Teachers hear early bell

The Wayne-Westland school district's long-range financial picture will improve with the planned early retirement of 82 teachers, or 9 percent of the faculty. The school board hopes to replace them with new teachers at a lower salary.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Eighty-two Wayne-Westland teachers plan to quit their jobs and accept a $24,000 bonus being offered as an early retirement incentive.

That represents 9 percent of the district's 900-member teachers union — an amount that exceeded school officials' earlier predictions.

Despite a payout of $1,968,000 for the bonuses, the district is expected to recoup the money next school year, when newer teachers earning lower salaries will replace longtime employees who are paid more.

The real financial benefit would come in 1993-94, when the district would save an estimated $1.9 million, said Deputy Superintendent Thomas Svitkovich.

Additional savings would come in subsequent years.

Teachers who beat Thursday's deadline to sign up for the early retirement incentive can choose to receive a one-time, lump-sum bonus of $24,000 or to receive 24 payments of $1,000 over two years.

Teachers who signed up have until Thursday to withdraw their names.

To qualify, teachers had to have worked in the district for 15 years or more.

School officials have said more than 700 teachers met that criteria.

The early retirement plan drew praise from teachers union official Robert Kowalczyk.

"It allows teachers to retire early with dignity, and it allows fresh teachers to come in," said Kowalczyk, executive director of the Wayne-Westland Education Association.

In a 4-2 vote, the school board approved the plan in late March. Supporters said it would bring in newer teachers at lower salaries, save the district money and boost efforts to recruit minority educators.

Wayne-Westland has a 12-percent minority student population, but officials have said the teacher workforce has fewer than 1 percent blacks.

Some critics had urged the board to Victim's family wins suit

Michael LaDuke's family has been through emotional turmoil since he was slain three years ago — killed by a disgruntled worker fired from a Ziebart Tidy Car shop on the Westland-Garden City border.

But the family of LaDuke — who had been Ziebart's regional manager — has claimed victory in a wrongful-death lawsuit that has resulted in Ziebart being ordered to pay $2.1 million.

LaDuke's widow, Judith, and their three children have chosen not to speak publicly about the verdict recently returned by a Wayne County Circuit Court jury, said their attorney, Paul Molenda.

"But they are pleased," he said. "This trial has been very, very taxing on them. They're kind of in shock."

The suit filed against Ziebart claimed the company failed to adequately screen potential workers and ignored threats made against LaDuke by a fired shop manager, Robert Zielen.

Zielen murdered LaDuke at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, April 22, 1989, and is serving a mandatory life prison term in Jackson. His attempt to plead insanity failed.

Bill would give green light to transit funding

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

A bill introduced by state legislators representing Garden City and Westland is aimed at sending a message that they want continued funding for the Nankin Transit Authority.

State Sens. William Faust, D-Westland, and George Hart, D-Deerborn, whose district includes Garden City, co-sponsored the legislation. The House version was introduced by Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, whose district includes the southeast section of Westland.

The legislators want the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation (SMART) to keep money flowing to the area transit agency, which serves Garden City, Westland, Canton Township, Inkster and Wayne.

Earlier this year SMART informed Nankin officials their small bus service would no longer be funded. "SMART gets its money from the state for the authorities operating under them," said David Wygonik, a Hart aide.

"The allocation was left up to SMART. This is a message from the legislature that says they aren't doing the right thing by not giving Nankin Transit enough money to operate."

Nankin Transit, which currently operates 16 mini-buses, has operated since 1974 providing door-to-door service for riders. As many as 9,000 rides a month are provided to 1,000 people in the five participating communities. Although the availability isn't restricted, the largest groups served by the authority are senior citizens and the handicapped.

Candidates knock timing of renovation

By MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

With Livonia Public Schools facing a $7.9 million deficit, some candidates for the Livonia Board of Education believe the district should have waited for better economic times before undertaking renovations to administrative offices at 15125 Farmington Road.

The criticism came as incumbent Marjorie Roach and seven challengers fielded questions Thursday in a candidates' night forum sponsored by the Livonia League of Women Voters. The district includes the northern section of Westland.

"I agree that the building was in need of renovation, but maybe it was the wrong time to do it," said challenger Pamela Guarneri.

Of the 13 questions asked, the district's looming financial crisis triggered five queries about the district's 1992-93 budget and school financing in general.

Questions ranged from whether the district should impose a wage freeze on employees to how the budget got so out of whack to how the district lost a $11 million rainy day fund in three years.

In seeking either a wage freeze or concessions, challengers Katherine Pare and Gerald Parcheta said the board should approach all school workers and unions, including administrators.

Roach and challengers Susan Thompson, Guarneri and Alicia D'Orazio said school officials should at least open the door and talk to unions about the possibility of a wage concession.

Challenger Ralph Walko said such talks should come "only as a last resort."

And challenger Kenneth Timmons said teachers should take a pay cut only if they get something in return.

Some candidates blamed the looming crisis on the state; others criticized school officials.

Pointing the finger of blame mostly at local school officials were challengers D'Orazio, Pare and Walko.

"A lack of long-range planning," Walko shot back when asked how the district went through its $11 million rainy day fund in three years.

Thompson, Roach and Timmons lashed out at state legislation.

"Legislation has only gotten worse," Thompson said.

Parcheta blamed both sides.

"There's been raiding by the state and legal thievery, but to blame the state entirely is unfair, and unwise. The board is accountable for budgeting funds. They should show greater restraint in personnel costs."

To solve the crisis, residents should pound on the doors of lawmakers in Lansing, said Thompson, Roach and Walko. Roach also said the district could seek additional millage.

Guarneri said solutions could be found in the district's strategic planning process. Parcheta suggested the district should eliminate overtime.

The district should keep its rainy day fund nearly empty and concentrate on teaching basic subjects such as English, math, social studies and science, Timmons said.

Pare urged the district cut the SAFE program, put only $750,000 in the rainy day fund, and limit administrative expenditures such as travel and catered meals.

"We have to plug the small leaks," Pare said.

Throughout the debate on next year's budgets, parents and school officials alike have struggled with how programs should be cut. Should some programs suffer deeper cuts or be eliminated entirely? Or should all programs suffer equally?

Program cuts can't be equal and across-the-board, said Thompson, Roach and Pare.

"It's difficult to make across the board cuts because of state mandates," Roach said. "Our goal is to reduce rather than eliminate and not leave kids stranded in a program."

New trial ordered in sex abuse case

By DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A new trial has been ordered for a 30-year-old Westland man accused of sexually abusing a 14-year-old girl who came to his house to spend the night with his two stepdaughters.

A Detroit Recorder's Court jury Friday announced that it couldn't reach a verdict in the case of Stephen McKinley, charged with one count of third-degree criminal sexual conduct.

"The jury was deadlocked," assistant Wayne County prosecutor Herman Petzold said.

The hung jury had begun deliberating on Thursday, at the end of a trial that started three days earlier. Judge Geraldine Bledsoe-Ford has ordered a new trial for McKinley on June 15.

McKinley's attorney, Richard S. Clark, couldn't be reached for comment Friday afternoon.

McKinley has denied the accusations of the 14-year-old, who testified during the trial. If convicted, he could be sentenced to a maximum of 15 years in prison.

McKinley had been ordered to stand trial in October, after a preliminary examination in Westland's 18th District Court.

In her testimony, the girl said McKinley, draped in a blanket, came into the living room where she slept, lay down beside her and sexually abused her with his hand.

The alleged incident occurred the morning of Sept. 22, she said. The girl had been sleeping in the living room with her sister and McKinley's two stepdaughters, she testified.

The 14-year-old said she didn't immediately alert the other girls, who remained asleep, "because I was scared."

Later that morning, McKinley warned her to put down the telephone when she started to call her mother, according to court testimony. She said McKinley asked her: "Do you want some money to keep your mouth shut?"

The 14-year-old testified that she later told the other girls. When she and her sister returned home, she also told her mother.

The mother contacted Westland police, prompting an investigation that resulted in McKinley's arrest.

Westland Police honor officers, civilians

Three Westland police officers were honored in the department's recognition program last week which also had officers and civilians praised for saving lives and helping suspects being arrested.

Winner of the first Chief's Award is Patrolman Steven Frazer, who joined the department nearly 22 years ago. Officers of the Year honors went to Sgt. Daniel Stobbe, a 13-year Westland department veteran, and Patrolman Richard Fetner, who joined the force eight years ago.

The honors were part of the department's sixth annual recognition program, held at the Westland Friendship Center.

Police Chief Michael Frayer said that when he was promoted to chief nearly a year ago, he had two major goals: "encourage the desire to take an extra step in providing public service to our community and to have a department which was in touch with the community."

He said the Chief's Award is to honor an officer who "embodies the spirit of long-term excellence. Frazer has spent his entire career on attaining an outstanding level of personal and professional achievement."

Frazer is a Vietnam War veteran and winner of several military decorations for valor. He previously worked for the C&O Railroad's police department. A native of Portsmouth, Ohio, he attended Milligan College, Schoolcraft College and Madonna University, earning a bachelor of science degree. He has taken graduate courses at the University of Detroit.

Sgt. Stobbe was cited for his professionalism, his winning of several department decorations, and his honesty and integrity. He joined the department in late 1978 and was promoted to sergeant nearly two years ago.

Fetner, who joined the force in early 1984, was later assigned to work with the Western Wayne Auto Task Force, headed by the Michigan State Police to curb vehicle thefts. Earlier this year, he received a bachelor's degree from Madonna University.

Officer John Hoak won the Police Heart award while life-saving honors were presented to officers Jeffrey Tryzbinski, Erick Kaiser, David Zucchetto, Leonard Goodlesky, Stobbe and dispatchers Stenson Klim.

Receiving civilian citations were Marlene Karp, Timothy Conley, Lawrence Lachapell, Bridget Mitchell, John Schertel, Lenny Kuehnel, Debbie Kuehnel, Angie Parron, Scott Kingslien and Heather Mitchell.

Department citations were presented to officers Terry Donohue, Jeff Gillespie, David

POLICE

Hooper and Ronald Kroll, Sgts. Steve Lawrence, Steve Kaufman, Steve Bachand and Daniel Harvey.

Certificates of merit went to officers Jon Handzlik, Alan Ramdsen, Grant Allen and Tom Lessnau and Sgts. Dan Pfannes, Don Haigh, Russell Nowaczek and Tom Kbitsky.

Individual commendations were presented to officers Brian Sorensen, Gregg Angelosanto, Candy Vinnay, Leonard Goodlesky and dispatcher Kathleen Grassi.

Getting unit commendations were Roy Buresh, Michael Williard, Tom Harris, James Ridener, Goodlesky, Steve Jaworski, Brian Sorensen, Handzlik, Daniel Karrick and David Zuchetto, and Sgts. Michael Gould, Tim Abramski and Tom Vaughn.

Officers from Garden City, Inkster and Livonia were also honored for their cooperation on specific cases.

Also taking part in the ceremony were Wolverine Chapter 82nd Airborne Association, Kevin Brusinski and city officials.

Launch pad for flights of fancy

On the way back: A rocket plummets back to earth during the Adams Invitational.

Pre-flight preparations: Like the NASA launching site in Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Adams School crew had equipment and weather problems. Co-sponsor Tom Deschaine, also an Adams science teacher, sets the rocket on its pad as student Chris Hubbard looks on.

Adams 'Rocketeers' win competition

PEOPLE WON'T confuse the Adams Junior High School playground with NASA's Cape Canaveral.

But that didn't dim the enthusiasm of Adams students and teachers who recently launched their first rocket club activity.

In the "Adams Invitational," the school on Palmer west of Venoy challenged Franklin Junior High School with the host school winning 13 of 15 places in three categories.

Tom Deschaine, Adams science teacher and Rocket Club co-sponsor, said the first competition was plagued with equipment failures and strong winds of up to 30 miles per hour — not unlike the NASA launches in Florida. The delays added two hours to the student scientists' day on the Adams playground.

Adams Principal Walter Durant opened the ceremony by launching the first rocket, followed by several club sponsors.

The Franklin team, put together at the last minute, was led by sponsor William Foder.

In the altitude shoot category, Adams was first, followed by Brian Kessel of Franklin, Rick Schalk of Franklin, Nathaniel Garrison of Adams and Bran Ahligian of Adams.

Adams' students swept the fifth places in the drag race category, led by Kevin Lopota and followed by Robert Cronenwett, Ron Richards, Nathaniel Garrison and Sara Lambdin. In the bulls-eye category, the field was led by Ken Leicht of Adams, followed by classmates Brad Ahlijian, Paul Curmi, Nathaniel Garrison and Kevin Lopota.

Deschaine said he hopes that other junior highs in the district will ultimately join in the invitational.

There wouldn't have been any invitational without the help of school sponsors who helped to buy equipment and supplies with most of the credit owed to Durant, Deschaine said.

Financial contributions to the Adams rocket club came from the VFW Post 3323, the post's auxiliary, Falcon Enterprises which provided disc jockey service, Westland Firefighters' Association, Westland Civitans, Westland Police Officers Association, and the Westland Baseball Cards business.

Public safety leaders join in effort to douse arson

Westland public safety leaders have joined with insurance and business officials to fight the growing problem of arson.

Focus of the new "Plan 2000" campaign is to boost the community's awareness of the problem and make sure that the toll-free number is known to those who want to provide information on suspicious fires.

A reward of up to $5,000 will be paid for tips leading to the arrest and/or conviction of a person charged with arson.

The coordinated effort is being put together by the Michigan Arson Prevention Committee, which said at a Westland central fire station ceremony that it wants to "douse" this crime which costs Michigan citizens more than $110 million annually.

The announcement was made by MAPC representatives fire Chief Larry Lane, police Chief Michael Frayer, George Riley, fire battalion chief for public education, fire marshal Robert Perry, and mayoral assistant Edward Gunther.

In Westland, arson is a major problem, said Riley.

Of the city's nearly 1,200 fire runs a year, about 36 percent are classified as arson, he said. Those arson blazes resulted in more than $2 million in damage to buildings and contents, which is more than lost to crimes, he said.

Perry said that while some arsons are done to collect insurance payments, about half are caused by the carelessness of children, with most traced to boys between 5 and 9 years old.

Perry noted that many of the fires are set by children to get attention.

"We have crafted a strategy to help fight back against arson through the year 2000," said Conrad Golemba, MAPC president.

He said the plan was developed at a symposium sponsored by the group held in Lansing earlier this month. Arson experts from throughout the state were involved in developing the plan.

The major five elements of the plan are:

- A toll-free number (800-44-

ARSON BATTLE

ARSON) to help communities find resources available to address juvenile fire-setters.

- Spokepersons to promote arson awareness.

- A statewide recognition program for arson investigators.

- Fire investigation training for judges.

- A speakers' bureau and videos that would be available to organizations and business groups.

The state fire marshal's office provided the committee figures to show that arson costs more than most other crimes.

The categories of incendiary and suspicious fires had a combined loss of $110 million, compared to $87 million for burglaries, $12 million for robberies and $112 million for larcenies.

The average loss for each incendiary fire was just over $9,800 while the figure for suspicious fire was just over $8,400.

That compares to an average loss of $829 for each burglary; $368 for each larceny and $558 for each robbery.

The committee said that the arson hot-line program has given rewards of more than $203,000 since the program was started in 1975.

delay a decision on early retirement until hiring a new superintendent.

Kowalczyk, however, said, "It's a chance for a new administration to do some positive things. I don't see any negatives at this time."

Some critics also had suggested that newer, highly qualified teachers might be difficult to find.

"We'll make every attempt to hire first- and second-year teachers,"

Svitkovich said Friday.

In March, the board had indicated the plan would be dumped unless at least 40 teachers signed up. Moreover, a maximum of 125 teachers would've been allowed to retire early. No other employee group was given an early retirement option.

The response from 82 teachers pleased school officials.

"I'm real happy with 82," said

Randy Liepa, the district's finance officer.

Despite losing some "very experienced and qualified" teachers, the plan will open the district's doors to new teachers with new skills, Svitkovich said. Many younger teachers also are more willing to coach athletics and coordinate other extracurricular activities, he said.

In March, school board member

Fred Warmber accused the administration of proposing the plan in hopes of reducing the district's surplus, which is expected to top $8 million in June. Officials came under fire in June for an unexpected $4.4-million surplus.

But officials have rejected the accusations and said the plan will improve the district's finances in the long run.

Sentence delayed in shooting case

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Samih Saleh's sentencing in the shooting death of his older brother has been delayed until a judge receives a report from a state forensic center about Saleh's psychological state.

Saleh, convicted of involuntary manslaughter April 9 by a Detroit Recorder's Court jury, had been scheduled for sentencing May 1. But Judge Geraldine Bledsoe Ford has moved the sentencing to June 12.

Ford needs the forensic report to determine what type of treatment — if any — that 38-year-old Saleh of Westland should receive for psychological problems, assistant Wayne County prosecutor Douglas Dwyer said Friday.

Saleh could face a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison in the shooting death of his 46-year-old brother, Sami Saleh, who died from a .12-gauge shotgun blast during a sudden dispute Aug. 4.

The 11:48 p.m. shooting occurred at the convicted brother's Westwood Circle apartment, on the southeast corner of Joy and Hix.

Saleh also will face a mandatory two-year prison term on a felony firearms charge. Any sentence received for involuntary manslaughter would be added to the two-year term, Dwyer said.

Saleh had been charged with first-degree murder, but a Recorder's Court jury reduced the charge to involuntary manslaughter in convicting him.

Saleh has claimed his brother was shot by accident after the two of them exchanged "macho" gestures. He said he had retrieved the gun from his bedroom only because he wanted to scare his brother, and that the trigger discharged accidentally.

But Saleh had long been considered "a time bomb" ready to explode, according to the victim's widow, Jane Saleh.

Suit from 1A

Zielen shot LaDuke three times with a sawed-off shotgun as LaDuke tried to get away from him at the Ziebart shop at Ford and Venoy roads in Westland.

"Mr. LaDuke crawled across Venoy Road and died on the curb in front of a dozen witnesses on a Saturday afternoon," Molenda said.

Zielen was arrested by Mark Relich, then a Garden City police officer, who risked his life to apprehend the suspect and take away his rifle. Relich was on his way to work at the time of the shooting.

Molenda commended the jury for deciding that Ziebart had ignored threats that Zielen made against LaDuke, placing LaDuke in danger. Witnesses have said Zielen warned LaDuke he would kill him if he was fired, Molenda said.

Ziebart attorney Steven Raymond could not be reached at his office for comment. Molenda, however, said the company plans to appeal the verdict.

Molenda predicted the appeal will be denied.

"It was a very good trial," he said, commending the jury and Recorder's Court Judge Michael Callahan.

Molenda couldn't point to any single piece of evidence that he believes convinced the jury to award the $2.1-million settlement in the civil suit.

"It was the totality of the circumstances," he said.

but carries no sanctions for non-compliance.

"It has no teeth. It's sword-rattling," said Wygonik. "It's a reminder and a strong official opinion that what is happening at the Nankin level isn't appropriate. It isn't the proper priority."

Nankin Transit has an operating budget of approximately $875,000, with revenues from state money through SMART, municipal credits, local contributions and fares. It currently has funding to operate through June.

"The public forgets that the purpose of SMART was to avoid situations like we have now," said Wygonik. "SMART was set up to use criteria of needs and service. It was part of de-politicizing the allocation of dollars."

One good thing that has come from the difficulties with SMART has been to draw attention to transportation, according to Wygonik.

"It's been 10 years since there have been headlines about regional mass transportation," he said. "Maybe we can look at the statistics and see if there is an increase in non-drivers due to unemployment and the economy."

Wygonik said he didn't expect there to be any problem with getting the legislation approved and sent on to SMART before Nankin Transit's funding runs out in June.

"We'll see how SMART acts and takes this message," he said.

Rouge Rescue

Cleanup to focus on recreation

It started out as a cleanup, it's becoming a celebration.

Rouge Rescue '92, planned for Saturday, June 6, will mark the seventh consecutive year volunteers have cleared Rouge River log jams and hauled away debris.

Even though this year's cleanup boasts the largest ever number of work sites, organizers say the event is changing.

"When we started out the Rouge was really a mess," said Carol Weihe, executive director of Friends of the Rouge. "There's still a lot of work to be done, but we have made significant progress."

Rather than strictly emphasizing cleanup activities, this year's event is billed as a celebration of the Rouge and its potential for family recreation.

"There are people at the University of Michigan-Dearborn who are going to be working on restoring animal and bird habitats," Weihe said. "There are other people who are going to be doing work along park trails near the river."

Friends of the Rouge, a volunteer agency, planned the first cleanup in 1986 and has coordinated each successive event.

Between 2,500-3,000 people are expected to take part in this year's cleanup.

Friends of the Rouge planned a 20-year cleanup schedule and organizers say they see no reason to abandon that time frame.

"Even if work is substantially completed, before then, we'd still like to see people come to the Rouge at least once a year to celebrate what it has become," Weihe said.

The State Fairgrounds is seen as anchor of a redeveloped Eight Mile Road.

But Eight Mile planners say that doesn't necessarily mean it's still in the running for a new Tiger Stadium.

"That's not what we're talking about," said urban planner Albert Bogdan. "We're talking about its potential as an entertainment center."

Planners see the fairgrounds anchoring the Eight Mile corridor the way a new stadium would anchor downtown Detroit.

The fairgrounds race track, hand-shell and location — at the heart of a metro area of 3.8 million people — point to its potential, Bogdan said. "It's potential is unlimited, but it's going to take private development to make it happen."

Development around the fairgrounds is only one part of a public/private Eight Mile partnership that would bring changes from western Wayne County to the shores of Lake St. Clair.

Other proposed changes include:

- Turning the former state highway into a tree-lined boulevard.

- Adding new, deeper parking spaces to drive-up shops and turning industrial areas into industrial parks.

Eight Mile redevelopment depends upon an alliance of private developers, state officials, Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and 13 communities, including Farmington, Farmington Hills, Southfield, Livonia and Redford Township.

The Eight Mile redevelopment plan was shown last week to business and community leaders, as well as area residents.

"We're here to see what the people think," said Deborah Kay Schutt of the Oakland County Planning Division.

Though turnout was small at Tuesday's session for business leaders, most of the dozen attendees were impressed.

"Something really needs to be done," said Ken Navarre of Detroit-based Michigan Motor Exchange. "Parts of Eight Mile are really getting run down."

Navarre said he was considering expanding his business to an Eight Mile site in Oakland County, but decided against because of the roadway's bad image.

The redevelopment plan's major goals include smooth flowing traffic and ample police protection — three items currently absent along major stretches of the roadway.

"The problem is no one's ever really taken responsibility for Eight Mile," Bogdan said. "Police patrol their own communities very well but, often, when they get to Eight Mile they turn around and head back."

Eight Mile jurisdiction could pass to a proposed multi-community agency. Structured as a non-profit organization, it would collect dues, lobby for state and federal money and coordinate planning, though each community could still veto projects within its limits.

Redevelopment would be paid for through a Tax Increment financing district, diverting Eight Mile tax dollars from local budgets for lighting, roadway and parking lot improvements throughout the corridor.

TIFA financing created the Oakland Hills Tech Park in Auburn Hills but the controversial state legislation lapsed.

It would have to be revived for the Eight Mile project.

"There are 27 legislators whose districts touch Eight Mile," Bogdan said. "So, we're optimistic something can be passed."

Eight Mile redevelopment plans are a result of the extension of I-75. The highway's southeast Oakland extension, completed two years ago, has substantially reduced traffic on Eight Mile.

Representatives of all three counties, Detroit and the state departments of transportation and commerce called for a plan to keep the roadway a viable commercial zone.

At the same time, Southfield leaders called on surrounding communities to jointly plan Eight Mile's future.

The redevelopment plan, begun two years ago, is already on its third revision. A final document is expected in June.

NOT CONDITIONS, BUT COST

Having arthritis, particularly rheumatoid arthritis, is akin to facing poverty. If your financial reserve is very low, even going out with friends for a cup of coffee may prove embarrassing. You will think of some excuse to "beg off" from the invitation. People with arthritis may say that the weather is hurting their joints; when conditions improve they will be glad to join you. Closer to the fact is that the wind and rain outside necessitate gloves, boots, heavy jacket, and careful walking. The effort uses up strength just as buying coffee uses the last coins of someone in poverty. We know that in such instances it is better to tell the truth. However, persons with arthritis, like people without funds, often feel ashamed as if their misfortunes were somehow their fault, not their lot. It remains to us to realize what is occurring and to act with understanding. In the case of friends without funds, we give them a treat. In the instance of the patient with arthritis, we can assist in putting on gloves, coats and boots, bring the car to the door, and limit our walking and its pace. We should act in a manner that will relieve the person of feeling dependent on the charity of our good will.

Leaders pledging with hearts, not budgets

They're in it -- at least for now.

Local communities are backing redevelopment plans for Eight Mile Road. But the biggest project, financing an intergovernment agency to administer Eight Mile improvements, boils down to two questions: how much are we going to have to pay and where will the money come from?

"With less coming from the state, not to mention the recession, it could be hard to find the money,"

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett said.

Redford Supervisor James Kelly said he was hopeful money could come from federal community development block grants.

"That's how we'd like to see it financed," Kelly said.

A preliminary study suggested communities finance the non-profit Eight Mile agency with shares based upon their frontage along the roadway. Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and the state could also be asked to contribute.

At present, there are no cost estimates for any community.

Still community leaders are in general agreement on the need for improvements in the Eight Mile corridor.

"I feel everyone's on board," Southfield Downtown Development Authority director William Brownfield said. "Everyone seemed to go away from our last meeting with a good feeling."

Preliminary studies have been financed through a $60,000 federal grant.

Other communities involved in the project include Farmington, Farmington Hills, Oak Park, Royal Oak Township, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Warren, East Detroit, St. Clair Shores and Detroit.

Band connects musically

Being on the same wavelength can help when your business is making music. Maybe that explains Cylinderhead's music — a vibrant amalgamation of musical talents that can make you feel tingly all over.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

Members of Cylinderhead are on the same wavelength, so we are told.

On the surface, the three members present do appear to connect spiritually and socially. When one lights a cigarette, the other follows suit.

When vocalist and guitarist Priscilla Ederle begins a story, lead guitarist Chris Henderson aptly finishes it with bassist Ken Seech readily filling in the details. All three at the moment are recalling in ping-pong style the painstaking year-long process of finding a drummer, which eventually turned up Dave Wallis.

"We had one guy who would not leave," said Seech, 26, of Farmington.

"He stayed at my house for six hours," added Ederle, 22, of West Bloomfield.

"And he ordered a pizza," said Seech.

"Yeh, he was going through my house looking for Little Caesar's coupons scaring my mother," said Ederle.

Henderson listens with bemusement at the tag-team, having become accustomed to such animated conversations. All three band members live in the same apartment building in Ypsilanti.

"One wavelength keeps it together," said Henderson, 25. "I'm not saying we're clones or anything."

Quite the contrary, musically: Cylinderhead represents a vibrant amalgamation of diverse musical talents, which even presented in its rawest form produces sensations of tingling pop and elicits dissection.

Ederle's breathy vocals are soothing, a blissful romp through pastured guitar-induced melancholy. Henderson's guitar lines are carefully crafted, creating textures and moods coinciding with introspective lyrics. Seech's bass is probing rather than plodding.

Wallis' drumming nails the song-sketches to the wall for public view. "He hits them harder," said Ederle.

Shows are lined up from Ann Arbor to Hamtramck, mostly as an opening act. That apparently won't last for long, though.

Cylinderhead has created a buzz, including a reportedly successful gig at Lili's 21: A headline show at Cross Station takes place Friday, May 22, and there's talk of going into the studio later this summer.

Cylinderhead has carefully planned for this time, continually writing and working together during a two-year period until the chemistry was right.

The final element turned out to be Wallis, who is formerly of since-defunct Phineas Gage. He was No. 25 in long line of drummers who tried out for the band, joining Cylinderhead in October.

"I've got to inspire you in a certain way," said Seech, "where they bring something in and you want to build upon it. That's what we wanted from a drummer."

Such insight has been gleaned by playing in other bands. Seech performed in a number of heavy metal outfits he'd rather not name.

Ederle was lead vocalist in short-lived alternative pop outfit Alison's Ghost, which she said there was inner-band strife. Henderson performed for a brief spell in Common Chapter, which later became Phineas Gage.

In fact, Phineas Gage member and Southfield resident Alex Lamelsky introduced Ederle to Henderson, which led to the formation of Cylinderhead.

"I blew him off a couple of times," said Ederle, recalling their initial meeting. "I thought I was going to meet this guitar god. I was afraid he was going to be one of those loud guitar players who don't give you any space."

They ended up forming the creative core of Cylinderhead with Seech joining shortly after. Reflective in their songs, members are quite enthusiastic about the process of evolving as a band and music in general.

"The way I feel about it there's a lot of good music," Henderson said. "When I grew up, there was Elton John and the Beatles and R.E.M. and XTC later on, music that you hear on the radio and puts you in a good mood."

Cylinderhead will open for the Hannibals Friday, May 15, at Rick's Cafe, 611 Church, Ann Arbor. For information, call 996-2747. Also, the band headlines Friday, May 22, at Cross Street Station, 511 W. Cross, Ypsilanti. For information, call 485-5050.

Mother's hatred clouds adult life

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara,
My father died when I was three. My mother hated him and has always pretended like he never lived. I resent this, but I can't get any information from her. I know I get involved with men who I think are like him. My relationships have not been good ones. I don't know how to get out of this rut.

Linda

Dear Linda

It is often true that when a child suffers the early death of a parent there is a complicated psychological response when that child becomes an adult. You are experiencing such a response.

Your situation requires an in-depth approach that cannot be accomplished in a letter. As I usually do, I am enclosing the telephone numbers of agencies that could help you contact an experienced therapist. You may have a better source and if so, please use that one. I have tried, without success, to locate a support group for your specific situation. If a reader knows of one, I hope they will write with that information.

The agencies to contact are:

(1)Michigan Psychiatric Society, 552-8666 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

(2)Michigan Psychological Association, 645-2508.

(3)Michigan Association of Social Workers, (517) 487-1548.

Barbara

Readers Note: The following letter refers to a previous one published in February. In that one, a woman (called C) with a drug-addicted husband asked for advice on whether or not to stay married to him. She questioned what she should look for as signs of recovery. She was especially concerned about whether a person can "recover" that is, stop using drugs and still not change his personality.

This letter is from a reader with a similar situation who gives the following advice. My comments follow.

Dear Barbara,

There are similarities between my husband and the husband in your recent column. It was not drugs but alcohol that caused dissonance and unhappiness in our home. He has never admitted being an alcoholic, so I will not put that label on him, but he definitely was a problem drinker. I had been told, "I might give up drinking for my Dad, but I won't for you." This hurt, but he felt justified because "I was trying to lord it over him" in wanting him to change.

It was not until his drinking got him into serious trouble that he was willing to quit. He went through the required alcohol education classes and AA meetings because they were mandatory.

Like C's husband, he never missed work and always provided for his family. Like C's husband, he is a loner and uncomfortable in social situations. He can speak to strangers but will not socialize outside his family unless it cannot be avoided, such as weddings or funerals.

He had buddies before our marriage and as they wed, we socialized as couples. Circumstances change and friends move away, or divorce, or die, or you lose contact because interests don't remain the same. I found that these friends were not replaced by new ones.

My husband has been sober now for 12 years. He has a good relationship with our grown children and his grandchildren (think he's wonderful). He will go places and do things (sometimes reluctantly) that do not involve people contact.

I have settled for this: I find activities outside the home that are not threatening to our marriage to keep me occupied. It means sometimes a meal or an outing with a friend, but often means going alone. But if we had divorced, it would have meant going alone anyhow.

If C's husband overcomes his addiction, I hope she will be willing to bend a little. Our husbands have a similar nature, which may have contributed to their problems. Problems can be overcome, but natures are just the way we are — extroverted or introverted to a great extent.

Sometimes, it's hard not to envy couples who are doing what you would like to do, but raising children as a single parent has to be a very difficult task. Fantasizing about what could be in a second marriage can be enticing but there are no guarantees.

I know C is going through a trying time, but I hope she is able to consider the pros and cons and make a wise decision.

No Signature

Dear No Signature,

Thank you for writing. You are a person who knows herself well and so can make decisions and then make them successful.

You and C (the previous writer) are faced with a similar predicament. Although your husbands have overcome a substance abuse problem, they continue to exhibit personality attributes which often are difficult for you to live with. You would both prefer to be with men with whom you could be more intimate. The hope was that once they were no longer addicted that would occur and it has not.

C is indecisive because she has not found a way to cope with that reality. She continues to expect change in her husband's "nature," as you have so aptly put it. You, on the other hand, have faced the reality that there will be no change even though he has stopped drinking. You have found the maturity within yourself to live with it gracefully.

I respect your adequacy. Your letter will help C and the many like her who are not as sure of themselves as you are.

Barbara

Dear Readers,

Two weeks ago we published a letter from a young man tortured by his sexual feelings toward men. He wanted to know if he could learn to be different. He is a virgin.

On Friday, April 20, ABC TV's "20/20" ran a story on this subject. As an addendum to my last column, I want to report its findings. It is valuable additional information.

Dr. Joseph Nicolosi, in his book "Reparative Therapy," says that he has worked with many gay men and has helped them to be attracted to women, not men. He believes that homosexuality is a learned behavior resulting from early alienation between father and son.

There is a resulting need to repair the damage caused by the alienation and so these men continually seek closeness with other men. Men become intimate with other men in groups and through this connectedness they feel stronger about their maleness.

Dr. Robert Isay, a psychiatrist, disagrees with Dr. Nicolosi and any other theories like his. He says that he sees men after they have received this kind of therapy and that they are anxious, depressed and sometimes suicidal. He believes that a person's core sexual orientation cannot be changed. As support for his viewpoint, he points out that even Dr. Nicolosi's "cured" patients continue to have homosexual fantasies and even occasional encounters.

I continue to believe that homosexuality need not have only one cause and that antecedents may be different in different men.

'Howards End' is stunning

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

Through some 30 films, the producer-director team of Ismail Merchant and James Ivory have created beautiful — if somewhat stiff — adaptations of British and American literature. A few, like the fabulously entertaining and romantic "A Room With a View," have reached wide audiences. "Howards End," the new Merchant-Ivory offering, playing for a second weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre, may be the best of the bunch. This moving adaptation of E.M. Forster's 1910 novel of upper class double standards stars some of the screen's finest actors. The time is England in the early part of the 20th century. Margaret and Helen Schlegel (Emma Thompson and Helena Bonham Carter) enjoy the privileges of the upper classes but are far from interested in commerce. Instead, they cultivate a life of books and philosophical discussions with the most free-thinking minds they can find.

The Wilcox family, on the other hand, is wildly wealthy, but also stuffy. Vanessa Redgrave plays the Wilcox family matriarch who takes an immediate liking to Margaret. On her death bed, the old woman scribbles a request to give Margaret Howards End, her favorite of the several country homes that the family owns.

The Wilcox descendants, however, led by son Henry (Anthony Hopkins) decide to ignore these last wishes and toss the document in the fire. But the lives of the two families will cross again with romantic and sometimes tragic circumstances.

As in other Forster novels, "Howards End" is a cleverly crafted story of inequality between the classes. Howard Bast, a young clerk, is given some bad advice from Henry that loses him his job. The wealthy can always start a new career mid-stream, Bast notes, but for a man over 20 to lose his position means there's something wrong with him.

Henry truly believes that the poor were placed on earth to suffer. You feel sorry for them, he says, but you certainly don't do anything to help them.

As Henry, Hopkins proves himself one of the screen's most versatile actors. His portrayal of Henry is so complex and finely tuned that you'll almost do the impossible — forget his menacing portrayal as Hannibal Lecter in the Oscar-winning "Silence of the Lambs."

Redgrave, meanwhile, makes the most of her relatively short time on screen. She embodies the 19th Century lady who wisely sees in Margaret all the freedom and compassion that women will enjoy in the years to come.

Some of the lesser known performers fare equally well. Instead of making Leonard Bast a romantic pretty boy, Sam West comes off slightly clumsy and gooney, driven half-mad by bitterness and circumstance. With the proper breaks, the Schlegels feel he could be a great man.

Helena Bonham Carter, the star of "A Room with a View," has a feisty spirit that refuses to give into the hypocrisy of Henry Wilcox.

"Howards End" captures both London and the English countryside beautifully. There are sumptuous images of horse and buggies and automobiles sharing busy London streets, canoes on gentle lakes and the interiors of ivy-covered country homes and castles.

It takes until well into the second half to finally reach Howards End and again director Ivory makes a wise choice. Instead of having the music swell during a dramatic drive toward the home (a la Manderly in "Rebecca"), he lets Margaret explore it more subtly — and to stronger effect.

Simply put, the filmmakers have learned plenty in the last 30 years and it all culminates in "Howards End."

Life of books: Helena Bonham Carter plays one of the upper-class Schlegel sisters, who prefer to cultivate a life of books and philosophical discussions, in "Howards End."

In terms of learning the blues, Al Lewis, a.k.a. Big Daddy Romance, couldn't have picked two better places of higher knowledge.

A son of a preacher, Lewis was reared singing in the gospel choir at his father's church, Avondale Baptist. His education was later enhanced under the tutelage of legendary Detroit guitarist Willie D. Warren.

Some romance: Al Lewis, better known as Big Daddy Romance, learned his blues lessons well from legendary Detroit guitarist Willie D. Warren.

For two years, Lewis played as a sidekick to the seminal axeman and later went on to succeed Warren in the Bluescruisers.

From Warren, he perhaps learned the best advice of all: "To stay out his way."

"He, like most musicians who are frontmen, had his own approach," said Lewis, a 1973 graduate of Avondale High. "You have to play to that and go along with the program. He did teach me a lot about the blues."

Lewis learned the growl of a bluesman, how to chew off words deliberately and effectively from Warren. All of which he exercises as a frontman these days in hard charging rhythm and blues outfit Big Daddy Romance and the Hedgetrimmers.

Big Daddy Romance evolved four years ago, dressed in zoot suits and hats the size of an oil pan from a semi-truck. He's been kicking up a duststorm of rhythm and blues, yearning at area venues ever since.

"There's always something in there about women and love," he said about his songs.

These days, he has a full band complimenting him with the Hedgetrimmers. The outfit features such notable performers as guitarist Bobby East, Second Self alum drummer Jeff Fowles and bassist Nick Desmond.

The group performs regularly in the area, including this Friday before the judges. Big Daddy Romance headlines a benefit, "Judges Against Domestic Violence," 5-8 p.m. at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit.

Tickets are $25 with the proceeds going to First Step, a non-profit organization providing assistance to survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault. (People may send checks payable to: First Step, 8381 Farmington Road, Westland 48185 or call 525-2230 for information).

The band will also perform at 4 p.m. Sunday, May 24, as part of the annual mega Blues Festival that weekend at Hart Plaza.

Benefits, such as the one for First Step, are not new to Big Daddy Romance. His outfit was part of a host of bands performing at the annual Blues Benefit for the Homeless in December at the Majestic Theatre.

Such events keep Big Daddy Romance in love with performing live in this area.

"What I enjoy about it is the blues community in this town," he said. "It's not quite as big as Chicago's, but they've been around for a lot longer. . . . I love the people. We've been involved since it (blues revival) started up 12 years ago."

POINTS OF VIEW

Suburbs, city must share in cooperation

There's a cartoon in which a spoiled teen mooches money from his father:

"Dad, I'd like you to cooperate with my learning venture — advance me $10 on my allowance."

The gag, of course, is that to this kid "cooperation" is a one-way street. Dad pays, he spends.

Coleman Young was full of the cooperative spirit last month when he presented the Detroit City Council his budget, a message whose fine print I recently perused.

The communities of southeastern Michigan will rise and fall together. We are interconnected," said the mayor.

Young pointed to the "jewels" — the Detroit Institute of Arts, Belle Isle and so on. "We welcome your concern," he told the suburbs. Then Young got to the point: "I want to tell you up front that this budget does not propose to dispose of any of the city's assets in a fire sale atmosphere. I was not elected mayor to dismantle Detroit one piece at a time, selling off our jewels to some sort of regional pawnbroker."

Young welcomed "a joint effort to keep these institutions strong, not by trying to relieve us of them."

Detroit, under his and previous administrations, already has sold or abandoned its jewels:

- Detroit gave up on its own TB hospital (located conveniently in Northville Township so that it wouldn't detract from Detroit's tax base). The property is now a state park.

- Detroit gave up on its own prison, located in Plymouth Township. The land is now used for state prisons.
- Detroit used to sponsor summer performances by the Detroit Concert Band at both Belle Isle and the State Fairgrounds. Under Young, Detroit abandoned the band.

- Detroit used to underwrite the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Young failed to come through with its pledge about four years ago, precipitated to a fiscal crisis.

This city department gets a paltry $500,000 from the city. Private money brings in upwards of $9 million. The state kicked in as much as $16 million until the 1991 budget cuts.

Here's how Young's "cooperation" works: The city controls all jobs. Suburbanites may work as volunteers. The state provides the bulk of the public money.

The GRAIS (Guilt-Ridden Affluent Liberal Suburbanites) eat it up. They have made Gov. John Engler their whipping boy. The truth is that Detroit, under the leadership of Mayor Young, has abandoned everything about the DIA except political control.

Ditto to the zoo. The city contributes about one-third the budget, ticket and souvenir sales are one-third, and the state kicks in one-third.

Who controls all the jobs? Young, naturally.

Whose name is emblazoned on the water tower? Young's, of course.

How's that for "cooperation," "joint effort" and "welcome your concern"?

Folks outside Detroit use those jewels. We should help pay for them.

We should also have a proportionate share of control. We should have our share of the jobs. Our political chiefs should have their names on the signs.

That would be "cooperation."
Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional news.

Columnist shows his true colors on abortion

By JIM LEDDY and PEGGY LEDDY
GUEST COLUMNISTS

Subject: Comments on points of view entitled "Neither side guides meaning of life, death" from the Monday, April 27, issue.

Your editorial started out great, but by the end your "true" pro-choice "colors came shining through."

About the only thing we ended up agreeing with you on is that "the idea of having lawyers and judges deciding when life starts is scary." It sure is.

First of all, who do they think they are? This is not really getting out of hand if we've got people running around playing God. And second, whatever decision they might make is totally irrelevant anyway. You are either pregnant, or you are not pregnant. And anything that is done to purposely end that pregnancy purposely ends the life of the baby that would have been born if the pregnancy had been allowed to take its natural course.

There's a verse to a song we know that seems to say it best: Every child that is born today is a child who could be free. But every child taken from this world is a child who will never be.

We also agree that some people on both sides are getting out of hand. And from that perspective we can understand where you're coming from when you say, "There is no compromise for either side." That means it's up to us, the sane folks in the middle, to do something about the abortion issue.

My wife and I are pro-life (what a surprise right?), but we are not very active in the matter. Writing a letter like this is about as far as we've ever taken it. We've always felt that we can do our part by just not being involved in any abortions personally and by raising our children that way. No need to join any committees or do any protesting. And we think you'd agree that a lot of people out there deal with this issue the same way. We just live our own lives based on our own individual beliefs.

But unfortunately, this abortion issue is too big to just leave it up to the individual, because in each case of abortion, there is a life involved that has no say whatsoever.

We need activists to take public stands and force this issue openly because otherwise nothing will ever be done. It's too bad that some of the activists go too far . . .

We need activists to take public stands and force this issue openly because otherwise nothing will ever be done. It's too bad that some of the activists go too far and do some of the crazy things you mentioned in your column, and we certainly do not condone that behavior. We think it's wrong, but we still believe that we need people who are willing to take this issue outside the living room because a vast majority of us don't.

Your point of view that the abortion issue be put "back in the living room, where it belongs," was followed by a list of people, "feminists, pro-life zealots and lawyers," who should stay out of it.

We want to point out that your list didn't include pro-choice zealots, unless that's what you meant by feminists.

But regardless of that, the fact that you think the decision should be made in individual living rooms suggests that you are pro-choice. And assuming that is the case, we'd like to ask you the age-old question in the abortion issue, and that is, what choice does the unborn child have in an abortion?

What response does pro-choice have to that question? Isn't the response that "Well, it's not really a child yet," or "it's not life yet?" And isn't that the "angle" that got doctors and lawyers and judges involved in the issue as far as determining when life starts? Isn't it ironic that your point of view is responsible for something that, as you state in your article, is "scary?"

One final comment we'd like to make is that, in the end, what it all boils down to is taking a stand. You're either for abortions or you're against abortions. The issue here is not choice: That's some soap opera issue that people who are for abortions came up with to support their view and ease guilty consciences.

This whole choice thing is nothing but a big smoke screen. Because, make no mistake, the issue here is abortion. The issue here is the killing of unborn, innocent children. And I think it even goes beyond that to a higher, yet simpler theological issue, the battle of good versus evil. And in that battle, evil would have us humans pursuing respect for innocent life.

We're not saying that pro-choicers are evil or that they're condemned to hell. We're not sitting in judgment on anyone because we're definitely not saints. And in the end we'll be judged by God just like everybody else. All we're saying is that maybe mere people should look at the abortion issue through the eyes of good versus evil because we don't think they realize how much of a decoy this choice issue is.

Jim and Peggy Leddy are Canton Township residents.

The New York Public Library has been a focal point for residents and tourists since it opened on May 24, 1911. The Beaux Arts building at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street — officially known as the Central Research Library — is home to one of the world's great research libraries. It includes some 37.5 million books, manuscripts, periodicals, prints, photographs, musical scores and other materials. Other New York institutions, such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, have housed shops offering reproductions of works in their collections for more than 100 years. But it was just five years ago that the New York Public Library Shop opened. Currently, the store is under the supervision of Allie Middleton Thieringer, the library's coordinator for retail and product development. "We have really just begun to cull the collections of the library," Thieringer said. "We have of all of these treasures at our disposal, and we've had to educate our staff to be more visually aware, to bring things to our attention." The shop is on the library's ground floor, in an elegant space that was just expanded last year. For Thieringer, who formerly worked with the South Street Seaport Museum in New York, choosing items for the shop is a labor of love.

"Our audience is made up of word people," she said with pride. "This institution is home to these people." There are books, posters, prints, toys and postcards, most but not all designed from items in the library collections. Other items are reproduced from major museums around the world or from traveling exhibitions. "We have to justify our sales via a story or provenance connected to an item," Thieringer said. A good example is one of the shop's best sellers, a set of six coasters, each one illustrated with a portrait of an early 20th-century baseball player. "This was taken from a Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition called 'Diamonds are Forever,'" Thieringer said. "The portraits, which include Honus Wagner, are copies of early trade cards, a forerunner of baseball cards. The originals are in a scrapbook which has some of the rarest baseball cards known to exist. That scrapbook was bequeathed to the library."

Fun horse town

Louisville's derby season runs all month

Racing fans call the Kentucky Derby the greatest two minutes in sports, with considerable justification. The blend of heart-pounding excitement and nostalgia that imbues stately old Churchill Downs on the first Saturday in May is unforgettable.

But for the residents of this city on the Ohio River, derby season lasts a month.

Louisvillians traditionally mark the end of winter by sprucing up their homes and lawns in anticipation of derby time, and the 117-year-old horse race is such a central event that even folk wisdom — "plant tomatoes on Derby Day and start eating them on the Fourth of July" — is based on it.

The Kentucky Derby Museum, at Churchill Downs, at 704 Central Avenue, says "every day is Derby Day" within its steeple-topped, white-clapboard quarters. Its multimedia show, large collection of educational exhibits and memorabilia and guided tours of Churchill Downs provide a postgraduate education in racing.

The museum is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except on Oaks Day, Derby Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Admission is $3.50, $2.50 for those 55 and over and $1.50 for children 5 to 12. For more information call (502) 637-1111.

Other events

The Louisville Zoo, at 1100 Trevilian Way, celebrates Earth Day on Saturday with booths, displays, lectures and entertainment. Zoo hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Admission is $5, $3 for those over 60 and $2.50 for children 3 to 11. For more information call (502) 459-2181.

The Louisville Museum of History and Science, at 727 West Main St., in a renovated Victorian-era department-store building, currently offers two special exhibits: "Hot Circuits," a 20-year retrospective of video games (through August); and "Always There: The African-American Presence in American Quilts" (through August).

Its IMAX theater's current features are "Hawaii" (through August) and "Antarctica" (through December). It is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Thursday; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $4.50, $3 for those over 60 and between 2 and 12; plus $2 for IMAX. For more information call (502) 561-6100.

The J.B. Speed Art Museum, at 2035 South Third St., adjacent to the University of Louisville's Belknap Campus, is open Tuesday to Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Current special exhibits include "Kentucky Masterworks: A Bicentennial Exhibition," featuring 19th-century Kentucky art, to Nov. 29. For more information call (502) 636-2893.

The Kentucky Opera will perform Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" there May 16 and 19. Tickets range from $12 to $42.

Actors Theater of Louisville, at 316 West Main St. is one of the nation's leading repertory theaters and performs in a renovated 150-year-old neoclassical bank building.

Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" will run to May 31. Tickets range from $6.50 to $25. For more information call (502) 584-1205. From the New York Times Syndicate.

Adkins announces bid for Congressional seat

By WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

Burl Adkins hopes the fourth time is the charm in his bid to unseat longtime Congressman William Ford.

A Republican nominee for Congress in 1988 and 1990 — and Democratic challenger in 1986 — Adkins kicked off his fourth election campaign Saturday at Northville City Hall.

President of Lincoln Park-based Global Technology Associates, Adkins said he'd take a businessman's approach to running the U.S. government.

"I started the business literally at my kitchen table and now we have 170 employees and do more than $9 million in business," he said. "With Michigan leading the nation in unemployment, it's clear we need a change."

Adkins, 40, seeks his party's nomination in the new 13th District, including Westland, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton.

Redistricting initially placed Adkins outside the district. But the Southgate resident is moving his family to western Wayne County.

"We're looking in the Plymouth, Northville and Canton area," he said. "This is going to be a permanent move, we're not going to be renting an apartment."

Though he faced a field of political unknowns in both previous as a potential candidate.

Geake is no stranger to district residents, having represented several district communities in the state Senate since 1977. Tanter, a one-time Reagan Administration official, is also a familiar figure through his many appearances of Detroit television news programs.

But Adkins has also raised his public profile in recent years. Founder of Michigan Back to Basics, a grassroots citizens group, Adkins has mobilized several protests involving trade policy toward Japan.

He's been interviewed by CNN as well as local media, in his campaign to end tax breaks for Japanese firms doing business in Michigan.

"The kinds of things we were talking about four years ago are now major issues," said Adkins, who has been particularly critical of state tax policy regarding the Mazda Assembly plant in Flat Rock.

Adkins is focusing the campaign on Ford — who he called a "tax-and-spend liberal" — rather than his GOP rivals.

In past campaigns, Adkins has declared himself pro-life, supported the death penalty and called for U.S. allies to pay more for their defense.

With a limited budget and lack of official party support Adkins captured 36.5 percent of the vote in his 1990 election bid.

He's obviously hoping for bigger things this time around.

GOP bids, Adkins this time will face a tough, crowded field of political pros for the right to challenge Ford.

State Sen. R. Robert Geake and U-M professor Raymond Tanter are other announced candidates. Cynthia Hudgins, office director for retiring U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, has also been mentioned

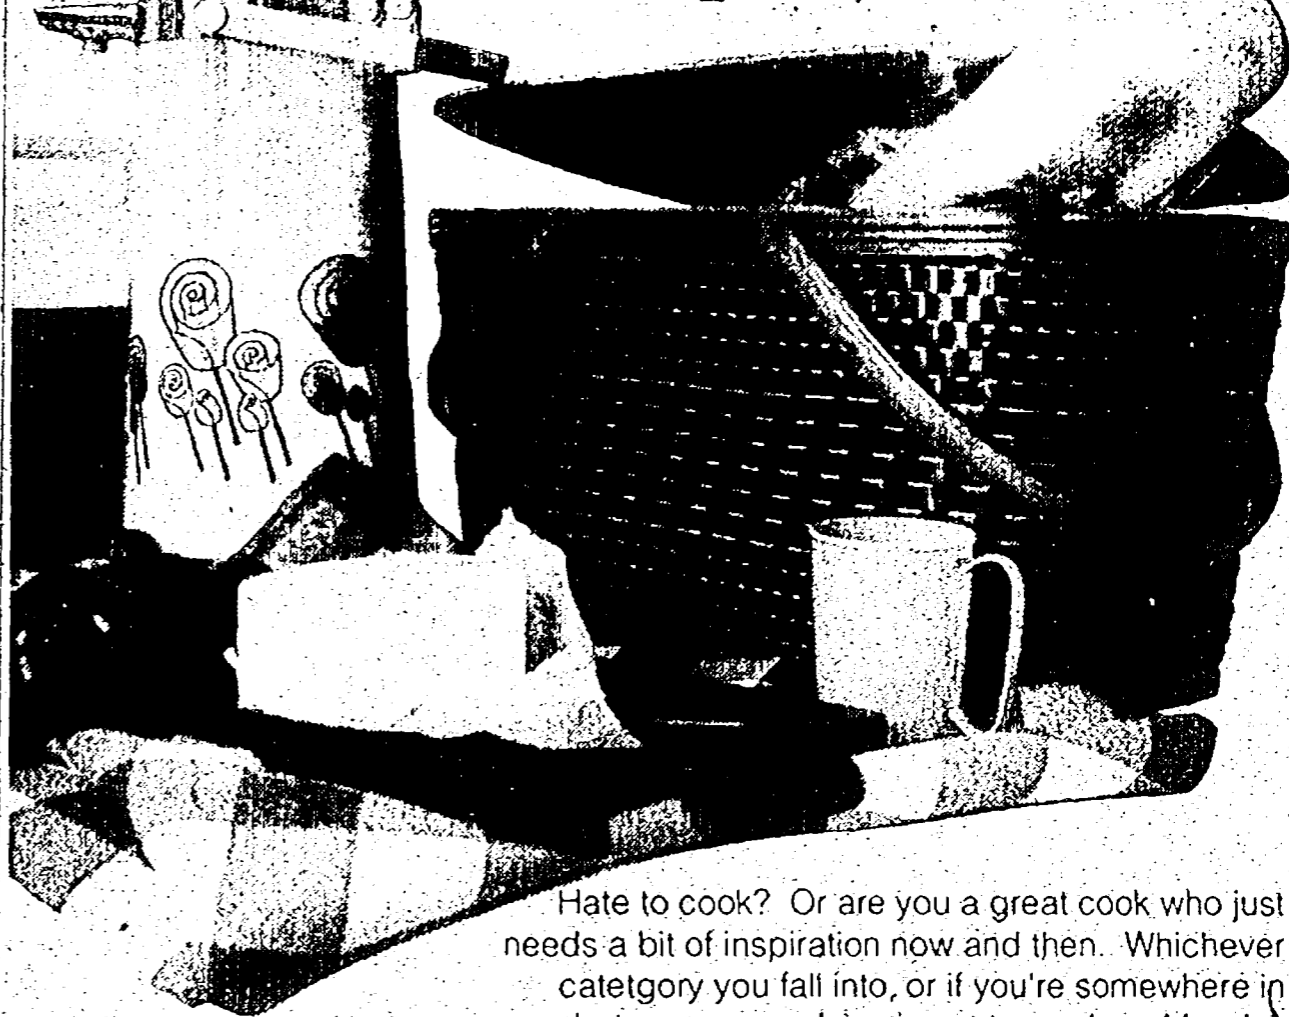

Levin sets office hours

U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's regional office will be holding office hours Wednesday, May 13, at Wayne City Hall. Staff member Lisa Borio will be present 2:30-4:30 p.m. to meet with constituents.

The building is at 3355 Wayne Road. Those unable to attend may call the senator's regional office, 285-8596. The office is at 15100 Northline, Southgate.

Glenn runners romp

The Westland John Glenn boys track team stayed perfect in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association Thursday, routing Plymouth Salem in a dual meet, 93-44.

The Rockets upped their overall record to 6-2 and 4-0 in the Lakes.

Glenn gets Lakes share

Westland John Glenn claimed a share of the Lakes Division softball crown with Walled Lake Central in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Rockets, however, will not get the top seed in the division, losing to Central on a tiebreaker.

By BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Westland John Glenn's softball team has beaten the jinx.

During the two previous seasons, the Rockets lost the Lakes Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association on the last day.

But that all changed Friday, despite a few anxious moments, as they defeated North Farmington to claim a share of the divisional crown with Walled Lake Central (8-2 records each) after a 10-5 come-from-behind win over the Raiders.

Glenn, however, will not play in today's WLAA championship game. The Rockets lost out on the top seed to Central on a tiebreaker format. Central travels to Western Division champion Plymouth Canton.

"This is an accomplishment when you look at the teams in our division such as Central and Plymouth Salem," said Glenn coach Linda Jimenez, whose club is 13-3 overall. "This team has seven seniors and three sophomores, but for the seniors who started on the varsity as sophomores, it means something."

"We understood that we lost the title (Lakes) in the final game (the past two years), but we didn't talk about it."

When North grabbed a 5-4 lead in the bottom of the fifth on Becky Thurgam's RBI single, scoring Alicia Romig, the Glenn coach was caught muttering to herself, "Here we go again."

The Rockets then unloaded for five runs in the top of the sixth, sending nine batters to the plate.

North pitcher Karen Seremet was rocked by Nikki Wojcik's three-run homer after catcher Karen Olack tied the game with tomahawk-chop RBI smash to center, scoring Nikki Nagel.

Ironically, Glenn got a break to start the inning when Nagel reached base on a North outfield error, a routine fly that dropped in between two fielders.

The Rockets also added another run in the same inning when designated hitter Lynn Little tripled in Christi Wrybkowski.

Glenn added another run in the seventh on a single by Olack and a double by Jenni Walaszek to put it out of reach.

"We couldn't close the door with two outs," said North coach Dave Brubaker, whose team made four errors. "They got three (runs) in the second after two were out."

In the top of the third, Glenn's Jamie Cook doubled off Karen Seremet to open the inning.

Seremet then retired two batters in a row before three costly North miscues resulted in runs scored by Cook, Walaszek and Wojcik. (Little had an RBI single during the surge to give Glenn a 4-1 lead.)

"We made mental errors and our share of physical ones, too," said Brubaker, whose team finished 4-6 in the Lakes. (The Raiders are 6-9 overall.) "We had eight hits ourselves and that should be enough in fast-pitch softball."

"And I think we have one of the better pitchers in the league, but she does not get the offensive and defensive support like some of the other teams."

Glenn, meanwhile, gave plenty of support to starter Cathy Mruk, the senior right-hander who struck out two and walked three.

"Cathy was not as sharp as she has been, but she was able to work it out on her own," Jimenez said. "I don't have to say much to her."

In the second inning, shortstop Carrie Rachwal squashed a North threat with runners on second and third, snaring a line drive and turning it into a double play. Mruk also snared a line drive in the sixth.

North had three players collecting two hits apiece including Amy Kelman, Alicia Romig (including a solo homer in the second) and Thurgam. (Tami Conti added a two-run single in the third when North tied it at 4-4.)

The Raiders were missing three starters — Tanya Proctor, Melanie Chaney and Tammy Pierce — all off to Boston for the week with the school orchestra.

"That definitely hurt us, we were a little short on experience," Brubaker said. "We didn't have two outfielders and our third baseman."

Spartans eye final; Churchill upsets Rocks

Livonia Stevenson and Rochester Adams battled to a 2-2 girls soccer draw Friday.

Mo Drabicki scored the tying goal for visiting Stevenson (11-1-2) early in the second half from Shannon Wilkinson and Bagen Coyne.

Coyne tallied Stevenson's first goal from Holly Kimble and Jean Barnas.

Coyne, a senior midfielder, scored four goals Wednesday to carry Stevenson to a 12-0 girls soccer win over host Farmington Hills Harrison.

The win raised the Spartans record to 11-1-1 overall.

Karen Groulx and Alicia Smith combined for the shutout as goalkeepers.

Sophomore forward Amy Marcoe scored two goals and two assists for the Spartans. The other goals belonged to sophomore midfielder Mo Drabicki, sophomore defender Holly Kimble, freshman midfielder Wendy McCaul, freshman Lori Amey, Karleen Kudej and senior striker Shannon Wilkinson.

Drabicki had two assists, while Kimble, McCaul and Wilkinson contributed one apiece.

Earlier in the week, Stevenson dumped visiting North Farmington, 9-1, as Wilkinson, Coyne and Drabicki each scored twice. Michelle Brach, Marcoe and Kudej also scored.

Groulx gave up a goal to Ali Lord (her 17th) five minutes into the game, but she held the Raiders scoreless the rest of the way.

Stevenson hosts Plymouth Canton for the Western Lakes title, 7 p.m. Wednesday.

CHURCHILL 2, SALEM 1: Andrea Zawislak scored twice and Melina Garrett sparked in goal Wednesday, leading Livonia Churchill to the upset win Wednesday at Plymouth Salem.

Carol Jackson assisted on one of Zawislak's goals.

On Friday, Lisa Grace scored with 15 minutes left in the first half, giving No. 1 ranked Troy Athens a 1-0 win over the Chargers (7-6-1).

The loss snapped Churchill's five-game winning streak.

All-State goalie Kristy McGough posted the shutout.

Churchill had a goal called back in the second half.

LADYWOOD 3, REGINA 1: Livonia Ladywood (7-2-4) earned third place in the Catholic League's Central Division behind Liz Gunn's seventh shutout of the year.

Sue Wiedenbach, Betsy Monczka (from Jean Roy) and Kelli Colliton all scored goals for Ladywood, which-host Birmingham Marian at 4 today in the playoffs at Schoolcraft College.

Earlier in the week, Ladywood blanked host Ann Arbor Huron, 2-0, as Wiedenbach and Colliton each scored.

Sarno breaks Stevenson standard with discus throw

Teresa Sarno and the Livonia Stevenson girls track team continued to steamroll through the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association Thursday, running past visiting North Farmington in a dual meet, 87-41.

The Spartans are now 9-0 overall and 4-0 in the Lakes.

Sarno broke the school record in the discus with a heave of 135 feet, 2 inches, snapping the mark of 128-7 set last season by teammate Debbie Wroblewski last year.

Sarno also captured the shot put with a toss of 36-1. Other Stevenson first place finishers included: Laurie Hardie, high jump (4-8); Cathy Bacile, long jump (16-0); Kelli Sonquist, 100-meter hurdles (17.1); Stacy Prais, 300 hurdles (50.2); Kim Nelson, 200 dash (28.3); and Becky Adamczyk, 400 run (1:02.9).

The Spartans also won three of four relay events.

Nelson, Bacile, Amy Pack and Debbie Walsh took the 400 relay (53.5), while the foursome of Michelle Slawski, Nelson, Bacile and Prais won the 800 relay (1:49.3).

Stevenson closed out the meet against the 0-5 Raiders by winning the 1,600 relay, as Adamczyk, Prais, Nicole Lanctot and Janet Tate were clocked in 4:30.0.

Livonia Churchill

The Chargers came close Thursday, but visiting Farmington Harrison came away with a 66-62 WLAA Western Division win.

Churchill first place finishers included: Amanda

Burdono, shot put (31-9); Stacey Rokicsak, high jump (4-8); Kelly Kobane, 300-meter hurdles (16.4); Heather Boni, 200 dash (27.4); Shani Christianson, 800 run (2:37.3); and Tracey Parker, 1,600 run (5:47.4).

Churchill won three of four relay events. Hue Diep, Amy Place, Bonia and Burdono captured the 400 relay in 53.6, while the quartet of Jennette and Jennifer Swartout, Kobane and Rokicsak added a first in the 1,600 relay (4:21.7).

Christianson, Jennette Swartout, Carol McCoy and Amy Jo Paszek also won the 3,200 relay (10:21.7).

Churchill is 1-6 overall and 1-3 in the division. Harrison, paced by Colleen Heinzmann's wins in the long jump (14-8) and 100 hurdles (16.4), is 3-2 overall and 3-1 in the Western Division.

Westland John Glenn

The Rockets managed only three firsts — all in the field events — in a 91-37 defeat Thursday at home against WLAA-Lakes foe Plymouth Salem.

Salem is now 8-0 overall, while Glenn slips to 5-3. Glenn winners included Lisa Rankey in the shot put (31-11) and discus (93-3/4), along with Karen Deschaine in the high jump (5-2).

Theresa Giachero paced Salem with firsts in the 100- and 300-meter hurdles in 16.2 and 48.0, respectively.

Livonia Franklin

The Patriots, despite Danielle Simon's first-place efforts in the shot put (32-6 1/2) and discus (108-4), lost Thursday to visiting Walled Lake Western in a WLAA-Western Division encounter, 90-38.

Franklin's only other first was recorded by Kristie Celiski in the high jump (4-9).

Teammate Kelly Gustafson added personal bests in the long jump (14-1 1/2) and 400-meter run (1:02.82), both good enough for second place.

Franklin is 2-5 overall and 1-3 in the Western Division of the WLAA.

Wayne Memorial

The Zebras scored a 67-61 victory Thursday over visiting Dearborn Fordson as Kim Morrow won the shot put (35-9) and discus (107-1).

Tranessa Burroughs added firsts in the 300-meter hurdles (49.6) and 100 dash (13.21). She also teamed up with Nicole Burton, Ellen Clark and Ashakee to win the 1,600 relay (4:27.4).

Burton, Kate Adamson, Nicole Perry and Sonja Carlson took the took relay in 55.8.

Wayne also won the 3,200 relay as Stacy Maltando, Zenobia Davis, Sheila Parker and Nicole Gliński were clocked in 12:15.0.

Other Wayne individual firsts went to Nicole Burton in the 200 (28.57) and Sue Ronan in the high jump (5-2).

Wayne is now 4-3 overall and 2-3 in the Wolverine A League.

BASEBALL

Crusaders end season

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

It was not the finish Mike George had hoped for. Then again, noting the performance of the Madonna University baseball team he has coached over the last three weeks, he wasn't too surprised, either.

Madonna's stay in the double-elimination NAIA District 23 Tournament was the shortest of the four qualifying teams. The Fighting Crusaders lost their first two games, surrendering a total of 26 runs in falling 13-8 to Siena Heights and 13-1 to Spring Arbor Thursday in Adrian.

The two losses left Madonna with a final record of 29-22. That may not seem too bad for a program in its third year of existence, but consider that the Crusaders were 21-6 at one point in the season, and the school records they set for district wins (14, against eight losses) and consecutive wins (14) lose some of their luster.

"We didn't play very well at all," admitted George. "We scored a lot of runs, but (Siena Heights) really hit the ball."

Not playing well was a common description of the Crusaders in the season's latter stages. "We struggled in all facets of the game the last three weeks," said George. "After we went on that (14-game, nine-day) road trip, we never got it back."

Reversal of fortunes

Madonna's problems started to grow after back-to-back doubleheader losses to Spring Arbor and Aquinas April 14-15 turned a 6-2 district ledger to 6-6. Starting with the Spring Arbor losses, Madonna went 8-16 the rest of the season.

On their road trip to Chicago, Midland and Grand Rapids, more problems cropped up. George was forced to discipline six players, sending them home before the trip-ending doubleheader at Grand Rapids Baptist.

George won't discuss the problems any further, calling it a closed matter. But he acknowledges there were some problems that will be addressed during the off-season.

"We need to change some things and (team) attitude is on the list," he said. "I'm not pointing the finger at anybody but myself. But we just didn't have a good chemistry on this team."

The Crusaders certainly didn't have what it takes against Siena Heights in Thursday's first game. Against Madonna, the Saints had lost three-of-four during the regular season and were 2-6 on their home field over the last three years.

But they didn't waste any time Thursday, scoring 10 runs in four innings off Crusader ace Chris Kloc. An all-district selection, Kloc came into the game with a 5-1 record and a .091 earned run average, but the senior right-hander was hammered this time, surrendering 10 runs (seven earned) on eight hits and two walks in 3 1/3 innings.

Hit hard in opener

"That's the hardest I've seen Kloc hit — ever," said George. "He has to rely on placing the ball, and he got some pitches up. They just had his number."

Trailing 10-2, Madonna started to climb back into it with a five-run fifth, a rally that started with two out. The Crusaders put together six consecutive hits, with Joe Brusseau opening it with a single. Ernie Bowling doubled him home, and Bowling scored on a Jeff Kugelmann double.

Bill Terski singled Kugelmann in with the third run of the inning, and T.C. Raptis doubled in Terski with the fourth. Kevin O'Connor's single scored Raptis, making it 10-7.

But Madonna would get no closer, despite its 13-hit attack. Lou McKaig relieved Kloc, but wasn't any more effective, allowing two runs on four hits in 1 1/2 innings. Raptis went to the mound next and he was sharp, giving up just one run on two hits in 3 1/3 innings.

Brusseau led the Crusader attack with two hits and two runs batted in. Terski had two hits and an RBI, and Steve Coffell and Jeff Pendell had two hits each. Pendell scoring twice. Joe D'Marco had four hits for Siena Heights and Todd Falkner had three, with two RBIs.

Clawed by Cougars

The loss dropped Madonna into the loser's bracket against defending district champ Spring Arbor, the first-place team in the regular season. The Crusaders were no match for the Cougars, getting thumped in a game shortened to seven innings by the 10-run mercy rule (tournament games were nine innings).

Like Siena Heights, Spring Arbor quickly put runs on the board, leading 9-0 after four innings. The Cougars never let up; Madonna's only run came on a Bowling homer in the seventh. George Leung had two of the Crusaders' eight hits.

Franklin turns back Chargers, 4-2

Livonia Franklin scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning Friday to rally for a 4-2 baseball win over host Livonia Churchill.

The win improved Franklin to 7-9 overall, 4-6 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Churchill fell to 4-6 in the WLA.

Jesse Gerwatowski, Franklin's senior left-hander, earned the win to move to 2-3 overall. Gerwatowski allowed six hits, struck out four and walked two in going the distance.

The Patriots trailed 2-1 after six innings but Churchill hurler Marcus Sarnovsky was charged with the loss after allowing three runs in the seventh.

Delano Voletti, who was 2-for-3, started the rally with a single, followed by a bunt single by Kevin Edick. Kevin Crumley laid down a sacrifice bunt which Sarnovsky fielded and threw wild, sending home Voletti and Edick to give Franklin a 3-2 lead.

A wild pitch later in the inning brought home Eric Holmes, who was pinch running for Crumley, with the fourth run. Sarnovsky left with no outs in the sixth after allowing six hits, four runs, five strikeouts and no walks.

The Chargers took the game's first lead with two runs in the third inning. Mark Rutherford, who had three hits, had an RBI double. Rutherford scored the other run after being sacrificed to third base and going home on a balk by Gerwatowski.

Chris Vargo added two hits to the Churchill attack.

Churchill on Wednesday lost a 7-4 decision at Northville.

Rutherford suffered the loss, allowing seven runs on eight hits over six innings. Joe Stankis was the winning pitcher, allowing five Churchill hits in going the distance.

Todd Siedlaczek led Churchill with two hits, including a two-run homer and three RBIs.

Franklin also won a game Wednesday, 4-3, over visiting Farmington Hills Harrison in eight innings.

Harrison scored one run in the top of the eighth before Franklin came back with a pair in the bottom of the inning to win.

Ron Sherry pitched 7 1/3 innings for the Patriots, leaving with Harrison ahead 3-2. Crumley earned the win by getting the final out of the eighth.

Holmes, pinch running for Jeff Schaffer, scored from third on a wild pitch to tie the score 3-3 in the eighth. Sherry drove home the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

JOHN GLENN 7, N. FARMINGTON 0: Aaron Scheffer pitched a three-hitter Friday for Westland John Glenn as the Rockets blanked visiting North Farmington in a WLA game.

Scheffer struck out seven and walked one for the Rockets, who improved to 6-6 overall and 5-5 in the WLA.

Mark Temple suffered his first loss after winning his first six decisions on the mound for North. Temple struck out seven and walked only three but allowed nine Glenn hits.

Greg Tamas led Glenn with three hits, an RBI and two runs scored. Jamie Murphy had a two-run single, while Derek Besco delivered two runs with a double. Mike Birt had two hits and Tayo Farley drove home a run with a single.

Glenn on Wednesday scored single runs in the fourth and fifth innings, respectively, to beat Livonia Stevenson 2-0 in a WLA game.

Chris Kirkey earned the win for Glenn, going the distance and allowing only two hits and five walks. Craig Brevik was the losing pitcher despite allowing only five Glenn hits and striking out seven. He walked two. Murphy led Glenn with two hits.

STEVENSON 4, FARMINGTON 1: J.J. Rarog threw only 84 pitches, 61 strikes, and tossed a four-hitter Friday for Livonia Stevenson in a WLA game over host Farmington.

Rarog walked none and struck out one as Stevenson kept Farmington winless in 10 games. Stevenson improved to 3-11 overall, 5-8 in the WLA.

Colin Stockton led Stevenson with two hits, including a two-run single in the first inning. The other Stevenson runs came in the sixth on an RBI single by Rarog and a fielder's choice by Michal Lietzau.

WAYNE 12, WYANDOTTE 1: Pitcher Jason Wetmore threw a two-hitter and also contributed two hits to Wayne Memorial's 14-hit attack Thursday as the Zebras won a laughter over host Wyandotte Memorial.

Wayne is 10-4 overall and in a tie for first place in the Wolverine A League at 8-2.

Wyandotte's only hits came in the first when it scored its only run.

Wetmore scored two runs, had an RBI and was one of five Wayne batters with two hits.

The others with two hits were Scott Goleniak, Mike Martin, Jason Overton and Dave Henry, the latter whom finished with four RBIs.

The Zebras on Wednesday defeated visiting Trenton 5-1. Tadd Kempainen was the winning pitcher, allowing two hits and fanning eight over the seven innings.

Goleniak had two hits and an RBI, while Eric Bates had two RBIs.

LUTH. WESTLAND 11, INTER-CITY BAPTIST 0: Jason Zieliński hit a three-run home run and Steve Lingertot and Jim Brasgalla added solo shots Thursday to lead visiting Lutheran Westland to the easy win over Allen Park Inter-City Baptist. Lutheran Westland is 6-3 overall.

Lingertot also earned the win in relief of starting pitcher Casey Cooley. Lingertot allowed two hits, struck out two and walked three over four innings of work.

REDFORD CC 14-2, U-D JESUIT 1-3: Redford Catholic Central was upset by the University of Detroit Jesuit in the second game of a double-header played Wednesday at U-D.

The Shamrocks, who are 8-2 in the Catholic League Central Division and 13-2 overall, lost 3-2 in the nightcap after winning the first game 14-1. The win was U-D's first in 12 outings.

CC loaded the bases in the seventh inning of the second game but was unable to push across the tying run off U-D starting and winning pitcher Bill Troncasi. The Shamrocks managed seven hits but Troncasi struck out 10 and walked only three.

Brian Paluk suffered the loss for the Shamrocks in relief of starter Scott Kapla. Paluk gave up three runs on two hits and a pair of walks in 1 1/3 innings of work.

Kapla kept the Shamrocks in contention, pitching a one-hitter with five strikeouts and two walks over 4 1/3 innings.

Brian Hicks continued to swing a hot bat for the Shamrocks, going two-for-three with an RBI. Kapla was 2-for-4 with a run scored.

In the opening game, the Shamrocks won a five-inning mercy behind the two-hit pitching of Dave Susalla and timely hitting of Hicks and Paul Kuhn.

Hicks hit a grand slam home run in the first and added a two-run homer in the fifth to finish with seven RBIs. Kuhn was 2-for-3 with an RBI.

"Hicks has been as hot as anyone," CC coach John Salter said. "He started the season zero for eight but then he came on."

Susalla struck out seven batters and walked none.

Unbeaten Mercy girls defeat Franklin golfers

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Precious morels not just 'any' mushroom

Morel mushrooms bring out the spring madness: Mycophiles mislead old friends to guard a secret woodland cache of the precious fungus, or pay exorbitant prices in the marketplace to take them home. Many guests will spend hours waiting in line at restaurants that will soon be offering this fleeting delight, if but just for a very short while.

If you haven't guessed it by now, morel mushrooms have just about defied all efforts of cultivation in captivity. I say "just about" because a small company in Mason, Michigan has devised a growing medium that produces a morel similar to the wild variety, and presently, they are available solely for commercial use. Lacking the "wild" taste, the morels look similar but that's about where the similarity ends. The only known sources are obscure backyards where sunshine is filtered through pine needles and towering elms or a lucky friend, relative or neighbor who "knows just the right spot."

Morel hunters secretive

Thank God for Aunt Phyllis. A former Glen Lake native now with roots Downriver, we have, on numerous occasions, set off with five pound onion-sack bags in hand, searching for what is known as "the lobster of the mushroom kingdom." In all honesty, many times we have returned with little more than the empty sacks, but on more than one occasion, have gathered more than our fill of the delectable beauty.

By the way, if you're waiting for me to divulge Aunt Phyllis' secret morel hideout, forget it. Not only would I be banned from any future family culinary outings, but in all honesty, all I remember is getting in the car and driving down these dusty roads passing cherry orchards and a cemetery with 100-year-old gravemarkers. Only then did we exit our vehicles to begin what was billed as a "don't worry Larry Lee, I know where we're going" hike over ridges and hills. All this without the use of a compass or hardly being able to see the sun through the towering trees. All this for a mushroom? Definitely, especially when we're talking about the elusive morel.

Beware of false morels

A morel is not just "any" mushroom. This thin-fleshed, spongy, dark-brown, yellow or off-white mushroom is shaped like a hollowed-out Christmas tree with a pitted cap and can be as small as a wild strawberry or as large as a lamb chop. The flavor varies, but personally I liken it to warm autumn leaves, hazelnuts and nutmeg. Richly flavored beyond compare, they should fall into the category of truffles and caviar leaving taste to the beholder.

Ah, but Mother Nature is a sly old lass and unfortunately, has planted false morels or Gyromitras to evade the uninformed mycophile. False morels, unlike regular morels, have caps that look like convoluted brains and are not cone shaped. In addition, the stems are thick and chambered while true morels have straight and hollow stems.

If this is your first time for mushroom hunting of any kind, it's best to have someone along like Aunt Phyllis who knows the area and has the experience to point out real morels. To an untrained eye, it's like picking out the cubic zirconia in a mound of real diamonds. Once you learn the focusing technique, spotting them gets easier, it's locating them first which is the most difficult.

Handle morels with care

Not that I've ever been in a position to pass up any morel sprouting from the earthen floor, the avid morelite should look for mushrooms that have a sweet, earthy and nutty smell. Discard sour smells and especially ones with a slight "animal aroma" (if you catch my drift).

Never drop them into a regular bag or worse yet, plastic as they will spoil easily. Seasoned pickers recycle using string-mesh sacks that potatoes and onions come in at the grocery store.

Because of their maze of honeycombed ridges, morels are perfect partners for sauces, much of which they absorb. The simpler the sauce, the better. A simple warning of heavy cream with just a sprinkling of beef bouillon envelopes the sliced morels into ecstasy, especially when served over a thick, juicy steak.

If you are lucky enough to find some, clean morels just before you cook them and never before. They can be stored in the fridge in a colander in the vegetable crisper for one or two days. Remove the heavy tip of the base and slice in half from top to bottom. It's best not to soak them, but since they do grow from the ground, a good washing to remove sand and dirt is unfortunately, a must. Immediately blot dry, then cook. Never eat raw morels as they can make many people sick.

Dried morels are available at many gourmet shops.

Season pick: Rita Mason enjoys making rhubarb bread and other desserts out of rhubarb she grows in her garden.

RHUBARB

REDDISCOVER

Sugar sweetens old-time spring favorite

Sometimes called pieplant, rhubarb is one of the few perennial vegetables. Cooks treat it like a fruit, and add sugar to sweeten the tart red stalks. First cultivated in China for its medicinal qualities, rhubarb is a springtime treat here and in Europe.

KEELY WYGONIK
AFF WRITER

The red fleshy stalks that look a little like celery are just starting to spring from the ground, heralding another growing season.

Rita Mason of Bloomfield Township, past president of the Cranbrook House and Garden Auxiliary, gets a kick out of it. "My mother-in-law had it in her yard in Detroit 30 years ago," said Mason. "She gave us part of one of her plants when we moved to our first house in Allen Park."

When Mason and her family moved to Bloomfield Township, the rhubarb moved, too.

"My mother always cooked it when spring came. It was supposed to be good for you."

Chinese physicians prescribed rhubarb externally as a treatment for cuts and burns, and internally in small amounts for constipation. Rhubarb contains some Vitamin C and has laxative qualities.

Gail Felker of Farmington Hills is also a rhubarb fan.

"We used to have it for breakfast as a side dish," she said. "I cook it in a pan with a little water, on low heat, and add sugar. Eventually the rhubarb will come apart and becomes mushy like applesauce. It's pink."

Add 1/2 to 3/4 cups of sugar per pound of rhubarb. For extra flavor, dot with butter and sprinkle a little cinnamon or ground ginger on top.

If you don't like your rhubarb mushy, cut it into one-inch pieces, add sugar, and bake at 350 for about 1/2 hour.

Mason peels rhubarb before she uses it, "otherwise it gets stringy." Rhubarb can be frozen. Add a little sugar to the water and blanch it for a minute or two. Remove and put in freezer bags or containers to enjoy later.

Bob and Peg Christina of Rochester grow rhubarb in their garden.

"I remember having stewed rhubarb as a child," said Peg. "I've since discovered some other recipes for rhubarb like rhubarb bread."

They used to have four plants, now they have two. "It's a very hardy plant and grows profusely," said Peg. "It likes the sun and isn't fussy about soil."

Rhubarb is the slang word for heated argument, and it's probably caused plenty in households where the person doing the gardening doesn't like the taste.

"As far as growing, put it in a confined place, otherwise it will take over the yard," said Mason winner of the 1990 President's Award for Excellence awarded by the Cranbrook Educational Community.

Rhubarb leaves are rather large, up to 2 feet, and tend to spread. One plant will produce enough rhubarb to make a dozen pies with some left over to freeze.

Pick rhubarb for pies and desserts early. As the plant matures, the stalks get woodier. Use this rhubarb for sauces and preserves.

If you're thinking of growing rhubarb, you'll have to wait two years to harvest the fruits of your labor, that's how long it takes for the plant to mature.

Stalks should be pulled out of the ground, not cut. Don't eat freshly picked rhubarb, it's very sour. Don't eat the leaves, you could become ill. They contain poisonous oxalic acid salts.

The Cranbrook House and Garden Auxiliary is having their popular plant sale 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 13, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, May 14, at Cranbrook House on Cranbrook at Lone Pine Road.

Make ahead meal perfect for merry month of May

WINNER DINNER

BETSY BRETHEN

Perhaps it is no coincidence that the aptly-named "May Day" distress signal is heard coming out of so many kitchens in this merry month of May. For next to December, this month seems to be for many people one of the busiest months of the year, as well as being the gateway to summer.

A transitional month, May brings graduations, weddings, end-of-the-school year activities, spring cleaning and gardening. Who has time to cook when there are so many things pulling in other directions? And yet, with a little bit of planning and advance preparation, delicious meals, like this week's Winner Dinner, can be put together, providing a solution to nightly meal-time maneuvers.

Submitted by Cindy Carney of Bloomfield Village, this week's winning menu includes recipes for barbecued beef brisket, cheesy potato casserole, a crunchy salad tossed with Burt Reynolds' salad dressing and bagel crisps. This is a terrific menu for those on the go as it can be made in advance and heated just prior to serving. It is ideally suited for casual entertaining. Tasty and full of flavor, this dinner will be as welcome at your table as the flowers in May.

Married and the mother of a daughter, Carney and her family recently moved back to this area after spending seven years in St. Louis, Missouri. Originally from California, Carney came to Birmingham with her parents when

Richly flavored beyond compare, try morels

See Larry Janes' column on Taste front.

ROAST CHICKEN WITH MOREL STUFFING

5 tablespoons butter
1 pound morels, cleaned, washed, trimmed and sliced
1-3/4 pound roasting chicken dash salt, cinnamon, pepper
1/2 cup bread cubes
1 cup chicken broth

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a large skillet. Stir in morels and saute quickly over high heat until liquid evaporates, about 4 minutes. Chop chicken liver and heart, reserved from the roasting chicken and add to mushrooms. Cook, stirring for 1 minute. Add bread cubes, salt, cinnamon and pepper. Toss until well coated. Heat chicken broth and add 1 tablespoon butter. Pour over morel breadcrumbs and toss to coat. Stuff cavity with stuffing. Rub remaining butter over chicken. Place bird, breast side down on a rack in an ovenproof pan. Roast for 45 minutes at 325 degrees. Turn breast side up, baste with pan drippings. Sprinkle lightly with salt and return to oven for 45 minutes at 325 degrees. Raise temperature to 400 degrees and roast chicken until golden brown for 10 minutes. Allow chicken to rest for 10 minutes before carving.

MOREL PIE

1 1/2 pounds morels, washed, trimmed and sliced
1/2 cup thin sliced sweet onion
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup flour
8 oz. cream style cottage

cheese
1/4 cup parsley
1/4 cup dry sherry
salt and pepper to taste
1 pastry for a 2-crust pie
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons water

Saute morels and onions in butter for about 10 minutes over medium-high heat. Stir in flour, add cottage cheese, parsley, sherry, salt and pepper and mix well. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Place 1 pastry in bottom of a 9-inch pie plate. Pour mushroom mixture into pie. Arrange top pastry on pie, or for better results, make top pastry into lattice design. Beat egg yolk with water and brush over top crust. Bake for 40-45 minutes, covering edges of pie with foil if over-browning occurs. Cool 5 minutes before slicing. Makes 6 servings as a luncheon entree or 8 servings as an accompaniment with meat or fowl.

Try cooking, tart, versatile rhubarb

See related story on Taste front.

RHUBARB CRUMBLE

4 cups (about 1 1/4 pounds diced rhubarb)
3 Granny Smith apples, peeled, cored and thinly sliced
3/4 cup honey
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom

Topping
1/2 cup unbleached flour
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons cold unsalted butter, cut into bits
2 tablespoons slivered almonds

Preheat the oven to 350 F. In a large bowl, combine the rhubarb, apples, honey, cornstarch, and cardamom. Pour the fruit into an 8x8x2-inch baking pan and smooth the top.

To make the topping: Combine the flour, brown sugar, cinnamon, and salt in a medium bowl. Add the butter bits and stir to coat. With your fingertips, rub the butter into the mixture until coarse crumbs form. Stir in the almonds. Sprinkle the crumbs over the top of the rhubarb filling.

Bake 50 minutes, or until the topping is brown and the filling is bubbly. Serve slightly warm or at room temperature. Serves 6.

From "Vegetarian Pleasures," Jeanne Lelin, (Harper-Perennial, 1992).

RHUBARB COFFEE CAKE

1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 egg
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cups flour
3 cups sliced rhubarb
1 cup light brown sugar
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Topping
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup light cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In mixer bowl, blend together butter, sugar, egg, buttermilk, baking soda, vanilla, and salt. Gradually stir in flour. Fold in sliced rhubarb. Grease a 9x13-inch baking pan, pour in batter and sprinkle top with brown sugar and nuts. Bake for 45 minutes. To prepare topping, mix together butter, sugar, cream, and vanilla in a small saucepan. Stir over medium heat until sugar is dissolved.

When cake is done, remove from oven, pierce top with fork, then slowly pour topping over cake allowing it to soak in. Cool in pan on wire rack before cutting and serving. Serves 16-20.

From "Cranbrook Reflections, A Culinary Collection," (1991 Cranbrook House & Garden Auxiliary).

RHUBARB BREAD

Mix buttermilk, egg, vanilla, baking soda and salt in small bowl. Add to brown sugar mixture and blend thoroughly. Gently fold in flour, rhubarb and nuts. Divide batter evenly between prepared loaf pans.

You'll go nuts over fresh nut butters

AP — Peanut butter lovers! Go for fresh flavor by making your own nut butters. Just give them a whirl in your food processor or blender.

There's no rule that says you have to use peanuts. Almonds, pecans, walnuts and cashews can turn that ho-hum sandwich into a lunchtime splurge. Follow the easy directions below for each kind of nut. Then spread your choice on toast or bread and see if it passes the ultimate test — sticking to the roof of your mouth! Nuts to Use

Almond: Use two cups of blanched whole almonds. If only unblanched almonds are available at your store, blanch them this way: Place the almonds in a saucepan and cover with water. Bring to boiling, then drain. The skins should slip off easily when you press each almond between your thumb and forefinger. Dry on paper towels. Spread the dry almonds in a shallow baking pan and toast in a 300-degree F oven about 20 minutes or until golden. Cool for 5 minutes before processing or blending.

Cashew: Process or blend two cups of roasted cashews.

Peanut: Use two cups of cocktail peanuts. (Dry roasted peanuts usually give a grainier texture.)

Pecan: Use two cups of pecans. You can toast the pecans if you like. Spread the nuts in a shallow baking pan and toast in a 300-degree F oven for 20 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes before processing or blending.

Walnut: Process or blend two cups of walnuts. (This butter has the darkest color and strongest flavor.) How to Make It work bowl or use your blender. Add the plain or toasted nuts. Cover and process or blend until a butter forms, stopping occasionally to scrape the sides of the bowl or blender a few times.

To make the nut butter, place the steel blade in your food processor

Keep processing for three to five minutes or until all of the mixture is evenly blended. Process about two minutes more or until the butter is the desired smoothness. Store in a covered container in your refrigerator for up to two weeks. Bring to room temperature for easier spreading. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

Satisfy sweet tooth with no-guilt desserts

There's no reason to desert dessert if you're trying to eat more healthfully. Smart substitutions and reasonable portions can keep calories and fat in check while satisfying the sweetest of sweet tooth.

A few basic guidelines will help you get started updating favorite dessert recipes. It's best to make just one substitution at a time. That way if the results aren't ideal, you'll know why.

Sugar. In most recipes, you can cut up to 25 percent of the sugar — ¼ cup in a recipe calling for 1 cup sugar — with no loss in quality. (Meringues are an exception.) Trim 200 calories with every quarter cup of sugar you omit. When making pies, cobblers, shortcakes and other fruit desserts, be sure to use the ripest fruit you can find — it will be the sweetest.

Cholesterol. Eggs are one of the biggest contributors of cholesterol in desserts. Every yolk you eliminate saves 250 milligrams of cholesterol. Switch to egg whites (2 whites equal one whole egg), use a combination of whole eggs and egg whites, or try one of the egg substitutes. Using margarine instead of butter also will reduce cholesterol — but not calories.

Fat. Try cutting back on the amount of fat in baked products by one or two tablespoons. Substitute low-fat or nonfat dairy products for the whole milk varieties. Bake a one-crust pie or tart instead of a two-crust pie. Replace a flour and shortening crust with a crumb crust made with whole grain oats, flour and just enough melted margarine to hold the ingredients together. Skip the frosting and accompany slices of cake with a fruit puree, a scoop of frozen yogurt or a non-fat chocolate sauce made with cocoa. Fill and top fruit shortcakes with low-fat vanilla yogurt instead of whipped cream.

The Quaker Kitchens put these basic guidelines to the test by creating a frozen pie and fresh fruit tart.

Cool and creamy. Not-So-Sinful Sundae Pie is a great make-ahead treat and easy to do. The crunchy oat crust goes together in minutes. Cool and fill with softened vanilla yogurt, then wrap tightly and freeze until ready to serve.

You won't need a rolling pin or pastry making skills to bake Peach Melba Cookie Tarts. These individual tarts use a quick oat shortbread crust that is shaped by hand directly on the cookie sheet. Just before serving, arrange the sliced peaches on top, brush with warmed fruit preserves and garnish with fresh raspberries for a professional finish.

NOT-SO-SINFUL SUNDAE PIE

PIE

- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
- ½ cup all-purpose flour

- ½ cup (5 ½ tablespoons) margarine, melted
- ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- Two 1-pint cartons or one 1-quart carton frozen vanilla yogurt

TOPPINGS

- 2 cups any combination fresh fruits, such as halved strawberries, sliced bananas or blueberries
- Lite hot fudge topping or any flavor reduced-sugar fruit syrup (optional)

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly spray 9-inch pie plate with non-stick cooking spray or grease lightly. Combine first four ingredients; mix well. Press mixture evenly onto bottom and sides of pie plate. Bake 19 to 21 minutes or until golden brown. Cool completely. Allow yogurt to stand 20 to 30 minutes to soften. Spoon softened yogurt into cooled crust, spreading evenly. Freeze 5 hours or until firm. Let stand 10 to 15 minutes at room temperature before serving.

Serve with toppings. 8 Servings. Nutrition Information: Per serving: Calories 275, Protein 7g, Carbohydrate 43g, Total Fat 9g, Cholesterol 5mg, Dietary Fiber 2g, Sodium 150mg. Percent of calories from fat: 30.

PEACH MELBA COOKIE TARTS

- ½ cup (1 stick) margarine, soft

It's a sundae pie: Not-So-Sinful Sundae pie — frozen yogurt and a pat-in-the-pan crust made with whole grain oats give this dessert a wholesome profile. Top with your choice of fresh fruit and reduced-calorie fudge topping.

- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract or ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- 2 cups peeled, sliced peaches
- ½ cup peach or apricot preserves
- ½ cup raspberries

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Spray cookie sheet with non-stick cooking spray or grease lightly. Beat margarine, sugar and almond extract until fluffy. Mix in combined oats and flour. Divide dough into 8 equal pieces. On prepared cookie sheet, press each piece to form 3-inch circles, shaping edges to form ¼-inch rim. Bake 14 to 16 minutes or until golden brown. Remove to wire rack; cool completely. Arrange sliced peaches on top of cooled crusts. In small saucepan, heat preserves over medium-low heat about 1 minute, or microwave at HIGH 30 seconds. Spread 1 tablespoon warm preserves evenly over peaches. Top with raspberries; serve immediately. 8 servings.

'Pure n' Simple' cream pie wins Golden Banana Award

KEELY WYGONIK

Silvana Carporuscio of Pure'n Simple vegetarian restaurant in Rochester, showed everyone healthy can taste good at the Go Bananas! MarketPlace Fair at Hudson's in Oakland Mall.

Carporuscio won the Golden Banana award for best dessert on Thursday. Her Banana Cream Pie doesn't contain any sugar. "I was so surprised I won," said Carporuscio with tears of happiness in her eyes.

As one of the judges, I, too, was surprised that something so healthy could taste so good. Her restaurant is at 2791 Rochester Road, Troy, 528-0840. Here's the winning recipe.

BANANA CREAM PIE

- 4 whole bananas
- 3 cups soy whip cream (available in health food stores)
- 1 cup well drained crushed pineapple
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 9-inch pie shell

Set aside ½ cup of shredded coconut and toast in the oven at 350 for 10 minutes. Cut one banana, enough to make one cup, into small pieces. Slice up the remaining bananas and line the pie shell. Combine the rest of the ingredients into a large bowl, mix with a spoon and add into the pie shell. Top with toasted, shredded coconut and refrigerate for at least one hour before serving.

Also competing were Chef Donald Tidderington, The Midtown Cafe; Chef Paul Grosz, The Whitney; Chef Shirley Robertson, Malibu; Executive Chef Don Lowry and Mike Sieck, Fishbone's Rhythm Kitchen Cafe.

Chef Grosz from The Whitney placed second with his Banana Cream Cakes.

Congratulations to Marilyn Frederick of Redford who surpassed over 75 cooks to place third at the North Central Regional Chili Cook-Off on May 2 in Saline. David Brach of Garden City won the Best Booth Contest at the Renegade Chili

Cook-Off on May 3. The cook-offs are part of the The Great Chili Cook-Off, a benefit for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan.

Fresh Approach Market caters to busy customers

By KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Since they put up the awning, more people are noticing Fresh Approach Meats, Produce and Deli at 35243 Grand River in Farmington.

Fresh Approach has been open a little over a year, and business is picking up.

"We're working hard to let people know what we're doing," said Jim Welch.

"Service is the key. We have happy, pleasant people working here who haven't forgotten how to say 'thank you.' If the cashier gets two people in line, someone else opens."

The store is clean and spacious. There's a variety of in-season fresh fruits and vegetables, and some hard to find items like fresh herbs and gourmet lettuce.

If you're looking for something different and colorful for your salad, try the edible flowers. "When you put them on your salad plate, it explodes with color," said Welch, a journeyman meat cutter.

He's no stranger to the business, his family owns the Hollywood Supermarkets. "I've been working in markets since I was eight, when my dad hired me to put bottles away," said Welch.

Fresh Approach offers some items in bulk like whole boneless New York strip steaks, whole boneless beef briskets, and ground chuck. The chicken breasts sold in five pound bags are a popular item.

They also sell a variety of fresh fish from Foley's Fishery in Boston.

"We have been coming here off and on for the last year," said Cheryl Tunick of Southfield. "They have a nice selection of fruit, and some delicious steak."

For busy two-career families,

Fresh Approach offers vegetable lasagna, chicken stuffed with spinach, Mozzarella cheese, and other homemade fillings that can be heated in the oven while you unwind for a quick, fuss-free dinner.

Bakery items from Baker's Loaf and Burghardt's are also available.

Store hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. For information, call 442-2160.

SPRINGTIME ASPARAGUS SALAD

- 1 1/2 pounds asparagus tips, leave about 5 inches of stalk
- 1 small red pepper diced
- Dressing
- 8 oz. Robusto Italian Salad Dressing
- 2 tablespoons Dijon Mustard
- Mix ingredients together and chill.

Black Forest-style cake bakes in your microwave

Word of mouth says your microwave oven is no place to bake a cake. But, the truth be known, with the right recipe, you can produce delicious results — and save significant time in the process. This Black Forest-style cake, for instance, cooks in one-third the time of a typical pound cake ring.

The secret to this cake's success is the ordinary ring-shaped baking dish you can buy at any cookware store. Because there isn't a center, you don't have to worry about it not cooking, a common microwave problem.

And, if you're looking for the brownness and crustiness that you expect from conventionally baked cakes, no problem. You simply coat the pan with a little wheat germ.

Our test kitchen has found that microwave-cooked cakes tend to dry out faster than conventionally baked ones. So, should your cake not disappear on the spot, cover it

BLACK FOREST CAKE RING

- 1/4 cup toasted wheat germ
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- One 21-ounce can cherry pie filling
- One 6-ounce package (1 cup) semisweet chocolate pieces
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Generously grease a 10-inch microwave-safe fluted tube pan. Coat with wheat germ; set aside. In a large mixing bowl stir together flour, sugar, baking soda, cinnamon and salt; set aside.

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs; stir in cooking oil and vanilla. Add egg mixture and pie filling to flour mixture; mix well. Stir in chocolate pieces and walnuts. Spread batter evenly in the prepared dish.

Cook, uncovered, on 50 percent power (medium) for 18 minutes, giving the dish a quarter-turn every 5 minutes. If not done, cook on 100 percent power (high) for 30 seconds to 3 minutes or until surface is nearly dry. (For low-wattage ovens, cook on high power for 17 to 20 minutes.) To check doneness, scratch a slightly wet spot on the surface with a wooden toothpick. The cake should be cooked underneath.

Cool the cake in the dish on a wire rack for 15 minutes. Invert the cake onto the wire rack and remove the dish. Cool thoroughly. Cover tightly after cooling. Makes 12 to 14 servings.

There are many problems facing every community in America. But because there are more people than problems, things will get done. All you have to do is something. Do anything. To find out how, call 1 (800) 677-5515.

POINTS OF LIGHT
FOUNDATION

DO SOMETHING GOOD. FEEL SOMETHING REAL.

It's Prom Time

Meet John. He will graduate this June. He's on his way to pick up his tux for his senior party.

John's an average student and will graduate somewhere in the middle of his class. He's the kind of young man that, if anything happened to him, people would say, "he was such a nice boy, loved sports and was always so willing to help you—not like some of these kids today."

However, nothing is going to happen to John on prom night because he doesn't drink or use drugs.

It's not that he's what the kids call a "dork," it's just that he thinks substance abuse is stupid. And, in this, he's smart. Very smart. He knows that the number one cause of death in teens is drinking or drug related automobile crashes and that drinking and driving claims the lives of thousands of teens and adults each year.*

All right! John!

*Drunk or drugged driving crashes is the number one cause of death for 16-to-24-year-olds.
