surgery for removal of cataracts.

Julie Croteau of Westland has mounted a campaign to raise donations for the dog's surgery, which will cost about $1,200.

The nearly blind dog is owned by Croteau's friend, Beth Barnhart, also of Westland. Cataracts, which often strike older people and animals, are clouded tissue in the eyes Wizard's condition hasn't dimmed his enthusiasm around the Barnhart bousehold, Barnhart sald. The disabled dog still tries to act as playmate and guardian for her four children, she said.

Croteau said she was touched by Wixard's plight and began calling veterinary colleges throughout North America to find for free or reduced cost in a classroom setting.

But, she said, schools told her such training procedures are no longer done for common calaracts.

"If he could just have one eye done (for $600), at least he could see," Croteau said.

He recently completed a week-long stay for bleeding ulcers. That followed last winter's bout of severe arthritis, which left Reaves unable to walk and searching for a replacement to appear at the city's annual tree-lighting ceremony.

Now, one of two "sleighs" in Santa's colorful fleet has been retired. To the junkyard.

Reaves' 1976 Ford Torino adorned with more than 300 homemade bumper stickers bearing names of local celebrities and just plain folks — gave out Aug. 23. "I went out and tried to start it and it went 'ugh' once or twice then died," sald Reaves.

Reaves, 88, had been using the wagon for his errands, charity work and in local parades since he bought it used in 1984.

He'll switch to his backup transportation, a 1978 Dodge van (189,000 miles).

The van has a bumper-sticker paint job as well, although it has a way to go before it reaches the Torino's fabled stem-to-stern, top-tobottom status.

"The important thing is I can still get around to see the klds," Reaves said.

"That's OK," he said optimistically. "I'm always a little bit behind (in donations) around this time of year."

Slow progress reported in teacher talks

By Tedd Schnolder staff writer

Negotiations between Wayne-Westland teachers and the school district moved slowly last week, with a new contract not even close, officials on both sides said.

Meanwhile, Superintendent Dennis O'Neill and William Reece, president of the Wayne-Westland Education Association, met twice to discuss a possible third try for a millage election. No definite proposals were discussed.

"We shared some ideas," O'Neill said Thursday. "But I want to make sure we've got something to offer (voters) before going back.

"THE PUBLIC has spoken," he said, referring to tax increase proposals that were rejected overwhelmingly by voters last February and June.

O'Neill said some progress was made on non-economic issues during a Tuesday bargaining session. The two sides also met Thursday night.

But the superintendent said no written proposals have been offered on major issues, including salary and fringe benefits. "We just don't have the money to talk about. We've said before that we're not going to spend money we don't have.

"We started this year with a $2 million deficit (erased by surplus money from 1989-90) and we've got to reinstate programs (cut last spring) before we do anything else."

Senior year sours for twin sisters

By M.B. Dillon and Peg Aulino staff writers

A school year that twins Amy and Katle Colligan thought would be their happiest is turning out to be their saddest.

The 17-year-old sisters, who attended Plymouth-Canton Community Schools since kindergarten, were crying as they pleaded with the board of education recently to let them graduate from Canton High School, even though they've moved out of the district.

The girls are registered at Canton. They've had their senior pictures taken.

But Tuesday was their first day at Wayne Memorial High School. Plymouth-Canton school officials say it's against policy to allow nonresidents to attend Plymouth-Canton schools, even if they're willing to pay tuition, due to the district's overcrowded facilities.

THE TWINS' father, John Colligan, recently was appointed police chief by the City of Wayne. Because the city has a residency requirement, the family had to move.

The summer of '90 was a summer of many "firsts" for Lesley Carmichael of Plymouth. She took her first airplane ride, to England; suffered her first "culture shock"; played the piano with actor Dudley Moore; spent six weeks studying arts and humanities in London; viewed original art; worshipped in magnificant old cathedrals; and 'lived the lifestyles of London."

And then the family flew to Detroit's Metro Airport, where they were welcomed home by friends and relatives.

Hospice celebrates 10 years of caring

LIKE A TRAIN slowing down, chugging, grinding, gasping, before the brakes are applied, Daddy pre-pared for his final stop. "I'm not afraid of cancer," he sald. "I'm not afraid to die. But I don't want to live every day in pain. And I want it over. I don't want to take anyone with me.

What my father was saying last April before his death was that he wanted to take leave of life, after 85 years, with dignity. It's a decade now since the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan (HSEM), in Southfield, was dedicated to that same philosophy of insuring that patients may live their last days with dignity.

Southfield's hospice, which served and still serves the entire metro area, was a new link in a fast-growing chain of humane institutions across the country.

Hospice's program is directed to pain control and comfort measures to bring ease to patients with advanced illnesses. In these facilities, reliance is on human rather than technological services.

EMOTIONAL SUPPORT for the patient and family and bereavement help for survivors are major parts of the program.

Like a soft, warm blanket, Hospice surrounded us, patient and family, lending the support, encouragement and ease that helped us all say our farewells and accept that the final stop was reached.

Daddy spent most of his last three days in the Hospice of Hollywood, Fla. Mom, Jack and I watched as nurses and aides made him as comfortable as possible and generously gave their energy 24 hours a day to let him know he was cared for.

We marveled at the definess, gentleness and expertise of the hospice

Two of the three nights he was there, I slept in a day room or by his bedside. The hospice concept allows that, It also allows familiar household items to be brought in. Beloved children and grandchildren, even pets can visit. Pieces of favorite art and sounds of special music can grace the patient's room.

SCHEDULING YOUR NEXT APPOINTMENT What determines the time of your next appointment?

What determines the time of your next appointment?

Your doctor takes into account a number of aspects of your arthritis. Such considerations include: the activity of your arthritis, your response to treatment to date, the potential side effects of the medication you are taking, whether your joints are prone to collect fluid, and the pattern of flares and remissions of your arthritis.

While the above seems complicated, the final decision is similar to that which a driver assesses in making a turn. In this case your physician processes a great deal of information, intuitively and automatically.

Keep in mind that no physician can always make the best choice; arthritis is as unpredictable as a rise and fall in the stock market. Do not feel that your appointment chains you to a certain day, it before that time you feel in pain, call the office to come in early. A native of the Upper Peninsula who taught school in Pontlac and Berkley, and has representated the northern Lower Peninsula in Lansing for 16 years, Sen. Connie Binsfeld will be the Republican lieutenant governor candidate.

Cooling off? Middle Eastern war seen as less likely

By Wayne Poal staff writer

Chances for a Middle East war have been greatly reduced, but not eliminated, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin said last week.

GOP Senate challenger Bill Schuette, however, sald a peaceful solution rests with further action by Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein.

Levin, among the Congressional leaders briefed on the Middle East crisis Tuesday by President George Bush, said he believed it was unlikely Iraq would invade Saudi Arabia now that there is a major U.S. military presence in the region.

Tomatoes: fresh and versatile

ONE THING for sure, this cool, rainy summer has been producing a multitude of giant zucchini and bigger-than-softball-sized tomatoes in the garden.

Hate to be the bearer of bad news, but I've got this feeling that we're in for a long, cold, hard

Not trying to sound like a squirrel, I have been busy this summer loading up the freezer with shredded zucchini. Up until now, I haven't had many red tomatoes. But all of a sudden, it's like Mother Nature flicked the switch and all the tomatoes are turning ripe at once.

Last week, I made some homemade salsa (that's the campy '90s buzzword for chunky tomato sauce). And last night, the Janes Gang enjoyed something new that was discovered at Vito DePalma's restaurant in Livonia called Bruschetta.

This savory antipasto is simply thick Italian bread slathered with some olive oil, a paper-thin layer of tomato, a sprinkling of fresh chopped basil and a half-handful of freshly grated parmesan. Pop in under the broller, and you'll think you've died and gone to heaven.

HEARTY ITALIANS might call this "Fettunta," which is re-ally nothing but Tuscan garlic bread. But the way DePalma's and I do it, with thinly sliced tomatoes, this dish is an encore presentation.

If you think the Brushetta sounds good, go one step further and toss on a few rashers of crisp bacon. Watch out, the goose bumps are forming. And this, dear readers, from someone who thinks bacon is a dirty word. I've never made a better BLT. Do yourself a favor, and pick up some imported olive oil. Definitely worth the price difference.

Last week, while barbecuing a turkey between rainshowers, I noticed this big spot of red among the bushes in the garden. This softball-sized tomato was just perfect for immediate picking and a quick rinse under the garden hose. Then, with a quick slip of the knife, it was divided into two halves, dusted with some oregano, topped with a slice of mozzarella and placed right on the grill next to the roasting turkey. Since the coals were just beginning to lose their steam, this procedure took about 10 minutes and, again, the taste was worth it.

Prosper Montagne, author of "Larousse Gastronomique," lista more than 30 ingenious ways to prepare tomatoes. Tomato souffles, tomato mousse, tomato salads, stuffed tomatoes, tomatoes au gratin, you name it — and Montagne has elevated this plain vegetable to new heights in culinary performance.

HIS RECIPE for Stuffed Tomatoes ala Reine calls for filling tomato cups with a mixture of cooked poultry and imported mushrooms, then topping with a veloute, which is nothing more than a thick, rich gravy. Sprinkle again with some seasoned bread crumbs and then bake in the oven until heated throughout. And we thought tomatoes were only vege-

Personally, I still enjoy and have fond memories of that old classic, the tomato sandwich. A fresh tomato, picked right from the garden, sliced thick and plopped between two pleces of bread with just a sprinkling of salt and pepper. Ah, nirvanat

This "treat" was made possible: because in our adolescence, the Janes family owned a summer cottage on Marentette Beach just west of Leamington, the tomato capitol of Canada. Our cottage was right across a canal from H.J. Heinz' tomato fields.

Looking for a great field-trip? II.J. Heinz in Leamington still offers tours, and this is the season to see more tomatoes than you ever thought existed.

"Pizza Gourmet" Carl Oshinski butters a pizza he is grilling over white-hot coals.

Yes, even pizza can be barbecued

By Larry Janes special writer -

EMEMBER WHEN someone found a way to cook a roast on the manifold of a car? Next thing you knew, fish found their way into the dishwasher. What's next?
As far as Carl Oshinski, the well-known Pizza Gourmet, is concerned, it just wouldn't be summer without firing up the coals and preparing pizza — you guessed It — on the barbecue.

Pizza on the barbecue? "Why not?" claims local entrepreneur and pizza bon vivant Oshinski. "There's no sense heating up the kitchen on a sweltering summer day when a red-hot barbecue underneath a tall shade tree can do it with more flair, more taste and definitely, a cooler brow."

And, when it comes to pizzas, Carl Oshinski is truly the sole heir to the title "Pizza Gourmet." Many readers have probably seen Oshinski locally doing what he does best, making pizza, in local kitchen shops. In addition, he does in-home pizza catering.

BUT HIS greatest claim to fame is his syndicated "Pizza Gourmet" series, shown nationally on PBS. Couple that with a best-selling pizza cookbook and a "Pizza" Gourmet" line of equipment hawking the likes of pizza stones and pizza pans, and you've got the makings of a true Pizza Gourmet.

This lover of the pizza works 16-hour days representing himself and his goods. So when, this writer asked, does he find time to cook pizza on a backyard grill?

"I make the time because I love the product," Oshinski said. Seems he first saw a barbecued backyard pizza at a restaurant in Providence, R.I., called "Lucky's." '

'I liked what I tasted, especially the smokiness of the crust," Oshinski said, "Then, think about the fact that all your sauces and toppings can be kept hot right at your fingertips."

So, back in June, Oshinski tried out his idea at the St. Francis/Sara Fisher Benefit and walked away with rave reviews from those in attendance.

THE SECRET, according to Oshinski, is the use of a standard pizza dough with a double baking technique. After the dough is rolled and tossed, it is lightly greased and thrown on a white-hot grill. The white-hot coals are essential because, according to the pizza gourmet, you want to bake it as fast as you can, as hot

Then you brush the top lightly with oil and give it a flip with the tongs. Layer on the sauce, the cheese and your favorite toppings and volla — a barbecued pizzat

One of Larco's Italian entrees is Chicken di Luigi, shown here with a side order of Calmari di Marco (squid with tomatoes and green peppers).

Wine can age gracefully with cooler temperatures

In this column, frequent mention of aging or cellaring wine is made. Just how much care does bottled

Wine ages and matures as a result of a multitude of chemical changes that eventually reach what is often referred to as a wine's peak.

This peak, or optimum drinking time, is actually more like a plateau. As a rule of thumb for most dry, white table wines, that period is two to three years. Generally, red wines stay on the plateau five years, with the world's greatest red wines maintaining optimum drinking for 10 to 20 years or longer.

The enemies of wine ageability handling, and time. Wines can be stored safely from 40 degrees to 65 degrees Farenheit. If rapid fluctuations of more than 5 degrees to 10 degrees farenheit occur, the wine may be adversely affected. The cork may work loose due to sudden pressure changes, allowing exposure to air or leakage of wine. PROPER STORAGE temperature depends on the wine's age and how long you wish to keep it. If you cellar wine to drink in a year or two, a warmer temperature (60 degrees to 65 degrees Farenheit) will speed development of bottle bouquet.

If your intention is to cellar wine for a longer period of time, cooler temperatures are essential.

Chemical reaction rates generally double with every temperature increase of 18 degrees Farenheit. Therefore, wine storage over 70 degrees farenhelt can cause undesireable changes. White wines benefit from cooler storage because the fruity character dissipates more in the wine, thus spoiling it. WINE BOTTLE corks begin to deare heat, cold, oxygen, excessive teriorate after about ten years. If the cork is crumbly, it needs to be replaced in order to maintain a proper seal. Getting wine recorked is possible, but not easy. The best suggestion here — drink it.

We discussed what makes an ageable cabernet sauvignon with several Sonoma County winemakers.

When it comes to making a cabernet sauvignon that will last, I put away all restraints," contends Lance Cutler, winemaker at Gundlach-Bundschu Winery. "I let the grape give me everything its got - alcohol, tannin and fruit. I also use new oak barrels. If you want a wine you can't begin to drink for five years and expect to live for another ten, you have to pack it in."

Cutler sums it all up, "Buy the oldest Gundlach-Bundschu Cabernet Sauvignon you can find."

"Years ago, the University of Callfornia at Davis was helping put the wine industry back on its feet following prohibition," explains Dave Ramey, winemaker at Chalk Hill Winery. "They provided guidelines to aid winemakers in producing commercially-acceptable products.

"Our techniques may seem to be When wines are stored upright, the reverting to old-world methods, but cork dries out and oxygen in the air we are paying closer attention to overall vine health, degree of stress - as evidenced by leaf coloration and defoliation near harvestand the taste of the fruit. > This techy lingo can be summed up easily. If a young red wine does not taste good when it's young, it won't get better with bottle aging. Red wines do round out with cellaring, and they do develop a bottle bouquet.

> If, however, red wines are hard, bitter, tannic and astringent when young, they'll age ungracefully and be hard, bitter, tannic, astringent old

Wine Selection of the Week

1986 Dry Creek Vineyards Meritage ($25) is a classic candidate for aging. Produced from 57 percent cabernet sauvignon, 30 percent cabernet franc and 13 percent merlot with American oak aging, it is packed with fruit. Soft and supple on the palate, it has the charm of a young Bordeaux wine from a warmer vintage. No doubt about it, the price is up there, but a Bordeaux wine of this quality will be more expensive. Expect to pay a higher price for ageable wines.

For the less adventuresome, Oshinski also recommends that you cook pizzas in a pan on a covered grill. Assemble the pizza as you normally would, but instead of firing up the oven, light up the coals. As mentioned before, the secret is cooking it hot and fast.

After the recent tasting in Hines Park, I walked Oshinski to his truck, almost hesitating to ask the inevitable, "What's next?" For a second. I thought the answer would be something campy like "pizza cooked by a propane torch."

Hardly. In addition to consulting with major pizza franchises around the country and looking for (if he hasn't found one already) an underwriter for an upcoming new PBS series on pizzas from around the world. Oshinski hopes to have a new cookbook out soon. He's also single and would make someone a pizza every night for the rest of their lives. What more could one want?

IT IS with great pleasure that I welcome you back to the beginning of the second year of "Family-Tested Winner Dinners."

I hope you and your family had a fun and relaxing summer and are ready to begin not only a new month and season but a new school year as

THIS WEEK'S Winner Dinner Winner, Domenica Hartman, offers a delicious transitional menu that makes good use of the abundant produce so readily available at this time of the year.

Originally from Chicago and now living in Plymouth, Hartman worked as a patent attorney for General Motors until just one week ago. She left to become a full-time wife and mother.

Although she plans to do some work out of her home, Hartman is ecstatic to have the opportunity to be home with her 6-month-old son. Her husband of four years is currently at Wayne State Law School and says his wife's cooking is one of the reasons he is so happy.

Named after her Italian grandmother, Hartman learned everything she knows about cooking from her and particularly enjoys preparing Italian dishes.

SWEET AND SPICY CHICKEN KABOBS

Making good use of the abundant produce available at this time of the year, these shish kabobs are best when they have at least four hours to marinate in the colorful and easily made sauce. If you don't have metal skewers, long bamboo skewers work just as well and can be found in most large supermarkets. This recipe serves four to six people.

Franklin tripped up by Triplett again

By Brad Emons staff writer

Things went from bad to worse before Saturday's opening kickoff for Livonia Franklin's football team.

The Patriots lost one starter, wide receiver/safety Steve Clemmons to a broken hand in the warmups, and then watched Lansing Sexton tailback Howard Triplett break three tackles en route to a 73-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage.

Clemmons' injury, Triplett's running and the stateranked Big Reds were too much to overcome for the host Patriots, as they dropped their season opener, 27-6.

"Clemmons is the fastest kid we have, but that wasn't the difference," said Franklin coach Armand Vigna. "But that was an omen of the way things were going to

Clemmons was practicing kicks when he slipped and fell, breaking three bones in his left hand. He is expected to miss the rest of the season.

TRIPLETT, MEANWHILE, the highly-touted 5-foot-10, 170-pound speedster who gained 167 yards in a 21-7 victory in last year's opener over the Patriots, proved he is on his way to another banner year.

"It was a determined, hard run," Vigna said of the 78yard dash. "We hit him, but we didn't bring him down. You better hit that guy and knock him down. He went through three of us.'

Triplett, much in the same mold as another ex-Sexton standout, Alan Haller, now a starter at Michigan State, finished with 146 yards in 13 carries.

He also scored on a 52-yard TD on Sexton's first offensive play of the second half, giving the Big Reds, a Class A playoff qualifler a year ago, a commanding 27-0

"Both are great kids (Haller and Triplett) and both are big-time players," sald Sexton coach Bob Meyers.

"He (Triplett) has increased his speed and he's also very levelheaded. He knows where he's going and what he has to do to get there. And Howard is the hardest worker on the team and the kids respect him. I could say those things about our quarterback (James McIn-

McINTOSH, ANOTHER starter from last year's 9-2 squad, completed only two of six passes, but both went for TDs. He made his completions count, hooking up with Keith Newbern on scoring passes of 37 and 31

Franklin, meanwhile, had trouble moving the football, finishing with a total of just 104 yards.

The Patriots scored their only TD with 7:49 left in the game on a 16-yard run by senior Mike Kror

Ironically, Franklin enjoyed favorable field position much of the first half, but couldn't capitalize.

TONY FACIONE recovered a fumble on the Sexton 21 with 7:24 to go in the opening period, but quarterback Mike Geiger (8-of-14 for 68 yards) was intercepted for the second time by Diallo Brown at the goal line.

Franklin also had the ball on the Sexton 10 on its initial series, and at the Big Reds' 31 late in the first quarter, but came up empty. "We were playing with them at that point," Vigna sald. "But we had a couple of penalties, the offsides, that hurt us." Sexton, despite McIntosh being sacked four times for minus-48 yards, gained 231 total yards.

"Speed was the difference in this game," Meyers said. "Armand has some fine players, but we have speed."

Stevenson spanks RU

Spartans roll, 28-8

By Brad Emons staff writer

Mistakes were magnified in Friday's prep football opener between Livonia Stevenson and Redford over the Panthers, who couldn't overcome their own glaring errors.

"Stevenson's got experience and they didn't beat themselves," said RU second-year coach Shawn McGowan: "Fundamentally they (Stevenson) are always strong. In the first half our inexperience showed. We kind of went out to lunch in the first half. A lot of it was technique type of things."

The Spartans had things pretty much in control by halftime, building a 20-0 lead.

Stevenson's first score occurred with 3:06 left in the opening quarter when defensive end Roger LaGrow picked off a screen pass by RU quarterback Brian Theis and rambled in from 15 yards out.

ONLY MINUTES EARLIER, Stevenson, mounting a 61-yard drive, turned the ball over at the RU 18 when Bill Warzecha scooped up a Chad Myers fumble.

But RU, hit with successive illegal procedure calls, found itself deep in a hole, setting the stage for La-Grow's TD interception.

On RU's next offensive series, Stevenson tackle Erich Kickland busted through the line and blocked a Theis punt, recovering the ball at the RU

And only three plays later, Spartan quarterback Ryan Furkas connected with Doug Carmack on a 7yard TD pass with 27 seconds left to extend the lead.

Host Stevenson kept its miscues to his first extra point, missed the secminimum, rolling to a 28-8 victory ond as the Spartans took a 13-0 ad-punt 11 yards to the Panthers' 34, giving Stevenson excellent field post-20-yard pass, and Doug Lehti, who led all rushers with 107 yards in 20 carries, followed with a nifty 18yard TD run.

Furkas and Carmack again teamed up for the two-point conversion pass, giving the Spartans a 21point cushion at intermission.

"MENTALLY THE RIDS came ready to play," said Stevenson coach Jack Reardon. "But what I really like about our team is that they were very enthusiastic."

The Spartans' defense carried their enthusiasm on into the third quarter, holding the Panthers for a Theis, a junior starting his second season on the varsity, completed 11 of 24 passes for 94 yards.

"In the second half Brian came around and started putting some zip on the ball," said the RU. "That was a good sign. He'll be a good one. Basically we're a young team with only one senior on the offensive line." As for, Reardon was pleased with

"They (the Pistons) like their guards to play both positions and be able to shoot the threepointer. To play in the NBA you have to be good and lucky, and . . . who's there is also a big factor."

Balanced Blazers intercept Rockets

By Brad Emons staff writer

Livonia Ladywood proved Thursday it has plenty in its bank account, opening its 1990 girls basketball season with a convincing 67-49 victory at Westland John Glenn.

The Blazers demonstrated they have somebody to back up 6-foot All-Area senior forward Rebecca Willey, the team's only returning start-

Four Ladywood players scored in double figures, led by sophomore Tracy Prybylski, who tailled 14 points and added six steals. Willey and low-post mate Leslie Catanzarite, a 6-1 senior, added 13 points each, while sophomore Mary Jo Kelly contributed 12 and junior reserve - icine (heavy) ball." Janet Davis netted nine off the bench.

"For the first game we played well as a team," sald Gasparovic, who is coming off a 12-8 season where Willey did most of the scoring and rebounding. "We're very, very balanced, and I think now we can go to anybody on the bench. I think a lot of these girls could start for other teams.'

Catanzarite, who also snared 10 rebounds, may be the area's most improved pivot player.

"Lesile knows she's a senior and she knows this is her year," Gasparovic said. "She worked very hard all summer on her post game. She takes the ball to the basket hard and she can catch the ball a lot better. We worked hard with her using the med-even with only eight players."

Ladywood jumped out quickly, building an 18-7 first-quarter lead.

Glenn closed the gap to 20-16 midway through the second quarter on a three-point shot by Karen Olack (18 points), but Ladywood took a 34-24 advantage at intermission on a Davis hoop with two seconds to go.

The Blazers opened up their biggest lead of the night, 19-point spread (53-34) lead with 2:04 left in the third period on a basket by Wil-

Glenn tried one last-ditch run, pulling to within eight, 57-49, on a free throw by Carrie Rachwal (13 points) with 2:20 remaining, but the Blazers ran off 10 unanswered points to secure the win.

can get up and down the floor." Although Ladywood coach said "I liked everything we did," there's still room for improvement. The Blazers, for instance, committed 26 turn-

"We'd like to cut down on that about 10," she said. "But with our style of play, the turnovers will be there."

Ladywood shot 51 percent from the floor (33 of 64), while Glenn hit only 20 of 58 (34 percent). Jenny Massey was the only other Rocket to score in double figures with 11

Glenn's 5-11 returning junior center Cathy Mruk, had only six points. She was held to one field goal.

"A few times Cathy was able to work on Leslie (Catanzarite), but couldn't get her the ball," Bennett said. "She was not as effective as we liked, but she didn't get as many opportunities as I wanted."

Bennett gains Glenn boys job

By Brad Emons staff writer

Subject to School Board approval, Pat Bennett will become the next boys basketball coach at Westland John Glenn High.

Glenn athletic director Gerald Szukaitis acknowledged Thursday that Bennett, who is also Glenn's girls cage coach, will take over for Bob Killingbeck, who resigned last March after posting a 37-30 record in three seasons.

Outgoing Glenn principal Dr. James Myers, who has since left for an assistant's position at Farmington High, recommended the 27-year-old Bennett after leading a search committee, which also included Glenn assistant principal Larry Wood and Wayne-Westland Schools personnel director Dan Slee.

"I jumped at it in a minute," said Bennett. "I wanted the challenge of a different level. I also wanted the challenge of running the whole bashethell program at the high school."
As a 22-year-old JV assistant, Bennett became the area's youngest head basketball coach in 1985, serving on an interim basis for the Glenn girls program after veteran coach George Sommerman resigned in mid-season.

BENNETT WENT ON to post a 7-5 record that season and was named the school's full-time coach in 1986 where he posted his best record (16-

Bennett's job with the Glenn boys will be difficult. Because of a five-month delay in hiring a new coach, Glenn's boys were unable to participate in a summer basketball program. The district, also suffering from series of millage defeats, has instituted a payfor-play plan.

"I haven't had a chance to talk with anybody, but the players we had last year in the program seemed to be focused on basketball," Bennett said. "But I don't know who is going to be there until I find out who has

"I also want to make enjoyable for them during the high school years," Bennett said. "I think I can enhance their experience."

BENNETT is a full-time student at Wayne State University working on a degree in secondary education. "Coaching turned me into education," he said.

The new coach also indicated that he plans to stick with both the girls and the boys programs "at least the next two or three years."

Shea's shots give Patriots big boost

By Ray Sellock staff writer

The Livonia Franklin High girls basketball team couldn't ask for a better way to begin its season.

The Patriots (2-0) captured the Suzanne Smith Memorial Tournament championship with a 53-41 victory over Western Lakes Activities Association foe North-

After jumping to a 9-1 advantage early in the game, Franklin's only job was to hold off the pressure being applied by the Mustangs' defense.

We were down when they got off to such a strong start," Northville coach Ed Kritch said. "But we fought back and didn't let Franklin relax.".

The Patriots jumped to first half leads of 19-8 and 24-12, but Northville still managed to keep the score close, traiting by just six points at natitume, 27-21.

Perhaps the biggest moment of the game came early in the third quarter when Franklin senior guard Patty Shea canned a pair of three-pointers, once again giving Franklin a commanding lead.

"WE WEREN'T playing Patty to hit those kind of shots," Kritch said. "In fact, we weren't playing her to hit anything outside 20 feet. But it's a credit to her ability that she hit those outside buckets."

Shea, along with fellow guard Dawn Warner, shared a game-high scoring honors with 17 points each for Franklin. Senior center Jenny Mayle added nine points.

"They are an excellent guard tandem," Franklin coach Dan Freeman said of Shea and Warner. "They control the tempo of the game for our team."

The Patriots exercised the art of ball control for much of the second half, not letting the Mustangs get within striking distance. A 49-41 deficit would be as close as Northville would get.

"Our offense moved the ball around well today," Freeman said. "They were real patient and didn't try to force too many things. That is something we had trouble with in Tuesday's game with South Lyon."

SENIOR FORWARDS Kate Holstein and Maria Macinnis scored 12 and 10 points, respectively, to pace

"Northville played a heck of a game and wouldn't let us relax for a second," Freeman said. "If we let up, they closed the gap. It was a good win for us. A nice way to start the season."

Kritch say this game is a good preview for the WLAA

"We play Franklin in league play in couple of weeks," he said. "It should be quite a rematch."

John Ward rocketed through Highland Park's defense for 173 yards rushing and three touchdowns, leading Westland John Glenn to a 28-8 season-opening victory Friday at Highland Park.

Ward, a 6-foot-1, 180-pound junior tailback, did his damage on 24 carries, scoring on a 2-yard run in the first quarter, a 6-yard run in the second and a 4-yard scamper in the fourth. The Rockets gained 293 yards to 179 for Highland Park.

Glenn quarterback Lawrence Scheffer connected on 2-of-6 passes for 45 yards, with both completions coming in a fourth-quarter drive. Scheffer hit Steve Fuller for gains of 24 and 21 yards, setting up Tad Quattlander's 1-yard TD dive.

Rocket fullback Alonzo Jackson rambled for 51 yards on 10 attempts, as Glenn outrushed the Polar Bears 248-132. Kevin Springer hit all four of his extra-point kicks.

the Stallions went on to record a hard earned non-conference win over visiting Livonia Churchill.

"The punt return put us back on our heals a little bit," said Churchill coach Herb Osterland, whose team was outgained, 265-227, in total offense. "We were moving the ball real good before that.' The loss spoiled a sterling effort by Chargers tailback Mike Brooks, who gained all of Churchill's 171 yards and also intercepted one pass. Brooks, who carried the ball 30 times, scored on runs of 2 and 7 yards in the first half when Churchill built a 14-13 halftime lead.

Brooks also had runs of 28, 26 and 19 yards. Sterling Heights regrouped at halftime and allowed the Chargers only 40 yards rushing in the second half.

"Brooks had a helluva night." Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "They had to readjust in the second half and were keying on him all the way. Everyone's going to be after him now."

Churchill quarterback Jason Renkiewicz completed five of nine passes for 58 yards and no interceptions. Craig Shepley caught two of the aerials for 45 yards. Osterland also praised two-way lineman Bob Coppola and linebacker/fullback Ryan Kukla for the blocking they did in front of Brooks.

WAYNE MEMORIAL 21, ADRIAN 20: Jason Wetmore threw two TD passes Friday, including one of 23 yards to Gary Barnes with 7:16 left that gave Wayne Memorial a thrilling season-opening win over host

A 46-yard fumble return by senior linebacker Adam Moran set up the score. Wetmore's extra point gave the Zebras the one-point win.

Wetmore completed seven-of-18 passes for 125 yards. Adrian led, 20-14, at halftime.

Wetmore gave Wayne its first points in the second quarter when he found Jerry Rogers for a 33-yard score. A 4-yard run by Wetmore and a two-point conversion by Kevin Bradley gave the Zebras a brief, 14-

ET ME TELL you about a bowling league. They are called the "MPVA Wheelers," and that stands for Michigan Paralyzed Veterans of America.

The league is comprised of about 20 bowlers, all military veterans from World War II to Korea to Vietnam. They are ABC/WIBC sanctioned and bowl in several regional tournaments as well as the National Championship of the American Wheelchair Bowling Association. At the nationals in California last July, Bob Calderon of Livonia came in ninth out of 59 finalists. Bob is the league president of the MPVA Wheelties. Since this is a newly formed league and many of the participants are new to the game, it is hard to say what the bowling averages would be, however, Calderone carries a 142 average himself. The method of bowling is to position the wheelchair at the foul line and get a real good arm-swing, there is no help at all from the body momentum that an able-bodied bowler generates from the approach steps. Ond of the league members is quadraplegic and therefore uses a ramp that enables him to direct the ball at the target. The league has a few more openings for those who are interested, and yes, it is a mixed league as one of the bowlers is a woman.

This league bowls every other Saturday at 11 a.m. starting Sept. 8 at Super Bowl in Canton Township. There will be eight weeks to the season, and probably will be followed by another eight week season. This is all a integral part of an overall training program for the Wheelchair Olympics, otherwise known as the National Wheelchair Games, which will have the 11th annual event taking place next June in Miami, Fla. These remarkable athletes also compete in track and field, swimming, weightlifting, billiards, basketball, table tennis and wheelchair "slalom." Among the participants from Observer & Eccentric cities are Bob Calderon of Livonia, Walter Runchey of Garden City, John Brown of Canton Township and Lou Cherwak

Last week, this column started to list bowling leagues that still have some open spots for anyone interested in getting on a team for the 90-91 season. ## 'Mirror, Mirror': A dismal excuse for a horror film

Sam Raimi of Birmingham spent $14 million on his schlock horror film "Darkman," so give Jimmy Lifton of Southfield a little credit. Very little. Lifton produced his unpleasant slasher film, "Mirror, Mirror" (D+, R, 100 minutes) for the remarkably low price of $1 million. What a waste of money!

Also to Lifton's credit, he did a better piece of work. Both gentlemen, however, fail to make their home towns swell with pride for "Darkman" and "Mirror, Mirror" are gross, sadistic and offer very littie beyond unpleasant, graphic displays of violence.

In particular, I must question Mr. Lifton's assertion in an interview published last week in the O&E newspapers that "Mirror, Mirror" is "very exciting because of what we suggest rather than what we show. A couple of times we do show a little bit of violence, a little bit of blood as a necessity to the genre."

He also contended in that interview that filmmakers rely on graphic depictions of violence and gore when they have no vision, no substance to their stories.

The gentleman stands convicted by his own words.

"MIRROR, MIRROR" is the 157 millionth film in which a shy, unhappy teenager, Megan Gordon (Rainbow Harvest), moves to town and is shunned by all the kids at school. It doesn't help that she dresses punk and looks really weird. Only Nikki (Kristin Datillo) is nice to her and they become friends. Megan and her mother, Mrs. Gordon (Karen Black), relocate to this new town from L.A. because they need a change of scenery after Mr. Gordon dies. They certainly get a new perspective living in the haunted Weatherworth house, complete with a mirror inhabited by a demon. If that's a substantive story, the result of a filmmaker's vision, then there's some pretty simple-minded, perverse folks running things. Producer Liston scored the film in a heavy-handed, effective manner which maintains tension - as much from volume as from musical achièvement. But after viewing all the gore, mutilation, dead bodies and blood in "Mirror, Mirror," It's impossible to believe Lifton's claim that "a couple of times we do show a

He chooses roles carefully

When David Lynch needed someone to play one of the leads in his new film, "Wild at Heart," he immediately thought of Nicolas Cage. The young actor is no stranger to offbeat, likable characters, having played a crippled baker in "Moonstruck," a babynapper in "Raising Arizona" and a modern day Dracula in "Vampire's Kiss."

Cage and Lynch used to run into each other in Los Angeles.

"I guess we have the same taste in drugstores and diners," Cage said last week in a phone interview from Los Angeles.

In "Wild at Heart," which opened for wide release last week, Cage plays Sailor Ripley, an ex-con who breaks parole to take off for sunny California with his girlfriend Lula (Laura Dern). They are chased through the seediest parts of the South by Lula's witchy mother. "Sallor is like an old car that needs a tune-up. He drives cool and fast, but does break down," Cage noted in a lengthy analog. "He's totally open and pure and totally driven by love. He's not into head games and jealousy trips."

CAGE HAS added an extra element to the role — the ghost of Elvis Presley. Sallor talks like him, dances like him with karate kicks and punches, sings a couple of "E" songs, even has a passion for fried banana sandwiches.

"I've only recently gotten into the Elvis mythology," Cage said. "I'm convinced that he was the greatest voice in rock'n'roll history . . . I watched interviews with Elvis and practiced four days with a vocal coach trying to get the sound." Filming the loosely plotted "Wild at Heart" left room for improvisation. Cage remembers a scene where Laura asks Sailor how old he was when he began smoking.

"The answer started with '12' but with each take it kept getting lower and lower until I eventually said 'four,'" he said. "That's what ended up in the film."

Cage won't try to analyze his new film ("It's an expression. It should be felt, not analyzed."). And while he isn't anxious to compare David Lynch with other directors he's

Cutting a new alternative edge

New music mavens, buffs, devotees, asicionados . . . Rejoice. Commercial radio station CIMX-FM 88.7 will offer "The Cutting Edge" 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. nightly,

"I think this is an opportunity we've been talking about for seven years," said St. James, who has been a longtime proponent of opening the air waves to new bands. "There's a hole in this market.

"The Cutting Edge" is the first program of its type by an area commercial radio station in a long while. WLBS-FM, and more recently WDTX-FM, tried new music formats in the past that failed.

In the last four years, though, alternative groups such as the Cure, R.E.M. and Depeche Mode have grown in prominence in terms of record sales and gate receipts. (For example, the Cure sold out Joe Louis Arena). Other trend-setting groups, such as the Smiths and Husker Du, have come and gone in the same time.

Commercial radio stations in Detroit have long been criticized for being slow, and in some cases, outright ignoring new music, Instead, they have stuck by AOR (alburn oriented rock) and classic rock formats.

AT LEAST for four hours a night there is an option.

All of which doesn't bother St. James, who's attitude is the more new music the merrier.

His show was seven years in the making. Former WDTX-FM DJ Mike Halloran and St. James made a similar proposal to then uninterested CJOM-FM in 1983.

CJOM-FM later became CIMX-FM with new ownership by the CHUM Group. St. James decided to try again in April, this time discussing the idea with station general manager Al Pervin.

"Al was receptive but cautious,"

St. James said and jokingly added, "Probably, the video with him and Swedish stewardess and handcuffs (changed his mind)."

Added Pervin: "I'm very excited about the 'The Cutting Edge.' Fact of the matter is this type of music is not being played in concentrated form in the Detroit area.

"ANYTIME A radio station can add something . . . you're doing what radio should be doing — giving people an option."

St. James has been busy working out a play list. He mentions such alternative fare off the top of his head as the Railway Children, Adrian Belew along with main stables such as the Cure. David Bowle, B-52s and Depeche Mode.

Since CIMX-FM is in Windsor, "The Cutting Edge" is bound by Canadian content regulations. St. James doesn't see that as a problem since the north of the border music scene is growing with acts such as Cowboy Junkles, The Pursult of Happiness, Blue Rodeo and Crash Vegas.

Music by Detroit area bands will be included as well. But St. James wants to intersperse local music with national acts in order not to "ghetto-ize" it.

At WRIF, St. James was instrumental in starting "Local Rifs" that featured local bands. Also, he hosted a new music show "Dangerous Exposure" on WABX-FM in the early '80s. His alter-ego, Twiggy Barbust, fronts a band that performs at area clubs.

According to St. James, the show has a year commitment from CIMX management. He believes that's adequate time.

'It's not a question of finding the audience," he said. "It's a question of the audience finding us. We know the audience is there."

Jellyfish

If you ever wondered what would happen when the children of the baby boomers grew up and started making music of their own - now there's an answer for you, in the form of a band called Jellyfish.

If Jellyfish's latest album, 'Bellybutton," is any indication, we can safely say that the children of baby boomers create music that sounds like . . . a weak imitation of what their parents played.

Jellylish does a better Beatles than John, Paul, George or Ringo ever did in their solo work.

To Jellysish's credit, they've got all the Beatles' sounds down pat the string accompaniment, the echoed vocals and even a background singer, Roger Manning, who sounds a bit like Paul. "Bedspring Kiss," for example, owes more than a little to "And I Love Her" and so on.

Even the cover art is reminiscent - Cormac Wright of the Beatles during their "Magical Mystery Tour" period. The liner notes include a picture of Jellyfish decked out in flower belt-bottoms, Alice in Wonderland caps and surrounded by a giant candy necklace and a bunch of strawberrles. Pictures of bubbles float mystically over the words to the songs. All of it is very psychedelic and '60s-ish.

Unfortunately, imitating the Beatles and actually being as talented as the Beatles is not the same thing. Just ask the cast of "Beatlemania." Lead singer of Jellylish, Andy Sturmer, was cursed, not with the voice of John Lennon, but instead, the voice of Richard Marx.

Sturmer's unfortunate voice tends to make "Bellybutton" less like a tribute or homage to the Beatles and more like an album of Richard Marx doing Beatles covers.

Bob Mould

Bob Mould's first solo effort since the disbanding of Husker Du. 1989's "Workbook," was a brooding, brilliant work, a tame if not bliter alburn with lots of acoustic gultar, cello and mandolin.

Mould's latest, "Black Sheets of Rain," keeps the bitter anger and excitement, but strips the sound down to a crunching three-piece band, with Mould's electric guitar screeching to the forefront throughout.

From the feedback in the opening notes of the album, it's clear that a slight return to Husker-type volume is in the offing — but with a little more order amid the chaos. The feedback remains throughout the torrid title track, lurking behind Tony Malmone's cascading bass line and the relentless drumming of the great Anton Fier (of Golden Palomi-

"Stop Your Crying" and the mostly acoustic "The Last Night" sling verbal mud at ex-lovers. The bleakest lyrics come in the black "Hanging Tree," when Mould asks over a siren of feedback, "Should I throw myself from the hanging tree/Is there a place for those of us who don't belong/I haven't found it yet."

The best tracks on the album are also the most "Workbook" like, the rhythmic "Hear Me Calling" and the Beatlesque "Out of Your Life."

Symptoms show addiction

My wife seems to be exercising more and more. She has always been a fitness buff, but lately it seems to be taking over her life. Sometimes when I want to take her out for dinner, she can't join me because she is going to class.

Recently, she was injured and I thought this would slow her down, but it didn't. She just changed the type of exercise she was doing.

I am a little worried about her as well as being resentful of the time it is taking away from us. I have tried to talk to her about it, but she tells me that I am imagining things and that there is nothing wrong with her.

Can people exercise too much? Can that be as big a problem as not exercising at all? I am not an ex-

Worried Husband

Dear Worried Husband,

erciser.

This is a complicated problem. You are really asking two questions. They are, not necessarily in order of importance: (1) Can a person exercise too much? (2) What should I do about the resentment I feel toward my wife?

The first has a clearer answer, so I will give you my initial response.

Yes, a person can most definitely exercise too much and your wife has some of the symptoms that are tiposs to exercise addiction. She organizes her life around her workouts and sometimes she works out despite injury, using them to avoid interacting with you.

That she is unable to see the problem is typical of addictions. Your wife doesn't seem to have a choice; she is driven to exercise. Nagging her about the dangers of what she is doing will do no good. Whatever she is avoiding seems far more dangerous to her than any physical problems she may encounter because of overextending herself. In this area, both reality and awareness have been eradicated.

Now to the second question of how to cope with your resentment toward her. The answer to this is, unfortunately, not so unambiguous. I do not know you, so I don't know what you want to do, what you could do or are able to do. It is true that if the marital problem could be solved, then the exercise problem would disappear.

At the outset of this column, I promised not to send correspondents off to therapists. I have said once before, and repeat now, that that was a naive perception on my part. I find that to be responsible, I must recommend therapy more and more. In one way that is good because it says that many problems are not unsolvable. It says that there are answers, even when the future seems bleak. Competent therapy can truly be beneficial in helping many kinds of Brother Lester takes out an "insurance policy" by sending his enforcer and man-of-all jobs, Vincent (George Buza), to deposit $2 million cash in a numbered Swiss account. Vincent is an ex-con who has found God. He's also very effective in doing whatever needs to be done.

BOBBY JOE'S response to these hard times is a visit to the old neighborhood where Reverand Dan started his ministry. The building now houses a rowdy bar and the inspiration Bobby Joe seeks appears in the form of a raunchy bar singer, Ruth (Ellen Greene).

Bobby Joe recognizes the similarities between the passions she stimulates in the noisy bar and those his father elicited during hellilre-and-brimstone sermons. Bobby Joe convinces Ruth to sing in his TV church and the rest, as they say, "is show business history.' That's exactly the point, the similarities between religion, show business and, in fact, the media as a whole. Television networks and their programming tactics receive a number of well-placed (and well-deserved) barbs as they move in onwhat quickly becomes "The Sister Ruth Show" with Rev. Bobby Joe Stuckey. But the knife of satire is used deftly.

TV investigative reporter Chet Madison (Winston Rekert) is a handsome devil who complicates matters, and the bottom line is a very literate discussion of science, various religious positions, faith, the media and their tactics, family integrity, abortion and, as well, human nature in general.

That's a pretty tall order, but "Glory, Glory" deals well with those topics in an entertaining manner with excellent production values.

CHIEF AMONG those virtues is the acting. In particular, Whitmore is a marvelous conniving, bandylegged devil who knows no limits in protecting the Church of the Cham-pions of Christ, which, no matter what, is his only life, his family. Whitmore is transparent (to viewers) in his devious ways but does it with such aplomb and conviction that he winds up drawing a superb portrait of an obsessive but lovable crook. Thomas is effectively bland, which may sound like a contradiction, but it fits the image required, particularly with his occasional flashes of authority.

Top it off with Greene's raunchy but sensitive portrait of a lovely, talented but tortured woman and this slightly too long film works extremely well. Her musical numbers and the ending could have been shortened by 20 or so minutes to good effect.

Other production values also suport these performances. Sister Ruth's rock'n'roll/gospel numbers, albeit too long, are entertaining and well-staged, as is her continually obscene but sprightly irreverance. That manner is a good contrast for credible conversion — even if it isn't a conventional one.

Costumes and settings are right on and have more impact than one gen-erally finds on television. A very literate script with clever commentary on the many issues raised by "Glory, Glory," added to an excellent sound-track and good camera work plus effective directing and editing results in a worthwhile evening in front of your VCR.

Companies like Detroit Edison, EDS and Consumers Power have Jumped on the health-kick bandwagon by offering in-house fitness centers and nutritious choices in the company cafeterias.

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographs Gregory Lewis liked the physical activity in his hourly job and, as a supervisor, uses the company gym to replace that workout.

- Health programs and on-site exercise centers in the workplace have become popular in recent years because whatever it takes to keep the employees in good shape benefits the company by cutting medical costs.

According to Bill Deneau, recreation coordinator for Detroit Edison, the company offers 32 clubs ranging from stamp collecting to crafts. And physical fitness equipment is available at the Edison Athletic Association center.

The activities, he said, are "more by the design of the employees rather than management."

Edison's in-house gymnasium at it downtown Detroit offices, offers volleyball, basketball, squash and racquetball. There's also a weight room, sauna and showers,

It took Gessner, an assistant to the marketing manager for special projects, a couple of years to examine his lifestyle before utilizing what Edison had to offer.

HE WORKED FOR McKinsey & Co., a management consultant, before joining Detroit to help with a reorganization. During that time, he worked 70-80 hours a week, the 43-year-old West Bloomfield resident said.

"After about 18 months, I began to feel worn-out," he said. "I spent my evenings talking, working, eating pizza and popcorn."

Gessner began to look over those months in terms of his physical health. He realized he had given up the small amount of exercising he was doing and had gained 20 pounds. Just when he was in the range where he thought he was in decent shape, he found he was way out of shape. With the realization came a reduction in his work week from 70 to 50 hours and time to

"I started jogging and got into the aerobic program and watched what I was eating," he said. "At the time my goal was 205 pounds."

Gessner weighed 225 at the time. He lost 20 pounds and then decided to shoot for 185 pounds, which he has reached and maintained.

In addition to the aerobic classes at Edison, he works out on the Nautilus and biking systems in the gym, especially during the winter.

Right now, I jog three times a week and then once every other week, I do some other activity," he said. "I'm into the racquetball playoffs, too."

Ryan buffed and puffed running after his 2-year-old son. Food Service manager at Electronic Data Systems Corp., Ryan participated in a company co-paid Weight Watchers group and lost 40 pounds.

WHEN HIRED by EDS, Ryan became part of a nutrition team that developed the Heart Smart menu introduces in the EDS caleteria five years ago. In his position, he consults with the firm's health and fitness department as well as utilizing the input of the staff at the corporate level.

Ryan is a runner and plans to race in the New York marathon this fall. He runs 20-30 miles a week to stay "It was something I did just to lose weight, and it turned into something I really enjoy now," said the Port Huron resident of his favorite sport. "I think any kind of management job has inherently some stress with it. Between running and some other activities (he also does aerobics), it is a great way to relieve some of that stress. If you go out for a 5-7-mile run, it is pretty hard to feel stressed out."

Even though Ryan shed his excess weight at a Weight Watchers program outside EDS, the firm does have one on-site at its Southfield location. The company doesn't have a exercise fitness center, but it does sponsor multiple workshops on diet and exercise and provides a directory of special rate memberships at local health clubs, gyms and YMCAs.

"ONE OF THE interesting aspects of health and fitness program is its holistic approach to fitness," said Ruth Stanton, public relations representative. "Our specialists don't see it as simply exercise and diet, but rather that every part of a person's life contributes to their overall well being."

The Norman and Janet Ostrum Home (Colonial Revival) at 126 Lincoin is on tour for the first time. Its arts and crafts movement-styled interior is a perfect showcase for the decorating talents of Janet, who has used a variety of traditional painting techniques to complement the many auction "finds" displayed throughout the home.

NEXT IS the Frances Barger and William T. Barger home, an example of Gothic Revival architecture built in 1868. Of special interest are the unusual lighting fixtures throughout, from a Waterford chandeller to a copper-and-brass chandelier with Durand glass globes.

Historic home tour nears

THIS YEAR'S special feature is also the oldest home on tour. The Wirtz Farmhouse, owned by Helen Wirtz, is an example of a Greek Revival Workman's Cottage, and dates from 1838. The pegged, timber-framed structure includes a keeping room with fireplace built to Benjamin Franklin's exact specifications.

Private homes are not the only attractions on the tour. Craft Photographic Studio, an 1869 Italianate first built as medical offices for homeopathic physician Seth Coons, also has functioned as a funeral parlor. Now the first floor serves as office and studio for award-winning photographer. Dennis Craft, while the second floor is his family's living quarters.

Built in 1834, the Greek Revival annex housing Bayberry House Interiors is believed to be part of the oldest building in Marshall. The rear portion of the home of lawyer-turned-Congressman Isaac Crary originally served as the servant's quarters. Joists supporting the first floor are felled trees and retain their original bark.

A finely honed vision led to the renovation of the Kinney apartment, on the second floor of a circa 1883 Italianate commercial building. The cupola in the kitchen is all that was left of the uppermost story after it was destroyed by fire in 1987. Rooftop gardens are reminiscent of those in MARSHALL'S MUSEUMS also will be on tour, giving visitors another view of the city's past.

The Marshall Historical Society's headquarters, the Honolulu House, will once again open its doors, along with the Grand Army of the Republic Hall, the society's archival center. Marshall missed becoming Michigan's state capital by one vote in 1847, and the Greek Revival house built for the prospective governor also will be open.

A short distance away is the completely restored 1860s schoolhouse, Capitol Hill School (Gothic Revival). This museum is next door to Michigan's oldest fairgrounds, which will be the site of an antique and crafts show.

Home tour hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 9. Tickets are $10. Children younger than 12 are free.

Tickets can be bought at booths at the city's entrance points and at all houses on tour. Ticket prices include both days of the home tour. Parking and shuttle service is free.

aids students AN OPEN letter to high school students: For better or worse, it's time to head back to school, and no doubt you've renewed your vows to do well. I'd like to discuss two mat-

organizing

Attitude and organization are habits that can make or break your success. This is equally true now, while you're in school, as well as later, when you become a doctor, a scientist, a businessperson or a Marine.

If you choose to take a positive attitude (it is your choice, you know), you can do anything you set out to do. If you complain that other kids are smarter than you, you don't realize the only difference between you and them is that they have a good attitude and are more organized in their studying. Hence, they appear smarter. If-you work smarter, you'll excel, too.

If you have a negative attitude about everything, you'll find you can't do anything. If your work is "too hard," if your teacher "sucks," if you "can't stand" the kids around you, if your classes are "boring," if you don't understand your assignments but you refuse to get extra help (which is always available all you have to do is ask), then you must take responsibility for your own attitude and the failure that will surely happen as a result of it.

INSTEAD OF concentrating on how boring the teacher is, try just talking to the woman (or man). If you'll start getting into the topics and maybe even argue with the teacher more, you'll be amazed how much faster class time will go and how quickly you'll pick up the subject. Your work will even seem easier. Also, by your taking an interest, your teachers will just naturally like

18 011-10

If you choose to take a positive attitude (it is your choice, you know), you can do anything you set out to you better, and you'll end up with better grades as a result. I promise!

The more organized you are, the more successful you'll be at anything. If you put your books and papers where they belong, you'll always be able to find them. If you'll set a regular time to study earlier in the day, your whole evening will be free. If you'll write down your assignments, where you can find them, vou'll never lose or forget them. There's nothing "cute" about "getting away" with being sloppy.

Most kids think they'll "shape up" when they grow up, but now - today - is your life. Life doesn't start next year, or after you get out of college, or when you get a job or get married. This is your life now.

The only way you can compete in society's ever-increasing pace is to learn early to make good use of your time. That just means taking advantage of the time you have to do your work well, so you'll have time for fun later. It's that simple.

It's up to you (and no one else) to do the best you can. If you do, you'll enjoy life a lot more.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl's fall time management seminars will begin at the Birmingham Community House and at Schoolcraft College in Livonia this month.

Free tours of the Wayne County Building, 600 Randolph, Detroit, 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 9, will be offered as part of "Architects Sunday," sponsored by the Detroit Chapter of the American Institute of Architects in conjunction with the Old Wayne County Limited Partnership; Smith, Hinchman &
