Minister's daughter reported missing

By Darrell Clemstaff writer

The 16-year-old daughter of Westland minister Michael Energen, who admitted abusing. her, was missing Friday from the group homewhere she had been staying since authorities removed her from her parents' custody March

The girl ran away from the Salvation Army Edwin Denby Children's Home in Detroit and had been missing for 10 days as of Friday, said troit.

"I'm worried," the grandmother said. "Emotionally she's very distressed. She wants to be placed here in my home, but she can't yet because of the red tape."

Esparza last saw the Enersen girl - who was taken from her parents because she had been abused — about two weeks ago.

"Once before she talked about running away (from the Denby home) but I : 4 her out of Esparza said the 16-year-old's disappearance was being investigated by the Detroit Police Department and the Department of Social Services. She said authorities have indicated they have some leads.

"We have been informed and we are investigating," DSS spokeswoman Margaret Anzinger

A woman who answered the telephone at the Denby home said she could not comment on the Enersen girl's disappearance.

"You'll have to talk to the DSS," she said.

POLICE REMOVED the daughter and a 13year-old son from the Energen home and placed them in foster care after the 36-yearold minister and his 33-year-old wife, Carol, were charged with child abuse in March.

The Enersens pleaded guilty April 25 in Detroit Recorder's Court, and they had been

Thursday at the Wayne-Westland school district center as part of its new relationship with Ford Motor Co., the first company to join the center's Partnerships for Education.

The new program is meant to make sure that the center's curriculum and training match the needs of businesses and industries, said Greg Baracy, center principal.

Taking part in Thursday's production/competition exercise were morning and afternoon students in the manufacturing technologies curriculum, which includes teenagers from John Glenn and Wayne Memorial high schools as well as adults from other communities.

'The winning team was an afternoon group made up of three students that completed the assembling of 18 flashlights at a unit cost of 28 cents. The team's time was 31/2 minutes with one defect.

Inmate sued for cost of term

The troubles for Carol Kwlatkowski, a Westland woman convicted in the attempted murder of her sister in late 1989, aren't over.

She is being sued by the state for reimbursement of her imprisonment at the Florence-Crane Women's Facility in Coldwater.

Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley said Wednesday that the state has filed a civil action against Kwiatkowski, who, along with her, father, was convicted in 1989 of assault with intent to murder her sister Anna Kwiatkowski.

Kelley is seeking reimbursement for costs of Ms. Kwiatkowski's incarceration from a bank account she holds at National Bank of Detroit containing in excess of $50,000 and from pension income.

Named as defendants in the civil action, which was filed in Wayne County Circuit Court are Kwiatkowski, 45, currently serving a 15year prison term; Lucille Rojeski, an aunt who holds the account jointly with Carol; National Bank of Detroit, location of the jointly held bank account; and Detroit Edison Co., Kwiatkowski's former employer and holder of pension funds which are owed to her.

CAROL KWIATKOWSKI and her father Valentine were convicted in October 1989 on charges that they tried to murder Anna, then 34 and suffering from health problems. According to the Kwiatkowskis' defense, they felt that they could no longer deal with the stress of caring for Anna and decided to kill her, a plan which they attempted to carry out on Aug. 6, 1989, by shooting Anna

Wayne-Westland lays off 5 more teachers

By Darrell Clem staff writer

Wayne-Westland school officials laid off five more teachers Thursday, raising to 132 the number of district employees laid off since April 15 to case, a severe budget crunch. The layoffs will take effect June 30.

The latest layoffs, announced during a special school board session, marked the last time' this year that the school board's budget ax will affect teachers, said William Taylor, associate superintendent of employee services.

Other employee groups, including hourly workers, also are not expected to face additional layoffs, Taylor indicated. "I think it's doubtful," he said.

The school board has made major cuts in its workforce since April 15, laying off 59 teachers; 34 bus drivers, 18 para-professionals, 10, teaching assistants, seven custodians, three mechanics and one secretary.

The cuts will save the district $3.75 million, said district finance manager Elwood (Woody) London. However, a loss of $1 million in state aid will result in a net sayings of $2.75 million; he said.

The local district will lose the state aid because of cuts in transportation and the pending one-hour reduction in the high school instructional day, London sald.

THREE OF four board members attending Thursday's special session voted in favor of the latest layoffs. Board members Andrew Spisak, Mathew McCusker and Sharon Scott supported the measure, but trustee Sylvia Kozorosky Wiacek abstained.

THE COUNTY board's unanimous vote angered Canton resident Max Mitchell, who vowed that Riverpark residents will appeal the decision to the Michigan Board of Education. Greenbrook residents also have appealed.

"It's very disappointing - very frustrating," Mitchell said, adding that he believes county school officials "are afraid to set precedent" by approving a secession attempt from the financially troubled Wayne-Westland district.

Flooding canceled two Detroit work sites along the Middle Rouge, Weihe said. Elsewhere, volunteers did-the best they could.

Some three dozen teenage workers gamely scrambled down a steep river bank to help clear logiams at the Canton/Wayne site along the lower Rouge.

"We'd really targeted another area, but we just couldn't get to it," site coordinator Kim Scherschilgt of Canton said.

Area volunteers participated at sites in northeastern Livonia, Holliday Nature Preserve, Westland and at the Western Wayne Conservation Association, near Plymouth Town-

"This is a pretty good way to do something for the community and to meet other people who are interested in the environment," said Don Hartford, an early volunteer at the city of Westland site in Dorsey Park.

A potentially serious accident was apparently avoided later at the Holliday Park site, also in Westland, where two men were briefly pinned under water when a log they were cutting rolled back onto them.

Setbacks, however, did little to dampen enthusiasm.

"IT'S NOT too bad here," said Shelia Majeswski of Westland, who helped out at Nankin Mills site. "We didn't find anything too exciting, like couches or automobiles, but we did clear lots and lots of logjams."

Unlike previous years, many workers steered clear of the river.

"Mostly, we stayed up on the banks," said Craig Schmatz of Plymouth Township, a Ford Motor Co. volunteer who also worked the Nankin Mills site.

Even though turnout was lower, "Our prom is tonight."

observers from Take Pride in America were still suitably impressed.

"We were very inspired not only by the number of people who showed up, but by the variety, especially with all the children we saw" said Trudy Harlow, information director for the Washington, D.C. group that has five times honored the Rouge Rescue for its volunteer spirit.

Take Pride representatives roamed from site to site, observing cleanup efforts. The group, a promotional effort of 13 federal agencies, is deigned to spur volunteerism. It was the first time group representatives visited the cleanup.

Youngsters appeared to outnumber adults at several sites, including the Canton/Wayne site behind UAW 900 Hall on Michigan Avenue. Students from Plymouth: Canton and Plymouth Salem government classes muddied themselves hauling fallen trees and other debris from the river.

Many of the same students would, be scrubbed and fresh a few hours later, said Jenny Masters of Canton.

Big trouble

Headlee plan lacking support

tax cut proposal has nowhere near the. support that Taxpayers United thinks it

Its proposed 20 percent, across-the-board property tax cut — with Lansing making up lost revenue to local government - encountered a stalemate recently in the state Board of Canvassers. There was no majority to put it before the state Legislature or the voters, nor was therea majority to reject the petitions as insufficient.

WHAT TAX FOES proposed is a voter-initiated law. TU had to collect 192,000 signatures in Politically, the rule of thumb is that you collect 30 percent more signatures than you legally need because many will be unreadable, improperly done or otherwise invalid.

Thus, TU should have had 250,000 to be safe. Instead it had only 224,000 when it filed its petitions last Sept. 11. So it was in big trouble from

The plan is named for TU chair Richard

HE BRUTAL truth is that the Headlee II Headlee, whose name graces the horrendously complicated 1978 constitutional amendment aimed at limiting taxes. But this plan is somewhat simpler: Cut property taxes by rolling back assessments 20 percent over two years.

> TU's fundamental notion is that assessments are rising far faster than the consumer price index. It's a true notion - in some areas of the state, notably the suburbs north and west of Detroit, the Grand Rapids area, the Lake Michigan shoreline and some of the Lake Huron shoreline. The rest of the state, however, doesn't know there's a problem.

> TU SHOULD have smelled trouble when gubernatorial candidate John Engler endorsed its plan, and then Governor Engler offered his own plan to cut only school operating taxes.

> TU should have smelled more trouble when the state Senate Republican leader introduced a resolution pressuring the Board of Canvassers to approve Headlee II, put it on the May 8 agenda and then failed to bring it to a vote.

For all its understandable fervor, Taxpayers United has big, big trouble on its hands.

Mother irked by inaction

To the editor:

In a recent letter from Scott Tarwacki, a Franklin Junior High student, he wrote that students need support from their parents, and not just their teachers. Please assure Mr. Tarwacki that my husband and I have also "spent endless hours helping with homework and weak areas." We have also spent time in the past helping in the classroom; and taking an active interest in all three of our children's educations. We attend all conferences, and have made every effort to convey our position to the teachers please inform us when there's a problem so we can work together to get our child back on track. We put our faith in these educators that they were willing to My daughter's GPA dropped from 3.0 to 2.1 in a single marking period, and there was no contact from the teacher that there was obviously a problem. Someone wasn't supporting the balance of working together, and it wasn't from our end. We were, and still continue to work with our children at home, even though we are totally frustrated by the school system. The sad part of this is the falling grades could have been prevented. Apparently work hadn't been turned in, and this situation could have been handled by one simple phone call - five minutes of the teacher's time.

A promise was made April 18 by a school board member and the principal of the elementary school to set up a conference. After numerous attempts, all in vain, to contact this same school board member, no return reply has yet been made. No conference has been set up. There is no indication of any concern at all over this situation by either the school board, or the principal or the teacher. We seem to be the ones correcting the problem on our own.

I compliment Mr. Tarwacki on his continued success at Franklin, and hope that he goes on-to achieve all of his ambitions. I would also like to point out that he never was a student of this particular teacher. I was led to believe this was the first year this teacher taught fifth graders, and previously had been the art teacher.

It is, however, reassuring to know using Mr. Tarwacki's grades as an example, there are teachers out there who do take the time to work with parents and students together as a team, the way it should be. I'm looking forward to finding such a relationship for the sake of my children, as well as all the students who attend the Wayne-Westland School

Katherine Ruchala

Education is emphasized

To the editor:

As a concerned citizen, I feel compelled to write my concerns about the upcoming school miliage election. Cutbacks in federal and state aid have placed the financial burden on individual school districts. Wayne-Westland is no exception.

Today, knowledge doubles every 25 years. Learning the "3 Rs" and getting a good paying job in an auto-assembly plant was maybe good yesterday, but not today, and certainly. not in tomorrow's world.

Do most parents spend time helping their kids with their homework? Do they devote more than 10 minutes of quality time with their kids each day? Most do not - instead, that added burden has been placed on the school system.

The Mayor's Blue Ribbon Committee is an excellent idea, composed of both members of the S.O.S. (Save Our Schools) and those opposed to the millage; however, their findings and report may be a year or more away, certainly not in time for the June 10 millage election. A published report and any recommendations will be acted upon when finished. In the meantime, put your faith in the school system; the are the people you have entrusted with the education of your children.

What has made this country great is communities like ours and the people who live in them. What are the most important things in your life? I hope it's your children! Where is the future of this country? It's in the young people of today. A long time ago, someone paid for our education (and built the schools). As adults and citizens, we have the responsibility to do likewise.

Before the last school millage election, the Westland Chamber of Commerce set up a debate, complete with cable coverage, as a service to have served and are serving our inform the community about the millage. Those leaders opposed to the miliage declined to attend the debate.

They did find time, however, to ! distribute their literature house to house just prior to the election. In time for the schools to respond to their lies and half truths? No, therefore the millage failed.

When the negative thinkers put their literature in your door the night before, (and they probably will) { show them where the sidewalk is! Grab your kids and give them a bighug. Tell them; "I love you!" "I care. about you!" Then vote!

Mark your calendar for June 10 and put a big note on your refrigerator. Get absentee ballots if you will be out of town. Whatever it takes vote as If it were the most important election you ever voted in! It just may be.

Allen Brooks,

Band attire is criticized

I attended the (Wayne-Westland), Memorial Day parade and have a few comments to make regarding the Wayne Memorial High band.

For one thing, wearing shorts and' a T-shirt with a message in reference to the school millage was in very poor taste, and out of place at a Memorial Day parade.

Plus, they didn't play nearly as: good as they usually do, and seemed to be bored with the whole thing. They showed no enthusiasm or school spirit.

Then behind them just a bit was the John Glenn High band in full unlform and playing as good as ever. Even doing a routine while marching and playing. I was quite proud of

If anyone made a statement about ! how great a band can be and how much spirit they have, it was the John Glenn Band, not the Wayne: High Band with the uncalled for T-; shirts and unenthusiastic players.

I was sitting next to friends of mine from Wayne and they agreed! with me. In fact, they were the ones who commented on the T-shirts just as I was noticing them.

Wayne High's apparel was very much out of place in a parade where we were honoring the people who country, especially those who have died in service to our country.

"My child should be afforded the opportunity to attend this superior school system," Hayes said.

Parent Michael Janks told the county board he's concerned about Wayne-Westland teachers telling students about the potential loss of busing and many school programs if the 7.75-mill tax increase fails June 10.

"Most students don't even know what a miliage is," Janks sald.

JOHN GLENN sophomore Kim Springer, urged the county board to oppose the secession because she's a Riverpark resident "and I love two to three years away.

my school. I love my friends, and I want to finish high school at John Glenn."

Springer said her family's decision to move to Riverpark was influenced by the Wayne-Westland district, which she said offers as many opportunities as Plymouth Canton.

John Hoben, Plymouth Canton superintendent, told county board members that the Plymouth Canton school board has taken no officlai position on the attempted secession. However, he said the school district is dramatically overcrowded.

Their attorney, Mark Kriger, said Friday that the sentencing has been adjourned until June 18 because a pre-sentencing report from the probatton department had not been completed by Friday.

The delay emerged because probation officials "can't get ahold of her." Kriger said, referring to the daughter whom he said was needed for information to complete the pre-

Each of the six teams was timed, with Orr and Johnson using a formula to determine the unit cost.

The flashlight assembly practice taught the students several important lessons they will need in the real world of manufacturing competition, Orr and Swan'said.

Those lessons included small groups of employees working together as a team, problem solving, brainstorming ideas, finding and eliminating wasted motions and improving the quality of the product being assembled.

SWAN SAID the students taking part in the exercise are from the center's new cluster program, which has pupils specializing in one subject but also taking classes in related fields.

The students are in the cluster programs of welding, electronics, computer aided design (CAD) and computer-aided manufacturing.

Kozorosky-Wlacek has opposed the layoffs, saying school officials have falled to seek other ways to slash the district's budget.

-Board members Kathleen Chorbs gian, Michael Reddy and Leonard Posey did not attend Thursday's session, though all three have voted in favor of recent layoffs.

Under the latest cuts, the teacher. workforce will dip below the 900-mark for the first time in years. The current 947-member faculty will drop to 888 teachers because of the layoffs, a decrease of just over 6 percent. Superintendent Dennis O'Neill noted that the cuts will result in a five-hour instructional day - down from six - for all junior high and

"THE KIDS will be getting onesixth less of their instructional program," he said, adding that the junior highs are facing their second year of a reduced instructional day.

The cuts also will result in the elimination of the elementary expressive arts program and the loss of busing among other cuts. School officials have stressed that the program cuts could be averted if a proposed 7.75-mill tax increase passes in the June 10 election. The layoffs also could be avoided, officials have said.

Your party deserves a change

Here it is early June, a time when flowers bloom, strawberries ripen and graduation-party hosts and hostesses scour major food magazines for new ideas. Everyone wants his or her party to be special and that's kind of difficult when you serve cocktail weenies along with corn chips and ranch dip.

There's little disputing the fact that a great party begins wth planning. If you plan a graduation party, you can count on the weather being either in the 90s with ditto humidity or ushering in a thunderstorm that undoubtedly will blow all the tents and umbrellas you borrowed or rented into the neighbor's yard, forcing all the guests to huddle in a steamy basement full of dirty laundry and boxes of Christmas ornaments you still haven't put away.

If you plan a graduation party, don't forget you may need an oven larger than the State of Rhode Island to handle the meat, potatoes, beans, vegetables, bread, rolls and hot appetizers. Empty the oven if it has been filled with crud-encrusted pots and pans you temporarily stored there to keep from your guests'

All kidding aside, a little planning can take those unexpected challenges and turn them into conquered feats.

A GOOD PLANNER will always take the weather into account. Alternate plans, seating arrangements and adequate space should always be available. The difference between a food schlepper and a caterer is that a caterer should always make a pre-site inspection or, at least, give you a list of needed equipment the caterer will/will not supply.

Although food magazines can be a great source for creative ideas, a good planner will have selected and tested all recipes so as not to be surprised when the meatball recipe turns into taco filling. This doesn't happen as much with the blg food magazines because their recipes are tested numerous times before publication but, rest assured, get a recipe from a relative or friend and it's bound to happen.

Some of the more trendy foods

• On the party circuit this year are:
• Salsas: What used to be
-ordinary salsa in a jar and yellow corn chips has turned into black bean salsa with blue corn tortilla bean salsa with blue corn tortilla chips. Homemade salsas using fresh ingredients and the discovery of the imported food store make this a sure bet.

• Stuffed Veggles: Everything from stuffed grape leaves to stuffed hearts of palm to ministuffed cherry tomatoes, stuffing vegetables is the heart-healthy alternative to wing dings and grape-jelly-coated meatballs. Better yet, you can do this all days in advance.

• Grilling parties: If your yard can handle it, beg, borrow or steal three more barbecue grills and have leed buckets of shrimps, scallops and chunked monklish at one; brats, Italian sausages and kielbasa at another, and grilled yeggles like green onlons, eggplant slices, red and green peppers and Vidalia onlons, all brushed with bottled Italian dressing, at the other grills. Invite your guests or, better yet, flamboyant relatives and friends to get the grilling going.

Last, but not least, the best planners always remember that, yes, this is a party and all the guests are hoping they will enjoy it. Good party planners will be well prepared, thus allowing the host and/or hostess also to have fun and enjoy the guests.

There's little disputing the fact that a great party begins with planning.

PEN THE DOOR to one of the five area American Bulk Food Stores and you are treated to what one might call a sensory carnival.

Surrounding you are the smell of spices, the visual display of colorful candies in lucite bins and the sound of coffee being freshly ground.

With a fast-growing clientele, American Bulk Food is establishing a reputation as a testing ground for new products including a wide variety of hard-to-find low-calorie and kosher products.

The stores are owned and operated by Marty Benson, a former pharmacist who listened when his wife suggested he open bulk candy sections in his two Wyandotte pharmacies 11 years ago.

Without intending to, they were test marketing a concept that was so successful he sold his pharmacles and started a chain of bulk-food-concept stores.

BESIDES MARKETING unusual products, Benson, the son of a former ice cream manufacturer, enjoyed innovating his own food creations. Consequently, Slimmery, a patented soft-serve frozen dessert, was born.

Available in such flavors as double dutch fudge, peanut butter cup and raspberry royale, this swirled confection adds up to nine calories per ounce and conforms to many diet plans.

ALTHOUGH SLIMMERY is now fat and sugar free, it wasn't always that way.

"When we started out, we were sugar free. When everyone started asking for fat-free ice cream, we changed the recipe. The point is we always try to accommodate the tastes and demands of our customers," Benson said.

Besides cups of Slimmery, there are variations on the theme including Slimmery pies, mousse, apple strudel and chocolate cake brownies — none of them weighing in for more than 179 calories.

Four ounces of Slimmery, which Benson admits is made up mostly of air, costs $1.29.

Custom-designed ice cream machines and pure Nutrasweet make the item expensive to produce.

Simmery is the word for dessert

"The pure form of Nutrasweet costs $200 a

ALTHOUGH THE soft-serve frozen dessert makes up a good part of the business, Benson is always branching out.

In recent years he has added a line of 150-calorie muffins and baked goods including 40-calorie fruit bars. Benson developed these recipes and sells the muffin mix in bulk form for $1.99 a pound.

turing companies to develop improved varieties of old favorites, including double dipped chocolate raisins and peanuts.

STILL, THE mainstay of Benson's business comes from the items that fill the bins throughout the store.

"Buying bulk makes sense for so many reasons. We eliminate obvious costs for packaging, distribution and advertising and the savings are passed on to the consumer."

Freshness is another factor that makes buying in bulk sensible. Prepackaged items often wait in warehouses to be shipped. When purchasing in bulk, one buys products in their freshest form, Benson said.

This is especially true of spices, which are more robust when they are fresher. Additionally, spices, a very important ingredient for some recipes, are costly.

Instead of having to commit to a container of a condiment for something that might be used once or twice, buying bulk allows a person to buy quantities by the ounce.

WITH THE beginning of warmer weather, patrons stopping in for bulk items are walking away with a Slimmery frozen dessert.

Though it may look dangerously fattening, the

Though it may look dangerously fattening, the calorie content makes it an indulgence most dielers can afford.

"My wife," Benson said, laughing, "calls it a grand illusion."

American Bulk Food Stores owned and operated by Marty Benson are in West Bloomfield, Rochester, Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Southgate.

Fitness buffs keep in best of shape enjoying meals at World Gym Cafe

Pasta salad and fruit salad are two of the dishes chef Tom Alonzo offers at the cafe in Canton.

BILL BRESLER stall photographer

By Ariene Funke special writer

Eating healthy doesn't have to mean a steady diet of carrot sticks and mung sprouts.

Tom Alonzo, chef of the new World Gym Cafe in Canton, is determined to cut fat and eliminate high sodium without sacrificing taste. "Our theme is food for fitness," said Alonzo, 24, of Westland. "I try to get many different spices, to take the place of sait."

The restaurant, which opened last month, sells sandwickes, salads and hot dishes packed in carry-out containers. Packages are labeled with information about sodium, fat, cholesterol and calories.

For example, Alohzo tops a large baked potato with a medley of chopped, cooked tomatoes, zucchini, onions and mushrooms seasoned with basil and thyme. The vegetables are crowned with melted, part-skim mozzarella cheese.

HE BOILS chicken pieces to obtain stock for black bean soup, avoiding salty commercial base.

Alonzo's smoked turkey pita sandwich is garnished with a dollop of spicy mustard and cholesterol-free mayonnaise.

The restaurant is nestled in a storefront which is part of the World Gym aerobics and fitness center at Warren and Lilley roads. The gym and restaurant are owned by Toni Kosh, 41, of Farmington Hills.

Alonzo's stated goal is to provide a healthy alternative to the burger-and-fries meal. "Once people try this food, I think they are going to take a complete look," said Alonzo, a 1985 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High School.

For example, the veggie baked potato contains 20 grams of protein, 12 grams of fat, 74 grams of carbohydrate and 571 milligrams of sodium. It has 461 calories. The vegetable pita, at 237 calories, has 9 grams of protein, 42 grams of carbohydrate, 4 grams of fat and 126 milligrams of sodium.

Alonzo became interested in cooking during high school. He studied culinary arts at Johnson and Wales University in Providence, R.I., and hotel and restaurant management at Eastern Michigan University.

THE CHEF, who has worked at several local restaurants, is fulfilling requirements toward becoming certified as an executive chef. He also teaches culinary arts at the William D. Ford Vocational/ Technical Center in Westland.

Substituting spices for salt and creating low-fat sauces is second nature to Alonzo, a fitness buff. "I have been doing it at home for myself for a number of years," he said.

The World Gym Cate, geared to carry-out trade, has only a few tables. Previously, lowfat frozen yogurt was sold there. Yogurt still is on the menu. But the repertoire now includes interesting salads, sandwiches and dishes such as vegetable lasagna and pasta with broccoll and mushrooms.

Prices are reasonable. The yeggle baked potato costs $1.85. Sandwiches are in the $3 range. Salads range from around $1.50 to $3.50 for a pasta-and-chicken blend. Hot entrees cost around $4.

Owner Kosh intends to concentrate on establishing his customer base during the next two years, then moving his entire operation to a larger site within a mile or two.

World Gym Cafe is in the World Gym complex at Lilley and Warren roads, Canton, phone 455-7860. Hours are 5 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Monday-Friday; 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

AP - Buying rice once meant choosing between white rice and brown. But no more. Aromatic rices such as basmati, texmati, wild pecan and popcorn rice are growing in popularity right alongside their traditional cousins. Available in fancy food shops and from mail-order houses, these flavorful alternatives can change an ordinary stir-fry into an extraordinary entree, or a simple seafood sauce into a fancy gourmet meal.

... To me, one of the pluses of cooking with aromatic rices is the tantalizing aroma. While simmering, each smells like toasting nuts or popping corn. And, believe me, their rich, nutty flavor lives up to their delicious fragrances.

Meeting the challenge of Scallops Linguine

With the ever-increasing focus on eating healthful food and keeping fit. many people are experimenting with different ingredients in order to make favorite recipes lower in fat and calories.

This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Debbie Cox of Livonia, submitted a menu that includes a recipe for Scallops Linguine.

Substituting cornstarch and evaporated skim milk for heavy cream and butter, she succeeded in maintaining the creamy texture and greatflavor of a recipe that had long been a personal favorite.

Fresh, steamed asparagus; dinner rolls; and peanut butter pie, made with CoolWhip, complete the meal that has the added benefit of being quick and easy to put together.

COX, ORIGINALLY from Owos so, Mich., received her bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant.

With her hard-earned diplomas in hand, Cox came to Detroit and began her career with Manufacturers Bank.

Working as a branch manager, she met her husband, Jim, the owner of a landscaping service called Bush Gardens. They eventually married and-are now the parents of two young girls.

As with her recipe, Cox has had to make adjustments in her professional life as well, now that she is a mother.

She has been able to combine motherhood with a career successfully and teaches one or two evening classes a semester at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

COX ENJOYS cooking, especially cakes, cookles and anything with chocolate in it.

To accommodate her sweet tooth, she exercises regularly and watches her caloric intake. She enjoys getting. together with friends and their children, loves to shop and, when she has a quiet moment, likes to read books on child-rearing.

SCALLOPS LINGUINE

It's delicious tasting and easy. Your family will swear you have been slaving away to make his ... wonderful dinner when, in fact, it only takes minutes to put together. Although the pasta should be cooked just before serving, everything else can be made in advance. This recipe serves 5.

8 ounces linguine (or thin spa-

1 pound bay scallops, rinsed and drained

11/2 tablespoons lemon juice 1 clove garlic, minced

1 teaspoon fresh or dried parsley, chopped finely teaspoon fresh or dried dill weed, chopped finely Dash of sait and pepper: 1 tablespoon margarine (or omit, and use vegetable spray) 1 teaspoon cornstarch

1/2 cup evaporated skim milk 's cup Parmesan cheese, divid-

In a medium-sized bowl, combine the scallops, lemon juice. garlic, parsley, dill weed, salt and pepper. Toss gently. Cover and refrigerate 10-15 minutes so that the flavors can blend.

Cook the linguine al dente, according to the directions on the package: Drain and rinse with hot water.

Melt the margarine or spray a skillet or large saucepan with vegetable spray. Drain the scallops and cook over medium-high heat for 3-4 minutes, stirring frequently. Sprinkle cornstarch on the scallops, add the milk and heat until bubbly and thickened, about 2 minutes. Add the linquine to the scallops along with half of the Parmesan cheese and toss well, distributing the scallops evenly. Heat the mixture through, top with the remaining cheese and serve.

Summer's the time to serve cooling mint juleps

AP — Mint juleps, a refreshing spoon syrup, 1 tablespoon water and warm-weather drink, are traditionally served in sterling silver julep cups, filled with crushed ice, or 8-to 10-ounce glasses.

MINT JULEPS

1 cup sugar 1 cup water

1 bunch fresh mint sprigs (2 ounces or about 2 cups lightly packed) Crushed ice

Kentucky bourbon

Combine sugar and water, boil for 5 minutes without stirring. Cool. Place mint in a jar with a lid; add syrup. Refrigerate overnight. Remove mint. Keep syrup refrigerated. This will keep several weeks and individual juleps may be made as de-glass with crusted ice. Add 1 table-

2 ounces (1/4 cup) bourbon. Stir gently until glass is frosted. Insert straw and garnish with a sprig of mint.

(Recipe from: "Kentucky Derby Museum Cookbook." The Kentucky Derby Museum, Louisville, Ky. $22.)
MINT JULEP

Confectioners sugar

21/2 ounces whiskey Fresh mint sprigs

Dissolve 1 teaspoon confectioners' sugar with 2 teaspoons water in a silver mug. Fill with finely shaved ice and 21/2 ounces whiskey. Stir until mug is heavily frosted; add more ice if necessary. (Do not hold mug while Decorate with 5 or 6 sprigs of fresh mint so that the tops are about 2 inches above the rim of the mug.

(Recipe from: "Jack Daniel's The Spirit of Tennessee Cookbook" by Pat Mitchamore and Lynn Tolley. Rutledge Hill Press, Nashville, Tenn.

MINTICE TEAJULEPS

Fresh mint

2 cups boiling water 2 mint tea bags 4 teaspoons sugar Crushed ice 4 ounces bourbon

Pour two cups boiling water over two mint tea bags. Steep for 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Stir in 4 teaspoons sugar. Allow tea to cool. Fill 4 tall glasses with crushed ice. Measure 1 ounce bourbon and 1/2 cup cooled tea over ice in each glass. If necessary, add ice to fill glass.

June is recognized as National Dairy Month to celebrate dairy products and the importance they play in our daily diet.

Milk and other dairy products supply protein as well as a variety of vitamins and minerals essential for good health.

Markham wines a real value

Every few years since the late 1970s, we have stopped by the humble stone structure of Markham Vineyards just north of the town of... St. Helena in the Napa Valley. To be quite blunt about it, we tasted the wines, yawned, mumbled a ho-hum to each other and left as quietly as · we entered.

Last year, we blind-tasted the 1987 Merlot and were surprised because it stole the show. Fearing a flash in the pan, we've been tasting Markham regularly and are now prepared to declare the wines consistent, right on target and undiscovered Napa Valley values.

"In 1978, the winery lacked vineyards with premium grapes," remarks winemaker Bob Foley. "It has taken us 10 years of planting and replanting to have vineyards worthy of premium bottlings."

The stone building housing Markham Vineyards was constructed by Bordeaux emigre Jean Laurent more than 100 years ago. It is the fourth most continuously used winery in Napa County. In 1978, Markham. Vineyards was founded by Bruce Markham. It was purchased in 1988 by Mercian Corp., a Japanese conglomerate and largest producer of wine in Japan.

the winery is undergoing a massive reconstruction to double the size of its production facility. When the project is completed in 1992, the winery will be 75,000 square feet to accommodate fruit from the wineryowned vineyards. The 85-acre Napa Ranch is planted chardonnay and sauvignon while the 110-acre Yountville Ranch, and the 60-acre Calistoga Vineyard at the base of Mt. St. Helena yield the classic Bordeaux red grapes, cabernet sauvignon, merlot and cabernet franc.

Led by president Bryan del Bondio and winemaker Bob Foley, Markham wines show the excitement of a new breed of California producer, respectful of winemaking traditions ...ness than a refractometer.' but willing to experiment and ques-_tion the old assumptions.-

In addition to outstanding merlot, Markham produces cabernet sauvignon, sauvignon blanc, muscat blanc and chardonnay. "In the future, I'd like to produce varietal semillon,' Foley maintains.

"Both Bryan (del Bondio) and I have technical winemaking degrees from the University of California at Davis, but we believe taste buds can measure much more than the lab. Joe Heitz once told me that chemists make lousy winemakers.

Walnuts make a good addition to salads

AP - For a salad that is low in calories, cholesterol and saturated fats - but high in appetite appeal combine seasonal vegetables and érunchy walnuts.

Walnuts contain fat that is 70 percent polyunsaturated. They are low in sodium, contain no cholesterol, and are a source of protein and fiber, according to the Walnut Marketing Board.

"Aside from their nutritional composition, walnuts are an excellent addition" to salads, the board says, because their strong flavor has a chameleonlike quality, tasting sweet when paired with fresh vegetables and cheese, or sharp when paired with savory ingredients such as onions and grilled meats."

Basic ingredient substitutions, such as non-stick vegetable cooking spray instead of oil, and creative cooking methods, such as grilling, brolling and steaming, make it possible to add "indulgent" Ingredients such as walnuts, low-fat cheese and meats to salads, according to the

The Walnut Board asked Harris Golden of Arizona's Maine Chance resort to create a spa salad recipe for at-home cooks. The result: a Sunburst Salad made with slices of summer squash, zucchini, carrot and red bell pepper, topped with walnuts and a sherry ginger dressing.

> MAINE CHANCE SUNBURST SALAD WITH SHERRY-GINGER DRESSING

35 cup walnuts, coarsely chopped 2 teaspoons honey

1 large zucchini, cut into slices 234 inches in length 1 yellow summer squash, cut into

134 pound Chinese snow peas

1 red bell pepper, cut into slices 21/2 inches in length

34 cup (3 ounces) Jarsiberg "lite" cheese, shredded Sherry Ginger Dressing (recipe follows)

Combine walnuts with honey in a small bowl; stir to coat. Place walnuts on a greased baking sheet. Roast in a 350-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Set aside.

Bring large pot of water to a boil over medium heat. Prepare a large bowl of ice water. Plunge zuechini into the boiling water for 30 seconds. Using tongs or a slotted spoon, transfer the zucchini into the bowl of ice water. Drain on paper towels. Repeat with the summer squash, carrot and snow peas. (Do not blanch the., red pepper.)

Place 2 tablespoons of the shredded cheese in a mound on each of 6 serving plates. Arrange zucchini. summer squash, carrot, snow peas and red bell pepper in a sunburst pattern around the cheese. Top with the roasted walnuts. Serve with Sherry Ginger Dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Coyne boots Spartans into final 4

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Yes, yes, it's true - the best play their best in big games. In Saturday's Class A state regional girls soccer showdown between Plymouth Salem and Livonia-Stevenson, the Spartans' Ragen Coyne and Lori Godlewski

But it's also true that you need a little luck to be a

Stevenson proved that as well. With the match tied 1-1 eight minutes into the second half, Lisa Ferguson headed a shot at the Spartan goal. Keeper Karen Groulx lunged at the ball and was able to get just a piece of it, deflecting it with her right hand enough to keep it out of

But not hard enough to push it out of danger. Jennifer Oleksiak charged in from left wing and - with Groulx sprawled on the turf - drilled the rebound over the bar.

The tie had been maintained. Six minutes later it was broken, but it was Stovenson that did the untying. A corner kick from Coy as bobbled and dropped by Salem keeper Jennifer Emmett after she collided with a Stevenson player. Andrea Wittrock knocked the ball into the net and the Spartals were ahead.

COYNE ADDED an insurance goal - her second of the game -- and the defending state champs had survived their biggest-test of the state tournament thus far. beating Salem 3-1 at Woodhaven HS.

The win puts Stevenson into the state semifinals against Troy Athens, 5:30, p.m. Wednesday at Troy HS.

"I don't know if it was luck or experience," said Stevenson coach Mary Kay Hussey - before admitting that Groulx's save was, very likely, a game-saver.

It certainly turned things around for the Spartans. Indeed, they were fortunate to be tied after 50 minutes. Salem outplayed them in the first half, but it was Stevenson that scored first.

"We played awful in the first half," agreed Hussey. "We were playing kickball, and we're not a kickball team -- or at least we're not as successful playing kick-half, we put the ball on the ground and we played much better,"

SALEM WAS more effective in the opening half with a physical style of play. But the Rocks were hurting, leading scorer Erin Harvey was hampered by a knee injury and played sparingly, and Mackenzie Emmelt and Amy Krajewski were both hobbled.

Still, they controlled play until a defensive breakdown allowed Coyne, one of the state's top players, to get

It didn't stay that way long. The Rocks counterat-tacked immediately, and Mandy Drummond cashed in after fielding a pass 18 yards out, setting it and knocking it past Groulx to tie it at 1-all with 12:18 remaining

The Rocks sounded confident at halftime, and rightly so. They started the second half with three good scoring chances (the last was Oleksiak's miss), but didn't con-

AND THAT cost them. "We had our chances today." said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "But you've got to put them in the net. All we needed were a few breaks."

The Rocks didn't get many, And after Wittrock's goal' with 31:28 remaining put Stevenson ahead, the tide shifted. The Spartans took control and maintained it; with Salem getting just one other true scoring chance a loose ball that was cleared out of danger by Steven; son's Patty Diamond with 25:00 left.

Coyne got the insurance score with 12:35 left after another free kick from Godlewski. The Salem defense froze, and Coyne made them pay, launching a shot from 22 yards that went into the corner.

"What can I say? She's a big game player," said Husev of Course "She knows what it means and she doesn't stop. I think it's her experience in pressure situations. She knows when to dig down."

Coyne was certainly good enough to provide her team with the kick-start it needed this time. The Spartans are unbeaten since losing 5-1 to Salem in the regular season last year. They are 17-0-2; Salem bows out at 16-2-1.

Marlins elude state-ranked Pats

By Brad Emons

staff writer

Graduation took on added meaning for pitcher Maureen Paulin and her Farmington Hills Mercy senior softball teammates Saturday afternoon.

After spending Friday night celebrating, the Marlins went out and won the Class A district championship Saturday at the Southfield Civic Center with a pair of 1-0 victories over rivals Livonia Ladywood and Livonia Franklin.

Paulin was not overpowering in her 14 innings on the mound, but simply razor-sharp. She had only eight strikeouts, but gave up only four hits and four walks.

"I was up until 3 a.m. because I was excited about graduation, too," said Paulin, who was recently voted the Catholic League's Female Athlete of the Year. "The second game (against Franklin) was very important because they're our big rivals. They've always beaten us. I wanted to beat them bad because they're stateranked. This means a lot and it feels good be-cause we accomplished one of our goals.'

Franklin (19-6), last year's Class A finalists, could not solve Paulin's brilliant pitching after squeaking past Northville in the other semifinal,

-THE PATRIOTS, Western Lakes Activities Association champions, mustered only two hits off the Mercy right-hander.

"Paulin was very good," said Franklin coach Joe Epstein. "She (Paulin) just doesn't walk anybody. She stays ahead on the count and it seems she throws a strike every other pitch. I thought she was a little quicker in the second game than the first. We felt confident we could hit her, but she pitched a whale of a game."

Franklin's Jenny Mayle, meanwhile, matched Paulin practically pitch for pitch, but was the victim of an unearned run in the first inning.

The Patriot senior allowed only three hits and did not walk a batter. She fanned five. The Catholic League champions manufactured the only run of the game in the top of the first with one out.

Paulin reached base on a Franklin infield error. She advanced to second on Angela's Mastroionni's sacrifice bunt. Paulin then hesitated on a steal for third. Franklin catcher Tracy Parenti's throw was on time, but shortstop Emily Skura broke late to the bag and the ball grazed her glove and out into left field. Paulin just kept coming around third and scored what proved to be the game-winning run.

"I NEVER THOUGHT It would be a one-run game," Mercy coach Suzanne Brown said. "But by the fifth inning somebody on the bench told me that (first-inning run) would be it.

"We play percentage ball and try to get it down so different people can field it. We've never been blessed with the big hitters, but I think we're solid all the way through our lineup. We're quick and we know what to do."

Epstein prepared for Mercy's ways, but the Patriots' first-inning miscues proved to be too much to overcome.

"They (Mercy) play for one run and they feel they can win with one or two," Epstein said. "I told our girls we needed at least three. I felt going in that one run was not enough. I thought it would be a 4-3 game. We basically made all the plays. We played solid defensively for the most part." The Marlins, meanwhile, made only one error all day, and that came in the bottom of the seventh of the championship final when center fielder Kathleen Berrigan came charging in on a short pop-up with Franklin pinch-runner Tammy Schaffer on first base.

Berrigan dropped the ball, but had the presence of mind to grab it and force the runner out at second base. Paulin then got Jenny Murray on a pop out to second base to end the game.

"I'M. YERY IMPRESSED with our team defense more than anything," said Brown, whose team is 27.8 overall. "In my six years here this the best I've felt about a group as far as knowing the game and making all the right plays. They don't quit and I'm very happy. They've achieved

The Marlins, however, did not have an easy time with Catholic League rival Ladywood.

The two teams split their four-game series during the regular season.

Mercy tallied its only run against Ladywood pitcher Staci Kowalczyk in the bottom of the sixth on a single by Mastroionni, a sacrfice bunt by Heffernan followed by an infield error. (Pinch-runner Jennifer Banish scored on the Kowalczyk, a left-hander, allowed only two hits while fanning six as the Blazers bowed out with an 18-15 record.

"I told my team this would be a 1-0 game," Ladywood coach Kim Linenger said. "We hit a lot of balls right at them, we just couldn't find the holes. Their pitcher (Paulin) pitched a nice game. She's been a workhorse for them lately."

In the other semifinal, the Patriots had to struggle to beat Northville, a team they had beaten badly during the regular season by scores 14-0 and 11-1.

THE PATRIOTS scored one run in the third and another in the sixth — both unearned — off Northville pitcher Karen Trepicone.

The Mustangs tied it up in the bottom of the sixth on a two-run double by Kara McNeil, but Franklin came storming back in the top of the seventh on Parenti's clutch two-run double.

"We got a break to win the first game," Epstein admitted.

Six errors, including a costly miscue in the seventh, led to Northville's undoing.

"Those are the type of things that have been hurting us all year," said Northville coach Gail Trepicone, whose team finished the year at 13-12. "But Karen (Trepicone) has been coming on strong the last quarter of the season. She's pitched in every inning of every game."

Mayle won her 19th game of the year (against three losses). She struck out seven and allowed four hits. (Trepicone gave up six hits.)

But the day belonged to Paulin, who is now 19-

6 on the year, and Mercy. "I like to throw a strike before anything else," she said. "I don't really have a variety of pitches. I use a change-up and a rise. I'm not extremely

"We haven't been favored to win at all this year," said starting and winning pitcher Bob Kummer. "We just respect our opponents and give 100 percent. That's all you can ask

Northville (7-19) wasn't even supposed to make it to the finals after winning only six regular-season games. But the young Mustangs proved to onlookers that they were a much better team than Indicated, gaining a little respect for themselves after beating favored Livonia Franklin (14-9) in the other scińlfinal, 2-1.

THE FINAL started out as if CC was going to make it a mercy game. The Shamrocks scored twice in the first on a pair of bases loaded walks. They added two more in the second on a sacrifice fly and an Northville made a pitching change and didn't give up another run until the bottom of the fifth when the Shamrocks picked up five, highlighted by Scott Kapla's three-run triple.

to 8-3. He wasn't overpowering during his 61/3 innings, but allowed one hit and three earned runs. (He walked five.)

"The coach told me to make sure that I throw strikes," Kummer said. "We played so well in the field. That made it a lot easier."

The only time Kummer really got into trouble was in the top of the seventh inning when he gave up. two walks, followed by an error to load the bases. 🧸

Kummer was relieved by senior Steve Ross, who promptly walked in a run and then gave up a double to make the score 9-4.

ROSS EXITED with runners at ... second and third.

With one out, coach John Salter went to ace pitcher Kapla, who retired the next two batters on a strikeout and a bouncer back to the mound to end any Northville'comeback hopes.

"The kids battled hard all day," said Northville coach Bob Frellick. "They proved that in the last inning. They played like a team that had a winning record. I'm proud of the way they played today."

CC, meanwhile, advances to face the winnner of the Garden City dis-

"We're the kind of team that plays great one day and bad the next," Salter sald. "We never know who is going to show up. We're up and down. Hopefully, we'll play better defense and throw better. We've been scoring enough runs."

The down team must have showed up for Game No. 1 as the Shamrocks barely escaped U-D, thanks to the heroics of definite district MVP Kapla (6-3), who inherited a 3-2 deficit.

He worked the final 335 innings, giving up just one hit. It was his fence-clearing homer in the top of the seventh that won it.

"SCOTT DID IT all today for us," Salter said. "He won the first game with his hitting and pitching, and he saved the second game. He is our best all-around player."

.CC jumped out to a 2-0 lead with a pair of runs in the first two innings, but U-D got three in the bottom half of the third to take a 3-2"

The Cubs carried that one-run lead until the sixth.

Junior outfielder Dan Gusoff singled, stole second and third, and scored when the U-D catcher threw the ball into left field, tying the game at 3-all.

That set the stage for Kapla, who ' sent a screaming shot over the left field fence.

Northville captured semifinal on a bases-loaded walk in the top of the sixth.

Franklin coach Jim Karoub decided to make a pitching change with one on and one out and the score tled at 1.

He replaced stafter Mike Berry with Dave Roman, but it proved to be costly. (Berry had only given up three hits and no walks.)

Anron Rumberger (right) of Redford Catholic Central slides safely into home plate against Northville in the Class A district baseball final at Southfield.

Roman came on and got the first : two outs, but had control problems. thereafter. He got flustered after a pair of walks and an infield error that led to the game-winning run.

"I WANTED five good innings out of Berry," said Karoub. "He' had 60 pitches and he was throwing a little high. He had only one strikeout and they were hitting the ball off him, but we were making the plays behind him.

"With Roman I thought we'd give them a different look. He could overpower them. He got a little upset on some close calls. I'd do It again. We engineered it correctly, but we just didn't execute it."

Franklin jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the third after a walk, sacrifice bunt and a run-scoring, single by catcher Jeff. Schaffer, But that's all the Patriots . could muster up against Northville hurler Mike Lang, a 6-foot-5 senior: who kept hitters off balance with his mixture of a sharp curveball and effective fastball. "The bottom line is that we-couldn't hit Lang," Karoub said. "He struck out seven and we just didn't put the ball in play enough. They outplayed us."

Northville tied the game in the fifth after a single, sacrifice bunt and a double.

"Usually, I just throw the hardball for the first two innings and then I switch to the curve," Lang sald. "But today, I got the curve going first. We also played very well defensively."

Glenn baseball season ends, 4-3

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Plymouth Salem coach John Gravlin opened the packet of information he was given Saturday afternoon to learn who the Rocks will be playing in the regional baseball tournament. The salutation atop the introductory letter said: "Congratulatons on your district championship."

"I'm getting used to this," Gravlin said after reading that.

Regional appearances have become an annual event for Salem, which won its fourth district title in the last five years Saturday with a 3-1 victory over Plymouth Canton at Ann Arbor Huron.

The Rocks have twice won backto-back championships, in 1987-88 and 1990-91. Canton, which has lost three of those games to Salem, won in 1989.

"OF THE four, this one is the most impressive," Gravlin said. "We had four great teams in this district and three of the top pitchers in the state." The second figure should probably be increased to four, also, after Jeff Belisle's performance in the championship game.

After teammate Scott Rodgers threw a one-hitter in the second game to help Salem defeat Western Lakes Activities Association champion Westland John Glenn 4-3. Belisle tossed a two-hitter at the Chiefs in the final.

Canton ace Scott Kennedy outdueled Adrian's Dan Lock in the first game as the Chiefs prevailed with a 3-2, come-from-behind victory.

Furthermore, every team in the tournament had more than 20 wins. Salem advances with a (22-6) record to play the Wyandotte district winner at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in the regional at Wyandotte. Glenn finishes with a 23-3 record and Canton

"The difference in all those years is that we've had the better No. 2 pitcher," Gravlin said. "That seems to be it every time.

"THAT WAS a masterful game by Belisle. He's clearly been our No. 2 since midway in the season. There are days Jeff Belisle just heats it

Belisle faced 25 batters and threw 87 pitches, 53 for strikes. He struck out four and walked two. Canton's only run came on pinch-hitter Ben Hendricks' solo homer_after the Rocks had taken a 3-0 lead

The home run was my fault Gravlin sald, "I assumed the kid was taking it and we'd throw one across." Frank Learned pitched 41/3 innings and gave up all three runs and five Salem hits but didn't walk anyone. Kennedy returned to pitch 2% hitless innings of relief, striking out

"Our idea was to get (Learned) to the point we can come back with Kennedy and have it tied," Canton coach Fred Crissey said. "(Belisle) threw strikes and he didn't give us a lot. We hit the ball but couldn't find the gap."

Learned allowed only one baserunner until the fourth, when Salem scored twice. Eric Nielson led off with a single, and Scott Niemiec and Rodgers had consecutive dou-

BUT THE key run, according to both coaches, was the one Scott Bright scored in the fifth. He singled, went to third on Ed Gundry's double and scored when the Chiefs made an infield error and a sliding Niemiec beat the throw to first.

"If it's a 2-1 game, there are a lot of things you can do," Crissey sald. "If it's 3-1, you simply have to hit the ball and get on base.'

"Not only that but you're not going to score many off Kennedy," Gravlin said. "He might be the best high school pitcher I've ever seen. We never faced him for seven, but a Kennedy-Rodgers matchup would have been one hell of a game.

"(Niemiec) didn't have a hit and I guess he won't get the RBI, but it. was a clutch at-bat. We teach that in our program. Every time you step up there, you want to have a good atbat. If you do that, we'll be successful, and I guess we have been."

In the Salem-Glenn game, Rodgers took a no-hitter into the seventh inning before giving up a single to Andy Gagne. But he walked 10 and hit one batter, and the Rockets had numerous scoring chances because of it.

"That was the wildest he's been all year, but he got it done when had to get it done," Gravlin said.

"JOHN GLENN has been his nemesis. It's the only team he hadn't beaten, and a little of that showed today. He got nervous in a some situations, but he dug down deep and stayed with it."

Two walks and the hit batter loaded the bases for Glenn in the fifth, and the Rockets got a run on Mike White's sacrifice fly. Rodgers ended the inning with one of five strikeouts, leaving the bases still full.

Gravlin considered going with a relief pitcher in the seventh when

BERGSTROM'S

Glenn threatened again, scoring a run to make it 4-3 on two walks, the hit and an error.

"But you know the guy has a nohitter going, and they know he's been shutting people down," Gravlin said. "They might come after a new guy. They tore up our relief pitching the last time.

"So it's to our advantage if he can stay in it. That says a lot about Scott Rodgers, because Glenn is one of the best hitting teams in Michigan."

The one hit was uncharacteristic of the Rockets, who scored first on Lawrence Scheffer's first-inning sac-

"WE'VE BEEN fiving with (offense) all year," Glenn coach Norm Hoenes said. "We've been getting 8-9 a game and today only one.

"I thought we gave them a run in the first inning and one in the sixth, but we had our chances with the bats and didn't get the hits. I'm not going to put the blame on the defense.'

Ed Gundry, who had two of Salem's seven hits, singled in the first, advanced on an error and scored on a wild pitch. The Rocks got the deciding run in the sixth when Rodgers walked and worked his way around on two errors.

enough runs to cover up our errors, but today was a tough ballgame and it showed up more than it has all season," Hoenes sald. Gundry slammed an RBI double in

"Ordinarily, by then we've scored the second to give Salem the lead, and Kevin Craggs hit a solo homer in the fourth for a 3-1 advantage.

"When Ed Gundry hit one off the fence, that told us we were going to win the game," Gravlin said. "We were emotionally pumped for the game, but your confidence can turn on or off. When Eddie hit that one, we had a lift and our confidence went sky high.'

AARON SCHEFFER went the distance for Glenn, striking five and walking one. Salem had five of its seven hits in the first two innings.

Kennedy pitched a two-hitter, struck out 12 and walked four to beat Adrian. After the first inning when the Maples scored both runs, he allowed one hit and two walks.

The Chiefs got four hits and four walks off Lock, who struck out sev-

Marc Pennebaker's RBI single made it 2-1, and Canton scored twice in the fifth. Chris James tied it with a sacrifice bunt, and Mike Wougamon raced home when Lock made a wild pitch on a strikeout

Spartans show no Mercy

By C.J. Alsak staff writer

The tears flowed, unrestrained. The season had ended for Farmington Hills Mercy's soccer team, and its finish had not been a particularly happy one.

Marlin coach Deepak Shivraman insisted his team "had nothing to be ashamed of." Considering all Mercy had accomplished - Catholic League and Class A district champions, a 16-2-3 record — Shivraman's claim

But it would have been difficult to convince the Marlins of it Thursday as they trudged off the Woodhaven HS field, heads bowed after absorbing a 5-1 bludgeoning from Livonia Stevenson in a Region II semifinal.

Mercy's record for the season was exceptional. That much is true. The Marlins did not lose to Stevenson because of a series of silly mistakes, or because of bad breaks, or because they weren't properly prepared.

They lost by four goals because Stevenson was four goals better.

THE SPARTANS extended their unbeaten streak to one year-plus. They have not lost since the Western Lakes Activities Association regular season of 1990. The defending state champs attacked from the opening kickoff against Mercy and never relented.

"They've been doing that all season long, coming out hard," said Shivraman. "We knew they'd do that. It didn't surprise us."

What did surprise the Mercy coach wasn't the talent of Spartans like midfielder Ragen Coyne and forward/ defender Lori Godlewski. His team was ready for them. But the Stevenson depth — that was different.

"I thought Coyne might have a field day," said Shivraman. "That was my focus. But every time they went!" to the bench, they were strong.

"Depth-wise, we still have a lot of work to do." Reaching a depth in skill level comparable to Stevenson's won't be easy, for any team in the state. Which made Thursday's conditions - temperatures near 90 - Ideal for the Spartans. Coach Mary Kay Hussey went to her bench early and often.

"THE FIRST half, we weren't tired and I (still) subbed a lot," she noted. "We were able to use our strength on the bench. And I think our fitness level showed.'

That it did. Even in less fatiguing conditions, Stevenson's speed can be difficult to contain. In hot and humid weather, trying to slow down all the swarming Spartans borders on impossible.

Mercy was simply a step slow, and it showed on nearly every goal. Before the match was five minutes old, Godlewski fielded a lob pass from sweeper Lisa Thomas, turned and beat Mercy defender Beth Ziobro

soccer

to the inside, then banged a shot past Renee Larabell. 1-0, Stevenson.

For the next 20 minutes, the Marlins battled. They weren't very dangerous offensively - Indeed, until they scored late in the game they did not really threaten at all - but they kept the Spartans bottled up. Theresa Cisco shadowed Coyne and did it well enough to keep her off the scoreboard.

THE MATCH turned in the final 51/2 minutes of the opening half. A free kick by Godlewski reached Holly Kimble. Again, Kimble was able to turn and elude the Mercy defender, she beat Larabell to make it 2-0 with

A corner kick in the final minute of the half led to Stevenson's third score. During the scramble in the goal box after the kick, Ziobro was whistled for a hand ball. Michele Brach converted the penalty kick and, with: 29 left, the Spartan lead was 3-0.

Shiyraman didn't make radical second-half changes to try and offset Stevenson's advantage. "In the first half, we had stayed back and let them play," he sald. In the second half we settled down, and went out and played our game."

The reason, Shivraman figured, his team played tenatively in the opening half was the opponent. "Psychologically, it's hard to get ready to play against an undefeated team because you're so anxious."

AND. AS Hussey pointed out, Stevenson's unbeaten status was more impressive considering the schedule the Spartans played. "Our experience was a plus," she said. "Our conference is so difficult. (Mercy) just doesn't play a schedule like that."

Even though the Marlins played steadily throughout the second half, they couldn't match Stevenson. And they were tiring. It was evident on both of the Spartans' second-half scores. On the first, Maureen Drabicki merely outran the Mercy defender down the left wing, turned toward goal and scored to make it 4-0 with 20:42

Mercy got on the board with 8:17 left after they were awarded a direct kick from 25 yards out, Kathryn Dudley lofted her shot over the Stevenson wall and into the corner of the net, trimming the deficit to 4-1.

The Spartans closed out the scoring when Shannon Wilkinson took a long through pass and outraced the defense down the middle of the field to beat a diving Larabell with 4:00 remaining.

Sisler: man for all sports

By Darren A. Nichola staff writer

Bo Jackson knows football and baseball, but Bo don't know diddley bout cross country skling, bleyeling, inoeing or road racing.

Del Sisler does. Sisler, 55, is a third-year participant in the Ridge to River competition in his home town Wenatchee, Wash. He finished second in the Ironman portion with a time of 3:28;14.

The Ridge to River competition consists of three miles of cross country skilng; two miles of downhill skiing; five miles of road running, with the last leg going uphill; 19 miles of bleyeling, where speeds can reach almost 55 miles per hour, seven miles of canoeing; and a half mile of. running with the paddle and life

And, yes, all of this is run in the

"I think the Ridge to River competition is great," Sisler said. "It's very strenuous, but you feel good once you've completed it. I got a chance to renew a lot of acquaintances and you pick up some skills." Sisler, a 25-year veteran as a computer specialist at Ford Motor Co., is native of Wenatchee and ran track at Wenatchee High School, where he was a middle-distance runner and long jumper. He also ran track as as a freshman at Washington State University. The distance runner had given running up until age 50 when he missed the competition. And it was that same drive that made Sisler want to join the Ridge to River.

"I JUST WANTED to be more active and I thought I could do well (in -competitions)," Sister said about continuing running at 50. "I started participating in the Ridge to River after my father George sent me the programs for several years.

"In 1988, I decided to run. The only experience Istad was running and biking. I had never been in a kayak and I had to learn how to cross country ski at Maybury (State) Park."

This year's finish, which was 25 minutes slower than the first place finisher and 11/3 hours ahead of the third place finisher, was extra special for Sisler.

It marked the last time he would run in the race.

"In. January, my father died," Sister said. "I dedicated this race to him. He was very supportive and he_ would have liked to have seen me in this one.

"I'm not running in the race any more because it takes me away from home too much. I'll miss the race but I will substitute with some biathalons and some road races." Sister trained eight to 10 hours per week for the competition. What Sisler will probably miss the most are the sites within the Ridge to River race, which are a part of his

"THE CROSS COUNTRY skiling part of the race is the mountain we used to hike up when we are boy scouts and biking part is through the part of town where I grew up as a boy," he said. "It was kinda harder this year. It kinda brought tears to my eyes. It was great to be back. home and to race in front of some of my old friends."

Sister improved his time each year he was in the competition, which he credits to his improvement in the downhill skling.

"I bought a roller skiing machine this year, Sister said. "It simulates what I would expect in the race, My time dropped under six minutes per mile by improved technique."

Sisler also said that he wouldn't have done well without the support of his two children and wife of 31

"(Even though) I spent a lot of time away from home my family has been very supportive of me," said the Livonian. "If I had a chance to do it all again, I would."

the sixth place money.

THE MATCH play finals had Mark Aseltine of Flint eliminating Samardzija in a close contest, 218-214. Jeff De-Kubber of Grand Rapids then beat Aseltine by a wide margin, 258-206. The third match featured a lot of strikes as De-

The championship match pitted De-Kubber against Kevin Taber of Toledo for the $3,000 first prize. It was De-Kubber in the lead all the way until an unfortunate 4-6-7-10 split (double pinocle) occurred in the ninth frame, opening the door for Taber, who took home the champlonship trophy.

SC athletic budget figures don't jibe

RAGGED GROUP of Neanderthals crouched around a flickering fire discussing their future. It was the year 10,600 B.C. and - much like their ancestors would later do - they deliberated over who should guide them into the next cen-

One of the older guys - about 150, maybe 155 (there were no environmental hazards to shorten lifespans back then, except the occasional roving tyrannosaurus rex) - thumped his chest and trumpeted, "I always led well, Look."

He thrust forward his hand, into the firelight. In it was a roughly hewn, hollowed-out plece of wood with are never empty," he said.

A younger member of the clan - no more than 135 - waited until the murmuring among his comrades died down. Then, narrowing his eyes, he said:

"Yes - but our cups are never full. Always they are half-empty."

That was the dawn of politics.

FORUMS AND THEORIES have changed since, but to make a hill of beans." the basic rules of political thinking are much the same, The Is the cup half-empty or half-full? adage has been retold countless times. It offers more than a descriptive definition of the difference between optimism

Politically speaking, it illustrates how hard facts can be twisted to suit one's own purpose.

A more contemporary example is currently on display at Schoolcraft College.

Wednesday, I was informed by Adelard Raby, a member of the SC administration, that information I had used in an earlier column regarding athletic scholarship budget cuts was incorrect.

Raby told me the athletic scholarship fund for 1990-91 was $33,600; he added the fund for 1991-92 was ex-

It was a question he could not answer. Only the department head, Midge Carleton, could shed insight into that, and she's still on vacation.

were, indeed, cuts to be dealt with in scholarships more than 50 percent in some cases.

Right about now, you should be asking yourself what water in it. "I have always found water for us. Our cups. I was asking myself. Like: What the heck is going on

There are really only two possible answers. Either costs have risen so dramatically that the same amount of money cannot come close to paying for the same number of scholarships, or the dollars meant for athletic scholarships are being diverted elsewhere.

Raby assured me it wasn't the former. Tuition costs have risen slightly, he said, but "not enough (difference)

SO WHERE ELSE could the money be going? Cost overruns in other areas of the athletic budget (something that doesn't really exist, according to several sources; there is no firm budget for athletics, they say) is a good guess. But are those due to overruns from the past or rising costs?

Again, Raby said he could not answer those questions. And Nowak gave his usual "no comment." Carleton, apparently (hopefully) is the only person who

So what's the deal? Is SC's athletic scholarship budget half-empty or just as full as it's ever been? Both are true, I guess.

So is this, according to coaches: The money they get for scholarships from the school is already gone. Unless there is more adjusting to the budget, coaches will be left to raise additional scholarship funds for them-

And if the history of politics maintains its course, there will be a lot of finger-wagging as each group blames the other. The ultimate victims, of course, will be the kids who don't get scholarships and the coaches I requestioned three of the coaches I had interviewed who will look foolish when forced to renege on promis-

Fierce Grummans fly at Kalamazoo air zoo

...You'll notice that the Warhawk pictured on the myseum's brochure has a female pilot, Sue Parish, a grandmother and one of the museum's co-founders. Perish, a World War II pilot, flew military planes from factory to bases.

NOT ALL the planes in the collection are on view. In the museum's restoration center, "new" old planes are disassembled, meticulously researched and restored with new skins, wiring, etc.

Their future includes flight. At 2:00 p.m. daily during the summer (weather permitting) one of these veterans rolls onto the runway and roars into the air. If you want to see a particular plane in its natural element, try calling ahead to see when it's scheduled

The museum has engines, uniforms, model planes, vintage photos and memorabilia from both sides of the battle. Dioramas depict air, ground and sea forces in action together. The Veterans of Guadalcanal organization has an exhibit displaying a collection of maps, clippings, photographs and personal di-

Visitors can sit in a Link Trainer, see aviation films in a small theater and purchase books, models and T-shirts in the gift shop.

AIR SHOW The museum's imminent air show has long been one of the most popular air events in the nation. Aging warbirds fly, modern jets soar in precision aerobatics and daredevils walk on wings.

The show commemorates the 50th anniversary of the United States entry into World War II with a mock air battle between U.S. fighters and a Mitsubishi Zero replica.

A flying salute to World War II veterans, the show will also pay tribute to the men and women of operation Desert Storm. Proceeds will go to programs for military families and the Kalamazoo High on Heroes

Fund. ON TAP for the event is the U.S. Army Golden Knights skydiving team, set to perform a Saturday twilight show amid fireworks and flares. Also scheduled are the Coors Light Silver Bullet Jet Team, Showcat wingwalking, aerobatics and "Fireflight," the Pepsi Skydance and Skywriter and more.

A special feature of the air show is the "Flight of the Grumman Cats" whereby the museum's Wildcat, Hellcat, Bearcat and Tigercat whiz over the field in formation.

The museum is on the south side of the Kalamazoo Airport and open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, I to 5 p.m. Sunday. The museum is closed June 8.9 when the planes are flying in the air show.

For more information; contact the Kalamazoo Aviation Museum, 3101 East Milham Road, Kalamazoo, 49002, or telephone (616) 382-6555.

Da balloons boss, da balloons!

The Battle Creek International Balloon Championship and Air Show will fly high June 29 through July 6 at W.K. Kellogg Reglonal Airport. Comedian Pat Paulsen will be there, once again announcing whether he will run for president. The show will include the U.S. Army Golden Knights parachute team, the Air Force Thunderbirds flying F-16 Electric Jets, the Canadian Forces Parachute Team, a hot air balloon competition, the Chicago Fire Stunt Kite Team, an amusement park and live entertainment. The Battle Creek Hot-Air Balloon Championship is a non-profit organization supported in part by parking and gate fees. Parking is $4 a day; admission is $2 per person per day. Contact the organization at 237 North Helmer Road, PO Box 2019, Battle Creek, 49015-2019, or telephone (616) 962-0592.

Poet was wrong about K'zoo

By Doris Scharfenberg

Glen Miller once had the country stompin' to "I've Got A Gal In Kalamazoo-zoo-zoo-zoo..." H.L. Mencken said the name added "barbaric brilliancy to the American map." Carl Sandburg must have reckoned such a moniker had wicked connotations. Although he wrote a poem called the "Sins of Kalamazoo," it is suspected that Sandburg never came to town, let alone sample the local sins.

Residents of today's Kalamazoo proudly pop it all in their tin whistles (kazoos) and blow a tune called "There Really Is A Kalamazoo," debunking the myths and laughing at the bad jokes. The name, they will fell you, comes from an Indian word meaning "mirage of re-

Including Western Michigan University, there are five colleges, dozens of churches, excellent shopping, art theaters, a superb music hall (the late Thomas Schippers, who conducted the Metropolitan Opera, grew up here).

Compared to Augusta, Marietta is a metropolis with a population of nearly 17,000. It's Ohio's oldest town, home of Marietta College, founded in 1835, and Rossi

Rossi Pasta? This is one of Marietta's surprises; a factory producing handmade, all-natural pasta for Nieman-Marcus, Williams-Sonoma, gourmet cooks and, of course, the rest of the world. (Visitors can check out the pastas in the wonderful-smelling retail shop. Others can order by mail.)

Spinach-basil, saffron, black olive; jalapeno and garlic are a few of the selections, and the company is generous with recipes and cooking tips written in a lighthearted style. (Ask for the Rossi Pasta Prima; "A (Simple) Guide for the Kitchen Frail.")

MARIETTA, NAMED for Queen Marie Antoinette of France, was founded in 1788 by veterans of the Revolutionary War and became the gateway to the Northwest Territory (land which later became Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota) and its first permanent settlement.

The town survived the bloody battles of the last Indian wars (1790 to 1794) and became a busy and prosperous ship-building center and steamboat port.

This part of Marietta's heritage is reflected in the popularity of the Valley Gem, a sternwheeler providing hourly trips on the Muskingum and Ohio rivers, and melodramas presented during the summer on the showboat Becky Thatcher.

Sternwheelers from around the country will race on the river during the Ohio River Sternwheel Festival the first weekend after Labor Day. The festival features live entertainment, fireworks and craft booths along the Marietta is an appealing tree-shaded town in a pleasant countryside of hills, valleys and river views. There are two museums, the Ohio River Museum and the Carnpus Martius, fine old Victorian houses and some remaining brick streets and alleys.

TROLLEY TOURS of Marietta are conducted regularly, beginning on Green Street near the historic Lafayette Hotel.

Tours are also offered free at the Fenton Art Glass Company, in nearby Williamstown, W.V., where glass is blown and hand-shaped by craftsmen.

The Middleton Doll Factory is another popular place: The dolls, created by Ohio artist Lee Middleton, have faces sculpted from images of real children and are prized by collectors. (An outlet with near-perfect dolls is at 268 Front St. in Marietta.)

Blasting through the white water

The most important thing is teamwork. Keep paddling at all times, even if someone falls out. Getting the person back in the raft is priority number one, but you can't do it until you're past the wild waters.

Don't wear jeans, even if it's cold. You get drenched when you walk into the water to reach the raft, and you haven't even started yet. Soaked jeans are impossible to get off! Most companies will rent wet suits, but you won't need one unless it's really

I had canoed before, but rafting is very different. The raft moves, bends and rolls with the waves. You can feel the rocks scraping under

After we conquered several rapids without a scratch, we lost one of our crew, Don VanSickle of Canton, a close friend. Before I knew what happened, he was gone, nowhere in with an occasional rock jutting out of the violent water. No sign of Don. varies from $50 to $150 depending Having heard rumors of someone dying on that very river years ago made us forget paddling to find Don. The guide plunged his paddle into the water to see if Don would grab it. No luck.

After what seemed a lifetime, Don's head poked up through the water. All of our safety instruction came in handy as we tried to rescue him. The sound of the water was so loud he couldn't hear us screaming to keep his feet in front of him, although he knew to do it anyway.

Don came out unscathed. When we hauled him into the raft, we sighed with relief and headed for the next set of rapids.

Even though white-water rafting can be dangerous, it's great fun. There's always the anticipation of what lies ahead, like on the uphill trek of a roller coaster. You feel a sense of vulnerability and power at having conquered the waters. I went rafting again this year on a tougher river, the Cheat in West Virginia, and it was more exhilarating. Who

ALL I could see was white froth knows what lies ahead for next year! The cost of white-water railing on the river, the day of the week and time of year. Mountain Streams offer a group discount. If 19 people pay, one goes free.

THERE ARE some minimum age requirements. On the Lower Youghiogheny River, it's 12; on the Cheat, Gauley, Upper Yough, and Tygart's Valley River and the Big Sandy Creek you must be 16 years old. The Middle Youghlogheny is the easiest run, open to anyone 6 or old-

The difficulty level of each river is indicated by "class:" Class I for youngsters and families and Class VI for experienced rafters.

The river rides run during certain times of the year. For example, Cheat River trips are in the spring while Youghiogheny trips are May through September. Four-man raits are common, but 10-man rafts are used if the water is high. Lunch is served halfway through the trip.

The play's the thing at Stratford Festival

The Stratford Festival opened officially last week in a flurry of black-tle events and premiere showings. I say "officially" because the plays have been performed daily since the season opened April 29.

That's when the swans were released from their winter quarters behind the arena, the ducks started dropping in on picnic dinners and the water birds began their daily parades across the roads.

By mid May the pedal boats were busy on the Avon River, spring flowers were blooming in the Shakespearean Gardens and the bedand-breakfast places had their signs out for the summer.

I saw three of this summer's plays during the unofficial preview season: "Much Ado
About Nothing" at the Festival Theater, "Our Town" and "Les Belles Soeurs" at the Avon
Theater. I didn't get into the Tom Patterson Theater, named after the Stratford journalist largely responsible for launching this festival; the theater was formerly called Third Stage.

I PREDICT that "Les Belles Soeurs," writ-ten by Canadian playwright Michel Tremblay and performed for the first time in English, will be the main topic of conversation this summer. It is a funny, angry, loud, unusual play about a group of French-Canadian women who gathered to help paste into booklets the one million gold stamps won by a housewife.

People either love it or hate it, think it has too much swearing or is realistic, etc. Whether you like it or not, you should see it and join the conversation at the Festival this-

That kind of information is available when you buy a theater ticket, but if you want other important Stratford information you must ask somebody who has been there and knows the bed and breakfasts, the restaurants, the best

One-horse towns offer more than you know

Mary Augusta Rodgers is a freelance writer who lives in Birmingham.

By Mary Augusta Rodgers special writer

Travelers driving south on interstate highways often don't know - or forget what they're missing as the miles go by and the countryside becomes a blur. Small towns, for instance, can be a refreshing change. Many are interesting, easy to deal with and fun to explore. They're pleasant places for a walk, a little sightseeing and shopping, lunch or dinner or an overnight.

Here are two to consider: Augusta, Ky., and Marletta, Ohlo, riverboat towns on elther side of the Ohio River.

Just 35 miles from Cincinnati and I-75, Augusta is a little (population 1,400) world of its own, nestled on the banks of the Ohio

The last time we were there, the sky was blue, the river shone in the sunlight, fishermen waited patiently on a shady bank with their lines out, and the ferry from Boudes Landing, Ohlo came in to dock with its flag flying in the breeze.

It was such a happy scene that a man strolling down Riverside Drive suddenly stopped and serenaded a woman he didn't know. "Come on a my house!" he sang. "My house a-come on!"

The woman, sitting on the stoop of her house, enjoying the sun, smiled and waved. "You're off key, but I love it," said singer Rosemary Clooney, ("Come on a My House" was one of her biggest hits.)

This is Rosemary Clooney country. There's a Rosemary Clooney Street in Maysville, not far away, where she was born. A show of watercolor and oil paintings by Gabriel Ferrer, her son, is on display at Augusta's small but prestigious Piedmont Gallery.

Augusta is also pioneer country, founded in 1797 and built on the site of an ancient Indian burial ground. It's survived wars, cholera epidemics, floods, fires and a blight that finished off the promising vineyards planted by German settlers. (The winery, a massive limestone structure, remains; it's just off Route 8 on the. way to Maysville.)

PARTS OF the TV mini-series "Centennlal" were filmed in Augusta, as well as "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," made for public television. "Augusta has one of the very few open 19th-century waterfronts left in the country," said Bill Grooms, the producer. "It's a real trea-Augusta's oldest remaining house, on the corner of Ferry and Riverside, was built in 1800 by General John Payne, a cavalry officer in the War of 1812. Houses from the pioneer, federal and Victorian periods, graced with flowers, boxwood and brick walks; overlook the river. A 1795 log cabin, known as Broshears Tavern, was frequented by Daniel Boone and Simon Kenton.

The Piedmont Gallery has a fine collection of crafts, folk art and paintings of late 19th century artists from Northern Kentucky. Within a few blocks, visitors will find the Lamplighter Inn and several bed and breakfasts; the Beehive Tavern, which offers regional dishes, like transparent ple and blackberry jam cake; two antique shops; and The Monday Morning Workshop, which sells handmade leather goods and handwoven rugs.

An arts and crafts festival and a sternwheeler regatta occur in Augusta June 28-30, and an event called Heritage Days (historic house tours, a flea market and street fair) is held Labor Day week-

The Pledmont Gallery: 115 West Riverside, Augusta, Ky. 41002; (608) 756-2216. Walking-tour maps of Augusta are available at the gallery, the drugstore, the bank and city hall. Augusta is too small to have a tourist bureau, but you can call the city clerk at (606) 756-2183 for information.

MARIETTA, OHIO

Another historic river town, Marietta is situated where the Muskingum River flows into the Ohio; just off I-77, with Parkersburg, W.V. across the river.

When the water calmed we looked at each other with exhibaration -- we conquered the wild waters! The first set anyway. Between each set of rapids was calm water, allowing us to catch our breath and revel in the victory.

As a rookle rafter, there were a few things I didn't know: how to dress, what white-water rafting feels like and safety precautions to name a few. I quickly learned.

I went with the Mountain Streams and Trails Outfitters rafting company that runs rafting trips in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland. The difficulty of the rafting depends on the water level, the river, and the time of year.

WHEN WATER levels are high, or when running a difficult river, a professional guide attends each raft. The guide explains paddling procedures and how to handle different rapids. You need to know how to paddle when going backwards downstream, what to do if the raft capsizes, and how to avoid smashing into rocks face first if you fall out.

Too many stars spoil the plot of 'Soapdish'

The rush to premiere films for Memorial Day weekend has passed and only one new film is on this week's docket, "Soapdish" (B-, PG-13, 95 minutes).

As all sorts of "real life" intrigue unfolds during filming of "The Sun Also Sets," the film's ficticious soap opera, the program's scriptwriter, Rose Schwartz (Whoopi Goldberg), wonders aloud, "Why can't I write stuff like this?"

The answer, of course, as the movle proves, is that the offstage lives of actors are much more interesting than the unbelievable storylines of Multiple plots revolve around the set of the daytime drama whose ratings are falling. Driven by pressure from network execs and lust for supporting actress Montana Moorehead (Cathy Moriarty), producer David Barnes (Robert Downey Jr.) takes drastic action.

Moorehead wants him to axe the reigning "queen of misery," the show's star, Celeste Talbert (Sally Field), in order to further her own career. Barnes sees this as a way to boost-ratings, but-every-time-he plots to write Celeste out of the show, something foils his plans, whether it is the effects of returning her ex-lover, Jeffrey Anderson (Kevin Kline), to the show or the rise to fame of her nlece, Lori Craven (Elisabeth Shue), an extra on the set.

SOUND CONFUSING? That's only the beginning — proving that the phony "real life" of these actors can be more surprising than televi-sion soaps ever imagined, and twice as contrived.

There are other sub-plots in both the movie and the soap, and some even manage to surprise the audi-ence. The climactic scene is a live broadcast of the soap opera, which disintegrates into an ad-libre conciliation of both the characters and the actors.

This, and other scenes, leave the audience wondering where the acting ends and the real life drama begins. Some scenes also demonstrate that actors can give more convincing performances off-camera than on, given the proper motivations.

Unfortunately, just as in the day-time soaps, "Soapdish" sports far too many stars for one movie. Potentially excellent performances from Whoopl Goldberg and Carrie Fisher are buried in the proliferation of stars and plots.

The movie begins in the middle and, while this creates the feeling that we are actually watching a soap opera that began long before we tuned in, it also makes it difficult to sort out who's who for the first 20

Add an abrupt and sappy ending, and you have either a confusing mess of a movie, or an interesting statement about TV and how it figures into the daily lives of both the viewers and the actors. Sadly, the film's full potential is lost amid the hubbub of the happy Hollywood end-

Singing blues for love, not money

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

In the course of a performance, Big Dave and the Ultrasonics can throw a lot at you.

There's a saxophonist, a harmonica player, two guitarists, a bassist and a drummer. The band can play soulful houserockin' blues, uptown boogle and gutbucket blues when called upon.

But calling out for Dave can present a problem. The group only has four of them by the same first

"When I first started working with these guys, it was kind of confusing at first," said bass player Todd Perkins, one of two Todds in the band. "We pretty much refer to each other on a last name basis.

"In the beginning, when I didn't know everybody, I would say 'harpplaying Dave, 'sax-playing Dave' and 'guitar-playing Dave.' But there's two guitar-playing Daves."

Sorting out guitarist Dave Farzalo, sax and keyboard man Dave Salvator and harpist Dave Morris may be difficult at first.

AMONG THE Daves, though, there's only one Big Dave. He's Dave Steele, whose throaty growl and stinging gultar licks reveal the heart of a bluesman. Better yet, he even talks like one.

"You have to love it (the blues)," Steele said. "That's all. There's no money in it."

What inspires the blues in him? "Like everyone, it's women and money," he answers.

THIS IS a passion shared by other band members, who formed Big Dave and the Ultrasonles after three Dayes (Steele, Farzalo and Salvator) and one Todd (Neço) moved from Erie, Pa., to Ann Ar-

Those guys played in The Zip City Blues Band, which performed regularly in Erie's only blues club, the Docksider. Band members possess a wide knowledge of different blues styles — Delta, Texas and New Orleans — and incorporate it into the final stew.

In a short time, Big Dave and the Ultrasonics have made an immediate impact on the Ann Arbor and Detroit club scene. Onstage, the band serves up a searing brand of urban blues.

AGGRAVATION — Treponem Pal

Treponem Pal might seem like a mystical name for a mysterious heavy metal band, and in reality it is. But it is also the French word for the virus that causes syphills. Treponem Pal is a perverse; industrial thrash band. The group's latest release is "Aggravation." I think that says It all: Their style of music lies somewhere between the likes of bands like Slayer and Judas Priost. The opening track, called "Rest is War," is a grating, energy pack song, that is guaranteed to rock any headbanger's socks off. This is a band that comes from France, but you might likely guess it came out of the New York City metal circuit by the sound of it. Vocalist Marco Neves can hit 'some notes like nails on a chalk board.

Some truly salvageable songs are in this nine-song package. "Out With No Flag" and "Sweet Coma" are pretty decent metallic pieces.

One song in the package was not written by Treponem Pak. It is called "Radioactivity." It is a noxious, stentorian mix written and arranged for TP by the band known as Kraftwerk.

From a country internationally known for romance and elegance (tres chie), Treponem Pal is proud to say it represents "the ugly reality of worldwide culture." Although members never explained this claim to any great depth, it does come through in their music.

They are striving to be a diverse and controversial thrash band. "Aggravation" is a positive step in that Although their music might not be best suited for everyone, it might be just the thing for you serious metalheads out there.

'You're on a tropical beach in Brazil. You have your toes in the sand, a drink in your hand, and you feel grand. In your head you can hear the sounds of a samba/calypso band.

The music on Ivan Lins' latest alburn called "Awa Yio" will send such images running through your mind.

This is a true South Americanstyle delight, after a while you won't even care that he doesn't sing a single lyric in English, if you want to sing along its possible, just fake your way through.

But you'll probably be interested in knowing that the lyrles are included in both English and Spanish. Ivan (pronounced E-von) Lins' mission on this album was to expose more people to the native music and culture of Brazil. After some of the lyrics, he provides a brief explanation; of some of the myths, expressions and cultural beliefs of his na-

Sure, the music has been commerclalized just a tad, but you'll get the. basic idea.

The song "Meu Pals" ("My Country") is pleasurable ballad about the tropical paradise where he grew up. Throughout the song, he sings about -- Joseph S. Hoffmann - some of the popular characters of Brazilian folklore.

Lins was born in Rio de Janeiro, the son of a Naval engineer. Via his father's military career, he ended up spending some formative years in Combridge, Mass, where his must-cal aspirations took shape. He speaks of this combination of cultural experiences in his song "America, Brazil - America, Brazil." This is a very upbeat samba. All together you will find 11 multicultural songs in this package. This one is a must for someone with a hankering for something nuevo y diferente (that's Spanish for new and different).

Stay mum about fantasy

When I was a teenager, I had fantasles of kissing my sister who is two years older than I am. These fantasies always embarrassed me greatly. I thought they were sick and yet I couldn't change them.

I have a son and a daughter who are becoming teenagers. I want to say something to my son to tell him I would understand if he had such fantasles, but I don't know if I should. Maybe he doesn't and will think I am perverted.

What do you think?

Your fantasies are normal. They are not sick and you need not be embarrassed. The jokes that are made about teenagers' sexuality are true. They are generally pretty randy and for them, even minimal stimuli can lead to sexual fantasies.

Brothers and sisters are strong stimuli. They are intimate with each other by the sheer fact that they live together.

On the other hand, you are quite right not to say anything to your son. Why place the burden of these problems on someone who might no have them? If you keep a spirit of openness in your home, a spirit that is non-judgmental, then there is a better chance that your son will reveal himself to you if he needs advice.

It seems that you did not find your parents approachable on sexual matters. Is there something they could have done to make you feel less afraid? Think about it. Maybe you will be able to do it for your son.

If you have a question of comment for Barbard Schiff, a trained therapist and experienced counselor, send it to Street Sense at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonai 48150.

Big Dave can sing the blues

A recent show at Rick's Cafe had the normally placid collegiate crowd dancing feverishly to the uptown swing of Big Dave and the Ultrasonics. Instead of relying on one tempo, there's a series of musical instrument interplay within the context of one song and to the band's diverse SOMEHOW IN the litany of name similarities and multitude of players, Big Dave and the Ultrasonics cut through the confusion.

"Every additional player you have, it makes it more difficult because you play less," Steele said. "In a four-piece, your role is pretty much defined. We have four soloists. When one is playing, the others have to step back."

Big Dave directs the traffic. "He's a subtle leader," Perkins said. "Instead of telling you he doesn't like something, he tells you why he doesn't like something. Usually, it's a pretty good reason.'

Uptempo dance blues is the preference in the band's original music featured on a four-song demo. The group plans to record a full-length cassette to release sometime in the

In the meantime, members of the band are busy further establishing its reputation in the blues-rich area of Detroit.

Big Dave is a regular at the Blind Pig and Rick's, where college students congregate. The band has also performed at the Soup Kitchen, where blues purists pull up a stool.

Janine Gardner: If this is Monday, it must be

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Her dog looks like Toto, her 1984 Mazda serves as her pair of ruby slippers. She even experienced her first tornado in Texas recently.

But unlike Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," comedian Janine Gardner is apparently in no hurry to get home.

That's at least judging by Gardner's frantle schedule, which includes performing 48 weeks out of the year on the road. Gardner and her dog, Kiwi, tool around the country in her Mazda RX 7 that has, 243,000 miles on its engine.

"I wrote them (Mazda) a letter telling them I've encircled the globe at least eight times in my Mazda," said Gardner, who performs Wednesday through Saturday at Joey's in Livonia.

"I keep writing them. I would like them to give me another car to test drive. At least they could have done is send me a filer for a free lube

Such a nomadic existence is commonplace in the world of comedy. Whereas many comedians bemoan being on the road, Gardner appears to relish a life of hotels, fast food and rest stops.

GARDNER DESCRIBES herself "poor as a church mouse." Any money made from comedy club engagements is often eaten up in expenses,

All of this serves to conjure up cliched images of a woman and her dog facing a cold, cruel world alone. Really, Gardner's comedic adventure perhaps attacks a sexist stereotype that views women as being too naive for such endeavors.

'Men have been doing it for years. There's a lot of benefits. I don't have to make a bed every day. I don't have to do dishes all the time . . . and I get to see the country.

"If I want to see someone who lives four hours away, I just get in my car and go. My sister packs a compass to go to the supermarket."

AFTER CONQUERING a number of jobs, comedy greeted her at age 30. In nearly seven years, she has criss-crossed the country in a whirlwind odyssey.

Onstage, Gardner's humor can be personally revealing.

She jokes about growing up in a dysfunctional family with a mother who was addicted to Vallum. She brings humor in being raised Catholic in the Mormon hub of Salt Lake OBVIOUSLY, Gardner's not a 'joke machine." She adheres to the belief comics should leave something of themselves with an audience during a routine.

"At first, (comedy) was therapeutic. I feel no one could steal my jokes unless they lived my life. I want my comedy to say something." On the urging of friends, Gardner plied her comedic talents at a club contest in Salt Lake City. Soon, she earned the title of "Funniest Woman in Utah."

EVEN BEFORE then, though, Gardner remembers being a cutup in the fifth grade.

One of her favorite plays was to roll up a paper, point it toward the P.A. speaker and call herself out of class. The teacher fell for the trick every time.

In reality, Gardner was merely coping with her environment.

"I felt like I stuck out in a crowd. The Mormons were sheltered people, especially the staunch ones. They were unsympathetic towards me just because of the fact my parents drank coffee and smoked. Some kids were not allowed to play with us because we were Catholic."

Roseanne Barr is also from Utah. It was the "Star-Spangled" singing comedian who gave Gardner her best advice. Write three punch lines and throw the first two away. That way, the most obscure humor will rise to the top.

WORKING IN the male-dominated field doesn't bother Gardner. She has had several jobs outside of comedy where women are the minority, including as a customer service analyst for a company that designed sewage treatment systems. Yet a few things gnaw at her being a female comedian. For example, few women comedians are booked together on the same bill. At Joey's in Livonia, though, Gardner will appear with Gilda Hauser.

"They use us as sandwich fillers. There's this myth out there that if you're a woman, especially an attractive one, you can't be funny."

Janine Gardner appears Wednesday-Saturday, June 5-8, at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia. For information, call 261-0555. She also appears Friday-Saturday, June 14-15, at Joey's at the Roxy in Belleville. For information, call 699-1829.

Comedienne Janine Gardner has a frantic schedule, so much so that her Mazda RX 7 has 243,000 miles on its engine.

Lori Lynn Ross has to be careful doing her routine like hanging upside down during a roll. One wrong step and she could break through the fabric covering the wing of Walt Rierce's biplane.

Walking the wings of Ol' Smokey

Stuntwoman has firm grip on aerial life

By Sue Mason staff writer

You could say Lori Lynn Ross is a drag, not a big drag, but a drag nonetheless. Just ask Walt Pierce. He drags her around on and off.

It's not that she's doesn't like fun. Hey, this woman has done fire dives. We'r not talking going through a fiery hoop, but rather setting herself on fire and diving into a pool 30 feet below.

At 4 feet 11½ inches tall and 98 pounds — "I'm little but I'm strong." — she's a a bit of a drag on the wing of Pierce's 1940 Stearman biplane, "Ol' Smokey." Ross, when not working as a stuntwoman in Hollywood, occasionally does the air show circuit with Pierce as his wingwalker.

"I really have a fun time because I enjoy performing," said Ross, a former Southfield resident. "I really have good time out there and when I get off and see that the people have had a good time, it makes it all the better."

Not quite what you'd expect from a woman who at one time studied to be an elementary school teacher and was a high school cheerleader and member of the girls' softball and basketball teams at Southfield High School.

But she admits she's always been adventurous. She began skiing and riding motorcycles at the age of five and on her way to a career in Hollywood picked up rock-climbing, SCUBA diving and high diving.

The 29-year-old Ross was working at a store, selling climbing equipment, when a stuntman mentioned that with her experiences she should consider stunt work. About two months later, while studying for final exams at the beach, she met a another stuntman who said the same thing.

SHE DECIDED to heed their advice and, after graduating from California State University at Northridge, she signed on with the U.S. Professional High Diving Team and marketed herself as a stuntwoman by doing the fire dives, not to mention clown dives, ladder diving and, shades of Acapulco, cliff diving.

Ross, who will team up with Pierce for AirMichigan '91 at Willow Run Airport in Ypsilanti this weekend, has been a stuntwoman for about nine years.

A member of the United Stuntwomen's Association, her stunt work has included such feature films as "Terminator II," "Kazate Kid II," "Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure" and "Edward Sclasorhands" to name a few. She also has done stunts for such TV shows as "Rescue 911," "Falcon Crest," "Life Goes on" and "The Outsiders."

"I love my work," said Ross. "I started out doing dance and sports as a kid and never thought of being a stuntwoman or dreamed of being a wingwalker."

ROSS HAS been wingwalking for about six years, having learned the art from legendary wing walker

Stuntwoman Lori Lynn Ross does a one-legged stand on the wing of Ol' Smokey as part of her wingwalking performance.

Johnny Kazian. She was originally recruited Jim Franklin who wanted a female wingwalker.

"He figured with my diving experience, I could handle the acrobatics and with my rock-climbing experience, I could climb around the plane," she said.

Wingwalking is no easy task. The plane travels at between 80 and 180 miles per hour, so Ross has to be careful how and when she moves around the plane, especially since she wears a safety strap for only about 20 percent of of her 20-minute routine. She wears no such strap when walking around on the wing of the plane, but dons it for acobatic fly-bys.

"It takes a lot of strength to hang on," Ross said.
"What people don't realize is that when I move from, the upper to the lower wing behind the propeller, I'm in the most vulnerable position. Walt has to power.

hack the plane so he doesn't blow me off the wing."
Itess' routine is very choreographed, very precise.
It is learned on the ground before it's done in the air.
There are no verbal commands between Pierce and Ross. Communication is by hand signals and eye

Her hardest routine is doing a lieadstand on the upper wing. She has to flip her body upside down and hang on to a post. With the speed of the plane, she is "literally plastered to the post to where I can't move."

OTHER ROUTINES include hanging on to the plane and shaking hands with the pilot, doing backspins and hanging off the back part of a post on the upper wing

Her favorite maneuver is doing a cartwheel in the

"I walk out to the end of the struts and get to see the crowd as we fly by," she sald.

And when it comes to the aerobatics, she in for a "wild ride."

"My body is used to spinning and twisting in the air," she said. "With the loops and rolls, I get to see the earth and the crowd waving at me. It's a wild and exciting time."

But the hardest part is the five-minute or so wait on the ground before the plane takes to the air. She has a one-inch bar that she stands on on the balls of her toes. One step the wrong way and she could end up, putting a foot through the wing's fabric skin.

Because of her stunt work, Ross has limited her wingwalking to just three air shows this year. She picked AirMichigan '91 because "Detroit is special for me."

"I HAD SO many wonderful experiences growing up in Michigan," she said. "It's a good time to to get back and reminisce, a really function."

Married, Ross describes her husband Dan, who builds custom homes in mainly Beverly Hills and Malibu, as "pretty adventurous." He shares her interest in rock and ice-olimbing, windsurfing and skling.

But as exciting as her life is, safety is foremost in Ross' mind. She is as picky about who she performs with as she is about what slunts she will do. She doesn't take jobs she doesn't think she can do. As a result her worst injuries have been a few cuts and bruises.

She likes flying with Pierce. He is "a great guy.... he's at the top of the list," she said.

"Safety is very important to me," she added. "I try to keep my safety record at 100 percent. So far my training has paid off . . . and I've been a bit lucky, too."

Ross' career continues to expand — she plays the part of the mermaid in the soon-to-be-released film "Rocketeer" — and she jokingly blames her parents for it. It's their fault for letting her water ski and ride a motorcycle at the age of five, she said.

But she adds: "I'm glad I had the opportunity to try out different sports. I think it makes me a better stuntwoman."

'Arctic Arc' marks ancient migration

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

HE TENUOUS bond of understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union will soon be strengthened through the vision and effort of sculptor David Barr of Novi.

Barr and his wife, Elizabeth, Jim Pallas, Michigan sculptor, Paul Gray, Chicago art dealer and Dan Kruzynice of Hamtramek, a-videocameraman, will leave for Uelen in the Soviet Union on the Bering Strait early in July. With them will be the second part of Barr's Arctic Arc sculpture project to be installed on a promontory facing the American coastline, some 50 miles across the icy waters.

Barr, who has been working on global projects since 1980, installed the American half of his Arctic Arc in Wales, Alaska, on the westernmost tip of the Seward Peninsula, in 1988. That one is a wood sculpture suggesting a sled with an extended hand. The main wooden beam of the sled is a 30-foot timber weighing about 500 pounds.

The work to be installed next month is a 30-foot-long stainless steel structure, reminiscent of the hull of a umiak, a traditional walrus skin boat, minus the skin. The sculpture, with a hand motif in the ribs of the hull, will be aligned with the equinoxes and summer solstice.

BARR SAID, 'The Arctic Arc is drawing-attention-to-geographical history - the land bridge that's always been there. I'm responding to invisible history. There's nothing there to tell you that the first migration took place there."

His wish to memorialize that momentous ancient migration from Asia to North America, is readily accepted by the Eskimos in the remote coastal villages. "I never had any problem getting the most humble of the villages to understand."

The villagers are aware of the link across the narrow waters. Many on one side have close relatives on the other and until the last few years. when tensions between the super powers eased, they couldn't see each

. "On the Soviet side, we are going to be assisted by the Elgar Native Corporation in housing and moving around. Here is the Soviet Union in the depths of depression and art is still a priority, cultural exchange is still a priority — and in my own backyard is the most resistance to these ideas . . . the Arctic is the hardest place in the world to live the temperature is 50 degrees below zero, the wind blows at 50 miles an hour and 12 people live in an area-the size of my living room."

Barr acknowledged the valuable assistance he's had in cutting through bureaucratic red tape, getting visas and making things happen, "Sen. Carl Levin has helped me in all these efforts."

Help in the cutting and machining of the sculpture came from Capital Welding of Southfield. The art work was to designed to be assembled like a kit, because the final leg of the journey will be by bush plane from Providenija to Uelen and space will be tight. Northwest Airlines, he said,has been very helpful in scheduling.

ALL OF these projects are strictly out-of-pocket for Barr, no grants, no stipends, "I couldn't do them without a credit card," he said.

Bavid Barr keeps a model of the wood sculpture placed near the coastal village of Wales, Alaska in 1988. It faces the coast of the Soviet Union. He uses an extended hand motif in all of his global works as a symbol of friendship.

'The Arctic Arc is drawing attention to geographical history — the land bridge that's always been there. I'm, responding to invisible history. There's nothing there to tell you that the first migration took place there.'

— David Barr, sculptor

Then why does he do it when as he says they are "financially and physically draining." Why leave the beautiful, contemporary home (which he built himself) and the broad lawn and pond, which he has turned into a magnificent sculpture park for his own work?

One of the early projects was to mark the four corners of the globe. Another was "Sun Sweep," a series of sculptures along the U.S./Canadian border. He is already working on "Sun Weep," marking the U.S./Mexican border. In all instances, the response, the connections made with other artists and Individuals who have social concerns reward him for his efforts. It is about creating a broader understanding in the world.

"On an intimate level, it helps my own understanding and deepens my experience of things. . . . doing them knocks rigidity, arrogance and certainty out-of-you - you don't do any

"I know that when we get there there will be a number of human stories and a number of human beings that will be with me the rest of my life. Jim Pallas went with me to New Guinea and he's still corresponding with some missionaries we met there."

PALLAS MAY make an accessory piece for Arctic Arc. Four Soviet villagers from around Uelen, two of them artists, are on their way here to meet Barr. He wants them to do some accessory pieces to Arctic Arc - maybe a ring of harpoons.

Well-known native artist, Joe Senungetuk, did a bird for the one in

As a studio sculptor, Barr likes to portray the invisible — the subject of some of his his newer works is atomic cloud chambers and atomic particles and their pathways.

Staff photos by Bryan Mitchell

There are references to math and astronomy in many of his large pieces. In his global projects, he adds a spirit of human history, a touch of humanity - and sometimes those are as invisible as atomic particles.

Careful clipping saves time later

Q: The other day, my busband tore out a whole newspaper page to keep an article he wanted and tossed it on the counter. I suggested he file it, so he folded the page somewhat and crammed it into the file, letting it hang out both ends of the folder. I removed it, cut out the article with a scissors I had right there, refiled it neatly and tossed the scraps away. Then he commented, "Do you realize how much your time is worth? Why would you waste it cutting out articles?" Do you have any comments?

A: There's something to be said for both sides of your conflicting views. It's true that it's much quicker at the time to rip out a column and stuff it into a file. It's even quicker just to toss it in a pile rather than file it, and I can understand a busy person might think cutting it would be a waste of time.

organizing

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

It's one thing to be a perfectionist, however, and quite another to take the time to do things properly now so you can save time later. What your husband isn't taking into account is the time it takes to deal with that paper later once it's landed in a pile or is just stuffed into a file.

First, by keeping the whole page without even marking the article, a person may waste time later perusing both sides trying to figure out why he kept it is the first place.

On a pile, it will gradually become lost in a shuffle of other papers. When you need it later, you will vaguely know "it's here somewhere," but it will take far longer to find it than it would have taken to cut it out and file it properly in the first place. In the meantime, you will have handled that same article repeatedly while sorting through your stack looking for other papers - another added cost of time. Or, if you filed it carelessly, chances are you have a habit of filing other items in the same manner. When you just "stuff" papers, at least three problems are created: 1) Space is poorly utilized because "lumps" are allowed to occur, which take unwarranted amount of drawer space, 2) Papers tend to stick out the top, obscuring the folder labels and costing the loss of more time later searching for hidden files, 3) Papers become tattered from hitting the tops, sides and hinges of the files, sometimes tearing the critical information you wanted or even getting caught with other files.

None of the foregoing takes much time on an individual basis, but if your husband lives his life that way, he will find performing innumerable little tasks inadequately at the proper time will add up to cost him incredible amounts of time later, and is life will be out of control.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl is a time nfanagement consultant based in Ilirmingham. Her column appears the first three Mondays of each month.
