Mayor faces 3 challengers

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Two city council members and a city employee will challenge Mayor Charles Griffin in the Sept. 12 primary election.

The top two vote-getters will square off in November for the right to guide the city into the 1990s.

City council members Thomas Artley and Charles Pickering were among those filing petitions with the city clerk's office for the mayoral race. Pickering is a former mayor, losing to Griffin after a hotly contested campaign four years ago.

Neither council member will have to surrender his seat should he lose since both were elected to four-year council terms in 1987.

Robert Thomas, a longtime Westland employee and president of the city's largest union, AFSCME Local 1602, also filed his petitions before the 4 p.m. Tuesday deadline.

A FIFTH potential candidate, Peter Narsisian, failed to solicit the required minimum of 170 signatures on nominating petitions. Narsisian, who turned over his petitions to the city clerk's office minutes before the deadline, was disqualified Wednesday.

Thomas, who has worked in the city's department of public services since 1971, believes he is an underdog. He has been actively campaigning since announcing his candidacy last month.

"There's just no way I can look past September," he said Tuesday. "I have to set my sites on beating Artley and Pickering in the primary."

"They have more name recognition than I do."

Griffin filed petitions and formally announced his bid for a second term July 17, although bumper stickers touting his re-election sprouted last spring and the mayor hinted at his plans as early as January.

Griffin has said he is running on his first-term record, which he said was "a good one."

The mayor has said his administration deserves credit for helping restore stability and "fiscal integrity" to the city since his 1985 election and, with the help of the city council, improving Westland's image.

"The city's condition is the best that it has been in 15 years," Griffin said when he announced his re-election bid. "We have seen the city's total millage lowered from 17.99 to 14.28 — that's down 3.71 mills in four years."

HIS CHALLENGERS were less positive about the current state of the city.

"For a city that collects top tax dollars from its residents, we seem to have a problem providing fully-staffed public safety," Pickering said Tuesday. "I'd like to see that fourth fire station open on a full-time basis and better police response."

(Since April, 1988 one of the city's four fire stations is closed on a rotating basis for periods of up to 24 hours — the result of a contract agreement between the city and the firefighters' union.)

In a press release issued Monday announcing his campaign, Artley said the administration exhibited a "callous attitude" in dealing with

City waits for ruling on creche

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Both sides in the legal dispute over Westland's city-owned Nativity scene view this month's Supreme Court ruling as good news.

City attorney Charles Bokos said last week the decision supports the creche, which makes its annual holiday appearance on the lawn in front of city hall each December.

"Our position has been that with other, non-religious symbols added to the display the city isn't endorsing any particular religion," Bokos said. "And that's basically what the (Supreme) Court has said."

But a spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union, whose lawsuit against the city creche is still pending, said the ruling reinforced its stand against co-mingling of church and state.

"We are very pleased with the ruling. It demonstrates that the courts are upholding separation of church and state," said Paul Dennenfeld, legal director for the Michigan ACLU.

DENNENFELD SAID the civil rights group has filed a brief alluding to the ruling with the Sixth U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, which is hearing the Westland case on appeal together with cases from Warren and Clawson.

The Supreme Court ruled that government-sponsored displays are permissible if they don't promote or endorse religious beliefs. In a 5-4 vote, the court said a Christmas Nativity scene inside a Pittsburgh courthouse violated the Constitution's requirement for separation of church and state.

'Our position has been that with other, non-religious symbols added to the display the city isn't endorsing any particular religion.'
— Charles Bokos

But in a 6-3 vote, the court allowed a display that included a Christmas tree, Hanukkah menorah and a sign saluting freedom that was set up at Pittsburgh's city-county building. That display conveyed "secular recognition" of various holiday traditions, the court said.

In the Westland case, the ACLU has appealed last December's ruling by U.S. District Judge Philip Pratt allowing placement of the Nativity scene on the city hall lawn. The ACLU originally filed suit against Westland in December 1987.

Pratt said the display was in compliance with U.S. Supreme Court guidelines for such displays.

But the ACLU contended that the creche had "so few (secular) items that the religious portion was its dominating feature."

Bokos said he expects the appeals court to hear the case this fall and give its decision by the end of the year.

13 enter city council race

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

A crowded field of Westland City Council candidates will be trimmed to eight people seeking four available seats after a primary election Sept. 12.

Thirteen filed nominating petitions with the city clerk's office before the 4 p.m. Tuesday deadline. Candidates have until 4 p.m. Friday to withdraw from the primary ballot.

The general election is Tuesday, Nov. 7.

The wide range of candidates includes three incumbent council members, a Wayne-Westland school board member, local business persons and residents who have taken an active role on city commissions or volunteer groups.

Several have run for elective office in Westland at least once before.

Incumbents seeking re-election are William Ziemba, Ben DeHart and Ken Mehl, council president.

A. Kent Herbert announced in May that he wouldn't seek a second full term on the council. He cited increased full-time job responsibilities and differing views from Mayor Charles Griffin's administration on a number of key issues.

OTHERS FILING petitions were Yousef Eadeh, Ethel Bollinger, Terri Reighard Johnson, Deborah Carman, Dorothy Smith, Richard Ringer, Sandra Cicirelli, Helene Raupp, Michael Bradley and Lewis Beaver.

Bollinger, Raupp and Smith ran unsuccessfully for council in 1987.

Johnson is a school board trustee. If elected, she said she would give up her school board seat before next January's inauguration.

Cicirelli is a partner in the Westland law firm of Ference, Ference and Cicirelli. She has been a member of the city's zoning board of appeals since 1986.

Eadeh is the owner of a local gun shop.

City Clerk Diane Rohraff said petitions for 10 of the 13 candidates were certified as of Tuesday afternoon. The other three sets of petitions are for Beaver, Bollinger and Raupp.

Candidates are required to turn in signatures from a minimum of 170 registered voters in order to qualify for the ballot.

School studies approved

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Comprehensive studies of Wayne-Westland Community School buildings and transportation will give the district a "blueprint for the future," school officials said Monday.

The twin studies, the first overall look at the district's physical assets in nearly two decades, was approved 6-0 by the school board Monday night. Board member Terri Reighard Johnson was absent.

"We've had similar studies done before, but this is really the first long-range planning we've undertaken since the 1960s," said Thomas Blacklock, deputy superintendent.

Blacklock said the facility study would offer recommendations on how the district's 34 schools and other buildings can be upgraded to best serve students and teachers for the next 25 years.

Although the study, to be completed by October, will make recommendations "we don't see where there's going to have to be some immediate action taken by the board," said Tom Svitkovich, associate superintendent for communications and finance.

"IT'S GOING TO be more of a long-term view," Svitkovich said.

The transportation review, to be done at the same time by the same organization, may have a more immediate impact, Svitkovich said.

For that study, a consultant will review the age and mechanical condition of the district's fleet of vehicles and certain areas of fleet operation. When the review is done, a report will be presented to the district with recommendations for changes to improve efficiency and reduce expenses.

Both studies will be done by Michigan School Business Officials, a quasi-governmental group that assists state school districts with long-

Westland woman killed in car crash

A Westland woman was killed early Sunday in a head-on collision on Wayne Road near Glen, police said.

Police said Tuesday they expect to file charges against the other driver, who they believe was under the influence of alcohol when her pickup truck struck victim's car at 3:02 a.m.

Annette Perry, 26, was killed.

She was declared dead on arrival at Westland Medical Center from massive head injuries, said officer Thomas Hissong of the traffic bureau. The other driver, 22, received minor injuries.

Hissong said Perry was driving her 1978 Ford Granada southbound on Wayne Road when the 1978 Ford pickup crossed over the center line and hit her car head on. The truck then "climbed over the front" of the Granada and crushed its roof, Hissong said.

After the impact, the truck slid approximately 100 feet up Wayne Road before coming to a halt, Hissong said.

Hissong said preliminary reports indicate the driver of the truck was going significantly faster than the 40 miles per hour speed limit.

Results of blood alcohol tests were incomplete Tuesday.

Neither driver was wearing a seat belt at the time of the crash, Hissong said.

Getting involved

PTA is a tradition in this household

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Like many PTA parents in the Livonia school district, Westland's Kathy Kalousek got involved when her son started kindergarten.

And after serving in various PTA posts in the past 13 years, including as Cooper PTA president, Kalousek was elected president of the 8,707-member Livonia PTA Council in April.

Her one-year term began last month.

KALOUSEK SAID her job as president "is to organize the rest of the group to function in different activities and we have a wide variety of activities that we do.

people

"We are the feeder group for the locals; one of our tasks is to provide leadership," she said.

This is through workshops, providing information on state and national PTA programs and "answering questions on how to go about starting certain projects."

Kalousek, who is married and has two children, commented about her start in PTA:

"I guess what really got me involved was my husband's parents were in PTA."

And the family tradition continues. John Kalousek has held several posts in the Cooper PTA and Livonia PTA Council, and is currently Michigan PTA membership chairman.

That's not all. Son Ken is serving as a student representative to the state PTA.

THE VALUE of being involved in the PTA is "it puts you in touch with

The 12-year-old Westland resident was delivering papers on Cardwell June 29 with her sister Shannon (left) and friend Alexander Morales when the three, looking through a window, noticed an elderly, disabled customer on the floor with mail scattered nearby. With the help of a neighbor, they made their way into the house and helped the woman — who had fallen several hours earlier while getting her mail — to her feet. "I was kind of worried when we first found her, but glad that everything turned out OK," Kim said.

Galbraith principal of Marshall

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Larry Galbraith has been named principal at Marshall Junior High.

Galbraith, an assistant principal at Wayne Memorial High School for the last 10 years, was selected Monday to replace Walter Durant, who was transferred to Adams Junior High two weeks ago.

His appointment was confirmed 6-0 by the school board.

The district also named Dennis Ron Barratt director of special education. Another vacancy, for assistant principal at Stevenson Junior High School, will be filled by mid-August, said Superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

The superintendent said Monday he "enthusiastically agreed" with the interview committee's choice of Galbraith for the Marshall post.

"(Galbraith) has learned the responsibilities of secondary administration by serving as an assistant principal," O'Neill said. "He is familiar with all the components of administering a secondary building, having been primarily responsible for student activities, the scheduling of classes and the maintenance of the physical plant, as well as student discipline.

"HIS STRONG background as a former math teacher and his involvement in curriculum development these past 15 years will enable him to provide the instructional leadership at the junior high school level," O'Neill said.

Galbraith, 42, has been employed by Wayne-Westland Community Schools since 1970. Before that he taught for two years at Highland Park High School.

While teaching at Wayne Memorial he was chairman of the math department, a class sponsor and supervisor of the ACE program.

Galbraith has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and a master's degree in math from Eastern Michigan University.

His starting salary as principal will be $59,078.

Barratt, 39, moves to the special education director's job after 11 years as a teacher for hearing impaired students at Wayne Memorial. Before that he taught hearing impaired students at McGrath School.

O'Neill praised Barratt for his rapport with students and his ability "to (successfully) bring special education students into activities with the general population."

BARRATT HAS a bachelor's degree from MSU and master's and special education degrees from EMU.

At Wayne Memorial he was involved in extracurricular activities including the SMI summer program, driver education classes and as a class sponsor.

His starting salary as special education director will be $55,055.

The two openings were created after several appointments and transfers last spring with the retirement of longtime Wayne Memorial principal Francis (Bud) Winter and two elementary school principals, John Martin from Wildwood and Frank LaSota, from Monroe.

The changes will mean new faces in the top two positions at Wayne Memorial, something which concerned board member Kathleen Chorbagian.

"Now that we've changed 50 percent of the administrative staff at Wayne there's going to be a drastic impact on the students," Chorbagian said Monday.

"There's that cohesiveness between students and the administration that we're going to have to build from scratch."

Mom passes on the value of PTA your child's education," said Kalousek, who attended Catholic schools and the Livonia Public Schools.

"PTA has always been to me the icing on the cake — Livonia has always had an excellent education program. PTA working with the buildings has always provided those little extra things."

Kalousek recalled that when she first became involved in the Cooper PTA, "it was a real active building," hosting projects ranging from book fairs to Christmas programs.

SHE PROVIDED hospitality at Cooper — greeting new parents who visit the school — and helped work the class parties and in the library.

Kalousek is now a kindergarten para-professional at Cooper.

When she became PTA president at Cooper, on Ann Arbor Trail between Inkster Road and Middlebelt, she automatically became a PTA council member.

"I found out there was a whole other world outside our building."

KALOUSEK SAID she learned from former Livonia PTA presidents Pat Tancill and Peg Sippola.

"You see the wonderful strength in that group. It's a real special feeling when you can walk into a room and see 100 people who care about kids."

One thing Kalousek likes about being in PTA is "the great friendships I've established with people," she said.

"It's hard to find people with the same drive you do; they're family-oriented people. Those are the kinds who seem to be drawn by PTA."

As PTA president in the coming year, "the main thing is to have things jell with the new superintendent (Joseph Marinelli)," she said.

But she sees no problem there.

"He just received an award from his state (Florida) PTA and we know he is a PTA person."

AND WHEN the local superintendent backs PTA activities, it means a lot. Kalousek said the Livonia PTA is respected around the state, even envied for its good relations with local school administrators.

In other PTAs, "they fight with their superintendent, they won't allow them to do things in their buildings," Kalousek said. "The Livonia schools has a wonderful relationship with the PTA. We hope it will always be that way."

Among other concerns during her term, Kalousek said she'd like to get single parents more involved.

"Another thing I'd like to see is stronger community involvement with our students."

range planning.

The studies will cost $38,000, about half of what a private consulting firm would charge, Svitkovich said.

For the building study, MSBO will provide an architect and an engineer. Their report will include detailing the scope of maintenance and/or construction work and estimated costs, as well as anticipated changes to help the district comply with environmental issues, access for the handicapped and more stringent fire codes.

"It should give us a good idea of where we stand on asbestos removal, how we can best accomplish that," Svitkovich said.

While the study won't deal with enrollment patterns or trends, it will provide information on how buildings can be adapted for needs such as computer labs, Blacklock said.

residents and criticized its development policies and personnel appointments.

"While development of Westland is desirable to create a stable tax base, the administration continues to ignore the concerns of residents who live in the proposed development areas — residents who have a majority of life savings invested in their homes."

HE SAID development of strip shopping centers, apartment complexes and condominiums is proceeding in an "uncontrolled" manner.

Artley, a council member for 12½ years, was critical of Griffin's appointed staff, calling them "inexperienced and unqualified."

Thomas called said the current administration is headed by "people who are career politicians who haven't done enough for the citizens of Westland."

He said his campaign would focus on getting a better handle on development and repairing the city's infrastructure, such as roads and water and sewer lines.

"You've got roads in some sections of this city that are literally crumbling," he said.

Free concerts can help beat summertime heat

THE SUMMER concert is winding down for Westland music patrons.

The WACO country band performed Sunday afternoon for a modest crowd at Corrado Park with two others scheduled for Central City Park behind City Hall in August and September.

The concerts are planned by the Westland Cultural League, a private, non-profit organization formed nearly two years ago.

The concerts are free and represent a variety of musical tastes.

The next performances will be by Blue Grass at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 16, and European Brass, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 20.

Music patrons are asked to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets.

Sponsoring the last two concerts will be the Rotary Club and Host Lions Club, respectively.

The series is done in cooperation with the Westland recreation department.

Dancers formed a line to dance to the WACO country band.

Group conducting study of area theater use

By Amy Rauch
staff writer

Though it has sat empty for almost a year, a suburban group hopes that the former Mai Kai Theater in Livonia will soon be filled with the sounds of films, performances, symphony concerts and graduation ceremonies and be patronized by local groups and persons.

The Arts Alliance Group met with about 100 residents at an open meeting last week. TAAG is conducting a feasibility study to determine if the Mai Kai could become a performing arts center on its Plymouth Road-Farmington Road site.

It is possible that the theater will be donated to a non-profit organization by the Nicolas George Theaters, the building's current owners, according to Victoria Hardy, a partner with husband Michael in Hardy & Hardy Counsel for the Arts, the firm hired to conduct the feasibility study.

A NON-PROFIT group would not have to make mortgage payments and would enjoy a tax-exempt status if the theater were donated.

As part of the deal, K mart Corp. would buy the remaining land around the theater and develop it into an upscale warehouse-style retail operation, according to Bob Bishop. The Makro outlet — the new retail warehouse branch of K mart — would offer personal computers, televisions and appliances, among other products, Bishop said.

The company would not conduct bulk advertising, he said, but instead would advertise through the mail, requiring customers to become members of Makro. K Mart would redo the Mai Kai parking lot and build another for Makro customers.

The Mai Kai movie theater closed in 1987, then reopened as the Omni Star Center for the Performing Arts. The Omni Star was supposed to bring big-name entertainment to the area, like Wayne Newton, but was forced to close just a few months after it opened because of money problems, Bishop said.

"Especially after the Omni, a lot of people are leery about what can or can't be done with the theater," said Ken Kelsey, TAAG chairman. "But there's been an overwhelming amount of community support. It wouldn't take much to get it started."

THE FEASIBILITY study thus far has turned up several factors that pointed positively toward using the theater as a performing arts center.

The study will be completed in a month, Hardy said.

Overall, the 1,398-seat theater is in good condition, Hardy said.

"There are very few theaters in the Detroit area that are fully functioning, full-scale, up-to-date theaters."

The blue plush seats and curtains are in good shape, Hardy told the audience. One large and three small dressing rooms can accommodate 20 to 25 people comfortably, she said, and the acoustics in the theater are excellent.

"One thing that is a challenge is the stage floor," Hardy said. The stage floor is concrete. "Most performers and dancers don't want to dance on that."

Rooms near the ceiling that had housed the movie projectors could be transformed into offices for non-profit organizations, she said.

"Basically what we're provided with here is a building in very good condition."

The building can accommodate the handicapped, except for the bathrooms. It is also equipped with zoned air conditioning and heat, making it possible to heat or cool the potential offices separately from the rest of the building.

"This probably can be and should be a multi-use facility."

Transformed into a performing arts center, the building could host suburban pageants, graduation ceremonies, a travel film series and children's recitals, among other uses.

MEMBERS OF the audience did not pose any objections but asked a lot of questions about the facility.

Afterward, they toured the entire theater, chattering excitedly about its large stage and prime location as well as the different performances that could take place.

"What they're talking about tonight would be fantastic," said Barbara Grant, active with the Roseville Community Players.

"We can envision putting on a play here," said Jan Turner of Huntington Woods, who, along with husband Don is involved with the Roseville Community Players.

The center could be used by other communities, Kelsey said.

"We'd like to see them use it as a community service," said Sharon Lee, the executive director of a suburban scholarship pageant for young women. "The dressing rooms are gorgeous, with mirrors, lights and everything."

The theater could better accommodate the pageant, which had to turn people away this year due to a lack of seating, she said.

Program combats drug abuse

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Livonia School District

The Livonia School District includes the northern section of Westland.

The problem of high school students abusing alcohol or drugs happens in all school districts — including the Livonia system.

Following the success of a program at Franklin High, which northeast Westland, to help youth deal with addiction, the program this fall will be expanded to the other two high schools in the district.

The Student Assistance Program, said Acting Superintendent Carole Samples, "is extremely valuable in helping the kids and their families" with substance abuse problems.

"Our community needs to know that in all portions of our city we do have youngsters who are at risk, and there are youngsters who are drug abusers."

EXPANSION OF the program to all three Livonia district high schools shows that schools "are paying more attention to these things now," Samples said.

"It's not necessarily an indicator that youngsters are move involved than they were in the past."

For her work at Franklin where the program originated, program coordinator Crystal Nofts "deserves tons of credit," Samples said.

While Nofts is coordinating the program, Steve Grove will head the program at Stevenson High, and Bill Halvangis at Churchill High, which serves northwest Westland.

Noftz, a Livonia schools psychologist since 1969, began coordinating the Student Assistance Program at Franklin nearly two years ago.

She said the vast majority of the 430 students she's treated have a family history of alcoholism or chemical dependency.

"It does go beyond drugs and alcohol," Noftz said, adding that she works with kids reporting other problems — ranging from teen pregnancy to eating disorders — which have some basis in addiction.

While students can be referred to the program by school staff, Noftz said most often they are referred by other students in the program.

"I'll sit down and talk with them and tell them 'I'm real concerned about you.' The kid can choose to talk with me or not.

"Often they say they won't and, lo and behold, they are back."

THE OFFICE and conference room where she meets kids one-on-one and in groups serve as the place for these kids to come to, as they are often not close to other groups of students.

Noftz said a survey of Franklin staff in 1988 showed only two negative comments. "I am so supported by the teaching staff that it is outrageous."

And while a few parents won't believe their kids have a problem, most are also supportive, she said.

"I think the major thing with expansion (to all high schools) is Livonia is able to address a problem," she said, that some might be more comfortable ignoring.

"The sooner that we recognize the problem and put a name to it, we start exercizing control over it. We need to call an addiction and addiction, and a victim a victim."

The cost of expanding the program involves paying the salaries of the two additional staff members hired to head the program at Stevenson and Churchill.

POLICE arrested a 22-year-old Garden City man for felonious assault Sunday after he allegedly threatened a Westland man with a handgun.

Officers were called to the Barsudor Arms apartments, Wayne Road north of Glenwood, at 4:30 p.m. by the victim and his roommate.

The victim told police the Garden City man came to his apartment demanding that he repay him $20, part of a $45 loan made three weeks ago. When he said he didn't have the money, his assailant became angry, grabbed his shirt, pulled out the gun and shoved it into his crotch, the victim said.

The victim told police his assailant told him to "have the money in 24 hours or I'll come back and finish this."

He then fled the apartment.

Both the victim and his roommate identified the gun as a black and chrome colored .45-caliber automatic.

Police questioned the alleged assailant at his Garden City house a short time later. He admitted going to the apartment to discuss the loan, but told police he used a wooden replica of a gun.

He said he threw the replica out of his car on Wayne Road south of Cherry Hill.

Police searched the area but didn't find either a handgun or a wooden replica.

A J.C. PENNEY sales clerk told police she received a combination bomb threat-obscene telephone call Sunday afternoon.

The clerk said she answered the telephone in her department of the Westland Center J.C. Penney store about 1:15 p.m. A male voice on the other end of the line told her there was a radio-controlled bomb in the store.

When she began asking questions about the purported bomb, the caller became angry and then shouted "I'm asking the questions here," the clerk told police.

The caller proceeded to ask her a series of personal questions, the clerk said.

The caller hung up when her supervisor came onto the line, the clerk said.

The clerk told police the caller sounded like he was 20 to 25 years old and seemed nervous during the first part of the conversation.

A HOMEOWNER on the 27600 block of Mackenzie reported that someone broke into her house early Sunday and stole a videocassette recorder valued at $450.

The homeowner told police the break-in occurred between midnight and 6:30 a.m., while she was sleeping.

Police said the thief apparently opened a living room window to gain entry into the house.

Budget funds hospital fence

State to set $50,000 for Northville facility

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Michigan's new mental health budget will pay for a fence around the state hospital at Northville, more services for suburban Chaldeans and Arabs, and research on treating crack cocaine users.

"It continues the trend to putting more money into community services and less into institutions," said Thomas D. Watkins Jr., Department of Mental Health director since 1987.

The budget is due for passage by the state Legislature this week after a six-member joint conference committee spent a full day ironing out differences between House and Senate versions.

THE FENCE around the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital was a victory for Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a member of the conference committee. Geake had the $50,000 item inserted during the middle of the session.

"The purpose is so that patients don't walk away. About two a day, or 600 a year, walk away," said Geake, noting the hospital grounds are fenced on three sides but not on Seven Mile.

"It's less than that," Watkins said, "but it's an ongoing concern. We don't want it to look like a minimum security prison. But it (the fence) should not be obtrusive."

"I don't have any problem with it," said Rep. Joe Young Sr., D-Detroit, chair of the conference committee.

While legislative passage is almost assured, Gov. James Blanchard could use his line-item veto on the fence. Watkins wasn't enthused about the fence but made it clear he respects the political problem of Geake, who chairs the mental health appropriations subcommittee in the Senate.

Once a Detroit city official, Watkins now lives in Northville Township. He served on the Wayne County Charter Commission in 1980-81.

THE NEW budget will take $878 million from the general fund which, with federal grants, will put $1.2 billion into state hospitals and community care programs in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

State employment will drop by 148 through attrition, with many coming from the Northville facility.

"When I came in '83," Watkins said, "Northville had 1,200 patients. Now it's down to 700 patients.

"At the same time, we have more staff — psychiatrists and social workers — and got the hospital reaccredited."

Outstate, two facilities will be closed down entirely.

CONFEREES AGREED with a Senate amendment to add $250,000 to the Chaldean-Arab program, which Blanchard and the House had financed at $500,000.

Watkins said the $750,000 has two parts — one for Chaldeans in the Southfield-Farmington area, the other for Arabs in the Dearborn area.

"It's counseling and outpatient services, and it overcomes language and cultural barriers," he said. "We already have programs for Hispanics and Native Americans, who otherwise would tend not to come into our system."

WAYNE STATE University will get $100,000 for research on treatment of crack cocaine users.

"Many patients come in dually diagnosed — mental illness and substance abuse," Watkins said. "It's a very serious problem. People don't come to us in neat packages. "Wayne State will identify and develop programs and services."

"I'd rather see 'em treated," said Sen. Joe Conroy, D-Flint.

"They don't know how to treat 'em," chairman Young replied.

IN A MAJOR compromise, the conferees agreed on $12 million to treat some mentally ill patients who had been given minimal care in nursing homes.

With federal money, the total program will be $25 million, Watkins said.

The controversial change is required under the federal Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, which Watkins described as "good public policy."

The Blanchard administration's plans to close two hospitals caused political controversies outstate, where they are major employers in small towns. But the trend will continue.

Blanchard estimates the cost of a state hospital at an average of $88,000 per bed — even more for mentally ill children. The new budget will aid parents who care for mentally retarded and developmentally disabled children at home.

In 1960, state institutions housed nearly 20,000 patients. In the current year, the number is expected to drop below the 5,000 mark.

IMAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOU NEVER KNEW YOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

Pursell: U.S. spends too much on AIDS

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

AIDS awareness groups are blasting U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell for recent comments regarding federal spending on the disease.

Pursell, however, is standing by his statement that the federal government is spending too much on AIDS, compared with other diseases.

"We've been led to believe AIDS is our number one health threat when, in fact, more Americans die each year from automobile accidents," Pursell said.

Pursell first announced his position on AIDS spending Sunday. His district includes northern Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Reaction from AIDS awareness groups was immediate.

"HE'S EXHIBITING a non-caring, non-compassionate attitude," said the Rev. Rod Reinhart of the Michigan Episcopal AIDS Coalition. "The people who are affected by AIDS are frequently poor, gay or i.v. drug users. In a sense, this says these people don't count."

Pursell is senior member of the House subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services and Education. The subcommittee oversees federal health care spending.

The federal government spent more than $3.2 million in Michigan to combat AIDS during fiscal 1988, according to Center for Disease Control figures. AIDS grants ranked second, trailing only those for preventative health and health services, among the 13 types of federal health grants distributed in the state.

In contrast, state immunization programs for other diseases received roughly $2.1 million from the federal government, while state programs to counter other sexually transmitted diseases received $1.76 million. Figures were contained in a report released through Pursell's office.

Those active in the fight to increase spending for AIDS research called the figures misleading. AIDS, they said, required greater spending because a cure is still being researched.

"He's demonstrated he's not conscious of the tremendous amount of expenses necessary, not just for AIDS research, but for medical research in general," Reinhart said.

Those actively involved with AIDS patients say the problem is that the federal government is doing too little to combat the disease, not too much.

"THERE'S A great deal of resentment that the federal government was so late in getting involved with AIDS research," said Chuck Selner of Friends, a support group for AIDS patients. "If anything, the government should be doing more."

While Pursell said AIDS research was necessary, an "overall perspective" was necessary to determine health care grants.

Factors such as the overall number of people affected by a disease, its growth potential and ability for prevention should be considered, he said.

"The driving force for AIDS funding has come from heightened media attention and the resulting public outcry, rather than reasoned consideration," Pursell said.

Recent reports that AIDS cases may be on the decrease shouldn't be interpreted as a sign the disease is no longer a threat, said a spokeswoman for the state's AIDS hotline.

"The problem is you're dealing with a large amount of time between exposure and the appearance of symptoms," said Barbara Murray, executive director of the Wellness Network. "That time period could be as long as 10 years and we've only been talking about things like safe sex for the past six years or so." the Ferndale-based organization serves as a state clearing house for AIDS information.

Critics charge Pursell with using the issue for political advantage.

"It's a trial balloon," Reinhart said. "He wants to see which way the wind is blowing on the issue."

Added Selner: "AIDS doesn't just affect one person, it affects whole families. These people have families, too, whether you approve of their lifestyles or not."

'We've been led to believe AIDS is our number one health threat when, in fact, more Americans die each year from automobile accidents.'

Appointment of Kosteva draws praise

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Two Republicans praised the appointment of state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, as chairman of the House Colleges and Universities Committee. But one expressed surprise at Speaker Lewis Dodak's choice.

"He isn't on the committee," said Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, "and he doesn't have any colleges in his district.

"But I'll enjoy working with Jim Kosteva," said Bankes, noting the committee had been inactive because previous chairman Dennis Dutko, D-Warren, had been fighting drunk driving charges. Dutko is now serving a jail sentence.

Rep. Judith Miller, R-Birmingham, praised the selection of Kosteva because "he's fair. He's well organized. He runs a good meeting. And he's a friend."

SPEAKER DODAK recently removed the troubled Dutko from all four of his House committee assignments, giving his one chairmanship to Kosteva.

Kosteva, 37, is a third-term lawmaker and community planner by profession who had not previously been a member of that eight-member committee.

"I am one of the highest seniority members without a committee chairmanship or a seat on the Appropriations Committee," said Kosteva in an interview from Lansing. "I requested and applied for the appointment."

If, unlike most other members, Kosteva has no college or university in his district, he does have his name on college legislation. He was chief sponsor of the Michigan Education Trust, the pre-paid college tuition investment program.

KOSTEVA HAS been close to the Democratic leadership in the House and has a number of other major committee posts: Taxation; Conservation, Recreation and Environment, where he chairs a solid waste subcommittee; Education; Transportation; Urban Affairs; and the Capitol Building.

Will he have to give up any of those posts with his new chairmanship?

"Not at the present time. Timewise, there is no conflict, outside of my personal life," he said.

As Bankes said, Dutko hadn't convened the Colleges and Universities more than once or twice this year. The question is: What does it do?

James Kosteva

It doesn't allocate money — that job belongs to the higher education subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee. It doesn't pass judgment on tuition increases.

"I WANT TO look at the entire financial aid system," said the new chairman.

"It's a real patchwork quilt. It's difficult (for a student) to access information. We need to see that aid (grants, loans and scholarships) is directed to the right student."

A second priority is to monitor the work of his baby — the MET tuition fund. Here, Kosteva voices some "concern and frustration" at college tuitions which this year are rising at just under 10 percent. "I don't quite understand why university costs rise at such a rate to necessitate these tuition increases."

Gov. James J. Blanchard, for the second year, is expressing his concern, threatening to veto the state appropriations of some unnamed universities whose tuition hikes he considers excessive.

State treasurer Robert Bowman, who invented the MET idea, said it's based on earning 9 percent compund interest a year with the MET fund and tuition hikes of 7 percent or less.

While Oakland University's increase is in the 8 percent ballpark, others are much higher: University of Michigan, 9.6; Wayne State, 9.6; Michigan Tech, 9.5; Central Michigan, 9.67; Saginaw Valley, 8.8.

KOSTEVA ALSO wants to take a look at "proprietary schools" — those which teach trades and specific skills. Are regulations realistic? Are they teaching real market skills?

Bankes agrees, citing an unnamed business school whose graduates, after 68 credit hours, received top pay of $17,000 a year.

Bankes said Kosteva is correct in raising questions about whether some financial aids are going unused.

The most difficult question the panel currently is handling, said Bankes, is the request of Central Michigan and Michigan State to give campus police the same authority as municipal police. "The real question is, should they have guns?" said Bankes.

Castles of sand are contest focus

Area architects, get your creative juices flowing. Just make sure you can build — with sand — whatever you design.

The Wayne County Park System and the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Architects will hold "We're Building Castles in the Sand," Sunday, July 30, at the Nankin Mills beach volleyball courts along Edward Hines Drive (Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail).

Although billed as a sand castle contest, participants may construct any sand sculpture (it doesn't have to be architectural).

Materials allowed include sand within a 20- by 15-foot plot and water soluble paints. No adhesives or structural components, fire or fireworks are allowed. Water from outside the plot is allowed.

Contestants can use masonry, garden and household implements for sculpting. Sand compacting devices must be removed from the plot at the end of the competition and cannot be mechanical.

Teams may consist of up to eight people.

The number of plots are limited and registration is open on a first-come, first-served basis.

Contestants are warned that this is not a true beach. The volleyball courts are made of mason sand, which is more difficult to work with but increases the challenge level. Water is available. Teams must bring a large bucket to carry water.

Registration begins at 11:30 a.m. July 30. Fee is $10 per team. Teams build from noon to 3 p.m.

The winning team keep the "We're Building Castle in the Sand" traveling trophy for one year.

Judges will select the winner based on concept, originality and execution.

To register, send a $10 check payable to the Wayne County Park System to Wayne County Parks, 33175 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland 48185. Include the team leader's name, address, home and business telephone numbers.

Full-time, part-time dispute simmers at SC

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Instructor's employment status is once again on the front burner at Schoolcraft College as administrators and faculty address the issue in informal discussions this week.

At issue is full- and part-time hiring practices, long a burning issue between faculty members and college administrators.

The subject, which has simmered for years, caught fire at Schoolcraft in early 1987 when voters approved a half-mill tax increase. Full-timers viewed passage as likely resulting in an increase in full-time hiring.

Their numbers, however, have steadily declined in recent years, from 147 in 1984 (instructors, counselors and librarians) to 138 today, while the number of part-time employees has steadily increased during the same period of time, from 211 to 240.

"It's frightening," said Lowell Cook, a full-time Schoolcraft instructor for 22 years who, as president of the Faculty Forum since 1981, represents staff in contract negotiations.

But Schoolcraft vice president Conway Jeffress, who determines the number of part- and full-time employees at the school, counters: "The present mix is sound."

While both agree the issue is complex, they argue what has come to be known as the "academics verses economics" debate.

THE SCHOOLCRAFT FACULTY is "like an orchestra performing together without practice," according to Cook, who said certain departments (geography and metallurgy) are staffed entirely by part-time instructors and speech, a required subject, has a single full-time employee.

Due to the high incidence of part-time instructors who are at the school on an irregular basis, there are "no meetings, no working together or sharing of ideas, no collegiality, essential in keeping everyone sharp."

There is little enthusiasm for long-term academic planning because "it does no good to develop five-year plans if people aren't even going to be here in five years." The average age of faculty, 60, is upped by part-timers, many of whom are retirees.

If the Schoolcraft faculty is to remain "healthy," Cook said, a constant infusion of younger full-time instructors is necessary to fill positions vacated by those who retire.

"In recent years, 14 offices once occupied by full-time instructors are now filled by administrators, according to Cook, who also said, "Many of us have private offices because our partners are not replaced" when they retire or otherwise leave the college

Cook fears the practice of hiring part-time instructors is having a negative impact on quality education.

Administrators, however, said the reverse is true.

SCHOOLCRAFT IS A "better institution" today compared to five years ago, Jeffress said, partially because changes in hiring policies have freed college money to expand professional development and retraining programs.

"It was clear to me in the early 1980s, there were too many full-time staff for the credit hours we were generating," Jeffress said, citing three primary benefits in hiring part-time instructors: accomodating fluctuating student enrollment, using instructors with current hands-on experience and economics.

"Our first priority is the teaching process and that's where most of our budget goes," he said.

In the 1984-85 school year, 61.4 percent of Schoolcraft's total budget was spent on instruction, exactly 1 percent less than last school year. While there has been an increase of 61 students during the same period of time, from 8,523 to 8,584, the number of credit hours has decreased 240 hours, from 138,768 to 135,528.

Between 1984 and 1988, the total number of instructors has increased by 26. However, the number of full-timers has decreased by three while new part-timers have increased by 29.

Next school year, the average annual salary for full-time instruction is $43,593, compared to an hourly income of $299 to $422 for part-time instructors who receive no benefits.

Jeffress said five full-time employees will be soon hired, including a corrections instructor already hired, a librarian and instructors in psychology and English that have been posted and an instructor in biology that is to be posted.

OF THE 29 community colleges in Michigan, Schoolcraft ranks 25th in the use of full-time instructors, with 37.9 percent full time, 6 percent less than the statewide average, and 44.1 percent part time, some 10 percent more than statewide.

Relying on part-time instructors to flesh out teaching staffs in colleges and universities is a practice dating from the 1960s, when demographers predicted significant drops in enrollments and tightened budgets, according to Gerie Bledsoe of the National Education Association, who said part-time numbers have more than tripled to some 300,000.

"They are thought to be vastly cheaper but additional hiring and supervision costs are generally not considered," Bledsoe said. In an effort to discourage part-time hiring, the NEA has called for "pro-rata" pay and limiting part-time teaching to no more than 25 percent of the total curriculum. If implemented, 22,000 new instructor positions would be available nationally, according to Bledsoe.

Schoolcraft board president Mary Breen, a trustee for six years, said the issue arose most recently during last year's trustee election. "We, meaning administration and faculty, must attempt to resolve the problem," Breen said.

The issue has arisen before. An article in the March 2, 1978, issue of the Livonia Observer referred to the situation.

From 1971 to 1977, the article continued, full-time faculty increased "a handful," from 157 to 162, while part-time faculty "more than doubled," from 112 to 231.

Pets of the week

Penny, a domestic long hair kitten, and Galaxy, a mixed-breed Labrador puppy, need homes. Penny (Control No. 233269) once appeared on a Detroit television news show and is described as extremely affectionate. Galaxy (Control No. 278624) is house broken and good with other pets and children. Hospitals are facing blood shortage threat

By Philip A. Sherman
staff writers

Administrators at western Wayne County hospitals said they weren't being affected by a statewide blood shortage as this week began.

But they were keeping their fingers crossed.

"We don't have an acute shortage at this time but we don't have the reserves we should," said Allan Breakie, president of Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

"The difference between where we are now and a crisis is a few pints of blood."

THE BLOOD shortage has been called "the worst in the past 10 years" by the Michigan Red Cross.

"Our people indicated they have just enough blood to get by," Redford Community Hospital administrator Robert Laible said.

Despite the shortage, area hospitals entered the week without having to take any emergency measures.

"Our blood is in pretty good supply," said Julie Sproul, representative of St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. "We haven't had to cancel any elective surgery."

It was also business as usual at Westland Medical Center.

"We haven't had to postpone anything," blood bank supervisor Debbie Rudcki said. "But we are experiencing a shortage of O-positive and O-negative blood."

JENELL JOINER, associate director of the Red Cross donor resource department, said the agency usually collects 1,100 units of blood on weekdays, 300 on Saturdays and 200 on Sundays in southeast Michigan. Current collection levels have dropped to 600-800 units per weekday with weekend collections dipping further, Joiner said.

Joiner said if the shortage continues at current levels, "we might even be closing emergency rooms" in addition to canceling elective surgery.

Some hospital officials cited seasonal fluctuation as at least a partial explanation for the shortage.

"Blood donation annually levels off around the July 4 holiday and Christmas," Sproul said. "That's why we have blood drives at those times of year."

OTHERS, HOWEVER, were at a loss.

Carol Jonson at Southfield's Providence Hospital said her hospital typically experiences a blood shortage in August, not July. She had no idea why the shortage manifested itself now.

Joiner cited several possible reasons for the shortfall.

"Students are gone, people are on vacation, plants are going through model improvements or changes (which means work forces are not at peak levels, decreasing units collected at company-sponsored blood drives), business are running short of staff and good weather," she said.

However, Joiner had no actual explanation for the shortage.

"That's the thing that's so upsetting and so scary. We really don't know.

"O-TYPES ARE the worst in trying to keep an adequate supply, and when I looked on the shelf I didn't see one B," Joiner said.

The Red Cross has opened several donor centers on Sunday to make collection more convenient. For additional information, call 494-2800.

Campaign

Communications skills tested

WESTLAND VOTERS should be in for a noisy mayoral and city council campaign this summer and fall.

The two winners who survive the Sept. 12 mayoral primary will succeed because they successfully communicated their position clearly to the voters in language they understand and without political double talk.

While the list of issues is still growing, two will be police protection and apartment development.

Election winners must communicate clearly their message to voters.

PART OF the problem before the voters is that the two issues, to a degree, are related.

For example, you must have ongoing development of apartments, industrial parks or retail centers to generate the property tax revenues needed to maintain or expand the police department.

Mayoral candidates Charles Griffin, seeking a second term; Charles Pickering, who lost to Griffin in 1985; Thomas Artley, a council member; and Robert Thomas, a municipal employees' union president; clearly support improved police protection but will certainly disagree on how it should be achieved.

For example, candidates may oppose overdevelopment of apartments because of homeowners' opposition.

IT IS hoped those same candidates will be candid and also tell voters that developers sometimes successfully sue the city in court to get their apartments built.

To get more information, voters should question the candidates at public forums when they appear, as a group or individually when they knock on doors in subdivisions.

Voters should keep their ears tuned to cute answers that labor relations experts describe as "weasel language," which allows the candidates to say one thing now and act differently after they are elected.

One such cute comment, usually offered by incumbents, is that they "cut your taxes."

Nonsense. They may have reduced the tax rate, but your city tax bill still increased because of a boost in value of your home.

IN THE city council race, a host of candidates, including three incumbents, will seek the four available seats.

At least one new face will be on the council following the Nov. 7 vote because council member Kent Herbert isn't seeking another term.

What voters have to keep in mind is that individual council members represent one vote on a seven-member legislative body.

An effective council member can make a difference by effectively reviewing the administration's proposals.

Anyone can oppose a mayoral recommendation. But an effective official will do it in a positive tone and encourage the administration to do a better job.

Council candidates can also get their message across during the upcoming campaign by promising to be a conduit of information and complaints from homeowners to the administration.

In past years, effective council members have done an excellent and responsible job of collecting information from neighbors or campaign workers on a problem and relaying it to the appropriate city department for handling.

The bottom line is that candidates must convey a sense of purposes and focus to their campaigns so voters can make their choices.

Civil rights

Listen, understand the issues

THE NAACP convention, which held center stage and front page in Detroit for nearly a full week, is gone. But, it is hoped, not forgotten.

For its chief message — that the dreams and aspirations of blacks and other minorities are being seriously threatened now more than any time since the civil rights gains of the 1960s — is an important one. A message that mainstream white suburban residents need to understand as well.

The rhetoric that came flying off the convention floor was strident, even shocking to some. Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, said the organization would lobby for intervention from President George Bush and the U.S. Congress to bump out the dents in civil rights caused by recent Supreme Court rulings.

Failing that, Hooks said, "we must call upon our citizenry to mount such powerful demonstrations that the group who gathered in China not long ago will look like a few compared with the millions that we mobilize to let America know we ain't gonna let nobody turn us around."

THAT'S STRONG stuff.

Maybe it's necessary, though. Civil rights leaders have taken the quiet road for years — since the riots tore Detroit and other cities apart more than two decades ago — and where has it gotten them?

During the 1970s they faced U.S. administrations (Nixon, Ford, Carter) that were long on rhetoric, but short on action. Under President Reagan, even the talk dried up. The words "civil rights" became kind of an antiquated whisper, trotted out occasionally when the administration took time to point out the emergence of a black middle class.

The Supreme Court — shaped largely by Reagan — seems intent on carrying out his vision when it comes to civil rights. In rulings this term the court has:

- Made it harder for state and local governments to enforce minority quotas on businesses.
- Given whites more leeway in filing reverse discrimination lawsuits.
- Limited the grounds on which women and minorities may seek legal redress for discrimination.

The American Civil Liberties Union has called the court's actions "disastrous . . . the end of an era in which the Supreme Court is the principal guarantor of rights for the individual."

Then there's William Lucas. The nomination by Bush of the former Wayne County executive for the country's civil rights enforcement chief has become a political hot potato, with civil rights groups and Democratic congressional leaders questioning his qualifications and his commitment to the cause.

The mission for white suburbanites is to understand why blacks feel backed into a corner and not to lose site of how the attitude toward civil rights, from the Oval Office on down, affects them.

GIVEN THIS kind of "progress," many blacks feel it's time to turn up the volume of their mission.

In turn, the mission for white suburbanites is to understand why blacks feel backed into a corner and not to lose site of how the attitude toward civil rights, from the Oval Office on down, affects them.

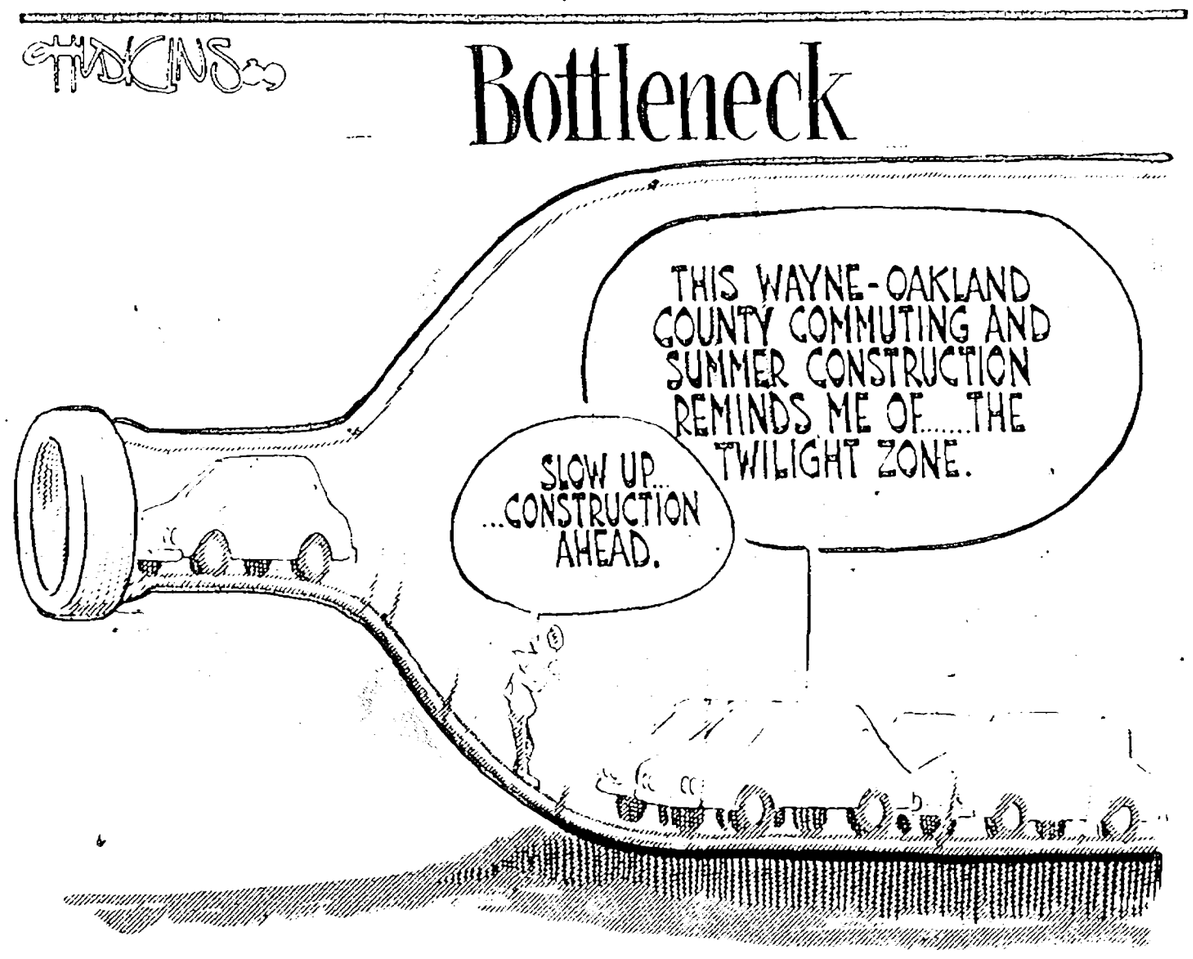
Segregation — by race, religion or economic class — is much more than just a physical separation. It's one group of people mentally beating down another, telling them they're not good enough to share the same bus, hold the same job or live in the same neighborhood.

And the racism that leads to segregation is still out there, even in the affluent, supposedly well-educated suburbs. In the past year alone we've had student skinheads voicing racist views and distributing racist propaganda at Birmingham Groves High School, and racist warnings scrawled by vandals on homes in several communities.

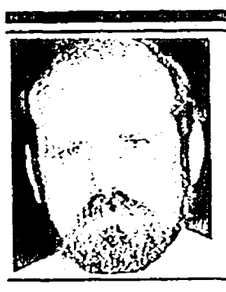
Nobody in Washington told these people it was OK to act this way. But nobody flat out said it was wrong either.

It's as if our leaders have decided civil rights is a non-issue, something they took care of with all that progressive legislation 25 years ago. Certainly, they seem to be saying, it doesn't warrant constant attention like the deficit or other important issues.

So if the black community decides it needs to shout a little louder to be heard on civil rights, we shouldn't run for cover. We ought to be listening, and listening hard.



Pursell misses point of AIDS allocations



Steve Barnaby

AIDS is tough to understand. U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell's attitude about it is even more difficult to comprehend.

I refer to the recent outburst by the Plymouth-based Republican, who warned that we were spending too much on the research for an AIDS cure when other medical research is suffering.

"I think we have to keep our tax dollars in perspective," the veteran lawmaker told a group gathered for the dedication of a mental health care facility in his district.

Pursell is so sure of himself on this issue that he has gathered data and put together a position paper to justify his stand.

THE VETERAN lawmaker notes that federal AIDS funding has increased from $61 million to $1.6 billion in just five years, while only $1.3 billion is allocated for cancer research, a much larger killer of the American public.

Sounds rational on the face of it. But this kind of thinking, if perpetuated, would transform AIDS from a closely monitored epidemic, which it is, into an uncontrolled national disaster.

Considering the lethal nature of AIDS — 100 percent fatality rate — his logic is tough to digest.

He even manages to drag in the national auto fatality rate, a ploy remiscent of Vietnam War days, when hawks attempted to diminish casualty rates by pointing out that more people died in auto crashes than in the war.

But particularly disturbing is his stand that AIDS is a "regional issue," the meaning of which seems to change depending on the occasion. In a recent visit to the Observer & Eccentric offices, Pursell touched on his objection to AIDS funding as an example of the complexities of the legislative system.

Federal spending, he maintained, gets so out of shape because legislators worry about stepping on another lawmaker's regional concerns — such as AIDS, which has hit some parts of the country harder than others.

You know, it's the old "I'll scratch your back if you scratch mine." It has been going on in legislative bodies since the Greeks sat down and invented democracy.

But this week Pursell assistant Gary Cates put another spin to the meaning, saying that his boss was referring to specialized interests in the health care community.

THE NUANCE is important, especially for Pursell, who represents liberal Ann Arbor. If the first meaning stands, Pursell is bound to draw flak.

Maintaining it is a regional problem leaves the connotation AIDS is a problem of California (homosexuals) and New York (drug users), a really dangerous, albeit popular, attitude in more conservative circles.

We have yet to hear from Pursell on the final version of "regional."

In the meantime, AIDS cases continue to multiply in disturbing leaps and bounds. The money behind education and research is the only thing that keeps us from a disaster of unimagined proportions.

Think about it the next time our national legislature votes on funding for some exotic defense system to fight off those bumbling Russkies who, as we've seen of late, are more prone to do more harm to themselves than to anybody else.

Then we will see how the lawmaker keeps our tax dollars in perspective.

Editorial called a 'cheap shot'

To the editor:

No fair! How dare you assume to know what motivates people to support one candidate or another.

According to your editorial of July 20, you indicate that the city's employees are supporting Robert Thomas for self-serving reasons. Talk about a cheap shot!

Maybe these people, who work directly with the present mayor and his administration, are sick and tired of what they see day in and day out.

Maybe, just maybe, they are supporting Robert Thomas because they want to bring honesty and integrity back into Westland's city government.

The people who work for the city know better than you do what is really going on and they desperately need a change. Give the guy a chance.

It makes me wonder what motivated you to write such an editorial!

Laurel Raisanen, Westland

Court ruling is opposed

To the editor:

The U.S. Supreme Court announced June 26 that it had decided, by a 5-4 vote, that the imposition of the death penalty upon 16 and 17 year olds does not violate the Eighth Amendment of the Constitution's ban on "cruel and unusual punishment."

As the chief executive officer of an institution which cares for over 600 children and their families, I wish to register my deep dismay at this decision.

Based on my experience with troubled teenagers, some of whom have been previously involved in very serious criminal activities, I firmly believe that every single youth has the potential of turning his or her life around and becoming a responsible, contributing member of society. To condemn a teenager to death is to profess that for that person, there is no hope for redemption.

In all the world, only a handful of countries allow the execution of minors. In the U.S., the majority of states do not allow it. This country has come to use 18 as the age of adulthood, as the time to gain the right to vote, the duty to serve on a jury and for readiness to assume the full responsibilities of citizenship.

People who are 16 and 17 do not generally have the experience, wisdom and maturity to grasp the full meaning and consequences of their actions. A youth who becomes involved in a serious crime is often a deeply troubled, frightened and confused person. Of course, society needs to be protected from criminals of all ages, but the protection of society does not necessitate the state sanctioned killing of teen-age criminals.

It is my fervent prayer that the people of the U.S., public officials at all levels and all of our judges up to and including the U.S. Supreme Court will carefully re-think this issue in light of the moral and ethical traditions of this country. I am confident that such a re-thinking process will inevitably result in the reversal of the court's truly unfortunate decision.

Brother Francis Boylan

Head injury story lauded

To the editor:

We would like to commend you for the excellent article you wrote on head injury that was printed in the July 6 Observer.

The information in your article was accurate and indicated that you devoted time and effort doing research on head injury before writing the article.

We have received many calls from persons who read your article and wanted to know more about our organization.

One girl who called was really in need of support and information since both of her parents were recently in an auto accident and suffered head injuries.

We were able to ease her burden by letting her know that she was not alone during this traumatic experience.

We are grateful to you for increasing public awareness of head injury.

Thanks for printing the Michigan Head Injury Alliance phone number (1-229-5880). It was a help to many of your readers.

Where's Lucas?

Tim Richard

IT WAS A vintage Bill Lucas performance. He didn't show up.

Lucas is the former Wayne County sheriff and executive who is President Bush's designee for assistant U.S. attorney general for civil rights. The Senate must confirm the appointment, which is in serious trouble.

U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Detroit, favored Lucas on July 19. A day later the founder of the congressional black caucus withdrew his support.

It was a blockbuster announcement, both for national television and the press. There were all sorts of reaction statements, such as Illinois' Paul Simon saying "it obviously hurts the Lucas candidacy — how much I can't quantify."

THE CRUCIAL point was that Lucas wasn't there to defend himself.

Members of his family sat stone-faced in the background, looking sad but tolerant.

Before I began covering Wayne County regularly, I had heard all sorts of bad things about Sheriff Lucas, like the time he chose to take a foreign vacation during budget hearings.

The first time I ever saw him was at a hearing of a county board committee on parks. Someone asked Lucas a question. He sat there and didn't answer. One of the union leaders answered.

There was a second question, but Lucas sat stone-faced.

A third question. A fourth question. For these Lucas pasted a slight smile on his face but otherwise didn't answer.

The union leaders in the Sheriff's Department did all the talking. It was easy to figure out who ran his department.

RUNNING FOR county executive in 1982, Lucas ducked just about every debate. His campaign appearances were just that — appearances without substance.

Once he was executive, the pattern continued. I recall the time he had a major announcement to make about health care. After going through tighter security than Gov. James Blanchard has, we were ushered into Lucas' magnificently appointed conference room with the blue background — a fancier room than Blanchard has.

Lucas came in, read his little announcement and left. His underlings handled the tough questions.

IT WAS QUITE a contrast to attend Oakland County board meetings on Thursday mornings and Wayne County board meetings Thursday afternoons from 1982-86.

In Oakland, County Executive Dan Murphy met with the Republican caucus, then took a seat at board meetings where he could answer questions from commissioners. It was a good technique on Murphy's part because the opposition party was less hostile with the executive present. If Murphy was on vacation, his top staff people were available.

Lucas never attended a committee or board meeting. He rarely sent a responsible aide who could answer commissioners' questions. The only executive staffer was a chubby little man with a tape recorder. Result: Lucas, then a Democrat with a 14-1 Democratic majority on the board, got chewed alive.

IN MY MIND, Lucas' fudging on his job applications is old stuff and minor; ditto his association with gamblers, and no one ever proved anything.

His views on Supreme Court decisions are irrelevant, despite what Conyers said, because Lucas isn't being nominated for the Supreme Court.

Lucas' only qualification is a look of choir-boy dignity. He doesn't know much law and hasn't practiced it. He didn't know the operation of the sheriff's office, he didn't know the operation of the executive's office, and he probably never will learn the operation of the federal civil rights office.

He doesn't know budgeting.

He can't tell you his hopes and dreams, beyond a platitudinous promise to enforce the law, and he can't answer questions about his office's policies.

When the going gets tough, Bill Lucas is gone.

Doc Doyle

Q: My son always waits until the last day and then crams for his tests. Now he is in summer school and I hoped he would not cram for his exam because he is only taking one class. Yet he is getting ready for the final test and again he is cramming. Is there any hope that I can get him to study throughout a semester rather than waiting until the last minute?

A: Probably not.

Cramming seems to be an incurable disease for students from high school through graduate school. Educators have been seeking the cause and cure of this disease for years. Still no breakthrough has been made.

Nevertheless, cramming at the last minute is not the best route for students. Numerous educational studies have been completed on cramming methods or "concentrated learning" and the "distributive learning" method.

Distributive learning is when the student distributes his/her study effort and review over a semester and then does one final review prior to taking an exam. Distributive learning, according to research, does result in a greater ability to achieve on tests.

FEW HUMANS have photographic memories.

Those who do absorb information and have immediate and accurate recall whenever the knowledge is needed. Their minds are like a computer and they can access the brain to produce a picture of what they have learned.

However, this is rare. The extreme would be the savant in the movie "Rain Man," whose memory is beyond human understanding. But for most of us, ongoing review is best.

The average student forgets 50 percent of what was learned one day after an exam. This is called "loss of learning."

However, once something is "learned," it is stored in your mind. This stored information is called "latent learning" because it is can be retrieved by the learner when the need arises.

For instance, many lawyers have a law clerk who will research a particular issue that the lawyer may have faced many times before.

Once the law clerk shares the information with the lawyer, recall will occur from similar cases because the lawyer had the information stored.

MOST PEOPLE still seem to wait until the sweat beads roll off the forehead, when the pressure is on and there is no escape before studying for a test. Visit the editorial department of a newspaper in the final hours before publication.

Could it be part of our society's nature that so many seem to function at maximum only when under pressure? Whatever the cause, cramming is not the best procedure for test taking. Distributing the study and review of material over a period of time is the better choice.

Dr. James Doyle is an assistant superintendent in the Troy School District. The answers provided here are the opinions of Doyle and not the Troy School District. Questions for this column should be sent to Doc Doyle c/o the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Friends' paths cross many times

Judith Doner Berne

THIS IS A COLUMN about friends. Let's call them Jenny and Shelley.

They met in first grade when Jenny moved to West Bloomfield from out-of-state. They went through elementary, middle and high school together — at one point close enough to go away to camp together; at another, latching on to other best friends as they went through the stages of adolescence.

At 16, they celebrated their confirmation at a double ceremony; as seniors in high school, they co-captained the varsity tennis team.

When both decided to attend the University of Michigan, they made a conscious decision not to room together — opting to branch out to room with new people, make new friends.

BUT OF ALL the dormitories at that sprawling university, they somehow ended up in the same one — even on the same floor. So it turned out they made friends with one another's roommates and hallmates, growing closer, not farther apart.

At the end of that freshman year, they gathered some of these new, mutual friends together to take an apartment, later a house for their three remaining years in Ann Arbor. And, here they shared the ups, downs and routine of college life.

As graduation approached, both opted for graduate school.

Shelley applied only to Harvard's School of Education which had the program she wanted to pursue. And she was accepted at the prestigious Boston-area school.

For Jenny, it was applications to at least 10 schools, mostly in the Midwest, to get her master's degree in English. But her best offer turned out to be a teaching fellowship at Northeastern University — guess where.

They celebrated their graduation together at a dinner given by their families. And then, last fall, the two of them packed up their belongings and headed in their U-Haul truck to Boston — once again to share an apartment.

THERE'S MORE.

They had a mutual friend from U-M, who had returned to his Boston roots, and he and Shelley began to date. Then his roommate — his friend since kindergarten — began to date Jenny.

In February, Jon and Jenny became engaged. They will marry next June. Last month, Shelley and her boyfriend, also named Jon, became engaged. They will marry next May.

Two childhood friends marrying two childhood friends. It's happened before and it will undoubtedly happen again.

Nice.

Former U-M regent lived life to the hilt

Longtime Birmingham resident Irene Ellis Murphy, pictured here in 1979, was known throughout the world as a champion for social causes. She died Monday at the age of 89.

By Casey Hans
staff writer

A vigorous woman who devoted herself to many causes, Irene Ellis Murphy stayed involved, whether it was setting up social programs overseas, or in politics and community events.

The 89-year-old Democratic activist and longtime Birmingham resident and businesswoman died Monday morning of kidney failure at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. She most recently lived in Farmington Hills.

Murphy "didn't want a funeral of any kind — she wanted a party," said Sharon Murphy Keyes of Birmingham, her only daughter. Keyes said a memorial service would be planned to include Murphy's many friends and admirers. Murphy donated her body to science.

"Irene lived a life of whirlwind activity and constant service," said U-M Regent Philip Power, chairman of Suburban Communications, which publishes the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. He knew Murphy all his life.

"She was a competent and efficient regent of the U-M and she was an actively engaged member of the Birmingham community — a city which she dearly loved all her life," Philip Power said.

Eugene Power sat on the U-M Board of Regents with Murphy when she served from 1957 to 1966. "She was a very civic-minded, sympathetic individual," he said. "She was progressive, a liberal regent."

SINCE OCTOBER of 1987, Murphy lived at the American House, an independent living retirement residence in Farmington Hills, where she was remembered as being always active. "She was an individual and did her thing," said activities director Carol Hamilton. "She made life very interesting around here."

One American House resident recalled that Murphy would take a taxicab to Troy each Thursday, where she participated in a discussion group with Rabbi Sherwin Wine of the Birmingham Temple, who became a close friend. She also had daily chats with residents after lunch, where she would share stories of her life.

Murphy came from a family of self-proclaimed "revolutionaries." She was born in Indiana, raised as a Methodist, and spent her school years in Detroit and Ann Arbor.

After marrying Harold Murphy, she became involved with the all-encompassing lives of the Irish-Catholic Murphys, which included her brother-in-law Frank Murphy — a judge, mayor of Detroit, governor of Michigan, governor General of the Philippines, U.S. Attorney General and U.S. Supreme Court Justice.

Because of Frank Murphy's association with the Philippine Islands, Irene Murphy spent much time there, where she became involved in the freedom movement and was a major force in developing cottage industry in the 1950s. She also founded Irene Murphy Imports to market the village products manufactured there and earned her living through that company until three years ago, her daughter said.

ALSO IN THE PHILIPPINES, she served as deputy director of war relief for a year in 1945 and was a United Nations social affairs officer there from 1947 through 1950. She stopped going back in 1973 when former ruler Ferdinand Marcos declared martial law.

Murphy maintained that worldly view, offering her home and hospitality to 25 Russian scholars visiting the U.S. in 1961. One of these, Leo Kostikov, had a reunion with Murphy in 1983, recalling his feelings.

"I came to this country absolutely alone, without (speaking the) language," he said. "But Mrs. Murphy very carefully took care of it. She did it in a genteel way. Her house became our home.

"It is because of her that I love this country and understand the people of this country."

Despite her many overseas interests, Murphy was also community-minded.

She worked toward establishing low-income housing for seniors in Birmingham, and was always concerned about the local environment.

She also spent time in local protests in Shain Park in Birmingham and Washington, D.C., earning her a spot in the "Red Squad" files — political surveillance tools used by the Michigan State Police from the 1950s through 1970s.

Madonna gains grants

Madonna College in Livonia has received a $1,500 grant from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation and an outstanding member of the faculty will be recognized later this summer with a $1,000 grant.

The teacher has yet to be named.

The awards are part of the Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award Program sponsored annually by the Foundation. Madonna is one of more than 700 private liberal arts colleges and universities to receive recognition this year.

"Our primary emphasis is on quality teaching, with the student as our central focus," said Sister Mary Francilene, president of Madonna.

Over the past 25 years, the Foundation has provided more than $30 million in annual unrestricted grants to private higher education.

Student drivers: 'On the road again . . .'

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The true sign of summer is usually yellow, sits atop a car and says Student Driver.

Yes, they're back. First-time drivers are out in droves again. Oh sure. You remember the experience.

The white knuckles grip the steering wheel, intense red eyes burn through the windshield and gray hair begins growing on the instructor next to you.

Richard Burlingame can tell you. He has 27 years behind the wheel as a driver's education instructor.

Close calls? Burlingame, who is a counselor at Wayne Memorial High School, rattles them off like a shopping list. And each one is finished by a nervous laugh.

"One of the most frightening moments was awhile ago," said Burlingame. "We were driving in Belleville with a kid in a little Chevette. We could see there was this accident down at the end of the hill. This kid decides to pull into the middle lane without signaling or anything. I look back and there was the truck coming like a bat out of Haiti.

"The truck was jamming the breaks and the trailer fish-tailing all over the place. Finally, it swerved off onto the shoulder. We would've been demolished."

Another nervous laugh.

THE ANECDOTES can be humorous. But driver's education is serious business. Especially considering that the No. 1 cause of death of people between ages 18-24 is the automobile.

Michigan is one of several states that requires a person to complete a driver's education course before receiving an operator's license.

Because of that, the State Board of Education recently released a Driver Education Task Force Report, looking at programs offered in the state.

Some of the recommendations from the report included more recruitment of instructors, the implementation of a three-tier driver's license application, including the return of the road test by the secretary of state, and reimbursing school districts up to 50 percent of the cost of the program.

The state has two provisions for driver's education programs. Students have to spend 30 hours in the classroom and six hours on the road.

Or, it can receive permission to implement a competency-based program. A student can be passed, if he or she completes the course objectives.

The competency-based option came into effect in 1980, partly to offset the financial crunch many school districts were under.

NO DATA is available to find whether competency-based programs might have an effect on the number of accidents. Those close to driver's education think it might have some impact.

"I have mixed feelings about it," said Gerald Ockert, who is a driver's education consultant for the Michigan State Board of Education. "I truly believe in competency-based programs, if there are ethical testing practices. I suspect that may not be happening in some places."

That doesn't appear to be a problem in Wayne-Westland, where a competency-based program exists. Students have to successfully complete 67 objectives to receive a permit.

They spend three weeks in the classroom, behind the wheel and, unlike many public school and private schools, there is simulation.

Simulators recreate driving situations by using a film and a model of a car. Through a computer, students are graded on their reactions.

"Simulation is an excellent experience for the students because there they can duplicate situations that they would not be able duplicate on the road," said Mike Holuta, a supervisor for driver's education of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

Instructors stress to students that driving is as much an attitude that it is a skill.

THE ATTITUDE of the students is what keeps driving instructors doing what they do. Many say the eagerness of kids getting that license makes for an ideal teaching environment.

"The attitude — because they want that driver's license — is different than it is in the regular classroom," said Kenneth Knick, a driver's instructor for Wayne-Westland Schools. "They start classes here at 6 in the morning and they're never late or tardy."

Nonetheless, it requires a special special person to step into a car with three teenagers who don't know how to drive.

"Well," Burlingame said, "you can't be too nervous or real uptight. We had this one guy, I don't how he did it. He used to smoke a couple of packs of cigarettes a day. You have to relate well to kids."

Another nervous laugh.

Spacing indicates writer has organizational skills

Lorene Green

Dear Ms. Green,

I was most interested in the newspaper article "Writing reveals traits." Graphology sounds like a fascinating subject, and I should like to know a little more about it. Do you ever have to tell people terrible things about themselves? Most of the analyses that I have read seem to be so flattering.

M.P.,
Farmington

Dear M.P.,

Before analyzing your handwriting, I'll answer your interesting questions. For my newspaper columns, I choose not to feature handwritings which suggest serious problems. And in the handwritings I select, I try to accentuate the positive traits. I personally feel encouragement is more helpful than criticism.

The spacing of your handwriting tells me you are a woman with good organizational skills. You are also observant and have an awareness for details.

You are a self-starter and use your time efficiently. I can almost hear you saying "Time is money." On the job, you are orderly and do not rely on someone else to set the pace. You are clearly able to see what is purposeful and do not clutter your mind with the inconsequential. You are not uncomfortable working alone.

Your creative and intellectual abilities come into focus as you work. Once you have arrived at a decision, you move right on to the next task.

MANY OF your goals are set high and necessitate challenge on your part. At the time you wrote this letter, you were either feeling tired or possibly a tad depressed. So the optimism I see regarding your goals may sound paradoxical. However, I suspect the down feelings are a temporary condition.

In interpersonal relationships, you are usually direct and frank. You probably enjoy a meaningful discussion. However, keeping a confidence may be a bit of a challenge at times.

You tend to maintain distance between yourself and others. And do not seek emotional involvement. Seemingly, you are able to make conscious selections as to how and with whom you wish to spend your time. A meaningful cliche for you may be "Charity begins at home."

You are acquainted with some of the finer things of life. And I also think you would find pleasure in the beauties of nature. Incidentally, do you enjoy singing?

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, date of birth and handedness are all helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome.

Disabilities seminar stresses 'making it'

People with developmental disabilities will learn how to have more power over their lives at a "We're Making It on Our Own" conference Saturday-Sunday, July 29-30, at Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia.

Eighteen workshops are being offered on topics like voting, getting a better job and having equal access to housing. A fashion show, featuring conference participants, will be held noon Saturday.

Greg Kelser, former basketball player for the Detroit Pistons and Michigan State Spartans and currently sports commentator for the Pistons, will be the keynote speaker.

The conference is the only statewide event intended for people with developmental disabilities rather than the professionals who serve them. Developmental disabilities include mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, autism and related conditions.

"People with developmental disabilities want to improve those skills which help them become more independent," conference planner Madeline Mills said. "This conference is an example of their quest to have more influence on their own lives."

The conference is sponsored by the Interdependent Living Council of Michigan. For more information, call Sally Harrison or John Sigworth at 455-8880.

Couples help couples with family planning

By Mary Rodrique
staff writer

Claire Mueller first heard about the Couple to Couple League after the birth of her first child.

The organization advocates natural family planning and promises far more accuracy than the old rhythm method. That sounded good to Mueller and her husband, John.

Soon, the Canton Township couple was taking the Couple to Couple course in Ann Arbor. That was 1982.

Today the Muellers are one of two metro Detroit area couples teaching the method to other married or engaged couples. The other couple, Jim and Carol Birch, live in St. Clair Shores.

"It's not officially affiliated with the Catholic Church," Claire Mueller said, "but we are recognized in the Archdiocese of Detroit."

The Muellers have taught sessions at Sacred Heart Church in Dearborn and St. Thomas a' Becket Church in Canton Township. Their last class drew 20 couples.

"It's perfectly natural," Mueller said. "There are no side effects like the pill or IUD. Barrier methods are also undesirable because you lose spontaneity.

'Another reason couples take the class is a desire for pregnancy. A lot of couples are starting families later and some are having fertility problems. We can help with that, too.'

— Claire Mueller

SO WHAT is the secret of the Couple to Couple League?

"We teach the sympto thermo method. A woman checks her cervix, mucous and temperature for signs of fertility," she said. "The rhythm method looked at past cycles and estimated ovulation on that basis, which was often inaccurate.

"We look at current symptoms. With rhythm, you had about 85 percent accuracy. With the sympto thermo method, it's 99 percent effective, similar to the pill. This is based on scientific studies."

The international organization was founded in 1971 by Minnesota couple John and Sheila Kippley. Dr. Conald Prem, chief of obstetrics/gynecology at the University of Minnesota and a student of fertility cycles since the 1960s, acted as medical advisor.

"John and Sheila taught other couples, who in turn taught other couples. There are thousands (practicing the method) today," Mueller said. "There are more than 800 teaching couples."

The Muellers have been teaching for 18 months. The class runs four two-hour sessions. Price is $25 for the course, plus $20 for thermometer, booklets and manual.

"The course includes a subscription to the Family Foundation newsletter," she added.

Mueller said another method of natural birth control is the Billings method, which monitors ovulation by mucous signs only.

"BUT THE three signs together — mucous, temperature and cervix — is far more effective," said Mueller, who is the mother of three children.

"Another reason couples take the class is a desire for pregnancy," she said. "A lot of couples are starting families later and some are having fertility problems. We can help with that, too."

Married and engaged couples can attend the next series of classes beginning this month at St. Thomas a' Becket on Lilly Road., south of Cherry Hill. The class continues through Sept. 10. Private counseling also will be available.

For more information or preregistration, call John and Claire Mueller at 981-0750.

Flexible options work for child care

Marcie Walker

Two child-care related benefits have been steadily growing in popularity throughout Michigan and the U.S. — flexible benefit plans and flexible spending accounts.

The flexible or "cafeteria-style" benefit plan is one in which the employer provides a master benefit menu and the employee selects the options that correspond to his individual needs.

This plan, tailored to the size and needs of each company, usually includes such options as medical, dental, life insurance, retirement savings, dependent/child care and other options. Often, employees receive cash or credit for unneeded benefits.

The child care portion of such a plan is often in the form of a voucher with which the company pays a percentage of the employee's child-care cost or employer-sponsored discounts in certain child-care programs.

ANOTHER popular option, provided either as part of the cafeteria plan or separately, is the flexible spending account (FSA).

The FSA is a plan in which employees designate pre-tax dollars for dependent care. Thus, employees receive additional financial assistance for day care, latch key programs or for caring for a sick or elderly dependent.

Many companies that cannot afford to offer comprehensive flexible benefits do offer this as an independent benefit.

Here's how the FSA works.

At the start of each year, the employee estimates his dependent care costs for the next 12 months, up to a maximum of $5,000.

The amount is then deducted in equal amounts from his paycheck before taxes. He is required to provide documentation for these costs during the course of the year.

Most companies provide annual reimbursements, although some do so at regular intervals throughout the year.

FSA's do have several limitations. Eligible dependents are children under age 15 and adults who spend at least eight hours a day in your home.

THE MONEY set aside in the FSA must be carefuly estimated, since the IRS has a "use-it-or-lose-it" policy.

Thus, the employee would forfeit unused funds to his employer at the end of the year.

Those using the maximum of $5,000 in an FSA are not eligible for the child-care tax credit (maximum of $4,800 for two or more dependents).

Despite these restrictions, using an FSA will result in significant savings, depending on one's tax bracket. However, some lower-paid employees would actually benefit more from the federal tax credit.

Therefore, it would be advisable to consult with a company benefits coordinator prior to enrollment in this plan.

Lindsey is a 5-year-old diabetic. Her daily insulin shots, diet restrictions and constant blood monitoring only provide day-to-day control over the disease. They do not cure it. So Lindsey, along with 11 million other Americans, still faces the long-term risks of diabetes — like heart disease, blindness, stroke, amputation and kidney disease. The complications of diabetes will account for an estimated 150,000 deaths this year alone.

But thanks to your contributions to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, Lindsey and millions like her have something more to look forward to. In the past decade, JDF research has made great strides in isolating the causes and conditions of diabetes, bringing us closer to a cure. At the same time, diabetes increases by 6% every year. And in ten years the number of diabetics will have doubled.

So you see, your help is needed more desperately than ever before. For more information on the warning signs of diabetes and its treatment, and what you can do to help, call JDF at (313) 569-6171.

Commandments need to be followed moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

When the Reader's Digest announced that it had condensed the Bible to 60 percent of its original length, one wit said that he was eager to see which four commandments we don't have to worry about anymore.

In our time, we should worry about all of the Ten Commandments more than ever before. The contemporary attitude does not strongly support the observance of these time-hallowed precepts.

Up until modern times, there was little controversy about the validity of the divine commands. True, there were those who rejected God's dictates, but they were prepared to accept the consequences. Because the Almighty was regarded as the Absolute Authority, He had the right to command that we abide by His moral code.

Then the mood of modern man changed this traditional conception. Sophisticated and educated people questioned whether God or anyone, for that matter, could issue commands without our veto.

They preferred to replace the Ten Commandments with 10 suggestions. Let the individual decide for himself if he wants to follow the Biblical code, or any code for that matter.

These modernists brought up their children in the same atmosphere of relativism. These would not command them to do anything. They would only suggest and employ gentle persuasion at best.

These elders remembered only too well that when they were told that God commanded, or when their parents imposed prescribed behavior, they resented the restrictions and promised themselves they would do nothing more than suggest without being authoritative.

THEY WOULD want their children to enjoy freedom and latitude in making up their own minds on moral issues. This, they believe, is how true respect is gained.

Unfortunately, the results have not been altogether encouraging. Those who grow up without clearly defined rules and respect for authority encounter great difficulty. Some become delinquent, others do not internalize standards of right and wrong. Many are confused, lacking clearly defined goals and a sense of discipline.

Meanwhile, the statistics on crime and violence continue to mount in all the countries of free world. The streets of our major cities are no longer considered safe as night falls. Fear has become a way of life for those who live in the deteriorating sections of America's urban cities.

In recent months, I have found myself, non-plussed as I listen to friends and neighbors talk animatedly about the comparative merits of various alarm systems, particularly when the speaker climaxes his conversation by ruefully telling how he was raiding his refrigerator when the police raided his house. He had forgotten to turn off a motion detector device before he came downstairs.

To live in dread of authority and its demand can cripple the mind and stunt the spirit. By the same token, to live without any fear of external authority, to ignore the consequences of disobedience and normlessness, to establish oneself and one's desire as the sole arbiter for right and wrong can be equally destructive.

I offer you this parable of our times.

It seems that in the year 2000, the world was still in a state of war, violence in the streets, increased crime and widespread upheaval. The greatest scientists of the world met at the United Nations. They were enthralled with a new computer recently created that could answer any questions submitted it, even questions relating to complex human problems.

These scientists were summoned to request an answer from this giant computer on how to find a solution for peace, for a decrease of violence, for the elimination of corruption, stealing and murder.

After days of assembling the proper material to feed the computer, the moment had come to receive an answer which would bring stability to the world. Scientists carefully programmed the information into the computer and waited for the answer.

The vast machine began to sputter and the tape gradually emerged. All the scientists gathered around and began to read the print-out message to the assembled world leaders: "I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt . . . Thou shalt not murder . . . Thou shalt not steal . . . Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Rabbi Irwin Groner is with Congregation Shaarey Zedek in Southfield.

Area Lutherans debate key issues at convention

Local Lutherans were among the 1,100 voting delegates who attended the 57th regular convention of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod recently in Wichita, Kan. The LCMS has 2.6 million members in 6,000-plus congregations.

Lay delegate Richard Castle Sr., a member of Salem Lutheran Church in Westland, and pastoral delegate the Rev. Glenn Kopper, pastor of Hosannah-Tabor Lutheran Church in Redford, voted on resolutions and elected top officials of North America's second-largest Lutheran body.

Delegates elected Ralph Bohlmann of St. Louis, Mo., to his fourth term as president, and August Mennicke, also of St. Louis, to his second term as first vice president. Other vice presidents elected were Robert King, Freedom, Mo., second vice president; Robert Sauer, St. Charles, Mo., third vice president; Eugene Bunkowske, Fort Wayne, Ind., fourth vice president; and Walter Maier, Fort Wayne, Ind., fifth vice president.

Other issues addressed at the convention included:

- As the first major U.S. church body to meet in convention since the announcement of the Supreme Court's decision in Webster vs Reproductive Health Services, delegates welcomed that decision reaffirming the church body's long-standing pro-life position.
- Delegates agreed to evaluate the church's name in view of its worldwide mission emphasis.
- The convention sanctioned the use of lay workers to perform pastoral functions.

Unions seek bigger share of city contracts

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

In an effort to capture a "fair share" of city contracts, organized labor is mounting a "prevailing wage" campaign aimed at city governments that annually let millions of dollars in public works contracts, normally to the lowest bidder.

Too often, union officials say, low bids come in at slim margins of less than 3 percent, awarded to contractors who fail to pay prevailing wages set by the state.

Federal and state projects are bound by prevailing wage requirements, but a relatively small number of city contracts are not, such as projects financed by the sale of bonds or certain state taxes.

RESPONDING TO the campaign, some suburban governments are considering ordinances requiring prevailing wages in all future city contracts.

"Calling for this puts union contractors on an equal basis with non-union contractors in the bidding process. That's all we ask: fairness," said Norm Wood of the Greater Detroit Building and Construction Trades Council, which represents 21 crafts in Wayne, Oakland and four other counties.

Eventually, every community within a 10-mile radius of Detroit will be asked to consider similar legislation. Warren, Romulus and Dearborn Heights have already been approached. Taylor is next, according to Wood, who said communities thought to be most supportive have been targeted first.

"THE LOWEST qualified bidder always has our consideration," said Neall Schroeder, director of the Troy Department of Engineering.

If the low bidder's work is unfamiliar to city engineers, background checks are conducted.

"If their work is acceptable, we go with that," Schroeder said.

He said he is unaware what firms are union-affiliated because such information is not part of the bidding process.

Last year, the department awarded 14 contracts amounting to $3.3 million, including the installation of water, sewer and storm systems and new road and sidewalk construction.

OF THE CITY'S total awards in 1988, only two projects totaling $1.07 million did not contain prevailing wage provisions, including a $900,000 residential paving contract let to Peake Contracting in Utica.

Peake is a "partially union" firm that has also completed city projects in Rochester and Rochester Hills, according to owner Kendrick Peake. Such contracts constitute nearly 70 percent of his work.

Peake uses union laborers and non-union truckers and operating engineers who, he said, "deserve the best wages they can get."

If prevailing wage requirements are adopted in all future city contracts, Peake will continue to seek the work because "I won't have much of a choice." But bidding figures will reflect increased office costs resulting from paperwork required by state verification procedures, he said.

TROY'S POLICIES in letting contracts to the lowest bidder are typical of most suburban communities.

An exception is Plymouth Township. Community contractors receive preferential treatment, awarded bids if they fall within 5 percent of a low bidder from out of town, according to township clerk Esther Hulsing.

The prevailing wage campaign is aimed at a continuing "strong union presence" in the suburbs, according to Gary Powell of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 324, in Livonia.

"The time for decisive action is now, before the small foot in the door by non-union contractors becomes a big problem in the future," Powell said.

He said that "gigantic chunks of money are involved," and that "municipal budgets have grown and flowered over the years."

BASED ON Dodge Construction Potentials figures published annually by McGraw Hill Information Systems, in 1988 approximately $1 billion was spent on public projects in Wayne and Oakland counties, including new highways, street improvements and the installation and maintenance of utilities.

Union officials regularly monitor Dodge figures and estimate organized labor receives 75 percent of this work.

Another $2 billion was spent last year on residential and commercial projects in both counties, including an estimated $800 million in Wayne and the remainder in Oakland. Of the total, union officials estimate 60 percent of the work is union.

AND BASED on existing figures, those jobs employing organized craftsmen pay their employees nearly double the amount paid non-union counterparts.

As of June 1, for example, unionized operating engineers in the metropolitan area earn $18.22 hourly, plus vacation, health and retirement benefits amounting to another $7.50 an hour.

In contrast, non-union engineers in Michigan average $12.06 for heavy equipment and $10.27 an hour for light equipment. They receive few or no benefits, according to wage and salary consultant Jeff Robinson of the Ann Arbor-based Pas Inc., a firm that monitors non-union wages and salaries throughout the country.

In public projects that call for prevailing wage, Bureau of Employment Standards officers certify rate of pay and investigate complaints it is not being paid.

UNION WAGES serve as the basis for establishing prevailing wage in Michigan, a formula based on state regulations, according to Lloyd Kraft, an analyst with the Bureau of Employment Standards in the state's Department of Labor.

"Prevailing wage is persuant to collective bargaining agreements in a given area," Kraft said.

Rates for building trades are set each Oct. 1. Rates for road employees are set each July 1.

In public projects that call for prevailing wage, bureau officers certify rate of pay and investigate complaints it is not being paid. Last year, the agency received 150 complaints, constituting "a very small portion of our overall enforcement efforts," Kraft said. Those found in violation must make restitution to employees.

IN ADDITION to wage variations, duties also differ on union and non-union jobs, according to Forrest Henry of the Detroit-based Associated General Contractors, members of which are union firms primarily in Wayne and Oakland counties.

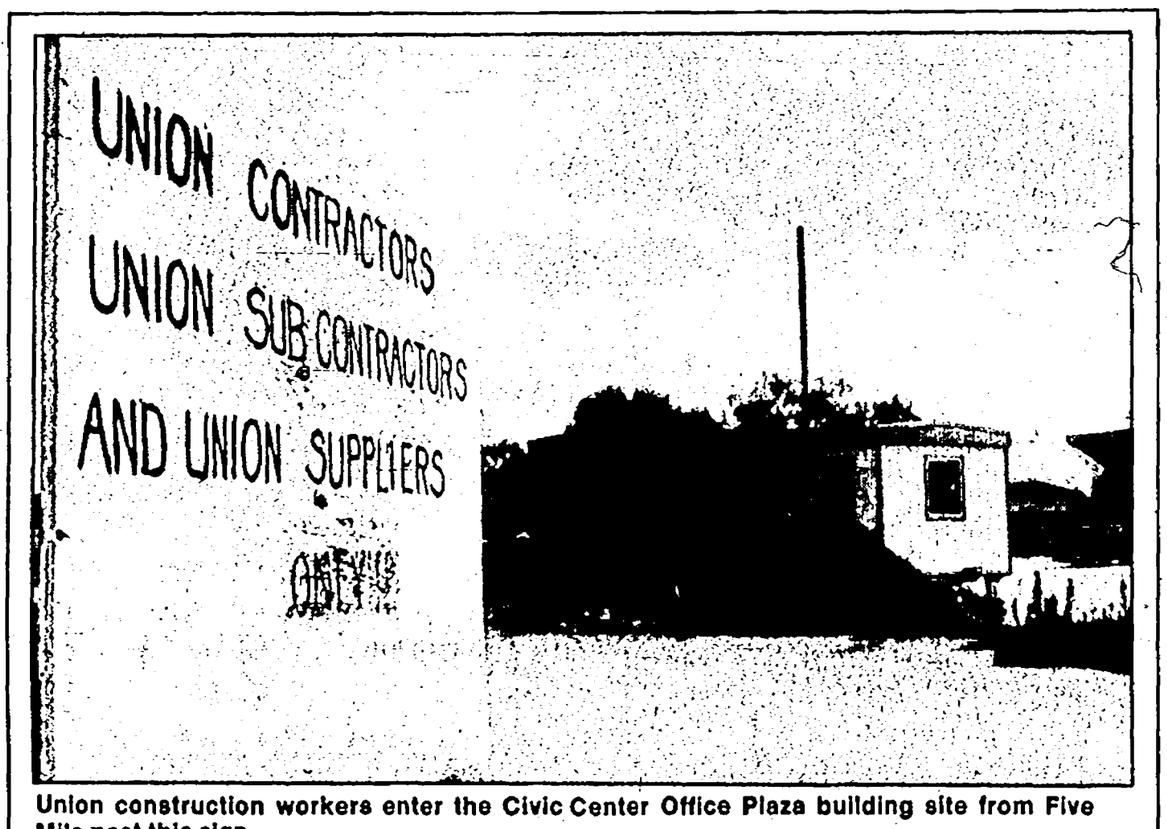
To increase efficiency, non-union craftsmen "cross jurisdictional lines. Someone with a hammer also paints," Henry said, a practice strictly curtailed on union jobs.

Union efficiency, he said, is based on training, apprenticeship programs that include classroom and on-the-job training.

"The more training a person has, the more productive. The higher skilled, the more able," Henry said.

Powell of the operating engineers agrees.

"The one thing we have to sell is proficiency and efficiency. The great thing about union wages is people can afford to live in the communities they build."



Union construction workers enter the Civic Center Office Plaza building site from Five Mile past this sign.

Non-union workers enter off Westmore at the back of the development. If either entrance is "tainted," new entrances will have to be erected.

A tale of 2 entrances

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Working under a unique arrangement, union and non-union craftsmen labor side by side on the Civic Center Office Plaza, a $3 million development by Hart & Leidal Investment Co. at the corner of Five Mile and Farmington roads in Livonia.

Craftsmen enter the project by two entrances erected following a short strike last month by members of the Glaziers Architectural Metal Glass Workers, Local 357, in Hazel Park.

Union employees enter the project from Five Mile Road past a sign authorizing "union only." Non-union workers enter off Westmore at the back of the development.

"Everyone here seems to be working together all right," said Jack Hart who, with partner Don Leidal, has subcontracted the development to four union and seven non-union firms. The two gates were erected on the advice of attorneys.

But Michael Clem of Local 357 sees the situation differently.

"THIS IS A cancer and if it gets a foothold, there will be no more unions in this city," Clem said.

Glassworkers struck, accusing Weiss Brothers Glass, a former union company that is now an open shop, of not paying prevailing wages. Weiss Brothers was subcontracted to install glass on the project.

Pickets were called off the job, according to Clem, because "the contractor threatened a court injunction, there was absolutely no support from the other trades, and the (non-union) gate was so obscure, nobody even knew we were there." Costs did not justify a continuing strike, he said.

Double-gate entry was designed years ago to permit union and non-union craftsmen on the same job, according to Hart. One party cannot enter by the gate of the other. Otherwise, it becomes "tainted" and a new gate must be erected.

In addition to Weiss Brothers, other subcontractors on the job include Hart and Leidal's own masonry firm, a union shop named Leidal & Hart Mason Contractors. Other union firms include Nagle Painting, Otis Elevator and Rabaut Plumbing.

Non-union firms include McSweeney Electric, McGarryf Painting, R.E. Graham Roofing, American Sprinklers, Carnwath & Son Excavating and Don & Son Heating and Cooling.

When subcontracting a job, "you take the lowest bid out there. It's the same as when you grocery shop. You buy the best priced groceries," Hart said. "Everyone has the right to work."

"Unions," Clem countered, "may not be perfect, but they're better than the alternative."

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

Here's portfolio for new investor

I am 36 years old. I have a job I am happy with that pays me well above the average wage. I do not have a husband and anticipate I will be providing for my own future. I have a condominium I am buying. I own some stock and understand how stock values fluctuate. I have confidence that stock investments are likely to move ahead better than inflation and would like to use them in building my future. I'd appreciate it if you would suggest a portfolio that I could start building with.

In your case, you seem to be well established and able to handle the fluctuations that occur in stock values. To begin with, I'm going to suggest eight growth companies. You didn't tell me how much money you have to start with, but you could start with $500 of each, or $1,000 or more of each if you have the money.

These companies do not pay a lot in dividends, but I would suggest you reinvest the dividends as you receive them either in these companies or others.

COOPER INDUSTRIES has an excellent record of growth. It has an number of products serving industrial, electrical and construction markets. It also is a supplier to the oil fields and should profit when that business returns to prosperity. The management has an excellent record. The company earned $2.21 a share in 1988 and if the past growth rate continues, it could earn more than $4 a share in 1993. That could double today's prices.

DUN & Bradstreet has grown at 12 percent a year for a long time and seems likely to continue growing at about that rate. It has been a little unpopular lately because of some problems with sales personnel, but the company seems to have moved promptly to clear up that problem. The company probably will not grow as fast as Cooper, but its progress should be steady.

HILLENBRAND Industries is the nation's biggest casket maker, but it also does well in luggage, hospital beds and locks. The company has produced at a 13-percent annual increase in shareholder values.

ANOTHER COMPANY you may not have heard of is Lawson Products. It grows at about 15 percent a year. It is a warehousing and selling organization supplying replacement parts for industrial machines. It earned $1.41 a share in 1988 and if recent progress continues it could earn $2.85 by 1993. The company has been pretty much depression-proof in the past.

A FIFTH company for your portfolio is Masco Corp. It has had a reputation almost for a lifetime as a top-quality growth company. It should be an excellent long-term holding.

FOR PARTICIPATION in high-tech, try Molex. It gets an occasional cyclical interruption but maintains progress over time at about 18 percent a year.

Rally is worrying

By Sid Mittra
special writer

We are used to dealing with actual dollars we receive from a bond investment. Converted as a percentage of the total investment, the rate of return gives us the basis for comparing a bond's return with other comparable market investment.

For example, if I invest $1,000 in a bond and receive $80 every year, my return is 8 percent (80/1,000 times 100). This is called the nominal return.

If I adjust it for inflation, which is running at say, 5 percent a year, my real rate of return, or inflation-adjusted rate of return, is just 3 percent (8 percent minus 5 percent).

The accompanying chart, prepared by Kleinwort Benson Government Securities Inc., shows the nominal as well as the real, or inflation-adjusted, yield on 30-year treasury bonds for the period 1981-89.

Notice that even though the nominal rate was as high as 13 percent at the beginning of 1981 and around 9 percent in May of 1989, the respective real rates on those two occasions were only 3.9 percent and 4.3 percent.

In fact, the real rates now have dropped to their lowest levels since 1982.

It is rather worrisome that despite significant drops in inflation-adjusted yields on long-term bonds, presumably because of high (9 percent) nominal returns, investors have been snapping up long-term bonds, contributing to the bond market's current rally.

I am not implying that investment in long-term government bonds is bad; in fact, depending upon individual circumstances, it can be an attractive addition to a diversified portfolio.

However, caution should be exercised before making a decision to invest in fixed income securities.

Say yes to county CES

Terry Gibb

Q. I spotted a strange bug in my garden. Can you identify it for me?
Q. What is the best method to can tomatoes?
Q. How can I stretch my budget on a limited, low income?
Q. Are there programs available to help my 13-year-old to cope with peer pressure?

Readers: What do all of these questions have in common? They can all be answered by contacting the same county agency. Answers to these questions — plus a whole lot more — is available at your county Cooperative Extension Service (CES).

I recently spent an afternoon at the Macomb County Cooperative Extension Service office and I'm always amazed at the depth and variety of topics they have information on.

The CES staff in your county works through Michigan State University to design and conduct educational programs and provide information assistance in the areas of agriculture, home economics, 4-H youth development, natural resources and public policy and food and nutrition.

Their knowledge and expertise are offered through demonstrations, workshops, seminars, on-site tours, news articles, bulletins and fact sheets.

HOME ECONOMICS:

The Home Economic program offers help to families in identifying their needs and education to improve their quality of life at home and in the community. Some programs in the Home Ec. area include the Master Canner, Household Pest Management, Karing Kids, Managing Finances, The Food Information Hotline, Communications/ Human Development, Nutrition Education and EFNEP.

EFNEP is a program designed to teach low-income families basic nutrition, buying and preparation skills, meal planning and budgeting on a one-to-one or small group setting.

AGRICULTURE AND MARKETING:

The agriculture and marketing programs provide information and consultation for all areas of agricultural enterprise. These programs include the Master Gardener Program, the Gardening Hotline, Farm Fresh Produce Listing, Soil Testing, Farm Management and Identification of Household Pests, Plants and Weeds.

4-H YOUTH PROGRAM:

The 4-H Youth program is a learn-by-doing education program for children, 6-19, and their families designed to meet the needs of today's youth. These programs include the 4-H Club, 4-H School Programs and special programs in Leader Training.

NATURAL RESOURCES AND PUBLIC POLICY (NR/PP):

NR/PP offers information and education in many areas, such as tourism, water quality, public affairs, Great Lakes, forestry, solid and hazardous waste management and environmental quality.

This list is just a sample of the many topics CES can provide to you just by stopping by their office or calling to request a Publications Catalog. Much of their printed material is free for single titles.

They also have the Teletip Service. Teletip is 350 taped messages on a host of practical tips, including canning, gardening, insects and pests and food safety.

So, don't wonder any longer. Contact your county Cooperative Extension Service and get the latest information on everything from A to Z.

The Consumer Mailbag answers your questions. Address mail to The Consumer Mailbag, Concern Detroit, One Kennedy Square, 4th Floor, Detroit, 48226.

Upstart Walter's only 1 away

Duffy's ousts Caesars, meets Hines Park next

By Dan O'Meara and Brad Emons
staff writers

Walter's Home Appliance established itself as the team to beat in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoffs Wednesday with a 9-3 upset of regular-season champ Hines Parks Lincoln-Mercury.

In a night of surprises, Walter's continued its post-season surge behind the pitching of Joe Mackiewicz and Steve Owens, while Duffy's Plumbing ended Little Caesars' season, 4-3, in the first game.

Duffy's and Hines Park play at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Ford Field, and the winner of that game takes on Walter's at 8 p.m. Walter's can earn its first trip to All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament in Johnstown, Pa., with a win, but a Walter's defeat would force a second game at 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

"We have one to go," Walter's coach Mike Keller said. "We're on an upswing. We're playing good ball right now and hope to continue for one more ballgame. With this ballclub, it's been a team effort."

Keller was especially pleased with the performances of Mackiewicz, who scattered six hits over 6⅓ innings for the victory, and Storm, who threw 2⅔ innings of shutout relief.

Mackiewicz departed with one out in the seventh after loading the bases on back-to-back walks, but Storm, entering with a 6-3 lead, struck out John Bonham and retired Chris Sisler on a flyout.

Walter's set the table early when it jumped on Hines Park ace Derek Darkowski for a 4-0 lead in the second inning. Tim Crabtree, Ken Dropiewski and Jeff Pendell — who was 3-for-5 and had a pair of doubles — produced RBI singles, and Crabtree stole home when Darkowski, the Michigan State University hurler, attempted a pickoff at first base.

"Derek has pitched a lot of innings this summer, so we thought if we got to him early he'd get taken out," Keller said. "We didn't think he'd stay in there as long as he did."

Darkowski, who took the loss after allowing 10 hits, six walks and eight runs in 7⅔ innings, left after Walter's mounted a one-out rally in the eighth. Marty Wolfe's RBI single chased Darkowski, but John Gotts greeted reliever Dennis Szczechowski with another RBI single that made it 8-3.

Gotts and Crabtree had two hits apiece, and Rick Rutledge scored three runs. Hines Park's Joel Riggs tripled in a run and stole home for the second straight game, and Jeremy Krol's RBI double made it 4-3 in the fourth.

"At the end, Derek was getting tired, and Walter's is on top of its game right now," Hines Park coach Dave Racer said.

"We lost a ball in the lights and had a bad hop at second that was a routine double-play ball. Those are just bad breaks. I think the boys will be ready to play (Friday).

"We're fine pitching wise. We've got guys — (Mike) Sulak and (Bill) Bannon — we haven't even used, and Bob Files and Brett Loomis are ready to go," he added.

John Storm went seven innings and scattered eight hits to win the first game for Duffy's. Steve Young pitched the last two innings for a save, striking out the league's top hitter, Art George, to end the game.

The big inning for Duffy's was a three-run fourth. Mike Siwajek's fielder's choice scored the first run, and two more came in when Lee Tappy's line drive caromed off the glove of third baseman Chris Kloc.

Duffy's accomplished its victory with only three hits, two by Todd Fracassi, but the team has been on the side of that coin, too.

Shortstop Steve Malgay collected three hits in a losing cause.

"We've been on the short end all year," coach Rey Fracassi said. "This time we happened to be on the long end of the string. We got what we had coming, because we had to bite the bitter pill all year."

Losing pitcher Ron Kurlinski allowed one hit in three-plus innings, but he walked 10. Duffy's had the bases loaded in three straight innings, and Mike Kaczmarek scored the first run on an RBI walk.

"They don't run so I thought (Kurlinski) was the best pitcher to throw because he walks people," Caesars coach John Moraitis said. "If he has a good game, he's tough. If gets the ball over, nobody hits him.

"Kloc makes 'em backhanded," he added, "but that went right through his glove. These kids aren't pros and I'm not putting them down for it, but I'm saying we had an opportunity to get out of the (fourth) inning."

THE UPSETS started Sunday during first-round play as Walter's took seven innings to mercy Caesars, 15-5.

Caesars couldn't hold a 4-1 lead as Walter's stormed back behind the bats of Joe Sturtz, who was 4-for-4 with four RBI.

Pendell added a double, triple and four RBI, while Wolfe, Dave Houghtby and Crabtree each contributed two hits. Gotts and Crabtree each added two RBI.

Malgay paced Caesars with three hits, while Tim Napier added two.

Randy Buchler, who as a freshman from Hillsdale College was named Great Lakes Conference pitcher of the year, went seven strong innings, allowing just five hits while fanning nine.

Kloc, the Caesars starter, took the loss.

In the second game, Brett Loomis pitched six strong innings of relief as Hines Park held off Duffy's, 8-6.

Szczechowski earned the save.

Hines Park won despite being outhit 14-7.

Riggs led the winners by going 3-for-4 with three RBI. He ignited a three-run sixth by stealing one his three bases on the day.

Teammate Sisler added two hits and three RBI.

Ted Shymanski, meanwhile, was nearly a one-man wrecking crew for Duffy's, collecting four hits and two RBI. Steve Michelz went 3-for-6 and Crespi went 2-for-2 with an RBI.

Pride of Garden City returning to old form

By Brad Emons
staff writer

JERI CAMPBELL NEVER GETS too far away from figure skating.

A visit late Tuesday afternoon to her Garden City home can attest to that.

Even in a hot and humid living room, Campbell couldn't pry her eyes away from the movie "Skate!," shown on the Lifetime Television (cable) Network. The story chronicles the ups and downs of a young Canadian girl who competes on a national level.

"The movie is realistic to her," said Geri's mother Marilyn.

"The discipline is a lot like my life, but I'd never hit my coach," counters Jeri. "And I certainly wouldn't kiss my coach."

The young Canadian girl, tired of her marine-style regimen, reaches the breaking point, revolting against her dictatorial coach.

"After 13 years you get used it . . . every skater says 'I quit' when you have a bad day, but never take it that seriously," adds Jeri. "I had a coach like that. We just didn't click. That's why I changed coaches."

CAMPBELL, only 18, is far from quitting despite a setback in 1989 when torn ligaments in her right foot forced her to withdraw during the middle of the U.S. Women's Figure Skating Championships held earlier this year in Baltimore.

The 1987 U.S. Junior champion and alternate on the '88 Olympic squad, Campbell was expected to challenge for a berth on the U.S. World Team.

But the injury forced her to watch from the sidelines as Jill Trenary and Kristi Yamaguchi grabbed the headlines.

"Missing my sixth nationals was hard," Campbell said. "It (the injury) set me back for last year and it kind of hurt, but not for this year. I'm completely healthy and feel strong."

Campbell bypassed the U.S. Olympic Festival in Oklahoma City, Okla. to concentrate on "The Invitationals," another major event coming up in two weeks near Los Angeles.

Jeri Campbell on comeback trail

But meanwhile, Yamaguchi continues to ring up the endorsements of the electronic and print media, which has made her the new darling of the skating world.

"MISSING THE Festival was not a big deal and it's not going to affect my ranking that much," said Campbell. "It doesn't bother me (the hoopla surrounding Yamaguchi). They always find somebody to build up. I've competed against her before. They do it every year with somebody."

She stays close despite a demanding training schedule that keeps her nearly year-round at the breath-taking Ice Castle International Training Center in Lake Arrowhead, Calif., located in the 8,000-feet elevation of the San Bernadino Mountains, just west of Los Angeles.

Because of her injury, Campbell was home for several weeks in the spring. She resumed her workouts before returning home again for a visit this week.

"I enjoy her (Barski) a lot," Campbell said. "Since I've been home I've been skating and visiting with friends that I haven't seen in long time."

Finished with high school correspondence courses, Campbell focuses all of her attention on becoming a better skater.

"I needed work on my jumps, technique and consistency," she said. "If I skate well, the judges will give me the place I deserve. They're not going to give it to me unless I skate up to my capabilities. I'm going to have to reassert myself."

"The Invitationals" will be Campbell's first step back in catching up to the likes of Trenary and Yamaguchi.

"They will be taking the top three instead of two (from the U.S.) to the Worlds because Jill Trenary earned a medal last year," Campbell said. "I'd like to be in the top four."

CAMPBELL'S ULTIMATE goal, of course, is the 1992 Winter Olympics. The U.S. Figure Skating Championships, next January in Salt Lake City, Utah, will determine how far she goes.

And Campbell hopes the script will end as happily as it does in the movie "Skate!." The Canadian girl ends up going back to her old coach and re-establishing herself as the nation's top women's figure skater.

Playoff favorites advance; Paragon averts Wolves' bid

All the favorites advanced in the opening round of the Great Lakes Men's Soccer League playoffs, but some moved on more easily than others.

The Redford Marauders, unbeaten in regular season play, had no trouble with shorthanded Wyandotte Palermo, the No. 8 seed. The Marauders crushed Palermo 7-0 Sunday at Bicentennial Park. Flint Bud Light, the No. 2 seed, also had an easy playoff opener, blasting the seventh-seeded Def Koreans 6-0 Sunday in Flint.

The fourth-place Birmingham Cobras blanked the fifth-place Ann Arbor Hattricks 3-0 Sunday at Bicentennial to advance, but third-place Livonia Paragon had to struggle to get past the Livonia Wolves, 1-0 in overtime.

The Marauders meet the Cobras in a semifinal match rescheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 3, at Bicentennial's Field No. 1. The Marauders-Cobras were originally slated for Sunday, but the Marauders — the reigning state champions — head to Chicago Friday to compete in the Tournament of Champions.

The Cobras, meanwhile, open the first round of the Michigan State Cup Tournament by tackling the Tigress Soccer Club this weekend.

BUD LIGHT will go up against Paragon at 6 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial's Field No. 1. Paragon will be trying to end a tournament semifinal streak of losses — the team has fallen in the semis the last three years. It will not be an easy task; Bud Light beat Paragon 4-0 early this season.

Paragon nearly missed making it as far as the semis. Its opening round match with the Wolves went 98 scoreless minutes before Jim Berry lofted a shot from 30 yards out that slipped through the hands of substitute keeper John Gelmisi.

It was a physically draining game, played in high heat and humidity, but both teams failed to give in defensively. Gelmisi and his Wolves' teammates survived three strong Paragon attacks to force the overtime.

In a pivotal GLMSL Second Division game, Dan Bowman netted two goals to lift the Plymouth Eagles to a 3-0 victory over U.S.A., a win that assured the Eagles of a playoff berth.

THE DIVISION II playoffs begin Saturday, after a match Thursday between the division's top two teams, Brothers United and Livonia Venom, which tied for first. The winner of Thursday's 7 p.m. game at Bicentennial will be the No. 1 seed in Saturday's first round. The semifinals are Sunday at Bicentennial.

The championship games for both divisions will be Sunday, Aug. 6, on Bicentennial's Field No. 1. The Second Division final will be at 4 p.m., with the First Division championship at 6 p.m.

Livonia fast pitch title hinges upon Daly-Riverside twin bill

The Livonia Women's Fast Pitch Softball League caps its 27th season with double-header action Friday and Saturday night at Livonia's Ford Field.

The Dreamers finish their season Friday at 7:45 p.m. against Great Scott. In the second game of the evening, Daly Restaurant meets MJP Enterprises. Daly puts the league title on the line Saturday, meeting Windsor Riverside in a double-header beginning at 6:30 p.m.

With Riverside idle last Friday, Daly regained first place with a pair of victories over the Dreamers and Great Scott, respectively. Riverside pounced the Dreamers, 11-2, behind the combined pitching of Lisa Duhm, Kathy Siemiesz and Sheila Hatton. A two-run single by Patty Offer, scoring Martha Sampson and Gena Vilums, accounted for the Dreamers' only runs.

On the Daly ledger, the first seven batters recorded singles in an eight-run first inning. Sherry Kiselica and Hatton each delivered key run-scoring singles during the first-inning eruption. A bases-loaded double by Duhm later in the game provided the final runs for Daly.

In the nightcap, starting pitcher Shelley Larned tossed a perfect game in leading Daly to a 4-0 win over Great Scott. Larned struck out 15 batters in recording her 17th shutout of the year and pushing her personal record to 26-1.

A TWO-RUN single by Siemiesz, scoring Lisa Parsons and Julie Ranieri, started things for Daly.

Daly added its third run in the third inning when Kiselica hammered a pitch over the center fielder's head to score Duhm, who had singled.

Pam Wright scored the fourth run from third base on a passed ball. Wright walked, stole second base and went to third on a ground out.

Four weeks ago, Daly's qualified for the Class A National Fast Pitch Championship, slated for Aug. 22-27 in Montgomery, Ala.

THE GREAT SCOTT group journeys to Denmark, Wis. to compete in the Great Lakes Regional Class B Fast Pitch Tournament, Aug. 4-6. The winner of the tourney will get the last berth to the Tucson Tournament for teams from Wisconsin, outstate Michigan and Greater Detroit.

Windsor Riverside, meanwhile, will be headed for the Provincial Tournament Championships in Kitchener, Ontario, later this month.

GC girls capture state Pee Wee B

Garden City withstood everything South Farmington had Sunday to win its second straight Class B Girls Pee Wee United States Slow-pitch Softball Association state tournament, 10-4.

The tournament was held in Sterling Heights.

South defeated previously-undefeated Garden City, 8-4, early Sunday to force the final game in the double-elimination tourney.

Both Garden City and South earned berths in the USSSA World Tournament today through Sunday in Muncie, Ind.

Garden City is guided by first-year coach Bob Bako.

IN THE CHAMPIONSHIP game, Garden City went ahead early and South couldn't rally enough to overcome the deficit. Kathy Misteravich led South's offense with three hits and Lori Hubble, Kathy Schneider, Robin Neada and Natalie Koczara collected two hits each.

Members of Garden City's team are: Mindie Chapman, Vonne Jenks, Charla Kowalczyk, Jenny Kowalczyk, Elizabeth Zubor, Kristi Carrithers, Mandy Horosko, Jodi Little, Taryn Lyman, Kris Swope, Christina Bako, Willow King, Karen LeVeck, Kelly Shanks, Stephanie Smith and Colleen Wutke. Assisting Bako are Bob Smith and Larry Shanks.

Chapman, Jenks, Charla Kowalczyk, Jenny Kowalczyk and Zubor were selected to the All-America team.

South opened the tourney Saturday with an 11-0 thumping of Dearborn. Krista Snow had four hits, while Koczara, Holly Foster, Amy Geary and Kelly LaCosse combined for six additional hits.

AGAINST HINES Park of Plymouth, South used team defense and strong pitching from Schneider for a 7-1 victory. Misteravich had three hits and Hubble and Ault had a pair of safeties each. One of Ault's hits was a homer.

In the 8-4 win Sunday over the eventual winners, Hubble and Ault each had three hits. Jennifer Myslinski made a pair of running catches.

The Michigan state tournament all-star team included Ault, Hubble, Misteravich and Snow.

Other South members were: Erin LaCosse, Kelly LaCosse, Andrea Salyer,, Carolyn Temporelli and Erin Weihe. The team is coached by Jim Hubble and Paul Geary and the batgirl was Alexis Ault.

Ladywood product earns elite status

By Brad Emons
staff writer

It doesn't take an accountant to figure out what kind of season Livonian Darlene Delonis enjoyed for the Henry Ford Community College women's softball team.

But the numbers are only part of the story, as the 1986 Ladywood High School graduate recently became the first HFCC athlete in the school's history to earn National Junior College Athletic Association All-American honors.

"This was my 13th year and I've never had a hitter as consistent as Darlene," said Henry Ford coach Nancy Bryden. "Her average was extremely high, the highest we've ever had."

Get out the calculator because Delonis' '89 statistics are staggering: batting average (.485), hits/at-bats (63 for 130), doubles (10), triples (8), homers (1), RBI (32), runs scored (45) and stolen bases (36).

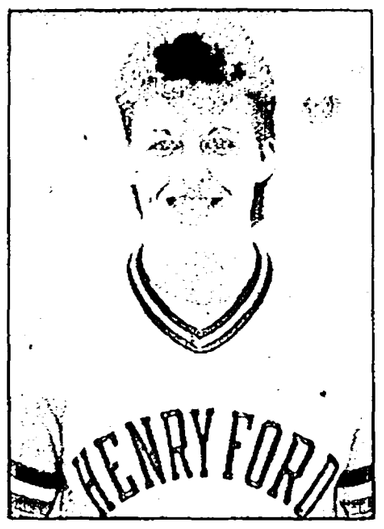
As a shortstop and second baseman, Delonis accumulated 78 putouts and 84 assists with nine errors, good enough for a .947 fielding average.

"Her biggest asset is her quickness, not only offensively, but defensively," Bryden said. "She got to a lot of balls. She covers so much ground."

DELONIS WAS NEARLY grounded before she launched her college softball career.

She started out attending Michigan State University with intentions of walking on the softball team.

But the stay in East Lansing was short-lived.



Darlene Delonis
JC All-American

"I went there for about a month and it was just so big," Delonis recalls. "I hardly knew anybody and I just didn't like the atmosphere."

By the time Delonis left MSU, Bryden was quick to make the pitch for Henry Ford.

"We had heard she was interested in coming here and we had seen her play," said Bryden. "It was really an easy recruitment."

It was an adjustment, however, for Delonis, who sat out the 1987 softball season before becoming eligible in 1988, when she batted .348.

"I always wanted to go to a university, a four-year college, not a community college," Delonis said. "But once I got to Henry Ford, I really liked it. It was excellent academically and I was surprised how much they were interested in women's athletics."

softball

BRYDEN KNEW that Delonis was a talent from day one.

"She's extremely smart," said the Henry Ford coach. "Darlene is a quiet girl, almost on the shy side, but once you get to know her and she gets to know you, she opens up and is a really pleasant person."

Delonis led the Hawks to a 31-13 overall record this season and a second place finish (16-4), one game behind Oakland Community College in the Eastern Conference race.

The Hawks earned a bid to the NJCAA Region 12 tournament, where they were ousted in the fourth round.

It was at the Region 12 tournament where Delonis learned of here All-American status.

"It was right before our last game and I was shocked . . . it really didn't sink in at the time," said Delonis, who carries a 3.36 GPA in computer science.

Delonis is awaiting her All-American certificate, but in the meantime she has committed to play next season for Eastern Michigan University.

"I'm already thinking about going there," said the softball standout. "It's close to home and it's smaller sized. I know quite a few people there."

Time limit costs Mustangs dearly

Time wasn't on the Livonia Mustangs' side Monday at Westland's Voss Field.

The host Challengers defeated the Mustangs, 18-12, in a crucial game called after 4½ innings because of a one-hour, 15-minute time limit.

The win virtually assured the Challengers of first place in the Inter-City Youth Softball League (girls 18 and under), though they have three rainouts to make up. The loss dropped the Mustangs' mark to 12-2-1 in league play.

Mustangs coach Mick Carnesecchi didn't agree with the umpire's decision to call Monday's game because of its significance in the standings.

Westland had an 18-5 lead after four innings but the Mustangs picked up momentum in the top of the fifth, scoring seven runs to trail by the final count, 18-12.

"CALLING THE game (because of time) is fine when the teams aren't playing for anything," Carnesecchi said. "But when you're playing to win the league or lose the league, I think it should be played the full seven innings. It's just a shame. These girls play all season and I hate to lose the division title to a time limit."

Kari Watson allowed 17 hits and suffered the loss for the Mustangs and is now 9-2.

First baseman Christie Hunter was 2-for-3 and drove in two runs in the fifth with a double. Watson and Ronda Saunders led the Mustangs' 14-hit attack with three hits each. Watson also drove in three runs, while Nikki Burns collected two hits in three trips to the plate.

Lisa Hottman, who normally roams the outfield for the Mustangs, filled in at catcher Monday and earned Carnesecchi's praise.

"Lisa did a fantastic job," he said. "She went after the pop-ups and didn't give way twice when Westland had runners trying to score. She tagged two people out at home."

Westland wins Koufax

The Westland Federation Sandy Koufax baseball team won its second consecutive league title, winning all 20 games it played in the 18-team circuit.

The title means Westland will host the North Central Region, a qualifying tournament for the World Series. NFWB also earned a direct seed to the tourney.

Highland and Dearborn Crestwood will compete in the NABF Regional held on Belle Isle, while Dearborn and Plymouth are headed to district tournaments in Northville and Sterling Heights.

Garden City, Southgate and Redford attend Pony tournaments.

Westland assured its standing in the Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation League in the season's final week, sweeping games from its closest competition, Highland, Garden City and North Farmington/West Bloomfield.

Westland beat Highland, 5-4, and overwhelmed NFWB, 9-3. Highland and NFWB finished in a tie for second-place at 17-3. Garden City came in sixth place, ending with a 9-4 record.

Members of the championship team include: Bobby Hayes, Jason Holton, Ryan Miller, Chris Moore, Gerard Romej, Mark Rutherford, Greg Tamas, Jeff Tapp, J.R. Taylor, Brett Walter, Jason Wetmore and Josh Wiegand. Joe Vondracek was the team manager and Gary Pierce and David Zajac were coaches.

RU's Delfgauw to WSU

Redford Union graduate Joe Delfgauw has signed a national letter of intent to attend Wayne State University on a football and baseball scholarship.

Delfgauw caught 65 passes for 1,021 yards in earning All-Observer football honors, but WSU baseball coach Rodger George is just as excited about Delfgauw's baseball potential. Delfgauw was the Most Valuable Player in the Northwest Suburban League and was a first-team All-Observer baseball member.

"I'm looking at him as a catcher," George said. "I like his leadership and defense. We think he'll hit a little bit. I'm very happy to get him."

WSU's baseball team was 18-26-3 last spring in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and loses four starters to graduation.

Entries up for Roadrunners race

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

It's summer in the city and the Redford Roadrunner Classic is set for this Saturday. What could be finer?

If you're looking for something to do, why not join the runners, racewalkers and fun-lovers that will transform Livonia's Veterans Park into a summertime extravaganza on Saturday evening?

Bagpipers will kick off the action, serenading fun runners at the start of the one-mile event at 6 p.m.

The eight-kilometer run will follow at 6:30 p.m. on a certified, fast, flat and paved course.

Dancing, eating and refreshments under the stars will be next on the agenda.

"We're going to have a square dance caller, and our usual great music after the race," said co-race director Doug Kurtis, who just returned from Seattle, Wash., where, for the fifth straight year, he won the Emerald City Marathon.

"WE'LL HAVE HOT DOGS, chips, bagels, fruit, New York Seltzer, Absopure water, and of course beer," he added.

Showers will be available for runners at the nearby Livonia YMCA.

Festivities will continue through 11 p.m.

Late registrants can sign up race day beginning at about 5 p.m., said Kurtis. Entries will be taken at Stark and Lyndon. The $15 fee includes a red muscle shirt, admission to the party, food and beverages.

From the Jeffries Freeway (I-96), take the Farmington Road exit north half a mile to Lyndon, the first light. Turn left (west) and go to Stark.

Kurtis predicts a good crowd.

"We had 1,300 runners last year, and it looks like we're up. Word has spread about our race." As of a week ago, more than 500 runners were registered.

FREE PLASTIC tumblers decorated with Roadrunner logos will go to the first 1,000 who enter.

The top three finishers in each age group will receive glass beer pitchers. Overall male and female winners in the open and masters divisions will be awarded Redford designer sweatshirts.

Winners of the Triple Crown — which consists of the Trenton Treadmill, Allen Park 8K and Roadrunner Classic, will receive $500 savings bonds. Runners who've competed in all three will receive pins with the logos of all three races.

The race starts and finishes at Veterans Park near the Livonia Y. Runners will take off down Stark to Schoolcraft, run west on Schoolcraft to Levan to Lyndon, through a tree-lined residential area, to Farmington and back to Lyndon. Definitely PR country.

For more information, call co-race director Donna Swanson at 348-2873.

Sponsors of this year's race, hosted by 130 Redford Roadrunners, include John Rogan Buick, Farmer Jack, Exceed and New York Seltzer.

At 17, she is discovered by a record company. At 20, she released her first album. At 21, she is about to embark on her first tour of the United States.

Sarah McLachlan, this is your life.

And how sweet it seems. Young, bright and talented with the music industry yours to conquer. But the Halifax, Nova Scotia, native is keeping things in perspective.

"I guess for the people outside, things might appear to be happening fast," said McLachlan, who will perform Saturday at the Royal Oak Music Theatre. "Things don't always happen at once. They happen day by day."

Day by day, people are hearing the word about McLachlan's debut album on Arista Records, "Touch." Ethereal, classical are interwoven with well-crafted pop melodies. Progressive would be an apt description of the 10-song LP.

While some might be taken by the surreal images painted by McLachlan vocally, the astonishing thing is that she wrote most of the songs herself. Not bad considering she had never even composed a song before the making of "Touch."

The process, though, wasn't without its hitches. McLachlan struggled at first, always searching for the right word or phrase to convey her mood.

"INITIALLY WHEN I went to Vancouver, the album was supposed to be a compilation between myself . . . and other artists on Nettwerk (a Canadian production company) They said, 'We'll give you six months. See what you can come up with on your own.' Which freaked me out but was also fantastic at the same time. I was a little lazy at first because I wasn't sure of what I was doing."

McLachlan, though, found her mark by drawing from personal experiences as a teenager. As a result, "Touch" is an album filled with frustration, anger and happiness.

She also relied on her musical experience, which has included studying classical piano and guitar at the Nova Scotia Royal Conservatory of Music. She had five years of vocal training at the institution as well.

McLachlan's vocal talent is what caught the eye of one Nettwerk representative one night in Halifax. She sang for a local band, The October Game, when they offered her a five-record deal.

Rain, rain, go away

But concert venues are prepared

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

LIKE ICE CREAM on a scorching day and going barefoot in sun-warmed sand, listening to music played outdoors remains a strictly summertime pleasure in Michigan.

Good music reaches new heights when heard against the spectacular backdrop of a a glowing orange sunset or under the dome of a deepening blue sky alight with stars - unless it rains.

How often does Michigan's fabled fickle weather actually force outdoor performances to be canceled, postponed or moved indoors? What are the official rain policies of places such as the Meadow Brook Music Festival, the Troy Hilton, the Ponchartrain Hotel, and Plymouth's Hillside Restaurant, which schedule regular outdoor concerts during the summer season?

Normally at Meadow Brook Music Festival in Rochester Hills, the show goes on despite rain or foul weather, and concertgoers with tickets on the lawn come prepared to wait out cloudbursts. During sprinkles and downpours, many colored umbrellas blossom on the hillside and some hearty souls erect lean lean-tos of canvas or plastic so they can huddle out of the rain and enjoy their preconcert picnics despite the weather.

JIM RIDER/staff photographer

When it rains, take cover, under a protective poncho, or whatever keeps off the raindrops. This scene is on the lawn at Baldwin Pavilion, where the Meadow Brook Music Festival is held.

JIM SPITTLE, former festival production director, says, 'We've had some doozy storms out there, winds blowing in sideways (on seats in the covered pavilion), but they'll go on with the performance. It's a risk you take performing outdoors, and a risk you take as an outdoor audience."

Only once in his memory was a show cancelled indirectly due to weather. In the summer of '86, one performance of "A Chorus Line" was called off due to power failure.

Spittle says, "It poured torrential rains just about the whole week before the cast was due, and the downstairs dressing room flooded. We got it vacuumed and dried the morning they moved in with the costumes." But the week of stormy weather caused a power failure when it was time for the show to go on.

Official Meadow Brook Music Festival policy on weather requires that the audience be notified when the weather service posts a severe weather warning, a tornado watch or a tornado warning. The official script read over the loudspeakers during severe weather warnings states, "The festival performance for this evening is still scheduled and has not been canceled."

The show goes on in time-honored show business tradition even during a tornado watch when no tornados have been spotted. Only a tornado warning with actual twisters confirmed will postpone a show at the music festival.

RAIN MAY BE a soggy inconvenience to concertgoers but, according to Spittle, rain is more crucial to crews who operate electrical equipment. He says, "Follow spots are outside, not under cover, and they're shut down the minute any kind of rain hits them because the mix of metal, water, and electricity is dangerous." He adds, "We're also scared of brown outs during laser shows because lasers are water cooled and if the pumps go off, you can burn up the equipment."

Rain wasn't the culprit last Aug. 1, but weather still takes the blame for stopping the show. The scorching temperatures of last summer's record-breaking heat required huge amounts of power to run air conditioners. The unprecedented power demands caused severe brown outs that plagued the sound and light systems at Meadow Brook just before the late Roy Orbison was scheduled to go on stage. Rock and Roll greats Jerry Lee Lewis and Carl Perkins had already appeared when power failure caused the concert to be canceled part way through.

Meadow Brook publicist Sylvia Coughlin says, "Roy Orbison was rescheduled for Aug. 31, and people could exchange their tickets for the new concert or get a partial refund."

The Troy Hilton sponsors outdoor entertainment two nights a week during the summertime. "Jazz to the Hilt," a new series this summer, fills the air with the cool/hot sounds of jazz Wednesday nights. According to Andy Williams, general manager of the Hilton, "Twelve-hundred-plus people gather on the pool side and courtside" Wednesdays to listen to jazz under an open sky. Shows begin at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and the hotel serves complimentary hors d'oeuvres from 5-6:30 p.m.

"It's such a very nice setting" he says, "But the weather certainly has not been very cooperative this year. The Spyro Gyra concert was a total rainout and rain delayed the Ramsey Lewis performance until 7:30 p.m. Instead of two sets he played one long one."

WILLIAMS RECALLS, "The Lionel Hampton concert had to be moved indoors due to rain." Moving indoors is often not possible because the hotel ballrooms accommodate only 400 and they're not usually available. "We can't often hold ballroom space as backup, so if a concert has to be canceled, we either offer rainchecks for future concerts or a refund," Williams says.

The jazz lineup at the Hilton for the remaining summer includes Tim Welsberg, Dizzy Gillespie, Herbie Mann, Norma Jean Bell, Alexander Zonjic and Kirk Whallum, Phil Hurt and, with luck, no rain.

"Hot Summer Nights," the regular Friday poolside event, is an institution at the Hilton. Williams characterizes it as "A stand-up happy hour with complimentary hors d'oeuvres from 5-7 p.m." He says, "We use local and semi-local live entertainment and regularly draw between 2,000 and 2,500 people."

Rain dampened one Hot Summer Night so far this year, but the intermittent sprinkles didn't stop the party. Williams says, "We could never attempt to move that many people indoors."

The Ponchartrain Hotel in downtown Detroit has had better luck with the weather. "We've never canceled a show since 1985," says Mozelle Boyd, who has been public relations director for the hotel since that year.

FOR THE LAST 17 years the hotel has hosted the P'Jazz Series every Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. "Up to 1,000 people gather on the outdoor terrace by the pool. There are stations serving cocktails and outdoor food like hamburgers, sausages, and chicken breast sandwiches," Boyd says.

About the weather, "We've been blessed. We've had rain early at 5 and it cleared up, or rain for a half hour that stopped by 7, but we've never had to cancel. We just cover the band stuff to keep it dry and get towels to wipe down the chairs after the storm passes."

The reality of numbers prohibits moving a concert indoors. "We don't have a ballroom big enough for 1,000 people. There's no way we can get 800 people into a ballroom for 400. If we can't hold a concert outdoors, ticket money is refunded."

Coming up this summer at P'Jazz are Alexander Zonjic, Buckwheat Zydeco, Maynard Ferguson, Tito Puente's Latin Jazz All Stars, Norma Jean Bell (a special Friday, Aug. 11, concert), Special Efx, and the Freddie Hubbard Quintet, which closes the season Aug. 30.

Throughout the summer, the Hillside Restaurant in Plymouth offers jazz on the veranda Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights, weather permitting. The veranda accommodates 75.

DOROTHY TOMMASO, coordinator of special programs for the Hillside, says, "We can do cocktails, nibbles or serve a full menu there. There's no cover charge, but we will take reservations for large groups. If rain catches up to us, the show goes on. We move the music into the Bottom of the Hill, the Hillside's more casual restaurant. We just cover ourselves by making sure we have space inside."

The Susan Lane Trio plays through Wednesday, Aug. 16, followed by Vince Shandor, Wednesday, Aug. 23, through Wednesday, Sep. 13.

Singer finds life sweet

Once she got the nerve to tell her parents, McLachlan headed to Vancouver to work on material for her first album. "Touch" was released on Nettwerk in October 1988 in Canada.

Arista Records signed McLachlan and released the album earlier this year in the U.S. The LP instantly found a home on alternative and college radio in this country.

SUDDENLY, McLachlan was looking at some major career decisions.

"I was very uptight about it," she said. "I want to be in control of every part of my music career."

McLachlan not only wrote and performed the songs on "Touch," but did the artwork for the cover and will be involved in the video work. Before being discovered, she was majoring in jewelry design at an art college.

With her artistic background, it should come as no surprise that Peter Gabriel is one of her biggest influences.

"He's like a god to me, I guess," she said. "He makes me feel good. When I'm depressed, I put on his music . . . It sounds stupid, but that's what a god is to a lot of people."

But such exalted status for McLachlan will undoubtedly take time. She is already working on material for her second album, which she hopes to be released in April. She's still grappling with the songwriting process.

"I don't know about everybody else, but I seem to emote more when I'm pissed," she said. "A lot of the time the songs are bittersweet and cynical. But not always.

"I'm too young to be cynical."

Sarah McLachlan will open for Bruce Cockburn and Holly Near at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 29, at Royal Oak Music Theatre, 318 W. Fourth St. For information, call 665-4755.

Treat yourself to an evening out, dining in downtown Windsor. There's a kaleidoscope of wonderful restaurants: Italian, Oriental, French, German, English, Irish, et cetera. There's more than good food to like, because many feature jazz groups.
The best way to get from Greektown to Windsor? Catch the "Windsor/Greektown Connection" from the stop at Beaubein & Monroe. For schedule information please call. For only $1.25 ea. way, you can leave the driving to Transit Windsor.
There are two more roller coasters where this one came from, namely, Boblo Island. Plus the Tilt-A-Whirl, log flume, pirate ship, merry-go-round and Ski Fever, Boblo's great new water show. All just a 10 minute boat ride from Amherstburg.
How about something special on your next weekend getaway. Get a room with a whirlpool tub at the Ivy Rose Motel, on Howard near Devonshire Mall, and have the time of your life. A restaurant, satellite TV, swimming pool and children's playground are other amenities.
Here's a tip on a great French restaurant: Chez Gyliane, 5 min. from downtown at 1880 Wyandotte E. Enjoy canard aux pommes, saumon maison, crevettes a' l'orange and more. Pleasant surroundings, and excellent cuisine.
Bagpipe players, Victorian houses, European street signs, formal English gardens and pictures of the Queen. Some things tell you Windsor is foreign, some things tell you it's familiar.
Windsor.
Where you're always welcome.
Welcome to Canada. Three simple words that promise a pleasant experience every time you go to Windsor, where people everywhere are genuinely friendly.
There are 175 friendly shopkeepers out at Devonshire Mall, on Howard Avenue, just 10 minutes from the bridge or tunnel . . . 175 stores from department to specialty, with things you can't find in the 'States, at prices you can't find there either. Fashions from Toronto and Montreal, imports from England and France, gifts and games, books and records, shoes and shirts, etc., all at Devonshire Mall.
And if you like a day in Windsor, you'll like two days twice as much, with a weekend escape at Holiday Inn. For less than you'd pay in Detroit, you can stay on the river in a luxurious twin-level Chalet Suite or in a cozy single, right in the heart of downtown Windsor.
Whether you're staying overnight or just going to dinner, you'll enjoy Maxwell's Riverside Restaurant at the Holiday Inn. It's got a great kitchen and a terrific Maitre D'!

August will feature plenty of celestial action

skywatch

AUGUST features two New Moons, two eclipses (only one of which is visible to us), a meteor shower and the Voyager Two encounter with the planet Neptune.

Of the five visible naked-eye planets, only Jupiter can be seen in the pre-dawn sky. Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn are all in the evening sky, but only Venus and Saturn can be seen easily.

The amount of sunlight we receive decreases by one hour and 14 minutes this month. On Aug. 1, sunrise is at 6:25 a.m. and sunset is at 8:51 p.m., allowing for a possible 14 hours and 26 minutes of sunlight. On Aug. 31 these times are 6:56 a.m. and 8:08 p.m., for a possible 13 hours and 12 minutes of sun.

The first of August's two new moon phases occurs at 12:06 p.m. on Aug. 1. The moon is between the earth and the sun and is not visible.

Look for the waxing (growing) crescent moon on the evening of the 4th. Face west about 45 minutes after sunset. The bright "star" about eight degrees to the right of the moon is Venus. Venus will be in the evening sky for the rest of the year, and will become more prominent by mid-October.

THE MOON is in the constellation of Virgo on the evening of the 6th. The star above and to the left of the moon is Spica (SPYca). By the next night the moon has moved to the left of Spica.

First Quarter Moon is at 1:28 p.m. on the 9th. The moon is one-quarter of its way around the earth. Although this phase is called "first-quarter," note that the moon is actually one-half lighted.

On the 10th the moon is in Scorpius. The star to the left of the moon is Antares (an Tar ees), the "heart" of the scorpion. Look closely at Antares and you'll notice it has a red color justifying its name which means "rival of Mars." By the next night the moon is to the left of Antares.

One of the year's best meteor showers, the Perseids (PER see ids), reaches its peak on the morning of Aug. 12. Meteor showers are named for the constellation from which they appear to radiate, in this case Perseus.

Meteors are more commonly known as "falling stars" because they look like little stars falling from the sky. Some American Indians thought they were stars running from danger. But they have nothing to do with stars; meteors are rocks falling out of the sky.

Out in space there are rocks, stones, grains of dust, and other rubbish tumbling around. If one of these objects falls into our atmoshpere it heats up because of friction and burns, and gives off light. A patient skywatcher can expect to see a few sporadic (occasional) meteors any clear night.

MANY OF THESE meteors are orbiting around the sun in well-defined orbits. They may be trailing along as the debris of a comet, or they may be the remains of a comet that disintegrated long ago. When the earth passes through the orbit of a meteor swarm, many more meteors than usual can be seen, and we can predict precisely when that happens.

The Perseid swarm is one of the richest. A patient observer can expect to see an average of 50 meteors every hour, which is about one every minute. The best meteor display occurs between 2 a.m. and sunrise. Although Perseus is nearly overhead, the meteors can appear in any part of the sky. Their trails can be traced back to Perseus.

Meteors burn up about 20 miles above the surface of the earth, but if an exceptionally large meteor fails to burn completely, it could strike the earth and produce a crater. Most of Earth is covered with water, so any meteor impact is more likely to produce a big splash then a big crater. Is it possible to be hit by a meteor? The chances of that happening are "astronomical!"

Look for the moon in Sagittarius on the evening of the 13th. It is located within the "handle" of the "teapot" that marks the constellation. (It is a LOT easier to visualize a teapot rather than an archer.) The "spout" is to the right of the moon. Above the moon, not far from the top of the teapot, is the planet Saturn. The Voyager 2 spacecraft visited this planet in August, 1981.

CAMP SUN DEER
We Need Volunteers Who Love Happy Campers!

Sun Deer® campers are happy campers and it's no wonder because most severely asthmatic kids are forced to spend their summers indoors. At Camp Sun Deer® asthmatic kids ages 9-12 participate in a variety of outdoor activities, but they can't do it without your help. The limitations and doubts they face can be diminished by a volunteer who cares. Your participation at Camp Sun Deer® can make all the difference in an asthmatic child's summer.

When in Rome. . .

Professor sews to enliven history

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

NORMA GOLDMAN'S LOVE affair with life stretches across time and space. She's as enthusiastic about the culture of ancient Rome as she is about the book she's working on over the summer.

Goldman, Birmingham resident and professor in the department of Greek and Latin studies and literature at Wayne State, has taught, given programs and published articles and books on many aspects of ancient life.

But none seems closer to her heart right now than Roman dress — what those residents of the greatest empire of the ancient world wore on their bodies, feet and heads.

She has 20 authentic costumes she made when she was one of 12 participants in a National Endowment for the Humanities summer seminar in ancient Roman costume in Rome last summer.

"I think clothing is an art. Fashion itself is an art. I love trying to duplicate costumes for my students."

BUT MANY people besides her students are enjoying her elegant collection.

Her costumes were recently featured in a benefit for Focus:HOPE's Center for Children, "Pompei to Positano," hosted by Marco Mattacotta Cordella, consul of Italy in June. Contemporary Italian fashions (the Positano connection) were provided by Lynn Portnoy, Detroit boutique owner, who conceived the idea of old and new together.

"That was a ball," said Goldman, who was delighted with Focus:HOPE's work with children. "I never had such fun and we raised $15,000 for the Center."

New additions to the collection will be featured at a special event for the Antiquaries of the Detroit Institute of Arts on Nov. 3.

Goldman is making the costumes of the sixth century emperor, Justinian, and his wife ,Theodora, as shown in a wall mosaic in San Vitale in Ravenna, Italy. These will be modeled by Donna and Earl Jacobs. She's owner of Donna Jacobs Gallery of Birmingham, which deals in antiquities.

"NOW, THAT I've started, I feel like the sorcerer's apprentice," said Goldman, who had just finished Justinian's jeweled crown and handsome Burgundy wool toga. "I am hoping to give it for the American Classical League at the Getty Museum next June."

Goldman's collection was first shown in Rome on the steps of the American Academy after the seminar.

"Everybody in Rome, when I gave the first show, didn't want to take them off, they were so comfortable."

Each costume was matched to the individual modeling it, and was copied as closely as possible from historical records.

DISCOVERING EXACTLY how things were done particularly delights this smiling, effervescent scholar. That's what she will be sharing in the book of patterns of Roman clothing she's putting together.

"You really have to do things practically to find out why things are the way they are," she said.

She said the clothing styles are simple and her book aims to provide basic information for students and teachers to follow to make history come alive.

GOLDMAN HAS been doing that for many years in her own classes.

"I love history, but if you want to interest kids today, you have to dress it up."

A "toga party" is at the conclusion of her class on ancient Roman life. Students make their costumes, and authentic food is served to the guests who recline to eat, Roman style.

"Roman fashions are wonderfully cool and they needed that in the hot climate . . . . The basic garment, a tunic, is just two rectangles of cloth held together at the shoulder by buttons or sewn and gathered at the waist."

The man's tunic was calf-length or just below the knee, and the woman's to approximately the ankle.

THE AUTHENTIC "fibulae" or safety pins at the shoulders of some of Goldman's costumes were made by Philip Fike of the Wayne State art department. Fike has been making authentic fibulae of various materials for more than 20 years.

Bernard Goldman, retired professor of ancient art at Wayne, constructed the Roman soldier's armor in lightweight aluminum for his wife's collection. Goldman said she is still trying to find the kind of iron that was used for the original armor, some kind that didn't rust.

The reference for the costume of the soldier is Trajan's Column in Rome. This huge marble column, with 2,500 figures, shows the Roman army on the march, building fortifications, defending and conquering the Dacians of present-day Romania.

"TRAJAN HIMSELF, larger than life, appears in every episode," Goldman said. "It is from monuments like this that we can get an accurate account of what happened."

While she has many slides of this tall edifice, a large pictorial account published in Romania is her best source.

"The Romanians are very proud of this monument because it shows them what their ancestors looked like."

GOLDMAN HAS spent many summers in Italy and the Mediterranean area, and gone on several archeological digs.

Norma Goldman shows the Roman soldier's armor which her husband, Bernard Goldman, made from alumnium. The Romans used a non-rusting iron, a material Goldman is hoping to find out more about. She wears a red and white cotton, Roman style dress — perfect for hot, humid days.

Norma Goldman is making copies of the clothing and accessories worn by sixth-century emperor Justinian and his wife, Theodora, in the wall mosaic in Ravenna, Italy. The costumes will be modeled by Donna and Earl Jacobs for a presentation of Goldman's collection at Detroit Institute of Arts in November. At left, Goodman models an Etruscan woman's style of dress, which she made. Etruscan fashions aren't belted; Roman styles are.

Romans earned stripes too

Roman dress was designed to immediately indicate the rank of the wearer. The width of the stripes on the tunic (tunica) was the signal — a senator's or patrician's stripes were three inches wide, the knight's stripes were narrower and the freedman had no strips at all.

Shoes, too, were indicative of rank. A research paper Norma Goldman is doing on footwear will eventually be part of a book, "Roman Costume: Its Social, Ecomonic and Religious Significance," which is being done by the members of seminar on Roman dress which she attended last summer.

But even though the dress code was strictly adhered to, Goldman said, "The whole idea of upward mobility was a great part of the system — you could be set free or by saving you could buy your freedom. You could be freed at a banquet when your master was in a good mood or in your master's will when he died."

She said that once your were freed, you could work and start buying your way up the ladder, even to the senate.

The Roman taste for luxury goods was so strong that trade routes to India and China were opened up to satisfy the demand for things such as silk and cloth shot with gold. "Originally all garments were homespun wool — then linen (probably from Egypt), cotton, then silk . . . purple was a favorite Roman color," Goldman said. When at first it was hard to get purple (from shellfish off the coast of Phoenicia) only royality wore it, thus the term "royal purple."

More to pops than meets the ear

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Erich Kunzel, conductor for this Saturday's Detroit Symphony Pop's concert at Meadow Brook, "An Evening with Lerner & Lowe," one of the busiest conductors in the country, may also be one of the happiest.

There are 22 Erich Kunzel compact discs available at the record stores and eight of these have been on the charts throughout the past year. He has been a guest conductor at Meadow Brook for the past four summers and has appeared with the DSO during the winter season as well. That's in addition to appearances with 10-12 more major orchestras during the summer and another dozen or so during the winter.

Kunzel was recently appointed pops music adviser for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Starting in October, there will be six sets of pops concerts on the regular season program with an enlarged pops orchestra and more attention to showmanship.

'They (pops concerts) bring a whole new audience.'

— Erich Kunzel
DSO guest conductor

As music director of the Indianapolis Symphony Pops and the Cincinnati Pops, Kunzel said conducting pops was "a part of my duties" as resident conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony. He still conducts several classical concerts for the Cincinnati Symphony during the regular seasons.

And yes, he likes what he does. "When you think you know something well, you enjoy it," he said. While his instrument was piano when he was studying at Dartmouth College (he also has degrees from Harvard and Brown), he said he always liked to conduct, "it's easier than practicing all day." He got into conducting early on in his studies, it came easily and naturally and he studied it with Pierre Monteux at his summer school in Hancock, Maine.

As for watching 100 or so musicians and the score at the same time, he said, "One really knows the score and it's really like reading the newspaper."

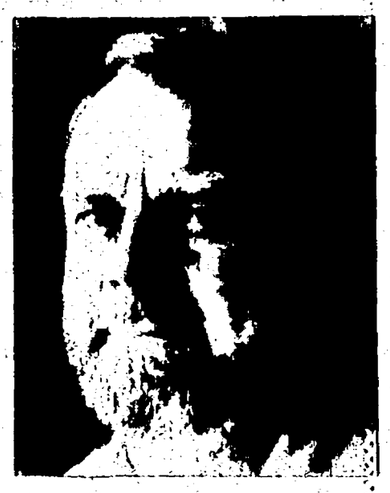
He assumed the post of resident conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony in 1965 and was given the responsibility for the "8 o'clock" pops series and his popularity as a pops conductor has been growing steadily ever since. Six of his "top 20" Billboard chart recordings, on the Telarc label, are with the Cincinnati Pops.

There are currently 22 Erich Kunzel compact disc recordings available in the record stores and eight of these have been on the charts throughout the past year. He has recorded with the Rochester, Winnipeg, Houston and London, England symphonies on a variety of labels. Five weeks after its release, the Telarc recordinbg, "Round-Up, " with Frankie Laine and the Cincinnati Pops was in fifth place on the charts, followed closely by "Syncopated Clock" and "Ties and Tails," both with the Rochester Pops on the Pro Arte label and five recordings with the Cincinnati Pops on Telarc.

Kunzel said pops concerts can be a real boon financially to symphony orchestras, "They bring a whole new audience — they'll feel part of the orchestra and they help out financially." Plus, he said it's an efficient use of the orchestra to produce revenue, it takes less rehearsal time to do many more pops concerts than it does classical and they are generally well attended.

Kunzel speaks from experience — since he took over the Cincinnati Pops, the subscription series has been sold out ever year and national tours have been highlighted by appearances at Carnegie Hall, Radio City Music Hall and the Grand Ole Opry.

Soloists for Saturday's concert will be Kathleen Brett, soprano, Benoit Boutet, tenor and Douglas Webster, baritone. The music will be from "Camelot," "Gigi," "Paint Your Wagon," "Brigadoon," and "My Fair Lady." For ticket information, 377-2010.



Erich Kunzel, one of the most recorded pops conductors in the country, was recently appointed pops music adviser for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Victoria Diaz

LAST FALL, when Tom Kakonis' thriller, "Michigan Roll," was brought out by St. Martin's Press, its cover was adorned with words of praise from a half-dozen fiction-writing luminaries, including R.V. Cassill, Tony Hillerman and Donald Westlake.

"'Michigan Roll' is fast, strong, harsh and beautiful," Westlake wrote. "If this is Tom Kakonis' first novel, he sure landed running."

Well, Kakonis may have landed running with this, his first published novel (three others on a shelf at his home in Grand Rapids remain unpublished), but the Ferris State University English professor has spent some time working up to that fast pace, he said.

"I'M 58 — old," he joked recently, taking a break from proofreading the pages of his second crime novel, "Criss Cross," due out early next year.

Born in California, he grew up "in a remote outpost of South Dakota," and earned a bachelor's degree at the University of Minnesota.

He served a stint in the Army before spending what he calls "a prolonged and wasted youth," knocking about the country, pursuing such varied occupations as railroad laborer, pool hall idler and beach bum — all the time nurturing a dream of becoming a novelist.

EVENTUALLY, HE enrolled at South Dakota State. When he graduated with a master's degree in English, he headed straight for the University of Iowa, where he was accepted into the prestigious Iowa Writers' Workshop, and eventually emerged with a Ph.D.

For his dissertation, he wrote the first of those three unpublished novels — a work he describes as "pretty much autobiographical" and "serious."

"At Iowa, they encouraged you to become a 'serious' writer," he said.

After Iowa, the ex-Army officer/laborer/pool hall idler/beach bum/student continued his nomadic existence, teaching English Literature at what he remembers as "dismal little colleges," mostly in the Midwest. At one time, he taught classes in the 18th century novel and Chaucer to inmates at Illinois State Prison in Joliet.

BY THE time he got to Ferris State, two more of those "serious" novels had been rejected by publishers and he'd more or less given up on his ambition to write fiction, he said.

For some time, he turned his full attention to writing college textbooks and teaching. After awhile, he became involved in college administration, and eventually became head of the English department at Ferris State.

"Then, one day about three years ago — as old men will do — I decided I'd give (novel writing) one more shot," he said. "Only this time I decided I'd try something with some commercial appeal.

"I remember I had been to Traverse City the week before, and I'd gone to this Chippewa reservation near there, where they have this casino. And when I got back home, I just started putting together this book."

WHAT HE came up with was "Michigan Roll," the story of Timothy Waverly, an educated man turned professional gambler, who comes up against two of the most loathsome villains you'll ever meet on the printed page — Shadow, a repellent, sexually obsessed killer, and Gleep, a monstrous Indian, who once torched an elementary school.

Coming to Traverse City on a vacation of sorts, Waverly finds himself involved with a dark-haired beauty called Midnight, whose wayward brother is being hunted down by the two sadistic killers.

Against a backdrop of gambling, mobsterism and other dark dealings, Waverly matches wits and nerves with Shadow and Gleep, who not only want to see him dead, but want to see him get that way as slowly and painfully as possible.

"I'm really not well-versed in (crime fiction) at all, but I figured I knew gambling — I've had a lifelong fascination with it — and I knew Traverse City," Kakonis said, attempting to explain how the thriller evolved.

ONCE ALL his characters had made an appearance, it was just a matter, more or less, of following them around, Kakonis said.

In seven months, the book was finished.

After a few false starts, Kakonis landed an agent, and soon discovered that "Michigan Roll" was not to be added to his list of unpublished novels. It sold the first time out.

High praise from various sources followed, including the New York Times, which lauded "Michigan Roll" for the unusual depths of its characters. Kirkus ranked it "among the very best," and author C. Terry Cline said the book was "fresh and powerful."

And maybe, in a way, Tom Kakonis had written that "serious" novel after all. Publishers Weekly called "Michigan Roll" a "literary thriller."

'I'm really not well-versed in (crime fiction) at all, but I figured I knew gambling . . .'

—Tom Kakonis

Aging affects color perception

Helen Diane Vincent

Q. My 85-year-old widowed father-in-law is moving in with us, and we are about to redecorate a room just for him. He's in generally good health, considering his age. With his glasses, his vision seems to be quite good, except that he describes the same colors I see in very different ways. Is it possible that there might be special requirements in selecting colors for the elderly that I should take into consideration?

A. The difference in experiencing color between yourself and your father-in-law can be explained by the inevitable aging process that alters vision and color perception. This can vary among individuals, but in the case of your father-in-law, I believe he is becoming deficient in seeing the blue end of the color spectrum, along with a decreasing capacity to see differences among other colors.

As a result, he will not only have a distorted perception of blue, but all other colors with a blue component in them, such as scarlet reds that contain some blue. His sense of color harmony will also be affected. For this reason, I suggest you redecorate his room according to his color tastes, also keeping in mind that whatever colors are chosen, they should be separated by fairly strong tonal contrasts. The purpose is to help in his depth and distance perception.

For this reason, also avoid using matching patterns that might give the illusion of blending the wall with furniture, or with the floor covering. The lighting for his room should have as much consideration as color, sufficiently bright, yet avoid glaring.

Q. We have a brick Colonial home with white trim. Our front door, also in white, needs refinishing. My husband is leaning toward black as a more practical color. I'm afraid this might be too strong a color for our entrance, and besides, I don't like black. There is no screen or storm door, and the entrance is in full view of the street. It might seem like a small matter, but I don't want to make any mistake using color. Any suggestions?

A. You're right in carefully considering what impression the front door will make. When color becomes part of an architectural element, it seems to gather a force even greater than in the interior.

Your front door, which welcomes people to your home, not only makes an impression on them but says something about the people living inside.

Colors, other than black, that are practical and compatible with a Colonial style house are deep red, green, a "slate" or grayed blue and a brown, in either a painted or wood finish.

Sieruta's teenage stories show heart

By Liz Mulligan
special writer

review

Peter D. Sieruta is as enjoyable to talk to as his book, "Heartbeats," is to read. Both mean the audience will gain insight through humor.

Born in Detroit in 1958, Sieruta attended Cody High School (mentioned in one of his stories, "Walking") as well as the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Having worked in a local library for the past 10 years until he was recently laid off, Sieruta is well acquainted with books.

His first writing success, a play, "When the Lights Go Out," was produced in 1983 at the Attic Theater and again in 1985 in New York City as an off-off Broadway play. While the play is about teenagers, it is geared for an adult audience.

Also in 1985, the Boarshead Theater in Lansing produced "None of the Above," which is set in Dearborn.

Another of Sieruta's works, a one-man play about Oscar Wilde entitled "A Picture of Oscar Wilde," was produced at the Boarshead and may be seen at the Attic Theater in August.

Sieruta enjoys the group experience of writing (and rewriting) a play as well as the thrill of hearing the audience react to his words.

SIERUTA HAS almost total recall of his high school days. An introvert then, he observed others and began mentally collecting stories.

He still collects tales about teenage years and gives them a significance few of us realized they had. Assuming we all have a fixed internal age — one through which we view the world not matter how old we become — Sieruta has successfully adopted the outlook of a very sharp 15-year-old.

While teenage years are notoriously filled with angst, Sieruta's stories are both real and uplifting. This could be because the two authors who most inspired him are M.E. Kerr, known for her sarcastic comedy, and Bruce Brooks, known for his distinctive voice.

Both authors are published by Harper & Row, a fact that influenced Sieruta, who actually had the good fortune of choosing his publisher. After reading a speech by Brooks thanking his editor at Harper & Row, Sieruta submitted his collection of nine stories to that publishing house.

"HEARTBEATS AND Other Stories" uses all titles in a clever way. "Heartbeats" reflects a less-than-explicit theme of having the word "heartbeat" (in some form) in each story.

Probably the best titled and most disturbing story is "The Substitute." Sieruta's current favorite (it changes) is "Attack of the Jolly Green Giant," an amazing look at love and driver's ed.

Textile artist exhibits at Madonna College

Textile artist Beatrice Shulman shows some of the pieces that will be displayed Aug. 6-31 at the Exhibit Gallery, Library Wing on the Madonna College campus.

Beatrice Shulman found out she liked to sew when she was eight years old. Through the years, her hobby became an art and her art became noticed. Shulman, a professional textile artist and Farmington Hills resident, now uses a variety of material to express her talent.

"If I don't get into my studio a couple times a week, I get a bit irritable," jokes Shulman. "My work has become more than a pastime, it's an obsession."

Her work in reverse applique recently earned a place in the top 10 at an international textile art show in London, Ontario. This piece and many others will be featured at the Exhibit Gallery on the Madonna College campus August 6-31.

ORIGINAL WORKS include such mediums as Chinese silk and metal, applique and reverse applique, quilting, even a special Guatemalan technique called, "Mola." Hand-dyed cloth is featured in many of Shulman's pieces.

Active in the Needlework and Textile Guild of Michigan and the Canadian Embroiderers Guild, Shulman attends many seminars, including a workshop she has participated in for 13 years at Ontario's Brescia College. These gatherings allow her to perfect her craft and develop new ideas.

"I couldn't wait to get there again," says Shulman, who often works 70 hours a week while attending the Brescia seminars.

Currently a student of watercolor at Madonna College, this mother of three grown children has continued to expand her talent. She credits one of her sons, also an artist, and her husband for encouraging her to continue her studies and "for letting me spread my materials all over the dining room table."

"THE WHOLE FAMILY supports me. My husband sets up the exhibits and hangs my work and the kids come to see it," Shulman explains with pride and enthusiasm. The professional fiber artist has previously shown her work at the Farmington Public Library.

August will mark her first display at Madonna College in the Exhibit Gallery, Library Wing. The opening reception will be held Sunday, Aug. 6, 2-4 p.m. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, and 1-5 p.m. on Friday. Open to the public, free admission. For more information, call 591-5124. Madonna College is at I-96 and Levan Road, Livonia.

STONEBRIDGE

Meet Mr. Seth and Mrs. Lindsey. Two friends sharing a moment that just might be remembered for the rest of their lives.

It's a scene that happens at a family community like Stonebridge, every day. On sidewalks where children play. At get-togethers where neighbors meet and talk. And in West Bloomfield schools where education is still a priority.

Stonebridge is much more than just quality homes. It's large bedrooms and family rooms, luxurious bathrooms, seven different floorplans, vaulted ceilings and European kitchens. But most of all living at Stonebridge is the start of something beautiful.

FORD CELEBRATION

A commemoration of auto pioneer Henry Ford's birthday is scheduled for Sunday at Henry Ford Estate-Fair Lane. The event, open to the public, runs from noon to 6 p.m. on the grounds of the estate, Evergreen Road across from Fairlane Town Center, Dearborn.

Featured will be the artistry of Charles W. Hardy, master of the musical saw. New to the festival this year will be treehouse and "bat-house" design workshops — opportunities for children to design a hideaway like Ford's private treehouse retreat, currently being reconstructed on the estate grounds and/or a bat-house like those Ford built to lure insect-controlling bats. Prizes will be awarded to the six best children's designs in both workshops.

Admission is $2 per person; parking is free. In addition, tours of the mansion and powerhouse will be available throughout the day: $4 adults; $3 students and senior citizens.

PHOTO COMPETITION

USED BOOK SALE

POULET EXHIBIT

Etchings and poetry of Livonia artist Jeanne Poulet are on exhibit at the Swords into Plowshares Peace Center & Gallery, Detroit.

Entitled "Man's Inhumanity to Man," the exhibit is from Poulet's set of poems and prints, "Bernard with a Suesse (pacifier)." Poulet designed her own process of etching consisting of dots and scratches (as opposed to lines) that become a composite. She recently has moved from black and white to color etching, used in the current exhibit.

The exhibit closes Oct. 7. The gallery is at 45 E. Adams, Detroit, next to the Detroit Council of the Arts. Regular hours are Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. For information, call 965-5422, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

STARS SERIES

Featured in the Thursday, Aug. 3 concert of Music Under the Stars sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission will be the New McKinney Cotton Pickers. The following week, the concert will feature Tom Saunders' Surf Side Six Dixieland group, at 7:30 p.m. and also at the barn site.

Set in a gated community, residents appreciate Aldingbrooke's world of privacy and custom options, with all the services they've come to expect from a luxury apartment community.

Residences up to 2800 square feet include such desirable features as private entryways, split-level or ranch-style designs, dens, breakfast rooms, cathedral ceilings, fireplaces and attached garages.

All for much less than you'd expect to pay for such luxury. From $650 to $1650 per month.

Whatever your mind can imagine in luxurious living, you can discover on your first visit to Aldingbrooke.

It is indeed rare and beautiful.

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two or three-bedroom ranch.) With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And—luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."
