Cheating claim is denied

The owner of a Westland convenience store-gasoline station has denied claims by the Michigan attorney attorney that he cheated customers at the pump.

Mike Mahmoud, owner of A&M Mini Mart, 8045 Inkster Road, told the Observer Saturday that he has not received any complaints from customers on any products he has sold. Mahmoud has owned the business for three years.

He also said that he has not received any information from the state yet, learning about the accusations through Saturday's Detroit News/Free Press.

"We're waiting for the papers (from the state) to come," Mahmoud said.

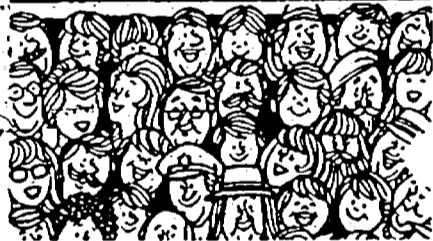

He disputed the state's claims that the station either sold gas from dirty or water-filled tanks or falsely labeled octane levels at the pump.

ATTY. GEN. Frank Kelley announced Friday that 48 gasoline stations, most of which are in the Detroit area, were accused of cheating the public by selling one octane of gasoline and charging the price of the higher octane.

The other Westland business accused by the state is Grubar Petroleum, Inc., 28762 W. Warren, between Middlebelt and Inkster roads. Attempts to contact that business were unsuccessful. A Michigan Bell directory assistance employee said the company's phone has been disconnected and that there was no new listing.

Results of investigations by the state led to the civil suits being filed against the 48 businesses. The suits seek civil penalties of up to $10,000 a day for the violations.

Investigators responded to consumers' complaints and made 188 inspections state-wide in the last year and found 55 violations, Kelley said.

Officials feud over tax promise

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Mayor Robert Thomas has hinted that he will recommend a city tax increase in April, raising questions about whether he has broken his promise not to raise taxes during his four-year term.

Despite criticism from some city council members, Thomas denied any discrepancies in his actions. Moreover, taxpayers have benefitted from tax cuts approved during his administration, he said.

Amid a state-mandated property assessment freeze, Thomas told the Observer that he may recommend boosting the tax levy from 7 mills to the maximum-authorized 7.41 mills to avoid slashing programs and services. Seven mills represent $7 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

His remarks came after his Feb. 4 State of the City speech in which he said, "I am bound by a promise to the people not to attempt to raise our millage tax rate during my entire four-year term, and I will abide by that."

On Friday, Thomas defended his actions and said his promise to taxpayers was that he wouldn't seek to raise the tax rate beyond the maximum-authorized 7.41 mills. A greater increase would require voter approval.

"There are a lot of people who're confused," the mayor conceded Friday, adding later that he never indicated he wouldn't recommend a slight tax increase. "I only promised to never ask for an increase in our authorized millage rate."

But some city council members challenged his statements.

"I HATE to call him a liar, but everything just doesn't add up," councilman Kenneth Mehl said.

During his city address, which aired on local cable television and was reported in newspapers, Thomas glossed over the city's financial situation and indicated that he wouldn't recommend a tax increase, Mehl said.

The mayor appeared to change his stance later, "knowing that it wasn't going to be on TV," Mehl said.

Mehl and councilman Thomas Brown have predicted that the city's $2-million surplus could be depleted in two years.

"The mayor can't continue to spend at the rate he's spending and keep telling us that we're in good shape, because we're not. It's impossible," Mehl said.

Mehl said a slight tax increase may be necessary, unless spending is slashed, but he said the mayor should be truthful about it to voters.

Brown said residents who heard about the mayor's city address and later read about his possible plans for a tax increase could feel betrayed.

"I would think that those who followed it would feel that they have been misled," he said.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT Charles Pickering, when asked by the Observer if Thomas has misled taxpayers, replied, "Maybe a little bit. It's a matter of semantics."

The council will make the final decision to set the rate. Some council members have indicated that a 7.41-mill proposal could meet opposition.

Changing careers

Former cop fights crime as prosecutor

By Tedd Schneider

The game's the same for Don Vandersloot. He's just switched positions.

The veteran detective, who retired from the Livonia Police department in December, is pursuing justice these days from behind the prosecutor's table in Westland's 18th District Court.

Vandersloot handles traffic and misdemeanor cases as a Westland city attorney. He works part time as an independent contractor for the Bokos and Plakas law firm in Westland.

Vandersloot, 51, said he accepted the position mostly to get trial experience — something which he sorely lacked after 15 years of moonlighting as a practicing attorney while he was with the Livonia police.

The bulk of his "second career" has been personal legal work, including real estate closings and helping people draw up wills.

"I think I maybe tried three cases total," Vandersloot said. "A divorce, a real estate matter and I'm not sure about the other." That has changed dramatically.

VANDERSLOOT USUALLY gets in one or two bench trials a day, three days a week. He has yet to appear before a jury.

While the cases aren't headline-grabbing felonies or big-money civil trials, "every case is important to the person who is victimized," the attorney said.

His caseload revolves around traffic offenses, retail fraud, property destruction and misdemeanor assaults or drug possession.

Most cases are adjudicated through plea-bargain agreements.

The goal — a successful prosecution — may be the same for police officers and prosecutors, but there are subtle differences in how they get there, Vandersloot said.

"As a police officer I may know the defendant is guilty and that's enough. As a prosecutor, I have to prove it."

"I think the biggest adjustment, for me anyway is that I have to come into these cases cold," the former detective said.

"As a police officer, I was able to interview a witness beforehand and know if there was something there.

"In court, I walk in on a day-to-day basis and I'm not sure what I'm going to see."

The action in the Westland and Livonia courts reflects their typical large suburban communities, according to Vandersloot.

While Westland tends to see more domestic violence, Livonia experiences more transient crime because of its location along two major freeways (I-96 and I-275).

Slashing trial ordered

By Darrell Clem

A 42-year-old man accused of slashing an 18-year-old Garden City girl's throat and threatening her Livonia friend at a Westland party has been ordered to stand trial on assault charges.

Mark Aird, whom police said had been staying at an Inkster motel, has been bound over for trial in Detroit Recorder's Court amid charges he slashed Kristina Roy's throat with a knife during a 2:46 a.m. Feb. 8 party in the 8700 block of Oxbow, near Joy and Middlebelt.

Roy was taken to Garden City Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Aird has been charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm. He also has been ordered to stand trial on a felonious assault charge amid accusations he threatened Roy's 18-year-old friend, Krystal Smith of Livonia, at knifepoint. Smith wasn't cut, police said.

Judge Thomas Smith ordered Aird to stand trial after hearing testimony from the women on Thursday, during a preliminary examination in Westland's 18th District Court.

Aird, who has pleaded not guilty, could face up to 10 years in prison if convicted of slashing Roy's throat. He could be sentenced up to four years if convicted of threatening Smith. Aird remained in the county jail Friday on a $100,000 cash bond.

AIRD HAD initially been charged with assault with intent to murder, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison. But Smith reduced the charge on Thursday to assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Witnesses told police that Roy and Smith had taken an intoxicated friend to an upstairs bedroom of the Oxbow Street house so that she could rest, police testified. The witnesses accused Aird of following them upstairs and saying he would watch her, police said.

Fearing for their friend's safety, the women refused to leave the room, prompting Aird to pull a knife, slash Roy's throat and threaten Smith, Sgt. Don Haigh said. Aird then ran from the house, eluding police who had been called.

Arsonist sought in house fire

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Fire blamed on an arsonist swept a small house nestled in a wooded area north of Ford Road, destroying it Wednesday, and fire and police officials continued to seek suspects Friday.

The fire erupted as the owners — partners in C.T. Ranch Ltd. of Plymouth — had nearly completed negotiations to sell the 36540 Elmwood house, northwest of Ford and Central City Parkway.

"It will be torn down now," said Fire Marshal Robert Perry.

Flames engulfed the vacant, one-story house about 6:40 p.m. Wednesday after an arsonist doused the living room with a flammable liquid and set it on fire, Perry said. The fire virtually gutted the house, burning most of its roof and floors.

"It's totaled," Perry said. "They couldn't rebuild it."

Two Westland police officers on patrol saw the blaze and alerted the Westland Fire Department.

Investigators seeking suspects are asking that information about the fire be reported to Perry (467-3260) or police Lt. John Reddy (721-6311).

The fire marked the second major one in Westland last week. One day earlier, flames swept a Venoy Pines apartment building, slightly injuring three people and leaving 25 homeless.

ON FRIDAY, Perry said the 8:44 a.m. Tuesday fire has been blamed on a careless smoker who accidentally dropped a cigarette into a sofa, where it smoldered for about five hours before igniting.

A man visiting four female tenants — three 19-year-olds and one 20-year-old — apparently dropped the burning cigarette in the sofa sometime between 3:30 a.m. and 4 a.m., Perry said.

The tenants soon fell asleep, and the cigarette smoldered until one of the women left the apartment shortly after 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. When she opened and closed the door, fresh air entered the apartment and helped ignite the flames, Perry said.

One tenant, who suffered smoke inhalation, escaped by climbing down a ladder from the second-story apartment. Fire Chief Larry Lane has said. Two firefighters also were slightly injured after they inhaled smoke, he said.

Aird has been charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm. He also has been ordered to stand trial on a felonious assault charge amid accusations he threatened Roy's 18-year-old friend, Krystal Smith of Livonia, at knifepoint. Smith wasn't cut, police said.

Judge Thomas Smith ordered Aird to stand trial after hearing testimony from the women on Thursday, during a preliminary examination in Westland's 18th District Court.

Aird, who has pleaded not guilty, could face up to 10 years in prison if convicted of slashing Roy's throat. He could be sentenced up to four years if convicted of threatening Smith. Aird remained in the county jail Friday on a $100,000 cash bond.

AIRD HAD initially been charged with assault with intent to murder, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison. But Smith reduced the charge on Thursday to assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Witnesses told police that Roy and Smith had taken an intoxicated friend to an upstairs bedroom of the Oxbow Street house so that she could rest, police testified. The witnesses accused Aird of following them upstairs and saying he would watch her, police said.

Fearing for their friend's safety, the women refused to leave the room, prompting Aird to pull a knife, slash Roy's throat and threaten Smith, Sgt. Don Haigh said. Aird then ran from the house, eluding police who had been called.

Arsonist sought in house fire

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Fire blamed on an arsonist swept a small house nestled in a wooded area north of Ford Road, destroying it Wednesday, and fire and police officials continued to seek suspects Friday.

The fire erupted as the owners — partners in C.T. Ranch Ltd. of Plymouth — had nearly completed negotiations to sell the 36540 Elmwood house, northwest of Ford and Central City Parkway.

"It will be torn down now," said Fire Marshal Robert Perry.

Flames engulfed the vacant, one-story house about 5:40 p.m. Wednesday after an arsonist doused the living room with a flammable liquid and set it on fire, Perry said. The fire virtually gutted the house, burning most of its roof and floors.

"It's totaled," Perry said. "They couldn't rebuild it."

Two Westland police officers on patrol saw the blaze and alerted the Westland Fire Department.

Investigators seeking suspects are asking that information about the fire be reported to Perry (487-3260) or police Lt. John Reddy (721-6311).

The fire marked the second major one in Westland last week. One day earlier, flames swept a Venoy Pines apartment building, slightly injuring three people and leaving 25 homeless.

ON FRIDAY, Perry said the 8:44 a.m. Tuesday fire has been blamed on a careless smoker who accidentally dropped a cigarette into a sofa, where it smoldered for about five hours before igniting.

A man visiting four female tenants — three 19-year-olds and one 20-year-old — apparently dropped the burning cigarette in the sofa sometime between 3:30 a.m. and 4 a.m., Perry said.

The tenants soon fell asleep, and the cigarette smoldered until one of the women left the apartment shortly after 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. When she opened and closed the door, fresh air entered the apartment and helped ignite the flames, Perry said.

One tenant, who suffered smoke inhalation, escaped by climbing down a ladder from the second-story apartment. Fire Chief Larry Lane has said. Two firefighters also were slightly injured after they inhaled smoke, he said.

Former detective changes 'uniforms' for court duties

In his first stint, he moved from patrol officer to the detective bureau and then administrative assistant to the chief before leaving for Lakewood, Colo., in 1970. He returned to the area in 1972 and began his second stint with the department. Vandersloot headed up the city's crime prevention bureau, until it was eliminated, and he eventually wound up as a sergeant back in the detective bureau.

His return also heralded a return of another sort — he decided to pick up his legal education where he'd left off many years earlier by enrolling in course at the Detroit College of Law.

Vandersloot crammed law classes into nights, time off and vacation time and earned his degree in 1976.

"THE LAW and the legal profession has just been something I've always remained interested in, regardless of what I was doing full time," Vandersloot said.

That seems to carry into his other activities as well.

He teaches two classes — on constitutional law and the elements of crime — at the police academy at Schoolcraft College-Radcliff Center near Ford and Wildwood, on the Garden City-Westland boundary.

The former detective said he is exploring running for elective office — probably district judge — in 1994.

Vandersloot said he misses the camaraderie of life around a police station, but is so busy with his new duties that "I really don't have a chance to miss it as much as I thought I would."

City hall aides get 4 percent pay hike

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Top salaries of Westland's municipal administrators appointed by Mayor Robert Thomas could increase 4 percent under a pay plan that the city council has adopted, despite concerns about a budget crunch.

The council approved the proposal in a 6-2 vote Tuesday, authorizing the mayor to give raises to his 21 appointed employees. Councilmen Thomas Brown and Kenneth Mehl opposed the plan.

Brown raised concerns that a $2-million city budget surplus could be erased in two years to pay for salaries of 23 police officers and firefighters hired in recent years.

Moreover, Brown noted that the city has pledged $260,000 to rescue the embattled Nankin Transit bus system and $250,000 to absorb Detroit Edison rate hikes that otherwise would be passed on to residents.

Mehl, who also has raised questions about the surplus, said Tuesday he opposed raising the ceiling on the officials' salaries because he disagreed with the percentage increase.

ANOTHER COUNCIL member, Terri Reighard-Johnson, voiced "grave concerns" about the pay plan that covers this calendar year, but she supported it because she said Thomas has used "good judgment" in giving raises to his appointees.

As approved Tuesday, the proposal established a minimum and maximum salary for such city employees as the police chief, city clerk, finance director and the mayor's secretary, among others. The plan raised the cap on those salaries by 4 percent.

However, that doesn't mean the mayor's appointees will automatically receive a 4-percent raise. The mayor has the discretion on what raises — if any — to give his employees.

In a memo to council members last month, Thomas asked to raise the ceiling on the salaries by 4 percent but told council members to "please remember that I have not abused this in the past" and that "I promise not to abuse this privilege."

The mayor is expected to decide the raises soon.

A current list shows salaries for the appointees ranging from $24,869 for the mayor's secretary to $54,023 for police Chief Michael Frayer and finance director Michael Gorman. However, no appointee has reached the top end of the salary schedule.

Under the new plan, the highest possible salary for a mayoral appointee would be $56,184.

Cable staff to focus on community programs

Four new staff members have been added to film and produce local cable-TV programs.

The additions to the staff were announced by Diane Abbott, president of Abbott Cable Communications and manager of WLND cable Channel 8/Community Relations Department, whose contract for those services was approved by the city council last fall.

In her proposal to the city, Abbott promised to increase the number of staff members so the department could boost the number of new programs and reduce the number of reruns.

"With the addition of new staff members, we will be able to be more flexible, available and accessible to the community," said Abbott.

WLND producer/director Cathy O'Loughlin is a 1990 Wayne State University graduate. She holds a bachelor's degree in mass communications with an English minor. Prior to joining WLND, O'Loughlin served as a production specialist at Metrovision of Livonia and an associate producer for Omnicom Cable. She also interned and freelanced at WXYZ Channel 7 in the creative services department.

BRINGING A background in industrial video to the cable staff, producer/director Eric Angott is a 1990 Ferris State University honors graduate. He has a bachelor's degree in television production with a minor in audio/visual production. He was a video technician for Air Gage Co. and a video producer for Ford Motor. He also served as a municipal access production specialist for the city of Farmington Hills.

Janice Cassidy joins the WLND staff as executive assistant. Cassidy's experience includes positions as an assistant underwriter for Meadowbrook Insurance Group, legal secretary and licensed Realtor for Remerica of Plymouth.

Public access coordinator Kelly Furtaw is a 1990 cum laude Eastern Michigan University graduate. She holds a bachelor of science degree in telecommunications/film and a double minor in general business and comprehensive communication. Furtaw's experience includes serving as Omnicom Cable's public access coordinator/sports director.

PTA celebration

Top teachers, students win praise

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Parents and teachers enjoyed two celebrations Wednesday at the Livonia PTA Council's 38th Founders Day dinner at Churchill High.

With the annual PTA gathering, they celebrated the traditional tie between parents and teachers in building better schools for our nation's children.

"Our partnership is between those who believe children need to be first. They are our future," said David Gross, Michigan PTA state president who spoke briefly before the dinner.

Secondly, they celebrated the technology and revamped school buildings that will soon come to the district because of the recent passage by Livonia voters of a $62.1 million bond issue.

Both the Livonia PTA and the district campaigned heavily to get the bond issue passed.

"Parents who are involved in the education of our children really make a difference," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli. "The bond election was a turning point for us. There's much more for this district to do and now we know we'll have the resources to do it."

THE PTA COUNCIL holds the dinner every year to honor three separate groups, high school students who win Merit Scholarships, Livonia's Teachers-Of-The-Year and parents, teachers and administrators who during the year have furthered the cause of the PTA.

Merit scholars honored Wednesday were: Churchill High students Rachel Birk, Brian Johnson, John Wyderko and William Lusa; Franklin High students Moses Fridman and Karin Zitzewitz; and Stevenson High students Michael Joseph, Sachin Kheterpal, Wayne Krause, Jennifer Kusnir, Christopher Mastroberto, Erin Phillips, Colin Stockton and Matthew Underhill.

Livonia's top teachers for 1991-92 are: Marcianna Baker, art teacher at Grant Elementary, Joan Bahl, 7th grade teacher at Holmes Middle; and G. Michael Abbott, a teacher in the ALPHA program at Dickinson Center.

Baker said she loved teaching so much that she would continue to do so even if she won the lottery.

"I might hire a chauffeur to drive me to school, but I still would teach."

Bahl said she was being honored by some of the "hardest working people in Livonia," PTA members.

And Abbott praised the PTA for being responsible for doing behind-the-scenes type of things that often go unnoticed.

For example, PTAs often raise the money to buy equipment that schools might not otherwise be able to afford.

The Webster PTA recently doned $4,285 to their school to buy playground and physical fitness equipment.

And the Grant PTA recently donated $11,074 to their school to buy microscopes, calculators, a portable stage, picnic table and bench, trash cans, swing set and a double slide.

THE PTA Wednesday also gave special PTA awards to the following:

- Jennifer Swartout, a Churchill student who will talk about her uncle's bout with AIDS at a pre-spring break high school assembly in April.

- Jack Kirksey, Jim Winebrenner and Jay Young, three Livonia officials who worked together to promote the bond issue.

- Kent Gage, director of elementary education.

- Joyce Galindo, member of the PTA Reflections committee.

- Sue Thompson, Livonia PTA council president.

- June Randall, PTA past president and member of the by-laws committee.

For after-dinner entertainment, Churchill CAPA students performed excerpts from Cole Porter's "Anything Goes." They were directed by Churchill teacher Steven Kosinski.

Last year, the Livonia PTA became the first Michigan PTA to have 10,000 members. This year, the PTA boosted that number to 10,152, said membership committee members Sharon Snyder and JoAnn Kogut.

Area agencies win grants for disabled

Three area agencies that provide services for the developmentally disabled were awarded a total of $11,000 by the private Widman Foundation.

Receiving $5,000 each was the Wayne County Society for Autistic Citizens and Northwest Wayne Skill Center. The ARC/Northwest Communities received $1,000.

The group which serves autistic people will provide direct devices for six to 10 non-verbal people who have no other useable communication system. The grant will also be used for training and supervising several pre-service teachers and/or speech/language clinicians in the techniques of facilitated communication.

Northwest Wayne Skill Center will use its grants to buy materials and equipment for use in a staff-developed social skills curriculum and a life education/human growth and development curriculum.

The grant to the ARC organization will allow people with developmental disabilities to develop support circles by bringing in people to train the executive director and volunteers to be facilitators and recorders for those circles.

There were nine proposals submitted for foundation approval.

The Widman Foundation, a private, non-profit foundation founded in 1982 through a bequest of Aloysius Widman, a Wayne County entrepreneur. The foundations offers short term, one-time only grants for proposals involving new approaches to helping, teaching and training people with developmental disabilities.

St. John students earn essay honors

Three St. John Lutheran School students have been named local winners in the 23rd annual "America and Me" essay contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

The three at the Westland school are Christopher Lowry, first place; Benjamin Husby, second; and Alyssa Sanderson, third. All three received award certificates. As the school's first place winner, Christopher's name will also be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Christopher's first place essay now advances to the state level competition, from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. The top 10 statewide winners, who will be announced in May, will receive plaques and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000. In addition, the top 10 essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and at a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders in late May.

A team of finalist judges that includes top governmental leaders will determine the top statewide winners.

Several thousand eighth grade students from almost 500 Michigan schools participated in the 1991-92 essay contest. Topic was "How I Will Make a Difference in My Corner of America."

Started in 1968 and open to all Michigan eighth grade students, the contest encourages Michigan youngsters to explore their roles in America's future, a contest spokesman said.

Exchange program needs host families for students

Host families are needed for high school exchange students ages 14-18 from Spain, Germany, France, Brazil, Israel, Poland, Yugoslavia, Japan and Hong Kong.

More volunteers needed to staff recycling center

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A dramatic upswing in business at Westland's recycling center has prompted volunteers and city officials to seek more help.

"It's growing a lot," said Carl Clark, the city's public services director. "We're real pleased."

When the recycling center on Marquette, east of Newburgh, opened two years ago, about 80 cars came there every other Saturday morning as environmentally conscious residents dropped off their recyclables, Clark said.

Business mushroomed last year, however, prompting city officials to begin opening the recycling center every Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Now, about 400 cars a week pass through the bustling center, delivering plastics, tin cans, aluminum, newspapers, white glass, green glass and used motor oil.

"We're pretty busy up there," said volunteer Ron Graunstadt.

Graunstadt recently called on the Westland City Council to try to spread the word that more volunteers are needed at the center, at 37137 Marquette. Despite a core group of about 65 volunteers, more are needed.

"It's rough," Clark said. "We've got a group of hardcore volunteers, but we need more."

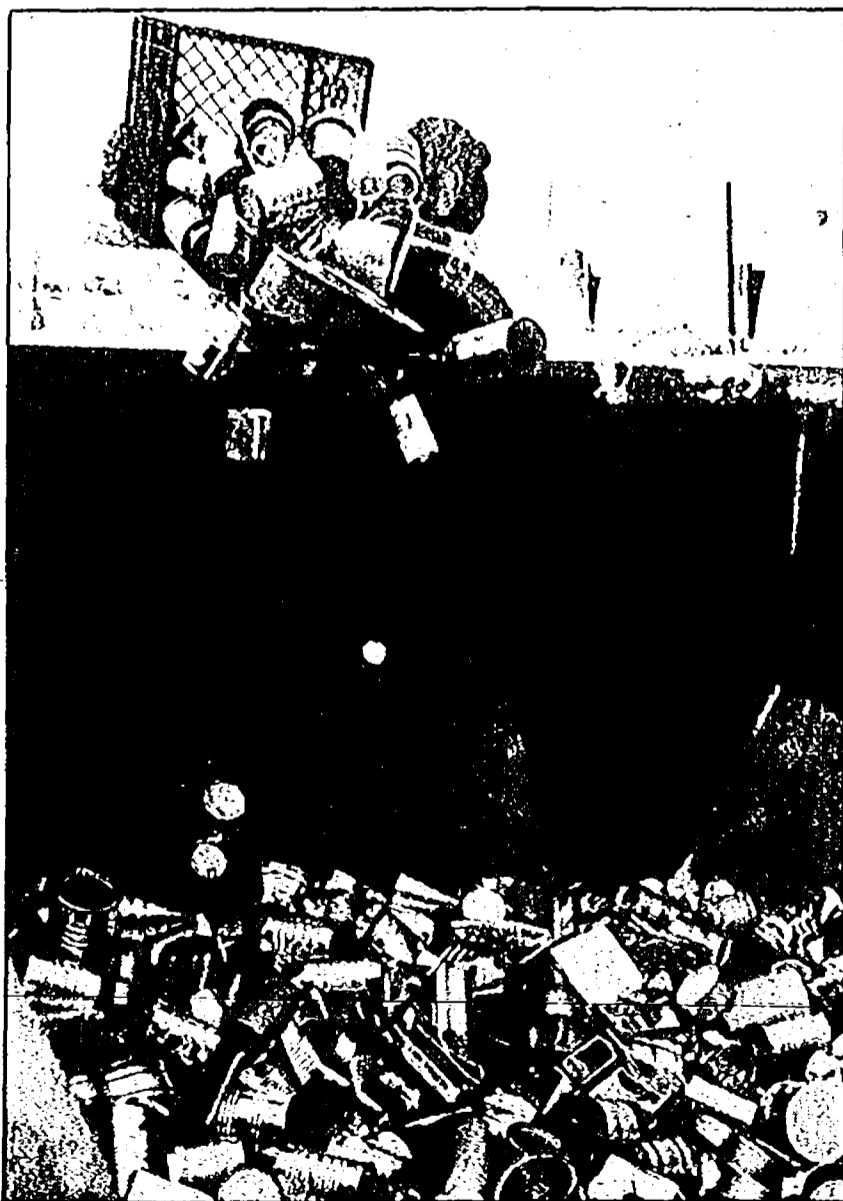

CHERYL CHUCK, who coordinates the volunteers, attributed the recycling center's increasing popularity to more public exposure and residents' desire to become involved in environmental issues.

"Some people are just starting to be aware that the recycling center is there and available to them," she said. "And I think people are becoming more aware of the environment and they're saying, 'Hey, why not help out.' We get pretty busy."

Clark agreed that residents have begun to catch on to recycling efforts.

"The word is getting out. The recycling craze is on in the United States," he said. "There's more of an awareness by the public that this is something that needs to be done."

When the center opened on every other Saturday, business had grown so much that "we were having cars literally parked on Newburgh Road," waiting to turn onto Mar-

A volunteer dumps cans into the recycling bin at the city center on Marquette east of Newburgh. Those who wish to donate their time can call 728-1770.

quette, Clark said. But traffic congestion has been eased by opening the center every week.

Still, business escalates so much at times — especially during summer months — that volunteers are unable to handle the onslaught and have to turn away customers, Chuck said.

VOLUNTEERS USUALLY work in two-hour shifts. Some youth clubs help out, and several students from John Glenn High School work for credit in their contemporary issues class. But the center loses the student volunteers when school isn't in session.

Clark urged potential volunteers to call 728-1770 and ask for Bruce Guertin, the city's superintendent of construction and maintenance, or himself.

Clark also issued a warning to recycling enthusiasts: Before coming to the center, make sure all tin cans and glass items have been washed and their labels removed. Otherwise, the company that picks up the recyclables, Taylor Recycling, won't accept them.

a city tax increase of $12.30 this summer. Some taxpayers already have become upset because their taxes have increased under a 7.75-mill school tax increase that voters approved in June. The current school millage is 47.12 mills.

Meanwhile, Thomas stressed that taxpayers have been given "a rebate" during his first two years in office. In his first year, the millage rate dipped from 7.31 mills to 6.52 — the lowest that the Observer found in a review of tax rates spanning 13 years. In his second year, the city levied a 7-mill tax rate, which marked the second-lowest rate during the period.

Districts pair incumbents but races unlikely

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

State Rep. Lyn Banks, R-Livonia, said she's considering moving "eight blocks down the street" if recently drafted state House districts stand.

Banks would face fellow GOP incumbent Georgina Goss in one new district. But she could also move into a neighboring district left without an incumbent.

Banks isn't the only area state representative with a decision to make.

State Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford, was placed in a district with fellow Democratic veteran Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

Banks, who lives in northern Livonia, would face Goss of Northville Township in a new 20th District that would include a large portion of northwest Livonia as well as Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

But she's considering moving to an apartment in a nearby open district that includes Livonia neighborhoods south of Five Mile and east of Merriman, as well as Redford north of Five Mile.

"I've talked it over with my husband, and he's very supportive," Banks said, of the potential move.

While saying she had "utmost respect" for her colleague, Goss said she definitely planned to run in the new district.

State Rep. Lyn Banks, R-Livonia, is considering moving "eight blocks down the street," after being placed in a legislative district with fellow incumbent Georgina Goss.

'I think it's a shame they put the only two (state House) women Republicans from Wayne County in the same district.'

— Georgina Goss
R-Northville Township

Here is how current representatives and local communities would be affected under the proposed state Senate districts:

- Faust, in the new 8th District, would retain Westland and pick up a section of Canton — primarily neighborhoods south of Michigan Avenue.

- R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, in the new 9th District, retains Livonia, Redford, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and most of northern Canton.

- George Hart, D-Dearborn, in the new 6th District, retains Garden City.

Here is how they would be affected under the new House districts:

- James Kosteva, D-Canton, appears safe in the new 21st District. The district retains part of Canton and all of Belleville and Van Buren Township, while losing Wayne and Romulus.

- Justine Barns, D-Westland, also appears safe in the new 18th. The district includes most of Westland and a portion of northeast Canton.

- William Keith, D-Garden City, appears safe in the new 17th District. The district retains Garden City and Inkster, picks up Wayne and part of southeast Westland, between Inkster and Wayne.

"I THINK it's a shame they put the only two (state House) women Republicans from Wayne County in the same district," said Goss, who is serving her first year in the Legislature.

Bennett, a state House member since 1964, said he hasn't made a decision on his future.

"I don't like what they did, but they did it," he said of the new district. "I haven't seen everything, but it looks to me like the plan favors Republicans."

The new 16th District includes southern Redford and Dearborn Heights.

While there was speculation state Sens. William Faust, D-Westland, and Christopher Dingell, D-Trenton, would face each other, that probably won't happen, either.

"He lives in what would be the district, but it would only be a short move into what would be his old district," Faust said, adding Dingell told him he was considering a move.

Dingell staff members agreed a showdown most likely wouldn't occur.

"There's some overlapping (between their old districts), but I don't think they'll be in the same district," Dingell legislative aide Joe O'Reilly said.

Other area senators and representatives face only minor changes under the plan issued Thursday by a Michigan Supreme Court-appointed panel.

New state House districts go into effect for this year's elections. Senate districts won't go into effect until 1994.

Urban legislators are already threatening to challenge the plan under federal voting rights law because opponents claim it lacks an adequate number of minority-dominated districts.

A Michigan Supreme Court hearing is scheduled for Wednesday, March 4. Written comments may be submitted to the court by Monday, March 2.

Business, conservation groups back anti-pollution bills

An industry group and the state's biggest conservation organization are calling on the Michigan Senate to pass a seven-bill anti-pollution proposal. One part would go on the Nov. 3 ballot.

"This package is a win-win proposition for Michigan," said Robert Patzer, executive director of the Associated Underground Contractors, Inc. (AUC). "It will improve the quality of our great fresh-water lakes and rivers, it will provide more state land for future generations to enjoy, and it will create 14,000 jobs."

The House passed the package Jan. 29. It is now in the Senate Natural Resources and Environmental Affairs Committee.

THE LEGISLATION would create a special account within the Michigan Water Pollution Control Revolving Fund. It would get $20 million a year from the Natural Resources Trust Fund. Currently the money goes to the Michigan Strategic Fund, a Commerce Department program.

The account would reduce communities' costs to finance construction to end their combined sewer overflows. It would enable many of the nearly 70 Michigan communities with outdated combined sewer systems to finally afford the construction necessary to end their CSOs, which occur during rain and snow melts.

CSOs dump between 16 and 20 million gallons of raw sewage and contaminated wastewater into lakes, rivers and streams from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie each year, a 1990 study found.

Cost of ending CSOs is estimated more than $1 billion. Annual allocations of up to $20 million would continue until the CSO account reaches $200 million.

THE BILLS also would:

- Remove a $200 million cap on the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund, which uses revenues from oil and gas development on state land to buy land for public use and preservation.

- Protect the NRTF by preventing the Department of Commerce from extending the annual Strategic Fund diversion past 1993.

- Prevent any future raids on the trust fund for non-environmental purposes.

- Assure that the NRTF receives the first $2 million in oil and gas revenues each year, with the next $20 million received annually going into the CSO correction account.

MUCC, which helped create the NRTF, warns that the fund's tax payments on land acquired after Oct. 1, 1987, will consume that entire $16 million by 2018, ending the NRTF's buying power.

"THIS PROPOSAL would assure that revenue from one natural resource — oil, gas and minerals — will be used to improve and preserve two finite resources, our fresh water and natural land," Patzer said.

Children's Trust seeks donors

Area social service agencies are asking taxpayers to make a contribution to the state Children's Trust Fund by checking off a box on this year's state income tax return form.

Half the money contributed to CTF each year goes to child abuse prevention programs throughout the state. The remainder is held in trust. State support for anti-abuse programs will become self-sustaining once the trust reaches $20 million.

Contributors can either check off the box themselves, or have their tax preparer do it.

CTF-supported programs are considered unique because they work with families before abuse occurs.

Programs for latch key children, parents of newborn infants and teenage parents are among those sponsored by CTF.

Additional information is available by calling CTF, 517-373-4320.

Lack of color taste may become trendy

THERE ARE PLENTY of things that make men different than women. One of the most pronounced is dressing. For most men the "what ever's clean in the morning" is the normal operating procedure.

My own personal favorite is to start with a shirt, preferably clean, and then match the colors to it. There are plenty of blue shirts in my closet; they seem to go with everything.

The rule here is not to do it until the last minute, it just spoils the effect if you set your clothes out the night before. If you did, your socks may match. It's something I try to avoid to the point that it only happens about once a month. I try to buy all blue socks, but it's hard to imagine there are so many different shades of navy blue.

Jeff Counts

MOST DAYS I envy men who can lay claim to the excuse they're color blind. I look like it without the affliction.

Women set their clothes out the night before when they are still clear eyed and can tell the difference between fuchsia and pink, if there is one.

My wife is one of those people. I've tried to learn from her, but there are always too many things to do at 11 at night. TNN usually has a celebrity quill hunt on TV, and matching socks and ties can't compare to watching Conway Twitty blasting away on a Georgia plantation with a shotgun. Then there's the Bass Master re-runs.

But those aren't the only distractions. There's also my evening walk which is often pre-empted by my pre-bedtime nap.

Then there's that thing with women about not wearing the same dress on the same day as others. For men who wear blue suits it's a moot point. The males in my office once showed up in dark green pants and cream colored shirts. Nobody was embarrassed, we just turned it into the office uniform.

JOHN MALLOY tried to break us guys of our bad dressing habits in the 1980s with his dress for success book, but now it's the '90s, and some of us are all dressed up with no place to go.

I even suckered for the book. Now I've got a closet that contains two blue suits, various fishing shirts and bell bottom pants from the 1970s that I just can't give up. My sons have even taught me the difference between T.J. Maxx and Ralph Lauren.

But even when I change styles, I end up with the same old clothes. If it's pants, it's khaki; if it's shirts, it's blue. And I own the largest collection of brown deck shoes this side of Grosse Pointe.

My wife tried to change the color scheme once by bringing me home a pair of navy blue shorts and a berry colored shirt. Neither have been seen for quite some time.

Once, only once, did I manage to buy a set of clothes that matched and that probably had to do with the number of beers I drank in a Washington, D.C., area restaurant than with my taste. After spending either two or six hours in the restaurant, I walked into an expensive men's store and said "dress me." I gave them the Master Card and didn't look at the bill.

Oh, well. All I and my comrades in khaki can ever hope for is that somehow the lack of taste will become trendy. And from the looks of many hairdos on men these days, we've got a crack at it.

Immigration is gray issue

To the editor:

I read with interest Jeffrey Miller's Feb. 6 article on "Handling of Haitians tarnishes image." Mr. Miller gives us a history lesson on our heritage while proposing that we accept 10,000 Haitians now at the Marine base at Guantanamo, Cuba and I assume other Haitians that wish to come to our land. He offers, however, no solutions to the realities of bulk relocation of these people and the human tide of Haitians that would be certain to follow.

As Mr. Miller points out, it is true that "when persecution reared or the land failed, immigrants came from England, Poland, Germany, Ireland, Scotland across water in droves.

They became our craftsmen, builders and farmers. These immigrants became the backbone of the great land known as the United States of America." Mr. Miller fails to explain, however, the fact that these Haitian immigrants are not craftsmen, builders or farmers, and they bring no training, no money, no skills and no education to our land.

He overlooks the fact that some city government or our federal government will be forced to accept the monetary challenge to feed, clothe, educate, train and provide medical care for these people at a time when many city and state governments are bent and nearly broken under the strain of trying to provide these same services with dwindling tax dollars.

Mr. Miller does not address the problems of our tired, poor, huddled masses who are out of work, out of homes and out of money, yet he proposes adding thousands of additional people to the equation. I believe Mr. Miller would have a different perspective, if the proposed relocation site for these Haitian immigrants would be in our country and the already high taxes which all of us pay would be further increased to accommodate their needs.

This is not an issue of black immigration as I believe Mr. Miller would have us think. It is an issue of economics and reality. We can not solve all of the world's problems at the expense of the tax payers of this country. Lest Mr. Miller misunderstands this statement, this includes all people of this country who pay taxes in any form and who would be further taxed, monetarily or in any other way, from open and unrestricted immigration. Mr. Miller, this issue is not black and white.

Establish good study habits

QUESTION: My son is entering sixth grade next year. He has done quite well in elementary but will now begin receiving letter grades. I know my son will have more homework in middle school, when he has six teachers instead of one. What are some techniques for parents to use to establish the right pattern for academic achievement?

ANSWER: The home is where A students are made, not during the school day. Believe it or not, between birth and age 18, a child spends only 9 percent of his/her time in class.

All A students I remember came from homes which used many of the following techniques. And you can't start children too early if you are looking for a scholarship down the line.

- Homework is the priority. A quiet, well-lighted place is set aside. Dictionary, rulers and pencils are available.

- An established regular study time is set aside. Your child spends some time every day on schoolwork, even if it is review.

- During study time, the TV is off and phone calls will be returned after the study period is over.

- Discuss homework and see that the child does the most difficult homework first while the brain is fresh.

- DOING YOUR own homework at the same time can have an effect. Write your letters, pay bills, balance your check book, sweep the floor.

- Make your son or daughter the teacher. If it is a history, geography, science or literature lesson, set aside some time and have them tell you what they have learned. Ask them questions until you understand.

The renowned educational philosopher, Dr. Francis Langor, said, "Unless a student can verbally and clearly articulate back to another person what has been learned, I doubt they understand."

These simple concepts have been known for years and those parents who follow them have the A students. This is a way of life, not a topic for your son/daughter's endless discussion and debate until the child manipulates the environment for the child's own pleasure.

OBVIOUSLY there must be some flexibility such as if a critical phone call comes in. However, don't buy the "I don't have any homework" routine unless your child is an all-A student.

By tradition, the Japanese set aside two hours a night for homework monitored by the mother.

Nothing comes easily. However, clearly established goals, a specific work plan followed consistently is the only road I know for the future scholarship candidate. Learning, simply said, does not come via osmosis.

QUESTION: My daughter just received her social studies term paper back. There was a grade on the front cover but not a comment throughout the 20 page paper. Some of the things my daughter wrote are not even fact. What should I do?

ANSWER: On the high side, the teacher thoroughly read the term paper and gave a grade based on his experience. On the low side, he breezed through the paper, took into consideration you daughter's over all grade average for the year and put that grade on the paper. Maybe he had a golf match that afternoon.

The worst I ever saw was the English teacher years ago, when I was an assistant high school principal. Near the end of her career, she was worn out and should have retired but didn't.

THE KIDS knew she only read the introduction and the conclusion of term papers. So one of our very bright and clever students wrote a beautiful introduction and a brilliant conclusion in his term paper on students' rights. However, on the 10 pages in the body of his paper, he quoted word for word from writings by John Donne, the great English poet. He received an A.

Most teachers commit themselves to the task of thoroughly reading and commenting on term papers. A few cheat on kids.

What should you do? Meet with the teacher and tell him of your concerns. If you are right and your daughter's facts were totally wrong in the paper, he may take responsibility or rationalize away responsibility and feel comfortable knowing he has tenure.

UNPROVEN REMEDIES

Point 1: if it can't hurt, it may help. The tragedy of tryptophan proves the fallacy of that argument. Tryptophan is an essential amino acid. Health food faddists touted it as a magic ingredient in health. If a little was necessary than more would be great. Many people bought this idea and purchased 1-tryptophan supplements.

The sole source of the capsule was a respected chemical company who in 1988 changed to a method of manufacture in which bacteria, fed on waste material, produced copious amounts of tryptophan as a by-product. Unfortunately, a toxic contaminant fixed to the tryptophan. Discover came to light only in 1990 after thousands of individuals developed a debilitating muscle disease.

Such was the result when people acted in good faith. Who knows what potential disaster lies with the home brewed remedies presently marketed as something that "can't hurt but may help."

Point 2: doctors are too proud, they won't accept something if it isn't scientific. Science doesn't have all the answers but does understand when a medical product is foolish, fraudulent, or potentially dangerous. People who disparage scientific opinion on such matters are either misinformed or swindlers.

To save your money and preserve your safety, avoid unproven remedies.

Not only can Keri Leigh sing the blues with the Blue Devils, she's also can write about them. The Austin, Texas, resident is authoring two books, one on the late Stevie Ray Vaughn and the other on Elvis Presley.

Devil of a way to sing the blues

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

A listen to Keri Leigh and the Blue Devils' "Blue Devil Blues" reveals a resonant voice steeped in the blues tradition. Keri Leigh is a singer, but the 23-year-old Austin, Texas, resident is also quite the student.

Her quest for blues knowledge remains insatiable.

Leigh is an author and is writing two books, one on late blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan. The other book is on Elvis Presley through the words of bodyguard Lamar Fike.

Just the mere mention of her wide range of influences — Etta James, Bessie Smith, Big Mama Thornton and Billie Holiday — produces a coo of delight from her over the phone.

This reverence for past masters serves as a catalyst, sparking a hue throughout the outfit's burning up-tempo blues debut on Amazing Records. Leigh's throaty howls are at the forefront of an unrelenting R&B guitar attack.

On the opening track, Leigh covers Willie Dixon's "I'm Ready" in raucous fashion — showcasing one aspect of her wide vocal range that draws comparisons from Janis Joplin to Etta James.

Leigh and her musical collaborator (and husband) Mark Lyons also rekindle numbers associated with Robert Johnson, Muddy Waters and Slim Harpo.

"WE ARE sort of revisionists in that sense," said Leigh, whose Blue Devils perform Thursday,

'Everything you hear today is contemporary, which is good because blues has to change with the times.'

— Keri Leigh

Feb. 27, at Sully's. "I think what it's called is the new tradition. We're trying to keep this tradition alive because I don't think there's enough folks out there who are interested in preserving the traditional forms of the blues — the Delta, acoustic Texas blues and the Chicago style.

"Everything you hear today is contemporary, which is good because blues has to change with the times. Then again, it's hard to know to where you are going unless you've been there."

Leigh has been there, though her youthful 23 year age belies that.

Leigh began singing at 13, performing in night clubs while still going to high school. An ardent archivist of the blues, she formed the Blues Society in Oklahoma.

Much like the masters she revered, though, Leigh indulged in ancillary aspects of business. She would belt out sets and abuse her throat with cigarettes and drink. In the process she developed nodes, which required surgery and made her leave the business for four years.

Her biggest hero, Stevie Ray Vaughan, a person whom Leigh had interviewed several times, became her mentor. And, later, the guitarist served as an inspiration to stop her in a path of self-destruction.

"I WAS sinking fast," she said. "I went through a bout with cocaine to just about everything: pills, alcohol and all that stuff. I really had to calm that down. I was going nowhere fast and killing myself.

"When I saw Stevie go clean... it all of sudden made sense to me. It was sort of like finding the steering wheel of a car."

When Leigh and Blue Devils guitarist Mark Lyons transplanted to Austin, Vaughan helped in the process. He showed her what places to live, where to play.

Austin served as the perfect springboard for Leigh and the Blue Devils. The competition is fierce as the Texas city is a haven for musical talent.

Leigh and the Blue Devils also signed with Austin-based Amazing Records, promptly releasing "Blue Devil Blues."

There is a dynamic on the LP, mainly the result of Leigh's traditional blues purism and the rest of the band's contemporary influences.

"Everybody gets along. There is a little bit of tension in that most of player in the band were raised in rock backgrounds and one of them has a country background. I'm always preaching the blues. Blues, blues, blues... Sometimes, I'm sure they'd like to try something else."

Keri Leigh and the Blue Devils will perform Thursday, Feb. 27, at Sully's, 4758 Greenfield, Dearborn. For information, call 846-1920.

Sue Summers brings Chaos to the music scene

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Amid the discord and fragmentation of any local music scene, one thing can at least be counted on here — Chaos.

The label operated out of the Detroit home of area promoter Sue Summers has turned confusion into collaboration and has quickly become this community's most viable and productive source for creative music.

Since its informal start in 1990, the Chaos Network & Records has released two stellar compilation efforts — the most recent being "A Fist Full of Chaos." Also, LPs by The Generals ("You'll Eat What We're Cookin'") and by Blue Nimbus' ("Jaded") have been issued by the local label.

More so, Chaos Network & Records has become a sterling example of what an aggregate effort by several bands can accomplish.

"She (Summers) has made things move a lot faster," said Ken Haas of Livonia, a member of the Culture Bandits. "Instead of having bands chasing each others' tails, she's pulled us together."

Chaos grew as an extension of Summers' unshakable belief in local music and of Detroit itself.

A 1984 graduate of Detroit Dominican High School, Summers became enamored in the hardcore punk scene of the early '80s when bands such as Negative Approach, Reputations and Mutants ruled and clubs such as the Red Carpet and the Punch and Judy were popular haunts.

SUMMERS LATER operated a clothing and record store, also named Chaos, inside Todd's nightclub in Detroit.

Three years ago, she began booking bands into the cozy confines of Finney's Pub in Detroit. In retrospect, her efforts became something of a catalyst.

As the club's popularity increased, so did the fortunes of the bands who regularly performed there. Summers and the handful of groups decid to take things a step further.

"Everyone was keeping secrets and not helping each other," Summers said. "Bands are all in the same boat. They should be helping each other out."

Chaos Network & Records became an epicenter of movement, taking care of bookings, accounting, promoting bands and releasing albums.

Chaos Network & Records has evolved into a support system. Each month, Summers and members of Grady Hazy or Skinhorse congregate at the home of Generals member Tony Cole to share their insights and their frustrations.

"Up until Sue put this together," Cole said, "everybody was so suspicious of one another. I'm not going to tell you how to get booked into Paychecks because you'll cut into my piece of the pie. That's backwards thinking.

"(Instead) it's my buddy owes me a favor. You've got a contact and you let them in on it. Then they say, 'Hey I've got this cool club in Pittsburgh.' Now you're doing two clubs. It's straight out of kindergarten. Share your toys."

Chaos Records & Network will present a record release party for "A Fist Full of Chaos" on Saturday, Feb. 29, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. The show will feature The Generals, Blue Nimbus, Grady Hazy, Watershed, Culture Bandits and Skinhorse, along with special guests Flyin' Saucers and Vavoom. For information, call 961-MELT.

It has been because of Sue Summers that Chaos Network & Records has grown from an informal start in 1990 to the epicenter of the music movement in Detroit.

Sincerity adds spice to 'Mississippi Masala'

"Mississippi Masala" isn't wild, hip, or outrageous. Its director doesn't possess an over-abundance of style.

Yet there's something irresistible and sincere about Mira Nair's love story about the controversial relationship between a black man and an Indian woman in the deep South.

Nair previously directed the acclaimed "Salaam Bombay," the story of a poverty-stricken boy on the mean streets of India.

"Mississippi Masala," currently at the Maple Theatre, opens with an Indian family fleeing Idi Amin's government in Uganda for London and finally the United States.

Years later, the father (Roshan Seth) writes countless letters to the current Ugandan government in the hopes of reclaiming his property. His wife, and especially daughter (Sarita Choudhury), have no interest in returning.

Demetrius, an ambitious Mississippi native who runs his own carpet-cleaning business. He first dates Mina to make an old girlfriend jealous and then finds himself falling in love with her.

The relationship doesn't sit well with the Indians, who claim to profess a kinship to African Americans because they're both people of color. Inter-racial dating is another story.

The black community, meanwhile, chastises Demetrius for sleeping with what they term a white woman.

Where Spike Lee's "Jungle Fever" was a topical, almost cliched, statement about black-and-white relations, the message here is more cleverly shaded and sincere.

The understated performance by Denzel Washington makes you forget he's a star. He looks appropriately straight arrow in his spiffy blue carpet-cleaning uniform. He proudly displays his business motto, "Your dirt is our bread and butter," on his van and in his sales pitch.

ROSHAN SETH, so effective in "My Beautiful Laundrette," brings a wonderfully obsessed quality to the father who longs for home. He adds another touch of professionalism to what is often an uneven production.

Sarita Choudhury, likable enough as Mina, seems uncomfortable next

The understated performance by Denzel Washington makes you forget he's a star.

'Matewan:' It's a must see

In an era when labor unions can be taken for granted by their members and are accused of being counterproductive to commerce, the 1987 film "Matewan" should be required viewing. This outstanding film gives a vivid picture of the conditions that necessitated the rise in trade union organization.

Set in 1920, the film looks at the escalating tensions between coalminers in Matewan, W.Va., and the head breakers and spies sent in by the company that runs the area like its private kingdom.

The grim-covered face of a young coalminer appears out of the darkness as the light on his hat is turned on. He wheezes and coughs as he works. The company pays for coal by the ton.

We watch as the workers pass the bad news that the company has once again reduced the price it will pay for coal.

Transported by cattle car, a group of black workers is brought to join Italian immigrants in replacing striking miners. It doesn't take long for the new workers to realize they aren't much better than slaves.

As a company man explains, they will be paid only in company scrip, which will be spent at the company store and to reimburse the company for transportation, tools, lodging and just about anything conceivable.

AFTER A run-in with the supplanted miners, Few Clothes Johnson, played robustly by James Earl Jones, and other black workers realize they are being used as scab workers.

Johnson will overlook a racial slur, noting "that's the way white folks are," but he is indignant at being labeled a scab.

Chris Cooper gives a wonderful performance as the gentle union organizer who tries to unite the workers against their common opponent, the mining company. A former Wobbly and a pacifist, Cooper shyly admits to "being a Red" when questioned about his beliefs.

The company enforcers are cretinous thugs who display contempt for all the workers and displeasure at being stuck in a Southern backwater town. The film never shows the owners of the mining company, although the situation is broader than a labor dispute. It's the class struggle of hardworking people trying to get out from under people who grow rich off their efforts.

Like the union organizer, the town sheriff played by David Strathairn, tries to avoid violence in the growing confrontation. The difference is the sheriff, a quiet war veteran, will take action to protect his townspeople and to resolve the crisis in an unpredictable way.

WRITER/DIRECTOR John Sayles makes it clear where he stands as workers rebel against a pass the popcorn

company that treats them as highly expendable parts of their highly profitable operation.

In an ironic turn, Sayles appears in "Matewan" as a Bible-thumping preacher who rallies against unions as the devil incarnate. In a one-company town, there is no being neutral when a labor war begins.

"Matewan" is a rich textured film with uniformly good performances and well drawn characters. The struggle for decent wages and working conditions affects a wider circle than the workers. It affects their families and often widows and children.

Sayles has made a compelling heartfelt film about what might be expected to be a rather predictable story.

"The Last Waltz" (USA - 1978), 8 p.m. Feb. 24-25. Martin Scorsese directed this farewell concert by The Band. Robbie Robertson and company are joined by Bob Dylan, Joni Mitchell, Neil Young, Van Morrison, Eric Clapton, Emmylou Harris, Dr. John, Ringo Starr and Ron Wood.

"Lolita" (Britain - 1962), 8 p.m. Feb. 26. James Mason plays Humbert Humbert, who obsesses about a precocious and usually snotty teenager (Sue Lyon). Peter Sellers and Shelley Winters co-star in Stanley Kubrick's watered-down but still fascinating version of the Vladimir Nabokov novel.

"The Cure in Orange" (Britain - 1987), 9 and 11:30 p.m. Feb. 28-29. Musical group The Cure is captured live in Orange, France in this concert film.

MAPLE THEATRE, 4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. Call 855-9090 for show times. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Naked Lunch" (USA - 1992). David Cronenberg's flipped-out treatment of the novel by William Burroughs. Peter Weller stars as an exterminator whose addiction to bug powder sends him on a one-way trip to a drug-inspired fantasy.

"Mississippi Masala" (USA - 1992). A spicy love story about an African-American man and an Indian-Ugandan woman who find themselves embroiled in scandal that threatens to unravel the delicate balance between their two cultures.

MICHIGAN THEATRE, 603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students and senior citizens)

"Let Him Have It" (Britain - 1991), 8:50 p.m. Feb. 24-27 and 9:20 p.m. Feb. 28. A pair of teenagers in post-war England plot to rob a warehouse but end up killing a policeman in the process. What happens to these would-be gangsters is an eerie, true-life story whose ramifications are still being felt in the British legal system.

"National Film Board of Canada Animation Festival," 7 p.m. Feb. 24 - 27 and 7:30 p.m. Feb. 28. An innovative collection of short works. Some, like "The Big Snit," are already well-known. Others, like "Two Sisters" by Caroline Leaf and Les Drew's "Every Dog's Guide to the Playground," are quickly becoming classics.

STATE WAYNE THEATER, 35310 Michigan Avenue West, Wayne. Call 326-4600 for show times. ($2; $1 children and senior citizens)

"Rio Bravo" (USA - 1959), Feb. 24-March 1 (call for show times). John Wayne stars in the overrated but still entertaining Howard Hawks western about a sheriff trying to keep a criminal from busting out of prison. Dean Martin, Angie Dickinson, Ricky Nelson and Walter Brennan lend a hand.

"Cabaret" (USA - 1972), Feb. 28-March 1 (call for show times). Bob Fosse directed this stylized musical about an American singer (Liza Minnelli) in Berlin just before World War II.

Glenn gets share of Lakes crown

By Darren A. Nichols
staff writer

Westland John Glenn shot so many easy baskets it seemed more like a layup drill than a game.

John Glenn, using a 24-10 second quarter run Friday, routed host Livonia Stevenson 75-50 in a Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball game.

It was very simple win for Glenn. The Rockets just executed the half-court offense by setting screens to get layup after layup.

"It's a basic motion offense," John Glenn coach Pat Bennett said. "We executed very well. We made the extra pass and took advantage of the defense."

Glenn, which tied Walled Lake Central and Plymouth Salem for the Lakes Division title at 4-1 each, improved to 9-7 overall and 7-4 in the WLA. The win pushed the Rockets into the fifth spot in the playoffs, and will play at No. 4 Salem Friday in the first round. Stevenson dropped to 8-8 overall and 4-7 in the league. They will play at Plymouth Canton in the playoffs.

JUNIOR CENTER Ken Taylor, replacing injured Kevin Tomaszewski in the starting lineup, led four John Glenn players in double figures with 18 points. Junior forward John Miller added 17, senior guard Michael Orr had 16 and junior guard Aaron Scheffer chipped in 10.

Although Senior guard Matt Grodzicki led Stevenson with 17 points, 10 of his points were scored in the fourth quarter when the game was out of reach. Colin Stockton added 12.

"I think our defense took Stevenson out of their game," Orr said. "They were forcing shots, we boxed them out, got the boards and opened our fast break. (In the half-court offense), we set a lot of picks and the points came to us.

"Mentally, we were prepared to play and they weren't. We knew what it would take to win tonight."

After leading 17-12 at the end of the first quarter, John Glenn broke the game wide open, outscoring Stevenson 24-10 in second quarter, including a 10-0 run midway through the quarter.

Glenn led 18-14 after a pair of free throws by Stevenson's Grodzicki. With 6:59 remaining, Taylor started the sport with a layup.

A SHORT JUMPER and a reverse layup by Orr put the Rockets up 10 with 5:52 left in the quarter. Two straight layups by Miller left John Glenn ahead 28-14 with 4:21 left in the half.

Grodzicki ended the run with a pair of free throws with 3:45 left in the half.

Glenn, which never trailed in the game, led 41-22 at halftime.

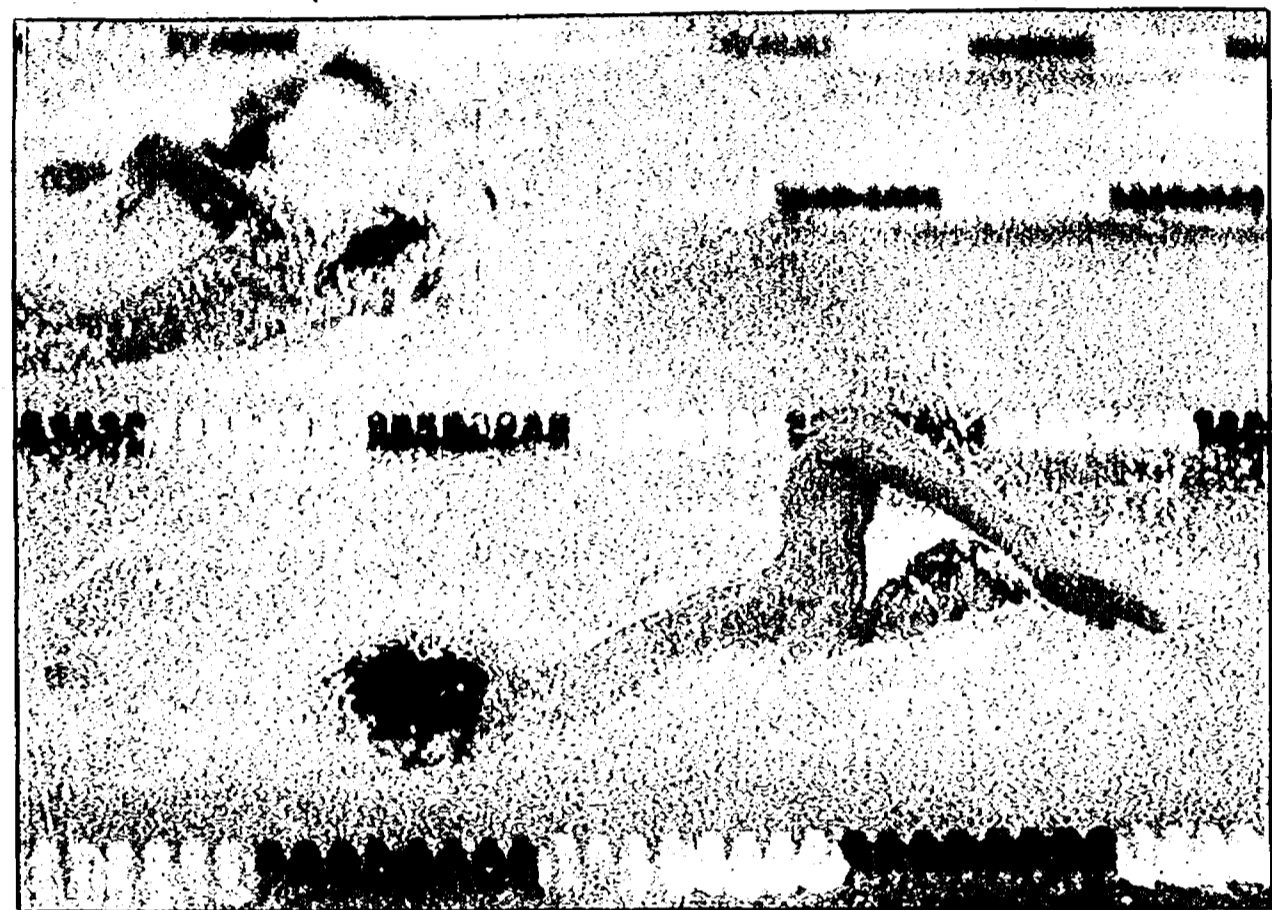

The Rockets gained a 64-34 advantage at the end of the third quarter, and took its biggest lead of the night, 70-34, with 6:04 left in the game.

"We did not play well at all," Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre said. "We didn't do anything to help ourselves and to make ourselves a better ballclub."

"I don't know — we have good kids; we have good practices; we're just not clicking. We're a mystery team. I told the kids to look toward the next game (Friday at Plymouth Canton). I told them you can't play the last game over again."

Bennett was pleased and excited with the win.

"I think we played well," he said. "This win gave us a share of the division championship and it's my first as a coach. We played very solid and well enough to earn the victory and the championship."

Heartbreaker Valentino's 3-pointer beats CC, 45-42

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

basketball

Knowing that Rob Valentino would take the last shot Sunday afternoon was of no help to the Redford Catholic Central basketball team.

Valentino, by far Dearborn Divine Child's best player, made a desperation three-point shot as time expired to give the Falcons a 45-42 upset of CC in a Catholic League quarterfinal playoff game at Calihan Hall.

Valentino, bounded the entire second half by CC's defense, somehow got the shot off over the outstretched arms of the Shamrocks' 6-foot-6 Bob Kummer and 6-5 Chad Varga.

"We know he's their go-to guy, and to his credit he made the shot," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "It reminded me a lot of the Mike Prince shot that won the Catholic League (for CC) in 1976."

Valentino, a senior guard, scored 15 of his game-high 22 points in the first half as the Falcons built a 29-15 halftime lead. Kummer held Valentino scoreless in the third quarter and Valentino made only two-of-seven second half shots, but he made the one that mattered the most.

CC fought back from a 40-34 deficit in the last 4:31 and tied the score at 42-42 with 1:58 left on a three-point play by junior forward Brian Paluk. CC then stole the ball in the backcourt from DC but Marc Gondek's 10-foot shot in the paint hit the back of the iron and gave DC the ball for a last-shot opportunity.

DC held the ball the rest of the way and called timeouts twice in the last 20 seconds for a last-shot. With less than 10 seconds left, Valentino drove the lane but the ball was knocked out of bounds and given back to DC with six seconds remaining.

After another timeout, Valentino received the in-bounds pass near half-court, dribbled to the three-point arc and launched the game-winning shot.

"We planned to get the ball to Valentino and let him try to win it for us," DC coach Joe Charnley said. "He's a great kid who works hard every day. Teams have been double-teaming him all year. He's just a winner."

Despite the loss, Holowicki was enthused about CC's second-half comeback. The Shamrocks seldom looked worse than they did in the first half when they made only five-of-19 field goals and were out-rebounded, 16-11.

CC improved in both areas in the second half, but several missed layups and eight-of-15 free throw shooting helped doom the Shamrocks. Kummer led CC with 14 points, Varga added 13 and Paluk scored all 10 of his points in the second half.

"We missed a lot of layups and free throws, but we kept coming and coming," Holowicki said. "I think if we go to overtime, we win. We should have been up for Divine Child because it's a neighborhood rivalry, but we weren't. We're just not playing well right now."

CC is 13-4 overall. DC, 12-4, will meet Detroit St. Martin DePorres in a semifinal game at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Calihan.

Wisconsin gains 2 gems

soccer

The Observerland connection keeps growing at the University of Wisconsin.

The Badgers added a pair of men's soccer recruits when Livonia Stevenson's Travis Roy and Livonia Churchill's Scott Lamphear recently signed national letters-of-intent.

The All-State and All-Observer performers join Plymouth Salem product Jeff Gold, who was an 18-point scorer last fall for the record-setting 17-4-1 Badgers.

Livonia Stevenson's Lisa Thomas is also headed for Wisconsin's final four women's soccer team (joining Farmington product Carrie Maier).

Roy led 20-0-3 Stevenson to the state Class A championship last fall en route to Michigan's Mr. Soccer and state Gatorade Circle of Champions Player of the Year honors. He was also a All-American selection.

Roy, who also considered Penn State, is as talented in the classroom as he is on the field. He carries a 4.0-plus grade-point average.

The senior scored a 31 on the ACT and a 1,340 on the SAT while reaching the final round of the state high school mathematics competition.

"Wisconsin's chemical engineering program is number one in the nation and it's a big school, 45,000 to 50,000, so there are many things to keep you occupied," said Roy, who scored 30 career goals to go along with 35 assists. "The campus is huge. It's beautiful, surrounded by two lakes. It's a typical midwestern campus."

ROY, an all-around performer who excels at sweeper, was a member of the Metro Magic club team which captured the U.S. Youth Soccer Association's Under-16 national crown in 1990 before losing the 1991 Midwest Regional (Under-17). He plans to play this spring for the Vardar Under-19 team.

"Travis is a very talented player whose versatility allows him to play anywhere on the field," Wisconsin coach Ray Launder said. "He's extremely strong, so we'll look to play him up front."

Lamphear also plans a career in chemical engineering.

Carrying a 3.59 G.P.A., Lamphear scored 100 percent on his science placement test and was a top student debater on the Michigan state team for three years.

"It was the combination of the two — chemical engineering and a top 20 soccer program," said Lamphear, who also considered Notre Dame, University of Detroit-Mercy and Cornell. "They give the athletes a lot of benefits."

"Except for the cold (weather), it has everything I need."

Lamphear, a four-year starter, played sweeper for the 16-2-2 Chargers, who were rated No. 1 in Class A during most of the regular season.

THE CHURCHILL standout played on the Olympic Development Program's regional team from 1989-91 and was a member of the Vardar III Soccer Club that placed third in the Patrick Indoor Nationals.

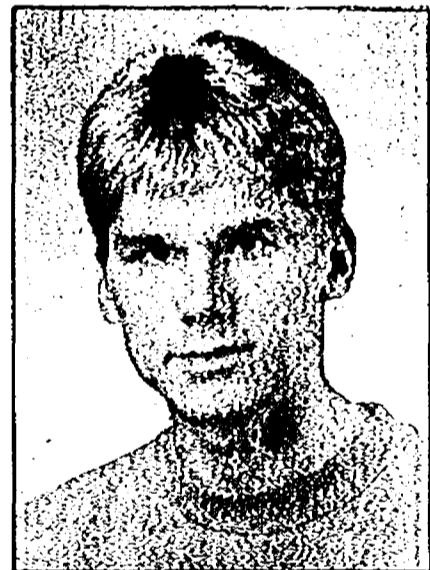

"Scott is an excellent defender who's very smart," Launder said. "He should fit into our system well because he can go forward."

"These are two of the top student-athletes in the region, who can fit into our system immediately."

Wisconsin also may be close to

Travis Roy
Wisconsin bound

Scott Lamphear
another Badger recruit signing another All-Stater and All-Observer performer.

Churchill striker Mike Gentile, a Parade All-American and member of the Olympic Development Junior National squad, has narrowed down his choices to Wisconsin and Duke.

"I've put in a little nudge for him," Lamphear said of his high school teammate. "We'd work well together and it's good Travis is going, too. We all know each other. It would be great."

Three of Schoolcraft College's finest — Renea Bonser (left, from Livonia Stevenson), Stephanie Jandasek (middle) and Karl Van

Deusen — have signed letters-of-intent to continue their volleyball careers at four-year colleges.

Three's company Volleyball scholarships for SC trio

It was with mixed emotions that Tom Teeters reported the signings of three of his top players at Schoolcraft College with four-year universities.

Sure, he was happy they were getting the opportunity to continue playing volleyball and were receiving a scholarship to do so. Still, having to replace quality players like Karl Van Deusen, Renea Bonser and Stephanie Jandasek is never easy.

Van Deusen, a 6-foot-2 middle hitter from Waterford (Moit HS), made vast improvement between her freshman and sophomore years, according to Teeters — one major reason Florida Southern signed her. "She came out of nowhere," he said. "She and Renea (Bonser) in the middle became our primary attack."

Van Deusen's statistics were impressive: She hit .365 for the season, leading the team in kills, and was SC's top serve receiver. Her ability earned her honorable mention All-American, all-state, all-Eastern Conference and team MVP accolades and put her on the all-NJCAA Tournament team. She was also the Region 12 Tournament MVP.

BONSER, a 5-11 hitter from Livonia Stevenson, nearly matched Van Deusen statistically. She should give Wayne State, one of the better teams in the tough Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, a big lift next season.

Bonser was SC's top blocker; she also hit .355. She, too, was an all-conference selection and was named to the all-Region 12 team. Teeters noticed a change in Bonser when she insisted during pre-season that she could play in the back row. "She became more assertive," said Teeters. She also developed into one of SC's better all-around players.

The three were instrumental in helping SC to a 42-13 overall record. The Ocelots also won their fourth consecutive region championship.

Jandasek, a 6-8 outside hitter from Brighton whose father Joe coached SC before Teeters, was another solid all-around talent who figures to help another GLIAC team — Grand Valley State.

"I've known her since she was four-years old," said Teeters. Jandasek received all-region team honors and was winner of SC's coaches' award.

The threesome were instrumental in helping SC achieve a 42-13 overall record (36-11 against junior colleges). The Ocelots were 9-1 in the Eastern Conference and captured their fourth-consecutive region championship. SC finished fifth at the NJCAA Tournament.

In Teeters' seven years as coach, 19 of his student-athletes have gone on to four-year colleges.

Stevenson goalie stymies Chargers

Goalie Mike Williams was tough down the stretch, leading Suburban High School Hockey League champion Livonia Stevenson to a 5-4 triumph Wednesday over city rival Churchill before nearly 1,000 fans at Edgar Arena.

The Spartans finished league play at 11-0, while Churchill fell to 9-3 and 13-7 overall.

"The difference was Williams, he stood tall at the end," Stevenson coach Paul Ferguson said. "Churchill had some point-blank chances, but he came up big."

Williams made 30 saves. The Chargers outshot Stevenson, 34-29.

Churchill struck first at 4:00 of the opening period when Jamie Allen scored on assists from Mike Johnson and Todd Siedlaczek.

Stevenson then scored three times without an answer — Doug Gulau from Frank Eupizi at 5:53; Mike Schmidt from Kit Mastroberto and Doug Delvigna at 9:35; and Mastroberto on a penalty shot at 10:58.

But the 3-1 lead didn't last long as Larry Allen found the net for Churchill at 12:32 (from Dan Imperati); but Stevenson took a 4-2 lead after one period when Mastroberto notched his second goal from Schmidt and Ryan Fawkes.

The Spartans went up 5-2 at 6:50 of the second period when Mastroberto completed his hat trick (Scott Johnson assisted).

Churchill then scored twice during the same stanza, both goals by Siedlaczek (at 8:58 and 14:11) with Steve Grom assisting on the first, followed by Corey Swider and Jamie Allen on the second.

But that was the extent of the scoring as Williams and Churchill netminder Todd Henderson held fort the rest of the way.

"We kind of sat back and Churchill came at us," said Ferguson, whose team is 16-2-2 overall. "They (Churchill) were definitely fired up. We didn't approach things lazily though."

TRENTON 8, STEVENSON 5: A slow start cost Livonia Stevenson Friday in a battle of state-ranked teams at the Kennedy Ice Arena.

The host Trojans, rated No. 3 in Class A, jumped out to a 3-0

hockey

(first-period lead and held off No. 2 Stevenson (16-3-2 overall).

Trenton's Greg Obyrcki and Sean Slater notched goals not even a minute into the game. Mike Lazorka added another first-period goal to make it 3-0.

"Trenton started out real heavy duty," Ferguson said. "They're very fast and they played very hard. We got a couple of bad bounces, and bang, we're down 2-0. It was an uphill struggle and it's a difficult place to play."

Each team scored twice in the second period.

Stevenson's Anthony Flevaris tallied a power-play goal from Eupizi and Johnson to make it 3-1, but Joey Chappelle and Slater upped the margin to 5-1 before Matt Corriveau scored from Eupizi.

Trenton's Matt Green made it 6-2 to open the third period, but Stevenson fought back with three unanswered goals — Mastroberto from Eupizi and Flevaris; Mastroberto again from Eupizi and Corriveau; and Fawkes from Chris Rennie.

Ahead by only one, 6-5, Slater responded with his third goal of the night and Damian Frederick put an exclamation point on the win.

"I liked the comeback after we were down 5-1," Ferguson said. "We never quit and we kept working, but we have to take care of business in our own end. We can't mess around with the puck in our own end."

WYANDOTTE 5, FRANKLIN 4: On Wednesday, the visiting Bears stormed back for three unanswered goals in the final period to beat Livonia Franklin in a SHSHL encounter at Edgar Arena.

Yea Yea Martinez tallied the game-winner with only 4:48 remaining after teammate Jamie Leonard tied it at 7:22.

Lance Stepaniak paced the victors with two goals and one assist.

Rick Bernard tallied two goals and had one assist for the Patriots. Matt Leirstein and Jeremy Kiosowski (unassisted) also notched goals. Shane Hastings contributed two assists, while Leirstein and Bernard added one apiece.

The loss drops Franklin to 15-5-1 overall. The Patriots finished 6-5-1 in league play, good enough for third place.

Brother Rice slips by Redford CC

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Birmingham Brother Rice scored three unanswered goals Wednesday night to defeat Redford Catholic Central, 3-2, in a Michigan Metro Hockey League game played at Oak Park Arena.

Rice, which also rallied to win an earlier meeting last month against CC, improved to 18-2 overall and 11-2 in the Metro. The Warriors are in a first place tie with Trenton (10-1-2) with 22 points each.

Rice, No. 1-ranked in Class A, trailed 2-0 after one period before tying the score with a pair of second-period goals.

Rice sophomore defenseman Matt Riker scored on a slap shot from the point at 6:27 of the third period to break a 2-2 tie and send CC home without a point. CC goalie Mike Brusseau, who stopped 26 Rice shots, didn't have a chance as he was screened by a crowd of players in front of the net.

The loss dropped the Shamrocks further back in the Metro at 7-4, 12-4-1 overall. CC coach Jack Gumbleton believes the turning point came in the second period when Rice outshot CC, 15-3, and scored once on a power play and once with each team short a man.

For the game, Rice outshot CC, 29-16.

CLASS A REGIONAL HOCKEY PAIRINGS at Redford Ice Arena

Monday, March 2: (A) Redford Catholic Central vs. (B) Southfield Lathrup 8 p.m.

Tuesday, March 3: (C) Livonia Churchill vs. (D) Livonia Franklin, 5:30 p.m.; (E) Bloomfield Hills Lahser vs. (F) Birmingham Brother Rice, 8 p.m.

Thursday, March 5: Livonia Stevenson vs. A-B winner, 5:30 p.m.; C-D winner vs. E-F winner, 8 p.m.

Saturday, March 7: Championship final, 8 p.m. (Winner advances to the state quarterfinal, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 11 at Wyandotte's Yack Arena vs. Grosse Pointe North regional champion.)

"The second period is the one that killed us, we couldn't stay out of the box," Gumbleton said. "They have more talent, they're a much better team than us. Our goalie kept us in the game."

CC's leading scorer, Pat Casey, finished the night with a goal and an assist. The senior forward helped the Shamrocks get on the board first with a pass to teammate Brian Ronayne at 7:15 of the first period. Ronayne's shot from the point didn't have much on it, but it was enough to get through a crowd of players and past Rice goalie Derek Billis.

Casey gave the Shamrocks a 2-0 lead at 12:20 of the first period, scoring unassisted off a faceoff to the right of Rice's net. Casey, leading a two-on-one break, nearly set up teammate Joe Blazek for a third goal early in the second period, but Billis made a kick save to keep the score 2-0.

Casey, a team captain, leads CC with 18 goals and 16 assists.

"He's the best captain I've had since Walt Bartels (a former CC player who starred at Michigan State)," Gumbleton said. "He doesn't have all the skills of Walt but he sure gives 150 percent. I wish I had a whole team like him."

All three of Rice's goals came by defensemen.

The Warriors cut the deficit to 2-1 at 7:38 of the second period on a power-play goal by senior Matt Fleury, assisted by teammates Mitch Murlick and Matt Allen. Rice tied the score, 2-2, when Matt Green scored on assists from Murlick and Riker with both teams short-handed.

Fleury also delivered the game's most-impressive hit, upending CC's junior center Bill Baaki near the Shamrocks' blue line in the second period. Baaki bounced right up and played the rest of the game despite the hit.

Rice coach Mike Brown gave his defense and Billis most of the credit.

"Derek came up big, that's the reason he's (an) all-state (candidate) and has lost only four games in two years," Brown said. "Every time we play CC we play them on emotion, and we tend to get behind. I knew if we kept the pressure up, eventually we'd get them (goals) in."

District champs Franklin, Shamrocks eye regional

Despite records below the .500 mark, both Livonia Franklin and Redford Catholic Central remain alive in the state team dual meet wrestling tournament. See statistical summaries.

Franklin (7-9-1) earned its third straight trip to the regionals under coach Ken Meinschein after sweeping city rivals Stevenson (39-28) and Churchill (41-20) to win the Class A district title at Belleville (Feb. 19).

The Patriots advanced to Plymouth Salem regional where they will square off against the Brighton district champion. The other matchup pits the host Tigers vs. Novi.

Dave Rowland (119 pounds), Fred Vargas (140), Jesse Shakarian (145), Matt Boschi (152), Ben Leece (180), Joe Schaefer (171) and Aaron Shakarian (189) were all winners against Stevenson.

Shakarian, a senior, ran his season record to 29-5-1. CC, meanwhile, upended Dearborn Fordson (47-24) and Edsel Ford (53-12) to win the Class A crown at Woodhaven (Feb. 19).

Double winners for the Shamrocks (7-9 overall) included Mario Scicluna (112), Phil Bache (130), Mike Madden (135), Eathen Rentz (145), Jason Krueger (160 and 171) and Dan Kelly (171 and 189). CC will travel Wednesday to compete in the tough Temperance-Bedford regional.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN lost in its bid to win the district title (Feb. 19) at Garden City High, losing in the final to Romulus, 48-21.

Glenn reached the final with a 49-18 win over the host Cougars.

Double winners for Glenn included Tom Pace (103), Mike Mancini (112 and 119), Mike Reeves (152) and Ken Renard (171).

Host Lutheran High Westland lost in its bid to win the Class C-D district crown against top-ranked Flat Rock, falling to the visiting Rams in the championship final, 46-23.

The Warriors finished their dual-meet campaign at 10-3 with two losses coming at the hands of Flat Rock.

Double winners for the Warriors included Craig Shafer (103), Doug Johnson (112), Tony Horvath (130), Jason Haas (152) and Jamie Hardy (heavyweight).

Horvath is now 26-2-1 on the season; Hardy, 24-3; Johnson, 21-7; and Shafer, 21-7-1.

Blazers win Catholic title

Livonia Ladywood captured its third Catholic League A-B Division volleyball crown under coach Tom Teeters' with a 15-1, 15-9 win Thursday over Harper Woods Regina in the finals at Wayne State University.

Liz Gunn paced the victorious Blazers (34-6-5 overall) with 14 kills and eight assists.

Junior teammate Mary Jo Kelly added seven kills, 12 assists, three digs and three ace serves for Ladywood, now 4-0 this season against the Saddlelites.

"The key today was serve reception, it was phenomenal," Ladywood coach Tom Teeters said. "Regina played a good match. They played well defensively and served well."

Nancy Burr and Jannel Hemme added seven and six digs, respectively. Michelle Wilson added four ace serves.

Gunn, Kelly and Hemme were all named to the All-Catholic and All-Central Division teams. Valerie Adzima made All-Central, while Burr, sporting a 4.26 grade-point average, was selected to the All-Catholic Academic squad.

Ladywood's 14-member varsity squad sports a cumulative 3.5 G.P.A.

LIVONIA STEVENSON defeated city rival Franklin, 15-5, 15-2, 15-13 in a Western Lakes Activities Association match on Wednesday.

The host Patriots dropped to 6-15-7 overall and 1-9 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Stevenson is 29-11-4 and 8-2 in the WLAA.

Franklin played without two of its starters.

Juniors Nancy Noebel (three aces) and Amanda Hosko (one ace and two kills) came off the bench to lift Franklin. Senior middle hitter Joy Wilk added three kills, despite spraining an ankle in the third game.

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE improved to 6-1 in the Metro Conference on Thursday after beating host Bloomfield Hills Kingswood, 15-13 and 15-4.

Senior setter Beth Maguire led Clarenceville with three aces and 22 assists. Leandra Hoffman (15 kills), Michelle Loukojarvi (seven kills), Chris Nunnery (six aces) and Kristen Przegodzka (seven digs) also had outstanding games.

"I am ecstatic with the way they played," Clarenceville coach Alisha Love said. "We played as a complete team."

LUTHERAN HIGH WESTLAND fell Friday to Michigan Independent Athletic Conference foe Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian, 16-14, 15-1, 15-7, as Lindsey Teo served 10 straight points in the second game.

Michele Conklin stood out for the visiting Warriors (6-12, 1-6) on the defensive end, according to coach Sue Speirs.

sports roundup

• BENEFIT HOCKEY

Former Detroit Red Wing players Ted Lindsay, Alex Delvecchio and Dennis Hextall will hit the ice in a hockey game benefitting Sinal Hospital's Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), 7 p.m. Saturday, March 1 at Garden City Ice Arena.

The game will also feature ex-Wings Mickey Redmond, Gary Bergman and Robert Picard.

The ex-Wings will square off against members of the Garden City Hockey League.

The benefit will also include a drawing for two sets of tickets to a Red Wings game with an autograph session following the game.

General admission tickets are $5 per person. Children under four will be admitted free. For ticket information, call 326-4104.

• BAZYLEWICZ RETURNS

It didn't take Walt Bazylewicz long to return to high school football in some coaching capacity. Bazylewicz, who resigned after three years as head coach of Redford Bishop Borgess, has accepted a varsity assistant coach's job at the University of Detroit-Jesuit High, a Catholic League Central-Division member.

In his three years at Borgess, Bazylewicz was 12-15, including a 6-3 finish in 1990. Bazylewicz, a member of the Michigan High School Coaches Hall of Fame, has a high school coaching record of 172-61. His most successful coaching stint came at Harper Woods Notre Dame High School, where he won three Catholic League Central Division championships from 1962-65. U-D is a member of the Central Division.

• CANTON SOFTBALL

The Canton Softball Center is accepting registration for its '92 spring (begins April 11) or summer (July 19) seasons. (Discounts to teams who register for both.) The 18-game or 26-game (Monday A.M. League) includes double-headers. No residency rules are required for men, women and co-ed leagues.

Upper-level leagues — Super B-30 games (all Tuesday double-headers) or Super C-30 games (all Wednesday double-headers) — are also available on a limited basis.

Canton Softball Center's annual Early Bird Tournament will be April 10-12 (four-game guarantee open to all teams). The entry fee is $95 (plus $7 per game umpire fee).

For more information, call 483-5600, Ext. 102.

Walled Lake girls move by Churchill

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Something had to give Thursday in the battle of unbeaten volleyball teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

With both teams somewhat ailing, visiting Walled Lake Central emerged as the winner with a two-hour 6-15, 15-8, 13-15, 15-13, 15-7 triumph over Livonia Churchill.

Central, which wraps up its WLAA season tonight at home against rival Walled Lake Western, is 25-6 overall and 10-0 in the WLAA.

The victory gives Central the top seed heading into Saturday's WLAA playoffs, which begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at Churchill.

"Central deserved to win," said Churchill coach Mike Hughes, whose team fell to 28-6 overall and 9-1 in the WLAA. "It was not really a good match, but I give them credit. When it was the last game and when it was important, they played aggressively. They played tough. We were tipping the ball and they were hitting."

Central's Bridgette Norris, a 5-foot-10 middle blocker, came into the match not fully recovered from a bout with mononucleosis.

SHE STARTED out slowly, but came on strong for the finish, along with teammate Jacie Friend, who served four aces on the night, including two down the stretch in the deciding fifth game.

Tracia Clendenen, a 5-7 senior, had a big night hitting for the Vikings. She made good on 41 of 50 attacks with 18 kills. Norris added 13, while Sarah Washka, a 5-7 senior, added 10.

"I knew if we'd hit with them we'd be OK," Central coach Mike Lindstrom said. "Our two middle hitters — Clendenen and Norris — got pumped up at the end."

"We played Bridgette in the back row strictly the first game because she's been sick, but we had to let her play because she picks up the front row people as well."

Central's outside hitters helped offset Churchill's dangerous duo of Julie Campau and Ellen Lessig.

The Chargers, however, played the entire match without senior setter Kristi Szymanski, who apparently is lost for the season with a torn anterior cruciate ligament (requiring knee surgery).

"THAT MEANS we have to make some adjustments," said Hughes, who coached the Chargers to last year's state Class A championship. "We'll get Aimee Cousino, a sophomore, in some rotations, along with Krista Laidlaw, a junior who has nice hands, but not a lot of experience."

"We're fortunate we'll get a lot of play in this weekend." Both Central and Churchill competed Saturday in the Temperance-Bedford Invitational.

Tournament results will appear on Thursday's Observer.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Lutheran Westland cages Lions

Four players scored in double figures Friday, leading Lutheran High Westland to a 67-57 boys basketball victory over visiting Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian. The victory avenged a 41-39 loss to Fairlane on Jan. 31.

Lutheran Westland is 4-12 overall and 1-5 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. The Lions fall to 9-7 overall and 2-4 in the MIAC.

Rich Mobley, a 6-foot-3 junior forward, paced the winners with a game-high 21 points and 12 rebounds.

Other Lutheran Westland contributions came from junior guard Matt Russian, 18 points and four steals; junior guard Kevin Roberts, 10 points and three assists; and freshman guard Chris Tiernan, 10 points.

Sophomore center Larry McKinny paced Fairlane with 14 points.

"We shot the ball well, I hope we're turning the corner," said Lutheran Westland coach Scott Wiemer, whose team connected on 25 of 55 attempts from the floor for 45 percent.

CLARENCEVILLE 65, LUTHERAN WEST 62: Senior forward Dan Nunnery tallied 17 points Friday, including a pair of critical free throws in the final minute, lifting host Livonia Clarenceville to the Metro Conference victory over Detroit Lutheran West.

Clarenceville is now 8-8 overall and 6-5 in the Metro, while the Leopards fall to 4-12 and 2-7.

Nunnery, who made the two free throws after a technical was assessed on the Lutheran West bench, was one of three Trojans to score in double figures.

Senior guard Tony Malinowski and sophomore forward Mark Kalaj added 14 and 11, respectively.

West senior Reggie Dalton paced all scorers with 23 points.

WAYNE 62, FORDSON 61: In the first meeting on Jan. 17, Wayne Memorial won by 38, but the second encounter on Friday was much closer as the league champion Zebras escaped with the Wolverine A triumph at Dearborn Fordson.

Wayne led 46-35 after three quarters before Fordson put on a late rush, led by Hsalam Abadi, who tallied 11 of his game-high 23 points in the final eight minutes.

Wayne, outscored 26-16 in the final quarter, missed five free throws, including three one-and-one attempts in the final 90 seconds. The Zebras made only seven of 19 on the night for 38.6 percent.

basketball

Rick Barnes and Lee Williams tallied 17 and 12, respectively, for Wayne, now 16-2 overall and 13-0 in the league. All Kball added 12 for Fordson, which slips to 9-8 overall and 8-5 in the Wolverine A.

CANTON 84, FRANKLIN 50: On Friday, host Plymouth Canton wrapped up an unbeaten regular season in the Western Lakes Activities Association by thumping Livonia Franklin.

The Chiefs increased their overall record to 14-3 while finishing as the top seed in the playoffs at 11-0.

Senior guard Derrick McDonald paced the victors with 17 points, six coming in the first quarter as Canton jumped out to a 20-6 advantage.

Six-foot-7 senior point-guard Mike Brennan added 13 points, 11 rebounds and seven assists. Others scoring in double figures included Hal Heard (11), Tony Coshatt (10) and Jon Paupore (10).

Keith Roberts, a senior guard, paced Franklin with 18. Russ Keberly added 11 for the Patriots, who fell to 9-7 overall and 5-6 in the WLAA.

HARRISON 55, CHURCHILL 44: Paul Gilvydis scored 11 of his game-high 22 points in the final quarter Friday, leading visiting Farmington Harrison (12-4, 8-3) to the WLAA win over Livonia Churchill (3-12, 2-9).

The 6-foot-8 Gilvydis helped spur a 21-17 Harrison advantage in the fourth quarter. Senior forward Andy Fitzpatrick, who finished with 13 points, added six during the period.

Senior forward Brian Johnson and senior guard Marcus Sarovsky contributed 15 and 10, respectively, for Churchill.

The Chargers, who trailed by only five at intermission, 31-26, held the ball during the third quarter.

Harrison outscored the Chargers, 3-1, to lead 34-27 after three quarters.

"We can't match up with Gilvydis so what am I going to do?" Churchill coach Tom Lang said. "I've got a 6-3 guy against 6-8, or whatever he is, so I figured if we could hold the ball and play even in the third, then maybe we could beat them in the fourth."

Lady Ocelots rekindle playoff hopes

After 12 minutes of Wednesday's regular-season finale, Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team was not giving the kind of performance needed to keep hopes of a state playoff spot alive.

The Lady Ocelots trailed visiting Delta CC 24-13. Their inside game, one of the team's offensive strengths, was neutralized by what SC coach Jack Grenan called a "case of no calls. We tried to go inside and didn't get any calls."

But if nothing else, SC — which suffered through an eight-game losing streak that left it in its present position, struggling to reach the playoffs — has seemingly learned to adjust. By halftime, the Ocelots trimmed the deficit to 38-34, and with four minutes left in the game they led by 10. Delta closed to within two, but SC hung on for a 66-62 victory.

IT MARKED the team's second-straight win after the dismal losing streak and gave the Ocelots a 14-14 overall record, 4-10 in the Eastern Conference. Their playoff hopes rested with Henry Ford CC and Mott CC, both of which played their final conference games Saturday. A Henry Ford win over Alpena CC would eliminate SC.

Delta dipped to 7-7 in the conference.

"It was just a case of good choices and mental toughness," said Grenan of his team's second-half play. "Delta seemed to break down at the two-minute mark."

SC made some mistakes down the stretch, too. Fifteen steals in the final 20 minutes triggered the Ocelot comeback; they had an eight-point cushion with two minutes to go.

But a couple of turnovers and a missed shot, combined with the Lady Pioneers' connecting from three-point range, made it a 64-62 game with a minute left.

SC RAN the clock on its ensuing possession, protecting its two-point lead. Then Sis Guth supplied the clincher, hitting a 15-foot jumper with :28 remaining to push SC's advantage to 66-62. Delta missed a triple try, and the Ocelots closed out the scoring with a free throw.

Guth finished with 12 points, 10 coming in the second half; she also grabbed 13 rebounds. Jen Audet had 10 points and Dana Hudson scored six and hauled down 16 boards, 12 in the second half.

But the player who made SC's victory possible had to be Donna Galli. The conference's leading scorer poured in 20 first-half points to keep the Ocelots in the hunt; she finished with 29. "She's been someone we could count on all season," said Grenan. "She's been our go-to person."

Delta got 12 from Nicole Berthiaume and 10 from both Dayna Ducham and Kim Brejka.

Stack up classy snack

The trouble with sandwiches is that they are so easy. Hardly anyone has any respect for them, which is too bad. Given a little attention, they can be not only inexpensive and quick to make, but really delicious and unique.

When you want to make a serious sandwich, one that commands respect, start with good bread.

With all due respect to store bought white bread, you can stuff it with the rarest roast beef, the tangiest mustard, but it's still just a sandwich!

PERSONALLY SPEAKING, a baguette or mini loaf of French bread with a crust that is hard, dark brown and covered with seeds or herbs, and a center that is chewy and perfectly flavored is just what this doctor ordered.

To locate one of these delectable loaves, find a bakery that specializes in European baking. Even the thrift bakeries are opting for healthier breads with more grain choices than ever before.

Specialty bakeries abound in Observer & Eccentricland with many featuring fresh baked baguettes, crusty pumpernickles and multi-grain wheats. Of course, if you're serving domestic beer and Fritos, any store bought loaf of dark Russian rye or a coarse cracked wheat will suffice.

When it comes to fillings, everyone has their own ritual of stacking overly flavored luncheon meats and pre-packaged sliced cheeses.

Yours truly has a personal favorite sandwich which is stuffed with grilled andouille sausage (hearty, robust and with just the right spiciness) and grilled red peppers.

DON'T TRY to brown whole sausages and expect them to sit placidly between the bread. Take the sausage and cut it crossways into thin slices, and lay the slices in a hot skillet. That way, you get the flavor from the fat, of which most of it will melt away.

Meanwhile, place a red pepper under the broiler and blister the skin. You will have to turn the pepper every few minutes or so. The entire process will take about 10 minutes.

When the skin is blistered all over, drop the pepper into a paper bag and twist the bag shut so that no air can get in. Leave the pepper there for 5 minutes and shake gently. The skin should just peel off.

Cut the pepper into pieces about 2 inches wide, being sure to remove all the seeds and white membrane inside. Cut through any curves in the pepper so that the pieces are absolutely flat.

Next, boil some water in a saucepan. Core a large fresh tomato and drop it into the boiling water for a second, then drain and run it under cold water while peeling the skin off.

SINCE WINTER "hot house" tomatoes tend to have tough skins, this will ensure a tender bite every time. Cut the tomato into the thinnest slices you can unless you want to imitate Dagwood Busted when you eat the sandwich. The tomato will lend moisture as well as flavor. The main flavor, however, will emanate from the sausage and the contrasting sweetness of the pepper.

Now, for the most important addition, drizzle a little good olive oil (something imported and extra virgin would be nice) into a bowl or deep plate. Using a small brush, coat the cut side of each piece of bread with the oil.

Lay the ingredients on one slice, top with the other slice. Slather on a hefty dollop of honey mustard or something other than plain old yellow mustard and you'll think you've died and gone to heaven!

So forget the same old baloney and try something different, with a little class.

Hometown hero sandwiches

By Charlene Mitchell
special writer

THE HERO sandwich has long been associated with hearty appetites. In some parts of the country, it's called a hoagie, or submarine. But the structure never changes. It's oversized and stuffed with a variety of ingredients with no particular combination.

THE NAME "hero sandwich" is so widely used that it even found its way to the silver screen in a 1977 film starring actress Cicely Tyson titled "A Hero Ain't Nothin' But A Sandwich." The movie had nothing to do with sandwiches, but plenty to do with images of men as heroes.

Our story has everything to do with mouthwatering recipes for unforgettable sandwiches created by our hometown heroes who just happen to be members of the Detroit Pistons and Detroit Lions.

OUR HEROES love to eat, and although they usually have someone else preparing their meals, all shared his own favorite "hungry man" sandwich recipe with us.

We share them with you with the following warning: Be prepared for a long rest in an easy chair afterward. Some of these sandwiches are not intended for normal appetites.

• Dennis Rodman, No. 10, forward, Detroit Pistons

BALONEY SANDWICH
(makes 3 sandwiches)

9 slices of baloney (prefers Oscar Meyer brand)
6 slices homestyle white bread
Crispy lettuce leaves (from head lettuce)
Miracle Whip

Spread Miracle Whip on the bread generously. Stack lettuce alternately with baloney. Do not slice the sandwich. To be eaten with two hands.

Sandwiches must be served with 10 chocolate chip cookies on the side followed by Ruffles potato chips and Vernors!

Supper worth singing for

family tested winner dinner
Betsy Brethen

In the perennial pursuit of outstanding recipes, a bit of trivia has surfaced about the pedigree of this week's Winner Dinner that simply must not be suppressed.

For just as parents name their children, so it has been that some chefs have named special dishes they have created after themselves or in honor of their benefactors.

TAKE, FOR example, this week's Winner Dinner, Chicken Tetrazzini, which is said to have been named for the Italian opera singer Luisa Tetrazzini.

A star in her day, Ms. "T" lived from 1871 until 1940 and was considered one of the finest sopranos of her time.

Now when you prepare this delicious dinner, submitted by Kathy Tosolan of Farmington Hills, you can impress your family with this tidbit of history or, better yet, you can ask them to sing for their supper.

Tosolan is married and the busy mother of Jenny, 10 and Jeffrey, 6. She is a room mother at Longacre Elementary School and helps her husband, John, by answering phones and scheduling all appointments for his business, Corlan Carpet and Furniture Cleaners.

Passed on to her husband by his father, the company has been in business since 1945 and does work all over the metropolitan Detroit area.

In her spare time, Tosolan loves to play tennis and regularly works out at a fitness center.

She enjoys cooking and often experiments with new recipes. She served this winning menu to a group of friends and neighbors at a surprise birthday party recently and was pleased to receive several requests for the recipes from those who had attended the party.

OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC WINNER DINNER

Recipes

Great for a crowd and easy to make, this delicious chicken casserole can also be made with leftover turkey. Serves six to eight.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

½ cup margarine or butter, softened
6 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1¼ cups, divided, sharp cheddar cheese, grated
2 cups milk
1 can cream of mushroom soup, 10½ ounce size
1 can chopped mushrooms, drained, 4 ounce size
1 jar chopped pimentos, drained, 4 ounce size
¾ cup chopped green pepper or to taste
6-8 ounces cooked spaghetti
4 cups cooked and diced boneless chicken breasts
In a medium-sized saucepan, melt the butter or margarine and add the flour, stirring to prevent lumps.
Cooking over medium heat, add the milk gradually and stir until sauce is made. Add ¼ cup of cheese, stirring until it is melted and well-blended and then add the remaining ingredients.
Stir gently until all the ingredients are combined and then pour into a greased 2 quart casserole dish or a 9 by 13 baking dish.
Top with the remaining ¼ cup of cheddar cheese and bake at 350 degrees for 30-45 minutes.

SWEET AND SOUR SALAD

This recipe can be varied by using spinach in addition to or instead of romaine lettuce. Sliced water chestnuts and hard boiled eggs can also be added, if desired.
1-2 heads of romaine lettuce, washed, rinsed and torn into pieces
1 can mandarin oranges, 11 ounce size
½ cup sliced or sliced almonds
1 medium purple onion, sliced thinly
¼ cup crisp cooked, crumbled bacon, optional
• Dressing
¼ cup oil
½ cup white vinegar
½ cup sugar
salt to taste
Mix the ingredients together and toss with the salad.

BROWNIE A LA MODE SUNDAE

One 3 inch by 3 inch chocolate brownie, per person
1 jar caramel topping or hot fudge sauce, warmed in microwave or in saucepan
French vanilla ice cream or frozen vanilla yogurt
Whipping cream
On separate plates, top each brownie with desired amount of ice cream or yogurt. Spoon caramel topping or hot fudge sauce over ice cream or yogurt and top with whipping cream.
If desired, garnish whipping cream with mini chocolate chips, chopped nuts, sprinkles or a cherry.

● Mark Aquile, No. 23, forward, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Birmingham
Natural Food Health Sandwich
Sliced turkey, generous amount freshly roasted
Whole avocado, sliced (not too firm, but not mushy)
Alfalfa sprouts, huge handful
Sliced tomatoes
American cheese, 2 slices
Whole wheat bread
Mayonnaise

Spread mayo on whole wheat bread. Layer turkey, alfalfa sprouts, avocado, cheese, tomatoes in this exact order. Off season, 2 sandwiches; during the season, just one sandwich!

● John Salley, No. 22, forward, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Northwest Detroit (Palmer Woods)

Grown Man's Peanut Butter & Jelly Sandwich
4 slices whole wheat bread (no particular brand but must be soft, not the grainy type) peanut butter, smooth (Jif preferred)

grape jelly (Welch's preferred)
Spread peanut butter generously on both slices of bread. Be sure to go all the way to the edges of the bread. Put a layer of grape jelly on one slice of the bread. Slap the slices together and cut on the diagonal. Ingredients make 2 sandwiches. This treat is customarily eaten after Pistons games, mostly around midnight. Cousin Sabarina knows how to make it best!

● Orlando Woolridge, No. 10, forward, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Rochester Hills
Hot Pastrami on Rye

1/2 pound lean pastrami, deli style
2 thick slices of rye bread, thick crusted

American cheese
Stack hot pastrami between 2 slices of rye bread along with sliced American cheese. Grill until nicely browned. Serve with Russian dressing on the side. Just one sandwich is enough!

● Isiah Thomas, No. 11, guard, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Bloomfield Hills
Plain 'Ole Double Cheeseburger

2 thick lean stein burgers, broiled well done but still juicy!
Plain hamburger bun (no seeds)
Grilled onions
Lettuce and tomato
Slice American cheese
Ketchup, mustard, sliced pickles

Put moderate amount of mustard and ketchup on bun and line with pickles. Put on first burger with melted American cheese. Top with grilled onions, lettuce and tomato. Then add 2nd burger. Flip on the top of the bun and chow down. Zeke adds that he can't enjoy this hero sandwich without a plate full of fries and a vanilla shake to wash it all down!

● William Bedford, No. 00, center, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Rochester Hills
Tall Man's Salami Sandwich

(makes 2 sandwiches)
1/2 pound thick sliced spicy salami, deli style
4 slices white bread
Mayonnaise
American cheese
Lettuce and tomato

Spread plenty of mayonnaise on the bread and pile the salami as high as possible according to wife, Pam. Toss on a couple slices of American cheese along with lettuce and tomato and we're ready to enjoy. Minimum of two sandwiches per sitting. (Amount of food does not vary during off season).

● Bill Lalmeber, No. 40, center, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Orchard Lake
Tuna in a Pita Pouch

One whole pita pouch
Solid white tuna
Mayonnaise
Lettuce and tomato

Cut off narrow top from pita bread, and carefully open so not to tear edges, which makes sandwich very messy. (Billy is very neat!) Tuna should be pre-mixed with plenty of mayonnaise and a bit of seasoning. Line inside of pita with lettuce and tomato, then stuff the tuna inside. No cheese! No extras. A simple snack for a very B-I-G fella!

● Brad Seller, No. 2, forward, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Bloomfield Hills
Grilled Chicken Sandwich

One whole grilled chicken breast
2 slices of regular white bread, nothing fancy!

Thick slice of cheddar cheese
Melt cheddar cheese on top of the grilled chicken breast and put between two pieces of white bread. When asked if he preferred mayo, he shrugged his shoulders and said, "It doesn't matter." Eats only one sandwich. His slender frame reflects moderate eating habits.

● Mark Abdenour, trainer, Detroit Pistons
Resides in Grosse Pointe
Trainer's Special Hero Sandwich

Several thinly sliced pieces of smoked turkey breast
Slices of smoked ham
American cheese
Mayonnaise

3 slices of whole wheat bread, toasted
Lettuce (no tomato ever please!)
Spread a bit of mayo on each of the three slices of toasted whole wheat bread. Put turkey on one slice, ham on the side. Place lettuce on the side with the ham, and tomato on the turkey side. Now that that's all done, put a slice of American cheese on each side of the third piece of bread. Slap all that in the center and you have constructed the trainer's special hero sandwich.

Slice into quarters and put one of those fancy toothpicks through with a pickle to garnish. Ummmm Good!

● Mike Farr, No. 81, wide receiver, Detroit Lions
Resides in West Bloomfield
Double Fat Burger

2 extra lean ground beef patties (1/4 pound each)
1 egg
1 heaping scoop of chili (no beans)
2 slices American cheese
Sesame seed bun
Mayonnaise

Cook patties medium well. Spread mayo on bun and begin to build the sandwich. Fried egg, still slightly runny should go between the burgers along with the cheese and chili. It's a slightly messy sandwich that requires a paper towel rather than a napkin, but it's um... um good according to the Detroit Lions' own Mike Farr.

● Jerry Ball, 93, nose tackle, Detroit Lions
Resides in Rochester Hills
Stacked Ham & Cheese

1/4 pound of thinly sliced boiled ham, deli style
1 slice of American cheese
2 slices of toasted whole wheat bread

Miracle Whip, lettuce, tomato
Spread Miracle Whip generously on both slices of whole wheat toast. Divide ham evenly and put the cheese in the center with lettuce and tomato. Close it up, cut in half and chow down! Better make two. This guy has a hearty appetite.

Make a sandwich that commands respect

See Larry Janes' taste buds on Taste front.

SUPER HERO

- 1 hero roll (6-8 inches long)
  - 2 tablespoons olive oil
  - 1 small clove garlic, crushed
  - 1/2 teaspoon crushed oregano
  - dash fresh ground black pepper
  - 1/2 cup shredded romaine lettuce
  - 1 large tomato, thinly sliced
  - 1 small onion, thinly sliced
  - 1/2 green pepper, cut thin
  - 1/2 sweet red pepper, sliced thin
  - 4 thin slices cooked smoked turkey or chicken
  - 4 thin slices provolone cheese
- Slice the hero roll and set aside. Combine oil with garlic, oregano and black pepper. Mix well. Toss in lettuce and toss to coat. Place on hero roll and top with remaining ingredients. Enjoy.

VEGETARIAN PITA

- 1 whole wheat pita bread
- 1 8-ounce can red kidney beans, drained
- 1/4 cup thin sliced green beans
- 1/4 cup crumbled feta cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons pine nuts or toasted sesame seeds
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 8-ounce can garbanzo beans, drained and crushed
- 4 tablespoons olive oil

3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 teaspoon thyme, crushed

Cut the edge off the pita so it can be stuffed. Set aside. Blend together the kidney beans, green beans, cheese, parsley, nuts and onion. Set aside.

Combine remaining ingredients into a dressing and add bean mixture. Toss to coat. Stuff the pita with this mixture and enjoy.

SHRIMP BUNS

- 4 fresh, large crusty rolls
- 1/2 cup Hollandaise sauce
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

dash dill weed
1 pound cooked shrimp, chopped
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
8 pimento stuffed pitted olives, chopped bibb lettuce

Mix first six ingredients together. Split and lightly butter rolls, fill with shrimp mixture and add lettuce.

Chill before serving.

CURRIED CHICKEN SALAD SANDWICHES

- 3 cups cubed, cooked chicken
- 1 cup celery, diced
- 1 tart apple, diced
- 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin oranges, drained

1/2 cup macadamia nuts, chopped
1 cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Chill, then stuff between bread or rolls and garnish with a kosher dill.

Ruffino known for chianti

For well over 100 years, the House of Ruffino has maintained and nurtured its position at the forefront of the Italian wine industry. Founded by cousins Ilario and Leopoldo Ruffino in 1877, the young company set up headquarters in the Tuscan village of Pontassieve, 10 miles from the city of Florence.

Ruffino grew rapidly, acquiring vineyards yielding top quality grapes and expanding throughout Italy and other parts of Europe. They became official purveyors to the Italian and Swedish Royal Houses as well as the Vatican.

In 1913, the Ruffino name and wineries were purchased by the Polonari family. From the beginning, they had a 20th century approach to both viticulture and marketing. Ruffino was the first firm to market chianti worldwide before World War I.

Today, third generation Ambrogio Polonari oversees all facets of the family's wine business. In fact, the Polonaris are largely responsible for a proactive role in seeking a deservedly serious image for chianti, the wine many Americans still equate with old-style pizza parlors.

As a wine-producing company, Ruffino realized that the picturesque straw-covered bottle detracted from perception of chianti as a well-made, serious yet versatile wine. In 1975, they were the first producer to introduce chianti in a new, stylish Florentine bottle.

Production and warehouse facilities are thoroughly modern. However, original 18th century cellars are still in use since they offer optimum wine aging conditions.

With 3,000 vineyard acres in the Tuscan hills, the heart of Chianti Classico, Ruffino is one of the largest land holders within this appellation. Here they have their Montemasso and Zano estates, the origin of most of the limited supply of Ruffino's chianti.

fino's flagship brand Chianti Classico Reserve Ducale.

PRIOR TO 1957, when it was first launched in the U.S. wine market, it was the wine reserved for the private use of the Duke of Aosta who, during his frequent journeys to visit the pope, would travel through the Ruffino estates. The wine became his favorite, hence the name Riserva Ducale, the "Duke's Reserve."

This classically made Chianti Classico with its handsome gold label is produced only in the finest vintages and showcases elegant fruit maturity with a soft, appealing finish. It is 90 percent sangiovese, seven percent canaiolo and three percent trebbiano.

Some Chianti prices have gone through the roof, but priced at $14.50, the 1987 Chianti Classico Riserva Ducale is a price winner highlighted by dark cherry aromas and flavors.

To produce this wine, Ruffino uses the traditional "governo" method which involves adding juice obtained from selected grapes previously dried on racks. This addition produces a secondary fermentation which adds not only softness, but enhanced body to the wine which is complexed by a nine-month oak aging period.

With its substantial body, it is excellent with dry and medium range cheeses, such as Parmesan or sharp, aged cheddar. Rabbit in wine sauce, stewed veal preparations and lamb or light beef dishes pair deliciously.

Following a tasting of this wine, it's easy to understand that after chianti, Ambrogio Polonari's favorite wine is red Burgundy.

"I attempt to emulate the velvety softness of Burgundian pinot noir in the Chianti Classico Riserva Ducale," he said.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1990 Ruffino Chianti ($9) presents a younger, fruitier bottling than the Riserva Ducale. It's produced from the three traditional chianti grapes in roughly the same percentages as the Riserva Ducale. It's stylish, with spicy, red berry characters and a hint of violets in the aroma. The soft tannins in the finish make it an ideal accompaniment to any red meat, game birds or medium-flavored cheeses.

With its substantial body, it is excellent with dry and medium range cheeses, such as Parmesan or sharp, aged cheddar. Rabbit in wine sauce, stewed veal preparations and lamb or light beef dishes pair deliciously.

Tampa's a fair city in winter

By Sara Kennedy
New York Times Syndicate

Each winter Tampa, Fla., revels in a round of tropical festivals and fairs, complete with booming cannons, rollicking parades and dress balls.

And each year it seems more and more events pop up to tempt visitors: street parties with the scent of Cuban coffee hanging in the air, a vibrant art show that festoons the walkway along the Hillsborough River, open-air concerts that send a thumping beat across the bay and end in showers of fireworks and confetti.

Tampa's treasure is its diversity, an intermingling of Cuban, Italian, Spanish, Indian and Afro-American cultures that began in 1824, when Col. George Mercer Brooke built a post at the mouth of the Hillsborough River alongside a little Cuban settlement.

Although Tampa and the surrounding towns of Hillsborough County, Fla., have grown into a metropolis of almost a million people, the area has managed to maintain the friendliness of a small Southern town.

Beyond the parties and festivals there is great opportunity for silence and solitude on white sand beaches and nature trails.

Of course Tampa Bay's most obvious asset is the weather: day after day of sunshine, mild temperatures and big puffy clouds.

A cadre of new skyscrapers downtown glistens across blue water. The city's signature Bayshore Boulevard — 7.2 miles of uninterrupted sidewalk along the bay — teems with walkers, joggers and cyclists, and the pace of life can be as fast or as slow as you want it to be.

ATTRACTIONS

The premier tourist attraction is Busch Gardens, at 3000 East Busch Blvd. It is a 300-acre park 10 minutes from downtown.

The park, with an African theme, has a splendid array of rides, trains and trams set among gardens. The food is good and the scale more manageable than Walt Disney World (65 miles east).

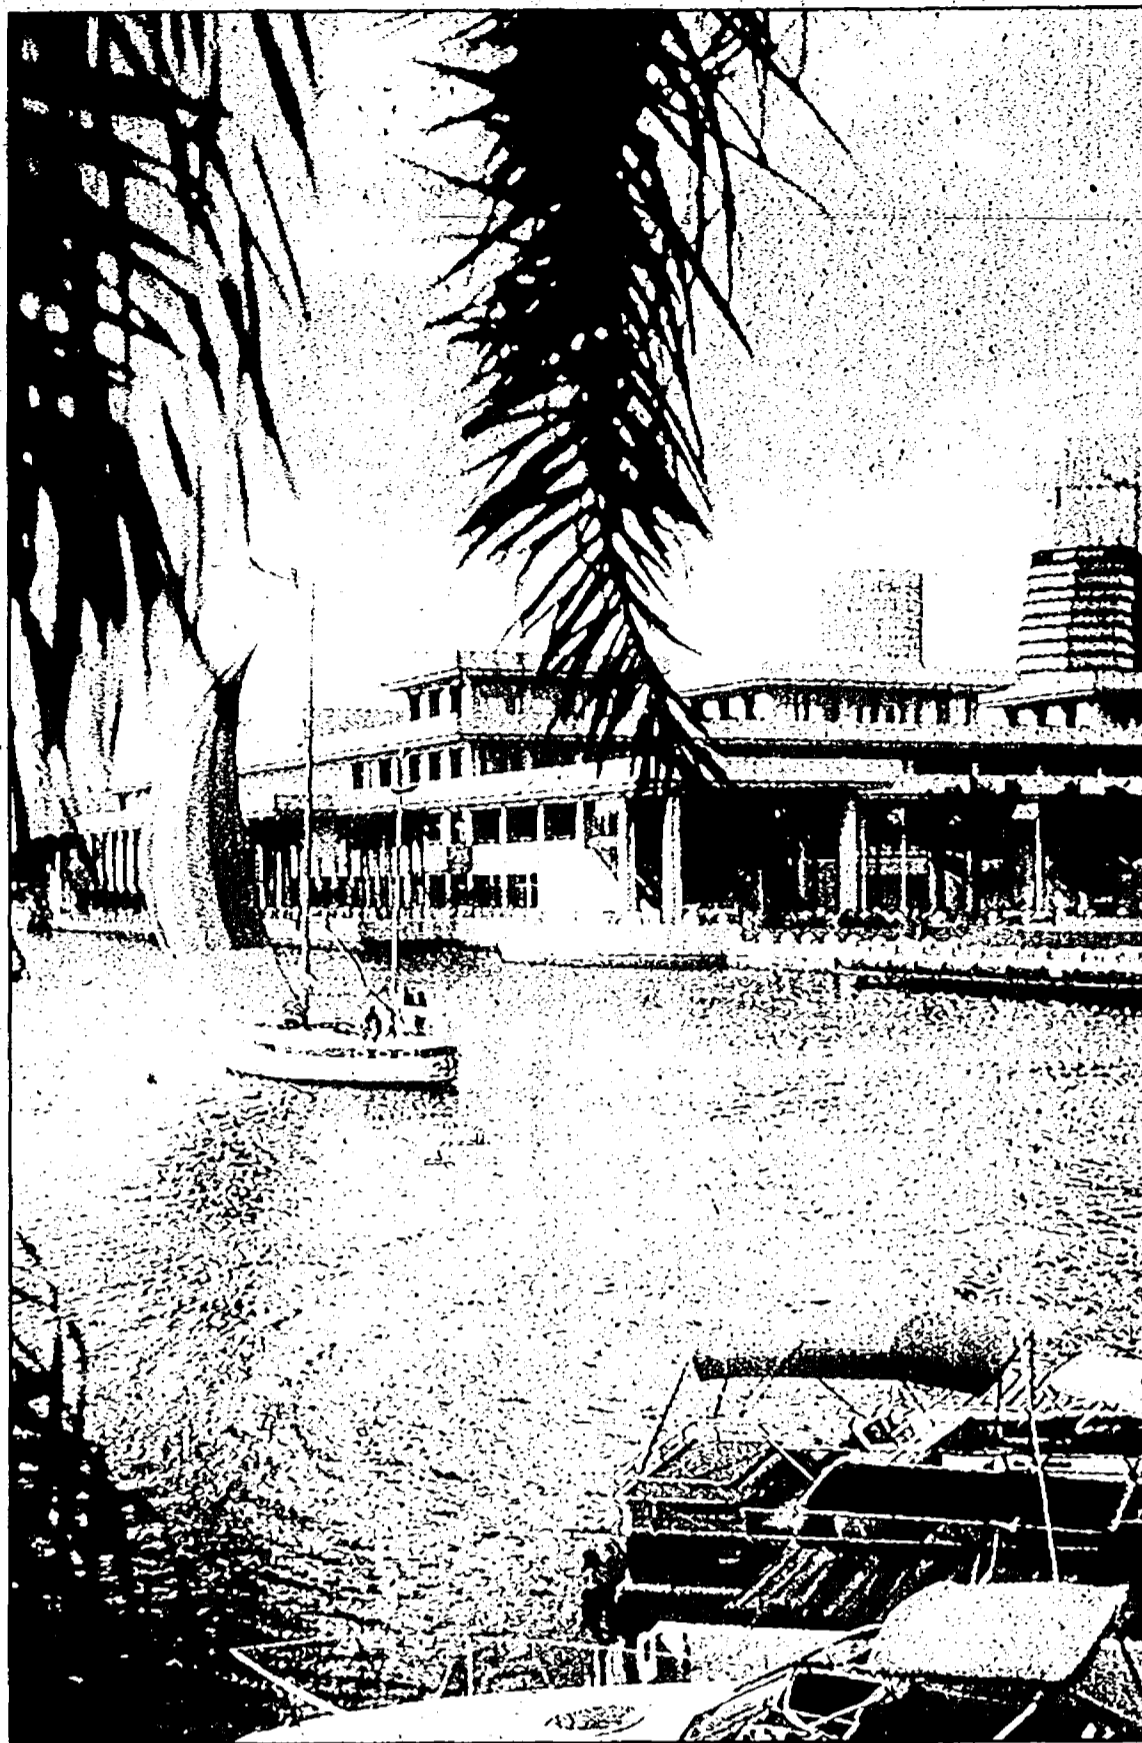

Busch Gardens is also one of the nation's largest zoos, with more than 3,700 animals. Admission, which includes all rides, shows and attractions, is $26.95; $22.95 for children 3 to 9; those 2 and younger free. Parking costs another $3.

Special areas for children have kid-sized rides, tree houses for climbing and fairy-tale sculptures. For more information call 987-5082.

Just a 10-minute drive from Busch Gardens is Lowry Park Zoological Garden, at 7530 North Blvd., and the newly renovated amusement park and new children's museum adjacent to it.

Admission to the Lowry Park Zoo is $5.50; $3.50 for children 4 to 12 and $4.50 for the elderly; children 3 and younger free.

The newly built zoo has 1,600 animals in enclosures designed to resemble native habitats; attractions include a 175-bird aviary and an underwater view of a manatee — a gentle mammal similar to a large seal

Tampa offers water enthusiasts plenty of space for sailing, windsurfing, fishing and sunning.

A national historic landmark district, Ybor City is filled with ornate grillwork, brick-lined streets, historic sites and art galleries.

that is one of Florida's official state animals. Children love the petting zoo and the fountain at the entrance where they can wade. For more information call (913) 932-0245.

Fun Forest at Lowry Park, at 7520 North Blvd., has 19 rides as well as a playground and a "fairyland" walk. Admission to the amusement park is free, but it takes three tickets to board each of the rides; individual tickets cost 40 cents, a 20-ticket book costs $6.95; an all-day wristband is $9.95. For more information call (813) 935-5503.

For a cheaper day there's the new hands-on Children's Museum of Tampa, at 7550 North Blvd., behind the Lowry amusement park. Admission is $2; $1.75 for the elderly; free to those 2 and younger.

The museum contains Safety Village, a miniature model of downtown Tampa complete with streets, sidewalks, traffic lights and buildings. For more information, call 935-8441.

EVENTS

Complete vacation packages that include tickets to major events and attractions, as well as hotel, rental car and boating arrangements, can be obtained through Travel Impressions, a tour operator working with the Tampa-Hillsborough Convention and Visitors Association. For more information, call (800) 284-0404.

Tampa's homegrown festival, Gasparilla, is back again by popular demand after a one-year lapse, during which the main sponsoring organization — Ye Mystic Krewe of Gasparilla — became integrated, admitting black men to what was once an all-white men's group.

Gasparilla began in 1904, when a Tampa Tribune columnist established a carnival based on the antics of the legendary pirate Jose Gaspar, whose band supposedly pillaged 36 ships during the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

The latest incarnation of Gasparilla, a monthlong celebration that began Feb. 2, has parades, street parties, concerts and, on Feb. 29, the 12th annual Artists and Writers Ball in Ybor City, a costume party and dance held as an alternative to Tampa's society balls.

For more information on all festival events call the Tampa-Hillsborough Convention and Visitors Association at (813) 223-1111 or (800) 826-8358.

On Feb. 29 and March 1 is the 22nd Gasparilla Sidewalk Art Festival and Tampa Bay Performing Arts Center Open House, during which the downtown river walk is jammed with art, food booths, free entertainment and exhibits. For more information, call (813) 223-1111.

MUSEUMS

The Henry B. Plant Museum, at 401 West Kennedy Blvd., is exhibiting through Feb. 29 photos of the eight hotels built or acquired by the Florida railroad magnate Henry B. Plant.

The museum is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free. For more information, call (813) 254-1891.

The Tampa Museum of Art, at 601 Doyle Carlton Drive, is showing, through March 29, the work of the New York photographer Sandy Skoglund.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday; and is closed Monday. Admission is free. For more information call (813) 223-8128.

The new Museum of African-American Art, at 1308 Marion St., houses the Barnett-Aden collection — more than 140 works by black artists. Paintings, sculptures, drawings, prints and traditional African handmade items, brought together by the late Professor James Herring and the late Alonzo Aden, both of Howard University, who began collecting and exhibiting the works in 1943, will be displayed.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (813) 272-2466.

Need a treat on a trip? Rent a luxury car

By Everett Polter
special writer

Not every traveler wants the most economical rental car around.

A small but dedicated cadre of consumers wants an exciting, exotic car to drive.

For example, how about a Ferrari 328 to cruise the streets of Beverly Hills or an all-American Ford Mustang convertible to drive to the Florida Keys?

All the major U.S. rental-car firms offer at least one luxury car and several convertibles. Many also rent luxury cars in Europe.

What does it cost to drive a fantasy car and leave the recession behind for seven days?

It depends on the car and where and when it's rented.

In general, drivers must be age 25 and over, except at Alamo Rent A Car, which allows drivers age 21 and over to rent exotic cars.

Reservations are usually required at least 48 hours in advance. But to get the best deal, it's wise to have a travel agent do the legwork.

Here is a sampling of current rates. All prices quoted are for February and are very much subject to change.

Hertz Rent A Car offers two luxury cars in the United States at identical rental rates: the Lincoln Continental and the slightly larger Lincoln Town Car.

A seven-day rental in Los Angeles or San Francisco is $199, in Miami $189, in Orlando $184 and in Denver $228. Hertz offers seven-day rentals of convertibles such as the Ford Mustang for $183.99 in Orlando and $188.99 in Miami; the same car rents for $248.99 in California and $246.99 in Hawaii.

All these rates include unlimited mileage. For information call Hertz at (800) 654-3131.

General Rent A Car offers the 1992 Chrysler Imperial in Florida at $189.95 per week and in California at $187.95 per week. For convertible fans, the Chrysler Le Baron rents in Florida at $189.95 per week.

All these rentals come with unlimited mileage. For information call (800) 327-7607.

Alamo also has special weekly rates for various cars. In Orlando a Geo Metro convertible is $149.99 and $183.99 a Pontiac Sunbird convertible is $183.99. The same cars are $199.99 per week and $244.99 per week, respectively, in Los Angeles. The Geo Metro is available from Alamo on Maui for $234.99 per week.

Alamo's luxury rental is the Cadillac Sedan de Ville. It rents for $199.99 per week in both Orlando and Los Angeles and $299.99 per week on Maui. All cars include unlimited mileage. For information call (800) 327-9633.

Avis Rent A Car offers the Sedan de Ville throughout Florida as its luxury car. In Orlando, the weekly rate is $184. The firm also offers the Chrysler LeBaron and the Pontiac Sunbird for $195 per week throughout Florida.

All rates include unlimited mileage. For information call Avis at (800) 331-1212.

In California and Nevada, renters who want to make a big impression may choose from a stable of luxury automobiles at Showcase Rental Cars, which has locations in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas.

The company rents its cars at a daily rate. For example, a BMW 325i convertible is $99.95 per day, a Chevrolet Corvette or a Mercedes 560L is $149.95 per day, a Rolls-Royce Silver Spirit is $350.95 per day and a Lamborghini Countach is $1,000 per day.

Mileage charges run from 75 cents to 95 cents per mile. Clients between age 18 and age 25 pay higher rates for rentals.

Spokesperson Susan Herndon says Showcase's clients range from "comedian Joe Piscopo to a 21-year-old kid with a hot date."

For information call the company at (800) 421-6808.

Budget Rent A Car offers exotic rentals in California, including a Ferrari 328 at $600 per day plus 50 cents per mile and a Mazda Miata at $99 per day, with a fee of 50 cents per mile after 50 free miles.

Across the nation, Budget offers the Lincoln Town Car as its luxury car and the Ford Mustang and Pontiac Sunbird as convertibles. Currently, all three cars rent for $178 per week in Orlando, with unlimited mileage. For information call Budget at (800) 527-0700.

The price of driving a finely tuned European sports car down the autobahn can, alas, far surpass the average trans-Atlantic airfare.

Hertz, for example, asks $2,061 for the privilege of driving a BMW 320i in Paris for a week. That includes unlimited mileage and France's whopping 22 percent value-added tax. Other major American companies have similar rates.

An affordable alternative, if such a term can be used, is Europe by Car. They will rent a BMW 318i for $419 per week or a BMW 735 for $669 per week in more than a dozen German cities. The rate includes unlimited mileage, but the 14 percent value-added tax is extra.

Europe by Car has a wide range of Mercedeses, Volvos, Saabs and BMWs for rent throughout western Europe. The prices are far less than those offered by major American rental firms. For information call (212) 581-3041.
