Schools fret over possible loss of busing

By Darrell Clem staff writer

A proposal to eliminate busing for Wayne-Westland schools has raised fears about the safety of 5,000 students who would be forced to walk to school or find an alternate ride.

The plan also would cause severe traffic congestion around schools, an attendance decline and layoffs of bus drivers, school officials said. "I think it's an extremely serious problem," said Thomas Svitkovich, associate superintendent of adminis-

School busing would be eliminated if district voters reject a proposed

7.75-mill tax increase in the special March 13 election. The only exception would be for students in statemandated special education programs, but even those bus routes would be adjusted.

Busing cuts are part of a massive budget-slashing plan that school officials will implement unless voters approve the tax hike that would raise an additional $11.5 million a: year in property taxes and increased state revenues for the financially strapped district. The ballot proposal would have the millage levied for

The school district currently buses 5,400 of its nearly 17,000 students.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of pupils who depend on buses could be forced to walk to and from school in some cases long distances, school officials said.

MOREOVER, THE safety of those students - and others who already walk to school - could be jeopardized by a dramatic increase in school neighborhood traffic as many parents begin driving their children, Svilkovich said.

Traffic at some schools could increase by as many as 400 vehicles each morning and afternoon, he add-

Sgt. Peter Brokas of the Westland Police Department's traffic division agreed there could be safety hazards requiring a closer watch on school neighborhoods.

"I don't really know how much of an impact (the elimination of busing) would have," Brokas said. "We'd have to monitor it closely." Transportation to and from school could become especially troublesome for students who have only one parent, who have two working parents, or who come from low-income families lacking transportation, school officials said.

But Svitkovich said school officials have "no choice" but to eliminate busing — a move that he said would save the district an estimated $500,000 a year and help ease the budget crunch. The 36-square-mile district has never before had to halt busing.

Aside from student safety concerns, school officials also cited worries about a potential drop in attendance and busing-related layoffs,

Bus drivers push millage

Layoffs likely if vote fails

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Wayne-Westland school bus drivers expect to hang up their keys if a proposed millage falls in the special March 13 election.

"They're worried about their jobs," said bus driver Janet Croft.

School officials have not determined how many of the district's nearly 60 bus drivers would be laid off if the proposed 7.75-mill tax increase fails, causing the elimination of busing except for special education students.

The move also would affect dozens of mechanics, school bus aldes and substitute drivers.

"We know if it (the millage) goes down, we would be without a job," said Denise Thomas, the bus drivers' union steward.

Some bus drivers have joined efforts to push for voter approval of the millage, which, if passed, would keep busing and other school programs and services intact.

"The bus drivers are all working to get the millage passed," Croft said. "But a lot of them don't even live in the district." Though the elimination of busing would affect many school employees, perhaps its most stinging effect would be on the 5,400 students who ride to school. Busing would be halt-

The state requires districts to provide transportation for special education students. SOME BUS drivers question how students can expect to receive a good education if they have difficulthes getting to and from school. "Evidently that's not how the school board looks at It," Thomas said. "But they have to do what they have to do." Meanwhile, with the miliage election just three weeks away, supporters have beefed up efforts to win passage of the five-year proposal that would generate an additional $11.5 million a year in property tax and state aid revenues.

Supporters hope to reach some 25,000 households, either by direct visits or by telephone, prior to March 13,

Mayor seeks 4% pay raise for city aides

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas has proposed raising the ceiling on salaries for appointed city officials by 4 percent.

The plan, on which the city council Tuesday postponed action, would set new ceilings on salaries for some 20 city employees. The proposal came before the council just one week after salaries of elected city officials, including the mayor and the seven city council members, were frozen for two years.

Though Thomas had recommended salary freezes for himself and the city council, he has indicated that increases are warranted for some appointed city officials.

Current salaries of appointed officials fall well below the ceilings that would be set if the city council accepts the mayor's recommendation. Thomas is now preparing specific salary increase recommendations for each official.

"I think he would be prepared very shortly, if this (salary scale) is adopted, to make those recommendations," said Kent Herbert, personnel director.

Under the plan, a top salary of $54,023 would be established for the positions of city clerk, public service director, finance director, fire chief, police chief and personnel director. salary would be $34,950. The proposed minimum salary would be $39,957.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT Thomas Brown agreed, saying Continental's service has remained poor in recent years despite rates that have increased from $7.45 to $16.95.

At one point, Brown remarked, "I would say we close it (cable) up and make Continental deliver what they said they would in the contract. . . .

Brown later added, however, that local programming should continue under a temporary contract with Fassett. Brown said that Artley, who could have broken Tuesday's deadlock vote, favored the extension, though some council members appeared unconvinced.

Though Mayor Thomas said he has chosen a potential successor to Fassett, he drew criticism from some council members for failing to submit his alternate plan. Thomas has not yet named his choice.

Court rejects complaint against Councilman Mehl

By Darrell Clem staff writer.

A court case against Westland City Council member Kenneth Mehl, accused of zoning ordinance violations at a Warren Road bar he coowns, has been dismissed.

Judge Leo K. Foran of the 20th tossed out the case because the city of Westland failed to follow proceagainst Mehl signed by a deputy court clerk.

Westland city attorney Charles Bokos, who represents the city council of which Mehl is a member, had also withdrawn from the case.

"It would be a conflict of interest for me to be prosecuting the case," Bokos said Tuesday.

Foran dismissed the case on Jan. District Court in Dearborn Heights 29. Edward Gunther, executive assistant to Westland Mayor Robert Thomas, said Tuesday that city offidures, for getting the complaint cials won't attempt to renew the charges because Mehl and Scott have corrected the ordinance viola-

But Thomas last year vehemently denied the charge and lashed out at Mehl for "moaning and groaning" because the mayoral candidate Mehl supported - Charles "Trav" Griffin - lost to Thomas.

Mehl and Scott had pleaded not guilty last June to the zoning ordinance violations written by Michael Cullity, Westland chief building inspector.

Mehl appeared pleased Tuesday that the case was dismissed from court, saying "it should have never been there in the first place.

"We didn't do anything wrong," he said. "I guess this will send a message (to the city) that we were definitely right."

Mehl had said that he and Scott already had planned to make the improvements at their bar, but added that contractors had been held up due to inclement weather.

Foran, in dismissing the case, said, "I would think that's the end of it."

Romulus woman arraigned in traffic deaths of 2 teens

By Darrell Clem staff writer

A Romulus woman pleaded not guilty Wednesday to causing the deaths of a Westland teenager and her Waterford Township friend during a head-on collision Aug. 8 on Hines Drive near Merriman.

Alita Bell, 21, appeared before 18th District Judge Gail McKnight on two counts of vehicular manslaughter in the deaths of Amy Lynn Alexander, 18, of Westland, and Frances Carol Roehl, 19, of Waterford.

Each count carries a penalty of up to 15 years in prison and a $7,500. fine. Knight scheduled a March 7 preliminary examination for Bell, who was released on a $5,000 personal bond. Bell is pregnant.

when the 1983 Pontiac Firebird they were riding in was struck head-on at 2:20 a.m. Aug. 8 by a 1984 Chevrolet Camaro Z-28 carrying Bell and Stephen Delossantos, 23, of Livonia.

Though Bell has disputed claims she was driving, Detective Walter Halowka of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said during Wednesday's arraignment that two witnesses contend they saw Bell behind the wheel. Bell lost control of the vehicle and crossed the center line at the time of the accident, Halowka said.

Halowka said Bell was speeding at 79 mph in a 40 mph zone and had been drinking alcohol prior to the collision, though he said her blood alcohol level was not known.

Wayne-Westland wouldn't be the only Wayne County district to eliminate busing to cope with budget woes. Taylor schools last September halted busing for one month, then restored it when voters approved a 4.9mill tax increase.

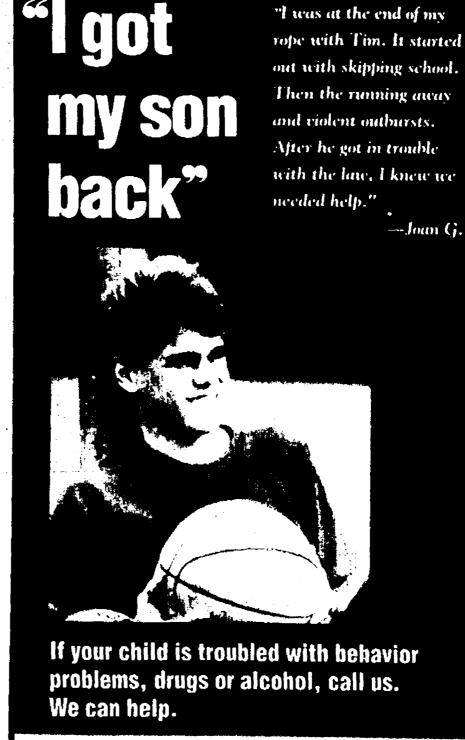

'We got calls from parents who were angry that transportation had been eliminated," said Clara Sellors, assistant to the superintendent.

The Taylor schools situation mir-several ways.

Taylor had made general fund cuts in various areas, such as athletles and textbook purchases, and also, had seen two miliage proposals defeated before the 4.9-mill tax increase was eventually approved.

Wayne-Westland school officials are hoping that they, too, will have better luck with the third proposal. They have stressed that a successful millage would not only avert deeper budget cuts, but also would allow the district to restore programs and services cut last year.

Choice plan doesn't stir fear of Livonia school loss

By Marie Chestney staff writer

The Livonia school district's top administrator feels confident that if the state adopts a cross-district schools of choice policy, one thing is

More students from outside the district will try to enroll in the Livonia system then those now in the district looking elsewhere for their K-12 education.

That was the view of school Supertintendent Joseph Marinelli, whose district includes the northern section of Westland.

"I believe this community perceives this district as one providing a quality education," Marinelli said. "I believe more students will desire to enter than those who want to

Beyond that certainty, however, the superintendent sees a myriad of unanswered questions that must be resolved before the cross-district choice plan as proposed by Gov. John Engler becomes a reality.

MANY OF these questions involve money, the longtime nemesis of public education in Michigan.

For example, who pays the cost of busing students outside their own district?

When students leave one district for another, where does their state aid go? To the old district? To the new one?

If it goes to the new district, what if it's not enough? Who makes up the difference?

Should Livonia school district taxpayers subsidize the education of students from outside their district?

"The incentives we will get for taking students from outside the district are unclear," said Marinelli, who expects the Michigan Legislature to work out the details of En-some form of school-of-choice law.

Under the plan, which Engler wants to implement in 1992 or 1993, the district would be limited in the first year to 165 students coming into the district. The limit is one student per 100 students already in the district. The current enrollment is Engler's plan is endorsed by the Michigan Board of Education and opposed by the Michigan Education Association.

THE THEORY behind schools of choice is that by injecting competition into education, lower-quality schools and districts would be forced to improve.

"The state has put school districts on notice that they need to compete in the marketplace to survive," Marinelli said. "It's an excuse by the state to avoid confronting the issues of providing a quality education to all students, no matter where they live in Michigan. "It will cause a crumbling of those schools who are left behind. The answer is to shore those schools up and make them better, not turn your back on them."

Cross-district schools of choice could lead to overcrowding in a higher-quality school district such as the Livonia system, Marinelli said.

Livonia is now experiencing a growth spurt which is expected to increase the district's enrollment to 20,000 by the year 2,000.

THROUGH ITS magnet schools, district students already can take part in a schools-of-choice program.

Magnet programs include the gifted programs for elementary, middle and high school students, the math, science and computer program at Churchill; the creative and performing arts program at Churchill, the global education program at Steven-schools."

gler's proposal and eventually pass son; and numerous programs at the skills center.

The district provides transportation for these magnet programs.

The district also allows students to attend whichever of its schools they wish - so long as parents provide the transportation and space is available.

The cost of inter-district transportation and the staggering logistics of moving hundreds of students from district to district loom as two major obstacles to cross-district schools of choice, Marinelli said.

"It sounds really impossible," Marinelli said. "Look at a map and think of all the possibilities."

IF IT'S decided that families must provide their own transporation, then the division between the richer and the poorer will be further exacerbated, Marinelli said.

"It would discriminate against students who can't provide the transportation. The 'haves' would still have the opportunity for a better education and the 'have nots' still "Those left behind are poor and have far more problems. We shouldn't desert these school districts. It will just aggravate the problems for those left behind." In 1987, Minnesota became the first state to pass legislation launching a statewide, interdistrict open enrollment plan for the public

Since then, 20 states have either passed choice legislation or are considering doing so.

"In Minnesota, research has shown that the biggest reason for students choosing another school district were for reasons of convenience for parents," Marinelli sald. "The school was close to where they worked, or on the way to work. That's a poor excuse to switch to let the employees be paid a lump sum for up to 12 days of unused vacation days, which could not be carried over to the next year.

THE ONLY area that raised concerns Tuesday night was a proposal

Councilman Kenneth Mehl said employees should take their vacation days during the year and not be paid for unused days.

"It's like getting a bonus for not taking vacation days," he said.

Mehl asked for a postponement on adoption of the salary schedule - a move that drew no objections from other city council members.

New systems boost stolen car recover

By David F. Stein special writer

On a cold April morning last year, Plymouth firefighter Robert Degan left for work, only to find a pile of shattered glass where he parked his 1989 Chrysler LeBaron the night before. Sixty-two minutes later, Detroit police found the car by tracking a signal from its hidden and silent radio transmitter - a new, hightech weapon in the war on auto theft.

Degan's car was the first recovered in Michigan through the LoJack Corp.'s Stolen Vehicle Recovery System. Since April, the Massachusettsbased firm has sold about 2,000 units in Michigan, while outfitting 300 area police cars with free tracking LoJack's special hookup to the Michigan State Police crime computer in East Lansing detects the theft report for a customer's car. A radio signal then activates the car's transmitter, hidden in any of three dozen locations. The coded transmitter signal, relayed over the eight Lojack radio towers in southern Michigan, guides police within a 12-to-25-mile range to the stolen car.

DAVE GALDES, new car sales manager at Fox Hills Chrysler Plymouth on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, where Degen bought his LeBaron, is impressed with LoJack.

"If we are asked to recommend a system, we recommend LoJack because of its guarantee. (See related story.) I think the alarms with bells and whistles are a thing of the past, thieves can find a way around it.

"Someone can steal a car with Lo-Jack, but they better be prepared for the police," Galdes said.

Locally, the Wayne County Sher-, iff's Road Patrol, based in Livonia

Jack leader with 16 of 23 recoveries in Michigan so far,

"A system like LoJack is a trecharge of park patrol and secondary roads for the Wayne County Sheriff's -Department. The department has 12 LoJack-equippped patrol cars.

LoJack's national record, based on 1,200 recoveries, is impressive.

"Police using LoJack average a 95 percent recovery rate and a 20 to 25 percent arrest record, compared to the national average of less than 5 percent," said David W. Manly, Lo-Jack's vice president for sales and marketing. The national recovery rate for stolen cars is 64 percent.

"Top gun" on Zahn's squad, with five LoJack recoveries, is Deputy Kevin Losen.

"I love it, it works great," said Losen, the only officer involved in a pursuit of a LoJack-equipped car.

In that case, Losen was able to arrest three out of four suspects, including the driver of the stolen car.

"The suspects were definitely surprised, then the driver saw the LoJack screen and knew how it happened," said Losen.

LOSEN, a seven-year veteran, said the Wayne County Road Patrol's success with LoJack recoverles is due to unit officers already having a good recovery record for occupied stolen vehicles.

"We already are attuned to recovering stolen vehicles. I look at Lo-Jack as a tool, the same as the radar unit on our cars," Losen said.

The only glitch in the LoJack approach, said Zahn, is the delay be-on Edward Hines Drive, is the Lo- tween a car's theft and the report of the theft to authorities.

Once on the trail, however, the Lo-Jack system is fast. The Wayne mendous asset to law enforcement. Carl Zahn, in also credit the large number of Lo-Jack recoveries to their unit's large area of responsibility and officer familiarity with roads.

While the Michigan State Police and the Wayne Sheriff's Department do not endorse any particular stolen vehicle recovery system, the silent. approach to stolen cars has several advantages.

The first is safety.

"You're not running around with lights and siren," Zahn said. "It is a covert operation, which in itself leads to a safer situation for officers."

In addition, one recovery has led officers to an unreported stolen car. Zahn said that mapping of recovery patterns may lead to the breakup of stolen car rings.

"There is no doubt that there are organized groups who literally go shopping for specific cars," said Zahn, who has 23 years service with the sheriff's department.

between thefts and recovery locations," he added. Zahn also emphasized that LoJack

GOP reps seek more day care inspection

By Tim Richard staff writer

State inspection of child care homes should be more frequent not eliminated - several suburban Republican legislators agree.

"Even if they restore the full $3 million (for inspections), they can't get the job done," Rep. Lyn Bankes of Livonia, chairwoman of a GOP' task force on child care, said Tues-

"Either we've gotta give a lot more cavalry (inspectors) or deregulate. We've got to do something," said Rep. Bill Martin of Battle Creek.

"If you don't have licensing. you'll have warehousing of kids,' said Ted Ewald, who heads the licensing and regulation program of the state Department of Social Services and is scheduled to lose his job March 16.

INSPECTION of 17,000 child care facilities is tied up in a partisan budget battle that Republican Gov. John Engler's administration and legislative leaders are waging behind closed doors.

Bankes and Rep. Sue Munsell of Howell blame House Democratic leaders for the need to cut an already underfunded program.

The battle unfolded like this: • In December the Legislature and outgoing Gov. James Blanchard approved a 9.2 percent budget. but for almost everything but school aid and colleges.

• In mid-January, Engler submitted budget proposals that would have restored many programs, including child care home inspections and ADC welfare payments. But majority Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee -rejected Engler's proposals. That to six children apiece. These are put the 1990 cuts of 9.2 percent back into effect.

• Dr. Gerald Miller, Engler's DSS director, says that in order to maintain welfare payments, the licensing and regulation of child care facilities must be dropped.

"The DSS was made ineffective by the 9.2 percent cut," said Munsell. "It (cutting inspections) is not the governor's suggestion. For the seven to 12 children and at least most part, the public agrees with the governor."

JOINING BANKES and Munsell for Tuesday's task force meeting and inspected.

were Reps. Jan. Dolan of Farmington Hills, Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield and Gerald Law of Plymouth Township.

Dobb raised questions about the parents' duty to inspect child care facilities themselves.

DSS's Ewald told war stories of children being abused and a girl burning her hand on an unprotected wood stove. "The father said, with tears in his eyes, How could you let them to this to my daughter?' I said, 'We're in here (to inspect) once a year, you're here every

"Remember that when people tell you parents can inspect," said Bankes. The fourth-term lawmaker made it clear state inspection is the only way to assure safer child care facilities. But she said that even with an inspection program, DSS was 1,400 cases behind and has only half the inspection staff it

MARTIN OF Battle Creek suggested that state inspection "Is a good deal for the insurance companies. We (the state) do all their investigatory work; they just issue a policy."

Bankes countered: "A major provider of child care insurance is in my district. If licensing is dropped, they'll cancel everybody."

Dolan asked whether inspectors in sparsely populated areas could be multiply trained to check foster care facilities as well as child care, but Ewald said the programs were too different.

EWALD SAID 235,000 Michigan youngsters are in some kind of state-licensed child care. There

• 2,000 day care homes with up only registered with the state; operators are given a three-hour orientation and their backgrounds checked. They are inspected once, 90 days after their certificates are issued. State law says a sampling must be inspected annually, but Ewald said, "We're not able to do

• 1,400 group homes, each with two workers. These are licensed and inspected. • 3,500 larger preschool centers such as KinderCare, also licensed

Abortion ban overturned Pro-choice happy, pro-life plans appeal

By Wayno Peal staff writer

Members of western Wayne County's pro-choice and pro-life movements were equally stunned by the Michigan Appeals Court ruling Wednesday striking down a state ban on Medicaid abortions.

But while pro-choice forces were elated with their unexpected victory, pro-life groups vowed to fight on. "It's great," said Jo Isgro, president of the western Wayne County chapter of the National Organization for Women. "It shouldn't matter whether you're rich or poor."

"I just wish pro-life people would hear some of the phone calls I hear," Isgro said.

The ruling lifted spirits of a prochoice movement still reeling from the 1988 Medicaid funding election loss, as well as last year's parental consent legislation.

"IT'S BEEN a long time since there was a pro-choice victory," said Mary Ohlendorf of Planned Parenthood, which operates family clinics in Detroit and Livonia.

The Michigan Abortion Rights Action League hailed the ruling as a "welcome relief to the thousands of poor women who have been denied their constitutional rights", in a statement from executive director legislators off guard. Carol L. King.

"Hopefully, this will all come to an' end with today's ruling," the statement concluded.

That, however, isn't likely. Right to Life of Michigan plans to appeal the ruling, said director Barbara Listing. Michigan Supreme Court," Listingsaid only hours after the ruling came down. "Our attorneys are looking at the situation right now." Pro life groups were especially dismayed the court struck down the 1988 ballot issue.

"People have spoken on this issue and they've clearly indicated they don't want their money to go to Medicaid abortions," said Ann Thomas, president of Right to Life/Lifespan of Metro Detroit, Livonia.

Pro life groups are calling on state Attorney General Frank Kelley to join in the appeal, Thomas said.

"WE ARE disappointed the appeals court is overlooking the will of the people, but we expect the attorney general to pursue this to the state supreme court," she said. "If he drags his feet, we expect the governor to persuade him to follow the will of the people."

The ruling appeared to catch state

"They overturned the ballot issue?" said an obviously surprised Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, generally considered a pro-choice legislator. "That's obviously a surprise."

"If the rationale is that people shouldn't be excluded because of income, then I agree with that," said "We will file an appeal to the Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland. "But we're going to have to wait and see what happens."

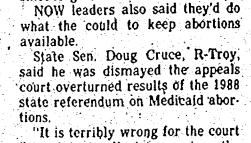

Pro-life legislators said they couldn't understand the appeals court's rationale.

"My understanding is the U.S. Supreme Court has already ruled twice that states don't have to finance abortion," said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

Others predicted the ruling would re-start the abortion debate in Lans-

"As a pro-life legislator, I'm disappointed," said Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, "But this will cause pro-life legislators to take a different course."

(by a 2 to 1 ruling) to overturn the ban," said Cruce, who voted against 'state-provided abortions, "Both judges have a clear history of being pro choice. The courts must realize that government must represent the people and judges can't substitute their cockamamie personal blas."

Cruce said the ban against statefunded abortions was supported by a margin of nearly 2 to 1 statewide. "The people clearly opposed statefunded abortions."

Theft busters High tech systems a glimpse of future

The high-tech, silent pursuit of stolen cars may preview "smart" cars of the future, able to receive messages and even commands from traffic monitoring and control systems.

Both LoJack, around since 1986, and newcomer Intercept from Code-Alarm are now being promoted heavily in metro Detroit. The goal for both is to recover a car before it is stripped for parts. Be alert to the differences in costs and features reviewed here.

LoJack

WHAT AND HOW: A hidden radio transmitter is activated once a LoJack car is reported stolen. A coded, high-frequency radio signal (173.73 MHZ) guides police units within a 12-25 square mile range to the stolen car. LoJack spent $2-$3 million in Michigan to build eight radio towers and put tracking units into police cars. The state leases the software and activation system for $1 per year. Can be fitted to new or used cars and is available through new car dealerships or the LoJack of Michigan office in Southfield.

COST: $595, including backup battery. An additional $100 buys LoJack Prevent, a kill switch. No monthly fees. LoJack refunds the purchase price if a stolen vehicle isn't recovered within 24 hours of the report of the theft.

PRO AND CON: Well-tested and well-hidden. Excellent recovery record - 1,200 recoveries nationwide at a 95 percent recovery rate since 1986. Requires LoJackequipped police cars but authorities are keen on system. The main drawback is the chase does not begin until the vehicle is reported stolen. In some areas, the report have to be made in person. Also, cannot be moved to another car.

Code-Alarm Intercept

WHAT AND HOW: Tracking by Loran-C, a nationwide, low-frequency (100 KHz) location system of 14 towers, maintained by the U.S. Coast Guard. Activated by tampering with companion alarm

- the system's first line-of-defense. The Loran-C transmitter. hidden in the trunk, seizes the car's cellular phone, also needed for tracking. Code-Alarm's Madison Heights center immediately reports the event and vehicle position to police. Code-Alarm can also remotely kill the ignition, ending police chases. Installed at selected Code-Alarm dealers.

COST: $995 for Intercept module and Code-Alarm's XT high-end security system (about $550-$600 retail), which includes remote arm and disarm, shock sensor, illuminated entry and panic button; $1,495 with a DiamondTel Mesa 95 Series cellular phone. Backup battery is $50. Monthly maintenance fee is $19.95. No recovery guaran-

PRO AND CON: Instantaneous but indirect; police can be on the trail as soon as a car is stolen, but they must rely on Code-Alarm's initial report, like many home alarm systems and position updates. Can. track car anywhere in U.S. but Loran-C may be spotty in dense metro areas or some parts of the country. No consumer recoveries yet. Requires top-of-the-line Mitsubishi 800 or DiamonTel 95 cellular phone. Can be transferred to another car for about $150. Last month's -winner of "Popular Science's" "Best of What's New" award has one major disadvantage for marketers - it cannot be added to any of the more than one million Code-Alarm systems already on the

A final note. Insurance relief may be on the way for LoJack owners. In 1989, Massachusetts enacted a 35 percent reduction in comprehensive premiums for owners of complete LoJack systems (transmitter plus starter integrupt). Systems stop car theft

"The cars are out there doing normal traffic and police work. If the system goes off in a car, we are already there doing regular patrol;" he said.

This new high-tech crime-fighting builds on Michigan's auto theft. prevention success story of the last five years. While auto thefts increased more than 41 percent (1.1 million to 1.56 million) nationally from 1985 to 1989, they decreased 13 percent (65,297) in Michigan and 22 percent (37,931) in Wayne County in 1989.

MICHIGAN State Police Lt. Sandra S. Miller credits Michigan's Authomobile Theft Prevention Authority, the only one of its kind in the country. Established by the state Legislature in 1986, ATPA has receives $6 million annually in operating funds generated by a one dollar per car contribution from Michigan auto insurance companies.

"Because of ATPA fundings, we have become specialists in auto theft," said Miller, commander of the Western Wayne Auto Theft Unit, administered through a grant to Canton Township.

The special task force consists of seven state police officers and five officers from Wayne County police forces. They work closely with special state's attorneys -also funded by the ATPA - who work solely on auto theft prosecu-

The key to success, said Miller, is the program's emphasis on vertical prosecution.

"For the first nine months of this year, we had 520 arrest warrants for auto theft and 218 convictions," said Rosemary Gordon, Wayne County assistant prosecuting attorney with the auto theft unit.

The task force's latest success story is an eight-month investigation that led to the arrest and conviction this year of Charles Oxendine, 57, owner of Chuck's Auto-

Repair in Garden City: "He ran one of the largest fencing operations in southeast Michigan," Miller said. "He would buy stolen parts and sell them to innocent customers through his legitimate repair busi-; ness. This is the type of case an individual department wouldn't have the time to pursue."

OXENDINE, with an arrest record begun in 1953, was sentenced on Oct. 18 in Detroit Recorder's Court to a mandatory eightyear to 24-year term as a fourthdegree habitual criminal. He is now in Jackson Prison.

"We are trying to also target some of the demand side of the auto theft equation," Gordon said. 'We are willing to try circumstantial evidence cases. We have a noreduced plea policy, and we try to file habitual criminal reports: whenever possible."

The third part of the anti-theft; equation is community programs! like VIN (Vehicle Identification Number) etching of windows and the five-year-old Help Prevent! Auto Theft Hot line (1-800-242-HEAT). Since 1985, the confidential hot line has generated 2,504; tips, leading to 644 arrests and 9051 vehicle recoveries. More than $600,000 has been paid as rewards; for tips leading to arrest and convictions.

Just when states like Illinois and Texas are planning similar programs, the Michigan Automobile Theft Prevention Authority faces possible cutoff due to a sunset date of July 1, 1990. A bill eliminating the sunset clause failed to make it through the recent session of the state Legislature.

Divide Fassett's cable duties

HE WESTLAND City Council and Mayor Robert Thomas are at opposite ends when it comes to the renewal of Dennis Fassett's three-year contract as cable-TV coordinator and community relations direc-

Thomas gained some ground Tuesday night when the council Tuesday night tied 3-3 on a proposal to merely extend Fassett's contract, which expires March 1, for several months. Fassett has been doing cable and public relations work for the city as a contractor for more than six years.

Mayor Thomas doesn't think Fassett has done an effective job and wants him replaced.

The council has some problems with Fassett's performance and the proposed three-year length of the agreement. It also is upset about the frequent reruns of programs on the governmental channel (8).

But Fassett said that the problem will be resolved this year with the cable-casting of city council and governmental commission meetings.

Even one of Fassett's supporters, Councilman Ben DeHart, admitted that the cable coordinator's problems may be that Fassett is being too effective as the city's watchdog on the cable-TV franchise agreement with Continental Cablevi-

IF FASSETT'S contract is extended temporarily, it's time that the city separate two of the cable coordinator's main responsibilities, not only to resolve the political dispute between the mayor and council, but also to get Fassett and Continental out of each other's hair and help the city better monitor the franchise agreement.

Let Fassett handle the cable-TV and community relations activities and delegate the franchise agreement monitoring responsibility to someone else in the administration.

"With the city having unused funds from the 5 percent franchise fee paid to it by Continental, ties - the sooner the better.

The contract with Fassett or his replacement should divided to separate the monitoring of the franchise agreement from local programming.

cost shouldn't be a problem.

If that division of responsibilities is accomplished, Fassett (or the person the mayor wants as his replacement) can concentrate on cable program and community relations.

Someone else can then concentrate on monitoring the franchise agreement and building a professional relationship with Continental - in contrast with the squabbling that has been going on for several years.

Cable-TV is big business — nearly $8 million a year just in subscribers' fees — and it should be handled by the city in a business-like manner.

PART OF the Fassett-Continental problem is that Fassett thinks the cable company is ripping off the public in the area of rate increases and not living up to several requirements in the 1984 franchise agreement.

One is an apparent failure to provide a larger channel capacity. Another is not providing the required number of local programming hours.

The company has responded to the complaints - saying that the larger channel capacity technology wasn't available when the system was being installed in 1984. On the programming dispute, the company and Fassett have different definitions on what constitutes a local cable

That attitude has also created such a serious problem that Fassett and the company don't talk to each other, communicating only through writ-

Engler must educate our current workers

THE WAY I see it, Gov. John Engler's State of the State speech last week had one hit, one passed ball and one wild pitch.

The hit was his emphasis on education.

Calling it his "one absolute spending priority," Engler wants to make this generation of Michigan children the "best educated in our state's history." And he drew the connection between well-educated children and jobs, "good jobs, secure jobs - right ,here at home."

Nobody doubts the linkage. Despite the well-publicized warning 15 years ago of a "rising tide of mediocrity" in our schools, America continues to fall behind our international competitors in educating our

This is double true in Michigan, where our manufacturing base and tradition of high wages require our workers to be highly productive.

We have dilly-dallied far too long in Michigan about improving our IMPROVEMENT WON'T come overnight. And that's where the passed ball comes in.

Engler seems to assume the only solution to our non-competitive labor force is in the schools. It isn't.

Consider the people working today whose skills are already low. They are unproductive and at grave risk of being displaced from their jobs. Some estimate that one worker in four is functionally illiterate. Others show that fully half our manufacturing workers are behind their peers in Japan or Germany in their work-reworking today whose skills are already low. They are unproductive and at grave risk of being displaced from their jobs.

Consider the people lated skills such as blueprint reading or computer keyboarding. A national study showed that if you project the work force in the year 2000, fully 85 percent already have left school and are at work today.

Engler's concentration on schools may be fine for the future, but what of the more than one million Michiganians already in the work force? Nothing. If fact, worse than noth-

Among the celebrated budget cuts proposed by Engler are virtually the entire state system of job training, ranked as among the best in the nation. On his cutting board are the Opportunity Card project, the Michigan Training Incentive Fund and the entire Michigan Youth Corps.

Of the original $36 million for "employment training" and "job training services" in the Labor Department's budget, the Engler administration proposes to cut $31 million. That 85 percent slash is aimed directly at investments in the skills and productivity of Michigan's working people.

THE WILD PITCH has to do with the controversial proposal to cut school property taxes by 20 percent.

Engler called it a "job creation" tax," arguing that Michigan's property tax burden is among the highest in the nation, a barrier to economic growth and new business formation.

While it certainly is true that we rely far more on the property tax than we should and that high propertaxes are one element that discourages economic growth, it by no means follows that cutting property taxes alone will stimulate growth. George Bush called that idea 'voodoo economics" when he was a candidate in 1980.

Senate majority leader Richard Posthumus says Engler's proposals will work in Michigan "much the same way that Reaganomics provided a great economic boon in the 1980s in the nation." If that's so, take

And to trade off important investments in our competitive skills job training programs, for example - against reduced property taxes seems dubious public policy at best.

School tax is opposed

I would like to address this letter to the Wayne-Westland Board of Education. It seems that the board members have failed to get the message sent to them by the voters of the district in the past two millage elections, that we are not willing to give them more money to waste.

In the hard times like we have now and have had in the recent past, large corporations have had to scale back and economize, cutting programs and changing plans, making cuts in personnel.

Unfortunately, our school district officials don't seem to be living in this same world, they feel they can keep right on spending and taxing (getting more tax money) at the same rate as in better times.

Even our state senators and representatives saw the handwriting on the wall and turned down their proposed pay raises. There are many, many seniors in this district who are on fixed incomes or have saved to enjoy relirement after many years of working and paying.

Would the school board and school district officials have them now deny themselves their plans and in some cases be forced to sell their homes because taxes are getting so out of control that they can no longer afford them.

Even those in apartments could be affected by higher rents because of higher taxes. What about the people who work for low wages and can just barely make it on what they make and who will pay higher taxes already just because of higher assessed value on their homes.

What about the people on layoff because of the falling economy who will have a hard time even without a tax increase.

There is another factor that the board needs to address before going to the voters and this is something that I have felt strongly about for quite some time, as have many people I have discussed the millage is-

It is time for the school officials in Wayne-Westland to learn to live within a budget, one which does not include an increase every time someone thinks up a new project or idea which will cost money they do not have.

The "money well" could very well go dry while they are arguing over how much more they are going to tell us they have to have.

I also feel that the board has scheduled this election so quickly and at a time when a great many seniors are out of the area, to take advantage of their absence to help their cause which is pretty much of a sneaky tactic.

I am also tired of them using the students as "hostages" with their threats of cuts. I believe our school

Support helped Marine's family

To the editor:

Bruce, the girls and I would like to express our heartfelt thanks to all the wonderful people who gave us so much love and support during our time of need.

Without this help we never could have made it through the past two weeks. The love and support has been overwhelming from the cards, the visitors at our home and the funeral home, from family, friends, coworkers, from school, the community and from strangers who just care. It is truly overwhelming.

We only hear on the news about the bad things that people do to each other but let me say this is not the case. Good people far outweigh the bad. We cannot ever express in words how we feel about all of you wonderful people.

Kurt was always our "hero" and I'm glad he is also a hero to all of you. I also admired his enthusiasm for life and in everything he did. He will be greatly missed.

God bless all of you and all our troops. You and they are the best. Thank you again.

THERE'S NO need to return to the conspicuous consuming suburban America of the decadent '80s. The days when there was a pot of colored pasta on every stove and a gas guzzler in every garage are definitely gone and probably best forgotten. Today's consumer should be in for a leaner, meaner, more ecologically correct kind of consumption.

Life, after all, does go on.

Choice is not passing fad

Question: Gov. Engler's Schools of Choice program already seems to be: panicking the teachers' organization. the Michigan Education Association (MEA) and also the Michigan Association of School Administrators (MASA). What's wrong with competition between districts? Is it that it. might shake up the present public school bureaucracy?

Answer: The issue of students crossing district lines has always been a major headache for local school districts. It is especially troublesome for those districts that offer a quality program but border with other school districts with weak educational opportunities, usually those with meager finances.

In fact, school districts with quality programs, for years, have been hiring full-time people whose only job is to check and verify the real address of any newly enrolled student. Oftentimes authorities find a non-existent address.

Why? The parents very simply want their child to receive a sound educational experience.

Yet when a quality, usually wealthy school district, picks up 100 students who are non-residents, they receive no state aid money and pay for the non-resident students' education out of local tax money.

Still the Schools of Choice concept is not a passing fad.

PRESENTLY, 30 states are under way with the school of choice conhave a voucher system (giving fami- school. And this firm was selected from several dozen other private sector bidders because of their previous success in Phoenix and suburban Minneapolis. Yet, 'even private contracting is not new!

But the real issue may be, as you indicated, the competition aspect. Educators are not conditioned to competing with each other as say the auto companies do.

Many school districts have been contracting with private, for-profit groups for years. Many districts contract out their food service program, some their maintenance and in some states, transportation. Adult education has contracted with the private sector for programs such as cosmetology for years. Outside for-profit organizations such as food service have in many cases been more cost effective. Why? Because if private companies don't do a superior job they will be continually badgered by those deeply ingrained status quo educators who consider any outside competition a threat and removed.

What does all this mean to most of the Observer & Eccentric readership communities? Very little, in my opin-

Few if any Observer & Eccentric area students, choice or not, will want to leave their own district, their own classmates, their friends to enroll in another school district. The exodus will be out of the poorer, more unfortunate school districts.

And it is also in these districts that competition from private companies will initially expand; in the districts with the poor, "hard to serve" children . . . such as are found in Dade County, Florida.

OF COURSE, the secret we all want to know is why are James, 98, and Relta, 92, still happy? Why do they feel the same about each other as the day they were married? "She had big brown eyes and that kind of hypnotized me or whatever you call it," James said.

We want to know this secret whether we will celebrate our 30th anniversary or have had a failed marriage. We want to know this whether we are teenagers dreaming of the person we will marry or a couple debating whether to make that commitment.

James and Retta credit their happiness to "lots of love and understanding" which is obviously laced with humor.

MOMS

Sounding taps after 50 years

By Sue Mason staff writer

Isabelle Brainard and Genevieve Letke are ready for the end. They don't believe that even media coverage can save them.

In a way, they're fatalists. Even though there are plenty of MOMS out there who could save it, they doubt if any would come forward to do so.

In their mind set, 50 years is long. enough.

Brainard and Letke are two of about 145 aging women who belong to the last five units of Mothers of Men (and Women) in the Service -MOMS for short. This October, 10 years after the national organization disbanded, the remaining units will close the books on the organization.

"The lifestyle's different now," said Letke. "Back when I joined, a lot of the mothers didn't work. Mothers work now and when they are at home, they're spending time with their families."

MOMS got its start in Dearborn in June 1941. At the time, young seamen where coming to the community to attend the Naval School of Instruction at the Ford Motor Co. They were a long way from home, with nothing to do in their free time. Families began taking in the young men on weekends and soon MOMS was formed.

The organization quickly caught on and by June 1944, it held its first convention.

MOMS UNITS could be found throughout the metropolitan and outstate areas. It spread to Pennsylvannia, New York, Texas, Maryland, Oklahoma, Iowa and other states through the Midwest and along the eastern seaboard.

Communities like Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City and Birmingham had MOMS units. Today, there are just five - No. 63 in Southfield, No. 66 in Troy, No. 17 in Hazel Park, No. 14 in Ortonville and No. 33 in Gingellville. Brainard and Letke belong to the Southfield

In its heyday, MOMS had 5,000 members; now it has 145.

"Used to be that at one time women fought to be president," said Letke. "But now this is Isabelle's second time."

From the beginning of World War II and continuing during the Korean War and the Vietnam conflict, MOMS dedicated itself to helping service personnel. The organization provided correspondence and "care" packages for troops as well as raising money for gifts for service personnel at the country's Veterans Administration hospitals.

But even as earlier as the end of Word War II, MOMS was on the "Right after World War II, unit after unit disbanded because they felt they weren't necessary anymore." Brainard said. No one anticpated yet another war within five years of such a global confrontation, she said.

Both Brainard and Letke joined MOMS during the Vietnam conflict. Brainard, who had a son in the service, went to a meeting in the mid-'60s to see what its was like and has been going every since.

"I'VE HELD an office every year but one," the Westland resident said.

Letke became acquainted with MOMS in 1967 after a friend called her about the group. At the time, she had both a son and daughter in the Air Force. She recalls that a meeting announce nent for the Southfield unit was printed in the Redford Record. It attracted some women who came to one meeting and never came back.

"I think they thought we were a social group," the Canton Township resident said. "Our aim is to raise money for the veterans."

Through benefits, where possible, the five remaining units raise money for veterans' services at the state's seven VA hospitals. It also helps out with Children's Village in Pontiac.

"We care about the veterans and we also care about the children of veterans who land there," Brainard Larger units such as Ortonville are able to use card parties and the like to raise money. Troy also has a large unit, but "only a few do anything," Brainard said.

The Southfield unit, with seven members, has resorted to a $25 per member yearly donation to raise money. Seven members have to bepresent to make a meeting quorum, but as membership has decreased, rules have been changed:

"WE HAVEN'T haven't had a quorum in months," Brainard said.

The twosome admit that disbanding the organization will be difficult. It is Brainard, as president who has the job of presiding over the final convention.

MOMS national organization decided to disband in 1981 due to declining membership and the Inability to attract new members and leaders. The same is true of the existing units. Today's mothers want support groups rather than MOMS, the women said.

Brainard was ready to end it all two years ago, but decided to give it two more years.

"My minister told me that after 50 years, it's probably run its course, but something will be there to take its place," she said. "There's going to be a lot of tears shed, but I think there'll be a lot of sighs of relief,

Patriotic tune is a tribute to armed forces

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Back in the summer, Mark Dalton was sitting in the back yard while his two sons, Matthew, 4, and Anthony, 2, were playing. Also present was Dalton's cousin, Marine Sgt. Kevin Naturally, the discussion turned to events of the Persian Gulf.

"My cousin turned to me and said, "How would you feel if your boys were going over there?" recalled Dalton, who lives in Allen Park.

The thought stuck with the musician. So much so, Dalton got together with his collaborator Ron Mladjan of Livonia to write "Patriotic Man," a country-pop number expressing the heartfelt feelings of serving one's country.

The song has been released as a cassette single and is available at Rick Allen Music in Westland and Gitfiddler in Northville. Profits from sales of the tape will be given to support groups for families with troops overseas.

Already, "Patriotic Man" has received air play on country stations WWWW-FM and WSDS-AM along with Armed Forces Radio, and has sold 500 of the 1,100 copies made.

Lyrics of the song are rather straight-forward, directed to those who have loved ones serving over-

"He heard the call for duty/and he chose to serve his land/He has made his own decision/He has chosen (he will always be my boy) to be a man."

"It's nothing about the war, sand or bombs," said Mladjan, who is a 1977 graduate of Livonia Franklin High School. "It's a patriotic song rather than a political one.

"THE SONG is made to soothe the" parents."

Dalton and Mladjan set up shop at the Gibraltar Trade Center to sell "Patriotic Man" along with other Support the Troops memorabilia, such as T-shirts, sweat shirts and badges.

A good deal of their time is also spent visiting family support groups. ever want to see 40 grown men cry in the area. Both are quick to point out that proceeds from the sale of "Patriotic Man" go directly to the individual organizations.

"It's important to make us look like we're not capitalizing off of this," Mladjan said. "We're donating our time and our efforts and our personal money from these tapes.

"Our main goal is to get a record contract, not to make money off of Patriotic Man.

Although the song was released three days after the Persian Gulf war started, "Patriotic Man" was written around Thanksgiving. Both Dalton and Mladjan (who goes by the stage name Ronnie J. Young) performed as part of a trio for several

During the past few years, they have been performing private functions such as weddings.

ON "PATRIOTIC Man," Dalton sings the lead vocals in addition to playing 12-string guitar. Mladjan provides backing vocals, keyboards, acoustic guitar and bass.

Pat Patton of Westland performs on lead guitar and Rick Jones of Lincoln Park helps out on drums and backing vocals.

Response to "Patriotic Man" has been extremely positive among support groups and radio listeners. The number received a 94 percent rating based on listener response on WWWW-FM's "Hit or Miss" seg-

Wildlife has its Powers

Late actor William Holden had a vision of protecting some of the world's most endangered species of Actress Stefanie Powers, a longtime companion of Holden's, knew there was more to it than that. The actor died in 1981 without realizing the second part of idea - educating people on how to preserve

"I guess when you share someone's dream," said Powers, "it partly becomes your own.

Ten years later, Powers continues to work to see that come to fruition. Today, Powers is president of the William Holden Wildlife Foundation - a public charity dedicated to preservation of wild animals in Kenya and educating people about those species.

So signing countless African animal figures from Novelino for two hours and 20 minutes Friday at the Laurel Park Jacobson's store is hardly a burden to her. Although after putting the cap on her pen, Powers let out a large sigh and slumped in her chair.

Powers was in the area, starring with longtime friend Robert Wagner in "Love Letters" at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

Part of the sales from the limited edition handcrafted-coldcast collector pieces will go to the Willlam Holden Wildlife Foundation. The series of figures range in price from $20 for a monkey to $250 for an antelope.

MANY OF those people in line were more than glad to buy the collector pieces, especially with someone as elegant and charming as Powers there to

The red-haired actress autographed each one with a smile that made her well-known in TV series, such as "Hart to Hart."

Powers took the time to chat with Maria DeLuca of Livonia and her two children. She discussed soccer with Richard, 10, and inquired how drama classes

Dear D.C.,

Handwriting can indeed be a wonderful tool to help us understand ourselves and others a little better. And each person is so unique and different from all others.

You, sir, are very people oriented. Seemingly, you have a need to be constantly involved with others and are quick to extend a helpful hand when others need you. This would include people in the work world and in your social life.

Usually, you are quite persuasive in your interactions with people. However, you can be a tad adversa-

Well, don't trash them. Send them to the Independent Order of Foresters Court Huron Valley No. 1546.

The non-profit fraternal group is collecting new and used Valentine cards and donations to finance a spring supply caravan to orphanages and hospitals in Romania.

The plight of an estimated 400,000 Romanian orphans first came to light in December 1989. Under the former Communist regime of Nicolae Ceausescu, Romanian women were required to have at least five children. Children who could not be supported by their families were sent to state institutions.

Kept in conditions that have been described as squalid and inhumane, up to 50 percent of the children suffer AIDS as the result of tainted blood transfusions and unsterile hypodermic needles.

When Jacqueline George went through the line, Powers asked the Plymouth attorney her Polish name. Powers is of Polish descent.

"I respect her cause for the wildlife in Africa," said George, carrying an autographed hippopotamus. "She's taken over William Holden's game preserve.

"Besides, Father Time has been good to her." Perhaps that is mainly because Powers is quite active. Her acting career has spanned both film, television and stage. After losing a part in the film version of "West Side Story" in 1961 because she was under-aged, Powers made her debut in "Among the Thorns." She then went on to make 25 motion pictures including a whole specter of teenage films in the '60s.

SOME OF her best-known work, though, came in television. Her first major TV role was as April Dancer in "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E." during the mid

From 1979-84, Powers starred as Jennifer Hart with Robert Wagner in "Hart to Hart." Her character led a glamorous life traveling the world as a writer, not far removed from Powers' real life exis-

"Hart to Hart' was the happiest five years of my life," Powers said. "He's a prince. I adore him. . What can I say?'

After "Love Letters," Powers will star in a musical this summer "Matador" at the Queen's Theatre in West End London.

ASIDE FROM acting, Powers is quite involved with several philanthropic endeavors - mainly the preservation of wildlife. She works with the Atlanta. Zoo to save the Sumatra Rhino and the Rain Forest Great Ape from extinction.

But as president of the William Holden Wildlife Foundation, though, is where Powers is most wellknown. Holden was co-founder of the Mt. Kenya Game Ranch. The ranch is a 1,200-acre sanctuary for 1,000 animals, representing 26 different species.

educating young people on the importance of wildlife and conservation. Some 4,000 students come from all of Africa to the William Holden Wildlife Education Center in Nanyuki, Kenya, where things such as using solar heating of water and fuel-efficient stoves for cooking are learned.

Although dealing with wildlife, Powers said environmental issues are also discussed.

"We have moment to moment changes such as in the food chain and its affect on how the animals eat,' Powers said. "We have to cope with those."

Powers said the foundation also has a pen-pal program where students in California and Long Island write to those in Kenya. She believes that such cultural exchanges are important "because we want the bonds of chemistry to grow quite healthy."

Malls seek 'new faces' for their fashion panels

Wonderland Mail and Laurel Park Place are calling on all young men and women with a penchant formodeling to try out for the former's 1991 Fashion Board and the later's Fashion Panel.

Potential models should be tween 16 and 23 years of age for the Wonderland audtions, slated for Saturday,

Applications for the noon audition are available at the mall's information booth. The forms, including a non-returnable recent photograph, should be turned in by no later than Friday, Feb. 22.

Candidates will be judged by representatives from the media, modeling and retailing professions. Judging will be based on poise, personality and a two-minute talent segment.

The Fashion Board program is designed to teach young adults fashion, merchandising, public relations and promotional skills. Members attend monthly workshops on modeling techniques, grooming habits, fashion and retail, taught by Production Plus, a Birmingham talent agency.

The board, on a volunteer basis, participates in mall fashion shows, in-store promotions and mall photo sessions and represents Wonderland at local community events.

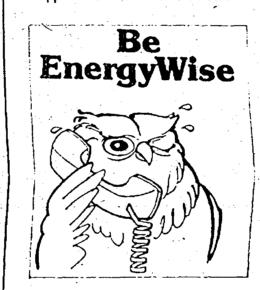

The first 1991 Fashion Board event will be the spring/Easter fashion show March 15-16.

For more information, call the marketing department at 522-4100. Wonderland is at Plymouth and Middlebelt roads, Livonia.

Registration for the Laurel Park Place Fashion Panel will be March 1-22. Applicants should be tween 16 and 22 years of age. Auditions will be noon Saturday, April 13, in the mall's Grand Court.

Military chaplains offer support for U.S. soldiers

By Sue Mason staff writer

When troops in the Persian Gulf need comfort or someone to share a prayer with, they have their buddies ... and the military chaplain.

The chaplain is quite simply a person of God who dons fatigues or a uniform and learns the rigors of military life. The chaplain knows where he's or she's needed and where to go and not go.

"We're a reminder to the troops that wherever you're at in this world, God is with you," said Chaplain Dale Marsh, a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel. "My interest has always been with the soldiers. I've always wanted to be there when it counted."

Marsh served in the military for 29 years - three years as an enlisted man then 10 years as a chaplain in the Army, followed by a stint in the Army Reserves. He saw service in Japan, Korea and Germany and finished up in the United States.

The 52-year-old Novi resident retired from the military when he found the requirements of the Reserves Interfered with his work for the Veterans Administration Hospital in Tennessee. Born and raised in Grand Rapids, he returned to his home state in June 1990 to become chief chaplain at the VA Hospital in Allen Park.

A minister with the Church of God in Anderson, Ind., he became a military chaplain because "God wanted me to be a chaplain."

"I REALLY feel God called me to be a chaplain," he said. "It was hard to give up; I felt like I was leaving something I shouldn't."

Marsh heads up a staff of seven chaplains at the hospital, where patients "still consider themselves troops." Marsh talks to patients about their military experiences. something he did in the active Army. The difference now is that "it's not in a hazardous situation."

Like most Americans, Marsh is watching the developments in the Persian Gulf. The Allen Park hospital is a second-tier hospital for casualties and Marsh is busy lining up people in churches who can accommodate families who will come from out of state to see their loved

Also watching and waiting are the Rev. Ray Bucon of St. Mary Catholic Church in Wayne and the Rev. Tom Slowinski of St. Agatha Catholic Church in Redford. Bucon is in the Michigan National Guard, while Slowinski is in the Naval Reserves.

For Bucon, "no news is good news" when it comes to the start of the ground war. Once it starts, his unit faces being called up, he said. There are six priests in the Archdiocese of Detroit in the Reserves and to date, two have been called up.

Bucon has been in the Reserves for four years and feels privileged to work with both the officers and the soldiers. He is chaplain for the 1-225 Infantry in Detroit.

While a chaplain's primary duty is to bury the dead, he also advises the commander on troop morale. Bucon, 37, likes the ecumenical aspect of the job.

"YOU'RE NOT just a Catholic priest for a Catholic, a Jewish rabbi for a Jew or a Protestant minister for a Protestant," he said.

Bucon is leaving nothing to chance. While watching the things like getting his eyes checked and seeing the dentist to prepare for his unit being called up.

the coumenical aspect of the service. It has given him a greater appreciation of other religions.

"It's very expansive to talk to people about other religions," he said. "You find out you have things in common and the same problems. Exposure to other denominations has been a personal benefit to me."

Slowinski, 35, was training in the Azores last summer when the Persian Gulf crisis began. The island base became a stopover for troops on rapid deployment to Saudi Arabia and he found himself counseling many soldiers.

"I expected to go there and do two weeks," he said. "That was the first time I was on duty like that. Back then, it was really panicky. The Air Force, Marines and Army were going through there and there was a lot of stress and anxiety about what they were getting into.

"IT MADE me see the value in what I was doing." Like Marsh, Rabbi Craig Allen of the Livonia Jewish Congregation served in the military, left and then returned as a chaplain. For him, the experience was frustrating.

A draftee, he served in a Army Signal Corps in Vietnam in 1968-69 and six years in the band program at Little Creek, Va. He eventually left the service to attend rabbinical school and re-enlisted in the Chaplain Corps in 1982. He did a four-year stint and another three years in the Reserves, calling it quits in 1988.

What he found in the service was a violation of the First Amendment right of religious freedom. Jewish sol-ever-changing situation in the Gulf, he also is doing diers were marched to service and made to participate in non-Jewish services, he said.

'They made them pray in Jesus' name when they had Slowinski joined the Reserves in 1988. He, too, likes an opportunity to be more ecumenical," Allen said. "I really thought I could influence it and nudge it into coin> ciding with the First Amendment." Allen found the Chaplain School at Fort Monmouth, N.J., more enlightened than the regular Army although "it still has a strong Christian approach."

AS A CHAPLAIN, he was assigned to Fort Benning, Ga. He worked in the reception area, meeting with the 35,000 troops that came to the base for training or permanent assignment. He also ministered to the 65 Jewish soldiers stationed there.

Allen, 43, faced problems because of differences between Jewish and Christian practices. The mindset is that Sabbath is Sunday, but for Jews it goes from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

Allen found it difficult to get Jewish soldiers to Sabbath services. It was OK to miss training for things like kitchen duty, "but religion was never grounds for exemption," he said. Transportation was provided for Sunday worshipers, but for Friday evening service, Jewish soldiers had to find their own way.

While the experience soured Allen on the service, he said he had contact with some good Christian ministers and credited Catholic priests with "consistently locating and aiding Jewish troops in getting to service.

"It was difficult to be a minority religion," he added. "But when I was able to talk someone out of suicide or bring someone back to Judaism, it was rewarding."

Sustaining key elements in life is essential

The call came from a volunteer for the Institute of Arts. "If the governor's cuts take place," she said, "the Institute of Arts will close!" She asked us to call Lansing and register our opposition to the cuts.

The next night, we went to the symphony concert at Orchestra Hall. A letter from the director of the orchestra asked concertgoers to write to the governor. A cut in state support would severely harm the renewal of this cultural resource.

I thought about these two appeals. I considered also the cut in services to the mentally ill, to prisons and other social institutions in our state.

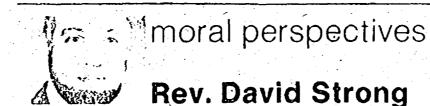

I thought of a conversation I had just had with a young adult who told me "Money is power." I put the two together and reflected upon how

THE COST of our war in the Middle East is estimated to be between one-half and one billion dollars a day. What would one day of war do for our metro area in culture, economic renewal and social healing?

Then I began to think selfishly about the restaurants my wife and I enjoy. Would they go out of business if the cultural opportunities which abound in the city were crippled?

There are those hard-headed, practical people who simply say Well, if the state is running out of money, you have to cut somewhere." Wouldn't it be interesting if we were sending money to Central Europe or to the Middle East to keep these na-

EB5 WRINKLE CREAM

Millions of jars of the exciting EB5 Wrinkle Cream. developed by Pharmacist Robert Heldfond, have been sold to women who are reporting wonderful results. EB5 Wrinkle Cream helps those dreaded signs of looking older ... crow's feet, facial lines, dry skin, and works like 5 creams in one jar... a Wrinkle Cream, Moisturizer, Day Cream, Night Cream, and Makeup Base... all in one jar.

NOW! THE PERFECT CLEANSER

Improper facial cleansing may cause the skin to look older than it should. Natural oils are robbed and skin may be left dry, sallow, and lined. Pharmacist Heldfond has developed the perfect cleansing formula. EB5 Facial Cleanser is soapfree, yet cleans deeply and gently, removing the traces of dirt, makeup and dead surface cells which can make skin look old. EB5 Facial Cleanser really works...really leaves the skinfeeling clean, moist, soft, and velvety.

NEW! EB5 FOOTCARE BALM Pharmacist Heldfond realized that when your feet hurt you feel miserable all over. That is why he developed his new EB5 Footcare Balm. I worked years on my feet filling prescriptions and my EB5 Footcare Balm made my feet feel wonderful, helped my calloused, sore feet, and left them feeling soft and refreshed! Try my EB5 Footcare Balm, You will love it!"

Area nurseries join statewide tree planting campaign

In "A Sand County Almanac," Aldo Leopold remembers events in the life of a tree as sawyers saw through the growth rings of those years. More recent events are recalled first. Earlier events occurred center of the tree.

It was an interesting way of recalling history, and made one feel remorseful for the tree which had lived through such a long span of history, only to be cut off from any further connections.

Planting a tree to commemorate an event is a way of preserving that event for years to come. It serves as reminder every time it is viewed. It can span generations and serve as a symbol of tradition. It can be used as during ring development toward the -a way of becoming familiar with the cycles, seasons, and requirements of living things.

> As a tree grows it can serve as shelter for birds, mammals or insects. If your tree produces a fruit it will provide food for other forms of life. When children are able to understand the functions of a tree, you can introduce them to the concept of photosynthesis and tell them how important trees are to our survival.

Increased manufacturing has produced much more carbon dioxide in the air, which trees use to produce oxygen for us to breath. They produce products which we use such as lumber, paper, rubber and many ton of Nurserymen and the American Forestry Association, Global Releaf is a campaign to plant two million trees in Michigan by 1992.

To promote this program there are five different kinds of trees available: flowering crab apple, Norway maple, green ash, thornless honey locust and little-leaf linden. These trees are 5-8-feet tall with trunks. about one-inch in diameter. They have bare roots and good branching southeastern Michigan.

Orders must be made by March 1, 1991. Each kind of tree is available in bundles of five for $125 per bundle, plus 4 percent sales tax. Make checks payable to Global Releaf of Michigan: Send to: Global Releaf; P.O. Box 9043, Livonia, Michigan 48151 or call 1-800-642-7353.

After you plant the trees keep records of their trunk circumferences, inhabitants (birds, mammals, insect, etc.) height (is possible) and any other tidbit which will make Goliath (Control No. 317734) is 10 months old and has had his shots. To adopt these pets or others, or to check for lost pets, call the Westland Kindness Center of the Michigan Humane Society, 721-7300. The center is at 37255 Marquette, Westland.

Women's health issues discussed

A seminar on women's health issues and changes that take place as women age will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 13, in Room 200 of the Liberal Arts Building.

The two-part program will be presented by physicians from the University of Michigan M-CARE Health Centers in Northville and Plymouth, The first part will be an overview to women's health and aging and the second part will be break-out groups to discuss specific issues of birth control and pregnancy; osteoporosis_ and menopause and estrogen replacement therapy.

The program is ofered as part of a five-part series featuring topics that challenge women of the '90s. It is offered in recognition of women's history month.

Program sponsors are the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College, the U-M M-CARE Health Centers and Health Care & Retirement Corp.

Fee is $12. For more information or to register, call Schoolcraft College Continuing Education Services at 462-4448 or the Women's Resource Center at 462-4443.

Planning for the future is an admirable goal. But sometimes events cause plans and dreams to go astray. Adversity sometimes forces us to redefine our goals and reduce their scope. This month's couple, David and Janet Fry of Canton Township, were comfortably progressing toward their financial goals when

The Frys have had to re-evaluate their goals because of David's disability.

David bécame disabled one year

David, 47, receives Social Security income of $14,000 per year. Janet, 44, works as a department store saleswoman and earns $14,000 per year. She also has income of $8,000 per year from a separate cosmetics sales business.

The Frys have had to re-evaluate their goals because of David's disability. David has little disability insurance coverage, and this has affected their ability to move toward their goals. Fortunately, they have a number of financial strengths that will help ease the burden.

First, their fixed expenses, including their mortgage payment, are quite modest. The house is valued at $110,000 and has a $20,000 mortgage. To date, their total debt is low, which has contributed to reduced outlays of cash. As yet, they have not been forced to make significant withdrawals of principal from their accumulated investment assets. In fact, some of the investment income has been reinvested.

A second financial strength is that they have good medical coverage for David's ongoing medical costs. In addition, cash reserves (which we define as two month's expenses in immediately accesible savings or money market accounts, with an additional four months' expenses available in other liquid assets such as stocks or bonds) are adequate.

But there are some significant financial weaknesses to be dealt with. The Frys will not be able to make any major capital expenditures, such as the purchase of a new car or major home repairs without dipping into savings. In addition, Janet has no pension, so they will be relying on Social Security and personal savings for their long-term financial securi-

Their most immediate concerns are college expenses for their two daughters. Their oldest daughter has two years to go at Lawrence Technological University and the other is in the ninth grade. They would also like to buy a car in three years and prepare for Jan's retirement in 20 years. Unfortunately, current income is used for current expenses, and no savings have been generated.

PROBABLY THE MOST important thing that the Frys can do now is focus on their cash flow needs. They have not spent much time analyzing their current expenses, but it is important to make sure that each dollar is working hard for them toward their most important priorities.

We are sure it will be difficult to build up savings, but Jan does have the possibility of expanding her direct sales cosmetics business. She should take a portion of any increased income and invest for longterm savings. Since they are in a low tax bracket, they are probably just as well off saving outside of a formal retirement plan even though Jan would qualify for an Individual Retirement Account or Simplified Employee Plan. One method of regular savings is to arrange a modest, perhaps $50 or $100 per month, automatic transfer from checking to a savings account. This savings could grow for later financial needs.

David and Janet are contemplating buying a new car in two or three years. While they have always

The Bottom Line

Financial Strengths:

✓ Own their home with modest mortgage. ✓ Excellent health coverage through Jan's employer.

✓ Wills were recently drafted. ✓ Total debt is low, reducing required

✓ Cash reserves are adequate.

Einancial Weaknesses:

✓ No current savings from income. ✓ No pensions.

College costs are unfunded. ✓ Auto insurance coverage needs review. ✔ Durable power of attorney needed.

"It's unethical to use this as a screening test.'

NOT ONLY IS it unethical, but it. is probably unwise. Employers who hire only certain types of personalities — because they feel certain types are better than others or are trying to avoid conflict - are assuming conflict is a bad thing.

On the contrary, Heise said, conflicting opinions and methods can be used as a tool to arrive at the best solution.

"Personality differences are a gift," he said: "Sensory people are more detail oriented; intuitive people are more possibility oriented knowing one person looks at (problem solving) this way and another this way can help the two communicate," he said.

Personality tests help people see how they arrive at decisions, Heise said. A warmhearted, extroverted, perception-orientated person, for example, is likely to arrive at a decision differently from a quiet, reserved impersonal person.

It's important for people to see a person's personality may guide the way in which they approach a problem, and therefore, may explain why they arrive at different conclusions, he said.

Not sharing the results of the tool."

personality test, then, is perhaps its biggest misuse, Heise said. Companies that give the test to employees and then bury the results in a file are not using the test as recommended. Instead, the test taker should be given the results and encouraged to share those results with others. "The trainer should make that clear to people.

"The more alike the personalities, the less conflict you are likely eto have," he said. "But you're not as likely to grow, either."

ANDERSEN CONSULTING'S Smale said personality testing is helpful in team building, but is by no means the only tool.

By analogy, personality tests are like a hammer used in building. "You have to have tools to build a house. You don't say I'm going to build this house with a hammer (and-only a hammer).

"A hammer can't cut wood very well, nor could a saw hammer nails," he said. "Could I build house without a hammer? Probably. Would I want to? Probably not (because) the hammer is the best tool (for joining boards with nails).

"You need more than one tool for the job - the same applies to personality tests and team building," Smale said. "It's not the only tool but it's a very important, good

Motor city in new auto era

Whether or not Toyota goes ahead with its plans to build an engineering center and test track off I-696, it's getting to be obvious that there is something going on in the engineering community that's going to change how cars are designed.

The buildup of Japanese engineering expertise in the Detroit area in the past year or so has been driven mainly by the need to redesign engines to meet the new set of emission standards.

That means pretty much recalibrating all the current and future production engines, a monumental job by itself if you've ever seen the pile of paper required by the government to certify a new car, about six feet tall if it all landed on one desk at one time.

In fact, most automakers, including imports, have had engineering centers near the Ann Arbor Environmental Protection Agency labs for years for just this task. But the scale of the new Japanese centers is more on the order of a full engineering center, not just emissions work.

THE PLANNED Toyota center, san, this creates a plentiful supply of for example, is about as big as Toyota's main car design facility in Tokyo. Add in the new Nissan research and development buildup, Mazda mestic recruiters at engineering and Honda and you have an englneering force approximating the size of Chrysler's.

All this is happening in the midst of one of the worst auto recessions seen in decades. The natural reaction on the part of the U.S. Big Three has been, of course, to lay off engineers, which is how you save money after delaying advanced product programs, which is what you do if you are in the midst of an auto reces-experienced talent to staff up their new engineering centers, not to mention the lack of competition from doschools. It makes it particularly easy to find the relatively scarce experienced engineers familiar with the complexities of today's sophisticated emission control systems.

It also tends to create something that has been lacking in Detroit's engineering community for a long time - a sense of stability and long-range purpose that ultimately makes automotive engineering an attractive career for young people.

IT'S DIFFICULT to predict where check.

all this is heading, but clearly the Detroit engineering community will never be the same.

Long dominated by the so-called Big Three as employers of last resort, Detroit's employment base has been broadened first by the influx of suppliers doing serious engineering work, followed by the huge growth during the 1980s of independent engineering companies working under contract, and now the Japanese.

I suppose it's also obvious that when all this transpires, the U.S. companies might have some second thoughts about what they are doing with their seed corn.

Curiously, a recent article in Fortune magazine hints that former Ford Chairman Donald Petersen resigned because he was under pressure from the board of directors to quit blowing Ford's money on advanced engineering programs and other obvious wastes of money.

One can only hope that the ability to design and improve cars in the future hasn't gone home in a dividend

Jennifer Jay Myers, originally from Bloomfield Hills, shows off a jacket for the show "Nunsense," in which she appears as Sister Amnesia.

It's fun to play Sister Amnesia

By Ethel Simmons

VISTER MARY AMNESIA is the only role Jennifer Jay Myers has ever played in the musical comedy "Nun-sense," but she has appeared as the sweet, slightly dippy young nun in more than a half-dozen different productions.

Myers, who is originally from Bloomfield Hills, is staying with her parents, Rodman and Jeanette,, during the run of the show, through Sunday, March 10, at the Birmingham Theatre, Detroitarea residents vacationing up north last summer, who saw the Cherry County Playhouse version of "Nunsense," might remember Myers appearing there in the show, which she also co-directed.

"I first saw the show off-Broadway," Myers said during an interview at the Birmingham Theatre. She knew then she would like to play Sister Mary Amnesia someday. "It's one of the roles that really fits my type."

"Nunsense" has been running off-Broadway since 1986, the year and went to Europe to study voice.

Myers saw it originally. She first appeared in a production of the hit musical in Cleveland, along with Alvaleta Guess as Sister Mary Hubert. Guess is in the Birmingham show as Hubert again. "She has been doing it off and on also," Myers said.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

PERKY AND soft-spoken, Myers describes Sister Amnesia: "She's a nut. She lost her mind. She was hit on the head by a crucifix and wandered into a convent. She's real sweet, but she keeps screwing up."

Myers said she has been performing in "a rash of religious shows." Besides "Nunsense," these include "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," "Godspell" and "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?' Doing religious shows wasn't planned. "It's a weird coincidence," she said.

She appeared at the Birmingham Theatre in the early 1980s as Charlotte, "a loose woman," in the musical "Oliver!"

In her senior year at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills, Myers won the Traub Scholarship, Goggin is directing the current Birmingham Theatre production of "Nunsense."

The entire cast is a friendly, familiar one to each other (many cast members have appeared together in previous productions of the show).

Goggin, leaving the theater through the lobby, is a willing "gofer," asking Farina if he can bring her back some coffee.

FARINA AND GOGGIN are longtime friends.

She first became known to the public after posing in a nun's habit for greeting cards, at Goggin's re-

The cards were successful, which led to a "Nunsense"-style revue and then the musical. "He had the crazy idea of doing a nun greeting card," she said. "A friend gave him a store mannequin and a real nun's habit." Instead of using the mannequin, he asked Farina to pose. Twelve cards were printed and shown at the National Stationery Show in New York. "The character started to come alive," said Farina. Over a three-year period, she appeared on about 75 cards and made personal appearances at card

Then, as Sister Cardelia (her name taken from the card), she starred in a revue-type show, for which a comedian supplied "blue humor" and Goggin the music.

The cast of five performed as three nuns and two priests.

"It was just a hit," she said simply. They played New York and Bos-

The next step was converting the revue into a book show and holding a backers' audition. "Nunsense" (with all cast members as nuns - priests just weren't as funny) opened at the small off-Broadway Cherry Lane Theatre in 1985.

It moved to the Sheraton Lane Theatre on Seventh Avenue, then to the Douglas Fairbanks Theatre, on Theatre Row on 42nd Street.

"The reviews were never that great," she said, of critics' responses to the show, but the public loved the mix of comedy and song - heavy on puns and nonsense that would especially be enjoyed by anyone who grew up Catholic and attended a Catholic school.

"THEY STARTED doing star companies," Farina said.

"Kaye Ballard was the first, at Coconut Grove, Fla."

She praised Ballard's performance, was lukewarm on Phyllis Diller's, and said that Peggy Cass (who played Sister Mary Cardelia in a previous production at the Birmingham Theatre) had trouble with the physical aspects of the role.

Farina left the New York show, then went to San Francisco for seven months, and Los Angeles next.

"I was out for about one and onehalf years with the show. Now I go wherever they hire me."

Appearing in New York in "Nunsense" is not that profitable for her,

The big stars make the big bucks because they have the "name."

She makes better money in productions on the the road.

She laughed, remembering some of the derogatory things reviewers have said about the show.

And while the musical itself gen-

Churchill wins league hockey title

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Livonia Churchill clinched the ship Wednesday, but coach Rudy Varvari left Livonia's Eddie Edgar ver. Arena afterward with a dry head of

The Chargers were in the mood to celebrate following their 4-1 win over Livonia Stevenson, yet they weren't about to douse their coach with any Gatorade.

"That's a no-no around here," said captain Colin Gallagher.

'Yeah, I'd have punched them," Varvari said:

THE VETERAN COACH was kidding, of course, because he likes this group as much as any he's coached. The win improved the Chargers to Suburban Hockey League champion- 13-1 in the SHL, one game ahead of second place Bloomfield Hills Ando-

> Churchill, which finished the regular season at 17-3-1, last won a league title in 1985-86.

"This feels good; the boys worked hard and they deserved it," said Varvari. "We knew going in that we had. at least a piece of the title, but we didn't want to share it (with Andover). We wanted it all. It was a team effort tonight, kind of like those (Dehockey troit) Tigers that one year (1984)." That was evident on the statistics sheet, which showed four different Chargers scoring. Churchill led 2-0 after one period on goals by Larry Allen and Mike Johnson, and took a 3-0 lead only 28 seconds into the second period on a slap shot by Mark

STEVENSON MADE the score 3-1

after two periods on an unassisted goal by Ryan Gusick, but the Spartans couldn't push any more shots past Churchill goalie Jeremy Niem-

"I just told the kids to come in (to the locker room), regroup and work hard," Varvari said. "With a twogoal hockey game there's some leeway. Now, if Stevenson would have gotten the next one (to make it 3-2), then I would have said, 'Yeah, push' the panic button."

Mark Michels' unassisted goal 31 seconds into the third period gave Churchill a 4-1 lead and ended any threat Varvari might have felt.

The loss dropped Stevenson to 8-4-2 in the SPHL and 10-9-2 overall. Coach Paul Ferguson, who pulled starting goalie Mike Williams in favor of David Labadie midway through the second period, said the Chargers came out more prepared to

"CHURCHILL PLAYED well," Ferguson said. "They were playing for the championship and had a lot of jump in their skates. We had a lot of miscues, our timing was a little bit off, and Churchill played well enough to take us off our game."

Jamie Allen, Tony Dyplowski, Nick Kovich and Dan O'Connor had assists for the Chargers, who have the unenviable task of facing Trenton Tuesday in the opening round of the Class A playoff regional at Wyandotte.

Game time is 7 p.m.

"Mr. Jobbitt (Livonia Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt) put a lot on our shoulders at the beginning of the year, saying we were the best team in the league," Gallagher said, "We'll take it one game at a time and hopefully our season won't end until March 9. This is the most together team I've been a part of, and from what coach tells us this is the most together team he's had since 1986."

State quality

Pats' Johnson leads area contingent

By Brad Emons staff writer

The 44th annual Michigan High School Athletic Association's (Lower Peninsula) individual wrestling finals, set for Friday and Saturday in Battle Creek, will feature five hopefuls from the Observer's Livonia-Westland coverage area.

Tickets are $4 per session (two sessions per day). An all-session pass is $12.

Going to the Kellogg Center for the state Class A meet will be Livonia Franklin heavyweight Bobby Johnson, 152-pounder Mike Reeves of Westland John Glenn, and 135pounder Chris Brown of Livonia Churchill.

Lutheran High Westland will also be sending two representatives to the Class C meet at Battle Creek Central High — 119-pounder Tony Horvath and heavyweight Jamle

Here is how the five grapplers stack up for the weekend:

• Bobby Johnson — For the second straight week (districts and regionals) Johnson reached the finals, only to lose to Kyle Steinaker of Howell, the latest meeting coming Saturday at Plymouth Salem, a pin

Johnson, an All-Observerland football player, also lost to Steinaker in the district finals Feb. 9 at Walled Lake Western, 8-4.

"If he (Johnson) can get by Steinaker, he can win it all," Franklin coach Ken Meinschein said. "He has a legitimate chance to win the thing. He should finish in the top three. It boils down to if he can win four matches in a row."

Johnson, the Western Lakes Activities Association champ, was hampered by a sore shoulder last weekend, but should be ready by 10 a.m. Friday, according to the Franklin coach.

"He's a hard-working, caring individual," Meinschein said. "He's one wrestling

nice kid, friendly and cooperative. My only regret is that he didn't come out as a freshman. That one year of experience really could have

• Mike Reeves - Only a sophomore, but possessing a wealth of wrestling experience, Reeves will take a 30-5-1 record into the finals.

Last weekend at the Salem regional, Reeves reached the finals before losing to Jason Seitz of Brighton, 4-2. The 152-pounder finished third at the Walled Lake Western district and won his weight division at the WLAA meet.

• Chris Brown - Sporting a 33-12 record, the senior seems to be peaking at just the right time, according to coach Melvin Richendol-

"The last four weeks of the season, my philsophy was to wrestle him in the toughest tourneys," the Churchill coach said. "He never placed first, but he was always right in there, at least fourth each time out. He's really improved over the season and last week he wrestled the best he's ever wrestled."

In the tough 135-pound division at Salem, Brown won the consolation bracket (third place) with a 15-6 victory over Dave Whitworth of Temperance-Bedford.

In the districts at Walled Lake, Brown took second. He was also third in the WLAA meet. Last season Brown finished 20-13 overall and was fourth in the league.

"He's worked hard in the off-season and his best attributes are that he listens and he tries new things. Richendollar said. "He took some losses early, but he learned things that will help him at state."

• Tony Horvath - The 119pound junior is 30-5 overall, but his greatest triumph occurred Saturday against Flat Rock's Brian Bogoski at the Goodrich Regional Tournament finals, 5-4.

"He lost to Bogoski three times during the course of the year, so it was very rewarding for him to win the regional," Lutheran Westland coach Dennis Tuomi said.

Tuomi added that Horvath is in a 'loaded" weight class come Satur-"There's no way of telling how he will do," said the coach. "Tony's always been a decent wrestler. His willingness to work and his perseverance have gotten him to this

• Jamie Hardy — The junior heavyweight finished fourth at last week's regional to qualify for state. He will take a 27-9 record to Battle Creek. At the districts, Hardy finished second.

"We were hoping he'd get through," Tuomi said. "This is the first time we've had qualifiers in

Shamrocks sending 5 to finals

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Rusty Fówler is on the verge of winning a state title, but to say he has been dreaming of this moment would be an inaccurate statement.

"It's not really a dream come true," said Fowler, Redford Catholic Central's 119-pound wrestler who won the Class A Troy individual regional and is one of the top seeds at Friday and Saturday's state meet at Battle Creck's Kellogg Center. He insists that his success is a culmination of a lot of hard work and determination.

"I've worked this hard with Mr. 'Rod' (coach Mike Rodriguez) and the only thing left to do is get the job done," he sald. "I don't want to make any predictions. I just want to take it one match at a time, and if I take it one match at a time, I should win it."

The hard work began after Fowler's freshman year, which he missed because of a broken shoulder. As a sophomore, Fowler battled back at 103 and missed qualifying for the state meet by a match.

LAST YEAR, Fowler qualified for the state but says he "choked," and failed to place.

By virtue of his 11-6 regional title win Saturday over New Baltimore has won twice. Anchor Bay's Dustin Trombly, Rodriguez figures Fowler has as good a anyone so far and is very much imshot as any of his five wrestiers to proved," Rodriguez said. "Usually walk away with a state title.

Fowler is 51-1 overall, with the has about 29 pins and if he doesn't Kelly beat Birmingham Brother Rice's Brian Alessi, 4-3, in the final to improve to 45-9 overall. It was a repeat of his win over Alessi in the final of the individual district.

"He's just starting to come on," Rodriguez said.

Krueger and Sylvester each finished runnerup in their divisions, and Rodriguez gives each a chance to place in the top six at the state meet. Krueger, only a sophomore, lost to Troy Athens' Tom Gizoni, 6-4, for the second time in a week. He'll bring a 49-10 record into the state meet.

"WITH THE LUCK of the draw, and if Jason keeps his head together he could do very well and get in the finals," Rodriguez said. "For a sophomore, he's a tough young man. Gizoni will be in the opposite bracket and I don't think he'll even get far enough to meet Jason again."

Sylvester lost to Warren Lincoln's Marty Scianimanico, 6-3, in overtime. Scianimanico was the last wrestler to beat Sylvester, last month at the CC Invitational. Sylvester is 38.8 overall.

"Rob got behind and tried to shoot like a 125-pounder," Rodriguez said. "The guy just pounded on him. A.

'Last piece of Pye' is the best for 'Cats

By C.J. Risak staff writer

It's really too good to be true.

How can Bill Pye describe the last few months? No one would believe; hlm, anyway. It's like a fairy tale come true, with everything coming up roses.

. Of course, the season isn't over . yet. There's still much that must be done to complete the story. But so. far, it hasn't been just a "so far, so good" type season for Pye; it's been "so far, too good."

The Plymouth Canton HS grad (class of '87) has been sensational in the nets for Northern Michigan University's hockey team. He is:

• Tied for the lead nationally for wins, with a 23-3-4 record;

• A definite All-American possibility, sporting a 2.82 goals-against average;

 A shutout away from the NMU season record, with three;

• A key member of the first-ever Wildcat team to win a Western Collegiate Hockey Association regularseason championship.

Sounds pretty unbelievable so far, doesn't it? Add this: NMU clinched the title on Senior's Night. Of course, Pve was in the nets, and he's a sen-

So whatever happens next can't surprise, can it? NMU wins the WCHA playoffs, and Pye is MVP. NMU wins the NCAA championship, and Pye is MVP. He joins the proteam that drafted him in '89, the Buffalo Sabres, and guides them to a National Hockey League championship, again winning MVP.

THE HOBEY BAKER Award, presented to college hockey's top player, is naturally his, too. I mean, when you're on a roll . . .

Pye, or course, won't deal with most of those predictions. And he would scoff at any suggestion that luck had something to do with the current high tide both he and his team are riding.

"I don't think we surprised anybody (by winning the WCHA)," he where they lost in the regional round to Providence.

Pye thought last year would belong to NMU. He was wrong.

"I had a pretty decent sophomore year (26-15-2 record, 3.15 goalsagainst average), and I thought things would be different than they were last year," he admitted. His overconfidence was costly - he had a 20-14-1 record and a 4.39 goalsagainst average.

"I learned my lesson," he said.

PYE'S ONE goal for this season was to be ready. "I could go into a lot of different aspects (of what I want to improve), technical stuff, but really I just want to be mentally ready," he said. The rest, he figured - including his team's record would take care of itself.

"I knew we had a good team. I just wanted to be consistent," said Pye. "We had the talent, it was just a matter of doing it night in and night-

There is a danger, that the teamwill relax now that it has clinched the WCHA regular-season title. Pye knows it. "That's why these next two !!" games (this Friday and Saturday at :: Wisconsin) are so important. I want to stay sharp, be mentally ready."

He realizes what's at stake. One flat performance and all hopes for an NCAA title will come crashing down. No where is that more true than with the last line of defense, the

"There's not too much pressure, but I've definitely got to be good," said Pye. "Every team that has won the NCAA title has had a good goal.

"I think it's just mental preparation. I've got to be playing well.'

Pye downplayed the pressure because he figured, well, what else canhe do with it? It's going to be there, no matter what. Besides, he's found so much success already this season.

"To win (the WCHA) on Senior's Night was great," he said. "Whatever happens from here on out is a

The way things are going, that bonus could be a big one for Pye.

SC men stay in playoff hunt

Kwesi McGill and Randy Watters controlled the offense and Barry Quayle and Scott Meredith patrolled the boards as Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team clipped Delta CC 102-90

The win could have major implications for the Ocelots. They are now 5.9 in the Eastern Conference, tied with Henry Ford CC for the final Michigan Community College Athletic Association playoff berth. Both teams had one conference game remaining after last night's games. SC is 14-13 overall.

The Ocelots 1ed 46-40 at the half against Delta (16-9 overall, 7-7 in the conference), but the Pioneers recaptured the lead at 57-56 with 12 minutes left.

Watters followed with a dunk for SC - he totalled 26 points, nine rebounds and five assists in the game — and the Ocelots never again trailed.

McGill led SC with 28 points; he also dished out six assists. Quayle finished with 17 points and 16 rebounds, and Meredith had 15 points and 11 boards. Dave Hamilton chipped in with 10 points. Andre Walton's 22 points was best for Delta.

St. Mary's escapes with victory

By C.J. Risak staff writer

When you're on top, you've got to expect the bulls-eye. Every one of your opponents will take dead aim at you, with just one thought — victory whatever the cost.

St. Mary's College men's basketball team should recognize such a simple reality. On Monday, the Eagles hosted Grand Rapids Baptist at Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus (St. Mary's Dombrowski Fieldhouse floor is under repair) in a game that, two weeks ago, loomed as a battle for first place in the NAIA District 23.

However, a lot has transpired since. The Comets were languishing in a three-game district losing streak coming into Monday's match and, instead of a fight for first, were struggling for a playoff berth. So against the district leaders, they were willing to try anything — even resort to a slow-down strategy, trying to defuse St. Mary's high-scoring (102.83 points a game) offense.

Know what? It almost worked. Almost. The Eagles, trailing by four with less than two minutes to play, stepped up their defensive intensity to tie it and force overtime, then posted the first nine points of the exSt. Mary's sports

tra session to escape with a 78-69

"I REALLY didn't think they could beat us with that," marveled St. Mary's coach Glen Donahue of Baptist's slow-down offense. "But they almost did. I don't think they could have played it any better."

The difference, as Donahue noted, was St. Mary's defense. With points at a premium - the Eagles had managed just 23 in the first 18:40 of the second half — the Comets' fourpoint advantage seemed mighty big.

But St. Mary's pressure forced five turnovers in the final two minutes of regulation and did not allow Baptist to score a point from the 2:23 mark until less than a minute remained in OT - a stretch of 6:24.

'We came back and did enough defensive things to get us back in it," said Donahue. "I think we're capable of being a very good defensive team. We've talked about this before. For us to be a great team, we're going to have to play better defense."

The Comets certainly helped the Eagles down the stretch. They missed starting point guard Doug Muxlow, who suffered a broken wrist in the first St. Mary's-Baptist game Feb. 2.

"WE'RE JUST making turnovers in the late stages of the game," said Baptist coach Tom Martin. "We're getting there, but the kids getting us there can't hold onto (the ball) down the stretch."

Had the Comets been able to protect the ball, they could have celebrated all the way back to Grand Rapids. Then again, if the Eagles had been able to protect a lead they were up 20-10 with 11:12 left in the first half, and had a 43-35 advantage with 15 minutes remaining in regulation — they would never have been in danger.

St. Mary's troubles came in threes. Baptist ran the clock effectively in the second half, allowing 25 seconds on the 45-second shot clock to expire before going into its offense.

When the Comets finally got going, they were deadly from long range. In one stretch, starting with 14:23 left in the second half and ending with 4:31 to_go, they connected on 7-of-9 three-pointers. They did not have a two-point basket in that span.

WHAT THEY did have was the lead. St. Mary's 43-35 advantage quickly evaporated; by the end of Baptist's three-point roll, it was the Comets who were ahead, 56-53.

A three-point play by Jeff Dunn with 2:23 to go gave Baptist its biggest cushion, 61-57. That was the high point, though. A long Comet pass became a turnover when it banked off the backboard and went out of bounds. Jimmy Bolden responded with a layup off a pass from Jeff Suspeck to pull St. Mary's to within a pair.

Another turover gave the Eagles the ball again, and Bolden was fouled. He swished both free throws to knot it at 61-all with :52 on the James Gillespie pilfered Brad Richards' inbounds pass, giving St. Mary's possession once again. But Gillespie's three-pointer and Garth Howard's put-back both missed, necessitating overtime.

Love picks BG

Schoolcraft College volleyball standout Angellette Love has made a verbal commitment to attend Bowling Green State University in the Love, a sophomore from Detroit Henry Ford, made up her mind after visiting the Bowling Green, Ohio, campus last weekend. She also made visits to Eastern Michigan and the University of Texas-Arlington, and considered Central Michigan.

Love's teammate at Schoolcraft, Jenny Sproul, last week signed with CMU. Bowling Green and CMU play in the Mid-American Conference so the two will meet several times as BG was 26-7 overall last fall and 4-4 in the MAC. CMU finished at 9-17 overall and 4-4 in the MAC.

"I was thinking about Central, but it's a lot further than Bowling Green," Love said. "Jenny and I are real good friends, and it's going to be hard (playing against her), but Central's just another team, now. It wasn't a hard decision at all.

"I LIKED EVERYTHING Bowling Green had to offer. The school is clean, they have great facilities and the coach (Denise Van De Walle) is extremely nice. The coach wanted me as an individual first, and what I could add to the program came second."

Love shared Most Valuable Player honors with Sproul and also was named a National Junior College Athletic Association All-America. She was a two-time member of the NJCAA National Tournament team.

She averaged 5.2 kills per game last fall and had a .356 hitting percentage playing a variety of positions for Schoolcraft.

"Angellette is a tremendous student/athlete and I can't say enough about her," Schoolcraft coach Tom Teeters said. "She's just an outstanding player and one of the toughest weight lifters I've ever seen. It's a legacy the Love sisters (Angellette and Alisha) have left behind."

State-ranked CC only a call away

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

As the Redford Catholic Central swimmers gathered inside school last Tuesday before leaving for a meet in East Lansing, first-year coach Pete Leonhardt asked one of them a question.

"Where is the telephone?", Leonhardt asked.

Leonhardt does not have his own office at CC, so he's still learning his way around the school. That's about the only trouble he's experienced in leading the Shamrocks to a 10-0 dual meet record and a No. 2 ranking in Class A behind Bloomfield Hills An-

"This is worth it. I get a lot of satislaction working with these kind of athletes. CC supports all of its sports."

Most of CC's swimmers got to know Leonhardt prior to high school. The 29-year old has spent the last six years coaching the Michigan Stingrays United States Swimming Club, and at least half of CC's swimmers belong to the 170-member club.

The Stingrays, out of Farmington Hills, have won at least four United States Swimming Championships in Leonhardt's six years.

"I told them when I took the job I'd do it for six months, and it's ended up being six years," Leonhardt recalled. "It's been great. The parents and swimmers have been very sup- before school with a 5:45 a.m. to 7:15 portive and I really enjoy being a part of it."

The Shamrocks have 22 swimmers and two divers, which is considered "kind of small," by high school standards, according to Leonhardt.

CC DOES NOT have a swimmer atop any of the individual events in Observerland, but several Shamrocks can be found among the top-10 in each event. Balance is key at CC, with the team being anchored by seniors Alan Afsari, Mike Hoeflein, Troy Shumate and Brian Dynda, and boosted by freshmen James Leslie, Karl Kozicki and Steve Reinke. Leonhardt knows some people accuse private schools of recruiting's their athletes, but as far as he's concerned, those thoughts are off-base.

"When someone chooses to go to CC and is a good athlete, everyone says he's recruited to go to CC," he said, "When in fact, if you talk to the parents and athlete, there is a lotmore than athletics being offered. If someone chooses to go to CC for swimming only, they've made a big mistake.

Churchill gets WLAA's 6th seed

Livonia Churchill clinched the sixth seed in the Friday's eight-team Western Lakes Activities Association basketball playoffs, capitalizing on a 23-16 second quarter run Tuesday en route to a 54-48 win over Farmington.

Churchill improved its overall record to 10-7. The Chargers finished 6.5 in the WLAA. Farmington is 2-15 overall and 1-11 in WLAA.

The Chargers travel Friday to face No. 3 seed and city rival Stevenson. See Week Ahead on page 5D for playoff matchups.

Junior guard Brian D. Johnson spearheaded the Churchill victory with 15 points. Seniors Mike Thomas and Randy Calcaterra added nine points. apiece. Calcaterra also grabbed 12 rebounds.

Junior forward Steve Gallagher led Farmington with 12 points and Jason Childress collected

In a makeup game on Saturday, Churchill lost to host Plymouth Canton, 61-52.

Canton held a 35-16 halftime advantage, but the 6-foot-7 Calcaterra scored 12 of his gamehigh 24 points in a Churchill 22-8 third-quarter run to close the gap to 43-38.

The Chargers, however, couldn't get any closer down the stretch.

Scott Bowser added 10 points and Marcus Sarnovsky nine in a losing cause.

Derrick McDonald paced the winners with 18 points, now 10-7 overall and 8-3 in the WLAA.

points and Eddie Hale had 11. HARPER WOODS 57, CLARENCE-VILLE 50: On Tuesday, host Harper Woods outscored Clarenceville 15-9 in the third quarter en route to the win. The loss dropped Clarenceville to 5-12 overall and 2-9 in the Metro Conference.

Harper Woods, sparked by junior guard Mike

Berent's 16 points, improved to 3-15 overall and 2-10 in the Metro. Junior forward Pete Gallagher tallied 15 points and senior forward Jim Stamatakis added 11. Junior forward Danny Nunnery paced Clarenceville with 14 points. Senior guard Kendrick Harrington added 11 points and senior guard Frank Juncaj had 10. On Friday, Senior guard Michael Steward hit the game-winner with 10 seconds left to pace Detroit Lutheran West over the visiting Trojans, 55-54.

Lutheran West improved to 4-12 overall and 3-8 in the Metro Conference. Senior forward Gerald Cain led the Leopards with 23 points and 19 rebounds. Steward added 10. Numery notched 20 points in a losing cause.

FLAT ROCK 65, LUTH. WESTLAND 34: With top scorer Chris Habitz lost for the season with a broken finger (in practice), Lutheran Westland (4-12) had little firepower against the visiting Rams (13-3). Senior forward Dave Mills scored 17 points for the victors, including three 3-pointers. Senior guard Dan Hoeft had six for the Warriors, who shot just 26 percent from the floor (14 of 54). "Losing Habitz was a factor," Lutheran Westland coach Scott Wiemer sald. "Flat Rock has a decent team and when you lose your primary ball-handler as we did tonight, we could have used him. It's hard to adjust in one day when you lose somebody who averages 20

Raiders surprise Harrison, 57-56

North Farmington's 57-56 upset of Farmington Hills Harrison in the last league game Tuesday night revived memories of the 1988 basketball season. That was the year North made a late-season run and that culminated with the Raiders winning the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament. "Our team reminds me a lot of that team," said senior Chris White, who scored a game-high 21 points Tuesday. He was a freshman on the JV team three years ago.

"They weren't blessed with a lot of talent, but they kept working hard and ended up the better team." The deja vu experience has North hoping for a repeat

As was the case in '88, the Raiders had to win their last game — also a makeup date — to qualify for the playoffs. Despite being a low seed, North won three straight in the tournament.

THE RAIDERS, facing another must-win situation, finished 5-6 in the league, qualified as the lowest of eight seeded teams and knocked Walled Lake Western out of the tournament field. North also claimed the title of city champions, having won the round-robin competi-

That was the good news. The bad news is North must play at first-place Plymouth Salem in the first round Friday. The Rocks defeated the Raiders 84-63 Saturday.

"The kids strived for it; that was one of their goals." North coach Tom Negoshian said. "Now you go and play them. There's no question they're the class of the league. We'll show up."

"It's going to be tough playing Salem," White said, "but it's going to be fun trying. We could have a hot night, and they could have an off night."

A hot night is what the Raiders, 7-10 overall, had Tuesday. They controlled the tempo and shot just under

50 percent (19-40) in the last three quarters. North was 21 of 51 for 41 percent overall, Harrison 21 of 54 for 39

The Hawks, who are the No. 4 seed in the tournament and will play host to Northville, are 0-3 when held to less than 60 points. Harrison finished 7-4 in the WLAA and is 12-5 overall.

"WE KNEW we had to shoot the ball extremely well and we did," Negoshian said. "When that happens, you

"Fifteen years ago when I was a young man I probably would have tried to take credit for that, but that was the kids. They knew we had to live with the jump shot and, to their credit, they made some real good decisions."

White fueled a third-quarter surge, scoring 13 points as the Raiders doubled their first-half output and outscored Harrison 22-15. North led 44-38 entering the fourth period.

Jon Sturtz, Mark Temple and Brian Lee combined to score the last six points of the first half and pull the Raiders within one at halftime, 23-22. White and Dean Pennala picked it up in the third quarter, hitting back-to-back triples and giving North a lead (28-23) it never lost. White hit three treys and was four of four in free-throw shooting in that quarter. "I think I'm a second-half player," White said. "I don't get warmed up until the third quarter. I hope that what I've been doing.' Pennala scored all 12 of his points in the second half, including seven in the third quarter. His two driving layups in the last minute gave the Raiders their 44-38

Rieple, a junior, surprised the field by placing fourth, losing to Sterling Helghts Mike Bastianelli, 10-4, in the consolation round.

"He gutted his way in and will surprise a few people," said Rodriguez of Rieple, who is 32-15 overall. "He's a hungry young man and that's what gets you there.'

REDFORD UNION, meanwhile, will send 171-pounder George De-

Bates to the state meet for the first time. A two-time regional qualifier, DeBates made his third trip to the regional a success as he went 2-1 before placing third by default over East Detroit's Derek Rawling.

He is 31-7 overall.

"It would have been sad if he hadn't made it to state," RU coach Jeff Fagan said. "He's a talented athlete and wrestling the best he ever has. It's a whole new ball game once you get there, but there's been a lot of guys who finished third at the regional place in the state."

Thurston sparkles against Dearborn

By Brad Emons staff writer

As the clock was winding down on Redford Thurston's 71-56 boys basketball win Tuesday over visiting Dearborn, a boisterous parent confronted a reporter.

"Why are you always writing about how scrappy they are instead of how good they are? They're a good team!" the Thurston backer insisted.

Who could argue, particularly after the way the Eagles handled Dearborn, a team with a sparkling 15-1 overall record and leaders of the Northwest Suburban League.

The Tri-River League-leading Eagles came on strong down the stretch, outscoring the Pioneers 23-10 in the fourth quarter to run their overall record to 15.3.

"It was a good win because we beat a quality team," Thurston coach Mike Schuette said. "And there's no doubt they earned it. They played hard and smart."

Once again, Thurston got help from just about everybody.

ROB DeLYON, a 6-foot-1 senior forward, tallied 17 points, including three 3-pointers. His threepoint bomb as the third-quarter buzzer sounded helped quell a Dearborn rally. The shot gave Thurston a 48-46 advantage.

With 5:29 left in the final period, DeLyon hit another three, giving Thurston a 56.48 lead. The Eagles then gradually pulled away for the Justin McEwen, a 6-1 senior forward, added 16 points, all in the first half as Thurston led 38-29 at little," Schuette said. "We were intermission. He also grabbed 10 rebounds. Danny Perttula came on strong in the second half, scoring 11 of his 13 points, including a pair of big three-pointers in the second half. Despite being only 5-9, the senior also proved he could play above the rim, goaltending a shot by Ken Swider in the final minute. And not to be outdone was Walter Hughes, a 5-7 post player, who came off the bench to contribute 12 points. His three-pointer from the corner as time expired gave Thurston an 18-10 first-quarter advansenior, each added six points. Meriahead." da also snared eight rebounds.

"JUSTIN (McEWEN) seemed to be in the right spot at the right time in the first half," Schuette said. "And Danny (Perttula) woke up in the second half. Rob DeLyon hit a couple of 'threes' that will hurt anybody. We had seven three-pointers, and that's the most we've had this year."

Rebounding was also a big factor in the win over the taller Dearborn

"I thought in the first half they (Dearborn) got too many shots at the hoop," Schuette said. "We needed to have all five guys crashing the boards instead of three or four.

"And Walter Hughes came off the bench again to give us a lift and Jeremy Courvall played a much better second half."

Despite giving up almost threeto-four inches per man, Thurston outrebounded Dearborn 17-8 in the final period. "They're strong kids and they jump well," Dearborn coach Don McCathney said of the Eagles. "And late in the game they shot well in critical situations. Our game plan was to make them play perimeter basketball and take shots with a hand up on them, but they got loose on a few too many."

DEARBORN'S TRAPPING zone defense caused 16 Thurston turnovers, but the Pioneers couldn't capitalize on the offensive end, hitting just 24 of 60 shots from the floor for 40 percent. Mohammed Abdrabboh and Randy Nickel each scored 12 for the Pioneers. Ali Abdrabboh added 10. Thurston, meanwhile, made 28 of 52 shots for 53.8 percent. "The trapping (defense) hurt us a somewhat tentative. Once we'd break the trap, we didn't know what to do with it, especially in the third quarter." Dearborn outscored Thurston 17-

10 in the third, leading on two different occasions, but the Pioneers could not sustain that rally in the final eight minutes. "Our intensity at the beginning of the game hurt us, we just didn't play hard," McCathney said. "The third quarter was a lot closer to the tenacity we've displayed throughout the season. I just just hope this motivates us for Friday (against NSL opponent Dearborn Edsel Starters Jamal Merida, a 5-11 Ford). It's a big league game for junior, and Jeremy Courval, a 6-1 us. We could have been looking

Thurston can also clinch a league title Friday with a victory at home against last-place Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

Off-season winter scouting trips aid deer hunters ends, most hunters put their equipment away and forget about the sport for the next 10 months. Many load up the ice fishing equipment and spend the winter months diddling their time away while others retreat to the warm comfort of the not-so-great indoors.

Granted, ice fishing is fun and it offers an enjoyable pasttime for the outdoor enthusiast during the long, cold months of winter. But deer hunters who are lured onto the lakes only to forget about the ways of the woods are missing a great opportu-

Serious deer hunters, particularly those who hunt the southern zone of Michigan, realize the value of midwinter scouting and schedule a couple trips to their favorite hunting areas during the winter freeze. Rabbit hunters often make a trip to their favorite deer hunting area just to take a look around - rabbits or not. Rabbit season remains open through the end of March.

DEER HABITS change drastically during the winter in the northern sections of the state where deep snow forces the animals to gather in herds (also known as yarding-up) in cedar swamps and other heavy cover areas where they find shelter from the harsh environment and a limited supply of food. Deer yard-up in the southern counties as well, but their feeding and sleeping habits don't change as drastically as those of their counterparts in the north. Let's face it, 'southern Michigan winters over the last several years have been mild to say the least. In southern Michigan, where the primary food source is often the local farmers' crop, feeding habits of deer remain similar to what they are throughout the growing season. Fields of cut corn, and other crops like clover, alfalfa and rye that have not been plowed under provide a stable and nutritious buffet for the deer herd in the area.

A MAJOR ASPECT of successful deer hunting is to know the habits of the deer you're after. Winter scouting can hold the key to learning some of those habits.

Certainly, deer habits are bound to change when the rut is in full peak. Bucks particularly, will often travel miles out of their normal range in search of a receptive doe. But most main runways remain active throughout the year. Runways con-

Early in the hunting season when foliage is thick, or later in the season when the ground is bare and not yet. covered with snow, locating these runways can be time consuming and tedious,

During the winter months, however, lack of foliage and a good cover of snow help enormously in locating. deer and their runways.

Bedding areas are also easy to spot as the snow is melted in the beds themselves and droppings, which are frequent in bedding areas,

Once you've located these areas and the runways that connect them, the hard part is done. All that's left is the hunt.

DAYLIGHT HOURS regulate the antler growth of a bucks. As the days grow shorter in the fall and early winter antler growth reaches its peak. As the days begin to grow longer and winter drifts into spring, bucks lose their antlers and begin to grow a new set. Most racks on Michigan bucks fall off during February and March. Hunters who are scout-home with a bonus, and proof that a big-rack buck still roams the area. If you've already caught your fill of fillets or are simply suffering from cabin fever, bundle up and get out to your hunting spot. The rewards you reap this fall will be well worth the time spent now. , _ocals get 2 cents in on Fantasy cruise ship

I found John and Edie Fuller on the dock at Port of Miami, just after I disembarked from the cruise ship Fantasy. I was standing in the Florida sun waiting for my husband to bring the car around when I looked down and saw the luggage tag: "Farmington Hills." John lives in the Hills and works at The Travel Authority in Southfield.

I had already spent several hours looking for Colleen Flynn on board the ship. I didn't make contact with her until after we both got home. Colleen, who lives in Wolverine Village, north of Novi, is the southeast Michigan director of sales for Carnival Cruise Lines.

I was looking for these people because I wanted a "Michigan opinion" on what Carnival Cruise Lines calls the SuperLiner Fantasy. But first I wanted to know how the ship fits into the overall cruise picture and why you, my reader, would like it.

There are several ships doing three- and four-day itineraries, but Fantasy is the first new ship built specifically for that market. Royal Caribbean followed with their ship, Nordic Empress. Apparently these three- and fourday cruises are particularly popular in southeast Michigan. "In 1990, one out of two cruise travelers in southeast Michigan picked a three- or four-day trip," Colleen said. "Las Vegas is al-ways a very popular destination from here and I think that many travelers find the short cruise an afternative to Las Vegas.

"We have the largest shipboard casino in the world, although we don't focus on it.

"A lot of different people choose short cruises. We're heavy on business travelers and two-income families that don't have time for a long vacation. The Fantasy also suits people on a limited budget, because they can't afford a longer vacation."

Colleen does a lot of seminars with travel agencies to reinforce the basic truth of cruising: Travelers should pick the ship that suits their style and a good travel agent can help them do it.

"If people want a formal experience, black tie at dinner, they should choose another ship. If they love casual, and don't want to wear a suit and tie for dinner, they love the Fantasy." John Fuller agrees.

"There is a cruise ship to fit every traveler. The Fantasy is glitzy. Royal Caribbean's Nordic Princess does the same three- and four-day itinerary and is more upscale.

"Cruise ships share more or less the same itinerary. They all have casinos. Most of them have pretty good food. So you pick for style, price and maybe ports of John says that short cruises are also great for honeymooners or those who want to try cruising before they commit to a longer cruise.

"They all offer packages that include Walt Disney World. Number one in that category is Premiere Cruise Lines, which sails out of Port Canaveral.

"An alternative is the Chandris ship Britannis, which does a fiveday budget cruise to Key West Playa del Carmen (near Cancun Mexico) and Cozumel, Mexico."

John thinks that the Fantasy is "quite a ship!" and riding it is a great way to test the cruise market in an atmosphere of glitz and John suggests that you ask your travel agent about cruise discounts. He also wants to remind travelers that it does not cost any money to use a travel agent. Their commissions are paid by the hotel, airline or other relevant member of the travel industry.

BIG BOAT

70,000-ton 'SuperLiner' plows the seas

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

When you board the cruise ship Fantasy, officially called the Super-Liner Fantasy, your first impression is light, glitter and color. If you have met Joe Farcus, or have been to the Crystal Palace Resort & Casino in Nassau, you'll understand why. Joe is the architect and interior designer for Carnival Cruise Lines, which owns both the Palace and the Fantasy, and he loves to paint the world with colored lights:

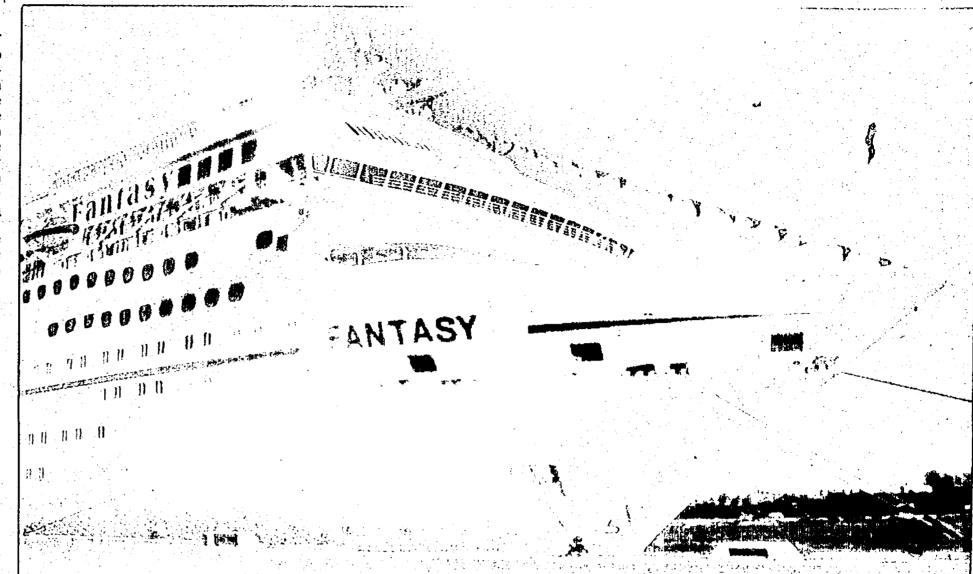

You board The Fantasy on the Empress deck, where you follow the lights into the Grand Spectrum, an atrium that gleams and glows and blinks with light. The two elevators going up six decks and down again are painted in red neon. The 20-foothigh kinetic sculpture is a rotating cylinder of changing colors.

Tiny light bulbs follow the spiral staircase to the second floor where various shipboard facilities that surround the mezzanine are signed in light. You have to climb the Grand Staircase to see ancient Egypt at work in Cleopatra's Bar and Pavillion, but that's Joe Farcus all over.

In case you missed it, the Fantasy is a very large cruise ship launched in 1990 to make three- and four-day cruises from Miami to Nassau and back. It is 855 feet long, weighs 70,367 tons and could carry 2,634 passengers if every bed and bunk was full.

I took an overnight "Cruise to Nowhere" offered to travel agents and travel writers, which means we boarded one afternoon and disembarked early the next morning. The coastal lights of Florida were al-fast-paced younger crowd for its fun ships, although I have cruised with people of all ages on their ships.

My overall response to the ship was that it gives you a lot of glitz and glamor for a reasonable price, the ship's style. Carnival aims at a with comfortable staterooms, good food, interesting and innovative bar and entertainment areas. It is easy to get around in, in spite of its size.

You can have a lot of fun in a very busy, 21st century movie-scene setting. If you prefer a quiet, more elegant atmosphere, you might try another new ship in the three- and fourday market, the more upscale Nordic Empress. (See related story.)

When you board any ship, your first moves are to check out the cabin, read the day's activity list, sign ing and find your way among the entertainment facilities. As in most of the new ships, the 54

Lavish cruise ship plays host to 37 area guests

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

I asked Dallas Phillips of Phillips Travel Service Inc. in South Lyon if he could find me somebody who has sailed on the Nordic Empress, one of the two new cruise ships that entered the three/four-day cruise market in 1990.

I was lucky. Dallas has worked more than once with Linda Gasparott of Plymouth, who calls herself "a frustrated travel person who would like to be in the travel business but never had the chance."

Dallas Phillips organized a trip for Linda when she took the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band to Orlando to march in the electric parade at Walt Disney World and then on to march in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day 1989.

There were 254 people on that trip, including band members, families and friends. Not bad for somebody who doesn't think of herself as being in the travel business.

Organization has information about 35 different cruise lines

Cruise Lines International Association, which represents 35 cruise lines worldwide, is a great source of information about cruising. For information on where to go, whether to take the kids, what to pack, etc., send for a free booklet called "Cruising: Answers to Your Questions" from CLIA, 500 Fifth Ave., Suite 1407, New York, N.Y. 10110.

Ask for charts showing services and facilities that might influence your choice of a ship. For example:

• The typical cruise passenger moved from one big meal to another, starting on the deck before breakfast and ending on the deck for the midnight buffet. Many passengers still

But more and more cruisers are asking for fresh fruit and muffins, turkey breast and cottage cheese, as well as a jogging track and gym to work those calories off. More and more cruise ships are responding to this demand by offering low-fat, lowcholesterol Items on their menus, and special diets by request. Ask for

• You can't take your kids on all cruise lines, because it isn't always worth the price or the hassle of childhood boredom. But family cruising has grown by 50 percent during the last two years, according to a "Better Homes and Gardens" poll, encouraging cruise lines to add toddler rooms, teen discos, children's videos and special shore excursions. Ask for a chart.

• If your idea of cruising is to stretch out beside the pool all day, you may be a little behind the times. Some people still do nothing but work on their tans, but many cruise ships have added weight rooms, exercise bikes and Nautilus equipment as well as treadmills and rowing machines. Some even have saunas and basketball courts! Ask for a chart.

bean. If you shop on a cruise ship, you probably won't fall overboard either, but you will be a lot closer to that blue-green tropical water.

Once upon a time, cruise "shops' were tucked between the book rack and the drug store. Now they are beginning to look like malls. Shop carefully. Duty-free savings are not always terrific. But bring enough money to explore the porcelains and other things that may be good buys on a cruise ship in specific settings.

• And if you are one of those much-maligned single travelers, forced to pay a single supplement in order to lodge alone in a double room, ask CLIA for charts showing ships that have single rooms. You might be interested to know that the only two lines that don't charge a single supplement are the Premiere Cruise Lines and World Explorer • If you shop at Twelve Oaks, Cruises. Rates for a three-day cruise range from $500 to $1,000 per person, including air fare. The fourday cruise costs about $100 more. Rates go down about $20 per person April through May and again in November. Check your travel agent for good discounts right now, when everybody in the travel industry is cutting rates to attract clients.

The layout of the Fantasy makes it easy to get around, because the atrium is the focal point and everything spreads out from there. A polished steel walkway called Century Boulevard meanders for 450 feet through a half dozen watering holes on the Promenade Deck.

There are always passengers talking and drinking at tables, wandering in and out of the Electricity Discotheque or walking through the giant milk can that forms the entrance to the Cat's Lounge.

My favorite hangout was the Cleopatra Bar and Pavillion overlooking the atrium on the Atlantic Deck. There were always passengers sitting on the high leather stools while the round piano went round and round in the round bar. The library and reading areas of the Pavillion looked a little lonely, but were well stocked with books, games and quiet corners.

If you have ever cruised, you know the whole experience revolves around food: multi-course breakfast, lunch, dinner, with midnight buffets and afternoons tea thrown in to keep your sugar level aloft. Like most cruise ships, the Fantasy offers a wide array of excellent food and lots of glitz to go

The evening stage show we saw in the Universal Lounge was good news/bad news. The show was brisk and musical, with good stage settings, but you should get there early enough to sit on the ground floor. Upstairs you are looking through glass panels and railings that cut your view of the stage nearly in half.

It takes a few hours for passengers to realize that Joe Farcus controls his colored lights with a computer, which makes them change slowly from one color to another as day and night progress. By morning, when the round piano has stopped rotating and the authentic Egyptian life-sized figures are staring in stone across the atrium, the lights on the railings and the shops have dimmed to white, leaving only the red neon elevators to go up and down in a rising and falling show of light.

GOLD TREASURE IN PERU

A treasure trove of pre-incan gold, found three years ago by archaeologists in northern Peru, is the focus of a new 10-day tour of Peru called "The Gold of Sipan." The tour is operated by Miami-based 4th Dimension Tours which specializes in travel to Latin America.

In 1988 archaeologists unearthed the 1,700-year-old tomb of the Lord of Sipan, a nobleman of the Mochica culture. In the tomb, the lord was found buried beneath pure gold tributes that include headdresses, breastplates and masks, ear ornaments, necklaces and bracelets, and intricately sculpted figurines.

The land rate through 1991 is $750 per person, double-occupancy, including accommodations, some meals, sightseeing, transfers, taxes and baggage handling at airports and hotels. The price including round-trip air from Miami is $1,495. For more information on tours, consult your travel agent.

Barbara Gentile's miniatures fit in the palm of your hand. Here she places the garlic-pressed strands of clay hair onto a Raggedy Ann doll.

Clay miniatures

She works in a downsized world

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

ARBARA GENTILE of Garden City uses sewing needles and toothpicks to sculpt intricate features on her clay miniatures of country bunnies, bears, dogs and Raggedy Ann dolls.

The last creation, a lop-eared bunny gets lost in the palm of your hand. Many of the miniatures are smaller than a quarter or nickel, at their bases.

Gentile began to craft the miniature clay sculptures "about four years ago."

"I took a class with my daughter's Brownie troop (crafting) clay miniatures and I was hooked," Gentile said

As she sits at her work table, Gentile automatically reaches for the block of clay, pinches off a small piece, then begins to roll, form and sculpt it in her hands. Before long, she completes a bear no bigger than a sewing thimble, then begins another.

Gentile sells her miniature creations at craft shows, from Plymouth to Troy.

On March 3, she'll exhibit her country and Victorian clay miniatures at the Craft Gallery's Folk Art & Victorian Craft Show at Roma's of Garden City. Sixty crafters display their wares in the spring show, which includes country painted wood, soft sculpture and Earl Americana items of every description.

FOR PEOPLE into country, "the current rage in home decorating is to fill a shadow box with miniatures of the collector's favorite things.

"Some people come to the shows clutching swatches of wallpaper. They want to be sure that it will fit into their home color scheme," Gentile said. "Another lady asked me to craft a dog in the same colors as hers, brown and white."

Gentile reached into the box that held a miniature population of finished clay wonders. Sure enough, a log-eared pooch in a lying position sported spots of brown and white.

Gentile makes her miniatures from oven-tempered clay. Initially, she uses a pasta press to flatten pieces of clay to make clothes for her critters. Then with pizza cutter in hand, she cuts out the pattern to fashion a skirt, shirt or bonnet.

With a garlic press, she presses out streams of clay strings, soon to become hair on Raggedy Ann and Andy.

Gentile's husband, Tony, sets up the display booth for the craft shows. They have two daughters:

Stephanie, 10, and Mallory, 6.

"The miniatures give us extra income to pay for all the figure skating lessons," Gentile said.

"This is Stephanie's first year competing."

Along with clay miniatures,
Gentile crafts heart-shaped earrings, bear pins and necklaces.

Prices for the clay miniatures
"range from $2.50 for a little bear to $9 for standing dolls."

"When people ask if they're fragile, I say yes they are fragile," Gentile said. "That's why I tell people to put them on a shelf and leave them."

Admission to Craft Gallery's Folk Art & Victorian Craft Show is $2. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, March 3 at Roma's of Garden City, 32550 Cherry Hill, between Merriman and Venoy. Call 274-7076.

Lena Massara displays a 45- by 40-inch abstract collage created from paper, canvas, burlap and metal fragments. Though her method may be nontraditional today, she says, like a schooled figure skater, she mastered the compulsory work before developing her own style.

Painter's passion zeros in on experimenting in abstract art

By Janice Tigar-Kramer special writer

Artist Lena Massara appears almost giddy describing how she plans an abstract acrylic painting — how she applies layers of transparent and opaque colors to unprimed canvas and waits for the magic to begin.

"It's fun to experiment with the process," says the Farmington Hills artist and 1990 recipient of the Artist In Residence honor from the Farmington Area Arts Commission.

As she shoots watered down colors from squeeze bottles, then sprays the picture with a fine mist of water to make colors run, she says: "Maybe my technique isn't traditional but it's how I work best,"

Before the painting dries, Massara might semb the colors with the wooden and of the paint brush or spatter on an additional color to complement what she already has created.

Though Massara's method may be nontraditional today, she points out that, like a schooled figure skater, she mastered the compulsory work

"An artist has to develop skill, then see and then draw," she said. "I'd never have the courage to experiment today if I hadn't learned 'An artist has to develop skill, then see and then draw. I'd never have the courage to experiment today if I hadn't learned the basics first.'

Teen artist wins regional honor

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

Karen Smathers, a Hallmark winner in the Scholastic Art-Awards competition, never needs encouragement to create a work of

The Livonia teenager covers her; senior high notebooks with drawings. In fact, she covers just about everything she touches with drawings, many of them of Jim Morrison and The Doors.

For the last four years, her mother, Judy, looked at Karen's obsession to draw on everything as more advantageous than enduring other unbearable teenage habits. Now, it has begun to pay off.

Karen submitted eight pieces of her art to the regional Scholastic Art Awards competition. Four of them took awards.

She won the coveted Hallmark for a colored pencil work entitled. "Sharon," a blue ribbon and a gold key in the pencil-drawing category and certificates for watercolor and mixed media.

Smathers is a senior, in her fourth year of the Creative and Performing Arts program at Churchill High School in Livonia.

Her art, along with that of th rest of the winners of Scholast Art Awards, is on display at Sumit Place Mall in Waterford Toilship through Sunday, Feb. 24.

"THE SCHOLASTIC show ireally good because it gives youexposure," Karen said. "The colges really look at that, and that important when you're trying tget a scholarship,"

The Livonia Public Schools Creative and Performing Arts (CAPA) program, now in its fifth year, deserves recognition for its encouraging efforts on behalf of the arts.

The CAPA program provides the "kids that are totally committed to the arts, a one-on-one experience," said Barb Demgen, an art instructor in the program.

ART IS only one of the creative arts taught in the CAPA program, drama and music being equally stressed as well. There are approximately 140 students in the program.

To obtain entry into the program four years ago, Karen Smathers had to submit a portfolio of her art-

"She spends half a day at Stevenson High School, her home base," her mother said, "then she's bused for the other half of the day to Churchill. She's worked really hard for this."

"Karen is the first to come through the CAPA program and win an award," Judy Smathers said. "She is a National Honor Society student and an 'A' student."

There were more than 4,600 entries in the annual Scholastic Art Awards competition in the southeastern Michigan region, which includes 130 schools.

Five students were awarded the Hallmark.

"I think what they look for with the Hallmark," Barb Demgen said, "is something different, the approach (to the piece) is different. The Hallmark is based on the technique, but also on the angle, interpretation, the emotion."

The national competition will be in June in New York.

"At that point," Demgen said, 'you're looking at one young artist winning out of 200,000 students."

the play between the different layers and colors. I feel good working in an nontraditional way. I let what happens happen."

Even in her abstract work on canvas or rice paper, Massara starts with a realistic subject, then "pushes and throws" the paint to find shape and texture. She usually works on three or four paintings at once, though one might be spread on the basement floor so that she can examine it while doing other projects.

A WORK in progress, for example, was on the floor in one position or another for three months. One day the artist recognized human figures in the abstract. Those shapes inspired her to create more figures and faces from other shapes in the acrylic painting.

She finally cut the work into several pieces so the figures would face the same way. Eventually, the picture will be mounted on white linen and framed in a lucite box.

"I'm not a fast painter because I always have to relate to the work. If I'm not satisfied, I'll scrub the paint and apply new layers of color until I can't do any more to the work or to the canvas," she said. Massara started entering juried³ art shows about 11 years ago, but her paintings (mostly landscapes and still life in oil) were quickly accepted by local galleries.

HER CURRENT work, including abstracts and semiabstract landscapes, is on display at the Atrium Gallery, 113 N. Center, Northville. The paintings are priced at $550 to $1,200.

Club's Silver Medal Show in Detroit through February. One of two pieces commissioned by Auto Aire, the collage is made of the material found in the nose cone of a jet aircraft, a part manufactured by the Lansing firm. The collage is priced at $700.

If someone had told Massara just two years ago that she would be painting abstract work and assembling collages, she would have "laughed out loud." But her career, in general, somewhat surprises the Massara always dreamed of a career in art, but she chose traditional, secure work in the 1950s as an x-ray technician. She left her job at a local hospital to raise four children, but she was always on hand to paint scenery for school plays or to illustrate displays for science projects.

"I think the work you really want to do lies in wait until a door opens," she said. "Art is something I have to do now."

BESIDES WORKING in her studio each day, sometimes as early as 3 a.m. to capture an inspiration, Massara takes art workshops and is a member of the Farmington Artists Club. She also meets every month with a group of artist-friends who critique each other's work.

Massara says she's more comfortable creating the work than marketing it but that's not unusual for an

"Every piece of work is a part of me. I'm never completely satisfied. I'm always thinking that maybe the next one will be a masterpiece."

In our unpredictable economy, we're all searching for bargain prices on cameras, lenses and other photographic equipment. Our thrifty efforts should apply to film, too. Where we shop for film, how we shoot it, and where we get it processed can all produce noticeable cost savings:

Here are some ideas that will help you save money on film and process-

Use the slowest speed film that lighting conditions will allow. In other words, don't always use fast film. Higher ASA films not only cost more, but colors are not as vivid and grain is more pronounced.

Consider using slide film as your color alternative. The cost of processing a roll of slide film is considerably less than that of a roll of color negative film. You can then have prints made from your best slides.

For those of you who prefer color negative film, having a print made from each negative can be expensive. Next time, request that only a proof sheet be made when your film is processed. Then select just the ones that are your favorites and have enlargements made from these.

Think about doing some work in black and white. Black and white film and processing is less expensive than color. Black and white can enhance the aesthetics of many subjects and might just motivate you into doing your own darkroom work. Regular black and white users should consider buying film economically in bulk and then load your own film cassettes.

Shop around for specials. Many camera shops and large discount stores will save you considerably on film. Film that includes processing mallers can also save you money.

Learn to "short load" film. Here's how it works: As soon as the film leader is attached to the takeup reel. close the camera back and take up the film tension by a couple turns on the rewind knob. Advance two more frames and you're ready to begin your roll. Doing this will usually give you a couple of extra shots on each

Conserve on film by not shooting as many pictures as you are used to. Concentrate on quality rather than quantity. Take your time. Compose more thoughtfully and expose more carefully. Think "making photographs" rather than "taking snapshots."

Take note of the expiration dates on your film. If you think you won't use it all up before it expires, place your film in the freezer. This way, it will last indefinitely. Just allow a few hours for thawing out before loading your camera.

Finally, take routine precautions with your film to make sure all your shots will come out. Ask for visual. inspections at airports to avoid x-ray devices. Make sure when using flash that you are at the right synchronization speed. Make sure the rewind knob reverses as you advance the film to assure the film is properly moving through the camera. And, during hot weather, don't leave your loaded camera in a hot car where the heat may spoil those special

START AS HIGH AS $10.06 PER HOUR AFTER COMPLETION OF OUR PAID TRAINING PROGRAM

First of America Bank introduces a bold new concept... a part-time option for people who prefer to work part-time rather than full-time. This exciting new part-time option is convenient and profitable. Starting rates are from $7.33 to $10.06 per hour. depending on the hours in the schedule you select. We offer a variety of predictable schedules from 1-5 days, and 8-19 hours per week. Generally, the fewer hours you work, the more you earn per hour.

No Experience Required. We offer a paid training program, so previous teller experience is not required. And, we recognize the value of your experience at home, from volunteer work, or on the job. Our three to four week, full-time training program will teach you all you'll need to know to become a successful teller.

FOA's Peak Time option is ideal for busy people who want the convenience of part-time work, with the financial rewards of peak hourly rates.

Slow-growth/no-growth groups couldn't do it. Wetlands and woodlands preservation boards couldn't do it.

Lawsuits, public outcries, citizens groups, environmentalists, referendums, traffic congestion - every circumstance and obstacle that manifested itself before the building industry has failed to prevent development.

But the economy — now that's a worthy opponent.

The souring economy hasn't stopped development - many projects ranging from simple residential ventures to high-tech research and development projects continue but it has given the building industry reason to pause and reconsider.

The hard and fast rule is that if it's under construction, or financed, preleased and permitted, it will probably be built. If it's still in the early planning stages where the land is still vacant, many builders will sit back and wait until the economy strengthens - which could be tomorrow, later this year or 1999.

Some projects have already been effected by the economy.

THE ORIGINAL plans for Chestnut Hills, a $60-million office, hospitality, medical complex in northwest Livonia have been set aslde and construction delayed until new plans are adopted because of a slowdown in · the restaurant and hotel industry.

But developers are still seeking tehants for office parts of the devel-

Phase II of the Chrysler Technology Center in Auburn Hills, which includes a 40-acre automotive supplier technical park has been postponed indefinitely. The remainder of the facility is on schedule and is due to open later this year.

Victor Corporate Park in northwest Livonia at Seven Mile Road and I-275, had a major tenant — the Digital Corp. — postpone construction of a new corporate office center, but plans for construction of other office space - as well as a restaurant are still proceeding.

Still other projects seem un-touched by the economy's capricious

A slowdown in the restaurant and hotel industry has forced construction at Livonia's Chestnut Hills to be delayed until new plans are developed.

Auburn Mills, a 2-million square foot outlet mall, has gained financing, settled all of its legal disputes and now seems poised to begin construction in hopes of a 1992 opening.

ALLIED CENTER, a major office development in Southfield, has cleared all major hurdles and has begun construction.

David Johnson, a vice president of Victor International, the company building Victor Corporate Park in Livonia, said he doubts any builders will cancel projects already under construction.

Many of the projects are already pre-leased so current economic conditions won't have an impact on them. Also, once construction begins, a builder has too much invested to stop construction.

Things would have to be far worse than they are to stop a project under construction, he said.

Another factor having an impact on a developer's decision to go ahead with a development is its location. Much of the metropolitan office market has stalled, so a developer of office buildings in the overbuilt sections of Southfield would probably be wise to hold off on new construction.

But developers in the I-275 corriproceed cautiously with projects, thanks to favorable leasing rates and occupancy levels. 'That corridor in general has done really well," Johnson said. It's diffi-cult to find a building with 5,000 consecutive square feet.

"I think you'll see a lot of projects put on hold and some will be altered, but developers who have staying power realize this is only a temporary thing."

SOME OF THE NEWER office buildings with higher vacancies have reason to be optimistic, Johnson said, because the five-year leases dor in western Livonia could still signed in the first wave of the building boom are beginning to expire. Those tenants will be looking for off-

Joel Feldman, president of Feldman Real Estate Consulting Services, sald many projects — those still in the planning stages - have already been canceled or postponed. It can take years to get all the permits and planning approval for a large project, Feldman said, so projects in the very early stage can be canceled or postponed without much hardship for the builder.

"Supply and demand are completely out of whack," Feldman said. The speculative building of the mid-to late 1980s has created a glut of office space, he said, and until it is filled, builders are going to have a difficult time getting financing.

The only way an office builder can get financing today is if he substantially pre-leases a project, Feldman said.

Jason Horton, executive vice president of the Tray based REDICO, which is building the Allied Center in Southfield, said builders will postpone, rather than cancel projects outright.

"No one makes a threshold decision to cancel a project."

MOST BUILDERS will then sit on the land and wait until times get better, rather than sell, Horton said.

Few investors are going to buy property during a down time unless they can get a good deal on it. So it's better for the builders to forgo large land inventories and just wait out the rough times.

Horton said he's not even certain hings should be considered "bad."

"I wouldn't be surprised if I saw a big project started now," he said. True, certain areas of the building industry are down - particularly office - but commercial and residential construction continue at a slowed pace.

Southfield director of community development Don Gross said he's just as busy now as he ever was, but it's not difficult to envision a slow-

There are a lot of projects already under way that will be finished, he said, but which way the economy goes will dictate if projects still on the drawing board ever get off the ground.

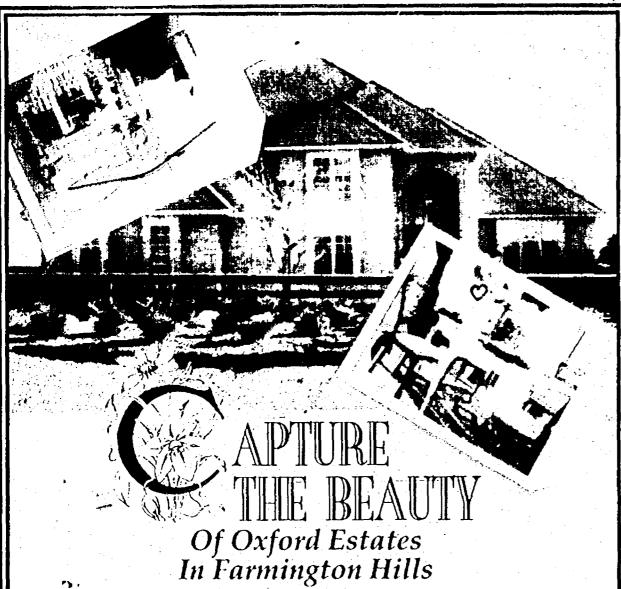

What it all boils down to, he said, is that unless the economy makes a fairly quick turnaround, there's not going to be a lot of new construction.
"They (builders) probably aren't going to start construction if they haven't already."

But a lack of new construction does not mean an end to economic development. Builders may be hard pressed to get financing, but there will be development of a slightly different kind.

New construction is taking a back seat to redevelopment, he said. Aging structures are going to have to be remodeled if they are going to retain current tenant, he said.

"That's where the opportunities are," he said.

Housing starts stable in state

Residential construction in Wayne County grew a whopping 227 percent in December with 298 units compared to 91 in November, allowing the county to experience construction stability for 1990. Although the number of units built in 1990 was 1 more than those built in 1989, the county saw a 12.2-percent decreaso in the value of projects.

In Oakland County, construction dipped 30.5 percent for the last month of the year with 173 projects compared to 249 in November. For the year, the county suffered an 11.7 percent drop in number of projects matched by a 12 percent drop in construction value.

Oakland led the state in the number of housing starts with 6,623 in 1990 compared to 7,500 in 1989. Macomb County was second with 5,714, a gain of 15.9 percent over the 1989 figure of 4,932. But despite the increase in the number of housing -starts, values dropped 2.6 percent for the year. Wayne County was third with 3,718 projects in 1990 compared to 3,717 the previous year. Washtenaw County reported a healthy 32.9-percent increase in the number of projects built in 1990 to lead the state on a percentage basis. But while the number of projects jumped to 2,256 from 1,698, the increse in the value of the units built was only 11.5 percent.

The figures were released by the Michigan Association of Home Builders. Statewide, the number of residential units built in 1990 was down 1.3 percent from 1989 for a drop of 3.1 percent in housing value.

The association points to two factors for the stability in residential construction: low interest rates and the fact that mortgage interest rephia $121,200; Washington D.C. $145,400; Chicago mains tax deductible. MAHB points $80,900; Orlando, Fla., $86,600; Los Angeles buyers.

cal panels rest. Staple batts or blanket insulation to the old ceiling.

To cut down noise between rooms, make the wall thicker by cementing a new layer of plasterboard to the old. Here's how:

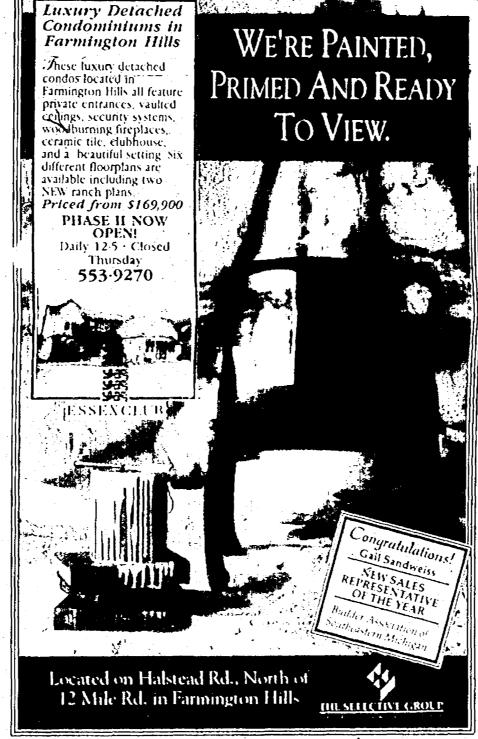

1. First, plan for the edges of the new board to fall along different studs than the old seams. The joints of the two layers should be offset at least 10 inches.

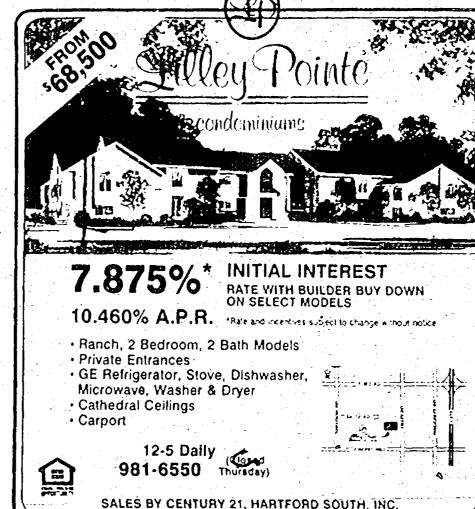

2. Remove all moldings.

3. Apply beads of construction adhesive along all the stud lines.

For added soundproofing, you can nail furring strips to the wall, and put insulation between the strips before attaching the plasterboard.

The most effective wall for reducing sound is the staggered-stud wall. To create this type of wall, strip the old wall to the studs and install a new row of studs just in front of the old ones, spaced midway between them; don't let the top and soleplates touch the old ones or vibrations will be transmitted.
