Superintendent faces challenge

A series of money issues will face the new Wayne-Westland school superintendent this summer. They include negotiations with the teachers' union and a renewal of a major tax increase next spring.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Larry Thomas squeaked through on a 4-3 vote to become the new Wayne-Westland school superintendent. But the split decision marked only the beginning of what will certainly be a demanding job.

Thomas

Consider:
 • Pay raises for all employee unions will be negotiated this year.
 • The 7.75-mill

tax increase that voters approved last June, in the aftermath of three failed proposals, will expire in June 1993. Thomas could encounter strong opposition if his administration proposes an identical renewal.

• Despite a projected budget surplus of $8.1 million on June 30, the district remains plagued by worries about state financial woes. Already, the school board has been warned that $2.5 million in state aid won't come through in August, but will be delayed indefinitely.

• School board feuding appears certain to continue, despite efforts by some board members to call a cease-fire. Thomas will face the task of trying to unite board members who have starkly contrasting views.

• Increasingly, district residents and board members are demanding a better return for their tax dollars, including higher student scores on state achievement tests.

Thomas also will face such issues as implementing schools of choice, curbing school violence and finding good teachers to replace those who accepted an early retirement plan.

Wayne-Westland issues aren't new to Thomas. He has lived in Westland for 21 years, though his home is in the Livonia school district. He has read newspaper accounts of the district's problems, and he has talked with board members.

Moreover, he has indicated to the board that he welcomes the opportunity to seek solutions.

His colleagues in West Bloomfield, where he is assistant superintendent of instruction, have commended his abilities and said he's capable of leading the 16,000-student Wayne-Westland district.

"I'm very excited," Thomas said Wednesday, less than an hour after the board selected him to replace Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, who stepped down under pressure from a board majority.

Some local observers have refrained from commenting about the selection until they get to know Thomas better.

3 vie for judge's position

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Two prominent figures are vying for a Westland district judgeship to be vacated when Judge Thomas Smith formally retires May 29.

The front-runners seeking the appointment by Gov. John Engler are C. Charles Bokos, the city of Westland's prosecuting attorney for 16 years and the city of Westland attorney for 12 years, and Sandra Cicirelli, a local attorney who finished first in the Westland city council race in late 1989.

They both applied to the governor's office for the appointment and are collecting support for the appointment.

A third candidate is Sam Ayyash, 32, who ran a distant second in the race in late 1990 when Judge Smith won his latest term.

Smith, first elected Westland municipal judge in late 1967, was elevated to district judge two years later when the state Legislature reorganized the local court system.

Smith disclosed his planned retirement in February, saying then he would step down in May. His letter to Engler said he would retire on May 29.

As part of the appointment process, Bokos and Cicirelli both said in separate telephone interviews that there will be an interview by a bar association panel, to be followed by an interview by a representative of the governor.

Bokos projected that the appointment will be made between mid-July and early August.

The appointee will then decide whether to run for election to the balance of Smith's term on the fall 1994 ballot. Smith was elected to a six-year term, which expires Dec. 31, 1996.

Both front-runners have community support in their efforts to win the appointment.

Cicirelli, 40, said that she has been endorsed by the Westland Republican Club.

If she doesn't get the appointment this summer, she made it clear she will run against the appointee in the 1994 election.

"No doubt about it," she said when asked if she would run as a challenger against the incumbent in 2 1/2 years.

Shooting victim still critical

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER

A man shot at a Livonia school district basketball court remained in critical condition Friday after he was shot in the head as the climax of a week-old dispute between two men erupted into gunfire four days earlier.

The incident at the court behind Bentley Center, on Hubbard and Five Mile, left one man critically injured and a second facing criminal charges.

The aftermath also left nearby residents wondering about the safety of the fenced-in, outdoor courts and a couple of dozen serious pick-up players who called Bentley home on warm, spring nights looking for a new game — at least temporarily.

Damon Bailes, 21, of Detroit is in the intensive care unit at St. Mary Hospital, Livonia.

Bailes, who underwent extensive brain surgery early Tuesday, will likely be permanently paralyzed should he live, doctors told police.

Police said Bailes was shot once in the back of the head from point-blank range with a .25-caliber pistol at about 8:30 p.m.

'I've never witnessed any riotous action over there, but when I'd go out on my porch I'd hear a lot of hollering and yelling — in a fun way. Bullets could have been flying. That didn't happen, but it could have been dangerous to people living in this complex.'

Detroit man charged

Tyrone Arvell Swint, 20, of Detroit was charged with one count of assault with intent to commit murder and one count of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

Swint stood mute and a not guilty plea was entered for him at a Wednesday arraignment in 16th District Court.

Judge Robert B. Brzezinski set a $150,000 cash or surety bond and scheduled a preliminary examination for 9 a.m. Thursday.

Police said Swint has no previous criminal record.

He was arrested without incident at an acquaintance's house on Ferguson in Detroit, less than three hours after the shooting, said Livonia Police detective Sgt. Mike Murray. Murray said police identified the defendant after interviews with more than a dozen witnesses.

Police said that shortly after the shooting, two occupants of a car southbound on Middlebelt saw a man throw a pistol out of a black, 1978 Pontiac. The witnesses took down the car's license plate number and immediately drove to the police station, officers said.

The gun was recovered, police said.

Madison honors

Thirteen youngsters were named Madison Elementary School's citizens of the month for having good attendance, following school and classroom rules, demonstrating responsibility for assignments and good sportsmanship and other actions. The 13 are Sara Mau, Catherine Berent, Jonathan Wolocko, Cortney Spaulding, Amanda Perkins, Dawn Dishong, Phillip Zagornik, Ryan Shamrock, Jerri Young, Scott Saenz, Kristin Schoenheide, John Parker and Jeremy Saenz. The students will have their photos displayed on the school's bulletin board.

Munchkin winner

Stacey Swick of Westland won first place honors in Livonia Mall's munchkin talent contest. She sang "Tomorrow" from the Broadway musical, "Annie."

PLACES & FACES

Top students

Two Westland students were named to the dean's list at Michigan Technological University in Houghton. They are Scott Reynolds, a senior in mechanical engineering, who achieved a perfect 4.0 grade point average, and Jeffrey Hebert, a chemical engineering senior, who had a GPA between 3.5 and 4.0. The honors were for the winter quarter.

Big winner

A Westland resident who requested anonymity matched all five numbers to win the $100,000 top prize in the Michigan Lottery Commission's "Cash 5" drawing. The woman, 69, said she was "thrilled" with the prize, adding that "it was a shock, but a very nice shock," according to a lottery commission announcement. She plans to use the prize to travel to Hawaii with her husband and make investments. A regular lottery player for 20 years, the woman bought her winning ticket at the Maple Village Drug Store in Westland.

Army promotion

Thomas J. Foreich of Westland was recently promoted to private first class. Stationed in Europe, Pfc. Foreich completed basic and military occupational skill training at Fort Jackson, S.C. He is the son of Army 1st Sgt. Robert D. and Nancy M. Foreich. The soldier's father is also in the Army reserves.

Candidates vie for two school board posts

LeBlanc stresses need for long-range planning

Lind: district is ripe for new blood, a new start

Richard LeBlanc believes the Wayne-Westland school district lacks a long-range plan that sets objectives for improving schools and establishes a time frame for achieving them.

The 33-year-old Westland resident believes he could change that by winning a seat on the school board, where he could draw attention to long-term planning.

LeBlanc, a General Motors Corp. metrology lab worker, lost his first election bid last June. But he's beefed up his efforts this year.

He's putting up twice as many yard signs. He's organized a core of volunteers to help him. He's depending more on fund-raising.

LeBlanc has become better known, too. He attends nearly every school board meeting, and he has become more polished on issues.

LeBlanc, married with two school-age children, recently responded to questions posed by the Observer during group interviews with eight candidates, who are competing for two four-year terms.

LeBlanc didn't hedge when asked about the political squabbling that resulted in Superintendent Dennis O'Neill being pressured to step down. "It's time for a new superintendent," he said. "I'm looking forward to new opportunities for our kids."

LeBlanc remains hopeful the board can bury the political hatchet and seek positive changes for the district.

"As much as we learn from our past, we learn more from things yet to come," he said.

On a question about school violence, LeBlanc said he favors the district's policy of expelling students who bring guns and other dangerous weapons to school. However, he also supports alternative education classes in a controlled environment.

He believes programs such as DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) can help combat problems of violence — and that such programs could be started as early as third-grade and expanded into junior highs.

Moreover, he said, elementary students should be taught to talk out their problems, instead of resorting to violence.

When asked to cite the district's No. 1 problem, LeBlanc pointed to the perception that Wayne-Westland isn't providing a quality education for students.

"We need to communicate better with the public and show that we're willing to modify programs and take on new ones to benefit the district," he said.

Regarding teacher pay raises, LeBlanc favors a slowdown from the two-year, 11.9-percent raises last

'It's time for a new superintendent. I'm looking forward to new opportunities for our kids. As much as we learn from our past, we learn more from things yet to come.'

board candidate

received by teachers. But in renewed salary negotiations for the third year of a three-year contract, he said, "I don't necessarily believe our teachers should go without a raise."

To improve the school board's credibility, LeBlanc called for "honesty and integrity" and said potential board members such as himself, who have "a calm demeanor" and objective views, are needed.

On board roles, LeBlanc believes the board must move beyond setting policy. The board should provide oversight on budget matters to make sure money is properly allocated, and it should ensure that district goals are met, he said.

Steven Lind's name emerged publicly when he launched a recall campaign last year against three school board members.

His effort failed, but it drew much attention to teacher pay raises of 11.9 percent over two years. For better or worse, the recall campaign gave Lind name recognition.

At 35, the Wayne resident has launched his first bid for public office by seeking a seat on the Wayne-Westland school board.

Lind, married with two school-age children, named his recall committee "New Beginnings for Our Children. And that's just what Lind, a credit and collections vice president, says he wants.

The candidate spoke about issues recently in a group interview that the Observer held with the eight school board candidates.

For too long, the district has placed too much emphasis on seeking tax increases and has lost site of its mission: to improve schools, Lind said.

The departure of Superintendent Dennis O'Neill has been a positive step toward improvements, Lind said, because many district residents had "a tremendous distrust" for O'Neill.

The time is ripe for a new superintendent and new board members to make changes, he said. "I believe that, being new together, we can learn from each other" and move the district forward.

On a question about school violence, Lind said he agrees 100 percent with the district's policy of expelling students caught with guns and other dangerous weapons at school.

A student caught with weapons "has more or less given up his right to an education" in a regular classroom, Lind said. However, he said he supports counseling and special alternative classes "in guarded situations" to help those pupils.

When asked to identify the district's No. 1 problem, Lind cited a declining educational system, even though the district "continually drops more and more money" for schools.

"We need to focus our attention on the classroom," he said.

On teacher salaries, Lind suggested no pay raises for this year, in the wake of the 11.9-percent salary increases that teachers received over the last two years. He also de-

'I believe that, being new together, we can learn from each other. . . We need to focus our attention on the classroom. Teachers, like anybody else, need raises.'

Steven Lind
board candidate

manded more accountability. "Teachers, like anybody else, need raises," Lind said, though he believes the rate of increase has been too high.

To improve board credibility, Lind favors a district advisory panel to examine classroom instruction, building conditions and other district matters. The public should expect the board to be accountable, he said.

In answer to a question about board members' roles, Lind said he disagreed with some board observers who have accused the board of overstepping its policy-setting duties.

The board should do what's necessary to ensure the district is running properly, he said. "That's what we're here for."

Despite his name recognition, Lind has bought campaign signs, had a small fund-raiser and is using bumper stickers to boost his election bid. He's also trying to talk with as many voters as possible by going door to door.

Candidate series continues

This is the second in a series of profiles of eight Wayne-Westland board of education candidates, competing for two four-year terms on the June 8 ballot. The remaining profiles will be published in subsequent issues. The candidates were interviewed as a group by the Westland Observer staff. The profiles are written by reporter Darrell Clem.

Maple tree: Sandy Ferguson portrayed a Maple tree during the school's "Trees Have Feelings, Too" production.

Last rehearsal: Stottlemeyer fifth grade students of Gayle Miller rehearse for the last time before taking the stage for the "Trees Have Feelings, Too."

Performance promotes 'save the trees' message

Stottlemeyer Elementary School students produced an Earth Week special recently, "Trees Have Feelings, Too," to promote awareness of protection of trees.

The fifth-graders of teacher Gayle Miller performed for students and parents in the school on Marquette between Wayne Road and Wildwood. Miller wrote, directed and choreographed the production.

Specific focus of the production was to develop an interest in the help and preservation of trees.

"I feel an awareness for trees needs to be taught," Miller said. "There is such beauty in the trees and we and so many animals depend on them for so much."

In the Stottlemeyer production, a girl hikes into a forest and meets the oldest tree, Methuselah, who asked her for help in saving trees. He takes her to the land of trees where trees talk to each other.

There the girl meets different types of trees and visits with Smokey the Bear who also gives her a tour of the "Land of the Trees."

Later, the girl meets the gypsy moths and sees evergreens endangered by acid rain.

In a dance routine, a group called Acid Rain performed to "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head."

"Cast" members performing in the production were Justin Pelachyk, Sarah Murray as the linker, Joshua McDonald as Methuselah, Kevin Serra, Mike Melnick, Deirdre Lundy, Kathie Krause, Stephanie Brown, Stacy Tipton, J.R. Williams and Sandy Ferguson.

The dancers and stage crew members were Tiffany Collom, April Warnick, Connie Acree, Amy Paquette, Laura Couture, Aneta Danowski, Julie Galbo, Chrissy Haller, Erica Van Goff, Alyson Williams, Zac Crawford, Tim Barrett, Jeremy Truchaf, Don Cunningham, Kevin Habbert, Justin Krupin, John Parsell, Jackie Caperton, Jason Closser and Brian Pientowski.

Miller, a Wayne Memorial High School gymnastics coach, has been also been a physical education teacher for more than seven years. Her background also includes teaching aerobics.

Adding to the production was the teacher's mother, Gloria Miller, who helped the backdrops and costumes. Brad Stottlemeyer also helped in videotaping the production. Other helpers were Cindy Tipton who make the costumes.

The teacher said her class spent four weeks rehearsing for the production.

School board feuds over superintendent's residency

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Even before he starts his new job July 1, Larry Thomas' residency has stirred a board of education dispute.

School board members are at odds over whether the new Wayne-Westland school superintendent should have pledged to move into the district as soon as possible.

Thomas, 45, has asked the board to give him until Jan. 1, 1994, to move into the district. The board agreed.

He lives in the northern section of Westland which is in the Livonia school district, and wants to allow his son to finish his education at Churchill High School. The son will be a senior next fall.

The employment signed by Thomas and the board also allows the board to waive the deadline.

A majority of board members agreed that his request is reasonable. The runner-up for the job, Pineknay Superintendent Ted Culver, had made a similar request.

But board member Kathleen Chorbagan, who commended Thomas as being "energetic" and having "tremendous strengths," said she's concerned that he's delaying a move into Wayne-Westland.

"Never in the history of this school district have we hired a superintendent who didn't expeditiously move here," she said Wednesday, during a special session in which the board voted 4-3 to hire Thomas. (The three previous superintendents were already district residents and administrators when they were promoted.)

Chorbagan suggested Thomas should have been given nine months to move, instead of 18, even though he lives two blocks north of the district.

Chorbagan herself came under fire last year, when she had considered moving her daughter from Wayne Memorial High School to a private school in Livonia. She had feared budget cuts would threaten the quality of her daughter's education.

Chorbagan's dilemma was resolved after voters approved a tax increase that averted threats of program cuts. Her daughter remained at Wayne Memorial.

On Wednesday, she questioned Thomas' request to delay moving to Wayne-Westland.

"I feel these schools are good enough for any superintendent's child to go to," she said.

Chorbagan said she had surveyed 32 district residents by telephone and that 30 of them thought Thomas should make the move within a year. Two people didn't care, she said.

But board member Fred Warmbier challenged Chorbagan and pointed out that some other district administrators don't live in the district, either. Moreover, he said, 60 percent of Wayne-Westland teachers live elsewhere.

They "run out of the district" when their workday is done, Warmbier said. He indicated he could support not only requiring administrators to live here, but teachers as well.

Of Thomas' delayed move, Warmbier said, "We have to look at these things realistically and make proper arrangements."

Ford voc-tech center opens doors

The William Ford Vocational Technical Center will host its annual spring open house Wednesday night.

The 10-year-old facility, part of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, will feature technical displays, tours of more than 20 training programs, and an opportunity to visit with staff and students.

The open house, open to residents and non-residents of the district will be from 6:30-9 p.m. at the center on Marquette between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

The center offers programs in CAD/CAM, business/computer, technology, carpentry, manufacturing technology, culinary arts, printing and others.

About 800 high school students attend classes at the center from seven school districts. More than 1,100 adult students attend late afternoon or evening classes for advanced technical training or retraining.

Greg Baracy, center principal, said the facility and its programs are critical for high school students in preparing them for the workplace as well as further education.

"We are providing the necessary technical skills to prepare our students for Workforce 2000," Baracy said.

Many parents and students are not aware of the opportunity afforded to them by having such a "state-of-the-art," facility next door, Baracy said.

"Hopefully this tech expo/open house will allow parents, students, families, friends and neighbors to visit and "discover the technology."

The center has made numerous program improvements over the years adapting to industry's needs and the changing technology.

The school runs a busy six-day schedule, with six different shifts.

Baracy contends, "if we as a community want our students to be successful, we need solid technical training programs."

Support services include guidance counseling, job placement and employability skills.

Included in the evenings activities will be an outdoor barbecue (hot dogs, chips, pop for 50 cents), program demonstrations, tours of training labs, student film festival, opportunities to meet staff and discuss specifics of programs and preregistration for fall classes.

Woman gets help, enters work world

A job at a local Taco Bell was a gift from the heaven for Westland's Rebecca Dulbs. Catching the bus in the dead of winter was no hardship as long as she could be independent. For this was Dulbs' dream — to be independent.

The dreams of Dulbs, 38, are coming true, thanks to Family and Neighborhood Services for Wayne County (FNS), a United Way-supported agency.

The woman is mentally impaired and had to overcome many obstacles.

Help came from FNS's Center for New Options, whose staff worked with Dulbs for two years to help her reach her goals. During that time, she attended training sessions on community awareness, budgeting and vocational classes. Each class helped prepare her for the job market.

In a community awareness group, she learned how to access the world outside her group home, where she currently resides. A budgeting class helped her plan her money. Vocational classes trained her to fill out a job application, prepared her for job interviews and taught her how to dress at work.

Once Dulbs had achieved all of her goals at the Center for New Options, the Supported Employment Program at FNS began to seek appropriate employment for her. One of her dreams has always been to work at a Taco Bell Restaurant, and with the help of FNS, her dream became a reality.

Dulbs has been employed at Taco Bell for nearly two years now. A Supported Employment Job Coach worked with her in the beginning to train her at the job site, but no longer works with her, though the coach stops by occasionally to check on her progress.

FNS, based in Inkster, provides services to families, troubled youth, neighborhood organizations, parents of teenagers, families of abused and neglected children, and developmentally and mentally disabled individuals. The agency received nearly $965,000 last year from the Torch Drive.

Enjoying her work: Rebecca Dulbs, who got help from a social service agency, enjoys her job at a local Taco Bell.

"I really don't wish to comment at this point in time," said William Reece, president of the 900-member Wayne-Westland Education Association, the district's teacher union. "I don't think that would be appropriate."

Reece did comment, however, on teacher issues, namely salary raises that are being negotiated for the third year of a three-year contract.

"Obviously we're very concerned about getting a new contract," Reece said.

An 11.9-percent raise that teachers received in the first two years of the contract sparked public criticism and an unsuccessful recall campaign against three school board members.

Reece also cited site-based management at local schools as a priority that the new administration should consider. Teachers have embraced the concept and worked hard on it, and it should continue, he said.

Randy Liepa, the district's finance officer, said Thomas and the board will need to decide when to confront voters with a renewal of the tax increase approved last year. Questions remain about whether the board will seek an entire 7.75-mill renewal, or a lesser amount.

After Wednesday's meeting, school board President Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek said she believes strongly that Thomas can meet the challenges. "This man is ready to be a superintendent," she said. "He's honest, he's got energy, he's caring and his number one priority is that he's for kids."

Both the defendant and victim apparently were regulars on the Bentley courts.

Shots fired

Witnesses told police that after the first shot three additional shots were fired in the direction of the courts as the gunman fled the scene, Murray said.

A Livonia Public Schools official said Tuesday the twin courts have been closed and would remain so for the immediate future.

"We took the rims down, padlocked the area and will turn off the lights at night, at least for a couple of weeks," said Jay Young, community relations director for the district.

The district has increased security at the site and increased police patrols are also expected, said Young.

The building was open at the time of the shooting.

Gathering place

Area residents said the courts and other recreational facilities adjacent to Bentley are a popular gathering place, especially during spring and summer.

"I've never witnessed any riotous action over there, but when I'd go out on my porch I'd hear a lot of hollering and yelling — in a fun way," said Lenor McKinney, who lives in the Kimberly North Condominiums, across Hubbard and about 60 yards from the basketball courts.

Still, McKinney said Tuesday she is worried about her safety.

"Bullets could have been flying. That didn't happen, but it could have been dangerous to people living in this complex."

Judge from page 1A

Bokos projected that the appointment will be made between mid-July and early August.

The appointee will then decide whether to run for election to the balance of Smith's term on the fall 1994 ballot. Smith was elected to a six-year term, which expires Dec. 31, 1996.

Both front-runners have community support in their efforts to win the appointment.

Cicirelli, 40, said that she has been endorsed by the Westland Republican Club.

If she doesn't get the appointment this summer, she made it clear she will run against the appointee in the 1994 election.

"No doubt about it," she said when asked if she would run as a challenger against the incumbent in 2½ years.

Bokos, 53, told the Observer that the Police Officers Association of Michigan nominated him in a letter to Engler.

Senators reduce school aid damage

By TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

In a quiet revolt, suburban state senators last week upset Sen. Dan DeGrow's appeal, reducing the damage his school aid bill will do to out-of-formula districts.

The revolt against DeGrow, R-Port Huron, chair of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on school aid, occurred in the Republican caucus and behind the scenes.

Instead of taking away $107 million in state aid for retirement and Social Security, DeGrow's bill takes back $72 million, the same as last year. The amendment occurred during general orders when roll calls aren't recorded.

Out-of-formula districts are typically suburban areas with healthy business tax bases. They get no general state aid but draw "categorical" aid for retirement, special education and state-mandated programs.

"Tax base sharing is still intact," said Michael Bouchard, an Oakland County Republican, referring to the provision in the 1991 bill requiring out-of-formula schools to share half the growth in their business property taxes with the rest of the state.

"But I have an agreement we'll seek an expedited ruling from the Supreme Court on both tax base sharing and recapture," he said in an interview outside the Senate chamber. Tax base sharing has been halted by circuit court order, though affected schools still must put the money in an escrow account.

The $3.1 billion school aid bill goes to the House, where the DeGrow version has a champion in Rep. James O'Neill Jr., D-Saginaw, chair of the House school aid subcommittee. O'Neill, like DeGrow, wants to deduct as much categorical aid as possible from out-of-formula districts — mainly in Oakland, western Wayne and Macomb counties — to help poorer districts.

The amended version won 24-12 Senate approval.

Voting yes: Republicans Mat. Dunaskis of Lake Orion, Robert Geake of Northville and David Honigman of West Bloomfield, and Democrats Faxon and George Hart of Dearborn.

Voting no: Bouchard and Democrat William Faust of Westland.

It was the first major defeat for DeGrow, O'Neill and their allies, a bipartisan group from farm areas and older cities whose stated goal is to reduce the funding disparity of $2,500 to $8,000 between the poorest and richest districts.

Bouchard circulated memos to his 37 colleagues detailing their schools' loss of revenue if DeGrow's "equity correction" bill had passed.

- Area districts:
- Birmingham $5.2 million.
  - Bloomfield Hills $4.4 million.
  - Clarencville $265,000.
  - Farmington $5.5 million.
  - West Bloomfield $2.1 million.
  - Livonia $4.6 million.
  - Plymouth-Canton $1.6 million.
  - South Redford $565,000.

In contrast, all the schools in DeGrow's Thumb area would have lost only a combined $1.7 million.

In other amendments, the Senate stripped from the aid bill:

• 13 million for "schools of choice" transportation, rejecting Gov. John Engler's recommendation. "Let the money go into the formula, and let the school districts decide how to spend it," said Faxon, voting no.

• $6.3 million for a dozen districts to operate 200 class days a year instead of the required 180. "What's to say the 20 (added) days will yield results?" said Faxon.

• $2 million for "charter schools," under which a school board would let groups of teachers set up specialized schools.

But the Senate retained $2 million for training teachers in the Michigan Model for Comprehensive Health Education, an elementary school program that the political right calls anti-religion and anti-family.

Senators also retained a section taking 1-180th of a district's school aid for every day lost to a strike. Democrats barely lost on two tie votes.

 selling homes . . .

Or carpeting, major appliances, or furniture . . .

Or lawn & garden equipment or supplies . . .

Or paints, wall coverings, hardware, building supplies . . .

Then this is the best possible place for your ad to appear.

Because this is one of the fifty SPRING Newspapers.

And the SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either
 The Detroit News or Free Press.

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.

And that's not all.

According to the 1991 Belden newspaper readership study,

SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more to spend—and who spend more.

▶ 182,800 more suburban homeowners than the daily News (88,500 more than the Free Press).

▶ 171,000 more suburban Do-It-Yourselfers than The News (89,400 more than the Free Press).

▶ 100,600 (and 52,800) more suburban linen and bedding buyers.

▶ 64,400 (and 31,000) more suburban buyers of major appliances.

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.

Shouldn't you advertise in SPRING more?

Summer special

Reduced Y fee gets members wet

Like appliance stores plugging air conditioners, the Family YMCA which serves Westland, Garden City and Canton Township is offering a summer special.

The special is a reduced fee which allows persons to have virtually unlimited swimming pool use, a reduced Y membership for the day camp program, full use of the wellness center and membership rates for all classes, including those which are free.

The summer special is good from now through Sept. 5.

Richard Perkowski, newly hired Y executive director, announced the special rates as being $35 for a youth, $45 for a college student, $60 for an adult, and $85 for a family.

For youngsters, the Y has announced its summer day camp program, which will run June 15 through Aug. 28 with a special theme for each week.

The program for 6- to 12-year-olds is designed to give children a new experience, develop new skills, make new friends and make them more aware of nature.

There will be eight to 10 children in each group, supervised by a trained counselor, said the Y.

Fees are $65 a week for Y members and $75 for program members. On a daily basis, the fee is $13 for Y members and $15 for program members. There is a 25 percent discount for a second child in the family.

The themes, starting the week of June 15, will be "Celebrate Summer," "Back to the '50s," "Happy Birthday, America," "Time of the Dinosaurs," "Carnival Daze,"

"Sports Week," "Water Works," "Hawaiian Holiday," "Day Care Olympics," "Gags and Games" and "School Daze."

In other Y developments, the organization is offering an additional month of services for a 12-month membership and a $15 credit toward a class for persons who register by June 1.

Membership includes use of the fitness room, swimming pool, fitness classes, day camps for children, and access to 13 other south-east Michigan Y branches. Fees are $266 for new members and $358 for families. Renewals are $198 and $290, respectively.

The Y is located on Wayne Road south of Cherry Hill. Interested persons may call the Y at 721-7044 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. weekdays and 9 p.m. to 3 p.m., Saturdays.

Tree planting kicks off new hospital recycling program

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia started its hospital-wide paper recycling program with a tree planting on the grounds of the hospital Thursday.

The planting ceremony was attended by members of the administration and staff from the hospital.

Sister Mary Modesta, president and chief executive officer, said the tree was "dedicated to the employees of St. Mary Hospital for their commitment to the environment."

The hospital staff will focus their attention on the recycling of office and computer paper.

In an audit of paper usage taken in May 1991, the hospital found it uses about 40 cases of white ledger/bond paper, about 100 cases of assorted computer paper and shreds an average of 3,000 pounds of confidential paper a month.

The Allan Blum Company of West Bloomfield was chosen to pick up and recycle the paper.

The process of forming a suitable recycling program took a year and a half, beginning with the appointment of a recycling task force in September 1990.

The task force, coordinated by Julie Sproul, director of community relations, is composed of 18 staff members from the hospital. "This has been a real grass-roots effort by employees interested in recycling both at home and in their workplace," said Sproul.

St. Mary Hospital helps with the environment in other ways also.

Cloth diapers always have been used in the nursery, the employee newsletter is printed on recycled paper, and plastic mugs were given to all employees during National Hospital Week to save on disposable containers.

Modesta remarked on the employees' involvement in recycling. "We proudly recognize their concern not only for those in our immediate surroundings but for future generations as well."

Play it safe: avoid kite accidents

With spring weather finally here and youngsters turning their thoughts toward the fun of kite flying, Consumers Power Company reminds that kites and electric power lines don't mix.

Carl L. English, Consumers Power's vice president of energy distribution services, said young people should be warned to remember to fly their kites only in an open area well removed from trees and the potential hazard of overhead power lines.

"Each year the majority of kite-flying accidents occur when a child tries to untangle a kite from a tree or power line," said English. "To avoid an accident, children and parents should be aware of these basic safety rules."

- Fly your kite in an open area, away from electrical lines, trees and busy streets.

- Never climb utility poles, trees or broadcasting towers in pursuit of a snagged kite. Electric current from materials or moisture can cause severe burns.

- Use wood, paper or plastic in making your kite, not wire or metal. Avoid using any materials that could conduct electricity.

- Don't try to repeat Benjamin

Franklin's experiment by flying your kite in the rain. Lightning can cause injury much more severe than the minor shock Franklin experienced.

- If a kite gets caught on an electric line, call the utility company for help. Never pull on an electric line. If a power line falls, stand clear. Never touch downed power lines. Instead call the utility.

Consumers Power offers films on electrical safety for use by schools. The 16-millimeter films "Overhead Lines — a Matter of Respect" and "Electrical Safety from A to Zap" may be ordered.

LOOKING FOR THAT PERFECT PLACE?

One that has everything you dream about? Enough room for the new arrival. Or a great school system that gives the kids an opportunity to grow and learn? Maybe you're a golfer and want a place that near the links but not too far from town. If you're a nature lover, you'll want something that's tucked away in the hills with a little stream and enough room for a garden.

Hancock: Lone Star state of mind

Butch Hancock is one of the most prolific of the Texas songwriters, writing passionate songs. Yet fame continues to elude him, but it may be more of a case of him eluding it.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

A simple, Texas style greeting initiates the telephone conversation. "Hi," says the voice on the other end, "This is Butch."

It's geniality almost seems to mock the shroud of mystique perpetually surrounding Butch Hancock and his fellow Lone Star songwriting brethren.

The aura of which is puzzling to Hancock himself, whose songs are steeped (ironically) in the forthright tradition forged in a guitar-harmonica style. He's not sure as to what his role is in this pervading myth whipped up like a detached shrub on a desolate road, and the best explanation he's heard for it came from a Finnish woman on a bus while on tour in Europe.

"Someone asked approximately the same question... the guide sort of looked off in the distance and thought heavy like and said, 'It's the image of the lone rider under the free skies,'" said Hancock, a native of Lubbock, Texas. "It was a real poignant thing."

"I don't know if I've contributed to it or detracted from it because I've been on both sides of it."

In Hancock's case, it was a tractor rather than a horse. The image of a solitary figure contemplating life's complexities amid the vast openness of the Texas plane is still vivid and indeed romantic.

When Hancock would toil behind the wheel in the West Texas fields, he'd finish a row of crops and jot down a few words.

The result of which became "West Texas Waltzes (and Dust Blown Tractor Tunes)," Hancock's first solo effort that launched a prolific songwriting career spanning two decades and 12 albums. Emmylou Harris recorded Hancock's "If You Were a Bluebird" as did Texas songwriting compatriot Joe Ely.

Texas tunes: Butch Hancock used to write songs while riding a tractor on his father's farm in West Texas. Today, he's considered one of the state's best musical commodities.

The grainy image of the Texas songwriter, though, was perhaps cast when Hancock and friends Jimmie Dale Gilmore, Steve Wesson, Tony Pearson and Ely performed in a short-lived, long-vaunted Flatlanders.

The outfit born out of friendship and inspired by having a good time produced one album, the critically-acclaimed "More a Legend Than a Band" in 1971. The lost treasure wasn't released domestically until 20 years after the fact.

Other career moves may deem Hancock something an oddity. He releases his own albums independently, including the latest masterpiece "No 2 Alike" that features 140 songs recorded during a six-night stand in at the Cactus Cafe in Austin, Texas.

The effort is available by subscription through a series of 14 hour-long tapes.

Hancock said these will be the last released on his label, working in the meantime on scoring a record deal. "We're hoping to push the right buttons here and there and somebody will pick me up as an artist," he said.

The collection undoubtedly displays the full breadth of Hancock's songwriting talents, which is largely influenced by Woody Guthrie and Bob Dylan. His numbers are very visual, dabbling at times into complicated wordplay.

"I've always liked to play with the language," he said. "That's the tool I use. At an extreme, I'm a little more apt at getting beserk with wordplay at times. Ultimately, whether the song works or not, whether it's complicated or simple words, if the theme comes across that's most important."

Butch Hancock will perform with Julian Dawson Friday, May 22, at Birmingham Unitarian Church, 651 Woodward. Tickets are $12 at the door.

Being alone doesn't mean being lonely

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara:
I liked your three choices when confronted with a situation you cannot accept. I have had one I cannot accept for about 20 years. This is a divorce I was forced to get.

My questions is: Now that I have had a chance to get back together with my husband (because the women who ruined our marriage ran away to another state with another man), should I pursue this course?

I am not a lady who openly chases a man. He is in Florida. I am here in Michigan. He has sent me a car, so we are on extremely good relations. He says as soon as this car is paid for he will be back. My daughter (his) has grown up without a father. It would be good for her to finally have the feeling of support.

I would truly appreciate a reply. Thank you.

Signed N

Dear N:

Your letter is very interesting. In it you describe a problem that most of us must come to grips with sooner or later. Often the circumstances are different, but the problem -- how much humiliation we will endure so as not to be alone -- is the same. I am answering with you in mind, as well as the many other men and women with this predicament.

You too have three choices:

• Stay the way you are, alone and unhappy. Your pleasure then can come from self-pity.

• Play second fiddle to the woman in Florida. In this case, you will still not be safe or happy. Your husband could leave any time as he did before.

• Grow and develop to become a person who can be happy alone. Then you don't have to accept the loss of self-esteem that invariably comes with playing second fiddle.

It is my experience with passive and dependent people, male or female, that they do not opt for the good, third choice. That choice is to be capable of being alone and liking it if the unfortunate circumstances make that necessary, or be open to using good judgment about a person who is trustworthy and can love, if those are the lucky circumstances.

The question for you, as well as for many others, to solve is how you can become a separate, adequate person unto yourself. If you can become that kind of person, then the option of finding a man who loves you, one with whom you could be top prize, will be more likely.

I am very much aware of the many men and women who are unable to make the third choice and, therefore, must accept whichever is the better of the two unhappy choices. They must then accept unhappiness as a way of life.

I understand that you would like to do the best you can for your daughter. This will not be accomplished by letting your husband, her father, return. The message you will be giving her is that both you, and she, should take whatever you can get. You will be a role model for dependence.

Since you wrote that you would truly appreciate a reply, I have responded, even though I realize that you may not like my answer. For the sake of other readers of this column, will you keep us informed of which choice you made and how it turned out.

Singer turns stories into personal songs

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

With Alex Lumelsky, a.k.a. Mooshka, every story concludes with a song title.

The Southfield resident and lead guitarist of the since disbanded local band Phineas Gage recalls without prompting how he had to go down to Texas to fetch his girlfriend. On the way back, they pulled over to the side of the road and Lumelsky began marveling at the star-filled sky above.

"The story should have a happy ending but it doesn't. Not long afterward, he and his girl broke up."

"And that's how the song, 'Stars, come about,'" Lumelsky said.

Lumelsky's voice cracks with emotion as he sings in plaintive, but heartfelt narrative about the sudden realization his relationship is doomed under the illumination of the night time sky. "And I'll never forget the night I gazed out at the stars/I was moved to tears while you stayed back at the car/Couldn't recognize you, whoever you are."

Such raw emotion spills over into many of Mooshka's songs, which are captured on the EP "Sketch."

Some numbers focus on the aforementioned relationship. Another, "Great Divide," speaks to the emptiness he feels about the demise of Phineas Gage, a young and promising group who split up last year.

His songs may be labeled a cathartic exercise. Yet Mooshka doesn't appear scared or bitter. He's a rather jovial sort sitting at a table at Griff's Grill in Pontiac, wearing a red hat that looks more like a shower cap.

"A lot of people are like 'Alex, your songs are depressing,'" Lumelsky said. "But I'm not a depressing person. I ride my bike and everything. I'm just like everyone else.

"Some songs are like that. I don't write about tangent things. I write about my reaction to things."

His reaction to the breakup of both his band and relationship with his girlfriend was to take a respite from performing for awhile. That didn't last long as he found himself picking up an acoustic guitar and writing songs.

The transformation from a lead guitarist in a rock band to a solo performer hasn't been difficult.

Flames only flicker in film 'Fires Within'

LOANNE ROGERS

The price that is exacted for political beliefs that defy a dictatorship, in this case Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba, are at the heart of the 1991 film "Fires Within."

This is a film that fairly drips with earnestness, its opening frames noting the Cuban government denies the existence of political prisoners. This is juxtaposed by the strange casting of usually blonde British actress Greta Scacchi as the Cuban wife of a political prisoner. It's to her credit that she doesn't do that badly with the little she has been given in the script.

"Fires Within" begins with Scacchi, who has fled to Miami, receiving a marriage proposal from her boyfriend, played by Vincent D'Onofrio. He was the fisherman who rescued her and her small daughter from the barely floating craft they used to slip out of Cuba. D'Onofrio has become a surrogate father for the girl, whose father was arrested as a political prisoner. He wants a family and family traditions.

As luck and movies would have it, almost simultaneously the Cuban government has decided to release a group of political prisoners and send them off to Miami. Scacchi's husband, played by Jimmy Smits, is among the arriving prisoners after serving eight years of a 20-year sentence.

The film uses flashbacks to illustrate the couple's life in Cuba, where Scacchi argued with Smits and tried to convince him not to pass out the political leaflets which lead to his arrest. Despite her arguments, Smits refuses a "rehabilitation" which would have led to his release and ends privileges, such as visitations.

The script raises a lot of issues that it never pursues. After eight years on her own, the wife has made a new life and isn't the same person her husband knew before.

After hearing that her goal is to buy a house, Smits comments with a tinge of envy on how well his wife has done without him. It wasn't much of a struggle based on what you see in the film. Rescued, she finds a boyfriend and a factory job that must pay pretty darn well.

The husband and boyfriend argue but the husband and wife don't seem to have much to say to one another. She doesn't ask and he doesn't volunteer anything about his experiences in prison or anything else about the intervening eight years. Or the wife and her boyfriend.

Hailed as a hero as he arrives from Cuba, Smits is immediately being wooed by the exile community to work on "La Causa." In the best performance in the film, Smits balks at arming would-be liberation fighters. Freedom of speech is the weapon which will free Cuba.

The whole film really is summed up in a speech Smits gives at a political rally when he says he isn't a hero, just a survivor who spoke out for what he believed in. By this point he has come to see the scars his choice inflicted on his wife and daughter.

This is a film I really wanted to like. How can you not sympathize with someone imprisoned for exercising free speech, separated from their family and forced to leave their home? Even with that stacked deck, Cynthia Cidre's script lacks real emotion and depth.

I was particularly disappointed since director Gillian Armstrong is responsible for one of my all time favorite movies, "My Brilliant Career." I expected a lot more fire and life in a film she directed.

Oh, and another small thing that I found irritating about this movie is you cannot quite figure what year it is taking place. Sometimes there is a very '60s look and feel, other times it seems contemporary.

"Fires Within" is available on video cassette at local video stores.

'Daughters' sacrifices plot for emotion

JOHN MONAGHAN

Nana, the 88-year-old matriarch of the Pezant family, sees it coming. She knows that her descendants will leave the island she has raised them on and head north. She insists, however, that the family stay together.

practicing ritual magic and carrying what she calls "scraps of memories" in an old tin can.

Eulah (Alva Rogers) shares her great-grandmother's concern for preserving the family at all costs. Her pregnancy, however, causes some rifts at home, because there is some doubt as to whether the child was conceived by her husband or a white rapist.

Yellow Mary (Barbara O), meanwhile, returns to the community after a prosperous life as a prostitute. Though scorned by many of her relatives, she returns to the island to participate in the family's elaborate farewell celebration.

Emotion and beauty resonate throughout the film. You can sense insecurity of leaving the island. They have an almost idyllic existence here, with the freedom, community, and standard of living in complete contrast to the family's years of slavery just a few decades before.

In a sense, they are also cut off from the outside world. The emotional crux of the film is the idea that these people must put the past behind them and enjoy the freedom that they have won by forging new lives up north.

Director Dash and cinematographer Arthur Jaffa compose a number of lyrical montages that find the characters playing or lazily talking in the crook of a tree. They give the film an almost surreal beauty.

The lack of plot may frustrate many viewers, but "Daughters of the Dust" will leave a strong impression. It creates a bold and intelligent departure from the contemporary social problems that infuse the films of other black American directors.

DOG BICK, who goes on a killing spree. Both films will be shown with their original gimmicks, which usually meant that ushers in monster masks run through the theater scaring viewers during key scenes.

POINTS OF VIEW

Suits and secrecy are new plots of government

Liberals of the 1960s and '70s had the same answer for every problem, real or imagined: Throw money at it.

Since the mid-'80s, the new answer has been hide 'n' sneak: Hide the public records, close the public meetings.

Sen. William Van Regenmorter, a Republican from Ottawa County, learned the hard way that eventually the public wises up.

Van Regenmorter chairs the Senate Judiciary Committee, and last week he scheduled a hearing on his SB 908 — blandly labeled "general amendments to the Crime Victim's Rights Act."

Some amendments! Currently victims of serious crimes may ask to have their names withheld from the police records. Van Regenmorter would reverse centuries of law and custom, mandating that nearly all IDs be automatically closed, letting police work in secret.

He led with his jugular by scheduling the hearing just as a federal jury nailed Detroit's ex-police chief William Hart for embezzling $1 million from secret drug funds.

For years Detroit officials strove to hide those records from the public. In their shame, Detroit police picked up two Detroit News reporters trying to track down the wrongdoing. To police, the bad guys were the expositors, not the thieves.

Well, Van Regenmorter's bill ran into a storm of protest. "Grossly unconstitutional," said attorneys for the Free Press and Michigan Press Association.

A national press group noted that Oakland, Calif., police had been caught sloughing off rape complaints from the social anarchy, suggesting the true reason cops want to shut the records.

Van Regenmorter canceled the hearing. There's a familiar pattern in Michigan.

The Potato Commission, appointed by the governor, is an official body which can assess and fine growers. Last month the Senate voted to exempt assessments and fines from the Freedom of Information Act.

■ Since the mid-'80s, the new answer has been hide 'n' sneak: Hide the public records, close the public meetings.

The Senate passed a bill to "reform" medical professionals' discipline. Two key "reforms" would shut down records under the Freedom of Information Act and procedures under the Open Meetings Act.

The Legislature last year updated the 87-year-old Telecommunications Act by yanking many of Ma Bell's filings from the Freedom of Information Act.

In 1990 then-Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, sponsored Oakland Prosecutor Richard Thompson's crime fighting bills. Their notion of fighting crime was to exempt prosecutors' appeal briefs from FOIA, not just to prisoners but to everyone.

Slate Rep. Burton Leland, D-Detroit, won House approval in 1991 of a bill to shut down certain motor vehicle records from FOIA. The Detroit News found Leland didn't really live in his district but in a Lansing suburb. Guess what fool was partly responsible for tracking down Leland.

That's only at the state level. Suburban police departments are notorious in covering up their inability to solve crime by denying information requests with a sneer and a "See us."

The city of Detroit is so embarrassed in being sued so often and successfully that it attempted to hide its payouts. A Free Press reporter who lives in Oakland County used the circuit court there to pry the numbers out of the Young administration.

I'm uncertain whether this flood of legislation in Lansing is a piecemeal and unthinking response, or a bipartisan plot to kick sand in the public's eyes. Right now I suspect it's a plot and that "privacy" is a code word for "secrecy."

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional news.

Resist racial gulf with confrontation, not fears

Hey, Jeffrey!" The security gate attendant at Detroit Metro Airport called to me as I hustled through a metal detector on the way to an early morning flight. "What are you going to be talking about today?"

I looked up startled, located the face talking to me and focused on the speaker. A young man, approximately 25 to 28 years old, was smiling at me with an eager, expectant look in his eyes. I remembered that it was Saturday and that my show, "Transition," would be on later that morning at 8:30. My mind raced as it moved from crack of dawn travel mode to television programming. I told him what our focus would be on the show, thanked him for watching and started on down the terminal.

He wouldn't let me go through, matching me stride for stride as I ran for the plane. He was going on duty in just a few minutes. He said, and looked forward to his break two hours later so he could watch "Transition." He never missed it, he said, and seemed prepared to recall show after show for me: what worked and what didn't.

He was talking so fast and seemed so intense that I stopped still in the middle of the concourse, oblivious to the fact that my plane was boarding and just listened to him.

"What I like about 'Transition,'" he went on, "is that it's real. You show black people like they really are. You're not just another media-hype type show dwelling only on the negative aspects of the black community. I like the even handed way your show deals with the major issues and the way you tell it like it is in your commentaries. You make me feel proud to be black. Keep it up."

The security guard stuck out his hand, grinned his goodbye, turned and moved back the way we had come, ready to assume his post.

I took my aisle seat deep in thought on the young man's comments, opened my newspaper and proceeded to read the umpteenth analysis of the Rodney King verdict and its aftermath. By the time the plane had broken through the clouds, the paper had been thrown to the floor in disgust and sadness. Disgust at the senseless, wanton death and destruction; sadness as the realization was underscored that the gulf between the races appeared too wide to bridge.

JEFFREY MILLER

What is the problem, I wondered for the millionth time. What is the root cause that is contributing to the sickness infecting the health of our country? To me it is clear as glass that if we don't heal or excise this particular root, the entire tree will succumb to the ravages of this particular disease. Didn't anyone see that?

Fear of the unknown, the experts say. Birds of a feather flock together. "White guilt," say black liberals. "Black crime," say white conservatives. Whites fear competition from African-Americans, some folks whisper. Blacks are inferior and immoral, others say quietly.

My thoughts were in turmoil as we bumped through turbulent skies, 450 miles per hour, 33,000 feet above ground. If this feat was possible, why couldn't we fix the race problem?

We started our descent and as the landing gear locked into place, so did my thought. It centered around the young security man. A glance at my watch indicated we had been airborne over two hours and I took comfort in the fact that he was watching "Transition," feeling proud, discovering the black experience as it really is.

The racial gulf we appear unable to close is one we fear to confront. It takes guts to put aside prejudices and get down to know the other group. We might be rejected, misunderstood or in some way haunted. It becomes easier to do nothing. It becomes easier to believe the stereotype.

If you, like me, are tired of being scared; if you, like me, are scared for the future; if you, like me, are saddened at the waste of our collective lost potential, there is something you can do. You can watch "Transition" and you can get involved with change.

Jeffrey Miller, a Southfield resident, is producer/host of "Transition" Saturdays at 8:30 a.m. Saturdays on WAOX TV 20.

Marching along: The three-mile 500 Festival Memorial Parade draws more than half a million spectators.

BY NANCY KRIPLEN
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

The whole city of Indianapolis seems to swathe itself in black-and-white bunting for the entire month of May in preparation for the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race. In addition to race day, Sunday, May 24, there is a full calendar of other activities that make up the 500 Festival.

The theme of this year's festival is the 20th anniversary of Disney World. Mickey Mouse and costumed pals will cavort at many of the festival events.

As for the race, begun in 1911, it still lays claim to being the biggest single-day sporting event in the world, with most estimates placing attendance at about 400,000.

The start is a remarkable experience: the crowds, the bands, the thousands of balloons, the celebrity singer delivering "Back Home Again in Indiana." All of this is enveloped in the throbbing roar of 33 straining-to-go Cosworth, Chevy, Buick and Ford fuel-injected, high-compression engines.

Possibly no other event draws such a wildly divergent group of people, from the tattooed, T-shirted bunch in some parts of the infield to the elegantly dressed viewers in the penthouse boxes and corporate suites.

Of course, most people show up in regular sports clothes and sneakers, hoping they've brought along enough sun block and sandwiches to last the day.

Race Event

All seats for the race are reserved and prices this year range from $18 for the infield bleachers

Back home again in Indiana
Indianapolis revs up for race-time tourists to $100 for penthouse seats on the front straightaway. A good, medium-priced seat in the covered section on the outside of the front straightaway costs $55.

The bad news is that since the Speedway begins filling orders the day after one year's race for the next year's event, all tickets for this year's race are long gone — at least at the Speedway ticket office.

Some may still be available from ticket brokers or from classified ads in local newspapers, though usually at a considerable premium. One ticket broker, for instance, sells $18 infield bleacher seats for $55 and penthouse seats for $300 to $550.

The Indianapolis City Center, at 201 South Capitol Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., 46225, has a short list of ticket brokers, some of whom also offer packages with race tickets and hotel. For more information call (800) 323-4639.

Ticket-order forms for the 1993 race will be available in mid-May from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway ticket office, P.O. Box 24152, Speedway, Ind., 46224. Current ticket holders get one week after the race to renew or upgrade their tickets before new orders are filled. For more information call (317) 248-6700.

General admission to the infield on race day costs $15 a person, but this entitles you only to parking. Ad hoc camping takes place by the lines of cars that begin forming outside the track several days before the race. Traditionally, many in the infield come to party rather than to watch racing.

The race begins at 11 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time; most of Indiana does not go on daylight time), but there is prerace activity from about 9 a.m. Gates into the Speedway grounds open at 5 a.m.

Also open to the public is Carburetion Day, May 21, beginning at 11 a.m., when drivers and crews do last-minute fine-tuning. This is followed by the Mechanic's Recognition Party, a chicken picnic supper and ceremonies honoring the chief mechanics.

Tickets are $18 from the 500 Festival. For the grounds admission fee of $5 you get the track action but no party. For more information write to: 500 Festival, 1 Hoosier Dome, Suite 130, P.O. Box 817, Indianapolis, Ind. 46206; or call (800) 638-4296 or (317) 636-4556.

Centrally located: The Hoosier Dome, in the heart of downtown Indianapolis, is within walking distance of eight hotels, numerous restaurants, night clubs, theaters and other attractions.

SoHo bookstore has lock on Irish Culture

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

New York's SoHo neighborhood is known for its art galleries, flashy boutiques and trendy gift stores.

So it's a bit of a surprise to discover a bastion of Irish language and literature in this world of leather jackets, portfolios and attitude.

Irish Books and Graphics is the name of a small shop owned by Angela Carter, a soft-spoken Irish-woman with fierce opinions about the way the Irish have been portrayed in books and on film.

"They come in here from Madison Avenue, these young kids looking for books about Ireland, and then they go out and perpetuate this 'Quiet Man' imagery," she says with disdain.

"The Quiet Man" (1952) is a classic film, with John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara, about a boxer who returns to his native Ireland, wins over the townsfolk and falls in love with a strong-willed Irish beauty.

"They never portray the Irish middle class or talk about the real problems of people finding work in Ireland. They never talk about emigration, which is the country's biggest problem."

Carter, a native of Keshkerrigan, County Leitrim, came to America in 1963. She has been quietly changing the way people think about Ireland since she opened her first shop, Keshkerrigan Books, on lower Broadway in Manhattan in 1978.

"I was looking for Irish books and finding that I had great difficulty in getting them," she said.

Two years ago she moved to the present location because of a rent increase. At that time she also renamed the shop "because it's easier for people to know what it's about."

Carter's stock is impressive — especially crammed into such a small space. There are photography books such as "The Forgotten Hermitage of Skellig" by Michael Walter Horn (University of California, 1990).

For information, including a free catalog, contact Irish Books and Graphics, 580 Broadway, Room 1103, New York, N.Y. 10012 or call (212) 274-1923.

Blenda Wilson: The University of Michigan-Dearborn chancellor was commencement speaker and an honorary degree recipient May 9 at Schoolcraft College.

It was time to honor old friends and new graduates during Saturday's commencement ceremonies at Schoolcraft College.

Cheri Holman of Canton, a college graduate, volunteer and former employee, received the college's Distinguished Alumna award. Honorary degree recipients included Livonia Mall manager Jeanne Hildebrandt and longtime college volunteer Chester Simpson of Northville and the commencement speaker, University of Michigan-Dearborn Chancellor Blenda Wilson.

But the day also belonged to the 911 graduates. The class of 1992 brought to 18,000 the number of people who have earned degrees from the Livonia-based community college.

The most popular degree program for this year's class: Applied Science, with slightly more than half the total graduates. Roughly one-quarter received an associate in arts degree while others received associate's in engineering, general studies and science, or specialist certificates. Eveyen hard-working students received two degrees.

Among the honorees, 1976 graduate Holman is a former Schoolcraft business honor student also honored as an outstanding student by the American Association of Junior and Community Colleges.

She is currently secretary of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Simpson, a retiree, volunteers an average 50 hours a week at the college Learning Assistance Center.

Hildebrandt is a member of the Livonia Planning commission as well as several community boards and organizations. She is a 1990 Athena Award from the Lansing Regional Chamber of Commerce.

Wilson is the first woman to preside over a four-year Michigan university.

WHEN LESS IS MORE

Less is more when you are taking less oral cortisone this month than you were last month; now you are doing more for your best interests.

If oral cortisone is so hazardous, why take it at all? The reason is that this medicine can save lives and prevent crippling impairments. Cortisone stops the spread of inflammation like water stops flame.

In such instances, the benefit of the drug outweighs its potential for ulcers, osteoporosis, high cholesterol, depression, hypertension, easy bruising, and increased susceptibility to infection.

Oral cortisone is like dynamite. In the hands of one skilled in its use, the drug can make construction possible on otherwise barren ground. But in the hands of a terrorist, cortisone like dynamite, brings on havoc and destruction.

Physicians are trained to know what you can gain from the drug and the hazards for you associated with its use. However charlatans, swindlers, and the uninformed will give you amounts that can ruin your body and distort your mind.

When taking cortisone, follow your physician's recommendations, not your friend's advice or your own instinct. Judgement in this instance comes from training and experience. If you are dealing with someone who lacks one or the other, look elsewhere for guidance.

Treat yourself to some little kitchen luxuries

If the old adage "always a bridesmaid but never a bride" sounds like the story of your life, maybe it's time you treated yourself to some of "life's little luxuries" that are sure to make life in the kitchen a little more enjoyable and time saving.

There are a multitude of kitchen gadgets, doodads and accessories available that not only accessorize the kitchen, but make cooking more enjoyable. Better yet, they are available at reduced or dramatically cheap prices within the reach of just about everyone's budget.

Anyone who has ever visited the Janes Gang kitchen knows that I am a gadget freak. You name it and I have it. All of the following recommendations come not only kitchen tested but rank right up there for usefulness and time saving abilities.

Starting at the bottom of the cost scale and inching upwards, I would be remiss if I failed to mention the following kitchen goodies that make not only great wedding and/or shower goodies but have also made the list of all time Janes favorites. They include:

Favorite gadgets

The great pasta/spaghetti fork. This delectable goodie comes in plastic, wood and even in stainless steel. I purchased a plastic model for under two dollars at a local gadget retailer and it really does work.

If you or anyone you know likes pasta, this specially formulated fork has side tines that allow for unparalleled pasta pick-ups. Couple this with a stainless strainer insert that fits inside a multitude of different sized pots for cooking and draining the pasta and a recipe for "momma's great homemade spaghetti sauce" and you have a winning combination sure to be appreciated over the years. Total cash outlay: less than $20.

When you scream, I scream and we all start screaming for ice cream in the upcoming hot summer months, anyone who calls themselves a lover of this quintessentially frozen treat would go bonkers over the fabled Zeroll ice cream scoop.

Specially formulated with hermetically sealed anti-freeze in the handle, this scoop slices through frozen treats like a hot knife through butter. I received one as a gift about 15 years ago and it still is going strong; one look at me is to know that I love ice cream. Another bargain at about $12, this scoop is a treat in itself but couple it with an ice cream maker and a bag of rock salt and of course, a treasured family recipe for a creamy old fashioned French vanilla ice cream, and already I feel beads of sweat in anticipation of those dog days of summer.

Another family favorite that has withstood the test of time and good taste is the Mouli Grater. If you remember the pasta dishes at Charlie's restaurants and that great little plastic gizmo that grates hard cheese and cheese and nuts via a crank, (or this goodie, coming in at around $15 is for you (or the new bride).

Available in both molded plastic and stainless, this grater not only makes great grated cheese but also does an equally fabulous job with nuts. A week doesn't go by without pulling out the Mouli for some fresh grated additions to spaghetti, pasta or lasagne. Add a few small bricks of imported hard cheese like Parmesan Reggiano and you'll have the prospective brides yelling Gratz!

Keeps knives sharp

There is little doubt that anyone starting a kitchen nowadays will appreciate a set of fine knives. Unfortunately, good cutlery does not come cheap and there is much truth to the rumor that chefs cut themselves only when their knives are dull.

There are a multitude of sharpening steels on the market, but I can highly recommend the purchase of a Craig Claiborn endorsed product called the Chef's Choice Knife Sharpener. This electric sharpener not only uses diamond honing wheels to bring up the edge but through the intricate placement of magnets, actually holds the knives at the precise angle for an outstanding edge. Smaller models start at about $50 with the deluxe models creeping higher but from someone who utilizes this gadget weekly and can appreciate a good sharp knife, I find it virtually indispensable in the kitchen.

Lastly, and like my knives, yours truly also appreciates great cookware. What's best? Stainless? Aluminum? Copper? Anyone who has ever cooked with anodized aluminum knows the greatness of a product dubbed Calphalon. The major pieces parallel the price of truffles but during the month of June every gourmet retailer is offering a "test" piece at drastically reduced prices.

The list of indispensable kitchen gadgets is long, but the products listed above won't break the budget and will certainly make cooking a lot more tolerable.

Bridal registry helps set up kitchen

Experienced cooks help brides-to-be like Stephanie Hagopian select kitchenware for bridal registries in shops like Williams-Sonoma and Kitchen Glamor. Care is taken to best determine the bride's culinary needs and style of eating.

After 20 years in the kitchen, the average cook probably has 50 percent more kitchen gadgets than needed to make dinner. Most professional chefs will tell you, a good paring knife and chef's knife is all one needs to chop, slice, peel, dice and mince anything. But, what fun is that? Not only is chopping by hand little fun, it's time consuming and hard work.

Granted every good cook, novice or pro, needs a good set of knives for food preparation, but please don't take away my gadgets.

Any bride-to-be who enjoys cooking is spending lots of time these days, selecting cookware, small kitchen appliances and gadgets.

Soon to be married, Stephanie Hagopian of Birmingham loves to cook and has spent hours selecting kitchenware for bridal registries in kitchen shops around town. As a communications graduate from Michigan State University, she is presently working on a graduate degree in dietetics at Madonna University in Livonia.

"As a student, my time is really limited. Most of the dinners I prepare now are quick, stir-fry dishes or feature pasta entrees," she said. "Because I buy everything fresh, having a good set of knives is a must."

Hagopian said she prefers Wusthof high-carbon stainless steel cutlery and is hoping she'll receive additional pieces as wedding gifts. She has selected Calphalon cookware, saucepans and soup pots.

"It's very good quality, and you won't have to replace it in 10 years," she said. "One of the things I can't do without is a salad spinner, because I make salads every day."

Much to the benefit of the beginning or novice cook, kitchen shop owners have done a good job educating their staff. The Kitchen Glamor stores in Novi, Redford, Rochester and West Bloomfield, and Williams-Sonoma shops in Troy and Livonia, are examples.

Ann Skupski, regional manager and manager of the West Bloomfield store has been a restaurateur as well as merchandise manager before joining Kitchen Glamor.

"I ask them a few obvious things about their lifestyle," she said. "I'll ask what do they need to make breakfast? For lunch, are you on the run or do you need to make a hot lunch? I try to find out what's their style of eating, and then divide the needs into categories — baking, making entrees and serving."

Most beginning cooks buy what's trendy or what their relatives suggest, Skupski said. "They need to be realistic. If you're going to buy a gadget, buy a good gadget. I've never forgotten a quote I read in a trade magazine when I first began working — 'quality endures long after the price is forgotten.'"

Joan Liposchak, manager of Williams-Sonoma in the Somerset Collection in Troy, advises brides-to-be to select a good set of cookware, utensils and knives.

"Depending on their style of cooking, it's best to select pans for individual uses." She also suggests brides ask for an assortment of items. "Shoppers who are looking for a gift often like to combine items and package them in gift baskets.

One thing customers often overlook is a cookbook by itself or given in combination with other kitchen items.

Proper glass enhances wine enjoyment

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Selections:

- Granduca Asti Spumante-$11
- Deinhard Lifa-$9
- Fontanafredda Asti Spumante-$11
- Scharfenberger Blüt-$18

should be served in a 6-oz. tulip or flute. These shapes allow the bubbles to rise slowly through the wine from the stem. Watching the tiny bubbles and formation of mousse (the slight head) is part of the total enjoyment.

Pink champagne is very popular. Pinot noir, used in all champagne, except Blanc de blancs, is a red grape. If the winemaker allows a period of skin contact prior to fermentation, or for a short period during fermentation, the resulting wine will have a slight blush. A hollow-stem flute is the perfect glass for pink champagne.

A wine carafe is utilitarian. Some older red wines need decanting. If the wine has been properly stored on its side, the sediment formed during bottle aging has collected there. The bottle should be turned upright several hours prior to decanting. Hold the bottle over a candle and pour the wine into the carafe. When the sediment approaches the neck of the bottle, decanting should be terminated.

Wells Cargo in Birmingham has a large selection of practically-priced stemware. A recent shopping trip uncovered the following: Champagne flutes and tulips for under $3; Auslese glass with a green stem, $3.97; Burgundy goblet, $1.73; Bordeaux or all-purpose 13-oz., $1.77; and a wine carafe, $4.97.

The art of making wine glasses has reached an optimum state. For more than 225 years, 10 generations of the Austrian Riedel family have produced some of the world's finest wine glasses. Claus Joseph Riedel, a ninth generation family member, was the first glass designer to recognize the relationship between the size and shape of a wine glass and the taste of the wine in that glass.

To enhance the experience of drinking wine, several series of Riedel stemware are available — matching the glass to the wine. The Overture series is priced around $8.50 per stem; the Vinum series begins at $15 and the Sommeliers' series, the ultimate in fine, hand-blown stemware with a thin, polished lip can range as high as $70 per stem for the largest goblets. In phoning various merchants who carry Riedel glasses, we found widely disparate prices, so shop before you purchase.

Slades, Southfield; Studio 330, Bloomfield Hills; Cloverleaf Market, Southfield; and all Merchant of Vino locations carry Riedel stemware. It may be special ordered if not immediately on hand.

"The balance of these glasses is perfect," said Bloomfield Hills Studio 330 owner Randy Forester. "No other stemware showcases wine so well." We have used these glasses and we agree.

The 22-oz. Bordeaux glass in the Vinum Series makes the perfect, all-purpose red wine glass," maintains Merchant of Vino's Mark Jonna. "It's the only wine glass I sell because it's the best," said Cloverleaf Market's wine expert Jim Luffy.

Raspberries garnish refreshing lemon tart

See related story on Taste front.
TARTE AU CITRON ET AUX AMANDES (LEMON TART WITH ALMONDS)

- 2 cups flour, sifted
- 1/4 cup ground almonds
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1-2 teaspoons finely grated lemon rind
- 1/2 cup unsalted butter, cubed
- 1 egg yolk
- 3-4 tablespoons ice cold water

- Filling: 4 eggs
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons finely grated lemon rind (2 lemons), retain the juice

- 1 cup unsalted butter, melted and cooled
- 1 cup coarsely ground unpeeled toasted almonds

- Garnish: 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
 2-3 cups raspberry puree

- Puree: 2-10 oz. packages frozen raspberries juice of 2 large lemons
 sugar to taste

To make the puree: Thaw the berries preserving the juice that melts off. Put the berries in a blender, add lemon juice and whip until blended. Add sugar to taste. Strain if desired. Refrigerate until serving. To prepare the pastry:

Combine the flour, almonds, sugar, salt and lemon rind in a large bowl. Lightly rub the butter into the flour using your fingertips, until the mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Mix the egg yolk with 3 tablespoons of the ice water and stir into the crumbled mixture. The dough should form a soft ball. Add the remaining tablespoon of water if all the ingredients are not well combined. Wrap the dough in plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 2 hours or overnight.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Roll the dough out to form a circle large enough for a 12 inch tart pan with a removable bottom. Line the buttered tart ring with the dough and refrigerate for 30 minutes. (Note: It's essential to butter the tart ring well.) Prick the dough with the tines of a fork. Line the dough with waxed or parchment paper, then metal baking pebbles or dried beans and bake for 5 minutes. Set aside to cool, remove paper and beans.

To prepare the filling: Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Beat the eggs, sugar and lemon rind together until pale in color and very fluffy. Slowly beat in the lemon juice and then the melted butter.

Gently fold in the almonds with a spatula and transfer the filling to tart pan. Set tart on a baking sheet and bake for 30 minutes or until filling is firm. Set aside to cool.

When ready to serve, sprinkle cooled tart with confectioners' sugar and cut into wedges. Spread a little raspberry puree on the bottom of each plate. Place slice on top and pour a little puree around each slice. Serves 10.

Get to the bottom of that freezer

"When was the last time you saw the bottom of your freezer?" asks Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland Cooperative Extension Service. "Keeping frozen food too long may result in poor quality, not even worth using."

Freezer burn is the result of keeping meals or poultry too long in the freezer or from improper wrapping procedures and materials. The outward surface appears dry and white and quality is then very poor.

It's important to label all frozen foods with contents and date so that the oldest foods can be used up first. Here are some tips to make the most of your freezer:

Learn proper wrapping, use freezer bags and containers, not refrigerator containers. Avoid using old margarine tubs to freeze food, these are not vapor proof and are not good for freezer use.

Keep your freezer full — it's cheaper on electricity to run a full freezer, and in case of power failure, a full freezer acts as an insulator to keep food colder longer.

Use "first in first out" system, put the newer food in back so the older is used first.

Freeze food sold within 24 hours. Do not stack warm packages on top of each other, allow space to permit air circulation after food is frozen solid, stack packages if desired.

For more information, call 858-0904, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Gadgets complete a kitchen

Most of us who love to cook find ourselves drawn into kitchenware shops like honey bees to a flower. A visit into the kitchen cupboards of an experienced cook will often reveal a collection of culinary tools which could be described as complete.

The list begins with tuffe shavers and ends with a croissant cutter. But there are a number of gadgets which any experienced, enthusiastic cook will tell you, "they can't live without." Most of them have been around for decades and some are relatively new.

Instant meat thermometer for baking, grilling and roasting. Candy thermometer for measuring liquid temperatures for bread making, sauces and cooking custards. Oven thermometer, crucial because ovens are often out of calibration.

Zester to remove zest from lemons, oranges and grapefruits. Cuisinart or Krups Mini Prep Processor — takes up little space, great for quickly chopping 1/2 onion.

KitchenAid Ultra Power 7-speed hand mixer, the lowest setting is very slow, perfect for heavy batters. Immersion hand blender, great for pureeing soups right in the pot.

Nonstick skillets 8 and 12 inch, great for eggs, fritattas and sauteeing. Nonstick rolling pin. Chef's Choice knife sharpener, hones and sharpens knives which is essential.

Serve pasta with red or green sauce

See Larry Janes column on Taste front.
ITALIAN MEAT SAUCE FOR PASTA

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 clove garlic, chopped fine
- 1 pound ground round steak
- 1/4 pound ground lean pork
- 2 cups Italian tomatoes
- 1/2 cup Italian tomato paste
- 1/2 cup beef or veal stock
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons oregano and basil
- fresh grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Heat olive oil in a two-quart, non-reactive saucepan. Add garlic. Heat until garlic begins to sizzle. Add meats and cook until meat is cooked throughout. Drain and add remaining ingredients except mushrooms, basil, oregano and cheese. Simmer uncovered for 1 hour. During the last fifteen minutes of cooking, add mushrooms.

basil and oregano. Serve sauce over fresh pasta and top with fresh grated cheese.

GREEN SPAGHETTI

- 1 pound spaghetti, cooked and drained
- 10 oz. fresh or frozen spinach or broccoli
- 1/4 cup beef broth
- 1/2 cup fresh grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 cup cream, milk or yogurt
- 4 tablespoons butter

Many children who don't like spinach will eat green spaghetti. It's a bright, colorful green that tastes really great!

Steam the fresh spinach until just wilted or simply defrost the frozen variety. Place drained spinach in a blender with warm broth and liquefy. Stir cheese and milk into the puree. Toss spaghetti with butter, then with the green sauce. Enjoy.

Sebastian's Grill marking morel mushrooms season

KEELY WYGONIK

You don't have to go up north to enjoy morel mushrooms. Sebastian's Grill in Troy is having a Morel Feast Tuesday, May 19, through Thursday, May 21. A six-course meal will be served at 7 p.m. The cost is $45 per person. Matthew Prentice, president of Unique Restaurant Corp., said 190 pounds of morel mushrooms will be needed to create dishes for the feast.

He will procure the wild mushrooms from about 50 different sources, both amateur and professional. For more information, reservations, call 649-6625.

Thank you readers for writing to let me know how much you enjoy the Focus on Wine column. The column runs on the first and third Monday of the month.

I stand corrected, Nancy Flores of Pontiac who works in West Bloomfield said she enjoys raw rhubarb. "When we were little, my grandma had a garden. We used to peel it, and sprinkle it with salt. Eating rhubarb was like waiting for strawberries."

Speaking of strawberries, Flores recommends Middelton's Strawberry Farm in Oakland Township, north of Rochester. The strawberries aren't ripe yet, but they will be soon. If you've got a favorite strawberry patch in the Observer & Eccentric coverage area, or are a strawberry farmer, call me at 953-2105. I want to feature strawberries on the Taste front, June 8. Last year, we featured raspberries, and I still get calls from people who want to know where to go to pick strawberries.

If you're looking for something to do Memorial Day weekend, consider going to the Michigan TasteFest, May 22-25 in Detroit's New Center area on West Grand Boulevard between Woodward and the Lodge Freeway. Free admission. Meet the chefs from some of your favorite area restaurants including The Golden Mushroom, Too Chez, Charley's Crab, Michigan Star Clipper Dinner Train, Alban's Bottle and Basket and more.

Sign your name on the world's largest greeting card, visit the culinary tent and enjoy the free entertainment provided by Ursula Walker, Marcus Belgrave, the Red Hot Louisiana Band, Goober and the Peas and others. For information, call 872-0188.

May is National Egg month. In celebration of the event, the American Egg Board is offering a new leaflet "Egg Favorites with Less Fat." For a free copy, send a long SASE to: The incredible edible egg 54, P.O. Box 755, Park Ridge, IL 60068-0755.

Here's a recipe from the American Egg Board

ANGELED EGGS

- 6 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 can (3 oz.) chunk chicken packed in water, undrained
- 3 tablespoons bottled chutney
- 2 teaspoons skim milk

Cut eggs in half lengthwise. Remove yolks and set whites aside. Mash yolks with fork. Stir in remaining ingredients until well blended. Refill whites, using about 1 tablespoon yolk mixture for each egg half. Chill to blend flavors. Makes 6 appetizer servings.

Garlic — It can be healthful, but beware of its side effects

LOIS THIELEKE

The ancient Romans and Greeks referred to garlic as a "stinking rose" with powerful healing powers. In 1550 B.C., the Egyptians thought there were 22 different garlic-based formulas to cure ailments from body weaknesses, headaches to throat tumors.

The Romans treated garlic as a source of power and proposed 61 garlic cures. Garlic could supposedly cure ailments from hemorrhoids to snake bites. Probably the most interesting use for garlic was to use it to keep away vampires and other evil spirits.

Is garlic really an ancient wonder-drug? Today there are medical studies suggesting that eating garlic may reduce the chances of a heart attack, reduce cholesterol and blood pressure. These medical studies done in Europe used a highly concentrated dried garlic powder, and, according to their findings, very few over the counter garlic supplements contain the herb's active ingredient, allicin.

These scientists warn that taking garlic is not enough to control cholesterol, on its own. If you're borderline it may be useful but not for those with severe cholesterol problems.

Beware of claims that garlic cures athlete's foot, hay fever, arthritis and many other disorders until more medical evidence is available. Large amounts of garlic can cause gas, stomach irritation, body odor and bad breath. Until all the evidence is in, keep the garlic in the kitchen cupboard and not in the medicine cabinet.

Fresh garlic is available all year, along with granulated garlic, instant minced garlic, instant garlic powder, garlic salt and minced garlic in oil.

Preserving garlic from the garden can be very easy. The key to keeping it fresh is proper air circulation while it is hung to dry. Several plants with the leaves still attached can be braided together or tied together and then hung to dry. The garlic heads can be easily broken off for use in cooking.

When purchasing garlic, select heads that are large, plump, firm, crisp and free of soft spots or shriveled cloves. Buy heads that are sold loose rather than boxed; it is an easier way to tell if the head is fresh.

Store garlic in a cool, dark, well ventilated spot rather than the refrigerator. Refrigeration tends to make them sprout. Garlic with soft, yellowed cloves or green sprouts should be tossed out.

Don't peel the cloves until you are ready to use them. Unpeeled, a head of garlic will stay fresh for weeks or can be frozen indefinitely in an enclosed freezer bag or freezer container.

Peeling the papery skin off the garlic clove is easy. Press the clove with the flat side of a broad knife or give it a good whack with the knife handle until it breaks the skin. Then, it will slip right off.

The pungency of garlic is determined by how finely chopped and how long it's been cooked. The smaller the pieces, the hotter the flavor; while the longer the cooking time the milder it becomes.

Baking garlic heads for about an hour drizzled with olive oil, butter and a little water will make them taste very sweet with the soft texture of butter. It can then be used as a spread for French bread or turned into a garlic sauce for beef or lamb.

Whisk some fresh garlic into leftover soups or sauces for a flavor boost. Drop a peeled garlic clove into French salad dressing and leave for about 24 hours, remove the clove, you'll enjoy the new flavor treat.

WHAT THE CASUAL DRUG USER WILL BE WEARING THIS SEASON.

Although new anti-drug police task force is now on the streets in Wayne County enforcing our already tough drug laws. And if they catch you with drugs, they're taking you to jail. You then face charges, a prison sentence and stiff financial penalties. Or pay to enter archaic program. All of which means drugs are no longer the fashionable thing to do.

LIVONIA-WESTLAND SPORTS SCENE

Ferguson resigns

Paul Ferguson announced that he has stepped down after three seasons as Livonia Stevenson's hockey coach.

Ferguson posted a 40-26-6 record with the Spartans. Last spring Stevenson won the Suburban High School Hockey League and reached the Class A regional final before losing 2-1 to eventual state champion Birmingham Brother Rice. Stevenson finished 18-4-2 overall.

During the past season, Ferguson told Roger Frayer, Stevenson's athletic director, that he planned to resign.

"Roger knew that I was going to quit, even before the budget cuts," said Ferguson, a media specialist at Frost Middle School. "But it had nothing to do with the cuts at all."

High school hockey, along with several other varsity sports, have been recommended to be dropped next season in lieu of the Livonia School District facing seven percent budget cuts across the board.

"Hockey put a lot of large demands on my time," said Ferguson, who also previously coached at Livonia Franklin. "I was only able to see my daughter participate once in sports. And with a young family coming up, it (hockey) was a large time commitment."

"But it was fun while I was there. I had a good time, we had some good runs and it's a good school. You get good support from the parents and they're very knowledgeable hockey people. The kids have been fun and I enjoyed it."

Mack coach wanted

The Garden City Connie Mack travel baseball team is searching for a pitching coach to work with 17 and 18 year-olds.

Anyone interested should contact Fred Holton at 522-2872 or Dean Miller at 261-6959.

Livonia Maverick

Justin Hoener of Livonia, a member of the Motor City Mavericks, was voted to the All-Tournament team recently in the 13-and-under division at the state AAU boys basketball tournament.

The Mavericks lost to Flint in the title game, 69-61, but moved on to the Nationals, Aug. 1-8 in San Antonio, Tex.

Ace golfers

Two aces were recorded recently at Whispering Willows Golf Course in Livonia.

On May 12, Gary Galvin, 15, of Livonia, scored a hole-in-one on the 129-yard, No. 7 hole. He used a 7-iron and shot a 49.

On May 9, Craig Gonzales, 14, also of Livonia, aced the same hole, using a 7-iron. He shot a 44.

CATCH Golf Classic

Detroit Lions head coach Wayne Fontes and general manager Chuck Schmidt will be honored at the fifth annual Motor City Golf Classic, June 15 at Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville.

The charity golf outing will benefit the Mike Utley Foundation and Sparky Anderson's CATCH (Caring Athletes Team for Children's and Henry Ford Hospital).

Senior Tour pro golfers Mike and Dave Hill will join PGA player Dan Pohl at the event.

Sponsorships range from $750 to $15,000. A $500 golfer package is also available.

Those interested in sponsorship or tickets can call George Bonk (629-0504) or Stan Swies (953-1060).

GOLF

Johnson medals; Mercy qualifies for 'A' state final

For the first time since 1983, Farmington Hills Mercy is headed to the state championships in girls golf.

The Marlins achieved their season-long goal of qualifying for the finals on Saturday, May 30, at Forest Akers Golf Club in East Lansing by finishing third in regional play Friday at Oak Pointe Golf Club in Brighton.

Brighton won the event with 372 strokes, followed by Ann Arbor Pioneer (388) and Mercy (395). The top three teams go to state.

Kristyn Schulkins was the top finisher for the Marlins, scoring an 89. She was sixth overall. Other Mercy scores included Dana Deshaw (100), Kyla Wisne (101), Amy Schulkins (105) and Sommer Woods (109).

Megan Johnson of Livonia Stevenson turned in the top score with a 76.

The Marlins ran their season record to 14-0 by winning a triangular meet Wednesday at Tanglewood in South Lyon. Mercy scored a season low of 195, Northville 200 and Birmingham Marian 227.

Canton stops Spartans for title

The Western Lakes Activities Association championship in girls soccer changed hands Thursday night when Plymouth Canton took the title from host Livonia Stevenson, 2-0. It was the second win over Stevenson for the unbeaten Chiefs.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton made a favorable impression on Livonia Stevenson girls soccer coach Mary Kay Hussey when the teams played each other in April.

The Chiefs did nothing to change her opinion Thursday night, defeating Hussey's Spartans a second time and winning the Western Lakes Activities Association championship with a 2-0 victory at Stevenson.

"The first time we played Canton I thought they were a great team," Hussey said. "I'm still impressed with them, and I think they're the team to beat (in the state tournament)."

It was the second WLAA title in four years for No. 2-ranked Canton, 12-0-2 going into an opening-round district game tonight against rival Plymouth Salem, No. 3 Stevenson, the reigning champ until last week, takes an 11-2-2 record into post-season play tonight at Livonia Churchill.

The Spartans pressured much of the first half, especially the first 15 minutes when the ball seldom left the Canton end. But the Chiefs led 1-0 at halftime, converting their only shot of the half.

After a corner kick by Christina Stansell, Stevenson goalkeeper Alicia Smith stepped out to get the ball, but Canton's Amy Tortora knocked it past her as she did.

"That's the way it happens a lot of times," Canton coach Don Smith of a 6-1 shooting disadvantage in the first half. "I'm glad we were on the good end of that one."

"I was a little worried (early), but we play a zone type defense where we fall back. We were sorta ducking and hoping they didn't knock us in the goal, too."

"Our kids played a terrific game. The girls scrapped and played tough."

The shot opportunities were more even in the second half, with the Spartans holding a 14-6 overall edge.

Canton keeper Jori Welchans made several outstanding saves to get her 10th shutout of the season. The best occurred midway in the second half with the score still 1-0.

A loose ball was bouncing across the front of the Canton goal, with the Spartans getting only two weak attempts. But Michele Brach was ready to drill it on the right side when Welchans leaped in front of her and knocked the ball out of bounds.

"It's disappointing to give up a goal when we controlled most of the first half, but I don't think that took much out of our kids," Hussey said. "They continued to fight and we had a lot of good chances. But their keeper played a phenomenal game, and it didn't go our way."

The Chiefs got an insurance goal with 6 1/2 minutes remaining. Tortora had a breakaway down the left side and centered to Mandy Salin, who fired a shot that was blocked by Smith but got up and kicked in the rebound.

"We pushed Tracy Morrell up to midfield and played flat in the back," Hussey said. "You're either going to score a goal or give one up. You take a chance when you do that, and it didn't work out this time."

Unlike the first game, Stevenson had all-stater Ragen Coyne this time. Smith gave credit to junior halfback Amy Westerhold for defending Coyne and holding her scoreless.

"She's definitely a super player," said Smith of Coyne, "but it's tough for one player to take over as it was with Michael Jordan until (the Chicago Bulls) got some other players."

Coyne, who had four of her nine shots on free kicks, was effective as a playmaker at times, and Stevenson played better than it did the first time in part because of that, according to Hussey.

"If you're talking about scoring, I guess they did the job," she said. "But we don't necessarily look for Ragen to score. She had a great game controlling the midfield. She'd take the ball in against the defense, they fouled her and she got the free kicks."

Chargers get deadlock, await city district clash

Livonia Churchill closed out the regular season with a 1-1 tie Wednesday at Farmington in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover matchup.

The Chargers will take an 8-6-2 record into tonight's district clash at home against city rival Stevenson. (Game time is 7.)

Farmington tallied the first goal, but Churchill charged back to tie it on Dana Pososki's score.

The Chargers had a goal called back in the second half.

Earlier in the week, Churchill blanked visiting Walled Lake Central, 4-0, as Pososki, Melissa Nunn, Aimee Cousino and Jenny Wysocki score for the winners.

Cousino, Jamie Bewernitz, Melina Garrett and Danielle Priebe each assisted on the goals.

FRANKLIN 4, N. FARMINGTON 2: Senior Myrah Shea tallied the go-ahead goal and Patty Shea added an insurance goal Wednesday, leading Livonia Franklin (6-11) to the WLAA crossover win at North Farmington.

Lakes overflow

Rocks end Stevenson's divisional domination

A rarity for sure, at least as far the Livonia Stevenson girls track squad is concerned.

The Spartans suffered their first dual meet loss in the Western Lakes Activities Association in four years, falling Wednesday to newly crowned Lakes Division champ Plymouth Salem, 86-42.

"Salem has a very good team," said Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg, whose Spartans finished the regular season at 9-1 overall and 4-1 in the Lakes. "I thought we ran well, but Salem ran a little better."

Host Salemi, led by double-winner Theresa Glacherio, finished the regular season at 7-0 and 9-1.

"It was very satisfying because of the many hours we put into it," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "It's nice to see the girls stay healthy and improve."

Glacherio captured the 100- and 300-meter hurdles in 15.8 and 48.5, respectively. The Rocks also swept all four relay events.

Stevenson was led by double winners Teresa Sarno and Cathy Bacile.

Sarno won the shot put (37 feet, 1 inch) and discus (124-7), while Bacile added firsts in the long jump (16 1/4) and 200 dash (27.1).

Churchill boys win

The Chargers closed out the regular season Wednesday by defeating host Plymouth Canton, 74 1/2-62 1/2.

The Chargers finished 5-3 overall and 2-3 in the Western Division of the WLAA.

TRACK

Individual winners for the Chargers, who led 31-14 after the field events, included: Aaron Dusso, shot put (46-0); Chris Pelczar, discus (144-7); Terry Howery, high jump (6-1); Jim Kramer, long jump (20-2 1/4); Matt Giertych, pole vault (11-0); Nathan Loosle, 110 hurdles (15.2); Derek Badrak, 100 dash (11.5); and Darian Muzo, 400 (53.3).

Ryan Kukla, Kramer, Badrak and Howery combined for a first in the 400 relay (45.5), while the Churchill foursome of Loosle, Jedd Thorderson, Rich Cramb and Muzo won the 1,600 relay (3:37.8).

Wayne girls roll

The Zebras romped to an 83-44 Wolverine A League win last week at Southgate. They are 3-3 in the league and 5-3 overall.

Tranessa Buttroughs figured in three firsts for Wayne, winning the 300-meter hurdles (50.7) and 100 dash (13.7), as well as teaming up with Ellen Clark, Zenobia Davis and Ashakee Buckner to win the 1,600 relay (4:52.0).

Other Wayne individual firsts were garnered by Kim Morrow, shot put (34-9); Sue Ronen, high jump (5-0); Kate Adamson, long jump (14-0); Nicole Seymour, 800 run (3:02.0); and Stacey Maldonado, 1,600 run (6:13.0).

The foursome of Adamson, Nicole Perry, Clark and Sonya Carson won the 400 relay (55.8), while Perry, Carlson, Buckner and Nicole Burton took the 800 relay (1:57.0).

Seymour, Davis, Stacey Temple and Maldonado added a win in the 3,200 relay (12:30.0).

Stevenson boys fall

The Spartans were no match Wednesday for visiting Plymouth Salem, falling to the Rocks, 94-43.

Stevenson had only three firsts, led by Matt Syverson in the high jump (5-10); Ray Yee, discus (117-10); and Cliff Michelson, pole vault (9-0).

Don Johnson of Salemi won three events including the long jump (20-9), 110-meter hurdles (15.3) and 300 hurdles (42.1).

Derek Cudini swept the 1,600 and 3,200 runs in 4:36.0 and 10:29.5, respectively.

Churchill girls lose

Plymouth Canton wrapped up WLAA Western Division dual meet title Wednesday with a 103-25 win at Churchill.

Churchill's only firsts were garnered by Stacey Rokicsak in the high jump (4-10) and Heather Boni in the 200 dash (27.1).

The Chargers finished the dual meet season at 1-7 overall and 1-4 in the division.

CC captures region; Stevenson nets 2nd

Both Redford Catholic Central and Livonia Stevenson are headed for the state Class A boys tennis championships, May 29-30, at the Midland Community Center.

CC gained yet another state tourney berth under second-year coach Robert Miller by sweeping all seven flights en route to a team-high 28 points Friday at the Dearborn regional.

Both Stevenson, making its first trip to the finals since 1989, and Dearborn, tied for second at the Region IV tourney with 15 points apiece. Both schools also qualified for Midland. Dearborn Edsel Ford finished fourth with 13.

Chris Alonte of CC won the No. 1 singles crown with a 6-3, 6-2 win over Aaron Seligman of Dearborn. Brothers Mark and Mike Shaya added titles at Nos. 2 and 3 singles, respectively, for the Shamrocks.

Mark, a senior, bested Geoff Jorgensen of Edsel Ford, 6-4, 6-2, while Mike, a sophomore, toppled Troy Kulick of Dearborn, 6-2, 6-2.

At No. 4 singles, CC's Jeff Heathcock defeated Ali Bazy of Dearborn Fordson, 6-2, 6-2.

CC beat Stevenson in all three doubles finals.

CC's Dave Gallagher and Chris Mattson stopped Kit Mastroberto and Matt Gerlach, 6-0, 6-1 at No. 1.

The Shamrocks' duo of Dave Lombardi and Chip Shade took the No. 2 crown with a 6-0, 6-3 win over the Spartans' Don McCormick and Justin Lozo.

At No. 3, Matt Gorman and Orin Mazzoni of CC downed Mike Miller and Ben Moricz, 6-1, 6-3.

Hurlers handcuff Wayne

BASEBALL

Wayne Memorial made a sterling comeback Thursday but lost to host Adrian 6-5 in a Class-A baseball predistrict qualifying game.

The Zebras trailed 6-1 heading into the seventh inning before Jason Wetmore clubbed a two-out grand slam to pull within one run. Jeff Tapp, Todd Kampainen and Eric Bates all reached base on walks before Wetmore cleared the bases.

Wayne wasn't through as Jason Overton singled and Marty Collyer walked, but Adrian pitcher Hank Soto got Dave Henry to strike out to end the threat.

Wayne didn't help its cause, committing six errors behind starting pitcher Scott Golienak and Henry, who pitched 1 1/2 innings of relief. Adrian led 3-1 after four innings and scored three unearned runs in the fifth.

Soto was Adrian's top threat at the plate, contributing a two-run single in the fifth and a two-run single in the first.

Wayne's first run came in the second inning on a sacrifice fly by Golienak.

Wayne not only fell out of contention for the state playoffs, it also lost on Monday and Friday to end its hopes of winning the Wolverine A League. The Zebras finished the week with a 4-0 loss at Belleville.

Belleville right-hander Chuck Coleman struck out 15 and allowed only four hits in going the distance. Coleman walked three.

Wetmore suffered the loss, surrendering five hits and fanning eight, while walking one.

JOHN GLENN 3, YPSILANTI 0: Senior pitcher Aaron Scheffer's no-hitter was spoiled with two outs in the seventh inning but host Westland John Glenn still managed to post a Class A predistrict qualifying victory over non-league foe Ypsilanti.

Scheffer, who struck out 13 and walked one, improved his record to 2-4. The Rockets, who scored all three runs without an RBI, are 10-6 overall.

Ypsilanti pitcher Chris DeSilliers struck out 13 and walked three while allowing four Glenn hits. Ypsilanti fell to 15-8 overall.

The Rockets scored two runs in the first inning on wild pitches.

LUTH. WESTLAND 11, WHITMORE LAKE 7: Paul Seltz went 2-for-3 with a two-run home run and Kevin Nelson clubbed a solo homer Friday as Lutheran Westland won a non-league game at Whitmore Lake.

The Warriors are 11-3 overall. Steve Lingertot was the winning pitcher, giving up four runs, one earned, on six hits. Lingertot, who struck out two and walked two, improved to 3-0.

Kevin Roberts had three RBI with one hit and Eric Schilbe was 2-for-3 with an RBI.

Lutheran Westland won a game by forfeit Thursday when Ecorse failed to show up at the park until 45 minutes after game time.

Schwagle brothers lift Northville to WLAA crown

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton's four-year stranglehold on the Western Lakes Activities Association boys tennis crown is over.

Sweeping all four singles flights, led by the Schwagle brothers (Mark and Matt), Northville reigns supreme in the WLAA after scoring a team-high 19 points in the two-day tourney last week at Livonia Stevenson.

North Farmington and Canton finished second and third with 16 and 14, respectively. Plymouth Salem was a distant fourth with 10. See statistical summary.

"I'm real pleased, especially after

I saw Schwagle (Mark) play," Canton first-year coach Fred Libbing said. "All I can say is, 'Wow,' that's the big-time stuff. That's the most awesome thing I've seen."

Schwagle, a junior for the Mustangs and ranked among the top 10 nationally in his age group (USTA Boys 16s), dropped only one game to Farmington Harrison's Aaron Polk in three matches en route to the championship.

Schwagle, a two-time state Class A runner-up at No. 1 singles, did not lose a game in his semifinal match against Livonia Franklin's Mike McCormick or in the finals against Salem's Jason Grimm.

Brother Matt, a sophomore, also lived up to his top seeding by beating Churchill's unseeded Martin Knecht for the No. 2 singles title, 6-2, 6-2. Knecht reached the final by upending second seed Harry Lee of Salem.

Northville also grabbed the Nos. 3 and 4 singles titles.

Brad Smith, also a top seed, blanked North's Tony Fracchia for No. 3 singles crown, 6-0, 6-0.

In a mid upset, Northville's Britt Davis avenged a dual meet loss to Churchill's Nadir Khan, winning the final, 6-4, 6-1.

Northville's domination ended in doubles when Canton's No. 1 duo of Stu Levenbach and Steve Dale, both juniors, survived an upset bid by Farmington Harrison's duo of Ryan Cahill and Aaron Mobley, 6-4, 7-6. Canton also captured the No. 3 crown in doubles when Scott Boersma and Chris Bray beat North's tandem of Brian Ellison and Brian Ragland, 6-3, 6-2. Bray and Boersma upset top-seeded Northville in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-3.

North earned the other first place medal when Jason Wendorf and Brad Martin, the top seeds, defeated Canton's Alex Warden and Eric Baden, 6-4, 6-2, in the No. 2 flight.

"Our No. 1 and 3 doubles team won and our second doubles team was strong," Libbing said. "We lost all of our singles players from last year, but our No. 4 man (Jeff Fuerst) lost only once, so I have to be pleased."

Ladywood shocked by Raiders in Class A predistrict

North Farmington pulled off a huge upset Thursday in the state softball tournament, outslugging host Livonia Ladywood in a Class A district qualifier at Bicentennial Park, 8-5.

The Raiders (10-12) overcame a 5-3 deficit by scoring five runs in the fifth against the Catholic League finalists.

Winning pitcher Karen Seremet was the standout, going 3-for-4 with a pair of RBI, including a solo homer.

Amy Kelman and Allison Stein also added three hits apiece. Kirsten Schutt added a key two-run triple in a 17-hit North attack.

Seremet went the distance and won despite giving 13 hits and four walks.

Mary Jo Kelly took the loss for the Blazers, who fell to 21-9 overall. She led Ladywood's 13-hit attack by going 3-for-4. Karen Totzke, Melissa Campeau and Melissa Novock each added two hits.

GLENN 4, YPSILANTI 2: Westland John Glenn advanced in the state tourney Thursday behind the six-hit pitching of senior right-hander Cathy Mruk.

Mruk, 15-6 overall, displayed good control by walking only one in seven innings against the visiting Braves in a Class A predistrict qualifier.

Glenn (16-6) collected six hits with seniors Carrie Rachwal and Jenni Walaszek, along with Christi Wyrbkowski getting two each.

In the first inning, Rachwal doubled and scored on Walaszek's single.

Ypsi scored twice in the second, but Glenn rallied for three in the sixth.

Rachwal and Walaszek each singled. They both moved up on a passed ball and scored on Wyrbkowski's double.

Lynn Little then tripled home Wyrbkowski to give the Rockets a shot this Thursday (at home) against Western Lakes Activities Association champion Plymouth Canton.

SOFTBALL

CHURCHILL 21, REDFORD 0: It was no contest Thursday as host Livonia Churchill (11-4) drilled Detroit Redford (8-2) in a state Class A predistrict qualifier.

Vicki Lucas paced the Chargers' attack with three hits, three RBI and three runs scored.

Other offensive contributions came from Chrissy Daly, who collected three hit and scored three times; Carla Karoub, three hits and two runs; Trudi Luczak, three hits and two RBI.

Angie Cerne added a two-run single in the second inning, while Lucas had a two-run triple in the fifth.

Sophomore Karen Jose (11-3) worked five innings in the mercy rule shortened game. She allowed two hits, three walks and fanned eight.

LUTH. WESTLAND 20, ECORSE 10: On Thursday, Lutheran High Westland downed the visiting Red Raiders in a Class C predistrict qualifier.

The game was halted after five innings after Christy Clark's two-run double.

Kristen Strang added two hits and four RBI for the winners. She also scored four runs, as did teammate Jesse Schultz.

Shannon Wasil was the winning pitcher for the Warriors, despite a rocky fifth when Ecorse scored seven times.

On Friday, Erin Cicero went 2-for-4 and Strang got the win as the Warriors (13-1, 5-0) turned back Southfield Christian (11-4, 6-1) in an error-filled Michigan Independent Athletic Conference game.

The Warriors scored eight times in the seventh to win it. Thirteen errors were committed in the game.

Just One Of The 50 Million Americans Who Invests In U.S. Savings Bonds.

More and more Americans are planning for their children's future with U.S. Savings Bonds. This little slugger gets one for each birthday. As he grows older, his Bonds grow in value. So he's not just getting a gift, he's getting an investment. For more information, call 1 800 4 US BOND.

DISTRICT'S BEST

The NAIA District 23 has made its choices for baseball honors, and four of the 15 picked have Observerland ties.

Three of those named are from Madonna University, which tied for third in the regular season with a .478 record. Senior first baseman Ernie Bowling and junior second baseman Joe Brusseau (from Redford Bishop Burgess) were repeat selections; senior pitcher Chris Kloe (Redford Thurston) was chosen for the first time.

Bowling had another powerful season. He batted .304, clubbing nine doubles and eight home runs, and driving in 38 runs. His 47-nitted Brusseau for team-high, nine RBIs, and led the Crusaders.

Brusseau hit .302 with five doubles, two triples and a homer, knocking in 12 runs. He also had 13 stolen bases in 15 attempts and a .949 fielding average.

Kloe, a righthander, had a phenomenal final season. He finished the regular season with a 5-1 record and a miniscule 0.91 earned run average, allowing just six earned runs in 46 innings. He struck out 54 and walked just nine, while tossing four complete games.

A fourth choice for the all-district team was Siena Heights senior outfielder Mike Kaczmarek, from Livonia (Franklin HS). Kaczmarek topped the Saints in hitting (.320), hits (62) and walks (26); he was also second in runs scored (35) and RBI (29).

Kaczmarek wasn't too shabby on the mound, either, posting a 3-0 record with a 0.44 ERA.

BEST OF THE BEST

Pete Dankert, a senior at Holy Cross University in Worcester, Mass., was honored as the Crusader of the Year at the school's annual Hall of Fame dinner May 9.

A first-team all-Patriot League choice as a middle guard on Holy Cross' 11-0 football team, the Plymouth native (Redford Catholic Central HS) recorded 84 tackles and tied the school record for quarterback sacks with 16. He saved his best effort for last, in the Crusaders' 28-3 win over Colgate in the season's final game. Dankert had 15 tackles, including four sacks.

The Crusader of the Year award is presented for athletic and academic excellence. Dankert carries a 3.31 grade-point average with a major in physics, and was a G.F.E. first-team academic All-American.

A FINE FINISH

Kelli Koss ended her athletic career at Hope College in style, helping the Flying Dutch to a perfect 12-0 season in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association and earning herself an all-MIAA second team berth.

Koss, a senior from Farmington HS, batted .296 with 11 RBI and 26 runs scored (second among the Dutch). Hope finished 28-7, reaching the NCAA Division III Midwest Regional Tournament final.

HOCKEY SIGNEE

Chris Smith joins six others in a promising recruiting class for Michigan State hockey coach Ron Mason. Smith, from Canton, was a defenseman for the Detroit Junior Red Wings in the NAJHL last season, collecting 12 goals and 14 assists in 37 games.

The 5-foot-10, 185-pounder is one of four defensemen signed by Mason. Others are Ryan Fleming, Chris Sullivan and Bart Vanstaal-duin. The Spartans were 25-11-8 overall last season, finishing third in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association and reaching the NCAA Final Four before losing.

STRONG COMEBACK

Stan Zajdel put together a solid season for Michigan State's lacrosse team, scoring 10 goals and adding six assists. A midfielder from Redford Catholic Central, Zajdel sat out last season with a knee injury.

A senior academically, he still has a year of eligibility remaining. MSU finished with a 9-6 record, including a 3-2 mark in the Midwest Lacrosse Association.

TOP FROSH

Hillsdale College struggled through its baseball season, finishing last in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, but it wasn't due to the efforts of freshman Jim Solak.

A Redford native (Dearborn Divine Child HS), Solak — a freshman catcher/outfielder — batted .305 with 20 RBI and 18 runs scored. During GLIAC play, he was even more impressive: a .328 average, which helped him earn Freshman of the Year status.

GOOD START

Carolyn Shanks' first year at Western Michigan University ended well for her, if not for the Broncos. WMU struggled through a 21-25 season, recording a 9-23 mark in the Mid-American Conference.

But Shanks, inserted as the starting shortstop early in the campaign, played solidly. The Garden City HS graduate batted just .222 with three RBI, but she had eight steals in 10 attempts and led the team with 22 walks and 13 sacrifices.

Her 23 runs scored was second among the Broncos, and her .338 on-base average tied her for third. She committed 18 errors for a .931 fielding average.

AL HARRISON

What celebrity would you most like to bowl with? This question was asked in a recent survey by IOF Foresters.

The survey was given to hundreds of bowlers at a recent county fair as part of a fund-raiser called Bowling for Miracles.

The television raised money for hospitalized youth bowlers across the United States and Canada.

The survey revealed that men and women seemed to select their top five bowling partners based on sex appeal.

Men would most like to stroll down the lanes with Madonna, Julia Roberts, Raquel Welch, Dolly Parton and Kim Basinger. Women preferred to strike up a meaningful conversation with Tom Selleck, Kevin Costner, Mel Gibson, Tom Cruise and Patrick Swayze.

Bowling for Miracles is the joint creation of Children's Miracle Network and the Young American Bowling Alliance. The local beneficiary is William Beaumont Hospital.

This is the week that bowling fans can watch the Ladies Professional Bowlers perform in person at Satellite Bowl on Michigan Avenue, one mile west of Telegraph Road in Dearborn Heights.

All the top names will be there, including locals like Tina Barber of Westland and Cheryl Stipeak of Redford Township. Both are amateurs that will be competing with touring pros such as Aleta Silt (formerly of Westland), Lisa Wagner, Cheryl Daniels, Jeanne Maiden, Dana Miller-Mackie, Nikki Gianulis and Dede Davidson.

Qualifying rounds are tonight (four squads) and Tuesday (two squads). The top 24 players will compete in match-play eliminations at 7 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The nationally televised (ESPN cable) step-ladder finals are 7 p.m.

Thursday. (Spectators must be seated by 6:30 p.m.)

Proceeds from ticket sales benefit the Special Olympics. For more information on the 1992 Michigan Ladies Classic, call Mark or Diane Voight at 278-7400.

Several Observerland bowlers participated in the Stroli's Beer Michigan Majors Doubles Tournament at Belleville's Lodge Lanes.

Among the top 24 finishers were: Paul Grauzer of Westland, and Larry Walker of Garden City, 10th place; Mark Hammel of Westland, 11th; Joe Kafeler of Troy, 13th; Troy Stus of Garden City, 16th; and Nunzio Marino of Livonia, 22nd.

The Baker scoring system was used in this tournament. This means each bowler bowls five alternating frames.

Bill Pietrzyk, one of the top bowlers in Friday's Greenfield Mixed League at Country Lanes, was recently transferred by Ford Motor Co. from the Livonia Transmission Plant to another facility in Batavia, Ohio.

Quit the league? Not Bill. He flew in from Cincinnati each week to complete the season.

Pietrzyk won the doubles event by shooting a 728 series in his Greenfield farewell. The league will miss Stella and Bill Pietrzyk. We wish them good luck in Ohio.

Wonderland Lanes in Livonia has announced its summer specials. Any combination of men or women can compete in Wednesday Doubles, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday Sweepers will be featured once per month. Open bowling will take place Monday through Friday (six games) for $6.

BOWLING HONOR ROLL

- Country Lanes (Farmington Hills): Green 2nd Mixed — Brian Wilson, 287; Bill Pietrzyk, 228.
- Drakeshire Lanes (Farmington Hills): Wednesday Mixed Pro Classic — Lamont Seals, 500/792.
- Garden Lanes (Garden City): Garden Lanes 100 Tournament — Doug Zeng, 719, first place; Mark Payne, 700, second place; Randy Jones, 279, high game.
- Merit Bowl (Livonia): Men's Mixers — Laurie Schmitt (159 average), 247.
- Faith Lutheran — John Kosen, 290.

Revived Walter sparks Shamrocks past Churchill

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central made good use of Brett Walter and the four-ball, three-strike rule in Thursday's Class A district-qualifying baseball game against Livonia Churchill.

CC, which plays with a three-ball, two-strike rule in the Catholic

BASEBALL

League, had nine hits and beat Churchill 7-1 at Redford's Capitol Park.

One of the catalysts was Walter, a senior outfielder/pitcher who struggled to break into the lineup earlier this month. Walter misplayed a fly ball that led to Churchill's only run in the fifth inning, but he contributed two hits, including a triple, scored a run and knocked in a run with a single.

The win improved CC to 17-3 overall. Churchill, which managed only two hits off four CC pitchers, fell to 6-7 overall.

Mark Rutherford, Churchill's ace, lasted only three innings after surrendering five runs on five hits, two walks and three strikeouts. In Rutherford's defense, the Chargers committed two errors and two passed balls during his stint and only two of the runs he allowed were earned. Rutherford, who brought a 1.4 earned run average into the game, threw 40 strikes out of 72 pitches. He gave way to reliever Jason Carter.

"I thought we didn't play well behind Mark," Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "He was pitching well but CC had the lead and to get back in the game I thought we had to change things. Jason is a different kind of pitcher, he throws more change-ups, curves and sliders. I thought both pitched well, but I felt coming in CC has a good ballclub and we had to play a near perfect game to push them."

Sewing council offers guide for designing your wedding gown

BY MADELINE HUNTER
SPECIAL WRITER

Many brides-to-be are designing and sewing or hiring dressmakers to create their own special dress. So many, in fact, that the industry puts the figure close to 40 percent annually.

And since tastes in style are many and varied, the expansive choice of materials at the fabric shop or sewing centers offers something for everyone, including trims and notions with which to accessorize.

You also can mix and match several patterns, using the sleeves from one, bodice from another, etc., to create your one-of-a-kind design.

There are strong trends to watch in bridal wear every season. Full-skirted silhouettes remain the preferred choice, with bodies embellished with sequins, pearls, lace and ribbon. Fabrics look rich with low luster or soft, textural interest. A very pale pink has been the choice of many brides.

The gown can be long, short or even in-between with the varied high/low hem. If your heart is into short, but you're wondering if it is inappropriate for your wedding, why not create a layered dress, short and swingy over a long, slim skirt, and remove the long skirt after the ceremony when you can kick up your heels at the reception?

ny when you can kick up your heels at the reception?

"Wedding Belles" is a beautiful new brochure produced by the Sewing Fashion Council as a guide to designing your own wedding gown.

Twenty pages from cover to cover, it provides information on selecting patterns, fabrics, styles (with figure-flattering suggestions), a glossary of laces, timetable and more.

Interspersed are romantic photographs from the sewing industry of wedding gowns, bridesmaids' and flower girls' dresses.

Designing and sewing your own gown is a major commitment, so here are some tips to get you started:

- Even experienced sewers turn to dressmakers. Consider it rather than turning yourself into a wreck.

- Unless you have worked with and are pleased with a dressmaker already, interview several, asking to see samples of their work and a cost estimate.

- Give yourself plenty of time: Several months are needed from planning stages to applying the finishing touches.

And plan for last-minute scrambles because chances are one is waiting in the wings. Enjoy.

Ideas to help make your wedding special

Consider these locally based services before wrapping up your wedding plans:

Feel like dancin'?

If your dream wedding reception means dancin' all night, check out the professional DJ's at Silver Sounds in Canton.

Nick Kulka, DJ and Silver Sounds vice president, said "you're the boss" when it comes to selecting the music and planning the reception from beginning to end.

The company has enough DJ's to do 11 parties a day, but if you plan to tie the knot this spring or summer, think about scheduling a live audition soon. A studio audition in the company's headquarters, with enough room for the whole wedding party, is the only way to select the right DJ, said Kulka, who started his DJ career as a student at Eastern Michigan University.

Silver Sounds uses compact discs, cassettes, turntables and mixers with CD-quality sound reproduction and a four-second digital sampler with delay. Need more? For dramatic lighting, choose spotlights, neon sticks, strobes, mirror balls, bubbles, fog machines and even lasers.

Silver Sounds has entertained for the Detroit Lions, Canton Township, the Canton Chamber of Commerce, the Westland mayor, the Northville Parade Committee and Miss Renaissance of the USA.

Weddings make headlines

In The Wedding Times, the bride, groom and wedding party make front-page news.

When Laurie Freedman of West Bloomfield married several months ago, she produced a four-page newsletter called The Wedding Times to announce the nuptials to friends and family. Engaged friends loved the idea and started placing orders. Before she knew it, Freedman, who runs a writing service called The Write Stuff, had a new business.

Freedman said The Wedding Times "is a fun and original way of sharing the excitement of a wedding." Each newsletter includes a lead story about how the couple met, a color or black and white photo, profiles about everyone in the wedding party, a section for personal notes from the bride and groom and a wedding invitation.

Brides use the newsletter as an invitation or enclose it with a formal invitation, said Freedman. Some brides laminate a copy for wedding guests and others use it as a remembrance for the wedding party.

The Wedding Times comes in two sizes. Prices start at $163 for 50. For information, call 932-0222.
