Teachers to get lesson about minorities

By Leonard Poger

Wayne-Westland School District teachers are expected to have an increased awareness of human relations issues this fall, part of a longrange plan to help them and students become more informed about and sensitive toward minorities.

The teaching staff will have materials, teaching strategies and workshops related to the program for the upcoming school year, the school board was told Monday night. The next activity will be a com-

A group of 100 school district leaders will meet this fall, with staffs of targeted schools to meet in the spring.

Each principal will establish a human relations goal as part of the building's plan.

Increasing teacher awareness is the top priority in a series of steps to be taken, reported the district's newmunications training program with ly-formed human relations task force Monday night.

> THE GROUP has proposed a series of steps for the teaching staff, personnel department and curriculum staff to take in the next four Chairing the task force is William Harvey, associate superintendent, who said the group was formed to address the needs and changes in the community, help in the integration process and build human relations throughout the community.

School board member Kenneth

Barnhill Jr. said that about 9 to 10 percent of the district's students (16.500 last fall) are minorities, which the district defines as nonwhite people.

He noted that it is difficult to hire minority teachers because there are about 50 to 60 staff members on layoff who have first recall rights when there are openings.

Harvey said the task force will add other activities to the list of projects next fall.

Other planned activities are to have all grades and buildings have a program within its curriculum cov-

Kwiatkowski exam resumes

By LeAnne Rogers staff writer

The examination of a Westland man and his daughter on charges of attempting to kill a second daughter is scheduled to resume Friday

The hearing was adjourned Monday by 18th District Court Judge Gail McKnight at the request of defense attorneys for Valentine Kwiatkowski, 78, and his daughter

Valentine Kwiatkowski is charged with one count of assault with intent to commit murder and one felony firearm charge in the shooting of Anna Kwiatkowski, 32. Carol Kwiatkowski faces one count of assault with intent to commit murder.

There was some confusion in the courtroom, when Valentine Kwiatkowski did not appear for the examiniation, and over who was providing legal counsel for the pair.

Court appointed attorneys Gail Benson, representing Carol Kwaitkowski, and Marc Lakin, representing Valentine Kwiatkowski, sought the delay citing insufficient time to review the case materials.

"We were under the impression that the defendants had retained counsel, so we would ask for an adjournment," said Benson.

Although McKnight ordered court-appointed attorneys to defend the pair after they indicated they couldn't afford legal counsel at last week's arraignment, two private attorneys were retained by the father and daughter.

Attorney Gary Gardner indicated he had been retained by family members to represent Valentine Kwaitkowski last week. Over the weekend, Gardner said family members told him they did not to Valentine Kwiatkowski's absence from the court room. Police and attorneys in the courtroom told McKnight that they did not know the defendant's whereabouts at that time. After being released Monday morning from Westland Medical Center, Kwiatkowski was located at the Wayne County Jail and eventually transported to the court.

Anna Kwiatkowski was taking a nap, police said, when she was shot twice at close range with a .32 caliber handgun. When she was alive 90 minutes after being shot, police said her father and sister took her to the hospital.

Church collects money to help shooting victim

The Westland church where Anna Kwiatkowski used to attend services has established a fund to help to pay for the shooting victim's medical and living expenses.

"It was so typical of Anna to want to help others, and now she's in a position where she's going to need help herself," said Lorraine Hallinen, a member of Good Shepherd Reformed Church.

Hallinen said Kwiatkowski regularly attended services and church events until several years ago, when she joined another congregation in Canton Township.

Hallinen said Kwiatkowski, 32, often spent hours working on handmade craft items - cross-stitched pillows and flower arrangements - for friends and family members. Kwiatkowski isn't employed, but has done regular volunteer work at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, where she is recovering from two bullet wounds in her head. "She is one of the most thoughtful people I know," Hallinen said. Hallinen said the fund had received $100 in contributions as of Tuesday.

Police seek woman who saw accident

Westland police are seeking the identity of a woman believed to be an eye witness to a July 30 collision that claimed the life of a mother and grandmother, when a Livonia family was returning home after seeing the comedy movie, "Ghost Busters-II."

In a display of patriotic fervor, Westland city officials and veterans joined businessman Joe Boyle on a grassy knoll at the entrance of Westland Meadows earlier this week and dedicated the "largest possible (American) flag and pole."

2 educators promoted

William McLean and Dennis Chall, who have gone through teacher layoffs in the mid-1980s and were later recalled, were promoted Monday to assistant principalships at Stevenson Junior High School and Wayne Memorial High School, respectively.

They will replace others who were promoted to other administrative positions a month ago.

Chall will serve as an intern for one year to give him exposure to the post and let the administration see how he serves in that position.

But the promotions, particularly the one for McLean who is on the teacher layoff list because of low seniority, prompted one Wayne-Westland school board member to question if the actions would lead to a morale breakdown among teachers with more seniority.

The promotions, while confirmed unanimously by the board, were recommended by Superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

Board Trustee Kathleen Chorbagian commented that some teachers with more seniority than McLean and Chall may consider if their teaching jobs are "dead end."

She also said there may be a morale breakdown among other teachers because of the promotions of the two who were previously laid off and later recalled.

But O'Neill told Chorbagian that McLean and Chall have had a variety of experiences that were beneficial to them.

McLEAN, 41, came to the Wayne-Westland district in 1973 as a substitute teacher, getting a permanent morial in 1974, moving in 1980 to the post at Marshall Junior High the business education department. Volunteer child care plans get GOP boost

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Businesses from Livonia and Plymouth were among those honored for child care programs during a House Republican Task Force awards ceremony Monday in Livo-

The program honored 100 Michigan businesses that provided child care services to employees in the past year.

"We believe voluntarism is the way to go," said state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, chairman of the GOP task force and host for Monday's event.

"Health care in the U.S. is not mandated by the government - it's provided because you have good employees that you want to maintain," Bankes said. "And child care is even more important than health care."

Roughly 250 Michigan businesses provide some degree of child care services to their employees, Bankes said, calling the figure "way too low." Federal statistics, she said, show an increased demand for child care coupled with a rise in the number of female workers in the job

"WHAT WE'RE seeing is that there will be a majority female workforce and it will be a substantial majority," she said.

Businesses honored as child care innovators included Mervyn's, Inc. of Novi, honored for a $238,000 grant to the Michigan Child Care Coordinating Council Association. The grant is used for recruiting and training child care providers.

The program at Oakwood Hospital, Dearborn, was judged among the state's best for bringing together senior citizens and young children.

IBM Corp. and the accounting firm of Plante & Moran, both based in Southfield, were among those honored for their long commitment to child care.

Birmingham Public Schools was honored for its in-district child care program, Ann Arbor-was honored Bronson Healthcare Group, Kalamazoo, like Oakwood, was judged as providing the best program in the state. Its on-site facility is used by an estimated 200 employees.

Other businesses honored as innovators included Byrne Electrical Specialists, Rockford; Burger King Franchises of Kent and Ottawa counties and Ottawa County Child Care Systems.

Byrne was honored for its on-site facility and transportation program. The Burger King franchises were honored for direct subsidies paid to employees' child care providers. Ottawa County Quality Child Care systems was honored for building a child care consortium among area businesses.

Dinosaurs! Dinosaurs!

12 lifelike creatures once again draw crowds to Cranbrook

By Philip A. Sherman staff writer

The first thing you'll see when you round the corner of the Dinosaurs! Dinosaurs! exhibit at Cranbrook's Institute of Science is the Maiasaura. the "good mother reptile."

She lived somewhere between 72 million and 65 million years ago, in the late Cretaceous period. The Los Angeles-based Japanese company that recreated her, Kokoro Co. Ltd., gave her a pleasing face and the hardware to move in an extremely realistic fashion.

She's special to the exhibit because she's the most recent dinosaur discovery, according to Sylvia Crawford, communications coordinator for the Bloomfield Hills institute. She comes complete with offspring - a pair half her size moving around the edges of the exhibit, and a nest full of hatching eggs.

Her contribution to history: She provided evidence that dinosaurs cared for their young.

THE EXHIBIT, in its second summer, features 12 lifelike dinosaurs that move, snort, stomp, roll their eyes and appear to breath. Crawford says since the exhibit opened June 11, more than 27,500 visitors have walked through to see the most convincing set of replicas this side of Disney.

This program is designed to answer questions. If you've wondered what a dinosaur's skin must have felt like, then touch the box with the surface that looks like a three-dayold pepperoni pizza. It's warm, surprisingly flexible, yet obviously hard to pierce — the original Naugahyde, perhaps.

As an aide to blind visitors, each display has a miniature model of the dinosaur that can be touched, and all details about the exhibits are reproduced in braille.

.. The replicas themselves are threequarters the size of the dinosaurs they represent. That means the Tyrannosaurus, at 15 feet tall with teeth like bowling pins, is by far the most imposing dinosaur in the exhib-

Cranbrook complements the show with a slide program, "How Do We Know About Dinosaurs?" and a fossil lab. The exhibit runs through Sept. 10, including Labor Day. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday; until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and $2.50 for 3-17-year-olds.

Memories of Flight 255 easier for widow to bear

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Allison Maus' annual August trek to Michigan is a painful journey, one filled with sadness and memories of

Captain John Maus, Allison's husband of 18 years, was the pilot in command of Northwest flight 255 when it crashed shortly after takeoff from Detroit Metropolitan Airport two years ago this week, killing 156 friends Patty and Steve Cramer of Birmingham. Steve Cramer, wears a golden medallion about his neck, a man and woman contained in the circle of life, that John Maus was wearing at the time of the crash. Cramer and Allison discovered it weeks later, in a box of unclaimed debris from the accident that had been gathered by Wayne County Sheriff's deputies.

"You just go through life day by day. I think it takes forever to recov-

Maus, 44, of Seattle was in town

"I don't think you're ever, ever, ever the same again" after an unexpected tragedy, she said during an interview in the home of close for memorial services yesterday.

"I go places, I do things, I have friends. But there's that loneliness you feel. You know, the loss of that comforting feeling when your husband puts his arms around you? That kind of thing," Maus said.

THIS TRIP, however, is easier than last year's. "I've been through it once. I know what to expect." She spent most of Tuesday and Wednesday at the grassy knoll alongside Middlebelt and I-94 where flight 255 came to a final rest. She had delivered to it a huge floral spray in the shape of a rainbow.

"Sitting and visiting with the others, I feel peaceful. I also feel John's presence on the hill," she said. "Why spend the day alone when you can spend it with people who are feeling the same way you do?"

From time to time, Maus was approached on the knoll by others who have also lost loved ones. They are aware she is the widow of the pilot in commanded. There has never been words of reproach or blame. "I am seen as another grieving widow."

Maus maintains contact with the support group formed for friends and relatives of those who died in the crash. She also maintains contact with Jeanette Dodds, whose husband was co-pilot of the flight, and Jan Cook, whose husband, a Northwest captain, was a passenger on the flight.

Today, Maus and the Cramers leave for Florida, spending time in a condominium the two couples bought together some years back. The condo borders a small secluded lake where John Maus' ashes were scattered.

Maus will return to Detroit in October, to attend court hearings on lawsuits filed in connection with the crash. The suits are expected to establish liability, and Maus welcomes I happen to take exception to," Maus them.

"I THINK JOHN will finally have his day in court. There has been a lot of press the past two years, a result of McDonnell Douglas, and there are points that have never been count-

Northwest Airlines sued last week in Wayne County Circuit Court, charging McDonnell Douglas Corp., the manufacturer of the MD80 DC-9involved in flight 255, and Texas Instruments Inc./Klison, maker of an allegedly defective circuit breaker aboard, with primary liability in the

"McDonnell Douglas has been fined $180,000 for a defective anticollision light on the MD80, not for the defect but for knowing it was defective and then proceeding to use it on another 100 planes." Maus said.

"So what do they know about flight 255, that they are trying to cover up by blaming the pilot, which said.

In an effort to rebuild her life, Maus recently sold the Las Vegas house she and John shared for most of their marriage and moved back to Seattle, where both grew up.

"I thought the hard part would be selling the (Las Vegas) place. But the hard part was signing the papers for the new place. I realized I was going into this alone, and it made me feel so sad: The first week I cried and cried."

A FORMER FLIGHT attentiant for 12 years, Maus returned to college last school year, majoring in anthropology and maintaining a 4.9 average. Abortion plan gets narrow House approval area members of Congress were from the U.S. Treasury for aborrecorded on major roll call votes in tions. the week ending Aug. 5.

HOUSE:

ABORTION — By a vote of 206 for, and 219 against, the House refused to further restrict abortion in the District of Columbia. The defeated amendment sought to renew a ban on the District using its own revenue as well as federal payment to provide abortions for the poor. It also sought to toughen the ban so that the District's own money could nd longer be spent on abortions deemed necessary because the mother's life is at stake.

The vote occurred during debate on the D.C. appropriations bill (HR 3026) for fiscal 1990 later sent to the Senate. It liberalizes the federal abortion law as it is applied to D.C. But the federal city remains severe- Southfield.

Supporter Christopher Smith, R-N.J., said the House should seize "the opportunity to at least deny government largesse to these merchants of death" who perform abortions in Washington.

Opponent Richard Durbin, D-Ill., called the amendment "a sad commentary on the depths we can reach in Congress in perpetuating a plantation relationship with the residents of the District of Columbia."

Members voting yes wanted to further restrict public funding of abortions in D.C.

Michigan members voting yes were Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods and William Broomfield, R-Lake Orion.

Members voting no were William Ford, D-Taylor, Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth and Sander Levin, D-

SAVINGS AND LOAN RESCUE - By a vote of 170 for and 250 against, the House rejected a GOP attempt to put the initial $50 billion cost of the savings-and-loan rescue off the federal budget. The vote kept the thrift bailout bill (HR 1278) from being sent back to a House-Senate conference committee where the offbudget language was to have been added.

Later, however, the bill was returned to conference, following the Senate's refusal (below) to waive the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law to permit counting the $50 billion on the federal budget.

At issue was how to treat about $50 billion in immediate borrowing needed to close or merge hundreds of insolvent thrifts and meet insurance obligations to depositors. The compromise later sent to President Bush put $20 billion of the new debt on this year's budget and left the remaining $30 billion off-budget, to be raised by bonds floated by a government-chartered corporation.

Members voting yes supported off-budget financing of the initial $50 billion cost of the savings-andloan bailout.

Michigan members Pursell and Broomfield voted yes. Hertel, Ford and Levin voted no.

Earthworms — Nature's farmers

There are many natural phenomena that go unnoticed but are essential for life on earth. Plants in the legume family take hitrogen from the air and convert it into a form that can be used by plants. Bacteria and fungi invade dead trees and help break them down into nutrients available for living trees.

Another natural farmer found in gardens, meadows, and woodlands is the earthworm. Unless you are a person who likes to fish, you may not think about the importance of earthworms very often.

Even if you do not fish, you may become aware of earthworms on an early morning walk along a trail at one of the local parks. On the surface of the trail are numerous little piles of soil. If you get down on your knees notice that they are made of minute cylinders of soil.

When earthworms emerge at night from their underground resting places, they discharge soil which they consumed as they burrowed. These piles are called "castings" and are very important to soils.

ONCE YOU recognize what those little piles are, you begin to realize how many of them there are. When Darwin did his classic work on the and examine one carefully, you will earthworm years ago in England, he estimated that there were more than 50,000 earthworms in one acre of garden soil. Another study reported 700 earthworms in one square yard large animals when we consider the of meadow soil.

As earthworms burrow thru the soil, sometimes to depths of seven or eight feet, they bring to the surface minerals and nutrients that would be dependence-Oaks in Oakland unavailable to plants and animals.

Over the years, and multiplied by hundreds of earthworms, this process does what the farmers plow is designed to do. Darwin estimated that earthworms can process 18 tons of soil per acre annually.

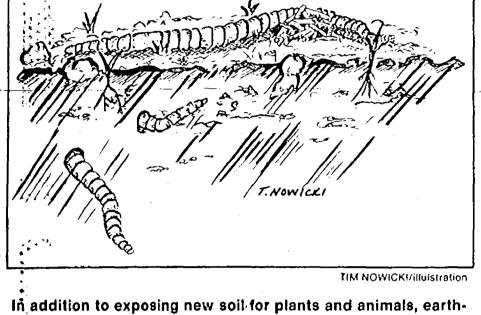

In addition to exposing new soil for plants and animals, earthworms add calcium from a special gland. They also grind soil into smaller particles, which makes minerals more accessible to plants. Their tunnels help aerate the soil and provide drainage for surplus water too.

Though we often only think of animal world, often the more obscure are the more important.

New Schoolcraft director knows all about transition

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Nancy Swanborg, a recognized pastoral minister and new director of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College, foresees no immediate change in policy.

"My intention is to spend the first year listening to the people who have been here. One needs time to understand history," Swanborg said of the center, founded in 1974 to assist women in transition.

During a recent interview in the orderly office she now occupies, wearing an Hawaiian lei from an early morning Fried Cakes and Friends affair with other college personnel, Swanborg, 44, spoke of the "transition" and "reaffirmation" affecting the lives of women.

She has been touched by both. A practicing Catholic, Swanborg was a wife, mother and licensed medical technologist when she "transitioned" coreers in 1984 and marital status in 1986, earning a graduate degree in pastoral ministry from Detroit's Marygrove College and divorcing her husband of nearly 20 years.

Each of the 8,000 or so women seeking services last school year from the Women's Center were also in transition of one sort or another, seeking emotional educational or vocational support, she said.

"ANYBODY WHO WALKS" in this door, any person questioning life, is a survivor.

'My intention is to spend the first year listening to the people who have been here. One needs time to understand history.'

- Nancy Swanborg new director

"Some may just want to talk about options. Some have never worked before and now need a job and new skills. Some know what they want but don't know how to go about getting it. Others have financial limitations, widows, divorcees, women caring for elderly parents, and want to know about available resources." Swanborg said.

The Women's Center, jointly financed by Schoolcraft College and state grants ($164,000 in 1988-89), is nationally recognized for a host of innovative programs, including counseling, referral, support groups, forums, courses and workshops aimed at women in the midst of making decisions and setting goals.

"The trick is listening to their story and working with their goals, facilitating their growth, at their pace," Swanborg added.

As director, she oversees a staff of five paid employees and 54 volunteers who last school year donated 4,000 hours of service. The job also senior.

includes "coordinating" future goals. During the upcoming year, Swanborg said, she will assess existing programs and the needs of the community.

"IN RECOGNITION of services. leadership and the promotion of women," reads a brass plaque in Swanborg's office, the Susan B. Anthony Award bestowed earlier this year by the Women's Commission at the University of Michigan-Dearborn where she directed the Gabriel Richard Center for Catholic Campus Min-

She held a similar position at Henry Ford Community College and, after completing studies at Marygrove, served as campus minister at Macomb Community College.

Swanborg switched careers after, "recognizing some of my best skills are working one on one.'

"I felt a personal need to be more involved with people" than medical technology afforded," she said.

The divorce came about after she realized, "choices made in good faith at 21 may not reconcile with how one experiences life at 40. You either remain or make a change.'

At the time, both "transitions" seemed to be "energy drainers." In retrospect, however, both have proven to be "energizing," periods of "reaffirmation."

Changes

Congressional feud in 1992?

OCAL VOTERS may see a much different political fight when they vote for a representative to Congress in 1992.

The reason is the 1990 census which is 'expected to show Michigan not growing as fast as other states and potentially losing two House of Representative seats for the 1992 election.

Based on informal conversations with political figures who are in position to know, the 1992 elections aren't a high priority right now. Most are concentrating on the 1990 races.

A lot of things have to happen in the 1990 elections to generate a congressional catfight in 1992. Much depends on whether the Republicans or Democrats control the state Legislature next year. Legally, it is the Legislature which reapportions the congressional districts. At the same time, each party wants to win the governor's seat since that person can veto any reapportionment plan.

There are several scenarios for the congressional fights in 1992.

But U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who had a tough challenge last fall from state Sen. Dana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, is only looking forward to next year's race.

"Pursell's district includes the north half of Livonia, Plymouth, half of Washtenaw County and rural counties west of Wayne County.

Democratic representatives, William Ford of the 15th District, and Sander Levin, 17th District, had it a bit easier last year.

Ford, whose district includes Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and the south half of Livonia, had no trouble in getting his usual 70 percent of the vote last year. Levin, who represents Redford Township and a part of south Oakland County, didn't have Republican Party opposition last year.

debate to be held in 1991-92 will be whether vet- in Congress will be.

The population shifts will mean a loss of political clout and fewer congressmen in 1992.

eran incumbents are thrown together in the same congressional district and are forced to battle each other to retain their seat in the House.

Depending on what happens with the two Detroit dominated districts, there could be a Pursell-Ford race in the general election or a Levin-Ford battle in a Democratic primary with the existing 15th district wiped off the map.

There is a possibility that one of the congressmen will retire but that isn't seen as a likelihood. But what does the reapportionment mean to local voters?

It represents the distinct possibility that you will have a different representative with a wider range of social and economic constituencies.

Even if Ford continues to represent the communities now in his district, there is a certainty that his new district in 1992 will also include a larger percentage of conservative Republican voters.

Currently, he is viewed as a strong supporter of union issues and other proposals which have an impact on his primarily blue-collar district.

Based on ratings by groups at opposite ends of the political spectrum, Levin is distinctly liberal while Pursell is viewed as a Republican moder-

The bottom line is that voters should keep an eye on the 1990 legislative and gubernatorial races as well as the census because they will THE BIG question during the reapportionment have an impact on who your next representative

Pollution in suburbs is a dream gone bad

NO ONE EVER envisioned our suburban backyards as the dumping grounds for an ever-expanding consumer society that they have be-

But more and more, residents who for years thought they had found a peaceful asylum, away from industrial waste and urban decay, are finding their dream turning into a nightmare.

Toxic waste dumps, leaking oil tanks, polluted bodies of waters in Wayne and Oakland counties — all are grim reminders of society's excesses and neglect.

Take a moment to look at three examples:

Longtime Plymouth business and civic activist Ralph Lorenz is one of those who feels victimized. So strongly does he feel this that he issuing a major oil company for a spill which has haunted his business for Lorenz, among other things, owns the Mayflower Hotel in downtown Plymouth as well as the Mayflower Meeting House directly across the street on Main.

Now the colorful Plymouth tycoon is a little more than irritated. And those of us who live and work in these beautiful communities should be just as concerned.

In the Lorenz case, fuel oil and gasoline from a corner gas station in downtown Plymouth has been leaking from tanks for an unknown number of years. It has seeped into the ground under Main Sreet as well as under the Lorenz meeting house which also contains a number of of-

MOST OF his tenants have moved out. But Ralph can't move. He owns the property. And the meeting house for years has been a special place in the Plymouth area for weddings and Sunday brunches, among other things.

As Ralph so aptly puts it. "I've got a building with AIDS.'

Now Ralph is no flower child. He is an old-style businessman who tries to work things out with a handshake. For years now he has been walking a tightrope between disgruntled renters and Amoco, the oil company in question.

Ralph feels he has cooperated in good faith in trying to solve the problem.

The Department of Natural Resources ordered Amoco to submit a cleanup plan. But the plan submitted was rejected by the DNR because it addressed only 75 percent of the con-, Aamination.

So much for handshakes. Amoco's reply to all of this is no

Steve Barnaby Ralph isn't alone in his ecological concerns. Up in West Bloomfield at Dodge Park No. 4, parkgoers are shying away from the water. The 10,000 cars per day has dipped to as few as 300 cars. In Farmington leaking underground storage tanks were discovered in the bus yard. District taxpayers will be socked with a $100,000 bill to replace 400 square yards of. contaminated dirt and installation of

Dorm drinking Some universities shirk duty

THE BROUHAHA OVER underage drinking in dorm rooms isn't new. Legally students can't drink until age 21, but that hasn't stopped them from easy ac-

What is new is the realization that this is a battle over rights: Students who drink infringe on the rights of roommates who don't. After all, these kids have to live together.

And let's not kid ourselves — those who drink are double trouble as sources of temptation and as less-than-model companions.

Out of that need, three years ago a group of parents, students, counselors and U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman joined together to push for changes in the way room assignments are handled at state universities. This year there is isome proof that their efforts are meeting with viuccess.

Of the state's 14 universities, 12 this fall will consider student preferences about alcohol use when pairing roommates. Wayne State Universi-Ly will do so in the fall of 1990. Drug abuse is yet Ito be addressed.

BUT THIS ISN'T a perfect world. Michigan State University declines to join the trend. The school claims it is working on the problem, with penalties such as expulsion for such offenses as underage drinking, with a program of education about alcohol use and counseling for students with drinking problems.

Unfortunately those programs only address the drinking student, not the rights of those students who abstain. Teetotalling students shouldn't be made to bear part of the problem.

Other universities not fully addressing the problem include Michigan Tech, Lake Superior State and Saginaw Valley State, all of whom offer the option to students of legal drinking age. Ferris State asks on its form about physical conditions, such as chemical dependency, that should be considered in making room assignments.

The efforts by the majority of our universities should be praised — as far as they've gone. But state legislation is needed to force compliance by other universities so that students have the right to real options and so those options are moni-

To the editor:

Enough is enough. I have often read and listened to and viewed those people on television news who are concerned with the wildlife being displaced and/or destroyed because of the invasion of their natural habitat, with the threat of developing golf courses.

It is obvious that these people do not frequent golf courses or they would see the abundance of wildlife on the courses. My husband and I enjoy the outdoors and are avid golfers. We usually play in Westland and Canton but also on courses in northern Michigan. One of the greatest pleasures we have, while on the course, is to watch and observe the wildlife. We have seen squirrels, birds of all species, geese, ducks, opposum, snakes, (uck) and deer, just to name a few.

I am sure that these people also fail to realize just how clean the courses are. The animals are not subjected to broken glass, plastic refuse, and used and abandoned appliances and car parts that, unfortunately, are found in designated "nature reserves" such as Holliday

My husband and I fully support the planning and development of golf courses, not only because it is an enjoyable sport, but also because the courses provide a safer environment for the wildlife.

We invite these concerned people to walk a few of the courses in Westland and to witness the abundance of wildlife first hand, and also to see To the editor: the clean environment in which these animals life, eat and play.

As one of the area's representative newspapers, you have so far only listed the candidates for office. You have avoided any and all issues in the campaigns.

As a subscriber I expect more. As a taxpayer and citizen I am interested in what the candidates espouse, what experience they have and what they are trying to do to get elected. I am also interested in what each candidate perceives as needing change and what they plan to do if elected.

You owe it to your readers to have your reporters out to do interviews and promote interest. So far, you have falled.

Lawbreakers to pay price

My own personal opinion is that Livonia District Judges James McCann and Robert Brzezinski conducted themselves with proper decorum, (referring to a previous letter headlined "Truth Hidden from the Jury," and printed July 27).

The sentence meted out to that pious do-gooder who saw fit to break the law was much too lenient. It is just too bad that she wasn't prosecuted under the Racketeering Act or RICOH. Under our current laws and our Constitution, the writer could hardly be classified as a baby and mom rescuer when in fact she knowingly and willfully broke the

As of now, the religious right and the fundamentalists, in spite of their concerted efforts to do so, have been unable to rewrite our Constitution to force their particular ideologies on our citizens with regard to religious conviction, prayer in schools, passing litmus tests on being a good, fundamentalist Christian in order to obtain an appointment to a federal position a la Ronald Reagan's administration, and the matter of freedom of choice for a woman.

If judges did indeed suppress the admission of religious dogma into the trial, they were mandated by law roadsides we pass by day after day. Somehow, though, summer draws special attention to the likes of the Lodge in Southfield, I-696 in Farmington Hills, I-275 in Livonia and the Jeffries in Redford Township.

Adopt-a-freeway Help beautify our roadsides HEY'RE ALWAYS there, those neglected

It's not a pretty sight. Litter lines all freeways, despite attempts by work crews collecting it. Grass is left uncut, and any landscaping is minimal at best,

Yuck.

It's not good for the state's image nor for the Self-esteem of Michigan residents either. But what are the options? Chewing on the ears of state and county transportation departments tikely will leave them feeling abused and disinelined to respond.

THERE MAY BE an answer found in the con-ept of private/public sector partnerships. It's a rogram called Adopt-a-Freeway, and that's 操作 Michigan Department of Transportation and Project Pride of Michigan came up with the idea for the project. The department doesn't have the money to maintain roadsides "from fence to fence," said Ernie Savas, MDOT district maintenance engineer. "We want to become partners with businesses to improve the image of the state and enhance their own properties."

MDOT may have to pave the way with some words of encouragement. It invited 500 participants to a luncheon at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn in May. A paltry 13 showed up, and eventually, 25 to 27 signed up for the program.

Next year the program may be extended statewide, as was a phone number (1-800-44-TRASH) to report littering, Savas said.

Landscaping may take up to a year to complete, but after that it's mostly a matter of main-

Maintenance may be a whole lot easier if motorists do their part to adopt the freeway they are driving on and not litter. More than 72,000 bags of litter were collected last year.

Tomatoes have him stewing

I FEEL STUPID, but I have to be honest about it.

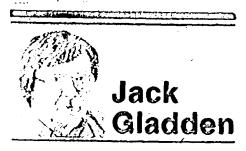

I've been intimidated by a tomato. . Not a giant vegetable beast, like the ones in "Attack of the Killer Tomatoes," nor a misshapen, botanical monstrosity like "The Eggplant that ate Chicago."

This is just your ordinary, gardenvariety tomato. Actually it is dozens of ordinary tomatoes - Romas, Early Girls, Big Girls - that are straining the vines in my modest backyard garden and occupying most of the counter space on the kitchen cabinets.

I'm probably the only home gardener in the world who can't grow squash. The vines produce a few fruits, then wither and die. But the tomatoes just keep coming.

I don't know what to do with them. Last year we ate them - every day during the harvest season. Sliced tomatoes, tomatoes in salads, fried tomatoes (both green and red), scalloped tomatoes.

eggplant, zucchini and other assorted bounties of the harvest for rata- canned tomatoes.

But enough is enough.

THIS YEAR, I decided, we'll can them. I had visions of Mason jars filled with spaghetti sauce and stewed tomatoes and tomato paste lining the shelves of the basement.

Then I made one of my fatal mistakes. I started reading.

I bought three home-canning books and one that was called simply

"The Tomato Book." Oh, boy. "Stocking Up III," one of the bibles of home canning prepared by the staff of the Rodale Food Center, has a small section called "The To-We made marinara sauce from mato Controversy." It discusses conscratch. We combined them with cerns by the U.S. Department of Agriculture about the safety of home-

The consensus is that tomatoes may not contain as much acid as once was thought, and therefore they should be processed at higher temperatures and for longer times in order to kill any dangerous bacteria.

As an extra precaution, the book says, you can add lemon juice to home-canned tomatoes to raise the acidity but this shouldn't be considered a substitute for the natural acid. I don't know what that means.

Another canner's blble, "Putting Food By," has an entire section on canning tomatoes and an even longer discussion of the botulism controversy. While it pretty much dismisses the USDA's concerns as long as home canners adhere to "rigid rules of cleanliness" and "follow the canning instructions to the letter," it still scared the hell out of me.

You can add lemon juice, it says, to raise the acidity but you must remember that "this acid is not a crutch."

"The Tomato Book" discusses the same topic, but says just to be safe add 2 teaspoons of vinegar to each quart of canned tomatoes. "This insures a proper level of acidity," the

"The Complete Book of Canning" doesn't discuss the issue at all.

I'M SO confused.' And I can picture dinner guests writhing on the floor after feasting on my homecanned spaghetti sauce.

So I'm sitting here, looking at all those tomatoes starting to rot on the kitchen counter, wondering what I'm going to do with the three dozen Mason jars in the basement.

"Maybe next year," I told my wife. "We'll get a pressure canner. All the books say that's safe enough." She's unimpressed.

"Why don't you just grow flowers?" she said. "You can press them between the pages of your canning books."

"Don't be smart," I said. "I'll figure this out."

"I'm sure you will, dear," she said. "By the way, that was an interesting dinner you made. I've never had scrambled tomatoes before."

Teacher delivered in L.A. high school

Q: The other night I saw the movie "Stand and Deliver." It was about a math teacher in a rough inner-city school district. The teacher was hired to teach computers but ended up teaching-math. He then asked to teach calculus, although he had no background or experience in calculus. In one year he had more of his students pass the advanced placement calculus test than had ever passed in the school's history. At the end of the movie, it was pointed out that in his high school he had something like 15 students pass the advanced placement calculus test in his first year, and by the fourth year 87 students passed. How did this teacher do this? He cared for his students and that is nice, but what did. he do to have such success?

school is a minor miracle. I have never heard of such success. The beauty of the movie you saw is that

You ask why the teacher was so successful. First of all, we know he cared deeply for his students. Furthermore, he rejected the notion poor kids can't learn. Whether they were bright, slow, arrogant, violent, obnoxious, warm or whatever, he clearly showed that they were his students.

His teaching methods are based on four proven techniques, possibly techniques he hadn't heard of but used instinctively. First, he had students repeat concepts aloud. He kept after each student to "say it," to repeat back to him what he had lectured. To get some students to verbalize in class is very difficult because most students are concerned of being embarrassed in front of peers. One of my favorite educational philosophers, Dr. Francis Langer, believed that a teacher does not really know if the student has learned something until the student can articulate the knowledge.

Reports indicate Escalante used the mastery learning concept based on Dr. Benjamin Bloom's theories. He would pretest the students to determine the level of their skills. He would then structure his teaching to the students' level. He would then retest and reteach until each student mastered the skills necessary to be competent in calculus.

The third factor was the "selfpaced" process. Faster students moved ahead, slower students were given time to catch up. The brighter student helped the slower student. It is called cooperative learning.

The fourth major factor was the teacher's expectations and belief that his students could learn. He perceived them as having the potential to pass the advanced placement calculus test. Two noted psychologists, Lenore F. Jacobson and Robert Rosenthal, did a classic study in regard to teacher expectations for the disadvantaged. This study set up two similar groups of students in adjacent classrooms. The students had basically the same IQ, test scores, socio-economic background, etc. One teacher was taken aside by a Harvard University research team and told that all evidence indicates that his "C" students were a unique group and Harvard's testing indicated they would exceed anything they had ever done in the past. His students would, indeed, make quantum leaps in classroom achievement.

August sky features 2 eclipses

THE LAST HALF of August features two eclipses - only one of which is visible to us.

Full moon was at 11:07 p.m. on Aug. 16. The moon is opposite the sun, as seen from the earth, and is fully lighted. In fact, the moon is exactly opposite the two, and it was totally eclipsed as it passed through the earth's shadow. This is a lunar eclipse, an eclipse (covering) of the

The earth always casts a shadow. It always points away from the sun and out into space. When the moon is opposite the sun, as the moon is during its full phase, it usually passesabove or below our shadow and remains lighted. But should things line up precisely, the moon will pass through the shadow, and the light of the sun, streaming past the earth is blocked.

Many eclipses are partial; the alignment is close but not exact. The moon will pass through a part of the shadow and only a portion of the moon will darken. This month, however, the alignment happens to be quite precise. This produced a total eclipse; the moon was totally covsiderably.'The last total eclipse visible from our area was in 1982.

An eclipse of the moon is totally safe to observe. Best views of the eclipse will be through binoculars or with a telescope at low power, although there will be plenty to enjoy if you just go out and watch with the naked eye.

Area people try to make inner-city shelter reality

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Across a fresh coat of gray paint, the black letters read: "For Homeless Women and Children."

The name sums it up, but if only it were that simple. Inside the cement block shell in the heart of the Cass Corridor on this Saturday morning are a handful of area volunteers who are trying to make the building live up to its name.

The Children's Sanctuary when, or if, completed will be a daytime shelter for homeless women and children. The place will provide a temporary base during the day to help them get their lives in order.

Many overnight shelters are closed to the homeless during the day, leaving them out on the street.

Plans at the Children's Sanctuary include services like job counseling and self-esteem enrichment courses. More importantly, it will give homeless mothers an address in order to enroll their children in Sister Sue Anne Brorby of Plymouth points to the imaginary areas where these services would take place. Several real obstacles, though, stand in the way.

The group is short on supplies, such as celling tiles, dry wall and insulation. Also staring them in the face is a $3,119 insurance bill.

Perhaps the only thing the group hasn't been short on is commitment from its volunteers. What once was a pipe dream, through some caring hands could become

"IT WAS one coincidence after another that led to this," Sister Brorby said. "There has been a lot of determination that's what got us this far."

The Children's Sanctuary has been a collection of short stories of people who provided the right stuff when needed.

Like, for instance, the Westland woman who got in touch with Darlene Feldman of Farmington Hills, who is director of Detroit Cover-

The woman asked Feldman how she could help the homeless. Feldman told her about the shelter and how it needed electrical work. The woman on the phone, Barbara Anderson of Westland, just happened to be married to an electrician and had a'son who was one as well.

Anderson called her husband's boss. Ray Litt of Litt Electric in Detroit donated the material as eight people spent three weekends doing electrical work.

"I found it very ironic," Anderson said. "The guys from the shop - as soon as I asked - they were willing to help."

Then there was obtaining the building itself. Feldman delivers blankets during the winter months to people in the Cass Corridor. She would always pass a vacant structure that sits near the corner of Cass and Selden.

Something struck her about the building, Feldman said. So she took down the phone number and called the owner.

WITH NO money, Feldman made an appointment with the man

work on the interior of the building.

to discuss the possibility of renting the building. Afterward, she received a call from Sister Brorby, who told her about an architectual group from the University of Michigan. The group was interested in designing a structure for the homeless as a class project.

> About nine people, including some people from U-M, met with the owner of the building.

> "He took the keys out of his pocket and handed them to me," Feldman said. "He said, 'I don't like bureaucracy.' He told us to use the building to store blankets and if we get funding, we could use it for the sanctuary.'

The owner of building, who wants to remain anonymous, gave the group a three-year lease.

Such stories only makes those involved believe its fate that the sanctuary will open. The need is certainly there.

Estimates vary, but it's said there are 30,000 homeless people in Detroit. Yet, there are only 500 beds available.

A growing number of the homeless are women and children. Many of them don't go to shelters.

'The stories I'm hearing, I don't blame them for not going to shelters," Feldman said. "The women and children in the street are exposed to sexual harassment."

THE CHILDREN'S Sanctuary will be modeled after similar transitional living centers (TLCs) in Washington D.C. and Philadelphia. The shelter would be the first of its type in Detroit. A lack of money and supplies loom, though. The phone number for the sanctuary has been disconnected and volunteers can only work when they have the materi-The major concern at the moment is the insurance bill, which would have to be paid for the sanctuary to open.

People like Vince Schikora of Livonia work with unfettered determination. Schikora is like many volunteers who became involved through the Livonia-based Active Friends of the Homeless.

"I know people need these things," said Schikora, who is retired. "It's a wonderful feeling, and it's exhaustive at the same time."

AFOTH meets regularly at St. Edith Catholic Church in Livonia: The group has been involved in a myriad of functions, from soup kitchens to rehabilitating hornes for the homeless.

Marianne Weber of Ann Afbor started working on the sanctuary as part of class project at U-M. The class assignment has long been finished, but on this Saturday morning, she's still pulling down old ceiling tiles.

'You can't walk away from it," said Weber, who recently received her master's degree in architecture. "You talk to the people down here and you feel sorry for them. You can't turn your back on them."

Last act?

Group wouldn't let it happen

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

The memories of performing with The Spotlight Players smolder in Tobin Hissong's mind.

Like the time when cast members accidentally set-off a fire alarm at Westland John Glenn High School during one of their productions. That humorous anecdote, along with the blown fuses during performances and props gone awry, brings a slight smile to his face.

"A large majority of the cast at the time smoked," said Hissong, who lives in Canton. "Everyone was gathered at the back door so the smoke would go out. The wind changed and it set off the fire alarm. As soon as we knew it the fire department was there.'

Fire hoses, though, couldn't douse the determination that has seen The Spotlight Players through 30 years.

Like many theater groups in the area, The Spotlight Players has been faced with dwindling membership, a lack of support from business and a seemingly general indifference from the community.

The Spotlight Players didn't have one performance in the 1988-89 season. Talk even centered on the group possibly disbanding, according to Hissong.

"It came to the point either we do a show," Hissong said, "or discuss the possibility of breaking up the group."

A DEDICATED core of people wouldn't let that happen. The group is currently in production with "Broadway, Broadway, Broadway" at St. John Episcopal Church in

Dear S.A.

Congratulations on your forthcoming marriage! A pleasant young lady comes into care a significant issue since 1984, resulting in major advances in this area at Ford, Chrysler and General Motors.

You are self-protective. I suspect few people know your innermost feelings.

A pilot program for resource and referral programs that began at several Ford locations in 1984, including seven Michigan plants, has recently been expanded to a total of 28 locations.

In June, Chrysler made headlines with its announcement of an on-site child-care center at its electronics plant in Huntsville, Alabama. The center is scheduled to open in 1991. This plant was chosen because more than 50 percent of the workers are women, and 70 percent of them are of child-bearing age.

Chrysler has set up resource and referral programs at plants in Sterling Heights and Warren also. Needs assessments are currently being conducted at five other U.S. facilities.

In 1987, General Motors expanded a 1984 pilot program through a commitment to make the collection and distribution of child-care resources available to all U.S. plants.

THE EXTENT of these services varies widely depending on need.

Peter Pestillo, Ford vice president, Employee and External Affairs, said that he is proud of his company's role in the "joint effort with the UAW to meet the family needs of today's UAW-represented

The UAW has considered child workers for quality day-care, parent education and other services."

He stressed the importance of "finding workable solutions to some of the toughest problems faced by today's parents.' Ford's program is currently the most extensive in the industry. A child-care specialist is assigned to each plant.

The specialist then helps any worker asking assistance in finding child care by compiling a list of licensed providers meeting his specifications.

Ford's program includes other features: a 24-hour child-care hotline, summer camp programs, assistance to families with handicapped children, tutors and more.

The resource and referral offices also hold seminars to acquaint childcare providers with the needs of UAW-Ford families.

The UAW plans to continue pressing for child-care benefits during the 1990 contract talks.

Proposals will include more onsite centers as well as companyfunded assistance with child-care

"WE'VE BEEN around for 30 years," said Carla R. Lenhoff, president of The Spotlight Players, " and the majority of the population doesn't know who we are." That is a familiar lament from other community theater groups in the area. One group, The Garden City Civic Theatre, even folded a few years ago because of a lack of membership.

"We have had, problems in the past," said Donna Eno, board member of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford, "but not to the degree where the Guild was in Jeopardy."

· Eno said attendance has fallen slightly at shows as has the number of season-ticket holders. Also membership has declined somewhat, she

Lois Tobin of Westland is the education chairwoman of the Community Theater Association of Michigan. She said her organization is looking into why some community theater groups suffer while others - such as in Grosse Pointe - do well.

A lack of volunteers could be one reason, Tobin said. Another problem, especially for a group such as The Spotlight Players, is a lack of a theater. "You see the problems are different for community theater groups in the Metro Detroit area than for those in the country," said Tobin, who helped found The Spotlight Players. "There's a lot more competition with the Fisher Theatre and the Birmingham Theatre in the area.'

Lenhoff offers another possible reason for the lack of interest in community theater.

"You have a generation of people who've grown up in a high-tech society," said Lenhoff, who lives in Westland. "The theater is not high-tech. You have to use your imagination a bit more."

NOT ONLY did The Spotlight Players need imagination for its latest effort, the group had a bit of

What hostess wouldn't like a little help in cooking up some fancy fare for her dinner party?

Sally Hirzel of Rochester recently not only got a little help - she got a ehef to whip up a six-course gourmet meal from her kitchen.

It was all part of a package that her husband, Matt, successfully bid on at an auction to aid Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

The package, which was won with a high bid of several hundred dollars, included the services of the Detroitbased Chuck Muer's restaurant's Executive Chef Chuck Rachwitz, who donated his expertise to the cause.

It also included a printed menu detailing the luscious fare, and a lavish table setting in a pink and white color scheme. The meal was served by an assistant, Ticia Drakey, who usually works evenings at Charley's Crab, Troy.

It also included that all-important step for a hostess - cleanup.

"I like the work that they do," said Matt Hirzel of the reason he supports Children's Hospital. "We're both from large families," he said of himself and Sally Hirzel. "We know what it's like to live without a lot. Now it's time to give a little and we enjoy it. My heart goes out to the most basic and common of all human ailments, no one really knows what initially touches off the complex chain of physiological events that make a head throb.

Causes of headaches still unknown

Although the causes aren't clearcut, effective remedies are available, and no needs to be plagued by chronic headaches, according to pain experts at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

Headaches are related to many factors. Stress and muscle tension top the list. Other commonly observed "triggers" are chocolate and cheese, caffeine and alcohol, changes in the weather and in one's daily schedule to name a few.

The key to dealing with a throbbing head is to recognize the type of headache and the possible events or factors that precede its onset. By recognizing those cues, people can learn to arrest the pain of a headache in full bloom and prevent a potential head-splitter from developing. Headaches are classified in two major categories - vascular or muscle tension. Perhaps the most infamous of the vascular headaches is the migrane. It is known as a vascular headache because the pain results from dilation or inflammation of blood vessels or irritation in surrounding areas of the brain.

The classic migraine is usually

While headaches are among the preceded by disturbances in vision, ranging from blurriness to blind spots. About 30 minutes before the pain sets in, migraine sufferers may see flashes of light, squiggly lines or bright zig-zags. They may also experience numbness, tingling or weakness on one side of the body, loss of coherent language function and nausea or vomiting.

In this stage, "blood vessels within the brain are constricting, resulting in symptoms like those of a stroke,' said Dr. Douglas Gelb, assistant professor of neurology at U-M.

LATER, MIGRAINE suffers will develop a throbbing pain that varies in intensity, frequency and location in the head.

Only 15 percent of the people who have migraines have the classic migraine. The rest have a second type known as the common migraine, said Margie Van Meter, clinical nurse specialist at the Coordinated Chronic Pain Program in the U-M department of anesthesiology.

The common migraine is also a vascular headache that occures in the area around the eyes, but does not involve neurological, strokelike symptoms.

"Common migraines are often thought to be sinus headaches because they occur in vascular areas near the eyes and across the forehead where the sinuse are, and people often get them around the time the weather changes," Van Meter

In addition to atmospheric pressure fronts, other migraine triggers include getting too little or too much sleep, eating a wide variety of foods, skipping meals, menstruating and

Ironically, stress-induced migraines often occur in the "letdown" period after stressful events have ended. One variant of this is what Van Meter calls a "Saturday morning migraine."

"Many people with no regular. stress reduction program, such as exercise, let the stress build up until Friday and then it catches up with them on the letdown day, so they wake up with a headache on Saturday morning," she said.

The muscle contraction headache results from sustained tension in the neck and shoulders. These are marked by dull, steady pain in various locations, including the back of the head. They are triggered by stress, traumatic injuries, disorders of the jaw or neck and depression.

OCCASIONAL vascular type headaches can often be banished with ordinary aspirin or by acetaminophen and ibuprofen, non-aspirin pain relievers that are less irritating to the stomach than aspirin. An ice pack placed in the area also may help soothe the throbbing of a migraine, while a heating pad across the neck and shoulders is more helpful for the muscle tension headaches. Some people find relief by lying quietly in a darkened room, while others feel better if the head is elevated. Music helps some people're-; lax; others are sensitive to noise prefer a shroud of silence. In general, whatever makes a person most comfortable is likely; to help, Van Meter sald.

While excessive caffeine can trig: ger a headache in some, its effect can relieve minor headache pain inothers. Many people find relief by, taking a couple of aspirin with a cola, or a cup of coffee, she said.

People with severe, chronic head. aches that aren't controlled by common pain relievers are treated with stronger prescription drugs, such as codeine. For those with severe vascular-type headaches, physicians may prescribe beta blockers or calcium, channel blockers, drugs that stabilize the blood vessels to keep them from dilating or contracting.

Muscle-tension headaches can be treated with non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs. Anti-depressants are also sometimes used to prevent headaches. While headaches are sometimes just a minor annoyance, they can be debilitating and should not be ignored.

Church celebrates a proud moment

By Julie Brown staff writer

Parishioners at St. Thomas A'Becket Catholic Church in Canton dedicated their Family Life Center Sunday with a noon Mass celebrated by Cardinal Edmund Szoka.

After Mass, parishioners gathered in the family room of the new facility for a prayer of consecration. The choir sang, Szoka blessed the new facility and recited a concluding prayer.

"They are just absolutely, deliriously happy," said the Rev. Ernest Porcari, a priest at St. Thomas A'Becket. Parishioners were delighted to see the facility completed. About 360 people celebrated the project's completion at an Aug. 4, dedication dance.

"Everybody was joyful, dancing, celebrating," Porcari said.

WORK ON the 14,300 square foot facility started in September 1988. It cost about $889,000 to

The family room, or gymnasium/assembly area, is designed to accommodate those playing basketball, volleyball, "any game that can be played inside, especially in the wintertime," Porcari said.

That room will also provide space for dances, Halloween and Christmas parties, and other group activities for children and adults. The room will be used for portionsof worship services on some occasions, such as on Palm Sunday, when the liturgy will begin there and continue in the church.

The family room has kitchen facilities in an adjoining room. Ongoing social activities that are part of . the life of St. Thomas A'Becket will be held in the large room. There are no current plans to rent the family room for use by non-members for weddings or other gather-

"The other wing is all classrooms," Porcari said. There are four classrooms; each has a partition, making it possible to divide -the rooms in half.

The classrooms will be used for religious education classes for children and adults.

AT SOME point in the future, the classrooms could be used as part of a Catholic elementary school for

"There are plenty of children," he said. "The interest is there." Currently, children attend Catholia schools in neighboring communis ties, such as Livonia, Wayne and Garden City. The Family Life Center includes: a wing with administrative offices; and workrooms. There's also a lob-; by that will be used at times for weekday Masses.

Planning for the project started about three years ago.

"I have to say the people of the parish have been extremely generous." Porcari said. "They have sacrificed a lot to have these facili-

Parishioners have undertaken two pledge drives, one for the church and one for the Family Life Center.

"They are really unbelievably good, generous people," he said. "Young families have sacrificed so much, because they really love their church."

Church members pledged about $550,000 to help build the Family Life Center. An additional $330,000 was borrowed from the Archdiocese of Detroit, with the understanding that it is to be paid back over 10 years.

Worshipers from St. Thomas-A'Becket gathered for Mass for the first time on June 19, 1977. Mass at that time was celebrated at Field Elementary School in Canton.

Construction of the church building was completed in 1981. Nearly, 1,400 families now worship at St. Thomas A'Becket.

It's a question worth asking

"Do you regard yourself as a producer or a consumer?"

It's a question I ask in premarital counseling sessions. It usually gengoes much further than economic life. terminology. It has to do with each person's relation to life itself.

The question is evocative. I use it to discuss each person's perception of their purpose in life. I want to know what role they will accept in their life-journey. It is not a matter of what they are selling or buying. It is what they are going to do with their life.

I have yet to meet the one who considers their priority in life as a consumer. Without exception, each person wants their role and purpose in life to be a producer of worth and meaning. Their first function is to be responsible for life itself and to pass. it on to the next generation with dignity and gratitude.

ADMITTEDLY, THE group is a select group. Only in very special cases will I officiate at marriage rites for couples not affiliated with the parish I serve as pastor. Couples willing to participate in extended premarital conversations with clergy already have a predisposition to issues and concerns religious.

Answering the question is easier than organizing a marriage to live it. Doing what two choose to do can be very different from discussing what two might want to do.

Marriage is more than an experience of personal delight and satisfaction. Marriage is also the opportunity to engage commitment and erates extended discussion. The issue faithfulness in witness to all public

> Individual aspirations and careers come under careful scrutiny in these discussions. More often than not, careers or work choices are the answer to what one likes to do. It's the way the question is often asked . . . "what would you like to do?"

> It is a question that produces more problems than it can solve. The quest tion itself hints to a consumer-type response. Asking whether one is a consumer or producer has a way of exposing the choices that gratify the self at the expense of others.

> "Do you regard yourself as a consumer or a producer?" It's a question I use in premarital counseling sessions because it introduces an issue basic to the well-being of our public life. It is not an issue exclusive to those who choose to join together as male and female in the -continuance of life.

> It raises the same concerns when it is asked of each individual. Serious attention to all that this question introduces would create a public life committed to the care of one and another. Caveat emptor.

At the July Board of Directors meeting, The Senior Alliance board delegates voted unanimously to rename their holiday meals program "Senior Alliance Holiday Meals."

The name change is due to the disbanding of The Senior Alliance (Area Agency on 1-C) and Area Agency on Aging 1-B. Under the term of their "Holiday Meals on Wheels" joint operating agreement, both agencies were working as one to meet the needs of homebound elderly at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter.

The Senior Alliance just began serving meals to homebound seniors in Out-Wayne County this past holiday season and only has the capabilities to deliver meals on the three upcoming holidays: Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter. Region 1-B, however, began their program in Macomb, Washtenaw, Livingston, Oakland and St. Clair counties three years ago and is now in the process of expanding the number of holidays they serve.

Spending outpaces saving

"Your eyes are bigger than your stomach." Most of us have heard this phrase applied to a child's desire for more than can be eaten. This month's financial profile features a couple whose financial desires may outstrip their ability to pay for them.

Sam and Holly Stiles live in a house in Livonia that they own outright. Sam, 42, is a mechanic who earns $30,000 per year. Holly, in her mid-50s, works a few hours a week as a merchandiser and earns about $2,000 per year.

They have no dependent children at home. Holly has a daughter from a previous marriage and has three grandchildren. They plan to buy a new house this fall for $140,000. After selling expenses, they should realize $90,000 from the sale of their $450. present house.

FAMILY FINANCES

Given their retirement situation, it is desirable to continue to build their personal assets. But once they buy this house, they will have an additional outlay of more than $400 per month, which is a significant item in their budget. They should carefully have bought shares of nine separate mutual funds in amounts of $1,000 to $2,000. Mutual funds are certainly appropriate for their situation, and most of the funds they own are good

With interest rates currently at reasonable levels, we would strongly suggest that they take a fixed-rate mortgage on the house rather than a variable rate.

With Sam planning to retire at age 62 in 20 years. We would suggest that they plan to have this mortgage paid off by that date. Either a 15year fixed mortgage or a 30-year mortgage amortized over 20 years would be good alternatives.

A $50,000 mortgage at 10 percent over 30 years would require a payment of $403; to amortize it over 20 years would require a payment of

Sam and Holly should realize that They are also concerned about buying this new house will affect preparing for their golden years. their ability to save for other goals.

erty insurance that fully covers their home and autos (after deductibles) and have prudently chosen the maximum limits of liability available with these policies.

Sam has a combination of group and personal disability policies that covers about two-thirds of his current income. This appears to be adequate coverage.

One insurance area that requires immediate attention is life insurance. He has an old $5,000 whole life. policy, and his employer maintains a $20,000 group term life policy on him. If Holly were to find herself a widow, this $25,000 would not go far. She does not have the ability to bridge this major shortfall through her own earnings.

In one year, she might easily need to spend the insurance proceeds to maintain her standard of living, and in two to three years all of their savings could be depleted. Subsequently, she could be left with a modest earnings potential and no other means of support. Widows' benefits from Social Security are not available until age 60, and the benefit is modest at best.

Because Sam is healthy, he should have no problem obtaining additional coverage. We would suggest buying $150,000 to $200,000 in additional death benfits. A combination of permanent coverage and five- or 10-year level-term coverage might be appropriate for their situation.

We suggest he avoid the mortgage insurance that will be offered to him when they buy their new house. Such coverage can usually be obtained less expensively with a personal policy, assuming the individual is in good physical health.

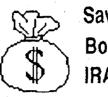

It is important that Sam and Holly carefully review their financial priorities and their expenditures. This will ensure that their money is truly directed toward the most important areas for them. It may be necessary to compromise in several areas. We believe that the satisfaction of knowing that they are secure financially is worth the effort.

A woman with an eye for detail has opened a business in Birmingham intended to save families the tedious task of recording all personal possessions for insurance pur-

Barbara Kenitz, president of Lifetime Collection Home Inventory. opened shop in June and already has put together a number of personal assets records for homeowners. The business is believed to be the first of its kind in Michigan, though a similar service is operating in Califor-

Kenitz's service is offered in three levels, with the most comprehensive package including photographs of all possessions, inventory lists plus a financial section where a homeowner lists all stocks, bonds, bank accounts and other liquid assets. "People always mean to do this, keep better records of what they have but it's such a grueling task that it is often put off and when disaster strikes, there are no accurate records to turn over to insurance companies. We do this for them, getting into closels and drawers and making a full inventory of their possessions," Kenitz explained.

She has been meeting with several insurance companies to explain her service and providing brochures should one of the clients wish to have a full inventory done.

Local insurance agents contacted agreed that having an inventory is a necessity, not only to provide proof of loss but also to determine if a home is underinsured. The agents had mixed feelings about whether having to go through the tedium of service.

GEORGE SAMRA, of State Farm's Farmington office, said that most people don't have any kind of inventory. He suggests that his clients videotape their belongings but admitted that keeping track of what is in a house isn't a high priority.

"They mean well but once they walk out of the insurance office, they start thinking about other things. People don't expect a loss so, should something devastating occur, they are often ill-prepared."

He added that the "overwhelming nature" of conducting a full inventory discourages most homeowners from keeping an accurate and up-to-

to add credibility to any claims they might make.

Kenitz counters that her inventory is a one-time charge while the more comprehensive insurance policies are an annual higher assessment.

For a 2,000-square-foot home with an average number of possessions, the fee would range from $1,200 to $1,800 for her top-of-the-line package. The price is based on the size of the house, scope of possessions and extent of service provided,

THE FULL PACKAGE includes a binder that stores all photographs, negatives, inventory and estate planning information. Homeowners also can opt for purchasing just the inventory sheets and then filling them out on their own.

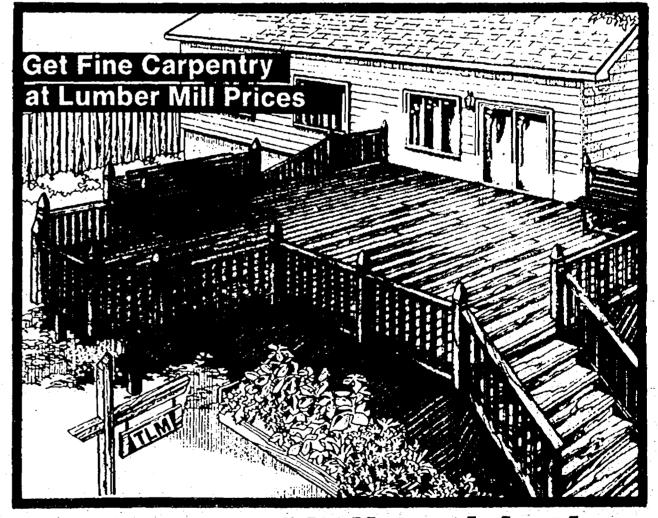

When Kenitz's firm does the inventory, the information is kept on a computer disk that is stored in a vault for safe keeping. She recommends that homeowners keep their inventory information in a safe place, either in a safety deposit box, a vault at work or have a duplicate copy made and stored somewhere other than the house.

Appraisals are important in determining the actual worth of items that appreciate, such as jewelry, fine art and collectibles. She refers clients to appraisers but does not appraise herself.

"Once we go through a house and inventory everything, take pictures and give the homeowners an idea of what information should be written down in case of an emergency, they have a true understanding of what their personal assets are," Kenitz ex-

Politicians don't want to cut auto emissions

A fundamental part of the American psyche is a nagging suspicion that the auto industry is somehow holding out on them - that somebody knows how to make a car that runs on water, or flies over traffic jams, or can be rammed into the front of a ready-mix cement truck with impunity — but such a car will never be built because the bigwigs in Detroit are too insular to do it, or have formed a conspiracy to keep some little guy's invention in a clos-

Actually there is some substance to this suspicion, since the bigwigs in Detroit are pretty insular, and established automakers have been sifting through various schemes and proposwould probably toss a guy with a car car fleets sold in this country.

that really did run on water out without trying a tankful.

THERE ALSO is the basic track record of an industry that, while not inventing things as fast as they used to, still managed to cut its fuel consumption in half and clean up about 80 percent of its noxious exhaust emissions in a decade or so of engineering - a feat that lends some support. to the theory that they really can do some improving if something forces

Still, there is something discomforting about the recent initiatives to toughen emission standards and reduce gasoline consumption in the United States by legislating imals for so long they are jaded and proved average mileage for the new-

I have a suspicion that these are a couple of politically easy routes to follow, sort of like protecting baby harp seals, less influenced by logic as by a feeling somebody out there has some easy answers to tough questions.

By now it appears we may well be drowning in our own carbon dioxide, laying the groundwork for a revival of the age of reptiles with our relentless consumption of fossil fuels. At least with gasoline today only slightly more expensive than water, this is the main argument proposed for forcing higher average fleet mileages on the domestic and European auto industries.

IF THERE were a serious concernabout gasoline consumption, one of the few direct solutions would be a direct regulation of gasoline consumed - real card-carrying gasoline rationing. Anything less is unlikely to put a real dent in the national consumption, since improved fleet averages are quickly offset by anything from booming light truck sales, the huge existing supply of gas-guzzlers on the road or more trips to Yellowstone in the summer.

Likewise, a program to confiscate the cars of the poor would be the most dramatic solution to auto emissions. It's obvious that aging hogs, spewing oil fumes and lacking even an uncracked pane of glass, dump enough condensed acid rain into the atmosphere that a hundred modern ozone-free cars can't offset them.

Instead of these possibly effective

- albeit radical - solutions, we have a president pledged to maintain the low price of gas, let alone supporting gas rationing, and local emission inspection laws similar to the tri-county area's that simply exempt old cars from inspection - or license plates that cost proportionately more for small cars than large

I suspect what is being passed off as a new toughness on the auto industry in Washington is more likely a kind of political placebo, a series of legislative initiatives with little real-world impact on the problems they claim to solve, while the real world goes deeper into its commuting cocoon, with its stereo turned on

By Sid Mittra special writer ...

At a recent planning seminar I presented the computations behind the monthly payments on various types of loans. The one method that intrigued most attendees relates to the way the auto loan payments are made.

Because of its general interest, this column is devoted to a discussion of auto loan payments, the data for which are provided by John M. Savio, vice president, Michigan State University Federal Credit Union in Auburn Hills.

The amount of actual monthly payments required to retire a $1,000 declining balance loan at different interest rates and for various maturities are presented in Table 1.

For instance, a monthly payment of $33.22 is required to retire a 36month loan at 12 percent interest. A $15,000 loan would require monthly payments of $498.30 ($33.22 x 15).

In Table 2 the method of splitting the monthly payments between interest and principal is presented. Since the monthly payment remains fixed at $33.22 throughout the life of the loan, interest payments decline while principal payments rise proportionately to keep the monthly payments fixed.

The total interest over the 36month period on this loan is $195.92. On a $15,000 loan, the interest would be a whopping $2,938.80.

Business pays when management plays favorites

John had been working at a busy video sales and rental business for less than a month before identifying a major problem involving his coworkers and his boss.

"Whenever Susan showed up for work on time, she was practically congratulated. She was just another salesperson, but you'd think she owned the place since she could come and go as she pleased."

According to John, Susan almost always had some problem that prevented her from coming to work on time. "I heard her mention car accidents, baby-sitter problems and food poisoning as excuses for being hours late three days in a row. And every time she'd come in late, the manager would just shrug her shoulders and say, 'Susan's got it rough, so don't hassle her.'

"Although no one else seemed to mind, I was hassled. Susan's being late or not showing up for work at all meant extra work for me, and everyone else was forced to cover for

It wasn't long before John found another sales position with a competitor. "I know I'm better off for leaving that place, but it still grinds me that I was the one who ended up quitting instead of her getting fired as she should have."

John's experience represents just knew what to do and it worked," said John. "But it isn't easy when management ignores the problem completely."

Kathy Kapur, a Bloomfield Hills management consultant, says a specific plan is needed for those who feel victimized in their work. "First, employees should prepare

This family plays — and wins — together

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

When softball coach Bruno Genrich has something to say to his players, they listen.

They'd better listen!

Seven of the 14 players on the Little Caesars G-Men team are sons of Genrich and literally grew up under his tutelage.

'They have to pay attention to their father," Genrich said.

Softball became a family affair two years ago for the Genriches, who lived in Westland before moving to Canton in 1976.

The oldest son, Ron, decided the family that plays together stays together - or should that be stays together ultimately plays together had a practical application for his clan.

THE 37-YEAR-OLD Ron didn't have to do much recruiting. Most of the talent was readily available in the form of brothers Pat (35), Dave (33), John (31), Mike (29), Bruno (24) and Rickey (19). The four oldest boys attended Livonia Franklin, the last three Plymouth Salem.

"We finally got everybody together," Ron said. "(All team members) are good athletes, and everyone can play the game. Everyone can play any position."

The G-Men — how appropriate the nickname - have backed up Ron's declaration with their performance this summer. Playing on Sunday nights at Canthird last year but won the Class D in from the field.

championship with a 17-1 record this season. The G-Men, who finished the regular season Sunday with a 14-6 victory over Stine, won their first 16 games before losing.

"They wanted to play ball and decided maybe it would be a nice-idea if they all played together." the elder Genrich said. "If anybody has to yell at anybody else, we make it a family squabble.'

And Bruno Sr. was the most obvious choice to direct the team, not merely because of his fatherly role but since he had plenty of coaching experience.

"I COACHED Little League for 25 years - football, basketball, baseball," said the affable, easy-going Genrich. "When you have seven boys, you have to."

Dave Genrich said his 64-year-old those days and still acts young at heart when he's at the ball field.

"He's more of a kid than we are when he's out there," Dave said. "He did everything in Little League. This. is his chance to (still) come out here. "He hasn't changed a bit. He still yells and screams at us." Neither the family connection nor the softball ability ends with the seven brothers and their father/coach, Nephew Tony Dattilio and son-in-law Lindsay Graichen are team members, also. Daughter Ann Graichen, Lindsay's wife, serves as the scorekeeper, dutifully calling out the ton Softball Center, the team placed batting order when the team comes

IN ADDITION, Genrich says hiswife, Rose, and daughter Julie, at 18 the youngest in a family of nine children, are the G-Men's biggest cheerleaders.

Rounding out the roster are Glenn Murray, who is married to the former Lisa Ilitch, Joe Jouppi, Larry McKendry, Craig Reyst and Dave Zahra. George Strahinic Jr. assists Bruno Sr. with the coaching.

For the Genriches and their respective families, Sunday and softball have become synonymous. With few exceptions, the family follows a game-day ritual that quickly evolved over two seasons of being a team in more ways than one.

"Usually, everybody is over at our house for dinner on Sunday afternoon because the family is pretty close," Bruno Sr. said. "And we go over to the game together.

"Then we come back to the house father hasn't changed much since and talk about it a little before everybody goes their own way and to work the next day."

"It's good for the family," Dave said. "It's something to look forward to on Sunday. We know where we're going to be every Sunday."

ON THE DAY the G-Men were going after their 17th consecutive victory, the Genriches celebrated Ron's birthday, but the team suffered its first loss that night, 7-6.

"There was a lot of crying," Bruno Sr. sald. "Everybody was taking the blame for it — 'I should have done this, and I should have done that' but these things happen.

"It was a bad day — windy, cold - and we hit too many fly balls. And lio, Ron and Mike; (back row) daughter and we lost to a good team that won the championship last year."

Bruno Genrich (center), patriarch of his softball-playing family, is surrounded by (clockwise in inner circle) Dave, nephew Tony Datti-

Ron had a practical and philosophical view of the G-Men's lone defeat, which did nothing to spoil the birthday party.

"No, because we were still recovering from the party," he said. "To play 18 games and lose one - heck. big deal!"

The G-Men had many more good moments than it did bad, and the team won its share of close games en route to its impressive record.

THE BALLCLUB faced a 16-1 deficit in one game but eventually won 17-16. In the last inning, Dave, who already had three hits, was walked intentionally to load the bases. Murray followed with a three-run double to win the game.

On another night, the opposition scored 12 runs in one inning, but the G-Men prevailed 19-15.

"In softball, teams are even, man for man," Bruno Sr. said, "but the way you win games is by capitaliz- fatherly influence and keep the feam ing on the other team's errors and trying to make things happen." The G-Men might be one G fewer next year since Ron is thinking about giving up softball after this season.

"Here's the youngest one," Ron said, pointing to Rickey, "who's going to take my position at shortstop next year. I'm getting too old for all these scabs," he added, revealing scraped elbows.

Adray's 7-run surge wrecks Walter's hopes

By Brad Emons staff writer

JOHNSTOWN, PA. - In yet another game flooded with runs, Detroit Adray Appliance eliminated Walter's Home Appliance in the fifth round of the All-American Amateur Baseball Tournament Wednesday at Point Stadium, 13-11. The Livonia franchise, however, finished one of its most successful runs in 14 tournament appearances, bowing out with a 3-2 record. Detroit, which features several Observerland high school products, is one of five teams still alive in the 22-team field with a 4-1 record.

"We were proud to be here and of the way we represented the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League," said Walter's manager Mike Keller. "We did a good job by winning three games. The coaching staff and our sponsor are proud of each individual player."

It was only the second meeting in AAABA tournament history between the two franchises. Livonia Adray nipped Adray Appliance, 2-1, in 1986.

But with pitching at a minimum for most of the teams in the field, many tournament games resembled

Livonia jumped out early, 4-3, but Detroit came storming back on a two-run homer in the third inning by ex-Westland John Glenn High standout Clint Straub, followed by a grand slam homer by catcher Joe Sommer, sparking a seven-run fourth to make it 12-4.

But Walter's would not quit, as Art George, the team's top hitter in the tourney (12 for 22) hit his third AAABA homer in two days, a grand slam, to cut the deficit to 12-8 in the seventh.

Joe Sturtz, who led Livonia with 10 RBI, then hit a homer over the 58-foot-high screen in left field to make it 12-9. The homer came in the top of the eighth.

Detroit scored a run in the bottom of the inning on a single by Tim McConnell, a double by Mike Stefanski (formerly of Redford Union High) and an RBI groundout by Lance Sullivan (Livonia Churchill High).

In the top of the ninth, Damian Hull singled and George doubled (his third hit of the day). Third baseman/catcher John Gotts, who went 10-19 in tourney play, brought home one run on a groundout. Rick Rutledge brought home Walter's 11th run on another groundout to end the scoring, but not before Detroit was forced to bring in ace Pat Bojcun to get the final three

"This has always been a hitters' tourney and not a pitchers' tourney," said winning Detroit manager Bob Atkins. "You just have to have enough pitching to stop people."

For the second time in three games, Detroit reliever Ryan Raymond couldn't stop people. Each time he was winger was a standout for the Chargers' hockey squad and one of the Suburban Prep League's leading scorers. (He made second-team All-Observer honors.)

And this week at the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament. Pendell, an infielder and designated hitter, is providing some additional punch in Walter's Appliance offense, collecting six hits in 15 trips, a .400 average (through four games), facing college pitchers who are often three years his senior.

"I just try to hit the other way, I'm not a power swinger," said the righthand hitting Pendell.

PENDELL'S SUMMER sandlot exploits are even more amazing due to the fact that he skipped his spring high school season.

Pendell was the offensive standout in the lopsided all-star game, scoring four goals for the victorious team.

guys came in all excited after a win," said Pendell. In late May, Pendell still had the baseball bug and decided to try out for coach Mike Keller's team in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League. "I hadn't picked up a ball all year," Pendell said, "and the first day of tryouts I couldn't pick up the ball, but 'Stick' (Keller's nickname) said he understood. He told me that if I worked hard, I would maybe get to play a little bit here and there." Pendell started the season playing shortstop, but moved to second when Ken Droplewski (Wayne Memorial High and Henry Ford Community College) earned a spot in the starting

Belgrade knocks off Tigris to capture Over-30 Cup

Schaefer Cup Sunday, defeating Tigris, 4-1 in an Over-30 Michigan United Soccer League final at Harding Park in Ferndale.

This was the first Division I-II title for Belgrade, a team made up mostly of Yugoslavian natives.

Division II is regarded as the weaker of the two divisions, so Supday's victory was more satisfying for Belgrade, a Division II team.

Belgrade won the Division II regular-season title with a 6-1 record and Tigris finished first in Division I at

"WE DIDN'T expect to beat them," Belgrade coach Petar Isakovic said. "They've got many more players to work with and that's one reason. We struggled to get 12 or 13 players a game. Taking that into consideration, this is a great accomplishment."

Belgrade reached the final round after getting a forfeit win in the semifinal round.

Tigris, from the Southfield Iraqui Club, beat three-time defending champion Rochester Hurling Green, 2-1 in the semifinal round.

In the final, center halfback Emil Iacoban scored two goals for Belgrade while George Diamond and Cane Kolevski scored one each.

American-born players on Belgrade, recorded the win in net.

"I'VE BEEN playing four years to get to this game," he said. "We had some great defense in front of me." Tigris coach Michael Robin, of

> "We took it for granted we would win the final," Robin said. "They played good, but we were a little bit overrelaxed. Everybody in the league thought we'd win.

"When we played Hurling Green I though we played up to a good team. Today, we played so sloppy."

Sami Hassam, of Royal Oak, scored Tigris' only goal.

IN THE SECOND game played Sunday, the Bloomfield Nomads edged Ferndale, Intra "B", 2-1, to take a Schaefer Cup for Division III-IV teams. Both finalists played the.

regular season at Division III. Farmington, which won the Division III regular-season title at 4-1-1, was eliminated in the playoffs.

David Williams and Steve DiClemente gave the Nomads a 2-0 lead in the final, before Ferndale closed the gap late in the game, putting a ball past the Nomads goalkeeper. Steve Rudko did his part in the nets for Intra "B", giving his team a chance.

Sunday's games attracted a couple hundred fans and Samuel Mebius, president of the MUSL, said the league is growing by the year.

The MUSL, currently the state's Phil Thomas, one of the few largest league, will begin an Over-40 league this fall.

THE MUSL began with five teams in 1979 and this year 32 teams comprised the four divisions. Carl Jaworski, coach and player for the Division II Troy Chargers team, is vice-president of the MUSL.

O NAZELLI TO HENRY FORD

Chris Nazelli, a second-team All-Observer basketball player last winter at Livonia Stevenson, will-play this fall for Henry Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn.

Nazelli averaged 17.5 points and 10 rebounds per game in leading Stevenson to its first district title since 1982-83. Nazelli played forward at Stevenson, but will be tried at the shooting guard at Henry Ford, under coach Jim Armitage.

Deer harvest records rise

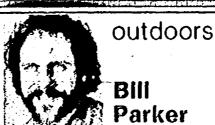

HESE ARE the "good 'ol days" as far as deer hunters are concerned.

Deer hunting in Michigan - with a bow or a gun - won't get any better than it has been in the past few years and will continue to be this season...

Hunters have set all-time harvest records in each of the last three. years. Still, the state's deer population has continued to grow, due partly to the mild winters we've experienced.

In 1986, hunters bagged a record 192,000 deer statewide. In 1987 the total harvest was up to 290,000 while last year's total eclipsed that record with a harvest of 383,500 deer. More than 400,000 deer are expected to be harvested this season.

"With good weather, we expect as many as 450,000 deer to be taken this year, when combining all three hunts - archery, firearm and muzzleloading," said Ed Tucker, Department of Natural Resources region III wildlife supervisor. "Last year, we had an all-time high with 383,000 deer taken, including 237,000 bucks. This year should be as good or better, with approximately 2 million deer in the field."

IT MAY SEEM a little early to be thinking about deer season, but actually gun hunters have just over a month (Sept. '24 is the deadline) to, apply for a bonus deer permit — this year's equivalent to the hunter's choice permit.

Hunters won't be penalized for ...taking a doe this season: In the past, a hunter willing to shoot a doe, would have to give up his opportunity to shoot a buck with his first license. But that's not the case any-

"In the past, a hunter had to make a choice," Tucker said. "If a hunter received a hunter's choice permit, he could shoot a buck or a doe with that license. This year, the hunters picked (by computer) to receive a bonus

Applications are available at license dealers. The non-refundable bonus tag applications fee is $3 and hunters must have a 1989 license to apply for a bonus tag.

Hunters also still have the option to purchase a second (buck only) li-

"We hope more people will want to take a doe this year since they'll still have the chance to take a buck with that first license," Tucker said. "This is going to be another banner year. We have a lot of deer causing problems with the crops, especially in regions II (northern Lower Penninsula) and III (southern Lower Penninsula). We have to do something about the size of the herd.

"Hunters probably won't like it. but the herd size has to be reduced. These are the "good 'ol days" right

'We were in the Upper Penninsula''' for a week and we didn't see a deer, bear, or anything," explained?"

But the disappointment didn't last

After being home just two days, to Gray spotted a big doe grazing on of grass and bushes at the south end of the Adams Woods condos, at the cor421 ner of Square Lake and Adams: ? roads.

"It sure was exciting," Gray said..!" "I haven't seen anything that close" since the zoo." He estimated the deer was 65-75 yards away.

National champ Hawks collect international title

The Michigan Hawks Under-19 girls soccer team proved last weekend that their recent national championship was no fluke.

The Hawks, who won the national title last month, went international and came home champions of the Bluewater Girls Invitational in Sarnia, Ontario.

The Hawks, featuring some new talent on their roster, won four preliminary-round Bluewater games by a combined 22-0 score before facing challenges in the semifinal and final rounds.

In the semifinal, the Hawks and Mississauga, Ontario, were tied at Goalkeeper Monia Cervi, who posted five shutouts in the tourney, made a key save in the shootout to help the Hawks advance.

Wayne Worosz, of Redford Catholic Central, fired in five goals and had four assists in leading the Michigan Elite Soccer Club Under-16 team to the Cincinnati Classic Tournament title Aug. 5-6.

The Elite, coached by Franz Lamarre, won five straight games by outscoring its opponents 18-1. The winning goal of the championship game against the hometown Queen City Steamers was scored by Mike Presley on a cross from Joe Nunez.

Larry Osiecki of Northville High and Plymouth Salem's Derek Olson shared goalkeeping duties. The Michigan Elite, winners of 15 straight, now has won three consecutive tourneys in the last month, outscoring its opponents 46-3 in that time.

The Elite is scheduled to play in the McDonald Sun Bowl Youth Tournament on Dec. 27, 28 and 29 in Tampa, Fla.

Fortunately, it's only August.

The Schoolcraft College womens basketball team had a humbling experience last week at the Ontario Provincial Tourney, losing three games by a total of 128 points at Fanshawe College in London, Ont.

Coach Jack Grenan wouldn't want to see those results during the winter and, chances are, he won't. "The Canadian teams are outstanding — we won't see anyone better in our (Eastern) conference," said Grenan, whose team last year was ranked as high as seventh in the National Junior College Athletic Association. "We've only been together a week and they've been together a year and you could see the discipline. A lot of their girls will get four-year scholarships to the states."

Grenan brought only 10 players, and only eight dressed for the opening game, an 82-48 loss to the London All-Stars. The national champion Ontario Provincial Team then bounced the Ocelots, 112-54, and British Columbia capped the blitz, winning 87-51 Friday over the Ocelots. Grenan is trying to mesh 10 freshmen into his 15-player roster. Schoolcraft's top players in Ontario were sophomores Barb Krug (Plymouth), Lisa DePlanche and Tracy Osborne, all of whom averaged at or near double figures in the tourney.

Grenan knew right away his team was in trouble in London.

"I knew it in warm-ups when I found out we were using a men's basketball," he said. "I talked to them twice about rule differences. and they never mentioned that to:

Education lures puck star

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

The lunch room inside the Compuware Headquarters in Farmington Hills was crowded with people Friday wanting to know more about Eric Lindros, the 16-year-old hockey sensation from Like, does he have a girlfriehd? What does he do besides play hockey? When does he get his braces off? And, above all, what is he doing here, in suburban Detroit, playing for the Oak Park Compuware Junior A hockey team.

she Shouldn't he be playing in Quebec somewhere, jipreparing himself for the rigors of the National , Hockey League?

After all, Lindros was the No. 1 pick last spring i in the Ontario Hockey League, and some hockey experts believe he can play in the NHL right now.

Andy Weldenbach, the Compuware coach, is still scratching his head. Lindros, considered the best 16-year-old hockey player in North America, is staying with the Vellucci family in Farmington and will attend Farmington High in the fall. Mark Vellucci, 17, also is a member of the Compuware

🥳 "TO BE HONEST, I never thought it would be a reality," said Weidenbach, after introducing his newest player to guests and reporters. "I didn't ave my hopes up. But when he came over here with his parents and they saw the (Compuware Arena) rink, I said maybe they were serious. I don't know why or how but it's great for the program. It's a real challenge for me as a coach."

"Eric is real personable. He's more mature than the average 16-year-old off the street. It's hard to tell, but he should dominate our league

For the record, Lindros says he's too busy to have a girlfriend (although he likes what he has seen in his six-week stay in the states), he likes to water ski and he's not sure when the braces come off. Actually, the braces look a bit out of place on the burly, 6-foot-4, 215-pound forward.

The real reason he's here is to enhance his education. Lindros, who has attended summer school since the eighth grade, will graduate more than a year ahead of time from Farmington next January after completing a semester of school.

Lindros' stay with Compuware might be brief. By next January, midway through the North American Junior Hockey League season, Lindros hopes to be attending the University of Michigan and playing for Red Berenson, the Wolverines Lindros, who scored 25 goals and 43 assists in leading the St. Michaels Buzzers to the Ontario Junior B title last winter, is far ahead of his peers on the ice and off. He puts his status in perspec-

"IT'S SORT OF like a marathon," said Lindros, who took two English courses this summer at Bloomfield Hills Andover, acing them both. "You see yourself in first place a few seconds ahead of everyone else, but you're still behind record pace. You've got to keep pushing yourself to the limit to be the best.

"Without a degree, that makes life tough after hockey. If I break a leg Sunday and I'm out for life, what do I do then?"

Even before Sault Ste. Marie selected Lindros first in the OHL draft, he told team officials he was considering going to the U.S. to finish high school and pursue a college education. Sault Ste. Marie owner Phil Esposito, recently fired as general manager of the New York Rangers, apparently didn't take him seriously.

"He thought I was bluffing," Lindros said. "I hope they realize education is important to me now. I want to be with people my own age, and I have to get my schooling to make the climb over the mountain a little easier."

Lindros credits his parents, Carl and Bonnie, for "getting me here." He said his "adopted" parents, Judy and Frank Vellucci, have treated him "second to none."

Judy Vellucci returns the compliment.

"HE'S A GOOD kid, and his intelligence is going to carry him through," Mrs. Vellucci sald. "We've taken him in like another kid. My husband describes him as very thoughtful.'

And she describes his appetite as huge. "He had seven pieces of french toast one morning, and he's had four to five sandwiches for lunch," she said. "For six weeks, we've treated him like a guest. He's just fit in so well and enjoyed himself." Carl Lindros, an accountant in Toronto, is excited about Eric's future and couldn't think of a better place for his son to progress.

"There's probably a high chance he'll live in an American city anyway, so it's a good opportunity for him." Carl said. "As parents, you always have concerns. But he's been here six weeks and he feels pretty comfortable. That's good news. Andy (Weldenbach) and Jim (Rutherford, director of hockey relations for Compuware) are down-toearth, nice people and that's unusual in hockey."

Rutherford, the former Red Wing goalie, says "Only time will tell, but he's certainly the NHL's next franchise player."

LINDROS HAS been compared to modern-day stars Wayne Gretzky and Mario Lemieux, but his style might be more similar to former Red Wing great and hall of famer Gordie Howe.

He has several idols. "I like Mark Messier's toughness, the way he handles himself - he's a freight train," he said. "I enjoy watching Stevie Yzerman's finesse, the way he bares down in front of the net. I like guys who can handle themselves without someone coming off the bench to fight for them. I liked the way Gordie played. The way he could put the puck in Lindros has grown considerably the last two years. Bonnie Lindros remembers two years ago watching her son, then only about 5-8, play.

"When he was growing, it looked like he had sand bags attached to his feet," she said. "Then he kept growing and growing. He gained 50 pounds in one year and he's not fat."

He's also darn good.

It pays to get bowling sponsor

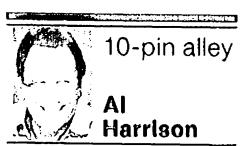

With the new bowling season approaching, many league meetings are taking place around town. Decisions are made. questions arise and rules are discussed. Among the hot topics usually is whether to seek sponsors for the teams, and whether or not to be ABC/WIBC sanctioned. As for sanctioning, the moderate ($6 per person) fee goes a long way and is without much room for argument, a vital part of bowling Remember; bowlers, if you are in more than one sanctioned league, you only pay once, so let your secretary know.

The ABC/WIBC sanctioning also includes bonding for the league's officers, permanent records of all averages, recognition of honor scores, individual record sheets, the rule book and guidelines for operation of the league. Of course, if someone bowls a 300 game they receive a ring also, and there are rings given for 299 and 298 games and an 800 series. The local associations also share in the revenues from the annual fee, and they provide many valuable services to

Each secretary gets the annual yearbook which lists all local leagues and each individual average. In metropolitan Detroit there are approximately 200,000 men and women participating in ABC or WIBC leagues. This number is far greater than that of any other city in the USA. If you add the youth bowlers to that number, plus some non-sanctioned leagues. there are about a quarter of a million bowlers in this area. That is why we are truly called the "Bowling Capital of the World."

• This pre-season is also a time to go out and find sponsors, that is if your league is the type that has sponsors. If you have to look for a sponsor, here is some advice. If you personally know someone who has a business, this would be the easiest approach, or if you are a regular customer of a particular business, don't be afraid to ask. The cost of sponsoring a team is quite reasonable, and the benefits include: A good advertising format: Goodwill in the community: The cost can be "expensed" by most businesses; The company name is displayed all season long. Team members will usually patronize their sponsors more, thus resulting in extra business. In some instances, the sponsor may elect to pay the sanctioned fees in addition to the cost of

• Youth bowling is a very important aspect of the bowling scene, and a vital part of the youth program is the availability of good coaching. It takes a lot of patience and understanding to work with the kids so when Ed Wright of Farmington Hills was awarded nonors from YABA as "Coach of the Year" recently, it is only fitting and proper that he be recognized for an excellent job. Ed is the League at Country Lanes, the Wednesday high school league, he assists in the Monday Nite Pro Shop Youth Doubles at Drakeshire Lanes and is director of the Sunday Youth Travel League. Ed Bowls

Pat. This is a real bowling family as daughter Julie and son Scott are avid youth league members.

Ed Wright is on member of the greater Detroit city board of directors of the YABA, state of Michigan YABA, Director of the greater Detroit youth leaders, and assistant director of the State of Michigan Youth leaders for youth bowling. If that isn't a busy enough schedule, he also is a teacher at North Farmington High School and Coach/Instructor for the state of Michigan YABA. As a school teacher, Ed has been named teacher of the year three times in the past 10 years. He teaches accounting, business law and psychology. Ed is also an avid golfer, fisherman and finds some time for racquetball as well. He is available for private bowling lessons, for information call him at

• There are still two tryout sessions going on for his Sunday Youth Travellinhg League, on Tuesday, Aug. 15 at Taylor Lanes and Saturday, Aug. 19 at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills. This league is open to any youth bowlers from ages 11 and up and averaging 120 or more. For details, call Ed at the same number mentioned.

• At Bel Aire Lanes on Orchard Lake Road, the Tuesday trio league had a 266 high game from Daryl Rollins and a 694 high series by John King. In the Un-Mixed League Nick Acito led the way with a 245 while the top lady was Jean Ruohouen at 206. The Family Twosome had Gary Burgess 99 pins over average. Bel Aire has some good league openings particularly with the west side men's league expanding. They start at 6:30 Friday nights and team average is 850 to 975. They bowl a split season and the jackpots are usually worth shooting for. The Tuesday season and the jackpots are usually worth shooting for. The Tuesday Nite Junior House League has openings for four-man teams at 9:30 p.m. The team averages are 575-675 with a 180 maximum individual average. There are openings in the Friday in the Friday Mixed League at 9:30 p.m. a 14-team league, a nice social league with good competition. There is a 3:30 p.m. Sunday "Apartment Singles League" open to all singles and couples with four to a team and a shorter season starting Sept. 24.

• Things are getting all "revved up" coach of the Saturday Youth Classic again at Country Lanes as the new season approaches. There are plenty of good league openings for whatever suits you. There are weekly mixed leagues seeking more bowlers at 5 and 8 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays with every other week in three leagues himself, including the leagues also running on weekends. The Greenfield Mixed League with his wife Monday Nite Men's League with a 6:15 p.m. start has openings for five-man teams with plenty of quality competition. Tuesday Night the Little Bill's Classic at 9:15 p.m. has some openings as well as the Ladies Classic at the same time slot. There are more openings on Wednesdays at 6:15 p.m. for five-man teams, and the Junior House League at 9:15 p.m. has some room.

• The Thursday Mixed Classic League can use some good bowlers with team averages 626 and up The Friday Ladies Noon Classic-has some open spots as does the Ladies Nite League with a 8:15 p.m. starting time. In the Wednesday Queens, Sherry Wasielewski led the way with a 263 game and 648 series. Mary Ellen O'Rourke shot a 201. In the Thursday Mixed League, Tom Ellington registered a 225 with a 600 series, Tim Blackwell a 219, Al Singleton 213, John Piotrowski 216 and Dave

• The $30,000 Ladies Pro Bowlers Tour Michigan Classic has just taken place at Satellite Bowl in Dearborn Heights. This turned out to be one of the most exciting bowling events in recent memory. More great games and matches than anyone could expect.

The winner turned out to be the local star of the Ladies Tour, Aleta Sill, who beat another area bowler, Dede Davidson The finals will be aired on TV locally on PASS Cable on Sept. 9 and again Oct.

Each match had its thrills as Sill and Davidson were all tied after nine frames. Aleta's turn was first and she filled the frame with a strike and spare, giving Dede the chance to double with her first shot in the 10th. Dede's first ball was a high pocket hit leaving the 7-10 split, and there went the match and first place to Aleta, the top money winner on the ladies pro tour.

Sill is a former resident of Westland and Canton, and currently lives in Dearborn. Davidson is from Southgate. Davidson was outstanding in her matches, reaching the finals, by defeating Robin Romeo, 244-238; Lorrie Nichols, 258-225; and in a terrific match, winning a real "battle" against Tish Johnson, 279-268. Highlights during match play were a 300 game by none other than Aleta Sill, her 12th perfect game in her career, a 299 by Leila Wagner who finished 9th and a 296 game also by Aleta.

Other local area bowlers who finished in the 36 cash positions were Cheryl Stipcak of Canton in 16th place; Darlene Marrow also of Canton, 31st; Dawn DeVitis of Livonia, in 33rd place; and Cheryl Daniels, of Detroit, 36th.

Whelan makes lasting impression

First impressions — how mis-

Buff Whefan Chevrolet manager Dr. Joe Arends' early impression of his team's chances in the National Amateur Baseball Federation College Division World Series in Dayton, Ohio, would be slim.

Who could blame him after Whelan lost its opening game in the four-team, double-elimination tournament 17-10 to Miami of Ohio last Friday? Whelan's chances for success dipped further Saturday; they trailed the host team, the Dayton Yankees, 5-1 going into the eighth inning.

"We were six outs from elimination," said Arends. "I was thinking about checking out and paying our hotel bill, and stopping for burgers on the way home.'

But Whelan, which won the NABF regional at Livonia's Ford Field Aug. 6, rallied. The Detroit Adray League tearn scored nine runs in the eighth inning against Dayton to win 10-6.

WHELAN FOLLOWED that with a 13-9 victory over New York City Saturday, setting up a twogame championship duel against Miami on Sunday. Whelan needed wins in both games, and they got them, 11-4 in the first and 4-0 in the second, thanks to a pitching gem by Kevin Knoche.

Knoche hurled 5% innings of no-

hit ball in the finale before allowing a bad-bounce single. His performance earned him tournament most valuable player honors.

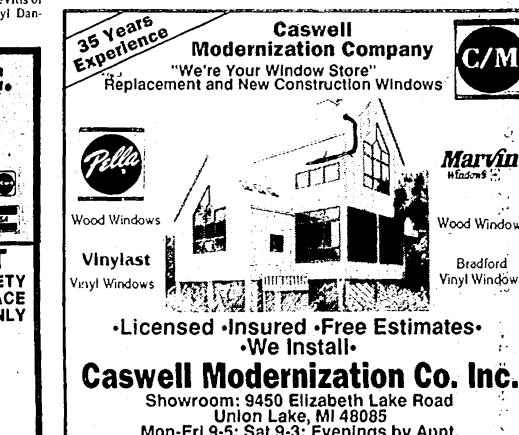

Also honored were Dave Arends, who captured the tournament batting champion trophy by hitting .429, and Tom Yorkison and Craig Mayes, who were named to the alltournament team.

Whelan committed nine errors in its opening-game loss to Miami. But against Dayton, they battled back behind a two-run double by Yorkison and a triple by Dave Feys and a single by Brad Thompson, each scoring a run.

Arends' four hits, including a two-run single in the sixth, and Dan Cimini's diving catch in center field with the bases loaded to end the game sparked the win over New York, Yorkison and Sean Bruce each had three hits, Yorkison clubbing a solo homer and knocking in three runs, to beat Miami in Sunday's opener.

In the finale, Whelan got all fourof its runs in the fourth. Thompson. and Mark Wysocki had RBI singles and Feys knocked in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

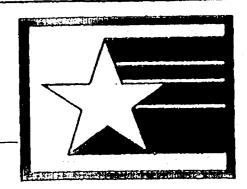

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

RITER, PLAYWRIGHT and animated storyteller Martha V. Keller of Birmingham has been using imagination and dramatics to spark children's creativity for more than 60 years.

When the 80-year-old Keller talks about the 100-plus plays, articles and storles she has written, she lapses easily into roles of various charactels, altering her voice or speaking with Irish, Cockney or Southern diaiects to bring out characters' person-

Speaking as the Contessa from her latest play, "The Ugly Duckling -Retold," Keller elongates her neck, purses her lips and uses a haughty, coloratura voice. She loves making up original stories as well as embellishing classic children's tales. The Troy Players will debut her children's play "The Ugly Duckling - teaching creative dramatics and ryteller - the Ugly Duckling is dearest to her heart.

"I ALWAYS felt that I was an ugly duckling. When I was young, I couldn't find kids who thought like I did. Every child who feels he's an ugly duckling, not necessarily ugly but awkward, can go away from this play feeling hopeful. I want to help those kids who went through what I went through, help them gain confidence and self esteem."

To that end, Martha Keller looks forward to seeing her play produced, and she has donated it to the Troy Players, for performances next

tian Andersen's original story into a play and embellished it by adding music and creating characters like the haughty contessa, Scat the Cat and his owner, Old Hobbletoes.

Karen Bodin, a teacher from Troy, created the music for the play, and Amy Lowell, an Oak Park teacher, wrote the lyrics. Connie Patrick, director of the Troy Players' production, says the cast of 31 is composed largely of children but also includes adults in six principal roles.

Patrick explains she is enthusiastic about "The Ugly Duckling - Retold" because, "The play appeals to the child in all of us. Also what I like is that it's family entertainment, which is sorely needed in the community today. And the children are adorable in their roles."

KELLER KNOWS what children like from being the mother of four now-grown children, grandmother to 11 and great-grandmother to one. She has never lost her delight in working with the young.

"Children are wide open to suggestion," she said. "You do something creative and you watch those eyes.' The spark kindled in young eyes fuels Keller's faith in what she does. She says, "There are two lasting bequests we can give our children. One is roots, the other wings."

When the story ends, naturally curious Kellers asks, "Then what happened?" which is the title of an interactive dramatics program that Aunt Martha — as the children call her — takes to schools and libraries. Using a favorite nursery rhyme as a skeleton plot, the children embellish the story and decide what hapened after Little Miss Muffet ran away from the Spider who dared "sit down beside her."

With simple props like hats, gloves and stools, children act out the story they have created. In another "Just Imagine" program, children spin Keller transformed Hans Christ stories by imagining that objects Players. She worked in California for Looney Tunes on a brief stint writing cartoon scripts.

All her lobs capitalize on imagination. Keller came to Michigan 35 years ago, and three of her children graduated from Seaholm High School in Birmingham. She wrote a column for youth in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and contributed regularly to Kidding Around magazine. Then came TV where she originat.

ed and produced children's plays for the Channel 4 children's show "Mr. Patches." Along the way she co-authored a handy guidebook, "Where to Go and What to Do with Kids in Detroit," and taught creative dramatics at Cranbrook Theatre School in Bloomfield Hills.

For a while Keller worked in public relations, using her flair for the dramatic to come up with original promotions. Her play "Hello, Mr. Appleseed" was produced at the Octagon House in Washington (Mich.), and in 1986 Stagecrafters presented "The Little Fir Tree's Christmas" at the Baldwin Library. Last year Cranbrook Theatre School staged her play "August the Fire King."

KELLER IMAGINES her career as a tree with various branches.

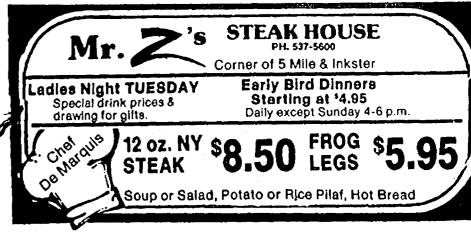

"When one branch dried up, another always began leafing out."

At 80, the vivacious Keller defies the stereotype that seniors slow down and prefer to dwell in the past. Several projects in the works keep her planning for the future and at her typewriter. A cartoon company is negotiating to animate some of her stories, and she is currently at work on a new play stimulated by a discussion with the late Ray Bolger, who played the scarecrow in "The Wizard of Oz."

Her play in progress, entitled "Every Which Way," explores scarecrow philosophy. All her plays have themes, but not blatant morals. "I don't force philosophy. It has to come naturally," she says.

Of her own philosophy, she admits pieces of her life view syrface in her writing and that she has learned to harness imagination to discipline "Life hasn't always been easy," says the woman who identifies with the Ugly Duckling.

In recent years she has conquered cataracts, lives with diverticulitis . and emerged from a severe bout with osteoarthritis several years ago, but at 80 she looks, moves and thinks with the energy and enthusiasm of a much younger woman.

Audience members were seated in chairs and raised their hands to ask a question, and were called upon by the store's representative. IN THIS structured setting, Collins responded to questions about her perfume, her pending visit that afternoon to Detroit Children's Hospital and her future acting plans.

The glamorous star wore fluffy bangs and long hair, falling behind her ears, accented by a dark blue velvet headband with bow. She looked younger and certainly less flamboyant than the wicked Alexis she has portrayed in TV's long-running "Dynasty." She was tanned, and smiled frequently - with her beautiful, large mouth.

A wing at Detroit Children's Hospital has been named after Joan Collins. She explained this came about through the Variety Club, which asked her to lend her name. She said she was involved with the club and its charities and, "I've been going to Variety events since I was about 15." SHE STRESSED, "I'm glad they asked me because it's very dear to my heart. The thing that touches me the most is children, particularly children who are sick.'

Collins' daughter was struck down by a car when she was 8, spent seven weeks in a coma, and has "made a remarkable recovery.'

With the wind-up of seven and a half-years on "Dynasty," Collins will continue her career in television, looking toward a new series and another mini-series. She said a TV series is being prepared for her and that a mini-series, based on "Prime Time," a novel she wrote, goes into production next February or March.

"Next August, I'm going back 16 the stage in England, in 'Private Lives," she said, calling the stage "my first love."

When asked about the kinds of parts she would like to do, Collins replied, "I'm not one of those actresses who go around in blue jeans, torn Tild shirt and no make up. I will probably.... always play women with a certain strength, but not the bitchiness, of Alexis, although she was very good for me."

Broadway show tunes brighten the stage

Performances of the Spotlight Players production of "Broadway! Broadway!! Broadway!!!" continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at St. John's Episcopal Church in Westland. For ticket information call 459-7672.

By Victoria Diaz special writer

Westland's Spotlight Players returned to the stage Friday night with a bouncy musical revue, "Broadway!

Broadway!! Broadway!!!" Although Pulice and features vocalists Kendra the production is a little uneven, if you're looking for an entertaining way to spend a summer evening, you could do a lot worse.

The revue is directed by David

Bernick, Betsy Bronson, Anne Grobosky, Tobin Hissong, Tom Morgan and Pulice. Linda Furuyama provides musical accompaniment.

Broadway show tunes are, obviously, the order of the evening in the production, with the good-looking Spotlight ensemble performing such time-tested standards as "People Will Say We're in Love" from "Oklahoma," "Some Enchanted Evening" from "South Pacific" and "Old Devil Moon" from "Finian's Rainbow." Lesser-known tunes like the snappy "Seven and a Half Cents" from "Pajama Game" and "Corner of the Sky" from "Pippin" are sprinkled throughout the program as well.

Numbers from more recent Broadway hits are also offered, including "All I Ask of You" from "Phantom of the Opera" and "Hand for the Hog" from "Big River."

ESPECIALLY ENJOYABLE moments in the show include Betsy touching "Somewhere That's Green"

Bronson's fine rendition of the funny, from "Little Shop of Horrors;" the cleverly executed "Ascot Gavotte" from "My Fair Lady," performed by the ensemble, and "No Time at All" from the musical "Pippin," which features Bronson, along with the rest of the ensemble. Anne Grobosky also does an impressive job with "How trying to enjoy" a holiday feast Are Things in Glocca Morra?" from-"Finnian's Rainbow."

Attractive, glittery costumes make the revue even more fun to watch, and deserve special mention.

Disappointments: An often-intrusive keyboard, and a tendency, on the part of the ensemble, to rush, rush, rush from one tune to the next. It would be nice to have just a bit more time now and then to savor each song as it comes along. There's something to be said for keeping up the pace, of course, but this is like served up in one quick gulp after an-

Although individual performances here tend to be inconsistent, the spirit and enthusiasm of the group usually overshadows that shortcoming. In fact, that contagious spirit is at the heart of the charm of "Broadway! Broadway!! Broadway!!!"

Beautifully manicured courtyard with the picturesque walkways has the look of an historic Ivy League campus.

Tradition Michigan National pays homage to American past

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

IETHER BORROW-ING ARCHITECTUR-AL ideas or loaning money, Michigan National Corporation gives credit gracefully.

The interior atriums, which bring daylight and masses of live plants into the center of the buildings, integrate well with the more traditional elements.

The new $31 million, 283,000 square foot Michigan National complex in Farmington Hills is on a 25-acre site on Inkster just north of I-696 in Farmington Hills. Entrance is off Inkster. It's clearly from several regions and periods was put together into a quietly, elegant package by Luckenbach/ Ziegelman of Birmingham. Robert J. Mylod, chairman and chief executive officer, said there will be a handpainted mural on the atrium wall illustrating the building's architectural roots - the Governor's Palace at Williamsburg, Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello, University of Vigrinia, the Fannie Mae headquarters in Washington D.C., Harvard and Cranbrook.

Mylod said, "Our cost stayed roughly at $100 a square foot, which was our goal - $115 for everything - furnishings, chairs everything. The look is expensive, the material is relatively less expensive. We just decided we were not gonna go overboard." He mentioned the use of dry wall instead of plaster as a for instance, but noted how cove molding and chair rails (painted green against creamwhite walls) give a rich look.

BEFORE THE PLANNING BE-GAN a group from the corporation went on an architectural tour and reported back to Luckenbach on what they liked — those places that will be depicted in the mural.

"Carl (Luckenbach) went back and folded a lot of concepts we liked into a modern building," Mylod said.

The result is four, 21/2 story inter-connected buildings in light terra-cotta/red brick with Flemish bond, situated around two large courtyards which are being landscaped like the carefully tended and sculpted gardens of Williamsburg.

The entrance to Michigan National's corporate ic elements such as the brick arches and clasheadquarters in Farmington Hills sets the tone sic pillars with modern touches like the glass for the rest of the complex. It combines histor- doors.

There are double chimneys, dormer windows, arches, pitched slate roofs, wonderful, picturesque brick work and wrought iron detailing. Actually, brick lovers, and there are many, will be delighted to know that 30 different brick types were used in patterns such as herringbone, basket weave and soldler coursing. The height limitation was placed by the city, but because the buildings are on sloping ground, Luckenbach created an appearance of greater height than there actual-

Mylod admitted as he spoke about costs and the care that was taken to keep them moderate, that "we spent some money on the exterior - the brick work took a lot of artisans and that costs extra." He said he thought the slate roof was wise as well as attractive because of its long life span and low maintenance.

Even though the complex with the Williamsburg/Ivy League look pays homage to its American antecedents and the interior furnishings are highly traditional, it is far from an anachronism. There are vast expanses of glass offering beautiful views of the courtyards, glass roofed atriums and lots of skylights to flood the inside with natural light.

Common goofs to watch out for

O ENSURE that art will al ways be fun for you, I would like to list some of the common goofs in several media. Perhaps some of these tips will act as road signs to warn you of some common hazards.

• Graphite or pencil drawings: Usually the most common problem here is getting too dark too quickly. Save the darkest darks for last. Instead of using only one soft pencil, use many hardnesses of pencils. Start out your gesture drawing very lightly so that if you must make corrections, they can be erased. Also, clean your paper as you draw. Often the oil from your skin mixes with the graphite smudges and permanently stains the white drawing paper.

• Pen and ink: Don't draw every detail. When doing a pen and ink from a photo, many students are overwhelmed by the multitude of detalls. In the effort of drawing, for example, every hair of a dog is reprodùced.

The student soon finds that the light areas have become gray and the middle tones are lost in the black areas. The artist is expected to choose which areas are to be black, gray and white. The white or light areas, therefore, must have little or no lines at all.

Another tip is to change your technique as texture changes. On that same dog picture, it would be nice to switch from cross hatching or line shading, to stipple when rendering the smooth surface of the nose. Also stay away from solid black, rather cross hatch your way to 70, 80 or 90 percent black. Solid black attracts too much attention.

• Scratchboard: the leading mistake in scratchboard is pushing too hard with the scratch point. This causes the point to go through not only the ink and clay coat paper, but also roughs up the paper backing. The lnk dust from scraping then lodges into the rough surface of the paper. So your finished scratchboard loses those bright, clean white that is so vital to the medium.

• Pastel: Probably the biggest error in pastel is that students are hesitant to push the color into the paper or board. This results in a washed out, faded looking pictures. Also, when blocking in the base colors of your pastel, your beginning sketch loses many of its details and is a shock to students. Don't quit at this point. Push yourself to re-establish the details.

• Watercolor: The same problem exists in watercolor as in pastels. "e beginning wet washes tend to overflow pencil guidelines which is often upsetting. Remember, carefully wet with clear water areas where vou intend the color to flow. This way the water acts as the vehicle for the flow of color. Save your dark areas for last.

Since you don't add white to a "legal" water color you should slowly work your way up to the darkest areas. I also recommend you do your beginning sketch lightly with a "hard" pencil. Often the soft pencils muddy up the usually toothy watercolor paper.

Count on a few problems in whatever medium you use. And don't be discouraged. Every problem and mistake you encounter or commit is common to us all. Those who succeed learned from their problems. Those who fail use problems as an

Solving a window problem

I just installed a very interesting window treatment in the den of a North Park Towers apärtment.

If you are familiar with the buildings, you must know that the heating - air conditioning anits are beneath all the windows. They are completely covered but project into the room about 12 inches. As a result of this, draperies which are full length must be installed beyond

There are two things I find objectionable about this. First, you are cutting into your room by almost a foot and a half and second, while ivour curtains and draperies look well closed, when opened it looks like a stage set opening.

In the apartments I have done here I have ised curtains and placed them from the ceiling by the unit. I have done some lovely windows in parious lace fabrics and tied the room together for the concealing of the traverse rod with the major fabric used in the room.

In the den of this particular apartment the walls are covered in a gray string wall covering. The carpet is gray as well. The foyer and halls have the same gray. We arrived at a gray and yellow to mustard yellow coloring since the sofas from the previous home were being used in the living room. The den is the first thing you see as you enter the foyer. Since gray tends to be somber we decided on a colorful print which resembles a Van Gogh painting to cover the windows and a chenille for the upholstered pieces that has a stripe of all the colors of the print.

The sofa, two lounge chairs and ottoman are done in the chenille with two large toss pillows of the print. I had the print laminated on to a fashion section.

E selected a Michigan wine country theme for the Observer & Eccentric's fall

We did that for several reasons: Because our photoshoot was at the old winery on

Grand River Avenue at Orchard Lake Road in Farmington; because of the season's predominance of classic clothes, which are like good wine in that they just get better with time; and because this season's clothes seem to have an affinity to wine in that they are zestful, velvety, shadowy and enchanting.

In its heyday, the winery.

A historic designation marker helps to identify the former winery building at 31505 Grand River Avenue in Farmington, now owned by John White. The brick complex is now called Farmington Distribution Center and is used for offices and warehousing. For more information on the building, call White at 477-1150.

formerly called LaSalle Wines and Champagne, produced and bottled more than a million and half gallons of wine each year for distribution in Michigan from 1930 until it closed its doors in 1970.

During its years of operation. it was the 33rd largest producer of wines in the country. The modestly priced wines, made from grapes grown by local farmers, sold for as little as 42 cents a bottle

A number of participants in cur photo sessions remembered the sprawling brown brick building from their childhood. days. As we wind our way through the dinging vines of fash onwhose tendrus are loathe to disengage themselves from anything substantial enough to support them, we find old favorites sending forth new shoots that promise to entwine la whole new audience.

We have sniffed the cork. tasted the wine and are now in hot pursuit of the finer things in fash.on is now found in warm-up suits. Tweeds and plaids. exemplified in the British classics for decades, are finding new nomes in American closets. Fine woor gapardine, twills, covert cloths. are giving working wardrobes. a major change in body configuration

And romance is back, Not the fluffy romance of poulf skirts or the unrealistic froufrou of ruffles and bows, but the ultimate romance of treating ourselves to the best because we deserve it — the romance of knowing that one really good suit can serve in the place of two or three notso-good suits. We call it Power Dressing because of the confidence it exudes in knowing how really good you

The changes in fashion are subtle. A sense of humor abounds, noted in Mondi's black luxury motorcycle suit, in Karl Lagerfeld's suede adaption of Chanel's classic suit in Michael Casey's thighhigh slit evening gown, in Thom Leffler's tweed jacketed black tie dinner suit.

There's color news in browns mixed with red and intonal costuming everything in the same color from head to toe, even beads. All-over knit dressing that includes the legs is a cozy new trend. Parkas and ski jackets emerge for evening while remaining a skiand weekend staple.

Animal prints and patterns, strong for most of this decade, are still here, with leopard leading the pack. Hides are hot and expensive, as butters of leathers and suedes salute our love of luxe.

There's a narrowing of silhouette in close-to-the body ciothes for those who can wear them and plenty of camouflage around for those who can't.

According to our fashion = retailers, there is nothing terribly new.

Special evenings embrace the concept of candlelight and champagne dining and create a very good reason to get all dressed-up. But because the new trend is toward staying. home (cocooning as it's popularly called) a whole new category of dressing emerges. These are the clothes you slip into at the end of a long days work. It's part of the trend toward home as the center of life where everyone wants to live well and look good.

If you're still slipping into well-worn jeans and an old shirt shortly after you turn off the alarm, you need to reevaluate your attitude. Looking good for the family is just as important as looking good in the workplace. And looking good for yourself helps to thwart many at-home temptations, such as overindulging in snacks, beverages and TV viewing.

This is also an important season for accessories. Almost everything looks new belted at the waist, including suit jackets and bulky sweaters. Pearls are still strong, often adorned with colored stone. An amusing pin is nice, scatter pins on the lapel are very strong and earrings are on the wane.

Short, little boy haircuts with uneven edges lend a fresh, gamin look, adding a new energetic style to the familiar shapes of fashion which are no longer bound by rules.

The new trend, even in the world's fashion capital, Paris, France, is toward. staying home. And to do that, you certainly don't need a closet full of ballgowns or sequins. He doesn't need a smoking jacket either. As a matter of fact, fashion retailers are complaining that people are buying champagne. coolers, sofas and designer sheets instead of spending their money on fancy clothes. Rather, they are looking. for comfortable but attractive clothes to relax in at home.
