AT THIS hectic time of year, Westland police remind adults not to leave children unattended in cars.

A Dearborn Heights couple wanting to buy Christmas presents for their daughters, ages 5 and 7, left the children in their locked pickup truck at the Westland Shopping Center at 8 p.m. last Wednesday. A Westland police officer, responding to a call, found the youngsters in the cab of the truck.

Police said that the keys were in the ignition and the radio was on, but the motor was off and the cab was getting cold. The weather service reported that the temperature that night was 26 degrees Fahrenheit, with winds of 15 miles per hour adding a wind chill factor of 3 degrees Fahrenhelt. The girls appeared to be in good health and wore proper attire, but they were taken to the security office at the center. Their parents were paged.

Besides the cold, the children could have been abducted or could have started the car and moved it, police point out.

"It's not a good policy at any time to keep children alone in your car," a police representative said.

Police union accepts 2-year wage freeze

By Mary Klemic staff writer

A contract calling for a two-year wage freeze, a reduction in the number of two-officer cars on the road, and allowing for the installation of civilian dispatchers, has been approved by the Westland Police Officers Association and the Westland City Council. Council members approved the agreement in a 7-0 vote Thursday for three years, beginning July 1, 1982.

The union, representing 60 patrol officers, had been working without a contract since that date, according to Westland Police Officer Jamie Hayes, union president. He said that the 17month period was the longest time the union worked without a contract.

"You don't hear about us in the newspapers, we go ahead and work," Hayes said. "Our men are professionals and they continue to do a good job."

BOTH THE union and the city expressed satisfaction with the agree-night, two days after it was ratified by said attorney Angelo Plakas, a member the union. The contract will be in effect of the city's negotiating team. "I'm appreciative of that fact.

> "I'm really pleased with it (the contract)," he said. "Many of these fellas live here and buy from stores here, they've had the effects of inflation like everybody. But there's no money there. That's one of the big reasons it did take some time (to negotiate)."

THE CONTRACT allows for the future hiring of civilian dispatchers, if the funding is available, Plakas said. Police officers traditionally had performed the dispatching.

"We wanted to have the freedom, if money is available, to have the opportunity to hire civilians to do dispatching work," Plakas explained. "There would be at least three, and maybe a fourth. This would put the police officer back on the road. The visibility is really important."

"It might be possible, if economics

Among its provisions, the agreement said last week calls for a formula to reduce the number of two-officer cars on the road.

There is a provision in the old contract that allows a car on the roads only if there are two in the car," Plakas said. "The city now has some relief in that regard. It is a very complicated formula, depending on how many are on duty at a time."

"WE'RE CONCERNED about our safety," Hayes said. "We think that the city understands our fear, and we think that it'll be worked properly. We won't send single-officer cars on runs where there's a great deal of danger."

Under the contract, the two-year wage freeze will be in effect from July 1, 1982, to June 30, 1984. There will be no wage increase in the second year, but there will be a 4.5 percent pay hike on July 1, 1984.

Negotiations are continuing with the other police department union, which represents sergeants and lieutenants, and the fire department union, Plakas

Favorites return in cabaret

The Spotlight Players production, Hollday Musical Cabaret," is a collection of favorite holiday entertainments. The story, written by Debra Polich-Swain of Wayne who is also co-producer of the show along with Mary Cobello of Westland, is about a traditional family gathering on Christmas Eve.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 9 and 10, and at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 10 and 11, in the auditorium on the lower level of Westland Center, Warren and Wayne

As the story opens, George and his wife, Lillian, are tired of the holiday fuss. Their kids would rather go to the movies than spend Christmas Eve with the family.

Soon the relatives arrive, and the fun begins! To bring a little holiday cheer to the gathering, family members recall "lamily favorites" as performed by 32 members of the cast. The scenes include excerpts from "Scrooge," "The Story of Silent Night," "Diary of Anne Frank," and a mime performed to "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Songs and dances included are "White Christmas," "A New Deal for Christmas," "Toyland," "March of the Toys" and the "Nutcracker."

DIRECTOR OF the production is Michael W. Swain. Co-producer Cobello also is choreographer, and vocal director is Jeanne Holsington. Cast and crew come from as far away as Oak Park and Gibralter to join in the production.

The theater company is working with Charlene Lamphear, promotions coordinator for Westland Center, on the production. For evening performances, patrons should park in the Arcade II parking lot.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $1.75 for children under 12. Discounts are available for groups of 20 or more. For ticket reservations, call 595-6117 or

Customers melt over chocolate shop wares

By Linda Sperkman special writer

Someone told Diane Mckiddy 31/2 years ago that she "couldn't afford" the special candy molds she wanted. That's when she took her savings of $800 and opened what is now her own thriving, candy-making store - The Chocolate Drop Shop, 2365 Vency in Westland.

"It took a lot of willpower," she said. "When we first opened, some days we only took in $2 or $3. We opened right alter Easter and had to wait out the summer months before we made any money.

"Nobody does candy in the summer."

IT'S NOT AS IF the Nestle company, her main supplier, recruited her to distribute their product. On the contrary, McKiddy said that Nestle's "wouldn't even give us the price of the chocolate until we were in the store."

"We didn't know what we were paying for it until we opened the door," she added.

Determination has rewarded her with a profitable business that offers more than 200 different candy molds — one of the area's largest selections. In addition, the shop has a complete line of candy-making supplies, including chocolate, vanilla, peanut butter and mint-flavored chips. A wide variety of packaging supplies also is avail-

McKiddy will demonstrate the process of "painting" the molded candles upon coustomer request.

THE NOVICE shop owner also has learned how to market what she sells. "Our chocolate is the same price now as it was when we opened," McKiddy said. "We sell candy already made up, and that helps to keep the price down.

"The painted candy on display in our" showcase is what sells the molds, too. You don't know what they'll look like until you see them done up."

McKiddy's customers range from elementary schoolchildren, who make candy for fun, to artists whose chocolate creations are on display.

One boy is doing it to raise money for a trip to Spain with his Spanish class," she said. "He sells it to relatives

To get started, it would cost a beginner $3.80 for a mold and one pound of chocolate. Colored vanilla chins. sused to "paint" the candles, are $1.90 per pound.

That's when they're really pretty. I love to see children's faces whent they come in and see the suckers and candies I've painted for our showcase. I guess that's why I do it," she said.

UNLIKE McKIDDY, many candy makers also are cake decorators. At their request, McKiddy ordered cake decorating supplies, until she found that she needed more room to store them. So a year and a half ago the adjoining store became a cake decorating supply store.

Besides providing a service to her customers, the "cake side pays for the store in the summer, when we don't sell chocolate," she explained.

As for future plans, McKiddy said she hopes to "make enough money to stay open — that's all I want."

The shop is open from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and, during the holidays from noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Elderly to call school home

By Dan Vecchioni staff writer

For the second time in a month, the Livonia Board of Education approved the sale of a closed school building to a buyer interested in converting it into senior citizen hous-

A $175,000 offer made by Robert Sarna of Canton for the 47-year-old Stark Elementary School, closed in 1980, was approved in a 6-1 vote Monday. Sarna said he plans to convert the school into "a home for the aged."

The action follows by three weeks board approval of the sale of the closed Madison Elementary School building for $300,000 to Alexander and Rose Spiro, owners of the University Convalescent and Nursing Home in Livonia, who have indicated their intention to transform the school into senior citizen housing units. Sarna said the Stark facility, on Stark Road at Pinetree, would be designed for senior citizens who cannot live independently in a house or in an apartment yet do not require the services of a full-care convales-

"It will be for people over 62 who are not fully convalescent, but people who need an aide or a nurse," he said. People may live in the facility on either a permanant or temporary basis, he added.

SARNA, A senior designer with Ford Motor Co., said he and his wife, a surgical nurse at Mt. Carmel Hospital, decided to buy the school after determining many elder erly persons living in full-care convalescent centers do not need to be there.

They get depressed, thinking that's where they're heading," Sarna said. "We're interested in meeting their needs, not in dollars." He said rates would be between $30 and $40 per day, less than the $55-plus daily rate for convalescent homes.

Sarna said he is working with state and local agencies to obtain the certificate of need necessary to operate the facility. He said he is "95-percent confident" the certificate will be approved.

He also said he is working with an architect to redo the building to accommodate his ideas, which include 70 beds, a cafeteria, a day room featuring video hookups, exterior remodeling and landscaping. He also said he is working with the city to get the site rezoned for the new use.

Art Howell, the school district's assistant superintendent for operations, said the details of the sale call for a $17,500 down payment and monthly payments of $2,170 on a 10-year, 11-percent land contract. He said the sale is contingent on Sarna obtaining a mortgage and the necessary rezoning.

BOARD MEMBER James Merner, who cast the lone dissenting vote, said he opposed the sale since the school district has no plans for the proceeds and, once sold, the site no longer is available for future school

Why are we closing out a future avenue? Why are we selling a building when we have no plans for the money?" Merner said. He pointed out that the money will be added to the district's building and site fund which already totals $1.1 million and which has not been allocated for any projects.

Stark is used by the district as storage space. It was estimated that it would cost $20,000 to transfer the equipment stored there to another location.

Nuclear arms activists

Different backgrounds — a single cause

By Kethy Parrish staff writer

Elsie Parsons-Lamb marched for civil rights and against the Vietnam War. And at 59, the longtime activist was ready to go to fall to oppose nuclear arms.

"I believe we follow a disarmed and unarmed God," explained the Saugatuck resident, whose protest outside a defense supplier's plant landed her and 53 others in Oakland County Jail last week.

Twenty-three-year-old Meg Goodman is against nuclear arms, too. But the Grand Rapids counselor isn't ready to take such adrastic step for her beliefs. So Goodman was behind the scenes last week during the Williams International blockade as Lamb's support person.

'I feel some envy," sighed Goodman, who is helping take care of Parsons-Lamb's needs while she's jailed for trying to stop workers from going into the Walled Lake It." plant, which manufacturers the jet engine for the sub-sonic cruise missile.

"I have an incredible amount of energy to put into peace and justice. But I need more physical and emotional preparation before going to jail. I'm not gonna do anybody any good if I don't take care of myself first."

WHILE ALL OPPOSED nuclear arms, those taking part in last week's protest outside Williams varied widely in commitment. to the cause.

Some are in jail regularly for their beliefs. Very familiar with courtrooms are the Covenant for Peace members who organized the event — Ken Berger, the Rev. Peter Dougherty, Pat Robertson, Sister Lix Walters and Jim Smith, who is named in the court injunction forbidding trespass at Wil-

Other Jall veterans are the Rev. William Kellerman and the Rev. Mel Hall, Detroit Methodist ministers, the Rev. Thomas Lumpkin of the Catholic Archdlocese of Detroit, as well as other Detroit Peace Community members.

"I have a wife and small son and that was hard," Hall told a group of fellow Methodists about his jail term for floating candles and pouring red paint in the pond at Wil-

"But it was for all the bables that I did

Among last week's speakers were Jean Hutchinson, a lay Methodist minister who has spent two years as a peace camper at the perimeter of Greenham Commons Air Force base in England.

"I'm not sure whether I'll make it home for Christmas because there's something we've got to do in Boston against the arms sellers," said the feisty Britisher before she too was arrested outside the Walled Lake plant. Hutchinson, who did not blockade, was arrested Friday on a warrant while attempting to leave the area.

BUT ORGANIZERS estimated more than half of the 50 blockaders arrested last week had never been inside a jail before,

Putting themselves on the line were the Southfield parents of 12, a Wayne State professor whose friends are taking over his classes, an Ann Arbor grandmother who explained she's been "civilly disobedient" her whole life, and an unemployed Grand Raplds man with time for a jail stint.

Some said their concern stemmed from a lifelong commitment to peace. Others joined the cause at the last minute because of reasons like the break down of the Geneva Arms talks or U.S. troops entering Grenada.

Southfield residents Pat and Corinne Bruder, ages 66 and 59, joined Pax Christi at St. Ive Catholic Church. Through the peace group, the parents of 12 began "thinking along the lines of doing something instead of just thinking."

"It was quite a big decision and surprising both of us got the idea at the same time," said Bruder, who saw the blockade as a "somehwat risky and challenging way to draw attention to the need. Maybe people who know us will say 'Hey, maybe we ought to get involved too.'

For Peggy Garrigues, 20, the blockade was "just something I couldn't not do."

The University of Michigan student went home to her Elmburst, Ill., home and asked members of her Methodist church to pray for her and was pleased to leave with "a lot

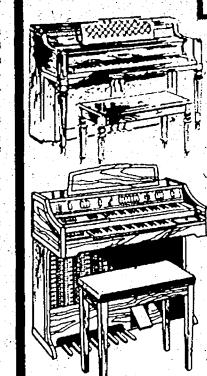

ON HAND ALSO were a number of nuclear arms foes who wanted to support the blockaders' actions.

They were around all week transporting, folks, cooking meals for them in St. Vincent de Paul Church in Pontlac and standing in the cold morning air singing encouragement like "All we are saying is give peace a chance.'

A Grand Rapids mother of two said she thought seriously about going to jail, but decided against it because her children were so opposed. But she came along anyway as a support person.

"And I'm glad I decided not to go through with it" admitted the woman the night before ber group's blockade. "But I really admire your commiment."

Mulling over the idea of incarceration was Bruce Hollingsworth, a retired social worker for the state, who has been "peaceminded" all his 66 years.

Recalls weaken Legislature

7 OTERS WHO organized the successful recall campaign against state Sen. Phil Mastin are no doubt enjoying the sweet taste of success. They did it. They recalled the first legislator in Michigan history. First they conducted an extensive petition drive to put Mastin to the test. And then they persuaded people to vote against force other legislators to pay times and in the mood to recall, more attention to the opinions of voters back home: "It will make those guys listen to us now."

The sad fact is that they may be right. And in the short run, voters may be able to get their revenge and recall officials who vote for farther down the road. What will happen to Michigan in the long run?

recall will give legislators even more reason to waver. A weak Legislature contributed to Michigan's dire condition. Now it will be even harder to find legislators willing to act with any courage of conviction.

A FUNDAMENTAL difference between recall supporters and opponents is their perceptions of a legislator's role. Is he or she supposed to read his mail and vote fallen to the recall. Voters won't for a measure if it engenders special interests groups will run

Or is a legislator supposed to ly involved in their government. listened to voters and lobbyists, But it may have hurt the demo- read research on the subject, study the budget and arrive at an intelligent decision? If so, voters Many believe the recalls will may find themselves angry at

> To our way of thinking, legislators are elected to be leaders, to weigh all factors and then make the best decision possible — even if it will be unpopular.

If we don't like the conclusions unpopular things. But look a little the elected official reaches, we vote him or her out next time around. Unfortunately, an official's voting record is often ig-Our fear is that the threat of nored in regular elections though it's paramount in a recall.

The problem with Mastin's and Serotkin's recall is that voters at least some voters — have sent a message to all legislators: We don't trust you. Do anything, but don't raise our taxes. Don't make any difficult decisions.

IN THE NEXT few years, you'll hear plenty from legislators who "had the courage to vote against the tax increase." Really, they showed no courage at all. They let the issue become a political one — where Republicans opposed and Democrats reluctantly supported - the increase when both sides recognized it was the only solution, however temporary, to a desperate situation.

Many Republicans who had the "courage" to vote against the tax increase were afforded that luxury only because their votes weren't needed to pass the emergency measure.

There are other tough decisions waiting to be made: How should the state school aid formula be rewritten? How can state bureaucracy be streamlined? How can unemployment and worker's compensation costs be reduced? How can Michigan rebuild its industry and create jobs?

These are issues that require hard decisions - decisions which may anger voters back home. With the threat of recall hanging overhead, legislators may be tempted to study the issues to death and delay action indefinite-

As it is, state representatives serve two-year terms — which translate into one year of action and one of campaigning. Now we may be lucky to see any action.

We need courageous leaders but we also have to have the courage to stand behind them.

Our own worst enemies

MY FRIEND stopped me on the way to my desk. "Did you see that in the Canton Observer? They're getting $11,000 from the federal government to build a dam for av golf course!" he said indignantly.

It was true. Fellows Creek Golf Course had had a dam until a 1980 windstorm. Without the dam, water was encroaching on trees and greens, eroding them.

This occurred the same week a Congress on the Economic Future of the Great Lakes States gathered in the Renaissance Center to wonder aloud why older industrial states like Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin were getting 69 to 80 cents of federal aid for every $1 of taxes they are sending to Washington, D.C.

In five years, the Great Lakes states were drained of $164 billion in federal taxes — not to mention the oil and coal taxes we pay to enrich western states. The process is much like the pre-19th century medical process of draining blood from an ailing man.

IN WESTERN Oakland County this week, groups professing opposition to nuclear arms are trying to close down Williams International Corp., which makes engines for the low-flying cruise missile.

These groups are doing more than staging a media event for publicity. Their stated goal is to disrupt production by preventing employees from getting to work. One wonders how potential manufacturers, thinking of investing in Michigan, will react when they see those film clips.

The disruption plan was announced even as the Great Lakes group was pointing a finger at the U.S. Defense Department as the biggest reason our states aren't getting federal dollars.

Two weeks ago, work began on project ELF, the radio communications system for the Navy in the Upper Peninsula. After a decade, Congress had ended debate, scaling down the project.

But picketers were out protesting it, even as construction started.

SINCE 1976 the federal government has been hanging onto hundreds of millions of federal aid for southeastern Michigan while we argue about what kind of rapid transit system we (don't) want to build. Here, suburban politicians chortle as they turn the screws on the mayor of Detroit.

In southeastern Oakland County, still another flap is arising over I-696, the suburban crosstown freeway. Tiny cities, hardly larger than subdivisions, held up the project for 20 years while the rest of us crept along Eight Mile Road.

M-275, the last link in a western freeway bypassing Detroit, has been on the drawing boards nearly as long. Despite the optimism of its champions, M-275 is unlikely to be built as long as Detroit officials have breath enough to oppose it.

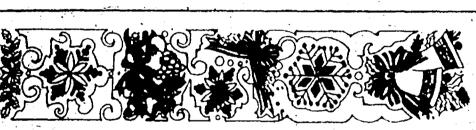

"Super sewer," the giant interceptor and sewage treatment plant envisioned by the western suburbs, is being redesigned and scaled down drastically after 15 years of resistance by Detroit and Ann Arbor, Like 1-696, M-275 and the rapid transit system, it, too, was to have been financed largely by federal aid.

THE POINT here is not to argue the merits of any one project.

Rather, it is to show that any major federal funding or federal spending for Michigan is stoutly resisted by other Michiganians.

The enemy is not the Garns and the Bakers of the sunbelt. We are our own worst enemies. Our state is bleeding economically from the effects of three recessions and an oil crisis in a decade, and our own people are saying "no" to a trans-

Michigan needs to decide what federal money it wants and stop the hassle. Otherwise, all we will get from Uncle Sam is welfare - and darn little of that.

Legislative action benefits local lockups

by Tim Richard staff writer

Local governments won a victory rben a legislative committee approved bill stripping the state Corrections Department of its power to regulate local prisoner lockups.

And the bill's sponsor, freshman hate Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, won a 7-1 victory over a five-term committee chairman.

"State government does not have the dge on intellect," said Barns after her win over Rep. Jeffrey Padden, D-Wyandotte, chairman of the House Corrections Committee.

WITH PADDEN dissenting, the committee last week reported out House Bill 4723, which strips the state Corrections director of authority over detengovernment used to detain people for less than 72 hours.

The department shall not supervise and inspect (and) shall not promulgate: rules and standards for the administration of bolding cells, holding centers or lockups," the bill says, adding:

However, the department shall provide advice and services concerning the efficient and humane administration" of local lockups.

The bill now goes to the House floor. Big winners were such diverse cities as Rochester (pop. 7,200), Westland (pop. 84,000) and Detroit (pop. 1.2 million), along with Roseville and Wyandolte, Barns said.

ROCHESTER'S two-cell lockup met state standards when it was built in 1961, but state standards were changed tion facilities operated by local units of -in 1976. City officials said bringing the lockup up to code would have cost tens of thousands of dollars, perhaps even requiring a bond issue.

State officials required: building an entry into the cellblock separate from the station lobby; enlarging each cell from 45 to 75 square feet; installing 24boar video and audio monitoring installing a shakedown and shower area; and making on site medical treatment

City officials said the average stay in Rochester's lockup is only three hours, and only a dozen prisoners a month are detained. Though willing to compromise, they said some of the state requirements were too costly and unnec-

Most detained persons are either arraigned promptly in district court across the street, freed on bond or transferred to the Oakland County jail, If Rochester were unable to make the costly renovations, it would have to close its lockup and transport all prisoners immediately to the county jail, losing an hour of an officer's time in a town with only two officers on the road at any one time.

WESTLAND'S lockup would have required almost $1 million in renovations, Barns said.

She quoted Police Chief William Rechlin as saying the location of a weapons storage area would have to be changed, and detained individuals would have to be provided desks, chairs and a common dining area.

Why do you need that when they're in and out in a few hours?" she asked. She said Detroit officials placed the cost of their state-required renovations at $5 million.

She said Roseville would be forced toclose its lockup because it would be unable to meet state standards.

And she said the police chief of Padden's own home town of Wyandotte supported her bill.

The Corrections Départment has only three inspectors of lockups for the entire state," she said. "The ability (of local officials) to negotiate isn't there.

PADDEN WARNED, "There will be standards imposed from somewhere." predicting federal courts will institute some requirements.

Padden said he believed local and state officials could work out an agree able set of compromise regulations. But Barns countered, "If there had been the ability to negotiate, we wouldn't be at this stage."

Barns' bill was amended twice.

One amendment will set up an advisory board to come up with "model" policies, much like the accrediting standards of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Padden predicted prisoners would use the standards in lawsuits against communities over lockup conditions.

The second amendment dropped a section which would have exempted investigative information on lockup conditions from the Freedom of Information Act.

THE BILL does not apply to county jails, in which prisoners are housed for or transportation to a jail.

A "holding cell" is used for detention of up to 12 hours; "holding center," up to 24 hours; and "lockup," up to 72

Barns said a bill to allow "double bunking" of prisoners in the Wayne County Jail is being considered separately. She said the Corrections Department took "an absolute position it would not approve any kind of double bunking."

MAKING ASPIRIN WORK

I am an advocate of aspirin as the initial drug for use in most cases of arthritis. What is the next step when the patient tells me that aspirin doesn't help?

One of the major reasons for failure in aspirin therapy is that the patient isn't taking enough. In order to be effective in arthritis, aspirin must reach a certain level in the blood. If too little is ingested, or too much excreted, the patient will not attain this level. Thus, when faced with patients who are apparently aspirin failures, my inclination is to increase the dose of aspirin, not eliminate

Do not be deceived that because aspirin is a common drug, it is simple to prescribe. Its proper use in arthritis often requires sophistication on the part of the physician and a great deal of cooperation by the patient.

Conderful Mays to Mrap Up the Season

Make your gift-giving special this year with homemade creations from the kitchen. Delicious baked goods can be just right for anyone on your Christmas list, young or old, and especially those "hard-to-buy-for" folks. You'll have fun creating your gifts; they'll enjoy sampling the fruits of your efforts.

Package your tasty gifts with complementary containers delicious cookies in a decorative box or small cakes on a ceramic tray. That way, when the goodies are gone, these wonderful gift containers remain to use again and again.

Eggnog Bundt cakes are light, little pound cakes that blend this traditional holiday flavor with a hint of brandy or orange juice. For a unique gift or serving idea, bake the cakes in various sized vegetable and coffee cans. Drizzle with a shimmering glaze, and arrange on a decorative tray or cutting board. Or, if you like, bake in a more traditional bundt-type pan and give with a handsome serving tray.

Giant Gingerbread People are perfect for the younger set to give and receive. Plan a day in the kitchen with the children, letting them shape, bake and decorate these jolly treats. The youngsters will love adding their own creative touch using "M&M's" Chocolate Cardies and tinted icing.

For a mouthwatering gift that's sure to please the whole family, what's better than a jazzy box filled with an assortment of holiday cookies. The trio pictured here includes delicious Chocolate Cream Bars, a moist, chewy brownie that gets a double chocolate flavor, vibrant color and delectable crunchfrom the chocolate candies. They're simple to make, and cut easily into bars. Merry Cherry Cookies are delightful jewels with toasted coconut for a wonderful taste and a festive mix of green chocolate candies and red candied cherries. Crisp and buttery Petite Pecan Wreaths round out your gift box. Decorated with an assortment of trimmings, these pecan shortbreads look like miniature wreaths.

Another gift idea is an elegant porcelain basket filled with delectable moist Chinese Chews. These tasty treats combine dates, nuts and ginger and are topped with a dusting of confectioners sugar. Arranged beautifully in the basket, they're the perfect take-along for holiday parties:

Plan to make extra of these baked goods for last-minute giving and family gatherings. Bake ahead and freeze until you're ready to serve, making sure to keep them securely wrapped until completely thawed. Spread your love to all this holiday season with homemade gifts that come from the kitchen and from the heart.

Remove paper. Cover with meringue, sealing well to the ple crust. Bake at 500 degrees for a few minutes until light brown.

WHIPPED CREAM TOPPINGS

Whipped cream paired with walnuts is an all-time favorite topping for baked or unbaked pumpkin ples and following are some variations on that theme.

Fancy Flavors. For an interesting change of sweetening, flavor the whipped cream to taste with honey or bake the pie as usual.

or ginger. Or, for a less sweet but subtle and sophisticated flavor, stir in a few drops of aromatic bitters. Spread the flavored whipped cream over the surface of your pumpkin ple and sprinkle generously with chopped

In a heavy skillet, heat 14 cup granulated sugar, stirring frequently, until it melts and is light golden in color. Add 1 tablespoon butter and 1/2 cup chopped walnuts. Continue heating until lightly browned. Immediately spread mixture in a buttered pan. Cool, then break into small pieces or crush into small bits.

Spicy Crusted Walsats. In a small skillet over medium-low heat, mix together 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, 14 teaspoon pumpkin ple spice and 14. cup large pieces of walnuts, stirring constantly, until sugar melts and walnuts look crusty. Turn out onto a greased pan, separate walnuts and cool. Use to top whipped cream on

PASTRY FOR BAKED PUMPKIN

Mellow walnuts are an extraordinarily good addition to pie crusts for they contribute to the texture as well as to richenss and flavor.

Wainst Pastry. On a lightly floured board, roll your favorite ple pastry to fore serving, turn out ice cream over fit a 9-inch ple pan. Sprinkle 14 cup a well-chilled 9-inch baked pumpkin finely chopped walnuts evenly over ple. Remove paper. Cover with mer-pastry; roll lightly with rolling pin to press in walnuts. Place pastry in pan, turn edge under and flute.

> Caramel-Layered Pastry. Prepare your favorite pastry recipe and place it in a 9-inch ple pan. Turn edge under and flute to form a high rim. To prepare the caramel layer, combine 2 tablespoons softened butter or margarine, 14 cup packed brown sugar and 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts. Pat mixture evenly and firmly onto the bottom of the pastry shell. Pour on your favorite pumpkin filling and science involved in this index

I have a most accurate method of measuring food prices. It doesn't involve any indexes, nothing quite as aci-

I simply count the filled shopping bags and divide the food bill by the number of sacks.

In the 1970s, each bag contained as much as $20 worth of groceries. There were many good years for shoppers in that decade.

But in the first couple years of this decade, I found each bag containing less than $10 worth of groceries. What knocked a hole in my calculations was introduction of the smaller bag by the supermarket chains.

It wasn't bad enough that I had to carefully monitor the loading so a carton of eggs didn't fall out and scramble at my feet. It wasn't bad enough that I had to make twice as many trips from car trunk to house when unloading.

What really perturbed me was the smaller bags held less garbage - an empty gallon container of milk almost. filled one. I had to make twice the jaunts to the garbage cans.

I am happy to report that 1983 is a turn-around year. I have been getting five large bags of groceries for $40; sometimes six. The small bags have all but disappeared.

Chicken, which hasn't increased much in price since the '70s, belps keep food bills low. I eat it at least twice a

Hearty eggs

For heartler, tastler scrambled eggs, cook with chopped walnuts and some crushed tortilla chips. Use plain chips and pep up a regular egg mixture with a dash Tabasco - or try flavored chips with just the usual seasoning. Either way, when the eggs are partially done, sprinkle on walnuts and chip crumbs and stir in lightly. Heat another minute or so until eggs cook through but are still moist.

Balanced diet is way to lose

Today, there is a great deal of emphasis placed on dieting and being alim and trim. Yet the general population is increasingly getting heavier and a growing number of Americans have weight problems. It has been estimated that more than 80 milllon Americans are considered overweight and 40 million are clinically obese.

One of the problems is that while many Americans are trying to diet, they are not doing so wisely or effectively. There is really only one way to lose weight and keep it off. That is to eat balanced meals, including foods from the four food groups, which contain fewer calories than you expend each day. Increased physical activity is important for it will help you burn up more calories.

When selecting foodsfor a weight reduction diet, look for those that will give the best return in nutrients for the calories they contain. Meat is an excellent choice for it supplies significant amounts of high-quality protein, iron, zinc, B-vitamins (including thiamin, niacin, riboflavin and B-12) in exchange for relatively few calories. Victorian Christmas

HE ELEGANT grandeur of a Victorian Christmas past has been recreated at stately Hill House Museum at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site.

It couldn't have happened in a more appropriate setting. The majestic white Greek Revival-style farmhouse, built in 1841, is a perfect backdrop for the feeling of gentility that is associated with that period of DECORATING THIS YEAR was done by the women from St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. The Livonia Arts Commission was in charge of the sunroom; the National Farm and Garden Club put its touches to the parlor and the Saulk Trail Questers took over the downstairs bedrooms. The Livonia Federated Garden Club set the scene in the dining room highlighted with the community Christmas tree holding ornaments donated by various community groups.

Probably, the showlest room in the museum - the "everyday parlor" or sitting room - was done by the students in the school district's academically. talented program at Cass School.

Museum hours for December are 2-4 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday and 1-4 p.m. Sunday. Special tours may be arranged by calling the museum office at 477-7375. A telephone recorder is in operation during the time the secretary is not present in the office. In addition to the museum, the tour includes a visit to the historical village where several restored buildings will be open, weather permitting.

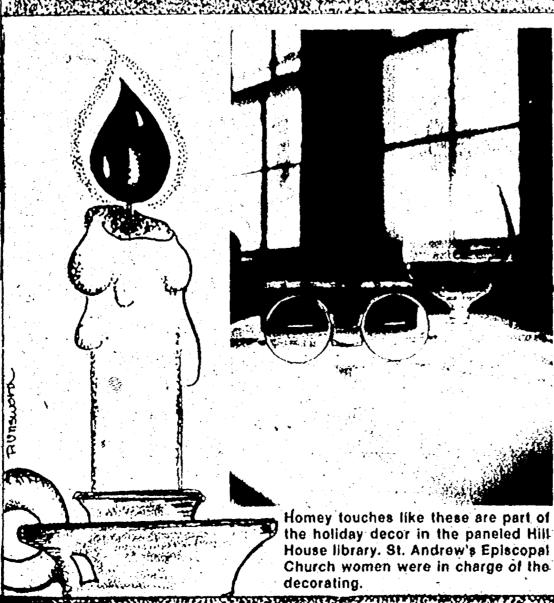

Simple but genteel is the feeling generated by the tastefully done parlor setting created by the National Farm and Garden Club in the 1841vintage Hill House.

Redistricting draws fire from irate Republicans

By Tim Richard staff writer

Pick an answer to complete this statement:

Democrats in the State House of Representatives will push through a legislative redistricting bill:

A. Only if Republicans take part in urther recall campaigns against Demperatic legislators who supported the personal income tax increase. "House Speaker (Gary) Owen (D-Ypsilanti) has riven his word he will not if Republians stay out of recall," said Sen. Parick McCollough, D-Dearborn.

B. At their own peril. "If it goes brough, another 10 or 12 Democrats vill be recalled," according to Sen. oug Cruce, R-Troy. "Gary Owens has is finger on the trigger, and if he pulls there will be all-out war."

C. But Republicans will go to the vots. Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville id Republicans will "go statewide ith an anti-gerrymandering petition ive forcing a referendum on the districting bill."

D. After the November 1984 election. that time, it will be impossible for publicans to retallate, speculates n. Richard Fessier, R-West Bloom-

AT 1:30 THURSDAY morning, the state Senate passed, on a 19-18 partyline vote, a redistricting bill which Republicans say will help Democrats hold onto four Senate seats and take over one or two others.

The measure also is expected to enable Democrats to pick up four to six more seats in the House, where they already hold a 63-47 edge.

Senate Majority Leader William Faust, D-Westland, unveiled the plans only five hours prior to passage, when it appeared that Sen. David Serotkin, D-Macomb, was about to be recalled by a 2-1 margin. Serotkin will not leave office until the election result is certified by elections officials in a week, so he was eligible to vote.

Faust had only a brief time to act because Serotkin's downfall will knot the Senate in an 18-18 tie. Faust spent all day Wednesday closeted with Democratic senators, reportedly showing them maps only of their own districts.

Irate Republicans stewed and were able to see nothing until the session began at 8:30 p.m.

THE MEASURE goes to the House, which has until Dec. 31, 1984, to act:

"I think it will come out of the House in November of 1984," said Fessier.

"It's a life preserver (for Democrats). If they perceive they're losing their grip, he (Owen) will pass the reapportionment plan to regain control in 1986. If they survive, there will be no need to pass reapportionment.

McCollough, who could be the next Democrat to face a recall election, took credit for arranging an "unprecedented meeting" between political leaders, who promised a truce: no Republican involvement in recalls and no got 68 % percent of the vote?" Democratic pushing of reapportion-

McCollough deplored a reapportionment-recall duel as resulting in "unreasoned chaos." But he admitted to "voting with my party" for reapportion-

"There's some question whether the governor (Democrat James J. Blanchard) will sign it. If it's signed and becomes law, Republicans will put together 152,000 signatures (for a referendum) to let voters decide," said McCollough.

The third-term senator, whose district includes Garden City, was reportedly one of the last to agree to a reapportionment plan.

BUT GEAKE is distrustful of any promises by Speaker Owen. "Republicans are outraged because Raust and Owen told us they would not run redistricting if we didn't suport recalls.

They betrayed us," he said.

Cruce added, "Republicans haven't been involved in recalls. Their (Democrats') supporters - the blue collar auto workers - feel ripped off by the tax increase. It was 68% percent of the voters who turned out Serotkin. When has any Republican in Macomb County Cruce said he "did my best to convince the Macomb Republican Party not to give $5,000° to the Serotkin recall effort. But he said no state officials or GOP legislators took part in the ef-

"We have no deal with them," Cruce

LOCALLY, THE reapportionment bill appears to hurt no incumbent senators of either party.

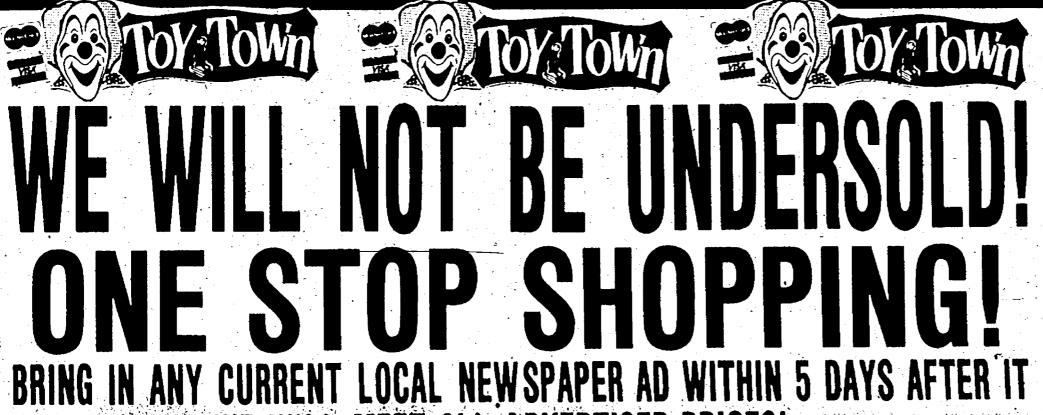

Quite the opposite. Fessier called it a plan to protect incumbents except in one or two outstate areas.

Republican Sens. Norman Shinkle of Monroe County and Nick Smith of Hillsdale County would be thrown into the same district, with most of Shinkle's former constituents going into a Democratic district, Fessler said. --

Senate districts are little changed in western Wayne County. Geake's 6th District loses only a corner of Redford, McCollough's 10th is virtually unchanged. Faust's 12th loses only a tract of Taylor and adds Flat Rock.

Ladywood bounces to region title

By C.J. Risak staff writer

There were just three things missing for Jackson Lumen Christi Thursday night as it pursued a Class B regional title at Chelsea High School:

Size.Depth.

• An outside offensive threat.

Lacking just one of those ingredients would have made Christi's job difficult. Against Livonia Ladywood, which was clearly superior in all three categories and equal in a couple of others, it was downright impossible.

The result was predictable: a 66-39 trouncing of Christi by the Blazers, earning them the regional champlonship and taking them one step further toward a state title.

Ladywood, now 20-3, will continue its quest at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Jackson County Western High School in the quarterfinals against the Marshall-Allegan winner.

ABOUT THE ONLY category Ladywood did not possess an advantage was in experience. The Blazers start three juniors and two sophomores.

Experience hones talent. Meaning that Ladywood, which is basket-deep in skilled players, will be even more awesome next year.

If that's possible. The Blazers took command of Thursday's game with six minutes to play in the first quarter. A Char Govan bucket broke a 4-4 tie and started a 16-1 scoring streak that pushed Ladywood to a 19-5 advantage after one quarter. And pushed Christi, which finished 19-5, out of the tournament

"These kids are hungry," said Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh. "They really want it. Last year, I think they might have looked a little past (the quarterfinal game against St. Joseph)."

St. Joseph surprised Ladywood in that game. Kavanaugh does not forsee a repeat.

"All we've been saying is, 'One more to go,'" be said. "We're thinking of nothing but the next

IT WAS APPARENT that the Blazers were devoting their full attention to Christi. Playmaking guard Maria Grant was the Titana top threat, but Ladywood stalled her by adeptly changing defenses from a man-to-man to a zone.

The result: Grant could find no one to play make to, and while her early drives to the basket were successful, later on she ran into nothing but the likes of Govan and 6-footers Debbie Lapinski and Sue Laliberte, Grant managed 15 points before fouling out with two minutes to play.

No one could find the range from the outside for Christl, either. And with the Titans' tallest starter standing just 5-8, Ladywood had no problems on the

As Kavanaugh put it: "If we didn't outrebound them we would have had some long, hard practices next week."

OFFENSIVELY, THE LEADER for the Blazers was Emily Wagner. The 5-8 guard did just about everything driving through Christi's 2-1-2 zone defense for layups, pumping in long jumpers from the outside, dishing the ball off for easy buckets underneath.

Govan was most often the recipient of those passes. Wagner, who finished with 22 points, and Govan, who scored 17, accounted for all but two of Ladywood's first-quarter markers. Laplaski also netted nine for the Blazers.

For Christi, Lisa Oexler joined Grant in double figures by scoring 12 points, nine coming in the fourth quarter.

But by that time the issue was no longer in doubt.

AN DEAN/staff photographer

Ladywood's Sue Laliberte helped the Blazer's dominate the boards against Jackson Lumen Christi in Thursday's regional final.

Bentley splits pair; Cox spree ties foe

Senior center Paul Marderosian scored four goals and added an assist last week to lead Livonia Bentley to a split in a pair of hockey games.

Wednesday night, Bentley trailed non-league foe Milford Lakeland after one period 3-0, rallied to within 4-3 after two, but lost 6-3.

Bob Hachigian, Dave Lentz and Marderosian scored the Buildogs' secondperiod goals, with Marderosian adding an assist in the game at Eddie Edgar Arena.

Thursday, Bentley went on the road to play Bloomfield Hills Lahser and got three goals from Marderosian in a 5-2 triumph:

Lahser led after one period, 2-1, but the Buildogs rallied in this league game to even their record at 1-1-1.

Marderosian's second goal tied the game early in the second period, Bill Begley scored the game winner at 7:04 of the period, and Marderosian and Hachigian, a junior center, scored for Bentley in the third period.

LIVONIA STEVENSON got five goals from scoring machine Brian Cox and tied Southfield Lathrup Wednesday night 6-6. Each team scored twice in each period.

Cox scored the tying goal 18 minutes into the third period, converting a pass from Allan Buchanan.

Joe Conway scored the Spartans other goal. John Nagel drew three assists.

Stevenson is 2-2-1 overall, 1-0-1 in the league.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN forward Jim Barnes scored his second goal of the game with only 45 seconds left Friday to give the Patriots a 6-5 tie against intercity rival Livonia Churchill in a game marred by 98 minutes in penalties.

Churchill coach Rudy Varvari was ejected in the first period for tossing a towel on the ice after a fight broke out between the Chargers' Steve Larsen and Patriots' Ed Zajdel. Larsen and Zajdel were also disqualified from the game for fighting and are suspended for their teams' next two games.

Former Livonia Stevenson coach Gerry Goode took over the coaching duties for the remainder of the game for Churchill, the first time he had been churchill opened the scoring at 1:22 of the first period on the first of three goals by Ed Shepler.

Spartans nip RU CC, Borgess survive tests

This is not going to be the same kind of year for Redford Union's basketball team.

The Panthers suffered through a winless season a year ago. Bill Foley retired at year's end and Lee Bjerke replaced him.

RU showed it had other plans for this season by throwing a scare into highly regarded Livonia Stevenson Friday before dropping a 56-52 decision at RU.

The Panthers took a shot at an upset, leading by a point with just over a minute to play. Rick Rozman put Stevenson back on top, 53-52, with a pair of free throws.

RU had a chance to recapture the lead, but failed

RU had a chance to recapture the lead, but failed to convert a one-and-one foul shot situation with 31 seconds left. Stevenson's Tom Domako closed the game out by connecting on three of four free throws.

"My kids believe they can play basketball," said Bjerke. "We played different defenses, changed them up. That kept us in the ball game and kept them off-balance."

Bob Sluka poured in 22 points and nabbed 12 rebounds for Stevenson. Domako chipped in with 19 points and nine rebounds and Rozman, a guard, had 11 rebounds. Three RU players scored in double figures: Dennis Boshart (16), Rich Williams (12) and Mike Hart (10).

CHURCHILL 77, DEARBORN 45: First-game jitters? No such malady affecting Livonia Church-

The Chargers were in mid-season form in a romp at home over Dearborn, Friday. They collected 37 baskets, 12 from Craig Hunter who finished with 24 points and five assists.

John Grzybek added 19 points and five assists, Rob Foust had eight points and eight assists and Mike Panganis collected eight points and 10 rebounds

Perhaps the most telling statistic was turnovers: Churchill made only 13 all night.

Scott Mason topped Dearborn with 12 points.

BISHOP BORGESS 69, MILAN 65: Redford Bishop Borgess had things going its way through the first half, building a 42-30 lead by the intermission Friday at Borgess.

But the third quarter was a disaster, as Milan charged back behind a 24-8 surge, including a streak of 18 straight points, to lead by four going into the final eight minutes.

Borgess regrouped in time, however, outpointing Milan 19-11 in the final quarter to claim the season-

basketball

opening victory. Joe Gregory's 33 points, including 15 of 20 free throws, was high for the Spartans. Gary Dziekan contributed 10 points. Ron Dingmen poured in 26 points for Milan.

THURSTON 57, LAKELAND 40: Redford Thurston used a suffocating match-up zone defense to limit Milford-Lakeland to just two first-quarter points in an easy win Friday at Thurston.

By the end of one quarter, the Eagles led 14-2 and Lakeland never got closer than 10 the rest of the way. Junior guard Raffi Kostegian popped in 18 points to pace Thurston, with Dan Starinsky adding 14 and 13 rebounds. Lars Anderson grabbed 15 rebounds and netted six points for the winners.

Brad Perkins' eight points was tops for Lakeland.

JOHN GLENN 60, TAYLOR CENTER 46: The man-to-man pressure defense was strong all night long Friday for Westland John Glenn, but it took until the third quarter for the offense to catch up.

That's when the Perchase comband from a 25-13-

That's when the Rockets exploded from a 25-23 halftime lead to a 48-30 advantage after three quarters in dismantling Taylor Center at Glenn.

Mario Grazulis, a 6-7 center, garnered 20 points and hauled in 16 rebounds for the winners. Mike Baydarian contributed 12 points and five assists and Ron Taig had eight points and 10 rebounds.

George Gillespie's 10 points was best for Taylor case of bigger people. Garden City had them, Inkster Cherry Hill didn't. What resulted was a wearing down of Cherry Hill in the second half as Garden City gradually pulled away at Cherry Hill Friday.

The Cougars' 29-23 lead at halftime expanded to 47-30 after three quarters as they tightened their; zone defense, crashed the boards and got the fast; break rolling. Scott McCloskey's 20 points and 14 rebounds was best for Garden City. Steve Klein contributed 12 points and Paul Krol had 10.

Mark Merriman notched 17 points for Cherry Hill.

Scoring spirals

Long rated as one of the strongest leagues in the Observerland area, the Wonderland Classic is fast gaining recognition as one of the highest scoring loops in the entire metropolitan Detroit

Further proof of the high scoring ability was furnished during the past week when five members earned their way into the 700 club and one of the teams, George Bashara's, rolled-3339 with a closing game of 1172.

Those who earned the membership in the club included Ken Cummins with 770, Mark Hanna with 734, Dave Kmiecik with 716, JMm Cristen with 707 and Hugh O'Nell with 700.

These five new members brought the number of 700 series to 50 thus far nd the season is only at the halfway point. Meanwhile the ladies have rolled 25 series above the 600 mark.

WESTLAND BOWL It was an unusual week in that only one bowler broke the 700 barrier. He was Jim Bugefae who had a middle game of 264 in a 702 bowled in the Wednesday men's league. survived a relentless band of Lady Pilots, some questionable officiating, and its own inability to make free throw shots Thursday night to win its fifth straight state Class A girls basketball regional tournament, 46-36.

The Marlins have won more regional titles than any school in Michigan.

Nobody said it was going to be easy for the Marlins, but this one was a dog fight. The noisy crowd of more than 750 inside the Southfield High gym got its money's worth.

"The big issue going in was how we were going to play against an offensive powerhouse like Murray-Wright," said Mercy coach Larry Baker. "Should we play man-to-man or a zone defensively? Logically, a zone should be more effective.

"But, we played the kind of defense we play best (man-to-man), and challenged them to beat us."

A SIMILAR THEORY was employed by Livonia Bentley last Tuesday in the regional opener against Murray-Wright, and the Lady Pilots destroyed

Compare: Against Bentley, Murray-Wright scored 20 points in the first quarter. Against Mercy, Murray-Wright scored 20 points in the first half.

contention before the end of the half.

ON THE STRENGTH of the tremendous long-range shooting of Carol Smith and the inside quickness of Margaret Jackson, the Pilots pulled within five, 25-20 by halftime. Smith had eight. second-quarter points (16 total) and Jackson had four, 10 in the half.

If the third quarter belonged to any. one, it was the officials. The whistle was blown 23 times in those eight minutes of play. Ten fouls were called and 13 violations of one kind or another were cited - eight went against the Marlins.

Mercy took just six shots in that quarter, but thanks to the poor shooting of the Pilots (three for 13), escaped with a 34-26 lead.

Smith, who hit the last two shots of the third quarter to keep the Pilots close, hit the first two shots of the fourth quarter. That made it 34-30 and Baker called timeout.

After the pause, Rosowski, DeMattia and Annette Ruggiero, with a Pilot free throw mixed in, scored to put the Marlins back up 40-31.

NORMALLY, THAT lead would have been comfortable for Mercy. Except on this night, the Marlins lost their touch from the free throw line. The Marlins went to the line 12 times in the fourth quarter and hit just four shots. In total, the Marlins were eight for 22.

"I think if we would have shot 50 or 80 percent from the line, we wouldn't enals Friday at Western Michigan Unihave had to deal with any pressure versity in Kalamazoo.

They shot just 38 percent and dealt with enormous pressure down the stretch.

Ironically, the Pilots never got within eight points of the Marlins. They certainly had enough chances. However, the Pilots could hit on just four of 21 shots in the final quarter, and many of those were from underneath the Mercy

ANOTHER REASON the Marlins were able to sustain their lead was a deftly executed four-corner stall. Basford, Ruggiero and Ford all took turns keeping the ball away from Pilot defenders and forcing fouls.

In the end, it was Ford, the seemingly-silent-but-smooth sophomore, who put the lid on the Marlin win. After the Pilots pulled within eight with 2:43 left and had missed several opportunities to get closer, Ford hit a pair of clutch free throws.

After Rugglero hit two big free throws with 55 seconds left, Ford Iced it with a steal and an uncontested

As is the Marlins' method, they used a balanced offensive attack. After Basford's 17 points, Ruggiero had nine, Ford eight, and Rosowski and DeMatila each had six.

The Marlins (23-2) will meet (fill in school) at 7:30 Wednesday night, again at Southfield High, in the quarterfinals. The winner will advance to the semifi-

CATHOLIC CENTRAL 67, CLARKSTON 63 (OT): Bob Hojnacki came off the bench to score four points and grab a pair of key rebounds in overtime to boost Redford Catholic Central past Clarkston Friday at Clarkston.

Hojnacki got into the game when sophomore cente Paul Tavana fouled out after scoring 10 points and pulling down nine rebounds, John McIntyre, who netted 28 points to pace the Shamrock attack, hit five free throws in the extra period.

CC built a seemingly safe 40-26 halftime lead, but Clarkston stormed back behind the shooting of Dave Jokish and Eric Kline. Jokish scored all 16 of his points after the intermission and Kline collected 10 of his 16 in the second half.

The Wolves pulled to within four after three quarters and went ahead in the final quarter. But Rob Wandzel's jumper with 49 seconds left forced the overtime.

Pain of the game,

By Jim Dufreene special writer'

On the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus, Arnie Kourtjian is known as a legman. He is also a very good ankle man, muscle man, ligament man. In fact just about any part of the body is Kourtilan's domain.

You see, Kourtlian is a trainer and for the past four years at UM-D he's been the keeper of the athletes. In his training room at the fieldhouse. Kourtjian is like a mother; he tapes, he rubs, he soothes, he conditions, he heals. He keeps his skaters, dribblers, fencers and spike-set-and-servers in Any success at the Dearborn campus among its athletic teams has to be shared equally among the players, the coaches. . . and Kourtilan.

"I like being with the athletes and following them through their season." said Kourtjian, who still lives with his parents, Walter and Sadie Kourtjian, in Livonia. "I'm as happy as they are when they win. And I'm always concerned when one of them goes down."

KOURTJIAN'S INTEREST in sports training began at his alma mater, Livonla Bentley. He didn't play on a sports team in high school, he always took care of them. He was the trainer when his school was the baseball state champlon in 1978. He also served as trainer for the girls' soccer team and the hockey squad.

Kourtijlan graduated in 1979 and enrolled at Schoolcraft College. While there, he stepped in as trainer for the men's soccer team, the women's volleyball team and the men's basketball squad.

He also served as a volunteer trainer for the old Detroit Lightning professional soccer team in the MISL. But it was back at Bentley in 1980 that Kourtilan was approached by UM-D hockey coach Adam Mitchell.

Mitchell was about to take his team to the NAIA National Championship. Tournament and he needed a trainer.

"ADAM APPROACHED me during a Bentley hockey game and asked me if I wanted to go to the nationals with his team," Kourtjian recalled. "I was stunned. I couldn't believe he was asking me.

Kourtilan followed the team to St. Paul, Minn. He repaired them after they nipped Augsburg College, 6-5, and Wisconsin-River Palls, 5-4. Soing to miss him a whole lot the morn-Then in the finals for the NAIA ing after.

championship, he agonized with everyone else through the close 4-3 loss to Bemidil State.

And when it was over, Kourtjian knew what his aim was in life. That was the first time I had a taste of university competition, or even a road trip," he said. "When I came home, I said, 'That was me'."

The following school year, Kourtjian was named head trainer for all of UM-D's intercollegiate teams. Although the school has had trainers for individual sports in the past, it was the first time a trainer had been given the authority to develop a sports medicine program for the entire athletic program.

KOURTJIAN'S JOB at UM-D pow covers a wide range of tasks. He not only takes care of the athletes, he assists in their pre-conditioning training, orders equipment for the various teams and maintains medical supplies. Even such unglamourous lobs as sharpening skates, washing uniforms or cleaning tollets fall within Kourtjian's duties.

And he loves it all. "I like being part of a university athletic program," said Kourtilan. "I enjoy my work but most of all, I like the personal friendship that occurs between myself and the athletes.

When they're out on the ice or court, I feel like there is a part of me out there."

Unfortunately for the Wolves, the relationship between Kourtjian and UM-D will end this spring. Kourtjian is applying for various sport medicine programs at major universities. He would like to be accepted at Ferris State, where he could work as, a trainer and take courses toward a biology degree.

IN FOUR YEARS, Kourtjian hopes to take the National Athletic Trainers Association exam and become a certifled NATA trainer. After that, anything could happen.

"It's very difficult to get in the professional scene," Kourtjian said. "You almost have to know somebody. But there are many opportunities at the college level and sports medicine clinics are on the rise, especially in California."

UM-D, meanwhile, will have to replace someone which the teams and coaches have come to trust and depend on. It won't be easy.

"I don't think we'll lose any games because Arnie isn't here," said Gene Boldon, UM-D athletic director and Livonia Clarenceville's boys' basketball team won the second and fourth quarters in its home opener Friday against Grosse He; but falled miserably in the first and third, losing to the highly touted Red Devils 57-46.

The Trojans suffered from opening game ilters, turning the ball over repeatedly as Grosse He stormed to a 17-7 first quarter lead.

But they came back strong in the second quarter, scoring eight unanswered points to pull to within a basket. Jeff Vakratsis dropped in two free throws, Rick Williams scored two fastbreak baskets, Tim Spencer banked one off the glass, and suddenly, the Trojans were back in the ballgame. The teams traded baskets for the rest of the half and Grosse Ile took a 27-23 lead into the locker room.

"WE WERE nervous in the first quarter," Clarenceville's second year coach Paul Clough sald. "They have a lot more talent and experience than we do. But I was happy with the way we came back in the second quarter."

The third quarter was all Grosse He as the taller and stronger Red Devils outscored Clarenceville 20-6 to break the game wide open. The Trojans had a difficult time moving the ball up the floor against Grosse He's full-court press and the size difference finally took its toll on the Grosse Ile has three starters back from last year's 20-4 team while the Trojans have Spencer, who led the team with 11 points and 13 re-

But Spencer, who averaged more than 19 points a game last year, had an off night, scoring only three points in the first half. "He's our best player, but he can't do it all himself," Clough.

WILLIAMS PLAYED a fine game for Clarenceville, contributing eight points, Grosse Ile's backcourt tandem of Steve Alford and Jeff Robbins were too much for Clarencville, as both hit one jumper after another that gave the Trojans fils the entire game, Alford led all scorers with 18 points.

When they missed, Grosse Ile's frontliners used their muscle to control the boards, converting rebounds into easy buckets. The Red Devils were getting two, three and even four shots around their own basket, outrebounding Clarenceville 38-31 in the contest.

Neither team shot well in the game. Clarenceville hit only 16 of 70 shots (22 percent) while Grosse Ile connected on just 21 of 68 (31 percent).

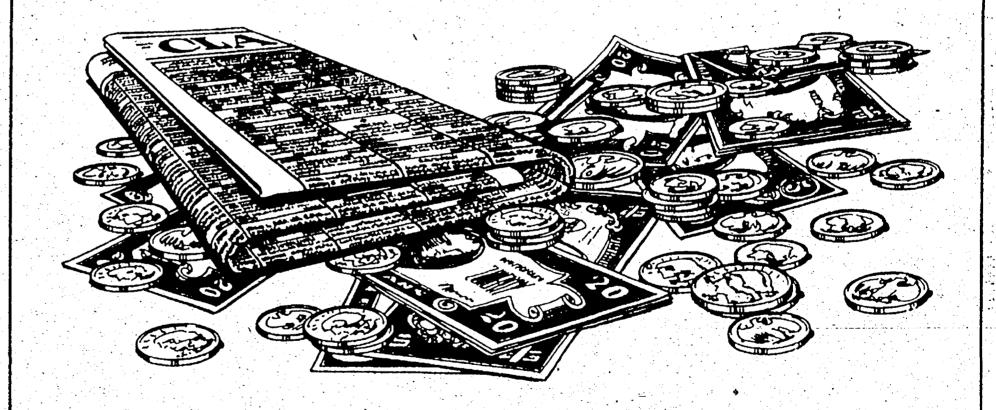

Clarenceville made 14 of 28 free throws, while the Red Devils converted 15 of 24.

The Detroit Pistons are looking for a few good people - 65 of them, to be exact:

No, they aren't holding tryouts for their basketball team. What they are doing is forming an exclusive club of 65 boosters to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Membership in the club, known as the "85 Roses Club," won't come cheap. Initial fees are just $100, but members will chip in $20 more for each game the Pistons win. Fifty wins equals $1,000. After 50 wins, each victory will cost $1.

Membership in the club includes an invitation to a reception hosted by Terry Tyler, a member of the Pistons who will serve as honorary chairman of the club; four tickets each month to one of the Pistons' games; admittance for each member and three of his (her) guests to get-togethers with Terry Tyler following the monthly games; a banquet after the season; and a tax deduction for all contributions.

Cystic fibrosis is a congenital and eventually fatal childhood disease involving malfunctioning of the liver and gradual respiratory failure.

The lives of the Lee family (Penelope Milford, Steve Railsback and Torquil Campbell) are changed by the arrival of "The Golden Seal," a Samuel Goldwyn Jr. production also starring Michael Beck.

The scenery is nice but that's about all in 'Golden Seal'

Tom Panzenhagen, this week's quest critic, writes a film column that appears weekly in most of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Some bad films may be excused.

Some at least are ambitious, offer fine performances or memorable musical scores, or perhaps show promise of better things to come from novice writers, directors, cinematographers.

There's no excuse for "The Golden Seal" (PG), a would-be wilderness adventure set against the majestic Aleutian Islands. OK, the scenery is nice. But "The Golden Seal" has nothing else going

A TIRED STORY preaches the corruptive powers of greed. Bounty hunters menace a little boy. Guns are pointed at the head of a baby seal: "Buy this premise or the pup is dead," the script seems to shout in desperation.

But the premise - that there's a golden seal out thar worth $100,000 that noble Aleuts, an unscrupulous golddigger and the little boy's own dad all want to get their hands on — is too desper-

Characters and plot twists serve only to bulldoze a path toward the inevitable conclusions— that greed is the root of all evil. That's a nice thought but one handled here with all the sensitivity of a real-life seal hunt.

A QUESTION must be asked: Will kids like this movie?

That's debatable. "The Golden Seal" features a 9-year-old protagonist, wise beyond his years, who upstages his parents while setting right all their faults.

Perhaps that's an enviable, easily identifiable role for youngsters. And there's nothing wrong with little people getting a boost and learning a thing or two from the movies.

But, parents, do you really want your children profiting from comic books? Because that's what this film is - an unclassic com-

'Oz' highlights Noel Night

The main Detroit Public Library will turn into the fairyland of Oz on Noel Night from 6-9 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 7.

Oz characters usually seen wandering down the Yellow Brick Road will be traversing the corridors at the Main Library, giving a lucky penny to each youngster (12 and under) who can identify them correctly. There were more than 40 more Oz books written after "The Wizard of Oz," so there are many more Os characeters than appeared in that book and movie.

Models of the Emerald City of Oz, Dorothy's Kansas farmhouse and the castle of the Wicked Witch of the West will be on exhibit, together with all the famous Oz books by L. Frank Baum, Ruth Plumly Thompson and their successors.

Cast of 'Scapin' should lighten up

The Actors Alliance Theatre Company presents "Scapin" by Mol-. iere through Dec. 17 at Lycee International, 30800 Evergreen Road, Southfield. For ticket information, call 642-1328.

By Cathle Breidenbach special writer

The Actors Alliance production of Moliere's "Scapin" is slow to get laughter rolling. A farce should make the audience laugh out loud, but it isn't until the second act that the audience responds to the antics and foibles of the characters with wholehearted laughter.

Perhaps the rub is that some of the characters take themselves too seriousy. Humor is a contakious pleasure that's best communicated by people who can laugh at themselves.

The cast played Scapin with slapstick style and considerable energy but could have hammed it up even more.

Updated classics run the risk of losing the irreverent humor that originally made them funny. The Actors Alliance's "Scapin" doesn't lose it but gets the best laughs when the cast laughs at itself and the play.

THE QUALITY of acting in "Scapin" is excellent. Jeff Nahan plays the lead as the manipulating scamp, Scapin. Nahan comes closest to capturing the instinct for the inane when he launches into a joyous bit of silliness by singing French nursery songs while his employer lies trussed in a sack at his feet. Stereotyped casting was the expected style in Moliere's day and director Laurie Logan's casting is adept.

Lori Ann Johnson is both fair and sweet as the young maiden in prim petticoats. Annette DePetris is a sultry, barefoot gypsy. David Fox and John Puchalski have the stature, age and girth to play the wealthy fathers that Scapin dupes. Rodney Moeller and Joey L. Golden are the earnest young sons, constantly in love and just as honeless. ly strapped for money.

The pacing is energetic but Logan could have paced the play even faster to capture the broad, visual humor that gives farce its high jinks. The play moved best when it moved fast.

In the Actors Alliance production, an open drainage pipe, probably an Italian open sewer, meanders through the set. It's an innovative comedy device that reveals character and becomes a running visual gag. It works, and adds interest to the set.

Comedy in Moliere's time tied up all loose ends of plot with tidy resolutions. Long-lost children are reunited with parents and secret lovers win approval. It's a corny, but jolly happy ending without ambiguity and the Actors Alliance Company celebrates with music and dance.

Expand knowledge of wine chemistry

As wine consumers become more curious, winemakers attempt to increase the information they provide about the wine in the bottle, usually on the back label of more select

One item that is increasingly mentioned is the pH factor present in the wine. Struggle with me herefor a few paragraphs, and you'll have a bit more insight into wine chemistry as well as command a tool with which you can amaze your frlends.

The term pH is a chemists' abbreviation of the number of charged bydrogen atoms (lons) in wine. These ions come into wine in the natural acids found in grapes.

In no sense are they additives. They result from the acids that mix in the juice following the crushing of grapes. Some of the hydrogen will pull away and become "free." The measure of the free ions is pH.

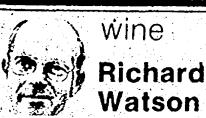

The resultant positive charge is measured on a 0-14 scale, wholly acid being 0, wholly alkaline being 14. (Water is neutral at 7.) Wine is, of course, acid and its pH runs from 3 to 4 only. The lower the pH number, the more hydrogen ions in the

THE LEVEL of free ions in a wine significantly affects its stability, life, color, aroma and flavor. The higher the total grape acidity, the more ions available and the lower the pH. Low pH is 3.0 to 3.5, high is about 3.5 to perhaps a 3.8 level.

While these differences seem numerically small, their effect on wine is substantial.

Disease-producing organisms do not grow at all between 8.0 and 4.0, making wine a very safe thing to drink. And wines of low pH need less sodium dioxide, used to inhibit bacteria growth and to prevent oxidation and/or deterioration.

Malo-lactic bacteria does not grow well in low pH wines, so when this secondary fermentation phenomenon is not wanted, in fresh and light wines, a low pH factor helps. In reds, where male-lactic fermentation (secondary) is often wanted, higher levels of pH are desirable, say the 3.4-3.7 range.

Wines with higher pH tend to have bitartrate crystals, those harmless white objects often seen in cold-stabllized chardonnay. Higher levels also affect color, especially noticeable in reds, while lower emphasize the blue, more purple hues.

AND BROWNING in white wines (oxidation) will occur more slowly with low pH, keeping the wines younger looking and fresher tasting. Aroma also is affected, low levels giving off berry-like smells and the higher producing the deeper, more darker, more complex attributes of red wines especially.

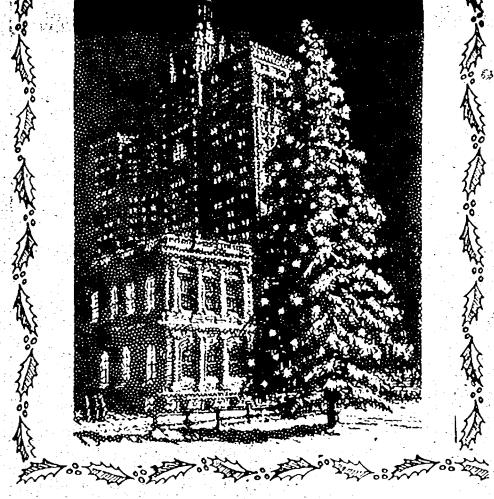

Now to the translation of all this where it counts, in the selection of a bottle of wine for immediate consumption or a case for laying away. A chenin blanc with a reported level of 3.16 will tend to be crisper, lighter and demand quicker drinkingthan one that comes in a 3.37.

Similarly with chardonnay, where aging potential is always a touchy matter. High pH will be more complex, deeper and fuller but possibly flabbler than lighter more immediate issues in the 3.2 range. In reds, lower value will produce redder, brighter, fresher wines and be more stable.

These will always seem to be younger, more immediate wines, and will be more stable at the time. Aging complexity may be enhanced by somewhat higher levels in a wine, although my reading on this aspect of the subject leaves me a bit confused.

Chemists seem less than clear on this point of aging impact, but it is likely that higher levels, if not too high, are needed for some of the greater reds, if for no other reason than to promote complexity and malo-lactic fermentation.

Enough chemistry. Next column we'll be back to wine for its own.
