Man charged in murder at mobile park

By Tedd Schneider
and Mary Rodrigue

An acquaintance from a neighboring mobile home park has been charged with first-degree felony murder in the Oct. 5 slaying of an 81-year-old Westland man.

James Vincent Ferrari, 27, a resident of the Big Trees Mobile Home Community was arraigned on the murder charge Sunday. The Big Trees park is adjacent to the Mohawk Mobile Home Court, where the victim, Haskel Walworth, lived.

Both parks are on Joy, west of Inkster Road.

Police are investigating the possibility that Ferrari acted in self-defense.

A not guilty plea was entered for Ferrari, who is being held in the Wayne County Jail without bond. A preliminary examination is scheduled for Monday in Westland's 18th District Court.

POLICE SAID the stabbing occurred about 6 p.m. Thursday, shortly after Walworth returned to his small mobile home at the front of the Mohawk Court park.

Police said Ferrari often spent time with friends who lived in a mobile home directly across from the victim's home.

Walworth's car was found parked in a Dearborn Heights junior high school lot Friday. After finding the car, Dearborn Heights police checked on the license plate and asked Westland police to check on the owner.

An officer found the door to the mobile home slightly ajar and the victim in the living room wearing a

There were signs of a struggle in the mobile home living room and the bedroom had been ransacked, police said.

Police said Ferrari was found intoxicated and sleeping about noon Friday in a wooded field about 450 feet from where the victim's car was parked. The keys to the victim's car were found in Ferrari's pocket, police said.

Westland Police Detective Sgt. Jerry Wright Tuesday credited the Dearborn Heights police and the Wayne County Sheriff's department for the quick arrest.

OFFICERS USED a tracking dog from the sheriff's department in their search.

"I'm confident we would have eventually made an arrest, but the help we received made things a lot easier," Wright said.

Police declined Tuesday to speculate on a motive for the killing.

Griffin, Thomas disagree on staffing

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

This is the last of two articles profiling the views of Westland mayoral candidates. Mayor Charles Griffin and challenger Robert Thomas spoke about the issues during an Oct. 4 interview at the Observer offices in Livonia. Previous statements made on the record and campaign literature were also used in compiling the stories. The election is Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Improving the technology available to Westland's police officers and firefighters will boost the city's public safety level without significant and costly increases in staffing, said Charles Griffin.

Griffin, seeking a second term, said one of his goals is to continue to upgrade public safety through the use of computers and other high-tech equipment. The mayor also pointed to his replacement of aging rescue vehicles and the hiring of additional police and fire dispatchers last summer as something that will put more patrol officers and firefighters with better equipment on the streets.

"THERE ARE other ways you can deal with public safety, beyond personnel, and I think we've done that," Griffin said. "You've got to get into a technology mode that allows you to do a better job with the people you have."

Thomas agrees that police and fire services need to be improved.

But Thomas, a 19-year employee with the city's public services department, said the way to do that is with people, not just machines.

"I don't advocate coming up with $5 million in the first year and going out and hiring 10 cops and 10 firefighters," Thomas said. "I just think that would be my goal, to find some money in the budget (for additional public safety staffing)."

Thomas said he has examined the current budget and found areas that could be trimmed without hurting city services.

He said there were three administrative positions (of the 16 appointed by the mayor) that could be dropped. He declined to identify which three.

He said the city could also realize additional savings through "better purchasing" and by eliminating six police squad cars from the current 22-car fleet.

HE ALSO SAID there was room for improvement in the maintenance of city vehicles and that he would have the city's labor relations department handle some of the work currently done by city attorneys in order to save money.

But Griffin challenged Thomas' assertion that the city's $1.2 million unallocated fund balance could be used for public safety.

"That's one-time money," Griffin said. "If you spend it for public safety, what are you going to do the year after that?"

"You can't base your budget on whether you can hire them (police officers and firefighters) for this year only," Griffin said.

The two candidates also differ on how to handle fire department staffing.

Since April, 1988, one of the city's four fire stations is often closed for up to 24 hours as part of a contract agreement with the Westland Firefighters' Association. The agreement is designed to ensure two firefighters can man every vehicle answering a call.

Griffin said a recent study by Fire Chief Larry Lane indicates that response times have been slowed by about 30 seconds because of the closings. "And by no means is there a station closed every day," Griffin said.

THE MAYOR said the "increased fire suppression" more than makes up for the slightly slower response time.

"The (current) ability to put water on a fire once (the first truck) arrives saves us untold amounts of time," Griffin said. "The old method was unsafe — for firefighters as well as residents."

Griffin said he would continue to attempt to increase fire service "to the point where we don't have reassignments of personnel (station closings)."

But the mayor said another attempt at getting a public safety millage approved by voters (a 2-mill ballot proposal failed in 1986) was unlikely in the near future.

Thomas, on the other hand, said he would work within the current contract — increasing overtime if necessary — in order to have four fire stations operational on a full-time basis.

"There's no magic answer, I know that," Thomas said. "But I think those things are going to be my priorities."

He said the first thing he would attempt to do is get at least an ambulance running out of each station. "I think if we have to utilize a little more overtime and call people in, that's what we'll have to do," Thomas said.

In putting together an appointed staff, Thomas said some current department heads might keep their jobs should he be elected.

"I AM NOT one of those who advocate we sweep everybody out the door," Thomas said. "That would be a risky business."

If elected, Thomas said he would interview all current department heads before making decisions. "We do have some very well qualified people on the mayor's staff at this point in time," he said.

Candidates feud over 'work ethics'

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

It started out as a cordial, if spirited discussion of the issues between Mayor Charles Griffin and challenger Robert Thomas.

But Tuesday's "meet the candidates" luncheon sponsored by the Westland Chamber of Commerce ended with bang — a heated, personal exchange between the two regarding their opponents' "work ethics."

Griffin, answering an anonymous question from an audience which included a large number of city employees, challenged Thomas to open his personnel file to the public.

"Let's see who is a dedicated, caring employee," Griffin said in an apparent response to some of Thomas' campaign literature.

"I have never ever received one reprimand," Griffin said. "Let's see who has reprimands, abuse of sick time — who's a dedicated employee."

THOMAS, who has worked for the city's department of public services for 19 years, told the audience that Griffin was raising something that wasn't "a real issue."

"I'm not interested in how many sick days he's (Griffin) had and I think my work ethic is good enough," Thomas said.

In a brief interview following the program, Thomas called Griffin's tactic "a cheap shot."

"He may be talking a clean campaign, but he's not running one if that's the kind of thing he resorts to," Thomas said.

When questioned after the program, Griffin claimed he raised the issue "because his (Thomas') people are going out and telling (residents) that I'm inaccessible, that I'm never in my office — and that's just not true."

Griffin backed off on his challenge concerning personnel records and acknowledged that he couldn't legally gain access to Thomas' file without permission. Before he was elected mayor in late 1985, Griffin was a Michigan Education Association employee for the teachers' union.

Guilty pleas spare victim 'pain' of trial

Guilty pleas Monday by a Westland man and his adult daughter in the attempted murder of Anna Kwiatkowski will spare their intended victim the emotional pain of a court trial, a detective associated with the case said.

"For Anna's benefit, this is really a good thing," said Police Detective Sgt. Jerry Wright. "It would have been really hard to put her through the ordeal of a trial."

Valentine Kwiatkowski, 78, and Carol Kwiatkowski, 43, changed their not guilty pleas during a pre-trial hearing in front of Detroit Recorder's Court Judge John O'Brien.

They will be sentenced by O'Brien Nov. 20 following psychiatric evaluations, which were ordered by the judge.

The two face a maximum sentence of life in prison for the Aug. 6 shooting of Anna in the family's Wildwood street home.

Released on bond several weeks ago, they have returned to their home.

Anna Kwiatkowski, 34, has since recovered and is living with a friend, according to her attorney. She didn't attend Monday's hearing.

The Kwiatkowskis told O'Brien they planned to kill Anna as a way to end years of misery created by her health problems and mounting medical bills.

Anna Kwiatkowski reportedly weighs close to 300 pounds and suffers from severe asthma.

The two said they planned to hide the body in a large freezer before killing themselves.

Wright said the defendants' change of heart wasn't surprising because prosecutors had built a good case against the pair.

Mayor race concerns firefighters

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

The Westland Firefighters' Association is worried that a potential change in the city administration could void a series of moves accomplished by Mayor Charles Griffin, who is seeking a second term Nov. 7.

At stake are community education and firefighter training programs, a staffing plan that rotates station closings, to increase manpower on fire runs, and a vehicle replacement program, according to the firefighters.

"(Mayoral challenger) Robert Thomas says if he is elected, he'll open all four stations," said Mark Neal, past president of the 83-member association.

The firefighters are concerned that the closings could be an emotionally charged campaign issue. They say that if a neighborhood station is closed occasionally, adequate fire protection still is being provided. But they admit that response time has been affected.

One or two of the city's four fire halls are closed periodically to comply with a new union contract that specifies the number of firefighters on a fire engine. When there aren't enough men available, one or two stations are closed to ensure there are at least two persons on an engine.

The firefighters' union, which has endorsed Griffin, said that Thomas' plan for keeping all four stations open daily could violate the union contract, which requires that at least two firefighters must be on a fire truck when answering a call.

Central station (adjacent to city hall on Ford near Carlson) and station No. 3, on Palmer west of Merriam, are always open. The central station covers an area with the greatest number of senior citizen residents, who account for most rescue calls.

BUT STATIONS No. 2 (on Merriam south of Ann Arbor Trail) and No. 4 (on Palmer east of Newburgh) rotate closings on odd and even numbered days. That allows increased manpower to respond to fire calls.

"It's an improvement over what we had," said Kevin Riley, union president. "Sometimes the response time is somewhat delayed. But the protection is better once we are there. This is not a final solution. This administration realizes we need more manpower to increase our effectiveness."

Prior to the current plan, three of the city's four fire stations were staffed with three firefighters — two to respond on rescue calls (which comprise 70 percent of the workload) and one left to man the engine. In addition, central station has a battalion chief.

On fire calls, one firefighter responded initially and was unable to act until joined by an engine from another station — sometimes a five- or six-minute delay.

"No one can be their own fire department," Neal said. "It takes a team. In Westland, up until a year and a half ago, our team consisted of one man on the engine and two on the rescue vehicle at each station. That's very hazardous for us and for the citizens."

The firefighters say the current arrangement isn't ideal, but is far better than the previous one.

"IN THE 14 years I've been here, it's the best system we've had," Neal said.

"(Griffin) does have a plan. We're working on a much improved fire safety system."

Last year, Westland firefighters responded to 4,300 runs in the 22 square mile city.

"Over the past two years, firefighter training has improved. In this administration, we are all trained emergency medical technicians with officer training. This is a pro-education administration," Neal said.

The firefighters have initiated educational programs in the schools. Target groups also have included senior citizens. Firefighters built a fire safety house on city property adjacent to central station for use by community groups.

Several classes from Wayne-Westland Schools and groups such as scout troops have taken part in the on-site fire education safety program.

"The firefighters themselves built the home with money donated from city businesses," Neal said. "No tax dollars were involved."

THE UNION also credits his administration for getting the department back on track regarding vehicle replacement. Last year two new rescue vehicles were purchased and a new engine is currently on order.

"The 9-1-1 (emergency telephone) system was established during this administration," Riley said. "Griffin is very safety oriented."

Challenger vows to open all fire stations

Mayor challenger Robert Thomas insists that he can keep the city's four fire halls open daily without violating a firefighters' union contract that provides for minimum staffing on fire trucks. (See related story above.)

Thomas, responding to statements from the union, which is supporting Mayor Charles Griffin, said his campaign promise of keeping all the stations open daily doesn't mean hiring at least 15 more firefighters, a figure raised during the campaign.

The candidate also said that if a fire engine can't be assigned to all four stations daily, he would insist on two men on each emergency medical services ambulance at each station.

Thomas denied that keeping the stations open daily would cost substantial dollars to implement.

IF ELECTED, Thomas said he would review the city budget and make some spending cuts without cutting programs and services.

Only a person "living in a dream world" would say that there is no waste in the city budget, said the candidate, a municipal public services department employee for 19 years.

Thomas said it is odd that the firefighters' association is supporting Griffin because the union has had more unfair labor practice charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board than any other local municipal union.

The challenger said voters will look at each candidate and what the candidates want to do and avoid emphasizing specific numbers in campaign disputes.

Thomas said that he wants to tell the public of his priorities — public safety and public services — and that the campaign tactics and rhetoric are not helping anyone.

to the citizens to see that they do have qualified personnel."

Griffin meanwhile, said criticism last summer from some council members regarding his appointment of purchasing agent Ellen Courter was unwarranted.

"I think the policy of promoting from within is a good one, it's good for morale," he said. "But I don't think you promote from within if there's nobody there that can do the job." He said the fact that the only appointed officials to leave during his administration have accepted better job offers elsewhere is evidence that his appointments have been "qualified people."

Griffin said he would put more emphasis on hiring women and minority employees if elected to a second term.

Nominations sought for service award

There's time to submit nominations for the First Citizen of Westland community service award.

The judges have been selected for the award, initiated in 1986 through the sponsorship of the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

Any group or individual may nominate a person for the award, to be given at the chamber's membership luncheon Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Nominees must be someone active in a community, civic or service organization that has a direct impact on the community.

Residency is not a requirement for nomination.

Deadline for nominations is Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Judges for the fourth annual award will be Sam Corrado, automatically named to the judging committee for winning last year's award; Janet Lockman, Wayne-Westland Family YMCA executive director; Joyce Wheeler, chamber office manager; and Thomas Svtkovich; Wayne-Westland School District associate superintendent for communication and finance and the Westland Rotary Club president.

BESIDES Corrado, other First Citizens were Joseph Benyo, honored in 1986, and Thomas Brown, recognized the next year.

Nominations should include information about the candidate's community service activities and how those activities have affected the community.

Nominees will be considered for being involved in a variety of activities or for specializing in just one.

The judging committee will meet in early November to review the nominations and select the 1989 First Citizen, who will be announced the week before the luncheon.

Not eligible are judges and full-time employees of the chamber and the Observer.

Nominations are to be sent to the Westland Observer editorial department, First Citizen Award, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, by Oct. 25.

City, police try to settle dispute

By Ted Schneider
staff writer

The Westland Police Sergeants and Lieutenants Association and the city are still talking in an effort to resolve their contract dispute, despite a pending request by the union to settle the matter through binding arbitration.

Sgt. Robert Barthold, SLA president, said the city presented a new proposal at a meeting last week attended by attorneys representing both sides. The unit's 22 members, all command officers, were scheduled to discuss the proposal at their regular monthly meeting Wednesday night, Barthold said.

Barthold declined to discuss details of the proposal, although he said it did address pension benefits, which has been a major sticking point in the 15-month-long negotiations.

He said the union would seek outside expert opinions on the merits of the proposal.

Sgt. Robert Barthold, SLA president, said the city presented a new proposal at a meeting last week attended by attorneys representing both sides.

"We're taking the attitude that we have to look at it with an open mind and see what they (the city) say," Barthold said.

The proposal, if accepted by the union, would need the approval of the Westland City Council. In early September, the council declined to put a proposed settlement on its agenda, requesting more information on its cost to the city.

CITY ATTORNEY Charles Bokos said the city hadn't received the arbitration request as of Oct. 2.

At the Oct. 2 city council meeting he said "there appear to have been some breakthroughs" regarding the contract dispute.

Barthold confirmed last week that the arbitration request, although already written, has yet to be delivered.

Asked if the undelivered request represents a change in the union's position, Barthold said "we're always willing to talk."

A statement issued by the union three weeks ago suggested the union was moving to arbitration as a last resort. In the statement, the union took Mayor Charles Griffin's administration to task for impeding negotiations by refusing to support the recent proposed agreement or provide the details requested by the council.

The administration's actions have "hand-tied" the council, the statement said.

Negotiations between the two parties have been bitter at times, with the union issuing a bumper sticker prior to last month's primary election critical of Griffin and the mayor subsequently calling a press conference to refute what he called "misleading crime statistics" distributed by the union.

The last contract between the city and the union expired in June 1988. The arbitration process could take at least six months.

Visitors to the haunted house will be greeted by this werewolf.

Freddy Krueger of "Nightmare on Elm Street" fame will be at the Jaycees' haunted house for two weeks.

"Jason" (portrayed by Ed Wran-sky) lashes out with a knife in practicing his haunted house role.

Houses offer spirit of season

Local youngsters will be the targets of fiends and ghosts for the next two weeks, thanks to two community service organizations.

In a coincidence of the calendar, two haunted houses will open on Friday the 13th.

One will be sponsored by the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA, whose service area includes Garden City, and the Westland Jaycees.

The YMCA house will be in the Y's barn, 827 S. Wayne Road, south of Cherry Hill, while the Jaycees will set up their operation in a vacant house on the north side of Ford, a half mile west of Wayne Road, opposite Westland City Hall.

Tammy McKinstry, Jaycees' vice president in charge of the project, said Freddy Krueger, made famous in the numerous Elm Street horror films, and Jason of Friday the 13th motion picture fame, will be on hand for the next two weeks.

The house will have 11 rooms and four mazes, she said.

Hours will be 7-11 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays, and 7-midnight on Fridays and Saturdays, through Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Admission is $2 for children 8 and under and $3 for others.

Proceeds will be used to support the Jaycees' many community service projects, such as the upcoming food basket activity to provide Christmas dinners for needy families and the annual children's Christmas shopping tour.

TWO MILES away at the Y barn, the haunted house will be open from 6:30-11 p.m. weekdays and Sundays and 6:30 p.m.-midnight on Fridays and Saturdays. It will be open this weekend; in addition to Thursday through Sunday, Oct. 19-22, and Thursday through Tuesday, Oct. 26-31.

Admission is $2.50.

A "friendly monster night" will be from 5:30-6:30 p.m. this Saturday and Saturday, Oct. 28, for younger children who may not be able to take the scheduled haunted house figures, said a Y spokesperson. That fee is 50 cents per child. Parents will be admitted free.

The Y will also sponsor "ghostly" overnight parties for youngsters in the first through sixth grades with apple bobbing, games, movies, swimming and a haunted house visit, planned.

Those overnights are scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 21, and 8 p.m., Friday, Oct. 27. Parents are to pick up their children at 8 the next morning.

Youngsters are asked to bring sleeping bags, bathing suits, and towels. The Y will supply an evening treat and continental breakfast. That activity carries a fee of $10 for Y members and $15 for program members.

Board honors educators for 30 years of service

The Livonia school board recently honored 14 teachers who have each spent 30 years of service to the district, which includes the northern section of Westland.

"We must have hired some of these people when they were 16," said board trustee Richard Thorderson before the 14 educators were cited for their "sincere and dedicated service" to the district.

Cited in special resolutions were: George Altenberger, who has worked as a teacher for the learning disabled; Richard C. Braun, who has served as principal at Pierson, Rosedale, Washington, Westland's Nankin Mills, Adams and Hull elementaries; Kathleen Good, who has worked at Whitman, Franklin, Emerson, Whittier and Holmes schools; and Harry Flower, who has worked as a teacher and department chairman at Bentley, Franklin and Churchill high schools.

Pumpkin decorating contest helps the historical museum

A "great pumpkin patch" contest will be sponsored for people of all ages by the Friends of the Helen C. Brown Westland Historical Museum Saturday, Oct. 28.

There will be two categories: carved pumpkins and painted pumpkins. Registration for the contest will start at 11 a.m., with judging from noon to 1 p.m. The auction will start at 1 p.m. Melasi said the museum is open from 1-4 p.m. Saturdays. Chairperson of the project is Con-

The museum, a former single-family home, was dedicated in the memory of Helen C. Brown a year ago for time and effort she devoted to the museum.

The city has acquired additional historical buildings which have been located behind the museum.

Registration for the contest will start at 11 a.m., with judging from noon to 1 p.m.

Melasi said Beverly Melasi, spokesperson for the event.

There will be prizes for the best three pumpkins in each category. After the judging, the pumpkins will be auctioned by Friends to raise funds for the museum, at 857 N. Wayne Road, between Cherry Hill and Marquette.

Melasi said all pumpkins should be brought to the museum the day of the contest. There will be no preliminary judging. The judging committee will review all the pumpkins.

She added that local merchants are invited to attend the Oct. 28 event and buy a decorated or carved pumpkin during the auction and display it at their places of business or homes. Proceeds from the auction

Schools split on tax issues

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Everyone, it seems, is taking a stand on Proposals A and B — two separate ballot issues that would raise the state sales tax and give more money to Michigan's public schools.

From Gov. James Blanchard to the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, endorsements have been flying thick and fast for the proposals, which will be decided by voters in a statewide balloting Tuesday, Nov. 7.

But what about the beneficiaries? Where do the area's public schools stand on Proposals A and B?

They don't stand united — that's for sure.

Differences between wealthy and poorer school districts prompted both ballot issues. Those differences carry over to the differing endorsements issued by western Wayne school districts.

Endorsements from the area districts have varied because of a series of factors, including district tax rate, economic base and how much money each district currently receives from the state.

IN LIVONIA, home of auto plants, numerous office buildings and three major shopping malls, school board members turned thumbs down on Proposal B because it would limit local millage rates and redistribute a portion of local tax revenue on a statewide basis.

It would "allow the state to capture a very significant part of the local tax base," Livonia school board members said in a prepared statement issued to city taxpayers. "Proposal B would result in direct financial loss to the Livonia School District."

Livonia Schools officials stopped short of endorsing Proposal A, however, only encouraging voters to give "serious consideration" to the half-cent sales tax increase. (For details of each proposal, see related story.)

trict, Livonia receives no direct state aid for classroom education.

In Redford-Union Schools, a heavily residential district long envious of industrial development in neighboring South Redford, school officials prefer Proposal B for the same reason their Livonia counterparts oppose it.

"THOUGH WE'VE endorsed both, our preference is B," Superintendent Kenneth Erickson said. "The sharing of revenue is something we've long sought."

Neighboring South Redford, with most of the township's industrial and commercial tax base within its boundaries, hasn't taken a position and isn't expected to take one.

"Our board has taken the position that they aren't endorsing any

More than 2,700 helped Rouge cleanup

Final figures for this year's Rouge Rescue show more than 2,700 volunteers removed more than 3,000 yards of debris from the heavily polluted Rouge River.

The clean-up occurred June 3 at sites throughout Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

Wayne County sites included:

• Canton — More than 100 volunteers worked the township site. Items pulled from the river included a gutted automobile, wading pool and various auto parts. At least 40 cubic yards of debris were removed.

• Livonia — More than 100 volunteers removed two log jams, a couch, storm door and tires along the upper Rouge. Students from Livonia Churchill, Franklin and Stevenson high schools participated.

• Plymouth — Volunteers working along Tonquish Creek removed an estimated 40 cubic yards of debris. Members of two area group homes were among the volunteers.

• Redford — Roughly 110 volunteers helped clean the Rouge in Lola Valley Park. Five log jams and more than 60 cubic yards of debris were removed. Items removed included bicycles, tires and an air conditioner. Students from Redford Union and Thurston high schools participated.

• Westland — An estimated 230 volunteers worked with the Holiday Park Nature Preserve Association to clean Tonquish Creek in Hines Park. Volunteers removed six log jams and cleared more than 60 cubic yards of debris. Items removed included shopping carts and a hot water tank. Students from Churchill, Franklin and Stevenson high schools participated.

Another 114 volunteers worked the Nankin Mills site sponsored by City Management Corp. More than 200 cubic yards of debris were removed at the site. The site also featured the first serious injury in the event's history when a man was struck in the jaw by a tree branch. He was taken to the hospital and released two days later.

It was the fourth annual Rouge Rescue. Its purpose is to clear debris from the river to improve stream flow, allowing the river to rid itself of pollution.

Ford Motor Co. provided financial support. Waste Management, Inc. provided containers and landfill space.

Site coordinators announced student participation from all grade levels was particularly high during this year's event. Friends of the Rouge, the group sponsoring the event, had promoted school programs in advance of the cleanup.

Is consolidation next for schools?

Consolidating Michigan school districts may be the way to narrow the funding gaps between them, say two senators sponsoring consolidation legislation.

But superintendents of the area's smaller public school districts aren't sure the bill will have any effect on their students — or will even pass through the Legislature.

"The goal is efficiency," said

Where schools stand:

Proposal A would raise the state sales tax to 4.5 cents per dollar — a half cent increase. Proposal B would raise the sales tax to six cents.

Both would amend the state constitution to mandate that lottery proceeds and a portion of cigarette and liquor sales tax revenue be awarded to schools.

Both would withhold sales tax revenue to districts that failed to adopt a state-approved core curriculum and a series of classroom measures designed to assure "quality education."

While A wouldn't touch local school taxes, B would cut most local school taxes and replace them with a statewide tax — 9 mills on homes, 14 mills on businesses. It would also limit voter-approved increases to four mills.

Voters will decide the issue Tuesday, Nov. 7. Should both proposals pass, the one with the most "yes" votes becomes law.

Here, in brief, are recommendations to voters from local school districts on each proposal:

• Livonia — No on B, while urging "serious consideration" on A.

• Redford Union — Yes on both.

• South Redford — No position on either under board policy on proposals drafted outside the district.

• Wayne-Westland — Yes on both.

Clarenceville and Plymouth-Canton schools have yet to adopt a formal position on either proposal.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, a bill sponsor. "While the public is constantly bombarded with the inequalities among school districts, it's about time to realize the flaw is in the structure itself and that no amount of money is going to make an inherently inefficient and uneconomic operation better."

The bill sponsored by Faxon and Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, would chop the number of districts from the current 562 to no more than 250, merging smaller districts into larger, more efficient units.

THE RESULT would be to narrow the disparities in spending among districts, reducing the need for school finance reform that prompted the two proposals on the November special election ballot, the lawmakers said.

Clarenceville Schools, partially contained in Faxon's Senate district, has recently been subject to a consolidation request from a group of district parents.

But Clarenceville Superintendent Jerry Montecillo said he didn't believe the bill would automatically mean his district would be absorbed by larger neighboring districts.

"I don't see Clarenceville going out of business," Montecillo said. "The way we see it, the bill is aimed at districts in trouble financially or districts that are having problems providing quality programs for their children. We are financially capable and we provide quality programs for our students."

Redford Union Superintendent Kenneth Erickson, however, said the bills would have a profound impact on all Michigan school districts.

"They're talking about going from more than 500 (districts) to 250 and that would affect just about everybody," Erickson said.

Because of that, he added, the bills would stand little chance of passing.

"YOU'RE STEPPING on a lot of people's toes and I can see this getting tied up in the Legislature," he said.

Schwarz, chairman of the Senate Education and Mental Health Committee, said he plans to open hearings on the legislation this fall.

Michigan had 5,823 school districts in 1945, but several consolidation moves have trimmed that, Faxon said.

Of the current 562 districts, 294 have fewer than 2,000 students — the minimum number envisioned under the legislation.

Levin splits with local reps on catastrophic care repeal

HOUSE:

CATASTROPHIC COVERAGE REPEAL — The House voted 380 for and 62 against to cancel a 1988 Medicare expansion designed to protect the elderly and disabled against catastrophic hospital, doctor and prescription drug costs. The repeal was included in budget reconciliation legislation (HR 3299) later sent to the Senate.

Under the 14-month-old Catastrophic Coverage Act, Medicare beneficiaries must pay for the expanded benefits. Most of the cost falls on those with enough means to pay federal income taxes, with many of the elderly paying up to $800 annually in tax surcharges. The repeal drive answers protests from those who would finance the catastrophic coverage.

Repeal advocate Roy Rowland, D-Ga., said Congress "made a mistake" in enacting the 1988 law. "Let us face it... let us correct this mistake completely."

Pete Stark, D-Calif., said the House was being "stampeded by a group representing a small group of the wealthiest seniors to deny needed benefits to a majority of seniors."

Members voting yes wanted to repeal the 1988 Catastrophic Coverage Act.

Michigan representatives Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth; Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods; William Ford, D-Taylor; and William Broomfield, R-Lake Orion, voted yes. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, voted no.

CHILD CARE LEGISLATION — By a vote of 195 for and 230 against, the House rejected the less extensive of two proposals before it for expanding the federal role in providing child care.

This cleared the way for approval of legislation to provide several billion dollars over five years in areas such as expanding Head Start, increasing child-care tax credits, funding state programs for children and setting federal quality standards for child care personnel and facilities.

Included in budget reconciliation legislation (HR 3299), the Democratic-authored program was backed by labor, education and civil rights groups. The alternative defeated by this vote was supported by President Bush and business groups. It cost less than the successful measure, did not establish federal standards, gave more emphasis to programs run by the private sector and was more beneficial to church-run programs.

Thomas Petri, R-Wis., said the alternative relied on choice by parents rather than "social engineering" to achieve its objectives.

Mary Rose Oaker, D-Ohio, said she opposed the alternative because it "guts the child care package."

Members voting yes supported a less extensive federal approach to child care.

Michigan representatives Pursell and Broomfield voted yes. Hertel, Ford and Levin voted no.

GAY RIGHTS ISSUE — By a vote of 282 for and 154 against, the House endorsed a Senate effort to exempt church-related universities from the District of Columbia's gay rights law. The vote instructed House conferees on the fiscal 1990 D.C. appropriations bill (HR 3028) to urge them to accept Senate language keeping Georgetown University, a Catholic institution, from being penalized for declining to accommodate gay student organizations.

Supporter Henry Hyde, R-Ill., said the main issue was Georgetown University's freedom to practice religion.

Opponent Steny Hoyer, D-Md., said "this amendment picks on a minority that is not popular" and resembles "the same kind of onslaught that we saw in Nazi Germany."

Members voting yes wanted to protect Georgetown University against D.C.'s gay rights law.

Michigan representatives Pursell and Broomfield voted yes. Hertel, Ford and Levin voted no.

TO RESTORE FAIRNESS DOCTRINE — By a vote of 162 for and 261 against, the House rejected an amendment in opposition to the "fairness doctrine." The vote preserved language in a budget reconciliation bill (HR 3299) restoring the federal requirement that broadcasters give opposing views on key issues a chance to be heard. The doctrine was repealed in 1986.

Amendment supporter Harold Rogers, R-Ky., said "how dare this Congress even contemplate a law which would fine broadcasters whose news coverage the government does not like."

John Dingell, D-Mich., said it is "only fair that when broadcasters own that wonderful right to use that money machine which they are given by the FCC, that they should use it in the public interest."

Members voting yes opposed reinstatement of the fairness doctrine.

Michigan Representative Broomfield voted yes. Pursell, Hertel, Ford and Levin voted no.

SENATE:

FLAG PROTECTION BILL — By a vote of 91 for and 9 against, the Senate sent to conference with the House a bill (HR 2978) making it a federal crime to physically desecrate the American flag. The bill is a response to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that flag desecration is dissent protected by the Constitution.

Supporter William Cohen, R-Maine, said the bill "restores protection for the flag without the need for a constitutional amendment."

Opponent Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said "a constitutional amendment is absolutely necessary" to protect the flag from desecration.

Senators voting yes supported the bill.

Michigan Democratic senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted yes.

TO NAB NORIEGA — By a vote of 74 for and 25 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment reaffirming that President Bush can order U.S. troops to bring Panamanian leader Manuel Noriega to trial in the United States on drug-trafficking charges. A federal grand jury indicted Noriega in 1988. The vote came during debate on a bill (S1711) implementing the president's drug strategy.

Arlen Specter, R-Pa., who voted to table the amendment while condemning President Bush's refusal to intervene militarily during the unsuccessful Oct. 3 coup attempt against Noriega.

Senators voting yes opposed the amendment encouraging an American military snatch of Noriega.

Michigan senators Levin and Riegle voted yes.

As a professional musician, Richard Saunders worked with Motown greats like Stevie Wonder and Michael Jackson. Now he heads the Oakland Community College Highland Lakes campus.

The maestro

Ex-music pro becomes campus leader

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Richard Saunders recalls his musical debut as a young child standing on the front porch of his mother's house in downtown Detroit.

"I'd stand there and sing for anyone who would listen," he said.

Little did he know that he would later work with such Motown legends as the Supremes, the Temptations, Stevie Wonder and the Jackson Five. Or that he would spend some summers helping produce Hollywood's original "Dating Game" television show.

Those thoughts were far from the mind of young Saunders, a Depression-era child who lived in his mother's inner city boarding house. His father had died before he was born.

"Those were lean times," he said.

BUT NOW, at age 54, Saunders fondly reflects on those memories as he sits in his Oakland Community College office at Highland Campus, where he has been president for 15 months.

A former Schoolcraft College assistant dean, Saunders has strong ties to western Wayne County. Early in his career, he served with the Livonia and the former Nankin Mills public schools.

Saunders has nearly always managed to combine his love for music with his education career. The top clarinetist at Wayne State University, where he earned a master's degree in music, his first job in 1957 was band and orchestra director for Southgate schools.

Drafted into the U.S. Army in 1958, Saunders returned two years later to start a music program in the state's then-smallest school district, Nankin Mills. While there, he led the district's junior high band to a national first place victory in the Music Educators National Conference — an honor he ranks among the highlights of his career.

In 1965, Saunders became band director of Livonia's Stevenson High School for what would be six of the most exciting years of his life. That's because he also worked to recruit entertainment for the Michigan State Fair at a time when the Motown sound reigned supreme.

STEVIE WONDER was a child of 4 when Saunders met him. And Saunders recalls talking backstage with such groups as the Supremes and the Temptations. He introduced Gladys Knight to her first large audience, and he watched as Motown executives began maneuvers to make Diana Ross a soloist, separate from the Supremes.

While recruiting such talents, Saunders met up with "Dating Game" executives who sometimes sent couples from their show to the Michigan State Fair for a date. He was asked not only to appear on the program but also to help produce it.

Although he helped on the production end, Saunders never appeared as one of three contestants who competed for a date on each program. He was engaged then to his wife now of 20 years, Janis, a physician. She "didn't think very highly" of her fiancée going on the "Dating Game."

IN 1971, Saunders made his first major career move into education administration when he went to Schoolcraft College to become director of fine arts and assistant dean of arts and sciences. Yet his links to music continued as he became conductor of 27 players from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, each summer performing a series of concerts at Schoolcraft.

In 1983, Saunders accepted the position of academic vice president at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City. He still owns a house in the community on Old Mission Peninsula so he can occasionally escape from the bustling city life. Although he was guest conductor for community organizations when he worked in Traverse City, Saunders missed the metropolitan area.

So when he heard that Highland Campus was seeking a president, he became one of 40 candidates and eventually won the post.

Since coming to Highland Lake, Saunders' musical influence has not gone unnoticed. The campus had its first-ever summer concert series, which drew 3,000 people and featured music ranging from bluegrass to 1920s-style orchestra. Highland Lake also has seen a major expansion of its performing arts program and other projects, such as a Christmas concert and a Valentine's Day ball, are in the works.

"You always wonder how far you could have gone," Saunders said. "But, right now, I have no plans except to be here."

Crash victim shares sober thoughts

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

Brian Moore's life is far different from the way he envisioned it while a teenager growing up in western Wayne County.

Then he planned on a career in writing.

As a high school junior, he particularly enjoyed concert choir.

Outside school, he played baseball with his friends.

MOORE'S LIFE was tragically altered Memorial Day weekend, 1978. He was 17.

"I was up near Bishop Lake State Park with two friends, both seniors. We were all in the (Livonia) Bentley (High School) concert choir together," Moore said in the slow, deliberate speech pattern he now uses.

"We were partying, drinking beer."

One of the trio was feeling ill and not drinking. So Moore and his other buddy split the 24 bottles of beer between themselves. Moore was driving, although "I was out of my mind — crooked," he said.

He remembers the non-drinking friend shouting "Stop, I want to get out before we all get killed."

"I remember that like it was in a dream," Moore said. "I locked up the brakes and the Bronco went airborne, up through the guardrail."

Moore sailed through the windshield and began what was to be nine months of unconsciousness.

"Thank God the truck didn't run over me. I didn't break any bones. I hear the cops were chasing me when we crashed. That was lucky. Probably before I crashed to a halt, ambulances were on the way."

His friends both suffered minor injuries. No other vehicle was involved in the accident.

To this day, Moore is still recovering.

HOME NOW is an apartment in his home town that is staffed 24 hours a day by college students.

Moore was the first patient (he calls it "guinea pig") for Personal Therapist Incorporated, an 18-month-old organization that places handicapped people in home-like settings. PTI has placed 20 clients.

Over the past decade, Moore has lived in hospitals, a nursing home and group homes.

"Part of the time in the coma, I had my eyes wide open. But if someone from my family came up, I didn't know them," said Moore, who has six sisters and a brother.

"I do recall coming to in the hospital. I saw wheelchairs and nurses. I would see changing colors and people walking by would be hopping up and down. It was bizarre. My mind wasn't well enough to think anything through."

Doctors were less than encouraging. He was labeled brain injured; recovery would be unpredictable.

"A doctor in the nursing home looked at my X-rays and said I would never walk again. It was like I was a senior citizen when I was 18 years old. He didn't try to motivate me. He wanted me to get used to a wheelchair, I said bull."

MOORE'S FIGHTING spirit was intact.

He would not settle for the doom and gloom report. As a result, he now walks with a walker and is trying to graduate to a cane.

"I was a good reader and writer before" the accident. "For some reason, I forgot a lot from the crash, like a vacation out West that summer. But I remember how to read, write, spell well and have a respectable vocabulary.

"I've felt for years now at least part of my well-being is because I am meant to give the speeches I give."

MOORE IS a man with a mission — to warn others of the dangers of drinking and driving.

He gives speeches to high school students, to Mothers Against Drunk Driving and Students Against Driving Drunk groups, at Alcoholics Anonymous meetings — to anyone who asks.

He has traveled to Tennessee, Ohio and Canada and throughout Michigan's lower peninsula to spread the word.

The standing ovations, the tears in the eyes of his audience show he is making an impact — the kind parental preachiness or boring statistics cannot achieve.

In Moore, the audience sees a young man with a zest for life. And they see the havoc drunk driving has wreaked on his body — his halting speech, walking with the aid of a walker.

There is much they don't see — a life that is tedious and slow moving, recorded hour for hour on a written form, the loneliness, the lapses of memory.

"I'm getting sick and tired of clinic rules. But it's a lot better than it was."

MOORE HAS a business card that shows a young man slumped behind the wheel of a car under a barrage of alcoholic beverages. Under his name it says crash victim, advocate against drinking and driving.

"I think I reach the kids because I'm kind of young. They see what happened to me. The radical type, the partiers, they like that."

Moore attends remedial classes at the building of his alma mater, Bentley High School (he earned a General Educational Development certificate after his accident). He rides a three-wheeled bicycle. He writes short stories — in printed scrawl.

And he plays a mean game of chess, according to his stepfather, Jimmy Shelp.

But Moore is most enthusiastic about the speeches. He believes he was spared so that he can spread the word that drinking and driving don't mix.

And he fervently hopes he has reached some people in his audiences.

"It would be nice to know I made a difference."

(Brian Moore is available to speak to groups about drinking and driving. He can be reached at 477-8516.)

Useful name fits new road

By C. L. Rugestein
staff writer

They call it "Jughandle" Road.

It's a specific type of road used in traffic engineering, said Alan Richardson, director of transportation planning for Wayne County.

And like a jug handle, the new north-south road connecting Edward Hines Drive and Plymouth Road serves a useful purpose.

THE NEW ROAD in Livonia is a bypass said Ed Siemert, director of engineering for Wayne County, to relieve congestion in the Edward Hines Drive-Newburgh-and-Plymouth road intersections.

Just west of the closed section of Newburgh, it's part of the $1.4 million of road improvements by Livonia and Wayne County to the area, and will be a permanent solution to the area's traffic problems.

Currently, drivers traveling north and south on Newburgh have to go through some traffic gymnastics to turn left on Hines or Plymouth.

Left turns from northbound Newburgh to westbound Hines weren't permitted. Neither were left turns by southbound traffic wanting to go east on Plymouth.

"The short distance between Plymouth and Hines Drive wouldn't accommodate all that left turn activity," said Raul Galinda, chief engineer for Livonia.

THE TURNS will be legal when Newburgh Road reopens in late November, Galinda said.

Drivers who want to go west on Plymouth Road from northbound Newburgh however will have to do it via Jughandle, Galinda said.

They'll have to turn left on Hines, then right on Jughandle to Plymouth.

Whether the road will continue to be called Jughandle is another matter, however.

"It's popularly called that," Richardson said, "because that's what appears on the construction plans — it's a traffic engineering term" to describe a curved connector road.

The road will be officially named when construction is finished.

"The county will consult with the city and the parks department to see what they prefer," Richardson said.

Malls to treat kids on Halloween

Treats will be distributed to youngsters on Halloween night at Livonia Mall and Wonderland Mall.

Trick and treaters can receive more than 100 treats, and not get a single trick, 7-9 p.m. Halloween night on Oct. 31 when Wonderland Mall opens its doors to all the little ghosts and goblins.

In addition to the trick and treating, Wonderland also will hold a costume contest at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 28. The contest is open to the public for ages infant to 12. Contestants may sign up at the information booth at the mall at Plymouth and Middlebelt roads.

Prizes will be provided by Encyclopaedia Britannica for first place winners in each category.

At Livonia Mall, 7-Mile at Middlebelt, will have its Trick or Treat Night 6-8 p.m. Oct. 31. The Kids Halloween Costume Contest at Livonia Mall will be at 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 28, and a Halloween Safety session with Officer Jim at 2 p.m. Oct. 28.

Area band in Thanksgiving parade

The award-winning Franklin High School Competitive Marching Band will be one of the star attractions in this year's Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit.

On Nov. 22, the day before the annual parade, the band also will compete in the Michigan Thanksgiving Invitational Marching Band Competition at Cobo Hall.

The band also will compete Sunday in the Novi Invitational, on Oct. 21 in the John Glenn Invitational and the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association State Championship Competition in Canton on Oct. 28.

Throughout the holiday season, the Franklin marching band also will perform in holiday parades, including parades in Livonia and Garden City.

The marching band and color guard recently placed third in Flight II competition at the Linden Invitational in Linden, Mich. Flight II bands are those with 71-110 members, including the color guard.

Band director Joan Seay said the band is in its fourth year of performing the "very difficult and intense" corps style of competitive marching.

"I am very pleased and proud of our progress," he said.

Seay said the band is led by an "accomplished staff who demonstrates an interest and enthusiasm for the program."

IMAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOU NEVER KNEW YOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it. Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene. And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Regional trash recycling plans are placed on hold

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Regional trash recycling won't begin, at least for now.

The Conference of Western Wayne declined to submit an application for state "quality of life" grants by Friday's deadline — essentially ending any chance for regional recycling in 1990.

A CWW spokesman said the organization and its 17 member cities and townships remain interested in the concept, but postponed their application because there wasn't time to develop a uniform disposal code.

"There's just so much to do that we decided to hold off, at least for this year," CWW director Daniel Gilmartin said. "We have to determine whether communities could order or whether they'd have to alter their charter or ordinance to do so."

Expected adoption of a county waste disposal plan also helped scuttle CWW efforts. "We didn't want to adopt something that we might have to change under the master plan, Gilmartin said.

The county plan is expected to be adopted next year.

The CWW represents Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth and Westland, as well as Canton, Plymouth and Redford townships, among other communities.

THREE OF its members, Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships, are moving ahead with a recycling plan of their own.

The three, members of the Western Townships Utility Association, have applied for $500,000 in quality of life grant money to build a recycling center.

The townships are working with Wayne Disposal Canton Inc. to secure the grant, association spokeswoman Ann Bollin said.

The communities seek to build a recycling center to handle glass, paper and cardboard.

Though the WTUA was rejected in its initial application, Bollin said township officials were confident the new application would be approved.

"We've already lined up markets for recycled goods," Bollin said. Waste Disposal, she added, has promised landfill space would continue to be open for items that couldn't be recycled.

The townships' program could help spur regional recycling, said Bollin — a former CWW director.

"This is something they could build on," she said.

ballot proposals they haven't originated," Superintendent Jan Jacobs said. "We've presented information but that's all."

Privately, however, school officials prefer Proposal A to the tax-base-sharing Proposal B.

"I can tell you Proposal A would be better for our schools than Proposal B, but that's not a formal position," Jacobs said.

South Redford, like Livonia, receives no direct state aid.

Wayne-Westland Schools supports both proposals, but school officials are pulling more heavily for Proposal B. For them, it's Proposal B's millage cutting provision, not its revenue-sharing, that is the major selling point.

"If you look just at Wayne-Westland and our taxpayers, I think B is the better of the two," Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said.

Even though it receives direct state aid, Wayne-Westland has the highest millage rate of any local district.

Plymouth-Canton Schools went out-of-formula this year, losing most of its state aid. But school officials haven't yet made up their minds on whether A or B would help them most.

"They did have a proposal to support B and oppose A but that was defeated 4-3," said district spokesman Richard Egli. "Some said we should support both, some said we should oppose both."

Plymouth-Canton is expected to take up the issue again in two weeks.

CLARENCEVILLE Schools also fell out-of-formula this past school year.

New Clarenceville Superintendent Jerry Montecillo said he will recommend school board members endorse both at tonight's meeting.

But Montecillo said he was worried that voters would eventually reject both.

"With two competing proposals, it almost seems as though they're being set up for failure," Montecillo said. "I would have much preferred to see just one proposal."

Rejection of both ballot proposals, however, doesn't mean the issue is dead.

Walkathon to benefit area retarded residents

"Stride with Pride," a 10-kilometer walkathon sponsored by Wayne County Association for the Retarded will be held 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, in Crowley Park, Dearborn. Participants will receive a T-shirt. Refreshments will also be available. Entry is $10. Proceeds will be used for WCAR training, employment and senior activities. WCAR was created in 1973. It includes the Western Wayne Association for Retarded Citizens, and similar ARC groups from Dearborn, Detroit and Downriver. It is the state's largest single provider of training and employment for mentally retarded adults. WCAR received an annual budget of over $5 million, with $4.6 million provided by the state.

WCAR helped nearly 1,000 people in fiscal 1988. It operates six centers, including one in Livonia.

Walkathon sponsors include Absorption of Plymouth, McDonald's of Dearborn Heights, Tocco Produce, Detroit, Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter 267, Dearborn and Waterbed Gallery of Livonia.

Additional information is available by calling 261-3600 during normal business hours.

S'craft schedules blood drive

An American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Schoolcraft College 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 26. Appointments can be made by calling 462-4400, Ext. 5050. Walk-in donations will also be accepted.

Area hospitals need 1,000 pints of blood per day to meet their needs, a Red Cross spokesman said.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

Madonna profs share teaching, leadership award

Two Madonna College professors are recipients of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award.

Ernest Nolan, dean, graduate students and humanities, and Sister Mary Ann Stamm, chair of religious studies/philosophy, were recognized as co-winners of the award at a recent faculty fall conference.

Nolan joined Madonna College as an English professor in 1976. He was promoted to chairman of the communication arts department in 1977, division head for humanities department in 1978 and dean of humanities in 1986. When the graduate study program was initiated at Madonna in 1982, Nolan was made director. In 1986, in addition to being dean of humanities, he took on the responsibility of dean of graduate studies.

Stamm first taught history at Madonna in 1969. She left to further her own education and returned to the college's religious studies department in 1978. Since that time she has revamped the department, updated the courses and doubled the majors available in religious studies. She was the driving force behind the initiation of the pastoral ministry major that will begin in January 1990. In addition to her many duties at Madonna, Stamm is affiliated with the graduate theological foundation in Donaldson, Ind. She also is involved in off-campus counseling and is a guest speaker at area functions.

The professors were nominated by the faculty and then chosen by a committee made up of faculty, students and alumni. Each winner receives a $500 cash award. In addition Madonna received $1,600 to be used for faculty professional development.

"This award is so timely because it corresponds to Madonna College's long-range goal of strengthening faculty professional development," said Sister Rose Marie Kujawa, academic vice president.

Presenting the awards at the conference dinner was John Packl, manager of the Sears-Roebuck store in Livonia Mall.

Daylight Saving Time ends Oct. 29

The moon will be rising in the east northeast at 11:40 p.m. on the night of Oct. 20. Forming a line above the moon are the twin stars, Pollux (PAWL lux) and Castor, each representing a head of the Gemini twins. To the south of Pollux, near that twin's feet, is Jupiter. Look at Jupiter's four moons again and notice how different the alignment is after just one night.

The Orionid (o RI o nid) meteor shower reaches its maximum on the morning of Oct. 21. A patient observer can expect to see an average of 25 "falling stars" in an hour.

Unfortunately, the moon is also in the morning sky and the light it scatters will make seeing the fainter meteor trails very difficult. This shower is named for the constellation of Orion the hunter, from which the meteors appear to radiate.

Orion is high in the south in the morning. Look for three bright stars in a diagonal line that represent Orion's belt. Two bright stars above the belt are his shoulders; two bright stars below the belt are his feet.

Raymond E. Bullock

LAST QUARTER moon is on Oct. 21. The moon is starting the last quarter of its orbit around the earth.

The bright star below the waning (fading) crescent moon on the morning of Oct. 23 is Regulus, the "heart" of Leo the lion. By the next morning the moon has moved below Regulus. Are you able to start seeing "earthshine" on the unlighted part of the moon again?

Jupiter is stationary on Oct. 28. The planet has been drifting eastward (forward), through the stars of Gemini. On the 28th, the eastward motion ends and Jupiter will begin westward (backward) motion. Backward (retrograde) motion is an optical illusion.

It is caused when the faster orbiting Earth overtakes a slower moving planet as we orbit the sun. Jupiter will move 10 degrees (20 full moon diameters) west during the next four months.

Daylight Saving Time comes to an end at 2 a.m. on Oct. 29. Clocks will need to be turned back one hour. We are not altering the speed of Earth's rotation or the length of the day, we are merely altering the device by which time is measured.

NEW MOON occurs at 10:27 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time now) on Oct. 29. The moon is located between the earth and the sun and is not visible.

One-half hour after sunset on Halloween (Oct. 31), Saturn, Venus, Antares and the waxing crescent moon form a long line stretching the southwest to west-southwest. The moon will be close to the horizon and difficult to see. Antares may be difficult to see in the glare of evening twilight. Venus, now well to the east (left) of Antares, is easy to spot and Saturn is higher and to the east of Venus.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar." One year subscription is $6. It is available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48824.

Raymond Bullock was the former coordinator of the planetarium and observatory at the Cranbrook Institute of Science. He is currently with a Troy-based company which specializes in laser displays and effects.

Health care for vets discussed

A public hearing on health care services for Wayne County veterans will be 12:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22, at VFW Post 345, Redford.

Veterans and their relatives are invited to comment on the federal government's new category system.

The category system, implemented in January, has proved controversial with some veterans claiming it denies them health care.

Health care professionals will also offer testimony. The hearing chairwoman is Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Redford, head of the commission's special committee on veterans services.

Additional information is available by calling 224-0902. The VFW Post is at 27345 Schoolcraft, 196 service drive near Inkster Road.

Program planned on Medicare

"Are You Getting Your Money's Worth Out of Medicare?", a one-day program on health care for seniors, will be Thursday, Nov. 2, in the Ford Centennial Library, 16801 Michigan Ave., Dearborn.

The seminar includes presentations from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, Michigan Peer Review Organization, the Senior Alliance, the Area Agency on Aging and the American Association of Retired Persons.

AARP members will also answer questions on Medicare appeals, claims and problems.

The seminar will run 9:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Reservations can be made by calling 356-6712. The reservation deadline is Monday, Oct. 23. Lunch is available for a $4.50 fee, but a reservation must be made.

Lifeline program helps low income people with bills

Q. My aunt is on a very limited budget but needs her telephone. Is there any way to get her bill reduced?

A. The Michigan Bell Lifeline program helps low income families and individuals to pay their telephone bills. Eligibility is based on the amount of income and the Federal poverty level standards. Phone bill may be reduced $4 per month, and Michigan Bell will help those who need a phone to get one with a 50 percent reduction of the installation fee. An application for the Lifeline program can be mailed to you when you call for information. The operator will need your name, address, social security number and your Department of Social Services case number, if you have one. People with a case number are automatically eligible for the Lifeline program. Call, toll free, 1-800-621-8650, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Q. My parents recently moved to Southfield. Where can they get information on activities for seniors?

A. The Southfield Senior Adult Center, which is part of the Southfield Department of Parks and Recreation, offers a variety of programs, classes and activities for adults 50 years of age and older. Seniors may join any of the center's music, drama or art groups. Lectures and movies are offered. There is a special Men's and Women's Club. A wide range of special interest classes, at nominal fees, are given at the Southfield Civic Center. Subjects include dance, exercise, cooking, drawing and language classes. The Southfield Public Library has an extensive collection of large print books available. There is also a free monthly newsletter describing all upcoming activities and special events. You need not be a resident of Southfield to participate in the programs but some fees will be slightly higher for non-residents. Call 354-9362, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for more information.

Q. I need help paying for the prescription drugs I need.

A. Public Act 519 is a new law which has created an up to $20 million program for Michiganians, 65 years and older, to help pay high prescription drug costs. Applicants for this rebate must have a household income of $9,000 for a single person and $12,000 for a couple. Household income is defined as all income a household receives in a given tax year. It is the amount used to calculate your property tax and home heating credit; it is not the amount of income used to determine income tax liability. If you have an insurance plan that pays a portion of your medicine costs, only the actual amount you pay out of pocket would be refundable to you. Over the counter drugs are not included in this plan. Eligible applicants may receive up to a $600 per person rebate. You will not be asked to submit copies of your pharmacy bills when you file your rebate; however, your claim is subject to audit by the State Department of Treasury. Forms for filing for your rebate will be available at the Department of Treasury beginning Jan. 1, 1990. For information write to the Pharmaceutical Assistance Program, Office of Services to the Aging, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, Mich. 48909, or call (517) 373-8230.

Q. What is the Personal Needs Allowance and how do I qualify?

A. Nursing home residents that are Medicaid recipients receive a Personal Needs Allowance to enable them to buy items not supplied by the nursing home. In Michigan, Medicaid recipients that are also eligible for S.S.I. receive $37 per month to be used for such items as clothing, laundry, newspapers, glasses and telephone calls. The funds are to be put in a special account for each resident by the nursing home administration. While the money is not intended to cover medical items, residents may save their allowance to buy health aids like dentures or hearing aids. Individuals in adult foster care living arrangements also receive a Personal Needs Allowance of $36 per month. People receiving Medicaid who are not eligible for S.S.I. receive $32 monthly. For more information call toll free 1-800-638-6414, Monday-Friday, except holidays, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1-4 p.m.

on aging

Q. I think my aunt is being abused in the nursing home she lives in. What can I do?

A. Any incidents of abuse, whether physical, mental or sexual should be reported immediately to the nursing home administrator or the director of nursing. If the incident is reviewed by the nursing home and found not to be an abusive occurrence, a report will be filed at the facility. If the incident is found to be a valid case of abuse, the nursing home is obligated to report it to the Michigan Department of Public Health, Licensing and Certification Department. If the abuse not only violates the patient's rights but may also be considered a criminal offense; The Department of Public Health will report it to the Attorney General's office and further investigation will ensue. You are entitled to copies of any reports filed with the nursing home or the Department of Public Health. If you feel the incident is not getting the proper attention call toll free 1-800-882-6000 Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hats off Board gets a special week

AT LEAST once a month, 4,200 men and women gather in communities across Michigan to make decisions that affect the lives and futures of 1.6 million school children.

This week, Michigan communities like Westland, will honor the dedicated service of these public school trustees during the first annual observance of School Board Member Recognition Week.

Commemorative weeks and months have become so numerous that it's easy to let them pass without comment or notice. How many of us, honestly, really care that much about the observance of National Pickle Week other than pickle pickers, processors, and profiteers.

Most would agree, though, that instilling knowledge in the minds of our youth is of greater significance than consuming pickles — sweet or sour. And so maybe we shouldn't blow off School Board Member Recognition Week as just another commemorative happening. Maybe we should pause; maybe we should notice.

SCHOOL BOARD Member Recognition Week offers local residents a chance to pay tribute to the men and women who set direction and policy for our schools.

This week also offers all residents the chance to learn more about Michigan's long-standing tradition of local control of local schools.

According to the history books, the origins of Michigan school boards predates statehood and the Michigan Constitution. Public Act 63 of 1837, however, was enacted to prescribe a procedure, based on territorial law, for establishing primary school districts and a district school board in the management of schools.

Under the current Michigan School Code, a local board of education "shall establish and carry on the grades, schools, and department it deems necessary or desirable for the maintenance and improvement of the schools, determine the courses of study to be pursued, and cause the pupils attending school in the district to be taught in the schools or departments the board deems expedient."

In other words, it is the duty of local school boards to insure that local youth receive the best education possible. We sometimes tend to overlook that blanket expectation when we look at other responsibilities of school boards, such as hiring and firing superintendents, approving annual operating budgets, establishing tax rates, calling special elections, and approving employee labor contracts.

AND SO this week, let's give some credit to those volunteers amongst us who are especially dedicated to the education of our children. Let's recognize the school board members in the two districts which serve local students.

The Wayne-Westland school board members who represent most of the community are Andrew Spisak, Kenneth Barnhill, Kathleen Chorbagan, Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, Sharon Scott, Terri Reighard Johnson, and Mathew McCusker. Serving the Livonia school board, which serves the northern section of the city, are Diane Tancill, Richard McKnight, Joseph Laura, Patricia Sari, Marjorie Roach, Carol Strom, and J. Richard Thorderson.

To these 14 individuals we entrust the education of our youngsters. They are worthy this week of special recognition for their special service to local students.

Parental consent Proposed bills victimize youth

HERE WE go again. Some state legislators are taking a tragic situation and trying to make it even more tragic.

Fresh from a victory in outlawing Medicaid-paid abortions, pro-life advocates are now taking a second step in trying to cut off abortion rights to another group.

We oppose the bills now being debated in Lansing that would make it mandatory for those under 18 years of age to receive permission from parents before getting an abortion.

On the face of it, the legislative initiatives sound to many like the right thing to do. After all, encouraging a closer relationship between parent and child is a lofty goal. But a closer examination reveals that the state Senate and House bills, if adopted, would only serve to victimize the youth.

The only relief allowed in this proposal would be a waiver of parental consent by the courts.

This stipulation is typical of the entire proposal and the pro-life movement in general — uncompromising, lacking compassion and totally unrealistic.

Few youths would have the know-how to seek out legal counsel. Those needing it the most would be the least likely to avail themselves of the courts.

UNDER THE proposal, the waiver only could be granted if the judge determined that a minor was "sufficiently mature and well-enough informed." Again, it is unlikely that a youth needing the courts help would be one who was well-rounded in abortion education — thanks mainly to pro-life advocates who have consistently opposed realistic sex education initiatives.

In this cynical age, legislators should remember that most children do turn to their parents in a time of need.

Those who don't often find their parents to be the problem. Some parents just don't realize it.

In other, more tragic, circumstances, children are pregnant because of incest. Expecting an understanding parent in this case is simply ridiculous.

Females, whether they are 15 or 50, should have the right to privacy and a confidential relationship with their physician. This bill would prohibit those under 18 from maintaining that kind of relationship.

Abused teenagers shouldn't be expected to turn to those who have battered them for advice and comfort.

And physicians shouldn't be turned into criminals because they are performing a procedure approved by the highest court in the land.

Certainly, abortion can take place under tragic circumstances. But adding to the misery by inflicting an unrealistic and unjust state law to the books would only help the situation deteriorate.

Women, either alone or with the people of their choice, must suffer through the decision.

We really don't need the Michigan Legislature determining in whom we need confide.

Dropout rate Seizing licenses is no solution

THE STATE HOUSE of Representatives this week began debate on three controversial bills designed to strip high school dropouts of their drivers' licenses.

We addressed the issue last summer when the idea was proposed and once again we say: This type of legislation seems to us to be aimed at removing the symptom, not curing the problem.

Lawmakers should be working on measures that will make all youths — those who drop out and those who stay in school — capable of functioning in today's society.

They can do that by strengthening minimum standards in reading, math, and science so that the time someone is 16, he or she will have the basic skills to compete.

The proposed bills, HB 4183, HB4184 and HB 4234, amend both the school and motor vehicle codes and would apply to people age 16 but not yet 18 who drop out of school, are expelled or fail to meet attendance requirements.

The school superintendent would inform the Secretary of State's office, which would then suspend the driver's license.

It would be up to local school districts to adopt a policy of seeking license suspensions.

Legislation like this will no doubt succeed at keeping some teenagers in school. It doesn't mean they will become better students, though.

For others, the threat of losing driving privileges won't be much of a deterrent.

The solution to the dropout problem goes beyond holding uncooperative students hostage in the secretary of state's office.

It's time to address the problem, not merely mask the symptoms.

March the other way for peaceful Sunday

A FEW OBSERVATIONS - from the editor's desk:

• Sunday will be one of the more eventful days in usually quiet Farmington. For those of you who don't know, a civil rights peace march will be traveling down Grand River, led by local resident Derwin Success.

Success, a black man who is attempting to stir interest in civil rights, claims that since living in the area, he and his family have experienced blatant incidents of racial harassment.

Problem is the planned march is turning into something of a political circus as fringe political elements plan on making it a day to be noticed. A local unit of Nazis plans on donning its armbands and jackboots to goose-step its way down the avenue in protest of the peace march.

Not to be left out, so to speak, is a local group of Communists who will make an appearance to protest the Nazis' protest of the peace march. Strangely enough, this group of Reds embraces a philosophy that leans toward less than peaceful resolution of political differences.

IN THE MIDDLE is Frank Lauhoff, Farmington public safety director, who is gathering his troops, crossing his fingers and dreaming of days of yesteryear when Farmington was the last place anyone would expect such happenings.

The top cop recommends that curiosity seekers do themselves a favor and stay away for the day. We believe the chief is right on. Do yourself a favor and go for a Sunday drive — in the other direction.

Problem is the planned march is turning into something of a political circus as fringe political elements plan on making it a day to be noticed.

• Hopeful news from Oakland County and beyond. Oakland University is installing condom machines on campus. Not long ago that would have been unheard of. But a recent national health report notes that the AIDS epidemic has taken firm control of the heterosexual youth crowd, 13-20. Infection is growing at a rate that is more than doubling each year.

One expert appearing on national television worries that the next generation could very well be decimated if realistic steps aren't taken soon to properly educate this group with adequate information on this 20th century plague.

UNFORTUNATELY, society is still plagued with those who believe the best sex education is no education at all. But saner souls must realize that AIDS isn't a moral issue. It's an issue of life and death. Many of us believe that dying is too harsh a penalty to pay for having premarital sex.

Oakland University should be congratulated for taking this step. Other colleges and universities should take note and follow the lead.

• Meanwhile, farther north, Ferris State has expunged itself of cigarette machines. More and more institutions are taking this admirable step. Smoking is a killer that none of us needs. It takes longer than AIDS to kill off its victims, but it does its job, nevertheless. Frustrating the efforts of tobacco peddlers on campus is a big step.

The younger you start puffing, the tougher it is to give up the weed.

These two examples just go to show that you that you don't have to be a prominent university with a big football or basketball squad to make a mark in the world.

Sponsors are appreciated

To the editor:
On behalf of the Westland Cultural Society, I would like to thank those people who helped make our 1989 Concerts-in-the-Park season possible.

Our goal was to offer 10 free outdoor concerts to the residents of Westland and the surrounding communities, and we were only able to do that with generous assistance from the following sponsors: J.C. Penney, Westland Jaycees, Westland Rotary, Westland Host Lions, Westland-Festival Committee, Central City Park Association, Vision Institute of Michigan, and Crowleys Inc.

Our concerts are produced in cooperation with the Westland Parks and Recreation Department, and we are grateful to director George Gilles and his staff for their very able assistance and wholehearted participation.

The bands that performed in our neighborhood parks are made up of extremely talented professional musicians, and we were able to sit back and enjoy the sound of Big Bands, Country and Western, light rock, Blue Grass, and European Festival music. Our thanks go to Local 5 of the American Federation of Musicians which provided matching funds for many of our concerts.

We would especially like to thank those people who brought lawn chairs and blankets to the parks and cheered on the musicians. What we lacked in numbers they made up in enthusiasm.

Many made a point to tell us they couldn't wait for next year's concerts. So we invite everyone to watch for our concert schedule next spring in the newspapers and on the cable channels. Our 1990 season of eight concerts will begin in May and run into early September.

Hospital is neglected

To the editor:
I am writing on behalf of the Westland Medical Center emergency department and all the other nurses in our facility who took part in the western Wayne County disaster exercise Sept. 20.

The Sept. 25 edition of Observer carried an extensive and in depth article covering the exercise. There were photographs from scenes at the airport and two of the hospitals involved, but none from Westland Medical Center. Names of almost all the participating medical facilities were mentioned in print, but not Westland Medical Center. We, the nurses, here at Westland Medical Center consider this article, printed in the Observer, to be a slap in our faces.

It smacks of deliberate ignoring of our facility and extremely poor community relations. During the exercise, our emergency department triaged and treated 21 disaster victims of all priorities. We did not simply usher them in, feed them, then send them out the door.

We utilized resources from all our departments: social service, laboratories, physical medicine, medical records and others. All our employees put forth a sincere effort to test our in-house disaster capabilities, and according to our external observer, an excellent job was done. Also during our disaster, we treated legitimate emergencies as well. Namely a child with candy stuck in his throat, an active seizure patient and a multiple gun shot wound victim in full cardiopulmonary arrest.

It would seem to be that a little support from one's own community is not a lot to ask. When was the last time someone from your paper visited Westland Medical Center to see what we do here? Perhaps doing so might enlighten you to the fact that we do fill a vital need in this community.

Joyce Phillips,
Emergency Services

Coverage hits sour note

To the editor:
For the past four years we have attended the band reviews at John Glenn High School. Each year local bands get top billing and pictures in the Observer.

Bands such as Woodhaven, Brighton and Inkster were not given the courtesy of director recognition in your article of the review on Oct. 5. These bands, along with bus drivers, teachers and parents, donate their time and money to make this review a success.

Where is your sense of fair play? Every band should get the same recognition, picture and copy, for a good performance.

Whew! Lost lottery is a relief

I WOKE UP ABRUPTLY with one thought on my mind — don't forget to buy lottery tickets.

It was Wednesday of last week — and there weren't too many people in the state of Michigan — and its immediate neighbors — who didn't know that the Super Lotto payoff was $24 million.

I confess I'm not a regular buyer of lottery tickets. Since the lottery has been going, I have probably bought a total of 10 chances. That's not counting the time I received a year-long ticket as a gift.

The truth is — all of us dream of winning a free vacation, a new car, Jeopardy — but in the light of day, would you really want to win $24 million?

I mean, it would change your lifestyle.

One of the lottery ads jokes about finally being able to tell your boss off. Another, about not wanting to win money, only carrots. I mean how do you get rid of that work ethic?

SO YOU DECIDE to maintain

Judith Doner Berne

your work and friends and use your winnings for a few luxuries — travel, a shopping spree at Border's, adding on that screened-in porch, and giving a lot to charity.

But what could it mean to get that promotion, to win that client, to come up with an idea for better inventory control?

Meantime, "Why is he/she here?" your fellow employees would whisper to each other in the hall. "My gosh, he doesn't have to work for a living — he could buy this place."

And what about your relatives? There's cousin Bill — he's never been able to make a go of it and hasn't been in touch for years. He's the first one to call you — for a loan. Your children always felt free to say what they thought. Not anymore — they don't want to be cut out of the will.

And no more sympathy from friends when you sigh that you are putting three kids through college. No, now they'll think about your helping their kids, too.

Here in Motown, you certainly would feel obligated to buy some spectacular car. Then, of course, you'd always be worried about driving it anywhere.

Certainly it would give you an unprecedented opportunity to aid the non-profit institutions and causes you believed in. But would you ever be able to sit down to dinner without being interrupted by calls from every solicitor under the sun?

EASY STREET is not easy, I recited as I left work and headed home. Walking into my neighborhood grocery for a few odds and ends, I was still unsure whether I was going to buy the tickets.

I picked up a couple of grocery items, then stood in line. The thought occurred to me that I hadn't stopped at the money machine — and I was out of checks.

The man in front of me was buying a $5 ticket. I fumbled in my wallet — came up with four singles and not quite enough change for a fifth number, but lo and behold I found the rest in the bottom of my purse.

It was the groceries or the lottery tickets.

I put back the groceries. When I got home, I called my husband and asked him to stop and buy — no, not the groceries — another $5 ticket.

And, about 7:30 p.m., we breathed a sigh — of relief — along with all but four other people. Our lifestyle was safe. We didn't win.

Judith Doner Berne is assistant managing editor of the Oakland County editions of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

HER NAME WAS Mary, and I first encountered her in a world history class in my freshman year.

In discussing the aftermath of World War II and the rebuilding of Japan, the professor made a passing reference to MacArthur.

Mary's hand shot up.

"Who's MacArthur?" she asked.

The look on the professor's face was a cross between irritation and dismay.

"You don't know who MacArthur is?"

Mary thought, then ventured a guess.

"The emperor of Japan?"

The professor sputtered.

A couple of years later, Mary and I were in the same news editing class. She, too, had decided to major in journalism.

The professor announced that the topic for discussion was the use of the "kicker," a small line of type over larger type in a headline.

"Does everyone know what a kicker is?" he asked. No one denied knowledge. Two more times he asked the question. Still no response.

He went into his lecture. About 10 minutes later, Mary raised her hand.

The professor called on her.

"What's a kicker?" she asked.

The professor sputtered.

LATER THAT DAY, in the newsroom of the campus paper, Mary's biggest problem was trying to get the carbon paper inserted in the typewriter correctly.

No matter how many times she tried, her carbon copy kept coming out in reverse letters on the back of the original.

The last time I saw her was a few years later when a couple of other reporters and I went to lunch at a local barbecue place. Mary was working the cash register, and she seemed to be having a little less difficulty with it than she had had with the carbon paper and the typewriter.

I remember Mary because she was the exception. Most of my classmates were not like her.

Years later, when I started teaching college journalism myself, I would encounter many students like Mary. They were, if not the rule, at least no longer the exception.

THAT'S WHY I wasn't surprised to read the results of a Gallup survey this week indicating that many students are graduating from college without knowing what Lynne V. Cheney, chairwoman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, called "basic landmarks of history and thought."

Jack Gladden

Heck, I could have told her that. Over the years when I was teaching I gave my students a "general knowledge quiz" every semester. It started out just for fun, but soon became a sad commentary on how little many of them knew about the most basic things.

Many of my students didn't know how many states comprise the United States, and even more could not calculate how much change they should get from a $10 bill after buying a specified list of items.

So I also was not surprised that, along with the survey results, Cheney released some recommendations that colleges develop what amounts to a rigid core curriculum in five basic areas of knowledge instead of turning students loose with what amounts to a supermarket offering of courses and almost no direction as to which ones they should take.

The concept is a bit like re-discovering the wheel. That's the way colleges used to operate before the "reform" movements of the 1960s turned campuses into socially relevant zones where students were free to "do their own thing."

WHILE SOME educators have praised Cheney's recommendations, others have attacked them as being too "superficial, rigid and impractical." Some have criticized the method used by the survey — seeking specific answers to questions — as not being a true test of knowledge. That's garbage.

The fact is that most universities have abdicated their responsibilities to provide students with an education. Their primary goal is research and it is the researchers, not the teachers, who are rewarded.

But it's the students who are cheated in the process. That's what the Gallup survey proves.

Color his spirits maize and blue

By Robert L. Barbret special writer

A COLUMN written by Judith Doner Berne appeared in the Observer & Eccentric referring to the new University of Michigan policy on what can and cannot be brought into Michigan Stadium.

In the column, mention is made of an individual who leads cheers at the games. I'm that individual.

Spiritless without my spirits? No way.

Nothing is more intoxicating than a Wolverine victory. That's right. I'm the "funny guy" who leads cheers on the wall during the Michigan football games. In the column, Judith stated that she wanted to see what I was like after the University of Michigan instituted their new policy of no containers in Michigan Stadium. She said I usually started out quiet and as the game went on I started to "get into it" inferring there was some correlation between my enthusiasm with the amount of alcohol I was supposedly drinking. She said what was going on down on the field didn't matter to me.

It's time to set the record straight!

The M-I-C-H-I-G-A-N cheer started back in 1983 when we were playing Wisconsin (a school that certainly knows what "spirits" are all about). Their fans were in the normal visiting team's section (the south end zone) and, even though Michigan was ahead by three or four touchdowns, the Badger fans were out-cheering the whole southwest corner of our own stadium.

I couldn't take it any more. I couldn't believe 100,000 fans could be so passive about their team. So I got up on the wall and did the first thing that came to mind. I wanted to let those Badgers know where they were, who they were playing, and who was winning the game. Out came M-I-C-H-I-G-A-N !!! No pre-planning, no practice, no forethought. It just happened. And it's been happening ever since, usually after Michigan scores a touchdown. But the cheer has also been known to appear after a key field goal (Iowa, 1988), before the start of the game (Ohio State, 1987), or after an opponent's key fumble (Michigan State, 1988).

THE REASON the cheers come more frequently later in the game is because that is when Michigan does the most damage to its opponents. The third quarter always seems to be Michigan's best. Sometimes I need a breather after the third quarter myself. It's not easy getting up on a wall made for size 9 shoes when you're wearing 12s. I can't imagine doing that under the influence of anything but "Maize and Blue spirits."

One last thing — Judith did say she hoped I would continue cheering. Don't worry, I will. She also said I was an institution. I have friends that think I belong in one. But I love this school. I love this football team. And as long as Bo is stalking the sidelines, the band is playing "The Victors," and we are chasing the dream of another Rose Bowl, I'll be on that wall in section 20.

Spiritless without my spirits? Never. And, oh yeh, Judith, I might need some help on Nov. 25. What do you say?

Robert L. Barbret, an assistant manager of federal grants and contracts at the University of Michigan, lives in Whitmore Lake. He's been a U-M football season ticketholder for 14 years. He is a 1975 graduate of Central Michigan University.

IT'S SOLID AND LIQUID AT THE SAME TIME.

Most things are pretty much black and white. Oil and water don't mix. East is East. West is West. Something can't be solid and liquid at the same time. Well, not so with The FirstRate Fund. Because it earns you a great rate, without tying up your principal.

Earn 9 Percent For Up To 60 Days.

From October 2 until November 30, The FirstRate Fund earns interest at an annual rate of 9 percent.

FirstRate

After that, it's tied to the 91-day Treasury Bill, guaranteeing a highly competitive rate. All it takes is a $10,000 deposit to start. And you can add to it, whenever you like.

Make a withdrawal and you won't have to pay a penalty.

So, by all means, open your FirstRate Fund now, and earn an annual rate of 9 percent for as long as possible.

Solid. And Liquid, Too.

Unlike some other investments with a high return like the FirstRate Fund, you can get to your money, whenever you need to.

All you have to do is drop us a line. Seven days later, you'll have your money.

We'll even call to tell you when you can pick up your check.

Insurance For Your Money.

Most investments like this require some risk taking. Not so with The FirstRate Fund.

Your bank deposits are FDIC insured for up to $100,000. Meaning your principal's safe to the maximum amount allowed by law.

In short, you have nothing to lose. But an awful lot to gain.

Where's The Fine Print? You Just Read It.

If you're going to name something FirstRate, it ought to be just that.

So there are no funny restrictions or conditions. Just a straightforward investment that, unlike a lot of competitive investments, is unquestionably attractive. Which leaves us with one last question. What are you waiting for? The FirstRate Fund. Only from First of America.

Stop by any one of our First of America offices to invest in one, or call 1-800-544-6155.

Those fast times at Hamburger High

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

A ballet of buzzers, bells and bel-lows: Welcome to the McReal world of the noon lunch rush at McDonald's. "Still waiting on a chicken grill!" "Need a filet with no tartar!" "Need a nine-piece McNugget!"

Ah yes, the memories. No, better yet, the stark terror of trying to keep up with the action.

And this is not new. For this person was a fast-food mercenary, doing time at the since-departed Burger Chef, Wendy's and, of course, the granddaddy of them all, McDonald's.

I spent nearly two months toiling under the Golden Arches as a grill person, carefully turning the regular and quarter-pound hamburger patties so I didn't sizzle my fingers.

The fast food experience was indeed an enriching one, a perfect supplement to the education received in college. You learned responsibility. You learned to smile in the face of adversity when someone ordered 20 cheeseburgers — with no pickles — during the dinner rush.

More important, you learned that if you didn't attend class on a regular basis, you could be working there the rest of your life.

People made the job bearable. Coworkers crossed all teenage demographics, including jocks, nerds, geeks, bookworms, burnouts and yal gals.

Then there were the bosses, most of whom could be characters of their own TV sitcom.

The key to scooping those fries is to stack them in nice, neat rows like a pack of cigarettes, as we found out recently while working at the McDonald's on Ford Road in Westland.

to serve burgers, fries and shakes to the masses.

The event marks the birthday of Ray A. Kroc, the late founder of the fast food chain that has grown from one restaurant in Des Plaines, Ill., to 8,014 outlets worldwide.

Chances are one out of 15 people had their first job at a McDonald's.

UNIFORMS ARE issued to us, including baseball caps and aprons. Time to go to work

One thing about McDonald's, there's a way to do everything. You don't just grab an order of fries off the rack. You take the first one in the front on the left.

"Remember, you always work front to back, left to right," we're told.

Heck, there's even a set procedure on how you wash your hands. Scrub for at least 20 seconds with the blue soap, we're instructed, making sure that both the hands and lower arms are washed.

After a layer of skin has disappeared, I towel off and, naturally, turn the faucet off.

"UH OH," the managers say in unison. "You have to do it again."

Turns out you're not supposed to touch anything other than the paper towel after scrubbing down, leading me to wonder if I'm frying hamburgers or performing open heart surgery.

We're split up in pairs and report to our stations. Front counter is first on the agenda, with Judy Burger of Westland as trainer.

"We named our son Hamilton," she tells us with a wry smile. "We call him 'Ham Burger' for short."

THE TASK seems simple enough. Terri Barbush, who is an account executive with Hermanoff and Associates, gets the food while I pour the drinks.

'Still waiting on a chicken grill!'
'Need a filet with no tartar!'
'Need a nine-piece McNugget!'

"Need a large Coke and a regular Sprite," comes the call.

Put the cups under the machine and hit the buttons, each calibrated to pour a measured amount. But, oops; I forget to put ice in the cup. I have to start over, except this time I forget a regular cup is the smallest cup (Nothing is ever small in fast-food. Regular sounds better). I pour the pop into the medium-sized cup.

ENOUGH FIZZ. Let's get to the meat and potatoes of the operation. We have to settle for potatoes, manning the fries station.

Bea Solomon of Westland is trainer for this one. Solomon started working at McDonald's nearly three years ago after all of her children had grown.

Today, she helps train many employees in the same motherly fashion.

"You have to encourage them and talk to them," said Solomon, sounding more like a motivational speaker. "You have to ask them to do something for you instead of demanding them. Like, you say, 'Could you please do that for me?'"

SUCH PATIENCE comes in handy, especially working with someone a bit rusty in the midst of the lunch-time rush.

The trick for filling fries, in those cardboard and paper containers is getting the right amount of fries on the scooper and carefully shaking them into neat rows like a pack of cigarettes. I put up a few large and regular orders.

"Oh," says Solomon, sounding like Aunt Bee correcting Ople, "this one is an underachiever. Try again."

Gwenda Ledbetter will be one of the featured story tellers at 'Story Telling '89' on Saturday at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn.

This group has a story for you

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Want to hear a tale or two? The Detroit Story League members have enough yarn to knit a jump suit.

Since 1912, the DSL has met in homes, libraries, community centers and churches. Membership is 70 or so people.

At meetings, members live up to their name. They tell stories — not just about themselves, mind you, but about people they know, history, folk tales and, at times, re-tell well-known ones like "Little Red Robin Hood" with their own interpretation.

Now what was that one about "Little Red Robin Hood" pulling out a gun from her purse and blasting that dirty old wolf away?

"That's how it would be today," said Amy Jackson, former Farmington Public Schools teacher relating her version of the classic story. "Women are not that naive anymore."

Of course, Jackson wouldn't tell a group of 6-year-olds that version. She saves her contemporary version for adult gatherings.

"They love it," she said.

Those who love story telling will get more than an earful Saturday, Oct. 14, when the Detroit Story League and Henry Ford Community College sponsor "Storytelling '89."

THE EVENT takes place 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Workshops and presentations by well-known storytellers, including Gwenda Ledbetter, Stone Soup and Tommy Scott Young.

The festival's timing is good considering this is the Year of the Young Reader. DSL tries to get children excited about books, through spoken interpretation of literature, folklore, music, puppet and dance.

Classrooms were often a source of storytelling but teachers don't always have the time, Jackson said.

"There's so little time because teachers have so much paperwork," she said.

That's where the league comes in. The DSL gives presentations at many of the schools in the area. A good portion of league members are themselves teachers or librarians.

When not giving presentations, the DSL meets the third Saturday of the month at various places in the area. Members can brush up on their skills and spin some new tales. Jackson said they prepare by practicing stories in front of mirrors or for their children.

Jackson practiced her first story out of anger. A choral group she taught at North Farmington High School had a major production. Some students left the show early, missing the grand finale.

Upset, she confronted the students the next day with an African folk tale about a spider named Anansi. The spider, she began to tell, went around the village asking the people to donate to his wisdom soup.

AFTER EVERYONE contributed a bit of wisdom to the pot, the spider told the people in the village he was going to keep it all for himself. He carried his pot of wisdom up into a tree, but the branch was too weak and broke.

"I told them that the wisdom spilled all over the world, including into this classroom, and they should have known better than to leave left the performance before they were supposed to," Jackson said. "Afterwards, they were going around saying to one another, 'We have wisdom. We have wisdom.'"

"You use it to make a point. You use it to encourage . . . and they'll always remember it."

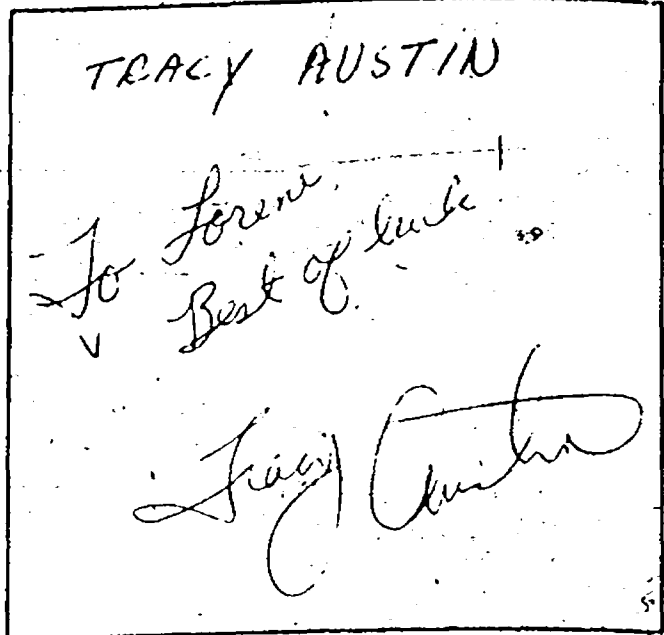

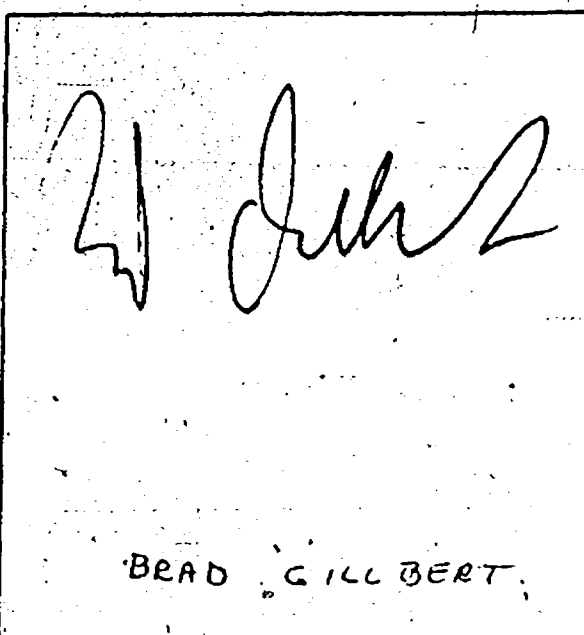

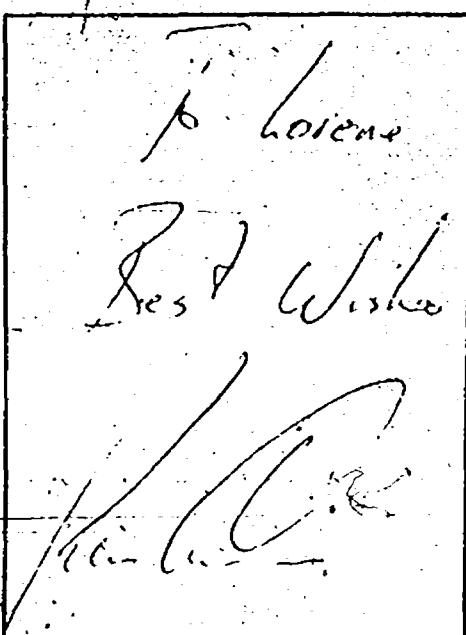

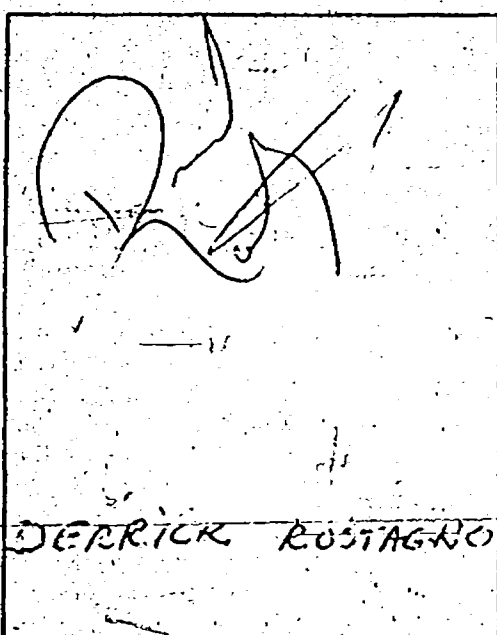

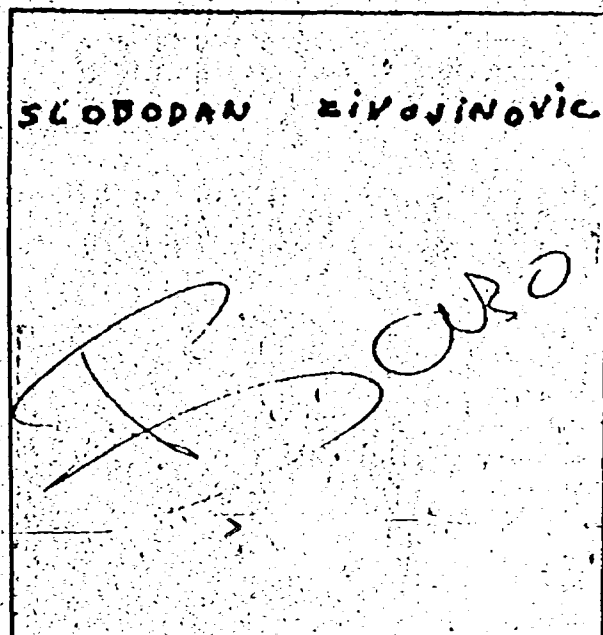

Or as Wally Haggard of Livonia found out one day, the stories can be a real change for students. Haggard happen to tell his second grade class at Crestwood School a tale about "The Donkey, the Table and the Stick."

The story is about a boy who wants to marry a girl, but his father won't let him until he is able to make his money. His dad also beats him. So the boy runs away from home.

In his travels, the boy works a year and a day for a woman and a carpenter. The woman gives him a donkey that dispenses gold coins. The carpenter lets him have a table that when he says "spread, table, spread" provides a bountiful supply of food.

BUT A dastardly little innkeeper switches the donkey and table. Unknowingly, the boy returns home only to be beaten by his father again for telling such tall tales.

Concentration shows up in tennis stars' signatures

Greetings from Pacific Palisades, Calif., where we're visiting with our son and daughter-in-law, Kevin and Kathie Green.

It was a beautiful, sunny day at the recent Volvo tennis tournament. A gentle breeze was stirring in the UCLA tennis stadium. Every seat was occupied with eager fans except mine. I was busy attempting to obtain autographs from the players.

I wasn't successful getting winner Aaron Krichstein's signature, but I did get several others which I think you will enjoy seeing.

My first autograph came from Yugoslavian player Slobodan Zivonjovic, or "BoBo" as he is lovingly called by his many fans. He is like a big teddy bear at 6-foot-6 200-pounder.

The signature needed little or no interpretation when the difficult spelling of his name is considered.

The next autograph came from Derrick Rostagno, a popular local young man. He is also known for his talent on the drums, piano and guitar. His father is a former member of the San Diego Philharmonic.

In Rostagno's signature, I find creativity in the formation of his D for Derrick, which also is used as part of the R for Rostagno. The rapid back and forth crossing of his T reminds me of his fast moving tennis racquet.

graphology

Then I ran right into Kevin Curren who was standing back watching the Davis/Pernfors match.

THE SMALL size of his words, which are more printed than written, bespeak his fine concentration.

The upslant to his lines suggest a positive attitude. His slight illegible signature tells us he is seeking anonymity.

Signature number four is that of Brad Gilbert. I caught him just as was walking off the court after winning his match with Pernfors. He was so gracious, I'm inclined to believe his handwriting would be more legible after a slight rest.

My fifth autograph is very special to me since women are never invited to play in the annual Volvo/L.A. tournament. I caught sight of the beautiful Tracy Austin seated directly across the stadium.

Tracy, as you may recall, was a very young player when she defeated Chris Evert, my all time idol. Unfortunately, health problems cut her meteoric rise short. And guess what. She was sitting there with her leg in a cast!

Her legible handwriting suggest a people oriented and generous young woman. And an upbeat attitude can be found in her rising lines. The next day we went to the Rose Bowl stadium to see our University of Michigan football team stage a thrilling win over UCLA in the final minutes of the game. Sorry, no autographs.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, date of birth and handedness are all helpful. And objective feedback is welcome.

Experiencing life in McReal world

I try again. "Oh," she says, "this one is an overachiever. You've crammed too many in there. Try again."

I don't mind, of course, except the orders for fries are coming back in machine gun fashion. I make four large and four small orders, only to watch them snapped up by counter workers.

What once was a very quiet setting has suddenly turned into a scene from "M*A*S*H" with incoming customers pouring through the door.

BACK TO the grill area. A litany of timers is going off, yet Paul Kopchak of Westland remains remarkably calm.

Let's see. He tells us there's a timer for each cooking vat for the McChicken Sandwiches, Filet of Fish, Chicken McNuggets and Apple Pies.

Buzzers exist for the toaster and steamer to let me know the buns are ready. Also, separate 30-minute timers go off when fried items are past their freshness.

"You don't have any problem," said Kopchak, who is the trainer for this area. "Each timer has its own sound."

HE'S RIGHT. The orchestra of buzzers soon becomes recognizable. The one that sounds like my alarm clock — time to put the buns in the steamer. The one that sounds like a doorbell — yep, those McNuggets in the warming drawer have expired.

Kopchak tends to other chores, leaving Barbush and yours-truly to fend for themselves amidst the onslaught of McChicken, McNugget and Filet orders. A 20-piece McNugget? No problem (Anyone who might've received 21 McNuggets in his order that day can thank me).

We manage not to fall in and deep fry ourselves. "That was fun," said Barbush, who worked at McDonald's for five years before getting into public relations.

NEXT ON the tour of duty — the drive-thru.

The computer-age has hit the fast-food industry in a big way. The drive-thru booth at McDonald's resembles an air traffic controller's tower.

A person with a headset takes the order and collects the money in one area and guides the automobile to the next booth. Once they get their food in the second booth and they're back on the runway.

By the way, fast-food connoisseurs, contrary to popular belief, people who work in the drive-thru are not deaf — although after wearing a headset for a few minutes, I was.

"HEY, I WANT A BIG MAC. LARGE-FRY AND SUPER SIZE DIET COKE — WITH NO ICE!" blares the order. Excuse me, but I can hear you over the din of a DC-10 engine.

AGAIN, I'M in charge of the drinks . . . and, guess who forgets to put the ice in yet another time? Except, this time, I slip some cubes on the fly.

To wrap up this pleasant experience, we're handed a towel and pointed toward the dining room. I wipe the seats while Barbush towels down table tops.

After the last unoccupied seat is thoroughly cleaned, we receive a broom as our reward. Time to sweep up the crumbs left behind during lunch.

"Don't feel so bad," Burger tells us. "The other group had to mop out the restrooms."

Yeah, but they didn't find a nice shiny 10-cent piece like we did on the floor. Although, this seems to be a hard way to earn a dime.

He runs away again, only to meet up with a woodsman. He works a year and a day for the woodsman, who gives the boy a club that when he says "up club" beats a person.

So, the boy heads back to the innkeeper and gets his donkey and table back. He goes back to the village, where he becomes famous. Women flock to him with their dowries, but he marries the poorest girl in the village. End of story.

"There was no hooting or hollering, no cheering," said Haggard, 59, who is retired from teaching. "It was a totally fresh story and they were attentive."

Haggard joined the Detroit Story League nearly three years ago. To him, there's no better way to spend a Saturday afternoon then to listen to others tell stories.

"They get up and tell stories and they're all imaginative," he said. "Even if it's a story you've heard before, it's so entertainingly fresh. It's so different from TV. It's like a concert."

Storytelling '89 will be on Saturday, Oct. 14, in the Adray Auditorium of the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn. Workshops, costing $15, will be 10 a.m. to noon and 1-4 p.m. The evening performances — 7:30-10 p.m. — by Guenda Ledbetter, Stone Soup and Tommy Scott Young cost $8.50. A combination of the workshops and performances is available for $20.

Fashion shows have fall flavor

If you're considering additions to your fall and winter wardrobes, you might want to consider taking in one of three fashion shows at Jacobson's Laurel Park store in Livonia this week.

Just in time for Saturday's annual University of Michigan-Michigan State University football game, is Jacobson's "Tailgate Football Saturday" fashion show at 7 p.m. tonight in the men's sportswear department. The show will feature clothes to wear to root your favorite team on to victory.

If you're considering adding knit fashions to your wardrobe, then consider the "Knit Statements for Fall" fashion show at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13, in Jacobson's designer's salon. The show will feature knit wear perfect for travel, work and evening wear and for every figure types.

And if you have a petite figure, Jacobson's will be showing off the Anne Klein II and Miss Ellette, a new service for the petite mother-of-the-bride-or-groom, at a breakfast fashion show at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 14.

A continental breakfast will be served and there is a $3.50 charge. Reservations can be made by calling 591-7696, Ext. 288.

Jacobson's Laurel Park store is at Six Mile and Newburgh roads in Livonia.

Not Just Another Place to Buy Furniture. Four Reasons Why:

One.

For The Money: 30% to 70% Savings.

Introducing a new concept in furniture showrooms. 30% to 70% savings on top-quality brand-names every day. How can we do it? Our 59 years of experience in the furniture business has given us a vast network of resources.

This lets us bring you exclusive, hand-picked designs from all over the world, and entire manufacturer's showrooms. Plus, more home furnishings you simply can't find at just any store. All at incredibly low prices.

Two. For The Show.

But what's even more incredible is the in-stock selection at Englander's OTHER PLACE. One browse through the store and you'll be turning up name tags like Henredon, Century, Baker, Drexel Heritage, Bernhardt and DIA. And that's just for starters.

In fact, we find so many striking pieces, the selection changes daily. Today, you might see a luxurious leather sofa at a terrific price; tomorrow, a rich rosewood china cabinet. Whether it's traditional or contemporary, you'll find only the best on our floor.

Three. To Get Ready.

If you're ready for a real awakening, check out the section of our store we call the South End. Clever, contemporary designs pop up all over. Futons that convert to sofas. Imaginative dining options. Avant-garde upholstery and space-saving wall units from Bauhaus. And there's more.

We have a feeling you'll like what you see so much, you'll want to pick up more than one item. It's easy. The selection here runs deep and the prices are always appealing. After all, you're still in Englander's OTHER PLACE.

Four. To Go.

At Englander's OTHER PLACE, we know that great furniture at great prices simply isn't enough. So we made it even more attractive by making sure any piece you select is ready to go home with you right away. And if it's too big, we deliver it free of charge. Stop by Englander's OTHER PLACE today. Your place will never be the same.

Canton pastor felt God's call

By Julie Brown
staff writer

In 1979, Kerry Hettinger was serving as an electronics technician with the U.S. Navy. Those days on the USS Eisenhower weren't his best:

"It was a low time in my life and I reached out for God's help. God reached out and healed me. I was left with a question — what now?"

He considered pursuing an engineering career but followed a different path.

"God spoke to my heart and led me to see he wanted me to help people who were hurting in the same way I had been hurting."

He's now the Rev. Kerry Hettinger, pastor at the Canton Free Methodist Church. This is his fourth year on the job.

Hettinger, 32, is the solo pastor at the church, which has approximately 100 members. His responsibilities include preaching, counseling and performing weddings and funerals.

He and other Canton clergy representatives work in the emergency chaplain service at Oakwood Canton Health Center. Hettinger's the administrator at the church, serving as chairman for most of the boards and committees.

HIS WORK includes trying to reach out into the community to meet needs there. He's the "shepherd" at the Canton Free Methodist Church, watching over the congregation and sharing God's message with worshippers.

Hettinger, a Canton resident, had a four-year enlistment in the Navy. He graduated from Portage Central High School.

Coming to Canton didn't require too much of an adjustment on Hettinger's part.

"I grew up in Portage, south of Kalamazoo, and the communities are almost identical."

HE DIDN'T attend church as a young child.

"I became a Christian in high school, in the 11th grade, didn't attend church younger than that. I was attracted to the youth group."

In the 12th grade, Hettinger accepted Jesus as his personal savior.

"I had a spiritual lapse that lasted about three years, from the age of 17 to 20. I questioned God and his part in my life."

Hettinger later attended Spring Arbor College in Spring Arbor, Mich., graduating in 1983 with a bachelor's degree in philosophy and psychology. He attended Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky., earning a master of divinity degree in 1986.

His position at the Canton Free Methodist Church is Hettinger's first full-time position in the ministry, and he plans to stay for at least several more years. The church is approximately nine years old.

THE FREE Methodist Church isn't generally as well known as the United Methodist Church is.

"The United Methodist Church is much larger, obviously," Hettinger said. "Our doctrine is almost identical. In many areas, there's really no difference."

The separation between the Methodist groups occurred in 1860. The New York founder of the Free Methodist Church was an outspoken abolitionist.

"He got in some trouble with the mainline church," Hettinger said. "The church was really struggling to maintain unity."

Methodist leaders of that era believed the church should be a bit quieter on the issue of slavery. The Free Methodist Church founder and his followers disagreed.

"The church basically kicked him out," Hettinger said.

IT'S UNLIKELY the two churches will join again, "just because 100 years has created some changes, though they're subtle."

Merging with some parts of the United Methodist Church would work, while joining with others wouldn't, he said. A union with the Wesleyan Church or with others would be more likely.

In Michigan, the Free Methodist Church includes the Southern Michigan, Eastern Michigan and Northern Michigan Conferences. Hettinger's church is part of the Southern Michigan Conference, which includes the lower third of the Lower Peninsula.

GOING INTO the ministry isn't unusual these days in Hettinger's family. His father is now planting or establishing a Free Methodist Church in South Haven, Mich. That's a recent career change for him.

"My father is following in my footsteps," Hettinger said. "He's at the level of being a ministerial candidate, which is close to ordination."

law are completing their graduate studies at Asbury Theological Seminary. They'll graduate next spring and work together in a church.

Hettinger's family members made that choice independently.

"I was a little bit proud, hoping I had given them some encouragement in following God's call in their lives."

HETTINGER'S FAMILY includes his wife, Celeste, a 12-year-old son, Kerry, and twin daughters, Saryn and Elizabeth, who turned 1 in August.

Hettinger enjoys spending time with his family. Fishing is also high on his list of things to do. His father-in-law has a dairy farm in Coldwater, Mich. That farm has a nice pond with sizable bass. Hettinger likes reading and spending time with church members. The family has many friends at the church, and enjoys bowling, playing softball or racquetball and visiting with them.

"Occasionally, we even get a baby sitter and my wife and I go out on a date," he said with a smile.

Symbol gives wrong message

Gambling in Oakland County's courthouses! Did the county officials approve? Did the voters of Oakland County approve? Is official approval or permission the primary issue?

A couple seeking a divorce met with their lawyers in the county courthouse. Following the meeting, I joined the woman for a cup of coffee in the courthouse cafeteria. It was closed for the afternoon break, so we used the vending machine.

Carrying the cups to the table, I noticed playing cards printed on the cups, with four presented face up and one face down. A note on the bottom of the cup told what was on the face-down card.

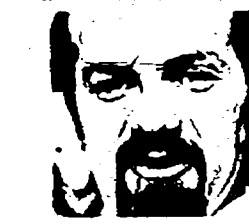

I distinctly remember that my cup presented a king, a queen and two tens. The fifth card was identified as a joker. I looked at the other cup and suddenly realized what I was doing. Without even consciously thinking about it, I had moved far into the process of gambling. I quickly resolved to go no further.

SOME WOULD insist that using cards like that to determine who buys the coffee or the lunch or anything else in the cafeteria is surely harmless. The stake is so small that no one will be harmed by it, so why the fuss?

The size of the stake in this exercise of chance is not the issue. The size of the stake does not determine whether one is gambling or not. Gambling is nothing more or less than playing a game for money or property . . . to stake something on a contingency. The cups used in the coffee vending machine in the Oakland County Courthouse openly invite the practice of gambling.

Gambling in a county courthouse? Playing a game for money or property . . . staking something on a contingency . . . I could suggest that as the reason for many being there in the courthouse.

People caught in the act of stealing are not planning to be caught . . . they gambled and lost. People moral perspectives

seeking divorces do not marry to get divorced . . . they gambled and lost. People do not commit acts of crime and violence to be prosecuted and sent to prison . . . they gambled and lost.

PLAYING A card game in the county courthouse cafeteria, to choose a buyer for a coffee break, is not only in bad taste (the coffee's not much better, either), it's a flagrant disregard for the power of example and the exercise of restraint.

The Biblical mandate cannot be more explicit . . . faithfulness in a little is the pattern for faithfulness in more. The opposite would be equally true . . . faithlessness in a little is the pattern for faithlessness in more.

Gambling will not end if the cups are changed in the Oakland County Courthouse cafeteria coffee vending machines. Cafeteria customers will still play games to identify buyers for coffee, et al. But it is a place to start in our exercise of moral leadership and role modeling. And isn't the beginning the most difficult part in the whole exercise of restraint and control?

The Rev. Lloyd Buss is pastor of the Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester Hills.

Contractors show goods at exhibition

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Call it networking for the manufacturing subcontracting set.

Upwards of 500 job shoppers, many from the Observer & Eccentric area, were expected to participate in the sixth annual Contract Manufacturers Expo this week at Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center.

"It's strictly subcontractors — all those shops you see around everywhere who do stamping, who do custom work, prototype work," said Patrick Witherspoon, executive director for the Contract Manufacturers Association.

"It's like a big market. It brings buyers and sellers together," he said. "They'll meet more people in three days than they normally would in five years. It's an inexpensive way to make contacts and gives them exposure they normally wouldn't get."

Exhibitors make components for the Big Three automakers, aerospace industry and appliance manufacturers. They produce building materials and parts for toys. They're government contractors.

THE BUYERS include major manufacturers, but exhibitors often do business with each other, too.

eight months later," Witherspoon said.

Craftsmen and shop owners often are much better and more comfortable doing work than drumming up business, Witherspoon said. The expo was set up for them.

"It's hard to go to a cocktail party and talk about it," he said. "These guys are craftsmen. They just don't go out and advertise. There's a lot of business out there. We bring them together."

Witherspoon described the average association member and exhibitor as a company that has been around for at least 20 years, employs 50-100 and has gross sales of $4-$5 million per year.

H&H Tube & Mfg. Co., with administrative offices in Southfield and three factories around Michigan, attended the expo for the second year in a row.

"WE GET a lot of good leads," said Hugh Thompson, sales manager. "We're there to get new and different business. You never sit back and say business is great so I'm not going to look for more business."

H&H makes tubes used for faucet spouts and tire pressure gauges as well as parts for the auto industry.

A need for computer rentals?

Yes, former teacher finds

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Michael Poniatowski, a former school administrator who saw a market in short-term computer rentals, said he still can't believe how much his company has grown since he launched it nearly seven years ago from the basement of his home.

Micro-Rental USA, which then consisted of four Apple IIe computers owned by Poniatowski, his father, his father-in-law and a teaching colleague, recorded rental revenues of $1.1 million last year, he said.

Revenues this year are projected to top out at approximately $2.4 million, Poniatowski said, due in great part to a merger in May with Biz-Tech of Livonia/Ann Arbor.

"I still don't believe where we are," said Poniatowski, 38, president and majority stockholder of the privately-held company.

Last week, he was supervising a consolidation of Detroit operations to Southfield from Livonia and Bloomfield Hills.

Micro-Rental USA also has branch offices in Grand Rapids, Chicago, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Cincinnati.

"NOW WE'VE grown so much our goal for at least the next year is to develop the market to its fullest. This is a very cash-intensive business. We've expanded as far as we can afford to," Poniatowski said.

The company, strictly involved in hardware rental, has earned a profit every year since its birth, Poniatowski said. Approximately 95 percent of its rentals now are to business clients.

It all started in fall 1982 when Poniatowski, then supervisor of the talented and gifted program for the Troy School District, began pursuing an advanced degree in computer education at Oakland University.

"We found out people were fighting to get on computers. There wasn't enough time or systems available," he said.

"I said maybe there's a need for people to rent at home," he said. "I tried to rent myself, but couldn't find anyone to do it."

A MARKETING study by a sister-in-law as part of a master's degree program confirmed the need, Poniatowski said.

He took the plunge in December.

"I set the business up as a management company, rented the computers out and paid them (owners) a percentage of the rental," Poniatowski said.

"In January, I got permission to put signs up at Oakland U. in the computer lab. I rented all the first four out the first week signs were out," he said.

At first, most renters were non-traditional college students — home-makers and working people pursuing a degree. Some rented for a week, some a month.

By March 1983, friends and relatives had boosted the inventory to 17 computers and Poniatowski had a couple of students working out of his Auburn Hills basement.

Business rentals soon surpassed rentals to students when IBM introduced a personal computer with business applications.

TWO EVENTS eventually propelled Poniatowski out of his basement into what he called the legitimate business world.

Ray Okonski, who was to become Poniatowski's business mentor and whom Poniatowski termed "an entrepreneur's entrepreneur," rented from him in June 1983. The Better Business Bureau, acting on an inquiry, checked him out in June 1984.

"Ray said this has the potential to get big. To get the right financing, you're going to have to get out of the basement," Poniatowski said.

The BBB recommended the same. In a reorganization engineered by Okonski, the original individual investors were given stock in exchange for their computers and the company relocated to the Bloomfield Towne Square.

Okonski, through his contacts, secured loans for expansion. Now chairman of Micro-Rental, Okonski

Tire account lucrative

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A 20-foot inflatable tire and a banner in front of W.B. Doner & Co. headquarters on Northwestern Highway Monday told the story.

The Southfield-based advertising company had acquired the BF Goodrich (tire) national advertising account. Grey Advertising of New York had the account for 17 years.

The BF Goodrich account is expected to generate upwards of $25 million in billings over the next year, according to AdWeek Magazine.

Between 15 and 25 jobs will be created at Doner to service the Goodrich account and several others the agency has acquired in recent months, said W.B. "Brod" Doner, chairman of the executive committee.

"I guess you'd have to say they (Goodrich) just liked the way we think," Doner said. "There's no question it automatically is in the top three or four of our accounts."

Doner declined to give specifics about the campaign.

The account will be managed by Steve LaGattuta in Doner's Southfield office and Jerry Preys in the Cleveland office.

Other key people involved with the account are John DeCerchio, Mike Sullivan, Dan Hackett, Mike Rutka and Gary Wolfson in creative and John Considine in research, Doner said.

W.B. Doner

athletic success will continue, said John Hargrave, spokesman for Goodrich.

Doner's campaign probably will be introduced to dealers in late January and hit the national airwaves in March, Hargrave said.

"We're in a very competitive industry and feel that W.B. Doner can give us the edge," Hargrave said. "Doner demonstrated to us their complete understanding of our target market and a unique way to communicate with that customer."

Hargrave identified the target market as owners of new sports cars that originally came with performance tires, and car buyers who acquire sporty cars to make a statement about lifestyle.

He also declined comment on the specifics of Doner's campaign.

"Grey had served us well. We were delighted with their efforts but decided we weren't maximizing impact with that theme," Hargrave said.

Doner was one of four finalists to pitch a TV campaign to Goodrich. The others were Chlat/Day/Mojo of Los Angeles, Saatchi & Saatchi of New York and Grey.

"IN THE ADVERTISING community, these are heavyweight, creative agencies," Hargrave said. "It's not so much they did anything wrong. Doner out-performed them."

Doner said he has no plans to use the Goodrich account to land the account of a major auto manufacturer. Doner unsuccessfully pursued the GM Saturn account.

"This is such a wonderful account in itself, we can't think of it as a springboard," Doner said.

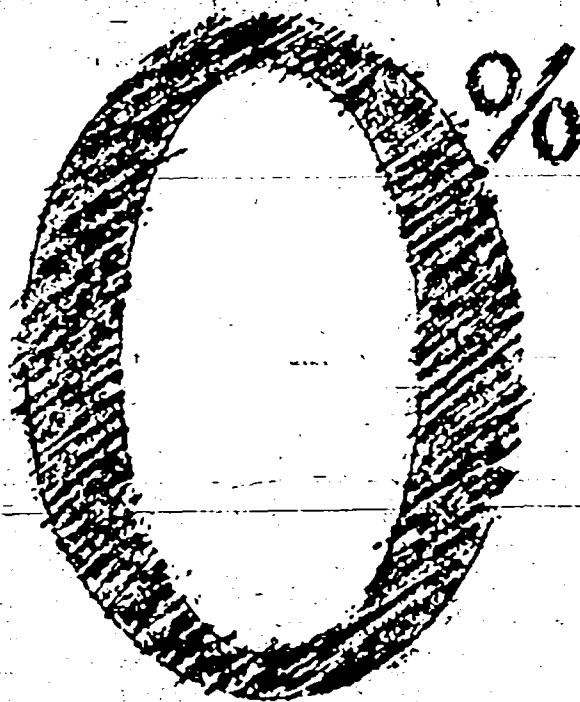

W.B. Doner & Co., privately-owned, was founded by Doner in 1937.

More than 500 are employed in offices in Southfield, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Petersburg, Montreal, Toronto and London, England. The Southfield office is the largest.

Local accounts handled by Doner include Highland Appliance, Perry Drugs, the Detroit Free Press, WDIV-TV and the Michigan State Lottery.

Doner won best of show honors at the Detroit Caddy Awards this year for radio ads promoting the Greater Michigan Ford Dealers and Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

Corporate billings through July of this year were estimated at $320 million, said Pat Simpson, spokeswoman for Doner.

became director of finance and marketing. William Basey, a longtime associate of Okonski, became controller.

Poniatowski, the major stockholder, became president.

One-person branches subsequently were established in Grand Rapids and Cleveland. Other acquisitions and mergers followed.

MICRO-RENTAL NOW consists of approximately 14 permanent and part-time employees in Southfield, Poniatowski said. Inventory now is 700 computers, with roughly half in Michigan.

Business clients include companies with a specific short-term need like accounting firms on an audit or auto suppliers working on a specific project.

They also include companies under time and budget constraints. They can have access to a computer quicker and perhaps get the money easier by expensing a rental than by leasing.

Other clients need very short-term rentals, generally a week or less, for training or trade shows.

"Most clients are referrals or find Micro-Rental in the Yellow Pages," Poniatowski said.

"Renting a computer is like renting a car for a day, a week or a month," he said. "You need it for a specific purpose. It's short-term.

When you're done, you give it back. That's our niche."

OKONSKI IS as complimentary to Poniatowski as the company's founder is to him.

"I liked what he was doing and I could see intuitively... that he had an understanding of the market," Okonski said. "And he had drive, enthusiasm, knowledge. Plus he had a market sense."

Poniatowski said he hasn't regretted the decision to stay with the business when his one-year educational leave expired early in the game.

"I didn't know how to get out of it. It was almost no decision," he said.

"I lucked out, to find something no one thinks of. There's a need. We have a good management team."

get are also showing at the show," Thompson added.

Hart Precision Products of Redford, which designs and manufactures hydraulic parts for large machinery and aircraft companies, returned to the expo this week after an absence of several years.

Robert Fairchild, general manager for Hart Precision, admitted to being a little gun shy after a bad experience at another show — "a bust," he said — in Houston.

"Because business is a little on the depressed side, I thought we'd participate because of interest shown by prime contractors and some commercial people I talked to," Fairchild said.

Roger Keranen, marketing manager for Chronolog Systems of Troy, said the 2½-year-old company was anticipating its first expo.

Chronolog is a time-management and reporting firm.

"We have developed an investment analysis so manufacturers can determine if they're fat as far as labor goes," Keranen said. "Contract Manufacturers Expo is going to be business for the entire geographical area. We think it's a good business decision."

Is Your Child Too Small?

Most kids grow at their own rate. And there's nothing to be alarmed at if they're a little above or below the growth chart.

For some children, though, it's different. For any number of reasons, they just don't grow like other kids do. But if treated in time, many of them can be helped.

And that's the purpose of the Growth Assessment Clinic sponsored by Pediatric Associates of Farmington, in affiliation with Children's Hospital of Michigan and the Human Growth Foundation. If you're worried about your child's growth pattern, give us a call at (313) 228-2769.

We'll set up a private screening on Saturday, October 14. And it won't cost you a penny.

Mary DiPaolo

A leader learns to listen, observe

By Mary DiPaolo
special writer

Managers talk. Leaders have learned to listen.

Listening is the glue that holds every business together and represents the sixth aspect of leadership that is important but seldom urgent.

According to William A. Martstetter, author of "Creative Management," "the occupational disease of poor management is the inability to listen and to ask the right kinds of questions." As such, listening and observing are the basics behind both the learning and leadership development processes.

AS MANAGERS "manage," leaders do what they do well. A leader has the ability to know what he does particularly well and where his or her weaknesses lie.

If you're a top-notch salesman, share your sales secrets with your sales force. If you are not a "numbers cruncher," develop someone within the business who is.

A good leader realizes that he cannot be all things to all people, so he develops key people to cover the weak areas.

ALTHOUGH MANAGERS are honest most of the time, leaders make a point to always tell the truth.

When you find it necessary to tell "white lies" to the people you work with, you might as well pack it in.

When they find out, you will have ruined your credibility with them. Leaders realize that people can accept and respect the honest truth, no matter how difficult it may be to swallow at the time.

Praise may be used by managers to manipulate people; leaders use praise to develop a person's self-esteem.

LEADERS KNOW that the most effective method of encouraging people is self-motivation. Leaders praise people for a job well done — immediately and sincerely.

Unlike managers, who sometimes lavish their people with cheap praise in an effort to push them harder, leaders help foster self-worth, value and importance among their employees staff.

Managers work their required schedule. Leaders work whenever their leadership support is needed. How many times have you asked your employees to work an extra weekend or stay late to fill an important order?

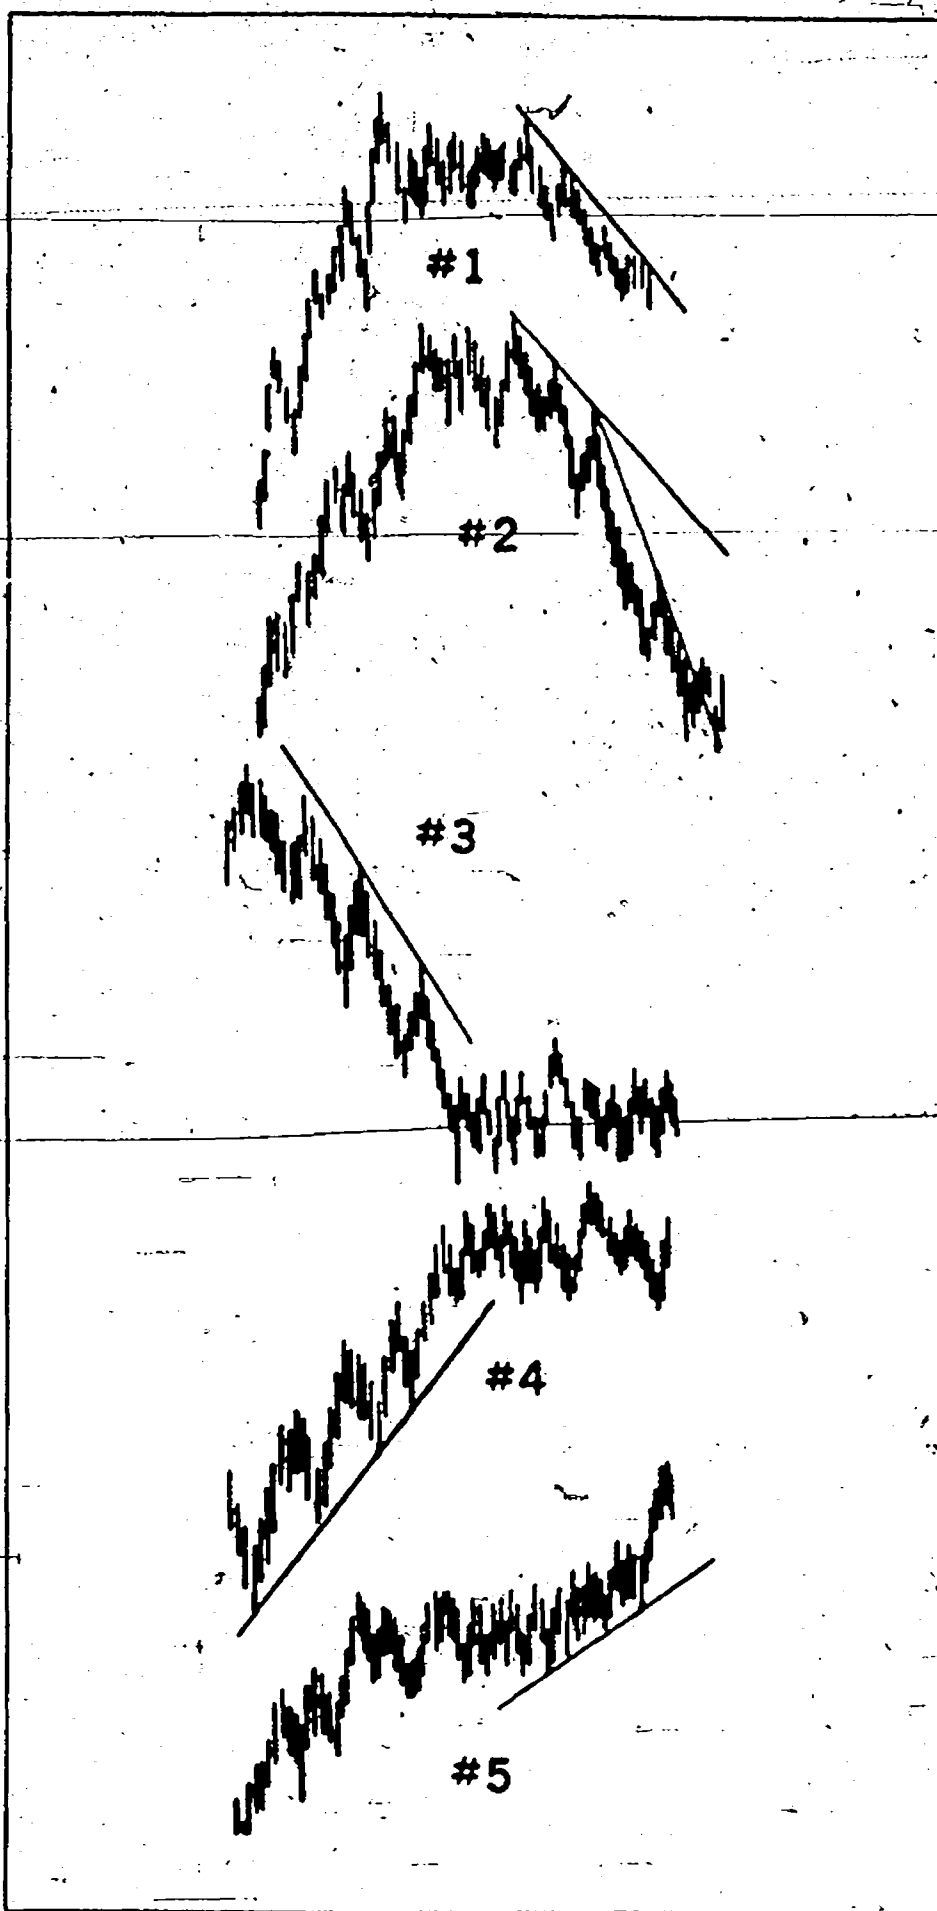

AN IMPORTANT rule of great leadership is to never require someone to do something you wouldn't be willing to do yourself. This doesn't mean that every time you ask somebody to work late, you have to work late, too.

It means that you must have the sensitivity to know when it is important for you to be there reinforcing and supporting the efforts of your employees.

Last, a manager evaluates his employee's performance; a leader evaluates his or her own performance as well.

Managerial ego is a lot like the steam that fogs your bathroom mirror — it distorts reality. To avoid self-analysis is a symptom of personal weakness, mediocrity or both.

Technicians see future in graphs

Part II

Last week we presented key aspects of technical analysis. Basically, technical analysis of individual stocks involves the interpretation of important chart patterns known by such esoteric names as head and shoulders, triangles, wedges, flags and saucers.

Each pattern signals to technical analysts a major or minor upward or downward movement in the stock. Several popular chart patterns are discussed below.

Support and resistance levels

One of the most important aspects of chart analysis is the identification of support and resistance levels. A support level is a barrier to price decline; a resistance level is a barrier to price advancement.

Although the barrier is an obstruction, it is by no means impassable: stock prices do break support and resistance barriers.

Head and shoulders configurations

Basic reversal patterns help analysts identify the turning points so that they can decide when to buy or sell stock. The key reversal pattern is popularly known as the head and shoulders configuration.

This configuration is merely another name for an uptrend or a downtrend in a stock; "neckline" is the familiar resistance or support level.

Head and shoulders formation should be analyzed against the background of volume trend. As the head and shoulders top is formed, resistance to further price increases dampens investor enthusiasm.

As enthusiasm falls, the volume decreases on each of the rally phases within the top formation. The reverse is true when the head and shoulder bottom is under formation.

It should be emphasized that the completion of a head and shoulders top or bottom is not considered final until the penetration of the neckline is apparent.

Five broad patterns

It is worth noting that of all the many chart patterns and techniques discussed above, five broadly classified patterns are claimed to best describe the price behavior of most stocks. These patterns, shown in the attached chart, should be self-explanatory.

Summary

Technical analysis endeavors to predict future price levels of stocks by analyzing past data from the market itself. This analysis is based on the belief that the price of stock depends primarily on supply and demand and may have little relationship to any intrinsic value.

Fahey, Sheridan take a Giant step

BILL FAHEY HAS WAITED 20 years for this moment, but for Pat Sheridan it's old hat. The moment, however, is something to cherish forever.

Both will be wearing the uniform of the San Francisco Giants when they take on the Oakland A's Saturday in the first game of the World Series, an event they're calling "BaysBall."

For Fahey, a 1968 graduate of Redford Union High School, it's a special moment in his baseball career. He'll be coaching third base.

Sheridan, a 1976 Wayne Memorial High product, has appeared in four league championship playoff series. He already owns one World Series ring on his right hand, but makes no bones about wearing another, but cautions, "I don't think my wife (Melanie) would appreciate me taking off my wedding ring."

Both the coach and the player have been besieged by ticket requests — aunts, uncles, cousins, in-laws, nieces, nephews, brothers, sisters, fathers, mothers and friends.

"I don't have any because there aren't any left," Fahey said. "My wife (Carla) and two sons (Scott and Brandon) are here from Dallas. This doesn't happen all the time so I want them to be as much a part of it as possible."

FAHEY PLAYED 11 years in the majors before turning to the coaching ranks.

He began coaching in the Tigers organization, running the Class A club in Lakeland, Fla., before moving over to San Francisco where Roger Craig took him under his wings.

Someday the 39-year-old Fahey may become a manager, but for now he remains satisfied giving the green light to Will Clark as he rounds third.

Brad Emons

Last week, Fahey invited his old high school coach, Bob Atkins, now the Walled Lake Schools athletic director, and his wife Marti to Chicago for the playoffs.

"He taught me how to play and recognized my ability and how to find it," Fahey said. "I'm forever grateful to him and to Milo Karhu (now an RU assistant principal). They kept after me and asked me to play baseball. I wouldn't be here in the World Series if it wasn't for their persistence."

ATKINS, who helped negotiate

Fahey's first professional contract with the Washington Senators, calls his former student a "great role model for young people."

"Bill was just a fantastic kid, everybody liked him," said the former high school coach. "If he wants to pursue it, Bill can be a big league manager some day. He has a great baseball mind and he understands the nuances of the game. He's one of the good guys in baseball."

While Fahey has settled in comfortably with the Giants organization, Sheridan has been on a roller coaster of sorts this season.

He started the year with Detroit, but suddenly found himself traded. The timing couldn't have been worse. Although reunited with Craig and suddenly in the midst of a pennant race, Sheridan left behind a new-born baby girl (Palge Ashley) and a newly built house in Farmington Hills.

He hasn't had much time to talk with his old high school coach, Jim Chronowski.

"I bumped into him once at a submarine shop in Ypsilanti," said the former Eastern Michigan University standout. "I didn't get to see many people because I was working on my house most of the winter."

When he arrived in Frisco, Sheridan wasn't short on towels or soap. His address was the Hyatt-Regency, Marriott and Clarion hotels.

"It's cheaper than renting an apartment, and there were only 38 games left in the season and we were on the road quite a bit anyway," Sheridan said. "I was back home when my daughter was born, but I haven't seen my family much. This season has been a little erratic, but I can't control what happens. I've been here two months and I wish I were a bigger part of this team."

SHERIDAN ADMITS the 1989

season has been a personal struggle, but he's delivered a key hit or two for the Giants.

"In Kansas City and Detroit, we always had to come from behind to win, but with this team we've been ahead in first since day one," Sheridan said. "We already feel like World Champions."

"And long as guys like Robby Thompson and Brett Butler keep getting on base, and Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell keep driving them in, it's going to be a pretty good series against Oakland."

Sheridan marvels at Clark, the National League Series MVP who batted .650.

"He doesn't think anybody can get him out," Sheridan said. "He was born to play ball, like a George Brett (Sheridan's former teammate in KC)."

Resilient Chiefs top Franklin

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Livonia Franklin knew it had to stop Plymouth Canton center Susan Ferko if it was to win an important Western Division girls' basketball game Tuesday night.

The Patriots didn't figure on Stacey Thompson filling the void, however.

She scored a game-high 21 points, which included a 15-point second half, and powered the Chiefs to a hard-fought, 54-46 victory at Franklin.

"(Canton coach) Mr. (Bob) Blohm told me I haven't stepped up yet, and I guess this was the game to do it," Thompson said.

"Their defense centered mostly around Susan. With the effort on Susan, that left me open. That's what happens when you have a great player on your team like Susan; you start to have opportunities."

THE 5-FOOT-11 Ferko, who finished the game with four fouls as did Franklin star Dawn Warner, scored 15 points for Canton, which completed the first round of division play at 5-0 and is 9-2 overall.

Warner's 20 points paced the Patriots, and Cheryl Hintz added 10. Franklin, 3-2 and 8-2, has another key game tonight when it plays host to division foe Walled Lake Western, the only other team to have beaten the Patriots.

"We didn't play our normal defense at all tonight," Franklin coach Dan Freeman said. "Prior to this game, we hadn't played 30 seconds of zone."

"We had to pinch in on Susan; we don't have anyone equal to her size — or ability. In the second half, we ran out of gas and didn't rotate around and cover Thompson."

"Not to fault the girls, because they played girls basketball

real hard," he added. "We just got tired in the second half and couldn't shut off the inside."

The Patriots played well, indeed. Franklin's pressure caused problems (12 turnovers) for the Chiefs in the first half, and the Patriots led 25-24 at halftime. It was still only a four-point difference (50-46) with 25 seconds remaining.

"THEY CAME after us, and the bench really helped out," Blohm said. "When Susan got in foul trouble, we had to rotate some players, and we held together real well."

"I really like their team. They're not big, but they play together very well."

While Warner had only five points in the first half, Hintz scored three big baskets at the end of the fast break, and Juliann Steslak added eight points for the game.

Patty Shea was a leader out front on the press, and center Shannon Eberly gave a gutsy performance going up against Ferko in the post.

Though Warner reached her scoring average, Blohm and Freeman were impressed by the defense Canton guard Jenny Russell played opposite her.

"I think they were a hard-earned 20," Blohm said.

"Twenty is a fine game for her, going against Jenny Russell," Freeman said.

"She's a good defensive player; I'll give her that," Warner said.

KRIS FORD and Christyn Halliday were the bench players who combined with the starting five to make Canton the team that is beginning to blend and unify, according to Blohm.

When the Patriots threatened to open a lead in the second quarter, Halliday hit back-to-back corner shots to tie 23-23. Her 3-point game with three seconds left in the third period gave Canton a 41-38 edge heading into the finale.

The Chiefs made a move early in the second half as Mary Barna, Thompson and Ferko combined to give Canton a 34-27 lead. But the momentum changed as Warner hit a triple and, after Ferko got her fourth foul, added a layup to make it a two-point ballgame again.

"When we had the seven-point spurt, I thought we were on our way, but they fought us off," Blohm said.

"I was just there at the right time for those (baskets), and we boxed out very well," Warner said. "We played well as a team. It's just a bad loss."

"All in all, I'm not unhappy with the effort we put out," Freeman said. "Next time, we'll make some adjustments and plan on getting them at their place."

THE CHIEFS never trailed after Ferko made it 43-42, and Thompson scored the next seven points for a 50-44 lead. Ferko and Thompson made two free throws each in the last half minute to secure the victory.

"(Thompson) made some big buckets, didn't she?" Blohm said. "Stacey played a great game against Salem in the district last year, and this was equal to that game."

"She finished off a lot of nice plays and also went to the glass. She had an all-round nice game."

Livonian handed guarantee by NBA's Houston Rockets

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia Stevenson High's Tom Domako may become the first product from an Observerland high school to make a National Basketball Association team.

The 6-foot-8, 215-pound forward out of Montana State took a step in the right direction when he signed a reported $100,000-plus guaranteed contract Friday with the Houston Rockets.

He reported for practice during Saturday's double-session at the Rockets' training camp held at a nearby Houston high school.

Domako's agent, Don DeJardin of San Gabriel, Calif., hammered out an agreement with Rockets general manager Steve Patterson just before the start of camp. (DeJardin represents NBA pros James Donaldson of the Dallas Mavericks and Jim Petersen of the Golden State Warriors.)

"My dad (Tom Sr.) and my wife (Vicki) were all on pins and needles," said Domako, who played professionally last season in Lyon, France. "It was a long time coming, but there were some problems to iron out because of the (NBA) salary cap. It took a long time, but I'm glad it's over."

DOMAKO, a three-time All-Big Sky Conference player, and the league MVP in 1986-87 at Montana State, will most likely play small forward for the Rockets, who also line up perennial All-Star center Akeem Olatunji, forward Otis Thorpe, former University of Michigan standout Tim McCormick, forward Derrick Chievous, guard Sleepy Floyd, forward Buck Johnson, backup center

Tom Domako signs with Houston

Chuck Nevitt and guard Allen Leavell.

The Rockets also invited to camp guards Mitchell Wiggins and Lewis Lloyd, both off NBA drug rehabilitation stints, along with veteran John Lucas and rookie free agent Jay Burson.

Domako, although not guaranteed a spot on the Rockets' regular season roster, is one of 13 of 20 players in camp working under a guaranteed contract.

"I'm confident I can fit in," Domako said. "Right now they don't have anybody who can shoot the ball beyond 18 feet."

Domako said he was a little in awe after the first day of camp. "It was weird playing with Akeem," he said. "But he seems like a nice guy. And Tim McCormick took me out to dinner (Saturday night). He remembered me from summer camps."

ONCE DOMAKO returned from Europe, he attended a rookie-free agent camp with the NBA-expansion Minnesota Timberwolves, but was not offered a contract.

"The (Timberwolves) director of player personnel, Billy McKinney, was interested in me when I came out of college," Domako said. "When he was with the Bulls, he urged them to draft me, but they passed me up."

"When I got to Minnesota I didn't play much because I don't think (Bill) Musselman (the Timberwolves) liked me. Houston had been interested in me from the start and I was invited back to their rookie camp (over the summer)."

Domako, who spent the summer in Montana after a brief week at home, entertained offers from Spain, but wanted to stay this year in the states.

"I told my agent (DeJardin) that I wanted to play here, whether it's the NBA or the CBA (Continental Basketball Association). I was offered a contract to play in Cedar Rapids, but right now I'll see how things work out in Houston."

Don Chaney, a former NBA standout and Detroit Pistons assistant, is the Rockets' head coach. He is assisted by former U-M star and NBA All-Star Rudy Tomjanovich and Carroll Dawson.

"THE COACHING staff is very good and I think I can fit into their style," Domako said. "I'm confident I can be a role player in their system."

The Rockets begin the exhibition season Friday at home in the Summit against the Philadelphia 76ers before hitting the road for games Saturday in Atlanta against the Hawks and Tuesday in Cleveland against the Cavaliers.

Back in business Stevenson boots Salem in Lakes battle

By Dan O'Meara
Staff writer

Livonia Stevenson isn't the powerhouse soccer team it was a year ago, but the Spartans are still Livonia Stevenson nonetheless.

Until someone decides otherwise, the Spartans remain the defending league and state champions, and coach Pete Scerri believes the school's tradition in the sport contributed Monday to a 2-0 defeat of host Plymouth Salem.

"I betcha that's 80 percent of winning," said Scerri, who then summarized the pep talk he gave his players at halftime of a 0-0 ballgame. "I told them we're Stevenson, and we'll find a way to win. I'm proud of them; there's that tradition."

As it usually is when these teams play, the Lakes Division title was at stake, with the winner getting a rematch with undefeated and No. 1-ranked Livonia Churchill next Wednesday in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game.

The Spartans, 2-0-1 in the division and 9-1-1 overall as of Monday, had to beat Walled Lake Central on Wednesday to make it official, but the Salem game decided the issue for all practical purposes.

Stevenson, ranked No. 8 this week, has won six straight and appears to be coming on despite being in what Scerri calls a rebuilding year after losing a lot of talent from the team that captured the Class A crown last fall.

The Spartans beat the No. 7-rated Rocks with goals by Shane

'Some people are counting us out, but it's not over until it's over.'

— Pete Scerri
Stevenson coach

Miller and Greg Smith, and goalkeeper Jerry Smolenski played a solid game, making several key saves on Salem shots.

"Some people are counting us out, but it's not over until it's over," Scerri said. "We're underdogs this year; I admit it."

"I didn't expect to be this far, but we've only lost to Churchill — and Churchill has a beautiful team this year. They're one of the best I've seen in the state."

The Spartans, who lost 1-0 to Churchill earlier this season, welcome the opportunity to play the Chargers, who are 12-0 and have won their last 11 games by shutout, in the WLAAs final. The game is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Stevenson.

"I know they are a better team, but we're not going to take a back seat to anybody," Scerri said. "It's the other way around now. The pressure is on them for a change. They're No. 1 and nobody has scored on them."

The loss was devastating for Salem, which had hoped to end a frustrating week with a meaningful win over the Spartans. Instead, its woes both of late and historically in its rivalry with Stevenson continued.

The No. 7-rated Rocks, 2-1 and 10-3-1, were 0-3-1 in their last four games before playing North Farmington in the regular-season finale Wednesday. Salem had lost 1-0 to Churchill on Monday, Oct. 2, tied Walled Lake Western 0-0 on Wednesday, Oct. 4, and lost 2-1 to No. 4 Troy Athens on Saturday.

Furthermore, the Rocks saw their winless streak in games against the Spartans extended to 0-12-2.

"We just couldn't finish," said Salem coach Ken Johnson, who saw his team outshoot Stevenson and, for the most part, dominate another game without success.

"We're not getting any breaks. It's just one of those things. I can't say we'll do this or practice that."

"Every game we think it (will turn around)," he added. "It's gotta change one day; I don't know when."

Maybe in the state (tournament) it will change."

In an attempt to offset Salem's ballhandling skills and compensate for its comparative inexperience, the Stevenson plan was to stretch the field and catch the Rocks in transition.

Midway in the second half, Millner took a pass from teammate Rob Haar, turned and fired a strong shot that carried into the upper corner of the net, too high for Salem goalie Matt Tudor to reach.

"We switched the field nicely, got it across and I happened to be there," Millner said. "It was just a great cross from Haar. I aimed for the corner and hoped it went in."

The Rocks continued to have the majority of scoring opportunities until Smith chipped a shot over Tudor, who had started out of the net in apparent anticipation of a rush on the Salem goal, with under three minutes left in the game.

"Some people criticize the way I do things and say we're playing kick ball," Scerri said. "But when we're playing a good team like that, I want to use the long ball — go 1-on-1 and try to surprise them."

"What good would it do playing in the middle," he said, pointing to the field. "That's boring. The way they were outplaying us, we had to juggle the lineup and try to find a way."

Top-ranked Churchill on shutout streak

Top-ranked Livonia Churchill ran its unbeaten streak to 12 Monday with a 4-0 Western Lakes Activities Association boys soccer win at Northville.

The Chargers, rated No. 1 in Class A by the Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association, are 12-0 overall and clinched the Western Division title of the WLAAs with a 5-0 record.

They will most likely play city rival Stevenson (in a rematch) for the WLAAs championship crossover game at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

"We enjoy playing Stevenson because it's always a good game and I think we have a friendly rivalry," said Churchill's John Neff.

Churchill, which has shut out 11 of 12 opponents this season, used a smothering defense again to blank the host Mustangs.

"Obviously it's great team defense, but you just can't say the fullbacks play defense because everybody has to play defense," Neff said. "Our priority has been shutting people down. Nothing can come from shutting people down."

Offensively, Churchill led 2-0 at intermission on goals by Phil Todino and Paul Kaliszewski. (Scott O'Leary and Brady Ericson drew assists.)

John Gentile scored on a penalty kick in the second half and Ericson closed out the scoring with a goal from Kaliszewski.

REDFORD CC 3, NOTRE DAME 1: Redford Catholic Central won a pair of games over the weekend under interim coach Dan O'Shea.

CC head coach John Boots missed the Shamrocks 3-1 Central Division win Sunday at Harper Woods Notre Dame and their 2-0 non-league triumph Friday over Northville in a match Monday at Schoolcraft College.

Boots' mother died last week in Indianapolis. Dominic Secluna, Dana Orsucci and Joe Nora tallied goals in the win over Notre Dame, while John Petoskey and Jim Bernthal notched goals against Northville.

J.P. Angell was in goal for both CC wins.

The Shamrocks are 11-1-1 overall and 4-1-1 in the Central.

TEMPLE 2, BAPTIST PARK 2: David Schalte scored with nine minutes left in the match to give Redford Temple Christian a 2-2 tie Tuesday with Taylor Baptist Park in a match played at Gibson Field in Redford.

Temple is 5-5-2 overall while Baptist Park is 6-5-2. Matt Ockerman assisted on the game-tying goal, while Craig Dalton tallied Temple's other goal on a penalty kick.

IN NORTHWEST SUBURBAN LEAGUE action Monday, Woodhaven edged Garden City, 2-1, while Dearborn Edsel Ford drilled Redford Union, 6-1.

NACE defeated the Kalamazoo Junior Wings (6-2), tied the Bloomfield Jets (2-2) and fell to Thornhill of Toronto, Ontario (7-2). They finished second in their division, but did not qualify for the semifinals.

Left winger Mike Mattis and defenseman Steve Kast "were the top players in the two games," according to NACE coach Kyle Krug.

NACE meets Compuware at 8 tonight at the Redford Ice Arena. Eric Lindross will not be playing for Compuware, as he is serving the second game of a two-game suspension for a match penalty he received last week.

Ocelots tie Delta College, await nemesis Macomb

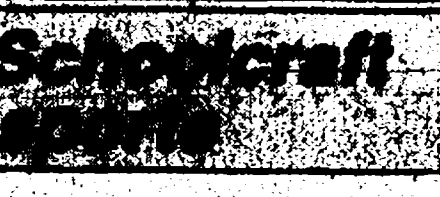

So far this season, Schoolcraft College's mens soccer team has not been beaten by a Region 12 foe. But the Ocelots will still have their backs to the wall when they visit regional rival Macomb CC Saturday.

The two teams have already played to a tie, earlier this season at SC. The Ocelots made their position more vulnerable by playing Delta College to a 2-2 tie Saturday at SC.

That left SC with a 3-0-2 mark; Macomb CC is 4-0-1 in regional play. Both teams will have two matches remaining in the region after Saturday's 1 p.m. meeting.

"We missed numerous, numerous (scoring) opportunities," said SC coach Van Dimitriou in describing Saturday's tie with Delta. "Especially Khaled (Zaidan) and Brendan (O'Reilly). They just didn't convert."

Zaidan opened the scoring Saturday by drilling a shot into the Delta net from 30 yards out just before the half, giving SC an early 1-0 lead. Delta forced overtime with a goal late in regulation by Chris Jones.

JEFF REHRSTAFF gave Delta a 2-1 lead in overtime by burying a shot from the left wing into the far corner.

"I've got to give our kids credit," said Dimitriou. "They were down, but they didn't stay down. They came back and could easily have won it."

The Ocelots increased the intensity of their attack and, late in the second extra session, made it pay off. Midfielder Rick Menary fed a pass to Jerry Staszal, who in turn got the ball to Zaidan. Zaidan put the ball in the net for the game-tying score.

The tie kept SC's hopes for a berth in the National Junior College Athletic Association Inter-regional Tournament alive. However, the Ocelots must defeat Macomb CC Saturday, and they must win without stopper Chris Speen. Speen injured his knee in a 1-0 overtime loss to Eastern Michigan Oct. 4 and will be lost for the season.

There were a couple of others missing for the Delta game: Sweeper Dave Dingle was nursing an injured leg, and fullback Doug Sobolak had to sit out because of a red card he received in the prior league match. Both are expected back for Saturday's game.

Both will be needed, to be sure. Saturday's pivotal match starts at 1 p.m. at Macomb CC, located between 12 and 13 Mile roads on Hayes.

Redford Union duplicates dual season

The championship meet proved no more challenging than the dual-meet season had been for Redford Union's golfers.

The Panthers, whose 7-1 record topped the Northwest Suburban League, rolled to their second-straight title in ease Monday, carding a five-man team total of 420 at the par-72 Kensington-Golf Course to finish 29 strokes ahead of runner-up Garden City (449).

Dearborn Edsel Ford was next (454), followed by Dearborn (477) and Woodhaven (495).

RU's Lee Fegert earned the league's most valuable performer honors for the second consecutive season after claiming medalist honors with an 80 at Kensington. Edsel Ford's Derek Lowe was second with 82, with Rick Morton of Garden City third at 83.

A series of RU golfers dotted the next highest finishers, as all five Panthers shot 86 or better. Jim Edwards and Joe Odell each had 84, and Shane Sennett and Ken Ickes fired an 86 apiece. Brian Hawkins of Garden City also had an 86.

"I'm very pleased with the team effort," said RU coach Ken Vollick. "They all worked very hard last summer."

Of course, the season's not over yet. Now RU must travel to the Class A regional Friday at Pontiac Country Club, where it must tangle with some of the state's best teams, including No. 1-ranked Birmingham Brother Rice and Redford Catholic Central.

"The guys are fired up," said Vollick. "I think we'll have a good team showing (at the regional)."

REDFORD CATHOLIC CENTRAL proved the third time was not necessarily a charm at the Catholic League Championship Tuesday at Riverview Highlands.

The Shamrocks finished second with a score of 320, four strokes behind the champions from Birmingham Brother Rice. CC had defeated Rice in both of their meetings earlier this year.

CC's Jeff Brown did his best to try and make it three in a row, shooting a two-over par 74 to claim medalist honors. The other leading Shamrocks' golfers included Scott Krueger (79), Joe Sullivan (83), Mike Brady (84) and Mike Obidzinski (84).

CC finishes the regular season with a 10-1 dual meet record and a pair of tournament triumphs. The Shamrocks start state tournament action Friday with the regionals at Pontiac Country Club.

On Saturday, CC won the 10-team Redford Invitational at Giant Oaks Golf Course in Temperance. The Shamrocks score of 319 was a whopping 20 strokes better than their nearest competitor.

Rounding out the top five were Trenton (339), Petersburg Summerfield (354), Ida (362) and Temperance Bedford (366).

Brown again led all shooters with a four-over par 76. Chris Freitas (79), Sullivan (81), Krueger (83) and Brady (86) were the other top CC scorers.

REDFORD THURSTON kept its Tri-River League record perfect (5-0) Tuesday with a 160-166 win over Dearborn Heights Crestwood at Warren Valley.

Scott Delano led the Eagles with a one-over par 37.

Bob Isenegger (39), Adam Stern (39), John Walsh (45), Rich Sherwood (45) and Dan Pertulla (45) were the other major contributors for Thurston.

The Eagles are now 7-4 overall. On Monday, Thurston pounded Melvindale 159-224 at Warren Valley. Delano fired a two-under par 34 to lead the Eagles' charge.

Patriots win relay title

The Livonia Franklin won top honors at its own Franklin girls cross country relay meet held Saturday at Nankin Mills.

Seven Franklin runners covered the seven-mile course in 45:22. Becky Latham, Kelly Gustafson, Mary Lou Maddison, Dawn Harrison, Kerl MacKay, Stacy Hewett and Nicole McMullen all ran a leg for the Patriots.

Belleville finished second with a time of 45:41. Westland John Glenn cruised to a third place finish with a 46:21 mark. Livonia Churchill and Redford Bishop Borgess finished fourth and fifth with times of 47:28 and 47:35 respectively. Garden City concluded the scoring with a 49:38 mark.

Franklin also won the John

Glenn Freshman/Sophomore Invitational held Tuesday.

The Patriots accumulated just 34 points to better second place Ypsilanti, who scored 58.

Dana Nowicki of John Glenn won the race with a time of 21:08.

Gustafson and MacKay led the Patriot running attack with their fourth and fifth place finishes. They each had a time of 22:32. Maddison finished sixth with a 23:27 mark. Tammy Bauer, with a 23:24 clip, ran to a ninth place finish. Nicole McMullen and Nicole Canham finished 10th and 11th, with times of 23:29 and 23:32 respectively. Latham rounded out the Patriot attack with a 24:46 19th place finish.

liams for four years in Texas. He's a hard-thrower—who's so wild you never know where the ball's going, but with Will, I never saw a left-handed batter hit the ball off Williams like that.

"He has great ability and his attitude toward the game is the best I've ever seen."

WHILE SHERIDAN marvels at Clark, Fahey admires his boss Craig, the Giants manager.

"Roger is such a positive person and he's so good because of the way he handles people," said Fahey, who coached National League Championship Series.

with injuries. We've struggled all year. It hasn't been easy. We've had to work right down to the last out against Chicago, but this is something. It's great to be part of the fun."

Said Sheridan: "The time we won it in Kansas City (1985) was very exciting because it was the first time and a lot of the guys had come up together through the minors and had worked toward it for years.

"It was also exciting in 1987 when we won our division in Detroit because my family and friends were here."

"But it doesn't matter where you are or who you're playing for, the World Series is the step we all play for."

Morris heroics save Panthers

The Redford Union girls basketball team traveled Tuesday to Bloomfield Hills Roper and handed the Roughriders a 62-61 overtime loss.

This game proved to be worth the price of admission, as Roper maintained the lead most of the way. But Union force the three-minute overtime and the Panthers' Shannon Morris sealed the victory on a three-point basket at the buzzer.

"It was just a great victory," RU coach Terri Anthony said. "It was real dramatic."

Morris tallied a game-high 27 points. She was averaging 22 heading into Tuesday's game.

Carrie Burke, a sophomore guard added 17 points for RU and center Ann Kolar contributed nine points, 19 rebounds and 10 steals. It was Kolar's pick that set up Morris' three-point shot in overtime.

"Kolar played one of the best games she has ever played," Anthony said. "She did a little of everything."

Senior Diane White led Roper with 19 points.

RU converted on 11 of 14 free throws and Roper 16 of 22.

The victory improves RU's record to 3-6 and halts Roper at 7-2.

TAYLOR CENTER 66, THURSTON 40: Wendy Jamula led state-ranked Taylor Center with a game-high 19 points, while Laura Kress topped Redford Thurston with 13 Tuesday at Thurston.

"Taylor Center is a real solid ball club," Thurston coach Mike Schuette said.

With the loss, the Eagles' record drops to 6-4 overall and 5-3 in the Tri-River League.

GARDEN CITY 35, ROMULUS 23: The Cougars' junior guard Carolyn Shanks showed some ball handling skills Tuesday at home, as she single-handedly broke the Romulus press and guided her team to their sixth victory of the season.

"Shanks did a good job of breaking the Romulus press," Garden City coach Marshall Henry said. "She brought the ball up the court by herself each time."

Garden City jumped out to a 17-14 halftime lead, before outscoring Romulus 10-3 in the third and 8-5 in the fourth.

Senior forward Lynn Gowen led the Cougars with a game-high 12 points. Junior forward Krystal Matesic added eight points, and 12 rebounds, while Shanks scored eight points. She also had four assists and three steals.

Romulus was led by senior forward Carmelia Brown, who contributed nine points in the losing cause.

"We played good defense and made them shoot outside and that helps," Henry said.

N. FARMINGTON 63, JOHN GLENN 40: Junior forward Eve Clear scored a game-high 28 points for North, as they triumphed Tuesday over visiting Westland John Glenn.

The game was decided in the early stages, as North jumped out to a commanding 37-16 halftime lead.

Sandy Herman (top) of Redford Thurston starts the fast break on the outlet as teammate Laura Kress awaits the pass against Taylor Center.

Kim Curedick, a senior center added 14 points and seven assists for North, while Vikki Seamons contributed eight rebounds. The Raiders connected on four of eight free throws, while the Rockets could make just five of 18.

Junior guard Jennifer Massey and junior center Shuwarren Lee led the Rockets with 10 points.

North improves its record to 9-2 and 5-0 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. John Glenn drops to 4-7 and 2-3.

CHURCHILL 45, HARRISON 32: Livonia Churchill improved its record to 2-7 overall and 1-4 in the Western Division of the W.L.A.A. Tuesday against host Farmington Harrison (2-7, 0-5).

The Chargers wasted little time in showing their control, as they rolled to a 28-13 halftime lead.

Chrissy Daly and Jenny Willems each scored 14 points for Churchill, while Fran Priebe added eight points and 10 rebounds.

"Daly and Williams played real solid games for us," Churchill coach Don Albertson said.

Andrea Najarian led Harrison with a game high 17 points.

W.L. CENTRAL 41, STEVENSON 30: Kelly Kostowski poured in 17 points Tuesday to lead visiting Walled Lake Central past Livonia Stevenson in a W.L.A.A. Lakes Division encounter.

Maria Michela added 10 points and Brandy Sereno contributed eight for the Vikings, now 2-7 overall and 2-3 in the Lakes.

Teresa Sarno paced Stevenson with 11 points and 16 rebounds.

"We just came out in that third quarter and didn't do anything effectively at all," said Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit, whose team was outscored 12-4 in the quarter. "It's nothing I can put my finger on. I just have to go back to the drawing board."

Stevenson is 6-5 overall and 1-4 in the Lakes.

ST. AGATHA 60, ST. ALPHONSUS 35: Redford St. Agatha made just nine of 30 free throws, but still managed to thrash Dearborn St. Alphonsus Tuesday at home.

Pat Rich, a freshman center, scored a game-high 25 points, while pulling down 14 rebounds for the Aggies. Sophomore forward Peggy Boyle added 12.

Tina White led St. Alphonsus with eight points. The Arrows connected on 22-39 free throws.

The victory improves the Aggies' mark to 2-8 overall and 1-5 in the conference.

TRENTON 57, WAYNE MEMORIAL 41: The Zebras dropped their record to 4-2 in the league and 6-5 overall with Tuesday's loss at Trenton.

Wayne fell behind early and found itself riding a 36-19 deficit at the half.

Dorris Bathwell led the Zebras with 22 points.

Kim Hoppes led Trenton with a game high 26 points. Katie Mans added 18.

MT. CARMEL 58, BISHOP BORGESS 25: Wyandotte Mt. Carmel had little trouble dealing with Redford Bishop Borgess in a game played Tuesday at Wyandotte's Lincoln Junior High.

Mt. Carmel never let the Spartans get into the game, outscoring Borgess 12-6 in the first quarter and 18-2 in the second quarter en route to a 30-8 halftime lead.

Heather McBride's 14 points led Mt. Carmel, who converted on 13-15 free throws. The Spartans connected on just nine of 17.

Freshmen Stacey Jolly and Karen Fultz were among five Spartans who had four points.

The Spartans' record drops to 2-9 overall.

OAK CHRISTIAN 55, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 51: After being down 32-19 at halftime, Oakland Christian of Pontiac battled back in the third and fourth quarters to salvage the victory Friday at Lutheran Westland.

Sherry Johnson led Oakland Christian with 19 points.

Lutheran Westland was led by Stephanie Locke, who collected a game-high 26 points. She also had 10 rebounds, 10 assists and nine steals. Kristen Strong added six points and five steals for the Warriors.

Lutheran Westland's record now falls to 8-3 overall and 1-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

HAMTRAMACK 41, CLARENCEVILLE 22: Livonia Clarenceville dropped its overall record to a dismal 1-10 Tuesday at Hamtramack.

Rhonda Saunders led the Trojans with 17, but Hamtramack's Kim Ryans proved to be the difference, collecting 28 points.

Neither team shot well from the free throw line, as the Trojans connected on just eight of 20, while Hamtramack managed just five of 27.

"They had a very hostile crowd," Clarenceville coach Wendy Kellehan said.

Ladywood pays back Marian with 50-45 win

girls basketball

Toni Gasparovic knows all about winning basketball games on Birmingham Marian's home court.

But until Tuesday, the former Marian assistant coach had no idea what it was like to beat the Mustangs at home.

Gasparovic, the new Livonia Ladywood coach, guided the Blazers to a stunning, come-from-behind 50-45 win over the host Mustangs.

Ladywood, getting a courageous first-half effort from Peggy Knittel and a strong second half from center Rebecca Willey, improved its Catholic League record to 3-2, one game behind first-place Marian (4-

The Blazers, who trailed 41-33 at halftime, are 9-4 overall, while the Mustangs fell to 8-4.

"THIS WAS a very special win," said Gasparovic. "Defense won it for us. I coached here four years and know that Marian plays very hard and aggressively. They have a fantastic perimeter game and a good player in Trina Govan. But we stopped them when we needed to and boxed out when we needed to. They never gave up tonight."

The game reunited Gasparovic with Marian coach Mary Lillie-Cicerone, and it evened the overall record against each other at 1-1. Marian won the earlier meeting between the two teams, 56-36, but this time the Mustangs shot only 25 percent (14-56) from the floor and made only three field goals the entire second half.

Guard Hazel Olden led all scorers with 17 points, but 13 came before halftime. Govan contributed 10 points for the Mustangs and Jamie Racine scored six.

"Toni did a good job," Lillie-Cicerone said. "I'm very happy for her. She deserved a varsity job. She had been a J.V. (junior varsity) coach long enough."

"We fell apart in the second half. My kids were a little cocky with the ball and didn't execute. It wasn't just one person. All five weren't functioning like they should have. I don't remember any of them coming off a pick."

Willey, a junior center, led Ladywood with 14 points, all in the second half. Knittel scored 11 of her 13 points in the first half for the Blazers and guard Janice Konczal finished with eight points.

Ladywood trailed Marian 41-33 after three quarters, but scored the first 13 points of the fourth quarter to open up a 44-41 lead. Willey gave Ladywood its first lead, 42-41 with 5:05 left in the game when she converted both ends of a 1-and-1 attempt.

Konczal converted a three-point play with 35 seconds left and she nailed 6 of 7 free throws in the last three minutes to preserve the win.

"They got us out of what we should have been doing," Lillie-Cicerone said. "They are slower than us, but we didn't make them come off picks."

The first half was an entirely different tempo. The Mustangs full-court press frustrated the Blazers and caused 10 turnovers in the first quarter. Marian led 10-2 after four minutes and 18-6 after one quarter before Knittel finally entered the game.

KNITTEL, WHO who tore some cartilage in her knee over the summer and can play only about half of every game, made her minutes count Tuesday. Knittel scored 11 points in the second quarter to keep the Blazers within reach at halftime.

She also led the Blazers with six rebounds.

"It felt great to win," Knittel said. "Because I know she (Gasparovic) was excited. She gets excited enough when we win, let alone when we beat Marian. We're a pretty close team. I knew we could do it."

Trojans' Foss paces victory

Racking up more than 400 yards in total offense, Livonia Clarenceville cruised to an easy 33-6 Metro Conference football win Saturday at Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook.

Clarenceville is 5-1 overall and 4-1 in the Metro.

Quarterback Chris Foss showed the Cranes (2-4, 1-4) who was boss, completing 16 of 20 passes for 248 yards and three touchdowns.

Kendrick Harrington, who caught nine passes for 175 yards, scored on TD catches of 50 and 55 yards, while Gary Lay added a 30-yard scoring catch.

Andy Weighill contributed a 25-yard TD catch on a pass from halfback Derrick Herr, while Jay Larson (50 yards in five carries) added a 35-yard TD run.

Clarenceville led 33-0 after three quarters before Cranbrook's Kamu Williams broke the shutout with a 6-yard TD run in the final period.

ST. AGATHA 26, WATERFORD OUR LADY 6: The Aggies won their fifth straight Saturday, turning back Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes in a game played at Redford Union's Craft Field.

Agatha is 5-1 overall and 3-0 in the C-Section, while the Lakers dipped to 4-2 and 1-2.

Agatha broke open a tight game right before the half when linebacker Ken Kroll blocked a Lakes punt and John DiPonio recovered in the end zone to make it 20-0.

"Brian Kutch made a great punt to the coffin corner and then we called three timeouts," said Agatha coach John Goddard. "It was a big play for us because of being up only 14-6, it's 20-6 at halftime. It took the wind right out of them."

Kutch, junior, had another big day, completing seven of nine passes for 97 yards. He threw a 17-yard TD pass to Joe Boards and ran 3 yards for another.

Ken Prokes, who rushed for 103 yards in 17 carries, added a 29-yard scoring run.

Agatha outgained Lakes in total offense, 277-89.

"Our defense really did well," Goddard said. "I told our kids that they had to control Lakes up front, and they did. Our offensive and defensive lines did a great job."

Pat Wagner, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound senior tackle, anchored the offensive line, while Boards, at end, spearheaded the defense along with Wagner and Brian Rich. (Shannon Tonti also picked off a pass.)

GALLAGHER 21, BORGESS 12: A strong second half was not enough Saturday as pesky Redford Bishop Borgess (1-5, 0-3) fell to Harper football

Woods Bishop Gallagher (2-3, 2-1) in a Catholic League Central Division game played Saturday at Garden City Junior High.

Senior tailback Jesse Johnson sparked the Lancers to a 14-0 first-quarter lead on touchdown runs of 53 and 41 yards. (Gallagher scored its other TD on a 26-yard interception return by James Kuykendall.)

Johnson led all rushers with 176 yards in 22 carries.

"When he (Johnson) wants to play, he's as good a high school back as any in the state," said Borgess coach Walt Bazylewicz. "He was good against us. When he decides to play, he's awfully tough."

Tom Cole hit Anthony Woods with a 16-yard TD pass and tailback Delwin Sears (91 yards in 17 carries) added a 9-yard TD run, both coming in the second half.

"We played a lot better than we did the last week (against Notre Dame), but that's because we weren't as banged up coming out of the CC (Catholic Central) game," Bazylewicz said. "We played a good second half, and outside those two long breakaway runs (by Johnson), it was a pretty even game."

Defensively, the linebacking corp of junior Alejandro Fernandez (10 solo tackles and five assists) senior Anthony Davis (nine solos and five assists) stood out for the Spartans.

On the down side was a knee ligation injury suffered by guard/defensive end Chris Spitzig, who is the third Borgess player to go out for the season.

ST. HEDWIG 33, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 12: Lutheran High Westland had enough offense (203 total yards), but not enough defense Saturday to stop visiting Detroit St. Hedwig (346 total yards, including 319 rushing).

Westland is 3-3 overall, while Hedwig increased its record to 4-2.

Junior halfback Imare Scott scored four touchdowns for the Knights on runs of 31, 16, 18 and 35 yards. He finished with 117 yards in 10 carries. Parrell Selden added 81 yards in eight carries for the winners, to go along with five solo tackles and 13 assists.

Lutheran Westland trailed 12-0 in the second period, but closed the gap to six points on a 1-yard run by Mike Hardies, who led the Warriors with 96 yards in 21 attempts. (Erik Smith and David Gielow each added 31 yards on the ground.)

Sophomore Matt Grams connected with Gielow on a 21-yard pass to give Lutheran Westland a TD in the final quarter.

Moment of truth in WLAA

By Brad Emons and Dan O'Meara staff writers

IT'S GETTING DOWN to the nitty-gritty for area high school football teams as Week No. 6 approaches.

Both the Western and Lakes Division titles will be on the line Friday night in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Plymouth Canton will be gunning for its first-ever Western Division crown when it hosts top-ranked Farmington Harrison in a battle of unbeaten.

Look for passes to fill the sky when Canton's Karl Wukle and Harrison's Mill Coleman start winging the ball from their respective quarterback slots.

The Lakes Division matchup finds Westland John Glenn hosting Plymouth Salem. Both teams are also unbeaten.

Glenn's defense will be primed to stop Salem's dangerous wishbone attack, led by halfback Ryan Johnson.

The Rockets also can throw on occasion led by senior quarterback Eric Stover.

IN YET ANOTHER key matchup, Redford St. Agatha will try to make its second straight appearance in the Catholic League's C-D Division title game at the Pontiac Silverdome, but first the Aggies must get past nemesis Center Line St. Clement. (Game time is 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Hilbert Junior High's Kraft Field in Redford.)

Both teams are 5-1 overall and 3-1 in the division. These three key matchups will not only determine championship berths, but also go a long way in determining state playoff berths.

As far as your prep prognosticators go, Emons had a big week, picking 13 of 14 games correctly, raising his overall record to 68-17. O'Meara, meanwhile, hopes to rebound after going 10-4, slipping to 64-21 overall. Here is a capsule look at the weekend matchups:

FRIDAY'S GAMES

(all games 7:30 p.m. unless noted)
Lutheran Westland at Waldron (7 p.m.): Both teams are coming off losses. Lutheran Westland (3-3) fell to Detroit St. Hedwig, while Waldron (1-5) couldn't stop Pittsford. Don Rowley is a strong running back for the Spartans. He gained 214 yards and scored four touchdowns in Waldron's only win over Litchfield. Picks: The Warriors go on the warpath again.

grid predictions

Hamtramck at Liv. Clarenceville: The Cosmos (0-6) have been in outer space all season, while Clarenceville (5-1), led by quarterback Chris "The Boss" Foss, is marching toward a showdown next week with unbeaten Auburn Hills Avondale. Picks: The Trojans ride high on their horses.

Dearborn at Garden City: The Cougars earned their first victory last week over Northwest Suburban League foe Redford Union, 21-19, as quarterback Jim Marszalek passed for one TD and running back Frank Gotham added two others while rushing for over 100 yards for the fifth time this season. Dearborn (3-3) took NSL leader Edsel to the limit last week before losing 20-14. It's GC's homecoming this week. Picks: Dearborn wins a tight battle.

Woodhaven at Redford Union: Two teams that are on the skids will try and right themselves in this NSL battle. Woodhaven (2-4), which was expected to challenge this year for the NSL title, is coming off a 40-15 shellacking by Pinckney, RU, meanwhile, lost to previously winless Garden City, 21-19. Picks: Emons asks for the coin, please; it's RU. O'Meara is buying stock in Woodhaven.

Belleville at Wayne Memorial: The Zebras could be undefeated, but after tight losses to Wyandotte and Dearborn Fordson, they're 4-2. Ironically, Belleville is also 4-2, coming off a 33-14 victory over Southgate. Can Wayne rebound from its heartbreaking 22-17 loss to unbeaten Fordson? Picks: As long as Wayne finds a way to get Pierre Hixon and Larry Johnson the ball, the Zebras will prevail.

W.L. Western at Liv. Churchill: Both teams have identical 1-5 overall records and are 1-3 in the Western Division of the WLAA. Churchill broke a six-game losing streak (dating back to 1988) by smothering city rival Franklin. Western, meanwhile, did not back down from Harrison. RU, slipping to 64-21 overall. Here is a capsule look at the weekend matchups:

Ply. Salem at Westland Glenn: When is the last time Salem beat Glenn? Don't ask. Salem is 0-4 against the Rockets. The key may be the throwing of Salem quarterback Rob Kowalski, who must figure out a way to pass enough to keep the Rockets' defense honest. Picks: Emons foresees Glenn making it five straight over the Rocks, but O'Meara senses a Salem surprise.

son, 16-13.) Where's that crystal ball when you need it? Picks: Emons can't make a decision, but goes blindly with Farmington. The Falcons helped O'Meara see the light last week.

D.H. Crestwood at Red. Thurston: Both teams are 2-4 overall, but Crestwood is coming off a 17-3 triumph over rival Dearborn Heights Annapolis. Thurston had no offense to speak of, in a 29-0 loss to Allen Park. Thurston needs a victory to stay out of the basement of the Triforce League. Picks: Emons likes Crestwood.

Redford CC at Harper Wds. Notre Dame (1:30 p.m.): The Shamrocks (5-1) better be careful because Notre Dame (3-3) is not a bad team. Dejuan Reynolds had 189 yards in 30 carries in a 14-8 win last week over Warren DeLaSalle. The Irish beat CC, 7-6, in 1985. Picks: The Shamrocks skate through.

Bishop Borgess vs. Warren DeLaSalle (7:30 p.m. at Garden City Jr. High): The Spartans (1-5) lack depth, but not heart. They've given Divine Child, Redford CC and Bishop Gallagher tussles before losing DeLaSalle (2-4) is probably the Central Division's biggest disappointment. Each team will try and avoid the cellar. Picks: Borgess loses a close one.

St. Agatha vs. Center Line St. Clement (7:30 p.m. at RU's Kraft Field): Agatha is confident and primed to make another trip to the Silverdome. St. Clement relies on the passing of junior Vince Bastine and the running of Dave Sauger. Agatha, as you remember, blitzed St. Clement last year in this key title matchup. Picks: The Aggies are riding high into Pontiac as coach John Goddard gets drenched in Gatorade.

Teeters not too pleased as Lady Ocelots go west

By C.J. Risk staff writer

This was not the kind of tune-up Tom Teeters was looking for. His Schoolcraft College volleyball team labored through an Eastern Conference match Monday, beating Delta 10-15, 15-3, 15-4, 15-9 at SC. "I was not pleased at all by our play," said Teeters, even though the Lady Ocelots improved to 16-4 overall and to 5-0 in the conference. "We were very stiff, we were very straight up. We have to improve against the weaker teams. We have to learn to play our best game all the time, not just some of the time."

Teeters would have liked to see the improvement by this weekend. SC has a major test coming up: the Jefferson College (Mo.) Tournament, which will include eight of the top 20 junior college teams in the country. Included in the field are defending four-year champ Barton County (Kan.), Miami Dade South, host team Jefferson, Illinois Central CC, Lake Michigan CC, Southwestern (Mich.) CC, Johnson (Kan.) CC and SC. "EVERYONE PLAYS everyone else in the round-robin format, with play starting Friday and concluding Saturday. It's going to be tough," said Teeters, who named Miami Dade and SC as favorites. A year ago, the Lady Ocelots lost their opener at this tournament to Southwestern CC, then rallied to eventually finish second. Teeters is hoping for a similar performance. SC will have its chance. It opens against Southwestern again, at 2 p.m. Friday. In the win over Delta, only Angellette Love garnered unbridled praise from her coach. "I was real pleased with her," said Teeters. "Her intensity was real good the last three games, she was hustling after balls." Love finished with 14 kills in 26 attacks with four errors — all four coming in the opening game — for a .385 kill average. Jenny Sproul contributed six service aces and 22 assists-to-kills, and JoAnn Kohnlitsy collected two solo blocks, four block assists and six kills. The defeat dropped Delta to 0-5. Last Saturday, SC ripped Macomb CC in three straight games to keep its conference win streak alive. Since Teeters took over as coach four seasons ago, the Lady Ocelots have not lost an Eastern Conference match.

Playwright examines retirement years

Jim Jagdfeld/staff photographer

After "Sandwiched Light" finishes its run with the Rosedale Community Players, Evan Keliher says he'll be ready to forego his Livonia home for a go at the Hollywood writing scene.

By Kevin Lawrence
special writer

THERE'S A FUNNY thing about Evan Keliher. He's witnessed and survived active combat duty in Korea and 30 years in the Detroit Public Schools.

His tenure as a teacher was marred by violence and finally retirement under the threat of death. But the funny thing is his sense of humor — the fact he even has one. And how very intact it is as evidenced in his work as a writer.

Keliher's most recent work is "Sandwiched Light," a three-act comedy concerning life in a retirement home. It premieres at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13 in the Rosedale Community Players' Upstage Theater, 21728 Grand River near Lahser, Detroit.

A long-time Livonia resident, Keliher puts stock in a good cigar and strong drink, not superstition. He dismisses any notion of bad luck regarding the opening night of the seven-performance run.

"Director Sue Story, the cast and crew — we're all very excited about 'Sandwiched Light' and ready to break a leg," he said, referring to the tradition of not wishing a performer luck.

With a cast of nine, "Sandwiched Light" is a fast moving comedy directed by Susan Storey, a member of the Eastern Michigan University Department of Communication and Theater Arts. Last year, Storey received the Michigan Drama/Theater Educator of the Year Award.

"This play is about the inhabitants of an old folks' home," Keliher said. "Among other things, 'Sandwiched Light' addresses the validity of miracles, the value of holy water and whether there's life after death. I've done a bit of writing about aging — maybe because I'm slowly doing it myself."

SOME OF that writing has included the "Rose Hill Mutiny," the story of how a group of town elders train military style to regain control of their small town from the crime element.

In the "End of the Trail," an older man is put in a retirement home, only to escape to adventure in the city. He then tells the media of the horrors and indignities the elderly must endure in so-called retirement residences.

Keliher received national notoriety including an appearance on television's Tom Snyder Show and numerous death threats after self-publication of his book, "New Africa High: a low comedy" back in the mid-1970's.

The book is a scathing satire of the state of education in the Detroit Public Schools and the beleaguered educators trying to cope and teach in an environment of violence. Muggings, riots, rapes, shootings, fires ("Eightythree in a three month period at Mackenzie and I'm not talking wastebasket fires") and rampant drug use are the norm.

"I received my master's and doctorate in education from Wayne State and taught in Detroit for 30 years. Twelve of those years I spent at Detroit Mackenzie, which became New Africa High in my book. No publisher would touch this work — fiction based on the unbelievable but true situation at a Detroit high school. So I published 500 copies myself and sold out by word of mouth, mostly through teachers, in one week. We went back to press and ultimately sold 15,000 copies across the U.S."

Keliher recounted how the Detroit Board of Education was none too pleased with him for speaking out so bluntly about the situation at Mackenzie.

"But they really couldn't do anything because I was tenured," he said. "But they did transfer me for my own 'safety' three miles away to Detroit Cody where I taught for the next 10 years in much the same situation that existed at Mackenzie."

"I couldn't believe it, the kid's mother said she'd help him do it," he said. "I had received threats before, all teachers do in Detroit, but this kid had a wild look in his eye and I was close to retirement — so I said, 'I'm through; I'm out of here.'"

Band steams ahead on its hard edged riffs

HLEFT America at 5. Quit school at 15. He was pumping gas and nearly broke at 20.

Needless to say, biographers weren't exactly flocking to do the Johnny Diesel Story.

"The hardest thing I had to go through was this stage where it was play or not play," said Diesel, 23, whose band The Injectors will perform Friday, Oct. 13, at the Ritz in Roseville. "It was actually costing me money to play, having to buy guitar strings and all. I used up all my money and credit cards and the debt collectors were banging at my door."

"I thought, (heck), what's going on?"

That desperation pours through in the form of pointed hard rock riffs on Diesel's guitar. The stuff that blues music is made of is driven home on Diesel's self-titled debut album on Chrysalis records.

"Johnny Diesel and the Injectors" is hailed as one of the best hard rock albums in a while, mainly for what it isn't. The LP isn't overproduced glam rock like many of its Midwest contemporaries. Nor is the group easily cast into the latest and long wave of bands from Australia.

The sound is basic, heads down, pin-your-ears-back rock'n'roll in a gut wrenching shade of blues.

"WE'RE BASICALLY a blues-based band," said Diesel, who was born in Massachusetts but moved to Australia when he was 5. "People will ask us, 'How blues based are you?' When you see the band, it's more of a blues feel than actually playing blues chops."

Johnny Diesel and Co. can thank producer Terry Manning (ZZ Top and Joe Cocker) for that. Manning rounded up the four members and headed into the studios in Austin, Texas.

Manning set the tone, letting the Diesel's raw guitar passion and Bernie Bremond's saxophone to blare unfettered. The results have people buzzing.

"Terry Manning is a purist," Diesel said. "He wanted to make an album that sounded like a bunch of guys who unfortunately had to go into the studio because we're very much a live band."

The LP has received rave reviews in metal magazines such as Kerrang in Great Britain while also appealing to the hard rock crowd in the United States.

But for every note of success, Diesel has a symphony of hard luck tales. He left school at 15 (permitted in Australia), playing the grueling pub circuit in the Land of Oz.

Johnny Diesel and the Injectors formed in 1986. The band had little luck in Australia, so Diesel went to England. No luck, though. He mentioned "work" at customs and wasn't allowed to enter the country.

THE U.S. was next on the Diesel travel itinerary. He pumped gas during the day in New York, taking time off to drop tapes by the record companies.

Nearly broke, Diesel received a call from his bandmates. The group was about to open for Angel City on a tour of western Australia. Faster than you can say "kangaroo," he was on a plane back.

An A&R rep from Chrysalis caught the group's act and signed Diesel and the Injectors.

The group's hard-edge rock'n'roll was too good to pass up. Especially the crew cut axe wielding frontman, whose guitar style has been likened to Keith Richards of the Rolling Stones.

Short 'Gin Game' gives bittersweet insights

By Bob Weibel
Special writer

The Theatre Guild of Livonia Redford's season opening "The Gin Game" is short on playing time, but long on what it reveals about the human condition.

It's a two-character, bittersweet, comedy-drama set on the back porch of a seedy home for the aged. What begins as an innocuous game of cards to fill time, soon becomes a blood sport — and ultimately destroys a budding friendship.

review

Director Rebecca Smith does a fine job in pacing D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer Prize-winning play to a climactic finish — and in developing characters, setting and special effects. Howard Egan as Weller Martin and Pat Varga as Fonsia Dorsey turn in stellar performances. Both provide subtle texture to sad-funny characters who have reached three score and 10 — with more than the usual baggage.

Varga's Fonsia has a sweet and sour disposition — with a vindictive edge to her personality. She always manages to win, no matter the price. She even spitefully alienated her son who refuses to visit her.

THERE IS A very natural quality to Egan's bellowing, crusty old Weller. He, too, has no visitors. And has been something less than a success. Always it was bad luck or cheating business partners — never ineptitude. No matter, he considers himself a winner.

Weller is mildly amused when Fonsia, a novice, wins the first hand. As she continues to gin and win, he becomes increasingly irritated.

The idea of her winning every game is a bit far-fetched but it's the stuff of comedy. And a handy device to reveal dramatic forces at work. As Fonsia and Weller continue to talk and play, we learn of their weaknesses and the events that have brought them alone and impoverished to the home.

They need each other. But the more they play, the more they self-destruct. He rages at losing. She taunts him with, "Now Weller, don't get mad at me, Gin." Soon, her voice is full of hatred and he is beating the table with his cane in frustration.

It's a powerful ending to a memorable production.

The Theatre Guild's production of "The Gin Game" continues at 8 p.m. Oct. 13-14, 20-21 at 15138 Beech Daly Road, Redford. Tickets are $8. For details, call the box office, 538-5678.

came out as a movie, 'Rebel High' and was distributed internationally in 1988.

"It wasn't the worst movie you could see but it really wasn't very good, either," he said. "They changed the story to sort of a teen-rival-gang-in-school-flick that had nothing to do with the book or the teachers hanging on in Detroit."

In 1979 Kelliher published another book that endeared him to many — 'Detroit: Rebirth or Miscarriage' and in 1982 another satire entitled 'The Immoral Majority.'

Born and raised in Highland Park and one of 10 children, Kelliher dropped out of school at 16 to join the Marines and begin the life-irek that now has him poised on the brink of literary success.

After 'Sandwiched Light' runs, Kelliher heads for San Diego to be closer to the writing scene in Hollywood.

Performance dates for 'Sandwiched Light' are at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays, Oct. 13-14, 20-21, 27-28. A Sunday matinee performance is set for 2 p.m. Oct. 22. Tickets are $7 and can be obtained by calling, 532-4010.

Band steams ahead on hard edged riffs

Years of struggling on the Australian club circuit made Johnny Diesel and the Injectors even burrow deeper on stage.

"Bands there (Australia) don't get produced much or get molded into a certain category," said Diesel, who described being born in the U.S. has distinct Aussie growl. "Pubs are like sporting grounds for these bands. It takes a long time for them to get signed to a major label."

That sense of urgency is unmistakable on the hard rock offerings of Johnny Diesel and the Injectors.

"It's a bit like that, yeh," he said. "We've never had a Plan B. We never think about what we'll do if something goes wrong."

Johnny Diesel and the Injectors will perform Friday, Oct. 13, at the Ritz, 17580 Frazho Road, Roseville. For information, call 778-8150.

Thrill of the chase lingers on

By Corinne Abatt
Staff writer

THE PLEASURE THAT COLLECTING art has brought to George Brewer of Birmingham led him to smile many times as he walked around Meadow Brook Art Gallery before the show "Contemporary Art from the Collection of Maxine and George Brewer" opened.

He adjusted a piece or two and complimented Kichi Usul, curator, on the way the show was hung. It wasn't easy. Usul commented because the works are so diverse. Still, after deliberation, he found the links and relationships which give this collection a special, provocative flavor.

This show opens with a 3-5 p.m. reception Sunday. Hope Palmer will give a lecture about the collection at 3 p.m. "Chinese Art," gift of Mr. and Mrs. Amitdranth Tagore, is showing in the south gallery simultaneously. Both exhibits will continue through Nov. 19.

Maxine Brewer died in March of 1985. The couple had been married for 18 years and during that time they collected and enjoyed art with a passion. Her presence in the exhibit is strong, not only is she represented by a painting and a sculpture which she herself did, but many of the others bring stories to mind that Brewer tells with great joy. He has also written these remembrances and they are included in the catalog.

He said, "My father was a collector. My first father-in-law was an art dealer, but I consider myself Maxine's student."

HER EYE FOR ART, sometimes operating as swiftly as a single glance, was a great source of inspiration to him. In his reminiscences he remembers asking her what caused those "irresistible urges to buy?" They decided that it wasn't the specific type of art that moved them, such as abstract or op or folk art, but rather a quality which they termed "abbreviated reality."

He wrote, "This does not only cover paintings, but also three dimensional pieces like the animals by Todd Warner and soft sculptures like Wendy Meidner's "Chorus Girls."

Three outstanding examples of this abbreviated reality hang on one wall — "Cave Garden Bay II" by Alex Katz, "The Temptation of Santa Rita" by Fernando Botero and "Plantadores de Bananas" by Brazilian artist J'Janira. While this is an unlikely group of three, it's fascinating to see how each artist has refined the image down to the sparsest details and caught the very essence of the subject.

Botero's nun, so tightly held in by her clothing, looks like she was inflated with an air pump. Without the tiny sparkle in her eyes behind what appear to be super thick lenses, the small apple over Santa Rita's head wouldn't make any sense at all. Very small in the background, but carrying large impact is the a smoking volcano which could be about the geography, the political situation of Brazil or Santa Rita's heart.

WHEN BREWER WROTE to the artist, and correspondence with the artists has brought particular pleasure, Botero wrote back, "This is one of my best."

They had heard a lecture by Henry Geldzahler, then curator of modern art at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, whom Brewer affectionately calls "my hero." A quote from that lecture became almost a credo for the couple, "When I see a piece of art and it hits me in the guts — pleasantly or unpleasantly — so that every detail is engraved forever in my inner eye and when I find on careful study that it is a good work, then I know it's a masterpiece." Brewer found such a painting hanging "between the checkroom and the washroom of the Museum of Modern Art" and a two-year long chase to find the artist began. At a gallery in Houston, Texas, they bought the painting which Botero later titled, "The Temptation of Santa Rita."

On a trip to South America, they found and immediately decided to buy the carved, wooden folk art sculpture of Padre Cicero de Joazeiro in a flea market in Rio de Janeiro. Brewer likes to tell the story of how Padre Cicero negotiated the release of a hostage taken by the bandit, La Piarro.

He added with no hesitation, "We in Rochester. This is one of several that he is giving to the University.

always agreed on what to buy, yes, we always agreed."

FBAS HE WATCHED THE INSTALLATION of the show, he turned the 20-inch high black ceramic church around in the case, so the entrance could be seen better and recalled the story he tells in the reminiscences. They were in Mexico when they saw it and both liked it immediately, he remembers he said, "Too bad we cannot take it home." His wife replied, "George, when I want something, I don't have trouble getting it home."

He has donated several works to Oakland University, one being the Botero painting of Santa Rita. He continues to see and buy art and his interest in local artists is apparent, for there are pieces by Michigan artists Lois Teicher, Richard Doerer and former Cranbrook faculty member Jun Kaneko.

Maxine Brewer studied art at Andre L'Hote atelier in Paris and at the Society of Arts and Crafts (now Center for Creative Studies) in Detroit and served on the board there from the late 1940s to the early 70s.

He is recognized for his scientific contribution in the development of the electrocoating process to protect the inner surface of an automobile body against corrosion at Ford Motor Company.

Children's book authors to star at fall luncheon

Two outstanding contributors to children's literature will be the guests for the fall program of the Birmingham Bloomfield Children's Book & Author Society at noon Tuesday, Oct. 24, at Temple Beth El of Bloomfield Township.

The program which always attracts librarians and teachers as well as parents, writers and other professionals in the literary field, features a luncheon, followed by about an hour-long program.

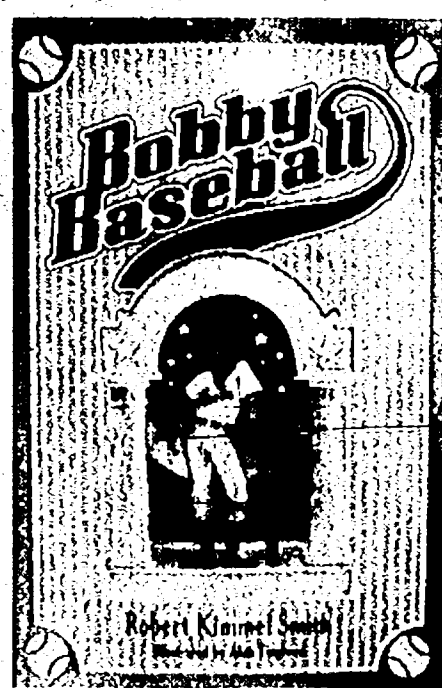

The guests, Gail Gibbons and Robert Kimmel Smith, will sign books and talk informally with guests following their program.

Gibbons writes and illustrates her many "way things work" books — from how libraries are run to the way clocks work. She was a successful TV graphic artist and animator who was suddenly launched as a successful writer/illustrator of children's books after "Willy and His Wheel Wagon," which explained the new math set theory, was published in 1975.

She went on to write about weather forecasting, skyscrapers, museums, TV production, boats, tools, parakeets, zoos, trains, holidays and other subjects. "Sunken Treasure," written in 1988, is about finding the wreck of the Spanish galleon, Atocha, which sunk off Key West in 1622.

Smith began his writing career creating advertising copy. After 10 years with major agencies, he switched to writing children's books and won immediate acclaim when "Chocolate Fever" was published in 1970. His characters tell their own stories, conveying both the humor and frustration of growing up.

"Jelly Belly" (1981) is about a fifth grader on a diet, a subject with which Smith says he is all too familiar. "The War with Grandpa" (1984) which won 10 national awards, and "Mostly Michael" (1987) are written in a "story for school" form and diary form respectively. His most recent book, "Bobby Baseball," was doubtless inspired by Smith's two ambitions when he was a youngster — to write books and to pitch for the Brooklyn Dodgers. He and his wife and two children are ardent baseball fans.

Deadline for reservations is Monday, Oct. 16. Send check for $20 to Birmingham Bloomfield Children's Book and Author Society, BBCBAS, Baldwin Library, 300 W. Merrill, Birmingham, 48012. Temple Beth El is on the northwest corner of 14 Mile and Telegraph, Bloomfield Township. There is ample parking behind the building.

Wayne honors art's doers

Local art patrons and university supporters Paul and Sue Nine along with Gere Baskin of Birmingham, Barbara Selinger of Farmington and three other alumni will be honored at the Arts Achievement Awards program at 4 p.m. Saturday at Wayne State University.

The annual awards program is part of the Celebration of the Arts, being held Friday and Saturday.

Other alumni to be honored are: art education, Alan Mette; English, William Harris; music, David Wagner; and theater, Frederick Coffin.

Activities are free and open to the public. The celebration opens with readings of prose and poetry plus a new dramatic work by William Harris at 2 p.m., Friday in 150 General Lectures Auditorium.

A choice of three events is offered at 8 p.m. Friday. David Wagner will play compositions by Bach, Franck, Bohm, Hindemith and Delphin Strungku on the 50-rank pipe organ in the Community Arts Auditorium; the Hilberry Theater (577-2972) will present "Philadelphia Story" by Philip Barry. The Bonstelle Theater (577-2961) will feature "Mr. Roberts" by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan.

A WSU Dance Faculty Concert at 2 p.m. in the General Lectures Auditorium will lead into the presentation of the Arts Achievement Awards at 4 p.m. Saturday in the McGregor Memorial Conference Center.

An opening reception for two exhibitions, "Works of Art in Metal" by Alan Mette and "Alumni Photography," follows at 5:30 p.m. in the Community Arts Gallery.

PAUL AND SUE NINE are being honored for their untiring support of the arts at the university. Currently, Sue, who earned a bachelor's degree in speech, is vice president of the Understudies (theater), committee member for the President's Preview, chairman of the Welcome Luncheon for the Hilberry Repertory Company and co-chair of the Hilberry end-of-season party for the company.

The Nines were co-chairs for the Lily Tomlin benefit performance in 1988. She is a board or executive member of many Michigan service organizations and office manager for Nine and Malster, his legal firm.

The Nines were awarded the WSU Alumni Association Homer Strong Award in 1984. He also received a Corporate Leadership Award in 1985. He received a bachelor's degree in political science in 1968, and a juris doctor degree in 1969, graduating first in his class. He is also president of the Grand Traverse Development Co. in Traverse City.

Baskin, Birmingham, is director of the Detroit Focus Gallery in Detroit and publisher of the Detroit Focus Quarterly. She is the Midwest representative for the National Association of Artist Organizations in Washington, D.C. At WSU, Baskin earned a bachelor's-of-science degree in education, a master's in museology and a master's in art history.

His art work has been reviewed in national and international journals, books and periodicals and presented in exhibitions across the country, in Japan, West Germany and Canada. Mette earned a bachelor-of-science in 1978.

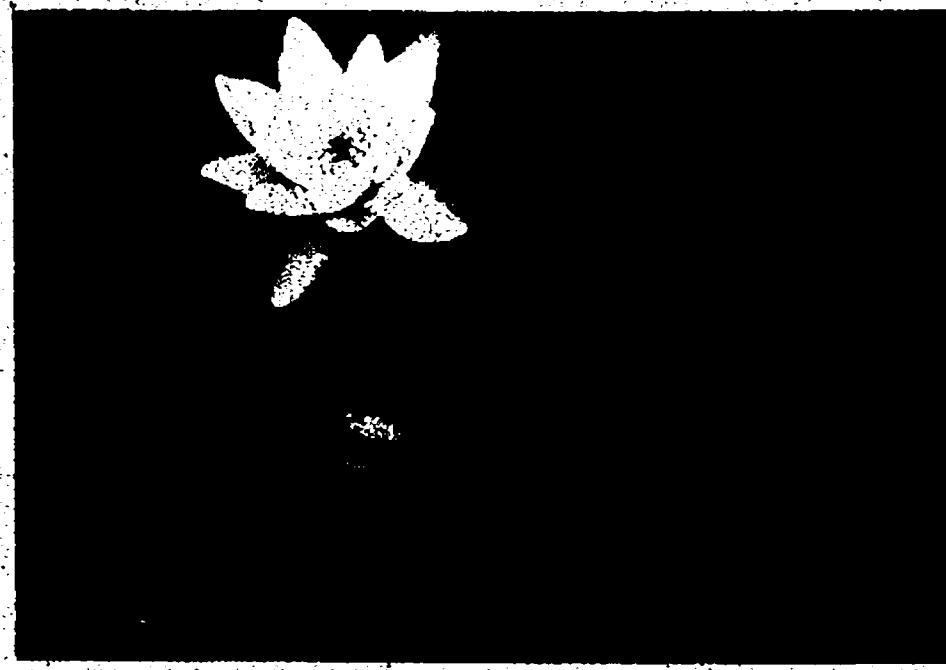

AS ARTISTIC DIRECTOR, choreographer and teacher for the Detroit Dance Collective, Selinger is accomplished in modern dance and ballet. She is an instructor at Oakland Community College, a consultant for the Michigan Dance Association and has conducted workshops, seminars and master classes.

Selinger was an instructor at WSU from 1977-1984. Her performances include WSU from American University in Washington, D.C.; Macomb Center for the Performing Arts; Interlochen; and the Detroit Institute of Arts. She was named Dance Teacher of the Year in 1987 by the Michigan Dance Association. Selinger earned a master's in education in 1978.

Small details suggest larger view

Bodnant Gardens in northern Wales provided Monte Nagler with the opportunity to capture this miniature landscape on film. This was one of many pictures within the picture that he was able to make.

Too often photographers try to shoot the broad panoramic view while ignoring landscape details. Within every large landscape are hundreds of smaller ones just waiting to be captured by your camera.

Lily pads shimmering on the surface of a pond, a cluster of fallen leaves or a wave gently lapping the shore — each of these and many more can be just as exciting and picturesque as the more expansive view.

Any environment contains an inexhaustible supply of fascinating miniature landscape detail.

Other than a keen eye, no elaborate equipment is needed. At times, a set of close-up filters or a macro lens will help to move in-close and a tripod should be used to maximize sharpness and depth-of-field.

Seeing "simply" is a good way to begin to photograph miniature landscapes. That is, start to look through the viewfinder and withdraw simple elements from the whole that, in themselves, make exciting, dramatic photographs. In other words, begin to see pictures within the picture.

The view of a majestic mountain across the lake will make a beautiful, overall landscape shot, but don't overlook the miniature landscape produced by the velvety row of moss-draped rocks that coat the water's edge.

Rather than portraying the whole plowed field in your country photograph, zoom in on a small section of freshly cut furrows.

The Bodnant Gardens in northern Wales provided me with many sweeping landscape opportunities. Yet isolating only the simple elements of a single water lily as shown in the accompanying photograph, produced a picture that "says it all" about these vast, impressive gardens.

Miniature landscapes will give an exceptional perspective to your picture and will emphasize texture and tones you often won't get by shooting the whole.

Remember, you're making photographs, not taking snapshots. Let your miniature landscape be a complete picture in itself while, at the same time conveying the flavor and essence of the whole.

Bad day? Drop art work

IF THIS day was a painting, I'd throw it away! We've all had bad days... but, of course, it isn't the day that is bad — it's our attitude. Attitude means the angle at which you approach an object. Did you ever wonder, "Am I the only one of us this a bad day for everybody?" Again a quick look around and you realize that most of your problems are between your own ears.

I don't know whether it is the alignment of the planets, blood pressure, or just too many coffees, but some days you can't draw for beans. So what do you do? Quit? Well, sometimes that is the best thing. For the rest of the day just do something else.

Professional artists have an occasional off-day, but their technical knowledge usually helps them produce a pretty good piece.

But it is especially frustrating to the non-professional artists when the thing they love to do betrays them. Like a refuted lover, they look at their work then stare at their hands and wonder "How can you do this to me?"

Of course, your art ability isn't in your hands but in your head. By getting away for a few moments you allow your eyes to reapproach the work anew.

RE STUDY THE SHAPES and colors. If the problem isn't obvious, hold the piece in front of a mirror. If the problem is not instantly reflected back to you, then "the problem" is in you and not the work.

Your attitude can breathe life into a piece of art or choke it to death. Perhaps the problem is the subject you choose or maybe it is the medium. Maybe it is the place you are attempting to work. Perhaps you expect too much too soon. About a year ago I wrote, "that even Louis 'Satchmo' Armstrong, as a child, at some time struggled to toot out on his trumpet, 'Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star.'"

artifacts
David Messing

Of course, there are many factors that may contribute to an off day. Never permanently stop doing your art regardless. Your art is or will become a visual expression of your inner self, a vehicle for inspiration, and even a ventilation for creative urges. Art is like anything else that you first try. You probably surprised yourself with the success of your first few attempts. In time you expect more of yourself and here is where you can be frustrated but don't be. Because the point of frustration is the point of seeking to learn and the point of learning is the point of growth. Finally, the point of growth is the point of expression through good art.

Art is usually a wonderful escape for people having "one of those days." And an even higher plane for those having a good day. But someday it will happen to you and you'll ask yourself "What am I doing to this poor picture?" So don't get an attitude — just pack your art stuff away... tomorrow is another day.

Plymouth off to soothing start

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

The young Israeli pianist Rina Dokshinsky plays elegantly. She opened the Plymouth Symphony's 44th season with a gracefully performed Beethoven Third Piano Concerto last Friday night.

The key of the Beethoven Third Piano Concerto is C minor — the storm and stress key signature for the composer. But the ease and style displayed by Dokshinsky defied that analogy. Each note was clearly pronounced in all of her runs, arpeggios and trills. The major melodies were transparent to the secondary melody. Her trills were shaded at times to just the tenderest of sounds. She makes her audience enjoy the music.

Beethoven's Third Piano Concerto is a mix between the classical form and the coming Romanticism. Dokshinsky gives the romantic meaning to the music, especially to the second movement, but does so in a classical style. She is the kind of musician who would record well because of her well defined, flowing sound.

Trunk show is fund raiser

Period costumes from Meadow Brook Theater will be in the spotlight at a fund-raiser Wednesday, Oct. 18 sponsored by the Dearborn branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden group in the Dearborn Inn.

A luncheon at 11:30 a.m. will kick off the event that will include a 60-minute trunk show of period designs and creations pulled from the 20-year stock in the costume shop of the Oakland University theater. Meadow Brook Theater Guild members will be models.

Proceeds from the luncheon-trunk show will be used to sponsor three environmental study scholarships presented annually to outstanding students in the field.

Tickets are $25 and can be purchased by calling 274-4349, 277-1121 or 565-5058.

The show's commentator will be Julie Glynn, Meadow Brook Theater's special projects coordinator.

Dokshinsky has just graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music where she won the Concerto Competition in 1985. She is a child prodigy who soloed with the Israel Philharmonic at 13 with Zubin Mehta. She has won numerous prizes in Italy and in her native Israel.

FROM THE OPENING bars of Berlioz comic opera, "Beatrice et Benedict Overture," the message from the Plymouth Symphony was clear — this was a concert to enjoy. It rang true all the way through. The well-balanced string sections of the orchestra — a rarity in itself when it comes to community orchestras — matched the winds in this very directed interpretation by conductor Russell Reed of Berlioz's poetic music.

The Plymouth Symphony definitely exerted an ideal interaction with the soloist in the Beethoven. They dueted with her, each of the principals taking a turn with the solo parts. In the Stravinsky "Firebird Suite," the orchestra unleashed the sound it is capable of but reserved, for the appropriate moments, playing with refinement during most of the evening.

Stravinsky ballet "Firebird Suite," the 1919 shortened version of the 1910 ballet, included the essential famous melodies in a satisfying performance. The suite offered the principals in the orchestra a chance to perform the electrifying music to the enjoyment of everyone. Without the visuals of the ballet, this shortened version is preferable.

Reed has unfortunately not included his credentials in the program. His musical leadership of the orchestra is showing markedly in a musical refinement becoming more evident with each performance. We can look forward to the Nov. 10 concert of Sibelius Violin Concerto, the Brahms Symphony No. 4 and the Mendelssohn Ruy Blas Overture.

Mary Jane Doerr is a free lance writer/reviewer who lives in Troy.

Unusual items at Matthaei sale

Many new and unusual botanical items will be included in the annual fall sale this weekend sponsored by the University of Michigan Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens.

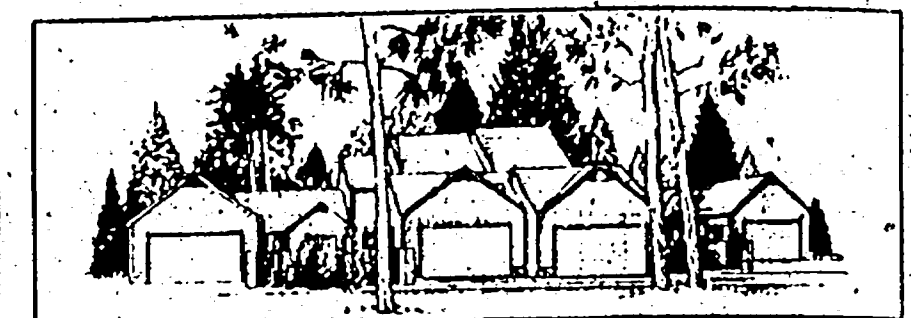

This year's event will include several new and unusual woody landscape plants and a bulb selection from Holland of over 80 varieties for forcing indoors and planting outdoors. New this year are small-space outdoor bulb kits which are ideal for the person who has limited space to work with. Each pre-designed kit consists of a variety of 50 bulbs. Also new this year are bonsai and bonsai supplies from national artist Jack Wilkie for those who wish to try a new art form.

For the garden enthusiast who wants to bring the freshness of the garden indoors, herb window baskets will be offered, each with an assortment of live culinary herbs. Other items to be offered will be kitchen wreaths of freshly dried edible herbs, a large selection of houseplants, indoor mums, classic flora wreaths, nostalgic dried bouquets, potpourri (Michigan and friendship), mustards, oils, vinegars spice mixes, bean soup mix and cream soup mixes.

Matthaei Botanical Gardens are at 1800 N. Dixboro Road, off US 23 at the Plymouth Road exit.

When Craig and Nancy Lentini first sat down to study the purchase contract to their dream house, an English Tudor they were having built by a developer in Troy, they noticed the contract was too generic.

"We looked at the literature describing the home, and it listed a high-efficiency water heater, but in the purchase contract it just listed a water heater, so we had that changed," said Craig, a marine account manager for Ford Motor Co.

"In fact, all the appliances in the purchase contract were listed as 'dishwasher,' or 'stove,' so we had the contract changed right down to adding the model numbers of the appliances so we knew what we were getting."

The Lentinis bought their first house in Bloomfield Hills in 1982. Four or five years ago they started looking to build their Tudor. When they found the Oak River East subdivision, they started looking at the houses offered by the six builders working in the subdivision before signing a contract with Bing Master Bildor in January of 1988. They moved into their $300,000-plus house in August of the same year.

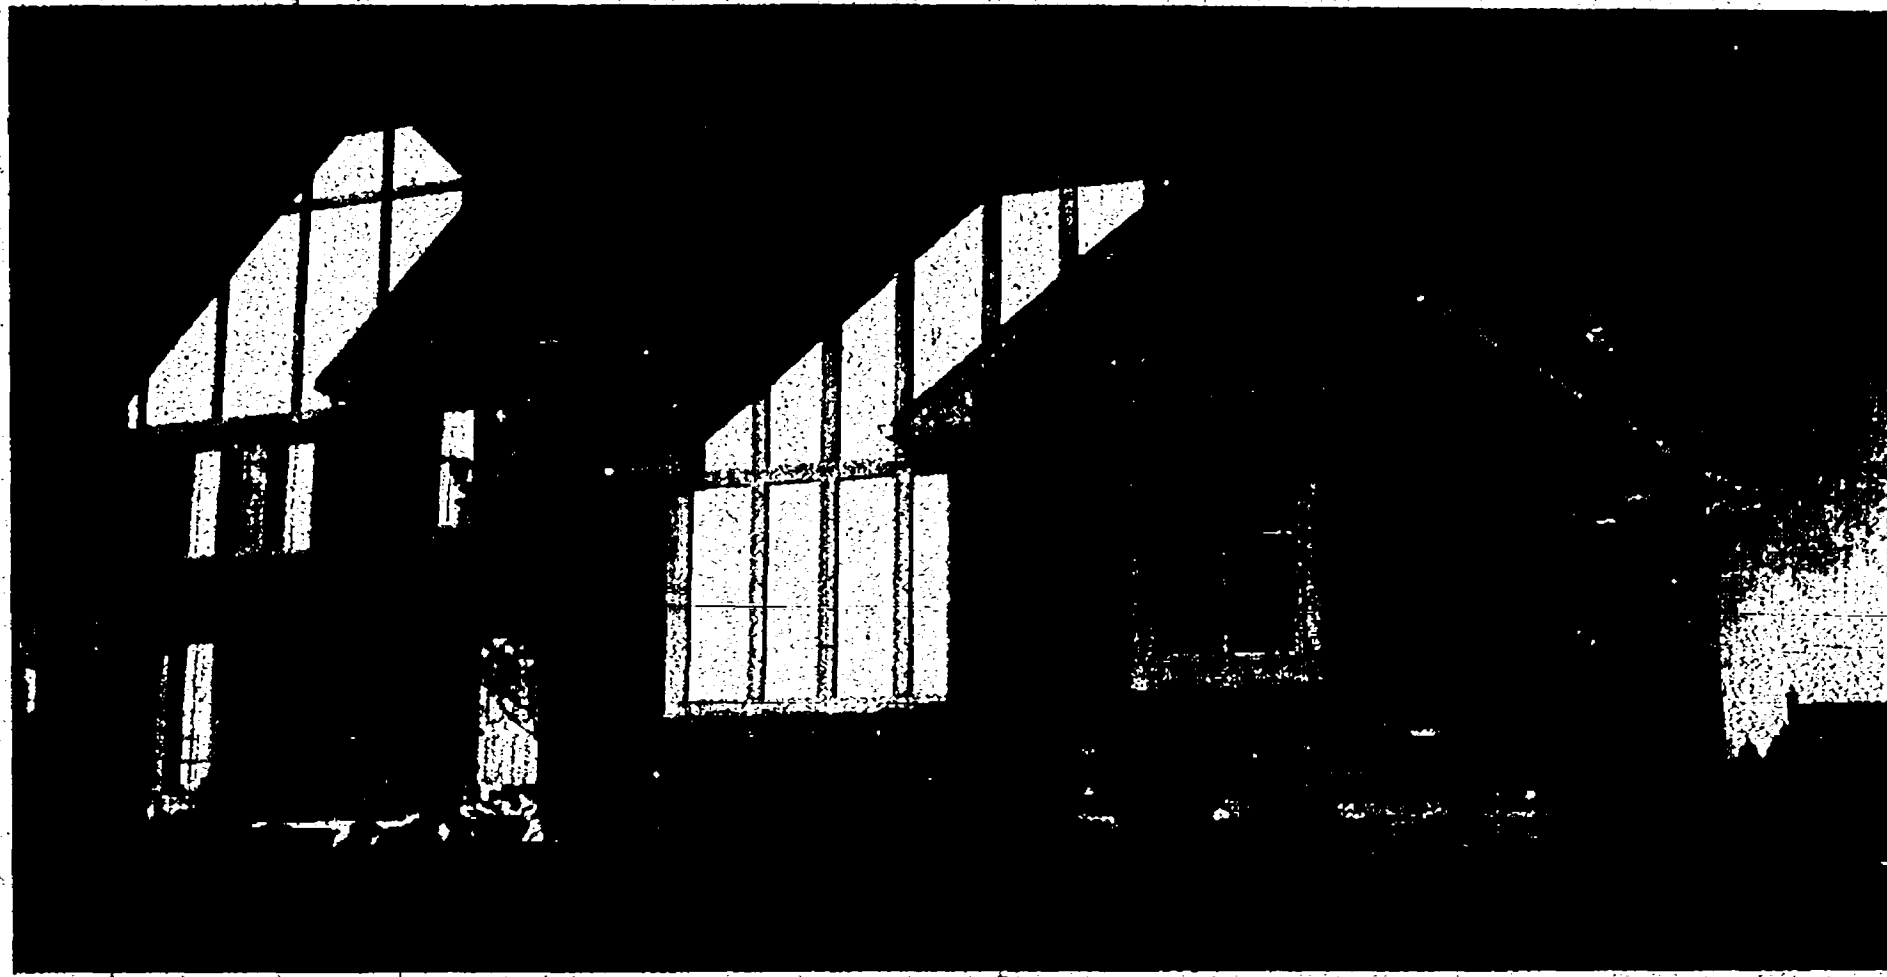

In looking back at their first building experience, Nancy, a product planner for Chevrolet, said her only regret was not talking more to neighbors.

"In building a house, there's so many opportunities to spend money that you have to be very careful," she said. "We found introducing ourselves to people on our street saved us a lot of time in shopping around."

The introductions also paid off economically. Taking a tip from a neighbor, the Lentinis found a nearby store that offered a wide selection of interior and exterior lighting fixtures. By shopping for lights on their own, they were able to save $2,000 as compared to the builder's quotation.

"If you're handy, you're able to save a lot of money," Craig added. "Every home here requires a sprinkler system for the lawn, and the builder wanted $2,000 to put it in. By doing it myself, it only cost $1,000."

Landscaping was the same story. The Lentinis learned a couple down the street spent $18,000 to plant on their lot, but by taking hints from neighbors and shopping around, the Lentinis bought and planted their choice of trees and shrubs and spent just slightly more than $8,000.

"Labor costs a lot of money, so any time you can do something yourself, it really pays off," Craig said. "And the money you save on improvements to the home makes it appreciate that much quicker."

The Lentinis also recommended first-time builders double check all estimates and inspect the builder's progress on a day-to-day basis. For instance, a salesman underestimated the couple's tax assessment by $3,000. In another case, the circular stairway leading to the second floor was uneven and had to be removed.

But aside from all the problems and the countless decisions, the Lentinis said their house is exactly tailored to their aspirations and lifestyle.

"The experience was really worth it," Nancy said. "We're very happy with our home, and if we had to build again, we'd do it in a second." 30

When Meadow Brook Hall was first built by Matilda Dodge Wilson and her husband Alfred in 1929, no expense was spared on the Tiffany and Waterford light fixtures, the hand-carved plaster ceilings and the pewabic tile bathrooms that make up the Rochester Hills estate. The 100-room "dream home" took more than three years to build and $4 million to complete.

While nearly everyone shares the fantasy of living in beautiful surroundings, only a few can afford the splendor of Meadow Brook Hall. "Most people find that their dreams are bigger than their pocketbooks," said Gunnar Birkerts, president of Gunnar Birkerts & Associates, an architectural firm in Birmingham. "But once people balance reality with their dreams, they usually find they can afford a custom-built home, and one that fits their lifestyle and image."

The first step toward building your dream home is to determine a location.

"Find out what community offers the best amenities for your family," said James Bonadeo, president of the Southeastern Michigan Home Builder's Association who owns a Plymouth building company. "Is there shopping close by? Where do you want your children to go to school? Is there a recycling program? Once that's settled, the next step is to decide what kind of house you want."

Jack Saylor, president of Saylor Building Co. in Troy, looks at location in terms of property values.

"While an inexpensive piece of property may be appealing, in the long run, it may not increase in value as fast as a home located in a thriving neighborhood. It also pays to know if a technology park or large commercial building will be located next door some day. That could serve to appreciate or depreciate property values, so it pays to ask questions."

First-time builders should also be prepared to deal with zoning laws. Many communities have strict codes in force concerning building specifications and layouts. In the Indian Mound area of Bloomfield Township, for instance, zoning laws specify that garages must be attached to the home and accessible from the rear.

To determine whether your dream house will meet community requirements, talk with city building officials and owners of custom-built homes in the area in which you want to live. Local real estate agents, builders and architects also have information about available land, market prices, mortgage financing, insurance, real estate taxes, permit fees and landscaping.

IN SEARCHING for available property, a great deal of time can be saved by consulting a local real estate agent, said Steve S. Cole, associate broker of RE/MAX Professionals II in Troy.

"Oftentimes a real estate office will have computers which can locate property quickly and provide all the necessary information concerning price, ownership and zoning laws particular to that area." (There may be a small fee for this service.)

The next step is to match your dreams with the needs of your family. For instance, how many bedrooms will you need? Do you plan on entertaining? If so, does your house need a deck or patio? Do you require any special rooms such as an artist studio, music room or mother-in-law suite? How much garage space do you need?

To put a price tag on your dream, a local architect or builder will often provide a range of current square-foot costs of houses in a particular area. Saylor said that the square-foot cost for a home can range from $50 to $100.

BY THIS TIME, people may believe planning for a dream home will prove to be too time-consuming, Saylor said. "Not that many people set out to build their dream home from scratch. People either have a strong passion for designing and overseeing the building of their dream home or a great deal of time on their hands. What we find most people do is select a developer who fits their style and then tailor a choice of available models to their exact needs."

But while your dream home may often cost more than an older home of comparable size or a new house built by a developer according to a set plan, an exceptional custom-built house — often designed for energy savings and flexibility of living spaces — can command a higher resale value than other alternatives.

And beyond economics, a dream home is also tailored to the owner's special requirements, aspirations and lifestyle.

"Really a dream home has to be designed to make the family feel good about themselves and about the world in which they live," said Bill Finnicum, president of Finnicum, Brownlie Architects in Franklin. "The future owners have to ask themselves what does the house need to evoke in the way of emotions, even down to their sense of humor."

Just as your bank or mortgage company will investigate your finances, so should you check into your builder's.

"You're the buyer and you want to be secure in your heart that you will be pleased with the final product," Bonadeo said. "By all means, ask the builder or architect for the name of their bank and do as much background checking as you can. Building a home is the biggest deal most people ever become involved in, so make sure everything is on the level."

The next step is to maintain an open dialogue with the various parties involved and to check progress on a regular basis.

"The most important thing is empathy on both sides," said Birkerts. "Designing or building a home is a very private and personal matter. The architect or builder literally becomes a member of the family. It's your lifestyle and your image which you will live with for the rest of your life, so it's very important to always communicate."

STONEBRIDGE

Meet Robert and Sandy Blshop. Two people for whom sharing good times together has always been an important part of their lives.

The good times happen frequently at Stonebridge. Whether it's a warm summer's night playing cards with the neighbors out on the deck or an evening spent in front of a roaring fire with family and friends.

Stonebridge is much more than quality homes. It's large master bedroom suites and baths, luxurious great rooms, vaulted ceilings, seven different floorplans and European kitchens. But most of all, Stonebridge is a place where you can live life the way it was meant to be lived.

Eyestrain tops listing of office worker gripes

Office workers place a great deal of importance on the physical office environment to facilitate their productivity.

In a survey conducted by Louis Harris and Associates for Steelcase Inc., nearly seven in 10 (69 percent) claim it is "very important" to have the right kind of physical office environment "to enable them to do as much work as they reasonably can."

This appears to be especially true for workers in technical jobs (77 percent claim it is very important). The proper environment is also important to union members (78 percent), government workers (73 percent) and workers who have not attended college and earn $35,000 or less per year (74 percent).

But only 60 percent of top executives and 58 percent of facilities managers think their office workers would say the physical environment is important.

The survey revealed that eye strain tops the list of office hazards with 44 percent of the respondents listing this as a "very" or "somewhat serious" problem.

Top executives (36 percent) and facilities managers (40 percent) do not think workers believe eyestrain is as much of a problem as the workers report. In contrast, contract interior designers (86 percent) think it's a much greater problem.

THESE THREE groups are also not in synch with office workers on other possible office hazards. All three groups report that workers are more wary of air quality, hazardous material exposure (such as asbestos), and AIDS exposure at work than workers themselves indicate.

Of those 27 percent of office workers who report air quality a "very" or "somewhat serious" problem, 44 percent attribute it to "poor circulation/stale air," 27 percent to "tobacco smoke," and 17 percent to "toxic gases."

More than a quarter (27 percent) of office workers are concerned about radiation from video display terminals. "Neither top management (22 percent) nor facilities managers (18 percent) sense this concern to the same extent as their employees. Contract interior designers (41 percent) indicate they believe workers are more concerned about this issue than workers themselves report," the survey said.

The preference for private office has declined since the last survey in 1988. This year, 61 percent of office workers state a preference for private space, while last year 65 percent preferred such space. But the desire for an open space with others increased over the same time span from 11 to 14 percent.

Of the different job types, those workers in secretarial/clerical positions (42 percent) and technical positions (53 percent), report a lower preference for a private office.

Of those office workers now occupying a partitioned space vs. open space shared with others, only half (50 percent) prefer a private office (down from 55 percent in 1988). Of workers currently in an open space, 30 percent would prefer a private office.

AS THEY DID in previous years, facilities managers report that partitioned office space is the most common form of office environment in their organization. According to their estimates, office employees occupy a median of 58 percent partitioned space, up slightly from 48 percent in 1988.

Contract interior designers report the median percentage of facilities designed in the past year at 52 percent for partitioned space. Neither of these groups anticipates any change in type of space to be occupied in five years.

"It is important to note that both groups work primarily with larger organizations," the study said.

Almost one-third of office workers (32 percent) who work at organizations of varying sizes, report they occupy partitioned space, which is reported more frequently by office workers in very large organizations (40 percent) and among heavy computer users (45 percent). More than one-third of office workers (38 percent) report occupying private space.

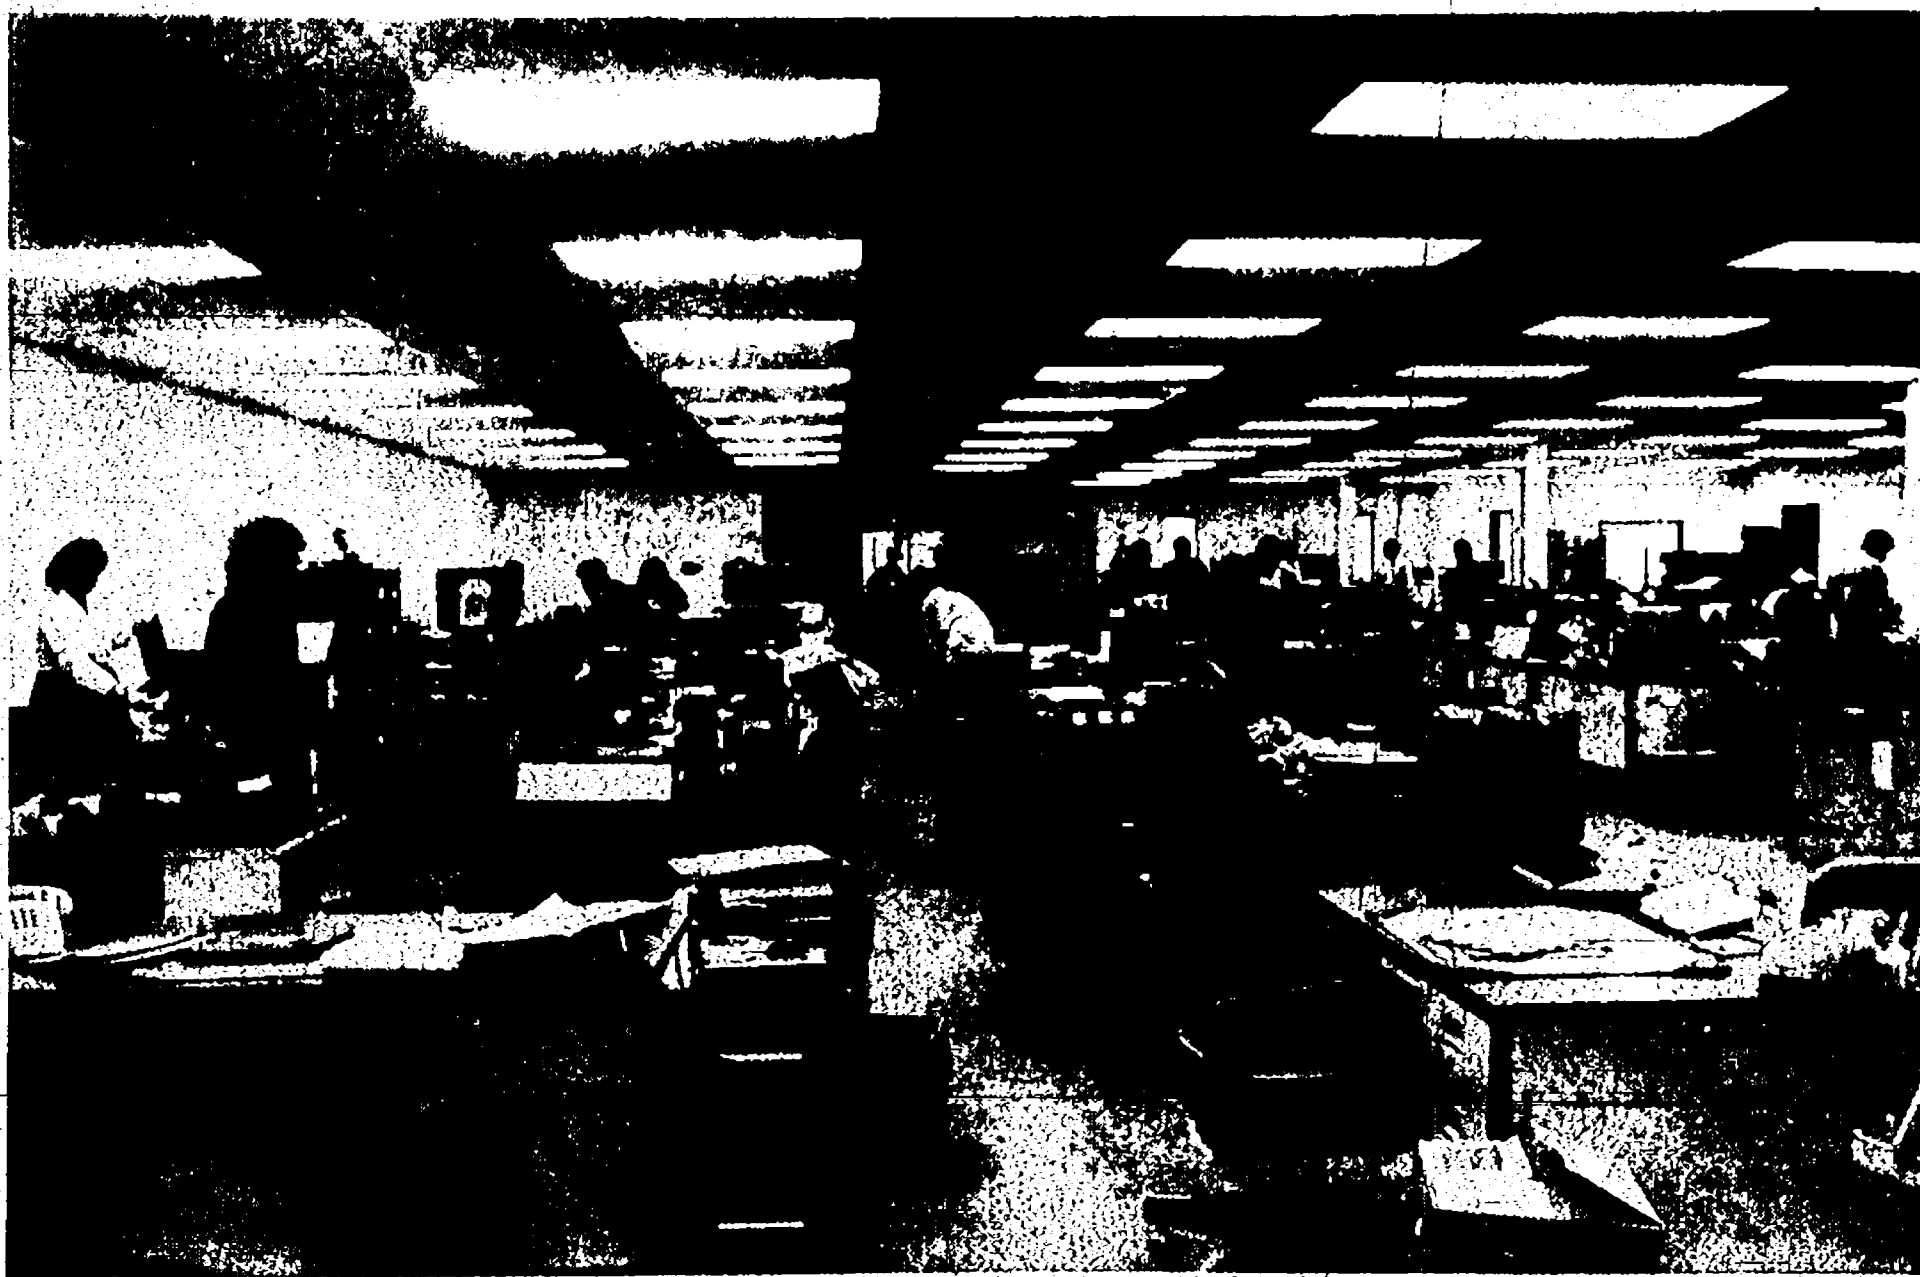

Looking to the future, telecommunications and computer needs are expected to have a great deal of impact on facilities design in the next five years, according to 87 percent of contract interior designers, 77 percent of top executives, and 75 percent of facilities managers.

IN TERMS OF ASSET management, senior managers may not be aware of how much responsibility facilities managers shoulder. Almost three-fourths (70 percent) of facilities managers claim they have "a great deal" or "some" control over office automation installation, but only 47 percent of top executives believe so.

And 66 percent of facilities managers say they have control over "telecommunications services and equipment," while only 57 percent of top executives believe this is true.

"These discrepancies may result from 'responsibility by default,'" the survey said. "For example, a data processing department may focus on mainframe computers only, leaving the job of PC networking to facilities managers. Top executives may well believe their data processing department assumes all responsibility for this function."

"Similarly, telecommunications require wire management, an area where facilities managers must exercise additional responsibility possibly unknown to top management."

The Steelcase survey reports that of workers currently in an open space, 30 percent would prefer a private office.

Andrea Pabon holds a lot of titles. She's an Air Force staff sergeant. A single mother. And, because she buys U.S. Savings Bonds, a Great American Investor.

"With Savings Bonds, I'm really taking advantage of a smart, affordable investment," she says. What makes them so attractive? "It's not easy raising two kids on a sergeant's pay. Bonds are a dream house will be located. Ask the owners of custom-built houses you particularly like for the name of their architect.

Shaping the dream

Get a list of architects from the American Institute of Architects. The Detroit chapter is headed by Rae Dumke who can be reached at 965-4100. Ask for information about recent architectural design award winners in your area and set up appointments with architects to see photographs of their work.

McCurry also suggests homebuyers read architecture and home fashion magazines such as HOME and Architectural Digest, and architecture trade magazines such as ARCHITECTURE, Architectural Record and Progressive Architecture. These publications will not only help you identify architects whose work you like, but will help refine your understanding of current architectural styles.

ONCE YOU HAVE chosen the top firms on your list (usually three to five), begin the formal interviews. Describe your dream to the architect. What does he or she see as the most important issues or considerations? Ask to see photographs of projects the architect has worked on that are comparable to yours in size and type. Ask for names of owners you can contact. Ask each architect to explain the specifics of the design and construction process and request to meet any other members of the design team who may be involved.

Don't ask for free drawings. Recognize that the architect is a professional who requires time and effort to develop sketches that adequately express your ideas.

Ask about compensation. Does the architecture firm want to be paid a percentage of construction costs? Or will payment be based on an hourly rate? Or are there other options? Get an estimate of anticipated total hours required to design and administer construction of your dream house.

Designing your dream house is a process that requires hundreds of decisions. To make it rewarding, take the time to find an architect you feel comfortable with, one who inspires confidence and generates excitement about the project.

Once you've done that, you've already laid the foundation on which your dream will be built.

The brick wall and hearth add emphasis to the Lentinis' family room.

House doesn't "suddenly appear"

By Nora Richter Greer, special writer

You've selected architect, design, builder and location. Now what?

"Don't expect your dream house to suddenly appear," said Don Lutes, an Oregon architect. "Most people who build houses do so once in a lifetime. All their inspirations have to be fulfilled in this one project. That requires an ongoing dialogue between architect and homeowner."

That dialogue will determine the success of your project. It's important to communicate effectively with your architect, from the initial sketches of your dream house to your choice of interior finishes.

First, sit down with the architect and discuss exactly what services will be needed. Basic services include sketches and construction documents but can also include supplemental services — landscape and interior design, for example. The services you and the architect agree upon will serve as the basis of the owner-architect agreement, the formal contract that spells out what both of you expect from the professional relationship.

The finishes on all surfaces of the house need to be selected -- from kitchen counters to bathroom floors to living room walls.

STANDARD CONTRACT forms listing architectural services are available through the American Institute of Architects (AIA). Make sure you understand all items listed in the agreement.

The design process usually begins when the architect develops preliminary sketches of the interior and exterior of your dream house based on conversations about your needs and aspirations. From these free-hand drawings, you and the architect can discuss the design elements that work best for you. Is the porch large enough for entertaining? Should the master-bedroom be closer to the stairs? Do you need an additional entrance to the kitchen from outside?

It is important you pay close attention to every detail. Once you've approved the design concept, the architect will use the sketches to prepare detailed construction documents the contractors will use to build dream house.

The contractor is usually hired once you've selected an architect. Some homeowners choose their own contractors; the architect often recommends contractors who have provided good service in the past. In either case, check references and inspect the contractors' current projects. By doing so, you'll be able to judge the quality of their workmanship from the laying of the foundation to the installation of interior moldings.

Meanwhile, you and the architect will be choosing interior finishes for your house. The finishes on all surfaces of the house need to be selected — from kitchen counters to bathroom floors to living room walls.

It's your business to be involved in each phase of the project. Design and budget decisions will have to be made jointly to keep the project on track. A key to success, Lutes said, is a strong working relationship.

This circular staircase accents the Lentinis' foyer.

Thursday, October 12, 1989 O&E

(*5F)*5H

Sterling Prestige Plank floor from Bruce.

You have the right to a warm and comfortable kitchen. Anything you want to do with your kitchen cannot be held against you in a court of design. You are entitled to select a designer who knows and understands materials. If you do not have one, you have the right to investigate and determine what is best for your kitchen.

It used to be that one of the rules of kitchen design was to stay away from wood for flooring and countertops. The unwritten law said that solid hardwood wouldn't be practical because moisture and everyday traffic would be too much for wood to withstand.

"Design laws were made to be broken, says award-winning kitchen designer Vicki Trigona Edwards.

"The kitchen should be livable. Hardwood is practical in the kitchen and it makes you feel comfortable, especially when it's combined with soft, pastel colors."

In one of Edwards' designs, she broke from conventional wisdom and installed solid oak countertops and flooring. Cherry cabinets with a light finish combine with maple accents to complete the hardwood elements in the kitchen.

But are wood countertops practical? Scratches and cut marks in a solid hardwood counter can be sanded out and refinished. What about moisture, glass rings and household detergents? Won't they mark up the counters?

Not according to James Reichart of Bally Block, who said the counters in the Edwards-designed kitchen were treated with a new finish called Durakryl 102.

"It repels everything from household solvents to glass marks," Reichart said.

He added that Durakryl 102 eliminates the penetration of bacteria into wood.

"The fact is that bacteria will grow on any surface that is not kept clean. Cleanups after each use are essential no matter what type of countertop you own."

Defenders of hardwood flooring point to the parquet floor at the Boston Garden and gym floors in old schools that have withstood years of abuse.

Edwards said that her kitchen features an oak strip floor that was treated with a strong polyurethane finish, which withstands spills.

More information on the use of hardwoods in the kitchen can be obtained by writing: The Heart of the Home, Hardwood Manufacturers Association, 4240 Greensburg Pike, Suite 103, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15221 or by calling 1-800-747-WOOD.

Plan offers option of extra bedroom

How many bedrooms — three or four? This house plan offers an optional second floor, allowing the house buyer to choose between two designs, the smaller containing 268 fewer square feet.

There are either two or three bedrooms and a game room for the second floor. The three-bedroom arrangement is shown with two full baths; the two-bedroom arrangement uses a compartment bath directly accessible from either bedroom. Private vanity areas are included in the plan, and the extra roomy closets and game room expand the utility of the second floor.

A SPACIOUS open foyer with access to either the great room or the formal dining room marks the entrance to this house. The architect chose to omit a living room and gave the space instead to the great room while keeping a formal dining room.

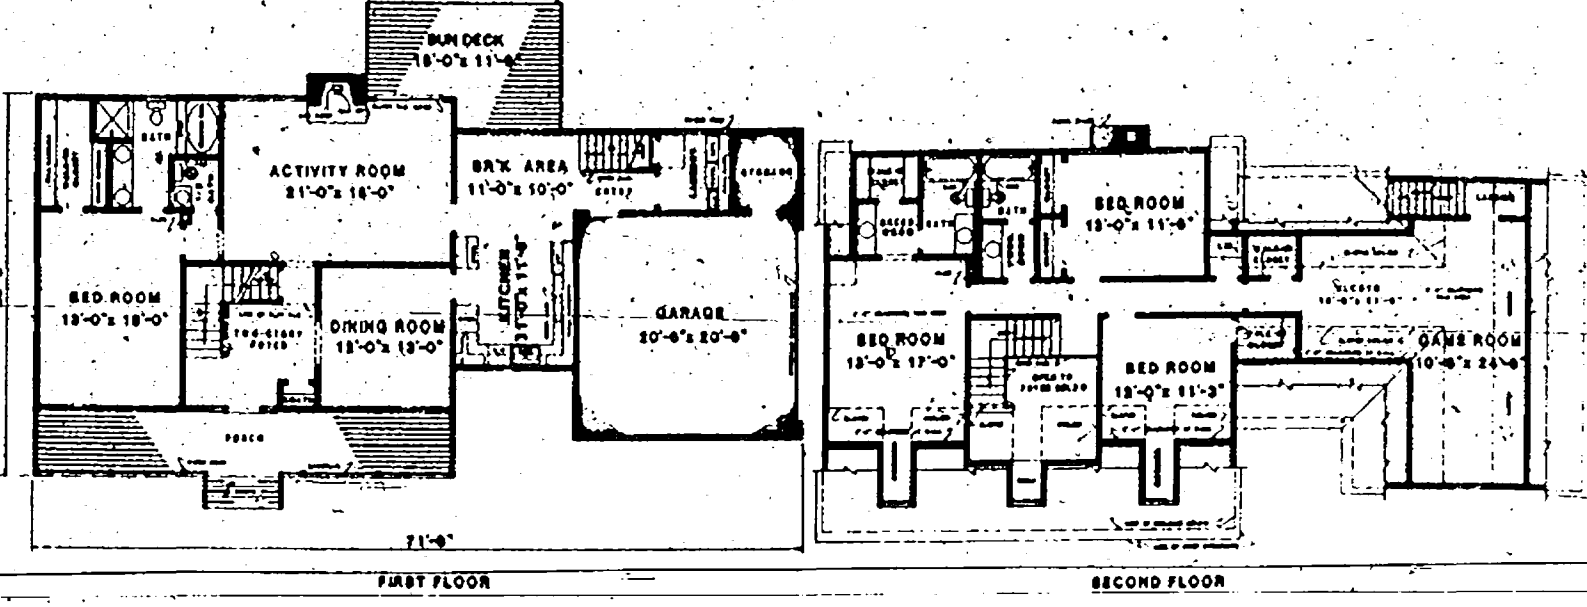

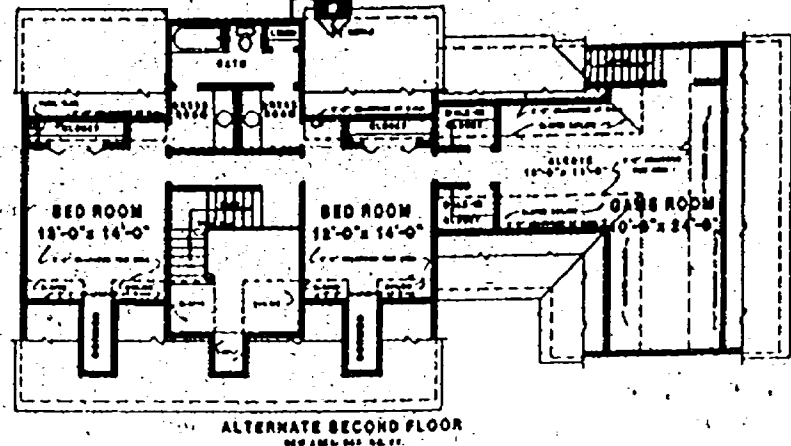

The kitchen and breakfast area, are shown in a wing front to back. The U-shaped kitchen includes ample cabinets and is next to the formal dining room.

A permanent open rail stair is included from the breakfast area, allowing rear access to the game room or second-floor bedrooms. The laundry is a complete room with space for appliances and overhead cabinets for storage.

The master bedroom suite extends the full depth of the plan, and a large walk-in closet is provided. The bath area is shown with two lavatories, separate stall shower and a tub. A half bath is adjacent for daytime use.

THE COUNTY exterior is accented by a wood rail front porch, three dormers, horizontal siding and a gable roof design.

This is plan 3122. It includes 2,225 or 3,153 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. Write W.D. Farmer at P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga. 30345.
