HERE'S A Little bit of good news for those who were sweating Wednesday's deadline for paying city taxes: You've got two more weeks.

The Westland City Council last week approved an extension of the deadline until Feb. 28. After that date penalties will be assessed for late payment.

IT'S GREEK to us. City attorney Charles Bokos played translator last week when questions arose about the unusual name for a new restaurant planned for the Woodcrest Plaza, Wayne Road south of Joy.

The proprietors of the proposed YaYa's Flame Brolled Chicken Restaurant appeared before the city council for building approval. "YaYa," Bokos told the council, is Greek for "grandmother,"

School officials look at budget Wayne-Westland vote

Voters reject tax proposals; district faces deficit

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

Wayne-Westland school board members were expected to begin looking at massive budget cuts tonight in the wake of Thursday's trouncing of three tax proposals by district voters.

"The board is a representative of the community and the community has spoken," a subdued Andrew Spisak, board president, said Thursday night after election results came in.

"The board will now have to make the tough decisions and we hope (the community) will support us in those decisions.

Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said the administrative cabinet, which had done some planning for a worst-case scenario, was to meet Friday and prepare recommendations. Board members, he said, could see some proposals as early as tonight's regular meeting.

O'Neill declined to talk about specific proposals. The district faces a potential $7 million deficit next year, school officials said.

"WE'LL HAVE TO look at making cuts where we do the least harm," O'Neill said.

The head of the group that opposed the millage increase said Thursday he hoped school officials would make "fair decisions" about where to trim the budget.

"I think the cuts should be made across the board, including administration," said Dave Moranty, chairman of the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee.

"If they want to get rid of frills, that's fine. But stay away from K-12 academics," Moranty said.

Council approves condo project

Ar planned 28-unit condominium complex on the south side of Joy and west of Wayne Road was given site plan approval by the Westland City Council last week. An agreement between developer Date A. Setzner and six neighbors living in the immediate vicinity of the planned complex has been worked out, said George Wilhelmi, city planning director. Construction of the complex will mean demolition of a vacant convenience store now sitting on the property. The former Lawson's store on Joy has been vacant for several years. Prior to the site plan approval, the council granted a rezoning request changing the land for the complex from "low-intensity commercial" to "garden apartment" residential.

The town also sports a few celebrity residents, including baseball Hall of Famer Yogi Berra and Oscar-winning actress Olympia Dukakis, the cousin of former Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis. Gaiss served as labor relations director for four years under

Giant Meijer plans March opening

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

Construction of the Meijer superstore at Warren Road and Newburgh is nearly complete, employee hiring is continuing and the store is set to open in March, a company official said last week.

"The progress has been good. We're pretty much in the final stages," Tom Michals, Westland store director, said Thursday.

"I would think it would be more towards the end of the month rather than the first, but we're going to open next month."

Work on the outside of the building last week consisted mainly of installing signs and other finishing touches. A number of interior fixtures and shelves have yet to be installed.

THE MEIJER gas station and convenience store at the northwest corner of the 35-acre site has been open since December.

"Business has been good," said Michals. "We look at it (the early opening) as a drawing card, a way to let people know that Meijer is here."

"The employees at the gas station field a lot of questions from. customers about when the store is going to open," he said.

Construction of the 212,000square-foot project - a combination grocery and general merchandise store - began 14 months ago. The Grand Rapids-based retailer announced the Westland store in March 1988.

The Westland store will be one of five Meijers opening in 1990.

MICHALS SAID the Westland store will be a prototype operation for Meijer Inc. in the 1990s. He said

APPROVAL OF both measures was recommended by the city planning commission and the rezoning, including a variance for six more units than the maximum allowed for the 1.86-acre site, was previously approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Construction of a masonry wall to separate the complex from adjacent residents and the relocation of trash dumpsters were some of the conditions listed in the agreement between Setzner and the neighbors.

The neighbors also received a guarantee that the complex would be "incorporated as condominiums only" and not rental units.

City building hit by gunfire

Westland police are looking for clues in the random shooting out of a window at the city's economic development department offices on Marquette east of Newburgh.

The shooting took place Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

The bullet holes in the window were first observed when city employees reported for work that morning.

NO ONE was in the building and no injuries were reported.

Detective Sgt. Dale Hawkes said that six shots from what was probably a handgun were fired at one of the Construction has begun on a $5 million office center, the first development along Central City Parkway, . a new roadway opened last summer.

The first of seven one-story office buildings on a 5% acre site, called Central City Office Park, is scheduled to open in July, said Carol Monczka, president of Central City Development Co. It will be among the largest office developments in the city.

City>and chamber of commerce officials Thursday morning joined with Monczka for the ceremonial ground breaking.

THE OFFICE Bark is consistent with the city's economic growth plan, said Monczka, who is a partner in the company with her husband, Raymond.

"The city is in need of high-quality office buildings to complement recent commercial, industrial and residential developments," she said. "Central City Office Park will support existing projects and bring new activity to the area.

"The project, which has been in the planning and development stages for over a year, gathered support from the business community, the past administration, and the current administration of Mayor (Robert) Thomas."

Monczka's market studies show no office overdevelopment in western Wayne County, an issue raised in Detroit newspapers and business publications, she said.

"Nearly all the office space in Dearborn is filled," Monczka said.

Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic development director, echoed Monczka's comments that the area can support a new office complex.

"Westland has had a lot of retail" development in the past few years, but no office growth," Veldhuis said. Thomas praised the proposed center at the ground breaking ceremony. It is the type of high-quality development the city wants, he said.

THE DEVELOPER plans to build the center with a Williamsburg Colonial style design.

The center will be on the east side of Central City Parkway, south of Warren Road and just west of the Landings Apartments. Central City Parkway was built by the city to open up land for potential developments and to ease traffic circulation near Westland Center.

The development could house medical, general office, retail, insurance, accounting and research/development companies, Monczka said. A firm is interested in leasing an entire building, she said.

Architect Robert W. Summers designed the office center with JBC Group Inc. to be the contractor.

The Central City Parkway project is the first office development of Monczka's company, she said. Previously, she and her husband developed single-family houses and condominiums.

A RESIDENT on the 31800 block of Bay Court told police a Belleville man assaulted her in front of her home Wednesday afternoon. The victim, 23, received minor injuries, police said. The woman told police the assailant came to her door at 4:20 p.m. and began arguing with her about an eviction notice that his girlfriend received. The store's produce section will feature fruits and vegetables grown without pesticides, a response to environmental concerns, he said.

Michals said the store will have a workforce of 900 to 1,000, nearly double the estimated 500 workers company officials expected to hire when the project was announced.

INTERVIEWS ARE being conducted daily in the front section of the store.

Although more than half the store's employees will be part-time (about 20 to 30 hours a week), all hourly jobs are unionized and include benefits. Michaels said.

'The school of thought on converting to a part-time workforce is still out," Michals said. "Yes, it saves money, but it doesn't always give you the most stable workforce."

Owners of new homes irked by building flaws

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

They live in new homes, some costing as much as $100,000, in one of the city's better neighborhoods.

But some residents in the Westland Woods subdivision, off Cherry Hill east of Newburgh, aren't pointing with pride at their recent home purchases. Instead, they're pointing at leaky bathrooms, faulty kitchen floors, crumbling fireplaces and other defects in their two- and threeyear-old homes.

And while some of the problems have been corrected by Kimron Construction, the general contractor which built 24 of the homes in the 10year-old subdivision, a number of items that were covered under a one-year warranty have been ignored, the homeowners say.

Kimron's owner said last week he was attempting to respond to the complaints.

"This has ruined the experience of buying a new home," said James Chuck, who moved into his house on the 500 block of Lansdowne about 115 years ago. "I know myself and most of the others probably would never buy a brand new home again."

IN A MAY 1989 registered letter to the contractor Chuck pointed out 13 defects that needed to be corrected in his home. The problems ranged from a rusting metal fireplace and crumbling hearth to a broken window lock in the master bedroom. Chuck said approximately half the list has been taken care of, but he's, had problems getting ahold of Brewer since last August to fix remaining items.

Kim Whipple, who moved into a just-completed home on the 300 block of Dover Crescent in February 1988, said her problems have included "a shower stall that floods the bathroom everytime you take a shower" and poor alignment between her house and garage.

A third homeowner, William K. Barrett, said he's corrected a number of problems himself, including replacement of faulty toilets. "Based on what was happening with everybody else, I didn't want to wait around," Barrett said.

Barrett has contacted an attorney about his claims, although he hasn't filed suit. Barrett furnished copies of two letters written by the attorney to Kimron owner Ron Brewer Sr. last fall asking for prompt correction of the problems.

Brewer said Friday he hoped to have a work crew back in the subdivision"within 30-45 days."

"PART OF the problem has been that I haven't had people to send down there," he said in a brief telephone interview.

But Brewer also said that many of the defects homeowners are complaining about aren't covered in the warranty.

Information provided to homeowners from Kimron specifies that the one-year warranty covers "everything" with the exception of:

• Settling of dirt around basement and under walks

• Grouting around tile in the bathrooms

• Cracks in basement floors, walks or driveways or other conditions caused by natural circumstances

 Leaks from basement windows or beams where the house is graded above brick line • drywall

• Scaling and pitting of concrete work

School officials and millage backers Thursday expressed surprise at the margin of defeat for the three proposals.

Proposal I, calling for the renewal of 2.75 mills, came the closest to passing but still, lost by more than 1,600 votes, or a 3-2 margin. The renewal gained approval in only one (Vandenberg School) of 25 precincts.

PROPOSALS II and III, which called for a 4.9-mill increase and rollback of the Headlee limitation, respectively, both lost by 4-1 margins.

"Yeah, I'm disappointed and surprised (at the large margins)," said school, board member Mathew McCusker.

"I can understand people's reluctance to vote for an increase, but I can't understand it on a renewal and for the Headlee (rollback), which essentially allows us to get (tax dollars) voters have already approved," McCusker said.

Both O'Neill - who said the last time he went through a beating as bad was "when my dad took me out to the woodshed" - and Spisak said Friday a second attempt to get additional millage from local voters this spring was highly unlikely.

"The voters have spoken emphatically," Spisak said.

The election drew a larger than anticipated turnout of 7,970 people, or 11.7 percent of the district's 68,000 registered voters. School officials had predicted a 7-10 percent turnout, similar to the two most recent school funding elections.

Election workers at severa cincts reported higher than turnouts. Peggy Carnutte, woman for Precinct 30 ( School) said the 247 people w voted by 7:30 p.m. was "tripl we usually get in a school elect cerned about quality education that would be one thing," the superintendent said. "But it's not. It's just a sign of the times," he said, referring. to President George Bush's "No new taxes" slogan.

While praising millage backers, O'Neill expressed disappointment at a few school staff people and others who didn't support the three measures, referring to them as "part of the problem, not the solution."

Moranty countered that the high turnout was the result of voters being informed about the issues. He said voters had decided that "enough is enough" when it comes to the Wayne-Westland millage rate (47.09 combined operation-debt levy before the election), which is among the highest of 34 public school districts in Wayne County.

He also responded to O'Neill's charges of negativism: "What problem did we cause other than informing people there was an election and letting them know the committee's views?" he said.

The committee's stand marked the first time district officials faced organized opposition on a millage proposal.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out-if-you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

Engler to announce bid for governor

By Tim Richard staff writer

John Engler will make it official this afternoon in front of the City-County Building in Detroit.

After touring all 83 of Michigan's counties to round up support for his Republican bid for governor, Engler is flying to five county buildings today to announce he intends to end Democrat James Blanchard's hold on the governor's office.

"New priorities, not new taxes," pouring more money from the state's general fund into public education his priority.

A second theme will be business - not playing favorites with state investment money and an end to political use of the Commerce Department.

"THE ANNOUNCEMENT in Detroit will underscore that John has visited every county in the state," said an aide:

So far, Engler has an unopposed shot at the Republican nomination.

In the last year, he has been tourwill be Engler's theme. He will make ing the state to build his support committee and mend fences. He was guest speaker at most of the GOP Lincoln Day banquets, including those in Oakland and western Wayne counties.

Engler, 41, of Mount Pleasant, has been majority leader of the state Senate since Republicans took control in 1983 after two Democratic senators were recalled in a taxpayers' rebellion.

SUPPORTERS, such as Sen. Robert Geake of Northville, see Engler as a tireless worker who can weld together the disparate elements of the Republican Party - from suburban moderates to farm-belt conservatives.

The opposition sees him as a partisan conniver who's not above helping his central Michigan district ahead of other regions.

A farm boy who learned his poli-tics in the local 4-H club, Engler has been a legislator virtually all his adult life. After graduating from Michigan State University, he defeated an incumbent Republican state representative to win the first of four two-year terms in the House. In 1978 he won the first of three Senate terms.

Along the way, he earned a juris doctor degree from Cooley Law School in Lansing.

We'd like to meet the man who made Ike what he is today.

City.

In fact, we have a warrant out for his arrest. Because no one should be able to do things like this to an animal and get away with it.

On December 15, in response to an emergency call, Michigan Humane Society (MHS) cruelty investigators arrived at a house that had been abandoned by its former tenant for over a month. There, among the trash and other garbage the owner had no further use for, they found lke. A fivemonth-old puppy lying huddled behind a locked bathroom door. Lying because he was too weak to stand. So malnourished he could barely move his chest to breathe.

He had been locked inside that bathroom for over a month. Without food. Without heat. And with only the water from a rusty toilet to keep him alive. MHS investigators called it the closest to death they'd ever seen ? an animal. Yet Ike was fortunate. A kitten found in another part of the house was already dead.

This kind of willful neglect and cruelty is more than an outrage. It's a crime.

And that's why your help is so important to us. Your contribution to the Michigan Humane Society helps us fight for stronger legislation and tougher prosecution of animal abusers. To fight back for those who can't. And to make sure that this kind of crime doesn't go unpunished.

Your contribution also ensures that when we finally meet the man who locked up lke, we can do the same for him.

County will operate shelter in Westland

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Wayne County's former poor farm is returning to use by the county's. needy.

. The county is expected to announce a new county shelter for homeless families at the Eloise com- at the site. plex today in Westland.

The complex, in central Westland, served as a county poor farm nearly a century ago. Until 1987, it also housed the county hospital.

Under the new plan, the second floor of the complex commissary building has been converted into a temporary shelter for county residents who lose their homes - especially through fire or eviction.

Called the Wayne County Family Shelter, the new facility is designed for families referred through area social service agencies.

SHELTER WILL be provided for up to 30 days, while social service agencies search for permanent shelter.

Based upon referrals, the Westland shelter will be open to homeless people from throughout the county not just western Wayne communities.

"Homelessness is a problem all communities in our county face." deputy county executive Michael Duggan said.

' County Executive Edward McNamara said 1990 would be dedicated to finding solutions to homelessness and other social issues, including crime and drug abuse. The commissary building is in the southeastern corner of the complex, west of Henry Ruff Road and north of Michigan Avenue.

Details about the center were expected to be revealed 11 a.m. today 1. 1

THE CENTER was created through an agreement between the county, city and Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Agency.

While financing information was unavailable before today's announcement, it is known that federal block grant money will be used to finance the shelter's operation.

The Wayne County Block Grant Consotrium a multi-community group that bands together for feder; al money, has committed $85,000 to the shelter. Dearborn has committed $48,000 and Dearborn Heights $22,500

In addition to housing the former Wayne County General Hospital, the Eloise site features more than a dozen other buildings.

It housed mentally impaired county residents in the days before group homes. In the early 1980s, the site also housed a Wayne County Jail annex. As recently as last year, it was considered a potential site for the new county jail now being built in Hamtramek

The Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol once operated out of the Eloise complex

BUT THE hospital was sold to a private health care firm in 1987, the jail and mental health hospital closed and road patrol curtailed. Most of the buildings now stand vacant. Other buildings have been de--stroyed.

Westland has talked about developing the 200-acre parcel, possibly spliting the site between commercial and residential development.

The shelter will be at Eloise, a historic síte that once housed the county poor farm and other county buildings.

Parenting saga: chapter and verse

WHILE PICKING up my daughter at Sunday school a few years ago; another parent chatted with me and commented that he thought I was there to drive my granddaughter home.

8A(L,R,W,G)

No wonder. The other father was easily confused by my gray hair and wrinkles.

The gray hair and wrinkles are a result, in large part, from being the father of three teenagers.

What does that mean on a day to day basis? It means:

• Never getting into a car with more than a teaspoon of gas in the tank

• Never having to answer the phone because the call is always for one of the teens.

• Never hearing a dial tone when you pick up a phone to make a call. For awhile, I thought my son's voice was built into the receiver.

• Never completing my own phone call without hearing the magical call-waiting signal. • Never seeing a chair with three coats that rarely get hung in the closet.

Never seeing the new bedroom carpet covered by mounds of three weeks of clothes.

THE TELEPHONE usage is fascinating.

I rarely hear the phone ring. The reason is that my son and two daughters initiate calls to their friends, break in when they hear the call waiting signal, and learn that the caller wants to talk to me. I usually find out about my call about three days later.

I ordered call waiting several years ago as a means of survival.

Adults in the home were not getting calls because friends or coworkers couldn't get through the busy signals.

For $3.74 a month, it was worth the money to have contact with the outside world. :

With the increase in long-distance and zone calls, my phone bill is almost as much as my monthly townhouse payment.

THE TEENS' relationship with cars is another saga.

My oldest daughter, 18, insists that the "teens" car, a nine-year-old Toyota, be kept clean.

But after her trips to friends' homes, the car's interior sometimes resembles a major recycling center. Another favorite response is that the teens are proud to announce that they "put gas in the car."

What they mean is that they put in a dollar or two, or just enough fuel for me to get to the nearest gas station.

Teenagers usually see hothing wrong in asking for a car to drive to school and leave in the school parking lot for six hours, suggesting that dear old dad be obligated to find a. rick shaw to travel around Garden City and Westland.

Crises that threaten marriage continuation

Let's take a look at three particular crises that seem to be the most threatening to the continued success of a marriage. I call these: (1) the female identity conflict; (2) the male mid-life conflict; and (3) the female Karyn mid-life conflict.

First, consider the female identity conflict in light of four different roles: (1) working with children, (2) working without children; (3) staying home with children; and (4) staying home without children.

The first identity conflict usually ocours between 27 and 32, with the children probably between 5 and 12 years of age - just before adolescence sets in. This is strategic since the adolescent period will rquire a very intact mother, to say the least.

The working mother with young children at home has already spent close to a decade serving somebody else - whether acknowledged or not. Before the children came, this woman not only brought home money to help with the finances, but no matter how liberated the marriage was, probably felt there was an expectation that she would make sure the house was neat and dinner was planned if not prepared.

IT IS the wife who will see to it that the babysitters are all lined up for the week, and substitutes will be available if needed. When the mother returns from work, she is bombarded at the door by excited children wanting to show her their school papers, or by frustrated kids who want her to settle an argument. When Dad gets home, it may seem to the mother that he gets the "fun" part of parenting. Still, it is far more likely that the "bombardment" will be stalled until mom gets home. It will probably still be the mother who gets the house, children and dinner in order for the evening.

In the role of the working woman without children, she has had nearly a decade with the same "keep-thehouse-in-order" expectations as No. 1. But she is facing pressure from family and peers to have children so

Pasquel

Maybe she wants children and cannot get pregnant. Maybe she does not want children yet. Maybe she never wants to have children. What is most important, her needs or others' expectations?

In the role of the mother who stays home with the children, some may say, "What a blessing to be able to stay home and enjoy the children growing up." But does our society allow her this "blessing?" This woman is barraged by constant pressure to "do something worthwhile with her life," or to "work and help the family, and take some of the burden off the hard-working husband."

SOMEHOW, THE monumental task of being a devoted mother is looked at as if it is an inferior role for a woman. Even women who love this role are made to feel guilty by society, well-meaning friends, and even family members. In social circles, she often feels very out of place, especially if she is in the presence of other working women, or at her husband's employee parties.

And finally, the woman who stays home and has no children faces all the pressures of No. 3, as well as the danger of withdrawing into what 'some might call a meaningless daytime existence.

For this woman, outside interests are vitally important in giving her a sense of purpose. However, such a woman is likely to be pressured to achieve some goal that makes her worthwhile to society. This woman's pressures may tend to be more internal than external.

How can all these women experience a similar identity conflict? We looked in the last article at the progression of the first years of marshe can be a real wife and mother. riage with all the new experiences:

the husband's new job and growing status, the birth of a first child and the children's first school years; now it's the wife's turn. This is when it hits.

IT BEGINS gradually, perhaps with a slowly developing, subtle resentment of the husband's position of glory - both at work and with the children. Where does the woman's importance fit into all this? If the children are unmanageable, is it because the mother does not know how to discipline her children?

Somehow, it is just assumed that any negatives associated with younger children are related to the woman's mothering skills. Fathers seem to be let off the hook as their focus must necessarily on making ends meet.

This period of conflict is difficult for a woman, and can place a severe stress on a marriage. If a couple is aware of this normal part of a woman's experience, and can work through it together, the results can be beautiful. Successful nurturing through this period can lead to a much deeper and stronger relation; ship between husband and wife. which will be a tremendous help inwithstanding the adolescent years' coming soon for their children.

NEGLECTING TO learn about and understand this crucial period for a woman by both the husband and the wife will increase the likeli hood of a damaged self-esteem, distancing between the marriage partners, and possible divorce.

In an upcoming column, I will take a deeper look into the mid-life conflicts faced by both the man and the woman, and consider some ways to lessen damaging effects on the marriage while allowing the crisis its full expression.

Ean behavior was abusive

To the editor:

On Friday, my sister, our children and I went to Eddie Edgar to watch a hockey game (Churchill and Franklin). Most of the game Franklin was overpowered. Our nephew plays for Franklin, so when Franklin started to hustle and score we got excited. Our 4-year-olds were stomping their feet, clapping and yelling. We were happy for Franklin, they work hard, so why not applaud their efforts?

Unfortunately, Churchill fans took exception to our excitement. Instead of pumping up their team, they jumped down our throats. We were told to shut up, where to put it and how to put it there. This was done in their language, the prefix to every word was the fabulous four-letter one. That language need not be said in front of small children or directed at two adult women.

My questions are: Where was adult supervision? What about these children's parents? Being of high school age - hasn't anyone ever taught them how to act in public? I think most of all - where is respect?

Phone: 478-7860 WHY DOES ONE MEDICINE WORK, BUT ANOTHER DOESN'T? At the pharmacist's counter are over 16 different medications to treat arthritis. How does your doclor decide which medicine to start you on, or change you to? Why is it that one medicine that helps you, doesn't help your neighbor, who must turn to other medications?

Physicians don't know with certainty why a medicine works for one person and not another, but evidence indicates that the difference rests with the individual. We are each unique in the way our bodies absorb, break down, and distribute drugs. These personal differences mean that one medicine may harmonize with your body better than another, and explains why 16 or more medications have a place in the arthritis market.

The choice of which drug to initiate comes from the physician's experience. Doctors start with a medication that they have confidence in, medication they believe works and with side effects they can readily identify.

Making a second choice after the first one has failed, is more difficult. Some physicians depend on a hunch; others use a logic based on the chemical formulations of different classes of anti-inflammatory drugs. To date, no one approach has proved superior in arriving at a second therapeutic choice.

No dinner without potatoes

A night rarely passes when the Janes Gang doesn't see a potato dish of one form or another on the dinner table. Momma was always a firm believer in having a big bowl of potatoes ready for passing at both lunch and dinner.

My oldest sister, Rosie, recently brought a potato dish to pass at a family celebration that utilized frozen hash browns, a can of cream of chicken soup, some sour cream and a topping of crushed potato chips that prompted me to do a little research on the subject - especially since I was the one who positioned myself by the kitchen stove to enjoy the crusty remains in the casserole dish from which they were served. Needless to say, they were a big hit.

All any grocery shopper has to do is walk through the store to be bombarded with fresh selections of all shapes, colors and sizes in the produce department; boxes upon boxes of dehydrated potato products in the baking department, and cans of whole, sliced or diced varieties in the canned goods section. Even a pass by the freezer department will produce a virtually endless array of shredded, sliced, diced or plankcut potatoes chilling out in the freezer A new strain of gourmet potato is emerging with the introduction last year of the Huston Yukon Gold variety that has a gold color and equally delicious buttery center, all without the added calories but with the same nutritional benefits of regular potatoes.

Valentine's Day a sweet treat

By Noreen Flack staff writer

UST WHEN YOU started following that New Year's resolution diet, along comes Valentine's Day.

This is no time to be counting calories. And Edwards Caterer and Carry Out Cuisine Inc. of Northville will be tempting you with sinful confections all the way to the scale.

So, why fight it? Drive your taste buds wild with a chocolate devil's-food baby cake.

Or share with your sweetie a Chocolate Fantasy Valentine gift package filled with chocolate-dipped strawberries, miniature chocolate mousse tartlets, chocolate ganache hearts, fudge pecan brownies, Grand Marnier brownies and sugar-cookie hearts. After all, it's no fun cheating alone.

Edward Postiff of Northville, Edwards' president and co-owner, is responsible for hundreds of forgotten diets every year.

And although Postiff claims he and his two chefs, John Klein of Northville and Jeff Zak of Novi, stay slim by not giving in to sweets, "I can't help myself at times," he said.

POSTIFF, 27, opened the catering business in 1986 with his sister, Lois Presley, and Lois' husband, Greg Presley.

The trio has geared the business toward corporate and private party catering, but the store at 116 E. Dunlap includes a small luncheon-style cafe and bakery.

"We use the best quality chocolate and real butter," Postiff said. "Some restaurants, you can tell they are serving manufactured desserts. People know the difference.

"I like things that are done simply but with style. Nothing fussy," he said. "We want to do things that are different, simple and still have taste."

POSTIFF HAS been in the catering business for six vears.

After being discouraged by his science courses at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Postiff moved to Cleveland in 1983 and began working for Hough Caterers.

Through the catering business, he was able to expand his art and creative interests, he said.

THIS "GOURMET POTATO" is being discovered daily by topnotch foodies who are predicting a banner year for Huston Yukon Gold varieties. Newest of these is tiny redskins, just waiting to be enveloped in a mayo-mustard dressing and tossed with bacon bits, celery and onion for a most delicious potato salad.

Venture into any produce store right about now and you wil be picking up a bag of what were last year's potatoes. Potatoes harvested last fall were stored in gigantic potato storage houses at just the perfect temperature to keep them crisp and delicious. It won't be long, however, before the new crop of California potatoes hits the markets.

Aunt Marge and Uncle Johnnie always had a large plot of their vegetable garden reserved for spuds. I can remember visiting them and venturing out to the backyard with pitchfork in one hand and a basket in the other hand, with orders to fill the basket for that evening's dinner. A spud picked right from the garden has no comparisons in flavor, taste and texture.

ville. Baby cakes, a new line of pastries that serve one or two, also are among the shop's many offerings for Valentine's Day.

Postiff continues to be the creative force at Edwards. Lois Presley handles the bookkeeping, and Greg Presley, a Northville architect, helps out with business decisions.

Friends like Klein and Zak add to the success of the business, Postiff said.

WHEN THE STORE first opened, Klein, a former bartender, was helping Postiff move in and soon found himself experimenting in the kitchen.

"However we could get things done, we would," Postiff said.

"There's no creativity (in bartending)," Klein said. 'You're just making the same drinks all the time. You can't make them better."

"I love the diversity," said Zak, who has an associate degree in culinary arts from Schoolcraft College. "There is never a dull moment.

"I love going on-site and getting out of the kitchen. You meet a lot of interesting people and it's neat to see your work all laid out like that."

FLOWER ARRANGING is another of Postiff's fortes. His wedding cakes seem more like works of art, with delicate flowers placed on tiers of white frosting.

"I always tell people to be sure to use flowers that are appetizing," he said.

In Northville, "You go into a store and everything is shaped like a duck or made out of wood," Postiff said.

"So, as opposed to being a very country-looking store with woods and dark colors, I think I made a serious attempt to make it more Californian with whites and pastels."

"The store does reflect our own tastes. We wanted something very happy, very soothing, a bit European with a lot of style," he said.

Pamper yourself with dessert coffee

By Arlene Funke special writer

A perfect cup of coffee - perhaps laced with chocolate or garnished with whipped cream - can make you purr with contentment.

The Coffee Beanery, a Michiganbased chain of stores specializing in gourmet coffees and teas, is turning up the heat on its promotion of elegant coffees that aim to pamper.

These beverages, often called "dessert coffees," are enriched with special flavorings and can be topped with a sprinkling of cinnamon or a dollop of whipped cream.

"They are nice after a real good dinner," said JoAnne Shaw, president of Coffee Beanery Ltd., headquartered in Flushing, near Flint. The company has 31 units in several states. The newest is at Laurel Park Place, at Six Mile Road and Newburgh Road in Livonia.

These special coffees evoke tastes of exotic and far away places. The Coffee Beanery carries more than 30 varieties of coffees flavored with store brands, Dimitroff said. mocha, hazelnut, almond, raspberry, troff of Plymouth, manager of the Laurel Park Place store, which opened in October.

"Once you've tasted gourmet coffee you can never go back to grocery store brands," added Dimitroff, a self-described "coffee fanatic" who drinks more than 10 cups of the brew daily.

Dimitroff dips her scoop into bins of whole beans to show a visitor the extensive range of aromas and flavors of coffees imported from parts of Africa, Central and South America, the East Indian Islands, Jamaica and Hawail.

'The taste and aroma are unique because of where they are grown, and the roasting time," Dimitroff sald.

Coffee Beanery uses only arabica beans, considered superior to the more abundant - but harsher robusta coffee bean. The larger, more flavorful arabica beans also contain less caffeine. One pound of the specialty coffee yields 80 cups, compared to 55 cups for grocery-

The company uses the Swiss water method of removing caffeine from the several decaf varieties. With this process, the chemical used to flush the caffeine doesn't touch the beans.

The Coffee Beanery, which started 14 years ago, is a spinoff of a coffee service and snack vending business operated by Shaw's husband Julius. JoAnne Shaw became convinced there was a retail market for topnotch coffees and related products.

"I just got an idea (some people) never tasted good coffee," Shaw said.

Over the years, Shaw has attended numerous seminars, where tasters employ the "slurp and spit" method of sampling new blends.

In the Laurel Park Place shop, the aroma of fresh coffee draws customers to Coffee Beanery's stand-up counter for a quick pick-me-up.

There's capuccino, which combines dark, powerful expresso coffee and frothy, scalded milk, prepared in a special machine. Cafe au lait, which originated in France, blends one-third strong coffee to two-thirds hot milk.

If you're keeping track of food trend predictions for the '90s you undoubtedly have read that "back to basics" will prevail.

Down-to-earth, home-style cooking is what food magazines such as Food and Wine and Cook's magazine say will be "in." Whether these predictions will come true is not for me dictions one step further and predict, or at least hope for, some French home-style cooking much like that described in Patricia Wells' new

3 little ingredients feed hungry wolves While researching the origins of The second s family-tested winner dinner

Betşy

Brethen

St. Valentine's Day, I had to chuckle when I read that some sources believe it goes back to ancient times when there still were hungry wolves outside Rome.

The Romans believed in many different gods, and the god Lupercus was said to watch over the shepherds and their flocks and protect them from the wolves. Therefore, in February Romans celebrated a feast called the Lupercalia in his honor. Even after the danger from these fierce animals was over, people continued to celebrate the festival.

When Christianity became powerful, the priests wanted their converts to give up former heathen practices. Thus, the ancient pagan celebration called the Feast of Lupercalia was Christianized by church officials and became St. Valentine's Day.

Although there are many different versions as to which saint named "Valentine" was the actual namesake for this holiday, it was, as it is now, celebrated Feb. 14 each year. As time passed, this new Christian holiday became a time for exchanging love messages, and St. Valentine became the patron saint of lovers.

IT IS A GREAT relief to know that none of us has to contend with hungry wolves outside our doors, but I must admit there are times when I feel I have a pack of them, howling at the kitchen table. This week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Mary Linda Murphy of Bloomfield Hills, is bound to be a special feast for your wolves, uh, er, I mean sweethearts, on Valentine's Day.

Murphy is co-author of a cookbook called "Three Little Ingredients," with Katie Valenti and Wendy Peterick. As the title indicates, each recipe in this book consists of only three ingredients. This week's Winner Dinner menu, selected from the cookbook, starts off with a tasty chicken dish called Heaven and ends with a dessert called Hog Heaven. Everything in between promises to be a real treat for your little cherubs.

Murphy is the mother of two college-aged students who served as trusty tasters when she worked on the first book, She now has a job as a clinical social worker in Birmingham. Murphy is working on a second cookbook called "More Three Little Ingredients" and is still marketing the first cookbook, which continues to be a steady seller across the country.

I love chocolate. Doesn't everyone? Many have even admitted to: being "chocoholics." What makes so many people crave chocolate? Probably because it tastes so good and has such pleasant associations. The mild caffeine in chocolate perks you up and, as a carbohydrate, it calms you down at the same time - such nice qualities.

But chocolate has an aftertaste: Many chocolate lovers suffer from chocolate-covered guilt and worry about getting fat or developing facial blemishes. Well, relax. In reasonable quantities it isn't so bad for you after all.

Chocolate does contain a lot of calories, however - about 150 calories to the ounce, and most of those calories are from saturated fat. For the sake of your health and your waistline, you should keep an eye on both fat and calories. Moderation is the key.

O&E Monday, February 12, 1990 Birds modify their behavior as circumstances change

Through time, animals have adapted to particular places or habitats. Their physical features and behavior have been modified so they : can sustain life within the limitations set forth by the habitat. Bill length or song frequency, for example, are best suited for where they live.

By traveling trails and watching wildlife over the years, one becomes familiar with the habits of animals. Eventually one can predict how they will behave and where they can be found. So when an animal behaves in an unpredicatable manner, it attracts one's attention.

Tree sparrows that come south in the winter from their northern Canada nesting grounds are one of the most predictable ground feeders I know. If they are not feeding on the ground, they are only a few feet above the ground on a platform feeder, or so I thought.

Just the other day I was watching the feeders here at the Independence Oaks Nature Center, and to my surprise I saw a tree sparrow perched on a tube feeder pecking at sunflower seeds. Not only was it unusual to see it perched on such a feeder, but they do not frequently eat sunflower seeds, either.

Downy woodpeckers that come to the feeders eat suct, but they also at sunflower seeds from the tube feeders. In order to extract the kernel from the husk, they wedge the seed in a cracked log and break the shell with their bill. They are using the log just like we use a vice.

Both these birds are exhibiting behavior that I consider atypical, and it makes me wonder. Maybe my conceptions of their behavior is incomplete, or maybe their behavior is changing.

Birds are very visual animals and watch other birds feeding at bird feeders. It seems very plausable to me that tree sparrows and downy woodpeckers would investigate to see what other birds are eating. They would even try to eat what other birds find acceptable.

Sunflower seeds are a good source of energy in winter and are commonly used at many feeding stations. Because they are eaten by so many different birds, any bird at a feeding station could not help but be attracted to them. Though these birds have only recently been exposed to this rich source of food, their behavior is adaptable enough for exploitation.

As bird feeders continue to be a source of food, it will be interesting to note if these behaviors become more engrained and if new behaviors develop.

Mike Schuette used only one timeout Friday, but it had a lasting effect on his Redford Thurston basketball team.

The Eagles, who trailed by three points midway through the third quarter, got a wakeup call from their coach and they responded in a big way, outscoring visiting Allen Park 41-16 in the final 11 minutes en route to a 78-56 Tri-River League victory.

The win keeps Thurston's league championship hopes alive. The Eagles, 11-3 overall and 8-2 in the league, stayed one game behind first-place Taylor Kennedy.

Schuette had reason to be upset during the timeout.

His team, which led 35-32 at halftime, came out flat during opening minutes of the third quarter, going scoreless. Meanwhile, Allen Park's Mike Ballard hit six straight points to give the Jaguars a 38-35 advantage.

And it didn't help matters when 6foot-3 senior center D.J. Kellogg missed a wide open two-handed dunk.

"I HAD JUST got done talking to them at halftime about our best person trying to take on their 'five (players)," " Schuette said. "The alternative was that we could play as 'five' and win the game."

"We played a good aggressive game in my eyes," said Allen Park coach John Marzec, whose team fell to 9-7 overall and 7-5 in the Tri-River. "I felt we played the game we wanted to play. ## Overaitis sparks fired-up Franklin past Hawks, 70-43

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Craig Overaitis appears to be in over his head when he ventures into the paint on a basketball court. But appearances can be deceiving.

The 5-foot-9 guard pumped in a career-high 25 points Friday night and did it the hard way, spurring host Livonia Franklin to a 70-43 win over Farmington Hills Harrison

The surprisingly easy win - the fourth straight for the Patriots - in the important Western Division contest puts Franklin, Harrison and Northville in a threeway tie for first place, all with 5-2 records. The Patriots are 8-6 overall and Harrison, which had a seven-game winning streak snapped, 10-4.

Overaitis, who isn't afraid to invade the big man's domain, scored all of his nine field goals on drives or shots within 10 feet of the basket. He also was 7-of-10 shooting free throws.

"MY DAD is 6-3 and he's been banging me since I was 2, teaching me how to take a hit," Overaitis said, adding he usually mixes it up with JV coach and former Central Michigan tight end Bob Stebbins and freshman coach John Wilson in practice.

"I'm just basically a penetrator. I'm not afraid to get hit. One of three things is going to happen. You're going to the free throw line, you're going to get the shot and the foul or you'll have your shot blocked.'

Overaitis and his teammates got the second possibility much of Friday night. Franklin's plan was to go inside and draw fouls, and the Patriots ended up 21-of-31 at the line. Harrison, which was never in the game, was 7-of-14.

"We just had a bad day," Hawks coach Mike Teachman said. "We were flat as a team; that's all. They beat us good."

The Patriots started working their strategy off the opening tip, and the game went Franklin's way from the start.

Steve McCool, a 6-foot-4 post, figured prominently in Franklin's success, scoring 21 points and hauling down 15 rebounds. McCool went inside for eight first-quarter points as the Patriots bolted to a 15.4 lead and were on top 19-9 at the end.

"THAT WAS the plan, for me and John Santi (six points, six rebounds) to go inside " " ~! said "We really didn't go inside the first time (when Harrison won), and we didn't substitute. We were dead in the fourth quarter, and they were scoring all their points."

"In the first game, we played the whole game," Overaitis said, "This time (coach Rod Hanna) gave us a rest, and we were fresher in the second half."

By the time the fourth quarter rolled around Friday, the game was virtually over.

The Patriots doubled a 10-point halftime lead, holding Harrison to four points in the third quarter. Overaitis scored 13 second-half points and McCool 11 as Franklin expanded a 36-26 advantage to 50-30.

The Hawks got within 15 early in the fourth quarter, 52-37, before Franklin turned the game into a rout.

Dave Barina added seven points and 11 rebounds for the Patriots, but his biggest contribution might have been on defense where he guarded Harrison's leading scorer, Andy Smith, who had only six points.

"THAT WAS one of the keys," Hanna said. "We had to stop Smith. Barina was assigned to stop Smith, and the young man did a fine job."

Rob Karbowski and Roy Granger had eight points apiece to lead the Hawks, and Blazo Sarcevich added seven.

Overaitis also passed for seven assists and made six steals, and McCool was the other big shooter on the free throw line, making seven of 12.

"He played like a man," said Hanna of McCool. "This was his best game - in terms of his total game. He was reacting to the ball and making good decisions."

Teachman said he thought Harrison missed its opportunity to make a game of it in the second quarter.

The Hawks cut into Franklin's 10-point lead right away when Granger came off the bench to hit back-toback triples. Steve Stasevich's basket put it back at 10 (27-17), and the Patriots maintained that margin.

"IT SEEMED every time two of our guys jumped with one of their guys for a rebound they'd get it. Every time Overaitis would get a roll in the basket we'd take a shot and bang it too hard.

"At halftime I told (his players) they were trying to make the 10-point basket, trying to make the big play and not the correct play, the right play."

Franklin shot 44 percent (15-34) in the first half and an even 50 for the game (24-48). After shooting 44 percent in the first half, too, the Hawks fell off to 20 percent (6-30) in the second and 30 overall (16-53).

"He (Kellogg) can dunk anytime he wants, but I told him it's a matter of 'me' being in the spotlight instead of scoring the points," Schuette said. "The second time he probably could have dunked, but I give him credit, he took the points."

The Eagles also got plenty of points -23 to be exact - from senior guard Jason Muller. He played opportunist along with senior guard Colin Shanahan, who added 14 off the bench.

Borgess routs Rice to take Central

By Mike Stewart® staff writer

Birmingham Brother Rice coach Frank Carrico must have suspected what was in store for his Warrlor squad in its Catholic League Central Division title game Friday at Redford Bishop Borgess.

"I don't think they played as well as they could," Carrico said before the game, thinking back to his team's early-season win over the Spartans. "We realize we're going to have to play our best game of the year if we're going to beat them again."

The Warriors didn't. The Spartans may have, however. Borgess, playing near flawless basketball, brushed aside the Warriors in winning its. third Central Division title in four years, 86-63.

Early on, it looked like Brother Rice was serious about making a run at Borgess. The Warriors led 20-11 after one quarter, thanks largely to the sizzling shooting of senior guard Paul Arthur.

ARTHUR, who finished with a game-high 27 points, hit his first seven shots from the field. four of them from three-point range. Unfortunately, without Arthur, the rest of the Warriors hit a meager 4 of 20 from the field in the first half. Their misery was compounded by poor free-throw shooting. The Warriors were just 4 of 11 from the free-throw line in the first half, 14 of 31 on the night.

Borgess, which finished the regular season at 13-2 and 9-1, wasn't shaken by Arthur's effort. It took the Spartans just 31/2 minutes to catch Rice, and by halftime Borgess led 40-30.

After hitting just 5 of 13 from the field in the first quarter, the Spartans made 10 of 16 in the second, going on an 11-2 scoring run to end the half.

It marked the beginning of the end for Rice. Senior guard Shawn Respert led the way for Borgess with 15 first-half points. He finished with a team-high 22.

In the second half, Spartan senior guard Artie Brown, who scored 21 points on the night, got the Borgess transition game going. Rice, which prefers a half-court style of play, couldn't keep pace with the Spartans and fell behind 60-45 after three quarters. The Borgess lead stayed at or above 15 points the remainder of the evening.

BORGESS could do no wrong. The Spartans were 16 of 31 from the floor in the second half. They also made 12 of 15 free throws, 23 of 27 overall. Brown and Respert finished the night a <sup>1</sup> combined 16 of 29 from the floor.

Senior forward Randy White, who, with Brown and Respert, led many of the Spartans' offensive charges, contributed 14 points. Junior guard Kevin Riser added 10. Junior center ReShawn Sumler added a team-high eight rebounds.

"At the start I thought, here's the Brother Rice game all over again," said Spartan coach Mike Fusco, referring to the Spartans' 62-56 loss at Rice earlier in the season.

"Some of the mistakes we were making in that game, we were making tonight. We were pushing a little too much. But we settled down and got our game together."

To say the least.

Carrico took the loss in stride.

"The most important thing now is the Catholic League tournament and the state tournament," Carrico said "We think we have a great chance."

AFTER IT was all over, Carrico mused about the irony of his pregame statement: "I don't think I've ever seen them (Borgess) play any better than they did tonight.

"And we didn't play well. We give up an average of 44 points per game, and they had 29 in the second quarter, so obviously we had some breakdowns.

"But give them all the credit, their transition game is tough."

Senior forward Pete Mitchell added nine points and eight rebounds to the Warriors' effort.

Rice falls to 11-4 and 7-3 with the loss.

Late Stevenson free throws frustrate North

Livonia Stevenson withstood a second-quarter North Farmington barrage, slowly working its way back before eventually tripping the Raiders, 57-56, in a Western Lakes Activities Association basketball game Friday at Stevenson.

Glenn Szeman drained two free throws with less than a minute to play to put the Spartans up 57-54. North retaliated, scoring a layup with 30 seconds remaining, and the Raiders followed by forcing a Stevenson turnover. But their attempt at the go-ahead basket with seven seconds to go went awry, securing the Spartan victory.

Stevenson led early, building a 17-11 advantage after one quarter. But North blitzed the Spartans with a 22-11 second-quarter surge to go ahead 33-28, and the Raiders maintained their lead until the final minute of the game.

Ron Baran's 22 points led Stevenson (9-6 overall, 5-3 in the WLAA's Lakes Division). Rick Laven added 13.

For North (8-6 overall, 5-2 in the Lakes), Matt Hoffman scored 20 and Chris White got 10.

GLENN 62, FARMINGTON 54: Senior guard Bobby Lawrence poured in 29 points Friday ncluding eight in the nivolal fourth quarter - to lift Westland John Glenn over the host Falcons in a WLAA Lakes Division game

On Wednesday, St. Agatha lost to visiting Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes 56-53.

Jared Karesnak's 20 points was best for the Aggies. Jeremy MacNicol had, 13 and Kutch 12. Lakes was led by Pete Vgalini with 11.

WAYNE 66, LINCOLN PARK 33: Two teams with opposite fortunes: The result is predictable when they meet. Which is what happened Friday when Wayne Memorial played at Lincoln Park. The Zebras stampeded to a 22.6 lead against the winless Railsplitters and coasted to a Wolverine A League victory.

Larry Johnson tallied 19 points, Pierre Hixon scored 10 and Terry Hall contributed nine for Wayne, which improved to 15-1 overall, 12-0 in the WAL. Brian Stallhad 10 for Lincoln Park, now 0-15 overall, 0-12 in the league.

WOODHAVEN 66, GARDEN CITY 53: An argument might be made that Garden City lost Friday's game at Woodhaven on Tuesday against Novi.

With just two seconds left in that overtime win, the Cougars' Bud Barnett broke a bone in his foot, forcing him to the sidelines.

Lacking inside strength is hardly the position to be in when the No. 1 team in the Northwest Suburban League comes visiting. "We really had to give up a lot of height," said Garden City coach Bob Dropp. "They went inside hard and we couldn't keep them out. They just wore us down." The Cougars (6-9 overall, 2-3 in the NSL) led 18-17 after one quarter before Woodhaven began to assert itself, going ahead 39-33 at the half and 50-41 entering the last quarter. Don Emerson's 11 points paced GC; Jim Marszalek had 10.

NORTHVILLE 66, CHURCHILL 60: A fourthquarter rally, triggered by three 3-point bombs Friday, pushed the host Mustangs past Livonia Churchill in a WLAA Western Division encounter

Jason Slading scored seven fourth-quarter points, while Bill Kelley and Joe Kaley each had triples in the fourth period as Northville overcame a 49-41 Churchill lead with a 25-11 burst Slading finished with nine, Kaley singed the nets ford 23 points. while Kelley had 11.

Churchill led 20.6 after one quarter and 39.30 at the half. Mike Thomas got 15 points for the Chargers. Mike Juodawlkis and Kevin Hannigan added 13 each. Juodawikis also nabbed 10 rebounds.

Churchill fell to 8-5 overall, 3-4 in the Western. Northville is 10-4 overall, 5-2 in the division.

Ocelots' late rally surprises Macomb

What happened to Schoolcraft College's men's basketball game was different and - considering the way fate has treated the Ocelots the past few years - completely unexpected.

ern Conference lead pays a visit, and the host team is one step out of the basement, the result is usually a onesided, foregone conclusion.

But SC has been a battler, if not often a winner. The Ocelots' record in close games was pathetic. Which made Wednesday's outcome so surprising. As SC coach Dave' Bogatai explained it, "We won the last 30 seconds."

Which translates into a 75-74 upset triumph, at SC.

Not much has gone favorably for the Ocelots this season, but their victories over conference foes Highland Park CC and Macomb will always be bright spots. Wednesday's win pushed SC's record to 11-17 overall, 4-9 in the conference; Macomb slipped to 9-4 in the conference, 15-10 overall.

RANDY WATTERS' driving layup with :18 remaining provided SC with the game-winning points. But there was still work to do. The Monarchs, trailing 75-74, took time out with :16 to play to set up a last shot.

Madonna melts UM-D

It was different this time around. Madonna College's women's basketball team did not allow its University of Michigan-Dearborn foes to push it around. The Fighting Crusaders took command of the boards Thursday at Madonna and - as a result - ripped the Lady Wolves 90-66

Michelle Dyksinski and Lisa Kline did most of the damage, combining for-66 points and 22 rebounds as the Crusaders outrebounded UM-D 46-37. Last time the two teams met, UM-D won 70-62, dominating Madonna 61-25 on the boards. Included in that total was a 24-5 offensive rebounding edge. Dyksinski had 24 points and 13 boards, while Kline totaled 22 points - including six three-pointers and eight rebounds. "We kept our intensity throughout the ball game," said Madonna coach Bob Belf, as his team improved to 5-10. "I was very pleased. I think we found some confidence, confidence we lost in losing four straight."

but UM-D came out strong in the second half, scoring the first six points. After that, however, the Crusaders took control and pulled away to the easy win.

Holly Murphy added 13 points and eight boards for Madonna, Becky Poszywak netted 11 points. Redford Thurston grad Janet Smith paced the Lady Wolves with 23 points, including three triples. Lisa Sokolowski had 16 points, Barb Kulfan got 13 (and 11 rebounds) and Monica Longe netted 10.

Kulfan was a concern going into the game. She had shredded Madonna for 21 points and 22 rebounds in the teams' first meeting. The Crusaders kept her under control this time, however. UM-D slipped to 4-24 with the loss. Belf figured his Crusaders needed wins in three of their final five games --- starting with last Saturday's game against Northwood Institute, at Madonna - to qualify for the NAIA District 23 playoffs. It won't be easy, Belf conceded, adding, "But our mindset is very good.

When the team tied for the Easting from the zone the Ocelots had played throughout the game to manto-man. The strategy worked; it confused Macomb into trying a longrange bomb, then an off-balance put-, back. SC's Al Hudson rebounded the second and ran out the clock.

The Ocelots trailed 38-31 at the half and, with 13:00 left, were down 53-39. A timeout got them back on track, however; in the next nine minutes they outscored Macomb 24-10 to -

It was close the rest of the way Jim McDonald's free throw put Macomb in front with under a minute left, until Watters recaptured the lead - for good - for SC.

Watters finished with 20 points. Ken Fuster had 17 and Ed Hudson 10. Dave Hamilton and Tom Progar got eight apiece. Also, SC attacked the boards, with four players Hamilton, Watters, Al Hudson and Fuster – getting eight rebounds each. Fuster and Al Hudson also blocked three shots apiece.

McDonald's 15 points topped Macomb. Dave Siwicki had 13.

ST. AGATHA 46, MOONEY 43: The case of their start, combined with the record of their foe, may have fooled Redford St. Agatha when they tangled Friday with host Mount Clemens Cardinal Mooney.

The Aggies scored the first 10 points of the game, then had to struggle to beat the Cardinals (2-13, 1-9).

Spartans survive Raiders

Livonia Stevenson scratched and clawed its way to a 15-13, 13-15, 11-15, 15-5, 15-9 Western Lakes Activities Association (Lakes Division) volleyball victory Wednesday over visiting North Farmington.

.Stevenson is now 10.0 in the WLAA and 8-0 in the Lakes. The Spartans are 15-4 overall.

"It was an incredibly difficult match to win from top to bottom," said Stevenson coach Lee Cagle. "Even in the fourth game, we were never comfortable. The momentum changed very rapidly. "Both teams made many strategic and personnel moves . . . where we hit, when we hit and who we hit to.'

Cagle moved Renea Bonser (12 kills in 54 attacks) to the middle in the fourth game and the strategy paid off.

'We also served more forcefully and North's passing relaxed a bit, too, which let us maintain our momentum," said the Stevenson coach. "We were able to stay on the offensive, but North defensively never gave up. That bothered us and we had to show patience."

Sue Bell added eight kills in 26 attacks. She also had 19 digs.

Nicole Cibor collected three ace serves in 25 attempts. Teammate Chris Holowka was six-forsix serving.

North, led by Courtney Knapp's 16 kills, fell to 3-4 in the Lakes and 8-9 overall.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN gained a 15-9, 15-9, 15-8 WLAA-Lakes Division triumph Wednesday at Farmington.

Juniors Jenny Massey and Kara Beeny combined for 10 ace serves.

Beeny also contributed eight kills, while sophomore Dana Nowicki led the Rockets with six digs.

"Our offense is getting better with each match," said Glenn coach Linda Jimenez. "At the beginning of the season we couldn't even establish a team spiking percentage." Glenn is 4.3 in the Lakes, 5-4 in the WLAA and 10-11 overall.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN, behind Erica Sundeck's 15 kills in 29 attacks on Wednesday, defeated visiting Farmington in a WLAA crossover, 10-15, 16-14, 11-15, 15-2, 15-4.

The hunt is over.

Everyone's been looking for a reason to explain why music born in the '60s still retains much of its power and clout in the '90s. The search for the answer has filled volumes and been treated like the quest for the Holy Grail or the lost treasure of the Incas.

Jerry Silecchla of Birmingham has had the answer all along, and he finds nothing mystical about it.

"He's got more dediction than anyone else. He's a professional. The bands of the day are too busy getting high," Silecchia said.

He was playing at The Palace of Auburn Hills, and Silecchia was there on opening night.

So were a lot of other people — men with a bit more of a gut than they might care to admit to, many with less hair than they had when "Hard Day's Night" was on top of the charts.

'Tremors' — Horror film is underground classic

By John Monaghan special writer

The ads for "Tremors" point to just another dumb horror movie with some better-than average actors in the leads. What a surprise to find a sleeper hit lurking beneath a story about giant, blood-thirsty slugs.

"Stumpy," as he's labeled by one of the characters, is the smartest of four prehistoric worms that have come to feast on the tiny desert town of Pleasant, Nev. After half of the 14 residents are wiped out, the survivors band together to outwit the creatures.

Kevin Bacon and Fred Ward play handymen who decide to leave Pleasant just one day too late. Soon, they're the unofficial brains behind the party. Bacon's spontaneous heroic streak adds to the unpredictabili-

Director Ron Underwood has created a textbook exercise in good horror movie-making. He hides the creature's appearance during the first couple of murders, then opens fire with the slimiest special effects that a low budget can buy.

During the attacks, the camera provides ground-level views as the monster heads toward its prey like a roaring subway train.

Not since Chucky, the smartmouthed devil doll from "Child's Play," has a monster this memorable hit the screen. Movie fans may find "Tremors" the most entertaining mix of sci-fi and horror this year.

rative nims engage our senses and sensibilities with the attractive qualities of entertainment. There was (and is) nothing entertaining about the horror of Auschwitz.

The problems inherent in depicting such horror, of course, include the fact that it is virtually impossible to avoid attracting audiences to characters and situations. In that attraction lies the demise of Holocaust films for audiences soon become engrossed in story and character to the detriment of the message.

As successful and significant as "Sophie's Choice" was in teaching and remembering Hitler's horror, ultimately audiences were distracted from the goal by Kevin Kline and Meryl Streep's fine acting. As well, the complications of their relationship diverted attention from the film's main point — the Nazi crime.

"Triumph of the Spirit" (A+, R, 120 minutes) seems to have circumvented this problem with its low-key approach to the utter depravity of the Auschwitz death camp. It is a film that everyone should see, a motion picture whose images will remain in your mind long after the last credit has faded to black. It is a fitting memorial to those who perished in the death-camps and a magnificent testimonial to the human spirit.

STRANGELY enough, despite its topic, the film is not depressing. Its title is well-chosen and indicative of the dedication to the survival that has characterized human beings faced with brutality and seemingly insurmontable obstacles to life.

"Triumph of the Spirit" is the true story of a Greek-Jewish boxer, Salamo Arouch (Willem Defoe), who was the Balkans' middleweight champion in 1939. In order to survive at Auschwitz, he was forced to box for the entertainment of the German guards.

Typical of the utter debasement of human beings at Auschwitz, when he asks the German officer, "How_ many rounds?" - the response, "No rounds, you just keep fighting until one boxer can't get up."

That off-hand attitude runs throughout "Triumph of the Spirit" and characterizes the film's approach. Guards routinely unpack gas pellets while some of Arouch's family are undressing for the "showers." There are no leering guards, just an unrelenting routine, under-played grim and graphic march to death. Each and every character performs his daily duties as if such a bizzare existance were perfectly normal.

Of course, within the madness of

Aside from that, "Triumph of the Spirit" is a magnificent testimony to the human spirit and an enduring reminder that evil men do lives forever.

The latest buddy film, "Loose Cannons" (C+, R, 85 minutes) is just that, two whackos on the loose. Eccentric Washington, D.C., detective Mac Stern (Gene Hackman) is teamed with recently released psychiatric patient/detective Ellis Fielding (Dan Aykroyd).

FIELDING SUFFERS from multiple personality disorders - he was tortured by drug dealers when caught working undercover. Sometimes he flips out and it's funny; sometimes it's silly and sometimes serious. And that's the trouble with "Loose Cannons." ## STREET BEATS

Opening doors to new music

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

A life of rock'n'roll is often glorified. To Jim Cortez, it's all in a day's work.

The Southfield-Lathrup graduate is an AOR (album oriented radio) promotions man for Elektra Records on the East Coast. Such a job is not usually found in the classifieds or through a job bank.

Much like the bands he helps promote for Elektra Records, Cortez's rise in the business has been an upward climb. He started as a sales clerk at Harmony House Records in Royal Oak, bugging record company representatives who used to drop by for a job.

Cortez then worked in the back room of Warner Elektra Atlantic (WEA) offices in Farmington Hills, shipping out records. He later became a Midwest radio promotions man for Elektra Records.

Since then Cortez has shook hands with radio programmers and traveled with the likes of Motley Crue, Metallica and Georgia Satellites.

Yes, the common refrain goes, it's a dirty job but someone has to do it. And who better than a guy who as a vouth used to dream of meeting rock idols? Now it's an everyday reality, something he's not embarrassed to admit he enjoys.

"I got to meet Pete Townshend last year," said Cortez, 30, who lives in the Boston area with his wife, Ardy. "I never thought I'd ever get to meet someone from the Who. The Who meant a lot to me when I was growing up."

CORTEZ' TREK in the record business, though, is not about hero worship. Instead, he's involved in a never-ending battle to open radio airwaves to new music.

And that is not easy, especially in Detroit where he worked as an Elektra promotions man covering the Midwest for three years. Radio here is traditionally conservative, preferring to play Jethro Tull to the Cure or 10,000 Maniacs.

Cortez waged a grassroots campaign. He'd arm with himself with sales charts and a list of stations nationally who were already playing a record. He'd bring radio programmers out to concerts like 10,000 Maniacs, showing them the group was not "a green haired punk band."

He had success. 10,000 Maniacs received air play on a Top-40 station, WCZY-FM, thanks to Cortez's efforts.

"I had to figure out that whole record-radio relationship," said Cortez, who was lead singer in the local band, Shouting Club. "That was a real eye-opener. I had to learn that game.

"They don't want to hear about new music in Detroit. They play it safe. They stick to Led Zeppelin and Pink Floyd. It's hard to get a new band through the door."

If anything, the stagnant Detroit radio market provided the perfect launching pad. Any new album Cortez was able to get on the air was a considerable triumph.

CORTEZ SAID he was able to do it without losing his integrity. He admits there's an honest way to get a Shouting Club, a local band for which he was the lead singer.

record played; or a dishonest way. "I would try to get a record played on its own credibility and my credibility," Cortez said. "I didn't try to bull---- anyone."

Last year, he earned a promotion to Elektra's office in Boston. He travels up and down the East Coast, working primarily with AOR programmers.

Things are still difficult there, although more alternative and college stations can be found on the East Coast. Success he does have can be attributed to enthusiasm, which in his case in genuine.

"I could never sit around and work music I didn't care about," he said. "I couldn't sell a dinosaur band like the Doobie Brothers or something."

Few of those exist at Elektra. The label has a roster dotted with several breakthrough acts of the '80s including 10,000 Maniacs, the Cure, Tracey Chapman, Sugarcubes, Metallica along with the notorious Motley Crue. ("They're a tightly run organization," he said.)

Some of those groups, like Metalli-ca, Cortez has seen start from the ground floor. He mentions the heavy metal group as being pretty down to earth. Some groups like the Cure or Tracey Chapman have little interest in participating in the publicity machine, he said.

CORTEZ IS also a first-hand witness to the less-than-savory aspects that comes with rock'n'roll - the groupies and other hangers on.

Cortez recalls one time being with Metallica. The entourage was harassed by fans near the hotel, in front of the radio station and when they returned. Once back to the hotel, the floor the band stayed on was vandalized. Then there are the girls who wait around for bands after the show. "It exists," Cortez said. "I think it's kind of sad, really. . . . they end up going from the bus driver to the security guy, being blind because these guys are telling them they are going to meet the band. Most of the time you see girls crying because they get abused and they don't even meet the band. It's tragic."

Bands give a toot for Picnic Horn

By Jill Hamilton special writer

Picnic Horn Records held its first ever showcase of new artists recently at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor.

The showcase was to let people know about the label and to introduce the bands. All three bands have albums either pending or already released - The Holy Cows with "To Be or Not to Be; that's what I'm talkin about," Anne Be Davis with "Scout's Deposit" and the Opossums with "Marsupial Eruptus."

"We hope someone who can help us will see the show," said Rodney Robeson, head of Picnic Horn Records in an interview before the showcase. "We want people to know we're serious."

And serious they were. Audience members were handed official-looking programs then treated to one heck of a show.

Those who obediently waited to get in soon found that, as usual, all of the tall people somehow managed to-- dirty and play a full-fledged, wailing get places in front surrounding the stage.

Anne Be Davis kicked off the showcase with an energetic set, living up to the claim of being "one of the hottest live acts in town." Between post-modern pop tunes, the lead singer offered the audience some environmentally minded advice like, "Don't wear mascara," and "Don't eat tuna."

The highlight of the set was a showcased song called "I Realize" which the lead singer described as, "kind of like, uh, a love song." Several other songs were featured from "Scout's Deposit," including "Home Is Gone." The audience seemed receptive to the new material and stayed on their feet throughout the set.

inside. More than one group of fans with a set of simple, catchy tunes that they described as "jangly gui-tar-based rock'n'roll." Opossums tunes revolve around the classic themes of parties, girls and jobs.

These guys can also get down and country tune. After one such twanger, a few audience members felt compelled to gleefully bray, "Yee-haa!"

THE OPOSSUMS devoted a generous chunk of their set to songs from their recently released debut album, "Marsupial Eruptus." One song, "My Thing," seemed to go over especially well with the audience.

The idea of Picnic Horn Records started about six years ago when Robeson and Scott Salyer, two school chums from Chelsea, sat down and started talking about how great it would be to start their own record label.

Once just a pipe dream, Picnic Horn Records became a reality about six months ago when Salyer, a guitarist for The Holy Cows, asked Robeson to take over the business of running the band. Robeson agreed and Picnic Horn was born.

Two other bands were soon added to the label's roster - The Opossums and Anne Be Davis. "Scott knew the Opossums from Chelsea and we liked what Anne Be Davis were doing," Robeson said.

He laments that "when you tell someone about a local band, the attention level goes way down." Because of the lack of local support, the Holy Cows will only make limited area appearances in the future. They plan to spend more time touring other cities in the Midwest and have gigs lined up in college towns from New York to Tennessee.

But, Robeson hasn't given up on the local scene - quite the opposite. He thinks that Detroit is the ideal place for Picnic Horn's bands. He points to other alternative bands like Husker Du and the Replacements that eschewed the West Coast scene, instead, parlaying their regional appeal into national success. "WERE JUST trying to create a scene around here," he said.

Crossed Wire will perform with Colors Feb. 13 at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor.

BLIM

The musicians in the Gear were born at the wrong time. Had they grown up with the generation of baby boomers, they would probably have been a big success during the '60s and '70s and now be involved with some sort of "20th anniversary reunion tour" or similar nonsense.

As it is, they will have to struggle with baby boomer controlled radio, newspapers and music mags. Whereas musicians of the baby boomer generation were revered as the important speakers for an era, young, energetic bands of today are dismissed by thirtysomething-year-olds as trivial and repetitive.

With the exception of the Sex Pistols and the punk movement in the 1970s, innovate, modern music is swept under the carpet and lumped into one giant category called by vague names like "new wave," "alternative" and "post-modern."

None of the songs are written or even co-written by Farnham. Instead, groups of several different people share song writing credits. Perhaps the proverb "too many cooks spoil the broth" explains why the songs seem so passionless and middle-of-the-road.

They say the grass is always greener over the next man's fence. And nowhere is the grass greener or the fences taller than in Beverly Hills, Calif.

In her book, "Scruples," Judith Krantz called Beverly Hills "the most staggering display of luxury in the Western world." Compared to the modern day Camelot, the average upper-class suburb seems like the slums of Calcutta. No wonder so many aspiring jet-setters dream of moving to this legendary home of unbridled self-indulgence.

I've just returned from a visit to the land of super achievers and I'm able to report that if you work hard, invest wisely and save up all money for the next 20 years . . . you still won't be any closer to living there than you are right now.

But don't feel bad. You wouldn't / be happy there anyway. Before you load up the family truck like Jed Clampett, let me pop your balloon with "Six Reasons Why You Shouldn't Move to Beverly Hills:"

(1) You don't make enough money. How much is enough? Two good incomes won't be enough. Winning the lottery won't be enough. Owning an oil-producing nation might be enough.

If you plan on doing lunch at the Polo Lounge or mingling with the stars at your poolside cabana, remember this - a single parent night at the Beverly Hills Hotel costs $1,000 for a bungalow with a kitchen

(2)You can't afford to buy a house. According to the Los Angeles Times, the costliest listing is a 40,000-square-foot chateau with two gyms, tennis court, bowling alley and disco. If that's you, bids start at $30 million. The cheapest pad is a one-bathroom shoebox just inside the city limits, priced to move

Karl Nilsson

Each year, Gregg Motors of Beverly Hills sells 150 new Rolls-Royces at an average cost of $155,000 each. Don't hold your breath waiting for a factory rebate either - virtually every buyer pays cash.

(4)Your clothes would look out of place.

Before you head for Rodeo Drive to spruce up your wardrobé, be ready to cough up $25,000 for a leather jacket. Sorry, motorcycle not included.

Not only are there no clearance sales, there aren't even any price tags. In fact, shopping at many clothing stores is by appointment only.

(5) Your body would look out of place.

If you're over 16, gravity is starting to tug at your physique. That's normal. But in Beverly Hills, wrinkles are against the law and cellulite's a misdemeanor.

Nowhere else is youth and beauty prized so highly. Personal fitness trainers outnumber lawyers. When diet and exercise aren't enough, dozens of plastic surgeons re-shape every body part from eyelids down. Locals tell of the hitchhiker who asked a motorist for a "lift." Turns out the driver was a doctor who charged him $3,000 for tightening his chin.

(6) Your hair will look out a place. Just over five square miles in area, Beverly Hills is home to only 34,000 citizens. Yet is boasts 534 beauty shops. Figuring seven stylists per salon, that's one beautician for every eight residents!

That's not even counting the hundred or so operators who work fulltime on Michael Landon's coif (tram tours of his hair are now available), or the dozen who dye poodles to match their owner's outfits.

STREET SENSE

Don't let son run your life

Dear Barbara,

I have just returned from our family's Christmas holiday in Hawall. My wife, daughter, son and I go with another couple and their two daughters. My son is 21 and my daughter is 17. The other couple's two daughters are 21 and 16.

In the past, my friend's 16-yearold daughter seems to be going through a bad time. She is rude and difficult to be with. She is particu-·larly rude to my 21-year-old son. He no longer wants to be with her and, in fact, refuses to do so.

I will relate a specific incident that happened on our trip. Our son decided to return home to Detroit early. He said that the main reason` for this decision was that he couldn't bear to spend another night with the offensive daughter. We made plans to go for dinner with a third couple and their children as a going away party. This third family is very compatible with my son.

On this particular night, the other couple had a special benefit to attend. No children were invited so their daughters were on their own. Of course, I wanted to invite their daughters. This is a gesture often extended by them to my daughter and also to my son. These people are wonderful to us in every way. My son absolutely refused to go for dinner if our friends' youngest daughter came along.

When they called the next day, I lied. I said that our family had stayed in by ourselves that night. I feel terrible about lying and confused about how I will handle similar situations that are sure to arise in the future. Should I demand greater tolerance from my son? Should I call my friends and explain the problem?

I don't want to hurt their feelings nor do I want to lose their friendship? I understand how my son feels about this girl, but I am angry at him putting me in this position. Frustrated Father

Dear Frustrated Father,

Your first question is "Should I demand greater tolerance from my son?" You can't demand greater tolerance, but you can tell your son that he can either join you or stay home. In not making your position clear, you are reversing parent and child roles.

Your second question is "Should I call my friends and explain the problem?" No, do not dump your family situation on them. They have not asked for advice about their daughter; don't give it.

Lying about the evening will create greater problems in the end. It only delays the eventual confrontation with your son. You would not stay angry at your son if you understood him realistically and were not so needy of his approval and attendance. A better attitude would be to be able to predict this behavior and to understand that both the trip and the dinner would be more fun without him.

This is a common problem between parents and their almost adult children. The following are steps you can use in understanding and negotiating with him:

(1) He is socially insensitive.

(2) His behavior embarrasses you. (3) You get angry. Do not use the anger to punish him. Use the anger as a signal that a solution must be found.

(4) Set up a contract of behavior that would prevent further disturbances. Stop humoring him.

Barbara Schiff

(5) If he cannot be negotiated with, then recognize that there may be a separation between you.

(6) Do not despair of this rupture. Often, children return. When they do, it is with increased respect for you and a greater sensitivity to others.

Plenty of places to stay in Chicago

Chicago River, and the area either side of the Magnificent Mile, which is Michigan Avenue north of the river. Add a few blocks north to the Lincoln Park area and you've got more than you'll ever need for a vacation

There are dozens of fine hotels near or north of the river - the Essex, Omni Morton, Chicago Hilton, Fairmont, Hyatt Regency, Midland, Swiss Grand around Grant Park south of the Chicago River, the Inn of Chicago , Park Hyatt, Raphael, Richmont, Four Seasons, Ritz-Carlton, Hotel 211, Claridge House, Tremont, Whitehall, Nikko, Drake, Mayfair Regent, etc. Most are expensive, all offer discounted weekend rates. Add 12.1 percent tax to your room rate. I recommend three hotels for the budget-minded - the Essex Inn, Best Western Inn of Chicago and the Claridge House. I also recommend two good travel rules - "buyer beware" and "do your homework." Rates are often "if available" and may be good only in certain time periods. THE ESSEX INN is a 255-room multi-story renovated motel-on Michigan Avenue south of the river near Grant Park. I have not stayed there but know people who have stayed there and gone back. John and Jill Breckenridge of St. Paul, Minn., described it this way: 'Our room had floor-to-ceiling windows with a view of Grant Park and the skyline. We like a high room, so we don't hear the noise from the streets. The room was spacious and pleasant with a mini-bar, pay TV and the usual amenities. It cost us $49." Call toll-free (800) 621-6909 and a central reservations operator will quote rates of $86 to $102 single, $96 to $112 double, but ask about the $49 shoppers special, good any night of the week through Feb. 28. It may be available. And the Essex Inn offers free valet parking, which is worth money. The best location and the best buy for the money in my experience is the Best Western Inn of Chicago, 162 E. Ohio, a few steps from Michigan Avenue and a few blocks north of the river. Call toll-free (800) 528-1231 and they will quote you weekend rate of $59 per room per night, for one to four people in the room. This rate is available until the end of 1990. The Inn of Chicago is a commercial highrise built in 1929 and nicely renovated in 1982. It's a few years since I stayed there, but I believe that it is still a very good hotel and and excellent buy. THE CLARIDGE Hotel, 1244 North Dearborn Parkway, is a small apartment building converted into a nice small luxury hotel on the far north end of the Magnificent Mile area, just north of Division Street. Free continental breakfast comes with the room. Call toll-free (800) 245-1258 and ask for the Comedy Club Weekend package, good through Feb. 28, that gives you a standard room for one or two people, plus two tickets to the Funny Farm comedy club, for $65 a room. The Claridge is one of the new hotels opened during the last three or four years. I'll tell you more about it next week, when I tell you how a couple of real people slept-ateplayed in Chicago recently. There are several other new hotels that might interest you. The Omni Morton, a small hotel at 500 S. Dearborn, south of the river.

The glamorous Fairmont Hotel, with an elegant lobby and very nice rooms, opened last summer on the "near east side," which means south of the river and east of Michigan Avenue near Grant Park. Weekend special under $100 a night.

OTHER FAIRLY new ones include the Hotel Nikko, high rise modern, expensive, overlooking the north bank of the river; Four Seasons, fine and expensive on the Magnificent Mile; the Hotel 21, tall, beautiful, very high tech, with CD players, VCRs, stereo, on Bellevue Place at Rush Street, with a highly rated Cafe 21.

The old Sheraton has been broken up into two hotels - the Forum, $665,000.

(3) Your car would look out of place. There are two ways to be spotted as an out-of-towner. One, wear a cap that says "Champion Pig Caller." Two, drive any car that costs less than your present house. Even if your current luxury car turns heads in the suburbs, be prepared for culture shock - your pool service boy probably owns a matched pair.

Of course, there are pros and cons to any neighborhood. One one hand, your chances of marital strife increase (Beverly Hills has the highest divorce rate in California). But on the other hand, Cartiers will gift wrap your engagement set for free.

On the down side, your chances of emotional illness increase (Beverly Hills has the most psychiatrists per capita in the U.S.). But on the plus side, the new drive-thru therapy is very convenient.

Royal Oak silkscreen artist Laurie Many combines molded and screened faces to come with "Comedy," a three-piece furniture set. ## Sleight of hand mastery keeps 'them' involved

By Loraine McClish staff writer

HUCK KING is not just a magician. He's a magician extraordinaire. That's the way King is billed for his magic extravaganzas. The words may have been strung together by a press agent, but they are backed up by credentials that come from winning a total of seven national and international awards.

"I won the Sleight of Hand cham: pionship in 1982 in Las Vegas - that was a national award - then in 1984 I won the Sleight of Hand championship in international competition," King said of the awards he is most proud about.

"In turn I won tons of work, so I've been pretty successful."

King has been pretty successful for the entire 15 years he's been a professional entertainer. He books about 200 shows a year now from his home base in Lansing and bas appeared from coast to coast, mostly as a headliner, but also with the stars of legerdemain, such as David Copperfield, Doug Henning and Harry Blackstone.

This week he's headliner for "A Very Special Valentine Day Show" that begins immediately after a 6:30 p.m. dinner in Miss Kitty's Comedy Club -- the Long Branch - in Oxford

"You will definitely need reservations," said a spokeman for the Long Branch. "He's only going to be doing one show and it will be special."

King said "Every one of them is tailor made - for the season, for the audience, for the occasion:"

KING PRODUCES videos through his own company in Lansing, mostly for corporations, and does all of the writing that is connected with the finished work

"I do this because magic shows only take up an hour or so and I have 23 hours left in every day to produce videos," he said. "I like the writing end of the video productions and I write all of my own presentations.

"I write different presentations for different affairs - if it's a night club act, a kids show, a college show, a trade show, a banquet.".

According to King, the Valentine Day show will be "light hearted."

"It will be magic mixed with comedy for that special event," he said. "I don't think there is a name for it. It's visual comedy, good natured and a lot of fun."

King has appeared half a dozen times before in the Long Branch and is one of the club's favorites as he runs the gamut from side splitting comedy to spell binding magic.

ALL OF KING'S shows include audience participation. Some in the audience are asked to help assist him. Some are asked to select cards or think of a number in his acts of mental telepathy.

"I do four illusions that are very strong visually," he said. "They are pretty heavy stuff and they can leave an audience gasping. So I have

Chuck King has been pretty successful with his sleight of hand, so much so that he has been a headliner coast-to-coast and has opened for such well known magicians as David Copperfield, Doug Henning and Harry Blackstone.

ness of the hippo doing pirouettes in "Fantasia."

BUT IT didn't matter. They were there to have fun. They came seeking authenticity. It was like the automobile chase scene from "Risky Business," where Tom Cruise, in his dad's car, outruns the bad guys chasing him, turns to the woman in the passenger seat, pats the steering wheel and says "Porsche. There is no substitute."

That's the way 65-year-old Ruth Day of Garden City saw it. She was standing in line with her daughter, Renee, 30, also of Garden City: Neither was wearing red stillettos. and watched McCartney wind up and hit the first chords of "Sgt. Pepper."

That was it; end of comparison.

This wasn't slick in the cheap sense of the word. This was 25 years of musical genius on stage, in front of your eyes, playing something you'd only seen in studio films of The Beatles. Flawless. Sounding exactly like the album. Playing it the way you've never heard it before - live, with the bass reverberating in the hollow of your chest.

And don't forget the charm.

After "Sgt. Pepper," McCartney stood up straight, smiled, held his newer music, and it was very well received by the audience. However, it was his musicfrom The Beatles, played live for this first time during this tour, that brought the crowd to its feet.

"It's the quality of his music and his personality that I like, but I'm just here to keep her company," Ruth said, winking at her daughter. Renee is a member of McCartney's fan club — The Wings Fun Club — which was the network McCartney used to announce his world tour.

Ruth and Renee already had seen him in Chicago, the muchballyhooed performance highlighted on Dan Rather's "48 Hours." They were back for more at The Palace on opening night.

"It's the music and the way he portrays it. It's very exciting," Ruth said.

Another reason music like McCartney's holds its own is evident every day.

A local radio station had set up a portable, trailer-sized boom box outside the main entrance to The Palace. Heavy metal music was pouring out of the speakers, so that sound was fresh in everyone's minds when the doors opened and the crowd moved into the arena.

WITH NO basis for comparison, many would have said it sounded all right. But that thought only lasted until people went inside his bass across his chest and bowed from the waist, exactly as he did 26 years ago on "The Ed Sullivan Show." It wasn't lost on the audience.

Seven-year-old Donnie Kimberley of Southfield probably didn't know what to make of it. He was at the concert with his uncle, Brian Sinta, who had never seen McCartney before but had been a fan since he was 5. That was 23 years ago.

Donnie must have been hanging onto his seat for all he was worth. When McCartney bowed, the crowd cheered so hard that the floor shook. Some people who were standing reached out instinctively to grab a seat and steady themselves.

"WE'VE NEVER been to The Palace before," said Mike Matuszewski with an "I'm lying" smile. Matuszewski, of Birmingham, is a die-hard basketball fan who probably would move into one of the suites ringing the inside of The Palace, if he thought he could get away with it.

He probably was typical of the fans there -30s, tired of listening to the stuff on the radio today. For him, seeing McCartney probably was like rereading a good book instead of picking a paperback off the rack in the supermarket line.

New music: Stones' throw away from success

"We're not obligated to buy the new music or like the new music. But we are obligated to get the hell out of the way."

- Pete Townshend, of The Who, speaking at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame induction ceremonies.

There's a problem in the world of rock'n'roll. It goes like this:

In this corner, we have the timehonored, cherished bands that started out in the '60s and continue, through word of mouth alone, to draw hundreds of thousands to their concerts at ever-increasing prices.

And in that corner we have the bands, more than a few, that started in the '80s, are good and deserve to be heard, but can't get air time or recognition because they're getting squeezed out by their predecessors, who've already staked out the territory.

"It's a dog-eat-dog world; it's always been very competitive," said Charlie O'Brien, music director with radio station CKMR-FM. "My feeling is that whatever the market will bear, it'll support. I don't think the older bands are stealing any money, the market is huge."

But one person put it this way:

"If radio stations in 1964 had played nothing but the '50s music of Buddy Holly and Frankie Valli, they might have crowded out two bands that were trying to come up that year — The Rolling Stones and The Beatles." THAT ISN'T to say the Stones concert wasn't good. It was excellent, and some would argue it takes years — decades — of experience to put on a performance like that.

"If they (older groups) want to (still cut albums and perform), there's no reason why they can't," said Gary Palmer, music director at WLLZ-FM. "The Stones proved they can still be creative in their 40s."

But, then again, how many more times can you listen to "Ruby Tuesday" in this lifetime? It doesn't mean the Stones' music is bad; quite the contrary.

However, if they write new songs but won't play them, and in-

Right-brainer patterns often need limitations

Dear Readers:

Today's column is a continuation of right- and left-brain information with help from Delores Lamping, a social worker with the Farmington Counseling Service:

The right brain person, R/p, has a difficult time with limits. Given a choice, the R/p would operate as if there were no limits on anything time, money, calories, energy, etc. - until life confronts him.

A R/p may hardly notice his collection of clutter until he can no longer walk through his office. Or a woman may eat as much as she wants until she suddenly realizes she can no longer wear her clothes because she has outgrown them, Credit card spending can go unabated until a huge bill is received.

Either way, the desired adultadult relationship is foiled and a nowin situation evolves.

By the time a R/p does decide to change his behavior and set limits for himself, the accumulation of clutter, fat, debt or whatever may be so overwhelming that it's difficult to correct. Also, at that point theR/p often tends to take an all-or-nothing approach. some other time and place. Almost any "shelter" magazine these days will feature a rock star living in a Knossos-style palace, or some minor peeress lolling about on a Victorian chaise, or a fashion mogul weekending in a log cabin, his fax machine cunningly concealed in a butter churn. And the other 98 per cent of the population is "doing" country, following the example of Marie Antoinette, who was fond of dressing like a milkmaid.

All of these people would find something to love among the moderately priced reproductions at Structural Accents in Royal Oak. (Well, all right, maybe not Marie Antoinette, but what did she know?)

Chances are, you will too. Even if your particular niche is the latter part of the 20th century, it's almost guaranteed that you'll find a nostalgic little something to modify your surroundings. A scarlet Victorian lampshade, perhaps, lavished with fringe and embroidery. Or a casting of a head from a 16th century British castle. Or a column.

There are lots of columns: Doric, lonic, Corinthian and hybrids that would have astonished the Roman

"THE COLUMNS ARE one of our most popular items," said owner Robert Karazim, who opened Structural Accents exactly one year ago. "People use them to. support everything from fish tanks to microwave ovens. They're made in Redford and are a fantastic buy. The cheapest is only $18. A national catalog has our $45 column listed at $245."

Karazim started out remodeling pre-1940 houses. He became an expert at finding - what else? structural accents; so much of an expert that lumber yards began to call him for advice. The logical step was to open a shop, he decided.

"Business has been better than I ever dreamed," said Karazim. "But it's evolved from an architectural restoration store to more of a decorating shop. We get a lot of business from decorators and photographers. Our columns have been featured in an automobile ad in Time magazine and in the Virginia state lottery commercial.

"Naturally, we see a lot of people restoring older homes, plus owners of new condos who want to give character to boxy rooms.'

You know you've come home when you walk through the door and Karazim, or his associate, Sandy Voytowich, open the conversation with "Hi, any questions I can answer for you?"

THIS ISN'T A casual question. Voytowich has the soul of a docent and the knowledge of one who (with husband Richard) used to buy old houses and remodel them. "I hated black, adding shadows where none exist, accenting the piece's details. The thicker the yogurt is applied, the faster it will work." Needless to say, yogurt bacteria won't grow in cold weather.

Want to make Voytowich's day? Ask her for something the store doesn't have.

"THREE WOMEN WALKED in one and said they wanted mailboxes that were really different." She beams at the memory. "We didn't have anything; so I called Ameritech 800 information. They gave me a number and that number gave me a lead, and finally I found these in upper New York State."

"These are mailboxes shaped like wildlife and eponymously named "Hare-Mail," "Mail-lard," "Postal Pussycat" and "Bass Box." Priced around $150, each is signed by the artist.

"Two of the women loved them and bought them right away. The other one is holding out for a mail-between 20 and 30 double rolls a week,"Karazim said.

> IT'S EASY TO see why. The original product, Lincrusta, is a deeply sculpted linoleum-like material. Invented in 1877, it was created to imitate plaster, leather, metalwork and wood and it does so with elegance. It adorns several Rockefeller mansions, the Carnegie mansion in New York and the California State Capitol. Many installations are 100 years old and have become harder with time. box-castle. I haven't found one yet, but I will," she said.

Karazim, encourged by the store's success, has diversified into original designs. A smoked glass placemat is "very, very close" to acceptance by a major Chicago mail-order company.

But the item dearest to his heart is the "Tree of Life door, ($1,200), an adaptation of a Frank Lloyd Wright design. Made by Cooper Art Glass, one of the world's top glass conservationists, the design is somewhat simpler than the original, but the master's influence is evident. Smaller (c.5-by-15-inch) reproductions of Wright's window designs are available also.

In short, this is a the kind of a store that you're going to be ambivalent about. It's tempting to brag to your friends about the wonderful prices and the neat stuff and the solicitous staff. On the other hand, if everybody knows about it, maybe Voytowich and Karazim won't have time to treat your problem as their own.

Construction safety draws mixed interest

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Safety records seemingly are not high on the list of priorities of corporate owners, facility directors or developers when choosing a contractor for a job.

But in today's world of rising insurance costs and liability, contractors are beginning to stress safety. records when selling themselves.

A study released by Du Pont last year says only 20 percent of decision makers mention safety performance as a criteria when considering a contractor, according to John T. Manix, the safety director at Campbell/ Manix Inc.

"That's extremely low when you consider the impact of safety on the construction site," Manix said. He added a contractor's ability to meet budget and completion date-requirements is often paramount to expertise in safety precautions.

But safety-conscious contractors are stressing safety records to owners and facility directors as selling points in the highly competitive bidding contests that mark major construction projects, he said.

Companies that lack safety programs or fail short of high standards should be disqualified by owners as a potential contractor because construction accidents result in lost worker hours, costly and time-con- don't." suming lawsuits and a tarnished

Plymouth, said one reason owners. and facility directors may not ask about safety is they assume the big companies are naturally going to be safe companies.

"They look at it as a given. It certainly is one of our (the industry's) biggest concerns. It's part of the overall sell. When we go in and sell our company we're selling our on site supervision and a big part of that is safety."

John Gleichman, corporate safety and loss control director for Barton Malow Co., said in the past, owners and facility directors have shifted liability for safety to the contractor.

BUT COURTS in recent years have ruled against site owners and held them liable for monetary and even criminal - damages, he said. "Companies are sitting up and taking notice, but until more of these cases occur, you won't see most owners being concerned about safety," Gleichman said.

Martin of Walbridge Aldinger said during presentations to owners, safety probably ranks third in importance behind schedule and costs.

"It used to be the big three were schedule, costs and quality, but safety is becoming increasingly important," he said. "From a sales standpoint, when we put together a presentation we bring safety up if they public image, Manix said.

Kevin Martin, marketing director of Walbridge Aldinger Co., formerly of Livonia and now based in Detroit. said he is surprised so few owners and facility directors rank safety so low.

Martin said he suspects the Du Pont study is outdated. "In all the jobs we bid for, I've only seen an increase in the interest in safety."

THE OWNER and facility directors he deals with ask for safety records, copies of safety programs and safety standards, Martin said. "We and other contractors invest a lot of time and energy into developing and maintaining good safety records."

Randall DeRuiter, vice president of operations at R.A. DeMattia Co. in ty records have an edge during job bids because they can afford to establish safety programs, he added.

DeMattia's DeRuiter said for owners and facility directors that do ask, safety still falls below schedule, cost, and quality concerns. "Quality especially is a great concern with the people we're dealing with — peo-ple are very attuned to quality."

According to the Michigan Department of Labor, worker compensation claims have increased in the 1980s. There were 5,636 private sector construction accidents in 1987. the most current figures available. In 1986, 5,098 cases, and in 1985, 4,841 workmen compensation claims JOB-RELATED injury costs are substantial. More than $9.2 million was paid out on 1987 constructionrelated worker compensation claims - with many claims still unre-r said. solved, according to the department figures.

Lost worker hours is also substantial. In 1987, there were 12 injuries for every 100 construction employees. Those injuries resulted in 132.1 days lost per 100 employees with the average time out being 23 lost work days, according to department figures.

Government watchdog groups are also emphasizing greater safety, Gleichman said. The Occupational Health and Safety Administration (OHSA) division of the labor department is cracking down on construction site safety violations.

Corporate owners, facility_directors and developers still have the impression that extensive safety mea-

To combat that impression, Manix said his firm is pushing the savings benefits associated with safety-conscious construction. Safety-conscious contractors can compete with others because insurance companies offer reduced rates for good safety records and safety programs. When combined with a lack of lost work hours and costly lawsuits, the insurance savings enables a safety-conscious firm to compete on equal footing with most firms.

Despite growing awareness by contractors of a need for safety, maintaining safety on a construction site can still be difficult, Manix said.

cy difficult-to-maintain. Manix said. Exacerbating the already difficult situation, he said, is that tradesmen switch from contractor firm to contractor firm - sometimes on a dayto-day basis.

CONSISTENCY IS also difficult to maintain because contractors hire subcontractors for on-site tasks, Manix said. Keeping safety uppermost on a laborer's mind is challenging: trying to encourage another contractor's employees to think safety is doubly so.

"You really can't mandate safety. Edicts don't work; you have to get people to think safety," Manix said. Education and repetition is the best way to combat safety lapses.

"Before workers come on the job, ing settling or changes in humidity, so everyone is playing under the same rules and to make sure the foreman sends the worker out with the correct equipment.

Contractors who stress safety in their presentations for jobs, should also follow their own leads, Bartons Malow's Gleichman said. If a contractor wants to be hired for a good safety record, the contractor ought to make certain the subcontractors it hires are safety conscious as well.

Manix said many contractors try to subcontract with the same firms from project to project to further promote safety. This way, both firms are familiar with the same safety rules, and familiarity breeds consistency. - stallation.

Today's wood floors differ from earlier generations

(AP) - Whatever architectural style is favored, there's a style of hardwood flooring to complement it. But today's newly popular wood floors are no chip off the traditional block.

In addition to conventional solid wood, new prepackaged flooring constructed from thinner laminated, or layered, wood can be bought. In- __rustic, especially when wooden pegs stallation is different, too: These floors don't need to be nailed down. they just "float" in place on a thin foam layer, according to Better Homes and Gardens' Building Ideas magazine.

When most people think of hard-

Plank flooring uses both narrow and wide boards, so it looks more or decorative nails recreate the way the boards were first held down.

To install a solid wood floor, workers first lay a wooden subfloor. They nail the bare wood strips to the subfloor so the strips are permanently in place. If the wood is milled with a tongue-and-groove edge, which is usually the case, nails angle through the tongue of one strip and are hidden by the groove of its neighbor.

BECAUSE EVEN the best-laid floors can react to changes in humidity, experienced contractors deliver wood to the site at least three days before the scheduled installation to help the wood adjust to conditions and prevent buckling.

Simple friction against a <sup>1/3</sup>-inchthick closed-cell foam base holds the floor in place while allowing minute movement for expansion and contraction. Leaving a half-inch space (hidden by molding) around the room's perimeter creates the "floating" room.

Thanks to the foam, these wood floors can be installed over any sound surface, including concrete. Floating floors draw raves from remodelers, who can lay them without drastically changing the overall height of the floor. The foam pad also boosts insulation and reduces sounds transmitted between a home's floors.

Determine rules for clubhouse use

Several tenants at our condominium project want to use the clubhouse for parties. Our rules limit the use of the clubhouse to a co-owner. We have a situation where a coowner and a tenant both want to use the clubhouse on the same evening. Is there any problem giving the coowner priority?

This is a difficult question because the tenant is presumably renting the unit from a co-owner who would presumably have equal rights to the clubhouse as opposed to another coowner. Presumably his tenant steps into the same shoes from a légal standpoint as the landlord/co-owner.

erage includes the use of the clubhouse, which is presumably a common element of the condominium. But to be absolutely safe, it may be appropriate to insure that the person who is using the clubhouse indemnfifies and holds harmless the association from any liability incurred as a result of the use of the clubhouse. It may also be appropriate to ask the co-owner, to the extent reasonable, to provide you with adequate insurance covering his use of the clubhouse, particularly if there is a casualty. The association must be concerned about potential liability for an injury occasioned by a raucous party at the clubhouse or, for that matter, potential dram shop liability in the event that someone becomes

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales
