School voters narrowly reject tax hike

School millage opponents cheer Wednesday night as election results reveal a defeat for higher school taxes.

Dispute boils over on election eve

By Darrell Clem staff writer

An angry Westland resident Monday demanded the resignations of school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill and all seven school board members if a proposed tax increase failed in Wednesday's special election.

"You owe the people of this (school) district your letters of resignation," said Walter Warren, a Norwayne neighborhood resident.

(For election results, see the story above).

Warren's remarks came Monday during the last pre-election school board meeting that marked a bitter exchange between some millage critics and board members. Eleven people, including millage opponents and supporters, addressed the board.

When Warren asked board members point blank if they would resign if the millage failed, members Andrew Spisak and Kathleen Chorbagian said they would not. Other board members didn't respond.

Warren accused the school officials of being "stooges" of the Michigan Education Association, which he labeled "a vicious political action organization" that has "no sympathy for the voters at Warren's criticism stemmed from a negotiated contract that gave Wayne-Westland teachers an 11.9 percent raise over two years. The salary increases, among other issues, sparked fiery opposition to the proposed 7.75-mill tax increase.

"Do you know how you spell greed? It's 'M-E-A,'" Warren said.

Wayne-Westland school district voters scored a strikeout against new taxes Wednesday, defeating a millage proposal in a fiery election that school officials said signaled the district's demise.

Voters rejected a 7.75-mill tax hike by 51.6 percent to 48.4 percent, with 7,637 voters opposing the tax and 7,165 supporting it.

It marked the third millage defeat in 13 months, though two proposals last year lost by much wider margins. Nearly one in four district voters went to election polls Wednesday, casting 14,802 votes in a dramatic turnout that exceeded election officials' expectations.

Somber school board members and administrators, addressing a crowd of 300 millage supporters, conceded defeat about 9:40 p.m. Wednesday night at election night headquarters in the Dyer Center on Marquette.

"This is the beginning of the demise of what was once a quality school district," Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said, as some millage upporters wiped away tears.

D'Neill said he didn't know whether officials would place another tax proposal on the ballot in June, when an election will be held for three school board seats.

'We've got to come back and talk to the board and meet with the (promillage Save Our Schools) citizens committee," he said.

SOME 100 tax opponents, meanwhile, celebrated a bittersweet victory at the Wayne-Ford Civic League on Wayne Road and attributed the election outcome to a public backlash against school officials.

"I don't think there were any winners in this election," said David Moranty, chairman of the anti-millage Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee. "The kids didn't win, but the biggest losers are the school board and administration-They have shown that they cannot run this district." School officials "threw in their last trump card" by vowing that a failed millage would usher in such massive budget cuts as eliminating busing and athletics, Moranty said. "It's unfortunate that the kids have to be used as a pawn for an inept administration," he added.

Moranty suggested that school officials quit their posts because "it is possible that (they) still do not get the message.

"If that is true," he said, "then the day has come for a community-punishing school board to resign or be recalled, and for a school systemdemising administration to be replaced by positive leaders who will rebuild confidence, integrity and quality education.'

MILLAGE SUPPORTERS appeared optimistic as early results Wednesday set the stage for a close vote. But the mood waned as it became clear that voters had defeated the proposal.

Only nine voting precincts supported the millage, which was defeated in 30 precincts. It tied in the Elliott precinct.

"I guess the inevitable has occurred, and we have to read them (the results) and weep," O'Neill said. "This sure is an archaic way of running the most important business in this country."

O'Neill apologized to "the young people of this community," adding that "it's unfortunate that our priorities are a little confused."

The superintendent com citizens and school officials who helped with the campaign, saying, "we came close, very frankly, but that just doesn't count at this time." O'Neill lauded the efforts of school board members.

"Our board has stood tall," he said. "They know what the needs of this community are. They know what the needs of this district are. They were willing to put their heads on the chopping block and take whatever heat came from it."

SCHOOL BOARD President Mathew McCusker thanked millage supporters and said, "I could not be prouder that a carne so close in the time that we had."

McCusker held out hope for statelevel school-fractice reform that he said is needed for a time quitable

Angry taxpayers fight assessment hikes

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Hundreds of angry taxpayers are flocking to city hall to seek relief from rising property assessments that have resulted in a sharp increase in taxes for many Westland As many as 1,000 residents are expected to appear before the Westland Board of Review to ask for a reduction in new property assessments that climbed an average 7 percent in the city. The board has begun a series of hearings on appeals that will continue through Wednesday in city hall's city council chambers, 36601 Ford.

Residents attending Monday's sessions blasted the latest property assessment increases, saying taxes already are too high and houses cannot be sold for their assessed value.

Motor Co. worker, said his property's state equalized valuation, which represents half the market value, rose from $26,990 to $28,880 — an increase of $1,890 or 7 percent.

"Every time you turn around it's another thousand. Now it's going up almost two thousand," said O'Connell, a 44-year-old Melton Street resident. "I've lived in Westland for about 15 years, and I've never complained. I've always paid my taxes. But it's getting to be too much."

RISING PROPERTY assessments and taxes have hit senior citizens particularly hard, he said. "These people can't even afford to live in the houses they raised their kids in, and that's not fair."

O'Connell, a Ford worker for 25 years, hopes to move to Arizona when he retires.

"I'm really disappointed with the whole area here," he said. "I want to get out of Michigan, period. There'stoo many taxes.'

Like several residents, O'Connell directed much of the blame for exorbitant taxes toward the school district and said he planned to vote against a proposed school tax increase on Wednesday.

John Vasely, 44, who's on disability retirement from Ford, said the SEV on his property jumped from $24,240 to $25,930 — a $1,690 increase or nearly 7 percent. Based on the SEV, Vasely said his house - in theory — should sell for about $50,000.

"There's no way I could sell it for $50,000," Vasely said Monday. "I'd be surprised if I got $40,000."

But Thomas, when contacted at his office to comment on Brown's remarks, said he felt the council president's remarks were "childish."

The mayor said he proposed the rainy day fund last year to set aside $3.5 million surplus when he took money for specified projects.

THOMAS, WHO has been mayor for just over 14 months, admitted that he was surprised by Brown's comments. But he noted that he and council have been at odds over different issues in recent months.

The mayor said that others felt he would spend nearly all of the city's office last year.

But the surplus will be $2.5 million to $3 million by the end of the current fiscal year on June 30, in part because of $1 million from the sale of city property.

Brown said the proceeds from that sale will allow the city to put $500,000 aside for books for a yet-tobe-built city library and another $500,000 for new police department computers.

Addressing another source of conflict, the council president said Tuesday that he supports the concept of having non-residents serve on city boards and commissions.

Five workers laid off by ousted cable television chief Dennis Fassett are expected to be called back to run the local station on a temporary basis.

The stopgap measure would keep the station operating until Westland city officials choose Fassett's successor by June 30.

The city council will consider rehiring the workers under a temporary contract that city attorney C. Charles Bokos plans to submit to council members on Monday. The employees could return to their jobs as early as Tuesday morning.

The proposal emerged Monday as the council held a special session to discuss replacing Fassett, who lost his job Feb. 25 amid severe criticism from Mayor Robert Thomas, some city council members and the local cable

Turner also supported the workers, saying that "on a personal basis I would recommend that they be kept."

During Monday's council session, council member Kenneth Mehl questioned whether the city could recall the workers in the absence of the contract that expired Feb. 28.

But Thomas said a new temporary contract appeared feasible because the city still has money budgeted for cable station operations.

Though the station has been showing virtually all reruns in recent weeks, Thomas said new programming could resume soon if the city council agrees to recall the laid-off workers, who include an office manager, an executive producer, an assistant producer, a public access producer and a print production assistant.

Following the layoffs, Edward Gunther, mayoral executive assistant, stepped in to keep the cable station going temporarily. But his plans to begin a vacation on Tuesday prompted Turner to begin staffing the office.

City officials hope that Fassett's successor will provide permanent solutions to the cable station's woes.

Fassett had come under increasing fire from the mayor, among others, for failing to provide enough local programming. A temporary extension of his contract through May 31 recently won support from a majority of council members, but a mayoral veto prevailed because the council fell one vote short of the five needed to override the mayor's action.

O'NEILL, VISIBLY angered, told Warren that local teachers settled for the lowest pay raises this year than any other teacher union group in Wayne County, adding that their salaries rank in the bottom half.

"I'm telling you, they're below the average in Wayne County," O'Neill said.

Warren, a former attorney who owns five Norwayne houses, drew heated criticism when he said that residents of the south-end neighborhood — because of their "low" socioeconomic status — are intimidated by school officials.

"I'm here speaking for those people who are afraid to come here and speak," he said.

Chorbagian was among the board members who said Warren's statements offended her.

'He has insulted our children's intelligence. He has insulted our community's intelligence," she said. Addressing Warren, she added, "I don't know why you live here."

Millage supporter Cathy Keyes also blasted Warren, saying "he's the type of person who gives the people of Norwayne a bad name."

Jet noise plan won't begin until summer

By Wayne Peal stall writer

Area residents will have to put up with jet noise a little while longer.

An airport noise reduction test, once schedueld for late March, won't begin until late May.

"There were some technical studies that had to be completed, but we're still going to conduct the test," said county "noise czar" Bryan Amann.

The test will fan out jet takeoffs over a larger number of Wayne County communities, reducing flights over Middlebelt Road and Dearborn, Federal Aviation Administration officials said the test could begin after they completed an environmental impact study.

County officials say they believe the test could begin by Memorial Day Weekend.

THE DELAY, county and FAA

officials said, is insignificant.

"It's actually better to beginduring what we call 'open-window season," said Carl Ball, regional airport noise director with the FAA office in Chicago. "You want to conduct the test when people are outside, not inside."

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara requested an "open window season" test in a Feb. 19 letter to the Chicago FAA

Leaders of an anti-noise citizens group said the county may have been overly optimistic in suggesting tests could begin by the end of this month.

"We're disappointed," said David Esper, head of Citizens Against Aircraft Noise. "We were specifically promised by (County Executive) Ed McNamara that we would not go through another summer with the same flight pattern and we're going to hold them to that."

"We hope this isn't a case of the county not being able to control the FAA," said Esper, a Dearborn attorney who headed an unsuccessful effort to block airport expansion bonds as a protest over air-

County and FAA officials, however, say there is no dispute. "We're working closely," Ball said.

"I must say the guys in Wayne County are working very hard and the FAA has been very accommodating, as well," said Wayne Vance of Dykema, Gossett, the Washignton, D.C.-based law firm hired by the county to assist in airport noise matters.

Vance said it was his assumption all along the test wouldn't begin until Memorial Day.

While FAA officials are considering holding a public hearing, it isn't certain whether a hearing would be necessary.

A COUNTY commission study group has already held four public hearings on the county plan. The groups will hold an estimated 10 more meetings before presenting its own suggestions at an April public hearing, said its chairman Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn.

It is uncertain at this point whether any of those hearings would eliminate the need for an

FAA hearing. Earlier this year, the FAA gave the county the option of adopting changes outright or on a test basis. Full-time adoption would have required another nine to 12 month environmental impact study threatening to postpone any action this summer.

The environmental study would still be required after the 180-day test, Ball said. But material could be gathered during the test period, speeding the process. The county's flight plan proposal was drafted late last year. The plan reduces jet take offs over Livonia, Westland and Garden City, fanning them out over less populated communities to the airport's south.

Engler hints he'll support property tax base sharing

By Tim Richard staff writer

Gov. John Engler dropped a broad hint he'll support property tax base sharing as a method of narrowing the gap between rich and poor among Michigan's 560 school dis-

The plan circulating in Lansing is to put half the growth in commercial and industrial property taxes into the state treasury and distribute it on a per-pupil basis.

"That's something Rep. (James) O'Neill (D-Saginaw) and Sen. (Dan) DeGrow (R-Port Huron), two leading experts on school finance in the Legislature, have advocated as a way, over time, of closing the per pupil expenditure gap," Engler said.

"I'm committed to making progress on that gap because I think it is unfair.

"I'm not prepared to announce any components of that plan today," Engler said Monday in an interview in his temporary Olds Tower office facing the Capitol Building.

"But I have spoken approvingly of what DeGrow and O'Neill are doing. I think they're on the right track," said Engler, who last week promised to attack the equity problem in THOSE TWO lawmakers chair their respective appropriations subcommittees on school aid.

In a recent joint appearance before the Michigan Association of School Boards, they closed the door on the possibility of a state tax hike to pay for equity. They said equity must come from spreading the commercial and industrial wealth that has sprouted up in suburbs around Detroit and Grand Rapids. Per pupil spending ranges from $2,500 in rural areas to $8,000 in Oakland County suburbs.

Tax base sharing wouldn't cost suburban districts any existing money - just half of future non-residential growth. Suburban lawmakers strongly resist it. Proposal B on the sharing plan and was rejected by 70 percent of voters.

Engler praised the Republican-led Senate for passing his proposed 20 percent reduction in school operating property taxes even as it raised the price tag, saying, "They're headed in the right direction." But he scored House Democrats for wanting to raise business taxes $500 million to pay for a program of relief to small householders.

ENGLER DEFENDED his plan to cut state funding of the Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Symphony Orchestra and most Michigan Council for the Arts grants, despite criticism from fellow Republicans. For example, Joe Bianco, executive vice president of the Founders Society of DIA, was a strong presence at last week's Lansing rally protesting the cuts and grant freeze. DIA gets virtually all its $16 million operating budget from the state.

"It is impossible to defend funding the arts and cutting families," Enger replied. "We had to make a choice to stand with the families, and that's what we've done.'

Francesco DiBlasi, music director of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra, had wondered why LSO's $9,000 grant couldn't have been phased out over three years "so we can plan our lives." "We have a deficit today that is still in excess of $500 million," Engler replied. "The problem is we've been spending more money than we've been taking in.

"We've been kidding everyone, telling them there was money for their projects, hopes and needs when in fact there was not.

"This has been financed in recent years by a series of one-time measures and gimmicks, and we've run out of those. We've reached the point where honesty is the best policy.

"If we're going to be fair in this, everybody had to share in the challenge. For every impact on the symphony, it's far greater for somebody who happens to be on ADC (aid to families with dependent children)."

Vocation ed enrollments rise with recession

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Enrollments in area vocational programs are up, a sure sign the economy is in a recession.

But enrollments haven't reached early-1080s levels, a sign the recession might not be as bad as predict-

"Whenever the economy gets tough, we see an increase," Greg Baracy, director of the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland.

Even though the recession appears mild, Barcy said center enrollments have increased significantly.

The 1,100 adults currently enrolled in job training programs are a substantial increase over those enrolled one year ago.

That's not surprising, given that the regional unemployment rate jumped from 7.1 percent to 7.4 percent — or 161,000 people — over the same period, adding 6,000 more metro residents to unemployment

Though a substantial number of adult enrollees are union auto workers, Baracy said a number of white collar workers are also involved.

"Some are sent back by their company for retraining, but some have been laid off," he said. "We have people with four year degrees coming back to pick up on things they missed.".

About 36 displaced workers are currently participating in job training programs at Schoolcraft College, said college business and industrial services director Bruce Sweet.

An additional 14 people are participating in the college's licensed practical nurse program, also targeted, in part, to unemployed workers.

The college usually helps about 40 workers a year through Michigan service industries, along with state ures.

"We find we're mostly helping people from automobile suppliers,

Tax foes: put up or shut up

HE WAYNE-WESTLAND school district millage campaign, which climaxed Wednesday night, exposed several problems that local voters will have to consider at the annual board of education election in

Opponents of the property tax increase made it clear they don't like the direction of the school district or the school board's leadership.

There was plenty of heat, but not much light, generated about voters' frustrations on rising school taxes, deteriorating academic test scores and teachers' salary raises.

While school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill unfairly caught more flak than deserved, millage opponents offered few alternatives.

board seats in the June 10 election. April 8 is the deadline for filing petitions to get on the ballot.

If the tax foes are upset that much about the direction of the school district, then they should step up and be willing to have a positive voice in making changes.

Two four-year terms, now filled by board president Mathew McCusker and vice president Sharon Scott, will be up for grabs. Michael Reddy, named to a vacancy last November, will be running for the remaining two years of a term.

While McCusker and Scott were re-elected in past elections, potential candidates may sense that voters are upset by a lot of things.

No big deal Salary proposal a bad idea

TEEPING A lid on the salaries of elected overtime for one or two union employees. Westland city officials is being touted by Westland City Council president Thomas Brown as a way to control

Under his proposal, submitted to the Local Officers Compensation Commission last week, officials would have the flexibility to accept less money than the stipulated salary. The compensation commission already had approved a twoyear freeze on salaries of the mayor and council

Under Brown's proposal, officials could reduce their pay to $1 a year. The commission approved the suggestion.

THE IDEA sounds good, but it's just plain dumb and unfair.

First, the potential savings of a few grand in a $25 million operating budget barely pays the Second, the issue could be used against a political candidate in an upcoming election.

For example, if a wealthy person campaigned for mayor on the platform of returning $5,000 to the city treasury, that would put him/her at an advantage of a more qualified person who may have to give up another job to serve in the mayor's post.

CURRENT SALARIES are $68,310 for the mayor, $11,051 for the council president, $10,551 for the president pro tem and $10,051 for the other five council members.

The salaries go with the job and responsibilities. No one runs for a council position for the money. The mayor's salary is fair when compared to others in similar municipal positions.

Let's leave it that way.

And the 2-1 appeals court decision, signed by Judges Martin M. Doctoroff of Birmingham and John W. Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge, upturned the November 1988 vote by turning to the state, rather than the federal, Constitution.

In its section guaranteeing equal rights under the law, the Michigan Constitution states: "All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their equal benefit, security and protection."

THE JUDGES RULED that since the right to choose whether to have an abortion is a fundamental right of all pregnant women, because Medicaid reimburses those who choose to go through with their pregnancy, it must also reimburse those who choose "medically necessary" abortions.

The ban, camouflaged as a tax issue, wrongfully eliminated guaranteed state payment for a medical procedure that is guaranteed by the Constitution.

It has been more than two years since indigent, pregnant women have been denied medical care for abortions. It was a mean-spirited decision, which proclaimed to oppose the use of taxpayers' money for abortions, but only attacked women on public assistance, not the tax-funded health plans of state, county, municipal and school em-

Iraqi blood begins drying

To the editor:

President Bush, on the eve of the cease fire on the Gulf War started his address to the nation with, "Kuwait is liberated." Perhaps it would have been more appropriate to announce, "Iraq is devastated" in light of the effects of the allied bombing against that country.

Many supporters of the war have been quick to point to the U.S.-Allied military victory as proof of the correctness of the policy of war against Iraq. The facts belie this belief, how-

In the war against Iraq, It is estimated that 100,000 people have died or have been maimed. The war has cost the U.S. and its allies over $80 billion. Both Iraq and Kuwait have had their infrastructures reduced to rubble. Residential areas, economic. industrial, and governmental institutions have been destroyed. The allied response to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait has been many orders of magnitude greater than the initial offense. This war has brought untold pain on the people of the region. Thousands have been made refugees, , human commitment need to be dowidows and orphans.

Many had advocated a peaceful resolution to this conflict. The economic blockade of Iraq, imposed with a vigilance never before seen, could have been given more time to work. Continued political and economic sanctions against Iraq could have reduced the Iraqi regime to comply with United Nations resolutions pertinent to this crisis.

Regrettably, this was not the course taken, and the people of Iraq and Kuwait suffered through 40 days of the most intense, horrific bombing in history: Freeing Kuwait did not have to entail destroying Iraq.

Now, we must do all we can to have a benevolent peace. Money and nated from governmental, private, and nongovernmental sources to help with the post-war reconstruction of Iraq. The economic blockade should be lifted so that Iraq can begin the rebuilding.

It is telling that many Americans have been euphoric about this war, while the blocd in Baghdad and Basra is only now drying. Humanitarianism demands that we recognize first and foremost the terrible human costs of war. It is incumbent on Americans to recognize the catastrophic losses imposed on Iraq, stop inflicting pain on that country, and allow this grotesque chapter in history to be closed.

points of view

Thumbs up to this soldier

WE'RE VERY fortunate,

Last spring, our son joined the Army on the delayed enlistment plan. Brian went into basic training last Nov. 14. Two months and two days later, the war started.

He hadn't planned on that. Neither. had we. However, he said he was ready to go to the Gulf, if that's what the president wanted him to do. When one signs up through delayed enlistment, one gets to choose a place to serve, or a branch of service. Brian chose Germany, not missing the historical significance of being one of the last American troops to patrol what for most of our lives has been the Berlin Wall.

When the ground war started. Brian was less than a week from graduating from basic and advanced training. We attended his graduation at Fort Knox. When the base commander read his name, it was followed by: "next duty station: West Germany."

NO ONE WANTS to send their son to war, even if he wants to go. Brian had thought seriously of volunteering for Gulf duty and skipping his original assignment. Before he could decide, the ground war ended.

No need or opportunity for him to make the decision. He still might be rotated into the Gulf to bat cleanup. but right now he's on his way to Germany.

That's the amazing part. After graduation, he got 14 days leave and spent most of his time in civilian clothing, dog tags buried beneath a Public Enemy sweatshirt, half-inchlong hair covered by a Lakers basketball hat.

Two days ago, though, leave was over. At 5 a.m. I got up, made a pot of coffee and woke up Brian so we could give him a ride to the airport for a 7:30 a.m. flight.

The sweatshirt and hat were gone. The dress uniform was back in place with two new medals hanging above the left pocket. We drove to Metro, and remembered the rule that you're not supposed to pull up and drop people off due to terrorism precautions.

It was hard to look around and find someone who wasn't staring at Brian and either smiling, giving him a thumbs-up or nodding.

There's much discussion over whether we should have been involved in the Persian Gulf war. I don't believe so, but found I still could support my son 100 percent while wondering if this particular war was worth the lives of our chil-

The student - who was suspended for a year from participation in Springport High School's football, wrestling and baseball teams - admitted that he had signed yearlong pledges in August 1989 and May 1990 agreeing to abstain from tobacco. He was nailed three times for violating the pledge.

City officials say the policy is designed to "protect" employees' benefits under the workmen's compensation law covering respiratory ailments. Also, according to the Salem city manager, officials want their employees to be healthy.

Is there merit in 'social promotion'?

Q: I can't believe that after 12 years of schooling some high school graduates can't understand written directions. Others have to be reviewed on the very simple math needed to calculate square yardage. How did these kids get a diploma? Why were they passed from one grade to the next?

A: "Social promotion" is the term educators use for passing a student with weak skills and/or poor performance on to the next grade.

In layperson's terms it means the student is getting too big for the chair he/she is sitting in the class-

For example, we have a fifth grade boy who has very limited ability and/or has consistently failed to put forth any effort.

The ninth and 10th grade teachers teaching refresher or remedial classes know the patience needed to deal with these students and the small increments of educational gains achieved over a period of a year.

Nevertheless, as an educator who always worked for success for all students, it is difficult to admit we have our share of disappointments.

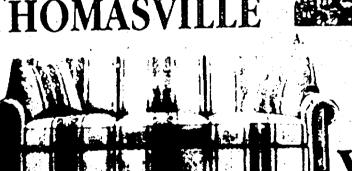

It's not a perfect world but then sometimes I wonder why our society believes it is just educators, not the dysfunctional families, drugs etc, that may be the primary cause of "socially promoted" students with poor basic skills.

But to say that would be defensive – wouldn't it.

Area reps reject amendment to cut economic aid to Israel

Here's how Observer & Eccentricarea members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the weeking ending March 8.

HOUSE

Aid to Israel - By a vote of 24 for and 397 against, the House rejected an amendment to strip a spending bill of $650 million to help Israel repair the economic damage it suffered in the Persian Gulf war. The bill (HR 1282) appropriating $4.3 billion for a variety of domestic and foreign programs this fiscal year was sent to the Senate with the money for Israel intact.

Sponsor Tim Valentine, D- N.C., said "the state of Israel needs to come to a time when it can stand Opponent Mickey Edwards, R-Okla, said the aid, recommended by the administration, was necessary to keep Israel secure.

A yes vote opposed sending warrelated aid to Israel.

Voting no were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfeld, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Public Housing — By a vote of 177 for and 240 against, the House rejected an amendment to HR 1281 (above) authorizing $787 million for new approaches to public housing and programs for the homeless. The money was to have come from several other public housing programs. It was to have funded administration-backed initiatives enabling tenants to buy their units, block grants to states and cities to spur development of affordable housing, and rental aid and other services for the homeless.

Supporters said providing owner-ship opportunities would enable tenants to begin to break the poverty cycle, while many opponents said federal money for existing housing needs already is too scarce.

A yes vote was to fund the administration-backed housing and homeless initiatives.

Voting yes were Pursell and Broomfield. Voting no from Michigan were Hertel, William Ford and

To Fund a War — By a vote of 380 for and 19 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 1282) appropriating $42.6 billion for U.S. military costs of the Persian Gulf war. American taxpayers would provide up to $15 billion with the remainder supplied by allies. To date, more than $30 billion remains unpaid out of nearly $44 billion pledged by allies to defray U.S. war costs.

In part, the bill earmarks $7.9 billion for personnel costs, $6.3 billion for combat costs estimated at more than $150 million per day, and $2.9 billion for weapons projects such as replenishing and upgrading "smart bombs" and Patriot and Tomahawk. missile arsenals.

A yes vote supported gulf war appropriations.

Voting yes were Hertel, William-Ford, Levin and Broomfield. Pursell did not vote.

SENATE:

To Pay For S&L Bailout — By a vote of 69 for and 30 against, the Senate passed a bill (S 419) authorizing this fiscal year for the taxpayer seek funding. bailout of failed savings and loans. This follows $50 billion already made available for the salvage operation. The Resolution Trust Corp.

would use the new money to close up to 200 thrifts. Companion legislation is due soon on the House floor.

Supporter Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said Senators "have no choice" but to pass the bill because to do otherwise would renege on federal deposit insurance obligations "and risk a financial panic" of large proportions.

Oponnent John Kerry, D-Mass., called it unfair "to have taxpayers in New England paying for a savingsand loan crisis that is by and large concentrated in a few states not in the region."

A yes vote authorized $30 billion to fund the S&L bailout until the end of the fiscal year.

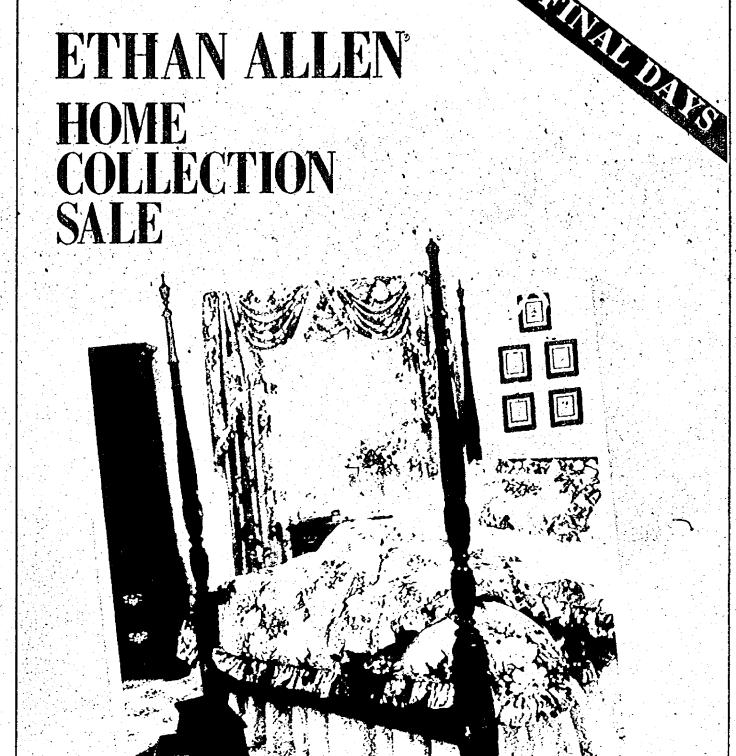

Voting yes were Senators Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D.

Paying For the Ballout - By a vote of 71 for and 28 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to S 419 (above) requiring the Administration to recommend ways of financing the S&L ballout directly rather than by Treasury borrowing. The pay-as-you-go approach would incorporate the cost into the federal -budget and likely require the Administration to ask Congress for higher

The amendment also sought to cut the new bailout authorization from $30 billion to $15 billion, on the rationale that the Resolution Trust Corp. will perform better if it must ing $30 billion in Treasury borrow- \ return frequently to Capitol Hill to

A yes vote opposes the amendment.

Voting yes was Riegle. Levin voted no.

Last fall Polly Reeber noticed a void in her life. "I had worked for so many years," said Reeber, a 40:year-old Garden City social worker. "I realized I had worked so many hours I lacked any community involvement."

Reeber attended a meeting of the Garden City Business and Professional Women and immediately

'I was impressed," said Reeber, who has a family counseling practice. "I liked the people."

Reeber is one of the newest members of the Garden City BPW, an organization with four decades of local service to working women.

THURSDAY, MARCH 21, the group will celebrate its 40th anniversary with a dinner at the Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women, headquartered in Washington, D.C., seeks to further the goals of working women. Education, personal growth and legislation are its priorities.

'Of course, I'm still getting to know the organization," Reeber said about her concerns. "Being in the health care field, I'm concerned about people having equal access to health cares."

said Pappas, 47, a registered jeweler with Orin's. "The programming is excellent. It helps you deal with what women are facing in life." Pappas has held every office except treasurer.

During her tenure as programming chair, the Garden City Club won a state BPW program award.

BPW has helped Pappas prepare for her many career duties, which include appraising jewelry, buying merchandise, training new employees and planning retail displays.

"Being with my BPW peers has instilled a tremendous amount of confidence," Pappas said. "I've made friendships that will last a lifetime."

During the 1970s the political pace quickened.

GARDEN CITY BPW member Charlotte Adams of Westland traveled all over Michigan speaking to other BPW chapters about the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

A Political Action Committee (PAC) was established, paving the way for financial support to candidates who supported women's issues.

Geraldine Kiessel, a past president of the Garden City group, was elected to the city council. "I wanted to show that women could be as good administrators as men." Kiessel said at the time. Kiessel, an educator, served for six years. She currently is principal of Garden City High School and is a leader in a state organization of principals.

Currently, two Garden City BPW members hold elective office. Mary Jane Schildberg sits on the Garden City City Council and Barbara White serves on the school board.

Center helps in control of youngsters' enuresis

By Susan Buck staff writer

F SCHOOL-AGE Johnny or Jenny is still wetting the bed at night, statistics show Mom or Dad probably did the same thing when they were youngsters.

Since the 1940s, some experts have said that "enuresis" - involuntary bed-wetting — is caused by a profoundly deep sleep pattern. But physicians and others differ on whether the deep sleep is an inherited factor or the bed-wetting itself is the inherited factor.

"There's a strong genetic link associated with bed-wetting," said Dr. Claude Reitelman, a pediatric urologist at Detroit's Children's Hospital.

Some research combines three related symptoms that are of sleep: enuresis, sleep walking and night terrors. "Our experience shows any child may exhibit all three or any combination of the three," said Barbara Moore, founder of Enuresis Treatment Center in Farmington Hills whose own daughter, now-grown, was a bed-wetter.

Both Reitelman and Dr. Evan who is now totally dry," Moore said.

'Bed-wetting is a aollection of problems. Some bed-wetting is tied into a physical problem while for others bed-wetting is a developmental delay.'

— Dr. Evan Kass

Kass, a Beaumont pediatric urologist caution against simplifying bedwetting as a sleep disorder.

"Bed-wetting is a collection of problems," said Kass. "Some bedwetting is tied into a physical problem while for others bed-wetting is a developmental delay."

Kass said a complete physical examination with urinalysis should be performed first to rule out a medical problem.

In general, six months after a child has achieved day control, night control follows, Moore said. This is usually about age four, she said.

"Bed-wetting is not a disease but a symptom," Reitelman said. "Compare it to a cough." It's a sign that years, recently moved to 28275 Orc- something else is wrong, like a small bladder or overproduction of urine

IT DOESN'T take long after a child reaches the age of reason for the bed-wetter to realize other chilpattern into the more typical pattern dren don't wet. Kids become anxious of the non-bedwetter. The center when they can't go to camp or sicepovers.

"We had one lady, 31 years old, til he was 21, her brother wet until he was 20, she said.

In one family all four boys wet, in another family just one child has the problem, Moore said.

Sleepwalking bed-wetters, don't even wake up and don't remember anything the next morning.

"They urinate in a dresser drawer or in a corner," Moore said. "For years one family blamed the puddle in a corner on their cat."

Moore blames part of the problem on a weak lock muscle at the end of the bladder that doesn't realize when it is full. Some people wet the bed three or four times a night.

Bed-wetting's physical side is compounded by emotional difficulties. Some parents severely embarrass their children. One parent sent a son to school with his wet underwear under his cap, Moore said.

"We use no medical tests, no drugs and no surgery," Moore said. The five-member staff, also made up of nurses, psychologists and social workers use techniques of bladder redevelopment and strengthening exercises to reinforce the urinary

According to Moore, who boasts a 90.95 percent success rate, treatment varies between five to eight

"One needs to be open minded," Reitelman said. "One therapy is not good for everybody. Twenty percent of five-year-olds still wet their beds. Fifteen percent of those bed-wetters at age 5 will experience resolution.

To understand where a person is in her life, it is helpful to check where she has come from. Early life experiences continue to have a strong impact on your personality. Seemingly, you felt there was a disparity between the parental figures. Female influence appears more pronounced in shaping your personality. However, neither played a strong role in helping you develop feelings of good self-esteem.

On Friday and Saturday, March 22-23, nationally known psychologist A. Nicholas Groth will be in Livonia for a two-day seminar on adolescent sexual offenders and the male child victim.

The seminar is sponsored by Life Cycle Seminars Inc. of Livonia and is geared for mental health professionals. It is a continuation of the center's program to offer twice yearly seminars focusing on family issues.

"We try to bring the most information we can about new topics that come up in caseloads that you don't hear about in graduate school or training," said family therapist David Breeden. "Arrests in recent years have doubled for certain violent crimes have doubled, especially of rape by adolescents with primarily female victims. But this will become more common as people become aware of it and as it surfaces in treatment."

Groth will present information to help professionals identify, differentiate and evaluate the adolescent offender. He also will discuss the impact of sexual abuse on young males and appropriate intervention and treatment of the juvenile sexual offender and the male child victim.

GROTH HAS specialized in the area of sexual assault and has worked with both victims and offenders in a variety of institutional and community settings since

Founder and executive director of Forensic Mental Health Associates, Groth has lectured internationally and has appeared on the "Today Show," "Good Morning America," "20/20" and "Donahue."

"Sexual assault is such a traumatic experience for the psyche that the victim is compelled to enact what has been done to him unless he gets treatment," said Breeden. "The victim becomes the perpetrator. That's why treatment is critical as early as possible so he can

"No one wants to think that this could happen to their little boy," said Jones, the mother of two small boys. "That's why children need to know what is inappropriate" touching."

According to the therapists, the sexual assault of children isn't "a one-shot deal." Rather, it is slow in developing into inappropriate behavior. Through the seminar, they hope to give fellow professionals the "tools to hand in their and get the family through" such a crisis.

"When you look at the issue, you see more readiness to explore the issue," Breeden added. "People are able to admit that it's part of the family experience and willing to let us work with them whereas before they would bury

It's important for parents and professionals to pick up the clues youngsters provide. Because of their age, children lack the ability to problem solve and faced with threats not to tell, children hold their fears inside, causing changes in their behavior, the therapists said.

'Children usual turn to someone they trust because they realize that it's not helpful to keep it inside," Jones said. "It's the beginning cry for help. Sometimes, they go to other people because they don't know what the parents will do; they're fearful of what will happen, if they

"Children need to know they can say no to an adult."

IN SHORT, as Kass said, they'll grow out of it.

Some behavioral programs have a 50 percent dropout rate because these programs are very labor-intensive, Reitelman said. "Parents and child get tired very easily.'

Moore criticizes the use of medication like Tofranil (imipramine), an anti-depressant which she said elevates the sleep but has side effects in some cases, like dizziness, headaches, stomachaches and lethargy. The drug cuts down on the production of urine and children don't sleep as deeply.

"It's a Band-Aid effect," Moore

The physicians said that in certain cases the medication is helpful but not a cure. Only physicians can prescribe medication, Kass said.

The dose used for people who are depressed is much larger than for bed-wetting," Kass said. "In general, I don't give medication to anybody unless I feel the bed-wetting is having a negative effect on the child." He noted few side effects.

Moore also faults DDAVP, a nasal spray diabetics use which cuts down on urine production. Headaches and stuffiness can result.

In normal individuals, if sufficient bladder pressure develops, the person is able to awaken. Bedwetters cannot do this. Instead, the brain is notified of bladder pressure and the person tries to awaken but he cannot penetrate the rapid eye movement stage to wakefulness and usually returns to deep sleep when involuntary

Tours focus on church history

ETROIT'S CHURCHES are rich in history. That history is highlighted each month during church tours in Detroit. Tours are co-sponsored by the Na. tional Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of' Michigan, the Detroit Historical Department and the Detroit Historical Society/Museum.

Tours have been offered since 1972 and are held 10 a.m. the first Monday of each month. The tour bus leaves the Detroit Historical Museum parking lot, 5401 Woodward, at Kirby in Detroit. "It's a preservation effort," said Lucy Hamilton, a volunteer who runs the tours.

She's been involved in the program since its early days nearly 20 years ago. Hamilton and other organizers found priests and ministers at the churches receptive to the idea of having tours.

"Oh, they were overcome. So many of them said 'We thought nobody cared.' They were delighted to have groups come in."

TOURS STARTED under the aegis of the Detroit Historical Museum, and staffer James Conway was instrumental in getting things

"He knew Detroit like the back of his hand," she said. "So we went and looked at them and made a selection."

William Worden, who supervises historic designation in Detroit, also helped get things going. He had contacts at churches, and that Organizers have considered adding suburban churches, such as Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak. That's been impractical, in part because tour sites need to be close together,

"I think that they're fairly wellcovered by other groups."

Hamilton said.

After war, our world can never be the same

Shortly after the president gave the green light for a cease-fire, one sidewalk commentator remarked that it was all over but the shouting. Much of what has happened since the tanks turned around would suggest that that one voice spoke what many

The spirit of the shouting has been upbeat, to say the least. Certainly, the children, the parents, the spouses and the friends of returning warriors have reason for relief and gratitude. They have reason to shout, and smile, and cry, and laugh all at once. But even amid-the shouting we would do well to reflect on a comment made by Mr. Bush in his ceasefire announcement. He suggested that this is not a time for euphoria. Certainly, we are joyful in that the cease-fire has begun. Those whose loved ones are returning home do not have to decide to be euphoric. They simply are.

HOWEVER, THERE are a good many others who are not feeling the euphoria. Their hopes have been dashed with news that their loved

I AM AS happy about the ceasefire as anyone. However, I cannot get lathered about the "victory parties." Victory parties are for sports events. When one team wins, the other team loses in the record books.

War doesn't work that way. War is not a basketball game. It is not the Super Bowl. It is not about record books. The losing team does not get on the bus and go home to a world untouched by what has happened.

In war, the world can never be the same. For those who do go home, the scars remain. The landscape is raped. The bitterness hangs heavy. The limbs can only be replaced by

> THE REAL victory parade will make sense only when the living can become convinced of what the dead already know: Sides are not what life is about and a cease-fire is only the beginning to winning the peace.

Winning the war may be about supporting the troops, but winning the peace is about knowing that we are all the troops regardless of the land of our birth.

TAMMIE GRAVES Observer & Eccentric

Hearts of banks here tick soundly

By Doug Funke staff writer

In a series of articles, the Observer & Eccentric examines banking. Today, an overview of the industry in this area.

Banks in southeast Michigan are among the healthiest in the nation: That's the conclusion of Justin L. Moran, an analyst and consultant to the industry and a spokesman for the Michigan Bankers Association. "In the industrial states, we're the safest and soundest of any around . . . based on earnings, capital position and not having bad loans." Moran said. Depositors who had some $76.8

billion in commercial banks around the state as of Dec. 31 probably would be delighted to hear that. Especially considering that 168 banks nationally - but none in Michigan

EYE on BANKS

- failed last year.

Banks, like any business, are in the business of making money. They're different in the sense that money is their business.

· "A bank essentially makes money on the spread between what it's paying on deposits and what it's getting paid on loans. That's core earnings,' said Paul Burger, an analyst with First of Michigan Corp.

Loan portfolios have come under increasing scrutiny because they're such an important part of the profitability equation.

IN AGGREGATE, Michigan banks last year had the third lowest nonperforming real estate loan rate in the nation at 2.18 percent, according to Mark Burneko, spokesman for the American Bankers Association. That compares to 14.6 percent for banks in Arizona, 13.75 percent for banks in Massachusetts and 12.15 percent for banks in Texas.

"Michigan banks got beat up when times were good for not taking chances," Moran said. "When things turned bad, we reaped the benefits. People who run banks (here) learned to do it in a cyclical economy. They learned to be careful of cycles.

"We did not have explosive growth in the 1980s like other parts of the country," Moran continued. "Since we never had the real estate boom," we never had the real estate bust.

"BOTH CONSUMERS and business people have had some bad experiences and are a little quicker to save, a little slower to borrow and a little more conservative," he said. Stephen Puhr, a banking analyst for Roney and Co., concurred with many of Moran's conclusions.

"Actually five of the top six banks in Michigan if you look at their total assets - NBD, Manufacturers, First of America, Comerica and Old Kent - had record years last year in terms of net income," Puhr said. "The Midwest is quite healthy," he continued. "The 1982 downturn was difficult. Bankers have been used to operating in a very cyclical environment. They have been trained to be very conservative.

"In looking from '82 forward, we didn't have a glorious recovery here or a boom. Our growth has been stable and steady. That has built a strong economy in the region," Puhr

"AGAIN, WE have to look at . . . the environment Michigan banks are used to operating in," Burger said.

John C. Thomas believes there are two issues at stake when handling and destroying sensitive documents for bankers, lawyers and car makers at his company headquarters in Livonia.

To Thomas, owner of Document Services Inc. the battle to protect blueprints, drawings, checks and deposit slips from thieves and counterfelters is joined by the need to protect the environment from mountains of

"There's no question that people can get at sensitive documents by going through Dumpsters and landfills," he said. "People actually make a living doing this, and you'd be surprised by what they get their hands on.

"It can really be detrimental to a company to suddenly find its most private papers the subject of front page news. Anybody could be sifting through your trash at night - thieves, disgruntled employees, even competitors.'

While Document Services' primary role is security, both in records retention and destruction. Thomas, 54, said it was actually the company's ability to recycle that led to his start in 1965, five years before the first Earth Day.

"It took me six months to get my first client, and most of the time I was laughed out of institutions," he recalled. "People were cled products for use at its 200 just becoming aware of conservation then, and eventually the concept made sense to people."

His cause was helped along by more stringent laws limiting incinerator use in homes and businesses during the 1950s and '60s.

"RECYCLING WAS part of my sales pitch, and the laws helped companies to realize the impact they had on the environment."

A tool maker by training, Thomas said he bought most of his early equipment from salvage yards, including a paper pulverizer and bailer. After rebuilding the equipment to his needs, he set out to find a recycling source.

"The recycling industry was just in its infancy at the time," he said. "In the early years, I sold paper bales to Michigan farmers who used it as cattle bedding. It was also out into insulation."

Now, destroying more than 200,000 pounds of paper a day, the company uses a separate processing facility it owns in Livonia to pulverize documents into quarter-inch squares. The squares cannot be reconstructed, Thomas said. They are sold to paper mills across the country and recycled into paper, tissue and cardboard

William Ervasti, vice president of bank properties for Manufacturer's National Bank of Detroit said his bank started with Document Services more than 20 years ago because of the company's ability to recycle.

"By collecting, destroying and then recycling our paper, it really put our resources to good use," Ervasti said. "It has also kept our removal costs down while helping the environment."

He said the bank generates 20 tons of waste a day, most of it in the form of paper, plastic and glass. The bank buys back recybranches in the area.

Weekly pick-up fees might range from $25 to $45, based on weight and other factors. Thomas said it was cheaper for firms to hire private contractors to destroy documents, based on such comparative costs as owning and operating a shredder, rental of office space and disposal fees.

Service is focus for '90s

By R.J. King special writer

How can businesses bolster their bottom line? In the 1960s marketing was the answer. In the 1970s it was management. During the 1980s everyone strived for excellence. Now, in the 1990s, customer

Why customer service? Companies figure they can score big gains in sales and profits by satisfying customers first. Another reason: The Japanese have built up entire industries by accommodating buyer needs.

"If you could sit in on a meeting of a company's marketing staff today, there's almost a craze among planners now that close, strong relationships with customers is the way to do business," said Rammohan Pisharodi, associate professor of marketing at Oakland University in Rochester.

"Companies are starting to recognize that once customer service becomes second hand to clients, other opportunities open up. Perhaps more orders are placed or prices can be raised without the client feeling they are unjustified. It's one thing feeding off an-

Competition, said Pisharodi, is behind the recent service craze, especially in the manufacturing sector. For the last two decades American companies have watched foreign competitors, mostly Japanese, walk off with many of their best customers. It wasn't that Americans were doing a poor job, he said. Rather, foreign companies, in their quest for new orders, were doing a better job - not only on price and quality, but overall service.

STORIES ABOUND of Japanese machine tool makers, for instance, who, upon learning one of their customer's machines has broken down, send out a wave of engineers to fix the problem. "When the Japanese first entered the U.S. market in the 1970s, they basically started at square one, but because they served the customer first, offered quality products, and at competitive prices, they were able to make serious in-roads into domestic markets,"

Further still, according to a recent study by Deloltte & Touche, one of the Big Six accounting firms, American companies are starting to view superior service as a potentially powerful weapon in their business arsenal. Over half of the 750 U.S. manufacturing executives who responded to the study - taking their lead from the success of overseas competitors - cited customer service as the new competitive battleground for the '90s. "It's really customer service as a revolution," said Randall Miller, senior manager of management consulting at Deloitte & Touche in Detroit. "American companies are noting the success of the Japanese, incorporating that into their own operations, and then trying to take it another step."

As proof that customer service works, consider the recent success of Ford Motor Co. To develop the auto maker's popular Taurus and Sable models in the early '80s, design engineers asked more customers than ever to evaluate several prototypes. When evaluations revealed consumers were scuffing their shoes because rear seats lacked foot room, engineers sloped the floor underneath the front seats, widened the space between seat-adjustment tracks and made the tracks out of smooth plastic instead of metal. THE RESULT? Because of these and other customer-driven innovations, the Taurus and Sable models continue to be among the best-selling nameplates in America. In turn, by turning an ear to consumers, Ford's U.S. market share, which had plummeted to 17.2 percent in 1980, is now at 23.5 percent.

As former Chairman Donald E. Peterson put it: "If we aren't customer-driven, our cars won't be either." Other companies are also finding an urge to serve. Oakland Mall in Troy, recognizing the growing competitiveness of the retail market, began to incorporate more user-friendly services into the mall's dayto-day operations.

"With the introduction of so many malls and strip centers in the last 10 years, the customer has a lot more opportunity to shop in different places," said Douglass Mossman, a partner of Oakland Mall Ltd., which owns Oakland Mall.

"Faced with such an environment, we redoubled our efforts to serving the customer by undertaking a $6 million renovation of the mall and incorporating such amenities as valet parking, more information devices and reaching out to the surrounding commun-

In addition to building a new main entrance to the mall, replacing the ceiling, adding more skylights and upgrading promotions, the mall has also been raising money for college-bound students in the area who raise their grade point average.

THE TOWNSEND Hotel in Birmingham is encouraging all employees to take advantage of its food, wine and French classes as a way of providing guests with more efficient assistance.

"Since we opened in 1988, we felt the only way to survive as a first-class hotel in this area was to put a premlum on customer service," said Kitty Adler, the hotel's director of marketing. "We invite our staff members to wear a lot of different hats, so if a guest calls down to the concierge for a bottle of wine, the conclerge can offer a few suggestions without having to make another phone call."

In addition, Adler said employees are prepared to take service to the extreme. In one instance, a hotel conclerge, upon learning an overnight guest had not been prepared to stay an extra day, took the guest's only set of clothes home, washed them and returned the garments by seven the next morning.

"I think to survive in any business, you have to be prepared to provide service and take that extra step," said Adler. "You have to understand how a customer feels if you're going to have any success in building trust and loyalty."

Auto industry's sexual attitudes have deep roots

What do women want?

I was reading one of those "how women aren't making it to top jobs in the auto industry" stories in Automotive News the other day, plowing along through the old cliches about Detroit clubbiness, the old-boy (as opposed to old-girl) networks, "Institutional bias" and other worn-out cliches of job discrimination, when this question confronted me.

It doesn't take any great powers of observation to notice that there are lew women top executives in heavy industry. A good deal of this is likely to be due to years of bias having its

Bias is a genuine phenomenon, and no doubt the auto industry has suffered its share of it. On the other hand, I've noticed that the domestic auto companies generally are run by men who have worked their way from something approximating bluecollar or middling white-collar origins, a marked contrast to the social elite who dominate the bulk of major corporations. Whether this ladder is as available as it once was is another question.

NONE OF the women executives in the story pointed out the obvious called men's work, unless, say, you were in the Soviet Union or on a Chinese commune.

Pouring steel, hot forging and running stamping presses are rather tough jobs, and on occasion involve physical danger and strain on the order of the front line in Iraq. Many of the people who do the work see it as - that most of the work done in the a big improvement over, say workauto industry is what used to be ing in an independent coal mine where they cut a few corners on the shoring timbers.

> For better or worse, most of the men working these jobs feel as if one reason they are doing them is so that they can be sure no woman remotely related to them ever has to get that hot and dirty.

Maybe this doesn't have much to do with why executives get promoted, but the fact is that the male culture has deep roots, in that ultimately an executive has to lead the steel puddlers and hot-forge. hammermen.

There also is the fact that cars are almost an all-male obsession. This is demonstrated by the number of women who subscribe to car magazines - which have fewer women readers than Playboy, Penthouse or Sports Illustrated. Tinkering with cars is a male rite of passage ranking only slightly behind asking a girl out to the senior prom.

This has significance in the auto business in that even the new women rectuits in automotive engineering rarely spent their adolescence wrestling with the transmission in a 1963 Gremlin.

Those executives who misspent their youth tinkering with cars today are lauded as "car guys" (car persons?), as opposed to the disdainful "bean 'counter" or otherwise-denigrated bureaucrats who keep the "car guys" from building the cars

Is all this changing? Frankly, I don't know. Curlously, one of the most prominent women in the Detroit, auto business - Meryl Sheriden, who founded Sheriden Industries to manufacture the heavy industrial machinery she invented while working as a machinist, passed away a few years ago with barely a notice.

Today, I have a daughter who is passably good at arc welding, and a son who is a better cook. In fact, I know one GM engineer who likes to work on her restored Porsche in her spare time.

None of this seems to be the makings of much of a shift in the macho base of an industry that melts steel and makes automobiles.

Customers star on karaoke night

By Ralph R. Echtinaw staff writer

"I've got all these virgins tonight!" exclaimed Wayne Reynolds. "This is Better known as Captain Wayne of Karaoke Showtime, Reynolds was referring to people who sang for the first time in public one Wednesday night at Jimmy's Next Door, a popular Westland nightclub.

"What's karaoke?" you ask. Well, it's popular songs with the lead vocals removed. Bar patrons choose from more than 600 songs in Reynolds' catalog, fill out a request slip, swill beer and wait for their turn at the microphone.

Reynolds believes he has tapped the mother lode of entertainment in the 1990s, seeing as how he works but I don't sing. I can dance though," seven nights a week emceeing Karaoke Showtime in five Wayne business only last December.

TINA SEARS IS one of Reynolds' most vocal fans, literally. She follows him around to the various juke joints and sings almost every night. On a recent Wednesday in Jimmy's, 21/2 hours.

Sears discovered karaoke less than three months ago and has since when he does it.' been hooked. "I'd been wanting to " night. It's an addiction. We're like 'Mother, I don't think so.' (Wayne's) groupies.'

Reynolds added, "(Tina) didn't even know she could sing. She blasts this place out."

Perhaps Reynolds' popularity among karaoke aficionados can be traced to his set-up, which he calls "the Cadillac of systems." The songs are recorded on videodiscs and accompanied by music videos fed to every television set in the bar. Each tune's lyrics appear on the bottom of the television screen to prevent embarrassment that can result when one forgets the words.

Reynolds said the hardest part of his job is getting "virgins" to sing for the first time. So it was with a woman who would only give her name as Darlene. Burying her head in Reynolds' shoulder, she repeatedly said she couldn't go on singing. Finally she fled. "I can sing," she said later. "I was just nervous."

ANOTHER WOMAN, Kim Rattray, left her husband and son at home to attend Karaoke Showtime. Despite Reynolds' public entreaties, Rattray refused to unlimber her mellifluous singing voice. "I sing in my car alone," she said. "I watch,

Reynolds remembers another shy woman who could hardly get County bars, after having started the through her first number, but "by the third or fourth song, she was up there just like she'd been doing it all her life."

Helping the Stephenson High School graduate run the show are his devoted parents, Shirley and Don, who attend almost every night. But she sang four times in the space of they don't sing. "Dad takes the equipment home and puts it in his basement," Reynolds said. "That's

And as for Mom. "Wayne won't let sing in public, so it was perfect," she me," she revealed. "I made a tape said. "Now I have to be here every and he listened to it (and said),

Speaking of tapes, Reynolds sells 60-minute cassettes for $3 to patrons who want to record their performances. "You get some people who take this real seriously," he said. "I've got some real good singers, in this bar especially."

IN JIMMY'S, Reynolds said, the ersatz Sinatras and Streisands volunteer themselves to the extent that there are usually 100 requests to sing and only 65 spots in the fourhour format.

In other bars, however, it's a salesman's job to recruit wanna-be troubadours. "I basically harass them to get them up here (on stage)," Reynolds said. "I do. I harass the hell out of them."

Scott Burdom, who delivers bread to Jimmy's, was such a harassment candidate: "The first time we had to break his leg to get him up there," said bar owner Jimmy Capeneka. Burdom added, "If the bread man can do it, anyone can." Putting his singing voice where his mouth is, the bread man eschewed David Gates to perform "Time of the Season," originally recorded by the Zombies.

Steve Valentini; in only his second karaoke performance, cracked the crowd up with his version of Bobby McFerrin's "Don't Worry Be Hap-

"You've got to be loose as a goose," he said. "This is too much fun for one person."

REYNOLDS, WHO formerly piloted a charter boat in Florida, sings quite a bit himself. He got half the audience to its feet, flicking their: Bics, when doing his pacan to "the troops," singing "America the Beautiful" and Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the U.S.A."

The tribute segment is so popular, he said, that "if I don't do it by midnight, people are coming up to me saying, 'When are you going to do

Although there are other karaoke shows in the Detroit area, Reynolds and his regulars say his show is tops. "Wayne has more stuff," Debbi Et-zler detailed. "He does it better. He has personality.'

Tossed in Reynolds, "Naturally I've got the best show. But I can't

Players party in Porter revue

Performances of the Troy and Cole" continue through Saturday at the Troy Community Center. For ticket information call 879-1285.

By Sally Dubats special writer

Cole Porter often gave parties for his friends, writing songs for them and making each friend feel special. Many of his post-World-War I, Broadway smashes were the result of those parties.

The Troy Players musical presentation of "Red, Hot and Cole," which simulates a lavish Porter party, successfully lures audience members into the festivities.

Bill Hellebuyck presents a likable, wise-cracking Cole Porter, with a warm voice well suited to the 1930s Porter-style sophisticates. Hellebuyck, in white tails throughout, is equally comfortable while crooning or spewing forth facts about Porter's life and lifestyle.

Porter's mate, Linda, is portrayed by Lori Murphy who has a beautiful soprano voice, perfect for the romanticism of "In the Still of the Night." Her forte, however, is definitely soprano. Some of the earthier Porter melodies she sings require more range and volume.

As the party progresses, Porter's many friends are introduced to tell his story through the magic of his music and an ambiance of elegance. Sharon Parrott does a wonderful job in the dual roles of Elsa Maxwell and Ethel Merman. As Merman, Parrott belts out a myriad of fun songs with zeal and confidence.

EQUALLY DYNAMIC is Eileen Kent as Bricktop, the sexy, feisty owner of a Parisian cafe Cole and Linda Porter frequented. The grand piano on stage (complete with cande- display of slides also makes this a labra) is most appreciated when touching tribute to one of America's Kent sings a smoky number, wearing

Porter, more than any other musi-Players production of "Red, Hot cal comedy composer, loved the wittv use of words in his lyrics. John White as party guest Monty Woolley is the epitome of that quirky wit and comedy during his rendition of "Miss Otis Regrets." Stephanie Wingate puts forth a whimsical Irene Castle while cooing "My Heart Belongs to

A very special and romantic moment in the production is a performance of "Begin the Beguine," Porters's longest (108 measures as compared to the usual 32) and probably most famous song. Specialty dancers Simone and Richard are fluid and lithe doing the rumba - a dance sadly lost in the harsh era of rock.

Director Connie Patrick has chosen fine leads for this slick producction, but some of her supporting cast cannot keep up with the top talent. Many times dialogue fails to provide the festive backdrop, where it should enhance and add to the excitement. Although Patrick's direction does create many attractive pictures, improved by Denice Spicer's beautiful set design, the chorus sometimes looks like a chorus rather than an assemblage of guests mingling at a Musical director and on-stage pianist Margaret Wunschl does put romance into the evening with a quality interretation of Porter's music, but she could have produced better results from the chorus had she not been burdened with both jobs.

CHOREOGRAPHED BY Nancy Carol Passalacqua, "Red, Hot and Cole" certainly has a lot of spice in the group numbers, with tap dancing and the Charleston providing exclamation points of interest.

With classic tunes such as "I Love Paris," "Anything Goes" and "Just One of Those Things," a hit would almost be expected, but an effective most-commemorated musical come-

Performances of the the Ridge- Quixote's only real convert, moves dale Players production of "Man" beautifully from strumpet to the of La Mancha" continue through Sunday, March 24, at the playhouse in Troy. For ticket information, call 644-8328.

By Helen Zucker special writer

The Ridgedale Players production of Dale Wasserman's "Man of La Mancha" is powerful and moving. Directed by Robin Martin Kearney and assistant Julie West, the seasoned troupe (moving into its 60th year) does credit to one of America's finest musicals.

Thomas J. Murphy turns in a brilliant performance as Miguel de Cervantes/Don Quixote/Alonso Quijana. Murphy moves through the complexities of the plot without a hitch. He manages to give us the poet Cervantes, jailed by the Spanish Inquisition, then, applying a bit of makeup, turns himself into Don Quixote, the wandering knight.

The entire play takes place in the common room of a stone dungeon, yet Murphy manages to make the audience believe we are watching Quixote engage in battle with a windmill. He makes us believe innkeepers are lords of castles, whores are great ladies and rough muleteers are worthy enemies. Murphy understands Cervantes' vision of grace as the factor that enables us to rise above the level of animals.

Grace is the quality Cervantes/ Quixote/Quijana share, and for a while, as the prisoners become involved in playing different parts, they (and we) recognize the fact that generosity of heart can transform the landscape. Murphy's rendition of "The Impossible Dream" takes us to the core of the play.

PEGGY JONES is very strong as Aldonza/Dulcinea, the kitchen slave/whore whom Quixote transforms into the Ludy Dulcinea. Jones has a wonderful voice and handles the vexation of "What Does He Want of Me?" and the anger of "Aldonza" equally well. Dulcinea, lady she becomes at Squire Quijana's bedside.

Dave Sikkelee, as Sancho Panza has a marvelous voice. The sweetness of tone we hear in "I Like Him". and "The Missive" echoes the faithfulness of Sancho Panza, the manservant who would rather be out adyenturing on the road. Sikkelee stays beautifully consistent.

Bill Glace is very funny as the unshaven prisoner who takes on the role of Padre. Glace subtly. transforms himself into a padre who delivers a sonorous rendition of the. Latin "Psalm" at Squire Quijana's bedside. He is dignified and the soul of kindness as he writes Quijana's

Patrick Barnard shines as the Governor/Innkeeper, an exasperated fellow with a soft heart for the "mad knight." Jim Patton is equally fine as the barber who allows his shaving bowl to be mistaken for "The Golden Helmet of Mambrino." Mark Carley is fine as the "sane" Duke/Dr. Carrasco.

The Five Muleteers - Tom D. Coffey, Kevin Carden, Jonathan Dykzxeul, Jim Roberts and Stu Pinsky - lend strong support as toughs, rapists, boors, Moors, prisoners and Knights of the Mirrors.

MARY ELIZABETH Lanesky, Denise E. Kasnec and Katherine L. Jensen are amusing as Quijana's niece and housekeeper and the innkeeper's wife. Mary Dignard and Ruthan I. Gerdan are graceful horses, and Dawn Hooper screams long and loud as the prisoner who is taken away. Chick Ray is frightening as the Captain of the Inquisition.

Kudos to the orchestra: Kathy Zuziak on piano, Dan Gardner on guitar and synthesizer, Eric Shea on drums and Diane Michalski on cello. No one missed a note.

See William of Orange's palace in Gelderland

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

The people of Apeldoorn were outraged when the government stripped the white stucco surface from Het Loo and returned "their palace" to its 17th century splendor, but William and Mary would have been delighted. Het Loo, which means "open space in the woods," looks now exactly as it did when William of Orange built it as a hunting lodge in

The royal woods are still there too, full of red deer and wild boar, but the woods have several 20th century touches. The extravagant hunting lodge built by a Mr. and Mrs. Kroller-Muller in 1920 is still there.

The stunning Kroller-Muller art museum and sculpture garden is a national treasure. And Netherlanders regularly walk or bike the network of paths through the country's largest nature preserve. Sometimes they use the hundreds of "white bikes" left in the National Park de Hoge Veluwe for their free use.

Het Loo and Apeldoorn are at the north end of the national park. The 17th century has also been restored at the south end, near Arnhem, where community-minded Gelderlanders established an open-air museum to preserve the 17th and 18th century traditions disappearing

I call the Netherlands Open-Air Museum the Greenfield Village of Holland, although it was built in 1912, long before Henry Ford built his museum in Dearborn.

The site of all this old and new Dutch life is the province of Gelderland, specifically the area known as the Veluwe. Put your finger in the dead center of the Netherlands, two hours east of Amsterdam, where the map sports a large green and purple splotch. Those colors represent the heath for centuries. The area was described by a 17th century Englishman as "one of the best hunting Countrys in ye World but good for Little else."

It's not hunting that attracts most people. The Dutch go to bike, jog and play in the royal woods, to tour the palaces, museums and other attractions, such as the Apenheul, an innovative ape sanctuary in Apeldoorn.

They also go to frolic on the grand sand beaches left around inland lakes when the Dutch turned sea into land beside the old Zuider Zee. The Dutch didn't invent dikes, but they may be the only people in the world who can create a new province out of the sea!

"Gelderland is one of 11, pardon me, 12 provinces of the Netherlands. It's hard to keep track." That was Gonnie Sobkowiak, pronounced "coney" with a guttural C. North and south Holland are two of the 12 provinces, which is why the Netherlands are often nicknamed Holland.

Gonnie was walking with us through the Netherlands Open-Air Museum, a pleasant and informative way to explore the life of all the Dutch regions. We walked across wooden bridges, down gabled streets, into the kind of sod farmhouse where Vincent Van Gogh was born, through the paper mill and were on our way to lunch when I stopped dead in my tracks.

There was a windmill exactly like De Zwaan, which stands on Windmill Island in Holland, Mich. No surprise to the well informed. The Reverend Albertus van Raalte left Arnhem in 1846 to establish Holland, Mich.

Arnhem was still a medieval city then, but it's a modern city now thanks to the destruction wrought during World War II. If you saw the movie "A Bridge Too Far," you saw the battle of Arnhem. Many refugees spent 100 days in the relative sanctuary of the Open-Air Museum during the battle.

The museum shows how ordinary people lived while the royal family was retreating over the centuries to the Het Loo Palace in Apeldoorn, 27 kilometers north. If the kings called William confuse you, this William of

My kids weren't there when I heard that my classmate Philip had been shot and killed at the wall. I'm glad my kids weren't there... and John Schroth of Redford has been thinking and worrying for several months about his planned trip to Europe this spring. He and his wife 'have been overseas several times, visiting family in Hungary and Romania and they were ready to go again in May.

They planned to fly to Frankfurt, Germany, rent a car and spend two weeks on the continent.

Then Desert Storm came along. They started asking questions. When will the war end? Should we still go to Europe? Is it safe to fly? Thousands of Americans asked themselves the same questions while European bookings slowed to a trickle and then stopped.

An editorial in the London Times said "Americans are wimps!" They were not referring to our soldlers in Desert Storm, who have been lauded British Airways decided to dramatiby the British. # Local author reveals favorite locales in French countryside

We asked Monique Wagner of Birmingham, author of "From Gaul to De Gaulle, An Outline of French Civilization," to tell us about her favorite haunts in France. Wagner, a specialist in French literature and civilization, is a professor in the De-partment of Romance Lan-guages and Literatures at Wayne State University.

Her book, described as a "travel companion to sophisticated visitors of France," was published in 1989 by Peter Lang Publishing, New York, as part of the American University Studies series. It has been nominated for the Pinkney Prize for the best book on French history, to be awarded this month by the Society for French Historical Studies.

Wagner was born in Poland, educated in France and has lived in Birmingham with husband Stefan for 30 years. She holds a French "baccalaureat," an M.A. from Wayne State University and a Ph.D from Columbia University. The French government has awarded her the Chevalier des Palmes Academique for her work.

She and her husband spend several months each year exploring France. "The three French regions closest to my heart are the Loire Valley, Burgundy and the South-West," she

Livonia man 'steps back in time' in London

By Bob DeMayer special writer

My sister, brother and I were looking for someplace different to spend spring break last year. We were tired of sunny Florida, and Australia was too "down under" and expensive, so we found a very low air fare to London and spent a week there.

Fares are even lower this year because so many people have canceled their trips to Europe.

Walking around downtown London is like stepping back in time. There that crosses over the Thames River,

For a quiet getaway from the downtown hustle and bustle, we stopped at Kensington Gardens, Hyde Park and Green Park. All three are surrounded by office buildings and highways. Yet ironically, they still offer plenty of green trees, blue lakes and peaceful tranquility.

We also went to the Royal Botanical Gardens just outside London. This place was absolutely breathtaking. Plants, trees, shrubs and flowers found there.

The world's largest conservatory, built in the Victorian age, is the centerpiece of the gardens. Walking through the magnificent conservatory is like walking into a tropical rain forest, complete with waterfalls and towering jungle plants.

We spent some of our time on day trips outside London. We took a train to Leeds Castle, about 90 minutes from London. The ride was an excellent way to see more of the beautiful English countryside.

This castle is surrounded by a crystal-clear moat. A garden maze, grotto, garden and aviary are also on the grounds.

On another day, we took a train from historic Victoria Station to the elegant Windsor Castle. The castle is only 30 minutes away, so it's very convenient if you're pressed for

Regional fans ticketed twice

Thursday, March 14, 1991 O&E

An almost apologetic Southfield athletic director Art Carinci called it "either an oversight or lack of consideration on my part" after charging spectators two separate admissions during a Class A regional basketball double-header.

Southfield High hosted a pair of regional games Tuesday, but spectators who bought tickets for the 5:30 p.m. game between Livonia Churchill and Dearborn High were told to clear the gym (after a P.A. announcement) to make way for fans who were arriving for the 7:30 p.m. start of the Redford Catholic Central-Detroit Cody game.

Both Cody athletic director Ernie Scott and Dearborn A.D. Gene Snell were surprised about the ticket poli-

"The only time I've ever seen that is at the state quarterfinals at U-of-D (University of Detroit's Calihan Hall)," Scott said. "I read my tournament packet over, and I didn't see anything mentioned about it."

Snell was also surprised by the announcement.

With one start at 5:30 and the other at 7:30, people assumed they were going to see two games for the price of one ticket ($3)," Snell said. 'I was not told when I walked in that there was two separate admissions."

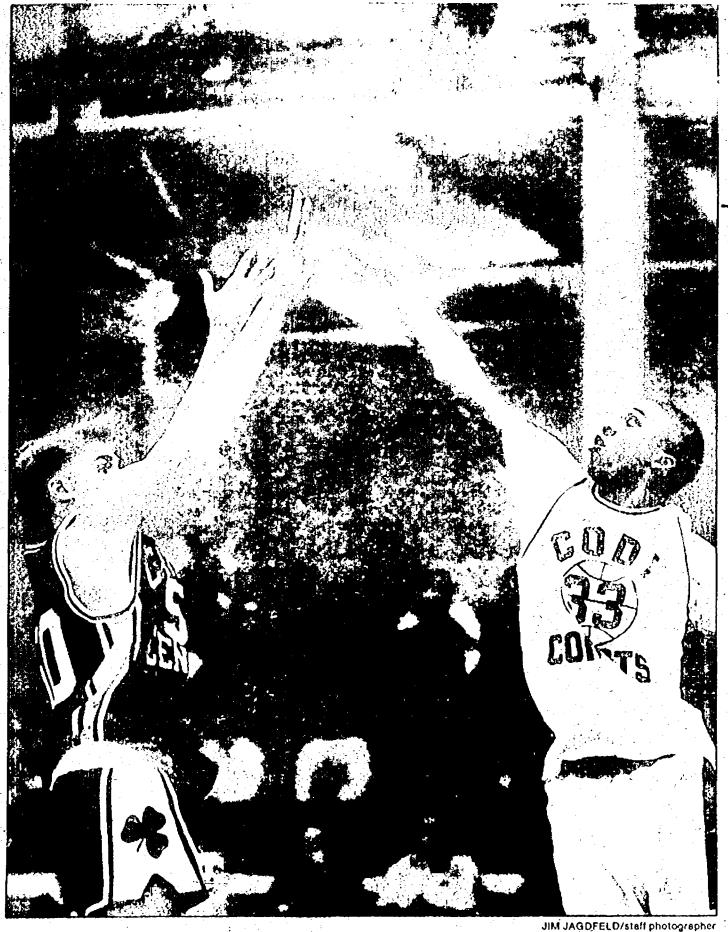

CARINCI SAID that "three or four" fans approached him following Dearborn's 68-35 victory over Churchill.

'My rationale was that the state (Michigan High School Athletic Association) asks for specific gate counts for each of the three games," said Carinci, whose school will also host tonight's regional championship. "There were two ballgames tonight (Tuesday), so that's why I charged for each game individually.

But if anybody came in late for the first game or said anything about it, we allowed them to stay for the second game. My intent wasn't to screw anybody or create enemics."

Despite the announcement to clear out, many fans remained in the gym to see the second game,

Comets bolt by CC, 75-65

By Brad Emons staff writer

Redford Catholic Central's magic carpet ride through the state basketball tournament ended abruptly Tuesday when Detroit Cody of the Public School League eliminated the Shamrocks, 75-65, at Southfield

The upstart Shamrocks, who upset Detroit Henry Ford last Friday in the district finals, could not do the trick again, bowing out of the Class A regionals with a 12-12 record.

Cody, now 16-5 overall, advances to Thursday's regional championship against 20-3 Dearborn High at 7:30

The Comets, used to playing second fiddle in past state tourneys to PSL powers Cooley and Mackenzie, are making a name for themselves with a deep and talented bench.

Four players scored in double figures for the winners, including senior guard Larry Bolden (19) and 6.5 senior forward Bristol Greene (17).

Jarvis Murray, a 6-6 senior who did not start, contributed 12, while Jermaine Burden fallied 11.

"They're very quick and that's what we were afraid of," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "They're big and they're smart. And (coach) Menefee (Robert) does a good job with them. They also slowed the game down when they had to."

THE SHAMROCKS hung close for 2½ quarters before the Comets went on a pivotal 8-0 run.

Earlier, Cody had held the upper quarter) and 37-33 (halftime).

CC then came on strong early in the third quarter, twice evening the count - 39-all on a basket by Jon Barbara with 5:42 remaining; and 41-41 (with 4:59 to go) on a hoop by Mark Gondek.

But the Comets, double-teaming

the ball, opened up a 49-41 advantage during a 54-second span, capitalizing on four straight CC turnovers capped by Julian Dozier's

And by the time the dust had cleared, Cody was back in control, leading after three periods, 56-46.

"We wanted to avoid them going into a frenzy where they'd get 8 to 10 points just like that, but we just couldn't avoid it," Holowicki said. "When it was 41-up I thought we had a chance, but they (Cody) raised their game up another level."

CC was never able to get closer than 10 the rest of the way.

Cody enjoyed its biggest lead or the night, 68-51, with 4:35 remaining (on a basket by Greene) before coasting home.

"WE WANTED TO put two men on the ball wherever it was," Menefee said. "We doubled their best ballhandler (Bob Kummer) and were able to force some bad passes during that one stretch, but the guy (Kummer) can play. He's a Division I player all the way.

Kummer, a 6-5 junior who played center last year, had become more comfortable in his role as CC's primary ball-handler during the final stages of the season.

But on this night he was shackled by Cody's cat-like defensive scheme. His shooting was also off, settling for a sub-par 11 points, hitting only three of 13 from the field.

Chad Varga, the Shamrocks' 6-5 junior center, tallied 19 points (on eight of 16 shooting) to share gamehigh honors with Bolden.

Sophomore Bob Schneider, who hit three triples in the first 10 minutes before cooling off, added nine points along with Barbara.

The Shamrocks hit only 35 percent of their shots from the field (21 of

Churchill, Wayne eye prize

By Brad Emons staff writer

With a 65-0 record, it's apparent that Holland West Ottawa is the team to beat this weekend in the state Class A volleyball tournament.

But seven other teams, including Observerland hopefuls Livonia Churchill (44-1-1) and Wayne Memorial (41-5), will arrive Friday at Kalamazoo's Nazareth College primed for the upset.

Wayne, a tournament tested club with a second place finish behind Churchill in the always formidable Schoolcraft College Invitational, is making its second straight appearance in the final eight.

The Zebras, led by 6-foot hitting star Brandy Caincross, will not be in awe to the top-ranked Panthers, who have been beaten only three games this season.

"They know the competition," said coach Ann Kolnitys after her team breezed past Lincoln Park (15-4, 15-3) last Saturday in the Wayne regional. "I'm not going to keep it a secret. I think we have the ability to step up the competition. We did at Schoolcraft where we saw a lot of good teams. Last year we had three sophomore starters and the juniors who played last year are a year older. We're definitely stronger."

DESPITE AN OVERALL record of 44-6 last season, Holland West Ottawa played second fiddle to eventual state champion East Kentwood. The 'A' champs administered five of West Ottawa's six

"We consider ourselves the new kid on the block," West Ottawa coach Steve Myers said. "This is a very mature team, the seniors are very hungry."

All-Stater Jodi Sprick, a 6-1 senior, supplies the hitting power for Holland West Ottawa.

Before her career is over, Sprick will have carned 12 varsity letters. She also plays softball and basket-

"She should be O.K. Conference-Female Athlete of the Year," said Holland Sentinel Sports Editor Leo Martinosi. "She's an outstanding shortstop and very good basketball' player." Erika Wade, a third-team All-

Stater, is a talented 5-9 senior. Setter Laurie Navas is the team's sparkplug.

In the regional last weekend at Grandville, the Panthers escaped with an 11-15, 16-14, 15-13 triumph over Portage Northern.

"WE HAD TO count our lucky stars to get by them," Myers said. "It was a very tough match." Myers characterizes his team as having "a lot of quickness, but we're definitely not big." "We have some good jumpers and some good athletes," Myers said, "but we have to play smart and take advantage of what our opponent gives us. We have to play our game and hopefully things will work out."

While Wayne faces a tough opening-round foe, Churchill is very familiar with quarterfinal opponent Grosse Pointe South (35-4).

South advanced last weekend out of its own regional with a 15-2, 15-11 triumph over Detroit Central.

Churchill, meanwhile, downed city rival Stevenson, avenging its only loss of the season against the Spartans in the regional final at Ferndale, 15-13, 15-3.

THE CHARGERS, have to be considered a favorite to win their opening-round match after beating Grosse Pointe South in January at the Wayne State Invitational, 15-1, 15-2.

"That was a long time ago (Jan. 26)," Churchill coach Mike Hughes cautioned. "We were very pumped up that day and I don't know if they had all their kids there. Somebody mentioned, as I recall, something about taking the ACT test."

If the Chargers can get by the Blue Devils, they'll return to action at 10 a.m. Saturday (in the semifinals) to face the winner of the Birmingham Marlan-Bay City Central quarterfinal match. Depth may well determined the final outcome of the tournament. The Chargers did not miss a beat last week despite the absence of starter Keri Hawkins, who was attending her brother's wedding.

"The fact that we were able to put some juniors in there with Keri out says something," Hughes said. "But we have six experienced seniors (led by Christina Garry and Alyssa Belaire) who have really improved during tourney time. I don't know how the kids are going to react. Every group is different, but so far, when we've had to play somebody tough, we've picked up our play a notch.'

HUGHES SAID there are a lot of parallels between the current team and final four qualifiers of 1978 and '79, when such names Leigh Feenstra, Linda Mix, Gail Oljace, Stacey O'Toole and Julia Brubaker nearly led Churchill to a state championship.

"The teams are very similar in a lot of ways," he said. "Both teams were not very big, with no serious weaknesses to speak of.

"Those girls ('78-79) were ferocious competitors, but this team is more of an offensive team. They're not quite as big, but maybe they're better blockers.

The Chargers may rate as high as No. 2 in the eight-team field after finishing ahead of three other 'A' quarterfinalists at the Schoolcraft Tourney.

Wayne, meanwhile, cannot be underestimated. The Zebras beat quarterfinalists Temperance-Bedford (58-10) and Marlan (37-6-5) en route to the Schoolcraft finals before losing to Churchill.

"We may have been ranked No. 1 all year, but it's wide open," said Myers, the West Otlawa coach. "I was talking to Bud Cole, the East Kentwood coach, and he said, 'Watch out for Churchill.' He came away very impressed with them."

And George would never take that alternate route many coaches follow and try to make a good situation look bad. His is far too positive a personality for that.

So George is a bit more low-key. The message seems to be that Madonna plans on proving their prowess on the field.

SO FAR, the Crusaders have done just that. They went 6-2-1 on their spring trip to Cocoa Beach, Fla., last week, and George thinks he just might have found what he needed most — pitching.

"We can go 11 deep in the pitching department," said George. "By far (it's better). We have more of a pitching staff, whereas last year we had a throwing staff."

To prove his point, George noted that this year's team will have "seven players who do nothing but pitch." That is the direction he wants his entire squad to take - more specialized.

"Our pitchers can carry us this year," the Madonna coach said.

Of course, he's hoping they won't have to. The Crusaders have lost some of last year's punch — Chris Sisler, the team leader in runs batted

Madonna sports

Florida trip a happy one

There was a lot of good news and some bad coming back from Florida with the Madonna College baseball team.

The good: six wins in nine games, with some standout pitching performances from junior Chris Kloc'and freshman Rob Kowalski (two wins apiece) and great hitting from junior designated hitter Ernie Bowling (.480, two homers, 12 runs batted in).

The bad: losing senior centerfielder Mike Wozniak to an ankle injury midway through the trip, after junior outfielder Pete Berrios had been declared academically ineligible just prior to the trip and junior outfielder Rich Bloomberg broke his ankle during preseason drills.

The Fighting Crusaders opened their season with a 13-7 win over Keene State College (from Keene, N.H.) March 2. Kowalski got the win with 61/3 innings of relief pitching. He struck out seven and walked one. Joe Brusseau got three hits, including a triple, for Madonna.

ON MARCH 3, Kloc fanned 11 in a four-hit, 8-1 win over Assumption College (Worcester, Mass.), with Wozniak getting two triples among his four hits. On March 4, junior lefthander Mike Hocking blanked Wentworth Institute (Boston) 6-0 with a three-hitter. Hocking struck out five and sophomore Rich Roy had two hits.

Later that day, the Crusaders suffered their first loss, 6-4 against Clarion University (Clarion, Pa.). Freshman T.C. Raptis had two of Madonna's nine hits; freshman Louie McKaig went 41/3 innings and took the loss, giving up six runs.

On March 5, Madonna and Rochester Tech (Rochester, N.Y.) battled to a 17-17 tie, with sophomore Bill Terski getting three hits for the Crusaders. On March 6, Raptis scattered eight hits in a 3-1 win over Widener University (Chester, Pa.). Junior Kevin O'Connor had two hits

Later that day, Assumption avenged its earlier loss with a 12-5 win over the Crusaders, tagging freshman Jeff Pendell for five hits and five walks in 23% innings.

Madonna finished its trip with two wins on March 7, 11-1 over Wesley College (Dover, Del.) and 10-3 over Ursinus College (Collegeville, Pa.). Bowling's homer aided Kloc's four-hitter in the Wesley win, and senior John Bonham's four hits supported Kowalski's five-hit, 10strikeout performance against Ursinus.

Madonna will take its 6-2-1 record to Ohio Northern this weekend. playing a double-header Saturday and a single game Sunday.

PLUMBING

PERHAPS THE most imposing is Ernie Bowling, a junior designated hitter/first baseman who stands 6foot-3 and weighs 245. Bowling batted .377 with 22 RBI in '90, with team highs in doubles (six) and homers (three). On the trip south,

Bowling batted .480 with two homers Others George is counting on are senior centerfielder Mike Wozniak (.397, two homers, 17 RBI and a team:high 31 hits in '90); senior catcher John Bonham (.275, 23 runs scored and a team-best 10 stolen bases); junior shortstop Jeremy Krol (.383, 12 RBI); junior outfielder Kevin O'Connor (.305, 17 RBI); junior first baseman Sean Maloney (,325);

(.267, five doubles, 12 RBI); and sophomore second baseman Joe Brusseau (.264).

It's a solid nucleus offensively, but questions do remain. George has made some position changes he figures will benefit the defense.

First on the list is moving Krol, the Garden City graduate, from third to short and relocating Terski in the outfield. "I feel we've improved both spots tremendously," sald George. "I telt we weren't getting the defense. we needed (at short) to be success-

THE OTHER switch is at catcher, where Bonham takes over for the graduated Steve Coffell. Bonham was an infielder last year, but George said he's been "fabulous" behind the plate so far.

Filling in for Krol at third will be the combination of sophomore Rich Roy (Livonia Clarenceville) and freshman Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill). Both will also see some mound time - especially Roy, who was 4-0 with a 3.60 earned run average last year.

But George doesn't think he'll have to weaken one position to strengthen his pitching (a 5.55 team ERA in '90) — not with six starters.

The mound leader thus far is junior Chris Kloc (Redford Thurston), a righthander who was 3-5 with a 4.61 ERA in 41 innings last year. "He's been our best pitcher since the start of camp," said George. Kloc showed it in Florida, going 2-0 and allowing just two runs (one earned) in 13 innings (0.77 ERA) with 20 strikeouts.

The other mound veteran is junior Mike Hocking (Redford Bishop Borgess), the only lefthander on the staff. Hocking was 3-5 with a 5.71 ERA in '90.

WHICH LEADS directly to a possible problem for Madonna - experienced pitching. Seven of his staff pitchers are freshmen, including Rob Kowalski (Plymouth Salem), Louie McKaig (Southfield-Lathrup) and T.C. Raptis, who figure to be in the starting rotation.

Mike Coleman, George Leung and Pendell will be spot starters; Sean Henkel (Livonia Stevenson) is being groomed as the closer, with Krol ("He's the hardest thrower on the staff,") also serving as a reliever.

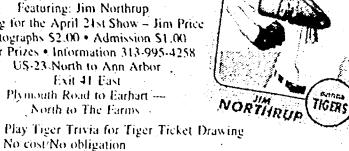

Kowalski was particularly im pressive in Florida, collecting two wins - the first with 63% innings of relief pitching and the second with 535 innings of no-hit ball. And Raptis sophomore outfielder Bill Terski got a 3-1 win over Widener.

Dearborn pounds Chargers, 68-35

By Brad Emons staff writer

Livonja Churchill suffered the harsh reality of "Hammer Time" in the first round of the Class A regional basketball tournament at Southfield.

The Chargers, making their first regional appearance since 1977, were crushed Tuesday by Dearborn High 68-35.

Coming off its biggest win of the season, a 51-43 triumph Friday over Wayne Memorial in the district finals, Churchill never got untracked against the 20-3 Pioneers, who will play 16-5 Detroit Cody in Thursday's championship game -- 7:30 p.m. at Southfield.

"It's not the way we wanted to end the season, but I told the kids to reflect on the things we accomplished," Churchill coach Fred Price said. "It's hard to go out shooting that poorly (16 of 63 for 25 percent), but maybe that's the pressure they felt"

Ironically, the matchup was expected to be close after Dearborn won a December game against Churchill on its home floor, 55-49.

"We had some bad nights, but we've improved steadily all year,"

Dearborn coach Don McCathney said. "We like to run and trap and I-think (tonight) all their weaknesses matched up what we like to do."

THE PIONEERS' half-court trapping defense had Churchill reeling right from the opening bell.

The Pioneers jumped out to a 21-6 first quarter lead on a three-point shot at the buzzer by 6-foot-4 senior Mohammed Abdrabboh.

Abdrabboh and his brother Ali, a 6-2 sophomore, were twin terrors, combining for 42 points on the night.

Mohammed nearly had a triple-double, finishing with 27 points, 16 rebounds and eight assists. Ali added 15 points, while guard Derek Zion contributed nine.

Churchill, despite missing numerous close-range shots, pulled within 10 at intermission, 30-20, and had the deficit sliced to eight when Scott Bowser scored the first basket of the third quarter.

But the Pioneers limited Churchill to only three field goals during the period — all by Bowser — while increasing their lead to 47-26.

In the final period, the Pioneer's kept up their assault, outscoring the Chargers, who abandoned their 3-2 zone defense in favor of a man-to-man, 21-9 (on nine of 11 shooting).

MIKE THOMAS, who was brilliant with a game-high 21 points in the district conquest of Wayne, suffered through an abysmal shooting night (2 of 10).

And the Chargers' top inside scoring threat, 6-7 Randy Calcaterra, had little room to breath, let alone score. He had only nine points.

"We always had him (Calcaterra) fronted and somebody back behind him," McCathney said. "We made someone other than Thomas and Calcaterra step forward from the perimeter, and it worked out.

"We made sure that we would contest every shot he (Calcaterra) would take. We wanted to make sure we had a hand up in his face every time he shot the ball."

Churchill not only shot poorly from the field, but also from the free throw line (3 of 12).

Dearborn, on the other hand, hit 17 of 20 foul shots (85 percent). The Pioneers also shot a well from the floor (24 of 42 for 57 percent).

"Our kids wanted to play, but just didn't play," Price said. "We didn't play defense. We were slow getting to the spots and we allowed them to penetrate.

"(Dearborn) ran a triangle-andtwo with a man on Thomas and a man on Randy. They were asking our other people to do major scoring that hadn't done it for a while. We just couldn't make the shot we normally make. We can make that 15to 16-foot shot. I think we rushed our shots"

THE CHARGERS finished the season with a 15-9 overall record.

"You hope for your seniors that you can go out playing better," Price said. "But with the kind of shooting night we had, it was not our night."

Meanwhile, for the red-hot Pioneers, the cry was "You can't touch this"

Marian storms into state quarterfinals

Mercy can't corral Mustangs

By Bill Parker staff writer

Trina Govan's smile seemed to light up the gymnasium. And understandably so, after all, the Birmingham Marian senior had waited nearly four years for this moment.

After polishing off Catholic. League rival Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy, 15-4, 15-12, Saturday in the championship match of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Class A regional volleyball tournament at Birmingham Seaholm, Govan and the rest of the Mustangs were celebrating the victory at center court. But none of the smiles were quite as big or quite as bright as the one Govan wore.

"After four years at Marian and three different coaches it was kind of hard to stay focused, sometimes. Each coach had a new style and a new philosophy," Govan explained. "This year has been a very positive experience. We had a good time and we played real well together. We gelled together as a team and improved every day at practice.

"It's so sweet to beat Mercy. This is a big, big win for Marian volley-

If only Pete Leonhardt's next lew years coaching Redford Catholic Central's swim team are as successful as his first one. The Shamrocks recorded their best finish ver in the Class A finals, taking inird place Saturday at the University of Michigan pool in Ann Arbor.

Bloomfield Hills Andover was an easy winner, scoring 193 points even though a possible first-place relay team was disqualified after jumping the start. Birmingham Groves was second with 119, followed by CC at 105. Grosse Pointe South took fourth (97) and Birmingham Brother Rice finished fifth

"If everything had gone perfect, we could have beaten (Groves)." said Leonhardt, in his first year as coach at CC. "No one was going to beat Andover. The difference (between Groves and CC) was they scored three relays.

"I'm very happy. CC had never been better than sixth (at state meet) before."

Livonia Stevenson scored 31 points to finish 13th, Westland John Glenn scored 21 to place 20th, and North Farmington had 17.5 to take 22nd. In the Class B-C-D meet in Ypsilanti, Farmington Hills Harrison was 18th with 24 points and Redford Thurston was 28th with nine points.

TROY SHUMATE propelled CC to its finish. The senior was a state champion in the 200-yard freestyle in 1:41.87, edging Dan Phillips of Ypsilanti (1:42.07). Shumate also placed third in the 100 butterfly in

"Obviously, the highlight of the meet (for CC) was Troy Shumate," said Leonhardt. "He's a very experienced, smart swimmer. He's certainly a blue-chip swimmer."

Senior Mike Hoeflein also had a strong meet for CC, finishing fourth in the 200 free (1:43.14) and fifth in the 500 free (4:43.17) and serving as a "major power on the 200 and 400 free relays," said Leonhardt.

CC's 200 free relay team of junior John Brogan, Hoeflein, senior Alan Afsari and Shumate finished second in 1:26.89, behind only Andover's national record-setters (1:24.04). Shumate, Hoeflein, Afsari and senior Brian Dynda splashed to a third in the 400 free relay in 3:11.85.

The Shamrocks' other point-producers were Brogan, who took eighth in the 50 free (21.86), and freshman James Leslie, who finished 12th in the 500 free (4:50.31). Brogan's 50 free time was a remarkable .54 faster than his state preliminary clocking and 1.44 quicker than his previous-to-stateswimming

MATT MARTIN did all of John Glenn's scoring. Martin, just a sophomore, was fourth in the 100 backstroke (52.87) and fifth in the 200 individual medley (1:54.96).

Stevenson's Bryan Morrison, a junior, placed eighth in the 500 free (4:43.65) and was ninth in the 200 free (1:44.79). Spartan teammate Aaron Rieder, also a junior, finished 10th in the 200 IM (1:58.72) and 12th in the 100 back (55.96), and Alex Goecke, a sophomore, was 11th in the 100 breaststroke (1:01.44).

Stevenson's 200 medley relay team of sophomore Ryan Freeborn, Goecke, Rieder and senior Taki Caranicolas finished ninth (1:58.72); so did its 200 free relay of Goecke, Morrison, Rieder and Caranicolas (1:29.36)

North Farmington's Mike Drelles, a junior, finished seventh in the 100 butterfly (52.65) and the Raiders' Chris Knoche, also a junior, tied Grandville's Chris Ornee for ninth in the 100 free (48.17) and placed 12th in the 200 free (1:46.16).

North's Knoche, Drelles, freshman Jon Kershaw and junior Keith Lee were 10th in the 400 free relay (3:18.77).

IN THE B-C-D meet, Harrison's Ryan Koonce, a senior, finished second in diving with 371.25 points and Jason Barringer, also a senior, was fourth in the 100 breaststroke (1:01.37).

Thurston's Leo Moreira placed seventh in the 50 free (21.84) and was 11th in the 100 free (49.80).

Gardening classes on tap

Becoming involved with the natural world may take many forms. Some people are birders and establish bird feeding stations. Others may become active in astronomy, insects, amphibians, reptiles, fish, rocks and minerals or any number of other interests.

Initial interest in a particular subject often leads to interest in several other areas - as one becomes aware of the interconnectedness of the natural world. It does not matter what subject(s) is/are pursued, the main thing is to investigate some natural history subjects and see if it interests you.

Many people have become interested in flowers and plants because of an initial interest in gardening. Getting outside, listening to birds singing, watching butterflies flutter by, and getting your hands in the soil is a very satisfying feeling. Watching plants develop from seeds and grow into fruits, vegetables or flowers provides a real sense of pride that makes one feel good.

If you have not tried gardening because you did not know how to start or know what to do, then the Master Gardeners of Wayne County Workshop on April 13 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. is the place for you. During the day you can choose classes such as Organic Vegetable Gardening, Herb Wreath Making, Color Your Landscape, Creating a Compost Pile, Lawn Care, or How To Plan and Plant a Flower Garden.

These classes will be taught by master gardeners who have been working with their subject for many years. Bob Klein has been gardening organicly since he was a child. Leo Blum, another instructor, has worked in horticulture for 42 years. Rose Marsh, who has been active in teaching and establishing garden programs for youths, will also be one of the qualified instructors at the workshop,

If you sign up for some of the classes outlined above, you may register your child (8-12 years old) in garden classes that introduce them to plants through various activities. Introducing students to the pleasures and work of a garden is a great idea. Often, positive experiences such as those associated with the natural world may influence a person for the rest of their life.

Come to the Cabaret for music and art

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

Whether you're searching for a way to beat the mid-winter Michigan blues, or simply longing to hear tunes by Irving Berlin as well as Sinatra songs performed in the style of an old-fashioned band concert, a ticket to Spring Cabaret. the Spring Cabaret in Garden City could be the answer.

conjunction with Schoolcraft College, hosts an evening of music Thursday, March 21.

The 48-member Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble, with music director Victor Bordo. will play 7:30-9:30 p.m. at Radcliff Center in Garden City. Visual arts and refreshments will also help to cheer you out of your cabin

"The cabaret is being sponsored by the Garden City Fine Arts Association and Schoolcraft College to provide the community an evening of performing, visual arts and refreshments," said Norma McQueen, GCFAA president and director of The Art Gallery in Garden City.

She is the driving force and the behindthe-scenes producer of the visual and performing arts evening of entertainment,

"ART WILL be displayed around the walls The Garden City Fine Arts Association, in of the auditorium, so it will be both a visual and performing event," McQueen said.

"Refreshments will be provided by the Culinary Arts Department at Schoolcraft College. There will be cabaret seating at tables for eight."

"The ensemble has existed since 1977," said Victor Bordo, director of the Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble. "It consists of piccolo, flutes, bassoon, clarinet, saxophones, trumpet, French horn, trombones, baritone tuba, and percussion."

This is Bordo's second year as director of the wind ensemble and 35th year in music education. He also is director of bands and chairman of the Fine Arts Department at Troy High School. He received his bachelor of arts and master in music education degrees from Wayne State University.

Guest artist for the evening is Jay Young III, first trombone for the ensemble. Young will be the featured soloist for the selection, "Dramatic Essay for Solo Trumpet and Band" by Clifton Williams.

"He's an outstanding player," Bordo said. "It's always a good decision to feature Jay as a soloist."

ALONG WITH a tribute to Irving Berlin, Bordo said songs from "Sinatra in Concert" are scheduled for the cabaret program. "New York, New York," "It Was a Very Good Year," "The Lady is a Tramp," and the standard Sinatra signature song, "My Way," will be featured in a medley of songs made famous by Frank Sinatra.

A tribute to Irving Berlin concludes the cabaret concert with "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody" and "This is the Army, Mr. Jones."

The final Berlin composition, "God Bless America," will end the evening's upbeat pro--gram in patriotic style.

The concert is made possible in part by Norma McQueen's driving ambition to "enhance the cultural aspect of the community," together with the sponsorship by Schoolcraft College and by a seed grant from the Garden City Arts and Entertainment Com-

AGIC DOLLS steal your heart, taking center stage as the Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company performs the romantic comedy,

"Coppelia," Saturday, March 16. Curtain time is 2 and 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth-Canton High School Little Theatre, 8415 N. Canton Center Road, Canton Township.

"This is the company's first production of 'Coppelia,' " said Dawn Greene; artistic director. The original performance of "Coppelia" took place in Paris on May 25, 1870, danced to a musical score written by the French composer Leo Delibes. Dancing the role of Swanilda, who is jealous of the mechanical doll named Coppelia, is Dawnell Dryja. Michael Finegan dances the male lead, the role of Franz, Swanilda's love interest. Beck Greene creates the role of Dr. Coppelius, the darkly comic dollmaker. Tiffani Natalini is cast as the Coppelia doll.

THE MAGICAL story of Coppella weaves its way into your heart as two immature lovers, Swanilda and Franz, spar and play out their silly games.

Franz is a flirt. The iron-willed Swanilda amuses Franz but he fails to take her seriously.

Dr. Coppelius is a maker of dolls, in particular, Coppelia. As Franz falls in love with Coppelia, Swanilda schemes to win his love.

"THERE ARE 35 dancers in our Coppelia," Greene sald. "We have about 50 members in the full company."

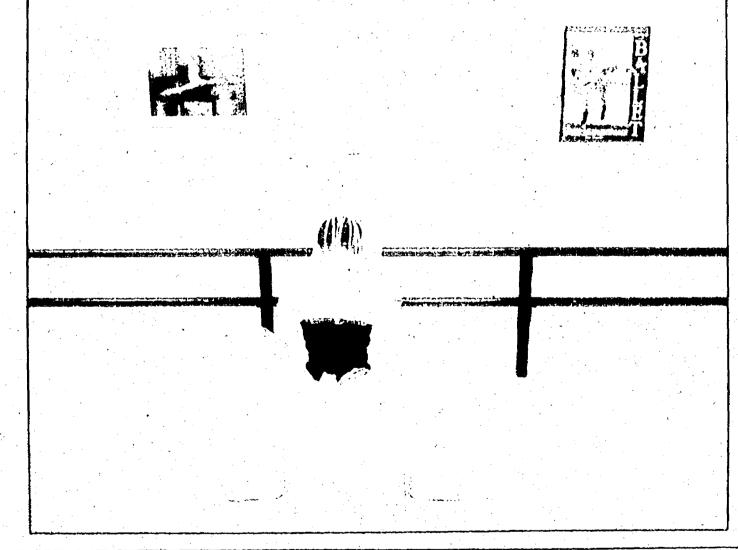

Greene, a ballet instructor for 20. years, teaches ballet at Joanne's Dance Extension in Plymouth. She serves on the executive board of the Cecchetti Council of America. Arthur Saint-Leon created the

Take it from John Willyard, who has painstakingly spent much of the past 11 years restoring his Greek Revival house to its original 1830s

"Don't undertake a project like this lightly if you're not prepared for years of hard work."

An automotive engineer by day, Willyard has devoted many evenings and weekends to restoring the 19thcentury character to his Farmington Hills house.

A state historic site awaiting a state historic marker, the John Garfield home, as Willyard calls it, sits perched on a rise in a historic area northwest of 13 Mile and Drake.

A meticulous researcher and stictearing down the stone porch and chimney, customizing windows and doors, replacing floor beams and wind braces.

"You must get rid of everything not original to find what was original," Willyard told the Farmington Historical Society Feb. 27, recounting the story behind his resolve.

Willyard not only has prepared a 67-page analysis documenting early architecture but also tracing early ownership of his two-story home:

His probing revealed that John Garfield bought the original 160acres from Zolman and Milton Pettlbone for $450 in 1831. Two years before, the Pettibones bought the site from the U.S. government for $200. The 1831 sales price shows the Pettibones made only modest improvement. Willyard found the house's Federal-style construction more typical of the 1830s than 1850s. He found that Garfield sold the site in 1838 for $3,000, noting major improvement. Two later sales noted no such jump

Citing state tax records, Willyard showed the site underwent "no meaningful change in market value," and thus no major development, between 1841 and 1860 -- signalling the house pre-dates that era.

"The records clearly indicate that the house was built sometime between 1831-38, timing which is in complete agreement with style and construction techniques evident in the house," Willyard concluded -

Jessye Norman, Met Orchestra coming

In recollection of the golden days of visits by New York's Metropolitan Opera to Detroit, the University Musical Society brings world-renowned soprano Jessye Norman to Ann Arbor for a gala benefit concert April 30. Also appearing will be conductor James Levine and the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

The three will unite to present a program featuring an unstaged version of the grand finale to Wagner's monumental Ring cycle, the "Immolation" Scene from Gotterdammerung.

This precedent-setting tour of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra begins in Ann Arbor on April 30. It moves to Columbus, Ohio, before returning to New York for a Carnegie Hall concert on May 3, also with Jessye Norman. That concert is part of Carnegie Hall's seasonlong Centennial Celebration.

KENNETH FISCHER, executive director of the University Musical Society, gives due credit to society concertgoers: "The ability of the University Musical Society to pres-a tribute to the commitment and integrity of our patrons, who demand the 'cream-of-the-crop.' The concertgoers of southeastern Michigan deserve the very best that the world has to offer, and the musical society will give them nothing less."

Jessye Norman occupies a special place in the hearts of Michigan music lovers.

Since 1973, under University Musical Society auspices, she has displayed her artistry in two May Festivals (1973, 1989), and two recitals (1974, 1986). In 1978, she performed a benefit concert for the U-

The upcoming concert provides the first opportunity ever outside of New York to hear her with musicians of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

JAMES LEVINE became artis-. tic director of the Metropolitan Orera in 1986. He has conducted more than 60 different operas at the Met.

Help symphony brainstorm fund-raising ideas

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

If you're a Livonia Symphony Orchestra fan with a bright idea for fund raising, mark 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 19, on your calendar.

That's when the Livonia Symphony will host a brainstorming-planning session to which everyone interested in its future is invited.

The meeting will be in the dining hall of Madonna College, Levan at Schoolcraft, in Livonia. Discussion topics will include financing, marketing and programming.

"What we're trying to do is the same thing that any corporation does. For any organization to grow, it needs planning," said Ken Kelsey, Livonia Symphony Society Board of Directors president.

The board is the driving force behind the symphony. This is Kelsey's second season as president of the so-

The agenda for the evening's brainstorming session includes locating "new opportunities for earned income and new sources of contributions and grants," he said.

IN JANUARY, Gov. John Engler, as part of a state spending crackdown, froze a Michigan Council for the Arts grant to the Livonia Symphony for $9,900. The symphony budget for the 1990-91 season is "slightly under $100,000," Kelsey

INTERIOR DESIGN

The Interior Design Studio at Hudson's has created three separate Town Houses for customers to view at their convenience.

The purpose is to display different trends through the creativity of Hudson's interior designers. Artwork, accessories and special-order pieces, not usually included in the furniture showroom, are used. Each room enjoys its own color scheme, mood and design.

The locations are: • Northland Town House - Lower Level, living room, dining room, master bedroom, foyer.

• Eastland Town House — Third Level, living room, dining room, master bedroom, sun room. 245-2357.

• Westland Town House - Lower Level, living room, dining room, master bedroom, den. 458-

Two to four designers created the Town Houses at each of the three locations.

The Town Houses will be updated as necessary and are open now through September. Individual pieces featured are listed with resource names and retail values.

Roses flourish with drip irrigation

Roses are making the news this year.

All-American Rose Selections Inc. suggests using many types of roses for container growing. The process isn't difficult and can be rewarding. Use a pot with enough room . . . 6 inches wide by 8 inches deep for miniatures and 14 by 18 inches for full-sized plants. Porous pots need a good soaking before the rose

Put a little soil in the bottom of the new pot before transferring the rose, add more soil, pack it well, then soak. Six to eight hours of direct sunlight is necessary, and the soil needs to be kept evenly moist when new growth begins. Apply a liquid fertilizer weekly at half strength until good growth starts, then use full strength on a regular basis.

is placed in them. All pots need drainage holes and can be lined with gravel, charcoal or shards.

JACKSON & PERKINS, meanwhile, is sponsoring a new series of TV programs, "Gardens of the

The first show has aired but several additional programs exploring a different garden theme will follow this summer. To commemorate the series, the company is offering a hybrid tea rose, "Gardens of the World," with cream buds edged with cherry red. It has a light fragrance.

A new grandiflora rose, "Audrey Hepburn," hardy and disease-resistant, which grows 4 to 5 feet tall with a 2 34-foot spread, blossoms prolifically. The flower is large, apple blossom pink in color and very fragrant. This rose is suitable for all parts of the country and is available from Spring Hill Nurseries, Peoria, Ill.

"We all have within us a need to create beauty. And we all can in a garden, however small," Hepburn said. "Perhaps if we now take a closer look at our gardens, we will at last awaken to the fragility of our beautiful planet and better understand our lovely Earth."

The TV programs will show many gardens "right in our own living rooms." I look forward to __A sloping area would be ideal for such a system. Another rose is making its debut this year, an everblooming landscape shrub, "Carefree Wonder," by the Conard Pyle Co., West Grove, Pa. The petals are rich pink in color with creamy pink on the reverse. The hips, for fall color, are large

No wonder the rose is our national flower.

WIIEN PLANNING an area for roses, several factors must be taken into consideration.

The first is sun: six to eight hours daily, with morning sun preferable, to minimize the chance of disease problems. The second is space. Roses need room to grow and air circulation. If there are nearby trees, visualize their mature height in a few years. What now is a sunny location may soon become too sha-Ideally the soil pH is 6.5 to 6.8; roses will tolerate some leeway on either side. A soil sample will tell, and the soil can be amended if necessary. Remember, well-drained and well-aerated soil will help the roses thrive.

A DRIP irrigation system in our rose bed works splendidly. It was put in place in 1989 when we planted the roses and it made watering a breeze. I usually let the water seep into the ground for about two hours and test for enough moisture by shoving a stick into the ground.

There are several brands, but we used "Leaky Pipe" R, from Northwest Underground Irrigation Systems Inc., Pendleton, Ore. 97801. Fertilizers can be applied through the pipe also.

Goal identification key to builder successes

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Before homes, before subdivisions, before lots — there is the land developer. Land developers select the sites, assemble the land, develop site plans and improve the sites that enable builders to construct homes. And while people can see the results of their labor, the process itself remains mystery. Whether it's a 200lot subdivision or a custom home on a single lot, many of the things are

 Novice builders and the merely interested were given a brief introduction into the developing and building industry at a seminar presented by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan at the Troy Hilton last week. (See related story on Page 3.)

Lawrence Cohen, president of Nosan/Cohen Associates in West Bloomfield, said builder/developers have to learn to expect the unexpect-

"Never say, 'That could never happen, because it can and at some time, it will."

Cohen cautioned listeners there are no formulas for developing property, but there are basics outlines.

"Before anything else, identify your goal," Cohen said. What type of product, the price range, and defining the competition are critical to a project's eventual success or failure.

Next, "is defining your own role." "Too many builder/developers mistakenly lock themselves into a plan before deciding what they will

In one case, the builder/developer may assemble property and create a site plan; in another he may create a site plan, develop the infrastructure and then sell lots to builders, Cohensaid. Another option would be to develop and build homes.

"Whatever works for you," Cohen said. Now that the builder developer has set goals and decided on a role, it is time to select a site — but there's more to identifying a site then pointing to a piece of property.

IDENTIFYING a site also means visiting the competition, learning everything about the surrounding area, reviewing existing and planned nearby uses (office, residential, commercial), learning about growth patterns and project absorption rates, identifying the quality of schools and just about anything else. The more the builder/developer learns at this stage, the less he will have to find out later.

Once a project is clearly visualized in a builder/developer's minds, it is time to sit down - informally - and talk to municipal officials, Cohen said.

Getting to know community decision makers — and their getting to know the developer - can be an invaluable experience, he said.

Even though two communities share the exact same concerns, it's possible one community will be hostile toward development and another receptive, he said. Getting to know one another permits each side to get a feel for the other.

"The way a project is presented and who presents it can make a big difference," Cohen said.

Before stick one is ever nailed to stick two, the builder/developer should step back and take another look at the project before too much money and time are devoted to the project.

The builder/developer should ask if the planned product a viable one, he said. "When I started in this business, it would take one year to complete a project; now, it can take as long as three years," Cohen said.

"Ask yourself, Will the market still be there when I'm ready?"

If the answer is yes, it's time to rough out the costs of a project, city problems, he said. Under curwork out a timetable, and take another look at alternatives, he said. "Each project is different in hundreds of aspects."

And now the step most builders/ developers dread - financing, Cohen said. From conventional borrowing to joint ventures and partnerships to syndication - in which a builder/developer sells shares in a project and shares the risks as well as profits, this is one of the most dangerous areas.

"If I can emphasize one thing, it's to make sure you're over-capitalized," he said. "The two greatest reasons for lack of success in this business are insufficient funds to do what needs to be done and not enough marketing."

DON'T THINK you're done yet, Cohen said. Really, all you have are a good set of plans and some contacts. You may have already invested several months into a project but now comes the nitty gritty.

One potential problem - that absolutely perfect residential development site in a great school district, close to shopping, in an up and coming community is zoned - ta dah multiple residential, Cohen said.

If the builder/developer was going to build multiple - condominiums, or apartments — there's no problem. If the plan was for single family residential, a more dense residential, office or commercial it's time to attempt a zoning change, Cohen said.

"It's not impossible to change zoning — it is difficult."

The key to getting a zoning change is proving a different zoning is a better idea, Cohen said. "That means you need to sell the project — if you can't get excited about it, they aren't going to get excited about it."

Once zoning is settled, it's time to begin planning the installation of utilities - sewer, water, electric and gas - and set up temporary power for use during construction.

If you haven't already, it is also time to check the property for toxirent law, a property owner can be liable for toxic contamination problems even if he did not cause the problem.

"Toxicity wasn't even in an issue five or ten years ago," Cohen sald.
"Today you can't even get a loan unless you've tested the site."

Getting the support of the development's neighbors early in the planning process can help the builder/developer.

Builders: Wait 'til next year

By Doug Funke staff writer

Even though traffic at new residential developments has increased in recent weeks, representatives for several builders forecast Monday at an open house display that fewer units will be built this year than last. But they don't expect the roof to fall in, so to speak, when everything is put into perspective.

"Now that the war is over, there seems to be excitement. Interest rates are right, and people with stability in employment now are making decisions to buy a home," sald David Lewenz, director of sales and marketing for S.R. Jacobson Development of Birmingham.

"The next 60 days will give us a pretty good picture," he said. "It (activity) by no means is going to be what it was like two years ago. (But) we see good, consistent numbers."

Two years ago — 1989 — was a record year for residential builders in southeast Michigan. Permits were pulled for 12,400 unit. Activity fell 15 percent last year to 10,500 permits, lowest since 1985 but still the fifth best year on record.

Where Jacobson would normally build 70-80 units in a typical year, expectations are for 60-70 this year, Lewenz said.

JACOBSON is building in Rochester Hills - Vintage Estates ($236,000-300,000) and Sugar Creek Condominiums ($175,000-$195,000) - and West Bloomfield - Mission Springs ($236,000-$270,000) and the Woods of Orchard Lake ($279,000-$350,000).

Jacobson acquired property in Northville Township and is looking. at other sites in Oakland and Northville townships. "Next year (1992) will be a great year. New subdivisions are coming on line. If you look at last two years, things are soft. As you come out of recession, there's pent-up demand." Every year can't be a record year

Building: a step-by-step guide

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Developing a site and getting ready for the home builder is only half of the battle - building the home itself is another labor worthy of Hercules.

Chuck Breidenstein; president of NCI Associates Ltd. - a construction education group that helps to educate builders step-by-step in how to build a house - said building requires planning and attention to de-

"I could spend 40 hours on all this and still not have enough time," he

Experience is the best teacher, he said, but good planning can help first-time and novice builders to avoid the pitfalls encountered by even professional builders.

"In this industry, planning is the one thing that a lot of people don't do well," he said.

The first step in constructing a home — after getting a building site — is to do a site plan. Cataloging a site's topography, its natural drainage, soil and privacy considerations are all important in determining a building's orientation on the property. As for the actual construction, the entire process — after getting all applicable building permits - will take roughly 100 days, he said.

"As anyone can tell you who's ever tried to obtain a permit in southeastern Michigan, 20 days is not enough time - in (some communities) it may take you 20 days to get someone to look at your plans."

Throughout the construction process there are a number of required inspections that are done by municipal building inspectors.

"Realistically, the first thing you want to do is take the building inspector out to lunch," he said. "That way you can pick his brain - find out what's important."

ALTHOUGH BUILDING codes are adopted by the state; local communities alter the codes to suit their own special needs. "So every community you build in is different."

Sitting down with the building inspector is a good way to find out where most builders get themselves into trouble.

The first inspection follows site layout — in which layout stakes defining the physical boundaries of a building on the site are checked against local ordinance setback and. encroachment requirements.

Following site layout, Breidenstein said, the builder excavates the site by removing the top layer of soil and digging the hole for the basement - if there is to be one - and the foundation.

Also at this stage, the driveway is roughed in, gas and electrical lines are brought to the site.

There is another inspection following excavation.

After excavation, the builder pours the footings that provide the foundation for the structure, Breidenstein said. The footing distributes the structure's weight evenly to prevent settling, cracking and heaving.

Footing drains, which take water away from the footings and relieve hydrostatic pressure, are also installed at this stage.

There is another inspection following installation of footings.

Excavation and footings are two of the most important steps in the construction of a home - many problems that occur later in a home are a result of mistakes in these two steps, he said.

A COMMON ERROR in excavation occurs when an excavator removes too much' soil and then replaces it. A home or other structure should be built on undisturbed or compact soil that will not settle, Breidenstein said.

The most common error that occurs when setting footings is to pour them into wet soil or standing water,

The next step in building a home is laying the foundation, Breidenstein said. Poured concrete, cement blocks or treated wood are built upon the foundation. This is another critical step.

To prevent moisture absorption or infiltration, builders apply a waterproofing to the outer surface of the foundation, surround the foundation with a porous material like pearock or sand to facilitate drainage and build a sloped overlay of clay over the fill material to take water away from the foundation, Breidenstein

"People get excited about all the snotty things upstairs — the Jacuzzis and the hot tubs. But if you don't have a good downstairs (foundation) all those things upstairs aren't going to look good when they fall into the basement," he said.

Poured concrete floors and that rest on grade — basement or garage - is often poured at this time, but may happen later, he said.

Another inspection by the building department occurs after the foundation is built.

Floor frames, wall frames roof. frames and roofing material along with rough mechanical installation of electric wiring and outlet boxes and heating ducts will take between 23 and 25 days, he said.

"When the roof is done you'vepeaked at two-thirds of the grief and effort, but you're only half way through," Breidenstein sald.

"When a lot of people see all this work, they get excited and think they can move in next week," Breidenstein said. "You have to make sure and tell them there's still a long way to go.'

Following rough mechanical construction, there will be another in-

"Just because a site has wetlands or woodlands doesn't mean you can't have a development," he continued. Sometimes, the builder/ developers can take, move, or create new wetlands and woodlands.

In both cases, it's important for the builder/ developer to have an expert, Cohen said. Ideally, a builder/developer should have a land planner who is knowledgeable about wetlands, woodlands and landscaping.

A land planner is essential not only for his expertise in site design and layout but because in any confrontation with the state or a community over an ordinance, the decisionmaking body is going to have its experts, Cohen said. "A good land planner puts an expert on your side."

AND NOW YOU'RE a mere two to three years away from completion.

At this point, the builder/developer should start getting the various approvals necessary for construction, Cohen said.

Start with general concept meetings with municipal decision makers and neighbors to the site, Cohen said. "Many developers avoid (meeting with neighbors to the site), but I think it's an important step."

If a builder/developer can't get the development's neighbors support, it can be much more difficult down the road, Cohen said. "I can't emphasize this enough."

In the building business, said Norman E. Hellenman, a vice president for Robertson Brothers Co. of Bloomfield Hills.

Robertson, which erected 100 units last year, expects to build 60-70 condominiums this year at the Heathers of Bloomfield Hills ($150,000-$300,000) and Huron Chase in Ann Arbor (starting at $190,000).

Builders show heralds spring's arrival

HE 1991 International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show comes to Detroit's Cobo Exhibition & Conference Center March 16-24.

This year marks the 73rd anniversary of the builders show, which has become the largest home show in the world, all under one roof.

Local folks consider the builders show to be the first official sign of spring with its lavish and extravagant gardens and hundreds of home improvement exhibits spread over 600,000 square feet, using the entire main floor of Cobo.

If you're considering buying a home you'll be able to get some ideas from the display of three full-size, modern manufactured homes in the builders

The homes range in price from $25,000 to $50,000 and are part of an exhibit sponsored by Michigan Manufactured Housing Association.

Showgoers will find that today's manufactured homes offer many amenities of conventional stick-built homes, but are at prices attractive to many first-time home buyers.

The builders show is sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM).

This year, the builders association's Remodelers Council will give attendees a visual example of what a big difference a little remodeling can do. The council is sponsoring an exhibit of "before" and "after" projects to give the public ideas on the variety of remodeling magic available to spruce up a home.

MORE THAN 500 exhibitors will show off their wares, offering the best in home renovations, furnishings and accessories.

Among the exhibitors are:

 Architectural Roof Tile — A Kalamazoo based company offering colorful and stylish alternatives to traditional asphalt shingles.

• Michigan Bathtub Liners featuring its new custom-fitted wall systems that can revive the look of an old shower. The Auburn Hills company also markets a similar

Lushness sprouts in these gardens

HAT WOULD a builders show be without the spectacular gardens that will fill more than onefourth of Cobo Center?

"The garden portion of the show has become an increasingly important part of the Home, Flower and Furniture Show," said James C. Scott of James C. Scott and Associates, Birmingham. "It's one of the major draws."

All of the gardens' greenery is orchestrated by Scott, who has designed and coordinated the flower portion for 29 years.

Gardens continue to grow in popularity as greenhouses and landscapers offer more alternatives, he said. "People are becoming more and more landscape conscious."

Whether it's of the simple home handyman variety, or the elaborate professional formal to specialized gardens, landscaping can mean the difference between a great home and a truly spectacular showcase, Scott said.

The availability of annuals, which bloom every year, hearty versions of rare and exotic plants that previously couldn't survive the harsh winters, and exciting hybrids developed by horticulturists permit the home, office or commercial property owner to add distinction.

"We are constantly trying to entice the public, to whet their appetite for spring," Scott said.

THE FLOWER section, with its huge variety of flowers and plants, appeals to all the senses.

Obviously, the flowers and plants give the display a visual and aromatic appeal. Scott said, but there also is the aural appeal contributed by the sound of water in the contructed waterfalls and ponds.

And although visitors are not encouraged to touch the displays, plants and flowers can appeal to the touch.

As for taste, well, wait until next year. If all goes well, Scott said he is planning an edible garden that appeals to the sight as well as the appetite.

Scott said the garden show can at times be a a logistical nightmare. There are gardens to design, plants to grow, workers to organize, greenhouses to contact, he said. "We're already planning next year's."

There are 3,000 to 4,000 cubic yards of sand and dirt, 10,000 to 15,000 pots of plants, 300 evergreens, 200 hearty flowering shrubs and trees, and 200 tons of stone.

"Add 250 workers, 15 tractors and 18 garden builders, put them all together, shake them up, and after four days working 24 hours a day, you have a show," Scott said.

FOUR OF the most elaborate gardens will be sponsored by Detroit's Parks and Recreation Department, Standard Federal Bank, National Bank of Detroit and First Federal Savings and Loan.

'People are becoming more and more landscape conscious.'

— James C. Scott landscape architect

The Hall of Gardens, a collection of specialty gardens, florist exhibits and smaller displays throughout the show will make up the remainder of the show, Scott said.

In the Hall of Gardens, there will be a garden dedicated solely to perennials, another to cactus and tropical plants, a Japanese garden featuring miniature or "Bonsai trees, a formal garden and fountain, a patio garden, and a colossal 18-foot flowering bunny rabbit.

Tom Trueman, the owner of the Bonsai Center in Mount Clemens, is building a Japanese Garden of Bonsai miniature trees and specially important plants built around a model of a Japanese tea house.

Trueman, building a garden at the show for only the second year, said the essence of the Japanese Garden is a wish for quiet contemplation on the presence of nature.

Trueman said he has several excellent examples of Bonsai to display this year, including a 100-year-old Chinese Sweet Plum Bonsai and a 130-year-old White Spruce bonsai.

THE FLOWER portion of the Home. Flower and Furniture Show, Trueman said, gives people a chance to see there is more out there than the garden variety garden.

"We can expose people to what's out there. It gives the specialist a chance to show what he has to offer," he said.

Gary Bates, owner of Grass Roots Nursery in New Boston, is designing and building a water garden, a first for the show, sponsored by first Federal of Michigan.

A collection of bog plants, water lillies, water hyacinths and an assortment of hearty and tropical plants will rebuilt around a series of ponds containing a variety of tropical fish.

"We're actually creating a form of wetland, but a shallow water wetland," he said.

And unlike the kind of wetland that many people might prefer to fill in, these wetlands are actually highly desired.

"We build quite a few of these, ranging from the elaborate, large back-yard garden ponds to the simple barrel gardens people might put on a deck," he said. "It's for the garden enthusiest who's gone one step further."

The Detroit Parks and Recreation Department is keeping a tight gap on its plans, but promises a real showstopper unequalled by past efforts.

DOUG SUSALLA

Waterfalls are a big part of the lush natural settings that help make the builders show a popular wintertime respite.

As always, builders show gardens will showcase mini parks with flowing fountains and benches for attendees to stop and smell the flowers.

Best birdhouses bask amid prizes

HE ACCENT'S on creativity for student woodworkers in the Best Birdhouse Builder contest, quickly becoming a popular part of the builders show.

Last year, nearly 1,200 young architects from suburban Detroit participated in the second annual contest.

This year, the contest again is sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan.

Designed to meet the Michigan state guidelines for math and science proficiency, the contest is open to all seventh- and eighth-grade students within the O&E circulation area.

In this contest, each student builds a birdhouse designed for a specific species of bird: house wren, bluebird, wood duck, barred owl, great crested flycatcher, American kestrel, American robin and tree swallow.

All birdhouses are judged on strict criteria because each species of bird is very choosy in selecting its home. The house must be perfect to attract the species it was designed for.

EACH STUDENT is supplied with information from a book entitled "Woodworking for Wildlife" The DNR. The book describes the habitat needs of each species and gives instructions on how to build the most suitable house for each species.

Participating schools each choose one seventh- and one eighth-grade winner. The more than 1.000 birdhouse entries will be on display in Birdhouse Garden at the builders show, located near the middle of the back of the builders show floor, next to the Cafeteria/Entertainment Area.

A panel of judges from the sponsoring organizations will select and announce winners from each grade level on Saturday, March 16.

The two first-place winners will each receive $150 gift certificates. The two second-place winners will each receive $100 gift certificates. The two thirdplace winners will each receive $50 gift certificates.

Twenty-five honorable mentions will each receive $25 gift certificates. All students whose birdhouses are on display at the builders show will receive a certificate of appreciation from the O&E and $10 gift certificate to Harmony House.

Teachers of first-, second- and thirdplace winners will receive an evening for two at The Golden Mushroom, Southfield. A plaque commemorating the contest winners will be awarded to each participating school.

Future houses to be smart

HE HOME of tomorrow is coming — soon.

But visitors to the builders show can get a glimpse of futuristic technology and experience first hand the benefits of the Smart House system in the interactive Smart Playhouse at the Detroit Edison exhibit.

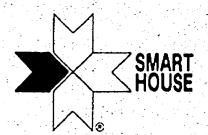

Bille Steele, Detroit Edison builder liaison, said show goers will be able to walk through the four-room "Smart Playhouse" and familiarize themselves with the Smart House system.

"People will be able to go through and play with it, see exactly what we're trying to do," Steele said. "It brings the Jetsons to life. Things we used to see on cartoons, we can do today."

"In it (the Smart Playhouse) are the four most-used rooms in a house: the kitchen, living room, bedroom and home office," Steele said.

Each room will demonstrate specific applications appropriate for that room.

THE THREE most significant technological leaps in the Smart House are in energy management, safety and security. Steele said. Smart House system demonstrations will include control of the home security system, lighting, communications, energy management and various entertainment features.

Specifically, demonstrations will allow visitors to witness what Smart House will do in case of fire, watch as drapes open and close electronically, and learn how to assign switches to various light fixtures.

"You'll see everything work from outside grills, to speaker systems to lights." Steele said.

A further demonstration will show how a videotape playing in any VCR can be viewed on television in the house and how the same television can be switched over from viewing entertainment to monitoring a child in the bedroom.

Visitors will see how the Smart House system monitors energy rates and schedules appointments to work at the most efficient times during the aday.

DESIGNERS OF the Smart House were aware many people are still uncomfortable with technology, so to encourage use of the systems, controls have been built around items already common to most men and women, Steele said.

These controls include a video touch screen, touch tone phone, remote control, keypad and personal computer.

Perhaps even more exciting than the Smart Playhouse, however, is the advent of a fully functioning real Smart House, Steele said. Detroit Edison. Consumers Power and the National Association of Home Builders will choose a builder soon to construct a Smart House in southeastern Michigan.

The first Smart House in Michigan is scheduled to be built in 1992.

"After the first is built and showcased for several months, it will be sold to an average homeowner. Then other builders will have an option to build other smart houses." Steele said.

A Smart House will appear much like the average house on the outside, Steele said, but its capabilities will be significantly different, thanks to an integrated wiring/computer system.

UNLIKE THE conventional home, which is wired with basic 120-volt copper wiring, the Smart House will include three different types of wires designed to carry power, video and communication signals.

THE BUILDERS show has come to be recognized as the premier "fix-up. spruce-up" show in the nation. Attendees are often treated to demonstrations of products and services that are brand new to the industry.

For example, this year's show will include a demonstation of concrete pumping. If a patio or sidewalk starts to fall apart, sand can be pumped under it providing a permanent, convenient fix in about two hours. without having to replace the concrete.

As always, the do-it-yourself handyperson will find a variety of "how to" workshops and demonstrations at the builders show.

More than 500,000 people are expected to attend the nine-day builders show. Hours are from 1-10:30 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Saturdays and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.: Sundays.

THE REAL BEAUTY OF A HOW HOME IS WHAT YOU DON'T SEE.

Lots of kitchen cabinets, crown molding, and extra-large closets are things you can appreciate the moment you see them in a new home.

But the intangibles—things like security and peace of mind—take a little while longer to surface.

That's why more and more new homebuyers are insisting on a home protected by the Home Owners Warranty 10 year protection program.

They know they're getting the best protection money can buy. Good for 10 years, and even transferable to the new owners, should you sell your home during that period.

And even though the odds are slim that something will go wrong, it's good to know you're protected against workmanship and material defects the first year. Defective wiring, ductwork, and piping in the second.

And your home is protected against major structural defects that vitally affect the use of your new home for the full 10 years.* Your builder can give you all the details, including the reasonable exclusions.

So when you look for a new home, look for the HOW symbol.

It means you're getting a lot more than meets the eye.

Houses bring Jetsons to life

Instead of rolls of wires, the modular wiring systems are laid in the walls, Steele said. Systems can be attached at any point by plugging them in through a small cut in the wall.

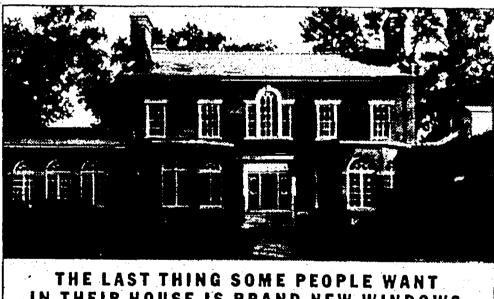

And thanks to the microprocessors that control the system, the Smart House wiring system recognizes systems as they're plugged in. "A child could put a fork into a plug and not risk shock.'

Steele estimated it will cost an additional $7,500 to integrate the Smart House system into a 2.000square-foot home.

The Smart House is the product of the Smart House Limited Partnership, a research and development consortium originated by the National Association of Home Builders National Research Center in 1985.

Detroit Edison is a member of the Smart House National Advisory Council and participates in generating public awareness of the Smart House

Nail down money

STIMATE THE correct number of nails in the House of Nails and become $20,000 richer.

The popular House of Nails contest will once again be part of the builders show.

The plexiglass House of Nails, 20 by 26 inches wide and 24 inches tall, with a 12- by 12-inch wide, 17-inch-tall addition, is traditionally filled with nails one month before the builders show to give show attendees the chance to brush up on their "skills of approximation."

The House of Nails will remain on display in the lobby of First Federal of Michigan in downtown Detroit until the builders show opens.

On Saturday, March 16, when the doors open at the builders show, attendees will have the chance to register their estimate of the number of nails contained in the house. The person estimating closest to the correct number of nails in the house wins $20,000. The House of Nails will be on display in the center of the show floor from March 16-24.

Vignettes of who's exhibiting what

Home

Business is booming at McCoy Inc., Livonia. The company has been experiencing a 20-percent annual growth in sales and much of the business increase is due to the popularity of its saunas.

"More and more people are making staying healthy a part of their lifestyle, but quite a few of them are getting a little tired of the 'health-club' scene so they're turning to bringing some of the health-club home by installing a sauna," said Russell Elvy, sauna division manager.

McCoy Inc., wich also carries fitness equipment, has been an exhibitor in the builders show for the past five years. For the show, they have the latest sauna model, a triangular-shaped corner heater unit with an all-glass front.

McCoy's saunas are computerdesigned and built from kiln-dried, western red cedar. They can be custom installed by the company or it can become a winter project for the do-ityourselfer. Sizes range from four feet wide to as large as you can accommodate. Prices start at $1,200.

Home

Homeowners are discovering a new, economical way to transform traditional concrete paving into colorful works of art.

Albanelli Patterned Concrete of Farmington Hills is at the forefront of this trend by turning ordinary concrete sidewalks and driveways into colorful and realistic looking patterns that resemble elaborate tile and paving stones.

Depending on the size ordered, there can be significant savings compared to hand laid brick or tile.

Owners Paul and Wayne Albanelli shape and color concrete to resemble fancy brickwork, tile or cobblestones. The patterns may be standard or textured.

More than 30 different textured patterns and 40 colors are available. Interior surfaces will keep their original look with occasional vacuuming or mopping. Patterned concrete also has excellent durability in harsh northern climates.

At the builders show, Albanelli will show some of the many ways patterned concrete can be used to enhance a driveway, walk, pool deck or patio.

Jerry and Valerie Constance of Ann Arbor say they have the perfect solution for those who want to start a garden but haven't the time nor the soil to do it.

The solution is hydrophonics, or "Soil-less Gardening." As the owner/operators of Bronk Hydro Garden, Jerry and Valerie want to show homeowners how easy it is to raise flowers and vegetables in water and nutrients. There are no weeds and no cultivating.

The gardens themselves are designed by Jerry Constance, a builder/contractor. A pump circulates water and nutrients through the plant's roots via PVC pipe. When the pump shuts off, gravity drains the water, allowing the plant's roots to dry out. During draining, the water recaptures oxygen to be circulated next time.

Plants grown this way require less intense sunlight to thrive. Last year, Jerry and Valerie raised tomato plants hydroponically in their heavily wooded back yard.

"Yet the plants grew to nine feet tall." Valerie said.

Furniture

Martin and Morgan Cates, owners of Grandma's Loft, are in the process of readying their highly successful furniture business for franchising. How successful?

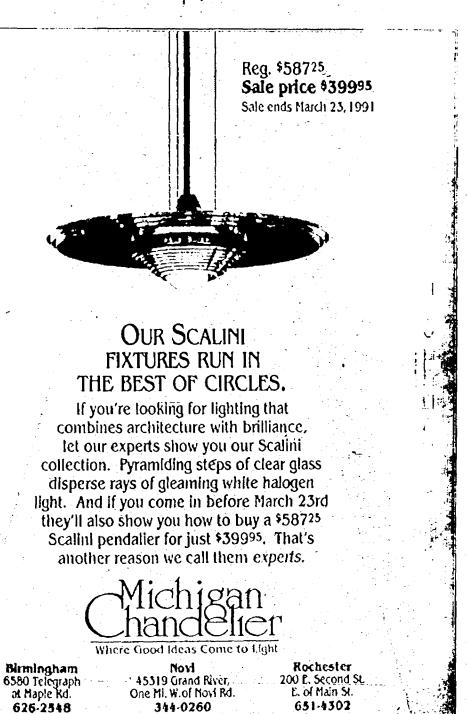

In the past five years, they've sold 3,000 dining room sets from just one manufacturer. Since the first store opened in Grand Blanc, six years ago, they've added two more, in Flint and Rochester.

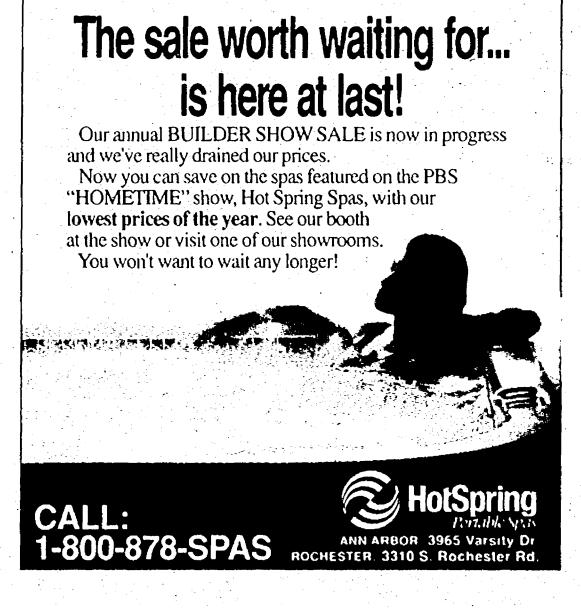

Cates credits part of the company's success story to his lines of solid wood and upholstered, country-style furnishings.

"There was and still is, a lot of junk furniture on the market. So we reasoned that there was also a consumer need and desire for quality, solid wood pieces. I like oak, so we chose that wood for most of the furniture, and a country style. The combination has worked out quite well," Cates said.

Along with dining room sets featuring pedestal tables, Grandma's Loft carries hutches, occasional tables, bookcases, entertainment centers, decorating accessories and custom furniture, which makes up 20-25 percent of the company's sales.

Little factory-built house is grown up

HAT'S ABOUT 50 years old, eight feet wide, 20 feet long, made a family happy after World War I, and is now the darling of the builders show. Answer: A vintage model of one of America's first manufactured houses, or, if you prefer . . . an antique trailer.

The war was over, men and women were coming home, and they needed quick, efficient and affordable housing. The manufactured house was born and people moved in and set up housekeeping.

Today, the little house has grown up to be America's best bargain. It's big, modern and still very affordable. In some cases, it can cost about half as much as a conventional "stick-built" house. It's a modern residence that's easy to finance and made of highquality materials.

The 1940s era house and two modern 1991 models from manufacturers Schult and Fairmont will be on display at the builders show. Both houses have professionally designed interiors and are surrounded by extensive landscaping.

THE SCHULT house is about 1,800 square feet and includes a master bedroom with attached master bath, two additional bedrooms, another bath-and-a-half, a kitchen, a morning room, a dining area, a family room and a living room. The Fairmont house has two bedrooms, two baths, living room, kitchen and dining area. Both houses are open to visitors.

Visitors can also see free films about manufactured housing in a video theater.

The display is sponsored as an educational exhibit by the Michigan Manufactured Housing Association of Okemos. The MMHA is a professional trade association with 900 members celebrating its 50th anniversary this Manufactured houses are an alternative for those who want to build a new house and still want it tailored to specific needs and desires. Manufactured houses allow the buyer to choose different room shapes and configurations, along with an array of different building materials.

Factory-built houses are put together in a controlled environment. then shipped in sections to the consumer.

"Manufactured houses are great buys because they're built inside a factory and not subject to adverse weather conditions and costly delays," said Timothy DeWitt, MMHA executive director.

Burning desire: natural-gas logs

HAT'S MORE inviting than burning logs in a fireplace?

Being warmed by the heat of the fire and comforted by watching the dancing flames and glowing embers does wonders for those dull fall and winter days.

What we don't need, however, are the hard work, mess and expense that accompanies this heartwarming desire. Whether you cut your own wood or buy it from a vendor, it must be stacked, sorted and dried before it is ready for use.

Once we get the wood in the house, we pray that the creatures who have adopted their wood home for the winter don't wake up and look for a new place in the house to sleep.

Also, no one appreciated the dirt, snow and loose bark scattered along the carpet during the wood-hauling chores. But, what the heck, the warmth and glow of a nice fire are worth it! Or are they?

WELL, THERE'S an alternative that will give you the same warmth and atmosphere without the mess.

Today's alternative is a cleanburning natural gas log. All it takes is Materials placed at the base of the log simulate burning embers.

a turn of a valve and . . . instant fire.

Modern natural gas logs are sculptured to make it extremely difficult to tell them from the real thing, that is unless they can find a way to implant those tiny creatures inside. Materials placed at the base of the log simulate burning embers.

After we have experienced this romantic interlude, we again turn the valve, close the damper to keep the heat inside the home, and the magic disappears until we command it again. All this for about 15 cents an hour.

Stop by the Consumers Power exhibit at the builders show and learn how easy it is to create your own fireside comfort with the flick of a wrist.

Also, come see the progress of the latest developments in natural-gas products from yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Lifestyle homes going on parade

RY A homey encounter.

The second annual Parade of Homes exhibit will be a highlight at the builders show.

Visitors can saunter through the 6,600-square-foot promenade done up in an "Old World" theme of brick-paved streets, Victorian lamps, landscaping and gazebos, said Rosalie Lamb, Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan senior staff vice president.

Scattered throughout the display will be renderings of 80 homes, suitable for every lifestyle, in five different counties, Lamb said. Included with the renderings will be information about special features, floor plans and pricing, she said.

But the Parade of Homes is more than just a display of architectural renderings. These homes actually exist and are available to purchase, Lamb said.

The display is a way to gather the work of 80 builders in one place without doing the actual legwork. Potential buyers will be able to see a variety of homes, ranging from condominiums to single-family structures, from Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Livingston and St. Clair counties without ever leaving Cobo Center.

ALSO AVAILABLE at the display is the Parade of Homes magazine, published by Marketplace Publications, which contains renderings and floor plans of all the homes, said Michael Gauthier. Marketplace publisher.

The magazines contain a map to each home site and give the hours the homes will be open for public tours.

Then, for one month after the show, potential home buyers can take on-site tours of the houses, Gauthier said. He added that builders have agreed to maintain the prices listed in the Parade of Homes magazine.

Gauthier said the Parade of Homes is actually the precursor to the annual Homearamas, which showcase builders efforts. "Ten years ago, we used the Parade of Homes to kick of the spring building season."

Since then, southeastern Michigan builders have held Homearamas, but these events have one drawback, Gauthier said. "Instead of 80 or more builders, the Homearamas are limited to only 10 or so homes."

THE PARADE of Homes also feature homes in a wider range of prices then Homearama, Gauthier said. Instead of elaborate homes costing $300,000 or more, the Parade of Homes will feature more modest houses starting at $80,000.

The $1.2-million homes, of course, also will be featured. "Most homes will be in the $150,000 to $200,000 range."

Similar programs are held — and are quite successful — in other parts of the state and country, he said. "Grand Rapids holds an annual Parade of Homes and they have 170 builders (participating)."

Builders in the Minneapolis area have nearly 500 builders in their annual Parade of Homes, Gauthier said. "That's what we're hoping for. With an area like southeastern Michigan, we ought to have at least 250 builders involved."

A NEW feature for this year's Parade of Homes will be a home builder competition, Gauthier said. A panel of five architects will judge the homes and award prizes to builders of the two best homes in each of four categories: homes priced under $100,000, $100,00 to $200,000, $200,000 to $400,000, and $400,000 and up.

Judging will be based on the design, architecture, special features of the house and the value of the house for the money. Winners will be announced Thursday, March 21, at a luncheon for builders and mortgage bankers preceding a keynote speech on the building industry by Gov. John Engler.

On tap: pools, spas gazebos and jacuzzis

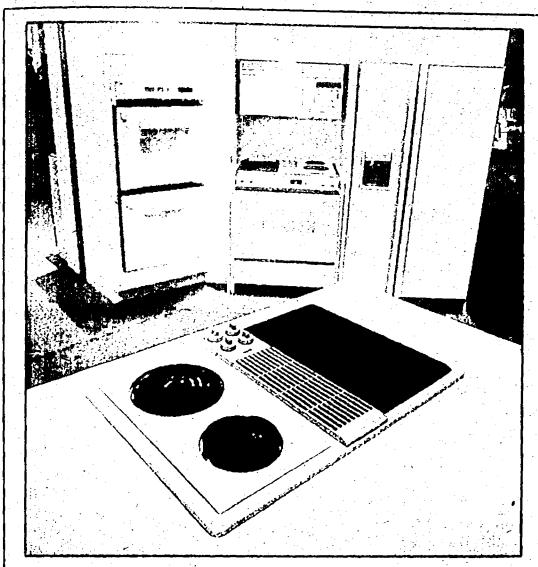

ET IN the swim.

This year at the builders show, the Southeast Michigan Pool Association will display 7,000 square feet of above ground and in ground pools, spas, gazebos and jacuzzis.

The Southeast Michigan Pool Association is a local chapter that brings together, in one exhibit, all the new advances and pool products as well as patio furniture and spa enclosures. Ten different pool dealers will display their wares at the show, Among them will be Viscount Pools, Pietila Pools, Sunspace, Dobat Pools, Michigan Pools and Cornwell Pool and Patio.

Kevin Zacharski of Viscount Pools, manager of the Southeast Michigan Pool Association, is enthusiastic about this year's display.

"It's the best time for consumers who are interested in pool products to see all that's available to them," he said.
