Smoke empties theater

The Quo Vadis theater complex was evacuated late Sunday night after an electrical fire in a small storage room caused smoke to fill part of the building. It was the second fire in 10 days at the theater on Wayne Road north of Warren Road.

The Westland fire department said Monday morning it is still investigating the source of the fire, which was confined to a small storage room on the second floor.

"There was a lot of smoke but less damage than the previous fire," said the department.

The Aug. 10 blaze began in a second floor room where a popcorn machine and popcorn were stored. The theater was empty at the time. Employees were on duty but no one was hurt.

In the Sunday night fire, no one was injured as the theater was evacuated and patrons given tickets for a later show.

Pair face attempted murder trial

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

A Westland man and his adult daughter were ordered Friday to stand trial on attempted murder charges as confusion grew over their possible motive for shooting a second daughter in the head as she napped in the family's Wildwood home.

Valentine Kwiatkowski, 78, and his daughter, Carol, 43, waived a preliminary examination in 18th District Court. Arraignment in Wayne County Circuit Court was set for 8:30 a.m. Sept. 5.

Judge Gail McKnight denied a request from defense attorneys to set bond for the defendants, who have pleaded not guilty. Both are being held in the Wayne County Jail.

Both are charged with one count of assault with intent to commit murder for the Aug. 6 shooting of Anna Kwiatkowski, 32.

Valentine Kwiatkowski faces an additional charge of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

IF CONVICTED, they face a maximum penalty of life in prison.

The victim was listed in fair condition Friday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. She was moved from intensive care to the intermediate care ward earlier in the week, a hospital spokesman said.

According to statements given to police, Valentine Kwiatkowski admitted to hospital workers that he shot his daughter in the head twice at close range with a .32-caliber handgun as she slept.

When Anna Kwiatkowski was still alive 90 minutes later, they drove her to the hospital, where she often worked as a volunteer, police said.

The pair told hospital workers they planned to kill Anna, who weighs 360 pounds and suffers from severe asthma, because her mounting medical expenses had become a financial burden to the family.

But police told the court Friday that the family appeared to be better off financially than it claimed.

"SOME OF THE things said earlier don't appear to be true," Detective Sgt. Jerry Wright told the judge. "They (the defendants) do have money and she (the victim) wasn't a financial burden."

Economic growth head quits

By Tedd Schneider

Tim Schroeder, who helped usher in Westland's development boom of the late 1980s, is leaving his job as the city's economic development director.

Schroeder will resign the post this month for a job with Lavenhol and Horwath, a Southfield-based accounting firm. Schroeder, 29, will be an associate in the firm's real estate advisory services department.

He will be replaced by the current economic development coordinator, Scott Veldhuis, effective next Monday.

Mayor Charles Griffin is expected to announce the changes at tonight's Westland City Council meeting.

Griffin said last week he will fill the department's number two job "as soon as possible, hopefully within a month."

"We have too much going to go without a fully-staffed economic development department for long," Griffin said.

The mayor said Schroeder's move would be "a loss for the city" and praised the outgoing official as "the best economic development director in Wayne County."

"HE'S AN intelligent, articulate young man who knew how to deal with people and get the job done," Griffin said.

"I'm sorry to see him go but I'm glad to see him get the opportunity to advance," he said.

Schroeder said his decision was based on receiving an attractive offer for interesting work and was also a matter of timing. "I think I've accomplished a fair amount here in the last three years and this was an opportunity may not be here a year from now," he said.

THE WAYNE-WESTLAND Teen Development Committee has several programs in the works for the beginning of the school year.

The committee will sponsor a spaghetti dinner and workshop on "Fun, Fitness and the Family" 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 21, at Adams Junior High School. Admission is $3 and advance registration (by Monday, Sept. 18) is necessary.

Interested persons may call Lisa Johnson, project director, at 595-2110, to register or get more information.

Also, Johnson will speak to groups of junior and senior high school students this fall on topics ranging from self-esteem to goal-setting.

For parents, committee members have started a Parents Helping Parents group. Topics applicable to each grade will be discussed periodically throughout the school year. Problem-solving sessions and small group discussions will also be held.

The Teen Development Committee has affiliated with Counterpoint Runaway Shelter, which provides a 24-hour crisis line and referral service. The hotline number is 863-5005.

The committee, a joint project of the school district, Michigan Department of Public Health and Annapolis Hospital, is looking for additional grants to fund its operation for another year.

IT'S JUST a matter of priorities for two Wayne-Westland school district board members.

After student editors presented the board with 1989 yearbooks of John Glenn and Wayne Memorial High Schools last week, board member Kathleen Chorbagan admitted she didn't like her photo published in one of the yearbooks.

A colleague, Sylvia Kosorok-Wlasek, told the students that she doesn't care about her own picture — as long as they spell her name right.

Their dancing beats talking

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

"Shut up and dance" is the motto of Country Class, a country western dance group run by a mother and daughter team.

"If we talk, all of us start laughing and we goof up," said Westland resident Diane Turner. "So we just say, 'Shut up and dance.' Its even on our buttons."

Since 1985, Turner and her mother, Beverly Arsenault of Garden City, have taught country western or line dancing.

"Country western line dancing doesn't require partners," said Arsenault.

"We got a lot of singles, widows and divorced people," Arsenault said. "We were both divorced when we started this. You go out and you kind of feel discriminated against because everything is all couples."

people

People whose spouses don't like to dance also enjoy participating in the classes with Country Class, which keeps the dancers in practice through performances at community or charitable events, according to Arsenault.

Most dances taught by the pair are line dances, Turner said, although formations can be varied into circles or facing different directions.

"Two of the more popular dances are the Texas Two-step and Cotton-Eye Joe, which aren't line dances," she said. "With squares, you need groups of eight people, which we don't."

To show that you can line dance to any music, as long as it has a beat to count to, Turner said she likes to use music by Bob Seger or Bruce Springsteen for demonstrations at public appearances.

The pair started teaching country western dancing after the teacher slated for classes through the L'anso Creuso School District backed out.

"It was an eight-week session and we drove 800 miles," Arsenault said. "It was our first class and we didn't want to give up, so we taught there for a year and a half."

Livonia man's trial set on drug charge

A 23-year-old Livonia man was bound over for trial Friday on charges stemming from a July 17 undercover drug bust at Westland Center.

Last month, two other men were bound over for trial in connection with the case.

Hassen Kassen Abikhodr waived a preliminary examination in front of 18th District Judge Gail McKnight on one count of possession with intent to deliver more than 50 grams of heroin.

Abikhodr, who pleaded innocent, faces a possible sentence of 5-20 years in prison if convicted of the charge.

He will be arraigned in Wayne County Circuit Court 8:30 a.m. Monday, Sept. 11.

McKnight approved a request from defense attorney Charles Howard to reduce Abikhodr's bond from $250,000 to $25,000, 10 percent cash, provided the defendant move back to his parent's house in Dearborn. He had been living with an older brother.

Abikhodr's parents attended the hearing.

ALSO FACING the heroin possession charge are Ali Youssef, 21, of Dearborn and Jamal Ahmad Hazime, 19, of Dearborn Heights.

Police said the three were arrested at the mall, Wayne Road at Warren Road, after discussing the sale of eight ounces of heroin for $32,000 with undercover officers from the Western Wayne County Drug Enforcement Team.

Two were arrested in the parking lot and one was arrested inside the mall as shoppers passed by unaware.

After the arrests, police seized five ounces of heroin and a late model Toyota Supra.

Police were led to the mall after officers arrested a man in a Canton Township apartment where they found four ounces of cocaine.

The Western Wayne drug team is supported financially by Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Belleville. Police departments supplying officers include Canton Township, Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Van Buren Township, the city of Wayne and the Michigan State Police.

Accord reached on fate of arches

McDonald's golden arches sign will stay put in front of the restaurant on Ford at Radcliff until the Westland Historical Museum prepares a new location.

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

McDonald's circa 1965 golden arches — in violation of Westland's municipal sign ordinance — will remain in front of the remodeled restaurant at Ford and Radcliff until a place is made for them behind the Westland Historical Museum.

The Westland zoning board of appeals Wednesday voted 6-0 to grant a 12-month variance for the larger-than-allowed sign to the Westland Historical Commission. As part of the agreement, McDonald's Corp. will donate the sign to the commission and pay the cost of moving it.

The commission will receive an easement from McDonald's, allowing it to maintain the sign at its current site until the new location is ready. The sign will be designated an historical site and a plaque citing the "Golden Arches" as a sign of an era of time that led the way for fast food and franchise businesses will be erected at its base.

Joseph Benyo, historical commission vice chairman said.

"This is an unusual request, but we feel that since McDonald's led the way for this country in that type of business, it would be an asset to maintain the sign."

BENYO NOTED the placement last year of an early McDonald's sign for permanent display at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

The Ford Road sign is one of the few early McDonald's signs left in the country, according to Benyo. The original restaurant was part of the "second generation" of McDonald's designs, a company spokesman said.

The compromise ends a four-month debate over the fate of the nostalgic 24-year-old sign that began when McDonald's built a new, expanded restaurant at the corner, on the Westland-Garden City border.

Because the original sign was erected before Westland incorporated as a city, it wasn't required to meet the city's sign ordinance. But that changed when McDonald's razed the old restaurant and put up a new building.

The 24-foot golden arches are twice as high and nearly three times as large in square footage as the maximum size allowed.

Mediation is 'productive' in police talks

The contract dispute between the city and Westland Police Sergeants and Lieutenants Association appeared closer to resolution Friday after the second of two meetings with a state mediator.

"They were very productive meetings as far as getting some movement on the key issues," Sgt. Robert Barthold, union president, said.

Barthold said mediator Edmond Phillips Friday recommended a package for the city to study before forwarding it to the 23-member union for a vote.

He declined to discuss details of the latest proposal.

The Westland City Council could go into a closed session to discuss the new offer as early as tonight, when it has a regularly scheduled meeting.

City Attorney Charles Bokos was unavailable for comment Friday. Earlier this week Bokos said there appeared to be "movement on both sides now that a mediator is involved."

Phillips also met with city and union negotiators Aug. 10.

Stumbling blocks in the negotiations have been staffing and pension benefits.

The former contract between the city and the union expired in June 1988.

Negotiations have been bitter at times, with the union issuing a bumper sticker critical of Mayor Charles Griffin and the mayor calling a press conference to refute what he called "misleading crime statistics" distributed by the union.

Their dancing is better than talking

SINCE THEN, they have taught at several locations, including in the Wayne-Westland schools and at Schoolcraft College.

Although Turner and Arsenault have many repeat students in their classes, they keep their emphasis on basic steps. After an hour on basic steps, the second hour of each class focuses on learning new dances.

"We teach the basic steps because once you learn the basics there are hundreds of line dances you can do," Turner said. "There are so many fad dances that come and go. They can learn those on their own."

After visits to places where country western dancing is very popular, such as in the West, Turner said the dancers often bring back steps their teachers haven't learned yet.

"We have a following for our classes. People come from everywhere. We had one couple drive up from Ohio," said Turner.

Bond denied for pair in Westland shooting

Wright, in an interview after the hearing, said police turned up current Detroit Edison paycheck stubs for Carol Kwiatkowski and pension check stubs made out to her father during a search of the home. Valentine Kwiatkowski is retired from General Motors Corp.

He said the family's $60,000 house has $18,000 remaining on its mortgage.

"They have two new cars, and they appear to be current on all their bills," he said.

Gail Benson, a court-appointed attorney representing Carol Kwiatkowski, disagreed with the prosecution's assessment. "There was definitely some (financial) difficulty there, or at least they felt that way," she said.

In denying the request to set bond, McKnight also addressed the issue of misleading information and possible premeditation.

Defense attorneys Benson and Marc Lakin argued that the court's original decision to forego bond — based in part on the reported suicidal nature of the defendants — was no longer valid.

"Mr. Kwiatkowski is in ill health and values every day that he remains alive," Lakin told the court.

The attorneys suggested that the defendants could pay bond and be remanded to the custody of an aunt living in Detroit.

BUT McKnight said her decision was based on an apparent change in circumstances surrounding the charges.

"When first brought before the court, it was presented as benign attempt at a mercy killing-suicide by a couple of misguided souls," the judge said. "Today, with the freezer and other information, the court believes that the original (lack of) bond was adequate."

The freezer referred to by the judge was, police said, purchased by the defendants the week before the incident in order to store Anna Kwiatkowski's corpse in an effort to prevent the decomposing body from drawing suspicion to the house.

Benson said her client appeared competent to stand trial but declined to discuss further courtroom strategy. She said she was confident a jury would look at her client and the co-defendant "and see that these people are not murderers."

City economic director gets job in accounting

While the new job is in the private sector, Schroeder said he will still be dealing with municipal governments as a consultant.

He listed his major accomplishments as economic development director as structuring the way the city handles incoming projects; implementing the Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) district road improvements, and ongoing efforts to attract development for Eloise, the former county hospital site at Michigan Avenue and Merriman.

"We don't have a big project (at the Eloise site) yet, but I think with the cooperation from other communities and the recently completed study, we can expect some results down the road," he said.

AMONG THE major projects Schroeder had a role in landing are the WestRidge Plaza, which includes Target and Mervyn's as major tenants; a 212,000-square-foot Meijer superstore at Warren Road and Newburgh, set for completion next March; and the eight-screen Showcase movie complex that will open this fall on Wayne Road north of Hunter.

He also oversaw continued development of the city's six industrial parks.

Schroeder said he was confident he was leaving the city in good shape, with Central City Parkway nearly completed and the Warren and Newburgh road-widening projects well under way. The roads are being widened with TIFA funds.

He said he was particularly proud of the way the city worked with ar-

He also won the Quad Run race held by the school in competition with the Air Force ROTC unit on campus.

Boucher and other leaders met with public officials and officials of the diplomatic corps and the media.

He also met with U.S. Sen. Carl Levin and Donald Riegle of Michigan and U.S. Rep. William Ford, whose 15th congressional district includes Westland.

The leadership conference was first held in 1985, sponsored by a the private, non-profit Congressional Youth Leadership Council.

Little planes offer big thrills to pilots

By Diane Gale
staff writer

If you squint your eyes on a sunny afternoon, you might swear you were looking at a full-size aircraft careening through the sky.

The bright yellow quarter-scale Piper J-3 Cub loops and sails about 300 feet off the ground, and Canton resident Bert Bryan stands on the ground at the remote controls.

The Flying Pilgrims Model Airplane Club member knows what it's like at the controls inside a plane, too.

In comparison, Bryan said, you don't get the thrill of going up and down standing at the remote, but then you don't get sick, either.

"You can try to do things that you would never try to do in a real one," he said.

The model plane hobby not only gives you the fun of flying, Bryan said, "but it's just as much fun building."

Take the wheels off, put skis on and flying model airplanes becomes a wintertime hobby, too, Bryan said.

"For some people it's a good form of relaxation," he added.

Mac McAtee watches the plane with the curiosity and excitement of a newcomer.

Yet, he said, he has been building model airplanes "since God created the earth" — when the 73-year-old Westland resident was 12.

"I love the building of it," McAtee said. "One of the big things is the camaraderie of getting with the fellas on a beautiful day and you always have something in common to talk about."

QUITTERS SHOULD stay away from the sport, McAtee advises, because it is common to crash planes. "It teaches you you can't be a quitter on life or those airplanes," said McAtee, who was retired from Ford Motor Co. and recently was called back to the styling division.

Richard Vukmirovich, a 60-year-old retired pilot from Detroit, loves flying model planes more than the real thing. And even though the planes cost between $300 and $2,000, he makes a joke with McAtee about crashing one a couple of weeks ago.

Vukmirovich, who has been flying for 40 years, channeled his anger into building another model plane in a week.

As his one-third size Sky Boat looped and spinned and dropped in the sky, Vukmirovich laughed and said: "If I was inside that airplane I'd probably be scared."

ALL THREE men are members of the Flying Pilgrims Airplane Club, which is sponsoring the International Miniature Aircraft Association Chapter 31 "Fall Fly for Fun Phase Out," Sept. 23 and 24 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Van Born and Lilley roads.

A flying lawn mower, a witch on a broom and possibly a replica of a Porsche will be some of the unusual aircraft at the show.

The field used by the Flying Pilgrims is rented for $1 annually from Canton Township.

As many as 2,000 people have attended the show in the past, said Don Kehoe, president of the 17th Pursuit Squadron.

With about 70 members from Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Farmington and Detroit, the group is part of the Flying Pilgrims with members in Detroit, Farmington, Westland, Livonia, Canada, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

Members range in age from 14 to 73.

The show is free to spectators and gives the club a chance to draw members, Kehoe said.

"It's a lot of fun," Bryan said. "It's a great source of entertainment. It really is."

For more information, call Kehoe at 397-0410.

Little movement reported in teacher contract talks

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Progress is slow as Livonia Public Schools teachers and administrators meet to discuss a new teachers contract, both sides say.

"We're not pleased with the tone we get from the board's team," said teachers union president Steve Naumcheff, after a negotiation session Thursday — the fifth session held this month.

Sessions also are scheduled for today, Wednesday and Friday.

NAUMCHEFF SAID he's frustrated over a lack of progress, adding the school board negotiating team hasn't upped its initial offer of a 3 percent pay raise since talks opened in April.

In metro Detroit, teachers have been averaging 6 to 8 percent pay raises in the past year, according to the Metro Bureau of School Studies.

"The teachers are desirous of a settlement before school starts (Sept. 6); we were desirous of a settlement in June," said Naumcheff.

Likewise, Samuel LaMonica, director of employee relations for the district, said administrators hope to settle the contract before school starts. "I'd like to see them (contract talks) go faster than they're going."

Both sides are "attempting to rewrite a whole contract. What that entails is a lot of hard work on both sides," LaMonica said.

The contract between the district and its 1,050 teachers expired Tuesday.

Insurance coverage is still in effect, and "teachers (including counselors and coaches) who have responsibilities to the Livonia Public Schools between now and the start of school are encouraged to fulfill them," Naumcheff said.

Naumcheff said he backs a consensus-building or team management philosophy, adding former acting superintendent Carole Samples and the district's new superintendent, Joseph Marinelli, have expressed support for that approach.

"But we are not seeing that at the table."

"We're not in the '50s or '60s; this isn't 'negotiation strategies 301.' The corporate team concept is supposed to be part of the management style of the '90s," Naumcheff continued.

THE LIVONIA Education Association has scheduled a general membership meeting for Labor Day, Sept. 4, to discuss three options — a possible teacher's strike among them — as directed by the union's bylaws.

Livonia School District

The Livonia School District includes the northern section of Westland.

At that general membership meeting, "We would like to take a tentative agreement to our membership, then Thursday or Friday (Sept. 7 or 8) hold a membership vote," Naumcheff said.

While negotiations also have begun with three other unionized employee groups — 150 teachers aides, 140 secretaries and 61 head custodians — LaMonica said contract negotiations with teachers "are going to take more of our time," as the opening of school approaches.

The current three-year contract between teachers and the district provided for 5.5 to 7.5 percent raises in various years of the contract — determined in part by how much property values increased in the district.

cop calls

A WESTLAND man was treated for stab wounds in his back and wrist after he was involved in an altercation on Second near Farragut Aug. 13, police said.

Officers responding to a call at 4:07 a.m. found the man, 19, laying face down on the sidewalk. There was an eight- to 10-inch gash in his back, below the right shoulder, and a smaller cut on his left wrist, police said.

A witness told police he had accompanied the man to a house in the 2400 block of Second, where they were going to visit a friend. While the two were waiting on the porch, two unidentified men in a late-model Ford drove up and began to shout at them, the witness told police.

When they began to walk away, the car followed them, and before they turned the corner at Second, a passenger in the car got out and stabbed the victim, the witness said. The victim was treated and released.

Police said the witness, who appeared to be intoxicated, changed his story several times.

A GARDEN CITY man told police he was assaulted at 3:45 a.m. Wednesday as he waited to pick up a friend from her job at the Taco Bell restaurant, 6308 N. Wayne Road.

The victim, 21, told police he was sitting in his car when another man pulled up next to him. The man began yelling about an incident the night before and apparently accused the Garden City man of damaging the transmission on his pickup truck, police said.

The victim said his assailant punched him in the head through the open car window. The two then got out of their cars and the assailant punched the victim several times, police said.

Police said the victim had a swollen face and bloody nose when he reported the assault at the police station.

A COURTEOUS thief apparently returned a stolen car to its approximate parking spot on Birchwood before making off with the car's stereo system, police said.

The car owner told police she found her 1985 Toyota Celica parked two houses from its spot 6:30 a.m. Tuesday morning.

The car was stolen sometime after 11 p.m. Monday, when she left it locked in front of her house, the woman said.

The car's dashboard was damaged and there were about 50 additional miles on the odometer when it was returned, the woman said.

Locals absent from insurance bill debut

By Tim Richard
Staff writer

Two suburban members of the state House Insurance Committee weren't invited when state Rep. Nelson Saunders held a public hearing in Detroit to bash the auto insurance industry.

"It's time to turn the tables and stop the compromises," said Saunders, D-Detroit, a member of the Insurance Committee who held the hearing alone. "Michigan residents have been victimized too long by a system that allows them to be gouged. Much more aggressive (regulatory) action is needed."

Saunders' bills call for controlling auto insurance rates by state government, rolling back rates 20 percent below May 1988 levels, and prohibiting the state insurance commissioner from joining an insurance company for 10 years after leaving office. The last bill is aimed at Herman Coleman, now a vice president of AAA.

"I WASN'T EVEN invited," said Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford, a member of the House Insurance Committee. "My secretary would have called me from Lansing if I had been."

"I don't believe his bill is going anywhere. It may get a (committee) hearing. The chair (Mary Brown, D-Kalamazoo) may grant it as a courtesy."

"I refused to sign it (as a co-sponsor)."

"I haven't seen him (Saunders) at any meetings, and we've had many meetings this year. Maybe he checked in and out and left a vote, but I haven't seen him," Bennett said.

"I GUESS HE can have his own traveling show," said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, another Insurance Committee member who wasn't invited. The panel has 16 members.

Law saw Saunders' hearing as election year politics in Detroit. Saunders is a former administrative assistant to U.S. Rep. John Conyers, who is challenging Mayor Coleman A. Young.

Conyers and council president Erma Henderson, another mayoral hopeful, were featured speakers at Saunders' hearing Wednesday in the City-County Building. Saunders praised them warmly.

"He's the only Detroit rep backing Conyers," Law added. Other legislators from Detroit are either support Young or are neutral.

"That (insurance bashing) sounds great if you're running for office in Detroit," Law said.

He added that Saunders is "normally a conscientious and bright guy."

SOME SUBURBANITES have been attracted to Saunders' call for reducing auto insurance rates, said Law.

"Some letters I get think a 20 percent decrease is nice. His problem is that rates are high in Detroit."

Said Bennett: "Rates are predicated on losses in an area." He sees the suburbs as subsidizing Detroit car owners under Michigan's system of tying rates in one territory to those in a neighboring town.

Law said insurers aren't perfect but disagreed with Saunders' specific target. "AAA made a real effort to stay in Detroit when others bailed out. They took heavy losses in Detroit. To beat on them is probably unfair," Law said.

SPEAKERS AT Saunders' hearing saw the auto insurance industry as biased against Detroit, Flint and Saginaw — euphemisms for black-dominated urban areas.

"Outstate is an ugly scene as it relates to Detroit," said council president Henderson. "Detroiters were being told (by insurers), Move to the suburbs and call me back."

Attorney Tim Luxon — a member of the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association which is a foe of the insurance industry — said he saw a pattern of bias against blue-collar workers from cities and in favor of white-collar suburbanites.

"Accident victims are sent by the insurance companies to 'cut-off doctors.' They choose to ignore the plaintiff's (injured person's) doctor," he said. Persons who labor physically suffer more from invisible "soft tissue" injuries, but Luxon said their medical benefits are cut off as fast as possible by insurance company examiners.

"I tend to share the feeling, but I have not yet documented it," said Saunders, who asked Luxon for statistics.

Carl Edwards, a Detroit attorney and past MTLA president, advocated allowing banks to sell auto insurance and compete and against the insurance companies.

Parkway pedalers

Jim Oxford, 48, of Westland and Jim Duncan, 49, of Garden City ride their bikes along Edward Hines Drive at least four times a week. The pair met while riding in the park in 1983 and their families became friends. The pair cover about 27 miles each ride, according to Duncan. On Saturday, the bikers log anywhere from 80 to 100 miles. Oxford, a program manager at Ingersoll Milling Machine Co. in Troy, and Duncan, who works at the GM Hydra-matic Plant in Warren, are usually joined by two other friends. Duncan's been riding since 1974 when his wife bought their son a new 10-speed. He liked it so much he asked for one too.

clarification

A story about the Wayne County free home weatherization program in Thursday's newspaper should have said that only residents receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and Supplemental Social Security Income are automatically eligible.

Others residents must qualify under income guidelines.

The federally-funded program allows a homeowner or renter, who is considered low income by current federal guidelines to have their homes weatherized free of charge.

After establishing income eligibility, a county representative will perform a home inspection and then hire a licensed private contractor to perform the work.

Services covered under the program include ceiling, wall floor and water heater insulation, caulking and weatherstripping of leaky doors and windows as well as many other energy saving devices, according to Harley Trumbull, manager of the county's weatherization program.

Harley said in some cases heating bills have been reduced by 30 percent after homes have been weatherized.

The home improvement program covers residents in 18 communities including Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Garden City, Livonia, Westland, Canton Township and Redford Township.

Those interested in the program are urged to call before winter. For more information, call the county at 326-9422.

Relaxation

A commodity in short supply

SLICED BREAD used to be the basis on which everything was judged to be new and convenient.

Now we have pet shampoo in a mousse form (presumably not as messy), credit card gasoline pumps, and new "debit" cards which allow us to pay for groceries from our checking account without writing a check.

Buying something is as easy as flipping the remote control to one of the many "shopping" channels on cable.

The once trendy fast food drive-throughs and automatic bank tellers are almost passe — so much a part of the everyday routine we take them for granted.

Not only is technology advancing by the day, but our thinking is advancing as well.

Recent news reports say our traditional 40-hour work week may be shortened in coming years to give us more "recreational" time.

Some employers already offer "job sharing," where two people work part-time doing the job of one. Others are offering on-site day care for employees as a benefit.

Casey Hans

IT'S A NEW world full of new, timesaving ideas. And they're all the "greatest thing since sliced bread, right?"

Maybe not. Instead of helping us to slow down and relax, these conveniences have allowed us to clip along at a faster pace than ever before. It's hard to believe that's possible. We're spinning in circles now — can we go any faster?

It's dizzying. The more time we make, the more we find to do. All these extra minutes and hours seem to breed laundry lists of "things to do today."

Take one co-worker who was home last week, who wallpapered three rooms at home and did a myriad of other things. "My family was happy to see me go back to work," she said.

Admittedly, I'm the same. Give me a day off, and I cram it with errands, projects and things which were on "today" lists many weeks ago. I just never got around to doing them. Visits to the hardware store, cleaning the basement, finishing crafts projects.

Give me a week off and I'm in heaven.

BUT THERE'S ALSO that need to get lost in a good book, to spend a lazy Sunday loafing, or to just take some time to play with the cats, dogs, or kids depending on your situation.

If hitting a stupid little ball around a course doesn't upset you, a round of golf may be just the ticket.

Some may like a quiet afternoon on a quiet lake with a fishing pole, while others prefer an afternoon of volleyball and waterskiing.

Whatever the definition, it's called relaxing, and it's worth putting on the list of "things to do today."

Preferably at the end. Casey Hans is a staff writer for the Birmingham Eccentric

Duggan still backing Heinz

To the editor:

I have always enjoyed a good relationship with City Treasurer Elaine Tuttle, but I was more than mildly surprised to read her letter printed in your Aug. 17 issue suggesting that I am encouraging her to run against County Commissioner Susan Heintz.

The "effort" Ms. Tuttle is referring to consisted of an off-hand conversation between us at a cocktail party two years ago at a time when I was greatly frustrated with the commission in general.

You may recall that 1987 saw a series of disputes between County Executive McNamara and the county commission during the budget crisis, and that conflict included a couple of flare-ups between Commissioner Heintz and myself.

In December 1987, Commissioner Heintz and I sat down, aired our differences at length, and resolved them.

She joined with us in the efforts to adopt the solvency package in Lansing and her contacts with the Republican legislators were a key part of our success in finally balancing the County budget.

Since that time, Commissioner Heintz has been a strong ally of County Executive McNamara. She has stood with us against pressure from her fellow Commissioners in the passage of important drain reform legislation last year and again this year in support of the establishment of a day care center for Wayne County employees in the County Building.

Perhaps more importantly, in the time I have spent with Sue Heintz in the last year and a half, we have genuinely become personal friends.

I also feel an obligation to respond to Ms. Tuttle's bitter attack on Observer reporter Tom Henderson.

In my job, I deal with newspaper reporters every day and I have had a variety of experiences. While I do not always like what Tom Henderson writes, I have always found him to be thorough, fair, and accurate.

I consider him to be one of the best reporters on any paper in metro Detroit, including the dailies. Any criticism of his objectivity is really unfair.

I have always supported Elaine Tuttle for treasurer and I wish her no ill will. But in the last year and a half, Sue Heintz has earned the respect and support of the entire McNamara administration.

Even if Ms. Tuttle succeeds in persuading Tom Henderson to move to an igloo in the Yukon (as she suggested in her letter) and she decides to run for County Commissioner, my support will be 100 percent with my commissioner, Susan Heintz, for re-election.

Michael E. Duggan, Deputy County Executive

Sales tax dates to 1933

This is the first in a series of six columns prepared by the Michigan Tax Information Council on the November school finance reform ballot proposals.

SALES TAX revenues play an important role in the funding of schools in Michigan. The sales tax is a single stage tax that is levied on retail sales of tangible goods. The sales tax is paid by the consumers, but is then collected by retailers and distributed to the state.

The general sales tax rate can only be increased by a constitutional amendment. The Sales Tax Act of 1933 established a 3 percent tax on retail sales of tangible personal property. The sales tax rate remained at 3 percent until 1960, when a constitutional amendment was adopted to raise the rate to 4 percent. Eighteen states tax sales at a rate less than 4 percent, 13 states at a higher rate, and 15 states at a rate of 4 percent.

In 1966, the Sales Tax Diversion Amendment was passed. This constitutional amendment established a formula for allocating sales tax revenues among local governments, school districts and the state's general fund. The majority of Michigan sales tax revenues are for the school aid fund (60 percent). Revenue sharing receives 15 percent and the Comprehensive Transportation Fund receives 28 percent of the automobile-related sales tax. The remaining revenues are available for general fund/general purpose spending.

IN NOVEMBER, House Joint Resolution 1 will put two separate constitutional amendments on the ballot. Both school finance-related proposals involve increases in the sales tax.

Proposal A would increase the sale tax from 4 cents to 4.5 cents. This would generate an additional $400 million for schools, including an estimated $115 million for specific quality programs. This proposal offers no property tax relief. All the revenues from the additional one-half cent sales tax would be dedicated to the State Account for Education (SAFE) Fund.

Proposal B would bump the sales levy to 6 cents, yielding $468 million more each year of public K-12 education. It would also allow cuts in local school operating millages by an average 37 percent for homeowners and 22 percent for businesses. Effective July 1, 1990, the School Aid Fund shall cease to exist, and its revenues and obligations transferred to the newly-created SAFE fund. Net lottery revenue and interest earned on net lottery revenues, 60 percent of the existing 4 percent sales tax, the 2 percent additional sales and use tax, and portions of the cigarette tax, the liquor tax and certain taxes levied in lieu of property taxes would be constitutionally dedicated to the SAFE fund.

The Michigan Tax Information Council is a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization formed in 1982 to develop and disseminate information on Michigan's tax and spending policies.

Burning issue doesn't need amendment

To the editor:

I share Mr. Haddad's distress over the act of flag burning. But I am even more distressed by the thought of amending our Constitution to punish the miscreants. Have there been as many as 10 flag burners among the 200 million plus of us?

In any case, the House is coming up with a bill to punish flag burners without laying hands on the Constitution. Hopefully the Republicans, who are particularly zealous in protecting the flag, will join with the Democrats in enacting this bill into law.

It is heartening to note that Senator Kerrey of Nebraska, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for valor in Vietnam, opposes the proposed flag burning amendment. He too decries flag burning but values the Constitution and what it stands for more than he prizes the mere cloth of Old Glory.

Hopefully, he and other heroes with wisdom will help us fend off this attack on our Bill of Rights.

Amazed at letter

To the Editor:

I am amazed at the letter from Jo Lassers Isgro complaining about a field trip to Domino Farms because, for one reason, Mr. Monaghan revoked a permit for the Ann Arbor Chapter of NOW to use the Farms because they are pro-abortion, then Jo says "Americans have a right to their views."

Mr. Monaghan is an American. Domino's is a private business, and he has a right to his views and to choose who does and does not use his farms. The NOW has given him as much trouble as possible, including calling a boycott of his business, why should he let them use his farms?

Mr. Monaghan is a man of integrity who stands by his convictions, therefore, I would be proud for my children to visit the business place of such a person. If Jo wants to rob her children that's her business.

I wouldn't let NOW (The National Order of Witches) use my facilities either, the way they act. I have been to rescues where NOW showed up spitting, cussing, and hair pulling among other things. They probably smoke cigars and put them out on the floor. Obviously Mr. Monaghan is smart enough to not want that going on at the Farms, and I support his decision as do many others, to revoke their permit to use his facilities.

New county golf course seeks state money

Wayne County seeks $468,000 from the state's new "quality of life" bond program to help build a second county golf course.

County commissioners approved the request Thursday and set aside $157,000 in matching county dollars. In all, the proposed Inkster Valley Golf Course would receive $625,000.

The county plans to use the state bonds, its own bonds and profits from its current Warren Valley course, to finance the Inkster course.

The hilly property is on the banks of the Lower Rouge River, between Inkster and Middlebelt roads. County sources said it was planned for a golf course as far back as the 1920s.

"One of the nice things about it, is that we'll have a golf course that's close to the airport," said county commissioner Kay Beard. D-Inkster. Beard's district includes the golf course site, as well as Garden City and Westland.

County voters approved the qualty of life bonds in the November general election.

IN OTHER county news:

- Property condemnation has begun for the new Wayne County Jail.
- County commissioners Thursday authorized $45,403 in payments to property owners whose land is included in the Hamtramck jail site.
- Individual payments varied from as low as $1 to as high as $12,500 for nine parcels.
- The site, in a Hamtramck industrial park, was selected after consideration of sites in Highland Park and Romulus.
- Voters approved a 1-mill tax to build the new jail during last year's primary election.
- Commissioners also authorized an additional $1.1 million to repair the Middle Rouge Parkway sewer interceptor near the Ford/Evergreen intersection.
- The commission previously authorized $1.5 million in emergency repairs for the line, which failed during last year's Thanksgiving holiday.

The new authorization includes $430,000 to complete emergency repairs and $615,000 in long-term improvements.

Money was taken from Rouge Valley sewer reserves.

- The county will receive $116,000 by selling off surplus coal from its Westland power plant. Roughly 8,000 tons became available after the plant switched from coal to natural gas as its energy source.
- Commissioners passed a resolution in memorandum on behalf of the DeLisle children. In a case attracting substantial local interest, Bryan, Melissa, Katherine and Emily DeLisle drowned Aug 3 after a station wagon driven by their father plunged into the Detroit River. Their father has been charged in their deaths.

Land bid details still 'weeks away'

Wild, however, said no announcement date has been scheduled at this time.

The field is expected to be narrowed to two, he said, with recommendations passed to County Executive Edward McNamara.

Should McNamara approve, the matter would then pass to the county commission, Wild said. "But if he doesn't approve, we're back to square one."

Four developers have submitted bids on the property. All seek to build at least one golf course on the site. Some would surround the course with luxury single family homes, others would add condominiums and high tech businesses.

BIDDERS INCLUDE:

- Group I - Major partners include Nicklaus/Sierra Development Corp. of Tampa, Fla., LoPatin & Co. Southfield, the Fisher Group, Detroit, Holtzman & Silverman Cos., Farmington Hills and Duke Associates, Indianapolis.
- Nicklaus/Sierra is affiliated with golf legend Jack Nicklaus. The proposal would ring the golf course with luxury homes.
- Group II - Major partners include downriver businessman Heinz Prechter, developer Robert DeMatia of Plymouth and the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co., Farmington Hills.

The proposal also includes single-family homes, but would add condominiums, other recreational activities and a high tech business center.

- Group III - Major partners include developers Arnold Choen of Southfield and developers John Boll and Joseph Ministrelli of Mount Clemens.

In addition to single family homes, the proposal also includes senior housing, townhouses, apartments and retail, high tech and office buildings.

A treat so sweet is corn

Mention summertime cooking and immediately, you conjure up thoughts about corn. Plump, juicy sweet corn, dripping with butter. Whether it be steamed, boiled or grilled, you just can't enjoy summer without corn.

Corn is indigenous to America. When it comes to culinary heritage, corn belongs right up there next to Old Glory. During the 13th century in the southwestern United States and in Mexico, corn or maize meant life itself, and the cultivation of corn was an act of worship. From birth through death, the economic, social and religious activities of the Hopi Indians of Arizona were bound to the growing of corn. No child could be born with security and survive the first 20 hazardous days of life without corn. For this reason, a special ear of corn was dedicated to each newborn baby as its "corn mother."

No one in Europe knew about corn until Columbus sailed to America in 1492. On Nov. 5, 1492, two Spaniards whom Columbus dispatched to explore the interior of Cuba returned with a report of "a sort of grain called maize, which is very well tasted when boiled, roasted, or made into a porridge."

Later explorers to the New World found corn being grown by the Indians in all parts of America, from Canada to Chile. The Indians grew all the main types of corn that are raised today. They prized corn with colorful kernels — red, blue, pink and black or with bands, stripes or spots. The kernels ranged in size from as small as a grain of wheat to as large as a quarter.

THE INDIANS frequently used corn patterns to decorate pottery, sculpture and other works of art.

The colonists used corn as money. With it, they paid their rent, taxes and debts. They even traded corn for marriage licenses. In many settlements, corn kept people from starving in difficult times.

Although corn is grown throughout the United States, the greatest production is an area of the Midwest called the corn belt, consisting of the seven states of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Ohio. This year, almost five billion bushels will be grown in this area alone.

If this sounds like more corn than one could handle, figure that of the 94 assorted supermarket items that go into most grocery carts, more than a quarter contain one or more ingredients from the corn processing industry. Not to mention the corn-derived feed ingredients that are so important to our animal economy. Add to that the fact that many industrial products ranging from cast metals to automobile tires depend on the use of specially designed cornstarches.

The Janes Gang alone is a frequent user of corn and its products. A week doesn't slide by without utilizing cornmeal, canned or frozen corn, corn syrup, corn flakes, cornstarch or corn oil in our culinary regime.

In addition, corn is used as the major fermenting ingredient when processing whiskey.

With summer winding down and corn prices dwindling as local markets reap locally grown products, you will be seeing corn soon at the typical dollar-per-dozen price. It would behoove the price-watching cook to take advantage of this pricing boom and to put some up, whether it be canned or frozen, to enjoy throughout the coming winter months.

Don't forget to use the husks and cobs in the compost heap.

HOT vegetables

Sizzling side dishes for meals from grill

By Larry Janes
special writer

ALL TOGETHER now, "Summertime — and the livin' is easy. Summertime, and the grillin' is fun!"

If you can't remember that one, how about "Roll out those, lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer. Those days of soda and pretzels and beer."

Who in their right mind would enjoy spending a humid summer afternoon or evening slaving over a hot stove, cooking entrees and vegetables? Especially when the grill is hot and the coals are just beginning to turn from an amber-colored red to a molten white.

If the thought of cooking hot dogs, burgers, fish or whatever on the grill for dinner seem like a cooling alternative, why not toss on a few of summer's great bounty of vegetables and really keep the kitchen cool. It's not as difficult as you might think, and the flavors imparted into grilled vegetables can turn a plain old zucchini into a gourmet vegetable delight. Or, for that matter, corn, onions, peppers, eggplant or potatoes.

COOKING VEGETABLES on the grill requires the backyard barbecue enthusiast to have on hand an ample supply of cool water.

Period. The garden hose will do nicely, as would a sprinkler for those times when the beads of a good summer sweat roll down the back and begin saturating a T-shirt. A clean spray bottle filled with H<sub>2</sub>O, or maybe a blend of your favorite vinegar and oil combination, will only increase the amount of raves received by those partaking of the meal.

In order to garner raves, simple kitchen logic must prevail. If those wily zucchini have grown to gargantuan lengths, rule numero uno requires the backyard chef to slice or cube said vegetables into the same size and thickness. This will keep Little Bobby's vegetables just as crisp and thoroughly cooked as little Annie's.

After a short soaking to help keep them moist over the intense heat, you can add vegetables directly on the grids or, if steaming is more in your line, a simple wrap in foil will suffice.

One of the Janes Gang summer vegetable favorites is baked onions, which are first peeled, then dotted with butter and sprinkled with a twist of fresh ground pepper. They are then wrapped in foil and added to the grill, about 25 minutes before the entree is served.

Smaller yellow cooking onions work best, especially for such a short cooking time. Larger onions (especially Vidalias) can be done the same way but for a longer cooking period. How can you tell when the vegetables are done? Simply pierce them with a long-handled barbecue fork, and when they are tender and the fork inserts and pulls out easily, dinner is served.

IF YOU ARE planning on grilling smaller or cubed vegetables, skewer them first, on just about any kind of bamboo or metal skewer. To keep veggies from sliding off the skewer while grilling, yours truly utilizes two skewers set side by side like railroad ties.

When the vegetables are impaled, even the most slippery mushrooms will stay intact during the grilling process. You can try this with just about any cubed vegetable, but experience has shown that mushrooms, pea pods, zucchini and eggplant slices work best.

For added-dimensional flavors, baste with a wide assortment of herb butters or margarines. If you're trying to keep on the slim side, a generous splash of wine, lemon juice, broth or bouillon can suffice.

If the thought of cooking vegetables on the barbecue has piqued your interest, you also can soak assorted vegetables in a marinade before grilling. Again, the old standby vinaigrette can be used, but for an intense flavor that will cook through a simple blend of olive oil, sesame oil and a generous splash of lemon juice works nicely.

Never underestimate what the flavor of a few fresh herbs does to an outdoor vegetable-grilling session. Wrapping zucchini in a large sprig of fresh basil or a sliver of dill can do wonders for the ordinary. Contrary to popular belief, adding fresh herbs to the hot coals does

Healthy appetites at Italian Cucina

Tim Coyne loves healthy food — and it shows in the entrees at the Italian Cucina (kitchen) restaurant.

There's no microwave in the kitchen. No deep-fried foods. No heavy sauces. Only olive oil for sauteing and salad dressings.

"I'm concerned about good, clean eating," says the graduate of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program, who has worked in several area restaurants.

In December, he and his wife, Libby Eaton, opened their Italian kitchen in a modern, new building on Ann Arbor Trail, just east of I-275, in Plymouth Township. It has been serving healthy foods ever since.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Tim Coyne, executive chef and part owner of Italian Cucina in Plymouth Township, shows salad with radicchio, calamari, artichokes and pasta (left) and chicken stir fry with pea pods and wontons

LIKE THE chargrilled salmon ($13.50) covered with toasted almonds and raspberries, one of the special seafoods offered recently. The fruit was a refreshing alternative to sauces, and it added an interesting, sweet flavor to the salmon. It was served with delicious tortellini with a light coating of tomato sauce and a mixture of crisp, lightly cooked pea pods and zucchini.

Everything is prepared on site, from the pastas and breads, to the sauces, sausages and desserts. The breadsticks, which are more like rectangles of deliciously fresh bread, are reason enough to stop in. The pastas are reason to keep returning. We found the pasta fresh and cooked to perfection, the sauce delicate and light. The baked pasta shells ($9.25) stuffed with ricotta and mozzarella cheese were delicious.

The veal scallopini, sauteed with wild forest mushrooms and artichoke hearts, sounded wonderful. We expected silvers of veal and a touch of the Marsala wine sauce. Instead, the veal was a thicker cut, a little tough and smothered in sauce. The heavy hand with the sauce left the veggies and redskins tasting like wine too. At $14.95, this was the most expensive item on the menu — and disappointing.

All the main entrees come with a great house salad, made of various greens, olives, peppers, onions, mushrooms and sprouts, lightly-coated with a good Italian dressing. You could easily make a meal of the award-winning minestrone soup, a house salad and the breadsticks. The desserts are good, but not as special as the breadsticks and pasta. The carrot cake was tasty but lacking in texture. The chocolate flan was very good and topped with blueberries and raspberries that almost melted in your mouth. IF FAMILIES and Sunday dinners are synonymous to you — or even if they aren't — try the seven-course, family-style dinner. That's all that is offered Sundays, but the entrees vary enough each week to keep you coming. You can count on delicious bread, salad, a chicken entree, a beef or pork entree, potatoes and vegetables. Cost: $9.95 for adults and $4.95 for children age 10 or younger.

The restaurant is large — it presently seats 200 in two rooms, though one room will become a small cafe in September, where guests can go after their main meal for coffee, dessert, after-dinner drinks and a little piano music. The main dining room is sectioned off by lattice-covered planters, making the room feel smaller despite its cathedral ceilings.

Details: The Italian Cucina, 39500 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, 454-1444.

Hours: Lunch, Tuesday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Dinner, Tuesday-Thursday, 4-10 p.m.; Friday-Saturday, 4-11 p.m.; Sunday noon to 8 p.m. Carryout available.

Prices: Lunch, $4.25-$8.95; Dinner, $6.25-$14.25. Value: Very good, particularly for pasta dishes.

Veggie sides from the grill

little, if anything, to impart flavor. The herbs will burn, and the only thing that will affect the flavor of the vegetables will be the black soot. Trust me, you don't want that.

ANYONE WHO has ever tasted fresh-grilled corn on the cob can appreciate the taste a grill adds, when the corn is properly prepared. You can leave the corn right in the husk (it's best to remove the silk beforehand). Allow the corn to soak in plain water for at least an hour. The soaking will help keep the product moist and "steam" the cobs right in their own husks.

Over good, hot coals, figure on at least 30 minutes for this delectable treat. If you are in a hurry or choose to make a more showy presentation, the corn can be shucked and cut into chunky cobs and then skewered for grilling. Since the husks have a tendency to keep the corn moist, skewered corn on the cob will require frequent basting and turning to keep from drying out.

A summertime vegetable that has a tendency to be shunned because most folks are a little intimidated is the amazing eggplant. It is bountiful and inexpensive during the summer. Just slice it and pop it on the grill, keeping it moist with a herbed marinade or baste. Just before serving, shower it with a handful of parmesan cheese, and your dinner guests will ask for more.

As with most summer vegetables, cooking times vary, depending on thickness and density. General rule for cooking times is to continue the cooking process until a fork or knife, inserted, pulls out easily. Skewered vegetables will cook faster, especially when the skewers are metallic and conduct heat more readily. Of course, the temperature of the coals and heights of the rack vary greatly from grill to grill, so when cooking your summertime veggies be sure to have a long-handled barbecue fork to avoid singed arms.

CAESAR MARINADE OR BASTE FOR VEGETABLES

- 3 large eggs
- 2 tablespoons dijon-styled mustard
- 2 cloves garlic, smashed
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire
- 2 strips anchovies, mashed
- 1 cup olive oil
- juice from one fresh lemon
- dash tabasco
- 2 tablespoons fresh grated parmesan cheese

1/2 cup parmesan cheese
paprika to taste

Scoop out a small amount of pulp from the zucchini, making a "boat." Set aside. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Stuff zucchini boats with mixture and place on grill and cook, until zucchini are tender, about 20 minutes. Cover with foil for the last five minutes to help melt filling.

In a glass bowl, combine egg with mustard, garlic, Worcestershire and anchovies. Mix well. Slowly drizzle in olive oil, whisking constantly. Add lemon juice, tabasco and parmesan cheese. Mix well. Use as a marinade and marinate vegetables in mix for at least two hours or use as a baste, basting frequently during cooking.

GRILLED ZUCCHINI WITH RICOTTA FILLING

- 4 medium zucchini, split lengthwise
- 1/2 cup cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup ricotta cheese
- 1 egg

GRILLED TOMATOES
4 firm, ripe tomatoes
1/4 cup oil (olive, vegetable or sesame)
1 teaspoon fresh chopped dill or 1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/4 cup parmesan cheese

Core tomatoes and slice in half. Drizzle each half with oil and sprinkle with dill. Cook, uncovered on the grill, until tomatoes begin to shrivel, about 5-10 minutes. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese just before serving. Caution: tomatoes cook fast because of their high water content.

Larry Janes gives recipes with corn

EASY CORN ON THE COB

8 ears of corn, as fresh as possible

Husk and remove silk from ears. Place corn in a large pot with just enough water to cover. Cover pot and heat over high heat to boiling for 2-3 minutes. Drain and serve hot with butter and salt.

CORNBREAD

- 1 1/4 cups all purpose flour
- 3/4 cup cornmeal
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1 egg, beaten

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Lightly grease an 8-or-9-inch glass baking pan. Combine dry ingredients. Stir in milk, oil and eggs, mixing until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour batter into a prepared pan and bake for 20 minutes or until golden brown.

CHICKEN CORN SOUP

- 6 cups good chicken broth
- 1/2 teaspoon saffron
- 2 cups shredded cooked chicken
- 1 cup fresh or frozen corn kernels
- 1 cup egg noodles
- 2 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
- salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley

Heat the chicken broth in a saucepan and stir in saffron. Bring to a boil and then lower the heat to a simmer. Add the chicken and the corn. Raise temperature to a slow, rolling boil, then add the noodles. Cook over medium heat for 10 minutes or until noodles are tender. Remove from heat and stir in the chopped hard-boiled eggs. Correct seasonings with salt and pepper. Ladle into soup bowls and top with parsley.

Chef's suggestion: This is one of Momma's old recipes that, when I made it, I thought it was better with a dash of Tabasco and the juice of 1/2 lemon added in for a little extra zing.

Michigan stores include Great Scott's, Foodland, Kroger, Jewel Foods, VG's Food Centers, D&W, Glenn's, Plumb Markets and various independent stores. Grocery store tours will be offered at many participating stores again this year to teach people how to make heart-healthy choices when purchasing food. Registered dietitians will lead the 1 1/2 hour tours. Tour participants will receive a free copy of the new publication "To Market To Market," a 30-page booklet which can be used while shopping. Store tours are free but because they are limited to 10 people each, you must register by phone. For more information call the American Heart Association of Michigan at 557-9500.

COOKING DEMOS

Nine Hudson's stores including eight in the Detroit area will host heart-healthy cooking demonstrations Sunday, Sept. 17, in cooperation with the American Heart Association of Michigan. Demonstrations will begin at 1 p.m. in the Marketplace in each store and be repeated several times until 3 p.m. Those attending will get to sample the food prepared and will receive a copy of the recipe, along with cooking and baking tip cards, and brochures on how to eat heart-healthy, including the American Heart Association dietary guidelines.

Metro-area Hudson's stores participating are Northland, Eastland, Southland, Twelve Oaks, Oakland Mall, Lakeside, Briarwood and Fairlane.

CANNING TIPS

"Old-time canning methods including open-kettle canning, paraffin sealing of jams and jellies, the inversion method and use of zinc, antique or commercial lids are unsafe," says Sylvia Tretiman, home economist of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. New, updated canning procedures and recipes should be carefully followed to assure a safe product with a good shelf life. If you are a new canner or just find you are confused on which new procedures to follow, help is available. The Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service offers a hotline for all your food preservation questions, Mondays-Fridays, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SAY YES TO MICHIGAN

Roadside stands, farmers markets handy

By Chris Rizk
special writer

No, you don't have to drive to the Eastern Market at 6 a.m. to buy fresh produce. Try the other direction — west — and you will find corn, tomatoes and cantaloupes plucked right from the vine.

This time of year, more people are buying produce from the backs of pickup trucks, roadside stands or from tables set up for the Michigan farm season.

The reason for the mass exodus from air-conditioned aisles of supermarkets to highway stands and open-air markets? The summer bounty is in and local farm markets are touting the biggest and best of Michigan's produce at lesser cost and fresher quality.

In the words of one farmer who has been in the business since 1977, produce sold in open-air markets throughout western Wayne and Washtenaw counties "is the best."

Up since 4:30 a.m. "pickin' all the stuff," John Goetz, 30, was busy arranging what little was left of his produce and flowers at Ypsilanti's Depot Town open-air market.

"This time of year," Goetz said, "you've got to be here before 1 p.m. The early bird gets the worm."

Squash, cucumbers, melons and cauliflower adorn his tables.

ACROSS THE market, Goetz's brother-in-law, Jerry Marks of Brighton, pushes berries closer to the tables' edge. It's nearing noon and few people are still out looking for morning legume and fruit bargains.

Marks sells "unsprayed" fruits and vegetables at Depot Town on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Just in his first year selling in the Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor area, Marks is convinced produce — that sold in open-air markets — is a priority for weekend shoppers.

"We sell a lot in this area here," he said. "Flowers sell better here, too."

"Nothing," he said, "sells the best" at his stand. He carries a variety of melons and vegetables because "one person's gonna want this and another's gonna want that."

August is the month for "maters and corn." Goetz of Riga (Mich.) said. Riga is a little town almost at the Michigan-Ohio border. "Maters," he said, is farmers' lingo for "tomatoes."

Hundreds of customers each Wednesday and Saturday crowd around his few stands to pick the biggest and best of Michigan's crop.

He said prices vary depending on current market value and the time of year.

So many people return to Depot Town's farm market that Goetz said he "probably knows more people here than in my own town."

GARY AND Martha Slauter of Ypsilanti said the prices are less expensive and the food is "better quality" than what is sold in supermarkets.

Having traveled Europe "in search of the best open-air markets," Gary Slauter said jokingly, he agreed that Depot Town offered a good variety of summer produce.

Produce stands pop up like weeds during the summer, most farmers agree. How close they are to heavily populated areas depends upon local ordinances. Gary Coleman, owner of one of three Coleman's Farm Market, said, Coleman, who runs an 8,000-square-foot market in Ann Arbor while his brother and mother operate two other in Ypsilanti, has a master's degree in urban forestry.

He ended up selling produce when he couldn't find a job in his field, he said. At 33, he has been peddling fruits and vegetables since he was a youth.

His earlier surroundings weren't quite as impressive as his open-air market, which he operates from May to October. Coleman used to sell produce out of the back of his family's pickup truck.

"I do well here," he said. "July and August are good months. Sweet corn's out and tomatoes are coming in, and August is a big canning month."

Coleman's produce is direct from Michigan growers, he said.

Despite the expense of running an open-air market (Coleman said local ordinances are so strict that in addition to having to be seasonal, state Department of Agriculture inspectors scrutinize health conditions), Coleman is preparing to expand.

THEY SEE a fly or bird buzzing around, they'll write you up, he said.

"If you're out in the boonies, they don't care," Coleman said. "But if you're near a population base or if the city enforces its zoning codes, they won't leave you alone."

Why should his customers shop at his market?

For parking "right at the door" and higher quality, Coleman said.

People who shop open-air markets are those who shop specialty stores, Coleman said.

"They are the kind who go to the meat market for fresh meat and to places like my store for fresh produce," he said.

Vito Sambrone of Plymouth said he has been shopping or working at open-air markets for 50 years. He said he would stay at Sayre's Red Barn Market on Ecorse and Morton-Taylor roads in Van Buren Township until "I fill that bushel basket with string beans." He pointed to his left at a partially filled container of 29-cent-a-pound beans.

"My wife does the canning," Sambrone said. "I pick the beans and help prepare them."

SAYRE'S RED Barn Market is red but it's not a traditional barn. It's a three-sided, wood-frame open-air market where Joan Sayres (her name differs slightly from the market's name) sells 100 bags of corn a day, beginning this week, from her 100-year-old farm in town.

SHARON LE MIEUX

Vito Sambrone of Plymouth has been coming to Sayre's Red Barn Market in Van Buren Township for eight or nine years. He has been picking beans for more than 50 years, and freezes and cans them.

Elizabeth McCoy of Detroit drives more than 20 miles to weigh bananas at the market.

Eggplant can be prepared in a great variety of ways

Eggplant is in season again. Don't miss the opportunity to add it to your menus for exotic (erotic?) excitement.

Eggplant is believed to be a really effective aphrodisiac. There is no end to the number of delectable recipes you can prepare using this vegetable.

I have heard some people say that they don't like eggplant. But there are so many different ways to prepare it I'm sure you can find one that appeals to almost anyone.

Eggplant originated in India and came to our country by way of France, where it has been cultivated since the early 1600s. It is also known as aubergine and morelle.

Eggplant comes in many varieties, both purple and white. There are long thin ones, very large round ones, and very tiny ones that are perfect for cooking whole and using as a garnish on the side of the dinner plate or meat platter.

MOST POPULAR, of course, is the medium-sized, plump, egg-shaped variety. The white ones do not have as strong a flavor as the purple ones.

When this vegetable is to be fried, grilled, or baked in the oven, you should sprinkle it heavily with salt and let it set, covered, for about an hour before using it. This makes its excess water ooze out.

Then wash it well with clear water, and dry it before proceeding with your recipe.

When properly prepared, the skin of the vegetable is also delicious. I especially like the tiny ones sauteed in their skins and the larger ones that have been stuffed and baked.

STUFFED EGGPLANT

To prepare eggplant for stuffing, you may use either of the following methods.

Method I

Cut the eggplant in half lengthwise, prick lightly with a fork and sprinkle thickly with salt. Allow them to stand about 30 minutes to an hour. Then rinse them thoroughly, dry them, and fry them in sizzling hot oil until tender.

Drain them well and scoop out the pulp, being very careful not to damage the skins. Reserve both the skins and the pulp.

Method II

Cut the eggplants in half lengthwise and boil in salted water for about 15 minutes or until tender.

Drain and remove the pulp with a spoon, being very careful to keep the skins intact. Save both the pulp and the skins.

There are countless ways to prepare the filling. Here are just a few you may choose from.

Filling I

Add to the pulp some lightly fried, chopped onions (about one tablespoon per eggplant), one hard-boiled egg (finely chopped), two tablespoons bread crumbs, chopped parsley, and salt, pepper and garlic to taste.

Fill the skins with this mixture and sprinkle the tops with finely grated bread crumbs, and oil or melted butter.

Place them in a buttered baking dish and bake at 350 degrees until golden brown on top.

Filling II

Mix seasoned sausage meat or ground lamb and bread crumbs with the pulp. Fill the skins. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and bake until meat is thoroughly cooked.

Filling III

In a skillet, lightly saute in oil or butter chopped green peppers and onions. Add chopped tomatoes, garlic, parsley and seasoning to taste. (I like to use Greek or Italian herb mixtures.)

Mix this with pulp of the eggplant and add a few bread crumbs. Fill the skins, and bake about 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Top with your favorite cheese and continue baking until cheese is bubbly and lightly browned.

Filling IV

Mix together with eggplant pulp
1 cup cooked lamb (chopped)
1 cup cooked rice
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1/4 cup pine nuts
salt and pepper to taste

Pack the mixture into the eggplant skins and dot the tops with butter. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 degrees.

FRIED EGGPLANT

In a paper bag, mix together the following:

1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup very fine bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon paprika
3/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon basil

Cut up one large, or two smaller eggplants, in round slices 1/2 to 3/4 inches thick. Or, you may cut it into thick strips about 3 inches long.

After these have been soaked in salt water and dried (see above), place them in the bag with the flour mixture and shake until each piece is evenly coated.

Fry in hot oil a few at a time, until golden brown and tender (about 3-4 minutes). Make sure the pieces do not touch each other. Drain on paper towels and serve immediately.

Optional: Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar before serving.

ARMENIAN EGGPLANT

1 eggplant flour
3 tablespoons olive oil
4 large tomatoes, sliced
1 small onion, chopped salt pepper
buttered bread crumbs

Wash eggplant. Peel and cut into cubes. Dredge with flour and saute in hot olive oil until lightly browned.

Arrange alternate layers of eggplant, tomatoes and onion in a well-greased baking dish. Season each layer with salt and pepper. Cover with bread crumbs and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. (serves 4-6)

Chipmunk's call shows how animals use nature's 'tools'

WALKING along Deer Run Trail at Kensington Metro Park one day I heard a sound that I could not positively identify — short bursts of sound which were very penetrating and quite loud.

It was the intensity of the sound that perplexed me. The sound was so loud that I anticipated seeing the animal right around the next tree. Yet, it was even too loud for that situation.

I do not remember how far away from the source I actually started hearing the sound, but it was much farther than I would have heard a normal chipmunk calling. Yes, my mystery caller was a chipmunk, which I have heard many times but no like this one.

This chipmunk was in the hollow of a large tree which opened in the direction from which I had been walking. There, perched in the opening near the bottom was the resounding vocalizer. By positioning itself in the hollow, the cavity served as a reflector and resonating chamber, which amplified the sound.

CHIPMUNKS CALL to warn others of danger and to establish territories. This individual apparently discovered that the hollow of a tree intensifies the sound, which could help in communicating to others.

Though I did not return to see if the animal used this location regularly, or to see if it used other hollows, this animal could be defined as a tool user. It was using an object to help it perform a necessary function.

Actually, tool using in animals is not extremely rare. Everyday I watch woodpeckers take sunflower seeds and wedge them in the crack of a wooden pole. Once securely wedged, they hammer at the seed to break open the husk and extract the seed. Behavior like his reminds me of when I use the vice on my bench.

Herring gulls have been observed dropping clams and snails on hard objects in order to break open the hard shells. They did not use just any hard object, they repeatedly returned to one specific place.

Animals have both physical and behavioral adaptations to their environment. In combination, they enable animals to adapt to changing conditions.

The writer is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks Park in Oakland County.

ARTHRITIS DRUGS & THE ELDERLY

With so many drugs available, why do doctors continue to depend on aspirin to treat joint conditions in the elderly?

First, as an individual ages the liver loses its ability to metabolize drugs, and the kidneys become less efficient in excreting drug break-down products. Arthritis drugs are detoxified by the liver and removed by the kidney. Thus a number of medications readily handled at a younger age, in the elderly remain longer, at higher concentration, and at a potentially dangerous level.

Second is the problem of drug interaction. Many people over age 65 are taking a number of medicines, and the addition of an arthritis drug may cause untold effects. It has happened before that arthritis medications thought to have thorough testing were released for general use. Later these drugs were withdrawn because they caused toxicity, even death, when interacting with other medications commonly used by the elderly.

Aspirin is an exception to the above. One hundred years of use has demonstrated its safety in the elderly. Furthermore, its increasing indications in stroke and heart disease are evidence of its effectiveness, even in the aged.

RU's McGowan likes strong line

By Brad Emons
staff writer

football

The run-and-shoot, or "Silver Stretch" offense, as the Detroit Lions like to call it, is certainly proving to be popular these days.

But as far as the Redford Union football team and first-year coach Shawn McGowan are concerned, those days are gone.

McGowan, who takes over for Jim Gibbons (now athletic director) as head coach, has decided to return to a conventional offensive scheme.

"We just don't have the personnel to run the run-and-shoot," McGowan said. "The kids like the change so far."

RU finished 5-4 last season under Gibbons. There was never a dull moment.

Quarterback John Burdick, who graduated, left with virtually every RU passing record in his pocket. In nine games he threw for 1,494 yards. The first-team All-Leaguer passed for 2,593 yards during his career.

It's also unlikely Joe Delfgaw's receiving records will be touched either.

Headed for Wayne State University, Delfgaw caught 65 passes for 1,021 yards.

THE PANTHERS also graduated all-Northwest Suburban League picks Doug Robinson (defensive back) and Chris Woodbeck (nose guard), but RU's line remains virtually intact.

Senior center Dave Sterlitz (6-3½, 200 pounds) snapped every down last season. Senior tackles Carl Watkins (6-3½, 225) and Andy Kazor (6-3, 235) are also back for their third varsity seasons.

McGowan also can throw in guards George DeBates (5-9, 203) and Eric Buckberry (5-10, 180), both varsity veterans, along with junior Chris Lock (6-5, 200), who won't be back until the third week of the season because of knee surgery (he injured it playing home run derby).

Sophomore Brian Theis, who possesses a strong arm, and junior Chris Mulka, an adept runner, are "pretty even," according to McGowan, contesting at quarterback.

"They've got to have experience throwing the ball and right now we're not sure what they can do," said the RU coach. "Our offensive line is going to have to carry us until our quarterback gains experience."

BUT MCGOWAN is almost certain senior Jeff Platt (5-10, 175) will emerge as the team's top running back. He'll be spelled by seniors Ernie Gerathy and Matt Gedda, juniors Eric Zielke and Ron Jahlas, along with sophomore Doug Carney.

"Platt has the potential to be a good running back and Carney will be a big player for us down the road," McGowan said.

If the Panthers decide to go to the air, veteran wide receivers Jjam Blalock and Joe Bosio, both seniors, are ready.

The newly created tight end position finds seniors Dave McClue and Andy Christopherson fighting for time with one of the team's raw talents, 6-6, 200-pound sophomore Jason Gagnon.

One of McGowan's big concerns is the kicking game, where Delfgaw provided a big luxury during the past two seasons with his 40-yard plus average as a punter. "He's going to be hard to replace," admits the RU coach. "That's one of my big worries. 'This could be our punter and our kicker will be Kazor."

MCGOWAN IS NOT certain how many players will go both ways. "Probably only five, but a lot is still up in the air," he said. "We'll see who will emerge."

The Panthers' 5-2 defensive alignment will be anchored by Carney, the 5-foot-7, 165-pound sophomore nose guard nicknamed "Manchild."

Dennis Picano, a 6-2, 190-pound senior, will play one of the tackles, but the other spots are yet to be determined, according to McGowan.

The heart-and-soul, however, of RU's defense will be Sterlitz and Watkins at the linebackers with Gagnon and McClue filling in.

"We're strong up the middle," said the RU coach. "We feel with Sterlitz and Watkins we have one of the best combinations in the area."

McGowan has 14 defensive backs from which to choose.

The leaders appear to be Blalock and Bosio, each of whom started the last three games last season. Gedda is also looking good in the secondary, according to the RU coach.

"THEY'RE GOOD athletes, but the biggest thing hurting us right now is inexperience," McGowan said.

RU opens its season Friday, Sept. 1, at home against Livonia Stevenson.

Stevenson prevailed in that game, 20-14, despite 245 yards passing by Burdick with Delfgaw receiving 232 yards and scoring two touchdowns.

McGowan surely will trade those types of stats in for an RU victory this time around.

Yo, Adrian: Quarterback Mazzoni no fluke

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

A year ago, he was a question mark — and a big one at that. How well Pete Mazzoni, then a sophomore, performed at quarterback could easily make or break Adrian College's football season.

Spectacular might not be enough to describe Mazzoni's debut. The 6-foot-3, 195-pounder from Livonia (Stevenson) connected on 106 of 191 passes (55.5 percent) for 1,481 yards, with 11 touchdowns and just five interceptions.

More importantly, he guided the Bulldogs to a Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association co-championship, their 4-1 league mark tied them for first with Alma. Adrian also reached the NCAA Division III playoffs, losing in their opening game to Augustana (Ill.) College, 25-7. The Dogs finished 7-3 overall.

But as any of the coaches at the MIAA preseason media meeting would quickly point out, that was last year.

THE SITUATION has changed for Mazzoni, who earned first-team all-MIAA honors and was the 14th-ranked passer in Division III in '88. Last year he wasn't expected to accomplish nearly so much, although he had an experienced unit to work with.

This year, Adrian has just nine starters back, but because Mazzoni — together with the MIAA's most valuable offensive player, senior fullback Bill Badour (772 yards, 12 TDs) — returns, the Bulldogs are rated as top challengers.

Co-champ Alma (6-3 overall) was selected to win the MIAA championship; Adrian was the No. 2 choice. Albion, 3-2 in the MIAA and 6-3 overall last season, was picked to finish third, followed by Olivet (2-2-1, 4-4-1), Hope (1-4, 1-7-1) and Kalamazoo (0-4-1, 0-8-1).

Adrian coach Ron Labadie thought last season could have gone either way. Mazzoni's ability, not just on the field but in helping the team blend together, was instrumental in the Dogs' success.

"We could have had a losing season," said Labadie, noting Adrian's two straight losses after a 3-0 start. "The canoe had tipped over, no question about it. The kids could have given up, but they didn't."

WHAT HELD them together, according to Labadie, was chemistry. "You have to have a certain amount of talent," he said, explaining his formula for success. "After that, it's how well the kids come together."

Adrian was third in the league in both offense and defense in '88. The team's greatest weakness was stopping the run; the Dogs allowed 151.2 yards per game, fifth in the MIAA.

This year, the defensive line and outside linebackers are more experienced. Juniors Mark Kerpet (6-0, 195), from Westland (Livonia Franklin), and Kevin Messner (5-11, 195), from Redford (Unlon), could be the starters at outside linebacker. Messner had 32 tackles, made two interceptions and recovered a fumble last season.

Inside linebacker and the secondary are Labadie's greatest defensive concerns. Junior Tony Boucher (5-10, 165), from Plymouth Canton, may land a starting spot in the secondary. He had one interception last season.

HOWEVER, ALMA may be too tough for Adrian to catch. The Scots have 10 offensive and seven defensive players with starting experience, including junior quarterback Steve Kinne, rated 12th in Division III passing efficiency in '88.

In addition, five of their starting offensive linemen return, and they are giants, weighing 280, 245, 270, 295 and, at tight end, 230. Their defense is equally bulky, with returning defensive linemen going 265, 265 and 240. No wonder Alma was No. 1 in both offense and defense last season.

Albion coach Pete Schmidt figures the 1989 campaign will be "one of the tightest races in years. Who plays who at home will be the key factor in the race." The Britons host Alma and play at Adrian.

Schmidt must replace quarterback Jan Fierek and all-MIAA linebacker Steve Freier (from Garden City), and that won't be easy. The defense was second in the league in '88, and the defensive line returns. Also, Schmidt called the outside linebacking group "one of the best, as a group, we've assembled."

Junior Scott Bissell (6-0, 190), from West Bloomfield (Farmington Hills Harrison), will challenge for a spot in what Schmidt called "a solid secondary."

HOPE IS rebuilding. After ruling the MIAA (seven titles in 11 seasons, through '87), the Flying Dutchmen have just 12 starters coming back from a team that was last in offense and next to last in defense.

Pete Mazzoni
Adrian quarterback

At Olivet, second-year coach Dominic Livedotti is trying to take his Comets one more step up the ladder. "I think we will be (better)," the former West Bloomfield coach predicted. "It just depends how much better everyone else is." Livedotti has 15 starters and 36 letterwinners back to build with.

At Kalamazoo, rebuilding seems

AAABA a big hit with Johnstown baseball fans

LET'S SEE, what did I miss on the local sports scene while I was in Johnstown, Pa., at the All-American Amateur Baseball Association tournament?

Bill Freehan is the new baseball coach at the University of Michigan. What about the gunfire at St. Cecilia? Rodney Peete may be for real. Another Michigan State football player has put ex-teammate Tony Mandarich in his place.

But while I was gone, here's some things you may have missed in Johnstown during the past week at the AAABA:

- Walter's Home Appliance, which finished 3-2 overall, turned in one of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League's most successful AAABA tournament stints. In 14 tournament appearances, the LCBL representative is 19-27 overall. Baltimore is No. 1 and Detroit is No. 2 on the all-time winning list.

- The Johnstown Oldtimers Association, the officials who run the big college-division tournament, don't mess around with bad apples. If the manager is ejected, it's a $50 fine. If a player is caught chewing tobacco, it's an automatic ejection. If girls are caught in the dorm, the team is sent home. If players are caught drinking, as was the Washington, D.C., team this year, the franchise forfeits a trip next year to the tournament.

Three Buffalo players were involved in a downtown scuffle, reportedly making a racial slur to a "townie." One was taken to a hospital after he was thrown through a windshield. Buffalo will also be absent next year.

- The sons of major leaguers Mark Belanger, Terry Crowley and Ed Goodson competed in the tournament.

Robbie Belanger, who played for Maryland State, drew the most attention with some Brooks Robinson-type fielding plays at third.

But I'll take former Redford Catholic Central High product John Gotts, the third baseman/catcher from Walter's who seems to make all the right plays. He also hits in the clutch. I just hope Roger Coryell, the Eastern Michigan University coach, gives the underrated Gotts a good look this fall.

Brad Emons

- And speaking of Mark Belanger, the former Oriole shortstop still looks like he could field his position. The slender built figure hasn't changed much. He now works for the Major League Players Association.

Dave Racer, the Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury coach who came down to see Walter's play, was a former teammate of Belanger in the minors. The two got reacquainted when Walter's eliminated Maryland State, 11-1.

"We played together in Bluefield, West Virginia and he (Belanger) was one of the best damn poker players around," Racer recalls.

- Also good to see John Moraitis, the Little Caesars coach, down for the tourney along with his friend Larry Kirchner, a faithful fan during the season at Ford Field.

- Johnstown has a Flood Museum, but one of the Walter's players couldn't understand. "All those people died, why should they remember that," said the player.

Good point, but this year was special. They were commemorating the 100th year of the famous flood (1889-1889).

- The Walter's and Detroit Adray Appliance players stayed at dormitories on the campus of the University of Pittsburgh-Johnstown.

The Pitt football team was holding training camp on the secluded mountain campus. All visitors were chased away from the practice site.

The big question about Pitt football is who is going to replace academically ineligible quarterback Darnell Dickerson? The ex-Detroit Martin Luther King High great who has since signed a minor league baseball contract.

Dickerson, a raw talent, was signed after Detroit Adray Appliance coach Stu Rose threw him batting practice a couple of months ago before a slew of scouts at the University of Detroit.

"He'd whiff eight times in a row and then send a shot off wall at Calihan Hall," Rose said of Dickerson. "He didn't have the right footwork down on throwing from the outfield, but he could throw it a mile."

- Here is just a few of the former players who have played in the AAABA tournament: Reggie Jackson, Orel Hershiser, Al Kaline, Rod Carew, Rocky Colavito, Willie Horton, Chris Sabo (Redford Catholic Central High), Barry Larkin, Bernie Carbo (Livonia Franklin High), Joe Torre, Mark Fidrych, Pat Sheridan (Wayne Memorial High), Rick Clark (Redford Union High) and Bill Flary (RU). Joe Theismann also played in Johnstown.

An impressive list.

- Twenty-two teams started in the tournament with three of the final eight teams (Livonia, Detroit and Lansing) coming from Michigan.

- Speaking of players, former North Farmington High standout Rick Karcher, who went to Indiana and Henry Ford Community College, is being pursued by the pro scouts. The Atlanta Braves would like to get their hands on the 6-foot-5, 210-pound left-handed swinging power hitter.

Where are the Tigers?

- Little Caesars second basemen Art George was certainly a good pickup for Walter's coach Mike Keller.

George, who played high school ball at Thurston and is a two-year standout at the University of Evansville, clubbed three homers, scored 14 runs and batted .545 (12 for 22). The humble George was the LCBL's leading hitter during the regular season.

Johnstown, Pa., trip always flooded with fond memories

• Another standout was Thurston product Chris Kloc, who in three appearances on the mound, allowed just one run in 1 1/2 innings. Kloc, who takes the mound with no fear, struck out eight and walked only two in a victory over a hard-hitting Maryland State club.

• For a high school player, Joe Sturtz (North Farmington) acquitted himself quite well, batting in a team-high 10 runs. He should do well at Indiana University.

• Good experience for Chris Day, a reserve outfielder from Churchill High with another year to go. He got to play in three games, batting twice.

• Question: The area high school with the most players?

 Answer: Livonia Churchill (Jeff Pendell, Keith Opalach, Steve Owens and Day, all from Walter's; also Lance Sullivan of Adray Appliance).
 Here is the rest of the breakdown of Observerland players in this year's AAABA: Redford Union (Rick Rutledge and Kevin Walker of Walters; also Mike Stefanski of Adray); Redford CC (Joe Mackiewicz and Gots of Walter's); Westland John Glenn (Bill Barber and Clint Straub of Adray); Wayne (Ken Droppiewski of Walter's and Mike Heard of Adray); West Bloomfield (Marty Wolfe of Walter's); Thurston (George and Kloc of Walter's); North Farmington (Sturtz of Walter's and Karcher of Adray); Livonia Stevenson (Dave Houghtby of Walter's); Plymouth Canton (Derek Dargowski of Walter's); Birmingham Brother Rice (Doug Fitzer of Adray).

Karcher played for Walter's last season.

• How big is the AAABA tourney to the people of Johnstown?

They have an official ticket outlet, Sheetz, a franchise 7-11-type convenience store. Tickets were $3 per person for the Point Stadium games. The other venues were free. The opening night game between local teams Coke and Pepsi drew 10,000 fans.

• All the games from the Point were broadcast on a local radio station. The local TV station faithfully showed highlights from several of the venues both at 6 and 11. Even the TV weatherman did his reports via a remote from the Point.

• Airport sighting — while sitting in the terminal in Pittsburgh, Gaylord Perry was plopped a couple of seats over. I didn't realize what a large man he is. That's why I was afraid to ask him about his "spitter."

• Worst uniforms — New Orleans, which dons the old Pittsburgh Pirates "We are Family" striped caps. Decked in patriotic red, white and blue, they looked a bit out of style.

• Best pitcher — the scouts love Eric Menter of Lansing who plays at Michigan State. (He nearly beat the hard-hitting New Orleans team.)

• Most friendly Walter's players: Chris Day and Ken Droppiewski. They seemed to enjoy every minute of their stay.

• The umpiring seemed to be more consistent this season than when I remember in 1988. Nice job, boys in blue. They missed a few, however, including a call against Detroit, which nullified a grand slam.

• Best appropriate quote of the tournament by Walter's manager Mike Keller after his team surprised Maryland State, 11-1: "We're happy to be here, we're taking one game at a time, and we've really enjoyed our stay here."

I couldn't have said it any better, coach.

Bob Snell, in his second season as Thurston coach, is more confident about his team's chances of winning this season.

Able to soar Eagles, Snell ready for Tri-River League

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Redford Thurston High football players wear caps with the slogan proclaiming: "Attack from above, Eagles football."

The Eagles certainly would like to take flight in 1989 after nesting all of 1988 with an 0-9 record.

Second-year coach Bob Snell is determined to turn things around. One encouraging statistic is an increased turnout. The varsity is currently carrying 27 players while the JV squad's roster lists 25.

"This year we feel we can play with anybody on our schedule," Snell said. "We're not playing to be competitive anymore. We feel we can match up with anybody and win."

Thurston lost five games by a touchdown or less last year, giving Snell reason for optimism with the return of 12 varsity players.

The biggest losses were fullback/linebacker/quarterback Tim Wojcik, an All-Tri-River League pick who earned a football scholarship to Central Michigan University. The other key graduation loss is two-way tackle Chris Kies, a 6-foot-2, 245-pounder who wound up at Wayne State.

"THE REST OF the positions we have somebody back or we have somebody filling in that is very solid," said the Thurston coach. "I think we're on the right track to get the program back where it should be."

The Eagles' offensive wings were clipped for much of 1988.

But with the help of junior fullback/linebacker Mike Turner, a 5-10, 190-pound transfer from Huntington Beach, Calif., and an experienced line, Thurston could be converting turnovers into touchdowns.

"We were in scoring position, but never scored points," said Snell of the 1988 season. "We drove the ball most of the games, but we didn't have any people break away. Turnovers came at costly times and we weren't the type of team which could get away from that."

football

Snell is chucking the wishbone attack in favor of the conventional power-I formation.

"We have a few more people who can run a little," Snell said. "Our skill people are better. We have more team speed."

JV QUARTERBACK Scott Lucas (6-0, 150) takes over as the starter with Turner at fullback and senior Jesse Welker (5-10, 170), a three-year varsity player, at tailback.

"Scott doesn't have a powerful arm, but he's accurate and elusive," Snell said. "He can get the ball out there when he wants to. He also runs the team well."

Snell doesn't want to get too excited over the arrival of Turner, who runs the 40-yard dash in 4.7, but the transfer figures highly in the Eagles' offensive and defensive schemes.

"He's filled a real need on both sides of the ball," said the Thurston coach. "And he's a good young man to boot. He's a hitter, too."

Lucas's targets will be senior tight end Scott Cannon (6-2, 195), a third-year player with college potential; junior wide receiver Ian Hartlep; and senior slotback Dan Sanko (5-10, 170).

Snell appears to be most excited about his offensive line, led by a trimmed down third-year senior, center Bill Key (5-10, 200).

OTHER VETERANS across the front include guards Jason Hawkins (5-7, 190), Shane Berns (5-9, 172) and junior Greg Siriani (5-10, 200), along with senior tackles Steve Hafner (5-11, 235), John Duty (5-11, 235) and Paul Arnold (6-2, 170).

"Even though we lost Kies, I fell as a unit our line has the potential to do a better job," said Snell. "Most of the kids played last year and had experience. We expect the consistency to be there with a veteran line. We expect them to block."

With the addition of former Redford Union coach Lee Bjerke, Thurston is expected to do a better job on special teams.

Senior placekicker Jason Muller will double his fall sports load. He'll be on loan from the school soccer team. Turner, meanwhile, will be the punter.

Defensively, five of the team's top seven tacklers return, led by the team's most talented player, junior inside linebacker Steve Koss (6-2, 185), who has started 13 games dating back to his freshman year.

KOSS RUNS a 4.6 in the 40 and will play inside along with Siriani, junior Brian Maston (6-0, 165) and senior Gary Smith (5-9, 170).

The outside linebackers will be Turner and Arnold, with Duty, Berns, Hawkins and Key up front. Cannon and Hafner will be in reserve on the off-set-50 front.

Snell's biggest concern is an inexperienced secondary.

"They have to develop, they're young, but pretty good athletes," said the Thurston coach.

The most experienced among the defensive backs is senior safety Kevin Smith (5-8, 130). Other hopefuls include junior Russ Tapley (5-10, 160), sophomore Paul Jaremski (5-8, 150) and junior Chris Jeffords (5-10, 150).

Thurston will travel Friday, Sept. 1 to Dearborn for its season opener with only one thing in mind.

"We're not going in with attitude anymore of just trying to be competitive," said the second-year coach. "We're going in there with the attitude that we can win."

GC gridgers seek senior leadership

By Brad Emons
staff writer

If you want the line on Garden City High's football prospects for 1989, look no further than the guys up front.

Second-year coach Bob Eisiminger is carrying only eight seniors after being greeted by some surprise defections just before the start of training camp. Eisiminger is trying to mesh and mend a team which hopes to improve on last year's less than scintillating 1-8 record.

"Our offensive line is a concern because we're young and inexperienced," said Eisiminger, who has 33 varsity players on his roster. "What we need to do is keep them together."

"We lost some key linemen, but it may be a blessing. We're going to try to develop the younger players. We're going to get the line going."

Although All-League lineman Joe Ziurinkas graduated, ready to plug the gap is senior Doug Day, a 5-foot-9, 185-pound center.

He will be the glue for a fragile front.

"Doug's a tough kid, a good blocker," said the Garden City coach.

Other offensive line prospects include junior tackle Joe Papazian (5-11, 230), senior tackle Mick Newport (6-0, 175), sophomore guard Joe Metcalf (5-8, 160), junior guard John Butch (5-10, 170) and junior guard Joe Capparelli (6-0, 185).

IF THE COUGARS develop their offensive line, it may pave the way for a big season for senior quarterback Jim Marszalek, who takes over for Brad Armstrong (now at Wayne State University).

A 5-10, 165-pound senior, Marszalek is called "our best overall player" by coach Eisiminger.

"He's a good athlete, a good leader," said the GC coach. "He's a thrower and a runner."

In the backfield will be 5-11, 170-pound junior Brian Norris, along with brother combination of John and Khalid Amer, both juniors; and the speedy Frank Gotham, a 5-11, 160-pound senior.

Tight end John Samborski, a 6-4, 198-pound senior, is a reliable pass catcher and blocker. Marszalek will also throw to senior wideouts Dion Wujcik (5-7, 145) and Kevin Wight (5-9, 160).

But Samborski is the main man when it comes to catching the ball.

"He'll get the ball and everybody knows that," Eisiminger said. "He's got a good attitude and he's a hard worker. He has good hands."

EISIMINGER PLANS on altering his offensive strategy a bit.

"There's no way we match up with people head-to-head," he said. "Our quarterback will sprint out more instead of sitting in the pocket. We'll use the quick passing game."

The Garden City coach is confident his kicking game is in order with Day "coming on every practice" as a punter. Junior Kurt Buterbaugh will do the place-kicking.

Defensively, the Cougars will run their familiar 5-2 front.

Norris and Newport will be the linebackers, with Day at nose guard, and junior Tom Zografos (5-7, 180) and Papazian at the tackles, along with junior Jeff Fetz (6-0, 170) and Capparelli.

The defensive secondary is anchored by Marszalek and Samborski, with Buterbaugh and junior Nick Mutafis (also a backup quarterback) filling in the other two spots.

Eisiminger and his coaching staff of Roger Wilkes, Keith Anleitner, Al Chambo and Jeff Meixner will strive for improvement each week.

"WE'LL JUST TAKE things week by week," Eisiminger said. "If they work, they know they can win a ball game. Our team goals are to try and improve every day."

And if an inexperienced offensive line solidifies, the Cougars, who open Friday, Sept. 1, against Wayne, could surprise a few people along the way.

Area talent fills MIAA teams

to be an annual event. Ed Baker, in the second year of his second stint as coach (he previously served from 1967-83), will have his run-and-shoot offense in gear again and more experience to work with.

"OUR NUCLEUS was made up of freshmen and sophomores last year," he said. "This year there is significant weight and strength gains. I expect us to be much improved."

Among those Baker is counting on is junior tight end Eric Johnson (6-3, 210) from Livonia (Stevenson), who — in a run-and-shoot offense — got little attention. "He'll see more this year," Baker promised. Sophomore wide receiver Mick Minard (5-11, 160), from Livonia (Franklin), could also see some playing time.

On defense, Baker is hoping junior linebacker Jim Naif (6-0, 205), from Livonia (Churchill), will bounce back from knee surgery and return to his starting position. Junior defensive back John Knittel (6-0, 175), also from Livonia (Churchill), is solid in the secondary.

However, the Hornets were last in every defensive category in '88, and second to last in offense, so there's lots of room for improvement.

Roughing it

Why travel all the way to Jellystone Park for a camping trip (not to mention having to put up with a couple of hoods named Yogi and Boo Boo)? Street Scene's man about the woods, Bill Parker, tell us there's some excellent camping sites right in our own back yard. For more information, please turn to Page 6D.

Jon Molesky of Southfield is captain of his own charter boat, "Wa Hoo."

Ahoy mates, here's yer captain

By Bill Parker
staff writer

Jon Molesky would probably never be cast for the role of Captain Ahab in "Moby Dick."

Well, maybe, if he grew his whiskers (for a couple months) and started saying things like "Ahoy mates" and "Shiver me timbers. Yaaa miss anoth'r un an yaaa'll wark the plank."

Nah! He'd still resemble a college student... which he is.

But, Molesky is also the owner and captain of a 27-foot Sportcraft, the "Wa Hoo." He charts trout/salmon fishing trips on Lake Michigan with the boat (which is docked in Muskegon) each summer.

"This is my office. This is my summer job," said the 1986 Birmingham Groves graduate who now lives in Southfield. "It's a great way to help pay for my schooling and have a little fun over the summer. It's definitely more fun than work."

Molesky began running charters out of Muskegon four years ago, while a freshman at the University of Michigan. He has been doing it ever since and could very well be the first political science major to fish himself through college.

Although Molesky doesn't fit the mold of a gruff, old charter captain, after a few hours aboard the "Wa Hoo," it becomes obvious he's no rookie to the trade.

On a day when few boats were reporting any luck at all, Molesky, who is also a field tester for Speedtroll Downriggers and Silver Streak Spoons, worked and worked until his passengers each caught a dandy lake trout.

HE CHANGED lures. He changed lure depth. He changed trolling speed. He changed fishing areas. He tried every combination until there were finally fish in the boat. The only thing that didn't change was his attitude.

"The key is to get people out here, get a fish and have fun," Molesky said. "I like to stress the whole package — get out on the lake, relax and catch some fish."

Molesky, and first mate Bud Wood, only run trout/salmon charters. They don't bother with perch or walleye, a couple of abundant game fish charter captains often pursue.

"If you want to be good at something you have to stick with it," Molesky said. "Set your sights on one thing and become good at it. If you spread yourself too thin, you're mediocre at everything."

On those slow days, days when the fish just aren't biting, charter captains must become entertainers. According to Molesky, that's when the real work begins.

"I think charter captains rate right up there with air traffic controllers and police officers as far as stress is concerned — especially if the fish aren't biting," Molesky said. "People come out here and want to have fun. You have to entertain them and keep them happy until the fish start biting."

Aboard the "Wa Hoo," that entertainment comes in the form of jokes, the "Blessing of the Rods" (a light-hearted ritual performed by Wood to entice fish into biting), and stories of past fishing adventures.

Molesky has plenty of stories.

HE WAS BORN in Maryland and spent much of his childhood fishing in Chesapeake Bay.

As a young teen, his father brought him to Lake Michigan where the youngster caught a 16-pound chinook salmon.

"I was hooked after that," admitted Molesky. "I spent all my money as a kid buying fishing equipment. I

Time to squeeze in one last trip

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Labor Day weekend will be here in 10 days and everybody I know is panicking. How do we squeeze that last trip out of the summer? Labor Day changes a lot of things. Kids and teachers go back to school. College students take a last fling before the semester starts. Business travel and business conventions heat up. Organizations start a new season, keeping some people at home.

Most of the people who ask me for last-minute advice don't take full advantage of the toll-free 800 numbers available. Cities, states, hotels etc. spend a lot of money on telephone lines that you can call without charge. You find them by calling the toll-free information operator: dial 1-800-555-1212 and ask for the area or the hotel chain you want.

Q: I'm a divorcee with a 5-year-old and I want to take him to a theme park before school starts. I'm thinking about either King's Island, Cedar Point or Sea World, and we want to stay a couple of days. How do I find a reasonably priced hotel or motel with a pool?

S.H.
Farmington Hills.

MICKY JONES

Amusement parks such as Cedar Point are some of the places where travelers visit in that one last trip before the summer ends.

A: You don't have much time so you need to make some telephone calls. Cedar Point doesn't list a toll-free number (call (419) 626-0380) but you can call the other two toll-free: King's Island is (800) 543-3290, Sea World is (800) 637-4268.

Hotel Breakers, the on-property hotel at Cedar Point costs $77 for an unremodeled room with one double bed, remodeled rooms are $93.50, including tax. You can call the Sandusky visitor's bureau at (419) 625-2984 and they'll give you names like the Mecca, Maples or Best Budget. But you are still going to pay about $90; rates drop Labor Day weekend.

Holiday Inn has been advertising low rates for the summer months so call them toll-free at (800) HOLIDAY, about their special $29-$59 rates, price depending on location and subject to availability.

Eriksson (Michael J. Fox) refuses to join Meserve (Sean Penn) in his brutal treatment of a Vietnamese girl (Thuy Thu Le) in Brian DePalma's film "Casualties of War."

Vietnam revisited

After several slow weeks while audiences soaked up early summer blockbuster releases, there's a new crop, a half-dozen films, some of which may be avoided without damaging your entertainment quotient.

"Eddie and The Cruisers II: Eddie Lives" (PG-13) features John Cafferly and the Beaver Brown Band in what threatens to be another interminable string of sequels, this one justified by the fact that rock star Eddie Wilson's body was never found after he drove off New Jersey's Raritan Bridge in 1964.

Michael Pare appears as Eddie and Marina Orsini is his girlfriend, Diane Armani. Rock music fans may appreciate such unimaginative fiction while others pass on to more exciting fare. After all, there's the '60s resurrected, strange relatives, comedy at the race track, African animals and still another rehashing of the Vietnam tragedy.

Despite a commendable premise — awareness of global ecological problems — "Rude Awakening" (C, R) reeks of sappy sentimentality and is an arduous and bumpy trip unworthy of the ride.

Two hippies from the '60s, Jesus (Cheech Martin) and Fred (Eric Roberts) have been hiding out in Central America. Draft evasion, inciting riots and drugs were their crimes in the '60s. After 20 idyllic years, a secret document is entrusted to them and they begin an idealistic mission that takes them back to New York and confrontation with FBI Agent Brubaker (Cliff DeYoung), their nemesis of the '60s. He's still after them.

Jesus and Fred are shocked to learn that their hippy comrades of the '60s are the puppies of the '80s, and generally blame about social problems. This clever premise is developed poorly as Cheech mugs his way through, seemingly unrelated to the rest of the action. The staging of a '60s-style campus take-over is flat and unconvincing in these days of routine terrorism — "film at 11."

When questioned if Jesus and Fred are terrorists, FBI Agent Brubaker sums it up: "Worse. They're idealists." Unfortunately the sophisticated concept behind that statement is not supported by this weak production which falters in its exploitation of Cheech's status with audiences of another era.

"Uncle Buck" (B+, PG, 112 minutes), on the other hand, has a lot more going for it. Tia (Jean Kelly), Maizy (Gaby Hoffman) and Miles Russell (Macaulay Culkin) are forced to move to a Chicago suburb. Tia, deeply rebellious, had to be forced along at gun point. John Hughes' answer to adolescent angst is Uncle Buck (John Candy).

Most of "Uncle Buck's" good things are delightful because, despite their improbability, a lot of us would like to think we could do them. An "Uncle" inexperienced with kids isn't likely to win a battle of wits with a teenage girl in a week nor is he likely to abduct her sleazy boyfriend with a power drill. But one can always hope.

Candy makes even the clumsy moments interesting while Macaulay Culkin is unassuming and natural — and he steals most of the scenes in which he appears. "Uncle Buck" is sure to please both the kids and grownups. Heck, they might even enjoy it together. Reviewed by Susan Fincham.

Turning from the comic to the grim, "Casualties of War" (A-, R, 105 minutes) graphically details the kidnap, rape and murder of a Vietnamese girl by a small American reconnaissance patrol. Based on an actual incident first reported by Daniel Lang, the David Rabe screenplay was based on Lang's book and directed by Brian DePalma.

The patrol is led by Sgt. Meserve (Sean Penn) and includes Crpl. Clark (Don Harvey) and three privates, Hatcher (John C. Reilly), Diaz (John Leguizamo) and Eriksson (Michael J. Fox). Eriksson alone refuses to rape the girl and thereafter must stand alone amidst the madness of that jungle war and the insanity of his comrades. The military system itself isn't helpful either.

In the best (or is it worst) Brian DePalma tradition, "Casualties of War" is particularly violent and the gore is graphic. Much of the violence, as is DePalma's style, is directed against women. Certainly this film is not for the faint of heart or stomach.

But this incident is a true one and there can never be enough reminders of the terrible, tragic consequences of war. In addition to that political worth, the film's production values are generally excellent, in particular the acting.

Sean Penn captures the essence of that brutishness war and violence engenders with his intense, maniacal behavior. Don Harvey's Crpl. Clark is also appropriately psychotic and reminiscent of Lee Marvin in "The Wild One." Michael J. Fox, they say, is at risk, switching from light comedy to heavy drama but he is generally successful in the move.

His one impossible moment — and it's not really his fault — comes about two-thirds of the way through when DePalma gives him a set speech on values and ethics that sounds straight out of a Depression era political drama or a naive World War II propaganda film.

Not hardly something you'd hear even an educated grunt declaiming in the middle of the Vietnam jungle.

There are also problems understanding some of Penn's mumbled jargon, unnecessary and annoying facial close-ups and a framing opening and close which ends the film on a pretty dippy note.

Despite these difficulties, "Casualties of War" is a major addition to the body of Vietnam war films, movies that remind us of war's tragic impact. That is important.

"Cheetah" (D-, G, 75 minutes) is one of the lamest excuses for a movie in quite some time. Except for 3 to 5 year olds who enjoy footage of wild animals in Africa, it's hard to imagine anyone staying awake for this slow-paced, predictable story of Brother Ted and Sister Susan Johnson (Keith Coogan and Lucy Deakins) visiting their parents in the middle of Africa where Earl (Timothy Landfield), their dad, runs some kind of radar station.

As is to be expected, Ted and Lucy, typical LA kids, are amazed by the marvelous African veldt and immediately adopt a baby cheetah whose mother was killed by poachers. "Look what followed us home. Mom!"

The kids also make friends with a local Masai boy, Morogo (Collin Mohupi). Coogan also matured too much to pull off kid brother roles and Ms. Deakins hardly fits the childish character given her. Morogo seems to be having fun with these crazy Americans but everybody else is distant and uninvolved, in particular Mr. and Mrs. Johnson (Breon Gorman) who must have studied at the Lethargic School of Acting. To be missed. It's strictly from dull city.

"Let It Ride" (B-, PG-13, 90 minutes) is Richard Dreyfuss at this gritty, grimy, manicky best in this story of a broken-down cabbie whose wife, Pam (Terri Garr), is leaving him, in part because of his compulsive gambling.

But this is not the story of a loser, this is the story of that one day when fate shines on a poor schnook. It all starts when Trotter's buddy, Looney (David Johansen), overhears two guys in the back of his cab fixing a race. As it turns out, Trotter believes that the fix is in — and it is.

One thing leads to another and it's quite a day at the track for Trotter. There's all sorts of Runyonesque characters around and they are, as Damon Runyon would say, considerably more than somewhat. But they — and the film — don't hand together too well.

This is director Joe Pytko's first narrative feature film, having made his mark in documentaries and commercials. That 60-second experience shows and "Let It Ride" is filled with nifty cameos. But they need some greater glue than Trotter having a dood day at the track. All-in-all, though, it's still fun and five will get you 13 they line up at the box office for this one.

STILL PLAYING:
"The Abyss" (D-) (PG-13) 135 minutes
Despite excellent underwater sequences, this muddled and murky sci-fi sea saga sinks.

"Parenthood" (A-) (R) 120 minutes.
Large, talented cast in complex, but entertaining story about a family which includes Jason Robards, Steve Martin, Tom Hulce, Martha Plimpton and Diane Wiest, among others.

Short films pack punch

By John Monaghan
special writer

"Egg," from the Netherlands, and the locally-produced "Forever My Dog," prove an old adage — it's not the length of the film but how you use it. Both short films screen this weekend at the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor.

"Egg," at 58 minutes, is a gentle film set in a quiet Dutch village. Life moves slowly. Here, big excitement means the arrival of the daily bus or the birth of a neighbor's puppies.

Johan, a child-like baker, still lives with his mother at 35. When he's not amusing himself by setting eggs on their ends or petting dogs, he spends hours skipping stones with his friends in the village square.

Peter and Paul, only slightly more worldly than Johan, decide the it's time for him to meet a woman. They help him set up correspondence with Eva, a teacher from "foreign climes," through a personals ad.

When Eva arrives on the afternoon bus, Johan doesn't know what to do. He takes her home to his mother and drops her there. The road toward love and acceptance, with both Eva and Johan as nervous as children, promises some great comic moments.

Critics have compared "Egg" to the early works of Jacques Tati. The story is told mostly through the camera, with dialogue provided by egg-shaped title cards.

"Egg" never treats its characters with condescension or plays cheap jokes off their "quaintness." Israeli-born director Danniell Danniell obviously loves Johan and friends and creates a charming world for them to inhabit.

Ultimately, the film leaves you with the feeling that life — like an egg — doesn't necessarily have to break in order to change. Danniell has gone well beyond his original intent of making a film that "sends people home feeling nice."

THE SECOND film, the 29-minute "Forever My Dog," evokes a different response. During recent screenings at the Maple Theatre in Birmingham, the story of pet loss has left audiences in tears.

Director Ron Senkowski, who lives in Ann Arbor, got the idea for the film after the death of his own family dog. His brother stars in the film as a 14-year-old facing the trauma of putting his dog to sleep.

He has nightmares about a sadistic veterinarian (played by the director) and even packs up the dog and runs away from home. He eventually realizes that his lost pet will be "forever my dog."

It's refreshing to see a pair of movies well into their messages in the time it takes most directors to set up an establishing shot.

Death, food and taxes — what else is there? Sex, of course, and Japanese filmmaker Juzo Itami mixes in a good deal of that action in his three humorous films, the second of which, "Tampopo" (1986, color, 114 minutes), was quite a hit here in town not too long ago. It's a comedy about a Japanese noodle shop. So much for food. Itami's first film, "The Funeral" (1984, color, 124 minutes), is a poignant but satiric look at the inescapable last rites and how society deals with death.

His third film, "A Taxing Woman" (1987, R, color, 127 minutes), now available in videocassette, is a wry, satiric look at the interaction of Japanese prosperity, human greed and the tax collection process. All three films are in Japanese with English subtitles. As well, all three feature two comic talents, Tsutomu Yamazaki and Nobuko Miyamoto.

"A Taxing Woman" opens with a note that Japan's great prosperity stimulated government growth which, in turn, caused tax rates to soar as high as 80 percent. It follows, then, that it has become a national pastime to hide as much income as possible in order to save on taxes.

In the title role as "A Taxing Woman" — in several scenes — Ms. Miyamoto is a Japanese IRS investigator, Ryoko Itakura, whose tenacity, creativity, intelligence and self-effacement win her promotion to the Tax Service's top investigative team. If you can hide it, she can find it.

MR. YAMAZAKI is her nemesis as Mr. Gondo, one of the finest, funniest lechers ever to appear on screen. He's a consummate artist when it comes to "minimizing his taxes." His attractive mistresses are lynch-pins in his scam while the great success of his adult love hotels, classy oriental equivalents of X-rated motels, gives him plenty of income to hide. All this adds up to some pretty clever commentary on businessmen and their methods.

Gondo's success attracts Tax Agent Itakura and she doesn't let go. Eventually she busts him but with a good deal of oriental style. The film is lots of fun although there are several loose ends and unexplained twists with the film ending on the strangest of those plot flaws.

Nonetheless, "A Taxing Woman" is well worth your time.

On the other hand, pass right by the rack where "A Time of Destiny" is stored, unless you enjoy the perverse pleasure of watching major talents in minor, poorly structured movies. In this case it's William Hurt, Timothy Hutton and Stockard Channing plus a host of excellent European actors and actresses. But their talent doesn't save "A Time of Destiny" — whose time will never come — and for a while you'll have the same feeling about the ending.

Soul searchin' by guitar

Ronnie Earl comes clean to play passionate blues

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

He didn't play guitar until he was 23, was single until a year ago and has been looking at life through unblurred eyes for only the last six months.

Ronnie Earl's story has been one of late starts. Onstage, though, the blues notes that pour through his Fender Stratocaster are quick and pointed.

"I got straight in your city," said Earl, who will perform his guitar-slinging style of blues Thursday at Sully's in Dearborn. "Years of being on the road, I got to be an abuser of certain things. In Detroit, I woke up. Detroit is a special place for me."

Earl won't elaborate too much on the actual circumstances that led him to see the light in the Motor City. "It's personal, man," he said.

Those who've seen Earl perform usually have been treated to a personal show of passion and sincerity. Unquestionably, the New York City native loves the blues.

Earl speaks in the tone of awe when mentioning names like Muddy Waters, Earl King, Eddie "Cleanhead" Vinson and Walter Horton — all blues greats he's either recorded with or produced.

EARL GARNERED a reputation as blues guitarist in his own right. He performed for eight years with club favorites Roomful of Blues before venturing out on his own with Ronnie Earl & The Broadcasters.

With three solo albums already, Earl recently released another installment on Black Top Records "Soul Searchin'." An apt title for a man who is still searching for some of the pieces of life's puzzle.

Onstage, though, the package is complete. Earl's style of guitar playing is straight-forward blues. He's backed by a tight outfit that includes harmonica player Johnny Sansone (formerly with Jumpin' Johnny & the Blues Party), bassist Steve Gomes (formerly with John Lee Hooker's band), keyboard player Dickie Reed (former Roomful of Blues members) and drummer Per Hanson.

On his latest LP, Earl also enlists the services of well-known guitarist Duke Robillard and harmonica player Jerry Portnoy.

One of the biggest names in blues, Muddy Waters, set Earl on his way. As Earl tells it, he was with a friend at a Waters show when he felt something of a spiritual awakening.

"I looked at my friend and said, 'We're missing something in our lives here,'" Earl said.

One of those things, in Earl's case, was a guitar. At 23, he picked up an acoustic guitar first time and started by playing Lightnin' Hopkins material.

EARL SOON soon gave up his career teaching mentally disabled children in Boston and began performing in clubs.

"The advantage when you start playing anything late in life is that you're more focused, you're more grown up," Earl said. "You know what you want. I said I want to play the blues... I don't play the blues because I'm limited but because I want to."

That commitment has inspired numerous raves, including those from many guitar greats such as Eric Clapton, Robert Cray and B.B. King. Earl said he's continually evolving as a guitarist.

Earl's biggest growth has perhaps come since he went solo in 1988. He said likes the control that comes with being on your own, such as turning down certain club dates.

More importantly, though, Earl enjoys being able to play his own music.

"My philosophy about guitar playing is basically to play with soul and from the heart," he said. "I don't consider myself a great guitarist — other people do, bless their hearts — but I play with soul and sincerity."

Ronnie Earl & The Broadcasters will perform Thursday, Aug. 24, at Sully's, 4758 Greenfield, north of Michigan Avenue, Dearborn. For information, call 846-5377.

Love & Rockets, whose single "I'm Alive" is receiving a large amount of air play on commercial radio, will perform on Saturday, Sept. 16, at the Fox Theatre in Detroit.

REVIEWS

IT'S REAL — James Ingram

"It's Real," James Ingram's recent piece of work, is an excellent example of how an album should be put together. Side one of the release is dubbed "It's Real Hard," and side two is dubbed "It's Real Soft."

So this simply means one side is fast beat R&B dance music and side two is slow ballads. This well thought-out album lets the listener build up with the mood of the music by keeping the tempos in order.

Production on the album is superb. Ingram's powerful voice is well heard through the loud drumming, upbeat songs. Dancing comes automatic when these tunes are heard. The title track "It's Real" has pizzazz. It's one of those songs you can hear over and over again without getting tired of it right away.

The softer tunes of side two again display silken ballad style Ingram is known for. Ingram's remake of the Goffin/King song, "You Make Me Feel Like A Natural Man," is sung with pure pride as his voice bellows out each word.

Working on the production of the album with Ingram are some of the well-known talents in the industry. On the list are Gene Griffin, Gerla Levert, Marc Gordon (the Levert/Gordon team), Michael J. Powell, Dennis Matkowsky, Thom Bell (known for his work with The Spinners), Benny Medina and Barry Hankerson.

The album is a good sounding piece of work because it contains a little bit of funk, a lot of hard drum dancing tunes and a entire side of soft ballads. The formula is there.

After three long years since his last release, this solo album shows that Ingram has worked hard in co-producing, co-writing and being involved in many aspects of making the album, which is a credit to Ingram as an artist.

THE SWAMP BOOGIE QUEEN — Katie Webster

Granted, swamp boogie is a musical strain not native to our high and dry suburbs. Katie Webster's brand of boogie comes from Louisiana, via Texas, having been well-seasoned through the years.

But even we highlanders can pick up on swamp boogie real quick. That's good because Webster's bluesy singing and piano styles, at times pounding, like some rollicking roadhouse, and at times sweet, like a sentimental mood, deserves some attention.

She is not a household name, though arguably should be. Houston-born, she is the daughter of pianists. She was spotted by soul great Ollis Redding and played with the Redding band 1964-67, until the singer's untimely death.

"The Swamp Boogie Queen" (Alligator) features two wonderful versions of Redding tunes, one he co-wrote ("Fa-fa-fa-fa") and one he made famous ("Try a Little Tenderness").

Here too is Webster's rendition of "Sea of Love." She played piano on the original hit version by Phil Phillips. Another standard, "Who's Making Love?," seems to sum up Webster as a staunch realist when it comes to love.

"Now listen fellas..." she sings on another song before launching into a melodic plch for treating women right. It's a message she tells the ladies as well.

She shows off her rich boogie woogie style on a song she wrote called "Black Salin'."

Katie has a pretty good group of guests passing through. These include guitarists Robert Cray and Bonnie Raitt, and Fabulous Thunderbirds harpist Kim Wilson.

But Webster is the star, and on one number she sings "Lord I wonder how much longer I'll have to sing the blues."

She's been at it 35 years so far. Let's hope for many more.

BLIND JUSTICE — Figure 4

Jeff (or is it Jefferson?) Shoemaker fancies himself as a man with message. And with a voice that sounds like he gargles with Listerine and broken glass in the morning, the lead singer of Figure 4 articulates what's on his mind in the hardest of rock'n'roll fashion.

Figure 4's first release, the five-song cassette "Blind Justice" (Nebula), is nothing less than what we've come to expect from this neo-political outfit.

Shoemaker is a student of Objectivism. The philosophy touts the virtues of selfishness and, indeed, is quite different than the liberal bent of today's social conscious rockers.

What Shoemaker has to say is backed up by a potent blast of industrial rock'n'roll. 10,000 Maniacs this isn't, folks.

No new musical ground is broken here. But what the Figure 4 crew does, it does very well. Most duly noted is the deft guitar work of Fred Schaller, who provides some scorching lines that elevates numbers like the title track "Blind Justice" to a loftier plateau.

The sound fits the lyrics. Shoemaker writes what might be described as crude poetry. There's no fat or grizzle on these lines.

From "Deadline" comes this entry: "All along on the road to perfection/I'm not afraid of hate and rejection/I eat punks like you for lunch/You ain't so bad, is that your best punch?"

Or this sample from, "This is John Galt Speaking," a song about a character in the Ayn Rand novel "Atlas Shrugged." "Punishment for he who wins/You've taken life and called it sin/To want for one but not for all/This will be society's fall."

Fortunately, lyrics are included with the package. Otherwise, the hard rock sound tends to block out the words, which, incidentally, isn't that the whole point of being a band with a message?

STREET SENSE

People lie to avoid pain

Dear Barbara,

Perhaps I'm just becoming paranoid, but can you please tell me why it is that "all" men lie when interacting with females? What is it about them that makes them lie about what they've done, where they've been, how they feel, etc., etc., even when it is of no importance or consequence? Whether they are married or single, it's always the same.

Where's the sense in all of this?

Dear j,

Your letter is a very interesting one because it reveals a painful truth of life to which some readers may react strongly or negatively. My experience in working with people that all people lie — male and female — to a greater or lesser degree to protect themselves from pain.

Is it possible that the experiences you have with men illustrate this observation?

Although the lie may seem not to have consequence or importance to the person who lies, it has a significance not known to the listener. If you expect "sense" in dealing with people, you will be disappointed as you are.

Barbara

Dear Barbara,

I read with interest your column, which included the dubious and self-serving letter from the Matchmaker International representative. The view from the streets is a bit less rosy.

I am a single professional man in my late 20s. I am honest, loyal, sincere, etc., just like a good Boy Scout. I'm not afraid of commitment or the women of the '80s and '90s. However, I am busy with my career and continuing my education, so meeting and dating women is very frustrating.

I am a member of one of the established dating services in town. After paying a significant sum of money on a membership, I am even more frustrated with the alleged service.

Based on my experience, the service has done nothing to measure or evaluate the compatibility or sincerity of my introductions. The women I have been introduced to didn't seem interested in meeting anyone. Although I live and work in Birmingham, three of my introductions have been from Ann Arbor and one from Brighton. Apparently, geographic proximity is not a consideration. My complaints to the service have fallen on deaf ears.

Dating services deal in the most fragile and perishable commodity. It cannot be bought or sold.

P.B.

Dear P.B.,

Your comments about dating services may be accurate. Not all dating services are as adequate as others. I have recently taped a show for Birmingham/Bloomfield TV on which I interviewed two managers from reliable dating services. Their attitude was highly professional and responsible.

Please try to get information on started working as a first mate when I was 16, to get the feel of charter fishing. I took (and passed) the Coast Guard exam (to become a charter captain) on my 18th birthday."

Since then, Molesky has spent his summers surrounded by downriggers, outriggers, depth finders and other hi-tech fishing equipment.

And his clients don't seem to notice his youthfulness.

"They don't have any problem with my age," Molesky said. "If I go out and work hard for people and get them a fish, they're happy."

Molesky has seen many things during his years on the water, which he relates in many of his stories. But he's also seen a change in the fishing community.

"I see a lot more women coming out, probably 30-40 percent of all the people that come out here fishing are women. They really seem to enjoy it."

So how did an enterprising young college student come up with a name like "Wa Hoo?"

"I wanted a name nobody would use and I wanted something we could use as a fish alarm," said Molesky. "It's a rule of the boat that you have to yell, 'Waaaaa Hooooo,' as loud as you can when you get a fish on."

Wa Hoo Charters can be reached in Southfield at 552-9635.

Q: My company is sending me back to college in September. My wife and I want to take a weekend in the northern lower peninsula of Michigan during color season. Can we still find something that fits our budget?

A: Local roadside motels are usually the least expensive way to travel up north, so here are toll-free numbers for the budget chains. In each case dial 1-800 and then the number: Days Inns, 325-2525; Super-8, 843-1991; Comfort, 228-5150; Travelodge, 255-3050; Econo Lodges, 446-6900; Hospitality International, 251-1982; Knights Inn, 722-7220; Red Roof, 843-7663. Call Motel 6 at your own expense: (519) 891-6161. All advertise rates under $40 a night.

Bed-and-breakfast places are more fun, but their prices are all over the place, and you must check each one to find space. Do it now; rooms fill up early during color season.

Most people find B&B's by word-of-mouth, but there are some guides. The state puts out a great book called Michigan's Bed & Breakfast and Historic Inns. Call the state travel bureau at 1-800-5432-YES for a free copy.

The book lists four reservations services. Bed and Breakfast in Michigan, P.O. Box 1731, Dearborn, MI 48121, or call Diane Shields at 561-6041; her regular office hours are 6-10 p.m. You can leave your number on her machine during the day and she'll send you a list.

Bed and Breakfast of Grand Rapids, 455 College Ave. SE, Grand Rapids 49503, telephone (616) 451-4849 represents homes in the Heritage Hill Historic District. Capital Bed-and-Breakfast Agency, 5150 Corey Road, Williamston, 48895, telephone (517) 468-3434, represents b-and-b's in Williamston, East Lansing, Mason and Olivet. Frankenthum Area Bed-and-Breakfast, 337 Trinklein St., Frankenthum, 48734, telephone (517) 652-8899 or 894-4600, covers from Harbor Beach to Bay City.

My favorite guide is a booklet put out by Lake to Lake Bed and Breakfast, which lists b and b's statewide, but is not a reservation system. Send a stamped self-addressed business-sized envelope to them at 405 Stuart Ave., Kalamazoo, 49007.

If any of you have a favorite bed-and-breakfast, or a favorite travel destination to recommend, send it to me at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

VIDEO VIEWING

GREENBERG'S FIRST Law of Film Production holds that 3 to 5 percent of the films produced each year are worthwhile. The more films produced, the more good ones. Unfortunately increased production translates into proportionally more bad than good movies.

The tremendous market for films on home video is partially responsible for the recent production surge with many movies released directly to home video without theatrical distribution. Heavy consumption of videocassettes may in part result because home video has evolved into the visual equivalent of background music. It seems that if you're not paying too much attention, it doesn't matter what you watch.

Certainly this soggy, sentimental, melodramatic World War II story pitting Martin (Hurt) against his brother-in-law, Jack (Hutton), won't win any awards. It's a Greek tragedy brought to you by Proctor and Gamble with as soapy an ending as any sob-sister could imagine.

Martin and Jack are at odds over Martin's sister, Josie (Melissa Leo) and the family fortune figures in as well. Poppa was a Basque immigrant who amassed considerable wealth, through hard work. Despite his new-world prosperity, he remains devoted to old world, peasant values, rigid traditions that lead to tragedy.

Vietnam vet makes them laugh

By Shirlee Rose Iden
staff writer

You don't just get to be Blake Clark, the Vietnam veterans' comedian without a battle, the comedian says.

"It was a real uphill battle and I struggled for every inch."

Clark will perform Wednesday through Saturday, Aug. 23-26, at Chaplin's East in Fraser.

A Georgia native, he always wanted to be a comedian, but was deterred by other obligations. "First, I had to go to Vietnam and defend my country, then I came home and met my wife, married, and had my two boys."

Before he put on the khaki uniform and shipped out to Vietnam, Clark only dreamed of a career in comedy. "I had a lot of different careers. Then I did community theatre in Macon, Georgia and I loved it. I wanted to make the move."

Clark's wife, whom he married 17 years ago, became the mover and shaker when she told him, impatiently: "Either do it or shut up."

SO IT was the Clark Family moved to Los Angeles nine years ago, and he struggled and inched to get to where he wanted to be, in show business.

"Some say you can't go to school to be a comedian," he said. "Actually, you can go to school, but you can't learn to be funny."

Without hesitation, Clark says he is his own favorite comedian.

"But I like Robin Williams and Jay Leno and some others. I also like Roseanne Barr and Paula Patton, but the others, being males, are my role models. In terms of female comedians, two things I'm sick of hearing about are PMS and dating. There's got to be something more important in people's experience."

Clark, deeply affected by his experiences in the Vietnam War, says that every day when he wakes up he thinks about how fortunate he is to be American and living happily with his family.

"I NEVER EXPECTED to be living the last 18 years of my life. I'm the luckiest guy there is. Most comedians are not really happy, but I have a great personal life," he said.

Blake Clark is considered the Vietnam veteran's comedian.

"Vietnam was very tough to go through, but it could have been worse. I got through it without having hand to hand combat or guys dying all around me.

"They died, all right, but it could have been worse.

"Vietnam taught me to question everything. I had been taught 'thou shalt not kill' and over there it was supposed to be OK to kill because it was for your country."

The comedian trained in several comedy workshops including The Comedy Store Workshop. A master of dialects, he can do improvisations in Cajun, black, cockney, French, Arabic, Italian, Japanese, red neck southern, Australian, Bronx, and more.

Blake has a long list of credits from the past nine years including television appearances on National Lampoon's Hot Flashes; Remington Steele; George Carlin's HBO Special, M*A*S*H*; Johnny Carson Show; David Letterman; Merv Griffin and others.

Ask him who he is and Blake Clark will tell you: "American by birth and southern by the grace of God."

Blake Clark will appear Wednesday through Saturday, Aug. 23-26, at Chaplin's East, 34244 Groesbeck, Fraser. For information, call 792-1902.

WINNERS CIRCLE
BY LAURIE KIPP
MPL

Daily Games have been a major factor in the success of the Michigan Lottery since 1977. As a result, many readers have expressed interest in learning more about them.

Q. When Did These Games Start In Michigan?
A. The Daily 3 Game began on July 6, 1977, and the Daily 4 on October 4, 1981.

Q. Are There A Lot Of Winners?
A. Both games have thousands of winners on each of the six weekly drawing nights. There have been more than 15 million winners in the Daily 3, for example. Over one million of these occurred during the first nine months of the current fiscal year.

Q. How Much Can Be Won?
A. A single wager in the Daily 3 can win up to $500 depending on whether the wager is straight, boxed or a combination. The Daily 4 has a $5,000 top prize. Of course, players holding a number of tickets with the winning number collect duplicate prizes.

Q. How Do I Collect If I Win?
A. Retailers selling these games can pay all prizes up to $500 immediately after the drawings are completed at 7:30 each night. Larger amounts can be collected Monday through Friday at any Lottery regional office.

Q. If Players Get Lucky, Couldn't The Prize Total Be More Than The Amount Played?
A. Yes. Between the two Daily Games, this has happened about 43 times in each of the last several years. The Lottery pays the full amount no matter how much is won.

Q. What's Been The Record Payout So Far?
A. On June 10, 1986, the Daily 3 paid out $1,965,980 on the number 123. This was equal to 49 percent of the amount played that day.

Q. What's The Daily 4 Record?
A. On October 15, 1986, the Daily 4 number, 1028, awarded $2,757,988, or 668 percent of the amount played.

Q. What Numbers Can I Play?
A. In the Daily 3, any number from 000 to 999, and in the Daily 4, 0000 through 9999. Your retailer can also give you an "Easy Pick" in which the Lottery computer makes a random number selection for you.

Q. Can I See The Drawings?
A. Live Daily 3 and 4 drawings are now telecast on a nine-station TV network on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:29 p.m. and the results are announced on Wednesday during the Super Lotto drawing. On Saturday nights, the Daily 3 and 4 drawings are conducted live during the Fame & Fortune show, between 7:30-8:00 p.m. The live drawings are also heard on 11 radio stations around the state.

Q. The Drawing Equipment Looks New. Is It?
A. New Daily game drawing machines, similar to those used for instant drawings, were just introduced on July 24, 1989. This permits live drawings of both the Daily 3 and 4 to be seen and heard in the one-minute time slot formerly used by the Daily 3 drawing.

For submitting the first question leading to this column, Theresa Newcomb of Roseville will receive 50 "Fame & Fortune" tickets. Note: When duplicate questions are received, that with the earliest date stamp upon arrival at Lottery Central wins. In case of a tie, the winner is selected by random drawing.

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 38077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Camping without going on the trip

By Bill Parker
staff writer

Lée Trotter doesn't let a handicap slow her down. Despite poor circulation, which keeps her from walking very far or driving an automobile, the Rochester resident gets out "three or four times each summer" to pursue one of her favorite outdoor activities: camping.

And this modern day pioneer doesn't camp in a big luxurious travel trailer either. No sir! It's strictly primitive, as in a tent and a sleeping bag.

"I love the outdoors, I love to get out and I love to go fishing," explained Trotter, who was on a solo camping trip recently at Addison Oaks County Park, north of Rochester in Oakland County.

"This is the first time I've been here, but I'll definitely be back. It's really great out here and it's only nine miles from Rochester. The OPC (Older Persons Center in Rochester) van will bring me out here. Then they'll come back in a few days and pick me up."

Other than the proximity and the availability of transportation, there were other things that lured Trotter to Addison Oaks.

"I really like it here," Trotter said. "Everything is pretty close. The showers are close, the fishing is close, the campsites are nice and clean and they're big. You have your privacy, but you're never too far away from others. They even have handicapped showers, which are nice. The only thing that blew my mind was that it costs $25 to take a shower."

MARK AND BEV Pangrace drove all the way down from Algonac to spend the weekend at Addison Oaks with their three sons, 8-year-old Adam, 7-year-old Joey and 2-year-old Andrew.

"We used to live in Rochester, but we moved to Algonac three months ago," explained Mark. "We've been here before and we really liked it so here we are, back again."

Bev, a cautious mother, was happy with the facilities the park offers children.

"The beach is really nice for the kids. It's well guarded and the kids can have a lot of fun," she said. "They also have a lot of other things for kids to do. They had a hay ride on Friday night and a movie on Saturday. They have a playground with swings and bars and slides."

Added Mark, "They even come around at night with firewood for anyone who needs it."

MARY MILMINE, of Mt. Clemens, arrived at the park with her three children — 18-year-old Anthony, 16-year-old Tracey, and 14-year-old Louann — on Friday afternoon under stressful conditions. Her car broke down at the park entrance and she was scheduled to set up camp, then pick her husband Richard up from work in "less than two hours."

But, since campers are usually always ready to lend a helping hand, it only took a couple minutes to find help. A few moments later, the Milmines were back on the road, heading for their primitive campsite.

"I've never met a camper that wasn't ready to help," observed Trotter, who admitted she usually needs a little help setting up her tent. "I've never had a hard time finding help. That's the nature of campers."

By Saturday afternoon, the Milmines were relaxing and enjoying the weekend.

"This is a really nice park," said Richard. "It's one of the nicest I've ever seen. Everybody is not right on top of each other. You have your privacy. The beach is nice — they have boat rental and fishing. For rustic camping, this is really a nice campsite. I certainly want to come back here again. It's the only park I know of that delivers wood (for fires) right to the campsite. I'd rather come here than go to a state park."

OAKLAND COUNTY PARKS accept no reservations. Camping is strictly on a first-come first-serve basis. Still, the park fills up nearly every weekend.

"We're usually a little slow early in the year, but by mid-season we're filling up pretty steady," explained Addison Oaks park supervisor Frank Ostrowski. "We get about a 50/50 mix of county resident and non-county residents. The thing that's nice is that you don't have to drive all the miles (to go up north) and you can still go camping in the woods."

And woods they are, with deer, rabbits, raccoons and even an occasional skunk roaming the park grounds.

"There are a lot of (wild) animals here," Ostrowski said. "We even have one little skunk that shows up every now and then looking for handouts (food). A lot of people have seen him, but he has never bothered or sprayed anyone."

Spots to pitch your tent

Driving hundreds of miles to a secluded campground somewhere in northern Michigan is a tempting thought to most avid campers.

But to make a trip like that you need time. Time to drive up and time to drive back. A weekend jaunt is almost out of the question. Even a three day weekend seems a little cramped when you have to spend hours on the road.

But there is a solution. There is a way to beat the clock and avoid a timely road trip. Camp close to home.

JUST BECAUSE the parks are close to home, don't expect to camp in an urban environment.

Oakland County Parks offer quality camping at both Addison Oaks, north of Rochester, and Groveland Oaks, in Holly.

"What makes our campground popular is that you don't have to drive 100 miles to go camping," said Groveland Oaks park supervisor Clyde Herb. "We have a lot of people that camp here and commute back-and-forth to work. It's a good place for the kids in the summer, too. We have a lot of activities for them out here."

"The thing that's nice is that you don't have to drive all those miles and you can still be out in the woods," said Frank Ostrowski, park supervisor at Addison Oaks.

Both parks offer a variety of facilities including modern campsites (which include a cement slab for recreational vehicle parking, on site electricity and running water), semi-modern sites (wooded lots and on site electricity) and primitive sites (no luxuries). The parks are open to the public, with Oakland County residents receiving a small break in usage fees.

"We get a pretty good mix of county and non-county residents," Ostrowski said.

ADDISON OAKS, nine miles north of Rochester on Romeo Road in Oxford, is a 770-acre facility with 140 campsites (50 modern, 23 semi-modern, 23 primitive and 44 group campsites). On holidays and crowded weekends there is also a two-acre boy scout camping area that can be opened and used as a primitive camping area.

The park also features boat rental, fishing (pike, bass, pan fish), a sandy beach, picnic shelters, charcoal grills, hiking trails, a concession area (complete with milk, bread, ice and goodies) and showers. Most of these facilities are handicap accessible.

There are also volleyball courts, a baseball field, horse shoe courts, hay rides and a popular movie on week-end evenings at the concession stand. Semi modern and primitive camp sites are very private, surrounded on three sides by wooded lots. Fire wood is available and can be dropped off right at the campsite.

GROVELAND OAKS, at 5990 Grange Hall Road in Holly, is a 365-acre facility featuring 600 campsites. The campsites aren't as secluded as those at Addison Oaks, but the park is equally clean and uncluttered.

Groveland Oaks features 112 modern sites, 85 semi modern sites, 103 primitive sites and 200 group sites.

Groveland Oaks also offers fishing and boat rental (canoes, paddle boats and row boats) on 30 acre Stewart Lake, picnic shelters and charcoal grills. There is a sandy beach for swimming, the only water slide in the county that empties into a lake, a volleyball court, a basketball court, arts and craft activities, an evening movie, a disc jockey, hay rides, showers, a concession stand, playground equipment and a games area.

Gentleman's game can drive you batty

Cricket game of choice for group on Belle Isle

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

A game in which style is as important as scoring, a gentleman's game for which the players wear white.

That's the way cricket was described by the late Walter Heron, a leading cricket booster in the Detroit area.

One of the two cricket teams based in Detroit, formerly the Detroit Cricket Club, was renamed the Walter Heron Cricket Team of Detroit following Heron's death in later 1988.

"Walter lived and breathed cricket," said team manager Ken Mirjah. "It was a real shock to us when he died. We had never known cricket in Detroit without Walter."

Often called the national sport of Britain, cricket has been played on Belle Isle for many years. No one is sure exactly when cricket arrived in Detroit, but teams have active in the area for more than 40 years, possibly as many as 60 years.

"Basically, as long as there have been West Indians in Detroit, there has been cricket," said Mirjah. "Most of our players are from the West Indies, Pakistan and India. We get a few British guys."

Team captain Nabeel Ahmed likened the popularity of cricket in Britain and its former colonies to the popularity of baseball in America.

"Most of the players we have grew up with cricket. I've played cricket since I was three or four years old," he said. "I've always played cricket. Here, people grew up playing baseball."

MIRJAH ECHOES the comments of his teammate.

"The saying is that you get cricket in your blood," he added.

In a cricket match, each team fields 11 players along with one extra player, although substitutions are rare.

One team takes the field, including a bowler, who pitches to a batsman from the opposing team.

Two batsmen are on the field at a time, one being pitched to while the other stands near the bowler. Three sticks, known as wickets, are placed 22 yards apart at the center of the cricket field, with the bowler and pitcher at opposite ends.

The bowler wants to pitch the red leather-covered ball into the wickets, which will retire the batsman, Ahmed said. The batsman wants to hit the ball but avoid a pop up, which can be caught to get him out.

"Bowlers in cricket have different specialties," Mirjah said. "It's like a pitcher in baseball has different balls."

One difference from baseball is that bowlers and fielders in cricket don't wear gloves. After being hit with the small hardball, Ahmed said he needed stitches in his chin. Mirjah suffered a broken finger after being hit by a ball.

"The batsman hits as hard as you would a baseball," Mirjah said. "The swing of the batsman is more like a golf swing than a baseball swing."

There are several ways to score points in cricket. A ball hit into the air but not caught is worth six runs, while ground balls are worth four runs.

POINTS CAN also be earned by the two batsmen, who cross over to the opposite wickets while the ball is in play.

A run is earned each time a cross-over can be completed, but the batsman is out if the opposing team can recover the ball and knock down the wickets before the batsman reaches them.

In cricket, a batsman continues at bat until he is retired and the team stays at bat until all the batsmen are out. Under the one-day rules, one team bats until it is retired, 240 pitches have been made or 2 1/4 hours elapses, whichever comes first.

Prior to the one-day rules being established, cricket matches could last five days. Professional teams often still play under those rules.

After a half-hour meal break, the opposing team bats and the same conditions apply.

"When an American friend, a baseball player, got involved, he thought cricket was more exciting," Ahmed said. "In baseball, if you hit a home run you are out (of action). In cricket, you keep hitting until they get you out."

For five years, what is now called the Walter Heron team has participated in the Southern Ontario Cricket Association and has taken the championship four of those years.

Cricket could become a more widely played game, Ahmed said, through school and recreational programs that would introduce the sport to youngsters.

"WE ARE talking about a whole day being tied up, and in our league we can drive up to three hours for a game," Mirjah said. "It does make it hard for some people. We do it because we love it."

The team, along with the Michigan Cricket Club, plays its home games on weekends at Belle Isle. Spectators are always welcome and people interested in playing can come to practices on Wednesdays at about 6:30 on Belle Isle.

"We are in front of the casino near where they are working on the fountain," said Mirjah. "You can't miss us. We are the guys in white."

Q: My daughter made medlorce grades in high school because she didn't try very hard. Now she's leaving for college and I'm worried she may flunk out. Could time management help her in school?

A: Absolutely. Good time management is a basic key to success in college. It simply means taking advantage of the time you have and using it to the best advantage, without procrastinating.

At 18 it's time to replace childish irresponsibility with more mature self-discipline. It would be wise for your daughter to establish a good routine right from the start. Since it's important to put To Do's in writing, she can begin by charting out each day of the week in time increments. Classes and "travel time," of course, would be blocked out first, along with regular study periods for each. Meals, laundry, getting dressed and other necessities should also be charted.

Daytime hours are often squandered in school. Many students have large blocks of time between classes but plan to do their studying at night. When everyone gathers back in dorm rooms in the evenings, however, there are so many distractions it doesn't get done. A goal of finding a quiet, non-distracting place to finish her studying before dinner each day could pave the way for success. (Research shows the sooner a student reviews material, the more information they will retain.) Nights and weekends can then serve as buffer periods to handle emergencies.

It's also important for your daughter to recognize her own delaying tactics. Many students actually retreat to soap operas just before semester exams. Others may just sit and worry about how much they have to do (often over-estimating actualities) instead of getting it done. If your daughter finds herself procrastinating, she should list everything she needs to do, estimate the time needed for each activity, and then schedule specific times to get it done.

Large tasks should be broken down into manageable units. If she has six hours of work to do on a class project due in two weeks, she could work on that project for one hour at 2 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday each week, for instance. She can finish it easily that way without wearing herself out.

Our young neighbor recently came home from summer school with straight A's. He was delighted to find that by employing good time management techniques he could make A's — for the first time in his life — and still had plenty of time for fun. Your daughter can, too, if she will follow these simple guidelines.

condo queries Robert M. Melsner

Q: We have lived in our condominium since 1985 and in all that time it has been very difficult to find out any information about board meetings and decisions they make. Meetings are held in an individual Board member's unit which is a deterrent for others to attend and the place and time are not given. I have tried to have the board distribute minutes to the co-owners and have requested it by letter, but it has not been done. Do co-owners have a right to the minutes? Should meetings be held as described above? Thanks.

A: It has always been my position that minutes of the meetings of the board of directors are not necessarily a "record" which is open to review by all members of the association even though the condominium statute says that "books and records of the association may be inspected by members of the association at reasonable times."

Clearly, minutes of the association which deal with privileged communications between the board and counsel would not be obtainable under most instances by a co-owner. On the other hand, a co-owner may have a right to attend certain portions of the board meeting, at the board's discretion, to discuss questions or concerns. However, the board may and should conduct its meetings in executive session, particularly when sensitive issues are being discussed which, if published to the rest of the members of the association or the world for that matter, would undermine the interests of the Association.

In short, you may not have a right to a copy of the exact minutes, but a prudent condominium association should at least prepare a newsletter summarizing the salient events which have taken place at the board meeting. I would also direct a letter to the association requesting a copy of its financial statement and demand that it provide you with answers to certain questions you may have concerning the operation of the association.

Rose fanciers take Pleasure in selection

AP — One rose — a vigorous, pink floribunda aptly named Pleasure — has been chosen for the prestigious All-American Rose Selections award for 1990.

In recent years, several new rose introductions have been designated annually for the honor by the AARS, a non-profit organization of rose producers and introducers.

The selection of Pleasure, introduced by Jackson & Perkins Co., of Medford, Ore., and hybridized by William A. Warriner, was announced by AARS president Steven B. Hutton. Warriner, whose roses have won the award many times, retired in 1988 as J&P's vice president of research.

Pleasure, in widespread test gardens, was rated as very floriferous. It has coral pink buds that open to salmon-coral pink blooms of 30 to 35 large petals. The slightly fragrant blooms may reach four inches across. When fully open, the blooms, which begin as high-centered buds, are quite flat.

"Pleasure's upright bushes are ideal for landscaping," Hutton said. "The average or beginning gardener can easily grow Pleasure roses, as they are extremely fast-cycling and require little maintenance."

One prerequisite for being named an AARS rose is that it can be grown anywhere in the country. The two-year testing included conditions of heat, drought, cold wind, insects, diseases and "hard-to-please judges."

Pleasure will be available generally for planting next spring. The bushes grow three to four feet tall. Floribunda stems generally are short.

green, and the plant is reported resistant to rust and powdery mildew.

EVERGREENS IN autumn: Evergreens do respond to fall weather, but not with the spectacular colors produced by maples, oaks and other deciduous trees. The oldest needles turn yellow, then brown, and finally drop gradually if the evergreen is healthy, rapidly if it is not.

For example, take the white pine, which has long, soft, bluish-green needles. The needles hold on to the tree for a year and a half. They expand in spring, hold on through the next year, and drop in the fall. The only needles that remain on the tree after drop are those that were produced earlier that same year.

Not all pines or other evergreens are as regular as white pine. In some, needle drop is influenced by plant vigor, climate or other factors. For instance, the ponderosa pine needs remain on the tree for three to four years; at medium altitudes, about six years; and at high altitudes, eight or more years.

On dense shrubs and trees, such as arborvitae and juniper, there is needle drop in the interior, but it is little noticed. Healthy spruce may hold needles three to 10 years. Drop also is internal, and browning only becomes obvious if growth is stunted for some reason.

WATCH FOR DISEASES. Insect or other damage if there is any browning of needed evergreen on new growth. Austrian pines often drop four-year-old needles. Dropping of younger needles may indicate the presence of fungus diseases, such as needle blight or top blight. Scotch pines normally drop needles three to four years old.

Spider mites are a common pest cause of browning of needles in junipers and spruces. They do most damage during hot weather. Spraying with an insecticide is important to keep the pests from building up.

If diseases are indicated, it is important to use a fungicide spray next season as needles develop. Clean up dropped needles this fall to help reduce the spread of diseases.

Great American Yard Sale to help homeless

As the new school year begins, area families have a special opportunity to tidy up at home and, at the same time, help homeless families across the country by contributing items to the Great American Yard Sale.

Sponsored by Schweitzer Real Estate Inc./Better Homes and Gardens, the sale will be held at several locations in the area from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16. Donated items are being accepted at Schweitzer offices. Proceeds from the sale will go to the Better Homes Foundation, the nation's only organization specifically dedicated to helping homeless families.

The Great American Yard Sale will be taking place at the same time in over 135 cities and towns across the country, according to Paul Schweitzer, president of the real estate firm. "We're sponsoring the sale because we believe every American family should have a home. The homeless families have more than 500,000 children — more than half of them under age 5. It's a terrible situation and we know that people here would like to help these unfortunate kids. This is a great way to do it."

through local community organizations and service providers. Rather than simply providing emergency shelter or food, the foundation's mission is to address the long-term problems of homeless families to help get them back on their feet and on their own again.

The foundation is especially sensitive to the many needs of the children of these families. In addition to helping find housing and jobs, the foundation supports such vital services as pre-school programs; medical, dental, vision and hearing services for children; recreational and tutoring services for children; and job training, counseling and parenting workshops for parents.

The foundation was founded in 1988 by Better Homes and Gardens magazine. The magazine's readers have contributed $1 million to the effort since last Christmas, according to editor-in-chief David Jordan.

Just for Brides

The Monthly Album is published the third Monday of each month for the announcements of engagements and weddings.

Engagement announcements will be accepted no later than 45 days prior to the wedding. Wedding announcements must be submitted within 60 days following the wedding. All announcements are run on a space available, first-come, first-served basis.

Photos submitted should be black and white glossies, preferably 5-by-7 inches in size. Color photos can be submitted and will be accepted but they do not reproduce as well.

Engagement and wedding announcements pertinent to Farmington and Farmington Hills are to be addressed to Loraine McClish, Farmington Observer, 33203 Grand River, Farmington 48024.

About our cover

LISA BALDERI and Marco Capicchioni were married by the Rev. Edward Belczak in St. Hugo Catholic Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michelangelo Balderi of Bloomfield Hills and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Livio Capicchioni of Farmington Hills.

The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University, now pursuing her master's degree in business administration at Central Michigan University. The groom is a graduate of the University of Michigan employed as an engineer for Harley, Ellington, Pierce, Yee in Southfield.

They received guests in the San Marino Club, in Troy, before leaving on a wedding trip to Spain and are making their home in Troy.

The couple posed for the picture on our cover on the grounds of the Bloomfield Hills church. The photographer was Joe Derocher, assisted by Kathy Hargreaves from Focal Point Studio in downtown Farmington. Derocher is a versatile photographer, but best known for the weddings he's photographed. He is holder of many awards, most notably two back-to-back Best of Show awards from Detroit Professional Photographers Association.

He spends between 8 and 12 hours with the bridal party for the weddings he photographs and says he will go far out of his way to find beautiful backgrounds.

The new Mrs. Capicchioni called the Derocher-Hargreaves team, "wonderfully cooperative — very professional."

Clarification

Our beautiful bride, Linda Ostroski Weavers, scheduled to appear on the July cover of the Observer Newspapers Monthly Album, got her picture switched and instead appeared on the cover of the Eccentric Newspapers Monthly Album for that issue.

In turn, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Power, she is the former Maria P. Zervos, appeared on the cover of the Monthly Album for the Observer Newspapers in July.

Linda Weavers' picture was taken by Mike Thompson of Alan Brooks Studio in Westland. The Powers' picture was taken by Leo Knight of Leo Knight Photography in Southfield.

Lodigiani-Edwards

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lodigiani of West Springfield, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter Linda to Donald F. Edwards Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Edwards Sr. of Farmington Hills.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of University of Massachusetts employed with A-Copy as manager of advertising and public relations. Her fiancé is a graduate of Farmington High School and Central Michigan University, employed with Uarco Inc. as supervisor of production and satellite printing.

An October wedding is planned in Massachusetts.

Scrima-Kinsey

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scrima of Farmington Hills announce the engagement of their daughter Ann Marie to Thomas Kinsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kinsey of Livonia.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Pinkerton Academy in New Hampshire and is employed with Home Planners, Inc. Her fiancé is a graduate of Stevenson High School in Livonia, attended Schoolcraft College and is now working toward his engineering drafting degree in architecture.

A fall wedding is planned.

Forkel

Edward and Barbara Forkel of Farmington Hills celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 13 by renewing their vows at the Orchard Methodist Church in Farmington Hills, with family and friends in attendance.

They couple were wed on Sept. 30, 1939. They have six children — Judy, Bonnie, Gary, Jackie, Larry and Cheryl — two daughters-in-law, one son-in-law and seven grandchildren.

Tancill-Moran

Leslie Mary Tancill of Livonia and Kevin Moore Moran, also of Livonia, plan a September wedding at Martha Mary Chapel at Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Tancill of Livonia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Moran, also of Livonia.

The bride-to-be is a 1984 graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School and a 1988 graduate of Michigan State University, where she received a bachelor of arts degree in communications. She is employed by Manley Communication Group in Southfield.
