Board members' fall fuels recall drive

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

The defeat of three Wayne-Westland school board incumbents in last week's election has added fuel to a pending recall campaign aimed at ousting three other board members, organizers said Friday.

Board critics hope to recall board members Kathleen Chorbaghan, Andrew Splsak and Leonard Posey in a special election as early as September or October, recall Chairman Steven Lind said.

"We're going to go with [this full steam]," he said. "There is a tremendous public outcry for this."

Board member Sylvia Kozorosky-Wlasek is not expected to be targeted, though some recall organizers differ on whether she should remain on the board, Lind said.

"Sylvia probably will stay on," he said. Recall organizers want to move quickly with their campaign, in the wake of last week's defeat of school board incumbents Mathew McCusker, Sharon Scott and Michael Lind said.

"We don't want the general public to cool off," said Lind, a Wayne resident and immediate past-president of the Taft-Galloway School PTA. Lind, credit manager for a Troy retail printing company, has two children in the Wayne-Westland school system.

RECALL SUPPORTERS have said last week's election proved that angry voters are demanding a change of school board members and the school district administration. In electing Vicki Welty and Laurel Ralsanen to four-year terms and Fred Warmbler to a two-year term, voters chose some of the board's harshest critics.

Recall organizers held their second meeting Thursday, Lind said.

"The support is growing tremendously," he said.

The group plans this week to begin planning the wording of the recall petition that must be submitted to county election officials and then signed by 25 percent of the district's registered voters who voted in the last gubernatorial

Hines Drive wreaths is over. A reader who frequently jogs along the drive called The Observer several weeks ago to ask about the wreaths. The wreaths were placed along the drive west of the Merriman access road to mark the place where Amy Alexander, 18, of Westland and a friend, Fran Rhoel, 19, of Waterford were killed in a collision Aug. 8, 1990, said Amy's mother, Linda Alexander. Alexander called The Observer shortly after reading about the jogger's question. The wreaths were put on the grass near the site of the accident in late December by Bobby Alexander, an uncle of Amy. About three weeks ago, Mrs. Alexander put crosses on the wreath bearing the names of the two women killed in the accident. The driver charged in the double fatality is scheduled to have a Recorder's Court jury trial start July 17.

THE NBA finals may be over, but there's still a chance for basketball fans to do their thing during the summer, thanks to the Westland recreation department.

The department and Mark Chevrolet in Wayne will sponsor a 3-on-3 basketball tournament July 4-7, during the Westland Summer Festival, to be in the Civic Center area behind city hall, Ford east of Newburgh.

Four divisions will be in the outdoor tournament: men's open, women's open, men's 6 foot and under, and males between 14 and 18.

The fee is $40 per team, which includes two games, T-shirts for all players and trophies to the winners and runners-up in each division.

Registration deadline is 5 p.m. Tuesday, July 2. Contact recreation supervisor Michael Brewis at 722-7620.

IF YOU like classical music more than sports, you'll be interested in the following school activity.

Trudy Bradley of Westland gave her third and fourth grade students in Canton Township a special treat in their end-of-the-year field trip last week.

Bradley, who teaches at Field Elementary in the Plymouth Canton school district, took her charges to radio station WQRS-FM in Southfield.

The purpose of the trip isn't just that Bradley is a buff of classical music, in which the station specializes. She is also the Saturday night announcer for the station.

During the field trip, the youngsters had the chance to be "on the air" for a few seconds in giving the station identification and announcing a Mozart musical program.

ARMY SPEC 4 Michael Miller of Westland is home for two weeks after serving in Operation Desert Storm as a forward observer. He is 23, a 1980 graduate of John Glenn High School, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller and the husband of Brenda Miller.

THE WESTLAND Friendship Center, on Newburgh near Marquette, is looking better, thanks to the planting of flower boxes in new planters.

Donating the flowers were Elvira's Flowers and Gifts, Keller & Stein's Florist and Greenhouses, Shirley Dean's, Clyde Smith & Sons Greenhouses, George's Livonia Gardens, and Harman's Greenhouse.

State legislative committee to look at school aid bill

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A school aid bill requiring local districts to share their business property taxes will be threshed out in a legislative conference committee after being rejected by the state House of Representatives.

But in a key test vote, the House last week rebuffed a suburban attempt to strip out tax base sharing language inserted by the Senate.

Under the Senate bill, half the growth in commercial and industrial property taxes would be collected in multi-county regions and spread on a per-pupil base.

"A sneaky thing. A scam," said Rep. William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe. "It's an incentive (for legislators) to vote less school aid."

"A Robin Hood bill. A double whammy," agreed Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford.

BRYANT MADE a long list of bad results that could occur from the principle of business tax base sharing.

"Tomorrow it may be residential property.

need public safety and parks.

"The day after, it may be all commercial and industrial property."

Only growth areas will be punished. Bridgman, the state's wealthiest per-pupil district with a nuclear power plant, would share nothing.

His own silk stocking area of Grosse Pointe would gain because it has no space for industrial growth.

BRYANT LOST, 36 to 61, his attempt to strip the sharing language from the $3 billion school aid bill.

Columnist to offer views on education

John Telford — educator, school administrator and social activist — will become a contributing columnist beginning in this Thursday's Observer & Eccentric on the op-ed page.

The controversial Rochester Hills resident has served in a number of roles, most recently as senior assistant superintendent for instructional administration in the Rochester School District. From 1977-84, he worked in the Plymouth-Canton District as executive director of secondary education.

Throughout his career Telford has acted as a thought-provoker, a defender of unpopular ideas, an advocate for justice and tolerance," said Steve Barnaby, Observer & Eccentric managing editor.

"We are delighted to have John writing for us. I know our readers will be intrigued by his approach, whether or not they agree with his views," he said.

TELFORD WILL, join former Troy administrator James "Doc" Doyle on the op-ed page as commentators on the educational scene.

Publisher faces fraud charge

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

David Willett, owner of a publishing company that includes the Westland Eagle and Canton Charge, is free on bond after being charged with bank fraud in an alleged check-kiting scheme.

Federal authorities accused him Thursday of shifting millions of dollars among checking accounts in attempts to cover bad checks.

Willett, president of the Associated Newspapers group, which includes six suburban newspapers, could face up to 30 years in prison and a $1 million fine if convicted of scheming to defraud the Wayne-

Westland Federal Credit Union and First of America in Wayne.

Willett surrendered to authorities and appeared in federal court in Detroit on Thursday — two days after federal authorities searched the newspaper company's offices in Wayne and seized documents believed to be important to the investigation, said FBI spokesman John Anthony.

Willett, who was not required to enter a plea during Thursday's court appearance, has been released on a $50,000 personal bond. Had he been forced to enter a plea, he would have pleaded not guilty, said his attorney.

Runaway returns to group home

By Darrell Clem

The 16-year-old daughter of Westland minister Michael Enersen, who admitted he abused her, returned last week to the children's home she had fled, prompting authorities to cancel a statewide alert.

The girl came back voluntarily Monday to the Salvation Army Edwin Denby Children's Home in Detroit, ending what relatives called "three weeks of hell" during the time she was reported missing. "The girl is back, and she is in fine condition," said Capt. Edward Rowland of the Denby home. "We checked her over, and she is OK."

The girl fled the home May 21 — two months after she and her 13-year-old brother were removed from their parents' custody amid charges of child abuse.

Authorities said the minister beat the daughter so severely with a

Contest helps kids hone reading skills

With concern over literacy growing, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have invited Rex and Rita Saurus to spend the summer with you and your family.

In the 1991 Family Reading Challenge, children between the ages of five and 12 years will be able to hone their reading skills and, at the same time, qualify for a nationwide drawing on Sept. 6 for thousands of prizes.

Beginning in this edition of the Observer & Eccentric, your children will be provided with a reading activity that will help you and your family to read and use the newspaper together. Today's newspaper contains the entry form.

Among the prizes available to win are an IBM Writing to Read Laboratory for your school and an IBM PC for your family, Rex and Rita Saurus hand puppets, bicycles, World Book encyclopedias and much more.

enough money to cover the checks. However, authorities said Willett shifted money from one bank to the other "at such intervals that it would appear to the victim banks that there were sufficient funds on deposit to honor (the) checks."

Moreover, FBI officials accused Willett of withdrawing from the accounts and using money for his own business, resulting in losses of $30,000 to First of America, Anthony said.

Executives at Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union confronted Willett on March 29, 1990, after they discovered that "a check kiting was ongoing with Willett's business accounts and that Willett's businesses make daily deposits of over $80,000," according to court documents.

said, and the newspapers will continue to be published.

When asked how the business community has responded to the news of Willett's being charged, Joyce Wheeler, executive director of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, said, "It's just too bad, that's all I can say. I don't think that we would have any other comment."

"I hate to see this happen to anybody," she said.

Mrs. Hollingsworth, 92, died June 5 in Nightingale Nursing Home, Westland.

Survivors are a son, William of Canton Township; nine grandchildren; numerous great- and great-great-grandchildren.

Memorials may be made through Mass cards, available at the Vermeulen Memorial Trust 100 Funeral Home, 980 Newburgh at Marquette, Westland.

Allan Early

"Mr. Willett does deny the allegations, and we believe he will be vindicated," Early said.

A preliminary hearing has been set for July 3 to decide whether the case should go to trial. However, Anthony said the FBI may dismiss its charge prior to the hearing and seek a grand jury indictment.

FOLLOWING A lengthy investigation, federal officials charged Willett in a check-kiting scheme from Jan. 1 to March 31 of last year.

The FBI accused Willett of depositing a series of checks drawn on the two financial institutions, though authorities said he knew there was not wooden paddle that her buttocks were seeping blood. The girl also suffered a human bite mark that her stepmother, Carol, has admitted causing.

Details about where the girl had gone when she left the Denby home were not made public.

two children to which her daughter Cheryl — Michael Enersen's first wife — gave birth before her death from heart failure in 1978. She was 19.

The two children were removed from their parents' custody on March 11, after an investigation by Westland police revealed they had been abused. Sgt. Laura Moore said the boy drank water from a toilet because food and water had been withheld from him.

Enersen, 36-year-old minister of Westland Full Gospel Church on Palmer, between Wildwood and Venoy, has drawn strong support from his 700-member congregation, though he has taken a leave of absence pending the outcome of the case.

The Enersens pleaded guilty to child abuse during an arraignment April 25 in Detroit Recorder's Court.

They had been scheduled for sentencing May 31, but the daughter's disappearance caused a delay because she was needed for information for a pre-sentencing report. The sentencing has been rescheduled for June 18.

Another hearing is scheduled for Wednesday in Wayne County Probate Court to decide whether four other Enersen children, ages 9 months to 10 years, should also be removed from their parents. Those children were born during Michael Enersen's marriage to Carol.

Patriots dream

Franklin High graduates set out

SENIORS ended their high school careers Thursday night after commencement ceremonies conducted at Franklin High School, which serves the northeast section of Westland.

The Franklin band, directed by Joan Seay, performed the processional and recessional. The band also played the national anthem with the singing led by Scott Keebaugh and the colors presented by the school's National Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps.

The senior choir at Franklin, directed by Robert Ballard, sang "You'll Never Walk Alone." Principal Michael Fenchel made welcoming remarks and greetings from the school board were extended by board president Pat Sari.

The commencement speaker was state Rep. Lyn R. Bankes, R-Livonia.

Diplomas were presented by Richard McKnight, school board vice president.

Seniors graduating with highest honors (grade point averages of 3.95 and higher) were Michael Biga, James Carter, Nicole Chiesa, Lawrence France, Randi Herdman, Luan Le, Barbara Mochol, Sharlyna Moy and Kari Zabell.

Churchill class of '91 moving on to future

ANOTHER YEAR came to an end Thursday night with commencement ceremonies at Churchill High School, which serves the northwest section of Westland.

The Churchill High Band, directed by James Murphy, played a prelude and the recessional. The senior ensemble, directed by Pat Hutchison, sang the national anthem and a farewell song, "It's Time for Moving On."

Churchill math teacher Donald Albertson was the guest speaker.

Diplomas were distributed by school board members Carol Strop (who is closing out a 16-year board career), Marjorie Roach and Diane Tancill, Superintendent Joseph Marinelli, and director of secondary education Kenneth Watson Jr.

Seniors graduating summa cum laude with a grade point average of 3.95 or higher were Amy Baron, Brian Baum, Alyssa Belaire, Daniel Chamberlain, Michelle DelVigna, Susan Dundas, Erik Eld, Robert Gable, Jody Gale, Christine Garry, Mark Graban, Brian Johnson, Rebecca Marrone, Dubrecc Miller, Francesca Prieba, Marcella Pulitorak, Dawn Purdom, Erika Sanders, Jesse Thomas, Michael Thomas, Bryan Walters and David Winebrener.

Nora Sanburn waits with a fist of balloons for her granddaughter, Julie Sanburn, who graduated Thursday night from Livonia Churchill High.

Mayor, council feud over bureau

By Leonard Poger
editor

Should the quasi-governmental Municipal Service Bureau have its board of directors continue to be named by the mayor?

Council president Tom Brown and several colleagues say no. Mayor Robert Thomas says yes.

The issue was debated last week at a city council study session.

The bureau, formed about 12 years ago, is legally a private, non-profit independent organization which contracts with the city of Westland to run the municipal golf course and sports arena as well as the school crossing guard program.

The stickler is that the bureau's rules provide that the five board of directors be appointed to staggered terms by the mayor. One of the five is George Gillies, the city's parks and recreation director who is currently board chairman.

Several council members don't like that, but Mayor Thomas, in office for nearly 18 months, disagrees.

Thomas wants to maintain control of the appointment process since the bureau operates two major city facilities.

THE MAYOR told the council last week that while he has control over the appointments to the MSB's board, he has no influence over what it does.

Thomas referred to an incident last November when he tried to fire Carl Morton, long-time manager of the city golf course, but found out that he didn't have the authority. Only the MSB board can dismiss its employees.

The mayor admitted that he may "ruffle a few feathers" (in wanting to keep control of the MSB) but "it's not the first time or the last."

He defended his unsuccessful attempted firing of Morton because the golf course, on Merriman south of Cherry Hill, is a city facility.

But the MSB board disagree and refused to fire Morton.

Thomas said the overall dispute "borders on the ridiculous" with the city administration having no controls over the bureau.

But the city council disagrees.

On the council's suggestion that no city department heads serve on the MSB board, the mayor said:

"We'd better damn well have some responsibility on city property," suggesting that if there were any lawsuit involving the course or arena, the city would be sued.

The mayor said the bureau was created mainly to circumvent the high labor costs in running city programs.

BROWN ARGUED that the bureau's board members shouldn't be named by the mayor.

He said that the charter board members were to be named by the mayor and subsequently by themselves.

But in practice, the mayor (first Tom Taylor and later Charles Pickering and Charles Griffin) made board appointments.

Several council members suggested that possibly a city department head be on the board but not have voting powers.

MSB stressed that the city and MSB "can't have it halfway" and believes that the current arrangement is illegal.

"Either it's a city operation or a non-profit program," he said.

"It's (the current arrangement) not a legal institution," said the council president who said he "challenges it (the bureau) as it is now."

Brown also suggested that the bureau be run strictly as a non-profit organization and have the city lease its property to it.

Arguing for a bureau-city relationship, Mayor Thomas said that the current arrangement should be retained.

He admitted that some persons want to change the MSB setup to preserve Morton's job at the golf course.

The mayor added that he hasn't seen any problems with the bureau and doesn't feel there is any need for a change in the way the board is appointed.

Thomas also feels that if the bureau is made fully autonomous, the city would lose all control of the arena and golf course and then the city should then remove the city's names from those buildings.

But Brown replied that's not what the council is suggesting.

COUNCIL MEMBER Charles Pickering, who served as mayor from 1982 through 1985, agreed with Thomas, saying that the bureau should operate as a non-profit organization.

Pickering added that "outside politics" are putting pressure on the MSB board.

He said the board should remain independent but that the mayor should continue to make board appointments.

Agreeing with him was council member Sandra Ciccirilli, who said the bureau is doing a good job and sees no problem with the current arrangement.

Woman killed when car hits truck

A Livonia woman was killed Thursday night when her car collided with a pickup truck pulling into a driveway on Wayne Road near West Chicago, police said.

Andrea Andrews, 21, was declared dead at St. Mary Hospital from multiple injuries about four hours after the 10:10 p.m. accident, police said.

The driver of the pickup truck, a 21-year-old Westland man, wasn't seriously injured, police said.

THE ACCIDENT was still under investigation Friday, said Sgt. Thomas Green of the Livonia Police traffic bureau.

Green said police are looking into possible alcohol use by the victim and whether the driver of the truck had his headlights on at the time of the accident.

"We do know that it was very dark. There are no street lights on that section of Wayne Road," Green said.

POLICE SAID the woman's 1990 Ford Escort, headed northbound, hit the right, front portion of the 1976 Ford pickup as the driver was attempting to pull back into the residential driveway at 9528 Wayne Road.

Real heroes lie in book pages

MOST OF US spend a lifetime talking to people we don't really know or will never really meet. They are our heroes. They could be Ty Cobb, George Bush, Karl Marx or Oprah Winfrey.

We talk to these people because somehow, through their actions or words, they speak to us.

One of my heroes is Michigan writer Jim Harrison, a Traverse City area resident. He's a storyteller who has turned bar room bull into poetry.

His characters are real to me. Often they're Michigan bubbas who stumble around the state's woods and streams doing stupid things and often drinking too much.

They're slightly disreputable looking guys whose hair is a mess and whose body is usually bitten by mosquitoes. They've usually crawled out of a swamp or river where they've been after fish or game.

I PRETTY MUCH fit that description recently while walking into an IGA store in a small Upper Peninsula town, smelling of dead trout.

I was in quest of duct tape to repair my son's waders and beer to soothe my damaged ego. I had cleaned my son's fish, but caught none of my own.

In the parking lot I spotted another disreputable looking character. It was Mr. Harrison, climbing out of a red truck.

I tried to keep my cool. I had recently seen a picture of him in a Traverse City newspaper, posed next to a sign at his home that said keep out, call first, don't stop by to visit. It's the price of celebrity. He looked unsmiling and angry.

BUT EVEN with that in mind, I couldn't resist talking to him. I turned into a babbling fool.

"Mr. Harrison," I said. "Yes, and who are you?" was his gruff response.

"Just a reader." He didn't retreat. We walked into the IGA store together. I identified myself as a professionally trained journalist.

AN INTERVIEW? Well, sort of. As we walked through the store he covered everything from meat to Mennonites. And there were a couple of snide comments about Oakland County. But books weren't on the menu.

Harrison writes a food column for Esquire magazine and talking to him was like reading it. In it he writes about eating dinner with folks like Jack Nicholson.

"Just back from New York," he said, picking up salad, and passing by the meat counter. "No meat till Tuesday," he said, referring to his battle with gout.

"I'm trying to stay at 130, you look like you're keeping it at 120," he said, referring to his and my bulk.

WHILE HIS mind was on food, mine was on his books.

"I loved Wolf," I blurted out. Like a cagey brown trout, he wouldn't rise.

"Great country around there," he said, referring to Michigan's Huron mountains northwest of Marquette.

I knew the area, and I told him about fishing the Yellow Dog River and staying in the hotel where they filmed "Anatomy of a Murder." He rose to that. And so we talked brook trout, not books.

THE NAMES OF rivers. He gave me a few to fish. Just names, not exact locations. I later read in one of his books that fishermen never exchange information about their best spots. It wasn't a surprise.

"I don't start mine for a couple of weeks. Too bug intensive," he said. I didn't want to be too much the tourist or unabashed hero worshiper, so I went looking for beer. There was none.

"A Christian store," Harrison said. "Mennonites."

I BABBLED that I knew about the religious group from reporting in central Michigan and told him the story of how with no fanfare they sent a ship filled with food to Africa.

"And the French sent bad wine," Harrison quipped.

The line sounded familiar. Was it from one of his columns?

It made me wonder about the reputations writers have for being reclusive. Maybe it's because they use all their good stuff in their books and don't have anything new to say when they meet people.

HE ASKED about Oakland County, saying a friend was writing a piece about it for Detroit Monthly.

"Too much money," I said. He smiled, and said: "Quite a place."

We parted at the checkout lane. "Is the Fox River up or down?" he asked as he started to walk out.

"Not real deep," I replied.

AND NEITHER was our talk. I had hoped for books but instead got brooks.

But then again maybe that wasn't out of character for a man who probably writes for a living so he can have time for fishing. There are priorities.

Tragedies hurt administrators

QUESTION: What is or are the worst things as an administrator that you experienced during your 30-plus years in education? Was it lack of funds from millage defeats, citizen pressure groups or union problems?

ANSWER: None of the above! It is the sudden, unexpected tragedy. It is when you are in the central office at 7:45 a.m. having a cup of coffee, and you get a call from X elementary to hear a second grade child has been struck and killed by a car at an intersection that you have been fighting to get an overpass at for six years. (Of course, it's put up after the death.)

It is riding to the hospital in an ambulance with the dead child and saying over and over, "How do I tell the parents?"

It's going to the county park at 3 a.m. to identify a high school student you knew and loved who blew his head off with a shot gun over what seemed like a simple school/home problem.

Teacher union strikes, parent pressure groups screaming at me at board meetings, administrative unrest, petitions are all minor league stuff compared to facing the sudden human tragedy, tragedies I've known of from 35 years in the business.

A GREAT emotional crisis will also surface if the school district doesn't have a plan to address sudden tragedies. I remember one situation which cost the superintendent his job and probably his mental health.

It wasn't his lack of concern over the classroom teacher's suicide. It was no plan in dealing with it. Let's look at what should occur and what should not occur in this teacher suicide example.

The wrong way: What happened came from everyone — the principal, counselors, central office. Everyone had an opinion with no designated central spokesman, confusion reigned.

Announcements regarding the teacher's death were made over the school's public address system rather than in a face to face meeting with the faculty.

There was no school crisis team. A crisis team is trained to deal with sudden and tragic situations in a school setting.

WHAT WORKS: Immediately holding a meeting with the faculty on the gay of a suicide, child killed crossing the road, etc.

No memos please! If any administrator hasn't figured it out yet, teachers tremendously resent memos on critical issues. Talk to them face to face.

Counseling is critical and should be made available to those faculty members, parents and students who are in need.

Immediate and full disclosure to the news media is essential. The example we are using in the article is one in which the superintendent held back information too long. So guys like me who write did the best they could with little, if any, clear data.

There should be one spokesman for the media, for the public. All information should come from that one person. Any written communication must be consistent in what it says to the teachers, the public, the media, etc.

OF ALL THE nights I lay awake, worrying about how we are going to get the millage passed, or how we can end the teacher strike, nothing ever compares with the loss of that second grade child at the crossing. The irrational guilt, even when you're not at fault, makes you wonder what you could have done to have saved that young man from committing suicide.

You ask, "What are some of your worst experiences in education?" All my experiences in education overall were beautiful experiences. No negative experience in education ever compared with telling the parent their most cherished possession, their child, has moved on and is now in God's care.

Footnote: I would like to express my appreciation for the many cards and flowers I received following my recent heart by-pass surgery. Take time to smell the roses. You're only a visitor here.

Column accomplishes its mission

HERE I AM, an officer of a labor union, in the abashed position of defending a manager, one Jeff Counts, editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers. Forgive me, Saints Walter and Jimmy. I can't help myself.

Oh! Jeff has been taking a lot of heat from readers and staff, what with his views on feminism, liberals, gays, white wine, schools and child rearing.

Several weeks ago his column ran next to a letter to the editor. The headline on the letter read, "Editor was dropped on head." I guess I'm here to point out that he is accomplishing his mission: That is, to inspire spirited debate on the pages of this newspaper and in the community.

Bill Bresler

ONE OF THE problems newspapers face today is a declining readership. It's easy to explain. Your average newspaper is designed not to of-ferend anybody. The old motto, "To comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable," has been replaced by, "Be nice."

Editorial opinions are wishy-washy at best, nonsensical at worst. Features are trendy with no substance. News stories are filled with exonerating detail only important to the official involved and the reporter.

Reporters and editorial writers need to write with passion, writing what will inflame both supporters and detractors.

One of my favorite columnists is Joe Sobran, syndicated in the Detroit Free Press. Most of the time I'm pounding the breakfast table over something he has written. But every now and then he writes something so clear and perceptive that I've got to see his point or even change my mind.

YOU MUST BE challenged by a newspaper. It should help confirm your own beliefs, help strengthen your opposition, perhaps change your mind. That's what Counts' columns can do.

Mud Day set for Tuesday at Nankin Mills picnic site

Mud Day, an annual Wayne County Parks event promoting good clean fun, is scheduled for 11 a.m. Tuesday, June 18, at Nankin Mills Picnic Area, Westland. Parks workers will create a large, muddy field, allowing kids to slip and slide to their heart's content. The muddiest children will be crowned Mr. and Ms. Mud. Games and activities are planned to keep the event in control. Old clothes are recommended. All participants must wear shoes. Participants are also encouraged to bring clean clothes to wear afterward. It is suggested participants bring a towel to clean their face and hands. An onsite changing area will be available. Participants will be given a plastic garbage bag to store their muddy clothes. Tubs and Tumbler Laundry and Dry Cleaning, an event co-sponsor, will hand out coupons for discounts at their establishments. It is suggested that parents car pool because parking space is limited. If morning temperatures fall below 60 degrees the event will be rescheduled for June 25. Additional Mud Day information is available by calling county parks offices, 261-1630.

Auction benefits Detroit Zoo

Former Detroit Zoo director Steve Graham will serve as honorary chairman for this year's "Sunset at the Zoo" from 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, June 18. Proceeds from this annual Detroit Zoological Society fund-raiser will benefit a conservation fund named for Graham. Some 1,000 society members will attend. The event will feature a progressive dinner throughout the park and musical entertainment. Guests can bid on a number of auction packages, including VIP tickets to Pistons, Red Wings and Tigers games, and a trip to Amsterdam and the nearby Burgers Zoo, courtesy of Northwest Airlines. Contest winners will receive gift certificates to Border's Book Store, a six-month pass for two to AMC Theatres or tickets to Pine Knob. Tickets, available to members only, are $35 per person and available by calling the Detroit Zoological Society at (313) 541-5717. The conservation fund supports the Conservation Endowment Fund (CEF), sponsored by the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums. CEF aids captive breeding programs to save endangered species from extinction.

Ending MET 'foolish,' Kosteva says

By Tim Richard staff writer

Gov. John Engler would be "foolish" to end the Michigan Education Trust, says the lawmaker who sponsored the pre-paid college tuition program. "I think it's valid for his administration or anyone else to evaluate MET's actuarial viability," said Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton. "But the basic premise remains: With MET, we turn college education from a post-paid to a pre-paid program. We get parents to think in advance about financing college." Two actuarial reports gave MET respectable ratings, subject to the uncertainties of politics. The MET board has not met this year, but the fund is the subject of much rumor in Lansing.

ALTHOUGH FORMER Gov. James Blanchard's name was on the MET, program, Kosteva sponsored the legislative bill under which parents or grandparents would pay a lump sum into an interest-earning trust fund. The fund would guarantee to cover their child's tuition in a Michigan public college. Now chair of the House Colleges and Universities Committee, Kosteva became the father of twins about the same time the bill was going through the Legislature. Kosteva was interviewed amid growing signs that the Engler administration wants to stop new enrollments in MET. State Treasurer Doug Roberts said recently that if MET continues to accept new enrollees, it no longer will guarantee full tuition. Instead it may offer a more expensive package requiring investors to pay federal taxes, Roberts said. The 55,000 existing contracts will be honored, state officials say. When the program began in 1988, the price was $6,700 to enroll a newborn and guarantee four years of tuition. By last fall, the price was $8,380. KOSTEVA NOTED that "Engler is vulnerable to some of the pundits of the private investment community who have never looked on MET as a favorable competition. They will try to undermine the fiscal assumptions that determine MET prices. Deputy treasurer in the Engler administration is Gary Wolfram, a conservative economics professor and former Senate staffer who had been critical of the MET idea during legislative hearings. In general, conservatives say MET doesn't do anything that private companies can't do. They also feel Blanchard exploited MET politically. UNDER BLANCHARD, MET assumed it would earn 9.75 percent on investments while tuitions would rise 7.3 percent.

In April two actuaries with the firm of Deloitte & Touche said: MET's 9.75 percent earnings assumption is "reasonable with no margin for conservatism." MET assumes that enrollees may tend to enroll in higher-priced colleges and built in a 3-percent cost "bias." But the actuaries found "no credible experience" for that assumption. "Due to the unique and unprecedented nature of MET, no credible statistical data exists for evaluating several of the specific actuarial assumptions. In addition, MET is subject to the influence of many outside forces totally out of its control — that is, state funding of higher education, demographic and population shifts, general inflation in the economy, etc. Therefore, the current meaasured actuarial balance is not sufficient to guarantee the long-term actuarial soundness of the trust." LAST SEPTEMBER, the firm of Coopers & Lybrand concluded in its actuarial evaluation: MET's assets "are sufficient to provide the benefits under the contracts issued in the 1988 and 1989 enrollments." MET's methods are "moderately conservative" — a complimentary word among financial people. "However, because MET is an innovation, until the trust matures and a record of meaningful experience is developed, there will necessarily be uncertainty about significant factors that affect the solvency of the trust."

TIMING KNEE INJECTIONS — WHY NOT INJECT BEFORE YOU HURT?

"Doctor, I'm going out of town. Could you inject my knee now so I won't have a flare of arthritis while away?" Unfortunately, injecting a joint that doesn't hurt is similar to spraying a hallway with a fire extinguisher in hopes of preventing a blaze in the hall tomorrow. The chemicals in a fire extinguisher act effectively only on the fire as it occurs. The same holds for the steroid medication in a joint injection. The medicine can only halt inflammation that is present now. The body removes the steroid from the joint in hours, no matter what the dose injected. Thereafter, prevention of a recurrence depends on the body's ability to resist future development of inflammation or to overcome pockets of irritation as they develop. Nor can the firefighter who uses the extinguisher to put out a hallway blaze state how long the time before another fire may occur. So the doctor who undertakes a knee injection today cannot predict how long the injection will prevent future flares of inflammation. Joint injections are good procedures to give immediate relief from knee pain. No injection as yet can prevent inflammation from starting or protect against its recurrence.

Gazpacho: the pot that cools

The last place I want to be on a hot, sultry summer's eve is slaving over a hot stove in the kitchen. If you feel the same, have you given any thought to a large, cooling pot of gazpacho for dinner?

For the uninitiated, gazpacho is a one-pot dinner, filled with a melange of the produce store's best offerings, topped off with a chilly tomato base, olive oil and a pinch of herbs and spices. To me, a chilled pot of gazpacho is like a sprinkler to a 4-year-old or a lawn chair on Belle Isle to a senior citizen.

Gazpacho is easily prepared and can be as basic as a chopped cucumber, a bunch of green onions and a seeded and chopped tomato. Burly diners can opt for the addition of some cooked beans or legumes. Culinarians can include micro-diced bits of purple onion and a hefty splash of wine. Once touted as a vegetarian's delight, this so-called soup can chill the sweaty brow of anyone within a nose shot of some fresh chopped cilantro and a sprinkling of crushed coriander seeds.

The difference between a good gazpacho and a great one lies in its base. Betty Crocker cooks are happy with a large can of tomato juice. Health nuts can the basic juice and reach for a can of V-8. Yours truly suggests a cool blend of a splash of cheap dry wine and an equal amount of imported olive oil and the juice of a fresh lemon. Better yet would be a jar of Momma's famed stewed tomatoes; sent for a quick whirl in the blender.

PURISTS MIGHT choose to strain the broth and then slowly heat it, with the requisite herbs and spices, only to chill once again. My thoughts on that: "Why make more dishes to wash!" Gazpacho is a peasant meal, usually made during the dog days of summer. If President and Mrs. Bush decide to dine at Chateau Janes, this procedure might be in order, but for the time being, the sweat continues to drip, and I'm opting for the coolest way out.

Trendoids, who are always on the cutting edge of culinary hedonism, might forego the red tomato base entirely by choosing a white base made from chicken broth and yogurt. This type of gazpacho is what Wolfgang Puck serves up at Spago's and charges around $7 for a bowl. Again, my philosophy is that since this one-dish dinner usually means a trip to the produce market anyway, fresh tomatoes are of no big consequence.

Vegetables and/or legumes that find their way from the Culsinart to the pot can be anything from mushrooms to jalapeno peppers. In addition to the almost mandatory cucumbers, tomato and onion, my first choices would also include a red or green pepper, with the first being preferential, some mushrooms, celery (including the tops), possibly some pea pods, carrots and water chestnuts.

Allow your soul and your wallet to be your guide. Lastly, a great gazpacho will bring with it the aroma and flavor of a vegetable garden immediately after a rainstorm. Yes, a shot of Tabasco is always welcome, in addition to a hefty hand with the salt and fresh ground pepper. Dill weed, cilantro, fresh chopped basil and pregano, not to forget coriander, celery seed and a shake of lemon pepper, will only improve the olfactory senses.

If it's too hot to cool, chill out, with some homemade gazpacho.

Lemons AND Limes

IN THE Summertime

By Gerl Rinschler special writer

ALTHOUGH THE best lemons are available from December to March, it's not until the sizzling days of summer that they are in the greatest demand.

Besides a cool dip in the pool, there's nothing as refreshing as a glass of ice cold lemonade, or a zesty bowl of Greek lemon soup (Avgolemono) or a frosty Italian lemon ice cup. You could say that at times the word lemon is synonymous with ahhhh! cooling! and thirst-quenching!

Just how long has America been cooking with lemons? Well, that's not easy to say. In early American cookbooks, there are a number of recipes for lemon pudding and lemon sponge pie prior to the Civil War. In "American Cookery," written in 1796, author Amelia Simmons author describes a lemon cream made with "the juice of four large lemons, half a pint of water, a pound of double refined sugar, seven beaten egg whites and the yolk of one, beaten very well."

Lemons and oranges are called for frequently in Simmons' recipes. Although it's said that citrus fruits were available during the 1790s in limited quantities, obviously they were readily available to Simmons in Connecticut.

THE EXACT origin of the lemon is unknown. A citrus fruit whose cultivation goes back more than 2,500 years, it is believed to have originated in the Indus Valley of Northern India.

This tender, subtropical evergreen tree was brought into St. Augustine, Fla., by the Spanish in 1565 and later to Southern California in 1769. Today most lemons are grown in California and Arizona, with a smaller crop in Florida.

American lemons are available all year round, including those which we must still import from Chile, Spain and Italy. Commercially, the quality of lemons is judged by the color, clearness and texture of the skin, not by the size of the fruit, according to Jack Murchie author of "Buying Produce: The Green Grocer's Guide to Selecting and Storing Fresh Fruit and Vegetables" (Hearst Paperbacks, 1988).

He suggests looking for citrus fruits which have the thinnest skin to yield the highest juice content. Select citrus fruits which are firm, that feel heavy for their size and are free of blemishes. Lemons usually are more expensive in the summer and less expensive in the winter. Limes, which are less expensive in the summer, can be used as a substitute in most recipes.

Limes are also available all year long but reach their peak season in July and August. Although similar in flavor to lemons, they have a slightly higher acid content. Since limes are about half the size of a lemon, you may need nearly twice as many when using them interchangeably in a recipe. In buying limes, look for those which are the darkest green. A yellowish lime is generally not as fresh or as juicy.

DO YOU YEARN to duplicate a Key Lime Pie a la Key West, Fla.? Key limes, which are more aromatic and more potent than the standard Persian varieties, seldom appear in Michigan fruit markets but frozen or bottled Key lime juice can be found in gourmet food shops.

When extracting juice from lemons or limes, allow them to first reach room temperature. Roll them on a counter top with the palm of your hand to extract the most juice.

Lemons and limes will last three to four days at room temperature and up to one month when stored in the refrigerator. If a recipe calls for the zest of a citrus fruit, strips can easily be removed using a potato peeler.

Lemon zest curls make an attractive garnish on a plate along with lemon leaves (available at any florist shop). If a recipe calls for grated zest, it's most easily removed with a small kitchen tool known as a zester. A zester removes very fine strips of zest, leaving the bitter rind or white pith behind.

A second helpful kitchen tool is a stripper, which not only removes long continuous strips of zest from the fruit but also creates artistic scallop design on the outside of the fruits when the lemons or limes are sliced.

A French wooden cone or corrugated wooden cone is helpful when hollowing out lemon and lime shells to be used as individual serving cups or as a garnish. These also are available in specialized kitchen shops or in department stores.

Vineyards shop is a deli and a whole lot more

By Janice Brunson special writer

Dine on the premises, inside or out-of-doors.

Buy take-out and eat at home.

Or dine at home but at a catered affair.

Select country home-style fare or French gourmet.

At Vineyards Taste of Seasons in Farmington Hills — a diner, deli, wine shop and catering service rolled into one — the choices are endless.

About the only thing not available is a parking spot during daily noon and early evening rush hours. Then, the place is normally packed with lines of customers wending through the homey premises, which are capped by a ceiling of hanging baskets.

Availability of choice at Vineyards Taste is the result of a recent marriage in business between two former competitors. The principles involved describe the unusual partnership as a union of strength and resources.

In February, Grace Crowl, a certified chef who for three years owned a catering service on Northwestern Highway called Taste of Seasons, moved the operation across the road to Virginia's, a fine wine shop and deli with seating for some 100 that Ron Asmar has owned and operated since 1985.

Ron Asmar and Grace Crowl, partners in Vineyards Taste of Seasons, are shown with carrot cake, (left), potato pastries and Bavarian cream torte.

SHARON LEMIEUX staff photographer from his office in Novi — helps out wherever needed. Maggie, who has always worked alongside her husband, continues to assist in countless ways.

"THE DIET Seafood Salad is my favorite," said Steven Stone who eats at Vineyards Taste at least twice weekly. He works at Friedmann Realty next door. Also high on Stone's list of favorites: "The chicken dishes are really good, love the pastries, and they do something special with the rice pudding."

Stone's partner, Nathan Green was content to say he has "no favorites. Everything is good."

Vivian Stoll drinks "cappuccino a lot. And this is excellent," she said, polishing off a cup of the brew with friend Bonnie Plogers. The pair dropped in on their way to Kenneth and Bashir's hair salon next door.

Ernie Malazo, hired three weeks ago to manage the virgin bar, grinned at the compliment to his cappuccino. A former maitre d' at Ristorante Di Modesta in Southfield, he joined the staff at Vineyards Taste three weeks ago because "they have the potential to grow."

Vineyards Taste is open 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday-Thursday and until 9:30 p.m. Friday and 10 p.m. Saturday. Sunday hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

See Recipes, Page 2B.

"JUST YESTERDAY, I was telling Grace, 'What did I ever do without you? How did either of us survive without each other?'" said Asmar, pointing to a multitude of customers during a recent noon rush. "Ronnie and I are a real good team," Crowl observed, simultaneously thumbing through carefully catalogued recipes, as she helped a couple who were interested in a catered affair.

The arrangement allows Crowl to do what she does best — prepare edible works of art including marinated chicken salad with dried Michigan cherries that taste of spring, an array of country French pastries, and ethnic wonders like pasties from a genuine recipe once used by upstate miners.

"Everything except the rye bread is prepared fresh from scratch, like salads, twice a day," she said.

Asmar tends to daily operations, stocking a wide variety of wines and liquors and introducing new services such as the virgin drink bar, an instant success that features non-alcoholic beverages.

Crowl's husband James and Ron's wife Maggie are the "Jack and Jill of all trades." Jim — who is jokingly referred to as the shop's staff physician when not practicing medicine

Mixed case includes some nice surprises

We are introduced to new wines in restaurants, at wine tastings, at interviews and while travelling to wine country. The number of ways we become aware of new wines is sometimes surprising. People know that we delight in discoveries and frequently introduce us to wines they have enjoyed.

Recently, while planning a party for some friends and neighbors, we called our wine retailer and asked that he put together a mixed case of value-priced chardonnays — four different producers, three bottles of each. We agreed on a price range and left it up to him. He knows what we like, but also knows that we appreciate a surprise or two.

Among the mixed case was the J. Lohr Estates Riverstone Chardonnay ($12). Our friends liked the full aromas of tropical fruit and buttery, toasted oak. It disappeared fast. For the money, the wine is uncommonly lush with abundant flavors of pear and apple, featuring a long, lingering finish.

After our experience we were very happy when J. Lohr winemaker Jeff Runquist came to Detroit. We had the opportunity to meet him and discuss his wines at the Rattlesnake Club where sommelier Madeline Triffon was featuring the Riverstone Chardonnay at a by-the-glass pour.

RUNQUIST EXPLAINED that

to achieve full, lush chardonnay flavors he harvests the grapes when they are fully mature. He judges this by walking the vineyard and tasting the berries. The grapes are machine harvested at night, when the fruit is cool. They are pressed immediately in the vineyard within one to two hours after picking.

Runquist introduced us to the 1987 J. Lohr Estates Seven Oaks Cabernet Sauvignon ($12), a wine with distinctive blackberry and cherry aromas followed by fresh fruit flavors and a rich, velvety texture. "We are very proud of the cabernet fruit we get from our Seven Oaks Vineyard located in Paso Robles," Runquist emphasized. "Napa Valley cabernet sauvignon is reminiscent of cassis and black currant, Alexander Valley exudes plum, Santa Barbara has an olive note, but Paso Robles boasts intense black cherry character."

Paso Robles has a climate similar to that of the Alexander Valley in Northern Sonoma County. The main difference, according to Runquist, is the soil. Paso Robles boasts a rich, clay-loam topsoil over a sub-soil of limestone and slate.

"We harvest cabernet in the warmth of the day to aid in extracting flavor and color from the skins," Runquist said. "We age the wine in small American oak barrels which contributes a delightful cinnamon, vanilla bouquet. The wine has sufficient tannins to give structure and ageability, but not so much to interfere with the silky finish."

J. Lohr Winery was founded in San Jose in 1974. The original winery now produces only white wines. In 1988, a new red wine facility was built adjacent to the Seven Oaks Vineyard in Paso Robles. Here, Runquist is armed with the best winemaking equipment and technology available. This allows him to produce an attractive, fruity, Beaujolais-style red wine, J. Lohr Wildflower Gamay ($9), which reminds us of a cru Beaujolais Fleurie.

Runquist also introduced us to the Cypress Brand of affordable varietal wines produced by J. Lohr Vineyards. These wines are handcrafted by blending estate grapes with fruit from selected coastal vineyards.

Lemons, limes for summer

See related story, Page 1B.

As each summer begins, the recipes which come to the top of my list are those reminiscent of childhood days spent at the shore. Here are a few simple summer delights for Italian Lemon Ice Cups, Old Fashioned Lemonade and A Keep Cool Summer Salad.

One lemon will yield 2 to 3 tablespoons of juice. Six lemons will yield about 1 cup.

- OLD-FASHIONED LEMONADE
- 12 lemons
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 cups water
- 2-3 drops orange blossom water, optional (available at Middle Eastern food shops or Crabtree Evelyn)
- Mint leaves
- Ice cubes

In a 1 1/2 quart pitcher, mix together er lemon juice and sugar. Stir until dissolved. Add cold water and flavor with orange blossom water if desired. Add ice cubes and garnish with mint leaves.

- GRANITA DILIMONE
- Italian Lemon Ice
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 lemons or 6 tablespoons lemon juice
- Zest of 1 lemon, grated

Mix together sugar and water in a saucepan. Bring liquid to a boil, stirring. Add lemon juice and zest. Remove from heat and allow to cool to room temperature.

Pour liquid into ice trays and freeze 1-2 hours until solid. Beat ice with a whisk or fork and return to freezer again, freezing until solid. Spoon or scoop out into sherbet dishes or individual hollowed-out lemon halves. If using lemon cups, refreeze before serving. Garnish each with a sprig of mint or other scented herbs. Serves 3.

- KEEP KOOL SUMMER SALAD
- Dressing
- 1 cup olive oil (use Berlo or other simple olive oil)
- 1/2 cup fresh squeezed lime juice
- 1 1/2 teaspoons champagne or white wine mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon dried tarragon leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt or to taste
- Lots of freshly ground pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

- 2 cups red leaf lettuce leaves, torn
- 2 cups Boston or bibb lettuce leaves, torn
- 2 cups romaine lettuce leaves, torn
- 2 cups radicchio leaves, torn
- 1 bunch watercress

- 3 pounds cooked chicken or duck, shredded, chilled
- 8 strawberries
- 12-15 fresh raspberries or blueberries
- 12 mini, yellow, pear-shaped tomatoes or red cherry tomatoes, cut in half.
- 1/2 cup almonds, toasted or sauteed in a skillet until golden
- 1 ripe avocado, peeled, sliced in wedges

Mix greens together and arrange on 4 individual serving plates. Divide shredded meat and arrange on each serving. Garnish plates with berries and tomatoes. Top with toasted almonds and avocado slices and sprigs of watercress. Serve dressing on the side. Salad greens may be tossed together with enough dressing to moisten before serving, then garnish with fruits and meat with extra dressing on the side. Serves 4.

It's a deli and a whole lot more

See related story, Page 1B.

These recipes are from Vineyards Taste of Seasons in Farmington Hills.

- SHRIMP REMOLADE
- 1/2 cup elder vinegar
- 1 1/2 cups vegetable oil
- 1/2 cup horseradish
- 1/2 cup coarse Dijon mustard
- 1/4 cup ketchup
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- Dash Tabasco
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 bunches scallions, minced
- 6 to 8 stalks celery, minced

Add to shredded romaine lettuce and red and green peppers which have been julenned.

Thoroughly combine all ingredients. Gently toss with peeled and deveined cooked shrimp. Add to shredded romaine lettuce and red and green peppers which have been julenned.

clarification

● CANDY BAR PIE

Part of the directions were missing from the recipe for Candy Bar Pie in Betsy Brethen's Winner Dinner column on June 10. The complete recipe follows:

- CANDY BAR PIE
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
- 5 assorted favorite candy bars
- Chocolate sauce

Whipped topping
1 ready-made chocolate pie crust

Soften the ice cream. Crumble the candy bars, reserving some of each for the topping, and stir into the ice cream. Pour the mixture into the pie crust. Frost with whipped topping, sprinkle with the remaining candy and drizzle with chocolate sauce. Freeze until served. Serves 6 to 8.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

The following Cypress brand wines are produced by J. Lohr and represent excellent values in their price range.

1990 Cypress Fume Blanc ($6) exudes fresh honey-dew melon and grapefruit aromas in the style of a clean, summertime refresher.

1989 Cypress Chardonnay ($9) showcases apple and pear aromas highlighted by a bouquet of toasty oak and vanilla. Oak and fruit flavors are well-balanced in a stylish presentation.

1988 Cypress Merlot ($9) is made from Washington State fruit. Dark cherry aromas introduce flavors of cranberries and spice in a supple style that is readily accessible.

1987 Cypress Cabernet Sauvignon ($9) features soft cassis and cherry aromas and flavors in a silky, California style.

'The Antipasto Table' includes best offerings

"The Antipasto Table" by Michele Scicolone (William Morrow & Co.; June 20, 1991; $20, hardcover) introduces American cooks to antipasti the way it was meant to be — fresh, flavorful, colorful and delicious.

Scicolone, who grew up in an Italian-American household, was inspired by the cooking of her grandmother as well as by her many travels in Italy. She has taken the best offerings of restaurants and trattorie and set them out on "The Antipasto Table."

One of the great appeals of antipasti is their versatility. As Scicolone explains, "Antipasti can be as simple or as elaborate as you want them to be. One antipasto can be served at the beginning of a meal or an assortment can be the meal. For example, a brunch or dinner antipasto party for a group of friends or family could be made of two or three cold vegetable antipasti, a rice salad, chicken salad and a platter of cold meats and cheeses. Antipasti are adaptable to all kinds of meals and snacks and work well as appetizers, first or second courses and side dishes."

The Italians know so many ways to prepare vegetables that "The Antipasto Table" includes two vegetable chapters — one that features vegetables as the main ingredient and the other on stuffed vegetables — to pay homage to the variety available.

There are also all-occasion menus complete with wine suggestions, so a variety of antipasti can easily be combined into a meal. "An Antipasto Brunch" features Roasted Asparagus, Pepper, and Potato Frittata, Sausage-Stuffed Tomatoes and Parmesan Bread. "A Buffet Supper for a Crowd" includes Olive Crostini, Seafood Salad with Pesto, Ligurian Chicken Salad, and Tomato, Arugula and Ricotta Salata Salad. "An Antipasto Cocktail Party" offers this array of appetizers: Electric Cheese, Wild Mushroom Crostini, and Olive and Rosemary Focaccia.

Two hundred Italian recipes are included in "The Antipasto Table" by Michele Scicolone.

WARM SHRIMP AND GREEN BEAN SALAD

At the Travaerna del Pittore in Arona on Lake Maggiore you can arrive in your speedboat and enjoy this pretty salad on the restaurant's sunny lakeside terrace.

- 1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 cup snipped fresh chives
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper

- 1 pound tender green beans, trimmed
- 1 pound medium shrimp, shelled and deveined
- Lemon slices

In a small bowl, whisk together the olive oil, lemon juice, chives, and salt and pepper to taste until well blended.

Bring a large saucepan of water to a boil. Add the green beans and salt to taste. Cook until the beans are tender, about 5 minutes. Drain well. Place the beans on a platter and toss with half of the dressing.

In the same saucepan, bring two quarts of water to a boil. Add the shrimp and salt to taste. Cook just until the shrimp are opaque, about 2 minutes. Drain well and place them in a small bowl with the remaining dressing. Let marinate for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Spoon the shrimp over the green beans. Garnish with the lemon slices.

'The play's the thing,' but not every thing

For the best selection of seats on busy weekends, we now order in February when the schedule is announced. One year our friends had a last minute change in plans, but the Festival was most accommodating and tickets were conveniently exchanged for another date. With a Detroit phone number (964-4688), orders and changes are quite convenient.

A variety of plays are scheduled each year. This year, in addition to the usual Shakespeare plays ("Hamlet," "Much Ado About Nothing," etc.) we're sure you'll enjoy Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," and Rogers and Hammerstein's "Carousel." We know Stratford will put on Broadway-caliber performances. In fact, some of our warmest theater memories are of Stratford's performances of "Cabaret" and "Guys and Dolls."

reader's report

Lodging is perhaps the next most important consideration in planning your visit. Stratford is famous for its accommodations, all excellent for what they represent. In addition to the bed-and-breakfasts (which the Festival will book for visitors) several good hotels and motels come to mind.

We like the Queen's Inn. It has been completely remodeled in the last three years and is now owned and run by The Elora Mill Inn. It is well located and the rooms are comfortable. It is particularly convenient for its handicap access.

We also have enjoyed the Stone Malden Inn on Church Street. It's really a charming bed-and-breakfast, and most of the rooms have private baths. (Some have whirlpools and canopied beds.)

You may also want to consider the loft studio rooms at the Jester's Arms over Bentley's Restaurant. Bentley's is a neat place with a lively crowd 'till late at night, so it may be a tad noisy.

The Festival Inn, just outside town, is really very nice and has an indoor pool. You'll have to drive to the theaters though, and that may be a drawback. Similarly, the Westover Park in St. Mary's (15 minutes from the Stratford theaters), is most charming since its refurbishment four years ago. And the dining room is very good.

In addition to the plays, there's much to do in and around Stratford.

We still find the shopping very attractive.

There seem to be more interesting shops each year. Our favorites continue to be VS Galleries and Bradshaws. VS has a remarkable collection of Canadiana, from native carvings to wood and leather hand-made crafts to interesting art prints. Bradshaws maintains an excellent collection of fine china and crystal and is always helpful in packaging it and preparing the paperwork to get the tax refunds that make the purchases so attractive. This year, Bradshaws has added a gourmet kitchen shop and a Crabtree and Evelyn collection.

There are many other good shops for Scotch woolens and china novelties, and several excellent and unusual bookstores. The Festival shop across from the theater has an excellent selection of Shakespearean stuff and a range of souvenirs for friends and family.

We also enjoy dining in Stratford. Our favorite for fine dining is Rundle's. But others we've met are equally fond of the Church and the Old Prune. None are inexpensive, but the quality is excellent, and compared to Detroit prices, we think they are excellent. We also enjoy The Keystone Alley and Woolfys, almost as good food, but with less service, they are more modestly priced. Bentley's and the Old English Parlor are also worth noting. The crowd at Bentley's suggests that it's the favorite of locals.

If you're willing to take a 15-25 minute drive, we're sure you'll enjoy the Waterlot in Hamburg (Waterloo), and the Westover Park in St. Mary's. Oh yes. To assure seating, we suggest reservations. (Bentley's doesn't generally accept reservations.)

Last but not least, we hope you'll find time to take in some of the area's "tourist highlights." In Stratford, we recommend you book a Sunday morning tour behind the Festival theater stage. You'll be amazed at all that goes into great theater. The Stratford gallery is also worth a stop to see famous scenes, performers and costumes from past productions.

A picnic along the lake is delightful on a sunny day. Several local shops prepare excellent baskets to suit your budget. Also, depending on when you Stratford, there may be related events scheduled around the plays.

Outside of town, three side trips come to mind. There are many charming towns within a 30-mile radius. Gene and Lynne Loren are West Bloomfield residents.

Vacation at home with foreign guests

"We need all kinds of families," Elizabeth said. "More boys than girls come to the U.S., so we are always looking for homes for boys. That can be difficult because the American students who express interest are often girls!"

"We also occasionally place a foreign student with a family that has no children, especially a student who grew up as an only child in an adult environment. Those families look to the children of their friends and relatives for companions."

Elizabeth also stressed that foreign students should be treated as members of the family. "Sometimes we have families that treat them as guests, and after a few weeks the family feels stressed."

"It really doesn't cost money or hard work to host a foreign student for the summer. Add another plate to the table, a few more dirty clothes to the laundry, and the rest takes care of itself."

Each foreign student brings his or her own health and liability insurance and spending money.

If you would like to host one of the 180 French, German and Spanish students, mostly boys, who want to spend four weeks experiencing American life this summer, call Evelyn or Julian Price at (313) 628-6641 or the national office toll-free at (800) 622-3533.

Better hurry up. French students arrive July 10, followed by a second group July 28; Spanish students July 5 and again July 30; German students will be here July 20. They all speak English.

Michigan law requires that safety chains be attached to the hitch in case of malfunction.

Before driving on the highway, however, even experienced drivers should maneuver the trailer at low speeds, preferably in an empty parking lot, remembering that it can take at least twice as long to stop, pass and pull into traffic.

Packing the inside of the car takes equal skill and, again, the owner's manual should be checked to determine the total weight capacity of your vehicle.

If you have a tall load in the car or are pulling a trailer, Cullen says it is imperative to have outside mirrors on each side of the car to "see the blind spots."

Routine maintenance calls for such things as removing snow tires and checking for tire wear and proper inflation; checking coolant and oil levels; replacing cracked or frayed hoses and belts; replacing dirty air filters, and streaky windshield wipers; adding windshield washer fluid, if necessary, and replacing broken headlights.

Cullen also recommends taking a first aid kit and emergency tools. "For example, in summer remove the snow shovel from your trunk and replace it with pliers, a screwdriver, signal flares and a flashlight," he said.

IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Vacation at home with foreign guests

Some people travel by boarding a plane and flying across the world. Others travel by staying home and letting the world come to them. Both kinds of traveler are involved in "homestay" programs that encourage students to live in foreign homes and locals to host students from foreign lands.

These programs come under many names, but the name I am interested in at the moment is Nacel. What does it mean? I asked Evelyn Prince of West Bloomfield. She and her husband, Julian, coordinate Nacel Cultural Exchanges in Michigan.

"It's the short form of a French word, nacelle, that means the basket under a hot air balloon. It is our logo because it represents the adventurous spirit needed to explore new lands and cultures."

Jeanette Champine of Milford will be on her way to France and Jeffrey Harris of Howell will be on his way to Spain when the plane load of Michigan students takes off in July. There are still a few spaces for students who want to take part in a four-week summer stay in Europe.

Homestays have added new dimensions to the lives of Elizabeth Garvey of Howell and her two children. Susan was at Alma College and Christopher was still at Howell High School when they welcomed a Spanish student called Julen into their home five summers ago.

The following year, Susan visited Julen's family when she took the second semester of her sophomore year in Spain. "Julen warned his family to speak slowly, because Susan didn't speak Spanish well, but Susan had learned a lot of Spanish by then and she surprised them all," Elizabeth said.

Another Spanish student called Izaskun was the Garvey family's next guest. "She walked through the door and it was love at first hug," Elizabeth said. "Ten months later, Susan went to Madrid as a translator for an international law firm and spent the first month with Izaskun's family."

"Since then, several Howell students have been to those two Spanish homes."

Nacel was launched by language teachers in France in 1957 and came to America in 1969. The non-profit organization arranges 17,000 international exchanges a year.

That didn't surprise me. What did surprise me was the effect that Desert Storm has had on this year's arrangements. Everybody was cancelling trips when the Scuds were landing in the Middle East last winter; families that planned to send their sons and daughters to Europe canceled their trips, too.

As a result, Nacel still has openings on flights leaving Detroit in July and August for France and Spain. Nacel organizes summer programs in Europe and West Africa. The cost for students leaving Detroit is $1,435 to $1,620; in France or Spain, optional sightseeing is offered.

Students age 13-18 are invited to participate in three- or four-week homestays in France, Germany, Spain or Cote d'Ivoire.

Students age 16-19 can do homestay/study programs in Ireland and the Soviet Union. Language camps are offered in Paris and Madrid for beginning French and Spanish language students age 13-16.

Learn how to tow a trailer properly

It's about that time to pile the family, the dog and the golf clubs into the family car, attach the boat trailer to the back and take off.

Vacations beckon, but unless you want to spend hours standing around a repair shop instead of chasing golf balls, you'd better think about that trailer and how you pack the car.

And, while you're at it, AAA Michigan suggests some routine car maintenance tips to help ensure a trouble-free trip.

Towing a boat, camper or dirt bike on a trailer not only takes getting used to, but makes your car work harder.

Exceeding the maximum rating for towing capacity could mean more than damaging your car, it can void the warranty. Consult your owner's manual for specifics.

"Further, this could drastically change the steering characteristics, which can lead to fish-tailing and veering into the next lane," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Community Safety.

Basically, there are three kinds of hitches: Class A attaches to the bumper and, generally, is capable of pulling up to 2,000 pounds. Classes B and C attach to the frame of the towing vehicle and can pull up to 3,600 pounds and 10,000 pounds, respectively.

Hitches that attach to the frame distribute the weight of the trailer along the frame, which permits better handling of both units. Excess weight in the rear can make braking or steering difficult in an emergency.

Discovering Stratford's Style

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

"Annas Bananas is a great place for dessert after the theater. We always stay at a bed-and-breakfast by the Avon River. Buy your festival tickets in February for the best seats. Village Studios has the best display of Canadian crafts in Stratford."

I heard those voices in my ear as our tour bus drove into Stratford, Ontario, recently and I loved it. If you want inside information on a travel destination, ask somebody who has been there. Friends who picnic on the riverbank. Neighbors who stay at a bed-and-breakfast farmhouse. Readers who send insider tips.

It was late afternoon and the lowering sun was backlighting the velvet-green grass, glowing on red barns and sculpting the horses, cows and farm silos that are common to southwestern Ontario.

By theater time, there was a glass gleam of setting sun on the Avon River, downhill from the famous tent-shaped roof of the Festival Theater. Four trumpeters stood on the roof to blow the signal 10 minutes to showtime.

Most people in the lobby had tickets, but a few lined up for rush seats ordered that morning. Cary Gersh of Bloomfield Hills remembers when he traveled to Stratford as a high school student, slept in the car and bought $2 rush seats sold on the morning of the performance; they're $28 now.

"Rush seats were at the top of the house, so they gave us a great view of the empty seats below. We would rush down at intermission and fill them!"

Cary, a graphic artist at Skyline Studios in Southfield, comes to Stratford now with his wife Thomas, a Bloomfield Hills schools psychologist. They buy tickets as soon as sales open in February.

"You can see pretty well from most seats, but when we come this far and stay overnight we want the best seats. Shakespeare is esoteric sometimes and we like to see the expressions on the actors' faces."

The Festival Theater has 16 rows in a steep semicircle, with a seven-row balcony above it. There are no barriers, and you can see the stage quite well from any seat, but my experts favored the center seats downstairs and the front row of the balcony. Their least favorite were the least expensive seats on each end of the semicircle.

The lights went down and the audience hushed as a brace of lancers and laughing ladies began "Much Ado About Nothing" on the small circular stage.

Anastasia and Andy Morowski, who sat next to me in the front row of the balcony, were in Stratford for the first time. Stacy was one of the 10 winners of radio station WJR's Stratford Festival Contest. They were looking forward to exploring the town.

THE TOWN

It is easy enough to find your way around the well-known parts of Stratford, built around the city hall in Market Square. The city hall has been described as a great Victorian monster of red brick frosted with white cupolas and a clock tower, but when developers tried to tear it down in the 1970s, the citizens threw them out of town.

SCOTT WISHART

Many visitors to Stratford take time out between plays for picnic lunches by the Avon River.

From city hall you can see the Avon Theater, second of Stratford's three important theaters, the shops that circle the square and the park that fringes the Avon River at the end of Downie Street.

I followed the park path downhill past the flagged skyline of the Memorial Gardens and the bronze triumph and despair of the World War I memorial to the bright plastic colors of paddle boats on the Avon River.

Joggers, walkers and bikers have worn a path down both sides of the river. They photograph the 19th-century bridge and the courthouse reflected in the early morning sun, picnic and play on the riverbanks beside the Festival Theater. The Iris is the official Stratford flower, but foot soldiers explore the Shakespearean Gardens for the 60 varieties of flowers mentioned in Shakespeare's plays.

Thomas Gersh advises: "Get a picnic lunch and sit by the river. You can bring your own or order from a list of places supplied by the tourist bureau. I recommend a great bookstore called Fanfare Books in an old Victorian house. Sometimes they serve tea in the back."

There is a visitor center in the small round building that hangs over the river near the war memorials. Ask for a list of the bed-and-breakfasts in town or the popular B-and-B farms just out of town. Or write to Tourism Stratford, P.O. Box 1818, 88 Wellington St. Stratford, Ontario, Canada N5A 6W1.

For Stratford Festival theater tickets, call the Detroit number, 964-4668.

The high point of each of our visits to Stratford, Ontario since 1984 has been the Festival Theater.

Mary Miller: Making the most of her role as an emcee

By Lerry O'Connor
staff writer

Mary Miller had one of those the other evening. It's a night when comedians, if given the choice between break dancing on a floor with a glittering pile of coobras or taking the stage, rubbing elbows with snakeskins doesn't seem so bad.

"It was," says Miller, "a horrible hell gig."

The term is common among comedians. Her comédic equivalent of purgatory came recently headlining for a one-night engagement in a small bar with an audience of men, 99.9 percent of whom were drunk.

Now, Mary, what was that line about PMS and its male alternative of DGA (Didn't Get Any)? Or how about the one about your ex-husband and the stripper?

Well, needless to say, that sort of female stuff doesn't play in a sea of stale beer and Old Spice.

"You learn not to take it personally," says Miller, 33, a former Farmington Hills resident. "After you do it so many times, you say to yourself, 'Hey, I know this worked last night.' A lot of comedy is sticking with it."

Such Miller has learned after two years of toiling on the comedy club circuit. The experience embosses one with a thick coat of rejection repellent, the kind of stuff that comes only after performing more than a handful of shows.

AND THESE things cannot be taught in school. Not that Miller didn't try, though.

She is one of several graduates of the Jonathon Round Laugh Academy, an intensive 10-week course for aspiring comedians.

Students were assigned to write up

'After you do it so many times, you say to yourself, 'Hey, I know this worked last night.' A lot of comedy is sticking with it.'

— Mary Miller

to 20 jokes a week and perform the material in front of classmates. Miller found the course enriching, launching her into comedy.

Miller has since been busy performing at area clubs, such as Chaplin's, Joey's and the Comedy Castle. Mostly, it's come in the role of an emcee. Lately, she has been appearing as a feature act.

"The thing about being an emcee is that you have to go up there and you have a cold audience. And, if you can't break the ice, it's more difficult for the headliner."

But in Miller's case, the 15-20 minute spots allow her to showcase some vibrant material that ranges from spiked girl talk to self-effacing humor. Miller pokes fun at her marriage of six years ("One year he got me a stripper for my birthday. Ya, she was really nice.")

The bit draws laughs, but one night Miller was leery using it. Her ex-husband turned up at the comedy club to see her perform.

"He thought it was funny," she said.

Miller's also good at interacting with an audience, trading a repartee or two when need to be.

SOMETIMES, SHE has to stretch her act a bit. One night, the headliner was late and the feature act didn't go beyond 25 minutes. So Miller was

Which wasn't as difficult as it sounds. Miller spent time in her hometown of Alexandria, Ohio, in Licking County, performing as a country singer.

Comedy came as a natural outgrowth, going back to childhood. She used humor to cope with growing up overweight.

"When you're a little fat kid, you're not the most popular girl in school. A lot of it (humor) was to make friends. If you're fun to be around, you're more likely to make friends."

Her 5-foot-10 frame carried 210 pounds at one time. She has since shed 50 pounds through dieting and aerobics.

Miller will shed more than that in March 1992. Then she'll leave her daytime job as a secretary to pursue comedy on a full-time basis.

"It's a little scary . . . You have this cushion of a daytime job. If your depending on it to pay your bills, you'll work a lot harder."

Mary Miller appears along with Keith Ruff and Danny Ballard Thursday through Saturday, June 20-22, at the Holly Hotel, 110 Battle Alley, Holly. For information, call 634-5210.

A graduate of the Jonathon Round Laugh Academy, Mary Miller has been polishing up her routine at Chaplin's, Joey's and the Comedy Castle, mostly in the role of emcee.

INDUSTRY

Inside Industry, patrons are treated to diversity — a relentless flashing of lights on the dance floor, a sound system that pulsates and a diversity of music.

A dance club that boasts of a new attitude

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

ANIGHT OF INDUSTRY can leave one tired.

Situated right in the heart of downtown Pontiac, at 15 S. Saginaw, is a visual assault as much as it is a dance club. In the hallway are four video monitors flashing non-stop images. Inside the double doors is a menagerie of catwalks, tucked away staircases, an unrelenting flashing of lights on a dance floor and sound system that pulsates.

Undoubtedly, such attributes would appeal to the dance club set who tend to be easily dazzled by sight and sound.

But Industry could be more about an attitude, a place where diversity and open-mindedness conquer restless spirits.

"It's what we're going to do here that will make the difference," says Amir Daiza of Keego Harbor, who is a local rock promoter and partner in the club.

Aside from catering to rhythmic impulses, Industry will highlight the arts, architecture and jewelry. Already, the club hosted an exhibition featuring the nouveau photography of Lisa Spindler.

"Right now, the styles are so diversified," Daiza says. "If you look at music, it's real diverse. If you look at art, it's real diverse. If you look at architecture, it's real diverse."

"People are not into one style anymore. They're real flexible."

ALREADY, INDUSTRY is appealing to a multitude of tastes by offering theme nights.

John Coltrane-Dizzy Gillespie devotees are in nirvana on Wednesdays when the Wednesday Night Jazz series takes place. Either a live band or a deejay performs. Admission is free and doors at 5 p.m.

Still have a pair of those bellbottoms, black patent leather platform shoes? Blow the dust off them and trundle down Sunday for "1970s Disco Party."

But for those who prefer to live in the present, or rather, the future, "Alternative Dance Party" on Thursday nights caters to the Doc Marten boot crowd. Deejays spin tunes by Front 242, Soundgarden, Happy Mondays, Charlatans UK, etc.

Or like recently, Industry lends itself to be a concert venue such as when Mute recording artists Hecgade Soundwave performed there.

On this night, people mill around the stage as Renegade Soundwave lead singer spews out some programmed poetry.

Everyone moves to the vibrant dance tunes, except for the lead singer who sips Heineken and drops such lines of inspiration as "We going to have some fun?"

WHEN FINISHED, the lead singer spontaneously drops his microphone and walks off stage. The audience doesn't seem to notice, swaying to the beat the remaining band members lay down.

As a concert venue, Industry

The people who visit Industry are as diverse as the music played there. The dress can range from semi-formal to T-shirts and jeans.

passes the test. The club holds 1,000 for acts who lend themselves to extraneous movement from the audience.

"We're not going to book punk bands like Butthole Surfers in here," Daiza says.

For those who don't wish to participate in the dance ritual, catwalks and back stairwells offer a bird's eye view to the stage.

When Blair McGowen, Charlie Gates, Vince Bannon and Daiza conceived the idea for Industry, they wanted more than just a dance club, more than just a place to swivel a drink and listen to music. For one, the group believes a club's got to have art.

Using the theme of architect Victor Saroki's deconstructivism, Industry is more about rebuilding.

INDUSTRIAL EVENTS

Wednesday, June 19: Motor City Jazz Quartet performs as part of the "Wednesday Night Jazz Series."

Sunday, June 23: Village People perform as part of "Disco Night."

Tuesday, June 25: Pontiac-Oakland Symphony Orchestra salute honorary chairpeople of the orchestra's "Evening with Aretha" Doors open at 5 p.m. $5 donation.

Wednesday, June 26: Separate Checks perform as part of "Wednesday Night Jazz Series."

Friday, June 28: "Metal in Motion" an exhibit of jewelry designed by top students from the Center of Creative Studies.

Industry: located at 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Call 334-1999 for more information.

Several items, like ornate railings and portholes, were pulled out of the basement of the club that has operated under several names, most recently Isis.

THESE ARE augmented with post modern features such cold metallic walkways and strobe lights.

Saroki's vision is paid tribute by Industry's Saroki Room. The enclave offers a respite from the technodance assault, sometimes featuring music from a harpist and other soloists. Imported wines, liqueurs, beer along with non-alcoholic drinks such as juice or cappuccino are offered at the bar.

The furnishings throughout Industry make an artistic statement as well.

Ceiling lamps are by Massimo Losa Ghini, who is the architect and creator of the Bolldist movement in Italy; Laminates and furniture are by Ettore Sottsass and Michele De Lucchi, pioneers of the Memphis Milano movements.

Heck, even the bar stools are artsy, designed by Philippe Starck, creator of the interiors of the Royalton and Paramount hotels in Manhattan.

"I want to reach an artsy crowd here," says Daiza, understating things a bit. "Most clubs are offering dancing and drinking. There's nothing really like this anywhere."

Anthony Richardson and Keshya Anthony listen to the music, unaware that the furniture they're sitting in is by Ettore Sottsass and Michele De Lucchi, pioneers of the Memphis Milano movements.

HIGH TECH DANCING IN METRO DETROIT

Clubland at the State Theatre: 2115 Woodward, Detroit, 961-5450; Just pick a night at this state of the art theater turned dance club. Tuesday is "Soul Night"; Thursday is "Ladies Night" with women admitted free; Friday and Saturday are prime dance nights while Sunday is an all-ages dance night. Jim McVicar is the doojay.

The Shelter: in the back of St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, 961-MELT; The place reverberates with techno beat dance. Wednesday through Saturday in the basement of the venerable concert hall, Wednesdays features deejay Tom & Kevin. On Thursdays, deejay "Funk Daddy" handles the music while Friday is "Three Floors on Fun" night with Tom & Bosco, CIMX-FM's Darron Revolt and "Thin White" Stel turning the tunes.

Tremors: Six Mile Road, east of I-275, Livonia, 462-2196; Shake, rattle and roll as this popular night spot quakes with deejay Sean Stagnoybr spinning discs. Don't be alarmed by the crack running along the floor and extending up the walls.

About Our Cover

Kristina Michelle Murdock and Jeffrey Wesley Unger were married by Pastor Robert Seltz in Holy Trinity Church, Livonia. She is the daughter of Max and Diana Murdock of Plymouth and he is the son of Rick and Donna Unger of Livonia.

Cynthia Unger served as maid of honor in a gown of teal blue and Kevin Murdock served as best man. Kenneth Martin and Harold Higgins seated the guests. The aisle candles for the candlelight ceremony were lit by Ken Good, and Andrea Kingins was the soloist.

The couple's wedding photos were taken by Rosh Sillars, who describes his work as candid and casual. "I work together with the wedding party to create a vision of the actual wedding, not a staged show," the Grosse Pointe photographer said.

The bride is a graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School and has studied cosmetology both here and in Europe at Vidal Sassoon International Academy. The make-up artist has worked for WKBD Studios and Phillip Nolan Salons. The groom is a graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School and Eastern Michigan University.

The couple received guests in Country Epicure in Novi and were entertained by "Tropical Connection," a group from Jamaica, which set the tone for the bride and groom's honeymoon in the Caribbean country.

The newlyweds will make their home in Clearwater, Fla.

Just for brides

The Monthly Album is published the third Monday of each month for the announcement of engagements and weddings. All announcements are published on a first-come-first-served basis.

Information sent must be legible and include a daytime telephone number so if there is a question the staff can call.

Photos submitted should, preferably, be black-and-white glossies, 5 x 7 inches in size. Color photos can be submitted and will be accepted, but they do not reproduce as well.

Due to the volume of photographs handled, the newspaper will not be responsible for any that may get lost or damaged. Photos can be picked up after publication in the Farmington Observer office, or if a self-addressed sufficiently stamped envelope is received with the photo, every effort will be made to return it. However, photos do get lost because so many are handled every month. There is just no guarantee the photo will be returned.

Engagement and wedding announcements pertinent to Livonia, Redford, Garden City, Westland, Farmington and Farmington Hills should be addressed to Loraine McClish, in care of The Farmington Observer, 21898 Farmington Road, Farmington 48336.

Inquiries are taken by McClish or Rose Butler in the Farmington Observer office, 477-5450.
