Pair sought in Hix assault

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Parents sought in daughter's sex assault case — 2A

Westland police are seeking two men in connection with a brutal, roadside sexual assault Jan. 28 on Hix south of Joy.

Police are also warning area drivers to use caution in dealing with strangers when exchanging information following traffic accidents.

Composite drawings, made from the victim's description of the two men, were released by police Tuesday.

Police said the victim of the assault, a 23-year-old Westland woman, was driving northbound on Hix about 5 p.m. Her 2-year-old son was in the back seat. Her black, mid-sized Mercury was forced off the road by a cream-colored, 1977 Ford LTD, police said.

After the collision, which police called "deliberate," the driver of the LTD approached the victim in her car.

The woman locked her car door and rolled down her window to talk to the driver of the other car, police said.

"He (the driver) reached in through the window, unlocked the door, grabbed her and dragged her back to his car," said officer Laura Moore, who investigates sex crimes for the department.

THE DRIVER and an acquaintance forced the woman into the back seat of their car and started to attack her. The two were scared off, apparently by an oncoming car, before penetration occurred, Moore said.

"The collision was a definite, premeditated attempt on the part of the suspects to accomplish what they set out to do," Moore said.

Moore said the victim, who had been on her way to a local bank to deposit her husband's check, was "shaken terribly" by the attack. Moore said the victim is undergoing therapy to help her cope with the incident.

"The fact that her child was in the car at the time is very upsetting," Moore said.

Moore said she hopes possible witnesses to the attack will come forward. "I have to believe that several people may have driven by the scene because of the day (Saturday) and time it happened," she said.

The attack occurred in day light, on a clear to partly cloudy afternoon and should have been easily visible to passersby on the three-lane road.

Man, 22, guilty in McCrory incident

By Bill Casper
staff writer

A 22-year-old Westland man was convicted last week of felonious assault with a motor vehicle in connection with a Sept. 28 incident in which retired Detroit boxing champion Milton McCrory was hit by a car in front of a restaurant in Redford Township.

Gary M. Kingins was found guilty of the charge by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Richard Hathaway after a one-day bench trial Feb. 7.

Hathaway scheduled a March 9 sentencing date for Kingins, who faces a maximum penalty of four years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

THE ASSAULT on McCrory, 27, followed a rock-throwing incident behind Club Mayhem, a Redford bar on Telegraph north of Joy that was destroyed by a fire Dec. 11, 1988.

McCrory suffered cuts and bruises after he was hit by a car driven by Kingins, but the former boxer was not seriously injured, Redford Police said.

In season New flower store 'petals' its wares

By Anne Romano
special writer

A new Westland business geared up this week for the industry's equivalent of Christmas.

Gordon Pennell, owner of the Thrifty Flower and Plant Shop name now housed in a former Shell gas station, said that most men probably showed that they are still old-fashioned romantics who bought roses for their wives or girl friends for Valentine's Day Tuesday.

"Roses make up 60 percent of our year-round sales," he said.

While he owns the name, Pennell sells it for persons who own and manage separate businesses. The owner of the flower shop on the southeast corner of Ford and Wayne Roads is Ernle D'Ascenzo.

Pennell, who has seven shops in the Detroit area, said that his business has improved because a health-conscious public has been cutting back on candy for Valentine's Day and substituting flowers.

He expected to gross $5 million last year and now plans to expand with five new outlets within the next year.

In his Westland location, which opened seven months ago, D'Ascenzo and Pennell renovated a former gas station which was later vacated and became an eyesore.

Pennell, 39 and a Vietnam veteran, is no stranger to the floral business. His career began at the age of 13.

"I STARTED out sweeping floors for a Detroit florist and I helped the delivery boy make runs to Mount Carmel and Sinai Hospitals," Pennell said.

A short time later, he quit to begin vending flowers to area hospitals with his brother and parents.

"My brother and I came up with the idea to market flowers to hospitals, and, over a seven-year period, the idea evolved into a lucrative plant and flower venture that dominated the market throughout hospital gift shops in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois," Pennell said.

The Pennells were the first to incorporate the concept of selling flowers via hospital gift shops on a consignment type basis.

"It was a concept that was literally uncatched in the floral industry, and, as a result, the business grew faster than we could afford it to grow," Pennell said, add-

Death closes investigations of 2 robberies

Investigations into two armed robberies in Westland last week apparently ended when a 42-year-old Missouri man was shot and killed by a Farmington Hills policeman Saturday.

Cecil Wilson, a suspect in at least seven armed robberies in western Wayne and Oakland Counties since Jan. 29, was killed by a police officer who said he feared for his life as Wilson drove toward him on a dead-end residential street.

In 1987, Wilson and his wife lived in a Westland townhouse complex for a short while when he was employed by Les Stanford Chevrolet in Dearborn.

"It's our feeling that he (Wilson) was the same guy who committed the two robberies," said Westland police Executive Lt. Michael Frayer. Frayer said police would continue to pursue existing leads before closing the cases completely.

Wilson, of Marshall, Mo., and a former Grand Rapids resident, was pronounced dead on arrival at Botsford Hospital, Farmington. He was killed by a single shot from the officer's 12-gauge shotgun, according to police.

A man matching Wilson's physical description was suspected of the Feb. 6 armed robbery of an Amoco food store/gas station, Middlebelt at Ann Arbor Trail, and the Feb. 7 armed robbery of the Red Lobster restaurant, 5774 N. Wayne Road.

Besides providing a physical description of the suspect, witnesses to the Red Lobster robbery identified the late model Pontiac Grand Am used in the robbery.

The gunman made off with a total of less than $400 in the two Westland robberies, police said.

Police theorize that Wilson, a suspected drug addict, committed the robberies to pay for crack cocaine.

Wilson's confrontation with the Farmington Hills officer began when the officer followed the Grand Am onto Albion, near Middlebelt and Grand River, police said. Moments earlier a car matching Wilson's had been chased but lost by Livonia police.

Holiday hours set

Westland's municipal offices will be closed Monday in observance of the President's Day holiday and reopen 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Garbage pickup for city residents won't be affected and will follow its regular schedule, according to a spokeswoman for the department of public services.

The Friendship and Whittier Centers for senior citizens activities will be closed. Both will reopen Tuesday.

The Bailey Recreation Center will be open 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday for regular recreation activities. The Westland Sports Arena will have regularly scheduled activities, with open skating set for 2-4 p.m.

The Wayne-Westland Public Library will be open during regularly scheduled winter hours, noon to 8 p.m.

The 18th District Court will be closed Monday. Court hours on Tuesday are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The Westland post office will be closed Monday and there will be no regular mail delivery. Express mail and packages marked for special delivery will be delivered though.

Schools pay tribute to Stockmeyer, 81

The Wayne-Westland school board and district officials paid tribute to Norman O. Stockmeyer, 81, of Plymouth, Monday night for his 42 years of work on behalf of education in the district and throughout Michigan.

"Stockmeyer, who lived in Westland for 50-years, retired in December from the state Board of Education.

"The district presented Stockmeyer, 81, with a plaque commemorating his years of service.

"On behalf of the millions of students you have made a difference to, we offer our appreciation," Dennis O'Neill, district superintendent, told Stockmeyer.

The longtime school board member pledged continued involvement in the public education process.

"My roots are very deep in this community and it has been a pleasure to serve," Stockmeyer said. "I'll still be around and any time I can be of help to the district, I'll be available."

STOCKMEYER was appointed to the state board in 1975 by then Gov. William Milliken. He won election to an eight-year term in 1980 and served as treasurer in 1981-82 and board president in 1985-86.

A real estate investor, Stockmeyer began his involvement with education policy on a local level, serving with the Wayne Community Board of Education (which included schools in Nankin Township) from 1946-61.

In 1961, he was elected to the board of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, where he served until his 1975 appointment to the state board.

Stockmeyer earned his bachelor's degree from Wayne State University and a master's degree in business at Harvard University.

He was appointed to the WSU Board of Governors in 1984 by then

Norman O. Stockmeyer honored by district

Gov. George Romney and was elected to an eight-year term on that board in 1986. He served as chairman of the WSU board from 1987-71.

City man guilty of car assault against McCrory

He was taken by ambulance to Redford Community Hospital where he was treated and released, police said.

McCrory, who retired from professional boxing with a 31-4 record, fought as a welterweight out of Detroit's nationally prominent Kronk Gym. He was the World Boxing Council's welterweight champion in 1983.

The assault on McCrory stemmed from a rock-throwing incident around 2 a.m. behind Club Mayhem after Kingins and three other men were denied entrance to the bar because they could not produce driver's licenses at the request of a bar employee to prove they were of legal drinking ages, police said.

The men returned to Kingins' car parked in the lot behind the bar, where they began throwing rocks and sticks at a few bar customers, including McCrory and his two friends, as they were leaving around closing time, police said.

McCrory ran after one of the assailants but gave up the chase in front of the Mini-Mack, police said. Shortly afterward, Kingins drove his car into McCrory, police said.

WITNESSES TOLD: police that Kingins left Telegraph and drove onto the sidewalk, where he ran head-on into McCrory, who was knocked into the air and landed on top of the car, then rolled off the

'Tampered' food shuts Taco Bell; prank is alleged

A Taco Bell restaurant, Wayne Road south of Hunter, was closed for about two hours Friday while police investigated a food tampering incident, police and company officials said.

Nobody was injured in the incident and the tainted food wasn't served to customers or employees, said Lt. John Reddy of the Westland Police Department.

Two employees have been suspended while the investigation continues. The employees could be fired or face criminal charges.

No customers were involved in the incident, which occurred late Thursday afternoon, said Elliott Bloom, director of public affairs for Taco Bell in Irvine, Calif.

"From what we know, the incident was an internal prank that a couple of employees decided to play on a supervisor," Bloom said Monday.

Bloom said one of the employees apparently placed a large object conspicuously in some food that was being prepared in the restaurant kitchen.

A SECOND EMPLOYEE reportedly called the restaurant manager and posed as a customer who claimed to have found a foreign object in food prepared at the restaurant, he said.

Company officials declined to identify the object.

A restaurant employee, in a telephone interview with the Observer Monday, said the object placed in the food was a razor blade.

"We take this kind of incident very seriously," Bloom said. "And we want our customers to know that the people responsible for this will be dealt with in an appropriate manner."

cop calls

POLICE arrested a 19-year-old Dearborn man early Friday after an altercation at the Rumorz nightclub, 450 S. Merriman, escalated into a shooting incident at a nearby gas station.

Nobody was injured in the incident, police said.

The victim, a 20-year-old Dearborn Heights man, told police his assailant threatened him with a gun and hit him several times in the face while the two argued shortly after 2 a.m. in the driveway of the Mobil station, Merriman at Cherry Hill. He said the assailant then fired three shots at his car as he was leaving.

Witnesses told police the two men had argued earlier at the nightclub. The assailant, accompanied by several friends in a late model Honda automobile, followed the victim and his friends in their late model Ford Thunderbird as they left the parking lot, witnesses said.

The assailant and his companions eluded police in Inkster and Garden City before being stopped by Dearborn Heights police on Guiley.

Police confiscated a .25-caliber handgun from the assailant and one bullet from the gas station driveway.

block of Winchester told police someone broke into her house Saturday and stole a 19-inch color television, videocassette recorder, stereo components, sterling silverware, jewelry, liquor and other items.

The stolen merchandise had a combined value in excess of $2,000, the woman said.

The incident occurred between 10 a.m. and 8:30 p.m., while nobody was home, she told police.

Police said the thief apparently entered the house by breaking out a bedroom window on the south side.

A RESIDENT of the Fountain Park townhouse complex reported that her 1987 Chevrolet IROC Camaro was stolen from the complex lot Sunday evening.

The car was found abandoned several hours later after Westland police chased it through a Norwayne neighborhood.

The woman said the locked car was taken between 6 and 6:45 p.m.

After hearing a description of the vehicle via radio, police spotted the car on Gran Traverse, before losing it on Norwayne side streets, police said.

A few minutes later, officer found the car with the engine running parked on a front lawn on Bancroft.

The car's steering column had been punched out and it appeared that its left door lock had been tampered with, police said.

ing that in 1980, he and his brother decided to sell their hospital routes and Livonia-based headquarters. The routes were later sold to a major corporation.

After the hospital routes were sold, Pennell and his brother went their separate ways.

"My brother moved to California and I took a year off from the floral business," Pennell said. "I evaluated current market trends and then revised my own marketing strategy to accommodate my new business goals."

ing a retail establishment during a recession, and, worse yet, it was located on a third class piece of property."

Despite tough economic conditions, the shop produced increasing sales, he said.

That same year, Pennell opened a second shop on Grand River and Telegraph in Detroit. Between 1980 and 1988, Pennell continued to expand his business with shops in Taylor, Lincoln Park, Warren, and, most recently, Westland, Dearborn and Wyandotte.

Pennell says that he has more requests for his shops than he can keep up with — as for just how sweet the taste of success can be . . . "For 1988, I am expecting my seven shops to gross $5 million dollars," Pennell said.

While roses make up 60 percent of his gross sales, cut flower designs for weddings and funerals are a fast-growing part of his business.

That segment has more than doubled and now accounts for 15 percent to 18 percent of his sales, he said.

HE DOESN'T want his business to depend upon commercial and personal accounts or large weddings. He did, however, want to sell discounted flowers and plants on a cash-and-carry basis. It was then, Pennell said, that he came up with the name Thrifty Plant and Flowers.

The first Thrifty Flower and Plant opened in 1980, directly across the street from Oakland University in Auburn Hills.

Parents of girl, 13, sought in sex case

Police are looking for two parents in connection with a sexual assault against a 13-year-old Westland girl.

The girl's stepfather, Thomas Eugene Thorpe, has been charged with first-degree criminal sexual conduct.

The assault occurred last Oct. 18, but wasn't reported until last month, said Westland police officer Laura Moore.

Moore said Thorpe, a 43-year-old truck driver, then forced the stepdaughter to recant her report at gunpoint in a videotaped statement.

The girl's mother, who moved out of the Westland home last month, has also disappeared, Moore said.

Moore said the mother helped in the taping.

The girl has been placed in a foster care home, Moore said.

Friendship Center unites Valentines

THINGS WERE rosy Tuesday at the Westland Friendship Center.

The reason: 325 persons enjoyed the annual Valentine Day party given for senior citizens. In the annual tradition of royalty, Millie Jackson and Larry Karusiz were crowned queen and king of the event.

About 25 persons with birthdays in February were also honored, said Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, executive director of the Westland Senior Resources Department, which sponsored the luncheon.

The youngest person at each table won a red rose.

She said it was the 20th annual Valentine party.

The Standard 5 band performed for the seniors.

A used organ valued at $3,500 was raffled and won by Jeannette Duncan. The organ was donated by retired firefighter Kenneth Raven-craft.

Woman reports attack in car by 2 men on Hix

THE DRIVER of the LTD was described by the victim as a white man, 28-30 years old, tall and thin with dark brown or black hair, long in back and shaved on the sides. He had a long mustache, small goatee with a bald spot on one cheek and his teeth were in poor condition. He was wearing a cream-colored cotton shirt and green Army-style pants.

His accomplice was described as a white man, 30 years old, 5-foot-10, with a thin to medium build, blondish-brown hair, long in back and spiked on top, blue eyes, a pock-marked face and a raspy voice. He was wearing a black T-shirt and jeans.

The assailant's car may have a damaged front end or bumper, police said.

Moore said she was unaware of any similar assaults reported recently in western Wayne County. She said Westland police are contacting law enforcement agencies throughout Michigan as part of their investigation.

MOORE SAID drivers should exercise caution and common sense after being involved in an accident. When approached by another driver, Moore said women in particular should remain inside the car with the doors locked.

Windows should be rolled down so a driver's license or insurance certificate can be passed through, but no lower, she said.

"If you feel threatened or have any doubts about the situation, rather than speaking with the other party, take down his license plate number and drive to the nearest police station," Moore said.

Anyone with information regarding the Jan. 28 assault can call the Westland police department, 722-9600.

Schools join music effort

By Ted Schneider
staff writer

Next month, the notes heard 'round the country are going to be heard in Westland schools.

Wayne-Westland district elementary school students will for the first time participate in the "World's Largest Concert," a Thursday, March 9, musical extravaganza from Washington, D.C., scheduled for telecast simultaneously throughout the United States.

The concert is being produced by the Music Educators National Conference and co-sponsored by the McDonald's Corp. It is part of the conference's "Music In Our Schools" month celebration.

Between 3 million and 8 million students are expected to take part in the program across the country. The theme for the concert is "All Together Now."

The concert will feature the McDonald's All-American High School Band, made up of two musicians from each state and the District of Columbia, and one representative each from the United States, Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. Nationally known puppeteer Shari Lewis — along with her partner, Lamb Chop — will serve as co-hosts.

IN WAYNE-WESTLAND, students at 22 elementary buildings will meet in school assemblies shortly before 1 p.m. While watching the live performance on multiple television sets, they will sing the same songs and play the same music being performed some 700 miles away.

"We're going to get the kids excited about music, revved up about taking part in something like this," said Richard Alder, the school district's head of elementary music.

Alder and Charles Heard, the district's expressive arts coordinator, are coordinating district participation in the program.

Participation will vary slightly from school to school, Alder said. For example, some schools will have students playing string instruments and some schools will focus solely on vocal accompaniment.

Teachers at several schools are planning to videotape the activity for future use, Alder said.

The half-hour program includes seven musical selections, beginning with the national anthem and including traditional folk songs and spirituals.

Students have been practicing their parts for about three weeks, according to Alder.

"WE'RE NOT looking for a polished effort here," Alder said. "What we really hope to do is get that 'Hands Across America' togetherness concept," he said, referring to the 1986 human chain that highlighted the problem of hunger in America.

Alder said the experience could create a lasting interest in music among children who haven't been exposed previously. "It should work at all age levels and all skill levels," he said.

The idea for special music month originated in New York in the early 1970s and has been expanded with the annual nationwide concert added in 1985.

Paraprofessional pact approved

The Wayne-Westland school board Monday unanimously approved a new, three-year contract for the district's 170 paraprofessional employees.

The contract was overwhelmingly ratified by the Wayne-Westland Association of Paraprofessionals Feb. 10.

Board member Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek called the agreement "tough but fair" and other board members said school employees should be prepared for similar contracts with the district approaching a possible financial crunch due to declining enrollment in the next few years.

The contract calls for a 5.75 percent wage increase for the current school year, retroactive to Sept. 7. Employees will receive a 4.6 percent increase next year.

The salary for the 1990-91 school year has been left open and will be negotiated at a later date, said Eileen Mallon, union president.

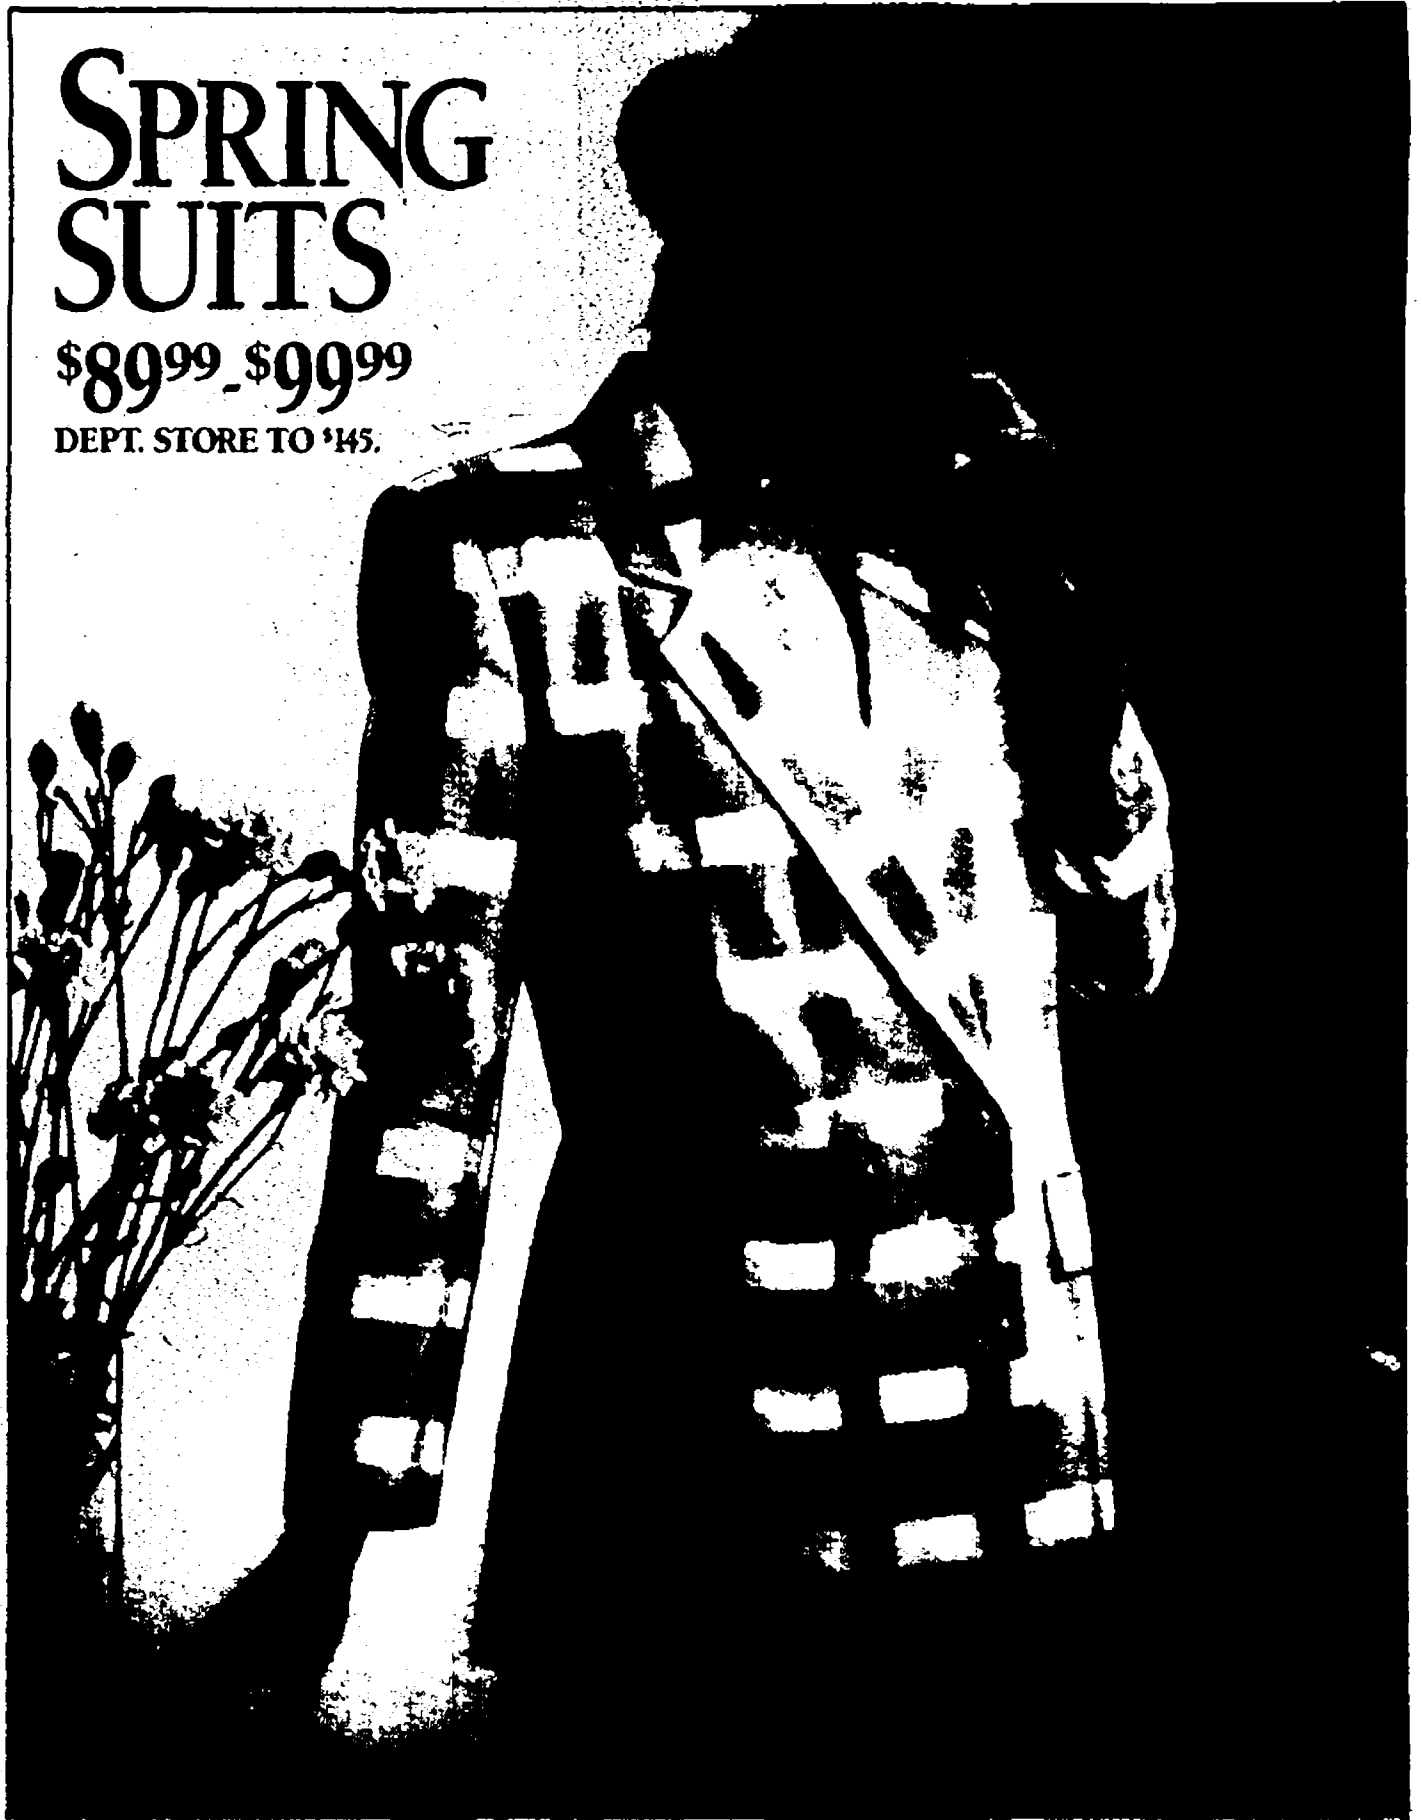

New benefits include the addition of a Blue Cross/Blue Shield Health plan currently available to other district employees and Health Maintenance Organization coverage for all eligible new hires.

Beginning next September, the accumulation of paid sick days will no longer cover paraprofessionals working in the district.

News executives: gag order hampers media

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The media covering the hearings of a Canton man charged with beating his wife to death and putting her in a freezer for three years will be hampered by a court ruling preventing attorneys and police from talking to reporters, according to Detroit area news executives.

District Judge James Garber last week banned media interviews with police and attorneys involved in the case when he ruled on a motion by Leonard Tyburski's defense attorney, Carole M. Stanier.

The competency hearing was scheduled to start today before Garber in 35th District Court in Plymouth.

The murder of Dorothy Tyburski, 37, has been covered locally, nationally and internationally since her body was found by her daughter early last month in the family freezer. Stanier said Tyburski, 45, has been misrepresented by the police and media.

MEDIA EXECUTIVES said their news organizations will report the story.

"As far as I know there's nothing illegal about reporting the truth," said Steve Barnaby, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers managing editor.

The court system "has to be an example of democracy rather than something that counters it," Barnaby said. And the media serves as a "surrogate" to the public by gathering information "they have a right to know."

"I don't want to come down on this guy," Barnaby said. "He seems to be as open as can be as far as judges go. He's just part of the system. It's our duty to get the information and get it to our clients — our readers."

Robert Giles, Detroit News vice president and executive editor, said gag rulings are a form of prior restraint, which is deemed unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

"The public and the press have full access to public trials," Giles said. "Full access means interviewing individuals as part of the process of the trial."

Often times, Giles continued, reporters need clarification of a point made by witnesses or attorneys while in the courtroom. "If the judge is going to put restrictions on this, the judge is restricting our ability to report fully and accurately. And that's regrettable."

Free Press executive editor Heath Meriwether said reporters will continue to try to cover the story as fully as possible.

"Clearly we go about our job and the judge has his job and they're not always consonant," he said.

Pete Barkey, WWJ radio assignment editor, said he wasn't surprised by Garber's gag ruling, because of the extreme amount of publicity the case received.

"It hinders our ability to cover the story," Barkey said.

TYBURSKI, A Detroit Mackenzie High School administrator, was arrested after his 20-year-old daughter found her mother's body in a chest-type freezer in the basement of their Avon Street home in Canton. She and her 16-year-old sister immediately reported the incident to Canton police.

After his arrest, Tyburski told police he repeatedly struck his wife's head against a beam in the basement of their home during an argument in the fall of 1985.

He told police they were fighting about her claims of an affair with their daughter's boyfriend, Westland resident Craig Albright, now 21.

When she became groggy he pushed her and she fell back into the freezer, Tyburski told police, and he went upstairs to change his bloodied clothes.

He is being held in the Wayne County jail.

Secretary of state branch seeking clients

By Bill Casper
staff writer

Local residents now have another nearby secretary of state office to renew their driver licenses and buy license plate tabs.

The newest branch quietly opened three months ago in a recently renovated office in the Joy Beech Corners shopping mall on the northeast corner of Joy and Beech Daly, said branch supervisor Ronald Koss, a Garden City resident.

Other nearby branches are on Wayne Road north of Ford and in Wonderland Center, Plymouth Road at Middlebelt.

KOSS'S NEW BRANCH moved from a shopping mall on Telegraph north of Ford in Dearborn Heights, where the office had been for about 13 years, Koss said.

Now Dearborn Heights is without a secretary of state's office, but its 10 employees were transferred to the Redford branch so the relocation did not result in any new jobs, he said.

But business has declined, Koss said.

"People have lost us," said Koss, who hopes news spreading about the location will help to increase business there. "They don't know where we've gone."

The Dearborn Heights office was more visible to more people on the heavily traveled Telegraph, he said.

"We had a lot of business there, including people from as far away as Brighton and Howell, who work in this area and would stop on the way to their jobs or as they headed home," Koss said.

"We averaged about 50,000 transactions annually, mostly driver's licenses and plate renewals. But our clientele dropped off after the first of the year due to the move."

"We're kind of hidden since we moved from Telegraph. We put up signs on the old building to notify people about our new location. Some people have said they didn't know we were here, but they found us accidentally."

"We need to tell people we are here," Koss said. "And we've got a 10-year lease, so we'll be here for a while."

KOSS SAID he expected a normal volume of transactions, around 50,000 to 70,000 a year, at the Redford branch.

"We're still a full-service branch, but most of our transactions will involve issuing and renewing vehicle licenses and plates and issuing and transferring vehicle titles."

"Our service area incorporates south Redford, plus parts of Dearborn Heights, Livonia, Garden City and Westland."

Other services include administering road tests for people applying for their first driver's licenses; registration of off-road vehicles, mopeds, water crafts and snowmobiles; voter registration; processing changes of addresses for driver's licenses; and issuing state identification cards to people without driver's licenses, Koss said.

"One reason for the move to Redford is to take advantage of the recently renovated office that is designed for computer use that will enable us to expedite services."

"Also, access to parking is better at the new location."

The Redford office is open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Koss said. The other Redford office is the Saturday branch for this area, with hours from 9 a.m. until noon, he said.

"Another reason for the move is to relieve some of the (clientele) pressure from the other Redford office and the Westland branch (on Wayne Road, north of Ford)," Koss said. "We hope to develop our own clientele here, a process that normally takes about six months."

5 student musicians among honors band

Five students from the Wayne-Westland school district took part in a recent Honors Band clinic and concert at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

The two all-star groups, the Honors Band and the Jazz All-Stars, were made up of high school students from across the state. The bands were directed by EMU music faculty members Dr. Max Plank, Dr.

Whitney Prince and J.R. Smith.

Selected for the concert from Wayne Memorial High School was senior trombonist John Sweet.

John Glenn High School students selected for the concert included juniors Brian McGrath (trombone), Dan Rozmys (saxophone) and Scott Simpson (trumpet); and senior Greg Fletcher (trombone).

Money sought for area landmark

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

State and county aid is expected to restore a landmark that served western Wayne's earliest settlers.

A $75,000 Michigan Equity grant and $12,000 grant from Wayne County are sought to restore Nankin Mills. County commissioners are expected to approve the county grant today.

The Civil War-era grist mill is in Hines Park, near the Ann Arbor Trail/Farmington Road intersection. It currently houses Wayne County Parks offices. Long range plans call for the tall white building to be converted to a natural science museum.

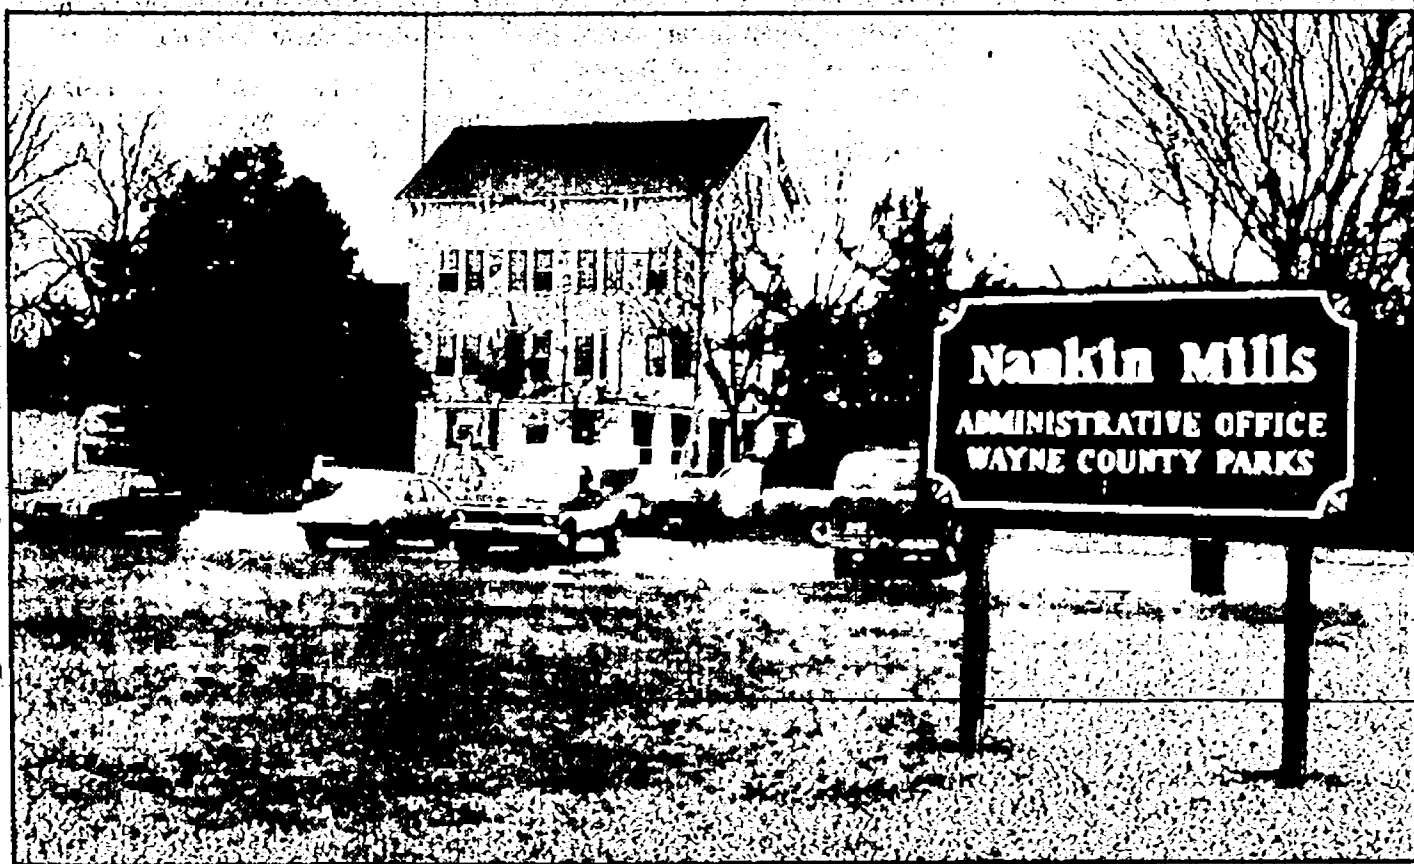

"It's the plan for us to eventually get out of here and for this place to be used to educate school children," county parks director R. Eric Reickel said. "And we support that. This could be a real asset."

AT ONE point, auto magnate Henry Ford owned the building.

"There was a tool and die shop here," Reickel said. "This was one of Ford's so-called 'cottage plants'."

Under the "village industry" plan, the auto magnate sought to establish factories in rural settings, seeking harmony between the area's development and heritage.

Nankin Mills was one of four Rouge River mills donated by Ford to the county in the late 1940s. A registered state landmark since 1977, it is considered the most historic site in Westland. Historic site status is currently sought for the Newburgh, Phoenix and Wilcox mills.

FORMER WESTLAND Mayor Thomas Brown has helped found "Friends of Nankin Mills," the group seeking the grants. The city of Westland also is expected to contribute to the estimated $135,200 restoration project.

Despite its historic status, paint has been peeling off the building for years.

Plans call for the building to be painted, its roof re-patched and windows repaired. Handicap ramps and new lighting and signs are also expected to be added.

The restoration project is a joint venture between Friends of Nankin Mills and the Westland Economic Development Advisory Commission.

State aid share 'pleases' S'craft

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Schoolcraft College officials were "surprised and pleased" with their share of 1989-90 state aid, even though the increase in government financing might fall below the rate of inflation.

Schoolcraft and the state's other community colleges will receive a 2.9 percent increase in state aid for the coming school year.

Schoolcraft's individual share is slightly more than $7.4 million. The state will spend more than $207.4 million on its 29 community colleges.

"At first, the increase might not seem like too much, but it's a substantial improvement over what was originally proposed," Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell said.

McDowell and state budget director Shelby Solomon served as co-chairmen of a community college appropriations hearing in December. At that time, McDowell said, the state proposed increases of 1 percent or less.

"WE WERE told crime and prisons are the state's No. 1 priority," McDowell said. "Education, including community colleges, is No. 2. So, we were surprised and pleased when the final figures came out."

The figures are contained in the 1989-90 state budget proposed last week by Gov. James Blanchard.

"It's a substantial improvement over what was originally proposed."

— Richard McDowell,
Schoolcraft president

Despite the increase, community colleges continue to look for alternative financing sources. Economists have predicted inflation could exceed 4 percent in the coming year. Community colleges received a 2.5 percent increase last year.

Schoolcraft also receives a share of property taxes collected in the Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton school districts, as well as in a small portion of the Novi Schools.

WITH A combined 12,780 degree and adult education students, Schoolcraft is Michigan's ninth largest community college. It is 10th in terms of state aid.

Macomb Community College receives the most direct state aid, with more than $21.3 million. Wayne County Community College, serving Westland and Redford Township, receives $12.1 million in aid and more than $10 million in state tax credits. Lansing Community College, with more than $18.7 million, ranks third.

Commissioners seek to heal rift

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Suburban Wayne County Commissioners say it is unlikely they will walk out of today's commission meeting, as they threatened two weeks ago. Meanwhile, suburban and urban commissioners continued a series of private meetings this week to restore harmony to the county governing board.

Upset over committee assignments and rumored decreases in their office budgets, six suburban commissioners threatened to walk out of the commission's Feb. 2 meeting as tempers boiled.

Since then, commissioners Richard Manning, D-Redford Township and Milton Mack, D-Wayne have met with commission chairman Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, and leaders of the commission's metropolitan caucus to discuss their concerns.

"I WOULD say tempers have simmered down," said Mack, whose district includes Canton Township.

Manning, a former commission chairman, said the talks were "going very well." "I think the issues have been fully sounded," he said.

The commission was scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. today. As of Tuesday afternoon, however, it wasn't certain whether there would be a public statement on the outcome of the talks, or whether there would be any changes in committee assignments or budget allocations.

What suburbanites want, Manning and Mack said, is a voice for their newly formed suburban caucus in selecting committee members and leaders. The suburban caucus, including commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, was formed in the wake of this year's committee assignments and rumors about office budget cuts.

Suburbanites believed their office budgets would be cut from $69,000 to $44,000, while committee leaders, each a metro caucus member, would see their budgets rise to above $80,000.

"IT LIMITS your ability to do your job," Mack said. "If staff members are laid off, it would hurt our ability to respond to constituents concerns."

While Carter said committee leaders would receive more, he added commissioner's individual budgets were still being decided.

Commission matters are debated — and generally settled — in committee meetings before reaching the full board. Individual committees debate matters pertaining to Metro Airport, county roads, drains and county spending, among other items.

"There has to be a system of proportional representation on committees, a sharing of authority," Mack said. "Most county drains are in the suburbs, most county roads are in the suburbs, the airport is in the suburbs. We want to have a say on them." The six-member caucus, he said, represents nearly 1 million county residents.

Heading into Thursday's commis-

Susan Heintz
vice chair
R-Northville

sion meeting, Manning and Mack said it was unlikely committee leaders or membership would be dramatically altered. Mack, however, said he hoped there could be some agreement involving future committee assignments.

"We looking for some assurances for the future," he said.

The dispute also brought the commission's caucus system into sharp focus. Less formal than committees, caucuses are voting blocks that can control whether issues even make it as far as the committee level.

Though allegiances shift, the metropolitan caucus currently includes a near majority of commission members. It becomes a majority block when the votes of Carter and commission vice chairwoman Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, are added. Each is a former metro caucus member.

Heintz' appointment as vice chair was opposed by most other suburban commissioners.

"The appointment of the vice chairman was an issue for some commissioners," said Manning, who voted in favor of Heintz' appointment.

Mack and Beard, who opposed the nomination, said they voted against Heintz because she is a Republican.

"There's been a lot of talk, but I think that's what it boils down to, that I'm a Republican," said Heintz, whose district includes Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. "But whatever influence I've been able to bring to bear has come from the fact I'm a Republican. I think my being appointed vice chairwoman was a result of my helping out (in lobbying Republican legislators) when we went to Lansing two years ago for financial help."

Heintz said she joined the metropolitan caucus shortly after joining the commission in 1987 because there wasn't a suburban caucus at the time and because the group also included two other suburban commissioners.

Remodelers group sees room for industry growth

Growth opportunities in the competitive remodeling industry stirred considerable interest and optimism among professionals who recently attended the kick-off meeting of the new Professional Builder Remodelers Council.

The remodelers council was formed by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) to educate professionals about business and consumer trends in the industry and exchange information about evolving remodeling opportunities and techniques.

The council also plans to help those in residential remodeling work together toward productive industry goals, formulate standards of quality in workmanship, and educate the public about the value of home remodeling by qualified construction professionals.

"The Builders Association welcomes this professional council to our organization," said James Bonadeo, BASM president. "The increase in home remodeling has been accompanied by consumer demands for more professional work and for more sophisticated projects. Forums like our council will help professionals keep pace with business trends, quality standards and homeowner expectations."

According to industry experts and consultants, residential remodeling, renovation and rehabilitation represent a $100 billion industry, 75 percent of which is performed by professionals.

The professional segment of the industry is expected to grow by 10 percent annually; some analysts anticipate industry growth to double by 1995 and redouble by the beginning of the next century.

THERE ARE 95 million housing units in the United States today, 65 million of which are 15 years old or older.

Homes, especially older ones, need regular maintenance and periodic updating to sustain market value and appreciation.

Besides the growth in housing units, the increased owner investment in homes has pushed the demand for professional remodeling and renovation upward.

In the 1980s, median-income families allocated about 14 percent of their "disposable" incomes toward their housing needs.

Twenty years later, families are investing upwards of 44 percent of their incomes into their homes, according to analysts. Because of the rapid value appreciation in most homes, owners now consider their homes as a major part of their future financial security.

The kinds of remodeling projects done today are much more sophisticated than they were several years ago when families usually just expanded basic living space. Says Bonadeo, "The enhancements homeowners want for their comfort and investment value require the selling, designing and installation talents of professionals. Remodelers who understand consumer interests, as well as service and marketing, will see increasing opportunity."

The Professional Builder Remodelers Council will meet monthly and will host business seminars on a quarterly basis. For membership information, call 737-4477.

Reuther is accredited

Walter Reuther Psychiatric Hospital in Westland has earned national accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations.

It was the third time the hospital, located on Palmer near Merriman, has been accredited by the Chicago group since 1983. Accreditation is good for three years.

The JCAHO report cited a number of contingencies which must be addressed by a written progress report within the next nine months to maintain accreditation.

A survey will be conducted next fall to review progress in nursing services and rehabilitation programs.

Bazaar coming

Polly Maloney of the Dyer Center senior adult group paints the eyes on a decorative rabbit as the seniors gear up for the center's annual Spring Bazaar. Hundreds of rabbits and other items will be for sale at the bazaar, Monday-Thursday, March 20-23, at the center, on Marquette east of Newburgh. The bazaar is one of the center's largest fundraisers for clubs and social activities, Maloney said.

4 arrested in siding theft

Four people who Plymouth Township Police believe were stripping materials off an abandoned house were arrested Tuesday afternoon.

Three men and a woman were ticketed for trespassing. One of the men also was ticketed for the misdemeanor larceny under $100.

Two of the men and the woman, all 30 years old, live in Livonia, Inkster and Westland, respectively. The fourth man, 40, lives in Garden City.

They were directed to appear in 35th District Court Tuesday, March 15.

The house, on Lilley at Postiff, was destroyed by fire last summer.

Police were called to the home about 3 p.m. and reported finding a station wagon with its rear gate open containing a pile of aluminum siding. The four suspects denied ownership of the vehicle, but it was later traced to one of them, police said.

The people said they had permission to take the siding, but a check with an owner of the property refuted that claim, police said.

THE HOUSE, owned by Frank and Pam Taylor, burned July 3 and hasn't been habitable since. Fire chief Larry Groth said structural damage was $200,000, damage to contents $107,000.

"That is positively an arson fire," Groth said. No arrests have been made.

A settlement was recently reached between the owners and their insurance company, said Charles McIlhargey, chief building official in the township.

The owners have applied for a demolition permit, but McIlhargey said he's issued a ticket to expedite the process.

Police chief Carl Berry said that while illegally taking materials from abandoned houses in Detroit is "a big time type of thing, it's unusual in this area."

"It's not an ongoing problem, but it's starting to occur," Berry said. "Larceny from construction projects is also starting to become a problem."

Timely reporting of suspicious activity could help curb the problem, Berry said.

Moderates elect GOP vice chairs by 2-1

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Suzanne Miller may be seeking perpetual youth.

The 23-year-old Farmington Hills woman has started a second term as (third) youth vice chair of the Michigan Republican Party.

"I'm the only third vice-chair who has ever run twice," said Miller, who left a job to work on a master's in advertising at Michigan State University.

She ranked with state chair E. Spencer Abraham as among the few top officers to win re-election unanimously Saturday at the Republican State Convention in Grand Rapids. Billed as a love fest, the convention actually showed party regulars hold a 2-1 majority over Pat Robertson's conservatives.

"Maybe you heard a couple weeks ago our friends in the Democrat Party elected a new state chairman (Tom Lewand) who said a No. 1 issue on his platform was getting back the youth vote. Ladies and gentlemen, I wish him luck," Miller told the cheering audience.

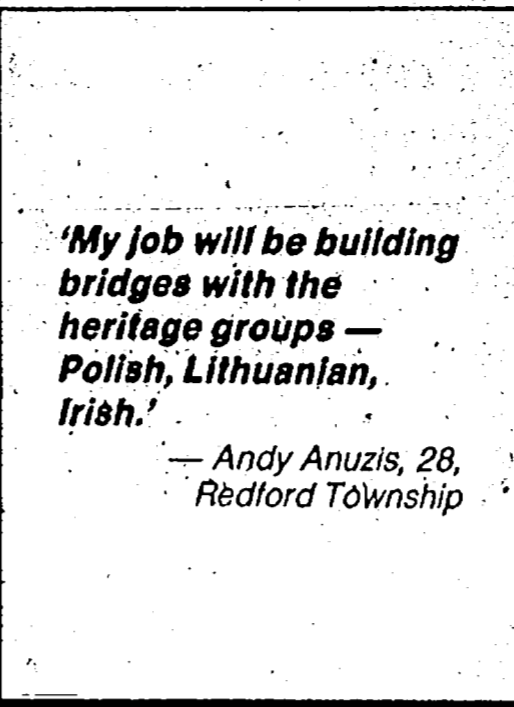

"Last year over 68 percent of the youth vote (ages 18-20) went for the Bush-Quayle ticket. We spoke to over 125 high schools and reached over 15,000 students.

"In 1990 we will do even better,"

'I'm the only third vice chair who has ever run twice.'

— Suzanne Miller, 23, Farmington Hills

'My job will be building bridges with the heritage groups — Polish, Lithuanian, Irish.'

— Andy Anuzis, 28, Redford Township

sional District 1,024 to 489. Anuzis was nominated by Sen. Dick Posthumus of Lowell, a Kemp backer who refused to jump ship last year; Simkus, by former Sen. Alan Cropsey, a fundamentalist conservative.

"My job will be building bridges with the heritage groups — Polish, Lithuanian, Irish," said Anuzis, whose roots are Lithuanian.

"We spoke to the Ukrainian high school in Hamtramck, and they organized a teenage Republican club.

Anuzis was 17th District chair last year and one of the Kemp supporters who last year stayed in the fold with Posthumus. A one-time legislative aide, Anuzis now is working on an master of business administration degree at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The two roll calls were stopped when the 2-1 moderate trend was apparent. But they showed the loyalists of TV evangelist Pat Robertson are still in control in the 6th (Pontiac, Lansing), 7th (Flint), 14th (northeast suburbs) and 15th (west central Wayne suburbs) congressional districts.

But Paul Welday, a Kemp chieftain last year, said the GOP is better off after the infusion of conservative new blood. "The Robertson people built a fire under them (mainstream veterans), opened up their eyes," Welday said.

One clear peace signal: Abraham's nominating speeches were made by national committeewoman Ronna Romney, of Bloomfield Hills, a Bush she vowed, and party leaders are certain she'll deliver.

"An inspiration," said Saul Anuzis, chair of the 3rd Congressional District, in nominating her. Anuzis recalled her organization of the "Scatterblitzers," a youth group that campaigned by car caravan on the way to the 1988 national convention in New Orleans, and the "Inaugural Expedition," a trip to George Bush's inaugural for budget-conscious young folks. Miller said her reason for seeking an unprecedented second term was to develop the contacts she has made the last two years — particularly now that Democrat Lewand wants to challenge her team.

Low-key battles

The state convention was a love fest compared to the bitter division of a year ago, when the Kemp-Robertson conservative coalition walked out on the Bush moderates.

But there were still some battles, low-key in comparison, which showed the moderates, joined by the former Jack Kemp supporters, hold a 2-1 advantage among party regulars.

A test case, as Miller saw it, was the contest for fifth (senior citizens) vice chair.

C.W. (Mac) McClellan, a Harbor Springs resident who spent 20 years in Bloomfield Township, defeated the 14th Congressional District's "favorite grandmother," Mary Lowe of Troy. The roll call was 1,007 for McClellan to 517 for Lowe, who was backed by last year's Robertson forces.

"We're supposed to bring back the retirees in Michigan's north country," said McClellan, who admitted many UAW retirees around Atlanta are keeping their union-Democratic affiliations. But he added GM retirees have their own club in "the Harbor."

McClellan retired 12 years ago after serving as Fisher Body's public relations director and director of organizational training and development.

Politically, he had been fifth vice chair from 1984-86, a delegate to the 1984 and 1988 national conventions and the 11th Congressional District's presidential elector in '84.

ANDY ANUZIS, 28, of Redford Township, won back his old job of fourth (ethnic) vice chair, defeating Arnold Simkus of the 4th Congress-

GOP heals wounds, moderates in control

backer, and Lori Packer, of Southfield, a Robertson backer. Packer praised Abraham, for "bringing people together."

Senate signs

Anyone with an inclination to run for the U.S. Senate nomination next year got a chance to address the state convention.

Who's going over well? Suzanne Miller, was wearing a sticker for Bill Schuette (pronounced "shoot-ee"), a second-term congressman from Midland County.

Andy Anuzis was openly plunking for Clark Durant, former chair of the U.S. Legal Services Corp. whose bow tie and suspenders have become a trademark for the Kemp conservatives.

Many other Republicans were sporting stickers for Dick DeVos, an Amway Corp. vice president.

Jack Lousma, the former astronaut who was the 1984 nominee against Sen. Carl Levin, surprised many by making his own pitch near the tail end of the convention. Lousma has settled in Ann Arbor and has a defense-related business.

U.S. REP. Paul Henry of Grand Rapids said he had "encouraged DeVos," although Henry himself is a Senate possibility against two-term Democrat Carl Levin next year. "It's do-able. That's the reason so many are looking at it," Henry said.

In an interview, Henry predicted party people would coalesce around one candidate by this fall. "It would be disastrous if the party tries to handpick a candidate," he said.

State GOP chairman E. Spencer Abraham was among the few top officers to win re-election unanimously Saturday at the Republican State Convention in Grand Rapids.

Joe Knollenberg, new chair of the 18th District and a veteran Oakland County leader, summed it up: "It's wide open."

Licking wounds

Mike Legg, one of the "kamikaze Kemples" of 1988, was replaced as 2nd Congressional District chair, but he's still active and attended the convention.

"I'm just licking my wounds. I don't want to start a fight," said the Northville Township lawyer who chaired last year's Kemp-Robertson walkout convention.

He circulated a letter seeking members for a group called United Republicans of Michigan, protesting that "certain elements within the Republican Party found it easier to purge newly active conservatives than to unite with them."

ALSO TAKING a defeat was Elaine Donnelly, a Livonia conservative, who lost a bid for re-election to the issues (platform) committee from the 2nd District.

The vote was 59 for Gary Wolfram, a Hillsdale College economics professor, to 58 for Donnelly.

"Two people I counted on weren't there," she said, adding, "I'll clean out my files and do something that's fun."

Donnelly still was chair of the outgoing issues committee and introduced questions to the convention. Her summary of GOP philosophy: "Democrats say compassion is more social services. Compassion means creating 18 million new jobs for unemployed Americans. The best thing (Democratic Gov.) Jim Blanchard has done is grab hold of the Reagan recovery and hold on for all it's worth."

GOP caucuses elect officers

2ND DISTRICT - Chair, Jim Blow, Ann Arbor. Vice chair, Audrey Greenleaf, Livonia. Secretary, Barbara Parker, Jackson. Treasurer, Herb Hine, Hillsdale.

RSC: Harry Greenleaf of Livonia, Colleen Conrad of Ann Arbor, Jay

Funk of Lenawee County, Lola Peterson of Jackson.

Blow's comment: "It's a coalition of conservatives and moderates, people active for many years." Elections were unanimous except for the Wolfram-Donnelly contest (story above).

Harry Greenleaf: "The healing process is under way."

15TH DISTRICT - Chair, Tom Thompson, Livonia. Vice chair, Mary Dahm, Canton. Secretary, John Barile, Westland. Treasurer, John Macropol, Livonia.

RSC: Dave Thompson of Saline, Jerry Wall of Taylor, Joanne Blausey of Westland, Helen Szabo of Southgate.

Tom Thompson's comment: "The conservative coalition is still in charge. We're trying to work together, but the others think we took too many (positions). Everything was contested."

The new chair teaches in a Detroit junior high. He is no kin of the RSC member, who was chair the last two years.

All ages can enjoy environmental books

As a result of reports that reading by school children is at an all-time low, Consumer Mailbag asked Barbara Crandell, a Concern board member, to update her original book suggestion list for you:

Because so many good books on the environment are available, making it difficult to select a few, I queried friends who are naturalists, librarians, specialists in children's books, and young people willing to share their list of favorites.

When making selections, keep in mind the joys of reading aloud. Even the youngest member can gain pleasure from the sense of participation with other family members — as well as the ritual, enthusiasm and drama that can be created by the reader. Also, a child reluctant about going to bed can be tempted with the promise of a bedtime story.

In the classroom as well as in the home, a time set aside for everyone to read his or her own selection can be a time of pleasure and a painless way to introduce the habit of regular reading.

Good literature can be read by a variety of age levels. Don't ignore or be embarrassed to select books from other than your age group.

As you read about our environment, observe it and gain new insight, and you will see the interconnections between the natural world and human existence.

HOW MUCH DID YOU LOSE LAST YEAR ON NON-DEDUCTIBLE INTEREST?

UNLESS YOU ACT QUICKLY, THIS YEAR COULD BE WORSE.

As you know, Congress is steadily phasing out interest deductions on most consumer loans. An exception is a loan secured by your home.* Which makes it a great time to apply for a home equity line of credit at First of America Bank.

Put The Deduction Back In Your Interest.

The Federal tax laws allow you to use your home equity line of credit for any purpose you want. And in most cases, on loans all the way up to $100,000, you still get to take a 100 percent tax deduction.

You also may pay a lower interest rate along with those lower taxes.

Take Advantage Of Your Tax Break.

Get your tax break with our home equity line of credit. You can use this line instead of other loans that are no longer fully tax deductible. You can also access your credit line simply by writing a check. And the payment schedule is flexible, too.

However, using the equity in your home is not something you should do without careful consideration. Furthermore, there are some items—like normal living expenses, for example—for which a home equity line of credit is definitely not appropriate.

So stop by your nearest First of America office, or call 1-800-544-6155 for more information. We'll provide you with a free information brochure and an application. We'll also help you determine if a home equity line of credit is right for you.

In no time, we can have your good credit working in your favor.

Police cooperation leads to metro area drug bust

Regional police cooperation led to Tuesday's drug trafficking indictments.

The indictments were the result of the first major drug bust recorded by the Southeast Michigan Conspiracy Organization, SEMCO, a multi-department drug strike force, formed last year to investigate Michigan's big time drug dealers.

Unlike local investigations, SEMCO activities aren't bound by local, county or state boundaries.

"Local departments can only go so far," SEMCO 1st Lt. Lawrence Rodriguez said. "They don't have the resources and assets to move further up the chain."

Before SEMCO was formed, Rodriguez said, local departments had been frustrated in their ability to investigate complicated drug transactions.

"THERE'S USUALLY a long trail of paperwork involved," Rodriguez said. "Investigations take time."

The investigation leading to Tuesday's indictments stretched from southern Oakland County to Florida. Indictments were brought against 21 people, including two Southfield residents and a former Farmington Hills resident.

In addition to arresting suspects, SEMCO also forces forfeiture of drug dealers' homes, automobiles, airplanes and other assets under new federal law.

Officers involved in SEMCO investigations are drawn from nine police agencies, including the Michigan State Police, Oakland County Sheriff's Department and Farmington Hills and Livonia police. Other member agencies include the Macomb, Monroe and Washtenaw sheriff's departments, as well as the Lincoln Park and Trenton police. Investigators are generally assigned for three years, Rodriguez said. SEMCO members maintain their rank and seniority with their original departments, though that has forced some early departures.

"We've lost some people to promotions," Rodriguez said.

SEMCO is financed by the federal government, as well as a variety of regional police agencies, including the Western Wayne Narcotics unit.

'Local departments can only go so far. They don't have the resources and assets to move further up the chain.'

— 1st Lt. Lawrence Rodriguez
SEMCO

Coordination is essential with all the agencies involved, Rodriguez said.

"What we do is follow-up work," he said. "We're not out there making the buys. That's usually what the local police departments do."

In addition to the local departments, SEMCO also receives help from the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the Internal Revenue Service and U.S. Customs Office, as well as the Michigan Department of Treasury, Michigan Attorney General's Office and the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

Cracking down on drug dealing has been a major goal of Michigan police departments this year. Gov. James Blanchard recently announced plans to create a state drug czar, to oversee and coordinate anti-drug activities.

Child care center sets open house

An open house will be held at the Schoolcraft College-Radcliff infant/toddler center 8-8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 23.

Guests are invited to tour the center and talk with care-givers and college staff members.

The center is open 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays. The fee is $120 per week. Care is also available for $25 per day, but a two-day minimum per week is required.

The program accepts children from 6 weeks through 2 1/2 years old. It is individualized to meet each child's needs.

The center is at 1751 Radcliff, Garden City. Additional information is available by calling 462-4410.

Guide to 'Cleopatra's Egypt' offered

A guide to "Cleopatra's Egypt" will be presented 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 23, at Schoolcraft College, Livonia.

A slide show depicting ancient Egyptian artifacts from the age of Cleopatra will be presented by William Peck, curator of ancient art at the Detroit Institute of Arts, in the main campus Liberal Arts Theater.

"Cleopatra's Egypt: Age of the Ptolemies" is being presented through May 1 at the Detroit Institute of Arts. The exhibit features sculptures, coins, jewelry and other artifacts depicted in the slide show.

A reception will follow the slide presentation. Both events are free and open to the public. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Stepping down Stockmeyer played key role

MOST RESIDENTS rarely go to school board meetings. They trust their elected officials to be intelligent, reasonable, public spirited adults who will make the right decisions on difficult issues.

If not, then the voters will boot them out of office at the next election.

In the Wayne-Westland school district in the fall of 1982, voters didn't wait that long and recalled four board members by large margins in a special election.

One former Westland resident who has been "school boarding" for more than four decades has recently stepped down after 42 consecutive years as a member of either the local Wayne-Westland Board of Education, Wayne County Intermediate School Board, Wayne State University Board of Governors, Detroit Institute of Technology and the state Board of Education.

Local parents and youngsters may not realize the contributions Norman Stockmeyer has made to elevate the standards of public education locally and on a state level.

Stockmeyer, honored by the Wayne-Westland school board Monday night, joined the then Wayne Community School District shortly after getting out of the Navy in 1946 and served on it for 16 years, helping steer the district during its tumultuous growth years.

STOCKMEYER WAS instrumental in getting the district going in a positive direction during those difficult years.

A school administrator who nominated him for the Westland First Citizen community service award three months ago said Stockmeyer "stands out as the most distinguished, most dedicated and most knowledgeable board member in our district's history."

He was on the state board when it started to draft educational goals for local districts. While the goals weren't mandated on local boards, they helped focus the public's attention on what should be done in local schools.

Most newspaper reporters who cover school board meetings know how "exciting" debates are on buying new chemistry texts, awarding school bus contracts, and accepting the low bidder's quote on milk for the lunch program.

Norman Stockmeyer's contributions to public education — locally and on a state level — will be felt in classrooms long after his retirement from 'school boarding.'

Occasionally, the public takes notice — usually with a complaint — when there is a new contract for the teachers' union, pay raise for the superintendent, change in attendance boundaries, and issues which have some political appeal.

Stockmeyer, who recently moved to Plymouth after nearly 50 years in Westland, is a youthful 81. He may not receive any highly publicized awards. Mostly, he will get small plaques at gatherings of educators and fellow board members.

BUT PARENTS and students — past and present — should know of the contributions Stockmeyer has made to their education.

He will be best known for his energies and ideas that he contributed to the raise the level of educational quality in the past 42 years.

Although most residents view elected officials with a sense of disdain — as evidenced by the national protest last month over proposed pay raises for U.S. senators and representatives — Stockmeyer has set a high standard of public service and performance.

While he has "retired" and will be missed from school boarding, Stockmeyer will continue to contribute to the community by serving service on the Wayne-Westland Family Y, which he helped form nearly 30 years ago.

And for that the community is grateful.

Home day care Bill sets necessary standards

TODAY WORKING parents in need of good, safe day care for their children are the rule, not the exception.

But in many communities, parents' search for day care facilities close to home is thwarted by community zoning ordinances and attempts to curb, if not prohibit, home day care in residential areas.

That's why we urge passage of a bill to be reintroduced by state Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, which would ensure that all home child care operators:

- are licensed,
- are required to follow a set of appropriate standards,
- are allowed to operate in residential areas.

THE BILL would give parents the security of knowing their children can be cared for in a residential setting without local officials using zoning ordinances to close the home.

Senate Bill 687, as it was known in the last legislative session before its death by one vote, would apply to cities and villages.

The state Legislature has already given its blessings to accompanying bills covering townships and counties.

Legislators should complete the three-bill package of day care bills enabling cities and villages to provide for in-home day care.

In far too many cases, local zoning ordinances have succeeded in driving home child day care underground. The ordinances have forced operators to avoid licensure and ordinance penalties.

Consequently, today's in-home child care providers receive minimum control and monitoring. An overburdened state Department of Social Legislators should complete the three-bill package of day care bills enabling cities and villages to provide for in-home day care.

Services must wrestle with complaints about a home or its operator.

FAXON'S BILL will allow complaints to be handled by local authorities, who can respond more rapidly and are closer to the problem.

The bill ensures adequate control at the state and local levels.

Without a special, locally issued permit, the larger group day care homes (maximum 12 children) may not locate within 1,500 feet of each other or other types of licensed care facilities.

Density would be controlled.

The group day care homes would have to meet standards to receive a locally issued permit. Operators would be required to meet standards for sign regulations, fencing, property maintenance and off-street parking for employees. Local officials would be allowed to inspect both family and group day care homes.

In-home child day care is not a business in the traditional sense. Day care provides a needed service, one that has been provided by neighbors and friends for decades.

Caring for children in a residential area is what a neighborhood is all about. Whether or not regulations exist, parents will continue to seek child care in their neighborhoods. And whether or not regulations exist, neighbors will continue to provide the service.

But with Faxon's bill, standards would be set and enforced. A much-needed and time-honored service could come out in the open, free of harassment and fear.

The increasing demand for in-home child care proves that parents continue to want their children cared for by neighbors and friends in a setting familiar to children.

WORKING MOTHERS won't go away. And the needs of their children won't go away. The best way to face the issue is to acknowledge it and set guidelines that ensure the continuance of such services and the protection of children.

Faxon's bill is a step in the right direction if we are to meet the needs of today's working parents and the needs of a future generation.

As Faxon so aptly put it: "The quality of life in any community can be measured by how we care for our children and our seniors. We're talking about something that's good for children."

Sports violence hurts mission of education

USING KIDS to satisfy our sports fantasies should bother us all. It particularly should bother us when we witness or read about incidents which demonstrate that exploitation is having a harmful impact.

A recent basketball game between West Bloomfield and Southfield Lathrup high schools is a case in point.

During the third period of a hotly contested game on Feb. 3, several players decided that playing basketball wasn't good enough. A fight ensued. Players were ejected and the game continued.

You might have seen the action on your local television broadcast. It was sports violence to which we all have become far too accustomed.

It's tough to blame the kids, although they should be held accountable. After all, they see this kind of stuff among the pros all the time. Hockey has condoned violence for far too many years. Even the tames of America's pastimes, baseball, has seen an increase in the number of fights.

In recent years the giants of professional basketball have started slugging it out.

So, the kids follow suit.

WE HAVE become a society which has far too easily come to accept violence as part of life. Perhaps we are becoming numb.

Lathrup coach Bob Herm seemed more concerned with the impact the player ejections had on the game than on the impact it had on the players' attitudes toward violence.

"When you lose your leading scorer, things happen," he said, referring to the ejection of Lathrup player Jamall Ellis. "He makes things happen, and that really hurts."

Well, coach, what hurts is when violence is accepted as part of a game which supposedly builds character. We all must assume that since high school basketball is part of the educational curriculum that it is supposed to teach our children values.

And coaches, probably more than most other teachers, have a huge impact on students' attitudes.

Students who fight should be disciplined and thrown off teams, not praised.

But far too often coaches dismiss this kind of violence as just another part of the game. Violence is overlooked all in the name of victory.

WINNING the game should be secondary to educating the student-player.

We really must re-examine the roll that sports play in our society — especially in our schools. Just this week, a Detroit area student playing football at Oklahoma has been hit with a rape charge. That team's quarterback has been arrested and charged with selling cocaine.

Steroids already have permeated the college locker room and are rapidly creeping into our high school gyms.

Now we see high school students rather consistently bashing each other around the playing surface.

If that's the kind of character that sports builds, we certainly don't need it in our educational system. To preserve the best of sports, coaches and educators need to take a good hard look at what is happening.

Firefighters are important

To the editor:

The Unsung Heroes . . . The large fire at the Big Boy Restaurant on Jan. 26 and the subsequent reporting by the local media and the Detroit TV stations have prompted me to write.

All too often, we take things for granted, and one only has to talk to the uninformed citizen who believes that professional firefighters sit around the station all day, drink coffee, play checkers, watch TV and wait for an emergency to happen, and if it occurs, to respond and to take care of the emergency.

Three years ago, I retired from the fire department, and really have not been active in what has transpired since that time, but I have maintained membership in most of the professional fire service organizations and continue to receive their publications as a result of living that life for some 27 years.

This past year, the Westland firefighters on their own time traveled to another part of the state and saw a vehicle to save lives, and as a result of that, donated their time, effort and energy to build a fire safety house in Westland that will teach youngsters and people of all ages what to do in the event of a fire, and how to exit the home during an actual demonstration . . . and God forbid . . . a real fire.

Because the professional firefighter risks his life each and every day, in the past year hundreds have been injured, and a number of men and women in the fire service have lost their lives . . . to protect and serve others.

Detroit has lost firefighters, Milford has lost firefighters, and you only have to pick up a newspaper each week and read where a number, such as in Kansas, were killed during an explosion, or in New Jersey, where a roof collapsed and killed several others.

Today, at the Big Boy, Westland firefighters showed the high degree of professional training and self-discipline that they have, in the manner that the incident occurred.

Upon arriving, Battalion Chief Michael Reddy led his men to the roof of the building to find it "spongy," and ordered his men off the roof. Upon attempting to enter the rear of the building, the roof appeared to be sagging, and Reddy ordered the building evacuated, which in my opinion saved his men from a possible tragedy.

The opposite could have occurred, with firefighters and residents suffering the loss of their men. Westland firefighters are highly dedicated human beings who should be commended for their actions in providing the highest degree of service to the community. Coffee, checkers and TV indeed . . . When you need them, they are there.

Policeman is innocent

To the editor:

I was an observer at the Westland Civil Service Commission (disciplinary) hearing for police officer Leonard Goodlesky. I went as a subjective observer since I believe he is innocent. I know him as the father of my baby-sitter and I am impressed by the fine character of his family.

As I listened to the testimony, I was pleased that objectively he must also be found innocent. Therefore, I was amazed and appalled to hear the harsh guilty verdict brought against him.

I must go on record as believing a terrible miscarriage of justice has occurred. I hope it will be quickly rectified to the satisfaction of the Westland police department and the Leonard Goodlesky family.

Activist sets record straight

To the editor:

Thank you for the flattering summary of my various Cass Corridor activities, for showing that downward mobility isn't necessarily all that bad at all.

Still I wish to correct a couple inaccuracies. My bands the Blanks and Angry Red Planet have never done a benefit for a theater group or dance studio. However, we have played fund and awareness raisers for such diverse groups as the Cass Community Food Program, The Humane Society, CISPES (an anti-contra organization), and the Evergreen Alliance (not "Green").

And finally, I'm actually getting by on about $55 a week, not the $100 originally reported.

Pretty good reporting for an 'unwanted' guy

SOMETIMES I GET the impression that we suburban newspeople aren't wanted around Lansing.

You already know I didn't come up with any scoops on Gov. James J. Blanchard's State of the State address. For a week before the Feb. 7 address, Blanchard's people leaked major proposals to favored papers — the Detroit Free Press and the New York Times.

The Detroit News, as columnist George Weeks tells it, got left out except for one particular reporter who was offered a tip. On another assignment, she was unable to handle it and suggested it be given to two other News folks, "but the governor's office told her they would not be called," Weeks wrote.

A LOCAL STATE senator told how the Republican caucus reacted to the day-after-day news leaks.

"It was reported (in caucus) that a Detroit News reporter was told by a spokesman for the governor's office that it was punishing the News for a story it did on Janet Fox." She, in case you've been in a cocoon, is the governor's lady friend.

Blanchard cut his speech to 25 minutes this year, and he didn't display Rose Bowl football players from Michigan as he did with the Michigan State squad in 1988.

Probable reason: He was being covered by C-SPAN, the public affairs cable TV channel. That and the New York Times leak tell us Blanchard is playing to a national audience.

Tim Richard

I haven't expected any favors from the governor since last July's "left wing baloney" story out of the Democratic National Convention, although he has been polite and even wished me "Happy New Year."

It didn't bother me. My first job on a daily paper was in a small county with many little villages. News sources continually played favorites between us, the country weeklies and the South Bend paper. I got used to petty, small-town politics.

AFTER A TUBFUL of leaks to favored papers, you may wonder what there was to cover the night of the speech.

My stock in trade is local reactions — how your local legislator evaluated the plans. It was tough going last week because:

- The administration's news "briefing" was set for 1:30 but started late.

- The briefing went on for 1½ hours — with no questions permitted until the end. That effectively tied up half the afternoon.

- The speech text wasn't available at the briefing. To get the speech text, you had to go to the governor's news office and sign in. (I sign in as "the notorious Tim Richard," which gives his staff a charge.) But you couldn't pick a copy off the stack, and the receptionist couldn't hand you one. You had to wait for an assistant press secretary to hand it to you with an oral warning that it was embargoed until delivery.

- By the time the briefing wound down, many Democratic lawmakers had disappeared into their own briefings and were scarce in Capitol corridors and offices.

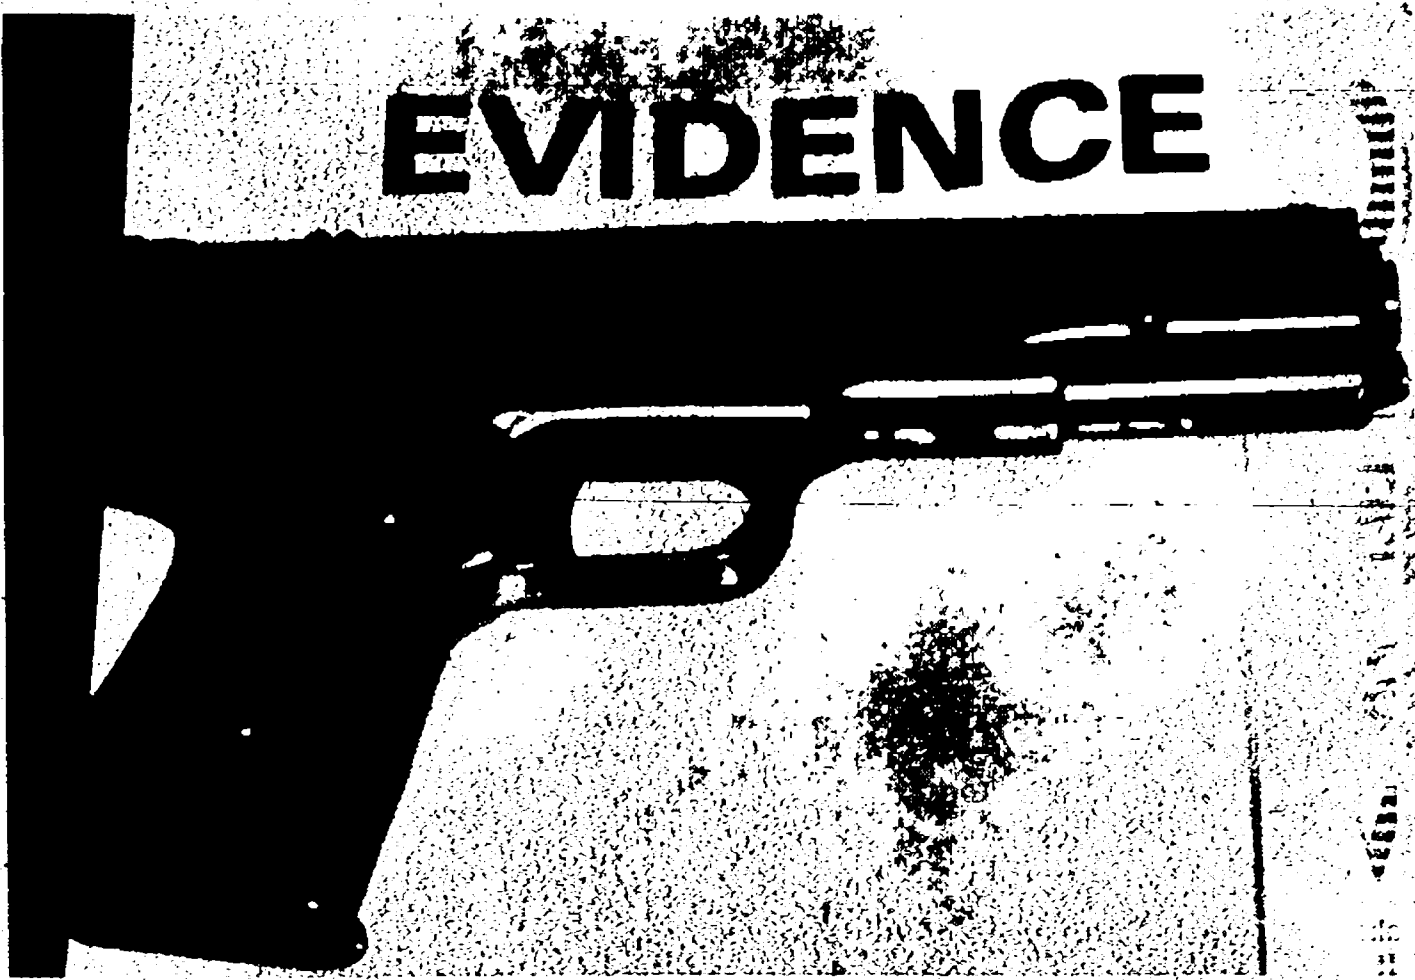

- The full 84-page booklet wasn't available until after the speech, at 8 p.m. When a brother reporter protested, news secretary Tom Scott explained: "We don't want them available before the speech." In other words, it would be difficult to show specific proposals to lawmakers for their reactions.

IN SUM, Blanchard wanted the spotlight on himself for a full week before the speech, the entire day and evening of the speech. Our chances to contact legislators were minimal.

Nevertheless, I managed to track down two Republican senators, a Democratic senator, three Republican representatives and three Democratic representatives for nine more or less articulate comments.

Not bad for a guy who gets the impression he isn't wanted around Lansing.

This pellet gun, identical in appearance to a 9mm semiautomatic pistol, was found next to the victim inside the car he was driving, police said.

Cocaine habit starts man on road to death

HE SAID THAT he wanted to die. "Kill me," he shouted at a Farmington Hills police officer. "I want to die."

So he died. A single gunshot wound to his chest. From reports out of Farmington Hills last weekend, there was little choice. The officer, standing beside his patrol car, had ordered the man to surrender.

He didn't. He kept driving toward the officer who had cornered him on a dead-end street. The man reached for something on his passenger seat. The officer, knowing he was pursuing a suspected armed robber, feared the man might be reaching for a weapon. Indeed, there was a gun on the seat.

The policeman again ordered him to stop. But the car kept coming to the point where the police officer feared the car was going to hit him or pin him between the two vehicles. And the man was shouting, "Kill me."

The two were maybe five feet apart when the officer fired. Killed was a 34-year-old Missouri man, a giant of a man standing 6 feet, 5 inches tall and weighing 450 pounds.

HE IS SUSPECTED in a string of armed robberies in the last two weeks in Beverly Hills, Dearborn Heights, Westland, Garden City, and, on the morning of the day that he died, Livonia. He had no criminal record, but his wife was reported to say he was a severely depressed

Rich Perlberg

Vietnam War veteran. They lived in Missouri, but he had recently returned to a job he had with a Grand Rapids car dealership.

And Saturday night on a dead-end street he was driving toward an armed police officer. Among his last words were the cry, "Kill me."

How could this happen? Why should a man be robbing gas stations and pizza shops? Why should he be begging to die?

Farmington police Chief William Dwyer thinks the answer is simple. It's crack cocaine.

"I can't stress enough that a person addicted to crack — and we've seen it with doctors and attorneys — turns to crime," Dwyer said.

The man's wife told police that the man had a "very severe" crack habit.

That seems redundant.

By definition, it seems that any crack or cocaine habit is "very severe."

IT'S EASY TO be cynical about the way that politicians line up to be at the forefront of the war on drugs. They'll issue a press release damning drugs on the same day they accept a contribution at a cocktail party from a tobacco lobbyist. Booze is a bigger killer than cocaine. More Americans will die from cigarettes in a month than from crack in a year!

But crack has had such a sudden devastating effect on our lives. Children are killing children in Detroit because of crack. Metro area youths wear beepers to at least give the impression that they are within an electronic impulse from a big drug deal. Young men are recruited from the Deep South to mine the lucrative Detroit crack field.

And, as Dwyer says, no one is immune — not doctors, not lawyers, not war veterans from Missouri.

The drug, according to some users, is irresistibly seductive. The first high is so great that you spend and lose a lifetime searching in vain for a repeat performance.

Crack is expensive, addictive and devastating. To use crack is to become addicted to it; to become addicted in many cases is to turn to crime.

"Kill me," the man said Saturday night. It wasn't the first time he said that. The first time was the day he first used crack.

Parents worried about GPA

Q: My son is qualified for advanced placement or honors chemistry class but is planning to take regular chemistry because he knows he will get an A in regular chemistry. He says the teacher in advanced placement chemistry does not give out many A's each year. We don't know what to do. Our son is very bright but wants to keep his grade point average high for scholarship and college selection opportunities.

Doc Doyle

A's or B's should be given out in an advanced placement class is unacceptable. However, it should also be noted that regardless of the teachers' grading procedures, taking advanced placement classes can assist a student in passing advanced placement tests in their senior year.

BY PASSING advanced placement tests, a student can opt out of some college course, receive college or university credit for those courses and save money. One student I know opted out of 18 hours or had 16 hours of college credit before entering college.

The cost savings in tuition can range from $4,800 to $7,500 depending upon whether the student goes to a private or state supported institution.

The advanced placement class can be an investment in the future with college tuition and reduced tuition. Most college admissions offices recalculate grade point averages.

Still it is a tough decision if a student is up for valedictorian or salutatorian or wants to push for a certain point average toward a scholarship. The teacher who uses a grading curve in an advanced placement class is using poor judgment.

Most advanced placement teachers are very competent, very knowledgeable and very experienced. In a rare case it is possible that an advanced placement teacher was selected for the course because of seniority as opposed to competence.

More colleges offer alcohol-free rooms

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Efforts begun in Oakland County to provide college students with an alcohol-free living environment are gaining momentum. Some of the state's 15 public institutions now say they will provide that option.

Beginning next school year, Northern Michigan and Grand Valley State universities will for the first time offer all students an opportunity to select roommates who do not use alcohol by checking off that option on the housing application.

Eastern Michigan University officials say they are in the process of complying.

Michigan Technological University and Lake Superior State will extend the option only to those students who are 21 or over.

"Although I am glad to see some progress being made, it appears that it is minimal," said U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman. The West Bloomfield resident was a driving force in the movement as a 48th District Court judge.

EFFORTS ARE aimed at compliance by all 15 public universities and the 40 or so private colleges and universities in Michigan, according to Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield.

Last year Honigman introduced a bill that would have required colleges to offer students the option of a non-drinking roommate the way they now offer the option of a non-smoking roommate.

The bill, which drew support but died in committee, was prompted by a group from Oakland County, led by Judge Friedman.

Following a hearing before the House Colleges and Universities Committee, the schools were given time to comply before the legislation was taken further.

When Honigman first introduced the bill, he said school response was like "a dinosaur." The majority of administrators were not responsive.

"We basically got nowhere at first without enormous pressure, which is remarkable when you consider all that has to be done (to comply) is provide a box to check off on the preference form," Honigman said.

THE ISSUE is more complex than that, according to Dr. Glenn Stevens of the Council of College Presidents, which represents the state's 15 public schools.

"It's a complicated issue. The university is entering into a contractual agreement with students. What controls can the university reasonably implement to enforce such a contract?" Stevens said.

He and members of the council prefer the issue not be legislated because, he said, compliance is best left up to individual school administrations.

STILL, HONIGMAN'S proposed bill "helped us focus on the issue. It is an extremely serious issue, and the university community is hardly indifferent to it," Stevens said.

Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti is in the process of compliance, according to officials there.

"The university fully supports the alcohol-free room concept and currently is taking steps to place a question assessing a student's alcohol usage preference on the questionnaire sent to students who apply for housing placement," said Deborah McNish, associate director of housing.

"Part of the problem is enforcement — the fact that college students continue to test their own values," McNish said.

Also, parents often complete preference forms for students and unwittingly state their offspring neither smokes nor drinks when, in fact, the students do both, according to McNish.

HOUSING OFFICIALS at Oakland University are familiar with the problem, according to Suzanne Bante, assistance director of the school's on-campus housing.

OU students fill out a personal profile that includes check-offs for non-drinkers and non-smokers.

Of the two issues, however, smoking poses the most trouble.

"Where people lie the most (on preference forms) is about smoking," Bante said.

OU has provided "non-drinker" options in roommates for two years. "From time to time we have alcohol problems but it's really not much of an issue," Bante said.

LITTLE HAS been heard from the big two — the University of Michigan and Michigan State University — which house the greatest numbers of students.

Late last year, after a shooting and a traffic fatality involving an intoxicated student, MSU was reported to be considering banning liquor on campus.

There is no deadline on public college and universities complying to Honigman's proposal, Stevens said. It is likely all 15 will do so by next school year, he said.

Honigman said he expects most private institutions will also comply and intends to make such compliance a priority in the coming months.

But he said those institutions offering the option only to students 21 and over aren't in compliance because it appears that that option isn't open to those under 21.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

Blocks calorie absorption

SWEDEN—Medical researchers at the University of Kuopio, in Finland, have discovered (accidentally) a new weight-loss formula. The new discovery enables an overweight individual to lose pounds and fatty tissue without dieting or exercise.

Scientists made the discovery while searching for a formula to lower cholesterol. In a controlled study of a test group of people, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but the doctors were astounded to find that every patient who used the formula lost weight. The published report of this study stated, "A highly significant decrease in body weight was seen" in patients who received the formula.

The formula was then tested in Sweden at Sahlgren Hospital, University of Goteborg. Again, all patients lost a substantial amount of weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing this study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits." One patient in this study lost more than 30 pounds.

According to one informed source, the active ingredient comes from a 100% natural botanical source and contains no drugs or stimulants. When taken before mealtime it bonds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories, preventing their absorption.

A substantial portion of the calories ingested therefore pass through the digestive system unabsorbed. The body has to get energy to replace the lost calories, so it starts to burn stored fat. The result is rapid body weight loss. Extensive clinical tests have verified the safety of this formula for long-term use.

The formula is marketed in tablet form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida, has exclusive North American distribution rights. A review of the customer files of this company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost up to 10 pounds the first week and as much as 20, 40 or 60 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. This is a golden opportunity for people who are plagued by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Goals of Misbehavior Children have reasons behind naughty actions

YOU'RE DOING YOUR weekly shopping and you hear a ruckus in aisle three.

A crowd is gathering as you wheel your cart in that direction to check it out.

As you round the aisle's corner you see the ultimate confrontation — a small child throwing a temper tantrum over an item an embarrassed mother is telling the child, in an increasingly high-pitched and crescendoing voice, she won't buy.

It's a scene most of us have seen or even starred in. A child who misbehaves is often a mystery to parents, but specific misbehaviors usually have specific goals attached to them.

Such was the message conveyed by Sister Karen Hawver at a recent talk at The Community House. Hawver, principal at Royal Oak's St. Dennis School, has been in education for the past 25 years and her talk overflowed with examples of misbehaving children she's encountered in her career.

"Children misbehave because they want something," Hawver said. "The thing that's frustrating to us is that children will get what they want by being good, but they don't understand that."

ATTENTION, POWER, revenge and inadequacy are the four main goals of misbehavior, she said.

"You can always tell an attention-getting child. He'll crash and bang things and make all kinds of noise. He'll do anything just to let you know he's there."

"You may be downstairs doing laundry and little Johnny is upstairs getting into the pots and pans and banging and making all kinds of noise," she said. "What happens when you call 'Johnny.' If you notice, it suddenly gets quiet, the noise stops. But when you go back to doing the laundry it starts again, because you're no longer giving him the attention he wants."

Parents need to be logical with their children. They need to ignore the misbehavior and reward good behavior, she said.

Setting up private signals between you and your child is a way for parents to let children know they're not being ignored. Winks and other symbols work wonders for children of all ages.

"Tell Johnny that whenever you wink at him it means you love him and you notice him," Hawver said. "Then try it. You'll be amazed at the way his face lights up, and you don't have to wait until he's misbehaving to do it. Use it when he's not expecting it, to reward him for good behavior."

Hawver told a story about an eighth grade student who terrorized the cafeteria with his ability to flick peas. One day she took him aside and explained very logically to him that if he continued to do it he would no longer attend St. Dennis School. Then she told him that whenever she scrunched up her face in a certain way that meant she knew he was flicking peas and if it happened again he was gone.

IT WORKED, and she continued to use that signal every time she thought he might misbehave in another way.

"It works beautifully," she said. "Kids love to have that private connection with adults."

"Parents and teachers have this tendency to threaten children with illogical things," she said. "They say 'I'll break your neck' or 'I'll break your arm' or 'You'll never eat again in this house.' Children aren't going to pay attention to you because they know you don't mean what you say."

Telling a child that they will have to go to their room and not watch their favorite television show if they misbehave in a certain way and then following through when they do will give you credibility. It also lets the child know that they have control over their own lives, she said.

"Don't ever tell your children they make you things or they will," was another piece of advice Hawver gave to parents. "Parents say, 'You drive me nuts' or 'You make me crazy.'"

"Then the child will sit and think, 'Gee, last night I made her crazy, I think tonight I'll make her sick.' Children don't need to have that kind of power over adults."

Having that power is another reason why children misbehave.

"Face it, children have no one to boss," Hawver said. "Did you ever watch them when they play? What do they want to do? They want to be the teacher or the parent and have you ever listened to how they talk when they do?"

Most adults have the wrong notion of bossing and being powerful, she said, adding most think this means they have to holler.

"HOLLERING WILL only work when it's rarely used," she said. "I hate to tell you this moms, but the father hollerer is usually more powerful."

The reason for this is a father's voice is deeper and sounds more powerful. Also, the father is typically home less, so logically, he hollers less.

"If you're a hollerer and you want to get your kids attention, whisper," Hawver said. "I also think the words 'I said' should go into the parents' hall of fame as the ultimate bossing words."

Having the last word is another power struggle: Often, adults think that because they're the adults, they should have the last word in an argument.

"You have to learn to walk away," she said. "If your daughter tells you you're the meanest father in the whole world because you won't let her go to the dance and then stomps off to her room, let her. Don't follow her and argue over whether or not you're the meanest father in the whole world, because if you noticed, even though she may stomp off to her room, you won the argument. She's not going to the dance."

Give children orders when you need to but give them a reason, she said.

"Powerful people always have a good reason for why you should do something," she said. "No one is less powerful than an adult who screams his brains out, so if you're in the grocery store and your child throws a temper tantrum, put them in the cart and continue shopping and keep smiling. It's all right to see a screaming child, but it's not all right to see a screaming adult."

Revenge is a type of misbehavior that every child will use occasionally. This child will set out to get even for something someone did to him, or he'll try to get you first if he thinks you're going to do something he doesn't like.

HAWVER GEARED this part of her talk to children who are mean more than their share.

"Sometimes a child has a mean streak," she said. "Usually they are very smart children, but they do the most unbelievably mean things and most adults can't stand them."

Meanness is a learned behavior and usually these children have experienced the loss of someone who loved them, so they act out that loss.

She told the story of a little boy who walked out onto the school playground with his carton of chocolate milk, which he poured over top of the head of a little girl, drenching

Seminar helps people give up work-for living

Charly Heavenrich

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Instead of punching the clock, the job is what's knocking us out.

Charly Heavenrich says he knows the feeling. He's experienced the job rut-blues and beat them. His seminar, "Giving Up Work — For Living" helps others do the same.

Feeling stuck in a career can cause stress, ulcers and may lead to alcoholism and drug abuse and other addictive behaviors. In short, our jobs are killing us.

"What that negative thinking does is block the flow of energy to the body," said Heavenrich, whose seminar takes place at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays at Unity of Livonia. "What results is that people start beating up themselves."

Of course, the easiest solution would be to leave your job. Heavenrich doesn't recommend that. Instead, he said people need to come to grips with what is troubling them and make it work.

A major part of that is forgiveness, he said. . . . Perhaps forgiving a boss for his actions and not making negative judgments about the company.

Sounds like advice passed along by Snow White, but Heavenrich said it works.

By avoiding the negative in the work place — which, Heavenrich said, is a result of low self-esteem — a positive mind emerges.

PART OF the reason for career disenchantment is disillusionment. Seldom do a person's expectations meet reality when starting a new position.

"It's the boiled-frog syndrome," Heavenrich said. "Put a frog into boiling water and he'll jump out. But put him in cold water and turn up the heat gradually, he'll be a boiled frog. He won't notice the heat increase little by little."

"That is what happens to people who get into a new job. They have this excitement and enthusiasm about this new job and they find it's not going to work.

"This world is full of boiled frogs who have something to offer."

"Giving Up Work — For a Living" is designed to present a clear path for boiled frogs to leap toward a better life.

Heavenrich said many people feel they're not reaching their full potential. Yet they are the ones who put up obstacles that prevent them from finding their own job satisfaction. For example, many fear a career change because it might involve making less money.

But actually it was a $6-an-hour job teaching aerobics that led Heavenrich to see the light at 38. Until then, he had a litany of unfilling jobs.

Heavenrich worked as a consultant for an international financier, a pension consultant and was part owner of a construction company. He had a bachelor's degree in history and a master's in international business finance.

The path Heavenrich followed was one he was expected to.

"Everybody at Cranbrook went to college, got their degree and went into their father's business," said Heavenrich, who grew up in Birmingham. "I thought that's what I was supposed to do."

Still, Heavenrich wasn't happy. THEN ONE day in the aerobics class he was taking, they asked him to sub for the instructor. Heavenrich found he really enjoyed teaching and began doing it on a regular basis.

One of the people in his class happened to work at WXYZ-TV Channel 7. She asked him if he would be interested in an early morning exercise show.

"No Nonsense Exercise" was the result. The show enjoyed a successful run on both Channel 7 and Channel 2 (under the name "Shape Up").

Writer reveals major changes

Dear Ms. Green,

I have always been skeptical of graphoanalysis, but I must admit my curiosity is piqued. I am right-handed and am 35 years old. I look forward to seeing your response.

J.C. Redford

Dear J.C.,

I am sorry to hear of your skepticism regarding graphology. Perhaps my analysis will put it to rest.

For the record, I would like to say that graphoanalysis is a company name of a particular school for the study of handwriting analysis. Graphology is the study of handwriting by analysts throughout the entire world.

When analyzing handwriting, it is important to have more than six short lines from which to work. Since your interest is high right now, I will proceed with this limited sample.

The first picture that develops as I study the spacing of your neat handwriting is that you have probably made a rather major change in your life. You appear to be leaving some of the past behind to enter into new vistas or challenges. This has not been done without reluctance and/or concern, however. Ambivalent feelings are here.

THERE IS also dissatisfaction, either with the work or social role. And in some particular area of your life, fulfillment is eluding you.

Within you, restlessness abounds. You seek change and variety. It seems quite possible that you may be trying to separate yourself from someone. Emotionally, you may be feeling overextended at times.

In your daily interaction with people, you often put distance between yourself and them. A lack of trust and/or mood changes can be involved here. Although you are a caring person at heart, you do not always show this side of your personality. In the process of maturing, you may have experienced disappointment in certain relationships.

Certain clues in your handwriting

have me wondering if you work in the field of design, engineering or do something with numbers.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, please write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, date of birth and handedness are helpful. And feedback is always welcome.

Children have reasons behind naughty actions

her hair and her school uniform.

"You never ask a child who does something like this, 'Why did you do that?' because they'll either stand there and tell you they didn't do it or they'll make up an excuse," Hawver said. "This little boy told the teacher that he poured the milk on the girl because if he didn't, it would spoil."

Oftentimes, adults must let these children test them to prove to the child you're not going to go away or you're not going to hate them. Reassuring them that you don't want to hurt them is another way to sometimes get through.

"You have to try to separate what he is from what he did," she said. "Sometimes a good, old-fashioned spanking will work."

Children whose goal is inadequacy think they won't ever measure up, so they do nothing, figuring people will leave them alone and do the task for them.

"These children are usually girls and they're usually so shy and people think they're so cute so they want to help them," Hawver said. "They're usually very, very intelligent with very high IQs and are masters of manipulation."

MOST ADULTS don't consider this a type of misbehavior, she said, adding this allows for the behavior to continue and get out of hand.

"This is the child who'll say 'I'm ugly' or 'I'm dumb' and everyone panics and goes out of their way to tell her she's not. The problem is that the other kids will put up with it only until about the sixth grade and then nobody wants to have anything to do with her anymore because she doesn't pull her own weight.

"Most of you probably had someone like this in your class. You know, little Mary who the teacher never called on and if she did, the whole class would just die."

This type of student usually becomes a loner in high school and is prone to severe emotional problems if he or she doesn't get any help, Hawver said.

"These people have tremendous anger in them," she said. "The other kids put them down and suicide among this group is more prevalent even after they become adults."

Dealing with this type of behavior means a refusal to be manipulated," she said.

"You need to tease them and joke with them," Hawver said. "If they say they're ugly just tell them they're not, don't make a big fuss. And if they continue, tease them and say 'You know, maybe you are a little ugly.'"

Encouraging them to be part of the group and to do things for themselves is essential. Getting them to help others often will stop this inadequacy-directed behavior.

"Children are alive. They keep you up," Hawver said. "But in order for children to thrive, they need to be around healthy adults."

Seminar focuses on coping in the workplace

Heavenrich soon found himself writing a fitness column for a newspaper and for fitness magazines across the country along with hosting a radio show.

The bottom line is that Heavenrich found himself.

"I found that I enjoyed what I was doing," he said. "I had a natural inclination for teaching. It was the first job I could say was fun."

Since then, Heavenrich has become a photographer and a white water raft guide in the Grand Canyon. His personal growth seminars keep him really busy.

The idea for "Giving Up Work — For Living!" was inspired by his own experiences and through a book he'd read "You Can Really Have It All."

Through his two-year experiences teaching the seminar, Heavenrich has found that many people don't have to leave the place they work. They are in the right organization, but in the wrong job.

The difficult part is making the step to correct that.

"There's a clear, transitional formula that if we become conscious of — most of us are unconscious of it because we are creatures of habit — that the change we'll go through will be manageable."

"Giving Up Work — For Living!" meets at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays, through March 9, at Unity of Livonia, 28660 Five Mile, between Middlebelt and Inkster roads, Livonia. For information, call 421-1760.

Craft Gallery holds art show at Roma's

Craft Gallery will hold a country folk art, antique reproductions and early Americana show Sunday, March 5, at Roma's of Garden City, 32550 Cherry Hill, just east of Venoy Road.

The show will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and include 70 displays. Admission will be $2 and there will be door prizes awarded. No strollers or cameras will be permitted.

Tip Toppers plan tall weekend

The Tip Toppers Club of Detroit, a social organization for people of fall stature, will host its 47th Tall Weekend, March 10-13, at the Presidential Inn in Southgate.

The three-day weekend is based on a "Murder Mystery" theme beginning with a costume party/dance on Friday. Saturday's schedule includes a brunch, volleyball tournament and a banquet dinner/dance.

The cost each night for the dances is $12, which includes beer, wine and soft drink bar. The cost of the weekend will be $70. Hotel accommodations are $49 a night. Reservations must be made with Presidential Inn.

For information, call the Tip Toppers Club hot line at 278-TALL.

Eye wear important in court sports

New Year's resolutions and plummeting winter temperatures have a dramatic impact on attendance at fitness and racquet clubs in the metropolitan area.

They've also had an impact on court sport eye injuries. Just ask 33-year-old Alex Cooper.

Cooper, a health care consultant and handball "nut," in November was struck directly in the eye with a handball while wearing lensless eye guards. The trauma resulted in a corneal abrasion, hyphema (interior bleeding) and retinal detachment.

He ended up undergoing laser surgery at Beaumont Hospital's Eye Clinic.

"I'm upset because I thought I had eye protection," he said. "The worst part of it is that there are people out there like me who think they are protected."

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reports that court and racquet sports (racquetball, handball, squash, tennis, padminton, volleyball and badminton) are the leading cause of eye injuries for people over the age of 25.

A recent survey, done Dec. 10-15, of four health facilities in Dearborn, Southfield and Troy, showed that 70 percent of the players had inadequate eye protection.

THAT'S A serious issue when you consider that researchers have clocked squash balls at 140 mph, racquet balls at 127 mph, tennis balls at 110 mph and a badminton shuttlecock at an astounding 143 mph.

The number of eye injuries associated with racquet sports has prompted the society to renew its campaign to convince amateur and professional athletes alike that most eye injuries in racquet sports are preventable, if the players will wear sufficient eye protection.

Many athletes play totally unproted or wear regular prescription glasses, which can shatter on impact with a ball or racquet.

BUT THE biggest problem is the use of lensless eye guards, according to Dr. Michael Easterbrook, a Toronto ophthalmologist and eye surgeon for the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team.

"The open eye guard gives the player a false sense of security, so that they follow more closely and perhaps incur a higher rather than lower risk of eye injury," Easterbrook said. "In some cases the lensless guards may help to funnel the ball right into the eye."

Another problem is the size of the balls used in these sports — they fit neatly into the bony orbit of the skull surrounding each eye, allowing the full force of the ball to strike the eye.

Also, at the higher rates of speed, the ball flattens out dramatically, smashing it into a large flat pancake. As a result, players can suffer eye injuries even if they are hit on the cheek or forehead.

AND BALLS aren't the only weapons in racquet sports. Racquets themselves have been timed at speeds of up to 90 mph and cause 40 percent of the eye injuries in racquet sports.

Despite these concerns, experts believe that at least 90 percent of all eye injuries could be prevented, if proper eye protection were worn.

Players, they said, can take two steps to almost eliminate eye injuries. First, wear only polycarbonate eye guards with 3mm-thick lenses.

Second, refuse to play opponents without adequate eye protection.

For more information on sports eye safety, write the National Society to Prevent Blindness, 500 E. Remington Road, Schaumburg, Ill. 60173-4557.

HOW TO FIGHT THE FAT THAT DIET AND EXERCISE CAN'T CONQUER.

You've dieted and exercised and dieted some more. You've even lost weight. But still you can't get rid of certain areas of fat—on your chin and neck, stomach, waist, hips, buttocks or thighs.

Don't let this hold you back in your quest for a better body, because, you may be a candidate for liposuction—now recognized as a safe and effective means of removing fat from many areas of the body.

COSMETIC SURGEONS OF MICHIGAN—one of the area's leading cosmetic surgery practices—is now offering safe, effective liposuction, as well as breast reconstruction and all forms of facial and nose cosmetic surgery procedures.

Don't let fat hold you back! Call today—(313) 645-0844 for more information. Free literature and initial consultation are available for selected procedures.

A recent addition to Cosmetic Surgeons of Michigan, Dr. Michael F. Milan, M.D., F.A.C.S., is certified by the American Board of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery. He specializes in the newest techniques of liposuction, as well as breast reconstruction and breast and body recontouring.

church bulletin

The church bulletin is published every Thursday in the Observer. Information for the church bulletin must be received in the Livonia office by noon the Monday prior to publication.

● DRAMA
"Lazarus," the Biblical story of the rich man and the beggar, will be presented at 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, at St. John Neumann Church, 44800 Warren Road, Canton. A free-will donation will be taken for Bread For the World, an ecumenical-Christian citizen's movement that works to alleviate hunger by addressing those United States policies that cause or aggravate hunger. For information, call 272-5820 or 532-6561.

● FILM
A new film, "A Man Called Norman," will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, at United Assembly of God Church, 46500 N. Territorial, Plymouth. This film chronicles the unusual friendship — sometimes humorous, sometimes touching — between two individuals whose lives have been changed forever. The presentation is open to the public.

● LENTEN FORUMS
First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 Church St., is presenting Lenten Forums on the next four Wednesday evenings. The program each week begins at 7 p.m. with nursery and children's movies provided. On Feb. 22 the program will be "Old Fashioned Hymn Sing" with pianist Dwalen Park leading the singing. The public can also attend dinner at 6 p.m. Reservations should be made by calling the church office by Monday at 4 p.m. Cost for dinner is $4.50 for adults ($2 for children under 10).

● MISSIONS CONFERENCE
A weeklong World Missions Conference will start Sunday, Feb. 19, at Ward Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington at Six Mile, Livonia. The Rev. Juan Carlos Ortiz will speak at all three Sunday morning services and the 7 p.m. service. Ortiz is renowned for his unique ministry in teaching discipleship. He has written four books.

At 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 22, Ken Medema will give a special concert. Medema is a baritone and pianist. He began composing original material for his work as music therapist in a psychiatric hospital.

At 8:30 a.m., 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Sunday services, Feb. 26, Dr. Tony Campolo will speak. He is a Christian educator, author and speaker who has founded wide-ranging ministries in the Third World and for urban youth in the United States. The conference is open to the public.

● MEDICAL SCREENINGS
From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21, free medical screenings will be offered for senior adults at Village Presbyterian Church, 25350 W. Six Mile, Redford. Screenings include tests for vision, cholesterol and blood pressure. Michigan Eyecare Institute is sponsoring these tests. For information, call 534-7730.

● RETREAT
The "Free To Be Me" women's mini-retreat will take place from 9:15 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 4, at Valley Baptist Church, 43065 Joy Road, Canton. Sheila Elder, a former model who did TV commercials and former chairwoman of North Atlanta Christian Women's Club, will be the guest speaker. Tickets are $8 and include admission to the seminar, a catered luncheon and admission to all demonstrations. Tickets can be obtained by calling the church office at 455-0022.

● SPEAKER
The Rev. William Sloane Coffin, president of the National SANE/FREEZE, will speak at 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, at the First United Methodist Church of Ann Arbor, 120 S. State. His topic will be "Peace in Search of Makers." The event is sponsored by the Interfaith Council for Peace and Justice. For information, call 663-1870.

● BENEFIT
"Box and Cox" will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16, at the St. Patrick Senior Center, 58 Parsons, Detroit. This a benefit for Father Duffey's Food Pantry. Tickets are $12.50 and can be purchased in advance or at the door. For information, call 833-0857.

● LENTEN SEASON
First United Methodist Church of Garden City has a series of special services with various speakers in conjunction with Lent. They include: at 6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, the Rev. Ralph Janka; at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 28, the Rev. Dr. Orville McKay; at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 7, the Rev. Dr. Robert Horton; at 6 p.m. Sunday, March 12, the Rev. Dr. James Tuttle and music by the Children's Chorus; and at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, March 18, a Ladies Lenten Breakfast and the Rev. Faith Fowler. A potluck dinner will precede the events. For information, call 421-8628.

● BAHAI SPEAKER
Diane Taherzadeh will speak at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, at Sherwood Village clubhouse, Haggerty and Michigan Avenue, Canton. Her topic will be "Lioness and the Lamb — Women as Peacemakers." The event is sponsored by the Canton Bahai Community. For information, call 455-7845 or 453-3278.

● 50S DANCE
From 7 p.m. to midnight Friday, Feb. 17, there will be a 1950s dance at St. Matthew Lutheran Church school gymnasium, 5885 Venoy at Beechwood, Westland. The church will also have Lenten services at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays, through March 15.

● CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
At 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 25, Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist, Detroit will present a Christian Science lecture, "Why Should Anyone Choose Prayer Instead of Medicine?" Robert Jeffery, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will be the guest speaker. The church is at 20011 Grand River, corner of Evergreen, Detroit. Child care will be provided. For information, call 531-1276.

● ECUMENICAL SUPPER
Our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church will present "Ecumenical Lenten Soup Supper" at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 28. A program of prayer and singing will follow. The supper is $2. The event is open to the public. The church is at West Six Mile Road and Beech Daly, Redford. For information, call 534-9000.

"The Mystery of the Holy Mass," performed by the Munich Mystery Players, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, at St. Theodore Catholic Church in Westland.

Play brings out meaning of Mass

By Julie Brown
staff writer

The Munich Mystery Players traveled a distance to get to Plymouth. The message they brought with them is one that has stood the test of time and distance.

"It brings people closer to the meaning of the Mass," said Ernst Jurina, founder and director of the Munich Mystery Plays.

His group was in Plymouth Friday, Feb. 10, for an evening performance of "The Mystery of the Holy Mass" at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

The drama was written by Calderon de la Barca, who lived in Madrid from 1600 to 1681. In "The Mystery of the Holy Mass," Calderon showed the Mass from the viewpoint of the Bible and of history. His play demonstrates that the essentials of the Mass have stayed the same throughout time.

Jurina and his wife, Brigitte, left the Munich Theatre and founded the Munich Mystery Plays. Their first performance was on Feb. 1, 1949.

"It's exactly 40 years now," Jurina said.

THE GROUP from Munich, West Germany, has performed in Europe and in the United States. In Europe, they've performed primarily in Germany, Austria and Switzerland.

"From time to time, we come to the States since 1971," Jurina said. "It has to be in English, of course." The group needs more rehearsal time for their English performances.

The group performs other plays by Calderon, who became a priest at the age of 52. They perform some 15 plays by Calderon. "The Mystery of the Holy Mass" is the only play they present in English.

"We enjoy it very much, oh yes," Jurina said.

The principle behind the play is Christ's command "Do this in remembrance of me." The play has been adapted in keeping with more recent liturgical changes.

The cast of characters includes: Christ, Adam, Moses, Saul-Paul, John the Evangelist, Disbelief, Ignorance and Wisdom.

The eight characters are portrayed by four actors. Costumes and lighting help to tell the story; minimal props and scenery are used.

The group has been in southeastern Michigan in recent days, performing at a number of Catholic churches, including St. Edith in Livonia and St. Theodore in Westland.

They've been in such communities as Monroe and Wyandotte as well, Jurina said.

THEIR FRIDAY, Feb. 10, performance attracted visitors of all ages to Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth.

"They came through in November, calling on different Catholic churches in the Detroit area," said Michele Johns, director of music ministries at Our Lady of Good Counsel.

Johns and the Rev. Richard Peretto, pastor at the Plymouth church, thought that inviting the group to perform would be a good idea. They read letters about the Munich Mystery Plays from other Catholic churches in the U.S.

"The testimony letters were very strong from churches around the country," Johns said.

Our actions were no better than Bundy's

When Ted Bundy died in the Florida electric chair one thing became absolutely clear: he would never again kill anyone. Whatever other conclusions people might draw are all up for grabs. None of them is for sure.

Some would say that the Bundy execution, like others before it, provides a deterrent to further heinous crimes. That, however, is not something we can know for sure.

Bundy knew of the death penalty. Not only did that knowledge fail to stop his horrendous path of violence, but, in fact, he murdered in the states that kill their convicted murderers rather than in any of so many others where the death penalty is not used.

We may be able to say that we want the death penalty to deter would-be murderers. But the hard facts are that more often than not their crimes are not out of fear of an electric chair, a lethal injection or anything of that sort.

Hardened criminals for the most part do not believe that they will be caught. And those who kill in an impassioned state seldom stop to assess the consequences.

So, while we know what the death penalty does to the executed person, we can only guess or perhaps wish what it might do to would-be killers.

PERSONALLY, I do not feel any more immune to violence on the streets of Miami than I do on the streets of Detroit. It would seem that the electric chair in Stark Prison provides no more protection for the average person than the cell blocks at Jackson or Marquette.

Beyond Bundy's death, two things surfaced in his execution that we do know for sure. We know that underlie our concern for deterring violent crime is a penchant for violence.

I do not excuse his heinous crimes nor do I suggest that he was not responsible for what he did. I would moral perspectives

suggest, however, that Ted Bundy was not the only sick person to get out of bed that dark morning in January.

Approximately 300 people found a need to line up as if at a Thanksgiving parade. T-shirts and banners were even included as they shouted, "Burn Bundy, Burn!" A radio talk show host suggested that his listeners turn off their appliances so that Bundy might get every bit of justice possible in his last writing. One town even had a Bundy-cue.

Frankly, this kind of sickness is as appalling as the terrible devastation that Theodore Bundy wreaked on so many families.

While we no longer have anything to fear from Bundy, we do have some reflecting to do about this other kind of sickness that goes on with public approval. What are we doing to breed the kind of thinking that this behavior betrays?

WE ALSO know something else for sure. We know that we no longer have access to the brains of Bundy or any of the other executed murderers from whom we hope to be learning something of how to prevent others from taking their places.

Perhaps a life sentence to ongoing psychological testing would teach us something more about protecting ourselves. It might even help us to diminish the chances of launching more Bundy types for future victims. As it is, that chance was lost when the hearse left Stark Prison amid applause from people who vote and who raise children.

Missionary from Liberia to visit Livonia church

The Rev. Robert Roegner, a missionary from Liberia, will be the guest speaker at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. services Sunday, Feb. 19, at Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington, Livonia.

Roegner will also host a slide presentation of his mission work in Liberia during the 9:45 a.m. Bible class hour.

Roegner is a native of the Detroit area, graduating from Sterling Heights Stevenson High School in 1971. He began his ministerial training in 1972 at Concordia Lutheran College in Ann Arbor and from Concordia Seminary in Fort Wayne, Ind., with a master of divinity degree in 1981. During 1979-1980, he served a vicarage at a Lutheran church in Greeley, Colo.

Since September 1981, Roegner has been serving as an evangelistic missionary/church planner among the Kisi tribe in Liberia, W. Africa. In seven years, Roegner has established 17 Kisi churches with average weekly attendance of more than 1,000. Since 1984, he has also been serving as missionary counselor for the Evangelical Lutheran Mission in Liberia.

Currently, Roegner is working on his Sacred Theological master's degree in ministry from Concordia Seminary in Fort Wayne. He has also completed work from the Fuller

School of World Mission in Pasadena, Calif., and from the Summer Institute of Linguistics at Oklahoma University in Norman, Okla.

Roegner and his wife, Kristi, and three children make their African home in Poya Tanga, a tropical rain forest of West Africa. They plan to begin their third term in Liberia in August.

Following the 11 a.m. Sunday service, there will be a potluck dinner and a mission fair in the gymnasium from noon to 3 p.m. The fair will feature a variety of booths highlighting various countries of the world.

Build-up missing in murder drama

Performances of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "My Sister in This House" by Wendy Kesselman continue through Saturday, Feb. 25, at the playhouse in Redford. For ticket information, call 427-1905.

The many blackouts (especially those that are longish) tend to break the tension and give a disconnected effect.

There is, some say, a beast in each of us. Our human value system usually keeps the monster in check. Provocation and repressive circumstances can sometimes, however, bring out the worst in people — including brutal and incomprehensible murder.

That's the subject of Wendy Kesselman's award-winning play "My Sister in This House," which is about a celebrated 1930's French murder in which two maids were convicted of killing their employer and daughter.

TGLR's opening night production, while excellent in many respects (set, costumes, lights, sound and illuminating characters), seemed to be missing a key ingredient — a satisfactory build-up of tension between the maids and their oppressive employer. The play needs that expectation one feels when blowing up a balloon and as it expands you just know that at any moment it's about to explode. Unfortunately, when the maids occur, the balloon isn't large enough.

Part of the problem may be the play's style. It consists of 15 scenes with no intermission and a running time of about 85 minutes. The many blackouts (especially those that are longish) tend to break the tension and give a disconnected effect. In lieu of shorter costume changes, perhaps Director David Kelly might add music or another device to help tie the show together.

IT WOULD ALSO help if earlier in the play, Madame Danzard (Lane Sabourin) had a more "let them eat cake" attitude toward the maids. Sabourin looks marvelous as an upper-middle-class French woman, who wastes her life in trivial pursuits of meal planning, choosing hats and playing double solitaire (one of the show's better scenes) with her silly-headed daughter, Isabelle.

Abby Rutheliser is excellent as Isabelle, a dominated daughter who doesn't quite know how to get on with her life.

Throughout the play, in sort of a two-part harmony, we also see the stronger, older maid, Christine, dominating her younger, fragile sister, Lea. The two convent-raised sisters respect authority, work hard and keep their mouths shut as they put up with ever-increasing oppressiveness from Madame Danzard. Their only comfort is their love for each other in a cold, unheated attic. And their love seems to be more than just sisterly.

Mary Rychlewski (Christine) and Elaine Kaiser (Lea) are both very good, but they could add to the tension with more frustration near the end. Particularly from the time Madame finds fault with a gown Christine is sewing (her reputation is that of a superb seamstress) and threatens to separate the maids forever. Destroying their security of togetherness is more than the girls can take. From this point on, the situation should begin to unravel with such ferocity that there is no stopping the chilling outcome.

Writer goes on film with 'Roger and Me'

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

WRITER MICHAEL Moore, who turned filmmaker with the documentary "Roger and Me," told his audience at "Update '89" about the struggles of putting a story on the screen.

Moore was featured speaker at the annual seminar, attended by several hundred film and video enthusiasts Saturday at the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland. The event is sponsored by Detroit Area Film and Television and the Detroit Producer's Association.

The DAFT acronym is better known as Detroit Area Film Teachers, but last year "television" was substituted for "teachers" to reflect changing technology in the media.

Moore's documentary "Roger and Me" recounts his sometimes humorous, often sad, always frustrating (and frustrated) attempts to meet General Motors Chairman Roger Smith and explain the cost in human suffering when GM closed plants in Flint.

Moore began filming his feature-length documentary, "Roger and Me" on Feb. 11, 1986, the 50th anniversary of the UAW's birth. Update '89's screening of the rough cut marked the production's second anniversary in progress.

"ALL THE WRONG things happen" Moore told the audience, describing how difficult it can be, when queried why a writer turned to filmmaking. "We shouldn't be doing this. If you stop to think about filmmaking, it's an art form for people with money. But it seemed the best medium to inform."

"And it's enough to inform, that's the important first step. I'm hoping that there's still some time for people to fight back."

But Moore's optimism is tempered by what he sees as the gravity of the situation in Flint:

"I don't want to contribute to the despair. It's enough that I'm the doctor telling you you've got cancer — but there's still time to operate."

Among the depressing information Moore's film and speech conveyed: "One of every two people living in the City of Flint are on some kind of government aid — Social Security, Workmen's Comp, unemployment, free cheese and so on."

Moore's father, uncles and grandfather worked in Flint's factories and now, as with so many other people, GM plant closings have forced them into dependency on government assistance.

'And it's enough to inform, that's the important first step. I'm hoping that there's still some time for people to fight back.'

— Michael Moore

Despite the expense of filming, Moore and his associates exposed more than 70,000 feet of 16mm footage attempting to meet Roger Smith. Moore sold his home and had two yard sales. He received numerous small contributions in Flint a grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts, help from Ralph Nader, and in-kind contributions. Cash expenditures so far have totaled $130,000.

A FLINT NATIVE, Moore is former editor of Michigan Voice and Mother Jones Magazine. He has been a commentator for National Public Radio's "All Things Considered" and recently wrote a feature story, "The Man Who Killed Vincent Chin," for the Detroit Free Press Sunday Magazine.

While Moore is a writer, he had help from accomplished filmmakers, among them noted local cinematographer John Prusak, the Ford Vocational School's film teacher, and Bruce Schermer of North Wind Films.

"Roger and Me" is a black-comedy, social-action-documentary film which exhibits a fine sense of the absurd contrasts between rich and poor in this country. Its production has been a saga in and of itself. Under these circumstances, production of the film has been slow, but Moore expects a finished print ready for distribution by July 1.

Moore's sense of humor was evident throughout the question and answer session following Saturday's screening at Update '89. "My only hope is that Smith doesn't retire or get fired before I finish this film," he said.

In an unusual turn of events, Moore asked assembled DAFT and DPA members for their advice on structuring the film's final cut. An exciting interchange of ideas about film continued for more than an hour.

DAFT is a non-profit organization founded in 1969, with membership ranging from students and teachers of film and video to enthusiasts and professionals working in the area's many media activities. Co-sponsorship of its annual Update festivities with the DPA is a natural blending of interests. John Prusak of both DAFT and the DPA co-chaired this year's Update.

DAFT IS DEDICATED to creating a more visually literate membership and general public by sponsoring independent filmmakers, videographers, workshops, monthly screenings and festivals, and by helping to develop an educational resource network. The DPA is the area's professional association for the many filmmakers and videographers who produce commercials, industrials and educational media on film and videotape in the Detroit market.

Seminars on low-budget production were another feature of "Update '89." Mike Jarema, associate producer of "The Carrier," Mark Yasenchak and Susan Jolliffe of "Mail Order Murder," and Jim Piechocki of "Making Minotaur" highlighted seminars on tightly controlled production and post-production costs in filmmaking.

Show could use more Motown

Performances of the dinner theater production of "Motown Memories and More," presented by TAP Ltd., continue Wednesday, Feb. 18; Tuesday, Feb. 24, and Saturday, March 4, at the Southfield Hilton. Cocktail/show tickets also are available. For ticket information call 557-4800.

Bob Weibel

TAP has been touring the show around Michigan for some time, and the performers (Jay and Larry Johnson, Earle Vinton and Rick Ingram) have got the Motown moves and songs perfected. Jay Johnson also does the choreography, which on the whole is quite good. The music is all prerecorded.

That is followed by a series of cool dance numbers, the most notable being a hilarious squawking from "The Bird."

About midway is a relaxing change of pace, distinguished by good quartet singing of "Dixie" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Then, we meet the Jackson Five (featuring Myron Tate as Michael), easily the best act of the show. That is followed by a tribute to the Temptations and the Four Tops featuring their big sellers like "My Girl" and "Baby, I Need Your Love." The show closes with a reprise "Dancing in the Streets."

They left me wanting more Motown. Which they say is the idea. But it would be nice if they added a couple of curtain call numbers.

When the weekend rolls around and businessmen leave town, the Southfield Hilton has decided, rather than run at half speed waiting for Monday, let's fill an unused ballroom with dinner theater and the sound of Motown. Or, to be more specific, a musical revue "Motown, Memories and More," performed by Theatre Arts Productions (and produced by Michael J. Kiler).

Everyone seemed to enjoy their dinner (baked chicken with lemon sauce, Delmonico steak or orange roughy) served by friendly waitresses. I suspect the show would bring a smile to the face of Berry Gordy Jr., but like this reviewer, he would want more hardcore Motown numbers — and less Memories and More, which in the early going seemed to involve a lot of mike adjusting and unfocused patter.

"Bloopers" from local cable shows, hosted by Dick Rockwell; "The 20th International Tournee of Animation;" "The Clio Awards" — Oscars for commercials, and a host of independent films (including the Academy-Award-winning "Young at Heart," and "Encore on Woodward") were screened throughout the day, as were selections from past Michigan Student Film/Video Festivals. The Michigan Student Film/Video Festival is an annual DAFT event.

This year's festival is under the direction Dean Cobb of North Farmington High School, which will host the festival Saturday, May 13, at the high school on W. 13 Mile. The festival is open to any student who has produced a film or video while enrolled in a public or private Michigan school.

Annually the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science make available a compilation reel of films entered in the Student Oscar competitition. The 1988 winners were screened at "Update 89," as were many other films, in this daylong annual event.

Each year the Ford Vocational/Technical Center of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools hosts the DAFT/DPA Update program in its modern 100,000-square-foot facility which provides training in 19 skill areas. One of those skill areas is Culinary Arts, whose students provided excellent lunches for the Update '89 guests.

Boost 401(k) to cut taxes

By Alan Ferrara and Dan Boyce special writers

Local financial planning experts reviewed the data of the family profiled here and made general recommendations based on the participant's resources and goals. The information is for educational purposes only; references are not intended as discrimination or endorsements by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers or the advisers interviewed.

To receive a free financial planning brochure or to obtain a questionnaire to have your finances reviewed in this column, contact the Center for Financial Planning, Dept. 100, 877 S. Adams, Suite 202, Birmingham 48009, or call 642-4000.

"Old age may seem a long way off. But on a day it doesn't, it will be too late to do anything about it." Our financial profile this month centers on the situation of Tom Porter, who is concerned about his retirement planning.

Porter is a quality control supervisor at a small manufacturing company. He makes $45,000 per year and is 48 years old. Divorced four years ago, he lives in Livonia with his two teenage sons.

"I'm just beginning to recover from my divorce financially," Porter said. "I'm really beginning to worry about my long-term financial security. My company's pension plan is very modest, so I know I will be responsible for the majority of my future needs."

HIS INVESTMENTS include three utility stocks and a 401(k) plan offered by his employer. He is currently adding 2 percent of his income into the 401(k) plan. His employer matches 25 cents for each dollar that he puts into this plan.

His cash reserves total $4,000. He would like to see this increased to the $5,000 to $10,000 range. Generally, it is desirable to have two months of income in cash reserves, as well as having other liquid assets upon which to draw in case of an emergency.

He has $45,000 of life insurance at work and $100,000 of personally held term insurance. He plans to terminate the term insurance after his children are through college. We believe that his coverage is adequate in his current situation.

His auto insurance and his homeowners insurance each require one small, but important, adjustment. The auto insurance includes only $50,000 of liability coverage, which covers him in the event of a lawsuit. Porter should raise this amount to at least $200,000. The additional cost is negligible.

A SERIOUS hobby for Tom and one of his sons is stamp collecting. A recent appraisal put the value of his collection at $3,500. Most homeowners policies will cover such collections only for $500 to $1,000 unless a special rider is attached. This "personal property floater" should be added to his policy as soon as possible.

The most important gap in his insurance program is the lack of a long-term disability policy. His employer sick pay plan would carry him financially for six months, but subsequently he has no coverage. This is not unusual for employees of small companies. Statistically, only 25 percent of small businesses carry long-term disability insurance — the percentage is far higher at larger companies.

Because his income would cease after six months if he became ill or if he had a serious accident, he could be placed in an extremely difficult financial situation.

He should buy a personal policy that would dovetail with his sick pay at work. The coverage should begin after six months and last until he is 65 years old. It should cover him if he is unable to perform the duties of his "own occupation" and it should have cost-of-living adjustments built into the policy. Any benefits would be received tax-free because he pays the premiums himself.

WHEN HE was divorced, Porter and his ex-wife agreed to set aside adequate funds for the children's educations. This amount, which is not included in his personal balance sheet, was invested in growth mutual funds that have performed very well during the last four years. This aspect of his financial planning is in good shape.

Porter had a will drawn up 10 years ago that he has not updated despite his change in his circumstances. He realizes that he should see an attorney to bring this up to date.

We would suggest that he consider incorporating a testamentary trust into his will. He wants his assets to go to the children at his death. This testamentary trust would provide that the money would be managed for the benefit of his children until he deems it appropriate to have it distributed to them outright.

Without such a provision, the assets in his estate would normally be distributed when the children reached the age of majority, which is 18 in Michigan. This may not be the ideal or desired time for them to have full access to any inheritance.

PORTER IS interested in reducing his income tax bill. This is one of the reasons he likes real estate investment — it provides him with tax deductions. He asks for other suggestions we might have.

Our first suggestion for reducing taxes is to increase his 401(k) contribution. We suggest 10 percent of his income be allocated to the plan. This is the quickest and easiest method of reducing taxes because anything contributed is not reported as income on his tax return.

An extra bonus is the 25 percent added to his contributions by his employer. Where else can he get an immediate 25-percent no-risk return on his investment? Also, if he decides to make additional real estate investments, this will help balance his total portfolio.

He is considering taking a home equity loan and paying off his car loan. Even though he has dealer-financing at 6.9 percent, he wonders whether the full deductibility of the home equity loan interest would be more advantageous.

We might agree with this if he were paying 12 percent or 14 percent on his car loan. But with such a low finance rate, it is definitely to his advantage to keep his current financing in place despite the lower tax benefit.

PORTER IS interested in real estate as a mean of accumulating assets. Just over two years ago, he bought a rental house for $40,000 by borrowing the $20,000 down payment from his parents and assuming a land contract of $20,000 from the seller.

The property is beginning to provide good cash flow after all expenses, and it has already grown in value to $55,000. His appetite thus whetted, he wonders whether he should begin buying other properties.

Our assessment is that his plan might very well provide a good method of building his assets and net

Would-be entrepreneurs savor experts' pointers

By Mary Rodrigue staff writer

Florine Mark made it sound so easy. Recalling her transformation from an overweight housewife afraid to leave home to a svelte and savvy businesswoman steering a $30 million empire, her story of courage and spunk was just the right medicine for this audience.

One hundred twenty mostly fledgling business people heard Mark's address on day two of Entrepreneurship Forum '89, sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and the state Department of Commerce.

From the makers of Mexican food to a mortician interested in expanding other business interests, they came from all walks of life to the Mercy College conference center in Detroit last weekend. While most participants were from the metro area, some came from as far north as Alpena and Saginaw.

FOR JOAN Sharp of Troy, a former banker currently working in financial services, it was an opportunity to seek advice from the assembled pros — accountants, attorneys, insurance representatives — and to soak up motivational success stories from people like Mark, the biggest single owner of Weight Watchers franchises in the world.

"I'm looking for my niche, and this is helping me discover how the real world works," said Sharp, who has an MBA degree with a major in finance.

That is precisely the intent of the forum, according to Dennis Koons, vice president of economic development for the Greater Detroit chamber and an organizer of the eight-year-old event.

"We're providing motivation, inspiration and education," Koons said.

Participants broke into small workshops and were given the opportunity for one-on-one counseling.

SPEAKERS INCLUDED Don Barden, president of Barden Cablevision, holder of the Detroit cable television contract; John Psarouthakis, founder of J.P. Industries, manufacturer of durable goods with annual sales of more than $500 million; and keynote speaker Scott McNealy, a Detroit native who is chief executive officer of Sun Microsystems of California, which is expected to gross nearly $2 billion in sales this year.

"There are two great aspects to this forum," said Ian Pesses, a Southfield attorney who made a presentation on legal matters.

"It's really nice to crank people up, to motivate them. It also assembles some of the finest experts in the state to talk one-on-one, free of charge. They'll answer the same questions over and over again."

Florine Mark: "If you're not having some fun, then it's not worth doing."

Pesses was one of 35 presenters from the fields of law, insurance, marketing and public relations lending time and advice to the forum.

His talk was laced with self-deprecating humor, potshots at the legal profession, and tips on how to get around expensive legal fees.

HE SUGGESTED business people ask their insurance agent for the latest ruling on the cumbersome and confusing IRS Section 89 dealing with discriminatory employment tests.

"Call the Department of Naturalization regarding hiring legal and illegal aliens," he said. "They're a wonderful source of free information."

Regarding employee benefit packages, "Every bank and insurance company has standard plans they're willing to share at a modest price."

Pesses stressed the importance of environmental issues in business.

"They're growing by leaps and bounds with new local, state and federal laws. Call the EPA and the DNR for free advice. They can sure save you a lot of money."

Chevy has high hopes for ZR-1 Corvette

There's a used 1989 ZR-1 Corvette for sale in the February issue of Road and Track, an ad that wouldn't stand out much from the "runs good" MG's and BMW's except for one thing. Chevrolet hasn't yet sold any ZR-1 Corvettes, and may not until next fall.

The ZR-1 is a 390-horsepower version of the stock Corvette, which Chevy hopes will be the fastest fully certified production car on sale in the United States. Chevrolet hired Lotus engineering to develop a 390-horsepower engine for the ZR-1, and advanced publicity has made it famous before its time. With the ZR-1 program running a bit late, there are a lot of disappointed Corvette aficionados who need it to get from Birmingham to the foot of Woodward in six minutes. Even more disappointed in this sort of situation are the enthusiasts who gave non-refundable deposits to dealers who then put them on a list to be first to be able to pay $50,000 or so when the ZR-1 finally arrives.

Dan McCosh

Like Harold McMillan, who placed the ad in Road and Track.

AS IT turns out, McMillan, who lives in Phoenix, liked what he had heard about the ZR-1 so much that late last fall he plunked down his deposit for the car he hoped would be available in the spring.

It was then he began a fast review of his budget and got cold feet. "I thought I might have some trouble paying for it, so I decided to sell the car. But I knew it takes about 90 days for one of the car magazines to be printed, so I took out the ad, figuring it would come out about the same time as the car," he told me.

Since selling a car that you don't have makes about as much sense as paying for it in advance, it only seemed right that the car in the ad, a 1989 model, might end up never existing at all. Production has been slow getting started, and now it looks like Chevrolet may wait until the 1990 Corvettes are introduced before it sells any ZR-1s.

WHILE I marvelled at Mr. McMillan's phantom Corvette, it turns out that this kind of thing goes on all the time when a particularly hot car is about to be introduced.

"Some people put down their deposits, then they sell their place in line," Leon Mandel, publisher of Autoweek magazine, which runs a lot of performance car classifieds, told me. The game is played something like stock options and is followed by a short speculative market after the car actually shows up, when it frequently goes up in price, unlike every car I buy.

It's not a game without risk, however. The last Eldorado convertibles shot up, then down again. When the Fiero ended production, a few potential collectors tried hoarding them but ended up worse off than the Hunt brothers.

When contemplating the speculative market in hot cars, it's best to remember that not every rare car is a potential GTO Ferrari. Sometimes things change, as Chevrolet announcing the end of the Corvette convertible a couple of years ago, then reviving the marque. At least one collector sued to stop production of the new softops.

Even genuine scarcity is no guarantee. My father, for instance, never did any great shakes with collectibles. Despite once having owned one of the few targa top Hilman Minxes ever seen north of Toledo.

On the other hand, I've been noticing a significant rise in the price of '47 Willys pickups lately in the classifieds. I figure it's a market just waiting to be cornered.

Dan McCosh is the automotive editor of Popular Science.

Good rule: Know competition

Gaining access to competitive data can help you make better business decisions. Facts and figures that relate to marketing or sales strategies, financial performance and projected growth are just a few of the many information needs that may be satisfied through this type of search.

For business owners who recognize the usefulness of competitive data, the most commonly asked question is: "How do I get it?"

For those who have tried, many say that competitors are not so willing to oblige. As one new business owner recently put it, "She told me how she had to find out everything on her own and how I should too."

THE PROCESS of contacting local competitors to obtain information about their business is an acquired skill and should not be pursued as a "first step" competitive search strategy.

When competitors have been caught off guard, know little or noting about the person requesting information and are asked to provide answers to many more than just a few specific questions, chances are they won't cooperate.

But there are those who are willing to provide assistance under the right circumstances.

"If I'm approached at a conference or some other business event by a person who has obviously done his homework about our industry, I'm happy to answer a few questions. I might learn something from him too," one Detroit gift products distributor said. "It's the people who call out of nowhere that turn me right off."

DEPENDING ON the nature and size of the industry, obtaining competitive data may begin with a secondary data search. Secondary data would include all published and publicly available information provided through industry surveys and reports, trade journals, conference papers, competitors' annual reports, SEC filings, etc.

For example, industry associations often conduct annual member surveys presenting valuable marketing, sales and financial data. The results are often available in report format to non-members at a nominal fee.

Associations may also sponsor conferences where the featured guest speakers or panelists include key competitors. In this situation, obtaining copies of the audience handouts from the association or competitors involved may be all that is required. A good place to start a secondary search is a major public or university library.

When the competition includes a majority of privately held firms, or when the industry as a whole is quite small, a secondary data search may not offer much in the way of useful information. Next week, we will discuss alternatives in the competitive data search process.

worth. He has the time and has demonstrated the temperament to be a successful landlord. He is also experienced in many types of home repairs.

"SHOULD I use a home equity loan for a down-payment on other investment properties?" he asked. "This seems to me an excellent use of some of my equity."

If he were an aggressive investor, this might be appropriate strategy especially if he finds the right property. Using a modest home equity loan of $5,000 to $10,000 would allow him to buy a second property.

We'd strongly suggest he seek a property in a desirable location with positive, or at least break-even, cash flow after expenses. Any profits from his two properties should then be recycled into additional future investments.

PORTER SHOULD be careful not to extend himself too far in taking on additional debt. There is an old saying about debt: "He who wants Lent to seem short should contract debt to be repaid at Easter." His monthly mortgage payments must be made regardless of whether the rental property has tenants.

The diligence and effort Porter is willing to put into building his financial future bodes well for his probable success. He should periodically track his progress toward financial independence and adjust his strategies as circumstances change.

Allocating assets: 7 steps finances and you

Sid Mittra

In terms of amount, type and risk level to suit the client's objectives.

STEP SEVEN: Match needs with investment choices.

Like this step to figuring out how fast you must travel to go 80 miles in 90 minutes. Essentially client needs determine how fast his assets should travel. It is this premise that solidifies the process of asset allocation.

Seminar: "Market Timing to Maximize Stock/Bond Return," "Creative Ways of Using Single-Premium-Deferred Annuity," "Limited Partnerships in Equipment Leasing and Real Estate," "Preparing for Retirement" and "Lump-Sum Distributions."

The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning, will be 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 14, in the offices of Coordinated Financial Planning, Sheffield Office Park, 3250 W. Big Beaver, Suite 540, Troy 48064.

For reservations, call 643-8888.

Sid Mittra is a professor of finance, school of business at Oakland University and owner of Coordinated Financial Planning.

In recent months, it has become fashionable among investment advisers to use the technique of asset allocation to redistributing clients' assets.

Although the technique is complicated and should be applied to your situation only by a professional, you will have a better feel for the process if you have at least a basic grasp of it.

Here is a seven-step process, developed by Harold Gorgues, which is generally followed by financial planners when designing asset allocation plans.

STEP ONE: Define the long-term direction of inflation.

There are two broad categories of investment — direct and indirect. Each category behaves differently in inflationary vs. deflationary periods. Direct investments perform best during inflationary times, while indirect investments shine during periods of disinflation.

STEP TWO: Divide assets among the two broad categories.

Given the decision as to inflationary vs. deflationary environment in Step One, the split is somewhat subjective, based upon the planner's degree of confidence in the inflation scenario.

A strong confirmed inflationary period might indicate a 90/10-percent split, direct vs. indirect; where no clear path is evident, a 50/50-percent split might be appropriate. If disinflation is indicated, the 75/25-percent indirect vs. direct investments will prevail. The long-term trend should be of primary import rather than the timing of a reversal.

STEP THREE: Select favored investment areas.

Favored investments arise from three scenarios:

1. Those that are opposite to the risk side of an economic crisis.
2. Those that have not been completely exploited by the marketplace (don't follow the herd).
3. Those that can be diversified extensively.

STEP FOUR: Assign percentages to favored investments.

Again, a somewhat subjective process, but one that accounts for client tolerance to risk and concerns for liquidity, taxes and overall temperament, as well as time horizon for investment.

STEP FIVE: Make suballocations into specific investments.

Here is where the asset manager's expertise is tested. Selection of specific investments based upon relative value (or undervaluation) is the objective.

STEP SIX: Calculate risk level.

By segmenting client assets into categories of working capital and assigning an estimated total return to each category, one can calculate a weighted average total return. This helps approximate the client's risk level. Asset allocation addresses the process whereby assets are realized

"Have a legal plan. Two critical areas to consider are employment issues and environmental issues. Wrongful termination is the biggest area of litigation today. How did we hire someone, how do we evaluate job performance, how to fire — there are no clear-cut standards, it turns on common sense."

REGARDING ENVIRONMENTAL issues: "There are no defenses if you violate the law. There is strict and retroactive liability. Know the law."

Pesses told the story of one of his clients, a trucking company that hauled non-toxic materials to a dump site 10 years ago.

"They are now involved in a $50 million cleanup because the EPA found the company name on one barrel at the site. The EPA says they are a potentially liable party. Ten years ago this dumping was perfectly legal."

"Most of all, know regulatory compliance with government agencies."

SUCH WAR stories could scare potential business entrepreneurs from taking chances, but speakers expounded on the importance of risk taking.

"Decide what you want and love what you're doing," said Mark, who has kept off 50 pounds through maintenance on the Weight Watchers behavior modification program for 23 years.

She only hires people who have had a weight problem; it's one of her business philosophies.

"Set a time limit, a dollar limit. Believe in your gut feeling. Walk away from mistakes without regrets."

"Whatever your service or whatever you are selling, be in love with it. If you don't smile every day and have some fun with it, then it's not worth doing."

BUSINESS NEWS

591-2300 Ext. 325

The business section is published Thursdays. In addition to the story coverage and columns, the section contains several calendars: BUSINESS PEOPLE covers promotions, internal awards and retirements for anyone living or working in our circulation area. We will print photographs if space permits. DATEBOOK covers upcoming meetings and courses of interest to business people.

MARKETPLACE

briefly covers new businesses, new products and other business-related items. Submit items for these in writing by 5:00 p.m. Monday. For these calendars, call Barry Jensen (ext. 325) For all other items, call Marilyn Fitchett, 591-2300. Ext. 331.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS, ANNIVERSARIES

We publish photographs and announcements of weddings, engagements and major anniversaries of local residents or former local residents. These appear as soon as possible, depending upon available space. Forms for announcing these events are available from any of our local offices, or you may model your announcement on an example you've read in the newspaper. The best reproduction can be made from a 5" x 7" black and white photo, but others will do. Please avoid regular or color Polaroid pictures.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Reprints of photographs that appear in the paper are not available. However, if a photograph is used and not needed for our files, it will be made available to the first person calling in. Such photographs will be held in any of our offices for two months, awaiting pickup. To inquire about a photograph, please call the editor who ran the picture, i.e.: Sports, Suburban Life, Entertainment, Creative Living, News.

RELIGION

Religious news is published Thursdays. The religion calendar is published on these pages. Calendar deadline is Monday noon. All material must be in writing. For more information, call your local suburban life editor

OBITUARIES

We publish obituaries of local residents and former local residents. Most obituary information is received from area funeral homes. If a local funeral home is not involved, please call the community editor at the appropriate telephone number. All obituaries appear at the discretion of the community editor. Obituaries are printed without charge.

CREATIVE LIVING

News of the arts appears every Thursday. Deadline for notices of gallery shows (which must be legibly written) is 5:00 p.m. Monday. For more information, call the appropriate Creative Living editor.

ENTERTAINMENT

591-2300 Ext. 305

Entertainment pages appear Thursday and include feature stories, theater and other entertainment reviews, TABLE TALK restaurant news column, and the UPCOMING calendar, which deadlines each Thursday (for items to appear the following Thursday). Submit all information to Ethel Simmons, entertainment editor.

MOVIE REVIEWS

591-2300 Ext. 302

WRITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

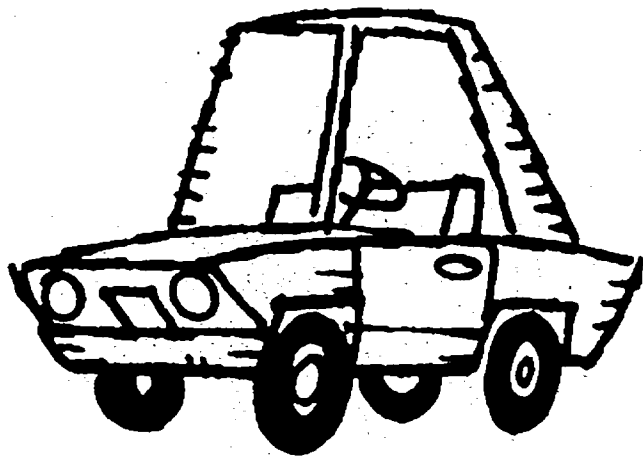

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

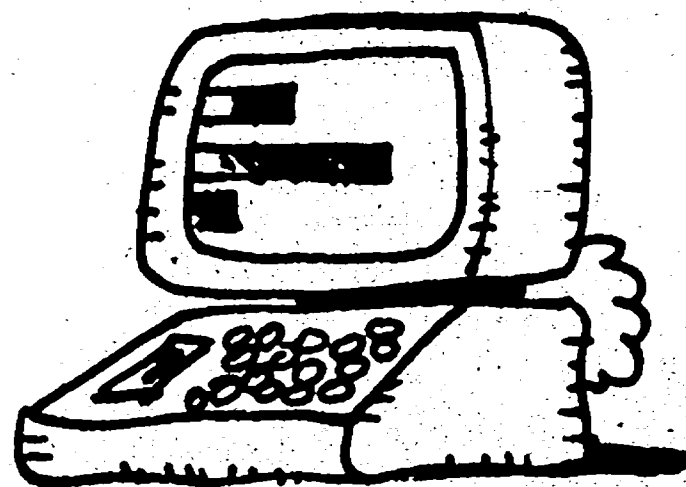

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

State qualifiers make their bids

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

The state championships of high school wrestling are familiar territory for Lee Krueger. For Jason Kopcak, it will be a new experience.

Redford Catholic Central's Krueger and Wayne Memorial's Kopcak are two of the 16 wrestlers who will represent Observerland in the Class A finals this weekend at the Kellogg Center in Battle Creek.

The two-day tournament begins with the preliminaries Friday and continues on Saturday when the winners in 13 weight classes will be crowned.

Krueger, who won at 198 pounds last year, hopes to make it two straight, but his mission is to win the heavyweight championship in 1989.

The 145-pound Kopcak will be making his first trip to state, but he and Krueger share one thing in common.

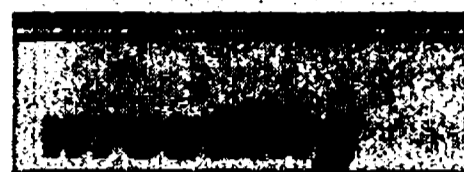

THEY, AS WELL as the other four Observerland wrestlers who captured regional honors Saturday at Plymouth Canton, will be among the top-seeded wrestlers in their divisions at state.

"I expect to do well," Kopcak said. "It depends. If I have a good day, I could go to the top. If I hit my peak at state, I could do real well."

Krueger was one of four regional winners from CC and one of five headed for state. Matt Helm (130), Jay Helm (140) and Chris Rodriguez (152) prevailed at their weights, too, and teammate Brian Tulley (145) also qualified.

Westland John Glenn's Rob Matigian, who improved his record to 42-0 when he defeated Dean Lanzini of Gibraltar Carlson in the 135-pound title bout, was Observerland's other champion.

Matigian, who has the most victories (123) in school history and owns just about every career record, is in the finals for a third time. Two-time champion Chris Henderson of Lansing Sexton, whom Matigian has never wrestled, looms as his chief competition.

"At the beginning of the season, I wanted to wrestle him," Matigian said. "If I wrestle him, it will be in the finals."

"NOW THAT IT'S so close and I've seen so many upsets, I know it can happen to me, too, and I don't want to look past anybody."

Glenn teammate Dereck Tharp (189), Redford Union's Chris Woodbeck (140) and Plymouth Salem's Steve Burlison (160) were regional runners-up.

North Farmington heavyweight Zaim Cunmulaj, Livonia Churchill's Darin Dudek (119) and Casey Krause (125), Salem's Ed Barlage (140) and Brian Burlison (171) and Livonia Stevenson's Kurt Will (152) also qualified for state.

"Any of the five could win it," said CC coach Mike Rodriguez of his state qualifiers. "We're down to the core of our team now."

"Only one is a junior, the rest are seniors. You usually take the seniors, and at this stage of the game they have it pretty well together."

Matt Helm was second at 126 last year, Rodriguez fourth at 145 and Cunmulaj fifth at 198. Jay Helm, Woodbeck, Matigian, Will and Steve Burlison also are veterans of state competition, though they didn't place.

"I'M HOPING ALL three are going with the idea of doing something because they're capable," said Salem coach Ron Krueger, who also will have his son, Lee, to cheer on. "Steve was there as a sophomore, and this year he wants to get some hardware."

"Having been there helps. That's why my son has so much success. When he was a little kid, he went every year with us and sat on the first-aid box. When he got there himself, it was no big deal; he'd been there."

Lee Krueger defied the critics a second straight Saturday when he won the regional title, defeating a much bigger opponent, Paul Nowicki of Romulus, 8-1.

Krueger literally had to wrestle and thus prove his skill to win the heavyweight division. He won both of his earlier matches in overtime, beating Carlson's Mike Mayville 7-4 and Lincoln Park's Tony Ruehle with a 2-2, criteria decision.

"I stayed inside of (Nowicki) and didn't let him lock up to throw me," said Krueger of his strategy in negating his opponent's size advantage.

Krueger rates as one of the favorites along with Scott Brotherton of Clio, who was runner-up to Krueger's former teammate, Toby Heaton, at heavyweight last year.

"I'VE WRESTLED all the best," said Krueger, who is 42-2-1 and has tied Brotherton. "I'm confident. I know I'll have to wrestle. I think beating the Romulus kid gave me a lot of confidence."

"He hasn't received the due credit he deserves," Rodriguez said. "I guess, when it comes down to it, his talents will come out."

"People thought because of his size and moving up he couldn't handle it, but he's been doing well all year."

Matt Helm, who eked out a 2-2 decision over Temperance Bedford's Drew Wing, and No. 1-ranked Brad Smith of Davison are the 130-pound favorites. Helm hopes to avenge the memory of last year's emotional loss to Royal Oak Kimball's Jeff Bedard.

In the only regional final pitting two Observerland wrestlers, Jay

College grid stars adapt to new world

THEY STILL stand out in a crowd. Hard not to. While all three are down from their football playing weight, they are still plenty big.

They share other similarities. During their playing days, they were intimidating in appearance — particularly Dave Houle, a massive 6-foot-4, 285-pound offensive tackle at Michigan State, a man with biceps bigger than almost anyone else's thighs, sporting a Fu-Manchu mustache and crewcut.

That's intimidation defined. Now, Houle and two other former Spartans, Mark Nichols and Jeff Wiska, look like most other young businessmen in their sport coats and ties and neat and trim hairstyles. The only clues to their previous vocations are their still-imposing frames and the rings they wear.

HOULE AND Nichols flash huge Rose Bowl rings, from MSU's 1988 championship team. Wiska sports a pair of enormous rings, one advertising a Big Ten championship, the other commemorating last year's Arena Football title with the Detroit Drive.

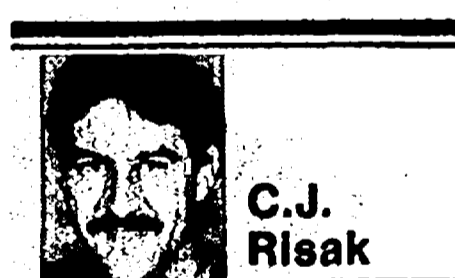

But all that's just surface stuff. These are three guys who went to MSU to play football, then get a degree. In that order. Once accomplished, their first thoughts regarding a career were of pro football, not anything utilizing their classroom education.

All three are trying to readjust to life without football. For different reasons, chances are slim that any of them will ever play again.

It is not an easy transition. "I can't watch it," Nichols said of the game he loves. "I just can't. I keep thinking I should be out there."

HOULE, A GRADUATE of Plymouth Salem, was a project when he arrived at MSU in 1983. According to Nichols, his roommate for two years, Houle didn't weigh 200 pounds as an incoming freshman.

Five years later he was a monster on a championship team, with enough potential to be drafted by the New York Giants in the sixth round. But he paid a price for his impressive development.

C.J. Risak

"I can't do anything," said Houle. "I can't even run. The motion of my arms hurts my shoulders."

Houle then told an amusing deer-hunting story — but not your typical one-that-got-away tale. Seems Houle was trudging through the woods armed with a bow and, sure enough, there was a prime target only a few yards away. He readied his bow, realizing his aching shoulders might prevent him from even drawing the bowstring.

So what happens? "My shoulder popped," Houle said, laughing, "and it was so loud the deer heard it and ran away."

Funny, huh? But when the chuckling subsides and reality sinks in, the humor seems hollow. Injuries have made it almost impossible for this giant of a man to do anything athletic.

HIS WEIGHT is down to 255, and would be less if he could exercise. Houle had three shoulder operations (two on the right) while at MSU and, after training camp with the Giants, faces two more (one on each).

Houle hurt one shoulder, then the other, doing double-duty at center for the Giants after starter Bart Oates was hurt early in camp last summer. When Houle told his coaches he couldn't continue ("I couldn't lift my arms over my head"), they didn't believe him. So Houle left camp and went to see Dr. Herb Ross, the MSU team doctor. "(Ross) said I couldn't play anymore," said Houle. The Giants still refused to believe him — until three weeks ago, when team scout Tom Boisture called. Boisture said the Giants agreed to pay for any surgery whether Houle returned or not, but if he could, they wanted him back.

Houle paid another visit to Ross, who again recommended retirement. When the Giants heard Ross' recommendation, they did an about-face and withdrew their offer to pay for surgery. The matter is destined for litigation.

"It's just amazing the kind of people I'm dealing with," he said. "People just don't believe teams will treat you that way."

AFTER HOULE left the Giants' camp, he said, "It was terrible. The first couple of days I went up to East Lansing and saw my girl friend. But I couldn't just sit there. I had to find something to do. I had been working 14 hours a day, then nothing."

Although he said college coaches "are trying to reverse it, I think it's still in the players' minds that they're majoring in football," Houle, who got a degree in communications, thought that way. "Football was number one, school number two," he admitted.

Example: The highlight for most college students is graduation day. Not for Houle.

What was important was pro football camp. Houle said that if he had to decide between school and football, he "would have gone to New York and blown off the last two weeks of school" — even if it meant not getting a degree.

Times change. Houle is now in management training at Enterprise Car Rental and Leasing.

NICHOLS' EXPERIENCES are strikingly similar to Houle's. A Bloomfield Hills native who graduated from Birmingham Brother Rice in 1983, the defensive tackle came to MSU weighing 208 pounds. He

East Kentwood rules Schoolcraft Tourney

Wayne Memorial gains semifinals

By Brad Emons
staff writer

A high school volleyball match made in heaven?

Well, not quite, but the finals of Saturday's the Schoolcraft College pitched the state's top two ranked teams in Class A.

And the No. 1 spot this week belongs to East Kentwood, which rallied to beat the previous top dog, Temperance-Bedford, in three games, 12-15, 16-14, 15-8. (See statistical summary.)

Thirty schools, including 12 from Observant, started pool play action at 9 a.m. The extravaganza did not finish until nearly 1 1/2 hours later.

"You never mind going home late because that means you're in it," said East Kentwood coach Bud Cole. "Either team could have won this match. It just depends which side the ball falls on that particular day. The kids came back well. When they were behind they showed a lot of courage."

Bedford (41-4) had beaten East Kentwood (51-4) earlier in the season at the Portage Invitational. The two teams had also split.

STARTING ONLY one senior, it appears that East Kentwood can only get better.

The Falcons eliminated Livonia Stevenson (15-2, 15-1) in the quarterfinals and Detroit Henry Ford in the semifinals (15-8, 15-6).

Leading the way for East Kentwood were juniors Amy Westhouse and Kerri Kulper, along with Jane Belanger, one of the top setters in the state.

"We did some things better this time against Bedford," said Cole, whose team finished second in the state tourney in 1983. "We blocked and passed well, because if you don't, you'll be out of it real early.

"We needed this. The kids are really fired up."

The tournament's most surprising team was Wayne Memorial, which reached the semifinals before losing to Bedford, 15-8, 15-13.

Wayne qualified for the semifinals by defeating Livonia Churchill in the second time this season, 15-13, 8-15, 15-13.

"I'm very pleased. This was fantastic," said Wayne coach Ann Kolnity. "We had just hoped to get out of our pool and make a good showing against a big team. We did everything I hoped for... and more for a team not ranked."

WAYNE, currently unbeaten in the Wolverine A League and 28-6 overall, was sparked by junior Tiffany Goodlow, who made several key blocks against Churchill, and senior setter Nicole Fisher, who was a standout against Bedford.

"We blocked well and served well. That was the key," Kolnity said. "Tiffany is starting to slam the ball home and Fisher was very good today."

Defending state Class A and Schoolcraft champion Livonia Ladywood lost a tough three-game match to Bedford in the quarterfinals, 14-16, 15-11, 15-13.

The Blazers played without outside hitter Peggy Knittel, who sat out the tourney with a knee injury.

"She (Knittel) gives us a varied attack and gives us the consistency," said Ladywood coach Tom Teeters, whose team is 31-4 overall. "We missed her passing, but we did all right considering she was out."

"Today our passing was not strong."

But the Blazers' Stacey Girard was a model of consistency, especially with her passing and defensive play. Teammate Stacey Girard, who recently committed to Western Michigan University, was the Blazers' top hitter.

CHURCHILL may have run out of gas against Wayne after surviving a tough pool, which included the likes of Madison Heights Bishop Foley, Farmington Hills Mercy, North Farmington and Dearborn Edsel Ford.

The Chargers, led by the all-around play of Jenny Sproul and Christy Clark, finished 7-1 in pool play.

"It was by far the most difficult pool," said Churchill coach Mike

Hughes. "We got puffed out the last game against Wayne and couldn't pass the ball, but the kids played very well all day and I was pleased."

"It was a good experience. We need to play the tough teams."

Livonia Stevenson, which has struggled most of the season with a young team joined Bedford in the quarterfinals as the tournament's wild card teams.

Stevenson tied Henry Ford for the best record on Court No. 2, while Bedford and Harper Woods Regina tied on Court V — all sporting 7-1 records.

Chargers whip Salem, stay perfect in WLAA

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Is there another Western Lakes Activities Association volleyball championship in Livonia Churchill's future?

That won't be answered until the league meet on Saturday, Feb. 25, but the Chargers looked ready to defend their title Monday night as they whipped host Plymouth Salem in two games, 15-1 and 15-8.

Churchill improved to 10-0 in the WLAA and 21-3 overall with the crossover victory. The Rocks dropped to 5-5 and 15-10.

"It's a crap shoot when you go to the conference meet," Churchill coach Mike Hughes said. "Salem will play much better. I know they're better than those scores."

The Chargers could do no wrong Monday in the one-sided contest. Churchill displayed a varied attack that included contributions from spikers Jenny Sproul, Julie Rieder, Carrie Blanchard, Christina Garry and Alyssa Belaire.

CHURCHILL WAS ahead 10-0 in both games before the Rocks could get on the scoreboard. With the exception of a brief period when Salem rallied in the middle of the second game, the Chargers dominated at the net.

"We blocked as well as we have all year," Hughes said. "We made things difficult for Salem. We haven't had as good a game against anybody else."

It was apparent the Rocks were not on their game from the start when they had trouble receiving Churchill's serves. Belaire served two aces, and Rieder led the hitting attack as the Chargers streaked to an early lead in the opener.

Maria Wordhouse was the only Salem player who was effective in that game. She had several kills and dinks for sidout, but the Rocks couldn't do anything when they served.

"Mike expected us to play tonight, not for us to sit back and let them hit the ball at us," Salem coach Betty Smith said. "We've been doing well, and I'm sure he didn't expect to come in here and have the first game 15-1."

"Instead of saying 'Nice game, nice match' afterward, I just said 'Sorry, we didn't show up.'"

THE SECOND GAME started out to be a repeat of the first as Churchill scored 10 points on its first six serving rotations. Sproul provided much of the offense with her hard spikes and successful blocks.

In addition to Sproul and the other hitters, Hughes wanted to be sure Christy Clark didn't get overlooked as the setter often does.

"Everybody sees Sproul because she goes 'boom' at the net, and Rieder blocks well for us," he said. "But you don't hit the ball unless the setter puts the ball where it should be."

"I tell the kids 'Be nice to the setter, because if you aren't, you might not see the ball until next month.'"

After bolting to another big lead, the Chargers hit a snag and scored only one point on their next nine serving rotations.

In the meantime, Salem was making a comeback, cutting Churchill's lead to 12-8. Wordhouse was the catalyst, scoring points or forcing sidouts with more well-placed dinks over the Churchill blockers. Teammates Almee Rutan and Kolleen Lawrence offered their support at the net in that game, too.

"IN THE FIRST game, Maria showed up. In the second, the others decided to join her," Smith said. "We salvaged a little respect. Maybe we made them sweat a little."

Blazers, Mercy in title match

Farmington Hills Mercy and Livonia Ladywood advanced to the finals of the Catholic League volleyball playoffs. (Results will appear in Monday's Observer.)

Ladywood (33-4 overall), the regular-season Central-Division champions, beat Allen Park Cabrini 15-4, 15-3, in the quarterfinals and surprised Redford Bishop Borgess, 15-4, 15-5, in the semifinals Monday to advance. The matches were played at Dearborn Divine Child.

Playing at Madison Heights Bishop Foley Monday, Mercy (25-9) defeated Southgate Aquinas 15-6, 15-11 in the quarterfinals and Harper Woods Regina, 16-14, 5-16 and 15-8 in the semifinals.

LADYWOOD, the defending Class A champions, will be favored tonight, but Mercy coach Tim DeBello is looking forward to the challenge. The Marlins have lost the previous two meetings against the Blazers.

"We're going to have to play our best, they're a fine team and peaking," DeBello said. "It looks like they're at the top of their game and we haven't beaten them — not too many teams have."

"If we can challenge them defensively we've got a chance. If we hit free balls or have trouble passing it could be a long night for us."

As Monday's scores indicated, Ladywood wasn't tested much during the quarterfinals or semifinals.

Dana Domanski led the Blazers with eight digs, and Katie Farkas had nine straight serves against Borgess. Karl Domanski led Ladywood with four solo blocks. Karl Domanski had 20 assists for kills in the two matches.

The Blazers are starting to improve in serve reception, coach Tom Teeters said, as Janice Konczal had no errors in six attempts.

"LADYWOOD PLAYED an outstanding match," Borgess coach Jerry Abraham said. "They did things against us to take us out of our game. They had a better team yesterday."

Mercy had a tougher time of it, though the Marlins breezed through the quarterfinals over Cabrini. Jennifer Goff and Becky Leddy had five kills each in the win over Cabrini, but the Marlins were pressed to the limit in the semifinal against Regina (25-6).

Mercy trailed 14-10 in Game No. 1, but Maureen Paulin served the last six points for the win. Goff again sparked, getting 12 attacks in 37 attempts for a .324 percentage. Nikki Burns had 25 assists in the match for an 8.3 average, and DeBello praised the play of middle hitters Lee Albrecht and Pam Thompson.

"Both did an excellent job in terms of blocking and running the middle attack effectively when we needed it," DeBello said. "Most of our scoring came from the outside, but Lee and Pam blocked well enough to keep their big hitters off our outside attackers."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN blasted Plymouth Canton 15-11, 15-7 Monday in a Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division match.

The Rockets improved to 4-3 in the Lakes, 6-5 overall.

The Chiefs recorded only 11 kills in the match, and had 14 service errors. Coach Allie Suffey can't remember any performances as poor as that.

"We really played very poorly," he said. "It was a terrible performance — that's the best way to explain it. We didn't have a good attitude. The kids figured John Glenn would be real tough and we weren't going to win no matter what we did."

Shannon Meath led Canton with four kills and Alyssa Huth had nine assists. The Chiefs collected only two service aces, with one going to Susan Ferko and the other going to Karen Keenan.

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE handed Lutheran Westland with ease Monday, beating the home team 15-10 and 15-4. The non-conference tilt lifted the Trojans to 7-6 overall.

Karl Watson had six kills and 16 kills for Clarenceville and Lora Maguire served seven points in Game No. 2.

Stevenson nips city rival Pats

Scott Kosikowski scored only seven points, but it was his three-pointer with only 34 seconds left which proved to be the difference Tuesday as Livonia Stevenson downed city rival Franklin in a non-league boys basketball encounter, 59-58.

The two teams will meet again tonight at Stevenson in the first round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoff. Game time is 7:30.

Kosikowski, whose three-pointer in the final seconds last week helped Stevenson upset WLA-Lakes Division champion Plymouth Salem, gave the Spartans a 59-58 lead with the shot.

But Franklin's Roy Hall answered with a basket off the fast-break.

The Patriots then had a chance to win it after forcing a Stevenson turnover, but failed to convert a desperation attempt in the final seconds.

Junior guard Ron Baran paced a balanced Stevenson attack with 13 points. Senior forward Chris Nazelli and senior guard Eric Schwedt added 11 and 10, respectively. Glenn Szymen, a 6-foot-9 junior center, contributed nine.

Craig Overalls, a junior guard, paced the Patriots with 14 points. He also had four assists and six steals. Hall and John Shea added 13 and 12, respectively, while Matt Lawson contributed 10 off the bench.

Franklin is 10-7 overall. WAYNE 62, YPSILANTI 48: Senior guard Tony Rumble poured in a career-high 32 points Tuesday, leading the host Zebras (13-4) to the non-league win over the Braves (3-14).

Wayne Memorial jumped out to a 19-6 first-quarter lead and never looked back. Pierre Hixon contributed 11 points and nine rebounds, while teammate Kevin Hankerson yanked down eight rebounds.

Derrick Pressley was the only Ypsi player in double figures with 13 points.

Wayne shot 18 of 24 from the free throw line, while Ypsi was nine of 12.

MILFORD 85, REDFORD UNION 35: All 12 players scored Tuesday as the visiting Redskins (16-1) murdered the host Panthers (8-8).

"Right at the beginning they (Milford) hit everything and we had a lid on the rim — we missed tip-ins and layups," said RU coach Tip Smathers.

RU trailed 32-15 at intermission and was outscored 51-20 in the second half.

ROEPER 57, THURSTON 54: Poor free throw shooting (seven of 17) led to Redford Thurston's undoing Tuesday as host Bloomfield Hills Roeper, a Class D school, pulled the mild upset.

Both teams are 13-4 on the season. Robbie Rabbarrri and Dave Best led the Roughriders with 17 and 15 points, respectively.

Fernando Merida and Matt Farris tallied 13 and 12, respectively for the Eagles. Keith Wojkowlak added nine.

"We missed six front-ends (of a one-and-one), including four in the fourth quarter," said Thurston coach Mike Schuette. "They (Roeper) controlled the tempo of the game. They are a patient and well-disciplined ball team."

CRESTWOOD 72, GARDEN CITY 69: On Tuesday, host Dearborn Heights Crestwood (5-13), escaped with non-league win over the Cougars (3-14).

GC missed a chance to tie it with 13 seconds remaining, but an inbound violation turned the ball over to the Chargers, who answered with a free throw to seal the win.

Kevin Adams tallied 24 to lead Crestwood. Three Cougars scored in double figures including Jason Wynn (20), Jim Marszalak (16) and Bud Barnett (14).

Crestwood made 16 of 27 from the free throw line compared with six of six for GC.

TEMPLE 60, YPSILANTI CALVARY 59: On Tuesday, visiting Redford Temple Christian (8-10) held off a late Ypsilanti Calvary rally to gain the victory.

"We did not play well, they dictated the tempo and slowed the game way down," said Temple coach Dave Gilliam, whose team beat Ypsi Calvary by 30 at home earlier in the year.

Roy Neal led the winners with 18 points, hitting three shots from three-point range. Jeff Weiss and Tim Walters each added 12. (Neal made a length of the court shot at halftime to give Temple a 33-21 lead.)

Glenn Bridges and Lammers Craig each scored 17 in a losing cause.

LUTHERAN EAST 54, CLARENCEVILLE 38: Bruce Collins netted, 21 Tuesday, lifting host Harper Woods Lutheran East (11-7, 9-3) to the Metro Conference victory over Livonia Clarenceville (4-17, 4-8).

The visiting Trojans led 10-8 after one quarter, but an 18-6 spurt in the second period by the preening Eagles turned the tied.

Derrick Herr scored 16 in a losing cause, while Gary Lay added 10.

LUTHERAN N.W. 58, LUTH. WESTLAND 54 (OT): Lutheran Westland (2-18) got some clutch shooting down the stretch from Mike Hardies and Chris Habitz to send the game into overtime Tuesday, but the host Warriors couldn't sustain it during the extra three-minute session as Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest (13-4) scored the win.

Down by six with 52 seconds to play in regulation, Lutheran Westland rallied on a four-point play by Habitz, who fouled on a three-pointer, followed by two free throws by Hardies, who was intentionally fouled.

Hardie and Habitz finished with 19 and 18 points, respectively. Kevin Gearin added nine points and five assists, while Doug Nelson added six rebounds.

John Marinelli scored 14 for the winners, who canned 18 of 29 rebounds.

G.C. UNITED 82, W. HIGHLAND 24: Six players scored in double figures Tuesday as host Garden City United (13-8) scored the easy victory over West Highland Christian Academy of Milford in a game played at the Inkster Recreation Center.

Guard Tim Blatter paced the winners with 17 points, followed by Pat Avery (16), Ted Dillow (13), Chadd Pressnell (12), Chris Smith (10) and Ricky Okins (10). Dillow, a senior forward, also added 15 rebounds and six assists.

On Saturday, Michigan Association of Christian Schools (Division III) champion Berean of Adrian hammered GC United, 91-60, as 6-7 junior center Mike Cook sparked the victors with 21 points.

Blatter tallied 22, while Pressnell and Smith, a freshman, chipped in with 12 and 11, respectively.

In a game played Friday at Inkster Rec, sophomore Jason Brown scored 40 to give Detroit Caldwell Baptist a 73-49 triumph over GC United.

Four GC players scored in double figures led by Blatter (19), Pressnell (17), Dillow (10) and Jeff Houghton (10).

GC United will host the conference tourney at 6 p.m. Friday at Inkster Rec against the winner of tonight's Novi Christian-Hidden Springs game.

The championship and consolation games will be played at 3:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday.

Madonna escapes with 2 close calls

Madonna College played an uninspired first half Tuesday but went on to post an 87-86 win over Jordan College (Flint) in a men's college basketball game.

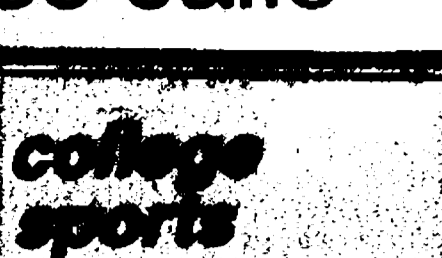

The Fighting Crusaders, 12-14 overall, trailed 42-36 at halftime but regrouped in the second half behind 6-foot-2 senior center Bryan Daniel and 6-7 forward Terrance Bell.

Daniel led five Madonna players in double figures with 21 points and Bell and Shaun Hayward scored 17 each. Anthony Strickland and Marcus Lowe, who fouled out, contributed 15 and 13, respectively.

"The first half was so bad I don't even know if they wanted to play," coach Bob Whitlow said. "I don't know why they were so flat because Jordan is a good team. They beat Michigan Christian College and Nazareth, which is pretty good, too."

"At halftime I said, 'Get the hell out of here, I don't even want to talk to you.' They decided in the first five minutes of the second half they wanted to play."

MADONNA'S WIN over Jordan did not count in the NAIA District 23 rankings because the Flint school is only a two-year college. The Crusaders need to beat Orchard Lake St. Mary tonight at home, and Alma College and Siena Heights later this month to have any hopes of making the district playoffs.

If the Fighting Crusaders make some of the same mistakes they did Tuesday, they might not win any of the games. Lowe committed his fifth foul with 16 seconds left in the game, hacking a Jordan player under Jordan's basket with Madonna up by four, 87-83.

Fortunately for Madonna, Jordan missed the bonus one-and-one free throw, but Jim Wallace, who scored 21 points, nailed a three-point jumper shot at the buzzer to put Jordan down by one. Is it any wonder Whitlow wiped his brow afterward?

In a game played Saturday at Nazareth College in Kalamazoo, the Fighting Crusaders escaped with a 71-62 win.

The game was foul plagued, with five technical fouls being assessed to Nazareth. Daniel led Madonna with 18 points and Lowe added 14. Bell scored 13 for the Fighting Crusaders and Ron Griffin added 11.

Ocelots caged again

The season's been a struggle for Oakland Community College's mens basketball team, when compared to the success the Raiders enjoyed the last three seasons. But they still had more than enough to handle the depleted lineup put on the floor by Schoolcraft College Saturday.

OCC built a seven-point advantage (47-40) by halftime and kept it in the second half to post a 91-76 victory at SC. Leading the Raider attack were Toine Murphy with 22 points, Scott Gusler with 16 and Tim Forfinski (from Farmington Harrison) with 11 and 10 rebounds. Flanders Morgan contributed six assists.

Al Hudson topped the Ocelots with 21 points. Mike Mercer had 17 and John Moran 14. SC lost three players to academics in January.

OCC, which lost 98-79 at Heary Ford CC Monday, is 13-13 overall and 6-9 in the Eastern Conference.

ON MONDAY, SC traveled to Flint to play Eastern Conference leader Mott CC, and the results were predictable: problems from the start that eventually got worse. Mott muscled its way to a 103-84 triumph.

Only seven Ocelots made the trip. Starting center Al Hudson had an exam Tuesday morning to study for and reserve guard Dennis Fithian had a Monday night class. Also, Ken Fuster saw limited playing time because of an injured foot.

Still, SC managed to stay within striking distance in the first half, trailing by just 47-37 at the break. Then, as coach Dave Bogataj described it, "They came out in the second half and just blitzed us. They beat us up physically."

SC's front line featured John Moran (6-foot), Bernard McGee (6-2) and Mark Koronka (6-4); Mott countered with Anthony Feltson (6-8), Paul Newman (6-7) and Rod Glassnor (6-5). Glassnor scored 16 points, Newman and Feltson had 17 apiece. Guard Van Evans had 10.

Moran hit four three-pointers and tallied 24 points before fouling out with five minutes left. Koronka had 15 and Fuster nine.

SC slipped to 6-23 overall and finished its conference season at 2-14. Mott is 23-6 overall, 13-2 in the conference.

Not long after Redford St. Agatha bounced Flint Holy Rosary, 58-45, in a Catholic League C-D Division semifinal game, the teams nearly exchanged punches instead of the traditional handshake at half-court.

Monday's game at the University of Detroit's Calihan Hall was the last for Rosary in the Catholic League, and it's safe to say neither team will miss the other's company. Rosary is dropping out of the Catholic League to play an independent schedule beginning next year.

"We just don't like them," Agatha guard Matt Haran said. "We didn't want to see them leave (the league) with a football and basketball title, and I'm glad it was us who stopped them."

The win sends Agatha (14-5 overall) into the title game at 2 p.m. Sunday against Detroit St. Hedwig (14-4) at Calihan Hall.

ROSARY DEFEATED Agatha

last fall in the C-D football title game, but Haran refused to let the Wolverines go away winners in basketball.

Haran scored 17 of his game-high 24 points in the second half for the Aggies, who trailed 25-23 at halftime. Mike Boyle, who frustrated Rosary's smaller front-line all evening, finished with 17 points. Galen Walker, who was playing sick, and sophomore Bryan Kutch finished with seven points each.

"This is their last game in the Catholic League, and as far as I'm concerned, it's the greatest thing that could have happened," Agatha coach Jim Murphy said. "After the game, he (Rosary coach John Maciak) didn't want to shake my hand. I thought all coaches were supposed to be comrades, not bitter enemies."

Agatha outscored Rosary 8-0 at the start of the second half. Six straight points came from Haran, and a tip-in by Walker gave the Aggies a 31-25 lead with 5:19 left in the third quarter, when Maciak called a timeout.

About a minute later, one of Maciak's leading scorers, Jim DePottey, was ejected from the game for a flagrant foul.

BOYLE MADE ONE of two technical fouls assessed to DePottey, to give the Aggies a 34-27 lead, and they increased the lead to nine, 41-32, after three quarters. Rosary made only eight-of-30 shots from the floor in the second half, and for the game shot 31 percent (15-48).

Chris Fairman led Rosary with nine points and James Golombeski added eight. Joe Maciak grabbed eight rebounds for the Flint team, but they all came before halftime.

Coach Maciak wouldn't comment on the officiating or what transpired between the two teams afterward at half-court.

"We played a good first half," he said. "Give all the credit to St. Agatha. We got beat by a better team tonight. That's all I want to say about tonight's game."

Said Murphy: "He (Maciak) came up to Mike Boyle and said, 'It should have been you that got kicked out.' We didn't kick the kid (DePottey) out of the game, the references did. He's (Maciak) always crying after games."

ALTHOUGH BOYLE was the best inside player on the court for Agatha, Murphy wanted to talk about the play of the 6-5 Walker and Haran, one of his smaller players.

"Haran is a great kid," Murphy said. "He can turn it around for you. He's a good player who's smart enough to know when to shoot. Galen's been sick since last Thursday. Before the game he had diarrhea and was sicker than a dog."

Agatha was routed in last year's C-D basketball title game against Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, and Murphy said the Aggies will have to play much better than they did Monday to beat Hedwig.

Agatha and Hedwig split in their two previous meetings this year.

"They're a very good basketball team and we really have to be on our toes," Murphy said.

RU, Shamrocks grab dual meets

Redford Union dunked Walled Lake Western Tuesday in a non-league boys swim meet, 123-47.

The Panthers won 10 of 11 events against the host Warriors.

Keith Turnbull and Dave Keys each captured two individual events for the winners, now 6-4 overall.

Turnbull captured the 200-yard individual: medley (2:19.4) and 500 freestyle (5:28.8), while Keys added wins in the 50 freestyle (28.0) and 100 backstroke (1:08.2).

Other individual winners for RU included: Rick Hammond, 200 freestyle, 2:08.31; Ken Podina, 100 butterfly, 1:06.0; Herb Gaylord, 100 freestyle, 55.9; and Brad Nester, 100 breaststroke, 1:12.5.

swimming

REDFORD CATHOLIC CENTRAL won the meet's final event Tuesday, the 400-freestyle relay, to edge host East Lansing in a swim thriller, 86-83.

Jim Kovach, Brian Dynda, Alex Afsari and Troy Shumate combined for a first place time of 3:30.40 to gain the victory, OC's seventh in 10 meets.

Mike Hoefflein and Shumate each captured two individual events for the Shamrocks.

Hoefflein took the 50 freestyle (28.16) and 100 backstroke (58.03), while Shumate took the 200 and 500 freestyles with times of 1:49.08 and 4:50.37, respectively.

State qualifiers earn berths for weekend in Battle Creek

Helm won an 11-4 decision over Woodbeck in a match that included some controversy.

Helm lifted Woodbeck and took him to the mat for a legal takedown, but the official called the RU wrestler for an illegal slam when he did the same later. The call brought a negative response from the crowd. Instead of a possible five points that would have narrowed the score, Woodbeck got nothing.

"IT WAS KINDA close when Jay took him down," Rodriguez said. "If I'd been the official, I might have called a slam."

"The reason he didn't call it (against Helm) was because (Woodbeck) went instantly to his back. In Woodbeck's case, it looks more like a slam when you don't take him right to his back."

RU coach Jeff Fagan said the officiating was inconsistent on that point, and there was no intent on the part of Woodbeck to hurt his opponent. He added the call didn't directly affect the outcome, and he was pleased to see Woodbeck improve upon the technical fall (18-2) his CC rival scored in the district final.

"He came back and wrestled tougher against Helm and that's good," Fagan said. "He gets another shot at him, and that's all I'm concerned about."

"Chris has a lot less match experience, and he was just going to go for takedowns. Helm is a tough kid, and I don't know if (Woodbeck) could have held him on his back. (Helm) deserved to win the match."

Rodriguez, who also won a one-point decision in the final, hopes to follow in the footsteps of older brothers Steve and Dave, who won state championships in 1971 and 1974, respectively.

"Having to live with the pressure of being the younger brother and son of the coach, he's handled it all pretty well," the elder Rodriguez said. "Ever since he was little, I told him

'Don't expect any favors or anybody to love you because of your brothers.'"

Will, who needs one victory at state to become the first Stevenson wrestler to reach 100 during a career, made a comeback after finishing fourth in the district.

He lost a 7-6 decision to Romulus Ricky Champagne to start the day but won three straight in the consolation round and finished third.

With two seconds left in the first match, Will scored a two-point reversal that would have won it, but the official claimed he made a bad decision, according to Stevenson coach Don Berg, and took away the points.

Will also overcame a blow to the nose in the consolation semis to win that bout and the ensuing clash for third place with a pair of decisions.

"He caught a knee but gutted it out and won," Berg said. "I'm glad he's going (to state); he's a deserving repeater."

Class D Warriors seek titles

Lutheran Westland will send nine qualifiers Saturday to the Class D individual wrestling tournament at Harper Creek High School in Battle Creek.

Westland, which finished the season with a 12-7 record and a district championship, also has qualified for the Class D team meet Saturday, Feb. 25 in Battle Creek.

Coach Dennis Tuomi is busy getting his competitors ready individually, this week. To qualify individually, a wrestler had to finish among the top three places in their weight class in district action.

Doug Johnson (103), Tony Horvath (112), Jeff Walrich (125) and Bruce Rivera (152) all won their respective classes at the district. Ben Maton (189) was a second-place finisher and Russell Faith (130), Michael Kaitner (135), Jason Olson (145) and heavyweight Jamie Hardy each took third place.

Rivera is 21-2 overall, bringing the most impressive resume to the individual finals. He was fifth in Class D last year.

"He'd certainly like to win it this year," Tuomi said. "He's worked hard and he's an aggressive wrestler. That's always our goal at the beginning of the year, to make it to state. And if we go there, our goal is to win it. That's what we strive for."

wrestling

REDFORD THURSTON'S Jed Kramer, a sophomore, became the school's first state qualifier since 1984 after finishing third Saturday in the Class B regional at Allen Park.

Kramer, now 40-8 on the year, advances to the state Class B finals this weekend at Battle Creek Lakeview High.

The 103-pounder opened regional action by pinning Dan Declechi of Center Line in 5:55 before losing to Kevin Buttigieg of Warren Mott in the semifinals, 12-4.

Kramer bounced back to beat Brian Beuckelaere, his first win against the Dearborn Divine Child grappler in three tries, 8-3. He then clinched third with a 7-5 win over Scott Backers of Clintondale.

"Jed is real relaxed right now and I'm looking for him to surprise some people at the state meet," said Thurston coach Harry Newton.

Kramer's teammate Shane Berns, a junior at 152, did not qualify, but downed Tom Buchanan of Monroe Jefferson, 6-3, after losing to Will McFadden of Mount Clemens, 8-6. Berns was eliminated by Paul Hill of New Boston Huron, a pin in 3:22.

FARMINGTON HARRISON'S Gary Devine was ousted in his two matches at the Allen Park regional by Arnett Turner of Mount Clemens (a pin in 21 seconds) and Mike Olivero of Divine Child (no score available).

LIVONIA STEVENSON'S Kurt Will was named MVE last month in the Plymouth-Canton Civitan Invitational.

The 152-pound Will and heavyweight Brent Harvey each took firsts, while Ryan Carriere (112), Tony Fsadni (130), Mark Gibson (160) and Todd Rockwell (171) each finished second. Matt Sladek (189) added a third.

The Spartan JV squad also realized success led by Barney Caplan (119), who took first; Adam Carriere (125), second, bulked up to 285 as a senior and was drafted in the eighth round by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

But injuries ruined Nichols' chances, too. "I was in real good shape when I went to camp," he said. "But then we started running and my shins started bothering me. And then I started getting burners every hit I took."

Both were a recurrence of previous ailments. The burners — pinched nerves in his neck — were more serious. Nichols has been plagued by a cervical disc problem since he started playing at MSU. The more severe attacks would burn, then numb one side of his body.

"I've had my body put back together more than once," he said (he has also had two shoulder operations). "But when you start having neck problems, that's scary. There comes a point when you say, 'Hey, am I doing the most intelligent thing?'"

NICHOLS DECIDED continuing to play wasn't too smart. He left Pittsburgh's training camp after just two days. "It was a bummer," he said. "I went through quite a dry spell. I went out and looked for a job."

What was he trained for? His degree was in communications, but "when I went to State, I was on a mission to play pro football."

The difficulty adjusting to civilian life was about what you'd expect for a guy like Nichols, who relied on emotional intensity to succeed. He currently sells mortgages for First Security Savings.

"I don't get to hit anybody here," he said. "You can laugh, but in football you get to take out your aggressions. Suddenly, you can't do that anymore."

WISKA'S STORY is different. Indeed, as he described it, "My story's written. I've got nothing left to prove."

A Farmington Hills native, he came out of Detroit Catholic Central in 1978. By 1982, he had played on a Big Ten championship team (MSU was on probation and did not go to the Rose Bowl) and in a couple of college all-star games. He was drafted by the Giants, but injuries sidelined him.

Wiska resurfaced with the Michigan Panthers in the USFL. He stuck with them when they moved to Oakland. After the team folded,

'No matter how great an athlete you are, there comes a day when you've got to go out in the real world. It's time to use your brain.'

— Jeff Wiska

he played with the Cleveland Browns and, during the NFL strike, with the Miami Dolphins. His final professional stop was last year with the Drive, a decision that earned him a championship ring.

"It's a dream," Wiska said of playing pro ball. "But after a year or so, your perspective changes. In the business world, you're building toward a future. In athletics, it's almost the opposite."

In business, as a worker ages his value increases with experience; in sports, as an athlete ages his skills diminish and, ultimately, so does his worth.

"NO MATTER how great an athlete you are, there comes a day when you've got to go out in the real world," said Wiska. "It's time to use your brain."

Wiska's time has come. He is now employed as a sales representative for Ez-Lift Doors, and he likes it. "I was ultra-motivated to play football," he said. "I never was for anything else, until this job."

All three former Spartans share the belief that football served as a great teacher. "Nothing I ever did in school academically prepared me as well (for the working world)," claimed Nichols. "I wouldn't trade it for anything. People don't realize the preparation, the discipline that goes into football. I think the working world is a lot easier."

Houle: "If it wasn't for sports, I don't know if I would have gone to college."

Wiska: "Football is like getting a doctorate in success. The lessons, the discipline you learn are ingrained in your mind for the rest of your life. That's your edge right there."

Their time in the limelight as football demigods has passed, but the memories remain forever. The rings on their fingers, the lingering pain, the lessons learned will serve as constant reminders.

Foot injury puts GC's Campbell on hold

HERE ARE A FEW items to mull over as the winter sports season winds down. Item No. 1 The recently concluded U.S. National Figure Skating Championships in Baltimore, Md., featured several athletes with "Observerland" ties, but one skater in particular had some bad luck.

Garden City's Jeri Campbell was expected to seriously challenge for women's title and one of two spots on the U.S. world team, but had to withdraw because of torn ligaments in her right foot. The 18-year-old, who trains in Los Angeles under Frank Carroll (who also coaches U.S. men's champ Chris Bowman), will be out six to eight weeks. Her 1989 season is pretty much shot, according to her mother Marilyn.

"She hurt her foot at sectionals and couldn't finish, but she got an automatic bye into the nationals," said Mrs. Campbell. "She was upset she couldn't finish. It was one of those things."

Campbell was second after the compulsories and fifth after the short program, but dropped out before the long program. (Jill Trenary and Kristi Yamaguchi finished one-two in the competition.)

Marilyn and Gerald Campbell (Jeri's parents), attended the competition along with her aunt and uncle, and two brothers.

"We had 11 (other) supporters from Garden City. It was nice," said Mrs. Campbell. "Jeri had a very good chance for second place. If she had been at her fullest, she would have been a major contender."

Jeri Campbell has been living the past 1 1/2 years with the Madera family, while training in California. She is also working toward a college degree where she is being tutored through correspondence classes at the University of Nebraska.

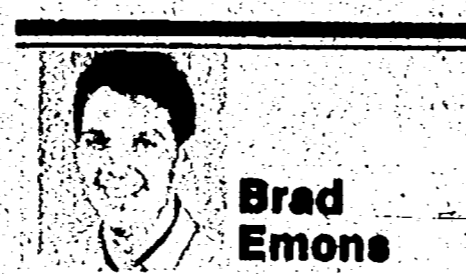

In senior dance, New Yorker Susan Wynne, who used to live in Canton Township with relatives while she trained with partner Joe Druar at the Ice Box in downriver Brownstown, took first place overall and qualified for the world championships next month in Paris, France.

Wynne and Druar, who captured their first national title, train under coach Sandy Hess out of the Broadmoor Skating Club in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Another local couple, Jodie Balogh of Livonia and Jerod Swallow of Northville finished sixth overall in the same division.

An up-and-coming couple — Westland's Angela Denewith and partner John Liotta of Sterling Heights — represented the Detroit Skating Club well in the junior pairs, finishing fourth overall.

Item No. 2: It's that time of year again to bash the WLAA basketball playoff format. The WLAA stands for Western Lakes Activities Association, but some coaches refer to the 12-school, two divisional set-up: What a Lousy Athletic Arrangement.

Brad Emons

It always seems somebody is unhappy with the way the playoffs and scheduling are set up. And it's becoming more evident that changes occur only when schools compromise and give up part of their turf.

Among the complaints I've heard: Why does the first-place team in the Western Division (Farmington Harrison) start out on the road against the fourth-place team in the Lakes Division (North Farmington)?

A quirk in the schedule has Livonia Franklin playing at Livonia Stevenson twice this week within a span of three days. One game is a non-leaguer and the other is a playoff game.

Several coaches are unhappy this season about Stevenson scheduling six of its home games on Thursday instead of Friday. They claim it takes away an extra day of preparation time.

Others have complained about Plymouth Salem hosting all six final round games (Saturday, Feb. 25). Some coaches would like to see a neutral site. How about the centrally located Schoolcraft College? That suggestion comes from SC men's coach Dave Bogataj. But in defense of the Salem site, it's good in the respect that the JV tourney can be held simultaneously at adjoining Canton High School.

Coaches are already complaining about next year's basketball scheduling, which has each team in the conference playing every member once (11 games). But the catch is that only five divisional games will count only toward the final divisional standings. Meanwhile, the overall conference standings will determine playoff seedings. The top eight teams will qualify.

The format has changed drastically since the famed coin-flip tiebreaker episode. It was only two years ago when WLAA schools locked themselves into 17 of 20 regular season games. That was the year when the WLAA's top two teams, Plymouth Salem and Westland John Glenn, which split during the regular season (their only losses overall), were subjected to a coin flip to determine the Lakes Division champion, the winner meeting the Western Division champ, which had an inferior record, in championship.

Item No. 3: Odds and ends. Kim Linenger, the Livonia Ladywood athletic director, said the Observer misinterpreted her statement (in Monday's edition) about favoring a woman as the school's next basketball coach to replace Ken Bechard, who recently resigned.

After receiving several calls, she said her comment was taken out of context.

"It came out that I was sexist," she said. "We're not necessarily looking for a woman. We're looking for the best available candidate."

Linenger is also looking for a varsity tennis and track coach, as well as a JV basketball coach — man or woman.

Redford Bishop Borgess hopes to hire a new athletic director sometime next month before naming a head football coach. Basketball coach Mike Fusco would be well qualified for the AD's job.

It didn't bode well for the Schoolcraft College men's basketball program when the high school volleyball invitational ran overtime and delayed the start of their game for nearly 45 minutes while the main gym was being cleared. Coach Dave Bogataj, whose team has struggled through a 6-23 season, had invited some recruits to watch his game against Oakland CC.

CC icers rally, 5-4

Trailing 4-2 early in the final period, Redford Catholic Central rallied for three unanswered goals Saturday to beat Ann Arbor Pioneer, 5-4, in a Michigan Metro High School Hockey League game at the Redford Ice Arena.

With only 1:32 left in the game, Paul Pirronello notched his second goal of the game on an assist from Scott Lock to give CC the victory.

Jason Baldas scored from Pirronello at 8:02 to tie the game at 4-4.

In the first period, Pioneer's Lee Guyer scored the first of his three goals to give his team a 1-0 lead.

But CC countered with a goal by Pirronello from Keith Bozyk.

In the second period, Bozyk scored from Pirronello to give the Shamrocks a 2-1 advantage, but Guyer struck twice as Pioneer reclaimed the lead.

Pioneer then scored early in the third period to take a two-goal lead, but Lock scored from Joe Cyrek and Kris Slocum at 6:04 to cut the margin to one.

Goalie Jim Dietrich made 20 saves for the Shamrocks, now 7-6 in the Michigan Metro and 11-7-1 overall.

sports roundup

GC GRIDDERS COMMIT

Wayne State University has been given three verbal commitments from area football players, including a pair from Garden City High.

Brad Armstrong, a 6-foot-3, 185-pound All-Northwest Suburban League quarterback, who threw for over 900 yards, announced last week that he will play for the Tartars along with teammate Brett Slotka, a second-team All-League defensive back. They will be joined by Redford Bishop Borgess full-back Mario Araquell.

Meanwhile, Garden City wide receiver Ray Sells, who had over 600 yards in receptions, has been accepted by Olivet College.

LIVONIA BOXER WINS

Highland Park's Kermit Fitzpatrick, a 26-year-old state trooper and member of the Livonia Boxing Club, scored a unanimous decision over Flint's Jonathan Little in the state Amateur Boxing Federation Tournament recently in Bay City.

The victory, Fitzpatrick's 27th in 29 bouts, qualifies him for the AFBF Regional March 4-5 in Akron, Ohio. Teams from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Lake Erie, Pa., will compete. Winners will advance to the Nationals in late March in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Livonia Boxing Club, featuring Rob Duffanbaugh, Kevin Tripodi, Joe Arella and newcomer Mike Honsinger, will host preliminary round action in the Detroit-area Golden Gloves Tournament, beginning at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 22, at Roma Hall in Livonia, pn Schoolcraft between Middlebelt and Inkster roads. (The Nationals will be in early April in Nashville, Tenn.)

Tickets are $10 ring-side (table seat) and $6 general admission.

Cedar sculptures leave impression of beauty, protection and foreboding

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

If you told Ursula Von Rydingsvard that you felt secure and protected in the shadow of her large cedar sculptures, she'd be pleased. They're part of "Sculptural Contrasts," an exhibition at Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum through April 8.

There's something comforting about some of these large works of wood with the pale interior flesh exposed and the exterior lightly toned with graphite or washed with paint.

One exception is the three large cedar boxes with narrow openings in the top. They are intimidating in their suggestion of container-like holding places with barely room to move and no way out. Rydingsvard came from her home in New York City to supervise the installation of her four works in one of the largest galleries in the Museum.

It looked like enough lumber to build a log house except that each piece of wood is carefully numbered, shaped, marked with cuts from her circular saw, toned or painted.

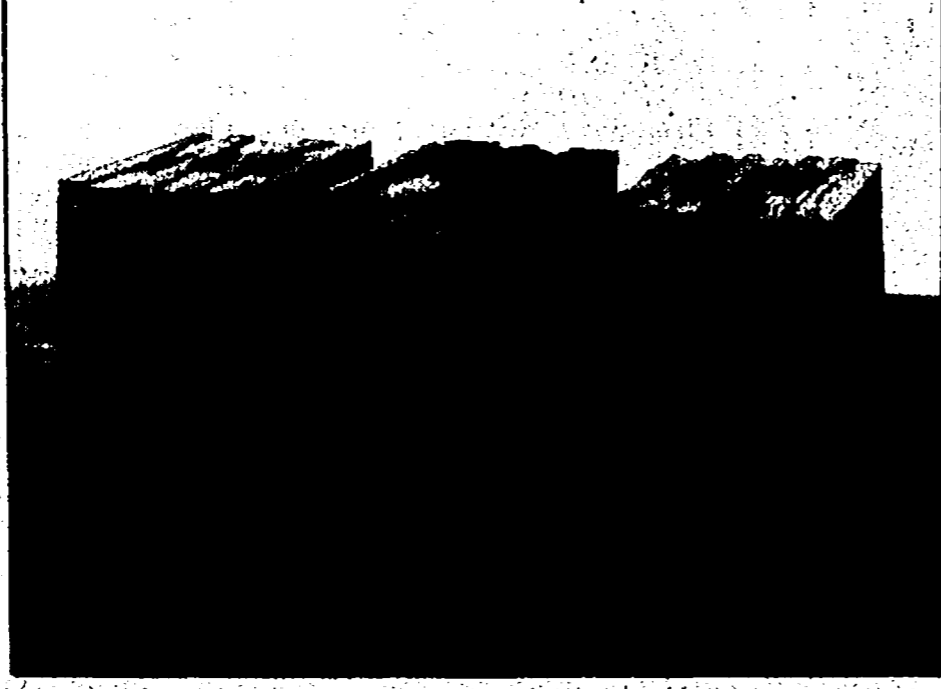

She said she likes to work with 2 by 4s which she glues together and then cuts, chisels and coaxes into becoming part of a large rugged sculpture that is reminiscent of some form or structure from the past, but not readily identifiable.

SHE WAS BORN in 1942 to a Polish farm family who were quickly swept up and forced to live in forced-labor and refugee camps in Germany. They managed to come to the United States when she was 10 and settled in Plainville, Conn., a name she said aptly described the community as she knew it.

"I come from Slavic peasant farmers for many generations," she said with an air of pride.

It's possible to draw parallels between her background and her art — the purposeful rough edges, the constant suggestions of strength and durability, the organic material, the respect for the medium, the earth colors and the sheltering, protective attitudes which some of her works have. Yet, there are those boxes — those strange, unsettling boxes.

While she comes out of a minimalist art background, her works have human relationships, they are part of a world occupied by people and this occupation is suggested in many ways.

She stood beside a long triangular, floor piece that was about to have large semisculpted and painted pieces laid on one side and some different pieces placed in corresponding positions along the other side. Each viewer brings a different point of view to this sculptural Rorschach — fortress, stockade, sod shanty or ominous line of prisoners before a firing squad.

"I have a tremendous liking for vernacular architecture — what these people needed and felt about the earth," she said.

She quickly passes through the years she studied painting at University of Miami (Coral Gables) and University of California and her first marriage to make her strongest statement, "My life began in 1973 in New York City."

THAT WAS when she went to Columbia to get her MFA and began to work as a sculptor. At first she worked with steel, but wasn't comfortable with it. Then a friend at the university found some cedar on sale and brought it to her.

The attachment was immediate. "Cedar keeps still," she said a hand resting on a piece of it. "The dark on the outside contrasts with the inside almost like an open wound or an open mouth. It's easy to cut. It doesn't resist. There's no grain to detract."

But why does a person so inherently linked to the land by her ancestors and so conscious of that link in her art live in New York City and have a studio in Brooklyn?

"It is extremely important that I live in the city," she said with startling intensity. I keep reacting to it — it's tough, relentless.

It is those strident, jarring city forces which move her to build the softer, wood forms. She questioned whether she would continue to work in the same way if she moved out of the city, "I need it so much."

HER LARGEST work in the exhibition, which occupies a sizeable part of one very long wall, has a long line of tall cedar stanchions against the wall which support arcs made of blocks from 2 by 4s that bow out into the room. It is massive, unrefined, captivating and strangely, almost irresistibly graceful.

She is adamant when explaining why she glues the 2 by 4s together, often into log size pieces rather than simply starting with a log in the first place.

Being able to manipulate and arrange the elements is a major reason and the most pragmatic. But there is an emotional reason as well, "I would feel impotent in the face of this wondrous thing," she said quietly.

Her works are in the collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Brooklyn Museum. She was formerly on the Yale University faculty and now teaches at the School of Visual Arts of New York. She had a National Endowment for the Arts grant in 1986-87 and a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1985.

London, Paris audiences love our orchestra

This is the last of three articles on the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's European tour by Ervin Monroe, principal flutist with the orchestra. He is consulting editor for The Flute Quarterly, president of Little Piper and is affiliated with Wayne State and Oakland universities. The Orchestra returned home Sunday and will be performing at 8 p.m. Friday at Orchestra Hall with Emmanuelle Boisvert, concertmaster, making her DSO solo debut.

Day 13, Thursday, Feb. 2 — Baggage has to be out in the halls at 9 a.m. We are flying from Munich to Hannover following a much needed day off. Our buses to the airport don't leave until 11 a.m., so many of the orchestra are gathered in the lobby chatting.

Emmanuelle Boisvert of Detroit, our new concertmaster, stops by to tell of her skiing trip on our previous day off. "It was great fun," she said, "but I do admit that some skiing was on grass and rocks because of this year's lack of snow." The Maestro had expressed some concern over the dangers with this jaunt back to the Alps, but eight members had gone anyway.

At this point I begin teasing Emmanuelle about the crowd reaction when she appears on stage at the beginning of each concert. "The Swiss audience was a little surprised, but the Austrian and German audiences are really stunned," she admits.

I relate a conversation I had in Germany with three ushers during the intermission of the Munich concert. The ladies wanted to know more about Emmanuelle and were very impressed when they learned she was just 25 years of age.

"This can never happen in Germany," one of the excited young ladies told me. I explained our behind-the-screen audition policy and pointed out that everyone has a chance for the job. "Grossartig!" they all said, which means splendid, wonderful. At the end of my story I chided Emmanuelle for possibly starting a militant women's movement in Bavaria. She laughed and departed with a rather proud, smug grin.

I am still waiting to be joined for breakfast by a Hungarian flutist and longtime friend who lives in Munich. John Thurmond, cellist, of Ferndale, stops by to inform me that he spent most of his day-off recovering from the mysterious clear liquid (in the unmarked bottle) that was being passed around by our German musician's friends at the reception following the previous concert.

"I've got a name for that stuff," he growls. "Liquid German Shepherd. If we ever see that schnapps at another reception, let's call in a stunt man to do our drinking."

My flute-playing friend arrives and informs me he has just read a rave review of our concert in the largest paper in southern Germany, the Sueddeutsche Zeitung. "It is unusually fine," he says.

Our flight to Hannover is uneventful and the concert is similar. The hall here is unchanged from its appearance in 1979. It is circular and is decorated in dark blue with big marble columns rising from the second level. It appears like an elegant but very small hockey rink and we are the skaters. Even the applause doesn't carry in this hall, but the audience reponds enthusiastically to our playing, perhaps a bit more than they did to our performance here 10 years ago.

Important concert ahead

Day 14, Friday, Feb. 3, 8:30 a.m. Luggage call, 10:10 a.m. buses to the train station. The routine is awful. Some musicians can be heard moaning and bleating every time we form a line now. Nevertheless, our schedules go like clockwork, very smoothly.

This is an exciting day and a very important concert. We are going to Hamburg, the key industrial city in Germany. Not only is this city the home of many of Germany's most distinguished citizens, it is reputed to have an excellent concert hall.

Our arrival is on time and our dreams of having good weather quickly vanish. We've hardly seen the sun on the entire trip, except when flying. The city is pretty though, built around a large and small lake separated by several bridges. Susan and I take a nice stroll along the water. There are many parks here.

The concert hall is simply called Tonhalle, like the one where we played in Zurich. (That now seems like ages ago.) It is all that it is reported to be and perhaps more, not overly ornate, but quite attractive. It is built on the most classic of lines, twice as long as it is wide, stage as part of the rectangular and composition of wood and plaster. It sounds great and so does the orchestra.

Our concert here is one of the best I can recall in my 21 years with the symphony. It is a great feeling and one senses that the orchestra has really become a cohesive unit as we approach the truly big concerts of the tour.

The audience response is overwhelming and one young man in the right balcony waited until the applause was over to stand up and yell, "Go Tigers!" Those of us still on stage gestured "yeah" and the departing audience started clapping again.

That night we went to eat and drink at a little pub near the hotel. The owner had agreed to hold the kitchen open for us following the concert and a large group of musicians stopped by.

As the evening progressed, a gentleman who was setting with a lady near our table called me over. He had heard me speaking German with the owner and inquired who we were. Upon learning we were with the Detroit Symphony he became most excited.

"I have several of your records" he explained, "and they are wonderful." He insisted on buying me a drink and I joined him and his lady friend at their table. He apparently was Czechoslovakian and was returning home from a business trip.

"Do you live nearby," I asked and a round of confusing explanations was forthcoming. I skirted the issue and complimented the lady on the beautiful bouquet of flowers sitting on the seat next to her.

"They're for his wife," sighed the lady, "you obviously have figured out we're not married."

"So I have," I replied. At this point Hart Holmann, violist, of Birmingham was preparing to take a photo of our group seated behind us. When the flash went off, the Czechoslovakian Casanova leaped several feet off his chair. "It's okay!" I explained, but he quickly ran over to pay his bill while his lady friend checked.

Day 15, Saturday, Feb. 4 — Hamburg, a free day.

The concert management has arranged the tour nicely. As the final week approaches we have more free days to rest and it is needed. There are more flying days now and these travel days are more strenuous and demanding than the short train trips.

Young artists join symphony in concert

Winners of the 11th annual Young Artists Competition, sponsored by the Livonia Symphony, will appear in concert with the orchestra at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 26, in Clarenceville's Schmidt Auditorium.

Three of the winners are University of Michigan School of Music students; the vocal winner, a Detroit native, studies at Oberlin College.

Also featured at the concert, under the baton of Francesco DiBlasi, will be an orchestral reading of Felix Mendelssohn's Fifth Symphony, the Reformation.

First prize winner, Joseph Gramley, 18, will perform the Concertino for Marimba and Orchestra by Paul Creston. A student of Michael Udow and Salvatore Rabbio, Gramley will be presented $400.

Howard Watkins, 24, to be awarded the $400 second prize, will perform the Concerto for Piano and Orchestra No. 2 in A Major by Franz Liszt.

Twenty-one-year-old Eileen Burke, winner of the $200 third prize, will play the Concerto in a minor for Oboe and Strings by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

THE NELDA DIBIASI Memorial Vocal Award will be presented to Gregory A. Robinson, 21, who will sing works by Haydn, Donizetti and Mozart. His award is an anonymous gift to the competition.

Judging the competition in January at Madonna College and which drew 25 contestants were Derek Anthony, director of the vocal division, Wayne State University School of Fine and Performing Arts; Victoria Haltom, principal second violinist with the Michigan Opera Company, for 13 years a member of the New Orleans Symphony and formerly concertmaster of the Oakway Symphony, now Livonia Symphony; and Donald Morelock, chairmah of the piano department at Schoolcraft College, Livonia, private teacher and named by his colleagues in recent years as Michigan Piano Teacher of the Year.

Presentation of awards at the concert will be made by Anthony.

Tickets for the concert are priced at $8.50 for adults and $5 for students and seniors. Ticket information is available from Connie Maglia at 353-9128. Schmidt Auditorium is located on Middlebelt, between Seven and Eight Mile roads, in Livonia.

Cabaret coming

Livonia Symphony's Cabaret Concert will be held at Madonna College, Livonia at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 4 in the activities center.

Tickets are $10, with a discount for advance purchase of full tables of eight ($72) or 10 ($90). For more information, call 591-5046.

Miniature classes start

Winter classes at Miniature Makers' Workshop, 4515 N. Woodward, Royal Oak, begin the last week of February and continue through May. Eight new classes are offered as well as 11 others of interest to the miniaturist. Registration is now in progress.

Some of the new offerings include "Carousel Horse" with instructor Judy Shellhaas. In this class the student will learn to hand carve the carousel horse. This is the first in a series of 1/12 inch scale reproduction carousel animals.

"Tiny Dolls," a one-day workshop taught by Iris Longo, is new. These dolls are about an inch high and are dressed as twins. A class with a different approach is "Working with Fimo," instructor Betale Robinson. Students will learn techniques in bleeding and modeling objects with Fimo, a colored clay product that can be baked in a home oven. For information, call 549-0633. The shop is on Woodward two blocks south of 14 Mile, Royal Oak.

Maestro throws a party

Maestro Herbig is graciously throwing a party this evening on a rebuilt schooner in the city's harbor. It is now used as a restaurant during the day and reserved for private parties in the evening. The orchestra members all plan to attend though I do bump into Bob Pangborn, principal percussionist of Bloomfield Hills and his wife Brenda who are going ahead to our next stop, Dusseldorf.

"We've been invited by a friend to a fasching ball" she said (these are seasonal costume balls held this time of year). "I'm going as Steve Yzerman and Bob's going as a Tiger. Everyone spends the day shopping in anticipation of the evening's festivities."

The dinner aboard ship is delightful. The harbor is immense, huge ocean going ships are everywhere and our cozy little schooner is neat and cheerful. Some speeches are made and members of our travel committee, Max Janowsky, bassist of Huntington Woods, and Sal Rabio, tympanist of Farmington, have arranged to present gift purchased by the orchestra to tour managers.

Day 16, Feb. 5, - 8 a.m. luggage collection, 9:10 a.m. departure for the train station. Destination Dusseldorf.

Linden Sneed Smith, violinist of Farmington Hills, is striking in appearance this morning as she is wearing two hats and two coats. "I've bought so much on this trip I've run out of room in my luggage," she explains. "Don't you think you'll be over-dressed in Madrid?" I ask.

The hotel in Dusseldorf is a fine one, but out in the middle of nowhere. Susan and I take a long walk and finally find a little pub on the other side of the expressway behind our hotel people are celebrating fasching and invite us. "No thanks," we reply, "but will you be open late tonight?" When they ask how many there will be, I promise at least 12. "Reseviert" comes the answer.

The hall in Dusseldorf is a remodeled planetarium. It is quite modern in appearance with suspended walkways and glass walls. Sitting on stage is a little like being suspended inside a football. I point this fact out to Doug Cornelsen, clarinetist of Livonia.

We have already been joking all day about the excessive amount of pork the Germans consume and how we are ready for a change of menu. Doug says to me, "No Ervin, if this were the inside of a football it would be pigskin and would already have been eaten. That's why they only play soccer in this country, they've eaten all the footballs." The concert is good but Hamburg is going to be hard to match. The level is now consistently high.

Susan and I walk to the pub after the concert and it is further away than I recall. I find myself hoping other orchestra members show up, but my worries are unfounded. We walk through the door into one of the wildest parties I have ever witnessed.

The locals are all in costume and dancing non-stop. Jim Waring, violinist of Huntington Woods, his wife Kathy, Stephen Molina, bassist and assistant personnel manager of Detroit are already seated at a long table reserved for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Tom Gulick, a new member of our management team and numerous other members of the orchestra soon arrive.

Waltzes, polkas, and even a dance strangely resembling the bunny hop shortly ensue. The local Germans won't let us sit for any length of time and shyness isn't tolerated. Even Tom, our management representative on this special occasion, led a long line of enthusiastic dancers through a maze of tables around the entire dining room in a burst of wild dances. "I never danced the polka before," confessed Tom. "Neither did I!" I replied "but we both did great!"

Day 17, Monday, Feb. 6 - 9 a.m. luggage collection, 11 a.m. depart to the airport. We are going to Berlin. Tonight is an important concert indeed. Berlin is the home of one of the truly great orchestras and one of the finest modern-designed halls.

The travel isn't easy. When we arrive at 1 p.m. there are three buses to take us to the hotel. We chose the third, the one that won't start. After calling individual cabs we finally are on our way. After a brief nap we are on our way to the hall for a short rehearsal.

The orchestra rises to the occasion and plays its heart out and the audience is very receptive. After the concert Eugene Wade, principal hornist of Birmingham, is greeted by Fergus McWilliam, who was a member of our orchestra when we played here in 1979. Fergus is now a hornist with the Berlin Philharmonic and invites everyone over for a most pleasurable visit.

Upon return to the hotel I am greatly tempted by the minibar. These are little refrigerators in each room stocked with beer, liquor, pop, juice and nuts. On the '79 tour some musicians mistakenly thought these items were complimentary and paid dearly for their misconception. The "old-timers" had already warned "newcomers" on the flight over, so no disasters (such as the $340 tab run up by one musician in Paris on the last tour) have occurred.

Nevertheless these little tempters get you sooner or later. I broke down late at night in Vienna and railed my minibar for the smallest Pepsi Cola I have ever seen in my life. It cost me $4.50. Ray Turner, trombonist, and John Thurmond also dropped a hundred dollars for a small hotel "get-together" after the concert in Zurich.

'Let's Talk' again

"Let's Talk About It," the book discussion group hosted by the Carl Sandburg branch of the Livonia Public Library, will focus on images of romantic love in sessions that begin in March.

A schedule of books to be discussed follows: "Madame Bovary," Tuesday, March 7; "End of the Affair," Wednesday, March 22; "Morgan's Passing," Tuesday, April 4; "A Mother and Two Daughters," Tuesday, April 18; and "French Lieutenant's Woman," Tuesday, May 2.

Discussion leaders, respectively, will be: Dorothy Lee, University of Michigan-Dearborn; Barbara Johns, Marygrove College; Kaye Hughes, Marian High School; Marie Flebig, Ford Motor Co.; and Melita Schaum, University of Michigan-Dearborn.

A 30-minute talk by the discussion leader will be followed by a group discussion. Refreshments will be served at the close of the session. Specially reserved copies of the novels can be obtained at Sandburg branch library, 30100 Seven Mile Road. For more information, call 476-0700.

Color works in mysterious ways

FILM IS a photographic "miracle" we take for granted. Most of us who have been using color film for years probably haven't given much thought as to how it really works.

Color film contains three separate layers of light-sensitive emulsion that create an image according to the intensity of light falling on them during the brief instant of exposure.

One layer is sensitive only to red light, one to green and the other to blue. At a particular stage in the development of the film, the image is died to the appropriate shade in each layer to reproduce the full range of colors in the original subject.

THERE ARE two basic types of color film — transparency (slides) and negative (prints).

A negative film records light areas in the original scene as dark tones and dark areas as light tones. Colors are shown in reverse so that anything blue will appear as a mixture of red and green, which is yellow. Anything green will record as a mixture of red and blue called magenta and anything red as a combination of green and blue, which is cyan.

These are the complementary colors. To make a print, the negative must then be exposed again to similar emulsion on a paper base to convert the colors and tones back to those of the original subject.

With a color transparency, all of this process takes place when the film is developed.

MODERN TECHNOLOGY has made color films sensitive to even the slightest changes in the color quality of light. But we tend to notice only the drastic changes in light quality because the brain makes adjustments for what we see.

For example, grass will almost always appear to be green regardless of the color of light used to illuminate it, simply because we "know" that grass is green.

We are rarely aware of color changes in daylight, yet it varies as surely as the sun rises and sets and these variations are faithfully recorded on film. This accounts for the many surprises, and sometimes disappointments, when you see your processed prints for the first time.

The color quality of light is measured on what is called the Kelvin scale and is recorded as a color "temperature." Most daylight-balanced films are designed to give a correct color balance when the light source is about 6,000 degrees Kelvin or approximately a noon sun.

However, light from a rising sun can be as low as 3,500 or as high as 8,000 on a hazy day. When you consider that a variation of only a few hundred degrees will be quite noticeable when recorded on film, it becomes easy to understand how a photograph can appear with different tones of color than you thought you saw.

It also explains how sunset and sunrise pictures have color values unlike those shots lit by a noontime sun.

While reproduced here in black and white, late afternoon light produced subtleties and tones not obtainable under a noontime sun. Monte Nagler made this photograph near Valdez, Alaska.

DSO tour winds down

Day 18, Tuesday, Feb. 7 — Berlin to Madrid. 8 a.m. luggage, 10 a.m. depart for the hotel. It's a travel day and everyone is cheerful after last night's successful concert. Deborah Borden, our executive director, has catered a big party at the hotel and the sangria and food are delightful.

The party continues later at the hotel lounge where Phillip Kennedy, one of our stage hands, and I join the local Spanish pianist in a heavy blues number playing harmonica and flute respectively. The next day is a pleasant one and the old town is charming. We have been warned by our travel guides to watch for thieves and pickpockets, but several people are victimized anyway.

Faye Ann Reznick, wife of Felix Reznick, violinist from Huntington Woods, complains to me that the Europeans are all chauvinistic. She and Felix had both cashed travelers checks of identical amounts simultaneously. The banker gave all the money to Felix. When she glared at him, he smiled and slid half of the amount of her check out of Felix's pile in her direction.

The hall here is new and slightly resembles the hall in Berlin with floating balconies at numerous angles. The orchestra is on a terror now and nothing seems to stop fine concerts from happening. The Spanish crowd is very demonstrative and gets lots of encores, something which has become standard to us now, we give it no thought.

Tour winds down

Day 20, Thursday, Feb. 9 — We are up at the usual early hour as we are winding our Eurotour to a close. Today our destination is Paris. There are only two concerts to go.

Susan and I decide to eat out of the hotel and encounter our librarian, Honon Yoffe, of Birmingham, who is also in search of breakfast. "Do you speak Spanish Ervin," he asks me in his charming Estonian accent. "No" I reply, we'll just do the best we can.

We select a small restaurant and are preparing to order when Tanny

Gurin, trombonist of Huntington Woods, and Joe Goldman, violinist of Berkley, arrive. Not one of us can read a word on the menu other than coffee. "I've got to have eggs for breakfast" says Honon rolling his R's as usual. "Act like a chicken" suggests Tanny, "the waiter will get it."

Our librarian did just that, clucking away and waving his elbows at the waiter. The Spaniard spews out a few words of agreement and smiles. When the waiter gets to me I just point at the hen. "You should wait and see what I get first!" jokes Hanon. We each get two fried eggs.

Later Tanny remarked that he was publishing an unabridged dictionary of food gestures, but when we arrive in Paris, Hanon informs me he can now act out an entire menu.

Paris is always impressive. Our arrival is really special. The sun is shining brightly for the first time on our trip. Orchestra members joke while we wait for customs to clear our buses and one conversation drifts toward the subject of food.

The concert went very well although we had to start the second half twice. The performance was being broadcast live, and a loudspeaker accidentally blared out after we started the Brahms Second Symphony. Maestro Herbig left the stage and came back shortly to start again. The crowd loved it and once again we played three encores. It was a wonderful feeling to be closing out the tour in such style.

The tour will end with one more concert in London and we will finally be going home. We are all feeling very proud of our orchestra, proud of our city and state and just plain happy to be going back to the good old U.S. of A.

Wildlife art festival

The 1989 Michigan Wildlife Art Festival will hold its sixth annual show Friday-Sunday, March 17-19, at the Southfield Civic Center and the Southfield Hotel and Conference Center (formerly the Southfield Hilton).

Two new exhibits will be featured this year. They are Wildlife Miniatures '89, consisting of small, affordable original art by nationally and internationally known artists, and the Outdoor Writers Association of America photo contest winners.

The festival, the Midwest's largest, is co-sponsored by the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation and the city of Southfield. Proceeds benefit the exceptional programs of the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation.

THE ENTIRE Civic Center, devoted to the canvas art work of 55 of the nation's foremost wildlife painters, will feature hundreds of examples of the finest wildlife paintings, scratchboard, limited edition prints and other works.

This year's featured artist, Marian Anderson of Mankato, Minn., will display her art at the Civic Center. A silent auction and the Wildlife Art News' People's Choice Award will also be presented at the Civic Center.

At the same time, the Hotel and Conference Center will focus on 25 internationally-acclaimed artists who are in Michigan by special invitation to display their varied works, including carvings, photography, taxidermy and sculpture.

Updating a kitchen

A FRIEND asked me to join her on a visit to the studio of artist Robert Schefman. What an exciting visit. Schefman is a native of this area, returning after 15 years of residence in New York.

Several residents of this area were fortunate in being able to commission him for outdoor sculptures for their residences. Wayne University has one of his sculptures on their campus.

Schefman has exhibited in many prestigious galleries in New York. His one-man shows include the Turkish Mission to the United Nations, U.N. Plaza, New York; Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa; Sculpture for the Ancient Gates of Troy, Troy, Turkey. He has designed theater sets for "The Dark Ride" and "Trapped in Queens."

Schefman's larger-than-life paintings leave you breathless. The Cantor/Lemberg Gallery in Birmingham will be representing him. A visit to this gallery is a must.

A READER WRITES: How can I update my kitchen without going into considerable expense?

Try changing the counter and back splash in your kitchen. There are a number of interesting mica you might like to consider. Use the brushed stainless or chrome finish on both counter and back splash. Always remember to carry the mica all the way up to meet the bottom of the cupboard.

A bone or almond counter top will work well with the mica in antique copper or pewter. The back splash in tiles of fruits and vegetables is a charming look to consider.

'Cleo's In spotlight

Once again in the spotlight, history's famed queen of Egypt, Cleopatra, will be the subject of a slide presentation, open to the public, presented at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 23, in the Liberal Arts Theater at Schoolcraft College. The slide presentation coincides with the Detroit Institute of Arts exhibit, which opened this week. There is no admission charge for the Schoolcraft event, sponsored by the college's Committee to Promote the Arts.

 Aldingbrooke - West Bloomfield's premier rental community - has always attracted its own special flock. Our magnificent estate-like grounds are home to a collection of geese and swans. And to many of metropolitan Detroit's most discerning individuals and families. Set in a gated community, residents appreciate Aldingbrooke's world of privacy and custom options, with all the services they've come to expect from a luxury apartment community. Residences up to 2800 square feet include such desirable features as private entryways, split-level or ranch-style designs, dens, breakfast rooms, cathedral ceilings, fireplaces and attached garages. All for much less than you'd expect to pay for such luxury. From $650 to $1650 per month. Whatever your mind can imagine in luxurious living, you can discover on your first visit to Aldingbrooke. It is indeed rare and beautiful.

The Green Hill difference:

Do you come home to an apartment or a 75-acre estate?

Most apartment living measures 600+ sq. ft. Ours measures over 3,000,000 sq. ft. Green Hill residents enjoy a gorgeous 75-acre estate setting of park and woodland, peace and tranquility. You're right next door to the I-275 corridor, Michigan's multi-billion dollar explosive growth area and just minutes away from I-96, a direct route to downtown Detroit. See our 1- and 2-bedroom luxury apartments, terrace residences and country townhouses on 9 Mile, 1 1/2 miles west of Farmington Road in Farmington Hills.

The peace of mind of a round-the-clock manned gatehouse and electronic door entries are only part of Muirwood's abundance.

There's so much light, so many windows, so much room. Windows and eating space in most kitchens. A private balcony or patio. Beautiful window treatments. Lots of storage, huge closets. Covered attached parking.

Then, there's the incredibly large pool with spa. The lighted tennis and volleyball courts. Spectacular Clubhouse with party facilities and a lending library. A private 12-acre nature trail. A pond and rolling hills.

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two-bedroom ranch). With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."
