country skiing within five miles of town.

The rest of us, sluggards that we are, just like to visit Clare on a Sunday drive, watching the snow dripping off the barns along the way and letting the juices dribble down our chin when we get there.

You can reach A.J. at (517) 386-3441 if you want to join us. Consider also the dinner theater ("Annie Get Your Gun," Jan. 27-28 or Feb. 4-5), Big Band Night dinner dance Feb. 26 and the Irish Festival March 12.

A CANADIAN WINTER CARNIVAL worth thinking about is Winterlude, Feb. 4-13 in Ottawa. Canada's capital features 25 events on the historic Rideau Canal, the world's longest skating rink, which runs through downtown in the shadow of both the parliament buildings and the Chateau Laurier Hotel.

1-of-a-kind traveler

You can take a sleigh to Dow's Lake for the Ice Dream, a musical village with nearly 100 ice sculptures in residence. You can also enjoy bed races, barrel jumping, skating shows, frozen fireworks, marathons and lots of winter partying.

Via Rail Canada has train packages for one or two nights ranging from $84 to $107 for one night, $112 to $157 for two nights, including round-trip transportation from Toronto to Ottawa and accommodations.

Contact your travel agent, the Canadian Government Office of Tourism (963-8686) or ViaRail (963-6037).

LODGE-TO-SKIING is also a great attraction in Canada, specifically in our neighbouring province of Ontario. A ski package allows you to ski groomed trails between O-Pee-Chee Lake Lodge 40 miles north of North Bay, Ravencroft Lodge on Jumping Caribou Lake 12 miles away and White Gables Lodge on Temagami Lake 18 miles beyond that. Each lodge has a network of additional cross country ski trails circling the lodge itself.

The package offers six nights, (two in each lodge) including all meals and recreational facilities and accommodations in winterized and equipped housekeeping cabins for $359 per skier. Lodges accessible via Highway 17 from Ottawa or Highway 11 and Northlander rail service from Toronto.

Contact Lodge-to-lodge skiing, P.O. Box 21, Temagami, Ontario POH 2H0 or phone (705) 569-3755.

Bill Evans of W 3 Adventure (left) and two adventurous ski touring guests sit atop a quinzee snow house in western Quebec. The quinzee is a comfortable and secure overnight shelter for winter campers.

House of snow offers winter shelter

By Tony Sloan
special writer

The cone-shaped piles of snow rose ever higher in the late afternoon sun. It was getting steadily colder and one wondered if this sleeping overnight in a quinzee was such a good idea after all.

There were 12 of us out there in the woods, somewhere along the Canadian Ski Marathon Trail near Calumet, Quebec. Calumet is about halfway between Montreal and Ottawa, on Highway 148.

We had left the cozy confines of the W 3 Adventure base camp (Riviere Rough Motel and Restaurant) and after skiing with full trail packs for several hours, had proceeded to make camp for the night.

W 3 Adventure is a year-round outdoor recreational instruction and holiday center that specializes in Nordic ski touring, camping and survival and rescue training in winter while running, hiking, mountain climbing, kayaking and wild water river rafting expeditions in the Rough River Valley in summer.

The unusual feature of our camp in the wilderness was the quinzees. There were four of them under construction, each designed to sleep three skiers.

In more physical terms, it means clearing or at least disturbing the snow in a circular area approximately 16 feet in diameter and then proceeding to pile it back in the center. The snow is piled to a height of 7 feet. This takes between one and two hours depending on the enthusiasm of the shovelers.

Once the desired height is attained — the shape forms automatically — the snow is allowed to set or crystallize and bond for an hour or more. A ground-level doorway, just large enough to admit a person on hands and knees, is carved out, and the excavator proceeds to hollow out the interior.

A 7-foot-high quinzee will sleep three adults.

Bill Evans and Malcom Cox of W 3 Adventure maintained close supervision on the tricky hollowing out procedure.

A special insulating pad placed under the sleeping bag protects the camper from the cold ground. Both pad and bag are then encased in a waterproof "Bivo" sack which protects the sleeping compartment from moisture from the floor or melted snow.

The temperature inside the quinzee was a degree or two below freezing and quite comfortable.

Candle light flickered on the silver-domed ceiling, and the cold breeze whispered harmlessly outside the low entrance way. It was not only secure and snug, our snow shelter was quite beautiful in a simplistic sort of way.

The shelter's snow crystals continued to bond ever stronger during the night. By morning, ten people were able to sit or stand on the roof of the quinzee to prove the strength of the structure; in fact, the walls had to be cut through with shovels to collapse the roofs prior to our departure.

Quinzee camping while ski touring is a fairly rugged experience since it involves hours of intensive shoveling.

The huts can be used for a maximum of three nights before they have to be scaled or de-iced. The ice glaze that forms on the inside walls eliminates the porosity of the snow and the quinzee becomes too cold for comfort.

The three principals in W 3 Adventure, Bill Evans, Keith Wilkinson and Bill Powney, are all certified ski instructors and experienced river rafters.

The winter instructional programs revolve around cross country skiing. They offer certificates in first aid and winter rescue, as well as professional guide level qualifications and leadership skills for Nordic ski-tours.

Anyone wishing to acquire a new outdoor skill, expand their current knowledge or just have a pleasant outdoor adventure, should contact W 3 Adventure, C.P. 553, Succ. Westmount, Quebec H3Z 2T6 or call (514) 933-0601.

They add up to 615 years of wedded bliss

ST. Michael's Catholic Church has its own way of observing all the numerous wedding anniversaries that occur during the year. The special occasions above and beyond 25 years are observed all at one time in a special mass in which all the couples then renew their wedding vows. The big day is always in January and this year it fell on Jan. 9. Sixteen couples repeated their vows before St. Michael's pastor Andrew Forish (right) and his assistant, Rev. Lawrence Edwards. In the group was one couple celebrating 60 years of marriage: Simeon and Albertine LaBelle; three who were celebrating their golden anniversaries: Rudy and Evelyn Kleinert, Antoni and Apolonia Szczepanik, Lewis and Alice Johnson; seven observing 40 years of marriage: William and Leonora Werner, Joseph and Tinsey Larabell, Aloysius and Clara Kowalski, William and Marian McNeece, Stephen and Anna Marie Matuzak, John and Ruth Tomassi, and Donald Florence McPherson. Twenty-five year celebrants were Richard and Edith Boyer, Theodore and Geraldine Geboski, Stanley and Mary Ann Kisiel, Donald and Shirley Reeck and Earl and Patricia Ann Hoffman. Collectively, they represent 615 years of wedded bliss.

Sing for unity 9 churches join in choir festival

Nine Livonia churches will continue an interfaith program initiated last year to coincide with a nationwide Week of Prayer for Christian Unity observance.

Tagged last year as a "Neighborhood Festival of Music," the event will bring together at 2:30 p.m., Jan. 23, the choirs of the participating groups in an afternoon of what the organizers feel will be an outstanding musical program.

Host group will be St. Edith Catholic Church, 15089 Newburgh Road south of Five Mile.

Joining in the musical celebration will be St. Colette Catholic Church and St. Kenneth Catholic Church, Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, St. Andrew Episcopal Church, St. Timothy Presbyterian Church, St. Matthew United Methodist Church, Church of the Savior Reformed and St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox.

will be present and will sing an anthem. Handbell choirs from St. Matthew and Holy Trinity will also participate. The entire ensemble will sing two pieces, "Where There is Love," and "The Canon of Praise." Colbeck will direct "Where There is Love," originally presented at the National Pastoral Musicians' Convention last year in Pittsburgh. William Prem-in, director of St. Colette's choir and producer of Performing Artists Unlimited. Organist will be Lynette Popoff, Madonna College staff member.

Included in the service will be a brief liturgy of prayers for Christian unity. Refreshments will be served following the service.

Last year seven groups participated. It was presented to a standing-room-only crowd at St. Timothy's in the midst of near-blizzard conditions that gripped the area.

"It was a wonderful afternoon," said Rev. Robert Seltz, one of the organizers, "so we decided to try again. This one should be bigger and better."

BILL BRASLER/staff photographer

Looking over last year's program to make sure they haven't forgotten anything are the prime movers of the choir festival: the Rev. Jim Scheick (seated), pastor of St. Edith Catholic Church, where the event will be held this year; the Rev. Robert Seltz (left, back) of Holy Trinity Lutheran; the Rev. David Strong of St. Matthew United Methodist; and the Rev. Dickson Forsythe of St. Timothy Presbyterian. The inter-faith program will be at 2:30 p.m., Jan. 23.

Inter-generational respect vital

My great-aunt just celebrated her 91st birthday. She flew from North Carolina to Michigan for the holiday because she was lonely to see the children. The children she speaks of are not her own children, but those of her grand-nephews and nieces.

Five generations are living in our family, but the better part of the year we do not see each other. I think I am among the minority of family members who think we are richer for this inter-generational contact, as seldom as it now happens.

The teen-agers have little patience with such family gatherings with the old of the family. But like eating vegetables with the meal, they keep us healthy, even though sometimes a little goes a long way. The meeting of the generations reminds me of the glue which sticks us all together. What has broken down in our society is simply paying attention to those of another generation.

moral perspectives
Rev. David Strong

Like my 91-year-old great-aunt, I need to have little children around me at times. Their short attention span, their energy and responsiveness all remind me of what life is all about. Some of the older people have become thoughtless. They find it hard to remember what it is like to be a teen-ager. Other elderly people are present to their grandkids, and their grandchildren think "that's cool."

It comes down to this. Do the generations care enough to recognize the others who are distant in age as persons?

It is important for us to care for those of a different generation. Gift giving, writing and family gatherings are a way that we say that we need each other.

The older people need to ask themselves what do they have to offer to the younger people. There are special things they can say and do. There are special gifts and stories which they can hand down. There is encouragement and praise which have a special meaning when they come from the elders.

The younger generation needs to be taught that a small amount of special attention means much to the elders.

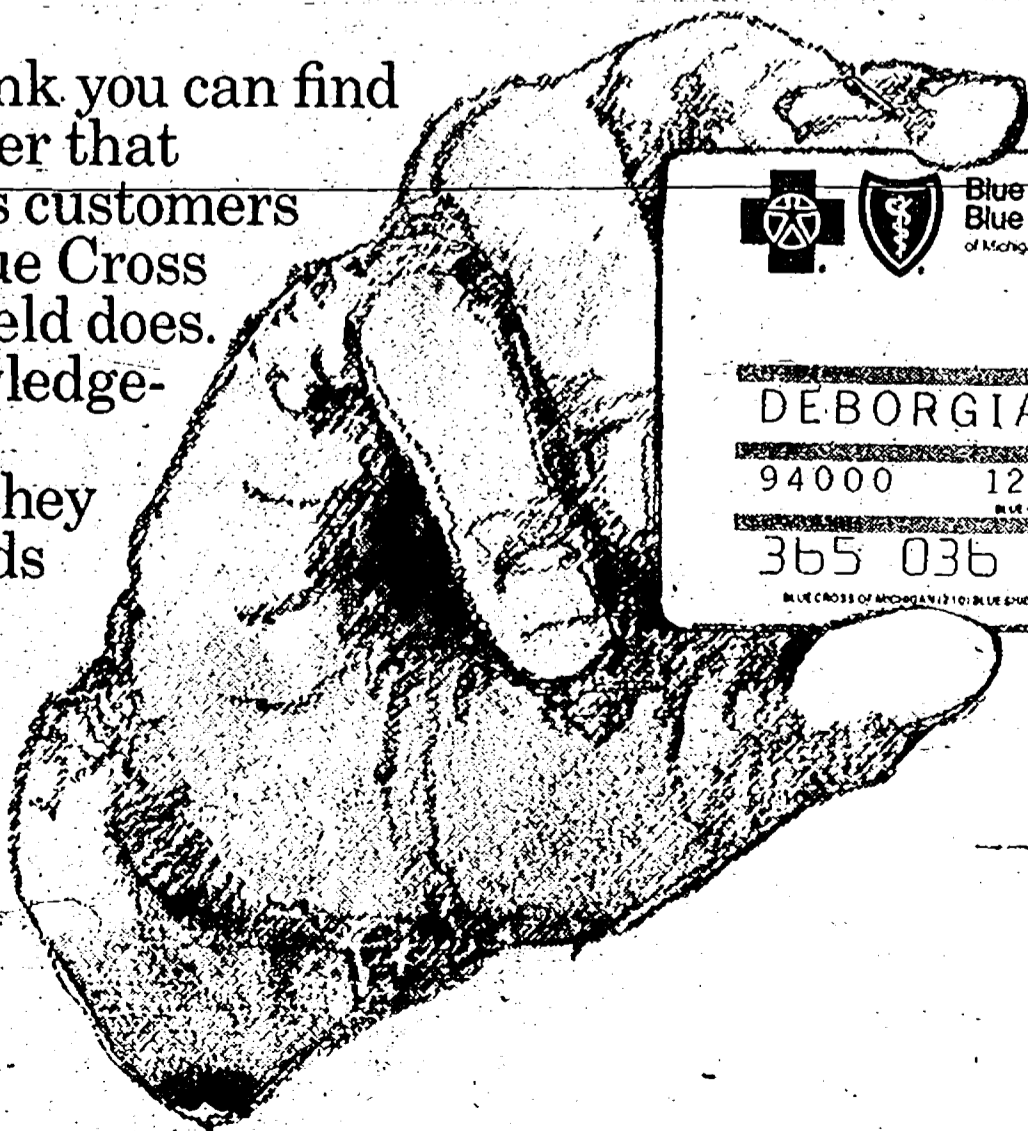

We need to get beyond the segregation and avoidance which has been a mark of this society.

Westland John Glenn reigns on Salem mats

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

What Westland John Glenn had last Saturday was a little more than everyone else.

The Rockets parlayed that little extra into a championship, capturing the 16-team Plymouth Salem Wrestling Invitational.

It certainly was no easy triumph. Balance dominated as six teams scored more than 100 points. Three teams — Glenn, host-team Salem and Class C defending state champion Montrose — won two weight class titles. The other seven belonged to seven different schools.

But Glenn managed to score enough to nlp runner-up Montrose by 3½ points — 147½ to 144. Salem wasn't far behind (135½), followed by Portage Northern (121½), Mt. Clemens (115½) and Plymouth Canton (103).

"IT WAS A GOOD, tough tournament," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "It was a fierce tournament, with lots of competition. Mt. Clemens is state-ranked; they won the Macomb County tournament. But they finished fifth here.

"If we would have had one more fifth place, we would have won. But we were shut out in six events. Usually, you can sneak one or two kids in to place. We didn't do that."

That was the difference. Both Salem and Glenn had the same number of firsts, seconds and thirds. However, the Rockets also had a fourth, seventh and eighth, and that boosted them over the Rocks.

Salem's John Beaudoin (140-pound weight class) was named the tournament's Most Valuable Wrestler. Beaudoin, the defending Class A state champion at 132, pinned his first three foes before narrowly beating Harold Thompson of Mt. Clemens, 8-7, in the finals.

GLENN'S CHAMPIONS came back to back, as Robb Paciocco (147) pinned Dave Seybold of Mt. Clemens in just 53 seconds of their final match. Don Forchione (157) followed Paciocco's performance with an 8-2 triumph over Mark Wilhelm of Montrose.

Salem's other first was recorded by John Jeannotte (121), who puled up an 11-1 victory over Glenn's Mike Rossi in the deciding match.

Canton scored in eight of the 13 weight classes, but only four were higher than sixth. Tim Collins (128) outbattled Mt. Clemens' Mark White, 5-4, to claim the Chiefs' only championship.

Others to take titles were: Doug Johnson (heavyweight) of Ypsilanti, pin of Salem's Kevin Vanotten in 1:59; Zeke Jones (100) of Ann Arbor Huron, 6-2 over Glenn's Rick Gillies; Greg Ellis (107) of Clarkston, winner by fall over Todd Gattoni of Canton in :49; Deron Mellinger (114) of Portage Northern, 4-1 over Todd Bartlett of Canton; Brock Nigg (134) of Belleville, 3-2 over Montrose's Ken Reinhart; Dave Dean (169) of Montrose, 5-3 over Guenther Knoblich of Huron; Jerry Roger Faulkner appreciates both sports. In fact, he enjoys them so much he wants the people of the Metropolitan Detroit area to share the action.

A stockbroker for the Merrill-Lynch office in Bloomfield Hills, the 44-year-old Faulkner is fast becoming one of the city's top sports promoters.

Faulkner was instrumental in bringing professional soccer to Detroit by promoting, along with former partner Gordon Preston, two exhibition soccer matches in the late '70s. One of the matches featured the legendary Pete and the Cosmos of New York against a professional team from Dallas.

Faulkner later became a partner with Preston in the original Detroit Express soccer team that played at the Pontiac Silverdome as a member of the North American Soccer League. He later severed his relationship with the Express, although Detroit still has a soccer representative in the American Soccer League.

When he left the soccer franchise, one of his goals was to bring professional men's tennis to Detroit.

Faulkner's dream will be realized Jan. 27-30 when the World Championship of Tennis (WCT) conducts its $250,000 Winter Finals in Detroit's Cobo Arena.

Marty Budner

The eight featured participants are ranked no lower than No. 28 in the Nizdorf Computer world singles rankings list.

Czechoslovakian Ivan Lendl, the No. 2-ranked player who won an exhibition in Chicago over the weekend, will be the top attraction. Guillermo Vilas (Argentina), Balazs Taroczy (Hungary), Kevin Curren (South Africa), Wojtek Fibak (Poland), Paul McNamee (Australia), Brian Teacher (United States) and Bill Scanlon (United States) will be the other participants.

The winner is guaranteed $125,000, with the runner-up earning $40,000. Series tickets for all four days of the tournament will be $40 for Tier A (Inner Circle); $30 for Tier B (Circle Loge); and $20 for Tier C (Upper Reserved).

For ticket information, contact the Joe Louis Arena office at 567-6000.

Faulkner agreed to do a question and answer session for the Observer & Eccentric earlier this week at the Square Lake Racquet Club. He reveals exactly how he was able to land the tournament, what his feelings are about professional tennis and what his future plans are for a possible annual stop in the city.

What was your original purpose of getting into the sports promotion business? Was it a flash-in-the-pan type thing or were you always interested in it?

No, I've always had an interest. I ran all sports at London University for a one year. I was still a student, obvious-

2nd quarter surge trips Borgess, 60-49

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Detroit Catholic Central coach Bernie Holowicki went to his bench again Tuesday to pick up another important basketball win.

The Shamrocks made it seven straight games without a loss, scoring a 60-49 win over neighborhood rival Redford Bishop Borgess.

Starting forward Kevin Kral teamed up with reserves Bobby Elwell and Chris Keane to spark a 19-5 second-quarter uprising, giving the Central Division leaders a 12-point halftime advantage after Borgess had led after one period, 17-15.

"They (Borgess) scored only one point in the last 5½ minutes," said Holowicki. "That was the difference in the ballgame."

CC made the surge with its two top scorers on the bench. Center Mike Maleske, a 6-foot-6 senior, went to the bench early in the second period with three fouls and sophomore sharpshooter John McIntyre followed to take a breather.

That's when Kral and Elwell took charge, combining for 16 points. Keane, meanwhile, fit in well with CC's defensive scheme according to Holowicki.

"The match-ups we had out there were super," said the CC coach, "and with Maleske and 'Mac' on the bench, who'd ever think it.

"BOBBY thrives on coming off the bench and so has Keane. They just played super. They came off the bench against Gallagher last Friday and played well."

Borgess, behind six of Lewis Scott's game-high 21 points, pulled within six points at the end of three quarters. The Spartans (4-4), however, failed to get any closer as CC smartly used the clock.

"In the second quarter we stopped being aggressive in our offense," said Borgess' coach Mike Fusco. "That was the difference in the game."

"We wanted to score off their press and several times we got the opportunities and didn't convert. Our transition defense also hurt us in the second quarter."

Kral and Maleske both finished with 14 points. Elwell and Stan Heath each contributed 10.

"Kevin (Kral) made some key baskets for us and he's been steady for us," Holowicki added. "Keane and McIntyre are only sophomores and they've played a lot for us. I've pleasantly surprised."

THE 6-5 SCOTT, although slightly off with his outside shooting, provided most of the Borgess offense. Chuck Gregory, who made three baskets at the outset of the third period, was the next highest scorer with nine points.

"We didn't do anything special with Scott," said Holowicki. "We play everybody straight up. When he came into our area, we played him tough."

Central Michigan coach Dick Parfitt and Eastern Michigan coach Jim Boyce were both in attendance making a recruiting pitch.

Freshman lifts Bentley swimmers

Freshman Roger Coderre has buoyed Livonia Bentley to its best swim start in three years as he won two individual events in a 77-46 non-league win over Redford Union Tuesday.

Bentley, now 3-1 in duals, won eight of 11 events.

Coderre was victorious in the 200-yard individual medley (2:28.7) 100 freestyle (58.7). He also teamed up with Jim Burmeister, co-captain Scott Sargent and Larry Barbarich to win the 200 medley relay in 1:54.7.

Other Bentley individual winners included Scott Littrell, 200 freestyle, 2:12.7; Tom Caughlin, 100 butterfly, 1:08.2; Andy Stashevich, 500 freestyle, 6:55.7; and Barbarich, 100 backstroke, 1:11.5.

Bentley closed out the meet with a victory in the 400 freestyle relay as co-captain Mark Saller, John Kowal, Ed Gordon and Littrell posted a clocking of 4:20.2.

Scott Martinuzzi led RU with triumphs in the 50 freestyle (25.5) and 100 breaststroke (1:13.0). Teammate Andy Trapp won the diving.

Bentley will return to league action tonight at home against Northville. The meet begins at 7.

Shamrocks tie state's No. 1 team

By Paul King
special writer

Fraser, the state's top-rated prep hockey team, suffered its first loss of the season as Detroit Catholic Central earned a 2-2 tie before an estimated 1,000 fans Saturday night at the Redford Arena.

The Shamrocks are 5-2-1 overall and 3-1-1 in Michigan Metro play. Fraser is 7-0-1 and 4-0-1 in the league.

CC led 1-0 through two periods and appeared headed for an upset. But Fraser came roaring back at the outset of the third period as Larry Harm scored on a power-play goal and Mike Tegler tallied the go-ahead goal just minutes later to give Ramblers a 2-1 advantage.

Jeff Steffes then scored with just under five minutes remaining on an assist from Jim Peterson to gain the deadlock.

At 8:02 of the first period, Scott Summers tallied a power-play goal for CC with Eric Socia drawing the assist.

CC goalie John Bebes stopped 19 Fraser shots while CC peppered 34 at the Ramblers' Bill Hagener.

LIVONIA STEVENSON 5
BLOOMFIELD LAHSER 2

The Spartans put the game away

Tuesday at Livonia's Edgar Arena with a pair of third-period goals.

The win gives Stevenson a 10-2 overall record and first place all alone in the Suburban Prep Hockey League (SPHL).

Leading 3-2, Stevenson added two insurance goals in the final period with Brian Cox scoring unassisted on a power play at 6:05 followed by Dave Cox' score at 12:27 with E.J. Perrault and Bill Jordan gaining assists.

Stevenson got a pair of first-period goals from Pat Tayolacci (short-handed) and Erik Strom (from Brian Cox).

Dave Cox scored the first of his two goals at 12:20 of the second period to break a 2-2 tie. Strom and Al Harmon drew assists.

Goalie Darin Phillips recorded his second straight win, stopping 18 Lahser shots.

SOUTHFIELD 11
LIVONIA FRANKLIN 4

Patriot goaltenders Pat Collins and Mike Vasilco took another shelling, facing 65 Blue Jay shots.

The game, played Tuesday at Southfield's Beech Woods Arena, was highlighted by hat tricks (three goals), from John Galuardi and Rob Sorge. Both also added two assists. Ken Chaput, one of the SPHL's leading scorers, also had a big day collecting two goals and five assists. Teammate Tom Bucknell also had two goals.

Ed Zajdel and John Chmielewski recorded a goal and an assist for Franklin. Scott Williams and Tom Isom rounded out the scoring.

Bulldogs capture opener

The strong net play of Patricia Wang and the serving of Sue Pozan carried Livonia Bentley to a 15-11, 10-15, 15-9 volleyball win Monday over Walled Lake Central in the Western Lakes opener for both schools.

The victory gives Bentley a 3-0 overall record.

"In the second game, we couldn't get anything going offensively," said Bentley coach Dana Hardwidge. "In the third game, Lisa Tulloch came off the bench and set the tempo for us."

"We're not an experienced team, but Sue served well and Patricia helped us at the net."

The Bulldogs meet Farmington Harrison at home tonight.

REDFORD UNION tripped Northwest Suburban League (NSL) foe Livonia Franklin Monday night, 15-8, 15-7, as Kathy Storvis and Amy Livsey combined to serve 24 of the team's 30 points.

RU is now 3-3 overall.

Coach Jim Gibbons, who said his entire team "really played well," was also pleased with the individual play of setter Julie Barden.

The Panther junior varsity team also prevailed, 14-16, 15-8, 16-14.

LIVONIA STEVENSON rallied to beat Farmington Monday for its second straight victory of the season, 10-15, 15-6, 15-2.

The Spartans led 10-9 in the first game but fell victim to six service aces.

Stevenson then got going behind Kathy Balcoff's seven serving points and Tami Scuro's hitting in the second game.

In the third game, Gina Knight made good on five critical spikes while teammate Dhaná Ponnars served out the match.

The Spartan JV squad also won, 15-9, 15-2. The varsity team travels today to meet Oak Park. The match begins at 4 p.m.

REDFORD THURSTON, meanwhile, dumped defending NSL champ

volleyball

Westland John Glenn Monday night behind the setting of Cindy Isenegger, 15-12, 12-15, 15-9.

"The whole team contributed," said Thurston coach Chris Wandyg. "Everybody played."

Colleen Reilly scored points on spikes and Jackie Pachlva served nine more in a losing cause.

Thurston's JV squad also won, 17-15, 15-13.

The loss drops Glenn to 0-2 overall while Thurston upped its mark to 2-1.

REDFORD BISHOP BORGESS swept three matches Monday to run its season record to 9-1.

The Spartans, coached by Jerry Abraham, opened with a 15-0, 15-0 win over Oak Park followed by wins over Novi (15-4, 15-8) and Grand Blanc (3-15, 15-4, 15-4).

Johna Gambotto again led the charge for Borgess. She had 14 aces in the first two matches with help of frontliner Julie Burton.

Abraham said Nancy Rzepka and Julie Burton and played fine defensive game.

The Spartans meet Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy tonight at home. The match begins at 7.

REDFORD ST. AGATHA used the serving of Paola Picano and Kathy Craig to beat Allen Park Cabrini for its fourth straight win.

"The team worked as a unit and we've been working on being more aggressive from the back row," explained Agatha coach Lois Cifaldi. "Mona Clor and Mary Kellow again played well up front."

Agatha meets Detroit Redford St. Mary's today at home. The match begins at 5:30.

Faulkner banking on WCT response

ly, but I had functional responsibility for it. And having been on the tennis circuit and associated with it through Trisha (his ex-wife), and associated with sports, and knowing the media people, and so on, I've always enjoyed that part of life tremendously.

About the WCT tourney, how were you able to get it here in Detroit? Was it a personal dream of yours to get a WCT event to Detroit?

It began because at the league meetings which I attended — I was a director in the North American Soccer League — and we used to sit alphabetically. Representing Detroit, I sat between the representatives from Ft. Lauderdale and Dallas.

It was kind of fun because for 50 days of my life I sat between Lamar Hunt on the one side representing Dallas and Joe Robbie — who owns the (Miami) Dolphins — on the other side representing the (Ft. Lauderdale) Strikers. So, Lamar and I, naturally, got to know each other very well. He is the man who created professional tennis in 1967. He runs World Championship Tennis which is 20 tournaments world wide.

I began to talk to him about five years ago as to why we had never had a major tennis tournament in Detroit. They have them everywhere else — from Buenos Aires to Bogota to Tokyo to Johannesburg. But, there isn't one in Detroit and there should be. At the time I wasn't thinking so much of personal involvement, but I just wanted to see it happen.

A month after I left the Express, the first thing I did was to fly down to Dallas to begin to pursue (getting a WCT tourney to Detroit) seriously. By that time, obviously, I began to think of more personal involvement. Detroit should have an event of this nature.

It's never happened, and one of the reasons why is you have an established circuit — just like the golf circuit — where it's very difficult to break in and get a new city to have an event. Those events are scheduled every year — it's the same tournaments the same week. The golf's circuit's fixed and the tennis circuit is pretty much fixed. You can't just say we're going to have an event.

So, you were fortunate there was a cancellation of one of the tournament's regularly-scheduled sites.

Yes, this tournament was scheduled to have been in Zurich. The irony of it is that we started talking about it five years ago and the decision to bring it here wasn't taken until two months prior to this event taking place. We started to talk in October. They (WCT officials) were saying: "It looks as if we may have a problem in Zurich. If we had to move the tournament to Detroit, could you do it?" We were talking of doing one in '83 anyway, but that would have been a regular event. When he said this was the WCT Winter Finals — which is more than just a regular event, people who qualify get to play in the finals — then I said yes. Even if we only have two-and-a-half to three months to do it, we'll do it.

You've seen the old Detroit Loves of Team Tennis and the Virginia Slims women's professional players. They've been pretty well attended here. Why does this city have such a fascination — almost an infatuation — with professional tennis?

The women's event is one of the best drawing events in the country. There's a very great tennis interest. There's upwards of 100,000 people playing tennis actively in the Metropolitan area — maybe more. This city supports any major professional sport, provided it's the top names and it's major league.

What about the difference in the women's game and the men's game. What do you feel are the basic differences?

With the men's game you have better depth. In the women's game you have four or five superstars. In a sense that's true — where you have four or five superstars — in the men's game too. But, the top men can't beat the lower-rated players 6-love, 6-1 in 40 minutes. That doesn't happen. So, when you see a (Ivan) Lendl play a (Balazs) Taroczy or (Kevin) Curren, even though the chances are that Lendl's going to win, the chances are also that you're going to see a fairly long battle. Men's tennis is better balanced. The quality is better.

And this WCT tournament... you have to be pretty excited about it. Lendl won over the weekend (at a tournament in Chicago) and that has to help publicity for your tournament. He's got to be a big draw.

On the basis of last weekend, he's the number one player in the world. He won more money than anyone did last year — he won two million dollars. He won something like 80 or 90 percent of the tournaments he played in. He didn't win Wimbledon because he didn't play last year, and he lost in the finals of Forest Hills to (Jimmy) Connors, although he beat (John) McEnroe in the semis in three straight sets. He beat McEnroe six straight times last year.

Grapplers finish 4th

Livonia Bentley turned in one of its best wrestling finishes in years, placing fourth Saturday at the 13th annual Schoolcraft College Invitational tournament.

Monroe Catholic Central recorded 15 falls and won the team championship with 169½ points. Defending champ Wayne Memorial was second with 160½ followed by Walled Lake Western (142½) and Bentley (11). Sixteen other teams also competed. (Complete results appear on Page 4C.)

Two Bentley wrestlers reached the finals before losing — Mark Zenas (185 pounds) and Paul Doulette (105). Gaining third places for Bentley were heavyweight Bill Garrison, 112-pounder Anwar Yaffai and 98-pounder Salem Yaffai.

Garden City, which placed 10th overall, had one runner-up, heavyweight Kevin Richardson, and one third-place finisher, K.C. Howell (105).

Livonia Stevenson's Tim Templeton lost in the 167-pound finals to Aldo Buttazzoni. Meanwhile, Thurston's Kurt Campbell (138) and Redford Union's Mike Blackburn (132) both placed third.

Wayne had four individual champs while Monroe, a newcomer to the meet, had three.

O'Hara sparks late rally

Churchill nips Canton

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

Steve O'Hara started his first game of the season for Livonia Churchill's basketball team Tuesday.

Plymouth Canton fans wish he hadn't.

O'Hara, a 6-foot-4 senior forward, who missed nearly all of the Chargers' first four games with an ankle injury, made his return as a starter agonizing for Canton fans by scoring four of Churchill's last six points in a 50-47 win at Canton.

O'HARA'S POINTS came at crucial junctures for the Chargers. With 2:15 to play in the contest and Churchill ahead by three, he got the ball inside under his own basket and muscled it in, drawing a foul from Canton's Pat Murphy. Murphy went to the bench with his fifth foul and O'Hara went to the line and hit the free throw to complete the three-point play and put Churchill ahead by six, 47-41.

Ahead, but not safe. Canton's Jim Schlicker pilfered a Churchill pass with 11 seconds to play and popped it through the net to pull the Chiefs to within two, 49-47.

In an effort to get the ball back in the closing seconds, Canton's Ron Rienas fouled O'Hara. O'Hara stepped to the line in a one-and-one situation and hit the first to ice the victory.

"I SAID AT the beginning of the season that every game in this new league (Western Lakes Activities Association - WLAA) will be a good, exciting ball game," said Churchill coach Don Albertson. "I'll stand by that statement.

"I think they're all going to be like this. I feel good about coming out of here with a victory."

WLAA contests may be close, but not necessarily good. The Chargers were guilty of 36 turnovers in the contest, including six in the final four minutes of the game when they were trying to protect a four-point lead.

Canton was plagued by poor free throw shooting in the first half, converting just four of 13. With 1:22 to play in the game, Mike Scarpello was at the line with a chance to pull the Chiefs to within one. His first free throw bounced in, but Rienas was whistled for a lane infraction, a costly error.

"We had a tough time penetrating their zone," said Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner. "We didn't execute our offense. They shut off our inside game and we didn't shoot well from the outside."

WHAT CRIPPLED Canton's chances was its failure to get Churchill into a faster, up-tempo game. The Chargers had the size, with three starters bigger than any of the Chiefs. Canton's game plan was to pressure Churchill into making mistakes and then run on offense when possible.

Churchill made the mistakes. But Canton didn't pick up the tempo.

Neither team staked out of a lead in the contest. Canton scored the first seven points of the second quarter to erase a four-point Churchill lead, but the Chargers bounced back by scoring the next nine points to take a six-point advantage. Canton narrowed it to a pair at the half (24-22) and tied it up after three quarters.

An eight-point scoring spree midway through the fourth quarter gave Churchill the lead for good. John Merner topped the Chargers with 14 points and 11 rebounds.

O'Hara finished with 13 points and eight rebounds, with Craig Hunter netting 12 points and Dave Riley eight.

Schlicker topped the Chiefs with nine points. Mike Jennings and Mark Bennett added eight apiece.

The victory improved Churchill's record to 4-1 in the WLAA's Western Division (5-3 overall), while Canton fell to 1-3 (2-5 for the year).

Steve Judawlkis dribbles up the floor as Canton defender Ron Rienas (left) pursues. Churchill captured the Western Division game, 50-47. Churchill is now 5-3 overall.

Clarenceville, RU shooters go cold

South Lyon struck gold at the free throw line Tuesday to gain its first basketball win of the season at the expense of Livonia Clarenceville.

Although outscored from the field 24-22, the Lions more than made up the difference with free throws, hitting 26 of 38 shots. Clarenceville made only nine of 21.

Hank Linton led the winners and all scorers with 21 points. Four other South Lyon players were also in double figures.

Tim Spencer, a junior forward, had 17 to lead the cold-shooting Trojans (2-6). Ken Large added 14.

Center Larry Weigand, the team's second leading scorer, sat out most of the game in foul trouble. He eventually fouled out early in the final period.

eight consecutive game Tuesday as Steve Frellick's 13 points paced a balanced Northville attack.

"I was disappointed because we shot so poorly," said RU coach Bill Foley, "but we never quit and never stopped hustling."

"Northville was one of the better shooting teams we've faced."

RU fell behind 24-10 after one quarter and was out of it by halftime as the Mustangs (4-3) built a 45-18 advantage.

Keith Ruloff was the point producer for RU, pumping in 11 points.

Woman bowler nominated

Marion Ladewig, long rated as the greatest woman bowler of all time, has brought Michigan a high honor by being nominated for a place in the Women's Sports Foundation Hall of Fame.

As captain of the Fantorium team of Grand Rapids, she often bowled in the Detroit area and is a member of the Michigan Amateur Sports Hall of Fame.

If chosen for the national shrine, Ladewig will join nine previous inductees in the pioneer category — Sonja Henke, Fannie Blankers-Koen, Amelia Earhart, Althea Gibson, Babe Didrickson-Zaharias, Patty Berg, Gertrude Ederle, Glenna Collet-Vare and Eleanor Holm.

TWO DETROIT area bowlers — Geri Beattie and Cheryl Daniels — have won spots on the national honor roll for the first half of the season.

THE 700 club continues to grow at area bowling establishments as six new members were inducted during the past week.

Three of the six earned places at Westland Bowl on the Monday morning men's league. They included Ted Ratcliff, who posted a 720, Jim Jesson, 715, and Rick Williams, 701.

Bowling in the senior house league at Woodland Lanes, Ernie Gardag used a 268 opener for a 728 and the other two were inducted at Bel-Aire where Rick Stoneburner turned in a 720 and Ron Pohl had a 702.

GAIL HAMILTON came through with one of the best performances of the week. She carries a 162-average at Westland Bowl and turned in games of 244, 232 and 494 for a 670 series.

IN OTHER GOOD performances, Chuck Beal had a 276 in the St. John Bosco league at Garden Lanes and in the St. Linus loop, Bob Ostrosky showed the way with a 658.

Ken Pazzas showed the way in the Golden Eagle league at Merri-Bowl with a 276 in 671 while Bud Gignac carded a 257 in 694 at Woodland Lanes.

There was a great finish in the Pinbusters league at Plaza Lanes. Steve Stott led with a 674, Dennis Kolopowski was one pin behind at 673 and Alex Belouary grabbed third with a 671.

Lackluster performance bewilders Ocelot coach

By Brad Emons staff writer

Schoolcraft College reached the low point of its basketball season Saturday night by losing to Macomb CC, 77-73. The loss dropped the Ocelots to 13-3 overall. It was also Schoolcraft's second consecutive conference defeat. "We're making the basic mistakes," said Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins. "It's been a continuous problem of late — a lack of intensity. "We're throwing behind-the-back passes. It's not characteristic of what we're trying to feel." The lackluster Ocelots performed poorly in just about every phase of the game. And it was carte blanche on the boards for Macomb. Schoolcraft was outrebounded 43-30. Forward Keith Hardman led the winners with 22 points and 13 rebounds. Bruce Alexander, a freshman from Harper Woods-Bishop Gallagher, added 15 along with center Rocky Corsetti. "I'm not surprised with Schoolcraft's record," said Macomb coach John Switchhills. "They are just in a downhill slide right now. Every team goes through that. "But I tell you what, we're better than our record (6-10) shows. Eight of our losses are by four points or less." MACOMB opened up the game midway through the second half and then held off a futile Schoolcraft charge in the waning minutes. The Ocelots made the score respectable with a relentless full-court press. Schoolcraft led only once, with 9:19 to go in the first half on a flying slam dunk by Carlos Briggs. But Briggs, the nation's leading scorer with a 37-point average, was guilty of poor shot selection along with his teammates. He made just nine of 28 shots from the field. In the first half, Briggs hit only three of 16 as Schoolcraft trailed 31-24. He finished with 28 points. Point guard George Merriweather added 14 and Livonia Stevenson's Bill Keyes had 11 points and nine rebounds. "I can't put my finger on it," said Watkins. "We didn't press at the beginning of the game because I wanted us to play a little under control. "Playing up-tempo is more our game, but we have to find that medium."

SCHOOLCRAFT WOMEN 78 MACOMB CC 74 (OT)

Redford Union grad Cathi Hengy scored 25 points, including six in overtime, as the Schoolcraft women's basketball team outlasted Macomb CC Saturday night, 78-74. Schoolcraft, which outscored Macomb 12-8 in OT, is now 5-3 overall. Center Cheryl Sobkow chipped in with 16 points, 10 rebounds and four steals. Deborah Johnson added 13 points and nine rebounds and Gina Johnson came up with 12 points and four steals. Kris Brown had 20 points in a losing cause.

Judges work hard at picking winners

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Boris Nelson was the iconoclast among the four judges.

"Calling someone third place is ridiculous," said the music critic of the Toledo Blade and former director of fine arts at the University of Toledo.

"The person called 'third' may have the best career. There should be three awards," said Nelson, who has been honored by his peers as president of the Music Critics Association.

mechanics of the musical instruments and vocal instruments are different.

"Often we (judges) are simply giving gut impressions," he laughed — "Bartok said contests are for horses."

YET FOR ALL of Nelson's put-downs of contests and judges, the four listened carefully to every note. Perhaps they were remembering that the most famous contest winner of the century, pianist Van Cliburn, was about to give up his concert career until his 1958 victory in Moscow gave him the publicity break he needed to catapult

Thomas Hardie is chairman of the vocal area at Western Michigan University's school of music. Russell Reed, a band musician at start, is associate professor of music and director of the symphony orchestra at Eastern Michigan University.

Alfio Pignotti, violinist, is professor of music at EMU and was heard with the Plymouth Symphony a couple of years ago in the Brahms "double concerto." Nelson received a Ph.D. in philology (cultural use of language) at the University of Heidelberg in his native Germany and has conducted and taught.

Yet there is little chance the young artists will play something they don't all know.

"We know the pieces. If not, we can look at the music," said Pignotti.

"They're all common pieces in the repertory," added Nelson.

THE JUDGES listen and watch for intonation, agility, stage presence, deportment, musical technique and interpretation.

"It's never enough to play the notes. It's interpretation that counts," said Nelson. "They have to know the music."

All those elements, said Reed, add up to overall performance. The exact composition isn't particularly important, he said, "unless someone performs a piece of no stature."

Mozart was tied as the most popular single composer among the contestants. A clarinet concerto, a concert aria and the Queen of the Night's aria from "The Magic Flute" were heard in the competition.

Saint-Saens was represented by his Violin Concerto No. 3, the Cello Concerto and an aria.

Three singers chose arias by Verdi.

Plymouth Symphony names 3 outstanding young artists

The three winners of the Plymouth Symphony Society's young artists competition will be heard as soloists with the orchestra at 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6 in the auditorium of Plymouth-Salem High School, Joy west of Canton Center.

Winners and prizes, as announced by Conductor Johan van der Merwe and President Wilma Wagner, are:

• Brian Connelly, pianist, who performed Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto in No. 2. Connelly, 25, wins the $1,000 Oliver H. Wagner memorial award. The Ann Arbor resident tours nationally with concert saxophonist Laura Hunter as Duo Vivo and is on the faculty of the Flint Institute of Music. His degrees are from the University of Michigan music school.

• Suzanne Leon, violinist, who performed Prokofiev's Violin Concerto No. 1. Leon, 21, is winner of the $1,000 Michigan Foundation for the Arts award. The Grosse Pointe Farms resident is studying at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. She has been a soloist with the Detroit Symphony, Oakway Symphony, Pontiac-Oakland Symphony and several student orchestras. She has taken master classes with Itzhak Perlman.

• Diane Amos, soprano, who performed the Queen of the Night's stratospheric vengeance aria from Mozart's "The Magic Flute" and arias by Verdi from "A Masked Ball" and "Rigoletto." Amos, 22, is winner of the $500 Oliver H. Wagner memorial award. The Ann Arbor resident is studying at Oberlin Conservatory and has performed with the Oberlin Opera Theatre and Ohio Light Opera.

Honorable mentions went to: Reginald Borik, saxophone; Brandt Fredrikson, piano; Stephanie Leon, piano; Nuvli Mehta, violin and Susan Synnstedt, violin.

STRANGELY, PERHAPS, none of the violinist competitors chose works by the 19th century virtuoso violinist composers—Paganini, Wieniawski and Sarasate. That wasn't important to the judges.

"Often teachers impose a piece on a student before the student is ready," said Nelson. "On the tapes, many were eliminated because they tried to play works that were beyond them, or that they were forced into."

He referred to the fact that, of the 95 persons who expressed interest in the competition, 53 sent applications and tape recordings. Music teachers winnowed those 53 tapes down to the 20 finalists who were auditioned.

"One criterion," said PSO Conductor Johan van der Merwe, "is who will sound good with an orchestra. They must perform orchestral pieces."

WOMEN OUTNUMBERED men about 2-1 among the competitors. The judges hadn't noticed that until it was pointed out to them.

"There are many women among the strings in colleges," said Pignotti, but the four judges wondered aloud why there aren't more women in major symphony orchestras. One judge noted that small city orchestras are sometimes referred to as "all-girl orchestras."

Do the judges prepare themselves in any particular way for a full day of 15-minute auditions?

"The best preparation is a good breakfast," said Conductor van der Merwe. The judges nodded again in agreement.

"And a good night's sleep," added Hardie.

"And no vino," added Reed.

'The most difficult thing is to put instruments and voices together (in a competition). The mechanics of the musical instruments and vocal instruments are different.'

—Boris Nelson
music critic

NELSON AND three other music instructors spent an entire chilly Saturday recently listening to three pianists, two trumpeters, two clarinetists, a saxophonist, five violinists, a cellist, four sopranos and two mezzo-sopranos — and then trying to judge them.

The 20 young artists were competing for three cash prizes and chances to be soloists with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra on Feb. 6 (see accompanying story).

In part, Nelson got his wish. Two of the winners got $1,000 awards and one a $500 prize. The Plymouth-Symphony Society played down the notion that any one was first, second or third.

"The most difficult thing," said Nelson, as his fellow judges nodded in agreement, "is to put instruments and voices together (in a competition). The him into the fattest recording contract RCA ever gave anybody.

Plymouth's contest was open to musicians in either private study or a degree program. It was confined to young persons who are not yet considered "seasoned" solo performers, excluding full-time members of major orchestras or opera companies.

Cliburn, at 48, has retired for several years from performing and runs his own musical competition.

"Any of you gentlemen seen the Van Cliburn Competition in Fort Worth?" Nelson asked. "Fourteen judges. Sixty consultants. They have some vicious fights."

THE PLYMOUTH judges spanned the range of musical types.

Oakway Symphony has announced the winners of its recent Young Artist Competition. Winners will perform with the orchestra at an "Artists of Tomorrow" concert Feb. 20 at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills.

Mark Agabian of Livonia, pianist, received first prize of $1,000. He is a University of Michigan student. For the competition, he played the Khachaturian Piano Concerto, Third Movement.

Carol Sahokian of Birmingham, who competed in voice, was awarded $750. She attends the University of Michigan. She sang arias by Puccini and Gounod.

Maria Fattore of Pleasant Ridge and Jeffrey Zook of Ann Arbor (tied for third place and each received $450). Fattore, in the voice division, sang arias of Verdi, Mozart and Strauss. She is a student at Eastern Michigan University. Zook, who plays flute, performed the Mozart Flute Concerto, Second and Third Movements. He attends the University of Michigan.

Tony Cross of Grosse Pointe, violinist, received $350 for fourth prize. He is a student at the Grosse Pointe Academy. His musical selection was the Bruch Violin Concerto, Third Movement.

HONORABLE MENTION went to the following young artists:

First, Catherine Bennett of Farmington, voice, University of Akron.

Second, Claritha Buggs of Ann Arbor, voice, University of Michigan.

Third, Curt Christensen of Mt. Clemens, trumpet, New York School of Music.

Fourth, Eric Edmunds of Ann Arbor, piano, University of Michigan.

Sixteen out of the 42 contestants were students from the U-M. Judges were Kenneth Jean, resident conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra; Douglas Morrison, conductor of the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra; and Francesco Di Biasi, conductor of the Oakway Symphony Orchestra.

"The talent is right up there again," Di Biasi said. "For some reason, there were more voice contestants than in past years — a much higher standard. The whole standard was high again but particularly in voice."

"Fourteen were really in the running for the prizes and the honorable mention."

"The Naked Runner" (1967), 4 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 104 minutes.

You can count Frank Sinatra's good films on one hand, while it takes several appendages to number his more forgettable efforts. "Naked Runner" falls into the former category. The spy thriller finds blue eyes forced into a despicable undercover assignment while his son is held hostage until the dirty work is done. Plausible script, fine acting and plot twists make this a first-rate film.

Rating: $2.90.

"Gambit" (1966), 1 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 109 minutes.

Director Ronald Neame's "Gambit" is an amusing film because it pokes fun at portions of such far-fetched pictures as "To Catch a Thief" or "Topkapi," "big-heist" pictures that assign almost-superhuman qualities to their cat-burglar protagonists. Michael Caine and Shirley MacLaine star as would-be thieves/human flies; first we see their scheme as it was meant to be hatched (a la "Topkapi") and then the same plan as it ultimately unfolds. Herbert Lom and Roger C. Carmel also star.

Rating: $2.85.

"Captain Blood" (1935), 1 Monday night on Ch. 50. Originally 99 minutes.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?

A ratings guide to the movies

Bad	$1
Fair	$2
Good	$3
Excellent	$4

The acting is atrocious, the script is awful and the scenery stinks, but "Captain Blood" endures. It's Errol Flynn's first major movie, and that's what counts. In one improbable scene early on, Errol recites his life story to a maid who simply asks how late he'll be out. That's what they call character development. Later, landscapes are made of cardboard, and the dashing Flynn's portrayal of an Irish rogue is equally as transparent. (If only they had cast him as an Australian rogue.) Yet "Captain Blood" really is a film worth seeing. Basil Rathbone, Olivia de Havilland, Guy Kibbee and Lionel Atwill enhance the festivities. Michael Curtiz directs and refines a skill for adventure films that later would exhibit itself in another, far better Flynn swashbuckler, "The Adventures of Robin Hood" (1939). Be sure to note Flynn's natural crooked smile — a "flaw" later corrected by Hollywood's image makers.

Rating: $2.95.

"Right in the heart of the city"

An Oldsmobile Cutlassiera similar to the one pictured above will be among seven cars that will given away during the Detroit Auto Show's Most Incredible Contest.

Natalie Carroll, Pontiac Motor Division's Firebird Girl, will be among the many models at The Detroit Auto Show. Chief among them will be Ms. Detroit Auto Show, who will have been crowned from among 300 contestants.

Auto Show 'revs up' Saturday

"We're all revved up!" is the theme of the 1983 Detroit Auto Show.

The show — the 67th annual — will start Saturday and continue through Sunday, Jan. 23 at Cobo Hall.

A total of 407 cars, trucks, vans and specialty vehicles — domestics and imports — will be on display during the show, filling 274,000 square feet of floor space. The show is sponsored by the Detroit Auto Dealers Association.

"It will be the only time this year that people will be able to see all the domestic and foreign cars under one roof," said Martin J. "Hoot" McInerney, the show's chairman and owner of Northland Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc. of Oak Park.

"We'll also be showing dozens of trucks and vans and specialty cars," McInerney said. "We're going to have something that appeals to everyone in the family."

"Everyone knows that auto sales have been in a slump in recent years. But we've just had an exceptionally strong November, and we hope it's a harbinger of good sales to come. We want to keep up the momentum."

Besides the new cars and trucks, visitors to the show will see a display of customized vans; will be entertained by an array of high school bands, dancers, singers, magicians, talking robots, narrators and models; will be eligible to win new cars to be given away during the show; will hear live radio broadcasts from the floor of the show; will be able to question a panel of D.A.D.A. dealers about the car business; and will have a chance to compete in a Super Pac Man tournament to raise money for charities.

After a Charity Preview on Friday, Jan. 14, the show will open to the public at noon Saturday, Jan. 15 and run daily through Sunday, Jan. 23. Hours are noon to 10:30 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays and 2-10:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Admission is $4 adults, $2 children, and children 12 and under and senior citizens, free.

AMERICAN MOTORS/RENAULT/JEEP — The full line of vehicles from American Motors, Renault and Jeep will be on display. Featured will be the Renault Alliance, the first U.S.-built product resulting from the partnership between AMC and Renault.

BUICK — Buick is offering five "balanced performance" cars in six body styles in 1983. Called the Buick

"T Types," the cars are designed to meet import competition. Getting the "T Type" treatment are the Buick Skyhawk, Skylark, Century, Regal and Riviera. Only the Century comes in both coupe and sedan models. It comes only in the color silver with a charcoal lower, and features blacked-out grille, moldings, headlamp and taillamp bezels, bumper fillers, door handles and locks, fixed mast antenna and accent stripes. A Buick V-6 Riviera convertible with turbocharger will be the pace car in next May's running of the 67th Indianapolis 500 auto race.

CADILLAC — Visitors to the Cadillac exhibit will be treated to a display of the company's Bose quadraphonic stereo system in a specially constructed Delco Bose Theatre. The room is designed to conform to the exact specifications of the dynamic sound system. Cadillac says "It is like no other car sound system available."

Seven cars are prizes in Auto Show contest

The Most Incredible Contest offers visitors to the 1983 Detroit Auto Show an opportunity to win one of seven new cars.

The contest works this way:

- There will be seven cars on display at the exhibition areas of Cadillac, Chevrolet, Plymouth, Dodge, Ford, Pontiac and Oldsmobile.

- Each car will be filled with objects — one with tennis balls, one with spark plugs, etc.

- A sign at each display will tell the interior capacity of the car as well as the dimensions of one filler item such as a spark plug, tennis ball, etc.

- Each contestant will estimate the number of items in each of the seven cars, then total them. That total will be listed, along with the contestant's name, address and telephone number, on an entry blank which showgoers will receive upon entering Cobo Hall's display area.

- The seven contestants estimating closest to the actual number of objects in the seven cars will win those cars.

- In case of ties, the earliest entry will be the winner.

The contest is restricted to people with valid driver's licenses.

Chevrolet's Monte Carlo retains its exterior lines and adds a luxury CL interior and a 5.0-liter V8 engine to its option list in 1983. Diesel power also is available.

Chevrolet shifts into 'overdrive'

If 1982 was the year of the overhaul at Chevrolet, 1983 is the year of the overdrive.

On the heels of 1982's product blitz (three completely new car and truck lines introduced along with the third-generation Camaro), 1983 sees power-train refinements designed to enhance both performance and fuel economy.

Camaro, for example, becomes one of two rear-wheel-drive Chevrolets available in 1983 with a five-speed manual transmission. (The other is Chevette.) Also added to Camaro's power-train lineup is a new four-speed overdrive automatic designed to enhance both acceleration and highway fuel economy.

Cavaller — Introduced Interim

1981 as an '82 model — becomes Chevrolet's first front-wheel-drive model with a five-speed manual transmission. Also new to Cavalier is a larger, higher-torque 2.0-liter fuel-injected engine, plus new axle ratios designed to enhance its performance, certain chassis and steering modifications designed to improve its road manners, and a new standard equipment list.

Celebrity — the other new front-drive Chevrolet last year — gets V6 diesel power for the first time. (A new four-speed overdrive automatic transmission — first such unit from Chevrolet in a front-drive car — will be available midyear.)

Mercedes continues tradition

The Mercedes-Benz 380SL (left) continues a tradition of two-seat, open-air motoring that began with the world's first automobile, Karl Benz's 1886 three-wheeler. The V8-powered 380SL comes standard with two tops and power windows. Among Mercedes-Benz's other offerings for 1983 are a series of turbodiesels which get better than 30 mpg yet still can reach speeds of 100 mph.

Ford adds to Ranger pickups

Ford Trucks offers Ranger pickups with a wider choice of models, improved fuel economy and better performance.

Ford auto, meanwhile, is offering a resized LTD in 1983.

New features for the Ranger pickup trucks include a diesel engine with a 33 mpg EPA rating, a five-speed overdrive manual transmission, four-wheel drive, a 3.73 axle ratio for improved performance and a chassis-cab model suited for commercial and recreational use.

Ranger's new optional diesel engine is a naturally aspirated, 2.2-liter, four-cylinder model. With a standard four-speed manual transmission, the new diesel is projected to have an EPA highway rating of 40 mpg.

The five-speed overdrive manual transmission is available on Rangers equipped with either the standard 2.0-liter or optional 2.3-liter gasoline engines. The fifth gear allows the engines to work less at highway cruising speeds, potentially improving fuel economy.

Equipped with a 2.3-liter, four-cylinder gasoline engine and a four-speed or new five-speed overdrive manual transmission, the new four-wheel-drive Ranger is expected to achieve a 20- to 25-percent economy advantage over a full-size, 4-by-4 pickup.

Ranger 4-by-4s are offered in short (108 inches) and long (114 inches) wheelbases and in payload capacities of 1,200 and 1,600 pounds. They offer many 4-by-4 features, including two-speed transfer case, limited-slip front and rear axles, a tough chassis for off-road punishment and tuned suspension.

WITH ROOM for five passengers, the LTD is 900 pounds lighter and 18 inches shorter than Ford's Crown Victoria. This downsizing has helped the LTD to achieve fuel-economy ratings of 26 mpg in the city and 40 on the highway for the improved 2.3-liter, four-cylinder engine with four-speed manual transmission.

The new LTD has a 15.1-cubic-foot, deep-well trunk; a luxury-car ride provided by gas-pressurized shocks and struts; improved corrosion protection with expanded use of galvanized steel and zinc metal; longer, seven-inch seat travel; and engine shock absorbers to isolate vibrations.

The LTD comes in two body styles: a four-door sedan and a station wagon. Both have such standard equipment as reclining front split-bench seats, steel-belted, radial-ply tires, trip odometer and lights for the glove box, ashtray and luggage compartment.

This 1983 Ford Ranger pickup features cast-aluminum wheels, a bright chrome grille and accents, wide black rocker panel moldings, and a deluxe two-tone paint treatment.

Chevy has refined its power trains for '83

Other significant passenger-car developments at Chevrolet include:

- The return, after a three-year absence, of a 5.0-liter V8 to Malibu and Monte Carlo federal engine lineups.

- The availability in all Citation models of the high-output (135 horsepower), 2.8-liter V6 engine which previously was limited to X-11 models.

CAPRICE-IMPALA, Chevrolet's full-size friend of the family, remains available in '83 as a four-door Caprice or Impala sedan or a nine-passenger Caprice wagon.

Monte Carlo, Chevrolet's six-passenger rear-drive personal coupe with sporty inclinations, has both V6 and V8 engine available in either gasoline or diesel.

Celebrity, largest of all Chevrolet front-wheel-drive models, offers five-passenger seating in Caprice-style comfort and quiet.

Malibu, Chevrolet's six-passenger, rear-drive mid-size family car, is available as either a four-door sedan or a four-door station wagon.

Motor Trend's Car of the Year in 1982, Camaro adds two new transmissions to its power-train lineup — a five-speed overdrive manual and a four-speed overdrive automatic.

GUESS WHO'S STEALING THE SHOW AGAIN!

DETROIT AUTO SHOW JANUARY 15-23, 1983 COBO HALL

When it comes to stealing the show, Pontiac does it every time. That's because Pontiac keeps breaking the chains of boredom, by building exciting, fun-to-drive cars.

Our 1983 lineup is proof of this. Check out the new Firebird Trans Am and see what we mean. Its super-sleek shape slips through the wind almost undetected. And it offers a hearty 5.0 liter V-8 engine and a smooth 5-speed manual transmission.

Before your pulse stops pounding, take in a new Pontiac 6000. It's got some great driving-oriented features like front-wheel drive, MacPherson front struts, power rack and pinion steering and a 2.5 liter 4-cylinder engine with electronic fuel injection.

Pontiac 2000 is ready for you, too. It takes on the road with an overhead cam 4-cylinder engine with electronic fuel injection. Front-wheel drive. And a 5-speed manual transmission.

Come on and take a long look at the new 1983 Pontiacs. You'll see that many of them are equipped with exciting "Pontiac Premium Option Packages." And they're ready to steal your heart away!

Pontiac's Firebird Girl will appear at the Pontiac exhibit throughout the nine-day Detroit Auto Show.

David Hasselhoff, star of NBC's "Knight Rider," will appear at the Pontiac exhibit on Saturday, Jan. 15, from 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m., and on Sunday, Jan. 16, from 2-5 p.m.

It features a new, wind-tunnel-tuned shape and a power train that includes the most powerful, carbureted V-8 engine available in a 1983 Chevrolet passenger car. Chevy also will entertain with a robot and a magician, aerobic dancers and a computer to answer questions about Chevy's 6.2-liter engine.

CHEVROLET TRUCKS — Included in Chevy's 1983 line of trucks will be the Compact S-10 Blazer, the S-10 Maxi-Cab, pickups of ½-ton, ¾-ton, and one-ton, Blazers and Suburbans, Suburban, Chassis Cab and Big Blazer, Bonus and Crew Cab models, G-20 and G-30 Chevy Vans and Sportvans, a motor home chassis, hi-cube and step vans, the El Camino pickup, school and bus chassis and medium-duty conventional cabs.

Three new 1983-½ models in the show will be a front-wheel-drive Chrysler New Yorker, the company's four-door, luxury flagship; a Chrysler Town & Country convertible popularly called a "Woody" because of its simulated white ash treatment on the body exterior; a Chrysler executive sedan which is a stretched LeBaron; and a limousine version of the LeBaron on a 131-inch wheelbase. Chrysler Plymouth imports will include the Plymouth Sapporo Technica and the Colt GTS with twin-stick manual transmissions.

DODGE — Four new specialty cars, including the as-yet-unnamed G-24 sports car, will be highlighted in the Dodge exhibit.

FORD — Ford is featuring all-new vehicles which include the dramatically designed, high-technology Thunderbird, the aerodynamic, re-sized LTD and the Mustang Convertible. Ford is calling its lineup "part of the largest array of new vehicles launched by Ford Motor in its 80-year history."

FORD TRUCK — Ford trucks entered in the show include the Ranger compact pickup line which is now available with a new diesel engine, 4WD and a new five-speed manual transmission. The diesel carries an Emphasis also will be placed on a standard pickup, a suburban and a rally van, all featuring the 6.2 diesel.

OLDSMOBILE — Six specialty cars will be featured in the Oldsmobile exhibit. They include a high-performance Hurst Olds, a Cutlass Ciera Husky, a Cutlass Ciera Holiday coupe and an Omega ES sedan. Oldsmobiles also will contain a Cutlass Supreme Special Edition and a 98 Regency Brougham.

PONTIAC — Pontiac will be featuring its world-class performance 6000 STE, its sport Firebird with a new, five-speed manual transmission and its 2000, a car with fuel economy of more than 50 mpg.

Also in the Pontiac display will be Richard Petty's No. 43 Grand Prix NASCAR racing car. Natalie Carroll, being billed as the Firebird Girl, will make personal appearances. And David Hasselhoff, star of the NBC-TV adventure series "Knight Rider," will be appearing on Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 15-16.

VOLKSWAGEN — The hot new performance car of 1983, the Volkswagen Rabbit GTI, headlines the Volkswagen of America exhibit. The Volkswagen display features a live, 15-minute demonstration of VW engineering features and their capabilities: front-wheel-drive; overhead-camshaft engines; fuel injection; four-wheel, independent suspension; dual-diagonal brakes; negative-roll steering radius and diesel and turbo diesel engines. The complete line of VW vehicles — Rabbit, Jetta, VW Pickup, Scirocco, Rabbit Convertible, Quantum and Vanagon — will be on display. The Porsche 911SC Cabriolet and 928S are the "new for 1983" cars in the Porsche Audi lineup. The 911SC Cabriolet is a soft-top version of the sports car and makes the 928S the fastest production car sold in America. Audi's luxury cars — the 4,000, the Coupe, 5,000 Turbo Diesel, 5,000, 5,000 Turbo and Quattro — along with the Porsche 944 also will be displayed.

A tradition:

The Detroit Auto Show got its start back in 1907

The Detroit Auto Show got a modest start in Beller's Beer Garden, on East Jefferson Avenue in 1907.

In the beginning, the newly formed Detroit Auto Dealers Association held its 1907 show in an 11,376-square-foot hall at Beller's near the Belle Isle Bridge.

There were 17 exhibitors displaying 33 makes of cars. Many of the makes from the first show have long since faded into oblivion. There were cars such as the De Lux, the Wayne, the Detroit Electric and the Maxwell, long beloved by the late comedian Jack Benny.

But many other 1907 exhibitors thrived, becoming leaders of the auto industry. Some still hold these leadership positions today. Included in the 1907 show were such stalwarts as Ford, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac.

At the first auto show, local fire officials issued stern orders to assure against any dangers with the newfangled machines.

"On account of the restrictions enforced by the Fire Department, no acetylene lights will be permitted to be operated," the 1907 rules said. And to assure that nobody's hearing was damaged by a too-high decibel level, the rules ordered that all horns "must have the reeds removed therefrom."

This 1932 Cadillac Phaeton could very well have been on display when The Detroit Auto Show was held at the old Billy Sunday Tabernacle in Detroit.

According to the Automobile Hall of Fame, Inc., an organization dedicated to the history of people in the automobile industry, many of the cars at the first show were built locally.

GOING EVEN FURTHER back in history, Detroit's first auto dealer was William E. Metzger, a bicycle merchant who foresaw the future potential of the automobile.

He became the country's first auto dealer when he set up a dealership for steam-drive and electric autos on Woodward Avenue in Detroit in 1898.

DETROIT'S VERY FIRST display of autos for sale was in 1899 in the Light Guard Armory. At that time, William Metzger joined with Seneca G. Lewis of the Fletcher Hardware Co. of Detroit to organize the Tri-State Sportsman's and Automobile Association. Two steam-driven Mobiles and two Waverly Electrics were put on display among a variety of fishing rods and reels, hunting equipment and camping gear.

In the years since the first DADA Auto Show, the event has been held in a number of locations.

An early show was held in a lumber plant on West Forest Avenue. Another was held in a dance hall in Riverview Park at the Belle Isle Bridge.

During the early 1920s, the show was held at the Billy Sunday Tabernacle, which stood on the old Detroit Athletic Club's athletic field, then called Grindley Field. Shows at that site continued until 1940 when World War II and postwar adjustments eliminated the event until 1954.

Resumed that year, the Auto Show was held at the State Fairgrounds. In 1957, it moved to the Detroit Artillery Armory, where it was held until moving to Cobo Hall in 1965.

Pride...and Joy

FROM OLDSMOBILE.

Pride: We're so proud of our family, we've been popping our buttons all over the place. After all, a lot of loving care went into each and every one of them. So when we come up with even more spanking new additions, there we go again—popping more buttons! For the new Cutlass Ciera ES. The new Cutlass Ciera Holiday Coupe. The new Cutlass Supreme Special Edition. The new Firenza GT. We'll be proudly showing them off at the show with our other fine '83 Olds models like Omega, Delta 88, Ninety-Eight Regency and Toronado. Pardon our pride, but we think owning any one of them might make you pop a button or two also.
