Man to serve life in prison

By Tedd Schneider

staff writer

A Westland man was sentenced to life in prison without parole Tuesday in the stabbing death of an 81-yearold neighbor at the victim's mobile home last October.

James Vincent Ferrari, 27, received the mandatory sentence from Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Wendy M. Baxter. Moments after the sentencing, a May 4 trial date was set for Ferrari on a second set of charges stemming from the kidnapping and armed robbery of a Van Buren Township cab driver last July.

Ferrari was convicted March 14 of the murder of Haskel Walworth following a 31/2-day bench trial. Walworth was stabbed five times in the chest and back Oct. 5 at his home in a the Mohawk Court Mobile Home Park on Joy, west of Inkster Road.

Ferrari addressed the judge briefly during Tuesday's sentencing.

"I'd like to say that I'm very sorry for what happened," he told the judge. "I did not plan or premeditate this. Obviously that was your decision and I have to live with it."

BAXTER EXPLAINED the difference between first-degree murder and a killing committed during the commission of a felony, which she said is not necessarily premeditated. But she reminded Ferrari that both crimes carry the same maximum penalty.

Before the hearing, defense attorney Dennis Shrewsbury said Ferrari would "probably" appeal his conviction. "I won't represent him because I don't think it's a good idea for the same attorney to represent a client" in an appeal, Shrewsbury said.

was originally scheduled for Monday but adjourned when a pre-sentencing report wasn't completed in time.

Police testified Ferrari stabbed Walworth during a robbery at Walworth's home. Ferrari, who lived with his mother in the adjacent Big Trees Mobile Home Community, testified that he stabbed Walworth during an altercation in which his neighbor pushed him.

Walworth became upset when he overheard a telephone conversation in which Ferrari arranged a drug deal, the defendant testified.

Shrewsbury argued unsuccessfully that circumstances surrounding the stabbing, plus Ferrari's use of large amounts of alcohol and about 14gram of cocaine on the day of the murder, indicated his client should have been charged with second-degree murder.

THE MAXIMUM penalty for second-degree murder is life in prison with the chance of parole.

Ferrari was arrested noon on Oct. 6 when police spotted Walworth's car in a field behind C.W. Best Junior High School in Dearborn Heights. Ferrari, who hiding in heavy shrubs nearby, had keys to the car in his pocket when he was found by a Wayne County Sheriff's Department skipped Tuesday's sentencing, which tracking dog, police testified.

350 wait all night at Holliday

By Leonard Poger

Forget the Oklahoma land rush of 1889. Remember the great Westland housing rush of 1990.

More than 350 stayed up throughout the night Sunday to get the best spot in line for the reopened Holliday Park Townhouses waiting list.

Meanwhile, a group of Franklin Junior High School students was planning a walkout and march to nearby Wayne Memorial High School at 10:30 a.m. today to protest plans to trim the junior high school schedule by one class period beginning in September.

School officials Tuesday and Wednesday discouraged the walkout.

"There are much better ways to protest this than walking out of school," Leo Schuster, Franklin principal said Wednesday. "We met with student representatives this morning and discussed it," Schuster said.

The director said employees worked through the night following the "Associates Night" sale and party, at which store managers waited on hourly workers.

MEIJER CORPORATE chairman Fred Meljer told a gathering of city and community leaders at an opening-day reception that he wants the new store to be a good neighbor.

He cited the cooperation of city officials in preparing for the store's opening and thanked the Westland Historical Commission for providing photos of local scenes from the turn of the century. The enlarged photos are displayed in the store's cafeteria area.

Fourth-, fifth- and sixth-grade art enrichment students from adjacent Patchin Elementary School under the direction of teacher Pal. Vartanian, hung a "Patchin Patriot Pride" banner from the school, welcoming the new business and its customers to the neighborhood.

THE WESTLAND Meijer, one of five new stores the company plans on opening this year, is a prototype Meijer Inc. operation for the 1990s, according to Michals, Both the exterior and the interior feature an updated look with lots of neon.

Superintendent Dennis O'Neill also said the walkout, if it occurred, would be "counterproductive" to the students' cause.

ABOUT 130 people jammed into the school board offices during Tuesday's regular meeting to discuss the $4 million in staff and program cuts approved by the board March 22 to help cope with a projected $5 million to $7 million budget deficit.

District voters overwhelmingly rejected three tax proposals in a special election Feb. 8. The proposals were designed to eliminate the projected deficit, school officials said.

cop calls

AN EMPLOYEE at the A. L. Price drug store, Wayne and Warren roads, told police that someone attacked him late Saturday night, officers said.

The employee said he was gathering shopping carts in the parking lot when a car drove up to him with one of its occupants calling to him by name.

The occupant then struck him in the face and wrestled him to the ground.

The employee broke free and ran into the store where he called police.

When officers arrived, the assallants had fled, police said. Police said the employee had a swelling and red mark on his cheek.

A WESTLAND Medical Center security guard told police early Monday morning that he was struck by a man who had been arrested by Dearborn police and brought to the emergency room for treatment, the Westland police department reported.

The man escaped after being treated in the emergency room and before he was scheduled to be taken to the nearby Psychiatric Intervention Center, police said.

The defendant was found near Greg's Emergency Room Lounge, across the street from the hospital on Palmer east of Merriman.

A WOMAN told police early Sunday morning that she was struck by her husband while he was intoxicated. She left the house with her 5-year-old child, the woman told

THE DEVELOPMENT, which opened 25 years ago as a non-profit housing cooperative, has seven different units with a monthly carrying charge of $162.50 for a one-bedroom townhouse to $244.50 for the three-bedroom unit.

It was the first time since February, 1984, that cooperative opened its waiting list.

Currently, there are nearly 50° names on the list, but the turnover has been slow.

Gene Suchy, treasurer for the cooperative's board of directors, said there were 48 move-outs in 1989. If all 350 persons who submitted applications Monday remain on the list, it would be seven years before all would move in.

There was a mini-traffic jam about 7:45 a.m. Monday when a Livonia school district bus couldn't get through because of other cars blocking Spring Valley, one of two major streets in the development.

Holding the "number one" spot in line was Andrea Zabkiewicz, who was holding the spot for her father, Fred, who lives in a Canton Township single-family house.

A brother, Tom, came in from Chicago to spend some time in line, using his cellular phone to make calls while killing time.

Despite the relatively low monthly carrying charges, the minimum income requirements for the smallest one-bedroom townhouse is $18,000 for employees. For nonworkers, the minimum income is $10,300, plus $50,000 in securities. To qualify for the largest threebedroom townhouse, the minimum income for workers is $35,500. For non-workers, it is $24,700 in income plus $110,000 in securities.

Resident among 15 sentenced in anti-abortion demonstration

By Joe Bauman staff writer

Fifteen pro-life activists, including a clergyman who lives in Westland, have been sentenced by a Livonla district judge for their participation in an anti-abortion demonstration in April 1989 at the women's health care clinic.

Those sentenced Friday are among a group of more than 40 people who were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and/or interfering with a police officer during the April 29 demonstration at the Livonia clinic.

The last of the demonstrators are scheduled to be sentenced April 5.

SENTENCES HANDED down by Judge Robert Brzezinski against the 15 defendants ranged from jail sentences plus fines to one person having his guilty plea taken under advisement, which means the charge will be dropped if he has no further contact with the judicial system over the next six months.

Calvin Garfield, 32, of Detroit was the only defendant among the group to plead guilty to his charge of disorderly conduct and had his plea taken under advisement by Brzezinski.

He received no fine but was ordered to pay $195 in court costs and was given six months probation.

The maximum penalty for a misdemeanor charge of disorderly conduct is 90 days in jail and a $500

Area must put brakes on growth — report

By Tim Richard staff writer

There's "a change of attitude" toward urban sprawl among local officials in the region, said Milton Mack, chair of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments

"Members communities have been reluctant to face it, but there has been a waste of resources, environmental damage and a high cost in taxes," Mack sald in response to last week's SEMCOG staff report. The report said public officials have lacked "the political will" to manage

"Most officials looked at growth as a way to generate a larger tax base," said Mack, a Democratic the city of Wayne. .

Thus local officials were surprised by "the stress on roads, the stress on sewers and the stress on lakes and streams. We've had a throwaway community society," Mack said in an interview.

The 21-year-old SEMCOG - composed of 140 local governments in seven counties — is supposed to be engaged in planning of transportation, community and economic development, water and air quality, solid waste and land use.

Nowak's boss, Oakland Executive Daniel T. Murphy, has taken heat from local officials the last two years for urging preservation of older communities and a slowdown of development along two-lane roads in unsewered farmlands.

An Oakland County commissioner Wayne County commmissioner from agreed SEMCOG leaders had worried little until the last year or two about sprawl.

"We've needed some of the new growth," said Marilynn Gosling, R-Bloomfield Hills. "But it takes a Lake Angelus protesting Auburn Mills (a megamall project in Auburn A TOP OAKLAND County offi- Hills north of Pontlac) to bring this (wetlands damage) to the attention

THE JARRING report came to SEMCOG's General Assembly lastweek from Edward J. Hustoles, deputy director in charge of planning.

"In the past decade, we've closed some 120 schools but built 212 new schools . . . with relatively little net gain of people and households - just a major rearranging of reshuffling of households, businesses and tax

"This is basically because, in a free enterprise system in major metropolitan regions, development declsions are in the hands of literally hundreds of governmental entities and thousands of private decision makes, each with their own agendas."

What is shocking public officials into changing their attitudes toward ward pressure on taxes followed by a taxpayers' revolt. Traffic tleups and damage to the environment were other major factors.

HUSTOLES SAID SEMCOG leaders should consider policies of "growth management."

This would mean "pacing development to coincide with the provision of infrastructure, thus preventing traffic problems such as are occurring in Southfield, Troy and other rapidly growing communities."

He said SEMCOG staff soon will present a work program aimed at measuring the infrastructure cost over the next 20 years.

Growth management will be difficult under Michigan law, which provides for township government, the proliferation of cities and little chance for annexation by cities, Hustoles sald.

In California, a county may have only four or five incorporated cities, with county government controlling the remaining area, he said. In con-

Hustoles concluded, "This is a real test of the elected officials' resolve to guide development in an orderly fashion."

Homeless Vietnam veteran Charles Winter tried for three years to get Supplementary Security Income (SSI) benefits.

Because he is illiterate Winter, 43, does not have the skills to pursue or follow up on his own application. And because he lives near a Lansing highway in a small tent bought with money he collected from cans and scrap metal, Winter never received

"The only time that I've ever been employed was back when I was 17 years old," said Winter, "At that time, I dropped out of school without, knowing how to read or write. I took on some odd jobs at the grocery store and some factory work, but nothing ever lasted too long. After jumping from job to job, I enlisted in the Army and was sent to Vietnam. This is where my troubles began. When I was honorably discharged from the service, I was a full-blown 'alcoholic."

Winter's plight finally reached the attention of Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Flint, who is promoting introduction of the Homeless Outreach Bill of

Past pain returns in new grieving

This is a continuation of a seposities drawing material from Karletyn Pasquel's book in progress, enlittled "Growing Through Grief." s iAll rights reserved.)

The experience of grief is an especially cruel one because it doesn't limit itself to the loss of a single loved one. When someone is grieving, the very process itself calls up numerous unresolved pains of the past to compound the devastation a person is already feeling. The more painful and unresolved one's past is, and/or the more loved one's past is, and/or the more loved ones he/she has lost without allowing grief its full work, the more difficult a griever's experience will be to bear.

It almost seems victous and incredibly insensitive to delve into seemingly unrelated past or present hurts when counseling a griever. Yet there are times when the grief seems a little too hard or a little too long. Daring to discover deeper issues underlying and antagonizing a griever's present pain can be the beginning of a far greater healing of the whole individual.

However, this person is exceptionally fragile at this time and should carefully consider professional counseling to help him through this healing. Otherwise, confusion and increased hopelessness can ensue to further the griever's anguish.

LET ME DESCRIBE some of the most common experiences expressed to me during private grief counseling which cannot help but influence the griever's whole experience and his/her potential for total healing.

(1) A woman's ex-husband died one year after he divorced her. She did not want the divorce and found herself now re-married to a man she did not love. She re-married in an effort to quench some of the pain of the unwanted divorce from the man she truly loved.

When people are hurting, it is very easy to attach themselves to anyone who brings some sense of relief from their pain. That's why I encourage people to wait at least two years after a death or divorce before they allow themselves to become involved in an exclusive relationship.

After they effectively work through their brokenness, the person who has been able to help them through the initial pains is no longer needed for comfort. That is when there must be more in that person's makeup for the healed griever to need and want of the relationship could suddenly seem far less than fulfilling. Grievers must work through their grief alone, although they need support from friends, family, and support groups.

But they still must work through their grief and heal the wounds so they can present a healthy, whole individual to others later on. This woman whose ex-husband died is grieving terribly for the man she feels she was inadequate to make happy. Her present husband cannot understand this behavior and is drawing away from this "mixed up" woman. She likewise resents his invasion of her right to grieve.

(2) A man loses his father. He cannot believe how hard it is for him to get through the pain. He has a wife and children and, to the world, has everything a man could want. Yet he is in a deeper despair than he ever imagined possible. In delicate examination of past influences on his present pain, this tormented man exposed the deepest secret he and only his father had, that his father had sexually abused him from the time he was a very young boy until he was in his early teens.

ALL THROUGH childhood and young adulthood, this poor man felt 'different," "dirty," unworthy, and guilty. He has never forgiven himself for not fighting his father off. Yet, when one remembers that the sexual abuse began before he was old enough to reason, how would he have known - or had the courage to stand up to his father? As every normal child, he looked up to his parents, for he had nothing to compare with until much later in life. How could he then continue a close relationship with his father after he was old enough to know?

Because he had already accepted a low concept of himself and his father accepted him even though he knew the worst. The son must come to terms with the reality of the past:

what was robbed from him as a child; where the true responsibilities were in the acts which took place over the years; be able to forgive his father's abuse after first acknowledging the wrongness of it and finally, and forgive himself wherever he may still hold himself accountable in order to fully resolve his father's death.

(3) A woman loses the second of the only two people in her life that she ever dared to truly love. Both deaths were bizarre and unusually tragic. This woman is terrified to let herself love anyone again for fear they will die. She has actually accepted a degree of responsibility for their deaths.

Why not? Everything she has ever truly cared about throughout her lifetime has been snatched out of her hands. This woman must find a way, through careful examination of past experiences, to see that she was not the cause of every pain in her loved one's lives.

There are many other examples, but the point I want to make is that grievers who are experiencing difficulty in dealing with their loss need to consider getting help to resolve the present and past issues which are prolonging and exacerbating their grieving process. The road to recovery is a frightening, painful one. But the joy of being whole is worth the struggle.

Pasquel, therapist and director of Foundational Living, will begin an eight-week group therapy program on Mondays from 7-8:30 p.m., beginning May 21 (excluding Memorial Day, May 28) through July 16. Interested persons may contact Pasquel at 326-

Puzzle-solver puts Smithsonian show together

By Arlene Funke special writer

Call him a high-tech puzzle-solver. John Fitzpatrick, a former Westland resident, is in Washington, D.C., helping curators at the Smithsonian Institute put together a complicated exhibit on the history of communication.

"It's a very unique, wonderful assignment," said l'itzpatrick, 34, who is employed by EDS Corp. in Auburn Hills.

The exhibit, entitled "Information Age: People, Information and Technology," is scheduled to open Wednesday, May 9.

FOR THE past six months, Fitzpatrick, now living in Redford Township, has spent most of his time in the nation's capital working with technicians and Smithsonian curators.

The exhibit will occupy 14,000 square feet in the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History at 14th Street and Constitution Avenue NW.

There will be more than 700 artifacts, including Samuel Morse's original telegraph, Alexander Graham Bell's original telephone and the Hollerith tabulating system used to compile results of the U.S. Census exactly 100 years ago.

"It's going to be fun for people to see it," said Fitzpatrick.

The exhibit is to run at least 10 years and is expected to attract 60 million visitors.

The exhibit is highly technical, with computerized interactive stations to demonstrate functions for visitors. "The curator fleshes it out and creates a story line. It's very much like making a movie. The result is a physical thing."

Visitors may stop at 14 video stations and 24 computer-driven work stations in the exhibit for hands-on use of computers and sophisticated interactive equipment.

"It isn't a show, strictly speaking, about how fast computers run. There is some of that, but that isn't the message people are trying to convey."

The World War II years, 1940-45, yielded a bonanza of information-gathering technology. This section has military decoders. There also is a re-creation of a combat information center. Visitors may be able to encipher their own names, then break the code.

Later periods explore the effect of television, including the televised debates between John Kennedy and Richard Nixon. Many historians believe Kennedy's calm, confident demeanor tipped the 1960 presidential election in his favor.

FITZPATRICK BELIEVES his forte is combining technical ability with skills in problem-solving and dealing with people.

A self-described Army brat, he considers the Southwest home. He is a graduate of Notre Dame University where he majored in Great Books.

"It's an uplifting type of education. It's an indepth study of western thinking and culture, theology and science."

He began his career in 1979 as a programmer and analyst for General Motors and transferred to EDS when the two companies merged. His job title is business planning specialist.

In previous assignments Fitzpatrick was the project leader for technical studies on behalf of Eastman Kodak and the U.S. Department of Defense.

Fitzpatrick is pleased that the Smithsonian project has remained on schedule. He has been invited to a black-tie reception Sunday, May 6, to celebrate the opening of the exhibit. Then, with his work completed, he'll wait for his next assignment.

Fitzpatrick acknowledges his frequent business traveling puts a burden on wife Susan, a teacher at a Montessori school in Dearborn, and on the couple's three children.

"It's difficult on the family. I talk to them daily. If I were single I wouldn't mind at all."

When Fitzpatrick comes home on

Effective mix Lesson learned not in books

among a group of parents in Livonia Public Schools, which includes the northern section of Westland, because of boundary changes shifting students from-one building to another.

There were a lot of fears expressed about what school life would be in the new school, and disappointment that students would have to leave a school building where they felt comfortable.

Those fears are nothing new to Wayne-Westland school district parents and students when the school went through a series of controversial school closings. More recently, there were parents and students protesting the transfer of Wayne Memorial High School teachers to John Glenn High because of enrollment changes.

In the Livonia district, one change which created the greatest stir was the move of gifted students from Cass Elementary to Webster Center. The objections really were twofold.

MANY PARENTS were upset about gifted students moving from Cass because they believed that a magnet center was the best approach to educate students who were coping with social and academic problems because of their giftedness.

Other parents were upset because students were moving to Webster, a center for the Trainable Mentally Impaired which serves developmentally disabled students from Livonia and other districts in western Wayne County. These parents felt it was wrong to combine gifted and mentally impaired in the same building.

The Wayne County Intermediate School District had urged Livonia and other districts to place secondary TMI students out of Webster to middle schools and high schools in their home

This change also created concerns among parents of these students who had fears about how the impaired students would be accepted by other students and whether this shift was in their learning atmosphere in which two different ing was closing the Cass magnet center and learned — not only by students.

AST YEAR there was a great deal of concern moving, gifted students to Webster. And so the Livonia Observer decided to check on life at Webster six months into the school year to see how the remaining elementary level TMI and the gifted students were getting along.

> FIRST, THE school formed a new PTA organization to represent both student groups.

This was a new experience for parents of disabled students who were more accustomed to membership in special education support groups and parent advisory councils. Initially, "wethey" attitudes existed among parents, but eventually that line was erased and parents working together created an "us" atmosphere.

Parents began to key in on how their students were alike, rather than how they were different. As one parent observed: "There's a tremendous similarity, even though they're on opposite ends of the spectrum. Neither group of students fits into the normal academic program. Both need special programs."

When we visited Webster we also were impressed with the free interaction of both sets of students. Science lab, art and music rooms, and the instructional materials center are shared. During lunch hour and recess the students are found together. And the names of all 326 students (230 gifted and 96 impaired aged 3-14) appear on the school T-shirt. And we found examples of gifted students helping the impaired, in a tutoring, assisting way.

There was not any talk of students being "harmed" or "held back." While it is true that parents still harbor some concern, almost all the attitudes and comments heard were positive. We found that this "grand experiment" is working well and that both sets of students are benefiting from this intermingling of different yet similar young people.

We applaud the students, parents, and staff at Webster Center for creating such a positive groups of students are learning how much alike Of all the boundary shifts last year the one they really are and are benefiting from their cowhich probably generated the most intense feel- existence. This first six months, a lot has been

we won't have to trim or water'em. That's Cheap.

There's a difference between free speech and intimidation

IT WAS A familiar scene.

There were these Right-to-Lifers, parading up and down the sidewalks, carrying their usual baggage signs that said "Stop Abortion," "No More Baby Killing" and, their favorite, a fully formed fetus splattered on an American Flag with the words "America's Holocaust - Abortion" prominently displayed.

It was a familiar scene - played out every week in front of clinics around the area. Another week, another clinic.

But this time it was different. They weren't in front of the clinics. They were in the residential neighborhoods where the doctors lived on the streets of West Bloomfield. Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township and Orchard Lake. And not all of the doctors whose homes were being picketed ran so-called abortion clinics. Some were simply legitimate obstetricians and gynecologists with private practices.

That didn't matter to the Lifers. In their eyes, they were all abortionists. The whole affair, conducted a couple of weekends ago, was clearly an attempt to intimidate and harass people who didn't share their particular vision of the world.

NOT SO, said Lynn Mills, a Livonia resident and the unofficial mouthpiece for the demonstrators.

"We're out here to mourn the children and educate the neighbors," she said. "I know that if an abortionist were my neighbor I would want to know."

Christine Jones, another Lifer

The notion that if you are not ashamed of what you do then you won't mind pickets marching in front of your house 'educating' your neighbors is sheer nonsense.

from Ann Arbor, echoed the sanctimonious nature of their cause.

"We're not hindering anybody in their privacy or their lifestyle," she said. "We're just making it known that these people kill children."

Is that all? Gosh, I guess I misjudged these homespun educators. They were just performing a public

If they had been parading in front of your house carrying signs that said "A Jew lives here" or "A Christian lives here" or "A Republican lives here" would that have bothered

It shouldn't, according to the logic of Mills and the marchers.

"If being an abortionist is credible," she said, "if it's an honorable profession, then they won't be up-

Would Mills be upset if a motley group of people started parading in front of her house carrying signs that said "A person who wants to impose her views on everybody else lives here"?

Maybe it wouldn't bother her, but the notion that if you are not ashamed of what you do then you won't mind pickets marching in front of your house "educating" your neighbors is sheer nonsense.

The line between legitimate demonstrations and harassment is often a fuzzy one. Legitimate protests are protected; harassment is not. When the Lifers - or any other group of protesters - take their crusades into residential neighborhoods they have, as far as I am concerned, crossed the line.

AND THAT'S too bad because now Big Brother is starting to get involved.

Bloomfield Hills has just enacted an ordinance making protests in residential neighborhoods illegal. Whether the ordinance would pass a court test or not is anybody's guess. It is based on a similar, but not identical, law passed by a Wisconsin city that has been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

I don't like laws like that. They tamper with free speech.

But we are going to see more of them as long as these radical groups continue to confuse "free speech" with "intimidation."

Earth Day

Cleanup must begin at home

■ ARTH DAY is coming. That- means we will be reading and hearing plenty about such environmental issues as preservation of the Brazilian rain forest, elimination of chloro-flurocarbons (CFCs) and prevention of environment-ravaging oil spills. All of these are issues of global impor-

What must be remembered, however, is that cleaning the world also means cleaning our own

We, in southeast Michigan, are no different from other Americans — or from other citizens from other nations. For too long, we've paid too little attention to the world around us. That must

IN MANY ways, change is already evident. But nagging environmental problems persist: , • It's encouraging that individuals from many southeastern Michigan communities con- try. tribute their time each year to cleaning the heavily polluted Rouge River.

But it's discouraging many of the communities themselves are involved in a lawsuit to protect their outmoded sewers — the primary source of Rouge pollution.

• It's encouraging that many communities have begun recycling programs.

But it's discouraging that so few markets have been found, to this point, for recycled goods especially recycled newsprint.

 It's encouraging that many area stores have begun marketing "environmentally conscious" products, often on specially marked shelves.

But it's discouraging that, in many stores, shoppers can take their goods home in non-recyclable plastic bags.

Likewise, it's discouraging many stores continue to stamp the label "blodegradable" on products, even though environmentalists say that even biodegradable products will deteriorate too slowly to play any role in easing our landfill cri-

The original Earth Day, 20 years ago, represented a grass-roots approach, bringing individual citizens together to make their opinion known to government and industry.

Earth Day 20, Sunday, April 22, should provide a similar forum. If there's a difference it's that we now have the understanding that individual responsibility is also important.

IT'S DIFFICULT to equate our individual responsibility with that of the government of Brazil, or, for that matter, the Exxon Valdez.

Nonetheless, we can do much, as consumers

For too long, we've paid too little attention to the world around us. That must change.

and citizens, to influence government and indus-

As consumers, we should pledge our allegiance to goods in environmentally safe packaging — as well as to products that have already been recy-

Returning to cloth diapers and building a back yard compost pile, for yard waste, are other steps each of us could take to help the environ-

Producers won't move toward recycling until they believe a market exists among consumers.

AT THE same time, we should let our local government know that we are willing to pay the cost necessary to eliminate outmoded sewers, as well as to begin local or regional recycling programs - including ones for tires and car batteries, a pair of particular environmental problems. · These suggestions are neither easy nor cheap, but all are necessary.

Landfill space is decreasing. We urge the state Department of Natural Resources to hold off on licensing any new landfills until the communities they would serve have recycling plans up and operating.

Landfills, with their potential for air and water pollution, are yesterday's waste disposal solution. While some additional landfills might well be necessary, every landfill licensed under the present setup is a setback to recycling and other more responsible approaches.

There was a time when we could throw waste materials away, without worrying about where they were headed. Today, that is a luxury we can no longer afford.

There's no mistaking the environmental importance of the rain forests, or the ozone layer. But Earth Day must begin at home.

Autism program is debated

To the editor:

I want to comment about the March 19 story on the Burger Center for autistic students.

Garden City school board member Tyszkiewicz does indeed see the sltuation clearly. By deciding to operate the autistic program in the Burger building for another year, progress was put off yet again. The majority of autistic students in Wayne County will remain in a dilapidated, asbestos-filled building. In addition, while the fate of the center program floats in limbo, individual districts remain reluctant to create classroom options for those students who might benefit from something other than the totally segregated environment which Bu ger currently provides.

May I point out that educational options for autistic students are not a black and white issue as you presented, i.e., either a segregated school like Burger or the placement of autistic students in regular class-with trained and certified teachers, small class size and all other necessary services, may be placed in an age appropriate regular education building. In these settings, various degrees of mainstreaming in academic, non-academic and social aclivities may be encouraged.

As for the quote from Temple Grandin, "Younger children at the center do need contact with other children . . . Higher functioning older children can succeed outside the center . . . " Was Ms. Grandin made aware that the Burger program provides for no contact with non-handicapped peers whatsoever? Was she made aware of the limited efforts being made to prepare older students for life after Burger?

In all of Ms. Grandin's published writings she has stressed the importance of a normalized environment to an autistic person's development. It appears that she was praising the Burger program as it should be rather than as it presently exists.

I am the parent of a 6-year-old son with autism. With no small difficulty, we were able to make a place for him in Webster School in Livonia. His placement there is tenuous, however. Whether one considers the narrower issue of building safety, or the larger issue of program options for is clear that tarring the roof of Burger Center does little to address our real problems.

Judge fumbles ball from bench

FOR MY money, Oakland Circuit. Judge Jessica Cooper behaved like a petulant child last week when she chastized a lawyer and his client for questioning the judge's objectivity.

At issue is Cooper's handling of the case involving Karl Blomquist, a Farmington-area engineer who sued a Troy auto components company claiming wrongful discharge.

Details are always important, but for the sake of brevity, I will focus on those pertaining to how Judge Cooper handled this case, rather than the relative merits of each side. That's before the Michigan Court of Appeals anyway.

To shorten a long story, Cooper last June dismissed the suit by Blomquist and assessed him $1,000.

She dld so, however, without advising Blomquist's lawyer that 18 months earlier she hired the firm that defended the Troy company to represent her in an unrelated civil matter.

NOR DID Cooper disclose she was dating a member of that firm, although he appeared to have no direct involvement in the Blomquist case.

It would have been a simple thing for Cooper to disclose those circumstances. She could have done so quietly, in the privacy of her chambers. Blomquist and his lawyer, Ronald J. Prebenda, would then have the option of asking that the case be reassigned.

For my money, Cooper had an obligation to advise Blomquist and his lawyer. Not doing so was simply bad Judgment.

What is inexcusable, in my opinion, is the childish manner in which Cooper behaved when Blomquist did what the legal system gives him the right to do — complain to the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission.

Blomquist complained to the com-and professional involvement with members of the law firm may have compromised the judge's objectivity.

LOOK AT it from Blomquist's view. First, he's fired for what he believes are invalid reasons. Then, when he takes the matter to court, Blomquist draws a judge who has ties with the firm representing the people he claimed fired him improp-

No wonder he objected.

I believe Cooper reacted badly in court when she chastized Blomquist and Prebenda. Biomquist was exercising his right and Prebenda, regardless of what he told him, had a duty to advise his client of the undisclosed relationship AND what he could do about it.

Yet in Cooper's courtroom, the judge accused Blomquist, Prebenda or both of attempting to "embarrass and harass this court by calling into question its previous decision granting summary disposition in favor of defendants."

Cooper referred to Blomquist's action as an unwarranted and "personal attack which (sic) has culminated into an ongoing vendetta fueled by scurrilous and unfounded accusa-

Police quick to abuse powers

POLICE HAVE enormous powers. Police can tow away someone's car. Police can arrest a person. Police can even kill a human.

Worse, police can effectively hide the name of the officer who did the killing for months. They can't do it legally, but they can do it effectively, (Evening News Assn. v. Troy, 417 ~ Mich. 481.)

Even when police investigate their own mistakes, a police review board can black out three-quarters of the report and hide it for many months. (Post-Newsweek Stations v. Detroit Police Department, Michigan Appeals Court, 1989.)

In Monroe, police wouldn't reveal who was locked up in the city jail shades of South Africa or the Spanish Civil Guard.

In many suburbs, police use up half the local governmental budget. Even if they never have had a major shootout, they want sophisticated new firearms to keep up with the drug dealers.

THAT IS WHY it's so necessary for citizens and reporters -- who are just citizens with notebooks - to scrutinize police activities.

The Pontiac police refused to release the report of its investigation, saying it was "departmental policy not to release records to outside individuals when a police matter was pending" - long after Mack was in prison. In the Monroe case, she said, "an assistant prosecutor told me that someone from the Wayne County prosecutor's office told them they could be sued because prisoners have a bad habit about lying about their names." Her point: Even legal counsel for police departments don't know the FOI law.

Phillips went on to cite a letter from a lawyer to the Canton Police Department suggesting stronger scutiny of what is made public: "If, for example, information is released in violation of one of the exemptions to the Freedom of Information Act created by statute, the information, if sensitive, could result in liability to the township."

The police lawyer had it backwards:

• One can't violate the FOIA by releasing information. I read a lot of appellate court decisions, and I've yet to see one where police were held liable for releasing information.

• Police can be sued for hiding information - as in the Evening News, Post-Newsweek and Mack

WHAT'S BEHIND the increasing secretiveness of police?

Stephen Cain of the Ann Arbor News may have put his finger on it when he said that police there were "responding to prominent people in the community" who didn't like seeing their names, or the names of their kids, in print.

The Greeks had a word for it: plutocracy, government by the rich.

Usually the code word is "right to privacy." But that's just a code word. The issue is secrecy.

And police have too much power for Americans to let them operate in

World history texts need changes

Q: My son's social studies world history textbook looks about the same as the one I had 20 years ago. There has been some updating to the '80s, but most of the chapters are basically the same. I enjoyed world history, but it seems more is going on in the world today than is being presented in my son's world history textbook. Do you know what I mean?

A: Yes, I know what you mean. More is going on in the world today than is presented in the present world history textbooks. Remember, however, that change has occured so rapidly in the last few years it will take time to catch up. Nevertheless, world history textbooks have always tended to fucus on the ancient Middle East (the Egyptian) and the European contributions to our own culture. For years, I've watched book panies make token jesters to include some "non-Western" cultures simply as cultures to be discussed. beyond Europe and America in their world history textbooks but nothing of any real substance.

Don Johnson, a professor at N.Y.U., says world history, as presently taught in high schools, centers around European history and its impact on the United States. He sees the major focus as the march for human freedom from the ancient Middle East, the Egyptian times, to Europe and then on to America.

China, India, Africa do appear briefly in some world history textbooks. However, they are primarily viewed as countries which became colonies under the control of the Europeans, as opposed to having any impact upon world civilization. Indeed, textbooks tend to view European history as the important world history and China, Africa, India, the modern Middle Eastern countries This frame of mind borders on being an American western elitist mentali-

THEREFORE, I agree with you that what appears in today's world history textbooks does not entirely reflect what has occurred in the 'larger' world since man's existence. There is an urgent need for world history textbooks — or at least local school districts' social studies curriculums — to include Hispanics, Asians, blacks, and the modern Middle East whose people will make up the majority of United States citizens in the next century.

It has been well researched that Hispanics, blacks and Asians are having more children than whites; whites will be the minority race in the 21st Century. This factor, alone, for better understanding of each other, should be sufficent encouragement to change our world history textbook format.

But change takes time, especially in education. Many of today's world history teachers are teaching what they were taught in college 15 to 25 years ago. The new breed coming out of the universities have had much more exposure to the multiculriculum input, in-service training years.

and, or course, appropriate materials. I am not sure that has happened in most school districts yet.

All this notwithstanding, we need a more expansive and integrated world history textbook. A world history textbook which treats all civilizations and their beliefs with dignity, not just some isolated cultures for some cursory attention. Frankly, I want a world history that acknowledges the multiculural world in which my grandchildren will live.

MANY SCHOOL districts are beginning to deal with this issue on their own. However, the textbook companies will continue to put out basically the same social studies world history textbook you had 20 years ago until their marketing department believes local school districts will support and purchase a tural world history approach. I'm more multicultural oriented world sure today's social studies teachers history textbook. # A resourceful repast

Schoolcraft's WRC savors successful fund-raiser

By Sue Mason staff writer

T TOOK 85 pounds of spaghetti noodles and 50 gallons of sauce to feed the crowd, and what a crowd it was.

The size brought smiles to the face of Nancy Swanborg. Some 400 people turned out for the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center spaghetti dinner last week, one of the largest turnouts ever for the fund-raiser.

"I've been in hard labor since Friday, but it's been a wonderful delivery," sald Swanborg of the benefit. She is the director of the resource center.

WRC has been serving up plenty of spaghetti, salad and garlic bread for eight years to raise money for the center which provides counseling and financial assistance to women who want to continue their education but lack the financial resources to do so.

One woman, who has been helped by the resource center, is Deb Nairne, a scholarship recipient who spoke at the dinner. A single parent, she has earned 107 credit hours and maintained a 3.985 grade point average while at Schoolcraft. She will be transferring to Lawrence Technological University in the fall to continue her studies in marketing and management.

Nairne began her college career at Schoolcraft in 1976 — "It wasn't exactly a whim. I was in retailing and wanted to know more about my job. I discovered I was good at school and got a lot of valuable information."

SHE DROPPED out in 1979 when her eight-

The youngest party-goer was Andrew Close, 6½ months, who preferred his pacifier to the spaghetti his parents, Tom and Susan Close of Northville, dined on. Resource Center staffer Ursula Buckanes Henry (below) was all smiles as she checked the ticket of Sue Siradas of Livonia. And working their way through the buffet dinner line were Therese Gall of Plymouth and Vilma Janisse of Livonia.

month-old daughter contracted spinal meningitis and became hearing impaired. Eventually, she returned to school and continued taking classes, but her dream of a degree appeared threatened when she was divorced and joined the "ranks of the single poor."

"I found a job, but by the time I paid the bills, there wasn't much left for anything let alone college." she said.

Nairne was able to continue her schooling with the help of a grant, but the requirements were such that she ended up working full time and carrying 11 college credit hours at night.

"I figured it out that I had 13 minutes of sleep a night," she said. "I was ready to either give up the kids or my goal for a degree when I met the people at the Women's Resource Center."

With the help of a scholarship, she was able to shave back her credit hours to three or four a semester. And armed with the knowledge she has gained, she has has been promoted to a national position with the company she is employed by and is being courted to move to New York to handle an international position.

"All the opportunities that opened up for me were made possible by what I learned here and by the Women's Resource Center," Nairne said. "I've grown to love Schoolcraft College. I've found that it's the lovellest campus in the state, and I've had some terrific experiences here."

INTEREST IN the center has been increasing, according to Swanborg. Walk-in clients in the last seven months totaled 1,192, while phone contacts totaled 4,514.

"That a six phone calls a day increase over the same period last year," she said.

Her excitement about the center's work and the turnout was shared by many of the people in attendance.

Chef Richard Benson and Chris Misiak, assistant director of the college's food program, were cheerful even though they were up to their elbows in noodles and buckets of sauce. And Cass Kershaw and faculty member Dick Tomalty had plenty of smiles, while serving wine to the guests.

"I've had lots of practice," Kershaw said with a chuckle, "This is my fourth year doing this."

WRC staffer Ursula Buckanes Henry was all smiles as she collected tickets and directed arriving dinner goers to their tables.

ng dinner goers to their tables.
"I had to audition for this," she said with a laugh.

"It was the smile that got me the job."

Buckanes Henry has been with the resource center for about a year and got involved because she felt she had something to contribute and enjoys halving people.

"Seeing that I'm helping something makes me happy," she said. "Even if I'm having a bad day and help someone who leaves the center with a smile on their face, then I feel good."

their face, then I feel good."

Tom and Susan Close of Northville made the fund raiser a family affair, bringing along son Andrew, the youngest party goer at 61/2 months.

"We're here to support the college," Susan said.

Athletes show off their personalities in autographs

Dear Friends, Today, I'm going to depart from my regular routine to share some tographs with you that I collected our recent vacation in Florida.

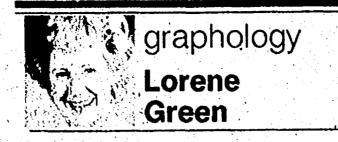

When we booked our cruise on the beautiful SS Norway, I had no idea we were going to have 23 NFL football players and their wives on the thip as part of the entertainment.

On the second day at sea, a serenpitous feeling came over me when they announced there was going to be an autograph/photograph session with all the players.

Most of the passengers were busy getting celebrities to sign the pennants which were provided for the various teams. But not Lorene! I was armed with stationery and pens to get signatures that I could use in my newspaper columns and magazine articles.

Several of the autographs fascinated me, but I think my favorite is that of Bubba Paris of the Super BUBBA PLAYED for the University of Michigan during his college career, so is dear to our hearts.

His large signature can be compared to the size of his 300-pound plus body. Just in case you are having difficulty, it reads: "To Lorene, Big Bubba Paris." Beneath the signature is Acts 2:38 and underneath that is 49ers.

Currently, he is serving as a motivational speaker for both charitable and business events. He lives in San Jose, Calif., with his wife and six children.

The second signature is that of Bubba's teammate, Pierce Holt. Notice the large size capital letter in his given name as compared to the family name. When this is coupled with the optimism of his upslanted lines, we know he has pride and confidence in his own abilities. Pierce is an aggressive lineman who can play both tackle and end.

The Hall of Famers were so humorous; they kept the entire audience, including Irv, convulsed in laughter. They shared copious anecdotes from the early days of their football careers.

ON THE DAY following day our return to Miami, we drove over to Tampa Palms to enjoy the senior pros play golf. Once again, Bernice Mutch and I were busy collecting signatures while our husbands followed the pros trying to pick up golf

Miss America '88 talks about title and her tomorrows at Town Hall

By Pat Schutte staff writer

Many young women dream of it. Some 80,000 a year have a chance at it. But, only one can wear the crown of Miss America. Kaye Lani Rae Rafko-Wilson was one of the lucky

The former Miss America spoke at Livonia Town Hall at a benefit for First Step, western Wayne County's shelter for the victims of domestic friend responded: "Give me a break head of another in a long series of violence.

From the start, the woman with ing this party now?" the longest name in the history of the Miss America pageant (and that's before she was married), put to rest the stereotypical "Barbie Doll" label beauty pageant winners.

With wit and deep feeling, Rafko flowed through a speech that had the their heads, and at times, crying.

"They put you on this pedestal and leaf and sweating like a hog, honey," said Rafko, who halls from Monroe.

"In the 25 years that I remember the pageant, it's really changed," sald Jeane Enright of Livonia. "You don't see the cutesy, la la girls any as her reign as Miss America? more. These girls are really talent-

RAFKO WAS following in her mother's footsteps, so to speak. Her mother at one time was Miss Dairy that seems to be synonymous with Queen. Before being crowned Miss America, Rafko had entered 14 beauty contests. The first contest she won was Miss Monroe County at age audience chuckling and nodding 17. In 1987, she was the Miss Michigan runner-up.

Then it happened. Rafko, decked I'm telling you I was shaking like a out in a $1,200 dress donated by a Grand Rapids bridal shop, standing with the other finalists in their $10,000 to $20,000 gowns, all hoping to be crowned Miss America.

Rafko's most memorable moment

"It was coming home," said Rafko, the oldest of four children. "About 20,000 of the 30,000 residents of Monroe greeted me and threw a huge parade. Heck, I was the only

At 5 feet, 10 inches, Rafko has asked her "What if I win?" Her since plopped her crown atop the

Miss America winners. She got married last summer to Chuck Wilson, whom she had dated for six years and has taken her noble act on the Nursing, the care for people and their families, is Rafko's career quest in life. It has been for some time. And along with her "Just Say No" speeches to kids and her fund raising for the American Cancer Society and AIDS research, Rafko also acts as the spokeswoman for the American Nurses Association.

When she finishes her nursing promotional tour, Rafko can expect her old job back, 12-hour shifts, nights and weekends, at St. Vincent Medical Center in Monroe, the same hospital where one of her younger male patients used to say "Guess what you guys . . . Miss America gives me my

"NURSING IS not a profession, it's personal," said Rafko, the 67th Miss America. "I am much prouder of my RN (registered nurse) title than I am of my Miss America title."

In fact, it was one of Rafko's "yery special" patients, a woman with leukemia, who convinced Rafko to stick with her Tahitian dance in the talent portion of the Miss America contest. Several contest judges had been trying to convince her to drop it.

Rafko went as far as to dress-up in full Tahitian regalia, complete with grass skirt and massive headdress, and put on a show for the woman . . . as well as some curious interns.

"She smiled for the first time in months," said Rafko, "'You should never give up something that you love, you'll make a wonderful Miss America some day? but, never give up nursing,' the woman said."

Around five hours after Rafko was crowned Miss America, the woman died.

The story dropped heads and brought on the sniffles from those in attendance. Rafko switched to a lighter subject - her appearance on "The David Letterman Show."

"They wanted me to do CPR on Letterman," said Rasko. "I told them that I want a pillow on the set. 'Why?,' they asked. Because I have to make sure he's (Letterman) not breathing."

When Rafko's finished with her promotional tour, she intends to get back to her nursing career and raise a family. She's shunned the modeling, movie, and television to do something that she feels so strongly about - nursing. In time, she wants to open a hospice.

Gamma Alpha swings into spring

Primitive and wild jungle prints are popular this season and can be found in the dresses, blouses and pants of Crowley's Carol Little Collection.

F THERE IS ONE thing that can be said about spring and summer fashions, it would be color.

That's what members of the Gamma Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, the society of women educators, and their guests found out at the chapter's biennial fashion show, Swing into Spring, recently.

Once again a sell-out crowd was on hand to see fashions for day and evening wear, provided by Crowley's of Livonia Mall, Casual Corner of Wonderland Mall and Caren Charles of Fairlane Towne Center.

Emceeing the show was Marlene Saponic of the Feminique Modeling Agency and Finishing School, who told the audience that 1990 means "color, color, color, and it's very vivid indeed."

"The American woman is smart and sophisticated," Saponic said, "her dressing for the '90s is more relaxed. American women are more secure in their work and personal life and they want clothes that are effortless."

In addition to Feminique models, the show featured Gamma Alpha members Marie Canzoneri, Dorothy Chomicz, Joan Fredericks, Joanne Hughes, Pat Komula, Joan Payzant, Shawn Regan, Lynn Ross, chapter president Fran Saenz and Ozeania Ward.

The chapter holds the dinner and fashion show every other year for the benefit of its scholarship fund. It alternates with seminars which focus on issues relevant to women.

The chapter provides scholarships to women who are pursuing degrees in education. Gamma Alpha was able to offer two scholarships after a successful fashion show benefit in 1988, Saenz sald. "The international organization was founded in 1929 by a professor at the University of Texas who felt women educators needed a support group to get ahead," Saenz said. "And they did."

Gamma Alpha has 50 "very active" members who either work in the Livona or Wayne-Westland school districts or live in the area

Friendship endures time, distance

It's a friendship that's withstood the test of time. . . and distance.

Bea Grimes of Long Beach, Calif. and Mary Gagleard of Livonia have been friends since 1968, when they met at a Take Off Pounds Sensibly meeting. They had a lot in common. They shared the same birth moith - March - and celebrated wedding anniversaries in June. They even share the same religion.

"Seems like there was something about us, we just hit it off right away," Gagleard said.

Like other friendships, the two women shared many joys and tears, but the one thrill that cemented their friendship came in 1979, a thrill marked with more than one coinci-

At Eastertime that year, the two women exchanged good news. Gagleard's daughter was expecting her first child. Grimes' son and his wife were expecting their second child.

Both grandchildren were due in December, but the women couldn't believe it when the youngsters, both boys, were born by Cesarean section on Dec. 18.

The coincidences didn't end there. Both children were both named Bryan, with both sets of parents opting for the unusual spelling.

BRYAN SHERMAN Grimes was born at 7:59 a.m. that day in Torrence, Calif. Bryan David Collett was born at 10:59 a.m. at Sinai Hospital in Detroit. Allowing for the time difference between the two cities, the two Bryans were born at the same minute on the same day.

The two proud grandmothers have gotten the two Bryans together from time to time, the latest was late last

You would think that with all those coincidence at birth, the similarities would continue. They do to some extent. Both Bryans enjoy collecting baseball cards and teasing their sisters. But while Bryan Collett is tall and lanky, Bryan Grimes is short and chunky, Gagleard said.

"When they met last year, they got together like they had known each

"There's something about the two Gagleard headed west last March, of us, we just can't let go," Gagleard so the twosome could celebrate their said. "Usually, the friendship falls by birthdays together. And Grimes the wayside when you're so far headed for Mesa, Ariz, last month to apart, but we've kept in touch. # Churches spread the word on census

This Sunday, April 1, has been declared Census Day, and some area pastors plan to remind worshipers of the importance of filling out census forms.

"Our divisional headquarters actually has inundated us with all kinds of information," said Lt. Jeffrey Beachum, commanding officer of the Plymouth Salvation Army. That office in Southfield has forwarded booklets, bulletin inserts, posters and sample letters to the Plymouth Salvation Army, which serves residents of Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

Beachum doesn't have any problem with helping to get the word out about the census. He hasn't found there's much of a need to convince people to fill out the

'It's Scripturally accounted where there were censuses taken. There's nothing non-biblical about it. I'm sure the government needs to know for tax purposes and for management services," he said.

AT SUNDAY services at the Plymouth Salvation Army, a bulletin notice and verbal announcement will remind worstfloers about the census.

Bulletin announcements about the census are also being used at Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church in

We do plan to work on it, encourage our people to take part," said Kelly Sharkey, communications coordinator for the church. Census reminders will also be given through publications used for individual classes at Ward Presbyterian Church staffers got lots of of material from the U.S. Census Bureau.

"So it makes it pretty easy to pick it up and use it," Sharkey said. 'They know what they're doing.'

She agreed it's helpful for church officials to work with the U.S. Census Bureau to make people aware of

We are in a position where we are working with the community in a lot of ways," Sharkey said. Worshipers come to Ward not just from Livonia and the surrounding, area but also from Rochester, Ann Arbor and other more distant communities.

A SERMON based on the 1990 census isn't planned at

"There's more of an Easter emphasis this time of year." The census could be mentioned in church classes, Sharkey said, and talked about as part of the lesson.

Archdiocese of Detroit officials are encouraging people to complete census forms. The archdiocese newspaper, The Michigan Catholic, has been used to spread the word as has a newsletter sent to parished from the archdiocese's Catholic Community Services Office.

"Sometimes, it's not looked at as a very important thing," said Brenda Marshall, assistant director of communications for the archdiocese. Parishioners are being encouraged to complete their own census forms and, in some cases, to volunteer or work for the Census Bureau.

Archdiocese officials have emphasized that census data will affect the quality of human services provided for low income people and others. Filling out the form isn't time-consuming, Marshall said.

"For most people, it will only be a short amount of time." Decisions about promoting the census are left up to individual parishes.

NO CENSUS material arrived at Risen Christ Lutheran Church in Plymouth Township, according to the Rev. K.M. Mehrl, the pastor. He doesn't plan to make any announcements about the census.

"I've been too busy really with other things to pay too much attention to it." He agreed it's fine for churches to spread the word about the census.

"I think certainly the church could be used as a resource for doing something like that," Mehrl said. "Certainly, the church serves the community."

The Rev. Kenneth Gruebel, pastor at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton, received information on the 1990 census.

"They sent us a booklet. I assume most of the churches got a booklet," Gruebel said. "We're not going to do

The 1990 census will affect our representation in local, state and federal government. Federal aid to our communities and region is based on census information. Local planning for services and schools is based on census results.

For those who fear unwelcome consequences to census information, the brochure assures census confidentiality. The IRS, Immigration, Welfare Services and others will not be allowed to see our answers for 72 years. In 2062, our answers will no longer be a threat. # Get ready: Earth Day coming of Earth Day this year can be accomplished in many ways.

People can participate in several events around southeastern Michigan to learn more about the environment. Several groups involved with the environment will be providing information on how to live more environmentally conscious,

Teachers can use the Earth Day ideas a forum from which they can teach many disciplines.

That is one of the nice things about the natural world. It integrates everything.-

MATH TEACHERS can talk about calculating the concentrations of chemicals in water, or measuring the size of oak trees in the area and calculating the number of squirrels they may sustain.

Chemistry teachers can use Earth

Celebrating the 20th anniversary Day to talk about how simple household chemicals may be toxic if disposed of improperly. They could even talk about the most important chemical reaction that maintains life on Earth - photosynthesis.

> Biology teachers have many avenues of study — endangered species, habitat specificity, genetic diversity and any number of other topics. It is obvious that the sciences can > be well represented when using Earth Day as a focus of discussion.

> and humanities. Art teachers can take their classes to a natural area and have them ject well, the artist must "feel" the subject. One cannot really get to know the subject unless it is in context with everything else.

Students would not get to experience the elements that shape the life of their subjects, if they only used specimens in a studio.

THE SAME is true of English

Reading the classics typically represented in a humanities class is one way of exposing students to the Livonia.

natural world that the poets often used as inspiration.

But take them out in the fields and let them "feel" those things for themselves and write their own thoughts down.

Teachers could also include the whitings of some classic nature writers, like Muir, Burroughs, Olson and Leopold. They incorporated many of the literary techniques that need to be taught, and students would also be learning about the natural world.

Exposing students to the natural world and experiencing it through numerous disciplines will really inculcate the purpose behind Earth for "fifth disease" a new, measleslike ailment also known as Hungarian measles.

Measles-like disease causing concern

County health officials have notified schools and day care centers about the virus, which isn't considered as serious a health risk as measles itself.

"It's not the same as measles, in fact its a much milder disease," said Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, county medical director.

A rash, characterized by a "slapped cheek" appearance that randomly comes and goes, fifth disease isn't considered a serious health

Those with the ailment don't have to be quarantined. However, parents

Kite safety is in focus

With kite flying season on the way, Consumers Power is offering safety tips to youngsters and their parents.

Kites should be flown in an open field, away from power lines, said John Robbins, Consumers Power west district manager.

• Don't try to extract kites that as the child feels better. "As long as said. they feel OK they can return to school," Lawrenchuk said,

Pregnant women are alerted to be on the watch for the disease - especially if they are teachers or others

There is a small, theoretical risk . Return to school can occur as soon to pregnant women," Lawrenchuk

Thus far, 264 cases have been reported statewide. As of last week, only one had been reported in Wayne County.

"The report we had was from a Ferris State College student who is now at home with parents in Dearborn Heights," Lawrenchuk said.

Formally known as erythema infectiosum, it is called fifth disease because it was the fifth such virus so identified.

Like measles it is transmitted through respiratory droplets passed by coughs and sneezes.

Copenhagen is a great starting point for European travels. We toured on by rail to Hamburg, Germany. A train leaves daily at Central Station for Hamburg and the ride is a magnificent trip. After about two hours on board, the train will lodge itself onto a ferry which carries the railcars across the waters with a great view of the Baltic

Passengers are allowed to get out of the railcars on the ship and take in some fresh air on deck or dine in the ships cafeteria. When the ferry lands in Germany, passengers take their place back in the railcars and travel on to Hamburg.

East, some in the Midwest and one in the Northwest," she said. "Seventeen routes will have some trains that at · least on some days have no smoking

Amtrak's ultimate goal is to separate the 25 percent of its passengers who smoke from the 75 percent who do not, Ms. Martin said. Toward that end, Amtrak will begin locating its smoking cars at the front or rear of unreserved trains so non-smokers need not walk through smoking areas to reach their seats.

Amtrak is not banning smoking altogether because "it simply doesn't make good business sense," Ms. Martin said.

The Amtrak policy was criticized by the Tobacco Institute, the smoking industry lobby.

"Once again we're seeing unneces-

"will affect a number of trains in the sary regulation above and beyond what is necessary," said spokesman Thomas Lauria.

"Train travelers have accommodated each other, smokers and nonsmokers alike, ever since we've had trains," Lauria said, "Obviously this is an attempt to put smokers in the back of the bus once again."

Lauria said he expected resistance from smokers to the ban on smoking in small stations.

Lautenberg and Durbin, a member of the House transportation appropriations panel, said after the Feb. 25 beginning of their airline smoking ban that they would turn their attention to railroads.

"It is my hope that eventually nonsmokers will be able to ride smokefree on all forms of public transportation," Durbin said.

Scandinavian straits on tour

Members of the Wayne State University Alumni Association are looking for travelers to join them July 14-28, in a 15-day tour of the scenic shores of Scandinavia.

The group will be touring Denmark, Sweden and Norway, with main stops in Copenhagen, Stockholm and Oslo.

In Copenhagen, tourists will see the sights of the Little Mermaid, Tivoli Gardens, the Royal Palace and the Nyhavn Harbor. Time will also be designated to roam the Danish cobblestone streets.

After three days in Copenhagen, participants will board a cruise ship for an overnight sail to Oslo, which includes a Scandinavian smorgasbord buffet.

Ode to a travel agent

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

Today, Iris Jones begins a new travel column, Crossroads, as an addition to the travel section. The column will appear weekly offering tips and tales about adventures around the world.

Have you ever wondered if a travel agent can save you money?

You should have been sitting on my shoulder when I sat across from Janet Kerns in the Lathrup Village Office of the American Automobile Association(AAA). I gave her an impossible task: find two lowpriced airline tickets from Detroit to Los Angeles on a week's notice. She performed a miracle and saved me several hundred dollars.

Like many of you, I buy my airline tickets as inexpensively as possible. I could have bought Detroit-LA tickets for under $200 during any of the Great Ticket Spectaculars of the last six months.

They seem to give tickets away in August, in October, even in January. One airline would slash prices and the rest would follow.

Jones

Unfortunately, there were no spectaculars in sight when I needed tickets to LA. It was too late to purchase 14 day, 21 day or 30 day advance tickets — the prices go down as the number of days goes up. I had one week and would have to pay for the tickets that day.

I signed in at the AAA office at 4:40 p.m.; they close at 5:30 p.m.

I'm a member of the Automobile Club of Michigan and have always been a fan, but you don't need to be a member to buy airline tickets or book other travel from them. AAA is the biggest travel agent in the state.

I SIGNED in, waited my turn; and was led to a desk by a cheerful blonde in a navy blue suit. I didn't know her, she didn't know me, but the sign on the wall at the back of her cubicle read

"Janet Kerns, Travel Counselor."
"Can you find me any low-priced tickets to Los Angeles next Wednesday," I said.

"Seven day advance tickets," she said as she put on her telephone earphones and started tapping on the computer. "They are going for about $435. How many tickets?"

"Two. That's nearly $900 for two tickets. Any chance of getting them for less than that?"

Janet clicked away, talking to me as the numbers came up. American, United, Continental. "Continental's just under $400, that's the best so "I didn't want to give you all the bad news at once," I said, "but we need to be in L.A. before noon!"

"Too bad we can't get you on Southwest, they have good fares, but they extended their coupon offer and everything's booked going west. You never know, let's look."

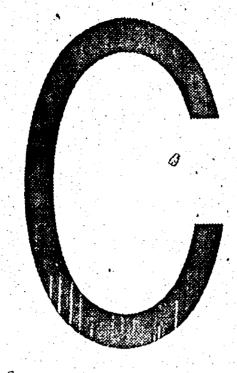

She called Southwest but the only flight that got in before noon was fully booked in Q-class. That's what they call the low-cost fare, Q-fare.

Most travel agents would have stopped there but Janet is a determined soul. "Is your travel companion a child by any chance?"
"No, he's over 60."

"AHA!" and she started typing furiously again. "American gives 10 percent off to anyone who is a member of AARP." That's the American Association of Retired Persons. Other airlines have retiree rates too, but none of them could get us into Los Angeles before noon Wednesday.

"Can you go a day ahead and stay overnight?"
"Not in L.A., but I wouldn't mind an overnight in Phoenix, does that work?"

a free-spirited Danish adventure

By Noreen Flack staff writer

When touring Europe this summer, be sure to fit Copenhagen into your plans.

This charming, yet often overlooked city is sure to surprise you with its ancient cobblestone streets and free-spirited Danish culture.

Copenhagen, Denmark's capital, lies on the Danish island of Zealand and is the biggest and liveliest of the Scandinavian cities.

The streets in town are filled with young and "young at heart" folks, out and about, eating and drinking in outdoor cafes and listening to music in the center square. You'll get the same European charm other large cities offer, without the intense cultural mishmash.

The pedestrian drag, Stroget, is a wide-open cobblestone street filled with wonderful Scandinavian clothing stores and shops. The walk seems endless with each store bringing on a new European style in shoes, scarves and hats. The end of the drag opens up to the city center with peddlers offering great bargains on jewelery, trinkets and food.

DURING MY TRAVELS, my friends and I became regular explorers of the beautiful canals near the harbor, our favorite area in the city. Nyhavn, a canal lined with boats and seaside cafes, was once a strip filled with sailors and rowdy bar room brawlers.

The place is pretty mellow now and offers a peaceful stroll down by the docks between pubs. Most of these places are pretty cheap, and the friendly people who run these small joints enjoy practicing their English.

There is so much to do for nightlife in Copenhagen, the days seem endless. We were surprised that many of the bars and restaurants don't close until 5 a.m. and by that time the early-morning cases are opening to serve a hearty breakfast. So try not to run yourself down during the day; you'll regret missing some of the best jazz in the world.

The Jazzhaus was a hard club to find, hidden away down the pedestrian street Norregade, but that place was well worth the adventure. If you go, search it out. Jazzhaus brings in internationally known artists along with excellent local bands.

If you want to dance to some traditional jazz music, go to the Foyer Scenen on Magstraede.

place lined with bars such as Slukester and Faergekroen with contemporary folk music to traditional jazz. We found ourselves joining in the sing-a-longs even though our Danish was pretty weak.

We agreed that the best music in

Nyhavn, the harbor area, is a great meeting place and always active in Copenhagen town was played at the Irish Pub. There is really nothing Irish about the place which is filled with long-haired, blond Danish men singing the blues. These guys would give some of the greatest New Orleans bands a run for their money.

I missed the world famous Copenhagen Jazz Festival which is celebrated in July—if you plan to go make reservations, the town will be bursting with tourists.

Like other Scandinavian countries, Denmark enjoys a very high standard of living. High quality porcelain and silverware have become popular products imported to the U.S.

DON'T BE MISLED by Danish currency, the kroner. Although you may receive approximately 6kr to the dollar, kroners go fast when you pay 150kr, or $25, for a reasonable dinner.

Copenhagen has a great bus and train system but the city is best seen on foot, so wear your walking shoes; there's a lot to do. If you're out late and miss the last train back to your hotel, flag down a taxi. Most drivers will pull up in a Mercedes Benz and are very polite, unlike most of our New York City cab drivers.

When you arrive in Copenhagen, orient yourself in the Radhusplads or Town Hall Square. You'll receive much help from the tour guides and you'll actually be sitting in the center of Copenhagen.

THE DANES are some of the friendliest people you'll ever meet, and most of them speak English very well. So don't hesitate to ask for help.

For a good view of the city, try the endless spiral stairs of Freslers Kirkes Tarn which leads to a twisted tower in Town Hall Square. The tour guides to the tower make the exhausting trip up the stairs at least five times a day, so don't try to keep up with them.

LIVING UP TO its free-spirited reputation, Denmark is the only country where you will find a place like Christiania, a tax-exempt experimental living project. This "free society" with limited or no laws, is a 10-minute bus ride from Central Station, on an island isolated from the city. The society was founded in 1971 by youthful squatters and continues to be a controversial issue in Europe.

During World War II, the island of Christiannia was used as a concentration camp while Denmark was occupied by Nazi Germany.

Today, a trip to Christiania will give you flashbacks filled with with '60s counter culture and hippie regalia. The place is mainly occupied by harmless junkies and freaky freelove folks who run shack-like workshops and houses.

Loppen, a bar just through the entrance of Christiania, is a pretty heavy scene that features hard rock, jazz and funk music. Expect it all, from legal drug use to dog's laying on the counter. How these people actually survive is a question not worth pursuing. And as harmless as they may be, the shock of their lifestyle may scare you. But if you're a brave traveler looking for new adventures to blunder into, go for it. You'll never forget it and there is no place like it on the planet.

Celebrate spring Japanese style

Thousands of winter weary people will take to the streets of San Francisco, Japanese style, for two weekends, April 20-22 and April 27-29, for the annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

The Japan Center at Post and Buchanan streets will be filled with revelers who gather to pay homage to spring and celebrate the arts and culture of Japan.

The Japanese festival, the Sakura Matsuri, is celebrated as respect for beauty and transience of cherry blossoms, or sakura, the national symbol of Japan. Cherry blossoms bloom in unison for a moment before spring breezes carry them away.

Martial arts experts will demonstrate judo, aikido and karate. Masters in the gentler arts will teach such traditional skills as ikebana, flower arranging; bonsai, tree dwarfing; and origami, paper folding.

Women and children will wear brightly colored wahuku, the formal dress of imperial Japan. They will perform classical dances of the homeland and play traditional instruments such as the harp-like koto and the banjo-like shimasen.

The festival's food bazaar will give festival goers a chance to taste Japanese cuisine such as grilled terriyaki, yakitori and sushi.

A children's village will be set up for children to participate in activities such as Japanese folktales, magic shows, block printing and clay sculpting.

The San Francisco Cherry Blossom Festival celebrates the beauty and transcience of Japan's national flower by honoring children. Symbolic of youth, the sakura, or cherry blossoms, bloom before spring breezes carry them away.

Amtrak makes tougher smoking laws on board

AP — Two lawmakers who succeeded in snuffing out cigarettes on most domestic flights announced March 21 that Amtrak is about to make it tougher to light up on trains.

Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., and Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., said Amtrak's new policy will take effect April 1.

"These new rules are another victory for health and common sense," said Lautenberg, chairman of the Senate Transportation Appropriations Subcommittee. "It's further acknowledgement that non-smokers should not be forced to breathe other people's smoke."

Lautenberg and Durbin jumped the gun on Amtrak's own announcement of the new policy, which had been scheduled for March 22.

which had been scheduled for March 22.

The new policy will continue to permit parsengers to smoke in sleeping compartments.

But otherwise, according to Amtrak spokeswoman Sue Martin, smoking will be banned in:

IN RESPONSE to the growing corporate need for managementlevel employees, especially those trained to see the world in black and red, a handful of area business schools are beginning to teach management courses at the office.

The latest is a business administration degree program offered to Michigan Bell employees at the phone company's technical and office center in Southfield. Classes are taught by professors from Madonna College in Livonia.

With more than 300 students signing on for the first term in November, hitting the books in company conference rooms by night has become de rigueur, as Ma Bell picks up most of the bill to enhance its employees' decision-making abilities, boost morale and strengthen its competitiveness.

Sales pitches for cellular phones fixed

staff writer

Seven cellular telephone retailers - including Fretter Inc. of Livonia and Cellular One of Farmington Hills — have agreed to stop sales practices that allegedly violate antitrust laws, state Attorney General Frank Kelley said Tuesday.

All have agreed to change their ads and to inform people that they may buy telephones without having to buy six months of service from a particular supplier of cellular air time, Kelley said.

In addition, Ameritech, which had tripled air rates on some of the mandated six-month contracts after cellular telephones were bought, has agreed to honor original contract terms, the attorney general said-

"I AM PLEASED that these merchants came forward in response to my request and agreed to change their advertising and practices," Kelley said. Customers now will have the option to pay more for the cellular telephone and not be bound to a particular service provider for six months. Those who signed up with Ameritech only because it was a requirement of purchase should not be made to pay higher and higher rates," Kelley said.

"Now, with the cooperation of Ameritech, those customers willreceive the benefit of what they thought and were told was a good deal at the time," Kelley said.

A state investigation confirmed complaints that some cellular telephones for sale required linkage with a particular service provider, an illegal tie-in, said Chris DeWitt, spokesman for Kelley.

The attorney general ordered the retailers and service providers to change their practices earlier this month.

"ALL OF THESE retailers and the service providers responded promptly when they realized there was a problem," Kelley said. "They have shown a willingness to admit and resolve the problems, and I commend them for that attitude."

The attorney general's office also is investigating whether cellular telephone retailers owe the state treasury sales tax on money received from service providers to promote tie-ins, DeWitt sald.

Katherine A. Cappelli, vice president of marketing and sales for Cellular One, issued a statement Tuesday after Kelley's announcment.

"Cellular One is pleased to have been able to address the attorney general's concerns regarding the advertising of retail pricing on cellular telephone equip-

"We are also very pleased that our practices as a service provider have not required any corrective action as a result of the attorney general's investigation." Cappelli said.

Ameritech had been reviewing customer inquirles on case-bycase basis prior to the attorney general's involvement in the situation, said Sue Marceau, manager of public relations.

Customers under contract to an Ameritech distributer were allowed to extend the old rate, she

Not all heroes drive fast cars

The Navy recruiters in the lobby latest techno-thriller - bring to mind whether the auto business could use a similar dose of Hollywood adrenaline.

Maybe a plot where a Russian engineer steals a top-secret Lada from again, maybe not. Still, the question remains: Is there the stuff of a good thriller in the auto business?

Once in a while some memorable image emerges, such as Steve McQueen supplier in Detroit who got involved bounding down the hills of San Francisco in a dark green Mustang, or the by the time the book was made into crushing of the brand-new Lincoln with the body in the trunk in Goldfinger, when the automobile emerges in the role of some kind of metaphor about the basic transiency of life in these United States 364

BUT THE business itself has inspired just a few feeble efforts, such as Harold Robbins "The Betsy." There has been nothing with the efforts at drama inspired by the oil business, the airplane business or the nuclear reactor business - all of which have had their day in the sun.

Some of this is understandable, particularly after you look at the fun events calendar at the Society of Automotive Engineers annual convention, which leans heavily on items like a tour of the Lake Orion assembly plant. You might get the idea that these are not a bunch of wild and crazy guys.

Then again, there is always John wages from the enterprises DeLorean, who would have been a movie a long time ago, except nobody could figure out whether he was a good guy or a bad guy, and then nobody cared anymore.

First of II parts

Say you have a $80,000, 30-year mortgage with a fixed mortgage rate of 10 percent. Your payments are $703 per month. You just learned that only $23 of your monthly payment goes toward the repayment of the principal. The rest ($680) is all interest payment. You are also shocked to learn that over the life of this mortgage, you will pay $172,150 in interest - more than twice the original mortgage.

You wish there was a way to reduce the interest payment. But since it is a fixed mortgage there is no way out. Right? Wrong.

In a two-part article we will explore three ways of significantly reducing your interest payments.

STRATEGY 1: Accelerate payments — In order to appreciate the value of this strategy, it is important to understand the way interest payments decrease and the principal payments increase as the mortgage

Since the interest is calculated on the unpaid mortgage balance, the less you owe, the smaller the interest payment is. However, since the monthly payments ($703) remain unchanged, as the loan balance decreases, a larger portion of the payment can be used to pay off the principal. It is easy to see why during the first year $680 out of every payment takes on a new meaning. If you make additional payments specifically to reduce the principal, then you will not be charged interest on the amount. Here is an example to illustrate this point, Suppose you decide to make 13 instead of 12 - payments a year. In that case, the life of the mortgaga would be reduced from 30 to 22 years. Put differently, by paying an additional $703 each year, you will save $61,504 in interest charges --not an insignificant amount of sava ings by any means. Next week: More on savings on mortgage interest

Sign Language.

Call it a sign of the times. Everywhere you go, wherever you look, Red Carpet Keim signs are popping up. Entering new neighborhoods, selling more homes, and selling them faster.

But it's not just the Red Carpet Keim signs that are selling the homes. It's our company, and the people behind our company. Red Carpet Keim salespeople just plain work harder than the rest. They make the extra calls, drive the extra miles, and even stay that extra hour or two to talk about your concerns. And they're backed by one of the oldest real estate franchises around—with approximately 500 offices across North America.

So when you decide to sell your home, talk with a Red Carpet Keim salesperson. When you put us in your front yard, it's sign language everyone will understand.

Q. What tips do you offer to business people who want to make the most of networking?

A. First, it is crucial to identify what it is you want your networking efforts to accomplish at each and every event you attend or participate. Without a specific purpose, you will be diluting the potential benefits of cultivating mutually satisfying relationships with others.

Next, remember that it isn't how many people you exchange business cards with that determines networking success. Leaving a function with 20 cards means very little if you are phone call or letter directed at your contact within a reasonable time self as a "host" rather than a guest make the first move, you stand to "Chamber Perspectives."

gain much more by being open, friendly and helpful.

Lastly, do not make the mistake of limiting your interactions to individuals you already know or have established relationships with. This behavior is very common among individuals who either are "new" to the networking process or who are often sought after by others interested in meeting them.

Since everyone stands to benefit: by the networking lifestyle, this practice can represent the difference between capitalizing on a great unable to follow through with a opportunity and one that has slipped right through your fingers.

Coaches favor expanded format

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

The decision to expand the high school football playoffs is being applauded by Observerland coaches who say it will create added incentive and interest in the tournament. "I think it's great," North Farmington's Jim O'Leary said. "It gets more teams involved, and it separates the teams that are closer in terms of enrollment and competi-

North, being a smaller Class A school, is one of the area schools that should benefit from the new system, which creates four new classes and doubles the number of teams making the playoffs from 64 to 128.

The last of several proposals to change the playoff format effectively splits each of the four existing classes in two, dividing Class A into AA and A. The same applies to Classes B, C and D, too.

The four championship games in the single-letter classes will be played the Friday of Thanksgiving weekend and the other four on Saturday, all at the Pontlac Silverdome.

"IT DOES water down the playoffs some," Farmington Hills Harrison coach John Herrington said, "but we'll get used to it, I guess. If you want to expand, it's the best way to do it."

The original proposal, by Macomb County athletic directors, called for dividing the state into six classes, which would have required creating a new point system to determine who qualifies.

Jack Roberts, executive director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association, proposed a seven-class plan, splitting all but Class D in half based on enrollment figures. Class D schools objected, and the proposal that was accepted calls for eight

FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS REVISED FORMAT

The following list indicates where Observerland high schools will be classified in the new football playoff system based on enrollments for the 1989-90 academic year:

CLASS AA (1400-3142): Redford Calholic Central (2006), Plymouth Salem (2119), Plymouth Canton (2053), Westland John Glenn (2516), Livonia Franklin (1431), Livonia Churchill (1651), Livonia Stevenson (1852), Wayne Memorial (1988) and Garden City (1468).

CLASS A (984-1381): North Farmington (1145), Farmington (1042), Walled Lake Western (1283), Walled Lake Central (1237) and Redford Union (1147).

CLASS BB (684-961): Farmington Hills Harrison (905) and Redford Thurston

CLASS B (504-683): Livonia Clarenceville (509) and Redford Bishop Borgess CLASS C (256-361): Redford St. Agatha

(288) and Lutheran Westland (300). The Class CC limits are 362 to 503, and Class D schools are those falling below 255 classes, in football only.

"Nothing changes; that's why everyone was in favor of it," Herrington said. "The integrity of the class system and bonus points are maintained."

Teams will continue to receive 80 points whether they beat a Class AA or Class A opponent, 64 for BB/B, 48 for CC/C and 32 for DD/D. Harrison, fall. which plays an all-Class AA/A schedule, will become a Class BB . THE ROCKS were 8-1 and just school with an enrollment of 905 and missed qualifying, losing out to Ann maintain the proportionate advantage the strength of its schedule of-

Class A schools such as North points received. Farmington, Walled Lake Western and Central and Redford Union in Class A. Livonia Clarenceville in Class B and Redford St. Agatha in Class C will clearly benefit, because they'll be grouped with smaller A, B and C schools their own size.

"I CALLED Joe D'Angelo at Country Day and told him I don't have to worry about him anymore," St. Agatha coach John Goddard said.

The Aggies have been forced to compete annually for a playoff berth in the same Class C region with such perennial powers as Country Day, Detroit DePorres, Erie Mason and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port, all of which won state titles in the past decade.

Now those schools, with higher enrollments, will be grouped in Class CC and St. Agatha in Class C with 288 students, barely above the 255 cutoff point between C and D.

"The state champion has come from our region eight of the last nine years," Goddard said. "Personally, I wish they would have done it two years ago, because we had good

"We were 14-4 the last two years and were not even close. If they had done it any other way, we'd have been in and, with the teams we had, done very well. I think.

"It's great because we just can't compete with DePorres and Country Day," he added. "DePorres is a Class A high school, with the talent it has, playing a Class C schedule."

Plymouth Salem is an example of a Class AA school that would have benefitted in reverse fashion last

Arbor Pioneer, which had a 7-2 record but played a stronger schedule based on the number of bonus

Livonian Tancill here for NCAAs

By Brad Emons staff writer

"The Tanker" is planning to dock at Joe Louis Arena

"The Tanker" is Livonian Chris Tancill, a senior right winger for the University of Wisconsin, a team only two wins away from the coveted NCAA hockey title.

The Badgers (34-9-1) meet Boston College (27-12-1) in the second game of a double-header Friday at JLA. The first game, at 5 p.m., pits Boston University (25-16-2), upset winners last weekend over Michigan State, against Colgate (30-5-1). The championship will be played at 2 p.m. Sunday.

When pressed about the nickname "The Tanker," a secretary in the University of Wisconsin hockey office offered this explanation, "I don't really know, but I guess it's because he's built like a tank."

Tancill, a compact 5-foot-10, 185-pound senior, is one of the big reasons why Wisconsin could be rolling toward its first NCAA crown since 1983.

"It's going to exciting, a dream come true and I just hope it's a storybook ending," said the 1986 Stevenson High grad. "Winning it all would be the culmination of all the hard work we've put in this season. And for me, coming home makes it even more special."

IN THE BEST-of-three quarterfinal series last week- / taken that next step. Now we've taken that big step." end against Maine, the Badgers swept the visiting Black Wisconsin, ranked in the top 10 all season, has be Bears 7-3 and 4-3.

Tancill assisted on Tom Sagissor's game-winning goal to wrap up the series. He finished with a goal and two assists for the two games.

But his season totals are even more impressive: 36 goals and 32 assists in 46 games. His four-year totals (171 games played) is 78 goals and 92 assists for 170

"The thing that sticks out about Chris is his dependability," said Wisconsin coach Jeff Sauer. "He's played in every game for four straight years. That says a lot. "And Chris is probably our most natural goal scorer.

If there was a guy to take a penalty shot, he'd be the Tancill, who will graduate from Wisconsin by the end of the year with a degree in Consumer Science, is an All-Academic pick in the Western Collegiate Hockey Asso-"He's very, very mature both on and off the ice," Sauer said. "As a senior, his leadership ability has been a key. He's meant a lot to this program." TANCILL IS ONE seven seniors on the Badgers'

'We've had the same crew all along and great thing about going to the Final Four is that we've been building up to this," said Tancill. "I think it's something like ,000 games that have been played between the seven of Senior Gary Shuchuk of Edmonton, Alberta centers the line. The left winger, Sagissor, halls from Hastings, Minn. He is also a senior.

"Shuchuk is the MVP of the league, and I thought he not robbed when he wasn't up for the Hobey Baker

hockey

Award (college hockey's equivalent of the Heisman Trophy)," Tancill said. "Shuchuk has been the catalyst and Sagissor has really come around. Sagissor is 5-11, 200 pounds and as tough as nails. He's our policeman in effect. We've really clicked all season."

Wisconsin beat Boston College earlier this year, 6-3, in a holiday tournament in Madison, but the Badgers have not played either Boston U. or Colgate. Tancill, in fact, was shocked to learn that top-ranked Michigan State had been eliminated.

"I fully expected to meet up with them somewhere along the line," he said.

IRONICALLY, the last time MSU and Wisconsin met was in December 1987 at JLA in the Great Lakes Invita-Tancill scored the game-winning goal in a 4-3 championship victory.

'We're 2-0 in that building and I just hope it continues," Tancill said. "For three years we've been to the NCAA quarters. Every year we've had a taste, but not Wisconsin, ranked in the top 10 all season, has been mowing down opponents en route to the finals. The Badgers won their first WCHA title since 1977 and added the WCHA playoff crown.

"I'm sure we'll have 4,000 to 5,000 fans there," said Tancill of the upcoming finals. "Our hockey office had a flood of calls today (Monday) from MSU people who were trying to unload their tickets. Basically Wisconsin loves a winner. They're happy to have a winner and we (the players) have been having fun with it, especially after winning the league and the playoffs."

Tancill, who as a high schooler played in Detroit's top midget and junior leagues, is glad he went the college

"I think I would have been happy anywhere, but I'm glad I chose Wisconsin," said the right winger. "There's pros and cons to everything, but looking back, I'm getting an education, establishing friendships with 20 to 30 people that I'll have for life, and playing hockey at a good school to boot."

TANCILL'S MOTHER Diane, a member of the Livonia School Board, is preparing a large brunch for the Badger team at her home Saturday morning.

"I'd tell anybody if they had a choice between Junior A and college, you should choose college because you should never miss the experience," she said. "It's just been a wonderful experience for Chris and it's such a thrill to have him playing here. I'm really proud of the boys. The nice thing about them is that they never give up. They've had to come from behind in a lot of their games, but it's been tough on spectators, especially mothers."

MI TO BE STATE OF

'B' kings relieved

By Marty Budner staff writer

Right from the beginning, Detroit Country Day was favored no, expected — to win the Class B DCD's work ethic this season. boys state championship basketball tournament.

The Yellow Jackets won Class C last year and school administrators allowed the team to move up and test unchartered, although very swimmable, waters in Class B. And Chris Webber, Iyapo Montgomery, Kevin Colson, Myron Potter and Ryan Ringold and other members of Country Day's talented cage squad proved they were more than reddy for the cruise.

Country Day secured its second straight state championship Saturday at The Palace of Auburn Hills with a 59-53 victory over Saginaw Buena Vista before some 19,000 fans in what turned out to be the best and closest of four championships decided that day.

Buena Vista — the defending Class B champions — supplied DCD with the toughest of its eight tournament games. An exhausted Kurt Keener, DCD's vetern coach, sat back on Monday and talked proudly of his team's historic accomplishments en route to the school's second straight state title.

"IT WAS A totally different emotional feeling winning it this year," said Keener. "Last year it was an exhilarating feeling of realizing a lifelong dream. It was like a dash to the state title.

But this year it was like running a marathon, especially the last week. I felt like I hit the wall," he said. "It was a long, hard struggle. You're satisfied with winning and realizing a goal, but I was just so weary afterwards."

Keener explained part of that exhaustion was due, at least in part, to the demands of entering as the pre-tournament favorite.

"I didn't sense the pressure day by day, but as I look back on it, there was more of a subtle pressure," he said. "The reality of out to do it's a wonderful feeling," (being the favorite) was always said Keener. "But this team there. The pressure probably took worked very hard for the success it its toll more than I thought.

"But even when you're favored to win and you have all those expectations, you still have to work hard to achieve them," he said.

And Keener was ecstatic with

"A year ago I was worrled the kids would become complacent after winning (the Class C title)," he said. "But just the opposite hap-

"Because they had that taste of success in Class C, the kids worked harder than ever," he said. "They worked hard over the summer and made even more of a committment this year."

THE YELLOW Jackets played a tough schedule which included Detroit Pershing, Toledo Scott, this year's Class C state champion Saginaw Nouvel Catholic Central and Saginaw Buena Vista in the season opener. Country Day fashioned a formidable 17-2 regular-season mark despite the rigid competition.

Keener's kids opened post-season action with three easy district games, reaching the century mark against both Madison and Oak Park high schools. DCD then thwarted Mt. Clemens Clintondale and Redford Bishop Borgess for its third regional crown over the past four years.

In the quarterfinals, DCD tipped Tecumseh, 69-56, behind a sterling 26-point, 15-rebound effort from Webber. Country Day stung Grand Rapids Northylew in the semifinals Friday at Crister Arena in Ann Arbor, 70-50. Webber had 25 points and 15 rebounds in that game.

Webber followed those impressive performances with his best effort of the tournament -30 points, including a 14-16 showing from the free-throw line, and 14 rebounds against Buena Vista.

The triumph allowed DCD to become the first team in state history to win back-to-back state titles after voluntarily moving up a class the following season.

"When you achieve what you set achieved."

Can Hartman take Division II program beyond?

AUL HARTMAN sat quietly, watching, appraising the team he helped put on the floor at Cal Poly Pomona.

Oakland Universiy's Lady Pioneers were in the process of getting thumped by the host team in a meaningless game. The real challenge for OU had come the previous evening; Bentley College had taught the Lady Pioneers a lesson in playing under tournament pressure Friday, handing the rookles of the NCAA Division II women's basketball Final Four a four-point loss.

Now OU was trying to salvage something from its trip to California, trying to prove it belonged among the top NCAA II teams in the country. Saturday's 19-point loss to Cal Poly Pomona didn't accomplish that.

AFTER ALL, coach Bob Taylor had spent the week prior to the Final Four tournament saying this team's group of seniors was the best in school history.

Fine, But now Hartman, OU's athletic director for the past seven years, was watching that same team be dismantled in the final eight minutes of the first half (during a 23-3 Pomona run) and wondering how to help guide it to the next level.

The Lady Pioneers have proven to be a league and regional powerhouse; now how do they move up a notch, to become a national contender on an annual basis?

Not an easy step. But when Hartman arrived on campus, most of OU's varsity teams, women's basketball included, were struggling.

Now they rank with the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference's elite, every year. The women's basketball team has reached the NCAA II playoffs the last two years, something it had not accomplished in more than a decade pri-or to Taylor's arrival.

But the five seniors Taylor boasted of, all starters, will be gone next season.

"I THINK next year's team could be as good as this year's," said Hartman, even as the current Lady Pioneers were falling apart.

That certainly sounds like conceit, which seems contrary to Hartman's nature. He is a quiet, soft-spoken man, someone likely to be overlooked at a Final Four tournament.

Risak

His ego can't be compared with a couple of other college ADs in the state, like Schembechler

But the success of OU's teams since Hartman's arrival is extraordinary. Nearly every one has reached new heights, except perhaps men's swimming, which has always rated as an NCAA II power.

All kinds of reasons can be given for OU's surge. It would be hard, though, not to put Hartman's leadership at the forefront.

To be sure, administrative support has helped. OU is at the scholarship limit in men's and women's basketball, and close to it in men's swimming and soccer. Money makes a team a power in Division II, where intercollegiate athletics are usually a losing proposition in financial terms.

"Our president (Dr. Joseph Champagne) has done all he can to get us the money we needed," Hartman said. "I think, in the sense he wants all facets of the university to excel, he's been very supportive."

Hartman will present other reasons, none featuring him. Like: "We've got good coaches in our sports now. We made some wrong choices at first, but now they're all doing well."

BUT OU'S athletic budget has been bolstered with outside support, sources which were never coltivated prior to Hartman's arrival. Fund-raising projects, such as the Gus Macker three-onthree basketball tournament that debuted at OU last summer, have supplemented the department.

The increased budget has helped put OU on the national map, a necessary component for a program wishing to be recognized by NCAA II tournament officials. The women's basketball team played two games in Arizona in each of the last two seasons; the volleyball team will travel to Colorado Springs for a tournament this fall. The soccer team has been to Los Angeles (so have both swim teams) and Seattle, while the remainder of OU's teams have made stops everywhere in between.

"We've really been getting more national each year," said Hartman. He doesn't appreciate it really; he endures it.

"THE TRAVEL is made possible by the budget, but we're also forced to (travel) by the NCAA," he said. "You've got to travel to play the best teams."

And playing the best teams is the only way to gain notoriety. As Hartman explained, even if you lose, playing well against a good NCAA II team will earn you a respectable reputation.

"I think you should be able to stay in your region and qualify for the NCAAs," he sald. But that won't happen, and he knows it.

If OU is to make the jump to national prominence, and stay there, the athletic program will need help in other areas. Lepley Sports Center is not much more than a high school gym. It can't compare with the arenas at Central Missouri State (8,000 capacity) or Cal Poly Pomona

(5,000).Different proposals are under consideration, including a plan by the YMCA to build on campus, with money raised by that project helping pay for a new, or renovated, arena.

AND DESPITE their past successes in swimming, OU's men have been second in the NCAA II four-straight years, and the women won the NCAA II title this season the Pioneers' facilities are lacking. A swimming powerhouse, which OU has proven to be, needs a top-notch pool to draw the best talent.

The same holds true for basketball.

"It's getting closer," Hartman said of a possible new sports complex. "I don't know how long it will take. We're looking at different ways to

"We feel our (present) facility keeps people

"Now we can play all day at Atwood," Herrington said.

Harrison played East Grand Rapids in a Class B semifinal at slippery, ice-covered Flint Atwood Stadium last year. The footing called more for ice skates than cleats.

"I think they're going to have a real problem solving that," Herrington said. "I think they'll have to play a lot more games at one site. We may have to play at Jackson (on the artificial turf in Withington Stadium) in the morning and play on through."

Glenn coach quits after 3 years

By Brad Emons staff writer

Bob Killingbeck has stepped down as boys basketball coach at Westland John Glenn High after three seasons.

He notified Glenn athletic director Gerald Szukaitis and principal Dr. James Myers of his declsion during the season and officially submitted his resignation near the end of the regular sea-

"Basically coaching a Class A basketball team had become a 12-month job and now I'll be able to spend more time with my family, whereas before I'd often put those things aside," said Killingbeck, whose record was 37-30 during his three-year stint. "Basketball, it seemed, consumed me too much. I was thinking and talking basketball all the time. Now I can relax and do other things."

Killingbeck served three years as Glenn's JV coach before he succeeded Gordie Davis in 1987. His best season occurred in 1987-88 when the Rockets posted a 15-9 record and won a district title before being ousted by Redford Catholic Central in the regional.

IN 1988-89, the Rockets went 11-10 and last season 11-11.

"Bob was pretty sure of his intentions in early December," said Szukaitis. "He told me he wanted he spend more time with his family and I think he got tired of some of the pressures, maybe from the parents, the typical types of things coaches face.

"He told me he wants to do other things." Killingbeck, an employee of the Wayne-Westland Schools for 21 years, is an industrial arts instructor at Marshall Junior High.

Among the projects he plans to tackle during his post-coaching days are to build a house. "I have three acres and I plan to build it next to my house," he said.

Szukaitis said he'is "not going to rush it" in terms of hiring a new coach.

Athletic programs in the Wayne-Westland Schools could be on the bubble because the district is faced with severe financial problems following a pair of millage election defeats.

"All of our coaching positions are automatically re-posted in the spring," Szukaitis said. "Right now I don't know what is going to happen. We may not know even before summer basketball-

KILLINGBECK SAID the district's financial woes was not a factor in his decision.

"It all came about after I resigned," he said. "But looking at it from that view, it might be a wise decision on my part. We're in an unusual situation now and we could really be in trouble." The outgoing coach, however, said he has no regrets about his coaching days at Glenn.

"It was real enjoyable for the most part," Killingbeck said. "The six years I was there was well worth the experience. You always have your ups and downs like any coach, but I enjoyed my six years at Glenn."

Among the possible succesors to Killingbeck? One name that has come up is Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Dave Bogataj, who interviewed for the position three years ago and is a teacher in the Wayne-Westland Schools. Another name is junior varsity coach Brad Jennings possibly Wayne Memorial assistant basketball coach Wayne Woodard. Jack Furlong, Wayne High girls coach, has also conde up.

GIRLS SOCCER OPENS

• Cherise Gable scored twice Tuesday, leading host Redford Thurston to a season-opening 3-1 girls soccer win over Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian.

Sophomore forward Joy Hazinski opened the scored for Thurston with a goal at 11:10 of the first half. Senior midfielder Sandy Herman drew the assist.

Gable, a senior forward, then scored a pair of second-half goals, the first coming at 11:50 from Christine Crosky and the second from Hazinski at 16:20. Thurston outshot the Lions, 26-12. (Eagle freshman goalle Andrea Maurer made 11 saves.)

"We need to do some fine tuning," said Thurston coach Ron Predmesky. "We hustled a lot, but we need to work on our skills."

• Livonia Ladywood opened its season Monday with a 1-1 tie at Dearborn Edsel Ford. The host Thunderbirds gained the point on a goal by Kim Nelson with less than a minute to play. Cassie Ozog scored in the first half for Ladywood.

that next year. There was never a meet when she let the pressure get to her."

Dawn Clifford, sophomore, Canton: Clifford had high scores of 9.0 on vault, 8.85 on bars, 9.1 on beam, 8.5 on floor exercise and 35.00 in the all-around. She also has All-American averages of , 8.84 on vault, 8.69 on bars, 8.93 on beam (17.70) and was third in the Rockford Invitational in that event. In the WLAA meet, she was fifth in the all-around (35.00) and fourth on beam (9.10) and bars (8.85). Clifford also was the Western Division champion on beam.

"In a year hampered by slow rehabilitation from a broken ankle. Dawn made me proud by adding an extra All-American award (a total of four this year) and Canton's highest (individual) finish in the state," coach John Cunningham sald.

Heather Murphy, Junior, Canton: Murphy holds the school record on beam with a 9.45. She was eighth in the state and fourth in the Plymouth Invitational in that event, and she has been an All-American on beam since her freshman

Murphy was ninth in WLAA in the allaround (34.30) and sixth on beam

"Heather finished the year very strongly, setting a school record on beam and qualifying for the individual finals at state." Cunningham sald. "She will be a great asset to next year's team."

Kim Rennolds, freshman, Canton: Rennolds set school records on vault (9.30), bars (9.15), floor (9.35) and allaround (36.15) in her first year of high school competition. Her high score on beam is 9.30. She also has All-American averages of 9.17 on vault, 8.70 on bars, 8.85 on beam, 9,10 on floor and 35,29 in the all-

Rennolds was 22nd in the state in the all-around (33.80) and qualified for state in every event except beam.

"Kim was a pleasant surprise as a freshman performer," Cunningham said. "She is very graceful and talented. Kim's exceptional gymnastics is just begin-

Kim Miller, freshman, Salem: Milter had high scores of 9.35 on vault, 9.45 on bars, 9.50 on beam, 9.40 on floor and 37:45 in the all-around. Her average scores were 9.0 on vault and bars, 9.15 on beam and 9.25 on floor.

Miller, an All-American in all events, was the only gymnast to qualify for the Individual state finals in every event, finishing first on bars, ninth on vault, fifth on beam and second on floor.

In the regional meet, Miller was first on beam and in the all-around and second in every other event. She also won the allaround title at the Midland Dow Invitational and was second at Freeland.

"Kim is definitely the strongest and most talented gymnast to come out of the Plymouth schools," coach Kathi Kinsella

Weight Loss Pill 'Baffles' Scientists

WASHINGTON - Scientists are vides a three-way scientifically debaffled by a new weight loss formula that causes people to lose weight even though they don't change the way they normally eat.
Studies published in respected scientific journals such as The British Journal of Nutrition say that cyamopsis tetragonolobus, an ingredient often used to thicken ice cream, can cause permanent weight loss without dieting or exercise. Although several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, the most likely according to scientists is that the ingredient seems to "trap" high calorle fat particles, decreasing their absorption in the intestines.

Scientists at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, have successfully isolated and incorporated cyamopsis tetra gonolobus Into an improved formula that greatly enhances the potential for weight loss over the ingredient alone. Called Food Source One, the revolutionary new formula pro-

Hartman will be the first to admit his rugged style helped land him a job in the National Hockey League after being selected in the seventh round of the 1986 draft. But Hartman, now in his fourth year, and his second straight full season with the parent club, has made great strids as a player.

Hartman, who led the Sabres with 317 minutes in penalties last year, has amassed only 211 minutes this year. He has scored 11 goals and his three assists Tuesday gives him 10 for the year and 21 points.

HE'S ONE OF the players of the future for playoff-bound Buffilo, which has 92 points and will likely finish in second place behind Boston in the Adams Division.

"Harty is a great little player," said Rick Dudley, the Sabres' firstyear coach. "He's becoming an allaround player. He's kind of like our (Bob) Probert. Although he's not as big and as frightening, people ion't like going up against him. He's a for the top of the ladder."

O'Leary Hawks win title Women's champs eye nationals

Livonia's O'Leary Hawks, coached by Andrea Layman, captured state honors earlier this month (March 9-11) by defeating the Metro Jets, 3-2, in the 1990 championship game of the Michigan Women's Senior B hockey finals at Wyandotte's Yack Arena.

The Hawks and the Jets advance to the U.S. National Senior B Tournament (ages 20 and up) on April 5-8 at the municipal ice arenas in Wayne and Wyandotte.

Carrie Sirola, a Livonia Bentley High product, scored twice in the final, helping the Hawks rally from a 2-0 deficit in the final eight minutes. She scored the game-winner from Allen Park's

Le Ann Wood and Debbie Albano each scored goals to stake the Jets to a 2-0 lead after two periods. But the Hawks roared back in the third to tie it on a goal by Sirola, followed by Plymouth Salem product Laurie Lough. (Livonia Churchil product Missy Donahue assisted on the goal). Ironically, the Hawks and the Jets battled to a 2-2 tie in the tourney opener.

THE HAWKS scored twice early in the period - Kim Hellar-Stover from Karen Stryzewski-Mollanen, and Sirola from defenseman Chris Shurin (ex-Livonia Stevenson).

The Jets came back on goals by Wood and Rhonda Dolin, both assisted by Renee Stone. In the other first-round game, the Michigan Falcons and the Garden City Renegades also battled to a 2-2 draw.

Fran Erickson and Cheryl Buch staked the Falcons to a 2-0 lead, but GC roared back on goals by Susan Block and Cindy Bleyle.

hockey

In round No. 2, the Hawks outgunned Trenton, 7-3, on a hat trick by Sirola, while Donahue added two. Marcle Walker (ex-Salem) and Jennifer Dzajkowski (ex-Churchill) added one each.

Vicki Rondeau, Deb Williams and Angle Santoro scored for Trenton.

The Falcons then returned to the ice to rout Marquette's Northern Lites, 10-3, as the Ericksons, Kara and Fran, both tallied hat tricks, combining for seven of the team's goals.

Patty Schwemin scored twice in a losing cause. Beth Giddings added a third goal.

IN GAME NO. 5, the Metro Jets drilled Trenton, 6-0, behind goaltender Jackle Haggerty's shutout performance.

Offensively for the Jets, Dolin scored twice with Albano, Beth Willman, Wood and Karin Wisusik notching one apiece. Meanwhile, Garden City bumped out the Northern Lites, 5-3, behind Block's hat trick. Blyele, the playmaker, assisted on four of the five GC goals.

Schwemin paced the Lites with a pair of goals. In the semifinals, the Jets blanked the Renegades, 5-0, as Albano scored twice and assisted on another. Wasusik picked up three assists.

In the other semifinal, Sirola picked up two goals and two assists in a 7-0 triumph over the Falcons. Czajowski also had two goals and an assist.

Hawk goalies Karla Baker (ex-Bentley) and Robin Demarest combined on the shutout, setting up the championship game won by the sponsor Joe O'Leary's team, which also includes: Kelli Nagy (ex-Bentley), Marcia Hanan Szarek (Redford), Judy Velasco (Garden City), Shellie Mullen (ex-Plymouth Canton), Missy Donahue (ex-Churchill) and Linda Bart (ex-Garden City East).

AT THE NATIONALS, 450 players from 29 teams will be representing these USA Hockey regions: Michigan, Minnesota, New York, New England and Southeastern. Divisions of play include: Pee Wee (ages 13-15), Midget (16-19), Senior B and Senior A (20 and

Representatives from the Michigan Inter-City Girls Hockey League, the tournament hosts, include the Michigan Chiefs, three-time National Senior B champions (entered in Senior A this year), the Hawks and the Jets (Senior B), and the Michigan Capitals (both Midget and Pee Wee). The opening ceremonies, featuring Captain Jacqueline Parker, the first woman to graduate from the U.S. Air Force Test Pilot School, will be at 8 p.m. Friday, April at Yack Arena in Wyandotte.

Action begins at noon Thursday at both Wayne and Yack. Play continues, beginning at 8 a.m. (through 5:20 p.m.) Friday, and at 8 a.m. (through 8 p.m.) Saturday, at both rinks.

The four championship games on Sunday - all at Wyandotte - are slated for 11 a.m. (Pee Wee), 1 p.m. (Midget), 3:30 p.m. (Senior B) and 4:30 p.m. (Senior A).

THE PREMIER AMATEUR HOCKEY EVENT OF THE YEAR!

By Brad Emons staff writer

T WAS A QUICK ending for both the Detroit Red Wings and area prep hockey teams this season, but despite the abbreviated seasons some outstanding Steve Yzerman-like individual performances were recorded.

Observerland's four area teams — Livonia Stevenson (16-6-5), Redford Catholic Central (12-7-3), Livonia Churchill (12-9-2) and Livonia Franklin (4-18-1) - all failed to make it out of regional play.

But Stevenson, behind first-year coach Paul Ferguson, came away with another Suburban Prep Hockey League crown, the fourth straight for the Spartans.

Ferguson, selected Observerland Coach of the Year, returned to the bench after a five-year layoff.

He was the head coach for six seasons (1973-79) at Franklin. Ferguson also coached the Michigan Sharks, a Bantam AAA team, to state and national titles in 1976.

Ferguson most recently coached at the University of Michigan-Dearborn from 1979-85.

"This season we had a lot of talent and the hardest thing the coaching staff had to do was get the boys to play as a team," he said. "They did that and the season was a success. Next year will be a challenge after graduating 12 seniors."

ranked among the top 10 teams in Class A, dominate this year's All-Observer squad as selected by the sports staff.

FIRST TEAM

Matt Fennelly, goalle, Redford CC; The 5-foot-11, 185-pound senior showed marked improvement between his junior and senior years. This season he posted a goals-against average of 3.25 per game. His save percentage was 85.7. Fennelly also had a shutout against Windsor (Ontario) Massey.

"When his mind was in the game he played very, very well," said Redford Catholic Central coach Jack Gumbleton.

8.J. Eglinton, defenseman, Llv. Stevenson: The senior captain excelled along the blue line this season.

B.J. is an excellent defensive defenseman," sald coach Paul Ferguson. "He controls the play in our end, and owns the corner and in front of the net. He had a very heavy shot from the point.

"This year he was definitely a team leader and team player."

Eglinton, who had five goals and 12 as-r sists, was an All-League and honorable mention All-State selection.

John Brodhun, defenseman, Liv. Stevenson: The senior scored 14 goals and added 13 assists for the Spartans.

"John is a strong defensemen with strong offensive skills," said Ferguson. "He handles the puck well and possesses an accurate shot from the blue line."

Brodhun was also an All-Suburban Prep League choice and made honorable mention All-State.

Keith Bozyk, forward, Redford CC: The 5-11, 170-pound senior left winger was the Shamrocks' captain and leading point producer (71) with 31 goals and 40

He was also voted first-team All-State (Class A) and All-West Division in the Michigan Metro High School Hockey

Paul Pirronello, forward, Redford CC: The 5-11, 170-pound right winger was just a shade behind linemate Bozyk in the scoring department with 31 goals and 39 assists for 70 points.

Pirronello also made the Michloan High School Hockey Coaches Association Class A All-State squad. He also earned All-Metro and West Division MVP honors.

"He's a tough kid with a good shot," Gumbleton said. "He also moved the puck around."

Matt Cichy, forward, Liv. Stevenson: The senior was a major point-producer for the Spartans with 22 goals and 21 assists for 43 points. "Mall is a strong skater with speed to burn," said the Stevenson coach. "He had a knack for putting the puck in the net. He anticipates well and usually was in the right place at the right time."

Cichy was also yoted All-Suburban Prep League and honorable mention All-

SECOND TEAM

Kevin Brady, goalle, Llv. Stevenson: At 6-4, the junior netminder was tough to get the puck past.

During league play, Brady posted a goals-against average of 1.32, overall he had a 2.66.

"Kevin was one of the main reasons we set the fewest goals-against record for the league at 15 (total) this season," said the Stevenson coach. "He's strong and has good size, and he is very quick. He controls the puck and doesn't give up many second chances . . . excellent hand-eye coordination with great anticipation.

Both Stevenson and CC, each . Brady was also an All-League and honorable mention All-Stater.

> Collin Gallagher, defenseman, Liv. Churchill: The 5-10, 160-pound junior was called a "Bobby Orr-type" by coach Rudy Varvari.

"He's got skills, an all-around player." sald the Churchill coach. "He was the quarterback on our power-play. He was a valuable asset because he could play forward."

The All-SPHL pick scored a pair of goals against state runner-up Trenton in the regional. He was also voted the team's MVP de-

Joe Cyrek, defensemen, Redford CC: The 6-2, 187-pound alternate captain was called "a steadying influence on our team" by coach Jack Gumbleton. The senior, labeled "a defensive defenseman," still managed to score four goals and added 14 assists. He played in the Michigan All-Stater

Game and was a first-team All-State pick by the Coaches Association. Cyrek also took second-team All-Metro

(West Division) honors: Jesse Hubenschmidt, forward, Redford CC: The 5-8, 158-pound junior centered one of the state's most potent lines. He ranked third in the team in scoring with 28 goals and 38 assists for 66 points. "Jesse is a crafty playmaker with a lot of skills," said the CC coach. Hubenschmidt was also second-team All-West Division in the Metro.

Joe Cyrek, a defenseman for Redford Catholic Central, was selected to the second-team All-Observer hockey team.

John Fenech, forward, Llv. Stevenson: The senior All-Leaguer tallied 19 goals and 30 assists this season for 49 points to pace the Spartans.

"John is a very smart hockey player and an excellent playmaker," said the Stevenson coach. "He was voted MVP by his teammates. He has good command of the ice surface."

Fenech was also honorable mention All-State.

Matt Sharkey, forward, Liv. Franklin: A shining light in an otherwise dismal season for the Patriots, the 5-11, 150-pound senior center was "Mr. Everything," according to coach Terry Jobbitt. "He was very coachable, a joy to be with and a real asset," Jobbilt said. "He won 71 percent of his faceoffs and was only one of four players on our team with a plus (six) rating."

The senior captain led Franklin in scoring with 11 goals and 29 assists. He was ninth in the league in scoring and made first-team All-State. During his career, Sharkey notched 111 points on 35 goals and 76 assists.

His family story is now a movie

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

STORY THAT was told at every family gathering has become a motion picture, "Coupe de Ville." Mike Binder, originally from Birmingham, is the guy who wrote the screenplay and co-produced the film comedy.

Alan Arkin portrays the father. the character who in real life is Binder's late grandfather. The three sons in the movie from Universal Studios are based on three brothers, one of whom is Binder's father, Burt, called Buddy.

Interviewed in his suite at the Radisson Hotel in Southfield, Binder was getting ready to pack and leave. The personable writer and performer was in town on a publicity tour, and had attended the Detroit premtere of "Coupe de Ville" the night before, at the Old Orchard in Farming-

The movie had its world premiere at the Museum of Modern Art in New York. "I took my dad to it, and he loved it," Binder said. His father, Burt, now lives in Florida. His mother, Judy Trumbull, makes her home in Newport Beach, Calif.

OTHER RELATIVES still living in the Detroit area include cousins, and Uncle Bobby (one of the brothers, played by Patrick Dempsey), who lives in Birmingham. "He saw the movie last night for the first time." Binder said last week.

"Coupe de Ville" also had premieres a few weeks ago at a Los Angeles celebrity gala and in Toronto.

"Audiences honestly love this movie," Binder said. "Time magatine loved it." He sald some critics have complained that the story is not new, that it's a foregone conclusion the young brothers who take their Dad's car to Florida are going to smash it up along the way.

Binder declared, "It's a very sweet little fable. This story has been told a million times. My father and his brothers took this trip to Florida and smashed up the car.

"They told this story for 30 years. I realized it was a point in their life. when they left like three siblings, and there was a moment when three brothers share something."

Although he has been in show business for many years, Binder is just 31 years old. He started doing comedy at 17 in Ann Arbor, went to California at 18 and worked as a stand-BINDER SAID he has put six up comic and actor. He was in Detroit in 1984 to produce the Detroit

His sceenplay for "Couple de Ville" originally was sold to Paramount. "It sat on a shelf." Then, Universal picked it up. In the beginning, Binder went to the producers for Woody Allen. He chose them because, "Woody Allen was my high school idol. I always wanted to make movies for his company."

company, wanted to direct the movie. Binder recalled, "At the first meeting, Roth said, 'If this movie works people will go out of the theater and call their brothers and sisters.' " Those were the same sentiments Binder always had about the movie.

Binder sald the first 20 minutes of "Coupe de Ville" are set in Detroit. .You see a sign that says, Detroit, and the scene has a Midwestern feel, but actually was shot on location in the South.

THE MOTOR CITY is where Binder grew up. He moved to Birmingham in junior high school and was graduated from Seaholm High School. "California didn't dilute me." he said of his scripts. "The characters I write are very Midwestern."

Binder's next film is "Northern Lights." He said, "It's a Fox film about a summer camp, Tamakwa, I went to in northern Canada with a bunch of Detroit kids. There's a big Tamakwa family (of campers) in the Detroit area."

'Northern Lights" will start filming in September. "We're now working on a cast. I play Bob Handleman, one of the head counselors, who's been there for 15 years. It's exciting," he said.

Although his home is on the West Coast now, Binder said he doesn't have a Hollywood lifestyle. His only close friend in show business is comic Dave Coulier. "He's a friend of mine and an old roommate. He's

Lots of things are happening to Second Self

Second Self, which has a new album "Mood Ring," will play for a record release party Friday at Detroit's St. Andrew's Hall.

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

A new record on a major label, a recent video shoot in Los Angeles and a tour in the works. Now would be the time to see a second side to Second Sel! if there is one.

Not a chance.

Second Self remains the same, according to the band's vocalist and guitarist Mike Nehra. The Detroit rock band has just released, "Mood Ring," its first LP, on EMI, and is already busy writing songs for the next one.

The four-man outfit will perform at, a record release party Friday at is brimming with enthusiasm. He's especially proud that the band didn't have to leave Detroit for Los Angeles or New York to get signed.

Yet, Nehra adds, Second Self is grounded in the reality the hard work has only begun.

'We haven't noticed a change," said Nehra in a telephone interview. "We've almost done this independently with a major label. They've (EMI) really caught on to our approach, the street-level thing."

"Mood Ring" is a street-level type of album, passionate and hard driving. The 11-song project was recorded at Muscle Shoals Studios in Alabama and remixed at Ben Grosse's Pearl Sound in Canton.

The band enlisted the services of producer Ron St. Germain (Bad Brains), who is most noted for his re- just begun. The group will commixing work with Aerosmith and mence on what looks to be a five-to-Whitney Houston.

MUCH LIKE their previous work, Second Self wanted a live sound oh "Mood Ring." St. Germain was instrumental in bringing that out, according to Nehra. St. Germain encouraged the band not to edit out certain mistakes, allowing Second Self to fulfill its vision of a "dirtysounding" album.

record, "Night Moves," there. Second Self hopes a similar fate awaits another Detroit outfit.

"When you walk in . . . The vibe there is great," Nehra said about Muscle Shoals. They have great, old equipment with the outboard gear and everything.'

Another perk for recording at Muscle Shoals is that noted session man Jim Horn sat in on the recording of "The Glory," "Ghost Dance," "Lose Those Shadows" and "Dream."

River Bistro

The Robert Mondavi Great Chefs Program continues through Saturday, April 14, at the River Bistro at the Westin Hotel at Renaissance Center in Detroit. Featured is a special dinner menu created by 15 world-famous chefs, matched with wines from Napa Valley's Robert Mondavi Winery. Re-creation of the "great chefs" menu is supervised by River Bistro Chef Hans Fuchs. Diners are able to choose appetizers such as Paula Wolfert's Chestnut Soup, entrees such as Wolfgang Puck's Salmon with Black Pepper and Ginger in Cabernet Butter, or pastries such as Gaston Lenotre's Sunshine Pear Tartlet.

Olympic team

Michael D. Russell, executive chef of the Skyline Club, a private club in Southfield, leaves for Singapore on Friday, as a member of the United States National Team to compete in the Salon Culinaire International against 36 countries. Russell quali-

Cafe Marie

The Birmingham restaurant that was known as Le Peep is no longer a Le Peep franchise and is called Cafe Marie. Richard Zebko, who was general manager at Le Peep, is still the manager and says ownership remains the same. Formerly open only for breakfast and lunch, the restaurant also is open for dinner. Zebko said, "We designed the menu to better serve our customers. As a franchise, we couldn't serve toast. We have excellent toast and oat bran muffins. Cheese and garlic bread is becoming very popular. We now have chunky chicken salad." Hours are 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Woodward Square.

The Manoogian Collection of American paintings at Detroit Institute of Arts through May 27 is a work of art in itself.

Richard Manoogian of Grosse Pointe Farms has a fine eye and deep appreciation for that wondrous involvement with the DIA and period of American art, 1839 to 1910, meeting other local collectors that in which artists excelled in depicting the natural wonders of the still new country and the diverse people who populated the land.

Musicians orchestrate their lives for family, teaching, performing

By Carolyn Barnett-Goldstein special writer

Linda Snedden-Smith and Bruce Smith of Farmington Hills, violinists, are one of several married couples in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Their lives revolve around performing, practicing, parenting

As they talked about their family and professional lives, they were seated on an extended curving couch in the living room. She, a tall, slim blond, was dressed in comfortable slacks and top and he was wearing leans and sweater. Across the room a baby grand was set up for practicing and teaching. Neither looks much older than their four teenage children, Erik, 19, Marlan, 18, Cameron, 16 and Andrea, 13.

It was easy to tell it was 3 p.m. In the background there was laughter, telephones ringing and doorbells buzzing as the children and their friends were in and out. The dog was barking and a chorus of clocks, which Bruce makes, chimed each half hour.

Linda Snedden-Smith and Bruce Smith meet in the hallway of their Farmington Hills home to talk about what each will be doing during the day. They both are violinists with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, but each has individuai commitments as well.

Like many couples, they periodically speak simultaneously and interject comments. She said her mother is a musician, so music lessons began at 4 and she later studied Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. and at Juilliard.

HE SAID he began violin at 6 and by 9 was studying with Misha Mishakoff, concertmaster of the NBC Orchestra under Toscanini. Later he completed a bachelor's and master's in violin and education at Eastman. When he was 19 and at Interlochen Music Camp one summer, he met a young German instrument maker who taught him a craft he still enjoys, restoring instruments.

Even though they were Cleveland, Ohio, natives, the Smiths met at Eastman, They married right after graduation in 1965 and moved to New York where she studied under the legendary Ivan Galamian and he taught high school in Westchester.

She said of Galamain, "He could play anything, any little passage beautifully, and he could nail your problem on the head - any problem. He was terribly demanding, yet, very soft-spoken. He instilled in me a desire to work and to play."

The couple came to Detroit in 1987 so she could join the Detroit Symphony. He, in turn, pursued his doctorate in musicology, cataloguing 2,200 instruments of the Stearn Collection of Musical Instruments at the University of Michigan.

As to how they manage two demanding careers, a home and a family, she said, "When the children were young, it was hard, but everybody chipped in. Bruce was finishing at Cleveland Institute of Music, his PhD., so his schedule was more flexible than mine . . . Bruce helped a lot. We shared responsibility and Bruce's father was living with us."

Saying he joined the Detroit Symphony in 1974, he said, "It's nice to be able to work together with Linda." Because their schedules coincide, they can perform chamber musle, travel and "do things that involve the children."

She is concertmaster of the Birmingham Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra, a member of the American Artists Series chamber players and performs with other suburban orchestras and chamber groups. . In winter they said they like to trade their bows for ski poles and ski at Lake Placid and northern Michigan. In the summer they like to camp anywhere from the Great Smokies to Oregon. They also take the children to Europe, and host foreign students, and their children make exchange visits abroad.

She said, "I'm enjoying the children while I have them," adding that instead of going out after a concert they would rather "come home and be with them." Many times, she said the children go to the concerts.

THEIR CHILDREN BEGAN music lessons when they were 4. Cameron just won second prise (piano) in the Jewish Community Center competition. "He's very pleased," his mother said, "but I don't think he'll go into music."

Bruce added, "Maybe he'll minor in it, but now he plays parties and picks up some extra money.'

Andrea is trying the violin again while Erik is at the Art Institute in Chicago studying illustration. Marlin likes music but isn't currently study-

Their father said, "They got all their talent from Linda." When she protested, he added, "Well, most of

They talked about when to introduce a child to an instrument and she said,"I guess you just try them. It's hard to know which instrument to give them, too. I think the plane is excellent. I notice with my students that those who have some piano background seem to catch on a lot auicker . . . "

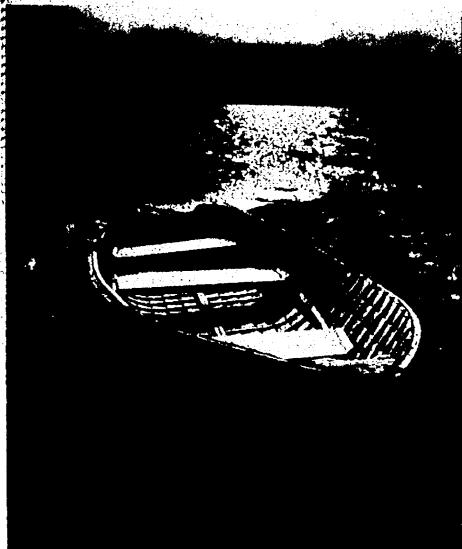

She said the ideal thing is for one parent to supervise practice at home when the child is small, because it's hard for little ones to remember everything that's said during a lesson and they could practice something wrong for a whole week

They agreed that if practice becomes an all-out battle, it's worth-

Revelation in everyday events

"Look at that whisker!" I whispered to myself. While peering into the mirror and grooming my chin with simian grace, I thought, "Wow, I have an albino hair in my beard pure white!" Plucking it out with the tweezers, I again, through tearing eyes, admired how pure white this whisker was and how out of place it looked in the darkness of my beard.

Well, a few days later, you wouldn't believe it, that same whisker grew back pure white - or maybe it wasn't the same whisker. Oh no. The thought sent a chill down my spine, as I began frantically pawing and separating my beard. Behold, the revelation; there were many white whiskers. In a few minutes I aged several years.

Everyday offers us revelations. Either by circumstances or by learning, we become aware of things that were formerly unknown to us. I feel that artists not only happen onto revelation, but they seek them out. Every time an artist attempts to draw something, he or she searches for the lines, shapes and colors that were most likely unknown to them.

THE WORD "REVELATION" means to become aware of the previously unknown, so artists not only happen upon revelations, they look for them. Even people as close to you as your own family members, offer fantastic revelation as you attempt to draw them. ## Seamstress creates own brand of magic

'I have never done anything quite like this before. But I like challenges.'

- Linda Sharron 'Aladdin' coslumer

By Marie McGee staff writer

In her quest to bring quality children's entertainment to the area, theater owner Inga Zayti often gets help from unexpected sources.

Take, for instance, her current production of "Aladdin," a live stage production now going on at her quaint and charming - not to mention historic - Marquis Theater in downtown North-

For this show, Zayti accidentally acquired the volunteer services of an area businesswoman who just happens to be a talented seamstress who "signed on" to do the costumes for the

'Linda Sharron (center) took on costuming of "Aladdin" as a challenge and wound up enjoying it. Shown wearing her handiwork is Chris Berube (left) as the Genie; Joseph French as the Mean Magician; Meredith Jones as the handmaiden. French normally is in the role of the director — that's his position with the Greenfield Village Theater. But once in awhile, he yearns to thit the boards himself. Hence, his role in the Marquis produc-

"I HAVE NEVER done anything quite like this before," admitted Linda Sharron, who is the owner of two area bridal shops, one in Livonia and one in Novi. "But I like challenges."

"I happened to see the children's holiday show presented at the Marquis and was impressed with what Inga was trying to do," Sharron said.

Because the bridal business is traditionally slow in the beginning of a new year, Sharron said she decided to contact Zayli to see if she could get involved in costuming future shows. The timing was right, Sharron said.

"Aladdin" was in the casting stage so she was included in the planning at its earliest stages by other technicians who were going about the business of set design, music and lighting.

Born in Detroit, Sharron learned to sew at her mother's knee, so to speak.

"My mother and dad owned the Allure Bridal Shop for many years, first in Detroit and then moving to Livonia. My three sisters and I learned the business from them."

THREE OF THE four sisters are still somewhat involved in the bridal business, which now includes a shop on Meadowbrook Road in Novi as well as the store on Plymouth Road in Livo-

However, only two of them are seamstresses - and even that has changed over the years, Sharron said. Because the shop does a lot of custom work, she is involved in designing, particularly in the prom dress line, Another sister works mainly with bridal headpieces. A third sister is involved in a cake decorating business.

Their mother, Sid, retired from the business several years ago, but was pressed back into service when Sharron "became a little nervous about meeting the dress rehearsal deadline."

"It was a wonderful experience," said Sharron. As her mentor, "Inga was a wonderful teacher, pointing out many things like how lighting affects color and how it changes on stage. I learned so much from her."

What has resulted is a set of stunning costumes for the "Aladdin" cast. But more than that, Zayti has a new disciple in her efforts to bring good children's entertainment to the area at affordable prices in an authentic theater set-

Remaining "Aladdin" performances are at 11:30 a.m. and 3 p.m., Saturdays, March 31 and April 7; and 2 p.m. Sundays, April 1 and 8. Tickets are $6.50 for adults; $5.50 for children under 12 (no chldren under three). Tickets may be purchased by phone or at the door or from Marquis Boutique, 135 E. Main, Northville. ## Try seed-guessing game

Many years ago, I read about a game played by a gardening family. The objective was to see who came closest to guessing how many seeds there were in a watermelon.

this particular watermelon weighed about 19 pounds, so guests were also invited to help with the eating as well as the counting.

How many seeds do you think there are in a big watermelon? Of course, the number would vary from watermelon to watermelon. And, since the days of that particular game, new varieties of watermelons have been developed with fewer seeds. But, any melon will do for the game if you are going to open it, eat it and count the seeds.

However, you don't have to use a watermelon. How about kernels on an ear of corn, or seeds in a squash or cucumber? Or, make it easy use an apple.

What's your guess about watermelon seeds: fewer than 100: 100 to 500; 500 to 1,000; or over 1,000?

LET'S TAKE A 9-inch ear of sweet golden bantam corn. Are there fewer than 300 kernels; 300 to 400; or more than 500? Butter and a bit of salt add another dimension to the game: Who makes the corn disabpear fastest?

How many seeds in a summer squash: fewer than 300; 300 to 500; or 500 to 700?

Would a table cucumber, about 8 inches long, have fewer than 250 Introduction for 1987 by the Ameriseeds; 250 to 500; 500 to 750; or more than 750?

And finally, a good-sized apple: fewer than 10; 10 to 20; 20 to 30; or more than 30?

The results of the game played long ago appear at the end of the col-

NEW DOGWOODs: Two new dogwood varieties - Cherokee Sunset and Cherokee Daybreak - have been introduced by Commercial Nursery Co., of Decherd, Tenn.

Sunset, with green and yellow varlegated leaves and deep red blooms, was voted Outstanding New Plant can Association of Nurserymen. Daybreak has green and white varlegated leaves and white blooms.

Hubert A. Nicholson, president of Commercial Nursery, reported that "both vigorous varieties take on bright hues of purple, red, orange and pink with cooler fall weather. Their colorful summer foliage plus bright fall colors make them distinctly different from other dogwood varieties and offers the homeowner the opportunity of a much wider range of color. They will thrive wherever the native dogwood grows."

SEED QUIZ ANSWERS:

Light touch to symphony's cabaret concert

Fat Bob" Taylor abaret soloist

Becky Jones teams with Taylor

Appearances by the young 18th century musical genius Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and his famed adversary Antonio Salieri will highlight the upcoming Livonia Symphony Orchestra's cabaret concert.

The two will confront one another at the annual LSO musical offering at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 7 at Madonna College.

Young Mozart, 10-year-old Joseph Marsano of Sterling Heights, will play music from "his" Sonata No. 545 with accompaniment arranged by LSO conductor Francesco DiBlasi, who will portray Salieri. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marsano, Joseph is a student of Wesley Fishwick at the Roeper School in Birmingham.

"Fat Bob" Taylor will act as master of ceremonles and solo as baritone in "Ol' Man River" from Jerome Kern's "Showboat."

RESERVATIONS FOR tables of eight and 10, at $10 per ticket, can be made with Betty Jean Awrey at 522-1100. Refreshments and a cash bar will be available from 7 p.m.

"Fat Bob" will join with guest soprano Becky Jones for a medley from Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II's "Oklahoma." Jones also will sing "I Dreamed a Dream" from "Les Miserables"by Schonberg.

LSO executive board members will join the orchestra in Leroy Anderson's "Sandpaper Ballet" as a sandpaper-playing ensemble.

Can Can dancers from Miss Bunny's School of Dance in Livonia will perform to music of Jacques Offenbach's "Gaite Parisienne" with Sister Francilene, president of Madonna College, a frequent guest conductor with the LSO, Ernest Jones, will lead in a reading of DeRose's "Deep Purple" and in Morton Gould's "Ameriille" and "The Blue Danube Waltz" by Strauss.

Other orchestra numbers will include Richard

'Save Planet' author offers practical advice

By Jeffrey Kahan special writer

"You can change the world," said author Diane MacEachern in her new book, "Save Our Planet," MacEachern was in Novi Friday signing copies of her book which provides readers with 750 ways to imenvironment. the prove Recommendations are often as simple as recyling newspapers, installing water flow devices on faucets, or buying organic produce.

MacEachern was born in Detroit, grew up in Taylor and attended the University of Michigan where she received a master's degree in natural resources in 1977. The author now lives near Washington, D. C., where she owns a consulting firm specializing in environmental communications. A mother of one, she has grown increasingly concerned the planet. "I've been working on these issues for a long time but having a child really changes your perspective about the future."

THE AUTHOR, WHO is currently on a national promotional tour of her book, believes that the United States is faced with severe environmental problems. "The contamination of the Great Lakes, widespread use of artifical pestleides, groundwater contamination, air pollution and burgeoning landfills," are all ecological concerns that MacEachern feels need to be addressed.

She felt compelled to provide Americans with an easy-to-read handbook on how to help clean up the earth. "People are craving this about the environmental condition of information, and have more environmental awareness then they've ever had before," said the author.

The 201-page book provides useful tips on how people can change their her book signed. "I'm really conhabits at home, in the office, school fers brief explanations as to why change is necessary. "Enought aluentire commercial fleet every three months," writes MacEachern.

"SAVE OUR PLANET" also includes lists of energy efficient appliances and cars, dangerous lawn chemicals and "safe" pesticides, as well as directions for planting a tree, starting a compost pile, disposing household hazardous waste and weatherizing homes.

A number of area residents attended the book-signing to chat with the author. Rachel Simancek of Novi was the first person in line to have cerned about the environment and and supermarket. The book also of- am doing everything I can to help clean it up," she later sald.

Carol Kronberg of Dearborn wantminum is discarded to rebuild the ed two books signed because she planned on donating one to the Redford Public Library.

> Daren Otis, volunteer coordinator of the Livonia Recycling Center, was also on hand to meet the author. "People call everyday with questions about recycling and other environmentally related concerns," she said. Otis, who has 75 "Save Our Planet" books on order, said that, "People are hungry . . . starved for information."

MacEachern suggested 10 simple ways that area residents could help

A stone facade at this Birmingham house's entryway and along the structure's lower level plus the rocks used as a border along the shrubbery present a complete theme.

Extensive use of glass and white brick that blends into the surrounding habitat are used to make this Oakland County house complement its surroundings. The theme is carried through in the house's interior (see photo at right).

The Luxury You've Grown to Appreciate.

It's come to you in small steps and big jumps; by this time, you and luxury enjoy a familiar, comfortable fit.

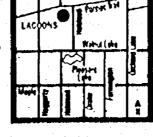

As the sunlight streams through floor-to-ceiling windows, vaulted ceilings and two-story Great Rooms impart a stately openness to your home. Touches like Roman-style sunken tubs add an indulgent sparkle, while 141 acres of rolling woods provide the tasteful elegance that has come to suit you so well.

The topography in the Midwest generally conjures up in one's mind flat terrain — the prairie.

However, about 10,000 years ago the retreating glaciers left in their path not only flat land but sculptured pockets — hilly terrain and inland lakes.

Southeastern Michigan is a product of that glacial wake, particularly in Oakland County.

Having a variety of both flat and hilly alluvial landscapes provided an ideal setting for agriculture in the 19th century. One hundred years later the country's burgeoning population has supplanted agriculture with architecture — the built environment satisfying humanity's basic need for shelter.

The variety of building sites in the county provides a challenge for the enterprising individual who seeks to build on an in-town lot or lake lot. Topography plays a tantamount role; in determining the type of architectural structure that will be compatible with its surroundings.

With a sensitive architect and understanding client cognizant of their needs, a sense of place can be sought which ultimately will make for good architecture that will last a very, very long time.

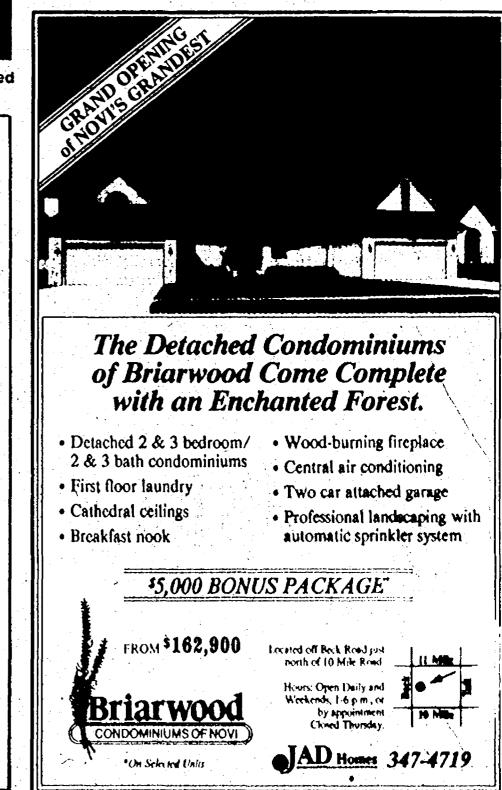

"In-town" provides the greatest challenge. Vacant lots fast are be; coming extinct in more densely populated, desirable areas but they can be found.

ONE EXAMPLE is a lot on South Washington in Roy Oak, now site of a two-unit townhouse designed by the architectural firm of Stucky & Viztale. Located in an older neighborhood, the style of architecture seemed to warrant something contextual, in this case a Victorial style which is eclectic in nature.

A panoramic view of trees and an inland lake are enhanced by using glass panes instead of bricks to form an outer wall for this Oakland County home. To insure that nothing blocks the view, the fireplace also is encased in glass.

The developer had seen an article featuring this style and said "why not?" The two-story arrangement of these units has a sense of scale with, the surrounding buildings.

The variety of ornamental details also helps to make it compatible. The garage is located in a raised basement accessible from the rear.

Another in-town dwelling is in Birmingham, where a new structure supplanted an older one.

The house, designed by architect David Sellards, is capped by three gables facing the street, which rethe neighborhood.

The longitudinal axis of the house follows the lot lines with the living room overlooking the yard in the back. The room has full view, with a 14 foot ceiling.

The exterior facing will be Dryvit, which is an aggregate finish with an acrylic binder. This material fast is becoming a popular material in the domestic market.

A GATE marks the entrance, which is on the side of the house necessitated by the garages which are on the front.

Sellards also has decided a house

Bloomfield Township.

It has all the accoutrements of a country farmhouse, once indigenous to the area: stone, clapboard siding and cedar shake shingles. The brick sidewalk leading to the front entrance adds to the variety of textures which makes an impression upon first viewing.

The two story structure is carved into the slope of the site affording views of the lake behind.

Another lake house, also in Bloomfield Township, is the design of architect Jack Brown.

The shallowness of the site dictat-lates well to the domestic genre of representative of take living in ed placing the house closer to the water. Constructed of steel framing, which is clad in Dryvit, the facade steps up and out, lending a dramatic view of the lake.

A cantilevered deck attempts to touch the water. The living room is a pavilion-like projection which takes further advance of the lake view.

The fireplace, which often is awkwardly placed in the middle of the viewing wall of many lake houses, here is resolved by being made out of glass so as not to interrupt the vis-Southeastern Michigan has geological roots which have helped form a variety of living styles. In Oakland County, in-town and lake living can provide a feast for the eyes and a challenge to the mind for the right individual and the right house which is integral with its site.

Kitchen counters are durable yet decorative

AP Newsfeatures

Good performance in kitchen counters is crucial to safety, efficiency and comfort. Since you'll be living with the counter for a long time, give weight to durability as well as fashion and cost when shop-

While no single material meets everyone's needs or decorating preferences, the best counters are sanitary, retain good looks over a long period and are easy to maintain, said kitchen designer James Krengel of St. Paul, Minn.

When pennies count, plastic laminate is usually a good choice. It is economical and available in a wide variety of colors, textures and patterns.

However, Krengel said, it is diffi-and moisture could eventually do damage in those joints.

The high-end customer is choosing what the trade calls solid surfacing tops - synthetics such as Corian, Surrell 2000X, Avonite and Fountainhead - which have nearly invisible seaming.

TODAY'S MOST fashionable and most expensive kitchen counters are of natural stone, especially granite. Although it is extremely durable and maintains its shine, granite imparts an unemotional, formal look, according to designer Kevin Walz of New York. And, like plastic laminates, the seam, s are quite visible.

He said marble is a softer, friendlier material, even though marble counters will stain and eventually lose their shine. To Walz, the signs of wear have their own beauty. If that's of the stain can be eliminated by using a penetrating sealer.

Granite has been imitated in laminates and solid surfacing materials, so those on a lower budget can have the granite look.

Solid surfacing materials are Krengel's favorites because they are durable, easy to work with and available in a wide range of textures and colors. They are made in a variety of synthetics. Corian, for example, is an acrylic. Avonite is a polyester and Fountainhead is a blend of acrylic Some have the advantage of taking a bright sheen; others offer a

HE ADVISED stripping off stains with steel wool and refinishing with a nontoxic oil every year or so. Butcher block is being used less in home kitchens, according to Krengel, because it is not considered as sanitary as other counter materials and should be carefully scoured to kill any bacteria - a problem main-

An advantage is that interesting Gedge treatments can be devised. While maple butcher block is the most common, other woods can be used with attractive results.

While stainless steel does show water marks and fingerprints, the signs of use are part of an attractive patina it acquires as it ages.

Furthermore, stainless over plywood is one of the least expensive counters. It is available in most areas through commercial restaurant suppliers, said Walz.

Among materials he does not advise for counters is ceramic tile, which he said is better for backsplashes, walls and floors, where the many patterns and colors can be used to create interest, and brittleness and unevenness are not draw-

Put together an efficient workshop

Planning

By Reader's Digest For AP Newsfeatures

If you dream of an efficient, functional place to work on projects and store tools, here are some hints to help you get started on your ideal home workshop.

A workbench is the heart of a workshop. A sturdy 2 by 4 frame topped by a double layer of 4-inch plywood will serve as an excellent, easy-tomake workbench. If a full-sized bench takes up more space than you have, you can build a fold-down unit. Use a solid core door for the benchtop; fasten it to a wall, using a piano hinge. Support the front edge with 2 by 4 legs attached with hinges and folding leg brackets that lock open.

For most people, the correct height for a workbench is 34 to 36 Because concrete is hard on the feet and damages tools that are dropped accidentally, cushlon the workshop floor with plywood or an old carpet. Storing Tools

Here are some tips for expanding storage space:

• A back of the door tool rack is great for storing small tools and sup-

• You can store tools on wall hooks or on a peg board. Paint the outline of each tool on the surface to remind you and others where to replace it.

To make a handy rack for screwdrivers and other small tools, drill a series of 1/2 to 2 inch holes through a 1 by 3. Mount the rack on the wall with L brackets.

A good way to organize washers and nuts is to hang them according to size on large safety pins or on wire coat hangers whose necks have been untwisted.

Jars with screw tops are ideal for storing small items such as nails, screws, nuts and bolts. You can double your shelf capacity by screwing some of the jar lids to the undersides of the shelves. Place a lock washer under the head of the screw so that the lid won't turn when you unscrew the jar. Or attach the lid with two screws.

If you need a rack to store abrasive sanding discs, cut off 1/3 to 1/4 of an aluminum pie plate and fasten it to the wall, bottom side out.

Safety Precautions

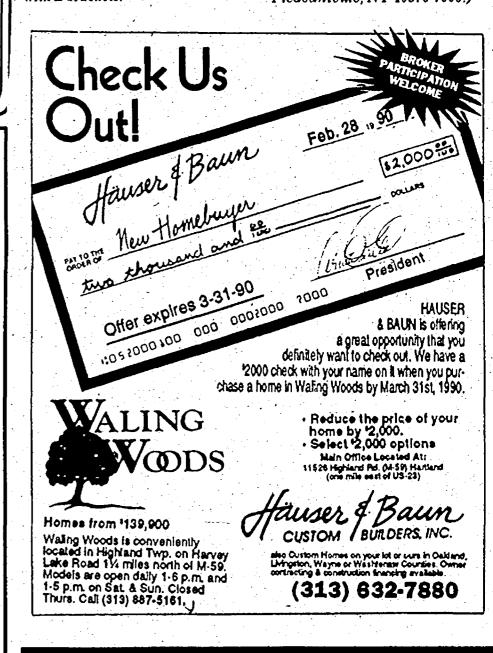

When working with any power tool use only a heavy-duty, grounded (three-prong) extension cord that is 14-gauge or larger. To keep power tool cords out of

on a long spring screwed into the ceiling above your workbench. Store discarded toxic chemicals such as solvents in a separate, sealed the way as you work, hook the slack trash container and dispose of them properly.
