Educator recalls school days

Tom Svitkovich's career in the Wayne-Westland school district covered everything from being a student teacher to the deputy superintendent. In those 29 years, he was involved in a teachers' strike and handling a few students who showed up during a storm.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Snow had piled up a foot deep on that wintry morning in 1978, but Wayne-Westland school officials didn't cancel classes.

School bus drivers somehow made the trek along Palmer Road — then a mucky, dirt road — and dropped off students at Stevenson Junior High School. Only 200 of 1,200 pupils showed up. Many teachers stayed home.

Inside Stevenson, principal Thomas Svitkovich shook off the cold and made the school a warm, inviting place by organizing an impromptu assembly.

"We sang songs, we did skits, and we gave away free ice cream," he said. Then students went home early.

He made the best of a bad situation. That's been his style, supporters say.

Memories have come flooding back as Svitkovich, 49, prepares to leave Wayne-Westland after 28½ years. His last day on the job is Tuesday.

The next day he will achieve a career landmark by becoming superintendent in the Flint-area Carmen-Ainsworth district. He could've taken some vacation time between jobs. But his dedication here wouldn't let him, supporters say.

"Wayne-Westland's loss is certainly the greatest gain that Carmen-Ainsworth could ever have," said his friend and mentor, Dennis O'Neill, a longtime Wayne-Westland superintendent.

Svitkovich has taught or been an administrator at every junior high and high school — six altogether — in the district. He talked about his career last week as he drove his van from school to school during an on-the-road interview.

Mayor hints at shake-up

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Is there a major administrative shakeup coming at Westland city hall?

Mayor Robert Thomas, who fired his assistant Ed "Smokey" Gunther last week, said he is "looking at more changes" as he re-evaluates the remaining staff members. Changes, if any, would be made in the next two months, he said.

The firing of Gunther, a 35-year Nankin Township and city of Westland employee, is effective this Wednesday.

He has been Thomas' aide since the mayor took office 2½ years ago. Previously he was in several union positions as well as being personnel director under Mayor Tom Taylor from 1976-80.

Gunther, who has applied for retirement benefits, will be replaced by George Gillies, parks and recreation director.

Gunther, 62, told the Observer in a telephone interview Thursday that he knew there was a problem with the mayor in recent months and that the relationship was deteriorating. But he admitted he was still surprised when he was given the letter announcing his firing late Tuesday afternoon, June 23.

He and Thomas said in separate interviews that there was a disagreement between them in the past year on how things should be run.

"He (Thomas) told me 'now's the time for a change,'" Gunther said.

Gunther said that he and the mayor recently had disagreements on presidential political candidates but he didn't feel that was a factor in the firing. Gunther said he is a H. Ross Perot backer.

Mayor Thomas agreed that there have been disagreements on city policy matters or the way in which policies should be implemented.

Mobile dwellers like where they're parked

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

See related story, 2A

Several Westland Meadows homeowners have strongly denied charges by other residents that living conditions in the controversial mobile home park have dramatically deteriorated.

"I'm happy where I am," resident Sam Sich said.

Satisfied residents strongly objected to published reports in which some homeowners charged that poor living conditions could pose potentially life-threatening health risks and destroy property values.

Some residents have said their homes are sinking into the ground and that their walls and floors have been bending and buckling from the pressure. Others have complained of power lines stretching across the ground and dead-end streets that block emergency vehicles.

The residents recently took their concerns to the Westland City Council. But Rick Duhl, who manages the mobile home park in the city's far southeast end, has indicated that residents are upset because of a $15-a-month rent increase on their lots.

Jennifer Duchene, who lives there with her husband and 1-year-old child, said they've been happy.

"We've been quite satisfied," she said. "It's one of the finer mobile home parks I've seen, and I've seen quite a few."

Sich agreed with Duhl that residents whose homes appear to be sinking probably didn't receive the service they should have gotten from companies that installed faulty foundations for the mobile homes.

Offices closed

With the Fourth of July holiday come several closings. Westland city offices will be closed Friday, at 1 p.m. Friday, the Westland Post Office will close, as will the Westland Center branch of the post office. Stamp vending machines will be available at post office lobbies, however. Also, mail delivery will be made on Friday, but not on Saturday. In addition, Westland city offices will be closed Friday, and 18th District Court will be closed next Monday.

Mayor wins award

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas has won an award from the Michigan Police Officers Association. He recently won the award for his continuing efforts to work cooperatively with the Westland Police Department, upholding a promise he had made during his mayoral campaign.

PLACES & FACES

Shopping spree

B.K. McWhinne of Livonia recently won a two-minute shopping spree at Westland Foodland. A total of 25 Foodland stores throughout Michigan participated in the promotion. McWhinne's shopping spree occurred at the store at 31313 Ann Arbor Trail in Westland.

Getting the grade

Kimberly J. Hovey of Westland has been chosen to receive the Michigan State University Board of Trustees GPA Award, given in recognition of academic achievement. Only six spring term graduates were honored. Hovey had the third highest grade point average, with a 3.9644 in hotel, restaurant and institutional management. She is a graduate of John Glenn High School.

Another Glenn success

L. Douglas Baker, an '87 graduate of John Glenn High School, has been awarded a scholarship to study in Germany for one year and is expected to depart in July. He received a bachelor's degree in computer engineering from the University of Michigan during spring commencement, and was chosen departmental scholar for the class of 1992. He's currently working for INTEL in Portland, Ore. When he returns from Germany, he will continue to study under a prestigious three-year National Science Foundation grant. He is the son of Lyman and Mary Lynn Baker of Westland.

District could lose in House vote on aid

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

SCHOOLS

Suburban schools districts are holding their breath in anticipation of Tuesday's state House vote on school aid.

Some western Wayne districts could lose millions of dollars if the House limits per-student aid, state social security contributions, tax base sharing credits and alters the formula for adult education grants.

All three measures were contained in a bill approved narrowly Thursday by the state Senate.

"There's some big losers: Livonia, Grosse Pointe, Plymouth-Canton and I don't see any other district gaining too much," said Don Manthe, associate superintendent of the Wayne County Regional Education Service Agency.

The bill's approval stunned many area school districts.

"We're hopeful something can be done in the House, but we honestly thought we had our best chance in the Senate," said Michael Furlong, finance director for the Livonia Schools.

Livonia expects to lose $3.9 million if the bill passes in the Houses.

Plymouth-Canton officials weren't available for comment Friday, though Manthe said the district could expect to lose at least $1.6 million in state aid.

Out-of-formula districts — those that receive state aid only for specific programs are considered the biggest losers. Poorer in-formula districts could see an increase in state aid, while the action is also expected to help balance the state budget.

State Sens. William Faust, D-

Westland; R. Robert Geake, R-Northville and George Hart, D-DeARBorn all voted against the bill. Faust's district includes Westland. Geake represents Livonia, Plymouth, Canton Township, Redford Township and Plymouth Township. Hart's district includes Garden City.

Major proposed changes include:

- Per-student aid — 18-20 year-olds with high school diplomas would no longer be counted, cutting aid to districts with aggressive adult education programs.

- Adult education — In an additional change, certain classes — known as "slot funded" — would no longer be automatically financed. Instead, money for these programs would be placed in a new, competitive grant programs with payment capped at $25 million.

- Social Security — State payments would be limited under a complex formula based on enrollments.

- Tax base sharing — Payments are suspended pending outcome of a suit involving Macomb County.

All four actions were among those contained in a joint House/Senate conference committee report.

Tomorrow's will be an all-or-nothing vote, Manthe said.

"The problem with the conference reports is you either vote them up or down," he said. "There's no room for compromise."

Mobile home residents get city backing

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Westland Meadows mobile home residents gained a promise from the city of Westland administration last week to pressure the state to resolve safety problems at the 722-home development.

The meeting of four Westland Meadows representatives and Mayor Robert Thomas and city attorney Charles Bokos and staff attorney Keith Madden.

During the 90-minute meeting in the mayor's office, all agreed that the residents of the development on the northeast corner of Merriman and Van Born agreed to compile a list of problems and submit them to the administration.

The administration said it would work with the Westland Meadows management to correct problems. Where needed, the city would "pressure" the state's mobile home commission to work out other issues, Bokos said.

During the meeting, Madden stressed that the state commission, part of the state commerce department, has responsibility for most of the problems raised by the meadows.

Steven Syer, chairman of the Westland Meadows' legal committee, said the most serious problems involved exposed utility lines which represent a safety threat to children playing nearby.

City Building Director Robert Fritz issued a report 10 days ago, after the problems surfaced at a city council meeting, summarizing his meeting with Rich Puhl, Westland Meadows' operations manager.

Fritz was given an assurance that the work would be done within two weeks.

The list of things to be resolved included the cleanup of vacant lots, removal or burial of communication cables, cutting tall weeds near the storage area, cover water meter pits which aren't located under mobile homes.

One problem raised by Syer and Matt Ball, Westland Meadows Homeowners Association president, was the inaccurate placing of some mobile homes on foundations.

Mayor Thomas told the homeowners that the city will take care of the problems under its responsibility. He added that the mobile park owners want to correct problems to avoid the negative publicity.

The fire department will also review the entire park and give him a report, Thomas said.

"I really don't think it's the park's fault," Sich said.

Westland Meadows residents buy their homes, put them in the mobile home park northeast of Van Born and Merriman and rent their lots for $310 to $325 a month. They pay an extra $10 for each pet or occupant beyond two.

Sich indicated that some residents expect the management to attend to matters that are the responsibility of homeowners.

"You've got to put some effort into taking care of your place," he said. "It takes a little TLC no matter where you live. I haven't had any problems, as long as I abide by the rules. The park has treated me very well."

When Sich noticed a leak near a water meter, he notified management and was surprised that the leak was checked about 15 minutes later.

"They were right there after I called," he said.

Duchene agreed that service has been satisfactory.

"You're never going to be 100 percent satisfied, but we're happy here," she said.

Duhl has said some homes sink slightly because companies delivering mobile homes sometimes don't install them properly on their foundations. He also said a storm drain sometimes causes water to stand because it empties water slowly.

He suggested the problems that do exist aren't the fault of management, as some residents have claimed.

Some residents have complained that their concerns have been ignored repeatedly. One resident who attended a recent council meeting suggested that some parts of Westland Meadows should be referred to as "Westland ghettos."

One example he cited was how to handle employees' unions in the areas of contract negotiations and grievances.

The mayor told Gunther several months ago that there may be a change and that he wanted to see more improvements in the mayoral office. But things didn't change, he said.

"I asked him to retire, but he wanted to continue until the balance of my first term," said Thomas, whose term concludes in 18 months.

Gunther, a local resident for 51 years, previously served as an ordinance enforcement officer, animal control officer and building inspector as well as personnel director.

Gillies, 54, joined the city administration under then-Mayor Charles Griffin in 1985 after serving as a lecturer for a motivational company. In an interview, Gillies said he will do more public speaking in his new position to promote the city and help build a strong administrative team for Thomas and "make Westland a better community."

"I'm a people person," he said, as he cited his many accomplishments in the recreation department, such as upgrading local parks and initiating a landscaping program for municipal buildings, particularly city hall.

He will also help direct the recreation department as well as handle his new duties until a new director is named by the mayor and confirmed by the city council.

Gillies admitted that he changed his mind about the new position. He said last winter that he wouldn't take the post of mayoral assistant.

Thomas said that Gillies has done an excellent job as recreation director.

Starts career

As a 21-year-old senior at Eastern Michigan University, Svitkovich took on his first local assignment in 1963 as a student teacher at Franklin Junior High School. He worked under teacher Ray Fritz, who was nearing retirement.

A year later, Svitkovich earned his bachelor's degree from Eastern and got a job at Marshall Junior High, where he worked for a half-year before being transferred to Adams Junior High. Earning $4,900 a year, he was only several years older than his students.

In 1965, he helped to start the district's alternative program for troubled students — one of the state's first. That program remains in place and has kept the dropout rate in check.

That same year, he married his wife, Sharon, and joined a teachers' strike during the last week of school. Students missed some class time, but the strike didn't interfere with graduation ceremonies.

"It was a tense time," he said.

In 1967, Svitkovich began teaching math at Wayne Memorial High School and rose rapidly through the ranks, receiving his master's degree from Eastern in 1968 and becoming

'This community has given me a lot in return for what I've given the community. It's been a great place to live, raise a family and get an excellent education for my children. I want to thank the people here. And I will never forget them.'

Tom Svitkovich

Wayne Memorial assistant principal in 1969. The school had 2,600 students — twice its current enrollment — when he worked there.

He left Wayne Memorial in 1977 to accept his first principal's job at Stevenson Junior High. By then, he and his wife had two children, Tim and Lisa, now in their 20s, and had moved from his native Allen Park to Wayne.

"We wanted our children to attend Wayne-Westland schools because they had a tremendous reputation," he said.

Three years later, Svitkovich climbed another rung and became John Glenn High School principal, earning a hard-line reputation among students. His John Glenn experiences were among his best and worst.

Memories of high school seniors being killed in graduation-night car accidents "still haunt me," he said.

One morning at John Glenn, Svitkovich recalls being shocked when he arrived at school and saw that a row of tall trees in front of the school had been chopped down by construction crews installing sewer lines along Marquette Road. The city hadn't warned the school.

When students and teachers arrived, the school turned the incident into a dual lesson about the environment and the necessity of public relations.

Over the years, some students have become Svitkovich's personal friends. He still gets Christmas cards from some, and he's seen some become successful in local businesses.

Somewhat of a businessman himself, he has earned the district hundreds of thousands of dollars by securing lease agreements for unused buildings.

Joins cabinet

In 1984, Svitkovich climbed to the cabinet level, where he has remained. He worked under O'Neill in an administration that — despite having some strong supporters — took some hard knocks in the last two years. Critics have cited concerns about rising taxes in a district that they perceive as on the decline.

O'Neill stepped down under school board pressure in November and Svitkovich, as deputy superintendent, assumed his duties. Stung by O'Neill's treatment, Svitkovich again made the best of the situation and led the 16,000-student district.

But, saying "it's time to move on," he will go to Carmen-Ainsworth on Wednesday, despite mixed feelings about leaving a school district where he had expected to retire.

"This community has given me a lot in return for what I've given the community," he said. "It's been a great place to live, raise a family and get an excellent education for my children. I want to thank the people here. And I will never forget them."

Dancers to perform at Churchill

People will have a chance to see the portrayal of an ancient Mexican ritual when the "Grupo Folklorico Guetza" folk dancing group performs at Churchill High Friday, July 10.

The performance will be at 8 p.m. Tickets will cost $8 for adults and $5 for senior citizens and students under 12.

The group consists of 36 male and female 16-22-year-old students who will stay with several Livonia families.

During their stay in Livonia, they will also perform in Traverse City, Grosse Pointe, and an assortment of area Rotary Clubs.

Queen Karen will reign over festival

Karen Lee, frequently a strong competitor in pageants, won her first crown Saturday to become the 1992 Miss Westland Summer Festival queen.

A Schoolcraft College student, Lee, 19, was crowned the queen of the 22nd annual festival at a pageant held at Westland Center.

The queen, a 1991 graduate of John Glenn High School, admitted she was surprised when emcee Michael Frayer announced her name.

First runner-up is Ginny Denison, followed by Karen Deschaine, second runner-up.

The pageant was the first event to kick off the festival, which will continue with a parade scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday and continue the next four days with events at the Civic Center area.

The festival queen, daughter of Barbara Lee and the late Edward Lee, who died in December, was among the top 20 in the Miss Michigan World pageant; a finalist in the Wayne-Westland Young Woman of the Year program; and a nominee for the John Glenn High School homecoming court in her senior year.

Lee recently completed her first year at Schoolcraft College. She plans to attend Central Michigan University and major in fashion and interior decorating while also pursuing a modeling career.

Denison drew substantial applause from the Westland Center audience. She lost her left leg nearly two years ago in a boating accident in which a person was eventually charged with felonious assault with a water vehicle.

The other 12 contestants were Erica Abicht, Michelle Audet, Jennifer Baker, Nicole Finnigan, Tami Garton, Suzanne Gossett, Angela Jackson, Carrie Mijal, Jenny Patero and Melissa Walters.

Crowning the new queen was Dionnia Brady, last year's pageant winner. Lee, Denison and Deschaine each received gifts from Westland Center and center merchants.

Judges for the event were Ed Wager, festival committee chairman; Claudia Frederick, Westland Center marketing director; Ed Gunther, city of Westland mayor's assistant; Karen Grandison, Westland Eagle reporter; and Leonard Poger, Westland Observer community editor.

Pageant committee members were Pamela Martin, chairwoman; Erica Wager, co-chairwoman; and Susan Byrom, Susan Hatfield, Sandi Wager and Eileen DeHart.

The pageant was open to unmarried women between 17 and 23 who are Westland residents. They contestants were judged on the basis of poise, appearance, speaking ability and their resumes.

The annual festival was initiated as a spring event for the Memorial Day weekend in 1971 by then-Mayor Eugene McKinney. Later, the festival was moved to the Fourth of July week, with a giant fireworks display culminating the event.

During the festival this week, there will be carnival rides, bingo games, children's contests, adult contests, free entertainment and food booths, all in the Civic Center, on the south side of Ford, east of Newburgh.

Wednesday's parade will start at 7 p.m. from the Wildwood Plaza parking lot, Ford and Wildwood, and proceed west to City Hall.

Continental Cablevision subscribers will be able to view a tape of the pageant and coverage of the upcoming festival on Channel 11.

Students win for write stuff

Adams Junior High School students swept their division in the Westland Cultural Society's annual writing contest. Students at the school on Palmer near Venoy won the top three places and all three honorable mention awards.

A ceremony was held by the society at the Bailey Center to present the awards to the winning students.

"Fantastic Fiction" was the name of the contest in which the top two prizes went to Benjamin Rodriguez, a ninth-grader, for his story, "Snapshots," and to Amanda Supernois, a sixth-grader at Elliott Elementary, for "The Secret of Majica."

The two categories were senior division for junior high pupils and the junior division for elementary school students.

Some 159 students entered the writing contest, established five years ago by the society to encourage and celebrate imaginative writing among students in grades four through nine. Their stories ranged from encounters with space aliens and silver flying horses to discoveries of treasures and sparrow stones to a poignant account of a beloved family member's struggle with Alzheimer's disease.

Following is the complete list of winners:

Senior Division — first prize: Benjamin Rodriguez, "Snapshots" ninth grade, Adams Jr. High; second, Kevin Supernois, "The Mystical Treasure of the Cave" ninth grade, Adams; third, RyAnn Klassen, untitled, eighth grade, Adams.

Honorable mention — Tauheeda Sealie, "Alzheimer's Disease Dementia State", ninth grade, Adams Junior High; Barbie Gauthier, "Strawberry Fields Forever", ninth grade, Adams Junior High; Steve McKee, "Death Dreams" eighth grade, Adams Junior High.

County finishes fence around Cooper

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

The final section of fencing around Cooper school, put up last week by Wayne County, should reduce residents' exposure to toxic metals buried on the 40-acre site on Ann Arbor Trail.

Now that the four sides of the site are fenced in, residents will no longer be able to get onto the school grounds.

"I think the residents should be happy, now that it's totally closed off," said Art Howell, the district's director of operations. "The kids can't get in there, and that's great."

The one main concern now for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, is water flowing from the site into a drain and then into the Rouge River, said DNR spokeswoman Mary Vanderlaan.

"There could be a migration of the contaminants into surface water," she said.

More than a year after news of the district's first toxic site first surfaced, little has been done to find out just what lies buried under the school grounds, site of a former commercial landfill.

Initial soil tests taken by the DNR showed levels of PCBs, lead, cadmium, mercury, arsenic, DDT and cyanide.

The DNR told Livonia Public Schools, which owns the Westland school site, to take soil borings and do other investigative work.

The district put together a plan to take the borings, but has yet to implement it. In fact, school officials recently demanded that the DNR help in the site investigation, especially as it related to finding responsible parties to help foot the clean-up bill.

The DNR has yet to respond to the demand.

However, Vanderlaan said her office might ask the state for financial help to investigate the Cooper site.

"Each DNR district decides what sites need attention and asks the state for bond funding," Vanderlaan said. "We don't know what our chances are of getting the money."

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Final link: The entire Cooper school site on Ann Arbor Trail is now fenced in and much safer for area residents. Wayne County crews installed the fence last week on the southern edge of the property, along Edward Hines Drive.

If the DNR should get state money for the Cooper site, Vanderlaan said the district would eventually have to pay the DNR back. She estimated site investigation costs at $200,000.

Gibson offers summer classes

Gibson School, a private school for gifted students, has a wide assortment of programs for its 16th annual summer enrichment program.

There will be two one-week sessions, July 6-17, at the Gibson School, 12925 Fenton, near I-96 and Telegraph in Redford.

The classes, each with a creative twist, are designed to spark a child's interest.

SC administrators receive new contract

A new three-year contract between Schoolcraft College and its administrators union was ratified last week by college trustees and union members.

The contract calls for a yearly raise of 5 percent for the coming year and 4 percent in each subsequent year for members of SCAAP — the Schoolcraft College Association of Administrative Personnel.

Average yearly wages were $51,000 in the 1991-92 school year for the 29 SCAAP members.

Health insurance deductibles are increased for single subscribers and families under the new contract.

The contract was the second settled under the college's new "target specific" bargaining strategy.

"We feel the new strategy worked very well, it let us all work out problems by giving us access to information," SCAAP director Jean Pike said.

Trustees approved the contract Wednesday after discussing it in closed session.

Host families needed now

Host families are needed from the Garden City, Westland, John Glenn and Livonia Franklin attendance areas for high school students from Europe, South America and Asia for the school year beginning in September.

English-speaking students, aged 15-18, will arrive in Michigan in late August and return home either in mid-January or mid-June 1993.

Schoolcraft, OCC turn to tuition increases

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan's two-year colleges are keeping their fingers crossed for a successful property tax drive Aug. 4 at Wayne County Community College.

If voters say yes to a one-mill tax increase, WC3, the only community college district in the state without a local tax, would no longer be able to draw a special $7.2 million subsidy from Lansing.

"That $7.2 million would help us all," said Schoolcraft College vice president A.B. (Butch) Rabe. "Of course, they (state legislators) don't say they will redistribute that to us."

For years state lawmakers have threatened to cut out WC3's special $10 million subsidy that none of the other 28 community colleges received. Last year they cut $1 million.

This fiscal year, a joint Senate-House conference appropriations committee cut $2 million more, leaving $7.2 million. (WC3 still gets a general fund appropriation of $14 million like all the rest.)

Otherwise, state aid to community colleges is almost flat — $240 million for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 versus $241 million in the current year.

That's about equal to the state aid Michigan State University gets.

Hidden cost hike

"Pretty slim pickin's," said Oakland Community College VP Tony Jarson, who argues there's actually a hidden cut in the bill.

"The worst part, if you look at our budget, is what they did with retirement."

"A year ago, we paid 9 percent of base salaries to retirement. In fiscal 1991-2, they (state) raised that to 11.2 percent. As of Oct. 1, 1992, it goes to 12.03 percent."

"This is a $1.2 million cost increase. We're doing worse than two years ago.

"The only segment of the budget that got nailed with these increases is community colleges."

The new state budget will send OCC $17 million, which on paper is a $300,000 increase, not counting the pension cost increase.

"We also got the property tax freeze," said Jarson, referring to the one-year moratorium the Legislature voted on raising property assessments to meet real estate inflation.

OCC has raised tuition per credit hour by $2 to $41 for residents and by $4 to $69 for non-residents.

Total OCC budget will be $69.5 million, with less than 25 percent coming from state aid.

"State aid used to be the biggest part of our budget," Jarson said.

"And we're not counting out an Engler executive order (mid-year cut in appropriations by the governor, permissible under the state constitution). We were exempt from an Executive Order last year," Jarson said.

SC on target

Schoolcraft's Rabe was pleased that the final state aid figure was about what officials at the western Wayne County college anticipated.

"We knew it would be 1 to 1.5 percent," he said. The Legislature voted a 1.65 percent increase — to $8.7 million.

There's also a restricted grant of $163,000 for "at-risk" students, Rabe said.

Schoolcraft this year raised tuition per credit by $3.50 to $40 for residents and by $4.50 to $60 for non-residents. Total budget is $31.4 million.

"Our property tax revenue will go up 1 percent — just new construction," because of the property assessment freeze, Rabe said.

Emergency benefit program to end July 2

The federal program that provides additional jobless benefits to Michigan workers is being phased out as the program approaches its final day for accepting new claims.

"Workers who are currently receiving or who file for emergency unemployment compensation (EUC) by July 2 can draw all of their benefits, even after the program ends, as long as they meet the program's eligibility requirements," said F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

MESC has paid out approximately $412 million in federal emergency benefits to 115,000 Michiganders since the program began last Nov. 17.

The EUC program originally allowed up to 20 weeks of benefits to those who had exhausted their state unemployment insurance. In February, the program was changed to allow for an additional 13 weeks of benefits, increasing the maximum entitlement to 33 weeks.

"The phase-out of the program can affect EUC claimants differently, Edwards said. If those currently receiving EUC become ineligible or decide not to file claims for the weeks ending June 20 or 27, they will have their claims automatically reduced from a maximum of 33 down to 20 weeks.

"For the weeks of July 4 and after, workers can continue to receive EUC benefits if they meet all eligibility requirements for each remaining week in their claims," Edwards said.

"However, a claimant's EUC benefits will end once a worker is declared ineligible for any week."

Under federal EUC law, the program cannot accept any new applications for benefits after July 4. Congress is working on a new EUC bill, but eligibility details and implementation dates are not finalized.

Attend one of these seminars and receive a FREE, one-hour, private consultation to answer any questions you have about setting up your personal Living Trust ($130 value).

You'll Find Out What Will Happen With a Living Trust...

- Your estate will transfer quickly to your family upon your death.
- There will be no probate court fees and no probate attorney fees for your family to pay.
- If your estate is worth more than $100,000, probate fees could amount to 4-7% of the gross value of your estate.
- If you're married and your estate is worth less than $1.2 million, there will be no estate taxes to pay.
- You'll avoid guardianship if you become incapacitated.

You'll Find Out What Could Happen Without a Living Trust... Even if You Have a Will...

- Your estate may go through probate to prove ownership and transfer title, which takes an average of 12-24 months in Michigan.
- If you're married and your estate is worth more than $600,000 net, your family may owe federal estate taxes of 55%.
- If you become incapacitated, or unable to sign documents, the court may assign a guardian to run your estate as they see fit.

This Free Seminar is Sponsored By:

Calling All Reading Challengers!

Be a tour guide.

Pretend that a family from another country is visiting your town, and you have been chosen to be their tour guide. Use this newspaper to plan what you will show them. Clip photos of interesting things to see, historical sites, tourist attractions, parks and recreation areas. Look through the ads for shops and restaurants to visit. Watch for entertainment possibilities—festivals, concerts and movies. Would they enjoy a garage sale or flea market? Check the classified ads to find several garage sales that look interesting. Paste all of your newspaper clippings into a notebook, then describe the tour you have planned to your parent guardian or another adult. (Note to adults: This is the third in a series of activities in the Family Reading Challenge 1992 Contest. Use this page to share some educational summer fun with your child.)

POINTS OF VIEW

Smoke screen seems more scary than rap singer

It never fails to blow my mind how those who would shape opinion through use of media power get it so consistently wrong.

Those reporters, editors, publishers and news directors who seek to categorize events, those folks whose job it is to impartially deliver the facts of the day continually manage to insinuate their own bias and ideas into the story. In fact, they far too often invent issues, produce crises, provoke alienation and foster divisiveness among we the people.

Now these purveyors of negative images, these powerful men who view the world through skewed lenses, have brought into the presidential fray a non-issue like Sister Souljah. The overkill that occurred in fabricating the remarkable saga of Souljah is almost beyond comprehension.

You know the details, probably. A forum of liberal thinkers gathered back on June 13 for a Rainbow Coalition meeting hosted by the Rev. Jesse Jackson. One of the proposed speakers that day was an obscure rap singer named Sister Souljah who advocated, among other things, equal opportunity murder.

If L.A. gang members of color were killing each other every day, her twisted logic reasoned, it would be a natural extension to expand the circle of death to include those of the Caucasian persuasion.

Bill Clinton, the tarnished warrior sent into the presidential battle as the best of the Democratic Party, seized upon Souljah as his metaphor of a racially divided populace. Comparing Souljah to David Duke, Clinton said her remarks showed "how profoundly alienated and divided some of us are."

Souljah, formerly Lisa Williamson, a one-time church secretary, claimed her remarks were out of context. Her rap, she said, was framed in the mindset of a gang member. "Black deaths are all too common, and white Americans don't seem to care. Why then is this beyond belief that African American castoffs would care about the death of whites," or so she said she meant.

A furor erupted with brushfire speed. Jackson was said to have been livid at Clinton's perceived attack. Clinton was deliberate in his defense of his statement, citing his belief in higher principles and the equality of man.

Political sharks circled in high anticipation of a feeding bonanza, while in the political camps of Bush and Perot, strategists undoubtedly plotted ways to take advantage. And Souljah rapidly became a household name fulfilling Andy Warhol's late '60s prediction of the 15-minute fame game.

But a furor over what? Without question Souljah was delighted with her celebrity. Nightline, CNN, CBS, This Morning, Larry King and countless other TV outlets eagerly sought to air her views. Some compared Souljah to Louis Farrakahn. Others said she was a black Rush Limbaugh. Still others saw the flap as a slap at Jackson, a sort of put-the-boy-in-his-place. Some sneered that the Democratic Party had become a party of the disadvantaged and the underclass.

We have become overwhelmed by a deluge of information, analysis and rationale of the whole Sister mess and left unsure of how to feel. Is this something to be concerned about, we wonder, or just another media diversion? My guess is Souljah should concern us not at all. Her frightening message of racial warfare should be dismissed as the rantings of a rap neophyte intent on make her place in the unreal underworld of rap music's fringe element.

The concern we should feel, I think, is for a media monster that willingly foments dissension and calls it news. The concern we should have is in not knowing who decides what and how we should think. The concern we must share is of a seemingly opaque information system that falsely colors our world and distorts reality.

What's behind the screen of Sister Souljah smoke? I don't know and to me, not knowing is infinitely more scary than anything that comes out of the mouth of a fledgling rap singer. What about you?

Jeffrey Miller, a Southfield resident, is producer/host of "Transition," seen locally at 8:30 a.m. Saturdays on WXON-TV 20.

He trades 'new age' television in for used golf clubs

Just when I thought it was safe to turn the television back on, after watching little Billy Clinton on M-TV, there was Geraldo.

Watching Clinton make his pitch to kids on the rock music video station was enough to make me swear off Democrats for a lifetime. But seeing Geraldo host a movie was enough to make me turn in the TV for a set of used golf clubs and take up the idiotic sport.

See, it wasn't just Geraldo. If I had turned the tube on during the day, I'd expect to see him whining away, creating victims and trying to show he feels for every bozo with a cause who wanders into his studio.

The trouble was that he showed up as a commentator about a movie. It was "Anatomy of Murder." A fine flick, with a good story line, set in Michigan's Upper Peninsula with trout fishing as a supporting actor.

But when the Chevy truck ad was over, Geraldo's face was on the screen, and he started to whine away. An ad for the pocket fisherman would have been more appealing than this guy who had fat injected in his head to make him look younger. I've suspected the doctor slipped and injected too much.

Here are a couple of his comments: The rapist in the movie deserved to die, and the female victim should have read some books on feminism because she was acting too sexy.

Perhaps it didn't sink into Geraldo's fat head that the movie is about 30 years old and the book older than that.

But then, what should we expect from new age fat heads? They want to judge the past based on the way some people now think.

Of course, Geraldo wanted to make the woman who was raped a victim who needed counseling from feminists. In reality, there was a question left in the viewer's mind as to whether the woman consented to having sex.

It made the plot thicker but less politically correct in 1992. In the 30 years since the movie was made, we've explained all mysteries of life by making everybody a victim of something.

And that's what puts bread on Geraldo's table and fat in his head. But it's more than this bozo. It's all of us.

Because of our good natures, we suck down the lines of every bum who shows up with a sad story. The Democrats have even organized a political party around those ideas. They want to take all our money and give it to the people who whine the most.

But the Republicans aren't any better. They want to take our tax money and give it to those poor but deserving rich people who lost a couple of million in a savings and loan or who built an office building that is now empty. Just remember, if we bail out rich people, they may use that money to hire a maid or have their oil changed.

Perhaps the Republicans would be better off if they could turn Charles Keating into a victim of something and get him on a daytime TV show. He would be out of prison in a week.

I'll be checking the TV listings to see when H. Ross Perot is on.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers who shares the sentiments of John Voelker, the author of "Anatomy of a Murder," that golf is a way to spoil a good walk.

All of us are enjoying a well deserved vacation
We'll Reopen Monday, July 13
 Well rested and ready to serve all your fur needs.

ASPIRIN & INFLAMMATION
 Aspirin remains the premier medication for treating arthritis. Over a dozen type of arthritis drugs are on the market. The best they can claim is being as good as aspirin, but to date such statements hold no credence in the medical community.
 First, aspirin counters pain more effectively than its alternatives. This capability is known worldwide, there being no marketplace where you cannot purchase aspirin for joint aches.
 Second, the capability of aspirin to relieve swelling is not equaled by another drug. Aspirin opposes inflammation through the medication's ability to stop joints from producing prostaglandins. The prostaglandins are chemicals which open small blood vessels, encourage the migration of white blood cells, and stimulate these cells to produce chemicals that destroy surrounding tissue. The major anti-inflammatory alternatives base their action on trying to imitate this feature of aspirin, like any imitations, the alternatives cannot equal the efficacy of the original.
 Of the anti-inflammatory drugs available for arthritis today, no other has proved better at controlling inflammation than aspirin and none have less side effects than coated aspirin. Finally, no substitute costs less than aspirin. In every way - efficiency, safety, and price - aspirin remains the drug of choice.

TRAVEL

Navigate Cape Ann's unspoiled landscape

BY KEN CARLTON
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

Massachusetts' other cape has somehow remained both undiscovered and unspoiled.

Jutting out in the Atlantic roughly 40 miles north of Boston and 40 miles south of New Hampshire, Cape Ann has elements of virtually every New England landscape.

Wide, sandy beaches contrast with a harsh rocky coastline that surrounds the island. Deep woods are dotted with plunging granite quarries.

There are miles of rocks bordering the sea to hike along, yet the cape rises to a great enough height for picnics on a grassy knoll with expansive ocean views.

While there are a number of tiny villages and communities that make up Cape Ann, all roads lead to the two major towns: Rockport and Gloucester. Rockport is a picturesque New England village with historic bed and breakfasts, galleries and its famous crafts shopping area, Bearskin Neck, alongside Rockport Harbor.

Adjoining Gloucester is America's oldest fishing port with a working fleet that adds a rough authenticity to this community rich with local artists.

While the cape's population grows noticeably on a hot summer's day, a traffic jam by Long Island Expressway standards is unheard of and the local flavor of the two towns is not lost in a flood of tourists.

Unlike some other beach destinations Cape Ann relieves the requirement for sunny weather. The charm and variety of its two seaside towns provides more than a weekend's diversions should a good-northeast blow up (Cape Ann took a wallop last fall during "the storm with no name," but has been rebuilt admirably over the winter).

And there is hardly a turn of the road or a restaurant window table that does not provide a view that inspires early retirement.

Events

July Fourth in Rockport typifies the all-American small-town celebration. The Fireman's Parade, which begins at 6:30 p.m. and draws old-fashioned firefighting equipment from all over New England, winds through Rockport to Back Beach.

The whole town follows to the bandstand, where the local American Legion band performs a free concert. The evening culminates with a huge bonfire at Back Beach.

At the Gloucester Stage Co., at 267 East Main St., Gloucester, "I'm Not Rappaport," by Herb Gardner, will run to July 5.

"The Caretaker" by Harold Pinter, runs July 10 to Aug. 2, and "North Shore Fish," by Israel Horowitz, the company's artistic director, is Aug. 7 to Sept. 6. Tickets are $12 to $18. For more information call (508) 281-4099.

The Rockport Chamber Music Festival takes place Thursdays to Sundays in June at the Rockport Art Association, at 12 Main St., Rockport. Performances begin at 8 p.m. (at 5 p.m. on Sunday), and tickets are $14; $12 for students. For more information call (508) 546-7391.

Sightseeing

A first-time visitor will benefit from a driving tour following the circuitous State Routes 127 and 127A.

The winding two-lane road offers ocean views from one bend to the next, and depending in which direction you set off you can find yourself facing the open sea, the distant Boston skyline or the coast of New Hampshire across Ipswich Bay.

The communities of Annisquam and Lanesville are worth a detour on the north-facing shore, and the drive along Bass Rocks on Atlantic Avenue in East Gloucester provides spectacular vistas of the crashing ocean as well as a view of the twin light houses on Thacher Island.

At Halibut Point State Park, north of Rockport on 127 between Pigeon and Folly Coves, a rugged outcrop of huge boulders that slope down to the ocean provides an ideal if breezy location for hiking and picnicking.

Above the coastline you can take a walking tour of one of the huge old quarries set back in the woods. Parking is $5 a car. For more information call (608) 546-2997.

A number of boats offer whale-watching cruises April to November out of Gloucester Harbor.

One, the Yankee Fleet, operating out of Cape Ann Marina, at 75 Essex Ave., Gloucester, offers half-day excursions for $20; $12 for those under 16. Reservations are advised. For more information call (800) 942-5464.

The same fleets advertised all along the harbor front also offer deep-sea fishing trips. Prices range from $22 and up for half-day trips.

The Rockport Schooner Co., at 10 Tuna Wharf, sails the 56-foot schooner Appledore III five times a day, including a sunset cruise. The 90-minute sail costs $18 a person; $9 for children 10 and younger. For more information call (508) 546-9876.

Starting in the middle of this month Captain Ted, at Tuna Wharf, offers one-hour cruises aboard the 60-foot powerboat Lady Dianne for $6 for adults; $4 for those 12 and younger. For more information call (508) 546-2889.

Thacher Island, off the coast between Rockport and Gloucester, is home to the historic twin lights, the keeper's structures and a bird sanctuary. A 23-foot boat makes two trips daily on weekends, leaving from T-wharf in Rockport.

A donation is suggested for maintenance of the island. For more information call (508) 546-2326.

If the sun is shining a day can be spent on the wide stretches of Good Harbor Beach on Thacher Road just off East Gloucester.

Wingersheek Beach is a gentle, sandy cove ringed by rocky coastline, with a fine view of the Annisquam Lighthouse. The beach is reached by exit 13 off of Route 128 before crossing the bridge onto Cape Ann. Beach parking is usually $10 a day.

Should the weather turn New England, a walk down Bearskin Neck, Rockport, is one option. Main Street and "the neck" are filled with galleries, craft shops and charming small eating places.

Sea watch: The Gloucester Fisherman facing the lovely harbor has been a symbol of Gloucester since it was commissioned in 1923 to celebrate the seaport's 300th anniversary.

Passport to travel savings: Pick the right credit card

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

What's the single most important item a traveler should never leave home without?

A passport? Travelers checks? For some people it's a credit card. Now that many consumers choose to put all their travel-related expenses — airline tickets, car rental and gasoline charges, hotel and restaurant bills — on a credit card, vacations are an increasingly cash-free experience.

But not all credit cards are created equal.

Some have yearly fees, while others are fee-free; many have sky-high interest rates that can cripple a customer.

Some cards award frequent-flyer miles to shoppers who use them often. Others, including American Express cards, offer perks such as free travel insurance.

But experts say the bottom line for selecting a credit card should be money — what does the card cost and how high is the interest rate?

"Probably the best credit card you can have is a Visa or MasterCard," said Mary Beth Butler, a spokeswoman for Bankcard Holders of America, a non-profit national consumer-credit and advocacy organization based in Virginia.

Her logic is simple: "Visa and MasterCard are accepted at more locations than American Express. And you can often get them without paying a fee."

In 1990, the last year for which figures are available, Visa and MasterCard were accepted by more than 9 million locations worldwide versus 3.4 million locations for American Express.

It's largely because merchants are charged at least 4.5 percent per transaction by American Express vs. 1 percent to 2 percent by Visa and MasterCard, Butler said.

While not a lobbying organization, BHA is "the only consumer watchdog exclusively concerned with credit cards."

The group has more than 70,000 members who pay $24 a year to receive its bimonthly newsletter packed with advice on credit and savings. Members can also use BHA's consumer-action service, which works to solve their credit problems with banks, retailers and credit bureaus.

BHA has more than 20 publications on consumer credit and debt management that are available for a small charge.

For shoppers selecting credit cards, Butler singles out three good services:

- USAA Federal Savings Bank, P.O. Box 21658, Tulsa, Okla. 74121 (800-922-9092), offers a no-fee Visa or MasterCard at 12.5 percent interest.

- Arkansas Federal Credit Card Services, P.O. Box 8208, Little Rock, Ark. 72221 (800-477-3348), offers both Visa and MasterCard at 8.5 percent interest. But the annual fee is $25.

- Amalgamated Bank of Chicago, 1 West Monro St., Chicago, Ill., 60603 (800-365-6464), offers a no-fee MasterCard at 12.5 percent interest.

For information contact BHA, 560 Herndon Parkway, Suite 8-120, Herndon, Va. 22070. BHA's Low-Rate-No-Fee list of 47 banks offering the best value in credit cards is $4. To order it call (800) 327-7300.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Squeeze some lemons for lemonade, ice tea

If there was one thing I never learned from momma or a pricey cooking school, it was the art of making a true, old-fashioned lemonade and ice tea.

When you give it some thought, there are as many different ways of enjoying these lazy, hazy summer coolers as there are lemons in July. Upon checking the cookbooks in my library, I was surprised to see that there really is an art in preparing these drinks, lest you thought they only came from a Lipton or Wyle's jar.

There's little doubt that convenience has settled in to our society. Many companies would lead you to believe that all there is to making real lemonade is to open a can and use pre-measured scoops of a dusty powder mixed with ordinary tap water and some ice.

With servings clearly marked, what these companies call "real lemonade" is within a one-minute reach. Loaded with sugar and fructose, and claiming to have less sugar than Coke or Pepsi, these powdered pre-mixes also contain calcium phosphate to reduce caking along with artificial colors and flavors. They might be convenient, but when it comes to comparing them to "real" lemonade, the similarities end.

Frozen concentrates

Frozen concentrates are also convenient, and taste tests have shown, along with a recommendation from "The Joy of Cooking," that concentrates are best when diluted a little less than prescribed by the processor. Melting ice has the tendency to make up for that.

But when it comes to a real, homemade lemonade that not only quenches one's thirst, but also rekindles the thoughts of an earlier day of a glider on the porch and a bamboo hand fan, real homemade lemonade brings back memories of a humongous yellow crock perspiring on the soda fountain counter.

Making lemonade

These were the days when real lemonade had but three ingredients, lemons, sugar and water. "The Joy of Cooking" recommends that to the juice of one lemon (which equals about 1 1/2 tablespoons of pure lemon juice) a cup of water or carbonated water is added along with just the slightest pinch of salt.

This cookbook bible also claims that the quality of the lemonade is much improved when the sugar and water are first boiled for two minutes, probably, in this writer's opinion, to probably make sure the sugar crystals are fully dissolved. After the syrup is cooled, the fresh-squeezed juice can then be added. The process might take 10 minutes, but, put up against anything from a can or jar, you too will agree that the flavor difference is truly noticeable.

Iced tea

When it comes to making tea, the folks from Lipton would just as soon have you opening their jar and using one rounded teaspoon from their jar of tea powder and swirling it in an eight ounce glass of water and ice. Sugar and lemon can be added as desired.

There's little doubt this makes a good glass of iced tea. But for a great glass of iced tea, start with a rounded teaspoon of tea leaves and a kettle of fresh, cold tap water brought to an immediate boil. Cold tap water is essential, because hot water from the tap has been sitting in a water tank for who knows how long.

Allow the tea leaves to mingle with the fresh-boiled water for at least three minutes, (no longer than 5), then strain, chill and pour over ice. Hard water has a tendency to produce a murky tea, so it's a best to use bottled or spring for optimum results.

Sun tea and its cousin, iced tea made with cold water is a true summer favorite that lets the maker to stay away from a hot stove. Begin with four teaspoons of loose tea and to that add one quart of cold tap water.

This mixture can be allowed to "brew" overnight in the refrigerator or, in the event of a sunny day, be allowed to brew under the auspices of Old Sol himself.

Simply allow the brew after at least four hours and add ice. Again, the "Joy of Cooking" suggests you refrain from using tea bags, as the paper bags "adulterate" the flavor of the tea.

Lemon, sugar and/or sweetener is, of course, added at the request of the drinker and only at the last minute for optimum results.

So if this summer finds you longing for something more than fruit flavored water or powdery jars, the search for thirst-quenching fluids can be as easy as opening a can, with the flavor results being more spectacular

■ Invite family and friends over for an old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic. The food can be prepared in advance so everyone can play and relax.

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

You don't hear as much about picnics as you used to. Barbecues seem to have captured the public imagination, possibly due to Americans' fascination with gadgets.

After all, for a picnic you need only food. For a barbecue, there's a limitless selection of stoves, grills, charcoal, charcoal starters, exotic wood chips and utensils; not to mention asbestos mitts, motto-embellished aprons and funny hats.

Picnics have much to recommend them. For one thing, the food can be prepared in advance, so everybody gets a chance to play badminton, or join in the conversation.

A simple picnic for two has an aura of intimacy that, well, goes up in smoke if there's smoke. And the boisterous conviviality of a backyard picnic for everybody you know is greatly diminished if you're the person slaving over a hot grill. When it comes to picnics, Sharon Gardner is a traditionalist.

"We invite relatives, friends, neighbors, and have a real old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic," said the Garden City resident.

"I make fried chicken the day before, as well as potato salad and a big variety of munchies — raw vegetables, potato chips, dips, so whatever diet kick you're on, there's plenty to eat.

"It's a lot of work, but at least I can have a good time and my husband, Mike, isn't locked into cooking for the crowd."

Mike gets a keg of beer and lots of pop, diet and otherwise. There's a selection of fruit juices, too, for the health-conscious.

"Although we burn up a lot of calories in exercise. We have a pool," said Sharon. "We play badminton and croquet, so adults who start out with diet pop and carrot sticks often switch to beer and potato chips before the day is over."

Preparations are a family affair. Son Kevin, 12, helps put up the badminton net, and gets the croquet set in place.

Kevin also sets traps for "critters" that can spoil the fun. He just fills plastic jugs with a few inches of sweet fruit juice. Once insects are in, it's almost impossible for them to get out.

Kevin and Mike together string small white Christmas tree lights around a few bushes in the yard. Even when it's not completely dark, they add a magical touch.

"After a day of eating and exercising and gabbing, we all sit back and let Mike entertain us with a fireworks display in the driveway," said Sharon. "He says it's a lot more fun than cooking at the grill."

Linda Wells is so charmed by picnics that she teaches classes in cooking for picnics, and for the picnic's sportier cousin, the tailgate party, at the Birmingham Community Center.

She shows students how to cook, transport and serve picnic foods, encouraging them to try non-traditional ones.

"For instance, for my picnic class, I prepared a pear and leek soup," said Wells. "Many people would never think of taking a soup to an outdoor meal. But it can be served hot or cold, and to keep it simple, you can pour it out of the thermos into a mug."

"A good main dish that can be eaten out of hand, hot or cold, is steak tortas: steak rolled in a tortilla, with salsa and guacamole. These can be cooked on site, or made up as much as three days in advance."

All in all, Wells feels picnics offer lots of possibilities.

Doughnut fun for the land of the Rising Sun

BY KEELY WYGONIK

Before she took a bite, Japanese actress Makiko Saito smelled the hot dog Olga Bondar served her at Baker Boy Donuts Inc. in Livonia. Then she started laughing, and said "yum, yum, good, good, delicious."

A Japanese film crew from Hiro Enterprises, Inc. recorded her reaction on June 22 for "Naruhodo: The World," a popular variety program with an information, quiz format that airs 9-10 p.m. Tuesdays in Japan.

"The theme of the program was 'fooling the eye.' Bondar's doughnut creations — hot dogs, hamburgers, fish sandwiches, french fries, and pizzas look like the real thing."

"The actress will think she's eating a hot dog or hamburger. We're going to put her on the spot," said program coordinator Mark Doerrier before Saito arrived. "We travel all over the world and make it fun for celebrities to interact with people."

Baker Boy Donuts was discovered by Hiro Enterprises, Inc. in Los Angeles where they saw a locally produced program about novelty doughnuts.

"Two months ago we got a call to ship the donuts to Los Angeles," said Chun Slev who owns Baker Boy Donuts at 11320 Middlebelt with his wife Rachel. The company liked what they saw.

"I'm really excited; Olga is wonderful," said Chun Slev, who also owns doughnut shops in Shelby Township and Allen Park. "Olga came up with the idea." Bondar, who lives in Garden City, shrugs her shoulders and says she's happy for the Slevs, who have owned Baker Boy Donuts for five years. Bondar has worked there for about eight years. "They're good, hard workers," she said.

It started out as a joke. "One customer started a joking. He'd say, 'I want a hamburger,' or 'I want a hot dog,'" Bondar who now manages the shop, was a donut finisher at the time. She frosted, filled and powdered ered doughnuts.

"I looked at the donuts, and my brain started working. It just went boom, boom, it went into place. It was a challenge to come up with different things."

That was about seven years ago. "They sell like hotcakes," said Bondar.

The novelty donuts cost 85 cents each. Pizzas come in two sizes, medium $3, large $10 or 85 cents a slice. If you want, they'll write happy birthday on the crust with icing.

Doughnut shop regulars, like Bernice Danduran of Redford were enjoying Baker Boy Donut's five minutes of fame too. "We have fun here, it's very pleasant, a good way to start my day. They all make you feel at home."

Chili champion busy traveling, competing

KEELY WYGONIK

Champion chili cook Marilyn Frederick and her husband Ray of Redford Township have been taking their famous "Time Bomb Chili" to different parts of the country.

On March 7, Marilyn tied for third at a competition in St. George, Fla. Next was the Heartland Cook-off in Alton, Ill. She finished eighth out of 60 cooks. A friend of theirs who wrote to me said "it was very cold, rainy and real windy along the Mississippi on April 25 the day of the cook-off. The stove kept going out, we alternated sitting in the car to get warm and keep out of the rain."

On May 2, Marilyn defended her crown as North Central Region Champion in Saline and placed third. On June 7, she went to Ontario, Canada, to compete. Her chili won first place in 1990, but placed fourth in 1992.

She was scheduled to compete in a cook-off at the Livonia Spree on June 28, and was asked to cook at two cook-offs in Illinois later in the year.

"As long as I can make a good pot of chili that the judges like, I'm happy. It's great to make the final table at all the cook-offs we've been to. I hope my luck holds out for a few more years," said Frederick, adding she and her husband have a lot of fun at these events, and remember the money raised is for charity. "It's our way of helping out."

Here's her famous recipe. It serves six to eight.

TIMEBOMB CHILI

- 1 1/2 pounds cubed pork
- 3/2 pounds cubed beef
- 1/4 cup Wesson oil
- 1 10 1/2 can beef broth
- 1 10 1/2 can chicken broth
- 1 can beer
- 1 large onion
- 1 large green pepper, chopped
- 1 large red pepper, chopped
- 1 banana pepper, chopped
- 12 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 14 1/2 ounce cans Hunt's tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup Gebhart's chili powder
- 1 Tablespoon MSG
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 Tablespoon honey
- 1 Tablespoon molasses
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1 1/2 teaspoon ground anise seed
- 1 1/2 tablespoons ground cumin
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 tablespoon Tabasco pepper sauce

In a large pot, brown meat. Drain excess grease. Add beef and chicken broth. Cook one half hour on simmer. Add beer. Cook one half hour longer than before and add vegetables.

While cooking meat, rub separate pot with two tablespoons of the minced garlic. Saute chopped vegetables in 1/4 cup oil until soft. Add vegetables to meat mixture with tomato sauce, garlic and remaining ingredients. Stir well and bring to boil. Reduce heat and cook 1 1/2 hours.

Betty Crocker tip of the week: Yogurt mixed with pudding and fruit makes a refreshing topping for pound cake or angel food cake.

SHARON'S FRIED CHICKEN

- 12 chicken legs and thighs
- flour
- 2 eggs, beaten with 3 tablespoons water
- coarsely rolled cracker crumbs, seasoned with salt and pepper
- 1/4 pound butter
- 2 cups vegetable shortening or 1 1/2 cups olive oil

Flour all parts well, dip into beaten egg, and then roll in cracker crumbs. Chill for 1 hour, being careful to press the seasoned crumbs firmly into the chicken.

Melt the butter and vegetable shortening or olive oil in a heavy skillet or two. The fat should be about 1 inch deep. Add pieces of chicken and be sure to begin the thighs and legs skin-side down.

Cook over fairly brisk heat until nicely browned, then turn and brown the other side. Reduce the heat, and continue cooking for about 15 to 18 minutes. Cover the pan for some of the cooking. Remove chicken pieces to absorbent paper placed on a baking sheet.

FOURTH OF JULY STRIPED JELL-O

- 1 package strawberry Jell-O
- 1 package blueberry Jell-O
- 2 envelopes Knox Gelatin
- 2 cups hot water
- 1 1/2 cups cold water

- 2 cups milk, boiled
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 pint sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- whipped cream
- fresh raspberries, strawberries or blueberries

Assemble three mixing bowls, one for each color of Jell-O. Lightly oil a 9 x 13 glass baking dish.

In bowl No. 1, mix 1 package strawberry Jell-O with 1 cup hot water. Stir to dissolve Jell-O, and add 1/2 cup cold water. Pour mixture into greased dish and put into refrigerator until just set.

In a saucepan, boil 2 cups milk, and mix in 1 cup sugar. In bowl No. 2, dissolve 2 envelopes of Knox gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Add milk mixture. Set aside, cool to room temperature. Add 1 pint sour cream and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Pour carefully, or spoon, over set red Jell-O. Put into refrigerator until just set.

In bowl No. 3, dissolve blueberry Jell-O, the same as red Jell-O. When white mixture is just set, carefully pour, or spoon, blue Jell-O on top. Refrigerate until firm.

If you have the patience, you can do all three steps all over again, ending with six alternating red, white and blue layers.

To serve, cut Jell-O mixture into cubes. Serve in sundae glasses, garnished with whipped cream, fresh raspberries or strawberries and blueberries.

INDIAN PUDDING

- 1/4 cup cornmeal
- 2 cups hot milk
- 1 cup cold milk
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Stir corn meal, a little at a time, into the hot milk and cook over low heat or in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly, for 15 minutes or until thick. Remove from heat. Mix together sugar, baking soda, salt, ginger and cinnamon, then stir into the cornmeal mixture. Add molasses and cold milk, mixing into the cornmeal mixture. Add molasses and cold milk, mixing thoroughly. Pour into a 1-quart casserole and bake in a preheated 275 degree oven for two hours. Serve warm with whipped cream and a light sprinkling of freshly grated nutmeg. Serves 6 to 8.

Indian Pudding was a dessert Abigail Adams would have served at a Fourth of July dinner. Other items on the menu included turtle soup, broiled salmon steaks or New England poached salmon with egg sauce, green peas, small broiled new potatoes in jackets, coffee and tea.

Can safely

Canning season is almost here, and Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, says canners may have a problem with food safety unless they are using the 32nd edition of the "Ball Blue Book."

Canning methods and U.S.D.A. processing recommendations have changed in recent years. "One very reliable source of accurate canning times and methods is the 32nd edition of the 'Ball Blue Book,'" said Treitman. "Most local stores that carry canning supplies also carry this inexpensive paperback book."

The Cooperative Extension Service also has the latest Ball Blue Book for sale. For ordering information, call the Food and Nutrition Hot line at 555-0904 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

CLARIFICATION

There was an error in last week's story about natural food substitutions. One tablespoon cornstarch or arrowroot, 1 tablespoon safflower oil, and 1/4 cup water equals one egg.

Making fresh lemonade at home — It's a fine art

See Larry Jané's column on Taste front.

LEMONADE SYRUP

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- the rind of 2 lemons, cut into thin strips
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- the juice of 6 lemons

Boil the sugar, water, salt and lemon strips for not more than 5 minutes. Strain the syrup and remove the peels. Store in a covered jar and add the lemon juice. To one eight ounce glass of fresh cold tap water or carbonated water, add one tablespoon syrup and two tablespoons of orange, apricot or pineapple juice. Stir and serve over ice. This recipe makes 4 1/2 cups syrup.

enough for 30 eight-oz. glasses of lemonade.

ICED TEA

- 1 tablespoon plus one tea spoon tea leaves
- 2 1/2 cups cold tap water

Place the tea leaves in a non reactive preheated pot. You can preheat the pot by pouring boiling water in the pot and allowing to stand for one minute. Drain all water from pot. Bring the cold tap water to a boil and immediately pour over the leaves. Allow to steep for three, but not more than five minutes. Strain tea leaves, cool and add ice, sugar or lemon, if desired. Makes 4, five to six ounce glasses of tea.

Don't wait — refrigerate to avoid food poisoning

LOIS THIELEKE

Food poisoning, not a very pleasant thought! Maybe it sounds better if we call it a food borne illness — no matter, you're sick. Approximately seven million Americans suffer from a food borne illness a year and 85 percent of them could have been avoided if food were handled properly.

According to the Center for Disease Control, these numbers have been escalating since 1980. At the right temperature, bacteria you can't see, smell or taste can multiply to millions in a few short hours and cause illness. There are naturally occurring bacteria in the air and water, as well as on plants, animals and people so there is a chance for contamination at any stage of food production. However, the statistics show that improper handling of cooked food, under-cooking and poor sanitation are the leading cause of food poisoning. That means that virtually all food borne illnesses are preventable. Prevention of food poisoning starts at the supermarket.

Rule Number One: Buy cold foods last and get it home fast! Grocery shop and take the food straight home to the refrigerator or freezer. Don't buy foods in poor condition.

Make sure when you buy refrigerated food at the store that they are cold to the touch and frozen food is rock-solid. If you live more than 30 minutes from the store bring an ice chest to keep foods cold.

Rule Number Two: When you store food, keep it safe, refrigerate! Check the temperature of your refrigerator with an appliance thermometer. The refrigerator should run 38 degrees-40 degrees F and the freezer should be 0 degrees-10 degrees below F. For the most efficient operation, keep the refrigerator fully loaded but with enough space for the air to circulate. Freeze fresh meat, poultry or fish immediately if you can't use it within a few days. Put packages of raw meat, poultry or fish on a plate before refrigerat-ing so their juices won't drip on other food. These raw juices can contain bacteria.

Thawing food

Rule Number Three: When you prepare food, keep everything clean and thaw in the refrigerator! Since bacteria live all around us, wash your hands with soap and hot water before touching food. Bacteria live on kitchen towels, sponges and cloths so launder them frequently. Always use clean utensils and wash them between cutting different foods. Plastic or glass cutting boards are preferable to wooden ones because wood can harbor bacteria in the grooves.

Wash the lids of canned foods before opening to keep dirt from getting into the food. Also, clean the blade of the can opener after each use. Thaw frozen foods in the refrigerator, where bacteria can't multiply. Bacteria can grow in the outer layers of the food before the inside thaws. Microwave thawing is okay but the food has to be cooked thoroughly and then used right away. Never thaw food on a kitchen counter unless you want to be sick!

Rule Number Four: When you're cooking, cook thoroughly! To kill harmful bacteria, foods need to be cooked thoroughly. Eating raw or partially cooked meat, poultry, fish and eggs is taking a risky chance. Do not partially cook a food, stop and then finish cooking later as bacteria can grow between the cooking steps.

Rule Number Five: When you serve food, never leave it out over two hours! Never leave perishable foods out of the refrigerator over two hours. Bacteria that can food poisoning grow quickly at warm temperature. Discard any cooked or chilled food that has been sitting out. If you are having a party, keep cold foods on ice or in the refrigerator. Hot foods need to be kept hot to be safe, otherwise you'll have served food poisoning to your guests.

Handling leftovers

Rule Number Six: When you handle leftovers, use small containers for quick cooling! Divide large amounts of leftovers into small, shallow containers. Don't pack the refrigerator, cool air must circulate around the food container to keep them safe. Store leftovers in the refrigerator as soon as possible. Do not let food cool on the counter!

Rule Number Seven: Reheated foods should be brought to a temperature of at least 165 degrees F. Sauces, soups and gravies need to be brought to a boil before serving. Microwave leftovers using a lid or vented plastic wrap for thorough heating. The steam this creates aids in the cooking of the food.

Rule Number Eight: If you have kept the food too long, throw it out! Never taste food that looks and smells strange. The cardinal rule for all food is, when in doubt, throw it out!

A patriotic dessert — made ahead

After a fun-filled day of picnicking and fireworks, a star-spangled dessert is the perfect Fourth of July send-off for family and friends. And best of all, it can even fit into your hectic summer schedule.

For an impressive make-ahead dessert that's ready to serve whenever you are, Patriotic Parfaits sing "I'm proud to be American!" Unbelievably simple, the only cooking required is boiling water.

Melted white chocolate is combined with sweetened whipped cream and cream cheese to make a rich, fluffy white chocolate mousse.

Layer the mousse in tall elegant glasses with mixed berries, and garnish each parfait with a small flag on a wooden pick just before serving. The parfaits will hold well in the refrigerator for up to six hours.

PATRIOTIC PARFAIT

- 3 ounces good-quality white chocolate, broken into pieces, or 3 ounces good-quality white chocolate morsels (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup sliced strawberries or fresh raspberries
- 1 cup blueberries
- Sliced strawberries, if desired

Place chocolate in medium bowl. Bring 1 cup water to boil in medium saucepan; turn off heat and set bowl over saucepan. Let stand until melted, stirring occasionally. Remove from water. Beat cream in medium bowl until soft peaks form. Slowly add sugar; beat just until stiff peaks form. Transfer to medium bowl; set aside in refrigerator. In same mixer bowl, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Add chocolate in a stream while beating; beat until smooth. Stir 1/4 of whipped cream into chocolate mixture to lighten. Gently fold in remaining whipped cream.

To assemble parfaits, alternately layer mousse and mixed berries in parfait glasses. Parfaits may be served immediately or refrigerated up to 6 hours before serving. Garnish each parfait with sliced strawberries. Makes 4 servings.

Patriotic Parfait: Win "oohs" and "aahs" this Fourth of July holiday with a flag-waving Patriotic Parfait! This delicious dessert stars layers of creamy white chocolate mousse and assorted red and blue berries.

Press-ing out wrinkles in music

The Wolfgang Press has been known for its willingness to delve into uncharted territory with its music. The threesome admits they have always been enamored with the manipulation of sound. Maybe that's why critics are calling their current release their most focused effort to date.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

The Wolfgang Press is a visceral musical experiment nearly 10 years in the making which is only beginning to draw some clear results.

Critics are calling the band's latest LP "Queer" its most focused to date. While many groups may consider that a slap in the face, the Wolfgang Press actively pursued clarity on the 4AD/Warner release.

"We had a different intention with this album," said vocalist Mick Allen in a telephone interview from London. "The other albums we have done we had more of a tendency to be internal. Instead of being insular with this one we wanted to open everything up and allow everyone in and not be so precious."

Soaring soul riffs combined with ethereal elements of keyboard and judiciously augmented with spritely bits of sampling are turned up in The Wolfgang Press musical excavation.

The group's willingness to delve into uncharted territory is well-documented. The attempt to connect these forays with a semblance of history, brought through sampling or by fiendishly covering Randy Newman's "Mama Told Me Not to Come," creates a precarious balance in the aural assault.

Allen said he and his bandmates, keyboardist Mark Cox and guitarist Andrew Gray, have always been enamored with the manipulation of sound rather than three chords and the truth. Sampling is one area the band excels, using the technique sparingly.

"It's a very new phenomenon, really," Allen said. "When something is new, it gets overused and used badly. What we've tried to do is make it work with the song rather than the sample being the song."

Such a musical aesthetic has allowed The Wolfgang Press to persevere amid several fads in the post-punk age and kept its identity. No easy task, especially since the group is on 4AD, whose bands (Cocteau Twins and His Name Is Alive to name a few) have an undeserved reputation for a producing similar ethereal sound.

The band's 1983 LP's, "The Burden of Mules," started it all and has included a steady stream of releases since in the UK. "Queer" is only The Wolfgang Press' second release state-side. Their penchant for musical revision was denoted early on the band's second LP, "The Legendary Wolfgang Press and Other Tall Stories," putting an alternative spin on Aretha Franklin's "Respect." The band's rendition of "Mama Told Me Not to Come" is performed in the same spirit.

"I remember it from 20 years ago," Allen said. "For this album, it was our intention to do a cover version. We played around with various songs. None of them were working. Maybe they were too precious."

"The producer was messing around with the keyboards in the studio and started playing the opening from 'Mama Told Me Not to Come.' We started working on it. I remember the Three Dog Night version of it, actually."

Along with reinventing other's hits, The Wolfgang Press has earned a reputation for rousing live shows. For this tour, opening for the Charlatans UK, the group has enlisted former Jesus and Mary Chain drummer Richard Thomas along with former members of the Ruts, rhythm guitarist Rew and bassist Segs.

"It was a strange thing (performing live at first)," Allen said. "It was hard to rehearse and keep the emphasis of the songs. Some are so delicate."

"We've done well to achieve that."

The Wolfgang Press will open for Charlatans UK on Thursday, July 2, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For information, call 961-MELT.

Sky high: The Italian Air Force's national aerobatic jet team, Frece Tricolori, is unmistakable with its red, white and green national colored smoke trails.

AirMichigan goes for tricolored fun, aerial excitement

BY PATRICK SCHUTTE
SPECIAL WRITER

Do you want to see something really cool? We mean real, real cool.

Check out July 4-5 at Willow Run Airport where Wings Over Wayne Inc. is putting together another air show. They call it AirMichigan '92.

If you've never been, going to an air show is like watching "Wings" on The Discovery Channel with your head inside the picture tube. Jets that look like dots on the horizon, wall over the crowd and make people tip over in their lawn chairs as they strain to follow them.

Then pilots, who you'd swear were high on jet fuel and low on brains, do things with a plane that birds can't do. And they do these spinning things at very un-bird like speeds approaching 300 miles per hour.

The piece de resistance (read that with a French accent, please) this year will be the Italian national aerobatic team known as the Frece Tricolori (Tricolored Arrows to those who don't speak Italian). The team showcases a formation of 10 MB-339 trainer/close air support aircraft. This is the Italians' second North American Tour and the first stop is Willow Run.

The tour is part of the 500th anniversary of Columbus' discovery of the New World. You know, "In 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue."

Leading the Americans in the show will be Team America, an award-winning three-plane formation team from California. And coincidentally, they'll be flying Italian-built Marchetti F-260 trainer/light attack planes.

"I think they (the Frece Tricolori) learn to fly in our plane," said Team America Leaders Chuck Lischer. "We've never seen them, but that connection will be interesting."

Before the jets blow people away, AirMichigan will roll back the aviation clock and feature some old fashioned barnstorming routines. U.S. and world aerobatic champion Gene Soucy of Houston, Texas, will perform some solo aerobatics in his Grumman biplane known as

"Showcat." Soucy's plane displays one of the air show industry's biggest smoke producing systems.

From there, wingwalker Teresa Stokes, also of Houston, will hop on the top wing of Soucy's plane and, well, walk around a bit.

And to top off the barnstorming display, Chelsea's Jim Mynning will land a Piper Super Cub airplane on the back of a speeding pickup truck, driven by Ann Arbor's Eddie Green.

Mynning is a veteran of more than 30 years of air shows and Green is an experienced wingwalker and Hollywood stuntman.

With a whole mess of other things to do — and eat — The Wayne County air show is something that if you see it once, you'll make a point to come back year after year.

And the world from Wayne County's "Top Gun," so to speak, Executive Edward MacNamara, "our air show is one of the best family entertainment values in southeast Michigan."

So if you're planning to go, plan to make a day of it. The Stealth fighter and Warhog jets, aerobatics, wingwalkers, sky diving, hang gliding — you name it — will be in the air and on the ground.

The main act, the Frece Tricolori, will hit the sky around 3:40 p.m. each day, so you'll still have time to catch a decent set for Independence weekend fireworks.

Dates: July 4-5.

Place: Willow Run Airport, I-94 at Belleville Road (Exit 190).

What to bring: Coolers are allowed although cans are preferred over bottles. Complete concession facilities are available. Also included sunglasses, hats, lawn chairs (for general admission) and sunscreen lotion.

Tickets: Reserved box seats are $15. General admission for adults is $12 at the gate ($9 in advance) and $9 ($6 in advance) for children. Children under three admitted free. Parking is $3.

Ticket locations: AirMichigan tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets (a fee is charged) and at Willow Run Airport.

For more information, call 482-8888.

Musical press: Wolfgang Press members Mick Allen (left), Mark Cox and Andrew Gray readily admit they like experimenting with sound rather than playing three chords.

Chris Staels takes dream to the U.P.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

Chris Staels doesn't subscribe to the cause-of-the-month club.

When Staels, who works at Paradise Post studios in Farmington Hills, released "Dream Catchers, Vol. 1" to benefit the Native Americans of the state last year, he said it was going to be an ongoing project. He wasn't kidding.

The next installment takes place Saturday, July 4, in the form a day-long musical extravaganza at the Bay Mills Reservation in the Upper Peninsula. The event will feature 13 acts and include a fireworks display.

Proceeds from the $10 admission will not only benefit the Bay Mills Chippewas Community but also the Lansing Indian Center and the American Indian College Fund. More so, Staels hopes the event brings awareness to the plight of Native Americans.

"I think in one respect, to get people in that environment is going to be a pretty eye-opening experience," said Staels, who is of Native American descent and who became involved after visiting the reservation. "People have a perception of a reservation from what they see on TV. This is the real thing."

Well-known Native American performer Bill Miller will headline the event, which starts at noon and runs to 1:55 a.m.

Included in the schedule of artists — several of which are from this area — are the Love Kings, Spiral Dance, Red C, The Pedestrians, Waiskey Bay Drum, Short Notice, Richard Cyr, Barb Barton, Dropping Names, The Hope Orchestra, John Lamb and Wild Blue, The Waykools, Billy Brandt and Cafe Zero.

Many of the same artists are also featured on "Dream Catchers, Vol. 1," which initiated Staels' campaign to help Native Americans. The CD has raised $12,000, according to Staels, most of which has been donated to Bay Mills Community College.

Money raised in the project is matched $2 by the U.S. government for every $1 contributed. The CD is available at area record outlets and retails for $10.

Already, Staels has the second volume in motion to be released in November. The audio engineer says 30 bands have expressed an interest to be on the next release.

"We're just going to keep doing it until we make a half-million bucks," Staels said.

Saturday's event will help contribute a chunk toward such a goal. Anywhere from 4,000 to 5,000 people are expected to attend the event at the reservations, which is 25 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie.

"There's a lot of people traveling (from this area) for this," said Asta Jurgutis of Farmington Hills, an organizer for the event and member of The Hope Orchestra. "Some people are traveling because they want to see the bands they like... Some people are traveling because of the cause only."

For information on the Benefest on Saturday, July 4, or "Dream Catchers, Vol. 1," call 543-8433.

'Delicatessen' overloads audience with wild ideas

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"Delicatessen" makes movies seem young again. The French import, enjoying its area premiere at Ann Arbor's Michigan Theatre, is chock full of crazy ideas and style to spare.

Visually, the movie is an eye-popper right from the opening credits, in which the camera glides across names reflected on mirrors or emblazoned on miniature circus posters.

It's the near future. Cattle and plant life have apparently been wiped off the face of the earth. Dried corn and beans are now used as money. No one questions the origins of the measly parcels sold by the local butcher. They also try not to leave their apartments after dark.

When the butcher loses another assistant to the laws of supply and demand, another ad goes in the paper. This time the new man is a former circus clown named Louison (Dominique Pinon), who falls in love with the butcher's daughter (Marie-Laure Dougnac).

This is the first feature film by the directing team of Jean-Pierre Jeunet and Marc Caro. Jeunet concentrates on honing incredible performances from the talented cast.

Jean Claude Dreyfus plays a character known only as The Butcher. Sometimes he looks like your average slobby couch potato, an overweight Pee Wee Herman. Light him from below and put a meat cleaver in his hand and he becomes a bulging-eyed maniac.

Co-director Caro is a longtime video experimentalist responsible for the movie's knockout visual effects. He creates a series of Rubé Goldberg situations, especially in the elaborate suicide attempts rigged up by a neurotic neighbor.

The directors cite early French filmmakers like Rene Clair and American animator Tex Avery as their primary influences. In their hands, the simple sounds of everyday can lead to truly hilarious situations.

In one inspired sequence, lovers fall onto a squeaky bed. Their escalating rhythms echo through the pipes, speeding the progress of a painter, a cellist, a woman beating a carpet, and a man with a bicycle pump into a cross-cutting frenzy.

Brown-tinted cinematography by Darius Khondji gives the film a retro-futuristic feel, with the clothes and mechanical contraptions reminiscent of Europe during World War II.

The camera swirls in and out of pipes and heating ducts. When Louison employs the metal boomer affectionately dubbed "The Australian," the audience flies right along with it toward an intended target.

Audiences may have trouble keeping up with the frantic pace, which purposely mimics a live-action cartoon. The episodic situations and the radical way they are filmed make it easy to get caught up in the world these wily French filmmakers have so skillfully created.

Undercover: Pascal Benezec conceals his identity with the help of a paper bag and a trash can in Jean-Pierre Jeunet and Marc Caro's "Delicatessen."

Olympics made for all athletes

This is of interest to any athletes, young or old, who are dying to find out just how good they are.

Or to those former jocks who are trying to rediscover what attracted them to their particular sport so many years ago.

Or to those seeking a new challenge.

Or to those stars of yesteryear who have found they have a significant hole in their life without the limelight, and now want to see if they can recapture it, if only for an instant.

Or even to those first-rate athletes who don't have anything else to do.

More precisely, this is for everybody.

It is the Great Lakes State Games, a collection of 23 sporting competitions that's open to just about anyone. The restrictions: Well, participants for most events can be any age; the only real restriction is you must live in the state — for more than 30 days.

So it's fun for everyone who thrives on athletic competition, including those (like me) capable of inventing all sorts of reasons to give something like this a try. Personally, I learned a long time ago that no matter how hard I worked, I would never win much. So now I compete against myself, or the clock, or something else I can manipulate in my favor.

An Olympics for all

There are others like me, I'm sure, and they'll love this — especially in an Olympic year, which is what the Games are patterned after.

I thought it sad when the Games made their debut in 1987 and attracted 5,200 athletes to the Great Lakes Sports Training Center at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, then were cancelled when the state withdrew its financial support.

What I didn't realize was that clones of the inaugural Great Lakes State Games survived with private support. In the lower peninsula, the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association conducted something very similar in Battle Creek from 1988-90, then in Lansing last year. In the upper peninsula, the Sports Training Center has been home for the same type of games.

"So we decided to merge forces," said Mike Maisner, a spokesman for the MRP. "Instead of running separate events, let's pool our resources and run one statewide event."

Good idea. The lower peninsula games last year drew nearly 3,000 athletes; combining the two and putting them in a location more central than Marquette should help this year's Games surpass that '87 participation total.

But that's not so important, really — not when considering the Games are scheduled to continue, whatever the draw. This is no one-time experiment; Ann Arbor has already been selected to host the '93 Games.

"We hope it will be around for years to come," said Maisner.

Variety, for certain

Now, for this year's Games. The sports included are, to say the least, varied. Alphabetically, they are:

Archery, basketball, biathlon (3.1 mile, run, 25 mile bicycle, 3.1 mile run), bowling, boxing, cycling, diving, golf, horseshoe pitching, ice hockey, powerlifting, road running, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, taekwondo, tennis, track and field, volkswatch/Walk Michigan, volleyball, weightlifting and wrestling.

There is regional qualifying competition for bowling, diving, soccer, swimming, track and field, and volleyball. The Southeast Regional will be in Ann Arbor July 10-12; top finishing individuals or teams will advance to the finals (deadline for registration in most regional sports is July 3; for more information, call the Ann Arbor Convention and Visitors Bureau at 995-7281).

The finals are scheduled for July 31-Aug. 2 in Lansing. Both regionals and finals are complete with opening ceremonies, and top finishers at the finals will be awarded appropriate medals (gold, silver, bronze).

The biggest problems the two associations have faced in putting the Games on are intertwined: first, finding the financial support necessary, then making sure the word reaches the competitors.

Well, at least I've helped supply the latter — although I do so with certain reservations. I mean, if I do compete, I wouldn't be too disappointed if there were only three others in my event. I guess I'd rather finish fourth in a four-man race than 12th in a 13-man race. I'm capable of either, on a good day.

Entry booklets for the Great Lakes State Games are available at most city's recreation offices. There is an entry fee for all events. For information regarding finals-only events, call (517) 483-4021. Sports that don't require regional qualifying may still be offered at the regionals; contact the Ann Arbor Convention and Visitors Bureau at the number listed above for a complete list of regional events.

Amateur finalist: Mark Johnson, from Livonia and Catholic Central, reached the final four in the Michigan Amateur Tournament at Oakland Hills.

Wayne County golfers shine at Amateur

BY MARTY BUDNER
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County won the battle against Oakland County in play last week at the 81st Michigan Amateur Tournament played on the North Course of Oakland Hills.

The original field of 150 players consisted of 69 golfers from those two counties — 47 from Oakland and 22 from Wayne. Nine of those Oakland County amateurs were members of the host club.

Despite those long odds, it was Wayne County's stars that shone brightest when the final day of competition rolled around on Saturday.

Three of the final four contestants in match play represented Wayne County. Oakland County was shut out.

Two of the three Wayne County golfers — Mark Johnson and Dean Kobane — are from Livonia.

Johnson, a Redford Catholic Central grad (1989) who hails from a distinguished golf family, advanced to the Final Four with a match-play victory over Greg Beale, 2-and-1. The long-hitting Kobane advanced with a 3-and-1 win over Jerry Keilch.

Johnson's father, John H. Johnson, is a veteran amateur participant whose best showing at the Michigan Amateur was 1988 when he qualified for the Final Four. An older brother, Todd, now an assistant pro at the Grosse Ile Country Club, made it to the Final Eight last year at Michawaye.

A sister, Megan Johnson, was Livonia Stevenson's best golfer this past fall and plans to attend Purdue.

This was Mark Johnson's second amateur tournament. He failed to make the cut last year, so making the Final Four this summer was a big accomplishment for the Eastern Michigan

Kobane slips in amateur title bid

BY MARTY BUDNER
STAFF WRITER

Randy Lewis met the challenge of a couple of young Livonia golfers and captured the 81st Michigan Amateur Championship Saturday afternoon at Oakland Hills Country Club.

Lewis charged out to an early lead in the final round of match play and held on to sink Livonia Churchill graduate Dean Kobane (3 and 2). In the morning semifinal match, Lewis survived a grueling outing against Catholic Central graduate Mark Johnson (1-up in 21 holes).

It marked the first state amateur title for Lewis, a 35-year-old Alma resident who never had reached the final day of match play in seven previous attempts.

Lewis also became the sixth medalist — he tied for stroke play honors at 142 with Oakland Hills members R. Hunter McDonald and John Morgan — to win the championship. The last person to do it was Troy's Bill McDonald in 1981.

"I did have a tough match this morning (against Johnson)," said Lewis. "I was able to get ahead (in the final against Kobane) and it's hard to come back once you build up a lead. I just wanted to keep playing steady and making pars."

Lewis won four of the first six holes against Kobane and finished the front nine with a lead of 4-up. Lewis birdied the par-3 10th hole and went 5-up and the tournament appeared all but over.

Kobane, playing his fourth state amateur tournament, did not give up easily. After halving the next three holes, the 23-year-old recent University of Michigan graduate won the 13th and 14th holes to reduce Lewis' lead by two holes with four to play.

Kobane had a chance to win the par-4 15th hole, but a birdie attempt rolled wide. The players played an even 16th hole, and that gave Lewis the victory.

"You don't need to make a lot of birdies, you just need to play steady like (Lewis) did," said Kobane. "It was difficult for me to come back because he did play so steady."

"The whole week I was able to get off to good starts and play conservatively. This was the first time I was down and I really didn't know how to react. I knew I'd really have to get hot at the end."

"When I birdied the 14th hole, that was inspiring, but it just wasn't there," said Kobane. "I didn't have the magical touch you need to win in the last round of the amateur."

Despite the loss, Kobane said he was satisfied with his strong week of golf.

"I'm really not disappointed. I've played (the amateur) four times and made match play each time," he said. "This is the furthest I've ever gotten. I was determined to win, but that's the way the game of golf goes."

Like Kobane, Johnson was satisfied with his showing.

Johnson trailed through most of his semifinal match against Lewis. He finally tied Lewis on the 16th hole and made a couple of strong birdie putts on the 17th and 18th holes to force the match into sudden death.

The players halved the first two extra holes before Lewis took advantage of a poor Johnson tee shot on the third hole to win the match.

Wayne County won the battle against Oakland County in play last week at the 81st Michigan Amateur Tournament played on the North Course of Oakland Hills.

The original field of 150 players consisted of 69 golfers from those two counties — 47 from Oakland and 22 from Wayne. Nine of those Oakland County amateurs were members of the host club.

Despite those long odds, it was Wayne County's stars that shone brightest when the final day of competition rolled around on Saturday.

Three of the final four contestants in match play represented Wayne County. Oakland County was shut out.

Two of the three Wayne County golfers — Mark Johnson and Dean Kobane — are from Livonia.

Johnson, a Redford Catholic Central grad (1989) who hails from a distinguished golf family, advanced to the Final Four with a match-play victory over Greg Beale, 2-and-1. The long-hitting Kobane advanced with a 3-and-1 win over Jerry Keilch.

Johnson's father, John H. Johnson, is a veteran amateur participant whose best showing at the Michigan Amateur was 1988 when he qualified for the Final Four. An older brother, Todd, now an assistant pro at the Grosse Ile Country Club, made it to the Final Eight last year at Michawaye.

A sister, Megan Johnson, was Livonia Stevenson's best golfer this past fall and plans to attend Purdue.

This was Mark Johnson's second amateur tournament. He failed to make the cut last year, so making the Final Four this summer was a big accomplishment for the Eastern Michigan University junior-to-be.

Ironically, Johnson and Beale are teammates at Eastern. Johnson was down by two holes in the early going, but rallied through the middle part of the course to take a two-up lead after 10 holes.

"It was a tough match to play, especially because he's a teammate. It was a pretty good match," Johnson said of Beale. "I talked him into getting into this tournament and I caddied for him in the qualifier."

"I'm just excited about being in the Final Four," Johnson said after Friday's match-play rounds. "I'm glad (the tournament) was (at Oakland Hills). This club is kind of like Meadowbrook with fast greens."

Meanwhile, like Johnson, this is the furthest Kobane has ever advanced in the amateur. The Livonia Churchill graduate was playing his fourth amateur, with his best showing last year where he made the round of 16.

"I didn't particularly play well in stroke play, but in match play I've been doing all right," said Kobane after Friday's round. "Fortunately I've just put together some of the best rounds I've had in a while. I hit a lot of greens."

Kobane, who just graduated from the University of Michigan, said the pressure of competition can get to you in match play.

"It really gets tense out there — especially when you're facing elimination," he said. "I lost to John Morgan last year on the 20th hole and I think (that experience) really helped me out this year."

The other Wayne County player, Gary Czuzillio, defeated David Rutkowski, 1-up, from Traverse City to qualify for his first Final Four. Randy Lewis from Alma (Macomb County) was the other Final Four qualifier.

Talent laden

Wealth spread around for All-Area team

BY C. J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

When one team reaches the state baseball semifinals and another spends much of the regular season ranked first in the state in Class A — and both are from the same area — you might expect they would dominate an all-area team.

Not so in Observerland.

Redford Catholic Central was listed as the state's top team for much of the season, and proved the rating accurate by winning the Catholic League title and Operation Friendship game. But CC lost in the Class A regional tournament to Westland John Glenn, which made it to the state semis.

But each had just two players selected to the all-Observer first team. It wasn't a snub to either; rather, it was an indication of some superb talent scattered throughout the area.

As proof, CC was not the only league champ in the area. North Farmington collected the Western Lakes crown and Garden City shared the Northwest Suburban League title. John Glenn, by the way, placed fourth in the Lakes Division during the regular season.

Coach Norm Hoene's ability to turn the Rocket's season around, not merely salvaging a decent record but leading them to the state's Final Four, has earned him the Observer's coach of the year honors. A 26-year coaching veteran at John Glenn, Hoene took the Rockets from a 2-6 start to win 15 of their last 17 games; they finished 17-8. And Hoene? He has a 369-239 career record.

FIRST TEAM

Scott Kapla, Redford Catholic Central, pitcher — His pitching record speaks for itself, and was enough to land Kapla a spot on the all-Observer team: a 9-2 win-loss mark and a 1.30 earned run average. He pitched 75 innings, allowing 58 hits, 44 walks and 14 earned runs. He struck out 86 and was selected all-Catholic.

But there's more. Kapla, a senior righthander headed for Eastern Michigan, batted .462 with a team-best 49 hits, 37 runs and 12 doubles. He knocked in 24 runs, added a triple and a home run and stole eight bases.

"He was our best player, our best athlete," said Shamrock coach John Salter. "Besides pitching so well, he really helped us defensively. We could put him in so many places. And he was on base all the time. He has great running speed."

"(EMU) is getting a real versatile athlete."

Mark Temple, North Farmington, pitcher — Like Kapla, Temple — also a senior righthander — is an all-around contributor. He surrendered just 10 earned runs on 37 hits and 23 walks in 61 innings, posting a 9-2 record with a 1.15 ERA. Temple struck out 79 and posted seven shutouts, earning him a spot on the all-WLAA team.

When not pitching, Temple played a strong shortstop. At the plate, he hit .481 and posted an on-base average of .677. He had two doubles, a triple and two homers, driving in 22 runs and scoring 19 more.

His coach, Kevin Kansman, praised Temple not just for his ability but for his attitude. "What I've always said about Mark Temple is, he's a team player," said Kansman. "He never said 'I' the whole season. He was a clutch hitter and he never quit, and he was the best pitcher I've had."

Brian Theis, Redford Union, catcher — An all-NSL selection, Theis — a senior — posted some impressive numbers. He batted .405 for the Panthers and had a .489 on-base average; his slugging average was .689. Theis collected two doubles, three triples and six homers, driving in 21 runs and scoring 22. He also stole 11 bases.

"He's an all-around ball player with tremendous potential," said his coach, Rick Berryman. "He's an untapped resource as a pitcher. He moves the ball very well. And he can play a variety of positions — pitch (he was 2-2 this season with a 3.21 ERA), catch, or in the outfield."

Ed Gundry, Plymouth Salem, infielder — A senior shortstop, Gundry was Salem's top player, according to coach John Gravin. That's one reason why he was named to the all-WLAA's first team.

Here's some others: Gundry batted .509, with four doubles, three triples and five homers. He drove in 19 runs.

Gundry's playing days are hardly over. Before entering EMU this fall, he'll compete at the Junior Olympic Festival for the North team. He is one of 64 players competing on the four teams in the 12-day tournament this summer in Idaho. If he is one of the top 16 players in the tournament, he'll be invited to tryout for the Olympic team.

Norm Hoenes
Coach of the year

Eric Bates, Wayne Memorial, infielder — Bates, a senior third baseman, was the big reason the Zebras came within a game of winning the Wolverine A League. He batted .379, slugging seven doubles, one triple and four home runs, driving in 31 runs and scoring 29 others. His season earned him all-WAL honors.

Defensively, Bates possesses one of the best arms at his position. "He's definitely got an arm," said his coach, Jim Chronowski. "He was our No. 3 hitter all year. Bates hit with authority. His run production — his bat was the main reason we were able to finish second in our league. He was the straw that stirred the drink for us." Bates is considering attending Henry Ford CC in the fall.

Mike Pesci, Farmington Harrison, infielder — Pesci, a senior, wasn't just a top-notch first baseman, but was the Hawks' top pitcher and hitter. He posted a 5-4 win-loss record, but gave up just six earned runs in 57 1/3 innings (0.73 ERA). He allowed 44 hits and 46 walks, striking out 73.

But it was more his bat than his arm that earned him first-team all-WLAA and all-Observer honors. Pesci batted .475 with two doubles, two triples and four home runs, scoring 16 runs and knocking in 26 more.

"He's a great team leader," said coach John Herrington, who also coached Pesci in football. "He was a team captain in three sports. He was the guy we wanted up there in clutch situations."

With good reason, Pesci said Herrington, holds the school record for career RBI (54). "That shows me he can come through when we need it."

Jeff Kozakowski, Garden City, infielder — One thing is certain: The Cougars would not have been nearly as successful (18-6) without Kozakowski.

The senior led the team in both hitting and pitching. At the plate, Kozakowski — who played first base when he wasn't pitching — led Garden City in batting average (.389) and was second in RBI (20) and total bases (41).

Named to the all-NSL team, Kozakowski posted an 8-2 record with a 2.22 ERA for the Cougars. He gave up 39 hits and 16 walks in 60 innings, striking out 74.

"Jeff had to pitch all of our tough games," said coach Bob Dropp. "We hung our hat on what he did, and we ended up 18-6, so he did pretty well."

Jack Wilks, North Farmington, outfielder — A senior, Wilks was an important part of North's success this season. In a word, Wilks was the instigator.

As the leadoff batter, he was supposed to get the offense started. He usually did; Wilks batted .387 with four doubles and a home run, scoring 18 runs and driving in 10. His work earned him all-Lakes Division honors.

"He was a machine," said his coach, Kansman. "He's total hustle, the whole time. He's very consistent both in the field and at the plate."

John Ward, Westland John Glenn, outfielder — Ward was instrumental in helping keep the Rockets going until their season got turned around. He was named to the all-Lakes Division team.

"He's very consistent, and he's been that way for three years," said his coach, Hoenes. The team's No. 3 hitter, Ward — a senior — batted .365 with seven doubles, two triples and two homers, driving in 16 runs and scoring 19. He also stole 16 bases.

"He's an outstanding leader and a real class individual," added Hoenes. "He's kind of quiet, but leads by example."

Dan Gusoff, Redford Catholic Central, outfielder — A senior, Gusoff earned his stripes both in the outfield and on the mound. He batted .326, collecting seven doubles, one triple and a homer, driving in 25 runs. "He's a great power hitter," said his coach, Salter. "He's a good RBI man; he hit better with guys in scoring position. And he really came on as a pitcher."

Indeed he did. On the mound, Gusoff — who was all-Catholic A-B Division — posted a 6-2 record, giving up 24 hits and 23 walks in 42 innings, striking out 50. He had a 1.64 ERA.

Aaron Scheffer, Westland John Glenn, alternate — Scheffer's finish to the season is what earned him a spot on the all-Lakes Division and all-Observer teams.

The junior pitcher/outfielder got off to a slow start on the mound with an 0-3 record "partly because he was 7-1 last year," said Hoenes. "After his first three games (this season), he settled down and the team settled down and he pitched very well for us."

Scheffer finished with a 6-5 record and one save, tossing 64 1/3 innings and allowing 19 earned runs on 42 hits and 25 walks, striking out 88 and posting a 2.05 ERA. At the plate, Scheffer batted .298 with five doubles and 14 RBI.

"He was potent at the plate," said Hoenes. "He knows the strike zone very well. He can play several positions, and he can play the infield, too. He had to be a key factor for us. He accepted the role very well and carried the team."

Walter's outlasts Caesars, 4-1 to gain ground in league play

Walter's Appliance made up ground on Livonia Little Caesars Friday with a 4-1 win over the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League's first-place team at Ford Field.

Walter's pitcher Mike Coleman (Madonna University) allowed only three Caesars hits, struck out eight and walked five for the victory. Caesars' only run came on a home run by Mike Giacomantonio in the sixth inning.

The win improved Walter's to 8-6. Caesars' first-place record fell to 10-5.

Joe Brusseau (Redford Bishop Borgess and Madonna), Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill and Madonna) and Paul Pirronello (Redford Catholic Central and Henry Ford Community College) had two hits each for Walter's. Brusseau scored two runs, while Jason Gabel (Churchill), Shandell Currie and Pirronello collected one RBI each.

Brusseau led off the third with a single, went to second on a stolen base and scored on an error. Kevin Young (Farmington) singled and came home with the second run of the inning on Gabel's double.

Jeff Schaffer (Livonia Franklin) scored the third run in the fourth. Schaffer singled, went to second on a wild pitch, advanced to third on an error and scored on Currie's sacrifice fly. Pirronello's single in the fourth scored Brusseau with the final run.

Delwal prevails

Derek Wirebaugh tossed a two-hitter Wednesday to lead Delwal to a 5-1 win over Ann Arbor Wendy's in a Livonia Collegiate baseball encounter at Novi High.

Wirebaugh improves his record to 3-1, striking out four and walking three. The lone Wendy's run was unearned.

Delwal had six hits, including two from infielder Mike Pesci (Farmington Hills Harrison). They improve to 8-5 and are alone in second place.

Delwal broke open a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning, scoring four runs, thanks to a bases-loaded single from Chris Munson, scoring a pair.

Mike Schwartzberger contributed two RBI, one of which came on a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Hines Park wins

Hines Park edged Walter's Appliance 2-1 at Ford Field.

Jeff Paluk (Plymouth Salem) pitched solid for the winners, hurling seven innings and fanning five. Hines Park is 8-6.

Steve Ross (Redford Catholic Central) suffered the loss for Walter's, going the first three innings and allowing both runs, only one of which was earned. Sean Henkel went the final three and gave up just one hit and struck out three.

Walter's (7-6) scored its lone run in the fourth inning when Shandell Currie singled home Kevin Young.

WHAT EVERY MAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT IMPOTENCE.

IT'S TREATABLE.

The real tragedy of impotence is letting it go untreated even one more day. Stop denying yourself and your sexual partner an important part of your life. Impotence can be treated in almost every case.

The STAR program developed by Grace Hospital provides complete diagnosis and treatment of male impotence. This confidential program is directed first at determining the cause of the problem. Diseases such as diabetes, cancer, multiple sclerosis and problems with prostate, heart and high blood pressure are common causes. There are many others. Injuries to the spinal cord, and low hormone levels can also cause erection failure. So, too, can fatigue, alcohol, drugs, smoking, stress and depression. Medicines used to treat such things as depression, high blood pressure, and ulcers can be part of the problem. Age alone is not a cause of impotence. And, yes, some impotence problems are psychologically based, even organic impotence has an important psychological component that requires identification and treatment. An accurate diagnosis is the key to effective treatment. Sometimes only a change in medication is needed. More serious problems may require surgery. But help is available. Complete, confidential and supportive. Call today, and talk to one of our professionals.

Buying a Used Car Can Be Risky.

Blackwell Ford can help minimize the risk you take when purchasing a used vehicle. Every used vehicle sold by Blackwell Ford undergoes extensive reconditioning and safety inspection before it is offered for sale. If the vehicle does not meet our high standards, it will never be displayed on our lot. In the unlikely event that something does go wrong with your vehicle during the first 30 days or 2,000 miles, whichever occurs first, we will stand behind it 100% and repair it free of charge. It's that simple. We offer new car peace of mind with your used vehicle purchase. Stop in today to see our large selection of quality used vehicles, all priced to sell. And please remember...

"If You Don't Know Used Cars, Know Your Dealer."
