City studies proposed use of volunteers

By Mary Klemic staff writer

An ad hoc committee will be appointed by Mayor Charles Pickering and members of the Westland City Council to review the use of volunteers In the fire department.

The nine-member panel is to review volunteer operations in other communitles, determine their benefits and problems, estimate the starting and annual costs and recommend qualifications of volunteers. It is to report to the city council by March 15.

Council President Thomas Artley and Councilmen Charles "Tray" Griffin, 'A. Kent Herbert and Robert Wagner discussed the committee at a press conference Monday. The purpose of the conference was to explain the council's priorities for the next two years, council members said. It took place after all seven council members, in groups of three, held private discussions with Pickering.

Two council members will sit on the ad hoc panel. Three committee members will be appointed by the council, three by the mayor and one by the council and the mayor jointly.

ANOTHER AD HOC committee will be appointed to look into beautification. This panel will review ordinances concerning home and business upkeep, discuss problems with ordinance enforcement, suggest how to feasibly improve the city's appearance and discuss the use of volunteers and volunteer organizations working on city property.

Also, the committee will review a proposal by the council to give monthly. awards to residences and businesses for their appearance.

"At town hall meetings, people have complained about the way the city looks and I have to agree with them,"

Herbert sald. "Once the grounds are in order, we could get volunteers to maintain them," Wagner said. "We hope this summer that the city grounds would be a place of pride again." THE USE of volunteers isn't going to lead to layoffs, council members said. They said one ad hoc committee may suggest a regional plan concerning a volunteer fire department.

"Nobody is going to lose their jobs over this," Herbert said.

The four council members called the

Last week, the council passed a resolution directing the mayor to hire an architect by next month to prepare building specs and take bids for the expansion. Monday, the four councilmen said that the resolution was to give Pickering one more chance to take action on the subject, and that council members will hire an architect themselves if the mayor doesn't.

"WE WAITED six months now and nothing has happened," Griffin said. "Even if it means going to court, there will be an expension." We will hire an architect, if nothing else," Artley sald.

The newsletter will feature services, problems or the positive and an update on legislative activity. One page of the newsletter will be devoted to the council, while the remaining three pages will be devoted to the administration. The council and administration will review each other's pages.

Council members and the mayor agreed on most of the topics they discussed, councilmen said.

"The areas of disagreement are really very few," Herbert sald. "We maintain that we can work with the mayor if given half a chance. I think he's finding that if he'd sit down with us, we will be able to accomplish some things."

Split school tax vote due Monday

Few Wayne-Westland residents were on hand Monday night to question the need for a split tax collection in the school district. That public hearing on the issue was the first step in a process that could lead to half the taxes being collected in July, the other half collected during December as usual.

The board of education will decide whether to split the tax collection at its 7 p.m. meeting on Dec. 19.

Before questioning the administration and a citizens' committee appointed to study the issue, the audience learned that the district projected a $500,000 savings by collecting half the school taxes six months earlier than is traditionally done.

If the board approves the proposal, the administration said that priorities for spending the savings would include: $44,000 for elementary textbooks in reading, spelling, science and social studies; $170,000 for secondary textbooks in social studies, science, vocational education, math and language in elementary and junior high schools; $66,000 for science equipment; and another $90,000 for teaching supplies and exit examinations.

THE SAVINGS accrue from reducing the district's need to borrow money to operate for the first six months -July through December - of the school's fiscal year. Normally revenue from taxes due the previous December start flowing into the district's coffers / In January. Last year the district paid $1.123 million in interest on money it borrowed to meet expenses, John Baracy, assistant superintendent for business and finance, emphasized that the split collection of taxes won't result in higher tax bills.

He added that it was one of a number of things, including employee concessions, that the district was trying to implement to balance its budget.

> "We are confident that the administration and the board of education will make the necessary communication to the taxpayers, and that they will utilize this savings as they have indicated." According to the average loss in interest income for those who pay their taxes directly would amount to a maximum of $40 a year. The administration placed the net interest loss at $15 a vear.

In addition, senior citizens with incomes of less than $10,000 a year could delay their tax payments until Feb. 15 of the following year.

Baracy noted that there are about 200 companies holding mortgages in the district.

Rating the performance of school superintendent George Garver outstanding, the Livonia Board of Education granted the district's chief administrator a 2 percent raise at a special meeting Monday.

The raise, in the amount of $1.402. brings Garver's total compensation to $71,302 in both direct salary and contributions to a tax-sheltered account. The raise, retroactive to July 1, was approved unanimously by the board without discussion. The raise was set at 2 percent because that amount is equivalent to what was received by other school employees, board President Carol Strom said later. The board discussed the amount at a closed session held immediately before Monday's special meeting, she added. Prior to granting the raise, the board conducted its annual review of the superintendent's performance. For this year's review, the board used a new

Principals want to reopen pact

The employee group representing 55 Livonia Public Schools principals and administrators has asked the school elistrict to reopen its contract.

Richard Gornick, principal at Bu-change Elementary School and presisent of the Livonia Educational Administrators and Supervisors (LEAdS) group, sald some minor improvements, to take effect immediately, and a contract extension are being sought.

"We're in the third (and last) year of our contract and the amount we were to receive in the third year was predicated on what the teachers received," Gornick said.

While the teachers agreed to a wage freeze in exchange for additional teaching positions, some minor improvements in adjustments for advanced degrees and experience were made, Gornick added. Similar changes for LEAdS members are being request-

At the same time, Gornick said, a contract extension patterned after the agreement reached by the teachers - calling for a 4-7 percent raise in each of the next two years with the actual amount to be determined by the level of property valuation in the district is being sought.

Carol Strom, president of the Livonia Board of Education, said the board in its closed session Monday discussed the LEAdS request to reopen the contract. "Our discussion was on whether or not it should be done," Strom said. "We have no indication as to how we'll head. in that."

Sam Lamonica, the school district's director of employee relations and chief negotiator, also indicated that no decision has been made on whether to reopen the contract. "We want to explore some possibilities," he said.

STROM SAID the evaluation was conducted at Monday's special meeting rather than a regularly scheduled meeting of the board because of the board's delay in agreeing on the form to be used. The board selected the new form at a study session held on Dec. 3 which, Strom said, did not allow enough time for the evaluation to be scheduled for the Dec. 5 regular board meeting.

Holiday recess: Experts list ways to keep kids busy over Christmas

By Dan Vecchioni staff writer

When the bells ring ending the school day this Friday, most area students will tromp home for a two-week Christmas vacation.

For parents concerned with how their children should spend that time, two area educators have offered some advice: Parents and children should share time together.

"The best gift if you want your child to be happy and self-confident is presence (rather than presents)," said Connie Kenty, director of the Livonia Head Start program. "You should share time with your child."

"We're looking at the interaction between parents and children or between lots of children," said Susan Ryan, the relementary adviser to the school system's gifted student program. But children also need alone time, time to daydream and read."

Kenty offered the following tips to parents of children between the ages of

• Make playdough with the children. Playdough can be made at home by: boiling two cups of water, a half cup of salt and a little food coloring; while still hot, adding two tablespoons of salad oil, two tablespoons of alum and two cups of flour, and, when cool. kneading the mixture.

The homemade playdough, if stored after use in a plastic bag, will keep for two to three weeks. Supreme Court to hear group home appeals

By Marie Cheetney staff-writer

The placement of group homes for the mentally ill and mentally retarded - an issue which one state official said affects every citizen in the state - will be argued for the first time in April before the Michigan Supreme Court.

Up until now, the court has turned down every attempt by Michigan communities to have the state's highest court rule on the placement of mentally retarded and mentally ill adults in loster care homes.

On Dec. 6, the court broke that tradition. It agreed to hear appeals filed by Livonia and Southfield in their attempt to block group homes in their communities. Sometime in April, three appeals filed by Livonia and one appeal filed by Southfield will be argued together before the court.

If the two cities lose, said Livonia city attorney Harry Tatigian, "it will put the entire issue to bed once and for

The cities, Tatigian said, would have to honor an agreement made between them and the state's attorney general that whatever the court decides would apply in communities across the state.

And if we won, we anticipate and expect the attorney general to honor, this agreement," he added."

If the state should lose, said James Quigley, director of adult foster care licensing for the Michigan Department of Social Service (DSS), the loss would affect those 24,000 adults now in foster care homes throughout Michigan and would raise new questions on where to house the state's mentally retarded.

person in the state. Quigley said. What alternatives do these people have if the cities win? What are the financial consequences to the state?"

COMMUNITIES across Michigan have filed lawsuits against group homes ever since the state first started licensing them in the late 1970's. But the cities have had little success in the courts.

Both Tailgian and Quigley believe the state has the edge in winning these four appeals.

"Remember, our batting average except for the one time an administrative. judge agreed with us has been zero," Tatigian said. "That was the first time we ever won anything. Anytime you are an appellate where you have had three lower court judges rule against you and two Michigan Court of Appeals panels rule against you, it's uphili. But if granted a leave to appeal, you have to think in terms of 'having a chance.' The court usually affirms the decision of the court of appeals. The odds are two to one against us, but we are still Quigley said the state was not worried about losing. "Lower court decisions have found in favor of our department," he said. "There is no reason to believe the higher court will see it any differently.

LIVONIA'S appeals are for homes on Stanmoor, Ellen Drive and Pickford and involve mentally retarded adults. The Southfield suit was filed by the Greentrees Civic Association and involves mentally ill adults.

William Basinger, assistant attorney general who will be arguing the cases for the DSS, said the court might have selected these four because they "encompass all of the issues raised for elther the mentally retarded or the mentally Ill."?

Tatigian said he was surprised at the court's decision to hear the cases. "I was surprised they granted us this leave because they turned down every. one else up to this time."

He sald he would argue before the court all the issues placed before the appellate courts. But he said he would lay heavy emphasis on one, which was the one small victory the city had in going through the court system."

This was when an administrative court judge agreed with Livonia that the procedure of a city having to go before an administrative court judge to fight group homes was unfair.

Our best argument is against the entire administrative law judge procedure," Tatigian said. "It was a kangaroo proceeding and the administrative judge agreed with us. He disagreed with our other arguments but said the procedure was unfair. The judge works for the DSS."

Tatigian said the city would question the unfairness of the court procedure and the unfairness of allowing the DSS to overturn an administrative judge's

IF THE CITIES should win, Quigley said the court's ruling would settle only those issues raised in the four lawsuits. "Any issue not raised in the lawsuitmay be raised."

Livonia previously, the appellate court ruled that developmentally disabled persons are "clearly eligible" to live in small adult foster care homes. The court stated that the loster homes had not broken subdivision deed restrictions, as charged by the city and homeowners who were party to the

In rejecting arguments made by

It rejected the city's and homeowners' claim that "mentally ill" persons should be barred from small group homes. The court said the issue wasn't relevant because the homes were targeted for mentally retarded, not mentally III, residents.

Auto suppliers look for help

By Tim Richard staff writer

Auto suppliers - the hundreds of small firms which make parts for the ness, government and labor's efforts." Big Four auto manufacturers - are in deep trouble and want state help.

"We'll do anything we can do, either by getting out of the way or helping." sald Gov. James J. Blanchard this week as he unveiled a long list of efforts the state will make.

A report entitled "Auto Supplier Target Industry Development Program" said suppliers should be a priority industry once the Michigan Strategic - Improving product quality and produc-Fund is in operation. Auto suppliers tivity." will be high on the list to receive help from federal-state job retraining funds.

And they will be helped by an array of educational resources - the fledgling Industrial Technology Institute in And Arbor, state universities and particularly community colleges.

Blanchard praised the work of a task force, headed by General Motors Chairman Roger B. Smith of Bloomfleld Hills, for its 33 pages of recommenda-

ALAN WEBBER, a Harvard University business school professor hired to review the new report, said in an interview that the auto industry provides a "case study" in how other nations "are doing a better job of integrating busi-

Task force reports

Indeed, a theme pervading the toport and news conference was cooperation between those three economic sectors. "The level of competition in the industry has increased dramatically," sald Webber. Auto suppliers see their numbers shrinking, with remaining firms being asked to take greater responsibility for innovation and new product development, as well as for

Webber said his six weeks of interviews with suppliers showed they believe "the cost of doing business in Michigan is too high and must be reduced," particularly unemployment and workers compensation costs.

"MANY SUPPLIERS said they needed ed information and training about new technologies, new production techniques . . . and new approaches to managing people to help them become more productive," Webber said.

"Most suppliers said they would welcome financial aid to help defray the costs of learning new methods," as well as help in developing new markets, he reported.

Of the 2,500 suppliers of parts, components and materials, 80 percent are: small - fewer than 100 employees, he

While suppliers gave educational and governmental efforts high marks, they found most underfunded and understaffed, he said.

A KEY organization in helping auto suppliers will be the Industrial Technology Institute (ITI) in Ann Arbor, and Blanchard promised it support.

Jerome Smith, director of ITI for the past four months, said it is "positioned between academia and industrial experimentation. We are hastening the process of putting research results into implementation."

"We are a private, nonprofit, research and development organization in the area of industrial automation," said Smith, a former professor of fluid mechanics at Princeton University and holder of three degrees in aeronautical engineering.

We have 30 employees now and expect to grow to 250 in three years," he said. Funding has come from the state and the Dow and Kellogg foundations.

developer by attracting bright, new people to the state. "Many may choose to start their own small firms here," he

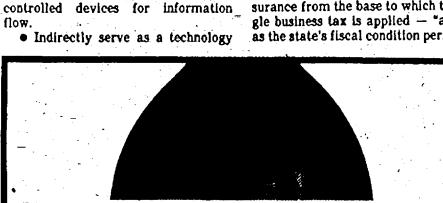

MUCH OF Blanchard's program for auto suppliers was a restatement of already announced plans, such as attacking the costs of unemployment compensation, workers compensation, health care and bureaucracy.

But even before Blanchard's news conference began, UAW President Owen Bieber issued a statement saying "the UAW would not favor steps to improve our state's so-called 'business climate' at the expense of necessary legislative protection for workers, or by shifting tax burdens unfairly to nonbusiness taxpayers."

That failed to dismay Blanchard, a Democrat elected in 1982 with strong UAW support. Handed a newsman's copy of the UAW's remarks, the governor shrugged, "This is a broad statement that probably anyone could agree with. Owen Bleber has been a very helpful member of this task force,"

Bleber said he supported "the process of tripartite reindustrialization." He sald it was not surprising that in a report reflecting the views of business, labor and government, "specific recommendations do not totally satisfy the

Blanchard will seek removal of workers comp and unemployment insurance from the base to which the single business tax is applied — "as soon as the state's fiscal condition permits."

"WOW! I'd have guessed the price to be double or triple what it is"

numbers will be available at the hospital.

The main switchboard and information number will be 467-4000 - for information on direct telephone lines.

"Persons who call the hospital are encouraged to make a note of numbers and use the direct dial system," said Maureen Camps, PCHA community relations director.

Frequently called numbers include:

Annapolis emergency room: 467-4042; patient information (8 a.m. to 8 p.m.), 467-4100; billing isquiries: 467-4076; admitting: 467-4062; and TDD for the hearing impaired: 467-4052.

The new system provides easier and quicker communication with patients and various departments, making the hospital more accessible to the community, Camps said.

"Needless delays will be eliminated with installation of more lines, and with direct dialing to w -tlent rooms," abe said ...

spotlight on community ed

The Livonia Public Schools' "Spotlight on Community-Ed". is prepared by Don Friedrichs.

Best wishes for a joyous holiday season from the staff and instructors of the Livonia Public Schools' Department of Community Education Services. We appreciate the many suggestions for improvement and new ideas for programs that come regularly from more than 7,000 participants each term. Keep calling us at 422-1200; ext. 332, whenever you need information or help with locating a community resource to meet the needs of your group.

CURRENT HIGHLIGHTS

 Vacation time: Community education office will be closed Dec. 23 through Jan. 2. Regular office house of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. will resume Jan. 3. Persons interested in enrolling in an activity while the office is closed should plan to mail their registration to beat the rush after the holidays.

- Winter term courses: Community education books with course listings for leisure time and academic programs are scheduled for mailing to Livonia Public School District residents by early January. However, registrations are now being accepted for these programs at the community education office, 15125 Farmington. For more information regarding any of the above programs, call 422-1200, ext. 334. Most classes begin the week of Jan. 23 but popular activities fill rapidly.
- Pamily swim: The first night for family swimming at the Franklin High School pool until Jan. 4 is Wednesday, Dec. 14. The pool will be closed during the Christmas holidays.

• New field trips: Flyers for the winter family field trips are available in the community education services office which is located at 15125 Farm-. ington, rear building, second floor. The first trip is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 27 to a play at the Bonstelle Theater entitled "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie." The registration fee is $8 per person. On Friday, Feb. 3, a bus will take you to a Detroit Symphony Orchestra coffee concert at Ford Auditorium and fashion show at the Renaissance Center. The works of Schubert and Bruckner will be conducted by Herbert Flomstedt. Other trips range from "A Sesame Jamboree" to "Annie Get Your

• Sports clinics: Basketball skills clinics for elementary and secondary students, grades 4 and older, are being offered by Livonia Public Schools' Department of Community Education Services. The coed clinics which begin

Jan. 7 will concentrate on rules, fundamentals, conditioning and agility/coordingtion. Drilla and scrimmages also will be held. Students will be grouped by ability at the first meeting. Preregistration is requested since enrollments are limited.

- Facilities limited: A limited amount of space for community group meetings, a pool for a swim night, a gym or basketball of volleyball game, or a cafeteria for a large civic association meeting is still available this winter. Please note that due to the heavy scheedule of activities already planned, most of our gyms and multi-purpose rooms will not be available during prime evening times (6-10 p.m.) until after March 23. They are begin extensively used for local organized basketball and volleyball programs.
- Child care: Waiting lists for all programs are available to interested familles by calling 422-1200, ext. 325.
- · Preschool: A few selected openings are available beginning the week of Jan. 23, Call 422-1200, ext. 325.

Some 120 children and parents attended the Livonia Family Y Santa luncheon last sunday to kick off the Y holiday season. Santa listned to the wishes of the young and the not so young and presented them with a gift. Tippy the clown entertained with a magic show.

Teens are invited to a holiday dance .8:30-11 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21. Cost is $2 per person. Music will be provided by Bob Allen. No membership is required. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Give yourself time to do that last minute Christmas shopping by enrolling youngsters in the Y regular Christmas day camp (ages 5 to 10-years-old) or computer Christmas camp (ages 9 to 16-years-old). Both camps run from Dec. 19-23 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. The camps include swimming, games, racquetball and crafts.

The tennis house will hold a junior singles tourney Dec. 20 and 21. Registration for the tournament ends Friday. Cost is $10 per player (ages 8 and older). There also will be a junior doubles tournament Thursday and Friday, Dec. 29 and 30. Cost is $6 per player. Registration must be as a doubles team.

From Dec. 19-30, all court time will be half price. Costs are $6 per hour (6 a.m. to 4 p.m.) and 48 per hour (4-11 p.m.). No membership is necessary and the public is welcome. Call 261-2424 for reservations.

The after school Gra-Y and Tri Gra-Y program for fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys and girls begins session II on Monday, Jan. 2 in Livonia elementary schools. The program runs through March and includes field trips, a floor hockey tournament; a Detroit Piston basketball game, an overnight at the Y and gym activities. Call the community program department at the Y for more information. Registration for the program are being taken.

Parents, let your child (ages 7-13) enjoy a New Year's Eve overnight 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 31 to 9 a.m. (or noon for an additional fee) Jan. 1. Fun activities will be planned throughout the night. Cost is $15 for the first child and $10 for the second child in the same family. Limited space is avail-

LOOKING FOR a last minute special gift? Try a YMCA membership. There is one for every age above 6.

The Y is offering a power volleyball class starting Wednesday, Jan. 18 for beginning, intermediate and advanced players. A sample class will be offered on Wednesday, Jan. 4 from 7-8 p.m. at

"GUILTY AS CHARGED!" by Doc Keeth

It's true! We admit It! The new LENNOX Pulse Furnace uses two plastic vents and nobody else does. Well folks, lend me your ear and I will explain why...

Only the LENNOX Pulse Furnaces have both an exhaust vent and a combustion air intake vent which makes possible a 20 year warranty on the entire heat exchanger. All new condensing type furnaces recover latent heat of combustion, thus producing condensate (water). This is true with all furnaces rated at 83% AFU efficiency or better, LENNOX Pulse Furnaces are tops with 91 to 96% efficiency.

Anytime condensate is produced in heat exchangers or vent systems, acids are formed by chemical changes that take place during combustion and involve elements present in fuel and the combustion air. All condensing furnaces, except the LENNOX Pulse, use indoor air for combustion and draw in chlorine laced air from a variety of household activities.

Chlorine comes from municipal water de-gasses during bathing & showers. Chlorine can also come from household bleach, pool chemicals, diaper pails, freon based aerosol products, solvents, etc. Recent laboratory tests have shown that small amounts of chlorine in combustion air can cause a ten-fold increase in condensate acidity.

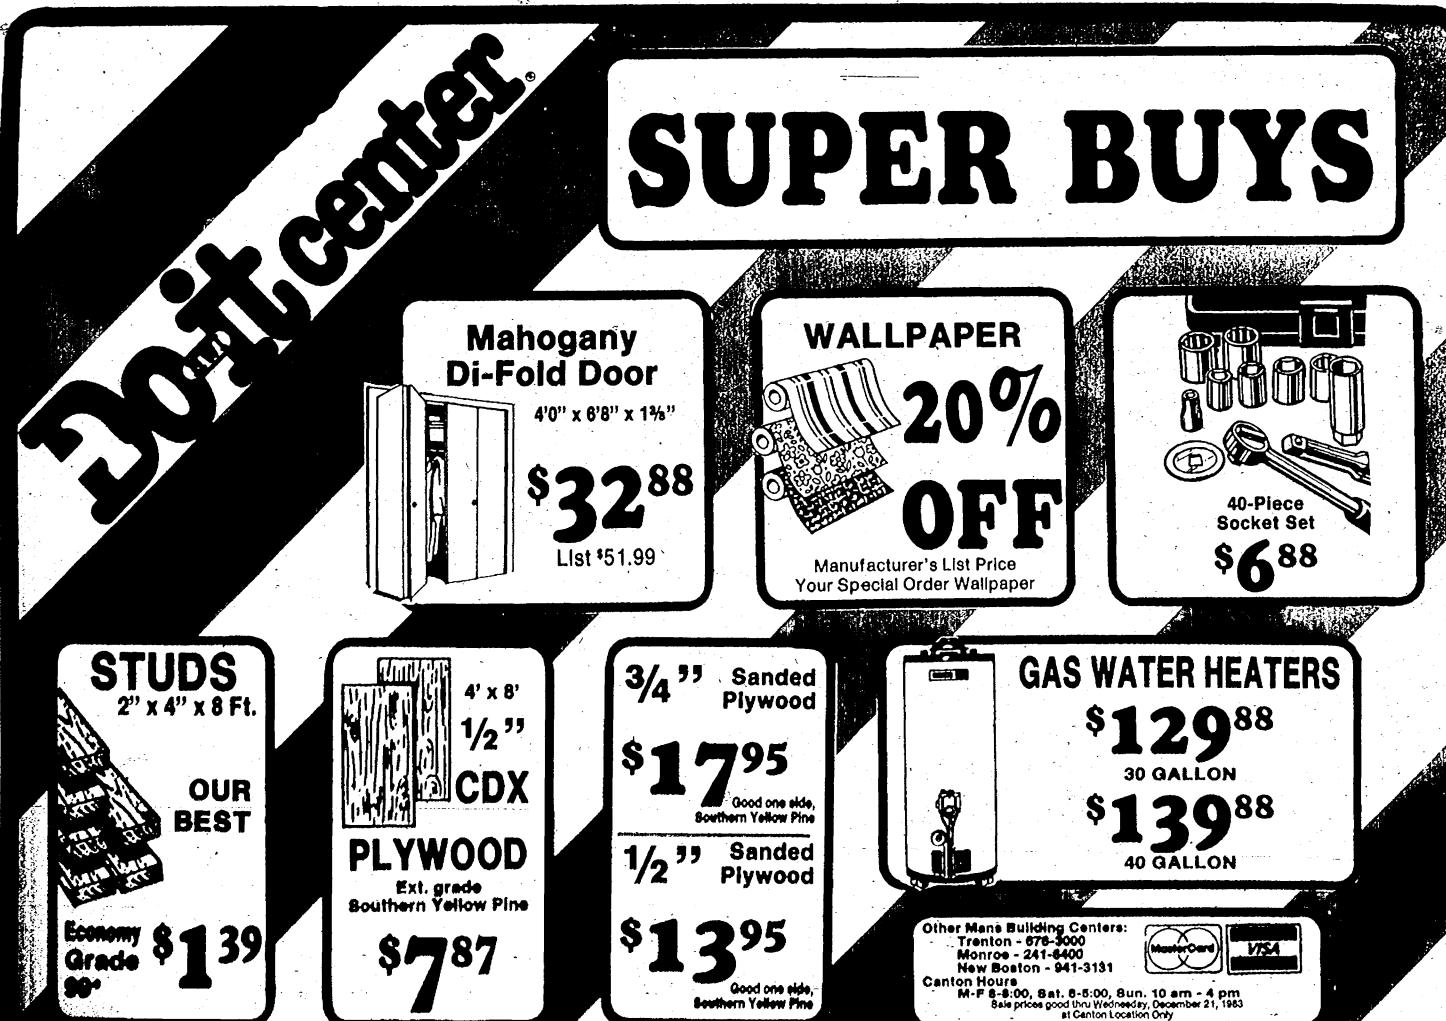

Sorry to get so technical but now you can see why we install a separate sealed combustion air intake from outdoors to the LENNOX Pulse Furnace, instead of using house air for combustion. There are other good reasons, such as less infiltration (drafts of cold outside air) and better humidity control, which we will cover in a future column.

Stop in anytime. Bev, Mel or Don, will show you a LENNOX Pulse Furnace in operation and answer any questions you may have. Or, give Bey a call for a free in home estimate that could cut your fuel consumption by 40% or more!

Parents like conferences, tighter discipline

Parents of Garden City High School dents gave high marks to their ungaters' education and new discine rules.

The parents also had many favorable. mments about the communications ween the school and home and the amped parent-teacher conferences d several weeks ago.

he parents' attitudes were hlighted in a report by Ronald den, new high school principal, to Michael Wilmot and the school principal in mid-summer, reported 81 policies. percent of parents answering a survey rated their youngsters' education excellent or good.

Twenty-two percent rated it as fair with the balance answering poor or don't know.

The percentages were based on 103 responses taken shortly after the parent-teacher conferences, Cowden said, but really reflect the views of 150 to 170 parents since in many cases both parents completed one form.

With new discipline rules put into efowden, who was named the school fect in September, parents like the new

The discipline now is excellent or good according to 75 percent of the respondents. The rating of poor or no opinion accounted for 10 percent.

The communications section of the "report card" was even higher with 82 percent rating it as excellent or good.

Cowden; crediting the PTA and teachers for the excellent showing and comments of the conferences, provided three pages of comments from parents, mostly praising the conferences and the new disciplinary rules.

The school board and administration late last summer adopted new rules which tightened attendance policies and required students to make up missed classes on Saturday morning to avoid losing a credit.

There is also a designated smoking area, a single lunch hour and a modifled closed campus rule which problbits students from leaving the school other than for lunch or completing their school day.

SOME COMMENTS from parents in the questionnaire were:

• "We enjoy the monthly newsletter. The booklet with class descriptions for the courses required is very helpful to parents and students."

• "The overall discipline is so much better and my husband and I both feel the youngsters all need plenty of discipline at all times. We like the administration's approach regarding discipline and the general attitude toward stu-

• "No problems except I firmly believe that there should be no smoking area in the high school."

• "Not enough major courses are required. Too many easy popcorn

THE ANNUAL Christmas ree light thieves are at it again in Jarden City.

Someone took two strings of large utdoor light bulbs Friday that were rapped around bushes in front of a buse in the 32000 block of Bock. Another incident occurred donday night in the 7000 block of lelen when four strands of 25-foot ights were taken from the bushes butside the house.

A JUVENILE WAS apprehended by police Sunday afternoon after taking costume * lewelry in the form of gold chains from the K mart store, 29600 Ford.

Police say the youth was seen running across Ford by a officer cruising the area. The officer stopped the youth at John Hauk, west of Middlebelt and while talking to him, the juvenile dropped the chains from his coat.

Police took the youth to the K mart store where it was verified he had stolen the jewelry. He was taken to the police station and held for his parents.

A MAN who fell asleep in his van early Sunday morning was the victim of a thief.

He told police he had parked the van on Florence, was awakened by a resident about 7 a.m. Sunday to find that his car keys were missing, $20 had been taken from his wallet and that the wires had been cut from four speakers that had been taken from the van.

VANDALS BROKE a 2-by-2-foot window and storm in a house in the 33000 block of Cherry Hill Sunday night.

TWO REAR tires were flattened on a vehicle in the parking lot of a store in he 27000 block of Ford Road Monday afternoon.

The owner told police they had parked there about three hours and believes sharp objects had been put under the wheels causing the damage when the driver drove off.

POLICE ARE investigating suspects who are believed to have kicked in the bottom panel of a storm door Monday evening of a house in the 33000 block of John Hauk.

A VEHICLE parked in the rear lot in the 31000 block of Ford Road was damaged by vandals Friday night.

The tail lights, molding and rear of the car were the targets. according to police.

A WINDOW, 5-by-6 feet, was smashed Saturday night in a store in the 33000 block of Ford Road. No entry was made, police said.

The residents said they heard a loud crash and found that a large rock had been thrown through the windows.

A POP machine at a gasoline station in the 27000 block of Ford was broken into Sunday night.

The thief had pried open the coin box to get at the money. No estimate of the amount taken was available.

FOUR CHROME wire wheel covers were stolen Sunday night from a 1983 car parked in a lot in the 33000 block of Ford Road.

A STEREO receiver and a speaker were reported missing Saturday night from a shed in the 31000 block of Pierce.

Footprints were found leading from the area to where it is believed a car had been parked.

WHILE SHOPPING in a store in the 29000 block of Ford Road Sunday afternoon, a thief took a black leather, knee-length coat from a woman's car that was in the parking lot.

> - St. Paul, 2nd Corinthians Chapter 3, Verse 6

OST LAWS EXIST for good reason, but interpreting them requires knowledge of the spirit in which they were enacted. That spirit often goes beyond a strict reading of the letter of the law.

So it is with the state's Open Meetings Act. According to a pamphlet prepared by a state senator, "the basic intent of the Open Meetings Law is to strengthen the right of all Michigan citizens to know what goes on in government by requiring public bodies to conduct nearly all business at open meetings."

IT DIDN'T TAKE long for politicos to read some loopholes into the act. In the year before the law went into effect, the state attorney general received 32 queries about the act — and how to get around it.

The obvious question that comes to mind when one hears of a secret meeting is, "What do they have to hide?"

That question came to mind again last week as the mayor met with Westland City Council members in groups of three to avoid an open meeting. One councilman, Robert Wagner, said that the discussion would involve things that would be "ridiculous to say in an open meeting."

That's all the more reason those meetings should have been public study sessions.

But Wagner, admitting that community under discussion would be "things that can't be said in public." He added that they were "personal things, things that we'll be digging into."

IN A NEW spirit of cooperation, the mayor agreed to the meetings with the

"I don't think they're a violation," he sald, adding that the meetings allow for "flexible discussions without having to have outside sources involved.

"It's one of the ways we can resolve our differences Maybe it will work."

He was more explicit about the discussions, which included such controversial issues as expansion of the Friendship Center, who would pay for carpet damaged in a party thrown by an anonymous city employee and library services.

What the council apparently did was appoint subcommittees to meet with the mayor. The state attorney general addressed that issue in a question raised originally by state Sen. David A. Plawecki, Senate Majority Leader William Faust and former state Rep. Thomas Brown.

In his opinion, Frank Kelley said that "where such subcommittee contains the entire body of the 'public body' which it serves, it would be a violation of the act to allow such subcommittees to meet in closed session. The probable result of such meeting would be the presentation to the public meeting of a fait accompli and this is to be avoided.

"Members of the public must be given the opportunity to be present so that they may observe the manner in which public bodies transact public business."

The content and the confines of the disissues would be the topics, insisted that cussions were flagrant evasions of the spirit of the Open Meetings Act.

A TAX REVOLT started in suburban Detroit is having national ramifications. In the past weeks, two suburban state senators have been recalled in protest over a 38 percent hike in the state income tax rate. They were Sen. Phil Mastin, whose district included Avon Township and Rochester, and Sen. Dave Serotkin of Macomb County.

Apparently, the next object of a recall effort will be Sen. Patrick McCollough, whose district includes Garden City. A committee pushing for McCollough's recall claims it almost has the required signatures to force a recall election.

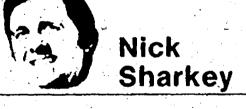

Mastin and Serotkin are the first state legislators recalled in Michigan history.

NATIONAL MAGAZINES, newspapers and television programs have discussed the suburban Detroit recalls.

Typical among these is the Wall Street Journal, the influential national business daily newspaper.

Last week Martin Feldstein, chairman of President Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, suggested that taxes be raised to reduce the federal budget deficit. This position is strongly opposed by President Reagan, who has promised no new

The Wall Street Journal, in an editorial, rushed to the president's defense, citing reaction to the Michigan income tax hike "where the voters have just cashiered two

Legislators, don't panic

state senators who supported Governor Blanchard's sharp increase in state tax-

The implication of the editorial was clear: Don't raise federal taxes to reduce the national debt because of what has happened in Michigan.

A LITTLE CLOSER to home, the recall campaigns are beginning to paralyze the state Legislature. Last week legislators agreed to delay action on a mandatory seat belt law. Proponents argued that the law would save up to 300 lives a year. But it was strongly opposed by some lobbying

"It (delay of the bill) is mainly due to the recalls and their fallout . . . Some legislators have identified this as a recallable issue," said Secretary of State Richard Austin, a leading campaigner for the

The state Senate voted last week to override Gov. James J. Blanchard's veto of a bill that would ban state medicaid money for abortions for the poor.

It now goes to the House where action could occur this week. Although it will require two thirds approval in the House to override the veto, some observers believe 74 votes could be collected. Once again? it's because of the recall campaigns! House members fear a strong "Right to Life" contingent in their districts will start recall campaigns against them.

THREATS OF A RECALL cannot bring government to a halt. A legislator's views of the federal debt, seat belts and abortion must not be determined by a small group of disgruntled persons in the home dis-

It was good to see Gov. Blanchard not rush to accelerate the planned reduction of the state income tax last week, despite urgings of some state_senators. The income tax rate will be reduced to 6.1 percent on Jan. 1 (from the present 6.35 percent). It may drop to the pre-Blanchard rate of 4.6 percent in 1985 if unemployment drops to 9 percent.

In the meantime, Michigan legislators should not panic. This state is only beginning to get back on a sound financial base. Many important issues still need to be resolved. They should be decided on the basis of the merits of the issues, not out of fear of a potential recall.

A relatively small number of voters in the Detroit suburbs who have recalled their state senators should not chart the course for our government.

A shocking visit to the old home town

IF YOU haven't been back to the old home town for quite a spell and plan to return for a holiday visit, be prepared for a shock.

You will find many things have changed. The places that were your favorites when you were a lad growing up have passed from the scene - even the old swimming hole. \

The Stroller knows because he tried it some years ago, and he was disappointed almost beyond belief.

It all started when the Black Diamond Express, once the pride of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, didn't stop at the old home town anymore. He had to ride into the city four miles away and hire an automobile to go the rest of the way.

WHEN HE arrived at what long ago had been called the "Iron Borough," he found that even the old railroad station, once the pride of the town, had become only a memory. Only the brick walls were left, and the passenger service was long

As he looked around, he found the iron furnace, which once was a special sight for visitors as it poured the molten slag into what was called pig iron, was lying in rusty bits. Another pride of the valley was gone - and the old center tip that drew hundreds of sightseers when the slag was poured each evening now was growing

Mind you, this was all before he got to the main street.

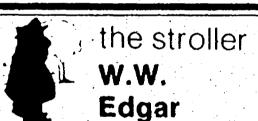

AS HE crossed the bridge that connected the two parts of the community, he looked down and gulped. The old canal had dried up.

This had been a favorite sight in the old days, for it was the waterway where mules pulled the old canal boats which brought coal from the anthracite fields to the Delaware River and then onto the ocean freighters.

It always was a treat to go to the head of our town, get on one of these boats and 'ride a mile to the lower end. And at times, we were allowed to steer the boat, heeding the owner's call to "push the tiller the way the bow goes."

But this wasn't the biggest disappoint-

too, and nothing was left in its place but the remains of an old lumberyard.

And so it went.

The little newspaper office, where The Stroller got his start in journalism, had been replaced by a larger office building and moved to another end of our little town. The Stroller just stood at the old spot, and tears came to his eyes as he fecalled the morning he was invited to sit at a typewriter and report a news item of the

The old blacksmith shop, just off Front Street, was missing. So was the carriage shop. The site of the old merry-go-round was now the home of a large garage.

AT THE TOP of the Pine Street Hill, where we young folks used to gather, the little white church was still standing. But somehow it didn't look the same because the steeple had been painted a different

It was shocking to stand there and look down the hill where we spent the winter nights sledding.

For several days, The Stroller walked about town looking and looking for the places that once were favorites when he was a young lad.

Finally, the trip back home ended, and the only things he found that hadn't changed were the Soldiers Monument in the cemetery, where lightning had struck and erased his grandfather's name, and his mother's Pennsylvania Dutch cooking.

But sitting at her table again made the trip worth while.

Lansing ducks wrong issues

REPUBLICAN and Democratic leaders are now urging the state Legislature to go home. The Legislature obviously is incapable of doing anything this year, they Go home, wait for your $2,000 pay raise to take effect in January and come back fortified to deal with life's vexing prob-

Gov. James J. Blanchard is trying to get the Legislature to shut down until January lest lawmakers in his own party do something rash, like pass a bill that would cut the unforgettable increase in personal income tax they engineered in spring.

Two of those involved in efforts to come up with a tax relief formula are Sen-William Faust, D-Westland, and Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn. Both figure to be likely targets if recall fever continues unabated.

THE GOVERNMENT is caught in a period of "confusion, emotionalism, disappointment, fear, retribution and downright panic from moment to moment," Blanchard is quoted as telling a group of newspaper publishers.

For these reasons, we are toldlawmakers are unable to deal with the tough problem of deciding whether we should be ordered to wear seat belts while driving. And the Legislature, for the first time in 12 years, may override a gubernatorial veto of an effort to ban use of state tax money for medicaid abortions.

The threat of recall by pro-life forces will intimidate legislators into voting to override Blanchard's most recent veto, we are told.

Legislative insecurity may be stronger than I think. I can't imagine anyone getting excited enough about seat belts to spend his afternoons hanging around some shopping center asking people to sign petitions to recall a guy who favors stopping people from being killed in car accidents.

And as emotional as abortion is, and as organized as pro-life forces are, I doubt a recall campaign would succeed in removing a legislator, who did not vote for an override.

THE ONLY issues that arouse voters enough to get an effective recall campaign working in state politics are 'forced' school busing and higher taxes.

Busing died out as an issue long ago. People will stand for all kinds of mismanagement of tax money without blinking an eye. Wayne County government has been mismanaging money for decades, newspapers have regularly provided evidence of it, and yet no resident or civic group even whispers "recall."

No, the only thing that will excite residents who are busy trying to juggle a myriad of personal problems is that which they view as a confiscatory intrusion into their wallets.

Legislators should stop worrying about recall on other issues, if indeed they even are, and move on with the knowledge that the damage has been done, the tax idcrease was passed in April, the sleeping giant known as the public has been aroused and enraged.

The only way to mollify the giant is to convince it that government is acting to do something about cutting spending and abating its taste for tax dollars.

During the past year, the Legislature has done little to convince the public that it will take on the spending problem, Quite the reverse. The social services budget, which has been eating bigger and bigger pieces of state pie, continues to expand with no real evidence that the Legislature, or governor, can do anything about it.

It will be difficult for Blanchard and fellow Democrats to enhance their poor images. It has been difficult since April. But becoming involved in a host of projects and programs unrelated to cutting state spending will only prolong the ago-

Basically they describe in simple ms how to understand, buy and use rsonal computers. As with all the oks reviewed, both have excellent ossaries to help the novice overcome 🏚 jargon.

A number of specific publications address the need to become familiar and comfortable with computer buzzwords. Barron's Educational Services Inc. publishes the "Encyclopedia of Com-puter Terms" by Douglas Downing. This book sells for $6.95 and includes "400 essential terms."

Not to be outdone, the editors of Consumer's Guide wrote "The Illustrated Computer Dictionary," which defines 1.000 universal terms. Published by Bantam Books in 1983, this is an excellent reference book for only $3.95.

Random House, which has several computer-related books on the shelf. also published "The Random Hose Dictionary of New Information Technology." Don't let the title mislead you. It is another book of terms and definitions. This paperback was also published this year and sells for $7.95.

TWO MORE books the novice may find useful are published by lesserknown houses.

"Computers for Everybody" by Willis and Merl Miller takes sort of a populist approach and explains the world of computers in very down-to-earth non-threatening terms. (Published by Dilithium Press, 1983, $7.95).

The second book "A Practical Guide to Small Computers" by Robert M. Rinder, was published in 1983 by Monarch Press and sells for $11.95. Similar to the other, this book would be especially useful for beginners.

Early intervention

Catching learning difficulties quickly can help a child

By Sherry Kahan staff writer.

> It starts as a small worry and continues to grow and fester.

> "Is there something wrong with my child?"

> The child is in the 0-5 age bracket, and his parents have no school contacts. They have no idea who is the right person to answer their question. They don't know that out there somewhere are people who are paid by taxpayers to diagnose their child's problem and to find an education program. appropriate for him or her. This sort of service was mandated by the Michigan Special Education Act of 1971, which required that education be offered to handicapped, from infancy through 25 years of age. The first thing these troubled parents can do is call their nearest public elementary school. It will refer them to the special education department of the school district. Or they can call the school district office and ask for the special ed department.

Professionals there in fields of speech and language, social work, psychology, mental impairment, learning -disabilities; emotional impairment and hearing and seeing impairment will swing into action. They first try to put a finger on the problem, and then involve the child in the early intervention program for the preschool age group.

Bables and toddlers up to 3 years are usually treated at home by the school district. There are programs at the schools for most of those 3 and older.

Other resource persons on early intervention are Libby Lockwood at Project Find (467-1362) at the Wayne County Intermediate School District and the staff of the district's Learning Center (467-1300). They diagnose those In the 0-5 group when called upon by a school district.

*WE HAVE FOUND that the earlier a school can be acquainted with the child and his problems, the more the school can involve the parent in the child's education at an early age. Then the greater our chance for success will be in assisting the child to use all his innate abilities," said Dr. Nancy Shields, director of student services for the South Redford school district.

"Right now doctors and medical institutions are more and more aware that early intervention is available, so if they see a problem they tell the parents to call the school district."

"The sooner we can stimulate children, the better foundation for success later in their education and lives," noted Linda Pallas, who does many special ed jobs for the Redford Union district. "We go to the home and assist the parents in stimulating the child. The bables and toddlers go to Keeler school with the parents once a week for an hour."

She added: "Sometimes our services are refused. So when the child enters kindergarten, we find he or she has difficulty functioning in a large group where everyone is expected to learn at the same pace. Many times the child demonstrates a feeling of frustraton by withdrawing, acting silly, crying and misbehaving.

"ON THE OTHER hand, when the child experiences frustration in a formal setting like kindergarten, and is then placed in the early intervention program, we begin to see the frustration dissolve.

"In early intervention, curriculum is designed to meet individual needs so that each child can be successful at his own rate and be challenged at his own level."

"We encourage parents to call us even if they are not sure what they are looking for, or whether the youngster is handicapped," emphasized Robert Dietiker, assistant director of special services for the Livonia school district.

"The earlier we can develop a skill that's lagging, the more gain we are seeing later on," reported Margaret Naumes, director of Garden City apecial services. "The result is a higher potential than would be expected.

"We alm to have moderately impaired children ready for kindergarten because of their pre-kindergarten training in special ed."

She added that about half the children in early intervention special ed go to regular kindergarten classes.

"I FELT RELIEVED to find help." said Lisa Gronostalski of Westland. Before it came she hadn't known what to do about the fact that her son, Alan, wheels began to turn for him, she relaxed.

"You feel that someone is doing tricts in the county." something, and that you are not doing It all on your own," she said. "We didn't even know about special ed. My mother-in-law told us. So we went to school. I never knew they had anything like that.

"I was really impressed. They go over the program with you. It seemed to me and my husband that the program met Alan's needs. JAMIE JABLONICKY was a blue baby for three months after her birth in

Coronary artery bypass is not always necessary

Approximately 20,000 patients a year in the United States could forego coronary artery bypass surgery, according to a federally funded, nations wide study of heart patients. The study ashowed there was no significiant difference in survival overall between heart patients in the study who underwent medical and drug treatment and those undergoing bypass surgery.

The study was discussed recently by Dr. Thomas Killip, chairman of Internal medicine at Ford Hospital. Dr. Killlp reported findings of the Coronary Artery Surgery Study (CASS), of which he was steering committee chairman, at a press conference at the National Institute of Health (NIH), the funding agency, in Bethesda, Md.

The study further concluded that patients similar to those enrolled in the trial (those with stable heart disease

Bennetts have anniversary

Sixty years of married life was celebrated recently by Nelson and Clema Bennett, who settled in Westland more than 50 years ago. A party in their honor, planned by their daughter Eunice Wittrick of Canton, was held in Sveden

Both have lived all their lives in the area, Bennett in Plymouth and Westland, and Mrs. Bennett in Northville Township as well as Westland. She is the daughter of a farmer and remembers going to Salem Baptist Church with a horse and buggy or walking along the Pere Marquette railroad tracks with her mother. Bennett is a machinist and before his retirement worked for the Detroit Diesel-Allison Divison of the General Motors Corp. They attend Newburgh Baptist Church.

Their eight children are Dorothy Calleb of Emmett, Lucille Griffis and Linda Colosky of Vassar, Irene Paquin of Westland, Kathryn Coburn of Bonita Springs, Fla., Mrs. Wittrick, Karen Manwell of Detroit and Leon Bennett of Plymouth.

They have 29 grandchildren and 22

Ultrasound used in brain surgery

Ultrasound, best known for providing images of developing fetuses, has been moved into the operating room at the University of Michigan Hospitals where it is making brain surgery safer for many patients. Radiologists James E. Knake, M.D., and Terry M. Silver, M.D., and neurosurgeon William F. Chandler, M.D., lead a U-M team that has pioneered the use of ultrasound during brain surgery.

Safe, high-frequency sound waves are beamed into the brain to locate abnormal growths and guide surgical procedures. In the last three years, intraoperative ultrasound has been used in almost 100 selected brain and spinal cases at the U-M Hospitals.

"Clearly, it has made brain surgery safer," Dr. Chandler reports. "Ultrasound provides very accurate localization of tumors and cysts; it provides very accurate guldance for biopsies, and it tells us the shortest pathway possible for removing abnormal tissue. It's gotten to the point where in some cases I will postpone surgery until this equipment is available".

ULTRASOUND MIGHT spare certain patients a second or third blopsy operation, Dr. Knake adds. "There are times when the quick pathology report (the frozen slice of tissue examined under a microscope within 20 minutes) gives uncertain results," Dr. Knake explains. "The definitive results permanent sections take three days. The ultrasound images give us confidence that we have indeed taken tissue from the abnormal area, regardless of the frozen section report."

Ultrasound creates images from very high frequency sound bounced off tissues. A transducer generates the sound waves and then transforms the returning signal into an image that appears on a television screen. The shading ranges from black for areas such as water that return no signal, to white for solid surfaces which produce veryintense return signals. Differences in density between normal tissue and abnormal growths create patterns that reveal abnormalities to the surgical team. Videotape, X-ray film and Polarold pictures can be used to retain the images.

Because the soundwaves cannot penetrate bone, in neurological imaging the ultrasound device is used after an opening is cut in the skull. The U-M physicians wrap the fist-sized transducer in sterile coverings and place it on the brain, moving it around as necessary to get angles they need for an im-

One major adavantage of ultrasound it that there is no time delay in producing the image, making it possible to use it to guide surgical instruments into the brain.

WORKING WITH the division of physics and engineering in the department of radiology the U-M team has fashioned a stainless steel device that attaches to the ultrasound transducer. This allows the surgeon to following the beam or intersect it at specified depths. The beam marks a direct path to the cyst or tumor for the surgeon's scalpel or needle. The guide is especially useful for biopsies and for draining

Silver says that use of ultrasound during operations is being expanded to other parts of the body, including locating deep liver tumors, small pancreatic tumors, and kidney and bile duct

Terry and Patty Parris of Inkster an-

Ultrasound also provides a way to monitor the placement of shunts in the brain of infants, sparing these children exposure to X-rays. The shunts draim off cerebrospinal fluid that otherwise would build up and case brain damage. It is possible to get ultrasound images through the infant's fontanelle, the soft spot at the top of the skull where the bones have not yet grown together.

It was work by Silver and others in 1979 on using ultrasound to find hemorrhages in the brains of newborns that suggested to Knake that ultrasound might help surgeons like Dr. Chandler operate on older patients.

Ultrasound equipment already is available in most hopitals, say the researchers, and its portability makes it easy to move into the operating room.

If ultragound transducers could be miniaturized, the physicians say, intraoperative ultrasound could guide catheters into the brain for chemotherapy and other procedures that require only a tiny hole drilled in the

Prophet's birth honored

It was on Monday, April 2, in 571 B.C. in the city of Makkah (Mecca), Arabia; (now Saudi Arabia) that a child was born to a couple named Abdullah and Amina. His birth date was, of course, based on the Islamic calendar.

The boy was named Muhammed because his grandfather had dreamed that a son would be born, who would lead the world through his character and personal example. The name Muhammed means one who is praised.

The date of the birth of the boy who became the prophet Mohammed will be celebrated, according to the Gregorian calendar used in this country, on Wednesday, Dec. 16, by the Islamic Community of the Western Suburbs in Bryant School in Livonia.

Starting at 7:30 p.m. there will be prayers, food and a discussion of the prophet's life and what can be learned from his personal example. The Quran (Koran) will be read, and songs will be sung in praise of God and the prophet.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 18, a similar event will occur in the Islamic Associa. tion of Greater Detroit Masjid (mosque), 865 W. Auburn, Rochester.

Dr. Syed Shameem Ahmed Razvi, a resident of Westland who is president of the Monothelstic Congregation of Metro-Detroit, discussed the birth of the man venerated by about a billion Muslims all over the world.

There were no lights, no trees, no ornaments, no trinkets and no mistletoe" when Mohammed came into the world, noted Razvi. "Arabla in those days was a very bad place. Dark clouds of ignorance were over the peninsula. Tense enmity existed between the scattered tribes. Killing a member of anhad elapsed, was a matter of duty and "Lawlessness was rampant. Gambling and drinking were carried to their extreme with ugly consequences. Hatred and shame of the mere presence of a female was so immense that? little girls were buried alive to avoid giving them to another tribe.

"Makkah was there but it housed 865" idols by pagans."

Razvi explained that a prophet was sent to replace all vices with virtues, "to turn the wild people into a learned? society, to eradicate the evils and to in--still the good, to equalize women's status with that of men, and to restore law, order, truth, honesty in every walk

He also destroyed the idols, favoring instead a monotheistic religion worshipping God.

This was Muhammed — peace be other tribe, even though generations upon him - who single-handedly accomplished what our modern society cannot seem to achieve," Razvi said.

Senate asks House for 2nd chance on reapportionment

By Tim Richard staff writer

Senate Republicans attempted Wednesday to pull back the reapportlonment bill from the House of Representatives by requesting that the House return the bill to the Senate. The party-line vote was 18 Republicans in favor, 16 against and two Democrats absent.

Ordinarily when one body requests return of a bill from the other, the request is honored. But it is unlikely that the Democratcontrolled House will do so in this case.

The Senate passed the reapportionment measure the night of Nov. 30, only hours after Macomb County voters had voted to recall state Sen. David Serotkin, D-Mt. Clemens with Serotkin casting a deciding

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, ridiculed "the idea that the election is over at 8 o'clock. The idea that lame ducks can't vote is anathema to the American system. Certification becomes essential."

Sen. Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, predicted, "the House will never act on it."

SEN. ALAN Cropsey, R-DeWitt, noted that two Democratic members of the state Election Commission failed to show up for their first meeting to certify the Berotkin recall. Cropsey asked rhetoricaly,"How long could Sen. Serotkin have served if members of his own party had failed to show up for a certification board meeting? If you follow that logic, he (Scrotkin) could've continued to serve for three days, three months, three years - even to Dec.

Sen. Norman Shinkle, R-Lambertsville, said Faxon erred in "trying to relate a rucalled senator to a lame duck senator. Normally one serves out the term to the end of: the year, but a recall says voters want h.m. out now."

All area senators voted with their parties. Republicans Doug Cruce of Troy, Fessier and R. Robert Geake of Northville voted to ask for return of the bill. Democrats W 1liam Faust of Westland, Faxon and Patrick McCollough of Dearborn voted against.

Holiday blues are real

The "holiday blues" are real, they are normal, and they sometimes intensify in January. And they often can be overcome with thoughtful doses of tender, loving

Those are the observations of four Michigad psychlatrists whose practices include treatment of clinical depression and of temporary emotional disturbances.

'THE 'BLUES' at holiday time are very real, but they are not real mental illness," said Adnan Varol, M.D., a family psychiatry specialist in Grand Blanc.

'This is a short-term problem that stems from the special combination of circumstances produced by the year-end holidays. "It may relate partly to too many expectations," Dr. Varol said. "A wife expects her husband to be nicer to her and to show his love with a thoughtful gift.

"A husband may expect his wife to understand the family financial picture and to restrain her family buying. Both are often . disappointed," he said.

"PEOPLE REMEMBER things, and they anticipate things in their lives that become most important to them at holiday time," according to Beverly Fauman, M.D., who specializes in emergency psychiatry and is director of Psychiatric Education at Sinal Hospital in Detroit.

"Important losses are most keenly felt: a divorce, the loss of a loved one, the enforced absence of someone close," Dr. Fauman said. "It's normal to feel sad, when you're thinking about a vold in your life while the joy of the season is all around.

"At the same time, some people are looking ahead with dread at the prospect of a new year, which they fear will bring new problems and woes," she said.

"CONFLICTS IN emotions are paramount at Christmas time, with memories of good and bad times in the past struggling with present realities and the anticipation of things to come," said J.F. Girard Rooks, M.D., an adult psychiatrist in the Grand Rapids suburb of Grandville.

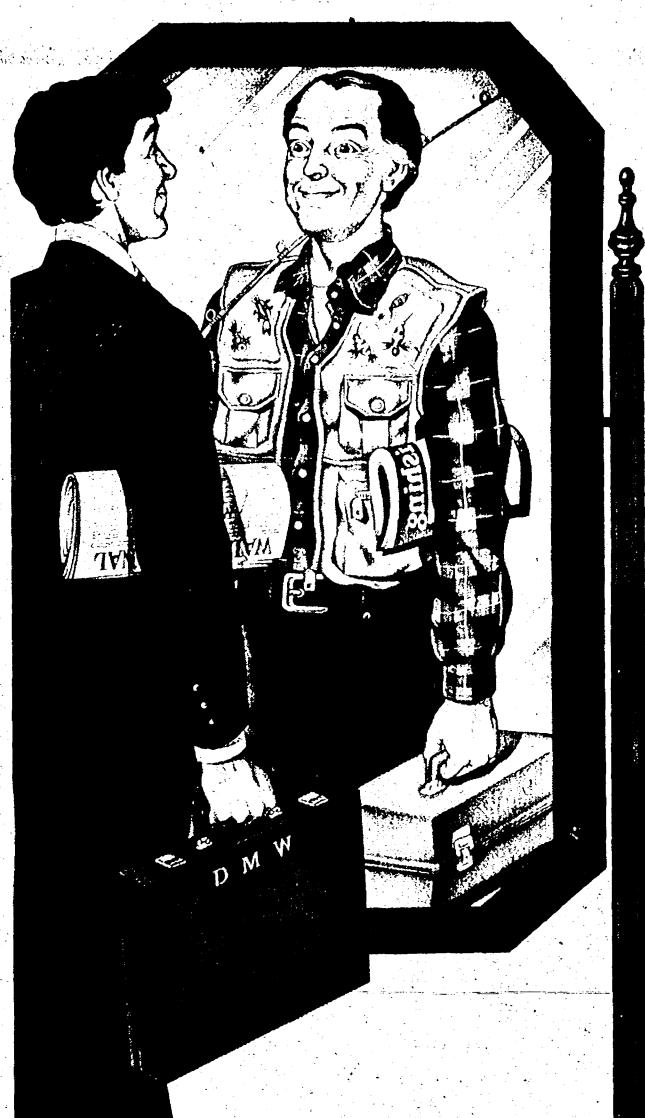

"It's much like Ebenezer Scrooge's three dreams in Dickens' 'A Christmas Carol.' Some people give gifts out of guilt. Others use them as a vehicle for dealing with interpersonal struggles, which means some withhold gifts completely.

"And still others simply cannot give material gifts because of financial problems People in these situations feel a certain emptiness," Dr. Rooks sald.

MARIA PALUZNY, M.D., a child psychiatrist at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, said children are particularly sensitive to the divorce of their parents at holiday time.

This year your IRA will be a tax saver. Someday it could be a life saver.

When you open your IRA at Manufacturers Bank, you'll get a hefty tax break for 1983. Someone who makes $30,000 a year, for instance, would save an estimated $650 in taxes on a $2,000 IRA contribution. In a few years, your IRA could give you an even bigger break. It could help you live the kind of retirement you always dreamed of. And when you look at it that way your IRA will really be a lifesaver.

At Manufacturers Bank, we offer high-yield 48 month and 72 month IRA's. We offer something else, too: a way to help you finance your IRA through our revolving lines of credit.

Even after you consider the interest you'll pay, you'll still come out ahead with your tax break.

48 Month*

72 Month

Simple interest paid at maturity Substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

Helping you establish your IRA is just another new way we've found to help plan for your future. And looking out for your future has been one of our ideals for over 50 years. So come to any Manufacturers branch. Once you hear what we can do for you, we think you'll say, "Manufacturers...that's my bank."

Old ideals. New ideas.

Christeens produce show for cable TV

By Marie McGee staff writer

Youth director Ron Priggee was looking for a new way to get young people involved in another dimension of church activities at Lutheran Church of the Risen Christ in Plymouth when he came up with the idea of a TV show dope entirely from their point of view:

"At the outset, he wasn't sure if the idea would catch on. After a year, he's sure it has. The interest of the young people is as keen as ever. Now he'd like public access channel, he says with to expand his idea by having other teen-agers join in the operation that calls for producing a half-hour show every other week. The young members of his production company feel the same way. They would welcome new members into their fledgling production company. .

Besides the camaraderie, they say it has proven be great hands-on experience for anyone interested in the field of mass communications and the use of .video equipment.

THE NAME OF the group is Christeens Video Productions and the weekly show is "Youth View." To date, the handful of Plymouth-Canton area teens have produced 75 cable television shows using a community access programming made available to them by Omnicom cable company which serves the Plymouth-Canton area. The shows are aired in Redford Township and Ann mote the group's appearance in this Arbor as well as the Plymouth-Canton area at Thanksgiving time.

communities on every other week, on day nights at 9:30 p.m.

The shows have a variety format with skits, music and interviews:

"Our goal is to show what Christlans are doing and to show we have a good time being Christian together," said Priggee, a marketing research consult-

The teen organization is the only group to have a regular spot on the.

THAT'S DUE directly to the enthusiasm of the teens who give up a lot of their personal time to film the special events that occur away from the Omni. - Agape Christian Center in Plymouth. com studios.

In this regard, Priggee had high praise for Omnicom.

"We are lucky to have a cable company that allows this. Most companies," he said, "let you do public access in or out of their studios, but not both."

Because of Christeens' format of filming events of local interest in area churches, about 80 percent of their shows are produced on actual location where they are taking place.

An example of that came when they recently went to Holland where they taped the rock group "Servants" to pro-

On Dec. 20, they plan to have a live show in which they hope to involve the community by asking people to call in and comment on a topic that will be announced.

They're hoping for a good response, but even more, they're hoping they'll get some new members who will be part of their show - even if it's only to call and alert Christeens about special events in their respective churches. Advance notice is needed. Priggee pointed out, because the show is taped three or four weeks in advance.

Christeens can be reached by calling Priggee at 455-3999 or by writing to P. O. Box 91, Plymouth 48170.

Troubles caused soul-searching

I have just returned from three weeks in Haill with a construction. team of persons from the Detroit area. Along with a crew of Haitlans, we built a cement block building on top of a mountain. It will be used as a pastor's residence and guest house.

Each day our work team had to :limb two miles up the side of the nountain to reach the building site. There are no roads in this part of Haiti.

On the way down from this mountain ne afternoon, a member of our work sam fell on the steep trail and broke ioth bones in her leg. A Haltian went to . ind someone with a donkey so that the erson could be brought down from the nountain to a nearby highway.

That night as we were making arangements for the person with the iroken leg to be taken into a city for nedical care, all of the money that two of our team members had brought with hem as well as some of their clothing vas stolen.

AS A result of both events happen-

We wondered who had stolen the money? Was it someone whom we had come to know? We wondered how our team member was doing with her broken leg. Would she have to go back to

Detroit to get proper treatment? We also struggled with this issue as Christians. We were upset by both events. How should we feel, and what should we do? Should we try to investigate the theft? Would we as a group

After sorting out our feelings we came to the conclusion that we must forgive the thief. Yet this was not to be the end of the issue. A Haltlan who had accompanied us during this time raised a deeper question: Would we pray for the thief? Stillthis was not to be the last question which was raised concerning these two events of that day.

WHEN A Haltian pastor in Port-au-Prince met with us a few days later he collect money from each other to assist expressed his sympathy for these three people who had experienced a broken bone or the loss of their money. Then he raised yet another question. "How much is enough?" he asked.

How much are we prepared to give to people in need and to God? How far are we prepared to go?

This question has stayed with us. Evil forces within our world are prepared to press their goals to the point of death. What about those who speak and act for God and all that is good and healing for our fellow people?

This is a root question of any religious faith. How much will we risk for what we believe? This alone would make religious people into fanatics. In addition, what will we risk to bring healing, reconciliation, hope and jus-lice to this world? How much is enough? This is a question with which we must be prepared to struggle in a world which moves ever closer to the precipice. This is an issue which eleven church folk who went to

Haiti from America have upon their hearts. 🐇

New York, New York

Small bites of big apple

THIS IS what it was like in the books we all read, about growing up in New York City sixting on the wide stone steps of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, eating a big soft prettel with mustard and watching Fifth Avenue go by

There are two Yum Yum Hot Dog stands selling preizels and hot dogs under striped umbrellas and an endless stream of yellow taxis going by to the expensive apartment buildings and the museums that stretch along this east side of Central Park.

I was in one of those taxis moments ago, what I saw from there was a New York City postcard school kids, tourists, locals and lovers sitting all over the steps of the Metropolitan Museum. Huge red, blue and yellow exhibit banners, and the pillared museum, make a backdrop behind the step-sitters, with long white fountains, like wet white trees, on either side.

I SAW the Manet Exhibit, but at any time you can see the new Douglas Dilion Galleries for Chinese Paintings, the Egyptian collection (including the authentic Temple of Dendur), the Michael C. Rockefeller Wing dedicated to primitive art, or the new American wing.

These are only the relatively new collections, the ones you haven't seen if you have not visited the museum in recent years. There are also, of course, the collections on which the Met has built its reputation since it was founded in 1870. It occupies 1.4 million square feet and extends along Fifth Avenue from 80th to 84th streets so don't expect to see it in a day.

There is something about the Met that encourages people to sit and stare, on the wooden bench that encircles a garden in the lobby, in front of the Temple of Dendur in the newly opened Egyptian exhibit, on benches in front of the current exhibits.

This is a bage museum, with all the grandeur that goes with marble floors, domed ceilings and Greenan pillars, but it is very much a people place, hids swarming about, fresh flowers in the alcoves, housewives and businessmen dropping in during lunch.

AFTER THE MET, relax over afternoon tea, a cup of cappucino or a glass of wine in the intimate little tearoom at the American Stanhope Hotel, the best known hotel in the area, its awning entrance facing across to the 81st Street entrance of the museum.

You will find local people on the empire couches and on the skirted early American chairs, informal handfuls of flowers on the tiny tables and a treasure of paintings on the tea room wall. The room is very busy at lunch-time, as is the cosy but elegant Saratoga dining room and the outdoor terrace of the hotel:

The American Stanhope is a small luxury hotel that recently underwent a $9 million renovation. It claims to house the country's largest collection of nineteenth century American art and antiques. There is a lot of art and money on the east side of uptown Manhattan, but there are also a lot of fresh young faces here in the hotel and along this stretch of Pifth Avenue.

Guests enter the hotel through a small intimate lobby, from which doors open to the various dining areas and bar. The bedrooms are spacious and beautifully furnished with antiques.

Rates range from $125 to $165 single, $145 to $185 double, and from $185 to $620 for suites of various kinds and sizes. The Weekender is $105 per couple per night for two nights, Friday and Saturday arrival, and includes breakfasts, tips and admission to all the museums along Museum Mile.

The Metropolitan Museum of Modern Art is a people place: Yum Yum Hot Dog stands selling pretzels and hot dogs under striped umbrellas, kids swarming about, people sitting outside the muse-

New York's magnificent skyline at night along the East River. The glowing spires are of the Empire State Building (left) and Chrysler Building.

The wall-known Fifth Avenue where shoppers, business people and friends stroll along. Saks Fifth Avenue is at left.

JFK Express is an adventure all by itself

The JFK Express. It sounded like a marvelous idea. Take a fast train from Manhatten to John F. Kennedy Airport for $5. Save at least $20 over the taxi fare to JFK. Save yourself the hassle of New York City traffic, especially at rush hour.

It is a great idea, if you don't have any more luggage than you can easily carry in one hand. I had a suitcase almost too heavy to lift, an airline bag, my camera bag and a purse.

The cabble told me what he thought about the JFK Express on our way to 57th St. and Sixth Avenue. The train would take me only to the Jamaica area, I would have to go the rest of the way by bus, there would be nobody to help me with my luggage and I would probably get mugged.

I DIDN'T respond because reliable New Yorkers had told me that the train is different from the graffiti-colored, crime-inclined subways. They said the train was clean and had plenty of security guards aboard.

"Besides," the cabbie added petulantly, "nobody takes taxis for long runs anymore. They use us as a shuttle!" That was the real reason for his opposition of course. It made me feel guilty enough to say "keep the change" but not to divert me.

I had a little portable luggage cart with wheels. That would be enough wouldn't it? Every public facility has ramps for wheelchairs don't they? The answer is "no" and "no."

It was raining lightly. The handle broke off my luggage cart as I was trying to tug the wheels up the curb on 57th Street. I kicked and cursed my luggage to the nearest dime store. I growled and yelled for 20 minutes before I could buy another; they were chained in, as if they were leather coats or made of

THE FIRST one I chose was broken. I had to growl and yell all over again to get one that worked.

There was no ramp down to the subway. Two flights of stairs to the ticket booth and two more to the train, with my almost-too-heavy-to-lift suitcase falling off the cart every twenty feet down each staircase.

Little portable luggage carts aren't made for this much luggage.

Fortunately, New Yorkers are much friendlier than they are given credit for. Three times I was rescued by strong young people who helped me stairway-by-stairway to the train.

My pundits were right. The cars were clean. There was no graffiti. Security guards were very visible. And the doors were locked so that nobody could get off and on, as the cursing young man discovered — he was only planning to go a few blocks.

I got off, all right, securely strapped. The bus was right there, waiting for us all to board, no extra charge, it was all part of the J.F.K. Express ticket.

A STATE OF THE PROPERTY AND A STATE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PRO

Sharing

My luggage was securely strapped to my cart, but I had to unstrap it to carry it aboard the bus, and I learned five minutes after we took off that I was on the wrong bus. My fault. The driver asked me where I was going and I was so dazed by then that I said "to the airport."

EVERYBODY was going to the airport. When I came to my senses and walked forward to say "El Al" I learned that there are two buses, each of which circles half of the airport. I circled it, and then I got off, boarded another bus and circled it again.

The only thing I did right that day was to leave myself plenty of time to get from downtown to my plane, three hours for a 6 p.m. plane, all of late afternoon is rush hour in New York, so I would have done that even if I had used a taxi.

The JFK Express. It is still a great idea. The trains run approximately every half hour from 5 a.m. to midnight with stops at eight stations: Along the Avenue of Americas it stops at 57th Street, 47th to 50th

Area senators back override

The State House of Representatives this week is expected to take up an effort to override of Gov. James J. Blanchar's veto of a bill that would prohibit state financing of medicald abortions.

The Senate last Thursday mustered the two-thirds majority (24) needed to override the veto. The vote was 26-8. The override came with almost no floor debate.

SUPPORTING the override were area senators William Faust, D-Westland; R. Robert Geake, R-Northville; and Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn, In the House, 74 votes will be needed to override. State Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, a former House member, said the effort is still a vote or two short. "It will be difficult for the House to override the governor's veto, but with the threat of legislative recall, lawmakers who normally would vote against SB 136 are reluctant to support measures as controversial as the use of state medicaid funds for elective abortions," he DEMOCRAT Blanchard and his Republican predecessor, William G. Milliken, vetoed the legislature's attempts to halt medicaid financing of abortion 12 times. But the legislature has never been able to override the veto.

Both governors have maintained the right to abortion is meaningless to poor women unless medicald money is available.

But Right to Life of Michigan, which ::opposes the measure, recently pointed to a study by a Planned Parenthood Institute showing in two states that 75 percent of poor women who wanted abortions were able to find enough money. Here's tips for selecting a home for elderly

My mother at age 74 is no longer able to manage on her own at home and has agreed to move to a nursing home. We are looking for a sultable one for her, but never having dode this before, do not really know what we are looking for. We would appreciate anything you could tell us on this.

Mrs. E.M. and family

Dear Mrs. M.: Probably, my first question for you would be, does your mother have a preference for any particular nursing home? It is of utmost importance that your mother or any other person being admitted to a long-term care facility have a major say as to where he or she is going as it is to be his or her home."

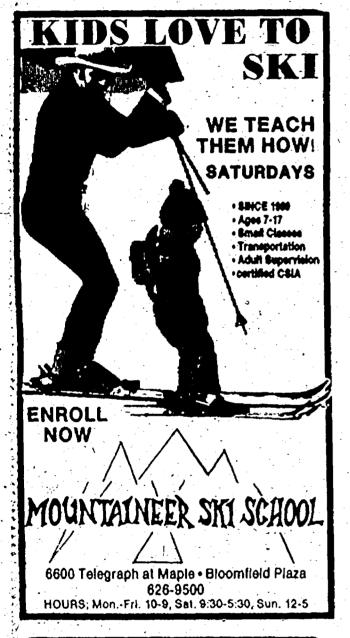

To find out the names of nursing homes in your area, contact the social services department at your local general hospital or consult with your doctor or community health nurse.

You shoud first consider the homes that are close by so your mother can continue to see her family and friends and still feel she is a part of the community as a whole. Also, research has revealed that older persons living in nursing homes who have a continued contact with the outside world are healthler and happier.

Before making your decision, you and your mother should visit several facilities. Although the quality of a nursing home is difficult to determine in one visit, several homes can be eliminated, and you can narrow your choice down to a few.

Unfortunately, the stresses involved in finding a home as well as the ability to finance the move, over-shadow many important facts that should be considered when selecting a nursing

Girls' game: good and bad

Thoughts idling wild down I-94 east, coming home from Kazoo.

Y EYES are heavy and my head hurts from too little sleep and the six emotion-filled girls' basketball games I had covered in the last 29 hours. The thought of this three-hour drive is killing me. It's amazing how homesick one can get spending a weekend in Kalamazoo.

A car full of young, happy girls speeds by. They hold a poster up to the window that proclaims, "Ladywood No. 1". I honk my horn and shake my fist in the air triumphantly. The girls in the car clap and smile.

They were happy because their team just won the state championship. I was happy for them. It must be a great feeling. I was also happy because they were facing the same arduous three-hour journey that I was - for some reason, I took comfort in that. I guess it was like having someone in the car with me.

GIRLS BASKETBALL has sure come a long way in a short period of time. The talent I had seen in the last two days was phenomenal, And you know what? Most of the top players were underclassmen.

When Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy, last year's Class A state champs, took on Flint Northwestern in the semifinals Friday night, there was just one senior on the court - Mercy's Sarah Basford.

Mercy started three juniors and a sophomore. Off the bench came two more juniors. Northwestern, which eventually became this season's state champs, started three juniors and two sophomores. Off the bench came freshman Stephanle Tipton, and all she did was hit five straight shots to help her team defeat the Marlins.

Class B champ, Ladywood, started three juniors and two sophomores. River Rouge, which Ladywood defeated in the championship, started four juniors and a sophomore.

Who are these underclassmen? See if you don't recognize these names: Annette Ruggiero, Mary Rosowski, Terri Ford and Amy DeMattla, Mercy, Emily Wagner, Char Govan, Ladywood; Franthea Price, River Rouge; Tonya Edwards, Northwestern. These are some of the best players in the state, and they will all be back next year.

YES, THE the talent level in girls basketball has improved at a rapid rate. Unfortunately, some other areas are a step behind - at least.

The most noticeable area is the officiating. The quality of officiating in high school girls basketball is light years behind the quality of the players.

It's to the point where a girl makes a legal move and gets called for a violation because the referee has never seen a girl make that kind of a move. Since he's never seen it, it must be wrong.

Case in point: Several times this season I've seen traveling unjustly called on Mercy's Mary Rosowski. She possesses a very strong, and quick, first step to the basket - it's a move that, until recently, was never seen in the girls' game. Players are being penalized for having extraordinary talents.

I ALSO think too many refs read the newspapers They know which teams are the pregame "favorite." They know who the underdogs are. They know who the top scorers are. Sometimes, and I really believe this, these preconceived attitudes affect their judgment on the court.

Harper Woods Regina feels an ill-advised threeseconds call late in the game cost them the state championship last Saturday against Northwestern. They might be right. A shot was taken and missed. Regina's Jolynn Schneider pulled down the offensive rebound, took one dribble toward the baseline, and the ref called three seconds. Regina trailed by a point at the time.

Three seconds, in girls basketball, should be the least-called violation. Unless the girl just camps out in the lane, the call shouldn't be made. The girls' game, unlike boys hoops, is not primarily an inside game. It's more of a perimeter game. There are very few occasions to call three seconds. . I THINK the Michigan High School Athletic Association should seed teams for the state. tourney. That would avoid a situation like we had this year. Three of the four state championships were, for all intents and purposes, decided in the semifinals. In Class A. No. 1 ranked Mercy lost to No. 2 ranked Northwestern. In Class B, No. 2 Yanked Ladywood beat No. 1 ranked Manistee. In Class D, No. 1 ranked Leland lost to DeTour. If that's not argument for seeding, I don't know what is. The tournament should be seeded from the districts right up through to the finals.

Glennevent is all Mules

When the name Temperance-Bedford is mentioned, thoughts turn to wrestling - and winning.

The Mules showed Saturday they are a good bet to win another state champlonship as they dominated a tough field in the 16-team Westland John Glenn Invitational.

Bedford racked up 2491/2 points to host Glenn's 128. Rounding out the top six were: Wayne Memorial (1121/2), Birmingham Brother Rice (91), Romulus (791/2), Garden City and Plymouth Canton (721/2 each), Plymouth Salem and Mount Clemens (71 each). Complete results appear on page 4c.

In winning the title, Bedford claimed four individual titles and added five runners-up out of 13 different weight

However, Glenn's 112-pound standout Dan Gibson was named the meet's outstanding wrestler. He pinned four opponents, including Bedford's Rick Deeb for the title in 5:28. Deeb finished third in last year's state meet.

GLENN, the defending Northwest Suburban League champion, also had 105-pound Rick Gillies reach the final. He lost a 5-2 decision to Bedford's Doug Harper. Two other Glenn matmen, Mike Rossi and Tom Forchione, each finished third at 119 and 155, respec-

"Bedford was clearly the outstanding team in the field," said Glenn coach Tom Buckalew. "I thought our wrestlers performed exceptionally well.

The heavyweight champion was Bedford's C.J. Rimmer, who pinned Monroe's Randy Sieler in 3:50.

Other Bedford champions included Adam Siedlecki (155) and Greg Borden

GARDEN CITY, a veteran team, had a pair of third place finishers - Tom Mack at 126 and Scott Purr (198).

The two were also instrumental last week in leading the Cougars to a pair of easy dual meet wins.

GC first routed Southgate Anderson

Scoring plns were Dan Picla, 98 pounds (23 seconds); Ron Taggart, 105; Bill King, 126; Ron Kasperek, 138; Dale Creech, 145; Mark Grigereit, 155; Larry Combs, 167; Purr, 198; and Marvin Pike, heavyweight. Mack, meanwhile, scored a 9-1 decision.

The Cougars then raised their dualmeet record to 5-2 by blanking Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 78-0.

Kevin Dee, a 185-pounder, led the parade with a 38-second pin of his opponent. He was joined by pin pals Taggart, Roger Dsier (112), King, Mack, Combs and Pike.

Osterland takes Churchill reigns

staff writer

There was no need for suspense. All along everybody knew Herb Osterland was going to succeed Ken Kaestner as football coach at Livenia Churchill.

Osterland finally got the word last week.

"Herb has paid his dues," said Churchill Athletic Director Larry Joiner. "He's been an assistant for 10 years. He was the leading candidate all the way.

"And it's so much easier to deal with somebody inside. He works here in physical education and that's a real Kaestner, the affable and successful coach of the Chargers for 16 seasons, recommended Osterland for the job.

"He coached junior high football and has a good background," Joiner said. "He's well qualified."

OSTERLAND is a graduate of Marine City High School and Eastern Michigan University. He lettered in football at EMU in 1962.

He spent nine years coaching at Holmes Junior High in Livonia and moved over to Kaestner's staff in 1974, where he served as JV coach.

During the past five seasons he's been Churchill's offensive coordinator. "The thing about Ken is that he's a great person and a great human being," Osterland said. "He meant a lot to me and he's a good friend.

Herb Osterland

football

"He let me share my personality. He still wants to be part of the program and he told me that he'll be our No. 1 fan and help in any way he can."

Osterland said that Darrell Copley will be retained as coach of the offensive and defensive lines. The new coach, however, is seeking a new defensive coordinator.

"It's different in that I'm responsible for the entire thing now - not one nitch," Osterland said. "We're going to stay with the same defensive package - an even front. We'll have the same defensive philosophy, but whoever gets the job, we'll all work together."

DON'T look for any radical changes from Osterland, especially on offense. The new coach will be able to build around a good nucleus.

Returning is quarterback John Stoltsiadis, who helped engineer a 13-12 upset of No. 1 ranked Farmington Harrison, which at the time held a 29-game winning streak. Also returning is All-Observer tackle Dave Mize, center Steve Brooks, guard Kirt Stacherski, running back Steve Bond, middle linebacker Scott Papich and defensive back John Ollman.

Those underclassmen were all instrumential in helping Churchill win its final three games of the season and finish with a 4-5 overall record.

"The last three games left a good" taste in their mouths," said the new coach. "More numbers' will be available because they saw the success after beating teams like Harrison and Stevenson. It all depends on the attitude between now and the start of next sea-

"But I feel happy -- we'll come out to play I'm sure. I feel good about what's happening to us."

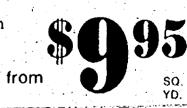

IN ADDITION to his new football duties. Osterland plans to continue as the school's head baseball coach.

"I'm going to coach baseball this spring and then see after that," he said. "You can do both. John Herrington does it at Harrison and so does Chuck Apap at Walled Lake Western. I'll wait and see until after the season.

What an improvement from last season! With the addition of the Farmington schools, the 1983 All-Observer Girls Swim Team lists some of

But you should start once again with some familjar faces — the Livonia Stevenson contingent — led. by 100-yard breaststroke Class A champion Mary Schoenie. She helped the Spartans to the Western Lakes Conference title and a fourth-place finish in Next comes North Farmington, ninth in Class A. and its young cast of talented swimmers. North won the Northwest Suburban League crown.

And Catholic League champion Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy, another newcomer, adds more twinkle to an aiready star-studded team.

Here is this year's All-Area Girls Swim Team.

FIRST TEAM

Jennifer Rowe, North Farmington, 200 freestyle: The hard-working freshman went to the state meet and placed sixth in the 500 freestyle, 12th in the 200 and was a member of the Raiders' fourth-place 400 freestyle relay squad.

She also established school, pool and league records this year.

"Jennifer is a very hard worker - willing to go more," said coach Jordan Hatch. "She's a competi-

Sherrie Sudek, Livonia Stevenson, 200 IM: The sophomore's best finish in the state meet was fourth in the individual medley (2:12.54). Her best time in this event was 2:11.53 (state preliminaries). She also helped Stevenson to fourth place in the 200 medley relay at the same meet. During the season, Sudek set a varsity record in the 200 freestyle (1:57.4) and a Stevenson pool record in the 100 backstroke (where she was un-

A two-event conference champ, Sudek was called "very talented, a good student and very spirited" by her coach, Lois McDonald.

Mary Manderfield, North Farmington, 50 freestyle: A senior, Manderfield was a team captain

Her win in the 50 freestyle enabled North to beat West Bloomfield for the first time ever in a dual Making her fourth straight state meet appearance, Manderfield finished 12th in Class. A with a season-best time of 25.28.

"Mary would swim any event that might need to be filled to help her team," coach Hatch said. "The team comes first to her."

Katle MacIntosh, Farmington, diving: The junior standout finished 15th in the state and second in the Class A regional.

The Western Lakes Conference champ won 10 of '11 dual meets and set a Farmington varsity and pool record with a 238.4 point total for six dives.

Shella Taormina, Livonia Stevenson, 100 butterfly: Only a freshman, Taormina finished fifth in the butterfly at state with a time of 59.46. Her best time in this event was 59.12.

A member of Stevenson's fourth-place medley relay team at state, Taormina was "very talented with all strokes," according to her coach.

"She has lots of spirit and is liked by the whole team," McDonald said. "She knows how to practice to succeed."

Taormina also won two events at the Western Lakes Conference meet.

Ann Schlaepfer, Livonia Bentley, 100 freestyle: The sophomore was 13th at state in the 100 freestyle where she holds the school record.

At the Western Lakes meet, Schlaepfer finished second in the 100 freestyle (55.80), fourth in the 50 freestyle (26.03) and helped Bentley to second place in a school record-setting 400 freestyle relay performance (3:48.5).

"Ann's a very competitive swimmer who enjoys the challenge of competing against the best swimmers from other teams," said Bentley coach Keith Wright.

Sue Herzog, Farmington Mercy, 500 freestyle: Herzog's best finish in Class A was in the 500 freestyle where she placed fifth in 5:09.31.

She also helped the Marlins to 12th place in the 400 freestyle relay and 14th in the 200 medley relay.

Herzog also grabbed eighth at the state meet in the 200 freestyle (1:58.36).

Kathy Sullivan, Livonia Stevenson, 100 backstroke: 13th at state in the backstroke, the sophomore excelled in a variety of events this season for the Spartans.

She was second in the backstroke and fourth in the 200 IM at the league meet.

Sullivan was also a member of the Spartans' fourth-place 200 medley relay team at the state Class A finals.

"She's fun to have on the team because she likes to race, have fun and succeed," McDonald said.

Mary Schoenie, Livonia Stevenson, 100 breaststroke: The junior holds four school records, including the 100 breaststroke in 1:06.46 (where she won the state title) and the 200 IM (2:08.52) where she was second in the state.

Between the breaststroke and IM, Schoenle lost only one meet all year. She won two individual events at the league meet as well.

"She's fun to coach because she can mentally make changes as well as physically," McDonald said. "She's a good student and participates in other

Schoenle and Sudek will co-captain the Spartans again next season.

AT-LARGE

Kim Dorsey, Garden City: Dorsey is on the All-Observer squad for the third consecutive year.

She was Northwest Suburban League champ in the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly, and was a state qualifier in the 200 and 500 freestyles. As a senior, Dorsey appeared in the listings in five different individual events.

Jill Andries, Farmington Mercy: Andries was instrumental in the Marlins' Catholic League title

She won the 200 IM in 2:20.7 and the 100 breaststroke in 1:11.6.

Her best finish at state was 11th in the breaststroke (1:11.29).

Ginnie Johnson, Plymouth Canton: The Chiefs' top swimmer this season. Johnson qualified for two finals at the state Class A meet. She was 14th in the 200 IM (2:16.91) and 12th in the 100 butterfly (1:00.35). An injury at the state meet prevented Johnson from swimming the finals of the butterfly. The Canton junior was second in the butterfly and third in the 200 IM at the Western Lakes meet. She also had an outstanding time of 1:08.0 in the 100 Gayle Gorgas, Livonia Churchill: The Chargers' mainstay was impressive at the state meet despite swimming in the shadow of Schoenle, gaining two places in the final 12.

She was fifth in the 100 breaststroke at the state meet with a season-best clocking of 1:08.83. In the 200 IM, Gorgas was 10th with a season-best time of.

RELAY EVENTS

Sherrie Sudek, Mary Schoenie, Shella Taormina and Kathy Sullivan; Livonia Stevenson, 200 medley: Four outstanding swimmers add up to one outstanding relay team.

The four girls, already mentioned as firstteamers, combined for a fourth-place finish at the Class A meet with a season-best time of 1:51.81. That clocking tops all area schools.,

Stevenson also won this event at the Western Lakes Conference meet champions.

Thurston's Filipiak guns down Trenton

After both teams scored a combined 19 points in the first half, Thurston's Scott Filiplak scored 19 of his gamehigh 22 points in the second half to give the Eagles a 51-40 non-conference basketball victory Tuesday over Trenton.

At first, it looked like neither team wanted victory as Thurston took an 11-8 halftime lead.

"There were a lot of missed layups," said Thurston Coach Gary Fralick of his team's sluggish start. "Trenton did a nice job of pressing us and kept us out of our offense."

Then came Filiplak, who scored 10 points in the fourth quarter alone.

"It wasn't anything I particularly sald (at balltime)," Fralick added. "We just got mad at ourselves and decided to go after them offensively."

Four other players had six points aplece for the Eagles, now 4.0 overall. Trenton, whose record fell to 0-4, was led by John Milligan with 13 points.

Spartans win thriller

By John Raby

Livonia Stevenson's Brian Cox won. the showdown between the top two scorers in the Suburban Prep Hockey League (SPHL), but it was probably a pair of lesser known players who stole the show when the Spartans met Wyandotte Roosevelt Tuesday night.

Cox scored two goals, including the eventual game-winner in the third period, to lift Stevenson to a 5-4 SPHL victory over the Bears at Eddie Edgar Arena.

Cox, whose tallies gave him a league-leading 14 goals and 16 points In six games, offset the performance of Bears forward Chris Bialobrzeski, who scored a goal and an assist for his seventh goal and 12th points of the

However, despite the fun the pair may have had, it was Spartan goalle Phil Bryant and reserve forward Joe Conway who put together their best performances in recent memory, catching the eye of Stevenson Coach Jerry Kestner. Bryant stopped several shots destined for the net, while Conway, only a sophomore, added a pair of assists.

hockey

"IN OUR last game against Franklin. Bryant was part of the difference then," Kestner said, "but he was the big difference tonight (Tuesday) because he made eight more saves than they dld - and some of their shots were labeled.

"Joe is one of the guys we're rebuilding with this year. Joe has been coming on real well and his brother Pat, a defenseman, had one of his best games (also with two assists). These are the kind of guys that we're hoping that down the road they're going to be the backbone of Stevenson.'

Each team took advantage of the other's miscues. Wyandotte's Mike Normand scored a power play goal just 2:46 into the game, but Conway tled it for Stevenson at the 12:11 mark while the Bears defense was hibernating, backhanding the puck into the net from five feet out.

Cox then scored his first goal of the night, and it might as well have been his first Christmas present as two

Wyandotte players were in the penalty box and another was without his

"WE'RE JUST having some tough luck," said Wyandotte Coach Jim Allison. "We've lost three in a row now, and several have been pretty close games, Stevenson and Bentley - who we lost to earlier - popped in a couple of quick goals on us that set us for the night."

The Bears managed to tie the game 2-2 in the second period when forward' Craig Sawicki tallied on a three-onone break. Senior forward Ken Michniak, however, untied it 16 seconds later and senior Phil Lann gave Stevenson a 4-2 lead with the Spartans' second goal in a 46-second span.

Bialobržeski listed a nisty backhander over Bryant near the end of the period to make it 4-3, but Cox's final goal was the insurance Stevenson needed despite Tom Surcek's goal for a Wyandotte less than a minute later.

Kestner added that his team was fortunate to have come out on the winning side.

'We were outshot (28-23), which gives you an indication of what the game was like," said the Spartan

The pain which Catholic Central endured after losing to Fraser in the Class A state hockey finals a year ago was softened somewhat as the second-ranked Shamrocks upended the ninth-ranked Ramblers, 5-3, Saturday night in the Redford Arena.

Dan Michaels led Catholic Central to its fourth victory in five games with two goals, including an empty net tally with 28 seconds remaining in the contest. Steve DeMattos added a goal and two assists, while Dave Morse had a goal and assist. Jeff Steffes tallied the other goal.

Fraser junior goalie Wayne Jones had a rough initiation. CC pummeled Jones for 43 shots, while the Ramblers managed only 17 on junior Dave Gaskey, who was making his first Bill Carnaghi led Fraser with a goal and two assists, while Mike Tegler and Frank Panski added the Fraser is now 2-2-2 overall.

CHURCHILL 3, HARTLAND 3: Livonia Churchill found yet another way of tying its opponent when Hartland's John Siedlick scored with one, second remaining in the nonleague; game during a mad scramble in front of the Charger net.

Todd Baumann had a goal and assist Saturday for Churchill, now 1-0-3. Matt Wiljanen and Rick Robitaille. scored the other Charger goals.

Big splash: Stevenson conquers North

"This was a real big win for us because North Farmington is one of the better teams in the area."

Those remarks were made by Livonia Stevenson boys, swim coach Doug Bucker, who watched his team open the season with a 91-81 triumph Tuesday night over the visiting Raiders.

The Spartans wrapped up the meet in the final individual event, the 100-. yard breaststroke, as Steve Taormina and Kevin Murphy finished one-two with times of 1:08.4 and 1:09.2, respec-

Kurt Hein had a big night for Stevenson, winning the 50 and 100 freestyles in 23.4 and 51.3, respectively. He also teamed up with Kevin Everhart, Kevin freestyles in 1:55.3 and 5:10.8, respec-200-medley relay in 1:46.3.

Everhart was first in the 100 back- (3:36.3). stroke (59.0) with Roger Corderre taking second (1:03.9). Everhart also grabbed an important second in the 50 freestyle (23.5).

Stevenson's other individual winner was diver Ken Milligan (159.9 points). Somewhat overshadowed was the performance of North's Brian Goins, who won the 200 IM (2:10.9) and set a Stevenson pool record in the 100 butterfly (54.9).

Teammate Mike Tumey was equally impressive, taking the 200 and 500

Murphy and Greg Deska to capture the, tively. Tumey also anchored North's winning 400-freestyle relay squad

> The Rockets rode the kick of Brian Pawlowicz Tuesday, who captured the 200 and 500 freestyles in 1:84:0 and 5:13.0, respectively.

> Pawlowicz also teamed up with Lou Farkes, Craig Fitch and Tim White to claim first in the 400-freestyle relay

Other Glenn individual winners included Dan Kozar in the 200 IM (2:13.1) and Mike Jensen in the 100 backstroke in 23.4 and 52.3, respectively. He also teamed up with brother Drew, Eric Hutchison and Chris Morasky to win the 200-medley relay in 1:49.0.

Eric Baird did his best for Churchill.

Baird won the 50 and 100 freestyles which suffered its first dual meet loss

Other Churchill individual winners included Eric Brandenmill, diving. 149.25; Morasky, 100 butterfly, 57.9, and Hutchison, 100 breaststroke, 1:06.1.

"I thought our kids swam well," said Churchill coach Manse Tian. "We had good times. We might of lost on the score, but within we feel we won.

Schoolcraft to welcome 4 new additions at break

By C.J. Ricak staff writer

Four days.

No, this isn't an announcement for an appliance store sale. Although Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Rocky Watkins figures to cash in about four days from now.

That's when he'll pick up a quartet of players cheap. All four become eligible to join the team Dec. 19. And the Ocelots could use the help.

It was evident in Schoolcraft's onesided 101-68 trlumph over Madonna College Saturday at Eastern Michigan. But it was even more apparent in a 109-84 humbling at the hands of Glen Oaks Community College last Wednesday (Dec. 7). "Turnovers and poor defense have every day in practice. We're making poor decisions on the floor.

been our problem," Watkins said of his

5-5 Ocelots. "We've been working on it

"I told them I was taking the asylum back from the inmates. We're going to play it closer to the vest."

basketball

WHAT WATKINS wants is more controlled play on the court, and he hopes that the addition of 6-foot-3 forward Eric Stokes, 6-3 guard James Orr, 6-6 center-forward Larry Martin and 5-8 guard Rich Shavers will provide that. All four were sidelined because of academic problems.

Watkins figures Stokes, a transfer from Utah Tech; Orr, a transfer from Wayne State; and Martin, who switched from Henry Ford CC, are all potential starters.

Those four, combined with the return of guard Tom Van Wagoner, who had been out with a leg injury, could get Schoolcraft on track in time for the start of the Eastern Conference.

"Orr, Martin and Stokes are outstanding defensive players," Watkins said. "And that kind of play is infectious."

One player Watkins would like it to "infect" its high-scoring guard Carlos Briggs. The sophomore sensation poured in 45 points, grabbed 12 rebounds, dished out six assists and made six steals against outmanned Madonna. But he also committed nine turnovers.

"CARLOS CAN play good defense when he wants to," Watkins said. "But. he can't seem to put his mind to it for 40 minutes."

Pat Martin added 21 points and 13 rebounds to the Ocelot cause against Madonna. Van Wagoner had 10 points and four assists.

Watkins called the loss to Glen Oaks "the worst since I've been here as coach. It was a total breakdown." Briggs finished that game with 34 points, with Vince Merriweather netting 13, Pat Martin 12 and Eric Sink eight to go with 13 rebounds.

Schoolcraft travels to Lansing Community College Friday.

Secretary answers bowling critics

Unlike most young people who go to college to shape a career or go to a shop to learn a trade, Bill Lemerand, owner of the Williams Engine Service at Mill Street and the railroad in Plymouth, took an unusual route.

He just watched his father who was a landscape architect at a chemical firm in Rocwood, and his grandfather who spent his time working on all sorts of engines, especially those connected with groundskeeping and Model T Fords.

He was only 16 years old when he began to work on his own.

"It was an old Sears lawnmower and it needed work badly. But I worked at it and finally got it back into condition. And I was proud that I was able to do such a job so early in my career."

From that start he advanced to where he now owns his own business and has branched out to handle all sorts of engines.

by W.W. Edgar

You will find all sorts of engines in the shop he has renovated in the past few months. They range from the ordinary mower to the large riding mowers used on golf courses. And when there are no lawnmowers to work on, Lemerand finds time to work on-what he calls a racing machine.

WHILE MOST of his life - he is now 41 years old — has been wrapped up in motors, he still has time for a hobby as a drag racer.

"This is a great sport," he said, "and it is fun going around the state and even into Canada to compete in the big races."

As he talked, Lemerand pointed to a large shelf filled with trophies of all shapes and sizes. "I didn't do badly. I won my share of trophies."

He belongs to a drag racing association and has raced in the major events in Grand Rapids. He especially likes : the races in Canada where most of the competition is held on weekends at a track near Rondeau Park.

He competes in-what is called the 250 bpen class with a machine powered by a Kohler engine capable of going 72 miles per hour.

When the drum heater shop at Mill :: and the railroad closed several months ago, Lemerand quickly seized the opportunity to come to Plymouth. He renovated the old building and now it is a haven for drag racing enthusiasts and serves as a "hospital" for all sorts of engines in need of repair.

And the successful career all came about because he watched his father and grandfather in their shops in Rockwood, and started with the repair of a Sears mower when he was only 16

Even though Western was nice, I can't help feeling the weekend would have been twice as successful, in terms of fan support, if the games were played at Calihan Hall.

M-14 Livonia\Alright! How's this for a parting shot: Liz Bonello, Mercy's scorekeeper who is as sweet a person as you can know, was crying her pretty brown eyes out after her team's loss Friday night. The loss wasn't the only reason for her tears.

She had sat next to a scorekeeper from Northwestern the entire game. The woman was loud and obnoxious throughout. After the game, the Northwestern woman shook Liz by the shoulders shouting, "I told you we'd win. I told you."

Liz, totally frustrated, slapped the woman. (Who wouldn't have?) It wasn't really a violent slap. It was more of a "get-away-from-me" slap. Still, Liz was very upset. She shouldn't have been. The woman deserved it.

Central nips Bentley

Tom Cummings almost scored one basket too many Tuesday night in Walled Lake Central's 55-54 nonleague basketball victory over Livonia Bentley.

Cummings, who led Central with 17 points, took a 12-foot baseline shot at the wrong basket with one second remaining which, had the shot been good, would have left Bentley scratching its head with a one-point victory.

Dramatically, the ball bounced twice on the rim before falling harmlessly to the floor.

"I've never rooted so much for a shot by the other team to fall in all my life," said a bewildered Bentley Coach Tom Niemi.

However, Niemi added that his team should have had the lead all along.

"We played miserable in the first half," he said. "We didn't execute at the end. We didn't go to the floor like they did."

Marvin Rons led Bentley with 16 points, while teammate John White had 11 and 8-foot-8 center Phil Graczyk had 10 points and 11 rebounds. Bentley is 1-2.

Rob Gardner added 16 points for Central, while Clark Bock had 10.

STEVENSON 59, FARMINGTON 36: Bob Sluka, a 6-6 junior, tossed in 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the undefeated Spartans in Western Lakes action Tuesday.

Stevenson, nursing a 37-27 lead after three quarters, outscored the Falcons 22-9 in the final stanza to raise its record to 4-0.

Todd Baggett and Tom Domako, a 6-8 forward, added 10 points each for Stevenson. Coach George Van Wagoner was also pleased with the floor play of 6-2 point guard Rick Rozman (eight points) and the inside work of 6-5 senior Steve Russo (eight points).

You would have never known Eric Thorderson was away from basketball for two years the way he played Monday night in Ypsilanti.

The 6-foot-6 swingman from Livonia Bentley scored 19 points in 25 minutes of action as his Wayne State team suffered a painful 61-59 loss to Eastern Thorderson returned last spring from Italy, where he served as a missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints — the Mormon Church. It's really remarkable the way Eric has come back and played," said WSU coach Charlie Parker. "Eric red-shirted his first year at Wayne, and I didn't know that much about him."

Thorderson also played well in Saturday night's four-point loss to the University of Detroit, contributing six points. *I kind of set goals before the season started," said the soft-spoken sophomore with three years of eligibility left. "After Christmas I wanted to be a major factor on the team. When I was called I wanted to jump in there and do the best job I could.

"BUT I WANTED to take it kind of slow - set my goals gradually."

While in Italy and Sicily, Thorderson didn't have much time for basketball.

My mission entailed working with the members, and letting people know about our religion," Thorderson explained. "It was a very disciplined time-

"I think I'm a better player now," he said. "It helped me get my mind together. But it takes awhile to get back in

Thorderson worked out the kinks in his game during the summer at Wayne, playing with his teammates, or on the or courts at Bentley. His brother, Kurt, a member of the WSU squad two years ago, just returned from his mission in Argentina.

"ERIC was lucky because he came back in the spring," said Kurt, who plans to rejoin the team next season. "He was able to get back in shape during the summer.

"I just got back and I'm in no condition to play yet."

Eric's emergence could make the talent-laden Tartars that much tougher when the Great Lakes Conference season opens in Januray.

"He gives us a stabilizing force,"
Parker said. "He's smart and never takes a bad shot. He gives us a good dimension off the bench."

Trailing 35-26 at the half; WSU rallied to take the lead as soft-shooting Thorderson and Herb Bostic got hot. Thorderson, a sound ball-handler and passer, was a major factor in the Tartars' breaking EMU's full-court press.

The Hurons, however, pulled out the victory as Fred Coffeld, the game's high scorer with 26 points, hit a clutch basket in the final minute of play.

Schoolcraft College alum Phil Blevins, a 6-6 forward, came off to the bench to add 13 for EMU. Both teams are now 3-3.

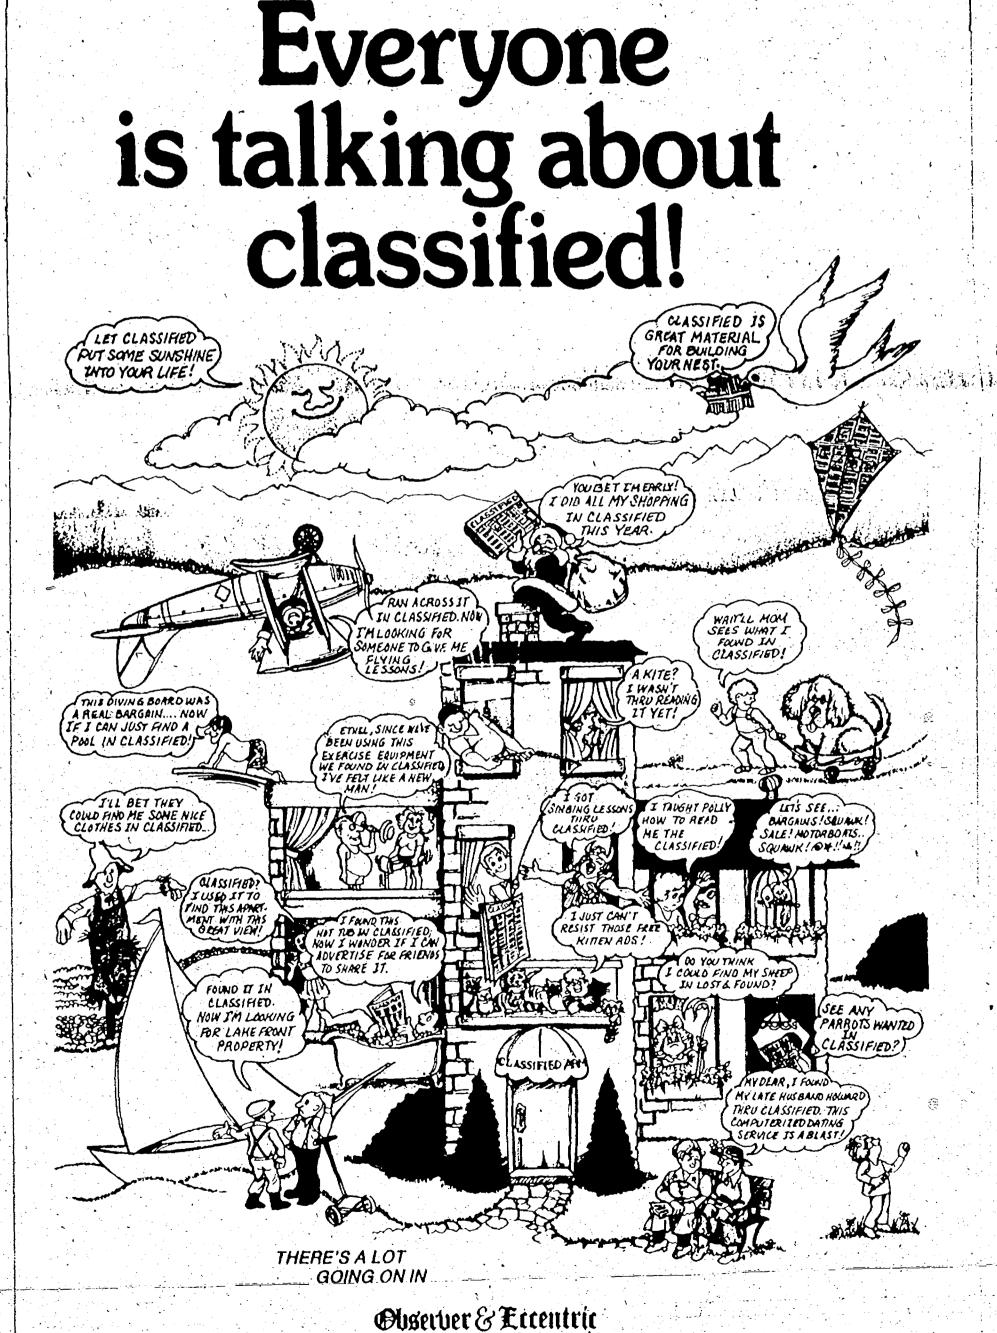

THE MODEST Thorderson, despite two solid performances, isn't talking about starting.

"I'll do just whatever coach Parker wants me to do," he said. "I feel more comfortable out front at the No. 2 guard, but Saturday I was playing down inside and had to guard Doug Chappell (Ú-D's center),"

Despite the heart-breaking loss, Parker admitted that Thorderson is a pleasant surprise.

*Eric can make the good offensive and defensive play," said the WSU coach. "He's the type that can do that. Right now, though, I'd say he's more valuable off the bench."

Know your worth when drawing up a will

part I.

Many people nalvely assume that a will drawn several years ago is still valid and can do the job. In almost all such cases, such a will is at best inadequate and at worst useless.

In a two-part article, we will touch upon some of the key elements that should be borne in mind in developing a valid will.

• Your real worth. Before you begin, you will need a clear picture of your taxable estate. Draw up a list of your property, estimate its value, and identify what is owned by each spouse.

Then make a separate list of the assets that will not be taxed in your estate (for example $100,000 of death benefits paid from a pension plan are estate-tax free).

• Unified credit. Estate-tax exemptions are scheduled to increase over the next few years, reaching $600,000 in 1987. However, that does not imply that you do not need any estate plan-

The first taxable dollar in your estate will be subjected to the marginal tax bracket of 34 percent.

• Marital trust. A married couple can avoid all levies on the death of the first spouse with the unlimited marital deduction. But all the property left to the surviving spouse can be taxed in his finances and you Sld

or her estate if it exceeds the exclusion

You have to consider the total amount of estate taxes that must be paid upon the deaths of both spouses. The objective is to maximize the amount of estate that could be passed on to your children or your heirs.

One important consideration is to use the exemption to the fullest to shelter your estate by leaving property to other heirs. The marital deduction will shelter any remaining property you leave your spouse, and only it will be taxed later.

• Risiduary trust. Another way to take the full benefit of the increasing. exemptions is with a risiduary trust. It is paid for with property up to the amount of the exemption.

Your surviving spouse gets the trust's income until death, when the balance passes to your children. Your spouse can also leave them property under his or her estate's exemption.

 Joint ownership. To minimize the estate-tax liability, each spouse should own property up to the amount of his or her exemption. The reason should be

If a spouse who owns little property dies first, the estate's exemption will go unused and will be wasted. To insure your double exemption, transfer assets during your lifetime.

The marital deduction will cover the transfer so you do not have to worry about any gift taxes. A note of caution should be added here.

If appreclated property is transferred within one year of death, it will not be entitled to a step-up tax if it returns to the surviving spouse.

Next week we will talk about additional considerations for drawing up a useful will.

Don't overrate P/E ratio

I bought stock in a company called Van Dorp in 1975, and my cost was $6 a share. When I bought the stock, the company earned 94 cents a share, so I paid just about six times earnings for it. I have been taught to look for stocks that sell at about that price earnings ratio

Recently the stock has been above $25 a share. I had just about decided to sell the stock because the price earnings ratio is now nearly 20. I know when a stock sells at that high a price earnings ratio, it's in danger of an adjustment. Also, I have quadrupled my money and would have a very nice profit,

However, I just received a recommendation from my broker on this stock, in which he suggests it could go quite a bit higher. I have always found that it pays to buy stock with a low PE and sell it when it gets high. Do you see where I may be making a mistake in this case?

me, but there is more to a price earnings ratio than just the number. First, it is necessary to relate price earnings ratio to the general state of the stock market.

Your general thinking seems good to

We have just come through an 8. or 9-year period when price earnings have been at a cyclical low. Over long periods of time, we move from periods of

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara of the National Association of Investment Clubs

very little confidence in the stock market, when stocks in the Dow-Jones Industrials sell at about 6 or 7 times earnings, to periods of excessive confidence when they sell at 20-21 times.

We seem to be in a period now when we are making a probably long-term move from the lower end of that range to the higher range. This means the price earnings ratios that stocks sold at their highs in the last four or five years are likely to be exceeded in the future.

PRICE EARNINGS ratios are also affected by the nature of the particular company. Van Dorn has some aspects of its business that are severely influenced by the business cycle.

In the very bad period we have just come through, it had some volume declines and a substantial reduction in profits. So at this time, you have the price up and earnings down. The result of that is the company is selling at a very high price earnings ratio.

When you come out of a recession, the market begins to boost the price of good quality stocks quite a while before their business is actually producing increased profits. This gives a high price. earnings ratio, but the expectation is: that the company's earnings will be; coming up rapidly, and this will drop

Steelcase announces student art competition

Steelcase is inviting all Michigan university-level art students to enter Steelcase Student Art Competition I, the first student art search Steelcase. has conducted in the nation.

Steelcase, headquartered in Grand Rapids, is a leading designer and manufacturer of office furniture.

"The artwork chosen will be displayed in the new Steelcase showroom in Southfield," said Jeff Block, architect/designer liaison for Steelcase in Detroit. "This will provide architects and designers an opportunity to see the variety and quality of Michigan student art."

The Steelcase Detroit office is requesting that Michigan students submit 35 mm color slides of artwork in four categories: sculpture, ceramics and pottery, prints and mixed media. The deadline for entries is Friday, Dec. 16.

THE ENTRY judged "Best of Show". will be awarded a $500 scholarship. Top winners in each category will receive $300 scholarships; second-place winners in each category will receive scholarships of $150.

Block said that entries in the sculpture category can be in any medium, including marble, glass, wood and cast

The print category could include silkscreens, lithographs or photographs, with a size limitation of 3 feet by 5 feet maximum, 8 inches by 8 inches minlmum.

Ceramic and pottery pieces should later than Friday, Dec. 16.

be high quality, decorative pieces with a finish and scale appropriate for an office environment.

The mixed media category could include oils, acrylics, watercolors, pastels, and should be suitable for hanging on fixed walls or system furniture panels, according to Block.

"A panel of Michigan artists and designers will review the slides and determine which art selections qualify for further consideration," Block said.

Actual artwork will be submitted to the judges at the Steelcase showroom in Southfield on Jan. 9.

ON JAN. 12, the selected artwork will be displayed at an open house at the Steelcase Detroit Showroom. The students, Michigan architects, designers, facility managers and Steelcase clients will be invited. Awards will be presented on that day.

Steelcase Detroit Student Art Competition judges include Robert Kidd. noted artist and owner of Robert Kidd Gallery in Birmingham; Charles A. Lewis, curator of education, Detroit Institute of Arts; Joyce Bromberg, senior interior designer at Steelcase; and Terry West, Steelcase manager of architect-designer programs.

Students wishing to submit slides of their art to the competition may send as many entries as desired to: Steelcase Inc., 3000 Town Center, Suite 80, Concourse B, Southfield, Mich. 48075, Attention: Art Competition.

All entries must be postmarked no

TV shows give new talent a chance

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Lisa LiGreci practices at home, accompanied by husband Joe, who plays in a band called Smokin' that she occasionally sings special writer

EMEMBER, DREAMS really do come true right here on the 'Saturday Night Music Machine' " says Curtis Gadson on WDIV-TV's prime-time talent show-

The dream that could come true and not only could but does propel most talented people is the big one: Getting discovered. That's the balt that draws hundreds of talented area people to audition for the Saturday Night Music Machine" as well as several other local and national talent-competition television shows.

And there probably isn't an entertainer alive who hasn't at one time or another in his or her career hoped for the big break.

That dream never seems to change. The venues and the shows and opportunitles do. Once there were TV shows like "The Auntle Dee Show" and Ted Mack's "Amateur Hour." Now there's "Star Search," "Saturday Night Music Machine" and "Stars of Tomorrow."

BUT GETTING ON one of these shows isn't a breeze. That's what Rebecca Wheeler found out when she and her trio (Tap, Ltd.) went for an audiand I went down to the studio four or five times for auditions in front of audiences," said Wheeler, a planist and singer who lives in West Bloomfield. "Finally, out of about 400 auditions, they chose about 12 acts for the first four shows. We were one of the groups selected."

Singing in an Andrews Sisters style, Wheeler and her two partners appeared on the Dec. 10 "Saturday ht Music Machine." They didn't w (three acts compete against each other) but Wheeler said it was a great time.

'I hope it leads to a good band offer or possibly some work in some studios.1

> - Lisa Li Greci Canton singer

"It was a lot of fun, and we got some exposure in Detroit," she said. "It's a lot of hours but it's worth it."

Wheeler and Frankfurth already have a fulltime career as performers in a show that runs regularly at the Holly Hotel. For other area talents, though, the need to get exposure and be discovered is more critical.

TAKE DOMINIK Certo, for instance. Certo is a singer who lived with his parents in Livonia - until recently. He was selected to sing as one of the three contestants on the very first "Saturday Night Music Machine." However, he didn't wait around to see if the increased exposure would lead to anything good for his fledgling music ca-

"He taped the show and then moved: to California," reports his mother.

Certo was impatient to get on with his career and figured Los Angeles was "Mary (Frankfurth), Barb (Hamel) the place to be. "I'm not counting on anything happening," he told his parents as he left for the West Coast.

> Strange things do happen in the entertainment business. An Atlantic Records representative saw Certo sing on the Sept. 7 show and has contacted his parents, indicating interest in his ca-

ANOTHER SHOW that is produced for young Detroit-area talent. Now in Though he didn't win in his category. Its second season, WJBK-TV's "Stars of Barnowski wasn't discouraged. "The Tomorrow" proved a turning point for exposure is real good," said Mark, who one young girl.

After 13-year-old Lisa Evans appeared on one "Stars of Tomorrow" show, she was invited back and apppeared on the program for 12 weeks. She admits it was exposure, despite the hard work and long hours. It helped her settle some questions about her life, however.

She learned the difficulties of dancing on a regular show," said her mother, Mrs. Melvin Evans of Westland. "The hours of rehearsal were very long, and she had to be at those rehearsals and still do her homework. She either had to accept that this was the way it was going to be as a dancer or she would have had to give it up." 0

The turning point was in the direction of a dance career. Lisa is now at Interlochen on a dance scholarship and will study in New York next summer with the David Howard ballet compa-

Mark Barnowski knows a lot about the long, hard climb toward success in the music businesss. Just 25, Mark along with his six brothers and sisters who form the musicl group Relation, have been at it since 1976.

OVER THE YEARS there has been an album, a single that got national airplay, and engagements at nightclubs in Lake Tahoe and Reno. But Relation is still waiting for the big record hit and the elusive Big Break.

The group may have gotten it last week when Mark sang on the nationally syndicated TV show "Star Search" (seen locally Saturday nights on WKBD-TV, Channel 50). Singing a song written by him and his brothers Steve and Wally, the Bloomfield Township resident represented his whole family when he made his solo vocal debut.

on the show used the last name Edwards. "I think this song will help expose the group enough to get national attention from a major record label."

Relation and Mark Barnowski are. further up the entertainment success ladder than some other local talents.

Lisa LiGreci is a 24-year-old singer who has been doing the local club scene for six years. As a lead singer for the band Smokin' she at least had steady

BUT SHE WANTS more. Like more time off to play with her baby and more daytime gigs instead of late-night scenes in bars.

So she jumped at the chance to appear on "Saturday Night Music Machine." "When they called me," she said, "I went down for an audition the next day,"

Her performance has been taped for a future show, but LiGreci hopes that more comes of it than just exposure. "I know no producer is going to see the show and just call me up," said the Canton singer. But I hope it leads to a good band offer or possibly some work In some studios."

Birmingham's Russell Park is hoping that his three-minute song on the same show will lead to work in area lounges. He hasn't worked in the local night spots enough to tire of them yet:

"I play a lot of weddings but I haven't been out in a club in a while," said Park, 22. He is hoping that will change when the "Saturday Night Music Machine" show he taped airs in January

"It was the biggest thing I've ever done," he said, "and it was exciting for me to just be on the show. What I wanted most out of the show was exposure, and I think I'll get that."

While enthusiasm for classical music among the general population could never match the fervent, religious worship of Rock Idols, the supply of gifted young artists seems to be plentiful these days.

Thus, the competition for a place at the top, with universal acclaim and recognition, is a fierce and unrelenting contest, indeed.

One talent in our midst who deserves attention and recognition is Polish-born planist Leszek Bartkiewicz. After having studied at the most prestigious institutions in his native Poland, he came to this country in 1981 and is currently studying for his doctorate at the University of Michigan.

His latest performance was given at the Birmingham Temple. He was joined by another gifted young artist -Borivoj Martinic-Jercic. This 23-yearold violinist, born in Yugoslavia, came to this country in 1978 and is studying

A THIRD talent in this event was William Shapiro, M.D., who combines successfully his substantial musical talent as a pianist with his medical ca-

I have heard Bartklewicz on a couple previous occasions. While great potential was evident on those occasions, my enthuslasm for his performance was less than total.

In view of this latest performance, my evaluation has to be substantially revised. Bartklewicz is definitely emerging as a talent to be reckoned

. The program consisted of works by Liszt; Beethoven, Chopin, Kreisler, Brahms and Prokofley. On an overall basis, the performance in the Beethoven and Prokoflev works was the most impressive.

The program opened with Liszt's Transcendental Etude in F minor, which is an extremely technically demanding piece. Bartkiewicz has conquered most of the technical difficulties, but there were still some rough.

. The following Sonata No. 7 in C minor for Piano and Violin by Beethoven was one of the highlights of the evening. The roaring plano passages were well integrated with the bright, colorful violin sound. Each of the four movements aptly conveyed its unique mood.

The final movement was easily flowing, with the themes switching most naturally from instrument to instru-

He was temporarily agitated after having hit a wrong note at the end of one of these Bagatelles, but he regained his composure to pull off a fine performance.

THE POLONAISE in A Flat Major by Chopin is one of the compser's most popular pieces, as well as one of the most difficult. For the most part, Bartklewicz presented a momentous and brilliant performance of this work, even though it wasn't flawless.

Among the flaws were the parallel ascending scales. But he handled well the difficult, rapid left hand octaves. 4

> The sparkling and spirited perform ance for both planists did justice to this youthful composition. The cascading piano passages with the sprightly dashes were most refreshing. The substitution for the second plano for the orchestra didn't seem to detract substantially from the charm of this work, > Bartkiewicz was the dominant performer in this program and we should be hearing more of him in the future. The ability of his colleagues shouldn't be underestimated. They deserve more exposure, whereupon their potential can be more accurately appraised.

Ehrling conducts excellent program

By Ruth Zaromp

special writer

This week we had the opportunity to see Maestro Sixten Ehrling at a level of greatness that we haven't seen for the last couple of years.

. On Thursday evening, he was a spry, slender, agile conductor, who showed complete control of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and provided us with an excellent musical program. The first piece, Howard Hanson's Symphony No.

2, written in 1930, was nicknamed "Romantic." In comparision to some of the music which was written in the 1930s, this is extremely tonal.

It has extremely rich orchestral properties which enhance the depth of polyphonic music. Classical harmony is used throughout.

To quote the composer, "The symphony represents escape from the rather bitter type of modern musical realism which occupies so large a place in contemporary thought. Much contemporary music seems to be showing a tendency to become entirely too cerebral."

THE KNIGHTS DEN

THE MELODIC themes in this music were based on ideas that one might find in the accompaniments of predecessors, such as Mozart, Haydn, or Handel, but these accepted depth when provided with richer harmonies and substance by the orchestra.

The intermingling and the discourses among the different types of instruments was superb. It is my opinion that this piece of music should be presented to the audience on a more frequent basis.

The second and major piece of music performed was Wagner's Act I of "Die Walkure." This, of course, was done within the limitations of the orchestra and singer without the addition of scenery and explicit acting.

Even so, the part of Sieglinde, performed by soprano Siv Wennberg, was done with the action in mind.

This was evident in the make-up, the facial expressions, the actions, as well as the singing itself. Wennberg was a very convincing Sieglinde, her voice indicating delicacy of expression as well as delicacy of spirit.

James King, who portrayed Slegmund, on the other hand, gave a beautiful vocal presentation, but? didn't show as much acting ability as Wennberg did.1 Arthur Korn portraying Hunding, again didn't portray much action although his voice was in excellent form. This is basically a thing to be expected in an orchestral presentation of an opera. However, at least at one point, when Siggmund' and Sieglinde were supposed to embrace as the o finale and focal point of finding each other, the action was dearly missed.

The orchestra performed excellently, integrating' with the singers and reiterating the main themes in between the arias. Notable was Italo Babini's cello; solo after Sieglinde's part offering water to Sieg-

Christmas lights

Farwell & Friends restaurant and ounge in Westland is aglow for the holldays once again, with an estimated 10,000 tiny lights brightening the Interior. Owner Bill Farwell said some 40 employes and friends spent all day putting up the lights and tinsel and decorating with Santa cutouts and artificial snow. The restaurant, which was closed for the day, reopened for a staff-only party that evening. Farwell says customers have admired the Christmas trimmings, declaring the place looks like a fantasyland or fairyland. Farwell & Friends recently celebrated its fourth birthday. The menu features a 20oance New York strip at $9.95. "We bave a lot of meat-and-potato type people," Farwell said of his customars' likes. Newly added to the menu are Mexican-type dishes and seafood items. Farwell's prides itself on friendliness and has even given out bumper stickers that say, "Friendliness Is Farwell & Friends." Hours are 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. every day.

exhibitions

• EARLY ISLAMIC ART

The first showing of 10th through 13th century textiles from the Detroit Institute of Art's permanent collection will run through Jan. 8 at the institute, 5200 Woodward, Detroit. The garment fragments on display were found in the burial grounds of Old Cairo and sites in Upper Egypt, where they were preserved by the dry climate.

• ITALIAN 18TH-CENTURY DRAWINGS

Drawn from a period when Venetian art was the most important in Italy, 65 works in the exhibit at the Detroit Institute of Arts reflect diverse subjects and styles from religious studies to caricatures. Artists include Canaletto, Francesco and Giacomo Guardi and Giambattista Tiepolo. The exhibit will run through Jan. 15.

• CONTEMPORARY PHOTOGRAPHS

More than 100 photographs dating from 1960 to 1983 will be shown at the Detroit Institute of Arts through Feb. 5. Included in the display are works by Diane Arbus, Howard Bond, Harry Callahan, Elliott Erwitt and Ralph Gibson.

BLIXT GALLERY

A two-man show of the photographs of Jay Asquini and William Pelletler, entitled "Downriver and Upstream," will be on exhibit through Jan. 8 at the Blixt Gallery, 229 Nickels Arcade, Ann Arbor. Asquini's subject is people going about their daily lives. The photographs were taken in Detroit's downriver area. Pelletier's photographs were taken in the woods of Vermont. At Greenfield Village

Great Christmas ideas of the past

By Mary Klemic staff writer

A visit to Greenfield Village in Dearborn this month offers more than history lessons.

Structures at the Henry Ford Museum and the village contain a wealth of decorating ideas for Christmas present from Christmases past. They show that Victorian style flourishes and lush decors may never be outdated.

Do-it-yourselfers who want to have an oldfashloned Christmas may make their own period tree ornaments and greeting cards from the 19th century. Demonstrations on how to make the ornaments are taking place in the museum this month.

CHRISTMAS AS a holiday developed during the 19th century. Americans borrowed customs from Europe and combined them with new ideas, Greenfield Village guides say.

At that time, how Christmas was celebrated depended on one's religious beliefs. The Amish and Mennonites in Michigan, for example, didn't celebrate the holiday as much as the English, Germans and others of other religions did.

In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, people turned to such publications as the Ladies Home Journal, Farm and Home and Successful Housekeeper for holiday decorating tips. Both rural and urban homes abounded with the lavish, romantic touches that characterized the Victorian style of Tabletop trees were popular at first, covered with natural and homemade ornaments. As seen in Henry Ford's 1870s home, American flags were added to the branches in honor of the country's centennial. Candles were placed on the branches, but almost never lit because they were much too hazardous. If the tree candles were lit at all, it was only for a brief time on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day. A bucket of water was kept right by the tree, ready to douse it if necessary.

GREEN BRANCHES were placed behind every picture on the wall, guide Jackie Masi pointed out. "The more, the better," she said.

Livonia resident Jim Brodick, a guide in the Wright brothers' home, said that store-bought ornaments became popular at the turn of the century. Full-size trees, like the one in the brothers' home. provided room for more ornaments.

Visitors to the Wrights' home in Greenfield Village see that it is filled with laurel and poinsettla plants. Wreaths hang on the stairway banister.

Greenery surrounds a mantelpiece and frames the sides of the fireplace.

The Wright home illustrates that tables can be decorated as well as the rooms. Napkins are folded to form a pocket, crown, tiara or water lily. Holly, pine or ornaments could be placed in the napkins, guides said. Or napkin rings were used, each one slightly different from another to mark the place

Corners of a tablecloth at the home are gathered up and a ribbon pinned in place. Two red ribbon runners, with Christmas shapes cut out and sewn onto them, are laid on the tablecloth.

A VISIT TO the Heinz home shows that traditional holiday treats included peanut brittle and molasses taffy. Spiced nuts usually were set out for company at this time. Pretzels were popular seasonal treats, as each resembled hands folded in prayer, according to guides in the home.

If you would like to plan your holiday meal according to that of 100 or so years ago, a visit to the Eagle Tavern, a stage stop and inn of the 1850s, could be in order. The food may have been the same as today - turkey, cranberries and pumpkin pie but the preparation was somewhat different. The turkey was cooked in a tin reflector by the fireplace, while the ple was baked in a pot covered

Homemade ornaments of this era, seen throughout Greenfield Village, include popcorn strings and paper chains. Walnuts are wrapped in foil, coated or painted and hung from the tree: Cone ornaments are filled with nuts and homemade can-

A demonstration at the museum shows how to make a cone ornament, using a paper cone, foil, a dolly and ribbon.

FIRST, THE cone is wrapped with the foil. Slits and a small hole are cut in the center of the doily so it could slip onto the cone, and it is glued in place. Two holes, one opposite the other, are punched near the top of the cone and a ribbon is tled through them to form a handle. Hollday stickers could be added to the sides of the cone.

Visitors to the Henry Ford Museum this month can bear about other bollday traditions "first hand" - almost. Character portrayals of the Victorian era St. Nick, cartoonist Thomas Nast, "The Night Before Christmas" author Clement Moore and Sarah Rorer, food editor of the Ladies Home Journal during the 1890s, will be on hand. Brodick is scheduled to portray Nast in some appearances.

For information, call Greenfield Village at 271-

By David P. Messing special writer

Without a doubt, pet portraits are the most common commission. Cars and boats run a close second to pets and animals. Today, I would like to talk about people and their pets and how best to portray them. First of all, it is known that Americans love their animals, and I am the most frazy animal lover around. In fact, my wife accuses me of opening the door in the summer to let the flys back out so I don't have to klil them!

That might be true, but it's nobody's business. I feel that God has blessed me greatly with family, friends and a career in art. But, withheld from me still is my secret dream to work at a zoo!

I WANT TO hose down giant turtles and. feed loaves of bread to the rhinos. I would be flattered if a llon just wiggled his nose a little at my familiar scent.

I want someday to have an elephant curl her trunk around my arm, feel the leathery hand of a monkey and watch as that silent giant the giraffe takes a treat from my own

Until that day, I will continue to imagine and draw from animal photographs.

I am so crazy for animals that once passion over came caution. One day, we were inside the lion exhibit at the Detroit Zoo, and most of the lions were pacing back and forth in their

But one giant male lay serenely with his tall. hanging right out of the cage. Well, there were no attendents and nobody else around except my wife and three sons.

So'I said, "Honey, I gotta touch that tail." I silently stepped over the guard rail and tiptoed up to the cage.

I gently stroked this unbelievably thick and beautiful tail. He twitched not an ear but lay

With my hand completely around his tail, I turned to my wife and whispered "I think he likes it." As I looked back at him, I gently squeezed his tail, just to feel the muscle in it.

Instantly, his 400 pounds leaped from the floor of the cage, his three-foot head turned and roared directly in my face.

EVEN THOUGH there were bars on the eage, there is something about feeling a lion's breath in your face that has a way of petrifying even an animal lover. I swear the heat of his breath steamed back an inch of my hair line, and I pulled my left arm back so quick that it is today shorter than the right.

This kind of love for animals allows me to study them and draw them accurately. If you have an ability to draw and at least an appreciation for animals, then you, too, may find plenty of commissions in the area of pet-portraits.

The best way to handle this type of commission is to first agree on a price. Since a veterinarian gets about $40 just to wave a flea collar over a dog, I think that it's a pretty good price to start with.

This $40 should be a minimum because your picture will be hanging around long after the pet is gone. Next, secure a down payment sufficient enough to cover your time.

LET'S SAY YOU agree on a fee of $100 for a pet portrait. Now when your customer returns home, he or she finds a heating bill for $110 and an insurance premium due in two

If you, the artist, did not secure a down payment and your customer's money becomes limited, you may have an unwanted entry into your portfolio. And believe me, there is nothing more useless to you than a portrait of someone's pet.

Always secure photographs to build your basic portrait. If for some reason these photographs do not offer enough details or trueness of color, make an appointment to do finishing details with the pet and owner present.

Photographs are very helpful to work from, especially at the beginning of the work. (I once did a portrait of a Yorkshire terrier, With pad and pencil I bounced from chair to chair chasing this little dust mop. Finally in the poorest light possible, this little snot came to rest under a coffee table.)

-So after you have established most of the rendering, get a response from the customer, Usually they are happy. But occasionally their favorite characteristic is too small or doesn't show in the photograph.

So it may require they bring in their pet for the finishing details. Do not even begin until you have good photographs.

Often a customer will say, "I like this posttion of the body in this photo, the head in this photo and this photo shows the color of his eyes better."

The more photographs you have, the less likely you will need to draw from the actual pet. People who have never attempted to draw do not realize that you cannot draw accurately without seeing at least a good photograph.

ONCE A MAN asked me to draw a picture of his parakeet. When I asked for a photograph, he said 'He's just a regular parakeet, draw whatever you think a parakeet looks like and that's him." So . . . I drew a green and yellow parakeet, oh. Hercules isn't green, he's blue. . ."

'What media do I use?" is the most frequent question when my students receive commissions for pet portraits. I tell them if the customer doesn't

When I proudly unveiled my drawing he said. "Uh care or doesn't specify, the use of pencil (graphite) is easy and can be photographic in its realism. I always spray pencil drawings with dulling spray to cut down the metallic shine produced in heavy black areas. Pen and ink is also a favorite people pleaser. If you like, you can always wash water color or felt-tip pen over pen and ink to liven up the drawings. Of course, water color and oils or acrylic colors are great for color paintings.

IF, HOWEYER, YOU are thinking, "Hey I'm just a 'draw-on-the-kitchen-table-when-everyonegoes-to-bed artist' I can't oil paint! But I still get asked to do a picture now and then.'

Here is what you should do. Find, borrow or buy a set of pastels. A set of 46 colors of pastels costs as little as $8. Pastels are the all-time favorite media for pet portraits.

The quality of pastels varies according to the pureness of pigment and richness of color. The least expensive variety has a dusty chalk base, and the most expensive (90 cents to $1.60 per stick) is pure pigment suspended in a glue base. Both the cheap and the expensive brand can produce beauti-

It is best to begin your drawing with a vine charcoal stick. Vines are merely charred pieces of wood, and the line they produce is easily erased with a kneaded eraser.

After the basic structure is established, start blocking in the main colors in pastels. Save all the details for last or they will surely be lost in the process of rendering.

Lightly spray your finished piece with fixatif and don't forget to sign close to the drawing.

PASTEL ON WHITE paper is nice, but on colored paper, it takes on a whole new dimension. Pick out a color that complements the pet's colors.

will show and whites or light pastel colors also will

When doing a pet portrait, I highly recommend you use colored pastel paper. Strathmore has a nice line of colored text papers that are 80 cents per

Also, Morilla has a canson paper that offers beautiful colors at 85 cents a sheet. Your customers would like white paper, they would be thrilled with colored paper but if you want to "knock them out of the ball park" do their pet's portrait on velour.

Velour is a fuzzy paper that grabs onto the pastels, producing rich colors and soft photographic realism unattainable in most media except air brush. Velour also comes in a variety of colors. Quality sheets of velour cost around $3. When viewing a well-done pastel on velour, people ask questions ranging from "How was this done?" to "Is this a photo or airbrush?" I just don't think you can miss on velour.

YOUR

Q. I'm planning on listing my home, is it necessary to have

. In our opinion a sign is an invaluable asset in the sale of a home. Many buyers like to investigate a neighborhood in which they are interested. When a buyer calls because he has seen a sign, he has already "Bought" the exterior of the home and is satisfied with the neighborhood. More sales actually result from calls on a sign because the buyer is already half sold.

Also, a sign tells your neighbors that you are selling your home. Neighbors lend to help pass the word to friends and relatives who may be in the market for a home. The results in sales.

Have your Realtor put "By Appointment Only" on the sign so as to eliminate your being bothered by people at your door.
