Husband charged in wife's shooting

By Darrell Clem staff writer

A Westland man accused of shooting his wife with a sawed-off shotgun has been charged with trying to kill her Wednesday during a domestic dispute. Harry Ransom, a 37-year-old man awaiting a kidney transplant, fired a single shot from a .12-gauge shotgun and wounded his wife, Janice, in the thigh and stomach at 5:40 p.m.

Don Haigh said. The 35-year-old wife remained hospitalized in stable condition Friday after the bullet was removed from her body. She had undergone surgery twice but was expected to recover, Haigh said.

Ransom stood mute Thursday as he appeared before 18th District Judge Gail McKnight on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison. He also could face a mandatory two-year term on a felony firearms charge.

McKnight ordered Ransom to re-Wednesday, Westland police Sgt. turn to court Thursday for a preliminary examination, during which the judge will hear testimony and decide whether Ransom should stand trial.

McKnight set a $250,000 cash bond for Ransom, who remained in the county jail Friday.

Ransom surrendered to Michigan State Police nearly five hours later in Jackson, where police believe he had gone to see a friend. En route to Jackson, Ransom telephoned Westland police several times to check on his wife's condition, Haigh said.

During the calls, Ransom told police that he had intended to kill someone other than his wife, but that person's identity was not known, Haigh told McKnight. Ransom initially warned police that he would kill himself or force police to shoot him, rather than be arrested, Haigh

Judge: Pastor in abuse case can keep 4 kids

By Darrell Clem staff writer

A Westland pastor who lost custody of his teenage son and daughter after admitting he and their stepmother physically abused them will get to keep his four younger children, a judge ruled Thursday.

Michael and Carol Enersen, who admitted they abused the minister's 16-year-old daughter and 14-year-old son from his previous marriage, will retain custody of their 3-year-old son and three daughters, ages 11, 7 and several months.

Judge Charles McDonald announced his ruling Thursday as the Enersens appeared in juvenile court in Detroit. The decision came 10 months after the couple lost custody of two teenagers that Westland police said had received human bite marks and severe brulses from an oak paddle.

Juvenile defender Rosemary Chase gave up her battle to have juvenile authorities seize the other four children after two psychologists testified that the youngsters didn't appear to be in danger at home.

"They are relieved," the Enersens' attorney, David Kallman, said Fri- mitted in Detroit Recorder's Court. day during a telephone interview from Lansing. The decision ended months of grueling court hearings for the Enersens, who were placed on five years probation June 17 in a child abuse case that rocked the Westland Full Gospel Church and prompted Enersen to step down from the pulpit for several weeks last summer.

THE TEENAGE children, seized from their parents last March, were placed in foster care amid child abuse charges that the Enersens ad-officials that the youngsters appeared to be safe. State officials reported no indica-

'Heroic' officers aid man

By Darrell Clem

staff writer

A 71-year-old Westland man's death has been blamed on the worst snow storm in a decade in southeast

Eino Korhonen just wanted to lear snow from the driveway of his home on Warren Road, east of Wayne, when he suffered a heart attack Wednesday morning while using a snowblower. Two Westland police officers driving by in a patrol car saw Korhonen, seconds after he collapsed, and stopped to try to rescue him in an effort that one neighbor called "heroic." Police Officer John Handzlik and Sgt. Timothy Speir immediately radioed for an emergency medical crew and then began performing cardiopulmonary resuscitation on the unconscious man to try to keep him alive. He remained alive en route to Garden City Hospital.

"We kept him going until we got him to the hospital." Speir said. "It's unfortunate that he died."

Even though Korhonen died, a neighbor who had been helping him dig out from the snow commended Handzlik and Speir.

"It was just a heroic effort on their part," said the neighbor, who didn't want his name used, he said, because "I think these police officers deserve all the attention."

THE POLICE officers were on the scene within seconds after Korhonen collapsed at 11:05 a.m., the neighbor

"They were really professional," he said. "It was just incredible how quickly they responded and how professionally they worked on him. Even though Eino died tragically, they did everything they could."

The neighbor said he had warned Korhonen earlier to ease off on clearing the snow.

"He just went down like that. He pulled back on the snowblower and then just fell on his back," the neighbor said. "I went up to him and

Prosecutor cites lack of evidence, won't press charges against cabbie

By Bill Casper

No charges will be filed stemming from the allegations of a 20-year-old mentally impaired Westland woman, who claimed during a tearful Jan. 9 reunion with her parents that she had been raped in a motel room in Redford Township. The woman told Redford police that a cab driver held her for 21/2 days in the Hilltop Motel on Telegraph, south of Plymouth Road, where she claims the man sexually assaulted her.

But the Wayne County Prosecutor's office has ruled that the evidence gathered in a police investigation is not sufficient to prove the woman's claim, Redford police officer Tim Oliver said Friday.

THE PROSECUTOR'S office chose not to seek a warrant against the 51-year-old cab driver, and the police investigation has been concluded, Oliver said.

The man, who denied the woman's allegations, told police that he picked her up after she called for a cab and drove her to the Westland Police Department after learning a missing person report had been filed

Ex-municipal worker returns as assessor

By Leonard Poger editor

Karen Hardin has returned to Westland city hall as the community's new municipal property assessor.

She was a Westland municipal employee for 13 years, of which seven were in the assessing department, before leaving in 1988 for a state assessment job

After coming back to Michigan 10 months ago as assessor in the downriver city of Allen Park, she applied for the Westland opening.

She replaces William Schmitt who was fired by Mayor Robert Thomas several months ago.

Hardin, who started her new duties Jan. 9, has a specific goal to achieve as part of her responsibilities to make sure that local properties are assessed at 50 percent of market value as required by the state Con-

"I want to break down the city into neighborhoods to look at the economic conditions factor" to reflect more accurately market values and property tax assessments, she said.

Currently, there is only one economic condition factor applied to the entire city.

Hardin foresees several dozen neighborhoods being identified for assessment purposes.

In reality, there may be little to do for the 1992 assessments, which are frozen at 1991 levels by the state

But Hardin added that there are two property tax reform petition campaigns alined at having the proposals on the November ballot Those proposals could change the assessments for next year, she said.

ALTHOUGH MANY homeowners view local property assessors as an ogre, "I see myself as a technician doing my job to the best of my ability," Hardin said. "The laws (on assessments) are set by the state legislature and we (assessors) administer them."

Generally, Hardin sees her job as running the office, which includes two appraisers and two clerical employees, running as efficiently as in the past.

The new assessor, 51, was born in Detroit and raised in Dearborn Heights. Graduating Fordson High School in Dearborn in 1958, Hardin married, raised four childreh and returned to the work world in 1975 as a city of Westland employee. In 1981, she moved into the assessment department, initially as a secretary and later

In early 1988, she moved to Phoenix, Ariz., to be closer to her children and grandchildren. She was hired by the Arizonia Department of Revenue as an appraiser, handling commercial and industrial properties and supervising a staff which she also trained.

In March of last year, she returned to Michigan as Allen Park property assessment administrator.

Professionally, Hardin is a Certified Assessment Evaluator III, one step from the highest level possible. She was one of 10 candidates for the opening and picked after three finalists were interviewed.

ON A personal level, Hardin said she doesn't miss too much the year-round hot Arizona weather. She commented about the differences of weather in the southwest and Michgian while being interviewed last week one day after a snow storm which dumped more than nine inches of snow on the Detroit area with more coming a day later.

"This is home to me," she said of Westland and Michigan, saying she appreciates the weather changes.

Besides being the mother of four grown children, Hardin is also a grandmother of 11 with two more on Sherron Schultz, a former Westland city appraiser, takes over her new job today (Monday).

A New Baltimore resident, Schultz is a mother of four and grandmother of two.

In her 12-year professional career, Schultz has held a variety of jobs, beginning as secretary to the assessor in Clay Township in southern St. Clair County, just across the river from Canada.

She credits her former boss with encouraging her to eventually become an assessor herself.

"He was very supportive," Schultz said. "He told me I should go for it."

AFTER FIVE years with the township, Schultz worked a year for Appraisal Research, a private firm based in Findlay, Ohlo.

From there, she spent six years as a Westland city

Schultz expects her first days on the job in Redford to be especially busy.

Her immediate goal is to advise Redford property owners of the impact this year's property tax freeze will have on their taxes.

"That's our biggest goal right away," she said. She'll also help the township determine whether it should beef up its own assessment duties, or continue to contract with the county.

"There was a time when it looked like the county was telling communities to do It themselves, now it looks they've hired more people," Township Supevisor James Kelly said. 'They're providing caleteria-style assessing services, so it will be up to the new assessor to evaluate what services we need."

SCHULTZ IS a state-certified level three assessor and is taking classes toward level four certification the state's highest classification.

"That should take about two or three years."

Schultz said she would soon meet with Kelly to determine whether any additional field work needs

Mayor defends board president

staff writer

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas has defended his administration's senior citizens resources director against accusations she conducts school board business at her city off-

Thomas said he remains confident that Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek has kept her duties as Wayne-Westland school board president separated, from her city job as director of the Friendship Center, which provides services and programs for the elder-

"Sylvia runs a real good ship over there," Thomas said, referring to the city-operated Friendship Center on Newburgh Road, just north of Mar-

Kozorosky-Wiacek came under fire earlier this month from school board member Kathleen Chorbagian, who criticized the board president for receiving school district correspondence at her city office.

But five other school board members defended Kozorosky-Wiacek against accusations she acted improperly by having mail delivered to her office from a Chicago-based search firm that's helping the board find a new superintendent.

Political bickering between Chorbagian and Kozorosky-Włacek while nothing new - has escalated in recent weeks. The issue over correspondence from the search firm marks the latest dispute in an ongoing, highly public clash.

"It really just boils down to Chorbagian being on the other side of the political fence," the mayor said.

CHORBAGIAN HAS voiced concerns that Kozorosky-Wiacek might withhold information from other school board members if she receives mail from the search firm at her city office. But other board. members have placed confidence in the board president.

Bill Taylor, the school district's associate superintendent of employee services, has stressed that he receives the same correspondence from the search firm and that Kozorosky-Wiacek has directed him to make sure all board members receive copies.

The mayor noted that many professionals often have non-work related mail delivered to their offices. As long as Kozorosky-Wiacek continues to separate her city and school board duties, he said, "That's no problem." Chorbagian and Kozorosky-Wiacek have been vehemently opposed on several major issues. In October, Chorbagian became angry when Kozorosky-Wiacek and three other board members pressured Superintendent Dennis O'Neill to announce his retirement, amid threats his contract wouldn't be renewed.

Chorbagian has been a strong O'Neill supporter, while a board majority, including Kozorosky-Wiacek, has called for new leadership. O'Neill, currently on a medical leave for hypertension, has announced plans to retire Aug. 31.

City, friends honor Savini on birthday

Councilman Tom Brown (right) shares a laugh in the presentation of a plaque to retired fire chief Ralph Savini. The central fire station was dedicated in Savini's name during a Saturday ceremony.

Family members surround retired fire chief Ralph Savini at the conclusion of a ceremony in which the central fire station was dedicated in his honor.

By Leonard Poger editor

ALPH SAVINI shared Westland history and his 72nd birthday Saturday with special guests — about 100 current and retired firefighters, family members and city officials.

The reason is that the city dedicated the central fire station in honor of Savini's contributions to the fire-fighting profession and his leadership in being the first fire chief for then Nankin Township which was later incorporated as the city of Westland.

There were resolutions recited praising the chief, who retired as chief nearly 13 years ago, and plenty of humorous tales aimed at Savini or generated by him.

Savini told of the conversation he had with another retired city worker who said there were two major events in the city's history: the installation of a left-turn arrow at the Ford-Wayne Road intersection and the chief's retirement.

"I don't mind playing second fiddle to a traffic light," said Savini in praising the many firefighters he has worked with in a career that began in November 1950 when he joined the village of Wayne department.

He gave a public "thank you" to those he served with.

DOWNPLAYING HIS title as chief, Savini said he sees himself as injust a firefighter and that others he worked with were just an extension of himself.

He also said "I must have done something right," quoting from the popular movie, "The Sound of Music," which he noticed is now playing at the State-Wayne Theater in downtown Wayne.

mental budget being cut in a "hatchet job" shortly after he was named the first chief of the newly formed Nankin Township fire department on January 1963.

_ Savini also told of his first depart-

The budget cuts prompted him to think of "throwing in the towel" and quitting.

But he reconsidered after thinking of what may happen to him if he told his wife, Joanne, that he was quitting.

"If I told her I would quit my $9,000 job, she would be now serving a prison term," he said, suggesting that she might have murdered him in anger.

Ralph Savini shows off the plaque that will be displayed in the central fire station. He was honored on his 72nd birthday during a dedication ceremony Saturday in which the station was named in his honor. Savini served as Nankin Township-Westland fire chief for 16 years before his retirement in early 1979.

OTHERS SHARING stories of Savini and praising him for his leadership in organizing the department and helping it grow for the 16 years under his direction were city councilman Tom Brown, who was a township board member when Savini was first hired as chief; Fire Chief Larry Lane, former chief Ted Scott, Mayor Robert Thomas, state Rep. Justine Barns and former Wayne fire Lt. Owen McGill, a longtime close friend.

McGill also led the audience in an impromptu singing of "Happy Birthday"

Brown said the dedication of the fire station in Savini's name was initially planned for last year when the city of Westland was having a yearlong 25th anniversary celebration.

The city council approved the fire hall naming in July, but the ceremony was delayed until Saturday to coincide with the honoree's 72nd birthday.

Planning the ceremony was a committee made up of city Clerk Diane Fritz, council liaison Joseph Benyo, Ted Scott, councilwoman Sharon Scott, Brown and councilman Kenneth Mehl. Brown and Mehl served as anniversary committee cochairs last year.

BUT HE ISN'T playing. Winebrener's job is to show how the machinery works and the advantages it would provide students. He would also help train fellow teachers to use the new equipment.

The district proposal is a 1.05mill ($1.05 per $1,000 state equalized valuation), 30-year bond issue for technology and building improvements.

The debt millage would replace an expiring levy of equal value, so school officials emphasize that taxes will not rise if the initiative passes next month.

If rejected, the average homeowner would save $25 a year in the first five years, and slightly more in following years, said Jack Kirksey, the administrator organizing the campaign.

Kirksey also noted that, if approved, the money would not be subject to redistribution to other districts as part of the state's tax base sharing plan.

AFTER SEEING THE technology lab's hardware, the proposal really becomes much clearer and It becomes more understandable to 'people," said Jay Young, community relations director.

The room was set up last month. Most of the machinery is on loan. "We felt you can talk a lot about technology, but you really had to see it in action," said Kirksey. . Take, for example, CD ROM equipment, which stores millions of bits of information on a compact disc. The 21-volume Grolier Encyclopedia is stored on a disc. Winebrener shows how a student researching President John F. Ken-the student could listen to a Kennedy speech on speakers or headphones. Even the best print encyclopedia can't offer sound.

DEMONSTRATING THE larger laser disc. Winebrener taps several computer commands to call up a full motion video on a television monitor. A biology teacher could very quickly use video on cell divi-

1 There are laser disc applications in just about every subject, from physics to math to writing, Winebrener said.

-"Right now, we're still working with technology that is up to 12 years old."

About two-thirds of the $62 million bond sale proceeds would pay for hardware, software or building renovation to accommodate the new equipment. Some building instructional material centers would be enlarged, for example.

The other third would be used to upgrade school buildings. They would become barrier free and would get better emergency lighting systems, for example.~

Garfield Elementary would receive $3 million in renovation to correct design flaws.

OLIVER SAID the woman claimed she was sexually assaulted. He said the woman was tested for evidence of rape, but he declined to reveal the test results.

The return to her parents ended an agonizing search in which her parents combed area neighborhoods and hospitals. Although she's 20, the woman has the mental and emotional development of a 15-year-old, her mother said.

She had gone for a walk from her Elias Street home about 2 p.m. on Jan. 7. About 21/2 hours later, she telephoned her parents from her exboyfriend's residence in Livonia, her mother said.

But the woman didn't come home after making the call. The ex-boyfriend told her parents that she had taken a cab that was supposed to have dropped her off at Palmer and Merriman, not far from her home.

Moore said police have confirmed that the woman had been staying with the cab driver in a motel room.

Hearings set on reapportionment

By Tim Richard staff writer

A three-judge state Court of Appeals panel will hold public hearings next week in Detroit on plans to reapportion the Michigan Legisla-

Judges T. John Lesinski, Harold Hood and William Peterson will meet in Detroit in public sessions to hear arguments on Monday through Wednesday, Jan. 27-29.

The Legislature itself was unable to agree by Jan. 15 on new districts, as required by the U.S. Constitution after each federal census.

"The Democrats wrote incumbent-protection plans. The Republicans wrote computer plans," said Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia.

Bankes said she would have a more difficult time under her own party's plan because it threw her into the same district as Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford.

She said Republicans Georgina Goss of Northville and Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield seemed safe under either plan.

Under the Democratic plan, state Sens. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, and David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, would end up in the same district. The Democratic plan for the 17th District would include Farmington and Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield Township, Novi, Wixomn, Commerce Township, Milford and Highland.

A newly drawn 15th District, which includes Southfield, Bloomfield Township and Pontiac, would have no incumbent.

Under the GOP plan Honigman loses Bloomfield Township but retains the rest of his present district while Faxon keeps Farmington, Farmington Hills and Novi and picks up Bloomfield Township.

State Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-

Birmingham, gains Bloomfield Hills and Ferndale under the GOP plan.

Under both the Democratic and Republican plans, incumbent state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, would lose Redford Township but retain the Livonia; Northville, Plymouth and Canton communities. The 6th District would add Van Burn and Sumpter townships under the Dems. plan and Huron Township under the GOP plan.

Incumbent state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland would pick up Taylor and Huron Township under the Democratic plan. Under the GOP plan, the 12th District would extend even farther downriver to include part of Flatrock and most of Brownstown Township.

Incumbent Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn, would pick up Redford under the Democratic plan. Under the GOP plan he would lose all but a very small portion of Dearborn.

NEITHER PARTY'S plan came to a vote on deadline day, Jan. 15.

In addition, two maverick lawmakers - Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe, and Rep. Tom Power, R-Traverse City - tossed their own plans into the hopper.

The number of state legislators will remain the same: 38 senators and 110 representatives. But population shifts are expected to cost Detroit one of its five Senate seats and four or five House seats. Western Oakland County is expected to gain one House seat, and a new Senate seat is likely for the Macomb-Oak-

Republicans hold a 20-18 majority in the Senate; Democrats have a 61as Common Cause or minorities.

"I don't see anybody happy," said Rep. Jerry Bartnik, D-Temperance, whose Monroe County district could be changed drastically. "I'm depending on the court."

LAWMAKERS have two more weeks before they have to release new congressional districting maps. Those will be more controversial because Michigan loses two House seats — from 18 to 16.

"We'd like to think the Legislature could work something out, but as is probably par for the course, it will, probably end up going to the courts," said John Trustcott, spokesman for Gov. John Engler.

The parties are jockeying for position. Democrats, who hold an 11-6: edge, are resigned to losing one of their members. Democrats think one Republican seat should go, too. Republicans think Democrats should take both losses.

The final decision likely will be made a three-member U.S. Court of Appeals panel headed by James Ryan, former judge of the Redford District Court, Wayne Circuit Court and Michigan Supreme Court.

ARTHRITIS AND EARLY RETIREMENT

The first consideration in taking an early retirement is to evaluate the status of your arthritis. Are you exhausted at day's end, and never free from aching and discomfort? Have you done what was possible to modify your workplace environment? Does your physician feel that present therapy cannot be expected to provide further relief? Are alternative therapies available, or have all reasonable treatments been tried and found wanting or too hazardous? If your mobility is insufficient for your present work, is their alternative employment open to you whose physical requirements are within your capabilities?

Next you need to evaluate if retirement now will bring on a loss of self esteem, cause you to lose a circle of friends, or diminish a social life that you enjoy. In short, can you take on the psychological changes that comes with leaving the workplace? Finally you must consider your financial status. You need to review if there are funds and income that would permit you to pay your bills and meet the possibility of inflation in You may find after reviewing this check list, that retirement now is out of the question. If so, you should approach your work and shape your attitude in a way that will minimize

Blue bin leaves columnist red-faced

TUESDAY IS TRASH DAY in our West Bloomfield neighborhood.

Now that's not normally a major. event requiring a whole lot of ad-! vance planning or reason to be ner-

You see West Bloomfield was about to begin its voluntary curbside recycling program. And I wasn't ready despite the fact that:

eady despite the fact that:

b. I had signed up for the program; c. I had, sitting in the garage, the regulation 18-gallon bright blue bin which one day over the holidays showed up on my driveway like an lorphan walting to be taken in. The truth was I had misplaced the information mailed out several weeks before by the township, and: a. I wasn't quite sure when the recycling actually started. 'b. I wasn't quite sure what to do. -

AT OUR HOUSE, I have always been the one to put out the trash. You know how, over the years, you divvy up chores? Well, early on in our marriage, somehow the trash became, one of mine.

Dog on the leash from the right ... arm, trash hag dragged from the left arm, I took out the garbage the night before our first pickup in January with an uneasy feeling.

It was dark, so I didn't really notice what my neighbors had put out. Maybe I didn't want to know.

But Tuesday morning, as I drove out of my driveway and down the street, I cringed in embarrassment. About a third of the houses had THAT BRIGHT BLUE BIN outside, and some of those had bundles of newspapers next to them, either neatly tied or bagged.

My neighbors knew, and they: a. Hadn't come out in print as an advocate. b Didn't work for a newspaper which keeps up with those things.

NEXT WEEK, I silently vowed, it's going to be different. I called the township to ask for instructions. I also happened upon the printed information which I had put aside, but couldn't remember where

Sunday. I got down to serious re-

I combed the kitchen trash can, scouling up empty plastic and glass; containers - absolutely no metal was to be found.

The lirst two plastic containers, after much scrutiny, turned out to be No. 6's. Oh dear, you can only use Nos. 1 and 2. "Are you sure?" I asked my husband. Yep.

I finally had one clear glass jar (acceptable), one green glass bottle (acceptable), and one plastic container which had the right number on it. (We don't eat at home a lot.)

They're going to laugh at you when they open the bin and find only three things in it," he laughed. "Why not wait until next week?'

"No way. I'll just put the newspapers right in there too."

WHEW! WE HAVE MORE than our share of newspapers. We get the Free Press, the Wall Street Journal and since part of my job is to read every newspaper in our twicea-week, 12-paper chain, a lot of those come home as nighttime reading.

My husband, late last year, had purchased a wooden crate complete with string made especially for recycling newspapers. I had every intention of using it, then carting the. newspapers to the recycling center, but had not followed through.

But now, it was there, ready and walting for our new lifestyle.

"I feel really good about putting out my garbage," my sister-in-law assured me. She lives in Birmingham which, like a number of our communities, began curbside recycling last year.

I know I'll feel good too, as soon as I can overcome my curbside anxie-

Station did right thing refusing to air program

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT'S

I commend WJBK-TV Channel 2 for refusing, despite great pressure from several powerful sources, to run "The Little Drummer Boy" this past holiday season.

-An animated cartoon adaptation of the timeless Christmas story scheduled to run on Channel 2 as part of a national hookup, this veision featured a Jewish character as the little drummer boy whose parents had been killed by evil Arab bandits.

It was a heavy-handed, unintelligent, poorly rendered, insensitive program that tried to trade on a well-loved song but had very little else going for it in terms of artistic merit.

The program depicted Arab-Americans in an Inaccurate and brutally unfair light. All the negative Arab stereotypes were there in full evidence - the noses, the garb, the thlevishness, the violence.

It's almost inconceivable to me that in this day and age of increasing cultural diversity and cultural divisiveness, the top executives of a major American network could be ignorant or uncaring enough to consider running such a program on national television.

THE AMERICAN people represent a great, wonderful, vibrant mosaic of races and religions and ethnic cultures.

If this country's television networks don't become sensitized enough to assume a leadership role in portraying each group in a respectful and dignified light, they will be guilty of contributing to a dangerous and growing divisiveness that's spreading across the land. All this, in an era when Americans all need to pull together - not apart.

The alarming successes of Dayid Duke and other vicious demagogues like him make it abundantly clear that there is a vast and growing wave of resentment and prejudice among an as-yet-unknown but substantial number of Americans.

Programs like "The Little

John

Drummer Boy" fan the flames of those prejudices and play right into the demagogaes', hand 1 presume this was far from the net work's intention But we should all be proud that its affiliate station here recognized the danger and injustice in cunning the program and cesisted pressure to do so.

I l'AKE PARTICULAR pleasure in offering Channel 2 this praise, because in the recent past I didn't feel they were so deserving During the 1989 Christmas season, the station ran a pious editorial condemning the new fair-to-all holiday policy I had initiated as assistant superintendent of Rochester Schools The station also came out and filmed some stories on me when I and the Rochester Board of Education were under heavy siege by parents who wanted me fired because of that policy and for other similar reasons

The station gave the angry parents plenty of air time, but they edited out nearly all of my explanatory comments and made it almost appear that I was some kind of bigot. What I was doing was fighting bigotry

To give the TV people the benefit of the doubt, I don't believe they had taken the time to research the situation sufficiently to quite grasp which direction I was coming from on all of the issues.

I relish their recent stand on "Drummer Boy" Channel 2's square again with me-

Wish for '92: new holiday mindset

"IS THAT ALL there is . . . is that all there is?"

So goes the prevailing chant this time of year, what with the December holiday gluttony gone.

Instead it's time for the post mortem, the January malaise. Everybody feels hung over from overdoing whatever it is they do: Eating, drinking, gallivanting about.

Those are somewhat forgiveable sins. What isn't is another kind of excess — the growing attitude among Americans that Christmas is, first and foremost, a pig-out on presents.

SOME ARE caught in a blatent web of materialism instead of the spirit of peace and goodwill. The emphasis seems to be more on getting than giving.

The question of the day (Dec. 28, that is) increasingly is "Did you get what you wanted?"

Unfortunately, many times the answer is shocking. "No, I didn't get Super Nintendo.'

For too many youngsters, Christmas means little more than a contest to see who gets the highest pile. After all, have you lately put a stopwatch to the time it actually takes for them to open their gifts?

But if you're wondering who's to blame for this "give me more" attitude, look no further than adults.

They are the folks, who - probably inspired by countless advertising pitches and an urge to have 169 gifts under the tree instead of 168 shopped-until-they-dropped in Sep-. tember, October, November. . . probably even today.

HEY, THERE are plenty of clearance sales to peruse and 50-percent-off deals to take advantage of. Christmas 1992 is on its way.

Where in the world can you read about your own hometown?

In the Observer & Eccentric

Of course, I'm as guilty of this as anyone. But to be truthful, I have tried to scale down the gift gorge in my home and emphasize other "nonmaterial" aspects. .-Those, to cite just a few, namely are friends, family and togetherness. Many others probably did the same, maybe due to the sluggish economy and uncertain futures. A possibility exists that some realized we're sinking deeper into the quicksand of greed and put a lid on their

Who knows how much that last point entered the picture?

But let me emphasize there's absolutely nothing wrong with buying gifts to give during the holidays. Where I have a problem is when people shower presents on others merely to thump their chests or when recipients seem to have a tally sheet

Get rid of the scorecard, please. If that can be done, changing our mindsets for the next holiday season isn't too insurmountable a task as far as New Year's resolutions go.

We sorely need an attitude adjustment, to relish homespun values more than a pair of Nikes.

U.S.-Mexico trade pact called bad for workers

staff writer

The recent U.S.-Mexico free trade pact will hasten the loss of U.S. jobs and cripple the ability of remaining U.S. plants to compete, according to those who testified at a U.S. House hearing Friday in Westland.

More than jobs are lost as U.S. companies relocate to Third World countries, United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber sald. Contin-uing loss of U.S. technology spells grim times for union and non-union workers alike.

"Before, we were competing

Different drum CC ends Warriors' victory chant

By Steve Kowalski staff wrlter

By beating Birmingham Brother Rice away from home Friday night, Redford Catholic Central finally ended the beating it has heard the past three years inside the visiting locker room. CC's 66-52 boys basketball win snapped a three-game losing streak at Rice and also gave Bob Kummer's ears a rest afterward in the locker

"Every year after we lose to Rice, they pound on the doors and we've got to sit in here and listen to it," said Kummer, pointing to the doors between the two locker rooms. "It's been eating at me for four years. I did not want to listen to that again."

CC silenced a fourth-quarter rally by Rice and then made eight of its last nine free throws to win its fifth straight and improve to 7-1 overall. The win left CC all alone atop the Catholic League's Central Division

"THAT'S ALWAYS good because then they have to chase you," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said.

Rice, which made only 21-of-64 shots from the field (33 percent), fell to 5-4 overall and 1-2 in the Central Division. Rice's 6-foot-10 senior center Paul Grant scored 21 points on 10-of-20 shooting but missed a 2-foot shot and was called for an offensive foul in the last two minutes when Rice was trying to cut into a sevenpoint CC advantage.

Senior guard Ken Harris was the only other Warrior in double figures with 13 points. Grant is a load inside for the Warriors, but the senior who has signed with Boston College had his hands full with CC's two 6-6 twin stars Kummer and Chad Varga.

Kummer is headed for the University of North Carolina-Charlotte and Varga to the University of Richmond.

"Everyone is going to double-team Paul, but I'll tell ya, Paul missed his share of shots, too," Rice coach Frank Carrico said. "It's been a problem the whole year - we're shooting around 35 percent as a team. I feel very discouraged. We played hard, but until we learn to play smart, concentrate and keep our composure, this team will never be any good."

VARGA, WHO PICKED up his fourth foul with 4:54 left, led all scorers with 27 points and 10 rebounds, while Kummer contributed 19 points and seven rebounds.

Not many high school teams can boast more height than CC but the Warriors do with Grant next to 6-8 senior forward Jeff Mishko (eightpoints) on the frontline. ...

"Both Chad and Bobby played smart," Holowicki said. "They got a little taunted earlier but didn't lose their cool. They have some tough, big-time people on Rice. Hell, there's not too many college teams as big as they are."

Kummer and Varga earn most of the praise they get but on this night

Holowicki was eager to give support players Tom Laco, Andy Slankster, Sean Gallagher, Will Marcoux and Eric Justice their due.

The Rice cheering section chanted "weasel" every time the 5-6 Justice touched the ball for the Shamrocks, but the junior guard played big when he re-entered the game in the final four minutes.

JUSTICE'S PRETTY pass in the paint with 3:58 left led to a threepoint play by Varga and a 50-43 lead. Marc Gondek's steal and layup gave CC a 52-43 lead with 3:46 left and Justice scored all six of his points in the last two minutes to assure the

"No one understands how good Justice is," Varga said.

Said Holowicki: "Eric grew up and matured on the floor in the second half. He's a fierce competitor."

With Harris scoring eight firstquarter points, Rice led 11-9 after one quarter. Grant scored eight points in the second quarter, including two dunks as the Warriors opened up a 23-18 lead with about three minutes left before halftime.

But after a Harris free throw gave Rice a 24-20 lead, CC scored the last seven points of the half and led 27-24 on Kummer's layup at the buzzer. Rice made only 5-19 shots in the third quarter as the Shamrocks opened up a 41-37 lead heading into the final eight minutes.

"Our motto was 'We're playing Brother Rice, tonight, not Paul Grant,' "Kummer said.

Glenn inside game too much for Chargers

staff writer -

Unemployment may be high and the economy may be struggling, but there is a poten-tial job opening on the Livonia Churchill basketball team.

Wanted: A boy in the Churchill school district. Requirements: Stands 6-feet-5 or 6-6 and can play defense.

The Chargers were missing this cog in their lineup Friday as visiting Westland John Glenn beat Churchill, 69-56, in a Western Lakes Activities Association game.

The Rockets dominated underneath as senior centers Kevin Tomaszewski (18 points) and Ken Taylor (14 points), both who stand 6-6, scored at will against a helpless Charger defense.

"One of our problems is that we have no one underneath the basket able to stop the inside game," Churchill coach Tom Lang said. "Fourteen of their baskets were made points) picked up the slack when their postup teammates needed a rest.

IT WAS THE fifth straight loss for Churchill after winning its season opener (1-5 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA). Glenn broke a two-game losing streak and improved to 2-3 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA.

Trailing-30-21 at-halftime, the Chargers made their first six shots of the third quarter - three coming off 3-pointers - to gain a 36-34 lead. Churchill tore apart Glenn's full-court press, which happened to be the Chargers' first half nemesis.

Rocket coach Pat Bennett then made what both coaches agreed changed the momentum. Glenn switched its zone press to a man-to-man press. The change forced Churchill into several turnovers and the Rockets went on a 12-5 run to end the quar-zone. But they picked it apart and we went to the man. The intensity got better and it led to our points. I credit the players for effectively making the adjustments."

Glenn continued the pressure in the fourth quarter, outscoring Churchill 23-15.

"We kept control of the ball and began making some smart plays," Tomaszewski said. "We never lost our confidence during BENNETT praised Tomaszewski who turned in his best effort of the season.

"Kevin plays very well for a person who didn't begin playing basketball until he was in the ninth grade," Bennett said. "He uses his size to his advantage and he's a good communicator on the floor. He tells his teammates where he's going to be and we were able to get him the ball."

first quarter. The two squads combined for 15 turnovers and shot poorly. The first quarter included five lead changes and five fles as Glenn took an 11-8 advantage into the second quarter.

"I commented at the bench it looked like a pre-school score," Bennett said. "I wondered if it was going to be like this the rest of the game. But-we got more confidence with the press, began making shots and played more at ease."

Lang wasn't concerned the messy first quarter would cost his Chargers the game. but remained concerned afterwards about his team's turnover problem.

"I wanted the first quarter to be a pretty evenly-played game and it was," Lang said. "I didn't think it was the press that bothered us because we made our run against it in the third quarter. It was when they went to 'man.' I think we got tired.

"We have to do something to stop our unenforce turnovers. It wasn't always their defense, we just made bad passes. After we made our (third quarter) run, we made two

THE ROCKETS broke open a 23-21 game by scoring the final seven points of the second quarter.

The Chargers stayed close behind the shooting of senior center Keith Gulian, who scored a team-high 16 points. Brian Johnson and Jermiah Karolak added 11 and 10 points, respectively.

"Keith led us again in scoring," Lang said. "He's been our only consistent scorer. Other players who have scored in double figures scored only two points tonight."

"Mark Rutherford played extremely hard and gave us good minutes. Marcus Sarnovsky also provided leadership and worked hard. He fouled out but that shows his inten-

Glenn made 27 of its 52 field goal attempts (52 percent), while the Chargers shot just 39 percent (24-of-61). The Rockets also held an advantage at the free-throw line, where they converted 12-of-19 attempts (63 percent) compared to Churchill's 5-of-12 shooting.

Spartans topple state's No. 1 team

Livonia Stevenson staked its claim to the top spot in the state hockey. rankings with a 5-3 win Wednesday over No. 1 Trenton in a non-league game played at Edgar Arena.

"It was a prove-it-to-yourself type of game, more or less for bragging rights," said Stevenson coach Paul Ferguson, whose team upped its overall record to 8-1-1. "What we were playing for was the No. 1 ranking in the state. They beat (Birmingham) Brother Rice, who was No. 1 (on Saturday), and as far as we were concerned, it was the first place team (Trenton) against the third place team (Stevenson's ranking). It was for all the bacon."

Stevenson sizzled against Trenton by "taking advantage of our opportunitles," according to Ferguson.

The Spartans opened the scoring at 3:12 of the first period when Chris

hockey

Rennie connected from Kevin Bush and Anthony Flevaris.

Trenton tied it up when Mike Lazorka scored on a power-play goal at 5:12, but Stevenson's Malt Corriveau, on assists from Flevaris and Kit-Mastroberto, made it 2-1 on a power-play effort at 11:16.

It was 2-2, however, after one period when Trenton's Greg O'Brycki scored at 13:57.

IN THE SECOND period, Stevenson killed off 5-on-3 Trenton advantage, while adding a pair of power play goals. At 7:09, Rennie made it 3-2 on a power-play goal from Flevaris and Corriveau.

Later in the period, Stevenson made it 4-2 on Mastroberto's goal, which ultimately proved to be the game-winner, from Flevaris and Corriveau.

Trenton's Matt Green cut the deficit to 4-3 at 1:56 of the third.

"We knew they'd come out like gangbusters, but we were able to put the clamps on them," Ferguson said.

Corriveau, picking up on a back-check, intercepted Trenton clearing pass and scored unassisted into an empty net with exactly one minute to go to ice it for the Spartans.

Earlier in the period, Stevenson once again fought off a two-man disadvantage.

Ferguson singled out the efforts of penalty killers Scott Johnson, Kevin Bush, Doug Delvigna and Frank Eupizi, who recently moved from for-

"Johnson is just a tireless worker," Ferguson said. "He'll-sacrifice his body to block shots. He'll do anything to get the job done."

Stevenson goaltender Mike Williams was also solid in the nets.

"I THOUGHT we played a decent game, even though we got into penalty problems," said Ferguson, whose team collected nine to Trenton's seven. The only blemishes on Stevenson's record this year are a 4-0 early-season loss to Redford Catholic Central and a 0-0 tie just Dec. 21 against the Shamrocks.

"The CC games are always big, but we also pointed toward this one,' Ferguson said. Stevenson travels Feb. 21 to Trenton for the rematch. With the loss, the Trojans are 9-3-2

Pressure point

Franklin puts squeeze on Raiders

staff writer

Judging by Friday's effort against North Farmington, it should come as no surprise that Livonia Franklin is coming off its best week of practice

Franklin wanted to contain the Raiders' guard-oriented offense and that's exactly what it did, winning 63-57 in a Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball encoun-

We came out slow in our last game," senior guard Keith Roberts said, and I think that gave us incentive to work hard in practice this week. I think that hard work carried over to tonight's game.

"We knew that the North guards could shoot the basketball and we game-planned to stop that this

The Patriots improve to 3-2 overall and 1-1 in the conference. North is 2-4, 1-1.

FRANKLIN USED a full-court press and numerous looks on defense to limit the Raiders offensively.

"North Farmington is an excellent shooting team," Franklin coach Rod Hanna said. "They even have kids on the junior varsity that can shoot it. We just wanted to limit their threepoint ability.

"The full-court, pressure we used is no secret because we've been using it for years. I was just real happy with the defensive effort of our team. They all played hard."

Never was the Patriols' tenacious defense, more evident than in the first quarter when they built a 14-4

North coach Tom Negoshian said the aggressiveness and physical nature of Franklin took its toll.

"When the other team plays like that you lose track of what you want to do," Negoshian said. "And I think that happened a little tonight."

Negoshian let his frustration show midway through the first quarter when he was whistled for a technical

"THE TECHNICAL was just something to get my team into the game," Negoshian said. "When I got called for it we were struggling."

Negoshian's technique must have worked because North reeled off five quick points on a layup by Brad Pawlowski and a three-pointer by Jon Sturtz. Franklin led 14-9 after one quarter.

The Patriots capitalized on free throws in the second quarter, making 10 of 11 to hold a 32-25 halftime

Franklin came out in the second half, trying to put the Raiders away and almost did. But eight third-quarter points from Pawlowski helped keep North within striking distance after three, 47-35.

The Raiders kept banging at the door in the final quarter, narrowing the Franklin lead to 59-55 with 1:07 left thanks to a pair of three pointers from Todd Anderson and Pennala.

But momentum shifted back in the Patriots' favor after North guard; Damon Hall was whistled for an over-the back violation and a technical foul with 35 seconds left.

FRANKLIN MADE two of four free throws and retained possession. Russ Keberly rounded out the Patriot scoring with a pair of free throws in the final seconds.

"I think North Farmington lost some momentum after the two fouls were called late," Hanna said. "They had a nice run going. I think we have to work on playing with a lead."

Roberts paced Franklin with a game-high 26 points. Senior forward Joe Jarvis and Keberly each added

"I think that says a lot when we can have three guys score in double digits," Hanna said. "I think we are capable of doing that every night."

- Pennala tallied 18 points in a losing cause for North. Pawlowski and Anderson contributed 13 and 12, respectively.

Mustangs flatten Stevenson

Northville's Chris Lehr was certainly king for a day. The senior guard led all scorers with 21 points and hit a pair of key three-point shots down the stretch to lift the host Mustangs to a surprising 69-65 triumph over Livonia Stevenson in a Western Lakes Activities Association battle.

Northville is now 4-3 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA, while Stevenson dropped to 4-2 and 1-1.

"This is a very big win for us," Northville coach Omar Harrison said. "We shot very well. We hit seven 3s (three-pointers) where normally we have only one or CLARENCEVILLE 50, LUTH. WESTLAND 48: On Friday, Livonia Clarenceville (5-2) held off visiting Lutheran High Westland (1-6) in a non-league game.

Senior forward Dan Nunnery tallied 14 points for the winners, while freshman guard Dedrick Harrington and sophomore Mark Kalaj each contributed nine.

Junior forward Rich Mobiley notched a game-high 20 points and grabbed 13 rebounds for the Warriors. Junior center Kevin Nelson added 10 points and 14 rebounds, while junior guard Phil Spoljarick had four assists, seven points and three steals.

Clarenceville led 27-15 at intermission before the Warriors, behind their full-court pressure defense, rallied to tie it at 44all in the final period.

Clarenceville regained the lead, but Mobley's three-point shot with 31 seconds left cut the deficit to two.

Clarenceville then missed a one-and-one free throw opportunity, but Lutheran Westland couldn't get off a shot before time "We went one-for-12 (field goals) in the second quarter, but we played an exceptional second half," Lutheran Westland coach Scott Wiemer said. "Our full-court man-to-man pressure seemed to give them some problems." Clarenceville made only five of 10 free throws. Lutheran Westland was 12 of 22.

All 12 players scored for the Zebras, now 6-1 overall and 4-0

Senior guard Lee Williams and junior guard Dontez Prewitt contributed 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Wayne jumped out to a 21-7 first quarter advantage and lead by 19 after three quarters, 54-35.

Mike Phillips scored 16 to pace Fordson, now 3-4 overall and 2-2 in the league. "I was happy with the way we played," Wayne coach Chuck

Henry said. "We wanted to be 4-0 in the league at this point." Wayne battles visiting Belleville at 7 tonight for first place in the Wolverine A. Both teams are unbeaten in the league.

Gilvydis looms large in Hawks' win

Paul Gilvydis — all six feet, eight We tried to block him out, but we inches of him — stood tall Friday didn't do a very good job."

The senior center broke loose for 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds,powering Farmington Hills Harrison to a 61-57, overtime victory over visiting Plymouth Salem in a Western Lakes Activities Association basketball encounter.

Harrison outscored the Rocks 6-2 in the three-minute extra session to run its overall record to 4-2. The Hawks are 1-1 in the WLAA. Salem, now 4-3 overall, is also 1-1 in the conference.

"Paul took the game over," Harrison coach Mike Teachman said. "Some of his points came on putbacks, but we still haven't realized he's our go-to guy.

"Tonight he got himself more involved. It was his best game ever." Salem coach Bob Brodie, whose team was outrebounded 47-30, echoed Teachman's sentiments.

"He (Gilvydis) was hot," he said. The way he was good was on the offensive glass, where he just killed us on the boards.

"They (Harrison) missed some shots, but he kept it (the ball) alive.

The Rocks, bolstered by a Harrison technical foul resulting in four straight free throws from senior center Mike Abraham (14 points), made an eight-point run to gain a 48-41, second-half lead.

But Harrison stepped up the de-fense to get right back in it, pulling even at 48-all as the two teams played virtually even the rest of the

Salem's 6-6 sophomore center James Head tipped in a shot with just under 10 seconds left to play and sent the game into overtime at 55-

He came off the bench to lead Salem with 18 points and 12 rebounds. Junior guard Mike Sione added 11.

Andy Fitzpatrick, a 6-4 senior, contributed 11 points and 13 rebounds for the Hawks. Senior Duante Anderson added 10 points.

Harrison won despite making only 12 of 29 free throws, including two of six in OT. Gilvydis, however, made six of seven.

"We wanted to get to the free throw line but didn't capitalize," Teachman said.

Salem, meanwhile, went 11-of-12 from the stripe, including 8-of-8 by Abraham.

"Offensively, again we shot the ball too quickly at times from the perimeter, and there were times when we got caught in the wrong combination defenses," Brodie said. "But we're a young team and hopefully we'll learn. We're like young colts, but we'll eventually break them.

RU returns as O&E Relays host

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

The Observerland Boys Track Relays are returning to Redford Union. RU athletic director Jim Gibbons announced Friday that RU will host the 22nd annual event, scheduled for Saturday, May 2. RU was the original site of the Observerland Relays, but in the early '80s it was decided the aging cinder track was no longer resilient enough to host a major Livonia Churchill has hosted the event the past several years, but Chargers athletic director Don Albertson agreed this year to move to RU, which last fall installed a new all-weather track. The fact Churchill is still searching for a head coach and an assistant coach also played a role in moving the Observerland Relays to RU, Albertson said. Gibbons said he would like to rotate the Observerland Relays each year between Churchill

"It's coming home and we're happy to take it," Gibbons said. "We threw out the idea (of hosting the Relays) to let people know we were interested. I think Churchill has done a nice job with it. It's a lot of work, but the people here have a lot of pride.

"When I came here 18 years ago the people here took pride in handling it. I remember that night all the teachers volunteered, and I look . year."

Bowling centers open despite snow

UST WHEN YOU thought we were going to have a mild.winter, old mother nature gives us a wake up call.

Last Tuesday, a blast of winter air left us with a foot of snow and plenty of closed schools, shopping malls and churches. But somehow it was business as usual at most local bowling centers. Although many leagues called off competition, the doors were still open at most of the areas bowling establish-

I guess it's always good to know that if you can't go to work or school, you' can always go bowling.

• There are so many times I get reports of bowlers rolling 300 games, but seldom do I get a chance to witness the feat.

A few weeks ago, Harold Lublin, a fellow member of the Inter-Lodge Masonic League, tallied a perfect score at Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield.

There's so much tension involved in throwing a 300 game, it's electric. Some bowlers choke when they are on a 300 pace, but not Southpaw Hal.

Lublin became the first bowler in the 50 year history of the Inter-Lodge Masonic League to roll a perfect game. Congratulations, Hal.

• Andy Deverich, a 17-year old from Westland would have had a perfect game in the Wednesday Night Men's Trio at Town and Country Lanes had it not been for a solid eight-pin tap in the seventh frame.

Deverich, who still managed to roll a nifty 279, would like the same score on Feb. 2 when the WWMBA 700 Tournament finals roll around. The finals will be held at Town and Country Lanes.

Walled Lake Central wins divisional match

Walled Lake Central won an early season volleyball showdown in the Western Lakes Activities Association Wednesday with a 15-13, 15-7, 15-10 Lakes Division victory over host Livonia Stevenson.

Shannon Capstick, 15-of-17 on attacks, led the winners with eight kills. Teammate Tracie Clendenen added seven kills on 32-of-37 attacks.

Junior Bridgette Norris went 13for-20 attacking with six kills and eight blocks. Jacle Friend had 37 assists, including 12-of-16 serving.

"Central played very composed," Stevenson coach Lee Cagle said. "They have outstanding quickness. Defensively, they outplayed us from every standpoint. "Most of all, we were just so tight we could never get our composure. Even when we were up in the third game (leads of 5-1 and 10-8), the kids were not confident they could win it.

"It's a match we have to learn from. If we get some breaks down the road, hopefully we can still win our division." Stevenson's steadiest performer back row specialist. The loss drops to the Spartans to 13-7-2 overall, while Central upped its record to 9.4.

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE made it two straight without a loss in the Metro Conference Thursday with a 15-6, 15-3 victory over host Harper Woods. The Trojans, 4-2 overall, were led by senior middle hitter Leandra Holfman, who had eight kills in 10 attacks with no errors. She also contributed five service aces. "She's a very aggressive team leafler and her skills speak for themselves," Clarenceville coach Alisha Love said.

Junior outside hitter Michelle Loukojarvi added three kills, while junior middle hitter Jodi Graham collected six digs and six blocks.

Senior defensive specialist Monica Kaipio also had six digs.

"We played exceptionally well and I was very impressed with each and every one of them," Love said. "If you could have watched them play in the tourney (Saturday's Madonna Invitational) and watched them in this match, you'd say it was not the same team.

Bringing Crowbar Hotel together musically are John Latini and his brother Jim, Kurt Wolak, Bob Groves and John Bisceglia.

Crowbar Hotel finds lyrical groove

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

On first appearance, Crowbar Hotel bears resemblance to a typical lounge act. Neon lights, keyboards and the, ceiling fan whirring above could be construed as cursory indictments.

But when John "Jones" Latini takes a left-handed stab at his guitar and growls into the microphone, the misconception quickly fades like smog in a windstorm. Crowbar Hotel is nothing less than an engagingly tight live outfit.

Tearing through an hourlong set at Sully's, the five-man outfit touches all the bases. There's inflections of experimental jazz, a few howls of blues inspiration and world music sensibilities with the veneer of gritty, urban rock'n'roll expression,

"Certainly there's a groove going," said Latini, in his distinct Queens, N.Y., voice. "I think the songs are somewhat intellectual. The words are made to be listened to and people will listen to them if you put them across in the right way."

If Crowbar Hotel hasn't figured out the right way, the band at least holds the map.

THERE HAVE been a few detours, though, in Crowbar Hotel's emergence of the last nine months. The band's roots on the area circuit actually extend back three years.

Kurt Wolak and Latini were members of Private Drive, an ambitious outfit whose energetic live sets featured an assortment of covers and Latini and Wolak - whose clinical and analytical nasal tone contrasts that of his collaborator found a new set of musicians who shared in their vision. They enlisted lead guitarist Bob Groves and bassist John Bisceglia.

"We found players that fit the style of music we play," Wolak said. "We're a little more composed now. The songs are distinctive for reasons other than Jones' voice.' The most important addition is more than just music for Latini. His younger brother Jim "J.B." Latini left his home in New York to join, making Crowbar Hotel's lineup complete. His tenacious style of drumming provides an edge.

For his older brother John it's a chance to make up for lost time.

'I get to know him now and hang out with him.' John Latini said. "We get to shoot hoops and stuff like that. We had eight years between us (John is 32, Jim is 25). When you're young, it seems like a lot. With him moving here it's just peer to peer-

WITH HIS arrival comes a legacy of Latini songwriting. Both John and Jim collaborated on numbers in New York bands they played in. Those numbers have been imported into the Crowbar Hotel's blistering sets and on the band's EP "The Starting Five." Other band members have contributed songs in what has become an all-originals Several numbers embrace the energy and uncertainities of urban life, seemingly sketched in possess a combination of Elvis Costello's wry wit and Lou Reed's piercing commentary. And in an area where visits to the city are viewed with wariness and outright abhorrance, songs like "Schoolyard Sweetheart" seem to be almost a celebration of urban dwelling. Part of the reason is certainly Latini's gravelly voice, which sounds like he's gurgling a mixture of metal shavings and whiskey. So soulful and heartfelt, he can lend immediacy and authenticity to politically charged numbers like "Freedom Road" without sounding the least bit naive.

CERTAINLY, not lost, though, is the musical adroitness of Wolak on keyboards, Groves on guitar, Bisceglia on bass and brother Jim Latini on drums. The band sways easily a rock cop rave-up like "Red Light" to complex jazz-tinged numbers. The group has always put a lot of stock into their live shows. The studio version of Crowbar Hotel has yet to reach fruition, though the band's EP is a viable product by any standard. Talks include releasing a self-produced compact disc, which would be recorded in a basement studio Wolak is building. In the meantime, Crowbar Hotel is happy to play the stage. Our influences and emotions are coming out through the vehicle of music," Latini said.

Crowbar Hotel performs Tuesday, Jan. 21; at the Blind Pig, 208 S. First, Ann Arbor. The band also performs Wednesday, Jan. 29, at. Sully's, 4758 Greenfield, Dearborn. For information, call 846-1920.

REVIEWS

MONKEYSUIT - Hannibals

The Hannibals second release, 'Monkeysult," is more than a mustcal statement from one of the area's more formidable bands. There is a need here to transcend the restrictive boundaries imposed by the "college circuit." And yet they have to caler to the very audience that has supported them in the past.

The line is a fine one and the foursome doesn't walk it tenuously.

Rather, the Hannibals plunge ahead unabashed with declarative vocals and powerful guitar-charged rock'n'roll. The darmarks of a university-reared band are still there: A tingle of R.E.M. influenced jangly guitar, a cross section of universal themes and worldly pursuits in the lyrics.

"Monkeysult," though, reveals a bigger and more of a sonic bite to the Hannibals sound. The band pushes the limit of its abilitles, yielding several highlights and, conversely, displaying some frayed edges as "Shaken," the opening cut, features with Chris Geherin's driving guitar augmented with Chris Johnston's end-of-the-tether vocals. This is what the Hannibals do best, using pastoral imagery to convey a base of reflection and then letting rip with cutting and passionate rock'n'roll.

"Course of Mississippi" has an engaging beat and proudly wears the mud from treading too near the banks of exhaustion with its buoyant roots guitar approach and inflection of blues harmonica.

On "Even As We Speak," the band is quick to dispel any preconceptions of being Midwest, hayseed outfit as this number takes a funky, uptown

If anything will sustain this LP, it's the subtities. "Moneysuit," a number about the dreadful emergence into the corporate world, provides an intriguing bit of country guitar resembling the theme from "Bonanza." while "Long Days" with its soft acoustic meanderings and hypnotic vocals rivals "Shaken" as. one of the choice cuts on "Monkey-

As a vocalist, Johnston relies on the emotional wail and throaty growl for emphasis. This leaves his voice to sound overwrought at times while, at his worst, as in the durgid "Walk Alone," he is guilty of perpetuating bombast.

Weighed against what the Hannibals offer overall, this might be registered as an observation rather than a complaint.

It's punk, pop with a Chunk

By Larry O'Connor staff writer .

Superchunk's sound is the unlikely synthesis of anarchic punk and uncanny mainstream pop sensibilities. This Chapel Hill, N.C., quartet doesn't need their alternative credentials validated by anyone.

Superchunk implodes with a caterwaul of noise, grungy guitars and drooping bass lines and sullen vocals. In the stew, though, are dellcious hooks that don't need to be counteracted by Nutra-Sweet. The indelible riffs and melodies emerge through passion and virtue of intent.

"I like it to be a combination of things - good guitar lines and good vocal lines," says guitarist and vo-calist Mac McCaughan, 24, in a telephone interview. "Sometimes, the vocals are an important part, sometimes they are just added on top of a catchy riff,"

The complexitles of the band's music would belie any brief summations, McGaughan nonetheless tries.

Superchunk's pulsating power pop is attributed by McGaughan to listening to the radio, buying all sorts of records from "punk rock to the wussiest of pop stuff" and reaching a common ground as a band.

SUPERCHUNK'S relative success, critical and otherwise, is credited by McGaughan to good songs and excessive touring.

"We've gotten in people's faces pretty often," he sald. The band had a less than an audacious beginning. McCaughan joined forces with bass player Laura Bal- tled LP, which garnered critical aclance and some other friends from his Chapel Hill neighborhood. Ballance and McCaughan worked at Pepper's Pizza while the singer was home from school at Columbia Unlversity in New York.

In the beginning, Superchunk gigs were few and came only during McCaughan's break from school. The sic to Dinosaur Jr.'s guitar blitz, group managed to release a single which McCaughan disdains. on Merge Records, the label operated by McCaughan and Ballance.

SURPRISINGLY, it's the kids who pick up en grandma's feelings most quickly. Their parents, young children during the bombing in 1945, selfishly hope their newly forged relationship with the rich American relatives will lead to jobs in the States.

Kurosawa makes his statements with bold brush strokes and imagery. Elderly natives make regular pilgrimages to the Nagasaki schoolyard, where playground equipment remains twisted and charred. The kids seek out these monuments in an attempt to get closer to their family history.

The director has an incredible way of bringing characters to life and placing them in the most beautiful groupings He delights in photographing the children, who file past the swaying reeds to their grandma's house or linger in amazement at the pair of charred trees ("a double suicide" they call it) that figures promi-

In Kurosawa's previous film 'Dreams," he oddly cast director Martin Scorsese as Vincent Van Gogh. Here, Richard Gere makes a brief appearance as the Japanese-American nephew who somehow never puts two and two together when thinking about his aunt in Nagasaki. He arrives to smooth things over.

PERHAPS THE the director sees Gere as the embodiment of American popular culture, which is at odds, , with tradition throughout the film. It is unlikely that the uncompromising Kurosawa has decided after all these years to start pandering to the international box office.

For Gere's part, he seems honored to be working in a film of this caliber, carefully memorizing his Japanese lines. Like his character, hais a conspicuous intruder in Nagasaki, and overcomes the awkwardness in a couple of touching scenes.

The most ironic thing about "Rhapsody in August" is its timing, opening shortly after America remembered the bombing of Pearl Harbor during its 50th anniversary last December. Kurosawa insists this is merely a coincidence, but has nonetheless gotten us to look at the devastation of war from a unique point of view.

The year's first must-see film plays for a second weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Golden age of glamour

French Riviera's sophisticated aura endures

By Tony Rocca New York Times Syndicate

The French Riviera has inspired artists, writers and hedonists for more than a century.

Remarkably, its aura of glamour and sophistication endures at a time when high rises and fast foods have destroyed the atmosphere in other Edens though the visitor may disagree. when crowds clog roads and beaches in summer. The region now attracts about 8 million visitors annually.

It was in winter that the aristocratic rich first fell for the charms of this narrow coastal strip between the Alps and the Mediterranean, extending roughly from the Italian border to Hyeres.

Nearly all of Europe's crowned heads were once drawn by the mild climate (48 degrees is the January average; 68 is not unusual).

So uninterested was the upper crust in the Mediterranean's beaches and the notion of swimming that when the famed Negresco Hotel first opened its doors in Nice in 1913 they faced north, away from the sea. Passing through Monaco, Victoria ordered her train's curtains drawn.

Where crinolined ladies paraded, toplessness is now theorder of the summer day. The Promenade des Anglais in Nice is an eight-lane race track, three miles long.

A ferocious construction boom threatens to engulf the whole coast in concrete. Yet visitors still benefit from blue skies in winter - the only time that this Cote d'Azur lives up to its name, for in summer's heat the skles turn

Carmine sunsets and a tableau of mimosa, bougainvillea, parasol pines and saw-toothed palms complete the picture, from snowcrowned mountains to deep blue

The Riviera's golden age of tourism is echoed in its Belle Epoque villas, the wedding cake facades on its Edwardlan promenades and in the coast's capes.

For warm weather getaway you'd better shop around

We went to Nassau, Bahamas, for the weekend recently and came home to a foot of spow. Micky shovels snow in a woolen cap that reads "It's Better In the Bahamas," which doesn't help.

A warm weather getaway at a great price sounds irresistible, but I learn and relearn that old lesson: do your homework. The fine print says that those $299 prices are midweek, limited in number and priced for the least expensive hotel.

I read the local papers as well as the New York Times, and checked packages available through travel agents. The most popular and inexpensive packages from Detroit are to Nassau, Bahamas and Cancun, Mexico.

I chose Nassau. Pan Am flew a lot of the package flights to the Bahamas, and Pam Am is out of business, so some tour packages weren't available despite the ads.

We booked too late to get 21-day advance discounts, so our package was $500 a person including Delta Airline flights, land transfers and four nights at the Best Western British Colonial Resort Thursday through Monday.

Nassau usually includes the British Colonial in downtown Nassau. Prices are higher for Paradise Island, across the bridge from eastern downtown or Cable Beach, up Bay Street a few miles to the west. I had never stayed at the British Colonial, the only hotel I would consider in town, but I've passed the grand old lady of Nassau often enough. From a cruise ship it's a great U-shaped sprawl of pink stucco wrapped around a small private beach and a courtyard full of palm had to go to work. I knew that Best Western had spent $8 million on renovations since 1988, so I booked it and hoped for the best. I was lucky.

The lowest-priced standard rooms face the parking lot or the street, but they are just as spacious, clean and attractive as the higher-priced garden and ocean views. (The only small rooms seem to be those with one double bed.)

I had made a good choice, but there is always something I miss. Nassau hotels add a 10-percent tax to the published room rate, plus $2.50 per person per night for maid service. That cost was not included in our package price, so it added $22 a day to out budget.

Family shares recipes

How could I resist? When an advanced copy of "Mom and Pop Udo's Favorite Old Country Recipes From Eastern Europe" (Copyright 1990 by Rita Udo, $11.95) crossed my desk, I couldn't wait to get a review from a lady who still wears babushkas and hodsecoats, my Granted, momma doesn't herald right from the old country as do Mom and Pop Udo, but there's little doubt that she knows her Holubkis from her Hagymas. (For the uniniated, that's stuffed cabbage from onions.)

But before I get to momma's comments, a little background on the Udo's and how this book came to fruition.

The book was written by Rita Udo, oldest daughter and one of three Udo's who were post-war immigrants from Ukraine and Hungary. Mom and Pop Udo came to America like other immigrants with hopes of building their dreams and lives in the land of opportunity and freedom. They now live in Canton Township.

The book began as a labor of love for family members when Rita Udo, the author decided to compile the elder Udo's favorite recipes as a family legacy. Mom's recipes, coupled with Pop's stories, originated from a time when people fought and struggled for their lives and freedom. At a time when folks like the Udo's did not have much to share, sharing a meal prepared with love and care was indeed a joyous occasion.

One thing led to another and before long, orders were coming in from neighbors and family friends. Now in its second printing, it's very evident the recipes are nothing short of "cooking from the heart."

Not knowing the difference between palacsintas and paprikash, I knew that there is only one person who would offer constructive criticism while enjoying the opportunity to "cook from the heart." So armed with three grocery bags stuffed with picnic hams, kielbasas, pork butts and potatoes, I spent an enjoyable afternoon and evening with the other woman in my life, my momma, and a few Budwisers.

By the way, dad was there too, but like momma says: "Your father will eat anything I put in from of him - and like it," so I didn't expect much in criticism from my family patriarch.

First off, momma commented on the style of the book, ring bound in heavy paper stock with the picture of mom and pop on the front holding a casserole.

"Looks like it was made with the homemaker in mind," was her first comment. She definitely liked the fact that this cookbook could be opened flat and not held down with a can of peas like most

The table of contents had momma commenting on the "hominess" of the recipes. It was evident these recipes were "basic fare" that used everyday items in nothing but their simplest ways. Moma questioned the need for a recipe for "picnic ham" that utilized just one ingredient; a pienie ham.

The cooking directions were less than three lines yet the recipe took all of page nine. Momma said it would have been nice to see a recipe for plergol on the rest of the page.

When it came time to cook, we prepared the chicken paprikash, pork roast and potatoes, mashed potato soup, scalloped potatoes and the angel wings.

All of the recipes met with the approval of the cook and her main taste tester, especially with the mashed potato soup that momma said would be included in her shoe box file. For momma to request a recipe is the ultimate accolade.

The book it is readily available in its second printing at Kitchen Glamor, Borders, Waldenbooks and the Little Professor book

Patricia Villarruel of Livonia prepared this platter of hearty South American food centered around rice, a fried egg, pork and kidney

By Arlene Funke special writer

Patricia Villarruel of Livonia has a busy, fulfilling life as a wife, mother and volunteer.

But she is determined to keep her ties to her native Colombia, where she spent her first six years before her family moved to the United States.

Villarruel recalls the warm, sunny climate of Bogota, Colombia's capital, and hearty meals centered around rice and beans, tasty meat turnovers called tamales, and cheese filled cornmeal dumplings. Her favorite beverage was rich, cinnamon-laced hot chocolate.

"IT'S A source of my own identify," said 32-year-old Villarruel, who has a 7-year-old son and a daughter, 5.

"I'm proud to pass that along to my children," she said. Maria Castro, a Livonia pharmacist, was born in Peru, near the Pacific Ocean, where fresh seafood is plentiful. Castro is especially fond of the popular South American dish called ceviche. It consists of chunks of raw seafood marinated in lime juice and spices. "It has to be fresh fish," said Castro, 54. "I tried to do it once with frozen, and it was awful."

South American cuisine reflects the cultural melting pot of the region, according to Peruvian-born Felipe Rojas-Lombardi. He is a restauranteur in New York and author of "The Art of South American Cooking." Harper-Collins Publishers ($25 hardcover; $12.95 paperback).

THE NATIVE Indian peoples of South America cultivated the potato, tomato, chili pepper and corn, so important to local diet. Later arrivals from Spain, Portugal, Africa and Italy also left their culinary marks.

"Many countries use the same staples, but they are prepared differently - with different spices."

Patricia Villarruel

"The food preferences are according to the region," Castro said.

Last fall, Jim and Mary Lark, proprietors of the Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield, showcased the Brazilian barbecue cooking style.

"They are a lot of fun," said Jim Lark, who visited Brazil several years ago. "Different barbecued meats are served on a sword.'

The special meal, served on two nights, included two kinds of sausage, shrimp, beef tenderloin, spareribs and boneless pork loin. The meats were prepared on a barbecue grill.

Rounding out the meal were rice, black beans and coconut ice cream.

South American wines also are gaining notice. Darlene Levinson, a culinary arts instructor at Oakland Community College, sampled Chilean wines at a recent winetasting.

In Colombia, vegetables and fruit were purchased daily at a local farmers' market, said Villarruel.

"EVERYTHING WAS prepared fresh," she said. Dietary staples include yuca - a root vegetable similar to potato — rice and beans. Several varieties of potato are featured in soups and side dishes. Plantain, a fruit which resembles banana, is sliced and fried or baked.

Arepa is a dumpling made of corn flour, filled with mozzarella cheese and fried on a griddle.

Villarruel, a former substance abuse counselor, notes that Latino foods aren't identical. For example, her husband Art, an engineer, was born in Mexico. Many of the foods he was accustomed to were different.

"Many countries use the same staples, but they are prepared differently - with different spices," Villarruel

Villarruel's recipe for papas chorreadas consists of small red potatoes, steamed, then covered with a cheese sauce, enriched with sauteed chopped green onions and

She makes her special hot chocolate by cooking milk until it is foamy, then adding chunks of cinnamon infused chocolate and whisking until blended.

Maria Castro and her husband, Pedro, came to the United States in the 1960s. Pedro is employed by Sears Roebuck in Livonia. The couple, who have three grown children, visit Peru every two years to see relatives.

According to castro, almost any kind of fresh, highquality seafood can be used for ceviche. The fish is marinated in fresh lime juice, enlivened with onion, hot pepper and spices.

Both Castsro and Villarruel belong to a social and philanthropic group called Latinos de Livonia. The group has members originally from Mexico, Colombia, Spain, Bolivia, Argentina and Peru. Dues are $25 per year per family. For more information, write: Latino deLivonia, P.O. Box 530292, Livonia, Mich. 48153.

Flavorful Chilean wines a good value

1991 Santa Rita 120 Chardonnay (left) and 1988 Santa Rita 120 Cabernet Sauvignon are two of the Chilean wine selections of the week. Wine courtesy of Cloverleaf Market In Southfield,

JERRY ZOLYNSKY staff photographer

By Eleanor and Ray Heald special writer

Wine consumers benefit from competition among world wine. producers. This is true especially for the medium-to-low-priced segment of the American wine market.

New to the fray are the wines of South America, principally Chile. Quality Chilean wines that have been breaking sales records in other parts of the country are barely recognized in Michigan.

Chile, the long narrow country on the Pacific coast of South America, is sandwiched between the ocean on the west and the Andes Mountains on the east. Chile has 270,000 acres of vineyards, 90,000 of which grow grapes for premium

THE BEST regions for winegrowing are 150 miles south of Chile's capital Santiago. Regions to look for on a wine label are Aconcagua River, Maipo River Valley, Lontue, Maule and Curico.

Recent improvements in the wines of Chile can be explained, in part, by a surge of foreign viticultural investment. The owners of Bordeaux's Chateau Lafite Rothschild, California's Franciscan Vineyards and Spain's Bodegas Torres have each made sizeable efforts to move Chile's wines beyond value-priced, easy drinking varietals. With this interest and investment, there's a lot more right than wrong in wines from Chile.

Chile's soil is good; the water from the Andes is pure; the heat is never excessive; and due to the exceptional climate, vine disease is almost non-existent. However, low production cost is the principal reason for foreign investment.

PREMIUM VINEYARDS, which may reach $60,000 per acre in California and up to one million dollars per acre in France, cost $4,000 per acre in Chile. The labor force is experienced and less expensive. Phylloxera, a vine louse that devastated the vineyards of Europe in the late nineteenth century is absent. This

I pound dry red beans, cooked ac. cording to package directions 1/2 pound rice, cooked according to package directions

2 ripe plantains 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine 34 pound ground beef or pork

1 large tomato, chopped 4 green onions, chopped

1 tablespoon ground cumin 6 Spanish sausages (chorizos) 6 veal sausages 6 eggs, fried

Set beans and rice aside. Keep warm. Slice plantains diagonally into 1-inch pleces. In large skillet, over medium heat, fry plantains in 14 cup salad oil until golden. Remove and drain on absorbent paper; keep warm. Discard oil. Add butter to skillet and heat.

Add ground beef, tomato and green onion; cook over medium heat for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add cumin, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon ground pepper. Cook 5 minutes longer. In second skillet, cook sausages in 2 tablespoons salad oil until cooked through, turning occasionally. To serve, drain beans and arrange on platter with rice, plantains, cumin meat mixture, sausages and fried eggs. Makes 6 servings. (Recipe courtesy of Patricia Villarruel)

2 stalks celery, with leafy tops, - washed and coarsely chopped 1-inch piece fresh ginger, chopped

1 bay leaf I malagueta or jalapeno pepper, chopped

2 cloves garlle, unpeeled and crushed

1 small ear corn, husked, silks removed and cut into 8 equal slices, save and chop 5 of the most tender husks

1 small sprig fresh rosemary (optional)

2 tablespoons coarse salt

1 tablespoon dende or olive oil 1 clove garlic, peeled and minced

11/3 cups rice, rinsed and drained (do not use instant rice) 2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro leaves. 3 quarts water

Wipe the chicken breasts with a damp cloth. Remove the skins, debone the breasts, and cut them in half lengthwise. Set aside chicken breasts, skins and bones. In saucepan, heat the olive oil over medium heat. Add the chicken breasts, skin side down first, and brown until golden on all sides about 12 to 14 minutes. Remove them from pan. and set aside. Place the skins and bones in the same saucepan and brown over medium heat until totally golden, about 8 minutes.

Push the skins and bones to one side and add the onlon, carrot, cel- rises to the surface. Degrease the ery, ginger, bay leaf, hot pepper, and crushed garlic. Silr and saute for about 5 minutes. Add the chopped corn husks, rosemary sprig, if using, 1 tablespoon of the salt, and 3 quarts of water and bring to a boil, while stirring and scraping the bottom of the pan. Lower the heat, cover and let simmer for 45 minutes. Remove from heat and strain through a fine. sleve. Discard the contents of the sieve and let the strained stock sit for a few minutes so that all the fat.

stock and discard the fat. Strain the stock again through a strainer lined with several layers of cheesecloth; discard the cheesecloth.

Measure the stock; you should have about 8 cups. If not, add enough water to make 8 cups. Set aside. In a saucepan, heat the dende oil and the minced garlic over medium heat. Do not brown the garlic. Add the rice and saute, stirring, for about 2 to 3 minutes. Add the remaining tablespoon of salt and reserved 8 cups of stock and bring to a boll. Lower the: heat, cover and cook for 35 minutes. Add the browned chicken breasts. with the accumulated juices and the corn slices and continue cooking foranother 5 minutes, or until the cornis tender and the chicken heated? through thoroughly. Correct the seasoning with salt to tate. Sprinkle with chopped cilantro and serve. ## Where to shop for plantains and other ingredients

special writer

Many of the ingredients used in South American cuisine can be found locally.

Yuca, a fibrous root vegetable like potato, can be obtained at large supermarket chains such as Meijer Thrifty Acres, Farmer Jack and Newburgh in Westland.

Plantain - a dark-skinned fruit which resembles banana — also can be found in supermarkets which carry extensive varieties of produce.

But Patricia Vilarruel and Maria Castro, both originally from South America and now living in Livonia, Randazzo's Produce Fruit Market on . agree: The Latino community in southwest Detroit has the best stock of spices and staples for special dish-

> Along West Vernor Highway, near Clark Street, is the heart of Detroit's Hispanic community. Numerous markets cater to the culinary needs of Latino people.

Here, Villarruel purchases the bars of special chocolate for her favorite hot beverage, and the frozen banana leaves in which her tamales are steamed.

Bagley, near the popular Xochimilco Mexican restaurant, also has several markets which carry specialty items.

reduces planting expense since vines may be planted on their own roots rather than being grafted onto expensive rootstock.

Although the prices of Chilean wines may eventually begin to escalate, flavorful wines are now available in the $6.$12 range. The principal Chilean varietals include cabernet sauvignon, chardonnay and sauvignon blanc.

Our tasting of 40 Chilean wines included those from Califerra, Concha y Toro, Cousino-Macul, Los Vascos, Miguel Torres, Santa Carolina, Santa Monica, Santa Rita, Undurraga and Walnut Crest. Wine quality varies widely and requires consumer tasting before quantity purchase.

were oxidized (noticeable sherry aromas). Chardonnays were simple, straightforward wines lacking definitive fruit flavor. On the whole, the Santa Rita chardonnays were consistently better balanced and fresher. Younger sauvignon blanc and those without oak aging, which tended to mask the delicate fruit, were best.

Cabernet sauvignon and merlot, were of uniformly better quality with moderate intensity and flavor concentration. The best of these red wines showcased blackberry fruit, subtle oak and attractive notes of spice, herbs or mint. In general, they represent good values when compared to many California and French red wines of the same quali-

Rinse chicken parts well. Season each piece on top and under the skin with seasoned salt. Mix in bowl flour, breadcrumbs, paprika and pepper. Roll each piece of chicken into mixture until covered well. Pour oil into large heavy frying pan until 15 full. Heat oil until hot on high heat. Place each piece of chicken skin side down into pan and reafter 4-5 mintues and turn chicken over when breadcrumbs turn medium brown in color. Fry for another 4-6 minutes and slice the breast to see if it is cooked through. Remove breasts when done (dark meat requires more time). Check dark meat after 12-14 minutes. Dark meat must be sliced to the bone to check if it is cooked all the way through and the center is no longer pink. Using a slotted spoon, remove each piece of chicken from oil letting excess oil drip back into pan or onto paper towels placed on a serving plate. Serves 4.

Book's a lifesaver when cupboard's are bare

After Tuesday's snow storm, I'm through second guessing weather forecasts. I was one of those doubting Thomases with a near empty freezer, refrigerator and cupboards.

Going grocery shopping was on my list, but I put it off. The roads were dry Monday. Later in the day . might at yours. Here's a recipe from there, was a little snow mixed with some rain, but nothing to worry about. "Four to-six inches of snow? They've got to be kidding," I said to the weather forecaster on the 11 p.m. news Monday night. "It's hardly snowing. We won't get that much snow." Going grocery shopping could. wait, so I thought.

Then came the storm. After a day spent shoveling snow; and navigating treacherous roads, trudging four blocks through snow drifts to the nearest grocery store didn't sound like much fun.

Luckily, I had a new book to guide me - "What To Cook When You Think There's Nothing in the House to Eat" by Arthur Schwartz, (Harper Perennial; $15).

After scavenging through the cupboards and refrigerator, I found a box of spaghetti, some olives, an orange, and an onion. Everything I needed to make Spaghetti with Black Olives and Orange Peel.

"This is not a fancy cookbook," writes Schwartz. "It's an everyday food book with mostly traditional, mostly basic recipes, mainly updated working class and farm food from many different cultures, for the new

A group of Michigan's most talent, ed chefs are gathering Monday, Jan. 27 at 11 Centro Restaurant, 670 Lothrop, near the Fisher Building In Detroits to begin preparing for a competition that will determine the makeup of Michigan's Culinary Olympic Team.

The chefs will critique their work at 5 p.m. From 6:30-8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27, the fruits of their labor will be displayed at a cocktail and hors d'oeuvres reception. Tickets are $30 each or $25 if four or more are purchased. The proceeds will help defray competition costs for the culinary team.

The Michigan Culinary Team will compete in the 1992 World Culinary Olympics this October in Frankfurt, Germany. Held every four years, top chels from around the world gather to display their skills in hopes of earning a gold, silver or bronze medal,

Reid Ashton, spokesperson for the 1992 Michigan Culinary Team, and

Just for brides-

The Monthly Album is published the third Monday of each month for the announcement of engagements and weddings. All announcements are published on a first-come-first-served basis.

Information sent must be legible and include a daytime telephone number so if there is a question the staff can call.

Photos submitted should, perferably, be black-and-while glossies, 5-by-7 inches in size. Color photos can be submitted and will be accepted, but they do not reproduce as well.

Due to the volume of photographs handled, the newspaper will not be responsible for any that may get lost or damaged. Photos can be picked up after publication in the Farmington Observer office, or if a self-addressed sufficiently stamped envelope is received with the photo, every effort will be made to return it. However, photos do get lost because so many are handled every month. There is just no guarantee the photo will be returned.

Engagement and wedding announcements pertinent to Livonia, Redford, Garden City, Westland, Farmington and Farmington Hills should be addressed to Suburban Life Editor, The Farmington Observer, 21898 Farmington Road, Farmington 48336.

Inquiries are taken by Rose Butler in the Farmington Observer office, 477-5450.
