Schools tax hike urged

By Leonard Poger

A Wayne-Westland school district millage committee agreed Wednesday night that it has two major goals to meet in the next six weeks:

• Educate voters about the need for a proposed tax increase to maintain a quality education system. • Explain the inequities of the state school aid formula.

To homeowners, the 7.75-mill proposal means a property tax levy of $7.75 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, or nearly $194 for a house

The 5-mill increase represents $125 of that figure while the renewal represents the remaining $69.

But to the school district, the proposal's approval would mean $10 million in revenue.

More than 100 committee members met for more than two hours in the central administration office to hear an explanation of the school aid formula, the need to get public approval for a tax rate renewal and increase, and how to answer voters' questions about specific issues.

Leading the discussion were Dennis O'Neill, school superintendent and Greg Howes, co-chairman of the committee along with Larry

AT ONE point, Howes asked for a show of hands on how many committee members before that night understood the state school aid formula. Less than half raised their hands.

City investigating strip mall vacancies

By Tom Henderson staff writer

In the last mayoral campaign, Robert Thomas, the candidate, voiced concerns that too much commercial development was creating excessive vacancies and harming owners of shops in strip malls.

Now, as mayor, Thomas will find out if that is true, thanks to a study under way by the city's department of economic development.

"We're gathering our numbers, now," said Scott Veldhuis, director of economic development. "We should have the report in a few months, later this summer."

VELDHUIS SAID the city was gathering information on:

- The number or retail strip centers, which he estimated to be in the
- Vacancy rates. • Turnover rates.

WEDDING PLANS

SPECIAL SECTION M TODAY'S ISSUE

By Tom Henderson staff writer

Marci Rich wasn't one of those people who couldn't figure out what they wanted to do for a living. For as long as she can remember, she's had a mission in life: to groom dogs.

"It's all I ever wanted to do. It's what I wrote my high school term paper on," said Rich, who since last summer has owned the Posh Pup grooming shop on Middlebelt, just south of Ann Arbor Trail.

Rich says she feels at home in Westland, near the Garden City boundary. She grew up in Garden City and attended West High School, for one thing. For another, business in her first store has been excellent.

"I absolutely love it here," said Rich. "I grew up in Garden City and my dad worked at Ford for 20 years. So I can relate to working-class peo-

BUT THE FIRST year hasn't been trouble free. One day in the winter, Rich and her associate, Diane Hasty, discovered an unordered alteration when they opened up one day: Someone had plowed a car into the side of the building, then backed up and left, leaving a huge hole behind.

"The wall was caved in and the wind was whipping through," said Hasty. "Someone was trying turn us into a drive-through dog wash. Or maybe they were making a night de-

But they just put some cardboard over the hole and opened as usual.

'You have to read their body language. Feel if they're tense. Read their eyes. There's never been a dog I've been afraid of, but I respect their capability to put me out of work for a long time.'

- Marci Rich

What's not usual is the inside of the shop. The back room looks more like a veterinarian's office, with its high-tech machines and hydraulic tables. The machines are industrialstrength blowers for getting a dog's hair straightened out just right. The tables go up and down so the animals can be attended to without the stress of pulling and lifting them. "From the time they come in our store, our hands never leave the pet," said Hasty, who before her medical retirement because of multiple scierosis was head of radiologic services at Heritage Hospital in Tay-

She has also raised championship cocker spaniels. "And they rarely see the inside of a cage, which lessens the stress of grooming."

BEFORE OPENING up her Westland store, Rich had a portable business: People didn't have to bring their dogs to her, she drove to them. "But then they started having all. those freeway shootings and I figured I'd be better off getting off the road," said Rich. Rich said she has never been bitten by a dog.

"You have to read their body language. Feel if they're tense. Read their eyes," she said. "There's never been a dog I've been afraid of, but I respect their capability to put me out of work for a long time."

A typical grooming is about $22 and includes brushing, ear cleaning, nail trimming, bathing, blow-drying and hand-seissoring. Sorry, no cats

And none of that cheap generic shampoo, either. "It's all-natural, PH balanced, tearless shampoo," said Hasty. How posh.

cop calls

TWO UNREGISTERED handguns were confiscated by Westland police Sunday evening after they responded to a fight in progress on Farnum.

A 15-year-old Westland youth told police that a 16-year-old from Inkster had threatened to shoot him and then hit him in the mouth, knocking out a tooth, because of an argument involving girls.

Police arrested the Inkster teen on assault charges, then charged the 16year-old driver of his car, also from Inkster, with driving without a license. A subsequent search revealed that both of them had live bullets in their pockets. The driver claimed he didn't have the key to the trunk, but police found the key near the curb, opened the trunk and found a pair of unregistered handguns, a .32 caliber and a .38 caliber. The serial number on the .32 caliber had been filed off.

Both Inkster teens were then charged with possession of unregistered handguns.

A FISHING TRIP had an unhappy ending early Sunday morning, according to an 18-year-old Westland man. He claimed he was beaten up and held captive in his roommate's house after he became involved in an argument with the other man and his girlfriend.

. The teen said the other man, described as about 24 or 25, began hitting his girlfriend and baby shortly after the fishing trip ended. When the woman asked the teen to intervene, the man began pummeling him, too.

The teen told police the man told him he couldn't leave, then when he finally let him go, he told him not to come back for his clothes or he would be killed.

Police are investigating.

A 7-ELEVEN employee wasn't going to let a thief escape with stolen beer without a fight Thursday night. The employee, a 22year-old Canton man, saw a male described as between 18 and 20 and 6-foot-1 or 6-foot-2 leaving the store without paying for the two 12-packs of Budweiser he was carrying.

When the employee stopped the thief at the door, the thief punched him and tried to flee. The fight continued out in the parking lot, but . finally the thief broke free, got into a waiting vehicle and fled north.

The report didn't indicate if the thief got away with the beer,

A TEEN-AGE boy told police that someone broke into his 1977 Granada and stole speaker equipment, a radar detector and $100 in cash. The Cavell St. youth, 16. estimated his total loss at $1,150 and reported that his dashboard was "broken to pieces."

Plans under way for school to train construction workers

staff writer.

A training facility for union laborers from throughout southeast Michigan could begin operating in western Wayne County in a few weeks.

The Michigan Laborers' Training Institute, open to local residents, plans to operate the school on Stark Road between Plymouth Road and the Jeffries Freeway in Livonia.

Instructors and students will be able to use the area behind the school to practice such skills as highway construction, sewer and water main installation, and various types of commercial and industrial con-

McDonald said that without the ability to provide an outdoor setting it would be impossible to operate the school wants.

"I think that part of the reason the planning commission voted against us was that they didn't understand our operations or the training institute," McDonald said.

"We will only store a small amount of materials outside and we will not be a nuisance to the surrounding area."

THE INSTITUTE appealed the planning commission's decision, and a public hearing was held Monday to discuss the proposal.

WAYNE COUNTY Special Olympics Summer Games began in 1975 with track and field events at Wayne Memorial High and swimming events at John Glenn High, both in the Wayne-Westland school district.

That first year the Wayne and Plymouth Civitan clubs were the only service clubs involved. They recruited friends, neighbors, and relatives to help present the games for 225 athletes. The cost was only $200.

The schools brought their own lunches and were given ribbons for achievements in the individual events. The celebrity guests that year were the "Banana Splits" who appeared every afternoon on Chan-

The following year the Special Olympics were at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park in Canton, then Livonia, and Dearborn.

A cycle was established and the county spring games were rotated among Wayne-Westland, Plymouth-Canton, Livonia and Dearborn for a number of years with the Civitans in each city acting as the host club.

The games grew each year to the present level of about 1,000 athletes. The activities grew in number to the point that four years ago the gymnastics_which was broken off as a separate day event, was combined with weightlifting and walking.

At its largest, the county spring games (before Detroit became its own area) had 2,000 athletes in one day in all events. There were 600 volunteers and 15 celebrities that day at John Glenn High. At that time, it was the largest single day , undertaking for any Special Olympics event anywhere in the world.

THE SPRING games have evolved to its present level of about " 1,000 participants and 300 volun-

The games still are rotated from community to community. Funds have increased and the athletes receive medals, lunches ar are provided.

The cost of putting on the spring ? games has grown from the initial $200 to $10,000.

NOW leader urges women to get into politics

By Judith Doner Berno staff writer

Will Livonia resident Marilyn Rowens run for office?

What about Linda McCabe of Canton Township?

The two were among the more than 300 people who turned out to hear Molly Yard, president of the National Organization for Women, urge more women to run for public office in a speech at Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills Monday

The unanimously supportive, largely female audience gave Yard a standing ovation as she walked to the podium and another as she fin-

"Women have got to be in public policy-making positions in this country," the imposing, gray-haired Yard implored. "You're needed in the legislative halls of this country. I urge each of you to see where you could tion. We should share the privilege of in states which would re-criminalize we won't get the public policy we're looking for."

Yard was matter of fact: "I have no faith in the courts. Three members of the Supreme Court were appointed by President Reagan and I have no faith in President Bush."

Of Bush's veto last fall of and amendment to ease restrictions on Medicaid abortions, she said: "How any man can expect a poor woman to carry a pregnancy to term as the result of incest and rape. I find it totally obscene."

SHE CALLED THESE both the best and the worst of times for wom-

"It's the worst of times because we are in danger of losing the ability to determine whether or not we want to bear a child. It's the best of times because we have the opportunity to make changes greater than in the last 30 years."

In fact, since the Supreme Court's "We're more than half the popula- Webster decision, upstart legislation directing this country. Until we do abortion has mainly been killed in committee, Yard said.

As for Michigan, "Thank goodness you have a good governor."

"The voters are way ahead of the political leaders of this country," she maintained.

'What's happening is that since the Webster case the women and men of this country are very angry," Yard described. "We are remembering what happened before 1973 and we're saying not for my daughter, not for my granddaughter."

But what happens here has even greater ramifications, she said.

"We bear a lot of responsibility in this country for what is happening to women around the world." She used ' examples of Algerian women being beaten for uncovering their faces and others in Mexico being denied birth control information in clinics which fear losing U.S. financial aid.

"We are looked to around the world to build a world where women are treated as human beings and first-class citizens."

CLOSING OUT the right of a woman to determine her own childbearing destiny and passing the equal rights amendment which will put the burden of proof on the discriminator are Yard's main agenda. But other areas also need attention:

• Child care: "We still need to get a good child care bill - it's as important to men as to women."

• Family medical leave: A bill to allow either parent to take an unpaid leave but keep their job in case of an ill child, adoption or birth is languishing, and now has been whittled down from 28 to 10 weeks.

• Pay equity: "We got it through the House twice - can't get it through the Senate." • Sex education: "I can't tell you how angry I am about the way we treat our teenagers. Why wouldn't we do everything we can to keep them from getting pregnant."

ROWENS WAS one who took seriously Yard's message to run for office, musing whether or not she herself was too old.

"She had a lot of spirit, a lot of strength," Rowens said. "It just makes you feel good that she's saying those things for us."

'We are looked to around the world to build a world where women are treated as human beings and first-class citizens.'

> — Molly Yard NOW president

"I was very impressed," said Bob Roether of West Bloomfield. "She has a message for everyone."

"I think its interesting that a woman her age was so involved," said Barbara Roether.

"She was saying a lot of things I've heard lately," said McCabe, a member of Western Wayne County McCabe was also there to plug a demonstration at 3 p.m. Saturday on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus, where a memorial service will be held for "women who lost their lives through back alley abortions.'

Armenians recall 'first Holocaust'

By Wayne Peal staff writer

It's being remembered - with tears - in homes and churches throughout western Wayne and Oak-

Even though it happened long ago, the Armenian genocide remains an issue of profound global importance to this day. This week, survivors and their descendants mark the 75th anniversary of its beginning.

For President George Bush the event represents a "crimeagainst humanity". But for the estimated 50,000 metro Detroit residents of Armenian ancestry, the events of 1915-23 are a reminder some old wounds are never even recognized, much less corrected, and could be repeated, even in a modern, arguably more civilized world.

"WE CALL it the first Holocaust," said Livonia city assessor Ronald Mardiros, whose parents escaped from Turkey at the time.

Though historians say an estimated 1.5 million Armenians perished during the purges, even the term "genocide", a systematic plan to eradicate a race or ethnic group, is tions. controversial.

The phraseology is that of Armenains themselves. Modern Turkey, descendant of the Otttoman Emplre in which the massacres occurred. claims no responsibility. And Turkey, site of U.S. military bases, is a stable ally in an unstable region bordered by the Soviet Union to the north and Iran to the east.

Even Bush's statement of April 20 + perhaps the strongest of its kind by any American president since Woodrow Wilson — avoided using the term "genocide" and any mention of modern Turkey.

What area Armenians say they want most is recognition the events occurred. The president's statement, they said, was a beginning.

et government, after all these years. recognized its responsibility in the slaughter of the Polish officers, said Harry Derderian of Farmington Hills, who has been active the the fight for recognition.

Bush's refusal to call the events genocide - the systematic extermination of a people for political reasons - was a disappointment to many Armenians. But for Derderian and the Washington, D.C.-based Armenain National Committee of America, the president's words were sufficient.

"SOMETIMES, you can get too hung up over wording," he said.

Earlier this year, the U.S. Senate tried in vain to pass a resolution acknowledging the slaughter of Armenians living in what is now modern-day Turkey. The resolution died amid heavy lobbying and much acrimony

"Turkey's - modern - government_ warned the resolution would "inflame nationalist passions and historic grievances and incite further violence."

But the real issue could be repara-

"Clearly, something is due," Derderian said. "I mean, the U.S. recently repaid Japanese-Americans who lost their homes and property during World War II. As bad as that situation was, this was even worse."

Reparations, either to individual families or to the people of Soviet Armenia as whole, could help the region rebuild after its devastating 1988 earthquake.

"With the earthquake, it (reparations) certainly would be welcome," Derderian said.

For other Armenians, recognition alone could be enough.

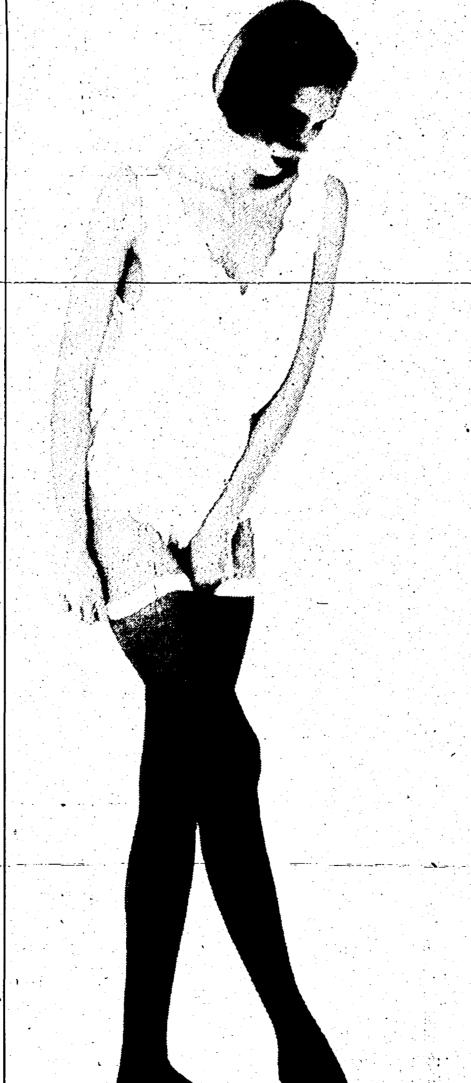

"We're not anti-Moslem, or antianyone," Mardiros said, referring to traditional hostility between Christian Armenians and neighboring states. "But we don't want people to

Voices of survivors:

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Anna Giragosian remembers the wolves and the snakes that followed her family's steps as it made its way from its Turkish village to the inland concentration camp that awaited Armenians in 1915.

Now in her 80s, Giragosian recalls the events clearly.

"I remember calling, 'Mama, don't leave me," she said. "Even years later, people wondered why I was still calling that, 'Mama, don't leave me.'

These are the voices of what has been termed the Armenian genocide. Three-quarters of a century later, they still crack with emotion.

Roughly a dozen survivors live at Manoogian Manor, a Livonia-based home for elderly Armenians.

The past few days have been especially hard, they said, as they remember the events that cost them their parents, brothers, sisters and

Every day, I think about it, every day I wonder why it was me who sprvived," sald Virginia Krikorian, fighting back tears.

Though painful, the memories bind these elderly women together. "All Armenians' stories are the same," said Sarah Ohanesian, anothet resident of the home.

Reasons behind the events of 1915-23 are still open to speculation, but for these women, and other survivors, the story is not so much about can't help looking back. who was right, or wrong, but how brutal people can be to each another.

"It's not that people died, it's how they died," said Harry Zartarian, the home's administrator, whose mother survived the killings. "People were butchered."

Men were the first to be killed, Helen Mooradian recalled, often cut down by the sword. "Some men even dressed as womwomen and children as well, survivors said. One resident, Baldzar Aznavorian was the only survivor from a family

While most of the killing occurred in 1915, Armenians living in what is now modern-day Turkey were subject to periodic violence until the early 1920s.

The events of 1915-23 and the courage of its survivors were remembered last Sunday in the area's Armenian churches. The Armenian Congregational Church, in Southfield, held services honoring its 28 survivors, some as old as 101.

"It was a very emotional time, not only the older ones were crying but also the younger ones, too," said Rev. Vahan H. Tootiklan. "It was a time of sadness, but it was also a time of joy, a time to look ahead."

Dennis Papazian has devoted much of the last five years to answering that question.

Papazian, director of the University of Michigan-Dearborn's Armenain Research Center, links the violence to traditional cultural and religious differences, intensified during the collapse of the Ottoman Empire.

"ARMENIANS WERE scapegoats," Papzian said. "Rascism was an ugly part of European intellectual tradition and, unfortunately, the Young Turks (who succeeded the Ottoman sultans who killed an estimated 300,000 Armenians some 20 years earlier) brought it to bear."

Removal from home villages, Papzian said, was inspired by the kind of intensified nationalism later exhibited by Hitler's, Aryan movement.

Turkish leaders at the time, blamed Armenians themselves, arguing that their alleged pro-Allies stance undermined the Axis-allied Ottoman Empire's efforts

Local students are honored in Earth Day art, writing contest

Three youngsters from western Wayne County were among those honored Sunday at Oakwoods Metropark for their contributions to the Huron-Clinton Metroparks' Earth Day writing and art contest.

Jennifer McHutchion of Livonia and Tim Carter of Canton were prize winners in the sixth grade poster contest. Melanie Loyd of Garden City was a prize winner in the fifth grade essay and story contest.

Christian Schools, Dearborn Heights. Carter attends Lowell Middle School in the Plymouth-Canton school district. Loyd attends Douglas School, Garden City. All three received a $50 prize.

Contest judges included Blanche Glimps, school of education chairwoman, Marygrove College, Detroit; James Crawford, dean of the School of Natural Resources, University of Michigan, and Wayne-Westland McHutchion attends Fairlane Schools art teacher Larry Weitrella.

SEMCOG joins incinerator battle

By Tim Richard staff writer

Detroit has one million people, Lake Angelus 400, but both won help from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments in their regional battles:

SEMCOG's Executive Committee last week voted to:

• Ask the state Air Pollution Control Commission to reconsider its 6-4 decision to shut down Detroit's trash incinerator.

• Endorse state legislation allowing Detroit to continue levying a 5-percent tax on utility bills.

• Object to the federal government's giving a "demonstration grant" for road work in the Auburn Mills megamall project area north of Pontiac without a SEMCOG regional planning review. Lake Angelus is fighting what many call an "urban sprawl" project.

TWO CHIEFS of SEMCOG blistered the April 17 action of the Air Pollution Control Commission in ordering the shutdown of the Greater Detroit Resource Recovery Authority incinerator, an east side trash-to-energy burner serving the city and some suburbs.

"I almost fell out of my chair," said SEMCOG Chair Milton Mack, a Wayne County commissioner who represents Canton Township.

"They made a mistake. If you. wanted to harm the environment, you'd shut it down. If you wanted to improve the environment, you'd let it operate.

"The Sierra Club representative (on the MAPC) made the motion and said it was her duty to control air pollution. What they (Detroit) did with trash was up to them."

Mack said there would be a "ripple effect," with Detroit trash haulers lining up at landfills, where the trash could contaminate groundwater. The continued use of landfills throughout the region would do more harm than the incinerator, Mack sald.

SEMCOG Executive Director John Amberger said the MAPC audience was "a very strong anti-incinerator crowd. They behaved abominably toward our (SEMCOG) staff, saying 'I hope your children have cancer some day.' There was a lot of abuse."

A VOICE VOTE was about 20-2 in favor of asking MAPC to reconsider its vote to close the incinera-

SEMCOG noted the city and state Department of Natural Resources were agreeable to a consent order under which the city would install new equipment to remove excess amounts of mercury from the emissions.

THERE WAS NO controversy over SEMCOG's resolution asking the state Legislature to pass a permissive law restoring Detroit's 5 percent tax on natural gas, electric and telephone bills.

"SEMCOG has a long history of support for local government home rule and empowering local governments to address their own fiscal situations," the resolution said. Wayne Circuit Judge Marvin Stemplen in February ruled the tax uncollectible after mid-1988 because of a "sunset" provision in the enabling act. Detroit is now before the State Court of Appeals. If Stempien is upheld, Detroit would have to 1) refund $100 million in back taxes and 2) lose $60 million a year in future revenue.

The Democratic-run House has passed a new enabling law, but the Republican run Senate is holding up action until Democrats agree to pass GOP property tax cut plans.

Another question, unaddressed by SEMCOG and the Legislature, is whether the new utility tax would have to be approved by Detroit voters under the Headlee tax limitation amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

SC staffer keeps eye on Lithuania

A native of Lithuania, Udrys has been keeping a watchful eye on the country's quest for independence.

A Birmingham resident and president of an organization called Ateitis, Udrys is working to keep the language and culture of her native land alive within the Lithuanian community in metropolitan Detroit.

Ateitis, which means "the future," is an organization which was formed in Lithuania in 1920. The organization provides spiritual and intellectual development for children, teenagers and adults.

And today, the organization is givtheir independence in Lithuania.

"OUR GOAL is to keep the issue alive until the people get their independence," said Udrys who still remembers leaving her homeland at age 3.

"It took nine months to get out," she saíd.

"I remember the soldiers and hiding in bomb shelters."

After leaving Lithuania, her family spent six years in Germany.

"In the beginning, we lived in something like a refugee camp. It was very tough in Germany. The country was devastated," she said.

In 1950, her family came to the United States and settled in Chicago where Udrys was very active in the Lithuanian community.

At a youth camp in Michigan near Manchester for Lithuanian youth in 1963, she met her husband Narimantas who lived in the Detroit area.

"We proceeded with the romance from two different cities," said Udrys.

In the same year she met her future husband, Udrys received her bachelor's degree in mathematics from Loyola University in Chicago. Two years later she moved to

The demonstrators urged Bush to show more support for the people of Lithuania.

Udrys said she is disappointed in President Bush.

"I wish President Bush would be a little more forceful," said Udrys, adding that a verbal show of support would be a great help.

SINCE LITHUANIA declared independence on March 11, Washington's policy-makers and politicians have exercised a rhetorical restraint inconceivable in the past.

The Bush administration has received broad political support for sympathyzing with the Soviet Union's dilemma and pressing for a settlement by negotiation, not by force or capitulation.

After President Gorbachev ordered tanks into Vilnius to Intimidate Lithuania's Parliament, Congress responded by passing resolutions condemning his action in surprisingly mild terms and avoiding specific threats of retallation. Modeled after the U.S. Declaration of Independence, Lithuania's movement to freedom has created a dilemma for the United States.

U.S. politicians have demanded freedom for the Baltic states of Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia ever since Josef Stalin absorbed them into the Soviet Union in 1940.

Resolutions condemning Soviet occupation of the "captive nations" are rituals in Congress.

LITHUANIA'S FIGHT for independence seemed to satisfy those demands, as it fit into the pattern of what many see as the historically inevitable disintegration of Soviet em-

"The people have been oppressed for 50 years. How much oppression can people take?"

All of her tasks — at Schoolcarft and for Ateitis — are handled, "with great difficulty," said Udrys with a smile and wink.

"It's a lot of juggling. In the long run I feel enriched because of it," said Udrys, who holds a master's degree in arts and sciences from Wayne State University.

Udrys, who teaches calculus and algebra has been on staff at Schoolcarft College for 17 years. She received a Presidential Recognition award for teaching in 1987 and an Excellence in Teaching award in Case closing fails smell test

HE WAYNE-Westland school district's adult education enrollment dispute, which was supposed to have been 'a closed issue a year ago, manages to

In what may be the last chapter in the highlypublicized story, three of the four defendants who pleaded "no contest" to reduced charges last year had their records expunged April 6 by Westland District Judge Gail McKnight.

While the closing of a defendant's court file has been done in many non-publicized cases, we wonder why it was done in a dispute which was covered in detail by two local newspapers and in a narrower scope by the Detroit dailies and is certainly in the recent memories of many resi-

If anyone wanted to examine the file before April 6, they would have no trouble in finding out the charges and the disposition of the case involving three of the four defendants. But if you asked the court for the file after that day, you would be out of luck.

It doesn't make sense to expunge the files of a widely publicized court case.

WE'RE NOT suggesting that the defendants, all of whom were school district employees at the time of the enrollment dispute, should be punished forever. They did serve their probation and provide required community service work.

But we feel there should have been a permanent record, open to the public, on an important part of the school district's history.

While the district wasn't directly involved in the enrollment dispute, the case certainly stirred the community's interest in the case.

We thought a year ago that the quick closing of the case before it went to trial didn't pass the smell test. The odor is still there.

Political protest Privacy issue blurs basic freedom

ROTEST, an essential part of maintaining liberty, is being threatened in our communities. Residents should be deeply disturbed at and resent this dangerous intrusion into our rights of assembly and free

Recently a handful of suburbs have enacted ordinances to curtail picketing in front of specific persons' homes. The guise under which these ordinances are being adopted is to maintain pri-

In West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township and Birmingham the situation revolves around the ever-controversial abortion issue. Pro-life forces are putting the squeeze on individuals who work at abortion clinics by picketing their homes.

Having someone stand in front of your home and protest has the potential to be annoying, embarrassing and maddening. But these inconveniences we must bear.

Our freedom to protest is too important to fritter away because some would rather restrict the noise in their subdivision to the incessant din

After all, nobody ever said that maintaining a free society would be easy. Unfortunately expediency for the sake of mediocrity is too rapidly replacing militancy in the defense of freedom.

While sketching out the parameters of "disturbing the public repose," Edmund Burke put it best: "the firebell at midnight disturbs our sleep; blurred beyond recognition.

but it keeps you from being burnt in your bed."

In truth, these ordinances have nothing to do with protecting a person's right to privacy. The street in front of your house is just as public as those in front of township hall and the White

For some time, now, suburbanites' right of assembly and protest have been hindered by shopping malls whose management maintains that their enclosed areas are private. Hired security forces prowl the corridors seeking to quash any sign of divergence from the norm.

Malls are replacing the traditional town squares of America, subdivious are replacing neighborhoods. And at each stage of suburban development, those in charge of the status quo wrest a bit more of freedom away from us.

What these ordinances do is reflect an attitude in our society which says that political protest is somehow vulgar and beneath those who can afford to keep it out of their sight.

The issue over which the protest is taking place is insignificant — today pro-life, tomorrow pro-choice, the next day ecology. The cause matters not, the right to assemble, demonstrate and speak out is foremost.

Using privacy as a scapegoat is not only threatening to the right of protest but to the legitimate right to privacy. If everytime someone inconvenienced by protest raises the issue of privacy, the meaning of privacy will become

Village Players

Hard work pays off for local theater

HEY'VE KNOCKED ON dozens of doors, sent hundreds of letters and made more telephone calls than they could ever count, but a group of hard-working volunteers can be proud of the community support they've mustered for a longtime but littleknown Birmingham organization.

Saturday's Theater Arts Ball, a fund-raiser for Birmingham's Village Players, is the finale to a week of activities orchestrated to involve the community in this thespian organization, one of the oldest in Michigan. The group was chartered in 1923 and has been producing first-class productions ever since.

Like most of the many community theaters in our suburbs, this group relies on support of its residents, the people who live next door to those who take the starring roles on the stage as well as behind the curtains, for its continuing support.

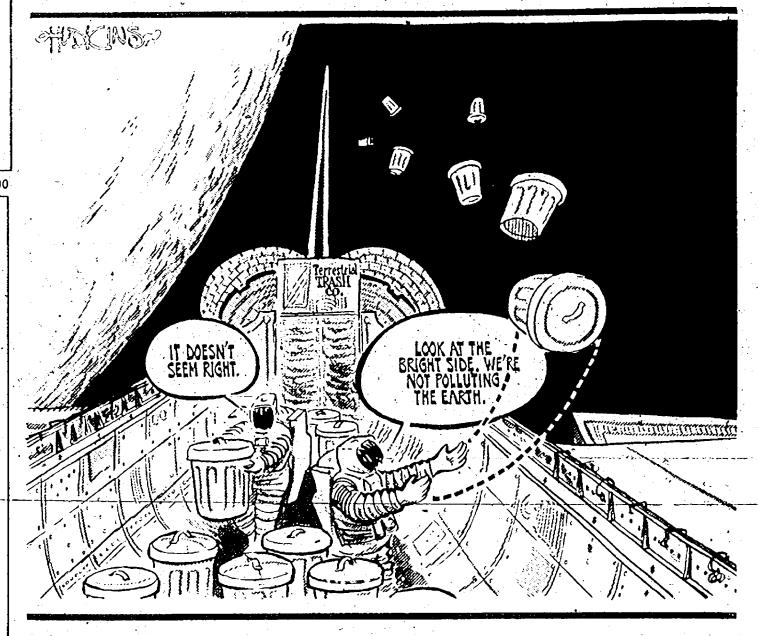

Volunteers raised enough money to cover nearly all of the Ball's costs, so that everything that's raised through ticket sales and the evening of the event will be profit used to renovate the lobby of The Village Players building. They also persuaded many downtown merchants to turn over display windows to the group during Village Players Week. The windows became living scrap books, showing photographs and costumes of prior Players productions.

An open house brought community residents into the theater to see the building renovation completed to date, as well as to watch rehearsals of the group's upcoming production and the set building that goes with it.

There are many community theater groups in the metro area who could take example from the activities and enthusiasm of The Village Players. These grassroots organizations can't be successful without the support of their communities.

Our hats are off to the Players and to the local businesspeople and residents who've made Village Players Week a success.

Future sure to be bright with a new generation be poignant, it can be rewarding, it can be frustrating. But one thing is for sure, we should revere it for the symbol of hope it represents for us

It's a good feeling to see it happen. The phone rings and a friend is at the other end. Usually we do business but today he calls just to talk. He talks of his son, an obvious source of pride. For my friend, his son represents the future. He is a symbol of that hope for a better world. His son, a college student, recently donned the school colors to work out for the football team. College teams do that, you know, practice in the friend dropped out from pledging for why, but they do.

watching him out there after practice, talking with the little kids who were asking him for his autograph. My wife and I just stood for a moment and took it all in," he said.

THE SON took a lot of time with each starry-eyed kid. As he signed autographs he would have each young fan hold his helmet.

"Why'd you have the kids hold your helmet?" asked the father.

The son replied; "I remember when you used to take me to these

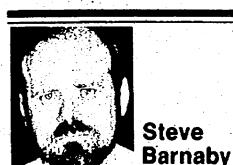

FACING THE FUTURE — it can hold their helmets. I never forgot it. A few weeks before the son had been rummaging through some old memorabilia and found the autograph of former University of Michigan quarterback Rick Leach. He remembered the thrill and wanted to share that same feeling with the next generation, the future.

> But the son also brought home some disturbing news. Having forged some close friendships with minority students, he was faced with the personal tragedy of a society which prefers to keep cultures sepa-He was upset that his minority Nothing's simple when you're growing up. Just when you think you've figured out the world, something else comes up to confuse the situation — even when you have a friendship with someone who happens to be black.

My friend finished his stories and I told him about my secretary, a very talented young woman. A few weeks ago she walked into the office and games and the players would let me announced she had found another job. She was moving on to follow her career path.

Smart move, I told her. Of course, she already knew that. But young people are amazingly tolerant of ol farts who insist on passing on their bits of wisdom.

I shut up after that, well for the most part, and thought about how excited I am for her. It's wonderful to watch the future happen right before your eyes.

My friend and I hung up feeling better about the world. After all, we should. We know the place is going to be in good hands.

Developers altruists?

To the editor:

Mayor Robert Thomas has surely proven himself among the ranks of politicians with his response that congestion "won't be as severe as people think" with the establishmentof a large-scale institution to house upwards of 1,500 people in one spot (referring to the proposed seniors' campus on Marquette between Wayne Road and Carlson).

He must believe that the citizens are nincompoops.

Not only will our already crumbling roads be more congested, but there will also be a drain on other city resources, such as police, fire, wetlands, and programs. Will this project generate sufficient taxes to pay for the stress on resources or will there be a request for more taxes down the line to pay for the additional need for services?

Short-term planning and thinking must be replaced by long-range planning and thinking, which includes all contingencies not just the obvious or that which the developers choose to describe.

Have we forgotten that the real winners here are the developers? The losers are the taxpayers. Since when are land developers altruists? Beatrice Scalise,

Columnist off target

Re:"Exploiting a tragedy menaces our liberty" by Steve Barnaby, April 12 column. Steve Barnaby, the author of this article is a bit short-sighted and illinformed. Perhaps he should be reminded that the distributor of the film, Encyclopedia Britannica, has indicated that, "Nobody's Useless" is suitable for fifth through 12th grade students.

Stephen Nalepa, the Canton boy whose death is linked to the film was in the second grade; this is a significant difference in age and maturity from the recommendation of the film distributor.

Also, Steve Barnaby is too quick to label concerned parents as hysterical while he defends the educational establishment that allows such a film to be shown before being reviewed by the classroom teacher or the building principal.

Establishment runs Earth Day

QUAKING IN THE aftershocks of Earth Day.

The way I see it, if all of those trees that were being distributed were actually planted and grew, by Earth Day 2010 we'd all be attending rallies and teach-ins about "The Over-Forestation of the Planet."

I mean, think about it. Everybody . . but everybody . . . was giving · away trees. Supermarkets, department stores, auto companies, newspapers. I read somewhere that the goal (I don't know whose goal) was to get a billion trees planted around the world. That's ONE BILLION. The number 1 followed by nine zeroes. That's a lot of trees.

If they were all planted and reproduced normally, in 20 years those out little hatchets with mimeographed notices attached: "Help Save the Earth — Cut Down a Tree."

Now don't get me wrong. I'm not attacking Earth Day. It's nice to see a worldwide movement dedicated to doing something positive. And if there was a bit of over-reaction involvèd, better that than shrugging our shoulders, saying "Who cares?" and tossing another candy-bar wrapper out of the car window.

It's just that when the frenzy dies troduced a "green line" of products how to deal with them.

down, supermarkets will go back to promoting double-coupons, politicians will renew their promises to make everything better without raising taxes and many of those seedlings that were distributed to help restore the Earth will end up in landfills somewhere, still encased in their little plastic bags.

Yet somehow I think life will go same companies would be passing on and the Earth will keep on spin-

> A COLLEAGUE here at work likened the whole Earth Day movement to a religious reviva. He's right, although there were plenty of merchandising techniques employed,

A car company offered free emissions tests to the first 300 customers and tree seedlings to everybody. It also took the opportunity to show off some of its new cars.

What it all came down to, by the time April 22 actually arrived, was that Earth Day 1990 had become big business. "Earth friendly" and "green this" and "green that" were being used to sell everything from toilet paper to gasoline.

That was the main difference between this Earth Day and the first one 20 years ago, which was as much a protest against the establishment as it was a cry to save the Earth. Remember that the Earth Day demonstrations of 1970 came only five months after the massive anti-Vietnam War march on Washington in November 1969 and were followed two weeks later by the Kent State massacre during a student protest over the U.S. invasion of Cambo-

Protests and marches were the order of the day in 1970 and "the establishment" had not yet figured out

THAT FIRST Earth Day was led another claims it sells more "Earth by student activists and other leaders of the "Ecology Movement." While it did serve . . . particularly in the long run . . . to make us more aware of the limited resources of the planet, not everyone involved in it was so noble of purpose as we would like to remember. Some of the protesters just wanted to take another jab at the establishment.

> Earth Day 1990 was largely orchestrated and led by that same establishment. And not all the purposes were completely noble and altruistic this time, either.

Don't feel guilty asking for reports

COPS WORK like ethnic mothers. They try to make you feel guilt.

Garrison Keillor, the sage of Lake Wobegon, chronicled the machinations of the Minnesota mother, who, faced with the tiniest disagreement, responds: "Is this the thanks we get after all we've done?"

Mothers of many ethnic groups use the same technique, and they have been especially adept at passing it onto the children who became cops.

DETROIT SGT. Reginal Dozer, speaking to newspeople at a forum on deteriorating police-media relations last month, tried the guilt trick.

'Currently we, have three fulltime police officers to handle Freedom of Information Act requests," said Dozer, who heads the FOI response section. "Each takes five to eight hours."

Cops on the line must provide reports to the FOI section "along with doing their regular duties — chasing down murderers."

His insinuation was clear: If the public didn't demand to know how governmental agencies operate, cops would have more time to catch murderers and bust drug dealers.

Dozer was less than complimentary to newspeople and civic leaders who make so much work for cops by holding seminars on how to request causes another period of extended public documents under the Freedom of Information Act. "And I Teachers who abuse this fringe think the inmates might hold semibenefit think only the building prin- nars, too," he said, lumping us in with the drug dealers and murder-an alibi for denying it. All over the state, bureaucrats are holding seminars, consulting "risk managers" and heeding the advice of attorneys like Tim Cronin. "My strong recommendation is that those reports be reviewed prior to release by the designee (in the police department) or that the news people be required to file a Freedom of Information Act request before the information is released to them," said

THE FOI law opens with this basic principle:

Cronin, a member of a law firm

Plymouth, Northville and West

Bloomfield.

"It is the public policy of this state that all persons are entitled to full and complete information regarding the affairs of government and the official acts of those who represent them as public officials and public employees, consistent with this act. The people shall be informed so that they may fully participate in the democratic process."

A reporter, lawyer, claims investigator, civic activist or interested citizen should never - ever - feel guilty when requesting a public record.

But a lot of cities and townships should feel guilty about the time, talent and tax dollars they squander hiding their papers and then trying to blame us for "tying them up."

Personal business days were then negotiated into the contract, initially one or two a year. These days originally were to be used only for a death in the immediate family and each day had to be approved by the administration.

As years rolled on, the number of personal business days increased up to four and could be used for other situations where a teacher is not incontrol of setting the dates and times (for example a doctor's appointment). In many of todays' contracts teachers do not have to declare what personal business they are going to be about. It is their business and it would be considered unethical to infer a teacher would ever play hooky as some kids do.

Frankly, as a teacher and administrator, there were a couple days it seemed I was mentally and physically burned out and I did stay home. However, those days were few and far between.

Unfortunately, there are a few ducators who view both sick days and personal business days as vaca--tion days. Having-reviewed-attendance patterns of staff members for years, they are easy to identify.

The most famous day to be sick is a non-payday Friday. This choice grants the long weekend and the next Friday to pick up the check. Days just prior to vacations also are popular. Deer hunting season often

But Dad, everybody else is doing it!

By Carolyn DeMarco staff writer

VERY PARENT of an adolescent or young teen has heard it. "Why can't I do it? Everybody else is doing it."... (Or wearing it, viewing it, listening to it, reading it, buying it, going to

How does a parent answer that standard phrase, "but ev-v-verybody's doing it?"

First you have to find out what the it is." an expert says.

He's Laurence Steinberg, professor of psychology at Temple University, senior research associate for the Center for Research in Human Development and Education, and contributor to the New York Times and Psychology Today.

The Philadelphian is also co-author of his first how-to book, "You & Your Adolescent; A Parent's Guide for Ages 10-20." He made the media rounds last month to introduce it.

"What (co-author) Ann (Levine) and I tried to do," Steinberg said, "was model this after the infant care books rather than other books which focus on the problems.

"We (parents) have a melodramatic view of adolescents. It doesn't have to be that way of at all.

'We provide a readable, reference book that covers problems, yes, but we also cover normal adolescence and childhog With that type of information parents can respond intelligently."

A SIGNIFICANT PORTION of the book-is-devoted to the-middleschooler, the 10- to 13-year-old, often the most trying age for child and Conformity is the watchword of the middleschooler, Steinberg said.

"At all ages it's important to fit into a reference group, but the importance is greater during early ado-

"It's important for parents to understand it's not pathological. 'But everybody's doing it' is normal, but it doesn't mean a parent has to give

"Fortunately," Steinberg said, "it goes away. It (the need for conformity) peaks at 13 and then declines.

"I KNOW it sounds paradoxical, but it's part of the natural need of the child to become an individual.

"The process of becoming an individual begins by seeing yourself as an individual in relationship to your parents. Before the age of 10 the child is wrapped up in your family.".

The child is unsure of just what he/she is and is looking to different reference groups for definition jocks, prepples, brains - that give apreliminary identity, Steinberg said. A lot of experimentation takes place.

"This week she may be an artist. Next week she's a preppie. It's all normal, within reason."

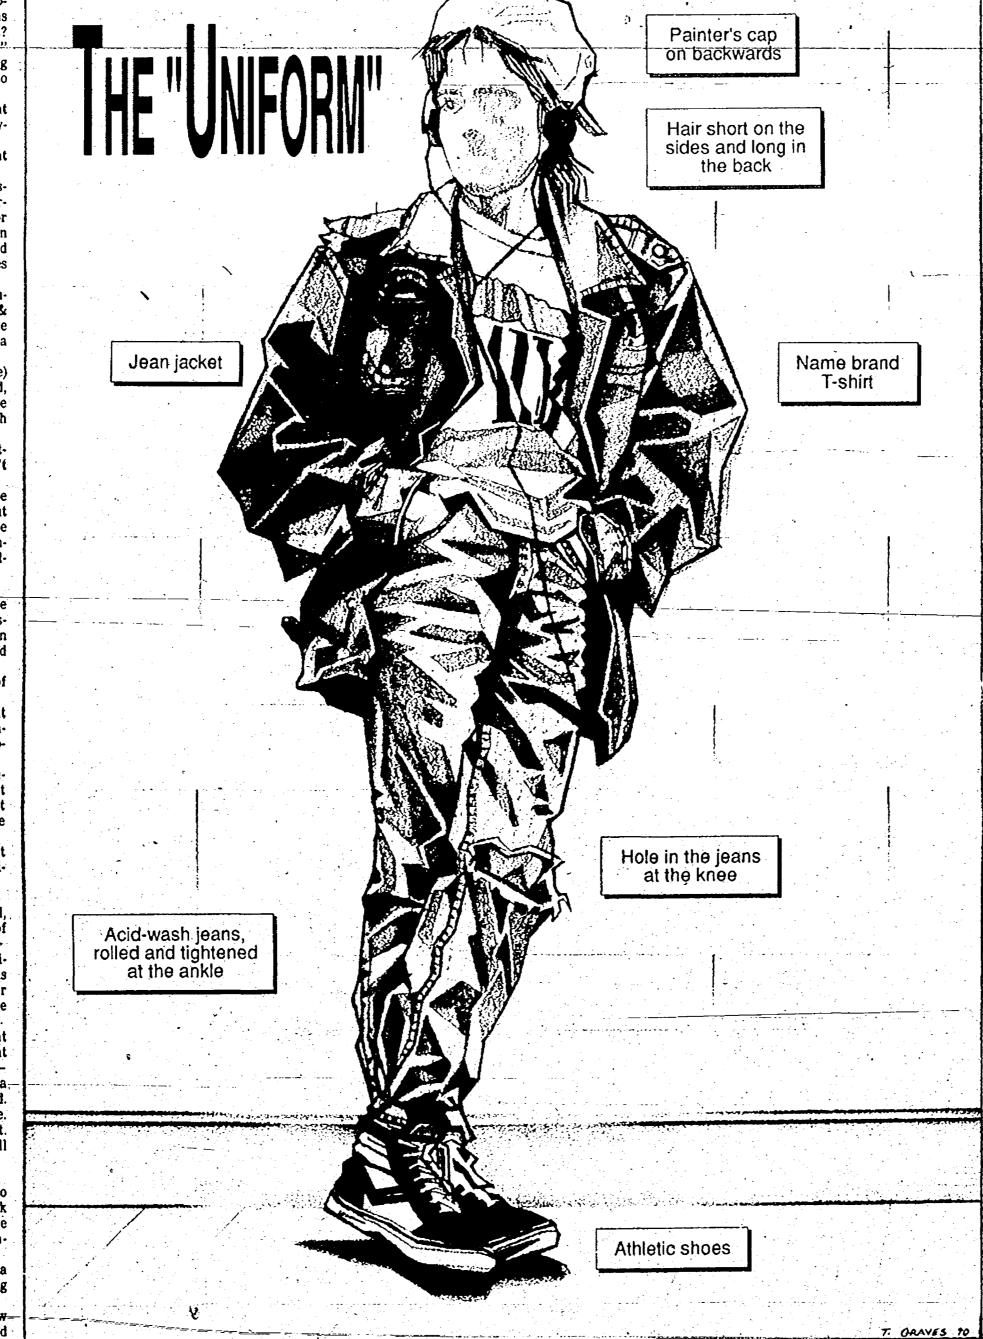

IT'S A mistake for parents to throw up their hands and think there's nothing to be done about the sheep-following-the-crowd syndrome, Steinberg said.

"Do things at home that build a sense of self-esteem," Steinberg

-Young adolescents need to knowthey have their parents' love and

Tips from the expert

Laurence Steinberg

Psychologist/author Laurence Steinberg discussed several aspects of the socialization of the middle school child that concern most parents in a visit to the Eccentric offices. Some advice:

On the right age for dating, he said. "There is no cut and dry rule on the chronological age. There is great variability in maturity. Some 13-year-olds are emotionally mature. Some can't make a decision by that age."

Community standards also vary, Steinberg said. "A good parent knows, stays in touch with other parents and has a sense of community standards. Things change over time. What was appropriate 30 years ago, even 15 years ago, may not be today. Stay in touch with other parents."

MOST PRETEENS progress into dating through a gradual process, he said. It often begins with parties where the boys sit on one side and the girls on the other, then to group activities before it moves into dating proper, actually going out with one other person.

"At 12 and 13," he said, "it's important to keep kids on the track academically. There's potential slippage. That's the nature of middie school and junior high - it's a difficult environment. It's important to keep focused on school. Serious dating is a distraction."

On problems with preteens and the telephone, he offered, "The telephone is the the lifeline of the young adolescent. It's the way kids stay connected. The classroom is the second part of the school agenda. Meeting with friends is first."

If a young teen is spending so much time on the phone that other activities are ignored, there's a problem. "It's not the phone that's the problem. It's that other things are not getting done."

Where appropriate, Steinberg recommends working out rules and schedules for phone times, in fairness to all members of the family who use the instrument.

Where parent and child differ on the child's personal appearance, Steinberg said, "Parents have a right to express their opinion about children's tastes and opinions. On the other hand it's dangerous to equate clothes and music with underlying values. It's rarely the case that these superficial things have a deeper meaning.

"WHERE I would draw the lines is when what the child is doing is irreversible, irreparable in some way, as in cosmelic surgery. Thirteen-year-olds are not known for looking into the future. There you Intervene."

Intervention is also allowable when the style is inappropriate for the situation, he said, Grateful Dead T-shirts for Sunday dinner at Grandma's, for example.

And intervention is allowable on issues of tastelessness that most people would agree upon. An example, he said, is girls attending school in alluring, sexy clothes. "It changes the way they are treated by peers and teachers.".

"I wouldn't worry about clothes and music per se unless there are other signs. Alone it doesn't mean they are doing drugs."

'At all ages it's important to fit into a reference group, but the importance is greater during early adolescence. It's important for parents to understand it's not pathological. 'But everybody's doing it' is normal, but it doesn't mean a parent has to give in.'

> - Laurence Steinberg psychologist

Do something concrete, he said. Pick gifts at birthday time that further those interests. Compliment the

"Don't take those talents for granted. Kids not might be able to show they appreciate their parents' -attentions, but they do."

MOST IMPORTANTLY, Steinberg said, is to provide an opportunity at home to learn to make decisions. The mistake is being too autocratic or too permissive.

"The 'Do what I said because I said so' will get them to comply," he said, "but it doesn't teach decisionmaking." Suppose the child with a 10 p.m.

weekend curfew is invited to a party for which he'd like to stay out until midnight, Steinberg said. The autocratic parent will say no, rules are rules. The permissive paris fine with the parents. "Ann and I are sugggesting something in between - that the parents and child discuss the who, what, why of a midnight curiew."

ent will say whatever the child does

That is, talk about the reasons, that it's not a permanent change, the problems of transportation, etc.

"WHAT WE'RE doing is teaching how to take the issue, break it down and analyze it."

When the child is out of the home or the parents are working, parents should want the child to make a responsible decision about how to be-

An example, Steinberg said, was friends bringing over beer while the parents are at work.

If the child is used to following the advice of a parent that says just do it, he/she may be inclined to listen to the friend who says just do it.

"It takes time and patience (to go through the decision-making process with the child) and none of us has enough of that," Steinberg said.

"IT'S EASIEST to say yes or no. The hardest thing is explaining and that has the most important effect on the child. Parents feel threatened by having to explain themselves when a child asks 'Why?'

"Parents view it as a challenge. It makes them nervous, as if they're losing control. No one likes to feel out of control."

The key to answering the preteen's 'why?" the psychologist said, is responding with, "Look, I'm so glad I have raised a smart kid who would not accept something without first questioning it."

"You can't have it both ways," he said. "You want to raise a child who questions. You have to tolerate the curious, questioning child. It's not easy. It's a headache."

AND IN handling the "everybody else is doing it" challenge, Steinberg said, "Is it dangerous, risky, completely contrary to family values?"

If it is, step in, Steinberg said, If it's not, maybe there's not enough reason to say no.

"The popular answer is to say, 'I don't care what everybody else is doing. You're my child.'

"That's not enough," he said. "Talk about it."

'You & Your Adolescent: A Parent's Guide for Ages 10-20" is published by Harper and Row at $19.95. It is available in most bookstores.

'What's up, Doc?'

Pediatricians open after hours clinic

By Sue Mason staff writer

Dr. Marshall Blondy has seen a lot of changes in the 30 years he has been a pediatrician. He remembers when doctors took Wednesdays off, never worked Sundays and never worked at night. Now he works Monday through Saturday and one Sunday a month. And with the advent of Pediatrics at Night, he works his share of eyenings, too. Blondy and five other pediatricians started Pediatrics at Night to accommodate working parents who face either a long wait in a hospital emergency room or a lost day of work to get medical attention for a sick child.

"It's mostly about convenience," Blondy said. "You could go to an emergency room where you wait three or four hours to see a doctor who doesn't specialize in children, or you could call your pediatrician and get the proverbial 'Give him a Tylenol and call me in the morning.'

"Here, the children are seen by board-certified pediatricians and the family is in and out in less than an hour."

PEDIATRICS AT NIGHT isn't a new concept, Blondy said. In fact, the Livonia-based program is patterned after a similar service available in the Birmingham area.

The clinic is in Livonia Professional Plaza on Farmington Road, Livonia. It's open 6-10 p.m. Monday through Friday, although Blondy suspects that eventually it will be expanded to include weekends. A nearby X-ray facility also is staying open during the evening.

The clinic is for all sick children, not just patients of the participating doctors. Use of the clinic has started

'We've had a lot of outof-towners who didn't know where to take their sick children for treatment."

- Dr. Marshall Blondy

picking up as parents discover it. The first week there were "plenty of empty hours," but now the doctors are seeing "a lot of intestinal stuff, earaches and high fevers," Blondy

"The response has been tremendous," he said. "People are so glad we're here. We've had a lot of out-oftowners who didn't know where to take their sick children for treat-

THE DOCTORS didn't start the evening clinic to expand their daytime practice; that's running at 120 percent.

The baby boom is still booming in this area; people are having lots and lots of babies," Blondy said.

Parents are discouraged from returning to the clinic for follow-up visits and instead are directed to their regular pediatrician. For those who want to change doctors, the clinic will help find a new pediatrician.

Pediatrics at Night is a separate practice and as such operates on a pay-as-you-go basis. Parents must pay for the service, including laboratory fees, up front and seek reimbursement from their medical insurance providers.

The doctor fills out a form in triplicate, indicating the diagnosis and treatment. One copy is kept on file at the clinic, one is sent to the child's pediatrician and one is for the insurance company, Blondy said.

AFTER-HOURS PEDIATRIC clinics have sprung up across the country, prompted in part by the growing number of working parents in need of medical care for ailing children. ·

The clinics, while caring for the sick child, also provide reassurance for the parents, Blondy said. Theyalso are saving insurance companies money, since parents don't have to use the hospital emergency room for after-hours_treatment,_where_costs_ run in the hundreds of dollars.

Considering that, Blondy expects that Pediatrics at Night will be hearing from large companies and insurers looking for less expensive pedia-

'We're still feeling our way along but we've found the parents really appreciate this," Blondy said. "It isn't always about curing the child, but giving the parents reassurance."

Pediatrics at Night is open 6-10. p.m. Monday through Friday in Building F of the Livonia Professional PLaza, 20010 Farmington Road, between Seven and Eight Mile roads, Livonia. For more information, call 478-2730.

Dr. Daniel Schnarr of Pediatrics at Night checks the ears of an ailing Joshua Lovell of Farmington Hills.

Child care career takes some planning, training

Those of you who have been following reports in the newspapers on the need for more child care teachers and centers might have given some thought to a career in the child care field.

However, you can't just wake up one morning and decide to convert Road, Garden City. Discussions your garage into a child care center. Such an endeavor takes capital, as well as the appropriate education and training.

> To help you select a career in child care that matches your skills, education and motives for working with young children, the National Association for the Education of Young Children has published "Careers with Young Children: Making Your Decision."

> The book explores the many career options available to those who want to work with young children or their families, from a family day care provider to a director of a child care center or even a school nurse or case worker.

> THE NAEYC publication includes a decision survey that enables the reader to do a self-evaluation of interests within five different career patterns. After completing the survey, the reader follows along with each of the five chapters to rate effectively where the reader's interests lie.

> Step one of the survey asks the reader to evaluate the reasons for working with young children; step two evaluates the reader's skills and abilities; step three reviews the degree of involvement with young children that is best for the reader.

Career pattern No. 1 is for those who want to "serve children directly," and includes early childhood teacher assistant, associate teacher' and teacher, preschool owner, pediatric nurse, family day care provider and more.

CASE STUDIES of people involved in these fields are presented, so that the reader can understand how others made their decisions and what sort of education and training were involved. Salaries are not discussed.

Examples of a typical work day schedule are given, providing the reader with the chance to review the amount of work involved in running a nursery school or a family day care home, along with many other professions.

For instance, the case of Ann, the owner, director and head teacher of a private nursery school, is present-

The reader sees how she went from a career in music education, returning to school to learn the Montessori method. For several years, she rented church facilities until she was financially able to find and renovate a suitable house.

All of her responsibilities are described, from paper work to vacuuming, licensing requirements and dealing with staff, children and par-

AT THE end of each section, books and films on the subject are listed. The book also suggests "Things to Do" to investigate your interest further, as well as "People to Talk With" who may help you in your career decision.

Call the NAEYC (800-424-2460) to order this and other publications on child care.

Marcie Walker, free-lance writer, welcomes your input questions, suggestions, examples of good child care. Write her at the Observer & Eccentric, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.

Clergy spouses juggle various roles

By Arlene Funke special writer

Once upon a time - a generation or two ago - pastors were men and their wives often were unpaid "assistant ministers" in the church.

Times have changed. Nowadays, being the spouse of a pastor doesn't rule out a career or interests apart from the church. And with more women becoming ordained in some denominations, the pastor's spouse is a man.

"I think probably the whole understanding of clergy and spouse has changed," said the Rev. Kenneth Gruebel, pastor of the 400-member Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton.

In some cases, the spouse of the pastor is deeply involved in church projects. Others are less visible as they attend school, hold jobs and cope with family needs.

"It's just a way of life for me," said Blanche Halboth of Redford. "We're a church family." No wonder. Halboth's husband, Victor, has been pastor of the 2,000-member Grace Lutheran Church of Redford for 33 years. Victor's father served there before that.

NOW THE Halboths' son, Timothy, 27, serves as associate pastor at Grace, where he was ordained last June. Another son, Mark, a Livonia dentist, and his wife, Chara la, also are active.

The Halboths, who are in their mid-50s, met while Victor was in training. Blanche always expected to be involved. She was less active when her sons were busy with school and extracurricular activities. "You just grow with the job," said Blanche, who has taught vacation Bible school, sung in the choir and served as chairwoman of church committees. In 1983, her denomination honored her for her many

For the past 10 years, Blanche has been the church's full-time secretary.

"We're active because we want to be," she said. "Our members are like family."

GRUEBEL AND his wife, Sue, were high school sweethearts in New York. In the early days, Sue's potential role in his ministry wasn't discussed much. However, in the ensuing years they "talked about it innumerable times," said Kenneth Gruebel, 42.

"We decided early on that this was my calling, and not hers. She would pick whatever (church) projects were important to her. The congregation has been very accepting."----

This school year, she transferred employment from the Garden City Public Schools to the Livonia Public Schools, where she's an adult education teacher.

Their son, David, 16, a junior at Plymouth Canton High School, plays percussion in the Centennial Educational Park Marching Band. Daughter Melissa, a fourth grader at Gallimore Elementary School, swims and plays soccer and basketball.

"I have opted to not take a leadership role (in church) at this time because I have so many irons in the fire." Sue Gruebel said.

"The members have been very supportive," she said. "Before, we were in a church on Long Island. It was more traditional, but my time schedule was different. Things were different then, all around."

THE REV. Gilbert Sanders, a Missouri native, became pastor of the 500-member Livonia Baptist Church last June. Sanders, 43, said his wife, Susan, accompanies him to many church functions and he relies on her counsel.

But, said Sanders, his Southern Baptist denomination informally encourages each pastor to see his wife as "a person in her own right" and not simply as a helper.

"Before we got married, I felt I had a calling to church work," said Susan Sanders, 42.

With a strong interest in Christian education and music, she studied at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago for two years before quitting to marry.

"It wasn't as mandatory (then) to have a career," she

The Sanderses, who have been married almost 22 years, have two children. Their son, Dale, 14, attends Livonia Franklin High School. Muriel, 12, is a student at Riley Middle School.

SINCE COMING to Livonia, Susan Sanders has taken a full-time job in an insurance office to help meet family expenses. Although that limits her free time, she is active in a church group that corresponds with missionaries. She also teaches Sunday school to preschoolers.

She hopes to initiate a class for pregnant women, aimed at laying the foundation for children's spiritual

"Many baby boomers have dropped out of church," she said. "Whether we like it or not, the kids who go to church get into less trouble. Of course, there is no guarantee. We can build a support group to help you through the rough times of raising the child."

The Sanderses have talked about becoming volunteer missionaries overseas, perhaps after retirement. Susan said she has no desire to become an ordained minister, although there are a few Baptist women preachers.

IN SOME cases, both husband and wife are ordained, One such pastoral pair is the Rev. Randy Whitcomb and his wife, the Rev. Michelle A. Gentile of Canton, Both are United Methodist ministers. They have no children.

Whitcomb is pastor of the 145-member Cherry Hill United Methodist Church in Canton. Gentile is pastor of the 124-member Denton Faith United Methodist Church in Belleville.

"The church doesn't have that many expectations when the spouse is male," Whitcomb said.

Nationally, some 2,300 women have been ordained in the United Methodist denomination, Gentile said. Many marry other ministers. While barriers are dropping, many people still expect more from the women; Gentile

Gentile, who is from Rochester in Oakland County, met and married Whitcomb while they were in the seminary. He's from Rochester too, but a different state -

BECAUSE THEIR respective duties keep them so busy, "we have to schedule time together," according to Whitcomb.

'The hardest part is that we don't get to worship together," said Gentile, 35. Occasionally, they will switch pulpits and preach at the other's church, which is enjoyable for them and the

"In all the churches we have served the people have been gracious," Gentile said.

ONE ISSUE that they must periodically grapple with is church assignment. In their denomination, it is customary for pastors to be ordained and assigned in a designated geographical area, called a conference. Whitcomb gave up his conference and relocated to Michigan to be close to his wife. Pastors are reappointed each year. "Our bishop, Judith Craig, was wonderful and made sure we had jobs together," Gentile said. "The church and the clergy couples are still learning - walking on new ground."

Signs of strife

Recent reports from Eastern Europe have included distressing news. Not front page material, nor subjects for evening newscasts. At least for the time being. But the issue is too important to ignore. It will not go away by thinking it inconsequen-

Major religious groups in Eastern Europe have reported incidents of contention, and even conflict, in their unfolding relationships with one another. The new experiences of freedom in religious life have awakened contentious issues between varlous groups within Christendom.

Some of these issues are localized conflicts directed by stronger personalities. Some are part of the positioning for power within the new orders of public life. Some open old wounds that go back and cut deeply in the faith community.

CONTENTIONS AND strife within the faith community of Eastern Europe have not been Western media subjects for more than 40 years. Perhaps we were just grateful for their existence, and missed the finer details of their life together. Whatever the reason, for the past four decades, most of us have heard nothing about the way the churches in Eastern Europe relate to one anoth-

Eastern European churches for these unfolding tensions, we cannot ignore the tensions within our Western religious community. The news is less distressing about conditions in Eastern European churches than it is an indictment of the human spirit for failing to learn from the past.

More than 40 years of joint efforts by the religious communities of Eastern Europe to throw off the oppression of totalitarianism have created experiences of trust and acceptance of one another in matters of pational identity. Forty years of fighting a common enemy has created bonds of community that will not easily dissolve in the face of tensions and contentions.

Experience alone, however, does not create community. Community exists where commitment is made to community. A commitment that begins with the self.

IN HIS "Letters to Olga," Vaclay Havel, the president of Czechoslovakia, wrote about the responsibility for spiritual and national renewal in these words: "The only possible place to begin is with myself . . . it is I who must begin . . . Whether all is really lost or not depends entirely on whether I am lost."

Both the experiences of Western -churches and the reported tensions and contentions within the Rastern European religious communion strongly suggest that the ultimate source of our strife and discontent is not those who rule over us. What we Even if we would dare chastise the need most to fear is not what others can do to us, but what we do to ourselves. The Rev. Lloyd Buss is pastor of the Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester Hills.

Photography experts will be sponsoring group tours through Scotland this summer.

Photo enthusiasts are welcome to join the group June 24-July 7 and capture shots in the Western Highlands of Scotland, The group will begin the excursion in Girvan, Scotland, a fishing village and photograph several castles and an abbey ruin. A visit to the Robert Burns Center will also be made while in the Girvan area where photographers can shoot the bridge over the River Doon (the Brigadoon of Lerner and Lowe fame.)

The trip includes a drive through the valley of Glencoe where one. night, while they slept, the Mac-Donald clan was murdered by their guests, the Campbells. The next stop is in Ft. William, the gateway to the Western Highlands and in the morning the group will then head for the Isle of Skye.

Two days will be spent photographing Skye, the rugged island, home of the Clan MacCleod. A ferry will then take the group to the Isle of Lewis where they will spend two days taking shots among the 3,000year-old Standing Stones of Callanish which is considered to be the finest stone circle in Scotland.

Back to the mainland, the group will take a scenic route to Inverness and spend a free day to sightsee, shop and relax. After two days in Inverness, they will head south down the coastline of Loch Ness, keeping an eye out for Nessie.

The photo tour is $1,950 and includes round-trip airfare, all transportation within Scotland, 12 nights accommodations at bed and breakfast establishments, all breakfast and dinners and admission into historical sites.

The trip also includes instruction by photography experts such as Nancy Goff of Ann Arbor and Cheryl Hogue of Saline.

For more information and reservations for the trip, call (313)973-1251 or (313)429-0594.

IT'S A PLEASANT walk through the rose garden, Japanese garden or English woodland. A bonus is the sculptures which grace the fountains (turned off during the winter) and grounds - including works by Alexander Calder, Henry Moore and Carl Milles.

We were lucky to travel during the off-season because even Tony's, one of only nine Mobil Gulde five-star North American restaurants had room for us on a Friday night with only an hour's notice. If you go now, be sure to make reservations.

The 94th Aero Squadron adjacent to the airport with a perfect view of landings and takeoffs was a great place for Sunday brunch.

• Begin with airfare:

All year round, Southwest Airlines offers special rates to St. Louis. As long as you travel Monday through Thursday, tickets are $19 each way with a 21-day advance purchase. Or you can get a $48 round-trip ticket with a seven-day advance purchase or a $78 round-trip ticket with a oneday advance purchase. That's for unreserved seating on a number of conveniently scheduled one-stop flights.

• Rental cars: When you arrive at Lambert-St." Louis International Airport on a Friday morning, there are at least a half dozen rental car companies. A midsize car is $11.95 per day plus 17 cents a mile at Budget, $21.95 and 100 free daily miles at National.

The holy path to Mecca

The first time I saw the sign it was inside a bureau drawer in the Rasa Sayang Hotel, one of séveral beautiful high-rise beach hotels in Penang. Penang is an island connected by bridge and ferry to the northwest coast of Malaysia, on the southernmost peninsula of southeast Asia.

The sign was one word: KIBLAT. It was printed inside the outline of an arrow that pointed towards the rear corner of the drawer .--

Malaysia is a Muslim country, but it has large minorities of many religious persuasions, so we had been taking our shoes off all day: to enter the state mosque, to climb the hill to the Pagoda of Ten Thousand Buddhas, to creep into the Snake Temple and to admire the 100-foot-long Reclining Buddha.

The second time I saw the sign was on the ceiling of our room in the Perdana Hotel in Kota Bahru, across the peninsula on the South China Sea. We had photographed Malay fishermen pulling colorful boats through the surf on to a wide sand beach, watched the top spinners, the drummers and the Kelantan dancers, before falling into bed, so I didn't actually see the sign until I was flat on my back, ready to turn out the

THE SAME word: KIBLAT. The same boxed arrow. Only this time it was on the ceiling of our hotel room, pointing toward the corner.

"It must be something to do with electricity or fire escapes," I said.

Malaysia is a small country, but we spent a lot of time traveling from one place to another aboard Malaysian Air Lines, so the mystery wasn't solved until we reached the capital city of Kuala Lumpur.

Our-guide, Anuar Haji-Abdul-Hamid, took-us for a walking tour around the minarets and domes of Masjid Jame, the public mosque, built on the very spot where Kuala Lumpur was founded centuries ago at the junction of the Klang and Gombak rivers. Why are the men stretched out all over the floor?" somebody asked. "They look like they're "Muslims must pray five times a day," Anuar said. "Today is Sunday, these men don't have to work and they are waiting for the next prayer."

"Do they pray facing to the east?" "They face the holy city of Mecca," Anuar

The question kept nagging at me as we photographed the mosque, the old colonial buildings of Kuala Lumpur, the war memorial high above the Lake Gardens. How does a devout Muslim' know the direction of Mecca when he travels?

It was a rhetorical question, long forgotten by the time we checked into the Hyatt Saujana Hotel and Country Club, eager to leap into the swimming pool.

I pulled a stack of clothes out of my suitcase, opened a bureau drawer and there it was: KI-

BLAT. And an arrow pointing nowhere. By that time I had bought a Malay-English dictionary. I dug it out of the bottom of my carry-on luggage and flipped through to the letter

"Kiblat. Here it is," I said. "You're not going to believe this!"

"What does it mean," Micky asked. "It means 'the direction of Mecca.""_

He looked puzzled, but any devout Muslim would know exactly what it meant when he prepared for prayer at 6 a.m., at 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m., at sunset and at 8:30 p.m. It is how you know the direction of Mecca when you travel in

THE BIG, SMALL TOWN ON THE RIVER

By Carolyn DeMarco staff writer

Welcome to St. Louis, Mo. — a big, small town or maybe it's a small, big town, pressed up tight against the Mississippi River, halfway between Canada and the Gulf of Mexico and proudly referred to as the "gateway to the

It's also the location of the world's largest brewery, site of the 1904 World's Fair, birthplace of sliced bread, home of the National Bowling Hall of Fame and the eastern border for all radio stations that start with K.

We took our trip during the midwinter season which offers cheap travel rates and a break from the hustle and bustle of tourist season. However, most river boats and outdoor tourist sites are closed for the winter.

Most Mississippi sidewheeler excursion boats run between May and October as well as the Six Flags Over Mid-America amusement park. If you go this summer check them out and don't forget St. Louis Cardinals baseball — the heart of St. Louis tourism.

HOTELS ARE plentiful in St. Louis. The Hotel Majestic, a historic pearl of a hotel, is $180 a night for two persons, according to the AAA Tourbook, $100 a night per a long-distance inquiry, and only $65 per night when you actually confront the desk clerk. Other hotels have similarly discounted for the quiet times.

A trip to St. Louis is not a trip to St. Louis without a visit to the famous Gateway Arch, this country's tallest monument and one of its most-visited sites since it was built in 1965. It's all part of Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, a national park commemorating St. Louis as the Gateway to the West.

While down by the riverside, you can stroll the cobblestone levee (per Webster, an enbankment to prevent a river from flooding bordering land). Many excursion boats double as restaurants - including a floating -

IN 1764, a French fur trapper, Pierre Laclede, established a trading post on this western bank of the Mississippi. Today it's a tourist attraction - restaurants and shops. Among them are Gibbol's Novelties and Costumes, a fun shop with adult novelties, stage makeup and magic tricks; Missouri Peddlers, a showcase for Missouri crafters with quilts, toys and folk art; and Swiss Village Book Store Antique Annex, a browser's dream of old and rare books and artifacts.

After dark the parking lots fill with funseekers there for the good music and fun times and the streets fill with -strollers and horse-drawn carriages.

Young locals consider Muddy Waters the most popular nightspot. Hannegan's Pub features jazz. The Blarney Stone houses a dinner theater.

The Old Courthouse (1839) in front of the Gateway Arch is a peaceful spot for relaxing in downtown St. Louis.

For $2.50 ($.50 for kids) you can travel to the top of the lar tourist attraction and prominent landmark, Union Station. In its heydey, the mammoth station was the largest and busiest in the world with more than 100,000 passengers through each day.

Shops in the station include all the upscale regulars you've come to know and love - Eddie Bauer, Crabtree. and Evelyn, Banana Republic, and some interesting independents as well.

They include the Great Train Store, which sells O, N and H gauge to kids who never grow up as well as whistles, cassettes, books and mags for train lovers. Near it is America's National Parks, a store devoted to books about U.S. national parks, history and ecological topics; Joy of Ireland, all the obvious Hibernian imports like woolens, Irish oatmeal and heraldic keychains and posters; a computer genealogy kiosk, and Top It Off, a small hat store.

GO TO THE HOME of the world's largest brewery and not visit? No chance. The tour takes you outside through blocks and blocks of Anheuser-Busch property including the famous Clydesdales' stable, packaging plant and the ever-popular hospitality center. A large gift shop caters to logo lovers of Budweiser and Michelob brews.

Beer lovers are often baseball lovers as well. If you fit into the category, not far from the brewery is Busch Stadium, home to the (St. Louis) Sports Hall of Fame. Stan is still The Man here, 40 years later. Musial is immortalized with a statue outside, and a near—shrine inside. INSTITUTIONS on the grounds of the 1,400 acres of Forest Park include the St. Louis Art Museum, St. Louis Zoological Park, St. Louis Science Center and the Jefferson Memorial, which chronicles St. Louis history.

The art museum is the successor to the oldest art museum west of the Mississippi and ranked as one of the top 10 in the United States. Admission is free.

There is an admission charge to the strikingly modern science center - the combined McDonnel Planetarium, Museum of Science and Natural History and the Medical Museum. The Discovery Room allows children the opportunity to see, feel and touch. Monsanto Science Center provides 24 larger-than-life exhibits in an outdoor setting.

The Missouri Botanical Garden is the oldest botanical garden in the United States, conceived in the 1850s by Henry Shaw, and still referred to by St. Louisans as Shaw's Garden. The 79-acre garden is built around Shaw's country home, Tower Grove House, which can be toured.

Holland's Tulip Time Festival, May 14-19, is busy with Dutchlike attractions, including Windmill Island Municipal Park.

Festivals: from tulips to trout

By Iris Sanderson Jones contributing travel editor

The Michigan festival season will be launched in a burst of color when the annual tulip festival takes place May 14-19 in Holland. TULIP TIME '90 celebrates the Dutch heritage of this western Michigan city, where millions of tulips bloom every

The festival includes 1,400 costumed Klompen dancers, eight miles of tulip lanes and a full schedule of parades, musical shows, street scrubbings and other Netherland-ish attractions.

You can beat the crowds by attending some of the warm-up events, which start with a musical cabaret called The All Night Strut May 9 and free performances in Centennial Park-May 10. The traditional Tulip Time Market opens May 11.

This warm-up is designed to attract visitors a week ahead of the official festival, and to display the tulips as long as possible. The first big parade, Volksparade, will be meals. May 16. By that time, the shows will be in full swing.

SHOWS INCLUDE the Living End Singers, 110 teens singing Christian music in a multi-image stage; the Annual Band Review; the Tulip Time Salute; a vaudeville show called Showstoppers; the Stars of Lawrence Welk; Barbershop on Parade; folk music; Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill"; Netherland folk dances; and a patriotic show called America Sings.

Year-round Holland attractions will be open and busy during the festival, including the Windmill Island attractions.

They include De Swaan, the only operating Dutch windmill in the United States, a 20-minute film about windmills, a Dutch merry-goround called the draaimolen, and other picturesque Dutch attractions set amid the tulips of Windmill Island Municipal Park in downtown-

• HERE IS A LIST of other Michigan events to be celebrated through May:

Two maple syrup festivals will be this weekend: in Shepherd April 27-29, and Vermontville April 28-29. Mushroom festivals also flourish in May: in Mesick May 4-6; and the National Mushroom-Hunting Championships in Boyne City May 12-13.

The Highland Festival and Games will bring the clans together with a wall of bagpipes May 26-27, but not all Michigan festivals are that well

There'll be a live buzzard along with arts and crafts at the Buzzard Festival May 5-6 in Hell. And a Pasty Bake in St. Ignace May 27, where they'll try to bake the world's largest pasty for the Guinness Book of World Records.

 SEVERAL OF the state's fishing festivals will culminate this weekend: the Perch Festival in Caseville, the National Trout Festival in Kalkaska and the Walleye Tournament in Midland.

Vegas goers set a 1990 increase

(AP) — Las Vegas tourism officials say visitor volume showed a healthy 12.8-percent increase for the first two months of this year, compared to the same period in

Rossi Ralenkotter, director of marketing for the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority, said 2.8 million visitors were recorded in the first two months of 1990, compared to 2.5 million for the same period a year ago.

While visitor volume is showing a double-digit increase, room occupancy was up.2 percent, because 6,000 new hotel rooms are on line this year. Another 10,000 rooms are under construction.

Southern California auto traffic increased by 22 percent in February, and 25 percent for the first two months of 1990, officials said.

Pilot program offers free advice on exports

By R.J. King special writer

-With dramatic social and political changes sweeping eastern Europe, the mood of corporate America is anything but lethargic.

General Motors, McDonald's and Levi Strauss recently have set up businesses behind the Iron Curtain, and the stream of larger American businesses seeking joint ventures is accelerating daily.

But for smaller area companies such as Concept Analysis Corp. in Plymouth and the Air Gage Co. in Livonia, getting into foreign markets is proving to be risky as well as en-

"We were the ultimate neophytes," said Dave Rourk, a research engineer for Concept Analysis, which designs and tests reinforced composites and plastics for use on everything from satellite anfennas to patio furniture.

"We wanted to expand into Hungary, and we gave serious thought to sending a sales team over. But we didn't know where to go or who to see. Yet we knew if we could sell one contract for $20,000 it would pay for the whole trip and we could build from there."

AND THEREIN lies the risk.

Whether to take a gamble and get a jump on the competition or play it safe and wonder what might have been. So where to turn for insight?

"That's where we come in," said John Chichester, director of the Community Export Alliance Office at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, which assists and evaluates area companies with exporting questions at no charge.

"We give companies straight talk about whether to export or not, and when we're finished, they haven't spent one dollar, they haven't gotten lost and they have an idea of where they stand."

John Chichester, director of the Community Export Alliance Office at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, uses a computer pro-

- one of seven awarded across the state - Chichester said the college established a computer program which, when fed certain variables, Through a $20,000 grant from the evaluates the likelihood of success. Michigan Department of Commerce for export-minded companies.

Called CORE, for COmpany Readiness to Export, the process begins with a questionnaire, where companies detail the products to be exported, monetary commitment, management experience and market projecgram to evaluate the feasibility of area companies' exporting prospects.

THE INFORMATION then is fed into the computer, where the numbers are crunched and sorted with demographic and population figures indigenous to a certain country or region and, within a few minutes, an evaluation is ready. In the case of Concept Analysis, which employs 20 people, the evalu-management experience came in line with expectations.

"The results surprised me a little bit," Rourk said. "While we had a high product rating for selling engineering software, we had a moderate organizational rating.

"Basically, it said we need to invest for the long term, not a short, quick in-and-out process that doesn't offer_return sales. Consequently, we will not be exporting in the near future. It was the direct opposite of my gut feeling."

In retrospect, Rourk said he might have guessed at the outcome given the company's recent contract to sell software to a seating company in Switzerland.

"It was just one contract two years ago which didn't amount to return sales," he said.

UP AND RUNNING since March, Chichester said CORE prepares companies in northwestern Wayne and Oakland counties for the stiff competition ahead, not only in the Eastern Bloc but against a unified Europe in 1992, Canada and the Japanese-dominated Pacific Rim.

"I think the Pacific Rim offers great growth potential. Canada is very attractive. But nine out-of the 10 calls we get are interested in the European Community," Chichester

"I suppose that makes sense given the fact most companies who call us are industrial-service firms and automotive suppliers. Everyone wants to rebuild the second Europe, but companies shouldn't forget about Latin and South America, which is a huge marketplace."

Even for companies already established on foreign soils, Unionester said the Community Export Alliance Office could offer guidance with expansion plans or access different markets in the same country.

For instance, Dave Joslyn, executive vice president of Air Gage, which employs just under 200 people

Bank's value not reflected by stock price — chairman

Bý Tim Richard staff writer

Despite shareholder complaints about the skidding stock price, a two-year decline in earnings and a "Taj Mahal" of a new headquarters in Troy, the chairman of Standard Federal Bank sees "better days ahead."

Thomas W. Ricketts said core earnings - mortgage loans, consumer banking and credit cards plus tight management make his thrift institution one of the best in the state and the nation.

Ricketts called the recent $7.50 stock price "goofy," adding that the 113-branch bank in Michigan and Indiana is on the federal list of approved buyers of troubled thrifts. A former mutual bank, Standard Federal converted to stock at about $10 three years ago and has been priced as high as $12.50 on the market.

"TERRIBLE PUBLICITY" has been partly to blame, Ricketts told the annual meeting Tuesday, citing the failure of thrifts in Texas and bad commercial real estate investments by New England thrifts.

"The thrifts in Michigan have not has been indicted," he said.

In the first quarter of 1990, Standard Fed's net income dropped 24 percent, from 42 cents ($12.9 million) to 32 cents ($9.7 million).

But he said four cents of that drop was due to a single factor - the federal Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act, which took effect last fall.

FIRREA means higher premiums on deposits, higher examination costs and a lower dividend on Standard Fed's Federal Home Loan Bank investments.

"It's costing us 16 cents (per share annually) to bail out those bums in Texas, although we had nothing to do with it," Ricketts said.

Here are other shareholder questions and Ricketts' answers:

Q. Why are you "so glowingly optimistic in a company that seems to be sliding off"? Net income fell from $67.4 million in 1987 to $63.3 million in '88 to $45.7 million last year.

A. Look at the middle lines and notice there are no flash in the pan earnings from sale of assets. For example, gains on sales of originated been tainted. Nobody in Michigan loans dropped from $6.6 million to $1.1 million to $410,000 in those years.

"We've been trying to build core earnings. We have a marvelous branch network. We dominate the home lending field. We have no troubled loans," setting another state mortgage lending record.

Q. What is the cost of this Taj Mahal of a new building?

A. $95 million for the land and building at 2600 W. Big Beaver Road, and it could be sold at a gain but won't be. SF has its operations and headquarters in a single building, in contrast to Comerica, First Federal and NBD, which have separate operations buildings.

"We're in the golden corridor, near Somerset Mall, K mart and VW. We have no country club memberships, no chauffeurs."

Besides being efficient to heat, cool and light, the "no nonsense, state-of-the-art" building helps attract employees.

Q. Are you planning any more acquisitions and mergers after the 1989 acquisitions in Kalamazoo and Monroe?

press orders from GM. Ford and Chrysler have gone to Japan in the past decade or so, nearly bankrupting the U.S. industry, which likely which involved developing a new enwill never recover since such orders only come every 25 years or so.

The result, in the early appraisals, is a fine small car. Ford has proved to be the only company that seems to be able to embark on a hybrid development and produce a product argucould do alone.

NOW COMES GM's Saturn plant, which also is heavily reliant on Japanese machine tools but which is based on an indigenous effort at reviving the capability of a domestic car company to develop a new car from the ground up.

Without any great sense of irony, GM types point to the Corvair as the last such all-encompassing effort, gine, transmission, chassis and body.

Early appraisals of the Saturn also indicate it is a fine small car, at least competitive, if not superior, to the best from overseas. The two products ultimately will have a tough go in the marketplace, ably superior than either parent not because they are not competitive, but because they will have to displace something else - most likely the recent Korean efforts, a weaker Japanese company, Volkswagen or Chevrolet's GEO division, just getting on its feet.

> PERHAPS MORE important is the residual fallout that will make the ground rules for such programs in the future.

In Ford's case, even better cooperation with the Japanese. In GM's case, the ability could be gained if not to push them to the shores, then at least to gain some practice in giving them an elbow in the ribs...

Life insurance can be a good tool for people in business

First of 3 parts

In recent weeks I have seen national network commercials in which the viewers are asked to "keep New York Life." This is done presumably to earn respect of the general public for the insurance industry.

The ubiquitous apathy of the general public toward life insurance is most regrettable. I believe that life insurance is an extremely valuable financial planning tool.

In a three-part article I will discuss some of the time-tested uses of dife insurance.

Buy-sell agreement

a business can create serious financial problems for the business and for the estate and survivors of the deceased individual.

Usually, the deceased's interest in the business is a dominant portion of the total estate. The estate tax payable can place a substantial burden on the estate and the business.

To meet expenses, the estate may be forced to liquidate the interest in the business. And, if it is sold under adverse conditions, substantial losses may be suffered as a result of a forced sale.

Even more important, if corporate stock is sold to outsiders, the surviving shareholders' interests may be jeopardized.

· All of these problems can be han-The death of a principal owner of dled with buy-sell agreements, finances and you Sid Mittra which provide for the orderly transfer of the deceased's business interest to surviving partners, stockholders or key employees at fair values determined in advance.

Life insurance is used to assure that the money will be available either to the business or to an individual when the business interests are to

The death of the owner whose interest is to be bought triggers the mechanism that produces the necessary money — the life insurance policies on the owner's life. The proceeds from these policies give the buyers the needed money to pay the estate the agreed price.

Key man insurance.

No one would try to run a business without adequate insurance to cover possible loss of assets, operating facilities and profits in the event of fire, theft or other disaster.

Similarly, businesses frequently protect themselves against the loss of a partner, executive or other key employee. This is accomplished by means of life insurance.

More specifically, the company owns the insurance policy, is the sole beneficiary and receives the full proceeds in the event of the death of the insured.

In addition, by using the cash value, the company can provide a cash reserve to finance additional retirement benefits for the executive in the event that he or she does not die prematurely.

Next week: More on insurance.

'Sydney' creatorMichael Wilson from Birmingham writes the show

Now living in Hollywood, TV producer and writer Michael Wilson feeds his son, 17-month-old Perry.

By Victor E Swanson

special writer

THE COMMERCIAL television networks - ever battling each other for ratings - recently premiered a number of new series, including "Sydney" (Wednesday nights on CBS).

The comedy, starring pretty Valerie Bertinelli as Sydney Kells. was created by Michael Wilson and Doug Wyman. Wilson is a graduate of Groves High School in Birming-

"It's a half-hour comedy about a contemporary woman in the '90s, trying to make it in L.A.," Wilson said, describing the series during a telephone interview from Hollywood. "And she happens to be a private detective. Her dad was a cop. She comes from a cop family."

"Sydney" began as a "spec" screenplay that Wilson wrote in 1988. Speaking as fast as Sydney does in the series. Wilson said, "I submitted it around, and I had some interest from a couple of studios on it for a couple of different actresses, and around that time I took a job working - running what you call creative affairs or development - for a guy named Bud Grant, who used to run CBS and now heads up his own independent production company. While I was running Grant's company as creative affairs vice-president, he read the script and started expressing an interest in doing it as a se-

MEANWHILE, Bertinelli was looking hard for an idea for a series. She had a 13-episode commitment for some type of series with meeting, and I just went in and pitched the character to Valerie in a meeting. I'd never met her before," Wilson said.

The idea Wilson presented was a combination put together by Wilson and Wyman, partly based on the "Sydney" screenplay. "She really, really liked it," Wilson remembered.

"I asked for a lot of lead time before we started the show," he said. "We took just three months and we just did readings, which is ·what you traditionally do with most pilots, but we just took a longer time than most pilots. We had a terrific casting director, whose name is Allison Jones, who also cast 'Dear John.' "

Other regulars in "Sydney" are Craig Bierko as Matt Keating, the married lawyer, from whom Sydney gets most of her cases and on whom she has a crush; Rebaccah Bush as Jill, her best friend; Matthew Perry as Billy, her brother, the police officer; Barney Martin as Ray, the bartender and owner of the bar called the Blue Collar, Daniel Baldwin as a barfly named Cheezy, and Perry Anzsilotti as a snitch named Perry.

Hardest character to cast was

"WE DIDN'T CAST that part till the day before we started shooting. We couldn't find a girl that we liked, and then we'd find people that we liked, but we couldn't make a deal with them," Wilson said.

"Initially, we did three shows and then we shut down, and Doug Wymam quit, and then I just took over the show on my own. I wasn't. really happy with the first three shows we did. In fact, we're reshooting those next week."

Wilson does most of the writing on the show and is one of its four executive producers. The others are Bertinelli and two of her business associates, Jack Grossbart and Marty Litke.

"The executive producer in halfhour comedy is pretty much the writer who has the final say, the writer who runs what you call the room on rewrite night," Wilson

He works differently than many executive producers. To write an line Kahn and James Sloyan. episode, he doesn't get a bunch of gag writers together in a room and have them pitch jokes. He wants character comedy, not joke after joke, which a stand-up comedian might do. That doesn't mean the show is slow. Each episode is produced from about a 45-page script. Usually, comedy shows are made from 35-page scripts.

"SYDNEY" IS officially Wilson's first writing job.

He did get some journalism experience at Groves High School, however, and he did study English and film at the University of Michigan, where he received a bachelor of arts degree in 1975. After college, he and his girlfriend moved to New York. Wilson held a variety of jobs till his father helped him get work in the mallroom of the William Moris Agency.

In New York, he and Brooke, the daughter of Dr. Vince and Mary Louise Greeson of Bloomfield Hills, decided to get married.

Wilson soon found himself working as an agent for William Morris. In the 1980s, he moved to California to work for the company. Then he worked for Creative Artists, where he met Marcy Carsey, an executive producer on "Roseanne" and "The Cosby Show."

"I ran creative affairs for Marcy Carsey for like three years," he said. "When you're writing creative affairs, you're not writing, but what you're doing is meeting with writers, you're getting scripts in and you're evaluating them.

"Everything I know about halfhour I learned from Marcy Car-

Carsey and Wilson did work on some scripts together, such as the pilot for the 1983-84 series "Oh, Madeline," which featured Made-

WILSON REALLY started to write for himself when he and Brooke got together again about two years ago. They had divorced after a few years of marriage.

"The weirdest thing that happened in my life was when Brooke and I got back together. When we started living together. Brooke really encouraged me to write. I mean, I really have to give her most of the credit for all her support and encouragement with me."

They now have a 16-month-old

In June, Wilson's writing-producing contract expires with Grant/Tribune Productions, one of two companies that produces "Syd-∵ney."

His options, he said, are to renew with Bud Grant or got to another company. But, he added, "who knows what's going to happen."

Drama looks at compulsions

Performances' of "Serenading Louie" continue through Saturday, April 28, at the Smith Theatre on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. For ticket information call 471-7700.

By Richard Marsh special writer

Everyone is compulsive in one way or another. It just depends on the degree, as to how dangerous it is. This is the basis for "Serenading Louie" at the Smith Theater. The play is more of a character study than story. It focuses on two couples who have been longtime friends, and each of them has a compulsion of one kind or another.

Alex, whose only true interest is in himself and his ambitions for the future, is played intensely by Jim Cook. While Alex is a tense character, Cook, who doubles as the show's director, makes him seem like he could go over the edge at any moment.

Alex's wife, Gabby, only wants a home and family, something Alex really does not have any interest in. Carrie Bickner as Gabby is probably the most convincing of the foursome in the show.

Bickner's emotions really make the audience feel for her character and her character's dilemmas. Gabby is probably the most normal person in the script.

THE MAIN PROBLEM of Carl, Alex's next-door-neighbor, is that he is fond of liquor and drinks to excess as often as is convenient.

Keith Chimiel, who plays Carl, seems uncertain as to how he wants to play the role. There are times when Carl has a distinct accent, while at other times, he speaks with no accent. Chimiel's display of emotion is similarly variable.

Carl's wife, Mary, is mainly interested in having a nice home, a nice daughter, a nice career and a good time. Carl just happens to be the only way she can maintain her lifestyle. As far as the good time goes, she has no shame in getting it any way she can, including having an affair with her husband's accountant.

Lori Lipten is somewhat bland as Mary. While the character of Mary is not exactly exciting, Lipten does little to add much feeling to the role.

Despite the few shortcomings of the cast, the performers are still successful in transmitting the personas of their characters and in delivering the play's message to the audience.

The stage features a simple space set. The couple's homes are on opporally going on.

site sides of the stage, with effectively defined lighting separating the two homes. There is a problem when the set is brought together for an extended version of Carl's home. At first, there is no way to determine whose home the four are in,

IN THE SECOND act, there is some surrealism added to the show? when Carl and Alex converse in person while still supposedly in their respective homes.

This effect would work much better if the neighbor joining in the conversation is in a spotlight, defining? the surrealistic effect. As it is, because of the matching pieces of furniture in the two homes, the audience can be confused as to what is

Theatre Guild's production is a slick one

The Theatre Guild is presenting the first Michigan community theater production of "Steel Magnolias." It has all the ingredients to become very popular with amateur groups from coast to coast. The guild sets a high standard that others will find difficult to duplicate.

Co-directors Gail Susan Mack and children and personal deficiencies. John Eastman have put together a very talented cast - and her set creates just the right mood. That would be a beauty parlor in a small Louisiana town. It has three chairs (no waiting) and sinks with real running water.

There we meet six wisecracking women who laugh away life's problems as they gossip and needle each other about ex-husbands, wayward

When tragedy strikes, however, they draw strength and comfort from each other. Every one is entitled to her sorrow. Then they pick up the pleces and get on with their lives.

The show centers around, Shelby, a spoiled Southern belle. She is diabetic and about to be married. She wants children, but that would endanger her life and perhaps the child.

KAREN MYERS brightens the stage with a nicely focused portrayal as Shelby. Her insulin-shock scene is stunning. And she is very good at evolving into a woman with the character and courage to face the consequences of her decisions.

Sandy Martin plays her mother, M'Lynn, with a quiet strength that is very effective. Martin's agony over her daughter's decision is genuine, her rage at the consequences is com-

Stacy Pattison is sweet and innocent as Truvy's young, unsophisticated assistant. Peg Humphrey is delighfully comical as Ouiser, twice divorced and a local curmudgeon, who likes to say, "I'm not crazy. I've just been in a bad mood for 40 years."

Jan Salisbury is very consistent as Clairee, a rich widow of the ex-mayor. A little more flamboyance, however, would give the role better definition.

- The cast never allows the show to, wallow in soap opera melodramatics, nor does it go for the easy sitcom laughs - though at times the smart-

Roll Call Report

WASHINGTON - Here's how area members of Congress were recórded on-major-roll call-votes-inthe week ending April 20.

HOUSE:

PRICE-FIXING ISSUE - By a vote of 235 for and 157 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill to help plaintiffs win lawsuits against vertical price-fixing, which occurs when manufacturers seek to enforce a minimum product price. The bill (HR 1236) eases Supreme Court-set standards of evidence that make it easy for judges to dismiss such suits. It gives plaintiffs a better chance of advancing their case to a jury.

The bill is backed by discounters such as Burlington Coat Factory and K mart and opposed by business groups such as the Chamber of Commerce and National Association of Manufacturers, according to floor

Members voting yes supported the Local congressman voting yes were: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods; William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no were: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth; and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

SUBSTITUTE BILL - By a vote of 155 for and 242 against, the House rejected a substitue version of the bill (above) to combat vertical pricefixing. The amendment sought to preserve exacting standards of evidence that plaintiffs, such as discounters suing manufacturers, must satisfy under 1984 and 1988 Supreme Court rulings. It also attempted to codify the 1911 court ruling that vertical price-fixing is illegal.

Sponsor Chuck Douglas, R-N.H., said Congress should "not fool around with Supreme Court decisions" that have evolved over the Opponent Lawrence Smith, D-Fla., said the amendment "would kill this

Members voting yes supported the substitute. The lone local member doing so was Broomfield.

STANDARDS OF EVIDENCE -By a vote of 192 for and 204 against, the House rejected an amendment to HR 1236 (above) toughening the standards of evidence in verical price-fixing cases. This retained the bill's objective of making it easier. for plaintiffs to avoid dismissal by a judge, and gain a jury trial, of their suits accusing manufacturers and distributors of conspiring against them because of their low prices.

 Supporters said the amendment would protect manufacturers who cut off discount dealers for reasons other than pricing policies. Foes said anti-trust policy is best served when vertical price-fixing cases are decided by juries.

Members voting yes wanted to make it easier for judges to dismiss vertical price-fixing cases for lack of evidence.

Yes votes were cast by: Pursell and Broomfield.

Voting no were: Hertel, Ford and Levin.

SENATE:

TARIFF ISSUE By a vote of 90 for and 3 against, the Senate agreed to allow the president to suspend tariffs on certain imports if the product is uncontroversial and Congress has gone at least one year without acting on a request for suspension. Congress is empowered by the Constitution to regulate foreign commerce. But critics say it too often is un-responsive to U.S. companies'-bids for tariff suspensions. The amendment was attached to a trade bill (HR 1594) that contained 194 requests for duty suspensions. The bill remained in debate.

Sponsor William Roth, R-Del., sald his amendment would help American companies remain competitive by cutting the cost of certain raw

Chargers edge Stevenson, 1-0

Garry's boot stands up

staff writer

Not to confuse football with girls soccer, but Livonia Churchill won the field goal-kicking contest Wednesday when Christina Garry's 40-yard boot accounted for the game's only score in a 1-0 trlumph over host Livonia Stevenson.

Thursday, April 26, 1990 O&E

The Chargers are 4-0-1 overall, while Stevenson dipped to 1-2-1.

The win by Churchill avenged a loss to the Spartans in last year's state tournament.

"The girls haven been talking about this game for quite some time," said Churchill coach Nick O'Shea. "They knocked us out last year and they wanted to pay them

The game-winning goal by Garry, which occurred midway through the first half, floated out of the reach of Stevenson goaltender Alicia Smith and grazed the crossbar.

-"The ball hit the post and then bounced down off her leg," said Stevenson—coach Mary Kay Boots. "They got the bounce and we didn't. It happens."

CHURCHILL'S Stephanie Speen nearly had an identical shot go in only six minutes later, but the ball caromed off the crossbar.

During the opening half, Churchill keeps going. had a slight wind at its back.

ball," said O'Shea. "And pyschologically, it makes a difference."

Stevenson got off only one shot in marked tightly, particularly sophowas being shadowed by Mechelle

Although Churchill had a breeze in its face for the second half, the Chargers continued to carry the play for 20 minutes:

But the Chargers got tired down the stretch and Stevenson began to supply more offensive punch.

With just under 15 minutes to go, Coyne rifled a shot off the crossbar from 35 yards out and freshman Patty Diamond couldn't knock home the

The Spartans then sent up an extra attacker with four minutes to go and nearly scored the equalizer.

With less than a minute to play, Diamond nearly slipped through the Churchill defense and had Churchill goalie Dana Keller out of position, but her shot slid just wide of the "DANA DID a good job to make her (Diamond) kick it early," said O'Shea. "You have to take away the near side and make her hit across, and that's what she did."

Coyne, who set up the near-equalizer, was perpetual motion for the entire 80 minutes. -- --

"Everyone marked up a player and Mechelle's job to was to mark Ragen," explained O'Shea. "And when we'd rest Mechelle, we'd drop Lori Place back to center-midfield to mark her. "Mechelle played well and she played tough. Both players are physical and they never give an inch. But Ragen never stops, she just

"We kept working away and we had our chances," said the Stevenson the first half. The Spartans were also coach. "In the first half we didn't get any shots because our strikers were more midfielder Ragen Coyne, who not running the ball up. We had to take it to the goal. We need to finish and we need to make sure we don't give up fluky goals.

Falcons blank Spartans, 2-0

Margaret Martin's two goals carried Farmington High to a key 2-0 girls soccer victory Monday over visiting Livonia Stevenson.

The Falcons are now 3-1 overall, while the Spartans fell to 1-1-1.

"We needed this one to stay in contention, both in the conference (Western Lakes) and the Division (Western)," said Farmington coach Cathy Cole. "We played hard. There were moments when both teams had an opportunity to put the ball in."

Both of Martin's goals - one off a restart and the other off an intercepted pass — occurred in the second half. Farmington outshot Ste-

"I didn't think we played well, but they (Farmington) are a good team," said Stevenson coach Mary Kay Boots. "Their forwards ate us up."

Both Farmington goaltenders, who split time in the nets, sophomore Mandy Cannon and junior Kristen Soper, each stood out. Cole also singled out the play of midfielder Amy Trunk.

Stevenson's Alicia Smith also made several big stops.

Both teams are at full strength, although Stevenson played without starter Shannon Wilkinson, who is out with a broken leg.

CHURCHILL 11, W.L. WEST-ERN 0: On Monday, Livonia Churchill (3-0-1) blitzed visiting Walled Lake Westenr as junior Mechelle Brazin and sophomore Carol Jackson each scored two Goalie Erica Sundeck, who faced only two shots, posted the shutout.

CC grads climb U-M depth chart

By Brad Emons staff writer

Like Avis, a pair of Redford Catholic Central High grads are No. 2 and trying harder.

Both Eric Knuth and Pete Elezovic each feel more of a part of the University of Michigan football squad after their respective performances Saturday in the annual Blue-White spring game.

Knuth, a second-year player, has improved his stock immensely and appears to be ready to back up returning starter T.J. Osman at middle

And Elezovic, in his first full season with the Wolverines, apparently has moved up in the kicking race behind returnee J.D. Carlson.

Elezovic kicked a 46-yard field goal in the first quarter and came back with a 36-yarder in the third period to account for all of the Blue team's points in a 31-6 loss to the White at Michigan Stadium.

"J.D.'s the No. 1 kicker," Elezovic sald. "He had a great season last year. I'm just going to have to wait for a chance. It's Carlson's job and only his to lose. But hopefully in the future maybe I can do some kickoffs."

ELEZOVIC undoubtedly moved ahead of John Albertson with a strong spring showing.

And the CC grad showed he could boot the ball from a distance through the narrower goal-posts, which will be of pro-dimensions this fall.

"It didn't look that much smaller," sald Elezovic, a Farmington Hills native, "I didn't notice a difference. You still have to put it in there. I feel great about what happened today and overall I had a good spring."

Elezovic, an All-Observer performer two years ago as a punter, turned down a football scholarship to Central Michigan to walk on at U-me to make a decision right away," Elezovic recalls. "Coach (Tom) Mach (of CC) made some calls for me and Michigan State finally said they would take me as a walk-on, but I always wanted to go here (Ann Arbor). I just wanted a chance. I told Central I was going, but when Michigan decided to take me as a walk-on on I changed my mind."

Coach Gary Moeller also came away impressed with his new-found

"LIKE A LOT of second-team guys, you never know what they're going to do when they get the opportunity," said the new coach. "The first one was a line drive, and he was probably nervous. The thing that was impressive is that he kicked the second one through. On the first one he may have been trying too hard. Every time you kick in practice, it has meaning, but not like it does when you're out in front of an audi-

"Carlson will probably be our kicker, but you always need a No. 2. With his performance today, he'll probably be our No. 2 kicker. It gives him an advantage, but I don't know if anything has been cemented.".

Knuth, Elezovic's teammate on the Blue squad, saw limited action last fall for the Wolverines. He was used in goal line situations against both UCLA and Ohio State and also played against Maryland.

He recorded three solo tackles and one assist, but was far from satisfied about the Blues' outcome in the spring game.

"I couldn't believe it, they (White squad) kept putting it in the end zone," said the Plymouth native with sweat perspiring off his face. "But "I wanted to got to a school in it's fun. Once you get out there it's pretty intense. You get to tee off on

"Last year T.J. swung with Mike Teeter (who graduated) in certain situations," Knuth said. "I hope something like that works out for me. I'm hoping that's what the plan is - second string."

Knuth is also finding out what life is like without Bo Schembechler.

"Everybody respects him (Moeller) because he's been around here for 19 years, but then again he's not Bo and we're going to miss Bo," said the former CC All-Stater. "But whoever is coaching, we've got something to prove. We're still Michigan. There haven't been too many structural changes. The first three weeks we had some marathon practices. We had a 140-play scrimmage last Saturday (April 14)."

The 6-foot-2, 246-pound Knuth finished spring term Wednesday and will spend the next term taking eight credit hours before heading up north to his parents' summer home.

For two other Wolverines, the summer will be spent doing rehabilitation in the weight room.

RUNNING BACK Tony Boles, a fifth-year senior from Westland John Glenn, began light running last week after undergoing knee surgery in December.

"Boles is like hitting the lottery if he plays," Moeller said. "That would be like a big bonus. Right now we're going as if he won't play."

Another starter, fourth-year linebacker Alex Marshall of Redford Bishop Borgess, sat out the spring game with a partial ligament tear to Surgery, however, is not in Marshall plans. A summer of strengthening will be sufficient, according to U-M tea doctors.

And like Elezovic and Knuth, both Boles and Marshall may find themselves in backup roles when fall drills begin.

They too, will have something to shoot for.

Thurston whips Annapolis; Patriots trip Churchill, 6-4

Redford Thurston (2-1, 1-0) scored six runs in the first inning on its way to 9-4 baseball win Monday over

In the opener, the host Fighting Irish jumped out to a 6-0 lead after three innings and held on for the win.

Steve Ross took the loss for CC, going 2% innings and giving up four earned runs. Brett Walter took over for Ross and held the Irish scoreless the rest of the way.

Top hitters for CC included Matt Fennelly (triple and single), Mike Obidzinski (two hits and one RBI) and Dennis Pirronello (two RBI).

The Shamrocks pounded Notre Dame pitcher Matt Ziolkowsli for nine hits, but were only able to score four times. In the nightcap, CC scored the game-winning run in the sixth inning on a double by Paul Pirronello. Dan Gusoff led off the sixth with a single, stole second and scored on Pirronello's hit.

Pirronello picked up the win in relief of starter Scott Kapla, tossing 1% innings and giving up one run on three hits. Gusoff pitched two scoreless innings to earn the save.

Notre Dame outhit the Shamrocks nine to seven, but committed three errors in the field. Dan Pirronello had two hits and two RBI for the winners.

The split left the Shamrocks 6-4 overall and 4-2 in the Catholic League Central Division, one game behind Notre Dame. On Monday, CC lost to visiting Ann Arbor Ploneer, 6-5.

Gusoff, one of five Shamrocks' pitchers, took the loss in relief. He gave up four earned runs in 35 of an inning. Wildness was the chief culprit for CC hurlers, with Gusoff

Fighting a slump

Madonna splits against Wayne State

The five-game losing skid came to a halt for Madonna College's baseball team Tuesday in the opening game of a double-header at Wayne State, but many of the problems that plagued the Fighting Crusaders during the losing streak cropped up again in a second game loss.

· Madonna rolled in the opener, getting a grand-slam home run, a double and a single and five runs batted in from outfielder Mike Wozniak in a 12-0 romp. Wozniak's bat was all'the support Rich Roy needed; Roy tossed a three-hitter, walking two and striking out three in improving his record to 2-F.

Roy had a no-hitter going until the fourth inning, and he needed it. Madonna started slowly, leading 2-0 on committed four errors. a second-inning two-run homer by Kyle Irwin. The Crusaders collected three runs in the fourth, four in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh.

triple made it 4-0 in the fourth, and Wozniak's grand slam iced it in the fifth. O'Connor and Bill Terski had two hits apiece. Marty Moraniec had two of the Tartars' three hits. Rob Ognian (from Livonia Stevenson) was the losing pitcher.

The second game was more distressing. WSU scored three unearned runs off Madonna starter Bob Elliott, which proved fatal in the 5-3 loss. The Crusaders committed three errors in the game and six in the

The winning rally came with two out in the sixth. Ron Cortez (Livonia_ Franklin) broke a 3-3 tie, singling in the go-ahead run, and Mike Ganfield singled in another, Chris Klock was the losing pitcher in relief for Madonna.

The Crusaders got a run in the first on a single by Rick Gierczyk, another in the second on a single by Irwin, and their third in the fifth on Terski's triple. Ganfield had three hits for WSU and Dave Mondoux had two. Darrin Clark (Garden City) was the winning pitcher, allowing seven hits and two walks in six innings.

THE WARM weather which finally arrived last weekend was no help to Madonna. After losing threestraight NAIA District 23 games in less-than-ideal conditions Thursday and Friday, the Crusaders traveled to Aquinas College for a doubleheader on a bright, sunny Saturday and lost two more.

Against Aquinas, Madonna was beaten 11-4 and 6-5, with inconsistent pitching, ragged defense and a slow-starting offense all playing a part. Mike Hocking was hardly at his best, pitching 5% innings in the opener and giving up all 11 runs. But four were unearned: the Crusaders

"If we make the plays, they don't score three unearned runs in the first," said Madonna coach Mike George.

The Crusaders never caught up. Aguinas added six runs in the fifth, KEVIN O'CONNOR'S two-run all after two were out. Chris Sisler knocked in two runs for Madonna, and Sean Maloney had two hits and an RBI. Matt Jones, Dino Paganelli and Paul Bastien each knocked in two runs for Aquinas, with Bastien getting two hits. Steve Witt was the winning pitcher.

In the second game, Sisler slugged a two-run homer in the first inning to put Madonna ahead, but the Saints scored five runs in their half of the inning and added another in the second to go up 6-2. Craig Karankiewicz was the Crusaders' pitcher who was victimized: he went the distance, giving up four-earned runs (Madonna made two errors) on six hits and a walk, fanning four.

THE CRUSADERS made it close with three runs in the fourth on singles by Pete Berrios, Wozniak and Kevin Learned (scoring a run), a ground out by Irwin (scoring a second run) and a grounder by Jeremy Krol that was booted (scoring run No. 3). Wozniak finished with two hits for Madonna-

Rod Rojas was the winning pitcher for the first-place Saints, who improved to 7-1 in the district.

Last Friday, the Crusaders managed to get in six innings before the: steady rain forced cancellation of the second game. Maybe that was fortunate, considering Madonna fell 10-3 and committed nine errors on rain-soaked Ford Field.

Five of those miscues were by catcher Steve Coffell, with three coming on throws to second base as he tried to nail runners' trying to steal. Madonna managed just five hits, with Berrios getting two, including a run-scoring double in the, sixth. Wozniak also delivered a run in the sixth with a single.

Klock went all six innings for the Crusaders and was the losing pitcher, but just one of the 10 runs he allowed was earned.

LAST THURSDAY at Spring Arbor, the wind was blowing out on the; Cougars' diminutive field, which: spelled trouble for Madonna. Spring. Arbor had 10 home runs in the doug ble-header sweep, five in each game. blasting Madonna 17-1 in a five-inning mercy in the first game and: outhitting the Crusaders 11-9 in the second.

Madonna managed just two hits in: the opener, both coming in the fifthinning off winning pitcher Dan Hilliard. John Bonham doubled and Learned singled: Gierczyk's ground out brought home the Crusaders' only run.

Krol started but lasted just 11/3 innings. He was charged with six runs, giving up two homers.

Madonna had a -- chance in the sixth, with Sisler's three-run homerthe key blow as the Crusaders pulled to within 11-9 with a five-run rally. Tom Hill also had a run-scoring double in the inning.

The Crusaders scored twice in the fifth, too, on a double by Coffell, a passed ball that put him at third and Bonham's ground out. Wozniak then hit a solo homer. Madonna's first two runs came in the first, both scoring on Spring-Arbor balks.

Berrios was the losing pitcher, surrendering nine hits and seven walks, striking out four.

O'Shea, Neumann lift Marauders

What was lost has been regained. The Redford Marauders soccer team saw to that, recapturing the Michigan Amateur Open Cup in a five-team tournament by blanking defending champion Bud Light 2-0 Sunday at Bicentennial Park.

Bud Light beat the Marauders in the first round of Cup play last year and went on to the state title. The Marauders had won the previous two state championships.

It was different this time, although Bud Light - which is comprised mainly of Michigan State players — dominated the action.

There was strategy behind the Marauders' play, though. As coach Nick O'Shea explained, "We sat back a lot of the time and let them have the ball. They have a lot of Michigan State guys who play five or six days a week, while our guys are all working. We couldn't run with them for 90 minutes."

bryant

THE LIMITED substitution rule, which allows only two substitutions a match per team, made O'Shea's plan a necessity. His brother, Brian O'Shea, made it work by making several spectacular saves.

"He'd be the man of the match," said Nick.

Both Marauder goals were netted by Bobby Neumann, and both came on headers. The first came at the 65minute mark, with the assist going to a third O'Shea, midfielder Dan. Five minutes later, Neumann scored again. Rob Ludwig assisted.

The victory puts the Marauders into the national competition, and their first test will be a difficult one. They host the defending national champions, the American Athletic Club Eagles, at 2 p.m. Sunday at Livonia's Jaycee Park (on Mayfield, south of Eight Mile and east of Farmington roads).

It won't be the first meeting between the two. The Marauders have played the Eagles twice before, losing both. "They have some older guys who played in the World Cup," said Nick O'Shea.

Garden City softball coach Barry Patterson has had plenty to smile about during the early going of the 1990 season.

His Cougars are 8-1 after dumping Northwest Suburban League foe Dearborn Edsel Ford on Tuesday; 14-3. The game was stopped after six innings (mercy rule).

But a benchmark win occurred Sunday in the Taylor Invitationa Tournament at Papp Park when the Cougars edged last year's Class A runhers-up, Taylor Center and All-State pitcher Wendy Jamula, 3-2, in the semifinals.

Rockets zoom to Elks Relays title

While most high school boys track teams took the week off for spring vacation, Westland John Glenn used the time to get ready for the 25th Dearborn Elks Relays.

And the week of practice paid off as the Rockets took home the first place trophy, winning its second title in three years.

"We decided that if we stay together, it would help us for the Elks," said Glenn coach Richard Gordon. "Our main people were there. They were committed to stay on vacation. We were working. Our motto has always been, 'Be the best you can be."

Glenn scored 57 points, one of the highest totals ever at the Elks. Redford Catholic Central finished second with 45 followed by defending champion Dearborn (32), Detroit Osborn (28), Hazel Park (22), -Temperance-Bedford-(18), Plymouth Salem and University of Detroit-Jesuit (16 each), Plymouth Canton (7), Livonia Franklin (6), Novi (4) and Wyandotte (1).

The Rockets won five events, but more importantly got off to a good start thanks to the efforts of their throwers.

WMU bypasses Salem's Thomann

By Dan O'Meara staff writer can't-lose situation.

For that reason, he said he was not disappointed for long after learning he didn't get the job as Western Michigan University women's basketball coach. .

Thomann was one of five finalists for the WMU position, but the university announced Tuesday it had hired Pat Charity Elliott, a 31-yearold assistant with the Broncos and former WMU player.

Thomann, who has been one of Michigan's most successful high school coaches for nearly two decades at Plymouth Salem, said he's happy to continue in his present role as Salem girls coach.

"I looked at it as if I had the best of both worlds," Thomann said. "It was a great opportunity for me. But, if I didn't get it, I still have a great job at Salem and plan to pursue that and work at that.'

THOMANN, THE only male coach among the finalists, said there was initial disappointment when he learned Monday of WMU's decision, but he quickly put that behind him.

"I was disappointed I didn't get the job, but I'm also comfortable with the job I have, the team I'm coaching and the players we have in the program.

"Yesterday, I was disappointed. Today, I'm elated."

Elliott replaces Jim Hess, who resigned in March after compiling a 104-113 record in eight years as Michelle Fortier, a former Plymouth Canton standout who played for Thomann's AAU team last summer. started at point guard for the Broncos as a freshman last season.

"I was familiar with the program, and I thought I had something I could offer," Thomann said. "A lot of the kids who play there either played for me in the AAU program or played against my teams in high school.

"I FELT honored they even brought me in for an interview. It was good for me, because it forced Fred Thomann figured it was a me to prepare and put together a resume. I had to be ready for questions like 'Why are you doing this?' and 'What do you like about this?' I had to think through a lot of things I haven't had to do in a long time.'

Thomann has been considered for other positions in the past. He was interviewed for the Eastern Michigan University men's basketball position in 1979 - a job eventually given to Jim Boyce. Thomann accepted the athletic director's position at Ypsilanti High School two years ago but reconsidered a few days later.

"I've been happy at Salem," he said. "If a job comes along that piques my interest and presents a challenge to me, I would apply for it, but those jobs don't come along very

"I have an interest to coach at the college level, but I've never been one to go out and politick for a job at the expense of not getting my next team ready.'

In applying at WMU, Thomann had to weigh the appeal of that job against the time he has invested in his career as an educator. He has taught and coached for 25 years and can retire in five years with retirement benefits.

"I would have been giving that up, but I also would be in a position to be doing what I want to be doing five years from now," he said, adding a teacher in that situation has the option to buy those remaining years.

"MY LONG-range goal is to get those five years in and coach basketball somewhere. This job opened up unexpectedly. It took me by surprise, but it's also a job that has some untapped potential."

Thomann added the WMU experience was good, because it helped him to prepare for that time when he does look to coach full time. But he relterated he is content with his present situation at Salem.

"I feel good about what I have," he said. "We're going to have a helluva" team next year."

MINCH WINS REGION

Wendy Minch, a junior at Westland John Glenn High, captured the Level 10, topping 45 competitors to win senior age group all-around title with a score of 73.05 at the U.S. Gymnastics Federation Region V meet held last weekend at Lansing Eastern High School.__

A member of the Farmington Gymnastics Club, Minch advances to the USGF Nationals, May 11-13, in Indianapolis, Ind. She is coached by Dave Kuczara.

• LOVING TO NATIONALS

Darryl Loving continued the Livonia Boxing Club's domination of the super-heavyweight class at the Detroit-area Golden Gloves tournament when he won a close three-round decision Saturday against Cleveland Nelson of Brewster Recreation Center in the finals at Cobo Hall.

The 25-year-old Loving, a foundry worker from Detroit, advances for the second straight year to the National Golden Gloves tournament, which will be held May 7-13 in Miami, Fla.

"It was a very tough fight, a real close fight," said LBC director Paul Soucy. "Darry pulled it out in the third round. He hit Goins with a beautiful left-hand and dropped him for a standing eight-count."

Loving, a 218-pounder, joins Rick Londberg, Craig Payne and Kermit Fitzpatrick as superheavyweight champs in the Golden Gloves from the LBC.

In another final, Livonian Rob Diffanbaugh, a freshman at Schoolcraft College, was disqualified for holding during third-round action in his 146-pound Open Class bout against Cleveland Nelson of Butzel Recreation Center.

Two LBC fighters will be in action beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Novice Gloves Tournament at the Nortwest Activities Center.

Inkster's Craig Wilson will challenge for the 156-pound crown, while Soo-Young Chang, a student from the University of Michigan, will compete at 172.

• PREP GIRLS GOLF

• Jane Bielenda took medalist honors Monday as Livonia Ladywood downed Dearborn High in a non-league girls golf match at Warren Valley, 208-308.

Kurtis, Park rule at West Bloomfield

By Tom Henderson

staff writer

Doug Kurtis of Northville and Laurel Park - not the shopping center in Livonia but the runner from Ann Arbor — each thought they'd use the 14th annual West Bloomfield half-marathon as an easy training run. Each ended up racing to victory and walking out of the awards ceremony with the first prize of a color television.

Park didn't even know till race day she'd be running in West Bloomfield. A friend called and asked her if she wanted to race, and since she was planning a long run, anyway; she figured why not do it with plenty of company. It wasn't until the twomile mark that Park, 27, found out, much to her surprise, that she was in the lead in the first half-marathon of her career.

Her time of 1:25:21 was good for a four-minute win over Maureen Carter, 35, of Brighton.

Kurtis, who last year set the world record for most sub-2:20 marathons in a single year, 12, was hardly an upset winner. After all, he had set the course record here a year ago, in 1:07:32. But with another marathon just a week away, Kurtis, a former standout at Livonia Stevenson, planned on a cruise-control run at 1:10 pace.

Instead, he ended up in a heartstopping, crowd-thrilling, back-andforth stretch duel with Don Johns, 25, a one-time NCAA runner-up 10,000 meters on the track.

KURTIS SURGED to a 10- to 15yard lead just after the 12-mile mark and seemed to have it wrapped up. But here came Johns, churning furiously, and when he passed Kurtis at 121/2, he had the look of a runaway

Kurtis, who won the Barcelona, Bangkok and Detroit Free Press marathons last year, knows how to find his way to the winner's circle. He used his superior strength to muscle up the last quarter-mile hill to the finish line, blowing past Johns and winning by 10 seconds as the -erowd went-wild.--

Trailing him were 744 other entrants. Another 425 entered the inaugural Earth Day 3.5-mile walk.

"I didn't want to run that hard. I saw Don at the starting line and I said, oh-oh," said Kurtis, who in the spirit of Earth Day wore a longsleeve T-shirt to the awards ceremony which declared on the back: "The answer is very clear: Stop polluting the atmosphere."

Kurtis and Johns ran together till about 11 miles, acting more as if it were a training run than one of the top races in Michigan. But from 11 on, it was serious,

When Johns went by him half a mile from the end, Kurtis nearly packed it in. "I was almost ready to give up. I didn't want to kill myself. Then I thought, if I'm going to run faster than 1:10, I might as well make the effort."

EFFORT — THAT was the key word on this hot, sunny day, on this grueling course with its uphills, downhills and endless turns.

Greg Gillson of Windsor had done the Boston Marathon the Monday before and thought West Bloomfield might be a nice little race. Welcome to reality, Greg. "That course is tough. I've never run it before because it's usually the same week as Boston. I'd heard what a nice course it was and wanted to see it. Whew! I don't think I'll pull that trick again (running West Bloomfield six days after a marathon).

"There were times I wanted to stop and walk. That's what you get for being brain dead," said Gillson, who finished 13th overall in 1:17:37.

"What neighborhoods, eh?" he said. "I couldn't believe how big those houses were. I said to someone: 'I don't think we're running through the welfare district.'

Bob Sklar, editor of the Farmington Observer, was making his first appearance in West Bloomfield, too. "With all those ups and downs, it's hard to get into a pace," he said. He'd hoped to break two hours. He gladly settled for 2:03.

Some runners complained of the heat, though serious problems were negligible. Most of the complaints fond complaints — were about those

The heart of Oakland Community College's men's basketball team last season will be pumping life into a lot of different programs next season.

Three key members of OCC's team have received scholarships to continue their education, and three others are considering options.

Toine Murphy was the top Raider Chris Peponis said, "All the coaches—ate assistant coaching position. liked his versatility."

They also liked his 6-foot-6 height, as well as his deft ball-handling and shooting (19 points a game last season). The team that won out was Austin Peay, an NCAA Division I school in Clarksville, Tenn.

Other finalists on Murphy's list were Arkansas-Little Rock, Lamar, Butler, Eastern Michigan and University of Detroit. Murphy also averaged 6.8 rebounds and 4.5 assists. He'll have junior eligibility.

Austin Peay, a member of the Ohio Valley Conference, was 13-16 last season. There will be another addition to the Tennessee-based prospect. As OCC assistant coach team. Peponis has accepted a gradu

News.

Bad news.

The good news? More and more people, businesses and industries are finding ways to recycle.

It takes more than 6,000 tons of newsprint each year to print The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers plus a number of other publications, so we're doing a number of things to help the solid waste situation:

1. For years we've sold our waste newsprint to a recycling firm.

2. 25% of the newsprint we print on is recycled and we're increasing this amount by another 25% this year.

3. Our employees have begun to routinely put office paper (memos, computer paper, waste copy paper) in recycle bins instead of waste baskets.

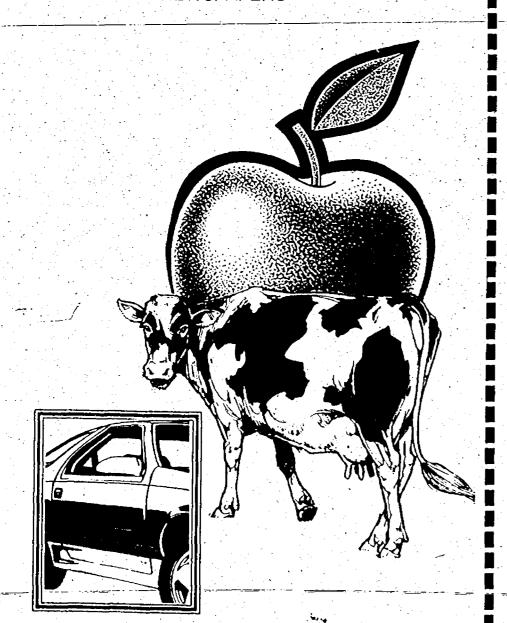

Of course, we still deliver thousands of newspapers twice each week. It's our business to bring you news of your local government, schools, sports scene and community events; the news you need to know.

And when you're finished reading your hometown newspaper there are places that will recycle them.

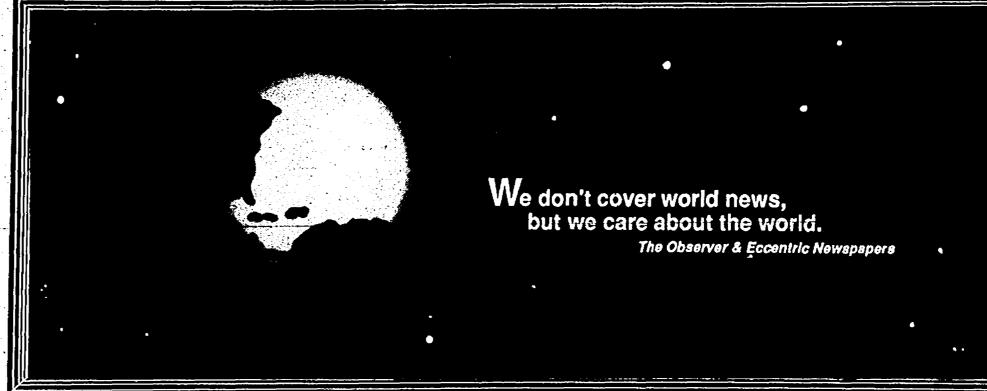

We've listed a few for you on this page because we think recycling is Good News.

common? ____ Recycled newspapers play a role in all three. Apple growers in the northwest use recycled newsprint for packing, farmers use it for bedding instead of straw and auto manufacturers use it in car doors. There are many uses for your used newspapers, why not start saving them today?

Keep wildlife at home in art

OCCASIONALLY, some of the squirrels that visit our bird feeder will walk along the window sill by our kitchen window. They look in and we watch them separated by only a couple inches, Observing animals this close is very enjoyable.

Being close to wild animals may motivate people to keep wild animals as pets, or to help "abandoned" animals they find. Concern for animals is fine, but good intentions are it often not the best for the animal.

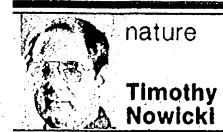

Many animals are not "abandoned," adults are often hidden nearby waiting for you to leave. Young jbirds with adult-like feathers leave the nest before they are fully capable of flying. Their parents will find them and feed them until they canacquire food on their own.

Proper food is often hard for people to supply wild animals. Finding enough insect protein to feed a nestging bird every 15-30 minutes from sunup to sunset can be very demand-

In addition to several practical aspects of caring for a wild animal. there are federal and state laws that prohibit people from possessing wild animals without special permits.

The best thing to do with "aban-"doned" animals is to leave them alone. A significant amount of mor-*tality exists naturally in any animal population. Animals discovered may be part of that segment of the population which will not survive. Adults will do the best they can to help the rest of the segment to survive.

If you want to bring wildlife into your home, the best way is through Collecting and displaying wildlife art has many advantages, it does not jeopardize the animal, it decorates your home, you don't have to feed it every 15 minutes and it can help organizations preserve habitats so the animals can take care of themselves.

The National Wildlife Federation periodically offers special prints by well-known artists for sale. Proceeds from their sale go toward conservation efforts around the world. Recently, a beautiful bald eagle by Robert Batreman was offered and now a family of red fox by Carl Brenders is being offered.

Visit local wildlife art galleries such as Wild Wings and S & R for your choice of print or original.

Orchestra's percussionist innovates with sounds

By Carolyn Barnett-Goldstein special writer

Thursday, April 26, 1990 O&E

From primitive beats to musical effects characterizing outer space, the symphony orchestra percussionist produces the sounds and rhythms the composer writes. In duce a particular sound.

mechanic, an inventor, an engineer. You have to be able to put things together — to design things, come up with new ways to hold things, new sounds. It's very inter- eral battery" that includes the esting," said Robert Pangborn, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's principal percussionist, as he de- under Sal Rabbio. Timpani, or ketscribes his life and work.

He is sitting in the library of the he and his wife, Brenda, designed to accommodate their pursuits, interests and collections. His collections of figurines of percussionists from pre-Columbian periods to modern day metal, nuts and bolts sculptures, along with his collection of instruments from various cultures from around the world, show an appreciation of craftsmanship and the use of materials. He, himself, uses the same metals, woods and stones to create instruments.

HIS HOBBIES ARE an extension of the skills he needs as a percussionist. The model room, dominated by the workbenches he made, is set up with their hobby of train modeling, and his of dollhouse remodeling and making miniatures.

He said that as head of the fourman percussion section his main responsibilities are "to direct and to organize it, to understand everyone's abilities, fortes, because, you know, we can't all necessarily play all of the percussion instruments equally well — and I must assign parts." As an example he cited the composition, "Aftertones of Infinity," by Schwanter which the orchestra recently performed. "The fact, many times the percussionist percussion parts are written by the must create the instrument to prothey are so extensive - it's very "You have to be a carpenter, a difficult. So my job is to edit (the parts) so our full section can be involved." There also are fewer chances for mistakes, he said.

While he is in charge of the "gensnare drums, cymbals and bass drum, he is also assistant timpanist tle drums, are played more often than the other percussion instruexpansive, Bloomfield Hills home ments in the section because of the repertoire.

"Many conductors regard their timpanists as extremely important in the orchestra for keeping the time. If the left hand is the concertmaster, the right hand of the conductor keeps the beat and is the timpanist."

He paused, then continued, "There was never any question in my mind I wanted to be a musician. The persons, my heroes, that I looked up to were orchestra musicians. They were my uncle, who played trumpet in the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, and Cloyd Duff, my teacher in high school, and that orchestra's principal percussionist."

Born 54 years ago in Painesville, Ohio, 30 miles from Cleveland, he credits his mother, who played piano in theaters in the days of silent films, with his interest in music. His father gave him the woodworking skills.

Robert Pangborn, principal percussionist with Detroit Symphony Orchestra, draws on a amazing variety of skills to come up with many unusual sounds called for in symphonic scores.

HE BEGAN STUDYING DRUMS at 9, played professionally in high school and joined the DSO in 1963. Through the years he has continued to learn new instruments and techniques.

"Today," he said, "many composers are trying to use percussion instruments in a way to affect electronic sounds." In the Schwantner composition for instance, he said, "We resin the hair on the string bass bows very heavily, and, then, use the bows on the edge of the vibraphone bar. It vibrates the bar, and it gives almost an electronic sound." The "ringing pitches" of the four crystal glasses "fit right in with outer space.

"Where they are not utilizing instruments that are already in existence, many times they're creating instruments, and a lot of percussion instruments are designed and created out of a composer's desire for a certain sound."

This is where his "bag of tricks" comes in. For both studio and symphonic percussionists this represents their personal collection of instruments, their searches and successes over the years to play sounds and effects. It holds their

Pangborn remembered, "When I recorded for Motown years ago, and that was a very basic kind of recording, I already had quite a collection of different sounds. Some of the producers were always interested in some kind of new sounds to get something going. So I would bring in weird things. I remember my first set of African log drums I bought in New York. I brought them in. They used them. They were fascinated . . . "

For the symphony his "bag" includes chromatic scales of funed stones, and "things call boobams, long tubular drums, with a very distinctive sound. Such instruments derive out of Hollywood studio orchestras. Somebody came up with a sound. They were playing around. A composer heard it, liked it, and wrote for it, that's how a lot of percussion stuff we use today in the 20th century music had its beginnings."

He said that, while other musicans may dispute their validity, "they've found their way into the family of percussion instruments, into our large bag of tricks."

IN THE BOXES on his studio shelves are Balinese gongs, cup bells, Oriental bell trees, clay drums and metal chains.

One of John Cage's pieces calls for wood blocks — not Chinese. "With the help of my father, who had special equipment, I ended up making blocks (in graduated sizes). Of course, they all had a certain pitch. But where was I to get blocks that weren't "Chinese?" What kind of blocks wouldn't be "Chinese?" So we designed and constructed blocks that didn't sound "Chinese." So they weren't Chinese. We did it. It worked. To me it's one of the fun things about percussion, creating sounds, creating the instruments to play some of these sounds. You call upon your own abilities, to put some thing together. Sometimes they (the instruments) are a little bit crude looking, but they work. I always enjoyed that part of being an orchestra percussionist — the challenge."

THE PERFORMANCE itself has built-in pitfalls. He said, "One of the most difficult things about being a percussionist is to know where you are at all times, because of the fact that you're not playing that much. Yet, when you make your entrance, it's dramatic — and important. It's an accent-point-inthe music — and it had better be in the right place. So you've got to count.

The cannon effect for next year's performance of Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture" is already a concern. Will it be the bass drum, a shotgun fired into a barrel backstage or Pangborn's "super huge bass drum — the kind they have to put on a cart with wheels to take onto a football field?"

African-American quilts may steal the show

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Three outstanding local quilt collections will be on exhibit at "Quilts! Quilts! Quilts!" 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, May 3 and 4, at Evergreen Center, 13 Mile at Evergreen, Southfield.

The show, hosted by BASCC, Birmingham Area Senior Coordinating Council and the Center, is coordinated by Merry Silber of Birmingham, curator of quilt shows throughout the country.

In addition to the quilt display there will be a mini-mall, ongoing quilting demonstrations, quilting supplies and fabrics, films, books, crafts and appraisals.

The award-winning film, "Hearts and Hands, will be shown several times daily at no charge "Bring ly 1900s, she said.

Your Own Quilt," a lecture/appraisal, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. both days.

A new quilt, "Indian Maiden," made especially for this show by members of the BASCC Quilt Club, will be given as a prize at 5 p.m. Fri-

MOST OF the quilts to be displayed have not been shown before, Silber said. They are from the Jean Conway, Kempf Hogan and Albert and Merry Silber collections.

Silber discovered Conway's rich quilt treasure only recently when she was called in to appraise and date them, she said.

The 10 quilts were made by Conway's two grandmothers from original designs of Marle D. Webster, foremost quiltmaker and designer who reigned supreme during the ear-

"Every art form has its Rembrandt - Marie Webster was the Rembrandt of quilt making. She created original designs at Marshall Field (Chicago) and wrote the first full-length book on quilting, 'Quilts: Their Story and How to Make Them.'"

Several of Conway's quilts are illustrated in the book. Some of Webster's sample patches and hand-written instructions will be on display at the show.

ANOTHER CONWAY quilt in the show is one made by her greatgrandmother Sarah Morris McGregor of Springfield, Mo., when she was 18. The needlework is extraordi-Silber had Conway hold her quilt up before a window and pointed out the cotton seeds left in the filling.

"That's one way we date quilts if they have seeds, they made before the cotton gln." HOGAN, WHOM Silber described as "collecting everything," is now acquiring African-American quilts, which Silber called "a phenomenon, the hottest new collectable."—— —

The African-American quils are reminiscent of slave-made quaits,

The quilts are the "complete antithesis of the quilts in the Conway collection or Silber's quilts, which were recently in a Michigan State University traveling exhibition,"

HOGAN'S QUILTS are to Conway's and Silber's as jazz is to Haydn, he said.

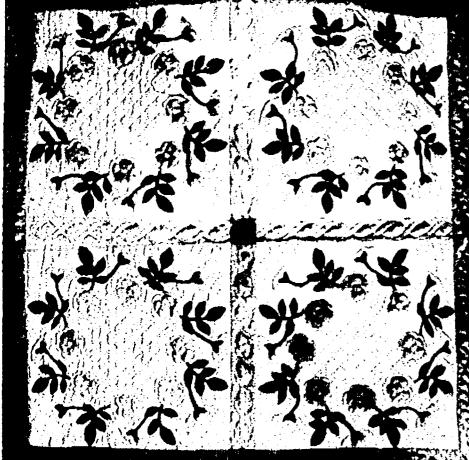

The American Folk Art Museum of New York City recently had a slave quilt exhibition, but quilts such as those are extremely hard to find - for one thing, they were made to be used until they wore out, Silber

They are not as finely made as others, doubtless because the makers had little time to work on them, but they are highly expressive and exciting in content and originality.

"Until 1971, these quilts were not recognized," Hogan said.

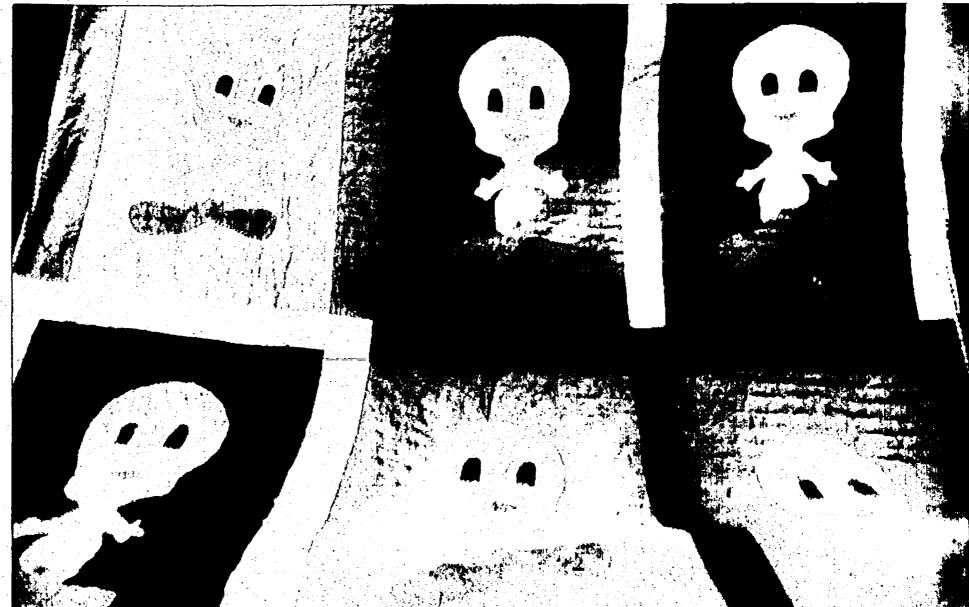

Silber will have posters available at the show of the quilting painting by Romare Bearden that was used for a mosaic at Detroit Institute of Admission to "Quilts! Quilts! Quilts! Quilts!" is $3. Refreshments will be available. Parking is free

"Magpie Rose" is the name of this quilt in Jean Conway's collection. It is in perfect condition and was made by her grandmother, Mary Elizabeth Mann, in 1920 from Marie Webster's pattern.

This "Tweety Bird" pattern in brilliant primary colors, from Kempf Hogan's collection, is reminiscent of the slave-made quilts. Many like this were made in the late 1980s by Mattie Jackson of Mississippi.

Many Chinese think that all cameras are the Polaroid variety. Well, through sign language, body gestures, and drawing of pictures, I let it be known I wasn't shooting instant film while promising to send a photograph to those who gave me an address.

Chinese people loved his camera

At all times, I felt perfectly safe and comfortable walking the streets of China in search of photographic material. And at times I had the luxury of a taxi driver who could be hired for an all-day photo excursion for just a few dollars.

Here are some tips that worked well in China: • When photographing people to show character, use a telephoto lens to get in close. A large aperture will blur out a distracting background and allow for a faster shutter speed. • Sneak some candid shots, but if your subject knows you're there, ask permission to take a photograph. Even with a language barrier, more often than not you'll get the okay to take the Fracalanza closes symphony season

The Livonia Symphony Orchestra will end its 1989-90 concert season with the appearance of guest soloist Pierre Fracalanza at the Yamaha midi-grand piano.

Billed as "Music Out of This World," the program will begin at 8 p.m. Friday, May 4, in Churchill High School, Joy and Newburgh roads. Livonia. The orchestra will be under the baton of its director Francesco DiBlasi.

Fracalanza will introduce his audience to sounds of the 21st centry via the midi-grand with Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" from the "Ninth Symphony," Vangelis' "Chariots of Fire," "Phantom of the Opera" by Webber and selections from "Star Trek" by Goldsmith.

The soloist has been associated with the Hammell Music Co. of Livonia and Troy for many years and is a well-known entertainer in the Detroit area having appeared at the Vineyards, Fox & Hounds, Caucus Club, Hyatt Regency, Dearbon Inn and most recently at the Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn.

Romantic finale

'Dance' titles headline Plymouth concert

the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra at 8 p.m. Friday features an all-orlate Romantic era.

Each of the three works to be performed has a dance title and was either composed as music to be danced to or inspired by dance music.

Rachmaninoff had hoped that his "Symphonic Dances" might be used as a ballet, but it is actually a symmelodies and rhythms.

The Dvotak "Slavonic Dances"

The final concert of the season for have great audience appeal with their folk dance character.

The tunes of the "Polvetsian chestral program of music of the Dances" by Borodin conclude the program with several very familiar tunes that are recognized from their adaptation in the musical comedy, "Kismet."

TO FOSTER'a comprehensive and cooperative fine arts experience, the PSO has arranged with the Plymouth-Canton schools' art departphony characterized by wonderful ments for a display of selected high school student works.

More than 200 pieces in a variety of media will be featured. Coordinating the show are Joan Claeys and art instructors Graham Martin, Kris Darby, David Falzetti and Richard

The concert will be in the Plymouth-Salem High School auditorium. 46181 Joy Road, Canton. The art exhibit may be viewed an hour before and after the concert.

Admission is $8 for adults; $7 for seniors; $2 for students K-12. Tickets may be bought at the box office 30

'Te Deum' concert features old, new

"Something Old, Something New" will be the theme of the spring choral concert at 2 p.m. Sunday May 6 in the sanctuary of the Meadowbrook Congregational Church, featuring the church's chancel choir, soloists and members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The concert, which is open to the public with no admission charge, will feature three settings of the "Te Deum" ("We Praise Thee, O God") by three different composers. All will be under the direction of Ray P. Ferguson, Wayne State University professor of music and minister of music at Meadowbrook Congregational Church.

The first setting is the "Utrecht Te Deum" written by Handel to celebrate the Peace of Utrecht in 1713. The 20th works illustrate the "Something New." English composer Ralph Vaughan Williams composed his "Festival Te Deum" for the coronation of King. George VI, and the work was first per-formed at Westmininster Abbey on May 12, 1937. The "Te Deum" of John Rutter was com-posed in 1989 for the centenary of the Guild of Church Musicians and was first performed in a service Thanksgiving at Canterbury Cathedral.

Meadowbrook Congregational is at 21355 Meadowbrook Road,

A ceremonial kimono shown here will be among the handpainted fashions by Livonia artist Cynthia Wayne Gaffield on exhibit this weekend at the annual invitational art fair at Somerset Mall, Troy. The show is open to the public, at no charge, during regular mall hours.

One of my students was asked to sit at a party and draw caricatures. "Sure" was his reply, but after a few practice caricatures, he found that this particular art form is much more difficult than it seems.

A caricature is truly an art form. Art is selection and selection is caricaturing. It is studying the model or photo and extracting only those lines and shapes that are characteristic of the person. How you place those lines and shapes on paper sets the mood of the caricature. If your lines, shapes' and colors are vold and greatly exaggerated, then your caricature will be wacky or silly. If your lines, shapes and colors are more carefully drawn and more subtly placed, then your caricature is more réalistic yet still humorous.

BOTH STYLES are appreciated and will be accepted. A caricature is a visually brief description and that is a good tip for finding what to draw and what to leave out. Mentally describe the features to yourself before you begin to draw. Remember, it is your mind that tells the hand what to and cartoon. Probably the greatest compliment to a caricaturist is when someone says something like "that's his face exactly. In just a few lines you got his features perfect." The hardest people to caricature are pretty girls and women because everything is pretty and there is little to be humorous with.

Men are a caricaturist's playground because their features are usually bolder than those of women. Always be sure to ask what are the hobbies of the subject and also the occasion for the request. That way you can add in some golf clubs, tennis racket, or a birthday cake, tomake it even more personal. Have

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

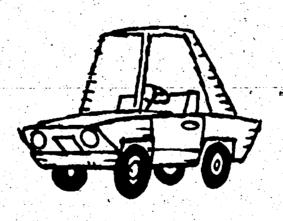

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the Item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

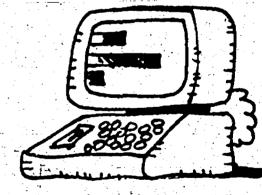

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a salel

Livonia, Mi 48151-0428

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

well as exposed, glass and steel as the skin and with peirs that terminate in small pyramidal caps bones of modern architecture. This took hold on the American architectural scene in New York City with Lever House (1952), which became the prototype for the corporate box, and subsequent anonymity was unveiled with a bland facade.

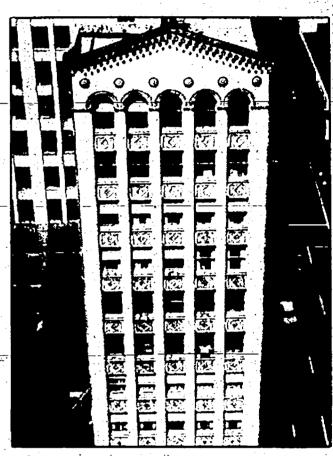

ARCHITECT ROBERT Stern has referred to these boxes as containers in which the older, more identifiable buildings were packaged. Stern is assoclated with a reactionary group of architects under the heading of post-modernism. Their ultimate aim is to attach visible reminders of an older style or tradition with which the viewer can identify.

The ancient regime is back on the scene, and one of its promoters is Phillip Johnson, who curiously was once a disciple of Mies van der Rohe. Now labeled a "turncoat," Johnson claims "it is . . . much more old-fashioned to make a glass box than to copy other great periods." And with that statement he embellished the New York skyline with a broken pedimental cap atop the new AT&T Corporate Headquarters in 1978. The building elicited quite a response, with one person referring to the building as a giant Chippendale skyscraper and Detroit architect William Kessler saying that Johnson was becoming senile. Nonetheless it is a new corporate identity blatantly visual and one for which everyone is now scrambling — a new-old countenance of character.

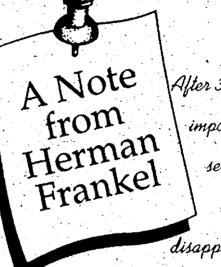

The design of AT&T was conceived the same year when Johnson formed a partnership with John Burgee. Since then they have jointly helped change the complexion of U.S. skylines, most notably with Houston developer Gerald Hines on Hines' home turf: Penzoil Place, 36-story trapezoldal towers; 64story Transco Tower, reminiscent of the early 1900s' commercial buildings; and the 56-story NCNB Center, described as neo-Gothic.

THE SKY and Houston are no longer the limit for Gerald Hines, He has now enlisted John Burgee Architects (Johnson is semi-retired) to design the 50-The skyscraper has always been considered a story One Detroit Center on Woodward in down Cylindrical, pavilion-like corners mediate the four sides of the building. Thankfully they relate to the central tower of the Renaissance Center two blocks away; creating some contextual venue that brings the Renaissance Center visually closer to the central business district.

As exciting an addition One Detroit Center is to Detroit architecture, it does not represent anything new in terms of local architectural vernacular. Right across Congress. Street to the north is the original Vinton Building done by Albert Kahn in 1917. Only a 12-story building, it Kahn's industrial buildings that first 20th century American commercial architecture later espoused by Mies van der Rohe.

The piers have a verticality accentuated by recessed spandrels and are terminated with a gabled roofline.

Thus One Detroit Center is an amplifleation of an adjoining building making it a kindred spirit, or sort of a big brother or sister. Perhaps the Spirit of Detroit statue to the south was instrumental in exercising some zeitgeist on John Burgee.

AN ENGLISH writer, John Gloab, exclaimed upon viewing the World Fair of 1933 in Chicago: ". . . that (something) is always slightly bewildering to an English mind attuned to the belief that in America new ideas. have a better chance of life that anywhere else." He also relabeled the fair, which was called "a Centry of Progress" "a Century of Safety First put over as Progress."

HOST applications placed on hold

By Robin Gaines special writer

The state is no longer accepting applications for participation in its Home Ownership Savings Trust program because of the volume of applications.

Since January, the state treasurer's office has received more than 2,000 applications, according to Lynn Rycus, public affairs assistant.

"We'don't know how many participants in the program we actually have until we start receiving payments, but the response has been fantastic," she said.

Proposed by Gov. James Blanchard last year, HOST will allow a savings program to provide a downpayment toward the purchase of a house for a first-time buyer. Buyers will be able to pre-select the value of the home they wish to purchase and the amount of down payment they want to save for in a specified num-Ber of years. Once the figures are determined, participants will make monthly payments to the state. The state, in turn, will invest the money in state-backed bonds.

The bonds will have a variable interest rate guaranteed to equal or exceed the annual increase in Michigan housing prices, and the interest income is tax-exempt. Participants can withdraw their savings at any time without penalty.

The program is similar to the Michigan Education Trust, which allows residents to save for their children's college education.

ONE OF THE chief criticisms leveled against HOST when it was introduced was that Michigan taxpayers would have to bail out the program if the treasury department's predictions about housing inflation and rates of return on bonds are incorrect.

The state is anticipating a 5-percent yearly increase in the cost of ahome and an annual rate of return on the bonds of 7.5 percent. Some real estate experts believe housing will increase more than 5 percent per year, thus using up the $40 million in bonds the state has set aside for the HOST program sooner than expected.

In 1988, Michigan voters approved the issuance of $800 million in bonds for environmental cleanup and recreational purposes. A portion of these bonds, about 5 percent, are reserved for participants in the HOST program.

The treasurer's office is compiling statistics from the 2,000-plus applications it has received to get a better idea of whom the program should be. targeted toward in the future, Rycus said. So far, it does not seem that applicants are concentrated in any one section of the state.

After current applications are processed and payment schedules are begun, the treasurer's office will. decide when the next application process will begin. For more information, call the HOST hotline at 1-800-642-4178.

Making kitchen living easier

There was a time not all that long ago that American kitchens were designed with one type of consumer in mind: the fulltime homemaker with 2.6 children and a breadwinner hus-

Today, manufacturers are recognizing that the typical consumer has gone the way of newsreels and tail fins. One kitchen design simply can't meet everybody's needs. More and more, today's appliances are being designed for and marketed to groups such as disabled or elderly people, whose needs are much different from other consumers.

Nearly 40 million Americans have a permanent disability, the number of Americans 45-64 is expected to increase by one third in the next decade, and more children than ever are helping with housework.

· Manufacturers are becoming more sensitive to the needs of people with physical limitations, older people and the very young. Today's products reflect these needs, especially in the kitchen.

Considering the needs of the least-able-user is the key to modifying or designing houses, work areas and products that everybody can use. This might range from simple and inexpensive measures such as using a potato masher to turn knobs on a range; removing cabinet doors for easier access or something more extensive, such as building a kitchen around an adaptable "universal design."

A universal design includes wide, barrier-free aisles and smooth floors to allow for wheelchairs and walkers to move easily about. Work surfaces of varying heights accommodate those who'are short or tall or who work seated. Good contrast between cabinets and appliances and in graphics on control panels are helpful to those with limited vision.

In the cooking area, built-in products are the most adaptable to special needs. Installing a drop-in range or cooktop at 32 inches - compared to the standard 36-inch counter height

- can be a boon for wheelchair cooks - or at a higher level for a person who can't stoop or bend.

Microwave ovens are especially useful for people with limited physical abilities. They can be installed at any height. The shallow cooking cavity is easy to reach, there's no flame or heating element, and the interior stays cool.

Side-by-side refrigerator/freezers have narrow doors for easier handling. Some models have deep door shelves and bins, baskets and shelves that pull out for easier access and

There are many simple in-home modifications that can help physically limited people. For example, elevate appliances with front-opening doors (dishwashers, clothes dryers) to the height needed for a wheelchair user or someone who can't stoop or bend. Lower a built-in oven for wheelchair use or raise it for someone with back problems.

Whirlpool Corp. offers use and care guides and microwave oven cookbooks in Braille, large type or on audio cassettes. Control panel overlays for many kitchen and laundry products are done in Braille that are free to visually impaired owners of Whirlpool appliances. For assistance, call the Whirlpool Appliance Connection line at 1-800-253-1301. For TDD users, the number is 1-800-334-6889.

More information is available in brochures from Whirlpool. Universal Designu looks into the features of the adaptable kitchen; "Designs for Independent Living" offers advice for modifying, remodeling or designing kitchens and laundry areas; and "Tools for Independent Living" emphasizes the use of everyday tools and products as aids to appliance operation.

Whirlpool says its brochures are based on research and suggestions from disabled people, rehabilitation specialists and appliance experts. For a copy of the set, send a postcard to Whirlpool Corp., Dept. NCW, P.O. Box 5551, Kalamazoo

Housing demand to be come sharply segmented

As the baby boomer starts worrying about retirement and the baby bust matures, housing demand will become more sharply segmented than in the past, according to a report from the National Association

The study, "Demographics in the U.S. — The Segmenting of Housing Demand," anticipates strong housing demand and stable house values over the next decade in spite of the smaller baby bust population producing fewer prospective buyers than the baby boomers.

The demand will be fueled by widely varied housing needs - for affluent trade-up baby boom couples, baby boomers thinking about retirement and growing numbers of non-traditional households and immigrants, the report says.

"THE HEALTHY markets will offer diversity. They will have a variety of niche-oriented housing," said NAR President Ira Gribin.

The study explores several cur-changes that may have the greatest effect upon the housing industry. over the next decade. Foremost among these are the changing age structure and housing composition of the U.S. population.

The total number of households in the nation rose by an average of 1.3 million annually during the 1980s, dropping from 1.7 million annually during the 1970s. The population ages 25-34, the group at which household formation is typical, is getting smaller, while the age group 65 and older is getting larger.

The number of married-couple households is declining. The decline is being countered by an increase in single-person households, femaleheaded households, non-family households and a larger number of 18- to 24-year-old men living with their parents. Additionally, th average household size dropped from 3.13 people in 1960 to 2.66 people in rent and projected demographic more frequently, which is causing and will continue to cause a higher. housing turnover rate. Legal immigration, notably by Asians and Hispanics, is increasing. The average rate of 570,000 was 30 percent higher in the 1980s than in the 1970s.

Increased demand by foreigners seeking to rent or buy in the Unites States will contribute to housing demands in the 1990s, the study says.

The changing needs of changing households will help offset a drop in housing demand due to the smaller baby bust population, said NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo. Predictions that house values will sour due to a decline in demand are too simplistic, and such projections fail to consider the continuing effect the baby boom generation will have, Tuccillo said.

INCREASED SAVINGS by baby boomers, combined with a smaller federal deficit and a larger Social Security trust fund, likely will push interest rates lower over the next seven years, he said.

Baby boomers previously unable to buy houses will be buying. "As the leading edge of the baby boom moves through its peak earning years, demand will pick up for second homes and retirement homes," Tuccillo said.

He predicted that demand will shift significantly toward "smaller units in sunny climates."

IN SPITE OF house purchases by baby boomers and baby busters, houses will continue to be too expensive for poorer consumers. According to the study, it appears that a widening gap in household demographics is accompanied by a growing disparity in house-buying power.

For example, the study says, typical real incomes for familles in the highest-earning fifth of the population rose by more than 29 percent between 1970 and 1986. But real income for families in the lowest-earning fifth rose by just 9 percent.
