District prepares for final hearing on closings

By Sandra Armbruster

No changes are expected in an administration proposal that three elementary schools in the Wayne-Westland school district be closed at the end of this year.

That's the word from Dr. Georgina Cseresznye, executive assistant to the superintendent, who was an administrative liason with a committee which recommended closing Washington and Tinkham schools due to declining enrollment. A third elementary school, McKee, also was proposed for closing Glenn High School's auditorium, which entation on the proposal, moderators by the administration because of the economy?

"We've reanalyzed data from the (three previous) hearings through twice. We'll be meeting one last time. but at this point; we won't be altering our position," Cseresznye said.

"A lot of good information has come out of the hearings, but in my mind personally, none of it alters the recommendation."

THE FINAL public hearing on the plan begins at 7 p.m. Tuesday in John has a capacity for 300 people.

Cseresznye said that if a larger crowd attends the final hearing, after which the board may vote on the issue. the meeting can be moved to Glenn's cafetorium. She said that the larger auditorium at Wayne Memorial High School will be in use that night.

Moderating the evening besides Cseresznye will be Superintendent Dr. Timothy Dyer and John Baracy, assistant superintendent for business.

The format of the meeting will follow earlier public hearings with a pres-answering written questions and, finally, an opportunity for residents to speak at a microphone.

"We hope the board will decide Tuesday night," she added, "One of the main reasons is that the employee relations department must get started with a layoff list."

Cseresznye said the board's decision could be delayed until the week after Easter.

UNDER THE administration's plan to close the three schools, Washington students would be bused to Schweitzer Elementary School and McKee students would be bused to Edison Elementary.

Tinkham students from the P.D. Graham attendance area would return to that school. Tinkham students living east of Venoy would attend Kettering, and those west of Venoy would attend Hamilton.

Cseresznye said that the two main concerns expressed by parents at the three hearings were the neighborhood school concept and transportation for students.

"Since 1978, that concept in this district has had to be modified," said Cseresznye, referring to the closing of five schools in the district that year.

"We're sensitive to people's feelings about change that involves their children," said Cseresznye. "However," we've transported great numbers of students with minimal problems, and great numbers walk to school with minimal problems."

Mayor battles council over a hiring freeze

By Mary Klemic and Sandra Armbruster staff writers

The Westland City Council Monday approved a 75-day freeze on hiring new employees, but Mayor Charles Pickering the next day said he will either ignore the council resolution or veto it. He issued a memo telling department heads that hiring practices would remain as normal. At Monday night's meeting, the councll said it wasn't getting enough budget information from the mayor and administration and charged that the administration was overspending the budget without council approval.

The job freeze was recommended by the Westland Financial Crisis Task Force, a group appointed by council president Thomas Artley to study the city budget and make recomendations. The council also passed a resolution setting budget and finance policies.

CALLING THE resolutions political harrassment, Pickering said that if the council thinks he has done something illegal, it ought to take the issue to

"This is an attempt to show that I'm not capable of administration and financial management. Their accusations are out of line," said Pickering. "I'm taking this very personally. I'm at the point that I want them to stand up and back up their accusations with

"They ought to put up or shut up." Pickering threatened to "take actionto force them to prove" charges. He said he will get an opinion from the city attorney and from the city auditor on "whether I'm within the budget act and the city charter.

Under the council resolution, the freeze would include call-back provisions and would be in effect until the next budget is passed, presumably in

If additional hirings are necessary, the council would consider each case on its merits, council members said.

"This is the only way to make sure that we are apprised, to get input when the administration makes these decislons," Council President Thomas Art-

IN DISCUSSING the freeze, the council cited a letter from the Financial Crisis Task Force. The task force is expected to make final recommendations on how to resolve the budget deficit by April 15.

"The mayor has held employees on without having the actual authority or appropriations to pay for them," Councilman Kent Herbert said. "Departments have overspent by several hundred thousand dollars. It's necessary to tighten the council's areas of control."

Pickering accused Herbert of "using his so-called know-how to harass the administration.

"Someone ought to find out how he handled things when he was finance director."

He said that all city departments are now understaffed and that not filling vacant positions would have an impact on city services. Pickering added that some of the positions that could be filled are paid out of federal community development and water and sewer funds which wouldn't affect the general fund deficit.

Laying off additional people would cost the city money in the long run, according to Pickering, because they would be paid benefits and then called back to work in the next budget year.

THE BUDGET and finance policies call for a line item budget with five levels of expenditure accountability and control. The policies limit the expenditures that can be paid without prior approval from the council and direct the administration to give the council information on each department's services in time for budget review sessions to be scheduled later this spring.

In its resolution concerning the policies, the council said there had been unauthorized overexpenditures by the city in the fiscal year that ends this June. It said the mayor failed to provide information concerning the actual status of revenues and expenditures and concerning the effects of changes in staffing and expenditures on city

"I think each department head should make out the level of services and the amount of time spent on each.' said Councilman Robert Wagner.

"We do need to consider every program and see what it has to offer. The way the budget is now presented, it's impossible," said Herbert.

Pickering countered that budget information presented to the council last year, when Herbert wasn't on the council, was streamlined at the request of that body.

Four minor accidents were reported in the 24 hours after the storm, and cars in the city weren't troubled with drifts, Westland police reported Tuesday morning.

Fresh-cut daffodils, among the first and most attractive blooms of spring, will be sold during the ahnual fundraising event that signals the beginning of Cancer Control Month in April, a spokeswoman said.

Funds raised from "daffodil days" support the ACS's research, education and service programs.

The bright yellow flower is chosen for this event because it symbolizes hope. This is the message stressed by the American Cancer Society in its fight against the disease.

"Evidence of hope is found in the fact that the 14 once-deadly cancers, including Hodgkins Disease, are now highly treatable, thanks to advances in cancer research," said Maureen Camps, local ACS publicity chairwomare available to meet the demand. Orders should be placed by Friday by calling the local unit office at 425-6830, Camps said.

The central Wayne unit of ACS is on Inkster Road between Ford and Warren roads, directly in front of Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

"We're hoping that area businesses, civic groups, churches and individuals will order by the bucket." Camps said. "Orders of 50 daffodils or more will be deliverd on March 30 and 31.

"The fresh-cut flowers could be used to decorate a place of business, handed out to customers or employees or donated to nursing homes.

"The daffodils are bright and lively reminders that spring is here and that cancer research is bringing hope to patients every day." CAMPS NOTED that April 1-3 is Easter weekend so the flowers are particularly appropriate for those who celebrate that festive occasion. Dozens of volunteers will be working on the "Daffodil Days" campaign. Members of the Inkster RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) will be donating their time to prepare the flowers for delivery. Other volunteers will be taking orders, making deliveries and conducting site sales.

Alternative plans may surface as board ponders closing schools

Noting that those are legitimate concerns, Cseresznye said that the administration "doesn't forsee difficulties." She added that all problems are handled on an individual basis.

THE BOARD may come up with its own plan for closing schools or taking other cost-cutting measures. At leastone board member, Kathy Chorbagian, has submitted her own "confidential" plan, which she declined to outline.

According to the Freedom of Information Act, "advisory communications within a public body" may be kept se-Chorbagian said that her report was an effort to "get people thinking." It included a look at live births per thousand and longevity for the Wayne-Westland area that she compiled on her own from area hospitals.

"I didn't think that the administration proved its case when they handed the figures out," she said, adding that her study shows the prospects for declining enrollment to be worse than the administration has projected:

'I wish it proved the other way around," she said.

name other schools mentioned for pos-

Chorbagian sald she expects that there will be "concessions" in the proposed closing plan made as a result of her report. Chorbagian declined to sible closing in the report because she didn't "want to put the whole district in upheaval."

She added that "nothing is in concrete" and that further information will be brought out at the public hearing as a result of research being compiled by other board members.

Disappointed that only board Peesldent William LeDuc and Sharon Scott had called her to talk about the report, Chorbagian said she had hoped to get cohesiveness to "argue intelligently" about the issue.

IF THE BOARD does decide to close the three schools, current plans call for selling them, according to Baracy. If that fails, the district will try to lease them or use them for a self-supporting program with a private tenant so that they won't remain vacant. Tonquish school on Warren has remained vacant and boarded up since it was closed in Baracy said that in the past, the board has taken the position of trying to sell schools for more than the debt owed on them. That policy may change if the three schools are closed. He sald that, at the request of a board member, a legal opinion from the district's attorney reports that a school may be sold for less than is owed on it.

Outstanding debt on the three schools is $165,000 for Washington, the oldest school in the district; $910,000 for Tinkham; and $544,000 for McKee, the smallest school in the district.

THIS WON'T be the last residents hear about declining enrollment forcing the need to close schools.

Cseresznye said that the administration believes that in two years the district will have to look at closing more

"Our decline has moderated. That's why we're not recommending closing more than three right now," she explained. "If we wanted to get tight, we could-close five, but we wanted a good--plan with a moderate position. So we're closing three and taking two years to see what happens."

Cseresznye said that in 1980, the rate of decline in numbers of students was so severe, administrators thought that the district might have to go to a fouryear high school and change junior high schools into middle schools with sixth through eighth grades.

She said the thought at that time was that larger secondary schools with a range of curriculum should be kept open; however, the district's secondary enrollment has "held well" with families not moving out of the district as children got older, delaying at least temporarily the need to close second-

Bentley parents offer school rescue report

By Teri Banas staff writer

The citizens committee to "Maintain 4 High Schools" presented the Livonia Board of Education Monday with a 71-page report that detailed its plea to keep open Bentley High School. The administration has targeted the school to close in June 1985.

The report, which committee members read aloud to the board, administrators and about 100 audience members, argued against the proposed closing of any high school until further study is done on alternatives to dealing with declining en-

THE COMMITTEE, led by parent and Ford Motor Co. engineer James Lynch, cited several alternatives culled from interviews with school officials in other areas beset with declines in enrollment, and articles published by educators.

But most of the suggestions, aimed at keeping intact a "neighborhood" concept for high schools, amounted to a major overhaul in the structure of Livonia's school system. Essentially, the committee has recommended reorganizing the district into a two-level system and eliminating the junior high schools.

THE SCHOOL BOARD is taking one week to study the committee's report, which took nearly three months to compile. On Monday, the school board is expected to respond to the committee's suggestions. A request to extend the one-week study period did not receive board support.

Among the committee's suggestions and requests was that the board form a citizens task force to examine alternatives to further school closings, a plan which the school board has denied once before. The committee recommended:

• Four high schools with reduced enrollments should be operated. Based on future enrollment estimates those schools would still house more students than the state's average high school today. In 1990, the group said that each high school would house about 1,000 students - about 200-400 more than the state average.

• Restructuring the current grade levels and eliminating the junior high level into a possible K-7 or K-8 system with an 8-12 or 9-12 secondary school

• Maintaining four high schools and offer available space in each building for other district and community uses. Some suggested committee uses included: moving the community education offices out of the Whitman Center and into one of the high schools; returning the services of the Career Center, now housed in a facility on Newburgh Road, into the high schools; consolidating various district deartments into the high schools; and relocating the district's administrative offices into a high school, thereby making its Farmington Road facility available for sale or lease.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS made by the group focused on these financial suggestions:

• Saving $2 million by phasing out the district's operation of four junior high schools.

• Trimming $2 million or 10 percent in the operations of the central staff. The report noted that while student numbers fell by 33 percent in the past five years, the central staff fell by 13 percent and its costs rose by 21 percent. The report stated that transportation costs rose by 72 percent in that time.

• Placing each school building on a line-item budget to get a better handle on each building's

• Replacing some work done by in-district per-sonnel by presumably less costly outside contrac-

• Employing an outside consulting firm to perform a comprehensive analysis of the district, including a job analysis.

The group presented the school board with a 3,000-signature petition opposing the closure and the results of an unscientific survey it initiated. Of 338 residents who responded, 92 percent of them said they wanted "alternatives to closing a high school" and 88 percent said they wanted to keep four high schools, the committee said. Approximately 13,000 surveys were distributed.

The committee also outlined the negative effects the proposed closing would have on students, teachers and real estate values in separate reports during the 21/2 hour presentation.

Presenting reports Monday were committee members Pat Sari, Carl Bengtsson, Barbara Kett, Judy Hollar, Al LaForge and city councilman Rob-

BENNETT'S REPORT, presented at the end of the evening, and entitled an "overview" of the school closing process, touched off a bitter response school board had at times been antagonistic, Bennett said there had been name calling and "verbal assaults" by the board on his committee members. Bennett read that one of the school trustees had referred to the citizens group as a "Lynch mob."
Roach's response was: "The first time I heard of that was right here, tonight."

It was not, however, the first time bitter remarks emerged during public hearings on the recommended high school closing.

The group this week and in previous public hearings on the question has chatised the board for what it has called a "failure" on the board's part to more fully discuss the alternatives and involve public in-

"It has not been the citizens' group's intention to create a situation of confrontation, adversity or negativism," Bennett read in closing this week. "That situation, unfortunately, has developed in some aspects of the process since December 1982."

Garden City cable TV office gets tax break

Sheridan Construction Co. and Maclean Hunter Cable Television Co. received a 50-percent property tax break for five years, despite opposition at a Garden City Council public hearing Monday night.

The tax break was formally requested by Sheridan although Maclean Hunter, as tenant in the nearly constructed building, will pay the property

The building, expected to be occupied by the cable TV company by early April, is on the south side of Pardo, just east of Middlebelt.

The council action provides the tax abatement only on the building and propert, valued at $230,000. Excluded is the nearly $1 million in cable TV equipment to be installed by Maclean Hunter. Opposing the tax break abatement in varying degrees were Duane Moody, Alice Leclerco, William Burton, all residents, and downtown party store owner Helen Minder, who complained that other local merchants never received the same tax

Moody questioned the relatively small number of jobs that the cable TV office-studio would create with only one local resident being hired.

Burton said that state law requires that the request for the tax break be made by the company paying the property taxes, which in this case is Maclean Hunter.

But City Attorney Ronald Mack said the law allows either the property owner or building tenant o ask for the tax abatement.

firm, defended the request for the tax break.

He said he bought an expensive piece of property and met all city requirements, including complying with a facade standard, and constructed a building specifically for Maclean Hunter.

The structure requires four heating zones to allow for the specialized equipment in the office-studio, he said, and it would be hard to find another tenant for the building.

_CITY COUNCILMAN William Haydon urged support for the tax break request, saying that Garden City and other cities are "vying for new businesses" by providing incentives.

He said that Sheridan and Maclean Hunter are complying with the city's master plan.

He told Minder that the state law allowing for the tax break was approved in 1978 and local merchants didn't have the chance to get the same tax Councilwoman Mary Markowicz was the only of-

roll call report

Arms 'reduction' amendment dropped from freeze

gress were recorded on major roll call voters March 10-17.

FREEZE: The House rejected, 209 for and 215 against, a pro-administration amendment to make the nuclear freeze resolution (HJR 13) more acceptable to conservatives and others who fear it is weighted in favor of the Soviet Union. The freeze measure awaits final action in April.

Suburban congressmen split along party lines, Republicans backing the pro-Reagan amendment, Democrats opposing it.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and William Bloomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

The amendment at hand sought-to change the wording of the resolution to call for a "freeze and/or reductions." Sponsor Mark Siljander, R-Mich., said "this freeze would lock us into non-mudiculous.'

While the resolution lacks direct legislative impact, both sides call it a powerful statement which could influence defense votes in Congress, world opinion, and U.S. and Soviet attitudes during arms control talks.

It urges both superpowers to imme-

The apparently lower priority given reductions upset some lawmakers. They argued the Soviets have nuclear superiority and, therefore, a freeze would tie the United States into a position of weakness, tempting the Soviets to seek a conquest.

Freeze advocates countered that, even if the Soviets are ahead, the question is academic because they say each superpower has enough weaponry to destroy the other many times over.

Opposing the Siljander amendment, Edward Markey, D-Mass., asked, "Are we going to let the Atomic Age return us to the Stone Age? Or are we going to seize our destiny and work toward world peace?"

Members voting yes wanted arms reduction to be a top priority of the nuclear freeze resolution.

CHALLENGE: By a vote of 226 for tually assured destruction. This is ri- and 195 against, the House adopted an amendment to HJR 13 (see above) that was supported by freeze backers and opposed by the Reagan administration.

The effect of the vote was to defang a pending amendment that would have gutted the nuclear freeze resolution by stating that nothing in it could prevent the United States from "modernizing" was in effect.

Members voting yes wanted to prevent the nuclear freeze resolution from being gutted. Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford and Levin.

Voting no: Broomfield.

Sponsor Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., said, "This is the time to move in the direction of disarmament by negotiation. This may be the last time we have this opportunity.'

Opponent Henry Hyde, R-Ill., said, "The greatest challenge is not just to prevent the occurrence of nuclear war - we can do that today, just disarm, just lay down our arms and get on our knees and face East."

Michigan's Sens. Carl Levin and Donald Riegle, both Democrats, voted yes, preferring to attack unemployment through high EPA spending.

Supporters argued EPA spending would be spread throughout the country and create jobs immediately. They said spending by the Army Corps and Reclamation Bureau, by contrast, would prolong existing jobs and further fill the pork barrel in the South and

Opponents defended corps and reclamation spending as job-creating and vital to stimulating the economies of all

Sponsor Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., said "this is a jobs bill, but nothing not a penny of the (corps) construction money - can be spent in . . . a time frame that would have effects upon employment unless you anticiapte a decade of depression.

Parents can help kids learn to read

Schools, in observance of National Celebrate Reading Month, are making an all out effort to increase enthusiasm for reading during March.

One of the goals is to ask parents to help encourage reading.

Arlene Corriveau, learning consultant at Elliott Elementary School, points out that parents are the child's first teacher.

"Children learn from the examples set for them. To read something with your child each day is to teach the child the love of reading and of books," she said.

Children who are read to, who see important people in their lives reading. who are encouraged to ask questions and who develop the look-it-up habit, become successful readers, she added.

- "Children may ask for a book to be read and reread. Parents may find this task a tedious one, but the child should not be discoraged from his selection," · she said.

CHILDREN RELATE to these books because they may enjoy the rhythm of the words, the predictability of knowing what is going to happen and even the words in print become familiar to Both parents should share in the excitement of reading to and with the child, she said.

"This shared time provides relaxation for parent and child and a time for being together.

"Often this time for reading to the child terminates when the child enters school. However, this should not be the case, as the child looks forward to this custom of reading after dinner or before bedtime.

As the child begins to read, he or she will look forward to showing his read-This gives the parent an opportunity to the ingredients.

The Wayne-Westland Community observe the son's or daughter's reading progress.

> "Reading for pleasure should be encouraged at home as well as at school.

WEEKLY VISITS to the school or community library can provide the child with an opportunity to select his. own reading material.

Parents may become confused when trying to help the child in book selection. One way to assist is the "rule of thumb."

To use this rule, have the child read a page of the book aloud. Hold up one finger for each word missed.

If you have four fingers and a thumb used at the end of the page, the book is probably too difficult for the child to read by himself.

"Remember, that if the child is really interested, he may wish to try it even if it is hard."

The Wayne-Westland library has a wide range of books for children.

Judy Teachworth, the children's librarian, is available to give assistance to parents and children. They have a selection of reference materials that children may use when working on re-

MS victim inspires others at workshop with outlook on life

"people are as happy as they make up... their minds to be.

Dave Cwilka, 26, of Westland is one person who has made up his mind to be happy, in spite of circumstances that others might find depressing.

"I was afraid, but I made up my mind to accept my limitations and be the best that I could be with my handicap," Cwilka said.

In 1976, four years after graduating from Western Michigan University with a degree in public administration, Cwilka found out he had multiple sclerosis. The disease progressed so rapidly that one month after MS was diagnosed, he had to quit his job at Michigan National Bank in Livonia.

After going through a period of anger and denial, Cwilka made up his mind not to sit around and feel sorry for himself. Instead, he decided to be as happy as he could be.

TODAY, SIX years after he first learned that he had MS, Cwilka's attitude is his greatest asset and the gift he shares with everyone he meets. Instead of asking, "Why me?" he said he is more likely to ask, "Why not me?"

Rather than trying to place blame or find a reason for his condition, he jokingly refers to his disability as "an extreme case of bad luck."

Two or three times a week, Cwilka shares his positive attitude with other

Abraham Lincoln once said that disabled persons and the staff at the Wayne County Easter Seals in Inkster. There he visits with friends and helps with daily activities. Cwilka says he enjoys working on crafts at the center, but finds he often gets behind because he spends so much time helping others.

Cwilka's advice to others with disabilities includes an invitation to come to Easter Seals.

"Come and see for yourself," he said. "It's a great place to socialize and expand your abilities. "All the people are so nice. They have incredible patience. They astound

DIRECTOR OF leisure services Teresa Beck also thinks highly of Cwil-

"Dave is a person who brings a lot of life to the center," she said. "He always has a joke or a witty remark that keeps people on their toes and laughing.

"He brings out the best in everyone. His attitude is so positive it affects others. He shows others that their lives aren't as bad as they think.

The 1983 Easter Seal Telethon supports services for Cwilka and more than 40,000 others in the tri-county

The telethon, hosted by WDIV-TV news anchor Mort Crim and Detroit Lions' quarterback Gary Danielson, will air from 11:30 p.m. March 23 to 7 p.m. March 27 on Channel 4.

Easter isn't only time they offer aid

Despite its name; the Easter Seal Society is open all year round instead of at just one season. The nationwide organization, with local offices in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, provides direct educational, referral, therapeutic and recreational services to handicapped children and adults.

"It is a major provider of health services in the country," said Marshall Pitler, executive director of the Wayne handicapped get out in the community County Easter Seal Society. "Its activities occur most of the year."

The society offers programs for all disabled persons, Pitler said. "We don't restrict ourselves to any particular disease or age," he explained. "For example, we help people who have had a stroke, are recuperating from an auto accident, have multiple sclerosis or muscular dystrophy.'

The society's programs include independent living skill training to help the and care for themselves. It offers a financial assistance program for prescribed orthopedic appliances.

Last year, more than 19,000 young people in Wayne County participated in scoliosis (curvature of the spine) screenings provided by the organization for fifth through eighth graders, Pitler said.

MAJOR recreational activities are offered by the Easter Seal Society, including swimming and bowling. In addition, the society operates four day camps: two in Detroit, one in Inkster and one downriver.

The 62-year-old organization is the oldest volunteer health agency in the country, according to Pitler.

"The first Easter Seal agency was started in a small community in Ohio by a Rotary Club, who saw there weren't enough rehabilitation facilities around to take care of people who had an accident or a disability," he said.

In Wayne County, the society's office has been located at 2545 Hyde Park Drive in Inkster for 26 years.

For more information, call 722-3055. The annual Easter Seal Telethon will be televised this year on Saturday and Sunday, March 26 and 27. This year's telethon, to be hosted by WDIV-TV news anchor Mort Crim and Detroit Lions quarterback Gary Danielson, will support services for more than 40,000 handicapped persons in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties.

"I conducted an extensive, nationwide search for the right person to fill this position, and I'm convinced he's the individual who will successfully form the new fiscal policy as we move to eliminate Wayne County's ($130 million) debt."

Todd, whose management skills helped Ingham County end the 1982 year with a $6.8 million budget surplus, comes to Wayne County with a host of credentials in both the public and private sector.

He is the former finance director and treasurer of Novi and assistant finance director of Madison Todd also has served as corporate staff auditor

Area youngsters stuck on sticker fad

Tracy Leece of Redford looks through her sticker book for possible duplicates to use as trade bait.

Paula Dusina of Livonia adds to her sticker collection by purchasing a new one that is being snipped a store employee.

Collecting and trading stickers of various designs has become the latest nationwide craze among youngsters. So popular are these stickers that conventions are sponsored so the kids can get together and trade them or buy new

One such convention took place from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday in the lobby of the Michigan Social Services Department, near Sara's Card and Gift Shop in the shopping mall at Plymouth and Inkster roads:

Sponsored by the store, which sells the stickers, the convention drew an estimated 700 children ranging in age from 3 to 15, according to store employee Sally Adams. It was the second store-sponsored sticker convention, and it attracted about 200 more youngsters than the first, Adams said.

A third convention may occur sometime before the school year ends, she said.

"The real avid collectors are children ranging in ages from 6 to 12, Adams sald. "The kids are very serious about collecting and trading the stickers. They really get down to the trading business at these conventions.

"This is the current fad among youngsters, and it's been going on for the last year or two. I'll bet it'll be good for at least another year, and representatives of sticker manufacturers are predicting it will continue another two years," she said.

The stickers depict animals of all kinds, including Miss'Piggy and Mickey Mouse, ET, Packman, monsters, stars, the moon, hearts and clowns, to name just a few, Adams said. They're sold individually for 10 to 50 cents each, depending on the size and material of the sticker, she said.

They're also sold by volume in packages ranging in price from $1 to $1.75, Adam's said.

"The children usually display them in photograph-type album books, but they don't expose the sticky surface so they can be put in and out of the album for trading purposes," she said. "We made about $1,400 Sunday on the sale of new stickers, and we're delighted with the success.

Adams said the store made about $800 on sticker sales at the first convention, which took place last Novem-

"Police found her sitting in the middle of her burned-out home, her body folded in a prenatal position. She was rocking herself on the floor.

"I asked her, 'Is there something I can do to help?' She said nothing. I crawled across the floor on my hands and knees. I said, 'Please help me to help you.'

"Sarah Ann Bailey looked at me and said," 'Yes you can help me. You can kill me because I can't live in this world full of pain and suffering any more.' Sarah Ann was a victim of casual burglary."

THE RIGHTS OF crime victims have been largely ignored by legislators, the criminal justice system and people, said Marlene A. Young, executive director of the National Association for Victim Assistance in Washington, D.C.

Even though 35 out of every 1,000 Americans are victims of violent crime, many states fail to provide adequate protection and compensation for victims either through legislation or services, she said.

Young spoke at a recent conference on "Victims and Inmates Rights" at Mercy College, Detroit. The program - which drew 40 attorneys, parents of crime victims and students - was sponsored by the American Jewish Committee in Detroit.

"I believe that victims in this country have no rights yet," said Young, a crime victim who helped found the national organization 10 years ago.

"CRIME VICTIMS SUFFER physical, financial and emotional injuries," she said. Not only are they victimized by their assail-

"They face injustices such as postponements and court delays. They may not receive information about case status and may never know when a case comes to tri-

Although the crime problem is pervasive, legislators are only just beginning to address the rights of victims, Young said.

Some states have drafted a "Bill of Rights" for crime victims. Others provide some money for victims services.

In addition, Congress last year passed the Omnibus Victim Witness Protection Act, which guarantees fair standards for victims throughout the federal justice system.

But these are small steps on the road to addressing a big problem, Young said.

Crime victims are still denied these basic rights in most states:

• Protection against harassment and intimidation. Fewer than 10 states (Michigan is not one of them) provide this protection through legislation. Even in states such as Wisconsin, which has a "Bill of Rights" for victims, the laws are not always enforced.

Courts may issue restraining orders, which are intended to prevent the accused from harassing a victim. But in many cases, they are not enforced.

• Compensation and restitution. Compensation is available only in 37 states. In Michigan, the State Victims Crime Compensation Board could be eliminated as a result of Gov. James Blanchard's proposed budget

That decision is being reconsidered by Phillip Jourdan, director of management and budget, according to Mike Fullwood, the board's claims administrator. Prosecutors and residents across the state sent letters to Blanchard protesting the cuts, he

The board, with a 1982-83 budget of $2.2 million, gave money to nearly 900 victims last year. It pays medical expenses not covered by health insurance, Medicaid or Medicare and wages lost on the job for up to two Restitution applies to only 3 percent of all crime victims in the country, Young said. Most criminals are not arrested or convicted on the charges. In California, a new compensation method has brought in $107 million for the state, Young said.

The method requires criminals to pay $50 upon conviction. In Michigan, however, restitution won't produce much money because most criminals can't afford to pay, Fullwood said.

• Information about a case. Less than 20 percent of all legal jurisdictions in the country notify victims about the progress of a

In a few Michigan counties, such as Kalamazoo, victim's advocates are hired by the prosecuting attorney's office to give a stepby-step account of major cases. Victim/witness notification services, however, are provided in Wayne, Washtenaw, Ingham and Kent counties as well as Kalamazoo.

• Right to counsel. Less than 5 percent of all jurisdictions urge the victim to participate actively in the criminal justice process from the time charges are pressed to sentencing. Attorneys fail to ask victims if they agree with the charges, the plea bargain or the final determination.

Victims are not vindictive, Young said. They simply want to know about their case. But when they are continually denied that right, they may take extreme measures.

For example, a group called Parents of Murdered Children, comprised of 26 New York couples, became angry when the prosecutor refused to try 25 of the cases because he said there wasn't sufficient evidence.

In the 26th case, the parents took their story to the newspapers. The media "managed to force the prosecutor to prosecute." and the accused was convicted of seconddegree murder, Young said.

Museum reaches Shaker heights

The early 19th century lives on in Lebanon, Ohio

Lebanon's the Golden Lamb inn once played host to such luminaries as Charles Dickens, Mark Twain, Ulysses S. Grant, William Henry Harrison and Henry LEBANON, OHIO - If you are a tourist, you will probably see everything in Lebanon, Ohio, from the point of view of the Golden Lamb. You may turn right down Broadway to the Warren County Museum or the Glendower house, or you may drive southeast to Fort Ancient, but sooner or later you come home to the Golden Lamb.

Except home was never like this.

At home, you are seldom greeted by a roaring fire and a bowl of mulled wine. At home, you don't dine amid Shaker treasures and watch the morning television news from a four-poster bed in a room full of antiques.

Generations of innkeepers at the Golden Lamb have watched American history unfold since the early 19th century. Guests have arrived on horseback, in carriages, in turn-ofthe-century automobiles. The 10 bedrooms are named after famous guests: Mark Twain, Charles Dickens, William Henry Harrison, Ulysses S. Grant, Henry Clay.

The inn, and surrounding area, make an interesting overnight or weekend stop for people who love old village streets, antiques, Indian lore, and good food and drink in an historic setting. You'll find it halfway between Dayton and Cincinnati by taking U.S. 42 seven miles east of Interstaté 75.

The Golden Lamb doesn't serve breakfast, so you will probably have your bacon and eggs across the street in the Village Ice Cream Shop, a bright room full of wrought-iron chairs and small round tables. The cafe is a cooperative built and staffed by local people.

Inn manager Jack Reynolds, or his assistant Fred Compton, may be there. If a glass bowl of jelly beans appears mysteriously on your table, you can be sure that retired funeral director Bill Walker has been there. Jelly beans are his trademark.

Victoria Visintainer, "director and jack-ofall-trades" is probably already at work 200 yards away in the Warren County Historical Museum, and you can be sure that caretaker Bill Cheeseman has polished the old furniture down the street at the Glendower State Memo-

There's a long story about how the Warren County Historical Society bought, renovated and gave their best antiques to Glendower before turning the house over to the Ohio Historical Society; the local people didn't like what the state was doing to the house, so they started again with the present Warren County Historical Museum.

From the tourist's point of view, that may be a blessing. You can see all the grand old stuff in the Greek Revival setting at Glendower and a wonderful Shaker Collection at the in-town museum. Vicky will tell you that the street of shops was an idea copied from Greenfield Village, but you won't find Shaker pieces like this in many places.

The Shakers settled a few miles out of town in Union Village, and when they moved on they left all their hand-made furniture behind. Robert Jones, once owner of the Golden Lamb, bought up most of it, which is why the inn is full of Shaker treasures and Jones' name is on the museum collection.

A century or two is a long time to most of us, but the Indian mounds at nearby Fort Ancient date back at least 1,000 years before Christopher Columbus, which gives you another perspective on history.

Highway 350 winds sleepily down through forested hills to the Little Miami Valley, and uphill again to the state park where three and a half miles of mounded earth, 4 to 23 feet high, wind like a fence around a hilltop site.

The Fort Ancient Museum shows how the Hopewell Indians built these mounds for ceremonial purposes, and how a later Indian civilization built a village at the bottom of the hill. The museum is open daily except Mondays, March through November, but you can drive past the earthworks anytime during daylight hours.

It shouldn't have surprised me that Bill Cheeseman was there too. He is a walking part of Warren County history: He once worked at the King Powder Co., where King's Island now stands, a few miles south of Lebanon; Nowa: days he takes loving care of the county's history and its antiques.

"jack of all trades" for the Warren County Historical Museum, adjusts a fireplace exhibit inside the museum. Visintainer said the museum took some of its ideas from Greenfield Village, but the Lebanon museum's collection of Shaker artifacts can be matched in very few other places. The Shakers settled a few miles out of town in Union Village, and when they moved on they they left all their hand-made furniture behind.

Vicky Visintainer, director and

They have a full house here on weekends, and often midweek during the summer, but it's easy to get rooms off-season and you can often be lucky in-season. The rooms cost $48 a night for two.

If you eat in the dining room, you'd better plan to go on a diet first.

School offers 2 unique British tours

Two unusual tours of Britain are being offered this summer by Cranbrook Institute of Science and Cranbrook P.M., both part of the Cranbrook Educational Community in Bloomfield

Dennis Wint, director of the Institute? of Science, will lead a tour of Scotland, focused on natural history and archaeology June 24 through July 10.

The tour offered by Cranbrook P.M. is also to Britain, but it is a cultural study tour called, Britain, Legacy of Treasures. It will be held June 13-23, a date chosen so that interested parties can go on both trips if desired.

For the Institute of Science tour, Flights by British Airways are to and from Prestwick International Airport in Glasgow, Scotland.

A maximum of 20 people will spend one week, June 26 through July 2, at the Aigas Field Center near Inverness. Sir John Lister-Kay, British writer, who lectured at Cranbrook last fall, will host the group in his Victorian cas-

Accommodations will be in cabins (heated, carpeted, and with private baths) on the castle grounds. Meals will be in the castle itself. The second week, July 2-9 will be spent at the Orkney Field Center in Stromness, in the Orkney Islands, Participants will live in local village homes. That week includes tours of a 900-year-old castle, archaeological sites and a nearby seabird colony.

The trip costs $2,350 per person, including air transportation, all ground transportation, accommodations, all but two meals, and a $150 tax-deductible contribution to Cranbrook. The air ticket, which is regular economy fare, can be used to travel before or after the tour dates to allow participants to include other destinations if they so Call Wint at the Institute for reserva-tions or more information: 645-4360. A deposit of $200 will hold your reservation until May 16.

The focus of the Cranbrook P.M. tour is the country manor house, considered by P.M. program director Margot Snyder to be a "repository of British heritiage." It includes three nights at Brickwell, a country inn in Surrey, visits to Knole House, Penshurst Place. Longleat House, Stourhead, Mompesson House and various castles and cathedrals.

The highlight of the tour will be a visit to Cranbrook, Kent, birthplace of George Booth, founder of Cranbrook Educational Community.

"George Booth brought all the components of this campus from Cranbrook, Kent," Snyder said. "That in-cludes the school, the art, the church and the estate. He was too modest to name it after himself, so he named it after his birthplace."

The tour will also visit Sissinghurst Gardens and Compton Wynyates, the building from which Meadow Brook Hall was modeled. It costs $1,849 including air and land costs, accommodations and meals, as well as a $200 takdeductible contribution to Cranbrook.

For information, contact Cranbrook P.M. at 645-3635. You also may attend the last of several lectures on the subject April 1 when the group gathers to hear Charles Lines of the British National Trust Advisory Committee talk about "The Glory of the Garden."

Bowling alley has a heart

To the editor:

We'd like to say thanks to a bowling alley with heart - Merribowl Lanes and its manager, Shirley March is mental retardation month, and when we asked Shirley and Merribowl if they could conduct a 50/50 raffle to benefit our Association for Retarded Citizens/Northwest Communities (which serves Livonia, Redford, Northville, Plymouth, and Garden City), they agreed. So we'd like to thank Shirley and Merribowl in advance for the money that will be raised for the ARC/NW-Communities this month. It's nice to see a business that cares about its community.

Incidentally, anyone may buy a $1 raffle ticket. They are being sold throughout the month of March. Half the money taken in will go to ARC/NW and the other half will go to two winners (with a minimum of $250 for each winner).

. The drawing will take place at midnight, Thursday, March 31. You need not be present to win.

Pro-life backs Szoka's stand

The controversy between Sister Mary Mansour's appointment to direct the Michigan State Department of Social Services and Archbishop Edmund Szoka's demand that she resign the post continues. Sister Mansour states that while she is "personally opposed to abortion," she will not take a public stand opposing Michigan's policy to fund this evil with taxpayers' money.

On the other hand Archbishop Szoka has taken a firm and unequivocal stand in defense of unborn human life based on the teachings of the Catholic Church on the evil of abortion, including Medicald payments for the procedure.

Right to Life-Lifespan, Inc., and its state affiliates Right to Life of Michigan have refused to oppose Gov. James Blanchard's appointment of Sister Mansour on the grounds that the concerns raised by Archbishop Szoka are church matters. The controversry is based on her status as a Catholic nun representing a position which her church opposes.

However, Right to Life-Lifespan commends Archbishop Szoka for his personal and public commitment to protect the unborn and his steadfast opposition to the tax funding of same. If all those who claimed "personal opposition" to abortion publicly enunciated that position as strongly as the Archbishop of Detroit, a Human Life Amendment would be a reality and millions of unborn lives would be saved.

Symphony wins kudos for youth

My family attended a performance of the new Metropolitan Youth Symphony last weekend and was thrilled with the expert musicianship demonstrated by the young students.

The string orchestra made up of the youngest members of the three symphonies were superb in their rendition of "Carmen's March" by Bizet. I believe a Redford resident, Judith Culler, is the conductor of the Hospital needs to be competitive

To the editor:

Thank you very much for the detailed, accurate article you wrote on Wayne County General Hospital in the Observer. Out of all the publicity the Hospital has received since William Lucas took office as the county executive, I believe your article defined more truth than any others that have been printed.

I hope you finally made the public aware that the employees should not be treated as Public Enemy No. 1, because their wages are above scale. The commissioners would have never agreed to the contract packages if it were not for greed for themselves. The commissioners always said yes to the union requests, because they knew they would be able to turn around and receive the same if not better wage package and fringes.

There is a break down of patients by zip code area available from the hospital, and I think it might warrant the City of Detroit to look at how many of their residents come to Wayne County General for care rather than Detroit Receiving or any other Detroit hospi-

When the threats of closing the hospital made front page news, John Q. Public started flooding the commissioners and Lucas' office with phone calls. The commissioner for the Dearborn district was away for a family death, but his secretary was taking the calls and couldn't understand why so many calls were coming to his office about the Hospital.

I wish each commissioner would take a long, hard look at the zip code census of the hospital to see just how many people from their areas actually use that facility. Dearborn may very well, in fact, be one of the hardest hit areas for unemployment in the area that Wayne County General serves.

I MUST NOW tell you that I am an employee of the Hospital. I have been with the Hospital for almost 15 years and am very proud of it.

I have been a surgical inpatient, by choice, of this facility. My father has been a surgical inpatient twice, and my mother an inpatient for medical reasons. My mother-in-law had a pacemaker inserted at WCGH and even more recently was hospitalized twice.

We were all "paying customers" by means of Blue Cross, Medicare, or both, and I believe the public must be made aware of the fact that approximately 60 percent of the hospital's admissions are people that do have hospitalization insurance coverage.

If the hospital is to survive, it will need to become more competitive in the "hospital market." This may require employee concessions which I am perfectly willing to go along with. But it is a little hard to swallow when the county executive walks into office, gives himself a raise, along with all the commissioners, and then says there is no money.

Thank you once again for your fair and truthful article.

Parent praises presentation

To the editor:

Last evening the board room was overflowing into the hallways with residents concerned over the possible closing of Bentley. They were there specifically to hear and offer support to the committee presenting alternatives to a high school closing.

I was so glad that I was there to hear the alternatives given. The research and organization involved in this project was awesome. These seven individuals went beyond the emotional issues to present very practical and possible alternatives for saving our four high schools. Their final request was for the board to carefully review all these possiblities.

I am sure the board members realize the quality of the material presented and that they will give generous and respectful time to its content. I know I speak for many when I say how very appreciative I am to Pat Sari, Carl Bengtsson, Barbara Kett,

Judy Hollar, Al LaForge and Jim

Theater policy angers parent

To the editor:

On March 19, my children were dropped off at the Quo Vadis Theater to see "Spring Fever" (PG). They chose instead to buy tickets for "Curtains" (R), which the theater sold them. The children are 9 and 11 and knew they would never have received my permission to see an R-rated movie.

I called the theater and asked to talk to the person in charge. He told me that they would not sell tickets to persons under 17 for R-rated movies. They did. He also said they try to monitor who goes into what movie, but it is very difficult with the large number of people they service. He also stated that if a parent really wants to make sure the child is seeing the desired movie, they should buy the tickets and seat the children themselves. The "person in charge" also stated that the ratings are only a suggestion, and that it is not a law that persons under 17 cannot see "R" or other rated movies without an adult's permission.

I feel that parents in the community should be aware of all of the above.

Wishes won't change need to close schools

OUNGSTERS IN school now probably don't know who Jiminy Cricket is.

However, those oldsters of us who remain young at heart will never forget the Disney character with top hat and umbrella, crooning under a starry sky the words, "If you wish upon a star, makes no difference who you are. Anything your heart desires will come to you."

Despite our fond remembrances, grownups realize that it takes more than a mighty wish to make our dreams come true.

THAT KIND OF reality is going to hit Wayne-Westland residents and members of the school board next week.

The final public hearing on a proposal to close three elementary schools will begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday in John Glenn High School's auditorium. The board is expected to take a vote on the plan following the hearing.

The administration's proposal calls for closing Washington, Tinkham and McKee elementary schools.

Originally a building utilization committee recommended closing Washington and Tinkham due to declining enrollment. Administrators added McKee to the list of potential closures due to the severe decline in school revenue caused by the state's economic plunge.

Since the plan was announced, three public hearings — one at each school — have been held. Out of all the public discussion have come several other plans, one from parents at Washington and one from recently elected board member Kathleen Chorbagian.

Unfortunately, in both instances creators of the plans were skittish about releasing details, fearing a breakdown in "negotiations" with district administrators.

CHORBAGIAN'S plan, like the one from Washington parents, apparently names other schools to be looked at for closing. She claims that she doesn't want "the whole district in upheaval" by outlining the proposal.

Chorbagian further claims the right to withold detail under the Freedom of Information Act, which allows an exemption from disclosure for "advisory communications within a public body."

It's regrettable that Chorbagian, a new board member who is aware of past criticism of board deliberation, has chosen this route.

If it weren't for free discussions about the administration's proposal, plans like hers and the one from Washington parents wouldn't have been submitted liberations lead up to whatever decision the board will make.

THE SCHOOL BOARD eventually will have to decide on the basis of "giving students a quality education no matter what building they're in."

Wishing upon stars won't change the way statistics point for future school operations. The figures—declining enrollment, coupled with a crippled economy—show the only real course possible.

Of course, parents are concerned.

Of course, residents don't want schools in their neighborhoods closed. But urging that someone else's school be closed just to save the one in your neighborhood can't be the only reason for making such a recommendation.

Wishful thinking won't help Wayne-Westland schools, but insisting on the best possible education will, wherever that education is offered.

Super sewer, Detroit water issues linked

NOW IS the time to regionalize the Water and Sewerage Department, which serves 100 southeastern Michigan communities but is politically controlled only by the city of Detroit.

One set of reasons is very clear: The vast trouble Detroit has had operating the sewage treatment plant, the funny ways the plant improvements are financed and the legal clouds over former department chief Charles Beckham, Mayor Coleman Young and sludge-hauling contractor Darralyn Bowers.

But another important set of reasons emerges from the obscurity of state and regional bureaucracy. The Detroit-controlled Water and Sewerage Department is trying its darndest to mutilate a project near and dear to suburban politicos' hearts. That project is known as "super sewer."

LET'S PUT THIS into a legislative context.

For years, suburban legislators and politicians

For years, suburban legislators and politicians have been advocating regionalizing the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department. Those names are familiar: state Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford; Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara; Oakland County Drain-Commissioner-George Kuhn; state Sen. Rick Fessler, R-Union Lake; and now state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

If a regional system of governance is to be achieved, many more important Democratic politicos will have to get into the act.

The group that could tilt the balance of power seems to be the downriver Democratic legislators and Wayne County Executive William Lucas, a Democrat.

LUCAS HAS THROWN his support behind super sewer, the nickname of the Huron Valley Wastewater project.

In its grandest outline, it would consist of a wastewater treatment plant in Brownstown Township on Lake Erie and a long sewer interceptor (line) parallel to I-275 and reaching to the lakes and hills of western Oakland County.

The state Department of Natural Resources is recommending construction of the treatment plant and interceptors to such downriver towns as Flat Rock and Trenton. But DNR isn't at all sure that places like Canton, Plymouth Township, Northville, Novi and Commerce ought to tie into that treatment plant

I quote from a recent letter from William D. Marks, acting chief of the surface water quality division of DNR, to Duane Egeland, acting director of the Wayne County public works department:

the Wayne County public works department:

"In recognition of the complex social and institutional issues which are still being addressed, we propose to defer formal certification of the plan at this time."

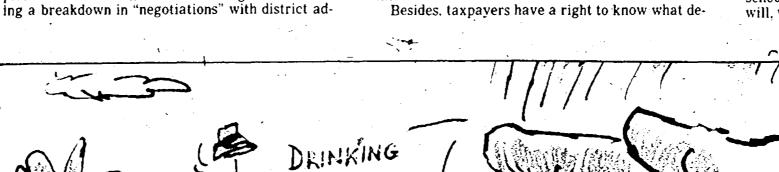

IN PLAIN ENGLISH, the bureaucratic jargon about "complex social and institutional issues" means Mayor Young and the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department.

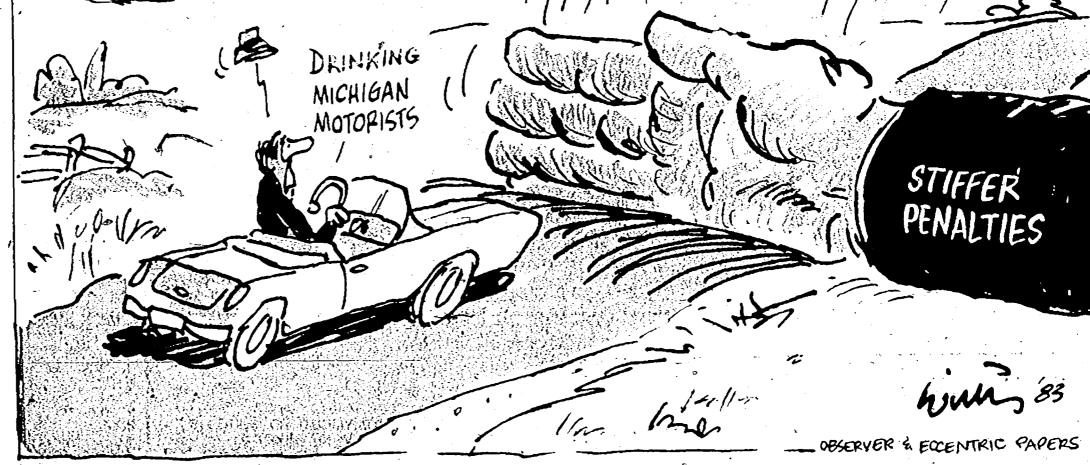

DWSD-is represented on such sextess sounding but important bodies as the Regional Clearinghouse Review Committee (RC2) and the Areawide Water Quality Board (AWQB). Through those committees, the Detroit forces have been fighting super sewer tooth and nail. They want that wastewater to flow to the Detroit treatment plant, where it will pay Detroit rates and provide jobs for Detroiters only.

County Executive Lucas, a black Detroiter, has played the game of appearing not to threaten black Detroiter Young. Sorry, but game time is over. On the super sewer issue, Young is Lucas' sworn enemy.

From a point of view of sound public policy, there is no reason why Detroit alone should rule and run a water and sewerage system that serves 100 communities and which 100 communities more than pay for

That system should be under regional governance. It will take state legislation to accomplish such a reform. Lucas and the downriver Democrats ought to get on the bandwagon.

Tough laws will help drunk driver

WERE YOUR parents abstainers, rare, light, moderate, heavy or very heavy drinkers?
Pause a moment and give it some thought.

That question was posed to adults in Tecumseh recently by public health researchers at the University of Michigan. The results were surprising.

People questioned tended to follow their parents' drinking habits — except for those at the extremes. Researchers determined that children broke away from parents' drinking styles at the extremes because of the stress caused.

"Children of abstainers were at odds with the community norm. Children of very heavy drinkers appear to have been responding to the stress of alcohol-caused problems within the family," said researcher Ernest Hamburg of U-M.

of this column, at least in the case of one parent, would be "very heavy." I don't pretend to be an expert, but my personal experience upholds the findings in Tecumseh. I remember well the stress involved in growing up in a family where one adult was a heavy drinker.

Conventional wisdom at that time was that the children in my family would become problem drinkers as adults. I remember many discussions about the "x" factor — a believed hereditary ingredient that heavy drinking parents passed on to their children.

At least in my family, the "x" factor proved a myth. Of the five children, none of us turned out to be a heavy drinker. As adults, all drink more soft than hard drinks. All would be classified as light

THIS DISCUSSION OF alcoholism is relevant because on Wednesday, police in Michigan will begin enforcing tougher drunk driving laws. Basically, these new laws will make it much harder on those who choose to drink and drive.

For example, police officers will now have a right to administer roadside breath tests to suspected drunk drivers who are stopped for any offense. Previously, all offenders had to be taken to head-quarters for blood-alcohol tests.

Also, a person with a 0.1 per cent or greater of blood alcohol content is guilty of drunkenness. Until now, a blood alcohol content of 0.1 per cent was not taken as absolute proof of drunkenness.

Those who refuse to take a blood test will have six points added to their driver's license record, and their licenses will be suspended for six months. Several other similar laws will take effect

Wednesday. Obviously, there are benefits in the new law to potential victims. In a nation where an estimated 26,000 persons are killed every year because of drunk driving, tougher laws can only help.

MANY NEWSPAPER COLUMNS have already been devoted to the advantages of the new laws to the victim. May I suggest another benefit?

As someone who lived with a heavy drinker, I know the critical element in change is for the drinker to recognize the problem. That person often must hit bottom before he can deal with his drinking.

Unfortunately, well-meaning family, friends and even law enforcement officials protect the drinker. Sometimes the drinker will not admit to a problem until it is too late, and someone has been killed.

Because of the new laws, more problem drinkers will have their licenses suspended and maybe will end up in Jail. As hard as it may be for loved ones to accept, that's good for the drinker. Only through such a dramatic event will a cure begin.

Take it from someone who would have given a "very heavy" answer to the question about parents' drinking habits in the Tecumseh study. The new tougher drunk-driving laws have many benefits for the driver.

Detroit's loss is hardly the suburbs' gain THE CONTINUING controversy involving the As things now stand, the government could grand jury investigation of the Vista sludge hauling contract and the series of charges about Magnum Oil's profiteering have damaged Detroit's government and reputation, according to Mayor Coleman Young.

It would be hard to fault his logic. For more than a year, we have been treated to allegations, charges and innuendo concerning—Detroit—officials—and Young's friends.

On the other hand. Young and his supporters claim his appointees and friends are the victims of politically opportunistic federal prosecutors, sensation-seeking media and racist white government personnel.

A COMMON PERCEPTION in the suburbs could well be that Detroit's government is cursed with rampant corruption, and that Young himself is either covering up or refusing to accept blame for wrongdoing in his administration.

Conditioned by the drama of Watergate and a surfeit of fandangos involving corrupt congressman, we wonder: Is there corruption? How high does it go? Is Young involved? What did he know and when did he know it?

Many suburbanites, long mistrustful of Young and his administration, now feel they have more, reason than ever to rail against special state and federal aid to Detroit. The stage is also set for possibly wresting control of the water and sewerage department from Detroit.

IN FACT, MOST of what has been reported about wrongdoing and the Vista contract has been revealed by a number of confidential sources who are said to be close to the grand jury investigation.

Few would expect that the press will refrain from publishing such information. The nature of the business is that newspapers will report information that it considers to be in the public's interest and truthful, if the information comes from someone whom the newspapers believe to be authoratative and reliable.

But there is no way for the reader to make the same decision — to determine that a leaker is reliable, or to decide that that the leaker is a self-serving law enforcement officer who, having convinced himself of someone's guilt, is not above using the media to try to establish that guilt.

WE CAN SUSPECT from the length of this investigation, the time between its onset and the indictments and the wiretapping of the mayor's town house that investigators were after someone higher up than director of the water department Charles. Beckham and Darrlyn Bowers. But that is also conjecture.

As things now stand, the government could in its best case prove that 1) a city official took a bribe to overlook the fact that 2) a bunch of whites got together with one of Mayor Young's black friends to set up a dummy corporation to take advantage of the city policy of favoring black firms.

This would mean that there is indeed an element of corruption in a city government with a billion-dollar-plus budget and 19,000 employees. But that is not rampant corruption nor reason to discredit the mayor and his administration's entire record in office.

UNTIL SUCH a time as guilt is proven, we do ourselves a disservice by focusing too intently on this aspect of Detroit's governmental problems. These problems are part of a larger mosaic which includes unemployment, aging housing, an aging and dwindling population, loss of businesses, loss of industries, an empty downtown, poor public transportation and, especially of late, a division between the city and the suburbs:

Detroit is the central city and the most important city in a fading state. Its vitality may not be as important as it was once to the state and to the suburbs, but it should be the one of cornerstones of our efforts to revitalize Michigan.

Convicting the city administration on the basis of leaks will not help us deal with our own problems. In fact, not giving it reasonable opportunity to come sout from under a cloud of supposition will, in the long run, be costly and deterimental to the entire metropolitan area.

Keeping your camera steady is critical to produce pictures that are sharp and clear. And the longer the exposure and the greater the focal length of the lens, the more important rigidity becomes.

THE BEST method of keeping your camera steady is by using a sturdy tripod.

With a tripod, shutter speed is not a critical factor, enabling you to concentrate on the aperture to obtain the depth of field you

If you don't have a tripod handy and there is nothing else to support the camera but corectly hold the camera and steady yourself will come in handy.

First, cup your camera in the palm of your left hand, using your thumb and forefinger to operate the focusing ring. Your right hand steadies the camera, and your forefinger trips the shutter.

Dig your elbows firmly into your rib cage to steady your upper body. Place your feet slightly wider than shoulder width. Take a deep breath, hold it and squeeze the shutter release.

UNDER NORMAL curcumstances, it is unwise to hand-hold your camera at any shutter speed slower than the reciprocal of the focal length of the lens. For example, you can hand hold your 50 mm. lens at 1/60 second or faster. But with a 200 mm. telephoto, you had better use a shutter speed of at least 1/250 second if you're going to hand-hold your camera.

But if low light dictates hand holding at slower shutter speeds, try leaning against a tree or wall to gain added rigidity. This way, you'll make yourself into a human tri-

Another method of steadying your camera is a miniature table top tripod, which is easily stowed in a camera bag and conveniently used on a car hood, table or even on the ground.

A monopod is a tripod with one leg. It's inexpensive, easily transported, lightweight, and can furnish adequite support at shutter speeds over 1/8 second.

You have a right to be proud. General Motors employes and retirees and their families have shown how much they care by how much they have shared. Despite hard times in our industry, you · have dipped deep into your own resources to help others.

Our Care & Share food-donation program is over now. But it was such a huge success that the food will go on being distributed for weeks to come. The figures are impressive. You donated 4 million cans of food and contributed another $1.3 million in cash. General Motors has contributed $3.3 million to match your cash contribution, dollar for dollar, and 50 cents for each can you gave. This adds up to some $4.6 million to purchase additional food. In all, your generosity will be sending the equivalent of 13 million cans of food to the hungry across America. You have provided. literally, 10 million meals to those in need.

A few days ago, I received a letter from President Reagan praising all of you "for your excellent example of concern and responsibility." The United Way of America has called Care & -Share "the largest and most comprehensive food-donation program ever conducted by private enterprise, noting that it reflects well on the compassion of General Motors and its employes:

Steelhead season will be early, productive

By Lem Mesee outdoors writer

Despite this week's snow, spring is early this year, and steelhead anglers should be testing their gear.

A hefty 20 percent of the 1.7 million fish planted in 1980 and '81 will run upstream this spring as 5- to 12-pound fighters, state fisheries biologists say. They were three to seven inches when planted.

On such western Michigan streams as the St. Joseph River, action on these lake-run rainbows should peak in early to mid-April. The St. Joe, which received heavy plantings, will see plenty of activity from Lake Michigan to the dam at Berrien Springs. Other pier fishing on Saginaw Bay at Caselarge runs are expected on the Grand. Jordan and Boyne rivers.

On eastern Michigan streams, prime time will be from mid- to late April. Lake Huron's most consistent areas are expected to be the Cheboygan River up Austin and at Port Sanilac and Lexingto the dam and the East Branch of the Au Gres River.

Go blues Accentuate positive, eliminate negative

By Sherry Kahan staff writer

How you feel depends on how you feel about what's happening to you. If you are depressed, the reason could be your negative thoughts. Cast out these thoughts in exchange for positive ones, and the dark mood could lift.

The concept offered to the Livonia Town Hall audience by Dr. David Burns was an optimistic one. It presented the possibility of self-cure of low moods, or if psychological help was sought, the possibility of a fairly quick solution.

Mood therapy or cognitive therapy were the names given this approach to depression when Burns, professor of psychiatry at University of Pennsylvania Medical School, first learned about

"I was committed at the time to using medication to treat depression," he said. "But I became disappointed. Many people were not getting better. Don't get me wrong. I don't say medication is wrong. I feel it is a weak tool.

"Then I heard of a new approach to moods that was radically different. It was very simple. It seemed too simple to be valid or useful."

Burns explained it was based on ancient Greek philposophy. Men are disturbed not by events, but by views they take of them.

"When you are feeling bad, anxious or inferior, you're thinking in a way that is illogical and negative," continued Burns, who is author of a book called "Feeling Good: The New Mood Therapy." "Negative thoughts make you feel depressed. On some level you are involved in mental error."

BURNS SET FORTH several forms of negative thinking. The all or nothing form leads a person to say, "If you don't love me all the time, you don't love me." Or take the overgeneralist, the woman on a det who sneaks a small dish of ice cream. She is so depressed by this lapse that she polishes off the whole quart. "She took a single negative event and saw a never ending pattern of defeat," pointed out the speaker.

There are also people who use what Burns calls a "mental filter," filtering out all the good things about themselves. They take a good remark or act and make it negative.

People who constantly say "I shouldn't have done that," should remember that they are human, and humans make mistakes, in Burns' opin-

"It would be more productive if they would stop scolding themselves and try to learn from their errors," he said.

Perfectionists also worry Burns. "They think they must be a success to be worthwhile," he said. "I believe perfectionism and depression go hand in Burns agreed, relating details of a case in which a TV performer who lost his job, left his girlfriend and the area where he worked. The perfomrer questioned how is girlfriend could still love him when he had lost his job.

"We have to help people develop unconditionalal self-esteem so they can respect themselves even if they fall short," noted Burns.

He also involved his audience in discussing the person who blames herself for the actions of others, claiming, "It self unhappy. It won't help you or was all my fault. If I love him I should be able to help him."

"Is it morally right to be happy when loved one suffers?" Burns asked those attending the celebrity luncheon at the Mayflower Meeting House following · the lecture.

The majority agreed it was. However, one woman compared taking no action to "washing one's hands" of resposibility.

"If you have a loved one not doing well, you can recommend treatment or counseling, noted Burns. "You can tell them you love them and are concerned. But you are not obliged to make your-

WHEN BURNS STARTED using techniques to identify negative thoughts and encourage positive ones in his practice, he was surprised to learn, "how much people are dumping on themselves."

"But my patients were feeling better," after the new treatment. "I was surprised at the results."

Lack of self-esteem lies behind a great deal of depression, Burns learned. "When people are depressed they feel they're no good," he said.

In fact, he said that a guilty mother . So he tries to teach his patients to inferiority listened to Burns echoing his own negative thoughts. "I'm inferior, of only average looks.

It's not in the works for me to be loved," Burns would say to him.

The patient would come up with positive reponses. "I'm of average looks, but I'm good enough to be loved."

Burns suggests that individuals feeling depressed write down their negative thoughts and confront them in much the same way. Instead of giving

OWLs push for nationwide Social Security reform

The Livonia Jaycettes recently held a Cutest Baby Picture Contest, the proceeds of which went to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Research to help infants like Timothy Ortogan. Pictures of the contest winners are on Page 3B.

Seven-month-old Timothy Ortopan of Redford sleeps with a monitor around his chest. If he fails to take a breath every 20 seconds, the monitor beeps.

"You wait 10 seconds to see if he will correct himself after the noise wakes him," explained his mother, Ellen Ortopan. "If he doesn't correct it himself, he is stimulated by a gentle shaking or patting on the back. He's winners of the Cutest Baby Picture contest sponsored by the Jaycettes. corrected himself every time he's had a monitor alarm."

Young Timothy is regarded by physicians as prone to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome. A premature baby, he was hospitalized 18 days after birth at which time he had a period of apnea, stoppage of breathing.

He went home with a monitor that consists of two electrodes attached to a Delcro belt. It monitors heart rate and respiration. But Timothy does not have heart problems.

Older Women's League (OWL) is making its first synchronized, nationwide effort to make Social Security a better retirement vehicle for women with the formation of a commission which addresses the problems women face in retirement.

Locally, the Farmington-Livonia area chapter has released a formal statement that it will join its sister chapters in the campaign. The first priority is to bring about equity in the laws that will give women the same retirement income as men.

"When we win this one, we'll start worrying about the others," said Gertrude Kirkwood, speaking for the area OWLs.

The one she refers to has been dubbed "Motherhood and Apple Pie" by the national OWLs which asks for a restructuring of Social Security so that credits can either be inherited or split for women in the case of death or di-combat what Kirkwood calls the "compromise" package the National Commission on Social Security has proposed in general and the postponment of COLA (Cost of Living Adjustments) in particular.

Either of those proposals passed would have been disastrous for women, but delaying COLA, even for six months, can be disastrous for a great many of them," she said.
While the OWL campaign will be facing these interim issues, its focus will be on long-range changes to make a more adequate retirement system, on all fronts, for women.

What OWL proposes, overall, is the recognition of marriage as an economic partnership.

This has been called "earnings sharing" and proposed for many years by many women's organizations. It is OWL's contention that the idea be seriously developed in a form that does not give advantage to one group at the expense of another.

Tuneful nostalgia aids Greenmead

Memories are something the Friends for the Development of Greenmead know a lot about.

Through a series of gala benefits, the Friends have raised $18,000 for restoration in the village that will have as its main focal point the re-created hamlet of Newburg that once existed at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Newburgh roads.

The Friends' current target is the Newburg Methodist Church. Restoration of the stately landmark is scheduled to be completed later this year.

In the past, the Friends' fundraisers have been a combination of a fashion show and dinner at various locations.

This year the Friends have chosen to forego fashions and substitute nostalgia in the form of a snappy Broadway-style re-

If Timothy had been born 10 years earlier there would have been no medical equipment to monitor his breathing. Understandably, Ortopan calls her son's magic belt "fantastic, a godsend."

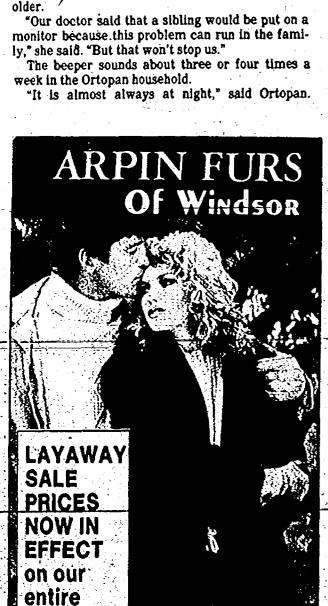

She has heard of a mother back then who set her alarm to awake her every hour so she could check her child's breathing. She said that a monitor is expensive, but Timothy's is rented.

Many children outgrow the problem in a year, sometimes two. The decision about removing the monitor is made after the child passes two test runs on a pneumogram, which tests irregularity in breathing patterns.

MEANWHILE, TIMOTHY is rarely far from his mother's side.

"Once I was in the kitchen running water," said Ortopan. "I didn't hear the beep, but my husband did. You are advised never to be farther than 10 seconds away when he's on the monitor. That means in a ranch house like ours I take him with me to every room. He goes to the basement with me when I put the clothes in the washer, and again when I transfer them to the dryer."

Ortopan believes her only child will be a well-adjusted, normal boy, who won't remember his earlier breathing problems. But she and her husband Ronald will explain the problem to him when he's troit News would have to go to the back of the dinner line. The Detroit News had just made allegations against his denomination.

Church people need a good sense of humor

THE ALLEGATIONS suggest something good. The churches involved are willing to risk as they meet human needs. In a polarized and revolutionary world risking meeting human need will plunge a church into potentially compromising situations. When such situations are distorted by the press and television, humor is the best response.

Rev. John Ferris, minister of Rice. Memorial United Metodist Church in -ment of Samaria by force? Redford, has replied with a humorous rendition of the parable of the Good Samaritan as it might be rewritten by the Reader's Digest.

A man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves who stripped him and beat him half dead. A priest and a Levite passed by without giving hime assistance. But a certain Samaritan saw him and said to him:

"I see that you're in a bad way and I'd like to help, but before I do, I need to ask you a few questions - first of all, are you now or have you ever been a member of any party or organization which seeks to overthrow the govern-

"SECOND, DO YOU support any government which is hositle to Samaria? Third, do you approve of Samaria's economic policies in developing nations? Fourth, have you made any statements critical of the Samaritan way of life or ever criticized Samaria as a flawed nation?

"Fifth, are you a ' romantic naive person' who believes that soical and economic justice is of equal importance to the freedom we Samaritans' enjoy? Sixth, before I give you any food or medical supplies, I need to have you sign an affidavit that you won't use them to benefit anyone who is unfriendly to Samaria."

By this time the man died for lack of care. The Samaritan continues on his___ journey thinking, "Oh, well, at least I know that my money won't go to any gestionable causes."

It is well established that humor can heal persons. This humor makes a point which it is well for us to consider.

Lawyer entertains out of the courtroom

By Karen Hermes Smith staff writer

Thursday, March 24, 1983 O&E

YOME LAWYERS ARE real entertainers when they address the judge and jury in the court-

Mark Kandel could do likewise.

But he saves his jokes, ventriloquism, mentalism and magic tricks for trade shows, conventions, parties and other get-togethers.

The West Bloomfield resident, who grew up in Southfield, is a general practice attorney with an entertainment business on the side. He is member of International Brotherhood of Magicians.

"What both do is keep me sharp," he said, adding that both require problemsolving skills. In law, he finds solutions to his clients' legal problems; in entertaining, he looks for ways to create new effects like making an elephant appear.

Kandel started in show biz long before law. He was fascinated by magic and ventriloquism as a child. He loved Mark Wilson's Saturday morning television show, "Magic Land-of Ala-Ka-Zam," featuring ventriloquist Shari Lewis and her puppet, Lamb Chop.

"Latter on in my teens, . . . I got interested in seances and ghosts. As I studied more, I developed a fascination for ESP-type things, and I began to specialize in mentalism (which involves telepathy and precognition)."

KANDEL, NOW 27, performed his first show at a bouse party when he was 13. He got the job by putting mimeographed "business cards" inside the newspapers he delivered along his

"After that, it was all word of mouth.'

In the early 1970s, while still a student at Southfield High School, he appeared on WXYZ-TV's "Super Circus," a Saturday morning program with Bob Hynes as ring master/host.

In 1980, Kandel won in both adultventriloquy and originality for his skit with "Baby Duckie" at a competition in Colon, Mich., the magic capital of the world. "Baby Duckie" is Kandel's handheld puppet whose "easy, devastatingly cute and precocious" personality he developed while going to law school.

He bills his shows, scheduled through the Seymour Schwartz Agency in Southfield, as "ESF" (extra-sensory fun). His promotional materials read, "Prediction: You will be amazed."

He combines all of his talents in his shows - magic, ventriloquy, mental, ism and comedy and will tailor them for specific audiences or guests of honor. His shows are geared for all ages; he develops most of his tricks.

'What I try to achieve more than anything else is entertainment."

One of Kandel's telephathic tricks involves naming, without seeing them, the words in a classified ad randomly selected from a page torn from a news-

KANDEL WAS graduated from Wayne State University's law school in 1980. He was always interested in law

- "advocating the rights of the underdog; arguing, analyzing" - and "At the time, it seemed to be a far more secure field" than radio, television and film, which he majored in as an undergradu-

Occasionally, Kandel will performmagic tricks for his client's children when they come with their parents to his office. While he's never tried it, magic could also be useful in demonstrating to jurors that what a witness thought he saw may not be what he actually did see, he said.

And, once in a while Kandel can sense when a person is lying to him.

But, magic and mentalism have no real place in his law practice or the courtroom, Kandel said.

ESP is so limited, he said.

"There's too much going on (in a court case). You're not dealing with simple symbols" (such as the five he uses in performing his telepathic tricks.)

Kandel is attracted to magic and mentalism because he likes being able to do things that appear impossible, he

"There's no doubt it's an ego boost. (And) I do like to see the people have a good time - I like to watch the read

'G-Men" (1935), 1 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 85 minutes.

James Cagney made his mark in gangster films of the early '30s - "The Public Enemy" and "Mayor of Hell" among them. By the mld-'30s, however, gangsterlsm in films was under attack by the Hays office and other censorship societies, so Warners turned Cagney into a law-abiding citizen. In "G-Men," Cagney plays a hoodlum who goes straight to track down underworld offenders. Robert Armstrong, Lloyd Nolan and Ann Dvorak also star. Rating: $3.05.

"Bound for Glory", (1976), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 147 popularized the "steady-cam" technique that allows the camera mobility while keeping the picture steady in "Bound for Glory" and won an Academy Award for his efforts. However, the film's beautiful photography contradicts the picture's focus on musician Woody Guthrie's awakening to the evils Flynn was denied (or, some say, avoid-of American society during the Great Depression. Still, David Carradine gives a fine performance as the folk singer and, though diminished by the cinematography, the film's theme emerges strong and clear, Rating: $3.

"Dive Bomber" (1941), in two parts at 1 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 133 minutes.

Errol Flynn is at his watchable best Cinematographer Haskell Wexler in unpredictable roles. Here he's a scientist trying to prevent blackouts in fighter pilots. Of course the script allows Flynn his moments of swashbuck-.. ling by placing him in the cockpit of some of the test planes. After all, you couldn't ask Errol to send up a kid in a crate like that. Keep in mind, too, that "Your Past Is Showing" (1958), 1 Wednesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 92 minutes. Peter Sellers and Terry-Thomas lead the cast of this humorous import from the heyday of British comedy films. The plot has something to do with community reaction to an avant-garde magazine, but of more interest are the brilliant characterizations created by the cast, many of whom you'll recognize from other period imports such as "The Man in the White Suit" and "I'm All Right, Jack." NCAA jaunt rates a huge Gold Star

You haven't experienced March Madness until you've been to an NCAA basketball tournament.

I had the privilege and the pleasure last weekend, joining a cast of characters that would rival the "Still the Beaver" group. Some came as far away as Illinois and Washington D.C. for the annual ritual of spring.

The destination was Louisville's Freedom Hall, a mammoth structure that can house any convention group or concert imaginable.

The card for the Midwest Regional was entertaining — Georgetown, Memphis State, Iowa and Missouri. There was also a couple of lesser knowns Alcorn State and Utah State.

The trip started in Plymouth at the residence of the tournament toastmaster, better known as "Delph" or "Hagler."

Our vehicle of transportation, a cross between a van and a motor home, was primed and ready to go at 7 sharp Friday morning.

The man responsible for getting us there was a guy called "Digger," a cross between a Teamster truck driver and Digger Phelps.

DIGGER'S son tagged along as well as Whitey, Sprout and the Whale. They were joined by four others and myself as we headed down I-75 to Louis-

Meanwhile, a guy, named Norm Cash, sitting up front, was setting up some betting pools for when we got to the arena. And nobody dared to sleep because Whale always had a prank up his sleeve.

But everybody was united on where to stop for lunch. It had to be Gold Star Chili in Middletown, Whale ordered all newcomers to get the Five-Way, a combination of noodles, onions, chili, cheese and beans.

Of course, I-tried the Five-Way and ordered a Cheese Coney on the side. That held me over for the rest of the seven-hour trip.

"It doesn't get any better than this," said Sprout.

OUR TOASTMASTER, Delph, greeted us at the Executive Inn. It was only two blocks away from the Exposition and State Fairgrounds (Freedom

The rooms were lavish and the prices were cheap. The food was fine. Both Iowa and Memphis State had set up quarters.

The place was crawling with Iowans. Guys like Olson, Stokes and Carfino were their Gods.

We got to Freedom Hall in plenty of time for the Friday night double-header. Our seats were in the end zone, but it didn't matter. We moved around a lot and found better vantage points.

Louisville fans, anticipating that their Cardinals would be playing at home, bought up all the tickets - 16,000 to be exact. And when the NCAA shipped their team to the Evansville regional, everybody was in a foul mood.

Dana Kirk, the Memphis State coach, was even booed during a television interview during halftime of the second game. It wasn't his fault they were in Evansville, but the Card fans let him know who was boss. Both schools play in the Metro Conference."

Louisville fans were paying scalpers in Evansville $250 per ticket to watch their beloved Cards. Meanwhile, tickets at Freedom Hall were easy to attendance. "We're going to fight, fight, fight for Iowa," chanted the troops. NATURALLY, I always root for the underdog. Alcorn put up a fight, but Ewing was too tough.

the crew headed for a delicious cuisine at Cliff Hagen's, owned by the former University of Kentucky great and current athletic director. Steaks were the main attraction. After a trip to Phoenix Hill, a popular nightspot of rock-and-roll and country-and-western, the Whale thought I was going to get in a fight when I fold a Tiger fan that the Blg East Conference, which includes the Georgetown Hoyas, was the best in the nation. He then said Dick Vitale was full of baloney and that really struck a raw nerve. I later told him I was for Memphis anyway and he became my friend. "I think it's great you came all the way from Detroit to see this," he said.

SOMEBODY THEN ASKED what and the heck a Hoya was. A Tiger fan came over and pulled out a card which explained where the name of the rock originated. He had gotten it from a Georgetown cheerleader.

Catholic Central run stopped

Late uprising puts Kettering in semifinals

By Brad Emons staff writer

What looked so promising at one time suddenly turned sour in the final minutes as Redford Catholic Central was ousted last night by Detroit Kettering, 60-55, in a Class A quarterfinal basketball battle before 4,188 fans at U-D's Calihan Hall.

The Pioneers, Public School League (PSL) runners-up, trailed most of the game until midway through the fourth quarter when point guard Terry Payne scored an easy layup after a CC turnover to make it 52-50.

Kettering clung to a one-point lead until reserve Maurice Bunting hit two free throws with 1:30 left for a 56-53 advantage.

The Shamrocks turned the ball over 11 seconds later and Kettering capitalized with 1:02 remaining on a basket by Murray, who tipped in his own miss. The Pioneers (22-3) then rode out the clock, advancing to Friday's semifinal game at Jenison Fieldhouse.

"WE LOST our poise and discipline, and I thought it would be the other way around," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki, whose team bowed out with a 21-4 record. "We played a good game for 28 to 29 minutes, and then we died in the last three minutes.

Kettering outscored CC 21-8 in the final quarter, missing just two shots. The Shamrocks, meanwhile, got away from their normal attack and it cost good," added Holowicki. "That's a man's team. We went flat and died, but they caused it, too."

Bunting, who dld not start, came off the bench to score 16 points. Derrick Kearney added 15, Murray contributed 13 and Payne had 10.

"CC was just great in the first half and we were just running around," said Kettering coach Arnold Nevels, who saw his team trail 33-25 at intermission. "Then we started rebounding and playing defense the way we can."

lost to a good team."

CC played inspired basketball in the first quarter, jumping out to a 18-15 advantage. The Sharnrocks, who confused Kettering with their match-up zone defense, continued the assault in the second quarter with a 15-10 surge.

McIntyre, who delighted the crowd with his passing and long-range shooting, connected on a 13-foot baseline shot as time expired to end the first

KETTERING made just nine of 33 shots during the first 16 minutes, but rallied by hitting 15 of 25 in the final two quarters. CC, meanwhile, was 13 of 20 at the half, but finished under 50 percent for the game with a nine for 26 performance in the second half. The Pioneers also enjoyed a 38-24 advantage on the boards with Murray grabbing 12 and 6-5 Robert Godbolt adding nine. Maleske hauled down 12 to

Lee Bjerke takes RU basketball post

By Brad Emons staff writer

Lee Bjerke has a big job ahead of

He has the task of rebuilding Red the way through." ford Union's basketball program. The 32-year-old Bjerke replaces Bill Foley, who retired at the end of the season, Bjerke was interviewed by RU athletic director Bob Atkins. His appoint: ment was confirmed by principal Bob Schramke.

"It's a real challenge - that's the way I look at it," said Bjerke, who was a two-year assistant under Foley. "Our biggest obstacle is not the kids. Wewere the only team in our league (Northwest Suburban) this year that didn't have a freshman program. And we had no elementary physical education. That really hurt us."

"But we'll have other programs outside the school which I'm working on." RU didn't win a game this season, losing 21 straight.

MONEY WOES were a factor in RU's demise when basketball-related programs were trimmed five years.

RU, however, did capture the 1980-81 NSL title. "I wanted the job five years ago because I taught at RU," Bjerke said. "I was ready then, but then I was pink-slipped." Blerke immediately moved to Willow Run where he is now a government teacher and attendance officer. He is also the varsity baseball coach and spent two years there as freshman basketball coach.

"I started programs before at Willow Run and most of my teams have been_ .600 (won-lost percentage) or better," he said. "It's going to be tough. I have to get the program straightened out all

One step in the right direction, according to Bjerke, is the reinstatement of freshman basketball.

"WE HAVE four starters back," Bjerke said, "but we'll still be fighting, and we don't have size. Our biggest kid in the program is 6-feet-4,

"But we should improve because we have some experience. We can only go new coach said. "But you have to spend time with them (the players) and do things together." Bjerke is a 1967 RU graduate. He was a three-sport standout there and later played basketball under Jim Dutcher and baseball under Ron Oestrike at Eastern Michigan University.

All-Area team is state quality

By Bred Emons and C.J. Risak staff writers

The unseen opponents.

It's what makes swimming such a difficult sport. A swimmer is in an environment that dulls or nullifies the senses. Vision is limited, hearing is distorted, and all that can be smelled or tasted is chlorinated water.

What a swimmer can feel - the water itself - is something he can neither clearly see nor grasp. It is one of the

The object in swimming is to see how fast a person can be propelled through this denser-than-air substance. Beating the competitor in the next lane is one of the swimmer's goals.

But beating the clock is just as im-

THOSE ARE THE unseen opponents server's All-Area swim squad. - the water and the clock.

Success is judged by the ticks of a clock, but timing is important in another sense. For swimmers, best, or peak, performances should come at the important meets at the end of the season.

For several swimmers in the Observer coverage area, season-end tapering paid off in big drops in times and better performances. Those are the athletes who were selected by local coaches to the Observer's All-Area 1982-83 Swim

The coaches selected the top swimmers in eight individual events and the two top relays. They also chose the area's best diver and picked four swimmers to at-large berths for outstanding performances in several events.

Here is this year's edition of the Ob-

Mark Kolon, Redford Catholic Central, 200-yard individual medley - It seemed fitting that Kolon was chosen in an event in which he displayed his ability to swim all four strokes.

During the season, Kolon, a sophomore, qualified for the state meet in three events: the 200 IM, the 500 freestyle and the 100 backstroke. He won the Catholic League 200 IM (2:04.4) and 100 back (58.66) titles.

At state meet, Kolon placed ninth in the 500 free (4:48.76) and 13th in the 200 IM (2:02.42). He was among the top eight in the area in five of eight swimming eyents: the IM, back, 200 and 500 freestyles and 100 butterfly.

Ashley Long, Plymouth Salem, 100yard breaststroke — Long had a tre-mendous drop in time as the season wound down. In mid-February, his time in the 100 breast was 1:05.9; third best in the area. At the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) meet, Long captured first in the event with a clocking of 1:03.03, a 21/2 second drop.

The Salem senior didn't let up, churning to a 1:01.77 at the state meet. An abundance of fast breaststrokers in the state this year meant Long's time, which would have placed him among the top 10 a year ago, was only good for 15th this season.

Long also excelled in the 200 1M. placing third in the WLAA champion-Kuri Hein, Livonia Stevenson, 100yard butterfly - Hein was "a real joy to coach", according to Spartan coach Doug Buckler. And with good reason. Hein was the fastest 50-yard freestyler in the area (22.4), winning the event at the WLAA championship meet, and was the top 100 butterflyer (54.7), finishing second in the WLAA.

At state meet, Hein swam the 100 fly and was part of the 200 medley relay team. A junior, Hein has already been designated as one of the Stevenson captains next year.

March Madness trip a fantastic experience

On Sunday afternoon, the crew found better seats and cheered for Memphis State, mainly because of their Pom-

Pon squad, the national champs. While they stole the show during halftime and timeouts, Keith Lee, a skinny 6-10 forward with long arms and processed hair, was putting on his own production on the floor, leading his team to victory.

The second game was all Iowa and their fans appreciated the performance even more. "If their was a puddle in the way and Lute Olson (the Iowa coach) had to cross the street, somebody would lay their coat down," said one Iowa native. During halftime of the Missouri-Iowa game, I spotted former Michigan great Rudy Tomjanovich smoking a cigarette in the concourse. He's scouting for the Houston Rockets now.

DIGGER, our steady man at the wheel, was ready for the long trip back. It rained steadily as we pulled onto I-65 around 6 p.m. and headed through southern Indiana, passing by my old alma mater along the way. Whale, Digger junior, J.S. and Sprout, meanwhile, started another Milwaukee sound?

marathon euchre game under a high stakes format.

The game started at about 6:30 p.m. and didn't end until 2 a.m. There were some anxious moments when Sprout and Whale had to pay up after being beaten soundly. "You guys don't have to get so serious," chided Whale. "This was just a friendly game." By that time we had already hit the blizzard around Fort Wayne and crawled home at about 35 MPH the rest of the way.

Through it all, Digger remained cool and calm. He battled the ice on the windshield and the hard-charging diesel trucks roaring carelessly to the side on the slick interstate.

WE ROLLED into Plymouth somewhat tired around 5 a.m., but spirits were still high. Our toastmaster, who traveled with another group on I-75 through Ohio, made it back about 2:30

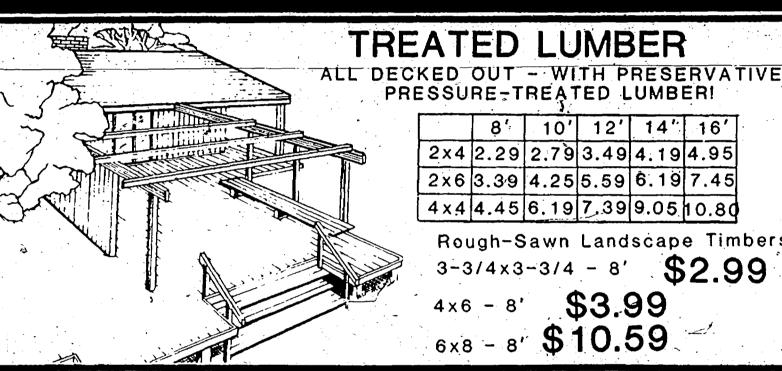

I caught some sleep and headed into the office at 2 p.m. Monday. Driving back I reflected on my March Madness experience. It was a blast.

I'd do it again. How does next year in

. Simone was efficient at all strokes but he was at his best in the freestyle events. He placed second in the 100 and third in the 200 at the WLAA meet and was also listed in the top eight in the area in the 500 free, the 100 breast and the 200 IM. He swam both the 100 and 200 freestyles at the state meet and was voted Most Valuable Swimmer by his teammates.

Dennis Keller, Livonia Franklin, 50. vard freestyle - Keller saved his best time for when it counted most - at the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) meet.

Keller had the fastest time in the preliminaries at 23.26. In the finals, the Franklin swimmer held off the challenge of Westland John Glenn's Mark Winfrey to take the title (22.930 to 23.020).

He also had a best time of 50.2 in the 100 free.

Kevin Everhart, Livonia Stevenson, 100-yard backstroke - Everhart served as a captain this year despite his sophomore status, because he was "the hardest worker on the team," according to coach Buckler.

Everhart won the WLAA crown in the 100 back (57.5) and qualified for the state meet. He also led off the Stevenson 200 medley relay team which won at the WLAA meet and qualified for state. Everhart was listed among the Observer's top eight in the 200 IM and 50 free as well as the back.

His role as captain has already been assured for another year.

Erik Kleinsmith, Plymouth Salem, 200-yard freestyle - A key swimmer on Salem's drive to the WLAA championship, Kleinsmith finished second in the 200 and 500 freestyles at the league meet and earned' All-Conference in both.

Kleinsmith's best in the 200 free was 1:48.9. He also had a 5:00.2 in the 500

swimming

free. Both were among the top clockings in the area.

Todd Riedel, Plymouth Salem, diving - Riedel earned Salem's Most Improved Swimmer award for this season, and with good reason. The senior, a four-time letterwinner, captured the WLAA diving championship and qualified for the state meet.

Riedel's total of 228.3 points during a dual meet was his high for the season.

Tom Hankins, Redford Catholic Central, 500-yard freestyle - Hankins captained the Shamrocks' Catholic League champions this season and finished in the top six in both the 200 and 500 freestyles at the conference meet. During his four years at CC, Hankins lettered four times and earned All-Catholic honors twice.

In each of the past two seasons, Hankins qualified for the state meet in the 500 free. His best clocking this year was 4:58.40. Distance is his speciality; he is ranked fourth in the 1,650 (16:51.32) and fifth in the 1,000 (10:09.39) freestyle events in the state. Upon graduation, Hankins will attend Virginia Military Institute on a swim scholarship.

Scott Sargent, Livonia Bentley, atlarge — Sargent was truly a swimmer of versatility and talent. The Bulldog junior qualified for the state meet in four events: the 50 (22.9), 100 (49.8) and 200 (1:53.2) freestyles and the 100 fly

Quite an achievement for someone who has been swimming competitively for only three years. Sargent was third in the 100 free and fourth in the 50 free at the WLAA title meet. It is hardly surprising that Bentley coach Dave Giandiletti is "looking forward to next year" with Sargent returning.

Matt Mair, Redford Catholic Central, at-large — Mair excelled in the distance freestyle events. He placed second for CC in the 200 (1:53.598) and 500 (4:59.583) freestyles at the Catholic League meet, finishing second to Birmingham Brother Rice's Robert Papp each time.

Both were his best times of the sea-

Pat Garvey, Livonia Franklin, atlarge - For Garvey, it was a season of accomplishment and heartbreak. He was rated among the top 10 in the Observer coverage area in both the 200 (1:54:4) and 500 (5:02.4) freestyles.

His best time in the 500 came at the perfect time: during the NSL championship meet. Garvey lowered his time more than eight seconds to win the event. However, someone whom officials ruled was associated with the Franklin team leapt into the water to congratulate Garvey before the race was over, a violation of the rules which caused Garvey's disqualification.

Chris Leslie, Redford Catholic Central, at-large - A sophomore, Leslie's goal at the start of the season was to break a minute in the 100 fly. He did that and more, winning the event in the Catholic League meet in 56.969. His best time of 55.9 earned him a trip to the state meet.

Leslie also placed second in the 50 free at the league meet (23.0) and, at state, he jumped from 30th to 20th in the 100 fly with a season best of 55.14.

Tim Harwood, Long, Mark Roehrig and Bob Bowling, Plymouth Salem, 200-yard medley relay - The Rock foursome had a season-best of 1:42.50, which earned them a 12th at the state meet and established a new team record.

Harwood, a senior, was 15th in the state in the back and second in the WLAA meet in the both the back and 200 IM. He holds the Salem team record for the 200 IM (2:04.3) and had a season-best of 57.44 in the 100 back.

Roehrig, a senior, was among the area's top swimmers in the 100 fly (57.8), finishing fourth in the WLAA championships. Roehrig served as cocaptain with Harwood for the WLAA champion Rocks.

Bowling was Salem's best sprint freestyler, with a best time of 23.0 in the 50 and a 50.5 in the 100. A junior, Bowling was third in the 50 and fourth in the 100 at the WLAA meet, Kleinsmith, Bowling, Harwood and Scott Anderson, Plymouth Salem, 400yard freestyle relay - This Salem quartet also shattered the school record and placed 12th at the state meet with a time of 3:18.08, three seconds faster than their previous best this season.

Anderson, a junior, was among the best in the Observer area in the 100 (50.5) and 200 (1:51.0) freestyles. He was fifth in both events at the WLAA

DRC opens thoroughbred slate

The gate will open Friday on Michigan's 1983 throfoughbred racing season with a special 10-race program at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia.

The feature program starts at 1:30

Thoroghbred racing will campaign for 92 days with the schedule calling for action Tuesdays through Sundays (except Easter).

Following last year's schedule, weekday racing will start at 2:30 p.m., featuring nine races.

Saturday and holiday racing will start at 1:30 p.m. with 10 races on the docket. The Sunday evening 10-race cards begin at 6 p.m.

DRC has adopted a new wagering format for the 1983 season. There will now be perfecta and trifecta betting on all races along with win, place and show wagering.

The Daily Double again will be featured on the first two races.

THOSE BETTING perfectss must select the first two horses across the finish line in the proper order to cash a winning ticket. In the trifecta, fans must pick horses correctly across the wire in the first three slots, The Daily Double requires the bettor to pick the winning horses in the first and second Veteran racing secretary E.J. (Bud) Sears said that already 800 horses are on the DRC grounds.

"Thanks to the great weather we have enjoyed in Michigan during the winter, the horses which have wintered here have had more than ample time to prepare for a long season," Sears said.

Sears has put together a stakes program, starting with the $15,000 Inaugural Handicap for older horses on the first Saturday of the meeting.

The $150,000-added Michigan Mile, which attracts many of the nation's top horses, will be run Saturday, June 18.3

The DOT provides public bus transportation to the track, at 1-98 and Middlebelt. Parking is available for 10,000 cars.

IN A RELATED move, state Racing Commissioner William Ballenger recently announced that he appointed Shella Gaudreau and Robert Clark as state stewards for the DRC thoroughbred race meeting.

Gaudreau becomes the first woman ever selected state steward in the 50year history of Michigan racing. It is believed she is also the only woman thoroughbred steward at a pari-mutuel track in the U.S.

Gaudreau, 52, of El Monte, Cal., and Clark, 51, of Hazel Park, have already started their new duties.

Taking a leave of absence from her duties at Santa Anita Park, Gaudreau has extensive experience in thoroughbred racing. The Canadian-born Gaudreau has owned, trained and raced horses in California and Canada, and has worked as a patrol judge, pacing judge and clerk at southern California tracks since 1983. She has a bachelor of arts degree from the University of British Columbia.

CLARK has served in various official positions in Michigan since 1969.

He left his job as assistant race secretary at Tampa Bay Downs to accept Ballenger's appointment.

Clark, an Army veteran who served in the Korean War, is a Michigan native. He was born and raised in Hazel Park where he currently lives with his wife Mary, and his three children, Brian, Mary Kathleen and Ann Marie.

Winetasters group picks chardonnays

At a recent gathering of the Wine-tasters, 40 people sampled some of the finest chardonnays from California. The group tasted five wines from Chateau Montelena and five from Chateau St. Jean, two of the most consistently successful producers of this wine over the past decade.

The wines chosen were selected on the basis of anticipated quality and local availability. Because those can be bought - although at fairly considerable cost - at most quality-oriented retail outlets, it seemed appropriate to report the results here.

So, if your thoughts are wandering toward acquiring a few $15-$30-a-bottle chardonnays; perhaps these results will be of help to you. Listed is the name of the wine, the vintage, appellation, local price, 1-9 score scale and rank.

Chateau Montelena, 1980, California, $19, 6.7, 1.5; Chateau St. Jean, 1980, Belle Terre, $22, 6.7, 1.5; Chateau St. Jean, 1979, Belle Terré, $18, 6.5, 3; Chateau Montelena, 1979, Napa, $26, 6.3, 5; Chateau St. Jean, 1979, Robert Young, $26, 6.3, 5; Chatean St. Jean, 1980, Sonoma, $15.50, 6.3, 5; Chateau St. Jean, 1979, Gauer, $22, 6.1, 7; Chateau Montelena, 1979, California, $19, 6.9, 8; Chateau Montelena, 1977, Napa, $23, 5.6, 9; and Chateau Montelena, 1978, Napa, $30, 5.2, 10.

ON A RELATIVE scale, the 1980 Chateau Montelena must be considered a best buy, at least from this rather exotic sample. It was an extremely warm, genteel, very classy wine with a lovely balance of acid, wood and fruit.

Interestingly, I did not especially enjoy the '80 Belle Terre. It seemed to have an odd presence, a bit of an off-taste. But, clearly, I was in the minority on this.

The interesting thing about the wine

whole tasting, however, was the overall excellence of the wines. While it can be agreed that, at these prices, they should be special, that does not always follow. We have all drunk a great many $15-$18 chardonnays of most inferior workmanship. But not so here. All possessed lovely fruit and none had lost its flavor through overoaking. All had good acidity and were well constructed.

Additionally, the internal consistency showed for each vineyard. The St. Jean's tended toward opulence and a bit of butterfat. The Montelena's were leaner and deeper and had a bit more complexity.

All in all, an evening to say these two wineries really know how to handle the chardonnay-grapes, as they have consistently done over the last decade.

For further information on the Winetasters, drop me a note at the Observer & Eccentric offices, 1225 Bowers, P.O. Box 503, Birmingham 48008.
