Civic, business leaders hear a plea for tax hike

By Sandra Armbruster

The state could be facing payless paydays, according to a panel of state officials who brought their case for an income tax hike to a group of Westland officials and business people this week. The occasion was a breakfast meeting hosted by Westland's new state representative, Justine Barns.

The governor is asking the state Legislature for a 1.5-percent tax increase. Discussing that proposal at the Monday morning meeting were representatives of the House Fiscal Agency (HFA), the Department of Management and Budget (DMB) and several legislators. Their discussion included the following Deficit — Estimates of the state's actual deficit vary by about $100 million. The governor's staff believes there is a $900 million deficit, but HFA believe the real figure is closer to $800,000.

• Cash flow - Also creating financial havoc for the state is a cash-flow problem amounting to about $800 million. The governor proposes using 0.25 percent tax hike to correct the probdecrease in areas where cyclical demand is highest.

• Revenue sharing - Cities have been receiving a double whammy in revenue sharing reductions from executive order cuts and from a built-in loss due to less revenue being collected by

• School finances - Property taxpayers are funding a larger share of the cost of education because of state aid reductions and the past growth of property values.

• Budget cuts - The state's general spending appropriations decreased in real dollars by 20.4 percent from 1980

A combination of factors are leading the state to fiscal chaos, according to Pat Mc Carthy of the state DMB. McCarthy said that revenue expectations for the year are about $500 million less than anticipated. Added to that is a huge increase in welfare caseloads in all categories, pushing up the total cost of welfare despite several cuts in grants to recipients.

DMB figures show an addition of 25,053 cases in January, the largest increase in welfare recipients since the recession began. That brings the total number of persons receiving some kind of assistance to 896,350.

"THE STATE'S perennial cash crisis has taken a turn for the worse," said

Westland civic officials, school leaders and business people listened as state officials brought their case for a tax increase to a breakfast meeting hosted by state Representative Justine Barns. Seated at the head table are (from left) state Senator William Faust,

He added that cash-flow problem is the reason why Westland experienced a delay in its February revenue sharing payment of $838,000 and the Wayne-Westland school district didn't receive its February payment of $4.7 million.

McCarthy said that the cash-flow problem is "an accumulation of bad spending habits" initiated by previous administrations.

"Eventually those habits catch up with you," he sald.

In addition to the tax increase, the governor also is proposing $225 million in further budget cuts. McCarthy said that the city's share of that figure will be $86,000 while the Wayne-Westland school district's share is expected to be

SPEAKER OF the House Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, blamed part of the "real crisis" in the state on "poor economic decisions at the federal level."

Rep. Gary Owen, Barns, Pat McCarthy of the department of management and budget, Rep. Bill Keith and John Morberg of the House Fiscal Agency.

"If it weren't for support services, this would be worse than the depression in the '30s," he said.

Owen criticized the media for making it "extrememly difficult to get the message out to the people" by writing the most simple points it can find.

He said the problem faced by the Legislature is in deciding what combination of sales and/or income taxes. plus budget cuts to approve. Owen said that one plan calls for a 1.5-percent increase until Oct. 1, a 0.5-percent hike to correct the cash-flow problem and a special election asking to increase the sales tax from 4 to 5 cents.

Owen also said that the use of property taxes to fund education instead of state revenue was a "planned policy" of the Milliken administration. He said that better funding for kindergarten through grade 12 education needs to be

Police speak with witnesses at the scene of an accident off Hines Drive Sunday evening that claimed the life of a 16-year-old Churchill High School youth.

A 16-year-old Churchill High School student was killed Sunday when he apparently lost control of the car he was driving and crashed into a tree on Edward Hines Drive, Livonia police said.

Alfred Haines III, an 11th-grader, from Westland, died in St. Mary Hospital three hours after suffering severe an Sister Mary Harold. A second teen-ager, Timothy Grzechowski, 18, also of Westland, was treated for cuts and scrapes and was released the same evening, she said, long as an adult of at least 18 years of Grzechowski, the sole passenger in the car, returned to school yesterday. According to a preliminary police report, the car was turning north onto

Stark Road about 6 p.m. when Haines apparently lost control and struck a tree on the west side of the road. Alcohol was not a factor in the crash, said traffic Sgt, Carl Larsen. Lt. Richard Widmaler, head of the Livonia Traffic Bureau, said the car apparently lost control when they failed "to negotiate the turn." It did not appear that the boys were speeding, he also popular and amiable.

family friend's MG car, which was fitted with a Volkswagen engine, said Joseph Grzechowski, Timothy's father.
The car belonged to the father of Al's girlfriend. They had circled the block and were heading back to the car owner's house on Stark when it happened. After the crash, an unidentified motorist stopped and radioed for help on his CB radio.

Haines, the only child of Mary head injuries, said hospital spokeswom- Haines of-Westland, had reportedly earned a temporary driving permit, said his scoulmaster Rick Boulard. State law allows drivers with a temporary permit to operate a vehicle as age is in the car. Police could not confirm that information, said Widmaier.

Funeral services were being arranged by L. J. Griffin Funeral Home. Burial was expected to follow in Roseland Park Cemetery in Berkley. Haines, a member of Boy Scout Troop No. 270, of the Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church, will be buried in his uniform.

Haines' father died about three years

Last spring, Haines completed requirements for Scouting's prestigious Eagle Badge after finishing community service work at Livonia's Greenmead historical area. There, Haines volunteered to waterproof the basement walls of the restored A.J. Geer Store and the Detroit Union Railroad waiting room, making the locations useable for storage of historic artifacts.

According to Boulard, Haines was to formally receive the award at a ceremony two weeks ago but asked that the ceremony be delayed. A month ago, Mrs. Haines was seriously injured in a car accident and Haines wanted to wait until she was well enough to attend, he said. Boulard said she was expected to be released from the hospital early this Dale E. Owings, the Boy Scout troop's committee chairman, said Haines maturity at 16 extended into "setting goals for himself and achieving them.

He cited the boy's "drive" to make the most out of a summer camping excursion in 1981.

"Of the 200 boys who attended, Al Haines earned five merit badges. To me, that showed a lot of maturity on his part. He demonstrated real leadership among the boys," said Owings,

"The response so far (from the Scouting families to his death) has been disbellef."

Boulard added:

"It all comes down to the guy will really be missed. It's really tough when you hear all that stuff about kids getting into trouble. Al was one of those guys on the other side of the fence for a change."

Boulard said Haines will have the Eagle Scout Badge when he's burled.

Guard dies after try to foil robbery

By Maurie Walker staff writer

Charles Birmingham, 61, of Westland, a Purolator Armored Inc. guard who was shot during a robbery at a Montgomery Ward store in Detroit Tuesday, was known throughout his neighborhood and at his job as a man who became a friend to everyone he

A neighbor, Linda DeLaRosa, said she was shocked when she heard that he had been shot.

"He's such a wonderful person, so patient and understanding. Everyone who meets him likes him," she said.

Birmingham, who lived on Sanford, died yesterday (Wednesday) in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital. He had been shot in the head and chest in an exchange of gunfire in which he killed one of two holdup men.

The men confronted a Purolator crew about noon Tuesday and demanded money. The guards were making their regular cash pickups from stores in the Grand River-Greenfield Road

The second man escaped with some $45,000 in cash.

It was the second time in the past 17. months that Birmingham had exchanged gunfire with bandits.

In September 1981, Birmingham shot a holdup man during a mid-afternoon attempted robbery in the Crowley's store in Livonia Mall. He and another guard were making a routine weekend receipt pickup at the time.

In that holdup, the bandit suffered gunshot wounds to the face and shoulder. Birmingham was not injured.

A devoted family man, Birmingham is survived by his wife of 31 years, Maire, and nine sons and daughters. He was a Westland resident for more than 10 years.

wants to join us in Lansing on Tuesday has a ride," she said.

The group, which calls itself Tired of Taxes, plans a motorcade to Lansing. from several points across the state, converging at 1 p.m. at a site near the Capitol building for a walk to the center of state government.

"WE'RE GOING to take over state government where lobbyists have done damage all these years," said Dan Powers, coordinator from Sterling Heights,

"The legislators have a misconception that they are a privileged class. We're going to do a little arm twisting and be lobbyists for a day," he said.

Although Blanchard has refused to meet with the group, Powers said, demonstration organizers plan to present the governor's aldes with advisory petitions with the signatures of 20,000 persons opposed to the tax hike.

Blanchard has said that 66 percent of the people of Michigan are in favor of the hike," Powers said, "This obvi-ously isn't the case. I've seen figures that show as little as 3 percent to 8 percent support the hike."

Kopriva and Powers, like most of the demonstrators, heard about the protest via a local radio station call-in program. They credit a Romeo woman, Ellen Myers; with coming up with the idea. In the past few weeks, interest has spread beyond the metro-Detroit area to include contingents from Saginaw, Flint, Kalamazoo and Ann Arbor.

"IT'S REALLY GROWN by word of mouth, Ropriva said. Interest is very strong in this area. People are calling in every day."

The group plans to lobby representatives all afternoon in Lansing.

"We've all contacted our legislators, and they know we're coming," Kopriva

"We're going to bring tea bags with us," Powers said. "We're just not going to take it anymore."

They figure the governor's stance is immobile, so they plan to sway legislators to kill the plan.

"We have vowed to remove any legislator who votes for it from office by initiating recall petitions," Kopriva sald.

"If we don't get what we want, we'll go back," Powers added. "We're urging all citizens to write their representatives. It's imperative."

The group is opposed to any tax hike permanent or temporary.

"I'm opposed to raising taxes to balance the budget," Kopriva said. "I read that $85,000 is being spent to re-do Blanchard's office and home. And there are proposed raises next year for the legislators, that's what really got to me. They just have to learn they can't balance the budget by raising taxes."

"WE'RE WILLING TO look at any kind of cuts," Powers added. "We have suggestions, and we're willing to let (legislators) know what they are. I think there's a lot of fat in the budget.

Powers added the organization called Tired of Taxes will probably support a constitutional amendment drafted by Dr. Walter Averill of Saginaw. The amendment would give taxretroactive to Dec. 31, 1981.

"That would cut out the gas tax and any other local hike," he said. "We have to look at the constitutional avenue because we can't trust the people in Lansing anymore. They've perverted the meaning of the word 'representative.'

Responses from representatives think they know more and we can't payers the right to vote on any tax hike comprehend what needs to be done," Powers sald.

> BLANCHARD HAS ASKED for a two-part 1.75-percent blke in income tax: 1.5 percent for current operations and a ,25 percent debt surcharge to pay off the state's $800 million longterm

He expects the 1.5-percent hike to

"Some are entirely for us, and others bring in $675 million coupled with a proposed $225 million in spending cuts to erase the debt. The governor said the debt surcharge will expire as soon as the debt has been erased. Although Blanchard said he will abolish 30 programs, boards, and commissions, he rejects any notion to cut the state's welfare spending. Anyone wishing a ride to Tuesday's demonstration in Lansing should call Julie Kopriva at 531-6866.

Schools march into reading month

The International Reading Association and the Michigan Reading Association have declared the month of March as "Celebrate Reading Month."

In cooperation with this theme, the Wayne-Westland Community Schools have provided two calendars to encourage many different reading activities at home and school.

One calendar, developed for parents and children to use at home, has daily suggestions such as: Give up a TV program and read a good book with your parents," Read a story to someone younger than you," "Read a wrapper on a bar of soap."

The other calendar intended for use by teachers and students in grades 1-6,includes such things as:

"National Smile Day," "Aunt's Day" and activities to commemorate the birthdays of Dr. Seuss, Andrew Jack- esperson said.

son, and Johann Sebastian Bach.

Proclamations declaring March as "Celebrate Reading Month" have been issued by Mayor Charles Pickering of Westland and Mayor Patrick Norton of Wayne.

Residents of these communities can share in the celebration by reading to that favorite grandchild, niece or nephew, or any child on the block, a spok!

looked at, but first the Legislature will have to look at overall changes in the state's tax structure, Noting that the circuit breaker provision of refunding a portion of property taxes collected has increased to $600 million, Owen said the state's deficit could almost be solved if that was eliminated. "That won't be considered because all of us would be recalled," he said.

PLACING BLAME for the state's cash-flow problems on legislators, Owen admitted that he and Faust were "part of the problem. We weren't paying attention that we should have been." The cash-flow problem has caused a drop in the state's bond rating, Owen said. He added that is costing taxpayers an added $80 to $100 million in interest for borrowing money. Any economic recovery in 1983 is likely to be anemic at best, according to HFA director John Morberg. He said that the state's fiscal problems are the result of the cost of state-mandated services in the areas of Medicaid, corrections, mental health and general assistance. Added to that is falling auto sales in a state where more than half of its auto production has been devoted to larger cars.

He added that Michigan ranks 33rd in the nation. in terms of appropriations for higher education. According to HFA statistics, tuition at the University of Michigan is the highest of all major public research universities in the nation. Wayne State University ranks third highest followed by Michigan State University as fourth highest.

Morberg said that the state will need "support from everyone" to resolve the "largely uncontrollable" cost of medical care.

TOM WAGAMON of the fiscal analyst of the HFA warned educators to "be very aware that the rate of growth (actual dollars spent) won't be main-Wagamon said that special education is "dramatically underfunded by the state and that money for transportation of students just isn't there. He added that there was a decision in the 1980-81 year to keep as much funding as possible in the general aid section. Funding for other categories in education funding were cut by 30 percent. Revenue sharing payments could be cut by $56 million this year, according to Warren Gregory, a staff economist with the HFA. That's the total represented by a $30-million cut recommended by the governor's crisis council and another $26 million lost because of falling revenue. "Payout is determined by what's collected. That's built into the formula," Gregory said, "That's a not very well understood area of revenue sharing. Gregory said that in a couple of months the governor is expected to come up with a recommendation that would alter the Headlee mandate to maintain the same proportional share of state budget revenue given back to local governments. He said that provision distorts long-term trends and causes the state to cut programs it funds in order to maintain revenue sharing.

Murder trial is on after many delays

By Bill Casper. staff writer

The long-delayed murder trial of Kenneth W. Simonds is finally under-way in Wayne County Circuit Court before Judge Michael Stacey.

Simonds, 22, charged with the slaying of a pharmacist in a Redford Township drug store last March 17, originally was scheduled to stand trial in July. However, in preparation for pleading insanity as Simonds' defense, his attorney, Neil Fink, won a rescheduled date in October so that his client could be further evaluated at the Center for Forensic Psychiatry in Ypsilanti.

Fink, a prominent Detroit criminal defense attorney, won a third adjournment of the rescheduled trial Dec. 2 by filing an emergency appeal to the Michigan Court of Appeals in objection to the court's judicial assignment procedure.

Later in December, the appeals court denied Fink's appeal and Simonds' trial was scheduled for Feb. 15. However, Judge Stacey was still in the process of presiding over another trial, forcing another delay in the Simonds' trial until Thursday when a jury was selected.

THE TRIAL continued Tuesday with opening statements from Fink and Wayne County Prosecutor Herbert Roberts, followed by the start of testimony by prosecution witnesses.

Redford police detective Sgt. John Crete, in charge of the Simonds case, said he believes the prosecution is wellprepared for the trial, which he expects to continue for about two weeks...

Simonds, a Westland native and 1979 graduate of Livonia Franklin High School, is charged with first-degree murder and assault with intent to commit murder in connection with a knife attack on two women employees of the Revco drug store at Telegraph and W.

Killed in the attack was pharmacist Elise Rouhier, 25, of Ypsilanti, who was pregnant. Anne Ceane of Wayne, a 19-year-old store clerk, was seriously wounded, but survived.

On the night of the attack, Rouhier and Ceane were alone in the store to close up. At about the 9 p.m. closing time, they let in Simonds, then assigned to several area Revco stores as a security guard and theft investigator.

Ceane said Simonds launched his attack on the women for no apparent reason, using a knife and a safety razor.

ROUHIER DIED the following day after emergency surgery at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

Ceane said she survived the attack by fighting off her assallant until help came. She suffered a single stab wound to her chest, a broken nose and faw and . cuts to her hands.

Simonds, who is being held without bond, was arrested by Redford police at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland shortly after the attack. He has said he has no recollection of the events of March 17.

Medical center joins program

Garden City Medical Center will provide prepaid health care for persons enrolled in Independence Health Plan.

The center, 6033 Middlebelt near Dawson, has been serving patients for more than 30 years, Cathy Barr, an IHP spokeswoman said.

- The center has a satellite facility at 38959 Cherry CHill at Hix, Westland.

Non-members of the health plan will continue to go there as fee-for-service patients. Members medcical expenses, including office visits, are covered by Independence.

The 15,000-square-foot medical center contains $20 examining rooms, a laboratory, an X-ray facility, an out-patient surgery unit, a physical therapy scenter, ultra sound, and a pharmacy.

The nine physicians who staff the center provide primary care, including internal medicine, pediatrics, surgery and obstetrics/gynecology, Barr said. Garden City Medical Center is the eighth facility in the Detriot area to join Independence's network of medical facilities.

other specialists, or to be hospitalized, they are covered, Barr said.

Members are able to see their doctor whenever they feel it is necessary. IHP makes it possible to do so at no charge beyond the premium for coverage, which usually is paid by employers, Barr said.

Barr said there are more than 44,000 subscribers to the plan. The organization expects that many Ford Motor Co. salaried employees will join the plan during a March 28 to April 15 enrollment period and that many of them will use the medical center as their personal doctor's office.

Handwritten or typed, message is antitax hike

By Tim Richard staff writer ,

State Rep. John Bennett's constituents in Redford Township and eastern Livonia write most of their letters in longhand and use a lot of exclamation points.

State Rep. Ruth McNamee's constituents in Birmingham-Bloomfield type most of their letters, sometimes dictating to secretaries.

But an overwhelming majority say the same thing: Don't raise taxes and if you do, don't let it be permanent, as Gov. James J. Blanchard has proposed.

"It's horrible," said McNamee, a Republican serving her fifth term, quickly adding, "But some are reasonable. The only persons giving it support are those involved with mental health services - advocates, providers and recipi-

THE SAME story is repeated up and down the State Capitol corridors. As lawmakers on the House Taxation and Blanchard, the mail is running eight or 10 to one against an increase in the state personal income tax.

The pro-increase letters concentrate on cuts which Blanchard has proposed in state spending, especially the cuts proposed for mental health. Often these letters stand out because they are printed or photocopies, or they come from persons outside the legislator's born - only five letters favor it, an "overwhelming" number are opposed, Committee negotiate with Democrats a few are form letters, but most are spontaneous, according to a secretary. His district includes Garden City.

A sampling of the mail:

• Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville - five yes, 97 against, counting both letters and phone calls. Two proincrease letters want to save the Department of Social Services' Foster Grandparents program. Geake's district includes Redford, Livonia, Plymouth and Canton.

• Sen. Phillip Mastin, D-Pontiac three or four letters in support, about 25 against, according to a secretary for the first-term senator whose district includes Rochester.

• Rep. Joe Forbes, D-Oak Park -20 against and seven or eight in favor, "mainly from educators. I would have that more because of my leadership position," said the House Democratic floor leader.

• Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield - "my mail is light," she said, citing college students who can't afford tuition and a "touching letter from an older couple who got their retarded daughter into a group home. Now they're terrified it can't remain open." Berman is inclined to vote for the in-

• Rep. Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia -"approximately 95 percent are vehemently opposed," the fourth-term lawmaker said. "I've had 100 pieces of mail. On most issues, I got 10 or 12 letters. Of the five who support it, most are people with an interest in special state programs (Foster Grandparents) or state employees."

• Rep. Bennett, D-Redford — 28-3 against. One of the pro-increase votes cites the need for jobs - particularly.

• Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dear- state workers' jobs. It's one of his few typed letters.

SOME LAWMAKERS have replies

Many letter writers clipped and mailed an anti-increase editorial from the Detroit News. Quipped Forbes: "We should send 'em back the editorial from the Free Press.'

Forbes asked rhetorically, "Do those people who want more cuts know the only place we have left to cut? It's the $600 million in homestead property tax exemptions." His point is that a vote for such a cut would necessarily mean an increase in local property taxes for about two-thirds of homeowners.

Kirksey has a form letter ready which says Blanchard's proposal is "the beginning of negotiations between his office and the Legislature. . .I anticipate, regrettably, there will be some form of new general taxation," though not the full 1.75 percent Blanchard asked and not a permanent one.

Kirksey predicts lawmakers will make larger budget cuts than the $225 million proposed by Blanchard.

BENNETT, A 10-term lawmaker, has prepared a form letter saying he has never voted for a tax increase, adding, "I will not sit idly by and let our state go down the drain."

He notes that the appropriations committees of the legislature approved $225 million in spending cuts already, "but the welfare caseload increased by approximately $230 million during December and January . . . Our increased welfare caseload consists primarily of people who ran out of unemployment benefits and now are forced onto the welfare roles.'

McNamee, who won a bitter renomination battle in the GOP primary last August after voting for the six-month tax increase, is taking some comfort from the fact that many of her anti-tax letter writers say a tax increase shouldn't be permanent.

"What we haven't got across is that, even if we make budget cuts beyond the executive order cuts, we still haven't wiped out that deficit. That, people doubt."

Blanchard's plan calls for a 1.5-percent increase in the personal income tax for operations, with no expiration date mentioned, and a 0.25-percent increase to retire an accumulated $900million debt.

Republicans, in particular, admit the Milliken administration last year consistently estimated revenue too high, but they also insist the Blanchard administration is inflating the size of the projected current deficit.

MEANWHILE, Republican and conservative Democratic legislators are casting a suspicious eye at a 150-member Committee to Save Michigan, which plans to drum up support for a tax increase, though not necessarily Blanchard's plan.

The reason for their suspicion is that it includes such as educators as Edgar Harden, former president of Northern Michigan University and former acting president of Michigan State; Harold Shapiro, University of Michigan president; Cecil Mackey, Michigan State president; John Porter, Eastern Michigan president; Keith Geiger, Michigan Education Association president; a long. list of mayors and school superintendents; and such labor figures as Douglas Fraser, Buddy Battle and Leonard Woodcock of the UAW and William' Marshall of the AFL-CIO.

Board petition forms ready at Schoolcraft

Nominating petitions are available for those who wish to run for the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Four seats on the seven-member board will be decided in the June election. Three are for six-year terms and the fourth for a two-year term.

Qualified and registered voters of the college district are eligible to run. The district includes public school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and a small portion of Novi.

The six-year terms of trustees Harry G. Greenleaf, Rosina Raymond and Leonard E. Wozniak, all of Livonia, will expire in June.

The two-year term is open because Nancie Blatt of Livonia resigned last summer and Sharon L. Sarris of Livonia was appointed by the board to fill the vacancy until the June election.

None of the trustees has announced re-election plans, although Sarris is an almost certain candidate.

Nominating petitions must be filed by 4 p.m. April 26. They require the signatures of at least 50 but not more than 200 registered voters of the dis-

Prepare to do your tax return

You've received your federal income tax package in the mail. You're eager to get your refund but not so eager to fill out the return. Here are some tips prepared by the

• Be organized. Keeping records is a year-round endeavor. The more organized they are, the easier your job will be at tax time and the less likely you are to miss any benefits. You may find it helpful to file receipts or canceled checks in marked envelopes by category during the year. This will save sorting at tax time.

• Start early. Look over the tax instructions, forms and records as soon as you can. If you find you need additional forms or are missing a receipt, you'll have plenty of time to get copies. It's a lot easier than waiting until you're against a deadline.

• Read the instructions. Most of your questions are answered in the tax package, and the instructions follow the sequence of the tax return.

• Take advantage of IRS help. More than 90 free publications are available. Some public libraries have stepby-step tax instructions available on cassette tapes.

• Check the basics. No matter how careful you think you've been, recheck your whole return before you file it. One of the most common errors is copying the wrong dollar amount from the tax table.

• Sign the return. A return with no signature is not a properly filed return and cannot be accepted as a legal document. Lack of a signature is a sure way to slow down your refund. On a joint return, both husband and wife must sign. Each signature must be original.

• Keep a copy of your tax form. Place a copy with your supporting records. You might need this information later to income average, apply for a college scholarship or amend your tax return.

• Attach necessary documents. You should receive a Form W-2 from each employer you worked for during the past year. Attach one copy of each to your return. Don't forget your supporting schedules if you're filing Form 1040. Lettered schedules, like schedules A, B and G, should be attached first in alphabetical order, followed by numbered forms in numerical order.

• Identify your IRS payments. If you have a balance due, always pay by check or money order. On the face of the payment, write the tax form number, the year you are paying and your Social Security number. If your payment becomes separated from your return, there will be no problem getting the two together again.

• Use the peel-off label and coded envelopes. The label is on the cover of the tax package you got in the mail; the coded envelope is inside. Both are designed to speed up processing, and use of the label eliminates the two most common causes of refund delays - illegible name and addresses and incorrect Social Security numbers. If your address has changed or your Social Security number is incorrect, you should write the correction right on the label.

Choose right form for taxes

Which form do you choose when filing your income tax

The newest is Form 1040EZ, which is 11 lines long and was specifically designed for taxpayers filing as singles who have no dependents and qualify for no extra exemptions because of blindness or age (being over 65).

To use 1040EZ, you must have taxable income of less than $50,000 that is only from wages, and interest of $400 or less. In addition, the interest cannot be from an Ali-Savers Certificate.

To qualify for the single filing status, you must be unmarried or separated from your spouse either by divorce or-separate maintenance decree on the last day of the tax year. For most people, the tax year ends Dec. 31.

Form 1040A is the next most uncomplicated form. To use this form your income must be from wages, salaries, tips, interest, dividends or unemployment compensation. If your received more than $400 in interest or received interest from All-Savers Certificates, you must complete Page 2 of Form 1040A.

You may not be able to use Form 1040A because of the amount or kind of income you receive, your filing status or because you file forms or schedules or pay other taxes that can be reported only on Form 1040. Or you may want to claim itemized deductions, adjustments to income or credits that your cannot take on 1040A.

CREDITS AND DEDUCTIONS that can be taken on 1040A are limited to the charitable contribution deductions, credit for contribtions to candidates for public office, the deduction for married couples when both work and earned income credit. The charitable contribution deduction for non-itemizers is new and is the result of a provision in the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981. On their 1982 returns, non-itemizing taxpayers can deduct 25 percent of the first $100 of charitable deductions from the gross income up to a maximum deduction of $25.

What's left? Form 1040 allows your to take itemized deductions, adjustments to income and credits that cannot be taken on the other returns that will reduce your tax bill. You may benefit from itemizing deductions if you had large uninsured medical and dental expenses during the year, paid interest and taxes on your home; made large contributions to qualified charities; or had major uninsured casualty losses. Under certain circumstances, taxpayers are required to itemize.

You shold also consider when you can take any adjustments to income for certain disability pensions, moving expenses, employee business expenses or alimony or for any tax credits such as the residential energy credit, credit for the elderly, investment credit, child care credit, or foreign tax credit. If you take any of these adjustments or credits, you should use Form 1040.

IRS explains its procedures

The IRS is trying to clear up what it terms misconceptions about the agency.

The IRS is a large agency, and the tax law is complex a combination that might baifle the average person. The following; provided by the IRS, may serve to dispel some of the common misconceptions:

Using the peel-off addressable label will trigger a tax examination. The coding on the label speeds up processing, helps identify taxpayers and the kind of forms contained in the tax package they receive. It is not an examination indicator. Once examined, always examined.

IRS make an effort not to keep examining the same people. The IRS has a program, the purpose of which is to prevent a taxpayer from being examined two years in a row on the same issue when there was no change the first

• An IRS mistake can never be straightened out. If attempts to solve a tax problem with IRS are unsuccessful, taxpayers should contact the Problem Resolution Office at their IRS office.

A mistake on a return triggers an audit.

Generally, math errors are corrected automatically by the computer and do not cause an examination. The adjustment is automatic, increasing or decreasing taxes and refunds as appropriate. A mistake on its own does not generate an examination.

• Tax on a long form is not the same as tax on the short form.

Because of certain situations, some taxpayers must use the Form 1040, often called the long form. But the tax tables and schedules for both long and short forms are the same. Taxpayers would not pay more tax simply because they chose one form over another.

• IRS agents and revenue officers work on com-

IRS employees, like other government employees, work on a salaried basis. The amount of money the "collect" or don't "collect" in no way influences the amount of their paychecks. • Anyone whose return is examined will end up

The three possible outcomes of an examination are: an additional tax assessment; an additional tax refund; or a no-change case. Because the reason most returns are selected for examination is that the return has a good probability of additional tax, many examinations do result in increased assessments. But the primary purpose of the exam is to determine the correct tax.

• Filing an early return means it will be exa-

IRS uses a variety of computer methods to select and score tax returns for examination, using mathematical formula to measure the probability of error on each return. The same tax return would receive the same score regardless of when or where it was filed. The grouping of returns and the filing date do not change the probability of further examination.

Changes in tax law for 1982

Recent tax law changes will have some effect on 1982 tax returns. Some of the changes include:

• Gain on sale of principal residence. Taxpayers may exclude up to $125,000 of gain ($62,000 if married and filing separately) from the sale of their principal residences if they are age 55 or older on the date of sale and meet certain other tests.

• Charitable contributions: Persons making charitable contributions may deduct 25 percent of the first $100 of charitable contributions ($50 if married and filing separately) even if they do not itemize. The maximum deduction of $25 or $12.50 for married persons filing separate-

• Marriage tax penalty relief. When both spouses work and file a joint return in 1982, they may deduct 5 percent or up to $1,500 of the qualified earned income of the spouse with the lower earnings. Working married couples filing joint returns have often been subject to higher raxes than two single individuals earning the same income. Generally these couples now will be allowed to deduct 5 percent of the first $30,000 in earnings of the spouse with the lesser income — or a maximum deduction of $1,500.

• Child and dependent care credit: The maximum credit for 1982 can be as much as $720 for one qualifying individual and $1,440 for two or more. These amounts decrease after adjusted gross income goes over $10,000.

• IRAs: Taxpayers are allowed a deduction of up to $2,000 for contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement, even if they are covered by an employer's pension plan. The limit for a combination of an IRA for a worker and an IRA for a nonworking spouse is increased from $1,750 to $2,250. Contributions are no longer required to be equal for husband and wife. The $2,250 can be split between the accounts in any way as long as no more than $2,000 goes to either account.

Workers can make payments to their IRA at any time during the tax year up to and including the due date for their returns. For most people this will be April 15. The worker may choose to have payments made between Jan. 1 and to have the due date be considered either 1982 or 1988 contributions. • Contain reinvested dividends from public utility companies. Taxpayers may exclude up to $750 ($1,600 on a joint return) of the dividends received in qualified common stock under the qualified reinvestment plan of public utilities such as gas and electric companies.

• Disaster losses. Taxpayers who experience a disaster loss in federally declared areas in 1983 may elect to deduct their losses on 1983 tax returns or on 1982 returns.

If the loss is a non-business loss that they elect to deduct on their 1982 returns, the 1983 loss is deductible only to the extent that it exceeds $1,000 and 10 percent of the 1982 adjusted gross income.

• Reduced tax rate: The rate of tax for all brackets has been reduced for 1982. However, no additional computation is necessary because the reduction already has been built into the tax table and the tax rate schedules.

• Unemployment benefits. Taxpayers who received unemployment benefits in 1982 may owe additional tax. Single taxpayers may owe more tax if their total income (including unemployment benefits) exceeds $12,000. Married taxpayers filing joint returns may owe additional tax if total income is more than $18,000.

• All-Savers Certificates. Those who invested in All-Savers Certificates are entitled to a lifetime exclusion from gross income of up to $1,000 ($2,000 if married filing a joint return) of qualifying interest from certificates.

Look to credits to reduce tax bill

Tax credits are a way millions of taxpayers reduce their taxes because of certain expenses they've incurred during the year. The best thing to do to determine if you qualify for a tax credit is to check your tax return and then gain more information about any credits that might apply to you.

A tax credit directly reduces your tax bill; a deduction only reduces taxable income.

What does this mean? If you are in the 25-percent tax bracket, and you have enough deductions to itemize, you reduce your tax bill only $25 for every $100 of itemized deductions. If you have the same $100 coming as a credit, you reduce your tax bill by the full $100.

Hére are some common credits: • Energy credits. There are two kinds of residential energy credits available to individuals: a home energy conservation credit for money spent on inustation or other energy-saving components installed in or on your principal residence; and a renewable energy source credit for propery using solar, wind, geothermal or other reusable energy sources for home use. These are available to you whether you rent or own your home, provided you acutally pay for the items.

Probably the most common ways to save energy are to install storm or thermal windows and doors and to insulate roof, floors, walls, water pipes and water heaters. Or you might spend a little more money modifying your furnace to burn fuel more efficiently, or adding an automatic setback thermostat to save energy when you're not at

The money you spend for thsee types of components is eligible for the energy conservation credit. For example, you are entitled to a credit of 15 percent of the first $2,000 you spend on these components — that's a maximum of $300. The credit is based on the cost of items installed on or after April 20, 1977, and before Jan. 1, 1986. The $2,000 limit applies to each new principal residence. In order for your home to qualify, it must be located in the United States and have been built or substantially completed before April 20, 1977.

EXPENDITURES FOR renewable energy source equipment, such as solar collectors, windmills or geothermal devides may be eligible for the renewable energy source credit. The credit is 40 percent of the first $10,000. Unlike the energy conservation credit, this may be claimed for equipment installed in your principal resience no matter when it was built.

Some items are excluded from the residential energy credit. Drapes, carpeting, wood paneling and exterior siding may have an insulating effect but are primarily structural or decorative. Other items not eligible for credit include peat or wood burning stoyes, heat pumps, flourescent lights and hydrogen-fueled equipment.

The credits can be claimed only on Form 1040 with Form 5695, Residential Energy Credit.

• Political contributions credit. When you make contributions of money to a political candidate, campaign committee or newsletter fund, you may claim as a tax credit one-half of your political contributions to a maximum credit of $50 or $100 if married and filing a joint

But this credit canot be larger that the amount of your tax liability. The credit is available for contributions made to further a candidate's nomination or eletion to public office if made to a political candidate, campaign committee or national, state or local committee or national political party. Contributions to a fund to prepare and circulate a newsletter are also eligible for the credit. The newsletter fund must be established and maintained by a person who holds, has been elected to, or is a candidate for nomination or election to public office.

THE IRS REMINDS taxpayers not to confuse the political contribution credit with the line on the form where a taxpayer can designate $1 of his or her tax liability to help finance the 1984 presidential election campaign. The credit can be claimed only on Form 1040; no additional form is needed.

• Earned income credit. This credit is for certain lowincome persons who earn less than $10,000 and have a child living with them. Grandparents, aunts and uncles as well as parents may qualify. The credit is worth as much as $500. Unlike most credits, you can receive a refund even if you don't owe a tax or would not otherwise have to file a return.

If you qualify for the credit, you may choose to receive it as a part of you pay each payday. Beginning Oct.1, 1981, if you are eligible for the credit and are receiving aid to dependent children payments, the state will determine how much advanced earned income credit payments you can receive. The state then will include those payments as part of your income to determine your eligibility for aid whether or not you actually receive these payments in your paycheck. You may want to begin recelving earned income credit payments with your weekly wages. Ask your employer for Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advanced Payment Certificate."

This credit can be claimed on Form 1040 or 1040A. No additional form is needed.

 Child and disabled dependent care credit. If you pay to have someone take care of your child, disabled dependent or disabled spouse during 1982, you might be entitled to a credit of 20 to 30 percent (depending on your income) of your expenses up to a maximum of $720 for one qualifying dependent and $1,440 for two or more dependents.

THE MAXIMUM CREDIT you can take has increased because of a provision in the Economic Recovery Act of 1981. If you have one qualifying dependent, the maximum credit ranges from $480 if your income is more than $28,000 to $720 if-your income is $10,000 or less. For two or more qualifying dependents, the maximum credit ranges from $960 to $1,440 depending on whether your income is about $28,000 or $10,000 or less, respectively. -It can be claimed on Form 1040 with Form 2441,

"Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses." Other credits include credits for the elderly, investment credit or jobs credit. Publication 910, "Taxpayer's Guide to IRS Information and Assistance," will direct you to the publications which furnish information on credits

IRS publications are free and can be ordered by using the order form in your tax package or by writing to the

Tax breaks for senior citizens

If you're a senior citizen, be sure you're not missing out on tax benefits.

For instance, did you know that anyone 65 or older is entitled to an extra exemption of $1,000 on his or her tax return? And If you and your spouse are 65 or older, and you file a joint return, you may claim at least four $1,000 exemptions - two age exemptions and two individula

Then there's the credit for the elderly. This could reduce the taxes you owe by as much as $375 if you're single or $582.50 if you're married and filing a joint retunr. If you think you might be eligible for this credit, ask the IRS for Schedules R&RP of Form 1040.

As a senior citizen, you may not have to file a return. If you are single and 65 or over, you need not file a return if you income was less than $4,300. If you would ordinarily file a joint return, and both you and your spouse are 65 or older with a joint income of less than $7,400, no return is required. If only one of you is 65 or older, the limit would be $6,400. Except for thse special income limits based on age, tax returns concern income - not age. Remember that Social Security payments are not considered taxable

Are you thinking of selling your home? If you're 55 or older, you can take advantage of once-in-a-lifetime $125,000 exclusion on the gain of sale ($100,000 for sales before July 21, 1981.)

HERE IS HOW one taxpayer used his tax advantages

Charlie Perers had contributed to his pension plan for his wages while he worked. He knew that he would not have to pay taxes on that pension during the first three years he was receiving it until he had recoverd all the monely he had put into the plan. During that time, he cashed in many of his savings bonds and sold much of his real estate and stock. Why? Because he knew he would pay less tax on the gain from such sales during this period because he was in a much lower tax bracket.

Even if your pension cannot be recovered in your first three years of retirement, a portion of each penison payment will be tax-free if you contributed to the plan while you were working.

The IRS has a number of free publications that explain these benefits in more detail. You can order IRS publications by mail using the order blank in your tax package. ... Here is a list of publications: #17,"Your Federal Income Tax" #505, "Tax Withholding and Estimate Tax" #523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home" #524, "Credit for the Elderly" #554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans" #575, "Pension and Annuity Income."

But what about next year's tax?

Provisions of the tax bill passed in August 1982 generally do not affect 1982 federal income tax returns to be

Most provisions of the bill became effective Jan. 1 and will be reflected on 1983 tax forms filed in 1984. Major provisions to the bill affecting individual taxpayers in-

• Interest and dividend withholding. Taxes will be withheld from dividends and interest at a rate of 10 percent beginning July 1. The payer may choose not to withhold from interest payments aggregating $150 or less per year. Also the payer is not required to withhold from interest paid to low-income taxpayers who file an exemption certificate. In this case, "low income" refers to taxpayers who owed $600 or less on single returns, $1,000 or less on joint returns in the preceeding year, or taxpayers over the age of 65 who owed $1,500 ($2,500 for joint returns) or less in the preceding year.

 Medical deductions. On 1983 tax returns, taxpayers will only be able to deduct medical expenses that exceed 5 percent of adjusted gross income (AGI) instead of the current 3 percent. The deduction currently allowed for half the cost of medical insurance up to $150, even if no other medical deductions are claimed, will be eliminated. Beginning in 1984, the 1-percent floor for drug expenses is eliminated, and only the costs for prescription drugs and insulin can be added to other medical expenses in determining the 5 percent figure. Casualty deductions. Beginning with 1983 returns, only the total amount of casualty and their losses (after reduction for the $100 floor for each loss) that exceeds 10 percent of AGI will be deductible. Previous losses over $100 were deductible. Other provisions of this tax law will raise taxes on cigarettes, telephone service and air fares, increase efforts to improve taxpayer compliance with tax laws, increase the minimum tax that upper-income investors pay, extend Medicare coverage to federal workers and change the overall limits on contributions and benefits under qualified retirement plans.

Business-labor group backs temporary tax hike

A coalition of business and labor leaders proposed raising the state's 4 percent sales tax to replace some or all of Gov. James Blanchard's proposed said. state personal income tax hike.

The Economic Alliance of Michigan also pledged its support for the governor's proposed $225 million cut in general fund spending, but said it opposed a permanent increase in the income

The organization was formed last September in an effort to pursue "active steps to rejuvenate the state'seconomy." The 70-member organization is headed by co-chairmen Fred Secrest and Irving Bluestone.

Secrest, a former Ford Motor Co. executive, and Bluestone, a former UAW vice president, outlined the coalition's proposals at a press conference before addressing the Economic Club of Detroit Monday in Cobo Hall.

THE ALLIANCE recommended raising the sales tax because Michigan's rate is below that of many other states.

"Voters could be given the earliest reasonable opportunity to consider increasing the sales tax rate, with all of that additional revenue being used to group's policy statement said.

The state constitution fixes the rate at 4 percent and exempts food and drugs, and voters would have to approve any increase.

.However, the alliance opposed a permanent increase in the income tax to 6.1 percent from the current 4.6 percent, arguing it would put Michigan's tax rate "significantly above most competing states."

A temporary tax increase should provide "more than enough revenue to maintain a balanced budget in future years, even after the most critical elements of the proposed expenditure reductions have been eased," the alliance

THE COALITION supported Blanchard's proposal to impose a 0.25 percent surcharge for an estimated three to five years to eliminate the deficit from previous fiscal years.

"Surcharge revenue should not be used for any purpose except correction of these accounting deviations. This approach ultimately should reduce interest costs and improve bond ratings for government and the private sector," the group said.

The business-labor coalition proposed three other steps to be taken in combination to reduce the state income

 When the economy recovers, use increased revenue to reduce the income tax rate and restore critical programs, especially in education and economic development. "If an appropriate formula can be identified in advance, then a 'triggering mechanism' could reduce the income tax rate," the automatically reduce the income tax rate in response to economic recov-

> • Require by law that the governor and legislature review the income tax rate on a specific date - possibly within the next few years. The review would be set to determine if and when the tax rate could be reduced.

• Set a schedule for phaseout of the additional tax required to meet current needs. This plan could be combined with legislative review on or before

"One or more of these approaches should permit a reduction - hopefully an elimination - of the extra 1,5 percentage points of income tax within a definite time period, as well as any possible sales tax increase," the policy statement said.

ON ANOTHER issue, the group said it supports federal legislation that would walve accumulated interest on $10.6 billion in outstanding loans to the unemployment compensation funds in Michigan's unemployment compensation trust fund owed more than $2 billion to the federal government at the end of 1982.

The group also wants Congress to reduce the interest rate on future debt from the present 10 percent.

"This type of federal relief would actually increase the incentive for states to institute comprehensive financial restructuring of their unemployment compensation systems, as has been done in Michigan, while maintaining the more rigorous repayment procedures for those states which do not institute their own reforms," the alliance's statement said.

According to Secrest, the coalition plans to tackle other issues. Among them; reducing health care costs, expanding the availability of venture capital to support new small businesses, expanding and improving training opportunities, broadening the state's defense contract capability and involving colleges and universities in Michigan's economic development.

Lack of planning drives up need for tax hike

*F THE KIND OF car you own reflects your personality, perhaps the way you drive can be a reflection of your mood. If that's true, then metropolitan area drivers are a pretty angry

More than one party goer last weekend casually observed that since the income tax hike was proposed, driving has become increasingly hazardous. The consensus was that drivers ought to use special caution until talk or action on a tax hike subsides.

The governor has proposed a 1.5 percent permanent tax hike to erase the state's deficit and cash flow problems as well as a $225 million budget cut. Some lawmakers, however, argue that a sales tax ought to replace part of what should be a temporary increase in the income tax.

Whatever the package of budget cuts and new revenue sources agreed upon, some sort of tax hike appears inevitable.

PERHAPS THAT'S what frustrates taxpayers most - knowing there isn't too much that can be done to avoid a tax hike even as their own revenue sources have dried up.

Adding to the frustration, however, may be a lack of understanding about how we all got into this

A Monday breakfast meeting with state officials hosted by state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, went a long way to erase ignorance and misconcep-

Besides legislators, also speaking before the group of officials and business people were staff members of the House Fiscal Agency (HFA) and the state Department of Management and Budget. Some of the historical figures they provided were enlightening.

For instance, 30 percent of Michigan's employment in manufacturing is in the automotive-related industry. The state has 136 auto-related plants with an employment of 365,000 and a 1980 unemployment rate of 12.1 percent.

"If we had the auto sales we had in 1978-79, we wouldn't be in a recession now," said John Morberg, director of the HFA. Morberg explained that the more people work, the less demand there is for state resources which drain the budget.

Morberg laid blame for the state's poor economy squarely on the automotive companies. That's not news, but what is significant are his figures which imply that had automakers responded sooner to calls for fuel-efficient, small cars, Michigan wouldn't be in a depression.

ACCORDING TO HFA statistics, total car sales of all makes peaked in 1973 when 11.4 million units were sold. Of those, 15.5 percent were foreign makes. From that point, sales dropped until another peak was reached in 1978 when 11.3 million units were sold. At that time, foreign cars took 17.7 percent of the market.

Barely four years later, production dropped by a third to eight million units, but the foreign car share of the market had sprouted to 27.8 percent. Last month sales of foreign makes climbed higher still to

The significance of all this is that intermediate and full-size cars accounted for 64 percent of Michigan's auto production in 1979, 60 percent in 1980 and 51 percent in 1981.

No wonder Michigan auto workers were laid off. They had been building the larger size cars that few people wanted anymore.

The Big Four fell flat on their faces when it came to long-range planning. The repercussions of that failing will be felt for years to come. HISTORY NEED not repeat itself. Complaining about the past won't help. Voters ought to write their state lawmakers and insist that the state not rely solely on tax hikes to balance the budget. Incentives for new business in Michigan are crucial for the state's survival.

And in the meantime, hey! Let's be careful out

Time to reform water board

MY PURPOSE is not to put Charles Beckham, on leave as director of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, and his boss, Mayor Coleman Young, on trial in print with leaks from federal prosecutors. Let the dailies do that.

My purpose is to renew thinking about regional governance for the DWSD — a utility which serves one-third of the state of Michigan, somewhere around 100 communities, but is entirely governed by one city and may hire residents of only one city.

Regionalism is hardly my idea. At least a couple of governor's commissions have recommended it.

We don't allow one city to run our regional transportation authority, our regional planning agency, our regional metroparks system . . . . Why, then, should one city politically control the water and sewerage utility?

THE PEDESTRIAN answer is that Detroit "owns" the water plant, the sewage treatment plant and the administrative structure.

Not so. Those physical facilities are paid for almost entirely from federal grants, state grants and the user fees have been charged in our growing monthly water bills. In other words, the "Detroit' system belongs to suburbia, too.

The current problems arose when the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency filed suit against the city for being the single biggest polluter of Lake Erie. Detroit agreed in 1977 to upgrade the plant. Upgrading meant raising big chunks of capital, from the rest of us, and hiring lots of new technical people to operate the equipment.

You may recall the horror stories - equipment breakdowns, scarcity of skilled help (translation: they didn't want to live in Detroit as the price of getting a job), hiring of expensive consultants, and cronyism (or worse) in the sludge-hauling contract.

A better system is needed — one in which customer communities can select their proportionate members of the water board, one in which customer communities have a voice in the rates, one in which residents of customer communities may bid for jobs in the system. It will take major changes in state laws.

MUCH FIRE has been directed at Mayor Young. Some should be redirected at John Feikens, the federal district judge overseeing the DWSD pollution Feikens decided to set up a super-administrator of the system and selected Young. It was like hiring a fox to guard the chicken coop.

Young is good at a) persuading Detroiters to give him more money, b) prying money out of commuters, c) horsetrading with Lansing to get more money and d) pleading for more money from Washing-

Closing cut out long-range plan

Public meetings are now under way regarding the closing of Tinkham and Washington Elementary Schools. A commission's report has been submitted to the Wayne/ Westland Board of Education recommending the closing of both schools, possibly as early as June 1983:

Essentially, the conclusion is that these closings will save the community substantial monies. Whether this can be disputed or not, I am not sure, but what I am sure of is that cost-saving measures should not be the primary criteria determing the fate of these two schools.

Most people do not move into a community haphazardly. Rather, they survey a community's general reputation, quality of life, quality of education, proximity of community facilities, etc., all before they decide to move into a community. Once they move into a community, they assume that such factors will remain the same. Once, I thought that was a fair assumption; apparently, that is not so anymore.

The consensus appears to be that the community can save money by closing schools. Superficially, that makes sense. Yet, the community could also save money by firing one-half of the police, fire (department) and city employees. But most would agree that is ridiculous.

The curtailing of any of the police, fire or city services would severely undermine the environment of this community. So would the curtailing of its educational facilitles. However, there is one difference. The former would most probably affect all citizens while the latter only those in the immediate area.

What is at stake with the closing of schools is not the mere saving of taxes and affecting of few people for the betterment of the whole. Rather, it is a matter of expec-

A community draws people because of what it is, and is what it is, because of its people. When people move into a particular house because of the proximity of a certain school, church, or community facility, it is a fundamental assumption that it will remain there for a few years.

Sure, nature may interpose to defeat such expectations, but that is something we canot vote on. What we can vote on, however, is whether those expectations are taken away from one because they are minority.

Long-range planning is good for the community. It offers a continuity of purpose and a stability in community affairs. Long-range planning is also good for individuals. It enables them to set some type of goal and an opportunity to attempt their achievement. That's an enhancement of the family and a fundamental fairness people certainly deserve.

This citizen, like all others, desires to save his tax dollars. Yet, I am also willing to pay for certain services, one of which is a local school for my children to attend. My family moved here with that expectation, and we ought to deserve to have that expectation carried out, or at least allowed time to adjust to it's denial.

New community centers have been built, substantial pay raises have been given, probably well-needed and deserved. But where is the long-range planning of such items if it is necessary to cut back other services to achieve them. That's short-range planning and unfair to those directly affected, including the teachers who will have to be eventually laid off to suport such raises and the schools which must be closed to finance other enter-

Raises are not improper when necessary and when able. School closings are appropriate at times. Yet both should have foresight and be expected.

Citizens should be warned far in advance, not just a few months. People need time to adjust, not react. A community that does not allow them that time will find Itself a community without long-term citizens,

Reader responds to letter writer

To the editor:

I am writing in response to a letter written by a Larry Dilding dated Feb. 10. His letter was directed to the city of Westland city attorney with questions and exaggerated truths concerning Mayor Charles Pickering. I use the term exaggerated for the reason that this writer, along with my wife, was mentioned in the article.

I have concern for I do not know you, Mr. Dildine, nor have I ever heard of you. One is curious as to whom are your informers and/or mentors.

Part of your letter stated that back in 1978 Chuck Pickering fought to be the director of parks and recreation. You failed to mention that during that period Mayor Pickering was the deputy director of parks and recreation, therefore heir apparent to the director's job.

Mr. Dildine, you also make note that "local politicians organized his campaign, which included railies and letters to local papers." You state my name as one of the managers of the campaign. Again, I have concerns as to where you gained the above information. To the best of my knowledge, there was no "organized campaign."

It was my own idea, as it is for this letter, to write the two local papers, questioning why Chuck Pickering was not appointed director of parks and recreation. Chuck has been an acquaintance of mine for a number of years and to quote from a 1978 letter . . . "It would be a travesty that the most likely and capable person not be appointed to the position."

As to organized "railles," a number of citizens attended the council meeting the night the director was to be appointed. If attending a council meeting is considered a rally, so be it. At no time was I a manager of a campaign. Also, I am undecided if I should be upset or feel privileged after being referred to as a "local politician" in your letter.

There is another area of concern in which I feel you should get your facts and/or half-truths straight. My wife does, indeed, work in the mayor's office. The mayor has authority to hire his own personnel for his office, as did the previous mayors as well as the future mayors. She is employed on a part-time basis in the mayor's office, and It should be noted the position was made part time by the City Council.

There is a saying that "Ignorance is Bliss," and it appears your letter has a number of blisters.

5 councilmen miss fund-raiser

Mayor Charles Pickering Jr. held a birthday party in the Wayne Ford Civic League.

The main purpose for this party was to raise money for the needy families who are unemployed. For every ticket sold, one dollar was earmarked for the needy. The ticket buyers also were requested to bring in groceries, such as canned goods. A 50-50 raffle was held to help the needy in our community.

For some strange reason only one council person attended this worthwhile dinner cuase. That was Nancy, Charles "Trav" Griffin could not attend. His son was in a car accident.

What beats me is where were the other five council. members? Could it be they don't give a damm about the? needy in this community?

Maybe they are to busy deciding what strategy they will resort to in planning their re-election this comming

An overcast day produces a soft, moody picture, lacking in contrast but evoking an almost romantic feeling. Nagler found this scene on Ontario's Chippewa River during the fall color change.

Contrast: drama or misty romance

"Contrast" can be defined as the range of tonal values in a scene.

As a photographer, you need some knowledge of the subject. It will help you get better pictures. On a bright, sunny day, tones can be found from very black to very bright. On the other hand, a misty or overcast day will produce softer tones, often resembling pastels in color prints, or soft greys in black and white.

You might say high contrast days will produce bold, dramatic shots while low contrast days will result in soft, sometimes romantic pictues.

Use of contrast can be effective in expressing yourself through your photography and can have a considerable effect in the success or failure of your

YOUR EYES see differently than film. Human eyes can see details in bright highlight while at the same time pick out texture in the deepest shad-

We would expect to see the same details in our photographs, but unfortunately, film is more restricting and can't "see" the same way we can. It's tonal range is much more limiting. Therefore, some tones are always lost in a photograph.

But usually, loss of detail in the darkest and lightest parts of a photograph goes unnoticed as long as middle tones appear acceptable to our eyes.

ARE YOU AT the mercy of the lighting conditions? Do you have to accept whatever contrast may be registered on your film? Not necessarily.

You do have some control over contrast if you shoot black and white film and do your own developing. If the original scene is too narrow in its tones and you desire more contrast in your finished print, simply overdevelop the film to expand the contrast range.

Just the opposite, if you took some shots on a high contrast day and want reduced contrast in your print, then you must underdevelop the negatives. Of course, the black and white printer also has the flexibility of paper grades to increase or decrease contrast.

If you send your film away for developing and printing, be prepared to accept the contrasts that the processing lab thinks are correct.

With color film, over or underdeveloping will not affect contrast as the entire developing procedure is designed to give average contrast.

FILM SPEED also affects contrast. The slower the film (lower ASA number), the more contrast it will produce.

For example, Kodak Panatomic X film (ASA 32) will result in negatives with more contrast than Tri-X (ASA 400). Likewise with color film, the slower emulsions will give somewhat more contrast than higher speed films.

Going to extremes, use of Kodak Kodalith film will result in prints of contrast so great that all middle tones are eliminated and you're left with a photograph akin to a pen and ink drawing.

So get out of the shadows and into the highlights with a better understanding of contrast and how it can help you to improve your photograph.

A seminar aimed at helping persons learn how to do business with the federal government will be offered from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. March 24-25 at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

The seminar is entitled "Government Proposal: The Key That Unlocks the Federal Vault."

Fee is $175, including lunch. The seminar will be conducted in the Liberal Arts Building Conference Center. Registration information/is available from the college at 591-6400. ext.409.

- According to instructor Hugh H. Hodgins, the federal government is the largest buyer of goods and services in the economy. Although it is an attractive market place, the government's size and complexity have led to a multitude of rules and constraints which seem too complicated and difficult to penetrate, Hodgins said.

The "proposal" is the businessman's door into the government contract world, according to Hodgins. It is the single most important document in the highly competitive environment of government contracting.

T MAY BE the year of the boar for the Chinese, but it was the day of the puppy recently for residents of Dorvin Convalescent and Nursing Center in Livonia.

Nursing Center in Livonia.

"Hold a puppy" was the theme of the occasion which was made possible by the Michigan Humane Society and four furry, four-legged friends.

To the activities room came the entire mobile population of the center. They watched while Laura Lee Greer of Dearborn and Ronald Blauet of Redford Township entered carrying small port-a-dog boxes. Inside were the celebrities of the day.

In short order the pupples were on the laps and in the arms of the residents. Newspapers had been prudently passed out earlier in case of canine accidents.

"I see by the smiles that everyone seems to be enjoying it," said Blouet, director of education and public relations for the Detroit-based Humane Society. "We have found a lot of success bringing dogs to withdrawn people."

HE RECALLED a woman in a center in Wayne who had not spoken in 10 years.

"She started to cry when she saw the puppies," he said. "She snatched the one in my arms, and started to tell me about all the animals she had when she was a little girl. The following week she said she wanted to get to the activity area to talk about animals. All because of one puppy.

"It happens a lot of places. Many come out of their shell."

A statement by the society emphasizes the importance of the human-animal bond. Studies, it said, have shown that talking to and petting a dog or cat lowered blood pressure. Pets provide a sense of being needed and an impetus for quick recovery for their hospitalized owners.

Significant improvement was also noticed in activity involvement, verbal communication, and soety.

"The society concluded that through pet visitations, it hopes "to give them an opportunity to express love and affection to another living being. A being that makes no demands itself and gives love freely with no conditions."

As a result the Humane Society sends both staff and volunteerrs on visits to 25 area nursing homes, convalescent-centers, retirement homes and facilities for handicapped and disturbed persons.

BUT WHAT DID the pupples know of pet therapy? They only understood they visited a lot of laps and received about 45 minutes of endless hugs, frequent kisses and multiple strokings.

"It's cute as a button," said Carolyn Connelly about a brown and white tail-wagger on her lap. She placed it over her shoulder and rested her check against its fur, smiling the whole time.

"I like them," observed Frank Fitzgerald of Redford. "They're lovely. This is a good idea. I like dogs."

Former owner of five dogs, Fitzgerald watched as the residents played with the pups placed on their laps by center staff. "They seem to be anxious to hold them," he said. "It makes this place more homelike."

Ruth Olson of Detroit was a little disappointed that kittens were not among the visitors.

"I'm a cat lover," she explained. "They are darling when they're small."

Blauet, who plans to be back in a month or so with more pets, pointed out that the society staff worries that the sharp claws of kittens might hurt

"Cats tend to get more frightened than pupples,"

In general Olson thought it was a wonderful idea to bring in the animals.

"It's something to do," she said. "We have fun with them."

As a resident of Dorvin Convalescent. and Nursing Center in Livonia, she receives $476 per month to use to defray nursing home costs because her husband was a veteran of World War I.

She was the first person at Dorvin to receive what is called Veterans Aid and Attendance Benefits.

At U-D Dental Clinic

Free teeth cleaning offered for children

There's still time left to take advantage of the free teeth cleaning for children being offered at the University of Detroit Children's Dentistry Clinic.

Parents who call the clinic during February, National Dental Health Month, can obtain free teeth cleanings for children up to age 16, even if the appointments are scheduled for a later month.

U-D's clinic, which treats up to 200 children each week, is the only dental service in the metro area catering exclusively to kids. Friendly cartoon characters enliven its walls, and the scaled-down chairs and instruments enable children to receive dental treatment more comfortably.

But what makes the clinic especially vices and emphasis on preventive dental care.

"MUCH OF OUR work at the clinic is behavioral - motivating young people to develop proper habits for brushing, flossing and eating," said Dr. Donald Forrester, assistant dean for clinical affairs and chairman of pediatrics at U-D's dental school,

The Children's Dentistry Clinic is 10cated within U-D's School of Dentistry at 2985 E. Jeffersod, near downtown Detroit. Parents can arrange for their children's free teeth cleaning by calling the clinic at 446-1919. The appointment center hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mel Brooks needs limitations. His best films — "The Producers" and "Twelve Chairs" — are his first films, pictures in which the novice director is restrained by plot and comedy-genre stylings. When Brooks cuts loose, as he does, for instance, in "Blazing Saddles" or the more recent "History of the World, Part One," his films lose focus, reach too far for cheap laughs and generally disappoint. The pairing of Gene Wilder and Zero Mostel in "The Producers" helps further that film's comic value, as well.

Schrader's "American Gigolo" is at its best early on, when rock group Blondie pounds out the music that accompanies playboy Richard Gere as he prepares for, and goes about, his Rodeo Drive mating rituals. One loses interest, however, when the plot gets twisted around a murder rap, court case and miscarriage of justice. Lauren Hutton, Hector Elizondo and a terribly miscast Nina Van Pallandt co-star.

Paul Schrader also wrote "Taxi Driver," which makes for an interesting comparison. What do Beverly Hills' Rodeo Drive and New York's 42nd Street have in common? In Schrader's eyes it's an artificiality - a personality-altering force that drives inhabitants to become pimps, prostitutes and beautiful people, but never themselves. The neon signs of Broadway are as superficial as the haut couture stylings of Beverly Hills. Robert DeNiro, Jodie Foster and Sybill Shepherd star, the film is directed by Martin Scorsese.

Jody Marie is luminous as the girl in "The Fantasticks" at the Botsford Inn dinner theater. She glows with wideeyed innocence and gives Nancy Gurwin's laudable production the glitter that comes only from discovering a star that promises to rise.

Casting a musical is trickier than casting a play, because so many good singers can't really act and many competent actresses can't sing. Jody Marie can really sing. Her voice is full and winning, and she's delightful as the girl in love with love.

Auditorium filled

Once again — Bertini demonstrates musical versatility

By Avigdor Zaromp special writer

Following weeks of concerts with many empty seats. Ford Auditorium was filled for the most recent Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO) perform-

It would be nice to believe this large turn out was primarily due to the return of Maestro Gary Bertini, music advisor of the DSO. If, however, this wasn't the reason, then it should have

Bertifii, who has proved to be a versatile conductor in the past, again demonstrated his wide range of specialties. The latest program, however, wasn't universally endorsed by die-hard classical purists - and I have my own reservations about the program as a Scottish Chamber Ensemble at Orches-

It isn't that the items lacked in merit individually, but their cumulative effect didn't provide the expected feeling: of climactic, profound conclusion.

zart's Symphony No. 29, the Concerto No. 2 for Violin and Orchestra in D Major by Prokofley, the symphonic suite "Printemps" by Debussy and Symphonic Dances from "West Side Story" by Bernstein, Cho-Liang Lin, a young Chinese-born violinist, was the soloist in the Prokofiev composition.

The Mozart symphony was the only work on the program that was traditional in the classical sense. By coincidence, this work was performed in town not long ago — by the visiting

But this composition is generally not overplayed, and the proximity of these performances wasn't a drawback. In this performance, Bertini demonstrated again his great attention to detail THE PROGRAM consisted of Mo. and his keen perception of the musical

> The Prokofley Concerto written betweeen 1913 and 1917, is indeed an impressive composition for the violin. It is less popular than his second violin concerto, but it does possess the stylistic elements that were so unique to

It requires a great deal of maturity to penetrate it, a task that Lin accomplished admirably. In addition to his technical skill, his lyric phrases were encompassing. The final movement, which is untraditionally slow, left a very profound and somber effect on the audience.

THE SECOND PART of the program was perhaps the more controversial. The Debussy selection, first written in 1887 when the composer was 25, contains many romantic elements, which Debussy discarded in his later style.

But the impressionistic elements are clearly evident in this charming composition, and our own spring-like winter might have enhanced the mood for

While the performance was technically sound there was somewhat of a lack of spontaneity on the part of the orchestra, possibly due to the fact that it isn't a very familiar score.

review

Opinions differ about the suitability of Bernstein's "West Side Story" in a regular classical series. The music is certainly not as profound as some more traditional masterpleces, but one can't deny its entertainment value.

It is frequently pointed out that many classical works were written for entertainment, but this merely tends to prove that audiences at that time might have had a more refined taste. Be that as it may, watching Bertini dancing and prancing on the podium beats watching the movies.

A FEW YEARS back I might have expressed an unqualified objection to the inclusion of this music in a classical concert series. Today I tend to feel more flexible about it, especially due to the fact that it has an appeal to present audiences, a factor that cannot be totally ignored. But it is hoped such pieces will be presented on an occasional basis only, and won't prove to be a permanent trend.

Our audience will have a chance to demonstrate its sophistication by filling the Ford Auditorium for this week's program. The scheduled composition is the Symphony No. 3 by Mahler. Given Bertini's past performances of Mahler's symphonies, this event deserves to be sold out.

The Renalssance Concert series. which has been providing us with a rich menu of chamber music events, presented yet another rewarding program at Orchestra Hall recently. The program consisted of an assortment of selections, mostly from the Baroque era.

The opening work, Handel's Concerto Grosso Op. 6 No. 4 in A Minor is a reasonably familiar sounding piece, in spite of its cryptic designation.

It is one of 12 such concerti that Handel wrote in a period of about six weeks, a rate of speed from which music critics could greatly benefit. This doesn't diminish from the beauty of the piece, which the players aptly captured and reproduced.

THIS WAS followed by two works for solo and strings — the Concerto for Horn by Forster and the Concerto for Oboe in C Major, RV 452 by Vivaldi. Both of these compositions are little known, but have some well-written

Christoph Forster (1696-1745) was a German Baroque composer, who is almost forgotten today. His music contains many of Bach's stylistic elements. even though, naturally, it doesn't reach

His horn concerto is rather demanding for the instrument. Eugene Wade, principal horn player in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, played the solo part. His performance, subdued in nature, was very colorful and expressive. Occasionally the technical difficulties caught up with him, resulting in some flawed notes, especially in the third movement. But this didn't diminish from the general high quality of the performance.

VIVALDI'S Concerto for Oboe is one of several that he wrote for this instrument. Two of these are in C Major, the RV 452, which was played on this occasion, and the RV 446. The former is a short, compact piece.

Donald Baker, principal oboe with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, played this work in such an elegant way that the sound transcended its simple structure.

The most profound selection on this program, and possibly the most profound music ever written, was the Art of the Fugue by Bach. Only the first last fugue, which features the famous Bach theme, is considered to be Bach's last composition and is unfinished. While no musical instruments were specified, the work is frequently performed on the organ, which seems to yield the most satisfying results.

I have found most other arrangements rather unsatisfactory, but this turned out to be one of the few exceptions. The structure was presented very clearly and was stylistically authentic.

The tempo was exactly right, and the tempo towards the unfinished concluphrasing correct. One thing that could have improved it was more reinforcement of the lower strings.

UNLIKE SOME other performances, there was no slowing down of the sion. Such an abrupt ending, indeed, is the only way to emphasize the dramatic context of the piece, that is, the notion that Bach kept on composing until

By Brad Emons staff writer

There's a new No. 1 team in Class A volleyball.

Temperance-Bedford earns the top spot this week after outlasting a 30team field Saturday in the 10th annual Schoolcraft Invitational.

The Mules, rated No. 3 last week in a statewide coaches poll, made their first Schoolcraft appearance a memorable one by defeating Flint Atherton for the championship, 15-10, 13-15, 15-9.

Bedford captured its fifth tourney title of the year and increased its overall record to 43-2 after winning the 11/3hour match.

"The key is that we had more balance," Bedford fourth-year coach Jodi Manore said. "Any six of our girls can hit, and all six did that during the day.

"Atherton seemed to have a couple who stood out. But both teams can play with finesse. Both were good bumping teams and played good defense. That's why we were both in the finals."

KAREN SAPP, a 5-foot-9 senior, and Barbara Bailey, a 5-6 senior, represented Bedford on the All-Tournament team. They were joined by Shannon. Voss and Lisa Wilcenski, Atherton; Lisa Hughes, Wayne Memorial; Johna Gambotto, Redford Bishop Borgess; Lisa Hayes, Wayne Memorial; and Patricia Wang, Livonia Bentley.

Wayne, rated No. 1 last week, fell to Atherton in the quarterfinals, 11-15, 15-7, 15-10. In other quarterfinal matches, Dearborn downed Livonia Stevenson, 15-11; 16-14; Borgess ousted Farmington, 15-5, 15-13; and Bedford edged his team's quarterfinal match. "But the momentum went their way after they hit a ball into the bleachers and called a timeout.

"Our biggest mistake was not holding serve. In the second game we gave up too many free balls."

Stevenson, behind the play of seniors Dhana Ponners and Bev Irwin, won its pool with a 7-1 record. Two of those wins were registered against Redford Thurston.

While Stevenson was the best team on Court No. 1, Fenton was clearly the class of the field on Court No. 2, which included Bentley and Garden City.

On Court No. 3, Dearborn struggled to get past both pesky Livonia Franklin and Livonia Churchill, both of whom finished with 5-3 records.

But the three were highly instrumental Tuesday in the Patriots' surprising 63-51 victory over Livonia Churchill, champs of the Western Division of the WLAA.

Franklin, which has lived and died on the scoring and rebounding of Mike Johnson and Bob Stebbins all season long, discovered its supporting cast can do the job, too.

His driving layup with 3:58 to go in the final quarter gave Franklin a ninepoint lead and put the Chargers away.

Wrublewski, a spidery 6-3 senior forward who's lucky to weigh 150 pounds, added 10 points and eight boards.

And Kelly, who has solved Franklin's point-guard puzzle, played another fine floor game finishing with six points, four coming from the free throw line.

STEBBINS, a 6-4 center, and the sharp-shooting Johnson did their usual part. They each tallied 17 points. Stebbins also chipped in with nine rebounds.

Stebbins tallied baskets with 1:36 and 1:10 to go in the period, boosting the Patriots back to an eight-point lead.

CHURCHILL stayed close until midway through the final quarter before Wilkins' key basket. Kelly then added two free throws.

Churchill, 10-7 overall, hopes to snap a three-game losing streak Friday at Walled Lake Central in the first-round of the WLAA playoffs.

"I'm concerned about Walled Lake because we were down by 10 points (Dec. 17) and had to come back (for a 43-42 overtime victory)," said Albertson. "I'm damn concerned about them."

John Merner, a 6-7 senior, fouled out in the fourth quarter but still led Churchill with 19 points. Juniors John Grzybek and Craig Hunter added 11' and eight, respectively,

"This Churchill team has relaxed and they have to get the intensity back," Albertson continued. "This is one stage of the season where you should want it. But I'll take the blame. I let the team relax for two weeks. It's time to get back together."

Second of a two-part series.

Ane Mihallovich will never forget it. The Detroit Express soccer player really believes his team was hypnotized by Jerry Cassell into winning the American Soccer League championship last season.

"It was a regular-season game against Georgia (June 27 at the Pontiac Silverdome) — a very important game for us so that we could stay in first place," recalled Mihailovich, a native Yugoslavian who lives in Canton Township.

"I met him (Cassell) at my brother's night club. So, I talked to the coach and the other players, so we invited him (to talk to the team before the Georgia Generals game). He came over with all of his equipment. He had all of us - except for a couple players who didn't believe in it - in a room and sat us down.

"He (talks) well and it was really fun with all of his knowledge. He uses tapes like a waterfall, the ocean waves and sounds of the birds. And, while he played the tapes in the background he talked to us - kind of put you to sleep and make you think very hard. Actually, what he really did was calm your nerves down and make you forget about the game.

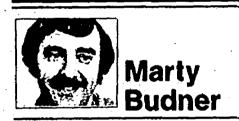

"HE MADE YOU think that you are capable of doing it (winning the game) . . . that. you are not a loser. I felt it right away. I felt great after he talked, and I felt like I had a lot more energy. His whole talk lasted about 15-20 minutes before the game and most of the players really felt great.

"As a professional I'd always get a little shaky before a big game and I couldn't sleep the night before," said Mibailovich. "But, after he talked to us and before the (Georgia Generals) game started I was calm and cool, and I didn't have the shakiness I had before."

For the record, the Express won that game 4-2.

The Express went on to win 13 of their next 17 regular-season games (with two ties) and finished in first place in the ASL with a 19-5-4 record.

Carlos Briggs: Talented ace

By Robert McElhaney special writer

His point totals have been impressive -43, 48,

51, 53 and 60 points in a single outing. But Carlos Briggs knows tonight that scorebook isn't important. It's winning that sticks out in everybody's mind as the Michigan Community College Athletic Association (MCCAA) basketball tournament gets underway at Delta CC. Briggs and his Schoolcraft College teammates, sporting a 22-7 overall record, are seeded No. 1 and will play their opener at 6 tonight.

Briggs, a 6-foot-1 swingman, finished the regular. season with a 31.1 scoring average. He's been on top nationally for the entire season.

Besides a good scoring touch, Briggs has great leaping ability, is excellent at passing the ball off and does a good job rebounding despite his size.

BRIGGS scored 53 points in Schoolcraft's season opener (Nov. 17), an 89-84 overtime victory over Southwestern CC of Dowagiac, setting a state record. His scoring show proved to be very important for the Ocelots in the OT win. He converted 61 percent of his shots to keep Schoolcraft in the game.

"It was the best game I've ever played," Briggs said. "The team really helped me out. When I got open, they gave me the ball."

Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins also thought Briggs played an excellent game and praised his shooting in particular.

"It was one of the most awesome displays of shooting I've ever seen," he said. "Carlos scored from just about every spot imaginable and showed Briggs' record didn't last long. A week later he tallied 60 points in a 136-51 romp over the University of Windsor JV team. But Briggs downplayed the effort.

"WINDSOR was too easy of an opponent," he

Other high scoring performances turned in by Briggs were registered against Henry Ford (Jan. 5), 42 points; Highland Park (Jan. 22), 43; Slena Heights JV (Dec. 6), 43; Kellogg CC (Nov. 19), 48 and Madonna College (Jan. 24), 51.

Most recently he tallied 28 in a victory over Highland Park which gave the Ocelots a share of the Eastern Conference title along with Flint Mott. Although he's been the main cog of Schoolcraft's offense, Briggs downplays his individual statistics. "The team is more valuable to me than I am to the team," he said. "If they need me to score, I'll score. If they need me to pass, I'll pass the ball off." Ocelot teammates Andre Stafford and Mike Cavicchio agree on Briggs' value to the team.

"HE'S A GREAT ballplayer," said Stafford, a 6-9 center from Redford St. Mary's. "He likes to help the team and he looks out for everybody." "He has the potential to become a (NCAA) Divi-

Vacation in Israel?

'Hot-spot' image belies safe reality

AFI BAERI of the Israel Government Tourist Office was in town this week, promoting the idea of travel to Israel. Israel is a hard product to sell to tourists these days because Americans see Israeli tanks rolling across their television screens nightly. Most people don't associate tanks with vacations.

I have often said that local politics don't affect the tourist much. I have found this to be true in Northern Ireland, Poland, Haiti and Israel. But the image of a country affects tourism a lot. Travelers say "why should I go to a place that has political trouble when there are so many other places that don't?" That's a pretty hard question to answer.

1982 was shaping up to be one of Israel's best tourist years when the tanks started rolling in Lebanon. For the last four months of the year, tourism plummeted, so the number of tourists for 1982 turned out to be the same number as in 1981. On a world scale, that is still considered success, since most of the tourist areas of the world have suffered during the last two or three years.

Our images of Israel are often based on our own ignorance of the world, which gives rise to myths. There is the Myth of Geography and Culture that makes us see the entire Middle East as one culture instead of a myriad of cultures.

The Israeli government surveyed millions of Americans in 1981, for example, and learned that most of us believe that Israel borders countries like Iran or the desert kingdom of Saudi Arabia, and that we get our images by associating Israel with our perceptions about these countries.

What are those perceptions? Desert sands, oil fields, unclean marketplaces, unwashed nomads riding camels, primitive surroundings, foreign languages and customs. The Iran hostage situation was in the news in 1981, so the survey unearthed another set of perceptions associated with the Mideast: ferocious crowds yelling anti-American sentiments, governments that took hostages and threw people in jail without trials.

THERE ISN'T room here to discuss what is missing in that Mideast picture; centuries-old culture, glorious art traditions, a highly cultured and educated upper class, an unbeatable sense of hospitality. Nor is this the place to discuss the pros and cons of Israeli politics. My point here is that much a Mideast country as it is a Mediterranean country in a Mideast setting. The Jewish population that settled Israel is half Ashkenazic (from central and eastern Europe) and half Sephardic (from the eastern Mediterranean and the Mideast), but the major cultural influence is European.

Hebrew is the official language, but you will find English spoken all over the country. You will also find contemporary life in contemporary architectural settings, which brings us to another image: Israel as Holy Land.

It is true that you will find Jewish, Arabic and Christian religious and historical sites around every bend of road in this tiny country, but you'll also find discos, fine dining rooms, high-rise hotels, glass office buildings and other reminders of 20th century Western society.

Israelis go south in the winter, just like we do, only their destination is the Red Sea resort of Elat,

1-of-a-kind traveler Jones contributing travel editor

1982 was shaping up to be one of Israel's best tourist years when the tanks started rolling in Lebanon. For the last four months of the year, tourism plummeted, so the number of tourists for 1982 turned out to be the same number as in 1981.

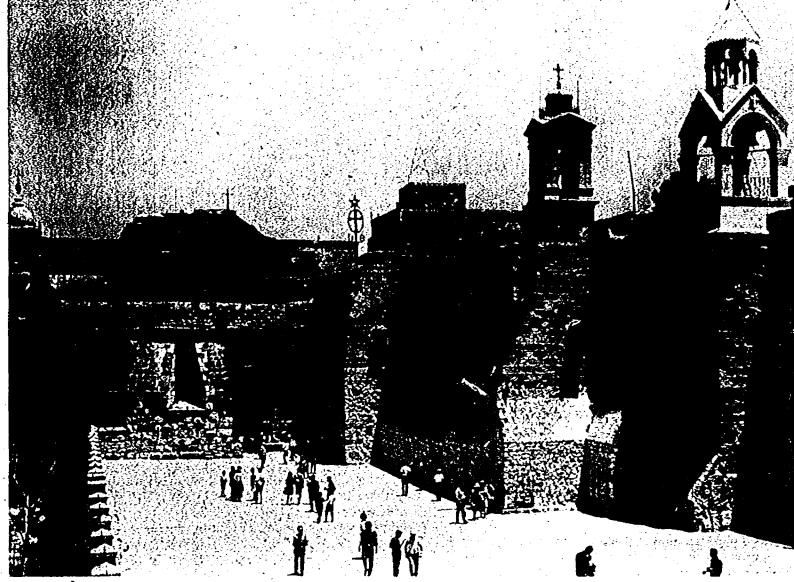

where they are guaranteed hot, dry, relaxing weather and a clean sea for swimming and deep-

The Mediterranean resorts are around Tel Aviv and Haifa: Nahariya, Acri, Caesarea, Natanya, Herzalia and Ashkelon. What do they do there? Eat, drink, dance, sleep, swim, stretch out in the sun, the same things people do in any warm weather resort.

The difference is that in Israel a day trip will take you to any part of the country, except perhaps Elat. From Herzella it is 40 minutes to Jerusalem, 11/2 to Galilee, a hour to Bethlehem. The resort accommodations are first-class but not as deluxe as you would find on Paradise Island, Nassau, or on Miami Beach, Fla.

In winter, Israelis often visit the Kibbutz Inns moderately priced hotels on the kibbutzim scattered throughout the country but concentrated in the north. What I like about Israel is that you don't have to choose between play and touring. In Galilee, for example, you can visit a kibbutz, the Mount of Beatitudes, a contemporary spa and take a boat out of Tiberias all in one day.

Images. The most important image concerns safety. Rafi Baeri said that many people don't realize that hostilities in Lebanon are not taking place anywhere near Israeli tourist sites, and that it is perfectly safe to travel in Israel. "We've had-10 million visitors in the last 10 years, and only six tourists who were hurt in any way by our political turmoil, none of them fatally." As I said before, politics doesn't usually affect the tourist, but the image it creates on our television screen hurts tour-

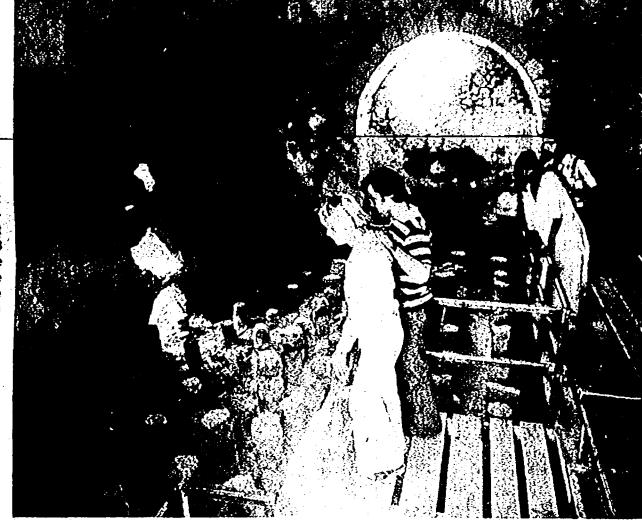

The Basilica of the Nativity in Bethlehem is one of the many holy sites tourists flock to see in Israel. Built in the 4th century by Queen Helena, the mother of the Emperor Constantine, the basilica is erected over the traditional site of the birth of Jesus.

Bob Helwig, executive manager of the Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreational Association (UPTRA), is eager for you to know that the U.P. now has its normal winter ration of snow, in spite of the almost-green grass around Detroit.

"Things looked good here in November and then they got warm." Bob said. "Christmas week was a disaster for people who love snow. Since then, our snow-load has been normal, but it's hard to get down-staters to believe that when it is so bare of snow in the south."

Quilts: There's no pattern to their popularity

The alphabet quilt reflects the quilter's interest in design and symmetry.

TT USED TO be that the only time you'd see a quilt was on a bed. But today they're at home hanging on a wall or used as a tablecloth.

From the Blue Ridge Mountains to the Hawaiian Islands, where hand-stitched quilts sport a tropical look of floral design and color, interest in and affection for - the American quilt is as boundless as the variety of kaleidoscopic patterns that now dazzle countless aficionados and quilters

The American quilt has become the Cinderella of the art world, rising in the past few years from its humble patchwork roots to places of prestige in prominent museums and art galleries. What was once considered a functional homespun craft is now often looked upon as something more, the fabric equivalent of fine paintings.

"A number of modern artists are choosing quiltmaking as a medium of expression," Doris Bowman, specialist for the Smithsonian's 300-piece quilt collection, said, "It's amazing how many beautiful quilts are being made."

There's also international attention to quilts made in the United States."You can go to London, Paris, Tokyo, Milan — all have shops selling American quilts," Robert Bishop, director of the Museum of American Folk Art-in New York City, said. "They're used in contemporary living as art; they rarely get to bed."

At home, the American craving for both antique and contemporary quilts, the contemporaries based on traditional patterns or stunning, innovative designs, has created a crowded calendar of fairs, craft shows, gallery exhibitions and workshops across the nation. A quilting seminar offered last spring by the Smithsonian Institution was deluged by hundreds of applications, according to Nancy Starr, manager of the Smithsonian's Selected Studies Program. Reservations to tour the quilt collection at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American' History are running up to three months in advance.

QUILT SALES IN country shops, city boutiques and auction houses, supplemented by sales of publications and quilting supplies, ring up a reported $50 million to $100 million annual business. At Made in America on Manhattan's posh Madison Avenue,

Quilt calendar

• The Smithsonian's Division of Textiles has published a set of instructions covering the care of antique cotton, linen and silk quilts. Detailed instructions, which discuss fabric identification, cleaning meathods and storage directions; may be obtained by writing: Division of Textiles, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution, Washington D.C. 20560.

• A quilting seminar will be offered by the Smithsonian Institution May 15-20. For information, write to Selected Studies Program, A&I 1190A, Smithsonian Institulon, Washington D.C. 20560 or call (202) 357-2475.

• The exhibition, "Kentucky Quilts," sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, will not come to the Detroit area. The closest showing will be at the Butler Institute of American Art in Youngstown, Ohio. It will be there Oct. 1 to Nov. 6.

pieced, solid and applique quilts dating back to 1845 sell briskly at prices starting at $300 and climbing to $4,000. Owner Margie Dyer cites equal interest among men and women, and about as many customers buy quilts for decorative purposes as for cozy comfort.

In Athens, Ohio, Quilt National '83 is set for June 5-July 5. The National, organized by the Dairy Barn Southeastern Ohio Cultural Arts Center, is a juried exhibition of contemporary quilts, requiring that entries be "original, not a copy of traditional designs" though "original interpretations" of old patterns are acceptable.

"Contemporary work has just taken off," National organizer Pam Parker said. Last year, entrants came from 36 states and five foreign countries. Although most of the participants are young, the older generation also is taking up the new approaches.

Not all quilt enthusiasts are turned on by the same things, a fact that accounts for quilting's large, diverse following.

"People look at quilts in two ways," Bishop said. There are those who are interested in the graphic design of the material and relate to art world images, particularly modern geometric abstractions, minimal, op and even pop, all of which, ironically, the Amish quilters of Pennsylvania anticipated a century earlier in their boldly dramatic designs.

A second group, usually older women, likes to look at quilts from the perspective of craftsmanship. "They are concerned with such things as the number of stitches per square inch," Bish said. "There's not much crossover between these two

WHY QUILTS? The quilt mania is traced to the Whitney Museum's 1971 show of quilts. The show focused on the visual look of pieced quilts, recognizing the pattens as part of the American design tradition. "The art world realized that quilts were art," Dyer said.

Tradition and today's interest in handmade items seem to be other major factors. Quilts are tangible, useful and handsome links to both past and future generations.

"We Americans are now taking pride in our own art forms," said Polly Brooks, a partner in Applachian Spring, a shop in Washington, D.C. She recalled that when her store opened in 1968 that "you couldn't have sold a quilt to a man for his office for anything." Now they are being snapped up by doctors, lawyers and architects as office art. "They give warmth and texture to a room." she said.

Applachian Spring, like other stores, sells traditional quilts made by rural women from around the nation, "We find that these ladles create fine quilts as long as they are left to themselves," Brooks said. "There's no joy for them when we dictate, and we had to stop that. When I open a shipment, I don't know what is coming out."

But the quilts that are part of the old rural lifestyle are fast disappearing along with that way of living. "The quilt is going to evolve into something. different," Brooks said,

In some ways, they already have. Quilts have been, and still are, just simple "fabric sandwiches" composed of a top layer, an inner filling and a bottom layer, all quilted or stitched together to keep the filling from shifting. But contemporary quilts resemble older patterns about at much as cars of the 1980s look like carriages.

PATTERN NAMES, often as colorful as the quilts themselves, reveal the changes. Pine Tree, Old Maid's Ramble, Pickle Dish and Hearts and Gizzards belong to an earlier age, while Litho Quilt, Rythmetron and #1 resound of today. The modern designs, the Smithsonian's Nancy Starr said, are "gaspingly beautiful" in their paradoxical use of "painful color combinations."

Though there still is strong interest in traditional quilting, modern technology has caught up with the form," said Lloyd Herman, director of the Smithsonian's Renwick Gallery, a national showcase for design, crafts and decorative arts. Artists have turned to such non-traditional quilting materials as plastic, beads, laminated mylar, paper, and in one case, gum wrappers. Rubber stamps, photo copy machines and silkscreens - all are being used now for printing both traditional and newer quilt materials. But one "quilt" made of stained glass was rejected by Quilt National. "We didn't want to handle it," Pam Parker said with a laugh.

Like so many other aspects of American life. American quilts are subjects of controversy: Debate simmers over whether there have been and are strong regional differences in the quilt world and whether earlier Americans realized that their handiwork had artistic value.

One viewpoint, held by Margie Dyer, suggests that for all practical purposes, there was little difference in quilts made in one part of the country and another. After all, Dyer said, as settlers moved across the country in the 19th century, quilt patterns traveled with them, creating the fabric version of the old melting pot idea. "Amish quilts do look different," she agreed. "But an applique quilt made in upper New York state looks similar to those created in southern Illinois. Pine Tree patterns are similar in Maine, New York and the

Pattern names, often as colorful as the quilts themselves, reveal the changes. Pine Tree, Old Maid's Ramble, Pickle Dish and Hearts and Gizzards belong to an earlier age, while Litho Quilt, Rythmetron and #1 resound of today.

Polly Brooks said she feels that geographical variances once were distinct, but that was long before the age of jet travel and push-button phoning-Elaborate, fancy quilts were made in colonial times along the southern Atlantic Coast, she said, because women there had access to imported fabrics arriving at seacoast ports. In Ohlo and other interior areas, the settlers had to make do with scraps, and their quilts were more haphazard.

Were earlier generations aware that they were turning out something of artisite value? One school holds that theirs was a naive approach, basically utilitarian, But quilt authority Jonathan Holstein said he feels the early craftswomen knew exactly want they were creating: "Always it was planned, and with rare exceptions, planned completely,"

And Bishop thinks these women did view their quilts as works of art. "These often were the only beautiful things in a house. It was grim and dingy, dark and cold. Quilts were a spot of beauty."

- David Maxfield of the Smithsonian News Service

These women are working on a traditional quilt design.

The traditional echoolhouse goes modern in this quitt.

Except for Amish quilts, traditional quilts can't be identified by region on design alone, quilt researchers say.
