Westland, Michigan

TRADITION is a big part of the Fourth of July celebrations on Melyin Street in Westland. This is the 27th year that Stan Mikelsayage and his family have entertained the neighborhood on the holiday by playing the drums with stirring renditions of appropriate patriotic fare.

AFTER 1½ years of work, Madison Elementary School students presented a tile mosaic they made to the school. Students made and colored clay tiles for the project after Charles Berels, their art teacher, ran a contest to determine the design to be used. The winning design was created by Debbie Couch, who was a sixthgrade student at Madison this year. The framed, 3-by-4-foot mosaic is hung outside the school art room.

Other Madison students, who are members of the student hot line organization, were instrumental in getting a state flag for the school flagpole as part of their Michigan Week celebration. Helping with the project was state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, who obtained a flag that had flown over the state: Capitol. The hot line organization is an advisory group to Madison's principal, Donald Massey.

Council rejects mayor's appointee

By Sandra Armbruster editor

Westland's department of parks and recreation will continue without a director, at least temporarily.

After last month postponing a vote on the appointment of Deborah Block as department head, the city council turned down the request of Mayor Charles Pickering to confirm his appointment of Block.

"We turned her down until Ralph Tack's case is out of court and the mayor had paid him his just dues," said councilman Robert Wagner.

Tack was laid off by the mayor in January to cope with a budget deficit. After Tack sued for vacation, sick and compensatory pay he says is coming to him, the mayor decided to fire him and appoint a replacement.

Wagner said that the council is concerned that the court may rule that Tack still has the job.

"That department's been run for six months under the mayor. There's no necessity for a quick decision now," Wagner added.

A "VERY DISAPPOINTED" mayor argues, however, that there's plenty of reason Block should have been appoint-

"The council's decision had nothing to do with Deborah's ability or experience," said Pickering. "I'm disappointed they choose for political reasons and their obvious support of Ralph Tack as a reason (to reject Block)."

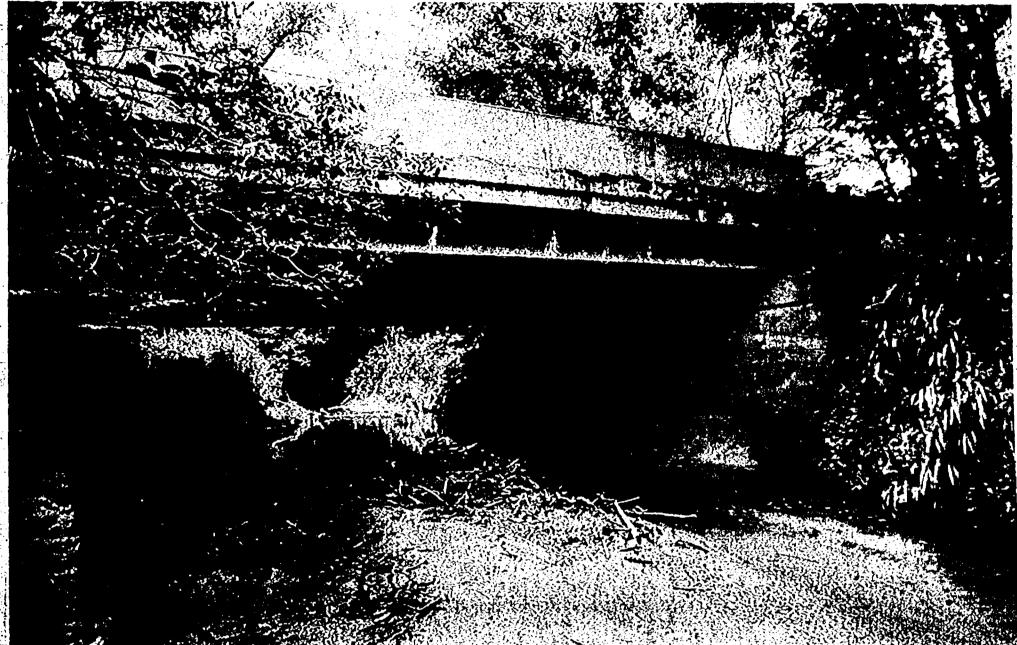

Council members have argued in the past that Tack was laid off and then fired because of city politics. Tack was chosen as department head some years ago over the protest of Pickering, who had expected to get the job.

The mayor said that council's concern about having two directors "doesn't hold water." Money for Tack's sick and vacation pay has been budgeted but can't be paid until there is a full. hearing on the issue by the court, Pickering said.

Pickering said he would meet with the city attorney to iron out any misunderstanding over the status of the court

City seeks grant for bridge repair

Westland is seeking a federal grant to pay for 90 percent of the cost of repairing the Hix Road bridge over Tonquish Creek.

City officials expect to know in August whether the grant has been awarded under a new federal highway bill, which took effect in January. The new bill provides for a four-year continuation of spending for critical bridge construction.

Repairing the Hix Road bridge will cost $106,705, said Henry Lundquist, department of public service director. The 10 percent cost that the city would have to bear would come from the city's major road fund.

While repairs to the bridge would be extensive, it wouldn't be completely replaced, Lundquist said. Repairs would be made to the decking and the under structure of the bridge, he said.

"From our yearly inspections, we know the bridges that are in bad shape. We try to keep the (repair) program going. Last year, we did the Newburgh

If the grant is approved, the project will begin next spring, Lundquist said.

OTHER ROAD construction in the city is on time, Lundquist said, but some business owners have been upset with problems created by the road-

"Not too many are upset on Wayne Road. Merchants are pleased that they're getting rid of traffic hazards." A left-turn lane at Hunter and Wayne roads is expected to cut accidents at that intersection, Lundquist said.

"On Ford Road, they're (merchants) upset because the work is hampering their operations. I sympathize with them, but we've got to move along andmake the improvements."

The Westland Chamber of Commerce has received some complaints from Ford Road businesses, but the complaints are "no more than last year," said Joyce Wheeler, executive secretary for the chamber. The primary complaint is about lack of access to the business itself.

THE CHAMBER, WHICH has an office on Ford west of the city hall, works with the business community and the city to help iron out problems, Wheeler

"Some are concerned now that curb cuts are being made. They think the curb cuts aren't where they agreed they should be. So we work with the engineering department.

"Someone from the department usually gets out that same day, and it's to their (city's) adavantage to nip something in the bud if it's going in wrong."

Particular trouble spots along Ford Road, Wheeler said, include the area near Westland Lock and Key and Dairy Dan, where the road narrows.

"It's really the pits. You have to hunt where to go in. People go down Dowling and turn around in our parking lot because they can't find where to turn in for city hall, the courts and the police

Seasonal businesses like Dairy Dan are particularly hard hit by the construction. Wheeler said, and the Ford Road McDonald's has been limited to only one opening for an entrance and exit, hurting its drive-through business.

on auction block Lucas puts hospital

By Tim Richard staff writer

County Executive William Lucas already has begun negotiating to sell or lease Wayne County General Hospital said even good management will be unable to correct.

Lucas's announcement came only a day after the Wayne County Commission defeated an ordinance proposal by Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, that would have set up a commissioncontrolled board to operate the hospital

NYSTROM TOLD a news briefing (WCGH), citing high deficits which he several parties are interested - "some are enthused" - about acquiring WCGH, whose depreciated book value is $15 million.

The Lucas administration is confident it can sell or lease the hospital without approval of the County Commission. A spokesman acknowledged the county has a charter obligation to provide hospital "facilities" and service, but not necessarily to run a hospi-

An audit report by Touche Ross & Co. said WCGH revenues are running-$14 million less than its $64 million expenses while hospitals of similar size normally have operating surpluses of $1.8 million or more.

"SOME FACTORS can be controlled by hospital management while other factors are not controllable because they are governed by county policies or by agreements with labor unions," said the administration's summary of the Touche Ross report.

The auditors put heavy emphasis on WCGH's labor costs, which it said were 50 percent per employee higher than at other area hospitals.

The Lucas administration's decision to negotiate sale or lease had been preceeded for months by statements that the county would have to cease operating the hospital unless major contract concessions were made by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), which represents about 900 of the staff. No concessions were made.

A MAJOR reason cited by commissioners for continued county operation was care of the indigent (persons with neither insurance, government programs nor cash to pay their bills).

But Nystrom underscored a Touche Ross finding that "only 6.2 percent of all inpatients treated at WCGH are indigent. ... In most cases, it is likely that these patients could receive treatment at other hospitals covered under the Wayne County T-82 program or other medical assistance programs.

The unit will spend six months overseas as part of the Marine Corps's unit deployment program. The concept is designed to rotate whole battalions of squadrons at a time instead of individuals at separate intervals. Marine Pvt. Alfredo Martinez Jr.,son of Rebecca Bangert of Westland and Alfredo Martinez of Dearborn Heights, recently participated in the exercise, "Kernel Blitz 83" on the coast of southern California.

He is a member of the 5th Marine Amphibious Brigade, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Kernel Blitz was a nine-day U.S. Navy Third Fleet training exercise involving more than 7,000 Marines and sailors, 10 ships and 40 aircraft. The exercise tested the capability of the Navy and Marine Corps to evacuate American citizens from a hostile area and project combat power ashore.

The Navy conducted training in the embarkation of Marines, live firing was conducted at the San Clemente Island range and an embassy evacuation exercise took place at Camp Pendleton. Both helicopter and surface assault forces were involved in an amphibious landing that included simulated aircraft bombing runs and artillery fire.

Kernel Blitz is one of a series of exercises designed to test and refine the abilities of Navy and Marine Corps amphibious forces.

PROTECTING PRIMARY TEETH

You may not be overconcerned about your child's primary teeth because these "baby teeth" will eventually be replaced by permanent teeth. But you should be. The health and care of your child's teeth will have a direct effect on the condition of his permanent teeth when they're ready to make their appearance.

For example, any decay can be hazard-ous. Left untreated, the affected tooth may break or be lost before its time. This may cause the permanent teeth to become crowded or crooked. Decayed or lost primary teeth may also cause speech difficulties and affect the child's personality and his appetite. He may find cold, hot, or hard foods difficult to eat. Decayed and infected teeth can also cause other health problems when left untreated.

it's never too early for you to have your child's teeth examined by your dentist. In fact, the earlier the better so any existing problems can be treated and his dental health protected.

New breed of bankers 'sell' service to customers

By Robert Downes staff writer

VISIT TO your local bank used to be somewhat like a trip to an appliance store.

Plunking down your hardearned pay for a new savings account could insure the promise of a new toaster, eggbeater, radio, or some other gizmo designed to lure the money out of your pocket and into the bank's cash flow fund.

Banks are still using the carrotand-stick approach when it comes to luring customers, but the bait in the deregulated industry of the '80's is likely to be more sophisticated than a toaster. Bankers say that the new lures are also more profitable for the customer in terms of convenience and investment.

"Banks are going to change more in the next five years than in the past 50," predicts Robert Scott, senior vice president in charge of retail banking for Michigan National Bank of Detroit.

SCOTT SAID THAT the deregulation of banks in recent years in terms of interest rates, territories, and definitions of what constitutes a bank have led to an explosion in activity as... banks try to sell themselves to the public.

"While banks weren't aggressive in sales in the past, they're going to have to start being aggressive to survive," he said.

For Michigan National, the new approach to banking has meant putting sales people out on the streets, pounding the pavement in search of new business customers. Recently, the bank trained 120 officers and managers in sales techniques in order to charge-up the new electronic banking offices which it is opening throughout

Where banks used to open the door and wait for customers, we're going out and looking."

THE BANKING INDUSTRY di-vides business operations into two spheres of activity called retail and wholesale banking, Scott said. Retail banking is aimed at securing the investments of the average person, while wholesale banking pursues corporate accounts.

"With banks unregulated, like any other retailer, we're trying new tactics," he noted.

While many banks still offer items such as Corelle Ware table settings to bring customers in, there is a heightened awareness of providing better investment options and services to the customer.

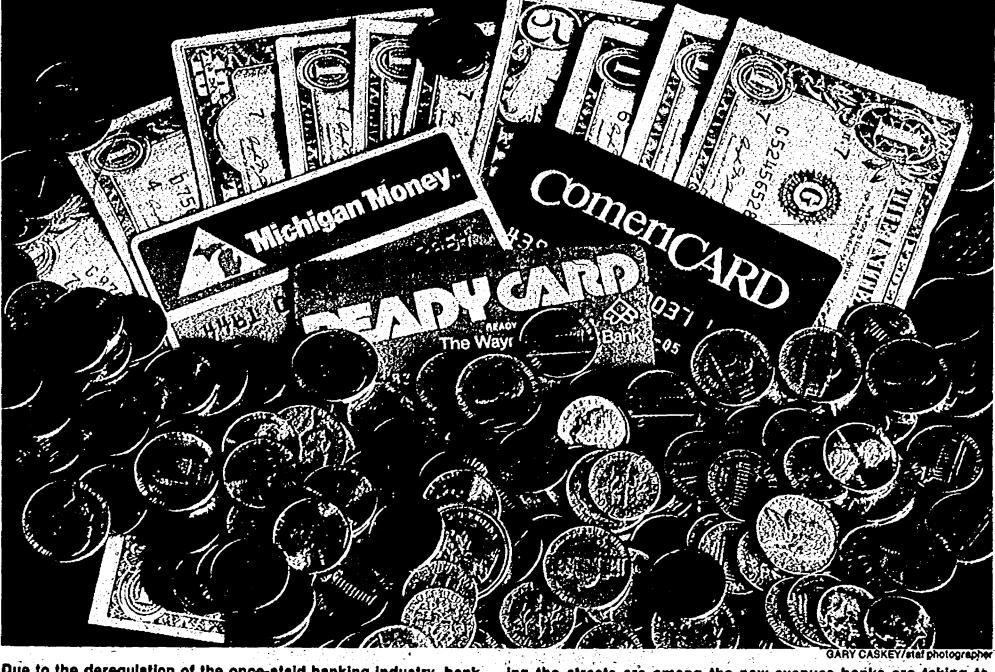

Standard Federal Savings, for instance, has an approach which combines interest incentives with the giveaway of telephones. The customer can buy 4-to-10-year savings certificates at rates up to 11.25 percent and receive the gift of a telephone to COMERICA BANK offers its customers The College Fund. Tony Spanke, a product representative with Comerica, said that the plan is designed to help customers save for their children's college education while sheltering their investment at the same time.

Spanke said that customers typically discuss one of four investment plans with a bank counselor, starting with how old the customer's child is and what sort of future college costs are expected.

Customers can then invest in one of seven savings certificate plans or in seven stock and bond funds. The tax on the investment is sheltered by placing the account in the name of the child, who has little or no tax obliga-

"It's a brand new type of account,"

Due to the deregulation of the once-stald banking industry, bankers are now free to "sell" their services as never before. Direct mail, automatic tellers, electronic bank offices and salespeople pound-

Spanke said, adding that as yet, no other bank in the country has a program structured the same way.

CONVENIENCE in banking is another strategy being used to attract customers. Increasingly, automatic bank tellers and branch offices are opening in shopping centers and supermarkets to take advantage of the one-stop shopping concept.

Jim Barritt, manager of Michigan Savings and Loan, said that his association has four different branch offices in Meijer. Thrifty Acres stores located in Troy, Canton Township, Battle Creek and Muskegon. At the Troy branch, Barritt said that 40,000-60,000 Meijer's customers pass his office each week.

"What we've found is that people who regularly shop at Meljer's prefer us over other banks," Barritt said. "If they're shopping and they find that they're low on cash, they can just stop

While the shopping center concept has been popular with customers, Barritt noted that it has also created problems because of the expense of staying open the 97 hours per week that Meijer's operates. The association has had to cut back on its hours of operation. It is presently being acquired by Mutual Savings of Bay City, however, which reportedly intends to continue with the shopping center

ONE WAY that banks beat'salary expenses and serve customers at the same time is through the use of automatic tellers.

At Michigan National, vice president Scott noted that the bank has 700 such tellers in place across Michigan, making it the statewide leader in the use of the devices. Michigan National is also pioneering the streets are among the new avenues banks are taking to secure investments.

ing the use of electronic banking offices. One such office, featuring two automatic tellers and safety deposit boxes, opened July 5 in Birmingham.

Each electronic bank has one employee on hand at all times to help customers open new accounts and operate the machines, Two bank offie are also assigned to go out and sell the bank's merits to the business community. Recently, Michigan National received media attention when it announced a limited time offer of 13 percent interest on money market savings accounts. There were claims that the bank was limiting the offer to privileged customers in Grosse Pointe Farms and Farmington.

Scott noted, however, that the bank has offered the 13 percent interest rate in several communities where electronic banks have opened. The 13 percent interest rate is just a sales gimmick like the appliances of bygone days.

"Toasters and special rates are very similar products," he said. They're both something to bring you

LUCAS SUPPORTERS expected Beard's ordinance proposal to pass but it was defeated because it could not gain the eight yotes needed (out of 15 commissioners) to keep the hospital operating under a commission-controlled

Senators reject putting their investments in trust

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 23-29. SENATE

INCOME: By a vote of 34-58, the Sénate rejected an amendment requiring senators to place in trust any "unearned" income exceeding 30 percent of their government salary ..

Unearned income comes mainly from investments.

This was a sequel to the recent vote limiting "earned" outside income such as speech honoraria to 30 percent of senators' $69,800 salary.

There is no limit on investment income, which angers less prosperous senators who had profited nicely from speech fees.

With this amendment, they retaliated against the many Senate millionaires who had voted to limit their honoraria.

Sponsor Jake Garn, R-Utah, said "I do not expect this to pass. I would expect the demogogs and the hypocrites to vote much as they usually do."

'There is not a single rich boy on the floor to defend himself.'

— Jake Garn, R-Utah

No opponent spoke against the amendment, and Garn observed "there is not a single rich boy on the floor to defend himself."

Senators voting no opposed the trust requirement for investment income. Michigan's Democratic senators split their voits. Carl Levin voted no. Donald Riegle voted yes.

ABORTION: By a vote of 49-50, the proposed constitutional amendment enabling federal and state legislatures to outlaw abortions failed. A two-thirds majority, 67 votes, was needed for pas-

Seeking to nullify the 1973 Supreme Court decision Roe V. Wade, the amendment said: "A right to abortion is not secured by this Constitution."

"this nation, with the possible exception of Communist China, has the most radical abortion laws of any nation in the world."

Opponent Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said that "by seeking to force all women into childbearing (the amendment) undermines their ability to control their bodies and their lives."

Senators voting yes supported the constitutional amendment. Levin and Riegle voted no.

TAX CAP: The Senate refused, 45-55, to cap the personal income tax cut that took effect July 1.

This killed the House-passed bill (HR 1183) that was originated by Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., as a major challenge to the Administration's economic recovery plan.

The cap would have cost the wealthiest taxpayers while preserving the full benefit of the cut for the remaining 90 percent of taxpayers.

The 10 percent cut brought to 25 percent the cumulative cut in rates since Sponsor Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said 1981 under President Reagan's supplyside program.

Supporters said the cap would narrow the deficit by $6 billion and add fairness to the president's program, while foes said it would retard the recovery now in progress.

Senators voting yes wanted the July 1 tax cut to be less beneficial to the wealthiest taxpavers.

Levin and Riegle voted yes.

PROBE: The House voted 256-161 for a secret rather than open probe of widespread, anti-GOP distortions in the

Supporter Jim Wright, D-Tex., said the Ethics Committee probe "protects the rights of individuals as well as the honor of the House."

Opponent Robert Michel, R-Ill., said-'what is at issue here is the integrity of the House . . . Our records are the heart of our legislative process." Members voting yes favored a closed-door probe of the misconduct by Democratic staffers.

Voting yes: Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit and Sander Levin, D-Southfield. Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth and William Broomfield, R-Birming-

Not voting: William Ford, D-Taylor.

VETO: By a vote of 238-137, the House passed a bill (HR 2668) that keeps the Consumer Product Safety Commission in existence but with a smaller budget and less power than its most ardent backers wanted. The bill (HR 2668) contains the first Capitol Hill response to the Supreme Court decision outlawing the "Congressional veto" lawmakers had used to kill regulations and other executive branch actions they disliked. It proposed using joint resolutions to replace the congressional veto. However, this is a weaker tool because it needs presidential approval to take effect. The bill, which was sent to the Senate, authorized a fiscal 1984 commission budget of $35.7 million. Many members voting no disliked the hasty attempt to replace the congressional veto or thought the bill too

But the surprise is that the recently modernized glass front at 20550 Eight Mile, Southfield, doubles as a solar heating system.

"The solar system turned out to be cost competitive with standard building treatments," said owner Bob Bruning, "and could bring heating gains along with the exterior treatment."

Although it is too early to enjoy the heat-gathering elements of the system, Bruning is pleased.

NEW THERAPY IN THE TREATMENT OF BACK PAIN

As you may know, treatment for chronic back pain often fails to give long term relief. A new therapy, trans-cutaneous electrical nerve stimulation or T.E.N.S., may correct this shortcoming.

invariably, pain feels worse at night. The reason is that during the day there are many stimuli competing for the attention of our brain, at night this activity slows and the body receives the message of pain with no Interference.

T.E.N.S. provides this counter stimulus. The apparatus is strapped to the user's waist and its elec-trodes are attached to the painful area in the back. The impulse is repetitive and continually occupies the eceptors receiving information of pain, its excitation is mild so no burn or irritation arises on the skin at the point where the signal begins.

T.E.N.S. has its limits. At times the intensity of the pain may be great enough to overcome the electrical stimulus, the adhesive required to hold the electrodes in place can cause skin irritation. Finally, since some causes of back pain require specific medical or surgical treatment, it is necessary to see a doctor before you undertake T.E.N.S. therapy.

Mistrust nurtures super sewer

THOSE OF us on the outside looking in are a mite puzzled at the state Department of Natural Resources' decision against funding the big "super. sewer" project which suburban Wayne and Oakland counties.

Detroit says there is enough sewage treatment capacity in existing southeastern Michigan plants. Suburban county officials say a new plant and 60-mile-long sewer are badly

Detroit says its sewerage system has contracts with many of the western Wayne County communities, obliging them to send their wastewater to Detroit. Suburban county officials say they have no intention of diverting flows away from Detroit.

Detroit says population growth is at a standstill and $298 million in new facilities aren't needed. Suburban county officials have a more boisterous view of the 1980s and '90s.

Take your pick.

life, however, that suburban customers of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department simply don't trust the central city's handling of a regional facility.

They don't like the way Detroit sets prices. They don't like the way Detroit fails to collect its own residential bills and contrives to pass on those costs to the suburbs. They don't like the way Detroit appears to have lavished money on consultants and indulged in cronyism in its building of the system.

And in particular, suburban customers don't like the fact that they have no real voice in the management of a multi-county system that serves 100 communities.

They have a case.

THE DETROIT Water and Sewerage Department has constanty opposed super sewer. Director Charlie Williams' letter to the DNR opposing aid to super sewer was the final blow to the suburban project.

Yet the economic fact of life is that IT'S A HARD, mean, political fact of Detroit doesn't own its sewage treatment plant the way the stockholders own General Motors.

Quite the contrary: Suburban water and sewerage customers, suburbanites paying federal taxes and suburbanites paying state taxes have paid for the system. Those "Detroit" facilities were built from operating revenues, state and federal aid. -

 YET DETROIT has 100 percent po-" litical control over all members of the governing board. It isn't fair.

One wonders what the attitude of DWSD might have been if state law were reformed to give suburbanites their fair voice on the water board. Possibly DWSD still would have argued super sewer is a waste of money. If so, the argument would have carried far more weight.

Suburbia's trust of Detroit is dipping even lower with the super sewer episode. But until the Michigan Legislature reforms state law to give us paying customers our fair voice in DWSD, the distrust will remain.

Strategic investment fund: workable or paperwork?

FIRST, THE bad news: Associate Financial Services Co., Credit Thrift of America, Transamerica Financial Corp., Commercial Credit Plan, Inc., Dial Finance Co., Liberty Loan Corp.,

Avco Financial Services Co., Aetna Finance Co.

and now Beneficial Finance Co. have all pulled out of this state. They said no to Mich-

Now the good news: Gov. James J. Blanchard is asking the Michigan Legislature to set up a "Michigan Strategic Fund to stimulate formation of venture capital. The description is fuzzy, but it seems the governor wants to use $54 million in state funds to "leverage" private banking capital and diversify the state's moribund, auto-oriented economy.

Tim Richard

REASON FOR the bad news is that Michigan has usury laws with the good intention of keeping the mean old capitalist from putting the screws to the humble husbandman and consumer.

We've read about such laws in the Bible. Shakespeare fans remember the character of the loan shark Shylock in "Merchant of Venice." It's not Christian for lenders to sock borrowers big high interest rates to borrow, and the Michigan Legislature, unions and consumer groups agree.

Only trouble is that it doesn't work. If a borrower can't make what he/she/it considers an adequate return on capital, the borrower looks elsewhere, which is one reason Michigan is so short of capital. Our interest rates are nice and low, but there's no money to borrow.

Now, finance companies don't provide venture capital to future Apple Computer companies, but they are part of the total supply side of credit. If the finance companies skedaddle because of our interest rate regulations, then borrowers must go to banks, savings and loans and credit unions. And that means the other institutions have less money to loan to entrepreneurs.

CLEARLY, BLANCHARD needs to clean up Michigan's interest rate act if we are to capitalize new businesses which will hire us good working folks.

The governor hasn't commmitted himself to do that yet. He has political troubles on his left. The United Auto Workers and consumers groups, which believe in low interest rates the way a dog believes in bones, are making the governor pause.

At his news conference last week, Blanchard left us the clear impression he would like to move away from the unrealistic 12 percent rates. He is "negotiating" with all sorts of pressure groups on his economic program.

I'm inclined to have faith. This governor, despite his political support, is not a flaming liberal to whom "corporation" is a dirty word.

HIS STRATEGIC Investment Fund is the new name for his 1982 campaign promise a "strategic investment bank."

I hope it works and want it to work, but there is a nice question of a state bureaucracy financing fledgling businesses.

Look at it this way: Entrepreneurs operate on a handshake and trust in one's character. They talk and work with their hands. They're not writers and lock-step planners.

Well, the Blanchard fund is supposed to work through a nine-member board which will study and evaluate project proposals. To me that sounds like the kind of writing and paperwork that entrepreneurs don't do. Can you imagine Henry Ford I or Andrew Carnegie filling out a project proposal form projecting five-year business activity levels?

Yet if Blanchard can send a message to the financial community that economic adventurers are welcome in Michigan — well, bless him.

Plan to sell hospital worth pursuing

WAYNE COUNTY Executive William Lucas' idea of selling Wayne County General Hospital and having someone other than Wayne County run the hospital is certainly one worth pursuing.

Lucas has met a great deal of opposition to diminishing the county's role in the hospital. Doctors, employee groups, citizens in the area and champions of the poor and underprivileged have spoken against stopping the county's commitment.

Many fear closure, or the possibility that poor people who have no health insurance will no longer be able to receive hospital treatment when it is needed.

BUT, WAYNE County General is a drain on the county treasury that the county can no longer afford. The county government has for some time seemed incapable of dealing with outrageous labor costs because of union contracts and the unwilllingess of entrenched interests to change hospital

According to an accounting report, the hospital is losing $14 million a year while similar hospitals are finishing a million in the black. County hospital employees — one-third of all the county's general government employees — are paid twice as much as other hospitals, the accounting report said.

Lucas's staff asserts that the poor would still receive services, paid for by the county, whether the county operated by some private, or semipublic organization, or even whether it is closed Lucas' chief of staff Dennis Nystrom said that only 6 percent of the county hospital patients are indigents and these patients can be absorbed by other hospitals.

LUCAS HAS at times stumbled in his new role as county executive, but he is to be commended for his unflagging efforts to initiate actions which could lead to cost reduction and county effi-

THERE IS a great battle looming on the horizon. It is not going to be fought with fire arms, missiles or bombers. Instead it will be fought with millionaires' dollars.

, It is the battle for prestige on the sports scene and it promises many interesting events before it is ended.

It will be a battle among John Fetzer, owner of the Tigers; William Clay Ford, owner of the Detroit Lions; and Alfred Taubman, the shopping center tycoon who holds the major interest in the Detroit Panthers.

The first signs that there would be a real war-came earlier this year when Taubman and his mates purchased a franchise in the United State Football League — an upstart with fancy ideas. At first it was thought to be a joke in that the football teams agreed to play in the spring instead of the fall. "It will never go," sports fans insisted. And at the Lions office in the Silverdome it was thought to be a rich man's fancy that would soon be outlived. When the Panthers lost four of their early games, it became more of a joke. Then something happened. The team started winning and, to the surprise of everyone, won the division the Tigers in each of their four games during the July Fourth home stand.

That means that the Tiger officials have been given warning that they will be in a fight for prestige from a source they didn't expect.

AND WILLIAM Clay Ford no longer can sit back and watch the Lions miss the play-offs. With the Panthers winning titles at cheaper prices to the fans, the Lions are in for some tall figuring to ward off the newcomers.

So Mr. Fetzer who has been sitting smugly with a team that hasn't been a real factor for 15 years, will have to do some switching of policy in order to bring Detroit a winner. And Mr. Ford, the Lions no longer can chuckle at the Panthers who were a bunch of unknowns when the new league started.

It should be an interesting bit of warfare as these millionaires put their dollars on the firing

County sheriff wants OK to double-bunk jail prisoners

Wayne County will ask state permison for "double-bunking" prisoners as seeks solutions to its jail overcrowdg problem. 🕒 🧸

Two chief judges — Richard Dunn of ayne County Circuit Court and Samu-Gardner of Detroit Recorders Court said they would lend their support to ays to handle minor offenders other an "sticking them in the pokey."

'We don't have the money to operate o jails, and we certainly can't go to taxpayers for more," said Dunn. Sheriff Robert A. Ficano said he aldy has requested permission to assign two prisoners to a cell from the the new county Corrections Council, a group formed at the request of County Commissioners Mary Dumas of Livonia, John Hertel of Harper Woods and Jackie Currie of Detroit.

THE REQUEST was supported by

To relieve overcrowding, the council is considering pre-trial and post-trial sentencing alternatives, conditional release of low-risk prisoners, alternative corrections facilities and revised bond procedures.

The new county jail, under construction, is due to be opened Dec. 1. But officials say it may not increase total capacity because older facilities may need to be closed for remodeling.

Judge Dunn said attorneys for defendants are likely to voice vehement opposition to double-bunking, and that he personally couldn't support it. Nev- it was to include both construction and ertheless, Dunn said he felt the county had a right to request it.

THE NEW jail's capacity will be about 650. The current jail system - a downtown jail and an annex in West-994.

"I was dumbfounded to discover there are no funds to even maintain a new jail," Ficano told the Corrections Council last week.

"I reviewed provisions of the millage (one mill approved by voters in 1976) to pay for the new 13-story jail and found maintenance costs. There is barely $113,000 left in the account."

Ficano noted that the U.S. Supreme Court recently upheld double-bunking in Ohio prisons.

But Robert LeCureux, director of land - has a total capacity of about probation services for the state corrections commission, said he doubted that. body would allow double-bunking. The reason, he said, is that county prisoners have no training programs or outdoor privileges that would allow them to be out of their cells for any reasonable length of time - a point the Supreme & Court made in allow double-bedding in Ohio.

This is Bill Blass for after dark. Fashion that takes its cue from the subtler shapes of day, then is elevated by Blass to the wonder of night! His night-sweater - just a simple shrug of chenille, really - that becomes all an evening top should ever be. Sleek, sensuous, body-aware, with just a glimmer of black sequins to lead you on to the dazzle that reigns below: the all-sequined stark-straight skirt. The line of it... what could be more unassuming. The brilliance of it... what could be more riveting! Needless to say - hurry sundown! The sweater of rayon and silk chenille; the skirt of rayon. For sizes 4 to 14; 1960: In the Bill Blass Boutique, Third Floor

Wednesday through Thursday in Troy, Friday and Saturday in Fairlane, our special representative will present a trunk showing of the Bill Blass collection for fall/winter '83.

LET'S STEP OUTSIDE!

A short trip, perhaps, to partake of sun, fresh air and a made-ahead dinner of charm and elegance

Before the time of balconies on city co-ops and suburban condos, and tiny patios attached to garden apartments, outdoor eating was a different scene.

It had mainly to do with backyards, camp sites and beaches, charcoal grills, hamburgers and franks.

No more. The scenario has changed. More specifically, there has been an evolutionary expansion in al fresco eating. People coming home from work, or even from the golf course to their leisure retirement complexes, aren't that much interested in starting a fire. Sure, they want to eat outside. But differently. More to their taste, in both senses of the word.

The meal is ready. It has been prepared ahead of time - even, perhaps, the night before - in a small kitchen. Quickly, efficiently, with products that are readily available and easily handled. It's a delicious, and, yes, elegant, dinner that can be set out in a relaxed manner before four or six old friends or potential new ones from the next concrete slab or brick patio.

If only one special person is there to share the air and the ambiance, the dishes pictured here can be prepared for two (see recipes below). With the excepvion, that is, of the sensational cookiecake. And no need to worry about what's left over from that. It won't be left for

To start the meal there's a frozen appetizer cubed out from the freezer tray where it had been "setting." It sets the tone for what's to come. First a predinner Angostura Iced Tea is offered, a sprightly version of an old favorite... low calorie, low sodium, aromatic and refreshing. Angostura aromatic bitters, as almost everyone knows, is a blend of many different rare herbs and spices that is used to make drinks and foods taste

The main dish is a South African rock lobster tail salad, with the flavorful rock lobster meat mixture piled back into the bright red shells and held, ready for service, in the refrigerator. The meat is tender, sweet and juicy because this succulent seafood comes from the ice-cold waters off the southwest coast of South Africa.

A green salad, of course. But then comes dessert! Packaged cookies from the supermarket are transformed without the need of a heated oven into an extraordinary cookie-cake that is as beautiful to look at as it is almost sinfully luxurious to taste.

At such an outdoor event, iced tea is a before, during and after dinner refreshment and extraordinary libation. On a fragrant summer evening, everyone wants to start right and prolong the pleasure as indefinitely as possible. Offer another glass in the cool of the evening when everybody is satiated with good food but doesn't really want to leave. Or make the drink Iced Tea Angostura again; it will not be dull, any more than the company and conversation will be.

Crab meat is a delicious way to extend

Try versatile crab meat

Crab meat may seem expensive, but this deliclous seafood lends itself to use as an extender item in many recipes, which keeps your cost per serving economical. You can combine crab meat with other foods to make omelettes, crepes, pattles, casseroles, sandwich spreads, salads and quiches, to name just a few.

In Virginia, the state which provides about onethird of the nation's blue crab meat, blue crabs are in season from spring through fall. However, you can find fresh refrigerated crab meat in stores year-round, thanks to a pasteurization process that keeps crab meat in fresh quality condition for about six months.

Pasteurized crab meat is pre-cooked and ready to eat because the meat is picked from crabs that have been thoroughly steamed. Cold from the refrigerator, blue crab meat is a perfect extender item in salads, such as in the recipe below. It's also a fine extender item in heated dishes, as in this Virginia recipe for a blue crab meat quiche:

BLUE CRAB MEAT QUICHE 1 lb. blue crab meat 1/2 cup mayonnaise 2 thsp. flour 2 beaten eggs 1/2 cup milk 8 oz. Swiss cheese, grated % cup onion, chopped or sliced 9-inch prepared ple crust

Remove any shell or cartilage from crab meat. Combine mayonnaise, flour, beaten eggs and milk; mix until blended. Stir in crab meat, cheese and onions. Pour filling into ple crust. Bake at 350 until set, approximately 40-45 minutes.

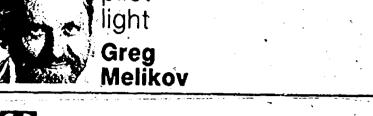

CRAB MEAT SALAD

(6 servings) 1 lb. fresh crab meat' il medium green pepper, chopped 1/2 tsp. celery seed % cup mayonnaise 1 thsp. mustard 1 tsp. seafood seasoning 1 tsp. vinegar 1 tsp. sugar Dash bot sauce Garnishes: paraley, tomato

Remove any shell or cartilage from crab meat. Combine all ingredients, mix well. Shape mixture in a mound on serving dish, garnish with parsley and tomato, and serve.

To save your recipes, you just jot them down

"Your article (on Waldorf salad) prompted this letter," writes Dorothy Farland of Southfield. "There is an answer to your problem of saving recipes, called The Jot-It Cookbook." Dorothy refers to a column earlier this year when I finally put down for posterity the recipe my wife seemed to misplace everytime she wanted to prepare the salad. "This notebook is just what its name implies — a place to 'jot' recipes . . ." explains the retired school teacher who was a cook in the WACs during World War II. "(The) recipeless cookbook . . . eliminates yellowing notes and tiny, hard-to-read recipe cards. The fill-in pages . . . make a 'do-it-yourself' cookbook."

THE JOT-IT is divided into snacks and beverages; bread and rolls; soups, hot and cold; casseroles; meat, poultry, fish and eggs; salads, fruit, vegetable and molded.

The ingredients are printed; there are spaces to fill in the quantity. There is plenty of room to jot down the instructions.

There were several preprinted recipes in The -Jot-It Dorothy sent me. She also loves to cook and eat, she confided.

I bet she has a room full of Jot-Its — filled.

Grilled steak doesn't have to be expensive

Mmmmm - steak on the grill! This is truly one of the joys of the cookout season. Fortunately for the food budget, there are a number of steaks that are great on the grill, yet inexpensively priced.

One of the best cookout buys in the meat case is beef blade steak. While this steak is from the less tender chuck section, it can be broiled with tender results when first marinated in a liquid containing an acid food such as lemon julce, vinegar or wine. For tenderness sake, it is also best if the steak is cooked just to rare or medium.

For a gourmet approach to marinated blade steak on the grill, try Peppery Beef Steak, inspired by the French classic Steak au Poivre.

PEPPERY BEEF STEAK 5 cup brandy

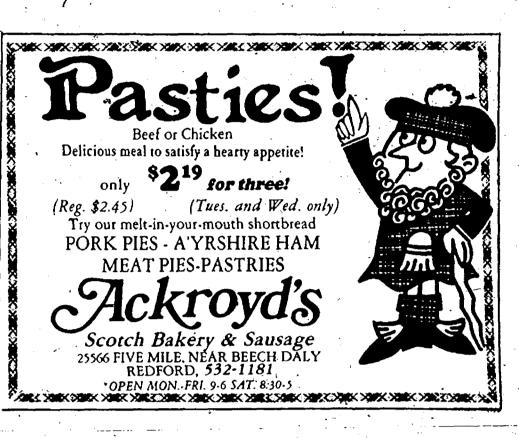

2 beef blade steaks, cut % inch thick-14 cup water

14 cup lemon juice 4 cup salad oil 2 thsp. sugar

I tsp. onion salt

1 tsp. salt 2 thsp. crushed black peppercorns

Combine brandy, water, lemon juice, oil, sugar, onion salt and salt. Place steaks in utility dish or plastic bag; add marinade, turning to coat. Cover dish and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight), turning at least once. Remove steaks from marinade and press crushed peppercorns into surface of both sides. Place steaks on grill over ash-covered coals (or on rack on broller pan) so surface of meat is 4 inches from heat. Broll at moderate temperature 7 to 10 minutes on each side, depending on degree of doneness desired (rare or medium). 6 servings.

Coping with life linked to drug usage

As women's roles, options and pressures have increased, so has their drug use. And while more men tend to use drugs for "pleasure and social reasons," studies show more women use them for "coping with life."

"Many drug-dependent women suffer from feelings of low self-esteem, depression and isolation. These problems must be addressed along with the drug use," said Professor Beth G. Reed of the University of Michigan School of Social Work. "Counselors must recognize and build on the strengths women bring to the treatment process and help them gain control over the situations that have caused conflict and stress."

A broad range of approaches is spelled out in "Treatment Services esteem and lower expectations for for Drug Dependent Women," just published by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), a division of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The two-volume, 1,100-page monograph presents current research and effective treatment methods in a "how-to-do-it" format emphasizing the services women need and how to -deliver them.

"While large areas of similarities exist between women and men, they can also be described as living in fundamentally different cultures." Reed said. "Men's contributions are more valued than women's, both monetarily and in terms of prestige. Thus, many women grow up with low selftheir lives. They are more concerned with surviving than about getting ahead.

"These feelings of powerlessness and pessimism are immobilizing and must be confronted in treatment,"

Reed said. "IN THE EARLY stages, drug treatment programs were designed mostly by and for men. Chemicallydependent women need most of the same basic services that men need. but some services are even more important for women." Issues addressed in the book include: Vocational training — "Women as a group have lower incomes, less consistent work histories and are less likely to have a work-related identity. Rehabilitation that includes job training is particularly important for them," Reed said.

• CHILD-CARE - "A large-majority of drug-dependent women feel responsibile for the welfare of their children. Thus, treatment programs should help women improve their parenting skills and should include child care arrangements to encourage their participation. Attention to child care and parenting training can increase women's trust in the program, strengthen her family and decrease the problems her children may have in the future."

• MEDICAL-CARE - "Since many drugs seem to affect women's bodies more quickly and more des-; trcutively than they do men's, and because women's reproductive systems are more complex, several chapters address such topics as medical services, nutrition, health and fitness, and reproductive concerns. Women are more likely than men to seek medical help. However, they are also more likely to have been given medication to help them cope. Often it was their problems and stress that began their slide into chemical dependency in the first place.".

• LEGAL CONCERNS - "Civil litigation needs related to child custody, physical abuse, housing and credit are common among drug-dependent women."

• Empowerment training - "The women-oriented services discussed in

ON A MORE surprising note, the survey points out that an equal percentage of the males who make meals enjoy cooking.

To capitalize on this silent majority, Better Homes and Gardens' editors have compiled a book of recipes for men only.

"His Turn to Cook," as the tome is titled, is a 96page softcover manual that caters to masculine food tastes with 116 recipes for such items as chili, ribs, fish, venison and Harvey Wallbanger cake.

The idea for the book, as well as many of the recipes, came from a column Better Homes and Gardens has been publishing for more than 10 years, noted Dave Kirchner, one of the magazine's editors who was in town recently to hand-deliver a copy of "His Turn to Cook."

The column asked male readers to submit their favorite recipes. Over the past decade, more than the most part, the closest kitchen experience men 50,000 recipes have been submitted, Kirchner

> "We could tell men had an interest in cooking," Kirchner said. "Certain subject areas were of high interest, like barbecuing, chilis, desserts, recipes

"We began with these entries and then our food As might be expected, the propagation of the area developed and compiled others, like romantwo-income family is largely responsible for the tic dinners for two and dinners for kids that can

> TO MAKE THE book more palatable with the gastronomically liliterate man, the editors mixed in an easy-to-read recipe style (that lists ingredients opposite the step they are used) with a liberal dose of full-color photos (that in many cases take the reader step-by-step through a recipe).

> In addition, the editors inserted many how-to comments in the margin to assist readers in freezing portions for future meals, slicing onions, selecting which ground beef to purchase, shucking oysters, substituting ingredients and more. The recipes themselves are tagged with names > to which men can relate. There's devil's delight chili (accompanied by a margin note that "it's not for the faint of heart or stomach"), beer-baked chicken, freewheeling sandwiches and breakfast

Better Homes and Gardens staffers thought they were going to teach the kids-a few things about baking techniques in the publication of their new cookbook "Cookies for Kids."

As is often the case with kids, it was the other way around. It didn't matter though. That's why the pintsized cooks in the 6-12 age group were brought in in the first place. Their job was to critique the book's 89 recipes developed with their interests and tastes in mind.

One thing they all agreed on: Chocolate chip is still America's favorite. Although "Cookies for Kids" offers children baking, measuring and nutrition basics, the cookbook is intended to be pure fun. Recipes range from brownies to bars to ethnic treats, holiday sweets - and even a cookie pizza. And each recipe is designed to delight children with its own unique name: Calico Critters, Burger Bites, Banana Bumps, No-Bake Snakes and Knuckle

THE RECIPES are easy to follow because ingredients are listed opposite the cooking method so that each baking step leads logically to the Except for a few instances, the book passed with flying colors.

Only one recipe had to be scratched. That was for a Butter Berlin Wreath that called for rolling the dough into a rope configuration. The problem was a crumbly dough that wouldn't hold together. Frustration prompted the kids to say nix.

What tickled the high-powered adult supervisors was the personal experiences the kids brought in.

the case may be, had the BHG folks pondering the validity of the criticism. But since it wasn't accompanied with a "yuk," it was safe to assume that the small fry thought the flavor was OK, BHG editor Jill Burmeister said.

A big favorite was a cookie from the bake-later category called Kangaroo Sugar Pockets. The recipes provides for a pocket that the cook then can fill with pie filling, others with jam or jelly and still others with nuts, chocolate, raisins or even coconut.

"LOOK, THEY'RE puffing and getting blu squealed on the young cookie testers, watching through the oven window.

All the testing was done on-site in the maga-zine's Des Moines test kitchens during a weeklong project.

It was messy at times, but the kids were warned to wear play clothes.

Alas, the book - released early this year and already into its second printing - has come too late for some of us who raised earlier editions of "cookle monsters" - many without the sweetsounding prefix.

Our remedy for rainy-day or "we're bored" complaints was an impromptu shopping expedition or a quick trip to the neighborhood movie house. More likely the latter. There was always something about shopping that brought out the

Dear Mrs. Green:

I am in the process of trying to find out about myself. I am going through a very trying time, at this period in my life. I'd like to know what you see through my handwriting as good points, but also my weaknesses. Most of the time I enjoy printing and many times I dot my I's with circles. Also, I always sign my name with a left slant as opposed to my writing. Does this mean anything significant? I look forward to hearing your response. D.F. Plymouth

Dear D.F.:

Although you may be going through a trying time you apparently are not allowing it to get you down. Your basic optimism and search for the brighter side is still with you. Several recipes are grouped into sections such as stick-to-the-ribs soups and stews, one-dish meals, raid-the-cupboard cooking, hot off the grill, from the hunter's bag, weekend morning specials, candlelight dinner, get-together grub and cookie jar classics.

"From our experience, men require recipes," Kirchner said. "Since most are unfamiliar with the kitchen, they want the guidance of recipes that work. But once they become good at one, they are more experimental than women and try things that are not in the re-

However, she admitted, the sales figures may not indicate the popularity of the book with men.

"FATHER'S DAY may have had a lot to do with the sales," Lund said. "Women who are working want men to cook and may have purchased the book as a gift. Women feel they have to cook where men enjoy doing it.

"We had men cook the recipes in our test kitchen before we published the book," she added. "In watching them, they seemed more creative. For men, it's more of a hobby and a creative endeavor so we took a fun approach with the book. I hope more men are in the kitchen in the future."

the books explicitly outline ways the women can be guided to develop more confidence, be more assertive and feel (and be) more independent. Expression of anger and aggression is considered 'unferninine' and is discouraged by society. So many women feel guilty about feeling angry, and this adds to their feelings of helplessness. Assertiveness and survival skills training programs allows women to have a series of success experiences and to feel more in control of their lives."

• SUPPORT SYSTEMS - "Many women appear to accept their limiting circumstances because their homemaker and family roles prevent them from having enough contact with other women. Feeling isolated, these women cannot fully understand the similarities between the problems they face and broader patterns within society. "As a result, they often blame themselves for situations which they cannot control. Chemically dependent women also often withdraw from family and friends, or are rejected by them. Activities with other women can reduce their social isolation and provide opportunities for them to work together to improve their common circumstances." Generalizing about all drug-dependent women

(or men) obscures some important differences that have profound implications for treatment, Reed added. These differences include age, race, ethnicity, socioeconomic background, sexual orientation and lifestyle. The case studies in the two volumes cover a wide range of examples. "Women from very dissimilar backgrounds can learn much from each other in treatment," Reed said, "if each woman's lifestyle is respected."

Potent Wayne stars top Oakland

By C.J. Risak staff writer

IDWAY THROUGH the second half of Saturday's first-Girls' All-Star Soccer Classic, Jennifer Huegli laughed as she described the goal scored just minutes be-

"You were on the ground, then the next thing I know the ball's in the net," Huegli said. "My God, what've you got,

- six legs?" The tall, lean player Huegli was in. speaking to was sitting on the bench next to her, hot but still smiling after nearly 50 minutes of soccer in 85-degree mugginess against the best prep players in Oakland County.

Mary Kay Hussey, a modest sophomore from Livonia Stevenson, had much to smile about. Her Wayne County All-Star team had just blown its Oakland County counterparts apart. A four-goal burst in a seven-minute stretch early in the second half was the clincher in a 7-1 triumph before a crowd of 302 at Stevenson.

HUSSEY, FOR her part, filled the role Huegli described quite well. Her "six legs" came in handy, since she played every position on the field except goalie. Where she was most effective, however, was around the Oakland

The star from the state champion Stevenson squad poured in three of the four goals and assisted on the other in the second-half surge as Wayne pulled away from a 2-0 halftime lead to a 6-0 advantage.

Her exploits earned her the game's Most Valuable Player honors. She finished with three goals and three assists.

"They're all good," Oakland coach Mike Ruddy said of the Wayne stars. "But (Hussey) may be the best. She can do a lot of stuff well. She can play any position, and she's big, strong and fast. It was a description that could readily fit any of the stars from either team. . If there was a key difference between the two squads in this game, it was in finishing the play. Wayne converted most of its chances. Oakland didn't.

THE NUMBER of scoring opportunities made a difference too. Wayne was forever pressuring, and that eventually, paid off.

Lisa Rigstad got the game's first goal on a superb pass from Hussey that split the Oakland defenders. Rigstad dribbled in alone and buried the ball in the net behind Oakland goalkeeper Cheryl Kusza of Troy Athens 16:00 into the first half. Livonia Churchill's Dorene Dudek also drew an assist.

Three minutes later, Hussey again popped the ball over the Oakland deever Observer & Eccentric fense, and Shelly Staszel converted it_ into a goal for a 2-0 Wayne lead.

. Throughout the opening half the pressure kept mounting, much of it coming from Staszel at her wing position. The Plymouth Salem junior's crossing passes to the net gave her teammates lots of scoring chances, and in the second half they started cashing

"One of our problems is that we don't have a true sweeperback on the team," Ruddy said during the game. "They're geared to attack, while our game is more balanced. But that's probably something we should have worked on more - defensing the crosses."

THREE OF WAYNE'S five goals in the second half were set up by Staszel crossing passes from the corner. Hussey scored at 42 minutes on a Staszel pass, then Karen Felts of Garden City punched in a rebound with Hussey and Stevenson senior Andrea Bokos assisting at 45:00.

Hussey then got two rapid-fire goals, the first at 47:00 on a great pass from-Staszel and the second two minutes later on a fine play set up by Bokos.

"And she wasn't good enough to make All-State," was all Wayne coach Norene Divens would say about Hus-

Staszel got another assist after sending a pass across to Stevenson's Leasa Klix, who booted it in at 61:00 for a 7-0

WHILE THE WAYNE offense pressured, its defense thwarted nearly all the Oakland scoring chances. Farmington Harrison's Sue Ferguson must have felt snake blt — a goal was taken from her in the first half when referees ruled the ball hit the football crossbar above the net and was out of bounds before it rebounded to her.

In the second half, it wasn't a crossbar that kept Ferguson from scoring. It was Wayne goalie Cathy Greig, a Livonia Bentley sophomore. Three_ times Ferguson unleashed solid shots at the Wayne net, and three times Greig made super saves.

Ferguson finally did get the ball past Greig, scoring at 69:00 after taking a pass from Troy's Ericka Johnson and dribbling past three Wayne defenders.

But it wasn't enough. In this match, anyway, it was the Wayne stars that sparkled brightest.

The look of anguish on Jennifer Huegli's face was replaced by the first-ever Observer & Eccentric All-Star Girls' Soccer Classic smiles and cheers later on as Wayne dismantled Oakland, 7-1, in Saturday.

League leader rallies in Collegiate deadlock

"It was our worst game of the year by far," said Rodger George, manager of Redford-Westland Adray. But Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) leaders didn't lose, nor did they win. A two-run homer by Kevin Stanisz in the bottom of the seventh inning enabled RWA to gain a 6-6 tie with Ann Arbor Wendy's in a game played Wednesday at Capitol Park.

The game was halted after seven innings because of a time limit.

RWA out-hit Wendy's 14-6, but left 11 runners stranded.

Both Stanisz and Carl Ruffino each had two hits. Jim Zentgraf and John Hetkowski added two approce.

Mickey Madsen paced Wendy's by going 2-for-4.

Jamie Chilcoff, the starter for Wendy's, went all the way. Charlie Johnson, who struck out 12 in six innings, and John Paz worked for RWA.

LIVONIA ADRAY moved into second place ahead of Wendy's with a 4-2 win over Walter's Appliance on Wednesday at Ford Field.

Livonia, which collected only two hits off losing pitcher Jack Ford, used a pair of double steals to post the victory. Mike MacDonald, who worked all

Red-hot local squads cool Wolverine foes

By C.J. Risak 🔭 etaff writer

Talk about intense.

That describes the fourth annual Wolverine Invitational Soccer Tournament, played last weekend at Schoolcraft College and Livonia's Bicentennial and Jaycee parks. The competition, the weather and the play of four particular local teams were at a peak during the three-day event.

Those four teams - the 14 and under WSSL Livonia Spartan girls, 19 and under FLiP Rowdie girls, 12 and under Livonia Arsenal boys and 14 and under Division II WSSL Livonia Kick boys - all claimed division championships during the 198team tournament.

THE WSSL SPARTANS earned their title by beating a rival Livonia and Bonanza Express Soccer League (BESL) squad, the Hawks, 4-2 in the

The Spartans trailed, 2-1, with 10 minutes to play after the Hawks' Jenny Flowers punched home two straight goals. But Kristy McMinn, who scored the Spartans' first goal, tied it and Lori Green got the... game-winner with five minutes left. Shelly Virva added an insurance tally with two minutes remain-

The Spartans advanced to the finals after beating the Troy Lightning, 5-2, in the semis, with McMinn again scoring twice. Meanwhile, the Hawks nipped the Troy Metics, 2-1 in overtime. The Metics were BESL division champs, finishing ahead of both the Spartans and the Hawks.

THE FLIP ROWDIES — a team of girls from Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth - got superb goaltending from Doreen Beagle and clutch scoring from Dorene Dudek in the final two games to win their division.

The FLiP Rowdies blanked the Warren Rowdies in the semifinals, 2-0, with Dudek and Jenny Gans netting goals. In the finals, the local squad prevailed by a 4-1 margin over the Phidippides from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dudek poured in a pair of goals in the title contest, with Shelly Staszel and Lisa Rigstad each adding single tallies.

FOR THE LIVONIA Arsenal, it was a battle all the way, but they emerged with top honors. The Arsenal slipped past the Central Ohio Wings in the title contest, 2-1, in an overtime shootout.

Scott Ryan scored Arsenal's goal in regulation and, after a scoreless overtime period, Michael Schroer got the game-winning goal in the shootout. Jim Harkins was superb in the net for the Arsenal, with help from defenders John Bailey, Rob Keller, Mark Thomas Jr., Andre Monstur, David Probst. Billy Parks and Mike Patcsch.

The semifinal game was another tight victory for the Arsenal, with Kevin Zaschak's goal late in the second half the only score of a 1-0 triumph over the Windsor (Ontario) United Police.

THE WSSL KICKS claimed the 14 and under Division II boys championship by beating the Livonia Diamonds in the finals.

Other division winners were, for the boys: Major Atom from London, Ontario, in 10 and under; Troy Tornado in 14 and under Division I; Blue Water Blast from Sarnia, Ontario, in 16 and under, and Northville Arsenal in 19 and under. For the girls, winners were: Lakota (Ohio) All-Stars in 10 and under, Kuemmerling Tree Service from Dayton, Ohio, in 12 and under; and the Wheaton (Maryland) Panthers in 16 and under.

Here's the scoop!

Ice cream savored from White House to your house

At least one thing made Calvin Coolidge smile. Evidence of a slight but satisfied smile exists in a 1926 photo. In this historic picture, Mrs. Coolidge is spooning up ice cream as the president stands by holding what looks suspiciously like the remains of an

Coolidge might not have loved being chief executive, but he loved ice cream. His favorite dessert was advertised by the ice cream industry as the "President's Pudding."

But Silent Cal was not the first presidential fan of ice scream. - George Washington liked ice cream so much that, in the summer of 1790, he bought about $200 worth from a New York City Ice cream merchant. Washington kept "two pewter ice cream pots" at Mount Vernon and owned a "Cream Machine for Making Ice."

Thomas Jefferson, ever inventive, had his own 18-step recipe for ice cream and a unique way to serve it - in small balls encased in warm pastry. In addition to the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson gave America its all-time favorite flavor when he brought 200 vanilla beans and a recipe for vanilla ice cream back from France.

The first presidents ate ice cream made from rich, heavy cream, natural flavorings and native fruits and nuts. In addition to vanilla, Washington and Jefferson likely enjoyed such flavors as greengage plum, fig and black walnut. Chocoholics can rest easy. They also had chocolate.

Dolley Madison, always delightfully different, preferred strawberry, which she served mounded in a "large shining dome" on a silver platter.

BUT AMERICANS did not invent lee cream; its exact origins remain frosted in mystery. Like the movies, its development was peripatetic and evolutionary. At the end of the 13th century, Marco Polo brought a recipe for a frozen dessert made with milk back to Italy from the Far East. From Italy, the popularity of frozen desserts, which evolved from ices to sherbets to ice cream, spread across the courts of Europe in the 16th and 17th centuries.

Once Americans discovered ice cream, the hordes of Genghis Khan could not have held back their enthusiasm for it. The first recorded appearance of ice cream in America was in 1700. At the time of the Revolution, ice cream was sold in exclusive New York confectionary shops. With the growing availability of ice through harvesting and insulated storage early in the 19th century, ice cream parlors began appearing in major Americaa cities.

In 1846, a boon to mankind was invented by a woman named Nancy Johnson. The hand-cranked ice cream freezer eventually brought homemade ice cream into the lives of many Americaa families. It was inevitable that ice cream would leave the back porch and become big business. When Jacob Fussel, a Baltimore milk dealer, found himself with a surplus of cream, he made ice cream — lots of it. In 1851, Fussell, a close friend of Abraham Lincoln, became the first full-fledged ice cream manufacturer and wholesaler in America. As the industry grew, increased output and lower most Americans.

In quick succession, they were able to spoon into the soda, the sundae, the ice cream cone and the banana split.

THE INVENTION of the ice cream cone has drawn a number of claims, although most agree that the cone was popularized at the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair and thrust into the hands of a waiting American public. The ice cream cone was the consummate culinary creation for always-on-the-move Americans.

But there was a relaxed way for Americans to enjoy their ice cream too — in ice cream parlors and drugstore soda fountains. In the 1920s, when the country closed its saloons, the ice cream industry grew by scoops and cones. The ice cream industry suffered a setback with the repeal of prohibition, but survived that and the Great Depression. President Franklin Robsevelt assured the country that he ate ice cream daily.

Today the drugstore soda fountain is almost a thing of the past. In the 1950s, fountains were removed from drugstores at the rate of 1,200 a year to make room for the more profitable racks of bottled cures and perfumed lures. Supermarkets, drive-ins and fast food chains took over the dispensing of ice cream to a nation that has never fallen out of love with the stuff.

In the 1960s, a new generation of ice cream stores grew by serving ice cream with more butterfat.

Last year Americans produced more than 832 million gallons of ice cream. And despite the wide variety of flavors ranging from dill pickle to licorice, vanilla and chocolate are still the biggest

The following is a small sampling of soda jerk jargon. The list has been selected from one compiled by Paul Dickson in his ice cream history, "The Great American Ice Cream Book," published in 1972. The soda jerk, so called because he lerked the draft arm on the soda fountain, was a uniquely American figure. He used his special lingo as verbal shorthand for calling out orders and instructions, as theater to entertain the customers and to just plain show

Metro area charity bowling capital of U.S.

One of the reasons the Detroit area long has been looked upon as the bowling capital of the world is that special events for charity, netting countless thousands of dollars, started here.

While no official records-are kept it has been estimated that close to $1 million is raised each year. And while no final sum ever has been recorded it is said the amount is far above any other section of the country.

These bowling charity events had their beginnings a half century ago when the late Johnny Paulus, owner of Chene-Trombly Recreation, sponsored a special match with the proceeds going to make possible the now-famed Capuchin Father Soup Kitchen. This special match pitted the Stroh team, cap-

by W.W. Edgar

tained by Joe Norris, against a team of all-stars. The event was a success from the start, and it is still the main contributor to the kitchen, which feeds thousands of hungry folks during the slumping economies, The match was made possible when Paulus, a great friend of the late Johnny Smith, former postmaster and mayor, challenged him to produce a team that could beat the Paulus choice.

Over the years the event grew and grew and one of the side issues was the annual picnic of the Johnny Smith Old-Timers. Many of the old-timers still recall the fun of those days.

With this bowling match as a starter we now have the annual Bowling Proprietors event that is the successor to the March of Dimes that nets close to $100,000 each year, the Tournament with a Heart, the Muscular Dystrophy event, the Lung Association and a host of others including one for Leader Dogs for the Blind at Rochester.

Loni Anderson is a virtuous Sunday school teacher, who draws the attentions of racy race-car driver Stroker

Comedy misfires in 'Stroker Ace'

There was a time when Burt Reynolds showed a flair for light comedy. Judging from "Stroker Ace" (PG), that flair for light comedy has turned into a passion for moronic activity.

The first 15 minutes of "Stroker Ace" provides all the evidence one needs for this assessment. Reynolds is Stroker, who races stock cars on the Southern circuit. Jim Nabors is his chief mechanic, Lugs. Stroker is a vain, simple-minded, overheated slob. The mere sight of an attractive woman is enough to make him dive out of his car and chase afer her, even at the start of a race.

Loni Anderson is the woman he dives for most often. The big joke (ha, ha) in this movie is that she is a Sunday-school teacher. She doesn't drink, and she's a virgin.

She also is the public-relations representative for Clyde Torkle (Ned Beatty), owner of a chain of Chicken Pit retaurants.

IN A RASH MOMENT, Stroker signs a contract with Beatty, Stroker is obligated to various humbling and humiliating experiences. He must take part in the ribbon-cutting ceremony at each new Chicken Pit and wear a chicken suit while racing.

Hal Needham directed this action-comedy, which misses on both counts - action and comedy. In Reynolds' "Smokey" movies, which Needham directed, there were wild chase scenes and breathtaking stunts. Nothing like that occurs here.

The auto races in "Stroker Ace" are totally boring, dully staged and ineptly photographed. They would put an insomniac to sleep.

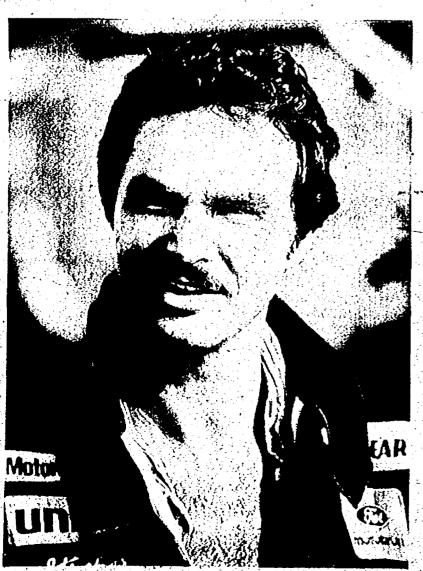

Reynolds and Needham seem to have grown complacent with their previous successes. Just get the gang together, they must figure, let Reynolds hop into a souped-up car, drive around a track a few times and, bingo, there's a movie. No way.

"Stroker Ace" has nothing going for it. The plot is slight, the characters are obnoxious, and the comedy is almost up to the level of a picture post card of an outhouse. It's actually an embarrassment to see a fine actor like Ned Beatty making a jackass of himself in this movie.

ALTHOUGH I HAVE never been a great fan of the "Smokey" movies, at least they were entertaining. They had some memorable characterizations, especially Jackie Gleason's sheriff, and they had Sally Field as a woman with enough intelligence to make the relationship with Reynolds interesting.

In "Stroker Ace," Reynolds and Anderson are both dim bulbs, a fact which dampens interest in that relationship. This also is a movie which puts down women at every opportunity. One of the running jokes is that Stroker doesn't remember the names of any of "his women."

Stroker is just not a character that merits our attention. Whether or not he gets out of his contract with Torkle or continues to race wearing a chicken suit aren't elements of tension or suspense. That leaves Stroker and his Chicken Pits sitting high on the dung heap of dumb movies.

Burt Reynolds is Stroker Ace, a woman-chaser on the racing circuit, who meets his match in dim-witted public-relations gal Pembrook, played by Anderson.

Crystal Gallery reopens for 'Sunday Afternoon'

Detroit Institute of Arts' newly restored Crystal Gallery from 1-4 p.m. Sunday and continues each Sunday, year round, excepting holidays.

Area pianist Bess Bonnier performs light classics and jazz, as well as current popular music and the best of Broadway, at the antique grand piano especially selected for Crystal Gallery.

Guests are offered a menu of pastries, desserts, exotic coffees and teas, and a variety of specialty beverages champagne cocktails, bloody marys, mimosos, and others - with prices ranging from $1.50-$4. Cover charge is "Sunday Afternoon" has reopened the $1.50 per person. No reservations are necessary.

> Crystal Gallery, closed for six months, has been completely restored to the neo-classic style of its original opening in 1928. Located in the upper level of the theater, the four-story room is mirrored at each end, reflecting period tole chandellers and floor-toceiling velvet wall and window drapery against faux marble wall detail.

> NEW LINENS, table service and hand-woven carpeting repeat the intricately painted ceiling motif to provide a coordinated setting.

These wineries excel in California

First of 2 parts

People who are relatively neutral in the wine business, i.e., writers and merchants, are frequently asked about their favorite wines or winerles. These are fair questions.

After all, if either has done some homework, he or she is in a position to offer some decent opinions. Both should attempt to maintain a breadth of scope and knowledge that the typical consumer cannot. It is a responsibility

This writer, an admitted California chauvinist, keeps close surveillance on that scene. So, no hesitation here in sharing judgments based on drinking the products of a great many California winerles (now more than 500 of them bonded, at least 200 available in Michigan).

Shape the question to read: Which California wineries traditionally offer the highest, consistent quality for the money? (All such listings are dangerous: Some excellent wineries will be left out, perhaps unfairly.) Year in and out, through time, these get my vote, my list of the Sweet Sixteen:

BERLINGER Vineyards (Napa) -Holder of perhaps the most distinguished winemaker in California, Myron Nightingale, it has made tremendous strides the last few years. Some great recent cabernets and chardonnays, almost all other wines at least very good.

Burgess Cellars (Napa) - Always excellent releases of cabernet, chardonnay and zinfandel. Not cheap, but excellent for that special bottle.

Concannon Vineyards (Livermore) -Recently acquired by a parent company. Time will tell if it maintains its past stability and value. Sauvignon blanc, petite sirah and excellent generics (burgundy and chablis), plus outstanding zinfandel rose are all worth trying, but anything it makes is a safe Fetzer Vineyards (Mendocino) -Probably my over-all most respected winery. Known especially for zinfandel, cabernet and petite sirah, it has recently made great strides with white wines as well.

Known for the wide range of zinfandel issues each year (at least four), it. styles its wines with great differences, i.e., a Fetzer zinfandel may be light and fruity (Lake County) and another massive and tannic (Ricetti).

THE WHITES are as clean and forthright as the reds tend to be complex. Especially recommended inwhites are the several chardonnays issued each vintage and its pinot blanc.

Firestone Vineyard (Santa Ynez Valley, Santa Barbara) - A sleeper. Always exciting chardonnay, gewurztraminer and reisling issues are increasingly being supported by complex cabernets and superior merlots. Excellent roses are regularly made from cabernet, pinot noir and merlot as

E&J Gallo (Modesto, Central Valley) - Whether with its premium varietals (especially chardonnay, cabernet, sauvignon blanc) or its lower-priced generics (hearty burgundy and chablis blanc), the brothers Gallo do not make any bad wine.

Allowing for tasting preference as it does, there's something here for everyone. At less than $4 for a 1.5-liter bottle, it is tough to beat in the value-perdollar column.

HMR Vineyard (San Luis Obispo) -Recently extracted from financial disaster via external purchase, it is hoped the new owners will maintain previous. levels of excellence, backed by fair
