O'Neill, board chief trade barbs

Former Superintendent O'Neill is accusing the Wayne-Westland school board president of hyprocrisy on several educational and personnel issues. His target, Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek responded that the claims are merely "sour grapes."

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

Wayne-Westland's school board president, drawing strong criticism in her re-election campaign, has come under heavy fire from the superintendent she helped oust.

Former Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, who stepped down in early November amid pressure from a board majority, accused board president Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek of being power hungry and said voters in the June 8 election shouldn't be "duped" by her.

Kozorosky-Wiacek blasted what she called O'Neill's "smear campaign" and said he remains angry because she and three other board members refused to keep him on the job.

"It is nothing more than sour grapes," she said Tuesday.

The dramatic crossfire stemmed from a two-page letter that O'Neill sent to the Observer to criticize the board president, in an apparent attempt to hurt her re-election bid. He warned voters to "sift through (her) political rhetoric."

failing to attend training sessions for board members and said her "blatant neglect" of her responsibilities has left her unequipped for the board presiden.

O'Neill accused Kozorosky-Wiacek. in her campaign, of accepting credit for restoring school programs that had been cut or trimmed until voters last year approved a tax increase. The board president had opposed the 7.75-mill tax plan and suggested a smaller increase.

O'Neill also accused Kozorosky-Wiacek of hypocrisy for last year chastising school employees for getting involved in school elections, then this year seeking donations from them for her campaign.

Although she sent letters to employees' residences, she flatly denied O'Neill condemned Kozorosky-Wia. O'Neill's claims that she telephoned cek, a seven year board member, for workers on the job if she hadn't received any money from them.

> "I never deliberately said to anybody, I sent you a letter and you didn't send me a check.' I don't even know who he's talking about," Kozorosky-Wincek said.

> In another attack, O'Neill lashed out at what he called the board president's "serious hangup on the concept of nepotism." He accused her of refusing to be in a board session several years ago. when the board voted to hire his daughter as a special education speech thera-

However, she "had no problem hounding the administration" to find work for her daughter, who works at the district's vocational-technical school, O'Neill said. He blasted Kozorosky-

Memory of gymnast to live 'forever'

By LEONARD POGER EDITOR

Jason Whitfield has received a perfect "10" rating posthumously from Westland and the gymnastic worlds.

The life of the 17-year-old Westland Olympic hopeful was celebrated at a communitywide reception held at Bailey Recreation Center, where Jason first get started in gymnastics as a 4-year-old.

The event was sponsored by the Westland City Council, whose president Charles Pickering initiated the ceremony and reception. One of Pickering's daughters was in the same gymnastics' class of Whitfield years Whitfield died of injuries last September following a freak motorcycle accident in Iowa City, Iowa.

Called "A Special Tribute in Memory of Jason Whitfield," an estimated 150 people at Bailey Center viewed slides of the youth's childhood and teen years and the original prints displayed on a large bulletin board.

Jason's father, Jim Whitfield, called the recognition a "healing" and that his son's death "reminds us all that life is temporary.

"God bless of all you for caring."

Council agrees to 5% budget cut

BY DARRELL CLEM

The Westland City Council has agreed to trim 5 percent from the general fund budget - cuts that will be made across the board in every city department. The agreement was reached at a budget workshop Tuesday.

The cuts can be made without laying off employees or cutting city services, but city departments will have to tighten their spending, city officials said.

The measure will trim nearly $1.5 million from the $29.8-million budget and set money aside to pay for 23 police and fire workers whose salaries have been paid from surplus funds, council president Charles Pickerin-

Councilman Thomas Brown made the proposal, which appears to have won support from the entire council. The council is expected to vote on the budget Monday.

Brown and councilman Kenneth Mehl, among others, had grown concerned that the city's budget surplus could be drained within two years unless officials found another way to pay for the public safety salaries.

Moreover, city officials didn't want to be forced to lay off the workers because of a budget shortfall...

The cuts became necessary because the city had wanted to freeze the general fund operating tax of 7 mills ($7 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation). That will cost residents in a $60,000 home about $210 in city taxes for general fund services.

Residents aren't expected to notice any significant changes in city services as a result of the department cuts, Mehl said. The measure will simply require the departments to closely scrutinize their spending, Mehl said.

He conceded that many city officials and employees aren't fully satisfied with the budget, but he said it appears to be a workable plan.

Council members also appear relieved that the city's budget surplus is expected to be about $2.5 million for the new fiscal year that starts July 1.

Some officials had feared the surplus would dwindle to pay for the public safety positions.

A blue ribbon panel formed by Westland Mayor Robert Thomas to suggest school district improvements issued its long-awaited report Tuesday, culminating a yearlong study.

Thomas called the report "a constructive challenge" to Wayne-Westland school officials as he and seven panel members fielded questions about it during a Tuesday evening press conference at Westland's cable station.

The report suggested a school tax rollback in 1992-93, greater efforts to improve student test scores and an aggressive approach to negotiating employee contracts, among other wideranging proposals.

"We'd like to see the report used as a building block," panel member Bill Mills said, adding that he hopes the six pages of recommendations can lead to "healing the wounds" in a district plagued by bickering among school board members.

Thomas appointed the committee last year after he sparked criticism for opposing a school tax increase proposal that failed three times, before receiving voter approval last June. Thomas seemed Tuesday to regret taking a public stance on the school tax and said, "I probably will not do that Still, he embraced the efforts of the blue ribbon panel that included a broad section of the community, including people on both sides of the school tax controversy.

Nine panel members signed the final report. Other members appeared to lose interest in the study and had virtually stopped attending committee meetings some months ago. Thomas formed the panel after he received a challenge last spring from Westland resident Fredric Hagelthorn to help the school district resolve its problems. Thomas pointed out Tuesday that, ironically, Hagelthorn was among the committee members who dropped

No new horizons: Judge closes career

By Leonard Poger

Thomas Smith, a local judge for 241/2 years, always wanted to use his position to help people. "The job of a judge isn't just to punish people, but to help people," said Smith, who will formally close out his career as a district judge Friday. "Everyone makes mistakes. I want to change persons so they don't repeat them.' But Smith, 59, said it's difficult to see the people he has helped over the years because they don't return to his court.

On occasion, the judge receives a letter or a contact from those who describe a jall sentence or referral to an alcohol/drug abuse program as the "catalyst" in changing the defendants' life.

That philosophy of helping people was implemented in his years as a municipal judge and later as a district court judge for Westland.

He initiated the court's first volunteer probation program, directed by a full-time probation director. The program has been expanded to include both paid and volunteer probation workers.

Later, he started the first Law Day program to teach local high school students the workings of the court and how it recognizes due process for defendants,

1 man convicted, another arrested in fatal car crash

By Darrell Clem

A Westland man has been convicted - and an Inkster man arrested after a lengthy search amid charges they caused a fatal. two-car crash Dec. 25 at the Merriman-Cherry Hill intersection.

A Detroit Recorder's Court jury last week convicted Gerald K. Adams, 21, of reckless driving but rejected a charge of negligent homicide. A second driver, Jeffrey Lynn Grayson, 34, has been arrested and charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Charges against both drivers stemmed from the Dec. 25 crash that killed William H. Swain - a passenger in Adams' car. Swain, who received multiple injuries after University of Michigan Hospital.

Adams had been driving 70 mph in a 40 mph zone on Cherry Hill when he struck Grayson's car, which made a left turn in his path, Westland police have said. Police blamed both drivers for causing Swain's death.

Adams hadn't been drinking alcohol, but Grayson was found to be legally drunk during the 8:42 p.m. accident on Christmas Day, Westland police officer Thomas Hissong

Man to face trial in attack on ex-wife

By LEANNE ROGERS STAFF WRITER

With wounds still visible on herneck, a Garden City woman described being choked to unconsciousness by her former husband.

Visibly upset, Christine Echols, 41, testified about the alleged attack Tuesday in 21st District Court. Her former husband, Jack Echols, 43, of Westland was ordered bound over for trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder in the incident, which allegedly occurred May 18.

Based on testimony at the preliminary examination, Jack Echols was apparently unhappy about his ex-wife having a boyfriend. The couple had been divorced about two years ago.

Responding to questions from Wayne County assistant prosecutor Curtis Smith, Christine Echols said she had asked her former husband to take their daughter to her ballgame. Jack Echols had remained at ing was that I was going inside," his former wife's home, at 6250 Middlebelt, until Christine Echols returned home at approximately 10:30 p.m.

me a house but my boyfriend was not to come over and he (Echols) wouldn't come over either," said Christine Echols. "I said I appreciated it but that I need to get on with my life."

During their conversation, Christine Echols said her former husband indicated he understood they were divorced and that there wouldn't be a reconciliation.

"He pulled a rope out of his pocket, put it around my neck and started to tighten it," she said. "It caused me to pass out. I was standing by the car. The next thing I remember was a police officer or paramedic asking me who did it."

Christine Echols said she didn't know where she was when she regained consciousness. Officers found her lying on the ground behind the garage at the home. She was face down, covered with a snow mobile cover and a children's plastic picnic table.

"The last thing I remember saysaid Christine Echols, the whites of her eyes still scarlet from burst blood vessels and her eyes surround with bruises. She said she was hos-"He (Jack Echols) wanted to rent pitalized for five days following the attack, her injuries including a broken nose and cheekbone.

Detective Sgt. David Harvey said that in a statement to police Jack Echols confessed to choking his former wife and indicated he didn't like her boyfriend.

"He said he wanted to kill her. It began in the driveway. Eventually she was found behind the garage (approximately 40 feet away)," Harvey said. "He said he observed some blinds open in the house so he dragged her behind the garage and choked her again."

Jack Echols' attention shifted from his former wife, he said, when the couple's son Jack, 13, began yelling for his mother. The elder Echols chased his son, who ran into the home and had a roommete call Judge Richard Hammer, Jr., ordered Jack Echols bound over on the attempted murder charge and rule that a $1 million cash bond remain in effect.

"I understand there have been prior assaults on her," the said."There is a lot of emotion involved. I want to assure his appearance -- this carries a penalty of up to life -- and the safety of the victim."

8 square off for Livonia school board

The following voters guide was ommendations. prepared by the Livonia League of Women Voters to inform residents about candidates for the Livonia Board of Education, which represents the northern section of West-

Eight candidates are running for two four-year terms in the June 8 school election. They are Katherine Pare, Pamela Guarneri, Susan Thompson, Marjorie Roach, Kenneth Timmons, Ralph Walko, Gerald Parcheta, and Alicia D'Orazio.

Budget coping:

Marjorie Roach

How would you attempt to cope with the Livonia school district budget shortfall? Be specific.

Pare: Eliminate unnecessary expenditures (catered meals, travel, etc.); reduce rainy day fund to $750,000; seek grants and business contributions; reduce public relations department (it's ineffective); reduce S.A.F.E. program; ask central board administrators to take first step in concessions; before elimination of extracurricular programs, implement pay to partici-

Guarneri: Inventive strategies for offering educational programs. Variety an option rather than choice. District provides a serviceeducation. "Think" business in regards to consumer satisfaction, consumer being the citizens of the district and satisfaction being quality education. Cost-benefit analysis to enhance a sound "bottom line." Pro-active tactics in the political

Thompson: For the short term, investigate grants, consortiums, school-business partnerships, and pay to participate programs. For the long term, the board and this community need to work to counter the standard education. This legislacurrent school funding legislation and seek a plan, to support, that provides a more productive method: of funding education.

Roach: Revenue enhancement: bring dollars into district by marketing services, seeking grants, establishing foundations, consortiums, and, in general, doing better business. Legislative, political action: education must be priority. Funding has dropped from 50 percent to less than one third of state budget. Tax shifting and sharing are decimating our public schools.

Timmons: Be consistent and fair in making cuts equally in all programs, none should be "untouchable." Make sure classes have a 19student minimum. Insist that the basic program meut never subsidize non academic programs. Reduce the number of high-salaried administrators.

Walko: Intensive lobbying efforts extensive business management and financiasl skills and education to analyze the budget for savings ties to generate additional income sources, so I recommend a "no" through selling of school services: vote on the June 8 ballot proposal. food, warehousing, printing, etc. Reevaluate administrative budget rec- : is another case of the state med-

Parchetta: Reduce rainy day budget allocation from $2 million to not more than $750,000 - it's raining now. Many school programs/ jobs could be spared by this action. Freeze on hiring, overtime, and promotions. "Reasonable" wage adjustment agreement betweent he board and LPS unions - additional student programs/jobs preserved.

D'Orazuio: I don't propose to have all the answers, but I believe there are alternate ways to manage our school finances: cut seven percent across the board; lower labor and maintenance costs; support the Olmstead Kearney plan, guarantee ing state monies to out-of-formual districts; no new millage at this

Schools of choice:

What is your opinion of the Schools of Choice legislation?

Roach: There is no evidence that Choice improves educational opportunity. It is an unfunded transportation mandate that will add to this district's financial crisis. Schools of Choice is an innocent appearing proposal intended to set the stage for a voucher system. I urge a "no"

Thompson: The Schools of Choice legislation does not addres any educational issues. There is no research indicating that Schools of Choice improves education. This mandate is placing an unneeded burden on school districts in tough financial times. LPS currently has an open enrollment policy and a core curriculum.

Guarneri: Schools of Choice legislation is an alternative action that responds to symptoms of the problem but is not a solution to the actual problem of mediocre or subtion does not promote nor provide incentive for improvement of education. Quality education should not equate nor depend on geographics.

Parc: The state is not adequately funding the program for transportation to be safe and efficient. The current LPS proposal will require students to transfer from one bus to another up to three limes per on way trip; translating into 30 minutes travel time to reach a school 10 minutes away.

D'Orazlo: Theory itself is a good idea. Gives teachers and principals. an opportunity to create new schools. Promotes integration. Livonia has always had schools of choice. Supposed to promote increased achievement. Higher student aspirations. Second chance school improvement. A little confusing for the children and some bus safety factors.

Parcheta: The legislation is dein Lansing for hudget relief; use my signed to improve schools. The competition created in the state plan between and among schools has potential. However, costs of and efficiencies; expand community transportation in the Livonia plan education for income producing after the first year will further possibilities; investigate opportuni- strain the district's financial re-dling in local community affairs. This is a program mandated by the state yet the state has not provided any funding for implementation. Has potential to lead to cross district busing.

Walko: Will vote against it. This

Timmons: I am opposed to any plan which uses more tax dollars for non-academic purposes.

Involve parents:

What should the Livonia Public Schools do differently to significantly improve parent involvement in the education of their children.?

Walko: More parent/teacher conferences, informal as opposed to an "open house"; monthly status/progress notes to parents; monthly newsletter from child's teacher delineating curriculum for the upcoming month; encourage increased parental participation in classroom; more up-front parental input on budget, redistricting, etc.; investigate teacher-parent empowerment on a local school basis.

Parcheta: Conduct at least onehalf of the school board meetings at school sites throughout the school district rather than at the administration building. Perhaps attendance at board meetings would improve and parent involvement in educational matters increase. A parent suggestion box in every school - schools would encourage suggestions/questions by parents.

D'Orazio: Encourage parents as volunteers and tutors. More use of school facilities - parent and kid programs. Early childhood programs for parents-kids. Schoolbusiness partnerships. Preschool in our schools. Grandparents day. Encourage more to come to open house. Pet day - show and tell. Ethnic day with costume. Better written communication from our board,

Thompson: Parents need to be informed and educated no the sweeping changes occurring in the curriuclum and the different directions education will take us as we head into the 21st Century. More workshops and newsletters for parents on these changes would improve parents understanding of and involvement in these changes. Timmons: I fel that the school board and the administration must always be "up front" and honest with the public. This would encourage confidence and will ultimately lead to better cooperation between the schools and the home.

Pare: Educate parents in LPS programs; solicit entire community's assistance regarding the need for involvement as they have a vested interest in the success of the area schools. Eliminate LPS Board procedure of dissemination of selective information. Broaden participation limiting by the number of committees one person can be on.

Roach: Parental involvement is so important that it is included in the district's strategic plan. Our schools encourage and support involvement in numerous ways: Parent Outreach, PTA, parent-teacher conferences, school improvement committees, etc. Many parents involve themselves in their children's education; our goal is that all parents will participate.

Guarneri: Parents require extensive "re-education" not just orientation to teaching methods bieng done. Children are educated differently than were their parents. Edu. cators relate that parents' methods are neither the wrong or the right way to reach the correct answer it's just the "new" way. Re-education to increase participation.

Music teacher tunes up for job in the Netherlands

By Brian Lysaght Staff Writer

When the new school year begins in September, Norma Caiazza will probably be singing arias in Amsterdam.

The vocal music instructor at Wayne Memorial High School and Stevenson Junior High School was invited recently to join the National Opera Company of the Netherlands.

"I've been guaranteed at least one. role. It could be for as little as two months, but hopefully it will last two years," she said.

Her tenure with Wayne-Westland Schools has been orief. She is finishing her first year. She started the year splitting her time among Marshall Elementary, Stevenson Junior High and Wayne Memorial but no. longer teaches at Marshall, She says Wayne Memorial's vocal music program has especially suffered from budget cuts.

Both Wayne and Stevenson added a third class under Caiazza this

"It's been a rough time building the program up again," she says. "It's been a difficult year, but it's been rewarding as well."

There are only 50 students in her classes at Wayne Memorial. That's up from 30 last September but down from 150 in better years. The high school now has a select choir, a concert choir and a new women's Charles Heard, Wayne-Westland Arbor.

Bills take aim at domestic violence

By Tim Richard Staff Writer.

Police, prosecutors and judges domestic violence cases under a bipartisan package of bills in the Michigan Legislature.

"There no longer is the illusion of an earlier time that what happens in the home is of no concern to society. A reign of (domestic) terror is a crime," said House Judiciary chair Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, whose panel Tuesday sent the measures to the House floor.

Denise Alexander, Southfield lawyer and executive director of the state's Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board, said intervention is a key.

Citing the recent murder suicide of Linda and Michael Binder of . West Bloomfield, Alexander said after reading news stories, "I saw four opportunities where there could have been intervention to save lives."

Alexander, key witness in the morning-long hearing, said the bills would make these changes:

· Easier arrest warrants -"Magistrates were saying that if they don't have a victim's signature, they don't want to issue a warrant," she said. One bill would require a magistrate to issue a warrant where an "information and belief" was signed only by a police. officer and not the victim.

"Only eight countles are providing money to domestic violence programs," said Alexander, supporting the bill.

Local police would be required to have procedures for dealing with domestic violence calls under yet another bill.

An arrest is called "the preferred resonse," but the investigating officer would have to prepare a written incident report even if no atrest is made.

"We want police departments to have a preferred arrest policy in place," said Alexander.

Capt. Dan Branson of the Ann. Arbor Police Department said the bill parallels his city's ordinance. "I don't think our focus is jail or arresting people for the sake of arresting. It's to prevent domestic violence, so when the person goes back to the situation there has been some impact," Branson said. Ann Arbor, he said, has a coordinated system in which police, probation officers and counselors work together to change violent habits.

The idea of coordination was underscored by Mike Jackson of Catholic Social Services in Washtenaw. County. "With a communitywide approach, there's a 60 percent cessation of battering. Without a communitywide approach, succèss rates are miserable," Jackson said.

Judge Smith, who disclosed his retirement plans three months ago, plans to serve as a visiting judge in judges in late 1967 and took office Westland for another month before moving to a house near Gaylord he built 12 years ago.

Smith; who had served as a Westland Rotary officer and member of the city of Westland's Police-Fire Civil Service Commission, admitted that the retirement was prompted in part by professional burn out as well as health problems.

"There are no new horizons," he said. "I've done all the things I wanted."

He said that a good break in the daily district court routine is occasional assignments as a visiting judge in Recorder's Court and Cir- with the Westland city council cuit Court.

Smith and Michael Bradley were elected the city's second municipal on Jan. 1, 1968. A year later, the state Legislature reorganized the state's court system, elevating the local bench to a district court with more juridiction over cases.

Since then, Smith has been reelected every six years, with his most recent victory coming easily in late 1990.

On reflecting on his 241/2 year career, Smith said the people ho worked with is the thing he will miss the most in retirement. What he will miss the least is the political fighting, recalling budget hassles. president in the early 1970s.

While the problem focused on the the department. court budget, "it really had to do with politics," Smith recalled.

Another battle took place while he was civil service commission chairman at the time the city's police department was organized in 966 and the reorganization of the e department.

Then mayor Thomas Brown them covered by the state civil service commission act. Smith wanted the first officers tested under the provisions of the state act.

A compromise was eventually worked out, but Smith likes to remember that the officers were given some testing before accepted into

A major regret during his career came when he was a visiting Recorders Court judge.

"What bothers me the most is a jury convicted a man of rape although I didn't feel he was guilty," Smith said. The system doesn't. work the way it's supposed to."

Smith stressed that while he will wanted to hire the police depart- sell his Westland home and live in ment's officers first and then have his Gaylord home, he and his wife plan to travel to Florida during the winter months and do some free legal work there.

County seeks tax increase to support health services

BY WAYNE PEAL STAFF WRITER

Wayne County voters will be asked to approve .5-mill to support health care for the county's poor. ...

County commissioners voted Tuesday to put the proposal, on the Aug. 4 primary ballot. It would raise money for health programs. and mental health care.

Commissioners voted 9.6 to put the issue on the ballot. Among area commissioners, Kevin Kelley, D. Redford, and Maurice Breen, R. Plymouth Township, also voted no.

"We're the provider of last resort, but with the state cuts we just don't have the resources we once did," said county Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland who backs the proposal,

But the 10-year tax proposal has already run into trouble with other suburban commissioners.

"I'm campaigning against it," said Bryan Amann, D-Wayne. "It's too vague.'

The 5-mill increase would raise an estimated $13 million. It translates to an additional $25 per year. on a house assessed at $100,000.

— County Commissioner Bryan Amann D-Wayne

Critics said they don't know who would be served and how.

"It's unclear who is going to receive these services, whether it's people who already receive County-Care (a program for indigent county residents) or whether this will be a new group," Amann said. "Plus, Engler will probably cut our state aid by whatever we add."

Beard, though, said voted millages are rarely specific.

The money would be there and it would be up to the county executive to make proposals on how it would be spent during our normal budget procedure," Beard said, adding there's no guarantee the county. wouldn't face cuts even without the

RISING RATE OD FOR THE LONG TERM

The economy is recovering. But con the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two ANNUAL EMEREST RATE shrewd ways for you to invest. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.

If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term investment and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD. It starts at a bonus rate of 5 percent per annum. And you'll end up earning 61/2 percent for the final term. You can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days of every sixemonth interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view.

If you predict rates will keep going up beyond this election year, invest short term with the FirstRate Fund. You'll make a bonus return of 534 percent per annum from the day you sign up through July 31.

So the sooner you invest the more you'll make. After July 31, the per annum rate is based on the weekly Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

A new deposit of $10,000° is required, and you can get your money seven days after. notilying us.

> It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

> > Of course, your investments are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per lepositor. And bonus offers are good through July 31.

State Senate to reporters: Keep off Capitol's carpet

"I wanted to let you guys roain the floor," an apologetic state Sen. David Honigman said to the press improve, communications; let you be watchdogs, all those good things.

But Honigman's effort fell apart when his proposed rule change was amended into oblivion last week while his attention was diverted on the Senate floor.

The rule is that the press corps must stay off the Senate floor, except to exit, while the body is in session and for five minutes afterward. Reporters may not talk to senators during session unless they leave the chamber.

Reporters sit in something. resembling a jury box. They may not talk to senators from the box, even if senators approach them as Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, frequently does. Sergeants at arms quietly but firmly enforce the rule.

Honigman sought to climinate the rule, in effect giving reporters access to the floor, just like at a political convention. He ran into trouble in the Government Operations Committee.

They weakened it to let us talk to you," said Honigman. That was still an improvement, from the press corps' point of view. A senator would be able to walk up to the press box and conduct a whispered conversation as long as it didn't disturb Senate decorum.

eliminated the rule keeping reporters off the floor for five minutes following a session.

The rules change went to the full Senate May 14.

Honigman, like many senators, takes phone calls while on the Senate floor during session. He recalls being on the phone, perhaps discussing his congressional campaign, when Sen. Joe Conroy, D. Flint, offered an amendment gutting Honigman's rule. Conroy eliminated the section allowing senators to talk to reporters in the press box.

All that's left was elimination of the five-minute rule after session.

An embarrassed Honigman apologized to the press corps.

A supporter, Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, formally protested adoption of Conroy's version. "I don't think it would add huge disruption to allow a quiet conversation with those in the (press) box," he said.

Footnote: Lobbyists still are strictly prohibited from access to The committee also would have the floor or the hallway behind the Senate rostrum.

> Besides lawmakers themselves, the only persons allowed on the Senate floor are representatives, their staff members, the governor, the lieutenant governor, one representative of the governor, congressmen, former legislators (unless they're lobbyists) and one member of a senator's immediate family.

New report likely to stir debate

By Darrell Clem' Staff Writer

A newly released feport that makes recommendations to the. Wayne-Westland school board appears certain to stir debate.

Taxes and other issues raised in the report have sparked widespread controversy in recent years in a district struggling to beef up its image.

But members of the blue ribbon panel appointed by Westland Mayor Robert Thomas to study school district issues hope that their recommendations will receive close scrutiny - and not be merely discarded.

Here are highlights of the panel's

• Taxpayers and voters may regain confidence in the school district if the school board and administration "seriously consider" a tax cut in 1992-93.

Amid projections of an $8.1-million school budget surplus on June 30, most panel members support a tax cut, though some want to wait a year because of potential state aid snortfalls.

. The board's bargaining team should adopt an aggressive stance on collective bargaining, so that raises don't outpace new revenues. Moreover, some benefits could be pared, and employee co-pays for medical expenses should be consid-

The medical plan sponsored by the Michigan Education Association"is one of the most costly medical plans with benefits and costs that exceed even those of the auto workers and others that make un the constituency, of the district," the report said:

- The school administration should act to improve student test
- New employees should be hired at the bottom of the pay scale.
- The administration should give the board a proposed budget earlier in the year, and quarterly updates should alert the board to potential surpluses and deficits. The public should be aware of significant changes.
- At least 5 percent of the district's budget should be reserved for emergencies. But the reserve shouldn't be used for any contract settlement,
- Future tax plans should include a millage specifically carmarked for building and site improvements - separate from debt financing.
- The district should place · more emphasis on core classes and eliminate some smaller classes.
- . The board should consider studies by outside management consultants to reduce costs.
- · Board members should attend training sessions to better understand their roles.

Although the nine members signed it, marking a consensus, not everyone agreed with every recommendation.

Mills opposed a school tax cut in 1992-93, but panel members Thomas Artley and David Moranty said they supported it. Artley and Moranty pointed to an $8.1 million school budget surplus projected for June 30 and indicated some of the money should be returned to taxpayers, in the form of a tax cut.

Mills called a tax cut "premature" amid concerns about a state aid crunch.

Although most panel members refrained from judging the district's performance, Artley did say he's worried that schools are declining.

"I don't think enough emphasis has been placed on the curriculum," he said, though he later added, "I think it's basically still a good school district."

Panel member Norman Stockmeyer appeared hopeful the report could help the board cease its political infighting.

School board members Laurel Raisanen and Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, who served on the panel, also attended Tuesday's press conference, as did newly appointed Superintendent Larry Thomas.

Afterward, Thomas commended the blue ribbon panel and said he's "very impressed" that its members put so much effort into the project. He indicated he'll invite the committee to a school board meeting to discuss the study.

Thomas, who begins his job July 1, promised to seriously consider the report's recommendations. "It's a very good report," he said.

Regional control of southeastern Michigan's water and sewerage system will be a campaign issue if not a state law in 1992.

"It's unnecessary, contrary to democratic theory, overturns legal agreements and unjust because it expropriates Detroit's property," objected a Detroit official.

"It's an affront to Detroit, a home-rule city, and its people." added Dave Fisher, deputy director of the Detroit Water & Sewerage Department, which sells its services to more than 100 municipal neighbors in five counties.

But Bob Fredericks, deputy Oakland County drain commissioner, scoffed at the idea that Detroit "owns the system."

ericks said of the water plants and Commissioner George Kuhn. sewage treatment plant. "There aren't any (Defroit) taxpayers funds. in it. The customers put the money in. There is no Detroit equity in the system.'

The exchange occurred Tuesday before state Sen. David Honigman's Local Government Committee.

Detroit officials blistered "politicians who harangue us" - a reference to Honigman's congressional candidacy.

Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, sponsored Senate Bill 936 requiring a multi-county assembly, to elect. members of two boards - nine members to a water board, seven to a sewerage board.

Really, in fact, Detroit controls the rates for the system," said

"These are public assets," Fred. at the request of Oakland Drain

Honigman's bill was discussed a week too late to be voted on by the full Senate prior to its mid-June break. So he will try an unusual step - a "friendly discharge." In an unfriendly discharge, supporters of a bill seek to force it out of an unfriendly committee. But in this case. Honigman is seeking to wo bowling benefits are planned for this week and next by local groups. The first will be sponsored by the Charity Weekend Committee of Garden City, which raises money for three charitable organizations. It will be held at 7 p.m. Friday at Garden Lanes, on Warren Road east of Middlebelt. The fourth annual benefit will be a 9-pin, no tap tournament. There will be cash prizes of $150, $75, $50 and $25 for the top bowlers. There will be a $10 entry fee. Anyone interested can call Arny Provo at 427-9689 or Mike Sheridan at 427-6548.

Bowling benefits

The other benefit will be sponsored for the Tri-City Seals, an athletic team made up of disabled persons, at 7 p.m., Saturday, June 6, at Oak Lanes, 8450 Middlebelt south of Joy, Westland. Fee is $8 per person and three games. Competition is by tickets only. Tickets are available through Fran at 729-4265 or Betty at 422-2741 after 4 p.m. There will be door prizes and a 50/50 raffle.

Support group

Maplewood, is planning a weekly self-help group for persons who want to lose weight. The group will meet at 11 a.m. Saturdays in the hospital's new medical office. There will be encouragement, mutual support, self-help towards acquiring self-esteem and occasional speakers. There is no fee required although donations will be accepted to pay for materials and other expenses.

Golf benefit

he Family YMCA which serves Westland and Garden City still has tickets available for its annual golf benefit, scheduled for Thursday, July 30, at Fellows Creek golf course, on Lotz near Michigan Ave., Canton Township. Proceeds from the benefit will support the Y's Invest in Youth program, which provides low-income families access to the Y's programs and facilities. For tickets and information, call 721-7044.

Wayne Memorial forensics team 2nd best in state

Wayne Memorial High School's forensics team has had several impressive finishes in state competition in recent years. This year the team scored a second-place win.

Wayne Memorial High School has earned bragging rights as one of the state's best forensica teams.

Second best, to be exact. Not bad when competing against Michigan's top 106 high school teams.

Wayne Memorial won the champion ship more than a decade ago, was fourth last year and has had several impressive finishes in recent years. This team worked hard, during class, after school and on weekends perfecting its skills; said teacher Adrienne Klemme, who coaches the team.

"They've been very reliable and dependable and very eager to work well above what needs to be done," Kemme said. Twelve of Wayne Memorial's "units" were selected for the state tournament and 10 survived the qualifying rounds to reach the competition finals. The meet was May 1-2 at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

"I was confident but I didn't expect first place," said Stephanie Lim, a senior, who is state champion in the storytelling category. Lim claimed Wayne Memorial's only first-place finish. She made it to the state meet last year, and said the experience helped.

Of her team this year, Lim said: "It's more dedicated. Everybody gets along. Everybody is talented."

The Wayne Memorial winners are:

• Wes Salvanish, Brent Wellman, Jimi Henly, Jeremy Burzuk, George Bollinger, Stacy Philips, Angele Bailey and Matt Cornett, second place, in the multiple category. They performed a scene called "Assassins."

• Amy Gajda, April Bayer, Danny Long, Val Guertin, Adrienne Oser and John Bemesderser, fifth place, in the multiple category. They performed a scene called "Because It is Bitter."

- Tom McIntyre, fourth place, ora-
- Nicole Blair, third place, oratory.
- Rebecca Delcomyn and Tara Bryson, fifth place, varsity duo.
- Krist Stafiej and Phil Allen, fifth place, novice duel.
- Rebecca Touchstone and Teri Cowan, second place, novice duel
- Toby Kmet, third place, informative.
- Chris Camilli, sixth place, informative.
- Stephanie Lim, first place, storyelling.

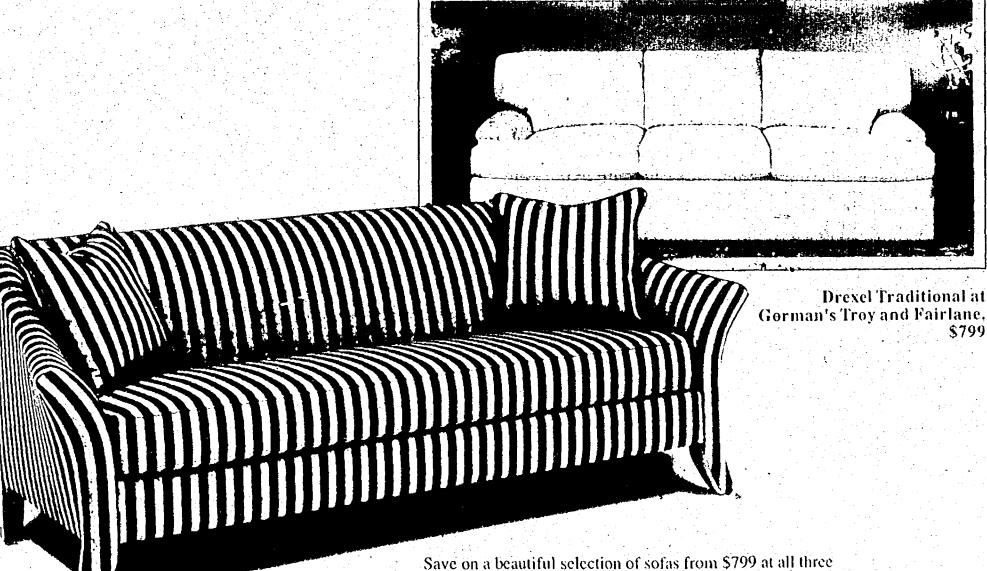

"Assassins:" These Wayne Memorial students placed second in the state meet for their performance of a scene called "Assassins." They are Brent Wellman (from left), Jeremy Burzuk, Jim Henley, George Bollinger, Matt Cornett, Angele Bailey and Wes Salvanish, who is holding the pistol.

Among the best: Wayne Memorial's forensics team finished second in a recent statewide high school meet. Among the trophy winners were Nicole Blair (left), Teri Cowan, Stephanie Lim. Rebecca Touchstone and Toby Kmet.

EMILY's List is the list to be on if you're female, Democratic and à 1992 Congressional candidate.

"What we're doing is establishing a national fund-raising base for female candidates." founder and director Ellen Malcolm said. "Before, women candidates just didn't have the money."

Malcolm was in town recently to build that base, raising an estimated $50,000 during two fund-raisers at private Oakland County residences.

Already, 1992 has been tabbed as the year of women in politics and event attendees couldn't agree

"I've been on the ticket committee for a lot of events, and I've never seen tickets move this fast for anything," said Zina Kramer, host to a $1,000 per person EMILY's List event at her Bloomfield Township home.

Another event, at the Bingham Farms home of David and Doreen Hermelin, drew an estimated 400

Slotkin, a self-described "fortysomething," ties her own activism to last year's confirmation hearings for U.S. Supreme Court Justice. Clarence Thomas.

'To see all those men up there questioning Anita Hill like that shows just how few women we have in government," she said.

Right now, however, the emphasis is on other states.

No Michigan candidates can expect to receive EMILY's List money this year, Malcolm said, though Sen. Lana Pollack received support in her 1988 bid against Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

"When we supported Lana Pollack, there were contributions from Ohio, New Jersey and other states," Malcolm said. "Now, we're asking Michigan women to support candidates in other states.'

That doesn't bother Slotkin, a self-described newcomer to big time political fund-raising.

"In order to effect change, you have to start where you can," she said. "Eventually, the money will filter down to local races."

Slotkin, Kramer and other politically active women have begun meeting to form a fund-raising mechanism of their own.

EMILY's List has been around for about a decade, though gained its greatest publicity with this year's upset win by Pennsylvania U.S. Senate nominee Lynn Yeakel.

"We had six House contenders in 1990, there (are) five times that many this year," Malcolm said.

So are rivals, Glenda Greenwald; former publisher of Michigan Woman, recently formed the WISH List -- Women in the Senate and House

- a similar organization that backs female Republicans, after consulting with Malcolm.

While family and reproductive issues are a major part of the 1992 campaign, EMILY's List is primarily involved in getting female candidates elected.

A millionaire IBM heiress, Malcom first served as a volunteer for the consumer advocacy group Coommon Cause and directed me. dia relations for the national Women's Polticial Caucus.

Before creating EMILY's List, the 45-year-old Washington, D.C. resident set up the Windom Fund. anonymously backing candidates with her own money.

The goal is to place as much money as possible, as early as possible, into a candidate's campaign, Malcolm said.

from others with arthritis. It is with this experience in mind that doctors' offices provide patients with rheumatoid arthritis a monthly group meeting.

One benefit of such a group is to exchange ideas on ways to avoid joint wear and tear, or inform others of stores where you can buy practical shoes at a reasonable price.

LET OUR 32 YRS. OF EXPERIENCE HELP YOU SELECT JUST THE RIGHT

STYLE AND COLOR FOR YOUR NEXT PROJECT - STOP IN AND SEE US OR CALL!

A second benefit comes from group discussion on tension associated with arthritis, and how to combat anger and overcome the fatigue, upset and anger that follows in tension's wake. Otten you feel better knowing that others face the same difficult emotions shadowing you, and have similar difficulties as you in resolving their feelings.

A third benefit of group meetings is their effect on people without arthritis. With good reason, participants require you to come accompanied by someone closely tied to your life and care Often the person invited to look in, gains the most from the meeting. Discussion within the group bring out the pain and stress others feel that parallels what your guest sees occurring to you. The result is that skepticism by that guest that you are "really ill," ends.

In sum, group meetings give assurance that while you are different, you are not alone

Native art: American Indian enthusiast Edward Fuller spoke last week to students at Grandview Elementary in the Clarenceville School District about Native American heritage. Fuller fascinated students with a blow gun demonstration, with art and artifacts, samples of clothing and musical instruments. Much of his discussion was about how Indians make crafts, such as weaving and dying scarves. He explained that red dyes come from the blood root and that blue comes from the wild grape.

Budget cuts

Some consensus is developing ome consensus appears to be developing from the hours of public discussion on proposed budget cuts for the Livonia school district, which includes the northern section of Westland.

The board of education is looking at cuts from $7-$10 million, depending on the final level of state funding and a final decision on how much to budget for fund equity.

The board developed a long list of possible cuts which has been hung out to dry at various public meetings and hearings. How many of those cuts actually are made will depend on the state and fund equity decision.

One consensus apparently reached is that no program should be eliminated entirely. Another consensus appears to be that it makes no sense to cut all programs by a flat percentage.

Out of these general agreements comes a budget-cutting approach which picks and chooses among programs to retain those most helpful to students. There will, of course, be disagreement when these priorities are as-

Another issue near consensus is that all school employees should make some type of wage or benefit concession if major program cuts are to be made. This talk begins that "teachers agree to pay cuts" and then expands to "administrators, too" and then to "all employees." But then the discussion wassles from pay cuts to pay freezes to "some kind of concession."

So while it seems clear most residents want employees to give up something if $7 million is trimmed from programs, it is not at all clear what and how much. The real zinger here, though, is that not that many months ago the board offered teachers pay adjustments based on how many veteran teachers agreed to an early retirement. While this makes sense from a longer-range debt-cutting basis, it makes it very difficult to ask for a wage freeze or pay cut.

One option hanging out there in mid-air, over which no consensus has been reached and may never be reached, is whether to ask for additional millage. That option would, of course, solve the budget crunch, but there's so much anti-tax sentiment in this region that it's difficult to imagine Livonia being that much differ-

But the Livonia district is different. While many area districts have voted for and against millage increases in recent years, district voters have not even been asked. In fact, the operating tax rate has actually gone down over the past four years because of Headlee-required millage rollbacks. Many other area districts also have made major program cuts, restored and cut again, while for the Livonia schools, the program-cutting process is a new experience.

Logic suggests district residents would never go for a millage increase. But it's been so long since anyone asked, no one really knows.

What we do know is that right now there appears to be no consensus on the tax option which is being bandied about very gingerly.

am the health and physical education instructor at Cooper Elementary School in Westland. This is my second year teaching in the Livonia school district and my fifth year as an elementary physical educator. I came here from another district to be part of a nationally. renowned health and physical education curriculum. In this letter, I will explain more about this curriculum and ask for your possible reconsideration regarding elimination of this program:

The elementary health and physical education curriculum in Livonia is based upon Michigan Exemplary Physical Education Programs Project guidelines.

The project was established in the mid-1980s to satisfy an overwhelming public concern for our children's cardiovascular needs. In 1988, the community cited an increase in the health and fitness levels of our elementary children as their number one priority for our school district. We have been cited by over 40 districts as having the number one model in health and physical education.

In the past two years, I have been observed by many districts and two universities in relation to our curriculum. I have also given two presentations to school board members from other districts who were interested in our exemplary program. I would welcome the opportunity for you to visit Cooper School to observe our health and physical education curriculum for yourself.

The true benefit of this program lies in the bucks for that protection.

fitness results it has produced since its inception. Concerning Cooper students, our program has made significant gains in cognitive thinking skills, affective emotional behavior, and psychomotor physical functioning. Our Physical Best fitness testing has produced an increase of ten percent in goal attainment records since last year. Our extracurricular activities include turkey trot, fun run, "Jump Rope For Heart," family swim night, soccer clinics, Cooper Champions, "Sweat For Success" and a family healthnewsletter. These programs have dramatically heightened awareness for our child's health needs.

. If possible, I strongly urge you to reconsider elimination of the newly installed health and physical education program. Please come and observe our program and determine for yourself if this is something our children can live with-

Just ask the millions who have challenged the establishment over the years, from abolitionists and suffragettes, to civil rights advocates and anti-Vietnam War protesters, from environmentalists to the activists on both sides of the abortion issue today.

All, and more, have experienced the lash of law enforcement at one time or another.

Police in America never join in supporting the throngs in the streets. Never do you see them rushing. into the corporate boardroom to bash some executive in the head. America is schizophrenic about the role of law enforcement.

Many who cheered the protesters in Tiananmen-Square in their efforts to rally the police and military to their side, are the same ones who would be mortified if our police and military joined street protesters.

A more basic example is that of the local traffic enforcement officer. Many taxpayers are under the illusion that police officers give out tickets to protect other motorists from speeding drivers. In fact, they do it to raise money for the district court system which would be bankrupt without the funds raised from such revenue enhancement.

If they really wanted to slow down traffic, they would tide up and down the expressway instead of hiding behind bridge abutments.

The vital lesson of the Edmunds decision is that if we want a law enforcement system which protects us from criminals, street or white collar, we must change the rules under which police operate in America. Otherwise we are just kidding ourselves and throwing away a lot of local tax dollars to boot.

POINTS OF VIEW

Lack of empathy widens gulf between races

t is impossible for me to empathize with the incredible ordeal being endured by the parents of Deanna Seifert, the girl abducted while sleeping over at a friend's house. With a daughter of my own approximatelythe same age as this young lady, I can sympathize with what they must be feeling.

I can imagine what it would be like to have worry for my child constantly gnawing at my insides, fear for her well being a constant hammering in my head, rage toward the person responsible causing a slow burn in my heart. I can imagine loss when I think of my child's warm smile, bright eyes and sense of comfort she gives.

I can sympathize with the parents's loss, but I cannot empathize. I cannot feel their pain.

It is impossible for me to sympathize with the four black men arrested for the savage LA beating of truck driver Reginald Denny. Two wrongs don't make a right, so the saying goes, and to me it was appalling and ridiculous to hear middled-aged black women on TV spouting inanc statements like: "Why should our boys be charged for beating Denny when nothing was done to the po-lice who beat King?'

It is impossible for me to sympathize. with these individuals, yet I can em: pathize. I have felt the crawl of fear that being the only black man in an area of white people brings, I've withstood blows from an outraged macho group of white cops intent on keeping me in my subservient place. My ears have been assaulted since the age of six by the hated six letter N word: I've known the shame of exclusion due to the color of my skin. I can empathize with the rage, but cannot sympathize, will not condone it. The outrage perpetuated against Denny and other passersby in LA is just as wrong as the outrage committed against the health and happiness of the Seifert family.

I watched in awe as the 3 a.m. kidnapping of this 10-year-old girl grew first into a media circus, then became a focused, united effort to find the abducted child. Hundreds of volunteers, mostly white, searched every conceivable location. Missing posters sprang up in countless numbers. Thousands of dollars in reward money became available. Candle light vigils and church services were held to keep the flame of hope alive that Deanna Seifert would be found unhurt.

I watched in awe as the King verdict aftermath resulted in massive destruction of property, tremendous loss of life. I watched the wilding behavior of what seemed like thousands of mostly black individuals as they ran amok, looting and beating and burning. I watched as the President toured the area in pristine splendor and listened as political leaders and civil rights activists called for massive aid, financial help for the bleeding city, relief from poverty and despair.

As I watched the dramas of the kidnapped young lady and the lost hope of a generation unfold, I was struck by a sense of wonder that hundreds of individuals in the white community would mobilize a small army to find one little girl, while hundreds in the black community would wait for someone else to mobilize them, and it was then I understood the racial gulf.

Sympathy and empathy. Blacks say 'Empathize with me. Feel my pain." Whites said "I sympathize, I see your problem, but I can't feel it.'

I sympathize with the Seifert parents; however, that's not enough. If I cannot empathize with them, if I cannot share their pain, how can I expect them to feel mine?

Guy 'not committed' to improving education uestion: Because of Governor Engler's "Robin Hood" act, I am being laid off, even with my five years teaching experience. I am bitter! I have always voted for school taxes in the community I live in, both when I was home raising children for 10 years and since I have been teaching. Now the tax money I vote in as a citizen in my community where I teach is being given to other school districts while I sit home. Are there other spin-offs as bad as mine?

Answer: For those who are not aware, the Robin Hood Act takes money away from the wealthy school districts and reallocates the money to the poorer districts by cutting out the state's share of payments for categorical items.

This move reaches the highest level of legislative hypocrisy. Democrat and Repub lican Legislatures have gone on record as desiring to cut property taxes. What they have accomplished is shifting the school tax responsibility to the more financially sound school districts who now must seek tax increases to maintain their present educational programs.

You ask if there are any other spin off as bad as your situation. The answer is an unqualified "yes." School tax vote increases will be much more difficult to achieve in poorer districts as always, but severely difficult in the "out of formula" district where money will be used to support not as affluent districts.

In Northville (my community) the last time a school millage vote was rejected was in 1979. Last week, in my own precinct there were 800 "no" votes and 200 "yes" votes. The vote went down 3-1.

Why? Many professional people I've known for years have not had a raise in two or three years . . . bonuses . . . are you kid-

School tax vote increase es will be much more difficult to achieve in poorer districts as always, but severely difficult in the "out of formula" district where money will be used to support not as affluent districts.

Why? General Motors and "others" are downsizing from blue collar through management. My neighbor was recently laid off at General Motors at age 49, lost his home and is in tears. His commments about possibly losing football is I don't give a damn, I don't have a job.

The state is not recognizing its responsibility and, frankly, some teacher unions are not in touch with economic reality. The M.E.A., of which I was a very active member being part of the initial group that fought for teacher bargaining rights in the early '60s, has done a masterful job in improving the lot of educators. Both teachers and administrators have moved from poverty where I started to a decent wage.

However, in today's market, if a local teacher's union believes citizens are going to support seven percent and eight percent raises, their leadership may need a trip to fantasy island. These are different times,

Other impacts in an "out of formula" district I envision, if millages go down, include: massive teacher layoffs, which translate into huge increases in class size probably 32 average in the elementary and 35 average in the secondary level as they were in the '50s, elimination of art, music and physical education in the elementary, pay for play athletic participation, no field trips, no para-professional help. It's pure doom and gloom, but a strong reality.

We desperately need some visionary leadership to address the situation. This piecemeal approach via the Robin Hood Act appears to be only one step by Engler to "gut" education to meet his major goal balance the budget.

He is consistent and he is driven towards that goal. But, please John, please don't speak about any commitment to education.

ROLL CALL REPORT

House Dems approve keeping subs afloat

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area lawmakers were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending May 8.

HOUSE

Yes to lobbying with government aid: By a vote of 222 for and 196 against, the House enabled recipients of Legal Services Corp. funding to lobby governments when their views are solicited. The amendment was attached to an authorization bill (HR 2039) for the 18-year-old program that provides legal representation for the poor. It derailed an attempt to deny Legal Services funding to those who lobby Congress or state legislatures.

Supporter Howard Berman. D-Calif., said a ban on lobbying would put Legal Service recipients in "shackles."

George Gekas, R-Pa., said Legal Services offices should engage in lawyering, not lobby-

- A yes vote was to allow recipients of federal legal aid to lobby under certain conditions.

Michigan congressmen voting yes included: Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and Rep. William Broomfleld, R-Birmingham.

No to spending unobligated defense money: The House passed, 412 for and 2 against, a Democratic bill (HR 4990) returning to the Treasury $5.8 billion appropriated by Congress for this fiscal year but not yet obligated. This came after the House rejected President Bush's alternative

"rescission" package. A key difference is that HR 4990 eliminates only one of two planned Seawolf submarines, while the administration opposes both subs. Built at Groton, Conn., each Seawolf is projected to cost $1.8 billion; Overall, HR 4990 rescinds $4.95 billion in defense spending, $734 million for domestic programs and $124 million. earmarked for foreign aid.

A yes vote was to pass the Democratic-drafted rescission

Michigan congressmen voting yes included: Carl Pursell, Dennis Hertel, William Ford, Sander Levin.

Not voting: William Broomfield.

Dems back Seawolf submarine: By a vote of 150 for and 266 against, the House rejected a rescission bill sent to Capitol Hill by President Bush. Its savings were comparable to those in the competing Democratic-drafted bill (above). But in a clash of priorities, the White House wanted to kill the Seawolf submarine program that the Democratic bill kept alive at the cost of at least-$3.6 billion.

A yes vote supported President Bush's receission plan. Michigan congressmen voting yes were: Carl Pursell, William Broomfletd.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel. William Ford, Sandor Lovin.

No to spending unobligated defense money:

William Ford: Backs sub plan.

Carl Pursell: Backs Bush alternative.

By a vote of 61 for and 38 against, the Senate approved a rescission bill (S-2403) eliminating $8.3 billion appropriated but not yet spent for several defense and space programs.

... The measure pulls back $134 million for a proposed space airplane, $1 billion for the B-2 bomber and $1.3 billion for the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI). But it tempted a veto by retaining $2.4 billion for the Seawolf submarine program that the Pentagon wants

Supporter Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said a presidential veto would be "a vote against reducing the federal budget by more than $8.2 billion."

Opponent Richard Shelby, D. Ala., said "I cannot vote for legislation that cuts $1.3 billion from the Strategic Defense Initiative."

A yes vote was to pass the Carl Levin votes yes, Donald Riogle voted yes.

Yes to Seawolf submarine: By a vote of 46 for and 52 against, the Senate refused to delete nearly $2.4 billion in fiscal 1992 funding for two Seawolf nuclear attack submarines. They are in addition to the first Seawolf under construction at the Electric Boat Co. in Groton, Conn. With the Soviet threat faded, the Pentagon says the Seawolf is no longer essential.

Supporter Dave Duren -berger, R-Minn., said "the Seawolf is simply a jobs program for Connecticut, not a project that is needed to enhance our national security."

Majority leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said "today, over 400 submarines are being operated by 40 nations throughout the world, including Iran, China and North Korea." A yes vote was to kill the

Lucas, Rachwal sign

A pair of all-Western Lakes Activities Association infielders have signed national letter-of-intents in softball.

Livonia Churchill shortstop Vicki Lucas, who has clubbed five homers this year, is headed for Central Michigan University. She leads the Chargers into Saturday's district semifinals at Southfield.

Westland John Glenn's Carrie Rachwal, also a shortstop, is headed for Saginaw Valley State, joining coach Art Gillis, who led the Cardinals to the final four recently in NCAA Division II. Rachwal, also a three-year starter on the Glenn basketball team, may also play hoops.

Crushing defeat

Ladywood loses A-B title game to DC with 2 outs in 7th

Despite the effort of senior Michelle Wilson on the bases and in the field. Livonia Ladywood wasn't able to win its first-ever Catholic League A-B Division softball championship Tuesday at King Boring Field.

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

Michelle Wilson's speed almost helped Livonia Ladywood win Tuesday's Catholic League A-B Division softball championship at King Boring

Wilson, who scored a run all the way from first base in the sixth inning, nearly made a shoe-string catch in the bottom of the seventh that would have ended the game and given the Blazers their first-ever A-B title.

But it wasn't meant to be as Dearborn Divine Child rallied for a 8-2 win in a game in which each run was unearned. Ladywood, champion of the Central Division regular-season race, led 2-1 after 61/2 before letting DC score a pair of runs with two outs in the seventh on throwing errors.

Ladywood's Mary Jo Kelly and DC's Dawn Barszczowski, a pair of junior hurlers, each pitched well enough to win. The loss ended Ladywood's season at 23-12 overall.

"This was the toughest way to lose a ballgame," Ladywood coach Kim Linenger said. "It's hard to be a gracious loser when you lose like that in the bottom of the seventh."

Kelly, who allowed only two hits and struck out nine, retired the first two DC batters in the seventh before walking freshman Jennifer Jansen. The next batter, Missy Mozdzen, hit a sinking line drive to center field that Wilson short-hopped.

Wilson tried to throw out pinchrunner Jill Danak at third base but the throw went over third baseman Karen Totzke's head, allowing Danak to score the tying run and Mozdzen to go to second base.

With Karin Bingham at the plate, Mozdzen stole third base and came? home with the winning run when the throw by Ladywood catcher Kristy Walker sailed into left field. Clark was playing her first game ever behind the plate because of an illness to starter Lisa Donnelly.

"Missy's been one of our most consistent runners, the opportunity was there and we felt confident we could rattle things if she (stole the base)," DC coach Marylou Jansen said.

The win gave the Falcons a 32-4 overall record and redemption after being upset by Redford Thurston 8-7 in last week's Class B predistrict game.

"We wish we could go on because we feel this is a team that could have done something," Jansen said. "We scouted Ladywood and knew the middle of its lineup could crush the ball and knew the top of its order could punch and

It looked as if the Blazers might win the game after erasing a 1-0 deficit with two unearned runs in the sixth on two hits, a walk and two DC errors.

Wilson led off with a single. With one out, Kelly grounded out to first base and Wilson raced to third. The throw to third went past DC's third baseman and Wilson scored the tying run. Ladywood's Allison Brenny singled with two outs, went to second on a walk to Totzke and scored on a throwing error for a 2-1 lead.

Victory sends CC back to Tiger Stadium

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

The last time Scott Kapla played at Tiger Stadium he was used primarily as a pinch-hitter.

"I pinch-hit and got a double and I took infield Kapla, Redford Catholic Central's ace pitcher. "But I can't wait to pitch there."

Kapla assured himself of that chance Wednesday after pitching CC to a 10-0 five-inning mercy rule victory over Riverview Gabriel Richard in a Catholic League semifinal playoff at Wyandotte Memorial

The win sends the Shamrocks to the Catholic League A-B Division championship game scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday at Tiger Stadium. The Shamrocks will play Warren DeLaSalle, which beat Dearborn Divine Child 9-0 in another semifinal Wednes-

CC (21-3 overall) defeated Harper Woods Notre Dame 19-2 in the Catholic League final two years ago when members of the Shamrocks' varsity included Kapla and current seniors Dan Gusoff, Matt Roney and Brett Walter,

"We feel we deserve to go back, we've had a real good season, and it was our goal to get to Tiger Stadium," Gusoff said. "It's a big thrill to get in and look around the stadium for our whole team, but above all else we've still got to win."

After a scoreless first two innings, CC scored one run in the third and seven in the fourth - despite getting only one hit off Richard's starting and losing pitcher Marc Wisniewski.

The Shamrocks scored an unearned run in the third practice - it's pretty exciting just doing that," said after Walter walked, went to second on Eric Justice's sacrifice bunt and scored on consecutive errors by. Richard's shortstop.

> Wisniewski got into trouble on his own in the fourth, walking four of the first five batters he faced before giving up a double to the left center field fence by Kapla. The double scored Walter, Justice and Pat-Casey and gave the Shamrocks a 6-0 lead with one out in the fourth.

> Gary Mroz replace Wisniewski on the mound but Richard coach Pat Sieszputowski knew it would be hard battling back against Kapla, who moved his record to 8.1 with the victory.

> Richard, which came in second place behind Divine Child during the AA regular season race, fell to 19-6 overall.

> CC took an 8.0 lead after four innings and scored two runs in the fifth on an RBI double by pinch hitter George Charnley and RBI single by Kapla to end the game with the mercy rule.

> "Marc is pretty consistent," said Sieszputowski. "He doesn't normally walk a lot of batters (an average of two per game), but today he got rattled and I don't know why. We knew Catholic Central had good hitters, so he threw a lot more curves than normal to try to keep them off-balance. We knew they were a good fast ball hitting team.'

Kapla surrendered a hit to Gabriel Richard's second batter in the first inning but retired the next 10 batters before cleanup hitter Brad Affholter stroked a double with two outs in the fourth.

Affholter advanced to third on a passed hall but was stranded after Casey fielded a ground ball to second for the third out.

Kapla, who struck out five batters, including three on a called-second strike, also got help in the field when Justice made a diving stop of a possible double down the third base line to end the third inning.

"I felt strong," said Kapla, who pitched six days earlier in a 7-0 Class predistrict win over Livonia Churchill, "We weren't going to let down. We heard they were pretty strong, and we weren't going to take them lightly.'

CC finished with only three hits but coach John Salter was pleased with the way the Shamrocks took advantage of Richard's three errors and six walks.

"After the first inning, coach (Al) Moran said this was going to be a one-run game," Salter said. "The first couple of innings they got the breaking ball over and kept our big hitters off balance but our guys were patient enough to get walks. Sometimes with the 3-2 count we're not patient enough, and we chase balls."

Wayne keeps hope as season ends

Wayne Memorial kept its faint hopes alive of gaining a piece of the Wolverine A League baseballtitle following a 7.5 victory Tuesday over host Montoe.

Wayne, already eliminated from state tournament play, wound up the season 13-8 overall and 10-4 in the league.

Monroe, which slipped to 10-3 in the league, resumes a suspended game Wednesday with Southgate.

(Play resumes with Monroe leading leading, 2-1, after four innings. Monroe can win the title. outright with a win, but Southgate, Lincoln Park and Wayne could also wind up 10-4 each.)

The Zebras, meanwhile, earned their second win over Monroe this season by scoring three times in. the top of the seventh.

Jason Wetmore opened the inning with a walk. He was sacrificed to second and scored on Eric Bates' two-out RBI single.

Chris Moore then reached base on an infield single. Dave Hemry delivered what.

proved to be the game winning two-run double. The junior catcher went 4-for-4 on the day with a pair of doubles. Moore and Mike Martin added two hits apiece.

Tadd Kempainen, who pitched the final 21/3 innings in relief of starter Scott Goleniak, picked up Kempainen allowed two earned runs, two hits and five walks. Goleniak worked the first 42/3 innings. He allowed four hits, two earned runs and three walks.

Wayne committed three errors in its finale.

Warriors clinch tie.

Lutheran High Westland gained a share of the National Division title in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with a 1-0 victory Tuesday over visiting Southfield Christian ..

Sophomore Steve Faith, making his first start of the year, tossed a one-hitter in giving the Warriors (14-5, 6-1) the victory.

Faith (2-0) struck out seven and walked five in going the distance.

He outdueled Eagles' starter Tony Monacalli, who allowed only three hits and no walks in six innings.

Lutheran Westland scored the game-winning run in the bottom of the seventh.

Jim Brasgalla was hit by a pitch to lead off the inning. (Andy Manthei came in to pinch run.) Kevin Nelson then delivered the game-winning double, scoring Manthei, who was running on the

On Friday, Lutheran Westland trimmed host Southfield Christian, 3.1, as Faith came on in relief, holding the Eagles hitless over the final five innings to gain his first win.

Faith, who struck out three and walked five, came on in the third for starter Casey Cooley, who couldn't get his arm loose after two innings. (Cooley allowed two hits and struck out four.)

Kevin Roberts led the Lutheran Westland offensive attack by going 2-for-3 with an RBI. Jim Brasgalla also had an RBI single, while Nelson contributed the other hit.

Lutheran Westland wins MIAC crown with ease

Lutheran High Westland showed no mercy in wirning the National Division softball title Tuesday in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. The Warriors ran their overall record to 16-2 and 7-0 in the league with 13-1 win over visiting Southfield Christian.

The game lasted only five innings as Lutheran High pitcher Kristen Strang no hit the Eagles. She walked five and struck out three.

The Warriors scored twice in the first inning, four more in the second, one in the thid, and six in the fourth to put the game away.

Erin Cicero paced the winners with two hits, two RBI and two runs scored. Strang also helped her own cause with two hits and two

Other offensive contributions came from Leslie Turgeon, two

Bry and to the rescue RBI; Tracy Lapum, one RBI and two runs; Suzie Clark, RBI; Amy Sieloff, one RBI and three runs; Brenda Turgeon, two runs.

Southfield Christian starter Kristen Liverly walked nine over three innings before getting relief help from Jenniser Baughman.

Room to move

Coyne nets 3 as Spartans gain region final

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Ragen Coyne had room to roam Tuesday, too much as far as the Northville High girls soccer team was concerned.

The All-State midfielder, headed for Notre Dame, scored a hat trick in leading Livonia Stevenson to a 4-1 semifinal win over the Mustangs at Plymouth Canton's regulation size field,

"She's a dominant player and she had a good game," Northville coach Bobby Paul said. "You put. those two things together and you're in trouble.'

Stevenson, now 15-5-2 overall, will most likely get a third crack at rival Canton, 15.0-2 overall, No. 1 ranked in Class A, and the Western Lakes Activities Association champs. The next probable matchup is Friday's regional final, 7 p.m, at Centennial Educational Park (Canton's home field).

(Dearborn, a heavy underdog, met Canton in the other semifinal Wednesday.)

The Spartans' only two losses this season have come against the Chiefs, who won both meetings on the road against Stevenson by counts of 3.0 and 2.0.

But with a wider field this time, Stevenson coach Mary Kay Hussey is a bit more optimistic.

"It (the field) certainly helped us today," she said. "It gave us a lot of room to use our skill. It also opens up room in the middle."

Coyne certainly had a field day. She scored on a direct kick, 18 yards out, tucking a shot into the corner of the Northville net with the game barely two minutes old. At the 21-minute mark of the first half. Covne struck again, another unassisted effort on an impressive 40-yard boot.

Four minutes later, Amy Marcoe scored from Shannon Wilkinson to make it 3.0.

The Spartans continued to dominate play in the second half as Coyne scored at the midway point on a penalty kick, her third of the night.

"Ragen had one of her best games," Hussey said. "She was just phenomenal,"

Northville finally got on the board in the final two minutes of play when Krista Howe snuck the ball past Stevenson goaltender Karen Groulx, who had subbed in for the injured Alicia Smith with 17 minutes to play.

It was certainly a different outcome than the previous meeting between the two teams when Stevenson held on for a 2-1 win.

"The last time we were disappointed with our performance, Hussey said. "We felt we didn't Northville, which bowed out with a better-than-expected 12-5-2 record, simply was no match on this brisk night for the Spartans.

"Stevenson has talent and we played a seasoned team," Paul said. "Today, they were a better

So what does Paul expect in the third meeting between Canton and Stevenson?

"After playing both teams recently, and the way Stevenson is playing right now, I'd give Stevenson the edge," said the Northville coach. "It will be a good game between two good teams.'

Hussey, meanwhile, breaks down Friday's matchup down into simple terms.

"We have to come out and play hard, and play to win," she said. "That's what it's coming down to at this stage of the season."

Younger players lead win over Pats

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

With prom held Friday night, Livonia Stevenson girls soccer coach Mary Kay Hussey worried on Saturday that seven Spartans might have left their best moves on the dance floor.

Fortunately for Hussey, the underclassmen picked up the slack and led Stevenson to a 7-2 Class A district final win over Livonia Franklin at Southfield.

All seven Stevenson goals came from underclassmen as the Spar-Aans won their third district in-Hussey's four years as coach. Seniors Ragen Coyne and Shannon Wilkinson weren't just standing around, either, contributing two assists each.

"I think we played well, considering we had seven players at the prom the night before," Hussey said. "But they came and played and the younger players filled in and did a great job. It was a good team win.'

Freshman Michelle Fatute and sophomore Maureen Drabicki scored two goals each for the Spartens, while freshmen Karleen Kudej and Laura Fedrigo and sophomore Laura Hudy added one goal apiece. Stevenson took a 2.0 lead on goals by Kudej and Fedrigo before Franklin's star senior forward Patty Shea made the score 2-1 with a goal with 10:31 remaining in the first half.

But Fatute extended the lead to 3.1 with 6:42 remaining in the half on a long shot that beat Franklin goalkeeper Janice Ouel-

The Spartans scored three unanswered goals in the second half, including one by Fatute that made the score 6-1.

"Michelle is starting to take a risk and go to the goal," Hussey said of her freshman midfielder.

The loss ended Franklin's season at 8-12 overall. It also marked the end of the high school careers of Shea and seven other seniors -Carla Strugala, Tiffany Graves. Ouellette, Myrah Shea, Kim Rodriguez, Rebecca Monstur and Keri McKay.

Franklin coach Joe Galea said Fatute's first goal, which was lofted over Ouellette's head, changed the game's momentum.

"We gave them the cheap one (goal) and that broke the dam," Galea said. "You can't give this team cheap goals because they're strong, very strong. But we did a good job and we're grateful to be here."

the Patriots but her success was -limited in the second half by Stevenson sophomore defender Holly Kimble. Stevenson goalkeeper Alicia Smith, a senior, played most of the game before giving way to junior Karen Groulx.

"In the first half we just played with a normal lineup with Ragen in the midfield with her (Shea),' Hussey said. "In the second half we wanted to give Ragen some freedom so we put Kimble on Shea and she did real good."

Franklin sophomore midfielder Lenay Truchan gave Shea some help offensively, scoring the Patriots' other goal. Galea expects Truchan's role to increase with Shea graduating.

"Shea is one heckuya player and will be sorely missed," Galea said. "Hopefully, Lenay will pick bor Run came a nice pay day for two Redford Roadrunners: Doug Kurtis and Kim Bruce.

On a day Kurtis, a former allstate high school cross country runner and a 1970 graduate of Livonia Stevenson, planned a hard workout instead of a race, he ended up turning it on and pocketing $590 2 $300 for second place and $200. for his masters win.

"It went great," said Kurtis, 40,

After years of intense study, a lot of college graduates finally learn. something. They're not qualified for the job they want.

That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career

To participate, you don't need to fit into any particular socioeconomic group. You don't need to be a straight "A" student either. All you really need to be, is smart enough to have school.

You earn a future when you earn a degree.

Setting sales: Entrepreneurs open garage doors

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Where can you find a U of M tollet seat, a $50 snowmobile, or a 5foot tall stuffed duck, presuming that you want to find them?

Look no further than the army of enhemeral entrepreneurs dotting the Canton/Plymouth landscape, ensconced in garages and eager to

If you haven't guessed by now, this is a story about people whose attics and basements have been so inundated with seldom-used and sometimes forgotten possessions that it has become desirable if not essential to sell off the residue of consumption.

A brief tout around the area found Patricia and Russ Wargin of Canton's Carriage Hills subdivision offering their daughters' clothes for sale to the highest bidder.

"My daughters are getting bigger," confessed Pat. "They get tired of wearing the clothes; so it ends up at my garage sale." In fact, some of the clothes have lingered forlorn and unworn in the dressers of her with tags still attached.

The garage sale gave Russ an excuse to take a couple days off work, Pat said. "That's my worker rat," Shirley revealed. "When you man. He's cheap. He doesn't charge can't get in the attic anymore, you'd. me anything for his labor."

Duck for sale

Kathy Savage, a mother of four from the Sunflower Village subdivision off Warren just west of Canton Center, held forth at her own garage sale, but did so without the help of her husband. ("He said I was on my own.") When told about Russ' contribution to Pat's sale, Kathy commented, "Now, that's a real man."

Kathy was selling a huge stuffed duck for $1; complete with Hawaiian shorts and "party animal" T-shirt, but missing one eye. "I think it has character," she said. "I was going to put an eye patch on it." (This reporter's nieces and nephew are presently beating the duck into submission.)

Kathy and her friend sipped at glasses of Bailey's that afternoon and pondered the pleasant nature of life without the ton of possessions on display in her garage. "I'm not making dinner either," Kathy asserted. "Pizza for us."

Shirley Smith, an 18-year Plymouth inhabitant, tried to rid herself of several "treasures," as she called 20-year-old daughters, complete the motley collection of minutiae pervading her garage on Auburn

> "To tell the truth, I'm a pack better have a garage sale."

The show's best known songs are Lola's boastful claim that "Whatever Lola Wants," she gets, and the losing team's attempt to shore up their sagging spirits with a reminder that they've got to have "Heart."

The most amusing lyrics are when the ballplayers sing of their unflagging devotion to "The Game" and when Applegate recounts all the mischief he has caused throughout history and laments "Those Were the Good Old Days."

Among the principals, d'Amboise is the most polished. She is a pert, sexy rated from his longtime spouse Meg. Lola with a fine voice and excellent dance skills. Director Ted Pappa's choreography strongly follows the original by Bob Fosse.

In supporting roles, Judith Moore is very funny as Sister, a middle-aged version of a giggly teenaged fan club leader. and Mark Manley's Smokey personifies the rough hewn veteran ballplayer.

There is nothing specifically lacking in this production, but just as the Yankees eventually faded from glory, enabling other teams to come to the forefront of the league, it's time to retire Damn Yankees" in tayor of other old musicals more worthy of revivals.

BAND BATTLE

Battle of the Bands will be 2 p.m. Saturday, June 13, at the Maple wood Community Center, 31735 Maplewood, Garden City.

Theater presents children's classic

Hansel and Gretel wander once again through an enchanted woods and stumble on a witch's cottage in the Marquis Theatre of Northville's musical production of Hansel and Gretel, scheduled to run through June 13.

Several local children are in the production, which is co-sponsored by the Cotton Candy Theatre Kids. Performances are at 11 a.m. at 2:30 p.m. Saturdays, June 6 and June

The theatre's production includes some interesting twists. The witch is comic rather than scary and the children's mother returns at the close for a happier ending.

"The children love it," said Inge Zayti, producer and artistic director, "Children do love to see children on stage. And the performers are polished children, with a lot of experience."

Woman brings survivor's tale to school

By Casey Hans Staff Writer

Aniko Szabo Roth was 7 years old in 1956 when Russians invaded her homeland of Hungary, causing her family to flee.

The Szabos walked 25 miles in bitter cold through swamps and ditches and bombs to escape to Andau, Austria. Along the way, her parents and younger sister were taken away at gunpoint.

She and two siblings escaped, finding Hungarian revolutionaries to help rescue her parents and sister and get everyone across the border. From there, they lived in various refugee camps in Austria and Germany for months before being allowed to emigrate to the United

"When you're trying to survive, you just do what you have to do." said Roth, recalling the events which brought her to the United States. "When we escaped, it was inthe wintertime. They had marshes and that's how we hid.'

Her story is one highlighting the

We currently have a great

1956 Hungarian Revolution, the Russian invasion to control it, and the approximately 200,000 people who fled the country for their lives and their freedom. Roth, who said "she never wants to forget" has taken her childhood experiences and is sharing them with her community,

Roth said many of her neighbors were surprised when she talked about her experiences recently at an elementary school - a program she directed representing 16 different

To prepare for the program, she sewed costumes all summer, took classes to learn various folk ethnic dances, and learned and taught the song "It's a Small World" in different languages for the program's fi-

Although she is fluent in Hungarian and speaks some German, Russian and French, the project was still time-consuming and took her most of a year to put together. Other program highlights in May included students studying various countries and cultures, a parade of flags around the school, and a sampling of food from around the world.

"I have a deep love for my old country, for this country, and for children - that's why I did it. I feel 'so proud that I have this back. ground and can share it."

In addition to her hard work here; Roth has another claim to fame: she adorned the cover of a January 1957 issue of Life Magazine, where she sat on then Vice President Nixon's lap as he visited her internment camp in Austria. She didn't know who Nixon was then, and didn't even know about the photo until someone pointed it out months lat-

Roth is married and has two children, who she said appreciate her culture. "They know that I've been through a lot."

Although Farmington Hills is her home, she has never forgotten the beauty of her native country, where her brother still lives, and wants to eventually go back to visit. That might become more of a reality, as the country continues forming its democratic government.

"In communism, you couldn't trust anybody," she said, recalling the first time her family tried to leave Hungary. A friend who said he would help was actually a member of AVO - the secret police - who planned to turn the family in.

Eventually, they came to the United States, traveling on a naval battleship where the kids spent time playing on the ship's machine guns, With all the coffee and oranges the family ate on the trip over, she still cannot stomach them to this day.

"When we came, we came with nothing. No picture, no anything. We came with what was on our backs. When you escape, you can't carry a suitcase."

The family settled in the Delray section of Detroit, where many Hungarian families immigrated. It was there, as a fourth grader at. McMillian Elementary, that a teacher encouraged her to do a Hungarian dance for the school's winter program which became a school tradition.

Roth became a U.S. citizen when she was 18. Raised as a Roman Catholic, she converted to Judaism after marriage. The Roths lived in Southfield before moving to Farmington Hills seven years ago.

Une 5th is Une 5th is One 5th is Environment Day

rotecting our environment we've been

When we've talked about protecting our environment we've been quick to point out that we're a hometown newspaper and while we don't cover the world—we care about it. We recycle office materials, everything from paper to computer ribbons and thirty-five percent of our newsprint we use is recycled.

We don't know the details of how June 5th got to be Environmental Day, but we think it's a good idea. Along with Earth Day—Every Day or anything that will get all of us thinking about preserving what we have. Like the T-shirt we saw that said, "She's your Mom, too." The earth is Mother to all of us and whatever we can do, or begin to do, that will help preserve her—whether it's looking at garbage with compost in mind, or simply recycling this newspaper—she'll be glad you did.

contributions)," Dodea said.

"(A common thought among corporate leaders) is you can put it in Washington's pocket or you can put it back into the community's pocket," she said.

But tax deductions aren't the only reason businesses contribute, she said. "There's what you would call enlightened self-interest."

Either by way of direct contributions or through charitable foundations, a corporation benefits by what it gives to the community, Dodea said. "A corporation has a larger role to play that just providing a service," she said.

An improved community, for example, makes it easier to attract employees and customers, Dodea said. An improved education system provides a better workforce.

Dayton Hudson, for example, gives grants in the communities where it is located that helps women complete requirements for a high school diploma:

"That does three things: one. Hudson's wants to be located in an educated community; two, that the more educated woman is more likely to be a consumer at Hudson's: and three, the recipients of the high school degrees or general education diplomas may one day work for Hudson's.'

Finally, businesses give because it's a reflection of the best aspect of human nature, she said. When a corporate leader talks about giving back to the community, it is not merely words.

tl's not something you learn in business school; it's something you learn at your mother's knee," Dodea

Lutz Data Systems has "adopted" Detroit Open Middle School, a magnet school. "It's kind of rare for a company of our size (150 employces) to do this."

Lutz said the commitment is not so much financial - although that plays a part - but "sweat equity."

Employees of Lutz associates act as tutors and mentors for the students in the district. The rewards have been many, he said.

Company morale is extremely high, people are motivated, and all that is reflected in the company. er good," Lutz continued.

Remember, he said, businesses are made up of people. "Corporations reflect its members."

If the people within the corporation feel a need to donate their time or money, it's natural to assume the business will take on some sort of philanthropic role.

Corporations can be altruistic, but contributing to a charitable ef. fort also does something for people within the business. "In the process of giving, we meet people of like mind, of like quality - you meet your own way of thinking.

Keeping it all hush hush

Lisa Lapides, president of Lapides Publicity Group in Birming bam, said most people would be surprised at how much corporations and businesses give to charitable

Most acts of corporate philanthropy go unnoticed because the philanthropists are reluctant to publicize their efforts. There are worries that publicizing efforts will somehow detract from them, she

"They don't want to seem selfserving. I think it's a missed opportunity," she said.

"Even in the worst case, the effort is still going to good use," she said. "What's wrong with a little positive publicity?

"We feel it's necessary for the great. . "I think that consumers do care, and it makes a difference to them in where they buy," she said. A company that makes an impact should be rewarded for its efforts if the community sees value in its work, she said.

When tastefully done, publicizing philanthropic acts by business acomplishes a lot of good, she said. More people need to know about the philanthropy of corporations, she said, because it gives the company and its employees a chance to be proud.

Just as importantly, publicizing people who are not dissonant to charitable efforts may spur further giving. "Giving is contagious," she

Corporate givers take long view

Aside from tax deductions, corporations are finding that charitable giving has other benefits like boosted employee morale.

Homeless people are $20,000 better off today because someone cared. It may surprise people to learn that it was corporate America.

On April 15, Robert J. Mylod, Michigan National Bank chief executive officer and chairman, distributed the first among eight, tri-county, non-profit agencies that provide food and shelter.

In total, employees - including a 50 percent corporate contribution - will give $70,000 to 24 shelters during 1992.

It isn't a one-year contribution either - plans call for an opportunity for employees to re-up next year. The bank is also hoping other financial institutions can become involved in a friendly competition, challenging each other to contribute more.

Business lends a hand

R. Sue Smith Dodea, program director for Corporate Giving Initiative, Council of Michigan Foundations, said last year Americans gave away $122 billion dollars. "Corporations gave a substantial portion of that.'

The Corporate Giving Initiative installment of $20,000 to be divided works with companies to help them develop organized giving programs. In addition to speaking engagements and individual assistance, the Corporate Giving Initiative also sponsors a yearly seminar designed to introduce businesses to the idea of corporate giving.

Business gives for several reasons, not the least of which is the tax benefit given to businesses that contribute to charitable causes. "Our tax system is structured so as to reward (charitable

Concrete examples of corporate America making an effort to help the less fortunate are everywhere. And as is often the case, the efforts are the brainchild of one individual.

Walter C. Elliot, a senior community lending officer in Detroit was the cata. lyst, for Michigan National Bank's recent efforts in helping the homeless.

Elliot, who grew up in Detroit and has worked in Detroit much of his life, said he's used to seeing people struggling through hard times.

But last year, something changed. "Most of the time, it's just male adults, but that one day I was driving home and I saw a woman with a sign that read: 'Homeless, need help.' That really struck me."

Opportunities for temporary employees leap significantly

Looking for a strong economic indicator other than factory orders, housing starts and stock prices, all of which can be influenced by such hard-to-predict anomalies as politics, weather and international tur-

Consider the recent history of the temporary services industry. When the economy sputters, as it did during the 1981-82 recession, temporary workers were the first to be let go. When the economy stalled, layoff notices were then issued to more permanent workers. By the same token, when work orders started to pick up in 1983, temporary workers were the first to be hired. Once the recovery was sustained, personnel departments begin attacking those huge piles of resumes.

If the pattern is valid, good times may soon be here again. According to the 1,000-member National Association of Temporary Services, the industry began to pick up in the fourth quarter of 1991, with 13 percent more people employed than at the beginning of the

Steve Wolfe, vice president for ADIA Personnel Services, which has offices in Farmington, Livonia and Southfield, said the firm has seen a 54-percent increase in profits in the first quarter of 1992 over the same period a year ago. "Since January, we've seen a 30 percent increase in terms of hours our (temporary) employees are working," Wolfe said. "The increase has forced us to focus our attention away from seeking out new husiness clients to recruiting. Most of the increase is in clerical, administrative support, light industrial and light technical." -

With a temporary-staff of 1,500 employees, Wolfe said the company has been running more newspaper ads to attract part-time employees. The list of likely candidates includes mothers with children age 2 or older, college students and people who lost their jobs in the last two years.

Carolyn Fryar, a senior vice president with Kelly Services in Troy, one of the nation's largest staffing support companies with 550,000 temporary employees, said 1992 first quarter revenues were up 14.2 percent from the same period a year ago.

History repeats itself

"It would appear as if the same thing that happened during the last recession is happening now," Fryar said. "Some companies are downsizing and going to managed services, and we're seeing some parts of the economy turning around."

From comments with area managers within the temporary-help industry, the Midwest and South have been leading the comeback.

In metro Detroit, where the biggest users of temporary help are automotive, banking and retailing companies, as well as law firms, between 10 and 30 percent more people were employed as temporaries in the first quarter of 1992 over the same period last year.

Bruce Steinberg, a spokesman for the National Association of Temporary Services, said traditionally the beginning of the year is marked by a decline in temporary help.

"The demand by firms like small-item manufacturers just mushroomed after the summer of 1991 - I mean in excess of 20 percent over the prior year," he

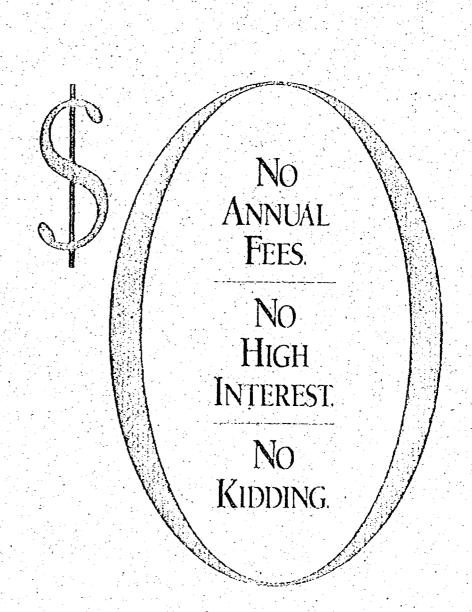

The temporary services industry supplies workers such as word processors, bookkeepers and machinists to companies on a short-term basis, often with only next-day notice, to handle employee absences, special orders and seasonal work overloads.

According to the National Association of Temporary Services, hourly wages for temporary workers range from $5.15 for a standard laborer pulling staples from files to $23.40 for a computer analyst, who comes with two or more years of formal training.

Outsourcing catches on

Mark Lancaster, director of sales and marketing for Employment Group Inc. in Troy, said in addition to solid growth for temporary employees, more and more Fortune 500 companies are outsourcing entire inhouse departments, such as mail rooms, copying centera and word processing.

"For years, it was quite common for large companies to contract with security guard and janitorial firms. Now the trend is toward administrative services," Lancaster said.

Climbers hope to stir interest in rare disease

Mark Vance's reason for trying to scale the West Buttress of Mount McKinley is one near and dear to his heart - his two daughters, Erin, 9, and Caitlin, 3, who have Batten's Disease.

An experienced mountain guide, the Anacortes, Wash., resident is climbing with Gordon Larsen of Columbia. Mo. The two men met in the 1970s when they served together in the Army and taught mountaineering skills to the Airborne Rangers.

They began their attempt to scale the West Buttress earlier this month with the idea of focusing international attention on the little known disease and raising $10 for every foot of the 20,320-foot highmountain.

Batten's disease is an inherited disorder of the neryous system that strikes in childhood, first manifesting itself with vision changes and seizures, followed by mental impairment and progressive loss of sight and motor skills.

Children with the disease eventually become blind, bedridden and demented before death.

Although it was first described in 1903 by a British pediatrician, little research has been initiated untilrecently. Its causes are still unknown and no effective treatment, cure or test to identify carriers exist even though it is the most common neurogenetic storage disorder occurring in children.

In fact, most treatment focuses an support for the families, helping them cope with the profound disabilities and dementia of the disease as well as the years of emotional trauma and medical bills.

The Denali Klimo for Batten's Kids is the first fund-raising effort to support research into the disease and has been endorsed by the Batten's Disease Support and Research Association, based in Ohio

Private donations and corporate sponsorships have funded the expedition, but individual contributions can still be made to the Batten's Disease Support and Research Association, 1992 Denali Klimb for Batten's Kids, 2600 Parsons Ave., Columbus, Ohio 43207, For more information, call (800) 448-4570.

Family learns about life from son

Dave and Linda Houghtby don't know the three men who are climbing the West Butress of Mount McKinley in Alaska, but they whole-heartedly support them and hope the climb will call attention to a rare genetic disease that claimed the life of their 17-year-old son, Dan.

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

At this moment, three men are in the process of climbing the tallest mountain in the northern hemisphere, but don't look for updates on ESPN or indepth coverage on "ABC's Wide World of Sports."

The trio isn't trying to set or break a record, just climb to the peak of Mount McKinley (Denali) in Alaska and raise $200,000 for research into the cause and treatment of Batten's Disease.

They have plenty of people rooting for them, people like Dave and Linda Houghtby of Livonia who in October 1990 lost their 17-year-old son Dan to the rare genetic disorder.

The Houghtbys are members of the Batten's Disease Support and Research Association, which has endorsed the Denáli Klimb for Batten's Kids. They are supporting the climb in memory of their youngest son.

"We experienced everything from A to Z and we feel we should do whatever we can do so other people don't have to go through it," said Linda. "It's a very devastating disease as diseases go."

First described in 1903 by a British physician named Batten, little is known about the always fatal disease. Researchers believe it is caused by missing or insufficient enzymes resulting in the body's inability to break down substances, like fat, in the normal way. The substances accumulate on brain cells. causing their destruction and loss of the function those cells perform.

Rare disease

- A rare genetic disease, it affects up to 1 in every 12,500 births, according to the American Journal of Medical Genetics. Only 470 cases are currently recorded in the United States, including five in the state of Michigan.

Dan began showing signs of Batten's Disease at age 5 although physicians diagnosed his declining vision at first as deformed retinas and later as retinitus

It wasn't until 1980, when Dan, at age 7, had a grand mal seizure that doctors, through a skin test for a simple metabolic disorder, discovered he had Batten's Disease.

"It was hard to get it all straight in our heads that he would not live a normal life span and harder to realize until the signs became more evident," said Linda, "It was hard because we have this child who is typical for his first seven years and then we're told all these awful things would take place in 10-15 years."

Those "awful things" included visual impairment progressing to total blindness, seizures which may be frequent and difficult to control, a decline in cognitive function, personality and behavorial changes, loss of communication and motor skills, facial grimacing and abnormal body movements and a general progressive deterioration to a vegetative

His was the voice heard in such classic Alka-Seltzer commercials as "Plop, plop, fizz, fizz, Oh, what a relief" it is." Beals recently traveled to Elkhart, Ind., to visit employees at Miles Inc., the company which produces the medicinal tablets. He toured company facilities, autographed copies of his book, "Think Big," and shook

"At the end of the week, I really needed some Alka-Seltzer," said Beals, who's been the only voice of Speedy all these years.

"I've never been happier as Speedy, especially last week, meeting all the people who make the product," said Beals, who visited Plymouth Thursday, May 21, to promote his new book. It's unusual for a product 'Speedy was the very first product spokesman that spokesman such as Speedy to last for 40 years and be so effective in boosting name recognition and sales, he said.

When Beals overhears people talking about Speedy and his commercials, he thinks "Doggone it, we did our job." The "Plop, plop, fizz, fizz" commercial even told consumers the proper dosage and way to take Alka-Seltzer, he said.

The Indiana based company produces more than 1 million Alka-Seltzer tablets each day, he said, and if in Dan. In the 10 years that followed the diagnosis, he lost his vision, his short-term memory and speech were affected, his seizures became more difficult to control and he developed an uncontrolable body movement.

As the disease progressed, he went from being educated in a regular classroom with visually impaired services to the trainable mental impaired program at Webster School.

He had just begun high school, when he went to Children's Hospital in Detroit for a medication adjustment related to the body movements. While undergoing treatment, he developed a respiratory problem that claimed his life on Oct. 30, 1990.

Little information

Throughout those 10 years, the Houghtbys tried to glean as much information as they could about the disease, corresponding with doctors on the East Coast and in Montreal. They also found it helpful to talk to someone - another Livonia family who had a child with Batten' Disease - who knew what they were experiencing.

Doctors believe Dave and Linda are carriers of the recessive gene, but their are no tests to determine that; just as there are no tests to determine if their oldest son Dave, 21, has the disease.

Based on one researcher's work, it's believed that Dave neither has the disease (adult onset symptoms would have shown up by now, according to the Houghtbys) nor is a carrier.

Tall and athletic, Dave shared a lot of the same interests with his

Dan loved to be a part of Dave's sports and Dave loved to be a part of Dan's Special Olympics," Linda said. "Dave handled it well, but at times it was hard to see the changes

The changes were hard on the entire family, but the Houghtbys stress that caring for him at home was a labor of love. They lived one day at a time and savored each and every one completed.

All for Dan

The Houghhtbys recall their son's bubbly and wonderful sense of humor and his hearty laugh. The medals and momentos from his years as a special athlete grace the wall of his bedroom and the many photographs are of Daniel, always with a smile on his face.

. "Because of his personality, it made it easier for us to cope," Linda said. "This day was what was important to us and we tried to make it as normal as possible and make the family as normal as possi-

"We took lots of trips; it was real important have him be able to experience everything he could," Dave added. "It was important for him and important for us as a family,"

When Daniel died, the Houghtbys asked that donations go for research efforts. It's one reason why they are interested in the monthlong Denali Klimb for Batten's Kids.

The mountain climbers want to draw attention to the little-known disease as well as leave a metal canister on the mountain, a canister containing the names of child afflicted with Batten's Disease.

The idea is to make the mountain a "beacon of hope" for the children's parents.

"Nobody knows unless they have a child die; no one knows what it's like," said Linda. "You don't ever get over the death of a child. You learn to live with it, but the pain never goes away.

"We feel we were blessed to have Dan for 17 years. He touched a lot of lives and he won't be forgotten by lots of people. We all learned a lotfrom Dan."

Camp brings city, suburban kids together

As the recent events in Los Angeles so painfully showed, America has a long way to go toward living together peacefully as members of different races and cultures. But a that the hope for the future is to mingle children of different ethnic backgrounds.

Shel and Mary Leshner through the Mark Leshner Foundation for Children have created the 21st Cen: tury City-Suburban Camp to provide a multicultural learning experience for children ages 5.10 years.

"Today's youth live in a world fraught with difficult issues and challenges," Shel said. "Children grow up in a society which attempts, either subtly or overtly, to and to teach children the values of humanity and democracy."

The Leshners established the foundation as a lasting memorial and tribute to the life and nature of the program based on the content of their 21-month old son Mark, who died May 26, 1991.

Girl Scout council honors volunteers

Volunteers from the Canton-Plymouth community were among those honored at the annual recognition dinner of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

Gene and Sue Buchan of Plymouth received the Green Tree award for supporting Girl Scouting through their training efforts. The Buchans have provided outdoor cooking instruction to many other volunteers throughout the council, and incorporate environmentally sound procedures into their lessons.

Judi Clemens of Plymouth received the "C" Guard for the Adult Appreciation Pin. She coordinated the selection process for girls applying to the council's "Looking helped where needed, lending her. Through Tomorrow's Windows," a national event held last summer.

Robin Currier of Canton also received the "C" Guard for the Adult Appreciation Pin. She has been involved in Girl Scouting for many years as a troop leader, day camp director, delegate, registrar, member of the nominating committee and chairwoman of Brownie Try-It Days. She was honored for coordinating well-planned events that provide rewarding experiences for girls.

Barbara Weir of Canton received the Order of the Silver Trefoil as recognition for her 25-year membership in Girl Scouting. Throughout her years of volunteering, she has time and talents to provide innovative programs for girls and adults.

UNITED CHURCH

Church serves hospitality, good food for homeless

BY ARLENE FUNKE SPECIAL WRITER

Neil Caldwell is exhausted but euphoric as he bustles in the kitchen of Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Redford.

Caldwell, 63, of Livonia, directs a corps of aproned volunteers serving ham and scalloped potatoes to 40 homeless people from Detroit.

Each afternoon last week, the homeless were brought by bus to Aldersgate for meals and overnight shelter. The next morning, after breakfast, the people were returned to Detroit.

"It's fantastic," said Caldwell, a retired director of pharmacy at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. "It was a total church function. And our guests were so appreciative."

By taking on this project, Aldersgate joined several metro Detroit churches which have in recent months opened their doors to homeless people for temporary, one-week stays.

This program, called Inter-Faith Hospitality Ministry, felies on local congregations. It is coordinated through the Detroit/ Wayne County Union of the Homeless, located in the Cass Community United Methodist Church's homeless drop in center near downtown Detroit.

"Shelters have more (people) than they can handle," said the Rev. Clem Parr, who has been at. the 690-member Aldersgate for seven years. "Many denominations are helping.'

According to the guidelines, all guests are expected to have made a reasonable effort to get into a shelter. Applicants are screened by the union. No alcohol or drugs are allowed.

Another chance

"The people in this program really do want help," said Winifred Ross, an intake person at the downtown Detroit center. "What they really need is another chance."

Today's group includes 28 men, 10 women and two children, ages approximately 10 and 12 years.

Some people have part-time or low-paying jobs. Others are attending job training. Some are "just helpless," said Parr, 59.

All are given a warm welcome. "We try to serve them as we would in our own house," said Caldwell, who looks bleary eyed from long hours overseeing the project at Aldersgate.

During the day, the guests are transported to school or job training. For example, two men must go to Hazel Park, where they are learning to become roofers and dry-wall installers.

"I'm hoping this has filled a need while they are trying to get on their feet," said Jean Holmes of Northville, co-chairing the project with Caldwell.

Holmes, 62, is a retired second-grade teacher at Fisher Elementa. ry School in Redford and a former Redford resident.

A reporter and photographer come around 6 p.m., shortly after the guests have arrived for dinner. The instructions are clear: Respect the privacy of the guests.

Aldersgate volunteered to shelter the homeless after several members of its congregation assisted at a similar project at Newburgh United Methodist Church of Livonia last fall.

Can-do project

Dorothy Millerd of Redford was one Aldersgate member who felt

"In a nutshell, I thought if our church couldn't do something.

"Let's face it, there but for the grace of God go I." said Betty Barget, 66, of Redford.

All of the church's groups, from youth to senior citizens, chipped in money and time to organize the meals, personal necessities and entertainment.

Caldwell estimates the cost for the week-long project at $1,500. Additional expenses will be incurred for bus transportation.

Many local businesses donated cereal, canned food and doughnuts. Garden City Hospital offered packets of personal care goods, including soap and shaving

"I appreciate the opportunity to say there are people who care about the homeless," Parr said. "The spirit of generosity has been overwhelming.'

The dinners, prepared by the various church groups, have included chicken and rice, sloppy joes and spaghetti, complete with salad, vegetable and dessert.

Friendly chatter

Tonight the retiree group is dishing up the grub. There is friendly chit-chat between workers and guests.

"Who wants seconds?" calls a volunteer, carrying a tray of apple pie wedges. "Save some room for ice cream."

There is an abundance of food. Any surplus will be donated to a soup kitchen or shelter.

During the evening, the guests watch TV and munch on snacks. Church members have arranged for special entertainment, including jugglers and singers.

Although there are no bathing facilities, a hair-washing station has been set up and furnished with towels and shampoo.

At 11 p.m. the lights go out. Men and women sleep in separate areas, using mattresses, sheets and blankets provided by the homeless drop-in center.

In the morning, after breakfast, guests are taken downtown, or to their jobs or school.

Winifred Ross of the homeless union praised the generosity of the volunteers. Aldersgate members express quiet pride in being able

"I think it has brought the church members together," Holmes said.

Such projects can produce "enormous rewards" for a congregation, according to the Rev. David Church of Newburg United Methodist, which hosted two separate sheltering sessions last fall.

"It puts names and faces and circumstances (on homeless)," Church said. "Otherwise, it's just statistics."

birders enjoy the opportunity to see noticable difference in size between eagles, particularly when they are in the wild.

Just recently, while with a group. at Ottawa National Wildlife Refuge east of Toledo on US-2, we got a chance to see three eagles within 45 minutes. One of our group spotted a "hawk" in the distance. When I looked at it initially I thought it was too large for a hawk at that distance. After a closer examination my suspicion was verified, it was not a hawk, it was an eagle.

By this time everyone in the group had the bird in their binoculars and noticed a second bird approaching the first one. There was a the two birds. Males are smaller and females are larger. These eagles were not adults, they did not display the white head and tail of the 4- to 5-year-old birds.

As we watched the two birds, they suddenly approached each other and grabbed talons. One bird was upside down and the other approached from the top, Once they grabbed hold of each other's feet they began to fall. They started high in the sky and then with tangled talons tumbled and tumbled downward out of control. They tumbled out of control for several seconds until they went out of sight below the tree top horizon.

This display of aerial accrobatics was probably a prelude to serious courtship.

Rally behind push for historic marker t'll be more than a mere marker. It'll be a window into Redford Township's frontier past. A state historic marker should stand sentry outside the old Beech Road School in Redford Union. Why? Because a school building has stood at Beech Daly and Margareta, south of Seven Mile, since 1842.

"The site is the oldest school-designated property in the township," says Sybil Raeside, who chairs the Redford Township Historical Commission. "There's a lot of history behind that property - the existing bell tower dates back to the early part of this centu-

Students as well as others will benefit from the historical snapshot provided by a wolverine-capped, green and gold state historic marker.

Says Dr. Lyle Kinsey, assistant superintendent for administrative services and Redford Union's unofficial historian:

"History is a bridge between the past and present. Unless you understand and appreciate where you've been, you really can't have enough understanding and appreciation of where you are right now."

A marker will give students, especially, "some. sense of history of the school district and surrounding community," he added.

School's role varied

In 1842, the Minor family deeded land to Redford School District No. 5 for $1. Within 40 years, a white, clapboard school had replaced the original log cabin school: Both had one room.

Before World War I, the present Beech Road chool was built. It boasted two classrooms and storage rooms. An annex was added in 1954.

By 1965, Beech housed a program for disadvantaged students. In the '70s, it became an instructional materials center, a role that continues today.

"The fact a schoolhouse has sat on the same piece of property for well over 150 years ought to be marked," said Kinsey, who has written a history of the Redford Union schools.

"We do too much historical destruction. We should call more attention to historical preservation."

Redford Union came about between 1909 and 1919. when several small districts formed a "union."

Both the township and the schools faced extinction when Detroit annexed two-thirds of each in 1926.

"We were left without a high school," Kinsey said. 'Detroit's Redford High School had been our high school. Look closely above that school's main entrance and you'll see 'Redford Union.'

That name appears on at least six elementaries built in the '20s in Detroit's Old Redford area, Kinsey says. Redford Union's high school moved three more times before finding a permanent home at Kinloch and Curtis in 1961.

After the Detroit annexation, the Redford Union school board moved to Beech Road School, then to Volney Smith School and later to what's now Hilbert Junior High. In 1961, it moved to the Beech Road School annex.

Historians team up

Kinsey, who joined Redford Union as a junior high teacher in 1956, has teamed up with Raeside to apply to the state Bureau of History for a historic marker. Ragside hopes to erect a marker by 1994.

A marker could cost up to $2,000. The historical commission will host fund-raisers. The school board must approve any district expenditure.

Cost hasn't been discussed but the school board approves conceptually of marking this significant part of Redford Union history.

Says president Jack Daggs:

"The school board all responded positively to bringing the school some recognition. Too much of history is torn down. There's been a fight over the years just to keep the building. There's a lot to be learned from preserving part of a community's past on a historic marker."

Kinsey, who helped stock the school district's historical display in the school board offices, suggested the marker idea to Racside after a similar marker went up outside the old Beech School in South Redford in 1991.

The suggestion excited Rueside:

"We don't have too many historical buildings left in the township. So we're trying to mark what few we have with some historical significance.

"I do think there's an interest in the markers. People do see them and stop. And when they do, they learn we do have some history, some interesting history, here in Redford."

Try growing roses for a summer of special beauty. But make sure you cultivate them with tender loving care.

By Marty Figley Special Writer

There's mystique to growing roses and the rewards are great, say Frank Von-Koss of Birmingham and George Hartley of Redford Township, both of whom have been growing them for many years.

Now that it's May, both men recommend pruning out the dead wood immediately, although in April more severe pruning could have: been done. Around the 10th of April is the time to begin uncovering roses, pruning and preparing for another season.

VonKoss says the beds should be cleaned at this time while Hartley prefers a fall cleanup. He also covers the bushes with bean hampers a couple of days to reduce plant shock after removing the Styrofoam cones. VonKoss agrees that gradual removal of winter protection is best.

"By removing the lower leaves of the bushes up to six inches from ground level," Hartley said, "the area will stay clean."

"Mulch may prevent blackspot by protecting the bush from splashing up under the leaves and spreading it," VonKoss added. "Mulches also insulate the soil from weeds."

"Roses are heavy feeders," Hartley said. "Each year the beds need humus (manure, compost and peat) added and worked well into the

He uses a complete fertilizer the first of May, June and July and Aug. 15. "I apply it six inches away from the bud union and lig tivate it around the plant.'

VonKoss prefers a water-soluable fertilizer. "Another booster is to apply about two thirds cup of Epsom salts (magnesium)," he said. "Water it well, then repeat this treat-

Nature spurs him to put brush to canvas

By Linda Ann Chomin Special Writer

From a pair of curious otters resting on a riverbank to a family of five raccoons living in a tree hollow, artist David Bollman steals the thunder from Mother Nature for a few fleeting moments with a dynamic display of artwork from his Southpaw Studio.

Bollman's 35-piece exhibition of oil and acrylic paintings, watercolors and prints presented by the Livonia Arts Commission and the city of Livonia continues through May 29 in the lobby of Livonia City Hall, Farmington Road at Five Mile:

"My childhood experiences (growing up in rural areas on the east side) instilled in me a passion for nature," Bollman said.

Visitors passing through the show, highlighting nature in all its splendor, become lost in the wonder of wildlife and wilderness. Timber wolves, snow geese, whistling swans, great egrets and mule deer revel in the silence.

"There's something about the spiritual aspect of nature. In my latest paintings with the light source, there's a sense of creation, of nature having been created by a being far superior to man,' Bollman said. Through his work, the nationally recognized artist hopes to teach children and adults the importance of having wild places.

"You have to look at nature. Nature is the root of all design," Bollman said.

Early experiences

At 13, Bollman learned about nature and animal anatomy firsthand through a taxidermy correspondence course.

"My philosophy with painting nature, I'm not trying to paint idyllic scenes," Bollman said. "Nature is very

Until a few years ago, Bollman said, he hunted because he believed it "necessary to manage game." After shooting a buck, he walked up to where the animal was and began to cry.

"I couldn't believe I'd killed this magnificent creature," Bollman said.

閉 BUNGALOW DEDICATION

Re-opening of the Geer bungalow at a ceremony at 4:15 p.m. Sunday, May 31, will officially complete re-creation of the Newburgh Road/Ann Arbor Trail intersection, circa 1910-25, at Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village.

The crossroads village of Newburg once was a prosperous farming community with its own post office and daily mail service.

Art Beat

The re-created village intersection at Greenmead also features a general store, an interurban waiting room, a church and parsonage, and a one-room school.

The Geer bungalow sits next to the Geer General Store. Alan and Hattie Geer sold dry goods, hardware, groceries and clixers during their ownership from 1912 to 1916.

The Geers and their two children rented the four room, 11/4-story house, described as very ordinary, from 1913 to 1916.

The white-clapboard house cost $15,000 to move in 1979 and $85,000 to restore over the past three years. It will feature period furnishings, according to the Livonia Historical Commission.

E FUTURE GROWTH

Three Observerland residents were among students at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit exhibiting concepts for future growth and rebuilding of our cities.

Les Wiley and Robert Shapton of Livonia and John Gomez of Canton teamed up with fellow students in CCS's industrial design curriculum to fashion "Design for Detroit Riverfront from Belle Isle to the Renaissance Center."

The recent exhibition was in the South Atrium of River Place Apartments on the Detroit River.

missed. Most tripods are constructed of light metals such as aluminum. These are fine because they are lightweight and easily fold for storage. For greater stability, always extend the "thickest" legs first. And, to increase sturdiness, place one of the legs pointed forward under

Two kinds of tripod heads are available. The most common has separate handles for panning and tilting. A second kind contains a single handle that unlocks a ball joint to permit turns and tilts in any direction. Which is best for you is a matter of personal preference.

When should you use a tripod? While a tripod will always produce a sharper picture, here's Here's a good rule to follow: Use your good tripod is a valutripod when the shutter speed (as a whole number) is slower than the focal length of the lens on the camera.

> For example, the nearest is 1/60 second. This means you can hand hold your camera at speeds of 1/60 or faster. But if lighting conditions demand a speed of 1/30 or slower, better get out your tripod,

When using your 200mm lens, it's OK to shoot at 1/250 second but with slower speeds, bring out that tripod.

Night is a great time for tripods. Beautiful photographs are obtained after dark not only of street scenes but also of floodlit buildings and monuments.

Another use of tripods is in shooting photographs that intentionally show motion.

It's common to "freeze" flowing water in a waterfall with a fast shutter speed, but what if that same waterfall is shot with a time exposure on a tripod?

a good rule to follow: Use your You'll get a totally different retripod when the shutter speed sult with the water appearing as a soft blur that gives a feeling a movement and mood to your photograph.

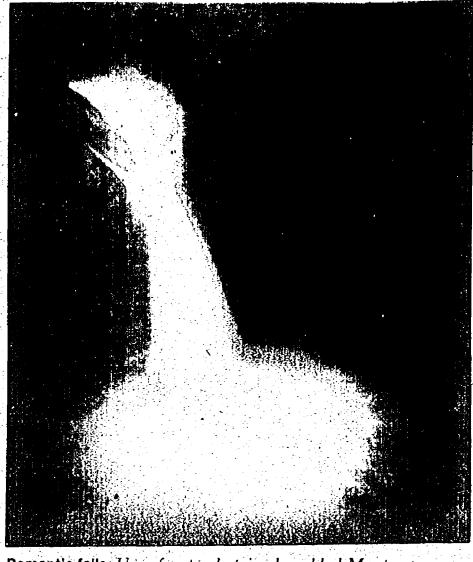

Try it sometime. Keep in shutter speed to your 50mm lens mind, you'll require a very small aperture and perhaps filtration in order to get the slow shutter speed you'll need.

> One other reminder: A cable release goes hand-in-hand with a tripod. Use one every time you take a shot on your tripod.

What if you're out shooting and the situation arises where you should use a tripod, but you've left it home? Try to improvise by tucking your elbows in, spreading your feet apart, and bracing yourself against a wall or tree. Or you can set your camera on a fence post or car hood for steadiness.

Better yet, keep your tripod handy at all times.

Enrich your creative flair

The Detroit-based Center for Creative Studies has added new classes to its summer, programming at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W.

Photography, private music lessons, an interdisciplinary workshop for children, a jazz ensemble and Suzuki play-ins are among the offerings for youths and adults,

For registration information about the photography course, call 872-3118. For music course information, call 831-2870.

The photography class will take place 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays, June 13 to Aug. 1. Instruction in camera use, film handling, exposure techniques, photographic content and aesthetics will be discussed. Individual instruction will accommodate both beginning and advanced students. Cost for the class is $130.

Other visual arts courses offered for youths and adults include drawing and painting, watercolor, landscape drawing and painting, and design.

Private music lessons in clarinet, flute, saxophone and trumpet are offered for beginners through advanced students. Basic musicianship will be developed through reading notation, practice techniques and aural skills. Tone production, technique, staging and specific performance practices of various styles or historical periods will be studied. Cost for the sixweek session ranges from $96 for 30-minute lessons, to $192 for 60minute lessons. Scholarship opportunities are available on a limited basis.

"Summer Discovery," an interdisciplinary workshop for ages 4 to 13, will take place 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. July 21-23. This course is an exciting excursion into the world of creative movement, visual arts and musical studies using Orff Schulwerk. Cost for the workshop is

A jazz ensemble for intermediate level music students of all instruments will be offered 1-2 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, July 6-30. The ensemble will rehearse standard jazz literature, and will focus on improvisation, development of sight reading, interpretation and technical skills. Cost for the ensemble is Today, he carries a sketch book into the woods during hunting season instead of a gun.

Bollman's work has won first place at shows across the country. In the past, the National Wildlife Federation commissioned him to paint stamp designs.

His work has graced the covers of Michigan Outdoors Digest and greeting cards of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and Hospice Foundation of Michigan. He was named Michigan Outdoors Artist of the Year two years in a row.

Acquiring discipline

After graduating with a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, Bollman worked as art director for a publications company. The 13-year stint in commercial art instilled in him the discipline necessary to meet deadlines and honed his design skills.

Bollman begins a painting by making thumbnail sketches. Study and research of the animal or bird and environment in which they live remain essential to creating a composition.

Preferably, Bollman studies them in their natural habitat, but if not possible, he seeks them out at 200s. nature preserves and museums.

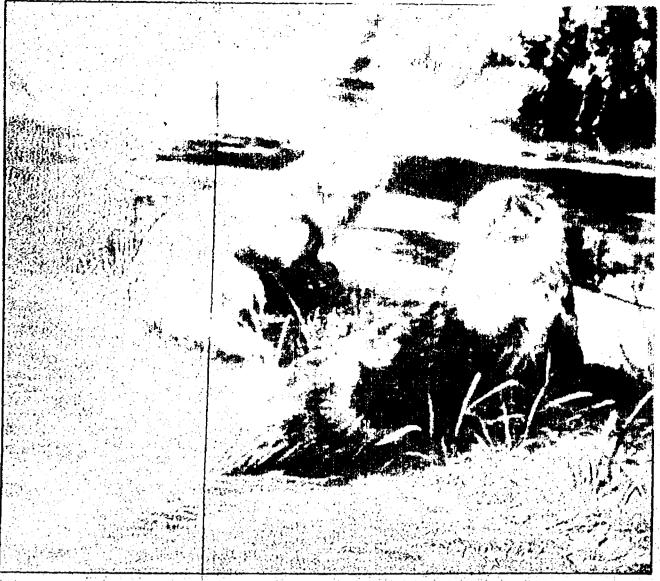

"I learned that in commercial art. I make several thumbnail sketches before I get the composition to where I feel comfortable with the gestures of the animals or birds. You want to capture the gesture or movement of an animal walking or a bird as it rides the wind." Bollman sald.

Like the impressionists, Bollman prefers plein-air, or open-air, paint. ing, working directly from life outof-doors in oils.

A painting symposium held in Yellowstone Park last summer triggered changes in his palette. Michigan's muted tones of brown, gray and forest green were magically transformed into a refreshing lightfilled spectrum of red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet.

While painting outdoors by the water's edge, Bollman heard splashing noises. He looked up to find a herd of buffalo headed straight for him. As the buffalo reached the spot where he stood, like the Red Sea, they parted, leaving him physically untouched.

With memories like these, it's easy to understand why Bollman is dedicated to raising money for wildlife organizations across the country by donating paintings.

When to spray

VonKoss sprays with a fungicide and insecticide in spring. Hartley says that early morning, after the dew evaporates, or evening, not during the hot part of the day, is the best time to spray. "In hot weather," he said, "cut the dosage by one half."

"Don't use dormant sprays in the spring because they will kill the 'eyes' (the place where the leaf attaches to the cane)," Von-Koss said.

Dormant spray should be used. about the 15th of November. The June 1990 issue of Greenhouse Manager magazine reports that Cornell University conducted (baking soda) mixed with water and found that this spray was effective in preventing an attack of blackspot.

"Soak the bushes once a week in normal weather to attain a minimum of one inch of moisture a week. Don't get water on the foliage. Morning or eatly afternoon is the best time to water," Hartley said.

nt in June after the first flush. Of course, weak stems must be cut farther down on the stem so new growth will be strong.

How to choose

When buying roses, look for a short shank (the area between the roots and the bud union). The bud union should be small and have at least three good unblemished canes growing from it.

Canes should be uniform, with the buds still dormant or just beginning to swell. The bud union must have no cracks or damage and the crown must be clean. Be sure there is no drying or darkening on the tips of canes beyond one-half-inch. Roses that are packed in bags should be solid, heavy and damp.

April 15 to May 5 is the best time to plant roses so that they can become well established, although potted roses can be planted any time during the growing season, VonKoss said. The ideal site is a protected area that gets six hours of sun daily. Roses like a soil pH of 6.5 to 7.0.

To plant bare root roses, dig a tests with sodium bicarbonate hole 12 inches deep by 18 inches wide, remove the soil and mix it with one third each pest, perlite or vermiculite. Put one cup of bone meal in the hole and then mound the soil/organic mixture. Place the plant on the mound and carefully spread the roots evenly over it.

In this temperature zone, the bud union needs to be about one and a half inches below ground "Be sure the soil is very moist. level after the soil settles. Add two-thirds soil mixture; apply water to ground level. After it soaks in, fill the hole with the rest of the soil and mound the remaining soil 8-10 inchesaround the bush. Water well, sired. Don't do this until after When buds swell, remove the soil mound.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

A good tripod is a valuable piece of equipment every photographer should own. Without many one, photographic opportunities will be forsaken and many NAGLER exciting shots missed.

Most tripods are constructed of light metals such as aluminum. These are fine because they are lightweight and easily fold for storage. For greater stability, always extend the "thickest" legs first. And, to increase sturdiness, place one of the legs pointed forward under the lens.

Two kinds of tripod heads are available. The most common has separate handles for panning and tilting. A second kind contains a single handle that unand tilts in any direction. Which tionally show motion. is best for you is a matter of personal preference.

tripod when the shutter speed than the focal length of the lens on the camera.

For example, the nearest shutter speed to your 50mm lens is 1/60 second. This means you can hand hold your camera at speeds of 1/60 or faster. But if lighting conditions demand a speed of 1/30 or slower, better get out your tripod.

When using your 200mm lens, it's OK to shoot at 1/250 second but with slower speeds, bring out that tripod.

Night is a great time for tripods. Beautiful photographs are obtained after dark not only of street scenes but also of floodlit buildings and montiments.

Another use of tripods is in locks a ball joint to permit turns shooting photographs that inten-

Try it sometime. Keep in mind, you'll require a very small aperture and perhaps filtration in order to get the slow shutter speed you'll need.

One other reminder: A cable release goes hand-in-hand with a tripod. Use one every time you take a shot on your tripod.

What if you're out shooting and the situation arises where you should use a tripod, but you've left it home? Try to improvise by tucking your elbows in, spreading your feet apart, and bracing yourself against a wall or tree. Or you can set your camera. on a fence post or car hood for steadiness.

Better yet, keep your tripod handy at all times.

Monte Nagler is a professional photographer based in Farmington Hills.

Romantic falls: Use of a steady tripod enabled Monte Nagler to make this dramatic photograph of Oregon's Punch Bowl Falls. A six-second time exposure gives the water its milky, romantic look.

Today, he carries a sketch book into the woods during hunting season instead of a gun.

Bollman's work has won first place at shows across the country, In the past, the National Wildlife Federation commissioned him to paint stamp designs.

His work has graced the covers of Michigan Outdoors Digest and greeting cards of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and Hospice Foundation of Michigan. He was named Michigan Outdoors Artist of the Year two years in a row.

Acquiring discipline

After graduating with a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, Bollman worked as art director for a publications company. The 13-year stint in commercial art instilled in him the discipline necessary to meet deadlines and honed his design skills.

Bollman begins a painting by making thumbnail sketches. Study and research of the animal or bird and environment in which they live remain essential to creating a composition.

Preferably, Bollman studies them in their natural habitat, but if not possible, he seeks them out at zoos, nature preserves and museums.

"I learned that in commercial art. I make several thumbnail sketches before 1 get the composition to where I feel comfortable with the gestures of the animals or birds. You want to capture the gesture or movement of an animal walking or a bird as it rides the wind," Bollman said.

Like the impressionists, Bollman prefers plein-air, or open-air, painting, working directly from life outof-doors in oils.

A painting symposium held in Yellowstone Park last summer triggered changes in his palette. Michigan's muted tones of brown, gray and forest green were magically transformed into a refreshing light. filled spectrum of red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet.

"I like to return something to nature if I can to benefit what I paint. PBS's nature programming can't be found anywhere else. It's a real honor to be involved with PBS," Bollman said.

Original artwork and prints by Bollman can be found at the Golden Pond gallery in Birmingham.

A drawing for "Bluebirds in Springtime," a limited-edition, signed print by Bollman, will be held May 29. Stop by the city half to see the show and submit your name and phone number.

Show hours are 8:30 a.m to 5 p.m through Friday, May 29.

Make a note on your calendar or early April 1993 to apply one ablespoon amonium nitrate per illon of water then, Both agree nat watering before and after ttilization is a must. Those litle feeder roots must not get ourned.

When to spray

VonKoss sprays with a fungicide and insecticide in spring. Hartley says that early morning, after the dew evaporates, or evening, not during the hot part of the day, is the best time to spray. "In hot weather," he said, "cut. the dosage by one half."

"Don't use dormant sprays in the spring because they will kill the 'eyes' (the place where the leaf attaches to the cane)," Von-Koss said.

Dormant spray should be used about the 15th of November. The June 1990 issue of Greenhouse Manager magazine reports that Cornell University conducted tests with sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) mixed with water and found that this spray was effective in preventing an attack of blackspot.

"Soak the bushes once a week." in normal weather to attain a. minimum of one inch of moisture a week. Don't get water on the foliage. Morning or early afternoon is the best time to water," Hartley said.

Harold W. Fish, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, reports that the University of Texas and the University of Nebraska have conducted tests and found that the more leaves that are left on the plant. Inc., 221 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, blooms. Less winter kill and earlier flowers was another benefit. mingham, MI 48009.

Of course, weak stems must be cut farther down on the stem so new growth will be strong.

How to choose

When buying roses, look for a short shank (the area between the roots and the bud union). The bud union should be small and have at least three good unblemished canes growing from it.

Canes should be uniform, with the buds still dormant or just beginning to swell: The bud union must have no cracks or damage. and the crown must be clean. Be sure there is no drying or darkening on the tips of canes beyond one-half-inch. Roses that are packed in bags should be solid, heavy and damp.

April 15 to May 5 is the best time to plant roses so that they can become well established, although potted roses can be planted any time during the growing season, VonKoss said. The ideal site is a protected area that gets six hours of sun daily. Roses like a soil pH of 6.5 to 7.0.

To plant bare root roses, dig a hole 12 inches deep by 18 inches wide, remove the soil and mix it with one-third each pest, perlite or vermiculite. Put one cup of bone meal in the hole and then mound the soil/organic mixture. Place the plant on the mound and carefully spread the roots evenly over it.

In this temperature zone, the hud union needs to be about one and a half inches below ground. "Be sure the soil is very moist level after the soil settles. Add two-thirds soil mixture; applywater to ground level. After it If three buds form on one soaks in, fill the hole with the branch, thumb prine (rub out) rest of the soil and mound the remaining soil 8-10 inches around the bush. Water well, When buds swell, remove the soil mound.

Artist speaks for Mother Earth

Artist Ken Barbb of Inkster uses his artwork to warn of the disaster awaiting Mother Earth if man fails to heed the warnings.

As Garden City's Artist of the Month, Barbb's dark, foreboding acrylic paintings continue on display through May 31 at city hall, 6000 Middlebelt, Garden City. Rebelling in purples, blacks and midnight blues, Barbb creates abstract landscapes that look more like moonscapes. "I like to give a message. That's all that's going to be. left. The earth is disintegrating because of man. We're polluting the earth," Barbb "February of the Year 2404" speaks of the future, a harren and tocky landscape lacking any vegetation.

"I did it for dramatics. It's where, you want it to be,' Barbb said.

Gloomy forecast: "Mother Earth," an abstract acrylic painting by Ken Barbb forecasts a dismal future for nature and man. He gives a chilling message by using bleak images and an unusual palette.

Unreimbursed moving expenses can be deductible to take a new job, don't assume you have to bear the financial burden of the move on your own. Uncle Sam may help you. According to the Michigan Associaton of CPAs, if your employer is not reimbursing you for your moving expenses, many of them may be tax deductible.

To take a deduction for qualified moving expenses, you must itemize on your tax return. Some moving expenses are deductible in full and others within limits. In either case, your moving costs are subject to a distance test and a time test for remaining in your new location.

To qualify for a tax deduction, Congress has ruled that the distance between your new job and

If you had to uproot your family your former home must be at least company layoffs? As long as you. 35 miles more than the distance between your old job location and yor former home. To establish how far your home is from your new job, you must use the shortest route possi-

> . Your ability to take a tax deduction for unreimbursed moving expenses also depends on how long you live in the new location. Tax law requires that you stay in the new area and remain a full-time employee there for at least 39 weeks during the 12-month period following your arrival at the new job loca-

didn't voluntarily leave your position, your moving expenses will still be tax deductible. But if you voluntarily leave the job that required your relocation, you must find another full-time position in the same location or your tax deduction will be disallowed.

If you are self-employed, you are required to meet a stricter time test. You must work full time for at least 78 weeks during the 24 months immediately following your arrival and must work at least 39 weeks in the first 12 months.

For tax purposes, moving expenses are classified into two categories: direct expenses, which are fully deductible, and indirect ex-limits. Direct expenses include those associated with moving your household Items and personal possessions to your new home. Expenses that are fully deductible are fees paid to moving companies, insurance costs for the items being moved, as well as costs for moving or shipping an automobile to a new location. You may even take a tax deduction for the costs of connecting and disconnecting utilities.

The costs you and your family members incur to get your new residence are also fully; deductible. These include expenses for transportation and lodging, and 80 percent of your meal costs. If you drove, your car, you are entitled to deduct your car or nine cents per mile. If your old home was not usable the day before you moved, you may doduct costs associated with staying elsewhere for that day, as well as any lodging expenses you incurred on the day you arrived at your new

The money you spend looking for a new home, costs associated with selling your old home, and expenses from temporary living quarters are considered indirect expenses and are deductible up to specific limits. The maximum amount you can deduct for indirect moving expenses is $3,000. No more than $1,500 incurred for house hunting trips and penses, which are deductible within the actual costs of gas and oil for for temporary living expenses is de ductible.

Despite these limits, you still have the opportunity to take some tax deductions that can ease the financial burden of moving. Real estate agent commissions, attorney fees, transfer taxes, and any other costs necessary to sell your residence and buy a new one are deductible.

CPAs point out that high income earners face certain limitations on their itemized deductions. If your adjusted gross icnome is more than $100,000 (or $50,000 if your aremarried filing separately), check with a tax adviser to determine the extent to which your moving expenses are deductible.

think the management company can do no wrong, but it has pulled the wool over the board's eves" for many years. How can I expose the management company for what they are?

You may wish to elicit the support of the association's attorney to asist you. But if the attorney and the managment company have a "relationship," you may not be able to accomplish that result, particularly if the management company

Some of the board members has been responsible for the attorney getting involved in this and other projects. I would keep a list of the alleged misdeeds by the management company and confront the management company directly at a board meeting with respect to these matters. If, in fact, the management company is undermining the other professionals servicing the association to cover its own tracks, the rest of the board should be apprised to that and should take action to remove the management company for what is clearly a breach of its fiduciary duty.

I am selling my home on a land contract with a balloon payment at the end. The land contract purchaser has been paying the monthly payments, but has not paid the taxes or insurance. I am concerned that he may default at the balloon payment because his monthly payments are very low. What can I do?

You should review the terms of are probably better off pursuing to determine what your remedies ty back or sue him for the money are. You may either declare a forfeiture or otherwise foreclose on the land contract. It may be that your : the taxes and insurance to preserve purchaser is basically stringing you your rights to the property pending along with no intent to pay the balloon payment since apparently the monthly payments are relatively nominal.

To the extent that he may be preparing to walk, in which case you that is owed. In any event, check to see whether you have a right to pay further legal action. You obviously do not want the property to revert to the taxing authority because of nonpament of taxes and you do not want a casualty to occur for which you do not have insurance. You should attend to these matters as soon as possible.

Top builders exchange ideas

Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, co-chairman of Holtzman & Silverman Cos. of Farmington Hills, gave as well as received during the 10th annual Builders 100

Conference in Phoenix. Builder Magazine, published by the National Association of Home Builders, sponsored the threeday gathering for the largest volume residential builders around the coun-

Silverman, attending his seventh conference, spoke about a unique financing arrangement involving building trades pension funds for his Village Green of Troy East apartment development.

Gilbert Silverman

"They found it interesting," he said. "The general consensus of the group is that privately owned companies have an edge. They're more reactive. They can make decisions quicker." Holtzman & Silverman, a private company founded in 1919, placed 66th in Builder Magazine's ranking with 712 housing starts last year.

Silverman sees great value in attending the confer-concepts, issues, solutions, directions, product line,". he said. "Everything from finance to executive compensation structure, from architecture to best-selling. floor plans.

What specifically made an impression?

"A company's reputation has become more and more important to the buying public in terms of service, quality, length of time in business, track record," Silverman said. "Consumers coming into the '90s are much more product conscious and product

"Another thing we found interesting is that more and more builders are doing something we learned about last year," he added. "They're spending more time designing exactly what buyers request rather than what the builder thinks is best.

"We do consumer preferencing. We put together a group who have bought or consider buying. What they say they want, we give them, generally," Silver-

Two other area builders qualified for the Builder 100 Conference but didn't attend.

Pulte Home Corp., based in Bloomfield Hills, ranked second nationally with 6,686 units finished last year and Edward Rose Building Enterprises of Southfield ranked 48th with 845 units, according to Builder Magazine.

Suburban builders rediscover Detroit

'Unmet market demand' has piqued the interest of area builders whose homes will be open for viewing during June's Homearama in Detroit. Visitors will stroll through the first major subdivision built in the city in nearly 30 years.

Builders with ties to Observer & Eccentric communities continue to put finishing touches on more than half of the 25 houses under construction for he Detroit Homearama scheduled June 21 in Victoria Park Subdivision.

The second of three Homearamas onsored this year by the Builders Asiation of Southeastern Michigan is first nationally in an urban rather in suburban setting, promoters say.

BBC Group of Farmington Hills, encicke & Krue of Bloomfield Hills, rosswinds Communities of West Bloomfield, Singh & Shapiro of Southfield and Biltmore Properties of Troy are building two models each for the showcase of idea homes. Janet Compo of Farmington Hills is constructing

"The city is my hometown," Compo said. "I am very much concerned about what happens. If we don't revitalize all American cities, we're killing our-

Compo's three Homearama models, which include lot, landscaping and other extras, are priced at $96,500 to $110,000. All three already have been sold. Compo said she expects to build upwards of 20 houses in Victoria Park and 10 in the nearby Berry Subdivision starting at about $200,000.

She and her husband, James, normally build custom houses priced at several hundred thousand dollars.

"We've always built in all price ranges and have done a tremendous amount of remodeling," Compo said. "We can't put all things in (Homearama models), but we try to maintain our quality control."

Stephen Taglione, president of BBC Group, pointed out that the Homearama site is the first large subdivision to arise in the city in three decades.

Fewer concessions in office leasing

The office market in the northern and western suburbs showed signs of improvement during the first three months of this year, according to separate reports prepared by Cushman & Wakefield and Grubb & Ellis.

Generally speaking, office owners could be cheered that no new major projects are under way and fewer concessions are being offered to prospective tenants in existing buildings. Grubb & Ellis and Cushman & Wakefield found a silver lining in every O&E submarket. Both firms, property managers/brokers/consultants, are based in Southfield. • Effective rental rates in Southfield averaged 10 percent

- below asking rates for the first quarter of this year compared to 12 percent for the January-March period of 1991. - Grubb & Ellis. • Troy topped all suburban markets in terms of leasing
- activity during the quarter with 264,000 square feet. Cush-• Vacancy rates in Birmingham declined to 18.1 percent
- from 19.2 during the first quarter of 1991. Cushman & :Wakcfield. • Tenants are renewing in existing buildings and available
- space in the Birmingham/Bloomfield market is generally scattered except for the newly opened J. West Hunter Building. — Grubb & Ellis.

- · Leasing activity tripled and weighted average asking rent in Farmington Hills, the second lowest in the metro area, remained stable at $16.50 per square foot. - Cushman & Wake-
- field. · Overall absorption in Livonia, Farmington Hills and Novi during just the first quarter was 80 percent of total absorption for those three communities during all of 1991. -Grubb & Ellis.

'We're still in a digestion process taking in overbuilding of the late '80s," said Keith D. Sant, director and branch manager for Cushman & Wakefield of Michigan.

'We're getting through it and starting to see signs of firming in the market in terms of rents and vacancies," he added.

"I think . . . the fact that there's virtually no new construction being added, we're in a transition period going from a market with an awful lot of concessions to fewer concessions,' said Dennis R. Burnside, senior vice president for Grubb &

"Tenants will not see concessions of the late 1980s," he

"Deals so aggressive that landlords can't cover debt service could be a had deal long term for tenants," Sant said. "They may not be able to satisfy building services."

Incentives needed

He sees good things shead for residential construction within the Detroit city limits if several things fall into place - low-cost land, available mortgage money and property tax breaks for buyers in depressed urban communities.

"A builder's job is to seek out new markets," Taglione said. "We perceived an unserved market within the city limits and we went after

"We did find groups of people looking for new housing . . . generally professional types - engineers, teachers. People who would make great neighbors anywhere, any place, anytime," he said.

The value of lots made available to Homearama builders for $1. translated into a savings of about $30,000 for city buyers, Taglione

His floor plans? "They came right out of product line from eight subdivisions around town," he said. Both models - a 1.650-square-foot colonial priced at $102,990 and a 1,340-square-foot ranch priced at $111.000 - are still available. Buyers have options on nine other lots available to Taglione.

John Beneicke, president of Beneicke & Krue, said he may make stock to Detroit, he said. money on his Homearama models. Then again, maybe not.

"Usually, when we get involved in a subdivision, we look at 100, 200 homes ... to justify a concentrated effort. In our business, we see this (Homearama) as a great opportunity to put something back into the city," he said.

Savings realized

Beneicke usually prices his houses in suburbia at $250,000 to $500,000. His two models in Detroit are priced at $145,000 for four bedrooms and $135,000 for three.

Those Homearama models typically are half to two-thirds as large as his suburban houses, Beneicke

"We're passing along the free lot to purchasers," he said. "We designed homes for Homearama smaller. We haven't cut down quality, just the size."

Crosswind Communities jumped on the Homearama bandwagon fairly late, said David Eisenberg, a vice president. "When we saw what the demand was, we felt, 'Why not be part of it?' It makes sense."

Crosswinds, which offers models in Westland for less than $100,000, has priced a four-bedroom, 21/2 bath colonial at Homearama for $98,990. Crosswinds has sold one model and several other lots in the subdivi-

Eisenberg anticipates that Crosswinds also will build in Victoria Park's second phase. Partnerships between financial institutions, the city of Detroit and builders is what will bring even more new housing

"When something like that happens, everyone is willing to cooperate, it does work," Eisenberg said.

Biltmore Properties, primarily a residential developer, consulted with city engineers and lawyers to rework the Victoria Park Subdivi-

"We did it because the builder's association decided to do it and I'm on the board of directors," said Abe, Ran, Biltmore vice president.

Building hubbub: Victoria Park, site of the next Homearama, receives its finishing touches before opening to visitors on June 4.

AIA awards at Cranbrook

Brendan Gill, author and New Yorker architecture columnist, will discuss the "Disneyization in Architecture" in his dens. keynote address at the 1992 honor awards program of the American Institute of Architects Detroit on Saturday at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills.

For the first time, the AIA is inviting the public to attend. "This is the first year the program has included daylong activities which highlight the beauty and importance of architecture," said Robert Ziegelman, president of AlA Detroit. "We wished to make our efforts available to the general public so they they too could see and appreciate the significant impact architecture has on our surrounding environment.

The program scendule includes:

• A tour of Cranbrook Academy, starting at 1 p.m., and an architecture exhibit including the 1992 AIA Detroit winnning submission, respesentative work of local schools of architecture, winning projects of the Michigan Architectureal Foundation High School Design Competiton and a student competition that focuses ond eveloping shelters for the homeless. The art museum will also be open.

• Gill's speech at 2:30 p.m. in deSalle Auditorium.

. Discussion by representatives from the winning architectural firms on their projects at 3:30 p.m. in the lower galand drawing boards will be on display.

• Presentation of awards at 4:15 p.m. in deSalle.
