3.1% pupil enrollment decline eyed

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Wayne-Westland teachers are expected to count 537 fewer heads Friday than they did last year in the statewide "Fourth Friday" attendance survey to determine state aid for the district, according to the school administration.

The 3.1-percent decrease — from 16,945 students to 16,408 — is slightly higher than what was originally projected, said Tom Svitkovich, associate superintendent for communications and finance.

The decline is also greater than the 2-percent drop between 1986 and 1987, when the district lost 341 students.

With the district receiving about $3,500 per student from the state, the decrease will mean a drop of nearly $1.9 million in state aid.

A "dry run" count last Friday showed 8,712 elementary students, 3,574 junior high school students, 3,537 in high school and 585 in special education programs.

rollment decline is primarily at the high school level, where John Glenn and Wayne Memorial lost almost 400 students.

But administrators are also concerned about a decline of 204 kindergarten students from the figures projected earlier. The earlier projection was based on a trend of increased attendance for lower grades in recent years.

"I guess that (the kindergarten figure) is what I find most surprising," said Superintendent Dennis O'Neill. "I'm not sure if parents are finding other places to put their (kindergarten-age) kids or exactly what caused the drop-off."

O'Neill said there were 57 more first graders than projected, a sign that parents may be returning their children to the district for the balance of their elementary education.

O'Neill also said the number of students in the two high schools is still relatively high, when compared to other local districts and that enrollment decline at John Glenn and

Close call Man is glad to be home after brush with hurricane

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Dale Hawkes is back on dry land this week with a new appreciation for vacationing at home.

After spending six days at the mercy of Hurricane Gilbert in Cancun, Mexico, the Westland police detective would gladly trade an ocean-side resort for a few days in front of his living room TV set.

"It was terrible," Hawkes said of the experience, which included spending nearly a week in cramped quarters with little food and water, no electricity and no way to communicate with relatives back home.

Hawkes, who left for the planned two-week trip Sept. 10 with friend Bob McKinnon, was staying at a condominium in the popular Caribbean resort area on Mexico's east coast when the storm hit three days later. He said the Mexican government played down the hurricane as it approached.

"They told us that the last hurricane to hit hard on the Yucatan Peninsula was in 1907," Hawkes said. "They said it would probably blow over, so when we finally realized how serious it was going to be, there was very little time to prepare."

THE STORM, which carried winds of 140 mph, left 300,000 east coast Mexicans homeless and caused hundreds of millions of dollars in damages, according to estimates by government officials.

Hawkes said the devastation reminded him of a powerful thunderstorm accompanied by high winds that hit the Detroit area, including Westland, in 1980, but on a much larger scale.

"There was debris everywhere, and some of the older buildings weren't standing for very long," he said. The newer hotels just boarded up their windows.

Some 11,000 residents and tourists, including Hawkes and McKinnon, were evacuated from beachfront areas before the full force of the storm hit.

Hawkes said he and McKinnon were moved to a small condominium inland, which they shared with five other people, including a couple on their honeymoon.

"We barricaded the windows and tried to store as much water and food as possible," Hawkes said. He said the group survived on an array of junk food, warm beer and little else.

Buildings along the Cancun beachfront, about a half-mile from Dale Hawkes' vacation condominium, were nearly flattened by Hurricane Gilbert.

There was one small grocery store open in the area, but supplies were short and lines were long, he said.

HAWKES SAID the most difficult part of the ordeal was losing touch with his family. His wife and parents had been scheduled to join him in Cancun for the second week of the trip.

"There was just no communication at all until the day I got home, and I knew how worried my family must have been," he said.

The Cancun and Cozumel airports reopened Sept. 16 and tourists began leaving the resort areas. But Hawkes said he had to wait for two days to catch a return flight since visitors who had earlier departure dates were given first priority.

"We just sort of camped out at the airport until they could squeeze us on a flight," he said.

Continental Airlines provided free refreshments for passengers on the flight home, which stopped at Newark, N.J., before continuing to Detroit Metropolitan Airport, Hawkes said.

ALTHOUGH HE has no immediate plans to return to the Caribbean, Hawkes said the experience hasn't soured him on taking a future vacation in the area.

"It's such a beautiful part of the world," he said. "We went there last year, too."

"But you wonder if it will ever be the same after something like this."

Boxer McCroory struck by car

By Bill Casper
staff writer

Retired boxing champion Milton McCroory was injured early Wednesday morning when he apparently was hit deliberately by a car after a rock-throwing incident behind a Redford Township bar.

The 26-year-old McCroory was not seriously injured, suffering cuts and bruises, after the driver of the car left Telegraph and drove onto the sidewalk. McCroory was hit in front of a McDonald's Mini-Mack restaurant, north of Joy.

McCroory was taken by ambulance to Redford Community Hospital, where he was treated and released, Redford police said.

McCroory fought as a welterweight out of the nationally prominent Kronk gym in Detroit. He was the World Boxing Council's champion in 1983.

OFFICERS APPREHENDED the driver of the car and one of the two passengers after a short chase, but another passenger escaped on foot, police said.

Investigators are seeking a felony

The Glenn contestants are Amy Petre, Shonna Counter, Stephanie

Wayne Memorial entries are Arpanda Coughlin, Andrea Plontek, Angela Neumann, and Lori Montague.

Rounding out the group are Amy McLeod and Joy Wrych of Franklin and Donna Urban of Ladywood.

The girls will take part in the group's annual bowling Saturday morning, Oct. 8, at Hawthorne Valley to raise money for the pageant. The winner, based on a combination of pledges and bowling score, will win a stuffed animal valued at $50.

The top three contestants in the pageant will win college scholarships and other prizes.

Stamper murder trial deliberations to begin

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

The jury charged with determining the fate of Steven Stamper was expected to begin deliberations today after hearing eight days of testimony in the first-degree murder trial.

Stamper is one of two 18-year-old Ypsilanti Township youths charged with the shooting death of Mary Anne Hulbert. The body of the 13-year-old Canton Township girl was found Jan. 7, 1987, by hunters in a Superior Township field.

In his closing argument Wednesday, defense attorney Jeffrey Strouss said it was Christopher Machacek, Stamper's co-defendant who was found guilty in a separate trial, who had the motive for killing Hulbert. Hulbert had told the boys she was pregnant by Machacek, but an autopsy showed she was not pregnant.

Stamper, who has said he was at the scene of the shooting, and that his guns were involved, is only guilty of felonious assault, Strouss said.

"I AM going to ask that you find my client guilty of that crime," Strouss told the jury. Prosecutor Robert Cooper said there "can be no doubt but that Steven Stamper aided and abetted... and acted in concert with Christopher Machacek" in the murder. He suggested that even if it could be determined that Machacek did the shooting, Stamper still would be "as guilty as the principal perpetrator."

The "fatal combination of the two of these defendants," Cooper said, created "ultimately one mean person."

On Tuesday, the jury heard a taped statement Stamper gave Washenaw County Sheriff's Department detectives on the day Hulbert's body was found and the two suspects were arrested. Stamper told investigators Machacek asked him to help scare Hulbert into having a miscarriage.

"He said we were going to scare her. That's all I knew," Stamper said on the tape. Both boys, who were 16 at the time, carried rifles into the woods where Hulbert was slain, Stamper said, but it was Machacek who killed the girl. Stamper told detectives he only fired one shot, into the ground, and that was at the insistence of Machacek.

STAMPER PROVIDED graphic details of the shooting, saying he could hear Hulbert moaning after the first of seven bullets hit her. He said she lay on the ground after being wounded and said, "What are you doing?"

After the fatal shot was fired, Stamper told investigators, "I said, 'She's dead.' He (Machacek) said 'I know she's dead.' It really didn't seem to bother him," according to the taped statement.

Stamper said he then took off his hat and "asked the Lord's forgiveness for this."

Stamper made three taped statements in front of detectives that night. In the first, he said he and Machacek had dropped off Hulbert near Adlai Stevenson Junior High School in Westland Dec. 30, the day she was shot. His story changed later that night, after detectives played a tape for him in which Machacek accused Stamper of being the murderer.

Stamper said he lied initially, to protect his best friend.

Cooper repeatedly referred to Stamper's account of the incident as "self-serving."

"His statement has to be viewed with a critical eye... realizing that now his motivation for talking to the police is simply to cover his tracks," Cooper told the jury.

STROUSS, MEANWHILE, reiterated the contention that Machacek was the person with a motive for the murder.

"If there's a reason (for Stamper to kill Hulbert), it certainly hasn't come out in this trial," Strouss said in his closing statement.

Earlier this week, Catherine Breitner of Ypsilanti Township testified for the defense. Breitner is the mother of Josephine Czarnik, who was Stamper's girlfriend when Hulbert was killed.

cop calls

A WESTLAND man was treated and released from St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, Friday night after he was stabbed and robbed of $180 while walking home from work, police said.

The victim, 23, suffered minor stab wounds on his forearms and stomach, police said.

The man told police he was walking on eastbound Warren Road near the C&O Railroad tracks at the city's western border when the assault occurred about 8:45 p.m.

He said three men in a 1976 Ford van passed him traveling eastbound. The van stopped a few yards up the road and backed up to where he was walking, the man told police.

He said an unidentified man who had been driving the van jumped out and asked him if he had any cigarettes. The assailant then began an argument and pushed him to the ground, the man said.

During the ensuing fight, the other two men jumped out of the van and began to assault him as well, the man said. One pulled out a knife and slashed at him several times, he told police. When he finally gave up, one of the men went through his pockets and took the money, all in $20 bills, the victim said.

The victim described the van's driver as a white male, 17-20 years old, with a medium build and long, dark brown hair. He was wearing a black baseball cap with the name of the rock group "Anthrax" on the front, blue jeans and a jean jacket, the victim told police.

The two accomplices were also white males aged 17-20, the victim said.

WAYNE POLICE arrested three men early Monday in connection with the robbery of a Westland 7-Eleven store, 1825 S. Merriman.

The men, two from Wayne and one from Inkster, were all in their mid-20s, police said.

An employee told police a man matching the description of one of the suspects came into the store at 2:10 a.m. and took a bottle of orange soda pop from the cooler. When he approached the counter he demanded money and implied that he had a weapon, the employee told police.

The employee said she gave the man about $60 from the cash register and he fled the store. He got into a Plymouth Duster occupied by two other men and drove away, the employee told police.

A short time later, Wayne police stopped a car matching the description at the John Hix-Michigan Avenue intersection.

A bottle of orange soda pop and about $77 in cash was found inside a coat pocket on the car seat, police said.

A HOMEOWNER on the 100 block of S. Carlson told police someone broke into her house early Saturday and stole a 19-inch color TV set and two videocassette recorders.

The woman said the break-in occurred between 4:30 and 5:30 a.m.

The thief apparently entered the house by forcing open a side door, police said.

City man held in accident

warrant to charge the driver, a Westland man in his early 20s, who was being held Wednesday in the Redford jail. A charge is pending from the Wayne County Prosecutor's office, police said.

The passenger, a Detroit man in his early 20s, also was being held Wednesday in the Redford jail, pending the setting of bond at arraignment in the local district court on a misdemeanor assault and battery charge, police said.

One other man, a bar customer, was hit on the head with a stick or piece of wood during the assault in the rear parking lot of the bar, Club Mayhem, Telegraph at Joy, police said. No one else was injured, but several cars were dented and a windshield of one auto was broken, police said.

The injured man, a Detroit resident in his early 20s, suffered a minor cut and did not require hospitalization, police said. The man did not wish to file any charges, police said.

THE INCIDENT began shortly before 2 a.m. when four men in their early 20s were denied entrance into Club Mayhem after they were unable to produce driver's licenses at the request of a bar employee to prove they were of legal drinking age, police said.

Enrollment decline expected in survey

Wayne Memorial appeared to be "leveling off."

"I KNOW THAT we can still offer advanced courses like calculus and get 15 or 18 kids into those classes," O'Neill said. "At many schools, the numbers aren't high enough to have those classes."

The superintendent said the problems presented by declining enrollment "only add to the need for some kind of school finance reform."

"The issue is still equity and if we're going to continue to perform at satisfactory levels, the variables (in per-student spending) between districts shouldn't be as wide as they are," he said.

Club slates dinner-dance

The Metro Wayne Democratic Club will hold its annual dinner-dance at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Sts. Simon and Jude Church Hall, on Palmer near Hubbard, Westland. A social hour will start at 7 p.m.

tend, said Clifford Johnson, club president.

Tickets are $15 each and available by calling Johnson at 729-8681 or Phyllis Warner at 722-7942.

There will be a live band, door prizes and a raffle, Johnson said.

THANK YOU GARDEN CITY CITIZENS

We wish to thank the parents, students, and concerned citizens of Garden City for your understanding during a very trying time.

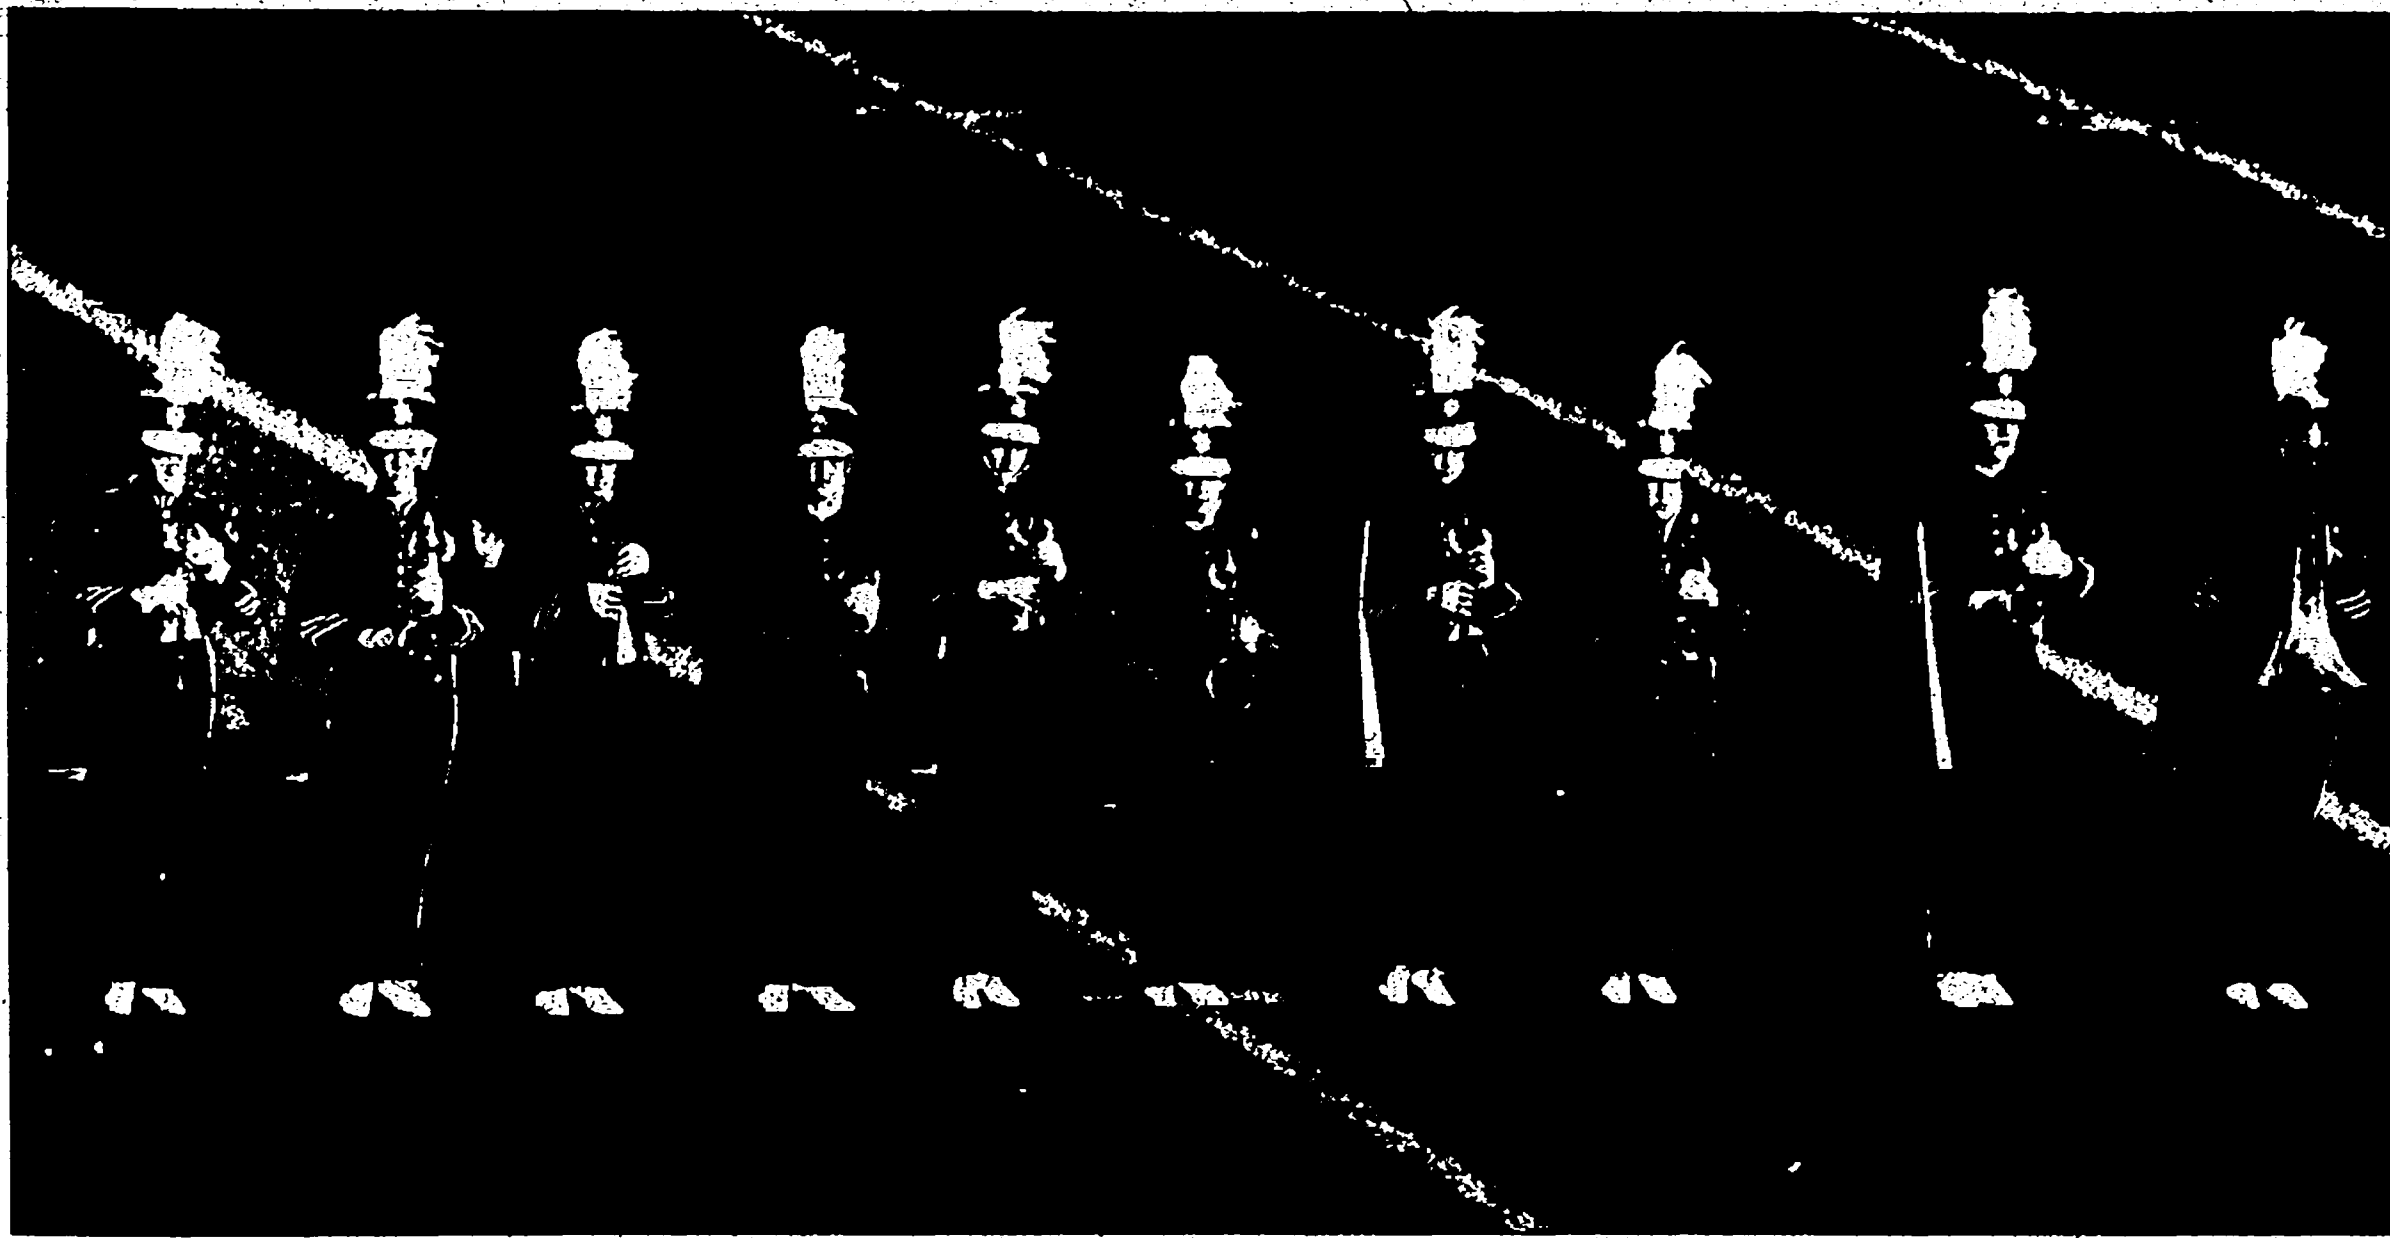

It was your support and influence which led to the securing of a fair and equitable agreement for teachers. Your patience was appreciated as well.

We know it was because you care so very much about your children's education that you gave the support necessary to restore labor peace to Garden City schools.

We return to our classrooms now, with a renewed sense of dedication.

Sincerely,
Your Teachers

Strutting their stuff

Area bands compete in marching competition

Fourteen bands from Plymouth, Garden City, Livonia, Westland and other suburban areas strutted and played for judges Saturday at the Great Lakes Marching Band Invitational.

And when the competition was completed, the host band, the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band, received the highest overall score.

The award winners were:

- Flight I (111 members or more): First — Plymouth Centennial Educational Park. Second — Westerville High School, Westerville, Ohio. Third — Durand High School.
- Flight II (71-110 members): First — Westland John Glenn High School. Second — Livonia Franklin High School. Third — Livonia Stevenson High School.
- Flight III (less than 70 members): First — West Bloomfield High School. Second — Trenton High School. Third — Fenton High School.

In addition to receiving high score honors, the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park band was awarded the trophy for best winds.

Captain Award Trophies went to Franklin High School — best field commander and best color guard; and to Westerville High School — best percussion and best marching and maneuvering.

Westland's sewer system testing begins this week

Testing will begin this week on the sanitary sewer system throughout Westland.

The smoke testing, which is designed to uncover cracks and other defects in the sewer system, is part of the planned expansion of the Middle-Rouge Sewer Interceptor, said Bill Mills, representing Jarret Mills Schron and Associates, the engineering firm handling the project.

Testing is being done in 12 communities that are part of the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer system.

"There will be a favorable impact on the communities in terms of finding sewer defects and also the testing is required in order to get federal grant money (for the expansion project)," Mills said.

Sewer lines in about 70 percent of the city's neighborhoods will be tested during the next two to three months, according to Mills. "We're going to be doing this through about 700,000 feet of mainline," Mills said.

Engineers will feed a non-toxic "smoke" into the sewers to determine the condition of the sewer lines. The smoke, or mist, may appear from vent stacks in houses or holes in the ground, Mills said.

THE SMOKE should not appear inside homes unless there is faulty plumbing somewhere on the property, Mills said.

The smoke varies in color from white to gray, depending on density and lighting. It has no odor, won't stain and isn't a fire hazard, Mills said.

Because some sewer lines and manholes are accessible only from private property, it may be necessary for engineers to conduct the tests from backyards, Mills said.

In those cases, homeowners will be notified in advance with a blue door tag.

Homeowners won't have to be home during the actual testing, Mills said.

In addition, Mills said homeowners with seldom-used drains should pour water into the drain to fill the trap before testing in their area.

Board OKs computers for elementary students

The Wayne-Westland school board Monday voted unanimously with two members absent to buy $233,000 worth of computer equipment for elementary students nearly a year ahead of schedule.

Board president Andrew Spisak and member Mathew McCusker were absent from the regular board meeting and didn't vote.

The computers will be bought with money generated by a $12.9 million bond issue passed by district voters last January.

The early purchase will save the district an estimated $50,000 due to a scheduled October price increase in the Apple II gs computers. The district will also use $23,000 in additional interest generated by the bond issue to help pay for the computers. The original plan called for the computers to be bought next year.

Although the district will buy the computers next month, many won't be hooked up for several months, said William Harvey, associate superintendent for instruction and planning.

"IN MOST OF the buildings we have to do some extensive electrical work and make other preparations before we'll be able to use them," Harvey said. "But we'll still be about six months ahead of the original timetable."

In other action Monday, the board approved the decision by the district to ask for an "asbestos deferral" from the Environmental Protection Agency.

If granted, the deferral would allow the district an extension of the original Oct. 13 deadline for identifying and removing asbestos from school buildings.

The district doesn't have a widespread asbestos problem, said Tom Svitkovich, associate superintendent for communications and finance.

The once-popular fire retardant material — which has been linked by the federal government to cancer — was used mostly as a pipe wrap in a few buildings throughout the district, Svitkovich said.

He said there is no asbestos in classroom walls or ceilings in the district.

Health tests free for those over 60

People 60 and older can get free health tests at a "Discover Good Health" screening Monday, Oct. 3, at Maplewood Center, Garden City.

The screenings are sponsored by the Peoples Community Hospital Authority. The Maplewood screening will be staffed by personnel from Annapolis Hospital.

To avoid the possibility of waiting in long lines/screenings are done on an appointment basis, a hospital representative said. Appointments may be arranged by calling the hospital at 467-4638.

The full screening includes vision, glaucoma, cataract, hearing and blood chemistry tests, blood pressure check, lung check, breast exam, TB skin test, oral exam, health information and counseling and a take-home bowel cancer screening kit. In addition, flu vaccinations will be offered.

While some results are available at the test site, the full screening results will be mailed to the person some two weeks after the screening. Copies of the test results can also be made available to the person's physician.

If test results fall outside of normal ranges and the person does not have a personal physician, referrals can be made to the appropriate area health organizations, the representative said.

Shop for your birthing center the way you shop for your nursery.

Getting ready for a new baby is a big job. You could spend hours comparing each stroller, looking for just the right crib, or picking out the best carseat. When it comes to the type of birthing experience you want for your baby, you have just as many choices. And you should be just as careful when deciding on a birthing option and a hospital.

That's why Annapolis Hospital invites you to do some "comparative shopping" at our newly renovated Birthing Center. We offer you a natural childbirth in the warm, home-like setting of our new birthing rooms, as well as the traditional delivery room option. Both offer you complete comfort and care.

And small touches, like a gourmet dinner for new parents and liberal visiting hours for siblings and grandparents, will help you celebrate the occasion. Annapolis also offers you a range of prenatal educational programs, from an early pregnancy class, to natural childbirth preparation classes.

Take a stroll through our Birthing Center today. The choices we give you are beyond compare.

Marketing is 'major' advance for Walsh College

By Susan Steinnmueller
staff writer

This fall, Walsh College students will have a wider choice of majors to choose from.

That pleases student Laura Berlin, 22, of Rochester.

Berlin said when she found out the Troy college was introducing marketing as its sixth undergraduate major in its Bachelor of Business Administration program this fall, she "grabbed" it.

"I used to think I wanted to be an accountant, and decided I really liked marketing better," said Berlin, who completed a two-year Oakland Community College program before enrolling at Walsh, which is an "upper division" school, offers just the final two years of undergraduate school.

"The first time I went to Walsh they didn't have it. When I went back, they had it, so I grabbed it," Berlin said of her major.

HOWEVER, BERLIN said she had plans to attend the Livornois road school for a long time because of its good reputation, and would have attended whether they had a marketing major or not.

"They have such a fantastic education — you're practically guaranteed a fantastic job," Berlin said.

The new major also pleases Joan Hassberger, 20, of Union Lake.

Hassberger, a full-time employee at Empire of America in Southfield, changed her major plans from accounting to marketing when Walsh introduced it.

"It sounded like a good program," said Hassberger, who also completed a two-year program at Oakland Community College.

Like Berlin, however, she said she would have attended Walsh anyway.

"I decided to go there in the 10th grade because I really liked the reputation," she said. "It's a good school."

The marketing program becomes the first new undergraduate major at the school since 1932. The other BBA majors, tailored to provide an education in various aspects of business administration, are computer information systems, finance, general business and management.

ACCORDING TO Patrick Barrett, director of undergraduate admissions and counseling, the marketing major was added because of student interest and demand in the job market.

"It was the most requested major that we didn't have," Barrett said. "It appears that there will be continual growth in sales and marketing jobs into the 1990s."

The major was also suggested by marketing professors at OCC and Macomb Community College, both two-year community schools which "feed" into Walsh, he said.

About 25 students selected the major when they started this year, he said, while another 15 changed their major.

The degree program requires 127 semester credit hours. Students must transfer in at least 60, and up to 82, of those hours.

The program requires completion within a five-year period from the date of enrollment.

The marketing major is not the only new offering at the college this fall.

The Continuing Professional Education department, which offers 55 different seminars to non-degree students, has several new classes this season:

THEY INCLUDE budgeting, a power investing class and assertiveness training, according to Grace Smith, CPE director.

Because most Walsh College students work part or full time, many of the classes and seminars are held in the evening and Saturday, she said.

Smith said that many companies, such as Standard Federal Bank of Troy, sign their employees up for such CPE seminars, with computer and management training classes being popular choices.

Also new at Walsh this fall — more students.

The enrollment has risen this fall from 2,525 students last year to 2,700 students according to Lisa Lagerkvist Johnson, director of marketing.

Walsh College of Accountancy and Business Administration is the only degree granting institution of its kind in the United States. It was established in 1968 as a successor to the Walsh Institute of Accountancy, formerly based in Detroit.

The college moved to Troy in 1970.

The college is perhaps best known for its original accounting program, graduates of whom are routinely recruited by "Big Eight" accounting firms.

The college also offers master's degrees in three areas: taxation, professional accounting and finance.

contribute whatever is necessary."

Toland, who has taught for 25 years in Livonia, hopes to become an instructor on the college level when he retires from Churchill.

"By combining business courses with education courses I will be able to utilize my communication skills and business knowledge to offer training seminars to business," said Toland. "There isn't anything I'd rather do than teach."

Fitzsimmons took early retirement from Blue Cross/Blue Shield to re-enter the education field.

"Although I already have a master's degree in education, an educational leadership program will make me aware of the educational needs of a community like Livonia."

A former teacher and principal in the Detroit and Chicago Catholic school systems, Fitzsimmons would like to be involved in curriculum development in a leadership capacity.

"I think the focus is primarily to understand the network in the school system today," she said of the program. "I'd like to get into administration — maybe test some of my theories."

Fitzsimmons wants to complete the program in two years. She hopes the program will help open a few doors.

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Mercedes Fitzsimmons of Livonia is returning to teaching after a career with Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

A former elementary school teacher and principal for two years of St. Lawrence School in Detroit, Fitzsimmons spent 16 1/2 years at Blue Cross/Blue Shield, including the past four years as a field consultant based in East Lansing.

"The driving added three additional hours to my workday. I was happy to take the early retirement," she said.

Experience a plus for new teachers

"This summer I took a chef's job at a private club on Harsen's Island. Some of my students worked with me."

"I'll stay involved in the industry, but teaching will be my main field," Gabriel said.

"After working in hospital administration for 16 1/2 years, Gary Fischer was happy to leave for new horizons, including pursuing a doctorate and working full-time as an associate professor of management, marketing and economics at Madonna College.

"I'm earning at least two thirds less but I'm four times as happy," said Fischer, 41, of Plymouth Township.

"It's been a boon to my physical and mental health. I'd really like to continue teaching, writing and consulting. I don't see myself going back in an organization again. I'm the product of a small Jesuit school in Ohio. Madonna fills a real need."

Contractors lend a helping hand

By Noreen Flack special writer

Jack Frost won't be nipping at the homes of 73 area senior citizens this winter, thanks to area contractors who volunteered their services Saturday during the Al Keats Project Heat-Senior Citizens Service Day.

Organized by the Northwest Heating and Cooling Dealers Association in Farmington, 15 contractors and their technicians donated time and service, parts and equipment to work on furnaces for senior citizens during the second annual event named after retired contractor Al Keats.

Keats is honored for his contribution to the growth of the Northwest Dealers Association.

Irene Smith, 84, of Plymouth, received more than service on her furnace. Technicians presented her with flowers because it was her birthday.

"I was flabbergasted," she said. "I told the girl, you mean I can get my furnace cleaned for nothing? I can't believe it."

The project, now an annual statewide event, was founded last year by Cliff McCourt of Day and Night Heating and Cooling in Farmington who read about a similar project in Colorado. Last year's effort was awarded the Presidential Citation for Private Sector Initiatives.

Area senior citizens get free furnace check-up

"THIS IS something that needs to be done," said Karl Kennedy of Moore Furnace in Redford Township. He is president of the northwest association.

"Too often people experience problems with contractors. It's the people that can least afford it that are preyed on by unscrupulous contractors who don't do a good job," he said.

Lisa Feeback, executive secretary for the association, agrees. "This is a way for the guys to show there are lots of us that are good. We want to combat bad feelings."

The project not only provides furnaces for senior citizens, it gives volunteers a warm feeling.

"If a guy doesn't walk out with a warm feeling, then he didn't do the job right," said Robert Murphy of Sun Tech Heating and Cooling in Redford.

Jay De Ordio of Colonial Heating and Cooling in Plymouth said, "It's a real good feeling for everybody." De Ordio worked from 8 a.m. to "when-ever."

Efforts were well-timed for Frances Overfield, a Livonia resident for 49 years.

"It has really saved me a great expense. It is hard to get things done without some kind of trouble," she said.

IN ALL, 73 homes were serviced. Most calls required only cleaning and minor adjustment on furnace systems. All work carries a 30-day warranty.

While contractors were prepared to install up to four new furnaces, there was need for only one, which was donated by the Behler-Young Company in Redford. Area supply firms also contributed to Saturday's project.

At the end of the day, volunteers and their families gathered for a pizza party hosted by the Knights of Columbus in Livonia. The food was courtesy of Domino's Pizza.

Kennedy summed up the feelings of most. "It feels good to do this for someone who needs help," he said, adding, "Someday I'll need help."

U.S. sets woodstove standards

THE U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has announced new regulations for woodburning stoves manufactured on or after July 1, 1988.

Stoves manufactured after July 1, 1990, will have more stringent standards.

They apply to new stoves and fireplace inserts and are performance-based standards. This means each model is tested in a laboratory to determine if, when operated according to manufacturer's directions, the amount of particulate matter emitted from the stove meets or exceeds the limits set by the EPA.

Stoves built after July 1, 1988, and equipped with catalytic converters must not give off more than 5.5 grams per hour of particulate matter.

Stoves without catalytic converters are required to emit not more than 8.5 grams per hour of particulate.

30 grams of particulate per hour.

These new 1988 particulate emission standards nearly match Oregon's standards, which are the strictest in the nation. The 1980 federal standards will supersede all state standards, and no state will be allowed to have less restrictive regulations than the federal standards.

In addition to improving air quality, the new woodstove regulations will benefit the owners of these stoves in these ways:

The new stoves, because they're built for greater efficiency, will give off more heat than the old models using the same amount of wood.

Creosote will take longer to build up in the chimney because the exhaust is cleaner. This means less frequent chimney cleaning and less chance of a chimney fire.

SEVERAL REASONS were cited for establishing these new standards:

• Manufacturers were concerned about meeting the many conflicting state and local standards for woodstoves and inserts.

• Many communities have been having trouble meeting the new ambient air quality standards for particulate matter during the winter months when his equipment is in operation. Communities have been experiencing deterioration in air quality and reduced visibility resulting from increased particulate matter in the air.

• EPA was recently sued over its decision not to regulate the family of compounds known as polycyclic organic matter (POM) caused primarily from woodstoves.

AN INTERESTING sidelight about these new regulations is the process through which they were developed. These regulations were the first to be fully developed using the process called "regulatory negotiations."

A negotiating committee was formed with representatives from state and local air pollution agencies, the Natural Resources Defense Fund, environmental groups, woodstove manufacturers and researchers to develop the new standards.

By using the regulatory negotiations process, it is estimated that two to three years were taken off the usual development time for new standards.

Area schools vary widely in spending

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Area school districts may be close in proximity but a recently published survey indicates they are far apart in spending.

The report shows area school districts spent widely different amounts for basic classroom education in the 1986-87 school year, as well as for vocational, special and adult education.

School districts were ranked on the amount they spent per student. Area school officials, however, said some rankings were misleading.

South Redford, which ranked among the state's top 40, said its per student spending was slipping. So did Plymouth-Canton, which ranked 174th statewide.

Livonia, one of western Wayne County's wealthiest districts, was pleased with its per student spending figure. But so was Redford Union, one of the area's less wealthy districts.

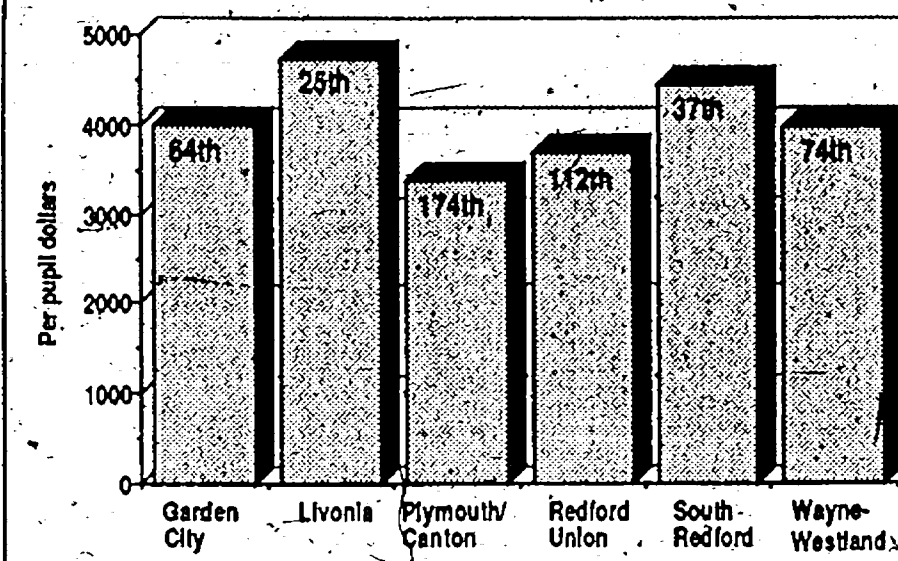

Information on 1986-87 school district spending was recently released by the Michigan State Board of Education. Information from the 1987-88 school year is still being compiled.

Among Observer area districts:

- Livonia was tops in overall per pupil spending. Livonia Schools' overall $4,739 figure ranked 25th among Michigan's 525 public school districts. Livonia also ranked in the top 40 with regard to basic classroom programs and vocational/special education.

"We're very fortunate to be in a community that blends commercial, industrial and residential property," Livonia Superintendent James Carl

Per pupil spending - How area schools rank in state

DAVID FRANK/graphics coordinator

Per student spending varies widely among area school districts but area superintendents say spending figures often don't tell the full story.

"In this community, commercial and industrial pay about 50 cents of every dollar that goes for schools."

The district ranked 187th, however, for adult education and other supplemental programs — spending $37 per student. District officials said that ranking was due to an agreement allowing Livonia students to use some facilities within the Redford Union Schools. "That's what makes their ranking higher," finance director Michael Furlong said.

• South Redford spent $4,439 per student overall, ranking 37th in the state. Despite the ranking, South Redford Superintendent, Jan Jacobs said the district's spending per student was "slipping." "There was a time when we ranked in the top 10 statewide," Jacobs said. "Our SEV (home and business state equalized value) are not keeping up."

While South Redford ranked 26th in the state in spending for basic education, it ranked 200th in spending for vocational/special education and 299th for adult ed and other supplemental programs.

"BECAUSE WE'RE out of formula, we don't get the state aid other districts do for these programs," Jacobs said. "And we only get a frac-

Teacher pay exceeds average

Average teacher salaries exceeded the county average in all but one area district during 1986-87, a recent study indicated.

Percentage increases in local districts' teacher salaries, however, fell below or roughly equaled the county average.

Average salaries for Wayne County teachers rose to $34,090 between 1982-87, according to a recent Michigan Board of Education survey. Increases in all 34 county district averaged 14.27 percent.

Teacher salaries were highest in Livonia, the area's wealthiest district in terms of assessed property tax value.

Though Plymouth-Canton schools posted the largest percentage increase, it was the only local district where teacher salaries fell below the county average.

Average salaries in 1986-87 and five year percentage increases for area schools were:

- Garden City — $35,086, a 12.2 percent increase.
- Livonia — $38,042, an 11.7 percent increase.

- Plymouth-Canton — $33,103, a 16.3-percent increase.
- Redford Union — $38,728, a 14.5-percent increase.
- South Redford — $38,759, a 15.3-percent increase.
- Wayne-Westland — $35,924, a 7.9-percent increase.

Average teacher salaries include raises but can also be influenced by other factors including state increases for more experienced teachers and bonuses for teachers completing advanced collegiate degrees.

Study urged What are public safety needs?

WESTLAND VOTERS may get a chance to say what level of fire and police protection they want and how much they are willing to pay for the services.

It was nearly two years ago that residents rejected a 2-mill property tax increase to pay for additional fire and police employees and equipment.

Some concluded that homeowners were tired of property tax increases.

We feel that the need wasn't effectively explained to the community.

The issue may come up again soon with city councilman Charles Pickering asking for a comprehensive study of police and fire safety needs to find out whether the departments are understaffed.

The request for the study came out of a fire department report on station closings since the department initiated new staffing procedures last April.

That plan, which ensures the presence of at least two firefighters responding to an alarm, is due to a contract requirement between the firefighters' union and the city.

The study should be started as soon as possible for several reasons.

One is to determine if the occasional closing of a fire station substantially affects response times — particularly in the area of emergency medical runs. With the city's elderly population growing, the EMS response times are critical in life-and-death situations.

Response time is also critical in answering fires in older neighborhoods with frame homes where blazes increase in intensity faster than in newer, brick homes.

The fire department's report, made public last week, showed that at least one fire station was closed for all but eight days during the five-month period beginning April 1. Two of the four stations were closed on nine days during that time, primarily in April.

PICKERING — and the community — understand the staffing limits imposed by the current firefighters' union contract.

But we agree that closing two stations at a time is a public safety problem.

At a minimum, any study should have figures on what other comparable cities have, what the national standards are, a list of community needs, and the current staffing.

One way to get a handle on what residents want is to organize ad hoc citizen groups which would offer a fresh look at the two departments and come up with new ideas on how to solve the public safety problems at a minimum cost.

Too many times, organizations and institutions look at themselves and miss the obvious methods of making improvements.

While the recent fire department report provided the impetus for Pickering's request for a study, the police department's staffing problems should get equal time and effort.

Any study of that department must include the average or typical response times of other comparable suburbs and identify problems that interfere with the smooth functioning of the department.

A credible, in-depth study would give the community a better idea of public safety needs and could help convince it to approve a millage increase.

Now is the time to stop guessing and start looking for answers.

Vigorous county and local enforcement targeted to certain locations and times where police know alcohol-related fatalities have occurred has proved successful — and without infringing on sober motorists' rights.

in 1987 were down because of a drop in manpower. We urge greater funding of such single-purpose programs in Oakland and Wayne counties.

Cracking down on drunk driving must remain a priority for law enforcement agencies. Alcoholism affects not just the individual, but the family, other motorists and society in general. Consider that approximately 9 million Americans are alcoholics who indirectly affect another 40 million family members, friends and co-workers.

We urge local police agencies to continue enforcing present statutes that present offenders with stiff penalties and a chance for rehabilitation.

Strict enforcement of current statutes has been successful. Drunk-driving arrests statewide have increased. In 1988, there were 65,000 arrests. In 1986, arrests stood at 71,500 and convictions at 25,000. Alcohol-related fatalities decreased to 49.8 percent in 1986 compared to 56.4 percent in 1982.

We look to the district and circuit courts to ensure that drunk-driving offenders are treated not just as criminals, but individuals with a severe illness in need of in-depth treatment.

Yes, stiff penalties legitimately take the drunk drivers off the road — for a time. But without judges ordering defendants into rehabilitation programs, the drunk driver will again be on the road.

WE URGE judges and attorneys to become educated about the disease of alcoholism. A simple crime it is not. Nor is it one that will go away with incarceration.

We urge judges and attorneys to follow the lead of 48th District Judge Edward Sosnick who advocates training for these professionals so they can recognize the disease and the need for rehabilitation, not just a fine.

As Sosnick puts it: "Judges and lawyers have the unique opportunity to intervene. Once we can see what the problem is, we can suggest and order a person to the appropriate treatment. The more judges and lawyers can understand the addiction, the easier it is to help people."

Drunk driving Checklanes won't solve problem

THE INTENT was noble. But we agree with the Michigan Court of Appeals ruling that sobriety checklanes are unconstitutional and ineffective. There are better and less constitutionally hazardous means of cracking down on the deadly mix of alcohol and driving.

We look to law enforcement agencies and the judicial system to gear up and attack head-on the drunk-driving problem that continues to plague our roadways and our society.

Vigorous county and local enforcement targeted to certain locations and times where police know alcohol-related fatalities have occurred has proved successful — and without infringing on sober motorists' rights.

Sobriety checklanes, which require an average six police officers, are not cost-effective. We believe it makes better financial sense with expected greater results to use selective enforcement in each community and county where known problems exist.

Only one sobriety checklane was conducted by Michigan State Police near Saginaw in 1986. Only two of 126 motorists passing through the checklane were arrested in a 90-minute period. Compare these results with those of the Oakland County Alcohol Enforcement Team, for example. In 1986, 417 arrests were made, 1987, 416, and so far in 1988, 246.

ADMITTEDLY, THE Oakland team's arrests

Facing the big enemy is toughest challenge

LIVONIA'S KATHY Nettle dropped us a note the other day and shared a few of her feelings about a subject that has literally thrown our society into a frenzy.

In her own words: "It seems to me the smokers are always deferred to. Does a smoker ever go to a no-smoking area even if he's the only smoker?"

Kathy set the scene by recalling one that all of us have experienced over and over again. Four people go into a restaurant. The hostess asks "smoking or no smoking." The three non-smokers give way to the lone smoker.

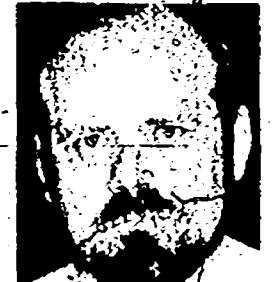

Sounds familiar, that's for sure. She concludes: "I wish I could be less wishy-washy and more assertive about my environment and my wishes. Guess I need assertiveness therapy."

Now wait. Before we continue, I just want to set the record straight. This isn't going to be one of those messianic lectures, berating smokers for their ways.

JUST THE opposite, as a matter of fact.

The problem goes far beyond that. You see, most of us are in the same boat as Kathy, smokers and non-smokers, alike. We just don't seem to have the intestinal fortitude to face the opposition.

Forge an alliance with that smoker at the next table in the restaurant. Numbers, in bodies and bucks, count in politics.

Steve Barnaby

The opposition, by the way, isn't the smoker. If anything, the smoker is the ultimate victim. For all the noise that's made about the dangers of passive smoke, you've got to know that someone who is smoking 30-50-plus cigarettes a day is really the person at risk of developing all sorts of diseases — heart, lung and otherwise.

The real opposition is the marketers of the multibillion-dollar industry that for decades has successfully convinced millions that smoking is more than OK — it's the thing to do.

It's just another example of special-interest influence, the tail that wags the dog of our society. It is an industry that is so powerful and influential that it receives subsidies from the government to make it even more profitable.

SMOKERS, FOR the most part, really can't help themselves. Now, if you've never smoked, you probably don't believe that. But it's true. Smoking is an addiction. Smokers are like alcoholics. Just one cigarette and they are once again hooked — even if they haven't smoked for 20 years.

Certainly, society has made some strides. Businesses are beginning to see the light — that smoking costs them money in health-care payments and time lost at work.

Restaurants, in particular, are bending to the pressure of a society that is fed up with being victimized.

Now, I realize that Kathy Nettle had something else in mind when she dropped us her note.

But my advice, Kathy, is to fight the real enemy. Forge an alliance with that smoker at the next table in the restaurant. Numbers, in bodies and bucks, count in politics.

And the fight to make us a smoke-free society is one of the biggest of all political battles.

Column view 'refreshing'

To the editor:

I would like to comment on the Sept. 12 editorial by Bill Kole. It is extremely refreshing to know that in this fast-lane society of ours, there are still some of us parents who know where the real rewards of life are to be found.

We are the ones who care enough about our children, and our spouse, not to sacrifice them on the altars of material wealth or subject them to the extreme self-centered lifestyles that all too frequently lead to divorce. As husband and wife, we do not hurt each other with meaningless petty nonsense that only turns back on us later. We know that by providing a secure family relationship, our children have a better chance at a meaningful and happy life.

Children learn more by example, during their young, formative years, than by what we say. It's not enough to tell them we love them and then show it only when it's convenient. Love is a 24-hours-a-day, 365-days-a-year commitment. You cannot buy or sell it. You must give it, and children know the difference.

I know that day-care centers are an absolute must for some single parents, and I sympathize with this situation. But, I would like to suggest, that if we looked closely at the reason it is necessary to them, we would find a selfish, self-centered person or persons involved somewhere in the situation. Of course, the exception to this is when the person's mate has died.

But even then, there are mothers and grandmothers that will baby-sit. As for married couples, leaving children at a day-care center while they both go off to work only supports the fact that we have become a society of "me first," materialistic people. In their quest for the "good life," whatever they perceive it to be, adults have so changed their God-given roles in life, the husband as the provider and the wife as the homemaker, that now they are awash in a sea of total identity crisis. In their search to establish some sort of meaningful life, they cast away their most valuable asset, their children.

They have coined a new buzz word "quality time," to which their meaning is absurd. How can you have "quality time" with anyone, when they are perpetually squeezed into a busy schedule like an appointment. And how can a father and mother that is with their child only a couple of hectic hours per evening claim "quality time." I heard recently on the radio that a survey shows that the average father spends less than 10 minutes per week talking to his children. And full-time working mothers are no better.

Quality time is the day-to-day living in a family environment that nourishes and protects its participants. It is the giving and sharing of parents and children when they are in a secure family that is being provided for by a loving husband and father. It is the respect and love given by a child to both parents, because they have given of themselves, to teach him or her how to give. It's the unpleasant things like the changing of or crying with your child because his goldfish died. It is the spontaneous kiss on the cheek from your child, and the "I love you, Dad," "I love you, Mom," that makes you know that there is no material possession in the world worth that moment. And how do you arrive at that moment? By the grace of God, honest respect and unconditional commitment to your mate and family, and knowing where the true wealth of your life is found.

From those of us who are committed to a strong family unit and have refused to be pressured into yielding to the desire for material things over family we applaud you and your wife for your decision. Years from now, you will look back and know that you were right. Your son will look back and thank you: May God bless you and your home.

Survey participation will benefit cancer research

OFTEN, I have hung up on telephone callers who have claimed to be interviewers for some survey or another. I like to see it in writing. So recently I was surprised, pleased and cooperative when a letter arrived from a division of an organization close to my heart, the Michigan Cancer Foundation, asking if I would permit a representative to come to my home to ask questions.

Fred DeLano

Although participation may not directly benefit you, the questions don't hurt. Maybe someone far down the road will be helped.

It turned out to be a professionally trained interviewer named Olga Zavaleta of the Cancer Foundation's Detroit Health Survey, which is conducting a scientific study in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service. Similar research is taking place in other areas of the country.

If you're a student of this column, you know I have become extremely cancer-conscious in the last two years. Nonetheless, I was surprised to read in the preliminary letter: "We have selected a number of people in the metropolitan area who, like you, have recently received medical care. Your physician has been notified of our intention to contact you. We need to talk to everyone selected and ask some questions about their diet, jobs, medical history and general background. Your participation in this study is entirely voluntary."

I WONDERED how in the devil they knew I had become another human statistic who will start receiving his own radiation treatments next week. Then I learned that the Michigan Cancer Foundation has operated a population-based cancer reporting system for Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties since 1969, collaborating with 64 area hospitals, more than 5,000 physicians and numerous therapy facilities.

Because of MCF's experience in this field, the National Cancer Institute selected it as one of the founding participants in its national cancer reporting system initiated in 1973. The surveillance program identifies cases, collects data, controls quality and follows up all patients diagnosed with cancer. You couldn't hide if you wanted to.

As I understand it, Michigan law requires cancer reporting and also assures complete confidentiality of all data collected in all studies. The statutes ensure that all data are available for research uses only and cannot be obtained for any other purpose.

In other words, my answers to Madame Zavaleta's many pages of prepared questions will be combined with the answers of all other study participants for purposes of analyzing results on an area basis, and I suppose ultimately will be thrown into a computer processing cancer patient information nationally.

"YOUR NAME will not be used in any of the study reports," I was promised. Boy, was I glad to hear that.

When interviewed, it stands to reason that a person should be reasonably honest, for fictionalizing data would be pretty stupid if there is to be an iota of progress toward eventual cancer eradication. But some of the questions do become a little personal, although refusal to answer is accepted. Also, in one's silver years, memory isn't all it used to be. How many cigarettes I've smoked and what my weekly alcohol intake has been for a half-century needed quick mental calculation, and at best it was a wild estimate. Not so, however, for how many times I've eaten turnips or zucchini. I just said, "As rarely as possible."

That the questions would cover a wide range of subjects is understandable, for how else could a total picture be obtained? Food likes and dislikes, exercise habits, job environments and health history are merely samples.

Easiest answer for me was to the question of how many times I had worked up a sweat on the job. Colleagues will agree, "none." I didn't wince when asked to recall how many sexual partners there have been, nor did I brag, but memory was faulty in trying to pinpoint how many sexual experiences there had been weekly, decade by decade.

At any rate, in the belief that individual involvement is essential to the success of the study and to an understanding of the disease, I urge cooperation by any person who is asked. Although participation may not directly benefit you, the questions don't hurt. Maybe someone far down the road will be helped.

Love of animals may mean killing some off

DEBORAH THURMAN loves animals. On some days she may kill scores of cats and dogs, kittens and puppies. If you find that hard to imagine, you may be part of the reason that she and others like her are doing the killing.

Thurman is the shelter manager for the Anti-Cruelty Association in Detroit. It's on Joseph Campau, not too far from Buddy's Pizza where Thurman and Aggie Monfette gave me a quick education in the world of cats and dogs—while we munched on a vegetarian pizza.

Monfette is an investment counselor in Bloomfield Hills and is also secretary for the Birmingham Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce. She is also a sucker for animals, a volunteer at the shelter and persuasive enough to talk me into a sweltering summer ride into Detroit in a car without working air conditioning.

The lunch was fine and the shelter visit was informative, but that's not to say the day was totally enjoyable. Hard truths aren't as easy to digest as a cheese and mushroom pizza.

THE STORY of stray, unwanted, neglected or abused animals is not pleasant. Some of the stories are obviously despicable: It is not unheard of for people to buy puppies, chain them in the backyard and then forget them; as the scrawny dog grows, the collar chokes it. Some of the nightmare is not so obvious: Pets are not spayed or neutered and people believe that all their unwanted pet problems are solved by dropping cats and kittens off at an animal shelter.

This last point is one of the most troubling, controversial and emotional. The Anti-Cruelty Association is not one of those shelters that vows never to destroy animals. Such a policy is misleading, harmful to animals and impossible, says Thurman.

Yes, she says, some shelters won't destroy. But, she says, they must then either seriously overcrowd their facilities, keep animals cruelly caged for long periods of time, or eventually refuse to take animals.

"And then they come to us," says Thurman.

Although there are some people who are plain and simple rotten to animals, the major problem, according to Thurman and Monfette, is that there are too many animals.

THE NUMBERS: Theoretically, a single female dog can be the start of 4,372 dogs over seven generations. That's nothing. Two uncontrolled breeding cats pile all their kittens' kittens could add up to 80 million cats in 10 years if none are ever neutered or spayed.

These are theoretical numbers, but they point to the explosive potential of the animal population. With those numbers in mind, you can see that the 40 or so animals at the Anti-Cruelty shelter must rotate quickly. That rotation can happen in two ways: a home is found, which happens rarely, or the animals can be killed, which happens a lot.

The room where they are killed is clean and bare. Those who do the killing do not turn cold, mechanical or unfeeling. They are gentle and caring and many have written touching and sad articles about the ordeal.

But their emotions are shelved when it's the animal's turn to die. The dog or cat is gently held and stroked. In many cases it is treated better than any other time in its life. And then it dies peacefully.

"The last thing the dog or cat knows is that it is loved," says Thurman.

Does this mass death bother you? Then get your dogs and cats spayed or neutered. And tell your neighbors to do the same thing. The problem isn't what the shelters do with animals; it's what people do, and don't do, with their pets.

A 10-mile walkathon Sunday starting at the Belle Isle Nature Center will raise money for the Anti-Cruelty Association. Call 891-7188 for more information.

tion of the state aid we're due."

● Redford Union ranked 112th in the state in overall per student spending, with $3,689 per student, but ranked 11th statewide in vocational/special education, spending $606 per student.

The lower ranking on overall per student spending wasn't a particular concern, Redford Union Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Erickson said.

"We know we've traditionally spent $200-250 less per student than other districts in Wayne County. But we know we don't have the money other districts have," he said. "It concerns us when we have to buy furniture, materials and text books, but it would concern us more if our students weren't performing well on standardized tests. That's not the case."

The district's special education spending ranking might be artificially high, Erickson said, because Redford Union provides space for county programs for hearing and emotionally impaired children.

"I believe our basic programs rank us 484th," Erickson said.

● Garden City spent $3,989 overall per student, ranking 67th. The district ranked within the state's top 30 in spending for vocational/special education and adult ed and other programs but ranked 406th in spending for basic classroom education.

'In this community (Livonia), commercial and industrial pay about 50 cents of every dollar that goes for schools.'

— James Carli, superintendent

"That's not really a concern," Superintendent Michael Wilnot said. "There's things that aren't reflected in that figure such as support services and staff. We feel the overall figure for per pupil spending is much more reflective."

The high ranking for special education, Wilnot said, includes the center for autistic children Garden City operates on the county's behalf.

"That's about seven times as expensive as other classroom programs," he said.

● Plymouth-Canton ranked lowest among area schools in overall spending per student. The district ranked 174th in the state, spending $3,363 per student.

"It's going even lower," Plymouth-Canton associate superintendent Raymond Hoedel said. "We have a problem in that we're going out of (state aid) formula, yet we're also required to make Headlee roll-backs."

The district lost $1 million in state aid this year, Hoedel said, with greater losses expected next year.

● Wayne-Westland ranked either third or fourth among area districts in each category. Its $3,962 overall per student spending ranked 74th in the state.

"We know we're below the average for Wayne County (in per pupil spending) but we also know our residents have supported schools to the utmost," Wayne-Westland Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said.

Wayne-Westland's tax rate is the highest among local districts. "It only points out the inequities in funding if you look at what a Bloomfield Hills is spending," O'Neill said. "Yet, we're a heck of a lot better than some other districts."

The district's vocational education spending is well above average, O'Neill said, because the district operates the William D. Ford Vocational-Technical Center and actively pursues vocational education grants.

Contest seeks name for lion

An anti-drug abuse program is inviting elementary school children in Michigan to suggest names for its official mascot by offering chances at prizes.

The Courage Drug Prevention and Education Program's "Name the Lion" contest is open to all children in kindergarten through grade 6.

The contest's goal is to name the Courage mascot, which is a lion at the Detroit Zoo. The lion's cartoon image illustrates the program's guidebook for children and their families.

"It also will generate participation in the Courage program itself.

Kids think of the best name for the mascot they can imagine, then write it on a postcard, along with their own name, age, address, telephone number and the name of the school they attend.

Entries are mailed to the Courage Lion Contest, 24359 Northwestern Highway, Southfield 48075.

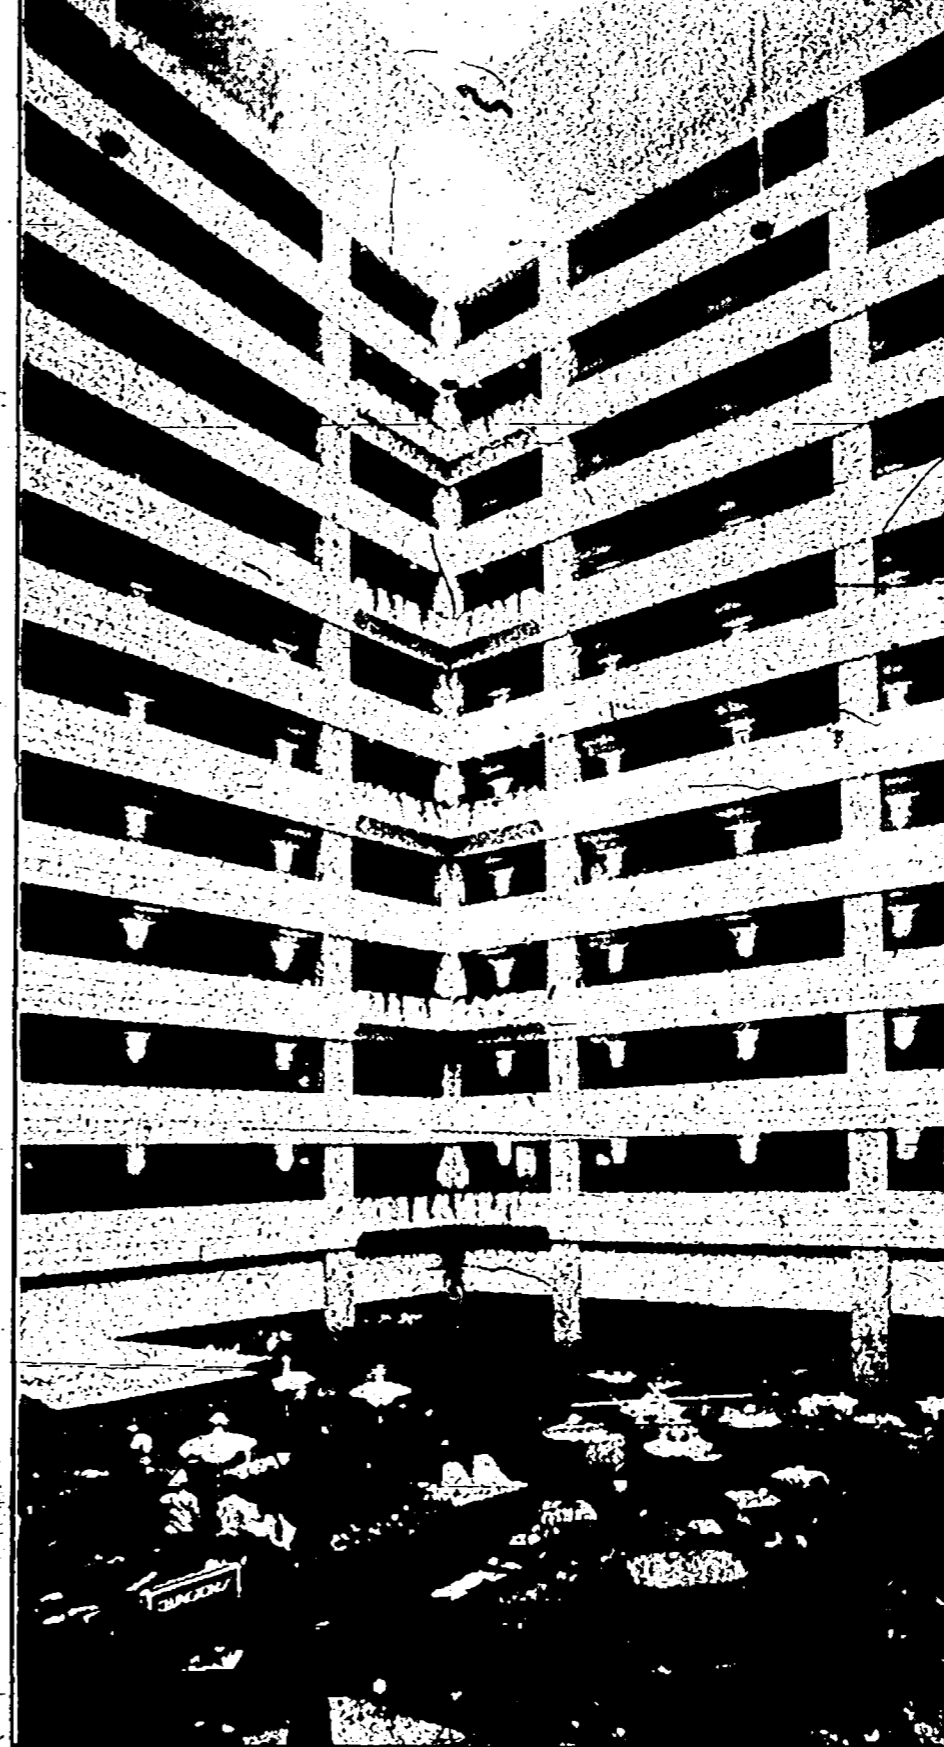

Only one name for the lion may be entered per postcard, but kids can enter as many times as they wish.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR Yvonne Blackmond said entries must be received no later than March 31, 1989. The first 2,500 entrants will receive a one-day pass to the zoo. A first prize of $500 in cash and a $500 savings bond will be awarded in April 1989, along with 20 runnerup prizes of season zoo passes.

Courage is a nonprofit program for elementary school children. Its approach is designed to involve parents and children in developing strong self concepts and resistance to peer pressure, plus recognition of the ongoing rewards of positive behavior.

Courage has been implemented by the Michigan Education Association/National Education Association Great Cities Program servicing the Detroit area. Blackmond, who was appointed director last April, previously was a deputy in the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

Handicapped join entrepreneur set

By Beth Sundria
staff writer

Having a handicap used to mean being unemployed, but today's handicapped people aren't willing to wait around for jobs to come to them. Many are beginning their own businesses.

To help them get started, the Handicapper Small Business Association has planned a conference for today through Saturday at the Holiday Inn-Livonia West at Six Mile and I-275.

"Handicappers can do many things and have learned to adapt to situations. If given a chance they will do extremely well. They are used to putting in the extra effort in order to succeed," said Joy Schmidt, president of Joy Schmidt and Associates of Southfield and secretary of the Handicapper Small Business Association.

Schmidt said the conference is a way to help people understand what it takes to get involved in business. The conference will kick off "Invest in Abilities" week, Oct. 1-8, which has been designated by Gov. James Blanchard to help handicapped individuals find employment.

Seminar topics will include choosing a business, getting started in business, franchising, marketing, financing and recordkeeping.

With an association membership of 250, conference organizers are hoping for a turnout of 200. All members have handicaps.

THE ASSOCIATION is a two-year-old statewide organization that has staged two previous conferences, but none as large as this one. To be a member, individuals must be handicapped and in business.

Schmidt, who has severe tunnel vision and is legally blind, has been running her own business for five years. Joy Schmidt and Associates is a financial consulting firm. Schmidt is also a professional speaker and will be speaking at the conference.

Other speakers include corporate executives, representatives from government agencies and business owners. Workers who provide ser-

Joy Schmidt, owner of her own business and secretary of the Handicapper Small Business Association, will speak on business financing at the group's conference to be held today through Saturday at the Holiday Inn at Six Mile and I-275, Livonia.

VICES to the handicapped will also be attending.

Schmidt has suffered vision problems since birth. She earned a bachelor's degree in accounting from Walsh College, a master's degree in business administration from the University of Detroit, and then entered the business world.

Schmidt said association members have a variety of handicaps and a variety of levels of education and training. Some members have been handicapped all their lives; others became handicapped through illness or accident.

Business owner Suzanne Michael suffered a stroke, which left her paralyzed on one side and unable to walk. With therapy, she learned to walk again and has re-entered the business world as owner of the Personnel Data Report Corp. of Troy.

HER COMPANY handles executive recruiting, but she said it has been difficult to help other handicappers through her firm.

"Most handicappers are on disability (insurance) or Social Security. They have to have something to bring in enough money to make it

Accident arbitration: alternative to lawsuits

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Brian, an 18-year-old who is repeating for a second time his senior year of high school, had just turned 17 when he suffered closed-head injuries in an auto accident during the summer of 1987.

After four weeks of hospitalization and months of physical and speech therapy, Brian now seems physically fit and is pleasantly animated when he talks. His I.Q. measures in the same high range as before the accident.

But, his parents say, he is brain damaged and they fear for his future—whether he will be employable or able to maintain relationships.

Since the accident, his sense of judgment seems impaired. Once a quiet boy, he was suspended from school twice last school year and arrested by police three times. He is unable to remember simple things. Worse, say his parents, his self-esteem has plummeted.

Under accident arbitration, a judge hears testimony from both parties and fixes liability, based on the testimony of one party or the other, or a combination of the two.

"While Brian appears normal, he isn't. He knows he's different," his mother said.

When the accident occurred, Bryan was riding with his best friend who turned left on a red light. The car was hit broadside by a drunk driver.

Both drivers share legal responsibility for Brian's condition, but their insurance carriers are in dispute over the degree of responsibility.

The carriers maintain Brian's problems were present before the accident, caused by occasional marijuana use and marital discord between his parents.

Bryan's parents say the accident caused permanent change for the worse.

A FINAL settlement is still pending. An alternative to court proceedings in cases like Brian's will soon be available to Michigan residents, according to JoAnn Esterelcher of Arbitration Forums in Troy.

Ann Arbor lures developers

By Beth Sundria
staff writer

With many areas of metropolitan Detroit saturated with development, area developers have set their sights on neighboring Ann Arbor.

"Ann Arbor is a very vibrant, interesting, exciting market," said Eric Yale Lutz, chief executive officer of Eric Yale Lutz and Associates, a Birmingham-based development firm.

Lutz's firm is one of many that have projects built or planned in Ann Arbor. It has office buildings, an auto mall and a self-storage facility in Ann Arbor. The firm has an office building at 777 E. Eisenhower and plans for an apartment complex and conference center.

Others firms branching west include:

- Holtzman and Silverman, Farmington Hills, is developing a 520-unit apartment complex called Village Green and an 84-unit condominium project known as the Arhons in Ann Arbor Township.
- The Jenks Co., Birmingham, is renovating City Center at 220 E. Huron Boulevard, an 89,000-square-foot, seven-story building in downtown Ann Arbor. It is also building a fifth building at University Park and renovating the four existing buildings.

- Westin Development Corp., Royal Oak, is developing Woodland Plaza, a 95,000-square-foot retail center on Ann Arbor-Saline at South Main Street.

- Anthony S. Brown, Birmingham, has two projects planned for downtown Ann Arbor, but would not elaborate.

- Beachum and Roeser, Birmingham, is developing Williamsburg Square, an office complex on Eisenhower west of State Street.

- Lautrec Limited, West Bloomfield, is developing Arbor Meadows, a mobile home village on Michigan Avenue near Ann Arbor.

- Kojalan Properties, Birmingham, owns 301 E. Liberty Street, an office building; One North Main, an office-condominium project; and Northeast Plaza, an office-research project at Green Road and Plymouth Road. A joint venture with Comerica Bank is also planned, according to Angela Kimble, director of corporate communications for Kojalan. The project will be called Comerica Plaza and is to be at 125 S. Fifth Street. Kojalan is also partners in two Ann Arbor Holiday Inns and two Hampton Inns.

- Selective Development Co., Farmington Hills, is developing the Boardwalk Office Centre, a 110,000-square-foot office complex at Boardwalk and Eisenhower Parkway in the Briarwood Mall area.

DEVELOPERS say Ann Arbor started gaining popularity as a development spot about four years ago. "We've made a large commitment to Ann Arbor," Lutz said. His firm's developments will continue into the 1990s, he said.

To be successful, a developer must understand what Ann Arbor is, and what its people like and dislike, Lutz said. "It's not a Troy or a Southfield," he said.

Building in Ann Arbor involves using a smaller scale, a longer design period and taking a less urban approach. "It's a softer approach," he said.

Jury still out on aid to Chrysler

Having lived with the results of the falling dominoes theory of local government most of my life, I ought to be jaded about the kind of savage profiteering detailed in a recent series of articles in the Detroit News about the land acquisition undertaken by the city of Detroit for the benefit of Chrysler's Jefferson Avenue assembly plant.

Dan McCosh

A lot of people in high places seem to think "oops" is about all that can be said about the city paying a total of some $42 million to reacquire land sold by Chrysler a couple of years ago for $300,000, so that said parcel could be handed back to Chrysler.

Meanwhile, Chrysler is seeking grants, loans and tax subsidies of some $300 million — a figure equal to roughly half its own investment in rebuilding the aging plant.

Chrysler is quick to point out that the so-called federal bailout, consisting of loan guarantees that were quickly repaid never actually cost the nation's treasury a dime. Not so the money contributed by the old home town, which kicked in a whole series of multi-million property tax subsidies to "save" Chrysler and now caps it off with this debacle.

The grand jury is out on the final outcome, but the sheer magnitude of the fiasco should finally shed a little light on the whole business of home-rule cities recruiting industry by using public condemnation authority to acquire land and then forfeiting local property taxes to sweeten the pot.

THE COLLECTIVE subsidies offered by destitute and desperate local units of government hopeful of luring jobs will never be offset by any reasonable collection of income taxes because the employees will likely live in a convenient suburb, while the utilities, roads, etc., will be a burden forever.

In fact, until I realized the huge profits to be made in land transactions on these industrial development deals, I could never figure out why any city went to the trouble. Now I know.

On the other hand, it's obvious that the existence of manufacturing and heavy industry is the root core of our economic well-being in modern America — particularly in urban areas like metropolitan Detroit, already overburdened with bond debt and related property taxes.

I'd like to think that while sifting through the shambles left by the land acquisition program for the Jefferson plant, somebody might start rethinking how to let big cities coexist with heavy industry.

I'd hope that all things would be considered. One wild idea that occurs to me is that Chrysler pay for its land on the river with stock — the same kind of deal they made with the banks. Forget taxes, pay dividends. As near as I can figure it out, $100 million worth of Chrysler stock would bring in roughly triple the revenue a city income tax could hope to collect, and the city might even be able to pay for a school or two.

Or how about tax-free islands leased to industry, with rents negotiated on the basis of community benefit? The city bought the land, why give it away?

Maybe these notions seem too far-fetched, but I'm starting to think the future of basic manufacturing may depend on some equally radical solution. Of course, the easy way out is to sit on the opposite side of the Detroit city limits, as I do, and wring your hands. Or maybe grin and think the city of Detroit is doing all the dirty work trying to recruit big-time manufacturing while the suburbs are getting the real benefits.

That, of course, means that the likes of the genius of the Detroit city council is our main hope for a healthy future for the metropolitan area — against international competition schooled at Tokyo University.

A comforting thought.

Metro developers turn to Ann Arbor

To maintain contact with the community, Lutz's firm has 250 employees working in Ann Arbor. "We have a very intimate understanding of Ann Arbor," he said.

In developing 101 Research Park, his firm has hired campus environmentalists from the University of Michigan to help develop a land plan, lakes and pedestrian pathways.

At 777 Eisenhower Plaza, Lutz has included an art gallery to try to give his building the qualities Ann Arbor residents feel strongly about, he said.

John Swisher of Swisher Realty in Ann Arbor has been watching the influx of Oakland County developers. "There are a number of them here. It certainly has picked up in the past four or five years."

Swisher said Oakland County developers tend to be a "little more high pressure than local developers." Lutz came in with a large flurry and made his presence known, Swisher said.

David Kwan, vice president of consulting for Peter Allen Associates, a Realtor in Ann Arbor, said Oakland County developers have been welcome in most cases. "A lot of them have been in the community for a very long time," he said.

Apartment development has been very successful in Ann Arbor, Kwan said, but the office market has been soft. "It's been a little slower than many developers had expected," he said.

Opportunities are also limited in the downtown area because of a lack of land, Kwan said.

RICHARD ROESER, co-owner of Beachum and Roeser in Birmingham, said his firm was attracted to Ann Arbor because of the solid economic base. "Ann Arbor has a more level economic climate than what we experience in the metro Detroit area," Roeser said.

Jonathan Holtzman, co-chairman of Holtzman and Silverman in Farmington Hills, said the Ann Arbor market will continue to grow, but it is very different from the suburbs of Detroit.

In Ann Arbor, more respect is given to existing landmarks, Holtzman said. For example, at the Arbors development, his firm has integrated five oak trees into the development.

David Gans of Selective Development Corp. said care has to be taken when developing in Ann Arbor. He said his firm has spent a year and a half learning about Ann Arbor. In designing a project, his firm is trying to avoid being a "white elephant." The Boardwalk Office Centre will be of classical design. "We feel it will be well received in Ann Arbor," he said.

Swisher said he thinks Ann Arbor will continue to gain prominence but keep its own flavor.

Lutz agrees, saying he doesn't see Ann Arbor developing in the same way metro Detroit has. "I don't see it developing in similar patterns. Ann Arbor has to be dealt with in a delicate way," he said.

worthwhile for them to lose their benefits," Michael said. Once handicappers earn an income they lose government benefits, she said.

She names the vending machine field as a possible business for handicappers, but said the franchise fee is often prohibitive.

Michael said the conference can help handicappers to choose the right business opportunity.

Schmidt agrees. "Most handicappers look to help other handicappers," she said. The group is not designed to dwell on pity, Schmidt said.

"We're saying, 'What can we do to make things better?'" she said.

Handicappers often find employers won't hire them because of a disability.

"Part of the reason I stay in my own business rather than go back to the corporate world is that I may face discrimination," she said. Schmidt had previously worked for development firm Sellman and Associates and for General Motors before deciding to start a business.

Schmidt and Michael are enthusiastic about the passage of a new state act. Michigan Public Act 112, also called the Handicapper Business Opportunity Act, sets up a goal for all state agencies to purchase 2 percent of their goods from handicapper-owned businesses. At the conference attendees will learn how to sell to state agencies and how to be considered for federal projects.

Michael noted that the state is getting behind handicappers. "But from there on down it has to be people support," she said.

The fee to attend the conference is $45 for Thursday and $95 for Friday and Saturday. For information, call 557-4568.

'Elastic' demand is boon to businesses

One point that is often missed regarding customer demand is how revenues are affected as prices are raised. If a product or service has an "elastic" demand (product revenue increases as the price is lowered), revenue will typically drop when the price is raised. With "inelastic" demand, product revenue decreases as price is lowered, revenues increase with a price increase.

This situation is one that is of special interest to business owners because it represents an obviously attractive demand/price/revenue relationship. Product demand and revenue go up along with the price, but production costs would probably remain the same and might actually go down.

As a product may have a totally elastic or inelastic demand curve, it may change elasticities between any two price points on the curve. A microwave oven that goes on sale for $50 less than its original selling price may evidence an increase in total revenue during the initial sale period. Dropping the price by another $50 may cause that sales period's total revenue to drop. This is why it becomes important to analyze a firm's demand curve by the degree of elasticity within the price range of interest or the "relevant range."

focus: small business

It may sound confusing for a product to have either an elastic or inelastic demand curve, or both. The factors that affect elasticity include the availability of substitute products, the importance of the item relative to the customer's budget, and the urgency of the customer's need for it.

The availability of substitutes most often affects the elasticity of demand for a given product or service. Hamburger is one example of a product that has many substitutes. As a result, it would have an elastic demand when prices are lowered as well as when prices are raised. If the price of hamburger is lowered and other prices remain the same, the quantity demanded will increase as will the total revenue.

The reason is that not only will regular hamburger users purchase more hamburger, but customers who formerly bought steak, hot dogs or bacon will probably buy hamburger too. If the price of hamburger were to go up, the quantity demanded would drop. Again this would be because hamburger is perceived by customers as having many substitutes. Of course, customers would still buy some hamburger depending on how much the price went up, their individual tastes, and what guests might expect.

Next week, we will look at the supply side of demand and how it affects product markets.

Mary DiPaolo is the owner of MarkeTrends, a Farmington Hills-based business consulting firm. She is also producer and host of the cable television series, "Chamber Perspectives."

Accident arbitration: alternative to lawsuits

The alternative is accident arbitration, a method to resolve "disputes over dollars" between victims and insurance companies, according to Tim McKernan, who is settling up accident arbitration in Michigan for Forums.

Arbitration Forums, one of the nation's oldest arbitration services, was founded as a non-profit company in New York in 1944. The firm launched accident arbitration four years ago in response to increasing numbers of civil suits and crowded court dockets. Accident arbitration is now available in 27 states and soon will be available in Michigan.

Under accident arbitration, a judge hears testimony from both parties and fixes liability, based on the testimony of one party or the other, or a combination of the two.

The judge's decision is binding and final. Both parties have agreed by signed contract that "the matter is concluded. There is no right of rehearing or appeal to any other forum or court," according to McKernan.

"IN THE PAST, the only recourse for accident victims, if they felt they deserved more for pain and suffering, lost wages and real losses was to sue," McKernan said.

Since 1984, when Forums launched accident arbitration, the firm has settled 5,000 accident cases. The average case took 51 days to settle.

Of the total number, 75 percent have involved auto mishaps. Any insurance-related accident may be considered, including slip-and-fall claims in private homes or public buildings, medical malpractice suits, maritime losses involving ship cargo and property damage suits covered by homeowner's or renter's insurance.

Proceedings may be initiated in one of two ways, either by one party contacting the other or by a Forum officer acting on behalf of one party. Cost is $100 to file arbitration proceedings and $150 per hour for the judge, who is retired from one of the nation's courts.

"Arbitration is an efficient way to cut across the heavy backlogs on court calendars," said former judge Thomas Rounell of Canton.

Rounell, an 18-year veteran of the Wayne County Circuit Court who has also served on the Michigan Court of Appeals, has been an arbitration judge since retiring from the circuit court in 1986.

He arbitrates 12 to 14 cases a year, referred by Forums, the American Arbitration Association and the Federal Conciliation and Mediation Service.

"THE OBJECT is to bring parties in dispute to a conclusion in an efficient and timely way. I think arbitration does this," Rounell said.

"The only thing I can speak about against it is that involved parties sometimes think it's a much more leisurely process than it is," he said. The average hearing is three to five days, followed by the judge's deliberation.

Former judge George Bowles, who now has a law office in Plymouth, also serves as an arbitrator for Forums.

Bowles worked as a labor arbitrator shortly after graduating from law school in 1945. While serving on the Wayne County Circuit Court from 1957 to 1976, Bowles was instrumental in initiating mediation within the state's court system.

While arbitration assists in reducing crowded court dockets, "it is not the saving system for court docket congestion," Bowles said.

In fact, he is not certain the system "will catch hold in Michigan" because arbitration "is final and binding," unlike mediation, which can be challenged.

"I have no predictions on how many people will use arbitration."

In 1987, Arbitration Forums processed 343 accident cases nationwide. So far this year, 198 cases have been resolved.

In case of emergency... simply untie.

It's a worry every parent has: If your child is injured when you're not around, how would medical personnel get the critical information they need until you can be reached?

Well, now there's an easy solution. It's the CritiKid Tag Team, a laminated shoe tag and wallet card that contain microfilm with information on your child's health. It gives your child's name, address, a brief medical history—including allergies and current medications—physician's name and phone number, insurance information, and where his guardians can be reached in an emergency. The microfilm can be read in emergency rooms across the country with any microscope or microfiche reader.

The CritiKid tag can be attached to a shoe and the card can be carried in a wallet, so it can be with your child all the time.

Oakwood Hospital's pediatricians and family practitioners know how important your child's health and safety are to you. So call 1-800-543-WELL. Ask for a CritiKid Tag Team application.

Then, for only $9.95 plus postage, you can have your child's safety all tied up.

Hazing party takes college team off ice

The fate of three Kent State hockey players from the Observer & Eccentric coverage area will be determined — in part — this morning when they make a court appearance in Kent, Ohio, to face charges on their roles in a hazing party that resulted in the hospitalization of a freshman player.

Kirk Aldridge, a 24-year-old senior from Bloomfield Hills, was charged with furnishing beer and intoxicating liquor to persons under 21 years old, a first-degree misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Matt Wiljanen, 20, a sophomore from Livonia, and Brian Dawson, 19, sophomore from Plymouth, were both charged with hazing, a fourth-degree misdemeanor that carries maximum penalties of 30 days in jail and a $250 fine.

THE THREE were among 12 Kent State players charged for a Sept. 16 party in which five freshmen players were allegedly taken to a house off campus and forced to drink a mixture of rum and beer. They were then given mohawk-style haircuts.

One of the freshmen, Tim Evans, apparently had a severe reaction to the alcohol. He was transported by ambulance from the party to the Kent State health center before being taken to the city hospital. His condition was reported to university officials, leading to the investigation that resulted in charges being filed Sept. 21.

The incident prompted Kent State president Michael Schwartz to cancel the hockey season and call for a student conduct court to investigate the incident. A group of faculty members will review campus police reports before deciding the fate of the players. Possible penalties include revoking their scholarships and ordering their expulsion from school.

IN A PREPARED statement regarding the future of Kent State hockey, Schwartz said: "Based on the information provided to me, I do not believe this program is an acceptable representative of our university or our athletic program in general. Consequently, I have suspended the program for a year and will review its future at a later date."

Aldridge, a center, was the Golden Flashes' leading scorer a year ago, setting school records for goals (41) and points (82). He added 41 assists. Wiljanen, a forward, had six goals and 11 assists for 17 points and Dawson, also a forward, collected nine goals and 10 assists for 19 points.

Kent State suffered through a winless American Collegiate Hockey League season, going 0-12. The Golden Flashes were 11-28-3 overall. Bill Switaj was hired in late July to replace John Wallin as coach.

Modano's agent, Minnesota at impasse in contract talks

Westland's Mike Modano, the first pick in last summer's National Hockey League Draft, likely will not sign a contract this year with the Minnesota North Stars, the team that selected him.

Contract talks between Modano's agent Howard Gourwitz of Southfield and the North Stars have continued, Gourwitz said.

As a result, it appears that Modano will be playing hockey this coming season for the Prince Albert Raiders of the Western Hockey League, Gourwitz said. "He went back to western Canada (Saskatchewan) last Friday."

Modano, a center, played the last two winters for Prince Albert, a junior team. He scored 47 goals and had 80 assists in 65 games last year.

Gourwitz believes the breakdown in negotiations is due to the North Stars' failure to offer appropriate bonus clauses in a contract for a player taken No. 1 overall in the NHL draft.

Gourwitz claimed that recent No. 1 drafted players contracts have contained $100,000 bonuses for being named Rookie-of-the-Year. Gourwitz said the North Stars top bonus offer to Modano for being named Rookie-of-the-Year was $15,000.

Host North Farmington held the freshman star to nine points Tuesday in a 52-29 rout of the Patriots in a Western Lakes Activities Association encounter.

Kim Gurecki led three North Farmington players in double figures, scoring 16 points.

North is 5-2 overall; Franklin fell to 4-2.

North led 33-10 at halftime, holding Franklin to five points in both the first and second quarters.

Northville outscored host Livonia Stevenson 13-8 in the third quarter and cruised to its seventh win in eight games Tuesday.

Livonia team seeks support to send kids to PAL event

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Faced with a beehive of activity during the next two months, the Livonia Boxing Club is seeking financial support so it can send three fighters to the National Police Athletic League Tournament, Oct. 20-22, in Pompano Beach, Fla.

"The club is experiencing financial difficulty because we lost our (yearly) $1,000 grant from Amoco," said LBC director Paul Soucy, who is now in his 11th year with the club. "Right now we're in the process of revamping our organization and looking at fund-raising opportunities."

The LBC lost its grant from Amoco when one of the LBC coaches moved away and took a job with another company.

Two Livonia boxers are among the three slated to compete in the PAL Tournament.

Rob Diffenbaugh, a 17-year-old student from Stevenson High will compete in the 132-pound class. He was voted recently as the most outstanding boxer at the Michigan State Fair.

boxing

Also going is 18-year-old Kevin Tripodi, a recent Churchill High grad who will compete in the 145-pound division.

KEVIN BANKS, a 19-year-old super-heavyweight from Detroit, is also making the trip.

"This is the first tourney Craig Payne won for us and with a decent showing, any of these three fighters will get a top 10 amateur rating if they make it to the quarterfinals," said Soucy. (Payne was a finalist in the super-heavyweight division at the 1984 U.S. Olympic Trials. He owned amateur wins over Mike Tyson, Teofilo Stevenson and '84 U.S. gold medalist Tyrell Biggs.)

Four Livonia boxers will also make an appearance Wednesday at the Palace in Auburn Hills when the Sugar Ray Leonard Boxing Team arrives.

Diffenbaugh and Tripodi are on the card along with 65-pound Torrono Humphrey, an 11-year-old who attends Parkman Elementary in Detroit. Also making his amateur debut is 20-year-old Rico Staples in the 125-pound division.

Livonia will also be involved in the card featuring the Joe Frazier Boxing Team, Thursday, Nov. 3 at the Palace. That will be followed by the Diamond Gloves, Nov. 18-20 at the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit.

"We have a lot of action coming up and we're looking for somebody from industry to help us out," Soucy said, who can be reached at 525-1387.

Sheridan lifts Shamrocks to Shrine-Shamrock title

Mike Sheridan finished first overall, leading Redford Catholic Central to the Shrine-Shamrock Cross Country Invitational title for boys Saturday at Marshbank Park in West Bloomfield.

The Shamrocks, ranked No. 2 in Class A behind Monroe, led the 15-team field with 41 points. Millford and arch-rival Birmingham Brother Rice were second and third, respectively, with 80 and 94. (Farmington was sixth with 166.)

Sheridan, a junior, covered the 3,000-meter course in 16:27. Other CC finishers included Jeff Fedewa, fifth, 16:52; Chris Antczak, ninth, 16:58; Chris Lutz, 11th, 17:04; and Dave Galvin, 15th, 17:18.

"I thought Mike had a good chance because he's been running well lately," said CC coach Tony Magni. "Once he gets out in front, he's hard to beat. He's also a little fresher than the other runners. He didn't run as many miles this summer because he went to Europe with his school French class."

cross country

On Monday, CC beat Rice for the first time in three years, 27-32, in a meet at Marshbank.

Sheridan edged Rice's John Cowen by one second with a first place time of 16:40. CC took places five through eight: Fedewa (17:07), Lutz (17:16), Galvin (17:23) and Antczak (17:23).

LIVONIA STEVENSON captured the boys title and Novi took the girls crown Saturday at the Spartan Invitational at Cass Benton Park.

Stevenson, with a score of 21, won the three-team meet on the boys side. Livonia Franklin finished second with 45 points, followed by South Lyon (68).

Novi edged Livonia Stevenson's girls 42-43 to win the title. Franklin was third with 73 points. Redford Bishop Borgess, the invitational's host, had 83 points and South Lyon was fifth with 92 points.

The depth of Stevenson's boys team proved to be the difference. The Spartans claimed the second through fifth spots. Scott Freeborn was second, clocking 17:25. Paul Ebner finished third at 17:55, followed by Keith Klaska's time of 17:56, and Nick Boone (18:01).

Franklin's Charlie Olschanski won the meet in 16:44.

Though Borgess finished fourth, Michelle Gayney took individual honors, clocking 20:24 to finish ahead of the girls field.

Stevenson's Karen Kuphal finished fourth in 21:12, while Franklin's Kelly Gustafson was sixth in 21:34, and Stevenson's Tracey Clark seventh in 21:37.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN ran its boys record to 3-1 Tuesday with a 27-28 triumph at Dearborn Edsel Ford. The Rockets' Matt Maybauer was first in 17:35 followed by Jim Zurawski, fourth, 18:09; Carl Lowe, fifth, 19:30; Joe Rzewski, eighth, 19:18; and Karl Pace, ninth, 19:40.

The Rocket girls fell to 1-3 as the host T-Birds ran to a 19-42 triumph behind June Aloisio's first-place time of 21:13.

Glenn's Yvonne Waddell finished second in 21:26 followed by Vickie Bickes, eighth, 25:08; Cathy Bachand, ninth, 25:19; Darlene Rousseau, 11th, 26:59; Angela Marshall, 12th, 27:37.

• HAWKS VICTORIOUS

The under-19 Michigan Hawks, a girls soccer team sponsored by the Livonia Family Y, captured its fourth tournament of the season by winning the National Invitational last weekend at Oakland University.

The Hawks had to fight back from early one-goal deficits in both semifinals games against the '74 Michigan Hawks and the Livonia Crusaders, each resulting in 2-1 victories.

Caerllion Thomas (East Lansing) and Susan Gibson (Farmington) notched the tying and winning goals, respectively, in each game.

The Hawks, coached by Paul Dugan and managed by Mike Yderstad, opened with victories over SLSC Arsenal (8-0), Warren Sluggers (3-0) and Genesee Star (6-2).

Goalkeeper Brooke Gillespie of the Hawks was named as the tournament's outstanding goaltender.

• '77 WOLVES WIN

Paced by leading scorer Anthony Vetraino, the Livonia '77 Wolves captured the Capital Area Classic last weekend in Okemos with a 4-3 victory over the Toledo Pace setters in the championship.

The Wolves, coached by Kevin Argo and Rory Scullion, overcame a 3-1 deficit with three goals in the final 10 minutes to win their second tournament title of the season.

• FINAL DELAYED

The Livonia '75 Wolves and the Plymouth Sting will meet again at noon Saturday at Bicentennial Park (field No. 9) to resume their suspended championship match from Oakland University's National Invitational Tournament.

The match was stopped early in the second half because of tournament scheduling problems.

The '75 Wolves, coached by former Oakland University player Dan O'Shea and Schoolcraft College player Brian Thomas, advanced to their fourth invitational tournament final in five tries.

Leading the '75 Wolves to four straight wins in the National Invitational was a stubborn defense, which allowed only one goal. The group included goalkeepers Tony Lazeri and tri-captain Jeff Thomas, sweeper Ryan Loosvelt, stopper Adam Schomer and outside backs Brian Spuck and Ryan Marex. (Thomas also had three assists.)

Offensively, Jon Herbst led the attack with five goals and one assist. tri-captain Benji Cesa added three goals and one assist, while Clayton Campbell contributed two goals and three assists. Also scoring was tri-captain Josh Prater, Tom Grasso, Justin Monson and Kris Wiljanen. Steve Phelps and Ryan Piper added two assists each.

• CAESARS HOMECOMING

The Livonia YMCA Soccer Club will meet a group of teams from the Little Caesars Premier Soccer League in a series of boys and girls matches Saturday at Bicentennial Park (field No. 9) and Jaycee Park (field No. 3).

The schedule for the YMCA Hawks, the girls contingent, will be: Division I (under-19), 10 a.m. at Bicentennial; State Cup II Division (under-19), 10 a.m. at Jaycee; Division I (under-14), noon at Jaycee; Division III (under-14), 2 p.m. at Bicentennial; II Division (under-16), 4 p.m. at Bicentennial.

The schedule for the YMCA Wolves, the boys contingent, will be: National Invitational championship (under-14), noon at Bicentennial; Division I (under-12), 2 p.m. at Jaycee; '76 Division II (under-13), 4 p.m. at Jaycee.

• NOT QUITE ELITE

The boys under-15 Michigan Elite Soccer Club reached the finals (in early August) of the annual Cincinnati (Ohio) Classic soccer tournament before falling to defending champion Burlington, Ontario, 4-3.

Elite trailed 3-0 at halftime before Brian Maisonneuve scored three short-handed goals to knot the count on assists from Rob Haar, Tim Hardy and Wayne Worosz.

But in the final minute, Burlington rallied to win it, capitalizing on a free kick.

Weighill leads Clarenceville

Andy Weighill and Jay Larson rushed for two touchdowns each and quarterback Chris Foss passed for two more Saturday, leading Livonia Clarenceville to a 47-6 rout of host Mount Clemens Lutheran North in a Metro Conference encounter.

football

Clarenceville, now 2-2 overall and 1-2 in the Metro, outgained North in total offense, 339-110.

The Trojans had 266 yards rushing, as Weighill carried 10 times for 129 yards. Foss completed seven-of-15 passes for 117 yards.

Clarenceville led 16-0 after one quarter, scoring on runs of 6 and 66 yards by Weighill. Foss completed a pass to Kendrick Harrington for a two-point conversion after the first TD, and he ran for two points after Weighill's second score.

The Trojans increased the lead to 30-6 at halftime, scoring on passes of 24 yards and 55 yards to Harrington. An interception by Derrick Herr led to Harrington's second TD.

Clarenceville scored 10 points in the third quarter, with Eric Conkright kicking a 22-yard field goal, and Larson scoring from one yard. Larson completed the rout with a 14-yard scamper in the final quarter.

ST. AGATHA 21, GABRIEL RICHARD 6: For the second week in a row, host Redford St. Agatha avoided turnovers, this time winning the Catholic League C-D Division opener.

Both the Aggies and Fighting Irish have identical 2-2 overall records.

St. Agatha scores came in the second, third and fourth quarters.

Brian Kutch scored Agatha's first TD, going in from one yard. A blocked punt by Mike Boyle deep in Richard's territory set up Agatha's first score.

St. Agatha took a 14-0 lead in the third quarter, scoring on a 3-yard run by fullback Warren Fegley, that capped a 72-yard drive.

Richard scored early in the fourth, cutting the lead to 14-6, but defensive tackle Pat Wagner recovered a Richard fumble in the end zone for the Aggies final tally.

Fegley converted all three extra-point attempts.

The Aggie defense held Richard to 117 yards in total offense, whereas Agatha gained 359 yards, including 201 on the ground. Matt Schick had 108 yards rushing in 21 attempts. Kutch completed three-of-seven passes for 58 yards and no interceptions.

No turnovers is encouraging, especially with a sophomore quarterback. Agatha coach John Goddard said, "Turnovers will kill you."

LIGGETT 29, LUTH. WESTLAND 0: Gross Pointe University-Liggett won its first game of the year Friday, blanking visiting Lutheran Westland.

Liggett led the Knights with 164 yards rushing, scoring one touchdown from 34 yards out, and passing for another 30 and 34 yards.

Westland managed 99 yards in total offense. Bruce Rivera picked up 51 of Westland's 62 rushing yards. Quarterback Steve Aumann completed one pass to Mike Hardies, an aerial that covered 39 yards.

Rocks, Raiders risk marks

By Brad Emons and Dan O'Meara staff writers

grid predictions

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for big football games, look no further than Saturday's Western Lakes Activities Association encounter, which finds Plymouth Salem at North Farmington.

Both teams are undefeated and vying for the top spot in the Lakes Division of the W.L.A.A.

The key for Salem is the health of junior quarterback Ryan Johnson, who is nursing a sore ankle. He played sparingly in last week's 17-7 win over Walled Lake Central.

North, meanwhile, found a passing attack in last week's 36-13 crushing of Livonia Stevenson. The Raiders beat Salem last year, 10-3.

Meanwhile, other key matchups feature defending Wolverine A League champ Dearborn Fordson (3-1) at Wayne Memorial (2-2) and Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher (2-2) vs. Redford Catholic Central (4-0).

As far as your expert prognosticators go, O'Meara picked 11 of 14 correctly last week to raise his season total to 46-13. Emons, meanwhile, slipped to 41-18 overall after going 9-5.

Here is a look at this weekend's encounters:

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Liv. Franklin at Liv. Churchill: With Farmington Harrison all but a lock to win the W.L.A.A.'s Western Division, second place could be at stake in this one. Both teams are 2-2 overall and 1-1 in the division. Churchill is hurting, losing tailback Jeff Zawlsak and tackle Bob Pekarwinski to injury. Franklin, meanwhile, may still be reeling from last week's 38-point drubbing from Harrison. PICKS — Emons likes Churchill at home. O'Meara predicts a Franklin revival.

Liv. Stevenson at Westland Glenn: Last year Stevenson caught Glenn napping, pulling off the upset. Expect the host Rockets (4-0) to be wide awake and ready for war. The only problem is that Stevenson's troops are depleted, even if star tailback Rob Chanko returns. PICKS — Glenn makes its five straight.

Northville at Ply. Canton: The poor Chiefs (0-4) have no where to go but up, while the Mustangs (2-2) appear to be better than a .500 club after topping Churchill last week. PICKS — Canton can't corral the Mustangs.

Farmington at Walled Lake Central: Both teams are 0-4, but Farmington has yet to score a point. The Falcons could salvage something by giving rookie coach Rick Mihizer his first victory. PICKS — Farmington may have to wait another week; Emons takes Central.

Redford Union at Jackson Northwest: Ever been to Parma? It's home of the Panthers, too. Under Duane Kaiser, who is returning for his second stint as coach, Jackson Northwest is 3-1 using a balanced offensive attack led by quarterback Chad Logan. The secondary is also tough, which should make things interesting for the RU Panthers' potent passing duo of John Burdick and Joe Dellgaw. RU's line, however, has been decimated by injuries. PICKS — RU goes to 3-2 because of the tougher schedule.

Dbn. Fordson at Wayne Memorial: When was the last time Wayne beat Fordson? The erratic Zebras (2-2) are certainly capable, but can they stop the Tractors' ground game? A Wolverine A League title is now remote for Wayne, but the role of spoiler is still available. PICKS — Emons says Wayne breaks the ice. O'Meara says Fordson is too formidable.

Lutheran West at Clarenceville: The Jekyll and Hyde Trojans (2-2) will be matched against a team that is young and inexperienced. The game pits two outstanding running backs, Andy Weighill of Clarenceville and Troy Signon of West. Signon gained 163 yards in '88 carries in last week's thumping of Hamtramck. PICKS — The coin please, it's Clarenceville, according to Emons. But it came up heads for Lutheran West when O'Meara tried it.

Edsel Ford at Garden City: Edsel Ford (2-2) is coming off a big win over Redford Union, and the Cougars are 1-3 after losing 8-7 to first-place Woodhaven. It will be Senior Night at Garden City. PICKS — Even if their engines don't roar, the Thunderbirds come out a winner in this Northwest Suburban League game.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

(all 1 p.m. unless noted)

Ply. Salem at N. Farmington: It's gut-check time in the W.L.A.A. Each team has played a relatively cupcake schedule. North must stop Salem's dangerous wishbone. Salem must be able to stop Raider running back Joe Sturtz. PICKS — North stays unbeaten.

Walled Lake Western at Farm. Harrison: Turn out the lights, the party is over for Western's one-game winning streak. Unbeaten Harrison must have patience because the W.L.A.A. championship game is still three weeks off. PICKS — Emons will never pick against Harrison again, even if it's against Cincinnati Moeller.

Vestaburg at Lutheran Westland: Vestaburg is only 1-3, but last week the Wolverines upset state-ranked Bay City All-Saints, 12-6, behind the passing of Chad Palmer, who threw for two TDs and 108 yards. Lutheran Westland (2-2) is coming off a 29-0 loss to previous winless Gross Pointe University-Liggett. PICKS — The visitors from up north are a sure bet.

Allen Park at Redford-Thurston: The Eagles nearly got their first victory last week, going to triple overtime before losing to Melvindale. Meanwhile, Allen Park (2-2) had to rally to beat league-leader Taylor Truman last week, 21-14. PICKS — Thurston is still searching for some offense. Allen Park hangs on.

Bishop Borgess at Harper Woods. Notre Dame: Both teams are 1-3 and appear to be evenly matched. For the winner, it provides hope for only the next week in the black-and-blue Catholic League Central Division. PICKS — Emons says the Irish find a little bit of luck. Don't tell Saint Patrick or Father Flanagan, but O'Meara isn't supporting the Fighting Irish in this one.

Redford CC vs. H.W. Bishop Gallagher: Gallagher pulled off a mild surprise last week, upsetting Warren DeLaSalle, 7-0. The Lancers (2-2) haven't done well against CC in the past, but this could be a tougher game than expected. PICKS — The Shamrocks run their record to 5-0.

SUNDAY'S GAME

St. Agatha vs. Redford St. Mary's (1 p.m. at Detroit Benedictine): The Aggies have won two straight after losing a pair of tough non-leaguers to Detroit Country Day and Traverse City St. Francis. Redford St. Mary's (1-2) got hammered last week by Oakland Catholic, 25-0. Clarenceville also routed the Rustics in the season opener. PICKS — The Aggie's drive another nail into the Rustics.

5 area teams in playoff picture

Observerland has five teams in the running for the high school football playoffs. Two would qualify if the final pairings were decided this week.

Farmington Harrison is the top team in Class B Region IV with 92 playoff points. The others are River-view, Madison Heights Lamphere and Mount Clemens.

North Farmington (88) is No. 4 in Class A Region III, with Redford Catholic Central (86) fifth and Westland John Glem (82) sixth. Birmingham Brother Rice and Detroit Henry Ford are tied for first.

Plymouth Salem also has an 88-point average but is No. 7 in Class A Region II, which has East Lansing (94) as the leader.

The top four teams in each region qualify for the four-week tournament, which begins Friday, Nov. 4.

Sabre pays the price

By Brad Emons Staff writer

Mike Donnelly is hoping the good tooth-fairy still exists in the National Hockey League.

The former NCAA All-American from Michigan State scored a goal and an assist but paid the price in the third period when a Red Wing defenseman belted Donnelly in the mouth while he was trying to position himself in front of the Detroit net. (Ironically, no penalty was called on the play.)

Afterwards, Donnelly joined the huge fraternity of NHL players who have had one or both of their incisors removed.

Despite the damage, the former Franklin High product made an impression on Sabres general manager Gerry Meehan.

"MIKE SCORED a goal, set up a goal, kills penalties, plays the power plays, is a great shooter and getting stronger, and he lost a tooth," said Meehan. "What more can you say? He's a quality kid."

Meehan is hoping somebody like Donnelly can solidify left wing. It's no secret that left wing is the Sabres' weakest position.

And by taking his lumps, Donnelly's chances of taking a regular shift with Sabres may improve.

hockey

"We've been trying to work that with all our forwards," Meehan said. "If you want to get hits in major league baseball, then you've got to stand in the batters box. And if you want to score goals in the NHL, you've got to get to the front of the net and do it with authority."

"If you look at the goal Mike scored, he fought a check off, and got himself free. These are the type of things we're asking our players to do."

Although only 5-foot-10, 185 pounds, Donnelly spent the summer trying to improve his strength.

"I've been having a good training camp so far and I feel a lot more confident," Donnelly said. "My intensity level was the biggest thing I had to work on this summer for me to come back ready to play."

DONNELLY SPENT much of his time working out with fellow Livonian Dennis Smith, a defenseman in the Red Wings organization.

"We worked really hard, the hardest I've ever worked during the off-season," said Donnelly. "It was good to have Dennis there. I needed it. We both pushed each other."

After leading MSU to the NCAA crown in 1986, Donnelly signed a huge contract as a free agent with the New York Rangers, but found himself traded to Buffalo on New Year's Eve of 1987.

He started quickly with the Sabres, teaming up on a line with Pierre Turgeon and Ray Sheppard. But although the club went 22-15-3 with the young line, Donnelly's production tailed off to where the Sabres elected not to suit him up for the playoffs going instead with rugged veteran Clark Gillies, who has since retired.

"I had only eight goals last year, and I know I can do better than that," said Donnelly. "It was a rough first year, but I learned quite a bit. It's really going to help me going into my second year."

"He gives us a spark, a speed element we don't have," said the Buffalo coach. "The only question mark I had about Mike last season and during this training camp was whether he was going to get his scoring touch back. He can do everything else quite well."

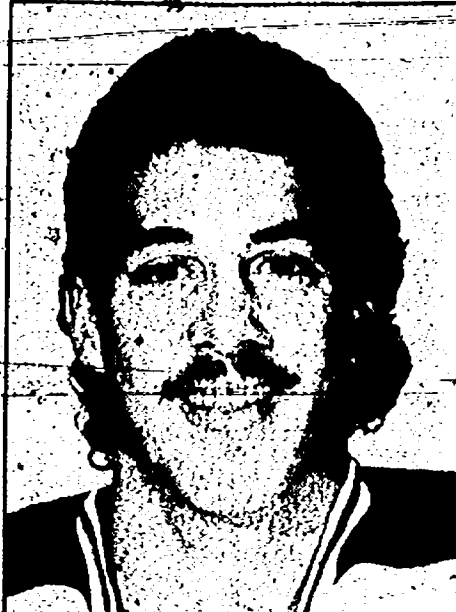

It wouldn't hurt, either, if Donnelly had a gifted player like Turgeon centering his line.

"It always helps to have a great player playing with you," Sator said. "It gives you better scoring chances."

As Donnelly puts it, "Ice time, confidence and playing with intensity every night is the key to being effective in the National Hockey League."

But can he be as effective as he was at MSU?

Meehan offered this assessment: "If I'm correct, in his last year at Michigan State, Mike led the nation in scoring with 59 goals. I don't think he got them because he was lucky."

Mike Donnelly hopes to make Sabres

"I THINK THE biggest thing that jumps out, when you're looking at a player maturing into the NHL, the biggest common denominator is the strength factor. This is the best league in the world with the biggest and fastest players. To grow into the NHL is an adjustment that can't be taken for granted. It's a step by step process and that's where Donnelly is right now. He's coming to reap the benefits of his early transition coming from MSU to the AHL (the minors) to the NHL."

Donnelly has never had it easy during his hockey life. He arrived at MSU as a walk-on, a non-scholarship player.

And in the NHL, he's having to prove himself all over.

And from some of his early season performances training camp, Donnelly made and discover something good underneath his pillow in the near future.

Iafrate survives turbulent Leafs

By Larry O'Connor Staff writer

Call him Mr. Al Iafrate, or maybe Sir Al Iafrate.

So what if the Livonia native is only 22. He's entering his fifth year with the Toronto Maple Leafs. The little is deserved. Yes, call Iafrate a veteran.

Then again, after playing five seasons with the Maple Leafs, most would consider calling a stress counselor.

"There's only five or six guys left from when I got here," said Iafrate, playing against the Red Wings recently in an exhibition game at Joe Louis Arena.

What does a veteran do? Well don't expect Iafrate to start hanging around the VFW Hall telling war stories.

His battle will be fought in the trenches of the Norris Division as Toronto tries to regain a little respect in the National Hockey League. The Leafs, as usual, had one of those years again last season.

You know the story: constant turmoil, bad-mouthing management and the coach and backstabbing between teammates. And that was only the team bus.

In the regular season, the team was mired in losing binges that left them on NHL skid row. Thanks only to the ineptitude of the Minnesota North Stars, the Leafs made the playoffs only to lose to the Wings in six games.

WHERE WAS Iafrate during all this? He managed to keep his sanity by scoring 22 goals and 30 assists for 52 points, leading defensemen on the team.

And while knocking Leaf coach John Brophy replaced curling as the second-favorite wintertime sport in Canada, Iafrate has remained silent.

"If you don't like the coach or management, it's really none of your business to say anything in my eyes — unless you want to get traded," Iafrate said. "I'd never quit on a coach if I didn't like him. It's important, whether or not you like the coach, to play hard. . . . You play for the team, not the coach."

Iafrate has backed that stance up with some strong play, especially in the exhibition season. Those close to the Leafs have noticed how Iafrate has changed.

"Oh sure," Brophy said, "maturity-wise he has."

"He's a veteran now," added assistant coach Gary Lariviere. "He's getting it together."

By getting together, Iafrate will need to have a consistent season. He can score goals and moves the puck with the best of them. His defensive play has faltered at times.

IAFRATE WAS a minus-21 last season. (A player receives a minus-1 for each goal the other team scores while he is on the ice; he receives a plus-1 for each goal his team scores while he is on the ice. Power play goals do not count.)

This season, he wants to be on the plus-side of the ledger.

In Toronto's 4-3 exhibition win over the Red Wings, Iafrate was on the ice for three of the Leafs' goals, including the game-winner by Dan Daoust with 36 seconds left. He was also present for the Wings' third goal by Petr Klimek. He finished the night at plus-2.

"Personally, I think that statistic is a joke," Iafrate said. "I think it's misleading. Last year, I was on the ice for eight empty-net goals. But I'd still like to be a plus player."

Plus, Iafrate wouldn't mind playing on a winning team. The Leafs, despite their constant upheaval, have some talented young players. Like Detroit a few years ago, they could catch teams napping.

Forwards Ed Olczyk, Russ Courtnall and Wendell Clark (if healthy) certainly provide Toronto some scoring punch. The key is whether the forwards play a forechecking game.

"I sure hope so," Iafrate said.

IAFRATE IS DOING his part defensively. He came into camp in great shape. Then again, Iafrate is second only to Elizabeth Taylor in being constantly weighed in public.

Most of that stems from one of his first training camps with the Leafs when Iafrate came sporting a spare tire for a Mack Truck.

"I always came into camp in shape, except for one year," he said. "This is my fifth camp, but all you hear about is that one year. I suppose if I had four training camps where I came in bad shape and one camp where I was in good shape, all you'd hear about is how I was in great shape."

Livonian Smith plants foot in Red Wings' door

DENNIS SMITH got his shot last week and he made the most of it, firing the puck past a stunned netminder Tim Bernhardt during the first period of an exhibition hockey game (Sept. 19) between the Detroit Red Wings and Toronto at Joe Louis Arena.

But unfortunately for Smith, the 24-year-old Livonia defenseman playing in his first NHL game, the goal was waived off because of a penalty.

The play seems to typify Smith's status in the Red Wing organization.

While players like Petr Klimek and Bob Probert get second, third and even fourth chances, Smith had to make the most of his only opportunity to show Red Wing management that he could play against NHL-caliber competition.

And following the 4-3 overtime loss to the Maple Leafs, coach Jacques Demers was frank about Smith's place in the organization.

"He's a local guy from the area that we wanted to see," Demers said. "He's a determined guy, who, to be honest, will go back to the AHL (American Hockey League). He certainly didn't disappoint tonight. And who knows? Anybody who gives 100 percent like he's given us in camp, you've got to give a shot."

SMITH, ADMITTEDLY nervous during the opening stages of the game, settled down with his partner Doug Houda, teaming up to play a solid defensive game. Neither was on the ice for any Toronto goals.

Afterwards in the dressing room, several Red Wing veterans came over to Smith's locker room stall and paid compliments, including Jim Nil, who put the pass on Smith's stick for the disallowed goal.

"My chances are slim (at making the club), but you never can tell," said Smith, who attended Franklin High before playing junior hockey in Canada. "There are a few average defensemen around, but I found out tonight I can do the job. But what they (the veterans) have over me right now is that they've been in the league (the NHL) and I haven't."

SMITH ENTERED camp more determined than ever. He spent the summer lifting weights with another Franklin product, former Michigan State star Mike Donnelly, now a member of the Buffalo Sabres.

"I decided to give it my best shot," he said. "Mike and I threw the iron around a lot this summer trying to get in the best shape possible."

Smith was rewarded for his hard work and said he appreciated the opportunity to play before the hometown fans.

"My buddies were up there and they finally got to see me play at Joe Louis," said Smith. "They got a big kick out of it and so did I."

The Livonian didn't try to play any differently than what he was accustomed to during the past two seasons at Adirondack (N.Y.), the Wings top farm club. (He was signed by the Red Wings as a free agent.)

"I just tried to play position hockey," he said. "I just have to keep working hard and keep it up. I know how I can play in this league and be steady. They'll carry eight to nine defensemen and I think I can fit into that seventh, eighth or ninth spot. It's just a matter of getting my foot in the door."

WITH A BREAK or two, Smith could get the call, perhaps as a penalty-killer.

"Nothing is cut and dry," Smith said. "You never can tell. Somebody might get picked up in the waiver draft. If it's not Detroit, maybe somewhere else. I'm willing to see what happens this year, but I know I can't play in Adirondack the rest of my life."

Following the exhibition game, Smith had to report at 7:30 the next morning for practice. Afterwards, Smith was told he was being sent back to Adirondack where he was to join Detroit's bad boy duo of Klimek and Probert, who since have been suspended.

Probert initially suspended for missing a plane, while the other (Klimek) was being banished for showing up late to practice.

As veteran Wing defenseman Lee Norwood was quoted saying in last week's Detroit News, "their punishment fits the crime."

Somehow it doesn't seem fair that a guy like Smith, who shows up for practice on time, works hard and minds his P's and Q's, can't get a break.

It seems modern day sports are filled with a lot of Klimeks and Proberts and not enough Dennis Smiths.

Hunters learn deer only an earshot away

IT HAS probably happened to most serious archery hunters who put in their time in the woods. A nice buck wanders through your area, just far enough away from your stand to eliminate any possibility of a shot. You fret and fidget, hoping he'll come a little closer, only to watch him disappear into the bush.

If you've ever wished you could simply call that deer a little closer maybe now you can do just that.

Research over the past five years has uncovered a lot about the vocal communication of deer. A type of communication many hunters felt never existed.

Deer have a number of vocal sounds they make ranging from a distressful bleat, to an alarming whine, to a content or even aggravated grunt. And if you haven't noticed, there are dozens of different calls now available to hunters that imitate this grunting sound.

Probably the most popular of all the grunt calls is the E-Z Grunt, developed by Harold Knight of Knight & Hale Game Calls fame.

"THE GRUNT call has absolutely changed my style of hunting," admitted Knight. "It has made me want to sit longer and it has given me confidence. If I see a deer now, I know I can get him within bow range. They (deer) will respond. I have never had a negative reaction. Using (the grunt call) has also made me conceal myself better when I'm in my stand. When you call a buck in he'll know where that sound is coming from so he'll be looking."

Last year alone, Knight bagged five bucks, four of which he called in with his E-Z Grunt. His longest shot was 27 yards. The rest were within 15 yards.

Bill Parker

UNLIKE THE old bleat call, which imitates the sound of a fawn in distress and works primarily on does, the grunt call works best with bucks.

"Does will come in, too, but it works best with bucks, especially the 18-month old bucks," explained Knight.

Bucks and does keep separate social circles, except during the mating season, known as the rut. They don't mingle with the opposite sex unless the rut is on. Just prior to the rut, the older, dominant bucks will run the younger bucks off as the older bucks begin their quest for a mate. Knight feels this activity among the bucks is what makes the grunt call work.

"When the bucks start to break up the 18-month-old ones are lonesome," Knight said. "They've been with other bucks all year and now, all of a sudden, they're alone. They get lonesome. They hear another deer grunt and they come to socialize. Later in the year, when the does are in estrus, another deer will come to a grunt to try to get in on the action."

"I'd say the best time to use (a grunt call) is about two weeks before the rut," continued Knight. "I think the younger bucks are out looking for other bucks at that time."

UNLIKE SOME game calls, such as duck, goose or turkey calls which take hours and hours of practice to master, the deer grunt call is easy to master.

"Anyone that can blow their breath on a mirror can use the E-Z Grunt-er," Knight said. "It doesn't take any talent. They are very, very easy to master."

The best time to use the grunt call is when the deer are out of shooting range. Then the call can be used to lure the deer in.

More members of the musicians association sponsoring Saturday's concert are (above) Mick Reid's wife Lynne, who plays guitar and sings, and (below) Father Dan O'Sullivan of Troy, on the button accordion.

Guitarist Mick Reid and tin whistler Justin Manning belong to the Detroit branch of Comhaltas Ceoltoiri Eireann — the Musicians Association of Ireland. The Detroit-area performers, hosting Irish entertainers Saturday at Orchestra Hall, stage concerts at 3 p.m. every second Sunday at the Gaelic League/Irish-American Club on Michigan Avenue.

Happy music Irish entertainers brighten scene

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

ANOTHER SATURDAY night and no place to go? Don't worry, be happy.

At 7:30 p.m. Saturday, champions of traditional Irish music, dance and storytelling will entertain at Detroit's Orchestra Hall at 3711 Woodward.

Irish performers ranked among the best in Ireland are stopping in the Motor City on a tour of 17 U.S. cities, Europe, Great Britain, Ireland, Canada and Australia.

Concert-goers will hear the lively strains of jigs, hornpipes and reels played by musicians on the fiddle, concertina, tin whistle, uilleann pipes, goatskin drums, bones and spoons.

Ballads by harpists and vocalists will whisk listeners across the sea to the Emerald Isle.

Titled "Echoes of Ireland," the concert is sponsored by the Musicians Association of Ireland, or Comhaltas Ceoltoiri Eireann.

Breege Regan-Kelly is secretary of the Detroit branch of the association. The County Leitrim native says those who go "will find it's fun, it's lively...it's relaxing...and it really helps people get away from the anxieties of their work and their life for a short time."

"They will see traditional dances being done by people from the country itself. I don't mean that in a negative way, because we have Americans who are champions."

"But these performers bring with them a flavor of Ireland that might not always be captured by a local demonstration," said Regan-Kelly.

"The musicians themselves have grown up with this tradition, and they have learned it from their fathers and their mothers," she added. "It represents a continuation of that beautiful heritage that is passed on by word and example. It's not like something they've learned from books. They live this tradition."

'Irish music is fast and lively, in keeping with the temperament of the Irish people. That in itself provides for a lively setting. It's a wonderful experience.' — Dan O'Kennedy of Livonia

The storytellers capture the wit of the Irish, said Regan-Kelly.

"What is so funny about the storytelling is the way they express it and the language they use. They use idioms that are only heard in Ireland. The storyteller (or seanachal) also give people a glimpse of Ireland and a way of getting in touch with their heritage."

"For people for whom it's not their heritage, this is an expression of another culture that is ancient and still vibrant today," she said.

Motown-bound performers include storyteller Daisy Kearney, singer John Furlong, fiddler Martin McGinley, concertina player Michael Sexton, concertina player Sonny Murray and several dance champions.

Dan O'Kennedy of Livonia chairs the Detroit branch of Comhaltas

Irish entertainers make lively music

Ceoltóirí Eireann. "Irish music is fast and lively, in keeping with the temperament of the Irish people. That in itself provides for a lively setting," he said. "It's a wonderful experience."

FOLK MUSIC LOVERS especially will enjoy it, added O'Kennedy.

"Many of the songs that Comhaltas Ceoltóirí Eireann has been performing over the years have been adopted by the folk musicians. They in turn have made Irish folk music and dance among the favorite elements of our times."

For tickets — $12 for adults, and $10 for retirees and children — call 464-4119, 261-9473 or 288-3575.

Regan-Kelly views attendance as "kind of a contribution to the Irish culture. In a sense, even if (the Irish) aren't going to go because they think they won't enjoy it, maybe they will go out of a sense of obligation," she said.

Imelda Foley of Rochester says, "If these concerts were held three or four times a year, I would go. We go because my husband and I are both from Ireland, and this is a bit of Ireland each year."

"Orchestra Hall down there is terrific. They couldn't have found a nicer place to hold it. Anybody who's musically inclined would like it."

Warm Oscar pairs with a funny Felix

Performances of "The Odd Couple" by Neil Simon continue through Saturday at the Birmingham Village Players. For ticket information call 644-2075.

Oscar and Felix, whose widely divergent personalities have made them legendary pop culture figures, continue to be absolutely hilarious in the Birmingham Village Players current production of Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple."

Oscar Madison (Tom D'Agostino) is the cigar-chomping, lovable slob who lets the ashes fall where they may—and the debris pile up in his apartment. Divorced and lonely and in a moment of weakness, Oscar lets his poker pal Felix move in with him after Felix's wife has just thrown him out.

Felix Unger (Kim Fox) is Oscar's natural antithesis, a fuss-budget-obsessed with tidiness and so uptight that "even his hair is clenched." Felix's incessant cleaning, nagging and hypochondria turn laid-back Oscar into a supreme grouch and drives him to open rebellion.

D'Agostino is an unusually personable Oscar, and the effect is to make the character even more credible and increase the empathy when he finally blows up at Felix. D'Agostino has a precise, well-defined delivery that never falters.

FOX IS AN EXCELLENT, exceptionally funny Felix. He starts out a bit understated, allowing Felix's compulsive behavior to build in intensity. His wonderfully expressive face speaks volumes, especially his deeply furrowed brow. The sight of

Barbara Michals

Fox in a kitchen apron, brandishing a soup ladle at D'Agostino while he belabors him for arriving home late, is as good a piece of classic comedy as it could possibly be.

No one has ever succeeded in making the cuckoo Pigeon sisters, Gwendolyn and Cecily, seem any more than a pair of dodos. Kari Sterns and Laurie Shea do their best in the thankless roles of Oscar's cooing, bubble-headed British neighbors.

Jerry Weiner, Paul Becker, John Miller, Jr., and Phil Whelan as the other longtime poker pals are all thoroughly satisfactory, with Weiner especially natural in his delivery.

Director Bernie Greenberg keeps the pacing smooth and the laughs in all the right places. "The Odd Couple" is perhaps Simon's most beloved and enduring comedy. Successful as a play, film, television series, and in an all-female version, "The Odd Couple" holds up extremely well to repeated viewings. People seem to see something of themselves or those they know in the richly comic creations of Oscar and Felix.

Barbara Michals teaches high school English in Southfield. A theater critic for the last 14 years, she is an inveterate playgoer who regularly catches up on all the New York productions.

Young cast good in 'Charlie Brown'

Luncheon theater performances of "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" continue Saturdays-Sundays through Nov. 13, then Sundays only through Dec. 18 at the Karas House in Redford. Lunch is 12 noon, showtime 1 p.m. For ticket information call 559-6-PBP

Bob Weibel

The Peanut Butter Players have created a niche for themselves in the Detroit area — the group presents professional children's luncheon theater. Performers range from grade schoolers to early teenagers. First, they serve as waiters and waitresses, then change into makeup and costume to present the show. And they're very good at both.

PBP's current production is the whimsical musical, "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown." It's based on cartoon characters from Charles Schulz's comic strip, "Peanuts." In a series of zippy sketches we meet Snoopy, Lucy, Linus and the gang. And, of course, the something less than perfect, but always lovable Charlie Brown.

Through the experiences of Charlie and friends, we learn that growing up may be hard to do, but it sure is interesting — and fun. Which the audience certainly agrees to, though a few of the jokes go over the head of the very young. No matter, parents and youngsters alike can readily identify with the true-to-life characters, which is one of the charming features of Charlie Brown.

The Saturday cast (a second cast performs Sundays) was, on the whole, an experienced, polished ensemble. After a slightly choppy opening, the cast settled into a harmonious groove. Especially well done were scenes about Valentines Day Cards, the Baseball Game, and a Peter Rabbit Book Report.

AMONG NOTEWORTHY performers is Danny Gurwin as Charlie Brown. His stage persona as an insecure, self-conscious Charlie belies his obvious talents as an accomplished young actor with an already mature singing voice.

Dina Baldwin (Lucy) delivers lines with the timing and emphasis of an experienced comedian. And Katie O'Shaughnessy (Snoopy) has one of those Ethel Merman voices that carries over the orchestra to the back row of the theater.

The orchestra in this case (and bizarre sound effects) consists of an electric piano, expertly handled by music director C.J. Nodus.

The setting features metal tubing fabricated into rectangular platforms. Artwork on window shades provides a backdrop for each scene. Very functional. Very effective.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

On the Town

For the ultimate in Northern Italian cuisine, dine at La Guardia Restaurant, downtown on Pitt Street.

The beautiful bridge that goes to a beautiful place. All for only $1.25.

For dance, theater, or music, it's Cleary Auditorium downtown—showplace of Canadian culture.

They say the best view of Detroit is from the Art Gallery of Windsor Restaurant. Enjoy its fine Belgian cuisine.

Windsor.

The more you look, the more you like.

Windsor is the kind of place that improves with familiarity. For one thing, you'll never run out of great restaurants. A few? Elliott's on the Avenue. Wong's Eatery. Louie Linguini's. Traiteur's. Casa Bianca. La Notte. The Royal Bengal Indian Curry House. Stoney Point Tavern. Sunnyside Tavern. Duffy's Tavern. Dan Flanagan's. The list goes on.

And, no matter what you're shopping for, you can find it in Windsor. Hockey equipment? You've come to the right place: Johnson Sports, on Wyandotte east of Ouellette. With selection—and prices—you'll find hard to match anywhere.

Up for a little sightseeing? Take Route 18 to Colasanti's Tropical Gardens in Ruthven. You'll see quaint farmhouses, boats on the river and waves on the lake.

If you plan to stay the weekend, remember that Detroit's most affordable mini-vacation is in Windsor, at Relax Plaza Hotel. It's on the waterfront, right in the heart of Windsor's bustling downtown. It's so easy to get to, just say...

'Pioneer' populates her world with firsts

See related story on Page 3B

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Fran Harris never liked being a token. She preferred to use a description offered one time by Gannett board chairman Allen Neuhart — a pioneer in broadcasting.

But then again, Harris thinks her success in a male-dominated business was a case of pure luck.

Soon to be inducted in the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame, the Westland resident has logged a lot of firsts since she graduated from college in 1930 and those firsts have landed her yet another first. She is the media person to be selected for inclusion in the Hall of Fame.

Harris got her start in broadcasting by being the new kid on the block in the advertising department at Himelhoch's Department Store. Fresh out of college, she knew she wanted to work, but not in the traditional female careers — secretary, nurse and teacher. She opted for a retailing job at the store, and after awhile moved into the advertising department.

The store decided to buy five minutes of air time on WWJ radio three times a week during November and December, something a downtown Detroit store had never done before. She got the assignment to do the air time because she was the newest member of the department.

"I went home and told my mother and father I was going to be on the radio, and it wasn't until months and months later that I found out my father had gone down to the station to make sure it was a reputable place for women to work," Harris said.

THAT WAS the start of her broadcasting career. From there, she moved on to doing a helpful hints program under the name of Julia Hayes. The script was written in Chicago, much to Harris' relief — "I was an only child and there was a lot of stress in the house about hanging up my clothes."

Harris left radio to have a child and returned in the post-Depression era, when what jobs that were available went to men who needed them. She started doing a shopping show for sanforized clothing, but with the outbreak of war and a shortage of fabric, she faced the possibility of losing her job.

"I went up to see Harry Bannister and told him he needed me in the newsroom and he said, 'Like hell, I do,'" Harris said. "I told him the guys were going off to war and pretty soon the newsroom would be depleted. He told me to make an audition tape."

"I told him I had some journalism background, but I didn't tell him it was at my high school newspaper."

On Jan. 4, 1943, Harris became the first woman newscaster in the state. She had an early morning show. She continued to do news and interviews for 20 years before being "bumped upstairs" to WWJ's corporate level.

Fran Harris of Westland (as she appeared during her active years in broadcasting) made a name for herself at WWJ and helped open doors for women in a predominantly male domain.

The interviews were with celebrities, local and otherwise, and "Hollywood types." Some of the well-known stars "were nice, some were condescending and some like Joan Crawford were impossible," Harris said.

Harris also did a radio show called "Highway Patrol" long before Broderick Crawford made a name for himself in the TV version. She and an engineer would drive to the Redford State Police post and go out with some of the troopers.

HARRIS entered the world of fledgling television in 1946 when she was the first woman to broadcast the news from "the attic of the Penobscot Building."

"The background was an ecru-colored bedsheet, and we all had to wear blue makeup," she said. "It was a trial run to see if we could do it."

Harris made her television debut later that year on a cooking show. She also did a children's show set up by RCA and General Electric to boost the TV sales.

Harris also pioneered a forerunner of "People's Court" for local television in 1949-50. "Traffic Court" was based on real cases and included a real judge, witnesses and police officers. Only the defendant was played by an actor. After 10 years of "Traffic Court," she did a similar show, "Juvenile Court."

Mixed in with her broadcasting successes, Harris cared for her family. She managed to juggle a job and a family because of her husband's support, she said.

"I was always home for dinner, and we never talked about our jobs at dinner," she said. "We talked about the things the kids were interested in and were doing."

"The only problem I had was with the PTA. I couldn't go to all the schools at one time."

Retired now, Harris still keeps her hand in the business, writing free-lance articles and serving on the Children's Museum Board of Directors. She's still active in Women in Communications locally and nationally.

LOOKING back on her career, Harris admits she accomplished a lot, but she said she never really thought about that at the time. She was more excited about having a good job, a job she enjoyed doing.

"There's no question about me being a pioneer, but I never thought much about it," she said. "The concept of doing something for women never occurred to me. I just had a good job, but looking back, I see what I've done and how things have changed."

"All those firsts that happened for me were because I was in the right place at the right time. There's no substitution for luck."

Her firsts

Fran Harris began her career in broadcasting at a time when it wasn't a province of women. In the process, she logged a number of firsts for women. They include:

- In 1943, she became the first woman newscaster in Michigan on WWJ.
- In 1946, she was the first woman on television and had the first woman-run television show in Michigan.
- She was the first woman to serve in broadcasting at the corporate level, also at WWJ.
- In 1949, she was the first woman to be presented with the George Foster Peabody Award (broadcast's Oscar).
- In 1973, she was selected by the U.S. Secretary of Defense to chair the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in Service. Through her appointment, the Navy appointed its first woman admiral.
- She was the first woman and the only broadcaster installed in Michigan's Journalism Hall of Fame in 1986.
- In 1987, she was the only woman selected to receive the Governor's Award from the National Academy of TV Arts and Sciences (Emmy) in Detroit.

Town Hall brings out 'best' for 25th

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Hear, ye; hear, ye. It's time for another season of Livonia Town Hall. Except this year is special. The Livonia Town Hall will celebrate its 25th season with some heavyweight speakers (not in the literal sense, but the notable sense).

Author William Novak will begin the luncheon series Wednesday, Oct. 19. Other speakers include humorist Mary McBride, Wednesday, Nov. 16; newspaper columnist Neal Shine, Wednesday, Jan. 18; and photojournalist Linda Solomon, Wednesday, March 15.

In addition to celebrating a 25 years of lectures, the Livonia Town Hall also will have a new meeting place — Roma's of Livonia on Schoolcraft Road, west of Inkster Road.

Things have certainly changed since 1963 when the first Town Hall meeting took place, including the focus. Many women today work and have children:

As a result, attendance has decreased recently at the meetings, but a new audience is being tapped.

"We have to appeal to the woman of today," said Mary Weber, president of Livonia Town Hall. "We know she's out there. We just need to know what she wants." One plan to tap that market is to switch the town hall series to evenings, so working women can attend.

FOR NOW, the focus has been to line-up notable, news-making guest speakers. Organizers of the Livonia Town Hall appear to have been successful. This year's speakers pack a heavy set of credentials.

• Novak is a ghostwriter. He will

William Novak

co-author with first lady Nancy Reagan on her memoirs. He's collaborated on autobiographical works with former House speaker Tip O'Neill, The Mayflower Madam and Chrysler chairman Lee Iacocca.

Other books he's written include "High Culture: Marijuana in the Lives of Americans" and "The Great American Man Shortage and Other Roadblocks to Romance."

• McBride not only packs literary punch, she tickles the funny bone as well. McBride has been a humor writer for Phyllis Diller for 23 years and has worked with Diller on her books. Comedienne Joan Rivers also uses her humor material.

McBride's own books include "Please Don't Call Me Collect on Mother's Day" and "Grandma Knows Best, But Nobody Listens."

• Shine brings the headlines to the podium. The retired senior managing editor of the Detroit Free Press writes a column twice-weekly and is moderator of "Detroit Week in Review" on Channel 56. He is also a professor of journalism at Oakland University.

• Solomon is an entertainment and feature reporter for Channel 2 "Eyewitness News" and hosts a celebrity interview program on WWJ-AM "Lunch at the Witney."

NAME A star and she has probably taken his or her photo and held an interview. She is a well-known photojournalist, working at the Detroit News.

Writing shows off intellect

Dear Ms. Green,

I was taught to write in parochial school where every letter had to be perfect by the book and received good grades!

I do a lot of writing, but a new person typing my memos has trouble reading my script at first. A neighbor taught me calligraphy when I was in grade school.

Thank you for an analysis of my handwriting.

R.K.
Livonia.

Dear R.K.

It comes as no surprise that you received good grades while in school. I would be totally surprised if you told me otherwise!

A high level of intellect and wide interests are pervasive in this handwriting. To you a mental challenge is as enjoyable as a Dove ice cream bar is to me!

Your greatest gift, however, may be your facility with words. People are attracted to you winning conversational style. You can scintillate with clever, witty remarks.

The departure you have from the slavish copybook handwriting you learned in parochial school points out the changes in your personality that I find.

First of all, it strikes me that you may be running away from certain things in your past. Have you, perhaps, moved into a new lifestyle or something of this nature?

It also seems possible you may feel superior to the family name or to person or persons represented by it.

Lorene Green

I was taught to write in parochial school where every letter had to be perfect and received good grades. I do a lot of writing but a new person typing my memos has trouble reading my script at first. A neighbor taught me calligraphy when I was in grade school.

Remnants of an early life trauma, which you have not completely resolved, are here as is some frustration. And your perception of what women should be can also be somewhat limited.

At times you come on strong in your desire to make a favorable impression. And you want others to see you, as more sophisticated than you feel!

People around you soon find you are willing to share your time, talent and compassion with you. Still you also have a very strong need for time alone. And you dislike people prying into your personal life. I realize this may sound contradictory. It probably is, and I think you often experience contradictory feelings.

Careerwise, you are goal directed, persistent and disciplined. You are a dependable worker and strive for perfection in each undertaking. Nothing less than your best effort will satisfy you.

Your memory is retentive and you are very observant and well organized. Even the smallest detail does not escape your watchful eyes. However, fulfillment appears to be calling you.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, a 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, birthdate and handedness are all helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome.

Literary notables will highlight Town Hall's anniversary year

Bennett Serf was the speaker at the first meeting in October 1983 at the Terrace Theater. Dorothy Blacklock of Livonia remembers. She was the first Town Hall president that inaugural year.

"It was a lot of fun and it was a lot of work," Blacklock said. "One thing we had to learn was that we couldn't please everyone. Someone always had a complaint about something.

"Not only did it educate the women of the community, it educated them on various topics."

Livonia Town Hall originally donated proceeds to American Field Service, which helped students pay for their trips overseas to study. Currently, Town Hall gives money to First Step and the Rosalyn Bryant Fund. Last year, both received $250 donations.

Livonia Town Hall tickets for the 1988-89 season are $35 for patron, $30 for sponsor and $25 for season. Make checks payable to Livonia Town Hall, 18420 Laurel, Livonia 48150. For more information, call 474-7213 or 425-4554. Luncheon reservations for all four speakers in the series are $35 a person. Make checks payable to Livonia Town Hall, 37664 Kingsbury, Livonia 48154. For more information, call 464-0528 or 591-1997.

Hall of Fame honors 8 women's efforts

Eight women, including Fran Harris of Westland, have been selected by the Michigan Women's Studies Association as the 1988 honorees for the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame.

Louise L. Sally Brown, Marcia J. Federbush, Harris, M. Jane Kay and Agnes Mary Mansour have been selected for the contemporary honors division, while the late Dr. Ethelene Crockett, Helen Mandeville Martin and Sarah Goddard Power have been selected for the historical honors division.

"Each woman is or was an outstanding individual," said Dr. Gladys Beckwith, president of the association. "Their contributions to Michigan and to women in general have been valuable. We're fortunate in the choices our (selection) committees make... even more fortunate in the caliber of women who have lived in Michigan."

The Michigan Women's Hall of Fame was founded by the association to compensate for the omissions in history of women's contributions in Michigan.

Brown, a Grosse Pointe resident, is a pioneer in child care and development. She served on the faculty of the Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit from 1947 to 1964 and also developed a variety of means to support family life and reduce long term financial dependence at the Brewster-Douglass Housing Project. She served as on-site administrator from 1964 to 1966.

Brown was the first director of the Detroit/Wayne County Child Care Coordinating Council, helped formed the Grosse Pointe Human Relations Council, and served as vice chairman of the committee to relocate families burned out during the 1967 riots.

FEDERBUSH of Ann Arbor produced the first study of sex discrimination in a school system. She also collaborated in the writing of the first policy proposal to eliminate sex discrimination in all phases of school life that was passed by a school board.

She authored and filed the first Title IX complaint in this country against the University of Michigan for gross discrimination against women in athletics.

Federbush is currently an equal opportunity specialist for the U.S. Employment Opportunity Commission. She also has served as a consultant to several school districts and education departments in other states and has authored many articles on sexual discrimination.

1987. Kay of Grosse Pointe Farms is a pioneer female executive in a non-traditional role as vice president of administration for Detroit Edison. She began working for Edison as a young girl in the paymaster's office and switched her college major from accounting to personnel management when she noticed women making better money in personnel.

KAY WAS the first woman to be elected vice president of the board of the formerly all male Detroit Economic Club and the first woman member of the President's Cabinet of Detroit Edison.

In 1970 she was named one of the top 10 working women in Detroit and serves on the Executive Board of the First of America Bank, a rare paying board position for women executives.

Mansour of Lansing has distinguished herself in the corporate, academic, religious and political arenas as president of Mercy College of Detroit from 1971 to 1983. She became a national symbol during her first year as director of the Department of Social Services when controversy arose regarding her role as a nun and that of a human services director.

Sarah Goddard Power

She eventually was given a papal ultimatum to leave her DSS position or the Sisters of Mercy. Mansour chose to leave the religious order.

She currently serves on the board of directors of Michigan Bell Telephone and National Bank of Detroit.

Crockett, the late wife of U.S. Rep. George Crockett, entered Howard University medical school when she was 28 years old and the mother of three children. She became Michigan's first black woman specializing in obstetrics and gynecology and practiced medicine for 35 years.

In 1972, she led the fight to liberalize the state's abortion laws and in 1977, was selected Physician of the Year by the Detroit Medical Society. She also was the first woman president of the American Lung Association and was instrumental in setting up Detroit's Model Cities health care program.

MARTIN DIED in 1973 but not before becoming a noted conservationist and prolific writer. She worked as an economic geologist, editor and director of the Land Economic Survey for the current Department of Natural Resources.

Marcia Federbush

She also was a compiler of geologic maps, lecturer and research geologist. The compilation of the centennial geological map of Michigan in 1936 and the surface formations map of Michigan in 1955 were her outstanding accomplishments.

Some of her noteworthy books were "They Need Not Vanish," "N-Saw-Je-Won (The Story of the Great Lakes)" and "Rocks and Minerals of Michigan."

Power died in Ann Arbor in 1987. Her major contributions were to the advancement of higher education, affirmative action and human rights and as a champion of freedom for the international press.

She was a regent at the University of Michigan for 12 years, where she worked to place women and minorities in faculty and administrative positions and to secure the university's status as a world-class research organization.

She served as a deputy assistant secretary in the U.S. Department of State under President Jimmy Carter and was responsible for U.S. policy for UNESCO and other specialized United Nations agencies.

Power also chaired the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO and served as a delegate to four worldwide United Nations-related conferences.

In the United Nations Decade for Women, 1975-85, Powers played an important role in drafting the World Plan of Action for the economic, social and personal status of women worldwide.

The women will be honored during the fifth annual Celebration of Michigan Women's Dinner Tuesday, Oct. 27, at the Southfield Hilton Inn. Dinner tickets cost $60 each, while tickets for a special pre-dinner reception for the honorees cost $75 each.

Information and tickets can be obtained by writing the Michigan Women's Historical Center and Hall of Fame, 213 W. Main St., Lansing 48933 or by calling (517) 484-1880.

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will hold a series of six classes designed to dispel myths about cholesterol, personalized daily fat allowances, foods high in cholesterol and the saturated fat mystique.

Classes will be from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, beginning Oct. 3. There is a charge of $55 per person or $80 per couple. For more information, call 464-4800.

The hospital also is offering a quit smoking class from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, beginning Oct. 3. The class is free, but pre-registration is necessary. For information call 464-4800, Ext. 2469.

CARDIAC CARE

Pre-registration will be accepted through Tuesday, Oct. 4, for an advanced cardiac support preparation class, offered by the St. Mary Hospital Department of Education and Health Promotion.

The classes are designed to prepare nurses for successful completion of the ACLS certification course and provide a review in management of the patient in a cardiac emergency. The fee is $35 and classes will be Oct. 18, 20, 25, 27 and Nov. 1 and 2.

The hospital also will offer a basic life support — Course C Oct. 13. The deadline for registering is Oct. 6.

The course is for physicians, dentists, nurses, medical and nursing students and other medical personnel. Participants will be certified in one- and two-man adult CPR rescue, infant resuscitation and management of the victim with and obstructed airway.

For information, call 464-4800, Ext. 2313.

PERSONAL WELLNESS

Madonna College's continuing education department is offering personal-wellness seminars Tuesdays through Nov. 29 at the college, Levan at Schoolcraft in Livonia.

The sessions meet from 7:30 p.m. The topics include "Finding Time for Me" on Oct. 4; "Beating the Blues — A Holistic Approach to Overcoming Depression" on Oct. 18; "Putting the Cake Aside — Overcoming Compulsive Eating" on Nov. 1; "Beyond Tears — Growing through Losses" on Nov. 15; and "What Will I be When I Grow Up — Facing the Midlife Transitions" on Nov. 29.

The cost is $10 per lesson, or $50 for all six sessions. Pre-registration is required and can be completed by calling the continuing education office at 591-5188.

RELAXATION

Elizabeth Szilagyi will present a program on mental health from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 5, at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension and Education Building at 5454 Venoy Road, Wayne.

The morning lecture will be "Relax, It's good for You," with the 12:30 session entitled "Mental House Cleaning, Coping Skills and Visualization."

The program is sponsored by the Wayne County Association of Extension Homemakers. For information, call 728-5489.

ASTHMA LECTURE

"Smoking and the Asthmatic" will be the topic of a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 5, in Conference Room 4 of Henry Ford Medical Center — Fairlane, Dearborn.

Dr. Carol DeVore, an allergist, will lead the discussion and participants will find out how smoking and a smoky environment affects people with asthma.

The lectures are free, but advanced registration is required. For more information, call 593-8183.

EYE CARE

If you know disadvantaged elderly people who need eye care, ask them to call this toll-free helpline: 1-800-222-EYES. Eligible callers will be referred to a nearby eye physician and surgeon who will provide the care at no out-of-pocket cost. The National Eye Care Project is sponsored by the state society of eye physicians and surgeons and the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Be a star

You can find out what an actor or actress does and how small bits of acting are joined together to create a scene in an acting for film course being offered next month at the Livonia Public School's Bentley Center. Registration is currently being accepted for the course, which will be 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning Oct. 26. No experience is needed and camera and lighting opportunities will be available. Filming also will be an integral part of the class. For more information about the class, call 344-4850.

● RELIGIOUS FREEDOM WEEK

The United States House of Representatives recently passed a House Joint Resolution calling for the week of Sept. 25 to be designated as Religious Freedom Week.

The resolution, which is co-sponsored by 225 U.S. representatives and 70 U.S. senators, calls upon the nation to celebrate its heritage of religious liberty. The resolution specifically aims at religious liberty being endangered throughout history by "bigotry and indifference" and individual rights to worship freely or not be religious by choice, "without interference from governmental or other agencies."

The resolution was introduced jointly by U.S. Reps Helen Bentley, R-Md., and Mervyn Dymally, D-Calif., in the House of Representatives and Sens. Clairborne Pell, D-R.I., and John Chafee (R-R.I.) in the Senate.

Senators Donald Riegle Jr. and Carl Levin and Congressmen Bill Schuette, Frederick Upton, Paul Henry, William Broomfield, Carl Pursell, John Conyers Jr. and Robert Davis from Michigan co-sponsored the bill.

Previous CROP Walks, like this one in 1985, have raised more than $35,000 for hunger programs at home and abroad.

Livonia churches team up in an effort to fight hunger

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Livonia CROP Walk is designed to feed the hungry. But it also nourishes the starving ecumenical movement within the city's church community.

Some 20 Livonia churches, representing a wide variety of denominations, will participate in this year's Livonia CROP Walk for the Hungry. The 10-kilometer walk takes place from 1:30-5 p.m. Sunday. The route begins and ends at Grand River Baptist Church in Livonia.

In five years of CROP Walks, the number of local congregations participating has been anywhere from 15 to 20. Organizers would like to see more involved, especially since there are more than 60 churches in Livonia.

"I'm kind of surprised by the lack of an ecumenical movement here in Livonia," said the Rev. Ron Cary of Grand River Baptist Church in Livonia, who is coordinating this year's walk. "I'm kind of dismayed by it. But some of us are still trying."

Anywhere from 200 to 300 people are expected to walk this year, trying to raise money to fight hunger throughout the world and at home. Locally, the walk is sponsored by the Livonia Ministerial Association and the CROP Walk Committee.

CROP is part of the Church World Service, an international agency of more than 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

THE GOAL of CROP is to provide assistance to economically strapped areas of the world, not only by supplying immediate help, but through assistance to make people more self-sufficient.

Event: Fifth Annual Livonia CROP Walk for the Hungry

Date: Sunday, Oct. 2

Time: 1:30-5 p.m.

Place: The 10-kilometer walk begins and ends at Grand River Baptist Church, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia.

Local sponsors: Livonia Ministerial Association and the Livonia CROP committee.

Participants: Grand River Baptist, St. Aidan Catholic, St. Edith Catholic, Livonia Church of Christ, Riverside Park Church of God, Ascension Lutheran, Christ Our Savior Lutheran, Timothy Lutheran, Schoolcraft College's Newman Center, St. Matthew United Methodist, Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian, St. Paul Presbyterian, St. Timothy Presbyterian, Holy Trinity Lutheran, Clarencville United Methodist, Church of the Savior Reformed in America, St. Maurice Catholic and St. Priscilla Catholic.

The first four Livonia CROP Walks have raised more than $35,000. Yet the money has been raised with support from less than half the churches in Livonia.

At least 25 percent of the money goes to area food programs, such as Livonia FISH, the Community Depot of St. Vincent de Paul and Detroit Christian Communication Council's Weekend Meals Program for Senior Adults.

One reason is simply that many churches have their own hunger programs, which keep them busy. Another reason, Cary points out, might be because Church World Service is under the umbrella of the National Council of Churches in Christ.

Cary said all the money raised goes for CROP hunger projects, not for any administrative services of the NCCC.

This year, there's a considerable cross section of denominations participating in the walk, including Baptist, Catholic, Presbyterian, United Methodist, Lutheran, Church of God and Church of the Reformed Savior. Joyce Barton, publicity chairwoman for the CROP Walk, said they have added "four or five" new churches this year.

Though the event is designed to help a serious problem, there's usually a festive atmosphere at CROP walks. There are clowns and balloons. People eight weeks to 80 of age have walked in previous CROP events.

WHEN THE entourage strolls through a neighborhood, people usually pop out of their houses and asked about the walk. Money is raised by the participants, who receive pledges from sponsors. Their work includes collecting the money from sponsors after the walk. Along with the exercise factor, people who walk also enjoy the social aspect of it.

"You meet with others from congregations who share the same concerns about world hunger," Cary said. "We tend to get isolated in our own congregations and we don't realize there are others who are concerned about feeding the hungry. CROP Walks help point that out."

Our anthem can be a 'beautiful' number

What does Ray Charles have in common with Katherine Lee Bates? Such a question may sound as if it were lifted from a game of trivia. The answer is that they both like the song "America the Beautiful." Bates wrote the song and Charles thinks that we should adopt it as our national anthem.

The idea is not a new one. Others agree with Charles and many before have made the same suggestion. There are, of course, many others who would fight to keep "The Star Spangled Banner" in its place of honor.

Change of any kind does not wear well on some. Others believe that tradition serves loyalty regardless of the cost.

Recently, I was informed that the "Star Spangled Banner" should be left in place because it has always been there. So I asked those proponents of "Oh, say can you see . . ." when this song became our national anthem.

I was given a variety of dates. Most put it somewhere in the mid-19th century while more than one guessed 1776. The actual date, of course, is 1891. Forever is apparently relative.

ONE DOES not need a master's degree in music to realize the difficulty in staging our present national anthem. A degree in having been to a ball game will be sufficient to point out the difficulty in hitting the range notes required. Musical difficulty is not, however, the only consideration.

Anthems, like symbols and other rituals, send a message about the people who sing or perform them. They also serve to perpetuate the way a group thinks and believes.

What statement better characterizes our nation as we would like to see it? Might it be a statement which is enthrilled with war where death rains from the skies?

Or do we prefer to see ourselves as a people proud of the beauty around us and committed to brotherhood — or sisterhood — from sea to sea?

I would like to think that most of us would vote for the latter.

However, the words that Francis Scott Key gave to an English drinking song as he watched the shelling of a fort in the War of 1812 sing a far different tune. They betray more enchantment with bombs and the fiery death delivered by rockets than with brotherhood or beauty.

Perhaps we would become a people more representative of what we claim as our values if we adopted a different song for the official statement of who we are.

MUCH HAS been said lately concerning allegiances to the flag. Flags are symbols and allegiances belong more properly to the truth than the symbols attempt to express.

The Rev. Robert Schaden is with Newman House Campus Ministry at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

WHAT MAKES GREATER DETROIT?

Greater Detroit includes more than our great City of Detroit. It encompasses the great Counties of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb. Like many urban areas, we've seen our share of problems. But business and government are working to address key issues and build on our strengths. These strengths are more than our natural resources, our beautiful environment, our world renowned cultural, educational and research centers. Greater Detroit's greatest strength is people. Inventive and creative people who brought the world cars who brought the world music. And now the world is looking to us for technology.

WHAT MAKES GREATER DETROIT GREAT?

Throughout the U.S., certain cities have become synonymous with major industries. Pittsburgh is the city of steel. Dallas is the oil capital. And Detroit is the Motor City. But since that day Henry Ford introduced the technology of the assembly line, the Motor City has seen tremendous diversification. The car industry's constant searching for improved products has led us into the world of technology. The auto industry developed advanced technologies, bought them, sold them and used them to build new manufacturing cities like Detroit's Chrysler Jefferson and the new state-of-the-art GM assembly plant. It also brought high technology businesses like Bosch and Mazda to our area. In Greater Detroit, businesses like these have created more than 200,000 new jobs since 1982.

ALLEYS AND CORRIDORS FULL OF TECHNOLOGY

According to The London Economist magazine, Greater Detroit is today's "fastest growing high-tech" corridor in the United States—faster than California's Silicon Valley, faster even than Boston's Route 128.

And Greater Detroit's long stretch of advanced manufacturing companies has inspired The Wall Street Journal to dub it "Automation Alley". For example, companies like GMF Robotics, EDS, Entech, Vohu Robotics, and Dveception have located here. The center for Machine Intelligence and the Industrial Technology Institute in Ann Arbor help industry apply basic research. Detroit's Metropolitan Center for High Technology houses and encourages entrepreneurial high tech companies. The Greater Detroit's auto giants have become giant investors in new manufacturing systems, which also have growing applications in non-auto manufacturing processes. In the Chrysler Technology Center in Auburn Hills, the Ford Scientific Labs in Dearborn, and the General Motors Tech Center in Warren are designing automated manufacturing systems for the 21st century.

There's an exciting synergy in Greater Detroit as research, innovation and application create unprecedented technological achievements and attract the best and brightest talent in the manufacturing industry. Ten percent of this country's engineers work in Michigan. In fact, no other area has a higher concentration of qualified scientists and engineers.

THE TECHNOLOGY OF HEALTH

Although the automotive industry has been the impetus for Greater Detroit's high technology, it is not the sole consumer. The health care industry relies on technology in every phase of medicine from research through rehabilitation. This full spectrum is exemplified by The Detroit Medical Center.

Commitment to technology has helped three Greater Detroit hospitals earn the honor of being featured in the recently published book The Best Hospitals in America. They are Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital and Specialty Centers, Detroit's Harper-Grace Hospitals and the University of Michigan Medical Center.

MAKING TECHNOLOGY TALK

Our ad agencies use the same state-of-the-art electronics as Hollywood.

In publishing, Greater Detroit has replaced New York as the publishing center for automotive magazines and newspapers.

And in the area of telecommunications, we are a leader. Our area was chosen as the site for one of the most advanced supercomputer networks.

DEGREES OF TECHNOLOGY

The colleges and universities of Greater Detroit have won national and international acclaim for their innovative educational and research programs in various areas of technology.

Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb community colleges, Lawrence Institute of Technology and the University of Detroit offer many advanced technology programs.

Oakland University collaborated with local industry to create the Oakland Technology Park. A 1,100-acre research and industrial center that will create 52,000 jobs by 1992.

Detroit's Wayne State University has attracted worldwide attention for research in superconductivity.

And over $200 million in research grants is awarded annually to the University of Michigan. Their research has led to discoveries in robotics, machine vision, automated handling systems and much more.

A DIRECT LINK TO COMMERCE

Greater Detroit has it over other cities both coming and going. Our sophisticated network of highways, rail lines and facilities makes travel and trade easy by land. Our international airport gives us quick access to the whole world. And our strategic location on the Detroit River provides a direct link to the St. Lawrence Seaway and international shipping lanes, as well as a link to trade and commerce with Canada.

OUR GREATER QUALITY OF LIFE

The quality of our technology is enhanced by our quality of life. Four fabulous seasons for skiing and sailing and dozens of other outdoor sports. Detroit's Institute of Arts, The Science Center, and Cranbrook, theaters and festivals. Some of the winningest professional sports teams. These are just a few highlights of the great life in Greater Detroit.

A WORLD TECHNOLOGY CENTER

What helps make Greater Detroit great is technology. We're creating new technologies for existing applications and creating new applications for existing technologies. From advanced manufacturing to advancing the state of health, Greater Detroit is not only on the leading edge, we're at the world center.

Fall fashions: Like reading a book

Fashion panel member Angela Denton models a richly matched back and tan fall shorts outfit from Marli Walker. Accessories are by Accents Jewelry.

IT WAS AS easy a reading a book at a recent Wonderland Mall fall fashion.

Chapter one introduced clothing pieces to fit into everyone's wardrobe of Little boy blues. Classic, trendy, baggy and fitted, dynamic denims are being spruced up in skirts, pants and jackets to fit a variety of tastes.

Chapter two surveyed on-the-go dressing for an action-packed fall. It was slacks, slacks and more slacks in subtle autumn shades to contrasting black and white checks. Comfortable casual wear was the theme, complimented with earthtone leather ankle boots and rustic accessories.

The plot thickened in chapter three with low-key, high-impact career dressing. Smart looking styles were introduced, including definitive dresses, suit alternatives and stand-out separates. They were for the career-minded person who's dressing for success.

Chapter four was a story in itself with an elegant variety of evening wear. Sensibly proportioned dressing accentuated sensuous shapes, cashmere classics with shimmer and shine, black velvet pantsuits plus many other tasteful evening clothes to create a double-take at the uptown bash.

The show stealers, however, were the youngsters, who modeled children's wear at the beginning of each segment. They modeled denim blues like the older models as well as casual and back-to-school. Their final appearance was in party dresses.

Carrie Durante models back-to-school clothes from Mylo's Children's Wear at Wonderland Mall.

Heather McNeil and Cindy Boyes shimmer and shine in evening fashions from Gantos, with accessories by Accents Jewelry.

Embroiderer's art—songs in textiles

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

YERANOUIE H. Gotting-Haldostian came from Germany to Bloomfield Hills to visit her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. Berj and Alice Haldostian, with a mission in mind.

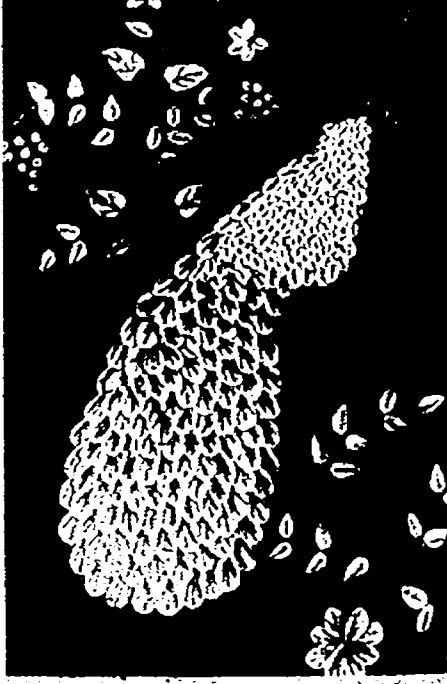

True, she was bringing special gifts for her nieces and nephew, but more than that she was bringing a rich, priceless heritage to share with the Armenian community.

Gotting-Haldostian (in German, the married and maiden names are reversed) has been collecting Armenian needlework for 50 years. She has studied, researched and traveled the world to find the finest examples possible of this art form, which dates back thousands of years.

She remembers the day it took root, her 13th birthday. Her family lived in Turkish Armenia. "I was expecting a pair of silk stockings — that was the fashion then. So you can imagine how I felt when I was given two exquisite, lace trimmed hankies. My mother noticed my disappointment and said, 'The eyes have to drink beauty to quench the thirst of the soul.'"

From then on the young woman became increasingly aware and appreciative of fine stitchery. She perfected her own skills. "Embroidery is a type of art which can be appreciated only if you understand it. For me, the top criterion is the quality of the stitch. Second is its execution. It must be perfect in detail, the finer, the better."

SHE LISTED HISTORICAL significance, historical association and folklore value as other important considerations. Since embroidery was such an integral part of the life of Armenian women at every level, from peasant to princess, it is intricately tied to the history of the people — how and where they lived, where they traveled, what they wore, how they furnished their homes, how they celebrated holi-

The embroidery enlightens on all these subjects, Gotting-Haldostian said. For instance, certain stitches are peculiar to isolated Armenian settlements in Turkey. Variations of these can be found in communities where there was more contact with the outside world.

"Irga is the purest Armenian stitch, and is a Marash stitch; but in India and Pakistan, the festive costumes are often decorated with Irga, inserting small round mirrors into the design. Marash Armenian immigrants to Madras, Calcutta and to Bombay have fecundated the country with their favorite stitch."

Another stitch she has traced in her writings is Aintab. The Crusaders brought it from the Armenians back to Europe where the missionaries then took it to China. "Otherwise, how could China, the grandmaster of embroidery, the artist of the most exquisite coloured-stitches, be the mother and producer of a mediocre drawn-thread stitch," she writes.

But for all the treasures of fine needlework she had displayed, none was more impressive than the embroidery on ecu silk spread out on the dining room table.

The pieces were a curtain with matching sheers. Embroidered on the curtain are full-size intricately worked green chestnut tree leaves edged in gold thread and chestnuts in various stages of splitting open. On the sheers are dragon flies and stars in gold thread.

"If I had not heard of the Baghdasarian School in Turkey — my father (a teacher) sent a student there — I would never have known about this," she said.

THE SCHOOL, where silkworm culture is taught, is in Brussa and is famous for its silk, chestnut trees and for its embroidery, she said.

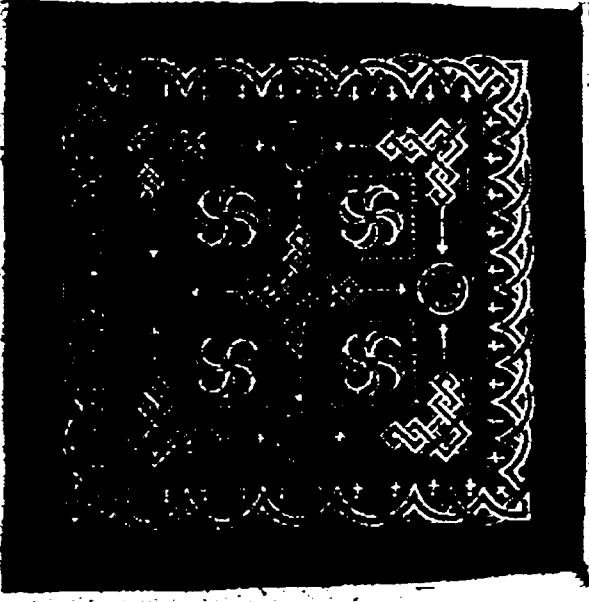

She knew about the piece before she found it, quite by accident, in Athens after making it known that she was interested in acquiring fine embroidery. Another customer had asked the dealer to split it because it was too big (which he did) before deciding not to buy it. Gotting-Haldostian took the money she had put aside for a fur coat to buy it, even though she was terribly distressed that the masterpiece had been cut.

She is certain it all was done by one artist. "These must have been made to sing the glories of Brussa," she said. The wings of the dragonflies (in various positions), made with gold and silver thread are not attached to the silk. The thread is 14 and 18 carat gold and silver with gold plate.

"To make lace (the wings) with metal thread is a torture. If you have never worked gold thread, you can't possibly know the difficulty. If it turns, it breaks."

She looked at the yards of embroi-

Staff photos by Jerry Zolynsky

The design of this work in shades of orange, red and gold on dark brown velvet goes back to those done found on the khatchkars (grave stones) of old Armenia. The circle is the symbol of eternity.

The wings of the dragon fly are only attached to the silk at the tip. Each of these files is slightly different in position and development.

Yeranouhie H. Gotting-Haldostian uses a magnifying glass to explain the intricacies of the embroidery that depicts the beauties of the chestnut trees of Brussa, Turkey, made by an Armenian genius with the needle.

dered silk before her on the table, with its pencil thin embroidered gold lines and pin-size mounds of gold dots and said — "to do this with metal is something only angels can do — to do a line like this with gold thread is beyond comprehension and description."

PATIENCE DOES pay off. It took her 12 years to acquire a collection of needlework flowers, actual size and botanically correct, made by a woman.

The work is so intricate that it is difficult to conceive of the time it must have taken to make each one. The colors of each honeysuckle were carefully chosen to indicate which blooms have just come out and which have passed their peak. Gotting-Haldostian pointed to a relationship between these intricate nose-gay-size bouquets and the flowers that often edge the beautiful-sheer headscarf of an Armenian bride.

In her conversation, she calls those who made the articles in her collection "singers with a needle." Her opening statement in her treatise on embroidery is "Art in any form is a channel of communication through which the heart-beats of a people, hence of humanity can be heard."

Where to see the needlework

There will be two exhibits of the embroidery and needlework collected by Yeranouhie H. Gotting-Haldostian in the next few weeks — at Bellan Art Center of Troy and the Recreation Center of St. John Armenian Church of Southfield.

The works titled, "Singers with a Needle: Masterpieces of Armenian Needlework and Embroidery," will be at the Bellan Art Center, 5980

Rochester Road (at Square Lake), Troy, Oct. 1-6. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Closed Sunday.

The exhibit at St. John Recreation Center, 2201 Northwestern, Southfield will be Thursday-Sunday, Oct. 13-16. Hours are 7-10 p.m. Thursday; 8-10 p.m. Friday, 2-10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. No charge for either exhibit. Public welcome.

While visiting her brother, Dr. Berj Haldostian of Bloomfield Hills, Yeranouhie H. Gotting-Haldostian wanted to share again her enthusiasm for needlework. Here they admire a life-size flower made with needle and thread by an Armenian woman who lived in Bierut.

Japan loves these talented musicians

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Harpist Kerstin Allvin of Bloomfield Hills wasn't sure what to expect when she went on a two-month performing tour of Japan and China with flutist Laura Larson late last summer.

Larson, 37, head of the flute at CCS-Institut of Music and Dance, performed and studied there for a year in 1986. Not so for Allvin; 27. This was her first trip to the orient and she was in for some surprises, both pleasant and humorous.

They will return later this month as guests for a special concert for the Toyota City International Association's promotion of international exchanges. They will perform the Mozart Concerto for Flute and Harp with the Toyota City Philharmonic as well as solos.

As Allvin spoke of the concerts they gave in Japan — in small communities and major cities, in grand concert halls and modest settings such as a candlemaker's home — she made an overall observation.

"They are so appreciative. They love Western classical music and they are familiar with Western repertoire — even the children. They love Bizet and famous opera arias."

SHE PAUSED and added something that had obviously surprised her. "Strangely enough they love Stephen Foster songs. They know all the words and could sing along in English. So for encoures we would play songs such as 'My Old Kentucky Home,' 'Camptown Races' and 'Oh! Susanna.' And they liked Irish tunes, 'Annie Lulla,' 'Daddy Boy,' and 'Last Rose of Summer.'"

Then as if to summarize she said, "The Japanese soak up Western culture. They want to be like Americans. China is different. I got the impression they didn't like foreigners."

However, she said that when they performed in Beijing (for more than 700 people) she knew they loved the music and the concert.

"I was very impressed with the Beijing Conservatory of Music," she said as she described their tour of that as well as trips to the Great Wall, the Forbidden City and the Summer Palace.

But she and Larson obviously felt they had actually experienced more of Japan than China where they were carefully chaperoned. "In Japan, we traveled by train and in a van with the harp and our tons of luggage. We went by van when we crossed the Japanese Alps over little, tiny roads. Sometimes we stayed at hotels and sometimes with families. We spent several days at our manager's Swiss style chalet at the base of Mt. Fuji."

"I really enjoyed staying with the families. I ate their food and slept on a mat on the floor (in the Japanese tradition)."

And apparently Alps is Alps, no matter where they happen to be. The people of the Japanese Alps love Swiss music and yes, they did bring out a couple of their youngsters who were expert yodelers to perform for the American duo.

It is easy to believe that Allvin and Larson endeared themselves to the Japanese. Allvin, with her beautiful head of honey blond curly hair and large, shining blue eyes, has the look of an ingenue. Yet, she is poised, mature and gracious.

Her comments and observations about the six-week trip were, with few exceptions, upbeat. Both she and Larson made the most of every moment. They enjoyed the people, the sights, the many side trips. They asked questions and were eager to see and learn everything they could.

But, "When I got back to the U.S., I was very thankful for where I lived."

THE QUALITY of the music these two presented in Japan is substantial. They played works by Martin Scot Kosins (of Michigan) as well as Mozart, Dvorak, Debussy, Pachelbel, Faure, Martin, Donizetti and Rossini. Allvin and Larson sold every copy of a tape highlighting their musical program.

The tape is only available here by ordering from Allvin at 642-5097. She has also recorded her own new wave compositions with electric harp and (non electric) harp and synthesizer. That recording is available through Harmony House.

She and her father, Ray Allvin, who works closely with her as advisor/representative, agree that classical music is her first love. Yet, she said she has found a niche in modern music. "I love to write and arrange."

The two tapes show her diverse talents, something else that probably made the Japanese want the Allvin/Larson Duo for another tour. They will return next summer for a three-week tour and will play with the Osaka Philharmonic in March of 1990. Next February they will be doing a small tour in Florida.

Their recent tour was sponsored by the Walbro Corporation of Cass City and Columbia Coffee. Allvin said she hoped to find a sponsor so they could perform the Toyota City concerts locally in a few weeks.

Laura Larson, left, flute, and Kerstin Allvin, harp, are already booked for several more concert trips to Japan. Larson studied and performed there two years ago and returned this summer for six weeks with Allvin who was seeing it for the first time.

Embroiderer's art—songs in textiles

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

YERANOUIE H. Gotting-Haldostian came from Germany to Bloomfield Hills to visit her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. Berj and Alice Haldostian, with a mission in mind.

True, she was bringing special gifts for her nieces and nephew, but more than that she was bringing a rich, priceless heritage to share with the Armenian community.

Gotting-Haldostian (in German, the married and maiden names are reversed) has been collecting Armenian needlework for 50 years. She has studied, researched and traveled the world to find the finest examples possible of this art form, which dates back thousands of years.

She remembers the day it took root, her 13th birthday. Her family lived in Turkish Armenia. "I was expecting a pair of silk stockings — that was the fashion then. So you can imagine how I felt when I was given two exquisite, lace trimmed hankies. My mother noticed my disappointment and said, 'The eyes have to drink beauty to quench the thirst of the soul.'"

From then on the young woman became increasingly aware and appreciative of fine stitchery. She perfected her own skills. "Embroidery is a type of art which can be appreciated only if you understand it. For me, the top criterion is the quality of the stitch. Second is its execution. It must be perfect in detail, the finer, the better."

SHE LISTED HISTORICAL significance, historical association and folklore value as other important considerations. Since embroidery was such an integral part of the life of Armenian women at every level, from peasant to princess, it is intricately tied to the history of the people — how and where they lived, where they traveled, what they wore, how they furnished their homes, how they celebrated holidays, their history and folklore.

The embroidery enlightens on all these subjects, Gotting-Haldostian said. For instance, certain stitches are peculiar to isolated Armenian settlements in Turkey. Variations of these can be found in communities where there was more contact with the outside world.

"Irga is the purest Armenian stitch, and is a Marash stitch, but in India and Pakistan, the festive costumes are often decorated with Irga, inserting small round mirrors into the design. Marash Armenian immigrants to Madras, Calcutta and to Bombay have fecundated the country with their favorite stitch."

Another stitch she has traced in her writings is Aintab. The Crusaders brought it from the Armenians back to Europe where the missionaries then took it to China. "Otherwise, how could China, the grandmaster of embroidery, the artist of the most exquisite coloured stitches, be the mother and producer of a mediocre drawn-thread stitch," she writes.

But for all the treasures of fine needlework she has displayed, none was more impressive than the embroidery on ecu silk spread out on the dining room table.

The pieces were a curtain with matching sheers. Embroidered on the curtain are full-size intricately worked green chestnut tree leaves edged in gold thread and chestnuts in various stages of splitting open. On the sheers are dragon flies and stars in gold thread.

"If I had not heard of the Baghdasarian School in Turkey — my father (a teacher) sent a student there — I would never have known about this," she said.

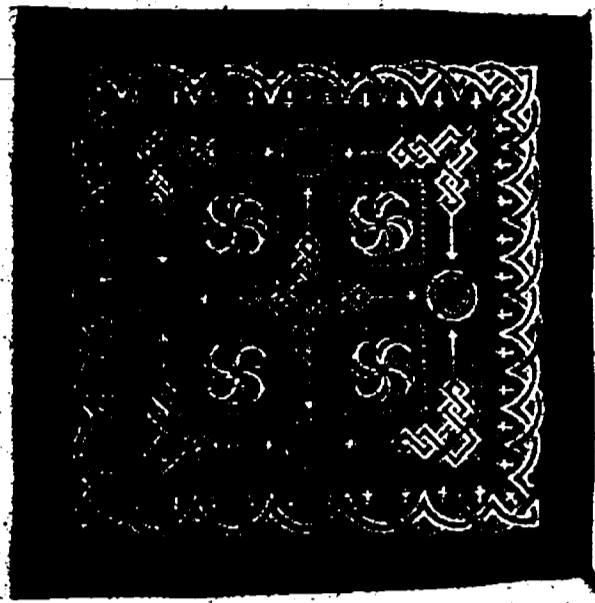

THE SCHOOL, where silkworm culture is taught, is in Brussa and is famous for its silk, chestnut trees and for its embroidery, she said.

She knew about the piece before she found it, quite by accident, in Athens after making it known that she was interested in acquiring fine embroidery. Another customer had asked the dealer to split it because it was too big (which he did) before deciding not to buy it. Gotting-Haldostian took the money she had put aside for a fur coat to buy it, even though she was terribly distressed that the masterpiece had been cut.

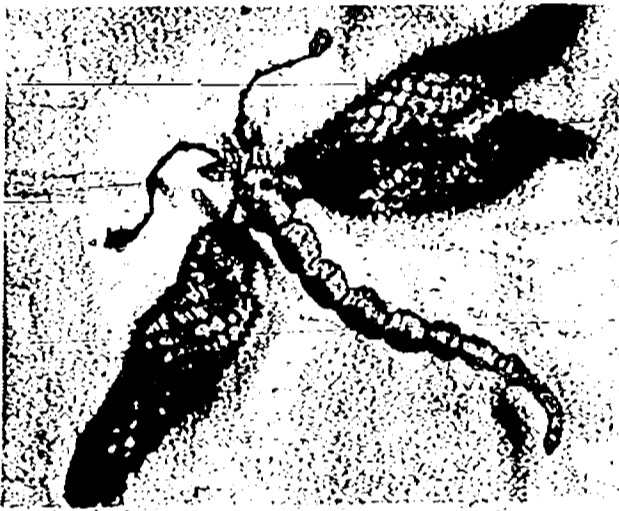

She is certain it all was done by one artist. "These must have been made to sing the glories of Brussa," she said. The wings of the dragonflies (in various positions), made with gold and silver thread are not attached to the silk. The thread is 14 and 18 carat gold and silver with gold plate.

"To make lace (the wings) with metal thread is a torture. If you have never worked gold thread, you can't possibly know the difficulty. If it turns, it breaks."

She looked at the yards of embroi-

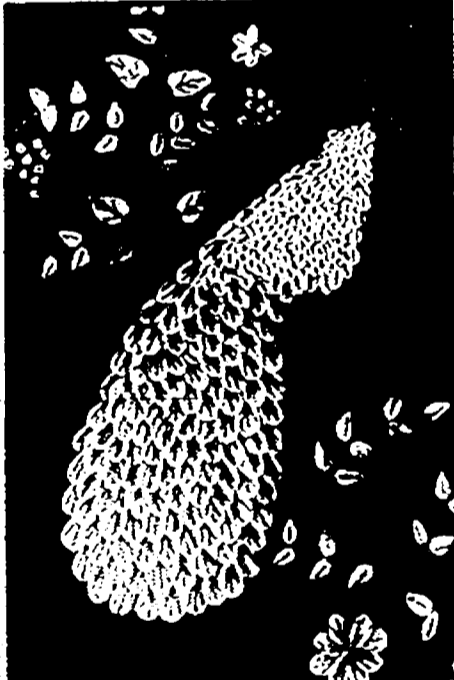

The design of this work in shades of orange, red and gold on dark brown velvet goes back to those done found on the khatchkara (grave stones) of old Armenia. The circle is the symbol of eternity.

The wings of the dragon fly are only attached to the silk at the tip. Each of these flies is slightly different in position and development.

Yeranouhie H. Gotting-Haldostian uses a magnifying glass to explain the intricacies of the embroidery that depicts the beauties of the chestnut trees of Brussa, Turkey, made by an Armenian genius with the needle.

dered silk before her on the table, with its pencil thin embroidered gold lines and pin-size mounds of gold dots and said — "to do this with metal is something only angels can do — to do a line like this with gold thread is beyond comprehension and description."

PATIENCE DOES pay off. It took her 12 years to acquire a collection of needlework flowers, actual size and botanically correct, made by a woman.

The work is so intricate that it is difficult to conceive of the time it must have taken to make each one. The colors of each honeysuckle were carefully chosen to indicate which blooms have just come out, and which have passed their peak. Gotting-Haldostian pointed to a relationship between these intricate nose-gay-size bouquets and the flowers that often edge the beautiful sheer headscarf of an Armenian bride.

In her conversation, she calls those who made the articles in her collection "singers with a needle." Her opening statement in her treatise on embroidery is "Art in any form is a channel of communication through which the heart-beats of a people, hence of humanity can be heard."

Where to see the needlework

There will be two exhibits of the embroidery and needlework collected by Yeranouhie H. Gotting-Haldostian in the next few weeks — at Bellan Art Center of Troy and the Recreation Center of St. John Armenian Church of Southfield.

The works titled, "Singers with a Needle: Masterpieces of Armenian Needlework and Embroidery," will be at the Bellan Art Center, 5980

Rochester Road (at Square Lake), Troy, Oct. 1-6. Hours are 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Closed Sunday.

The exhibit at St. John Recreation Center, 2201 Northwestern, Southfield, will be Thursday-Sunday, Oct. 13-16. Hours are 7-10 p.m. Thursday, 8-10 p.m. Friday, 2-10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. No charge for either exhibition. Public welcome.

While visiting her brother, Dr. Berj Haldostian of Bloomfield Hills, Yeranouhie H. Gotting-Haldostian wanted to share again her enthusiasm for needlework. Here they admire a life-size flower made with needle and thread by an Armenian woman who lived in Blerut.

Japan loves these talented musicians

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Harpist Kerstin Allvin of Bloomfield Hills wasn't sure what to expect when she went on a two-month performing tour of Japan and China with flutist Laura Larson late last summer.

Larson, 37, head of the flute at CCS-Institute of Music and Dance, performed and studied there for a year in 1986. Not so for Allvin, 27. This was her first trip to the orient and she was in for some surprises, both pleasant and humorous.

They will return later this month as guests for a special concert for the Toyota City International Association's promotion of international exchanges. They will perform the Mozart Concerto for Flute and Harp with the Toyota City Philharmonic as well as solos.

As Allvin spoke of the concerts they gave in Japan — in small communities and major cities, in grand concert halls and modest settings such as a candlemaker's home — she made an overall observation.

"They are so appreciative. They love Western classical music and they are familiar with Western repertoire — even the children. They love Bizet and famous opera arias."

SHE PAUSED and added something that had obviously surprised her. "Strangely enough they love Stephen Foster songs. They know all the words and could sing along in English. So for encores we would play songs such as 'My Old Kentucky Home,' 'Camptown Races' and 'Oh! Susanna.' And they liked Irish tunes, 'Annie Laurie,' 'Danny Boy' and 'Last Rose of Summer.'"

Then as if to summarize she said, "The Japanese soak up Western culture. They want to be like Americans. China is different. I got the impression they didn't like foreigners."

However, she said that when they performed in Beijing (for more than 700 people) she knew they loved the music and the concert.

"I was very impressed with the Beijing Conservatory of Music," she said as she described their tour of that as well as trips to the Great Wall, the Forbidden City and the Summer Palace.

But she and Larson obviously felt they had actually experienced more of Japan than China where they were carefully chaperoned. "In Japan, we traveled by train and in a van with the harp and our tons of luggage. We went by van when we crossed the Japanese Alps over little, tiny roads. Sometimes we stayed at hotels and sometimes with families. We spent several days at our manager's Swiss style chalet at the base of Mt. Fuji."

But, "When I got back to the U.S., I was very thankful for where I lived."

The tape is only available here by ordering from Allvin at 642-5097. She has also recorded her own new wave compositions with electric harp and (non electric) harp and synthesizer. That recording is available through Harmony House.

Madonnas enhance new St. Mary Hospital

Polish sculptors Stefan Dousa (left) and Wladyslaw Kozuch, both of Krakow, pose in front of one of two life-size Madonnas they collaborated and are located in St. Mary Hospital, Livonia.

Metropolitan Detroit and St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, have been artistically blessed with the genius of two masterful artists — Stefan Dousa and Wladyslaw Kozuch, both of Krakow, Poland.

The works were prepared at the Krakow Polytechnic Institute in Poland and brought to the U. S. by the artists themselves. The statues were commissioned by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bobowski in memory of Mrs. Bobowski's brother, Edmund Centrowski.

St. Mary Hospital officials contacted the artists through Jacob Sobieraj, a member of the hospital's board of trustees and the Polish Festival Committee.

THE NEW MADONNAS are a prized addition to the hospital, complementing the hospital's renderings of its patroness, Our Lady of Czestochowa.

The artists originally came to Detroit through the efforts of the Polish Festival of Detroit, which engaged them initially to prepare statues of Polish national heroes and later to create and execute a Polish Peace Room in the Ethnic Heritage Center of the Manoglan Building on Wayne State University's campus.

Both artists were schooled in Poland. Dousa served on the faculty of the University of Krakow for several years, leaving in order to concentrate on his own creative work. They both work in many media, including leaded glass, marble, water and oil paints, copper and bronze. They have won major prizes for their accomplishments in Europe.

The Polish Peace Room at Wayne State will be completed by October when Dousa and Kozuch will return to Poland.

Look again at your subjects

Do you know what the two most important things in photo are? Not film, light or composition as you might think. The first is YOU and the second is YOUR SUBJECT. A photograph is then a visual expression of the relationship between you and your subject.

How do you maximize this relationship and build a good partnership between the two of you? Begin by breaking down the barriers of seeing.

The biggest barrier is preoccupation with yourself. As long as you're concerned about your job, the kids, or other responsibilities, you're up against a barrier. Learning to let go and relax is essential.

As long as other things concern you, you're unlikely either to produce a good photograph or to enjoy the experience of photography to the fullest. When you let go, you'll be able to lose yourself in a world of glittering colors and exciting subjects.

A second barrier to overcome is learning to see past the familiar. The famous painter Monet once said that in order to truly "see," we must forget the name of the thing we are looking at.

For example, if you look at a leaf and say, "this is just a leaf," you'll never see past the familiar label of its name. But when you begin to see the leaf for what it truly is, new dimensions will open up for you.

A close inspection of that leaf will reveal shapes, textures, subtle color and tones — hidden beauty you may not have known was there.

Observing the magical transition of leaves from summer green to dramatic fall colors, will open new worlds of seeing for you. You see, it's easy to learn the label on the bottle but how many people really taste the wine?

Learn, also to recognize the hidden values in familiar things. Look closely around your own home and I'll guarantee you'll see things you never knew were there.

Trying to achieve the right look

EVERY YEAR at this time I have to fight my body's tendency to grow a "winter roll" by dieting. You know what I mean: apple cider, doughnuts rolled in sugar, caramel apples and etc. Then as winter approaches, I go heavily into holiday treats and heavily into my clothes. But then there are bulky knit sweaters. And, oh! What gluttony can be hidden under bulky knit sweaters.

But now I'm getting older. My birthday cake used to be on a slow-moving platter that seemed to take 400 days to come around. Now it seems like it is attached to an Amtrak train, that, to my surprise, comes much too soon. I just can't lose weight like I did when I was younger. Of course, I do have the added blessing of having been overweight when I got married. So now after 25 years of marriage, I can honestly say "I am only five pounds heavier than the day I got married." How many people can say that?

realism is achieved. Once an artist can achieve realism, then and only then does he/she have the credentials to abstract.

A realistic artist should never be satisfied with his or her realism. Photo realism can indeed become a hindrance toward the proper goal, which is expression.

Now I am, by any standards, a realistic artist and sculptor. But I try not to limit myself to faithful realism. In other words, if I want the legs of a coyote long, I make them long for the effect. If I want to drop his head low, perhaps lower than is physically possible, I do it for the expression.

Many of my students can be photographic and those who are not, we push towards that goal. But those who can be, must reach for a high goal and a more ventilating expression. After all, how many times can one be thrilled with the viewers' comments of "It looks just like a photograph."

BUT ON THE OTHER hand, I can't imagine anyone ever looking at one of my works of art and asking, "What is it?" To me, if a piece of art loses its viewers' cognition, then the artist's expression is lost and the art hovers between design and abstract.

I guess what I am trying to say is let the medium look like the medium. If it's a watercolor, let it look like a watercolor. Let there be some long washes, some tight areas and some loose. Why push a pastel, drawing so much that it looks like a color photo? Let the tooth of the paper show, tighten up and render some areas and let other areas remain sketchy. I wish I had a dollar for artifacts

every super-tight watercolor that won a first place.

I, as a judge, have even pinned the blue ribbon on super-tight watercolors. Perhaps as a reward for technical skills and done so in the absence of a more expressive piece. How beautiful to me is a risky splash of colors tempered with some tightness and good structure.

But that is just one opinion in a world of critics. I guess I will end this with the phrase I use most often which is "never be limited by the model." And, by the way, if you see me at the Whole Earth Vitamin Bar eating brown rice out of hand-thrown jar, stop and tell me I look thinner. Lie, if you need to. But I need to hear it.

David Messing has been an art teacher for more than 10 years. He is the owner of the Art Store & More in Livonia.

Plymouth symphony opens Saturday

Debra Fayroian, DSO cellist, will be the featured soloist in the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's opening concert for the '88-89 season to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 1 in the Plymouth-Salem High School auditorium, 46181 Joy, Canton.

Fayroian is well-known to area music lovers. She has appeared in recital in Toronto, Detroit, New York, Toledo, Ann Arbor and other major cities. Her student years were spent at the University of Michigan, Interlochen, and the Aspen Music Festival.

Conductor of the symphony is Russell Reed, who has chosen Russian masterworks to open the concert season.

The Overture to Colas Breugnon will begin the all-Russian program.

Aram Khachatryan's cello concerto will feature the soloist. Nicholas Rimsky-Korsakov's colorful symphonic suite, "Scheherazade," based on the tales of the book, "The Arabian Nights," will close the evening.

Following the concert the Plymouth Symphony Society will host an after-glow reception. Donations are $8 for the wine and cheese, dessert and coffee refreshments to be served at the Margaret and Wendel Smith home. Those wishing to make reservations for the after-glow should call Sue Decker, 453-9223.

Concert tickets are $8 for adults, $7 for seniors, and no charge for students, grade K-12. Tickets will be available at the door the night of the performance.

I JUST ANNOUNCED to Gary, Norm and the other guys at the health spa (who harass me constantly), "If this diet doesn't work at my age, I am going to give up on my body and just start working on my personality." I do have a look or weight which I am trying to achieve and whichever comes first is fine with me.

Many times when I judge an art show or even view art work, I ask myself, "What is the look he/she is trying to achieve?" You see, any medium in the right hands can be pushed to realism. And I am totally in favor of that "push," at least until

Designing Ways

over the sink, would be a practical choice. I don't like to see curtains or drapes over a kitchen window.

A window shade laminated in fabric to match the wallpaper being used in the same room is another suggestion. In your breakfast area, a privacy curtain would give you just that. With wood windows, you can attach the rod to the window so that when the window goes up your curtain goes with it. Use 3-3/4" widths fullness on this curtain. A valance (lined, of course) in matching fabric to the paper is nice and a simple way to go, also. You can change the look of the valance by the size of the rod or pole you use. Shirring the fabric on the wood pole or PVC pole gives the valance a more important look!

Eve Garvin has been an interior designer in the area for over 10 years. She welcomes comments and questions from readers. Send those to her in care of this newspaper, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48154.

NOW YOU CAN SAVE $45,000 ON A $50,000 MORTGAGE.

It's as easy as coming to Comerica. Our low interest rate on our 20 year fixed rate mortgage makes it an affordable alternative to a 30 year mortgage. The result can be a savings of thousands of dollars. On a $50,000 mortgage alone, you could save $45,000* in interest. And even more on larger loans.

The interest saved reduces the total amount owed. So as you pay on your loan, the interest amount goes down and your equity goes up at a much faster rate.

Plus, when you have your payments automatically deducted, we'll give you a checking account free of monthly service charges for the life of your loan. That's an additional savings averaging $100 per year.

It's all part of our lending spirit at Comerica. Helping you to save wherever we can.

Find out how much you can save. Call 370-6072 for the name of the nearest Comerica mortgage representative. Or, just stop in any Comerica branch office. And ask for the 20 year mortgage that'll save you thousands.

The Green Hill difference:

Do you come home to an apartment or a 75-acre estate?

Most apartment living measures 600+ sq. ft. Ours measures over 3,000,000 sq. ft. Green Hill residents enjoy a gorgeous 75-acre estate setting of park and woodland, peace and tranquility. You're right next door to the I-275 corridor. Michigan's multi-billion dollar explosive growth area and just minutes away from I-96, a direct route to downtown Detroit. See our 1- and 2-bedroom luxury apartments, terrace residences and country townhouses on 9 Mile, 1 1/2 miles west of Farmington Road in Farmington Hills.

Sister's watercolors set the tempo

By Marie McGee
staff writer

When your sister is a rising watercolorist, you make the most of it.

That was the assignment given ASID designer Barbara Kopitz from a client who wanted to change decor to focus on art work done by her sister, who happens to be Jackie Woolf, area watercolorist who is gaining recognition for her misty florals.

"We started with the paintings and built around it," said Kopitz of the home on West Bloomfield Park. "They are the focal point" and the determining factor in the choice of colors used in that room and an adjacent one.

"Because the client was 'not afraid of color,'" — her sister's influence, no doubt — Kopitz was able to make strong use of it in her choice of raspberry and pink with black accents.

Carpeting is a deep raspberry, the walls are a complementary "hot pink" accented with black furniture with a multifloral print.

The room functions well for good conversation, Kopitz believes. The three matched chairs rock and work well with the curved sofa. The room also has a grand piano and a black glass bar.

The nearby dining room carries out the color scheme, using a marble-based table and lacquer wall unit, deco chairs covered in black flannel.

But while the color dominates these rooms, Kopitz chose to keep the entry hall in a simple off-white to contrast with the high drama that was awaiting visitors in the living room and dining room "so as not to overwhelm them."

Guide helps new home builders from start to finish

By Shirlee Rose Iden
staff writer

CONSUMERS IN a medical clinic may know that the knee bone's connected to the thigh bone, or maybe not. But for the new home purchaser who faces an unbelievable array of decisions as the home evolves from paper plans to brick and mortar and then home furnishings, more than a little bit of knowledge is required.

In the metropolitan area, the new-home boom has grown to epidemic proportions with subdivisions and custom homes springing up mile after square mile.

Barbi Krass, an interior designer whose studio, Colorworks, is on Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills, where a lot of the building hubbub is taking place, has devised a practical

"It's near impossible for a client building one home to do all that research and not go bananas in the process."

—Barbi Krass guide book author

After marriage to a medical student and the birth of a son and daughter, she came to live here where she pursued dancing, design projects, sewing and other endeavors. By 1981, her marriage had broken up and she was on her own with two dependent children.

AFTER A THREE-year friendship with Ed Krass, a Southfield teacher who taught one of her children, Krass remarried, calling that decision "the best I ever made."

Clients at Colorworks, about 90 percent new-construction oriented, find building a new home exciting, rewarding or nerve-racking and frustrating, explains Krass.

"With so much to invest and so many decisions to make, it is often difficult to keep calm," she said. "It helps to remember that people involved in the business process are only human and can and do make mistakes."

Architects, builders and designers are not infallible, but in choosing these people carefully, a new home buyer can minimize error and ensure good will should an error need to be resolved."

Krass' guidebook lays out some of the many decisions and selections buyers have to face from site location to trees to marble.

"Home buyers should make a point of knowing what the builder will expect of them during construction. They should also articulate their own expectations."

"CLIENTS OFTEN need help in understanding the initial purchase agreement and what it contains," she said. "I tell my clients there should be a guaranteed completion date binding on the contractor."

"If the house is not ready on time, the builder will pay your rent until it is. Builders will sign these agreements rather than lose a sale. But they won't sign if you don't ask."

New home buyers have to bear financial scrutiny to secure a mortgage. Krass contends the builder should be just as carefully scrutinized.

"You should check out the builder by talking both to his clients about how they like their home and to his creditors (sub-contractors). If he doesn't pay his bills, the people who do his cabinetry, electricity and plumbing aren't going to deliver their services when you want them."

Krass believes it's always better to spell things out and get them down on paper, with builders and designers, than have to deal with an adversary relationship later.

"Some builders will loan the buyer the funds to pay interim fees during the building process," said Krass. "The builder will charge interest for this."

GOING OVER a building agreement with an attorney is always worthwhile, according to Krass.

Interior designers are qualified to advise on many phases of home building long before the decorative aspects of furniture and art are approached.

A professional interior designer is qualified to prepare the buyer for the final walk-through inspection of the home, even though most builders won't want a designer coming along at this time. Krass' guidebook gives a detailed plan of what needs to be looked at, down to the moulding and trim.

Today's designers are in the process of trying to redefine their profession and alter its image with the consuming public.

Qualified interior designers want to be recognized as professionals.

They see themselves as planners of interior space, fully competent to handle anything from traditional decorating chores to specifying the removal of walls, and planning new plumbing runs and electrical wiring.

"Krass points out that there are bills in the Michigan legislature to make licensing a requirement for interior designers and that most professional designers are all for it."

"Designers want to be licensed because it protects consumers from unqualified people trying to practice in the field," she said. "It also keeps others from invading our professional integrity and territory."

Krass has a professional relationship with some 15 tradesmen in the homes, condos, commercial jobs, offices and medical spaces she's involved with. When they talk, it isn't about knee bones and thigh bones, but they are on the same wavelength, with mutual respect.

"New-home building clients always feel as though they'll never get through it all," she said. "The guide book has really helped them get a handle on what they face. They seem to like it."

HER "GUIDE FOR Building a New Home" contains information that begins with the initial purchase agreement and walks the buyer through confrontations with architects, electricians and plumbers, as well as decisions on fixtures, tile, flooring, carpeting and more.

Krass, who started her business in the lower level of her Southfield home back in 1977, began to put her guide together about six months ago. She contends her challenge is to know the market, be aware of what's available, and know how to use all the resources.

"It's near to impossible for a client building one home to do all that research and not go bananas in the process," she said.

Born in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Krass has lived in Germany, Seranton, Pa., and in Boston during college years, studying art and education.

With degrees in fine arts and English literature from Boston University, she went from school to teaching English literature to gifted students.

3 STEPS TO SMARTER CARPET BUYING

CHOOSE THE RIGHT COLOR

When deciding on colors, remember that the carpet will be the most important color in the room. Darker colors tend to dominate a room, whereas lighter colors tend to blend into a room.

CHOOSE THE RIGHT STYLE

When choosing the style, take into consideration how each room is used. A family room for example has far more traffic than a living room, and therefore a denser pile may be needed.

MAKE SURE IT'S A WEAR-DATED CARPET WITH STAINBLOCKER™

Regardless of the color and style you choose, the most important thing to look for is the Wear-Dated™ label. And because Wear-Dated™ Carpet with StainBlocker™ has superior stain protection, even if you have kids and pets, you can consider a light colored carpet.

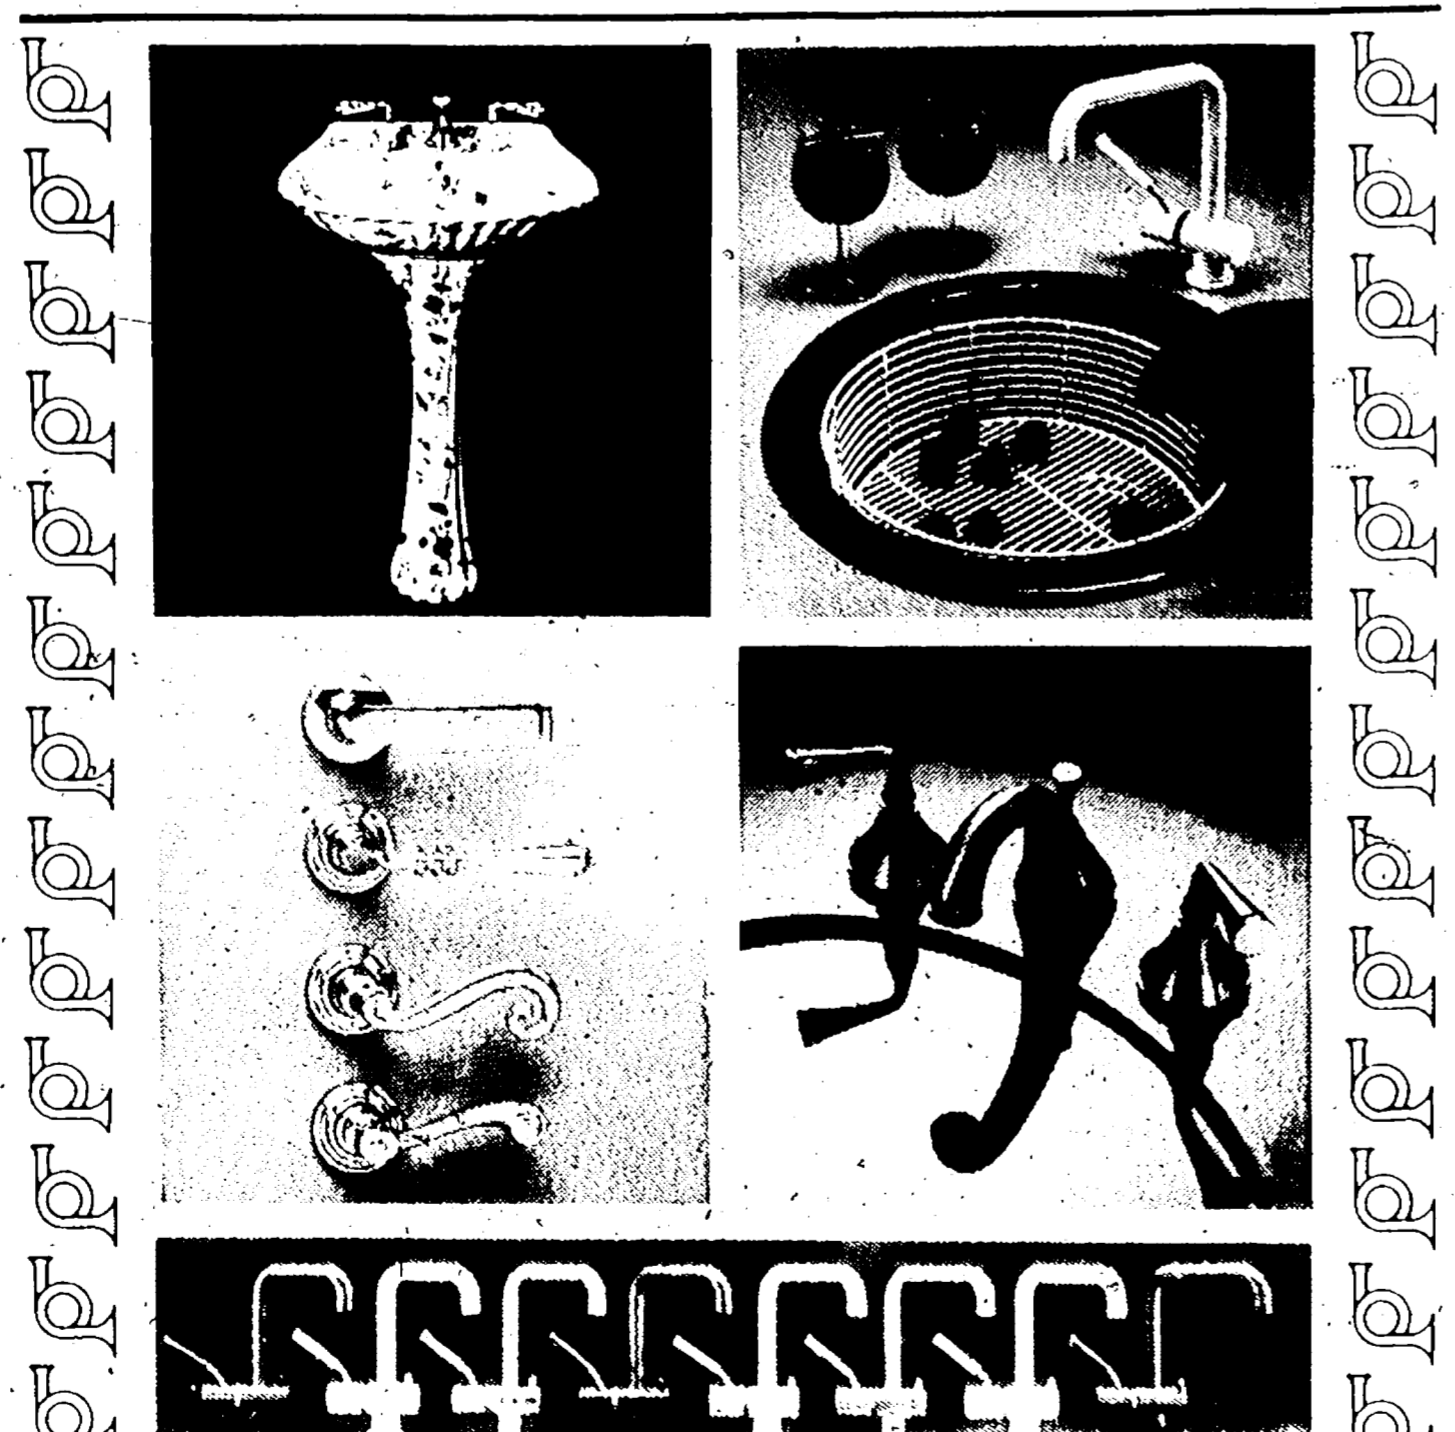

Let us help you explore all the new decorating possibilities Wear-Dated™ Carpet with StainBlocker™ has to offer.

"Distinctive furnishings for the bedroom"

White boring? Not like this

By Joan Boram
special writer

AFTER SEEING this home, no one will ever think of white as cold again," says Diane Fishman of Walter Herz Interiors.

Indeed, the white walls and white carpeting used throughout serve as a blank canvas against which the owners' extensive art collection (mostly by Michigan artists) is displayed.

"I had worked for the couple in their former home, but this time the wife wanted to go completely contemporary." Working together, Fishman and her client worked out a scheme that is both glamorous and sleek. "The client is very glamorous, but also a very warm person with a great sense of fun, and I wanted to reflect these facets of her personality."

"She was willing to dare all the crazy ideas that I had, and it's not often that you get a client that will take a chance. I actually had to do very little talking to convince her."

THERE IS NOTHING in the outward appearance of the West Bloomfield condominium that would indicate the chic modernity inside. Situated adjacent to a wooded ravine, the requisite petunias fill pots on the front patio and goldenrod flourishes along the break between woods and manicured lawn. Swans float on a small lake.

Open the front door and the transition between semi-bucolic and the neon-bedecked foyer is astonishing. The generously proportioned foyer is entirely mirrored, including the ceiling, and the floor is white marble. It sounds pristine, and it would be, but for the tiers of hot pink neon racing around the top of the room. The effect, however, is not as Giza-esque as one might expect. Rather, you feel that you're a child again, entering the House of Mirrors at a carnival, and you are "set up" to enjoy the rest of the house. A whimsical, wooden hot-pink figure by Billy Mayer adds fun to the area.

Most of the floors throughout the house are covered with deep-piled, lush white carpeting, which both Fishman and the owner agree is difficult to keep clean, but "it's worth it for the richness of effect, and because it allows for continuity of the all-white motif."

The walls in the den are a rich raspberry, and therein lies a tale. Fishman selected the color, not realizing that it was no longer available. Then she had the couch covered to match the paint chip. When it proved impossible to find the wall color, the task was turned over to the husband. He wound up at an auto supply store on the far east side of Detroit, the only place around who could match the chip.

says Fishman, "is don't cover the furniture until the walls are painted."

A large multicolored wall sculpture by Charles McGee fills one wall of the den. Commissioned by the owners, it was exhibited at the Detroit Institute of Arts before joining their collection. The house was designed for entertaining, and the owner boasts that at a recent cocktail party, "70 people were here, and you would never have known that there were more than a few." The dining room is an extension of the huge living room, making it possible to use the rooms both for small dinner parties and large cocktail parties.

Seating in the living room is all-white, so the artworks are allowed to bask in their own glory. Over the fireplace is a layered cream-colored wall-weaving, "Clouds," by Urban Jupena. The fireplace surround is itself a work of art, fashioned of chrome by

Table setting important

Before selecting your tableware, you should decide on the point of view, you want to take and choose a pattern that reflects your individual style.

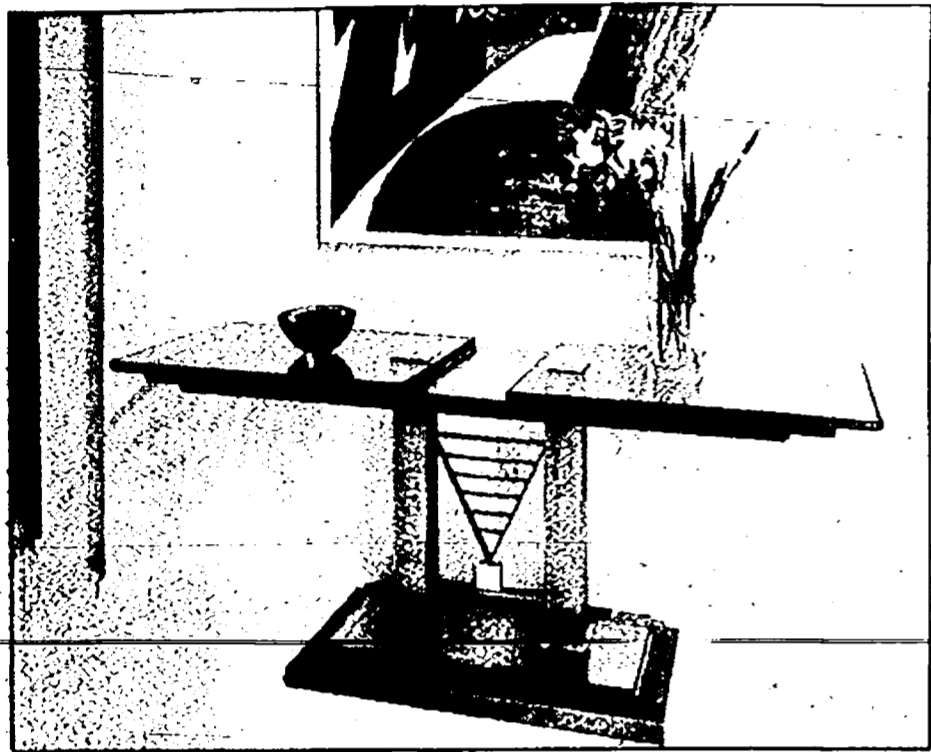

"Dinnerware will be the foundation of your well-dressed table," says Alice Kolator, director of public relations for Lenox China and Crystal. "Keep a close eye on pattern and color. When mixing and matching patterns, follow the basic rule that background colors should always match."

"Flatware," she says, "can repeat and enhance a motif established by a dinnerware pattern. Or it can make a statement all its own. It offers great flexibility when mixing and matching patterns."

AS FOR CRYSTAL, the "crowning jewel of your table," Kolator advises: "A more heavily cut crystal is best when joined with simple dinnerware. Delicately cut crystal is more versatile and can be used with a wide variety of dinnerware patterns."

"The younger generation is fascinated with food and it's spreading to their dinnerware," says Peter Jungkunst, executive vice president of Jungkunst China. "People are investigating the consumer benefits as well as the aesthetics of china."

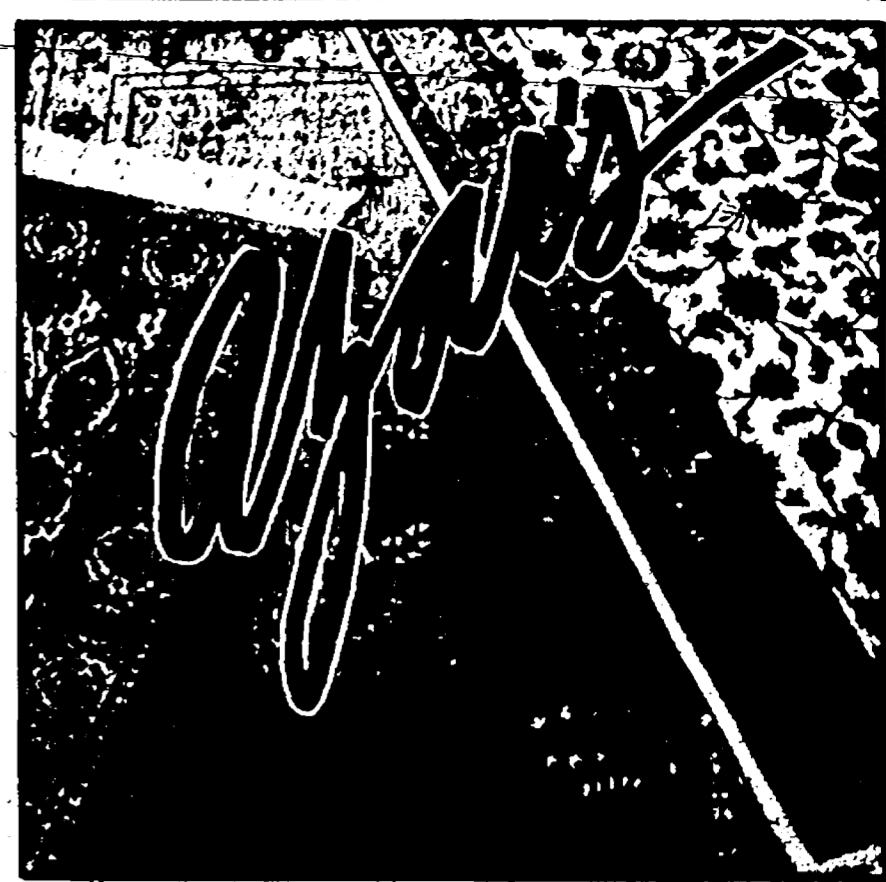

BETH SINGER

A three-layer glass and brass table by the Design Institute of American enlivens an area in the lower level of the West Bloomfield condominium that also uses neon-light accents to reflect the owner's sense of fun.

Jay Lefkowitz. Other artists represented in this area are: Glen Michaels, B.J. Bennett and Don Shields. The surface of the dining room table is glass, and the rooms glow with handmade decorative glass pieces and crystal.

"I like to work with a client before the home is completed," says Fishman. "That way I can look at the plans and we can make any structural changes that are necessary. In this case, the lower level was designed for storage, and the client wanted it for additional living space. We made some structural changes, and the size of the living area was almost doubled."

The stairway leading down to the lower level is enlivened by "Wallwalker," a wooden figure literally walking up the wall, by Israeli artist David Gerstein. "I love toys," says the owner. "A recent addition is a mobile table sculpture of cowboys and Indians chasing back and forth in front of a line of cactus."

The owners and their children have the luxury of a complete exercise room, with rowing machine, treadmill, bicycle, weights. There is even a small basketball hoop and very small trampoline, "beloved of the grandchildren," brags the proud grandmother. All in all, it is a beautiful house, a fun house, a family-oriented house. But Bauhaus it isn't.
