Police to get on-board computers

By Ted Schneider
staff writer

Car thieves take notice — Westland police will be coming after you this fall with a new, high-powered weapon.

Computers. Police expect to make another dent in the auto theft rate now that patrolmen will be getting on-board computers for their cars, according to executive Lt. Michael Frayer. "When Dearborn began using these things, there was about a 100 percent jump in stolen car recoveries the first month," Frayer said Thursday. "Everytime an officer saw a (license) plate, he ran it."

"The checks turned up stolen cars, stolen plates and other problems," Frayer said.

Using the computers will allow officers to do an on-the-spot license plate check in a matter of seconds, rather than calling back to the station and waiting for a dispatcher to run the plate through the LIEN system — a cumbersome process that takes several minutes or longer, Frayer said.

PURCHASE OF the on-board computers was approved after debate by the Westland City Council last week.

The $102,000 expenditure is the first step in the planned overall computerization of the city's police and fire departments and will complement the Enhanced 9-1-1 emergency network which went on line Friday (see related story).

The city will buy the computers with surplus general fund money.

Twenty-one mobile data terminals (at $4,500 each) will be installed in patrol cars, Frayer said. Two handheld portable units ($3,700 each) are also part of the package.

Motor vehicle theft was down 6 percent last year in Westland, with 664 vehicles reported stolen. Police attributed the drop to increased attention in the area, assigning more officers to auto theft and joining a special county investigative unit.

"This should drop the numbers even more," Frayer said.

For now, the city will patch the units in with a mainframe computer in Dearborn, Frayer said. Cost for the hookup and computer time will be paid for as part of a state-wide theft prevention grant.

Officers will use the terminals to run LIEN checks and other kinds of identification work, Frayer said.

THE CITY still hopes to get a traffic light installed at the Ford-Central City Parkway intersection — but now it's going to cost an extra $2,000.

That's the bill for a traffic study at the intersection. The study will be paid for with Tax Increment Financing Authority money since the intersection is in the city's TIFA district.

The study was requested by the Michigan Department of Transportation, which said it wouldn't move on the signal request until the study was completed.

Because the intersection isn't finished (some additional roadwork and landscaping still needs to be done), MDOT refused to schedule a study.

The city contracted an independent consulting firm to do the just-completed study, which recommends installation of a signal. The city will forward the recommendation to the state.

THE WESTLAND Kiwanis Club is the first local civic organization to take part in the new Adopt-A-Park program.

The Kiwanis Club has agreed to maintain and help buy new equipment for Curtis Woods Park, Palmer east of Newburgh.

As part of the agreement, Kiwanis volunteers will provide spring and fall cleanup, participate in equipment repairs and spend at least $1,000 for the beautification of the park.

The Adopt-A-Park program was instituted recently by the Parks and Recreation Advisory Council. It covers five city parks including Curtis Woods.

A BENEFIT to help defray medical expenses for Brandon O'Grady has been scheduled for 7-9 p.m. Sunday, June 25, at Farwell and Friends, Middlebelt north of Ann Arbor Trail.

Brandon, 11, of Westland was diagnosed as having cystic fibrosis when he was 2.

For more information call Diane Johnson at 522-2226.

DISTRIBUTION of surplus food for June will be Thursday-Friday, June 22-23.

The city will distribute flour, peanut butter and honey to economically disadvantaged residents.

Residents of Norway and Glenwood Gardens may pick up food packages 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 22 at the Dorsey Community Center, Dorsey east of Venoy.

Other residents may pick up food packages 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 23 at the center.

Senior citizens living in Westgate Towers, Greenwood Villa or Taylor Towers should call their building managers for distribution days and times.

For more information call the Dorsey Center hot line, 565-6366.

EDWIN FERGUSON, president of William B. Ford Vocational Technical Center, has been selected by the Michigan Department of Community Services to participate in a national study of technical and occupational programs in Michigan.

Ferguson will be one of 12 people on the Michigan delegation attending the study.

The Ford Center is part of the Wayne-Westland school district and has programs in the area of high school and adult basic education, vocational training and other programs.

NOTICE is hereby given that the annual meeting of the Westland Observer will be held on Monday, June 19, 1989, at 7:00 p.m. at the Westland Community Center, 10000 Central City Parkway, Westland, Michigan. The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers and directors for the year 1989-1990.

Charles Dawson of Redford became a hero of sorts at work after it was learned he saved a woman's life by preventing her from drowning.

Man who pulled woman from river gaining praise

By C.L. Rugenstein
staff writer

It was a real Rouge River rescue all right.

But it wasn't the river that was in danger when Charles Dawson, 28, of Redford pulled a woman out of her car after it jumped the bank and plunged into the water.

"I'm not a big fan of going swimming in the Rouge River," Dawson said recently of his deed on the last Tuesday in April. "The only thing I could think of was getting whoever was in the car out as quickly as possible."

His quick action saved the life of the driver, a 60-year-old Dexter woman. The woman had been trapped when the car landed upside down in about five feet of water.

DAWSON WAS on his way home from work when he noticed the car driving on the shoulder of the road about four car lengths ahead of him on Ann Arbor Trail. At first, he didn't realize anything was wrong.

"It looked like she was passing on the shoulder of the road but she just kept going back and forth on the grass."

As Dawson watched, the car went over the bank, flipped, and fell about six or seven feet into the water. By the time he arrived at the scene, about three cars had stopped, and "people were out of their cars looking," but no one had tried to rescue the driver.

City's new emergency phone system on line

9-1-1 helps couple find lost child

By Ted Schneider
staff writer

Westland's 9-1-1 dispatchers handled 45 calls on the new emergency phone system during its first 12 hours of operation Friday, including an early morning call from distressed parents searching for their lost son.

The 2-year-old boy, who had wandered from his Bentley Court home, was safe and sound at the police station. He had been discovered earlier by a passing motorist about a block away on Glenwood, according to police.

"Everything's gone rather well so far," said Joseph Benyo, local coordinator for the high-tech emergency phone system. "There have been a few minor glitches, but no major problems."

Benyo said about one-third of the calls Friday were for legitimate emergencies, including a small fire, two EMS rescue calls and several traffic accidents involving minor injuries.

Other calls included parents showing children how to dial the three-digit emergency number and people programming auto-dial phones, Benyo said.

"For the first couple of days, dispatchers have been instructed to be patient and go with the flow," Benyo said. "But after that they're going to be dealing only with emergencies."

THE NON-EMERGENCY numbers are 722-9600 (police) and 721-2000 (fire).

Scholarships winners honored at the graduation were Patricia Thompson, Adrian College, Wayne-Westland Education Association and Wayne-Westland Association of Para-professionals; Nancy Sue Wolf from, PTA Council, Wayne Kiwanis Club and the P.D. Graham Memorial; Michele Carrel and Willie Mae

Hero gets praise for saving life

Dawson said he had his shirt off and dove into the water before he realized what he was doing. The passenger side had landed against the river bank. But the window in the driver's side door was open.

"I reached in . . . felt a person, and pulled her out," Dawson said. He also noticed she wasn't strapped into her seat belt, a factor he believes might have delayed the underwater rescue.

But except for being "pretty shook up, the woman was breathing fine" when he brought her out of the water, Dawson said. He put a blanket from his car around her until a rescue truck arrived and took the woman to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

FOR ALL its drama, Dawson's action in saving the woman went relatively unnoticed.

No one except the Wayne County Sheriff's Department spoke to him after the rescue, Dawson said.

He gave bystanders, who hadn't made a move to help before he got there, a piece of his mind as he came out of the water with the woman. But he said, in looking back, he believes they were probably in shock, too.

Rosemary Moorehead, office manager of the Livonia tool shop where Dawson has worked for two years, alerted the Observer about Dawson's deed.

"Did you hear about it?" people at the shop had asked Moorehead when she got back from vacation. "My first reaction was — 'Did anyone report it? I was surprised no one had.'"

According to Moorehead, Dawson, a 1978 graduate of Livonia Church Hill High, is easygoing and gets along well with everyone. He made light of it when she asked him about the rescue.

"Oh yeah, I just pulled her out of the window," Moorehead said he told her.

Dawson also never knew what happened to the woman he rescued. "They took her to the hospital and that's the last I heard of her."

The woman, whose friends asked that her name not be used, was treated at the hospital and released.

The friends didn't know who to thank for her rescue.

"We were lead to believe that the fire department pulled her out," said George Alkazian, a friend of the family.

Dawson, meanwhile, doesn't plan any more swims in the Rouge River for a while.

"My girlfriend was a little worried about it," he said with a chuckle. "It took me a good day to get the taste out of my mouth."

Instead, he'll spend his spare time working around his Redford home, and rebuilding vintage Harley Davidson motorcycles.

If he had it to do over again, would he?

"Oh, yeah," he said. "I'm sure of it."

Police to get computers in cars

Eventually, the city will purchase its own mainframe computer. That could cost at least $175,000.

FRAYER SAID other local suburbs using the portable computers include Dearborn, Dearborn Heights and Livonia.

"The computers were a good idea five years ago when we first talked about," said Kenneth Mehl, council president. "We didn't have the money then, but we do now and it's time to go ahead with it."

But council members Kent Herbert and Charles Pickering disagreed.

"I have to believe that it's not a real smart idea to blow $100,000 just to be able to check LIENS," said

Herbert, who voted against the proposal.

Pickering, who supported the purchase, nonetheless said the money should be used to increase public safety manpower before buying computers.

9-1-1 system starts

Police said the stray boy was spotted by a passing motorist at 6:50 a.m. Clad only in a diaper, he was walking on a Glenwood sidewalk pushing a toy lawnmower and carrying several other toys, police said.

The motorist called police and knocked on nearby doors in an effort to locate the boy's home.

When the search failed to turn up the boy's parents, police took the child to the station and began alerting local radio and television stations about the child.

His parents called 9-1-1 when they discovered their son was missing shortly after 9 a.m., police said.

The parents said they told their son to go back to sleep when he came into their bedroom about 6:30 a.m. Instead of returning to bed, the boy apparently decided to stroll through the neighborhood.

Concerts to bloom in parks

Music series started

THE SOUNDS of music filled Central City Park at the opening concert in the park series recently.

Tony Russo and fellow musicians performed to the "big band sound" under the gazebo in the park behind the Bailey Recreation Center.

Although the crowd was small, the Westland Cultural League hopes to have larger audiences for its upcoming concerts, to be held in Central City Park, Jaycees Park on Hunter and Wildwood or Sam Corrado Park, in the neighborhood north of Ann Arbor Trail and east of Merriman.

SCHEDULED FOR Central City Park are a country/western group at 7 p.m. June 21; light rock/1950s music at 7 p.m. July 19; bluegrass music at 7 p.m. Aug. 16, and European brass at 7 p.m. Sept. 20. The Wednesday concerts are sponsored by the Westland Festival Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and Westland Lions Host Club, respectively.

Concerts at Corrado Park are the big band sound at 7 p.m. June 18 (Father's Day), and country/western group at 7 p.m. July 23. The Sunday concerts are sponsored by Vision Institute and JC Penney, respectively.

The Jaycees Park concert will have light rock/1950s music at 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 27, sponsored by the Westland Jaycees.

THE CONCERTS, produced in cooperation with the Westland parks and recreation department, are free and open to the public. Concert goers are advised to bring their own blankets or lawn chairs.

The cultural league, formed two years ago, held its first full summer of concerts last year.

Madeline Schroeder, Western Wayne County YWCA program director, enjoyed the concert with granddaughter Amanda Schroeder, 4, and her cousin, Samantha Garber, 3.

Glenn students adapting to outbreak of measles

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

John Glenn High School students, teachers and staff members were "adapting very well" Friday to the havoc created by a Rubella measles outbreak, said assistant principal Larry Wood.

"Everybody has been working together — students, parents, teachers, nurses — trying to make the best of a difficult situation," Wood said.

The school Thursday excluded 440 sophomores and juniors after a check of medical records revealed they could be susceptible to the Rubella virus. Some students had returned to school by Friday though. The exclusions were suggested by the Wayne County Health Medical Department.

Seniors, who were finished with classes last week, weren't excluded from a class trip to Cedar Pointe Friday or commencement ceremonies Saturday.

Wood said the school allowed 10th and 11th graders who had updated proof concerning immunizations to return. There was no estimate available on how many had such proof.

PARENTS WERE notified to contact personal physicians for one of two immunization procedures via letter sent home with students Thursday.

A spokesman for the county health department said Friday there was still only one probable measles case at the school. That case has been tied to a previously confirmed case, said Keith Tait, director of disease control.

There are no confirmed or suspected cases.

As of Friday, there were still eight confirmed, 124 probable and 70 suspected cases of Rubella in the county.

John Glenn is the only school in the Wayne-Westland district where students have been excluded.

Wood said the exclusions affected commencement and other traditional year-end activities "somewhat."

Excluded students will most likely miss final exams Wednesday-Friday.

School officials said last week grades for those students would be based on their work before exclusion.

The measles outbreak began last month in Garden City, when high school students apparently contracted the virus while vacationing in Florida during spring break.

More than 400 Garden City High School students were excluded from classes and other school activities for two weeks after being vaccinated.

Man gets prison in teen shooting

By Marie Chestney
Staff writer

One of three men charged in the Feb. 18 shooting of a Livonia Churchill High student was sentenced Thursday in Detroit Recorder's Court.

Judge Robert Evans sentenced Clint Allen Smith, 19, of Redford Township to 8½ to 20 years in prison for assault with intent to commit murder. He also sentenced Smith to a mandatory two years in prison for possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Smith could have been sentenced to life in prison.

"It's not what I would have liked it to be but we can live with it," said Livonia police Sgt. Larry Tilford, who investigated the shooting.

ON APRIL 11, Smith pleaded guilty to shooting Shannon James, 16.

James was shot in the head as she stood near a bedroom window inside her home on Grennada Street, Livonia.

James' father, Lt. Dennis James of the Livonia Fire Department, made a statement at Thursday's sentencing.

Because the bullet still is buried in his daughter's head, and most likely always will be, he said his daughter faced a very uncertain future. He said he did not know how the bullet would affect his daughter's life, especially once she stops taking medication.

Doctors have said that removing the .22-cal. bullet would be too risky to James' life.

TWO OTHERS charged in the shooting face a hearing June 14 in Recorder's Court.

At the hearing, a trial date will be set for Lawrence Dennis Kapp, 17, of West Bloomfield Township, and Christopher Robert Burow, 16, of Plymouth Township.

Both also have been charged with assault with intent to commit murder and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

On May 31 in a court appearance before Recorder's Court Judge Leonard Townsend, both pleaded not guilty to the two charges.

All three signed confessions implicating themselves and each other in the shooting.

In his confession, Smith said he volunteered to shoot James. He said he shot her after drinking five beers and smoking marijuana.

cop calls

A 36-YEAR-OLD Wayne man was treated and released from Westland Medical Center Thursday after he was apparently robbed and assaulted at an acquaintance's house and dumped in Venoy Dorsey Park.

The man received cuts below his eye and on his lip, police said.

He told police two men stole $240 from his wallet.

Officers were called to the park by Westland public service department workers who spotted the victim on the ground at 9:30 a.m.

Police said the victim, who appeared intoxicated, was uncooperative when asked what had happened.

He told police two men came to his home early Thursday and after drinking some alcoholic beverages, the three called a taxi cab and rode to a house on Muskégon.

He told police he couldn't identify the men or the house where the assault occurred.

A RESIDENT of the Woodcrest Villa apartments, Wayne Road south of Joy, told police someone broke into her apartment early June 3 and stole a 26-inch color television and two stereo systems.

One of the stereos belonged to her roommate, the woman said.

The woman said she came home from work at 3 a.m. and found the apartment door closed but not locked.

Police said the sliding balcony door was forced off its track and may have been the point of entry.

A CAR that had been driven by a Westland youth burst into flames 10 minutes after being left in a parking space at Scotsdale Apartments, on Joy, west of Newburgh, police were told.

The youth, 17, told police he drove the 1986 Ford Thunderbird to the complex to visit a friend.

A complex security guard called the fire department, police said.

Fire investigators said the blaze apparently started in the car's engine compartment. The car's front end was severely damaged and the passenger compartment sustained slight damage, police said.

A HOMEOWNER on the 7300 block of Deering reported that someone broke into his garage Tuesday or Wednesday.

The culprit smashed two windows and ransacked the garage but didn't steal anything, the homeowner said.

Masonry firm gets abatement

National Block Co. has been granted a seven-year tax abatement by the Westland City Council for a planned expansion.

The tax break is one of the first granted under a revised abatement policy adopted by the city last year. The new policy awards points for the size of the project and encourages creation of higher paying jobs and hiring local residents.

National Block, which manufactures masonry and other concrete products for use in construction projects, will spend $392,000 on the expansion and new equipment at its building on Ford, west of Hix.

Company officials expect to add 5 jobs after the expansion, bringing the total number of employees to 46. Westland residents will get the first crack at the new jobs, the company said.

As a condition of the abatement, National Block will work with either the Wayne County Private Industry Corp. or the Ford Vocational/Technical Center for employee training and recruitment.

4 groups outline plans to develop county land

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Four groups — including a Who's Who of local and national developers and famous golf pros — have made bids for major developments on 1,000 acres of land Wayne County owns in Northville Township.

The deadline bid was 4 p.m. Thursday. Bidders include groups aligned with Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer.

Bill Wild, the county's director of business development, declined to give details of the bids. He said the four bids would be narrowed to two finalists in about 90 days, with approval of the eventual developer by county executive Edward McNamara and the county commission expected by September.

Wild said demolition of about 50-55 buildings on the site could begin as early as next winter.

The land, which includes the former Child Development Center, runs from east of Sheldon west to Beck and from Five Mile north toward Six Mile.

Zoning approval for development would be required by Northville Township.

HERE ARE descriptions of the four development groups and their projects:

GROUP I: Headed by the Tampa-based Nicklaus/Sierra Development Corp., Group I partners are LoPatIn & Co. of Southfield; the Fisher Group, headed by financier Max Fisher's son, Phillip; Holtzman & Silverman Cos. of Farmington Hills; and Indianapolis-based Duke Associates, also involved in developing two office complexes on Schoolcraft College property along I-275 in Livonia.

The Nicklaus proposal would develop 550 acres of the land. Since its founding six years ago, Nicklaus/Sierra has developed six exclusive golf-course communities nationwide, with single-family homes surrounding the golf courses. The homes sit on one-acre lots that cost up to $800,000.

The four groups — including a Who's Who of local and national developers and famous golf pros — have made bids for major developments on 1,000 acres of land Wayne County owns in Northville Township.

GROUP II: This group's golf course would be designed by Lee Trevino.

Partners include Robert DeMattia, president of R.A. DeMatilla Co., a Plymouth Township-based developer; Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of Farmington Hills; Heinz Prechter, who owns a chain of downtown newspapers and is one of the new owners of the recently reopened London Chop House in downtown Detroit; and the Selective Group of Farmington Hills.

Their proposal would include a golf course, single-family homes, condominiums, recreational facilities for use by residents of Northville and Plymouth, renovation of some existing facilities and a high-tech center.

"We're going to be the winner. We know we are," said DeMatilla.

GROUP III: According to partner Arnold Cohen, this group has a commitment but has not yet signed a contract with Arnold Palmer. Cohen, his son, Walter, and Hubert Wright own Charter Development Co., which has built 12,000 senior citizen housing units in southeastern Michigan as well as office buildings, warehouses, and shopping centers, including Franklin Shopping Center in Southfield. The Cohens also own Arco Construction of Southfield.

Their partners are John Boll and Joseph Ministrelli, who own Chateau Land Development Co. of Mt. Clemens.

This group's plans include a golf course, single-family homes, a senior village, townhouses, apartments, retail center, office building and a high-tech research complex.

GROUP IV: This group includes J & J Slavik Inc. of Farmington Hills; Byron Trerice Co., a real-estate brokerage firm based in Birmingham; Vidosh Inc., a Pontiac-based landscaping and developing company; and Trammell Crow, one of the nation's largest developers and developers of the Novi Town Center.

The J's in the Slavik company stand for a father and son, both of whom are named Joseph. According to Joseph Sr., the group plans to build two golf courses and is interested in hiring golf-course designer Arthur Hill. He didn't want to get into bid specifics, but said it would be "mixed-use," which "takes in most everything," including residential and office.

County to clean up contamination at development site

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Wayne County officials say the county, not developers, will pay for the clean up of soil and buildings contaminated with PCB at the Northville Township site that is for sale.

Thursday was the deadline for bids on the site, nearly 1,000 acres between Five and Six Mile and east of Sheldon to Beck.

According to Glenn Brown, director of environmental health for the county, the site will be cleaned of PCB before a decision is made on which development group will get the property. (See related story about who made bids and possible plans for the site.)

Abandoned buildings and soil near Sheldon were contaminated with PCB in early May, when thieves apparently tore apart old electrical transformers looking for copper. Liquid used to cool the transformers contained unknown levels of PCB, or polychlorinated biphenyl, an insulating material used in electrical equipment manufactured before 1970.

Contact with PCB has been linked to rashes, swelling and intestinal disorders.

BROWN SAID the contamination posed no threat to homeowners living near the property.

"With this kind of problem, you always want it done yesterday," said Brown. "But we can't move too fast until we know the extent of the trouble."

He said the site should be cleaned up within a month. "If it's more than a month from now, I'll be very disappointed," he said Thursday.

Most of the contamination was inside the former power house, but some PCB was spilled outside on the ground. "It was very limited outside," said Brown.

He said soil samples have been taken and the data is "just coming back. We don't have full-fledged response plans, yet, though we're getting close."

Until test results are back, he said he would have no estimate of the cost of the cleanup.

Brown said he was unsure how much coolant was spilled. He said three transformers were ruptured and that each holds up to 100 gallons of coolant. PCB levels in the coolant can differ widely.

Five transformers, including the three broken ones, have been removed.

The county put up no-trespassing signs and yellow police tape ordering persons to stay away, but both the signs and the tape have been ripped down by vandals.

Return to scene

Persons involved in the "Rescue" missions, and others opposed to abortion, demonstrated Friday afternoon in front of the Woman's Advisory Center on Six Mile east of Inkster Road in Livonia. The group was scheduled to return the next day. Demonstrations at the center have occurred without serious incident, but previous rescue missions have resulted in arrests. In a so-called rescue mission, participants block entrance to the center to prevent people from keeping an appointment to have an abortion. The Woman's Advisory Center is a medical facility where people go for a variety of routine medical treatments as well as abortions.

Seminary may become Japanese cultural center

By Doug Funke
staff writer

One year after the last Mass in St. John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth Township was celebrated, there are rumors that it may be sold and used as a Japanese cultural center. While no one wants to talk for the record, rumors abound that the seminary property, excluding the Mission Hills Golf Course, will be turned into such a center.

"I can certainly say there have been serious inquiries. There isn't anything imminent that I know of," said Jay Berman, spokesman for the Archdiocese of Detroit.

The seminary, at Five Mile and Sheldon, is owned by the Catholic Bishops of Michigan.

Byron W. Trerice Jr., a realtor whose company is marketing the property, wouldn't comment on whether a deal is close.

Berman and Trerice declined to comment on how many would-be purchasers have looked over the 175-acre parcel that includes the 150,000-square-foot seminary and 18-hole golf course.

THE SEMINARY, built in 1948-49, was closed last year due to declining enrollment.

Trerice said that an asking price hasn't been established.

"We're in the process of assessing structures there for seeing how they'd best accommodate re-use," Trerice said.

"In a short period of time, we'll be establishing a value and advertising for sale at a specific price."

The archdiocese isn't interested in selling the golf course now, Trerice said.

The land is zoned residential with minimum sized lots of one acre.

"Our perspective is, we would prefer to see a conference center and maintenance of the golf course," said James Anulewicz, township planning director.

Anulewicz said he's heard rumors that the growing number of Japanese companies moving into the area have been nudged to consider buying the property as a cultural center.

"Japanese are concerned about the cultural aspect. They're here three, four, five years then go back. You lose a lot.

"How that affects this project I don't know," Anulewicz said. "There is a possibility of a conglomerate getting together like they do in Japan. That could be an ideal setting."

WHAT TOWNSHIP officials don't want is to see the property divided and sold in many pieces.

"Taking something from a large area into slivers moving in opposite directions doesn't make sense from a planning standpoint," Anulewicz said.

Bureaucractic tale Moral of pedestrian tunnel

THIS IS a tale of two large bureaucracies trying to make ends meet.

But not in the way you think. Is it tough times in the sales department? Too many expenses and not enough revenue to pay the bills? Maybe a company on the brink of bankruptcy?

No, that's not it. This is about a $2 million pedestrian tunnel in Chicago — probably budgeted at half that when the project began. When completed, the tunnel will connect city hall and the state government office building.

City contractors started digging at one end, while those hired by the state of Illinois shoveled at the other. They've now reached the middle and discovered someone was a bit off on the calculations.

The state's half of tunnel is nine inches lower and eight inches to one side of the city's segment. They don't quite match up — to the tune of $309,000, one of those little extra bills for taxpayers trying to "make ends meet" in more important ways.

THE STATE blames the city and

the city blames the state. I call it the ultimate in bureaucratic inefficiency. The question is: why didn't one engineering staff and contractor work on the tunnel and have the other governmental unit reimburse them?

That would be too easy. Obviously, each thought they could do a better job, so the whole effort was botched. It's almost comical. If we don't laugh about it, we'll cry.

"It's very embarrassing," one city architect told reporters. "Professionals aren't supposed to make mistakes like this."

Pedestrians will remember their goof each time they step up midway through the tunnel to get to Chicago City Hall.

The project is already some four years behind schedule, but is due to open in September.

I suppose there are several lessons to be learned from our neighbors in Illinois. A couple might be "do the job yourself to ensure it gets done," or, "the more you dig, the deeper in trouble you get."

BUT THERE'S one more important lesson that Chicago and Illinois officials can learn from other municipalities.

Many cities and government bureaucracies have found methods of working well together — it's commonly called teamwork. When they have a project to coordinate, they get together and do what is most cost efficient and timely for the project and taxpayers.

Usually, whoever can get the lowest quote coordinates the job, with the city or township or county reimbursing for their portion of the project.

Just who's running these big cities and states, and making these big dollar decisions anyway? That's the million-dollar question.

Some protesters win, others are murdered

THERE ARE protests . . . and there are protests.

THE LOCATION: Wayne State University, Detroit.

The situation: A small group of black university students takes over a building, demanding, among other things, a separate department of black studies, more black faculty, more money for minority programs, etc.

The result: The takeover lasts for about a week, the students are basically left alone and finally the university gives in to most of their demands.

THE LOCATION: Ferris State University, Big Rapids.

The situation: Basically the same as above.

The result: See above.

THE LOCATION: Michigan State University, East Lansing.

The situation: See above.

The result: See above.

THE LOCATION: Farmington Hills, Livonia, other scattered sites across the United States.

The situation: Pro-lifers picket abortion clinics while pro-choice pickets the pro-lifers. One group is against all abortions. The other group says women should have a choice.

The result: Nothing is resolved, but the protesters (both sides) are allowed to have their say. A few arrests of people illegally blocking access to buildings. No violence.

THE LOCATION: Various spots in Oakland County and scattered locations across the country.

The situation: A few unidentified extremists spray-paint racist messages of hate on houses, cars, school lockers. Minority groups and school officials get up in arms.

The result: Meetings, study groups. Officials and others pledge to work to eliminate racism. Mea culpas are heard throughout the land. No results evident so far.

THE LOCATION: Plymouth and Canton.

The situation: A group calling itself Citizens for Better Education goes on a witch-hunt, vowing to eliminate what it claims is immorality, Satanism and witchcraft in the school system.

The result: CBE continues to clamor. Other residents finally get tired of all the yammering. Dozens of letters to the editor begin to appear in local newspapers. Battle lines are drawn and skirmishes are fought on the editorial pages. No conclusions yet as to whether the schools are teaching students to think or are contributing to their moral decay.

THE LOCATION: Tiananmen Square, Beijing, China.

The situation: University students gather in the square to protest restrictive government policies. Racism, abortion, immorality — those aren't the issues. The issues are freedom and democracy. The students want, in short, the kind of life that already exists in the United States, the kind of life that our home-grown protesters are so unhappy with.

The result: The government puts up with the protests for a time, then orders the army to move on the protesters. Local troops of The People's Army refuse to turn on the people, so soldiers from outlying provinces are brought in. They bring artillery. They bring tanks. Death estimates range from the hundreds to the thousands, depending on the source of information. Civil war seems imminent. Still the protesters continue to call for democracy. Results inconclusive so far.

There are protests . . . and there are protests.

Stockholders quite often will play hardball

YOU THINK journalists ask hardball questions? Think again. Stockholders at corporate annual meetings often teach me and Sam Donaldson a thing or two.

Take last week's annual meeting of Troy K mart Corp., remembering that its shareholders are also customers.

Michael Turok, a shareholder, shopper and retiree, told board chairman Joseph Antonini he bought his wife a Eureka vacuum cleaner at a company store. But when Turok went to buy replacement bags, he visited three K mart outlets without success.

"No excuse," said Antonini quickly. "Give him a case of Eureka bags free."

A MOTHER, Pat Glionna, reported son Joey had saved his cash and bought three shares of K mart stock because he likes the store. But when

Tim Richard

Joey went shopping for a Nintendo game, he found competitors' prices were $5 to $25 cheaper.

"See that Joey gets a free Nintendo," Antonini ordered a gofer.

A woman employee complained her wages weren't keeping pace with the cost of living. "I can no longer afford to eat in the cafeteria," she said. Much applause from the audience of 300 or so.

Without my asking, Antonini addressed our family's complaint — constant delays at the checkout lane for price checks. I recall a Christmas visitation when all nine lanes came to a grinding halt — three for check cashers and six for price checks.

The chairman said they're halfway through installing price scanning equipment in the nearly 2,300 stores, and the job will be done by the end of 1990.

Wall Street pundits had predicted shareholders would give Antonini a rough time because of K mart's first-quarter earnings drop of 22 percent. It didn't happen. Folks were more concerned about how the store they own treated them.

ONE TASTELESS note was interjected by the Rev. William Sompiatski-Jarman, a Presbyterian minister.

In a long-winded speech, he asked K mart officials to put pressure on one of its Georgia drapery suppliers involved in a labor dispute and charges of racial bias.

Rev. J-S's bombast was, as the bureaucrats say, inappropriate because (1) it's not K mart's business to settle Georgia labor cases, (2) Antonini already had contacted supplier and union urging them to "get this behind us," (3) the supplier had no chance to respond in a public forum, and (4) the case is in court.

In his program, Antonini honored several of the company's 3,500 employees for their service to the public. He said the company is seeking to instill "missionary zeal" for taking care of customers.

It would be nice if those lessons could have rubbed off on a certain Presbyterian minister.

Opinions are to be shared

Opinions and ideas are best when shared with others. That's why The Observer encourages its readers to share their views with others in the From Our Readers column.

Submitting a letter to the editor for publication is easy. Letters should be typewritten or printed legibly and kept to 300 words. Letters must be signed and include the address of the sender.

Names will be withheld only for the best of reasons, and the decision to do so will be made by the editor.

Letters should be mailed to: the editor, Observer, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Area lawmaker studies mental health in China

By Tim Richard
staff writer

In China they build mental hospitals the reverse of how Michigan builds them.

"They believe in keeping their patients locked up. Their gardens are in interior courts," said state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who recently returned from a two-week trip to China. "They have no walkway problems."

"At Northville (regional psychiatric hospital), it's the opposite — large expanses of grass and bushes leading to the road. We still have one or two walkways a day at Northville," said Geake, who has spent much of his legislative career helping homeowners who complain about the mentally ill invading their neighborhoods.

HE DIDN'T see tanks because martial law hadn't been declared yet and, as a public official, avoided the Beijing demonstrations in order not to compromise the U.S. government.

Geake's business is knowing mental health.

"Their gardens are really very beautiful. They do a lot more with occupational therapy and music therapy," said Geake, himself a Ph.D. in psychology.

"They (Chinese hosts) had the patients perform for us. This brings the patients to reality because they give to others — their talents and abilities."

"They asked us to sing to them. I led our delegation in 'America the Beautiful,'" Geake said.

THE DELEGATION consisted of 37 Michiganders, including Tom Watkins, the Northville resident and former Wayne County charter commissioner who directs the state Department of Mental Health.

It included two legislators who chair mental health appropriations subcommittees — Geake and Rep. Joe Young Sr., D-Detroit. Others were local community mental health officials from around the state.

Geake flew in an "extra" seat at no cost to the state. Their trip, paid for by the Chinese government, was to the Sino-American Psychiatric Conference, attended by 250 in Beijing.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, flew in an "extra" seat at no cost to the state. The trip, paid for by the Chinese government, was to the Sino-American Psychiatric Conference, attended by 250 in Beijing.

ing. The delegation also saw Nanjing, Shanghai and Xian. The idea was born when a delegation of Chinese scientists met with Americans in Cobo Hall last year.

"I presented a paper on Michigan's mental health funding, and it was interpreted as I gave it," Geake said. "I told them the legislative branch would develop a budget, and then an elected chief executive is free to accept or veto it."

"We were told their hospital administrators submit budgets to the government and are told what they can have."

"THEY USE acupuncture to treat the mentally ill, including schizophrenics. Instead of needles, they use electrical probes that barely penetrate the skin."

"We were allowed to see this in wards. It surprised us. The electric current is very gentle — it should not be confused with electric shock treatments."

Would he like to see Michigan use acupuncture?

"We ought to keep an open mind and review the scientific literature," Geake said.

OTHER DIFFERENCES between the Chinese and Michigan systems of treating the mentally ill:

- Chinese patients wear uniforms. At Northville, it's sometimes difficult to tell patients from staff.

he said.

- Most of their mental health care is on an out-patient basis, and three persons must agree before a person is admitted to a hospital — the psychiatrist in charge of admissions, a family member and the patient's supervisor at work. China has no system for having a probate judge commit a patient to a hospital.

- "Eighty percent of those discharged return to their families whereas 20 percent in Michigan return to their families. China has a much stronger family system. Too often in the U.S., they're left to wander the streets or go into halfway houses."

- Conference tables in China are U-shaped with colorful potted plants inside the U. "It gives a feeling of beauty and tranquility," he said.

- "The Chinese use very little psychotherapy; it's much more medically oriented. They learned that from the Soviets. I think you need both."

- "We were told salaries are identical between psychiatrists, physicians and nurses. They're just living wages."

- Visitors were allowed to take pictures of children in mental facilities. There was no need to obtain a consent form signed by a parent.

Beef up choices for grill

Readers who are aware of the Janes Gang eating habits know that beef products are not a high priority in the family food budget.

But with Father's Day just around the corner and traditional family barbecues heating up all over, here is a primer for getting the most for your money at the butcher's or meat department of your favorite grocer.

The grades used on all meat and meat products may include the grade names of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and/or the grade names of packers and retailers.

Both grade and brand names are applied to meat with a roller stamp, which leaves its mark the full length of the carcass of cuts. The bluish vegetable-base marking fluid used on all beef and for the inspection stamp is totally harmless.

PRIMARY PURPOSE of the Federal Meat Inspection Stamp is protection of you, the consumer, by guaranteeing that all meat inspected is from healthy animals. It states that the animal was slaughtered and butchered under sanitary conditions and that it is entirely suitable for consumption.

Primary factors determining the value and general acceptability of the carcass include:

a. Conformation. This refers to the general form, shape or outline of the carcass. Superior conformation is characterized by thick backs with full loins and ribs; deep, plump rounds; thick shoulders, and short necks and shanks.

In addition, the quality of the meat is determined by checking the maturity (age) of the animal, marbling or the flecks of fat within the lean portions which enhances palatability, juiciness, flavor and tenderness and, last but not least, the color, firmness and texture of the lean sections.

b. Cutability. This refers to the amount of usable meat in a carcass. High cutability of carcasses combine a minimum of fat covered with very thick musculature. The USDA cutability grades are numbered from one to five, with one having the best cutability.

c. Aging. Usually, only the ribs and loins of high-quality beef, lamb and mutton are aged. To be suitable for aging, meat must have a very thick covering of fat to prevent discoloration of the lean portions and keep evaporation to a minimum. This is why the biggest, fattest steers are awarded blue-ribbon prizes at State Fairs.

VACUUM PACKAGING is more noticeable in the butcher's meat case these days. This form of moisture and vaporproof film protects meat from the time it is processed till the time it is consumed and reduces weight loss and surface spoilage for two to three weeks.

Quality grades are given to beef cuts so that consumers can use a guideline to choose what they prefer and can afford. The various grades include prime, choice, good, standard, commercial, utility cutter and canner.

You may be surprised to learn that meat grading is not compulsory. It is a voluntary service on the part of the wholesaler and slaughterhouse, which pays a fee to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, whose inspectors make the decision on how the meat will be graded. What is compulsory, however, is the USDA stamp of approval on the health of the steer.

If you are looking for the best cuts of beef for your summertime grilling, the top of the line is prime, which features light-colored meat with firm, white fat and fine-textured, even marbling throughout the meat. Less than two percent of the meat in the butcher shops and markets are prime, so when you see it, expect to pay for the quality.

Plastic plates for real, really good food

It was so good, we could have licked the plate of the house salad, and it didn't even matter that the salad was served on plastic.

But you will have to get around that fact if you want to enjoy the food at Kruse and Muer, a restaurant that literally fits into a hole in the wall in Rochester Hills' MeadowBrook Village Mall.

In something under 2,000 square feet, Kruse and Muer packs a culinary wallop into very little space. The menu includes homemade pasta, fresh fish, a varied selection of chicken dishes and pizza. There's also a smattering of items borrowed from the Muer Corp. — Charley's Chowder and homemade bread. Something not borrowed is the plastic dishes, which at first seem out of place and then seem almost acceptable.

In a note to customers, co-owner Bill Kruse explains that plastic dishes mean more room for cooking (and thus menu diversification) because china storage and a dishwasher no longer become an issue.

CONSIDERING THE concept of Kruse and Muer, it makes sense.

"We wanted to be a carryout for that two-income family, with both Mom and Dad working. We wanted to provide nutritious, well-balanced carryout meals," Kruse said.

The concept, he added, seems to be "dead on."

rant's business is in the takeout department. As the restaurant approaches its one-year anniversary in August, Kruse hopes to see the percentage increase to 50.

The "we" part of Kruse and Muer is Chuck Muer of the famed Charley's Crab. A 17-year Muer Corp. employee, Kruse served his last seven years there as vice-president of operations.

During his tenure, he learned the restaurant business and developed with Muer the concept for the Rochester restaurant, which is separate from the corporation. Muer, said Kruse, "is my financial partner and my operational mentor. Before I left the Muer Corp., Chuck and I were talking a lot about carryout and that that was a way to go in the future.

"SO, WE THOUGHT we'd give it a whirl. The 50 seats we do have were really to help promote the carryout business. The restaurant ended up telling what we were all about."

And what is that, exactly? The restaurant focuses on three areas. 1. Bread — homemade and hot out of the oven. 2. Fresh fish and homemade pasta, and 3. Pizza.

Our favorite was a wonderful combination of greens and fruit concocted by Kruse's wife, Cindy, that makes up the house salad. A delightful and distinctly different flavor results from combining cantaloupe with romaine lettuce and tossing it with a honey-mustard vinaigrette, which you can buy by the pint ($3.95). The salad changes depending on what's freshest at the time. The evening we had it, we could have made a meal of the salad alone. Do not miss it.

For dinner we tried the chicken primavera, not one of the top three draws but delicious nevertheless. Crunchy broccoli, red pepper and other vegetables are mixed with a chicken cooked just tender. The entree was delicious and plentiful at $7.95, including bread and salad.

Another entree tried was the Shaft barbecue ribs. While we were impressed with the amount of meat on the bones and the flavor of the sauce, the grease factor — though always expected with ribs — was still more than we cared for. The ribs were made to imitate those at an Aspen restaurant named the Shaft. Maybe after a long day of skiing, all that grease warms you up. In Rochester, it provides a little too much finger-licking.

INDEED, IF there is one complaint overall, it was the excess liquid factor. Not so much to make it intolerable but enough to notice.

Dad gets his just desserts

By Debbie L. Sklar

FORGET ULTRA-LOUD ties and cardigan sweaters with little green alligators on the breast. Creamy cheesecakes are the in items for Father's Day, proclaims one local company.

"Who doesn't need a cheesecake? It's the perfect gift for Dad," said Marian Sheridan, co-owner of the Gourmet Cheesecake Club based in Farmington Hills. "For the month of June the flavor is Key Lime."

Four years ago Sheridan, 35, a former medical technician, and her sister Linda Ozog, 39, who still is an art director for an advertising agency, began looking into businesses that they could own and somehow came up with cheesecakes. "I knew of a lady in Colorado who had a cookie-of-the-month club," said Sheridan. "I thought, 'Why not cheesecakes?' It could be so much better."

And, so they say, history was made. Sheridan said that before things could really take off, packaging and recipes needed to be perfected. "I always made cheesecakes, but I didn't know how well they would ship," she said. "I also didn't know how long they would stay fresh."

While exploring their options, the women discovered a mail-order catalog that shipped cheesecakes. "We found that to be something very interesting to stumble upon."

FROM THERE they had to come up with a scheme that would allow them to begin, but without having to purchase "thousands of boxes."

"It took us about four months of searching various states before we found someone to cut forms and corrugated material that would go into the gift boxes," she said.

JIM JAGFELD/staff photographer

Sisters Marian Sheridan (left) and Linda Ozog originated the idea for the Gourmet Cheesecake Club four years ago.

Once the search for the perfect packaging material ended, the business officially kicked off in May 1985. "It was great. We opened up for Mother's Day," she recalled.

Since then, the Gourmet Cheesecake Club has been baking unique and elegant cheesecakes, ready to eat and to send.

"We got so busy that we had to hire another baker, who does all our baking for us out of a licensed kitchen in Berkeley," explained Sheridan. "In the experimental stages, my sister and I did the baking out of my home."

Sheridan said eventually the club would like to branch out and operate its own bakery — minus a retail front. "Instead of contracting out, we could do all the baking ourselves."

SHERIDAN SAID their cheesecakes are made with the finest, freshest, natural ingredients. There are 13 in all. Each month, a different gourmet flavor is featured, such as irresistible Raspberry Ribbon, Amaretto, and Chocolate-Crowned Holiday Rum Mocha, all baked in an exclusive golden-walnut crust. A traditional-style cheesecake is offered as an option to any of the 12 gourmet flavors.

"The recipes are a combination of mine and my sister's," she said. "We don't use any plain crusts, such as shortbread or graham crackers. I have a hard time even eating that type now."

The crust varies with either almonds, chocolate, pecans or walnuts, depending on the particular flavor. "To me the crust really sets off the cake," she said.

You can opt to send either one cheesecake on a one-time basis or sign up for a membership. Seventy percent of the business is one-time orders, according to Sheridan. "Membership-wise there are people who will enroll friends, relatives or themselves into the club," she said.

Prices are as follows: a single order, which is 10 servings, 2 pounds 8 ounces, $21.95; 18 servings, 3 pounds 8 ounces, $27.95; three-month club, $61.50; five-month club, $102.50; eight-month club, $161.50; 12-month club, $234.50, and six-month club (bi-monthly), $124.50. All prices include delivery except for air shipments.

WHEN ASKED how quickly their idea took off, Sheridan said, "It took off almost immediately because it's so different. People get tired of buying the same gifts over and over again. Our idea is fresh, delicious and unique. Cheesecakes have become so popular that some people even order them for weddings and other special occasions."

"We've grown by word of mouth, and through recommendations by numerous Chamber of Commerce," she said. "Over 30 percent of our accounts are commercial accounts."

Many of the Gourmet Cheesecake Club's scrumptious cheesecakes make their way from coast to coast. "One out of every four travels out of state." Large numbers also are sent to parents in Florida and California.

"I had a customer who enjoyed the cheesecake that she received so much that she signed up for a 12-month membership," she said. "For us that's the ultimate compliment."

"In our opinion, a cheesecake is a lot better than another old tie, and if you're watching your weight these are quality calories," she said.

Mail orders for Father's Day cheesecakes need to be placed by noon Wednesday for out-of-state orders and no later than Thursday (June 15) at noon for local orders. The Gourmet Cheesecake Club can be reached by calling 553-2883.

Morel finders

Arthur Borucki of Bloomfield Township recently found morel mushrooms in his own home town. Bloomfield Village Officer Henry Rogalski told Borucki where he had seen some mushrooms, and Borucki, who has hunted morels before, gathered them up. "They're not supposed to grow south of Bay City," said Borucki, who found two 10-inch-tall ones and two 8-inch ones, among 11 morels. He said they were found in a woodpile and believes the spores were in the wood when it was brought from up north. (Another Observer & Eccentric reader wrote to say she found six morels, one six-inches tall, in her Livonia backyard.)

The next grade is choice, a grade that accounts for 20 percent of all the beef sold and is what most supermarkets and butchers carry for consumer purchases. The meat is also light colored and has a firm layer of fat, but the marbling is uneven and there might be little pockets of fat. Choice meat is a tad more coarse than prime.

THERE CAN BE quite a difference between top choice and low choice, since about 15 years ago the breeders and growers changed the grades, incorporating plain choice into top prime and the grade below choice, good, into choice.

So the choice meat you get now encompasses a wide range of quality. This is why you can see some meat marked as "top choice." No one, however, would dare advertise their meat as "bottom choice."

The "good" grade of meat formerly was the commercial grade. This grade is for folks who don't like a lot of fat. It is plain meat with hardly any marbling and is apt to be tough, with little flavor. These cuts usually lend themselves to marinating and slow cooking, which enhances flavor and tenderness.

The good and standard commercial grades may include some cows and bulls. The last grade, which is the cutters' and canners' grade, is seldom seen in retail markets but is mainly used by the processors of frankfurters, bologna, knockwurst, sausages and canned or potted meat products.

Yours truly has a simple rule that is followed by all the Janes Gang. Momma always said never to buy steaks or good meat that was cut and wrapped in a smothering plastic. She always said that you should get to know your butcher or meat person so that when quality counted, you could depend on his or her recommendation.

TO THIS DAY, she still relies on Mr. Szymanski and, in all honesty, at the family barbecues, you can always tell. Of course, an occasional Momma Janes pie and loaf of fresh bread never hurts.

So light up those grills and heat up those broilers, but when you want the best, rely on a good butcher or meat market for the tastiest cuts. Bon Appetit!

TRADITIONAL BEEF WELLINGTON

4 good beef fillets
1 cup fresh chopped mushrooms
4 strips bacon or salt pork salt and pepper
1 sheet puff pastry dough (available in frozen foods)

Wrap the fillets in bacon and secure with a toothpick. Brown on all sides in a hot skillet until meat is browned (about 1 minute). Season with salt and pepper. Top each fillet with 1/4 cup chopped mushrooms. Wrap in puff pastry and bake on a lightly greased baking pan until desired internal temperature is reached.

CLASSIC LONDON BROIL

Although many people think of London broil as a cut of meat, it is actually a way of cooking meat. A boneless piece of meat is marinated, broiled, then sliced into thin slices and is usually served with a mushroom sauce. Flank steak has traditionally been the best cut for London broils.

1 flank steak, 2-2 1/2 pounds paprika
salt and pepper to taste juice of 1 lemon
1 clove garlic, chopped fine
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

1/4 teaspoon thyme or rosemary oil

Place the piece of meat in a dish or sautépan and season it with paprika, salt and pepper. Squeeze the lemon juice over it and then sprinkle with garlic, parsley, thyme and rosemary. Wet the meat with oil, turning it several times. Marinate the meat in the refrigerator for at least 2 hours (the longer the better), then broil the steak in a preheated broiler. Place the steak on a cutting board and with a sharp knife, cut thin slices on the bias. Serve plain or with a mushroom sauce.

Fraud: Billion dollar business preys on elderly

Dear Jo:
My mother, age 68, has been a victim of fraud. She just paid $300 for some unlabeled pills that were supposed to cure her arthritis, to a well-dressed young man who was selling health care products from door-to-door.
She trusted the man completely — she said he reminded her of my son. She takes the pills every day and is getting better because she hasn't had any positive results as yet.
Is this just an isolated case or is fraud of the elderly common?

I would appreciate it if you would address this subject as my mother and her friends read your column. Thank you.

Mrs. H.R.,
Concerned Daughter

Dear Mrs. R.:
You have good reason to be concerned. Medical quackery or fraud is a $10 billion business in North America.

The Oxford dictionary defines fraud as: a criminal deception; a dishonest artifice or trick; an imposter; and a person or thing not fulfilling a gerontology

A. Jolayne Farrell

claim or expectation. The elderly are hit the hardest by fraud, primarily because of their increased health problems. They are promised, for a price, a cure to any problem that they are having. The most common are "cures" for aging itself, cancer and, as in your mother's case, arthritis.

The perpetrators don't look like criminals at all. They are usually good looking, well-dressed and absolutely charming. Most of the victims say, as your mother did, that the bogus salesperson reminded them of a family member.

The best way to deal with door-to-door salespeople who are unknown to the householder is to thank them for calling and send them on their way. Many elderly are taken in, not only by the looks and charm of these people, but because they themselves are lonely and perhaps a little depressed, and would like some company.

Lastly, a message to your mother and others her age who read my column — when it comes to health care and "cures" for anything, legitimate treatment must come from well educated health care professionals who have dedicated their lives to the physical and mental wellbeing of others.

Air quality still poor despite battle to reduce pollution

The following is one of the Consumer Mailbag's ECO-NOTES — updates on various environmental issues:

AIR QUALITY
During 1987, air quality remained poor in all major U.S. cities despite the continued battle to reduce pollution levels down to comply with the federally set standards. The EPA reports that 68 metropolitan areas — six more than in 1986 — failed to meet the ozone standards. Ozone is the main lung-irritating ingredient in smog.

Several areas showed improvement in carbon monoxide levels, mainly because more older cars exempt from emission controls were junked. Despite improvements, 59 areas failed to meet the carbon monoxide levels. The 23 largest U.S. urban areas failed on one or both counts.

ACID RAIN
While most people are aware that Northeast inland lakes are being adversely affected by acid deposits, a recent report from the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) states that acid rain — specifically airborne nitrogen — is causing a major decline in the quality of coastal waters and marine life in the eastern United States.

The EDF study examined the effects of eutrophication (the depletion of oxygen from the water) rather than acidity, on coastal life.

Airborne nitrogen oxides, mostly from cars and electric utilities, are converted to nitric acids and nitrates. When deposited in the water, the chemicals stimulate excessive algae growth. The algae depletes the oxygen supply and blocks sunlight needed by marine plants and animals.

According to the U.S. EPA, cases of severe oxygen depletion and fish kills are on the rise in eastern coastal waters from the Chesapeake Bay south through North Carolina, particularly in estuaries.

SOLAR ENERGY
A main drawback to solar energy has been its higher cost in relation to other forms of energy. However, solar energy researchers are getting closer to making solar energy cost competitive with coal and oil.

CIS produces large amounts of electrical current in panels, but at the same time lowers the panel's maximum voltage. When the voltage was raised, the current was reduced to unacceptable levels.

Scientists found by adding the element gallium to CIS they could raise the voltage without getting the usual reduction in current.

The Solar Energy Research Institute believes that these CIS/gallium panels should one day produce power at half the cost of power generated by present day solar panels and cost competitive with coal or oil.

Arco hopes to market these new panels for limited commercial use by 1990.

GLOVE AND STOCKING NEUROPATHY

You may know someone who suffered shooting pains and numbness in the hands or feet and was thought to have arthritis.

If such pain occurs in the extremities, involves the right and left side equally, and is worse when resting, then the cause is not arthritis. Rather, the probable reason for the pain is a neuritis — an inflammation of the nerve endings that provide a sensory network for the fingers and toes.

This neuritis is called "a glove and stocking neuropathy," a term as descriptive as it is colorful. The pains that originate in these nerve endings start in the toes or fingers, and gradually work up the arm like a formal glove, and up the leg, like a full length stocking.

Reasons for this neuritis include diabetes and certain vitamin deficiencies, but in most instances the cause is unknown. Fortunately, over time, in the majority of cases, numbness subsides and pain decreases. One exception is the glove and stocking pain that can occur with rheumatoid arthritis. In this instance, specific therapy if started soon enough, will stop the neuropathy. If not begun in a timely fashion, the therapy will fail regardless of the dose used and the duration continued.

CC snaps Taylor's 29-game string

Shamrocks advance

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Redford Catholic Central opened its own little shop of horrors Saturday afternoon, smothering No. 1-ranked Taylor Center in the Class A regional baseball finals at Plymouth Canton, 7-3.

CC snapped the Rams' unbeaten streak at 29 after getting a scare from Canton in the semifinals earlier in the day at adjoining Salem High, 7-4.

It was CC's day all the way. The Shamrocks' defense was superb, gobbling up everything in sight.

"That's been our weakness all season, not handling the ground balls, the fly balls . . . at times we've thrown the ball all over the place, but today we came through," said CC coach John Salter, whose team will take a 25-9 record into the state semifinals, 9 a.m. Friday against Millford at Lansing's Municipal Field. (Millford beat Grand Haven, 12-4, to win the Lansing Waverly regional crown.)

Pitchers Leo Hutchinson and Keith Boyzk each tossed complete games to enable CC to make a bid for its third state title. CC has won the coveted Class A title twice (1979 and 1987).

HUTCHINSON, a senior left-hander now sporting a 15-2 record, got off to a rocky start against Canton, serving up a first-inning grand slam to Canton first baseman Mike Culver.

But Hutchinson finished strong, retiring 13 of the final 14 batters he faced. He allowed just three hits and four walks, while striking out seven.

And if Hutchinson's uncharacteristic start was spooky, Canton ace Mike Sulak's brief stint was nightmarish.

The usually reliable senior right-hander unraveled in the top of the first, allowing five runs in just one-third of an inning.

Of the six batters he faced, Sulak hit one and walked four.

Chris Johnston, the CC lead-off man, scored on a wild pitch. Chris Tomasi strolled home when Tom Hill walked with the bases loaded. Mark Stanforth then greeted Canton reliever Brian Paupore with a soft single through a drawn-in infield, scoring more two runs. Kevin Wheeler brought Hill home with a successful suicide squeeze bunt, accounting for the fifth run.

BUT CANTON got right back in it as Hutchinson also had trouble finding the plate in the bottom of the first.

He walked Ron Grob, gave up a single to Derek Humphries and walked Geoff Allen, loading the baseball

bases for the left-hand hitting Culver, who lined an 0-2 pitch, a curveball, over the right field fence.

"It wasn't that bad because we were up 5-0," said Hutchinson of the slam. "But if we had been down 5-0, it would have been a different story."

"I think both starting pitchers weren't used to the umpire's strike zone. But I think I found it after the third inning."

Sulak, who entered the game with an 1989 record of 5-1 to go along with six state tournament wins over the past three years, never had his stuff.

"Mike's been so steady for us," said Canton coach Fred Crissey. "But he hit the first batter and walked the next and then he started talking to himself. I didn't care about him throwing 90 mph, I just wanted him to throw strikes. He never had a game like this. I had to take him out."

CC ADDED another run in the fourth.

Paupore allowed a single to Paul Pirronello, but infield errors by shortstop Derek Humphries and third baseman Geoff Allen (with the bases loaded) pushed him home.

In the seventh, pinch hitter Brett Welling lined a single to left, scoring Hill with CC's final run.

"I thought we played over the start, but you can't make seven errors," said Crissey, whose team bowed out at 22-9. "You just can't play defense like that. That's been our downfall all year, but we're not short on heart. These guys never gave up on themselves."

"Strangely, defense and hitting have been our forte over the years, but this year we set a negative record defensively with our infield."

Meanwhile, CC's defense sparkled, as Pete Elezovic, the first baseman, and Pirronello, the right fielder, each made timely diving catches. "Give them credit," Crissey said. "CC played great defense from the fifth inning on. There are a lot of great athletes from the Catholic League. They made all the plays. They deserved it, so I can't be disappointed."

TAYLOR CENTER brought its glittering 29-0 record into the final after edging Trenton in the other semifinal, 3-2.

The Rams got away with a series of shabby defensive plays to oust Trenton, but couldn't overcome the same miscues against CC.

Canton third baseman Geoff Allen and Catholic Central baserunner Pete Elezovic await the ruling on this fourth-inning play at third base. With the bases loaded and two outs, Allen fielded a ground ball in front of the bag and was unable to make the force at third, giving the Shamrocks a 6-4 lead. CC won the regional and goes to the Class A semifinals for the second time in three years.

hander drafted in the ninth round of the Major League Amateur Baseball Draft by the Seattle Mariners earlier in the week, worked five innings against Trenton. He is available to work four more in the championship final.

But Taylor Center manager Tom Bluhm elected to start right-hander Davey Jones, who was roughed up, a-la Sulak, in the bottom of the first as the Shamrocks scored three times.

Battling cleanup, Elezovic delivered a two-run single, scoring Tomasi from second and Pirronello all the way from first after Taylor Center right fielder Thad Finley let the ball squirt past him trying to make a diving grab.

Hill then followed with a double, scoring Elezovic.

Kostlich came on in the third inning and retired CC in order, but in the fourth he was the victim of three unearned runs.

WALKS TO Matt Fennelly and

Wheeler, coupled with a pair of successive Taylor Center infield errors, ballooned CC's lead to 6-0. (Kostlich, who started the game in center field, threw only two innings before giving way to Todd Bolke in the fifth inning.)

The Rams finally got on the board in the sixth on an RBI triple by Bryon Keatley. They added two more in the top of the seventh and threatened to score more before CC second baseman Mark Clary knocked a shot down in the hole, throwing out Bolke for the second out.

Bozyk then struck out Dan Woltd to end the game, finishing with five-hitter. He struck out four and walked only two in squaring his record at 5-5.

Bozyk, who missed part of the semifinal game against Canton because he was taking an ACT exam, was in command the entire way.

"He did a nice job," Salter said. "He threw strikes and we made the plays with runners on. We caught the ball and they (Taylor Center) had some defensive problems. When you get at this level, you can't make those mistakes."

Salter's counterpart, Bluhm, painfully recounted all of his team's mistakes.

"WE MADE SOME errors that we don't usually make," said the coach. "It was not one person today. Everybody chipped in."

"However, the biggest thing is that we didn't get key hits with runners on. But their pitcher (Bozyk) did a good job and the defense played well behind him."

"The guys had an outstanding season, no matter what happened today. But it would have been nice to be in Lansing."

The Shamrocks, though, are heading to Lansing for the second time in three years.

And you have to wonder if that little shop will be open for weekend business again.

Linda Kulesza (left) of Franklin came in from first base on the wild throw past home plate, but Taylor Center's Wendy Jamula (partially

'Game' Eagles lose in bottom of 7th

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

A week ago, Monroe St. Mary softball coach Len Layhew received a phone call from a coaching colleague who predicted Redford Thurston would be a pushover.

Either it was a prank, or the guy didn't know what he was talking about.

St. Mary needed an RBI triple by Amy Theisen in the bottom of the seventh inning Saturday to, finally put away pesky Thurston, 4-3, in a Class B regional semifinal game played at Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher.

"We got a phone call from some guy who said 'Don't worry about their pitching or their hitting,'" Layhew said. "I'll tell you what, it looked like there was something to worry about out there. I never even heard of them before, but I know they beat (No. 1 ranked in Class A) Taylor Center (3-1) earlier this year. They hit the ball pretty good today."

THE WIN put St. Mary (27-3 overall) into the regional final Saturday against Center Line. Center Line got to the finals by beating Madison Heights Bishop Foley, 5-3, in the day's first game.

The loss ended Thurston's finest season under coach Ron Lecka at 16-6 overall. Lecka had nothing but praise for his team, which never led against St. Mary, and trailed 2-0 after four innings.

The Eagles refused to give up, scoring single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to tie it at 2-2. After St. Mary scored an unearned run in the bottom of the sixth off losing pitcher Zenaida Perez, Ann Marie Moss kept Thurston's hopes alive in the seventh with a single to score Michelle Birchmeier from second-base with the third run.

Moments later, Thurston's ecstasy turned to agony.

"They beat us with the bat, we didn't beat ourselves," Lecka said. "They played good defense. When we were down 2-0 I thought it was just a matter of time and was sure we'd beat them. But every time we got a good hit, it was right at them."

Perez tossed a no-hitter in her previous outing in the Dearborn High district finals against Dearborn Heights Annapolis, but she struggled at times against St. Mary, the Huron League regular-season champion.

St. Mary collected seven hits off Perez, and Theisen, who has signed with the University of Detroit, was an unlikely hero. Hitless in her first three trips to the plate, Theisen stroked a triple in the gap in the last at-bat, scoring Holly Jondro with the winning run from first.

The ball fell in safely just out of the reach of centerfielder Laura Kress with no outs.

"Laura probably got a bad angle on the ball, but she's done a good job all year and I can't fault her on it," Lecka said. "I probably should have brought in another pitcher in the seventh, but I've got to go with the senior (Perez). It's quite a burden putting a junior (Deanna Dzielak) in there with the score tied in the seventh."

Thurston had 10 hits off winning pitcher Jondro, who was fortunate to pitch out of a bases-loaded jam in the third.

THE EAGLES filled the bases with two outs on singles by Melissa Cheslak and Moss and a walk to Birchmeier, but Jondro got Stacy Seese to line out to right field to end the threat. Three of Thurston's hits Saturday belonged to Moss.

A triple by Jean Walsh and a double by Hughana Wilkie highlighted St. Mary's two-run fourth inning. Thurston scored its first run in the fifth as Cheslak led off with a single, and later came home from third when the Kestrels' catcher tried to throw out Kress on a steal attempt at second.

Champions tourney to decide who's best

LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS were decided weeks ago, but now the "Champion of Champions" tournament is under way.

The first four teams are eligible to compete and represent their league in this competition to determine the overall champion in the metropolitan Detroit area. The finals will take place at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills, July 8-9. This is the 43rd year for the "Champion of Champions" and it is produced by the Bowling Centers Association of Michigan (BCA), formerly known as BPA or the Bowling Proprietors Association.

The tournament, sponsored by Kessler's, has a total prize fund of $87,000 with first place worth $15,000 and a trip to Las Vegas for the winning team; second place, $7,500; third, $3,500; fourth, $2,500; and fifth, $1,500.

The BCA has expanded its coverage this year to include eligible teams from Port Huron, Pontiac and Ann Arbor. Let's all try a little harder this upcoming season and get in on this prize fund.

● Back in January and February, bowlers were asked to contribute one dollar to the bowling charities. Those who participated and bowled well enough to qualify for the local competition then became eligible to advance to the state finals if they were among the top finishers. The final competition was held over the weekend in Gaylord. The results will be printed in this column as soon as they are official. Prizes in the Bowling Charities Tournament are $2,000 for first, $1,000 for second and $500 for third, along with other items such as televisions and radios. This year, the bowling charities raised a total of $94,000 for various charities throughout the state.

● We would all like to become winners and in order to bowl better it is necessary to try and improve our own game. I have reviewed a good videotape, "Maximum Bowling," by Marshall Holman and John Jowdy. You might want to rent or buy the video cassette as it has a lot of very good tips to improve the techniques for most bowlers.

It is a five-point program in which they demonstrate the proper method of: 1. rhythm, 2. slide, 3. hand position, 4. release point and angle, 5. Follow through.

There are many good video cassettes available for self help in bowling and if you look at the good ones, this is like getting the best professional instruction if you concentrate on the material.

● I have also reviewed the Earl Anthony Tape, "Going for 300," which is good material but a bit dated, along with the Sybervision Series by Marshall Holman and Johnny Petraglia, which is not instructional per se.

However, it pertains to the mental imaging theory which can also work well if you are able to spend the time and concentrate.

I recommend "Maximum Bowling" by Marshall Holman as a useful self-improvement aid for the average intermediate and better bowler. There is no substitute for a real live bowling instructor if you seek to get the most out of your game, and I will have some information for you next week on who and where the best instructors are in the area.

● Drakeshire lanes on Grand River in Farmington Hills is the scene of the Wednesday Nite Classic Trio League, which has some very fine summer competition including four 300 games bowled already this summer. The perfect games were achieved by Mike Lee, Greg Brown, Bryan Gogolin and Doug Spicer.

● Bel Aire Lanes on Orchard Lake Road featured some hot scoring in the Men's Trio League, as Steve Herman rolled a 701 series with a 247 game and Dave Lewiston hit 700, which included a 243. The "King of the Hill" contest was won by Ted Middleton as he defeated Jack Craig in the final eliminations in this step-ladder format.

● At Country Lanes, John Beyer shot a 701 series and Tom Smith 700 while competing in the "Champion of Champions" tournament.

● At Woodland Lanes in Livonia, the Tuesday Nite Men's Trio League featured Marv Simons rolling a 279 game and Howard Clark a 278. During the "Champion of Champions" competition, Annie Stokes registered a 259.

● Westland Bowl also had some nice scoring in their "Champion of Champions," as Larry Bateman striked a 610 series, while his teammate, Phil Beauregard, rolled a 246 game, including a 558 set.

James Maygar came up with a block of 229-245-245 for a 707 series which gave him 164 pins over average. There were two triplicates bowled during this competition as well. Linda Kehrler rolled 147 three times and Carol Clark shot a set of 127's.

● Super Bowl in Canton is the site of the "Battle of the Sexes" mixed league. Last week's action featured Mike Pilley with a 246 game; Steve Klein, a 246 game and 669 series; Earl Miller, 244; Peggy Smitley, 234; Lou Ann Hammond, 222; Jean Crast, 217; and Sue Zuczek, 594 series.

● Westland Lanes will have a Bowl-A-Thon on Sunday June 11 from noon until 2. The Bowl-A-Thon will commemorate the Livonia Franklin athletes John Shea and Craig Allard, both killed by a hit-and-run driver in March near Orlando, Fla. For more information contact Paul Kestlefoot at 427-1060.

● Livonia's John Maddison finished third in the Domino's Pizza Mid-States Masters Eastland Lanes Classic held recently at Eastland Lanes. His 214-187 victory in the semifinals insured him $250 and a shot at the championship.

Warren's Al Bielawski won the tournament and a grand prize of $1,500.

Clinic helps develop mental edge

By C.J. Risak
Staff writer

Summer camps for athletes abound. You can master a left-handed hook shot at any number of basketball clinics, or perfect a centering pass from the left wing at several soccer camps. The same is available for almost any sport.

But one important aspect of sports has remained untouched: the mental game.

That will change this summer, when a pair of noted sports psychologists conduct a series of workshops called "a mental training program for dedicated athletes and coaches" at Schoolcraft College.

The first of the workshops is for coaches, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. June 24. There will be a second coaches' workshop Aug. 5 (same times). Cost for the one-day coaches' clinic is $125, which includes workbooks, beverage breaks and lunch.

THE FIRST of the athletes' two-day workshop is July 8 and 15, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. each day; the second is Aug. 12 and 19 (same times). There will also be two four-day workshops, 6-10 p.m. July 10, 12, 17 and 19, and July 25, 27, Aug. 1 and 3. Cost for the athletes' workshops is $195, which includes workbooks and beverage breaks (two-day clinics include lunch).

The object of the workshops is simple. Al Terry Mills, the director of the Competitive Performance Center (a workshop sponsor) explained: "Most athletes spend 75 to 80 percent of their training time preparing physically. But if you ask them what's more important, they'll say their sport is 90 percent mental.

"We just want to balance the scales a bit between mental and physical training."

Both Mills, who has a master's degree in sports psychology, and Hugh Bray, who has a doctorate in psychology, are well qualified for such a program. Bray has served as the Detroit Red Wings team psychologist for the past four seasons; prior to that, he had a similar position with the St. Louis Blues for 2½ years.

"THIS IS probably the wave of the future," said Bray. "We may be a little ahead of time with it, but I think you're going to see a lot more camps dealing with the mental end of sports (for youths)."

Not that Bray and Mills are breaking new ground. As they pointed out, the United States is lagging far behind other countries — particularly in the Eastern bloc — in mental training for athletes. "Even Canada is ahead of us," noted Bray.

Bray added that some pro hockey teams, like the Red Wings, have sports psychologists on staff. But teaching techniques on how to mentally approach a sport have not been available to the young, aspiring athletes before.

"It's a logical way to go, because it's already been accepted by the pros," said Mills. "So amateurs should accept it."

Bray and Mills have their workshop divided into eight parts:

- Self-talk, in which an athlete learns how to correctly evaluate his performance.
- Visualization, or envisioning success.
- Relaxation ("A relaxed athlete has to work far less than an intense athlete," said Bray).

● Goal-setting, or how to set proper goals for yourself.

● Self-confidence, which is positive thinking but with consideration to reality.

● Pre-game preparation.

● Concentration, both improving it and knowing when and how to turn it up a notch.

● And after-the-game evaluation ("Most athletes evaluate performance, but on a win-or-lose basis," said Mills.)

Many of the skills and techniques taught by Bray and Mills originate with the most successful of pros. "Most of the above-average athletes do many of these things intuitively," said Bray. "What we do is break down what they do to be successful."

BRAY NOTED that they will not set goals for athletes, but will teach them how to set them. "There should be an A, B, C, D approach to setting goals, so you're going one step at a time and not trying to skip from A to Z," said Mills.

Bray added, "The focus of self-evaluation is on the process, instead of the end result." Which means that, if sights are properly set, winning or losing becomes secondary to goal accomplishment.

The whole idea is to enhance performance with the proper mental attitude. "This isn't hocus-pocus stuff," said Mills. "It's a scientific approach."

Entry forms and information on the workshops is available at Schoolcraft College's athletic department, or by calling the Competitive Performance Center at 349-7274.

Stevenson wins shutout

Pitcher Mike Dalimonte went the distance Thursday, scattering four hits and two walks over seven innings, hurling host Livonia Stevenson to a 6-0 victory over Windsor in a Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation Connie Mack League (16-18 years) game.

Dalimonte struck out eight to pick up the victory.

He got plenty of offensive support, including a two-run double and an RBI single by North Farmington's Joe Sturtz.

Dave Houghtby contributed two hits, scored twice and knocked in a run, while Pete Niehaus added two hits and two stolen bases.

GREG'S EMERGENCY ROOM downed host Windsor in a Michigan-Ontario International Baseball League game last week at Mic-Mac Park, 5-3.

Winning pitcher Mike Clark (3-1) tossed a seven-hitter in going seven innings. He walked two and struck out seven.

On Tuesday, Greg's clubbed G.J. Sewer Repair, 13-4, in a six-inning game at Washtenaw Community College near Ann Arbor.

Here are the league standings through Thursday: 1. Sarnia, 11-3; 2. Windsor, 10-5; 3. Tecumseh, 9-5; 4. Greg's, 8-5; 5. Advantage Uniforms, 6-8; 6. G.J. Sewer, 6-9; 7. C.J. Express, 1-14.

Fabulous fakes

You may lack the buying power to dress in mink and dazzle your friends in diamonds, but for a few dollars less you can dress like you've found success with fabulous fakes. Yep, cubic zirconia may be a girl's best friend in the 1980s. And fake furs may be one way to avoid confrontations with animal rights activists. How do you know you are not in the multinational world of Grand Prix racing? The language spoken might be the first clue.

At the Grand Prix, one can hear French, Spanish and Italian spoken fluently. At Flat Rock Speedway, the tongue of the stock car racing buff can be a little right of English at times.

Or, for example, as one patron of the sport articulated upon his encounter with an attendant who was checking proper credentials for admission to the pit area, "I'm going to knock that son of a bitch on his ass one of these days."

Such eloquent statements can only sum up what is the nitty-gritty world of country stock car racing where dust swirls after every lap and race cars backfire with the frequency to make you think you're in the Battle of 1812.

A Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway is like none other. People drive from all over the tri-county area in everything from pickup trucks to recreational vehicles to savor the thrills and spills of stock car racing at the rural track.

Some other indications that you're at Flat Rock, not Monaco:

- While Indy cars are billboards for STP, Valvoline and Ford Motor Co., drivers at Flat Rock Speedway are sponsored by Bill's Pizza & Subs and the Hanger Lounge.

- While drivers feast on stuffed shrimp washed down with champagne at pre-Grand Prix parties, the guy at Flat Rock stirs a vat of homemade chili next to his car.

- WHILE CELEBS like Paul Newman and Mick Jagger can be found at Grand Prix events, people like former Tiger pitcher Milt Wilcox make appearances at Flat Rock Speedway.

Needless to say, things are little more "down home" at the Michigan race track. For many, a Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway has become a way of life.

"My dad was a racer before he passed away," said Steve Cronenwett of Westland, who races

Don't let the T-shirts scare you. This pit crew is anything but "Bad Boys" when it comes to keeping its car in competition.

FLAT ROCK:

life in the fast lane

The action isn't quite as fast-paced as at Indy, but it's just as exciting as the cars handle the curve of Flat Rock's quarter-mile track.

"I like the competition. Something about having all that power underneath you."

— Steve Cronenwett

The fans come in all shapes and sizes on a Saturday night at the Flat Rock Speedway.

in the street stock division at Flat Rock Speedway. "My five brothers all raced at one time or another. It's a family thing.

"I like the competition. Something about having all that power underneath you."

The machines they drive are definitely their own, usually resurrected from a junk yard and converted into a race car.

First, they gut the car's interior. Then a steel cage and sheet metal are placed inside. Braces are installed to support the frame and the engine.

Cronenwett proudly pats the hood of his red street stock car, which he said cost roughly $5,000 to build.

"This one here, a friend of mine had an old car and I bought it for $50," Cronenwett said, "and I started from there."

Cronenwett hops in through the driver's side and then a person hands him the steering wheel. He screws it in. A hulking figure wipes the windshield and then spills gasoline into the car.

Todd Irvine is one of Cronenwett's pit crew, which consists mainly of friends and family. Around the pit area, it's not uncommon to see wives, brothers and sisters wiping windshields, changing tires and fetching tools.

"YOUR CREW is volunteer," Cronenwett said. "You can't afford anybody. You have to keep them fed and give them what they want to drink. That's all you can do."

When Cronenwett pulls the safety goggles over his eyes. "Knock 'em dead," said Irvin, hitting his fist on the top of the car.

A few feet away, another guy sips on a Pepsi and chats with some other drivers. Joy Fair, 58, has been knocking them dead on speedways since 1949. At Flat Rock Speedway, he holds the record for most wins in the Late Model Stock Car Division — a grade up from street stocks.

His list of 10 season championships run from 1965 until 1981. He hasn't won a season championship since 1981, but Fair doesn't sound like a man who's ready to throw in the wrench.

Saturday nights at Flat Rock Speedway have become such a routine, he wouldn't know what else to do.

Montague Inn: A gem of a B&B

By Mary Augusta Rodgers
special writer

Q: I see that the Montague Inn in Saginaw is now listed in the guidebook, "Country Inns and Back Roads," and am wondering what it's like to visit. Also, should we take our toddler there, or leave him home with a baby-sitter?

A: The Montague Inn is a gem in an unusual setting, considering Saginaw's reputation as an industrial, have-a-beer-and-go-to-the-hockey-game town.

It's the kind of country inn that used to be found mainly in Europe, offering a quiet, pleasant setting, attractive decor, good food, good service and attention to details. Nothing has brightened the U.S. travel picture as much as the recent appearance of places like the Montague Inn.

Business men and women are most in evidence during the week, with travelers and country inn enthusiasts taking over on the weekends. It's not surprising that people think of the Inn for special occasions — five honeymoon couples once arrived on the same weekend.

The Montague Inn is a stately

Georgian manor house, built of rose-colored brick with cream-colored trim and green shutters, set on eight acres and surrounded by fine old trees, shrubs and flowers. At the back, a well-tended lawn slopes down to a small lake. Gulls circle overhead and the Lake Linton water sparkles in the sun.

The house was built in 1929 by Robert Montague, a farmer who made a fortune from a hand-cleaning formula he sold to the Jergens Co. Mr. and Mrs. Montague and their two children lived there in fine style, with a staff of five servants, and entertained a great deal.

By the early 1960s, the Montague era was over. The house was used for city offices, then stood empty for years. It might have been demolished, if a few people hadn't seen the possibilities in the dilapidated but strong old place, built with oak beams and hand-made bricks and with six fireplaces.

SO THE HOUSE was bought and restored under the direction of Norman Kinney, one of five owners. Kinney had previously restored the National House Inn in Marshall.

The traditional curriculum at Welton Academy is given new life by charismatic English professor John Keating (Robin Williams) in "Dead Poets Society."

Masterful performances shine in 'Poets Society'

Societies have always agonized over proper education for the young so that when they do mature, they will assume power and wealth — and control the culture in ways pleasing to their elders. The principles of education adopted by any given society, of course, reflect the ruling establishment's view of how well things are going.

The terrible tragedy presently being played out in China indicates conflict between various elements of the power-structure and their divergent views about how Chinese children should behave.

That same issue is at the heart of Peter Weir's ("Witness," "Gallipoli") and "The Year of Living Dangerously") latest film "Dead Poets Society" (A+, PG, 124 minutes).

John Keating (Robin Williams) is the new English instructor at Welton Academy as the fall 1959 semester begins. Welton is the very best, the most traditional, the finest prep school in New England, or anywhere else in the country for that matter. Just ask the faculty or the headmaster, Gale Nolan (Norman Lloyd).

Welton Academy specializes in discipline, achievement and tradition, hence Keating's injunction to his students, "gather ye rosebuds while ye may," doesn't sit too well with the establishment which, of course, wants to replicate itself. "If it was good enough for our fathers

In particular, Keating inspires seven young men in his class, four of whom figure dramatically in the forefront of this very well acted, finely photographed and generally excellent movie.

Neil Perry (Robert Sean Leonard), Todd Anderson (Ethan Hawke), Knox Overstreet (Josh Charles) and Charlie Dalton (Gale Hansen) revive and lead the Dead Poets Society, a long defunct "club" that Keating had been part of as a student at Welton 17 years earlier.

The entire cast, under Peter Weir's direction, performs in the finest manner imaginable. The fact that the seven young actors — the four noted plus Dylan Kussman, Al-lelon Ruggiero and James Waterston — lived, worked and played together during the 10-week shoot sustains the warmth of youthful friendship and idealism so aptly portrayed on screen, a mirror of the personal bonds established during filming.

Robin Williams' portrait of a dedicated teacher whose warm humanism overrides the rigidity of the system is as much, or more, than anyone has the right to expect from an actor. The inspiration of his personality will stand as a guide and symbol for many for a long time.

These masterful performances were photographed by John Seale as were the very vivid, scenic settings which are Welton Academy and its several thousand acres. ("Dead Poets Society" was filmed in Middleton, Del., at St. Andrew's School, founded in 1930 by Felix DuPont.)

Those images, perfect for this story, will remain in your mind's eye long after the film has ended. Tom Schulman's extremely literate script, Maurice Jarre's fine musical score and all the other motion picture crafts are combined under Peter Weir's direction into one of the better films to premiere in a long time.

Despite some good moments, only hardcore Trekkies will rave about "Star Trek V: The Final Frontier" (C+, PG, 100 minutes). Of course, all the favorite stars are back and need no introduction, but plot number five needs a lot of explanation.

Sybok (Laurence Luckinbill) is a charismatic, half guru, half psychiatrist on Nimbus II who hijacks the Enterprise because he needs a starship to go find god. If Indiana Jones can recover the Ark of the Covenant and the Holy Grail with a whip and a pistol, I suppose it's logical to find god with a starship where no man has gone before.

Every film, fantasy or otherwise, has its own logic and part of the fun is playing along with someone else's imagination. Unfortunately, here the imagination is spotty and there are too many continuity and plot flaws to make "Star Trek V" work.

The major plot flaw, of course, is how easily Sybok "converts" antagonists who then enthusiastically join his quest. It just doesn't wash, but someone obviously washed his headgear so that the film opens with Sybok wearing a clean, fresh headpiece after a long, dry, dusty horseback ride.

The film's two best moments has those three good chums, Captain Kirk (William Shatner), Mr. Spock (Leonard Nimoy) and Dr. McCoy (DeForest Kelly), gently and good-naturedly bantering with one another. There's some fine, warm comedy in those sequences.

However, just when the film seems ready to take off on a sophisticated tact with significant discussion of man's role in life, it turns into simple-minded space opera with totally unsatisfactory conclusion.

The film's last 15 minutes have an incredible array of unexplained plot elements, impossible (even for fanta-

There was no screening for "How to Get Ahead in Advertising" (R), starring Rachel Ward in a dramatic comedy, or is it a comedy/drama, probably about the advertising business.

With major motion pictures such as these opening, "Miracle Mile" (C) (R), probably won't get much play. It's billed as a surrealistic thriller about a young couple with 24 hours before nuclear disaster.

STILL PLAYING:

- "Criminal Law" (B) (R). Suspense thriller about attorney who discovers his client is guilty.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

Home movie worth seeing

Sullivan's 'Guide' has the gusto

By John Monaghan
special writer

Four years ago, filmmaker Fred G. Sullivan decided that his family was as good a subject as anything Hollywood could produce. His resulting movie, "The Beer Drinker's Guide to Fitness and Filmmaking," may be the best home movie ever made.

The 83-minute film won special recognition for originality at the U.S. Film and Video Festival and recently played to good reviews in Boston and New York. It arrives in Detroit via the downtown Tele-Arts Theatre this weekend.

The film opens with Sullivan setting a camera on automatic timer, then running into the picture field before it clicks. From here, the film chronicles the joys and frustrations of day-to-day life in Saranac Lake, N.Y., with Fred G., wife Polly and their four children.

IN BETWEEN changing diapers and picking toys up from the front lawn, Sullivan dreams he is Adirondack Fred, stripped to the loincloth, stalking through woods like Rambo with a beer belly. In reality, Fred G.

is more at home carting the family around in a puke green-colored station wagon.

"Meet the wretched family," he growls during one such interlude (certainly more akin to "Married with Children" than "Father Knows Best"). "Mr. and Mrs. Wretched and their four wretched children."

Then there are wistful moments looking through family albums and wedding pictures, conversations with the postman, philosophical discussions of regular vs. light beer and scenes of Mom retreating to the roof to steal some time away from the family.

A fair amount of frustration surrounds Fred G., who continually drags the family near bankruptcy to make films. He tries to fill his children full of the same lofty ideals, yet when his daughter is asked to describe her biggest dream, she replies sincerely, "A big house."

SULLIVAN, 42, describes himself as a "woodchuck Woody Allen" who has been making movies since age 8. Clips from those early epics (where he always played the hero) also show up in "The Beer Drinker's Guide," along with footage taken during overseas service in Korea.

As in "Sherman's March" (Ross McElwee's highly personalized look at his relationship with Southern women), the independent filmmaker is seen as an idealist, outsider and nut. But where McElwee could only be seen when aiming his shoulder-held camera into a mirror, Fred G. becomes a fleshed-out local hero that almost everyone can relate to.

"THE BEER Drinker's Guide" cost $50,000 to produce and its investors (a pair of local businessmen) probably worried when the film, originally titled "Sullivan's Pavilion," opened to less-than-boffo business. Only after adding the word beer to the title (which cost an additional $4,000 to change the opening reel), did it start to make money.

In fact, "The Beer Drinking Guide" did so well in Burlington, Vt., that it actually outgrossed "Rambo 3" for seven straight weeks.

This weekend, Adirondack Fred faces an even bigger challenge — competing with the likes of "Star Trek" and "Indiana Jones."

They're ready to rock 'n' reggae

Skanking Voodoo Dolls blend styles of music

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Ya mon. Let's kick out the jams. Reggae meets rock 'n' roll. Rock 'n' roll meets reggae. The two make for quite an interesting pair, especially when you have a new four-member band like Skanking Voodoo Dolls taking a crack at mixing the musical styles.

The band recently made its debut, playing before an appreciative throng at the Hamtramck Pub. Members come from other well-known bands in the area. Lead singer and guitarist Beaux Mitchell used to be with reggae outfit Haggamuffin, bass player Jim Megerian performed with Black Market, drummer Perez played for Robb Roy and lead guitarist Brian Smith jammed with heavy metal groups Mad Hatter, XXAN and TOC.

Together, they make for an interesting, if not unusual combination of musical styles.

Megerian is at the forefront of the Skanking Voodoo sound. He's the reggae aficionado, often traveling to Jamaica to check out the latest groups.

On the other side of the coin is Smith, who supplements the heartbeat reggae rhythms with some scorching guitar solos. Then there is Perez, considered by many to be one of the finest drummers on Detroit scene.

MITCHELL FRONTS the band with her ethereal voice, who raises to a coo at times. She takes the role of spokeswoman, making out the alliance to be more of spiritual one than a musical one.

"This band is healing," said Mitchell, sitting at a table before the band's soundcheck. "The minute we walk into the rehearsal room, we come together. The energy is so positive."

The energy onstage has an edge. Megerian likens the Skanking Voodoo Dolls' music to a cross "between Van Halen and Bob Marley."

"Hardcore reggae lovers are going to either love it or hate it," he said. "Which is what we want. We don't want people to feel indifferent about it."

The music of the Caribbean appears to have some commercial appeal as well. UB40's "Red Red Wine" made it on several rock radio playlists. The difference with Skanking Voodoo Doll is their music takes a much harder approach.

Megerian is quick to point out the group is not on a reggae preservation trip, instead making their own sound.

"We're not trying to jump on a happening bandwagon," he said. "We're not trying to take something that's already acceptable and make it even more acceptable."

THE NEW sound is accepted by band members, but adjustments were definitely needed. Smith's experience, for example, was strictly in hard rock circles. But he's been a quick study.

"At first, it was different," Smith said. "I didn't know where my place was. In heavy metal, the guitar is more dominant. My role now is keeping rhythm. The solos are more melodic instead of trying to tear people's heads off though we still try to do that once in awhile."

Added Perez about drumming to reggae beats compared to rock 'n' roll: "You have to learn not to play as fast."

Skanking Voodoo is taking it slow in its beginning phase. There are no plans for marketing the band to record labels or making LPs. They are content to play local club dates and see how things develop.

"We love it," Megerian said. "You can make all the big plans you want. As long as we're having fun, that's the main thing."

Skanking Voodoo Dolls will perform tonight at Todd's, Seven Mile Road, Detroit. For information, call 366-8833.

Universal Congress is in (jazzy) session

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

In the Universal Congress Of, there is the house of jazz and a senate of rock 'n' roll. The speaker of the body is guitarist and vocalist Joe Balza, who espouses a musical philosophy of Megalodics.

Fear not, music maven. The Universal Congress Of is not as unusual as name and style of music suggest.

"It's pretty accessible, really," said Balza, whose group performs tonight at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor. "That's my goal. To create music that's entertaining and yet challenging."

The jazzy nature of the Universal Congress Of would certainly not sound foreign to most ears. There's nightclub beat of the drums, scratchy vocals and blasts of tenor sax.

If anything, it might spark memories of the beatnik sound. Balza said he's was intrigued with that of 1950s and 1960s style of music, especially after reading Jack Kerouac's "On the Road."

use a set list at shows, instead calling out the songs on stage as they go along. Balza said the group gauges the crowd and goes from there, sometimes performing obscure jazz covers.

Balza's interest in bebop music came out of a boredom with rock 'n' roll. His experimental nature can be traced to the punk movement, which gripped the Southern California area in the early 1980s.

Bands such as Black Flag and The Minutemen came out of the scene as did a group called Saccharine Trust, which for whom Balza played sax. In fact, Balza's neighbor was the late D. Boon, who was a member of The Minutemen before he died in an automobile accident.

Balza said he was always on the outside looking in when it came to the hardcore movement.

"You've got to move on to new things," he said. "I'm not disillusioned by it. There's still a number of punk bands out there today. It's not new to me anymore."

BUT THE dips and turns Universal Congress Of takes on its latest EP, "This is Megalodics" (SST), makes this sound their own. With no radio play, the music is something out of the ordinary for most people.

"In towns like Huntsville, (Ala.), they don't know what to do at first," Balza said. "This one song, 'Stove Top,' has rift shift that changes into weird intervals that sounds dissonant. People in the club were saying, 'These guys are making mistakes. They aren't playing the songs right.'"

Such are the drawbacks to taking such an improvisational approach. The Universal Congress Of doesn't new. The band has released two albums "Prosperous and Qualified" and "Universal Congress Of," both on SST Records. Yet, it's still developing. Balza refers to the songs the band performs as "exercises."

The term Megalodics sums it up best, even if it has no particular meaning.

"People ask us all the time, 'What kind of music do you?' We tell them Megalodics to confuse them," he said.

Universal Congress Of will perform tonight at the Blind Pig, 208 S. First St., Ann Arbor. For information, call 996-8555.

Universal Congress Of delivers an interesting mix of jazzy tunes that hark back to the beatnik sound.

REVIEWS

ELLA MENTAL — Ella Mental

All I know about this band is that their manager, Billy Gaff, used to work with Cream and Rod Stewart and on a night when he was supposed to check out an unknown Irish band called U2, ended up going to a different bar and getting drunk. He signed the Lookalikes instead.

Need I say more?

Ella Mental are his new darling and it seems as though it may have been a similar night when he signed this group.

Apparently, Ella Mental consists of a duo, Tim Parr and Heather Mac, aided by studio musicians. All but one of the songs on this self-titled debut for Warner Records are composed by the aforementioned pair.

Lyrical they aim toward a "revolutionary" political stance with songs like "Freedom Jive" — "Lay your guns down, too many people crying, young souls, reach out./ They need to find a way to reach a new beginning. We don't stand alone against a system we can't condone, we don't stand alone against the hard hearts in control."

This theme flows throughout with an emphasis on South Africa. Despite this hip "correct" political stance, Ella Mental can't seem to decide who they are musically.

While ignoring their inclusion of a schlock cabaret cover of Bob Marley's "No Woman No Cry" (It may be a decent song, but you've got to suspect the motives of a band doing such an awful version of it), they swing from the dramatic Simple Minds-ish guitar and keyboard sounds on "Seeds of Tomorrow" to a saunter in Jamaican-style Calypso on "Africa" to a second-rate Fleetwood Mac on "Is It Any Wonder." Now there is a scary thought.

Their attempt at credible lyrics is not quite enough to save them. The quality of this album is so low, it's like saying that you are using a step ladder to get out of the Grand Canyon.

— Cormac Wright

BUZZ FACTORY — Screaming Trees

Sorry, but loud and obnoxious guitar bands are beginning to lose their appeal in this camp. Face it, the stuff is getting old. Even the Replacements have begun to tone it a bit.

At times, the Washington-state based group Screaming Trees sounds like one of many derivative guitar groups on their latest LP "Buzz Factory" (SST). Then there are some numbers that are intriguing. The question is: Who is the real Screaming Trees?

Is it the band that shows a bit of a pop flair on the easy-feel of "Too Far Away"? Or is it the group that digresses to the point that its music is a rehash of '70s acid rock as songs such as "Wish Bringer" seem to indicate? Who knows?

It's easy to understand why some songs work while others don't. Let's start with guitarist Gary Lee Conner, an ax man of considerable skill. He's able to find a groove on such numbers as "Where the Twain Shall Meet" and "Windows." Conner doesn't dominate here; he carefully sets the pace.

Conner's able to bring some rather unpolished numbers out of their doldrums with some rather spirited guitar work. "Subtle Poison" benefits from his arctic blast of guitar in this slow moving song.

Then things take a turn for the worse. The last three numbers are throwaways — "Revelation Revolution," "The Looking Glass Cracked" and "End of the Universe." This is guitar muck.

One gets the feeling here that the songs weren't much to begin with and Conner took it upon himself to juice them up with his guitar work. Well, it doesn't work.

And if anything, it doesn't leave a good impression of an album that shows a group with promise.

— Larry O'Connor

MARIA MCKEE — Marla McKee

Those who viewed the band Lone Justice with a little less than admiration might be surprised at this first effort by the group's songstress Maria McKee.

McKee's gone solo, and she is better for it.

With Lone Justice, McKee seemed a step out of time with the rest of the band. Her fascination with country and other root forms of music never jibed with the rest of the band.

Without Lone Justice, McKee is less restrained. On this Geffen release, she appears to revel in her new found artistic freedom. This is her time to sink or swim, and there's no need to yell for a life preserver.

McKee's a little bit rock 'n' roll and a little bit country here. There are elements of gospel and blues to be heard as well.

At the forefront of whatever musical genre McKee tackles is her never-fading voice. It's powerful and piercing and, yes, overwrought with emotion at times.

Her most impressive moments, though, come when she's not carrying a torch. Instead she provides slow and almost haunting vocals in the song "Breathe." This number has almost a lullaby quality to it. McKee is learning that less can be more.

The songs are hers. There seems to be a recurring theme of uncertainty perhaps stemming from her less-than-memorable experience with Lone Justice. "I've Forgotten What It Was in You (That Put the Need in Me)" runs along those lines.

Sings McKee: "Well honey you said I we had the sweetest thing/ And we can try and try and try/ Don't look me in the eye because I'm the one, because I'm the one to blame."

This time, the finger can be pointed at McKee for providing a solid album.

STREET CRACKS

Peter Berman: A bit of story-telling and real life

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

A sudden crash interrupts the conversation. Peter Berman sighs and yells to his roommate.

"You gotta be kidding me," he says, without covering the phone receiver. "You just broke another dish?" Excuse me, everything is falling apart on my roommate."

Life's little nuisances have a way of creeping into Berman's discussion about comedy. Berman pauses again.

"I just got my Michigan driver's license while I'm talking to you," he says. "What a pathetic looking picture."

The comedic picture for Berman is hardly pathetic. If anything, the young comedian is on the rise.

After his appearance this week at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia, Berman will embark on a journey to the comedic land of Oz — Los Angeles. From there, he'll head to New York.

All of which would seem to make a jokester sweat a bit. After all, The Improv? Dangerfield's? Geez, isn't that where people like Robin Williams, David Letterman and Whoopi Goldberg earned their comedic stripes?

BERMAN, THOUGH, sounds as cool as a cucumber in the snow of Anchorage. In little more than two years, he's been a finalist in several comedic competitions. He recently was one of the four finalists in a nationwide MTV competition.

"Somebody asked me before I left, 'What will happen if you lose?'" Berman said. "I said, first of all, I don't consider being selected one of the top four young comedians in the country as a loser. If I perform to the best of my ability and the other guy wins, that's all I can do."

Berman was runner-up in the competition. As Vonnegut said, so it goes.

Confidence is in plentiful supply when Berman takes the stage. His act is a mixture of storytelling and real-life anecdotes. One could call it observational comedy. Berman's not sure what to label it.

"What would you call my comedy?," he asks another person while on the phone. "I don't how to describe myself."

After consulting his girlfriend, he agrees it's observational. In this area, Berman has been observed opening up for the likes of Jay Leno, Judy Tenuta and Rita Rudner.

The task of preceding a headline act is not easy. People in the audience are there to see them, not you.

"Opening up for Rita Rudner, that was tough," Berman said. "She's very nice. The audience is much quieter. Judy Tenuta is on the edge. The audience for Judy Tenuta was ready to party."

"WHEN I go on stage, no matter what I'm doing, whether it's as emcee, opening or headlining, my goal is represent myself the best of my ability."

Berman is originally from Massachusetts but moved to Ann Arbor to study at the University of Michigan. He has a degree in communications from U-M. While in school, he got the notion to pursue comedy.

Soon, Berman was a regular at area comedy clubs. He was the winner of the Starbound talent competition and was selected No. 1 in Northeast Region of the U.S. College Comedy Competition. He was also a semifinalist in the 1988 Michigan Laff-Off and a finalist in the Joey's Comedy Club competition.

Berman's been featured on "Live at Nick's Comedy Stop" on cable TV and "MTV's Spring Break '89" comedy special. He also has the somewhat dubious honor of finishing second as a contestant on the music network's "Remote Control" game show.

"I got beat by a guy named Puck," he said. "Isn't that humiliating? Why couldn't I have I been beaten by a guy named Bill or something."

Peter Berman will perform along with Gary Thison on Wednesday through Saturday, June 14-17, at Joey's Comedy Club, 36071 Plymouth Road, Livonia. For information, call 281-0555.

After his appearance this week at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia, Berman will head for Los Angeles and then New York to hon his comedic skills.

The pit crews are usually volunteers — the driver's family and friends — and they take their job just as seriously as crews in better publicized racing events.

Thrills, spills and Flat Rock Speedway

"It's so much work, if I could find anything else that was less work I'd do it," Fair said. "I haven't. So I play racer."

"It's something to do. It's better than fighting with the wife," he added, turning to his wife who is dressed in a black blouse with the name "Fair No. 1" embroidered in yellow on the back.

Between waves of the checkered flag, there has been pain for the racing legend. He was involved in a serious accident at Toledo Speedway in 1972 that put him into the hospital. Some 10 years later, he hit the wall during time trials at Flat Rock. He suffered a broken leg, broken ribs and a fractured skull.

Fair shrugs off those incidents with the same nonchalance with which he discusses his numerous wins. For racers like him, the game is a break-even proposition at best.

A WINNER OF the main event Late Model race pulls in $600. Other preliminary runs earn $30 to $50 for first-place finishes. But Fair said overhead it usually runs $300 a night.

Things, though, are generally better than they used to be at the track.

"It used to be dark and dangerous," said Fair, who started at Motor City Speedway in Detroit. "There used to be fights in the pits. Now it's evolved into more of a gentleman's circuit."

One of the gentlemen is next to him smoking a pipe. Dave Kuhlman is the heir apparent to Fair's status as a track legend. Kuhlman has won the Late Model Stock Car division the last three years. But he has no aspirations of going on to bigger things.

"I'm sure everyone thinks about it," he said. "To go beyond this, you have to travel the circuit. You really need a good sponsor. The jump is 10 times what it is from here."

The circuit is small, but tough. Cars race around the quarter-mile oval track at speeds exceeding 75 miles per hour. The small size of the tracks, with its numerous turns, makes for rather some rather wild and crazy driving.

In the first Late Model race, a car tangled with another and left one driver kissing the wall. He emerged from his mangled car dazed and limping, but is all right.

Fans in the bleachers "ooh" and "ah." One teenager comes running out of the stands; his friend is in the wrecked car.

The crowd is quiet for a spell. But as soon as the race resumes, it's back to screaming and yelling.

The people in the stands are a cross-section of families and teenagers, women and men. Behind the bleachers, kids wearing blue jeans and rock'n'roll T-shirts with the likenesses of such bands of Guns N'Roses and Led Zeppe-lin walk around.

SOME GRAVITATE to the concession stand or the souvenir booth, which sells checkered flags and snap shots of race cars. A line starts to form by the restroom.

Underneath, James Morgan tunes out the fan noise with the radio broadcast of the Tigers game. He sits by the door, eating a hot dog.

Morgan has been a porter at the speedway since 1954. He sweeps and mops the floor and changes the toilet paper in the stalls. A sign above the urinal reminds people to tip the porter on the way out.

With every clink of change in the coffee can, Morgan smiles and says "thank you." He said he's a race fan.

"Oh yeah," said Morgan, who is a retired driver from a security company. "I watch the races all the time. The Figure Eights are my favorite."

So, too, are they for many of the fans in attendance. Figure 8 racing is yet another division at Flat Rock. This is the most primitive of racing where drivers go in figure eights, trying to avoid hitting one another in the intersection.

When the Figure 8 winner takes the flag, the people begin to quietly file out. Outside, car lights illuminate the dark parking lot as they file out onto Telegraph Road.

The real race has started.

James Morgan has been a porter at the speedway since 1954, sweeping and mopping the floor and changing the toilet paper in the stalls of the restroom.

There's even a place for love amid the whine of the engines at Flat Rock Speedway.

Fabulous fakes: Putting on the dog on the cheap

By Mary Rodrigue staff writer

You want to project that upwardly mobile image, but you're not that upwardly mobile yet?

No problem. Furs, jewels — even car phones — can be faked, in some cases so well no one but your retailer will know for sure.

Ever heard the the words cubic zirconia?

No, it's not a skin cream or the latest fad in cube games.

"It's an imitation diamond, a hard substance that holds up very well," said one local jeweler. "It's been around for about 10 years. There's another substance called chatham, created emerald and chatham, created ruby. It's a patented process that looks very much like the real thing."

A real emerald (a favorite bauble of Sarah, the Duchess of York) costs about $10,000, but the chatham-created version sells for a mere $500 at some local jewelry stores.

"It has all the same properties as a natural stone," the jeweler said, though to a trained eye, it looks too refined.

Corey's Jewel Box, in Livonia's Wonderland Mall, sells imitation diamond earrings of cubic zirconia, from studs to multi-stone fans and clusters.

The Loop, at Westland Center, not only sells cubic zirconia earrings, but also pendants and rings for would-be diamond lovers.

"THE EARRINGS are set in 14

karat gold and range in price from $14.88 to $45.88," said saleswoman Michelle McKimmy. "Rhinstones, imitation diamonds, pearls and crystals are popular."

"We sell a lot of necklaces for proms, weddings, and retirement parties."

Cubic zirconia is a good fake, McKimmy added.

"You can put it next to a diamond and you'd have to be an expert to tell (the difference)," she said.

Big hoop earrings are fashionable, and gold is always tasteful and fairly popular, she added.

Tea ties — brightly colored plastic pieces in square, circular or rectangular shapes worn woven through a T-shirt — are a new trendy item. The Loop is selling them like hotcakes, McKimmy said.

Majestic Counterfeit Jewels in Birmingham is, "like a candy store for women familiar with this type of work," said owner Sylvia Gerenalch.

"We do custom design and custom copying. It's a place where you can make your jewel dreams become a reality."

In addition to fake diamonds and colored gems, the store carries replica watches, designer copy pearls and copy colognes.

Customers can choose from what they see or bring in a picture and have the piece copied.

"You can get several custom-designed pieces at a fraction of the cost," Gerenalch said.

Engaged couples can choose fancy custom designed settings, she said, and travelers can pick a piece of jewelry to blend with their real pieces.

THE BIRMINGHAM store opened just before Christmas and business is good, Gerenalch said. The store originally opened in Trappers Alley downtown Detroit in February 1988.

"There are a couple of (similar) stores in California," Gerenalch said. "One in Beverly Hills copies all the latest designs from the rich and famous."

So you've got the (ahem) jewels and now you want to top it off with a fur? If fake fits your budget and your conscience (even designers are creating fakes and discontinuing natural furs to appease animal rights groups) they're out there, but hard to find in spring. As any good fur wearer knows, the coat should be in storage after March or early April.

Nelther Hudsons, Crowleys nor J.C. Penney in Westland carry fake fur coats at this time.

"We had them, but we got rid of most of our winter stock in January," said Sharon Estevez, saleswoman at J.C. Penney in Westland Mall. "They sold pretty well — imitation minks and some fox."

Fake furs can still be found at the Burlington Coat Factory in Redford Township.

"We have imitation fox, mink, coyote — jackets, full length coats and hats," said Martha Whitlow, a saleswoman. "Yes, they are really popular. We have people coming in asking for them all the time."

Younger women like Whitlow, 19, prefer leather jackets trimmed in fake fur, she said. Older career women opt for full length coats.

Big this spring are gabardine wool coats — some with leather trim, and shining material trench coats in shades of peach and beige, according to Estevez at J.C. Penney.

IF YOU want to look like a very important person motoring around town, Murray's Discount Auto Paris sells fake cellular phone antennas. Some people have gone so far as to carry fake car phones in their autos.

"I've got a regular customer who has a fake pink plastic car phone," said John Wisz, co-owner of Beverly Hills Auto Service, a 10-minute oil change shop in Birmingham. "He says he has it to make fun of all his friends who have car phones."

But who is kidding. The same customer drives a Jeep Cherokee which Wisz proclaims "is very popular with the yuppie crowd. It's a cheaper version of the Range Rover," a real yupplemobile.

Majestic Counterfeit Jewels in Birmingham does custom design and custom copying and is a place where jewel dreams become a reality. In addition to fake diamonds and colored gems, the store carries replica watches, designer copy pearls and copy colognes.

Postal service rule target in junk mail fight

ACCORDING to the Postal Service's own figures, it delivers 1.9 billion pounds of unwanted mail annually in the U.S. This figure is based on a study of recipients who indicated that 25.6 percent of third class bulk mail was either objectionable or uninteresting.

As I learn more in my "Less Is Better" campaign against junk mail, I suspect these figures are low. The Direct Marketing Association suggests that direct mail advertising produces an average of two-to-three percent return, hence I wonder if at least 75 percent (or over 5.6 billion pounds annually) of bulk mail is unwanted useless refuse. Of course, none of us wants to bury this waste in our own back yard, to breathe the smoke from its incineration, nor to cut down enough trees to support this "habit."

I respect the fact that many people, including me, do enjoy certain items, like catalogs, and that bulk mail provides many jobs and important services. I believe any legitimate business has a right to advertise and every person has a right to receive mail they enjoy. Advertisers do not have the right, however, to harass individuals, produce mind boggling unnecessary waste or destroy the environment in the process.

RESPONSIBLE advertising is the answer. With radio, TV or newspaper advertising, private citizens do have some recourse: They can drop subscriptions or turn off the noise. There's no way to stop the incessant deliveries to your mailbox, however, nor to avoid the physical act of disposing of the unwanted stuff. If we could eliminate 25 percent of bulk mail and recycle the rest, individuals would benefit without time consuming irritants and we could make a giant leap toward cleaning up our environment.

I propose, therefore, that the Postal Service be convinced to change its rule so that bulk mail can be returned at the sender's expense. That way, those who want advertising could keep it, while unwanted mail could be getting.

Since returned advertisers to remove names from their lists is sometimes a problem now, the double expense of paying for returned advertising would surely force irresponsible mailers to maintain their lists more selectively. Emergencies could be made for mailings required by law.

organizing
Dorothy Lehmkuhl

The Rate Commission Office in Washington told me that changing this rule is a feasible idea, although it would necessitate increased bulk mailing fees.

CURRENTLY, WHEN third class bulk mail is given back, the Post Office throws it away. Postal patrons can have first class mail returned to the sender — this service is included in the first class postage rate and is not abused by the average citizen.

I believe that after an initial transition period, the same would hold true for bulk mail. Why should first class mailers be forced to pay for this service, while third class peddlers avoid this responsibility? While this might send a shock wave through the advertising industry at first (and would no doubt be vigorously fought by them) it seems the net result would be less, but better targeted, bulk mail.

A famous person once said, "I wondered why somebody didn't do something, and then I realized I am somebody." If you are unhappy about junk mail, what can you do?

1. Make an effort to have your name removed from undesired mailing list. Many will happily remove your name on your first request.
2. Return unwanted first class advertising by marking it "Unsolicited — Return to Sender" (A rubber stamp would be handy).

3. Return postage paid cards that drop out of magazines with a request to stop sending unattached cards.

4. Support this campaign by returning the section below. If the response is great enough, I will petition the Postal Rates commission to act as an Intervenor at its next hearing in Washington, D.C. to deliver your message.

condo queries

Robert M. Melsner

Q. Are local code restrictions regarding the number of individuals that can occupy a specific type of a unit enforceable? We are wondering if this is a way around family status restrictions of the new Federal Statute regarding housing.

A. You are, no doubt, referring to the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988. The act states that it does not limit the applicability of any reasonable local, state or federal restriction regarding the maximum number of occupants permitted to occupy a dwelling. Therefore, local restrictions can be applied without committing a violation of the act. Of course, if you attempt to operate a subterfuge in a veiled attempt to circumvent the protection of the Fair Housing Act as it relates to family status, you will not be successful.

Q. I am a landlord that has certain handicapped persons living at the project. I am wondering whether the handicapped person can require me to make reasonable modifications to the common area portions of an apartment complex.

A. In the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, the new act provides that it is unlawful to refuse to permit, at the expense of the handicapped person, reasonable modification of existing premises if the proposed modifications are necessary to afford the handicapped person the full enjoyment of the premises. The act defines the word "premises" as the interior or exterior spaces, parts, components or elements of the building, including individual units in the public and common use areas in the building.

Therefore, the act requires that a landlord make reasonable modifications to the public and common use areas of the building as well as to the interior, but, at the expense of the handicapped person. The handicapped person, however, does not have to restore the common areas back to their original condition. The obligation to restore is restricted to the interior of the tenant's unit.

Check warranty

You are ready to buy a home. The one you found is just what you've been looking for. The location is great, the home is only a few years old and the owners have kept it in top condition.

The price is right, you have the down payment and the mortgage company just called to approve the financing. You're ready to close — or are you?

Before you sign the papers, there's another important item to check. Does the home have a warranty, and if so, does this warranty transfer?

"If the warranty program is Home Owners Warranty (HOW), the unexpired portion of the builder's warranty/insurance protection package will automatically transfer to the new owner," said Gerald Kosmenschky, president of the Southern Michigan Home Owners Warranty Council.

"HOW provides many significant benefits to protect the home buyer."

HOW BUILDERS insure their work product against major structural defects for 10 years from the original warranty date. The builders warranty protects against defects in the wiring, plumbing, heating, cooling, ventilating and mechanical systems for two years. Under the first year of the warranty, faulty workmanship and materials are covered.

Not all builders can participate in the program.

"HOW carefully screens its builder members," Kosmenschky said. "Only those with high construction standards, good business practices and positive customer relations policies are eligible for membership."

HOW is the only new home warranty and insurance program endorsed by the National Association of Home Builders. It currently has more than 12,500 builder members and more than 2 million homes enrolled nationwide.

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two or three-bedroom ranch.) With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And...luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."
