Man faces 1st-degree charges for shooting

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

A Westland man will stand trial on first-degree murder charges for shooting the man who fired him from his job.

Robert Michael Zeilin, 47, was bound over for trial Monday by 18th District Judge Thomas Smith, who refused a motion by Zeilin's defense attorney to reduce the charges to second-degree murder or manslaughter.

"It was a terrible tragedy but I feel strongly that there really wasn't enough evidence presented today to prove premeditation," said attorney Robert W. Plumpe.

Zeilin was returned to the Wayne County Jail without bond, where he will await arraignment in Wayne County Circuit Court Monday, May 15.

He has pleaded innocent to one count of first-degree murder and one count of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony for the April 22 fatal shooting of Michael LaDuke, 40, of Harrison Township.

LaDuke, branch operation manager for Ziebart Rustproofing Inc., was gunned down as he ran from the Ziebart store on Ford at Venoy, the Garden City-Westland boundary.

Jacquelline Proctor testified that she saw the shooting from a passing car.

'Just cause' eviction law boon for residents

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

A state law requiring "just cause" for eviction is good news for some 2,000 mobile home residents in Westland.

Public Act 336, which went into effect Monday, requires mobile home park landlords provide a reason for eviction at the request of the tenant. It also spells out what the state considers as "just cause" for eviction from a park.

Under the old legislation, which was similar to laws governing apartment complexes, landlords weren't required to state the reason for eviction.

"Difficulties reported by mobile home owners facing eviction prompted the new law, said state Sen. Nelson Saunders, D-Detroit, who sponsored the legislation last fall. State Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, was a co-sponsor.

"Living in a mobile home isn't like living in an apartment where you can just pick up and leave," Saunders said Monday.

Because mobile home dwellers usually own their home and rent a lot, they've got to find a new park in a short amount of time if evicted, or else sell their home, "usually at a big loss," Saunders said.

"MOST PARKS are filled up and it (moving) isn't something you're going to be able to do in 30 days," he said.

The major reason for eviction from a park is for non-payment of rent, an official at Westland Meadows, the city's largest park, said Monday.

An informal survey of Westland Meadows residents revealed most didn't know about the new law but were glad to find out about it.

"I think it's great," said Tom Brayman, who has lived in Westland Meadows for 3 1/2 years. "I've known people who don't get along with their landlords and then, all of a sudden, they get an eviction notice.

"That's not fair." Brayman said it would cost him about $4,000 if he had to move his $40,000 double-width home to a new location.

Pam Lewis, who has lived in the park for about a year with her roommate, said the law should help fight discrimination against minorities.

Another resident, who asked not to be identified, said it will prevent park owners from changing residency requirements after tenants have already moved in, something she said she encountered before coming to the 650-lot park along the city's southeast boundary.

OTHER PARKS in Westland are the West Point Park, off Inkster Road, with 133 lots and the Mohawk Mobile Home Court, off Joy, with 112.

There are 1,035 parks with 128,648 lots in Michigan, according to the Michigan Manufactured Housing and Recreational Vehicle Campground Association.

The association supported the new law as a way to "provide better relations between park owners and tenants," said Tim DeWitt, executive director.

Portable justice Law Day '89 brings judge to Glenn High

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

It's 9 a.m. Tuesday in the John Glenn High School Auditorium.

The cases we (a reporter and approximately 250 high school seniors) are about to hear are real.

The names of the plaintiffs and defendants are genuine.

The Honorable Thomas G. Smith, 18th District Judge, settles into his leather chair (placed atop a table on the auditorium stage) and taps his gavel.

Court — and Law Day 1989 — are in session.

John Glenn students got a first-hand look at the justice system this week as the 18th District Court moved — lock, stock and gavel — to the high school for the annual Law Day program.

It marked the second consecutive year that students watched as judge, prosecuting and defense attorneys, court personnel and witnesses worked their way through an actual court docket.

Sessions were held at 9 and 10 a.m., giving approximately 500 social studies, political science and business students a chance to see the court in action.

REACTION WAS mixed among some of the students who attended the first session.

"I think I'm less confused now about the way things work," Ron Case said. "There's really an order to it."

But Cheryl Katchmeric said court procedures were still hard to understand, despite explanatory class assignments preceding the program.

"I didn't know some of the words they (the judge and attorneys) were using," Katchmeric said.

The judge took time to explain legal terms during the session, though. He gave short definitions for "arraignment" and "pretrial examination," and explained the court's voluntary probation program, as they came up in the course of the proceedings.

TUESDAY'S DOCKET was a mixture of criminal cases and civil actions.

Students listened while Smith dealt with people charged with driving while intoxicated, loitering where drugs are sold, shoplifting, assault and battery and other cases that make up a typical day in district court.

During the small claims portion of the docket, Smith drew a collective laugh from the crowd by telling students, "This is where Judge Wapner (the judge from the "People's Court" TV show) would probably go back into his office."

HE ALSO offered a message to litigants and students when he cautioned those before him: "When you take your case to small claims, you're stuck with my decision whether you like it or not."

Douglas Craig, a defense attorney, conceded that his client (charged with drunk driving) "probably isn't thrilled about pleading his case in front of this audience."

But the program was a good op-

Closed hearing set in gun-selling case

A closed hearing has been set for Tuesday, May 9, to discuss the fate of three Adams Junior High School boys suspended since a March 9 gun-selling incident.

School administrators and Wayne-Westland school board members will meet with the students and their parents. Following the meeting, Superintendent Dennis O'Neill will make a recommendation to the board.

The students, two 15-year-olds and one 14-year-old, face possible expulsion from the district or other penalties.

The two 15-year-olds are awaiting a juvenile court hearing on charges of carrying a concealed weapon.

According to police, one of the 15-year-olds took his grandfather's .38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver and sold it to the other for $100.

Adams Principal Ronald Stratton told police he received information March 9 that the gun was being stored along with two bullets in a duffle bag in the 14-year-old's locker.

The 14-year-old told police he agreed to keep the duffle bag in his locker, but didn't know there was a gun inside.

The suspensions marked the second time in less than a year that a Wayne-Westland junior high student had brought a gun to school.

Last April, a Franklin Junior High School student brought an unloaded gun to school to "scare" classmates who were bullying him, he said at the time.

The boy and another youngster who hid the gun in his locker were suspended and later expelled from the school district.

Judge Thomas G. Smith holds court in unfamiliar surroundings — the John Glenn High School auditorium.

Man faces 1st-degree charges for shooting

IF CONVICTED of the charges, Zellin faces a maximum sentence of life in prison.

A Ziebart executive testified during Monday's preliminary exam that LaDuke had planned to fire Zellin, the Westland store manager, April 24, but after two telephone conversations they moved up the dismissal by two days.

"We felt it wasn't appropriate to wait so we decided to do it at the end of business on Saturday (April 22), said James Bender, Ziebart vice president of branch operations.

Zellin had been with the company since last November, Bender testified. He said the defendant's work record revealed "a number of problems," but didn't elaborate.

Other witnesses who testified during the half-hour exam included a passenger in a passing car and Mark Relich, an off-duty Garden City police officer who arrested Zellin seconds after the shooting.

The passenger, Jacqueline Proctor, told the court she was a front seat passenger in a car stopped on westbound Ford at Venoy about 2:30 p.m. when she saw a man in front of the Ziebart shop pull a shotgun out of the trunk of a white car.

PROCTOR SAID she saw the man with the gun following another man through the Ziebart parking lot and onto Venoy as her car pulled away from the light.

"I heard a loud bang and (a few seconds later) the man without the gun lurched forward," she testified.

Relich told the court he was driving to work southbound on Venoy when the shooting unfolded in front of him.

He identified Zellin as the man carrying the shotgun and said the victim began to run from Zellin as the two reached the street. He said Zellin, who was carrying the shotgun on his hip, fired once and that the victim's sweater "turned from blue to dark red" as he stumbled to the ground.

The victim got up and continued across the street as Zellin fired a second time, Relich testified.

The victim collapsed a final time just after reaching the curb on the east side of Venoy, Relich said.

RELICH SAID said he got out of his vehicle, pulled his gun, identified himself as a police officer and ordered the defendant to drop his weapon. The defendant swung the shotgun around and pointed it at him, but dropped it after being ordered to a second time, Relich said.

A report by the Wayne County Medical Examiner cited as evidence in Monday's exam said LaDuke died of multiple gunshot wounds to the upper back, neck and right shoulder.

cop calls

A CANTON TOWNSHIP man reported that someone tried to lure him and sons into a pickup truck in the Holliday Park Nature Preserve early Sunday afternoon, Westland police said.

The Canton man, 41, reported that a white man, about 50 years old, with gray hair and thick, dark-rimmed glasses and dressed in a green Army jacket and faded jeans, approached him and his sons while the youngsters were using their BB guns.

Reports say he identified himself as a "park ranger" and announced the man and sons were being arrested for littering and using BB guns. The "ranger" ordered the father and sons to accompany him to a truck.

The father refused, demanding that the "ranger" produce identification.

The man said he had the identification in his truck. The "ranger" then went to his truck and drove off, the Canton man said.

WESTLAND police said they intend to prosecute a 20-year-old Inkster man for making a false police report.

Officers said they received a telephone call from the man at a McDonald's drive-in on Merriman near Van Born. The caller claimed that there were two men, one with a shotgun and another with a handgun, shooting at each other.

Patrol cars from the neighboring Wayne and Romulus police departments also responded to the McDonald's before they realized that the shooting incident had never happened.

A WESTLAND man told police that he is being threatened by a Detroit woman he had helped financially.

After he had stopped helping her, the woman kept asking him for money, the man told police.

The woman said she would come back with male friends to damage his home if the money isn't given to her, according to the man.

The man told police he wants to prosecute the woman.

portunity for teenagers to learn about the courts, Craig said.

Smith's sentence for a young man who pleaded no contest to a driving while impaired charge drew criticism as being too lenient from some students.

"I couldn't believe what he got (probation and a restricted license)," Brian Kimble said. "He didn't have any insurance and he could have killed the other guy."

"I think he (the defendant) would have learned more from some time in jail," Vanessa Cashero said.

Bill to track gems approved

A bill to help police agencies track down stolen gems or precious metals unanimously passed the Michigan House April 27, announced the sponsor, state Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills.

House Bill 4105 will require gem dealers to hold the items nine days before selling, instead of the current seven days. The bill now moves to the Senate.

"The extra two days will allow local police agencies additional time to check whether the gems have been reported stolen," said Dolan, whose district includes Bingham Farms, Franklin and Beverly Hills.

"The bill also allows any police agency access to fingerprints taken at the time of the sale of the gems or minerals. As it now stands, only the police departments where the sale takes place have a legal right to the fingerprints."

In addition, the legislation requires a fourth copy of the transaction.

"One copy must go to the dealer, one to the seller and one to the police agency where the sale is being held," Dolan said.

Derby tops

Scouts carve winning car designs

SLEEK, aerodynamic shapes, squealing tires, the roar of the crowd and the checkered flag. The air at Schweitzer School last week took on a faint hint of the old brickyard at Indianapolis. The annual Pinewood Derby held by Cub Scout Pack 878 always seems to have that effect. The derby, which this year drew 42 participants, is a spinoff of the soap box derbies of the past, said Cubmaster Nick Zook.

Each contestant fashions a car from a block of wood and a kit — and his imagination. "We get some really wild designs — everything from your basic block on four wheels to streamlined beauties," Zook said.

The young engineers have been known to look to parents for help, he admitted. This year's race winner was Kip Boberty, with Robbie Mills taking the consolation race.

Brandon Molitor won the award for best design, Nicholas Zuk had the best looking car and Kevin Davison won the prize for best workmanship.

Prizes were donated by the McDonald's restaurant on Wayne Road at Palmer, Wild Bill's Party Store in Wayne and Cotton Pickers T-Shirts, Wayne.

Family members and friends came out to cheer the contestants.

Reassurances issued for lawn chemicals

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

A national consumer rights group is raising questions about the safety of chemicals used to spray lawns, but there also are questions about how much justification there is for concern, according to a cooperative extension agent.

"My opinion is that the materials are well tested before they have come on the market," said Greg Patchan of the Oakland cooperative extension service.

"Some of these products have been used for many years without recorded problems. Some people take a small point and make it major documentation."

Earlier this week, Public Citizen issued a compilation of studies examining 40 chemicals widely used by lawn care professionals.

Many of the products also are available for retail purchase, including brands such as Dursban, Sevin, Spectricide and Trimec.

THE HEALTH hazards alleged about the products include birth defects, nerve damage, liver damage and carcinogens.

When products are found to have no significant problems, Patchan said, the next question becomes how significant will be defined.

"You can never say there is no risk, but there has been minimal problems. If you take the approach that all chemicals should be banned, you wouldn't be able to afford the price. You would be talking about gasoline and perfume. All these things contain chemicals."

While lawn care professionals are trained and knowledgeable about handling the chemicals, Patchan said homeowners may misread or ignore product instructions.

THE CONCERNS about lawn chemicals is really part of the bigger questions about the use of chemical products, Patchan said.

"This is really a more complex issue. You have to weigh the benefits against the risks. How much is too much becomes the question."

The decision on whether certain products are more harmful than beneficial is based on current knowledge, Patchan said, which can change in the future.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency last year established a task force to examine lawn care chemicals and determine whether specific guidelines are warranted.

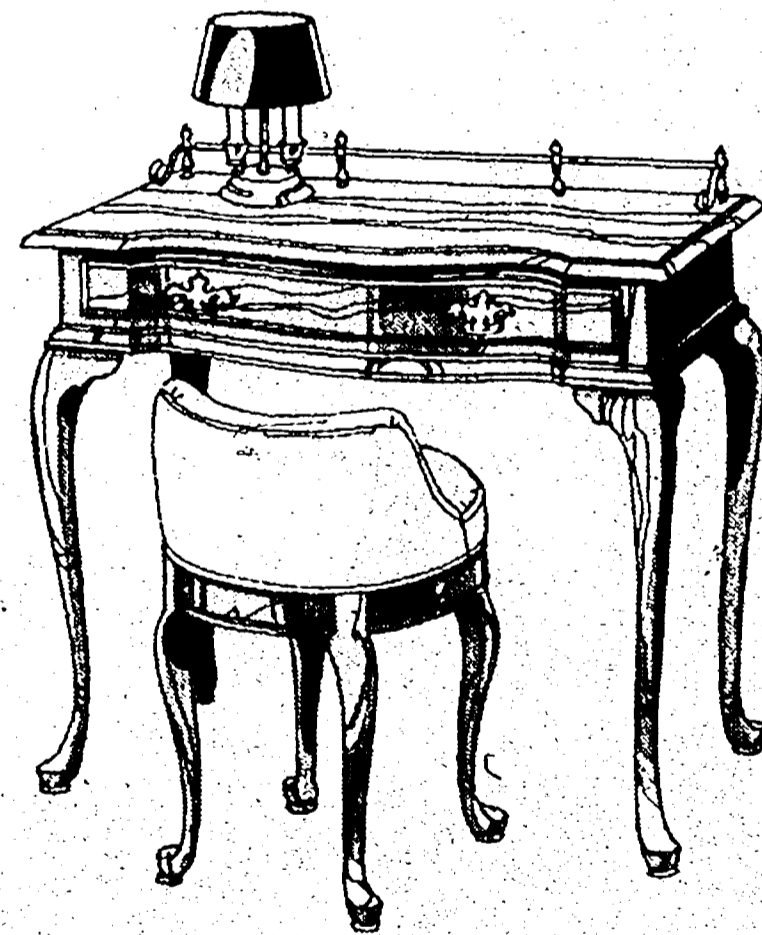

Exposure to the lawn care chemicals would most likely occur by inhaling the spray or touching sprayed grass.

Cable amateurs act like pros

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

Morning TV viewers can watch Jane and Bryant or Charles and Joan — but few get to watch Kim and Janet and Mike, or Sally, Ralph and Mark.

If local cable TV subscribers could tune in, they would hear the latest news, weather and sports, plus a host of information on consumer topics. All with a few silly commercials tossed in. They might even recognize their neighbor giving the delivery.

These very local broadcasters are but a handful of 26 students in JuJuan Taylor's Fundamentals of Speech class at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. It's one of five sessions Taylor teaches this term.

A few times each semester, the group produces a fictional WNEW Channel 6 news program. The 90-minute show is videotaped for later critique. In addition, each student is evaluated on presentation, with Taylor scribbling notes on index cards during the live broadcast.

"I plan activities that are educational, enforce (speech) principles and are fun," Taylor said.

Ralph the weatherman hams it up like Willard Scott. Flinging his arms across a chalk drawn weathermap of the United States, he calls attention to his makeshift garbage bag raincoat (a parody of the designer fashion segment just ended). When he gives the predicted highs in the southwest, he throws off his raincoat to reveal a gaudy Hawaiian shirt.

ALTHOUGH THE cooking segment doesn't have a chef messing up a real kitchen, it has the next best thing — the finished product which this day is a sweet chocolate topped confection ready for sampling.

Because the news and information content are real, students in this class can't help but be well informed on everything from the latest-breaking national story to the best new place in town for pizza.

For many students, the class is an initiation into the world of speechmaking. Other assignments include mock court trials and children's story telling.

"In addition to just speaking, (students) have to research professionally. I'm concerned with them after they leave Schoolcraft. This promotes self confidence," Taylor said.

The news format is one way Taylor teaches her students the basic tenets of speech — to promote self confidence and poise in public speaking.

SHE ADDED it to her assignment repertoire because she feels college students don't read enough newspapers.

"Now they're reading the Observer, the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal. (Newspapers) touch every discipline, every area."

In addition to promoting self confidence, she hopes the class will help prepare students for becoming independent professionals. Among her students are a police officer, a homemaker and some aspiring teachers.

Sally Edwards of Brighton acted as news director for the news show. She was also in front of the camera as a fashion reporter and editorial commentator.

"(Taylor) is a fabulous teacher," said the liberal arts student. "The first day, we were afraid to stand up and open our mouths. She's brought so much out of everyone."

Kelly Walter of Northville is taking her first speech class. An education major who plans to transfer to Eastern Michigan University, she said the class has made her more outgoing.

"I really enjoy it," said Walter, who gave viewers a rundown of upcoming concerts in her presentation. "I wouldn't be afraid to take another speech class."

TAMMY BORZA of Redford Township is so enthusiastic about the class, she calls it "my favorite class of all time."

"I had speech classes in high school — I'm originally from Illinois — but I was never as comfortable as I am in here," said the Linda Ellerbee lookalike who gave the latest sports scores during the news program.

Lynn Goodlesky, a freshman education major under Taylor's instruction, put it thus in the campus newspaper, The Schoolcraft Connection: "After one learns proper speech techniques, it is easy to keep friends and relatives from not falling asleep and losing interest in daily conversation. Learning how to communicate is very critical."

It seems apparent that Taylor's students have learned that lesson well.

Fish warning threatens popular Rouge event

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

A new warning against eating fish caught in the Rouge River could force the Wayne County Parks to cancel one of its most popular events.

The parks' annual fishing derby, scheduled for Sept. 9, will be canceled unless the warning is lifted.

The event had tentatively been moved from Newburgh Lake to Wilcox Lake due to the warning against eating downstream fish, though both lakes are included in the warning.

"We wanted to move it upstream, thinking that would be safer but we're keeping a close eye on reports," said park activities director Vic Chaisson. "If the situation doesn't improve, we'll cancel it. We don't want to anything that would jeopardize anyone."

The annual event is targeted to children and their grandparents.

"IT'S OUR Grandparents' Day event," Chaisson said. "We thought it was important to maintain an activity that kids could do with their grandparents."

The Michigan Department of Public Health expanded its warning against eating fish caught downstream from the dam at Phoenix Lake, which straddles Plymouth Township's northeastern border with Northville Township. Wilcox Lake, in eastern Plymouth Township, is less than one mile south of the dam. Newburgh Lake, in western Livonia, is roughly three miles south of the dam.

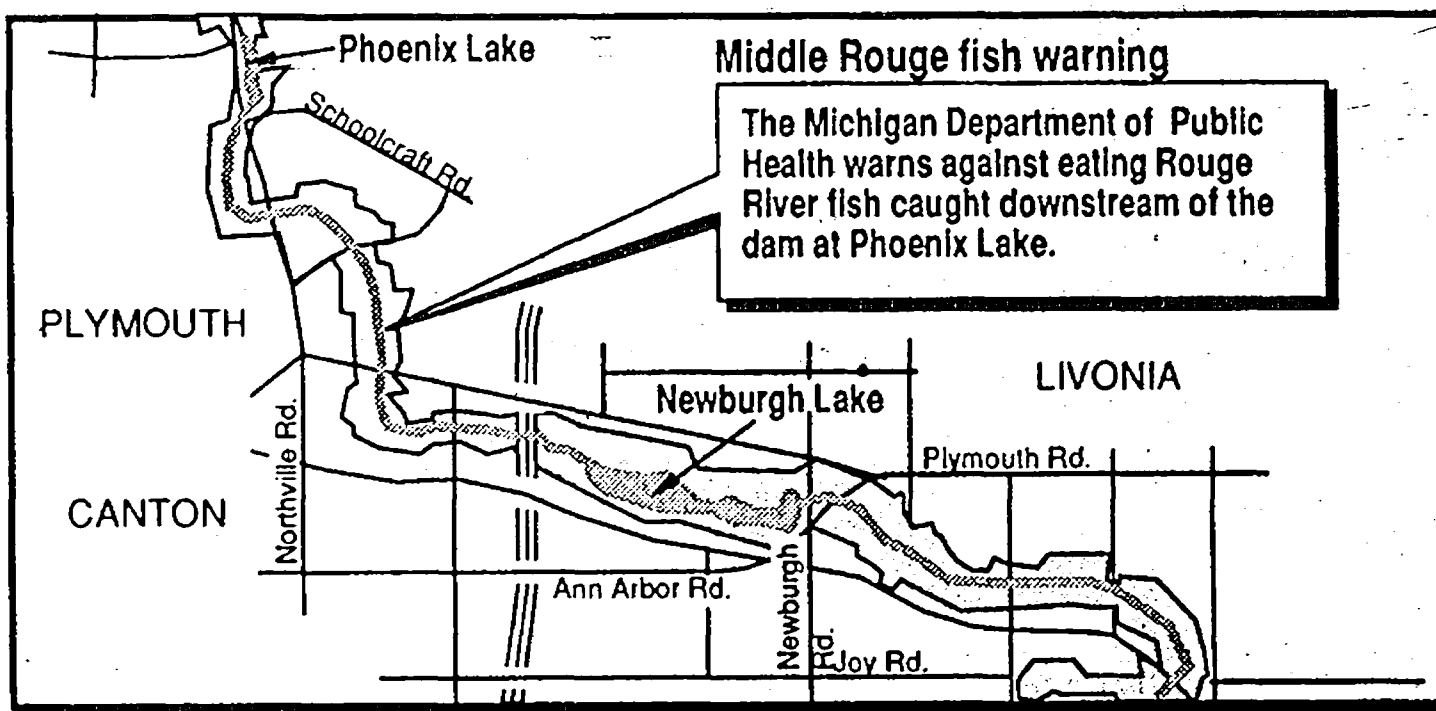

The warning includes nearly all types of fish found in the river. It includes northern pike, largemouth and smallmouth bass, channel catfish, carp and white suckers. It covers the middle branch of the Rouge, in western Wayne County, as well as the main branch, downstream from Ford Road to the mouth of the Detroit River.

Fish caught in Phoenix Lake, or north of the lake, all posted acceptable contaminant levels a health department spokesman said. The spokesman said the health department and DNR have yet to identify the PCB source, though indicated it was likely contamination could come from multiple sources.

A study conducted by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources indicated more than have the fish tested in the Middle Rouge contained unacceptable levels of PCBs.

The average PCB concentration among fish caught by the DNR in Newburgh Lake was twice the amount considered safe by the department of public health. The amount contained in white suckers was more than six times that amount.

PCB poisoning has been linked to disfiguring skin conditions, though the state reports no incidence of poisoning linked to the Rouge fish.

Layoffs begin at hospitals

United Care Inc., which operates Annapolis and four other suburban hospitals, has started layoffs and cost-cutting measures to balance its budget.

Forty-three employees laid-off employees are the first to receive notices in a drive to reduce the work force at all five hospitals, said Maureen Camps, corporate communications director.

Positions involved in direct patient care, particularly bedside registered nurses, will not be affected, Camps said. Camps said the layoffs are one of several moves that will be taken to control costs.

United Care was formerly known as the People's Community Hospital Authority, which was reorganized Jan. 20 as a private, non-profit corporation.

As a public hospital authority, its losses mounted to $4 million for the fiscal year that ended 10 months ago.

Camps said that layoffs or work force reduction through attrition may total 480, or 15 percent of the corporation's 3,200 employees.

Cost cutting planned

AS THE successor organization to People's Community Hospital Authority, United Care owns and operates five community hospitals — Annapolis in Wayne, Beyer, Heritage, Outer Drive and Seaway.

Cost reduction steps have included reducing inventories, curtailing supplies, postponing purchases that do not impact patient care, trimming overtime and not filling vacant positions in non-patient care areas.

An early retirement option recently offered to eligible employees resulted in a reduction in the work force by 99.

Although these steps have resulted in significant savings, the system must now implement a reduction in staffing levels, Camps said.

The reduction will be accomplished over a period of several months, as different levels of the work force are reorganized.

Reorganization and accompanying staff reductions will occur at the corporate office, at management and supervisory levels, within salaried positions and eventually into the union ranks, Camps said.

A PROGRAM designed to help the 43 laid-off people find new jobs has begun. The program is designed to help them identify career options and employers, develop a resume, get job interviews and practice follow-up techniques, Camps said.

Camps said PCHA hospitals had been suffering financially in recent years due in large measure to lowered reimbursements from Medicare and Medicaid, the rising cost of uncompensated and charity care, growing medical liability costs and an increasingly competitive market.

Unlike most hospital organizations, PCHA was limited by law from making business, strategic and financial moves to adapt to the changing hospital market because of its quasi-public status, she said.

The conversion to a non-profit organization was designed to remove the authority restrictions, she added.

Since the Jan. 20 conversion, United Care's board and administration have been developing a business plan consisting of new programming, marketing and capital investments at the hospitals.

"We recognize that in order to achieve a financial turnaround we must offer new patient service programs to the people in our service area. Throughout our planning, our vision is to refocus on community needs, both inside and outside of the hospital setting," Camps said.

Among the programs being developed are a system-wide physician re-registration program, a new patient registration system called United Care Express, the addition of specialty services and the expansion of existing services in demand within the community.

"Our mission continues to be to provide excellent and compassionate care to the people we serve, today and well into the next century," Camps said.

Apartments damaged

Eleven families were burned out of their apartments following a fire at the Cherry Hill Club Apartments in Inkster Saturday afternoon. The fire gutted a 12-unit building (one unit was vacant) at the complex, on Cherry Hill between Middlebelt and Merriman, fire officials said. There were no injuries and damage was estimated at $273,000, excluding personal belongings, officials said. Fire officials said the blaze was probably caused by a careless smoker.

Check electric lawn, garden tools before using

It's that time of year again when your electric lawn and garden tools are seeing the light of day for the first time since last fall. A lot could have happened to those tools since then.

That's why it's a good idea to check them over carefully before putting them to work for you, and Detroit Edison has several ideas on how to go about it.

First and most important is to disconnect the power before cleaning, adjusting, repairing or doing other work on electric tools.

After winter storage:

- Check the housing and cord for cracks, deterioration and damage.

Return any damaged tool or part to the manufacturer for repair or replacement.

- If a trigger or switch does not start the tool immediately, have the tool checked for needed repairs.

- Check blades and bits to make sure they're tight and straight, not bent, dull or damaged. Resharpen the blades.

- Inspect for rust. If you find any, clean it off with steel wool.

- When taking your lawnmower out for use, change the oil, lubricate moving parts, clean all filters and check the gas tank for rust. Refill the tank with fresh gas.

To avoid personal injury or property damage:

- Use quality tools that have been tested and listed by the Underwriters Laboratory (UL).

- Use a ground fault interrupter on outdoor outlets to prevent electrical shock. Make sure each tool has a three-pronged plug or is double-insulated.

- Use only extension cords approved for outdoors.

- Never use electric tools or lawnmowers in wet weather or on wet surfaces.

- Wear sturdy, rubber-soled shoes or boots while using electric tools outdoors. Never use them while barefoot.

Tuition on the rise at S'craft

By Wayne Poal
Staff writer

Schoolcraft College trustees raised tuition Wednesday for the third time in three years.

Beginning with the fall semester, tuition will increase $1.50 per credit hour for all students living within the Schoolcraft community college district. Tuition for those students will be $33.50 per credit hour.

IT TRANSLATES to a $22.50 per term increase for students carrying a full 15 credit load. The Schoolcraft service area includes the Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton, Clarenceville and Northville public school districts, as well as a small portion of Novi Schools.

Trustees also raised tuition for students living outside the district by

Beginning fall semester, tuition will increase $1.50 per credit hour for most Schoolcraft College students.

$2.50 per credit hour. Tuition in the fall will be $47 per credit hour, for students living outside the district. Tuition was also raised by $3.50, to $69.50 per credit hour for out-of-state students.

Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell said tuition increases were necessary to keep up with an expected rise in inflation, as well as more slowly rising state aid.

While state aid is expected to rise to $7.36 million, school administrators said the 4 percent increase isn't expected to keep pace with inflation.

Not all trustees were convinced the increase was necessary.

"Let's back off the students for awhile," said trustee Jeanne Stempien, who voted against the increase.

Stempien also noted area property tax assessments were rising. Assessment increases averaging between 12 and 20 percent in most communities throughout the Schoolcraft district would produce a tax windfall, she said.

Trustee Michael Burley also criticized the increase, originally proposed at $2 per credit hour.

"NOT EVERYONE in our district is wealthy," he said. "There are farmers in Canton who will tell you they're losing their farms."

Burley voted for the increase, however, after it was scaled back by 50 cents a credit hour.

Board president Mary Breen and trustees Harry Greenleaf and Wendell Smith also supported the increase. Stempien and Jack Kirksey opposed it.

Trustees are considering a $25.2 million general operating budget for 1989-90. Of that, more than $7 million would be raised through tuition.

SC trustees won't appoint successor

Raymond's seat will remain vacant until the June 12 board election.

"Because the term is so short, our attorneys told us it wasn't necessary to appoint someone," board president Mary Breen said.

With seven challengers vying for the open seat, trustees said they would just as soon let voters decide who the next board member should be. Appointing someone now, they said, would give that candidate an unfair advantage.

"I'd rather let the elective process carry on," trustee Wendell Smith said.

Raymond, the board's senior member died earlier this month. Trustees took time to remember their former colleague at Wednesday's meeting, the first since her death.

Board members began the meeting with a moment of silence in Raymond's honor. Later, they awarded her a posthumous degree. The degree will be presented to her family during college commencement activities May 6. (For more information on other honorary degree recipients, see related story.)

Veteran trustee Harry Greenleaf recalled he and Raymond were often on opposing sides of college issues, but said their differences were political, never personal.

"Although we had a different point of view, she always looked for the common ground," Greenleaf said, in calling for the moment of silence.

Free fine arts festival is scheduled at U-D High

The 1989 Spring Fine Arts Festival will be held on Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m., at the University of Detroit Jesuit High School and Academy. The Festival will be held in the Commons and is open to the public, free of charge.

Music director Michael Klass has arranged a musically varied program which will be presented by the U-D Jesuit Symphonic Band. Selections scheduled for performance are "Man of LaMancha," a "Dixieland Concerto" featuring a Dixieland ensemble, the "Homeowner's Guide to Making Music" which will feature faculty guest performers.

An arrangement of "Peter and the Wolf" will be presented and narrated by Red Wings right wing Dave Barr.

Matt Rennie, playing tuba, and Rex Espinosa, playing saxophone, will perform solos.

Art projects will be displayed by U-D Jesuit students, under the direction of Art Instructor, Michelle Mooney. Work in multiple mediums will be presented.

The University of Detroit Jesuit High School and Academy is located at 8400 South Cambridge (Seven Mile Road between Livernois and Wyoming), Detroit. For more information, call 862-5400 Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

"THE FIGHT OF THE CENTURY"

Christianity vs. Humanism

Christians Believe	BELIEFS	Humanists Believe
God is creator, provider, lawgiver, lord, Judge, etc.	God	There is no God, or if there is, God is not relevant!
All things were created and are sustained by God.	Origins	The universe is self-existing. All things evolve.
Man is both physical & spiritual. He is dependent on God for purposes and guidance. Man is a sinner, needing salvation.	Man	Man is only physical in nature. He is self-sufficient. Man is basically good.
Ethics, morals and values are absolute, constant, and fixed by God in scripture.	Morals	Ethics, morals and values are relative, situational, and autonomous.
God judges all men & determines eternal destiny of each to either heaven or hell.	Judgment	Man is "the measure of all things."
A Christian Society	EFFECTS	A Humanistic Society
Belief in a single behavioral standard, derived from God through scripture, produces moral conformity in society.	Behavioral Standards	Belief in pluralistic behavioral standards, derived from human experiences, produces moral permissiveness in society.
Belief that man is both physical and spiritual means that human life is valued for both its physical and spiritual natures. Therefore, abortion, euthanasia, infanticide, suicide, etc. are prohibited. This belief produces selflessness and responsibility in society.	Human Life	Belief that man is only physical means that human life is valued only for its physical desirability and its productivity. Therefore, abortion, euthanasia, infanticide, suicide, etc. are prohibited. This belief produces selfishness and irresponsibility in society.
Belief in absolute and constant ethical moral values produces sexual restraints and responsibilities, strong families, and social stability. This belief makes the family the basic unit of society.	Sexual Conduct	Belief in relative, situational, and autonomous ethical values produces unrestrained sexual license, divorce, family deterioration & social instability. This belief makes the individual the basic unit of society.
Belief that all men are sinners means that sinful man, or groups of men, should have no power to be evil in ruling over other men. Therefore, civil governments must have checks and balances against evil, must be limited in power, and must be accountable to all citizens.	Civil Government	Belief that all men are basically good means that the best and wisest men, an elite group, should have power to rule over all other men. Therefore, civil governments need not be checked, may be unlimited in power, and need not be accountable to all citizens.

Weekend recycling sites are available

Western Wayne residents may take waste materials to two area sites for recycling. A list of recycling sites is included in the county's new solid waste master plan.

Sites include:
 • Canton Recycling, 42020 Van Born Road, between Haggerty and Lilley. The center is open to Canton and Plymouth residents only. Waste materials accepted include newspaper bundles, corrugated cardboard, used motor oil, aluminum, scrap metal, batteries, appliances and car parts other than tires. The center is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays. Additional information is available by calling 397-5801.
 • Woodland Meadows Recycling & Disposal Facility, 39900

Van Born Road, between Hannan and Haggerty, Canton Township. Waste materials accepted include bundled newspapers, corrugated cardboard, glass, plastic containers, aluminum and appliances. The center is open 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday. Additional information is available by calling 326-0993.

In addition, Dearborn accepts items for recycling on the first and third Saturdays of each month from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Centennial Library, Michigan Avenue, just West of Greenfield. Waste materials accepted include bundled newspapers, clean glass, flattened cans, batteries and used motor oil in capped, unbreakable, containers. Additional information is available by calling 943-2377.

Staffing poses concern at S'craft

By Wayne Peal
 Staff writer

All is not well at Schoolcraft Community College, according to the head of the campus teacher's union.

But college trustees are wondering why they were alerted so late to problems, if they exist.
 Lowell Cook, head of the Schoolcraft Faculty Forum, told trustees that union members are unhappy over a perceived failure of college administrators to hire more full-time staffers.

"THIS IS a quality of education issue," Cook said. "Most people think unions are only interested in wages and benefits, but that's not the case." As a "symbolic protest," Schoolcraft faculty members voted against participation in the upcoming campus visit of accreditors from the North Central Association. The Ann Arbor-based organization will evaluate the Schoolcraft curriculum. The move means faculty members won't assist administrators in compiling information for the accreditors' visit, Cook said. "Really, it just saves us work," he said.

'This is really a quality of education issue.'

— Lowell Cook
 Schoolcraft Faculty Forum

While Cook said the move in no way threatens the college's accreditation, he added that North Central accreditors might notice a lack of enthusiasm on faculty members' part.

"We'll show up, but it might not be happy and smiling like they would like," Cook said.

Board president Mary Breen said the comments took her by surprise.

Schoolcraft administrators, however, produced a document listing the number of full-time staffers lost and gained by the college since the 1986 millage vote.

Administrators said 17 full-time faculty members have either retired or been promoted to administrative positions since 1986. In that same period, 13 full-time faculty members were added. Cook, however, said three of those were actually added before 1986.

Administrators added that failure to replace a retired instructor saves the college an annual $50,000, though Cook disputed that figure. "They were basing it on a 35-year career, but most of our faculty members aren't here that long," he said.

Cook said the issue's timing had nothing to do with the upcoming trustees election.

"Most of the people on the board have been endorsed by us, but we're 'low-key,' he said. "We don't try to pressure trustees."

JOA on hold again, court to hear case

The proposed joint operating agreement between the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press is on hold once again.

The U.S. Supreme Court Monday said it will hear the JOA case. A decision is not expected until next year.

This latest development comes on the heels of reports that set May 5 as a possible start up date for the JOA, which would merge operations of Detroit's two daily newspapers.

"I'M HAPPY the First Amendment is alive and well," said Ed Wendover, publisher of the Plymouth Community Crier and spokesman for Michigan Citizens for an Independent Press, which has led the fight against implementation of the JOA.

"Despite what the News and Free Press have been saying this weekend, the JOA is not a done deal. I wish the Supreme Court would move it up on the docket this spring. I would be happy to see it expedited for the sake of Free Press and News employees."

The on again/off again JOA has been battered about like a ball in a tennis match for almost three years. It is not expected that the high court will hear arguments before late fall, and then take several more months for a ruling.

MOST RECENTLY before Monday's announcement, stays blocking the newspapers merger were extended even though federal judges upheld the JOA decision approved by then Attorney General Edwin Meese in August 1988.

JOA opponents have long sought a hearing before the full court.

"We have said all along that we would seek a hearing before the full Supreme Court," Robert Dreyfuss, a spokesman for the Washington D.C. based Public Citizen, said after the March stay. The Ralph Nader backed group provided funding to the anti-JOA forces.

State Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe Woods, who has led local JOA opposition along with Wendover and former Detroit News reporter Matt Beer, called the high court's decision "the best thing that ever happened in terms of the future of the First Amendment."

The hearing is at least a temporary victory for JOA opponents, who saw it as a last possible means of challenge.

Judge defends The Bard's honor

By Tim Richard
staff writer

It's a serious gag. Judge Myron Wahls is stepping down from the state Court of Appeals — but only for a theatrical evening, and just to defend William Shakespeare.

The serious part is that Wahls is expected to be a formidable adversary for impresario Mark McPherson, who again will challenge the historic idea that Shakespeare wrote all the plays attributed to him.

"He is a very knowledgeable and will be an apt opponent," Wahls said Wednesday in a mock news conference. McPherson conceded that Wahls, noted for a rapier wit, could be his toughest opponent yet.

In several previous trials, Wahls was presiding judge as McPherson, the flamboyant investigator of mysteries, sought to change literary opinion.

"THE GREAT Shakespeare Duel" starts at 6 p.m. Sunday, May 14, in the Pavilion of the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen.

General admission tickets will be $10, either at the door or from the Southfield Public Library. Reserved tickets at $15 may be ordered by calling 675-8692, the number of McPherson's Daedalus Society.

The "duel" will be the final installment in the "Shakespeare Lives!" series co-sponsored by Friends of the Southfield Public Library.

It will be filmed for presentation May 22 as a WTVS Channel 56 documentary.

McPherson will present the second program, "The Mysterious William Shakespeare," at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 23, the 425th anniversary of his birth, in the Marcotte Room of the Southfield library.

"The Duel" on May 14 will feature Judge Myron Wahls (left) defending the literary reputation of Shakespeare and impresario Mark McPherson continuing to attack the Bard's reputation.

REPLACING WAHLS as magistrate in the May 14 duel will be Judge Marilyn J. Kelly of Bloomfield Hills, newly elected to the state Court of Appeals.

Jurors will be critics and members of the news media.

The audience also will be able to vote for or against Shakespeare. In last year's trial, held on Oakland Community College's Royal Oak Campus, Shakespeare won a majority of both jurors and audience, but by a shrinking majority.

G.B. Harrison, who edited Shakespeare's complete works for a standard college text, scoffs at the attacks. Explaining the shortage of biographical material on the Bard of Stratford-upon-Avon, Harrison said, "Literary persons, even the greatest, are seldom spectacular. Few writers attract a Boswell."

THAT'S THE SORT of literary explanation McPherson enjoys ripping up. There's "a bare minimum of contemporary observation" in his lifetime and no biography until a century after his death, McPherson said.

Shakespeare's will makes no mention of literary properties, he said, although 20 plays attributed to him were still unpublished at his death in 1623. Over the years, Shakespeare's portrait becomes altered.

McPherson is known for his pursuit of the Loch Ness monster and his expertise on Sherlock Holmes. A room in his house is decorated exactly as Holmes' apartment at 221-B Baker Street.

House panel nixes incentive bill

By Tim Richard
staff writer

The House Education Committee shot down a key bill in Gov. James Blanchard's school quality program—a system of incentive grants to improved schools.

Opposition cut across party lines and across city-suburban lines, noted chairman William Keith, D-Garden City.

"I just don't like it," said Rep. Nelson Saunders, D-Detroit, who abstained. "This says 75 percent (of buildings) would receive no monetary reward even if they're successful under this bill."

THE VOTE Tuesday on House Bill 4444 was 8 in favor, 9 against, with 2 not voting. Ten votes are needed to report it to the House floor.

Yes votes came from Keith and a scattering of Detroit and outstate members.

Voting no were Reps. James Kosteva, D-Canton, Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, and the vocal William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe.

The bill still unfunded, would give $15 million to the state Department of Education to reward up to 25 percent of the buildings in any one district for a three-year program of improvements.

Sponsor is freshman Rep. Ted Wallace, D-Detroit.

Tuesday's vote came on a substitute version that reduced the state's rule-making power. But it still failed to satisfy some committee members.

REPUBLICANS, joined by Kosteva, removed a section requiring an improvement plan to be approved and signed by the local superintendent and the president of the teachers' union. Only the local school board would have to approve it.

"I don't see the superintendent or the president of the union having veto power," objected Rep. Susan Grimes Munsell, R-Howell. "I don't feel the staff should have the right to override it. Isn't that why we elect a school board — to represent the taxpayers and parents?"

"It should be a collaborative effort," said Rep. Alma Stallworth, D-Detroit, favoring the union president veto.

Added Rep. Bart Stupak, D-Menominee: "We've got to have everyone on board. You're imposing work conditions on the bargaining unit (with a school improvement plan).

COMMITTEE MEMBERS were doubtful about operating details. "What does 'at risk' mean?" asked Rep. Terry London, R-Marysville.

"I really can't speak to that," answered a staff member from the Department of Education, adding that there are nationwide attempts to identify pupils who are at risk of dropping or failing the moment they enter school.

"We are actually diluting the dropout program," said Rep. Claude Trim, R-Waterford. "I'll vote no."

Keith said the Appropriations Committee has talked of funding the $15 million program by folding in the current $10 million dropout program and finding $5 million in other new money.

Republicans, joined by Kosteva, removed a section requiring an improvement plan to be approved and signed by the local superintendent and the president of the teachers' union. Only the local school board would have to approve it.

"I like the concept of rewarding excellence," said Rep. Nate Jonker, D-Clio, "but let's put the money where we need it. . . . We already have proven categoricals," he said, referring to programs for pregnant teens, drugs and transportation.

THERE WAS an undercurrent of Republican resentment at Blanchard's effort to put his name on a program administered by a department under the control of a separately elected State Board of Education.

In his state of the state address, Blanchard said:

"We must begin to reward success, not just prop up failure. If we want high quality, we should reward it. . . ."

"I have proposed the Governor's Achievement Incentive to reward individual schools that raise the performance level of their students or decrease their dropout rates through the use of school improvement planning.

"Recipients of GAIN funds will be recognized as shining examples for other schools to follow. A merit awards program almost identical to GAIN was just proposed by President Bush to encourage educational excellence across the nation."

What schools may GAIN

"GAIN" stands for Governor's Achievement Incentives — an estimated $15 million the first year in rewards to school buildings, not districts, for improvements.

A local school board would present the Department of Education a plan for improvement. The state would score:

- 40 percent for improvement in academic performance.
- 20 percent for improvement in attendance rates.
- 20 percent for reducing numbers of dropouts.

- 20 percent for other indicators — college entrance, participation in school clubs, an increase in graduates placed in jobs, and so on.

(It is expected, but not decided, that a $10 million school dropout program would be folded into GAIN.)

Not more than 25 percent of the buildings in a district could receive a grant in one year. The average grant is expected to be $15,000.

The grants must be spent on "discretionary school improvement" approved by the school board, "but shall not supplant regular school funding.

Madonna receives $100,000 for business lecture series

Mike McManus, Jr., president of Header Products in Romulus, has established the Michael F. McManus Business Lectureship Series in the form of an endowment to Madonna College. The $100,000 endowment, which will be developed over a four-year period, is in tribute to his father who died in 1982.

A native of Sharon, Pa., Mike McManus Sr. came to Detroit after World War I. He worked for Hudson Motors, and as a manufacturer's representative for the Chicago Rivet and Machine Co. His manufacturing agency represented Chicago Rivet and Machine and several other companies for over 50 years.

In 1956 Mike McManus Jr. joined his father after graduating from college and serving two years in the Air Force. He founded Header Products in 1963.

"The division of business and computer systems at Madonna College will consult with Mike McManus, Jr. for suggestions regarding guest speakers for the lecture series," said Dr. Charlotte Neuhauser, dean. "The series will aim to attract men and women as speakers who have been entrepreneurial in business endeavors."

Neuhauser said the college's more than 1,000 business students, faculty, administrators and the community-at-large will benefit from these speakers — "With this generous endowment, we will be able to obtain speakers who will share their success stories. They will provide motivation by encouraging others that they too can be very successful in starting a business."

McManus cited several reasons for choosing Madonna College — "I am particularly impressed with Madonna College's tuition costs, because they remain affordable," he said. "Also, it is a growing Catholic College." McManus added that he has a niece, Joan Klein, attending Madonna, who has been pleased with the personal attention she has been given at the college.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on May 10, 1989, at 8:00 o'clock DST at the Board Room the Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1989 of an estimated additional proposed millage rate of 0.366 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Trustees has the complete authority to establish that 2.27 mills be levied in 1989 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1989 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by an estimated twenty-two percent (22%).

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the College District. In the event that state equalized valuation as finalized is for any reason higher than the estimate used for this hearing, the Board of Trustees must hold another public hearing before levying millage on any higher valuation.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Trustees may approve all or any portion the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by the Board of Trustees.

Wiretap bill repaired, sent to state Senate

By Tim Richard
staff writer

An amended state wiretap bill emerged from the Senate Judiciary Committee last week, but without Chairman Rudy Nichols' vote.

The amendments — suggested chiefly by the American Civil Liberties Union — were pushed through by Sens. Richard Fessler, R-Commerce, and John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe Farms.

"They were walking around like this," said Nichols, R-Waterford, with his hand in his inside coat pocket. "This was the first I saw of them (amendments). But that's politics," Nichols shrugged.

Fessler said the amendments were worked out in a meeting a couple of days prior to the regular Judiciary Committee meeting. He said any senator may attend.

SB 125 WAS reported out on a 4-0 committee vote with Nichols abstaining. This week it goes to the Senate floor where it faces likely passage but tougher scrutiny in the House.

The bill would allow county prosecutors to ask court permission to tap the phone conversations of major drug dealers. The evidence would be admissible in court.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Nick Smith, R-Hillsdale County, said the amendments were acceptable to him. A state spokesman said the bill shouldn't be held up.

Howard Simon, of the Michigan ACLU, said afterwards that about half of his suggested amendments had been incorporated.

The bill would allow county prosecutors to ask court permission to tap the phone conversations of major drug dealers. The evidence would be admissible in court.

MAJOR AMENDMENTS:

- A shorter time limit is placed on the life of the wiretap authorization. ACLU had suggested a flat 30-day limit with no extensions.

- The Fessler-Kelly amendment will allow two extensions — a total of 90 days. "Beyond that, they'd have to go to a different judge and show that the tap is has been worthwhile," Fessler said.

- There are tighter conditions under which a judge could authorize a wiretap. The prosecutor would have to show that other methods have failed, but couldn't argue that other techniques were "too dangerous."

- Police records could be kept for only one year instead of 10.

"Let's eliminate records if they're not needed," said Fessler. At the conclusion of the investigation, the subject would have to be notified and allowed to see the information.

- Eliminated was a prohibition on advertising of bugging equipment in newspapers, magazines, handbills or broadcasts. Senators felt it violated freedom of speech and press.

But the sale of equipment would be limited to law enforcement people. "We're saying to private detectives it's against the law," Fessler said.

IN A PROCEDURAL change, the Fessler-Kelly amendments placed reporting and training requirements in the hands of the State Police rather than the attorney general. "The State Police have contacts in all 83 counties," said Fessler. "Drug trafficking crosses boundaries. The State Police is the fabric to knit it together and make it work."

"They have a visible presence of they're just down the road. They're better able to work with local police and prosecutors and to avoid over-laps."

"The State Police are free of some political jealousies of prosecutors and others. They are better able to train (local police). They are better able to help local law enforcement officers develop a case."

"They would be in charge of purchasing wiretap equipment and keeping records of where the taps are and who has 'em."

"If they have legal problems, they'll turn to the attorney general anyway," he said.

'Host party' bill faces tough battle in state House

Adults hosting kids at graduation house parties face jail and fines if they serve people under 21 alcohol under a bill before the Michigan Senate.

"Spring is when we have house parties," said the sponsor, Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Powdermill. "This is a gray area (of the law) — a party in a private home where they're not selling alcohol."

"Long overdue," said Behany

Goodman of Midland, representing Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD). "We should encourage kids to avoid temptations... Kids laugh at laws."

After their testimony, Chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and the Judiciary Committee sent it to the Senate floor on a 3-0 vote.

THE BILL would provide that a person in control of a residence or building could be convicted of a misdemeanor for allowing a minor who is unaccompanied by a parent or guardian to consume or possess alcohol at a social gathering.

Punishment would be the standard for a misdemeanor: up to 90 days in jail and a fine of up to $500.

According to a Senate staff analysis, it would apply to houses, apartments, cottages, hotels-motels, meeting halls, conference rooms, parks, trailers, tents and bed-and-breakfast units.

But it would not apply to alcohol used for religious purposes and prescriptions. Nor would it apply when the minor is accompanied by a parent or guardian.

DILLINGHAM SEES passage in the Senate but trouble in the House.

"This is a rerun of a bill which passed the Senate unanimously (in the last session)," he said, "but it was killed in Bullard's committee."

Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, chairs the House Judiciary Committee and frequently objects because he considers many legislative bills too punitive and repressive.

Dillingham said Bullard "arbitrarily killed it (last session) because of his apparent conscience. But the system is supposed to operate with 148 members."

"The bill makes adults aware they are responsible. In the last five or six years in Livingston County, a number of kids have been killed in auto accidents.

"A parent called me and told me his daughter was with a boy, and they visited his aunt and uncle's house. The daughter came home at 5 a.m. The parent asked: 'What about those two adults (serving alcohol)?"

Dillingham said current law would allow heirs to file civil suit against the adult server if a youngster were killed but appears to provide no punishment in lesser cases.

Rights group to hold service

A Mother's Day service will be held 4 p.m. Sunday, May 14, by the Michigan Chapter of the Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights.

The service will take place at Christ Church Cranbrook, 470

Church Road, west of Cranbrook Road south of Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Songs, poetry and prayers will be featured, organizers said. The RCAR includes members of Episcopal, United Methodist, Presbyterian, Unitarian and United Church of Christ denominations as well as members of Catholics for Free Choice and Jewish organizations.

Additional information is available by calling 833-7086.

A walk can help us tune-up

I THOUGHT of fitness columnist Barry Franklin and Rob Sweetgall one rainy evening while poring over campground maps.

Tim Richard

Franklin, that smooth-talking physiologist, recently lured me to a Beaumont Hospital auditorium to hear Sweetgall, who gave up an "academic, sedentary, non-mover" existence as a physicist and TV watcher to walk 11,000 miles through all 50 states one year. The fact that most of his immediate family died from heart disease had given him an incentive to tone up.

"It (walking) gives me time to think and just enjoy nature," Sweetgall said. "At 55 mph, we miss a lot of things. At 3 or 4 mph, that's the best way to see it."

He talks to schools a lot, his purpose being to convince kids that walking is the best form of human exercise. "Children are fatter and more overweight than ever. Many are fat by the time they get out of kindergarten," he said.

It's worse than that, Rob. An Associated Press story out of Newark last month said new Army recruits are such couch potatoes that they're getting injured oftener in basic adult bald eagle perched 100 feet away from me; a nearby gravel pit yielded fossils.

- N. Higgins Lake — HT; "scene of Michigan's first state forest nursery."

- Onaway — HT; "fine campground and foot trails. Top fishing."

- Indian Lake — HT; "Mile of sandy beach."

- Lake Gogebic — HT; "in area of many spectacular waterfalls and rapids." I should add none is on a parking lot; you gotta walk several hundred yards to most.

- Muskallonge Lake — HT; "centered in wilderness area. Lake Superior shoreline a treasure trove for hunting semi-precious gems."

And so on — through the Porcupine Mountains, Van Riper, Tahquamenon Falls; ditto with many state forest and national forest campgrounds.

PRIVATE CAMPGROUND ads, however, read like this:

- At Houghton Lake — "heated pool, rec room, store ... playground, laundry." No HT.

- At Farwell — "electric hookups, play area for children, mini-golf." No HT.

Ah, but there's no need to continue. Private campgrounds rarely have hiking trails.

A COMMERCIAL campground operator wants to make a living. He has to make your dollars flow with heated pools, video game rooms, rec rooms, mini-golf, laundries, junk food, vendors, pop machines and the other trappings of an amusement park.

Dollars don't flow when you're looking at eagles, waterfalls, igneous rocks and fossils, when you're listening to bird songs and watching momma ducks and ducklings; when you're filling your lungs with air and your eyes with panoramic views.

"At 55 mph, we miss a lot of things," said Rob Sweetgall. And also when you go to most commercial campgrounds.

Some of us take silliness seriously

Jack Gladden

IN THE MIDST of headlines about massive oil spills, student protests on college campuses and anti-abortion demonstrations across the country, silliness continues to make news. And we're not just talking silly silliness, we're talking serious silliness.

Take last weekend's abortion protests, for example.

While the pro-lifers were protesting abortion, the pro-choiceers were protesting the protesters. And although the confrontations were serious, some of the rhetoric and incidents were just plain silly. Said an organizer of a group that was successful in getting a Farmington Hills clinic to shut its doors Saturday: "It's a conscience thing. We don't try to tell people what to do." Right.

When one woman attempted to enter a building that contained several offices other than an abortion clinic, she told a protester blocking her way that she had an appointment with her dentist to get her teeth cleaned. The protester told her to "prove it." That's serious silliness.

EARLIER FRIDAY, while the protesters were gearing up for Saturday's events, some Oakland County residents were seeing UFOs. Police in West Bloomfield, Union Lake, Waterford Township and Pontiac received scores of calls from people reporting strange lights playing across the sky.

The bouncing beams turned out to be not visitors from another solar system but searchlights promoting a Waterford Township bar. A West Bloomfield police sergeant was irritated by this bit of serious silliness, which he said caused a "waste of police time and manpower" in answering about 50 calls.

In Detroit, meanwhile, attorneys for two men who late last year were acquitted of arson charges after they admitted that they burned down a suspected crack house in their neighborhood announced that their clients have signed six-figure contracts with Warner Brothers for the right to make a movie about them. It'll probably be a sizzler.

OUT IN CALIFORNIA the wife of the captain of the USS Vincennes, the ship that shot down an Iranian airliner last summer, received a $140,000 settlement from the private school that fired her after her van was blown up by a bomb, presumably planted by terrorists. School officials said she was fired because they feared her presence would pose an "unreasonable risk" to the students.

And farther north, in Seattle, a woman who admitted in court that she drank up to fifth of bourbon every two days while she was pregnant — often drinking herself into a state of unconsciousness — is suing the company that manufactured the liquor because her child was born with birth defects.

She said she didn't know that much drinking would hurt her unborn child and the liquor manufacturer was negligent because it didn't put warning labels on the bottles. Uh, huh.

BACK CLOSER to home, a Davison woman is campaigning to put an end to the small community's annual pig wrestling contest, saying the event is traumatic to the pugnacious porkers.

Roger Stanton, the publisher of Football News and Basketball Weekly, apologized for a letter he wrote to NBC, in which he expressed some controversial views about black athletes. He admitted writing the letter and sending a copy to the Detroit Free Press, but said he never meant for it to be published and it was not "the real Roger Stanton talking." Who was it then?

And, finally, out in Marshall, Robert Lund, the curator of the American Museum of Magic, called the annual seance in which a group of magicians gathers around Harry Houdini's grave and tries to make contact with his spirit "superstitious nonsense."

He says the "obvious and only" way to get through to Houdini is to make contact with the spirit of his wife, Beatrice, and have her give Harry the message. And that's what he was planning to try to do this week.

Is this a great country or what?

Effort should help determine grade

Q: My daughter just missed being valedictorian because of one C on her report card after having all As in her English, math, science and social studies courses. She received a C in physical education because she didn't high jump or run at a level that was the criterion set by the teacher for an A.

Doc Doyle

A: Most physical education teachers are outstanding teachers and use common sense in grading. To me, effort, participation and extent of improvement is how physical education students should be graded; not on some predetermined standard that is unreasonable for those with different body weight, size or agility. However, when a physical education teacher sets the high-jump bar at, for example, four feet and arbitrarily says that only those who can jump over the high-bar will receive an A — we have instant teacher insanity.

Children are built differently and some will never jump over a 3- or 4-foot high-bar. Most reasonable physical education teachers code children on where they begin and judge the extent to which they improve their performance and/or their effort over a grade period. If this particular physical education teacher shoots around 90 in golf for 18 holes he/she should have to shoot par or 72 to receive a full check next pay day; if he/she is 10 over par, he/she gets one-half of a paycheck.

Colleges and universities usually don't count physical education into grade calculations for acceptance and scholarships. Still it is unfortunate that the honor of valedictorian is lost in a class where physical as opposed to mental faculties are the sole criteria.

Physical education has great carryover value and should be approached by a teachers a positive experience to develop healthy lifelong habits.

Area hospitals impose smoking bans

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Area hospitals have made adjustments due to a new anti-smoking law that went into effect April 1, but adjustments vary from hospital to hospital.

The new law bans smoking in hospitals, other health-care facilities and public places.

But while some hospitals opted for strict enforcement, others went for "kinder, gentler" standards.

"I'd say we're getting 95 percent compliance, but we're not grabbing anybody by the neck," said Allan Breakie, president of Garden City Osteopathic Hospital. "We've set up a separate dining room for smokers. We've had some people who have been good employees for 15 years who smoke and we don't want to be aggressive and obnoxious with them."

St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, substantially reduced the number of hospital areas open to smokers.

"ESSENTIALLY, St. Mary is a non-smoking hospital," spokeswoman Julie Sproul said. "We used to allow it in the coffee shop and cafeteria but no more."

Since the law went into effect, smokers have been restricted to a third floor lounge.

The hospital is offering free classes to help employees break their nicotine habits.

Smoking will be banned inside all buildings at Botsford General Hospital, Farmington Hills, as of July 1.

"We're having a two-step phase-in," hospital spokeswoman Margo Gorchow said. "Right now, smoking is limited to one room for employees and one room for visitors. After July 1 there will be no smoking in the hospital or any of the other buildings on our campus." The hospital is also offering free anti-smoking seminars to employees.

Violators face fines of up to $500, as well as jail sentences, under the new law.

Doctors and other health professionals in private practice must also comply.

Smoking has been outlawed in treatment areas, waiting rooms, staff lounges, hallways and bathrooms. It is allowed only in rooms designated for smokers.

The new law exempts nursing homes, homes for the aged, hospices, hospital long-term care units and county medical-care facilities. Hospitals could also make an exception if doctors agree that prohibiting smoking could harm treatment.

Under another new law, minors caught smoking or carrying unlighted tobacco products in public can be fined $50. Minors can no longer be sold tobacco products, including snuff and chewing tobacco.

Stores selling tobacco products must post a sign by July 1 warning minors of the penalty.

Restaurants also face changes.

They must now provide non-smoking areas in spaces closest to fresh air and must give special consideration to people with smoke-related ailments. These include asthma, chronic bronchitis, emphysema or coronary heart disease.

The Michigan Public Health department will record complaints. Follow-up may be handled by the attorney general's office or local county prosecutors. But Dr. Kenneth Rowe, deputy director of programs and chief medical executive for the state health department, said he realizes enforcing the laws may be challenging.

"It's obvious it would take a large police force to enforce every violation of this act," Rowe said.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Michigan's new AIDS counseling law has caused concern for some soon-to-be-married couples, but the county's chief medical officer said counseling is desperately needed.

"There are between 30,000 and 50,000 people married in Wayne County every year," said Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, county medical director. "That's a lot of people we can reach."

While AIDS remains a paramount concern — Lawrenchuk called it the nation's "number one public health concern" — health officials are also concerned about a steady rise in the number of other sexually transmitted diseases.

"THE GOOD news was that the incidence of sexually transmitted diseases decreased among gay white men by 80 percent nationally," Lawrenchuk said, citing a recent report from the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta. "The bad news is it rose for every other group." The report covered the years 1985-6.

While statistics are maintained for AIDS, syphilis and gonorrhea, there are no statistics for other sexually transmitted diseases, making statistical comparisons difficult.

The county's fastest-rising social disease, chlamydia, is not currently required to be reported to the state Department of Public Health, Lawrenchuk said. Tests at county clinics, however, show the gonorrhea-like disease is spreading rapidly.

"WE'RE NOW getting more cases of chlamydia than all other sexually transmitted diseases combined," Lawrenchuk said. "Because its symptoms are so similar to gonorrhea, it's difficult to diagnose. But it's easy to treat. Everybody who comes to our clinics now gets treatment for both."

Chlamydia can cause sterility. It is particularly difficult to diagnose because its symptoms don't often show themselves, health officials said. Presence of HIV, the AIDS-causing virus, can also mask the presence of other diseases.

Gonorrhea is the most commonly reported of the sexually transmitted diseases. New penicillin-resistant strains of gonorrhea have also surfaced, making treatment more difficult.

"We're now dealing with these new, super-organisms," Lawrenchuk said.

The number of reported cases of gonorrhea increased by nearly 20 percent statewide between 1984-87.

Statistics show 7,863 cases reported in 1984 and 9,222 four years later.

While monogamy is advised, health officials advise those with multiple sex partners to have a physical check up at least once every six months. Those who believe they have contracted a sexually transmitted disease are advised to see a doctor immediately.

Pins to spare Bowling finds new fans in seniors

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Want great sports teams of our times? How about the New York Yankees in baseball, the Boston Celtics in basketball and the Montreal Canadiens in hockey for staffers?

While we're at it, we might soon have to add the Fiesta 4. A dynasty could be in the works.

The four seniors have clinched first place in the Fiesta Lanes Go-Getters Senior Bowling League in Westland.

"I'm looking for that trophy," said Melvin Tornow, 65, of Garden City. "I haven't had one of those in a long time."

FOUR YEARS to be exact, but the Fiesta 4 has endured through the years in their quest for victory.

Along with Tornow, Leon Locke, 67, of Westland; Rocky Burns, 71, of Dearborn Heights; and Olga Fritz, 66, of Inkster make up the Fiesta 4 contingent.

The secret to their success? Let's check training table. No steroids here. Just a few cups of coffee and some butterscotch candies.

Perhaps it's just old-fashioned teamwork.

"We all help one another out," said Tornow, who is retired from Burroughs Corporation. "Some teams don't help one another out. But we do."

"I'm doing a lot better this year. I was only hitting 139 last year. This year I'm hitting 153. The other two players are telling me what I was doing wrong."

RIGHT OR wrong, for fun or for trophies, seniors are rolling into bowling centers in droves. Older people account for 10-15 percent of the business at area bowling centers, according to the Bowling Centers Association in Lathrup Village.

And the numbers continue to grow.

"Have they," said Cass Sicila, executive director of the Bowling Centers Association. "It's becoming one of our major markets. People are living longer and more people are retiring. They're finding that the lanes are available."

"We have people bowling in their 90s. Age is not a factor in bowling."

So the owners of bowling centers have found. Sicila said many are targeting seniors for new business.

SENIORS AND bowling are tailor made for one another. For one thing, you can get the thrill of victory without the pain of defeat. The sport, though providing exercise, is not that physically demanding.

More than that, though, bowling is the ultimate social experience. The game allows you to socialize with others and work as a team.

"It does a lot for them," said Sandy Shepard of Westland, manager of Fiesta Lanes. "It gets them out in the public instead of setting at home. They get to meet people."

While bowlers take their turn, others sit around tables chatting. They shout words of encouragement and moan when the pins don't fall.

FOR MANY, the game is fun. They tell you their name and tell you their average. People might fib about their age, but not the average. Those are documented like a Social Security number.

"Once I bowled a 178," said Dorothy Sardella of Plymouth, "but that's not my average — not by a long shot."

Some are a little more intense than others on the lanes. One older woman grabs her 10-pound ball and rolls it for a well-placed strike. She walks back in victorious strides, slapping high-fives with her teammates a la Kirk Gibson during the 1988 World Series.

"I'm bowling up a storm today," said Clara Evans, 73, of Garden City, looking quite charged. "I think we need rain. Monday, I bowled horrible. Today, I'm doing well. You never know."

Evans has spent more than 50 years trying to find out. Her husband, Harry, 76, took his future bride out bowling on their first date.

"He taught me how to bowl because he was a bowler," she said.

Today, they both play on Genie's Bunch. She has a 150 average; he hovers around a 160.

"I like to beat him once in awhile," she said. "When I get ahead of him, that makes him bowl that much harder. I've had some good games and he's had some good games through the years."

Parents discover a 'rescue station' for their children

Kay Hendricksen and her husband were beside themselves. Very motivated people, they found it "hard to see a kid waste himself when he had the potential to shoot for the moon, if he wanted to." That statement referred to their son, Kirk.

Rose Binder began have problems with her son, Christopher, when her husband was overseas. It was "like a bomb had been dropped" on her when Christopher started getting into trouble at school.

At one time, the parents had wondered if the two 16-year-olds would finish high school, let alone go on to college. That was the past. Now, they happily recount stories of their sons' renewed interest in school, better grades and a newfound maturity.

Their sons found what they needed to move them ahead in life at a school that challenges its students not only academically, but physically. The two teens are enrolled in St. John's School of Ontario, a small private boys school operated by the Company of the Cross. In Claremont, 20 miles north of Toronto, the school combines traditional values and adventure to challenge its students.

KIRK WAS a ninth grader at Northville High School, when his mother discovered St. John's. Her son had a low self-esteem, and no matter what the family tried, they couldn't snap him out of it, she said.

Labeled as emotionally impaired by the school district, he did so poorly in school that even in special classes, he was only able to get 2 1/2 of the six credits he should have earned his freshman year, she said.

She discovered St. John's from an old newspaper article and immediately called the school.

"We felt it was so important to find a place like this and feel so lucky that we did," she said. "It mainly helps boys who don't have motivation, goals or life worth."

"My son wasn't motivated; he wasn't passing in school, and he didn't like it."

SCHOOL ALSO "wasn't working well" for Christopher Binder, then a freshman at Rochester Adams High School. Some success came in finishing ninth grade in an alternative education program, but school as a whole wasn't challenging enough for him, his mother said.

"He needs a lot of challenge," she said. "The more you push him the more he thrives."

Like Hendricksen, she found out about St. John's through a newspaper article. She used it to track down the parents of a former student to find out more about it. And in the middle of his freshman year, the Binders carted Christopher off to St. John's for an interview. They had hoped to enroll him last year, but the school said no.

"He was so negative that they didn't want to take him in and have him upset the apple cart," Binder said. "They work so hard with the boys to get them to depend on each other."

Christopher and Kirk are at St. John's this year, repeating ninth grade because of a school requirement that students attend at least two years and because it only takes

Writer has probing mind

Dear Ms. Green,

I have been reading your column for the last several weeks and have been interested in graphology for about a year. I'm amazed that you are able to tell so much about a person, based on one or two short paragraphs of script.

Is it possible to tell what career would suit me? I'm considering a change, but can't come to a decision on what to take.

J.D., Detroit

Dear J.D.,

I am happy for your interest in graphology. For the record, let me say the traits that can be revealed in a few short paragraphs of handwriting are, of course, limited and somewhat general. An in-depth study of a person's handwriting requires at least two pages written at different times and will be more definitive. Still an interesting amount can be gleaned from a short sample, such as yours.

To suggest a career from two paragraphs of handwriting would be too risky. However, after reading your analysis perhaps you can zero in on your strengths.

I feel confident that you are a young man who will always need a career that provides stimulation for your probing mind. Curious, analytical, logical and systematic thinking are pervasive in your handwriting. You seek solutions to problems and need the reasons behind everything.

While receptive to the ideas and views of others, you must analyze and ferret out what you can accept as you go. Once you have made up your mind you may become rather firmly based.

SELF-DISCIPLINED YOURSELF, you are inclined to inflict discipline upon those around you. Others may see you as somewhat inflexible.

Work is performed with precision and control. You are highly organized and resent wasting time. Results oriented, you can be aggressive as you pursue your goals.

You appear to be experiencing some pressure to perform. With this limited sample, I cannot say where the pressure is coming from. However, I suspect you know.

There is a directness about you. Protocol may not be your first priority. A tendency to be talkative may also cause you difficulty in keeping a confidence. In some areas you may be making mountains out of molehills.

I see tension here. Involvement in sports or some type of physical activity may be helpful in releasing it.

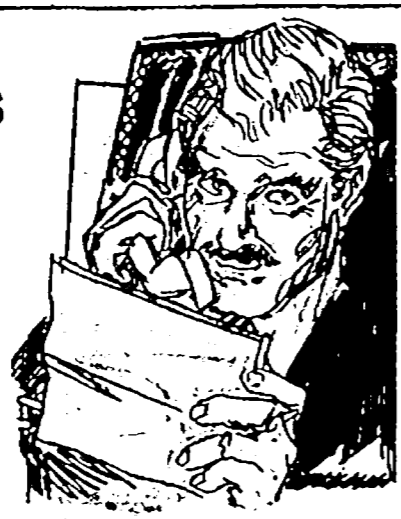

It seems quite possible you have experienced an emotional trauma that you have not fully resolved.

In closing, I want to stress the importance of selecting a career with a mental challenge. Without this stimulation, you can become bored, critical, quarrelsome and aggressive.

*If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, date of birth and handedness are helpful. And feedback is always welcome. # Parents: Partners in co-op nurseries

This is a new series on child care. Marcie Walker welcomes your input — questions, suggestions for columns, examples of good child care. Write her in care of the Observer & Eccentric, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham 4800p.

child care
Marcie Walker

Nursery co-ops are 100-percent parent-administered nursery schools held in facilities such as churches and elementary schools.

Classes meet during the regular school year. To serve the needs of these facilities, the Greater Detroit Co-Operative Nursery Council (GDCNC) was founded 35 years ago, currently, 88 co-operative nursery schools in the Greater Detroit area are members of this volunteer organization.

Most co-ops have a program for 3-year-olds that meet twice a week and one for 4-year-olds that meets three times a week.

According to Bernadette Hamilton, Nursery consultant of the GDCNC board, some co-ops now have a toddler program that meet once a week for an hour and a half. The toddler program is for 2-year-olds and a parent; the parent is required to stay on the premises.

Class size ranges from 12 to 21 children, depending on the age group and the particular co-op.

HAMILTON STRESSES that the philosophy of the co-op is "learning through play." No academic emphasis is placed on their programs.

Parental participation is the key to the success of the nursery co-op.

In most co-ops, a parent is required to help out one day a month as a teacher's assistant; others might help cleaning smocks, checking equipment, or with other jobs. The nature of the program usually requires one parent to be home full time.

However, Hamilton says that even working parents can participate if they're interested. A child could be brought to school by a baby sitter, and the parent could compensate another to work in his or her stead.

In some cases, parents work on a rotating basis, the mother working one month, the father the next.

In addition to greatly reduced rates compared with other nursery schools, the co-op nursery serves as a support group. Parenting meetings are frequently held, with guest speakers lecturing on pertinent topics.

The toddler program especially offers the opportunity to meet others in the same family situation, since parents remain on the premises.

For information on co-ops in your area, contact either Bernadette Hamilton (563-1892) or Evelyn Peter-Lawshe (589-3295), district representative of the GDCNC. They will be happy to help to select a co-op nursery that best fits your needs.

Marcie Walker, a Bloomfield Township resident, is the mother of one and one-to-be. Her column was prompted by her own research into area child care.

State, Northwest ARCs set benefits

The Associations of Retarded Citizens of Michigan and Northwest Communities are staging physically fit fund-raising events during May.

ARC Northwest Communities is asking people to strap on a pair of roller skates Sunday, May 7, for its annual Superskate '89.

The skate-a-thon will be held from noon to 5 p.m. at Riverside Arena on Plymouth Road in Livonia. Co-sponsored by the Livonia Kiwanis Easy-Riders, skaters will earn prizes for themselves while earning money for the ARC.

This is the ninth year for the event, which has raised thousands of dollars for the ARC services and programs for children and adults with mental retardation who live in the northwest area of Wayne County.

For more information about Superskate '89, call the ARC office at 937-2360.

ARC/Michigan will hold its first annual ARC Spirit Run Saturday, May 20, in Wayne County's Hines Park.

The fund-raising event will include a 10K run and a 5K walk. Participants will collect pledges for each mile completed, and the walker or runner who collects the most money over $200 will be in line for a grand prize of a $200 gift certificate.

PARTICIPATION is open to people of all ages, including those confined to wheelchairs. The money raised will go toward programs and services provided by ARC/Michigan in Wayne and Livingston counties.

For more information about the Spirit Run, call (800) 292-7851.

And for persons interested in what services are available in Wayne County for persons with mental retardation, autism, cerebral palsy or epilepsy, the Wayne County Association for the Retarded will hold a Consumer Information Day, Tuesday, May 2, at Sacred Heart Seminary, Livonia and West Chicago, Detroit.

The program is free of charge. For more information or to preregister, call Michael Spooner at 833-8100.

School combines academics and adventures

By Sue Mason
staff writer

A school year that starts off with a 2½-week canoe trip and includes a 26-mile snowshoe race? Sounds more like a Scout camp than a school.

Don't let the call of the wild or the isolation fool you. St. John's School of Ontario is neither Scout camp nor military service. It's a living experience for its students. The responsibilities are part of a carefully thought-out game plan that teaches them to depend on themselves and others.

Affiliated with the Anglican Church of Canada, St. John's is one of three such schools in the country, staffed mainly by members of the Company of the Cross.

In the town of Claremont, 20 miles north of Toronto, the school serves as a rescue station for young boys who, for whatever reason, are unable to blossom in the public school system," as one parent said.

St. John's is neither a country club nor a prison. It is private school, situated on an old farm. The house serves as the classroom building, and old portable buildings from a lumber camp are the dormitories.

The enrollment is only 64 boys, 12 to 17 years of age, or in the seventh through 10th grade. The school limits the grade span because those are the "formative years, when decisions about life values are made," headmaster Rodney Voss said.

A MAJORITY of students are from the Toronto area, with students coming from as far away as Hong Kong. Five students are from the Detroit metropolitan area — Northville, Rochester, Redford Township and Mount Clemens.

The boys sleep in bunk beds eight to a room. They are allowed one drawer under the bottom bunk for clothes and a portion of a clothes rack at the foot of each set of beds for their clothing.

Forget the wild clothes — T-shirts promoting this or that rock band or decorated with off-colored sayings. St. John's has a dress code. Boys wear a school uniform — although with the rural setting, there's a definite need for sturdy boots and flannel shirts for doing assigned chores in and around the school. The students play a major role in the upkeep and total operation of the school.

THE SCHOOL offers a traditional curriculum — literature, grammar, mathematics, science, history, French and Latin — with small class sizes (20 to 22 students per class) and a healthy dose of physical activities. In addition to the canoe trip and snowshoeing, the students all participate in intramural sports.

The students also participate in honey sales door-to-door in Toronto. The sales help reduce the cost of attending St. John's. But even with such sales, the cost is anything but cheap.

Tuition for out-of-town students is $11,400 Canadian. The cost is $500 to $1,000 more for first-year students because of the purchase of equipment, such as a sleeping bag and snowshoes.

There's also a billeting charge of $25 for out-of-town students for weekends when they stay with host families rather than go home. Twenty dollars goes to the host family and $5 to the student as pocket money.

TRADITIONAL IN its methods, respect is a key word at St. John's, respect for oneself and for others. For those who lack respect, there is corporal punishment. Nothing extreme, mind you, just three swats with the paddle, enough to get the message across to the wayward student.

Punishment can be meted out for being out of bed after lights out, making noise during the evening study hour or not answering appropriately in class.

So where do snowshoeing and canoe trips fit into the scheme of things? The canoe trip teaches the boys to work together and gets them attuned to the school's philosophy of doing the best they can be. Likewise, the snowshoeing puts into practice the idea that "if you start something, you finish it."

PARENTS ARE involved with the school. While they don't see their sons their first month at school so the boys can adjust to the school setting, they are there to work at the school during the canoe trip, honey sales and snowshoe race.

The school is selective in choosing students. Both the boy and his parents are interviewed. The registrar could turn down a prospective student or his parents if there isn't a clear understanding of the commitment and effort required in undertaking the school's various programs.

St. John's helps to motivate children in boys in the seventh through 10th grade.

They have weathered a 2½-week canoe trip that opens the school year and teaches the boys to depend on each other and be responsible, and a 26-mile snowshoe race that turned into a foot race because of a lack of snow.

BOTH MOTHERS have noticed the change in their sons. The boys are more mature and more responsible. And academically, they are slowly and steadily improving.

"I noticed a change in him after the canoe trip," Hendricksen said. "He was more mature, more responsible. Before, if he didn't feel like doing something he left it for someone else. He would leave his dirty work for someone else."

The boys are considered "out-of-towners" at St. John's. (A majority of the students are the Toronto area.) In fact, there are five boys — Kirk, Christopher and boys from Redford Township, Rochester and Mount Clemens — at St. John's.

BEING "OUT-OF-TOWNERS" at the school isn't easy. Just getting back to school after a weekend at home involves taking a train from Windsor to Toronto, the rapid transit to the outskirts of Toronto and a cab to Claremont. It is the boys' responsibility to make the appropriate connections.

The parents said sending their sons to St. John's wasn't an easy decision, but one made because they felt they had to do something to motivate them, something they felt the alternative, a military school, wouldn't do.

"I had mixed emotions," Hendricksen said. "I wonder if he was going to be treated properly. But here, the school district really didn't have a place for Kirk because he didn't fit in with what they called the norm. They wrote him off or shuffled him to another teacher. They don't do that at St. John's here."

"They get a lot of care, love and concern at St. John's that they wouldn't get at a military school," Binder said. "The discipline is very tough at St. John's; it's sort of the old way, but not like at a military school. They're strict and what they stress is respect for others and for themselves."

"Christopher is very positive about the school and enjoys the discipline."

HENDRICKSEN WISHES a similar program could be available locally so that boys who need to be challenged could experience what her son has since starting at St. John's.

"There's no words to describe the sensation the boys are experiencing," she said. "They don't really push the boys; they're not made to be role models, just to be they best they can be."

Parents interested in finding out more about St. John's School can call the school at (416) 471-6761. The Hendricksens and the Binders also invite questions from parents. The Binders are planning an informal open house Saturday, May 6, at their Rochester home, during a visit by St. John's headmaster, Rodney Voss, and several students. Call the Binders at 375-0658 after 8 p.m. or the Hendricksens at 348-1362.

'Hot Fudge' star Santos highlights YWCA Town Hall

Larry Santos will serve up a healthy dose of "Hot Fudge" when he appears before the YWCA of Western Wayne County's Town Hall benefit luncheon Friday, May 12, at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

The luncheon will start at 11:30 a.m., with lunch to be served at noon.

Designs by Olga's of Royal Oak will be modeled during the luncheon. Olga Roy handcrafts high-fashion jewelry using mixed media and semi-precious stones.

SANTOS, A trained musician, has been captivating children for more than eight years with his nationally syndicated television show, "Hot Fudge." He also is a leading commercial soloist in the United States.

His raspy baritone voice is heard daily since he plays piano for many of his own recordings and productions. His songs and performances are also part of the "Hot Fudge" show. He is a recording and concert artist and well-known club performer.

Chairing the fund-raiser is Kay Neff, with help from Mary DeGiulio, Margaret Fulton, Gretchen Ackermann-Moss, Connie Bazinski, Margaret Glatfelter, Dorothy Davenport, Valerie Latzman, Helen Tomlin, Clementine Payton, Marie Bright, Mary Ruth Ross, Mary Ribbron, Edna Parker and YWCA executive director Corinne Vincent.

Tickets for the luncheon cost $20 each and are available through May 9 by contacting the YWCA at 561-4110. Tables for parties of 10 may be reserved in advance.

The YWCA of Western Wayne County, at 26279 Michigan Ave., Inkster, provides decentralized services to families in 10 western Wayne County communities.

Meeting examines chaplaincy

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

As cars roll off the assembly line, so do the personal problems of those people who make them.

There are a number of ways of dealing with them. For one, there's always professional counseling.

But Lowell Lawson of Livonia has a better idea — a chaplaincy program.

Lawson, who has served as a chaplain for the Detroit Police Department, is helping United Auto Workers' locals establish their own chaplaincy programs.

Some 60 UAW locals across the country, including Local 174 in Livonia, are in various stages of starting chaplaincy programs. The UAW International body has yet ratify a program. But Lawson and some UAW locals are already getting a jump on things.

On May 19-20, a UAW Chaplaincy Conference will take place at Livonia Baptist Church. There Lawson will provide the nuts and bolts for starting such a program.

"One of the purposes of the conference is bringing these people together for support and an exchange of information on the core of it," said Lawson, who directed a pilot project in chaplaincy at Local 599 in Flint in 1985.

THE QUALIFICATIONS are what anyone would expect for a chaplain: integrity, trustworthiness and accepting others without judgment. The chaplain is a minister trained to counsel in areas of physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs.

They serve people of all faiths; their purpose is not to impose particular beliefs on others.

Just as important, though, is the person's occupation. Who better to understand the stresses of working in an auto factory than someone on the line?

"The helping person identifies with the worker's job," Lawson said. "Military chaplains are part of the same environment of the person that is being counseled. That gives it legitimacy.

"I think it's a stressful time in the auto industry. We're aware of how volatile the auto industry has been. There have been plants that have closed... They live in this constant anxiety."

A person would need to be sensitive to such things as divorce, illness, problems with teenage kids and dealing with preretirement or layoffs. The latter is particularly difficult for autoworkers.

Many auto workers, generally, are paid well enough to live a comfortable life, Lawson said. When that suddenly vanishes, the worker is tossed into a crisis situation.

CHANCES ARE funding candidates for such a position wouldn't be difficult. Many people in auto plants are always around to lend a sympathetic ear.

The UAW has established programs to help workers such as the Employee Assistance Program, which employs doctors, nurses, psychologists and substance abuse counselors. A chaplaincy program offers an added dimension.

Lawson believes it's only a matter of time before the UAW International sponsors such a program. In the meantime, individual locals are putting together their own chaplaincy projects.

Part of the guidelines for starting a chaplaincy program include ways of supporting one. Lawson helps get the wheels rolling in such endeavors.

He's director of chaplaincy development for the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. Currently he's involved in establishing chaplaincy programs in other settings, such as airport and law enforcement agencies.

Once started, such programs are met with open arms.

"The comment I hear from the workers is, 'I wish we had this 20 years ago,'" Lawson said.

The UAW Chaplaincy Conference will take place Friday and Saturday, May 19-20, at Livonia Baptist Church, 32940 Schoolcraft, Livonia. Cost for the two-day conference is $25, which covers materials and meals. Fees for individual days are $15 for Friday and $10 for Saturday. For information, write Chaplain Lowell Lawson, 14124 Arcola, Livonia 48154.

Good work

Faith Lutheran Church of Livonia will give four sheep to Heifer Project International as the result of a Sheep Fair it held last month. The project gives livestock to needy people as a way to offset world hunger. The Sheep Fair included crafts and snacks prepared by the church school children and a raffling of a quilt made by the church women. Three small sheep were also on hand and attracted plenty attention from fair goers like Scott Flohr (from left), Brad Garrity, Ruth Helzer and Emily Seltz.

church bulletin

The church bulletin is published every Thursday in the Observer. Information must be received in the Livonia office by noon the Monday prior to publication.

p.m. Saturday, May 6, at the church, 17500 Farmington Road, Livonia. An auction and bag sales will be held 2:30-4:30 p.m.

● FASHION SHOW

The fashion show, "Spring Fling," will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, May 4, at Grand River Baptist Church, 34500 Six Mile, west of Farmington Road, Livonia. Fashions will be provided by Lizbeths of Birmingham. Donation of $5 can be paid at the door. For information, call 261-6950 or 591-1980.

● MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER

A Marriage Encounter weekend will take place Friday through Sunday, May 5-7, in Lansing. The weekend is designed for all couples who desire a richer, fuller marriage. The services are led by a United Methodist clergy couple and three presenting couples; however, the weekend is open to people of all faiths. For information, call Ken and Virginia Klein at 522-3473.

● MUSICAL

Aldersgate United Methodist Church will have a musical presentation by the group, Living Truth, at 7:45 p.m. Friday, May 5. This unique group plays 17 historical and contemporary instruments, including a zither, autoharp, dulcimers and synthesizers. They have performed extensively throughout the United States. The church is at 10000 Beech Dale, between Plymouth and West Chicago roads, Redford Township. For information, call 937-3170.

'Double-parking' clogs spirit

One of my favorite cartoons depicts an American couple rushing up the steps of the Louvre in Paris, shouting "Where's the Mona Lisa? We're double-parked!"

Physically, mentally, emotionally, we're all double-parked. We are in a hurry. The schedule is our master, the clock is our altar. If we miss the signal light, we feel frustrated. We do not have time for conversation, for people, for civic or philanthropic work.

When approaching an acquaintance, we assume the countenance of preoccupation, saying: "How are you? Fine?" We hope the friend will keep walking. In fact, there is no reason to stop, since the person has been queried and answered. Indeed, we would be irritated if the other responded with a full description of his state of well-being, or lack thereof.

Like flying on the Patches, we are moving too fast to know precisely where we are and with whom we are traveling.

IN OUR culture, which is oriented toward material success and creature comforts, an increasing number of us find it necessary to follow more than one occupation or hold more than one job. While this may temporarily improve one's financial position, it may also grievously impair family and community relationships.

Pollster Lou Harris has recently declared, "Time may have become the most precious commodity in the land." In a recent article in Time magazine, it was noted that the amount of leisure time enjoyed by the average American has shrunk 37 percent since 1973. Over the same period, the average work week, including commuting, has jumped from under 41 hours to nearly 47 hours.

"In a culture so committed to saving time, we feel increasingly deprived of the very thing we value," Jeremy Rifkin, a social theorist, recently said.

IN OUR impatient, frantic society, we need to take five-minute breaks to observe the flower in bloom or the child at play, listen to the sound of the wind, observe the slant of the sun and see the homeless standing alone.

Double-parking is such a problem in our streets, minds and schedules that we need to be reminded of direction and devotion to a high purpose.

A passage from "Alice in Wonderland" comes to mind. Alice asks the Cheshire Cat, "Would you tell me, please, which way I should go from here?"

"That depends a good deal on where you want to go," the cat replies. "I don't much care where," Alice says. "Then it doesn't matter which way you go," the cat retorts.

Ours is not a wonderland, but a hard world of stern chores, competing freedoms and awesome responsibilities. We must find purpose in life if we seek satisfaction and fulfillment in living. Since time sweeps us forward, we must choose a path that enables us to become the master of time, and not its most pathetic servant.

Week stresses consumer influence on economy

"Consumers Open Markets" is the 1989 theme for National Consumers Week, April 23-29. This theme emphasizes the power each one of us, as consumers, has in our local, national and international economies. Consumers open and close markets from neighborhood markets, media markets, supermarkets to world market. All products from hamburgers to hoses and services from shoe repair to day care succeed or fail based on our consumer decisions.

National Consumers Week is a special time set aside each year to:

- recognize the vital role consumers play in the success of our economy;
- highlight important and ongoing consumer programs;
- unveil new consumer efforts;
- focus on consumer issues.

The focus is on the rights and freedoms we enjoy as consumers in the American Marketplace and the important role we play as buyers in an economic system based on the freedom to produce and purchase.

Article One of the Constitution established a free enterprise system with common currency, standard weights and measures, reliable legal procedures and interstate and international trade. It provided the incentive for the invention of new products through patents and trademarks and paved the way for a national postal system. These same provisions are still working for consumers and businesses more than 200 years later.

THE CONSUMER Bill of Rights was adopted by President Kennedy and has been endorsed by each succeeding president. The five consumer rights are:

1. The right to choose: to be assured, wherever possible, access to a variety of products and services at competitive prices.
2. The right to information: to be protected against fraudulent, deceitful or misleading information and to be given the facts to make an informed choice.

3. The right to safety: to be protected against the marketing of goods that are hazardous to health or life.

4. The right to be heard: to be assured that consumer interests will receive fair consideration in the formation of government policy.

5. The right to Consumer Education: to be given information about each consumer's rights and responsibilities, so that, each individual can participate completely in the marketplace.

Each purchasing decision you make is a vote — for one product over another or no product. Do not make the choice lightly or abdicate the decision to others.

Consumer education is a lifetime process in our fast-paced society. National Consumers Week has been established to focus attention on consumers — you — as the hub of our economy. Celebrate National Consumers Week all year round by making responsible, informed choices when making a purchase.

Menopause: It can be normal or severe

Dear Jo: Could you please address the subject of menopause in your column? When does it need treatment? What treatments are available? Thank you.

Mrs. G., 40 Plus Reader

Dear Mrs. G.:

Most women going through menopause do not require any treatment at all. It is, for them, just another part of the natural development in the female life cycle.

Treatment is needed only for severe symptoms of menopause. These include hot flashes, episodes of sweating followed by breathlessness and chills, and vaginal changes.

Many doctors prescribe estrogen replacement therapy (ERT) as a major treatment. ERT using a synthetic estrogen, supplements the decreasing amounts of estrogen produced by the body. Estrogen in pill gerontology

A. Jolayne Farrell

form is most often prescribed for the prevention of osteoporosis. It is applied in cream form for several vaginal symptoms.

Estrogen therapy can be highly effective but it must be used with caution. There are many reasons for this.

APPROXIMATELY 10 percent of women who use estrogen experience side effects such as nausea, headaches, vaginal discharge, fluid retention, swollen breasts and weight gain.

Some early studies suggested that breast cancer and heart disease were associated with estrogen use. Current evidence refutes this evidence — yet the controversy continues.

Cancer of the endometrium (lining of the uterus) has been found to occur more frequently in women who use ERT containing estrogen as the only ingredient, compared with untreated women.

Present treatment usually combines estrogen with progestin (another hormone), and this combination appears to reduce the risk of endometrial cancer. But even with this improved form of estrogen therapy, experts do not yet know if its long-term use is completely safe.

WOMEN WHO are poor candidates for ERT are those who have had (or now have) heart disease, breast or endometrial cancer, stroke, migraine headaches, high blood pressure, blood clots or other circulatory disorders.

Other conditions that warrant extreme caution in the use of ERT are obesity, a family history of cancer, vaginal bleeding, liver or gallbladder disease and diabetes.

Women who are at high risk of developing osteoporosis or have severe symptoms accompanying menopause should discuss the use of ERT with their doctors.

Benefits rule a headache to small business

By Mary DiPaolo
special writer

A Farmington veterinarian says he's been to three seminars since January and spoken to his accountant, but all he's got to show for his efforts are four different interpretations of what he describes as "one heck of a mess."

What's all this discussion about?

Section 89. Among other rules, Section 89 requires that employer-provided employee benefit plans pass several tests to determine whether benefit plans unduly favor highly compensated employees, generally those earning $50,000 or more per year. (See related story for Section 89 provisions).

"There are so many unanswered questions as to what and what does not constitute discrimination," says John Richardson, owner of Plaza Veterinary Hospital in Farmington. Richardson employs several part-time workers. Under Section 89, part-time workers who work as few as 17.5 hours per week must be included in calculations to determine whether plans are discriminatory.

"If I'm paying $1.25 per hour for each of my employees' benefits — and yet one works 20 hours and the other works 40 hours a week — is the total cost going toward each of these employees' benefits in itself discriminatory? One expert told me yes; the other said no," Richardson said.

He also questions the benefit eligibility issue.

"Suppose an employer has a standard waiting period of three months before new employees can receive health coverage. But you find an excellent full-time prospect that wants or needs coverage right away. So you make an exception for that person. Is that being discriminatory?"

"How much is the 'mistake' going to cost in terms of specific tax penalties? Are employers better off dumping their benefits altogether? And if benefits are eliminated and offset by an increase in employee salaries, who's to say the extra funds would be used to obtain individual coverage?"

LEONARD GREY, officer with the Birmingham-based CPA firm of Grey and Trepeck, calls Richardson's questions typical.

"As I've explained Section 89 to our clients, the end result is that they're discontinuing their employee benefit plans and compensating some people so they can pay health insurance premiums out of their own pockets," Grey said.

Grey agrees that there aren't any guarantees that employees who are compensated to obtain health coverage on their own will do so.

"There are one million people in this state without health insurance at the present time. It will certainly be interesting to see how the numbers change by the end of this year."

"Up to now, approximately 10 of our small business clients with 10 or fewer employees have made the decision to dump their benefits," Grey said.

Relief a year away

By Marilyn Fitchett
staff writer

Although one move is afoot in Congress to repeal Section 89 and another to amend it, employers should not expect to see any changes this year and are being advised to comply with the IRS ruling.

More than 250 members of Congress, including U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Lake Orion, have signed on as co-sponsors of legislation repealing Section 89. The bill to repeal is being led by Small Business Committee chairman John Falce, a Democrat from New York.

On Tuesday, a hearing was scheduled for House Ways and Means chairman Dan Rostenkowski's bill to alter Section 89 in the form of an amendment to the national budget bill. Rostenkowski is a Democrat from Illinois.

According to Sean Foley, legislative aide to U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, Rostenkowski's amendment clears up questions of discrimination in benefit plans and sets a health care guideline. Levin is a member of the Ways and Means Committee and is supporting the amendment.

"Rather than looking at who's participating in the (benefits) plan, you can look at the design of the plan and

'89' questions participation, discrimination

Section 89, a provision of the 1986 Tax Reform Act that goes into effect this year, has two major parts: qualification (or documentation/minimum participation) rules and non-discrimination rules. Section 89 applies to all employers, both public and private. Only churches and church-controlled tax-exempt organizations are exempt.

According to Buck Consultants, the general requirements of Section 89 are similar to those for pension plans.

Under the qualification rules, an employer is required to provide a benefit plan and have notified employees of it. It must be developed exclusively for employees, legally enforceable and maintained for an indefinite period of time. An employer must provide "reasonable" written notice of benefits available under the plan to employees who are eligible to participate by July 1, or the first day of the plan year.

If the plan violates the qualification rules, all employees will be taxed on the cost of the plan benefits they received, and employers will be subject to tax penalties if taxable amounts are not reported on employee W-2s.

Donald H. Scharg, principal with the Fishman Group, a Bloomfield Hills law firm specializing in management/labor law, offers an example.

"If an employee needed major surgery and the company's health plan pays out $100,000 to cover it, that money will become taxable income to the employee" if the benefit plan does not meet the qualification regulations of Section 89, Scharg said.

The following plans are included in the qualification requirements of Section 89 if the employer pays for any portion of the benefit or arranges for a discount for employee paid benefits:

- Accident or health plans
- Group life insurance
- Qualified tuition reduction programs
- Cafeteria plans
- Employee discounts
- Employer operated eating facilities
- Voluntary Employees' Benefits Associations
- Qualified group legal services
- Educational assistance.

ACCORDING TO Steve Hacker, general agent with American Community Mutual Insurance Co. of Livonia, Section 89 encourages employers to develop more consistent benefit packages for their employees.

"The law does not prohibit plans that are discriminatory; rather it works to ensure that these types of benefits be treated as taxable income," Hacker said.

The non-discrimination tests compare the value of employer-provided benefits available to highly compensated employees to the value of benefits available to the rest of the work force. They apply to employees working as few as 17.5 hours per week. In general, a highly compensated employee earns more than $50,000 per year.

Expo marks 3rd birthday

Business trade show at S'craft

By Emory Daniele
staff writer

The Greater Livonia Expo will be open Tuesday through Thursday in the gymnasium of Schoolcraft College, Haggerty north of Six Mile in Livonia.

Approximately 6,000 people are expected to attend the western suburban trade show to become acquainted with the services and products of area businesses, according to Michael Cooney, who is heading the expo for the sponsoring Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

The show is free, except for the preview party from 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, which is open to the public at $15 a plate.

THE PREVIEW party will feature a "Taste of Livonia," during which more than 20 restaurant establishments in Livonia and neighboring communities will offer samples of their specialties. Those buying 20 or more tickets rate a reduced price of $10 per ticket.

Many participating exhibitors offer customers complimentary tickets to the party, Cooney said.

Wednesday, a chamber luncheon will be held beginning at noon in the Waterman Center of Schoolcraft. Guest speaker will be Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. Tickets are $10 each.

A wine tasting party will be held by the Wine Castle from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Show hours are 1-8 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. To buy tickets for the preview party or chamber luncheon, call the Livonia chamber at 427-2122.

IN A SMALLER show like the Greater Livonia Expo, exhibitors have greater visibility, said James Skinner, whose company, Shows and Expos Inc., is hired by the chamber to manage the show.

Unlike the huge shows at Cobo

Hall, the Livonia expo "gets so much more community involvement," Skinner said.

The expo, which started with 115 exhibitors in 1987, is expected to sell out its 135 booths before the show, Cooney said.

"People who have been in the last two shows were anxious to sign up again. Forty exhibitors signed up last year for the '89 show."

THREE YEARS ago John White, executive director of the Livonia chamber, was looking for a way to "provide better service to our members" when this idea came up.

"Since then it's been one nice success story."

"Cooperation from the college makes the show possible," Cooney said.

Although the chamber pays a nominal charge, the facility is the largest, most affordable in the area, he said.

The show is scheduled to coincide with the break between semesters, so ample free parking will be available.

Battling the IRS in court

For most people, taking on the Internal Revenue Service is as far-fetched as stepping into the ring with Mike Tyson. But the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs points out that the IRS is not unbeatable. If you believe that an examiner's findings are unfair or inaccurate, you have the right to appeal within the IRS or through the court system.

How you initiate an appeal depends, in part, on the type of audit you have undergone and the amount of tax liability in dispute. For a field audit involving a tax dispute of $2,500 or more, you are generally required to file a written statement or protest. But in a correspondence or office audit, where the IRS asks you to submit documentation related to certain items on your tax return, you can usually begin an appeal simply by asking to meet with the examiner's supervisor. The supervisor will review the audit, discuss your concerns and try to resolve the dispute.

IF YOU cannot reach an agreement on this level, your next step is requesting an appeals conference within the IRS. In either case, if you plan to appeal an examiner's decision, make sure that you do not sign the agreement form that the IRS agent provides at the end of an audit.

The majority of tax disputes are resolved during appellate hearings. These proceedings are relatively informal and you may even choose to represent yourself. But you may ask a certified public accountant or attorney to appear before the IRS on your behalf.

Because the hearing is generally limited to one meeting, be prepared to present and discuss documentation for each and every item in dispute. The appeals officer will review the government's chances of winning in court and, in most cases, argue for a speedy resolution. It's the appeals officer's job to settle the case out of court whenever possible. As a result, you may find that the appeals officer is more willing to negotiate than was the original auditor. During the hearing, expect a great deal of bargaining to occur and be prepared to make your own concessions.

IF YOU cannot reach an agreement in the appeals office, you still have the right to appeal to the courts. But do not make this decision lightly. Court disputes can be time consuming and extremely expensive. In some cases, litigation can last years and cost a small fortune. Before taking your case to court, put aside your hard feelings and re-examine your tax bill. You can argue the case on principle, but make sure you consider whether it makes sense to spend thousands of dollars to dispute a $1,000 tax bill. On the other hand, your future tax bills may in fact be affected by the principle you fight to support.

If you decide to take the litigation route, there are two paths you can follow. You can go directly to the United States Tax Court or you may appeal to the United States District Court or the Court of Claims. Don't assume that all roads lead to the same result. In 1987, taxpayers won complete or partial victories in 88.4 percent of the regular tax cases fought in Tax Court, but they won only 19.5 percent of those argued in the District Court and 14.8 percent of those argued in the Court of Claims.

The U.S. Tax Court is totally independent of the IRS. In the small tax claims division for cases involving $10,000 or less in disputed tax, you can attend with or without an adviser. But in cases involving disputes of more than $10,000, you will have to follow the same rules of procedure as those in effect in regular courts.

Section 89 rules prove to be a big headache

IF, IN FACT, Section 89 leads to employers dropping benefits, it will be the ultimate irony for those who believe that Section 89 represents Congress' attempt to extend employee benefits, especially health care coverage, to lower-income workers.

Sherry Mirasola, director of public affairs and communication with the Michigan Hospital Association, says the nation's health care crisis is one of the factors behind Section 89.

"It has been estimated that the tax penalties imposed on employers who do not comply with Section 89 will generate between $300 million and $500 million over the next five years," Mirasola said.

She added that no one knows how the tax revenues will be used.

"Last year alone, Michigan hospitals provided over $342 million of uncompensated care. So it becomes fairly obvious how Section 89 is just one of several strategies that need to be implemented in overcoming the problems of the uninsured."

Grey believes that the problem with Section 89 isn't so much compliance, as the paperwork required to comply. For example, the testing procedures for Section 89's non-discrimination rules require that a company offering medical coverage to single workers, workers with spouses, and workers with children (with each option offering two deductibles) falls under six plans for testing purposes.

Myndi Fynke, president of Employee Health Insurance Management in Farmington Hills, says that business owners still have a choice before deciding what to do about Section 89.

"Some firms will find that it's less expensive to provide the same benefits to all employees and avoid discrimination. Others who discriminate will choose to pay the extra income taxes every year because the total penalties will be less expensive. And, of course, there will be those who are totally unaffected by Section 89, and had nothing to worry about in the first place," she said.

Al Senchuck, tax manager with the Farmington Hills-based CPA firm of Morof, Sheplow and Weinstein, suggests that small business owners write to their representatives in Congress about their concerns. And Livonia councilwoman Laura Toy stresses why:

"If you don't let the government know what you think, you'll end up getting what they think you should have."

tell whether it meets Section 89," Foley said of the amendment.

In terms of benefit guidelines, there are two provisions.

"The first is that an employer provide at least a core medical package. Without defining what a 'core' package is, the amendment says that employers must provide health care coverage that will cost the employee no more than $10 per week if they're single or $25 per week for those with families."

The second deals with comparison of benefits. The benefits of a highly compensated employee cannot exceed 133 percent of the benefits of a member of the rank and file without being taxable.

The amendment also raises the age of employees that fall under Section 89's scrutiny from 17½ to 25 and excludes benefit plans hammered out in collective bargain-

Battling the IRS in court

If you choose to go to Tax Court, you do not have to pay the disputed amount, as is the case if you choose to appeal in federal court. But be warned: Decisions made in the small tax claims division are final. Neither you nor the IRS can appeal.

If you decide to take your appeal to a federal court, you must first pay the amount in dispute plus any interest and penalties owed. Next, you file a claim for a refund. If the claim is rejected, you may bring your suit to the U.S. District court where you live or the Court of Claims that hears cases in Washington D.C. The proceedings in either case are formal, and you will most likely need an attorney.

Why then would you select the District Court over Tax Court? For one, you may choose this route if you believe your case would fare better before a jury. (Tax Court hearings have no jury.) Or your professional advisers are aware of previous rulings that make it likely that a federal court would judge your case favorably. In other cases, such as those involving employment taxes, you have no choice; the case must be argued in the District Courts.

CPAs recommend that you make every attempt to settle your case early in the appeals process. But if you are convinced that your case is just, don't accept an unfair decision simply because you are afraid of getting into the ring with the IRS.

Big 3 getting serious about alternative fuels

GM's Methanol Marathon blasted off from the GM tech center last week in a cloud of eye-stinging fumes, a few days before another team of Chrysler engineers took Chrysler's methanol-powered car to Washington.

Both events mark a revival of interest in alternate fuels for the family, bus, the kind of research that enjoyed a short-lived popularity during the mid-1970s energy crisis but today raises as much interest as organic gardening.

Methanol is a type of alcohol mainly used to thin shellac and as a fuel for model airplanes. Now it's rapidly gaining notoriety as the first fuel being taken seriously as an alternative to gasoline for passenger cars since interest in diesel fuel dwindled a few years ago.

It's relatively costly and nearly unavailable at the moment. But federal regulators have made the auto industry an offer it can't refuse, and now GM and Ford are expected to have production methanol-fueled cars on the road in approximately three years, with Chrysler only a little further behind.

METHANOL IS a variety of alcohol derived mainly from coal or natural gas — two of the most plentiful supplies of energy short of crude oil. It has been used off and on for racing cars since it has a few properties that work well in high-performance engines.

It also enjoyed a short popularity in World War II with the Germans, who also pattered with charcoal fumes and gas from decaying chickens after Allied troops created a regional energy crisis for that country by cutting off Mideast oil supplies.

Today, methanol is being pitched

as a reasonably clean-burning fuel with the potential at least to supplement gasoline in quantity. California is buying a handful of methanol-fueled cars to test in the Los Angeles area, and GM is sponsoring a university design contest for the best-designed car burning the fuel.

NONE OF THIS is fueled by altruism.

The main interest to auto makers is the Alternative Motor Fuels Act of 1988. This includes some tricky arithmetic that allows automakers to average methanol-fueled cars in their corporate average fuel economy (CAFE) as if the cars were running at approximately 100 mpg, when in fact they get only approximately 12 mpg.

Under the act, if enough methanol-fueled cars are sold, a manufacturer can raise its CAFE average by up to 1.2 miles per gallon. This, of course, means that more low-mileage big cars can be sold without pushing the CAFE beyond legal limits.

In today's market, when customers are demanding big cars and big engines, while the corporate fuel averages are bumping against regulated limits, any relief is seen as a big incentive to new car sales.

The result is such a dramatic advantage for automakers selling methanol-fueled cars that both GM and Ford today are rushing to develop methanol-fueled cars by 1992, with Chrysler not far behind.

THE SUDDEN burst of government support for an alternate fuel is something of a mystery. California has been pushing alternate fuels as a hope for the future. But methanol, while it is relatively clean of smog-producing hydrocarbons, is rife with eye-stinging aldehydes. Likewise, the low energy content of the fuel means that it takes approximately twice as much to push a car a mile as gasoline does. Lastly, the lack of availability means both manufacturing facilities, storage and distribution systems will have to be built.

Despite the drawbacks, it offers the potential of a source of liquid fuel that will last far into the next century, and some freedom from oil imports — although the Mideast is the likely source of methanol as well as gasoline.

Probably of more significance than a handful of research cars is that it's the first sign of a long-range look at the future of energy for transportation in years, and one not driven exclusively by a current crisis — a welcome shift in thinking after muddling through for the past 15 years or so.

Age of product should determine market strategy

A product's life cycle refers to the four stages a new product or service goes through from beginning to end. These four stages are market introduction, market growth, market maturity and market decline.

Generally, product life cycle analysis relates to tracking sales and profit-related activity that occurs within a given industry — rather than for specific items.

This is because sales and profits generated by individual products or services do not follow a typical pattern and may, in fact, move in opposite directions when compared to industry activity as a whole.

For example, a copycat item introduced during its industry's market growth stage may never generate any sales and suffer a quick death.

Conversely, an improved product introduced during market maturity may boost industry sales enough to extend its product life cycle for several months.

focus: small business
Mary DiPaolo

MARKET INTRODUCTION represents the time when a brand-new product or service is being offered to potential customers.

Because potential buyers are unaware of the product and are not looking for it during this stage, money is being invested in hope of future sales and profits.

There are no other competitors during this stage, leaving managers free to choose which customer groups they want to reach through promotion, distribution and price-related strategies.

Promotional activities are focused on providing information to let prospective buyers know what the product or service is, what it can do and what needs it satisfies.

Taxes may affect life insurance

Part III

In this concluding column, we will discuss taxation of life insurance.

One of the most overrated and misinterpreted statements in the life insurance industry is that life insurance proceeds are tax free. This statement is not only misleading but, in certain instances, could be devastating.

A summary of the rules governing the taxability of life insurance proceeds is presented in the accompanying table. Clearly, the tax consequences significantly differ between distribution after death and during lifetime.

The table reveals that all life insurance policy death benefit distributions are exempt from federal income tax and, with few exceptions, from state inheritance taxes.

In addition, whether a policy's death benefit is subject to federal-estate taxes depends on who owns the policy. Life insurance proceeds are included in the gross estate of the insured only if the insured owns the policy.

If someone other than the insured, such as a life insurance trust or an irrevocable trust, owns the policy, the proceeds will not be included in the gross estate of the insured for purposes of figuring federal estate taxes.

Distribution during life

Policy loan — The law permits the tax-deferred accumulation of interest as long as the growth takes place inside an insurance policy. However, if the accumulated interest is withdrawn in the form of a loan, it is taxed as ordinary income.

Annuity distribution — Both fixed and variable annuity contracts assume that periodic payments represent a combination of return of principal and distribution of interest. Consequently, when a life insurance company makes an annuity payment, the return of principal portion escapes federal income taxes. The interest portion is taxed as ordinary income.

Total surrender — When a policy is surrendered and life insurance coverage is cancelled, the cash value (surrender value) is returned to the policyholder. In this case, the difference between the total amount of money received (cash value plus loans outstanding) and the total premium paid is taxed as ordinary income.

Phones must fit your business

If you are a new business owner who's looking toward expanding your company in the future, having more office space won't be your only concern. Your telephone system and the service to which you subscribe will be of the utmost importance to the everyday operations of your company.

Adding new telephones along with installation and rewiring fees are expensive. The biggest factor to consider in shopping for telephones and service is whether your present system can grow without requiring all new equipment or total rewiring.

For that reason, you should consider talking to three to four companies to determine if they can provide this service without a major additional cash outlay. Available features and extra services are almost equally important.

business resources

Lee Douglas

you bought that turned out to be an expensive lesson in shopping for quality? The same thought applies here.

Today's competition has driven down the purchase price of telephones to new lows. But that "economy telephone" may not be cost effective if it is poorly constructed.

You may want to talk to current customers of a potential vendor to discover how well their equipment has held up over extended periods of time. Before you sign on the dotted line you should also ask about warranty protection and service agreements.

You may find it a good value to pay a little extra in monthly bills to have accessible service and maintenance on a regular basis.

Toll-free 800 numbers and WATS (Wide Area Telephone Service) numbers, which provide subscribers with unlimited calls to certain geographical areas, are two of the most popular services used by small businesses.

But the variety of services is rapidly growing.

One company is even planning to provide a "distinctive rings" service. With this feature, employees will be alerted to a special ring when an important client calls.

But before you let yourself be carried away by the assortment of services, consider the size of your staff and the complexity of your business. Your telephone sales representative should spend enough time with you to determine your needs, explain your choices and list the costs.

In addition, a reliable company provides an extra service by getting back to you with follow-up information once the system has been installed.

MISS DIG logs 4 millionth

Michigan's MISS DIG utility damage prevention system became the world's first one-call system to log its 4 millionth call. The MISS DIG organization, the nation's first, is the nation's leader in call volume.

Mike Roush, owner and manager of R & H Septic Tank Co. near Kalamazoo, placed the milestone call on Tuesday, April 25, in preparation for installation of a septic trench. The MISS DIG program was formed in 1970 and expanded to the Upper Peninsula in 1976.

At least two working days before beginning a construction or excavation project, contractors or individuals can call MISS DIG's toll-free telephone number, 1-800-482-7171.

Back to being a bad guy

By Kevin Teevens
special writer

THE MOVIE THEATER audience was settling down, Max — the maniacal, meat-cleaver-toting, joke-cracking mass murderer — finally was dead.

Or was he?
From the back of the theater came the blood-curdling promise of a repeated in "The Horror Show" — "This isn't finished!"

Actor Brion James, who plays the evil Max Jenke, was out in the lobby stalking moviegoers at the film's Detroit-area premiere at the Americana Theatre in Southfield. Instead of a meat cleaver, he was armed with a pen for autographs.

"With a lot of actors, when they're done filming, they say goodbye to the project," said James, in an interview the next morning at the Radisson Plaza Hotel in Southfield. "I'm more than happy to visit Detroit." This stop was one on a five-city tour to promote the opening of "The Horror Show."

Character actor Brion James has played lots of bad guys — and good guys, too — in the movies and on television. He is nasty again, as maniacal Max in "The Horror Show" (R), at Detroit-area theaters.

'When I started in film, there was a pool of bad guys. The pool got smaller over the years as people branched out into different areas. I moved from a biker bad guy to a good ol' bad guy to white-collar heavies. Before "Horror Show," I was crossing over into good guy cops and more sympathetic roles.'

been exercising, working out with a home version of the electric chair with some strange results.

From his cell, he manipulates the reality of the detective and his family. Max causes the detective to hallucinate. Detective McCarthy doesn't understand this at first. And his family begins to think he's not firing on all cylinders. This doesn't stop when Max is executed because the essence of Max is catapulted from the electric chair into another dimension, where he can continue to wreak havoc on McCarthy and then the general population.

James, 44, brings almost 20 years acting experience to the role of Max. His film credits include "Southern Comfort" with Keith Carradine and Powers Booth, "48 Hours" with Nick Nolte and Eddie Murphy, and the now-classic science fiction film "Blade Runner," with Harrison Ford and Rutger Hauer. He also has appeared in numerous television shows from "Gunsmoke" to "Dynasty" and "Miami Vice."

James grew up in Beaumont, a city in southern California. It was there he developed a fascination with movies that led into acting.

"My father built a movie theater in 1939. From the time I was very young, I saw a lot of movies. I lived in movies. And as I got older, I became a big reader. I found this fantasy world in books and movies and I liked it there. That fantasy world, probably more than anything else, sparked my interest in acting."

He studied acting at San Diego State and with Stella Adler in New York. Along the way he performed as a stand-up comic and served a stint in the National Guard as a cook.

THE LAST TIME the actor was in the Detroit area, he was causing mayhem and driving around town in a van with a giant stuffed rat on the roof, playing a hit man/exterminator in the locally produced horror-spoof "Crimewave."

"I was here filming for three months in the dead of winter. You can keep your Michigan winters," the actor, who resides in California, said with a laugh.

The "Horror Show" is a cut above your run-of-the-mill slasher flick. In the film, Max is a twisted mass murderer bent on the destruction of the detective who put him behind bars, no matter what it takes. "Horror Show's" different because the terror is psychological," said James, breaking into the voice of Max.

"In a lot of horror movies there isn't much emotion or tension because you can't identify with any of the good guys. They get bumped off before you can get to know them. In this film, you care for the detective and his family. And Max isn't a faceless monster. That's one of the reasons why this movie is different. Freddie ("Nightmare on Elm Street") is a dream and Jason ("Friday the 13th") is a moron. Max is a real guy, just gone very, very bad."

Bad in more ways than one. Max wears Armani clothing.

Max is truly one mean dude in "Horror Show's" horror-fantasy — a combination of horror and science fiction. He has murdered 116 people before being caught and stopped by a police detective played by Lance Henriksen. We join the story with Max awaiting his fate on death row.

PRIOR TO his arrest and conviction, Max, who is no dummy, evidently studied electricity, psychology and the great beyond. He had

Feisty duo gets laughs

Performances of "I'm Not Rappaport" continue through Saturday, May 13, at the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford Playhouse in Redford. For ticket information, call 538-5678.

By Bob Weibel
special writer

The intensity of applause experienced by the cast of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "I'm Not Rappaport" says it all.

The show is a hit. Maybe grand slam says it better. Author Herb Gardner writes very funny lines about the problems of aging, and director Mattie Wolfe's cast skillfully bring them to life.

Veteran performer Howard Egan gives a stunning performance as a feisty, 81-year-old Jewish radical, Nat — whose daughter wants to put him in a home. But irascible Nat isn't ready to be carted off to the junk heap.

No sir. There are still causes to champion. A life to live. A world to observe from a park bench in Central Park.

Nat shares the bench with his friend, Midge, a nearly blind, black superintendent of an apartment building. David Boone is splendid as Midge, a shrewd senior who hides from his tenants in the boiler room, so they won't notice his affliction.

review

In an otherwise excellent production, the fisticuffs appear too artificial, especially when the Cowboy hits Laurie.

NAT AND MIDGE argue about most everything. Nat is given to challenging authority head-on. And, if need be, assuming characters, to bluff through situations (which enrages Midge). Nat is hilarious as a union lawyer, messing up a severance pay deal for Midge. The laughs roll on as Nat, a Mafia Don, makes an aborted attempt to scare off a young punk in the park.

Nat's daughter, Clara, is played effectively by Laura Niesen. At times, however, the character could use more warmth and less acrimony.

In supporting roles we have Richard Bulleri as a personable Danforth, head of the tenants association (the role will be played by assistant director Tom Hinks on Friday-Saturday, May 5 and 6, only); Jennie Betley as Laurie, a troubled would-be artist; Tyrone Franklin as a very convincing Gilley, who offers park visitors "protection," and David Rago as an intimidating Cowboy, who pushes dope and young women around.

Along that line, in an otherwise excellent production, the fisticuffs appear too artificial, especially when the Cowboy hits Laurie.

The set, on the other hand, is outstanding. In lieu of the large bridge that dominates the Broadway production, Judy Nakdimen designed a skyline, wall and trees around the park benches. The guild's intimate stage adds a very special ambience. It focuses attention on two lovable old codgers searching for respect and dignity in their twilight years. One laughs at their antics, while at the same time being touched by their humanity.

"I'm Not Rappaport" gives a poetic symmetry to the guild's 35th season, which opened with "Home," a story of two elderly gentlemen in an institution for the mentally impaired, that also featured Howard Egan.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

● 'LITTLE SHOP'
Players Guild of Dearborn will present the zany musical, "Little Shop of Horrors" Friday, May 7, through Sunday, May 21. No performance will be held on Mother's Day. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays, 2:30 p.m. Sundays. Area residents in the east are Sharon Sussman of Southfield as Audrey, Carl Jones of Redford as Seymour, Chris McParlan of Westland as Audrey II, Shawn Holcombe of Troy as Crystal and Nancy Donovan of Westland as Ronnette. Tickets are $8 in advance, $9 at the door. For reservations or information, call 356-0951.

● DINNER DANCE
A dinner dance featuring music of the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, conducted by Buddy Morrow, will be held Friday, May 5, at the new Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Dearborn. The Dorsey band is considered one of the premiere big bands playing across the United States today. The event is a fund-raiser for restoration projects at Fairlane, Henry and Clara Ford's home for more than 30 years, and now a National Historic Landmark on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Tickets for the black-tie event are $150 per person. For more information, call 593-5590.

● BENEFIT NIGHT
"Nightmusic," a benefit for the American Cancer Society, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, May 5, at the Royal Oak Community Center. The concert, which is the brainchild of Julie Barry and Company, features the musical talent of many young people in metropolitan Detroit. Show tunes and original compositions, as well as current pop hits, will be highlighted. Admission is $2 per person.

● RED GARTER
Doug Jacobs and the Red Garter Band are back at brunches on board the Star of Detroit at Hart Plaza, beginning Saturday, May 6, and continuing through October for the sixth season. Reservations should be made early, as the brunches are usually sold out. For reservations, call the Star of Detroit at 259-9160.

● STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL
The 21st annual International Strawberry Festival will be held from noon to 9 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, May 6-7, on the grounds of St. Florian Parish in Hamtramck, between I-75 and Joseph Campau, south of Caniff. The Strawberry Bakery offers homemade strawberry pies, cheesecakes, strudels and other pastries. Dancing is to the live music of the Nufonics, Coachmen, Chris and Music, Stylstix, Impalas, Soundairs and Harmony Jacks. Polish dance troupes in native costumes will perform, as well as St. Florian's own Strawberry Festival Dancers. Parking will be available one block west of the parish grounds.

● PIPE ORGAN
Dr. Robert Glasgow, American concert organist, will perform at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 7, at St. John's Episcopal Church in Royal Oak. Glasgow is currently professor of organ at the School of Music, University of Michigan, where he has taught since 1962. His appearance at St. John's will mark the first concert performance since installation of the church's new three-manual, 41-rank, Schantz pipe organ. Adults tickets are $7.50 in advance. Tickets at the door are $10 for adults, $7.50 for senior citizens and $5 for youth/students. For more information call the church at 546-1255.

● GAELIC LEAGUE
The Gaelic League will present Skylark in concert at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 7, at 2068 Michigan Avenue in Detroit, just west of Tiger Stadium, on the edge of historic Corktown. Tickets are $7 at the door. For further information call 963-8895.

● COUNTRY MUSIC
"This Country's Rockin'" concert will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday, May 6, at the Pontiac Silverdome. The eight-hour mega-concert is designed as a celebration of country music as it has evolved through the influences of rock 'n' roll and rhythm and blues. Tickets are $22.50. Tickets for senior citizens and children 12 and under are $2.50 off. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster locations and the Silverdome box office. Charge by phone at 645-6666.

● COMEDY NETWORK
Detroit's Chaplin's Comedy Club chain, Grand Rapid's Funny Business talent booking agency and Jonathon Round have banded together to create the Midwest's first organized comedy talent development network. A pre-production meeting to provide further information about "Tomorrow's Comedy Stars Tonight" will be held at 4:30 p.m. Monday, May 8, at Chaplin's East on Groesbeck Highway between 14 and 15 Mile roads in Mt. Clemens. For further information, call Jonathon Round at 543-6485.

● NEW SEASON
The Birmingham Theatre's 11th season will begin Sept. 19 with the second national company of the Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy "Driving Miss Daisy," followed by the musical "Oil City," which is still playing in New York, opening Oct. 31. The Ger-shwin musical "Oh, Kay!" co-produced with the Goodspeed Opera House of East Haddam, Conn., begins Dec. 30. The Tony-nominated musical "Romance, Romance" opens Feb. 14; the mystery "Wait Until Dark," April 3, and a new production of "Jesus Christ Superstar," May 16. For information about the season's subscription call 644-9225.

● ALBEE PLAY
"Seascape," a humorous look at change and the inevitability of change written by Edward Albee, is scheduled for 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays, May 5-6 and 12-13, at Smith Theatre on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. A matinee is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, May 7. Director Sandra Sutherland, English and philosophy faculty member at the college, will lead a symposium immediately following the performance. OCC faculty and cast members will assist her. Reservations and details may be obtained by calling 471-7700.

World record

TV cooks Joe Wnuk and Curt Relling will attempt to break the world record for the most ingredients in a pot of chili. The Guinness Book of World Records feat will be held Sunday during the Great Chili Cook-Off at the Saline Farm Council Grounds. In order to add 1,000 ingredients to a 60-gallon pot of chili, the cooking team must add one ingredient every 15 seconds during the day. Chili Joe and Chef Curtis are producers of the "Microwave Today" TV program. Admission to the cook-off is $5 for adults, $1 for children 12 and under. The cook-off, a benefit for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan, will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. For more information, call the foundation at 1-800-482-1455.

Forces collide at Observerland

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

If Richard Gordon had his druthers, he'd make sure Saturday's Observerland Relays weren't decided until the day's final event — the 1,600-meter relay.

For personal reasons. "I don't think anyone will run away with it," said Gordon, the Westland John Glenn boys track coach. "I think it will come down to the mile relay (1,600). I'm hoping it will, because I've got a good mile relay."

Glenn and Wayne Memorial each have recorded 3:25.0 in the 1,600 relay, and that's the best time by far in Observerland.

But Glenn is the odds-on favorite to win the Observerland Relays at Livonia Churchill, largely because defending champion Wayne will be missing a number of performers to the prom weekend.

WAYNE (5-0 in duals) clobbered Glenn 84-44 last month in a dual meet, but Wayne coach Joe Grasley isn't as confident about this next encounter. The Wayne prom is Friday night, and Saturday, several standouts, including Shayler Barnes, Wendell Smith, Jason Hodge, Larry Ryles and Demetrice Welch will be at Cedar Point for the day-after prom festivities.

Grasley expects to be riding his own emotional roller coaster Saturday at Churchill.

"We'll still be highly competitive," Grasley said. "We're going to give it our best shot. One of our pluses is we

OBSERVERLAND RELAYS

- What: The 19th annual Observerland Boys Track Relays
- Where: Livonia Churchill High School
- When: Saturday, May 6
- Order of events: The field events (shot put, discus, long jump, high jump and pole vault) begin at 3:30 p.m., followed by the running preliminaries (110-meter hurdles and 100 dash) at 6:30 p.m. and the finals at 7 p.m. (6,400 relay, 110 hurdles, distance medley, 800 relay, open 1,600 run, 3,200 relay, open 100 dash, sprint medley, shuttle hurdles, 400 and 1,600 relays)
- Schools entered: Livonia Churchill, Stevenson and Franklin, Redford Catholic Central, Bishop Borgess, Redford Union, Garden City, Westland John Glenn, Wayne Memorial, Plymouth Canton, Salem and Christian, Farmington, North Farmington and Farmington Harrison, Northville and Southfield-Lathrup
- Admission: $2 at the gate have depth. But John Glenn would be the team to beat considering we're not at full strength."

Carl Lowe, Steve Wiseley, Ferlin Whitlow and David Ryan will anchor Glenn's hopes in the 1,600 relay, but that isn't all Gordon has going for him. Sprinter Andrew Dobbins, high jumper Greg Anderson and distance runners Chris Gumke and Randy Seach also will figure in the scoring.

Wayne ran away from the field with 104 points last spring, but Gordon said "anyone who reaches 80 this year has a chance to win it."

"WE'LL BE in the top four, but (Redford) Catholic Central and Plymouth Salem has a good shot and I still don't count out Wayne," Gordon said. "They have a lot of individual guys. And I think there's a sleeper team here and that's Churchill."

The Chargers are led by Jason Belaire, one the area's top high jumpers and the top high hurdles performer, but middle-distance sprinter Jeff Zawislak pulled a hamstring last week and won't be available. Churchill was third last year and has won the meet several times under coach Fred Price.

"We won't have him (Zawislak) but we hope to scratch and kick around and get our points," Price said. "Jason's got a good shot at the high hurdles and we have a good chance in the discus relay (where Jeff Bristow has thrown 139-0)."

CC, which finished in a tie last year for 10th place with Farmington, has a far better chance to contend this time. The Shamrocks are deep in the distance events, led by Mike Sheridan, who has Observerland's best times in the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 events.

CC also has distance performer Chris Antczak, second to Sheridan in the 3,200 run, and sprinter Dave Owens, owner of Observerland's best 100-meter time (10.9).

BUT COACH Kevin Kavanagh also said he has a "few sprinters nicked up," though he won't say who they are.

"We may not be quite at full strength," Kavanagh said. "And the

Roberts' rules in order?

DECISIONS, DECISIONS.

That's what the 17-member representative council will face at the Michigan High School Athletic Association's upcoming meeting, May 7-10 in Lewiston.

The representative council, a cross section of the state's coaches, athletic directors and administrators, will be discussing a number of hot topics at the upcoming session.

With new MHSAA director Jack Roberts experimenting and marketing prep sports in this state, changes will continue to be discussed and implemented.

Roberts has fueled the fires, but now it's my turn to douse or fan the flames.

Here is a sample of the issues at hand:

- Changing sites for the boys basketball finals: Anywhere but dilapidated Jenison Fieldhouse is fine with me. Glad to see you go.

The format may not change with the unveiling of the new Breslin Student Events Center in East Lansing. For selfish reasons I like the format the way it stands: A-B-C-D finals (Saturday) in Ann Arbor with the A and D semifinals (Friday) in East Lansing and C-B semifinals (Friday) in Ann Arbor.

The Palace of Auburn Hills is also under consideration, but I feel high school events belong on college sites. The Palace is bigger (21,000 seats) and more modern, but it seems luxury boxes and high school sports just don't mix.

There's plenty of parking at the Palace, but with Lapeer Road (one lane) as the only entrance, traffic is always a problem.

And the word is that Roberts is not thrilled about using a facility which openly advertises beer.

But the Palace would not be a bad idea for staging, for instance, all four Class A quarterfinal games at once (how about 2, 4, 6 and 8 p.m. on Wednesday?)

With the advent of Breslin, East Lansing an even more attractive site because it is centrally located.

- Changing the Class A final game to the evening for the first time since 1971:

Interesting suggestion, but I remember the last evening Class A final. It erupted into a riot between fans from Detroit Kettering and Flint Northern. Chairs were flying everywhere at Crisler.

The afternoon is fine with me, but let's face it, who looked forward to Chris Webber dunking at will over Ishpeming in the evening Class C final this year? By halftime, everybody had pretty much cleared out. It made a long day longer.

- Consideration of a six-foot coaching box in front of the team bench area (basketball):

It seems the National Federation, which Roberts adores, has changed its tune for the 1989-90 season.

It seems the ball-and-chain rule coaches have been subjected to the past two years is on its way out.

Roberts likes the controversial rule because it keeps coaches in line, but we all know that the rule is challenged night-in and night-out. A coaching box would be a nice compromise.

Don't football coaches have to be within the 30-yard lines?

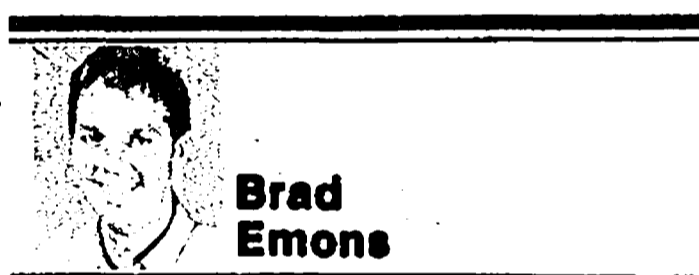

Some unqualified officials have been awarded championship games by enforcing the rules to impress MHSAA honchos.

- Continuation of individual and team dual tournaments in wrestling:

The new dual meet tourney format coinciding with old individual tournament format is a joke.

Coaches who don't have strong teams will continue to sandbag during team dual matches to sacrifice in order to rest a potential individual state qualifier.

I've seen many of state dual meet matches where the team's top wrestlers were held out on Wednesday, so they'd be fresh for the individual meet on Saturday.

How many wrestling tournaments should we be subjected to?

- An increase in days of competition for baseball and softball teams from 18 to 22, while imposing a limit of 36 games:

Give me a break! How about the 3-ball, 2-strike rule instead?

The increase is justified for warmer climates, but not in Michigan. Athletic directors have a hard enough time scheduling over inclement weather, senior proms, graduations, senior trips and SAT tests.

Many high schools have thin pitching staffs to start with. Just because we subject ourselves to the Tigers for 162 does not justify this number at the high school level.

Increasing the number of dates during the summer would be justified, but in the spring, all this does is commit players to spending more time on the diamond instead of the classroom.

- Expanding the football playoffs from four to six classes:

This only gives more mediocre teams a chance to get waxed in the first round of the tournament.

How about Clarenceville against Detroit Country Day in Class B? Or Birmingham Brother Rice against Garden City in Class AAA?

Novi's outstanding football team would have had a better chance winning Class A last year than B.

In last year's semifinals, Novi was nipped by eventual champ Traverse City. But under the new realignment, they most likely would have met Farmington Harrison, the state Class B kingspin and regarded as the top team in the state, under the new AA class.

Don't forget, the gap in AAA is still wide (1,700 differential for number of students).

The coaches like it because it would give more teams incentive at the end of the year. But let's face it, the mismatches are still there.

- A ban of live television during the regular season of games involving MHSAA members schools:

Are local cable companies exploiting our youth? Maybe. (See below.)

- A response by the National Federation to have selected prep events televised nationally:

I agree wholeheartedly with Roberts, who says: "For years, the state associations of this country have tried to protect Friday nights from invasions by college and professional telecasts, and now we see the plan for the National Federation and a cable network to actually televise on those Friday nights. We're opposed to that for the reason we've been opposed for many years. In addition, we think it might bring too much pressure and attention upon high school athletics that leads to the kinds of abuses we've seen at other levels of athletics."

Amen, Jack.

This cable-concocted deal will only help the stuff the coffers of such high-profile programs as Moeller, Dunbar, DeMatha, St. Anthony's, Flint Hill, Christ the King and so forth.

ESPN's Scholastic Sports America is good enough for me.

Churchill goalie tandem ties up Rocks, 0-0

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill played to a scoreless tie Wednesday and it's a wonder Jill Estey didn't score at least one goal for visiting Salem.

If Estey wasn't the star of the game then surely that honor went to either one of Churchill's two goalkeepers — Dana Keller and Monia Cervi — who frustrated her continuously.

Keller, who played the first half, and Cervi combined for 24 saves, and it seemed half the chances belonged to Estey. The tie kept Salem, the No. 1-ranked team in Class A, undefeated at 7-0-2.

"It was frustrating, because we kept kicking the ball at them and couldn't put it in the corners," said Estey, who has seven goals. "We're not playing bad, we're just kicking them to the keepers. We have a tough league (Western Lakes Activities Association). I'm not upset with the tie."

CHURCHILL COACH Nick O'Shea wasn't thrilled about the tie, but he'll accept it — and expect — the Chargers to generate more offense Monday at Walled Lake Central. The Chargers, the fifth-ranked team in Class A, are 4-1-2 overall.

Churchill and Stevenson played to a scoreless tie earlier last week, so O'Shea's used to this kind of outcome.

soccer

Or is he? "You never get used to them," he said. "I want to score goals. And it's not just our offense. I'm pleased with our defense and goaltending, but our defense has to get the ball to the offense."

"Salem had a lot of chances but most of our saves were from far out. Our goalkeeping duo didn't make any mistakes."

The Rocks had several chances late in the game, however, to put the ball past Cervi while inside the penalty area.

WITH ABOUT five minutes left, Cervi kicked away a shot by Estey from about 15 feet out. Cervi fell down on the save and as Estey and Salem's Michelle Minton tried to kick the ball into the open net, a Churchill defender kicked the ball away.

Earlier in the half, Cervi leaped to deflect a lofted shot by Estey into the crossbar. Estey also narrowly missed a fine cross from sophomore winger Erin Harvey in the second half that would have put her point-blank in front of Cervi.

"We had more chances and Jill just had a great game," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "She was holding the ball well and playing with confidence and laying back with it. She had a lot of nice shots — a little too far out though. Their goalkeeping was good."

Churchill countered with 14 shots at Salem goalkeeper Jennifer Emmett and the Chargers best chance came late in the second half when Fran Prieb was granted a direct kick 35 yards in front of Emmet.

"SHE HIT them (direct kicks) great the other day in practice," O'Shea said. "And she was over the bar today. You never know . . ."

Johnson said the tie might jeopardize Salem's No. 1 ranking, but that's fine with him. Johnson can't wait to finish the rugged WLAA schedule and get on with the state tournament.

Six teams from the WLAA have been in the Top-10 at one time or another this spring.

"I think we might slip down a bit in the rankings," Johnson said. "It doesn't matter to me. I like being three or four and pouncing on teams in the tournament. There are six teams in our league that can beat the others on any given day."

Livonia battle to Churchill

Lori Place assisted on all four goals Monday, lifting Livonia Churchill to a 4-0 girls soccer win at city rival Franklin.

Churchill is now 5-1-1 overall, while the Patriots dipped to 2-4-1.

Dana Pososki scored twice for the Chargers, while Kristy Thurston and Nikki Johnson added one each.

Churchill led 2-0 at halftime and added two more goals in the second half.

GARDEN CITY 4, RU 0: In a match played last week, the visiting Cougars (5-2-1) got a pair of goals and one assist from Kathy Dusek to beat Redford Union in a Northwest Suburban League encounter.

Kendall Janik and Chris Buggy also scored for the victors. Buggy and Sandy Green also recorded assists.

GC tallied all four goals in the second half. Netminder Tisha Guido turned in the shutout.

On Friday, RU remained winless in eight tries, falling to host Southfield, 2-0, despite 20 saves by Panther goalie Patty Brower.

Erica Holton recorded five shots on the Southfield nets, but RU couldn't capitalize.

Coach Al Burnham also singled out the play of forward Kristi Magretta and defender Maria Dingeman.

STEVENSON 1, N. FARMINGTON 1: The scoreboard indicated North Farmington and Livonia Stevenson played to a 1-1 tie Monday in a girls soccer match played at North.

Stevenson, winners of two Class A titles this decade, is 3-2-2 overall.

"For us it's a victory," Davis said. "It's a good score. We've lost some disappointing matches recently (losing the last four games by a total of 23 goals), but the girls are coming along."

No North player is improving more than Leanne Ade, the goalkeeper, who kept the Raiders in the game by kicking away 30 of Stevenson's 31 shots. Ade made an important save on a penalty kick when the score was tied, 1-1 in the second half.

"It sounds like a hockey score, when you face 31 shots," Davis said. "She (Ade) played phenomenal and so did our sweeper (Donna O'Brien)."

Help is on the way: S'craft gets recruits

By C.J. Rissak
staff writer

Actually, Dave Bogataj's job was rather easy. The Schoolcraft College mens basketball coach was faced with the task of recruiting help for his team.

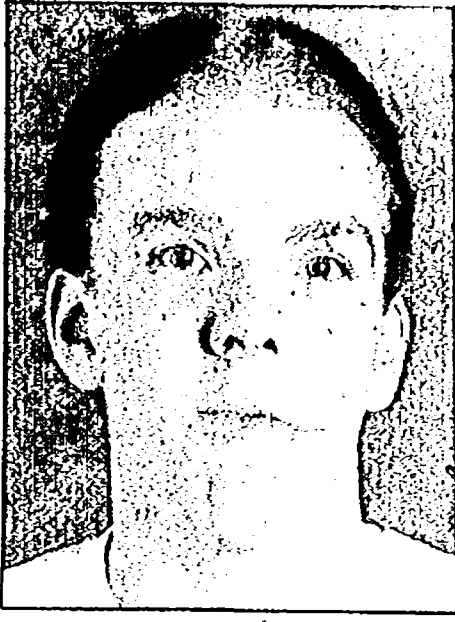

He didn't, however, have to worry much about scouring the metro-Detroit area for a certain kind of player to fill a certain need. When your team has won only 14 of 59 games in the last two seasons, any size or type of player with talent will suffice.

Bogataj signed three players last week who he hopes can contribute immediately: 5-foot-11 guard Tony Ruple of Wayne Memorial, 6-7 forward-center Greg Shamus of Grosse Ile, and 6-7 center Butch Layow of Whitmore Lake.

Ruple could be the quickest to contribute. Wayne had an excellent 1988-89 season, going 20-5, and Ruple was the Zebras' leading scorer with an 18 points-per-game average. Wayne tied for the Wolverine A League title and won the Westland John Glenn district before losing to eventual Class A champ Detroit Cooley in the regional final.

"TONY JUST doesn't make any mistakes," said Bogataj, a teacher at Wayne. "He's a good three-point shooter and he can run a very disciplined program."

Another valuable asset: "I think he can play either point or off guard, depending on the other people (on the court). It's a nice situation because he can do either."

Tony Ruple
Schoolcraft recruit

Shamus and Layow should help shore up SC's biggest problem area: rebounding. The Ocelots were woefully short last season.

Shamus was overshadowed by teammate Steve Klein, a two-time Class B all-stater at Grosse Ile. But Shamus' contributions were significant — 11 points, 10 rebounds per game.

"Rebounding was his primary job at Grosse Ile," said Bogataj. "He's one of those kids who got better every year. He should contribute immediately, especially on the boards, where we need it."

unique. He was first contacted by SC womens coach Jack Grenan, who spotted Layow's massive frame — 6-7, 250-pounds — at a shopping center. He asked him if he played basketball, and when Layow said yes, Grenan told him to come to SC's open gym.

"He's just a big, thick kid," was Bogataj's description. "His foot speed is not the best, not at all. But he rebounds well. He goes after the ball and really throws it out (on the break)."

Layow averaged 10 points and 13 boards a game at Whitmore Lake, but it may take him longer to adjust to college ball. "He takes up a lot of space inside," said Bogataj. "He can play, he just has to learn to play faster."

Layow is currently about 240, and wants to lose another 15 pounds before the season.

Bogataj was emphatic that his recruiting is far from over. Three or four more players could be added by next week. He has at least five, and perhaps eight, players returning from last year.

The past two seasons have been plagued by academic ineligibilities, which decimated the squad. The three new Ocelots are all honor roll students, according to Bogataj.

St. Mary's adds cage recruits

The latest high school senior to sign a national letter-of-intent with St. Mary's College is Marvin Morrison, a product of Detroit Benedictine.

Morrison, 6-foot-8, 235-pounds, averaged 12.1 points and 10 rebounds per game last winter and he is the fourth recruit landed by the Cardinals.

Previous signees include 6-8 center Brian Koscielski (Oxford), 6-6 center Kevin Karafa (Utica Henry Ford, and 6-4 forward Jeff Szczepanski (Utica Eisenhower). Morrison led Benedictine to a 19-6 record and a district championship.

"He's a man, there's no question," said St. Mary's coach Glenn Donahue, who would like to sign three more players. "We're excited about getting him."

Donahue will give each player a chance to break into the lineup.

"They'll have an opportunity to play," coach Glenn Donahue said. "It's up to them. Coming in they'll know they have to work hard to get some time."

Karafa averaged 10.6 points and six rebounds per game at Henry Ford. Szczepanski, a swingman, scored 11.2 points and 8.2 rebounds at Eisenhower, but the real find might be Koscielski, who improved greatly over his junior year.

Koscielski averaged 18.2 points, 12.2 rebounds and 6.1 blocks per game as a senior and will be a valued addition inside for the Cardinals.

"He really came on his senior year and we feel he's a real strong prospect," Donahue said. "His coach (Dave Smith) figures he's getting better every day."

Teeters optimistic about latest signees

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Maybe Tom Teeters is destined to become a general manager someday.

The Schoolcraft College women's volleyball coach made a pretty fair trade recently, when Eastern Michigan freshman Mary Kelley signed a national letter of intent to attend Schoolcraft.

Kelley's signing comes only weeks after Garden City's Nikki Stubbs — the National Junior College player of the year last fall at Schoolcraft — announced she would attend EMU next year.

So Teeters lost Stubbs to EMU, but gained Kelley, a setter who led Teeters' Livonia Ladywood squad to a Class A title in 1988. Schoolcraft was the NJCAA national champion last fall.

KELLEY, RED-SHIRTED at Eastern as a freshman, headlines a list of eight recruits, whom Teeters calls "twice as good as any other recruiting class I've had here."

Also among the eight players is Jenny Sproul, a senior outside hitter from Livonia Churchill.

EMU planned on playing Kelley at right outside hitter instead of setter, Teeters said, so she approached her former coach in late March about reuniting with him at Schoolcraft. She'll be eligible immediately.

"She said she wanted to play for Schoolcraft and that she enjoys setting — that's the one thing she missed," Teeters said. "They planned for her to be a right-side hitter, and in Mary's judgment, she didn't fit in there as a setter. I coached her in high school and know she can play setter."

Teeters got commitments from all over greater Detroit. They include middle hitter Elena Oparka, Madison Heights Lamphere; outside hitter Angelette Love, Detroit Henry Ford; middle blocker Michelle Shirey, Royal Oak Dondoro; blocker Hollie Marie Brachel, Harper Woods Regina; middle blocker Tricia Marie Lukas, Dearborn Heights Crestwood; and middle blocker Cheryl Francis, Walled Lake Central.

"WE GOT A lot of strong Division I-type talent, whom we feel when they leave here will be well-sought out for by other schools," Teeters said. "They're tremendous athletes and all have been well-coached. Usually I hope to get two or three players of this caliber and this year I got eight. I've got some unbelievable recruits."

Sproul, a first-team All-Observer choice last winter at Churchill, turned down offers from Bowling Green and Hillsdale to attend Schoolcraft.

"She comes from a very good program for a very good coach (Mike Hughes) and she was the top hitter," Teeters said. "She's real dynamic with very good leaping ability. Her best asset is defense and she's a great setter."

Angelette Love's sister Alicia played on the national champion last fall, and will be a sophomore next year. The younger Love was a first-team Class A all-state choice at Ford under coach Troy Walls.

Mary Kelley returns to S'craft

"She'll be our most dynamic player," Teeters said. "She's got skill, experience, she's smart and a hard worker. She has a great deal of speed."

Teeters needed a strong recruiting year, considering he lost Stubbs to Eastern and Chris Paclero, Sarah Heddle and Marla Evans to Florida Southern University.

Madonna's Abraham brings in some very familiar faces

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Madonna College volleyball coach Jerry Abraham signed six players to national letters of intent, including a pair of familiar faces — Melissa Mars and Ann DiMambro.

Mars and DiMambro played for Abraham at Redford Bishop Borgess, where Abraham spends the winter months coaching.

Borgess went 36-9 last winter and lost in the Class B state finals in 1988, so Mars figures good times are bound to continue at Madonna. Last fall, Madonna was 27-10 under Abraham, his second season as coach.

"He's a good coach," Mars said. "I was successful underneath him before, so I don't see any reason for us not to be at Madonna — or I hope so, at least."

THE RECRUITING class also includes outside hitter Maria Wordhouse, Plymouth Salem; outside hitter Stacey Girard, Livonia Lady-

volleyball

wood; hitter Tonia Smith and setter Lyn Bernwanger, both from Walled Lake Central.

Of the six recruits, four are from Observerland, and all but one of the four was tabbed first-team All-Observer.

Abraham has six letter-winners returning, and he's excited about blending in the newcomers. Girard brings with her the most impressive background, playing on two consecutive Class A champions at Livonia Ladywood.

"This gives us 12 players, and it was definitely our best recruiting class ever," Abraham said. "They all have a very good work ethic and come from good, solid programs. Many will be impact players."

"All the kids we brought in could have played at several different colleges in the area. This is our second year of playing NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics), so our schedule is getting better and we have to get better players."

WILLED ABRAHAM managed to sign some heralded recruits with plenty of press clippings, he believes Wordhouse, Smith and Bernwanger are a trio of unknown quantities who could contribute.

"Smith and Bernwanger played at Walled Lake Central but they can really play," Abraham said. "And I'm really excited about Maria Wordhouse. She's a big, strong player and works hard. She's got a ton of potential. It looks like we have great things ahead of us. We've gotten super support from the administration."

Joining the Madonna coaching staff next fall as an assistant will be Shannon Voss-Miller, who is the varsity girls coach at Walled Lake Western in the winter.

Symphony Showhouse—a class act

The family room adjacent to the kitchen has strong elements of drama and light-heartedness in the choice of black and white print for the upholstery as well as in the art. It is by Mermaid Designs of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Corner of the light, bright kitchen and breakfast area by Mermaid Designs of Grosse Pointe and Kitchens by Jensen of Birmingham Woods shows how the white ceramic tiles, each with a flower design in center, give an inviting, continental look to this popular part of the house.

The first house completed in Woodlyne, a select community being developed by David Jensen in Bingham Farms, is the 1989 Detroit Symphony Designers' Showhouse.

Internationally known architect, Robert A.M. Stern of New York City, is the resident architect for all of the residences (12-14) which are in the million dollar price range.

Interior designer, D.J. Kennedy of Grosse Pointe Farms coordinated the work of 18 metropolitan area interior designers who came up with some exciting rooms and areas for the 5,400 square foot home. The result of the coordination is an a combination of country and old world elegance, very suitable for the fine classical architecture (with early Frank Lloyd Wright and Eliel Saarinen influences) and picturesque rural setting.

The Detroit Symphony Designer's Showhouse opens to the public on Saturday and continues to Sunday, June 4. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and noon to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Closed Monday except Memorial Day. Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door.

The living room, above, was done by Perlmutter-Freiwald of Franklin. Shown is one end of the very large, high-ceilinged room. The tapestry upholstery on the chair in the foreground is used throughout the main floor as an accent fabric. The dining room, at left, was done by Brian Killian & Co. of Birmingham.

Artist shows new kind of realism Symphony finale

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

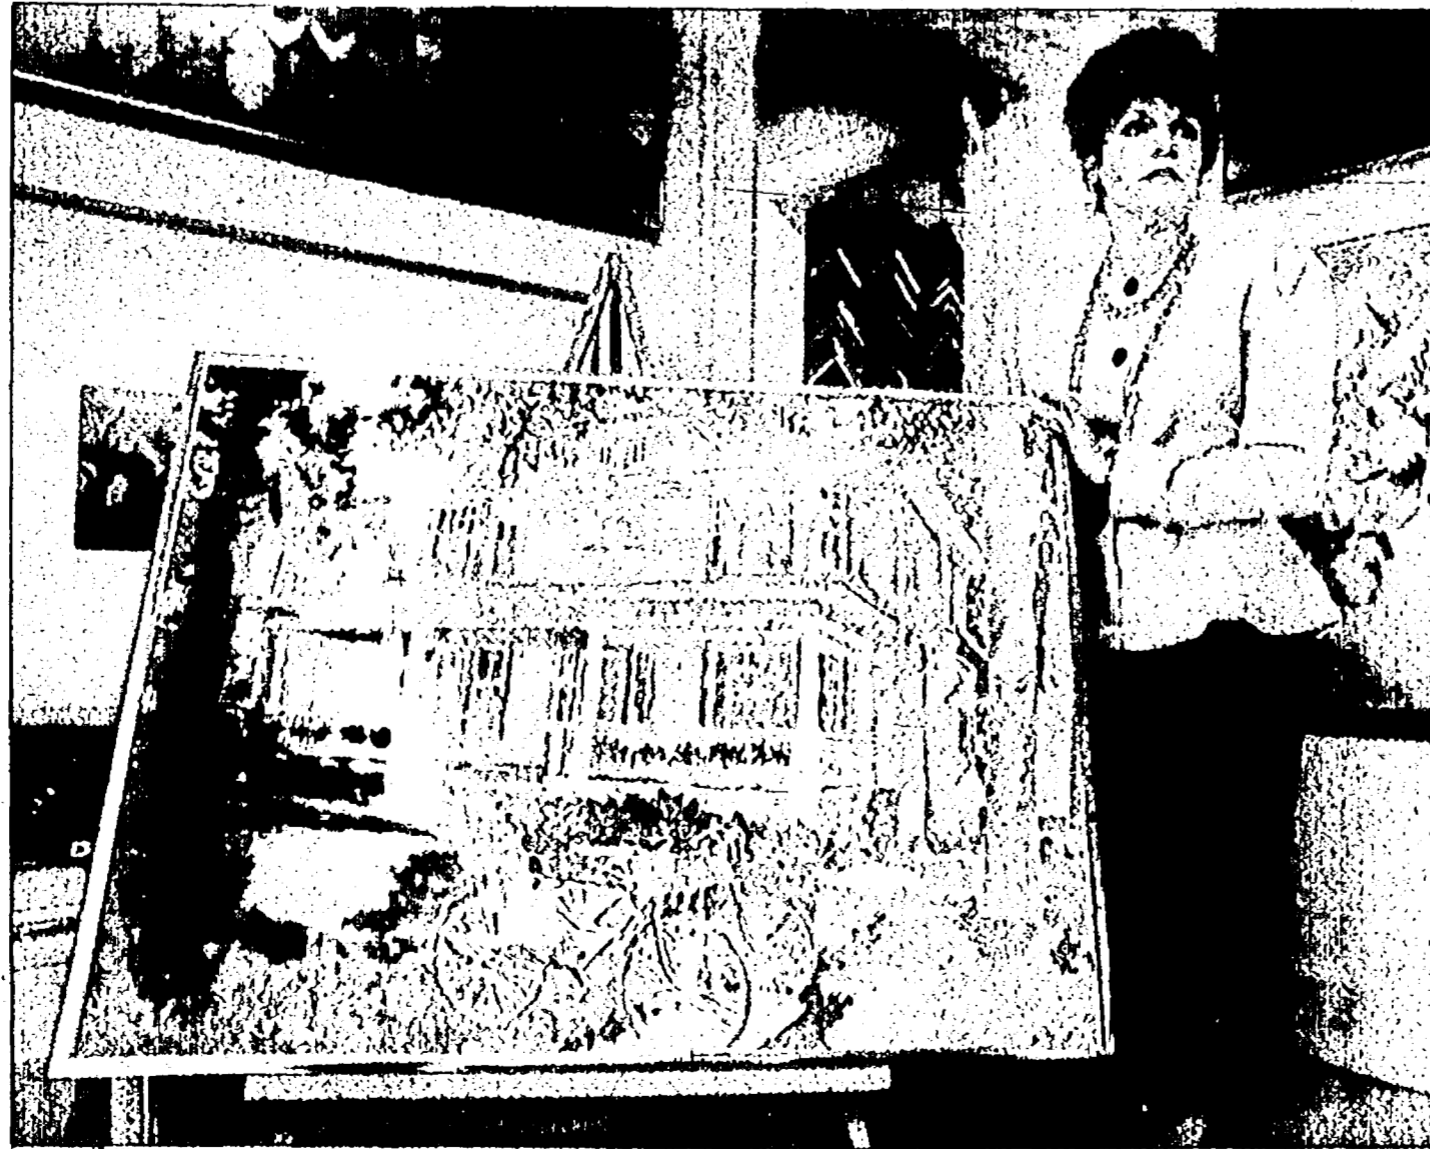

All of the art which Pat Mayhew created in the past appears to coalesce in her current show of paintings, "Return to Realism," at Gallery Arteria of Birmingham May 4-27.

Her favorite subjects — flowers, wicker furniture, Victorian houses, parades and carousels — are very much in evidence. But they have been enhanced by a maturing of approach which brings elements of abstract (which she has done successfully in the past) to create a dream-like quality to these multilayered paintings. The layering produces interesting textural qualities reminiscent of her interest in collage without actually being collage.

The palette is stronger, deeper, livelier and more carefree than in her previous work.

A while back, she worked with three-dimensional paper and plaster forms and now she said she knows the time spent with these was extremely worthwhile. "I loosened up. I've carried through a lot of the texture and build-up. I really think taking that time to loosen up, in color, form and composition, was important."

THIS IS HER FIRST show of realism in this area in more than seven years and it took close to a year to do the 20 paintings in the show. She

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Pat Mayhew came back to realism with new vigor and sophistication after working in abstract and collage for several years. The painting on the easel is here.

Symphony finale benefits Metro Youth's efforts

David Booker will be the guest soloist at the concert Saturday night of the Livonia Symphony that will do more than ring down the curtain — with a bang! — on the LSO's current season.

The musical event at 8 p.m. in Churchill High School auditorium will benefit the Metropolitan Youth Symphony and will feature as its finale the rousing 1812 Overture — cannon sounds and all.

As part of its educational outreach program to help the young MYS musicians, the Livonia Symphony will donate a $1 from each ticket sale.

As a finale, the Metropolitan Youth Symphony, under the direction of Alan MacNair, will join with the Livonia Symphony, under the direction of conductor Francesco DiBlasi, for the stirring 1812 Overture. DiBlasi will conduct.

Booker, a bassoonist, will perform the first movement of the Concerto in B. Flat by Mozart. A graduate of Kentucky State University and the Catholic University of America, Booker conducted the U.S. Army concert and jazz bands from 1970-76 as well as the orchestra.

HE SERVED AS director of bands

As a finale, the Metropolitan Youth Symphony will perform the stirring 1812 Overture.

at Kentucky State University, Highland Park Community High School and is currently the director of the jazz band, marching band and school bands at Livonia Stevenson High School.

In that regard, he returned recently from Washington D.C. where the Stevenson band was one of 15 selected from over 200 in the U. S. to participate in the nation's Cherry Blossom Festival.

Also on the program will be Beethoven's "Overture to Norma, Symphony No. 5" by Beethoven and Verdi's "La Forza del Destino" overture.

Tickets are $8.50 general admission and $5 for students and senior citizens. They are available at Hammett Music on Middlebelt Road in Livonia, the Livonia Civic Center Library and Madonna College.

Newsy tidbits on variety of subjects

NEWS notes:

The book business is booming. With sales climbing, children's paperbacks made the most impressive gains last year, and more new authors than ever made the best-seller lists. According to the "West Coast Review of Books," overall book sales amounted to something in the neighborhood of $9 billion. Non-fiction books comprised about 85 percent of the market.

More money matters: Clive Cussler recently signed a contract with Simon & Schuster for $5 million to write two more novels starring his detective hero Dirk Pitt, first heard from in Cussler's best-selling "Raise the Titanic!" Novelist Mark Helprin and Illustrator Chris Van Allsburg recently agreed to put together "Swan Lake," a children's book, for $801,000 — reportedly the largest amount ever paid for a book for children.

Changing times: "Reader's Digest" has relinquished its No. 1 spot as the magazine with the largest circulation in the United States. "Modern Maturity," the publication of the American Association of Retired Persons, is the new front-runner, with a circulation of 17,924,783, outdistancing "Reader's Digest" by about one million readers.

Goodness-gracious-there-goes-the-old-neighborhood department: When the results were in for "The Best American Short Stories 1988," those involved in judging were a bit surprised. Names of all authors were withheld from judges this time around as they considered stories for the prestigious collection published annually by Houghton Mifflin. Out of 20 stories chosen, only six were authored by "name" writers.

In honor of the 100th birthday of detective fiction writer Raymond Chandler (1888-1959), Knopf has published "Raymond Chandler's Phillip Marlowe: A Centennial Celebration." For the collection, 14 private-eye writers were asked to contribute a story in the style of Chandler, and with Marlowe as the main character. Authors include Benjamin Schatz and Jeremiah Healy. See what you think.

A recently established fund will furnish grants to writers and editors/stricken with AIDS, who are faced with acute financial emergen-cles due to medical expenses. The PEN Fund for Writers and Editors with AIDS will furnish grants of up to $1,000, and those in need may apply for assistance more than once.

"The situation of writers stricken with AIDS is desperate," says fund director Christine Freidlander. For more information, write or call Freidlander at PEN American Center, 568 Broadway, New York 10012 or call (212-334-1660).

Grey Castle Press (Pocket Knife Square, Lakeville, Conn. 08039) has come to the aid of young readers who are visually impaired. "The Nancy Drew Files," by Carolyn Keene, "The Hardy Boys Casefiles," by Franklin W. Dixon, and "Choose Your Own Adventure" and "The Babysitters Club" by Ann M. Martin, have been brought out in large print by Grey Castle. While many adult books have been available in large print for some time now, not so for children's books.

Now that spring is here, those of you who are getting out to walk or run may want to try an "audio book" in your Walkman for a change of pace. Recent releases include Stephen Coonts' "Final Flight," read by George Kennedy, Anne Tyler's "Breathing Lessons," read by Jill Eikenberry, and Kirk Douglas, reading his autobiography, "The Ragman's Son." All run for about 180 minutes and sell for around $14.95. Keep in mind that what you'll be hearing will be a condensed version of the book itself (sometimes highly condensed).

Look for the screen version of Elmore Leonard's "Cat Chaser" as theaters this summer. The thriller will star Peter Weller and Kelly McGillis. Final screenplay was put together by Leonard.

The last word: Keep your eye on Birmingham playwright Kitty Dublin. Her comedy-drama, "The Last Resort," recently opened in Austin, Texas, to applause, applause.

Library Friends host reception

Friends of the Livonia Public Library will host a wine-and-cheese reception in the atrium of the Civic Center Library at 7:30 p.m. Friday night. The public is invited.

Photographer's work on display

Norbert Davert has been making photographs since 1976. His work until 1980 was in color transparencies. In early 1981 he became totally absorbed with black and white photography and decided to make black and white his primary medium. In the fall of 1981 Davert began entering local exhibitions where his work has won acceptance by his peers and many awards from a wide variety of judges.

Norbert Davert

His work can be seen in a one-man exhibit throughout the month of May in Farmington Branch Library, State and Liberty Street.

Davert is currently an instructor of photography in Farmington Public Schools for Adult Education and prior to that, taught a photographic course at Cranbrook Academy. He is a member of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association (BBAA), Farmington Artists Club, the Visual Arts Association of Livonia (VAAL), and Focus Detroit. He is a member of the board of directors for VAAL, and its official photographer.

He has had four one-man shows. The most recent was at IBrowse Gallery in West Bloomfield. The others were at the Asherman Gallery in Cleveland, Ohio, the Northville Art Gallery and the Livonia City Hall.

He has had his pictures published in 'the Birmingham Eccentric', 'The Livonia Observer' and 'the Detroit News Sunday Supplement'. His work is displayed in several private collections in the U.S. and Europe.

He has also done free-lance commercial photographic work and currently is concentrating on photographing weddings and portraits.

Regarding his style, Davert says, "Shapes and patterns interest me as does light and shadow interplay. I tend to find more of interest in man-made objects than in natural objects. A great deal of my graphic and geometric in content, which I believe comes from my association with architecture.

German designer makes rare U.S. visit

Fantasy-cut Gemstones could easily replace diamonds as a girl's best friend. The one-of-a-kind gemstones and sculptures that include amethyst, aquamarine and citrine are the only colored stones, other than the highly prized ruby, emerald and sapphire, considered to be of investment quality.

Created by famed gemstone designer Bernd Munsteiner, known as the "Picasso of gemstones," the fantasy cut is the first new gem cut in 500 years. Munsteiner's gemstone sculptures enhance a stone's individual qualities by using asymmetrical cuts to achieve total reflection — something unheard of in gemstone cutting. His stones are sold loose, or set into rings, pendants and pins or sold as art pieces.

Special guests will spend a fantasy evening cruising the Detroit River aboard the Star of Detroit with Munsteiner in his first such American show as he presents a preview of his 1989 collection of Fantasy-cut Gems. The Saturday, May 6 event is sponsored by DuQuet Jewelers of Farmington Hills. Dick Purtan will be the master of ceremonies.

MUNSTEINER WILL also be at DuQuet Jewelers from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 7, to introduce his creations to the general public. DuQuet Jewelers is at 31620 Grand River Avenue.

DuQuet Jewelers' co-owner Chuck DuQuet first met Munsteiner and viewed the Fantasy-cut Gemstones three years ago. DuQuet Jewelers now features the country's largest collection of Munsteiner Gemstones, selling between 100-150 of the roughly 500 creations that are sold annually in the United States.

Munsteiner creates about 1,000 to 1,500 pieces each year. His exclusive creations have been called everything from exquisite to magical. He does not take orders for his pieces but produces them strictly from inspiration, relying on an inner feeling to capture the true essence of each stone.

Following the tradition of German families, Munsteiner began in the gem cutting business at the young age of 14, as his father's apprentice. He continued to work with his father for many years, but experimented on his own as time allowed, becoming fascinated with free-form gemcutting, an art that can't be taught.

YOUNG MUNSTEINER attended the Academy of Design in Pforzheim, West Germany from 1962-1966 where he studied sculpture, jewelry design and gemology. While still in design school, he cut away at the layers of an agate to expose various colors.

Munsteiner opened his own studio in 1973. He has become celebrated for his negative cut — a stone sculpture with a polished front surface and geometric cuts on the back that are visible through the translucent stone. The setting of a ring, pendant or pin can't be seen through the stone, however, because of the intricate faceting.

Today, Munsteiner's wife and two sons work with him. He designs each piece himself, but is aided in finishing and polishing by his sons, a master goldsmith, two cutters and an apprentice. His loose stones are valued from $1,000 to $20,000 and his gem sculptures sell for as much as $100,000.

Munsteiner saves only one piece for himself each year, but keeps photos of each creation to watch his progress. His style is increasingly imitated but never duplicated. Munsteiner guards against copies by carving his initials in the girdle of each jewelry-sized stone, and one the front surface of art-sized pieces, and encloses a certificate of authenticity with each Munsteiner original.

Return to realism

has, however, had several one-artist exhibitions up north — Petosky (two) and Harbor Springs — where the family has a summer home. "We traveled a lot this year and every time we come back, my colors change," she said.

In her description of her work, she writes, "My work depends heavily on pattern, spaces and design. I paint what isn't there with more enthusiasm than I have for the subject in some cases; relating back to the professor years ago who stressed negative spaces. The pattern in my subjective work appears in painted designs of wicker, quilts, lace, foliage, flowers, etc."

Then as she stood in the gallery talking about her new show, she said, "These paintings are very happy. I have some different colors in this show. In all there are 20 paintings. This was really a pleasure. My family is grown. I really focused in on it."

"Return to Realism" opens with a 6-9 p.m. reception. Regular hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 112 Brownell, Birmingham.

Share your Meadow Brook memories

What do you think of when thoughts of Meadow Brook Music Festival come to mind? We'd like to know — and share those nostalgic memories with other readers.

Once again, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will publish a special section detailing highlights — both past and present — of the outdoor musical event that has been held on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester for the past 25 years. It will appear in all editions on Thursday, June 1.

A part of the section that proved popular last year was a column on Meadow Brook Memories gleaned from letters from readers who have attended the concerts through the years. We want to repeat it again this year. Letters chosen for publication will receive two free tickets to a Meadow Brook concert. Send your letters to Meadow Brook Memories, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Your home should have an atmosphere that makes visitors feel welcome and comfortable when they visit.

For you, home should be a sanctuary, a place you look forward to coming to, a place that makes you feel warm and loved. Somewhere I read something that has stayed with me and it goes, "Duty makes us do things well, but love makes us do them beautifully. If you love what you are doing, it will show."

I received a letter from a reader asking if there was some way to skirt a square games table. When one thinks of a skirted table, you automatically think round. A skirted square table with a kick pleat at each corner is a good look. If you are using this table to serve or as a game table, use a glass top.

Another reader asks, "What should I do with my kitchen window. I like looking out, but don't care for blinds. We have double-hung windows of wood with mullion dividers.

Answer: If you are going to wallpaper your kitchen, a matching fabric used for a balloon valance would work well for the upper window. I don't like to see a valance just "hanging" there so I suggest a row of small apothecary jars of cache pots with a favorite flower or green.

Sale

Now is the time to clear out those closets, attics, basements and garages and make some quick cash in the process.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.
2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentric by calling one of the numbers below.
3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.
4. Decide what to do with all the money you'll have after your sale!

Or, if you love to bargain-hunt and would rather shop than sell, be sure to look for our special garage sale listings every Monday and Thursday in your hometown newspaper. Observer & Eccentric classifieds make it easy to earn money and save money. Discover for yourself, today!

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two or three-bedroom ranch.) With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And...luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."
