Patriotic dentist loses fight over flag

Even patriotism has it's limits.

A Westland dentist said Monday he probably won't replace the American flag he has flown proudly in front of his office on Ann Arbor Trail, west of Middlebelt, after it was stolen for the fifth time last Especially since the thieves had to saw through a 4-inch metal pole in order to swipe the stars and stripes.

"We felt it (displaying the flag) was an important thing," said Dr. Maier Belen. "But I'll have to think er one."

10 years, said he has waged a constant battle with flag thieves.

The office is the only business in an otherwise residential neighborhood fronting Ann Arbor Trail.

After greasing the flagpole and installing a flag that couldn't be raised or lowered from ground level, the World War II veteran thought he found the solution in 1987 when he put up a permanent flag on a 20foot-high pole - anchored in concrete and surrounded by floodlights.

It kept thieves at bay for two

Belen said it would cost about $400 to have a new pole installed, not including the cost of a new flag.

V.I.P program to start

By Leonard Poger editor

Westland elementary school students will soon get the V.I.P. treatment, but it has nothing to do with gaining special benefits.

Project V.I.P. is the name of a new Westland police department program almed at helping sixth graders battle peer pressure and establish positive social values.

The program will start in a week at Schweitzer Elementary School, continue for 12 weeks and then move to another elementary in the Wayne-Westland school district.

V.I.P. is an acronym which stands for values, influences and peers.

The school board heard of the program and a related drug abuse prevention effort sponsored by the Wayne police department this fall.

The Westland V.I.P. program will be launched in cooperation with the school district following an in-service training program for several teachers this week.

Westland officers Terrance Donohue and Donald Haigh will spend 30 to 60 minutes weekly with the sixth graders with potential field trips planned for the police station or the Wayne County Juvenile Home.

There are 12 components in the program which includes role playing and skits to help youngsters develop positive social attitudes, the officers

Say bye to grocery lines On the other end of the computer By Leonard Poger Westland's Judie Walker provided-a breakfast room-full of computer and supermarket officials and reporters a taste of how she does her grocery shopping.

She picked out a recipe for baked pork chops, shopped for ingred-(ients, chècked her shopping list, and reviewed the prices.

The difference between Mrs. Walker and thousands of other local shoppers is that she avoided having to drive to the store, push a cart through crowded aisles, and wait in long check-out lines.

She did it all by computer from her home on Norma, in the Ford-Hix area.

For a $7.50 charge, she could even have the groceries delivered to her home the same day.

The shopping was done by her and her husband's personal computer, a new Prodigy software, a

Residents complain marsh land is a menace

By Tedd 8chnelder staff writer

A marsh-like patch of land in the middle of the P.D. Graham Elementary School playground is a safety hazard to children and a headache for nearby residents, according to a Graham parent who has complained about the situation for nearly a year. School officials said Monday they

"It doesn't take much water for a small child to drown." Anthony said she is concerned for the safety of her son, who attends kindergarten, and other Graham students. The school is on John Hix, a half mile south of Cherry Hill,

THE MARSH is less than 100 feet from some of the school's playground equipment.

It has become "a breeding the time," Anthony said, "This is reground" for mosquitoes and other insects, the parent said.

Anthony, whose house on Northbampton backs up to the playground, said she first complained to Dietrich and other school officials about the situation last fall.

Tom Blacklock, deputy superintendent, said poor drainage contributes to the large quantity stagnant water in the area. He said the district last week ordered maintenance workers to clear any plugged drains.
"This fall, with all the rain we've had, obviously it's been a nuisance," Blacklock sald. "But I don't know whether you can say it's a safety. hazard,"

Both Blacklock and Dietrich said there haven't reports of injuries caused by children playing in or near the marsh. On Monday afternoon — following a daylong drizzle — the patch was damp but the water level was relatively low. THE AREA is a wedge shape

School Superintendent Dennis O'Neill praised the programs and particularly the three officers for their commitment and energy.

Substance abuse is a social problem, not just a school problem, he said, and the "bottom line for us in education is that for success in school, we must start early."

Board president Andrew Splsak, a former Westland police lieutenant, added that he hopes the two police programs will be successful.

Ronald Somers, general education executive director for the school district, said he gets calls daily from elementary school principals who want the V.I.P. program scheduled for their schools.

MANAGER CONTROL OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

Hospital corporation head named

By Leonard Poger

Gary R. Ley, who came to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital as an administrative assistant 10 years ago, is now head of the institution's corporation, directing an $85 million operation responsible for 125,000 patients a year, 2,000 employees, and 280 physicians

Ley was promoted Monday to president/chief executive officer of Amerigard, the corporate parent of the hospital, two nursing homes, two home health care services, three physicians officers, and a medical

A 34-year-old Canton Township resident, Ley succeeds Allan L. Breakle, who has been the hospital's top administrator for nearly 37 years. Breakle will continue to serve the hospital and its related health care units as a consultant for at least another year.

Breakie announced Ley's latest promotion Monday morning before an estimated 100 management persons in the hospital's auditorium.

The atmosphere resembled family members attending a wedding, commented one of the administrators during the reception.

Gary R. Ley came to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital as an administrative assistant 10 years ago.

Besides receiving a key on a plaque, Breakle praised Ley for his management skills. Breakle said the key represents a symbol of responsibility.

LEY, WHO who was told about the promotion Friday morning, was scheduled to be boosted to the new title next Jan. 1. But Breakle said the Amerigard board of trustees approved the change Sept. 17, effective

The new CEO told his audience that while he may have a different management style than Breakle, he will continue to share the same value: "treat people as if they were your best friend."

Ley added that those values reflect that an administrator "must be a people manager and that people aren't just statistics or FTEs (fulltime equivalent employees).

The new president, who said he views his role as a consensus builder leading the organization to the light at the end of the tunnel, outlined four goals for the hospital:

They are:

• Have all staffers prepared for change and be able to take advantage of it. "Every hospital is like being in white water rafting," he said. "There are dramatic changes coming and we must deal with it and take advantage of it.

- "We have to look outside our four walls and focus on the question,
 --What do people want from us?"
- The hospital must be accountable to patients. With the many changes coming in the next five years, Ley said he foresees a "consumers' guide to hospitals."
- "We must maintain our level of enthusiasm and intensity and be able to steer through those white water rapids."

Ley, who has a master's degree in hospital administration, said that school doesn't teach a person management and leadership.

BRINGING A'chuckle from his audience, Ley concluded his remarks by commenting that "I can't wait to get going — and I'll still come in (to work) at 7:30 in the morning," referring to a requirement when he was first hired by Breakle.

Breakle reflected on Ley's first years at the hospital, urging him to look at the institution the way a patient would.

The outgoing president added that while many hospitals experienced bickering in a transition of top management; Garden City Hospital has had a game plan which has climaxed with Ley's latest promotion.

Breakie said Ley has learned every phase of the hospital since being hired in May, 1979.

Also taking part in the ceremony was William DiBlasi, chairman of the corporation's board of trustees. On hand for the reception were Mayor pro-tem Jim Plakas, City Manager Jon Austin, and Terry Carroll, the city's community development director.

Symphony expanding services

The American Youth Symphony, which draws musicians from throughout the Detroit area, is expanding its service from two to four orchestras plus a concert band.

In preparation for that expansion the youth symphony organization has named four staff conductors and announced one guest conductor. The search is continuing for two other guest conductors.

The staff additions are Lynne Campbell, conductor of Master Strings; John Renneckar, conductor, Festival Strings; Katherine Her, conductor, Academic Strings; and Scott Stickley, assistant conductor of orchestra and conductor of the American Youth Concert Band and Renaissance Brass Ensemble.

Robert Phillips has been named guest conductor of the concert orchestra.

MUSICIANS INTERESTED in playing for the various performing groups who have not yet auditioned may attend the first rehearsal beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at Churchill High on Newburgh north of Joy.

A mini-breakfast is planned for usicians and their parents at 9 a.m.

Reservations may be made for the breakfast as late as Friday by calling 455-1797 or 522-0775. A rehearsal and parent meeting will follow the breakfast.

Musicians from the seven-county area are invited to participate in the youth symphony's expanded program. Students should ask their school band and orchestra teachers about the details of the program, said organizer Bill Savola.

A six-week free trail period is available and half and full scholarships will be awarded on a case-bycase basis.

CAMPBELL OF Birmingham earned a bachelor of music education from Indiana University.

At Indiana University Campbell performed string bass with the Philharmonic Orchestra, symphony orchestra, concert orchestra, and appeared in spring ballets, operas, and student recitals. She took private study in bass, solo and ensemble, and music theory study.

She also has played for the Detorit Symphony, Owensboro Symphony, Purdue Musical Organization Orchestra, and Oakway Symphony Orchestra (now the Livonia Symphony Orchestra).

At Groves High in Birmingham she was principal bassist for three years and played in the pit orchestra for the Farmington Players. Campbell presently is Berkley School director of strings and orchestra for grades 4-12, plays for the Meadowbrook Music Festival Orchestra, and is a masters' student at University of Michigan.

RENNECKAR OF Detroit earned a master's in music education from Wayne State University and a bachelor of arts from Michigan State University. His areas of emphasis were cello, violin, viola, string bass, clarinet, bassoon, conducting, orchestra, music theory and history of mu-Renneckar has been string and band teacher, orchestra director, and string teacher at elementary, middle school and high school levels for Detroit Public Schools.

He has been a cellist for the Flint Symphony, Lansing Symphony, Pontiac-Oakland Symphony, Detroit Sin-fonia, St. Clair Shores Symphony and Mt. Clemens Symphony.

At Groves High in Birmingham a master of music education from University of Michigan and a bachelor of the Farmington Players. Camp-

Stickley is a graduate assistant in music educaton at U-M where he has helped the faculty in the instruction of 18 music education undergraduates in delivery skills, instrumental pedagogy, and conducting review.

He also is presently the music director for the Jackson Youth Symphony. Under Stickley's leadership, the youth symphony in Jackson, Mich., has increased its enrollment by 37 percent to 63 members.

Stickely has served as director ofbands for Corvallis High School in Oregon for four years and as associate director of the Corvallis Youth Symphony for two years.

fler, who has been a string teacher for Livonia Public Schools and a coach with American Youth Symphony Orchestra strings, will be working with young string players with at least six months experience.

INAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOUNEVER KNEWYOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

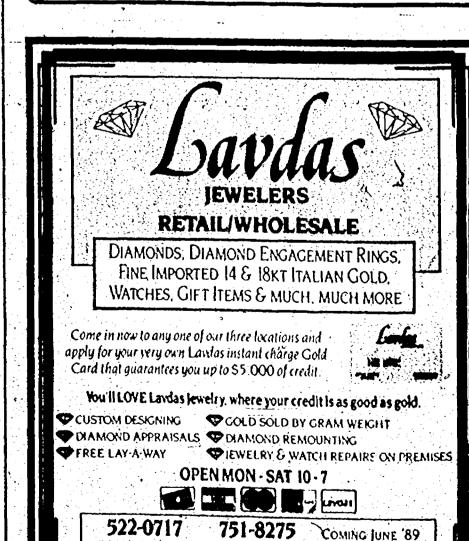

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

FIGHT SOME OF THE WORST DISEASES OF OUR TIME. Support the American Diabetes Association.

Area girl, 8, to serve as United Way Torchlighter

Stephanie McInnes of Westland will serve as a United Way Torchlighter this month.

The girl will represent thousands of residents throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties who benefit from health and human services provided by the Torch Drive through its 153 charitable agencles.

Stephanie, 8, will help light the United Way torch at the foot of Woodward Avenue Oct. 16, symbolizing the beginning of the reporting phase of the Torch Drive. She will also help to promote the campaign by appearing at numerous rallies, meetings and luncheons.

Stephanie has spina bifida and receives physical, occupational, and speech therapy at Detroit Institute for Children.

The Detroit Institute for Children provides rehabilitation services for developmentally disabled children and young adults with the help of specialty physicians, dentists, occupational therapists, orthototists, physical therapists, psychologists, social workers and pathologists.

THIS YEAR, $1,022,615 was allocated to the agency through funds raised during the 1988 Torch Drive. Stephanie attends Blair Moody El-_ ementary School, Taylor.

The McInnes family has also received Torch Drive-supported services from Visiting Nurse Home Saturday, Nov. 18 - The Harris: Health Services, Family and Neigh-Kehrer Ladies Auxiliary will hold its borhood Services, United Cerebral

What kind of a kid do you suppose Thomas Edison was?

Bet he looked at problems and saw solutions. Like Maurice Scales who invented Baby No-Mash to prevent doors from closing on little fingers.

Bet he saw how things were done, and imagined better ways to do them. Like Lillian Lukas who invented the Puddle Detecting Cane for the blind. program.

Bet he watched how things work and thought of ways to avoid wasting time or effort. Like Caitilin McCracken who invented the Orphan Kitten Feeder for Three.

Maurice, Lillian and Caitilin were three of the thousands of winners in the Invent America! education

A State Sen. Doug Cruce is going public, loud and clear, with his opposition to both state school tax proposals on the Nov. 7 ballot.

"It's deplorable that they (fellow legislators) will put them on the ballot and not come out in the sunlight and take a position," said Cruce, R-

The second-term senator joined officials of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce in a State Capitol news conference last week to announce poll results showing voters would reject both.

"THE POLLS indicate voters aren't going to be fooled by misleading representations. The truth is that they're flat-out tax increases with no guarantees," said Cruce.

He blistered the state departments of Education and Commerce for buying large ads in last Sunday's Detroit News, Lansing State Journal and Grand Rapids Press to say that "a tougher, different reading test" is being given to Michigan's fourth, seventh and 10th graders this year.

A frequent critic of Commerce Department spending, in particular, Cruce called the ad "a veiled effort to promote Proposals A and B."

The Detroit News ad alone cost $12.375, said Cruce — enough to buy textbooks at $10 apiece for an entire small high school of 1,030 students.

STATE CHAMBER vice president Rich Studiey said a poli of 800 registered voters conducted by Marketing Resource Group Inc. of Lansing from Sept. 8-18 showed:

• "Trouble" for Proposal A, a half-cent increase in the sales tax. Replies were 47 percent yes; 50 percent no and 3 percent didn't know.

• "Big trouble" for Proposal B, a 2-cents increase in the sales tax minus some school property tax relief: Replies were 40 percent yes, 56 percent no and 4 percent didn't know.

Results were correct within 3.5 percent with a 95 percent degree of confidence, Studley said.

Proposal B, supported mainly by outstate school districts, has little tinancial support.

But Proposal A, with the closer margin, will be supported by a $3 million campaign, with the state teachers union supplying half of.

"We are very concerned about the teacher union's blatant attempt to buy the election," Studley said.

BACKERS OF Proposal A this week will begin broadcasting $2 million worth of commercials in support of it.

"Proposal A is a tremendous investment in Michigan's future," said John Thodis, president of the Michigan Manufacuturers Association.

Backers will emphasize that $115 million of the new money will be tarpercent, Proposal B (a two-cent increase) by 16 percent according to a state Chamber of Commerce poll taken Sept. 8-18.

School finance Proposal A (a half-cent sales tax increase) trailed by 3

geted toward specific school improvements, such as preschool programs, dropout prevention, achieve-mentincentives and computers. But Cruce said Proposal A is tied. to five legislative bills that have yet to be passed by the state Senate.

Cruce said he would speak to audiences, write letters to editors and appear at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 1, on seven public television channels to argue against the proposals.

IN A SEPATATE news conference, Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, said lawmakers disagree on how to spend the $400 million in new money Proposal A would generate.

"There never was an agreement on those bills," said Engler, an opponent, like Cruce, of both ballot proposals.

"It's an exercise in futility to pass

Engler also criticized the Education-Commerce advertising on reading tests. "It's so subtle," he said. "They're trying to say they're doing something innovative."

But he acknowledged that Senate Republicans, with a 20-18 majority, are "split down the middle on B" though mainly opposed to Proposal

Archivist eager to discover pieces of area history

By C.L. Rugenstein staff writer

Schwartzburg and Newburgh? They old Livonia as the new. all were thriving communities that

Stewart recently gave some inwere absorbed into the city of Livo- sight to what became of these old them are today.

Livonia, for instance, was almost named Elm.

"At one point there seems to have been some controversy over the name," Stewart said, since Livonia Center and Elm Station were the two major settlements at the time.

LIVONIA Center grew up in the Farmington Road-Five Mile area of the civic center, while the Elm Station settlement was around Plymouth Road and Middlebelt.

Middlebelt Road used to be called Elm Road, Stewart said.

Elm Station was a stop on the old Pere Marquette railroad where it crossed Middlebelt between Schoolcraft and Plymouth, Stewart said.

The railroad inadvertently dropped a piece Michigan history at-Livonia's Norton Yard in the late Schwartzburg, Giltedge and Pikes Peak have all added their particular character to the city as well.

Schwartzburg was named for the Schwartz family, which had a sawmill at Ann Arbor Trail and Wayne Road in the 1820s, Stewart said.

And Giltedge's history is cheesy. The village was named for the cheese factory there in the early 1900s, bought by then Gov. Fred Warner of Farmington who owned several cheese factories in the area.

Pikes Reak, at the corner of Farmington and Joy Road, was begun in the 1850s by a prospector who'd been out to the Pikes Peak, Colo., gold rush, Stewart said.

One of his first jobs as an archivist was organizing the photo archives of Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

Now he's doing the same for the county parks department archives. He's become a specialist in the history of Wayne County communities like Newburgh Village, near the old Nankin Mill.

Newburgh Village, at Ann Arbor Trail and Newburgh Road, was such a "hopping place" in years past that the old Detroit Courier newspaper devoted a special weekly column just to Newburgh gossip. Steward said the old village blacksmith shop, meeting hall (where Civil War vets from the Grand Army of the Republic used to 3 meet) and Newburgh Village industry

STEWART IS working on a project that will mark several sites! with special significance for Henry ! Ford and Wayne County.

Called the Ford Heritage Trail. "It's going to feature Henry Ford historical sites in southeast Michigan, like the Bottsford Inn, and the Newburgh Village industrial mill.

It's a joint project, begun in September, between the Wayne County parks department and the Michigan Department of Transport, Stewart said. The first step, having the Nan-A kin Mills building listed in the state's register of historical buildings, has already been done.

Stewart said they hope to have signs and markers in place by Janu-

Response statewide to the Saunders package has been tremendous: Bernero said.

"From Petosky to Pontiac and from Detroit to Livonia, this is an issue that people are aware of and they want relief," he said. "People are already convinced that insurance rates are too high and some-

Galway's flute mastery remains uncontested

The second week of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall regular series featured a program of several dimensions. Mozart's music - the overture from the "Abduction from the Seraglio" and the Concerto for Flute and Orchestra in G Major, K 313/285b - constituted the established end of the musical spectrum. At the other end was seldom-performed Symphony No. 4 by Shosts-

Mozart's Flute Concerto in G Major, with appeal and attraction beyond any doubt, would still elicit just a modérate reaction under a routine performance. The soloist on this occasion, however, was capable of turning, ordinary passages into artis-

JAMES GALWAY, considered by many to be the uncontested master of this instrument, can combine art with showmanship. While he is successful in appealing to large segments of the population with popular music, his grasp of classical works is firm and penetrating.

---In-the-Mozart concerto, Galway provided more than a clean rendition of the familiar phrases. His refined rubato, frequently prolonging the first note of a group a trifle, and other subtle accents, resulted in a multitude of musical layers that one: doesn't normally associate with an instrument capable of producing just single notes.

The other side of Galway's colorful artistic personality emerged in the encore, in which he presented a popular Irish tune accompanied by the Symphony No. 4 by Shostakovich to be performed, after its publication in 1936. Maestro Gunther Herbig, who also performed it here a few years ago, is one of the few proponents of this long, complex work.

Stalin's ruthless repression of the arts, this symphony is one of the composer's most daring works. It is of monumental proportion and has a significance that merits its performance on a more regular basis.

Its appeal may not be universal several listeners were seen leaving between the movements, especially after the disproportionalely long opening movement. If much of the audience felt in the dark about this symphony, this must have been the case with many of the musicians, who were themselves.

The effect of the work's infrequent performance was noticeable, especially in the opening movement. In several-spots, the entrances were. fuzzy and the overall sense of balance and purpose was missing. Each instrument seemed to concentrate on its own notes, with little communication with other instruments. $

NOBODY CAN be expected to master everything that was ever written, and this applies even to the musicians of the DSOH, whose artistic competence is beyond question. >

Even so, the intense musical statement and the substantial musical content came through. Among the many challenging solo parts, the bassoon role of Robert Williams and the violin solos by concertmaster

Faust fights driver stops, joins suit against sheriff

staff writer

The battle over driver checkpoints is also a battle between two of Wayne County's best-known Demo-

Longtime state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland is suing Sheriff Robert Ficano over the checkpoints - used briefly last month in an Inkster neighborhood.

Faust lent his name to the suit, staff members said, because he believed they violated drivers' constitutional rights.

"We're aware of the frustration Sheriff Ficano feels," said Faust spokesman Ron DeCook. "But once. you begin to nibble away at constitutional rights, where do you stop?"

Gheckpoints' legality could be decided during an Oct. 23 hearing before Wayne County Circuit Judge James Rashid.

"We anticipated a legal challenge," Ficano said. "However, we are confident that the checkpoint issue will prevail on its merits.'

The sheriff has agreed to suspend checkpoints until a ruling is issued.

Faust and former Inkster Mayor Edward Bivens Jr. are challenging the checkpoint, though neither was stopped in the Inkster roadblock.

The American Civil Liberties' Union is representing both men in "THIS IS a mistaken law enforcement tool to deal with drugs," said state ACLU Executive Director Howard Simon.

One man stopped in the roadblock has-threatened to sue the sheriff's department:after-being detained forfive hours when a BB gun was found in his car.

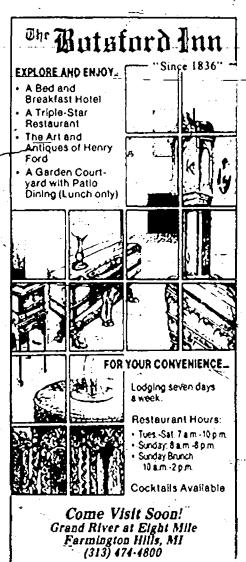

Checkpoints were established in response to traffic complaints, Ficano said, though the neighborhood contained an alleged crack house. Neighborhood residents said they believed traffic problems were linked to drug sales.

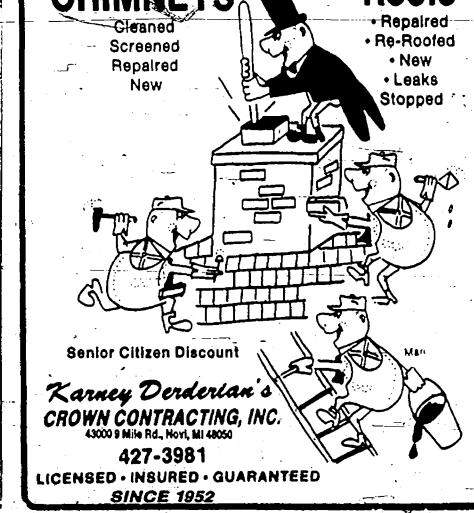

The sheriff said he believed the Inkster checkpoint followed guidelines established in a recent federal case in which the use of mandatory, ... non-random, driver checks were up-

House bill gives governor möre power over DNR

The state House of Representatives has passed and sent to the Senpower to appoint the director of the of Westland, John Bennett of Red-state Department of Natural Re- ford, Maxine Berman of Southfield, pointed by the Natural Resources of Hazel Park; Republican Gerald Commission since the department. Law of Plymouth. was formed at the turn of the century. No — Republica

The votes were 64-35 and 62-35. One bill strips the commission of the appointive power; the second gives it to the governor.

"I HAD MIXED feelings," said Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, who voted against both. -

"The environmentalists didn't want the change. But as a former charter commissioner in Wayne County, I wanted to give the executive that power."

"It's a mixed bag," agreed Rep. Judith Miller, R-Birmingham, who also voted no. "We need to have departments accessible to the public. There would be more direct access the director (appointed by the mmission).

"The governor is insulated from the people. And with the commission pointment, it's subject to the Open Meetings Act," Miller said.

HERE IS HOW Observer & Eccentric area lawmakers voted:

ate two bills giving the governor. Yes - Democrats Justine Barns William Keith of Garden City, James The DNR director has been ap- Kosteva of Canton and Wilfred Webb

> No - Republicans Bankes, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Miller, and Gordon Sparks of Troy.

Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, did not vote on final passage but had voted to report the bills out (yes) as a member of the House Conservation Commmittee.

THE BILLS were supported by Gov. James Blanchard, who reportedly used his political muscle to persuade the NRC to hire David Hales as director last year. Hales has an environmental background rather than the traditional hunting-fishing background.

They were opposed by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the Michigan chapter of the Wildlife Society.

Of the state's 19 departments, only four are headed by directors-appointed by commissions - Natrual Resources, Agriculture, Corrections. and Transportation.

Shelters full with unwanted pets

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Area pet adoption agencies call it a "good news/bad news" situation.

The good news: adoption rates at area shelters and veterinary hospitals exceed national averages.

The bad news: far more unwanted. animals are being born than can be adopted.

Despite annual campaigns, a spokeswoman from the local Michigan Humane Society shelter said too few pet owners have their animals spayed or neutered.___

"It (animal sterilization) hasn't been as successful as we would like," said Jackie Kunze, assistant manager of the Westland Kindness Center. 'We'd like to see the public become better-educated."

One recent survey indicated, only one in four dogs placed for adoptionwill actually be adopted or reclaimed by their owner. The survey was released as part of Adopt-a-Dog month, an annual campaign sponsored by Heinz Pet Products.

Area adoption figures exceed that average, Kunze said. Animals are destroyed, however, for lack of shelter space.

BY LAW, stray animals are kept

Kunze said, "it can vary depending upon the health and temperament of the animal."

The center charges a $30 fee for shots and worming and $25 for sterilzation. Dogs too young to be sterilized require a $25 deposit, refundable upon proof the animal was spayed or neutered.

Cat adoption fees are $40 for males; $50 for females.

One year ago, the center took in 15,096 animals and placed 2,727. One third of all dogs and nearly one of every five cats were placed, Kunze

Adult animals adopted through Michigan Humane society shelters have been sterilized.

'As far as what we're doing, I think it has made a difference in limiting the pet population," Kunze said. Last-month, the center placed 73... percent of all animals deemed "adoptable".

"There are some animals, that, because of health and temperament, cannot be adopted," she said. "There i are also those put to sleep at the request of the owner."

In contrast, the Southeastern Michigan Humane Society destroys no animals.

"It's our policy to find a home for at least four days. Beyond that, every animal," said executive director Karen Salswedel.

The organization is an affiliation of animal hospitals, including the Kershaw Animal Hospital, Livonia. Members said they occasionally transferred un-adopted animals to other member hospitals to increase their chances of adoption by allowing more people to look at them.

The organization placed 118 dogs last year.

Both associations are featured in Pets of the Week columns running in Observer newspapers.

Students opt for 'dry' dorms

Roughly 45 percent of freshmen dorm residents at Oakland University, 20 percent of dorm residents at Eastern Michigan University and an estimated 10 percent of freshmen at the University of Michigan indicated they wanted alcohol-free rooms or roommates.

ALTHOUGH THOSE figures can be interpreted differently, a state from West Bloomfield Township, say they convey a clear message.

"It's obvious students want to make a choice" and should have the opportunity, said state Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield.

Freshmen and, in some cases, upperclassmen got a chance to choose between roommates who use or tolerate alcohol and those who don't when they enrolled this fall at 12 state colleges and universities.

FOR MOST, it was the first time the schools offered students the opportunity to choose alcohol-free housing, although all schools previously asked incoming dorm residents if they wanted non-smoking roommates.

The schools offered dorm residents the choice after Honigman introduced legislation to require public and private colleges and universities to offer students a choice.

Honigman's bill wasn't enacted. McEwen.

But it had an effect.

"It's not necessarily a matter of being for or against alcohol (or drugs) on moral or ethical grounds. The absence of alcohol promotes anatmosphere of academic achievement."

Giving students the choice of an alcohol-free environment takes away peer pressure towards alcohol, said Lorna McEwen. McEwen is public relations director for the Maplegrove Centers, the West Bloomfield-based substance abuse treatment clinics affiliated with Henry Ford Hospital.

At Oakwood, high-tech procedures combat heart problems.

Cardiac catheterization, angioplasty, and open heart surgery help diagnose and treat heart disease.

Has the treatment of heart disease changed significantly in the past few years?

There has been tremendous progress in both the • diagnosis and treatment of heart problems. In the past 10 years, death and disability due to heart disease has dropped 30 percent in the United States. Among the most important advances are the use of catheterization for evalnating the health of the heart, angioplasty for treatment of many blockages, and open heart surgery for the more scrious blockages.

What is heart catheterization?

It is a diagnostic test used to visualize the coronary arteries and the heart. It allows the cardiologist to see if there are blockages in the arteries. The doctor can also tell if the heart is normal size or enlarged, if the pumping action of the heart is normal, and if the valves between the chambers of the heart are working properly.

Who undergoes a heart catheterization?

It is usually recommended for a person who is expe-A riencing chest pains which are not relieved by medication. It is also used if the person has had a heart attack. or if the doctor suspects significant heart disease.

• Where is the procedure performed?

A It is performed in Oakwood Hospital's Cardiac Cathelecterization Unit. The person remains awake during the catheterization, and only a local anesthesia is used. After the procedure, the person rests and then may go home the same day.

• How does the test work?

A During the catheterization, the person lies on a spe-cial table. A blood vessel in the groin is punctured with a needle by a heart specialist trained in this procodure. Through the needle a very thin tube estima a catheter is inserted. It travels through the vessel to the heart. Dye then is injected through the catheter. The doctor watches the progress of the dye on an X-ray camera. Pictures are taken as the dye moves through the heart.

• Once the oatheterization is done, what happens?

The information the test reveals is used to help the (1) cardiologist make a decision about treatment. Alternatives such as by pass surgery, medical therapy, and angioplasty may be better evaluated after a hear catheterization.

You mention angioplasty. What is that?

It is a procedure in which a catheter with a balloon • on the tip is inserted into the artery. At the site of a blockage, the balloon is inflated and the pressure flattens the blockage against the wall and allows the blood to flow freely.

What causes a blockage?

Most blockages in the arteries are caused by choics-• terol. It builds up plaque deposits on artery walls that may interfere with the flow of blood. The most common symptom of a blockage is chest pain.

• Where is angioplasty performed?

It is done in the Cardiac Catheterization Unit of ■ Oakwood Hospital. There the person is monitored constantly by Oakwood's expert cardiac teams. The person usually stays in the hospital for only a couple of days.

• What happens after angioplasty?

Most people return to their normal routines fairly • quickly, and they are usually free of chest pain.

In cases where angioplasty is not recommended.

what is the alternative?

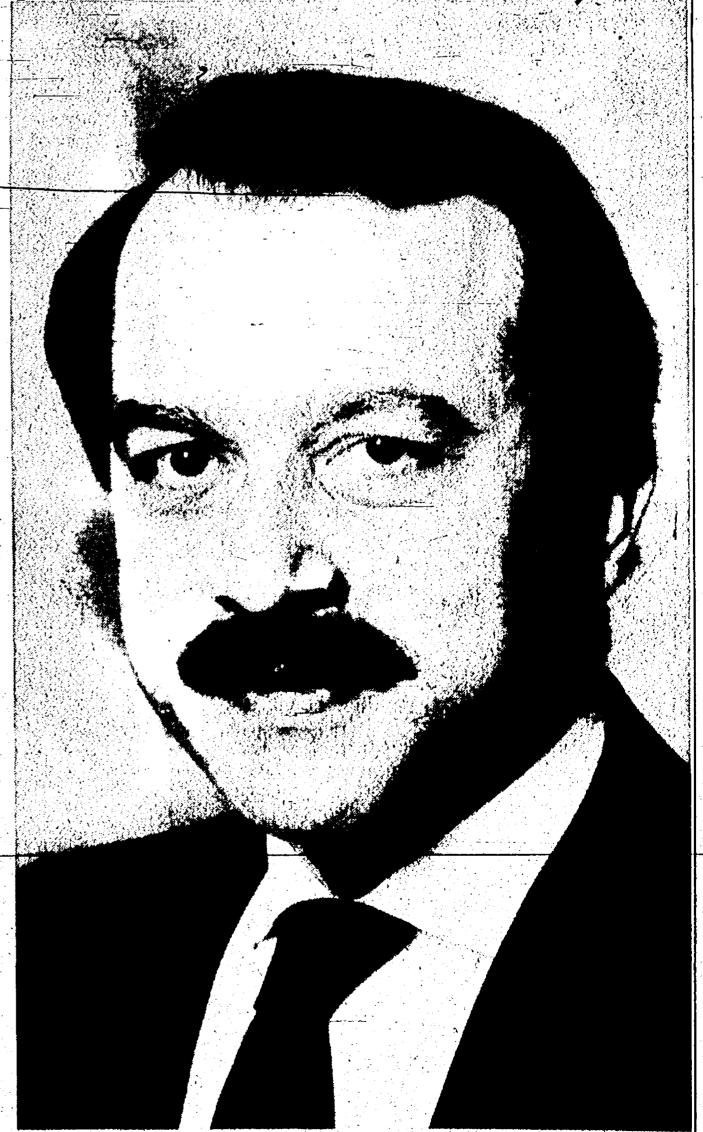

A By pass surgery may be the process the been significant three arteries are blocked, or if there has been significant the beat the bital has . By pass surgery may be the preferred treatment if. nificant injury to the heart itself. Oakwood Hospital has renowned cardiac surgeons who have performed hundreds of open heart surgerles.

Schools deserve high marks

AYNE-WESTLAND school board members and administrators should get a positive report card mark for planning a community education campaign this month to make sure residents understand the two state tax proposals on the Nov.

Both proposals will affect public schools generally and the Wayne-Westland district specifi-

While it's easy for school officials to approve routine resolutions supporting or opposing tax proposals, the Wayne-Westland district is to be commended for going beyond that to mount a real informational campaign.

Many school boards adopt resolutions and do

5 The Wayne-Westland board plans to approve the committee membership next Monday night and meet two days later to discuss strategy.

The board's action comes at a crucial-timewhen surveys indicate that most voters will vote against both proposals.

The school board and administration are painfully aware that the public opposes any major tax increase, but they realize that something has to be done about school finance reform, not only in the Wayne-Westland district but throughout the

The focus of the upcoming campaign locally will be to urge voters to support both tax issues, publicly referred to as Proposal A and Proposal

SUPERINTENDENT Dennis O'Neill has said that while neither proposal is a cure-all for school districts dependent on state aid, either one is better than the current system.

O'Neill and the board have long been critical of the system which reduces state support and increases the proportionate share of local taxes for schools as enrollments drop and property assessments increase.

Board members, past and present, have long

The Wayne-Westland school board and administration are on target in campaigning for both state tax proposals on the Nov. 7 ballot.

complained about the inequities of the current state aid formula which allows districts with a large industrial and commercial property tax base to spendmuch more money per student thandistricts like Wayne-Westland which have their state aid reduced when the local assessments are Both state proposals deal with increases in the state sales tax.

Proposal A would raise the tax to 4½ percent from 4 percent. The money raised would generate about $400 million a year for K-12 schools.

Proposal B is more complicated in that while the sales tax would be boosted to 6 percent, the additional-school aid revenues would be $350 million. But Westland homeowners would benefit from a substantial cut in local school property

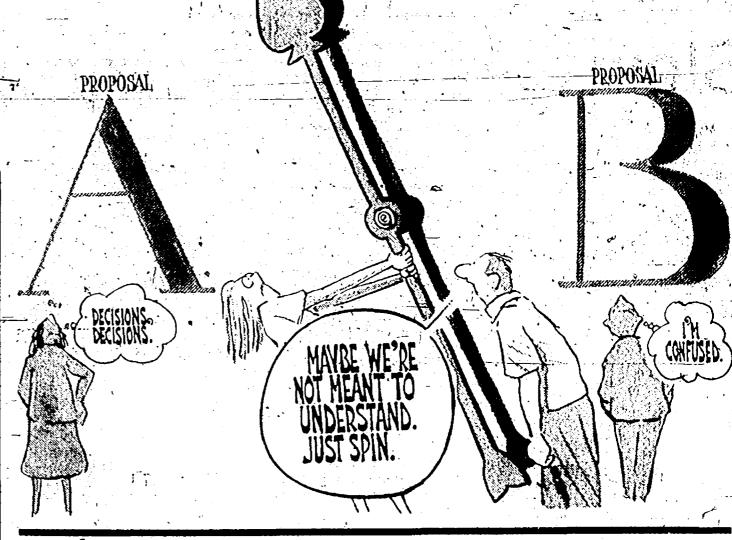

If both proposals are approved, the one with the most votes would be implemented.

The bottom line was accurately summed up by board trustee Kathleen Chorbagian last week.

"We cannot continue after this year without some type of change" in public school funding. While Proposal B meets the needs of this district and the (Wayne County) intermediate district, if neither passes, it would be an absolute disaster.

Without favoring one proposal over the other, local school officials are hoping that the voters will get the message by Nov. 7 that something has to be done about school finance.

The current system, which we don't think is equitable, penalizes local students.

State Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, is once again proposing legislation so that MSU and all Michigan private colleges and universities also offer that option and those that already do maintain

But the truth is, the numbers alone confirm that's what students want. All along it has been a students' rights issue - right up there with the right to request a non-smoking roommate - in place for some time,

Dope raids

Police cooperation a good sign

FOW THAT'S more like it! Give us more crackdowns and forget those traffic

That was our thinking upon hearing the good news that more than 400 officers from 17 local, state and federal agencies in the metropolitan area conducted a coordinated narcotics crackdown late last month.

If published reports are to be believed, more than 100 were arrested and $150,000, 65 weapons and eight vehicles were confiscated, along with a goodly amount of crack cocaine, heroin, marijuana and other dangerous narcotics,

Most of the raids were in Detroit, but several took place in others parts of Wayne County and in Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Monroe

That's not too bad for an early dust-up on the Detroit front of the much-ballyhooed war on

Of course, the money and dope taken in this so-called Operation Crackdown is truly a tiny amount compared to what's really out there. Many of those arrested were out on bail in short order. Such is the nature of our revolving-door criminal justice system.

Unfortunately, it was business as usual once the police were gone in many of the raided areas.

OVERALL, the whole operation had tinges of a public relations ploy designed to let John and Jane Q. Public know (through friendly newspaper and TV reports) that the good guys aren't doing nothing about dope (and dopers) that plague their Still, there was something positive in those raids. In a rare spirt of cooperation, many different police agencies worked together and took the fight to the dopers, where it belongs.

How often do we see members of such diverse law enforcement agencies as the Drug Enforcement Administration; the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms; the Secret Service; the State Police and the Wayne and Macomb County sheriff's departments work together on a project? If police have been sharing intelligence and manpower in the recent past, we sure haven't noticed it. But it's going to have to happen a lot in the future if we're going to win even a battle, let alone the war, on drugs.

We hope the cop cooperation in Operation Crackdown continues - maybe without such a public relations flourish — in the weeks and months to come.

We hope the cop cooperation in Operation Crackdown continues - maybe without such a public relations flourish - in the weeks and months to come.

How much better it is to fight the drug war that way than by Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano's silly traffic checkpoints, truly an unacceptable battle tactic.

REMEMBER the checkpoints ... Ficano's plan to stop every vehicle at a certain point in an attempt to drive traffic away from suspected crack houses? The checkpoints have been suspended pending a court hearing later this month.

To our knowledge and as of this writing, only one checkpoint had been staged in metropolitan Detroit. It was held in Inkster in Wayne County almost three weeks ago and it netted very little dope, according to accounts. Of dubious legality for starters, traffic checkpoints are a waste of police manpower and equipment. Local officers, who certainly would be required to man the checkpoints, have better things to do with their time.

The latest checkpoint scheme was the proverbial bad penny returning. Three years ago, checkpoints were proposed to rid Michigan's highways of drunk drivers. The idea has since Been declared illegal.

Besides, dopers certainly aren't going to wait in a line of cars for 10 or 15 minutes at some checkpoint for a sheriff's deputy to check them out. If they have any dope, they're going to ditch. it or hide it.

But if the authorities from the many law-enforcement agencies continue to cooperate the way they did during the recent weekend's raids well, maybe there is just the slightest glimmer of hope in these dark early days of the war on drugs.

Editorial stand Cartoon commended

To the editor:

I wish to commend the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers for their clear, tough stand regarding drunk driving (Sept. 7). Your observation is certainly correct that the problem of drinking and driving is no longer so-cially acceptable and now has a serious stigma attached to it.

Such a change in public perception is a necessary step in order to mobilize the community to deal with this terrible menace on our roads. Drunk driving is a deadly crime.

As you advocate, certainty of pun-ishment, especially on a first offense as well as elimination of plea bargaining, would further establish the seriousness of this crime and hopefully provide a deterrent effect.

One of the education steps the Wayne County Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) Chapter is involved in has been the participation of some of our members on a victim impact panel. Such a panel describes to drunk drivers enrolled in a treatment program the human toll and agony caused by a drunk driving crash. Anyone hearing the heart-wrenching descriptions of families' grief would know that efforts must continue unabated to reduce this crime.

lacks class

The Sept. 25 cartoon by Karlos Barney shows a little boy asking his dad if a woman's legs were "faux marble." The artist has a grossly insensitive warped sense of humor. It is in fact sick and totally implausible since a 5 or 6 year old boy would not even know what faux marble is.

Barney apparently—thinks birth marks, scars, obesity and other physical problems or disfigurements are also hilarious. Unfortunate overweight women plagued with varicose veins would not wear mini skirts and I doubt will have much respect for the mentality of those at your newspaper who would let that cartoon be printed.

Even the cartoons in the Enquirer have a lot more class than the Warp. Opinions are

Our problem that continues to hinder progress in this important area is the general lack of understanding of many people with gards to solid waste issues.

Slow class is a worry

Q: My son is a ninth grade student and has been placed in a slower paced math class. I know he is not the best student in the school but I worry about him falling further behind in this class. My question is, "Does a slower paced math class serve a better purpose for my son than a regular math class?"

What you are referring to is typically called a remedial math class in what is called a "tracking system;" a system that divides students into high, average and low ability of low performance levels, each level with its own-curriculum. Those in the remedial classes are young adults who may have ability but for many reasons are experiencing a problem mastering basic academic skills.

From my experience, students in these classes tend to be either underachlevers, unmotivated or undisciplined toward studying at this time in life. Sometimes acting out or blurting out, sometimes very shy and withdrawn behaviors are by-products of a remedial class.

You ask, "Does a remedial, homogeneous class (a class with students who have similar grades and test scores) serve a better purpose than a heterogeneous class (a class setting with students of mixed abilities and grades)?" Depends on who you talk to and what research you believe.

Recent research is quite interesting regarding the remedial, underachieving or sometimes called at-risk student class settings.

John Peterson, Ph.D, of Brigham Young University stated that a number of experts who studied the education of remedial students found that when given an opportunity in a more mixed, heterogeneous class, remedial students test-scores-improved. That there was a tendency to teach underachieving students at a slower pace that can put them even further behind their classmates. That when the low achievers were grouped with other low achieving students they knew they were the remedial and their modest work effort became a sort of self-fulfilling prophecy. Tracking or putting low achieving students together also showed that student self-esteem, which was anticipated would improve by doing school work they could handle, did not improve.

Keep in mind, many of these students have low self-esteem to start with. Compounding the issue is the fact that teaching remedial classes can be very draining and frustrating on the teacher. In some cases, the newer less experienced teachers get, the remedial classes to "pay their"

My experience says that some low achievers can function in an average level class but most of these students would be lost in an accelerated or honors level class. A major factor, from my view, depends on how many low achievers are mixed into a regular class. In a class setting where the majority of students are disciplined to study, who are average or above average students, the below average student sometimes benefit from having positive peer role models with which to identify.

In a mixed abilities class the nature of instruction plays a key role. Allowing the better students to tutor the lower ability students in what is today called cooperative learning is a great asset.

The red brick school with grades K-12 in one room, where the brighter students tutored both the younger and slower students, used Cooperative Learning long before this latest educational term was coined. Frankly, I used the method during my teaching days simply because it worked.

Another major variable for the low achiever's success is the expectation of the teacher. High expectations, a belief system children can learn up to and beyond their capacity can have a major impact on many students remedial or otherwise.

As I look back on a remedial math class I taught, I had - probably 21 in the class — four became quite successful businessmen (one has a major trash pick-up business), one is a construction worker, another a truck driver, a couple of the girls are now homemakers, some are clerk

In your case, from what you have said, your son is the classic underachiever. Many factors enter Into underachievement. Some who were underachievers in high school are leaders today; some are still not achleving. Don't give up hope, many grow out of this pattern after high school.

You may wish to buy the book "The Underachievement Syndrome" by Sylvia B. Rimm, Ph.D., which will give you some real insights in factors that generate student underachievement.

Spelling is important

YOU'VE PROBABLY read about it by now.

The latest fad moving through first grade classrooms in the area is something called "invented spelling." The idea is that by not forcing youngsters to spell correctly, their creative juices will flow and they'll be able to express themselves freely.

So they come home with big smiles on their-faces and present you with stories they have written containing words like "aml," "jus" and 'рру.''

One Birmingham mother said she was a little confused the first time she got a look at one of her daughter's papers filled with misspelled words. But then, she said, "I look at this child with a big grin on her face and she knows what she wrote, and I share her sense of accomplishment."

Well, I dunno. I have a first grader in the Plymouth Canton district and she is doing some of the same stuff. She knows what she wrote, too, but if nobody else can figure it out, what's the point?

Still I can't get too worked up over this current craze, because it's just another attempt by the education revisionists to fix something that wasn't really broken in the first place. This fad, too, will pass.

WHAT DOES bother me, however, are some of the comments that I am hearing from teachers defending the practice. From a first grade teacher In Bloomfield Hills: "When they're *ready to spell correctly, they'll do it. You can't force them."

Oh, yeah? As a copy editor and college journalism professor for the past, 25 'years, I've probably seen more "invented spellings" than all the first graders in the metropolitan Detroit area could possibly come up

And they've been "invented" by college students and professional journalists. Maybe they just aren't ready to spell correctly.

And from the principal of a Catholic school in Detroit: "Talk about putting pressure on children and (making) them dislike school, making them hesitant to express theirthoughts . . . that's not fair." -

Oh, come on. Life's not fair. But teaching first graders that cat isn't spelled with a "k" or that there's no "z" in juice isn't quite mental cruelty. There is an element of common sense involved.

I don't want my daughter flunking the first grade because she can't spell oligarchy or misanthrope or can't remember if there are one or two m's in-accommodate. But I do want her to understand that if what she writes is unintelligible to others. then there's no point to the writing.

Proper spelling can be learned, IF it is taught. That's the key.

Teaching is a marvelous profession. Yet - despite what the detractors maintain - if it is taken seriously and pursued with dedication, it is hard work.

And therein, I suspect, lies at least a part of the reason for this current trend toward "invented spelling." It is easier not to teach children proper spelling than it is to teach it. And when you get notes from your children's teachers containing misspelled words — when you visit the classrooms and find signs on the walls with misspelled words - it does make you wonder.

Maybe they, too, are not yet ready to spell correctly.

Clinic offers aid for sexual problems

By Carolyn DeMarco staff writer

HE LOW-KEYED sign on the door of suite 115, 31500 Northwestern Highway. gives no clue to the type of medicine practiced inside. It reads simply "Henry Ford Hospital Specialty Clinic."

Frankly speaking, the specialization is sex. Patients of the specialty clinic, more accurately called the Center for Human Sexuality, are people from their 20s to 80s with problems - psychological or physical - which prevent them from having a fully enjoyable sex life.

The sexuality clinic, for 31/2 years headquartered in Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, moved to its expanded quarters in the quiet, tastefully decorated Brookfield Building in February. It is headed by Dennis Sugrue, who holds a doctorate in psychology.

"We believe the most effective approach is through multi-disciplines physical and psychological, rather than referring the patient from specialist to specialist," Sugrue

At the clinic the patient is evaluated and treated by a team consisting of a psychiatrist, psychologist and urologist or gynecologist. HFH physicians from other specialties are consulted as needed. The clinic may be unique in that on-staff, team approach, Sugrue said. Patients are often referred by other physicians, evaluated and sent back to their personal physician for follow up.

INITIALLY, each referral is sent a screening packet and questionnaire which they complete and return before ever seeing the health team. In it are questions regarding health history and sexual functioning.

On the chance that the problem is physical, an appointment with the appropriate physician is arranged.

"We make use of the Henry Ford Hospital network," Sugrue said. Patients are sent, when indicated, to other HFH units for diagnostic studies — blood work, sleep study, or vascular examination, for instance.

Severe diabetes, vascular disease, certain medications, smoking or alcohol abuse can have adverse effect on sexual ability.

Once the evaluation is done, the team comes up with a treatment plan. If the evaluation uncovers a medical cause, treatment options may include changes in prescribed medicine, vascular surgery to correct impediments in blood flow, implantation of a penile prosthesis, hormonal therapy or corrective surgery for anatomical irregularities.

If the sexual problem is caused by a mental block, loss of confidence, stress or marital problems, psychological counseling is indicated. Counseling is offered at the Northwestern Highway offices.

"The real emphasis today is on brief (psychological) treatment, six months as compared to the old, sixyear, Woody Allen-type therapy," Sugrue said.

Patients are treated as a unit with their spouses or mates. "We try-tode-emphasize the individual," he said, "and see it as a problem the couple has rather than stigmatizing one spouse. It's true that when there is sexual dysfunction both suffer the results."

Typical cases, Sugrue said, include a couple in their 20s unable to consummate a marriage, a middle-aged couple unprepared for the natural changes of their bodies and senior citizens who may be physically but not mentally resigned for the end of active sex.

Sugrue cited an actual case of a young couple, married 31/2 years, unable to have intercourse because of the wife's vaginismus - involuntary contraction of the vaginal muscles, non-physical in origin, which pre-

COUNSELING, including education, was begun. "They were rather naive, as many of us are," Sugrue said. "They were gradually growing apart. There was less and less physical contact, even touching, which they perceived would lead to more frustration. We tried to rekindle an interest. . ." _____

Sugrue said the involuntary contractions blocking intercourse can be the result of a traumatic first pelvic exam, a rape, fear instilled by an older sister's stories, or pain in the first attempt at penetration.

"Sometimes you can't pinpoint any reason; fortunately we don't need to know how it was caused to cure it."

In this woman's case, the team prescribed, in addition to counseling, progressively larger manual dilators combined with relaxation techniques for 10-12 sessions working up to penile penetration by the husband.

"After 10 weeks they consummated the marriage," Sugrue said.

The clinic sees a large number of men in their forties and fifties who "notice normal, natural changes but are not prepared. They may not achieve erection as easily or become as rigid. They're fearful. They think, 'I'm losing it. I'm impotent.' They focus on sexual performance and psych themselves out . . . They begin to pull back physically and emo-

Sugrue said the wife may begin to suspect he must be having an affair, he no longer finds her attractive or he's getting ready to bail out of the

"Some women become angry. Or they start reading books, or buy a negligee. That becomes hard on the guy. She's suddenly the one initiating sex. A lot could have been avoided if they understand the normal sexual changes."

Why are they unaware of the inevitable, we asked.

"WHO TELLS you? Physicians don't tell you. That's not the news you get from movies and books. You're not going to hear it in the locker room. All that is coupled with the male mystique that he's always ready for sex and can become erect on demand."

Therapy in this case calls for reintroducing physical intimacy in a non-threatening way and learning that "intercourse and love-making are not synonymous," Sugrue said.

Fifty percent of the clinic's patients are over 50 and most of that group male. With each decade that passes, the percentage of erection problems grows, Sugrue said.

The biggest problem for older spouses is combating the myth that VEN YUPPIES — or maybe especially Yuppies because of their stressful, goal-oriented lives - can experience a lack of sexual desire, said psychologist Katherine Mill.

Mill is the newest member of the Center for Human Sexuality, specializing in women's sexual dysfunction. including victims of sexual trauma - rape and incest. With center director Dennis Sugrue, she talked about lack of sexual desire in gener-

There are three categories of diminished sexual desire, Miller and Sugrue explained. The first, lifelong inhibited sexual desire or hypo-activé sexual disorder is an individual problem.

In the second category, the couple may experience strong desire during courtship, become engaged or married and suddenly for one of the parties, the desire is gone, again an individual problem.

In the third instance, a normal relationship suddenly changes, and one

Inhibited sexual desire may often be a spin-off of other problems in the relationship that dampen sexual interest, or may be the cause of other problems, Sugrue said.

"Which comes first, the chicken or the egg?" he said.

For yuppies, Mill said, the problem may be career related.

They are not finding time for each other. They don't make sex a priority. -Katherine Mill walks, sharing other activities, so that they can come to a middle ground, Mill said. "They can learn how to say (or hear) 'no' without it being a total rejection of the person."

Segrue said better understanding of the differences in physiology of men and women is a key.

A man is more visually oriented." he said. "If he sees his wife undress, it arouses sexual desire. He can't stand the thought that that it isn't the same for her."

The birth of the first child may change the dynamics, Mill said. "The pressures of adapting and dealing with the new roles create mixed messages about how sexuality and parenthood fit together," she said, "They're thinking, if they are not ready for another child is this OK to enjoy sex. It creates strains and pressures.

"IT'S NOT uncommon," Sugrue sald, "for a couple to get married, and have a satisfying sexual life. The baby comes and they're thrilled, but suddenly the husband's nose is out of joint. He's not getting the mothering. Or he goes to bed and feels amorous and he's told, 'go to sleep.' ...

Especially in dual career families, she's too tired, Sugrue sald, and that creates resentment.

"It's really a tri-career family," he said.

The wife still takes the majority of responsibility in the home and child-raising roles, he said.

"The '80s man is liberated," open-minded, but the '80s-type guy becomes an 1880s guy when push comes to shove.. . . He expects she's always ready to put a negligee on."

By the time they get to us, it's evolved to the point of conflict in general," Mill said. "Most couples have very little insight into their own problems. They do not have a good sense of unraveling what was happening and the sequence sex is for the young, he said. "If the patient has the courage to bring it up to his physician, it's not unheard of for the physician to say, 'Why are you worried? You've had your kids or you've had your fun. .

'If they do get to the point of referral here, the first step here is permission-giving, telling them that whether they're 25 or 75, physical intimacy is important to them and their partner. There's no rule that sex is exclusive to youngsters. The frequency may lessen. There may be a decline in interest, but if the interest disappears, it's not natural."

With older men it often is an erectile problem, often physical, sometimes major and sometimes irreversible. For some the answer is implant surgery, chemical injections or other intervention. Others may be comfortable with love-making short of erections, he said.

Sugrue_said a Masters and Johnson report estimates 50 percent of all married couples have sexual problems, but only a small portion seek help. Embarrassment is the biggest problem. Fear of the vague term "sexual therapy" could be another.

"Once they get in the door, we dispel the fantasies," he said. "This is not group therapy, the California school where you take off all your clothes and emote. People come from a wide variety of religious backgrounds. We Pervasive throughout her handwriting is a strong element of control. Rarely is our writer spontaneous. She has been programmed to engage in "proper behavior." Her nature is sensitive.

Decisions are usually predicated on how they will affect her personally, and are arrived at with care and caution. She is not given to impulsiveness and can become upset when carefully laid plans are disrupted.

This is a rather private person. Reserve and secrecy are here. Few people know the real person beneath the persona.

Others see her as quite an independent person. However, she appears to experience ambivalence in this area. When this happens she would like to retreat to someone from the past for emotional support.

THE WRITER seeks perfection in all things. System and order are necessary for her to feel comfortable. Everything has a place and must be in the assigned place.

It is difficult for her to feel totally relaxed because she can usually find something that isn't perfect. This quest for perfection may be curtail-

Dentists try out 'simple' solution for whitening teeth

By Sue Mason staff writer

Do you know the Pepsodent tooth-

If you're a product of early television, you do. It was short and to the point: "You'll wonder where the yellow went, when you brush your teeth with Persodent."

spending plenty on money on more than just toothpaste to get rid of stained and yellowed teeth. They've tried caps, bonding, veneers and what not to have white teeth, none of which come cheaply.

Now, one pharmaceutical manufacturer claims it has the "simple" solution to an age-old quest — the "White & Brite" system.

Omni International began marketing its "White & Brite" system to dentists throughout the country four months ago and, if it lives up to its claims, it could well be the start of dental revolution.

The "White & Brite" system has been on the drawing boards for 14 years and uses raw perhydrol urea, a substance approved by the Federal Drug Administration more than 20 years ago for treatment of oral lesions, such as canker sores.

"What doctors realized was that when they treated lesions in the mouth with perhydrol urea, the teeth near the lesions were being whitened," said Roland Verdun of Omni Products. "And what we have is three medications being applied by a professional that causes a permanent change in the color of the "WHITE & BRITE" is a cosmetic procedure like crowns or caps, bonding and veneers, but less costly. Caps or crowns can cost_$400 per tooth, bonding around-$110-per tooth and veneers $200 per tooth. "White & Brite" costs between $300 and $700 for the entire mouth.

'White & Brite" involves three procedures: daily applications (about every two hours) of the raw perhydrol urea solution, brushing with a flouride toothpaste and using a flouride rinse.

Dr. Robert Vernier of the Michigan Denture Center in Redford Township was one of 350 dentists in the Detroit area who expressed an For years, people have been interest in "White & Brite" when the marketing push began four months ago. He's interested, but "cautious" about the product.

""Everybody's saliva is different and the results will be different, so that's why we're cautious," Vernier

But he does see "White & Brite" as a less costly answer to a question denture wearers have posed to him over the years.

"Ninty-five percent of my patients are denture wearers and with partials, they always want the lighter color," he said. "And then they want to lighten up their remaining teeth. "Some people wish they had morehair, some people wish they had white teeth.'

Venier and his son Larry, also-adentist, have tried out the system on themselves and interested family members. The end result, they found, was just what Omni claims whiter teeth.

THE SYSTEM is simplistic in nature. The dentist makes an impres-after the teeth are cleaned and besion of the patient's teeth (usually fore the stent is re-inserted.

only one set — the upper or lower is done at a time). From that impression, a colorless mold or stent is

The stent slips easily over the teeth and serves as the reservoir for the perhydrol urea solution.

The "White & Brite" liquid is placed in the stent and the patient wears it for about two hours before replenishing if. The stent is removed when the patient eats.

The flouride toothpaste is used only in the morning along with dental floss. During the day, patients need only use water to brush their teeth after eating.

The mouthwash is used at bedtime

The flouride products, which are Ph-balanced to compliment the "White & Brite" solution, are used to "remineralize the teeth and keep the gums healthy," Verden said.

The process takes about three weeks and with proper maintenance; is permanent. And if discoloration does occur, "it generally can be polished off by a dentist or the patient can use more of the White & Brite," Verden said.

While "White & Brite" can reverse the discoloring caused by decalcification, coffee and tea stains, abnormal dark yellowing of teeth and Tertacycline blotched or translucent teeth, it won't change the color of crowns. That can be accomplished by having new lighter-colored.

crowns made, Verden said.

"WE'VE MADE this real simple for the dentist because it requires patient involvement," Verden said. "It's something they do, guided by a professional and using three different medications."

Because the product is so new to the metropolitan area, Vernier is screening patients to use it. If the results live up to Omni's claims, he plans on making it available to all of his patients.

"Dentists are a very—cautious breed," he said, "but the wonder of this is that people 60, 70 or 80 can have white teeth. People 8 to 80 cap be treated with it."

Schools offer day care for employees' children

Two Oakland County school districts - Birmingham and Troy have been providing day care facilities for their employees' children for the past several years.

Both school districts have found the programs to be self contained. They are run only during the school year, on school property. Thus, they experienced no increases in insurance costs and do not pay for space.

Rates are competitive with other centers, thereby providing the necessary funding for personnel and equipment.

Birmingham Public Schools has been running its Wee Care program since 1985.

According to director Julie Missel, the center was established through the efforts of a group of employees. who, together with the Community Education Department and a consultant, investigated the possibilities for employer-sponsored child care.

Within several months, they succeeded in establishing a center.

"ORIGINALLY, the program was open to infants, but it was later expanded to include toddlers," said

The child-care center is held in two rooms at the Berkshire Middle School, one room for infants aged i two weeks to 2 1/2 years and one for toddlers up to age five.

"Our center cares for 12 infants and up to 18 toddiers," said Missel.

Missel admits that there is, and has been for some time, a waiting list for the infant rooms "We even have some unborn children on the list," said Missel.

However, due to space limitations and the staffing ratios required for infants (one caregiver per four infants), she doesn't forsee expansion in this area in the immediate future. The center's toddler room still has available openings.

MISSEL IS PROUD of the Wee

Care program. In addition to being accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, they recently received an award from the 1989 Michigan Child Care Challenge for providing highquality child care withing their dis-

The Troy School District's TOTS (Tots of Troy Schools) programs is entering its fourth year. "Our program is held in a kindergarten class at the Morse Elementary School," said community education coordinator Deborah Shepherd.

The Troy program is not licensed for infants, but does care for toddlers between the ages of 2 1/2 and five. They are licensed for up to 21 children.

Due to space limitations within the district, infant care isn't possible in the immediate future.

"Every available space in the district is aiready being used," said Shepherd.

SHEPHERD IS also proud of Troy's commitment to quality child care. "You won't find minimumwage employees in our program," he said. "Our rates are competitive with other centers, because the staff is paid the same as adult education teachers."

Other childcare programs sponsored by the Troy School District include The Care Company - school aged child care before and after school for some 500 children - and a full day program for school aged children during the summer.

A future column will feature neighborhood babysitting co-ops. If you have information on this L topic that you'd like to share, please write to Marcie Walker in care of the Observer and Eccentric 305 E. Maple Birmingham.

Faith helped her through tough times

Faith has been a tremendous help as Christine Helewski of Plymouth has recovered from a devastating 1984 auto accident.

By Louise Okrulsky staff writer...

Three times, doctors pronounced Christine Helewski dead. Now, she sees her life as a miracle.

- "I believe in miracles," Helewski of Plymouth said. "My husband does, too. The doctors thought my husband was crazy because he believed I was going to live."

Her life wasn't retrieved without reasons, she says. "I really believe God had a reason for letting me live." Her experiences compel her to become an inspirational speaker. She's written a book on her experience, 'A Thread of Life. A Message

'My sense tells me that's the way. to go. My work was in the ministry before. I was a school principal and I was on pastoral staffs. But now I'm in it on a different level," she sald.

Before the auto accident which injured Helewski and her husband, Stanley, on Oct. 20,4 1984, they worked at a Catholic parochial school in Detroit. She was the school principal.

THE school retired her while she remained in the intensive care unit. She admits she would be unable to return to full-time employment. "I'm not able to exert the physical energy I did. I worked between 12-14 hours a day. I have to pace myself," she said.

Slowly, Helewski accomplishes some of the tasks that doctors who treated her at Saginaw General Hospital thought she'd never again per-

The traffic accident occurred on trip to northern Michigan where the Helewskis celebrated their 33rd anniversary. Helewski, who drove that day, was left with an open head injury, internal injuries, internal bleeding, a collapsed lung, crushed right leg and crossed eyes. Her husband suffered fractured ribs and internal She's convinced their encourageinjuries. Emergency room physiclans at St. Mary's Hospital, in northern Michigan, treated him first.,

Doctors there pronounced her dead. When they realized she was alive, they estimated she'd linger for a few more hours. Instead she survived and underwent survery to remove one of her kidneys.

WHEN her remaining kidney refused to compensate for the missing one, Helewski was transferred to Saginaw General Hospital. Doctors there pronounced her dead on two different occasions.

She remained in a coma for three months. That, too, was a blessing. She doesn't remember anything about most of the 11 operations she endured.

Through it all, she credits her family's prayers and her husband's unswerving belief she'd make it. They'd met while playing on a church bowling league in 1949 on the east side of Detroit. Throughout her eight-month hospital stay he remained convinced she'd live even though doctors gave him little hope. While she remained in a coma, he had her wedding and engagement rings reset as a surprise.

Emerging from the coma, she tolerated a tracheotomy and the surgery to implant a pacemaker.

When she was transfered to Southfield Rehabilitation Center four months after her accident, the staff at Saginaw General's intensive care unit threw her a going away celebration. It was a bittersweet moment. The staff had seen her through her initial recovery and adjustment. And it bolstered her spirits when she discovered her employer had retired her while she'd remained in a coma.

HER MAINSTAY had been her attentive husband and family who stayed with her and spoke to her while she had remained in a coma.

ment at that time belped her emerge from her three month sleep. Most of all she credits ber religlous, faith with sustaining her through the ordeal. "I was always acro church-going Christlan. But I really never felt the presence of the Lord L feel now," she said. "I was brought up to be very religlous, I've found a spirituality beyond religion, that goes deeper than relig-

After her accident, she hestitated to return to church in a wheelchair. "But my husband went to St. John Neumann and he took me. It's a huge church. It's a loving place.". Her task now revolves around helping others to feel close to God. "I enjoy spreading the news of my recovery and the love my family has for me."

Trained as a public speaker, she had been a lector at St. John Neumann Catholic Church. "After the tracheotomy, I thought I'd never be able to do it again." In therapy, she learned to project her voice. "Now, I just love to speak."

It took her a long time to attempt to drive a car again. "I made a bargain with God. If I could drive, I would teach," she said. One day, while waiting for her husband to feturn to the car, she slid behind the steering wheel. She turned the ignition and drove the car for a short distance. 'I started to cry. I cried the whole time," she said.

Keeping her bargain with God, she teaches cathecism at St. John News mann Church. "I teach seventh grade. Those are my favorite kids Ididn't know how kids would accept. me. I hadn't taught in the suburbs before," she said.

She used a cane when she started teaching the class. The day she walked into the class without the cane, her students applauded.

"I'm a messenger. With God, all things are possible," she said.

NEW RECTOR

The vestry and members of St. Andrew Episcopal Church in Livonia announce the installation of the Rev. Robert Clapp as rector at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 8. The Rt. Rev. H. Irving Mayson, Suffragan Bishop of Michigan, will conduct the service. Bill Hickinbotham, lay evangelist in the Episcopal Church, will be the guest preacher. A reception will follow the service in the Newton Cen-

Clapp comes to Livonia after serving the past six years as rector of St. Peter Church in Sitka, Alaska, The only major obstacles he had coming to Livonia were moving his furniture and family off the island and across the country, and getting used to the climatic changes.

He is originally from California, and began his career by earning a bachelor's degree in economics from California State University at Los Angeles in 1963. He earned a master's degree in public administration from the University of Southern California in 1974, and graduated from the the Seminary in 1979.

While working on his various degrees, he worked as a lieutenant in the Los Angeles County Sheriff's De-

It is time to rid ourselves of this symbol. It was put into effect in 1979 and again in 1982 as a kind of symbolic gesture of toughness toward the Russlans. It is not a practical plan. If there were a war, so many reservists and new recruits would have to be trained that there would be no room for all of the men registered. EACH PERSON would have to be MET's big advantages, proponents say, are guaranteed tuition, a wideranging choice of which college to attend and state tax deductions now for parental purchasers.

But some financial advisers who recommend that parents save for their childrens' college education don't believe that the MET is the best-investment-vehicle.

Richard A. Ferri 'dollar-cost averaging'

Ferri said of the dollar-cost-averaging strategy.

The Capital Growth Fund, in existence only 21/2 years, is a mirror of the MFS Capital Development Fund, turn of 17.6 percent over the last 10 years, Ferri said.

Current major holdings of both funds are Ford Motor Co., ITT and Apple Computer, Ferri said.

"We think the market is going to grow an average of 12½ percent a year. If the market grows at 12½ percent, a good, quality mutual fund also should grow at 121/2 percent," he said.

The initial $7,800 investment. would grow to about $65,000 less

They point out that MET advertises that it will guarantee only tultion, and full tuition, at that, only at public universities and colleges in Michigan.

PARENTS COULD come up short if their children chose a private college, an out-of-state university or elected not to pursue college at all.

Richard Ferri, a stockbroker, pointed out that four years of college at the University of Michigan would cost nearly-$41,000 18 to 22 years from now based on current rates and annual inflation increases of 7 per-

He has developed a plan using-mutual funds, which he believes offers a better financial return than MET.

"Forget the MET," Ferri said. "I figured at best MET would give a 7 percent return."

Cynthia Boesler, a certified financial planner, doesn't like the idea that parents give up decision-making power and access to their money for a tuition guarantee.

"Everything I've come up with (investment alternatives) keeps parents in control," she said.

"I think people would be wellserved not to put all their eggs into that one (MET) basket," said Gary Morrison, a bank trust officer.

"TO PUT everything you've got into that and say the state of Michigan will take care of my child's educational needs in 2020, I'm not comfortable with that," he said.

Peter Smith, a banker and certified financial planner, suggested that if parents go it alone, "they should go in as early as they can with as much as they can" to take advantage of compounding interest.

"People should keep it as simple as they can," Smith said, the better to-track-the investment.

Ferri, Boesler, Morrison and Smith all agreed to put together two sample college fund portfolios for parental investors.

_One assumes a lump-sum investment of $7,800 - about what the parents of newborns this year would have to pay into MET to guarantee four years of college tuition beginning 18 years from now.

The other portfolio assumes a monthly investment of $25 over 18 years without any kind of lump-sum investment.

Their plans follow.

Women need to develop their own mentor network if they want to continue to move ahead in the business world.

That's the consensus of business owners Susan E. Funk and Irma B. Elder who addressed a Birmingham Community House audience for the benefit of the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame last week.

Promoting women has become one of Funk's priorities.

"Women are sometimes our own worst enemy," she said. "We are insecure when we do achieve success and don't reach out to help each other. We need to develop these helping networks." -

Funk of Livonia has signed on as a mentor in a new program developed by the U.S. Small Busiss Association to help women starting out in business.

The president and principal stockholder of Detroit Bandag, a tire retread company, Funk has experience in a field traditionally run by men.

"Women tend to own service businesses, I think manufacturing offers more opportunities. Opportunities for profits are tremendous. Men have been capitalizing . on manufacturing for years and women need to get into it.

"AT FIRST MY youth as well as the fact that I was a woman was a drawback, especially in the tire business. I learned that older men have to get to know you to accept you. I had typical problems dealing in a male-dominated field, but as my attitude mellowed and I gained more knowledge I became more assertive and confident."

Elder, a Bloomfield Hills resident, is president and owner of -Troy Ford in Troy and a dealership in Owosso_But in 1983 she was a homemaker who faced the decision of running a business or selling it after the death of her husband.

It was something her daughter said that helped her make the de-

"All my life you said I can do anything I wanted to as a woman," her daughter said. "If you don't do this then you really did not believe what you were saying."

"I represent that it can be done," Elder said. "We have many more skills as women that we realize. Never underestimate yourself and your abilities. I've learned that tragedy does not keep you down. There is another chapter in life and another world to conquer if you let yourself be open to it. Most importantly, I learned that life does not stop at a certain age."

She said she stepped into the business quietly, showing respect for her employees and began to establish credibility.

"My employees had to know I was not going to be a figurehead. The hardest thing for me was to learn to be tough and promote myself. We have not been taught to fight and interact in the business world. Women mentors are not there. I'd like to see more help from women,

Keep accounts in names of parents

Cynthia Boesler, a certified finan- last four years of the savings plan cial planner and president of Boesler for safety. & Co. of Rochester Hills, believes that education funds should be set up in parents' names.

More control over the money it's available for other uses in the eyent of a family emergency compensates for extra taxes that will result from keeping such accounts in the names of mom and dad, Boesler said.

She has two options for investing the $7,800 lump sum.

For moderate to aggressive risk takers, Boesler would put the entire amount in a combination growth-income, no-load mutual fund like the Fidelity Fund.

It has returned about 17 percent annually over the last 10 years, she said, adding that major holdings as of the end of July were GTE, General Electric, ATT and Mobil.

Boesler would move the funds into the Fidelity money market for the BOESLER PROJECTED that the education fund would be worth about $64,000 after taxes for parents in the 15 percent tax bracket, $50,000 after taxes for parents in the 28 percent bracket.

That assumes a 17-percent annual return over the first 14 years and 7 percent a year for the last four. For low to moderate risk takers, Boesler would place $3,900 into the Fidelity Fund and $3,900 in Series EE U.S.

The current guaranteed rate on savings bonds is 7.81 percent if held at least five years. Starting next year, the interest is tax free if used for education.

Under that option, Boesler projected an after-tax education account worth about $55,000 for parents in the 15 percent tax bracket and about $45,000 in the 28 percent

Cynthia Boesier

That assumes the bond rate holds at 7.81 percent and the mutual returns 17 percent over all 18 years.

On the periodic payment side, Boesler would put $25 per month into a passbook savings account until $1,000 had accumulated, then transfer the money into the Fidelity Fund. Estimated money available after

He touted the Parkstone family of mutual funds since his bank serves as financial adviser to the group. There is no sales charge to invest with Parkstone if a client has a trust relationship with the bank, a 31/4percent charge if a client has an account with the Dank and 41/2 percent if there is no relationship, Morrison

He would place 20 percent, or

Bonds get the nod for a full third of the $7,800 investment.

Fifteen percent, or $1,170, should go into the Intermediate Government Bond Fund currently returning about 8.1 percent; and 20 percent, or $1,560, would go into the Bond Fund now paying 81/2 percent, Morrison

Methanol 'gasoline' is but the merest trifle

By Dan McCosh special writer

The U.S. government is talking to a lot of people about using methanol as an alternative fuel for automobiles these days, including GM, the California Air Resouces Board and the U.S. Environmental Agency.

But not to Baby Huey. Baby Huey could tell them about methanol. Baby Huey was a kid in my old high school in Royal Oak who worked hard at becoming the kind of social reject that just came naturally to most of the rest of the student

HIS EFFORT to build an image always was a little strained, since he / It ran with a "pocketa-pocketa"

But he tried hard.

First he bought a black leather jacket. Then tried growing his hair into the kind of slicked-down, patent--leatherish look made popular by a couple of rock groups from New Jersey. Unfortunately, Baby Huey's hair was naturally curly, so the result was something like a greasy lump of black broccoll top on his head.

UNDAUNTED, HE bought a motorcycle. Well, not exactly a motorcycle. Actually, it was a motor scooter powered by a one-cylinder engine that looked sort of like a Harley if you squinted and it was about a block away.

was an average student who more or sound, and Huey would approach with one hand on his left leg, just like a real Harley, which gave him the beginnings of a high school tough guy image until some guy who was a real social reject pointed out that. Huey looked a like a pear sitting on a roller skate (Huey was a little overweight) and started calling him Baby Huey. And that was the end of

I GAVE him credit. I figured anyone with a real motorized vehicle of any sort was one up on me, since there were only three guys in the whole school who managed to buy wheels without parental assistance and without dropping out to earn the. money. Baby Huey was one of them.

So when Baby Huey pulled up, pocketa-pocketa, in front of the model airplane store where I worked after school and came inside, I took noticè.

"Gimme some of that," he said, leaning over the counter and pointing to a gallon can of model airplane fuel. "I'm going to win something," he pronounced with the finality of a guy about to jump over a fountain at Caesar's Palace.

SOMEHOW HUEY had figured out that model airplane fuel, about 60 percent methanol and 40 percent nitromethane, was going to be his secret weapon for an all-out assault on the record for Cushman Eagle - top scooter at Detroit Dragway, thus ensuring him a permanent place in the social reject hall of fame.

Unfortunately, I missed the trial itself, and in fact had nearly forgotten about the attempt until he came back a couple of days later, walking, but holding a trophy for elapsed time that no doubt stands to this day.

JUST HOW this figures into the current interest in methanol as a way of preserving the environment is something I leave to an investigation by Congress. That may be necessary anyway, since just before he left the store, Baby Huey leaned over the counter and confided where his next technological leap was "Nuclear," he whispered. Then he walked out of the store, and I never saw him again.

Banker urges 3-part strategy

Peter W. Smith, senior vice president at Midwest Guaranty Bank in Troy, likes to use a Uniform Gift to Minor Account when setting up a college fund.

He has a three-pronged strategy for investing the $7,800. • $2,500 into certificates of deposit_with_staggered maturities. "Currently, you can get 8%, 9 percent and I would go out to that range to get those rates for three years," Smith said.

• $3,000 into a growth mutual fund like 20th Century Select, which' has an average annual return of 19.4 percent over the last 10 years, or 20th Century Ultra, which has averaged 15.7 percent annually in the eight years of its existence, Smith Largest holdings of Select as of April 30 were Wal-Mart, May Department Stores and Philip Morris; of Ultra were Service Merchandise, RACAL Telecomm PLC and American Television and Communications, a 20th Century spokesman said.

• $2,300 into a more conservative growth-income fund such as Fidelity Puritan, with an annual return of nearly 17.5 percent the past 10 years, or Vanguard Index 500 Fund, -which has averaged about 16.5 percent annually over the same period while attempting to mirror the Standard & Poors stock-index, Smith Largest holdings in Vanguard 500 are IBM, Exxon and GE, a Vanguard spokesman said. Puritan's largest holdings as of the end of July were U.S. Treasury Notes, Citicorp and Sears & Roebuck, a Fidelity spokeswoman said.

The 20th Century Select and Ultra funds and the Vanguard 500 are no loads. Fidelity Puritan has a 2-percent sales charge.

A lump sum investment of $7,800 with an annual return of 10 percent would rise to nearly $43,500 less taxes over 18 years, Smith said.

For the periodic $25 investor, Smith advises monthly buys into the Select or Ultra fund depending on the parents' investment orientation. Select is a tad more conservative. Over time, Smith would transfer funds from the mutuals to a money market such as Fidelity Cash Reserves or a bank's money market for diversification.

"I wouldn't put money into one fund for 18 consecutive years," he

-Smith projected that an 8-percent annual return on a $25 per month outlay over 18 years would produce about $12,000, less taxes.

Smith, 33, current president of the southeast Michigan chapter of the International Association of Financlat Planners, said he makes periodic contributions to college funds for his two children.

Performers at home in 'Les Miz'

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

OR DANIEL COONEY, who lives in New York, being "on the road" with "Les Miz" is something he hasn't experienced yet, even though he is appearing in the ensemble of the show at the Fisher Theatre.

Cooney auditioned for the smashhit musical in New York, rehearsed in Chicago and joined the national company when it opened last month in Detroit. But since he is originally from Westland, the 21-year-old performer has rented a house, near hisparents' home there, and is comfortably staying right around home during the run of "Les Miz" in Detroit-

Several children in the show also get to go home at night, to their permanent homes, since they auditioned in Detroit and were chosen just to appear in "Les Miz" during the show's local stay.

They are Joe Denawetz, 11, of of the original principals is still with West Bloomfield, and two nine-year-old girls — Laura Buono of Oakland roles, now, started in the ensemble," Township and Dana Powers Acheson, who lives in Detroit and attends Roeper City and Country School in up, but it's not likely he will progress Bloomfield Hills.

ON TUESDAY MORNING Dan Cooney had just returned from a fishing trip taken on his day off, Monday. In a phone interview, he sounded sleepy, as he talked about catching perch in Lake Erie, in Michigan waters.

In "Les Miz," he said, "the main character I play is Joly, one of the students. He does most of his work on the barricades — the revolution and fighting scene." Cooney said his character has a few spoken "lines" (actually all "lines" in the show are sung). "Joly is basically a happy guy. You can tell that by his name," he Besides that, I do close to 10 other characters. There are some pretty fast costumer changes." He appears variously as one of the factory workers, farmers, and people in the inn, or bar-room.

The tour started two years ago in Boston and is expected to run for another five to seven years, traveling throughout the United States. None he explained.

Cooney may get a chance to move to the role of the main character, Jean Valjean. "The youngest Valjean is 33," he said. "In the near future, I'm right for Marius" (who falls in love with the grown-up Cosette).

COONEY, WAS BORN in Westland, where he graduated from John Glenn High School. A few weeks ago, he visited an advanced drama class at the school, talking about his career and "Les Miz." After high school, he spent a semester at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn, then decided college was not for him.

As a high school student, he had appeared in several musical productions at John Glenn. A community theater production for the Dearborn Players Guild eventually led him to Florida, where the guild's director went to do dinner theater.

"Before 'Les Miz' I spent two to three years doing dinner theater all over the U.S.," Cooney said. "I consider that my training. I didn't go to college." Joining the national company of "Les Miz" is his first Equity production.

For the children from local communities who appear in "Les Miz," it's an experience on which they agree, "It's fun. I love it." Each of the youngsters, in separate phone interviews Monday, came up with the identical, enthusiastic comment in response to the question asking how they liked being in the show.

JOE DENAWETZ plays Gavroche, the street urchin. Without hesitation, he describes his character as "a straight, spunky stud." Joe de-clared, "I just love the role."

He has given several newspaper interviews and has appeared on radio and television. Talking about Gavroche is something he has gotten used to. His favorite scene in which he appears in the show is the one where he gets to climb all over the barricades, and later dies.

Joe said he knows everybody in the show. "The actors are real nice. son and another girl, who travels. They're nicer than most shows." He with the show, in the roles of Young had figured they were rich, and that they might be stuck-up or mean, he

A sixth grader at Abbott Middle School, he currently attends school Monday and Tuesday and has a tutor Wednesday through Friday. He alternates with another boy, who travels with the show, and gives four performances a week.

When Joe was rehearsing with the show in Chicago, a group of teenagers approached him for autographs, outside the stage door. He pointed out that he wasn't playing Gavroche in Chicago. "They said, 'Who cares! You're Gavroche. We want your autograph," he said.

Joe thinks he is well-suited to the part because he has been told that, in person, "You look and sound like Gavroche." He admits, however, he doesn't have the personality of the felsty character. "I wouldn't have any friends if I did," he declared.

LAURA BUONO and her family just moved to Oakland Township from Sterling Heights and she would attend Hugger Elementary School for the first time, the next day. She alternates with Dana Powers Ache-Cosette and Young Epinone.

She likes playing Cosette, who is "an abused little girl. Her mom dies." Valjean comes to take care of her." Of the character Epinone, "She hardly does anything. She makes fun of Cosette. She's the innkeeper's daughter."

Laura had an unexpected experience onstage when "Thenardier (the innkeeper) drops me. I rolled off hislap and my foot went into the or-··· chestra pit."

The youngster heard about auditions for the show from her Uncle, Joe, who plays French horn in the orchestra for "Les Miz" at the Fisher. She is an experienced performer, who started dancing at age two and had her first stage role at five.

"I met a lot of new friends. We have fun. I get along with the kids. very well. We sleep over at one another's house," she said.

DANA POWERS ACHESON enjoys the role of Cosette because, "I get to sing more stuff." She also said, "Usually when I'm in a play they" say, 'Smile, Dana, smile.' "With 'Les Miz," 'You usually can't smile very much. In this show you don't smile unless Jean Valjean picks you.

Why doesn't she like to keep smiling? "I'm not thi cutesy kind of person. Your mouth starts hurting," she Dana wants to continue her showbusiness career until she grows up. Then she would like to become an archeologist. However, the entertainment field may yet win out. "When I grow up I want to try out. for the part of Epinone," she said. "I) like the songs she sings."

Chargers move into No. 1 position

Kaliszewski goal nips Salem

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

John Gentile-never touched the ball Monday night when his No. 2rated Livonia Churchill soccer teammates collided with top-ranked Plymouth Salem.

But the injured all-state forward probably deserves an assist for the role he played in helping to inspire the Chargers to a 1-0 victory at Centennial Educational Park.

"It's a big win when one of your superstars doesn't even hit the field," Churchill coach John Neff

The Chargers, who undoubtedly should ascend to the No. 1 spot when the next poll is released Monday, rallied around Gentile's absence and made up for it with an outstanding defensive effort.

Sophomore goalkeeper Jeff Cassar, who held off a relentless secondhalf attack by the Rocks, was crucial to the Churchill success.

"I WAS REALLY scared," he said. "That's the most pressure I've had on me - that and the (Livonia) Stevenson game.

"But I think this meant more to me and the team, because we really wanted the No. 1 spot. We were really pumped up, because we wanted to win this game for John Gentile."

Senior forward Paul Kaliszewski was in the right place at the right time again Monday. As in Churchill's 1-0 win over defending Class A champ Stevenson, he scored the win-

Kaliszewski popped the ball over the reach of Salem goalie Matt Tudor on a header at the 26:43 mark in the first half. Mike Gentile's direct kick from the left side went to Kaliszewski on the right of the Salem goal, and the latter knocked it into the net on that side.

"I tried to hit it near-post, because soccer

I figured (Tudor) would expect it to go far-post," Kaliszewski said. "He wasn't ready for it."

The loss snapped previously-unbeaten Salem's 10-game winning streak and Tudor's streak of eight consecutive shutouts.

IT WAS A frustrating night for the Rocks, who saw a lot of shots sail wide of the net or carom off the posts as they tried desperately and failed to crack the Churchill defense.

"I think they're mature enough to take (defeat)," Salem coach Ken Johnson said of his players. "It doesn't matter if we're 1 or 2. It didn't affect them being No. 1, and it won't affect them dropping from No. 1. They know they're good and can bounce back."

The Chargers remained undefeated, boosting their season record to 10-0, and their defense has been just as impressive as that played by Salem. They haven't been scored onsince playing in an early-season tournament in Ohlo.

Churchill picked the right time to play what Neff call by far its best defensive game of the season.

Salem dominated the second half and had the ball in Churchill's end for most of the last 40 minutes. If the Rocks didn't have many solid shots at Cassar, they at least maintained

BUT THE DEFENSE of Nasir

"We were a little bit on our heels. at the end, but everyone held in there," said-Neff, singling out Khan for a superior effort.

"We've been emphasizing defense all year. That's team defense (that Churchill played). You can't do that with one or two people."

With John Gentile on the sideline, there was a tendency to pull back and concentrate on shutting out Salem once the Chargers got the lead in what would obviously be a lowscoring contest.

"To a certain degree," Neff said, "but your best defense is still a good offense if you have it. But they were dominating the midfield in the second half.

"It's human nature to get a little lead and fall back into a shelf," he added, "but they're an excellent

JOHN GENTILE injured an ankle in the Livonia Franklin game last Friday and has it protected by an air. cast. Neff said he didn't want to take a chance on playing him even in such.... a big game.

"He's too valuable," Neff said. "He was dying on the sideline, but there's too shuch of the season left."

Salem's best scoring opportunity came with 10% minutes left in the game when Andy Companion had a 1-on-1 breakaway with Khan shadowing him down the field. Cassar, however, came far out of the goal to snuff the play and, after the ball came back at him following his release, fell on it to stop the play completely.

"I thought that was it, because (Cosenza) seemed to be going just right," Johnson said, "but he probably touched it one too many times."

With the Chargers expected to climb to No. 1, Neff was philosophi-

And Scott Lamphear in confunction with Cassar's goalfending held Savor you," he said, "but everybody shoots for Churchill, Stevenson and shoots for Churchill, Stevenson and Salem because we always have good

Madonna player saluted; Lady Ocelots block Ford

Tonia Smith, Stacey Girard and Kristy McFadden combined for 24 kills to lead Madonna College's volleyball team past Siena Heights 15-13, 15-4, 15-10 Tuesday at Slena.

Each had eight kills and, as Madonna coach Jerry Abraham put it, "All three made our offense."

Two of the three have been recognized for their contributions. Last week, Girard, a freshman from Redford (Livonia Ladywood), was named NAIA District 23 player of the week.

This week, the same honor was bestowed upon Smith, a freshman from Walled Lake (Central).

The victory over the Saints was an important one for the Fighting... Crusaders. It improved their record to 3-1 in the district; they are 14-5

Girard also had five service aces. Jenny Sladewski, a sophomore from Plymouth (Salem), and Ann DiMambro, a freshman from Redford Bishop Borgess, added eight digs each. Lynn Bernwanger, a freshman from Walled Lake (Central), contributed four service aces:

LAST SATURDAY, Madonna traveled to the Aquinas College Tournament and came away with the title, volleyball

collecting wins in four of live match-

The Crusaders beat Nazareth College 15-4, 15-7; lost to St. Mary's (South Bend, Ind.) 17-15, 16-14; defeated Adrian 15-12, 15-9; defeated Aquinas 15-6, 15-7; and defeated Defiance (Ohio) 15-8, 15-4.

"We played extremely well all week long," said Abraham. "For the second week in a row, we won a tournament.'

Girard and Smith were both selected to the all-tournament team. Smith earned the honor by collecting: 48 kills in the five matches, with a kill average of .427. Girard finished with 28 kills in the tournament.

The defense was keyed by Sladewski and senior Wendy Spencer, from Walled Lake (Western). Sladewski had 25 digs. Spencer had 21.

Melissa Mars also made a valuable contribution, coming off the bench in the first three matches and starting the last two. Mars, a freshman from Borgess, had 13 kills in the wins over Aquinas and Defiance. Madonna hosts Grand Rapids Baptist in a district match at 7 p.m. Thursday then travels to the Tiffin University tournament Saturday.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE added another Eastern Conference win to its record, swamping Henry Ford CC 15-7, 15-7, 15-9 Tuesday at SC.

The Lady Ocelots are 13-4 in all matches, 8-0 against junior colleges and 3.0 in the conference.

"I think our team is evolving into a very strong, dominant team in the conference again," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "I'm real pleased with our setter, Jenny Sproul. I believe she's becoming one of the top setters in the state, for all colleges." Sproul had 31 assists in the match.

Elena Oparka led the attack with 11 kills; Angellette Love had seven and Tricia Lukas five. JoAnn Kolnitys added three solo blocks, five block assists and six Alisha Love contributed four service aces. Christy Clark had three aces and four digs. SC plays the University of Michigan-Dearborn at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Shamrocks, RU consistent on links

For the Redford Catholic Central golf team, victories are becoming a habit and loses a rarity.

The Shamrocks, along with Central Division rival Birmingham Brother Rice controlled Saturday's East Lansing Invitational, each tallying 803 strokes.

CC eventually won on a fifth man tlebreaker. The Shamrocks then returned home Monday to best Harper Woods Notre Dame, 144-179, at Brae Jeff Brown was the medalist in Monday's match. His 34, outstroked teammate Chris Frietas' $5. Scott Krueger added a 37 for the Shamrocks and Mike Brady pulled up the reins with a 38.

The victory clinches first place in the Central Division for the CC. They will play in the Catholic League Meet Oct. 10 at Riverview High-

"To say we'd be in this position at the begining of the season, would have been, premature," CC coach John Salter said. "It was tough to tell, especially since this is my first year coaching the team."

Despite CC's success, Saturday's East Lansing meet proved to be quite a challenge for the Shamrocks, as they contended with rival Rice, not to mention a tough Battle Creek Lakéview team.

The Shamrocks, thanks to Jeff Brown's 84, won the tourney.

Krueger led CC with a 73. He tied for first place with Eric Spencer of Birmingham Seaholm.

Sullivan finished second for the Shamrocks and third in the tourney, with a 75. Frietas stroked a 77, while Brady shot a 78.

Everyone is really playing well," Salter said. "For a sport where everyone plays as an individual, we sure are doing well as a team."

REDFORD UNION improved its record to 7-3 Monday, by Garden City, 208-218, at Glenhurst, before nipping Redford Thurston in a non-leaguer Tuesday at Warren Valley, 164-167.

The Panthers were led by Jim Edward's 37 Monday. Teammates Leb Fegert and Jason Iding tied with 41 and Ken Ickes managed a 44.

Rick Morton led Garden City with a 42.

Andy Riess shot a 43, while Brian Hawkins stroked a 44.

On Tuesday, Thurston's Don Delano shot an even par-36, which earned him medalist honors, but RU captured the next few slots to win the match.

Fegert led the Panthers with a 39. Ickes stroked a 49 and Shane Sennett a 43.

Monroe places dent in Lady Ocelots' trip

By C.J. Risak staff writer

After all the anticipation, disappointment interceded.

For nearly a year, Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team had fostered its grudge against Monroe CC - the team that went to the '88 National Junior College Athletic Association playoffs in place of SC after Monroe coach Chuck Salamone, the man in charge of the national rankings, cited a long-ignored rule that favored his team over the Lady

The memory was still vivid a week ago as SC traveled to New York to play in Monroe's junior college tournament. At long last, a chance for vengeance.

Unfortunately, the opportunity slipped away. A goal by Tammy Page, an All-American forward in '88, with 18 minutes left to play allowed Monroe to escape with a 1-0 victory Saturday.

NEVER MIND that SC won its other two matches handily over the weekend, disposing of Anne Arundell (Md.) CC 3-0 Friday and Alfred (N.Y.) State 5-0 Sunday. The team the Lady Ocelots wanted to waste most of all was Monroe.

But the deck was stacked against them. Salamone's team played just two games over the weekend, taking

"It was a great advantage to them," claimed SC coach Nick O'Shea. "Not only were they more rested, but they knew exactly what to do to stop us."

Salamone, it seems, had tilted the tournament to favor his team. It showed again when the most valuable players were selected. Both were from Monroe. It mattered not that SC outscored three opponents 8-1 (Monroe scored three goals, beating Anne Arundell 2-1 never crossing it.

Schoolcraft sports

Sunday). Indeed, the offensive MVP was selected before the Lady Ocelots' match with Alfred State was completed, before Cindy Bowman had scored two of her three goals in the game, Bowman ended up with four goals and an assist in the

IT JUST added to the frustration. "Yeah, they were (depressed)," O'Shea said of Saturday's outcome. "The first thing some of them said to me was to change our game here so we could play them again."

Monroe will visit SC next week, but the two powerhouses won't face each other. Instead, both will play a pair of St. Louis-based junior college teams, Meramec and defending NJCAA champion Florissant Valley.

No further revenge would have been necessary had fate been more gratious to the Lady Ocelois. Twice their high-scoring offense - whichhad no previous trouble putting the ball in the net - failed on ideal chances:

Both times an SC forward, first Bowman and then Joan Arndt. banged the ball off the goal post. Bowman's miss came first, after she got loose on a breakaway in the

IF HER miss was difficult to absorb. Arndt's should have been a clear signal that it was not to be the Lady Ocelots' day. Arndt eluded the Monroe sweeper and drove a shot past a diving goalkeeper. The ball hit the inside of the post and rolled back in front of the net, following the goal line all the way to the other post but

The Lady Ocelots were not going to get any better opportunities. Salamone, who scouted SC in its win over Anne Arundell Friday, made sure of that with a reinforced de-

"They basically dropped back and went with a fifth defender against our three (forwards)," said O'Shea. "And they brought a forward back into the midfield."

Salamone's strategy was simple but effective, all things considered. He knew Friday's match would take its toll on SC, so he shuttled 18 players into his lineup Saturday (Monroe has 28 on its roster) and applied constant pressure, trying to tire the Lady Ocelots.

WHEN A TEAM drops back an extra defender, the countermove is to send up another attacker. But playing for the second time in a day makes that strategy difficult to fol-

"We didn't have the energy to bring a player all the way up from the (defense)," said O'Shea.

Friday's match was more enjoyable. Dawn Gabriel's first goal of the season gave SC a 1-0 lead at the half. Shannon Meath assisted. Bowmanmade it 2-0, with an assist from Arndt. Arndt capped the scoring with a goal following a pass from, Gabriel.

In Sunday's lopsided triumph, Meath opened the scoring with an assist from Bowman. Robin Lawson made it 2-0, converting a pass from Donna O'Brien, and Bowman increased the lead to 3-0 at the half, assisted by Angle Stigimaler.

Bowman got both of SC's secondhalf goals, with Arndt and Meath assisting.

The Lady Ocelots entered theweekend ranked third in the NJCAA, behind Florissant Valley and Monroe. They play at Hope College at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Set VCR for new cable show featuring bowlers too! The Pro Bowlers tour is one of the longest running television features of all time, and we can still recall those old local favorites, "Beat the Champ" and "Bowling for Dollars."

Something new has now been added for those viewers with ESPN cable.

The American Bowling Congress has a new bowling program, "Bowling World," which will be aired on ESPN starting Oct. 2. The show will run for 13 weeks and will be produced by ABO. 44

Regular segements will include features on bowlers across the United States, as well as tips for improving your game, bowling history and segments on rules, technology and individuals who have and will influence the

There will be highlights of the week's bowling news, tournament results and the opportunity to show highlights of events that have never been televised,

ESPN did not have the most favorable times available to show the program; therefore, the show will be alred locally on Mondays in October and November at 3:80 p.m. The program can also be seen on the following dates: Tuesday, Oct. 19 at 3:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Dec. 5, 12 and 26 at 5:30 p.m.; and Monday, Dec. 18, at 5:30 p.m.

For many of us, these times are not very convenient, so you might want to set your VCR timer and tape the program. This should be excellent viewing for all bowling enthusiasis, and I am looking forward to watching it

On Nov. 5, the Greater Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame will hold its induction ceremonles. Among the bonorees will be the one and only Fred Vitali of Farmington Hills. I will have more details on this in a few weeks.

• The Senior House League at Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington saw Dave Halstead roll a 711 series with a 257 game, Nell Beckman hit a 269 game in his 704 set, Gary Sachau bowl a 277 in a 662, Glen Libtow score a 662 set and Fred Rossman fire a 259 game.

• If you follow the Jeffries expressway to Cloverlanes in Livonia, the building with the "double-dipsey roof," you will find the newly-remodeled house doing quite well these days. In the West Side Jets, Rob Novak fired a 257 game. Of special interest to any senior citizens in the area are "Senior Fun Daya."

On Tuesdays and Fridays at 1 p.m., anyone 60 or older can bowl three games for $2.00, including free rental shoes, coffee and mystery game prizes. For details, call Cloverlanes at 427-6410.

• Last week, Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills reported a 300 game by Butch Clark in the Monday Youth Classic. We were remiss in not mentioning some of the other fine scores, as Jill Lhamon rolled a 257 game in a 636 series, Candi Schlacht a 264 in a 669 and Julie Wright a 234 game. Hats off to these kids for their fine bowling.

At Country Lanes on Nine Mile road, the University Men's League featured a 288 game by Larry Angolt. He rolled a 688 series. In the Tuesday Nite Ladies Classic League,

SC's Cortese boots Cuyahoga, 2-1

John Cortese set up one goal, then scored the game-winner to push Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team past a stubborn Cuyahoga Metro CC 2-1 Saturday at Cuyahoga.

The victory didn't come easily, but the Ocelots managed to improve their record to 7-0-1 overall and 3-0-1 in the Eastern Conference.

Cuyahoga played a defensive game throughout the scoreless first half and SC had problems cracking it, said coach Van Dimitriou. "We were dominating, but we just couldn't finish."

Finally, 15 minutes into the second half, Jerry Startel took a pass from Cortese and get free down the left wing. Staszel fluded a couple of defenders, weaving his way in towards the Cuyahoga goal and scoring from 18 yards out. The SC lead didn't last long. Ten minutes later, stopper Chris Speen vent over Cuyahoga striker Carmen Gimiani to head the ball. Speen was whistled for a foul in the penalty area, giving Cuyahoga a penalty kick. Gimiani converted to knot the score at 1-1.

But the Ocelots struck back quick-ly. With 15 minutes left in the match, Khaled Zeldan lofted a corner kick into the box. The ball was headed toward the Guyahoga net, then deflected. Cortese got control right in front of the goal and simply walked it in for the game-winner.

The excitement wasn't over yet. however. With 10 minutes remaining, SC defender Doug Sobolak was called for tripping Gimiani. Since Sobolak already had a yellow card, this one earned him a red - meaning Sobolak will be forced to miss Saturday's 1 p.m. home match with Delta CC. Franklin smashes Rocks, 58-23

Coach Dan Freeman and his Livonia Franklin girls basketball team have had history of being on the wrong side of the ledger against perennial power Plymouth Salem.

But that all changed Tuesday as the host Patriots ran their overall record to 7-1 with a convincing 58-23 victory over the Rocks, who slipped to an uncharacteristic 3-6 on the season.

"The whole team executed well," said Freeman. "This was a big one because it's the first time we've beaten Salem since I've been coach-

Sophomore guard Dawn Warner made life miserable for the Rocks, scoring a game-high 24 points to go along with seven rebounds, six assists and seven steals.

Junior forward Juliann Stesiak contributed 14 points and eight rebounds, while senior forward Cheryl Hintz added 12 points and six rebounds. Sophomore point-guard Patty Shea had five steals and six assists.

Franklin led 29-12 at the half and put the game away by outscoring Salem 18-6 in the third

"We read their defense very well," Freeman said, "and we were very patient offensively. We reversed the ball when they trapped us.

"Everything fell together because we executed. I'm pleased with what we did tonight." Sarah Ruete, a junior, tallied seven points in a losing cause.

NOVI 50, REDFORD UNION 36: The host Panthers (2-6) fell behind early Tuesday and never caught up.

"We didn't come out with game intensity," said RU coach Terry Anthony. Novi (3-6) outscored the Panthers 13-7 in the opening Danielle Sorel led RU with 10 points, and Shannon Morris chipped in with nine.

Tammy Snider paced Novi with 10. Novi shot 16 of 31 from the foul line, while RU was

LADYWOOD 58, BORGESS 46: Livonia Ladywood (7-4, 1-2) outscored Redford Bishop Borgess (2-7, 0-3) 11-0 in the first quarter Tuesday, and then held on for the victory in a game played at Redford Catholic

giris basketbali

Borgess coach Dave Mann felt his team should have picked up the defensive pressure earlier.

"We did a lot of pressing in the second half," he said. "We should have done It in the first quarter."

Ladywood had three players in double figures in scoring: Rebecca Willey (17), Leslie Catanzarite (11) and Krista Campeau (10).

Catanzarite and Willey were also big on the boards, gathering 13 and nine rebounds, respectively.

Kyra Woodard, who is coming off an injury, scored 20 points to lead the Spartans. Tanya Toursel chipped in with 17.

NORTHVILLE 53, JOHN GLENN 50 (OT)! Westland John Glenn ($-6) was outscored 6-3 in overtime Tuesday by the host Mustangs.

Karen Olack paced Glenn with 14 points. Northville's Kate Holstein was the game's high scorer with 19.

Glenn coach Pat Bennett pointed to the second quarter, in which the Rockets were outscored 13-8, as the

"Our weak second quarter really hurt us," he said.

THURSTON 46, CRESTWOOD 34: Redford Thurston (6-2, 5-1) jumped out to a 29-14 halftime lead Tuesday and cruised home to an easy victory over visiting Dearborn Heights Crestwood in a Tri-River League encounter. "Everybody got to play quite a lot," said Eagle coach Mike Schuette.

Michelle Birchmeler hit for 17 points to lead Thurston. Laura Kress backed up her teammate by adding 15 points of her own.

Dawn Dzialo led Crestwood with 17.

STEVENSON 54. CHURCHILL 43: A defensive switch helped visiting Livonia Stevenson (6-3, 1-2) defeat crosstown rival Livonia Churchill (1-7, 0-2) Tuesday.

The Spartans, who were leading by a single point at the half, switched Jenny Petree and Kelly Cotter onto high-scoring Churchill freshman guard Chrissy Daly to start the third quarter.

Daly, who scored 18 in the first half, was held to four the remainder of the game.

Center Teresa Sarno played a strong game for Stevenson, scoring 26 points and pulling down seven rebounds. Stephy Sutter (10 points and nine assists) and Laura Zatorski (nine points) also made major contributions for the Spartans.

Fran Priebe contributed eight points and 14 rebounds for the Chargers.

KETTERING 55; GARDEN CITY 20; A horrendous night shooting the basketball was the Cougars (4-6) downfall Tuesday against powerful Waterford Kettering (9-1). The visiting Cougars shot just seven of 52 from the

"In all my years of coaching, I've never had a team shoot as poorly as we did tonight," said GC coach Marshall Henry. "We consistently broke their press and had decent shots, but it was just one of those things."

Kettering, which was ranked fourth in Class A last week by the Detroit Free Press, got 15 points from Jenny Land.

Lynn Gowen led GC with seven, while Carolyn Shanks chipped in with six.

Henry said the game would have been much closer if his team had shot the ball decently. ."If we had scored early, we could have made a game of it," he said. "I was not displeased with the defense of the kids. We just didn't score." LUTHERAN WESTLAND 65, GREEN-

HILLS 43: The Warriors (6-2) rode a balanced scoring attack to an easy triumph Tuesday over visiting Ann Arbor Greenhills (5-4). Westland had three people score in double figures:

Sarah Love (19), Kristen Strang (16) and Stephanie Locke (16).

Love (10 rebounds), Christy Pydyn (nine), Strang (seven) and Locke (seven) helped Westland control the backboards.

Standish Stewart and Megan Wilhelm each scored 13 to lead Greenhills.

HARPER WOODS 38, CLARENCE-VILLE 22: Visiting Livonia Clarenceville (1-8) fell behind 20-6 after two quarters Tuesday and could never catch up: "The first half just killed us," said Clarenceville coach Wendy Kellehan. "They were steady." Danielle Rose led the Trojans with 13 points, and Rhonda Saunders chipped in with nine. (Saunders had-17 in a 33-28 loss last week to Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook.)

Amy Rach, Michelle Stephens and Linda Hofrichter each scored eight for Harper Woods.

Aggies show depth in win

Both the offense and defense clicked Saturday in Redford-St-Agatha's-41-14 C-Section football victory over Redford St. Mary's of Detroit in a game played at Hilbert Junior High's Kraft Field.

The Aggles, now 4-1-overall and 2-0 in divisional play, trailed 8-8 after one quarter before roaring backy to take a 28-8 halftime lead.

Junior quarterback Brian Kutch tossed a 22-yard touchdown pass to Kevin Smith early in the second quarter to give Agatha the lead for keeps.

Kutch, who had 71 yards rushing (in six carries) and 71 yards passing (5-for-7), added TD runs of 1 and 3

Derwin Henderson, who led the Aggles with 96 yards in 18 carries, also scored on a 28-yard TD run, Sophomore Cardell Davis, recently called up from the junior varsity squad and filling in for injured starter Ken Prokes, scored on a 5-yard TD run. Fred Schick also returned a punt 65 yards to complete the Agatha scor-

"Prokes had a deep thigh brulse, so we just played him on defense," said Agatha coach John Goddard. Agatha outgained the Rustics (1-4, 1-1) in total yardage, 292-145.

Defensively, the Aggies forced four turnovers. Ken Kroll had an interception and recovered a fumble. Kutch also added an interception. John DiPonio recovered a fumble.

The defensive standout was junior end Joe Boards, who also had four catches for 49 yards on the day from his tight end spot, Goddard said.

Agatha travels Saturday to take on Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes in a key C-Section matchup.

"This is our mini Boys Bowl," Goddard said. "Lakes is a good team. They're a ball control team and relatively young. They're much improved over last year."

MELVINDALE 13, THURSTON 7 (2 OTs): In a Tri-River League encounter Saturday, the visiting Cardinals (3-2, 3-1) used a 10-yard scoring run by Don Kujat in the second overtime to beat Redford Thurston (2-3, 1-3). "I hate overtime in high school," said Thurston coach Bob Snell, who lost for the second time in sudden death this season. "It's tough to lose, especially when your defense plays so well. "We had opportunities, and they did also. It was a tremendous effort, and I'm proud of the kids." Melvindale struck first, just under a minute before halftime, when defensive back Jorge Garza intercepted a Thurston pass and returned Thurston tied the game at 7-7 with just over three minutes left in the game when senior Jesse Welker, who had 144 yards rushing in 29 carries, scored on a 17-yard run. It was the third time this season Welker has surpassed the 100-yard mark. He has 630 for the season.

In the first overtime, Melvindale was pushed back to its own 20 and missed a 40-yard field goal. Thurston, however, falled to convert on a game-winning 22-yard field goal attempt.

In the second OT, Thurston drove to the 1, but was stopped on a close all on third down. Kvjat then scored on first down to end the suspense.

Thurston won the statistical battle, outgaining the Cards in total yardage, 187-133. The Eagles, however, could complete just one of 11 passes for 11 yards.

Defensively, Junior linebacker Steve Koss was a standout. He was in on 16 tackles, including two passes knocked down and two sacks of the Tackle Jason Hawkins, a senior, added two quarterback sacks. Bill Key also recovered a fumble.

"It was a great defensive battle, a hard-hitting game," Snell said. This is the first time in two years that either team has scored in regulation. They (Melvindale) play pressure defense. There was a lot of negative yardage. We couldn't sustain anything offensively until the

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 36, LUTHERAN NW 13: Mike Hardies put on a one-man show Saturday, leading the host Warri-

NOTRE DAME 32, BORGESS 0: It was not a good Saturday evening of football for host Redford Bishop Borgess (1-4, 0-2) as Harper Woods Notre Dame (2-3, 1-1) came away with the lopsided Catholic League-Central Division win at Garden City Junior High.

Dezjuan Reynolds, a senior tailback, scored three touchdowns on runs of 1, 23 and 3 yards. He finished with 101 yards rushing on 18 Raul Carta also scored on a 4-yard TD run and Jeff Urbas tallied an 11-yard TD. The Irish intercepted three passes, all by Chris Gajewski.

North stymies Stevenson's offense

Afterward, Richardson, a 5-foot-7, 145-pound junior, even sounded like a tailback.

"The (offensive) line did a lot," he said. "Were it not for them, I would have gotten stuck a lot of times. I like tailback. It's a lot of fun,"

THE WIN raised the Raiders' record to 4-1 overall, 2-1 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. The shutout son to 86 yards in total offense, while was the second straight suffered by Stevenson, which fell to 1-4 overall and 1-3 in the Lakes.

Matchups take on defensive flavor teams this year.

efense, defensel That's what the cheerleaders always shout, right? Well, there'll be a lot of that, which includes the real thing, this weekend in two of the biggest games involving Observerland

On Friday night, the second of the annual three-part series to determine the Lakes Division champion in the Western Lakes Activities Association has once-beaten North Farmington at unbeaten Plymouth Salem. which will celebrate homecoming. North's only loss was to Westland

John Glenn, which plays Salem next week either under winner-take-all circumstances or with the Rocks able to force a possible three-way

The Raiders and Salem are always noted for their defense. And this year, North has allowed two touchdowns, the Rocks three. Each team has three shutouts.

But the epitome of defense is that played by Redford Catholic Central, which has yet to be scored upon in five games.

That record will be put to the test in the other big game Sunday when the No. 4-rated Shamrocks face topranked Birmingham Brother Rice in the annual Boys Bowl game at Pontiac Wisner Stadium.

CC, never the offensive marvel, is averaging just under 17 points a game. But, oh, that defense!

The Warriors have been beaten five straight times by CC, including a 21-7 victory by the underdog Shamrocks a year ago. But Rice has a potent offense led by quarterback Bob Utter. Rice averages 26 points on offense and has the defense to match, giving up four a game.

In the on-going battle between friendly prognosticators, the up-todate tally has Brad Emons maintaining a one-game edge over Dan O'Meara. Both were 12-3 last week, putting Emons at 55-16 for the season, O'Meara 54-17:

Both misfired on the Thurston-Melvindale and Northville-Churchill games. Clarenceville was O'Meara's downfall once again, while Emons called for an upset of Catholic Central that didn't happen.

Now then, let's see what the boys predict for Week No. 6:

> FRIDAY'S GAMES (All games 7:30 p.m.)

Redford Union at Garden City: Observerland's two representatives to the Northwest Suburban League go head-tohead Friday, so area pride will be at stake. A loss could mean a basement finIsh for either the visiting Panthers (0-2, 0-5) or the host Cougars (0-2, 0-5) They're the only NSL teams without a league win. Pick: Emons says Garden City actually won the coin toss, but O'Meara takes an educated guess and RU over such random means. Red. Thurston at Allen Park: Consider this: Taylor Truman gave Allen Park (4-1), usually the best team in the Tri-River League, its first loss last week, 21-20. And that came a week after the Eagles (2-3) beat Truman 10-9. That's certainly food for thought as we ponder this game. Thurston hasn't been blown out in any game, and its last two defeats occurred in overtime. Pick: As much as we wish the Eagles well, they probably drew an angry Allen Park's number on the wrong week-

Westland Glehn at Liv. Stevenson: The Rockets (5-0) will be waiting eagerly to learn the results of the North-Salem game. Regardless of how important next week's clash with Salem will be, Glenn must take care of business against the Spartans (2-3). Pick: The Rockets will be 6-0 going into the showdown with Salem.

N. Farmington at Ply. Salem: It's usually a low-scoring game when these two defense-minded ball clubs go at it. That's been the case the last two years, and North (441) has won both games - 10-0 two years ago and 13-7 in overtime last fall. Defense will dominate again, but Salem's (5-0) skill and might on offense could mean a different winner. Pick: The unbreakable wishbone brings the Rocks good luck.

Ply. Canton at Northville: Canton (6-0) must avoid descending into an emotional valley Friday. The Chiefs reached a peak last week by beating Walled Lake Western and assuring themselves of their first winning season, and there's another peak coming next week when they meet Farmington Hills Harrison, the No. 1-rated team in Class B. If Canton hopes to play Harrison for the Western Division title, it will have to be sharp against upset-minded Northville (2-3). Pick: Canton's quickness is too much for the Mustangs.

W.L. Western vs. Farm. Harrison at, Walled Lake Central: Franklin came the closest anyone has to stopping the Hawks, and that was in a 31-0 victory for Harrison. The Hawks (5-0) are still averaging 44 points a game, and the defense has three shutouts and has given up an average of one TD per game. A young, Western team (1-4) has its best days ahead of it, but Harrison is still king for now. Pick: The Hawks will have more hootin' and hollerin' to do after winning No. 6.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (All games at 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Churchill at Liv. Franklin: The challenge for Franklin will be to stay up ernotionally after playing with inspiration (on defense at least) in that 31-0 loss to Harrison. The Patriots (1-4) held the Hawks 16 points under their per-game average and the usually-elusive Harrison quarterback Mill Coleman to minus-18 yards rushing. Churchill (0-5) is mired in a season-long losing streak. Pick: O'Meara says Franklin musters enough offense to win. Emons goes with Churchill.

W.L. Central at Farmington: Both:

teams are 0-3 in the Lakes Division and will be fighting to stay out of the cellar in this game. The Vikings' (1-4) haven't won since beating Milford in the opener. Farm-Ington got its first touchdown last week in a 42-7 loss to Westland John Glenn. Pick-Comparative scores tell us this one should be close, but Central, by virtue of its one victory, rates the edge. Liv. Clarenceville at B.H. Cranbrook: The Trojans (4-1) had a storybook start. winning their first four games under new coach Vic Balaj, but Lutheran West cut short the honeymoon last Friday, winning 6-0. Clarenceville is no doubt eager to start another victory streak, but Cranbrook (2-3), which lost 16-13 to West, won't be an easy touch. Picki Rule No. _194 in the prep prediction handbook says: Pick the Trojans to win if you think they might lose.

St. Hedwlg at Lutheran Westland: The Warriors (3-2) did well against another Catholic League opponent, beating Mount Clemens Cardinal Mooney 8-6 in the opener St. Hedwig, Mooney and St. Florian are fled for second place in D-Bracket with 3-1 records. St. Hedwig and Mooney also are 3-2 overall. Pick: The law of averages come into play. Lutheran Westland comes up short this time.

St. Agatha at Waterford Our Lady: The Aggies (4-1) have been so success. ful coach John Goddard never gets a chance to dry out from all the victory dips. And guess what? This week the Aggies play Our Lady OF THE LAKES. This will be a tough game since the Lakers also are 4-1, but if St. Agatha is successful, Goddard will have his choice of water for the post-game ritual. Pick: In addition to Our Lady, Goddard better scout the lakes, too.

Bishop Borgess vs. Bishop Gallagher at Garden City Junior High: No. 4ranked Catholic Central beat the Spartans 10-0 and Gallagher 24-0. Borgess (1-4), therefore, would appear to be the favorite here, right? Well, hold on. It's probably not that simple. Neither team is in a class with CC, but the Lancers (2-3) still have some pretty good talent. Pick: Gallagher takes a victory back to the East ·Wayne Memorial at Dearborn Fordson, 1:30 p.m.: The Zebras (4-1) are having a fine year, but so are the Tractors, who lead the Wolverine A Conference at 4-0 and are 5-0 overall. Wayne will have its hands full trying to stop the Fordson rushing game, which features Yousel Sareini. Pick: The Zebras suffer a temporary setback in-what will be still a fine season in the end. __

SUNDAY'S GAME-

Redford CC vs. Birm. Brother Rice. 1:30 p.m. at Pontlac Wisner Stadium; Will CC's string of good luck in one of the state's biggest rivalries hold out? CC can tie the series (14-13-1) with a win. Can the Shamrocks hold the line against a quality Rice offense? The Warriots, with three shutouts, have a good defense, too. Notre Dame and DeLaSalie scored on Rice the last two weeks after the Warriors. had begun to substitute. Pick: O'Meara thought Rice was due last year but it wasn't. The 13-0 win over Ann Arbor Pioneer is convincing proof CC can do it again. Emons counters with Rice.

CC's No. 5 runner makes recovery That Dave Galvin finished as the No. 5 runner for-Redford-Catholic Central's cross-country team Monday was not that noteworthy.

That Galvin ran at all certainly was. The Farmington Hills senior, who was assaulted in a near-fatal attack last summer, recovered from his injuries and was well enough to run his first race Saturday at the Haslett Invitational. On Monday, he finished sixth overall with a. night last summer, according to Magni. 17:44 time as the No. 4-rated Shamrocks beat Harper Woods Notre Dame 17-46 at Metropolitan Beach in Harrison Township.

"We knew it would be not-that-difficult a race,. but a real pleasant surprise was having Dave Galvin back," CC coach Tony Magni said. "We hoped he'd be back at the end of the season, but. he came back earlier."

GALVIN, A member of the all-Observer team a year ago, was robbed and stabbed in the neck

cross country

while returning home from work on a Sunday

The prep star was stopped at a stoplight in Farmington Hills when two young males entered his car and attacked him, Magni said. The suspects were never apprehended, the coach added. "We didn't think he would be back at all," Magni said, "and he ran a real nice race."

In his first competition this fall, Galvin ran in the open division Saturday at Haslett. He was the first high school runner to finish, having a 17:52

CC, unbeaten after four Central Division duals, was led by Mike Sherldan, who posted a 16:33 time, in the meet with the Fighting Irish, 1-3.

Jay Schemanske was second (16:48), Chris. Antezak third (17:02), Jack Massarello fifth (17:40) and Galvin sixth, Acting as blockers for the Shamrocks were John Wiktor in seventh place (17:47) and Pat Dimmer in eighth (17:53).

NOTRE DAME'S top runner was Kevin McDonald, who was fourth overall at 17:24.

In the 19-team Haslett Invitational, CC recorded 62 team points, Stockbridge 77 and Okemos

Sheridan was the top runner in that meet, too, finishing second in 15:50. Antezak and Schemanske also ran excellent races, taking sixth and seventh places, respectively, in 16:37

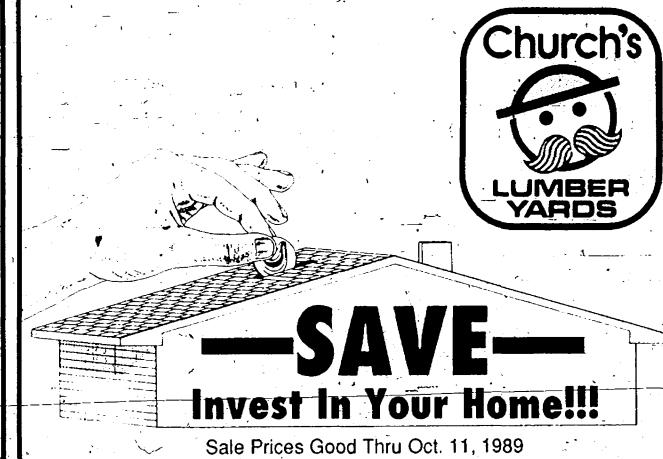

In addition, Wiktor was 22nd (17:22), Dimmer 40th (17:55) and Pat Koelzer 72nd (18:30).

Paul Smiley looks back and ahead

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

AUL SMILEY STILL keeps eye on the future. Eighty years of changes in the music business have taught him that it is the alert businessman who finds the next craze in home entertainment before it catches the public's interest.

Thursday, October 5, 1989 O&E

"We are standing at the door of. the new age," said the 89-year-old Birmingham businessman.

His latest gimmick is the Max Midium, a plano that does everything. "The market moyes too fast. It is terrible when a new instrument is invented and 60 days later it is replaced by a new fad."

-Surrounding him on the floor of his music store were acoustical planos of all makes: a Smiley Brothers piano, a Bechstein, numerous Kimballs, Schimmels and a Korean make by the name Dae Wo.

"I BELIEVE that the acoustical guitar and the acoustical plano will never be replaced by electronic instruments. These are the source for the sound."

Smiley recalled the craze over the Hammond Organ. Grinnell Brothers had 59 stores throughout the country and had to declare bankruptcy when that craze abruptly ended.

Smiley Brothers had five stores and had to close three of them, leaving his stores in Birmingham and at 5510 Woodward, Detroit open.

"The finest plano made today? It is definitely the Bechstein," he said. Smiley Brothers provided St. Hugo Catholic Church of Bloomfield Hills with what pianist James Tocco referred to one of the finest pianos made, a nine-foot concert grand Bechstein, worth hundreds of thousands of Vollars.

PAUL SMILEY HAS BEEN in the music business since childhood. He has worked with the Steinways, the Baldwins, the Bechsteins and the Kimballs in the piano business and accommodated the great artists of the world.

On Sunday, Oct. 15, he will be honored by Preservation Wayne for his 40 years of preservation of the landmark Hecker Mansion (Smiley Brothers Inc.) at 5510 Woodward, Detroit.

'We know that the piano business must be near the music teachers and the people. We researched the area and found that the Hecker Mansion was in the middle of the culture. Through the years the store has continued to hold its own in sales.'

- Paul Smiley

The bought the mansion in 1947 and has maintained the architectural integrity of the structure, just updating the wiring, the plumbing and the

The carriage house, carefully remade into a small concert hall with seating for 200, was the site of a concert by Paul Robeson.

"WE KNOW that the plane business must be near the music teachers and the people. We researched the area and found that the Hecker Mansion was in the middle of the culture. Through the years the store has continued to hold its own in

One of the chairman for the event at the Hecker Mansion is Smiley's close friend and golf partner, Robert VanderKloot, who was trying out the Max Midium while Smiley talked about planos.

"I don't see very well," said Smiley as he told his store manager that he wanted a different brochure about the Bechstein piano. Smiley spends several days a week at his Detoit store and the other days at his Birmingham store managing his

"PIANOS ARE not something people buy on impulse. I believe that the interest in acoustical piano is on

He reminisced about the changes in the music business since he went to work for his father in Columbus, Ky. When his family bought their store, pump organs were the popular form of home entertainment.

The Hecker House, 5510 Woodward, Detroit, now the home of Smiley Bros. Co., was built 1888-1891 for $47,000. It was built of Indiana limestone with a steep, gray slate roof. It had 49 rooms in the three-story main structure and service buildings and

- They were replaced by the square piano (which didn't stay in tune). The square piano soon became the upright plane, but in 1907 the player plano was the rage.

"In 1921, our balloon was punctured. The plano business suffered dreadfully when the radio was in-gers and technique. With the electrical instruments, you can make the sound with buttons."

Smiley came to Detroit in 1927 as the manager of the Steinway divislon of Grinnell Brothers. He managed the Steinway store in Cincinnati and a Baldwin store in Denverbefore he opened his own business in 1937 with his brother. His brother died in 1943.

STEINWAY MANAGED Paderewski's tours of the United States. "I remember when I met him his hands were not like those of Claumore than a dozen Egyptian Nubian marble and onyx fireplaces. The first owner, Col. Frank Joseph Hecker, served in the American Civil and Spanish wars, was a member of the Panama Canal Commission and was the first Union Pacific Railroad agent.

dio Arrau. They were hard as iron. "Paderewski had to practice seven hours a day just to keep his muscles lose. I remember how shocked he was when the women wanted a lock of his hair."

Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Detroit Symphony Orchestra conductor in the 20s and 30s, is another man that Smiley knew personally. "He was a great musician but also a great fundraiser for the DSO. We are still enjoying his accomplishments with the

SMILEY SUPPLIED planes for the Detroit Public Schools, Oakland

University and the University of Michigan. Often he has provided pianos at reduced costs and tuned his customers' planos without charge. He has also given generously to numerous charities. He prefers to discuss the Renner action of the Bechstein or the physics of sound.

"Yes, I won the Mackinaw race in 1952," he said with delight. His 45foot sailboat, "Orient," also won the -Trans Pacific Race and became the subject of the movie "Lucky Lady."

"I am just any ordinary man, but I have had a lot more time to be ordi-

N CASE you haven't heard, let me tell you a little about Rob Kantner. The 36-year-old writer of detective fiction could be one of the best-kept secrets in Michigan. I have no clue as to why.

To date, Westland's writer-in-residence has written 26 short stories (most of which can be found in Alfred Hitchcock's Mystery Magazine) and six crime novels.

Five of his short stories and two of his novels, "Dirty Work" and "The Back-Door Man," have been nominated for the Private Eye Writers of America Shamus Award. In 1986, his short story, "Fly Away Home," was named Best Short Story. of the Year by PWA. That same year, Kantner's "The Back-Door Man" received the Shamus Award for Best Paperback Novel. All of this has been accomplished in less than seven years, by the way. And while he's been racking up all these literary credits, there's also been the matter of holding down a full-time job as an advertising executive.

The robust, bespectacled-Navy veteran, who looks something like an English professor moonlighting as a plainclothesman, seems, now and then, almost unaware of all his successes.

MAYBE THERE'S been no time to consider the matter. Presently, he's putting together another short story, just finishing up a new novel, and looking ahead to another.

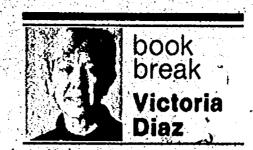

His newly-published "Hell's Only Half Full" (Bantam, $3.50) is the fourth novel in a series featuring Kantner's maintenance man-detective, Ben Perkins, a cigar-smoking Detroit native with a weakness for cold Stroh's, black coffee, Calvin and Hobbes, and "the smoking guitar work of Mr. Robin Trower."

The briskly-moving tale (not a whodunit) follows Perkins as he sets out to track down Kevin Witkowski, an errant 18-year-old who also happens to be the son of one of Perkins' old flames (another weakness). His search for the boy, who has disappeared as his father lies dying at-Harper Hospital, takes Perkins on a long and convoluted search through Detroit and environs, and up against a gang of particularly repulsive neo-Nazi Skinheads. Before it's over, Perkins has uncovered some pretty ugly stuff creeping and crawling around in the underbelly of society, and he's also uncovered a thing or two about. himself that isn't too pretty, either.

If there is a continuing "theme" in his books, Kantner said it's simply that the solution and conclusion of the story is never a complete victory for Perkins.

"DETECTIVE FICTION is almost by definition not a realistic depiction of life," he said. "But I try to get as close as I can. I try to give (Perkins) very human characteristics. He's got money problems, woman problems, his car breaks down, people get mad at him — the things that happen to all of us.

"Almost always, the (fictional) detective has to prevail, has to solve the crime. But I never let Perkins prevail 100 percent. He always pays a price of some kind. In 'Hell's Only Half Full,' a kid gets shot, which absolutely scares the hell out of him. He feels very guilty because he's

(earlier) manipulated the kid, used him, and put him into the situation, which caused him to get

Is Ben Perkins modeled after Rob Kantner? "In terms of his background and the details of his life, there's no resemblance," said Kantner, who has never worked as an investigator.

"He was born and grew up in Detroit, and I grew up in Georgia. That's where his hillbilly background comes from — his parents are from there. My parents came from Ohio. Also, I don't smoke cigars."

Kantner, speaking of Perkins' role as an apartment building maintenance man, said "fixing is a talent that I definitely don't have, ei-

"On the other hand, Ben Perkins is a 'fixer.' He gets satisfaction out of correcting things. And, in a sense, it's the role he fills as a detective, although he knows things can never be put back exactly the way they were."

KANTNER LIKES to emphasize that there's no weighty "statement" or "message" in any of his books.

"I always try to avoid (that)," he said. "In my teen-age years, I went through a period of writing incredible novels with incredible, sweeping statements, and I got that all out of my system

"To be very honest with you, I don't think anybody, in his or her heart, cares much about statements. I think some people say they care because they think they should — that they're somehow not intellectual if they don't.

"I just don't have any particular desire to preach to people, or to change people, or anything like that, though.

"I've had some people tell me that something I wrote moved them or made them think or whatever. And that's the most flattering thing you can hear as a writer. But it's not something that, when I sit down to write, is my main aim."

What might that be? "As I write, the thing I try to keep in mind is that I don't want the reader ever to put the book down. I'd rather they let the house burn as to put down my book, and that's how compelling I try to make it.

"That's the kind of thing I like, as a reader. I try to write for people for whom reading is a diversion, an entertainment, a form of escape a way to fill the time while you're waiting for the doctor to call you in, or for the plane to leave, or maybe for getting through an afternoon at your mother-in-law's house."

Perseverance pays off

In the past, I've written about the importance of making photographs - not just taking snapshots. Today I'd like to discuss one of the very important ingredients in the recipe of making strong photographs - developing patience.

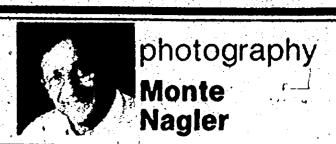

Developing a sense of patience in photography can not only offer a welcome break from the turbulent pace of every day life, but it will reward you with more impact-filled pictures.

How do you develop photo-related patience? For starters. slow down and study your subject carefully and thoroughly.

Let's use the approaching fall color change as an example. You've just driven out to the country and discovered a cluster of trees that are exploding with magnificent colors. Wait, don't snap that picture yet. Remember, we're nurturing a sense of patience. Start by really looking at those trees. Walk around them, get to know them and begin to get a feeling of the way they're being lit.

Ask yourself some questions. Would a different time of day improve the picture? Should I move in close or remain further back? Would a low or high vantage point make a difference? Is there an approaching cloud pattern that is worth waiting for? Is there a fence or road that would serve as an effective "lead-

Do you see what's happening? You're developing patience and your studying, planning and thinking about those trees will compensate you with a memorable photograph.

The photograph shown here, from a recent trip to Great Britain, is one of my favorites. It's of the spectacular Dunnottar Castle on the eastern coast of Scotland.

It took a lot of walking and climbing and studying the castle from many perspectives to find this vantage point. But alas, the sky was bald and I really wanted the added impact of dark clouds. Patience, I thought. If I wait long enough, Scotland's lickle weather would come through for me. Perseverance paid off. A storm brewed and I got the photo I wanted.

So place yourself in the category of all good doctors and dentists - after all, where would they be if they didn't have

Upholsterer requires trust

If you are considering reupholstering rather than buying new pieces, be sure to use an upholsterer in whom you have complete confidence.

The piece of furniture that is being recovered must be stripped down to the bare frame. There is very little saving in reupholstering, but if you have the comfort you need in a particular piece, 'go for it."

A new color or a change in the skirt of a sofa of chair, gives a new feeling. A corner box pleat or dressmaker skirt that is shirred on or softly gathered at the corners will give a new look. Fringe tassels and braid are very "in" for cushions - seat, back or toss.

I have just completed a living room in which the old upholstered pieces were recovered. The loose cushionback, Lawson-style sofa now has a skirt that is softly gathered at the corners.

The sofa previously had a kick-pleat skirt. The seat and back cushions are trimmed in moss fringe, which has the colors of the floral print used on the sofa and two round tufted back

Librarian creates board games

special writer

What do you get when you combine a creative, librarian with a talent for art? Fun and inexpensive board games by Alex Krentzin.

Boo! The Halloween Game" is just in time for the upcoming haunting holiday, "Boo!" teaches simple shapes to children ages four and up. The object of the game is to be the first player to put a pumpkin face together.

While the game is teacher or parent-directed at ifrst, a no-reading requirement allows kids to quickly catch on and be able to play themselves. A bonus of "Boo!" is that it moves quickly, thus holding young children's attention.

The board is laminated, making it hard to destroy. In fact, all three of Krentzin's games are laminated and come with a parts guarantee, which says if any part is lost or destroyed, it will be replaced free, Since kids love Halloween and games, it makes sense that this would be a treat as welcome as candy.

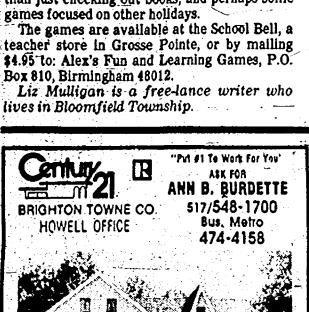

'SPLISH-SPLASH!" IS not just about awimming but teaches simple counting skills as the players round the board in attempts to "go swimming." While the game claims it is for ages four and up, non-readers will have a hard time without a parent, teacher or other reader to direct the action.

Finally, "Meow! Meow!" focuses on teaching simple addition skills in a playful way. The object of the cat-covered board game is to collect numbered cards to solve simple equations.

The original artwork for all three games was created by Krentzin on a computer. While the pictures are simple, they are clever, colorful and appeal to a sense of fun.

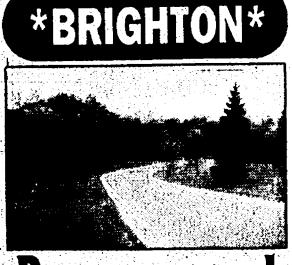

Krentzin is a University of Michigan graduate who studied art at the undergraduate level and later earned a master's in library science. A frustrated toy designer, he recalls loving "Chutes and Ladders" and "Candyland" as a child. His inspiration for the games he has created comes from an blend of all the games he played in his younger days. Krentzin, a librarian in neighboring Berkley, knows that kids' games have to be faster and more visual than adult games and both features are built into his work.

FUTURE PLANS CALL for a library game where children learn that a library is for more than just checking out books, and perhaps some

Building Scene

The new Radisson Resort and Conference Center in Ypsilanti features $250,000 worth of landscaping.

Away from the asphalt jungle

By Doug Funke

Developers and builders have come a long way from days when landscaping seemed almost like an afterthought to a project.

Now, between complying with land use laws established by municipalities and trying to attract buyers or tenants into residential or commercial developments, hundreds of thousands of dollars get spent on trees, shrubs, berms, flowers and water at a single building site. "I think there's a growing concern with the integration of an activity into the community as a whole," said William Allen, an associate professor in the college of architecture and design at Lawrence Technologial University.

"A good landscape development — site plan — will facilitate that."

PEOPLE APPARENTLY are facilitating.

• Bernard Glieberman, president contractor 'was told to get it green, throw a few trees on and get out. Contractors now are getting into brick work, decks, ponds, gazebos.'

- Dennis Crimboli Crimboli Landscape Contractors of Crosswinds Communities, said he spent $1 million planting mature trees rather than saplings at Greenpointe Condominiums, a 112-acre site at 14 Mile and Halsted in West Bloomfield.

• Jim and Marilyn Funk, developers and builders of a 30-unit condominium community, The Legends, on Halsted just south of 14 Mile in Farmington Hills, said they spent upward of $300,000 landscaping that 10-acre parcel.

• Dennis Crimboli, president of Crimboli Landscape Contractors in Canton, said he did upward of $250,000 worth of work landscaping the new Radisson Resort and Conference Center in Ypsilanti.

"Landscaping is a requirement in most communities," Glieberman said. "In condominiums or any kind of housing . . . you want to put in materials that are mature. No one wants to wait eight to 10 years for things to grow."

The Funks built three ponds and seeded a meadow with wildflowers land requirements, but also because they liked the concept and figured buyers would, too.

"THE WHOLE point is we wanted people to feel it was a natural transition from rough-rough, to wildflower to fine planting," Jim said. "I think it's a different concept."

"Landscaping sets a mood for me," Marilyn said.

Crimboli, who built his company from a two-person operation in 1972 to 35 now, has seen a dramatic change in the business.

"What happened maybe 10 years ago, maybe 15 years ago, (was that) the landscaper generally was the last person in on a project," he said. "The budget was sometimes limited and he was told to get it green, throw a few trees on and get out.

"Contractors now are getting into Selling or beautifying

By Doug Funke Btaff writer

It's like a variation of the the old chicken-egg

Do developers and builders landscape because, it's required by local ordinance or because it Probably for both reasons in different proportions on a case-by-case basis.

"I don't know if it's out of the goodness of their heart or the necessity of getting approval," said William Allen, an associate professor in the colege of architecture and design at Lawrence Technological University.

"Developers are being forced to be more sensitive to the landscape as it exists and to regenerate it after development has taken place," Allen said. Landscaping beyond minimum requirements can be an effective marketing tool.

"YOU'RE GOING to do what sells papers. They're going to do what sells property," said Thomas Bird, senior planner for West Bloomfield

Bernard Glieberman said he went way beyond what was required by West Bloomfield when he built Greenpointe Conforminiums.

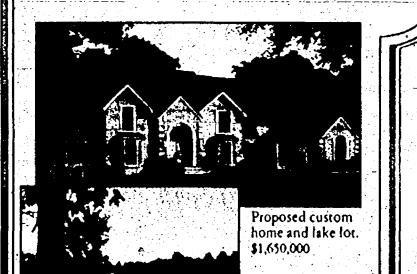

He received a landscape award from the Greater West Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce this summer for his efforts.

"There's not one factor that causes somethe to buy, but landscaping is a factor, and I feel a very important one," Glieberman said.

Pam and Jeff MicAllef, who own a two-bedroom, three-bath unit at Greenpointe, prove Glieberman's point. "Specifically, it offered a beautiful setting," Jeff said of the attraction. "They left a lot of trees and they did a beautiful job of landscaping. They have a lot of flowers, water and in front, a bridge from bathhouses to the pool."

A Development of CONTORATION

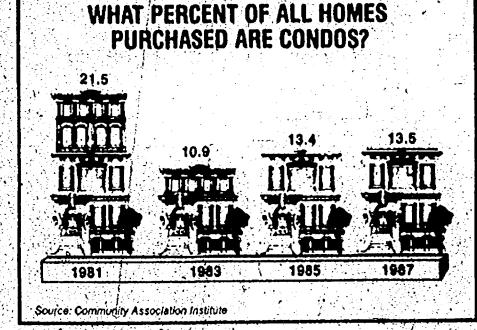

Study condo scene before making commitment

Condominiums, and their maintenance-free lifestyles, have traditionally attracted singles and busy professionals who don't have the time or desire to mow lawns or shovel snow from their driveways. Just as often, individuals choose a condo rather than a conventional house because of

But condos aren't for everyone, and the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs urges prospective buyers to review the pros and cons before buying a condo.

In many ways, owning a condominium isn't very different from owning a conventional, single-family residence. You secure a mortgage, pay real estate taxes and gain many of the same tax deductions as other homeowners. But don't be fooled into thinking that both types of ownership are the same.

IN A condominium, you own an individual unit was well as a share of the development's common property and facilities, such as a swimming pool or tennis court. But you generally do not own the property surrounding your condo and may not even have final say on the look of your condo's exterior.

While operation and maintenance of the condo's common property are not the owner's concern, the fees for such services are. In some developments, monthly maintenance charges can run as high as several hundred dollars - in addition to mortgage payments.

Consider, too, that most condo owners not only have close neighbors but also have to abide by numerous community association rules on decorating exteriors, landscaping and using the development's common grounds and facilities.

FOR THE MOST part, condominium owners do get the same tax treatment as other homeowners. You are entitled to deduct mortgage interest, property taxes and any casualty losses you may incur. In addition, all the rules relating to the sale of a principal residence apply to condominiums, including the oncein-a-lifetime_$125,000_exclusion_of_ profits to anyone 55 or older who meets the ownership and use requirements. Some special tax considerations exist solely for condo owners. In rare instances, part of the monthly maintenance fee may be deductible on your federal income tax return. Occasionally, you may also be able to deduct property taxes assessed on the development's common ele-

WHEN A share of your maintenance fees is used to pay taxes, for instance, you may be entitled to a deduction. Similarly, you can often deduct any mortgage interest on your share of common property, such as a social hall where residents

Another advantage can be found in developments that use cash reserves to improve and replace structures in common areas. In such cases, an individual owner may be able to add his reserve contributions to the condo's original cost and thus trim capital gains when he decides to sell the condo.

Before buying a condo, you should try to investigate the type of reserve fund offered by the development. Remember, not all condos are equal. Your actual financial liability for a condo can vary greatly depending on several factors, the reserve fund being just one.

Mortgage terms, for example, can be confusing. If the condo developers offer financing packages, be cautious. In some cases, a deep discount in loan rates masks steep increases in future payments. If you finance through a developer, note the term of the mortgage and the annual percentage rate. Figure out what your monthly payments will be not only this year, but what they may be five or 10 years from now.

WHEN CALCULATING the actual cost of a condo, you also need to determine the exact purpose of the monthly maintenance fees. How much money is targeted for future expenses? Are security or other services, such as garbage collection, included? Are any major repairs pend-

The amount of the fee can change from year to year, depending on circumstances. Shoddy construction on a newly developed condo may result in a substantial increase in fees in just a few years. If your developer has built other condominiums, askthose tenants if their maintenance fees have risen and why.

Find out about the other owners. If some have refused to pay their share for the development's upkeep, you and other owners may have to make up the difference. Ask the association about its priorities and plans.

YOU MAY not want to pay more maintenance fees in order to establish a fully staffed day care center, but if the rest of the association votes in favor of such a facility, you'll be obligated to pay your share.

Calefully read the association's bylaw. If you operate a business out of youthome, make sure the association permits such activity. Bylaws can also place limitations on your ability to rent your condo to some one else - a factor that can be of critical importance if the condo is a second home The rules and bylaws ... may also place restrictions on your. home-entertainment activities, such as barbecues and parties.

CPAs say that if you are thinking about buying a condo to rent out; most of the time, you may be able to take the numerous deductions avail. able for owners of rental property. Because tax reform has made the rules for figuring these deductions; more complicated than in the past explore the consequences - before buying.

Move toward making a list

By Robin Gaines special writer

Moving is considered one of the most stressful experiences befalling man or beast. According to mental health professionals, it rates right up there with changing jobs and having a · Still, it is an experience most will go through at least once in their lives.

Whether you are moving from your parents' home into an apartment or dormitory 10 miles away or are moving your family of four plus a dog, cat and rooms of furniture across country, the key to surviving the experience is organization.

In the last year, I have had the unfortunate nightmare of moving twice. Once with a month-old baby, the second time

In both cases, we moved about 35 miles. Not the other side of the world, but enough of a change to make you miss close neighbors, favorite restaurants and video stores. But going through the second move wasn't as stressful as the first, and I'm convinced it was because I was so well organized. What made the experience bearable was keeping up-to-date lists and getting things done early. Here are a few hints that helped me survive the ordeal.

ONCE YOU KNOW a move is inevitable and before you put your house up for sale, take inventory of what is in your home. Now is the time to pitch old magazines, used cans of paint (call your-solid waste disposal service for information on how to do this) and broken lamps you've been meaning to fix.

Hold a garage sale for items like used baby clothes and furniture, outgrown bikes, books and records you don't want. Remember, one of the best things about moving is that it gives you the opportunity to start fresh without taking a lot of excess baggage with you to your new house. An inventory of furniture and household items will also help moving companies give you a more accurate estimate on what it will cost to move you from one house to another .-Bibl Winfield, author of "Moving: Checklists, Planning Schedules, and Do-ahead Reminders for a Hassle-free Move," recommends taking inventory room by room and writing down exactly what items you intend to move. Once the house is sold, contact several moving companies for free estimates on what it will cost to move your belongings. Request that representatives from the various companies survey your home prior to quoting you a price.

Keep a list of the companies, quotes and what services they provide. Will the company pack for you? Unpack? Supply boxes? How many movers will the company have loading and unloading the truck? What does the company's liability insurance cover in the event of loss or damage to your furnishings?

WITH MOVING costs running anywhere from $500 to $20,000 it's important to get your questions answered before you commit to one particular company.

For those moving for the first time who have not yet accumulated rooms of furniture and years of junk, there are weekend movers who provide nothing more than a pair of strong shoulders and a truck.

Usually cheaper, these operations sometimes carry no insurance. If something is lost or damaged, the company or individual is not held responsible.

There are also-companies that specialize in moving such items antiques, paintings and planos. Again, make sure you understand ahead of time what's covered by insurance.

Two months before the move, Winfield recommends photographing valuables like jewelry, painting, antiques and crystal in the event an item will have to be replaced.

One of the best things about . moving is that it gives you the opportunity to start fresh without taking a lot of excess baggage with you to your new house.

Next, if you have contracted with a company that does not provide packing services, you'll want to start the arduous task yourself as soon as possible. Start collecting sturdy, clean boxes from local grocery and liquor stores. Begin room by room packing items you won't need for awhile: books, records, linens, knickknacks, crystal and china. Repeat this process until you are a few days from the move.

MAKE SURE each box packed is labeled with its contents and what room it will occupy in the new house ("bath towels, upstairs bathroom"). Winfield recommends not using big boxes since they are hard to lift when packed and are too bulky to fit in a truck or car.

Wrap all breakable items with newspaper and mark the box "Fragile."

Closer to moving day, set aside a box from the bedroom, bathroom and kitchen that contains essential items you will need the first few days in your new house. Make sure the boxes are marked differently then the others.

One month before the move, start sending change-of-address cards (which can be picked up free of charge at the post office) to credit card companies, banks, businesses, clubs, organizations and family and friends.

Most magazine subscriptions request that you notify them of your new address eight weeks in advance.

Arrange to have services such as gas, electricity, phone, cable TV, water and trash pickup canceled for a particular date and installed at your new address.

One week before the move, Winfield recommends closing out all bank accounts, finishing any last-minute housework (like cleaning the oven) and saying goodbye to neighbors.

FOR THOSE MOVING out of state, this is the time to pick up traveler's checks, secure all valuables you are taking with you, and assemble last-minute items you are taking on the trip, such as medications, maps, toys for the kids, clothes and toiletries.

On moving day, double check closets and cabinets for items the movers might have missed. Do this before you sign the delivery papers (or bill of lading).

Before the movers pull out of the driveway with all your worldly possessions, make sure they have directions to the new house and a contact phone number. Winfield suggests writing down the truck's license plate number, case.

Make sure to drop the house keys off at your Realtor's office.

After the movers unload the truck, inspect all pieces (boxes as well as furniture) and list anything lost or-damaged on the delivery papers before signing. Once in your new home, the real job begins: unpacking, get-ting used to unfamiliar surroundings and meeting new beigh-

66 All that we were told is true! 99

We were told that Muirwood was the best and now we know that it is!

It's obvious why Muirwood is everyone's first choice. It's centrally located in Farmington Hills and features a 24-hour secured gatchouse that always has a reassuring welcome for you each time you come home. Plus, there's a wide variety of very private and spacious one and two bedroom apartments, each with its own private terrace or balcony. Muirwood also features attached covered parking, full-size washers and dryers, window coverings, magnificently-landscaped, rolling terrain that includes an 18-acre nature trail and private lagoon, awimming pools, tennis and volleyball courts, picnic area and an exquisite

Everyone's talking about Muirwood, and why not? Last year alone, more than half of our new residents were referred to us by people who live or used to ve at Muirwood. Talk about satisfaction!

Mulrwood is everyone's first choice. Call today and let us tell you why it should be yours, too! ... And hen tell your friends!

RITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

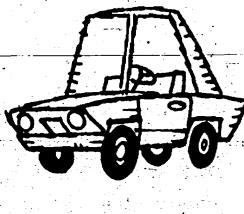

1. Cive the reader specific information, Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add détails such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurated Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards

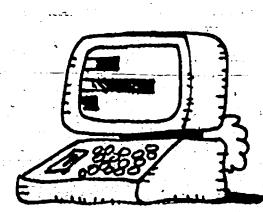

2. Include the price, Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use ഘടുpiete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be avallable. Don't risk missing a

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if . people don't see it! Therefore, it Is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative...
