Gladys Grosjean, 66, reported that she had the cookies sent overseas with help from the Westland Rotary Club.

She said she received a warm thank you letter from the lieutenant who was in charge of the 31 soldiers who enjoyed the cookies.

The Westland Rotary Club helped her ship the cookies to the Persian Gulf.

Instrumental in the project was Barbara Barr, a Rotarian and manager of the Abington Manor apartment complex for retirees, of which Grosjean is a resident.

During recent games for the visually impaired at Frost Middle School, Frost student Laura Gauci helped Jessica Lee Thomas play a game with a flashlight. Laura used the flashlight as a pointer to help Jessica find animals hiding in a large wall mural. At the same time, Jessica used an eye scope to help find animals in the mural. The games were part of a Special Olympics for the visually impaired held at the school.

District eyes panel to study its fiscal woes

By Leonard Pogor
editor

Mayor Robert Thomas, whose opposition to a defeated Wayne-Westland school millage increase earlier this year drew both criticism and praise, has proposed a blue ribbon study committee to analyze the school district's finances and make recommendations to the school board.

He announced the committee Thursday night at his Town Hall program, held periodically for the past year.

In writing school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill and asking for his backing on the study committee, Thomas said he has proposed 18 persons to serve, representing the supporters and opponents of the defeated March 13 tax increase.

The mayor said that six of the 18 asked to serve have agreed to serve.

O'Neill, whose administration last month formed a similar study committee, said Friday that he supports the mayor's proposal.

"We need all the help we can get," the superintendent said in praising the mayor for extending an olive branch.

In the millage campaign, O'Neill was critical of the mayor for opposing the tax boost and failing to ask him earlier for information on the issue.

O'Neill added that he and Thomas were scheduled to meet today to discuss the blue ribbon committee.

THE MAYOR said the proposed committee would make recommendations to the school board for formal action.

Thomas said the persons suggested for the committee represent not only millage backers and opponents, but also persons who have a financial background.

In his Town Hall comments, Thomas said that "I don't regret my position" in opposing the tax proposal defeated by less than 500 votes.

But "it's time for everyone to come back to the table and find a solution" to the school money problem, he said.

In the mayor's April 8 letter to O'Neill, Thomas commented that some persons feel that the mayor played a "major role" in the millage proposal's defeat.

Board hopefuls differ on millage

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A fierce clash among Wayne-Westland school board candidates appears certain to erupt as they draw battle lines and choose sides on the heated tax-increase issue in preparation for the June 10 election.

Sharply differing opinions on higher taxes surfaced this week as the Observer polled the 19 candidates and asked them whether they generally support or oppose a millage increase for the school district.

Considering the stunning number of candidates — believed to be the most ever in a district election — the deep divisions came as no surprise amid the fiery, ongoing public debate over whether taxes should be raised to avert massive budget cuts.

Proposed school tax increases have failed three times in the past 14 months, though the margin of defeat was narrowed to 3 percent March 13.

Even though school officials haven't announced when they will return with another millage proposal, the tax issue undoubtedly will be a

Memo leads to teacher's suspension

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

A veteran Wayne-Westland high school teacher, suspended with pay for allegedly distributing a memo on school district stationery, awaits formal charges to be filed against him.

Lynn Ehrle, a Plymouth resident in his 34th year of teaching, was suspended from duties March 28 after a biting memo on staff cutbacks was reportedly distributed at schools in the district, including Wayne Memorial High School where Ehrle is a social studies teacher.

School Superintendent Dennis O'Neill confirmed he had suspended a teacher pending an investigation of the incident. He expects to present specific charges against Ehrle to the Wayne-Westland Board of Education by the end of the month.

"I'm the one who ordered the suspension, and I have no problem with what I've done. I can justify the action," O'Neill said. He declined to name the teacher.

EHRLE CONFIRMED he has been on suspension since late March. He denies distributing a memo but said it was shown to other teachers at their request. If charges are filed against him, Ehrle said he will retain private counsel. He is a member of the Wayne-Westland Education Association, the union representing district teachers.

Mayor's budget plan calls for 2 new cops

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas, in what he termed a "sincere attempt at fiscal restraint," has proposed a city budget that marks the smallest increase in seven years.

The $28.9 million general fund budget proposal reflects an increase of $629,000, or 2.2 percent, which would pay for two new police officers and wage hikes averaging 4 percent for most municipal employees.

The increase, the smallest proposed since 1984, comes one year after the city budget rose 13.6 percent to help pay for eight new police officers and three firefighters.

Though approval of the plan will bring the number of employees on the police force to 101, Thomas stressed during an interview with the Observer that another 15 to 20 officers are needed.

Beefing up the department "is a slow, steady process," the mayor said. "We don't want to put new officers on the job and then end up laying them off."

DESPITE A call by some for the city to hire more firefighters, Thomas has recommended no additional hirings for the department. Some firefighters have said the mayor's plan to keep all four fire stations open continually means more firefighters are needed.

But, in a budget memo to Westland City Council President Thomas Brown, the mayor wrote that "we should allow this new plan to work another year and then assess our needs."

Thomas has proposed eliminating just one city job — a building inspector's position that will become vacant through a retirement. The post doesn't need to be filled because re-

Contest's sour note sweetened for music students

By Leonard Pogor

Promoters of an upcoming opera production hit a sour note with a Westland elementary school teacher and her students

But the promoters went out of their way to soothe the ruffled feelings and give the Stottlemeyer Elementary School fourth graders a chance to perform an operatic aria in public Thursday afternoon.

The reason for the small musical flap is that teacher Leona Glossenger wants her students to be exposed at an early age to opera and other cultural activities.

So she was excited when she heard a radio commercial promoting a Michigan Opera Theatre lip-synch contest in which contestants are to "perform" an operatic aria of their choice. But she found out after rehearsals were under way that contestants had to be 18 or older.

The contest is being held in conjunction with the current "Mozart Magic in Motown" celebration, designed to mark the 200th anniversary of the composer's birth and promote the M.O.T.'s upcoming operatic productions.

Candidates split on need for school tax hike

consideration as district voters go to the polls June 10 to choose three board members.

Of the 13 candidates competing for two four-year terms, several appeared to favor a millage increase.

Incumbent Mathew McCusker said, "We're operating on 1987 revenues and trying to run a 1991 business," he said. "It just doesn't work."

Incumbent Sharon Scott also favors a tax hike, though she stressed that "state-level school finance reforms are needed."

Board challenger John Albrecht said he's "not real excited about higher taxes," but he added that the district "definitely" needs support for a millage increase.

Four-year candidate Terry Hower also reluctantly favored a tax-hike proposal. "From what I can see we are in need of a millage increase," he said. "Am I in favor of higher taxes — no. But I don't see any way around it."

Three of the four-year candidates condemned a tax increase.

CANDIDATE ERNEST Hallmark cited a lack of accountability among incumbents and noted that voters have rejected millage increases three times.

"To me the board members have violated the trust that the voters put in them when they elected them to office," Hallmark said.

Candidate Randolph Blouse agreed on the need for more accountability and said, "The money needs to be managed better."

Challenger Jeanette Leppala said she opposes higher taxes, but didn't elaborate.

Two of the four-year candidates, Laurel Raisanen and Anne Harblson, said they could support a millage proposal smaller than the 7.75-mill request that failed March 13.

"Unfortunately because of the actions of the current school board, we need more money to keep the schools open," Raisanen said.

Harblson said the school board should have given voters more millage options in the March 13 election and added that she could have supported a 2.75-mill renewal.

"I am not an anti-type of person, but neither am I a person who says that whatever the administration says is all right," Harblson, a former board member, said.

ALBERT TURNER chose to "wait and see" the budget before deciding whether he could support a millage hike, though he said he has favored past millage proposals and could continue his support "if the money is needed."

Kimberly Rowe said she favors a tax hike "if the money's not wasted and if it's going for a good cause."

John Ristau declined to respond directly to the millage question. However, he added that the last millage proposal failed because voters, concerned about 1.9 percent pay raises for teachers, saw the tax defeat as their only way of registering their complaints with board members.

Four-year candidate Vicki Welty said she generally favors a millage increase, though she said a change of board members is first needed. "I don't know with the present school board that I would trust them with my money," she said.

Meanwhile, candidates seeking a two-year term on the board also appeared at odds on the millage issue.

INCUMBENT MICHAEL Reddy, appointed to the board last November, said, "I believe that we definitely need the money."

Richard LeBlanc said the March 13 millage defeat "gave the 'no' voters a short-term benefit," but he added that district residents should consider long-range benefits that a tax hike would bring to local schools.

Linda Pratt said it's "not the time" for a millage increase and called for "a new direction and more accountability" from the school board.

Fredric Hagelthorn's strong millage support prompted him to lead 100 people to city hall during a recent city council meeting to protest Mayor Robert Thomas' opposition to the proposed 7.75-mill tax hike.

Hagelthorn also has criticized school board members for hedging on whether to renew the proposal in the June 10 election.

FRED WARMBIER, a former board member of 16 years, said he strongly opposes a tax hike. "I think the people have spoken three times," he said, referring to the last three millage defeats. "The message is clear."

Kenneth Raupp also blasted a tax hike, saying he's "absolutely opposed" because the school district's budget is "full of waste."

"The teachers are highly paid, and most of the children are functionally illiterate," Raupp said. "They can't read."

Students lip-sync Wagner aria

The open contest, scheduled from noon to 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit, will have Glossenger's students perform in costume with special props.

BUT DUE to a misunderstanding about the age limits, the youngsters, most of them 9 years old, are ineligible for prizes.

The teacher learned that there is a minimum age of 18 for contestants only after rehearsals began for the students to perform Act II of "Die Walkure," complete with Norwegian outfits, helmets, spears and shields.

Glossenger was so upset after learning of the age limits, she wrote a letter to the Magic Mozart Committee to vent her frustrations.

"I am bitterly disappointed that our commendable lip-sync contest doesn't allow participants under 18 years of age," she said.

"At a time when the arts are suffering from a lack of participation and support by the younger generation, and having no viable way of building future audiences for the arts, your committee sought to exclude young people who need this type of exposure."

HER LETTER stressed that the commercials on radio station WQRS-FM, which plays only classical music, didn't mention any age limits. The official entry for the contest did specify the age limit on the back page.

Glossenger said her students were "so excited when I presented the idea of videotaping an aria from 'Die Walkure' that they began giving up their lunch hours and free periods for rehearsals."

"The teachers and I thought what a marvelous opportunity to introduce (composer Richard) Wagner, Norse mythology and opera to these 9- and 10-year olds without making it a textbook lesson!" Glossenger wrote the committee.

In closing, she urged the Mozart committee to hold a "Junior lip-sync contest" open to Michigan schools. Besides the Thursday performance with other over-18 contestants, the Stottlemeyer students got a chance to perform in costume Wednesday morning for Wendy Davy, a spokeswoman for the Mozart in Motown promotion.

SHE CLEARLY enjoyed the two-minute lip-sync segment, which was videotaped by a Stottlemeyer parent and attended by principal Lillian Vojack and several mothers who made the costumes.

In the Stottlemeyer cast for the aria were scene persons Joshua Mayse, Brian Pientowski and Michael Chekosky; "heroes" (who were killed off early in the performance) J. R. Williams, Justin Schroeder, William Murray, Jason Closser and Justin Bass; Kyle Bufalini as Wotan; Karen Mason as Brunnhilde, and "valkyries" Katie Krause, Stacy Tipton, Julianne Mion, Jessica Blankenship, Jennifer Simmons, Georgia Stromski, Aneta Danowski, Jennifer Garver, Stephanie Brown, Deirdre Lundy and Laura Couture.

Mayor wants to hire cops

charges from building department permits and fees have decreased by nearly $100,000 due to a slowdown in new construction, he said.

Though Thomas gave the city's financial status high marks, he cautioned in his memo to Brown that fiscal restraint appears necessary.

"WITH THE uncertain economy, I believe that we need to be more cautious, even though we are in great financial condition at this time," the mayor wrote.

One anticipated loss is a drop in state shared revenues, which will decrease by $290,000 in the next budget.

Thomas said he feared that other state cuts are possible, "and we could end up paying some of that price in local government."

In other budget highlights, Thomas has proposed raising the general operating millage from 6.52 mills to 7.29 mills — a move to restore a three-quarter mill reduction made last year.

"Last year we had the luxury of reducing the millage rate for our citizens," the mayor wrote in his bud-et synopsis. "This is a luxury I don't believe we can repeat this year."

THE PROJECTED millage rate — the maximum that can be levied for the general fund — marks an increase that will cost a typical Westland homeowner who has a $60,000 house with a state equalized valuation of $30,000 an additional $29 in taxes.

The increase reflects an 8-percent increase in local assessments.

City-wide, the property tax base is now $925 million, meaning that one levied mill in generates $925,000 in property taxes for the city.

In another increase, residents will pay an additional 20 cents per 1,000 gallons on their water and sewer rates — expected to add about $6 quarterly to a typical homeowner's bill, Thomas said.

The increase stems from a 10-cent rate hike the city plans to pass on to consumers because of an increase levied by the city of Detroit, and another 10 cents to help pay for the county's so-called "super-sewer" system.

Some budget items may be added later, such as paying the Canton library an estimated $112,000 so that Westland residents can continue to have full borrowing privileges.

The exact amount the city will pay Canton has not been decided, prompting Thomas to not include it in his proposed budget.

THOMAS SAID the city's fund balance of $2.5 million is healthy, though it has decreased by about $900,000 because the city moved some of the money into other funds to help pay for police and fire department computers, among other items.

Thomas' upbeat assessment of the city finances was echoed by finance director Michael Gorman and budget director Tim McCurley.

Memo leads to teacher's suspension

who represent our future plans," the purported administrative memo began.

Currently, Wayne-Westland schools face layoffs of some 100 employees. Within the past 14 months, voters have defeated requests for increased millage rates three times in the past 14 months. In addition, the district's financial problems have prompted a potential recall campaign against board members.

On Wednesday, O'Neill responded to the original "memo" in a letter to all district staff, including an estimated 1,000 teachers. He called the memo tasteless and a mockery to those facing layoff next school year.

"ONE OF THE most important yet sensitively fragile functions we perform in educational leadership is in dealing with the lives and livelihood of employees. Nothing is more gut-wrenching to me than being forced for economic reasons to lay off even one Wayne-Westland worker," O'Neill wrote.

Ehrle's suspension has evoked concern in the community, according to David Moranty, who said he has received many phone calls from school personnel, parents and others. Moranty chairs Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education, a watchdog group critical of the district's board policies.

While suspended, Ehrle continues to receive full salary. He earns around $45,000 annually, O'Neill said.

If the current investigation proves wrong doing, O'Neill said the law requires charges be brought before the board of education. Depending upon the gravity of charges, the board may or may not take action, including dropping charges and full reinstatement of employment, continued. If charges are filed, Ehrle may request a public or private hearing.

Schools face budget cuts, layoffs Fight heats up on assessment freeze

By Marie Cheatnoy
staff writer

Livonia Public Schools' first massive belt-tightening in years means extra help for at-risk elementary school students, job losses for some school workers at all grade levels and a possible tax increase for taxpayers.

Those three proposals are part of the 1991-92 budget now being prepared by officials of the district, which serves the northern section of Westland.

However, the proposed tax increase and possibly other parts of the district's $105.8 million budget would be put in jeopardy if a two-year property tax freeze plan backed by both Democrats and Republicans passes the Michigan Legislature and becomes law.

The freeze on commercial and residential property to 1990 assessment levels passed the Senate last week; key Democrats predict it will pass the House.

Robert Laundroche, the district's assistant superintendent for business, estimated the freeze would cost the district an additional $4.2 million next year. The district already has figured cuts of $4.7 million into its proposed budget.

THE DISTRICT'S proposed 1991-92 budget is based on the premise that the district collects the full amount of taxes allowable under the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

The amendment lets schools and municipalities collect property taxes on assessment increases up to the cost of living, this year pegged at 5.4 percent.

District officials have suggested next year's tax rate be set at 31.22 mills, 0.12 mills more than the 1990-91 tax rate of 31.10 mills and equal to the 1990-91 cost of living.

If the freeze becomes law, the district must set its millage at a rate lower than the 1990 tax rate of 31.10 mills, Laundroche said.

"The budget is based on the best prediction of what will occur in Lansing," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli. "If we get a property tax reduction, it will have a negative impact. It could change our projects and alter our plans."

IF THE freeze passes, Laundroche said, the district would be left with three alternatives:

- Cut more deeply into next year's expected $105.8 million budget.

- Delay or cut back on implementing new programs, such as the early intervention program for elementary schools.

- Ask voters to override the freeze, something for which the legislation provides.

In putting together new budgets, all Michigan school districts have been hampered by uncertainty about what kind of aid package will emerge this summer from Lansing.

In setting its proposed budget, Laundroche said, the district took a middle-of-the-road approach, avoiding both worse-case and best-case scenarios.

This year, the state recaptured $4.6 million from the district's $101.6 million budget. District officials expect the state will recapture an extra $2.9 million next year, bringing the total recapture to $7.5 million.

The 1991-92 budget, to be voted on by the board of education May 30, marked the first time in years that district officials have had to grapple with both budget cuts and layoffs.

BOTH MARINELLI and Laundroche said the budget cuts and layoffs are painful.

"I feel for those who will lose their jobs as a consequence of possible cuts," Marinelli said.

Laundroche said the layoffs will cause a "real disruption in some people's lives."

"There'll be a loss of their talents and services and it will impact everywhere — in the lunchroom and on school buses."

The budget calls for $4.7 million in cuts and layoffs of school employees at all grade levels.

At the same time, the district plans to help at-risk students by putting two early-intervention specialists in every elementary school next year.

The district expects to hire 27 teachers to man these posts; 16 such specialists already work for the district. The early intervention program will cost the district $755,000.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS said they went into the budgetary process with two goals in mind — cut the budget by $3.4 million and keep at least $3.5 million in fund equity, or reserves.

However, to begin the program for at-risk elementary students, Marinelli said, the district made even deeper cuts, to $4.7 million.

And, to pay for future programs or possibly even deeper cuts, officials also wound up with $500,000 more than expected in fund equity, bringing the reserves to $4 million, Marinelli said.

"It's the first year we've had to do some tough budgeting," Laundroche said. "But in going through the process we will be a more efficiently operating district."

Laundroche called the budget the district's "best shot" at what the future will bring. The budget was unveiled last week before passage in the Senate of the property tax freeze.

Marinelli said "external conditions" forced the district to make the $4.7 million in cuts.

"We hope residents understand that state policy is causing this to occur, and hope residents help us in changing state policy. We're not making these cuts in programs and services because of internal decisions. The Robln-Hood approach (recapture) is a disaster."

Marinelli said next year's planned expenditures of $105.8 million will be up 5.9 percent over this year's expenditures.

Fight heats up on assessment freeze

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Unable to agree on property tax cuts, Michigan lawmakers are edging toward a two-year freeze on assessments — bickering bitterly while they do that.

The state Senate gave 33-0 approval to what Finance Committee chair Nick Smith called "a property tax tollback."

"For 1991, because the assessment process is completed, we amend the Truth in Taxation section of the property tax law and say that voters — not the boards — may increase rates."

In 1992 assessments would be frozen at current levels, said Smith, R-Hillsdale.

TO MICHIGAN property owners, already paying $7 billion a year, the bill means:

- $233 million in savings this year. Nevertheless, local units will see a $382 million revenue growth due to new construction.

- $252 million in savings in 1992. Local units will see revenue growth of $414 million due to new construction.

Tax bills, particularly on suburban and Great Lakes residential property, have been soaring because of assessment increases during much of the 1980s.

Smith's chart showed revenue growths of $187 million in 1984, $218 million in 1985, $258 million in 1986, $364 million in 1987, $547 million in 1988, $630 million in 1989, and $725 million in 1990. Without the new bill, he said, revenue growth would be $710 million this year and $682 million next year.

The measure is House Bill 4109. Because the Senate made amendments, the bill goes back to the House for concurrence. Senators voted to give it immediate effect, meaning it would become law as soon as Gov. John Engler signs it.

All area senators voted for it on final passage except Democrats Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills and William Faust of Westland who had excused absences. Republican Doug Cruce of Troy resigned from the Senate two days earlier.

A PARTY-LINE vote of 15 to 19 rejected a Democratic amendment that would have tie-barred the freeze bill with a proposed constitutional amendment (House Joint Resolution 11) to cap future assessment increases at the federal consumer price index.

As the CPI has risen 4.5 percent a year, rising suburban housing prices pushed up assessments and property tax bills 10 to 20 percent a year.

The amendment by John Cherry, D-Clio, asked that the two-year freeze bill not take effect unless the Legislature placed HJR H on the 1992 ballot. "We'll look ridiculous going home and saying we need to study this (H) a little bit more," Cherry said.

Smith said the tactic could backfire. If lawmakers failed to get a two-thirds vote to place HJR H on the ballot, the freeze bill would automatically be defeated.

But Republicans said they support the concept of HJR H.

"THE SPONSOR (Cherry) is well intentioned," added Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, assistant majority leader. "But I've been around these chambers 13 years. We start with an agreement. Then someone says, 'We need one more thing.' And someone else says, 'We need one more thing.'"

"So we take what starts as a simple thing, and it becomes so complicated and burdened that it falls in the Senate or fails at the polls."

"We should work for what we can achieve. This bill is possible. It begins to solve part of the problem. As soon as we compound it (by tie-barring to HJR H), then I have to add amendments also. It becomes compounded, complicated and doomed. Don't let's create a camel."

Voting to reject Cherry's tie-bar amendment were Republicans Mat Dunaskis of Lake Orion, Robert Geake of Northville and David Honigman of West Bloomfield.

Supporters included Democrat George Z. Hart of Dearborn.

THE EFFORT to cut property taxes is essentially in the same partisan stalemate it has been in for years.

House Democrats want cuts favoring lower-income homeowners and say their plan is "fully funded" by "closing loopholes" on business taxes.

Senate Republicans say the Democratic plan is a tax shift paid for by an increase in business taxes.

Engler and Republicans support a 20 percent cut in school operating property taxes on all property, with the state reimbursing schools for lost revenue.

One Democrat, Sen. Jackie Vaughn III of Detroit, showed little enthusiasm for any property tax cut. "What effect will it have on the least in our society, those on the bottom of the ladder? I'm afraid for social services and mental health. Someone should speak for those who are not property owners," Vaughn said.

Extra help hired for 'at-risk' students

By Marie Cheatnoy
staff writer

This September, if plans contained in the proposed 1991-92 budget take root, all Livonia school district elementary students will have two early intervention specialists to turn to if they need extra help for learning, personal or family problems.

Having two specialists in each elementary school marks the first time Livonia has personnel on hand all day for elementary students who need extra help.

The price tag is $750,000 for the district which includes the northern section of Westland.

However, if a statewide two-year property tax freeze plan becomes law, the program might be cut to help make up an estimated $4.2-million loss, said Robert Laundroche, the district's assistant superintendent for business.

SIXTEEN LEARNING specialists already work part time in district elementary schools, going where they are needed.

Money cuts threaten district staff recalls

By Marie Cheatnoy
staff writer

By May 15, an undetermined number of Livonia school district teachers will be pink-slipped.

And, for the first time since the student enrollment drops of the late 1970s, many of those teachers will not get their jobs back in the fall.

"This is disheartening," said Steve Naumcheff, spokesman for the teacher's union, the Livonia Education Association. "Traditionally, when we had layoffs it was because of a drop in the numbers of students."

"Back then, it was not easy to deal with but we had a clear understanding of why it was happening. Now, with enrollments rising, it will be much harder to accept."

THE EXACT number of potentially pink-slipped teachers in the district which serves the northern section of Westland won't be known by either school officials or the LEA for another two weeks.

In a normal year, Naumcheff said, some 30 or 40 staff members get pink-slipped but called back by fall. But this is not a normal year.

To balance its $105.8 million budget for 1991-92, the district has made cuts amounting to $4.7 million, the first massive cut made in many years.

WHILE MANY of these cuts involved "things as opposed to people," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli, some of the cuts did trickle into the ranks of workers.

Right now, the middle schools are scheduled to lose 7.3 teachers; the high schools are scheduled to lose 15 teachers.

But beyond teachers, staff cuts also will come in the ranks of bus drivers, food service workers and maintenance workers, Naumcheff said.

"I just wish residents, board members and administrators would come to the schools and talk with the professionals, the maintenance people, to people in the bus yards, where the cuts are coming, and ask them how the cuts will affect their youngsters."

NAUMCHEFF QUESTIONED why the administration has remained mostly intact, with most of the cuts taking place in the lower ranks.

"They're cutting bus drivers, mechanics, people who deliver services to the kids. So how come they need the same number of administrators?"

"If you have 100 administrators and 1,000 teachers and 1,000 other workers and you cut in every group except the administration, what does that say? That they need more chiefs to lead fewer Indians?"

SCHOOL OFFICIALS have called the personnel cuts "painful."

"I have great compassion for those who might be laid off due to these budget reductions," Marinelli told Livonia school board trustees Monday. "This has been the most

Backer of failed millage supports fiscal study plan

Fred Hagelthorn, who last month led a public challenge to Mayor Robert Thomas' opposition to a school millage proposal, supports the mayor's proposal for a blue ribbon school committee.

Hagelthorn, a candidate for a school board seat on the June 10 ballot, also asked Thomas to back six proposals the board candidate made Thursday night at a town hall session at Bailey Center. The town hall sessions are held periodically by the city administration.

"I am asking for your support for a plan which would provide for the restoration of all cut (school) programs during the period the blue ribbon school committee is forming its recommendations," Hagelthorn said in his letter to the mayor.

The board and administration earlier this year said it would eliminate busing other than for special education students, sports, extracurricular activities, expressive arts programs and other services next fall unless a millage rate increase is approved.

HIGHLIGHTS OF his suggestions are:

- The school board should place a millage proposal on the June 10 ballot that would allow for the restoration of all proposed program cuts for this and the following school year.

Any millage proposal would be for a maximum of two years and is to be considered as a temporary step pending the recommendations of the blue ribbon committee.

- The city administration, school board and school administration should support and encourage the voters to accept the temporary millage increase.

- The committee should study the district's financial condition and make "good faith, non-binding recommendations for the resolutions" of the problems. The recommendations should be based on the "most cost effective solutions without any compromise on quality," he said.

The recommendations should cover spending, funding, board and administrative accountability, district management policies and practices; teachers' performances; students' performances; academic, arts and extra-curricular programs; and community involvement.

- The study committee should make the public aware of a new millage proposal for the fall 1992 ballot, which would replace the proposed temporary tax proposal he hopes would be on the June 10 ballot.

District eyes study of finances

"In reality, you and I both know that is not the case. No one person is able to make or break an election. However, the fact remains that this same group of people feel I should become involved in some way in finding a solution to the school's problems. Though I do not believe this is my responsibility, I am willing to make a sincere effort to help."

THE SIX persons who have agreed to serve, Thomas said, are Fred Hagelthorn, a pro-millage supporter and school board candidate; Laurel Ralsanen, a millage opponent and board candidate; Tim McCurley, city of Westland budget director; Diane Klinebriell, city of Westland financial controller; City Councilman Charles Plekering, and Bill Brown, state AMSCME union representative.

Others asked to serve are Bill Reece, Wayne-Westland Education Association president; Elwood (Woody) London, school district business manager; Norman Stockmeyer, former school board member and community activist; David Moranty, former board member who headed a committee opposed to the tax proposal; Sylvia Kozorosky-Wlasek, school board member and director of the city's senior resources department; Sharon Scott, school board member; City Councilman Tom Artley; Wayne Councilman Tom Kelly;

Leonard Posey, school board member, plus two Chamber of Commerce representatives and one state legislative representative.

O'NEILL SAID the school administration's group, called a citizens' audit committee, was formed shortly after the March 13 election and directed to review current and comparative financial data of the district and other districts to verify a need, or lack of one, that the district requires a millage rate increase.

On that committee are Bill Mills, Jim Murphy, Jim Lents, Dottie LeSeur and Kevin Beaver, who O'Neill described as being neutral in the past millage campaign.

Engler tax cut proposals are at a stalemate

GIVEN A choice, which would be the safer bet:

A) $10 in the Kentucky Derby on a 100 to 1 shot who had never won a race and drew the outside post position.

B) $2 that the Michigan Legislature will pass a property tax cut this year.

My own inclination is A, the derby. Your horse will get into the race; at least. We don't know that a property tax cut will even come up for a vote.

RICK SIMONSON, lobbyist for the Oakland Intermediate School District, told some of his clients recently that "I don't see the Legislature passing any reasonable tax relief in the near future" unless the Headlee

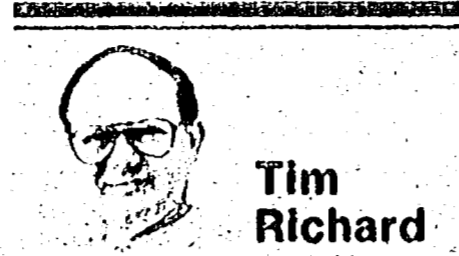

II tax cut initiative is placed on the ballot.

Simonson earned a reputation for knowing what he was talking about when he was a Senate staffer. Legislators say he's wrong and that they'll pass a property tax cut. Unlikely.

State elections officials are managing to find all sorts of faults with the Headlee petitions, which seek a 20 percent reduction in assessments and state reimbursement of all revenues lost by schools and other local units.

If the petitions were valid, either the Legislature would have to pass the plan or put it on the 1992 ballot. It would be a budget buster for Lansing.

As of today, however, Headlee II seems to be dead. There's no pressure on the Legislature to do anything.

Tim Richard

GOV. JOHN Engler is pushing a more modest plan: a 20 percent cut in school operating property taxes only.

It would cost two-thirds as much as Headlee II, so it's more attractive to lawmakers. But Democrats will have none of it, and they control the House of Representatives. At this point, Michigan's class politics come into play:

Engler and Republicans want an across-the-board cut. After all, when those millages were passed, they weren't applied only to homeowners. Business should get the same cut as everyone else, they argue, and it would encourage new investment, the creator of jobs.

Democrats want to give the biggest property tax cuts to smaller homes. In Democratic daemology, business never deserves a tax cut. Indeed, Democrats would close a number of "loopholes" and charge business higher taxes.

THAT IS A formula for stalemate. And a stalemate is what we've had in Michigan since the late 1960s.

Everyone agrees "something" should be done, but no one can put together 56 House votes, 20 Senate votes and a gubernatorial signature to do anything.

Indeed, from a politician's point of view, there is a lot to be said for a stalemate. A local property tax cut would eat up $1 billion-plus from the state budget.

Meanwhile, if you read the meatier stories on the inside of the paper, you know that U.S. District Judge Richard Enslin has a $60 million list of prison improvements for the Legislature to fund. Enslin doesn't give a burp in a windstorm for Dick Headlee's property tax cut plan. The judge is fining the state $10,000 a day until progress, as defined by Richard Enslin, is made.

And then we hear the groans of the arts lobby. A tax cut to you means "cultural wasteland" to them.

And then there's the social services lobby: not only the poor and handicapped but the contractors, social workers and counselors: They don't want a tax cut — no way!

If you're thinking of selling your house because you no longer can afford the property taxes, there is a ray of hope. A long-shot bet in the Kentucky Derby might help you pay your taxes.

His trials of traffic court leave a web of confusion

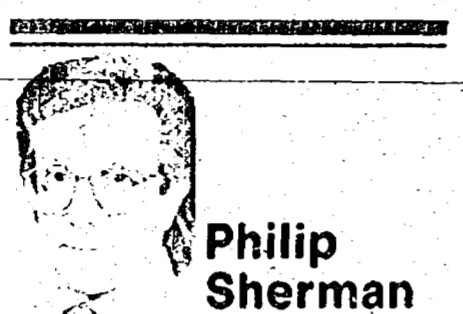

I get a ticket three months ago for disobeying a stop sign on the corner of my block. The officer says I ran it. I say not so. I call 35th District Court and announce my intention to appear for an informal hearing.

I take an afternoon off in February to go to the informal hearing. I'm first up on the caseload. The magistrate swears me in and politely tells me I'm charged with disobeying a stop sign, a $60 fine. I politely say I didn't do it. He asks me about the intersection. I approach the bench.

The magistrate produces a piece of paper and I draw the intersection. He asks me about the immediate neighborhood. I answer his questions. He asks if I went this way. I draw and say I went that way. He says I've raised questions only the ticketing officer can answer.

THE TICKETING OFFICER is not at the hearing. So the magistrate stamps my ticket and says we have to get the officer in to ask questions of him. I say fine. He says a new hearing will be set.

A few days later in the mall, I am advised of the new hearing date. It conflicts with a business appointment, so I call the court and ask to reschedule. I am told that once a date is scheduled it cannot be rescheduled. So I write the magistrate a letter, explaining that I would appear if I could, but I can't, so here's your check for $60 and a written explanation of what happened, according to me. I also include photographs of the intersection to support my side of the story.

In the letter, I wrote that I felt I'd had an opportunity to explain my side, that I didn't feel deprived of justice and that's that. A few days later, I get an envelope from the court. Inside is a letter saying the magistrate read my letter and has agreed to reschedule the hearing. Staped to the letter is my uncashed check.

So I take another day off work and go to court earlier this week for the new hearing. I'm told to sign in to see the prosecutor. Prosecutor? For being accused of running a stop sign? I'm asked if my attorney is present. Attorney? Where?

I sign in and sit down on the bench in the hall. The prosecutor calls my name about 20 minutes later. I go into his office, just off the hall, about as big as a walk-in closet. He's in this office with me, a small table, three chairs, two other lawyers discussing another case, and two police officers who are standing around. Neither officer is the one in question for my case.

The prosecutor introduces himself as the prosecutor and says we can go to trial or he'll plea bargain this down to taking it under advisement, which he explains is a legal maneuver that means this ticket will never go on my record if I don't get any other tickets during the next six months.

I say that wasn't my understanding of what was supposed to happen here today. I say I thought we were going to have another informal hearing to talk to the officer. The prosecutor asks another officer to see if the ticketing officer is present. He isn't.

THE PROSECUTOR SAYS he can get the missing officer here with one phone call. I say I thought he was supposed to be here already, that that was the purpose of all of this. The prosecutor says a lot of people are waiting to see him and that I should make up my mind. He says the choices are to accept the plea or go to trial.

I take the prosecutor's deal. He fills out a piece of paper. I sign it. I'm told to go sit in the courtroom. He says I'll have to pay file costs to keep the file open while the case is under advisement. He will not speculate on how much those costs may be.

I sit down in the courtroom and listen to the judge roll through a couple drunk driving cases. Another case involves an attempt to possess a deadly weapon. The judge listens to everyone and seems even-handed. Then the court clerk calls my name. He says I'm all done. The judge has apparently signed off on my file. I'm told to walk to the end of the hall to the last counter. I leave the courtroom and follow the clerk's instructions, which means walking down to the cashier's window.

The clerk hands my file to a woman behind the counter. She advises me that the file costs are $60. The ticket would have cost me $60 in the first place.

I reach in my breast pocket and turn over my original check, written last month, to the cashier, who removes the staple that was holding it to the letter. She feeds the check into a machine and then hands me a receipt and says I can go.

I go. And so ends my day in court.

FAA to hold airport noise hearing

Area residents will receive another opportunity to hear about and comment on noise abatement plans for Detroit Metro Airport during a public meeting 4-9 p.m. Thursday in the Radisson Hotel, 8000 Merriman, Romulus.

The Federal Aviation Administration hearing will be held in cycles, said Wayne County "noise czar" Bryan Amann.

"People will hear the entire program no matter what time they come in," he said.

The meeting concerns a proposed noise abatement test promoted by the county and FAA. Jet take off patterns are expected to be spread out over a wider number of communities during the test, reducing noise over Westland, Garden City and Livonia. The new flight patterns could become permanent if judged successful by the county and FAA.

Information on the test patterns, contained in a document entitled, "Draft Environmental Assessment For A Proposed Test of Air Traffic Control Noise Abatement Procedures at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport," is available at area public libraries. It is also available by calling Amann's office, 224-0832. Information on a second tier of noise abatement procedures is available by calling the office of county Commissioner Susan Hubbard, 224-0934. Building on the information contained in the FAA report, the report includes 37 noise reduction options under consideration by the county's special committee on airport noise. Hubbard, D-Dearborn, is committee chairwoman.

Recommendations range from limiting ground noise to implementing curfews on nighttime flights.

Committee members plan to choose the most realistic options, Hubbard said, and will hold a public hearing on airport noise in June.

Fairlane Hudson's workers join UAW

Workers at Dayton-Hudson's Fairlane Town Center store have voted to join the UAW.

The vote was approved 246 to 232. Of 521 eligible employees, 478 voted. Because of last Friday's vote, 562 salespeople at the Dearborn store will join the union which has already organized workers at the Westland Hudson's store.

The union has won two of three membership elections held in the last year. Workers at the Westland store voted to join the union last May. In October, employees at the Summit Place store in Pontiac rejected the union.

In a prepared statement, Dayton-Hudson president Dennis Toffolo said, "We, of course, wish the outcome of today's vote had been different. However, we respect the process, and will wait for certification before responding further."

Mary Grab, president of Local 35, representing the Hudson employees said, "We're ecstatic, but this is what we expected. We overcame tremendous odds. It's a beautiful win."

Organizing efforts are under way at Hudson's stores at the Oakland and Eastland malls, as well as Flint, according to Bob King, director of UAW Region 1A, the union's top gun in Hudson's organizing efforts.

A National Labor Relations Board hearing officer has recommended setting aside election results at the Summit Place store in Waterford — opening the way for a second union vote.

"There, workers rejected the UAW amid charges the company granted raises to select employees and announced new benefits and other perks to dissuade workers from voting for the union.

An NLRB ruling on the hearing officer's recommendation is pending.

Hudson's Westland UAW employees are waging a high profile campaign in hopes of forcing that retail chain's management to the bargaining table.

Last May, the sales staff at the Westland Center outlet voted for UAW representation. Nine months later, there is no contract. Issues are tied up before the NLRB.

While UAW members believe the company is stalling, Hudson's officials say they need time to clarify what they believe was false information given by the union to the NLRB in January.

Compensation varies for Hudson's sales employees. Some receive a commission, others do not. Still others receive Performance Plus, a bonus system for some sales personnel based on sales goals.

Hearing set on baseball safety

A state Senate committee will hold a public hearing this week on Sen. William Faust's resolution asking better safety standards for youth baseball leagues in the wake of several deaths.

The Senate Health Policy Committee meeting begins at 3 p.m. Tuesday in room 402 of the State Capitol, Lansing. Among members is Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion.

Faust, D-Westland, said Dawn and James Hunt of his district asked him to promote public awareness after their nephew, Ryan Wojcik, 10, died in Florida from a pitched ball that hit him in the chest.

"A 1986 Consumer Product Safety Commission report shows at least 23 other children have died like Ryan since 1973," Faust said. "There are pieces of equipment available to safeguard youngsters from these injuries and deaths."

His Senate Resolution 54 urges organizations sponsoring youth baseball to develop guidelines to encourage greater safety measures by using existing products.

Coconut: memories are sweet

Waltzing through the grocery store last week, I stumbled (literally) over a runaway coconut. I probably never would have even noticed it had it not been a 72-degree day and I was wearing shorts and sandals, trying my darndest to rush spring. People have a tendency to notice large rock-like objects, especially white wearing sandals.

Something tells me that a higher power placed that coconut right where I would smash my baby toe against its hard shell. As I bent over in pain with instantaneous thoughts of personal-injury lawyers rushing through my mind, my first response would have been to pick the coconut up and chuck it into an egg-filled dairy case. But as fate had it, as I went to clutch it in my fist, I realized it fit like an old baseball glove.

My hands traversed the pod, noticing immediately the wiry skin. It was a cross between an oval and globe shape. The coconut was colored a morel-mushroom mahogany. There was nothing olfactory about it.

Picking up this sole coconut did queue another feeling, however. The last time I enjoyed a coconut, I was in school. I remember Mom bringing one home hidden in the bottom of a grocery bag. It was all we could do to wait for Dad to bring out an old board, a hammer and a nail. We sat in awe as this big hulk of a Dad gently pounded the fat nail into a coconut eye. We could hardly wait for the nail to be removed. The coconut hoisted to our lips, we couldn't understand why we could hear the milk inside but not taste its sweetness.

"PATIENCE" was the only word Dad uttered. Again grabbing the coconut and placing it carefully on the board, another nail was inserted, making yet another air passage. The second hole made for a spigot that would magically shut off the milk simply by covering with a finger.

Thank goodness it was just my twin sister and me. It was hard enough fighting among two, let alone a gaggle of friends.

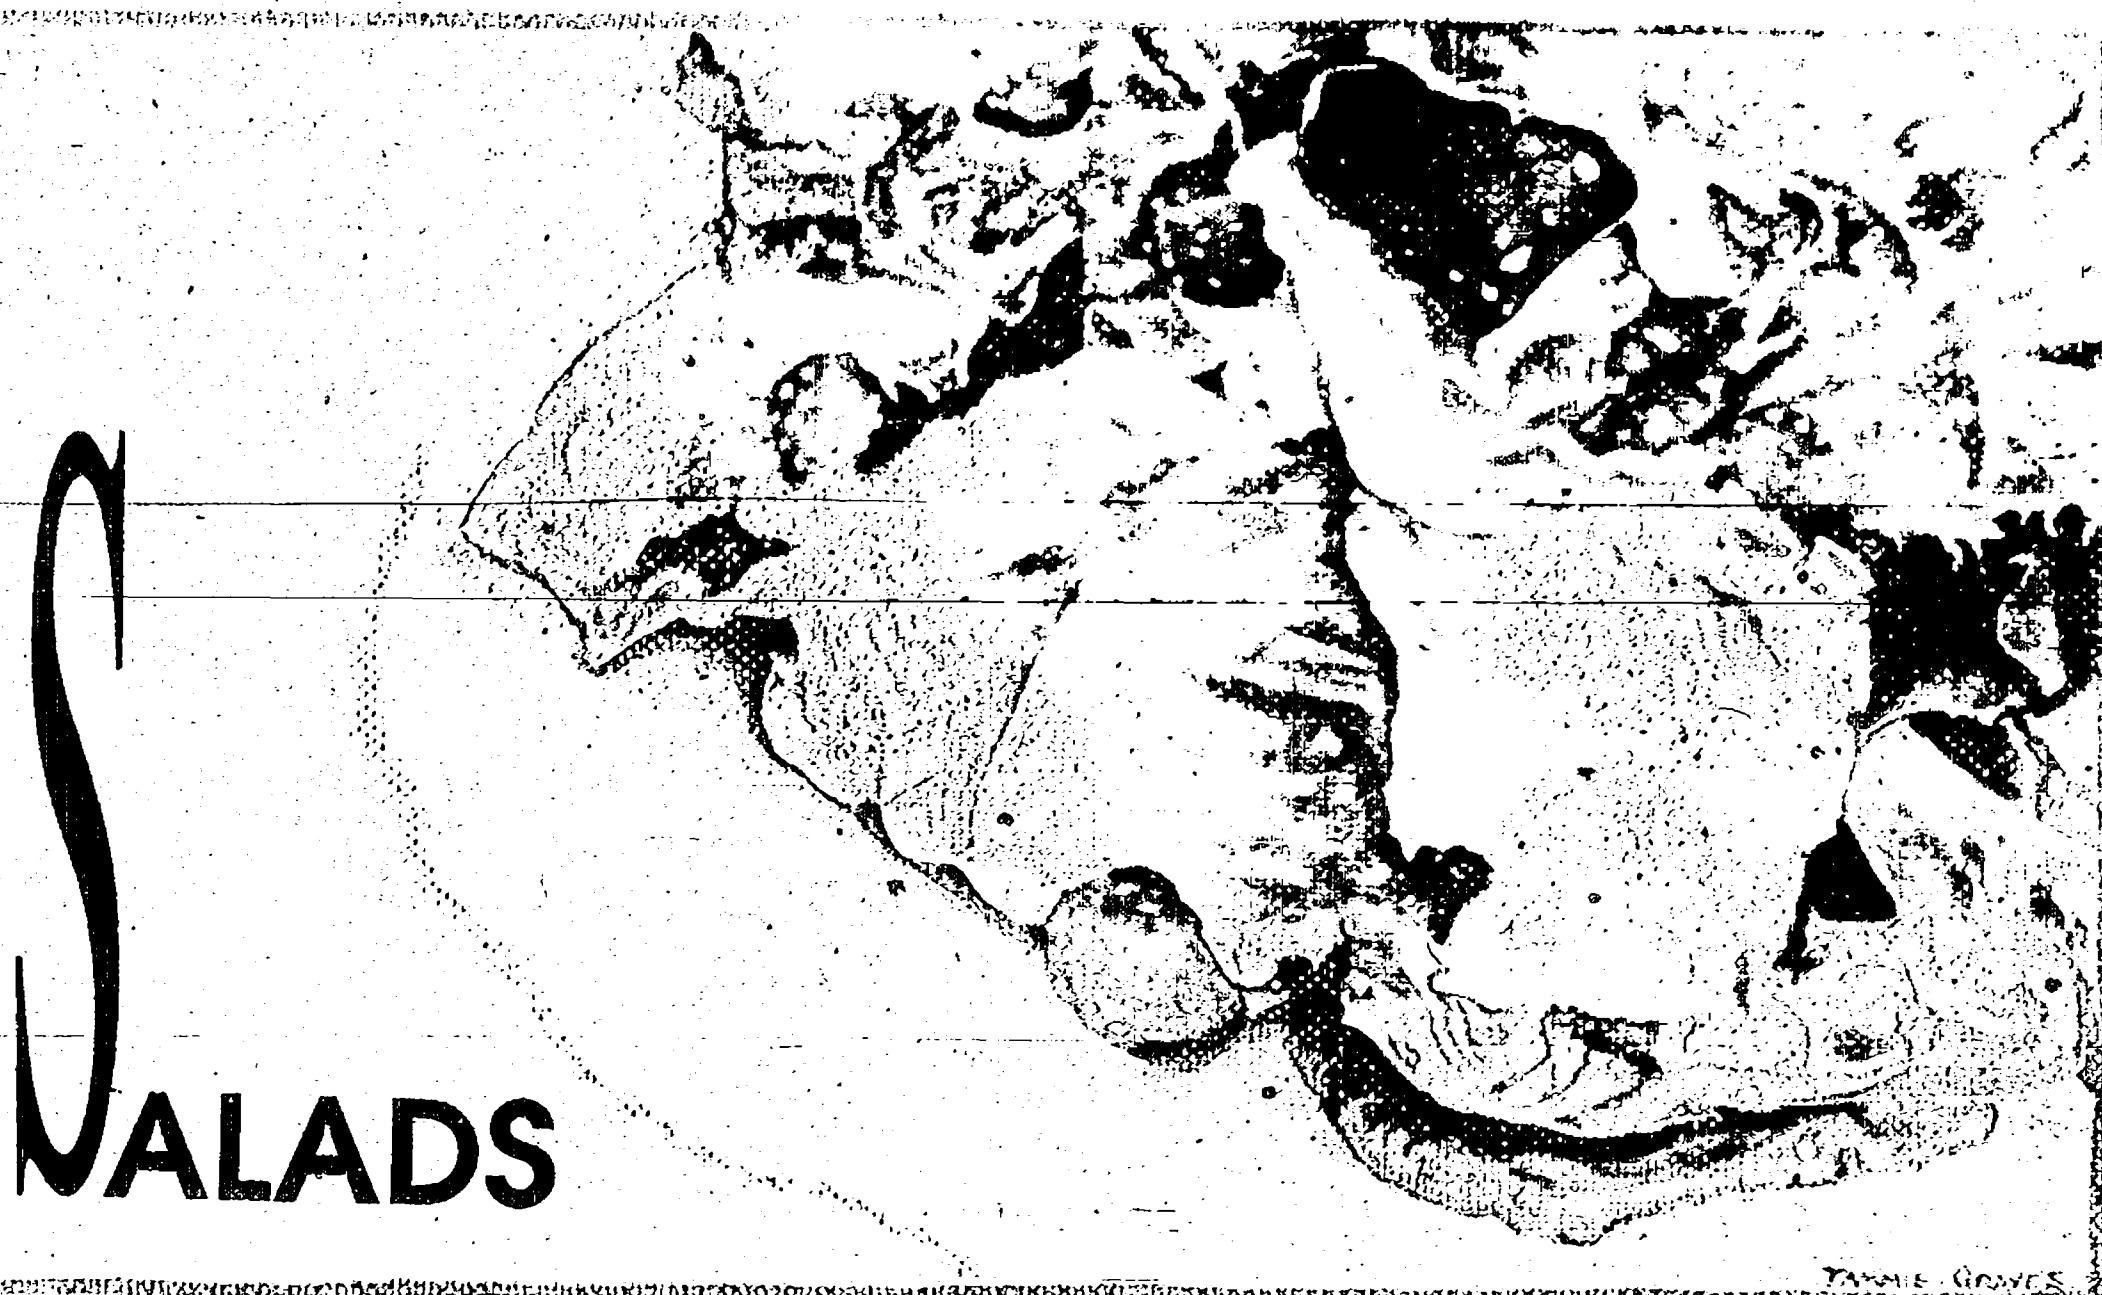

After the coconut was drained of every drop of sweet liquid, I remember Mom getting down on all fours to light the gas oven. As kids, we could never understand why a coconut had to be baked at 375 degrees for 10 minutes before eating. Supposedly, this makes the coconut easier to crack and remove from the shell. This we were never taught in culinary arts school.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent measuring chunks of fresh coconut, interrupted occasionally by asking Mamma to give us a little more of what she had set aside to make Dad's favorite coconut cream pie with.

When was the last time you enjoyed a coconut? You don't need kids to taste this fruit. If you are any kind of a baker, fresh coconut milk in place of milk or water imparts excellent flavor and texture into a cake, pastry or pie crust. Fresh grated coconut makes an intriguing batter for shrimp and chicken. Toasted coconut on cookies and cakes adds eye appeal. You can freeze it in chunks or grate, for later use in recipes.

Or you can do what I'm going to do with mine right after this story is finished: Make my 74-years-young dad a coconut cream pie.

Be daring with salads, homemade dressings

By Phyllis Kröger Stillman
special writer

WITH HEALTH a major concern for so many these days, salads have become an everyday item in most people's diets. Rich in vitamins, minerals and fiber, salads are a low-fat, low-calorie health bonanza (unless, of course, they're drowned in high-fat, high-calorie dressings).

If you're not careful, though, you can get in a rut, serving the same salad day after day. After a while, even diehard salad lovers can become bored. Fortunately, with some imagination and a little experimentation, the daily salad (or two) can become a treat to look forward to.

The first thing to consider is your choice of greens — there should be more to salad than iceberg lettuce. Some other good choices: red or green leaf lettuce, spinach leaves, romaine or Boston bibb lettuce.

You also can bring a tired salad back to life with the addition of new and different ingredients. Along with the usual salad vegetables like carrots, tomatoes, cucumber and celery, try tossing in a few of these extras:

- Sliced pickled beets
- Slices of apple
- Sliced olives (green or ripe)
- Grated mozzarella
- Sliced fresh zucchini
- A handful of raisins

- Cubes of cheddar or swiss cheese
- Alfalfa sprouts
- Frozen peas, thawed and drained
- Nuts (pine nuts, walnuts, pecans, toasted almonds)
- Crumbled bacon
- Slices of pickled hot peppers
- Crumbled blue cheese
- Sliced fresh zucchini
- Sunflower seeds

By varying just a few ingredients, you can have a completely different salad. If you take salad greens and add crumbled feta cheese, sliced beets, red onion, pickled hot peppers, Greek olives and a Greek oil and vinegar dressing, you have a Greek Salad. Take away the feta cheese and beets and add grated mozzarella, sliced pepperoni and croutons with Italian dressing, and you have an Italian antipasto salad.

Fruit salads can be substituted for the usual vegetable salad. One great, simple salad is sectioned oranges and grapefruit with their juice, with maraschino cherries and sliced banana added just before serving. There's also the classic waldorf salad — apples, celery and walnuts in a whipped cream/mayonnaise dressing — which can be varied by adding ingredients such as green or red seedless grapes, raisins, or even cubed chicken for a heartier, main dish salad.

One of the best things you can do for any salad, though, is to make your own dressing. A lot of bottled dressings taste good, but if you look at what's in them, you will find a long list of hard-to-pronounce ingredients.

Calories and fat also can be a problem with bottled dressings. Although there are a wide variety of low-calorie and low-fat dressings you can buy, some don't taste very good, and most contain the same types of ingredients as the regular dressings.

HOMEMADE SALAD dressings are very easy to make, using ingredients you already have on hand. Fresh, homemade dressings don't require preservatives. You can control what goes into them and adapt recipes to fit your needs (eliminate or reduce salt or MSG, adjust spice and herb levels, use reduced-calorie or cholesterol-free mayonnaise and use the salad oil of your choice).

You can make just the amount you want so the dressing will stay fresh. If you don't use a lot of salad dressing, you can cut the recipe to make a smaller quantity. Best of all, of course, is the taste. Bottled dressings, however good, just can't compare with the fresh taste of a homemade dressing.

Variety is, we're told, the spice of life. Variety in the salads and salad dressings you serve will indeed spice up your life and keep you eating healthy instead of reverting back to the bad habits of yesterday.

Olive Garden is unique 'chain' restaurant

Photograph by Jim Jagdfeld

If the Olive Garden restaurant keeps on the way it's headed, it will give chain restaurants a good reputation. With its fresh-from-the-oven breadsticks and homemade pasta, the restaurant provides good Italian meals that compete favorably with those at many of the privately owned restaurants around.

The image of the "chain" doesn't fit here, in part because the parent corporation, General Mills, moves in where other restaurants have moved out. As a result, there's no set cookie-cutter image for the Olive Garden as you will find with places like the Red Lobster, Bob Evans and Big Boy.

Such is the case in Livonia where the Olive Garden moved into a lovely octagonal building (two-and-a-half years ago that once housed a high-priced seafood restaurant). The panorama of glass windows are perfect for the Olive Garden's abundance of plants and friendly atmosphere. The prime location has to be one of the factors giving rise to the restaurant's popularity.

Another factor — oddly — is the breadsticks. Most people we queried mentioned the warm, fresh breadsticks salted with garlic as a prime attraction at this restaurant. It's not that they downplayed the entrees, it was just the thought of the breadsticks was enough to make them point their cars in that direction.

THE BREADSTICKS, we agree, are excellent. And it doesn't hurt that you can have an unlimited supply of them as well as the soup and dinner salad. Who needs a meal after that? Served family style, the "house" salad includes purple onions, tomatoes, black olives, croutons and peppers tossed in the restaurant's vinaigrette dressing. It's a respectable salad that is doused a little heavily with dressing.

Pastas are the restaurant's forte. The crab alfredo ($10.95) is quite good, with a delicious cream sauce that isn't too heavy coating the fettuccini and a generous helping of snow crab. The restaurant serves a respectable tomato sauce with its spaghetti, ravioli and mostaccioli entrees. And its tortelloni stuffed with cheese and herbs is very good. All these entrees are priced $5.95 to $9.50 including the salad and breadsticks.

Both chicken and veal dishes are popular here, with the chicken marsala a favorite. We found the chicken to be moist, tender and generally well prepared. Choices include veal or chicken parmigiana, veal piccata and Venetian grilled chicken which is served with a marinara sauce. With these entrees came a choice of spaghetti or fresh vegetable. In this case a steamed broccoli that was done just right.

The combination platters give diners a chance to sample a couple entrees at a reasonable price ($10.75-$11.75). Among the interesting combinations are a Mediterranean entree with cannelloni, tortelloni and cheese ravioli with meat sauce or the "Southern Italian" selection with veal parmigiana, lasagna and baked manicotti.

Be daring with salads, dressings

See related story, Page 1B.

We will give you a few recipes to get you started. Then you can let your imagination take over to create your own personal favorites.

For this salad, use softer greens like red or green leaf lettuce or romaine.

MIXED GREENS SALAD WITH RASPBERRY VINAIGRETTE

Mixed greens
Pine nuts
Crumbed Blue Cheese
Thinly sliced red onion

On individual serving plates, arrange greens, nuts, blue cheese and onion. Drizzle with raspberry vinaigrette.

Raspberry Vinaigrette

1 cup fresh or frozen raspberries, thawed (blueberries can be substituted)
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
4 teaspoons sugar
1/2 salad oil

In blender combine raspberries, vinegar and sugar; puree until smooth. Put through fine sieve to remove seeds. Pour into small jar; add oil and shake well.

An oriental-type salad.

SPINACH SALAD WITH HOT SOY DRESSING

1/2 package fresh spinach, washed, well drained and torn into bite-sized pieces
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, washed, dried and sliced
Thinly sliced red onion
Toasted sesame seeds, optional

Arrange spinach in a large bowl; sprinkle with mushrooms and onion. Just before serving, pour on hot dressing and toss to combine and slightly wilt spinach.

Hot Soy Dressing

1/4 cup reduced sodium soy sauce
2 tablespoons white vinegar

2 tablespoons sugar

Heat in saucepan or microwave; stir until sugar dissolves.

This is a nice change-of-pace salad that combines greens and fruit.

MANDARIN SALAD

1 bunch romaine lettuce
2 green onions, sliced
1 can mandarin oranges, drained
1/4 cup sliced almonds, toasted

Arrange romaine in a large bowl or on individual salad plates. Sprinkle with onions, and mandarin oranges. Pour on as much of the sweet and sour dressing as you like; garnish with toasted almonds.

Sweet and Sour Dressing

Everybody needs a good coleslaw recipe. This one goes great with pork chops or barbecued chicken.

COLESLAW WITH CREAMY DRESSING

Add to shredded red or green cabbage (or better yet, a combination of both) any of the following ingredients, in whatever quantity suits your taste: chopped green pepper, chopped or grated carrot, chopped or grated apple, chopped onion, chopped radish. Combine with enough Creamy Dressing to moisten. Cover and chill at least 1 hour before serving. This salad will keep 4 or 5 days.

Creamy Dressing
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup sugar

COCONUT CREAM PIE

One 9-inch pre-baked pie shell
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk (1 cup coconut milk can be substituted)
4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup flaked or grated coconut
1 cup sweetened whipped cream

Set pie shell aside. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Drizzle small amounts of hot mixture into egg yolks. When temperature is raised, add all hot liquid, return to stovetop, bring to a boil and stir for 1 more minute; remove from heat. Stir in butter or margarine, vanilla and 3/4 cup coconut. Allow to cool slightly. Pour into prepared pie shell. Press plastic wrap onto filling and refrigerate 2 hours. Remove plastic wrap. Top pie with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with more coconut. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

COCONUT SHRIMPS

1 1/2 cups shredded coconut

Peel shrimps, leaving tails intact. Remove vein. Mix flour, salt, ginger and pepper. Beat egg whites until foamy. Coat shrimps with flour mixture; dip into egg whites. Pat coconut onto shrimps, covering completely. Fry shrimps in hot vegetable oil, turning once, until coconut is golden, about 2 minutes. Drain and serve.

Giant cinnamon rolls are tops for taste

AP — Some things in life are best when they're homemade — and extra-big. Cinnamon rolls, warm from your oven, top the list.

As the aroma drifts from the kitchen, your family will clamor for a freshly baked sample. Just be sure to save enough for breakfast.

You can freeze these rolls by wrapping them, unfrosted, tightly in freezer wrap or foil. Seal, label and freeze for as long as 3 months. To reheat in a conventional oven, wrap the frozen rolls in foil. Heat in a 350-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until warm.

You can also reheat the frozen rolls, unwrapped, two at a time, in your microwave oven. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 1 to 1 1/2 minutes or until warm. Drizzle with your choice of glaze.

JUMBO CINNAMON ROLLS

4 1/4 to 4 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1 package active dry yeast

1 1/2 cups milk
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup margarine or butter
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
6 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
Maple Nut Glaze or Powdered Sugar Glaze (recipes follow)

In a large mixer bowl, combine 1 1/2 cups of the all-purpose flour and the yeast. Heat milk, sugar, margarine and salt just until mixture is warm (120 degrees to 130 degrees) and the margarine is almost melted, stirring constantly.

Add the milk mixture to the flour mixture; add eggs. Beat with an electric mixer on low speed for 30 seconds, scraping the sides of the bowl constantly. Beat on high speed for 3 minutes. Using a spoon, stir in as much of the remaining flour as you can. (The dough will be soft.)

Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface. Knead in enough of the remaining flour to make a moderately soft dough, about 3 to 5 minutes total. Shape dough into a ball. Place dough in a lightly greased bowl; turn once.

Cover; let rise in a warm place until double, about 1 to 1 1/2 hours. The dough is ready for shaping when you can lightly and quickly press two fingers 1/2 inch into dough and indentation remains.

Punch dough down. On a lightly floured surface divide dough in half; shape each half into a smooth ball. Cover; let rest for 10 minutes. On a lightly floured surface, roll half of the dough to a 12-by-8-inch rectangle. Spread with 3 tablespoons of the softened margarine. Combine brown sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle half over the rectangle. Roll up from a short side; seal edges. Make a second roll with remaining dough, margarine and sugar mixture.

Slice each dough roll into 8 pieces. Arrange slices, cut side down, on a greased 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking pan. Cover; let rise until nearly double, about 30 minutes.

Bake rolls in a 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until light brown. Invert immediately onto a wire rack. Cool slightly. Drizzle rolls with Maple Nut Glaze or Powdered Sugar Glaze. Serve warm. Makes 16 rolls.

Maple Nut Glaze: In small bowl, combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons maple syrup or 1/2 teaspoon maple extract, and enough water or milk (2 to 3 teaspoons) for drizzling consistency.

Powdered Sugar Glaze: Combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla and enough milk (about 3 to 4 teaspoons) for drizzling consistency.

NEW SENSATION

Klondike, one of the top-selling ice cream bars in the Detroit area, has introduced two new super premium ice cream bars, called Klondike Sensation. The new product, for consumers who are concerned about their intake of cholesterol, is 75 to 80 percent lower in cholesterol content, compared to other super-premium ice cream bars, such as Dove and Haagen Daz.

Klondike Sensation is available in two varieties: vanilla ice cream with a thick coating made with milk chocolate, as well as vanilla ice cream with a coating of milk chocolate and roasted almonds.

The new 2.2-ounce ice cream bar is shaped like a plump candy bar and contains less than five mg of cholesterol, compared to 20-45 mg for 2.2 ounces in the other super-premium ice cream bars. It comes six bars to a package.

Klondike also makes regular ice cream bars and light ice cream bars, as well as ice cream sandwiches. In a recent Nielsen survey (March 28), Klondike's light vanilla bars were ranked No. 1 in the Detroit area and Klondike's vanilla bars were ranked No. 2.

Get out the grill soon for a Sunday supper

Ah, spring. Gentle breezes, the smell of freshly cut grass and the gradual unfolding of leaves all signify the renewal and regeneration that occurs each year at this time. Or does it? After all, this is Michigan and we all remember years when snow has fallen furiously up until May.

I can do is cross my fingers and hope that snow and wintry weather will be over for at least another eight or nine months.

As we shift our seasonal gears, there is much work to be done. Yards, gardens, garages and, of course, closets demand our attention and efforts. This week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Dr. Patricia Drake of Livonia, was selected with the thought in mind that here, indeed, is a meal that would be a delicious Sunday supper, easy to put together and a perfect way to inaugurate the outside grill after a tiring but productive day of cleaning and organizing.

The dinner features a cold pasta salad topped with herb-brushed grilled chicken breasts, toasted garlic bread, orange slices for dessert and iced tea to drink.

Drake is the busy wife and mother of a young son, and she knows all about preparing nutritious meals quickly. She has worked as a school psychologist for the Warren Consolidated Schools since 1978. Because Drake grew up and attended the schools in this district, some of the teachers she works with are the ones who taught her.

Within the scope of her job she does a lot of diagnostic testing and evaluation of students and works with the teachers and students' parents in helping to plan services, programs and interventions as needed.

At home, Drake is kept busy with her young son and the family pets. She and her veterinarian husband have a dog, cat, two parakeets and a hamster. Drake is president-elect of the Macomb-St. Clair Psychological Association, an organization that helps design professional programs and provides a network for area school psychologists. She also is a member of the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation, and because her husband has Crohn's Disease she is very aware of diet and nutrition.

Recipes

SPRING CHICKEN PASTA SALAD

This recipe is a variation of a meal the Drakes had last summer at the Mission Pointe Resort Grill on Mackinac Island. Quick and easy to make, it tastes best when the pasta salad is made in advance, as the flavors of the vegetables and dressing have more time to absorb into the pasta. This recipe serves 4.

- 4 deboned chicken breasts
  - 12 ounces of your favorite shape of pasta
  - 1 bottle light Italian salad dressing, 16-ounce size
  - 3-4 carrots, diced
  - 1 green pepper, diced
  - 2 cups fresh or defrosted frozen peas
  - 1 cup fresh or defrosted broccoli flowerettes
- Anything else you would like to add, such as chick peas, black olives, cherry tomatoes or cheese chunks
- 1/2 cup olive oil
  - 1/2 cup lemon juice
  - 1/2 teaspoon tarragon

other ingredients you would like to add. Pour 1 cup of the salad dressing over the salad and add more as needed for the size of the salad. Refrigerate and allow enough time for the flavors to mix. Serve the cold pasta salad with the hot chicken breasts. Season to taste and garnish with Parmesan or Romano cheese.

GARLIC TOAST

Melt a half stick of butter or margarine in a small pan over a low flame. Watch the butter carefully so that it doesn't turn brown. Mince or use a garlic press to mash 3-4 fresh cloves of garlic. Stir them into the butter or margarine and heat on low for a minute or two, again watching carefully so that the butter doesn't brown.

Slice a loaf of French or Italian bread. Brush the butter mixture onto the slices of bread and place them on a cookie sheet. Sprinkle with a little Parmesan cheese. Place in the broiler until the cheese bubbles and the bread is lightly browned.

ORANGE WEDGES

Dessert doesn't get any easier than this. Simply cut up some oranges into wedges and place them in a pretty bowl. What a colorful and refreshing end to a tasty meal.

Dessert pairs chocolate terrine with spring fruits

AP - Capture the season's best fruit in a fabulous fresh-tasting dessert, perfect for entertaining because you can make it the day before. A duo of spring favorites — tangy rhubarb and juicy strawberries — serve as the splashy backdrop to a two-tone chocolate and orange chiffon. Dress up each serving with fresh fruits, mint and chocolate curls.

Fresh mint (optional)
Chocolate curls (optional)

In a 1 1/2-quart saucepan combine unflavored gelatin and the 3/4 cup sugar; stir in the 3/4 cup water. Stir in egg yolks. Cook and stir over medium heat until gelatin is dissolved and mixture comes to a gentle boil; cook and stir for 2 minutes more. Cover surface with clear plastic wrap. Cool to room temperature, about 1 hour.

In a large mixer bowl beat egg whites with an electric mixer on high speed until stiff peaks form (tips stand straight); fold in the cooled gelatin mixture. Beat the whipping cream just until soft peaks form; fold into gelatin mixture. Divide into two equal portions, about 2 cups each.

Into one portion, gently fold melted chocolate; cover and keep at room temperature. Into remaining portion, gently fold orange liqueur; pour into an 8-by-4-by-2-inch loaf pan, spreading evenly in pan. Cover and chill liqueur layer until partially set, about 20 to 30 minutes.

Carefully spoon the chocolate portion onto the liqueur layer when it is almost set but still slightly sticky to the touch. Cover and chill the terrine about 6 hours, or until firm.

For sauce, in a medium saucepan combine rhubarb, 1 cup strawberries and 1/4 cup water. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 5 to 8 minutes or until tender. Drain, reserving liquid. Discard pulp.

Add enough water to liquid to equal 1 1/4 cups; return to saucepan.

Stir together the 1/2 cup sugar and cornstarch. Stir into liquid in pan. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir for 2 minutes more. Cool. Cover and chill.

To serve, unmold the terrine onto a serving platter. Slice to serve. If desired, decorate with orange sections, additional strawberries, mint and chocolate curls. Serve with sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Developing a special pinot noir in Oregon

"Burgundy is a classical wine region with limited land and strong traditions," contends Robert Drouhin, president of the renowned Burgundy house Maison Joseph Drouhin. "In Burgundy, we produce archetypical wines which must remain true to their predetermined type."

However, in Oregon, Drouhin is free to accept the technical difficulties of growing pinot noir, the wine world's most challenging grape.

Drouhin recently introduced the 1988 Domaine Drouhin Oregon Pinot Noir produced by his daughter, winemaker Veronique. About 1,500 cases are available nationally.

"Our goal is to make a wine as elegant as our Burgundies," Drouhin maintains. "But it must also demonstrate the special traits of an Oregon wine just as Clos des Mouches is recognizable as a Premier Cru from the Cote de Beaune."

In 1961, when Drouhin visited Oregon for the first time, he discovered the potential of growing pinot noir under different conditions from its original Burgundy home. The initial appeal was heightened in 1979, when Drouhin tasted the 1975 Eyrie Vineyard Pinot Noir Reserve. Later that year, the prestigious French magazine Gault et Millau conducted a tasting in which the same wine was more highly ranked than one of Drouhin's Burgundies.

Drouhin's 1959 Chambolle-Musigny won a rematch in 1980, but Ore-focus on wine

Eleanor and Ray Heald

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1988 Domaine Drouhin Oregon Pinot Noir ($34) is a melange of classic pinot noir aromas and flavors showcasing cherry-like fruit. The wine is handsomely balanced and complex. It tastes delicious now and will age gracefully for several years.

You may think that this wine is pricey. Actually, it's in line with the very best from California and Oregon, and if you compare it with the generously fruited 1988 Joseph Drouhin-Chambolle-Musigny at $48, you will be impressed with this new bottling from Oregon.

gon's Eyrie Vineyard placed a distinguished second.

In 1988, when Veronique, armed with an oenology degree from the University of Dijon, sought a wine apprenticeship, her father suggested Oregon wineries. Veronique worked at Adelsheim, Bethel Heights Winery and Eyrie Vineyards as her family actively searched for a perfect parcel of land for its Northwest United States venture.

In 1987, a hilltop property, 30 miles southwest of Portland in Dundee, Ore., was studied. The site approximates the same 45-degree latitude and 500- to 800-foot elevation as Maison Joseph Drouhin in Beaune. Even the annual rainfall mirrors that of Burgundy.

However, the local, decomposed red volcanic basalt soil is dissimilar to Burgundian soils. Since it was Drouhin's intent to make a pinot noir different from the red Burgundies he produces in France, and since his Oregon pinot noir tasting experiences convinced him of the quality potential of this wine, he exercised his option to buy a 100-acre property, which has since been expanded to 180 acres.

CURRENTLY, 27 ACRES are planted. Additional plots will be put under vines on an annual basis. Consequently, the first three vintages (1988 through 1990) of Domaine Drouhin Oregon wines were made from purchased grapes selected from local growers.

Beginning with the 1991 vintage, wines will be produced from estate vineyards and will be bottled with this designation.

While the winery was under construction, vinification of the 1988 vintage took place at Veritas Winery in Portland, where Drouhin shipped his own equipment, including horizontal and vertical fermenters. He also exported a wide variety of barrels, some new, some one year old, made from a variety of oaks from France's renowned central forests.

It is the deliberate intention to avoid oak character from any specific wood but to use the barrel aging period as an opportunity to add delicate nuances to the pinot noir fruit. "Common sense and great care must accompany winemaking," Drouhin states. "The ultimate respect must be given to the soil and the vines."

SHOULDER INJECTION

There is more to injecting the shoulder than placing the needle where the shoulder hurts.

Injecting where it pains may not be best. The shoulder consists of a number of muscles which overlap each other thus allowing fine control of arm motion. This arrangement also permits an inflamed muscle to rest and lets a nearby muscle take over.

This substitution works well when the deltoid acts for the supraspinatus muscle. However, if the inflamed supraspinatus does not heal quickly then the deltoid wears.

The result is that you may hurt down the arm, where the deltoid anchors, when the cause of the problem is in the supraspinatus muscle, which inserts on the shoulder. Placing an injection into the sore deltoid won't help restore the injured supraspinatus.

Second, injection into the shoulder takes more skill than would seem the case. Separate muscles are close together, and a small error in judgment may result in a misplaced injection. Also, the shoulder is deceptively deep in the body; injection often requires a long needle and accurate placement to reach the joint.

Physicians are trained in the subtleties of the procedure, but patients frequently are surprised how the action differs from what they envisioned.

Madonna names new women's cage coach

By C.J. Riazak
staff writer

Bill Potter knows the problems that have plagued Madonna University in its attempt to establish a women's basketball program. And yet, he insists: "The situation is what you make of it."

Potter plans to make the most of his. Last week, he was named the new women's basketball coach as the school — once again — seeks to make a go of it in the world of college athletics.

"I don't see it as a bad situation," said the 29-year-old Potter. "It's like at Oakland CC. We built that program from nothing to a five-time conference winner."

Since 1981, Potter has served as an assistant to OCC women's coach Larry Hojna. The Lady Raiders have won or shared the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference championship in each of the past five years.

IN ADDITION, Potter was the varsity coach at Walled Lake Western HS for two seasons, 1986-87.

Potter replaces Bob Belf as Madonna's coach. Belf, according to Madonna athletic director Ray Summers, officially resigned last October after the team's schedule was cancelled due to a rash of injuries and academic

"He came with very good credentials," said Summers of Potter. "We looked at him for his recruiting potential. He's very systematic, very organized, and he has a lot of contacts in this area. He knows the Western Lakes (Activities Association), he knows the area high schools and he knows the junior colleges."

Potter's knowledge of the JCs will be put to immediate use. Madonna needs to recruit a team quickly, and it's getting off to a late start — again.

Belf faced a similar problem during his 2½ year tenure, constantly battling a reluctant administration. Belf's recruiting efforts were hurt by his not knowing how much money he had available, and the administration's failure to confirm the amount until well into summer.

THE UNCERTAINTY hurt scheduling, too; Madonna didn't start one season until more than a month after other schools.

Potter said he had been assured things would be different. "That's what I was told by a few of my friends," he said, acknowledging he was aware of Madonna's on-and-off-again status. He added that he and Summers had come to "an agreement (on money available). It's

college sports

all on paper.

"I want to set a new attitude for Madonna basketball. We are going to have a winning program. I have to convince high school athletes that we are going to be around for the next 20 or 30 or 40 years."

Both Potter and Summers are convinced they can put a capable team on the floor for years to come. "It was an administrative decision to either go (with the team) this year or wait a year, like we did with Dave (Racer, and the softball team).

"BUT WE had the (NAIA District 23) schedule intact. I thought it best to go this year."

"Summers" thoughts on the approaching season were reflected in his selection process. "I wanted to hear a commitment from (the prospective coaches)," he said. "But I wanted them to be comfortable with it. And, of course, I wanted someone capable."

Summers figures he got all of the above in Potter. "My question (to the four finalists) was, 'Is it feasible to put together a team between now and October?'" (Potter's answer was the most convincing.)

Potter is also convinced he can make the Lady Crusaders winners immediately. "Our No. 1 goal is to be in the top four in the district, so that we make the playoffs," he said with confidence. "And then we want to make a good showing in the playoffs, something for the following year."

THAT'S A pretty tall order, considering Summers' assessment of possible returnees from the 1989-90 team: "We don't know who would be interested in staying."

There are four who may be back: Jill Burt, who is currently on Madonna's softball team; Lyndell Ingalls, Lori Creetan and Alice Williams. Any others will have to be signed by Potter.

Potter has handicapped his efforts by agreeing with Hojna not to recruit players he recruited this year for OCC. "It's going to be difficult, but I still have some contacts with girls I used to coach," Potter said.

He also must try to fill in the remainder of his schedule. Only district games are confirmed at this point; non-district games must be picked up.

Potter is confident, though. "All I have to do is find some players and we'll be ready to go," he said.

Hopefully, Madonna's program will survive this time.

Spartans hand rival rare loss

When was the last time Livonia Stevenson beat cily rival Churchill in a boys track meet?

You'd have to go all the way back to 1980 when Dave Hall, who went on to play quarterback at the University of Michigan, was an all-purpose standout and Tom Bills was head coach.

The Spartans ended their 11-year drought Thursday in the season opener for both teams, defeating the Chargers, 82-55.

"The kids were pumped up and motivated," Stevenson coach John Gores said. "They saw an opportunity to beat Churchill, and they went after them."

Paul Rockwood, Matt Rowe and Dan Gibbons spearheaded the Stevenson victory.

Rockwood figured in three first-place finishes, winning the pole vault (11 feet) and taking the 200-meter dash (24.2). He also tied Churchill's Randy Calcaterra in the high jump (5-10).

Rowe, meanwhile, swept the 1,600 and 3,200 runs with times of 5:03.34 and 11:20.07, respectively. Gibbons added wins in the shot put (42-8½) and discus (109-0).

Other Stevenson firsts were garnered by Fleming Christenson, long jump, 18-6; Don White, 100 dash, 11.76; Dave Jenvey, 400 dash, 54.59; and Rod Westlake, 800 run, 2:06.39.

boys track

The Spartans captured two of four relays.

White, Tim Marshke, Cliff Michelson and Rob Sholetese teamed up to win the 400 relay in 47.1. The four-some of Jenvey, Frank Eupizi, Jason Mase and Westlake added a first in the 1,600 relay (3:43.23).

Churchill individual firsts were recorded by Nathan Looole, 110 hurdles, 18.03; Darlen Muzo, 300 hurdles, 43.02; and Calcaterra in the high jump (5-10).

In the 800 relay, Churchill's four-some of Phuoc Diep, Jim Blakely, Matt Jeska and Jim Kramer finished first in 1:38.77. In the 3,200 relay, Brian D. Johnson, Brian S. Johnson, Jeff Martus and Tim Prlebe added a first in 8:51.74.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN gained a 79-56 victory Thursday over visiting Livonia Franklin.

The Rockets' Randy Seach, who figured in four firsts, paced the victors, now 2-0 overall.

Churchill struggling; Stevenson, Pats win

The schedule makers thus far have not been kind to the Livonia Churchill girls soccer team.

The state-ranked Chargers, with eight returning seniors, are off to a slow start, tying Troy Athens on Friday, 1-1, after losing their season opener Wednesday at home to Troy High, 3-1.

Host Athens (1-0-1) led for nearly 50 minutes before Churchill's Lori Place scored on a free kick, beating goalie Kristy McGough.

The Red Hawks scored 23 minutes into the match on a goal by Karen Tessmer from Angie Marino.

Athens held a 14-9 edge in shots on goal.

On Wednesday, Troy's Pam Stoffel scored two unanswered goals and Jessica Mrozek added another as the Colts (1-0-1) downed Churchill.

With five minutes left in the match, Place scored from Dana Pososki to ruin Lisa Bennett's shut-out bid.

Playing with the wind in the second half, Churchill couldn't capitalize on its chances.

"We missed two breakaways and their keeper (Bennett) made two great saves," Churchill coach Nick O'Shea said. "The second half we played fairly well."

"But we refused to hit through ball. You can't play the midfield against a 4-5-1 (alignment). We needed to knock the ball long to keep it out of the midfield. You can't play a pretty passing game in the midfield."

soccer

FRANKLIN 8, HARRISON 0: Junior midfielder Patty Shea scored three times and freshman left winger Erin Craig added two goals Friday, leading host Livonia Franklin to a victory over Farmington Harrison.

Carla Strugala, Sue Balone and Lenay Tucker also tallied goals for the Patriots, who held Harrison without a shot on goal.

Franklin scored four goals in each half. "We have our first test of the year (7 tonight) against (at Plymouth) Canton," Franklin coach Joe Galea said.

STEVENSON 8, W.L. CENTRAL 0: Livonia Stevenson, the defending state Class A champions, opened the 1991 season Friday with an 8-0 victory at Walled Lake Central.

Ragen Coyne and Michelle Brach each scored twice for the winners. Lori Godlewski, Sarah Porath, Amy Marcoe and Shannon Wilkinson added solo tallies.

Goalies Karen Groulx and Alicia Smith combined on the shutout. The Spartans' game Wednesday at Dearborn was called off.

Scheffer's bat, arm carry Rockets; Franklin 2-0

Even coach Norm Hoenes has to be a bit surprised at Westland John Glenn's 4-0 baseball start.

Hoenes still may be worried about his pitching staff, but the hitting has been timely and effective.

On Thursday, the Rockets turned back visiting Plymouth Canton, 8-6, behind Lawrence Scheffer's grand slam homer (off Canton ace Scott Kennedy) in the fourth inning.

Gary Pierce's 2-run single in the fifth, scoring Tom Myers and Andy Gagne, put Glenn ahead to stay.

Scheffer, a senior right-hander, also picked up the win in relief of starter John Ward, throwing 4½ scoreless innings.

"We're making a lot of mistakes, our base-running has been sloppy, but our hitting is saving us," Hoenes said. "If we hit like that, we'll cover a lot of our sins... maybe."

Kennedy, who took the loss, allowed five hits, seven walks and struck out 10.

Jason Riggs collected two of Canton's five hits. The Chiefs scored four times in the third on three consecutive walks with the bases loaded and an RBI single by Mike Wougamon.

Earlier in the week, Glenn opened its season by outslugging the host Willow Run Flyers (7-5) and Ypsilanti (8-7 in eight innings) in an invitational tourney.

Scheffer, the winning pitcher in relief, belted a solo homer along with Myers.

Scheffer also homered and doubled to beat Ypsi.

"He (Scheffer) is a Division I outfielder," Hoenes said. "He's our first draftable player since Jim Irwin (former Eastern Michigan University standout)."

On Friday, Glenn slammed visiting Redford Union for its fourth straight win, 9-6, as Pierce contributed three hits and three RBI.

Gagne added two hits and two RBI for the winners.

Aaron Scheffer started, throwing a pair of scoreless innings. Chris Kirkey pitched the final two innings, holding RU off the board to go along with three strikeouts, to earn the victory.

Brian Thels collected two of RU's nine hits.

The Panthers scored five times in the top of the fifth to take a 6-5 lead, but Glenn tallied four in the bottom of the six to win it.

FRANKLIN 8, W.L. CENTRAL 6: Livonia Franklin is off to a 2-0 start under rookie coach Jim Karoub.

On Thursday, the Patriots turned back host Walled Lake Central behind Mike Biga's clutch 2-run single in the top of the seventh inning. (Biga finished with three RBI.)

Dave Roman, Dan West and Jeff Schaffer each collected two hits for the winners.

Winning pitcher Steve McCool struck out four, walked one and allowed four earned runs over 5½ innings. Roman pitched the final 1½ innings to gain the save.

On Wednesday, Franklin opened its season with a 5-0 victory over visiting Dearborn Fordson as senior right-hander Mike Berry (5½ innings) and Roman teamed up on the shutout.

The two combined for six strikeouts and no walks, while scattering five hits.

McCool drove in four of Franklin's five runs, including an RBI double in the first followed by a 3-run double in the sixth. Schaffer added an RBI singled in the second.

CLARENCEVILLE 4, LIGGETT 3: On Wednesday, Ken Bazy threw 4½ innings of scoreless relief and helped his own cause with a solo homer in the fifth to give visiting Livonia Clarenceville the come-from-behind season-opening victory at Grosse Pointe University-Liggett.

Bazy, in relief of starter Andy Petrie, struck out five, walked three and allowed just one hit.

His homer pulled the Trojans to within one, 3-2, before they grabbed the lead for keeps with two in the sixth.

Kendrick Harrington started the surge with a double. He scored when Andy Van Erp reached base safely on an error.

Van Erp stole second and scored on Randy Wallace's game-winning single. (Clarenceville got its other run in the first on a double by Carl Holston and a single by Ryan McEwen.)

Tony Malinowski, Holston and McEwen each had two hits for the winners, now 1-0.

LUTH. WESTLAND 11, LIGGETT 0: Senior Makoto Iwata, an exchange student from Japan, tossed a three-hitter Friday, fanning 11 and walking only one in going the distance, as Lutheran Westland (1-1) turned back Grosse Pointe Liggett (0-3).

Iwata also helped his own cause going 3-for-3 with two RBI (including a double). Paul Seltz went 3-for-4, while Eric Shilbe and Dan Hoelt each added 2-run singles.

The Warriors scored nine times in the bottom of the fifth, collecting eight straight singles after a walk.

The victory was a far cry from the Warriors' season-opening 11-5 loss Thursday to Royal Oak Shine.

"We executed our game today," Lutheran Westland coach Marty Moro said. "Makoto has played in Japan. He looks like a good prospect."

STEVENSON 15, NORTHVILLE 10: Rob Sudz collected three doubles and four RBI Thursday, leading host Livonia Stevenson (1-1) to a win over the Mustangs (0-2).

John Kebablis and Todd Baclie each scored three runs for the victorious Spartans.

Colin Stockton, one of five Stevenson hurlers, gained the win in relief. Craig Brevik started and Kebablis finished up.

"The win built up some confidence," Stevenson coach Richard DeVries said.

Earlier in the week, Stevenson fell to Redford Union, 13-10, despite two hits each from Anthony Ballios and Stockton.

Ballios scored four runs, while Stockton reached base safely five times along with Phil Woods.

REDFORD CC 13-11, BORGESS 0-0: It was no contest Wednesday at Capitol Park as Redford Catholic Central (3-0) swept rival Bishop Borgess in a twinbill.

The opener lasted only five innings as junior right-hander Scott Kapla fanned 11 and allowed only one walk in a 13-0 triumph.

Kapla also went 3-for-3, while teammates Joe Vondracek, Jason Mahoney and Dan Gusoff added two hits apiece.

In the second game, 6-foot-5 Bob Kummer fanned 10, walked three and allowed only one hit as the Shamrocks rolled to an 11-0 triumph (also a mercy rule).

Vondracek knocked in three runs, while Pat Casey and Mahoney contributed two RBI each.

YPSILANTI 10, CHURCHILL 0: On Friday, the visiting Braves took only five innings to mercy Livonia Churchill (0-2).

Junior Chris Dresselief struck out eight, walked three and allowed just four hits.

"The story was their pitcher (Dresselief), he just dominated us," Churchill coach Mike Miller said. "He was the MVP in the upper state meet."

Jason Riggs (right) of Plymouth Canton slides safely back to the first base bag, eluding the pick-off tag of Westland John Glenn's Chris Kirkey during Thursday's encounter. Glenn rallied for an 8-8 triumph.

League championship battles loom

AS THE REGULAR bowling season winds down during the final weeks, teams remain in contention for the top spots, while seeking the limelight.

Some leagues, which play only 30 or 31 weeks, have already ended.

For those that win, the pot can be anything from a handsome trophy to several thousand dollars in position or point money.

This is always an exciting time of year for those teams at or near the top of the standings.

Sometimes a missed spare or strike can be the difference between a win or a loss.

This is the point in the season when the thrill of victory and agony of defeat really applies to some league bowlers.

There are several tournaments and fund raisers going on at this time. The ladies DWBA City Tournament is currently in full swing at Cloverlanes in Livonia. A team from Plymouth Bowl, the National Gunnettes, have moved into third place. Lynn Rowe is the captain of this squad.

These ladies shot games of 757-871-884 and a series of 3260.

How about a 24-game marathon? Can you survive a format of 24 games over the course of 12 hours? The event will take place at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 11. If you have the nerve to try for the $2,000 first prize, call Country Lanes in Farmington at 476-3201. Entries are limited.

Now comes the battle of the cities, a war of bowling lanes between Southfield and Farmington Hills.

It's called BAD. This stands for Bus Drivers against Dystrophy.

The drivers from both communities will face off on April 27 at Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield.

Pledges are needed to raise money for the fight against Muscular Dystrophy. For more information call 353-6540.

Country Lanes will be the sight of the Hall of Fame Tournament final on Saturday, April 20.

The top 40 men and women who have already qualified will compete for prizes, including cash and gifts.

Tina Barber of Westland qualified for the Ladies U.S. Open which will take place later this summer.

Jack Craig recovered from his recent 116 game reported here on April 1. In fact, he shot a 718 series in the Wednesday Junior House League at Drakeshire Lanes.

Classic Lanes in Rochester Hills will be co-hosting a Pro-Am Tournament on Sunday April 28. It will benefit Leader Dogs for the Blind. For more details call 852-9100.

Franklin pitcher Mayle delivers

In his first game of the softball season, highly touted Livonia Franklin was put to the test against state-ranked Walled Lake Central.

Other than a run in the fifth inning Thursday, the Vikings couldn't muster much off Franklin hurler Jenny Mayle.

The senior had 11 strikeouts and helped the Patriots to a 4-1 win over the visiting Vikings.

Franklin scored three runs in the third when Kris McComb belted a 2-run triple and Emily Skura hit an RBI single.

The Patriots scored their other run in the sixth thanks to an RBI single off the bat of pinch-hitter Amanda Hosko.

Both teams had four hits. Jenny Czach paced Central's offensive attack with a pair of triples.

Carrie Cassinski suffered the loss for the Vikings, yielding all four runs and walking one.

On Friday, the Patriots split a doubleheader with host Livonia Ladywood, winning the first game, 3-1, but losing the nightcap 8-0.

In the opener, Mayle hurled seven innings, striking out nine and walking just one.

Skura collected two hits and one RBI to lead Franklin. The Patriots had eight hits.

Sophomore Mary Jo Kelly suffered the loss for Ladywood. She went the distance, striking out nine.

In the second game, Ladywood pounded eight hits, including a homer by Kim Supron.

The Blazers (3-3) tallied two runs in the first and four in the fourth.

Sophomore Michelle Averill suffered the loss for the Patriots. She struck out four and walked five.

Senior Staci Kowalczyk earned the victory for Ladywood, hurling five innings and striking out four.

Franklin (2-1) mustered just two hits.

CANTON 3, JOHN GLENN 1: Kelly Holmes went the distance Thursday for Plymouth Canton, guiding the host Chiefs to a Western Lakes Activities Association win over Westland John Glenn.

Holmes, a sophomore, hurled seven innings, striking out five and walking just one.

Junior Cathy Mruk took the loss for Glenn. She struck out three and walked four.

The Chiefs, who were outright 3-2, scored one run in the first inning and two in the third.

The Rockets scored their only run in the sixth inning when Karen Olack singled home Carrie Rachwal.

Glenn committed three errors.

college sports

The University of Detroit-Mercy baseball team got off to a fast start in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference, and a good deal of credit is due to the Titans' seniors — like Mike Stefanski.

A catcher from Redford (Union HS), Stefanski was named the MCC player of the week after U-D swept four-straight games from Xavier. Stefanski had six hits in 13 at-bats, driving in three runs — including two game-winners. He also threw out five-of-nine potential base-stealers.

For the week, he totaled 10 hits in 20 trips, four RBI, six runs scored and two steals, and he clubbed his third home run in six games. On the season, Stefanski is hitting .325, with seven doubles, three homers and 17 RBI.

There have been others responsible for U-D's 7-1 MCC start (14-8-1 overall). Rick Tavormina, a senior shortstop from Westland (John Glenn HS), ranks fifth in the MCC in hitting with a .343 average and is tied for second in triples with two; and Mike Heard, a junior outfielder from Westland (Wayne Memorial HS), is hitting .315 with eight doubles (third in the MCC), three homers and 13 RBI.

THE MCC has named its all-conference teams, and a trio of former Observerland players now playing for U-D were honored.

softball

"It was a good game," Glenn coach Linda Jimenez said. "We out-hit them, but we out-errored them, too."

CLARENCEVILLE 5, LUTH. WESTLAND 4: Livonia Clarenceville tallied 2 runs in the seventh inning Thursday en route to a non-league win over host Lutheran Westland (0-1).

The Trojans (1-0) out-hit Lutheran Westland 8-3. Both teams committed three errors.

Rhonda Saunders earned the win for Clarenceville, hurling seven innings, striking out 13 and walking seven.

Saunders, along with Mary Gould contributed two hits for the Trojans.

Christy Pydyn took the loss for Lutheran Westland. She went the distance, yielding five walks and striking out eight.

Sarah Love, with two hits, paced the offensive attack for Lutheran Westland. Tracy Lapum added a double.

FARMINGTON 7, CHURCHILL 2: Corey Wojcik hurled seven solid innings Thursday to help Farmington to a WAAA victory over host Livonia Churchill.

Each team had four hits. Jill Troia paced the winners with a pair of singles.

The Falcons tallied four of their runs in the fifth inning, thanks to numerous walks and errors.

Losing pitcher Karen Jose, a freshman, got little support defensively as the Chargers committed five errors, while Farmington made four.

LUTH. WESTLAND 10, LUTH. EAST 9: Lutheran Westland scored four runs in both the fifth and sixth inning Friday to squeak out a win over host Harper Woods Lutheran East.

Lutheran Westland (1-1) received a solid pitching performance from Christy Pydyn. She went the distance, fanning two and walking six.

Christy Clark paced the Warriors hitting attack with a single and four RBI.

Lutheran East (1-1) had the bases loaded and two outs in the seventh inning, but failed to score.

WIN AN NCAA championship and the awards seem never-ending. Ask anyone connected with Northern Michigan University's hockey team.

The Wildcats captured the title with a thrilling, triple-overtime 8-7 triumph over Boston University. Since then, senior goalie Bill Pye, from Canton (Plymouth Canton HS), has been named a second team All-American. His final season stats: a 32-3-4 record, four shutouts, a 2.84 goals-against average and an 88.6 save percentage.

Junior Mark Beaufait, from Livonia (Stevenson HS), earned a pair of awards at the Wildcat Hockey Awards Banquet April 8. Beaufait was named the team's Unsung Hero and Most Improved Player. He finished the season with 19 goals and 30 assists, 49 points.

THE UNIVERSITY of Michigan golf teams are relying heavily on Observerland golfers. Dean Kobane, a junior from Livonia (Churchill HS), shot 74-70 to place fifth overall at the 36-hole Black Knight Invitational, hosted by Army. The Wolverines finished second in the 17-team field. Kobane's 70 tied two others for the best Wolverine score of the season.

Michigan team features area stars

Six hockey players from Observerland will play for Team Michigan in the Chicago Showcase High School Hockey Tournament, beginning Wednesday (through Sunday) in Skokie and Wilmette, Ill.

hockey

Among the players headed to the tournament include defenseman Matt Surowiec and forward Jessie Hubenschmidt (both from Redford Catholic Central), and defenseman Colin Gallagher and forward Jeff King (both of Livonia Churchill).

named to the squad. A standing committee from across the state selected Team Michigan, according to the team's general manager A.J. Baker. He added that this was the first time in seven years that Team Michigan selections were not chosen from an annual all-state game. Twenty teams from across the United States will participate in the sixth annual tournament. Buffalo, N.Y., is the defending champion, while Team Michigan finished ninth, missing the quarterfinal round by two goals.

Ferris State University coach Bob Daniels, a Churchill High product, will lead Team Michigan, which opens tournament play at 6 p.m. Wednesday against New Jersey. Baker expects to do well. "We're in a decent division to advance this year," he said. "Colorado is going to have a good team and New Jersey is very good."

'Coffee, tea or me' image bugs flight attendant

Editor's note: Joyce Baker of Farmington Hills is a flight attendant with Northwest Airlines.
By Joyce E. Baker
 Special writer

Love to work with people of every conceivable nature? Despise routine? Love to travel and wake in hotel rooms not knowing what city you're in or even what day it is? Then I've got just the job for you... Flight attendant!

I've been one for 9½ years, based in the Detroit area. Since I've met so many local travelers who are curious about the job, I thought I'd write about it from an insider's perspective.

Although several people still use the word stewardess, flight attendant is preferred by those of us in the field. There are a lot of male flight attendants and the word connotes professionalism more than the "coffee, tea or me" image that lingers in the public mind thanks to a book of the same name.

reader's report

One thing we are not is a waitress/waiter with wings! We serve food and beverages at 35,000 feet, but our primary reason for being on the aircraft is safety. Service, although a major and necessary feature of our job, is secondary.

Fortunately, the public is rarely witness to our safety training, so they see service as our only function.

There is no typical profile of a flight attendant. Our backgrounds are varied: from entrepreneurs to realtors and attorneys.

Our reasons for wanting the job may differ, but the reasons for remaining in it are similar. We enjoy the freedom to pursue outside interests thanks to the generous time off, and the benefit of low-cost standby travel.

Having to travel for work as well as pleasure can be tiring, and many times the latter is pushed aside. I jokingly say that I'll have to quit flying in order to enjoy traveling again!

Living out of a suitcase has its limitations, and no matter how much fun it can be to go someplace new, packing and unpacking does not get more fun with practice.

I am often asked the same questions about the job, so I'd like to answer those I most frequently hear.

1. Aren't you afraid of flying? At first I was, but once I developed a basic knowledge of aviation and a familiarity with specific aircraft, my fear dissipated.

When I'm working, I'm too busy to think about it, although I may have skeptical moments during a bad thunderstorm.

2. What's your route? One flight to one city in one day is the norm for international flying, but for domestic flying it is not unusual to fly to five different cities on the same day.

Routes are subject to change monthly, but the more senior you are, the more consistently you can hold the same route. My routes have taken me all around the U.S., to Europe and Japan.

3. How much time do you get off? The physical demands of coping with an extremely erratic schedule are justified by the amount of time off we get. An average of 15-20 days off a month, usually not consecutive, is typical.

4. Don't you get tired of being gone all the time? YES! I'm single and, not from this area. It is difficult to establish and maintain a personal life when the majority of my time is spent away from home.

In the past four weeks, I've been home three days. I have had to cancel plans at the last minute because I was stuck in some city due to bad weather, a mechanical failure or flight cancellation.

It's a struggle to develop a sense of consistency within this unstructured lifestyle, but it can be done, partly by bidding for the same days off every week.

This job is ideal for married flight attendants because they can maintain a family life at home and time for themselves on the road. For a single person with no family in their base area, the job can foster loneliness.

To counteract this, I spend time off visiting friends and relatives out of state. The rest of my free time is spent in town participating in volunteer activities, pursuing hobbies and socializing with friends.

The travel bug bit me at a very early age. My father used to take my sisters and me to the National Geographic series every Friday night at our hometown auditorium.

My job has since taken me to a lot of those places I used to dream about, but I've barely scratched the surface. Being a flight attendant is glamorous? No. Adventurous? Yes. When I accepted the job, glamour was not what I expected. I viewed it as a way to help cure my insatiable curiosity about the world and its people, and to that end, I have been satisfied.

Engler's cuts are big topic at annual state travel conference

The communities and associations are screaming about all this, of course, but Travel Bureau director John Savich thinks that it has been a fairly smooth transition as political transitions go. A little restructuring of old habits is not necessarily bad.

Our state travel industry is diverse. We have large business hotels and big cities in the industrial corridor between Detroit and Chicago; resorts with major ski and golf facilities; outstate communities that try to attract a share of the 50 million people who travel in Michigan each year, and hundreds of small businesses tucked into bays and along Great Lakes coastlines up the Lower and across the Upper peninsulas.

All those diverse segments were represented at the conference. Dan Smith of the Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreation Association was there, as were the Stable family members who run Michigan Lodge near Marquette and Cedar Lodge in Paradise.

Tourism is a $20-billion industry, creating 340,000 jobs and producing state tax revenues of $750,000.

The Mackinac Island contingent was there: Dan Musser of the Grand Hotel, Todd Callewaert of the Island House, Armand "Smil" Horn of Mackinac Island Carriage Tours.

You could work your way south from there: Walter North of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, Stafford Smith of the Bayview Inn, Peter Fitzsimons of Boyne Country, several reps from Grand Traverse Resort, city convention bureau people from Bay City and Saginaw and Kalamazoo.

And, of course, the Frankenmuth contingent was there, led by Wally Bronner of Bronner's Christmas Decorations and Ruth Ann McMahon of Circle Michigan.

Engler talked about tourism as "an engine of economic growth." He squelched the stories about closing state parks. He said the core of the Travel Bureau budget won't be touched because tourism creates jobs.

I asked Savich what these new directions mean. He had lost his outreach programs and 10 percent of his other programs, a total of $6 million, but still has the resources to beat the bushes in places like London and Chicago for potential Michigan tourists.

Savich thinks this will be a great year for Michigan travelers to stay in Michigan, which has expanded its hotel, golf and other facilities dramatically in recent years and is still a bargain compared to other states.

"When people from Detroit are told the cost of something in Michigan, they say, 'Is it that much?'" Savich said. "When Chicagoans are given the same price, they say, 'Is that all?'"

Weekend travelers find suitable vacation spots close to home

General Butler State Park near the northern border of Kentucky is much closer, but it's still a six-hour drive. Too far unless you use one of those $50 weekend coupons and rent a car.

The obvious choice in state parks was Potawatomi Inn in Pokagon State Park, Angola, Ind. That's a 90-minute drive across the border south of Marshall and Coldwater. A rustic lodge and cabins. Unbelievably low rates. Very popular. So popular that no rooms were available on that particular Friday night.

"Too bad," I said. "You could have spent Saturday in Shipshewana, enjoying the Amish museum and the flea market. In fact, there are nice bed-and-breakfast places in Shipshewana..."

Shipshewana only lasted a few minutes, long enough for us to get into Ontario. "Ever been to Wheels Inn in Chatham, Ontario?" I asked. She hadn't. "It's a great place, but you'd better like sports and kids." Dee was a little nervous about entering another country, but I convinced her she would be safe and comfortable by herself in Ontario, even if she had car trouble or a minor mishap.

"Take the ViaRail train to London, Ontario. Try one of the great Ontario inns, although they are fairly expensive. Go up the St. Clair River on either the Canadian or the U.S. side. Stay at the St. Clair Inn and watch the boats go by."

That did it. St. Clair. Close to home. Lots of places to mosey and poke in the small towns beside the river. Take a ferry across to Canada. Visit the oil museum at Petrolia or Uncle Tom's Cabin in Dresden. Drive down the Canadian side to Windsor and come home through the tunnel or over the Ambassador Bridge.

I rambled on about weekend driving along the north shore of Lake Erie to Leamington or Point Pelee Provincial Park, or going south into Ontario to Put-in-Bay.

Dee listened politely while I got myself all worked up about a weekend in all those fabulous little places along Lake Michigan, or north toward Traverse City.

I was talking her through Dusty's English Inn, 13 miles south of Lansing and four miles north of Eaton Rapids, when I realized I had lost her. "It's a fabulous old brick mansion and the rooms start at $65 a night," I said, but her eyes had glazed over.

My friends quickly learn that it is unwise to ask my advice about travel. I give them too much of it. She had already made up her mind to go to St. Clair.

We started by calling the River Crab, a motel and restaurant owned by Chuck Muer in St. Clair. Each room is different. Each has a view of the river from its front door. The dining room is good and has a fine view of the boats sailing up and down the St. Clair River and the boats easing in and out of the marina.

"That'll cost me $75 a night including a continental breakfast in my room," Dee said.

Next she called the St. Clair Inn, a lovely historic sprawl of red brick beside the river, and asked for their least expensive room. "That's $65 a night, street-side."

"It's probably in the annex," I said, "which has simple rooms a few hundred yards down the street from the inn, but great views of the river."

The last time I saw Dee, she was hurrying out of the office toward her car. We had traveled across my desk and through my files, to other states, in the direction of the southern sun, but she picked a place in Michigan, a short drive from home. Not bad.

If you get desperate on Friday mornings in spring, you may have found some getaways of your own. Send us a reader report, maximum two or three pages, and let us know what you recommend for people who want to get away for a couple days during the next few months.

Send it to me at 22000 Springbrook, Suite 206 C, Farmington Hills, 48336.

Waiting for Engler at travel conference

And eventually he issued three marketing and three community awards.

"Citizens of Milford organized to remove trash and debris from the Huron River Valley... items removed ranged in size from tin cans to major appliances... all supported by contributions of cash and in-kind services... more than 200 volunteers. Accepting today are the two co-chairs of the Friends of the Huron-Oakland, Lucille Mosher and Joan Horvath," he said.

Lots of other things happened at the conference, but that was enough for Lucille and Joan. As they went out the door, Joan said, "Tell your readers to call the township office at 685-8731, ask for Colleen and sign up for the river cleanup August 17. And if you've got any good ideas for getting corporate funding for this project, pass the word."

Away for the Weekend

Ferries like this one regularly take tourists across the St. Clair River to Canada from Marine City.

A lazy day up north, waiting for Engler to show up

It was 9:45 a.m. in the Summit Center at Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain Resort in Bellaire. Lucille Mosher and Joan Horvath of Milford were gathered around the breakfast tables, along with several hundred other Michigan professionals, at the eighth annual Governor's Conference on Tourism.

We were waiting for Gov. John Engler to come in through the fog to give the opening speech and present three Governor's Tourism Community awards. One would go to Lucille and Joan on behalf of the Charter Township of Milford for their innovative efforts to clean the Huron River.

Engler was scheduled to appear at 9 a.m. You can only keep several hundred people waiting so long, even for the governor, so at 9:15 the long lean form of Harold Skramstad, president of Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, and chairman of the Michigan Travel Commission stood up. He lingered over his welcome.

"The Chinese character for crisis is a combination of the symbols for danger and opportunity, he said, setting the tone for a drastically reduced tourism budget. Lucille and Joan could have told him about crisis, about the danger the Huron River was in when they formed the Friends of the Huron and started hauling things out of the water with their canoe crews.

"We met in my living room for the first meeting," Joan said. "Lucille brought the agenda and I made coffee and cleaned the toilets."

They were both on the planning commission at the time. It didn't take them long to bring representatives in from Kensington and Metro parks, from Camp Dearborn and Proud Lake, or to line up three canoe liveries and the services of Milford's retired postmaster, Jack Gillow.

"We put two or three volunteers into each canoe, gave them a poker stick with a hook on the end and a net funnel to scrape the glass off the bottom of the river," Lucille said.

"We gave each canoe a section of the river, handed them garbage bags and told them to meet us at Kensington Park for lunch. We provided lunch."

Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfield was at the podium now, making jokes about the weather to fill time. By the time Arthur Ellis, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, got to his feet, they were saying, "When the governor talks this afternoon..."

None of this seemed to bother the two co-founders of the Friends of the Huron, sitting at a table directly in front of the podium. I guess you develop patience when you haul up racing tires, picnic tables and old shoes ("There's usually only one shoe.") out of the river from a canoe.

The two Milford women have a very practical attitude toward awards. When they won the Earthworks Award from WKBD-TV, "people came from five counties to volunteer to clean up the river."

Their main concern during our whispered conversation at this conference was not whether the governor would arrive, but whether they'd have enough volunteers for their next river cleanup August 17.

We took a brief break. The coffee was still steaming in the cups when the room began to stir as if a breeze were blowing through it. The governor had arrived. He had been unable to fly into Traverse City, so flew to Gaylord, drove to Bellaire and stopped to cut a ribbon somewhere along the way.

He talked about tourism as a $20-billion industry in Michigan. He squelched the rumor that the Department of Natural Resources would close several state parks.

Finding a cure for spring fever close to home

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

It was 10:30 Friday morning when a co-worker burst into my office with a desperate look on her face.

"I've gotta get outta here!" Dee Head of Farmington Hills said.

I know the feeling well. It's called spring fever.

"Where can I go for the weekend on $200? That's got to include transportation, hotel, food, everything."

We pulled out a map and drew an imaginary circle: west to Chicago; north to Traverse City, northeast to Toronto, southeast to Cleveland, south to Lima and Indianapolis. That's about as far as you want to drive on a two-day weekend.

"I usually travel in Michigan, but I want to go south toward the sun this time," Dee said.

"What do you want to do when you get there?" I asked. "Walk in the woods? Go sightseeing? Ride roller coasters?"

"I'm not much on roller coasters, but I like sightseeing, or just walking around. We go camping sometimes, so I like nature. Or I would be perfectly happy to do nothing. I've just got to get out of here!"

"You like to mosey and poke," I said.

She also likes the sun, so we checked all those fabulous air fares that have been advertised this spring. Unfortunately, most of those tickets had to be purchased before April 8. There are still good fares to nearby places like Chicago, Toronto and Cincinnati if you plan in advance, but none of them work if you decide Friday to leave Friday.

For example: buy a Northwest Airlines ticket to Toronto 14 days ahead of flight time, complete your trip before June 4, and you travel for $103 to $114 round-trip depending on the day of the week you fly. Remember: most good air fares require you to buy in advance, fly midweek and stay over a Saturday night.

There are exceptions. COMAIR, which coordinates its schedules with Delta Airlines, sells a $200 coupon book containing four $50 coupons. Each coupon is good for one flight to any COMAIR destination as long as you fly Saturday, Sunday or Monday morning.

There is no advance purchase required, but limited seating is available. COMAIR flights from Detroit go through Cincinnati. If you fly to Nashville, you will need one $50 coupon for the Detroit to Cincinnati flight and another for Cincinnati to Nashville.

The best buy is obviously Detroit to Cincinnati, $50 each way. Call Delta toll-free anytime at (800) 221-1212 or call COMAIR toll-free during Monday-to-Friday business hours (800) 543-7308. Coupon books can be bought at the airport. Or buy a Miscellaneous Exchange Coupon from your travel agent and turn it in at the airport for a coupon book.

As it turned out, Dee didn't want to go to Cincinnati. She couldn't buy a ticket in advance, and any other ticket would blow her $200 budget.

She was determined to go out of state, so our next stop was at a file marked "State Park Lodges." Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky have wonderful state park resorts where you can sleep in nice quarters and spend your days walking, hiking, biking and otherwise enjoying nature.

Pine Mountain State Park was her first choice, but Dee lost enthusiasm when she learned it was in the very south of Kentucky. Too far to drive for two days.

Travel cuts are big topic at state conference

The eighth annual Governor's Conference on Tourism took place last week here at Schuss Mt. Lodge at Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain Resort near Bellaire.

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

Travel industry professionals from all over Michigan gathered at Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain Resort in Bellaire last week to attend the eighth annual Governor's Conference on Tourism.

We had all been in limbo since last fall's elections, wondering what kind of budget cuts the new administration would propose. The proposed arts cuts are dramatic. Would that happen to tourism, even though it is among the top three industries in Michigan?

We're not selling many cars these days, so tourism and agriculture may now be the top two industries in Michigan. To put that in perspective, tourism is a $20 billion industry, creating 340,000 jobs and producing state tax revenues of $750,000.

Arthur Ellis, Director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, which includes the Travel Bureau, made the rumors official at the conference. Gov. John Engler has proposed that the department budget be slashed from $114 million to $18 million. Fortunately, the core of the state program would be left intact.

Outreach grants, which supported tourism activity in community governments and organizations, are completely eliminated from the proposed budget. If Engler gets his wish, you won't see any more advertisements that are cooperative ventures between the state and regional tourist bureaus.

Those booklets that tell you about bed-and-breakfast places, fishing boats and other things, would be available only if their costs are picked up by the private sector.

If you call the toll-free number (800) 5432-YES you will be sent a basic package, limited to save postage, that includes a state travel planning guide, events calendar and map. If you want more, you must specifically ask for it. You may even be given another phone number to call so that you can get it elsewhere.

'Turtles' tops at box office

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Only two new films opened this week as the system continues to milk the current box-office hits. The first, "Heaven and Earth" (PG-13) is listed as a Japanese samurai epic while the second, "Out for Justice" (R), stars Steven Seagal in a story about a cop and a drug lord. How imaginative!

Through the end of March — the latest figures available — "Ninja Turtles" had grossed more than $46 million in its first two weeks while "Home Alone" is well passed the $250 million mark. "Silence of the Lambs" now shows $90 million in the till after 1½ months. It seems that sadism pays well.

Everybody loves a winner and Oscars continue to attract viewers. The seven that "Dances With Wolves" brought home continues to translate into $1 million dollars a day. Considering that "Dances With Wolves" has been playing for 147 days, that's quite some total for a film they said never would.

"Ghost" is still playing at around 200 screens around the country although its Oscar aren't helping too much since the video cassette appeared March 21.

This year's domestic box office — that's all the tickets sold in the United States and Canada — continues to show significant gains over last year in every category. Number of tickets sold are up 17 percent over 1990 with box office dollars at $1.16 billion, which is almost 18 percent more than 1990's near record total. Of course, average ticket price is up as well, to nearly $4.90.

Add TV, cable, videotape and overseas rentals plus all those T-shirts and toys, and it doesn't look like the recession has struck the movie business. Some might suggest that the entertainment business rises during a mild recession since the urge to escape bad times leads to the box office. There's also more leisure time available when work schedules are trimmed.

ALTERNATIVE MOVIE

Strong women at Maple

By John Monaghan
special writer

For the female protagonists in "Le Femme Nikita" and "The Nasty Girl," the choices they face are literally between life and death. These two foreign offerings, both major hits in Europe last year, are currently on-screen at the Maple Theatre.

In Luc Besson's stylish new thriller, Nikita (Anne Parillaud) is a young hellion and Death Row inmate who wakes from a supposedly lethal injection to find herself groggy but alive in a dormitory room. Serve France as a secret agent, she is told, or really be put to death.

The resulting film mixes "Pygmalion" and "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E." with disappointing results. It takes almost an hour for Nikita to undergo the laborious physical and psychological reorientation which could easily have been excapulated in a montage.

The real action starts when Nikita, placed back in society, begins to fulfill her secret assignments. She may be cooking dinner, sleeping, or making love when the phone call arrives, asking for her code name "Josephine."

Director Besson ("The Big Blue")

is a master of style over substance who works best in raucous action scenes. He does achieve considerable suspense when Nikita has to assassinate someone from the bathroom window while her impatient husband waits in the other.

MOMENTS LIKE these stick with you, along with an opening sequence where Nikita and her fellow punks walk side-by-side through the dark streets of Paris. They literally drag along one of their mates behind them since he's obviously too drugged to walk.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

It is not by accident that the First Amendment is number one on the Bill of Rights. It's prominence is directly proportional to the importance of Freedom of Speech, something Thomas Jefferson clearly recognized.

As long as the American people can speak out freely and ask the right questions, tyranny will never succeed in this country. By protecting everyone's right to speak, no matter how much we might disagree with someone or other, we protect all.

But there is a question. Are there any limitations to Freedom of Speech?

That's the question asked — and answered quite eloquently it should be noted — in a new video available from Academy Entertainment on April 25.

"Skokie" (1981, color, PG, 121 minutes) and its all-star cast recount the prolonged First Amendment struggle between an American Nazi group, the American Civil Liberties Union, the village of Skokie, Ill., a Chicago suburb, the Jewish Defense League and Jewish Holocaust survivors, a large number of whom lived in Skokie in the late '70s when Chicago Nazis decided to stage a march there.

Danny Kaye plays Max Feldman, a concentration camp survivor who witnessed the murder of much of his family by the Nazis. To him American neo-Nazis marching in his hometown wearing the Swastika is abhorrent. This time Feldman is prepared to stand and fight alongside the Jewish Defense League.

THE LATTER is the radical group founded in that era by the recently murdered Rabbi Kahane who preached, among other things, that never again should Jews stand passively when attacked, as they had during Hitler's reign of terror.

Bill Shapiro: Music fan finds a 'home' on 'Cyprus Avenue'

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Bill Shapiro has turned a few corners. In his musical journey, but "Cyprus Avenue" has become his permanent home on the radio.

The show is heard 12:30 p.m. Fridays on WDET-FM 101.9. The program features a diverse mix of rock'n'roll, from the classics of Neil Young and Bob Dylan to the new music of R.E.M. and Eleventh Dream Day.

Its gravel-voiced host is a methodical archivist and a wide-eyed enthusiast. He educates without having his nose in the air about his knowledge.

"I'm a fan," said Shapiro, 54, whose program is aired from KCUR-FM in Kansas City, Mo., via satellite to nearly 50 stations on the National Public Radio network. "I'm very passionate about music. When I'm moved by something, I really get into it."

"When someone comes up to me and says, 'Hey, you turned me on to so-and-so,' that makes it all worthwhile."

Though eclectic, a common thread can be detected in the stream of music Shapiro plays on "Cyprus Avenue." He prefers artists who have something honest to say rather than those who merely release a "pure product."

Shapiro receives virtually no promotional releases from major labels. Instead, the tax lawyer by day relies on his own massive record collection, which was started with a 78 of a World War II trench ditty. The first LP he brought, incidentally, was "Johnny Smith's Jazz at NBC."

AT FIRST, Shapiro's musical interests were in pop. Then, in his teenage years, he developed an affinity for jazz.

But it was a young Turk with swiveling hips from Tupelo, Miss., who turned Shapiro's sights to rock'n'roll. The then-law student caught Elvis Presley's act on the "Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey Bandstand" show on television.

His interests evolved to the revolutionary sounds of nasal-voiced of Bob Dylan and later the Celtic soul stirrings of Van Morrison and the electrified poetry of Neil Young. But while music was a passion, it was never an occupation.

Shapiro tried the piano and the banjo, but could play neither. "I didn't have the aptitude for it," he said. And, until the debut of "Cyprus Avenue" 13 years ago, he had never worked in radio.

That changed when a friend at the NPR station in Kansas City told Shapiro that if he ever needed a favor, he shouldn't hesitate to ask, in return for his constant fund-raising help for public broadcasting.

"I told her, 'I'd like to do an intelligent show on rock'n'roll,'" Shapiro said. "When I was a graduate law student in New York . . . I listened to Billy Taylor's radio show, which was an intelligent show on jazz—I thought it would work on rock."

SHAPIRO DID an audition, taping a show called "Ballads by Rockers" that featured ballad music by arena rockers like the Rolling Stones. He was invited back.

"Cyprus Avenue" is the only rock'n'roll show offered by NPR. The show is one of the most popular midday programs in the WDET lineup.

"I'm somewhat mystified by it," Shapiro said. "They moved the show to 12:30 p.m., which is a God-awful time to pick up a radio audience. I ascribe it to the sign that the listening audience enjoys WDET's eclectic mix of radio programming."

Letters he receives cross all demographics, including notes of appreciation from 50- and 60-year-olds who until listening to "Cyprus Avenue" thought rock'n'roll was just noisy racket. A majority of the response, though, lands in the 30-45 age range, Shapiro said.

The show is definitely a labor of love, especially to Shapiro's wallet. He sometimes pays $200 a month out of his own pocket for the satellite uplink. He's toyed with the idea of taking "Cyprus Avenue" to commercial radio, but admits it's difficult marketing a rock'n'roll program.

Dark Carnival: Creative retreat

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Dark Carnival is something of an all-star rock'n'roll conglomerate. But for the band's creator Colonial Galaxy, it was a nightmare.

The genesis of the metallic sounding group was a dream.

The good Colonial remembers a bad dream one in which he walked into a carnival and found himself trapped inside a freak show. While most would chalk up the experience to some Freudian malfunction or too many Oreos cookies before bedtime, the Colonial used the vision to form a band.

Since 1984, Dark Carnival has carried on the punk traditions fostered by Detroit's forebears with a line-up that's continually evolving. Previous members read like a who's who of Detroit rock'n'roll, including ex-Mutant Art Lyzak and Bootsey X.

Current members of Dark Carnival include Ron and Scott Ashten from the Stooges; bassist Greasy Carlisi from the Reputations; rhythm guitarist Mark Gilder and, of course, leopard striped singer and astrologist Niagara. Rrrr.

"We could only stand each other for a short time," said Niagara with a laugh, explaining the turnover in personnel. "Actually, I really like it. We all get along really well. Nobody tries to steal the scene."

Which is an admirable feat, considering the abundance of talent confined in one group. Like their name, Dark Carnival performs with the same frequency that a midway visits a small village.

THE BAND was intended to be something of a creative retreat for members. As a result, live shows have been few.

Yet, Dark Carnival has still managed to record two live albums, "Greatest Show in Detroit" and "Welcome to Show Business" on Revenge Records in France. Dark Carnival, along with all Detroit rock'n'roll, has a large following among the Francophones.

Stateside, the live LPs are import only and hard to come by.

"People seem to have copies around here," said Niagara, who fronted the snarling punk outfit Destroy All Monsters. "I don't know how they're getting them."

The unavailability of Dark Carnival product should change. The band will enter The Schoolhouse in Ann Arbor to record its first studio LP soon.

The project will feature a conglomeration of songs the creative tandem of Niagara and Ron Ashten have recently constructed. She promises they'll be of the hard

GALA

— Lush

At its best, this fashionable British quartet sets its airy tunes to a rolling beat, adrift in a sea of intertwining guitars, echoing feedback, angelic vocals and thunderous waves of rhythm. But often Lush's sonic ship docks itself in the port of monotony.

Repeating two songs on this 15-track U.S. debut doesn't help to vary its sound, which is pretty much unchord to start with. This collection of Lush's earlier work on trendy British label 4AD is somewhat disjointed. But it displays the band's potential to make melodious mood music in the atmospheric vein of the thier soulmates, Cocteau Twins. Parts of "Gala" were produced by Cocteau Twin Robin Guthrie; others by Tim Friese-Greene of art-rock outfit Talk Talk.

"Gala" is at once silk and sandpaper, brooding and brash, inspired and indifferent. One minute Lush is riding on the sweet cymbal-supported pop sounds of the pretty "Scarlet," and the next they're thrashing about in washed out guitars and flute-like vocals on the aptly titled "Leaves Me Cold."

Lush bases its sound around the ethereal guitar dialogue and falsetto harmonies of Mike Berenyi and Emma Anderson. When the formula works, it works well, as shown on college hit "Sweetness and Light," "De-Luxe" and "Thoughtforms." Unfortunately, many of the tracks mesh together in a slew of indecipherable lyrics sung devoid of personality, over a drone of driving guitars and snare-heavy drums.

Despite its shortcomings, "Gala" is a good introduction to a band that has taken giant strides in only two and a half years together. To hold the claim they've staked among the hip, Lush must now produce a cohesive follow-up.

TAME YOURSELF — various artists

This is a compilation released by the People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) organization. All the artists involved are those with strong feeling on this subject and, for the most part, express themselves quite strongly in their material used on this album.

It's quite a healthy list of participants, including Howard Jones, Indigo Girls, Michael Stipe, K.d. lang, R-52's, Pretendets, Jane Weidlin, Belinda Carlisle and more.

It's kicked off with the electro-funk-pop sound of Howard Jones, exhorting us: "Don't be part of it," with lyrics like "save the butcher's knife" and "as long as animals die in testing, we won't find humanity." Jones' contribution is well-produced but fairly predictable.

Next up comes a new band from Canada, Raw Youth. This is the track that has been receiving most airplay, with the video including most of the participants of the entire album. The song is "Tame Yourself" and is a bright, jaunty, acoustic guitar driven number with a duel female vocals delivering a catchy chorus.

This leads into one of the best songs on the album, "I'll Give You My Skin," with Michael Stipe joining with Indigo Girls. It's rich in lyrical imagery and vocal strength from all parties involved. It also features some subtle acoustic guitar playing from the Girls. What keeps this song apart from the others is imagination used to convey the message as opposed to the beat it down the throat mentality of some involved here.

K.d. lang steps up next with "Damned Old Dog," which features the intriguing chorus of "Do I wanna be a dog, any diddlin' male will do, if I was a damned old dog, I wouldn't be fussy for you."

Now, along come two well-known, outrageous and well-known for being outrageous females — Germany's Nina Hagen and Dearborn's Lene Lovich. Their song is an electro dance number which features the staged soundtrack of one of the PETA specialties: breaking into experimentation labs to free the animals. Pity about the song, though.

Then, (be still my beating heart), comes everybody's favorite (?), Jane Weidlin. She sings "Fur," the second best song on the album.

All in all, not a bad effort though, with the majority of songs being worthwhile hearing.

Hollywood doesn't lure Reiser away from his roots

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Paul Reiser is everything one would expect out of a first-rate stand-up comedian: He's upbeat, personable, witty and self-deprecating. Paul Reiser is everything one would not expect in a movie star. He's upbeat, personable. Well, you get the picture.

dour, self-absorbed lot who take themselves and their craft far too seriously. It just seems that way.

Those who landed in Hollywood via the comedy route might begin to view doing stand-up regularly as somehow beneath them. Not Reiser, who's spending two weeks out of the month on the road performing the club circuit.

"I WANT to use it (stand up) as a way down," said Reiser, who performs tonight (April 15) at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle. "I want to end up making keys at Sears. I want to use it to slide out of the business. I figure Detroit is a favorite place to start."

"I always love doing stand up," Reiser said, dislodging the tongue from his cheek. "I think in the back of your head when you start doing stand up you're thinking, 'Stand up will lead to television, television will lead to movies, and movies will lead to a satellite image of my face.' My goal was never to be a star."

But he is. Reiser has a major role in Neil Simon's "The Marrying Man" with Alec Baldwin and Kim Basinger.

REISER NARRATES the movie in which he and Baldwin, along with a group of chums, travel through the Nevada desert for a weekend romp in Las Vegas. Baldwin's character falls for a nightclub singer, played by Basinger.

The New York native has also been featured in both "Beverly Hills Cop" films, "Aliens" and "Crazy People." Of course, Reiser's breakthrough role came as Modell, forever inquiring about the status of the uneaten half-sandwich, in Barry Levinson's "Diner." He also starred in the NBC-TV sitcom "My Two Dads."

Yet, for all his screen success, there's still a need to sit in hotel rooms an hour before show time scribbling lines on yellow legal pads. Once a comedian, always a comedian.

Reiser's latest stand-up tour involves going four to five nights in a row across the country. He'll also tape an hourlong performance in May for Showtime to be aired sometime in the fall.

"You don't suddenly say one day, 'I'm going to stop doing this and I'm going to do that.' You're always moving along both paths. I'm very fortunate to be able to do both (stand up and films)."

Although with Reiser's burgeoning acting career, the time to write new material for a stand-up routine would be at a premium.

"It's funny. The longer you do it, it becomes easier but it becomes harder. You can write more of it, but you become more selective."

BARRY LEVINSON is to be thanked for Reiser's duality. The director gave the actor/comedian/writer his break, picking him to star along with Steve Guttenberg and Mickey Rourke in "Diner."

Reiser recalls the famous casting tale, sitting outside in the hallway waiting for a friend to finish up his audition. The casting director happened to see Reiser and told him to return the next day to read for the part. Four days later, the young comedian was in Baltimore filming.

Since then, Reiser has worked alongside several of the industry's funniest actors, such as Eddie Murphy ("Beverly Hills Cop") and Dudley Moore ("Crazy People").

His latest sidekick, Baldwin, proved quite humorous in "The Marrying Man." Reiser calls the young actor "one of the smartest guys" he has ever worked with.

"There's four guys and we're in the middle of the desert. You're sweating. We'd hurt ourselves laughing, we had such a good time."

NOW THAT he has in been a few films, Reiser has written his own romantic comedy. He doesn't divulge details, only to say the film would be set in New York and centers around "a nasty guy who becomes a good guy."

In order to complete the script, Reiser said he locked himself in a room for four months. Writing is not new for him. He wrote, produced and starred in his own HBO comedy special, "Paul Reiser: Out on a Whim."

In spite of his successes in the movies and in television, Paul Reiser stays in touch with his comedic roots, doing stand-up two weeks out of the month.

Once a child feels comfortable, Kim Jamieson picks up her camera and starts shooting. The end result can be this breath of springtime, a portrait of Natalie Hecht, that hangs in the home of her parents, Paul and Amy Hecht.

Jamieson style captures kids being kids

By Joanne Sobczak
special writer

Michigan was playing Notre Dame that day and Wolverine fan Ron Siegel wasn't too keen on joining baby son Reid and wife Karen Satovsky Siegel in a common, but often frustrating family adventure. Not quite a trip to grandmother's house, the Siegels were headed to Kimberly Jamieson's home for a shot or two — photographs, that is.

"Being in Kim's home is more comfortable than at a storefront studio," said Karen about the 31-year-old Livonia portrait photographer.

Jamieson is known among the younger set — primarily newborns to six-year-olds and their parents — in the metropolitan area for capturing the naturalness of a child unlike the still life often seen in department store photographs.

"I think it's very important to capture children the way they are and not the way parents think they should be — all prim and proper and posed," said Jamieson. "Kids have so many facets to their personality. They don't always smile. They're not always laughing. They do pout. They put their fingers in their mouths and become shy."

Besides her inborn talent with a camera and a matching maternal instinct for looking beyond the common simper as alternative gestures to photograph, Jamieson's studio atmosphere contributes to her beautiful little works of art.

"It's important to make kids feel at home," she said. "Where are kids most at home? In a relaxed atmosphere."

SINCE THE client's residence would be the most comfortable place for the child but technically inappropriate for the photographer, she creates a home-like atmosphere "Jamieson style."

As they enter her cozy brick bungalow, customers find themselves greeted by the family dog and cat as well as by 5-year-old daughter Nicole. And kids certainly can get excited about playing with other children.

"When a kid comes through the door and sees another kid, they think, 'This must not be that bad,'" said Jamieson, whose living room and stairwell walls reflect a pictorial history of achievement and significant family events.

In Siegel's case, 17-month-old Reid needed to be preoccupied with something he could best relate to. The ultimate factor in catching that natural look in a youngster is Jamieson's ability to connect with the little person by finding a "common ground." For Reid, it was daddy.

As a warm-up, Jamieson advised dad to get down on the floor and play with his son. "What's more natural?"

"She began to instinctively shoot pictures," recalled Siegel, a University of Michigan alum. He came dressed for the occasion — the football game not the photo session — in a Michigan cap and sweat shirt. The original outfit selected for Reid was a white shirt and green and blue plaid pants but dad couldn't resist bringing his son's U-M sweat shirt, U-M football and volleyball (oh, and a regular Wilson basketball).

"THEY LOOKED cute together," said Jamieson of her main reason for photographing those father-son moments although pictures were taken later with Reid in his planned shirt and pants set.

Jamieson places a great deal of emphasis on the importance of the parents' role in obtaining all the possible expressions radiated by their child.

"I have his pictures in our home and my desk at work," said Satovsky Siegel, a commercial interior designer, while describing the different poses. "That's my boy."

Jamieson credits the birth of her daughter as the motivating element that led her away from wedding photography (free-lance and when employed at Fox Studios) and into children's portraits. Before that she would never have considered getting on the floor and rolling around as she does with Nicole and her pint-sized customers.

Four-year-old Natalie Hecht was totally intrigued with Nicole, according to her mother Amy.

"Kim's daughter entertained Natalie and she became very comfortable," said Hecht, who has had several bad experiences with store photographers.

Jamieson suggested Hecht bring a white slip, flowers, relevant stuffed animals and Natalie's "blanky" (blanket).

"SHE TOOK pictures of Natalie hugging her bunny and bear and one of her wrapped in her blanky," said the West Bloomfield resident.

In addition to her camera equipment which includes the best — a $8,000 Hasselblad unit — Jamieson has an ugly hat she calls her "thinking cap" to rouse the older boys and a tickle stick (feather duster).

Denise Hennessy, a former Mary Kay Cosmetics director, remembers when Jamieson's daughter assisted with the feather duster during a family shoot. Nicole kept the whole family laughing with a tickle here and a tickle there, she said.

The "family triangle" where the entire family of four was stacked up one on top of the other in a triangular formation, was Hennessy's idea after some consultation with Jamieson.

"Kim will sit you down and talk to you until you figure out what you want," she said. "She asks you a lot of questions about what the family personality is like."

Hennessy ended up buying "all of the proofs because it was so hard to pick just one."

JAMIESON FAVORS a white or pastel background and enjoys the use of fabrics. Props hold a major significance to this photographic artist. Live and stuffed animals often play a role because, said Jamieson, "you pull out the tender side of people."

"Children react so sincere to animals when they are petting them," she said. "They get so excited when they see them."

Little girls are provided hats, beads, pearls and lace trills (and parents have to bring some accessories, too) as well as oversized ladies things like high-heeled shoes and purses.

Boys may be dressed in dad's shirt and tie, adult glasses or sunglasses. Sports equipment is always recommended for a scene. But if daddy's little girl is a tomboy, that's OK. She doesn't have to wear pearls and lace, holding a baseball bat will do — whatever it takes to extract that child's inner self.

Jamieson's repertoire of antics includes "being a kid." She tells of a 2-year-old who clung to his mother, deathly afraid of Jamieson and the picture-taking machine she used.

"I TOOK A rubber spider and threw it at him and he caught it and started laughing," she said. "And for a half hour all we did was throw the spider back and forth at each other."

"Or sometimes, when I pull my background out and want to photograph them, they don't want to step on it. So I start jumping up and down and tell them to hop on their feet." Before the child knows it, he's flopping all over the sheet, she said.

Speech pathologist Claudia Kujawski brought son Alexander to Jamieson, wanting "something unique." They decided that a musician pose would be perfect for Kujawski's already musically inclined 7-month-old, whose father James, a banker, has been a violinist for more than 20 years.

Kujawski went to a children's shop in Troy, called Grandma's Best, and ordered a white tux. The day of the photo session, Jamieson suggested letting Alexander sit on music sheets and permit him to explore the violin in the normal fashion of a toddler. He began plucking the strings.

That moment now adorns the Kujawskis' Huntington Woods home as a wall portrait.

Even though children's pictures are Jamieson's specialty, she does family photography (graduation pictures included) and glamour portraits for the women. She even does pets.

"Kids are like dogs; you have to chase them, bribe them," she said. "But there's nothing in the world that people love more than kids, babies, puppies and kittens. The problem is they grow up and get bigger."

But when that happens to her clients' children, they'll always have that portrait to turn to. What now is their grown-up son or daughter is small once more for just a little while.

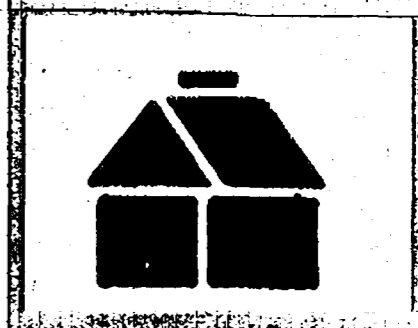

KIM JAMIESON

James and Claudia Kujawski's 7-month-old Alexander was dressed in a white tux to fiddle around with a violin and sheet music.

DIA helps youngsters appreciate art

By Joff Hooten
special writer

EACH YEAR, hundreds of area school children head downtown on field trips to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Yet for every class that makes the trek, there are many more who can't due to lack of time, money or the distance involved. For many area teachers, the answer is simple: have the museum come to the school.

For 25 years, Art to the Schools has provided just such a service.

A volunteer committee of the Detroit Institute of Arts, Art to the Schools supplies area classrooms with free art appreciation talks based on the collections of the DIA.

Last year, 64 volunteers gave 1,129 talks to 35,745 students.

Their function is to go out to schools all over the tri-county area and give art talks to fourth, fifth and sixth graders," said Jennie Williams, who works in the DIA Education Department and is staff liaison/adviser to Art to the Schools. "We've zeroed in on that age group as being the most receptive to our kind of talk."

EACH TALK lasts about an hour and is illustrated with slides and reproductions of works at the museum.

"They take what we call 'touchables' if they want to," Williams said. "We have art reproductions and some art materials like brushes that they can take in addition to their slides."

Some volunteers, like Philip Kanat, one of only two men currently active as speakers, prefer to keep things simple. "The only props I use are slides and my blackboard," the Southfield resident said.

"Slides are really the best way of getting a look at an art reproduction," Williams said. "The image is large and the volunteers work with a few well-chosen pieces that they like and that they feel comfortable with."

"But the real heart of the program is what we call the 'inquiry method,' not necessarily just talking 'at' kids about the slides and about art, but asking questions and drawing the information out of the kids, getting the kids to respond and really look at a work of art, maybe for the first time."

KANAT, AT 75, often gives 2-3 talks a week. "The children have reacted the way I've wanted them to react. I've been able to get them to participate."

Art to the Schools offers such art subjects as American, African, Asian, Native American and, new this year, European.

Other topics include "The Ancient World," "Introduction to the Museum," "Art of our Time" (modern art) and "People of the World," a talk developed in response to the needs of social studies teachers.

"Throughout the year, American Art is our most popular talk because teachers see that it fits right into their curriculum," Williams said. "It goes right along with what they've been studying in American history, and gives them a chance to illustrate it with works of art."

Any teacher can request a talk, though most are art instructors, media specialists (librarians) and regular classroom teachers whose students are studying topics such as history, social studies and even language arts.

"Quite often, the volunteers will bring a list of terms or write art terms on the board so that the kids are learning new words that can key in with their study of language arts," Williams said.

ART TO the Schools was formed in the early 1960s by the Junior League of Detroit. By 1965-66, the Junior League joined with the DIA's Founder's Society. The Founder's Society took full responsibility the next year.

What sets Art to the Schools apart from similar programs is the amount of training each volunteer must complete to begin visiting classrooms.

"The volunteers train together with the docents who give the tours in the building," Williams said. "They have the same training, which is art historical. It's like an art history course from cave art to contemporary art. It lasts one school year, September through May."

The class, open to the public, is taught at the DIA one morning a week for two hours. The volunteers must pay tuition, refunded upon successful completion of the course.

The volunteers have access to something that the public does not have access to, Williams said. "It's a special class, just for the trainees, where they'll go around to the galleries and actually look at examples of things they've been seeing in slides — some 'behind-the-scenes' tours."

"They'll also get very special training on how to talk to kids — how to get across this information to kids — techniques of touring and speaking about art."

Art to the Schools volunteer Cynthia Synder (center) of West Bloomfield shows students at St. John Lutheran School in Rochester an example of Native American beadwork.

THE PROGRAM challenges volunteers with training—Williams feels is on par with college-level courses.

"I would urge people to volunteer for the program. It would certainly be a great help to the community and the museum and it is a marvelous learning experience," Kanat said.

Elaine Redmond, a former school teacher who has been with program for six years, agrees.

"This program is so nice because you get back so much from it," the Birmingham resident said. "You give your time and you have to train for a year at the museum. It's a big commitment, but at the same time, you're learning so much and because you're down at the museum, you're right there in the heart of things."

In addition to their love of art, another trait that all the volunteers share is a fondness for the kids in the classrooms.

"I've been able to provoke them enough to develop their interest in the museum. And of course, I see my role as simply to stimulate them," Kanat said. "They're good kids. They're kids who are 10, 11 and 12 years old, and they're marvelous to work with at that stage."

"I TRY and relate the objects I show the children to their lives," Redmond said. "They're so used to seeing images on television and in books and magazines, yet they never get to see the real thing."

"Many schools have a regular program of bringing their students down to the museum. But there are hundreds and hundreds of schools, where for whatever reason, the children do not get a chance to come to the museum. Those are the kids I want to reach."

Past and present Art to the Schools volunteers will reunite at the Roostertail in Detroit in June for a special celebration. Yet as the program prepares to celebrate its 25th year, many are concerned state budget cuts now under consideration may bring an end to the program.

"We really have no idea what's going to happen if we have a cut-back," Williams said. "If we lose all of our state funding, which provides half of our budget, we would have to close down. I don't know what that would mean for the (Art to the Schools) program."

"There are only two staff members who work with Art to the Schools, yet by using volunteer labor, we're able to reach 35,000 children annually. Teachers will say over and over again, 'The kids wouldn't have any other exposure like this to the arts if it weren't for your program.'"

"It's been wonderful for the kids to come down to the museum and see everything for free," Redmond said. "But now when I go in the schools, I tell them to hurry down and see because it may turn into this huge warehouse for art and the public may not be able to go in."

"If this is taken away, it's going to be heartbreaking."

To become a volunteer with Art to the Schools, call Jennie Williams in the DIA's Department of Education at 833-7977 or program assistant Dana Lee at 833-7883.

Volunteers play key part

The week of April 21-27 is National Volunteer Week. But the volunteers at the Detroit Institute of Arts are recognized as special every day.

For more than 28 years, this group of volunteers has played an integral role in museum operations. Numbering 500 men and women, they give more than 58,000 hours of service each year in a number of ways.

They work with children in their schools and at the museum, helping increase their involvement and interest in art.

They serve visitors by giving tours, answering questions in the galleries and by furnishing general information at information desks.

They also handle sales in the museum shop, decorate the public spaces, assist office staff and extend museum services into the community.

To join the volunteer committee of the DIA, call the auxiliary services department: 833-0247.

Apprentice auditions set

The Michigan Opera Theatre has scheduled vocal auditions for the 1991-92 Young Artist Apprentice Program on Thursday and Friday, May 9-10.

Two apprenticeships will be awarded, each lasting 8-12 weeks. Winners will be considered for programs beginning in September and April 1992.

The apprentice program offers a wide range of performance opportunities throughout the mainstage season. Apprentices perform comprimario (secondary) roles, cover major roles and participate in the chorus of mainstage productions.

When not rehearsing or performing, apprentices are individually coached by the resident music staff. They also participate in master classes under the tutelage of internationally acclaimed singers, directors and conductors from the current Michigan Opera Theatre season.

Interested applicants must submit a cover letter, resume, an 8-by-10-inch black and white glossy photo and two letters of recommendation from professional sources by May 1 to Dee Dorsey, Production and Audition Coordinator, 6519 Second Avenue, Detroit 48202.

Applicants for production apprenticeships will also be considered at this time. For more information on either program, call 874-7850.

How to protect shoulder pads

Q: I'm having more and more problems with shoulder pads. They are nice at first but repeated washing or cleaning causes them to lose their shape. Then I had a really bad experience: At a hotel convention, I spent lots of time getting ready to look perfect and at the last minute threw on my suit coat (fresh from the cleaners), only to find one of the shoulder pads dangling down inside the lining of the sleeve! Can you help me "organize" my shoulder pads?

organizing Dorothy Lehmkuhl

A: As if we don't have enough to do, attention to shoulder pads has become an added necessity. I did a little research and here are some thoughts:

Suit coat pads are sometimes glued in and repeated cleaning can melt the glue. Monitor them closely and repair them when necessary. (That shouldn't happen on good brands.)

You can cut out and re-sew loose pads back in for each cleaning, but frankly, that's a pain. Some women remove pads permanently and just wear the same pair that Velcro to their bra straps with everything.

Detachable pads that are attached by Velcro to the garment are ideal, but they're only sewn into some clothing. You can make most of them detachable by sewing in Velcro yourself, and you can try to buy only clothes with Velcro pads in the future.

Lillian Agostinelli, alterations supervisor at Hudson's Northland store, was particularly knowledgeable on this subject and emphasized that prevention is your best bet.

She underscores discussing concerns with your cleaners, pointing out pads that need particular attention. If they can't assure your garment will turn out as you want, look for someone who will give you that promise.

Lillian warns that both cleaners and individuals sometimes press pads out flat. This causes them to lose both their thickness and their curve and can result in unsightly lines showing through clothing.

She said they alter pads underneath by using small gathers to bring the pad into more of a curve, or by loosening material to straighten them out when needed. Rather than putting them in the dryer, she suggests drip-drying your tops so the pads dry into a natural curve.

Shanta Singh of Chase Cleaners at Bloomfield Plaza says they watch pads carefully. On clothes with loose pads, they pin two safety pins along the shoulder seam line from underneath. This helps retain their shape and prevents wadding up. She encourages customers to return garments for correction if they're unhappy with any aspect of their service.

If you're handy with a needle and thread and have the time, I like to loosely tack various points across your pads with matching thread to ensure the inside padding can't shift around during washing or cleaning.

MONTHLY ALBUM

About our cover

Prentiss Duke and Michael Campbell were married in Pretty Place Chapel on a mountain that is part of the boundary of North Carolina and South Carolina. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Duke of Columbia, S.C. and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Campbell of Livonia.

The couple's wedding pictures were taken by Sarah Sneed, who the groom's mother described as "the only photographer around that gets up to Eagle Ridge to take pictures, and she makes a specialty out of it."

The bride is a graduate of the University of South Carolina and is employed as the convention manager for Marriott Hotels in South Carolina. The groom is a student at the University of South Carolina, employed by the Columbia Fire Department and a member of the National Guard who served as a fire fighter in Saudi Arabia.

Just for brides

The Monthly Album is published the third Monday of each month for the announcement of engagements and weddings. All announcements are published on a first-come-first-served basis.

Information sent must be legible and include a daytime telephone number so if there is a question the staff can call.

Photos submitted should, preferably, be black-and-white glossy, 5 x 7 inches in size. Color photos can be submitted and will be accepted, but they do not reproduce as well.

Due to the volume of photographs handled, the newspaper will not be responsible for any that may get lost or damaged. Photos can be picked up after publication in the Farmington Observer office, or if a self-addressed sufficiently stamped envelope is received with the photo, every effort will be made to return it. However, photos do get lost because so many are handled every month. There is just no guarantee the photo will be returned.

Engagement and wedding announcements pertinent to Livonia, Redford, Garden City, Westland, Farmington and Farmington Hills should be addressed to Loraine McClish, in care of The Farmington Observer, 21898 Farmington Road, Farmington 48336.

Inquiries are taken by McClish or Rose Butler in the Farmington Observer office, 477-5450.

Rare and precious

Anything extremely rare is also precious.

An average of 250 tons of ore must be mined and processed to produce a one-carat diamond (which is only 1/142 of an ounce). Only 20 percent of all the diamonds in the world are gem quality; the rest are suitable only for industrial purposes. The expertise of many skilled and experienced people is necessary for the complicated process of extracting and finishing a diamond.

Perfection takes alot of planning

Your wedding day has finally come. Time to relinquish absolute independence and head into the sunset with your new lifelong companion. After months of planning, the guests have arrived, the photographer is in place, and the flowers have cast an intoxicating aroma through the church. Bells ring and birds sing. A delirious celebration of life culminates in one happy day.

Anyone who has ever been a bride or groom knows, however, that the happiest day of his or her life did not come without a tremendous amount of planning. Most will agree that there was a motive and a great deal of thought behind each song that played during the ceremony, the wedding cake flavor and the guests' seating arrangement. Perfection does not come easy.

No bride or groom wants to have the wedding bubble burst by problems and anxiety resulting from poor planning. Fortunately, there is a guide book for everyone who has ever considered getting married. It's free, easy to find and even easier to use -- the Yellow Pages.

With more than 5,500 standard headings, the Yellow Pages will assist you in planning everything from the rehearsal dinner to the honeymoon. Virtually everything you will need to bring your wedding plans to life can be found under a Yellow Page heading.

FIRST THINGS first: You can't start planning until you have found a place to get married and a person to perform the ceremony. Just reference "Churches," "Synagogues" or "Wedding Chapels," for a complete listing of nuptial venues. Priests, ministers, rabbis and justices of the peace tend to come with the chosen wedding site.

Once you've picked the date and chosen the location, you have several options. You can go formal or informal, day or evening, modest or elaborate. But if the decision to "take the plunge" was as much as you can handle, you might want to call in a professional to plan the wedding for you: reference "Wedding Consultants" in your Yellow Pages. Some important priorities include choosing wedding attire (reference "Bridal Shops" and "Formal Wear - Rental & Sales"), and selecting wedding bands (reference "Jewelers"). When the time comes to invite your guests to the wedding, refer to the Yellow Pages heading of "Invitations and Announcements" for a wide selection of traditional and contemporary invitation styles.

You can also find wedding transportation in the Yellow Pages. Reference "Limousine Service," "Carriages - Hire," or rent an exotic car by calling an establishment under the Yellow Pages heading of "Automobile Renting & Leasing." Imagine the delight of your guests if you arrived at your wedding on a "bicycle built for two" -- you can rent one by referencing "Bicycle-Renting."

NO WEDDING is complete without flowers, music and plenty of food; listings for those necessities can easily be found. But for that added bit of flair, why not plan a fireworks display for your guests, or have them participate in a balloon launch. Just look up "Fireworks" and "Balloons" in your Yellow Pages to make your wedding celebration truly spectacular.

The Yellow Pages will help you plan your honeymoon, as well. Reference "Travel Agencies and Bureaus" to get ideas about where you want to go, and to make plans once you've decided on a destination. You can also refer to "Hotels" or "Resorts" to obtain additional information about vacation spots.

People often say that finding someone to marry is the hard part. In actuality, it's once you find someone that the real hassles begin. Fortunately, the Yellow Pages help smooth out the wedding-planning wrinkles for engaged couples. With that special someone and the Yellow Pages, you really can live happily every after.

Fire depends on the cut

The beauty of a diamond depends on the way it reflects light, and the cutter must shape the stone in such a way as to admit light through the top of the stone, so it will bounce around inside and come back out the top. In this way, the maximum amount of light is reflected, and the diamond sparkles with fire, brilliance and scintillation.
