Election nears, will incumbents prevail?

By Darrell Clem staff writer

The political buzz grew louder in Westland this week as the city council election drew nearer.

Will the incumbents keep the leads they had in the Sept. 10 primary or will one or more be defeated? Stay tuned Tuesday.

Eight candidates are competing for four seats, including incumbents Thomas Artley, Thomas Brown and Charles Pickering, former council. member William Ziemba, and challengers Glenn Anderson, David Cox, Sharon Scott and Dorothy Smith.

Although the incumbents commanded early leads in the Sept. 10 primary, some challengers have mounted heavy campaigns in hopes of advancing in the ranks. Some of the campaigns also have been rumored to be expensive, though just how expensive won't be known until the candidates file their post-election campaign expense reports at the county clerk's office in Pickering became the frontrunner in the primary, finishing first in the field of eight. He was followed, respectively, by Brown, Artley, Scott, Anderson, Ziemba, Smith and Cox.

TO BE sure, at least one new council member will be elected to fill a vacancy that will occur when Councilman Ben Dellart steps down. DeHart cited health reasons in his decision not to seek re-election.

On Tuesday, exactly one week before the election, Westland city clerk Diane Fritz predicted a 16-percent turnout among the city's 49,966 registered voters, compared to a 9-percent turnout in the primary.

"I don't think we're going to double it (the primary turnout)," she said. "I'd like to double it. I'd like to triple it. But I don't think we will."

• There's no mayoral race this year. That race tends to bring out more voters, Fritz said.

• No major divisive issues had emerged as of Tuesday, though Fritz warned that "we still have a week to

On Tuesday, the city had received 2.100 requests for absentee ballots - about the number of requests for past council elections, Fritz said.

THE CAMPAIGN has been anything but explosive, as most council candidates have adopted similar campaign platforms focusing on enhanced police and fire protection, improved traffic and less blight, among other issues.

Not surprising, incumbents have stressed their experience, while their challengers have sounded the call for change.

Fritz said. "There are really no big Despite the low-key campaign, however, Fritz offered a word of advice to Westland residents: Vote.

"It's been kind of a quiet race,"

'Something evil' haunts board meeting — pastor

staff writer

The political upheaval that has: gripped the embattled Wayne-Westland school district sparked a backlash Monday night in a heated board session, particularly among supporters of school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, who is retiring under board pressure.

Amid the chaos: a stirring, almost eerie call for peace from Westland minister Neil Cowling, who said his observations have led him to believe that "there is something evil — dare I even say demonic — in this very room."

Cowling, pastor of Kirk of Our Savior Presbyterian Church, warned that "the adults of this community are providing terrible moral leadership for our children, and it is time that changed."

AMID THE latest developments

• Critics of David Moranty, chairman of Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education, blamed him and his supporters for the political turmoil that reached new heights Oct. 15 when O'Neill announced plans to retire Aug. 31, amid pressure from a majority of board members.

"You disgust me," board member Kathleen Chorbagian yelled at several Moranty supporters in the 150member audience. "We're losing the finest superintendent in Wayne County. Why? Revenge?"

• Cowling alluded to a rumored telephone campaign in which critics of the June school tax increase have allegedly called the employers of tax supporters in an effort to get them fired.

"I see young parents losing jobs because of small-minded vindictiveness in telephone campaigns to employers," he said.

• Tax opponents have made telephone calls threatening a boycott against Westland businesswoman Margaret Harlow and minister Robert Millar — community leaders who led the successful Save Our Schools tax campaign in June, Chorbagian said.

'It's McCarthyism at its best," she

• Moranty's call for other highranking school officials to step down has fueled widespread worries among district employees - whom Chorbagian said have called her 'asking if they're on a hit list."

• Keith Kay, a Wayne Memorial High School counselor and member of Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education, called on the board to name Melvin Straight, another committee member, as O'Neill's successor.

"He has the interest of the community and our kids at heart," Kay

District bus driver Denise Thomas later countered Kay's remarks and said: "I feel that Mr. Straight would be a puppet for Mr. Moranty."

• O'Neill, who begins a threemonth medical leave on Monday, Nov. 4, announced that this week's board session would be his last "for a while." The embattled superintendent elaborated publicly for the first time on his health problems, saying hypertension has caused blood pressure and pulse rate problems that "large increases in medication" have failed to combat.

• O'Neill and Thomas, the bus driver, spoke of severe morale problems in the district and blamed board members Laurel Raisanen, Vicki Welty, Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek and Fred Warmbier - thosewho pressured O'Neill to retire.

"The morale in this whole district Is terrible," Thomas said.

O'Neill accused the board members of violating the Michigan School Boards Association's code of ethics.

 Several O'Neill supporters spoke out Monday night. "I think Dr. O'Neill and his cabinet have done an outstanding job, considering what they've had to work with in the past," Bonnie Schmidt said.

• Board member Vicki Welty came under fire from some critics who said they had earlier supported

"I have been duped," Cathy Keyes said. "I saw a transition from what

Recall petitions get green light

Recall leaders trying to oust three Wayne-Westland school board members received a decisive boost Monday as the Wayne County Elections Commission ruled that a proposed recall petition may be circulated.

The commission's decision came during a hearing in Detroit to consider a fourth petition proposal by the recall committee, which had been rejected on three attempts since Aug. 7. Elections officials had ruled that the earlier petitions didn't contain clear language.

Recall chairman Steven Lind hailed the latest decision and said the recall committee would meet this week to plan a petition drive, which is expected to begin within two weeks. The group must collect -4,420 signatures in 90 days from school district voters to obtain a special recall election.

At least 200 recall supporters have indicated they will join the petition drive, Lind said. The committee hopes to collect 6,000 signatures in 30 to 60 days to speed up the pro-

Recall petitions approved for circulation

Everything will be done in very organized, very quick fashion," he

RECALL LEADERS are hoping for a special election as early as March to oust board members Kathleen Chorbagian, Leonard Posey and Andrew Spisak - targeted for recall because they voted in February to increase teacher salaries by 11.9 percent over two years, amid a budget crunch that threatened deep school program cuts. The cuts were averted in June after voters approved a tax increase.

Voters would decide the fate of board members separately. Any vacancies would be filled in another special election, which the district must set within two months of a successful recall.

In Monday's hearing, an attorney representing Chorbagian, Posey and Spisak called the petitions "patently false" and said board members never voted to approve the budget cuts - only to propose them.

After voters approved a tax increase, the cuts weren't made, attorney Richard James said, "and Mr. Lind cannot allege that they were."

James warned the elections commission that "it would be a travesty" to let recall supporters circulate the petitions.

Lind has strongly defended the language of each recall petition he has submitted. The latest states that on Feb. 11, the three board members "voted in favor of proposed cuts causing a reduction of school dusing: reduction of the senior bign academ-Ic day by one hour elimination of elementary art vocal and instrumen. tal music, and physical education; and reduction in classroom supply and textbook accounts."

The petition also notes that the board members approved the teach.

er pay raises during the same meet-

DESPITE JAMES' attempt to cast doubt on the petitions, the threemember elections commission approved them in a 2-1 vote after the commission's attorney, Mary Nassar, explained the legal precedence set in recall court cases.

"The cases do indicate that the truthfulness of the allegations is something for the electorate to decide - not something for the elections commission to decide," she said,

Commission : Chairman : Freddie Burton Jr., who had opposed the earlier petitions, switched his vote Monday and joined commissioner Marya Sieminski, though commissioner Raymond Wojtowicz maintained his opposition and said the language remained unclear.

Chorbagian and Wayne-Westland school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill declined to comment as they left the hearing room in the city-county building. Posey and Spisak failed to attend, marking the first hearing they had missed.

IN A later telephone conversation, Posey appeared unsure about what steps he might take to defend his board seat, though he said he needed to talk with attorney James "to find out what our alternatives are with respect to legal action.

"I am not going to lie down and give up," Posey said. "But I am becoming disenchanted with this whole process and the people that are involved in it. I don't see myself going. out there (during the recall campaign) and trying to refute the things they are saying. It's difficult to go against people who are dishonest."

Posey continued to defend the teacher salary increases, which came amid a threatened strike. "I wouldn't change my decision at all. I think the teachers deserved what they got."

Gagnon honored

They rededicated the Jaycees Park on Wildwood and Hunter to include the name of Gagnon, who served as a Westland city charter commissioner and Westland's first city council member and helped organize the community's chamber of commerce.

"We're here today to say thank you to a friend," said City Council President Thomas Brown at the ceremony. "If Virg knew we were here, he'd say, 'Don't do that for me - do something for others."

recall opponents yelled. Raisanen has repeatedly accused the board members and Superintendent Dennis O'Neill of misleading district residents by proposing a tax rate increase that she believed unnecessary. Voters approved the 7.75mill tax increase in June, after three previous proposals failed. Welty and board president Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek — the only longtime board member not targeted in the recall - reiterates their opposition to it, but board member Fred Warmbler didn't respond to Collins' demand. Welty called Chorbagian, Posey and Spisak "a very viable part of this school board" and, although she has disagreed with them on some major issues, pledged to help them "in any way possible" fight the recall.

"WE NEED Kathy's knowledge. We need Leonard's diplomacy, and we need Andy's determination," Welty said. "They all go together to provide this community with a very independent school board.

"We may not always agree," she added later, "but that's OK. I'm always willing to listen, and I've found them willing to listen to me. I want to see us work together. I want to see us become the best board we can be."

Recall organizers have blasted Chorbagian, Posey and Spisak for approving a two-year, 11.9-percent teacher salary increase in February. amid a budget crunch that had threatened massive school program cuts.

Some district observers have criticized Welty for siding with Raisanen, Kozorosky-Wiacek and Warmbler on some crucial issues, particularly for demanding that O'Neill step down as superintendent. Some critics have accused her of abandoning the independent stance she touted in her election bid.

In response Monday, Welty said,

"I promise to keep my independence - to listen to both sides and vote for what I think is right."

The recall controversy sparked debate at the board session on the same day that the Wayne County Elections Commission approved the wording of a petition that recall supporters plan to circulate, in hopes of mounting enough pressure to oust Chorbagian, Spisak and Posey in a special election. The recall committee, which calls itself New Beginnings for Our Children, needs 4.420 signatures of registered district vot-

"The signatures are there," recall Chairman Steven Lind predicted Monday morning.

SOME HAVE questioned why the recall has continued in the wake of O'Nelll's announcement that he will retire Aug. 31. Recall organizers had cited his firing as a primary goal.

"I just don't think it's fair that heshould take all the blame," Lind said: "It was the school board members who rubber-stamped his ideas."

In another development Monday, a separate recall petition filed by board critic Kenneth Raupp was turned down by the elections commission, which rejected the wording that accused the board members of "extremely poor management" of the district's budget.

"I'm outraged," Raupp told the commission during a hearing Monday in Detroit. "I believe the elec-

OTHERS, INCLUDING board member Posey, came to Welty's rescue. "Vicki Welty is not a monster," he said, adding later, "We've got to refrain from some of the nasty, biting attacks that we throw upon each other."

Many observers in Monday's audience appeared moved by minister Cowling's statement, which drew loud applause.

"This school district is being destroyed by partisanship and vindictiveness," he said, adding that he couldn't recommend the district as a place where parents would want to educate their children.

"I am here to give voice to the crying need for peace on this board and in this school district," Cowling said. "We do not need partisans; we need peacemakers. We do not need recalls; we need reconciliation. This board does not need resignations; it needs responsibility."

Cowling recalled a church prayer session he called last Januarry, during the Persian Gulf crisis.

"I have begun to think that we were concerned about the wrong war," he said. "We had one right here."

tions commission has violated my First Amendment rights."

Later, Raupp conceded that he will not reword his petition and resubmit it, now that Lind's proposal has been accepted. Both are members of the recall committee, and they had submitted separate petitions to place more pressure on the elections commission.

The Rocket marching band, marching off the field, won third- place honors at the state competition Saturday.

Sound success: Director leads band to awards

Pam Dines Rocket director

By Leonard Poger

John Glenn High School's marching band program has heard a few sour notes in the past 11/2 years because

It started in the spring of 1990 when the Wayne-Westland board of education adopted a pay-to-play policy and charged students to take part in extra-curricular programs such as music and sports.

At the same time, Norman Logan, band director and instrumental music teacher for 17 years, resigned to join the Farmington school district faculty. Taking over the marching band was Pamela Dines, now 24, an Eastern Michigan University student and director of the Pep Band at Saline High in Washtenaw Reflecting a more pleasant sound to the program, the Glenn Rocket marching band has won numerous trophies in competition this year.

The latest honor came Saturday when the band won a third place trophy in its category Saturday at the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association. Dominic Debrincat won the award for being the best drum major in his category

Dines is continuing a Glenn tradition which began when the school opened in 1964. The first band director was David Wickham, a Wayne Memorial High School graduate who didn't go far from home. His successor, Logan, was a Glenn graduate and marching band member as a student.

DINES MARCHED for Logan from 1982-85 in addition to performing with the Symphonic Band, orchestra and Jazz Band. She was a soloist with the Rocket marching band, playing the mellophone and serving as music librarian in 1984.

She received EMU's Dillman Scholarship in music, the first Glenn senior to receive that award. Dines then played for the EMU concert winds and orchestra groups and served with Logan as the Glenn marching band's drill instructor from 1985-89.

When the district was facing financial problems in 1989-90, Logan left and Dines was named to replace him

Following in a musical career isn't a surprise for Dines, daughter of Ronald and Christine Dines of West-

"My grandfather played accordian in a dance band," she recalled as the start of her musical interest.

The grandfather, James Vallely of Farmington Hills ! "is very proud" of her, Dines said.

Her career goal - to be a music teacher - was set by the time she reached the eighth grade at Stevenson:

Junior High School, she said. While at Glenn as a student, Dines said that Logan was not only an influence on her career but also "a best !

DINES PLANS to do her required student teaching in January and graduate from EMU in April.

The Rocket marching band, which grew to about 140 members under Logan, dropped drastically - to its current 58 members — when the pay-to-play policy was adopted for the 1990-91 school year.

But Dines insists that the sense of spirit and enthusiasm hasn't dropped.

The band played at four home football games, the Wayne Memorial High annual halftime review of bands and five competitions, including one the school hosted earlier this month.

Up until the state competition Saturday at Plymouth 2 Canton High, the Rockets have won first place honors in all the other competitions and earned several other awards, such as best winds, best percussion, best marching and maneuvering and best color guard.

Bands march on Franklin for state preliminaries

Some 20 bands and more than 5,000 people were involved in marching band state championship preliminary competition hosted Saturday by Franklin High School, which serves the northeast section of Westland.

The visiting bands competed in Flight II and Flight III preliminaries Saturday with the finalists competing that evening for the championship at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park in Canton. At the Canton event, John Glenn High School's band was third in its flight with Dominic Debrincat named the abest drum major (see related story).

At Franklin, the bands were greeted Saturday morning and ushered in to assigned classrooms, then to warm-up areas in the school and finally to the performance area.

BECAUSE OF soggy field conditions due to the weekend's constant rain, the event was moved indoors.

Competing bands in Flights II and III performed in the gym in a "Standstill," meaning no marching or maneuvering took place. Thus the judges could base scores only on music and percussion.

At many competitions during the season the Franklin band carned first place caption awards in march-standstill format put the band at a competitive disadvantage.

In a field of 17 Flight III bands, Franklin placed fourth - missing their chance by three-tenths of a point of competing in the evening state finals in Canton. This was the highest, though, Franklin has placed in state competition in its six years as a competitive marching band.

"The state marching band preliminary that was held at Franklin on Saturday was not a marching band competition but a 'concert in the gym," said Franklin band director Joan Seay.

By Bill Casper staff writer

A 38-year-old Highland Park man was bound over Tuesday for arraignment in Detroit Recorder's Court on a burglary charge stemming from an Oct. 16 break-in at a drug store in Redford Township.

Clifford J. Black was bound over for arraignment Nov. 5 after he waived a preliminary examination scheduled before Redford's 17th District Court Judge Richard Manning.

Black was being held in the Wayne County Jall after failing to post $2,000 bond, but he was released two days after being arrested because of overcrowding at the jail, Redford police detective John Buck said.

WESTLAND POLICE, however, arrested Black on a burglary warrant Tuesday when he appeared for the examination at Redford's district court, Buck said.

The burglary charge carries a maximum prison term of 10 years upon conviction.

REDFORD POLICE are looking for the second suspect involved in the drug store burglary, but investigators have no leads, Buck said.

The man was arrested by Redford police after he began fleeing in a car with an officer inside the auto, Buck said. The officer, Kevin Drielts, was not assaulted or injured during his effort to arrest the suspect, he said.

Drielts was responding to a burglary alarm shortly after 2:30 a.m. Wednesday at Crown Drugs where he saw a man standing by an unoccupied car, with its engine running, parked on Lenore near the store, police said.

The officer got out of his squad car to talk to the man and saw another man, carrying a duffel bag, coming out the front door of the drug store, police said. The man was running toward the car where Drielts was, but dropped the bag and turned to run the other way when he saw the Redford force, ran after the man, who fled around a furniture store and back to the car on Lenore. He got into the car and Drielts crawled into the auto through an open passenger window, police said.

THE MAN began driving north on Lenore, crossing Plymouth and running into a curb on the north side of the road before turning east in a westbound lane, police said.

Drielts was then able to turn off the ignition and the car came to a rolling stop near Wormer, less than a block from the store, police said.

The man tried to exit the car as Drielts held him and used a handheld police radio to call for help. The man got-the car door open and was about to exit the auto as assisting officers arrived to arrest him, police

But the other man had fled during the chase, police said.

Several cartons of cigarettes and lottery tickets were stolen from the drug store, police said. Redford officers found about 30 cartons of assorted cigarettes, another 20 packs of cigarettes and about 160 instant lottery tickets in the duffel bag, po-

Health care issue sparks Senate debate on secrecy

By Tim Richard staff writer

State lawmakers disagree sharply whether disciplinary procedures of health care professionals should be conducted in secrecy.

A Senate debate Tuesday on a 26. bill package for "affordable health 'care" turned into a battle over whether to shut down investigations, hearings and records under Michigan's "sunshine laws" - the Open Meetings and Freedom of Information Acts.

The public has a right to learn the actions of negligent doctors," sald Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe, arguing the secrecy bills "destroy the credibility of the medical profession."

"The final vote will be on the record. But we won't know the allegations. We won't know what the investigator found. We won't know what the hearing officer found. We won't know the substance.'

REPLIED SPONSOR Joanne Emmons, R-Big Rapids: "The Michigan Bar Association has the same restrictions. This assures confidentiality at least until there's some evidence they've done wrong."

One bill closes off settlement conferences in the Department of Licensing and Regulation. Another closes records of investigations and review conferences; only the fact of an allegation - not its substance would be a public record.

The bills face tough sledding in the House of Representatives. Last year Repl David Gubow, D-Oak Park, tors sought the same secrecy protections as lawyers. That bill did not get_ Senate action.

In key votes, the Senate gave 25-13 and 24-14 support to bills to close off proceedings under, respectively, the Open Meetings and Freedom of Information acts, .

Area senators voted the same way on each:

Yes (for closing) - Republicans Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion and Robert Geake of Northville, and. Democrat William Faust of Westland.

No (for openness) Republican David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Democrats Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills and George 2. Hart of Dearborn.

KELLY DID all the talking for opponents of closed sessions and

He charged the sessions would be "Star Chambers, meeting in secret, dominated by the professionals they're supposed to regulate."

Kelly said the board "received 500 complaints last year against health professionals. But in only 51 cases did they make determinations."

Another bill eliminates the right of court appeal in certain cases. Worse, he said, "it allows boards to change the findings of fact and law of a hearing examiner without new evidence."

Except for Emmons, no supporters - mainly 18 of the 20 Republicans - replied.

· Easing regulations on "certificates of need" for hospital purchases of expensive equipment.

LOCAL SENATORS won one amendment to require foreign medical school graduates to be proficient in spokeh English.

"They all have to pass an exami-nation in English," objected Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, the chamber's only physician.

"English proficency is tested only in a written exam," replied Faxon of Farmington Hills. "People from foreign countries often have a better grasp of English grammar and spelling than Americans do. But clarity and articulation - that's a quite different issue."

"I probably have more foreignborn physicians in my district than anybody in the Senate," said Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor. "I don't think it's discriminatory to ask people practicing medicine to speak so they can be understood by a patientand understand the patient."

Schwarz predicted "every, state (mental) hospital would close down and half the VA hospitals would close" if spoken English tests were Supporting tests in spoken English were: Republican Honigman of West Bloomfield and Democrats Faust of Westland, Faxon of Earmington Hills and Hart of Dearborn.

Opposed were Republicans Bouchard of Birmingham, Dunaskiss of Lake Orion and Geake of Northville.

When people start reading Yellow Page ads after dinner, we'll start placing ads in it. Until then, the Yellow Pages are no more than a directory of names, phone numbers and addresses that the average person uses infrequently, at best. Which is the reason why our ad is in the newspaper. We suggest you do the same.

Your Yellow Page salesperson can't tell you how many people are likely to see your ad every week in his directory. But we can tell you that over a quarter million readers can see it twice each week in The Observer & Eccentric Mewspapers. And that kind of coverage can lead to some kind of sales. Especially when you use our newspapers to tell people about your competitive pricing, announce a new location or service, or illustrate your clear advantage over the competition. All the things you aren't allowed to do in the Yellow Pages.

Of course, there's one more thing you can't do in the Yellow Pages. You can't be flexible, you're stuck for a year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market? Or promote a special sale? Or build your image? You advertise in the newspaper.

So call one of our representatives for more information. Our number is in the Yellow Pages where it's always been. But remember, what just sold you on us, was the newspaper.

to help adults with disabilities in their fight for independence, productivity, and integration in the mainstream of American society, said Elizabeth Bauer, executive director of Michigan Protection and Advocacy Service.

Project Empowerment, funded by a grant from the Rehabilitation Services Administration through the Michigan Department of Mental Health, will help people with disabilities to take their place in Michigan communities as full citizens in housing, employment, education, and in the use of community retail, entertainment, and other resources most Americans take for granted, Bauer said.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Local man-asks suburbanites for help on downtown parade

Bruce Lantto has fond memories of the Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade.

"My dad used to work for Cadillac Motors, so, because of that we used to get access into one of the buildings downtown and we'd watch from there. We always had a great time," he sald.

Now, Lantto is working toward preserving those same kind of memories for others. He's seeking volunteers to join the parade!

Lantto is president of the Friends of the Parade Association. a suburban/urban coalition that helps stage the annual event.

"I've been involved with the parade for about 10 years," said Lantto. "It's really great to see the cooperation."

He's no stranger to area residents, either through his affiliation with Thayer-Rock Funeral Home in Farmington or as a Livonia Chamber of Commerce member.

LANTTO IS calling on fellow suburbanites to help support the parade. The one-day event requires about 1,300 volunteers and, with a month left before the Nov. 28 parade day, workers are still needed. Volunteers handle balloons, drive! floats, march in the parade and perform other tasks.

This year's parade will feature 100 units, among them floats, marching bands, glant balloons and papler-mache characters.

"It's one thing to see the parade from the outside in, but it's something quite different to see it from the inside out. To see the smiles on the faces of all the people, black, white, Asian, whatever, it's really quite gratifying"

Anyone 18 years or older who, would like to volunteer can call the Friends office at 923-7400. Volunteers must pay a $15 Friends of the Parade membership fee which entitles members to a newsletter

Libertarians set modest goals for '92

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Controversy over the nomination of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas is the clearest reason yet to abandon the two major political parties, Libertarian Party Vice Presidential candidate Nancy Lord

"I think the people finally got a chance to see Congress in action and they were revulsed," said Lord during a campaign stop last week at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. "People are beginning to see that it's". the people in power who are the problem."

Lord is a licensed, though nonpracticing, doctor and an attorney in practice in Washington, D.C. She was recently her party's candidate for mayor in that city.

THAT DUALITY - doctor and attorney, conservative and liberal underscores both Lord's philosophy and that of her party.

Stauchly pro-choice, Lord nonetheless lists herself as a Thomas supporter.

"It's shameful what they did to that man," she said. "The real reason the liberals feared Clarence Thomas was because they were afraid he was going to do what Supreme Court justices should have similar visit. been doing all along - declare certain acts of Congress unconstitutional. They were afraid he was going to tell them there were some aspects of American life into which Congress couldn't intrude and they were afraid of that."

Lord, a former member of the National Organization for Women, said, she wasn't afraid Thomas would cast the deciding vote in overturning, abortion rights.

"If we lose at the Supreme Court, we'll win at the ballot box," she said. "Acutally, I don't believe the public is as far apart on the issue as our leaders would have us believe. I don't think there are many pro-choice people who would favor abortions in the third tri-mester. And I don't think there are too many prolife people who would outlaw abortion under all circumstances."

Barely a blip on the electoral chart in 1988, the party's 1992 goal is modest.

"Realistically, we're looking at taking 1 percent of the vote this time," Lord said. "If we do that we feel we'll send a message to Washington."

There were only six people in attendance for her talk at UM-D, a turnout 100 to 1,000 times less than Dan Quayle would have drawn for a

But Lord, was both direct and enthusiastic during a give-and-take question with her tiny audience. Audience members, it seemed, were equally enthusiastic about her,

"I think she's great," said UM-D student Mark Fleming of Westland. "I've been following her since the convention (in September). I know she's a lot better than Dan Quayle." What does Lord think of Quayle, the man whose job she seeks? "Well, I'd love to debate him," she said with a laugh.

On other issues, Lord would outlaw neither guns nor drugs and if television networks want to show adult-oriented fare, that's fine with

"Common sense has to prevail," she said. "Televison networks aren't going to put pornography in prime time. They wouldn't get any advertisers."

Lord's personal affiliations include membership in the National Rifle Association, National Abortion Rights Action League and National Taxpayers Union. If anything, hers is a political philosophy built on an issue-by-issue ba-

"WHEN I was a NOW member, I knew we stood for abortion rights.

but I didn't know that also meant buying in to gun control and high social spending," she said.

While she favors reducing welfare, Lord said that Michigan Gov. John Engler's approach may have gone

"Ideally, you don't want to see able-bodied people receiving welfare, but it's better to wean them off gradually than to just dump them," she said. "One idea I've been considering is to cut welfare $1 for every $2 they earn in the workforce."

Libertarians have been selling their message of less government involvement for more than a decade, though to date there haven't been too many takers.

In 1988, the party's national ticket pulled less than one-half of one percent of the total vote. Though its 432,116 votes was the third most cast for any party, its ticket trailed. such candidates as ex-Klansman David Duke, right to life candidate William Marra, and long-ago Democratic Party contender Eugene McCarthy in several states where those candidates also appeared on the bal-ee, it's things like this that can make learning about our environmental responsibilities, well, almost fun. We're talking about "Don't Bug Me," the board game invented by suburbanite David Backos.

The game, designed for children 8 years and older, is built around a race between farmers to grow their vegetables while fending off bugs, weeds, drought and the other natural forces that make harvest time so challenging - especially for suburban gardeners.

Backos, a school teacher, said he designed the game as a natural extension of his teaching experience - "I wanted to help students have fun while learning."

Hundreds-tour department as police mark anniversary

By Darrell Clem staff writer

The Westland Police Department had its meager beginning 25 years ago tucked away in the basement of City Hall.

But hundreds of city residents attending a 25th anniversary open house Saturday saw what police Chief Michael Frayer described as "a modern, high-tech" police department on Ford Road.

On a life-size video screen, they saw dramatic crimes acted out in a program that teaches police officers whether they should shoot - or hold their fire - in certain situations. A few visitors even got to fire dart guns at the screen.

Some residents touring the department were arrested and booked for fictitious crimes - a learning experience that visitor Betty Talmadge said made the open house a fun experience for her.

"IT WAS just great," she said.

Frayer estimated that, despite a rainy Saturday, 500 residents toured the department that serves as a work base for the 101 police officers who combat crime ranging from drug abuse to sexual assault to traffic violations to murder.

The number of officers has more than tripled from the 33 officers that the city hired 25 years ago. The department is the fourth largest in Wayne County and the 10th largest in Michigan.

We maintain a philosophy that the public is the most important part of our job," Frayer said. "We're here to protest and

Attendance at Saturday's four-hour open house, which began at 11 a.m. with a flag-raising ceremony, "surpassed all expectations," Frayer said, adding that even more people would have joined the tour had the weather been better.

FORMER POLICE chiefs joined the fun, and Frayer and city attorney C. Charles Bokos gave speeches in honor of the department's 25th anniversary, which coincides with the city's 25th celebration.

State Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, gave the department a Michigan flag. County Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, donated a plaque.

Visitors ranged from small children to senior citizens.

"A lot of people have no idea what a police department is like," Frayer said. 'There's little reality to what they see on TV and the movies."

Cops hope to burn cigarette thieves with video

By Darrell Clem staff writer

When the smoke clears, these cigarette thieves could be in trouble. Three men who robbed a Speedway gas station at gunpoint on Merriman, near Van Born, escaped with several cartons of cigarettes in a cardboard box - but no money, according to Westland police.

No shots were fired and no injuries reported.

Police this week were studying a video that captured the three men on film during the robbery that occurred about 4:52 a.m. Monday as three employees, including an assistant manager, were in the station.

After the three men, described as black males in their 20s, walked into the station, one pointed a handgun at the employees and ordered them into a storage room behind the counter, where they lay face down.

The men then demanded that the assistant manager, a 33-year-old man, tell them where money was kept in the back room. But the employee told them that no cash was

One robber then tried to take money from the cash register -- only to find it locked.

IN THE meantime, a Speedway customer became suspicious after he pulled up to a gasoline pump, looked inside and noticed the three robbers. A moment later, one of the men walked from the station carrying the cardboard box filled with cigarettes, he told police.

The three men then fled in a small white car that the witness indicated may have been a Toyota.

After the robbers had gone, Speedway employees told police it appeared that no money had been taken from the

Record student enrollment greets SC's new registrar

By Brian Lyeaght staff writer

Twenty-two years ago Ronald Randall could be seen patrolling Schoolcraft College's wide open campus wearing badge number one.

Now he's the registrar, the man behind the scenes who oversees records and class registration for thousands of Schoolcraft students and former students.

Randall, 43, of Livonia, began Oct. . 1 as registrar. He succeeds Russell Bogarin, under Whom Randall served as assistant registrar for 14

"My educational life has centered around Schoolcraft," said Randall, a 1977 graduate of Schoolcraft College. His professional life has too.

-He hired on at the college as a public safety officer in 1969, after a year as a Detroit police officer. He was-hired by Fred Wrenbeck a retired Detroit police lieutenant who organized Schoolcraft's new depart-

Back then, the college was a handful of buildings on 160 acres. "It was farm land at the time. We were surrounded by fields," he recalled.

RANDALL WORKED full time at the college and took classes for eight years. His associate's degree helped him get hired as assistant registrar in 1977, he said. He later earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Madonna College, and in 1989, a master's degree in educational

When he started working at Schoolcraft, "L didn't expect to be a registrar." he said.

HE HAS SEEN vast changes in the office, which shifted from punch cards, file cabinets and a hectic three-day student registration period in the gymnasium. Now, the registrar uses computers to simplify the process and students can register by mail and or by in-person for classes. Randall wants to go further, to offer registration by phone and to introduce optical disc technology for more efficient record storage.

"My ultimate goal is going to be a paperless office" in 3-4 years, he said. He oversees a staff of four full time and two part-time workers, and during registration, 12 additional employees on call.

BOGARIN, SCHOOLCRAFT'S registrar for 19 years, said he hoped Randall would be selected as his suc-

"There was no guarantee he would get the job, but I hoped he would," said Bogarin, now retired. "He has a total understanding of what we had been doing in that office."

The office has been especially busy lately. This fall's enrollment of 9,551, is the highest ever.

"Usually in a community college setting, during times of recession, our enrollment increases because people not working or laid off go back to school," he said.

HE SAID 30-35 percent of Schoolcraft's students are enrolled in transfer programs, often recent high school graduates planning to attent a four-year colleges. The other 65 percent are in two-year career programs. Another 4,500 students sign up for the college's continuing eduation courses.

Randall has lived in Livonia for nine years, and his family includes. two Schoolcraft graduates. His wife Sally graduated from the nursing program where his daughter is currently enrolled. One son graduated from the culinary arts program last year. A second son graduated from University of Michigan and now attends Detroit College of Law.

Ronald Randall went from police officer to registrar in 22 years working at Schoolcraft College. In his new role as registrar, Randall is responsible for maintaining academic records and registering students for classes. He had been assistant registrar since 1977.

land that will need city council members who can identify issues and define problems before developing solutions with the cooperation of colleagues and the city administration.

That's why local voters must be careful in voting for up to four candidates in next Tuesday's council election.

The candidates are seeking four seats with the top three vote-getters winning four-year terms and the fourth highest candidate getting a twoyear term.

There will be at least one new face on the council following Tuesday's vote because councilman Ben DeHart announced this summer he would not seek a new term because of health

The Observer, which has interviewed all the candidates, believes the best choices for voters are incumbents Thomas Brown, Charles Pickering and Thomas Artley and former councilman William Ziemba.

Each possesses different skills and views that would give the community an effective legislative body to deal with the current and future issues affecting the city.

As always, voters should be aware of candidates who make promises but have given little thought on how they would accomplish them.

Voters should elect candidates Tuesday who have the abilities to identify problems, work out sensible solutions and work cooperatively to rep-

School recall

Let's get rid of bitterness

HE WAYNE-Westland school board recall petition campaign is now under

The group's aim is to recall board members Kathleen Chorbagian, Leonard Posey and Andrew Spisak because they voted for teachers' salary hikes while cutting programs and for scheduling several millage elections in the past two years.

While the recall committee met the letter of the law complying with state recall election regulations, the Observer believes that the reasons outlined are not based on valid issues. Voters solve the problems facing the school community should reject the move when it reaches the ballot board critics to drop their vengeful attitude which has resulted in their developing a "hit list" of specific administrators.

That attitude, along with the recall drive, is divisive and mean-spirited. The school district has enough problems to deal with, such as organizing a search to find a replacement for lameduck superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

The district went through a nasty recall campaign eight years ago. In some ways, the wounds are still there.

Residents and community leaders should recognize that being negative and disruptive doesn't - how to gain political unity, improve academic test scores and continue the search for educa-

Closed primary wrecks system

OW WOULD YOU feel if the person who checks your voter registration card were peering over your shoulder in the voting booth, eyeing your ballot choic-

That's a sensation Michigan voters may experience next March when they cast their ballots in the state's presidential primary. No, it won't be nosy poll workers, it'll be the Michigan Democratic and Republican parties forcing their way into the voting booth.

Not only is the state's new closed presidential primary an unwarranted invasion of privacy, but it's bound to create a mess at the polls and turn off an untold number of people from taking part in the election process. That's something we just can't afford with voter apathy already running at unprecedented levels.

their party preference — Democrat, Republican or Independent - 30 days before the March 17

The Michigan Court of Appeals last July reversed a lower court ruling which said the closed primary? was unconstitutional. The state Supreme Court has yet to rule on the case.

The move to a closed primary came out of perceived abuses of the state's 1988 presidential caucuses, in which cross-over voters played a role in large turnouts for Pat Robertson (Republican) and Jesse Jackson (Democrat). The state also used a caucus system in 1984.

PRIOR TO THAT, Michiganians expressed their preference in presidential primaries open

Elected leaders and party officials have begun tossing around the idea of keeping the current system but loosening the pre-registration requirement so that voters gould register right up until the time they vote.

We say let's forget that and just drop the whole closed primary idea. Reinstate Michigan's open presidential primary. Here's why:

• Under the current set-up, independent voters can identify themselves as such, but can't vote in either primary. More Michigan voters consider themselves independent than members of either party. A Detroit News poll before the 1990 gubernatorial election found 26 percent of the state's voters consider themselves Republican, 30 percent Democrat and 33 percent independent.

The closed primary system effectively disen-As it stands now, primary voters must register franchises one-third of the state's voters, people who have traditionally voted for candidates from all parties.

• A closed primary - regardless of how easy party registration is - will discourage people from making an election day trek to the polls. As of Aug. 1 — three years after passage of the. original law - nearly 75 percent of Michigan's 5.9 million registered voters had failed to declare their party preference.

• Such registration also will only give the state's organized political parties another shot at computer solicitation of voters. This will create more junk mail and intrusive telephone calls.

Which brings us back to our first and biggest argument against closed primaries — they are one more invasion of privacy.

The young man so impressed the audience with his intellect and oratory that William Lloyd Garrison, the prominent abolitionist, hired him to speak throughout the country for the abolition of slavery. As Douglass traveled, his fame spread, but his worries about being forced back into slavery increased. He fled to England until he was able to pay the price for his legal freedom.

German vo-tech program puts its students to work

HERE'S THE right way to train kids for good jobs in rewarding careers when they leave school:

• Give them solid vocationaltechnical training from the time they turn 10 to at least 16.

• Organize much of this training around real work in real shops in real businesses, not just in artificial labs in school. Kids spend three days a week in a business setting. Businesses pay them salaries and cover health care, provide tools and in-

• Integrate business into the education process. The skills needed for various careers - metalworking or banking or construction - are identified jointly by businesses, labor union and educator representatives

 Maintain high standards. Kids who don't measure up repeat the course. At graduation, many kids are hired by the same employers where they trained.

HERE'S THE wrong way to train kids for good jobs:

• Treat voc-tech training as something for dummies; stress going to college.

• Confine job-related training to schools, where equipment is outdated and teachers have no idea what business is about.

 Divorce the needs of employers or unions from the decision-making process, leave curriculum design and standard setting entirely to edu-

• Pass the kids who don't learn from grade to grade until they are dumped on the street.

SURPRISE! The first system is used in Baden Wuerttemberg, a state in Germany much like Michigan, with lots of auto making and hightech industry. The second is what we do here in Michigan.

Americans criticize the German system in very interesting - and revealing - ways.

They say Germans "track" their kids - that is, steer them toward college or trades. In fact, there's lots of switching between tracks in Germany. And we in Michigan track kids right now: We have one track (college prep) and throw away the other 50-70 percent.

The American fascination with college as the only legitimate outcome for school expresses itself in two other significant contrasts. Germans have a national consensus that high skills are important to individual and national economic success. We don't.

Germans run their educational system to respond to the needs of employers and of the broader economy. Our school governance is geared to "What do parents want?" When did you see a candidate for school board campaigning as a representative of employers' needs?

THE MICHIGAN House Education Committee held hearings last week on the German system, thanks: to chairman William Keith who has been pushing this issue for some years now.

After registering astonishment at the sense and completeness of the German system, House members naturally fell to questioning the costs. The German system is more expensive than the American, and most lawmakers couldn't get the "T word" out of their craw.

In fact, the state Senate last week scuttled an attempt to put in place a serious job training program to cushion the loss of Michigan's safety net. Too expensive.

My own view? We're systematically short-changing our kids, building an elitist system focused on going to college and putting our economic future at risk by our reluctance to get serious about training for jobs.

No matter how much the politicians want it, there's no silver bullet. At the end of the day, you get just about what you pay for.

Past is not all glorious

When my second-grade teacher told my class that Columbus discovered Indians when he discovered America, I objected. If the Indians were here when Columbus arrived, didn't they discover America, I

OK, so those weren't my exact words. But I was thinking more clearly that day than Jack Gladden was thinking when he wrote a recent

Gladden, the O&E's debunker of "correct" thought, went on a tirade a couple of weeks ago condemning those who object to the celebration of the 500th anniversary of Columbus' voyage as "neo-revisionists, Yuppies and Politically Correct thinkers" bent on reinventing histo-

Please, Jack, let's think about this. When Columbus arrived, North and South America were Inhabited by millions of human beings living lives that, while surely neither completely idyllic nor entirely free from injustice, were as legitimate as ours. Today, most are gone.

Many of them assimilated into the new dominant culture, as did at least one of my own ancestors, and countless others died violently or from disease and hardship that resulted from the European conquest of their land. Enormous numbers of people suffered greatly. That's not history reinvented. That's history.

OBVIOUSLY, COLUMBUS isn't to blame for all the injustices that have occurred on these continents since he stumbled on them. But to say that all he did was "drive a boat" is being kind. You have to admit that arriving unannounced, then returning to Spain with hundreds of natives as involuntary passengers took a certain

And it's that audaelty - not so much a personal characteristic of Columbus as a cultural one he shared - that celebration critics want to expose. Europeans of 1492 assumed they had a right to plunder the world. They were not unique in this way, but they were wrong. And their plunder of the Americas is our heritage.

The issue here is not political correctness, certainly worthy of debunking, but responsibility - yours and mine, more than Columbus'. Our bresence in this world comes with an obligation to acknowledge humanity's blunders and to learn from them. Those who say we should consider Columbus' voyage with awareness, rather than denial, of its brutal and unjust aftermath seem to be

WHAT IS the harm in that? Why would any living American feel threatened by the acknowledgment that our past is not all glorious, that, as all human history, it includes plenty of cruelty and exploitation?

Here's a guess.

If enough of us bring ourselves to acknowledge the injustices of the past, we might eventually be more honest about the injustices of the present. The arrogance that allowed Columbus to cart off those natives, after all, hasn't entirely disappeared.

We might, for example, be less prone to cheer when our army kills 300 or so impoverished civilians in its effort to capture a common dicta tor, and former U.S. ally, who happened to embarrass a successful U.S. presidential candidate.

As annoying as the "political correctness" of the left can be, it's important to remember who and what are served by the deeper and far more pervasive political correctness that runs through this nation.

And while we're thinking about that, the anniversary of Columbus! voyage gives us an opportunity to reconsider the ways the powerful treat. the powerless. We should demand as much from our political leaders.

Mehl defends candidates

To the editor:

I would like to respond to the leter which appeared in your newspaper on Oct. 17, signed by Flora D'Agostino. Since she supposedly stated her opinion, which in my opinion was influenced by the mayor or his Senior Resource Director, I will not only give my opinion, but also

The letter says we should scrutinize the eight council candidates, and goes on to "bad mouth" two of them. Why not check the voting record of sitting councilmembers?

The so called "Improvement in tily services" cost one big chunk of money. Is it worth it? I don't think so. Who has voted to spend this enormous amount of money? Some of the people you say are "proven leaders," that's who! Also, do you realize that seven of the eight people have run for office in the past, so all of these challengers are not "new."

Your attack on (candidate) Bill Ziemba is sad. I'm not going into detail to defend him, he can do that. I thought Bill Ziemba did a good job and served the people well. I'm sure he would again if elected.

Your attack on Sharon Scott and myself was done only to try to discredit us. The issue of being related is a non-issue. This was first brought up on the mayor's "propaganda" show, the town hall meeting by one of his cronies. The U.S. Constitution and the city charter allow anyone to run for public office who meets the qualifications and Sharon Scott certainly does.

I take offense that she or I would not vote in the best interests of the citizens. I have represented Westland residents with only their interests in mind and I know Sharon would also. Sharon Scott is a fine lady who has served Westland residents for many years.

Her volunteer hours for charitable organizations have benefited many. Her years as an elected official was done only to serve the people-I'm positive Sharon Scott would represent the citizens well, if elected to senior's vote by absentee ballot and many must like Sharon because she had more of those votes then any other candidate in the primary! I would hope that trend continues.

I firmly believe that the citizens of our city are intelligent enough to see through such a negative letter that was printed. I have presented the facts, it is unfortunate others can't do the same.

Puppet show is knocked

Let the puppet show begin! I am responding to a recent article in your paper reporting the endorsement by Westland Mayor Robert J.Thomas of council members Charles Pickering, Thomas Artley and candidate Glenn Anderson for seats on the city council. Thank You, now I am sure who not to vote for! Four peas in a pod.

I have long thought the city needed new blood but this sure isn't it. Two of these three candidates are career Westland politicians with over 25 years combined experience, and little good to show for it.

Pickering, while Mayor, created so much trouble for us and our city that I am sure we are still paying the legal bills.

Artley is without question the most abusive and intolerant person ever to have the privelege of elective office. If you have ever heard Tom Artley talk down to the elderly or to citizens approaching the council you would never allow him an opportunity to do so again. I can see no reason why either of them should have any support.

Anderson is the same story. He has worked on Thomas' campaign and on Pickerings - some independent vote he would be! I can almost see the eye hooks where Thomas will tie his strings, just another puppet. And while he's complaining about development in this city being out of control someone should remind him that he is a planning commissioner! I have never heard such bull.

If you want to see who the poor dumb sheep are in Westland, look for those with Pickering, Artley or Anderson signs on their lawn. Baaaaaaa!

O'Neill blasts school critic

To the editor:

Stop the recall, Moranty!

One sentence in a letter to the editor from (David) Moranty, Chairman of the misnamed Citizens For Edu-cation Committee, printed in the Sept. 26 Observer makes sense. I can't believe I have said that; but, the one line in Moranty's letter gives him the opportunity to show that he doesn't totally lack honesty and integrity.

I quote from his letter, "The current school board could save $12,000 (cost of a recall election to the taxpayers) and a whole lot more, prevent the recall and grant the wishes of the majority of the community by firing O'Neill now."

Four members of the current school board have marched to your orders, Moranty. My career in Wayne-Westland is history. Four board members have hit your primary target in your efforts to accomplish your ultimate goal, the demise of a highly respected, quality school district.

Prove that you do possess one lota of credibility, Moranty. Follow through with what you wrote in your letter and call off your "Recall Dogs.

In Moranty's letter to the editor in the Oct. 17 Observer is so outlandishthat a brief response cannot adequately refute his deception or total lack of understanding. He began by quoting a sentence from the opening lines of my doctoral dissertation. Apparently the only word he understood was "manipulation" because he took that word out of context and used it for a distorted attack on me.

It's too bad Moranty couldn't have read and understood even the first. page of my dissertation. Although it was written 17 years ago, it depicts the Morantys of the country who fancy themselves as critics of public education with little or no understanding of the process. We have much room for improvement in the schools; but, Moranty looks for simple solutions to complex problems. Unfortunately, his level of understanding rivals that of a "raving

Moranty selected the word "manipulation" from a quote which I had used, written in an article which appeared in Psychology in Schools, 1968. by W.A. Hunt, entitled "The American School System." The very. first sentence after the quote reads, "This statement seems to indict the entire spectrum of public education." My first paragraph goes on to explain how schools alone cannot be blamed for the failures of youth,

"The interrelationships of all sociological characteristics and institutions, therefore, are responsible. for the final product." That was the last sentence on Page 1, which Moranty obviously doesn't understand. Too bad he didn't read on; even he might have learned some-

Candidates too confusing

To the editor:

Maybe your paper can clear some things up for me. I have just finished watching the second of two cable shows showing our city council candidates in action. Candidate Glenn Anderson spoke on several topics and contradicted himself throughout the interviews.

In his opening statement, he said if he was elected to the City Council he will do whatever he can to limit uncontrolled growth. In the same paragraph, though, he waid he had a vision for Westland that will be condusive to a good business climate, and later said he favored expansion of the Westland Mall. Well, which is it?

On tax abatements, he said he opposed them but will continue to support them. At least on that topic he admitted it sounded like a contradiction, and he wasn't kidding.

In his closing Mr. Anderson said he will concentrate his efforts on developing an ethics policy for city officials. Maybe his first rule should be to stop the double talk. He also said he will concentrate his efforts on increasing manpower at the police and fire departments, but his campaign literature said he would decrease expenditures. Was he planning on hiring these people for free? .

He may think working as a volunteer for the Westland beauty pageant, The YMCA and The Figure Skaters Booster Club gives you the experience you need to control the multi-million dollar budget of our state" 10th largest city, but I don't think so, Do you?

Attack was uncalled for

To the editor:

Tim Richard's column attacking our company in last Thursday's Observer & Eccentric newspapers was a stream of illogic, nonsense and basic ignorance of business matters.

Obviously, Mr. Richard doesn't like the telephone company. We don't like his distortions.

He writes as if there's something sinister about a well-managed company and business success. He then ludicrously suggests that selling second lines to homes with teenagers accounts for the growth in customer lines over the last four years. We didn't start promoting second lines until this year and those sales represent less than one percent of the customer lines we've added since 1987.

He's correct that we've reduced the number of jobs in the last three years, and we did it by providing early retirement incentives, not through layoffs. A key reason the action had to be taken is because competitive losses were cutting into our revenues. The cutbacks helped us achieve the kind of earnings our shareowners expect.

Despite Mr. Richard's criticism of the new Ameritech Complete Card, this new credit card represents a new line of business and the prospect of new revenues for our company. And its interest rate is competitive. It's been very well received by our customers.

He deplores the absence of price advertising in Yellow Pages. Businesses generally wouldn't want to advertise prices in the Yellow Pages. The reason simply is that they would give up the ability to change prices during the 12-month life of the directory.

Ironically, the newspaper industry is attempting to prevent the Bell'. companies from offering electronic Yellow Pages which could reflect price changes on a daily basis, Newspapers are afraid of competition from the phone companies, fearingloss of advertising revenues. Perhaps Mr. Richard isn't in step with his own industry,

And yes, our parent company Ameritech did acquire part ownership of New Zealand's telecommunications system. Ameritech went overseas because it can offer services there that its Bell companies, including Michigan Bell, are prohibited by federal law from offering in the United States.

Then Mr. Richard plays the role of judge and jury - arguing that Michigan Bell "might misuse its current protected position" and "could" undercut the competition. It's as if he's decided we're guilty until proven innocent.

What is this nonsense? I'd expect more responsibility from the Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

K. E. Millard President Michigan Bell

How to fight spiraling costs of prescription drugs

how to fight spiraling costs of prescription drugs

This is the second in a series of consumer health tips from specialists in the University of Michigan College of Pharmacy.

If the cost of prescription medicines is breaking your health care ty of Michigan pharmacist Richard

As director of pharmacy services for U-M Hospitals, de Leon must find a way to absorb the cost of two new prescription medications - one to product." stimulate the growth of human-bone marrow and a second to cure a potentially-fatal infection. Each drug costs thousands of dollars per dose.

"While they only will be used by a few patients, these two drugs alone have the potential to double U-M Hospitals' $18 million annual expenditure for pharmaceuticals," said de Leon, associate dean for clinical sciences and associate professor in the U-M College of Pharmacy.

According to de Leon, pharmacists. worry that the high cost of new drugs created with sophisticated genetic engineering technology combined with average annual price increases of 10 to 15 percent for existing drugs - could push the United States into a system of rationed health care. "These new drugs represent a revolution in hospital therapy,

U-M pharmacist tells consumers but who's going to pay for them?" he asked. "If we cannot afford to treat everyone with these new medications, who should decide which patients get treated?"

Although consumers will utiltimately pick up the tab for spiraling prices, de Leon says they have little control over how much prescription medicines cost.

"THE PROBLEM is there's no budget, you are not alone. Consider mechanism in place to regulate prictive fiscal nightmare facing University of Michigan pharmacist Richard tions," he said. "Pharmaceutical manufacturers base their pricing on a variety of conditions, including. market potential and whether there is any direct competition for the Pharmaceutical manufacturers maintain it costs an average of $300 million in research and development costs to bring a new drug to market, according to de Leon. "It certainly is true that research and development costs are rising every day, and pharmaceutical firms must include those costs in product pricing," he said.,.

De Leon is critical of the billions of dollars pharmaceutical manufacturers spend annually on sales representatives and promotional campaigns for specific drugs aimed at physicians and pharmacists.

"In 1986, the pharmaceutical industry spent $5 billion on advertising and marketing. Some of this marketing effort takes the form of sweepstakes, contests, frequent prescriber promotions and free samples," de Leon said.

boys cross country

CC earns trip to state meet

The objective was simple for the Redford Catholic Central cross country team at last weekend's Class A boys regional at Marshbank Park just finish in the top three.

The Shamrocks achieved that goal Saturday, placing third behind champion Walled Lake Western and second place finisher Ann Arbor Ploneer to earn a berth in the Nov. 2 state finals, which starts at 11 a.m. with the individual race at L.E. Kaufman Golf Course in Wyoming Western, led by first place individual finisher Bill Crosby, who covered the 5,000-meter course in 16:10, scored 72 points. Pioneer and CC scored 86 and 93, respectively, in the 18-team field. See statistical summary on page 5B.

"I've never been so happy to be third in my life," said CC's Tony Magni, whose team qualified for the eighth time under his tenure as coach. "It was by far the toughest regional in the state. Our first priority was to get out (of the regional). We just had to look for the leaders, hang on and finish tough. We had to qualify, whatever it took."

STEVE WITEK, a senior, paced the Shamrocks with a fourth-place showing in 16:48.

Junior Jamie Fitzgerald, who was 11th at the Catholic League meet last week, turned in his finest performance of the year with a ninth place in 17:09.

Rounding out the CC contingent was Junior Mike Mittman, 14th (17:21); Junior Chris Kuzia, 32nd (17:50); and sophomore Mark Leo, Juniors Damon Harris and Eric McKeon finished 38th and 48th, respectively, but did not figure in the team scoring.

"McKeon was hurt, a pulled call," Magni said. "If not for the strain, we would have been second for sure."

The Shamrocks are considered a longshot to win the state championship, even though Magni's teams have won the coveted title three times (1983, 1984 and '89).

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Steve Witek of Redford Catholic Central trudges through the uphill mud climb during Saturday's Class A regional at Marshbank Park. Witek was fourth overall.

"If we run well, we'll be in the top Eighth a week ago in the Wolvefive," Magni said. "But the favored team often doesn't win it. You never know.'

Milford Lakeland appears to be the top contender for the title with Western and Pioneer not far behind,

INDIVIDUAL AREA state qualifiers (from the regional) included Plymouth Canton freshman Casey Moothart, 15th (17:22); Livonia Churchill's Jeff Martus, 16th (17:26); Plymouth Salem's Derek Cudini, 17th (17:26); Westland Glenn's Jeff Tapper; 18th (17:30); and Wayne Memorial's Aaron Simpson, 19th (17:34). Simpson, a senior, qualified despite a fall when he slid down a hill.

rine A meet, Simpson has been recovering from a dislocated knee, undergoing water therapy.

In the Class C boys regional at Marshbank, Lutheran Westland finished seventh in the team standings with 220 points.

Flat Rock, led by freshman Chris Donnelly's first place time of 17:08, captured the team title by edging Riverview Gabriel Richard, 43-45.

Doug Johnson led Lutheran High with a 33rd in 19:04.

Rounding out the Warriors' contingent: Craig Shafer, 33rd (19:22); Brian Heintz, 49th (19:48); Les Ban, 51st (19:55); and Kyle Kopper, 52nd (19:56).

Spartans qualify

The course was a quagmire, but nat didn't bother Livonia Stevenson Saturday in the Class A regional girls cross country meet at Marsh

The Spartans were one of three teams to qualify for the Nov. 2 state finals at Wyoming Park.

Walled Lake Western won the regional crown with 80 points, eight ahead of Stevenson (88) and 14 in front of Ann Arbor Pioneer (94).

Western Lakes Activities Association champ North Farmington was fourth with 124, but did not qualify. Plymouth Salem wound up fifth (134) and Catholic League champion Farmington Hills Mercy was sixth (142). See statistical summary on "Six teams had a chance to qualify and we're glad we made it through," Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg said. "It was a good comeback for us after our meet (WLAA) Wednesday. We were a little down.'

The Spartans, a disappointing second in the WLAA, turned things around thanks to the third place finish of A.J. Koritnik and the 10th place showing of Bridget MacKin-KORITNIK covered the sloppy and slippery 5,000-meter course in 20:20. Pioneer's Bridget Mann took first in 19:57 and North Farmington's Emily Shively was second in 20:05. MacKinnon's time was 21:07.

Other Stevenson finishers who figured in the team scoring included Kelly Prais, 18th (21:32); Stacy Prais, 21st (21:39); and Gail Grewe, 36th (22:16).

"Our kids did a good job considering this was the toughest regional in the state with six teams being ranked in the top 10," Holmberg

Eight other Observerland runners earned berths for Saturday's Class A individual race at L.E. Kaufman Golf Course.

Among the area qualifiers from the regional: Livonia Ladywood's Malia Dixon, fourth place (20:43); Plymouth Canton's Lana Boroditsch, fifth (20:47); Mercy's Sharmila Prasad, 11th (21:10); Salem's Stacy Moore, 13th (21:19); North's Keegan Keefover, 14th (21:20); Ladywood's Traci Essen, 15th (21:27); North's Alicia Crossland, 17th (21:31); Farmington's Allison Davis, 19th (21:35); and Salem's Emily Farrell, 20th

girls cross country

Kelly Prais of Livonia Stevenson finished 18th overall at the regional to help the Spartans earn a spot in Saturday's state Class A team finals.

Overtime win

Roy penalty kick saves Stevenson

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Livonia Stevenson committed itself to winning its regional soccer game against Plymouth Salem before the stalemated contest went to a shootout Monday night.

The Spartans did win but not the way anyone had expected.

Travis Roy's penalty kick with 40 seconds left in the second suddendeath overtime gave Stevenson a 2-1 victory, ending 109 minutes and 20 seconds of intense play.

"During the overtime, we decided we were going to go for the win with everything we had," Stevenson coach Wally Barrett said, adding the Spartans moved Roy from defense to center-forward. "I told our players before the break preceding the overtime, we were going to throw everything we could at them."

Roy crossed the ball to teammate Matt Grodzicki, who had an open shot on the Salem goal. Salem defender Matt Lee instinctively raised his hands to stop the shot coming directly at him, and the Rocks were penalized for a handball infraction.

ROY SENT the ball into the right corner, beating freshman goalkeeper Paul Dood for the winning goal. He had thought about changing his routine and shooting to the left.

"I always shoot to the right," Roy said. "A couple of my club teammates (who play for Salem) told him I was going to the other side, and I switched at the last instant (back to the right side).

"He was positioned too far to the left of the goal. I think he wanted to discourage me from going that way, so he could save it to the right. That's why I switched at the last

"I thought we were going to score off Grodzicki's shot, but Lee did the only thing he could and grabbed it Baker.

soccer

with his hands."

There was no controversy. The Rocks hoped the referee would call for a corner kick instead, but Salem coach Ken Johnson couldn't argue the decision.

"The man stopped it from going in. It had to be called," Barrett said, adding the Spartans made the extra effort in overtime to avoid a shoo-

"I DON'T believe in 50-50 chances - a coin toss after 78 days of soccer. I'm not going to let my season end with a coin toss, which is what a penalty kick shootout would be."

Stevenson (17-0-3), the top-ranked team in Class A, will meet the Okemos-Trenton winner for the regional championship at 1 p.m. Saturday at Salem.

It was a disappointing finish for the unranked Rocks (14-5-2), who had upset No. 2 Livonia Churchill to win the Northville district tournament Saturday.

"It's a shame to end like that," Johnson said. "I was looking forward to the shootout, because we have some good shooters. We were only 40 seconds away; that makes it harder-

"If it had been a regular goal, that would have been the end of it. A penalty kick is a hard way to end. A penalty kick is not justice either as opposed to a regular goal."

Stevenson led 1-0 when Grodzicki scored with an assist from Adam Pichler at 23:16 in the first half. The Rocks tied the score eight minutes later when Jason Oberhelman put in a rebound from a free kick by Tom

ROY HIT the top of the post late in the half, and the Spartans had the advantage for most of the second

Dood tipped a Pichler shot over the top and made another big save with 91/2 minutes left in regulation. He was out of the goal when Grodzicki lifted an off-balance chip shot, but Dood managed to race back and grab the ball before it went in the Salem held off Stevenson for most of the overtimes despite playing a man short after Eric Stemmer received a red card 21/2 minutes into the first 15 minute period.

"We used 16 players and everything we had in our hearts to beat a vicious, molivated Salem team that came out with everything it had to beat Stevenson tonight," Barrett said. "I would like to tip my hat to Salem for an unbelievable, relentless effort,"

Stevenson expended a great deal of effort to win the game, also.

"It was great — (Scott) Wiggins marking (John) Truskowski, the guys in the middle trying to take Baker out of it and always pressing up front," Roy said.

"EVERY ONE of our players had cramps and was dehydrated," Barrett said. "We don't normally play on a field this size."

Johnson thinks the Spartans, cochampions of the Western Lakes Activities Association with Churchill, will go a long way in the tournament.

"I think the winner tonight could reach the final," he said. "I can't see anyone beating them on the way to the final."

"After Saturday we felt we could go all the way. It's been a good season in that respect (beating Churchill and playing well against Stevenson). We were so close."

SC earns Chicago trip

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Every year it's the same. Nelther team faces a challenge until they face each other.

And it's a rare year indeed when the two can settle which team is best in just two meetings. On Tuesday, for the fourth time in the eight seasons Van Dimitriou has been coaching Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team, the Ocelots and their rivals from Macomb CC' met in a post-season playoff at Eastern Michigan University to decide who was best in Region 12. It was made necessary when the two teams split their two-game series, each winning on their home field.

The result was as predictable as the pairing: SC raffied from a one-goal deficit, scoring twice in the final 20 minutes to defeat the Monarchs 2-1.

The victory sends the Ocelots to the NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament outside of Chicago next weekend (Nov. 9-10). The winner of that tourney advances to the NJCAA Tournament in Trenton, N.J., Nov. 21-24.

"Why is it we beat this team?" Dimitriou asked moments after the victory had been assured. "Our team isn't better than theirs."

ON THIS day, the difference was depth. Both teams had injuries to deal with; SC's bench proved to be superior.

The game was decided with eight minutes left. SC's Nate Stoval got possession near midfield, on the right side. He crossed a pass to the far post, and Bobby Hayes sped in behind the Monarch defense to head the ball past keeper Al Weiskirch.

Until the final 15 minutes, the game could not have been played more evenly. Neither team scored in the first half, but play was fast and

Schoolcraft sports

Macomb struck first, on a superb individual effort by Charley Zapata. A free kick by Justin Nevarez reached Zapata in the corner, left of SC's net; Zapata dribbled through two SC defenders and banged the ball into the goal behind keeper

But, even though they had the lead, the Monarchs were beginning to fade, "I couldn't have asked my (eam to play better or to do more," said Macomb coach Mick Lakatos, who was without three starters - two due to injury and a third suspended for playing in a non-NCAA sanctioned game.

THE OCELOTS had some key players ailing, too. Defender Shawn Mac, a sometime starter, was injured and out; several others, including leading scorer Jeff Vandemergel, who was limping badly with an ankle sprain, were at far less than full strength.

And yet, after Macomb scored, it was SC that picked up the pace. The Monarchs' fatigue showed on SC's first goal. Hauman started the play with a goalie punt, which carried to the midfield stripe. Vandemergel fielded it there, flicking a pass forward behind the Macomb defense.

Chris Crawford reached the ball first, carried it toward the net and put it into the left corner, tying the score at 1-1 with 20 minutes left.

"That showed something about the character of this team," said Dimitriou afterward.."I know our guys never stay down. They always come back."

WHEN ASKED about Crawford's quick strike. Dimitriou said, "That's what this team is capable of doing - moving the ball quickly." He added, in reference to Crawford: "That's what I've been telling Chris. He has to work off other players."

The Ocelot coach has also been pleased with his team's defensive improvement. Shane Millner and Mike Presley were particularly impressive against Macomb. "There's nothing wrong with our defense," he boasted.

Lakatos could only agree: "All the way around, on both sides, that was a well-played game," he said. "It was probably one of the best games we've played between us. Someone's got to win and someone's got to lose . ... but I'm getting kind of tired of losing."

Lakatos said, "I want to wish Schoolcraft all the best in Chicago." It's a trip his team was 20 minutes away from taking.

SC NOTES: On Saturday, the Ocelots guaranteed themselves a spot opposite Macomb in the regional playoff by ripping Lakeland CC 10-2 at Lakeland. Although Lakeland scored first, SC rallied quickly to take a 6-2 halftime advantage.

Sean Ryan led the scoring barrage with three goals. Jim Meldrum, Crawford and George Murphy each netted two, and Brian Hauman had one. Hauman also had two assists; Dave Seymour collected three assists.

Last Wednesday (Oct. 23), the Ocelots played University of Michigan's club team to a 1-1 tie. Millner's header accounted for SC's only goal.

THE VICTORY capped a triumphant week for Madonna. Last Thursday, the Crusaders handed Northwood Institute its first district defeat in five years, and on Saturday they won their Madonna University Invitational, beating University of Michigan-Dearborn, Huntington College and Wisconsin-Parkside in the process.

Also, Hicks-Finley earned District 23 player of the week honors for the second time this season.

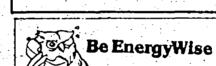

On Saturday, Madonna bested UM-D 15-5, 16-14, 15-10; Huntington 15-6. 16-14, 11-15, 15-10; and Parkside 15-5, 15-2, 7-15, 15-3.

Warner ignites Franklin past Spartans

By Ray Sellock staff writer

When Livonia Franklin jumped to an early 20-1 lead Tuesday against visiting Livonia Stevenson. Franklin coach Dan Freeman told his team' to keep playing hard and not to relax.

During a timeout, Freeman reminded his players of last week's one-point loss to Walled Lake :Central in which the Patriots blew a 22-19 lead, Freeman's message must have registered, as Franklin defeated Stevenson for the second time this season, 61-36, in a Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball encounter.

Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit refused to talk after the game, but Freeman said the key was defense, especially Franklin's ability to stop Spartans center Teresa Sarno. . .

Karen Potempa really did a nice job defending Sarno," Freeman said. "She got excellent positioning on defense."

Sarno, who finished with 10 points and six rebounds, admitted having a tough time on offense.

WHENEVER I got the ball they were all over me," she said. "There was a lot of pressure from Franklin's defense."

The Spartans (11-4 overall, 7-3 WLAA) were ineffective in stopping Franklin senior Dawn Warner, who fimshed with a game-high 29 points, including three triples. She also chipped in with four assists and eight rebounds. The 5-foot-8 " guard converted 12-of-15 free throws.

But Warner's shot selection was questionable at times, especially in the second quarter when she went 0-for-6, including an airball.

Freeman said the Miss Basketball candidate has earned the right to shoot as she pleases.

"Dawn always has the green light," Freeman said. "She gets heady at times, but usually makes good choices. Most of the girls have the green light to shoot the ball."

The Patriots (13-2) led 20-4 after one quarter and 36-14 at the intermission. With Warner on the bench, Stevenson did manage to outscore Franklin 12-11 in the final quarter.

Senior forward Kristle Celeski chipped in with seight points for the Patriots.

SOPHOMORE GUARD Mo Drabicki contributed 10 points in a losing cause for Stevenson.

"We had a lot of trouble rebounding in our last few games," Freeman said. "We got a little betder tonight and that really helped us. We boxed out and got some key rebounds. This is a good

Aggies' backfield performers tough

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

When it came time Monday night to select the best running backs in the Catholic League's C-Section Division, the coaches answered without Cardell Davis and Pete Mulka.

"There wasn't even a vote," Redford St. Agatha coach John Goddard said. "They all said they were the two best in the division."

If all the first-leam selections were this easy, coaches wouldn't complain about getting home so late from the annual meeting.

Davis and Mulka, St. Agatha's talented senior duo, have done a lot of convincing in leading the Aggles to an 8-0 overall record and the C-Section championship. St. Agatha will try to make it a perfect regular season at 4 p.m. Sunday when it meets Detroit East Catholic, the Class D Section champion, in the Prep Bowl at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Royal Oak Shrine coach Jim Mac-Dougall would have cast his firstteam vote for Davis and Mulka a month ago after watching the two rally the Aggies for three fourthquarter touchdowns in a 41-27 win at Howard Kraft Field.

"They're really good," Mac-Dougall said afterward. "Davis is a great one. I've been coaching 27 years and he's damn near as good as any I've seen."

DAVIS, WHO MISSED most of last season with an ankle injury, has rushed for a staggering 1,022 yards on 131 carries, scored 16 touchdowns on the ground and caught a pass for a score.

The 6-foot-1, 180-pounder also has returned a kickoff and punt for TDs and has five interceptions in the de-fensive secondary, one short of the school record held by Mike Skiver (who went on to play at Eastern Dayls prefers offense to defense. "It's the excitement of being chased," he said.

Mulka might not be as flashy, but he's been the perfect complement, gaining 850 yards on 91 carries and scoring 11 TDs on the ground. He also has caught one pass from quarterback Paul Parsell for a score and is one of the Aggies' leading tacklers at linebacker.

"I'm more power, he's more finesse," Mulka said, pointing to his backfield mate.

Goddard guessed that Davis runs a 4.5, 40-yard dash and Mulka is somewhere in the 4.7 range, but he isn't

"We don't time our players on our come this far," Davis said. practice field because you can't run 40 yards without stepping in a hole or rut," Goddard joked.

Mulka, a 6-foot, 172-pounder, would rather run over people than around them. Mulka didn't earn his first start a year ago until the lifth, game against Allen Park Cabrini but he didn't waste his chance.

"He put two kids out the first time he carried the ball," recalled Goddard. "One went off in an ambulance and the other Pete knocked out cold. He likes to run over people, sometimes too much. He looks for people to run over instead of finding the holes to run through."

NEITHER PLAYER is as aggressive off the field, but Mulka does play the guitar, like last Saturday in front of a big crowd at an assembly on Parent's Night.

"I played some Richard Marx stuff, Right Here Waiting For You, Endless Summer Nights, and then Labomba," said Mulka, one of 12 children. "The students always like Labomba."

Both players got off to rather auspicious starts as football players in high school. Davis, who attended Christ the King grade school in Detroit and played for the Redford Rangers sandlot football program, started out at St. Agatha as a freshman but chose not to play football.

"I was just skinny, about 5-8, 130 pounds, hoping I'd get bigger," Davis

"Cardell was a little scrawny kid, not someone you'd look at and say 'Oh, boy,"' remembers Goddard.

Mulka, meanwhile, spent his freshman year at St. Peter & Paul Seminary High School in Ohio, where he began to study to be a priest and played varsity basketball, not foot-

"IT WAS terrible," Mulka said of not being able to play. "We'd go to games at the other local high school and I had tears in my eyes watching. I wanted to play so bad."

St. Peter & Paul Seminary closed after the 1989 school year so Mulka (who said he still thinks about being a priest "in the back of my mind") transferred to St. Agatha, where he and Davis started in the offensive backfield as sophomores and led the junior varsity to an undefeated sea-

The pair attribute most of their success to the blocking up-front by Adam Martel, James Pierce, Matt Masarak, Liam Shivers and Scott Brigmon.

"Without them we wouldn't have Pierce returns the compliment.

"If we mess up, they don't yell at us," Pierce said. "They encourage us and say, keep doing it. It makes us want to block for them."

Observerland teams on playoff bubble

By Brad Emons staff writer

Most Observerland teams will be gathering up their football equipment and putting it away in the storage rooms after this weekend's action.

But for some, the season has only just begun. Unbeatens Redford Catholic Central (Class AA-Region III), Farnlington Harrison (Class BB-Region IV) and Redford St. Agatha (Class C-Region IV) will all be going to the post-season playoff dance, Twice-beaten North Farmington (6-2), despite a date. Saturday with unbeaten South Lyon, is a lock for one of the four spots in Class A-Region III.

Redford Union (5-3) is also fighting for the fourth and final playoff spot in Class A-Region III against Romulus (5-3) and Detroit Chadsey (5-3). The Panthers, however, must first beat Farmington (3-5) on Saturday to put itself in position.

A solid bet in Class AA-Region II is Plymouth Salem (6-2). The Rocks must first beat rival Plymouth Canton (3-5) on Friday, and have 7-1 Clarkston defeat 6-2 Brighton, which is coming off a humiliating 44-0 loss last week to Flint Central, to get in. That appears to be a very distinct possibility.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN (6-2) is a longshot to pass Salem in Class AA-Region II. The Rockets need a victory over rival Wayne Memorial (4-4), and a series of upsets to make it. Battle Creek Central (7-1), even with a loss to rival Battle Creek Lakeview (8-0), is in. Ann Arbor Pioneer (6-2) will make it with a victory over rival Ann Arbor Huron (3-5), as will Adrian (6-2), if it beats Monroe (3-5). But remember, Brighton (6-2) would spoil both Salem's and Glenn's chances with a win over Clarkston.

As for the prediction race, your friendly prognosticator went 11-4 last week, running his overall mark to 86-32. But he is still five games behind the lucky Irishman, Dan O'Meara, who now stands 91-27 overall after going

Here is a look at the final week of the regular season.

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Lutheran Westland at Det. Lutheran West (7 p.m.): Coach Dennis Tuomi returns to his old stomping grounds, facing a Leopards team (6-2) running second in Class DD-Region IV. Meanwhile, the Warriors (4-4) are in danger of losing their third straight. West is coming off an 18-14 loss to Bloomfield Hills grid predictions

Liv. Stevenson at Liv. Churchlit. The Spartans (3-5) can win the Livenia city championship with a win against Churchill (0-8), which is trying to avoid its second straight winless season. This game also pits the Osterlands against each other again -Herb, the head coach at Churchill; and Brian, an offensive guard for Stevenson, PICKS: Brian's moliner knows best, it's Stevenson.

Liv. Franklin at Trenton: The Patriots (4-4) are what you call a Dow-Jones'er-type outfit. One week they're up, the next week they're down. Franklin is coming off a 7-6 win over Farmington. So what's in store for the winless Trolans, who have dropped a lot of close ones this year? PICKS: Emons says Trenton breaks Into the win column. O'Meara differs, takes the Patriots. Westland Glenn at Wayne Memorial: Could be the best game of the night. The Zebras (4-4) got quarterback Jason Welmore back last week and it showed in a 28-6 victory over Monroe Glenn (6-2), fighting for a possible playoff berth, has been sputtering offensively of late after a trio of ho-hum wins over Walled Lake Central (10-0), Farmington (28-6) and Walled Lake Western (13-0). PICKS: Ernons says Wayne deluses the Rockets for the first time since 1987, but O'Meara Ply. Canton vs. Ply. Salem (CEP): What a difference a year

But this time it's Salem (6-2) In the limelight and trying to make the post-season tourney. Steve HoN gained 242 yards for Canton last week in a 9-7 win over Stevenson, while Leon Hister had 194 for the Rocks in a 35-14 rout of Northville, PICKS; Balem does the Tomahawk Chop on the Chiefs.

Taylor Truman at Garden City: The Cougars (1-7) have had a devil of a time stopping the run, giving up 240-plus to Dearborn Heights Crestwood's Chuck Reynolds and 386 (and change) to Clarkston's Dan Griffiths. How many will Sible Davis get this week for Truman (3-5)? PICKS: O'Meara says GC is ripe for a victory, but Emons likes Harry S.

> SATURDAY'S GAMES (all 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Clarenceville at Red. Thurston: Clarenceville leads this series, 2-0, after Kendrick Harrington scored on the last play of the game to beat the Eagles in last year's finale (a phantom fourth timeout also helped the Trojans). Both teams are 1-7, wondering what lies ahead for next season. Clarenceville interim coach Russ McKenzie needs a good showing, while Thurston's Bob Snell needs some offense. PICKS: Thurston makes its namesake, Lee M., proud.

Redford Union at Farmington: RU missed a golden opportunity last week to make the playoffs, losing 7-0 to Waterlord Mott. The Panthers (5-3) need a dry field and an inspired showing this week against Farmington (3-5), which is coming off its fourth straight loss, a 7-6 setback to Franklin. The only comparative score between the two clubs is against Stevenson. RU lost to the Spartans in the season opener, 39-14, white Farmington beat Stevenson in OT, 15-7, PICKS; Emons says logic goes with Farmington, but he takes RU. O'Meara soars

South Lyon at N. Farmington: The gaine of the day pitting the unbeaten Lions, led by running backs Billy Porter and Ken Nelson, against the 6-2 Raiders, who nearly upended state power Farmington Harrison in last week's Western Lakes titlematchup, 20-14 in OT. Running back Todd Anderson and quarterback Mark Temple make North a threat both on the ground and in the air. PICKS: Restore the Roar? Emons can't argue Toledo CC at Farm. Harrison: Toledo Central Catholic is only 4.5 and far from being one of the powers of northwest. Ohio. Unbeaten Harrison is in the playoffs, but banged up. The Hawks, playing for pride, showed they were human last week after escaping the clutches of North, PICKS: Harrison wins a purple heart by going undefeated.

Bishop Borgess vs. St. Clement (7:30 p.m. at Center Line Memorial): Borgess (4-4) has supposedly played the tougher competition in the Catholic League's Trl-Sectional. St. Clement (6-2), meanwhite, is trying to hang on to a playoff berth in Class D-Region IV. Ray Henke is a good running back for the Crusaders, while Borgess counters with John Valentine. PICKS: Emons says Borgess Is his Valentine, keeping St. Clement on edge with the computer.

SUNDAY'S GAMES (Prep Bowl at Pont. Silverdome)

St. Agatha vs. Det. East Catholic (4 p.m.): The Aggies (8-0) could add another chapter for their storybook season with a victory over the Chargers (7-1), a team headed for the playoffs in Class DD-Region IV. The same two teams met two years ago for the Catholic League C-D Division crown with East Catholic coming out on top. PICKS: The coin flip please -- Emons likes Agatha this time around.

Redford CC vs. Det. DePorres (7 p.m.): The second meeting this season between the two teams. CC (8-0) won the first encounter, 21-6, and has not been seriously challenged after the first half in any game this season. DePorres (6-2) is no slouch, especially on the fast Silverdome carpet. Charles Winters is a breakaway threat. PICKS: CC is a run-away freight train. Take the Shamrocks.

Patriots past Falcons Sharkarian runs spur

Livonia Franklin handed host Farmington its fourth straight football defeat on Saturday, 7-6.

The Patriots are 4-4 overall, while the Falcons dipped to 3-5.

All the scoring came in the third Senior tailback Chris Marting, who led Farmington with 113 yards in 15 carries, scored on an 86-yard touchdown run with 4:53 left in the third. The Falcons elected to go for the two-pointer after Franklin was penalized on the extra point. Their throw-back pass fell incomplete. Franklin tied it at 6-all, only two minutes and 18 seconds later.

Senior fullback Aaron Sharkarian, who led the Patriots with 110 yards in 16 carries, capped a 46-yard drive with a 1-yard plunge. David Little kicked the extra point, giving Franklin a one-point lead. He kept the game-winning drive alive with pass completions to Jeff Hunt and Jason Facione.

Franklin then controlled the ball much of the fourth quarter thanks to a long gainer by Shakarian.

"It was a lackluster game that nobody really seemed to want to win." Farmington coach Bernie Call said. "The middle of the field (because of rain) was really chewed up, so any. thing we'd get offensively had to go down the sideline.

"Franklin was so much bigger, and we had a hard time moving the Franklin safety Keith Roberts picked off a late Farmington desperation pass to seal the victory. It was Franklin's second pick-off of the day. (John Glenn had the other.) Franklin outgained the Falcons in total yardage, 185-144.

The Falcons rushed for a net of 108 yards and completed three of 12 passes for 36 yards.

Franklin rushed for a net of 131 and had 54 yards passing (three of

REDFORD CC 35, NOTRE DAME 6: It was over by halftime as top-ranked Redford Catholic Central (8-0) made it four straight Saturday in the Central Division of the Catholic League against host Harper Woods Notre Dame

On the second play of the game, CC's Jeff Tibaldi broke a 32-yard TD run (at 9:14). Frank Yoakam then added a 23yard scoring run at 1:48 of the period to make it 14-0.

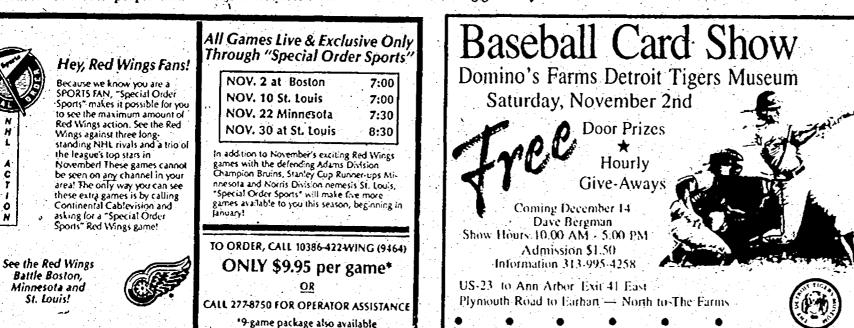

On the first play of the second period, quarterback Chris Barbara scored on a 1yard keeper. Tibaldi added an 11-yard TD run with 7:50 left in the half, and Mario Vassallo returned a punt 56 yards with 6:03 until intermission to make it 350. (Kerry Zavagnin went 5-for-5 on extra

Tibaldi led CC with 87 yards rushing in 10 plays. The Shamrocks had a total of 189 yards to Notre Dame's 91.

Defensively, Shamrock standouts included linebacker Joe Herman, two solo and nine assisted tackles; Jason Krueger, two solos and six assists; Gary Stegall and Paul Nemzek, fumble recoveries.

The Irish got on the scoreboard late in the fourth quarter.

Plymouth Theatre Guild shines in 'Steel Magnolias'

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Steel Magnolias" continue through Nov. 9 at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile Road, west of I-275. For ticket information, call. 349-7110.

Playwright Robert Harling wrote his first script, "Steel Magnolias," in only 10 days, and it is obvious, Where the script lacks credibility, however, the underlying comedy usually provides enough laughs to hide the flaws.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild production of this play, directed by Kimberley Britt, attempted to overcome the deficient writing and, for the most part, succeeds in its endeavor.

SIX WOMEN in a beauty shop comprise the cast of "Steel Magnolias" which centers around M'Lynn, putting forth lines indicating a love/ hate relationship that is more realistic than the script's "over-protective" mother" idea.

Although Harling's script is his own true story (his late sister was a diabetic), too much stereotypical and old-fashioned "girl-talk" pervades the women's conversations at inappropriate moments, creating superficial female characters. Hair, recipes, fashion and men are almost the only topics discussed.

. As M'Lynn discusses donating a kidney to her daughter, a tense

moment is broken with a trivial joke about her waist becoming smaller,

Pretty Elizabeth Racer plays M'Lynn's daughter, Shelby, a warmhearted character whose "signature. color" is pink.

Racer's comedy timing and energy convey well the bubbly personality of Shelby, who seeks dignity as she deals with diabetes.

Jill Snowdon puts forth a very likeable Truvy, the owner of the beauty shop. Snowdon's lines are delivered with a strong voice and confidence for snappy Southern dalogue such as, "There is no such thing as natural beauty," a motto which hangs prominently on the set, mudgeonly Oulser are truly fun to watch. Brandow presents an off the wall beautician's aide who clumsily tional set designed by Jeff Hamsprays water in clients' faces while washing hair. Cyburt, a member ofthe Guild for 25 years, shows her experience well while portraying the quirky Oulser, who has "more money that God.'

LISA BRANDOW as a gawky Annelle and Clemie Cyburt as the cur-

Constance Fox provides a lusterless performance in the roll of Clairee. Problems occur as Fox fails to pick up cues, causing an unsettled. tempo in her delivery. The character of Clairee frequents the beauty salon, is the widow of a former may-or of the town and tells jokes. She alternately dedicates football fields and has her tires rotated, yet is costumed as though she were attending.

The production is technically sound with a comfortable and funcmonds. Pre-show music and fast scene changes (also with music) provide atmosphere and set the mood

Britt's direction gave the cast and play its best shot. Were it not for the banal and trite conversation in the script, Britt's cast would probably. fare better.

After graduating from college, she moved to New York, and later Los Angeles.

'Detroit was my home, my family lives here. It made sense to my heart," she said explaining why she moved back to the area.

Last spring, McDevitt portrayed Nora in the Attic Theatre's produc-

"You have to learn to love the character you're playing. Vera is wonderful. She's a secretary caught in a desperate situation who is trying to cope. 'Ten Little Indians' is a very well written script. There's a lot of information."

"Ten Little Indians." a tale of multiple murders at a macabre house party, began as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post under the title "And Then There Were None."

It has been adapted for the screen three times, most notably in 1945 with Walter Huston, Sir Aubrey Smith and Judith Anderson. It has also been performed under the title of "The Nursery Rhyme Murders."

"It's fun to open on Halloween, and we have a fun cast of characters," adds McDevitt. Birmingham native Richard Schrot is also appearing in the show.

Skillful cast brings 'Dracula' to life

Performances of the St. Dunstan's Guild of Cranbrook production of "Count Dracula" continue, through Nov: 2 at the playhouse, . 400 Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills. For ticket information, call 644-0527.

With the Halloween season here. "Count Dracula" once again Guild of Cranbrook presents a handsome, stylish version of the popular vampire tale. The skillful cast does a good job of bringing the creaky old story to life, creating almost believable characters trapped in a nightmare of fear.

The Ted Tiller dramatization from the classic Bram Stoker novel is set in England in the 1930s. Dr. Seward (Michael Shulman), the director of a private insane asylum, has his hands more than full. He must cope with Sybil (Roz Basherian), his addlebrained sister; Renfield (Brian Dooley), an inmate constantly escaping; Mina (Laura Raisch), his young ward suddenly suffering unexplainable bouts of weakness, and Count Dracula (Paul Gillin), the intrusive new neighbor who has moved into the castle across the valley.

THE PRODUCTION has its share. cial effects, and dramatically chillmenaces the area as St. Dunstan's director Amy Lynn Smith and her cast, a small percentage of lines still sound hopelessly silly. It matters little, as horror stories such as "Dracula" are today more for fun than for thrills, and last Friday's opening night audience willingly played along.

On the other hand, this adaptation of the Dracula legend has many lines ripe with dramatic irony that do not get the maximum benefit of good comic timing.

Gillin's Count Dracula is pleasingly suave and debonair in the beginning, gradually allowing his true pernicious character to show through until he reveals the bloodthirsty, fanged vampire contempuous of all who try to thwart him. Gillin nicely combines his arrogance with early hints of mischlevous humor in his face. His makeup is refreshingly understated.

Dooley pulls out all the stops as of blood-curdling screams, ceric spe- the insane Renfield whether wringing his hands and cowering in terror ing music. Despite the best efforts of _ at the awesome power of Dracula or reveling in his own penchant for swallowing flies and spiders. The physical fights are well-staged as Renfield grapples convincingly with Jonathan (Christopher Kelly), Mina's very earnest fiance, and Hennessey (Tom Christopher), Dr. Seward's loyal attendant.

Raisch is excellent at making Mina more that just a Pretty Young Thing. She very effectively conveys Mina's confusion and overwhelming fear, and she nicely slides in and out of playing the seductive minx Mina becomes when the vampires' influence takes hold.

Count Dracula (Paul Gillin) and Mina (Laura Raisch) in a scene from "Count Dracula" presented by the St. Dunstan's Guild of Cranbrook.

AS SYBIL, Basherian is amusingly befuddled, quite batty without any help from Dracula. Though her first few lines lacked clarity because they were too high-pitched, she quickly warmed to the role and endeared herself to the audience.

Shulman's Dr. Seward always seems appropriately in control as he struggles to keep Dracula out and Renfield in. As Jonathan, Kelly is full of sincerity and determination, as is Topper Pennington's Dr. Helsing, the kindly old family friend who is an expert on vampires and leads the plot to foil Dracula's evil inten-

'Night Watch' entertaining thriller

rerformances of the Schoolcraft College Theatre Department production of "Night Watch" continue through Nov. 16 on campus, 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia. Dinner is at the Waterman Campus Center and performances at the Liberal Arts Auditorium. For ticket information call the college bookstore at Schoolcraft College's production of "Night Watch" is an entertaining melodramatic thriller. One might wish the student performers were more polished and experienced, but Director James Hartman's elegant setting and superb sound effects combine to capture the essence of Lucille Fletcher's psycho-mystery.

"Night Watch" poses a number of questions for the audience. What do you make of a woman who claims to see a man murdered in a window, vet the police can find no evidence of a body? Is she delusional? What if she claims to see another muder, only this time it's a young lady? is someone trying to drive her crazy? Could it be her husband who is having an affair with a friend? Or is it something else that will only become. clear with a surprise ending?

SUSAN DURACK skillfully plays the woman in question. It's a difficult role because we must see (or think we see) what she claims to have witnessed. There are no bodies. No murder weapons. And indeed, few really good clues. The show depends on her creating that fine line between fear and madness - and the audience trying to determine hertrue state of mind. For the most part, she does a fine job with an emotionally draining part.

Her task would have been somewhat easier if the supporting cast were more experienced at creating mysterious characters and suspenseful moments. Speech inflections, slight pauses, and little looks would go a long way in helping Sean Sullivan (husband) and Stephanie Lockhart (best friend) achieve more natural characters.

GOOD EXAMPLES of these techniques were turned in by Matthew Wood. He is excellent in two very different roles as a police lieutenant and as a dipsy dell owner. Tim Courtney also scores as a cop with an artistic bent.

John Clark had his moments as a neighbor who drops in at odd times. Patricia Parsons was equally effective as a nosey German maid given to listening in on conversations. A little more suspicious business by both would make them more believable as possible villains.

A delicious dinner theater option continues through the Nov. 1, 2 and 9 performance.

Awrey products to return

By Doug Funke staff writer

Coca Cola apparently isn't the only company that can bow to public demand and bring back a discontinued product line.

Awrey Bakeries of Livonia, which stopped supplying baked goods to local stores last spring to concentrate on major institutional clients such as Marriott Foodservice Management and American Airlines, will resume selling its confectionaries in grocery outlets here Monday.

"We goofed," company spokeswoman Betty Jean Awrey said of the decision to discontinue its popular retail line including Long John Coffee Cakes, Almond Crunch Dunkers, Date Nut Bars and Danish Sweet Rolls.

"Our business objective was to install new-state-of-the-art Danishand croissant-making equipment to provide higher quality, more consistent production for the institutional food service business," Awrey said.

But institutional sales have remained flat, she said.

The family-owned company forecasts sales this year of $41 million - which includes no retail operations May to November - compared to $53 million last year.

"We have been surprised and gratified by the call from our public for the return of the 81-year-old tradition of serving Awrey goodies to our loyal metropolitan area customers," Awrey said.

"Everybody was calling us when we stopped retail and asked,-'Where can we get this?' or 'When can we get that?' We started to rethink the whole thing. We're foolish to ignore this.

'We realize we made a very serious mistake. We have a change of philosophy in our organization

CHANGES IN top management have accompanied that change in

Last March, the company announced plans to freeze products as they came off the line for retail sale and replace company deliverers with one or more independent distributor to supply local markets. But Awrey scuttled those plans just two months later with an even bigger bombshell — the decision to quit retail sales altogether. Awrey will again bake the retail goods at its Livonia plant. Veri-Best of Ferndale, which makes and distributes bread products with the Awrey label through a licensing agreement, will distribute the pas-

Industrial liquidator Levy wins Eastern Airlines job

By Doug Funke staff writer

A Southfield firm that claims to be the nation's largest industrial auctioneer in terms of annual dollar volume sold has landed a plum job liquidating the physical assets, excluding aircraft, of bankrupt Eastern Airlines.

Norman Levy Associates expects to raise $20-$40 million from the sale of passenger loading bridges, baggage tugs and carts, tools and machinery, diagnostic equipment and other support items, said Richard Nucian, who's coordinating the project for Levy.

Negotiations are under way with airlines around the world for highlyspecialized equipment such as an 11station gantry jet engine testing system, Nucian said. Public auctions for tools and equipment of a general nature will be conducted in Miami and Atlanta early next year.

"We've already had our advance people down at Eastern inventorying all items for private negotiation sale and auction sale," Nuclan said. "We go in and organize it, clean it, price it out. We need correct specifications for write-up and advertising."

Levy will be paid a commission based on a percentage of the sales, not yet established officially by the bankruptcy court, plus expenses. Eastern officials with expertise in the industry are helping with the liq-

Twenty-two firms besides Levy were invited by Eastern to bid for liquidation rights.

LEVY'S WORLDWIDE reputation and its large size carried much weight in getting the nod, said Terence Hickman, assistant to Eastern's bankruptcy trustee.

"We ran them (candidates) through scores of hoops — past experiences, references, size of auctions done in the past, ability to bring out a substantial bidding group.. Levy came out the best,' Hickman sald.

"It's exciting, a large sale, a big name," said Robert Levy, president of the firm and son of its late founder. "Our company was chosen because we're most capable of handling a sale of this nature."

The Eastern liquidation will be among the largest in the firm's histo-

Levy, founded in 1951, takes a team approach to business. Upwards of 60 work out of the Southfield office, with another dozen or so divided. between offices in Boston and Coventry, England.

"There's no issue of ego here," said David Levy, executive vice president in charge of the appraisal department. "We're better able to service from a central location and not dilute ourselves by breaking it

"A lot of our business is auto shop related," he added. "We would expect that the car business will continue and we have to be where it is."

"THE TALENT here is second to none," said Lew Nucian, chairman of the firm. That's why we don't want to spread 'em out. Working together is how you get things done.'

The firm, privately owned, doesn't release financial data.

David Levy reported annual auction sales of $110-$115 million in recent years. The firm does about 120 per year. Commissions usually range from 5-10 percent of gross realiza-

"In terms of revenues, appraisal and auction are very close," he add-

The firm does some 700 appraisals annually on assets with an aggregate value of some $2 billion, David Levy Appraisals become important when applying for loans, establishing stock ownership plans, mergers/acquisitions and bankruptcles.

Experience and attention to detail have fueled the firm's growth, company insiders said.

We are in the marketplace every day," said David Levy. "If you have involvement in the marketplace buying and selling every day, you have a solid foundation of rendering an opinion of theoretical value."

"WE HAVE computerized mailing lists we have built up over the last 40 years we won't let anyone else use," said Richard Nucian. Upwards of 40,000 notices will be mailed to prospective bidders for the Eastern liquidation.

Facsimile messages will be sent to airlines all over the world and ads will be placed in trade publications.

'Two auctioneers can do the same job, but one can get more due to the expertise in the way he sells it and the way it's marketed and advertised," Nucian said.

Orville Lefko, who does business valuations from an office in Troy, called the Eastern assignment a feather in Levy's cap.

"They have a solid reputation from way back. They're very highly respected," Lefko said. "I consider them to be a leader in the field, I don't remember anyone saying anything bad about that company."

David Levy used the word "fantastic" to describe business growth over the past decade.

"The need for this type of service has mushroomed," he said. "We were a well-regarded firm at the beginning of expansion. We were well positioned to take advantage of the

"In a down economy, we sell more · assets for less dollars. In an up economy, we may get more for less assets. The economy doesn't have as much impact (on revenue) as people might suspect. A stagnating economy - not moving in any direction might.

Generally speaking, better times mean better sales," he said.

Unique partnership creates new hazmat training center

By Doug Funke staff writer

Monetary seeds planted a year and a half ago by some 125 companies from around the state - including several from Observer & Eccentric communities - recently blossomed into a new Hazardous Materials Training Center in Lans-

Private industry donated more than $350,000 to build the center to teach emergency response teams, how to deal with hazardous material incidents.

The Michigan State Police will manage the center.

The instructional facility will enable hands-on training using railroad tank cars, tank trucks and storage tanks in addition to theoretical classroom instruction.

"We believe this center is the first one in the U.S. to be built with donations from private industry and then operated by state government," said Andrew Such, executive director of the Michigan Chemical Council.

CSX Corp., the railroad giant with regional offices in Livonia, was among the major contributors.

"The public, generally, and corporations are much more aware and environmentally sensitive than they have been in the past," said Tom Drake, a vice president for CSX.

"ESSENTIALLY WHEN you have an incident, everyone must work in a cooperative and coordinated manher. We've tried to foster that," he isaid.

CSX accounted for the lion's share of the $60,000 cash contributed by the Michigan Railroads Association, Drake said, CSX also donated several railroad cards for training exercises and made its hazardous materials expert available as an instrucstate railroads association when the center was first proposed, admitted to having doubts about how his members would react to the unusual private enterprise/government partnership.

He was pleasantly surprised. They liked it.

"Here was an opportunity to do something, to provide a benefit, but you didn't get involved in bureaucratic things," he said. "It was something tangible you could see."

Drake said he didn't have to do fire fighters and industry personnel much arm twisting at the corporatelevel to contribute money, equipment and staff to the center.

There was no special sense that CSX should get involved with the center because its tracks regularly carry a Dow chemical train; Drake

OUR CONCERN is bigger than that," he said. "We operate in 19 states. The safety center is another incremental step as we try to become more and more safe."

Olin Corp., a Livonia company that packages pool treatment chemicals, contributed nearly $5,000 to the center.

"We're an active member of the Michigan Chemical Council. It just seemed like a natural fit," said Michael Bauer, safety and loss prevention manager at Olin. "First responders were looking for additional training they just couldn't find.

'We try to stay in the forefront of what's going on in the industry," Bauer added. "There is a lot of top management support for working with community outreach programs. That is what this (center) is to us."

Mid-States Petroleum, a distributor/wholesaler in Troy, donated an above-ground storage tank to be used for training, fuel used in excavation at the site and cash for the

"It started from an idea and just grew," Butler added.

The partnership involving associations in the chemical and transportation industries gradually evolved, said Lt. Arthur Nash, commander of the hazardous materials division for the state police.

"To get interest going, we had a model made. You don't want to start until you see someone else. Dow (Chemical) donated $50,000. As more knew about it, more people called. It's just been fantastic.

"The center is already booked through the end of the year and twomonths for next year," Nash said. "We've had calls from Virginia. People are coming out from Kansas and lowá to see how we did it." Shell Chemical Co., with offices in

Farmington Hills, and Union Carbide, with offices in Birmingham, also contributed to the center. Such reported. The center, built on state-owned Westland Police Chief Michael Frayer had one question for the folks at Gags and Games: How could Sherlock Holmes see out from under the long bill on his trademark hat?

It's Holmes for the holiday

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Someone better call the cops. There's a guy in a Sherlock Holmes outfit saying he's the Westland police chief.

A likely story. Mike Frayer, though, claims he's been set up. And, judging by the evidence, the good chief has Gags and Games in Westland. Frayer figured to be easy prey on Halloween. After all, this is a guy whose MO includes fiendishly conspiring to hide behind the bushes at his home in order to jump out and scare the be-jeepers out of some unsuspecting trick-

Frayer's costume rap sheet reads longer than Frankenstein's arm. His prior disguises include a Wolfman, Hunch Back of Notre Dame, the Grim Reaper, the Headless Horseman and an executioner. And these acts were committed as an adult.

Turn this guy loose in a costume outlet? C'mon, you might as well offer Imelda Marcos a shoe horn and give her free rein in Kinney's.

"THAT'S ME," says Frayer, looking at the tan wool cape and hat that is elementary for Halloween wear. "Do you have a magnifying glass? Do you have a pipe?'

They have the curved pipe Mr. Holmes might have puffed, but no magnifying glass for the good detective.

"Do you have a dead body?" Let's just say Frayer gets into this Halloween thing. He adjusts his tweed cap to hover just above his glasses and grasps the pipe to reflect a contemplative "whodunit" mood. Either that, or he's trying to hail the last cab out of Michael Frayer found thing crime doesn't provide - stylish Zoot suits and fedoras. The police chief didn't find a hat to his liking to compliment his costume stripes.

"This looks like something Bill Bonds would wear," Frayer says surveying the duds.

This is an outfit the good chief can refuse, especially after seeing a British Bobbie hat like the police wear. He gleefully tries that on. Scratch that, might make him look like a Keystone Cop in-

AT HOME, though, Frayer goes for the scare. He's considering a skull ghost costume this Halloween where he'll pass out candy to kids. He also decorates his yard in the ghoul and goblin motif and has eerie sound effects piped in.

Some of Frayer's fondest memories, though, date back to his childhood in New Mexico. One year, his mother made him a patriot outfit complete with a threecorner hat, wig and knee-length breeches.

Of course, Frayer registers the usual complaints walking the trick-or-treat beat.

"I remember getting crummy apples that were bruised," he says. "I think they played soccer with them before they gave them to you and the cookies ended up crumbling in your bag. Money was good."

In fact, one rather generous person in the small community of 200 passed out 50-cent pieces to little beggars.

"That was a lot of money back then," he said.

And Frayer also enjoyed taking his two children on the candy collecting circuit. Both have grown, but the kid in Frayer remains when it comes to Halloween.

In addition to dressing up for the occasion, Frayer kindles the spirit watching classic horror films such as Frankenstein. The slash 'em-gash 'em genre of today, though, doesn't appeal to the police chief.

"I'm eternally young or I try to be," Frayer confesses, "Life's too important to take seriously."

"Oh, you didn't bring any little ones; I haven't had my breakfast yet," Marjorie Schoeberg cackles in a voice akin to Margaret Hamilton's Wicked Witch of the West.

Come to think of it, she bears a strong resemblance to Hamilton's most well-known movie role - large wart on the nose, stylish pointed black hat.

At the age of 63, Schoenberg is the Witch of Westfield, donning her thisand-that costume to entertain the youngsters that show up at her Livonia home on Halloween.

"Generally, Juse my sweet voice," Schoenberg cackles. "I laugh like this and scare the little guys. It gets so they know me and know I'm going to be loud, but I go easy on the little ones or they leave the porch crying."

Schoenberg blames her penchant for dress-up on a caftan she bought In the Bahamas 10 years ago. Predominantly black with a green and white motif, Schoenberg-liked-it, butnever really wore it. It was, she sald, of a heavy cotton material that made it "too hot to wear around the

About eight years ago, she needed a costume, so she bought a pointed witch's hat. She tossed in a pair of long black gloves she had tucked away - "I never throw anything out." - bought some appropriately bewitching makeup and found a wig at K mart to round out her costume.

"I FOUND THIS wonderful wig at K mart's . . . on the floor," she chuckled. "It had no price. The lady at the checkout counter told me if I wanted it I could have it for $1."

She dressed up the wig with a few old sponge rollers - "I've been waiting for it to curl. I guess I've been hanging around the cauldron too much," — and added a few crushed silk flowers to the hat. One dangles from the brim, attached by a safety pin. A pair of wire-rimmed glasses that belonged to her mother help to hold the wig in place.

Hit and miss has been a part of developing her costume. Black wax meant to discolor teeth didn't have lasting power, so now she uses black hail polish to blot out a few wellplaced teeth. Her wrinkles are just creases in her face accented with a heavy dose of eyebrow pencil.

She also wears silver tame stock-

'If you got tap shoes on, you'd better be able to dance," she said. "It can be anything silly; you don't have to be a Gregory Hines.'

Schoenberg tried out her costume on neighbors. They couldn't believe. it and "just roared." She made her debut as a witch at the Plymouth Elks Club.

"I NEVER dropped my character," she sald. "Friends who've known me for years didn't know it was me. Some said they had an idea it was me, but they weren't sure because they didn't know me to be silly like this."

That party led to an invitation to be at a Elks Halloween party for retarded youngsters. She was a hit and has been making appearances almost every year since.

"The children just went crazy," she said. "They weren't sure, but they couldn't stay away. One girl thought she was going home with me on my broom that was parked in the parking lot. I told her I only brought my small broom and there's was only room for me."

Dear Lorene C. Green

I have read with interest your column on handwriting and would very much appreciate your analysis of mine. I am 63 years old, female, right handed and enjoy communicating,

both writing and receiving. Bloomfield Hills

Recently, I have bad requests to explain how I arrive at the various conclusions I make in analyzing a person's handwriting. First, I want to say this is quite difficult to explain in a short column such as this, as no trait stands alone, Each trait: must be carefully studied and considered within the total picture (gestalt) of the handwriting. I am cognizant that most of the authors of graphology books would have you believe it is just a simple process of learning what each letter means. But trust me, it is not that simple! However, whenever possible, I will select the most outstanding trait and attempt to explain how it is found in the handwriting sample.

Today's handwriting is a classic example of what graphology researchers call "thread writing." Threading consists of rather shapeless letters that literally skim along the paper just the way the writer's mind skims along. Generally, it indicates a tendency to follow the line of least resistance and to get from here to there as quickly as possible.

Thread writers are often popular as they avoid making waves and will accommodate themselves readily to another's viewpoint. They do not take a stand which would place them in conflict with others.

Now, let us consider this information with the remainder of her handwriting. We then begin to see a woman whose outer facade is poised, sophisticated, even charming. However, I detect little signs of insecurity and vulnerability just below the surface.

... This woman is intelligent and resourceful. Her commendable selfdiscipline cannot be missed. She is able to see and act on essentials and is also impatient to see the results of her efforts. Temper may manifest its self when things don't work out as planned.

Our writer is oriented toward selfprotection. She tends to calculate the impression she wishes to make on others and is rather resourceful about placing herself in good favor.

We are looking at an independent woman who has strong ideas about the role of women. She seeks status!

and seems to have social aspirations. A facility with words is one of her best assets. Seemingly, however, she does not always communicate in a straight forward fashion. She can be diplomatic, sly, ingratiating or whatever serves her purpose. At times, she may be rather superficial, too. Our writer spends considerable time in solitary pursuits. Time for introspection probably is included. she is somewhat selective of the projects and people with whom she spends the remainder of her time. Close friends are limited to a precious few. However, once she chooses! you as her friend she can be counted! on to be empathic, devoted and loval. Den't expect intimacy, however, because it can make her uncomfortable. And I think she sometimes experiences inner feelings of loneliness, but I doubt if others would be aware of it.

If you would like your! handwriting analyzed in this! newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are helpful. And constructive feedback is wel-

Faith helped him face drug problem

staff writer

The Rev. Michael York didn't have an easy time of it

"I dropped out of high school," said York, who grew up in the downriver area. "I had some pretty troubled times in my teens."

York, now 36, "went the path that a lot of teenagers in those years went."

I had a lot of wasted years in my youth. I became involved in the drug culture as an early teenager. It caused quite a bit of problems in my life." It wasn't until York was 23 that he turned to the Lord and found the answers to those problems. He earned his GED, got involved in church work and decided to enroll.

York, a Canton resident, is the new pastor of Main Street Baptist Church in Canton. He began work at the church on Morton Taylor Oct. 1.

HIS FAITH helped York overcome obstacles he'd faced as a younger man.

"In doing so, I found the help that I needed. When you've been helped, you want to help others, to pass it on, so to speak.'

He'd received help from the Santa Barbara Rescue Mission in California in overcoming his drug problem. York later worked as a chaplain there and considered becoming a substance abuse counselor.

York comes to Canton from the Madison Heights Fellowship Baptist Church in Oakland County, where he served as pastor for a little more than three years. He was born in Kentucky and his family moved to Michigan when he was a preschooler. . .

:York's found the troubles he faced as a teenager and young adult have helped him in his ministry. He knows a number of people who've abused drugs.

"It's opened up doors for me to talk to people." York attended Clear Creek Bible College in Kentucky, earning a bachelor of theology degree in 1982. During his last year of Bible college, he was called to a pastorate and ordained.

"So I worked in ministry full time." He worked as a chaplain at the rescue mission in California where he'd received help and as a pastor.

"I felt that call to be a pastor. When the call came to.

go back to California and work with them, it was just something I couldn't refuse."

YORK DID additional undergraduate work in California, where he lived for about a year and a half. He saw that work with substance abusers would always be part of his ministry, but felt that the local church was the best way to provide such help.

He'd heard from people at the rescue mission that their local churches, for whatever reason; hadn't been able to help with their drug and alcohol problems. York

"I had some pretty troubled times in my teens," said the Rev. Michael York, the new and others at the Main Street Baptist Church are studying substance abuse ministry, and hope to more formally adopt that as an outreach ministry in the future.

York and his family moved from California to Louisiana so that he could attend New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He earned a master of divinity degree in 1988.

While in New Orleans, York served as a pastor of an Inner-city mission. He worked with drug addicts, unwed mothers and others in need.

"We saw some great things happen there. We saw a pastor of Main Street Baptist Church in Can-

- The Rev. Michael York:

lot of lives touched and changed."

YORK MET his wife, Carolyn, in Bible college. They have three children: Jonathan, 9; Jennifer, 7; and Michael Christopher, 6 months.

"We enjoy the community here immensely?" The Yorks have family members nearby, including his mother, who lives in Romulus. His family has moved around quite a bit in recent years as York continued his education and his ministry.

"I'm glad to be back. I've always loved Michigan and I look forward to getting to know the community here." In his free time, York enjoys being outdoors with his family, doing some hiking or walking in the woods. Such outdoor activities will become a bit easier when his children are a little older, he said.

York isn't a musician, but finds the time to enjoy contemporary Christian music. He appreciates the warm welcome he's received at Main Street Baptist Church, which has about 300 members and is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention.

He's been impressed with such things as the Canton congregation's ministry to deaf people. The church also has a ministry to group homes for the mentally impaired.

"We have a growing youth ministry." Church members are involved in a number of mission efforts as

"For a small church, we have a lot of diversity here." That diversity is one of the congregation's strengths, he said.

Cultural institutions enrich life in many ways

The sign at the expressway exit said "Cultural Center." The image stayed in my mind all that day and the next. I wondered how long this sign would point to anything of significance. Who is going to care about the decline of our culture in this

I was about ready to leave for Europe. The importance of culture there is very evident. Here in contrast I see a decline in music, theater, art, dance, libraries and the school programs that once prepared children to appreciate culture.

Gov. John Engler, his supporters and the city are saying "Let someone else support the arts." This is not just an economic issue, it is ideological. If one believes that only the rich need culture, then let them pay for it. Everything has a price. Too many of our leaders are saying "If you want it, then pay for it."

I RECALL a police officer saying that the four things that build a community are the family, the neighborhood, the schools and the churches. If each of these decline, violence and crime increase. The quality of life goes down. To this list I add a fifth category, cultural institutions.

To some, culture is highbrow and unnecessary. I disagree. Culture gives us a perspective upon meaning and values. Often, the painters and musicians are social critics.

They reflect to us our values and the spiritual condition of our time. Culture also reveals to us the human spirit striving to create, to celebrate the highest aspirations.

Every distinct culture expresses one way of being human. Cultures moral perspectives Rev. David Strong and religions do this together. They combine to stand for a particular expression of what it means to be human. Together, all cultures and all religions show us the range of how human beings live out their distinct view of human life.

Never before has there been such an attack upon culture as there is in Michigan today. Other states are looking at what is happening in Michigan and wondering if the politicians will get away with it.

Even the drive to support education does not come from a motivation to educate. It has roots in a desire to ensure that people have jobs in an increasingly technical society. Art and music feed the human soul. Art, music, drama and literature insure the birth of a human person. Consumerism creates nothing.

IT IS SAD that many religious persons do not see the connection between religion and culture. It is just possible that the death of a cultural the owner, pointed to a painting and sensitivity is caused by the death of a religious sensitivity. If religion withdraws from society, if religion we must come to understand those who are different from us. In order to create unity in this diversity, peace instead of war, we must un-

How will Americans do this if we have no understanding of culture? How will we build bridges if culture in this country is reduced to consumasked "What is it and how much does it cost?" She seemed to be treating the two questions as though they off like some garbage Incinerator.

Use the moon to locate Jupiter, Venus on Nov. 1

By Raymond E. Bullock special writer

The planet Venus is at its maximum elongation (apparent distance) from the sun and there will be two meteor showers in November, one of which has the potential of being more impressive than usual.

Of the five naked eye planets, Venus and Jupiter are morning planets this month; Mercury and Saturn are evening objects and Mars is not visi-

We lose one hour and one minute of sunlight in November. On Nov. 1, the sun rises at 7:05 a.m. and sets at. 5:27 p.m. This allows for a possible 10 hours and 22 inlinutes of sunlight. n the 30th these times are 7.41 a.m. and 5:02 p.m., allowing nine hours and 21 minutes of sun.

It may come as a surprise to some skywatchers that you can see planets in the daytime. Obviously the stars and planets are still in the sky during the day; you just can't see them because the sky is too bright. There are two planets, however, that are bright enough to be seen in the day, provided you know their locations. An excellent opportunity to see both of these planets occurs on Nov. 1 and 2. We can use the moon to find them.

THE MOON is five degrees to the right of Jupiter on the morning of the 1st, Go outside about 45 minutes before sunrise, and you'll have no problem seeing the two objects. Note the location of Jupiter with respect ; to the moon.

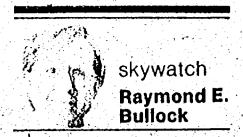

Sometimes it's helpful to use your fist as a measuring device: Hold your fist at arm's length and see how many "fists" it takes to get from one object to another. After the sun has risen, locate the moon and use your. fist to measure the same distance. Jupiter will look like a bright point of light in the blue sky.

You can do the exact same thing on Nov. 2, when the moon is five degrees to the right of Venus. Venus should be easier to see in the daytime sky because it appears brighter than Jupiter. Venus is at its maximum elongation (apparent distance from the sun) on the morning of the 2nd. Venus is 47 degrees to the west (right) of the sun and is well up in the sky at sunrise.

The bright star ten degrees above and to the right of Jupiter these mornings is Regulus (REG u lus). This is the brightest star in the constellation of Leo the lion. Leo is the location of one of this month's meteor showers. Having spotted Leo, you'll know where to look for "falling stars" in a few more weeks.

The first meteor shower of the month is called the South Taurids (TOR rids). This shower is named for Taurus the bull because the meteors all appear to streak out of that constellation.

THE BEST TIME to look for meteors is between midnight and dawn. Taurus rises in the northeast around 7 p.m. and is high in the south at 1 a.m. By dawn it has moved into the southwest. The South Taurid shower is not one of the year's best; expect to see an average of only 15 meteors each hour. That works out to about one meteor every four minutes, and even then the faintest meteors might escape your notice entirely.

Notice the waning crescent moon on the morning of the 4th. Five degrees to the left of the moon is the bright star Spica (SPY ca) in Virgo.

Spica comes from the Latin Spicum' and represents the Ear of Wheat that Virgo holds in her hand. In Greek and Roman mythology Virgo was the daughter of the goddess of the harvest. Virgo also represented Justice and, in ancient Egypt, was known as the goddess Isis. To the Babylonians she was Ishtar and to Medieval Christlans she was the Madon-

New Moon is at 6:11 a.m. on Nov. 6. The moon is located between the earth and the sun and is not visible. Thirty minutes after sunset, on the following night, you might be able to glimpse the waxing crescent moon just a few degrees above the west southwest horizon.

Binoculars will help you spot it in the glow of evening twilight. If you do see it, look for Mercury as well. It is two degrees above and to the left of the moon; the upper cusp of the moon points right at Mercury. Officially an evening planet, faint Mercury will be a difficult object to see.

MARS IS IN conjunction with the sun on the 8th. Mars is located behind the sun and is not visible. It will appear in the morning sky in late December,

Watch the moon move through the constellation of Sagittarius Nov. 9. 11. On the evening of the 9th the moon is six degrees to the right of the star that marks the spout of the teapot that makes up the constellation. On the 10th the moon is adjacent to the star at the top of the teapot. On the 11th it has passed the teapot's handle.

The "star" directly below the moon on the evening of the 12th is Saturn, the planet with the beautiful ring system. Located in Capricornus, Saturn is the farthest of the naked-eye planets. It moves around the sun slowly, taking 29.5 years to complete a single orbit. Its night to night motion among the stars is nearly imperceptible to the naked eye.

The moon is at first quarter phase at 9:02 a.m. on Nov. 14. The moon has completed the first quarter of its orbit around the earth.

The planet Venus is 18 degrees above the star Spica on the morning of the 15th. Venus moves about 1 degree each day and will pass within four degrees of Spica by the end of the month.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly Sky Calendar. A one year subscription is $6 and is available from Abrams Planelarium. Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48824.

Plans are on course to convert the Westland historic site, which now houses Wayne County parks offices, into a nature center, like it was from 1956 to 1979 under naturalist Mary Ellsworth.

The third annual wine and cheese fund-raiser Oct. 10 raised about $800 toward restoration of the mill and expansion of the annex. Parks offices would move into the new annex. The 19th-century grist mill was one of Henry Ford I's village industries from 1918 until after World War II. Its years as a nature center inspire fond memories.

"It was so special to us growing up. We have hopes to see it through to a nature center," said Friends of Nankin Mills member Denise Mehelich, who co-chairedthe fund-raiser.

Westland City Council member Chuck Pickering said he "saw the value of preservation of history. We have to preserve our past to preserve our future."

In 1985, Nancy Watkins, Wayne County parks design manager, started a campaign to restore the

The new digs are ready. J. Giordano Studio will host its grand opening to celebrate moving to a new Northville location 5-10 p.m. Friday, Nov. 1. The new gallery is at 242 S. Center.

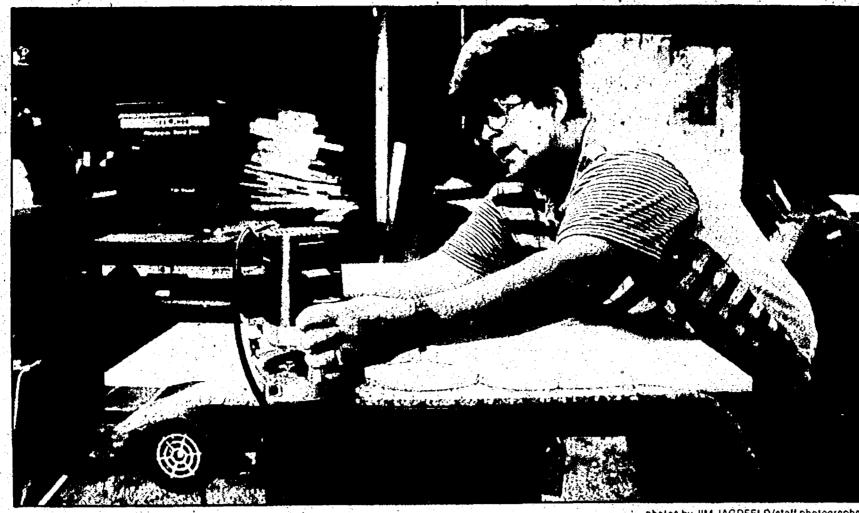

The studio will be home to the new Network for Promoting Arts and Musical Services as well as commissioned artwork by portrait artist Julie Giordano. The former Plymouth resident now lives in Northville.

Wind instrumentalist Gary Cooper also has moved his private lessons, music and sales (formerly Flute Centre Plus) to this location. He'll entertain during the opening.

The network, which should be up and ruinning in 1992, will offer Michigan artists and musicians a marketplace for their services. For a $25 fee, musicians will be able submit demo tapes and artists will be able to submit slides.

Folks in search of, say, chamber music for a store grand opening, face painting for a church fund-raiser or modern art to decorate their home or office will be able to visit the studio, review network offerings and call the artist directly. Sales will bring a 20-percent commission on sales.

Right now, Giordano is gathering names of potential artists and musicians. Applications will follow. Friends of the Arts in Northville is cosponsoring the network.

Jean Payton uses the router to contour the scalloped top of a pine cradle. After engraving a family name in the head of the bed, the handmade piece will be assembled, then stained by her husband, Joe.

Self-motivated

She meticulously crafts woodworking wares

By Janice Tigar-Kramer special writer

NLIKE OTHER craft show-goers, woodworker Jean Payton returned from a local craft exhibit in 1988 with nothing but a head full of ideas and inspiration.

"I liked all of the wood furniture and accessories I saw that day," remembers Payton. "But I didn't like the prices, so I thought, 'I can make that.'"

And that's exactly what she did. After all, Payton already had installed paneling and a vaulted ceiling in the family room of her Redford Township bungalow, so woodworking seemed like a hobby she

Her first project, a baby cradle for her son and daughter-in-law, was hardly for beginners, "but big doesn't always mean more diffi-

Payton finished the pine cradle in just a week, working evenings after returning from her full-time job in shipping and receiving at a local tool and die company.

She didn't have all of the sophisticated woodworking tools she uses today, yet she produced an admirable pine cradle using just a portable saw, router and sander. She was so satisfied with the job, she immediately went to work on a matching dresser with changing table.

"I learned to use machines and do simple repairs working in the machine shop, but I was always taught that you can do whatever you set your mind to do." Payton said.

TODAY, PAYTON is a full-time woodworker who makes 100 items to sell at local and out-of-state craft shows. She cuts the wood pieces from original or existing patterns and assembles with pegs, screws or glue and nails. Husband Joe stains the finished product and installs

Using mostly pine, or hardwoods on request, Payton, who calls her business The Old Wooden House, sells a complete line of Early American-style accessories and furnishings to outfit a playroom or a master

She makes a child's table with two benches for $100, plus a matching stove, refrigerator, sink and hutch for $100 each. She also sells a doll cradle with foam bed, sheet and comforter for $45, doll strollers and doll high chairs for $25 and $30. A child's ironing board with a heart-shaped iron is just $17.50. Besides the cradle she made for her own granddaughter, Payton takes special orders for a six-year crib with canopy and mattress, kids' headboards and dressers.

"I feel so proud making things for children. I'm a sucker for kids, I guess," said the mother of three, grandmother of four.

BESIDES CLASSIC children's toys and high-grade furnishings, which are sure to become heirlooms, Payton makes can hardly keep shelves, pine potato bins and covered trash containers in stock.

Though mostly self-taught, Payton took a woodworking class through adult education at Redford Union High School and will take another class before using her new lathe.

"There isn't enough time to do everything I want to do. Once I start working, I can't stop," said Payton, who once spent 18 hours in her garage workshop.

Most projects include an eight-step process - enlarge the pattern, rough cut the wood, draw on scroll work, engrave, assemble, sand, stain and install hardware. Yet Payton's work is far from assemblyline quality. She takes some furniture patterns from popular craft magazines (the child's table and benches is her own design), but she generally lets her imagination take over once the work begins.

"My kid's sets are always different. I might make a drawer in place of a shelf or a double-raised panel door instead of a single-door," she

THOUGH PAYTON will do about 26 craft shows this year, she'll make time to oversee the remodeling of her master bath and even do some of the work herself.

"A lot of people at the craft shows think my husband does the work. Most people just don't think that women can do woodworking, but we

The Visual Art Association of Livonia will present its fall art show, an exhibition of 93 works, Nov. 1-22 in the lobby of Livonia City Hall, Farmington Road at Five Mile.

An awards ceremony and opening reception to meet the artists will be 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 3. Livonia arts commissioner Betty Ward will present the honors. Everyone is invited to attend; admission is free.

VAAL's show was divided into three categories for judging: oil, watercolor and mixed media. Awards were given for first, second and third place in each category as well as Best of Show, chosen by jury; Best of Show, chosen by Livonia Arts Commission; the Grumbacher Award for Best Use of Color; and six honorable mentions.

Jurist for the show was David Sharp, a professor of painting and drawing at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

"On The Reef," an abstract watercolor by Lorraine Whitacre of Farmington Hills, took three awards: Best of Show, chosen by jury; Best of Show, chosen by Livonia Arts Commission; and first place in the watercolor division.

"There were a number of pieces in the show with superior qualities of imagery," Sharp said. .

SHARP JUDGED each work using two criteria: intention of the artist and formalistic presentation. "My criteria are unvarying," Sharp said. "My criteria is visual.

During the first round of judging, Sharp juried "out pieces on the basis as just not being mature yet."

"There were two types of works that did not make it into the show," Sharp said. "Illustrations obviously done from a photograph and the decorative ones, a collage of different materials. It's a very mature hand that gets them to work together."

Sharp used objectivity and professionalism to judge the show. He believes the quantity of time he spends in his studio undoubtedly qualifies him to judge other working artists. "I'm in constant contact with the working part."

The winning watercolor by Whitacre, Sharp said, "struck me as a very acute perceptual and subjective piece. She had to have seriously studied and looked at the forms in nature. There was a strong idea of fan-

"The flatness of the form and space balanced by three-dimensional elements is an honorable invocation of composers such as Matisse," he.

WHITACRE HAS worked in watercolor for seven years. Previously, she used inks and acrylics. "I find watercolor more creative. I like to pour in a design and then texturize it. I build up color in several layers."

Whitacre spends 20 hours a week painting. She's president of the Livonia Art Club and has been a VAAL. member for two years. She belongs to the Michlgan Watercolor Society. "Cosmic Agitiations" by Toni Ste-

IN WAKE of the economic down- Frame Works, Wild Wings Wildlife controversy surrounding state arts funding, a spirited group of gallery operators is fighting back with all the creative vigor it can muster.

The strategy: teamwork. The group's cooperative spunk doesn't surprise me in the least because the very livelihood of each gal-

"OUR GOAL is to keep everyone aware of the art that's available right in their own towns," said Kathy Savitskie, Plymouth Community Arts Council executive director. "This is a great way to showcase our local talent."

The tour, 15 months in planning, begins at Northville's Historic Mill Race. Tour goers will board a trolley and spend 20 minutes at each gallery. The galleries will furnish snacks and donate a piece of fine art for a drawing. The Northville Arts Commission will host a closing reception.

As a handy reminder where the galleries are, tour goers will receive a keyed map of the Plymouth-Northville arts community. The map will include phone numbers of key local arts groups as well.

The range of art is inviting: photorealistic portraits at Giordano, contemporary art at Chamelcon and Atrium, Michigan art at D & M, traditional art at The Frame Works, Southwest art at Native West, fine art and decorative crafts at Penniman, Tiffany-style lampshades at Tiffany, Carolyn Dunphy's watercolors at Painter's Place, wildlife art at Wild Wings.

crisis, galleries on the tour maintained lines of communication. They've cooperated by referring prospective clients and sharing exhibit announcements.

"We're working for a common good: to keep the arts alive in Michigan. It's not enough anymore to keep the doors open and wait for customers to come," said Giordano, who should know.

The former Plymouth resident closed her 2-year-old, Northvillebased gallery of Michigan fine art Oct. 1 after lease problems and a 30percent drop in sales, notably bigticket oils. Portrait commissions are now her full-time work.

Arts calendar focus: Livonia

The second issue of the Livonia Cultural and Arts Calendar is now in circulation. The calendar features events sponsored by 14 Livonia organizations and institutions.

The calendar was one result of the collaboration and planning done by the Livonia Public Library and the Livonia Community Resources Department. The Livonia Arts Commission supported the concept and suggested a meeting be held of all the cultural and arts groups.

The next roundtable meeting is 8 a m. Thursday, Nov. 21, in the Livonia Civic Center Library. Organizations will bring their calendars to share for the next 6-12 months and receive copies of the next, quarterly, calendar covering December through February.

Organizations wanting to attend may call the library at 421-8306 or the Livonia Community Relations Department at 421-2000, Ext. 221.

Interested enough to spend a few moments and discover the best place to advertise the fact that your home is for sale?

Good. We knew you were intelligent. In fact, more than 40% of our readers have college degrees or better.*

And if knowlege is power, let's look at a few powerful facts: this newspaper, the one you're reading right now, reaches some of the most affluent households in Wayne and Oakland counties:

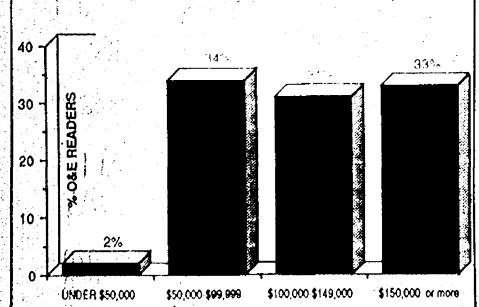

That's a median household income of more than $50,000—$10,000 more than the Income of the people who don't read our newspapers. So when you advertise in your Observer & Eccentric newspapers, you not only reach thousands of smart people, you reach people with substantial incomes.

Now, that's something to smile about.

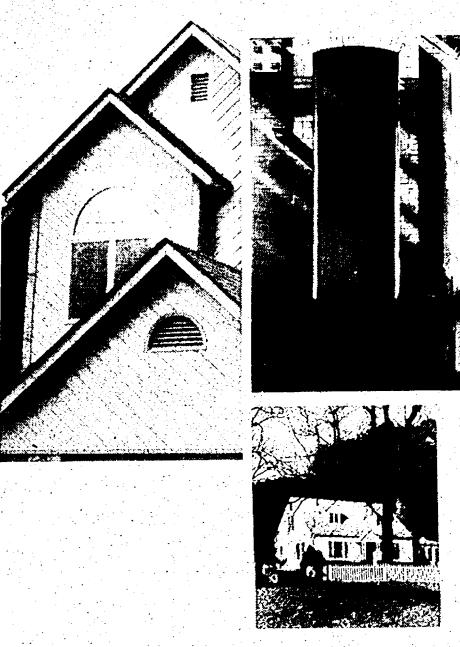

Our circulation area has 90% home ownership and look at the value of our reader's homes:

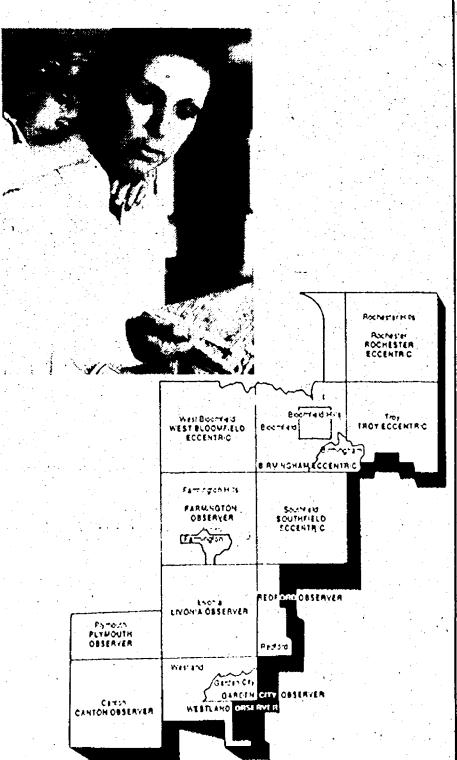

FACT: When you advertise with us you will reach 9 out of 10 adults in the Observer & Eccentric market area who have read weekly classified advertising.*

FACT: 91% of the adults in our market area who had read classified advertising in the past seven days had read it in the Observer & Eccentric*.

So, we can offer you one quarter of a million adult readers and a very rich market, what else do we have for you? How about an award-winning newspaper— a newspaper that people trust and look forward to reading? One that reaches 25 communities with important local news that's not available anywhere else.

That's us.

By the way, did you know that all those little ads in the back of this newspaper—the ones placed by people like you—are published in all. 12 newspapers?

Therefore, when you advertise anything from a horn to a home, you will automatically reach this huge, interested reading audience.

What else can we say? We've had years of experience in publishing newspapers and are proud of our record for successfully putting home buyers in touch with home sellers.

In fact, we've just introduced HOMELINE,** a great new way to find out about open houses simply by using your touchtone telephone.

Be sure to mention it to your Realtor® so that when it comes time to show your home, it will be described on HOMELINE.

Title insurance prevents pig-in-a-poke syndrome

By Doug Funke staff writer

Most home sales come off without a hitch and new owners enjoy an uneventful occupancy. But occasionally problems arise after the fact.

Maybe a check bounces and back taxes are owed putting the property at risk. A contractor puts a mechanic's lien on the property when a previous owner stops paying for improvement work. A long-lost heir materializes to challenge an estate sale. Or out-and-out fraud like misrepresentation or forgery occurs.

That's why title insurance exists - to protect buyers and mortage ership.

"It's imperative to have marketable little free and clear of any claims," said Paul Cuschieri, owner, and president of Minnesota Title Agency in Livonia. "It's a one-shot deal. The protection you're buying isn't for the future. It's protection from the past."

"We want to make certain the individual selling the property is quote, unquote - the true owner," said Mark Tarrant, chief title examiner for Lawyers Title Insurance in companies from challenges to own- buy a house and expose themselves to tremendous monetary loss for back claims without title insurance, Cuschieri said. Financial institutions are reluctant to issue mortgages unless purchasers obtain a title policy indemnifying lenders for the amount borrowed.

> So two policies generally are issued for a single sales transaction.

3 The seller usually pays for title insurance for the buyer's protection as part of a standard purchase agreement. The purchaser then buys a polley for the bank's protection. A real estate agent handling the transaction usually arranges for the insur-

Title, insurance costs are fairly standard due to the competitive nature of the industry and insurance laws in Michigan. Both Lawyers Title and Minnesota Title would charge the seller $320 and the buyer $128 for insurance on the sale of a $50,000 house.

The title search, a historical review of property owners, goes back 40 years.

Previous owners are identified through the county register of deeds. All or some of those names are checked through courthouse records for involvement in legal entanglements that might affect the ownership of property - lawsuits, bankruptcies, divorces.

TAX RECORDS are checked for recent payments. Easements, which could limit property uses, also are identified.

"I want to know what I'm buying," Tarrant said. "I can't walk out and see a lien, If necessary, the little company at its expense — will defend the purchaser's title and ownership rights in court. If a claim proves valid, the title company will bear the cost of settling to protect the title and legal possession by the policyholder.

"I think title insurance is externely important," Tarrant said. "The average person has no clues what competing interests can affect property. A title policy lets you know what you're buying before it's too late. Should we be wrong, that's what we insure you for and against."

The lender's coverage usually decreases as the mortgage is paid down, but the purchaser's coverage stays the same for the one-time premium due at closing. The purchaser can buy extra coverage for increases in a property's value over

"The most frequent thing I see is tax problems," Tarrant sald. "I pay for taxes resulting from erroneous information from treasurer's offices.

Those are smaller amounts." The next category of problems now affecting good title is construction liens, he added.

Heed wetlands laws before development

We are thinking about developing a campground condominium but are somewhat concerned about some of the liabilities that we may incur as a result of the improvements that we are making. Can you give us any idea as to how to avoid these potential problems before they arise?

As is the case with any condominium, the developer should ensure that its construction procedures and design are properly approved by the local municipalities and the state of Michigan. Also a competent registered architect and engineer should be hired with respect to all phases of the condominium as well as an experienced site planner for the condominium subdivision plan and an experi-from the Army Corps of Enginers or the DNR in connection with any involvement with water or wetlands.

I am president of a management company and am hopping mad. In the middle of my management agreement with an association, another management company came along and low-balled my monthly stipend to the association and told it that they would pay them a $500 bonus to induce them to terminate my contract. I had been performing fine, but it is just a matter of economics. Somehow I feel I have been wronged by the management company. What can I do?

and obtaining adequate approvals against the other management company as well as the association. The association may be obligated to you for breach of contract depending upon the terms of your contract and what provisions it has with respect to early termination. As to the other management company, when one person tortiously interferes with the contractual rights of a third person, that person can be held liable for interference with contractual relations or economic expectations for damages.

Judges for the Builder Magazine Builder's Choice awards were particularly impressed with the character of the Woodlynne's balanced rear facade accented by the strong horizontal bands and gentle, twostory bay.

Just grand: Builder's classical house earns trade magazine award

"Good design is more than just a pretty face. It's about the way buildings and communities function day to day, regardless of economic ebbs and flows. The 36 winners of the 1991 Builder's Choice Design and Planning Awards exemplify this durable quality." - Builder Magazine

By GeraldFrawley staff writer

LASSICAL SYMMETRY never goes out of style." So begins a brief description of the design of Woodlynne, a 5,400-square-foot custom home built by the Birmingham-based David Jensen Building Corp., and the winner of a grand award in the annual Builder's Choice awards sponsored by Builder

It's not every day a house is chosen for such an award. In fact, in the 15 years the awards have been given, no one can recall a Michigan house, or even a house from the Midwest, being chosen.

That changes this year. David Jensen, president of the building company, said he set out not to build an award-winning house, but a "special" house. "I think that in a lifetime, you try to get recognition of anything you've done," Jensen said. That doesn't necessarily mean he wanted to win an award - only that he wanted to build a home with character, dignity and a timeless quality.

The award was for the first house in the Woodlynne development - a 23-acre site in Bloomfield Township near 13 Mile and Bingham roads designed by Rick Lamb Associates in Cambridge, Mass. Homes in the development sell in the $1 million timeless house.'

'It's not just a series of spaces. Good architecture is a matter of taste, but what they've done is created a

Jensen said the site was designed to give a quiet "Connecticut-like" feel. The award-winning home was designed by Robert A.M. Stern Architects in New York City.

Since that first project, a second home has been built, another starts construction this month, and three are in early planning, Jensen said.

HIS GRAND AWARD house was what he likes to call "a perilous venture."

Built on speculation, meaning there was no buyer prior to construction, Jensen said he realized the first house would set the tone for the entire development.

The house was intentionally built on a grand scale. Oversized rooms, smooth circulation patterns, custom molding and trim, a circular staircase, solid materials, an impressive entry court created by symmetrical placement of a threecar garage and a living room, high ceilings and large, well-placed windows to allow extensive use of natural light all combine to give the home a majestic feel.

- Builder David Jensen

At the same time, Jensen said there are more subtle touches to the home that give it a human scale. An oval dining room tempers the harsh, rectangular geometry common in most homes, a well-separated private area for bedrooms, and one of Jensen's favorite features, a back

"It's not just a series of spaces. Good architecture is a matter of taste, but what they've done is created a timeless house," Jensen

"Most people (who have seen the house) feel this is a bold stroke," he said. "This is a very Midwestern, conservative community. This house is way outside the norm."

Which isn't to say the home is wild or contemporary. "We (in this area) have been flooded with a series of homes that are simply knock-offs of other homes.

"An awful lot of architecture is garish and loud like a bratty kid

'The projects they (judges) chose to honor are attractive and . efficient places in which to live, work and play. Whether traditional or contemporary, small-town or citified, their beauty goes far beyond skin deep. Much attention has been paid to the way these projects read from the street. Garages are set back, canted or tucked under to minimize the automobile's impact. Common materials are used in fresh new ways; so is color. And most important of all, this year's Builder's Choice award winners are good and responsible neighbors to the communities that surround them."

- Builder Magazine

The house's "classical symmetry" was noted in the balance and workmanship and the courtyard created by the garage and living room jutting from the house. Judges also were impressed with many of the interior design features.

'An awful lot of architecture is garish and loud like a bratty kid demanding attention. There is a quietness to demanding attention. There is a quietness to significant architecture," Jensen said.

The Woodlynne, Jensen said, is a reinterpretation of the classical homes found in some of Detroit's older subdivisions.

GRANT MARANI, project coordinator and an associate at Robert A.M. Stern Architects, said a builder's choice award (particularly a grand award) is a very reputable award in the design industry. "It's quite coveted."

Builder magazine asks some of the best known names in the building and design industries to judge the contest, he said.

This year, winners were chosen by a panel of nationally acclaimed architects like John D. Bloodgood, president of Bloodgood

Sharp

Snider Architects & Planners Inc.; site planners like Andres Duany, principal with the Miami-based Andres Duany and Elizabeth Palter-Zyberk Architects and Town Planners; builders like Harold Lynch Jr., president of Newport Beachbased RGC (Recreactions Group of Companies); and design journalists like Withold Rybezynski, author and professor of architecture at McGill University in Montreal to name just Marani said the design that eventually became the Woodlynne home was a result of several trips to the area. "We were concerned with making a design that had architecture that reflected the Midwest."

He has found that when an out-ofstate firm tries to impose its own style on a home, people in the area reject it.

Marani said although his firm has built homes in the Midwest, this was the first in Michigan, which meant a considerable amount of study. "We_ wanted a home that reflected many of the great homes in Detroit's older neighborhoods.'

One of the advantages of being an out-of-town architect is that you have a different perspective. "There is a sense of the classical in these a symmetry to the overall design. At the same time, the design was also meant to be a reinterpretation of the older homes. "They belong to the same style of architecture - if not the same architecture."

roof forms, a horizontal design base, solid materials like brick and stone,

For example, the architects designed the front with a more defined entrance and a fan window to give the house a vertical element, but still retain an overall horizontal strong horizontal band and a twostory gentle, curving bay. Some of the interior features include a two-story entry, a grand high-ceilinged living room, and the oval dining room — all incorporating modern design practices to better control movement through the home. Marani also noted the extensive use of natural illumination. "The home faces north, so we wanted to design the home to work with that it captures both morning and evening light."

SUSAN BRADFORD, senior editor for design at Builder Magazine, sald this is the first project she can recall from Michigan, but may not be the first project in the Midwest. "We don't keep a running list of all the winners.' Bradford said the lack of Builder's

Choice houses isn't necessarily a result of Midwestern homes being poorly designed. "We don't get many entries from the Midwest."

Why few Midwest builders enter the contest, she said, is open to speculation. "There seems to be a reluctance on the part of Midwestern builders to hire good photographers. We don't have the staff or budget to send photographers all over the country, so we rely on the builder to furnish the photographs, and for a magazine we need very high quality photographs."

— Builder David Jensen

But that is not the only reason. Midwestern design standards are not necessarily bad design, but the Builder's Choice awards measure innovation. Most of the architectural innovations, they have found, generally occur in the East and West and then trends move inward. "This isn't always true, but that's generally the pattern," she said.

In fact, several judges criticized the lack of innovation in projects built in the South and Southwest, where architectural styles are predominantly Mediterranean.

There was also surprisingly few entries from the East Coast. Judges speculated that the slow housing market there has greatly decreased innovation. "When times are tough, builders are going to hold back and stick with the tried and true that sells well, not be innovative and take a risk."

The Builder's Choice awards is an annual selection of the best national builders have to offer, sponsored by the magazine and the National Association of Home Builders.

More than 550 projects were submitted for the awards, Thirty-six winners were selected - one project of the year, one focus on affordability award, 10 grand awards, 20 merit awards, and four special focus awards.

Relatively small at 1,652 square feet, this house is affordable but not Spartan. Despite its compact size, the designers have managed to include many of the features that buyers frequently request.

The master suite has a private bathroom with twin vanities. Extra storage space is available in a utility room, accessible from inside as well as from the garage. The kitchen/ family room features a sunny eating bay and large fireplace, and the front entry has French doors.

All three bedrooms are grouped together at one end of the house.

Financing differs for kit homes

(AP) - If you're considering buying a factory-built house, bear inmind that coming up with the eash for a manufactured house - be it a log house; panelized house or modular structure - can be far more complicated than getting a mortgage on a house you'd buy through a real estate agent.

Before you even begin talking to lenders, you should know that you will have to raise more cash than just the materials supplied in the manufacturer's kit. You've also got to finance what the factory doesn't provide - such as plumbing, electricity, heating and cooling systems, interior details - such as cabinets and improvements to the site (water well and septic system).

FOR EXAMPLE, site preparation work, such as cutting and removing trees, grading the lot, excavating a foundation, drilling a well and installing a septic system can easily run $10,000 to $25,000.

If you use a general contractor who builds the entire house, including hiring subcontractors to do electrical, plumbing and other work, you can add another $30,000 to $50,000 in

Don't forget to add the cost of shipping the package to your site. A rule of thumb here is about $2 per mile for each truck, and many houses require two truck loads.

THE ACTUAL costs you incur will

A good rule of thumb is that a completely finished ready-tomove-into house will: cost you 21/2 to three times the cost of thebasic package.

depend on the size of the house you buy, the quality of materials used throughout and the amount of site work needed. A good rule of thumb is that a completely finished ready-tomove-into house will cost you 21/2 to three times the cost of the basic package.

So that 1,700-square foot log-house kit that sells for $40,000 can actually wind up costing anywhere from $100,000 to $120,000 completely finished. This includes the cost of site preparation but not the cost of the land itself.

While it is possible to finance the land as well as the rest of the house, the whole process goes a lot more smoothly if you already own the land. In most cases, the land amounts to the homeowner's equity in the project — the money you put up front, much like the down payment on a regular mortgage.

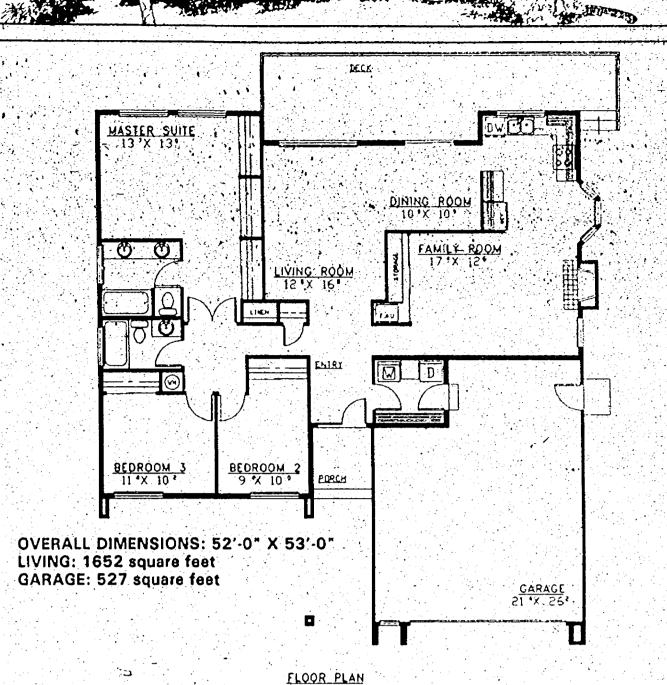

Many mortgage companies and banks have no real system for financing a factory-built house.

GENERALLY SPEAKING, you will probably need two loans - a construction loan and a house mortgage. The construction loan will provide the cash you need for the kit. itself, site improvements and the other expenses you incur along the path from manufacturer's package to a complete house.

Once the house is finished, the construction loan will be paid off and replaced by a long-term mortgage - the same type of loan you would use to buy a conventional house. Usually, you will get these loans from separate lenders - the construction loan from a bank and the mortgage from a mortgage bank such as a savings and loan association or an institution that specializes in house mortgages.

WHILE THERE are exceptions to the rule, very few house manufacturers offer financing. They're in business to sell houses, not lend money. The most important - and complicated - part of the financing is arranging a schedule that lets you tap the construction loan to pay the bills you incur as you build your house. Most banks allow you to do this in a series of four to six draws, each of which is tied to completing a specific stage of construction.

Your customers check the Yellow Pages before they buy, right?

When was the last time you bought a car? You decided you needed one or wanted one and you went right to the Yellow Pages, didn't you?

Of course you didn't, and neither does anyone else.

They find the kind of car they want in what's been printed within the last week. The newspaper. And more often than not this is the newspaper they use.

We've just had a survey done by Belden Associates of Dallas, Texas and their research tells us that 61% of our readers have purchased or leased a motor vehicle in the past two years.

We have a super-rich market for selling everything from cars to carpets. If you are in business be sure your advertising budget isn't being wasted on the Yellow Pages. If you don't buy things by looking in the directory, you can be sure other people don't, either.
