resident support

By Wayne Peal and Tedd Schneider staff writers

From military families to the person on the street, area residents-are expressing support for President George Bush's decision to begin a ground war in the Persian Gulf.

But the tension — and conflicting emotions - of this past weekend aren't likely to be forgotten.

"It really played on your emo-tions," said William Cole, whose U.S. Marine son is stationed in the gulf. "We were up, we were down. We really thought there would be peace, but I'm glad it finally got started and I hope it will be over soon."

"IT'S SCARY, maybe even more today than last night when it started," said Connie Hutchinson of Redford whose son, also a Marine, is believed to be stationed somewhere near the front. But while this weekend's Soviet peace proposal brought parents a few moments of hope, Hutchinson praised the president for rejecting further negotiations.

"It seemed like all the Russians wanted to do was position themselves," she said. "But you don't see them over there."

IN MANY WAYS, it was business as usual throughout the area Sunday — but the war clearly left its mark.

Many residents, like Bill Mayer of Livonia, headed for church.

"Although the U.N. initiatives don't indicate it. Husseln needs to be removed from power. It's now or never if that's our goal," said Mayer, a parishioner at St. Theodore Catholic Church, Westland.

But while churches were filled, other weekend retreats were empty. "It's been kind of slow," said Lloyd Oliver, manager of the Penn Theater in downtown Plymouth. "I guess people wanted to stay home to see what was happening."

At the Redford Inn, war was as much on the breakfast menu as eggs and bacon.

"If the military continues to run it (the war), it should go smoothly," said J.B. Thompson of Canton, who said he was pleased with the free hand apparently given Allied commanders.

In Livonia, a troop support group continued assembling packages to be sent to the troops.

"Everybody's concerned, but we have a job to do, too," said Yvonne Zapinski, who directs the area chapter of Friends of Freedom.

At the same time, members of UAW Local 182 were busy decorating their Plymouth Road union hall with red, white and blue rib-

But while some residents were awash in patriotic fervor, others wondered whether more couldn't have been done to avoid the ground war.

"I'm not sure they really gave him (Husseln) a chance to get out of Kuwait," said Jane Reese of Garden City. "That bothers me a little. It's like we sald one thing but we really meant something

While protest was non-existent this weekend, area peace groups are now mobilizing for action.

The Committee for a Peaceful Resolution to the Gulf Crisis is continuing its call for a cease fire and has scheduled a protest for 4:30 p.m. today at the McNamara Building, downtown Detroit.

"What's upsetting is that they apparently set the invasion date so far in advance," sald group member Jackie Victor. "It seems they didn't give negotiations a

But others said they doubted whether Saddam Husseln would live up to the terms of any agreed-upon settlement.

"He proven time and again he's not going to listen," said Mike Forester of Redford.

War wins School cuts threaten accreditation

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Wayne-Westland students could lose some college opportunities if district officials reduce the high school day from six hours to five, resulting in a loss of accreditation for John Glenn and Wayne Memorial High Schools, educators said Friday.

The move would make it harder for students to compete for scholarships and get accepted by the colleges and universities of their choice, school officials said.

"I just feel that our children will be getting the short end of the stick unless they're in school for six hours a day," said school board member in the special March 13 election. Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek.

A shorter high school day is among a series of massive budget cuts planned by district officials if voters reject a 7.75-mill tax increase proposing cuts at a time when Millage opponents have accused school officials of "blackmail" by threatening drastic cuts. Critics also have denounced the school board for proposing cuts at a time when Wayne-Westland teachers received salary increases of 11.9 percent over two years.

Wayne-Westland teachers received salary increases of 11.9 percent over two years.

John Glenn and Wayne Memorial could lose their accreditation with the University of Michigan and the North Central Association — a regional agency that accredits high schools in 19 states - under the proposed cuts.

Schools would remain accredited this year, and they would likely be warned next school year before losing their accreditation during the 1992-93 year, said Connie Stoelton, assistant to the NCA director.

THOUGH WAYNE-WESTLAND students wouldn't automatically lose college opportunities, they could lag behind their counterparts from accredited schools in the highly competitive college admissions contest.

Stoelton said. "Some admissions counselors do look at accreditation," she said. If two competing students are equally qualified based on their academic backgrounds, then accreditation could be a deciding factor in the race, Stoelton said.

Local school officials fear the loss of accreditation would cause the district's image to deteriorate, hampering student efforts to get into the colleges and universities of their choice.

'Without accreditation, it would be much more difficult for them to get in," said Dennis Connolly, John Glenn principal. He added that some colleges could perceive that Wayne-Westland students received "an inferior education due to the loss of an hour of instruction" each school day.

WHAT MOST disturbs Connolly is the long-term effect of the hour-aday loss - not only at the high school level, but also at the junior high schools that already have lost an hour each day because of previous cuts.

City urges firms to buy locally

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Westland city officials hope to boost the community's economy by urging stronger ties among local industries.

Local economic advisers believe that some city industries buy products and materials from companies outside of Westland because they're unaware of what's available here.

To change that, the Westland Economic Development Advisory Commission plans to survey industries, compile a list of products they manufacture, and release the findings in a directory that local firms could use when they go shopping.

"We want to encourage the firms in our industrial parks to do business with each other," said

Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic development buying more and selling more on the local front, director.

The effort emerged amid growing fears of a possible long-term business slump because of a widespread economic downturn.

Local economic advisers discussed the project, modeled after a similar effort in Detroit, during a meeting Thursday morning at the Economic Growth Center on Marquette.

SOME 100 surveys will be sent to local industries in the next two to three weeks. Responses are expected by mid-April, at which time economic development officials will compile the results and prepare the directory.

Officials hope the directory will be available for use by late May, Veldhuls said.

Industries would not only benefit financially by they also could receive their products and materials sooner, said Joseph Benyo, economic advisory commission chairman.

"Why should they go out of state to Ohio or Kentucky or some other place when they can get the same product here?" Benyo asked.

Veldhuis stressed that some local industries already have developed close ties.

"To some extent, it's already occurring," he said. But local officials believe such cooperative efforts could be expanded and improved, helping somewhat to ease the local burden of a souring economy. "I think it would spur the local economy," Be-

Moreover, Thomas indicated that a change in the residency rules would require a change in the city charter - not just an ordinance amendment. He suggested the economic advisors petition to have a city charter amendment placed on a local ballot if they feel so strongly about changing the rules.

Thomas blamed the controversy on "politics," saying that some members of local boards and commissions who were appointed by former Westland Mayor Charles "Trav

Their vote to recommend that Fassett's current three-year agreement not be extended comes just days before the Westland City Council is scheduled in a special meeting tonight to act on an extension.

The council deadlocked 3-3 last Monday on an extension of several months. Fassett had proposed a new three-year agreement with a fee increase of 11.7 percent.

The commission voted 6-1 Thursday night to oppose any extension, suggested by the council several weeks ago after Mayor Robert Thomas urged that Fassett be replaced. Thomas is scheduled to introduce his choice as Fassett's replacement at a special council meeting tonight.

sett's agreement tonight, it faces a certain mayoral veto. In that case, the council would need at least five votes to override the veto.

In last week's council session, the proposed extension was deadlocked on at 3-3 with Councilman Thomas Artley absent.

The cable commission, having its first cable-cast meeting for later airing, was upset with Fassett for numerous reasons.

Opposing the extension were commissioners Jo Johnson, Tony Rosati, Eric Radcliffe, David Moranty, Ed Turner and Norma Nicosia.

Voting against the motion was Harold Fowler, who questioned why the council was seeking a commission recommendation now, just a few days before the March 1 expiration of Fassett's contract. He also noted that the responsibility of reviewing contracts belongs to the council, not the cable commission.

Among the major reasons for commissioners not wanting to extend Fassett's agreement were failure to provide more local programming for the city channel (8), too many Channel 8 reruns, not providing requested information on payroll costs, and not giving advice on Continental Cablevision's recently-an-

FOLLOWING THE commission meeting, Fassett said he was surprised at the group's action and that "from my perspective, it wasn't fair criticism."

He reiterated his past positions of claiming that Continental Cablevision violated the 1984 franchise agreement with the city. Specifically, the company failed to acquire 72-channel capacity and meet the hours of local programming included in the agreement.

(In past meetings and communications with the city council, the company has denied any franchise agreement violations.)

Fassett was upset that Continental gave his office only two days notice last spring that it would no longer handle the public access channel programming.

Until that time, Fassett and his staff produced the programs with Continental technically putting the programs in the cable system for viewing.

Fassett said it didn't have the equipment at the time to air the access programs. Eventually, he obtained grants to allow the airing of the programs.

"If the (cable) commission is dissatisfied with my performance, I am also dissatisfied with its performance," Fassett said.

"The commission has failed to address the principal issues involving Continental," he said, referring to the claims the company violated the franchise agreement.

Moranty said he is concerned about the numerous repetition of local programs, especially those featuring the mayor.

He was also unhappy about the decrease of public access producers whose programs were to appear on Channel 18. With about 31 names on the list of producers, there were 13 to 15 persons regularly producing programs.

At the producers' meeting held Thursday night, only two appeared.

Commission chairwoman Johnson was the most vocal in opposing a Fassett contract extension.

"Cable Management Associates (which is owned by Fassett) is not doing the job required," she said.

Johnson was also upset about seeking payroll information last summer on the CMA's employees and not getting it despite numerous reminders. Radcliffe was opposed to the contract extension for several reasons. One is what he felt was excessive repetition of local programs, such as a kick boxing tournament, figure skaters and broadcasts featuring Mayor Thomas.

RADCLIFFE ALSO thought the current agreement with Fassett would have him working exclusively for Westland.

Area leaders urge Detroit site for new Tiger stadium

By Tim Richard staff writer

The Detroit Tigers Baseball Club should reconstruct its 79-year-old stadium or build a new one in the city, leaders of a regional planning agency agreed.

The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments said Friday it favors using existing infrastructure over expanding into suburban meadows.

'Isn't there going to be any discussion?" asked a non-voting member, Rose Collins, an aide to state Sen. John Kelly, D-Detroit, as the top SEMCOG panel passed the resolution by unanimous voice vote. Collins asked SEMCOG to pick one option — saving the existing stadium or building in Detroit — rather than two. She also asked that any public financing scheme consider the surrounding neighborhood at Michigan and Trumbull and not just the stadium project:

THE EXECUTIVE committee of SEMCOG, a seven-county regional planning body, acted after listening to two groups of architects not affiliated with the Tigers show how the stadium could be saved.

"You are about to receive a planthe Detroit Tigers have not seen, even though we have made 25 attempts," said Bob Buchta, president of the Tiger Stadium Fan Club.

'You are about to receive a plan the Detroit Tigers have not seen, even though we have made 25 attempts.'

> - Bob Buchta Tiger Stadium Fan Club president

Buchta accused Tigers owner Tom Monaghan of "pandering to perceptions" that the area is unsafe. "This is not leadership," Buchta said.

Architect John Davids, supporting the fan club, said stadium renovation could be paid for from 70 new executive box suites on the third tier, unused since a fire 15 years ago.

Adams proposed closing off Cochrane Street for an executive dining room and TV truck parking, new clubhouses, expanded toilet facilities, a doubling of the press box and removal of 40 percent of the columns which block fans' view in the second deck.

Tiger Stadium is superior because fans are closer to the field than in many other stadiums, Davids said.

He charged that Monaghan's desire for "controlled parking" would hurt the neighbrhood and "you (fans) would pay what they (Tigers) want."

Monaghan reportedly wants a new stadium with a "controlled environment." He says it would increase attendance by one million.

BIRMINGHAM architect Gunnar. Birkets proposed renovation by hydraulically raising and pushing back the second deck, ending pillars that obstruct seats.

His plan would result in 198 luxury suites (versus the existing one) and more than 5,000 new seats to a capacity of 57,584. Lavatory facilities would be tripled.

Birkets said Monaghan had seen his "self-appointed" group's plan but didn't comment.

Neither group gave a cost estimate for renovation. The stadium is now owned by the city. The Tigers' lease runs until 2008.

The Tigers have played on the same site since 1901 when the American League was formed. The original stands were replaced by Navin Field in 1912 (capacity 23,000). It was expanded in stages to 53,000 under Frank J. Navin and Walter O. Briggs. Monaghan bought the Tigers

When it reaches that milestone, the PTA, which includes Westland members in the Livonia school district, will be the first one in Michigan to do so. Right now, the PTA is the largest in Michigan.

The PTA started the program 183 members shy of the goal. But by the time the festivities ended. 112 PTA fans had forked over $2 to help the local parent-teachers' group speed

Five teachers or PTA members who made significant contributions to the betterment of district students were also honored.

Christine Kleimola, Allen Herrmann and Maureen Costa were honored for being this year's exceptional educators.

Kleimola teaches mentally impaired youngsters at Webster Elementary School.

The two semifinalists from ers.

Griffin "still resent" being asked to step down:

"They probably felt that I was trying to get rid of some of my opposition's people, but that's not true," said Thomas, who defeated Griffin in the last mayoral election.

The mayor said he merely wanted to comply with the city charter's residency requirement.

Meanwhile, Thomas said he has begun considering his choices to replace the appointed board members on April 1 — the deadline he set for the resignations. If the resignations aren't submitted by then, the mayor said he will seek advice from city attorney Bokos on what steps he should take.

sanctions, Husseln offered to provide oil free to third world nations in an effort to curry favor with them, but this was unsuccessful. Hussein gave up territory it had won from Iran after a bloody eight-year war and exchanged prisoners, no doubt in an effort to win support from Iran. Iraq was weakening: Exports were cut by 90 percent, sanctions had 20 times the impact on Iraq's economy as sanctions used previously against other countries. You said on Aug. 28 that "sanctions were working."

By now, after all the bombing, Iraq's capacity to wage nuclear, biological, or chemical warfare has been greatly reduced, or soon will be. Iraq's military machine is being gradually destroyed by aerial bombardment. Now sanctions have an even better chance of working.

IT IS TRAGIC that the chance to base the "new world order" on nonviolent conflict resolution was lost. Let us at least choose now to end a war before more lives are lost, or injuries occur.

tion to a nuclear war. Some Americans have advocated this. Evidently they are not concerned about the horrendous loss of life, but maybe they at least ought to consider the effect of nuclear contamination on a major part of the oil resources for years to come, and what that would do to the U.S. and world economy.

Reduce the drain on world resources and attention. There are other problems: environmental, oppression in the Soviet Union, China and South Africa, nuclear prolifera-

Reduce likelihood of Iraqi terrorism worldwide. Reduce possible human rights violations in the effort to combat terrorism. Reduce risk of possible "vigilante" actions against people suspected of terrorism. Increase chance that U.S. troops can be reduced and rotated. Increase chance that other countries will supply troops, since these would be defensive forces only.

· IN YOUR SPEECH on Jan. 29 you said, "We do not wish to destroy Iraq." It is widely reported that Baghdad is without water, electricity, transportation or communication Reduce the possibility of escala- and is fast becoming deserted. It is time to stop the bombing. Do not begin a ground war. Many people throughout the world will praise the United States for showing mature restraint.

Husseln may continue for some time to attempt to draw our forces into an attack. Defend Saudi Arabia, but do not attack. Why should our troops lose their lives fighting the battle on Iraqi terms? It is said that attacking forces need a manpower advantage of two to one. Neither side has that advantage. When Hussein attacks Saudi Arabia, he attacks the Arab nation with the sites most holy to the Moslems. This is a psychological handicap to Iraq that must be exploited. As long as he stays in Kuwait, he ensures that American troops will remain in the Arab world. This is not an advantage to his claim to "get rid of the infidels."

Nations of the world must remain united in refusing to resupply sanctions. Gradually replace U.S. Hussein with nuclear devices or advanced weapon technology. The United States should lead the way in calling for an international conference to develop treaties, and use our considerable influence to persuade other countries to police their own weapons manufacturers in the time before the treaty is completed.

As long as your orders stand to continue the war, I pray that every bomb hits the target, with no "collateral" (civilian) damage. I pray every one of our troops remains alive and uninjured, and that their missions are successful. But I protest the risk of American lives to achieve the final goal of freeing Kuwait when there is an alternative that could be used.

- I regret that Iraq can use the opposition to your policies to infer a lack of support for our troops, and that people say I speak with forked tongue. But it is "collateral" damage I do not know how to avoid. I cannot remain silent. Why should our sons and daughters risk death so that a monarchy may be restored? We have stopped Hussein; let sanctions restore Kuwait.

Declare a cease-fire. Return to troops by U.N. peacekeeping force Begin troop rotation.

Engler tax plan

Exemption for senior citizens

By Tim Richard staff writer ...

Both the political left and right have doubts about Gov. John Engler's proposal to exempt senior citizens from school operating property

"Why is it good policy for senior citizens to have no stake in the school system?" state-Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, asked fellow members of the Senate Finance Committee as it opened hearings on the 12-bill package.

And a Michigan State Chamber of Commerce spokesman told the panel. "We question whether it's good public policy to exempt people on the basis of age."

Otherwise, Richard K. Studley, a chamber vice president, praised the Republican governor's plan for a 20 percent cut in school property taxes and a cap on assessments while Stabenow criticized it.

draws criticism from both sides

That credit would be phased out where household incomes exceed $73,650. That, Stabenow said in an interview afterwards, is hardly a person who can't afford school taxes. She would reduce the tax relief for higher income home owners.

Currently, senior citizens can takeadvantage of the "circuit breaker" - the state reimburses all property taxes on their homes in excess of 3.5 percent of household income.

Chris Chirio, an unemployed Lansing homeowner, called Engler's proposal "not fair to lower and middle incomes . . . To the average homeowner, it (property tax) is not that big of a deal," said Chirio, who said his winter tax bill was $689.

ENGLER'S proposal is embodied in Senate Bill 70. Co-sponsor Dave Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, made its case in a news release:

"The property tax is unfair because it forces many residents who have lived much of their lives in a home to sell it and abandon a lifement in their home and community because they can no longer afford to pay the tax on their home.

time of social and emotional invest-

'Senior citizens on fixed incomes often fall victim to this trap, especially in my community where the value of residential property has increased dramatically over the years. There's something wrong with a sytem that's forcing people from. their homes," said Honigman, whose district includes the lakes area of western Oakland County.

THE BIG argument is shaping up over whether all property should get a 20 percent break (Engler) or business and higher income homes should be excluded (House Demo-

Said chamber spokesman Studiey: "The House Democratic plan would provide no property tax relief for Michigan's job providers. We think it is unfair to exclude farmers, small business and other employers.

"Worse yet, more than half the funding for the House Democratic plan is based on eliminating a key provision of the single business tax and eliminating industrial property tax abatements.

"These two measures would in effect raise taxes on Michigan's Job providers by $615 million.

'The House Democratic plan has sent a very negative message to job

Countered Stabenow: "We have no guarantee capital will be invested in this state (if property taxes are cut)."

The Senate Finance Committee, chaired by Republican Nick Smith of Hillsdale County, last week held hearings in several outstate cities.

Sen. Doug Carl, R-Utica, whose northern Macomb County district is a hotbed of anti-tax sentiment, said people at the Saginaw hearing thought "it's not time for tax relief because of the recession."

Carl thinks they were wrong: "The message hasn't got out that high taxes destroy economic growth.

Dems' plan

Tax-cut plans outlined

- Exempt the first $30,000 of a home's market value ($15,000 of SEV) from school operating taxes up to 50 percent.
- Index the $30,000 to inflation. • Limit assessment increases to
- the rate of inflation until the home is sold - through constitutional amendment.
- Provide additional homestead tax credits to renters, low-income seniors and disabled.
- Eliminate capital acquisition deduction from single business tax and business tax abatements - an estimated $615 million business tax.

This plan is not yet in bill form.

Muffins pick up morning

My idea of breakfast is usually a cup of coffee. When I feel the need to be healthy, I down a glass of juice. When I'm "with the guys" and this usually means on a fishing trip, bring on the eggs over medium, hash browns, bacon, crisp and dry whole wheat

When I'm constipated, it's a big bowl of Grape Nuts. But when I'm in the mood to create, nothing satisfies the morning taste buds like a batch of homemade muffins.

Even the airlines and Dunkin' Donuts are getting into the muffin swing of things. Gargantuan blueberry muffins with a streusel top adorn just about every doughnut shop shelf while their hockey-puck-hard cousins do their best at bringing on gut-aches on red-eye flights.

Talk to just about anyone about muffins and you are likely to receive an earful on what they think makes the best muffin. Momma has been on an All-Bran kick ever since she discoveredthat bran was good for you, even if it is coupled with two cups of white granulated sugar.

GRANDMA LORY will always be remembered for making cake mulfins that would give Betty Crocker a run for her money with her boxed cupcakes. These never needed frosting, although when we wanted to be decadent, a box of Jiffy chocolate frosting always suited the bill. If Grandma Lory knew this, she would probably roll over in her grave.

Contrary to popular belief, muffins need not be stuffed with $2.99-a-cup blueberries or inoculated with bran. Cinnamon and raisins add a morning/ brunch feel while snack muffins could be made with a mixture of nuts, currants and other fruit. Plain muffins usually have the shortest life span and should be eaten immediately after baking.

Muffins with fruits and vegetables and those made with oil stay moist longer. Keep them out of the refrigerator as they will quickly dry out. Muffins freeze extremely well, especially when placed in a plastic bag and frozen. They are best reheated, wrapped in foil in a hot oven for 15 minutes or so. Microwaving will toughen them and should be used solely as a last resort.

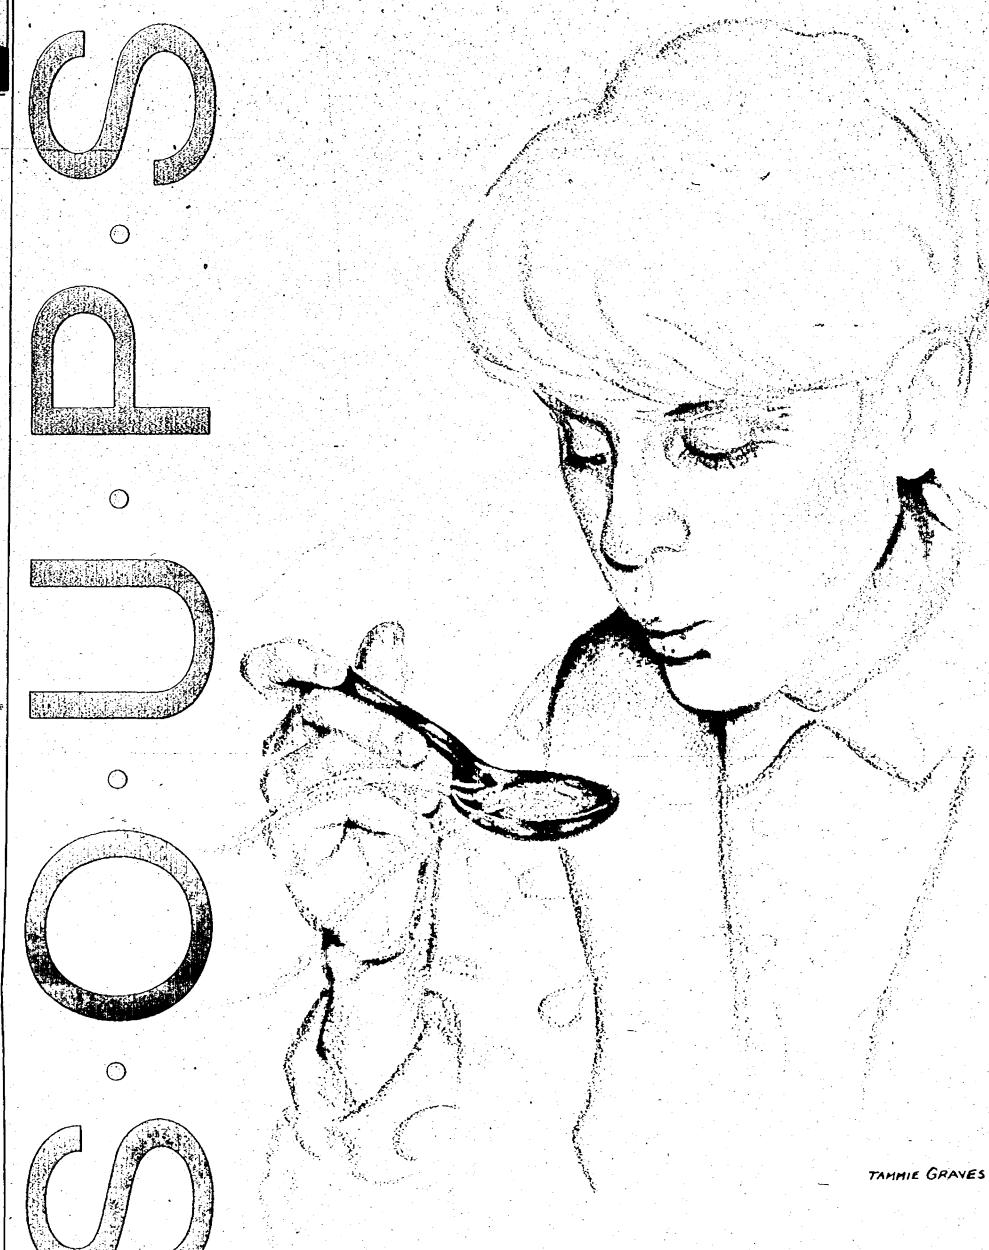

The only problem I see when starting the morning with freshbaked muffins is that you have to sit around and drink coffee for 30 minutes while they bake. This, of course, is in addition to the sink full of dirty dishes that usually accompany the recipe. One way to make muffins in a hurry is to freeze the batter unbaked and bake frozen just before serving. Simply spoon muffin batter into muffin pans lined with foiltype cupcake liners. Freeze, uncovered, until solid (this usually takes 8-10 hours). Remove muffins from the pan and package airtight in foil or plastic bags. Label and date and freeze for up to two months.

TO BAKE, do not thaw. Return muffins to their prepared cupcake pans and bake at 375 degrees until they test done, about 30-35 minutes.

Muffins are quick bread batters and really are best when baked right after mixing. In addition to freezing, which works well, you also can whip up the batter the night before and simply omit the eggs. While the coffee is brewing. take the batter that was previously blended and wellcovered in the refrigerator and simply heat in the eggs. Prepare as usual.

As far as most muffin recipes are concerned, the only thing you want to watch out for is overbeating. Muffins should have a breadlike texture but when: overbeaten will have tunnels caused by the carbon dioxide and peaked tops.

Homemade soups chase winter chills

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

WINTER SOUP PARTY brightens up February at the Observer & Eccentric each year. Everyone in the Livonia newsroom brings something for the party, which is highlighted by an assortment of delicious, hot

All morning the soups that have been prepared the night before simmer in crockpots, hinting at the noon meal. One large table is spread with salads, homemade and storebought breads of all kinds, and other food to accompany the soups.

On another table go the soft drinks, along with the desserts. When it's time to eat, the staffers serve themselves, buffet-style. Usually everyone samples more than one soup, so bowls or mugs may be only halffilled. Going back to the table several times is expected.

It's always a pleasure to see what the soups will be. There's a sign-up sheet, and those who choose to bring soup generally try to pick one different from the others.

THIS YEAR, one cook again made her favorite healthy and hearty black bean soup, which is always popular with staffers. Another cook made a minestrone soup she enjoys, taken from a recipe in a vegetarian cookbook.

An easy-to-make corn chowder, from a cookbook of microwave recipes, was tried for the first time by another cook. One cook said his recipe for potato soup also was a firsttime effort, but he changed the recipe, as he always does.

In years past, the soup party was more of a soup-only effort. Those who didn't bring soup brought bread, and there was usually a salad and maybe a dessert or two. But each year, the fare has become more varied. The number of desserts seems to be on the rise, and this year a half dozen included everything from nobake cheesecake to chocolate pound

There are still many cold days ahead. Perhaps a soup party would be a way for you and your co-workers, or family and friends to share a warming meal. You could even make an interesting weekend family party by having members of the household make soups at their lelsure, put all the soups into the fridge or freezer, then bring them out for sampling at the same time.

Coney Islands are Keros family tradition

By Anne R. Lehmann special writer

To some they are franks, others weiners, some sausages and for most hot dogs. But for metropolitan Detroiters they are coney islands.

This Detroit-area phenomenon was the brainchild of Greek immigrants Gus and Bill Keros, who after visiting Coney Island amusement park in New York, recognized endless possibilities for this tasty and interestingly shaped blend of meat.

They left the mustard, eliminated New York's flavored sauerkraut, replaced it with onions and chili and christened it with the name of the place which inspired it. They opened the Lafayette and American Coney Islands downtown. The doors were open 24 hours a day, and people frequented the restaurant around the clock, including before and after games, theater or family outings. That was 80 years ago. Since then, coney islands have become as much a part of Detroit's restaurant landscape as fast-food burgers. It is Kerby's Koney Island, however, established in 1968, which many claim serves the Cadillac of coneys. This has become popular knowledge, so much so that many visiting celebrities, former Detroiters and out-of-towners alike, are known to walt in their cars while their chauffeurs come in to pick up an order of coneys.

A FAMILY BUSINESS run by three Keros brothers — Van, Tim and Bill (newphews of Gus and Bill)

- Kerby's boasts 11 restaurants throughout Southeastern Michigan, with many located in area malls. They opened their first store at Tel-Twelve, in 1968. The business took off in unexpected ways, and the rest is history. "Coney islands," says Tim Keros, "are as Detroit as cars, Stroh's beer and Vernor's."

What many patrons don't know is that Kerby's makes quality its number one priority. Consequently, many of the items served in the restaurants are custom made. "We created the recipe for our hot dog, which we manufacture," says Keros. The chill, which is sold wholesale to other businesses, and Greek salad dressing, are homespun recipes, which they produce as well. Actually the Detroit Chill Co., the factory which manufactures the chili. is owned and operated by the Keros as well.

The only item they market to the public is the distinctive dressing, used on several Kerby's menu items besides the Greek salads. "The truth is we are not in the dressing manufacturing business, but as a courtesy to our customers who kept asking to buy dressing to take home, we started to bottle and sell the dressing at our restaurants," says Keros. A 16-ounce squeeze bottle sells for $1.75 and can be purchased at all Kerby locations.

The menu has grown, especially in recent years with a health-minded public asking for a wider variety of referred to by others as gyros, are menu selections. "When we started out the options were koneys, bottled Coke and chili in a bowl," recalls

Greek salads, soups, grilled chicken sandwiches, vegetablestuffed pitas, as well as the everpopular yeros, are some of the items growing in popularity. Yeros, prepared by broiling specially prepared ground lamb and beef on a vertical rollserrie.

ALMOST ALL the fat drips off the meat, which is then shaved and served with yogurt-cucumber dressing in a pocketless pita. Keros points out, "without the proper equipment, even my wife, one of the best Greek cooks I know, can't make See recipes, Page 2B.

Desserts including the famous Sanders' hot fudge sundae, another Detroit favorite, are becoming hot menu items for Kerby's, two of which are housed in former ice cream parlors. Greek desserts including baklava and rice pudding also are available.

Catering is another facet of the coney island business which has been developing over the last few years. Kerby's transports its restaurant wares to many catered affairs, including one held in the lobby of the Fisher Theatre in Detroit. "We once served 5,000 people coneys when the owners of an office complex held a tenant appreciation day," Keros says, beaming.

Besides being original and distinctive in their taste, Kerby's koneys are unique in their spelling. "My uncle coined the term 'coney island,' but everyone began using it. We wanted people to know that our koneys were different from all the rest so we recreated the spelling to convey the message," Keros explains.

The third generation has joined the Kerby team with many cousins already training and waiting in the wings to further the success of this growing family business. Will we be seeing Kerby's coneys and chili in supermarkets in the near future? "We don't have any immediate plans," says Keros, "but one thing I've learned in this business is never to say never."

MINESTRONE ALLA MILANESE

This recipe makes enough soup for at least a dozen people, maybe more. Cut all amounts in half for a smaller group, or make it all and freeze halffor another day. It is a meal in itself, served with just a good bread and cheese and fruit.

Season with some salt and pepper, a little chopped parsley, a good pinch of celery seed, some basil, oregano and a pinch of marjoram. Simmer again for about 45 minutes.

Slice thinly half a small head of savoy cabbage and add it to the soup along with the rice. If you can get the large, beautiful rice of the Lombardy region of Italy, you will truly have Minestrone alla Milanese. After adding the rice, simmer the soup another 20 minutes. If it is getting too thick for your taste, add a little more water as needed.

Hawaiian Haystack is a warm reminder

Every year about this time I find myself wishing I could trade places with the Calgon lady and be transported to some exotic isle. Somehow. spring and warm weather seem at times tantalizingly close until Old Man Winter comes along to remind us that he still reigns supreme and blasts us with more cold weather.

Until those four magic words, "Calgon, take me away!" start working for you and me, we will have to be content with this week's Winner Dinner, which will bring a taste of Hawaii to your dinner table. So throw on your grass skirt, get out your ukulele and start beating the drums for "Hawaiian Haystack," a yummy, colorful dish that is bound to help chase away the winter dinner doldrums.

Katie Kish of Rochester Hills submitted this week's winning menu. Kish enjoys cooking and is known for the delicious and nutritious cookies and muffins she bakes for her children's lunches. Her recipe for Crazy Whole-Wheat Apple and Spice Cake is one of her family's favorites and is an easy dessert or snack to make.

The mother of three teenagers, Kish works part-time as a church secretary. She is also a very active volunteer and participant at Northfield Hills Baptist Church, the church that she, her husband and children attend. There, she works as the church clerk, keeping track of the records, and as accompanist for the children's choir. She sings solos and duets whenever she is asked and works as the wedding director for

Her three children also keep her busy, and she always attends and supports the many athletic and musical events in which they participate. Currently, her children and their church youth groups are involved in putting together a highschool, youth-group musical that will be performed at their church.

Thank you, Katie Kish, for sharing your recipes with us and congratulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner. Your recipes will help us endure these last weeks of winter and give us the Hawaiian punch that we need.

Until next week, I'm off to give those four magic words one more try. "Calgon, take me away. Calgon, Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingtake me away. Calgon, take me" - ham 48012. All submissions beoops, they worked. A-looo-ha!

HAWAIIAN HAYSTACK

· Nutritious, flavorful and full of color and texture, this tasty recipe will help you stretch a chicken a long way. The chicken and the broth can be preparedahead and frozen or refrigerated if there isn't enough time to do all the cooking in one day. Serves 6.

To Prepare the Chicken and

- 1 whole chicken, skinned as
- much as possible 2 medium onions, peeled and
- quartered 2 stalks celery, cut up into a few large pieces
- 6 cups water 1-2 teaspoons thyme, depending on your flavor prefer-

As a shortcut, use 4 generous cups prepared chicken with 2 cans chicken broth,

Cook chicken in a dutch oven with the 6 cups of water, the vegetables and the seasonings. When the chicken is done, remove to a bowl or tray to cool. Strain the broth to remove the vegetables and place in the refrigerator to cool so that the fat can be skimmed off. When the chicken has cooled, remove from the bones, in bite-sized pieces, and store in the refrigerator until ready to finish dinner preparations.

To finish the preparations for dinner, chop up the following and place in separate bowls on the table:

1 large green pepper 2 medium-sized tomatoes 2 cups shredded cheddar cheese

1 cup sliced almonds 1-can-pineapple chunks, 141/2-16-ounce size

2 stalks celery 2 bunches green onlon 1 large can Chinese noddles Bottle of soy sauce

Skim off the fat from the broth and discard. Heat the broth in a large saucepan and remove 1 cup of the broth to combine it with the cornstarch to thicken. Taste the broth at this point to see if it needs any extra seasoning or chicken bouillon to boost the flavor. Add 2 tablespoons of cornstarch to the cup of broth you have set aside and stir until smooth. When the broth in the saucepan comes almost to a boil, stir in the broth/cornstarch mixture and keep stirring until it is smooth and beginning to thicken.

Reduce the heat to low and stir in the chicken pieces and allow to thoroughly warm through.

While the chicken mixture is warming, prepare the Minute Rice according to the package directions, using 3 cups of uncooked Minute Rice.

When the chicken and broth mixture is heated and ready, bring to the table and the family can layer it on their plates in the following order: Rice

How to pair food and wine

Mary Evely, chef at Simi Winery in Healdsburg, Calif., grew up in Grosse Pointe Shores, where her mother still lives.

She has a sister who is professor of mathematics at Michigan State University. Mary's claim to fame is the food and wine program she created Believing that there were consumers who had an interest in both food and wine, she designed a series of affordable luncheons pairing food and wine. To preserve a group experience, encourage dialogue and reduce intimidation, participation is limited to 24 people.

"When people leave, they feel comfortable with wine and food because they realize there is no single correct matchup," Evely said. "They understand that personal choices are important. Simi wines are readily available, and people can repeat the experience in their home."

"I deliberately try to focus on food preparations that are traditionally considered difficult pairings with wine," Evely said. "Crudites, a simple appetizer, is not easily matched with a chenin blanc in the off-dry Simi style. An off-dry wine paired with vegetables loses its perceptible acidity and becomes flabby and finishes flat. You might consider using sweeter vegetables, but snow peas are sweet, and they make chenin blanc bitter.

"HOWEVER, IF YOU prepare a salad dressing or dip with mayon-

'When people leave, they feel comfortable with wine and food because they realize there is no single correct matchup.' WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

Simi Winery makes some of the best chardonnay year after year. The 1988 Simi Chardonnay ($16.50) is a blend of wines from Napa, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties. Aromas of buttered popcorn and toasty oak introduce a wine with rich fruit flavors. It is styled like a white Burgundy at half the price. Simi's 1988 Sauvignon Blanc ($9.30) is also a winner. Generous flavors highlight tropical fruit that is clean and crisp with a long aftertaste.

naise base and tarragon, a sweet herb, you alter the flattening effect of the vegetables and complement the chenin blanc."

Evely specializes in simple recipe adaptations to make the preparation complementary with more than one wine. She uses palate trickery in her rice salad when she uses tarragon to pair with chenin blanc, then substitutes ground cumin for the tarragon to pair it with sauvignon blanc, or for a chardonnay matchup, she uses chopped fresh basil.

She finds the Foil Baked Chicken with Herbs recipe from "The Silver Palate Cookbook" (Rosso and Lukins, McLaughlin Workman Publishing Co., Inc. 1982) a reliable match to Simi-style chenin blanc. To make it complementary to sauvignon blanc, she substitutes thyme for the mint and dill; one red onion, thinly sliced, in place of the lemon, and uses two tablespoons virgin olive oil for half the butter.

The sauvignon blanc variation pairs with cabernet sauvignon when two ripe, peeled, seeded and finely chopped tomatoes are added and the pepper mill is adjusted to very focus on wine Eleanor and Ray Heald fines the wine that pairs best. For cabernet sauvignon, she suggests oilcured olives. Sauvignon blanc is well-served by Kalamata olives and chardonnay does best with generic canned olives.

Eyely says that with a mushroom risotto the type of mushroom determines the best wine combination. Shiitake and morels make the dish butteriness in the Simi Chardonnay. "The delicate, earthy flavors of fresh porcini are well balanced by the delicate, toasty notes in the wine," she said. "Fresh parsley, or even better, fresh chervil, with its sweet note, accents the fresh fruit flavors of this chardonnay."

Versatile chicken suits all kinds of dinners

Rock Cornish hens, broilerfryers, roasters, capons and stewing hens - all rule the roost on America's dining tables.

Thanks to the versatility and economical status of chicken, it fits into a budget family meal or the most elegant formal dinner party. You can poach, roast, grill, broil, saute or simmer it, dress it up or down. Not only is chicken easy to prepare, but it's easy on the pocketbook and gentle on the waistline.

Who are these rulers of the roost? Rock Cornish hens are the smallest and youngest members of the chicken family. These are a cross between two breeds that usually weigh 11/2 pounds or less. They are wonderful roasted whole, or split and grilled or broiled. Usually figure on one hen per person.

Broiler-fryers are all-purpose chickens. They are young meaty birds that weigh 3 to 41/2 pounds. These tender birds are best broiled, fried or grilled but can be roasted, steamed or poached.

THE ROASTER is a little older and larger than the broiler-fryer. Generally, they weigh between 41/2 and 8 pounds with more meat. These are perfect for roasting but also can be cut up and sauteed, broiled or poached. Look for plump-breasted birds with creamy white or yellow skins and short home economist, Cooperative Extension Service.

Rock Cornish hens are the smallest and youngest members of the chicken family.

A capon lives a lazy life and grows big and fat. They have a delicate and tender abundance of white meat. Usually, a capon weighs between 8 and 10 pounds and is perfect for roasting.

Stewing hens are older birds and weigh between 3 and 7 pounds. These are basically soup chickens and sometimes are hard to find at the store. Because they are older the meat is stringy but loaded with flavor. They require slow, long moist cooking to tenderize the meat to produce a rich, wonderful

Choose chicken with moist skin, tender flesh and fresh smell. Since many times you are unable to smell the chicken because of packaging, check the expiration date for freshness. The feed a chicken has been fed accounts for the skin color, but the taste is the same. Figure three-quarters to one pound of bone in chicken for each serving. A 31/2-pound bird will feed four comfortably, but a 11/2-pound Rock Cornish hen will only serve one person. If you're serving chicken parts, a half breast or two drumsticks or thighs per person is a sufficient amount.

Small chickens (broilers and fryers) and Cornish game hens are the leanest poultry, as small young birds tend to be leaner than large, older ones. Chicken broilers have less than 10 percent fat, roasters have 12 to 18 percent and large hens have 20 to 30 percent, so you may want to use two small birds instead of one large. In poultry, the white meat has less fat and cholesterol than the dark.

LATELY, STORIES have surfaced regarding salmonella bacteria in chickens. Don't kick the chicken habit because of these stories. Instead, take extra precautions. At the grocery store, put chicken in a plastic bag, even though it is wrapped. Most meat counters will have a bag readily available. This way no drippings will contaminate. other foods while you are shopping or while it is stored in the refrigerator. You may want to refresh the chicken by squeezing fresh lemon juice over the skin and into the cavity prior to cooking. Refrigerate or freeze chicken as soon as possible. To keep it longer than two days, re-wrap and freeze. Defrost chicken in the refrigerator, never at room temperature. A 31/2pound bird will thaw in about a day in the refrigerator, or thaw quickly in the microwave and cook immediately. Make sure you clean everything that touches the raw meat: knives, cutting boards, countertops and especially your hands. Clean up thoroughly with soap and warm water.

Never eat chicken that is still pink in the center, whether you are eating out or in your kitchen. Since heat destroys salmonella, the chicken has to be cooked to at least 180-185 degrees Fahrenheit on a meat thermometer. Using a common-sense-approach-to-handling chicken will give you a safe product. From drumstick to breast, chicken provides high-quality pro-tein in your diet. Chicken also is kind to your diet (calories), easy to digest, requires no cooking fat and has a tender, flavorful taste.

If you see someone with such a gait, your first guess is that the individual has arthritis. You cannot be sure. Patients with Parkinson's Disease or other conditions of the brain and cerebellum have impairment of coordination that leads to a hesitant, awkward gait similar to the one considered to be 'arthritic.'

Furthermore, persons with Parkinson's Disease develop aching in their joints and muscles. Over time the stress on joints following the uncoordinated gait becomes more than the joint can accept. The individual develops a discomfort similar to the pain of joint Physicians are trained to distinguish the gait disorder arising out of arthritis from the impaired movement associated with Parkinson's Disease. As you well know, treatment of arthritis differs markedly from therapy for Parkinson's. Therefore, it is important to have confirmation that your walking problem represents an arthritic problem and not a neurologic one.

Stevenson nails Churchill, 75-54

By Brad Emons staff writer-

If putting the ball in the basket is still the name of the game, then Livonia Stevenson is right on target.

The Spartans, shooting 53 percent from the floor (22 of 41) and 82 percent from the free throw line (23 of 28), opened the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs Friday at home with a convincing 75-54 triumph over city rival Churchill.

Stevenson, now 12-6 overall, advances to Tuesday's semifinal round at Plymouth Canton (11-7).

"We don't have the overpowering kids, but we had some excellent passing (tonight) that gave us some inside shots before they (Churchill) could react," said Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre, whose team has won eight of its last nine games. "The kids are moving the ball well right now."

The Spartans made easy shots and tough shots, including nine from three-point land.

CHURCHILL, meanwhile, was reeling from the start, Fred Price said. "They hit extremely well from the outfalling behind 9-2 after Stevenson's 6-4 junior center Tony Stojov connected on a pair of three-pointers. Dan Gibbons also added another during the run.

The Chargers, however, trailed by only four after one period, 19-15, when 6-foot-7 center Randy Calcaterra converted a four-point play, two coming on free throwsafter McIntyre was assessed a technical foul for arguing a call (or lack of calls) from the bench.

But it was practically over by halftime, as the Spartans outscored Churchill 23-10.

Senior forward Dave Amey came off the bench to hit a pair of three-pointers for the Spartans, while junior guard Matt Grodzicki added six of his game-high 22 points during the assault.

And with Calcaterra sitting on the bench with three fouls for the latter stages of the second quarter, Churchill found itself facing an uphill climb, trailing 42-25 at intermission.

"We knew we were in trouble when they (Stevenson) were hitting from 22-to-23 feet out," Churchill coach side, let's give them credit."

STEVENSON CONTINUED to find holes in Churchill's zone defense during the third period. Gibbons and Grodzicki each hit three-pointers to give Stevenson a commanding 61-37 advantage before coasting home.

"We just didn't get things done, but we played hard," said Price, whose team fell to 10-8 overall. "I thought we played good defense, but if they (Stevenson) still stroke it and if they continue to hit like that, that will cause anybody problems from here on out."

The Spartans used a balanced scoring attack once again, led by Grodzickl's 22. Gibbons, the 6-2 senior, added 14, while Paul Rockwood and Phil Woods contributed nine and eight, respectively.

Brian D. Johnson, a junior guard, led Churchill with 17. Calcaterra, who endured a frustrating night before fouling out, added 16.

'We just figured if we compacted the middle enough, we'd make it difficult for him (Calcaterra) to take the kind of shot he wanted to take," McIntyre said. "And I think we were able to change their rhythm before they could get it to the big kid."

IT WAS THE third meeting between the two teams, Churchill won the first encounter, Dec. 14 at Stevenson, 62-47.

On Jan. 29, Stevenson won at Churchill, 67-56.

"They (Stevenson) are playing more physical than they were before," Price said. "They play a hustling, aggressive defense."

Churchill made only 18 of 54 shots from the floor for 33 percent.

"We took good shots," Price said. "The difference was our inability to put those good shots down."

Stevenson, meanwhile, continue to ride the crest of a second-half season surge. "The kids are playing with a lot of confidence and they're making it fun," McIntyre said. "Right now any shot taken is better than a bad pass."

And with the kind of shooting numbers Stevenson put up on this night, only 12 turnovers, who could argue with the Stevenson coach.

Canton defense is suffocating

McDonald, a junior guard, limited Livonia Franklin star guard Kelth Hoberts to seven points Friday as Canton overpowered the Patriots, 73-48, in a Western Lakes Activities Association first round playoff game.

"That's what they call me," said McDonald, when asked what the 'D' stands for. "Coach (Dave Wagoner) says it stands for defense. The last time we played them, Roberts had like 28 against us and that really got on me — reading it in the paper and stuff.

"Coach stresses defense a lot on our team and I'm getting to like it. If we play 'D' like we did tonight, we're capable of beating anyone in the league.

Canton, which failed to qualify last year for the WLAA playoffs, hosts Livonia Stevenson in Tuesday's semifinal. The Spartans beat Livonia Churchill, 75-54, in another first round game Friday.

The Chiefs, who improved to 11-7 overall, were never threatened, as they scored the game's first 13 points and led 19-7 after one quarter. Canton took a 40-24 lead into the locker room at halftime and raised the margin to 59-32 after three quarters.

FIVE PLAYERS SCORED in double figures for the Chiefs, but Van Wagoner said defense was the key. The win avenged an earlier, 65-60 loss by Canton at Franklin during the regular season.

"We've been kind of pointing toward the tournaments all year and we got a good start tonight," Van Wagoner said. "We've got some guys who can really shoot the ball, but tonight the key was defense. We had 21/2 hour to 3 hour practices every day this week and we didn't work on offense one minute. When tournament time comes around, defense wins for you.

"Derrick is our best defensive guard. He always likes to think of himself as an offensive player. We like to think of him as a defensive player - and the offense will come around.

Franklin fell to 10-8 overall.

"Canton played with intensity and we didn't," Franklin coach Rod Hanna said. "In sports, intensity is very important and we didn't show it tonight."

Senior forward Kevin Holmes led Canton with 13 points and junior center Tony Coshat contributed 12 points and a game-high 15 rebounds. McDonald added 11 points and seven assists; while sophomore guard Mike Stafford and senior forward Brett Howell finished with 10 points apiece for the Chiefs.

Van Wagoner praised the balance of his team and also talked about Holmes, who takes care of all the intangibles for the Chiefs.

"HOLMES HAS BEEN our most consistent player," Van Wagoner said. "He's there every game, scoring 10 or 11 points and grabbing eight or nine rebounds."

Senior guard Dave Roman, who missed practice Wednesday because of illness, was the only Patriot in double figures with 10 points. Senior John Revels added nine points, but senior Steve McCool (eight points) and Roberts combined for only 15 points.

Roberts, who also was ill and missed practice Wednesday, managed only two field goals and said he was frustrated the entire night by Canton.

"They pressured me the whole length of the court and wore the hell out of me," Roberts said. "I was dead in the third and fourth quarters. I'm still not feeling great (because of the cold) but I can't blame it on that. They played great defense and have improved a lot."

Said Hanna: "He had shots he usually makes that just didn't go in. Hey, that happens in the NBA, college and

Glenn falls; Wayne wins

By Mike Stewart staff writer

It's tough to figure out this Walled Lake Cen-

The last time the Vikings squared off against Westland John Glenn, they beat the Rockets by 33 points.

But on Friday night the host Vikings had to fight for their lives before squeaking out a 46-43 win over Glenn in the consolation round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs. Asked why he felt his team had such a hard time against the Rockets this time around, Walled Lake Central coach Steve Emert pointed to a chalkboard with all of the notes he and his squad went over before the game and said, "Number seven."

Item No. 7 read: "Don't be overconfident." It marked one of the few times this year that the on-again, off-again Vikings have gone into a game taking their opponent for granted.

The 6-12 Vikings have played well at times, and not so well at times. Central has lost five games by three points and two games by two.

Neither team could buy a basket in the first half. Central shot 8-of-24 from the field, while Glenn hit an equally chilly 8-of-23. The Rockets, 3-14 on the season, turned the ball over seven times (15 overall) but still had a lead at the halfway mark, 18-17.

The Rockets came out strong in the third quarter, however. Glenn hit 4-of-8 from the field and ran off nine unanswered points near the end of the quarter to take a 30-25 lead after three quarters, despite turning the ball over seven times in the quarter.

Following a hoop by Central post Chris McFarlane to start the final stanza, Glenn turned two steals into four points (the Rockets had 12 steals overall), bumping its lead to seven.

baseball

Three free throws by sophomore guard Eric Leaf (11 points, five rebounds, 5-of-6 from the line in fourth quarter) brought the Vikings to within four, and the strong inside play of McFarlane (14 points, seven rebounds) vaulted Central into the lead.

In a span of two minutes McFarlane turned two offensive rebounds into hoops, and he canned another seven-foot jumper to give Central the lead, 35-34, with three minutes left.

Leaf hit another pair of free throws with :14 remaining to put the Vikings up by three, and guard Steve Rabaut canned a pair of insurance points from the stripe with two seconds left to seal the Central win.

Glenn was paced by guard Jerry Jordan's nine points and five assists. Post Kevin Tomasewski and forward Ken Taylor had eight points each.

Glenn coach Pat Bennett said his squad must show more polse when they have a chance to win. "We kind of panicked at the end of the game and forced some shots," he said. "We have to learn that with a minute-and-a-half left there's still enough time to win."

Bennett added that, as late as it is in the season, it isn't too late to improve. "We've been using these playoff games as practice for the districts. No doubt, it'll be tough for us. But I think we have an opportunity to do well. We have to keep learning. It's never too late to learn. It's just a matter of if we want to take charge and make a run in the districts."

WAYNE 61, SOUTHGATE 51: Jeff Stewart ignited a fourth-quarter rally Friday that enabled Wayne Memorial to slip past stubborn Southgate Anderson in a Wolverine A League boys basketball game. Stewart, who scored 11 points in the game, tallied six

Stewart was one of four Zebras to reach double-figures in scoring. Leading Wayne was Greg Hartman, with 16 points. Lee Williams had 15 and Rick Barnes scored 10. The Titans were paced by the Goss brothers. Tim netted 20 to lead all scorers; Tom got 12. Bill Fults

Thanks to an all-around team effort, Livonia Stevenson wrapped up an unbeaten regular season in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 15-8, 15-8, 15-4 volleyball win Wednesday at Farmington.

The competitors are running up some big scores at both events. In the G.D.B.A. tournament, Bob Chamberlain of Auburn Hills hit 804 with a block of 268-299-237 for a new tournament record. That stood for about 30 minutes when Ron Byrd came along and topped him by shooting a 300 game. Added with his 299 and 254, he finished with an amazing 853 series. Can anybody top that? There has been a total of six perfect 300 games so far, including the gem from Byrd. Ryan Wilson (Livonia), David Mahaz (Westland), Kevin Miller and Joe Krajenke also recorded perfect games. This is the first year for mixed league competition in the tournament and the top three teams currently are in order: P

& D. Roshell's Team and Childress Four. The top team in the classic division is Lewis Five, comprised of Dick Beattle, Greg Lewis, Doug Evans, Paul Grauzer and Jon Reed. Leaders in the men's singles are, in order, Byrd, J.D. Bradley and Chamberlain.

The public is invited to come and watch these fine bowlers at Cloverlanes, located at Schoolcraft in Livonia, across from the Detroit Race Course. The tournament continues through March 3, so many things may happen which will influence the standings.

• The state of Michigan American Legion Tournament had its moments of glory as two local bowlers hurled perfect games in the opening round. Dave Matson of Farmington Groves-Walker Post fired a 300 game with a 730 series, while Bob Gibson Jr. of the Livonia Post also registered a 300 game.

The Farmington Post No. 1 has run out to an early lead, with Jim Hamlin leading the charge. Hamlin leads in the all-events as he had series of 694, 665 and 638 for a 1,997 pinfall.

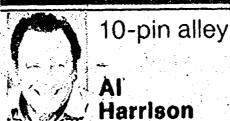

The rest of the Farmington Post No. 1 team consists of Matson (Farmington Hills), Dave Tarbet (Livonia), Ed Bland (Redford) and Bob Murray (Novl).

The tournament runs through March, so plenty of more great scores are sure to Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield established a new Michigan record on Feb. . 15 by Team No. 7 of the Miller Lite Classic League with a team single game score of 1,335 actual!

This is out, the record adds; Doug Evans, 287; Graig Zarick, 248; Jon Heins, 245; John Bennett, 279; and John Putti, 276. This is the highest ever single game by a five-man team in Michigan.

Other star bowlers were on target that night as well: Doug Spicer, 275/762; Ken Paczas, 256/744; Larry Beaver, 267/707;

Randy Pierce, 254/731; Lou O'Neal, 721; Dick Beattie, 245/727; Dave Eatmon, 246/707; and Ernest Segura, 277/751.

It was good to see someone from the area win on the TV Pro Bowlers Tour. John Mazza of Mt. Clemens took the top prize a couple of weeks ago and returned the following week as the number two seed. He did not win the second time around, but made a spectacular shot, by converting the rare 7-10 split.

Michael Ostrowski, a 1989 Redford Catholic Central graduate, recently captured a pair of individual titles at the 1991 Michigan Judo State Championships, held Feb. 17 at Michigan State University.

Ostrowski won the Juvenile and Men's 189-pound classes. He also received a special award for Best Technique.

Two months earlier, the sophomore engineering student from MSU took the gold medal for the Spartans at the six-state (including Canada) Great Lakes Invitational.

Ostrowski also led the MSU judo squad to victories over Central Michigan University and an Ohio all-star team.

He will try and defend his Midwest Collegiate title for MSU next month at Ohio State.

Thurston cagers win Tri-River title

Redford Thurston clinched its first Tri-River League boys basketball championship since 1982-83 with a 75-57 win Friday over visiting Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

The Eagles, 13-1 in the Tri-River and 16-3 overall, were led by Danny Perttula's 21 points. Justin McEwen had 15 for the Eagles, followed by Jamal Merida and Jeremy Courval with 12 points each.

The win thrilled a Parents Night crowd and prepares Thurston for the Class B district, which begins March 4 at Detroit Country Day. Farmington Hills Harrison, Detroit Renaissance and Country Day are the other schools included.

Thurston coach Mike Schuette didn't get a Gatorade bath after the win, but will if the Eagles should meet Country Day and somehow beat the No. 1-ranked Yellow Jack-

"If we beat Country, Day, then I'll take a shower," Schuette said. Thurston led 23-12 after one quarter and 34-24 at halflime. Rick Pinkowski led Crestwood 15 points and Jim Bates added 13.

"A lot of people played," Schuette said. "We didn't play with the intensity level we've played with the last two games, but it's been our togetherness and unselfishness . . . I haven't had a kid complain. They've all been positive to one another."

Depth of high school pools under study by State

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

The future of competitive swimming at Michigan high schools and clubs could be seriously affected or even jeopardized by proposals that would require pools to conform to a standard depth. At issue is the reasonably safe depth a pool must be for a swimmer to dive from starting blocks into the water during competitive swim

The review of the current situation and possible institution of more stringent requirements has resulted from a growing concern among state and school officials over the number of neck-related accidents resulting in catastrophic injuries. A committee appointed by the Michigan Department of Health met Jan. 23 to recommend changes to enhance safety. Officials from that department met on Feb. 8 to review the recommendations and begin its own deliberative process.

"interim" recommendations since they more than likely will be altered during the bureaucratic process, and he added it could be quite a while before any firm decisions are made.

"If we're lucky, we'll hear something in two months," McKenzie said. "I don't expect to see anything of a concrete nature until the end of next school year. "It could take two years before any of (the recommendations) can become rules or regulations."

That's the immediate dilemma facing school districts, as well as municipalities and private clubs with pools. In the meantime, they exist in a state of limbo while they wait for a decision.

All sorts of numbers are being suggested as minimum depths, everything from 4 feet to possibly as much as 10 feet. Two meters (six feet, seven inches) has been much discussed as a likely number for the shallow end.

SOME POOLS already sit idle be-According to Warren McKenzie, cause officials fear the possibility of a lawsuit, and some wonder where the sport could be headed. The National Federation of High School Athletic Associations and the MHSAA said 31/2 feet was acceptable for the current school year, but next year pools must be 4 feet deep. If not, swimmers must start in the deep end or use 18-inch blocks. McKenzie said he is aware of 49 high schools in the state that have less than 4 feet at either end. One hundred-twenty five have pools with 5 to 6 feet but in most cases it would require moving the diving boards to achieve.

ALL OF THE Farmington pools are 3 feet at both ends, reaching a maximum depth of 5 feet in the middle. Most other pools are 3½ feet but will have to rearrange their pools using the diving wells next year.

Eventually, a lot of schools and public/private facilities might have to dig up their pools to meet a greater depth requirement.

Some, like Ron Holland, athletic director for the Farmington schools. wonder where it will end. If the state. rules five feet is the standard, who's to say they won't be asked to dig. deeper several years from now. Some school districts indicate they won't spend the money to dig the first time.

"If that's the case, a lot of pools in the state of Michigan will be relegated to teaching and recreational places of swimming," McKenzie said, "because schools just can't afford to dig the pool down to those depths."

"Two meters would kill competitive swimming in Michigan as there would not be enough pools to handle swim meets," Redford Catholic Central coach Peter Leonhardt said. He also coaches the Michigan Stingrays who are based in Farmington Hills.

"We stress safety in both programs (competitive and recreational) and have had no accidents diving into even four feet of water. Any standard needs to have public input and be reasonable."

SOME SCHOOL districts have also swimming accident.

ready paid to renovate their pools, digging to depths of four or 41/2 feet based upon the suggested safe depth for 1990-91. The renewed discussion means it will likely be money wast-

"The sad part is people went out and spent money to do what they thought was right," McKenzie said, "and they're going to be told 'Sorry that doesn't apply.'

If the new regulations become too demanding, many schools might use their pools only for recreational and classroom purposes, making competitive swimming a thing of the past. Furthermore, pools used for the dual purpose need a reasonably shallow end to be useful in teaching

Holland and McKenzie estimate the cost of renovating one pool at $300,000. There is no money budgeted for that line item in the Farmington/Farmington Hills district, according to Holland.

"People are saying we can't overlook the fact we have a potential problem, because people could be sued right out of existence," McKenzie said.

"If you don't dig the pool down, you might be paying a $6 million legal settlement. If you do dig down, you might pay $300,000 but save a lot of money on the other side and, more importantly, some kid from a catastrophic injury.'

McKenzie, Holland and Dave Knipper, president of the Michigan Stingrays and outgoing president of the Northwest Suburban Swim League, said they know of varying incidents of catastrophic injury nationwide in recent years but agree the numbers are relatively low compared to the number of people who

"PEOPLE INVOLVED in swimming programs are ever aware of the need for safety regulations," Knipper said. "In 13 years that I have been involved with swimming, I am aware of one very serious

Michigan would meet this depth. It would be like requiring soft ice for ice hockey to slow skaters to prevent accidents. It does not seem very reasonable." McKenzie suggested any increase in injuries could be partly attributable to a change in technique for entering the pool.

"The old method would be the belly flop or landing on the stomach, on top of the water so to speak," he said. "Now a youngster takes a scoop dive (also called a pike or pole dive), hits the water with a fist and makes a hole for his head and shoulders to -follow. When he hits the water with his feet, they go through the hole and don't act as a drag but a propellant."

depth will provide a sufficient across the deck."

"A two-meter standard looks too cushion, he added. But that is diffistringent. Only a handful of pools in cult to assess because there is no standard height for a swimmer.

Besides the cost, there are problems of logistics and planning if schools decide to renovate pools, Holland said. The Farmington Hills, Harrison pool is a good example. Unlike most pools that have an outside wall, the Harrison pool is located . within the school building.

"Harrison would be a real problem," he said. "There's no way to get in We'd have to come in off the parking lot, under the support structure and through the hallway. It would be an enormous undertaking.

Band of the Year

Who says a band whose sound has a touch of a country twang and a bit of punk spike to it can't make it in music? Goober & the Peas have cow poked their way to the top. Not bad for a gangly guy in a 10.000 gallon hat and a couple of Peas who used to play at barbecues on the Michigan State campus. Not bad for a band that's been selected for Street Scene's 1991

Midler and Allen fall flat in "Scenes from a Mall"

By the time Bette Midler sings "You Do Something to Me" halfway through "Scenes from a Mall" (C., R. 85 minutes), it's too late for anybody to do anything for anyone.

Midler plays successful psychotherapist Deborah Feingold-Fifer to Woody Allen's Nick Fifer, her hotshot attorney-husband who specializes in licensing sports equip-ment. They spend the day of their 16th wedding anniversary at the Beverly Mall, picking up presents and sushi for a dinner party they're hosting that evening in their own honor.

It is really quite amazing that two such talented performers, neither of whom need a project so badly they'll accept anything, did not evaluate and reject this jumbled scenario which presents two poorly developed, shallow characters.

"Scenes" was produced and directed by Paul Mazursky ("Enemies: A Love Story") and co-written with Roger L. Simon who collaborated with Mazursky on the "Enemies" screenplay. Boy, did they strike out this time.

Deborah and Nick argue, fight, drink and make love in the mall all in less than 11/2 hours. That much action should be exciting and entertaining - and maybe funny considering the comic talents of Allen and Midler.

Not so, however, as the two of them shift behavior so quickly and to such extremes that it's all beyond belief. Even more astounding, all the action is condensed into a few moments while most of the film depicts two unpleasant, materialistic professionals indulging their marital problems in public with excessive and boring dialogue.

If this is supposed to be some filmic representation of marital fantasies, it misses the mark by several light-years.

The background is slick and the sound track terrific - Louis Armstrong, Marlene Dietrich and Gene Autry, among others - so buy the tape and stay home. "Scenes from a Mall" only proves that shopping can be dangerous.

Gilmore: Keeping to his roots

By Larry O'Connor ataff writer

Jimmie Dale Gilmore' doesn't. sing, he warbles. At times, his voice aches with the desolation. reminiscent of swirling soil in dust bowl times. Other occasions, Gilmore's sings with gitty-up of a honky-tonk troubadour where the two-step is in order.

A reincarnation of Hank Williams? Some have said that. A kin of Buddy Holly. Some have alluded to that as well.

One thing is for certain: Gilmore's nasally voice is his own.

"You can hear other influences / in my singing, though," said Gilmore, who performs with longtime friend Butch Hancock tonight at Birmingham Unitarian Church, "I didn't try to . . . I think early on, people started commenting on it

"A lot of people that don't like it initially, I think it grows on them. I take great pride in that."

Sometimes the voice is matched up with the precious lines, steeped in contradiction and paradox. Culled from "Dallas," a song that-R.E.M.'s Michael Stipe and Natalie Merchant have taken up on stage: 'Have you ever seen Dallas from a DC-9 at night?/Well, Dallas is a jewel, oh yeah, Dallas is a beautiful sight."

Those observations are syncopated with lines such as these: 'Dallas is a beautiful lie . . . Dallas is rich man with a death wish in his eye."

WHILE POSSESSING a wordsmith quality to his songs, Gilmore doesn't play the role of tortured singer-songwriter holed up in some artistic enclave in New York, Los Angeles or Nashville.

The Lubbock, Texas, native is as unpretentious as they come, unsoiled by a music industry, that in-

Some have said he sounds a lot like Hank Williams or Buddy Holly, but you can hear other influences in his music, according to Jimmie Dale Gilmore.

jects self-importance in mass doses upon its creators. One reason for Gilmore's down-to-earth demeanor - his residence.

In nearby Austin, there is a multitude of folk, blues, country and even rock'n'roll artists. Away from the music hubs of New York or L.A., they can experiment and utilize their creative talents before appreciative audiences.

Also, Gilmore has kept good company. Butch Hancock has been a friend since Atkins High School and Joe Ely was in one Gilmore's first bands.

All three formed the creative core of The Flatlanders, a group considered so far from mainstream country that its 1972 acoustic release, "More Legend Than a Band," was only available on eight-track tape. Rounder Records re-released the LP 18 years later on compact

"WE WERE EACH other's only audience," Gilmore said. "We just played for each other. That set up a permanent quality control type of

All three enjoyed artistically successful solo careers. Gilmore in particular, having released a pair solo LPs on Hightone Records, "Fair and Square" (1988) and "Jimmie Dale Gilmore" (1989).

Gilmore is putting the finishing touches on a new album to be released this the summer on Elektra as part of the label's American Explorer series. He knocked off the LP in 11/2 weeks, working around the clock in the studio.

"The instructions from the people at Elektra was to make my own record, not to radio or to the critics," Gilmore said. "We made our record in tune to my roots, which is '50s and '60s radio Hank Williams to the Beatles."

The yet-to-be titled album will span a wide variety of styles, delta blues, country and even some soft rock.

All of the songs on this LP are his own. In some ways, Gilmore is similar to his musical collaborator and longtime friend Hancock in terms of songwriting styles. Though, he defers to Hancock as the master of the craft.

"My songs tend more to be introspective and a description of feelings. Butch's tend to use description and imagery," he said. "To me, it's the only way. To me, it's the emotional attachment to music.'

Trash Can Sinatras lift lid to snappy pop

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Let's talk some trash - as in Trash Can Sinatras.

Somehow upon extensive listens to the debut of the Scottish band on London/Go! Discs "Cake," trash and its accompanying images of filth, garbage and Tuesday pick-ups doesn't come to mind.

Rather the Trash Can Sinatras are wrought with all the trappings of a crystalline sounding pop band gushing guitars, ether-induced harmonies and melodies ripe for the picking.

The laries? Well, they're a bit observational, somewhat introspective and a little thorny. And certainly not the type of wit, jaded perspective to be associated with a bunch of pouting Scottish lads who are supposed to be taking their craft seriously.

"It's no rules usually," said guitarist Paul Livingston, 20, whose faint voice coupled with a Scottish burr is hardly audible. "What makes a good pop song? Hmmm. I don't know real-

HOKEY SMOKE - Frank Allison and the Odd Sox

With James Brown still locked up, Frank Allison earns the title of the hardest-working man in show business, just edging out Wolf Blitzer.

Playing gigs almost daily, either solo acoustic or with the rocking Odd

Sox, Allison remains the area's most active and least recognized musical The key word is talent. So little talent is out there, you'd think the bands with the most would rise to the top of the scene like green fruit in foreign beer. This band, lauded by the New York Times, was everybody's band of the year in 1989, but two years later has yet to make it out of the garage. They've been plugging away at the loyal bar circuit, one of the few acts that packs the dance floor with its very first chords. Now they finally have another album to promote, and it's full of the stuff that made them so likable in the first place — good tunes and good times.

Allison's goofy pop tales are too well-crafted to be cooped up in bars. Tiresome comparisons aside, the guy writes songs like someone who was weaned on the Beatles, Monkees, "Green Acres," "The Beverly Hillbillies," "GetSmart!" and "Fractured kind where water shoots out of the soft "without Your Love," co-writ-Fairy Tales." Every family has a middle. By any other name. . . . . ten with his wife, and the haunting similar member. The Allisons just

"Hokey Smoke's" lyrical subjects range from unrequited love to personal recession to tedium in the minimum wage workplace, all packed with sharp shot observations like, "Got on my baseball hat/Cuz that is where it's at."

About a third of the LP is acoustically based, but when the band is turned loose, it cooks tightly and melodically, led by guitarist Dan Beckett. Beckett assaults a slide on "Finkentel Security" and lights up the sailing "Boat She's In" with his wailing gitbox.

BACK FROM RIO - Roger McGuinn

Here we go again, another Byrds rip-off.

But, for the first time in 10 years, it's brought to us by the man behind the word, "Byrdsy," Roger McGuinn, the guy with the groovy granny glasses and the original jangling 12-

He's back. He's 48. And he's wearing contacts. But the shaky vocal tones and twanging 12-string remain intact, thank God. McGuinn assembled ex-nestmates David Crosby and Chris Hillman, singer-songwriters Elvis Costello and Michael Penn, and Heartbreakers Mike Campbell, Stan Lynch and Benmont Tench, along with their boss, McGuinn-clone

Tom Petty. McGuinn and co-producer David Cole (of Richard Marx fame, but he's forgiven) have incorporated the Byrdsy jangles and slick harmonies into a modern sound. This is no nostalgia record. It's what all the Byrds wanna-bes have been trying to make since "Mr. Tambourine Man" hit No. 1 in 1965.

Most of the latest release from the folk-rock and later country-rock piosniffing around Allison & Co. at the neer is straight-forward stuff, based moment. They'll smell a rose in around that omnipresent electric 12-"Hokey Smoke," the multi-colored string. Notable exceptions are the — John Cortez "Your Love Is a Gold Mine."

The Costello-penned "You Bowed Down" is another highlight, as is McGuinn's rendition of Jules Shear's "If We Never Meet Again." Another standout is the majestic McGuinn/. Petty tune "King of the Hill," a tale from the dark side of L.A., the town McGuinn was the toast of 25 years

Any new music fan with a sense of rock history should like "Back From Rio." Any oldtime Byrds fan with a sense of McGuinn's impact on today's rock should like it, too. The only segment it won't appeal to are the fortysomethings who have lost their taste and tolerance en route to the middle of the road. Those who expected "Turn, Turn, Turn" with a string section will have to stick with George Winston, Bobby

McFerrin and/or Kenny Rogers. - John Cortez

TOO DARK PARK - Skinny Puppy

Skinny Puppy is the band, if you remember, that had one of its show raided by the police in a Cincinnati club. Authorities were tipped off Skinny Puppy was going to perform a vivisection on a live animal during their show. All they found was a stuffed dog backstage. So, Skinny Puppy is already a legend as a dark, foreboding entity on the music scene without so much as playing a note. "Too Dark Park," the group's latest LP on Capitol/ Nettwerk, only fortifies this image.

Screeching vocals, heartbeat murmurs, blood pulsating through the veins -- ohhh, that's scary. Broken down, though, Skinny Puppy's sound can be rather repetitive with its drum machines and sometimes tedious lyrics. "Kick the habit" or "are you scared yet?" can become a little boring on a cursory listen. Beneath the surface, though, there's more to experience. This

Vancouver outfit's music is something of a brooding, nihilistic, if not futuristic, vision of gloom and doom. The images are stark and, at times, down right frightening. In "Tormentor," we're greeted with this: "Walls trapped within yellow eyes the cutters drooling face rips apart cuts to the heart/disease shown/-let-it-out-"

Skinny Puppy gets Its message across about the environment in "Shoreline Poison" - "Trials administering tidal oil that suffocating base the fire gold pouring mercury giving river deformed." - and, ironically, animal rights in "T.F.W.O." 😽 "Treason trapping animal hide in the vision of paradise . . .

Skinny Puppy is a grand manipulator of sound. One can feel the voltage surge throughout this effort, but listen at your own risk.

As maturity goes, no 2 children are alike

Your response to the mother named Joan regarding ber daughter's curfew distresses me. It seems as though you are encouraging the parent to neglect her duties and her daughter's needs, thus creating a very dangerous situation.

Parents of teenagers need to be awake, and up and functioning when their children come home. If a teenager only reports in to an alarm clock, she (or he) can be upset, intoxicated or injured, and the parent will not even be aware of the problem. Some very important parenting occurs late at night, and no one ever said the job would have 9-5 hours.

I can understand the parent's need for sleep - perhaps she should consider that 1 a.m. is really too late for a 16-year-old also. I hope you'll reconsider and tell her to keep the midnight curfew and for her hus-, band (if he lives at home) to take turns staying up on weekend nights to meet their daughter.

I would also encourage her to set a much earlier weekday curfew. 16. year olds who insist on keeping late hours may already by involved in undesirable behaviors.

Please carefully consider the impact of your answers to questions of this nature. As a parent, a leacher and a Talking With Your Kids About Alcohol instructor, I am perhaps more conservative than you are, but I may also be more aware of potential problems.

Sincerely,

Thank you for your interesting and informative letter. May I tell you that I am constantly worried about the letters that I receive.

I am quite aware that I will not be right all the time and that sometimes I will miss the mark by a wide margin. That is why I am so appreciative of letters from people like you, velop up to their age group and need who fill in parts of the answer that have been left out.

I wish that everything were so simple and that there was only one side to a problem. The reason that it is so complicated is that we talk as if all children are alike and all parents are alike.

movie meanders around in a structurally confusing pattern and Segal's character is never well-explained or Devotees of this genre will be disappointed despite the attractive location photography in England, Austria and Finland. Even Finney's excellent acting and good support from Segal and the entire cast don't save this one from the scrap heap of Glasnost.

Another Prism release that day is on the subject of inter-racial marriage. "A Fight for Jenny" (1986, color, not rated, 95 minutes), is slow, predictable and better suited for the daytime soaps.

Kelsey (Leslie Ann Warren) is divorced and lives with her sevenyear-old daughter, Jenny, in an apartment complex where a coworker, David (Philip Michael Thomas), also lives. Kelsey is scattered but cute and David is black.

Kesley's husband, Ben, is not a nice person and not at all understanding as the Kelsey-David relationship flowers. Ben files suit for child custody in a case which reaches the Supreme Court.

Whatever the court's resolution of the case may be. "A Fight for Jenny" is not at all satisfying and leaves viewers out on a limb at the end.

ALTHOUGH IT'S another fairly major videopic production, it lacks a sufficiently well-developed screenplay to exploit properly the potential inherent in the basic situation.

For a relatively mindless musicvideo with dialogue, try "The Game of Love" (1990, color, PG, 94 minutes). Imagine an unrealistic, adolescent, yuppie dream world, viewed through the clouded lens of dime store psychiatry, and you've got a clear picture of this film which fails in its advertised attempt to be upbeat and hip.

It's just there as background sight and sound.

DeGeneres finds there's life after 'Open House'

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

What can a bad TV series do for a career? One need look no further than McLean Stevenson.

"Hello Larry" had all the effect of an ankle bracelet adorned with a 75pound weight altached to the actor's since plummeting fortunes.

Then there's someone like comedienne Ellen DeGeneres.

Not only did the New Orleans native manage to escape unscathed from her short tenure on a sinking sitcom, DeGeneres somehow seemed to swirl above the lameness of it all. Perhaps talent has something to do DeGeneres took the role of Margo Van Meter, a ditzy real estate office receptionist on Fox Television's 'Open House" and turned it into one of the show's few redeeming qualities. One excruciatingly painful episode dealt with the funeral of Margo's dead cat.

DeGeneres pulled the debacle out of the hat, calling mourners to commence in a polka at the conclusion of the wake. "Open House" was laid to rest after one season. DeGeneres' reputation for wit lives on, though.

"There were some people who re-ally liked the show," said De-Generes, who appears Thursday through Saturday at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, "So, I really don't like to do that (bad mouth the show). People come up to me and say, 'I love that show. I can't believe they took it off.'

"What I'm I going to say to them, 'Really?, I hated it.'

THOUGH SHE admits "Open House" wasn't her "dream show," the sitcom allowed another creative outlet for the talented comic. Also, the TV experience gave her a brief taste of what she eventually wants to do regularly.

In the meantime, DeGeneres is sona of Margo. She's been known to talk about getting flies drunk or putting toupees on lizards. She also snaps off a series of one-liners like twigs from a branch.

DeGeneres puts forth a low-key brand of humor - devoid of stereo - less roles, reportedly turning down typical female bits. It's not something one might expect from a blonde-haired, blue-eyed comedi-

"They (audiences) do tend to expect a female comedian to be a caricature," DeGeneres said. "Someone who's demure; Someone who has a high squeaky voice or who is real abrasive and aggressive and talking about things only females can relate parents divorced. She recalls somewhat fondly of perking up her mother's sagging spirits with laughter during the time.

DeGeneres' comedic sense humor also came in handy when her mom remarried and uprooted the family, moving from New Orleans to Atlanta. Texas (population 5,000), where she was "an outsider."

"I wasn't the class clown," she said, "Actually, I was kind of quiet."

As soon as she graduated from high school, DeGeneres high-tailed it back to New Orleans. She worked some non-descript jobs, one in sales at J.C. Penney and as a go-fer at a DeGeneres also turned her sights on acting. She auditioned for countan offer on CBS's "Major Dad."

THEN "OPEN House" opened up. Despite her success on the shortlived sitcom, DeGeneres is back to square one. Mainly, that's because she doesn't fit the stereotypical mold as a dumb blonde or a brassy matron writers tend to call for when casting women on TV.

"Someone's going to have to take a chance on me, like 'Open House,' ' she said. "They let me create that character.

"If someone is going to let me do that, then fine. But it's hard to walk in and to try and read lines that you know you're not right for."

Stand-up has taken precedent at the moment. DeGeneres said she's WHEN DEGENERES was 13, her trying to cut back on an exhaustive schedule, preferring to work only

"That's real hard for me when I start thinking about all that, I think, 'What I'm I doing?,'" she said. "Then I realize what I am doing, making people happy and forget about it for awhile.'

Twang and pangs for Goober & the Peas

Fate is smiling on Goober & the Peas. The band has showcased a couple of times at CGGBs and MTV is calling about possibly doing an interview.

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Girls, girls, .... Goober & the Peas can't get enough of them.

Check that, Goober & the Peas can't get any of

And this is a concern, a dilemma, a crisis that threatens to tear at the fabric of this monstrosity of a musical force.

This mutant country/punk act bought into the rock'n'roll dream with no questions asked. For their undying passion and commitment, they have been left holding the straw - and a guitar pick instead of a Southern belle. Can life be so unfair?

"We have a hot line and 99.5 percent of the calls we get are from gentleman; the other half-percent are from mothers," opined guitarist Tom "Junior" Hendrickson. "When we started out that wasn't our goal."

Such artist suffering cannot go unnoticed. Goober & the Peas has been chosen 1991 Observer & Eccentric Street Scene Band of the Year by our music

Other criteria have been met. Since the band's emergence on the music scene 21/2 years ago, Goober & the Peas have cow poked their way to the top.

The band continually packs area venues and its self-produced EP, "The Complete Works of Goober & the Peas," is completely sold out. Another pressing will soon be available.

Goober & the Peas has the world eating oats out their rope-burned hands.

GOOBER & THE Peas was voted "Best Rock Band" in the 1990 Metro Times Detroit Music Awards, received "Critic's Choice" from the Chicago Reader and was chosen as a semifinalist in Musician magazine's "1990 Best Unsigned Band (BUB)" con-

The pinnacle of local fame and fortune came in November when the band opened for Bob Dylan at the Fox Theatre. ("He (Dylan) probably has a worse woman problem than we do," Junior said.).

Not bad for a gangly guy in a 10,000-gallon hat and a couple of Peas who used to play at barbecues on the Michigan State campus. How do they do it?

Any attempt to get them to seriously analyze their success is a major faux paus in the presence of 7-foot (6-feet-4 without the hat and hairdo) Goober and his podner, Junior.

"We always knew there was a strong hillbilly following in Detroit," says Goober, a.k.a. Dan Miller of Birmingham.

"For a long time Detroit has been waiting for gentlemen who are classy dressers," adds Junior.

Musically, Goober & the Peas have perfected a stirring blend of country twang and punk spike.

THE SECRET? Junior pulls out a Duracell transistor battery.

This here is the dattery for a guitar tuner," ne says and adds while turning to Goober. "The problem is, though, they don't sell a battery to keep a voice in tune.'

More than not, it may have something to do with cleverly written songs.

"Funky Cowboy," off of "The Complete Works of Goober & the Peas," is a lethally guitar-charged dance number that possesses the spirit of late '70s punk. By contrast, "Dear Grandpa" has Goober reincarnating Hank Williams Sr., in almost total reverence to the country great.

(Rumor has it when played backwards, "The Complefe Works of Goober & the Peas" reveals Minnie Pearl singing Judas Priest songs in tongues. Confronted with this, Goober and Junior nervously decline to comment).

Live, though, is where Goober & the Peas have their day.

Michael "Boss Hoss" Miller handles bass, Doc is on drums, and Jim "Shorty" Currie joins Junior as one of the band's two guitarists.

Dressed in a white suit with hat and battered patent leather shoes to match, the singer commands the legion of Gooberites at a recent show at the Nectarine Ballroom in Ann Arbor.

Goober politely tips his hat after the opening number "Send Me the Pillow," beats his chest on "So Tuned" and picks up the sax and blows some John Coltrane smoke into another number.

HIS LANKY frame breaks into a seizure of contortions that David Byrne would gladly put his signature on. His facial expressions bear the resemblance of someone in the aftermath of downing a Milk of Magnesia shake and realizing there is no restroom within a 10-mile radius.

Goober's nadir, though, is reached when he kicks a half bale of hay (actually straw) onto the dance floor while launching into "Funky Cowboy." After the number concludes, Goober tips his hat again and looks incredulously at his audience.

"What is this 'ye haw?,'" Goober asks, "Is that some type of University of Michigan saying?"

Before the show, Goober and Junior shed some of myths about the Peas. They've never roped a calf or branded a steer. In fact, Goober has never ridden a

The lead singer's only chaw is sugarless bubble

"My smile is important," says Goober, explaining why he doesn't chew tobacco. "It's more important than the band, than the music . . . If we're going to get any women, it's going to be because of my

"THE OLD one," Junior says, "not the new one."

The ever-pending big record deal is just around the bend. At least that's what several people who "know someone in the industry" have been telling band members.

"We're not believing any of it," Junior says. "We're just having fun."

At this time, a guy in glasses and blond hair stumbles into the room. He introduces himself as "Bob from Boston" and proceeds to tell the band he saw them at Club Heldelberg and thought they were

After comparing Goober & the Peas to a cross between Led Zeppelin, Van Halen and Johnny Cash, he asks the band for a favor.

"Could you point me to the bathroom?"

Junior directs him around the corner. Off goes another Goober & the Peas fan, but not the kind the

But the ever resourceful tandem could have that riddle solved as well. The answer to lasso some lasses? Aqua-Velva.

"I try to fill up the whole palm of my hand," Junior says. "I get my hat, my coat and my trousers. That way you can smell me no matter where you are in the room."

Fitness fads not new, exhibit reveals

HE EXERCISE guru says,
"Go for the burn." The surgeon general says, 'Don't smoke."' Grandpa says, "Eat your oatmeal." Mom adds, "Chew your food." Health and fitness advice is everywhere, but that's nothing new.

Where did it all begin? According to a new exhibit at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn called "Fit for America: Health," Fitness, Sport and American Society, 1830-1940," Americans have embraced almost every health and fitness craze that's come along in the last 150 years.

Using objects that range from a portable violet ray generator to a glass leech cup and an "electrobody belt," the exhibit shows what has changed and what hasn't in the American quest for perfect health.

Bob Sklar editor/591-2300

Organized by The Strong - " Museum of Rochester, N.Y., and funded in part by the National Endowmeent for the Humanities, "Fit for America" reveals the beginnings of a fitness-conscious society.

The exhibit looks at how Americans thought about their health, the self cures they adopted and their desire to achieve the ideal physical form during the era of industrialization.

HEALTH REFORM began as a widespread movement in the 1830s and was most-visible in the form of temperance campaigns against "demon alcohol." Those Americans who "stimulated" themselves with tobacco, strong drink and even table condiments, such as pepper and mustard, were castigated by religious reformers of the days.

The exhibit uses artifacts, including 19th-century whiskey bottles, tobacco tins and spice containers to depict the devils that plagued society.

The advocated alternatives to sloth and gluttony included renewal through diet, cleanliness and action. Advertisements for electrical notions and herbal potions, as well as some of the actual apparatus and containers, show how Americans were enticed into healthier behavior.

Between 1860 and 1890, "survival of the fittest" became an American preoccupation.

As concern grew for the fitness of a middle class performing less and less manual labor, calisthenics gymnastics and recreational sports evolved as an important part of American daily life.

A set of "Indian clubs" and an 1875 baseball bat are among the items that represent fitness interests of late 19th-century everyday folk.

By the 1890s and through the 1940s, the contemporary American image of health and fitness began taking shape.

Teddy Roosevelt provided a rugged role model with his support of the "the strenuous life" while the rise of amateur and professional sports combined to embody the health reform movement of the early 20th century.

Photographs of football and bicycling teams depict fitnessminded Americans who sought a middle ground between fanaticism and neglect.

"FIT FOR America" follows American fitness movements while reintroducing the health gurus of the late 19th and early 20th

Through photographs, magazine articles and written testimonials, visitors encounter such personalities as muscle man Charles Atlas, swimmer and "bathing beauty" Annette Kellerman and diet reform advocates Sylvester Graham (of cracker fame) and Horace Fletcher (who suggested chewing every mouthful of food 80 times).

Although perfection may have had a different look a century ago,

A postcard, circa 1907-15, depicts the streamlined form that replaced the 19th-century hourglass figure as a feminine ideal.

"Fit for America" shows that the pursuit of physical perfection is nothing new.

A Jane Fonda workout kit and other modern fitness-related objects reflect all that has gone before and will probably come 'round again.

"Fit for America: Health. Fitness, Sport and American Society 1820-1930" is on view in Henry Ford Museum's special exhibits gallery through Oct. 31. A book of the same name accompanies the exhibit and is available in museum stores.

Using objects that range from a portable violet ray generator to a glass leech cup and an "electro-body belt," the exhibit shows what has changed and what hasn't in the American quest for perfect health.

"This exhibition has received a very enthusiastic response from Detroit's jazz community, even before it has opened," said Silvia L. Willlams, museum education curator.

"We enlisted the assistance of several of Detroit's most respected and well-known jazz musicians and experts to present two days of symposia. Through lecture, demonstration and videos, we explored the origins of jazz, the Detroit jazz tradition and the future of jazz."

HINTON'S CAREER spans more than 60 years. He has photographed many of the giants of jazz for nearly as many years.

Some of the "jazz legends" pictured in the exhibition include Billic Holiday, Lester Young, Ron Carter, the photographs.

This photo of Aretha Franklin, circa 1960, in a New York recording studio, was taken by Milt Hinton. It's included in "The Life and Photographs of Milt Hinton, Jazz Musician."

The exhibition is sponsored by the Aetna Life and Casualty Co., which also sponsored a private reception for the exhibition and Hinton, where he signed copies of his autobiography, "Bass Line."

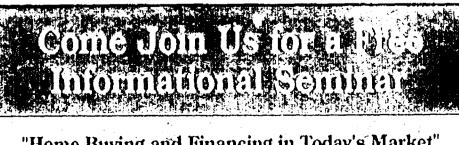

He also was honored with a bass choir recital and induction into the Greystone International Jazz Museum Hall of Fame. The Greystone Jazz Museum is providing supplemental artifacts for the exhibition.

Don't let weather make you blue

Q: With the holiday season over and fewer activities going on, I should be accomplishing more. Instead, these long winter months are getting me down and rather than getting caught up, I'm "losing it" organizationally!

A: There are two components of and they are dependent on each other. It takes clear thinking to produce physical order. If you are sad, depressed or otherwise mentally "down," you aren't able to crystallize your thinking and your environment will suffer.

Science has proven people do, indeed, suffer from the "winter doldrums." I found from personal experience, however, that a positive mental attitude can help. A few months after we moved to this part of the country, about 15 years ago, the newspaper confirmed what I had been loudly lamenting - organization, mental and physical, in 90 days we had only six sunny ones. Having grown up in the Southewest with seemingly endless sunshine, I thought that winter was

> 'awful. When it was over, however, I had a strange reaction: I was mad! I was angry that three months of my life had been spent so badly and I decided at that moment that I would never again allow the weather to affect my mood.

> Since then I think that every day is a beautiful day. I love changes in the weather and think having only warm > sunshine would be boring. I welcome rain because it washes and freshens the outdoors and helps things grow. I find snow absolutely beautiful and cold weather invigorating. Fog brings a kind of hush over the world, clouds furnish a certain coziness and - well, they'll eventually clear away.

Now, I realize it's easier to be positive when I don't work outdoors. I don't even have to drive the expressways every day or walk long distances to catch a bus. I'm also not housebound as some folks are who must avoid icy air or sidewalks.

But I've done some of those things in the past and if I still did, I'd adopt the attitude that such experiences make me hearty - a survivor. I'd be proud of myself for "hanging in there" and "making it."

Good physical health aids mental health and exercise can help beat the doldrums, too. Force yourself to move. Do anything from going to a health club to scrubbing the floor or shoveling the sidewalk. What you do isn't as important as the fact that you are moving. Do something to get yourself puffing every day.

When you refuse to be lethargic or in a bad mood of your own making, you free yourself up to become interested in the world outside yourself. You'll be more vital and involved in what's going on around you. You'll think more clearly and concentrate on what you need to do. I can almost guarantee this combination of a good attitude and exercise will help you get more done and be better orga-

The Hills of Lone Pine — in addition to estates homes — features several contemporary style cluster homes like this one by Bloomfield Hills architect Robert Swanson. Home fronts are de-

Homestead makes way for upscale development

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Developers are often accused of raping the land because they purchase large tracts of natural, unspoiled land, cut down trees, fill in wetlands, lay down concrete, bury pipes, hang wires and slap up houses.

Developers say abuses are things of the past, but even the most environmentally concerned developers would have to admit their ties to the land are tenuous.

Not James Vanderkloot, vice president and general manager of Texel Land Co. He's developing right in his former backyard - literally.

Vanderkloot, along with his father, Robert, and mother, Tuttie, are transforming the former 150-acre Vanderkloot family farm into the Hills of Lone Pine.

James' brother William and sister Karen DiChiera, although not officers of Texel Land Co., are also closely involved in the development of the former family farm, James Vanderkloot said.

We knew a time would come when the land would be developed," Vanderkloot said of the substantial tract of prime real estate in Bloomfield Township at Lone Pine and Telegraph roads.

"There was a fierce instinct in the family to see this done a certain

THE VANDERKLOOT family has a vested interest in how the development works out - and not only because they have lived there for nearly four decades. Robert and Tuttle Vanderkloot still live in the home they built in 1954.

If 150 acres of rolling, wooded hills and a posh Oakland County address isn't enough to make the average developer sallvate, then throwing in a private lake completely surrounded by the property would.

Most developers are concerned about preserving the land, but few have the direct ties the Vanderkloot family had to the property. All of the now mature pine trees that dot the landscape were planted by the family long before the development.

Some, Vanderkloot said, were transplanted during construction, ut many are still original plantings.

"There weren't any pine trees here when my family bought the property in 1952." Prior to 1952, the land was owned by James Vernor Sr., founder of the Detroit soft drink company. The original Vernor farmhouse is slated for renovation this summer.

Vanderkloot said his family had no previous experience in development - they were formerly in industrial real estate and printing - so they toyed with the idea of selling the property or working out an arrangement with a developer.

"The more we considered the idea, the more we leaned toward developing it ourselves."

IF THE PROPERTY was going to be developed, so be it, but it was going to be developed by someone who knew and cared for it, Vanderkloot said. "Before all this started, we knew we wanted to create a theme in which the land would dominate the homes."

After beginning construction in 1984, the Hills of Lone Pine is twothirds complete. Vanderkloot estimated it will be another two years before the final third is finished.

When finished, the Hills of Lone Pine will include 57 estate homes and 74 single residence, detached cluster homes. Only four estate homes sites and 35 cluster home sites remain.

Developing property - particularly for a first timer - is not an easy task. And that task is made no easier then when the goals are lofty

When the last home is built and the last family has moved in, Vanof Lone Pine to stand as a benchmark for the industry.

"I want people to look at it and say, 'This is how it's supposed to be done." Not being a developer, Vanderkloot said his chief source of information were those people he wanted to sell to.

"I tried to find out what people wanted, rather than give them what I thought they wanted."

WITH CLUSTER homes ranging from $650,000 to $1.2 million and estate homes costing as much as $2.25 million, he knew he was going to be working with a discriminating clientele, Vanderkloot said.

Vanderkloot admits he made some mistakes along the way, but his anxiety and conservatism probably helped the development.

"In the long run, I probably saved money by doing things the hard way," he continued. When excavating ponds, for example, he put the cranes and the trucks in the pond areas, dug out the dirt, and then 'drove out.

A far quicker way, he said, would have been to take out some of the trees and have several crews excavating from the sides of the ponds.

"But then I would have had to replace those older trees - that would have cost a lot and hurt the site."

The Hills of Lone Pine is, admittedly, an exclusive development, Vanderkloot concedes, but his intent was not to appeal to the pretentious. "What makes it exclusive is what makes it harmonious — its charm is in its understatement."

WHEN HE AND his family set out to develop the property, Vanderkloot said he was worried homes might overpower the site.

"I wanted a subtle, unobtrusive development."

But unobtrusive does not mean boring, Vanderkloot said. Every effort designed to make the home front inconspicuous is matched by an equal effort to make the home rear spectacular.

Just because his family is conderkloot said he would like the Hills cerned with preserving the land it has owned for nearly 40 years in as close to a pristine state as possible, does not mean the land couldn't be improved, Vanderkloot said.

Texel Land Co. nearly doubled the size of Minnow Lake and formed an island in its middle, built two areas of ponds, turned two clearings into parks, created a brook, preserved a large on site wetland and created a nature area (although he did add several aerators in the area to prevent

But his piece de resistance, Vanderkloot said, is his waterfalls. And all it took was several tons of granite slabs, two ponds, a pump house, and more engineering than he cares to go into, he said. But no matter how much a developer wishes to retain natural character, the whole development could be ruined by an odd assortment of homes.

"WE DECIDED all the homes should be a contemporary design with simple, clean lines that wouldn't compete with the (surroundings)," he said. "I think contemporary is also a bit more time-

The only option, Vanderkloot said, was to impose greater architectural controls - a practice becoming increasingly common in high-end developments. All Hills of Lone Pine cluster homes are designed by three architects: Robert Saarinen Swanson and Jack Brown, both of Bloomfield Hills, and Dale Ferriby of Farmington Hills. Estate owners have more flexibility, but designs must be approved by an architectural committee made up of Texel Land Co. principals, the architects and a consultant from the Ann Arbor-based firm

Johnson, Johnson and Roy. Vanderkloot said he is not trying to be dictatorial, but the more control, the more consistent the development. "Plans can be modified - I don't think anyone (in the development) has used the exact designs we provide.

"Architectural controls are becoming more common because the public demands it," he said. "People want to feel comfortable about the development, they want to know that if they move in today, they know what's going next door.

Because of this, the Hills of Lone Pine is not for everyone, he admits. "I had one guy who wanted to put a French Provincial estate - I can't tell you how hard it is to turn down someone who wants to give you $2 accident while driving into my condominium project while on a city road. I have a broken arm and permanent scars on my face. Am I precluded by no-fault insurance laws from pursuing the person who caused the accident? And do I have any claim against the condominium association? My view of the intersection was blocked by some trees that were planted by the developer of the project.

It appears that you may have sustained a serious disfigurement that would take you out from under the limitations of the no-fault statute and allow you to sue the person who caused the damage to you in the automobile, assuming they were at fault in regard to the accident. You would not be limited to economic losses under no fault but could sue for pain and suffering and the traditional other types of damages normally found in tort

You may also have a claim against the condominium association because it maintained an arguable safety hazard, if you can establish it by an accident reconstruction expert. But it appears that the road on which you were traversing was a public dedicated road for which the condominium does not have any direct responsi-

Your personal injury attorney will be in a position to determine within nine business days from the whether the condominium associa- time we signed the purchase agreetion has any responsibility regard- ment, but the developer took the ing the trees, against the city or position that we had received the county that maintains the road or the other driver.

There also may be other potential defendants concerning this personal injury, including the person who planted the bushes. You also should be obtaining first-party no fault benefits for medical bills and property damage from your own insurance carrier.

I have an employee of the association who is being paid straight time for overtime because he lives in the condominium project and is the son of one of the directors. As a member of the board, I am concerned about this procedure and wonder what comments you have in regard to it.

You have expressed concern regarding a state of facts, which creates at least two legal questions. First, is the employee being paid in violation of the wage and hour laws by receiving straight time for hours worked beyond 40 hours per of the legislature in regard to givweek? Chances are the employee is ling purchasers a reasonable opporentitled to time and a half. That tunity to review the condominium should be confirmed as soon as possible with the appropriate adjustments being made.

The other aspect is the hiring of someone who is related to a board member. This is a bad idea in a in condominiums, real estate number of respects. First, it is a and corporate law. You are inbad idea for an association to hire vited to submit topics about conemployees who live in the complex for maintenance and other servicerelated tasks except in the context of a resident manager. Second, it becomes even more potentially a conflict of interest when the person hired is also affiliated with a member of the family of a member of Meisner the board. This creates, if not the actual, an apparent conflict of interest. You are best advised to terminate and pay the employee his back overtime as soon as possible.

Robert M.

Our developer had us sign a preliminary reservation agreement for the purchase of a condominium and told us we had 10 days from the time he notified us to sign a purchase agreement. We gave him a deposit when we signed the preliminary reservation agreement, and he also gave us a set of the condominium documents - master deed, disclosure statement, condominium buyer's handbook and the articles of incorporation.

We then went in approximately 15 days later and signed a purchase agreement. It said we should have nine business days to review the condominium documents from the time we received it. After signing the purchase agreement, we decided we did not want to go ahead with the purchase, but the developer balked at giving us our money

Our decision not to go ahead was condominium documents at least 20 days prior and that therefore we had a binding purchase agreement. What can we do?

Your developer is not in compliance with the condominium act. One of the condominium documents that you are entitled to review over a period of nine business days is the purchase agreement. Accordingly, it is my view that the developer had no right to withhold your escrow funds from being refunded, and you should immediately pursue the developer by notifying the escrow agent holding the funds of your demand for a reimbursement.

It may be necessary for you to obtain an attorney to enlighten the developer as to his responsibilities. Apparently, this is a common practice that is occurring among some developers who are not only violating the express terms of the statute but certainly the spirit of the intent documents once they enter into a purchase agreement.

Today's shakes, shingles have history

(AP)— From the saltboxes that dot the Northeastern shoreline - especially in Cape Cod - to California's ornate Victorians, wood shakes and shingles are part of America's

Whether the traditional square butt or the multipatterned fancy-cut variety, it's hard to beat the beauty of this natural, textured siding. Historically, shakes and shingles wood, including cedar, redwood, oak, inches wide. Shakes, on the other cypress, pine spruce and fir. Although they are still made from a variety of species - particularly on some of the more sophisticated architectural restoration jobs - cedar is the most common wood used for today's shakes and shingles. What's the difference between a shingle and a shake? Shingles are machine-sawn into smooth, tapered boards that range in size from about were made from many types of 3 or 4 inches wide to more than 16 hand, are hand split with a steelbladed froe, then sawn in half. This gives them their rough surface and flat, smooth back.

The traditional way to install shakes and shingles is called single coursing. Each piece of siding is attached so that it covers about half of the one below it. Only two nails are used to secure each shake or shingle and are spaced so that the following course covers them. This is the common way homes were shingled on the East Coast.

SIDING WITH double courses is the way to achieve deeper shadow lines and wide weather exposures, from 12 inches to 16 inches, depending on the shingle size you use. It can also be more economical, since a lesser-grade product is used for the undercoursing that is fastened with one nall at the top of each shake or shingle.
