Fire destroys Big Boy Restaurant

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

The Big Boy statue, standing resolutely in front of his "home," was the only thing unscathed after a fire gutted the Elias Brothers restaurant at Wayne Road and Hunter early to-

Nobody was injured in the fire, which broke about 3 a.m.

The Westland fire department sent "all available men and equipment" from three open stations to the site after receiving the fire call at 3:20 a.m., said Michael Reddy, battalion chief.

Firefighters had the fire under control by 8 a.m.

A SECOND early morning fire, about a mile away, was handled by firefighters from the city of Wayne under terms of the mutual aid pact between western Wayne County fire departments, Reddy said.

Details of that fire, at a house on Wayne Road near Florence, were unavailable today (Thursday).

The Garden City fire department also helped out Westland this morning by handling an emergency medical services run while the Big Boy fire was being fought, said Fire Chief Larry Lane.

Police were called to the restaurant after the fire had begun and blocked off a sections of Wayne Road and Hunter to non-emergency traffic. Rush-hour traffic was rerouted through a subdivision just east of the restaurant.

THE CAUSE of the fire was undetermined early today. "At this point, we're not even sure where it started," Reddy said.

Damage appeared to be particularly heavy in the rear the building, near the kitchen. The main dining room was severely charred, with Brothers franchises he owns. heavy smoke and water damage in the adjacent garden dining room.

Ernest Mark Lantto, 30, was ordered to stand trial Monday after a preliminary-exam in 18th District

He is scheduled to be arraigned in -Wayne County Circuit Court 8:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 6.

Lantto has pleaded not guilty to three counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct against a 23-year-old Westland woman.

The alleged assault took place in the woman's apartment between 3 and 5:30 a.m. Dec. 20.

Lantto was arrested by Westland police after voluntarily surrendering on Jan. 3.

District Judge Gail McKnight Monday remanded Lantto to the Wayne County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 cash bond. He had previously been free on personal bond.

McKnight changed the bond arrangements after prosecuting attorney Andrew Telek informed the court that tires were slashed on the victim's car late Sunday or early that Lantto forced her into sexual intercourse and other sexual acts at knifepoint after she let him into her apartment that morning.

The victim said she had been dating Lantto "on and off" for more than three years and had been engaged to marry him in late 1985 and early 1986. She broke up with him last October, the victim testified.

The victim testified Lantto rang her apartment buzzer from the lobby about 3 a.m. and told her through the intercom that he had some of the $80 he owed her. After being let into the apartment, Lantto handed her $10 and asked to use the bathroom, she told the court.

He then said he wanted to talk to her, but she asked him to leave the apartment, the victim said.

When he refused to leave, the victim told the court she left the apartment and tried to escaped using the elevator or stairs in the hallway. But Lantto blocked her way and then forced his way back into the apartment with her, she said.

Upon returning to the apartment, she noticed that Lantto had taken a 9-inch butcher knife from her kitchen, the victim testified.

2 men will stand trial for market robbery

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

An 18-year-old Inkster man has been ordered to stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court on charges stemming from the Dec. 12 armed robbery of the Regal Supermarket, 1615 S. Merriman.

A second man will also be tried for the robbery.

Larry Darnell Gregory was bound over Monday by Westland District Judge Gail McKnight following a 10minute preliminary exam.

Arraignment in Circuit Court has been scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 6.

cop calls

A 21-YEAR-OLD Dearborn Heights man was treated and released from Westland Medical Center early Friday following an altercation outside Rumorz nightclub, 450 S. Merriman.

The victim received a cut on his head after being hit by a car that was chasing him through the parking lot, police said.

The driver of the car, a 22-yearold Dearborn man, was arrested.

At least six officers responded to the 2 a.m. disturbance to break up the large crowd that had gathered in front of the club and spilled out onto the street, police said.

Witnesses told police that the victim and the driver of the car had been involved in a fight inside the club earlier Thursday evening.

Another person, apparently an acquaintance of the victim, went outside and damaged the Dearborn man's car, witnesses told police.

The car, a 1985 Ford Escort, had a smashed windshield, dented fenders and other damage, police said.

A RESIDENT of the Hawthorne Club Apartments, Merriman south of Joy, told police someone broke into her apartment Sunday and stole $1,550 in stereo components and a videocassette recorder valued at $250.

The incident occurred about 4 p.m., a witness told police.

The witness said she saw a man carrying stereo gear out of the apartment, but assumed he was a friend of the tenant. She described the thief as a man; 17-20 years old, about 5-feet-8, with a medium build and straight brown and jeans, the witness said. Police said the culprit entered the apartment by kicking in the front

 A THIEF escaped with just $5 cash Saturday night after an unsuccessful attempt to open a safe at Metropolitan Auto Supply, 2379 S. Venoy, police said.

The owner told police about $5 in Canadian currency and some U.S. change was taken from a desk in the office.

Police said they responded to an alarm at the store shortly before 10:30 p.m. and found the front door window had been smashed out.

A number of tools found at the location were probably used by the burglar in an attempt to open the safe, police said.

A HOMEOWNER on the 39300 block of Dillingham reported that someone broke into his locked garage last weekend and stole a tool box of hand tools and a floor jack valued at $100.

The garage showed no signs of forced entry, police said.

Petri dish' to come alive when science center opens in March

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Beginning in March, Livonia Public Schools elementary students will be learning more about science at the district's new science center.

"This is a dream come true," said district science coordinator Richard Braun on Tuesday, the morning after the Livonia Board of Education approved creating the center.

The center will be housed at the former Whittier Middle School and also will make use of nature trails about 700 yards away near the Rouge Hiver.

district for years. But low Michigan Educational Assessment Program science test scores helped spark the actual creation of the center, he said.

"We did not do well at all in earth and physical science," Braun said. Those low test scores "gave us the idea we need to do something," he added.

Room to house the center was created when a hair-cutting school at Whittier lost its lease. The center will take up 7,200 square feet, Braun said - a large room for exhibits including a planned half-scale dinosaur, a smaller room that could seat 50-60 kids, a regular classroom and some smaller rooms that can accommodate 10-12 kids, office space and storage.

COST TO start the science center is $28,000, to pay for a full-time teacher, tables, chairs, supplies and fees for visiting naturalists.

An advisory committee of administrators, school staff and residents is being formed to develop dis-

Y class shows tricks of magic trade

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

Magician John Sterlini has been mixing illusion and reality for most of his life.

Sometimes, he says, while performing his on-stage magic — like making a glass ball float effortlessly in the air — he realizes that illusion and reality can be difficult to distinguish.

"Even though I'm doing the trick, I really do believe that's magic," said Sterlini, 23.

"I think the magic is the character you're putting across on stage, what the audience feels when the lady disappears . . . the children's response when they see a trick."

Sterlini is giving away some of his secrets during a seven-week class offered at the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA, whose service area includes Garden City and Canton Township.

The class began one week ago but is open to registration through Mon-forming card, coin and rope tricks, even a bit on showmanship for the magician.

STERLINI PERFORMS mostly at restaurants, banquets, conventions and parties. But he hopes to launch a larger show this fall that will travel the college campus circuit beginning next September.

"I breathe magic. All day long I think about it."

Sterlini said magic is on his mind most of the time. He turned his thoughts to the subject at age four, when he performed his first trick with a magic kit his parents had bought.

Later, he began to read books on the subject. He took classes as a youth. He performed his first paid act before age 11. As a teenager, he put the hobby aside and took up the drums, but sev-

He honed his abilities to perform illusions in Colon and learned a few things about showmanship. The latter underscored the fact that a magician really is an entertainer. Sterlini, whose mother is the former Canton Township treasurer, is taking business administration classes at Madonna College, with a mind to use his business acumen to advance his magic career. He seems determined to make it in show biz.

Sterline sald he is a quiet, introverted person off-stage. But when he dons his cape and hits the stage with a deck of cards in hand, he is a changed man. "I think that's my biggest thrill, when I'm on stage for half an hour and I get the acciaim from 100, 200, 500 people — the applause."

Herman Hess Jr. cites plant improvements

Ford growth may spark local jobs

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

A potential $500 million expansion for Ford Motor Co.'s Michigan Truck plant in Wayne could mean more jobs for local residents.

The expansion, which Ford is currently discussing with officials from the city of Wayne, was mentioned briefly by two Ford representatives from the Wayne complex last Thursday during a Chamber of Commerce program at the Wayne Community

Jay Meisenhelder, a Ford spokesman, said the company's board of directors would make a final decision on the proposed expansion in March.

The city of Wayne will hold a public hearing Tuesday, Feb. 7, to discuss adding the truck plant to the industrial development district that now covers Wayne Assembly. The move would allow Ford to request a tax abatement for any future expansion of the truck plant.

THE PLANNED expansion would include construction of a new paint shop and body shop to boost production capabilities for F-series pickup trucks and the Bronco four-wheeldrive vehicle, according to the report. Sales of those vehicles have been booming, Melsenheider sald.

Deir spoke about the ongoing retooling of the Wayne Assembly plant, a $423 million project, announced last year. The retooling, and construction of an adjacent stamping plant, will be used for production of a redesigned Escort subcompact. "The Escort is our largest selling car," Deir said. "As good as it is now, we can improve it and this will give us an opportunity to do that."

INAGINE DYING KNEWYOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

Student scores rise in science, drop in reading science, but not quite as well in reading, according to the results of statewide tests administered last fall as part of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program.

In math, students scored about the same in 1988-89 as they did the previous year on the so-called MEAP tests, according to results released by the Michigan State Board of Education during a press conference in Lansing Tuesday.

The tests were administered to all public school students in the fourth, seventh and 10th grades as part of what state educators say is an attempt to measure "essential skills" expected of Michigan students.

Students in private schools could pay to take the tests, but their test scores were not released Tuesday.

"I am pleased to see the progress schools have made in improving science achievement," said Cherry H. Jacobus, president of the state board of education. She termed the improvement "gratifying."

The percentage of fourth-grade

Michigan students did better in students who achieved "acceptable" scores on the 1988-89 science test was 45.5 percent, up 6.2 percent from 39.3 percent in 1986-87, the last year the science test was administered to all students. A total of 110,289 forrth graders took the test

> Of the 103,825 seventh graders who took the science test last fall. 32.5 percent scored at the "acceptable" level, or about 5.2 percent more than 1986-87, when 27.3 percent did as well.

Of the 103,571 10th graders who took the science test this year, 25.6 percent achieved "acceptable" scores, or about 3.2 percent more than two years ago when 22.4 percent did as well.

Students are considered to have passed each test, or earned an "acceptable" level, if they answered correctly-on 75 percent or more of the concepts. To answer correctly on an individual concept, students have to get a minimum of two out of three questions.

Maybury cashes in on Proposal D

Maybury State Park, in western Wayne County, will share in nearly $19 million in state parks construction projects approved as part of Proposal D.

Just how much of the new construction money will go to the state park in western Wayne County park is uncertain until blds are taken. state Department of Natural Resources officials said. But two park improvement projects are planned.

"WE PLAN to reseal the fishing pond, we've had some leakage there, and get a proper elevation of water," said Bob Helmic, who is in charge of planning and developing the projects for the state Department of Natural Resources. "We also plan to replace a building in the Living Farm exhib-

Maybury is between Seven Mile and Baseline (Eight Mile) roads, west of Beck Road, in Northville Township.

Construction will start this spring on $18.7 million in park projects approved by the Natural Resources Commission as part of its plan for spending a $140 million bond issue approved by voters in November, state officials say.

Projects in the 42 other state parks include renovation of buildings, roads, trails, campgrounds and sewer systems.

Department of Natural Resources deputy director Jack Bails said the $140 million bond measure, known as Proposal D on the ballot, is the first substantial funding source available for parks in many years.

The money will be used to improve facilities that have deteriorated due to a decade of tight budgets and to improve park sewage treatment facilities as required by new anti-pollution standards, Bails said.

The list of projects approved this week by the Natural Resources Commission includes $5 million for 11 parks in northeast Michigan; $2.7 million for 10 parks in west Michigan; $8 million for 16 parks in southeast Michigan; and $8 million for six parks in the Upper Peninsula.

Suburban group re-elects Griffin

Westland Mayor Charles Griffin was unanimously re-elected recently to a third consecutive term as chairman of the Conference of Western Wayne.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally was elected vice chairwoman. Other officers include Northville Mayor Christopher Johnson, secretary, and Huron Township Supervisor Christine Gamber, treasurer.

The CWW oversees regional programs in its 17 member communities. Westland, Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth and Redford, Canton and Plymouth townships are. among the CWW's members.

In accepting the nomination, Griffin said he was especially pleased the organization's Enhanced 9-1-1 emergency calling system would come into place this

Prosecutor's investigation clears Ficano

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano has been cleared of allegations of wrongdoing stemming from testimony in a court case involving himself and county executive Edward McNamara.

An investigation by the county prosecutor's office concluded Ficano broke no laws by allowing deputies to patrol the Eastland Mall parking lot this holiday season. The investigation also found no evidence sheriff's department employees worked on Ficano's re-election campaign on county time and that Ficano did not use county jail food at a benefit party sponsored by deputies.

McNamara referred the matter to the prosecutor's office Dec. 6, after testimony from sheriff's department commander Richard Stover. Stover, county director of jail services, raised the issues during a Nov. 30 deposition in the long-running suit brought by county jail inmates against the county over jail conditions.

McNamara had previously filed to place the jail in the hands of a receiver, taking jail responsibility from the sheriff.

evidence of "criminality or wrongdoing on the part of our county sheriff," county prosecutor John O'Hair wrote this week in a letter to McNamara.

THE INVESTIGATION found no

Ficano had earlier called the allegations "unequivocally untrue" and the product of "rumors and innuendos, not facts."

Giving compensatory time off to deputies who patrolled the Harper Woods mall's parking lot was within the sheriff's discretion, O'Hair said.

The investigation also found no evidence any sheriff's employee worked on Ficano's campaign during regular work hours or on county paid holidays, the prosecutor added.

Food used at the holiday "Toys for Tots" party, co-sponsored by deputies and the U.S. Marines, was provided with the knowledge that it had been paid for by non-county sources, O'Hair concluded.

Recycling is available

Operators of a Canton Township landfill seek western Wayne residents interested in recycling.

Woodland Meadows Recycling & Disposal Facility, 39900 Van Born, between Haggerty and Hannan, Canton, has opened a recycling center to handle newspapers, glass, plastic, aluminum and cardboard items and appliances.

Thus far, Woodland Hills has. worked with Canton Township civio groups, promoting recycling fund raisers for non-profit groups.

The recycling center, however, is open to residents throughout western Wayne County. The former Woodland Meadows Landfill, was renamed in recognition of the recycling center.

"RECYCLING FEES would still be reserved for Canton groups." Woodland Meadows spokeswoman Janis Lanyon said. "So while they wouldn't receive any money, they wouldn't be charged, either." The facility is one of 250 owned

The Sergeants and Lieutenants Association quickly took action to file a grievance, initiate a civil suit in circuit court, and claim that an unfair labor practice was committed.

While the mayor may have had noble intentions to pick the best person for the post something we agree on - he should have followed the state law.

In fighting the spirit and letter of the law, the mayor gave the impression that he was "killing the clock" to avoid promoting Schnarr.

Griffin insisted he was acting as a matter of policy, but the action gave the impression he was avoiding Schnarr's promotion.

While we disagreed with his original position, we applaud his change of mind.

The change of mind doesn't mean Griffin compromised his principles.

It only shows that he received better advice legal and/or political — and agreed to uphold the

Now, acts of violence and vandalism motivated by a victim's race, religion, national origin, gender or physical or mental handicap carry an extra two-year prison term and fine.

The new law is crucial for our state, which has experienced an increase in racial incidents.

It empowers the victims of such hate groups to seize and sell the group's assets — guns, knives, distinctive clothing, cars, clubhouse, etc. - in effect dismantling the group. The court can use the proceeds to compensate the victims.

BUT THE LEGISLATURE deliberately deleted a part of the bill, which included crimes directed at gay men and women among those that deserve added penalty, although gay bashing, too, is on the rise.

One reason given was that gay men and wom-IT IS A LAW that sends an important message: en are already protected by laws currently on the books. But so are the other minorities to whom this bill gives added protection. Another reason given was that homosexuality is more of a medical problem and should be dealt with in that community.

"The medical and psychological community does not consider homosexuality to be an illness," says Dr. Dennis Sugrue, director of Henry Ford Hospital's Center for Human Sexuality. "It's rather unfortunate, archaic thinking."

IT'S OBVIOUS that prejudice and ignorance were hard at work here. Contributing to that were representatives from the Observer & Eccentric area who voted against the House bill with the sexual orientation section in it - or those O&E- area senators who voted specifically to take that provision out before it got to the

They are: Rep. Mat Dunaskiss-R, Lake Orion; Rep. Gordon Sparks, R-Troy; Sen. Richard Fessler, R-Commerce; and Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

By pointedly denying gays the added protection of a recognized minority, the Legislature left a door ajar for gay bashing — making it less offensive to commit a crime against that group.

It's ironic that a bill designed to give added protection to minorities is, in itself, discriminatory. Homosexuals who suffer the same prejudice and bigotry as other minorities are now, in the eyes of Michigan, a little less equal.

Attitudes need changing in quest for excellence

THE EASY answer - a troubling legacy of the 1980s.

This growing dependency on the simple solution, the no-hassle society could very well be turning us into second-class world citizens. And it all starts right here at home, in middle class suburban America.

For the last couple of months your local newspaper staff has been investigating the growing problem of illiteracy in the schools. After much discussion, we felt that narrowing the investigation to one discipline would best highlight the situation.

And no matter how you interpret the results, one thing is for sure. We - the students, the teachers, the parents — are stepping away from the challenge of tomorrow.

A recent article in the Wall Street Journal highlighted a University of Michigan class that teaches students how to take risks in order to succeed.

Imagine that.

Schools must show integrity

To the editor:

It never ceases to amaze me how newspaper writers continually spread misinformation and disinformation. Your editorial of Jan. 12, titled "Wheels of Justice: schools want integrity back" is a prime example.

Has the editor or any of his staff writers requested any factual information from the sources through the Michigan Freedom of Information Act or do they just take somebody's word for it. That's almost like asking the fox to guard the chickens.

Furthermore, have you or your staff even read the information which was obtained through MFOIA? From your continued printing of misinformation it is obvious you have not!

Read, if you will, the Michigan Department of Education Auditor's Report on the discrepancies, the rationale of the Wayne-Westland Administration's Appeal, and the final decision by Philip Runkle, then state school superintendent.

Read the rules for disbursing state aid that were in place from 1977 until August 1984.

Note the minor changes which only slightly altered the amount of monles received by school districts,

Figure the number of adult education students involved in the discrepancies to see the magnitude of the situation. For instance, one adult student attending one class two equals .15 FTE (full time equivalent). It takes 6.667 students in a class to equal one FTE or one full time student. Originally 370 FTE's or 2,313 such adult education students were challenged. The total value was $1.3 million.

Note also that Dr. Runkle generously reduced that original amount by haif, and the state Board of Education slightly altered the Rules after the fact.

YOUR editorial opinion seems to be that the administration's enemies want blood. Maybe they aren't enemies in the first place, and maybe they just want honesty, integrity, and uprightness like you do. Maybe they want their education-

Personality, style determine success

THE BEST research, they say, confirms what you already suspected was true.

Both Govs. G. Mennen Williams (1949-60) and William G. Milliken (1969-82) dealt with Legislatures dominated by the other party. But Democrat Williams was widely regarded to have had a tough time while Republican Milliken was able to win agreements.

A scholar has produced some numbers to back up that conventional hunch. David W. Winder earned a doctorate in political science in 1982 from Michigan State University. He wrote about Williams and Milliken in "Divided Government in Michigan" in the November/December issue of Michigan History magazine.

"WHILE WILLIAMS experienced frustration in dealing with the state Legislature, Milliken enjoyed a reasonable amount of success," Winder wrote, citing these figures:

In 1958 and 1960, Williams saw 10.7 percent and 17.2 percent of the hills he supported become law.

In 1982 and 1980, Milliken saw 32.3 percent and 41.3 percent of the bills he supported become law.

Other tables show much the same thing — Milliken had much stronger support from opposition Democrats than Williams had from Republicans.

WHY DID Milliken have such a significantly better batting average? • Style — Winder finds Williams had a "disinclination to compromise." Milliken "built coalitions with natural political opponents." Personality — Williams adopted an "adversarial relationship" with the other party. Milliken was Mr. Nice Guy.

• Experience - Milliken had been a community college trustee and state senator, earning enough respect among his colleagues to become Senate majority floor leader. Williams had held only appointive positions.

• The times - When Williams was governor, there were no "moderate" Republicans in a Senate dominated by Clyde Geerlings and Elmer Porter, and only a handful of "young Turk" GOP rebels in the House. By the 1960s, Milliken was a chief among a potent band of moderates who took over the Senate reins.

Moreover, Williams had White House aspirations, so the Grand Old Party took a particular joy in tripping him up.

MY OWN impression is that Winder plays down the personality factor. Soapy Williams, a gregarious man socially, would speak in ethnic groups in their native tongues and call square dances. But in talking about lawmakers, he had the bad habit of using terms like "pitifully inadequate" and the bad timing of using such bellicose terms a day or two after UAW president Walter Reuther used them.

Republicans would accuse the governor of being Reuther's puppet. Loyal Democrats, of course, vehemently denied it, but there was an abundance of Williams rhetoric to support the GOP interpretation. Williams achieved his greatest influence through liberal appoint-judiciary, Winder said.

Milliken, on the other hand, was able to deal face-to-face with his chief Democratic rival, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

Milliken also cut deals with the "Quadrant" - the Republican and Democratic leaders of both the House and Senate. (I called it the "Billy-Bob Club" - the principals were Bill Milliken, Sen. Bill Faust, Rep. Bill Bryant, Sen. Bob Vander-Laan and House Speaker Bobby Crim.)

AS RONALD Reagan, who had never been a legislator or congressman before reaching the White House, heads into the sunset, lots of Washington pundits are suggesting George Bush will have better dealings with Congress.

Not only does Bush have a less confrontational style, but he has served in Congress, has presided over the Senate and has had broader geographic exposure to America than the Western-oriented Reagan.

Based on the lessons of the Williams and Milliken years in Michigan, I would guess the pundits will be right about Bush.

Sickbed thoughts: subs, germs and pygmy wars

THE LUNCHEON patlo of a restaurant overlooking Long Beach Marina, where the view is enhanced by sailboats slipping quietly by, is not where I expected germ warfare to break out. Nevertheless, despite a warm sun, it's where I was overtaken by a strong case of the flu and not even changing my drink order to hot tea could get rid of the shivers. They lingered for most of a week.

It's a rotten trick to play on kindly hosts, whom one hasn't seen in ages, to return from a spin around the block, so to speak, and tumble into bed in mid-afternoon, there to stay until medication and rest bring the body back to par. But how fortunate to be in the position of guest in such friendly surroundings when illness does strike.

THE CONCLUSION was that for about six months I had packed too many activities into too small a time frame, and body chemistry finally rebelled. The rest of the way, including the long journey home, will be conducted at a slower pace.

On the day of the ill-fated luncheon it was the plan of the friends I was with for that occasion to follow the meal with a quick trip to the Naval Base to see if we could catch a glimpse of the USS Michigan, one of our nation's Trident nuclear subma-

through bifocals Fred

DeLano

The public wasn't being allowed on board anyway, but such statistics as these were available: At 560 feet. it is almost two football fields long. It can move at speeds greater than 30 knots. The crew totals 157; including 15 officers. It carries 24 ballistic missiles, each containing eight nuclear warheads capable of traveling 4,000 miles to reach its target.

The Michigan is 42 feet wide, has four decks and draws about 35 feet below the waterline, nearly as much as the huge battleship USS Missouri. The depth to which the Michigan can dive is classified.

How many human beings could be killed in one fell swoop by 192 nuclear warheads I don't know, and I guess we're supposed to sleep well in realization that the Soviet Union, France and Great Britain are similarly armed. But neither do I know how many flu bugs are crawling through the lungs and chests of our citizens. Yes, they are under attack; the plethora of medicine bottles one sees on the shelves of stores is evidence of that, though it's not particularly evidence that a good job is being done.

THE NAVY captain who commands the USS Michigan told interviewers, "We are a deterrent against war, and if deterrence works, then we never will have to use the capabillity of the ship."

Then lying abed later that week I read a Reuters dispatch from Ugan da reporting that clashes between pygmles and their neighbors have left 20 dead in the last few weeks. A police report said a pygmy group set up a roadblock and fired arrows at their neighbors, killing five.

In retaliation, the adversaries; who were armed with clubs, mail chetes and spears, stormed back, wiping out 15 lives.

Basic question seems to be which people can settle on what land. But a pygmy spokesman also said, "A pygmy cannot go to a bar and have a beer. When one's goat gets lost, they claim it is us who stole it.'

Whatever their deterrence against war is, apparently it isn't working! Twenty isn't a very impressive total anyway, Detroit, New York, Los Angeles can do better than that most weekends and probably don't have to steal any goats.

But to the victim, the only important number is one. Why don't we stop counting violent deaths right there? That might justify arrows and machetes, but not a boatload of ballistic missiles armed with nuclear warheads. The pygmy way probably is the fun way, besides being a lot cheaper.

Teachers too generous?

Q: Dr. Doyle, in one of your articles you referred to the generosity error or a teacher giving out high grades because he is just a generous person. My child is a very slow learner or "remedial student" and probably would fail many courses if he had teachers who didn't take his innate ability into consideration.

A: I have had several inquiries in regard to a previous article where I addressed an issue of a teacher who used the "generosity error" in grading; who liked kids and tended to grade higher than may have been warranted.

However, there is nothing inherently wrong with a teacher who has very slow remedial students or students in a special education resource room grading the children based on ability vs. achievement to encourage them to continue striving for suc-

Indeed, in my earlier teaching years prior to special education, I taught a class that had learning disabled children in a remedial math class setting.

At that time, I had one parent who would ground the child for two months if he didn't receive a C. There was some indication that physical abuse may have been involved, although never proven. I taught the child and retaught and retested him until he earned a C, rather than fail the child.

It must be remembered, teachers deal with different ability levels in our mass education system; all our students are not going to be brain

Teachers must be granted some judgment in working with and grading slower children. If a child of low ability is working and achieving above his innate ability, a decent grade can be a healthy, nurturing; success experience.

Dr. Kurt Lewin, the late noted so-cial psychologist, said that structuring success for a child breeds further success and allows the teacher to then raise the expectation level for Candy-covered chocolates are not the only ones who have Simmon's calling card. Apparently, so do a great number of people fighting a losing war in the Battle of the Bulge.

Last year, Simmon's Deal-A-Meal sold 2 million units. He buys 30-minute slots on a variety of television outlets, allowing him to be seen up to 23 times a day in some markets.

Simmons travels 300 days of the year, preaching the same threeprong attack: eating well, physical fitness and motivation.

SOMEHOW, Simmons has gained a credibility in a market not always known for integrity. One reason is that he's been there himself.

As a teenager, Simmons ballooned to 268 pounds. He then went on a starvation diet that nearly left him dead. From there, he learned the essentials of nutrition and fitness and has been on the charge since.

2 brothers and 2 sisters give new meaning to togetherness

By Sue Mason staff writer

Daniel Webster describes togetherness as "the spending of much time together as in social and leisure-time activities by the members of a family, especially when regarded as resulting in a more unified, stable relationship."

For Teri and Geri O'Brien of Southfield and George and Scott Barnum of Livonia, it's a case of together-

Teri and Geri grew up together, went to school together, even went on dates together. Now it's time for the biggest day of their lives and . . . yep, they're doing it together.

Ditto for George and Scott. They grew up together, went to school together and went on dates together. And like Terl and Gerl, they're sharing the biggest day

You see, George is marrying Teri and Scott is marrying Geri in a double wedding at Fairlane Assembly of God West in Northville on Saturday, Feb. 11. "It's like having best friends, but it's better, they're family," Gerl said of the impending nuptials. "We've always done things together, and the four of us have been together for the last six years." Teri said.

'Where two of us are, the other two are." The double romance dates back almost six years to when they were students at Temple Christian School in Redford Township. ...

GEORGE AND Terl were a part of a group of boys and girls who dated. Eventually, they began seeing each other on their own, and they have been seeing each other ever since.

"She had a lot of the qualities I was looking for in a woman I wanted to have a relationship with," George said. "Her love, her honesty and trust . . . I can depend on her and confide in her."

Scott, on the other hand, was the school heartthrob, according to Gerl, and "hung around with everyone but me." By the summer of ninth grade, things had changed.

"We started dating and never wanted to date anyone else," Geri said. "As soon as we were together, we knew. It just clicked."

BECAUSE SCOTT and Geri couldn't drive, they ended up going on dates with George and Teri. Their nickname was "the kids," according to Teri.

"They were always there, so we got used to having them around," she said.

"We all started going together at the same time," Scott said. "It was accidental and neither of them (George and Teri) encouraged us to date. We were the class couples and we were expected to get married."

George, 23, and Teri, 22, graduated in 1984. George went on to get two electronic degrees from Schoolcraft Community College. Teri, on the other hand, landed a job as an office manager and went to Oakland Community College part time. After five years of dating and with their schooling out of the way, they decided to make it official and got engaged on Valentine's Day, 1988. They also decided to walt one year before saying "I do." SCOTT, 19, and Geri, 19, graduated in 1987. Scott owns his own lawn service and is attending Schoolcraft College during the winter months. Teri, like her sister, is a part-time student at QCC and works in an office. Scott was ready to pop the question to Geri, but decided to let his older brother make the first move. Within a day of George and Teri getting engaged, Scott and Gerl announced their intention to wed. "Everyone tells us were a little young," Scott said.

"They expected it from the older one, but not from "I'm happy for him," George said. "He's a very responsible young person. The most responsible person I know for his age."

their engagements.

SINCE THEY were both going to marry, the couples decided to make it a double wedding. They picked Feb. 11 because it's the closest Saturday to one year after SIMMONS WITH his own experience fasting obviously doesn't recommend the latter. His own regiment includes doing 300 sit-ups and 300 push-ups in the morning. He concludes the day with a speed walk.

His 1,600-calorle diet includes fruit ("God's version of cocaine") and some type of grain for breakfast. For lunch, he has a salad and for dinner a piece of broiled fish or chicken with vegetables.

'Fat people look at a couple of things," he said. "They look at the numbers on the scale, how much weight they lose and how many calories are in food. We're a little more and sugar. But they're still eating the stuff."

Togetherness follows them right to the altar

"The four of us looked at each other and said why not," Gerl said. "People had been teasing us that it would be a double wedding."

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry O'Brien of Southfield and Mr. and Mrs: George Barnum of Livonia, sent out one announcement for the double nuptials, partially to avoid confusion. According to Teri, they 'still got phone calls."

They will have 20 people in the wedding party -10groomsmen and 10 bridesmaids - as well as four ushers. To carry out the unity theme, the bridemaids will all wear the same red dress.

The brides will wear gowns of their choice and each couple will recite wedding vows they wrote themselves. There also will be separate wedding cakes.

NOW, YOU may wonder how the parents are handling the double wedding. According to Geri, their folks "like it." "They only have two daughters and two sons," she said. "My mom says she's happy because now she'll have two sons." "Their parents and our parents knew each other as teenagers," Teri said. "They met the first time and

'The four of us looked at each other and said why not. People had been teasing us that it would be a double wedding.' •

And, you may ask, does this togetherness extend to the honeymoon plans? Nope.

"We drew the line with the honeymoon," George said. "We weren't going to go on one, but we had some extra money and decided that you only get married once, so we're going." Well, George is partially right. They will have separate honeymoons - in the same state. George and Teri will honeymoon in Key Largo, Fla., while Scott and Geri have opted for Orlando.

After their respective honeymoons, George and Teri will move into a house they have bought in the Old Redford section of Detroit. Scott and Geri will live in Farmington Hills.

Writer shows hesitancy

Dear Ms. Green,

I have read your column for years and have enjoyed it tremendously. I have often thought about writing, but I think "procrastination" must be my middle name.

. Anyway, I would love to have my handwriting analyzed — so here it is for you to consider. Thank you.

Dear R.D.

I am most happy for your continued interest in my graphology column. I am also happy that you finally took the initiative and wrote for an analysis of your handwriting.

I cannot miss the signs of hesitation and deliberateness that weave throughout your handwriting, causing you to often move at a slow, languid pace. When you find yourself in a pressure situation or feel rushed, you probably become frustrated, causing your productivity to suffer.

This handwriting further reveals that you are a woman who is gregarious and outgoing. Your need for people is quite apparent. And you are eager to have their approval and recognition. You enjoy doing things on a grand scale.

Self-consciousness, which is usually the result of past criticism, can also be seen. When placed in unfamiliar situations, or when involved with people whom you feel are superior in some way, the self-awareness is magnified. I realize this may sound like a contradiction, but be assured we all have some contradictory traits in our personalities.

You are very aware of space. And you do not like living or working in small quarters. You need elbow space so that you can circulate and

ARE YOU experiencing difficulty in pursuing your goals at this time? Both your goals and faith in your own ability seem to shift, making it difficult for you to stabilize in a given direction.____

Concentration can be erratic or not entirely dependable. Feelings of insecurity regarding your self-worth and acceptance by others surface. When feeling expansive, you are outgoing, friendly and tend to be more sure of yourself. When, however, doubt takes over, you retreat or go into a shell. This causes you to lose faith in yourself.

A tendency to rationalize may take place when this happens. Emotionally, you are a leaner. Your outward behavior is strongly dependent on the attitudes of those around you as well as your own mood at the

Your perception from early life where you don't see your parents as together in their nuturing continues.

Two valuable traits weave throughout this handwriting. The first one is your sense of humor which is a winsome quality that others find in you. And the second one is intuition. Don't be reluctant to listen to the little voice inside that says "Play your hunch."

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first-person singular. Full signature, date of birth and handedness are all helpful. And feedback is always welcome.

Center sponsors contest

Students in the first through 12th grades could literally end up at the "Head of the Class," the television show, that is.

The Sylvan Learning Center in Livonia is offering a visit with Brian Robbins on the set of the TV comedy as the grand prize in its Take the SMART Step contest.

Entering the SMART Step contest is easy. Students need only stop by the center, 37727 Professional Center Drive, in the Laurel Park Center at Six Mile and Newburgh Road, Livonia, for SMART Steps Super Saturday Jan. 28.

The center will hold an open house from noon to 3 p.m. so students can learn about SMART Steps, which can help pinpoint learning problems and develop solutions. The winner of the contest will visit Robbins in Hollywood and attend a "Head of the Class" taping. If the winner is in the seventh through 12th grade, he or she will be given a walkon part in the show.

There also will be door prizes, refreshments and live music during the open house.

Sylvan Center provides supplemental education for students in such areas as reading and mathematics as well as college preparatory work.

SMART is an anacronym for a five-step process to help students. The S stands for scope out where you are in school, while the M stands for make a plan. A is for ask for help, R for raise your grades and T for try your best.

Theologians ponder God's humorous side

AP - "It is easier," Jesus Christ once said to the disciples gathered around him, "for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

Like many master humorists, Jesus used exaggeration, even hyperbole, to jolt his listeners, said the Rev. Wes Seeliger, an Episcopal priest, cartoonist and humorist.

"People read that with glum seriousness," Seeliger said, "but that's one of Jesus' funnies. What Jesus did is a Gary Larson job. He acted out on the pious religious trap that people found themselves in."

Humor pervades Seeliger's life and theology. Sometimes it's blatant; other times, subtly satirical. Like other dry wits, he uses humor two ways - to poke fun at the church's foibles and to unmask its potential.

To many Christians, his theology is unorthodox. But others agree with him that humor may be the most neglected element in the chemistry of Christianity.

What stumps Christians, Elton Trueblood, the eminent Quaker said, is that they're so sure Jesus is deadly serious. "A misguided piety," he said, "has made us fear that acceptance of his obvious wit and humor would somehow be mildly blasphemous or sacrilegious."

In the middle of a serious story, Trueblood said, Jesus might interrupt himself with an acute, sly insertion. An example: "But know this, that if the householder had known at what hour the thief was coming, he would have been awake and would not have left his house to be broken into." (Luke 12:39)

"ALL OF us know that it is easy to be smart when we are tipped off," Trueblood writes in the 1975 edition of his book "The Humor of Christ," and that "to be forewarned is to be forearmed. but Christ delights us, in this case, by a fresh statement of the obvious."

But finding the humor in Scripture means surmounting a history of obstacles. The four gospels of the New Testament, the only real portraits of Jesus, stress the tragedy of Christ's death and passion. In the same spirit, most artists emphasized the somber when they began to produce speculative portraits of Christ.

Biblical scholars see the Old Testament as a library of jokes, humor, puns, irony and satire. Woven into the Hebrew Scriptures, they say, is a 'sense of playfulness" often lost to the modern reader, especially in translation.

"From a literary standpoint, the book of Jonah is a comic masterpiece, delightful, but also devastating in its humor, irony and satire," Conrad Hyers, a religion professor from Minnesota, said in a 1985 article for the short-lived theological journal, LIGHT (Laughter in God, History and Theology, an experimental journal designed to gauge interest in theology and humor).

"When we look at the figure of Jonah," he said, "His self-centeredness and narrow mindedness, his extreme behavior, his inverted sense of values, his self-contradictions, we laugh at him and in the process find that we are laughing at ourselves."

PRESENT-DAY American Protestants inherited their Puritan forebears' suspicion of humor, historians say. Play had little place in Puritan work and spirituality, and it seems humor was equally absent.

"The cumulative result has been a one-sided emphasis on the serious, at the expense of humor, laughter, joy and play," said scholar Fred D. Layman. "Taboos have been erected around the sacred which involve the repudiation of comedy worth living. -

It seems like a contradiction in that they are superior to others.

So toss out that theology and give-Scripture another look, said Southern Baptist Tal D. Bonham of Columbus, Ohio.

"It was humor that drew me to Christ," he said. "The more faith I learned, the more humor I acquired," a knack he used in writing many books including "Humor, God's Gift," (Broadman Press, 1988, $12.95.)

The word laughter, Bonham said, first shows up in the Bible in a context that would be equally ridiculous today. Turn to Genesis in which God tells Abraham that his wife, Sarah, age 90 plus, will have another child.

"Sarah, listening at the tent door, could not hold back the laughter," Bonham said. "When their baby was born, Abraham and Sarah named him Issac, the Hebrew word for laughter or "he laughs."

Seeliger believes in using humor to teach theology the same way a parent might make a joke to gently reprimand a child. In his book, "Western Theology," (Pioneer Ventures Publishers, Houston, $6.95,) he uses frontier images of settlers, pioneers, sheriffs and trail bosses to preach an eloquent, sometimes irreverent, sermon on what's right and wrong in church land.

IN ONE section, he describes the Wild West saloon with a different twist. "The Olive Branch is the settlers' favorite hangout," Seeliger writes. "They go there when life gets dull, or when the feel lonely. Miss Dove tickles them under the chin and makes everything OK again."

But settling won't work in a life of faith, Seeliger said. The pioneer mentality - "moving beyond where you are in spite of danger" - is the more creative way to live. Humor points beyond itself to cosmic trust.

"What faith in God means is that we always assume that, no matter what situation we're in, that situation is bracketed by a much larger reality," Seeliger said. "One of the sure signs of idolatry is a lack of a sense of humor. Look at the photographs of Adolf Hitler. It's almost impossible to find one of him smiling."

The free-trade treaty offers great opportunities for Michigan companies willing to cross the border and do business in Canada, conference participants stressed...

Free trade: an opportunity for Detroit firms

By Tim Richard staff writer

Michigan, particularly metro Detroit, can be a big winner under the U.S.'s new free-trade agreement with Canada — if local businesses wake up and act.

Although free trade was an overriding issue in Canada's November election, and has been for decades, U.S. companies are less aware of the trade possibilities, a series of speakers said last week.

"Michigan stands to benefit tre-mendously," said economist David Sowerby of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. "Michigan has exports of $8 billion to Canada, and 180,000 workers are dependent on exports. Michigan in the next five years can increase its exports by $1 billion and add 25,000 jobs.

"This (U.S.-Canadian market) is the largest bilateral market in the world," Sowerby told several dozen manufacturers, retailers, lawyers and bankers in a conference sponsored by Ernst & Whinney, an international accounting and business ad-

The prices of Canadian imports in the U.S. will drop 8-9 percent, and the prices of American imports in Canada will fall 4-5 percent, creating more growth on both sides of the border, he sald.

CANADA'S unionists and Liberal politicians were adamantly opposed to free trade, speakers said. But its businesspeople welcome it, know more about the treaty and have a more global outlook than Americans - even though Americans are seen as formidable competitors.

"Essentially, our audience was middle-market, light to medium manufacturers, predominantly privately held and predominantly serving the automotive sector," said Bob Bublitz, who chaired the conference. The Livonia resident is an international tax partner with Ernst & Whinney in Detroit.

"There's a lot of work for lawvers." said Bob Love, E&W marketing expert in Canada, citing branch offices and joint ventures.

"It's at the level of the individual firm that the agreement will succeed or fall," said Sal Badali, E&W's top international trade man from New York.

UNDER LIBERAL premier Pierre Trudeau, Canada in the 1960s and '70s was hostile to foreign investment, Badali said. "There was a fear in Canada that would become the 51st state."

Not only has Brian Mulroney's Progressive-Conservative government reversed that attitude, Badali said, but the "threshold" for reviewing American purchases will be raised from last year's $8 million to 11 percent of yours is exported. You $150 million by 1992. It means that wonder why you have a trade defismaller American purchases of Canadian business property won't be

The U.S. opted for free trade by quickly rejecting the presidential candidacy of Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., Sowerby said.

ONTARIO trade minister Walter Stothers told the group his office will help American investors.

"In Canada, 37 percent of our gross domestic product is exported; cit?" he asked.

Tips for expanding up north

Individual firms must pick their shots when deciding to expand into the Canadian market.

Bill Selecman, Ernst & Whinney's manufacturing consultant, had some specific suggestions for area manufacturers.

• Companies with plants producing full lines in both the U.S. and Canada should think about specializing their production lines in one country or another.

• Top management should set up committees to study competitor Canadian firms, identifying their success factors, patents and areas of research.

• Canada's population is stretched out. An American company, particularly in the Detroit area, has a transportation advantage selling just across the border compared to a Canadian competitor in the east or west.

• Canada has a half-dozen nationwide commercial banks. "It's generally better to pick a Canadian bank," said Tom Parnell of Manufacturers Bank'sinternational department.

 Canada's population of 27 million is about one-tenth the size of the U.S. population, and the Canadian stock market is one-tenth as large. Smaller companies can get their publicly traded shares listed more easily on the Canadian exchange.

Canadian currency is very stable compared to European and Asian currencies. Therefore, said Matt Plachwan of Manufacturers Bank, "We encourage you to do business, not speculate in currency."

Highlights of new treaty

Highlights of the new U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement:

• Tariff barriers are abolished - some immediately, others over five years or 10 years. Canada's average tariff is 9.5 percent, about twice the average U.S. tariff.

• Exporters must prove the domestic content of their products. There must be a significant valueadded content, and it must have been assembled in the U.S.

• U.S. companies selling machinery that requires servicing will find their service personnel will face less hassle at Canadian Cus-

• Penalties for violating content rules are severe.

Some 75 percent of U.S.-Canada trade already was duty-free. Some major changes: Canada will drop its 17.5 percent tariff on telephone switching equipment. The U.S. will drop its 18 percent tariff on ethanol. Canada will raise the "threshold" level for examination of U.S. business acquisitions.

Eliminated immediately are tariffs on computers, some pork, some unprocessed fish, furs, leather, whiskey, animal feeds, unwrought aluminum, vending machines, skates, railroad airbrakes, needles, ferro alloys, skis and motorcycles.

Going in five years will be tariffs on subway cars, chemicals (including resins), explosives, paints, furniture, paper products, printed matter, hardwood plywood, aftermarket auto parts and some meats.

Gone in 10 years will be tariffs on most agricultural products, beef, steel, textiles, apparel, appliances, softwood plywood, pleasure craft, rail cars, tires and many manufactured goods.

1st Nationwide Banks inside K marts recruit customers as new depositors

By Pat Murphy staff writer

While Janine McGillivary was browsing at the Farmington Hills K mart last November, she opened a savings account.

"I really didn't intend to do any banking when I went in," said the 20year-old Southfield resident. "But it (the bank) was there, and the people were friendly. So I opened an account. So did my sister, Colleen.

The McGillivary sisters now bank with 1st Nationwide Bank, a subsidiary of the Ford Motor Co. It came into the highly competitive Detroit area in 1987 and now has 35 branches, including 1st Dearborn Federal Association and Bloomfield Federal Savings and Loan, which were acguired in December.

Six are mini banks inside K mart stores in Farmington, Farmington Hills, Warren and Livonia. They offer a wide range of services including savings and checking accounts, certificates of deposit, consumer loans and mortgage applications. They are part of a marketing strategy initiated in California in 1984 and subsequently implemented in 12 states.

"It's a natural," said Joseph G. Chupek, vice president and regional sales manager for 1st Nationwide. "There's a lot of traffic in K mart dle-income people we want."

NOT ONLY DOES 1st Nationwide want those middle-income customers, personnel at the K mart branches are trained to go out and recruit them - as was the case with the McGillivary sisters.

Janine said she and her sister, both employees of Henry Ford Hospital, were not thinking about banking when they went browsing at K mart. But they were approached by Carol L. Eaddy, a financial services supervisor, who solicited their business.

"She was very friendly and persuasive," Janine said of Eaddy. "My old bank was so nasty, and she was stores, and they're the kind of mid- such a contrast. So I started an ac-

Eaddy, a banker for about five vears, said her recruiting is an offshoot of bank policy. "Other banks say they are people-oriented. We really are," said Eaddy, who is also a part-time business student at Wayne State University.

Jeffrey P. Sfreddo, financial services counselor at the K mart branch in Livonia, said he got into the banking business almost by accident last fall when he answered an advertisement for a sales position. That sales position turned out to be with 1st Nationwide at the Livonia branch. Sfreddo graduated from Michigan State University in 1986 with a degree in advertising.

Sfreddo and Eaddy said they view their jobs as a combination of banking and sales, with heavy emphasis on friendly involvement with customers. "We want people to know we appreciate their business and we care," said Eaddy.

FIRST NATIONWIDE is going to need that enthusiasm and personalized service — as well as competitive rates, - according to observers who say putting branches in K marts is yet to be proven as a marketing strategy.

"The jury is still out, said Justin L. Moran, an Ann Arbor banking consultant. "It's just too early to say whether that strategy will work tomers don't normally stop at a chain store like K mart or Sears as frequently as they shop at a grocery store or pharmacy.

"When was the last time you went into a K mart?" Moran said. "Compare that with the number of times you go to the supermarket. I personally believe mini banks would be more successful in food markets."

In 1986, D&N (formerly Detroit & Northern) Bank of Hancock opened five K mart branches in Grand Rapids and two in Flint when it was part of the 1st Nationwide Network. They were closed Dec. 31.

"We closed those branches because we disaffiliated with the 1st Nationwide Network," said Steve

One reason, he said, is that cus- DuBois, assistant vice president of investor relations and public affairs for D&N. "The closings don't necessarily mean the branches failed or were a bad idea."

Mutual Savings and Loan Association of Bay City has operated five branches inside Meijer stores - including those in Royal Oak, Canton and Taylor - for about five years: said Donald J. Savera, senior vice president and director of marketing.

"They've been moderately successful," said Savera, "especially last fall" when people were signing up for loans for the Michigan Education Trust, the state-sponsored tuition guarantee program. "But every bank function is evaluated on a yearto-year basis."

Trend of California watching is dying trend

By Dan McCosh special writer.

The average speed on the freeways in Los Angeles is 17 mph and dropping. Rush, "hour" traffic is a subject for nostalgia, since these days there are only five hours left in a 24-hour period during which traffic moves at all, and two of these are between three and five a.m.

Smog lays in the valley in a thick brown cloud, and it's 50 degrees affer a week of rain, which is the kind of weather I usually get whenever I get a chance to go to some tepid spot in the middle of a Michigan winter. Which wouldn't seem so bad except that the radio keeps reminding me that it's warmer back home.

Adding to the aggravation is a special section in the Los Angeles Times on what "outsiders" think about Los Angeles. Los Angeles people worry a lot about what other people think of them, which makes them more or less like Detroit people.

This is mainly because nearly everybody in Los Angèles is from my old high school in Royal Oak. This westward migration started when a kid in my sister's class moved to Los Angeles and married Jane Fonda, without even having a regular job, which established the place firmly in the future fantasies of a generation.

NOW THEY are all stuck in traffic, since they all got a job on the other side of town from their house - now worth about a half million with a view of an auto parts store.

Los Angles people feel all the important trends start here, which is why there are special trend-watch-companies in California. Trendwatching is not a new trend, however. GM Stylist Harley Earl, for example, was recruited from California where he had a hot business customizing cars for Hollywood types, which included putting a saddle on the roof of Tom Mix's car.

Actually, the most noticable trend today in California is an overall glut of old trends. Unlike Detroiters, who will build a trampoline center or two, then bulldoze it when it goes out ing posts sponsored by all the auto of fashion, Californians hang on to their trends. It's not unusual to see a slightly pot-bellled, middle-aged skateboarder still perfecting his sport, for instance, although the flip turns are getting a little weak.

ALONG WITH a glut of old trends, there is a glut of old cars, since they haven't discovered the economic benefits of putting salt all over the roads to keep the new-car business

This includes the kind of wimpy imports that end up looking like an Upper Peninsula stop sign at the end of deer season after a Michigan winter or two, which still gleam until you look inside and discover all that sunlight has turned the interior into Dracula dust.

I keep looking for new trends on the road, but there's nothing much I haven't seen before on Telegraph: mainly short pickups and tall fourwheel drives, with the Koreans noticably replacing the Japanese.

Porsches and Mercedes are less in evidence, since I stick mainly to the east side of town, but maybe those house payments are finally taking their toll.

I BEGAN to realize it's possible we've made too much of this California thing, after years of worrying about what kind of cars Californians are going to be driving next. With a quarter of the cars sold in the United States on the left coast, and half of those imports, the trend watching is done in earnest.

But now the Japanese are announcing their new concentration will be on Midwest markets.

Then comes the announcements that Jim Perkins, who spent 20 years or so at: Chevrolet and then moved to California and Toyota, was lured back to GM to become heir apparent to the general manager's slot at Chevrolet Division.

Was it money? Did he finally tire of struggling to speak the language? Or was he a mole in the heart of Calanese car culture, bringing inside information back to revitalize Chevro-

It may be the start of another trend, which I will look into as soon as my suntan wears off.

organized under the direction of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Alumni Association to provide assistance to emerging growth companies. Its primary activity consists of monthly evening sessions in which company business plans accepted for presentation are evaluated during 'no-holds-barred" sessions.

Led by a panel of alumni experts and experienced business executives, the sessions allow entrepreneurs to obtain feedback and advice regarding their plan and their enterprise while being offered suggestions for improvement.

Through their experience, forum members have developed a list of requirements for winning business plans. As the most important tool used to obtain money from outside investors, the plan must be the best

The MIT Enterprise Forum was that can be written and packaged. The MIT Forum considers the following as essential elements of any successful plan:

• It must be arranged appropriately with an executive summary, a table of contents and its chapters in

Winning ways end, Lady Ocelots upset

Travel can be treacherous, as Schoolcraft College's womens basketball team discovered Saturday.

The Lady Ocelots packed their 18game winning streak (7-0 in the Eastern Conference) and took it on the road to Alpena CC Saturday, a team they had thrashed 83-57 at SC Dec. 7. All factors considered, it seemed a sure bet that come Sunday, SC's streak would have reached 19.

Not so fast. Alpena, which had won just two of seven previous conference games and was .500 overall, sinking 20-of-29 first-half shots (mostly from the perimeter), then turning back SC with free throws in the second to upset the conference leaders 95-82.

'We didn't shoot that well in the second : half," admitted SC coach Jack Grenan.

That was one basic reason for the loss, but there were others. Like fouls (four Lady Ocelots had four each with five minutes still to play), both called and uncalled. Alpena got the calls; Grenan felt SC didn't.

THE FREE THROWS resulting from those calls played a major role in the win for Alpena, which sank 11of-18 from the line in the second half to four-of-five for SC.

Everything considered, Grenan's perspective was best: "They played good and we played just fair."

Lisa DePlanche was red-hot in the first half, scoring 22 points as SC kept pace with Alpena. The game was tied at 53 at the intermission.

But DePlanche was shut down in the second half, scoring just six points to finish with 28. Darlene Bazner picked up the pace, getting 12 of her 15 points in the second half. Bazner also had six steals in the added 16 points and Moran had 12.

Michelle Dyksinski netted 13 points and Barb Krug had nine and 10 rebounds.

SC is now 18-1 overall and 7-1 in the conference, still clinging to a one-game lead. Alpena is 10-9 overall, 3-5 in the conference.

SC'S MENS TEAM had what has become an all-too-familar problem at Alpena CC Saturday: too little talent, in a manner of speaking.

The Ocelots may have had enough got-its act-together for this game, talent-to-beat-Alpena. But when Al-Hudson and Mark Koronka fouled out and there was still 13 minutes left to play, the talent remaining was literally too little to handle an Alpena front line that measured 6foot-7 across.

> Still, SC fought gamely with its five-guard lineup before succumbing 83-77. The loss dropped the Ocelots to 5-16 overall, 1-9 in the Eastern Conference; Alpena is 9-12 overall, 3-7 in the conference.

> Oddly, SC trailed by 11 when its two tallest players - 6-4 Koronka, who left with eight points and five rebounds, and 6-6 Hudson, who didn't score and had four boards — went to the sidelines. Alpena switched from a zone defense to a man-to-man, and the Ocelots answered with six straight points.

> With 1:29 left, the Alpena lead was just three. But SC's-Mike Mercer missed a layup and John Moran and Rob Harmon each failed on the front end of one-and-one free throws.

> Bernard McGee excelled for SC with 29 points, nine rebounds, five assists and three steals. Ken Fuster Mark Allen's 27 points led Alpena.

Eagles fall out of race

Truman posts 57-49 wi

By Brad Emons staff writer

There could be little sympathy for the way the Redford Thurston basketball team played Tuesday, as first-place Taylor Truman sang "Cry me a little Tri-River League," scoring a 57-49 victory over the secondplace Eagles.

The Eagles had all the incentive coming into the league showdown. They were playing at home and were looking for revenge after losing to Truman last month, 64-54.

But Thurston came up woefully flat, particularly in the third quarter when the Cougars' pressing defense converted turnovers into points to the tune of a 21-9 scoring spurt.

The uprising all but wiped out the momentum Thurston carried into the locker room at halftime, following Mike Lucy's 28-foot banker, a three-pointer at the buzzer which gave the Eagles a 20-18 advantage.

"The kids felt good at the half, but we still had 16 minutes to go," said Thurston coach Mike Schuette. whose team fell to 7-2 in the Tri-River. "It was nice to have the lead, but sooner or later we knew that they would put pressure on us.

"I WAS SURPRISED they didn't come out after us in the beginning of the game. We practiced for it and we anticipated it, but when Truman came out the third quarter, we didn't execute against it (the press). We had a hard time remembering what had practiced."

basketball

Guard Trevor Wormley, Truman's top offensive threat, was held scoreless during the first-half, but-exploded for 13 of his 17 points in the third

The Cougars also got 19 points from 6-foot-3 forward Kevin McKinney, who picked up the slack for the lethargic Marshall Newsome, the 6.6 senior who wound up fouling out with only two points.

"It was an atrocious first half for us, but I thought both teams were a little tight coming in," said Truman coach Van Kostegian, whose team is 11-3 overall and 9-0 in the Tri-River. "We did a good job in the third quarter. We hurt them the last time with our trap, but we figured they (Thurston) would be ready for it, so we thought we'd catch them later on inthe game.

"In the third quarter we picked up the tempo and it helped us quite a

THE EAGLES TRAILED 41-29 early in the fourth quarter, bot clawed back to within five, 48-43, on two free throws by guard Malt Farris with 1:59 remaining.

CC pins state-ranked field

By Brad Emons staff writer

The Redford Catholic Central High wrestling team is back.

The defending state Class A champion Shamrocks, who had slipped third in the state Class A rankings, made it clear Saturday in their 25th annual invitational tournament that they're still the team to beat.

The meet, which attracted 16 teams, including the top four rated in Class A, saw the Shamrocks send six to the finals and one other to the consolation finals en route to a team-high 175 points.

Number one Temperance-Bedford, which has had the best of CC in recent tournaments and dual meets, slipped to third with 167. Birmingham Brother Rice was a close second with 169. (See statistical summary).

It was CC's third straight invitational crown and it put a smile on coach Mike Rodriguez's face.

"I'm not astonished with our team strength, but in an invitational like this I was amazed because we were behind all day long," said the CC coach, who has guided the Shamrocks to seven state crowns. "I thought we'd be lucky to be in the top three (teams) and five of our guys in the finals.

"And there I saw Bedford with a host of guys in the consolation and we had nobody in the wrestle-backs (consolation rounds). I could see it coming all over again."

CC, HOWEVER, scored well in eight weight divisions, led by champions Jay Helm (145 pounds) and Chris Rodriguez (152) to claim the team title.

Helm avenged an earlier loss this season to Arnett Turner of Mount Clemens by scoring an impressive 14-5 victory.

bizarre manner.

Dan Kelly of Redford Catholic Central lost this 160-pound match in the first round to Dan McLean of Holt.

After avenging a loss to Bedford's Brian Wingate in the semifinals, a pin in 2:50, the CC senior met the highly volatile Gino Choulnard of Lansing Sexton in the finals.

And Chouinard erupted like a volguys didn't score, but we had six cano before the match was even 15 seconds old, throwing an elbow at his opponent and then getting disqualifled for tackling the referee, who tried to calm things down.

> The other finals involving CC wrestlers were not quite as dramatic, but there were some good match-

In the heavyweight division, CC's Lee Krueger, last year's state champion at 198 pounds, lost a 3-2 overtime decision to Bedford's Roman

It was the third time the two had met. A late reversal move helped Rodriguez, meanwhile, won in a give the Bedford grappler a 2-1 season edge over Krueger.

AT 130 POUNDS, two old rivals met with Davison's Brad Smith edging CC's Matt Helm, 3-2.

One of CC's biggest surprises came at 145 pounds, where Brian Tulley pinned Tom Bucks of Lansing Eastern in the semifinals before losing to Bedford's Denver Beck in the championship, a pin in 5:15.

(189), who blanked Rick Lowe of Lansing Sexton in the semifinals, 5-0, before being pinned by Warren Lincoln's Ralph Amine.

Two other CC wrestlers also placed, including Kevin Rowe, who was fifth at 112 and Mike Gentile, who took third at 125.

"Tulley's performance was a plus," said the CC coach. "Chris (Rodriguez) had a couple of good victories. He met two people who had beaten him before and he pinned them both.

"And Lou (Yeager) is getting better each week. He's getting his legs back after coming off football."

The meet, which is often a preview to the state Class A finals, had its share of outstanding individuals.

AMONG THE INDIVIDUAL state champions who captured titles were: Greg Paiz of Grandville (125), Chris Henderson of Sexton (125) and tournament MVP Dean Moscovic (160).

Moscovic captured his third straight CC Invitational crown along with Paiz.

Now 33-0 on the year, Moscovic made an impressive showing for the Warriors along with teammate Kevin Kinane, who also remained undefeated by taking the 119-pound

Also reaching the finals for Rice 7was Derek Moscovic (103) and Chris/ Snooks (135).

"I thought we could finish anywhere from first to fifth," said Rice coach John Segula. "The key was our first- and second-round pins. It was an unbelievable amount of pins for us. That boosted our scoring and it was a real team effort.

"This invitational is basically a CC's other finalist was Lou Yeager state meet and I was pleased with our effort. Plus, beating Bedford is always nice."

Rodriguez said "winning the 25th meet was special."

"It's pretty hard not to get fired up in your own backyard," he said.
"I definitely think we'll be a strong tourney team. We've had some weaknesses throughout the whole year, but we're getting some people

Patriots stun Harrison on Donehue steal

Mark Donehue's basket with nine seconds left lifted Livonia Franklin to a 60-58 upset victory over Farmington Harrison in a boys basketball game Tuesday over the state-ranked Hawks.

The win improved Franklin to 6-5 overall, 3-3 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association, Harrison, meanwhile, fell to 10-2, 5-1 in the Western Division.

Host Harrison played more than three quarters without leading scorer Chad Burgess, who left the game with a sprained ankle after scoring two points. Marcus Mack led the Hawks with 16 points and teammate Bryan Wauldron contributed 11.

Donehue, who led the Patriots with 16 points. stole an outlet pass in Harrison's end and put in a layup for the winning points. Harrison had the last possession, but was unable to get off a shot. John Shea added 14 points for Franklin and Craig Overaitis and Roy Hall added 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Harrison made 25 field goals but only converted five-of-10 free throws. Franklin made just 19 field goals but was 16-of-21 at the line.

"This is a good victory for our program and I hope we use it to build on," Franklin coach Rod Hanna said. "With this victory, hopefully they'll start believing in themselves more and be more

The Chargers moved to 2-4 in the division, 4-8 overall. Northville dipped to 1-5, 5-7.

Churchill's defense was the difference. The Chargers led 19-6 after one quarter and continued its dominance in the second eight minutes, building a 33-15 advantage at halftime.

"I thought we played good defense in the first half, we didn't let them get into their offense," Churchill coach Fred Price said.

Jason Belaire and Chad Campau added nine points each for Churchill and Eric Osen contributed seven points and six rebounds. Heath Meyers led Northville with 19 points and Chris House added 12.

non-conference defeat leaves host RU at 6-4 overall. "He scored 36 against us last year, so we knew what to expect," Smathers said. "We tried five different defenses against him, but couldn't do anything about it.

He just bumps and grinds inside to his potential." Joe Delfgauw scored 23 for RU and Steve Nowak and Dan Lezotte added 15 and 14, respectively, for RU. The Panthers made 10 three-point shots, with Delfgauw and Nowak making three each.

REDFORD CC_67. BISHOP GAL-LAGHER 61: Redford Catholic Central rebounded from its disappointing loss last Friday to Redford Bishop Borgess by edging Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher Tuesday at home.

The Shamrocks are 6-1 in the Catholic League's Central Division, 7-5 overall. Gallagher is 1-6 in the league, 5-7 overall. Scott Hauncher led CC with a season-high 24 points.

GARDEN CITY 44, SOUTH LYON 42: David Marihugh scored just one basket Tuesday at home against visiting South Lyon, but it was an important one. It came with :34 left and provided Garden City with its winning points.

The victory was the Cougars second against nine defeats. South Lyon slipped to 1-11.

GC led 24-20 at the half and 35-33 after three quarters. South Lyon stayed close with free throws, making 13-of-21 to two-of-five for the Cougars.

Jim Marszalek led GC with 10 points. Bud Barnett added seven and 14 rebounds. Denny Moyer's 16 points paced South Lyon; Jamie Duncan had 10.

STEVENSON 79, N. FARMINGTON 58: North Farmington's miscues and four double-figure Livonia Stevenson scorers added up to a one-sided game Tuesday at North.

The Raiders (6-6 overall, 4-2 in the Lakes Division) committed 19 turnovers - 11 in the first half, when Stevenson (6-5 overall, 3-3 in the Lakes) took command. The Spartans led 16-10 after one quarter and 38-

NOTRE DAME 47, BORGESS 45 (OT): Less than 15 seconds remained in overtime and Redford Bishop Borgess had just scored Tuesday at Harper Woods Notre Dame. The Spartans still tralled by two, but they stole the ball and got off a game-tying shot. Then they got off another. And another. All three missed.

Borgess' Shawn Respert had forced the OT, tying the score with :05 left in regulation. He finished with 21 points. Charles North added nine for the Spartans (8-4 overall, 6-2 in the Catholic League's Central Division). Notre Dame got 15 points from Clarence Hunter, 12 from Bernard Richmond and 10 from Eric Taylor.

MONROE 71, WAYNE 67: A five-point Wayne Memorial lead (34-29) at the half of Tuesday's game at Monroe evaporated in the third quarter, in which the Zebras were outscored 21-15.

Willie Jones wrecked Wayne's upset hopes with 26 points for Monroe (7-5 overall, 6-2 in the Wolverine A League), including 18-of-18 free throws. Jason Hunter added 18, including six-of-six from the line. Monroe made 31-of-34 foul shots to eight-of-14 for the Zebras (8-3 overall, 5-3 in the WAL).

Tony Rumple's 17 points topped Wayne. Kevin Hankerson had 15 and Larry Johnson 12.

Wayne title to Borgess for 1st time

For the first time in the school's history, Redford Bishop Borgess has captured the Wayne Memorial volleyball tournament.

On Saturday, the Spartans defeated Birmingham Groves for the title, 10-15. 15-7. 15-11, after beating North Farmington in the semifinals, 15-6, 6-15, 18-16; and Royal Oak Kimbail in the quarterfinals, 15-8, 15-11. (Groves advanced by defeating host Wayne in the semifinals.)

In pool play, Borgess downed Westland John Glenn (15-11, 15-12), Mount Clemens (15-0, 15-7) and Garden City (15-7, 15-2).

Seniors Melissa Mars and Tanisha Stokes paced the Borgess offensive attack, combining for 74 kills on the Setter Mazie Pilut was also a standout, recording 20 aces in 50 serves. She went errorless in 400

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN spiked Livonia Stevenson Monday in a Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division, 16-14, 15-8. The Rockets, now 4-8 overall and 2-1 in the WLAA, rallied from a 7-1 deficit in the second game to record the win against the visiting Spartans. Christina Hoffman, a senior, paced the Glenn offensive attack with 13 kills. Dionne Ross added four.

Defensively, Kerry Solano and Sandy Ramirez stood out, combining for 15 digs, while setters Michelle Myers and Tracy Martin each served three aces.

"Stevenson missed a lot of serves and it caught up with them in the second game," said Glenn coach Wendy Bostwick. "We're jelling, we're a lot more aggressive and more positive." Glenn travels tonight to Plymouth Sa-

Wendy Beach's act was too good to top.

She captured two events and compiled the best individual score Monday in leading Northville past Livonia Clarenceville in girls gymnastics, 124.50 to 121.35.

Beach won the vault (8.85) and the bars (8.45), en route to the allaround title with 33.25 points.

Clarenceville, which slipped to 5-3 overall, got two firsts from Lisa Granfeldt on the beam (8.3) and floor exercise (8.5). She was second behind Beach in the allaround, accumulating 31.90 points.

Colleen Wood also had a fine day for Clarenceville, placing second on the vault (8.25) and beam (8.20) and sixth on floor

(7.8).In addition, Clarenceville's Roberta Wiggle was third on vault (8.15), Jennifer Kaipio and Christy Nagorka tied for fourth on beam (7.3), Kaipio took fourth on floor (8.0) and Nagorka placed fourth on bars (7.2). Kaiplo also was third in the all-around with a 28.05 total.

3 Schoolcraft standouts head for Florida

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Lois Webb had hoped for a clean sweep, but three out of four isn't too shabby.

And that's just what the volleyball coach for Florida Southern got last week when three stars for Schoolcraft College's national championship team verbally committed to attend Southern and play for Webb.

Setter Chris Paclero, a Livonia Churchill grad, and outside hitters Marla Evans, from Garden City, and Sarah Heddle, from Ypsilanti, visited the Southern campus a week ago and all three decided that's where they'd like to go.

Webb also was after SC's Nikki Stubbs, the player of the year in the National Junior College Athletic Association, but Stubbs has decided to attend Eastern Michigan and play for Nona Richardson.

"I'M VERY happy to have all three of those girls," said Webb. "I watched them for three days (at the NJCAA finals in Miaml). That's where I got interested in them. I liked their style of play, and the fact that they did not win easily but they never gave up.

"I went after the best and I got

It didn't take long to convince all three to sign. Florida Southern is an NCAA Division II school with an enrollment of 1,800, located in a spot familiar to Detroiters: Lakeland, the Tigers' spring training camp. It is highly-regarded academically and athletically - Webb's teams have been to the NCAA II tournament eight times in her 12 seasons as coach.

Webb is losing three valuable

starters to graduation: Trish Gadberry, an All-American middle hitter, and outside hitters Lisa Frisble and Virginia Huck, both all-region performers. That could open up starting positions for all three, although Webb has also signed Mary Ibaviosa of Jefferson (Mo.) CC, an NJCAA All-American at outside hitter.

IT HELPED that all three received full-ride scholarships.

Evans, who boasts a 3.6 gradepoint average and was named to the NJCAA all-tournament - team, plans on going into elementary education. Paciero wants to go into secondary education, with a social sciences major. Heddle is also planning to go into education.

Although Evans and Heddle made up their minds about Southern while visiting the picturesque campus it's located on Lake Hollingsworth, the school's buildings are all of Frank Lloyd Wright design, and the climate is, well, Florida - Paciero hesitated.

"What they decided to do didn't have any bearing on my decision," she said. "They made up their mind down there, but I waited until I got

The Redford Catholic Central hockey team brought their skates Wednesday to the Redford Ice Arena, but the only problem was they forgot to lace them up.

TRENTON'S third goal was mildly contested, as the CC players and coaching staff claimed the initial shot, taken by Greg Avery, ricocheted off the mesh above the glass behind CC goaltender Matt Fennelly and onto the stick of Durbin.

But it was Oboza's apparent harmless shot just inside the blueline, with only six seconds left before the end of the period, that spelled disaster for the Shamrocks, who were never able to recover.

It was the fourth loss in five games for CC, now 8-5-1 overall and 4-4 in the division. The Shamrocks, besieged with injuries after going 6-1 before the holiday break, apparently haven't snapped out of their dol-

"They came out flat, but after that they played well," said Trenton coach Skip Howey of CC's playing. "If they don't spot us those four goals, it's a different game."

CC is nearly back to full strength, after taking a pounding on Jan. 4 in a 6-6 tie with Detroit Country Day.

THE SHAMROCKS, however, were still missing three starters against Trenton, including forwards Jim Hubenschmidt and Keith Bozyk, along with defenseman Joe Cyrek.

"They're definitely down, no question," said Howey, whose club is 9-0-1 in the division. "But CC has a heck of a program. They just haven't had any breaks this season. Going into this year I thought they were the best team in the state, at least on marks before the season started, particularly with the defense.

But according to the CC coach, the Shamrocks had improved gradually until the injury bug hit, leaving them with only one available defenseman in a 3-2 loss Jan. 14 to No. 1-ranked Southgate Anderson.

"WE NEED a guy like Hubenschmidt back simply because of his work ethic," Gumbleton said. "But I don't want to make excuses, we have to play over the injuries.

"You can't win if you don't skate. We didn't do anything tonight. We started out like we were going to stay in it, but then everybody kind of quit. If we had hustled and skated like we did against Anderson, I wouldn't have been as irritated."

In the second period, with Jim Dietrich replacing Fennelly in the CC nets, Trenton's Craig Ward scored on a slap shot.

CC came back with its first goal, only one second before the horn when Paul Pirronello slapped in a rebound. (Andy Plemmons and Gary Fennelly assisted).

In the final period, Gumbleton went back with Fennelly in the nets, but he was beaten by Brian Voss from point-blank range, taking a pass from Dino Siakantaris at the 8:30 mark.

"What the injuries have done is hurt them emotionally more than anything," said Howey of CC. "But watch out for them in the regionals. Tonight doesn't mean a thing. What matters is the playoffs next month."

Gumbleton, meanwhile, can only point to the playoffs, but he doesn't like what he sees at the moment.

"They Trenton just outhustled us," said the CC coach. "They were working, and we were watching them."

And as one the injured CC players indicated afterward, the next practice won't be a pleasant experience.

New faces buoy Spartans' hopes

With the addition of Mike Morrison from the junior ranks, things are looking up for the Livonia Stevenson hockey team.

Stevenson broke open a close game by outscoring the Redskins 4-1 in the final period.

Matt Cichey scored Stevenson's first two goals, the second on a power-play from Morrison.

John Feneck, John Labodie, Kevin Kubitskey and Craig Aitken, back after being off three weeks with a pulled hamstring, scored goals in the final period.

But it was the play of Morrison, who also assisted on Labodie's goal, that has lifted Stevenson coach Matt Mulcahy's spirits.

"Mike gives us a boost because it gives us depth," Mulcahy sald. "We also picked up a good checker in Brian O'Meara, a little guy who can really go.

By Steve Kowalski staff writer Brian Cox has a confession to freshman year on the junior varsity.

Before being appointed to the U.S. Military Academy four summers ago, the 1985 graduate of Livonia Stevenson says he had a false impression of Army life. He thought all Cadets wore were fatigues.

"Before I came here I thought all the Army was about was just digging fox holes with a bunch of burns," said Cox., "It's really not that way. It's a lot of fun, there's a lot of good people and a lot of hard work.

"So far it's been rewarding. I haven't found anything to complain about. I'm pretty happy with what I'm doing.'

Cox probably didn't know much about Army's hockey program elther. Yes, some Cadets wear hockey uniforms. The Cadets', a longtime Division I member, competed at the Division II level from 1974-80, before returning to Division I status this decade. THIS IS ARMY'S 86th year of hockey and Cox is the Cadets' 80th captain and second-leading scorer this season. A center, Cox has scored six goals and assisted on eight others, though missing three games with an ankle sprain.

"Hockey worked out for me here. I'm pretty lucky. Being captain is a neat experience. It's something I didn't expect when I got here. It's been quite a turn of events."

Army plays in the 12-team Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference and the Cadets carry a 2-9-1 record (7-10-1 overall) going into Friday's game against Cornell. Army is in 10th place in the ECAC, and the top eight teams make the ECAC postseason tournament.

ARMY HAS never qualified for the ECAC tourney in Cox's previous three years, so qualifying this year is number one on Cox's list of priorities. Army might never be a national hockey power because of its strict demands, both academically and physically, but the Cadets won't back down from anyone.

"I think sometimes we are in better shape than the other teams," Cox said. "We don't go out drinking and we're tougher not only physically, but mentally.

"It's a chance to play hockey here, but a chance to do other things, too. If you've got a chance to play in the NHL (National Hockey League) or get drafted out of high school you're not going to go here. That's not to say there's not quality hockey play-

What were those experiences like? "The jumping wasn't as scary as I thought it would be," he said. "It's neat coming down, but bad when you land. The Jungle school teaches you what the jungle is like. It's hot and we have to wear our fatigues, and there's lots of thick vegetation. You wouldn't want to live there."

Premiere chefs

Thirty-three of Michigan's premiere chefs are participating in "Michigan the Bountiful," described as "an afternoon of epicurean delights," from 3-7 p.m. Sunday at the Southfield Pavilion at the Southfield Civic Center. The chefs will prepare Michigan cuisine — hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, entrees and desserts. There also will be fine wines and music. Tickets are $30 in advance, $35 at the door. Proceeds benefit the Michigan Chefs de Cuisine Association scholarship fund. The event is cosponsored by the City of Southfield and the chefs association.

On the rocks

"Hot rock cooking" is the attraction at Clamdigggers in Farmington. The cook-it-yourself method uses a flat polished granite rock, heated in a 500-degree over and delivered to the table on a large ceramic serving tray with the dinner, ready to cook. The rock remains hot for one hour and the guest may cook his or her meal to individual taste. Dinners combine Maine lobster, fresh fish, shrimp and more. All hot rock entrees are served with pineapple, peapods and peppers, with three sauces for dipping.

Dancer from Troy in 'Can-Can'

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

Dancer Lori McMacken, a graduate of Troy Athens High School, is kicking up her heels, not to mention flipping up her ruffled petticoats to expose her garters and underpants, as one of the Rockettes appearing in "Can-Can" with Chita Rivera.

The touring production at De-troit's Fisher Theatre opened last week and continues through Sunday, Feb. 5. Besides sizzling Broadway star Rivera, the cast is highlighted by 13 of New York City's famed precision dancers, the Rockettes. .

McMacken arrived earlier than usual before a matinee performance, last Wednesday, so she could be interviewed at the Fisher. Seated in a chair in the center of the spacious lobby, she talked in relaxed fashion about her family, her fiance and her

The 1979 graduate of Athens High School said she owed a lot to the school's drama teacher, Krista Manfreddi. "She's a friend of mine, and she has been very influential in my career."

McMacken choreographed Athens' productions of such musical hits as Bye Bye Birdle" and "Guys and Dolls." In high school, she also studied dance at Oakland University in Rochester Hills and, during the sum-

His family owns a couple of restaurants, and he is in the busines and also is a manufactuerer's representative," she said.

Although McMacken is dancing as one of the Rockettes, she never appeared with the troupe at Radio City Music Hall. She explained that when "Can-Can" was being cast with the Rockettes, not enough of them wanted to go on tour. There were a couple of openings, and she auditioned successfully.

The tour started last February. She said, generally, they have visited one city each week. The show spent five weeks in Las Angeles and about the same amount of time in San Francisco.

She enjoys the touring and ticked off her favorite places so far: "Seattle, Oregon, Orlando, New Orleans - and Cincinnati, which surprised

Before appearing in "Can-Can," McMacken worked as part of an adagio team with Kevin Oviatt, whom she met when they both were in a Las Vegas show.

"We traveled for three years together, as lead dancers in several revue shows in Las Vegas, Reno and the Caribbean," she said.

Their partnership was strictly business, not romance. In fact, her fiance traveled with them for the last two years. She and her dance partner appeared on "Star Search" together, for four performances in all. They didn't end up as big. winners but, "we made good mon-

SHE AND JIMMY met in New Jersey when she was working with Kevin. After the dance team split, "I decided to go to New York. For three months, before I joined the Rockettes, I trained myself vocally and in dance and acting."

McMacken gets along great with the other Rockettes. "They're my buddies," she said.

She finds doing precision dancing with the Rockettes a real change of pace from her adagio teamwork. That kind of dancing was athletic and aerobic.

"I loved it," she said. "I'm really flexible. It (adagio) demands a higher concentration than I used in any other form of dance."

With the Rockettes, "coming from lead work, I had to learn how to calm down and be myself." She had to learn to use the same gestures, to kick at the same time.

"When you do solo work, everyone * wants your job. When you do work like this, in the line, there's no com-9d petition. We're all friends. The Rockettes are all earthy Jersey girls."

AFTER THE TOUR closes, the show will go to Atlantic City but without Chita Rivera. Nor does McMacken plan to continue with the show. There are other things I want to do. I would like to take a Europe an tour," she said.

Working with Rivera is a real joy. "She's a pro. She's a star. She's like one of us. She was in the chorus. She still has that dancer's mentality. She's very down to earth," McMacken said. "I get to step out of line a couple of times and dance with Chi-McMacken is 28, and she said some people think that is old for a dancer but she considers herself to be in top form. A star like Rivera, who just turned 56 Wednesday, is as exception to the rule, she noted.

Dancing the can-can is nothing new to McMacken. "I danced many can-cans when I did adaglo," she said. "I always played the lead and was the one who got flipped." She did the Moulin Rouge Can-Can at the Las Vegas Hilton's show. "We did

Despite skillful acting, her stylish brown hair undermines the image of a 75-yearold immigrant woman who, during her lucid moments, harasses Sam about the TV volume and complains non-stop about Wanda, the unseen cook in the kitchen.

> When Itkeh slips into reminiscences of her past, she bemoans her unfulfilled love for Nicholas, a Russian gentile she met on the boat that brought her to America. Her senile longings for that lost love still inflame Sam after half a century of marriage. The impassioned jealousies and resentments of their youth smolder in their retirement years.

Everyone in the cast tries to keep the show from getting stale. "We play a lot to keep it new. Chita loves the play. She cracks us up during the Beaux Arts Ball."

McMacken said she was going to visit her old high school this week to talk to students. Her drama teacher saw the show last week, with McMacken's family.

After graduating from high school, McMacken attended Point Park College in Pittsburgh, where she took an intense program in dance. She returned to her high school one summer to train the Athens High school football team in ballet (she had taught a similar session to the Pittsburgh Steelers). At the request of the Athens theater department, she choreographed "Anything Goes" in 1981-82, before she graduated from college in 1983.

After college, she worked on cruise ships and was line captain and dancer at the Desert Inn Hotel in Las Vegas. She appeared in the show "One of a Kind" for a year. "It was more of a family show for Vegas," she said. She said she never went

Highways paved the way to successful art career

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

LIZABETH Yorgen's career as an artist is a twist on the old "if they give you lemons" adage. In her case, fate gave her highways and roads to look at and she created "The American Road Series."

This artist, now 75, went back to study fine arts at Wayne State University in her 50s. Before that she had been engrossed in raising twin daighters, Jackie and Suzanne, and taking an occassional art course in high school night school.

One night school art teacher in her hometown of Berkley, Cy Wiseman, helped her focus on what she wanted and provided a strong sease of direction.

She and her late husband had always done a lot of traveling by car, both for his business and for plea-

"He liked to do the driving (at least until they hit the big cities when she was asked to take over) so I'm sitting there with nothing to do but take pictures," she said.

She writes in a statement about the series, "The work is not intended to be a record of any specific facet of landscape from urban or wilderness, as we see it today."

While the artist means for her ters in Southfield "is the biggest paintings to be generic rather than sale I've ever made." specific as to place, there is an immediacy to them that puts the Michigan artists currently at the viewer at what seems to be a fa- Kresge Art Gallery, East Lansing miliar place in the road.

As she plans her paintings and chooses to use geometric perspective, linear perspective and/or atmospheric perspective, she said, "I always try to make it look as if we're actually on the road."

SHE LIKES TO WORK with acrylic paint in large format and often builds layers of paint to get a translucent quality to bring depth and sort of a glaze she wants for a three dimensional look. "When I went back to Wayne State in the '60s, I just had a fine pression. "That was when people time. I didn't get a degree, but I have more credits than I need for one. I majored in sculpture that's my first love. That may be last thing she would have been inwhy I'm always pushing the canvas terersted in if she had had enough

She said the logistics of sculpture (materials, casting, transporting) were the reason she took up acrylic painting. She had done about a half dozen smaller paintings before she did the 5-by 6-foot canvas of the interchange of I-75 and I-696 that won the purchase prize award at the Butler Institute of American Art, Youngstown, Ohio. She said that was when she knew, "This subject requires large is fundamental to Americans — to Kottler's standards for mastery are usually so high that many students often end up in tears because they can't meet his demands in the music they are studying.

"He's pretty demanding, but I'm glad that he's demanding because he forces his students to do their best," said David Strickland, 26, one of Kottler's former star pupils.

Strickland, a 1986 Wayne State University graduate and 1985 Grosse Pointe Piano Competition winner, said that Kottler used to intimidate him during his lessons.

"MR. KOTTLER always has some interesting anecdotes about some of the worst students he's had in the past," said Avigdor Zaromp, music critic for The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

"Sometimes he makes me feel like I'm the worst student he's ever had. I've been wanting to study the Rachmaninoff second piano concerto, and he always tells me, 'It's too difficult for you. It's going to take you 50 years to learn that.' I tell him, Good, I'm patient. We have a deal.' '

Despite Kottler's critical, often sarcastic approach, students flock to him because he is one of the finest piano teachers/concert pianists around. He has helped produce such great names in music as Ruth Laredo, Cynthia Raim, Neil Stulberg, Margaret Barthel and Seymour Lip-

As a performer, he has impressed not only teachers but audiences alike since childhood. "When I was 71/2 years old, I gave a successful piano recital at the Conservatory of Kiev," Kottler said. "At the age of 9, I already had 25-30 concerts in the Ukraine." WITH THE culmination of his studies in Europe, Kottler came back to America in 1929. In 1932 he made his Detroit Symphony Orchestra debut playing the Tchaikovsky B-flat minor plano concerto. A year later, he became musical director of WWJ Radio. "Back then, it was all radio. I was responsible for a studio orchestra that performed for as many as eight programs a day," Kottler said.

Along with holding the director's post, Kottler performed live chamber music recitals with musicians such as Joseph Gingold and Mischa

Mischakoff, and gave plano recitals. It was a high-pressured job, but according to Kottler, it still wasn't as difficult as that of DSO's official planist, a post he had held from

"WHEN SIXTEN Ehrling became conductor, he was very contemporary," Kottler said. "We did a lot of modern works with very complex rhythms. We had to count like hell. I practically played a new instrument each week. I had to play with mallets, tool-hammers, nall files. I used to use Coca-Cola bottles for special effects."

Never without an anecdote, Kottler said, "Once when I came in with Pepsi-Cola bottles, Ehrling told me that they wouldn't do, that the score called for Coca-Cola bottles."

State honors choir The most thrilling part was the sound

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer *

While many students were up north skiing on their three-day weekend, Birmingham Seaholm High School played host to 99 of the best women high school singers in Michigan.

This highly select group, the State Honors Choir, chosen from hundreds who auditioned last fall, was preparing to sing Saturday evening at Hill Auditorium for the final event of the Midwest Conference on Music.

"I heard this was the elite singing group in Michgian and I wanted to sing with them," said Seaholm student Amy Friedman, 17, of Birmingham. The soprano wants to study vocal music in college and eventually opera. Amy wasn't alone this weekend in the long hours of rehearsals. Staying with her were Sara Stapleton, 17, and Tasha Mayo, 15, of East Lansing High School and Melissa Martin, 18, of Coopersville. "For me this is a chance to sing with a serious group," said Melissa.

For others this is an opportunity to meet new friends also interested in music, Nikki Lumetta, 16, of Chippewa Valley High School, didn't know anyone when she came. Sheetal Bhagat, 16, of Andover High School found out and asked her to join the three others already staying with her.

"This is an honor to sing in this choir," said

Nikki who has sung in 'the group before. "I received a letter congratulating me from my state senator last year."

Sheetal, who wants to major in vocal music in college, immediately added, "I received a letter from the vocal department of the University of Michigan. Now if I apply at the University of Michigan they will already know me." The State Honors Choir is sponsored by the Michigan State Vocal Association. Each October, 600 students are chosen and given a packet of music to memorize. In December, the group is narrowed to 300 - 100 each for the mixed choir, womens' choir and mens' choir. If it is an honor for the young women, it is also an honor for Bruce Synder to direct the ensemble. Synder, director of vocal music at Andover High School and choir director at the West Bloomfield Covenant Baptist Church, was elected to the position by his MSVA colleagues.

Snyder had help from Randy Vanwingerden of Calvin Christian School in Grand Rapids and Tom Weeles, choir director at Seaholm. Ronald Houser, organist at Covenant Baptist, is the group's accompanist.

awarded a $600 prize at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 26, when he appears with the orchestra in Clarenceville High's Schmidt Auditorium.

Under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi, they will perform Paul Creston's Concertino for Marimba and Orchestra.

Two other instrumentalists and a singer also will be honored and will perform as soloists.

"Outstanding! I enjoyed all aspects of the performance," said one judge, Donald Morelock, chair of Schoolcraft College's piano department.

"How delightful your performance was, and how wonderfully talented you are," said another judge, Victoria Haltom, a violinist in the Michigan Opera Theater orchestra.

GRAMLEY, OF Eugene, Ore., has studied with Michael Udow as well as with Salvatore Rabbio.

Other winners and the works they will perform are:

• Howard D. Watkins, plano, second prize of $400. A 24-year-old U-M student, Watkins performed a virtuoso work, Frang Liszt's Piano Concerto No. 2. Morelock called it "very convincing," and judge Derek Anthony, director of Wayne State University's vocal division, rated it "superior" in every skill category.

• Eileen Burke, oboe, third prize of $200. Burke, 21, of Howell, performed Ralph Vaughan Williams' Concerto for Oboe and Strings. "Beautiful high notes, nice musical expression," Haltom said.

• Gregory A. Robinson, tenor, $300 Nelda DiBlasi memorial award for vocal competitors. Robinson, 21, of Detroit, attends Oberlin College in Ohio. "Nice selections for showing ability," Haltom said of the arias he chose by Mozart, Donizetti and Haydn.

Altogether, 25 instrumentalists and singers entered the 11th annual competition Saturday and Sunday at Madonna College.

Instrumental prizes are donated by the Livonia Symphony Society, whose president is Farmington businessman Robert Christ. The vocal award is made by an anonymous do-

Playing catch-up with area authors

IME TO catch up on news about a few of our local writers. Loren Estleman sits up there in Whitmore Lake, listens hard to what Amos Walker tells him, then faithfully writes it down. The two of them just keep getting better and better. Hard to believe that Estleman created his Motor City private eye less than a decade ago.

His latest book, "Downriver," is this eighth full-length novel featuring Amos Walker short stories. The New York Times Book Review said about "Downriver," "The dialogue is crackling, the writing is unpadded, and one can smell and even taste the city of Detroit." Publishers Weekly followed suit with "... colorful characters, crackling dialogue, rich plot, authentic Detroit setting and "throwaway humor. . . ."

"Downriver," tough, gritty with ironic humor, begins like this: "Superior rolled under a Wedgwood sky, stacking sunlight in long platinum fows and tangling in the broken rocks on the beach. Early in the afdernoon a shoreward wind blew passing compact cars across the centerline and teased a pale floating piece of old decking toward land. The plank was worn smooth and poreless and round at the edges like soap. It might have been wandering the lake for 100 years, the lone survivor of a stove ship carrying coal oil and barrels of molasses and bonneted lady's Sunday surrey, rotting below Six Fathom Shoal along with skeletons swaddled in black oilskin. It might have been just a piece of old wood."

Let's hope Amos Walker minds his P's and Q's and goes on to lead a full, rich life.

JULIA GRICE, ANOTHER of our prolific resident novelists, has just sold another novel, "Black Tie Only," written with co-author Robert L. Fenton, an entertainment lawyer and television producer. (He produced "Double Standard," last fall's NBC movie based on a certain Detroit Recorder's Court judge who raised two families, unbeknownst to either of them.) Julie says of her latest, to be published this year by Contemporary, "This is a glitz novel, a big, sexy intrigue."

Westland's Rob Kantner ("The Back Door Man," "The Harder They Hit") has a new Ben Perkins novel, "Dirty Work." recently published by Bantam paperbacks.

Kantner's character, Ben Perkins, is an ex-union enforcer turned private eye. He lives on a houseboat on Belleville Lake, and in this book he's out to clear the name of Alex Farr, a late-night Detroit disc jockey. Kantner's Perkins describes Farr this way: "His whole bit he calls romance, but it's really sex. Sits there and spins dreamy little ballads and talks sweet and mellow between them and takes phone calls from lonely ladies and stuff." Hmmm. Sound like someone we might have heard before? I'll be talking to Rob about his Perkins series in an upcoming column.

Livonia novelist Sarah Wolf ("Long Chain of Death,") got a belated Christmas present by way of good news from her agent. Her newest novel, "Codename: Cathleen," will be published by Simon and Schuster in the fall. The suspenseful international intrigue will be published in hardcover some time this year.

MARY GAITSKILL GREW up in Livonia and graduated from the University of Michigan where she received a Hopwood Award. Gaitskill, a New Yorker now, says her memories of Livonia are "all bad." She describes the Detroit suburbs as "incredibly neurotic" and recalls that she never seemed to fit in. Small wonder then that "Bad Behavior." her first book, recently published by Poseidon Press, is a collection of nine stories set in New York, but focusing on people who make desperate attempts at establishing emotional connections with devastating results.

On Thursday, Feb. 16, Gaitskill returns to her alma mater to read from "Bad Behavior." The program starts at 5 p.m. in the Kuenzel Room in the Michigan Union, Ann Arbor. Sponsored by the Visiting Writers Series, it is free and open to the pub-in the form of exquisitely crafted quilts now graces the halls of Henry Ford Museum. Created by the talented Susan McCord (1829-1909), the collection of 10 quilts is on exhibit through 1990.

The McCord quilts are prized for their quality workmanship and magnificent original designs. Constructed over four decades, the 10 pieces are a vivid representation of the life's work of a quilter. They include four pieced or patchwork quilts, three applique and three turn-of-thecentury bedcovers known as "crazy quilts.'

Knowing the creator of such a large collection adds to the uniqueness of the quilts. According to Nancy Bryk, the museum's curator of domestic life, "Identifying the maker of quilts is nearly impossible since, unlike painters, quilters do not sign their work. For example, we have over 200 quilts in our collection and yet makers of only 20 of them are known," Bryk said. "Half of

A kaleidoscope of color and design these are the McCord quilts." Two of the quilts were obtained from Susan's great-granddaughter in 1972 and the rest in 1973.

SUSANNAH NOAKES WAS born Oct. 7, 1829, in Decatur, Ind. Susannah, known as Susan, married school teacher Green McCord in 1849. The young couple took up farming in Iowa for a short time, but ultimately settled in McCordsville, a town just east of Indianpolis founded by McCord's distant relatives. County histories portray Green McCord as an early settler and a prominent member of the community.

Susan's life and interests have been gleaned through family reminiscences. Described as a tiny bundle of energy, Susan gave birth to seven children (four of them survived to adulthood). She was a devoted member of the McCordsville Methodist Episcopal Church. Like most farm wives, Susan was responsible for the homestead's dairy and poultry. She loved gardening and practiced homeopathic medicine using plants, needle. Not only did Susan make at least 12 quilts (two of which are privately owned), she also made clothing for her children and knitted accessories, embroidered bedsheets and produced decorative floral wreaths made of hair.

It is evident that Susan found inspiration for her designs in the vines, leaves and petals of her large garden. Two of her earliest creations, the appliqued "Harrison Rose Urn" (c. 1860) and "Fantasy Floral Urn" (c. 1860), contain stylized flowers of different species. Generally, applique quilts have identical borders along all sides; however, the innovative Susan McCord designed four different borders of trailing vines for each of the urn quilts.

RECOGNIZED AS A masterpiece,

her "Vine" quilt (c. 1890) features Most notable was her skill with a the undulated vine motif as its only pattern. The vivid greens and pinks. sparkling against a snow-white background consist of unused fabric scraps — pieces that are unfaded and still crisp with sizing and glazes. The quilt has hardly been used and likely never been washed. It appears that this magnificent vine quilt was constructed primarily for aesthetic and artistic, rather than utilitarian

Conversely, "Diamond Field" (1870-1900) is particularly well-used and well-washed. This quilt, along with "Ocean Waves" (c. 1875) and "Hexagon Mosaic" (c. 1895), are comprised of hundreds, even thousands, of scraps of cotton. As with her other quilts, they are devoid of any machine stitching.

Cut roses still No. 1 Quilts: a farmwife's legacy

By Earl Aronson special writer

Cut roses for Valentine's Day loved ones will be selling at the rate of about 49,000 per minute across the United States. In all, a record 70 million fresh cut roses will be sold to consumers in retail stores for the Feb. 14 event, according to figures from Floral Index of Chicago.

The rose has long had the reputation as the leading floral conveyer of romance on Valentine's Day. Last year, roses represented 60 percent of all flowers bought for Valentine's Day, Index reports.

Rose production and prices are influenced by various factors, including weather. In addition to Valentine's Day, Easter, Mother's Day and Christmas are special occasions for roses. However, it's virtually impossible biologically for a single plant to produce blooms for all four events, according to Roses Inc., the commercial growers association.

The Valentine's Day favorite is the velvety, deep-red rose, which accounts for 85 percent of all roses sold for the event. Pink and yellow blooms are gaining in popularity, each accounting for about 5 percent of total rose sales.

WHEN SELECTING ROSES, look for an appealing bud form that's free of blemishes, bruises and scars. The outer petals should have just begun to unfurl, and foliage should be a deep, fresh green. A bud that's too tight may never open, and one that's too open may not last Roses last longer with proper care. Carefully cut the stems about an inch above the end, under water if possible, cutting on a long, gradual slant with a sharp knife.

Immediately place the newly cut stem in fresh, clear, barely warm water. Add a floral preservative to extend flower life. Follow this routine daily, changing to fresh water each time.

There are many ways to enjoy roses, from a single flower floating in a bowl to several blooms in an attractive container. Try different containers in various locations, changing arrangements.

weeder's guide

NEW FOR THE GARDEN:

A soil-free growing medium for container plants has been developed by A.E. Hoffman Inc. and is available in garden shops. Container Gardening Soil Mix holds water, air and nutrients and is recommended specially for use in the new indoor and outdoor self -- watering containers.

There is a tendency among conventional mixes, when used in self-watering containers with built-in water reservoirs, to draw up too much moisture and compact over time, resulting in an elimination of pore space and the ultimate suffocation of the plants. The new composition mix discourages this tendency.

The Otis Twilley Seed Co. (Trevose, Pa. 19047) has an entirely new 1989 catalog offering "exclusive Professional Seed Series" vegetables and vegetable recommendations best for your state, Included among its offerings are 12 Summer Flavor series hybrid sweet corns, five Summer Flavor hybrid tomatoes, three sweet peppers and three new cucumbers.

Flower seed choices also have been expanded.

Susan's originality is again expressed by the unusual border around the traditional pattern "Turkey Tracks" (c. 1870). Bold. contrasting stripes on opposite sides are joined by a third edge bedecked with grape bunches and striped leaves along a rippling vine. The fourth side is left without a border.

Around the age of 60, Susan began to sew "crazy quilts." The calico pieced and appliqued quilts may have been viewed by some as "old-fashioned" compared to late 19th-century bedcoverings. Most likely produced between 1885 and 1905, the three-"crazy quilts" are made of suiting flannels and dress velvets. Susan decorated them with fancy crewel and silk embroidery.

Susan Noakes McCord died of pneumonia in 1909 from lying* injured on the ground after being kicked by a cow. Through hermeticulous quilting, Susan has left Henry Ford Museum visitors a legacy of color and design, and an unbroken thread to the viomen of the 19th century.

There is no additional charge for the exhibit beyond regular. museum admission.

• BOOK SALE

Friends of the Livonia Library will hold a book sale in the atrium of the the new Civic Center Library Saturday-Sunday, Feb. 4-5. A special area featuring antique books is planned.

• U-M MAY FESTIVAL

For the second time, Kurt Masur and Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig will be in residence for the University Musical Society's annual Ann Arbor May Festival. Festival dates this year are April 26 through 29, beginning at 8 p.m. in the University of Michigan Hill Auditorium.

Series tickets go on public sale Wednesday, Feb. 1, at $45, $70, $85 and $100 per series. Single tickets go on sale in March. For more information, call 764-2538 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

VAAL CLASSES

Classes in "master color," taught by Edee Joppich, are being offered by the Visual Arts Association of Livonia, beginning Saturday, Feb. 4, and continuing through March 16. Classes are $65 for members and $70 for non-members.

Joppich will teach a complete and usable system she developed. Each artist will paint in his/her own color-reference book. Mixing the colors on charts and cards will benefit artists in mastering watercolor technique while learning how to arrive at unusual sparkling colors as well as subtle greys without getting "mud."

VAAL will also offer a watercolor landscape workshop taught by Marge Chellstorp. Sessions are scheduled for Feb. 15

For more information on the classes, call 464-6772.

DERBICH EXHIBIT

The Projects and Paintings of Stefan Derbich will be on display Feb. 5-28 at Madonna College Exhibit Gallery on the campus of the Livonia college, Levan and I-96.

Born in Berlin, Derbich studied at the Academy of Fine Arts in Warsaw. His lifetime of art ranges from abstract oils and acrylics to 300-foot murals that adorn ceilings and walls of over 50 churches and cathedrals throughout Poland,

A reception will be 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 5. The public may attend.

WONG SHUE EXHIBIT.

Limited edition serigraphs by Japanese artist Wong Shue will be shown in a one-man show opening Saturday, Jan. 28, at Austin Galleries in Fairlane Town Center, Dearborn.

Wong Shue, who is best known for his "human" style, will be present 1-4 p.m. at the opening and on Sunday, Jan. 29. The public may attend.

• TEEN AUTO DESIGN CLASSES

The Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association is offering Teen Auto Design in the winter term of classes. The class will be 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Saturdays. Rodney Lloyd, designer at Chrysler and instructor at the Center for Creative Studies, will conduct the class. For more information, call 644-0866.

HAT-MAKING CLASS

Make your own fashion statement in time for spring by creating a new hat of your choice, style and color, or rejuvenate your present hat by reblocking and retrimming. Mildred Palmer, a professional hat maker, will conduct a six-week hat-making class at the Southfield Art Center, 26080 Berg Road, from 9:30 a.m. to noon beginning Feb. 18.

Many materials and items will be available from the instructor. Experience in sewing is not essential. Fee for the six-week class is $50. Register at the Parks and Recreation Department. 26000 Evergreen Road, Southfield. For more information, call

Aldingbrooke

Superlative Rental Living In The Hills of West Bloomfield

NEW lavishly large 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace ranch dwellings of unsurpassed size that are utterly extraordinary - up to 2,800 square feet and every amenity: private entries, attached garages, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings. designer kitchens with separate breakfast areas, master bedroom suites with dressing area, double vanities, double closets and walk-in closets too, in-residence laundry and storage, full carpeting, central air conditioning, patio or balcony.

Truly resort-like recreational facilities include: oversized pool in a spectacular wooded setting, a manor-home like clubhouse — ideal for private parties - tennis courts and, of course, a 24-hour manned gatehouse with package reception services. There is even a private lending library. All on over 130 incomparable private acres for estate-

Unquestionably the standard for beauty and luxury. For their size, design and breathtaking setting, YOU MUST SEE the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of ALDINGBROOKET

Travel Maple Road to Drake Road; turn north and drive through the woods, to the summit of the hill, and enter ALDINGBROOKE through the manned gatehouse on your left.
