Spisak quits school board seat

Veteran board of education member Andrew Spisak resigned from his position this week in continuing fallout from the district politics which led to the resignation of former superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

Spisak, a seven-year board member, said he remains bitter over the forced changes could make him a divisive retirement of former superintendent Dennis O'Neill, who stepped down in member Andrew Spisak resigned October under pressure from a board majority.

Spisak's resignation came Monday as new Superintendent Larry Thomas and two new board members, elected in June, were sworn in during a special session. His departure marks a complete sweep of the seven-member board in two years, except for board member Leonard Posey.

Saying the new guard deserves a chance to get the district "back on track," Spisak indicated he couldn't remain an effective legislator.

"I believe if I were to remain on the hoard, I would become what I now de-Spise - a negative person," he said, reading from a prepared statement. "I would more than likely compare the new with the old.

"In short, I would become a divisive legislator that, combined with the negativity of some present board members, would or could doom this district or, at the very least, the new superintendent and new administration to failure," Spisak said.

Posey gets board chief job

By DARRELL CLEM

Leonard Posey, the only black ever elected to the Wayne-Westland school board, reached a new milestone Monday by being chosen as the board's new président.

Posey's selection also marked the first time that a resident of the lakster portion of the 16,000-student Wayne-Westland district has ascended to the board's top post.

The board's decision places Posey vice president of a Troy-based human resources and management consulting firm - in a highly visible role that he hopes will send a message to other minorities.

Posey, 38, pledged to "represent all the kids in our district" and to strive to move the board beyond the political squabbling that has plagued the disfriet for months.

Posey's selection came during a special session in which the board also voted to appoint board members Vicki Welty as vice president, Laurel Raisanen as secretary and Richard Le-Blanc as treasurer.

The meeting also marked the swearing in of LeBlanc and Francis "Bud" Winter as new board members, in the wake of their victories in the June 8 school hoard race. New Superintendent

Mayor denies blocking Ziemba's daughter from job

By DARRELL CLEM

Mayor Robert Thomas has denied accusations he used his political influence to keep the 17-year-old daughter of a former Westland City Council member out of a Job.

Thomas came under fire Monday from former Councilman William Ziemba, a political foe, amid accusations the mayor blocked a parks and recreation job that Zicinba's daughter, Melissa, wanted for the summer.

Ziemba, saying Thomas had a personal vendetta against him, asked the mayor during a council meeting: "Did you and your inner circle pat each other on the back, celebrating how you kicked the knees out from under a 17-year-old?"

Thomas denied Ziemba's claims and said the city tries to offer job opportunities to students who've never worked for the city.

Ziemba's daughter had worked last summer in the program that provides recreational activities for younger children. "She got along with the children,"

"Ziemba described the girl as "crushed" when she received a telephone call from her supervisor on Friday, July 3, telling her not to report for work Monday. "You ruined her Fourth of July," he told Thomas.

The girl, who will be a senior at John Glenn High School this fall, had already received her uniform and job assignment and had attended a three-hour job orientation on June 29, Ziemba sald.

"Is she going to be compensated for (the orientation), or are you going to beat her out of $15?" Ziemba asked Thomas. On Tuesday, Thomas confirmed that the girl will be paid for the three hours. Despite their political differences, Ziemba told Thomas, "I've always respected you as a man, I no longer do."

Outside the council chambers, Ziemba told the Observer, "I sincerely hope this doesn't turn into a witch hunt and other people's children lose their jobs." Earlier, the mayor said that, if he indeed wanted to use his political influence to deny the girl employment; he would have blocked her from the job last summet.

"You're wrong," he told Ziemba.

On Tuesday, Thomas told the Observer, "I don't think it's fair to thire) the same people year after year." Other young people deserve an opportunity to work, he said.

The mayor also accused Ziemba of "a double standord." He pointed out that Ziemba, in the recent Wayne-Westland school board race, signed campaign literature accusing defeated school board candidate Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek of using her influence to obtain jobs for family members.

Ziemba's actions Monday indicated that, because he's a former council member, he believed his daugh. ter should've gotten the summer job Thomas said.

"I just think that's kind of like a double standard," the mayor said.

Ziemba's accusations Monday prompted Councilman Kenneth Mehl to request a report about the number of applicants who applied for and received summer jobs. If Zlemba's allegations are true, Mehl said, "I would be tremendously disappointed."

Larry Thomas also took the oath of office Monday.

As president, Posey won the support of every board member except Fred Warmbier, who abstained amid concerns that Posey didn't support the May 13 selection of Thomas as superintendent.

Posey had accused the board of rushing its selection process. On Monday, however, he said he had

• He suggested the board consider rotating some of its meetings among the various school buildings, in an effort to make the meetings more accessible to the public.

• He told the board he wants to receive bids from local car dealers before he buys or leases a vehicle at district expense. He wants the board and the district's finance officer, Randy Liepa, to be involved in selecting the vehicle.

 He asked the board to evaluate him on first-year goals that he plans to establish by mid-October. He wants the evaluation to occur in public session.

Moreover, Thomas wants the board and his administration to daunch plans to develop a long-term plan for improving the district over the next three to five years.

State investigates complaint that flier broke election rules

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

The state is proceeding on a complaint that three political foes of ousted school board member Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek violated state elections laws for failing to say who paid for campaign fliers opposing her candidacy.

In a June 30 letter, the Secretary of State's Office wrote that campaign fliers opposing the Wayne-Westland board member didn't include disclaimers noting who paid for them.

The fliers in question accused the seven year board member of using her position to get city and school jobs for her family members, such as her husband, David, who's the 18th District Court administrator.

The literature also implied that: Kozorosky-Wiacek, the city of Westland's senior resources director, used her influence to manipulate senior citizens for political power on the school board.

The fliers were signed by William Ziemba, a former Westland City Council member, Carol Gillentine, a Wayne-Westland custodial emplayee, and Fredric Hagelthorn. whose earlier attempt to recall Kazorosky-Wiacek failed.

In a letter to Kozorosky-Wiacek's campaign co-chairman, Thomas Artley, the state wrote that campaign fliers must include the words "paid for by" followed by the name and complete address of the person paying for the literature.

But the literature in question "does not include the name and complete address of the person paying for it." wrote Thomas R. McCulloch of the Secretary of State's Compliance and Rules Divi-

In a separate letter on June 30, McCulloch told Ziemba, Hagelthorn and Gillentine of the alleged violation and indicated that a preliminary review may occur. Afterward, the state would decide whether to dismiss the complaint or uphold it.

McCulloch invited: Ziemba, Hagelthorn and Gillentine to send any written response or evidence refuting Kozorosky-Wiacek's claims to the state within 14 days.

School officials attack state aid plan

By DARRELL CLEM

School officials are attacking a controversial state aid bill approved by the Michigan Legislature that would slash $200,000 from the Wayne-Westland school district

Some state officials have lauded the bill and said it would mark a 2percent increase this year for funding in kindergarten through 12th year. grades.

But Wayne-Westland educators : have stressed that gains in K-12 funding would be wiped out by deep cuts in state aid for adult education, retirement and Social Securi-

"The bottom line is that we will have about $200,000 less than we anticipated," Superintendent Larry Thomas sald.

State Rep. Justine Barns, D. Westland, joined 48 other House legislators in opposing the measure, controversial school aid bill.

The Senate had already approved the spending plan. The bill has been sent to Gov. John Engler for about $200,000 less his signature.

Local school officials welcomed an increase in K-12 funding that will be based on last year's student enrollment. That comes as an added bonus for Wayne-Westland, which lost 200 pupils in the last

But the district would be hurt by several measures, including one that would slash state aid for students 18 to 20 years old who attend the Ford Vocational-Technical Center. Those students would no longer be counted if they have high school

"It really hurts districts like Wayne-Westland, Garden City and Redford Union that are heavy into adult education," said Jerry Dunn, executive secretary for the Metropolitan Association for Improved but they were outnumbered last School Legislation, which lobbles week as 56 lawmakers approved the for districts like Wayne-Westland.

Wayne-Westland would lose $1 million for adult education, he said. Garden City would lose $1.9 million and Redford Union $2 million.

"It's a terrible, lousy bill," Dunn

This week, educators continued to assess the impending damage that can be expected from the school aid bill. Wayne-Westland officials eventually will have to amend an $83.7-million budget that the school loard approved just two wecks ago.

Area teens win boating scholarships

Gerald Solensky of Troy, Jeffrey Bobo and Daniel Mykols, both of Canton Township, were among 28 Michigan students awarded a total of $19,750 in scholarships through a foundation set up by the Michigan Boating Industries Association and First of America Bank.

The foundation, founded in 1984. is a support program for students interested in professional careers in the recreational boating industry. Scholarships are based on merit and financial need.

Van Snider, MBIA executive director, said more than 50 students applied. The foundation works to coordinate work study during the summer months and permanent employment after graduation. It is working with Maconib Community College on a course emphasizing leading to an associate's degree.

Private school proposal stirs local debate

By Tim Carvell Staff Writer

First, Christopher Whittle prompted a debate among educators by suggesting that students should watch TV in school. Now, he's building his own schools, and local educators are arguing again.

Whittle, best known for his controversial in-school Channel One television broadcasts, announced recently that he had created the Edison Project, a for-profit chain of 1,000 private schools.

The schools, under the guidance of Yale University president Benno Schmidt Jr., will charge the same amount the government spends per student each year, approximately $5,500; Whittle said he hopes to make a 15% profit on the venture.

Project representatives said they have not yet chosen the sites for the initial 200 schools, which are scheduled to open in 1996.

Whittle's plan has not won many proponents among local schools as another setback for state funded education.

Citing recent tax and aid cuts and the property tax freeze, Jay Young, supervisor of public relations for the Livonia School District, said he felt the Edison Project plan only intensifies the problems facing the public school

"Currently, Michigan schools are suffering from various measures passed by the state Legislature and the governor . . . We need to re-look at the way we finance education around the state. I don't feel the way to solve educational problems is through entrepreneurial projects," Young

Some administrators took a more favorable view of the Edison Project, Michael Flanagan, superintendent of Farmington schools, saw the schools as a testing ground for new teaching tech-

"I have to admit, my first reaction was skeptical, but I think it could be a research laboratory for us in public education. We don't have anything to lose, and we have something to gain," Flanagan said.

2 Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations in the Plymouth-Canton school district, said he doubted the new schools could compete with the public school system.

"We charge $4,878 per student, and we would stack our system up against anyone else's. I think we offer unparalleled educational opportunities. If he can do better, more power to him," Egli said.

Still, Whittle's decision to sell commercial time on Channel One to advertisers made some public school administrators Jeery of the Edison Project.

Like many administrators, Dr. Robert Docking, superintendent of Bloomfield Hills schools, said he felt Whittle was "a good salesman without a lot of substance."

The quality of the schools was the primary concern for two private school administrators, whose high school tuitions are slightly above $11,000 per year.

Whittle's previous attempts at education reform made Dr. Daniel Behring, director of schools for the Cranbrook Educational Community, doubtful that the education provided by the Edison Project would benefit the student.

"I would put my het on education that pays attention to all dimensions of a child's life instead of the technological, cerebral focus which Whittle seems to favor . . . It certainly isn't the kind of education I believe in," Behring said.

Gerald Hansen, headmaster of Birmingham Detroit Country Day School, said he did not foresee an Edison Project school posing a threat to DCDS, "Will they be able to offer full sports and full activities? There are a lot of dimensions to a school, and the dimensions they will be able to implement remain to be seen," Hansen

Still, Hansen said he supported the idea of having as many educational options as possible.

"I think school choice is wonderful," Hansen said. "The more competition there is, the more the consumer will benefit, because it will raise educational standards."

Administrators at parochial schools, where tuition is usually between $2,000 and $3,000 per year, said they did not think Whitthe would have trouble running a well rounded school while making a profit.

The Rev. Al Gensa, associate principal for academics at Detroit Catholic Central, said he thinks the plan "sounds like a good idea." "The price seems pretty high. He's charging $2,200 more than us." Gensa said. "If people can pay for it, it should be a good school."

Gensa's remarks were echoed by Will Gervais, associate principal at Farmington's Mercy High School, "That's a fairly substantial tuition, but if he's got a good product, priced and marketed correctly, it will probably be a sucçess," Gervais said.

Relationships can come and go, but pets remain

Without friendship and love, the world would be a lonely place. Many studies have shown that married couples are more healthy, physically and mentally, than single and divorced individuals. But for people who find themselves alone - whether single, divorced, childless, or widowed - a pet is the perfect companion.

Pets offer the healthy advantage that any relationship offers. They reach out to their owner with love and affection, and need to be taken care of and loved in return. This gives lonely people a sense of worth and responsibility, which helps enhance their overall well-being.

Pets help ease depression/shyness Individuals who suffer from depression tend to be self-occupied, the endl

For years, scientific studies have and moody, which makes it difficult to establish a healthy friendowner's depression get them down. They reach out in a safe, friendly, and non-threatening way.

For people who have difficulty establishing relationships, a pet is a wonderful way to learn and grow. Animals are affectionate, loyal, and accepting, no matter what a person looks like or how well they relate to other people. Many times, extremely shy people have been able to open up to other individuals and establish. friendships after bonding with a pet.

Pets teach children responsibility Children benefit in a special way from pets because they learn early on about unconditional love and acceptance, and how to be responsible for another living creature. On a more somber note, the death of a pet teaches the child how to work through the experience of loss. Although it is sad, a child learns and accepts that death is a part of life.

Retiree saw cities bloom where farms stood

By TIM CARVELL STAFF WRITER

When Edward Hustoles Started work 40 years ago, Farmington was still a farming town and Southfield consisted mainly of fields.

Hustoles' first day of work was Monday, June 13, 1952, three days after his graduation from the Illinois Institute of Technology. From then until his June 12 retirement from SEMCOG, he worked almost nonstop, watching and helping the expansion of the Detroit area.

"I never missed a paycheck, and I had three two-week vacations," said Hustoles, a Southfield resident.

Hustoles' devotion could be attributed to a simple fact: "I can honestly say that I've never been borred Never.

Indeed, Hustoles still will act as a consultant at the Southeastern Michigan Council of Government in Detroit, where he worked for the 16 years preceeding his retirement. Although Hustoles intends to keep busy - he's currently helping the Catholic diocese in Detroit draw up a master plan - his wife will have first claim on his retirement time. Before SEMCOG, Hustoles served as vice-president of the Southfield community planning firm of Vilican-Lenan & Associates for 19 years and served on the Detroit and Chicago planning commis-

In those jobs, Hustoles helped design communities both around Detroit and throughout the Midwest. He was the project director for the I-696 Corridor Joint Development Study, and helped draw up plans for cities when they weren't even townships.

"When Troy was farmland, we marked that it would be a corporate center, but we never expected 25foot office buildings." Hustoles

Although Hustoles has often been surprised by the massive expansion of the area, there was one development that proved particularly jarring empty out," he said.

In the 1950s, Hustoles said, the 1990 population of the Detroit area was estimated at 8 million. The projections, however, failed to take into account the decline of the auto industry, the shrinking size of the family and the rising crime rate. There are now 5 million people in the Detroit area, and the errors made in planning Detroit have provided costly lessons.

"All the mile roads were zoned commercial. Detroit had enough mile roads for 11 million people," Hustoles said. "Businesses became scattered and we had empty lots. Now, commercial strips are seques-

During his time in Michigan, Hustoles has studied firsthand the effects of the exodus from Detroit. which began in the 1960s - in particular, the continuous expansion of suburbs. The trend of replacing old suburbs with new-ones, he said, has damaged both city and suburb.

"We can't keep building the way we used to," Hustoles said. "The

We never expected Detroit to golden age of building and expan-'sion is over."

This is no idle speculation; Hustoles arrived at his conclusion while working on a massive Regional Development Initiative at SEMCOG. which predicted trends in land use for the next 20 years. The study's results indicate that the cost of suburban expansion will soon outweigh its perceived benefits.

"You can't keep moving out, creating new infrastructures while you ahandon the old ones. The old ones ... still have to be maintained. You, can't build roads and spread out and live on a big lot and keep building and have low taxes. They're incompatible."

If anything, Hustoles foresees a rebirth of Detroit.

"I don't think, in the long run, we're going to see Detroit abandoned. As a planner once said, trend is not destiny. Things can change.

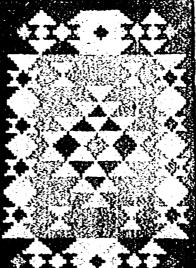

- Hustoles acknowledged that some don't share his rosy outlook. "You don't get into planning," he said, "unless you're an optimist and believe things can happen."

Lennon exhibition visits Detroit

It's been nearly 12 years since John Lennon's death, but Yoko Ono is making sure his artistic legacy remains alive. An exhibition of 70 Lennon drawings, which will be in Detroit through Sunday, shows a lighter, more humorous side of the musician/artist.

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

It's summer in New York City. At 9:45 Wednesday morning, Yoko Ono's soft, soothing voice comes over the telephone, describing the blue, shimmering sky that hovers over the Manhattan skyline.

The widow of slain rock legend John Lennon couldn't be in rainy, dreary Detroit for the opening of the "Imagine Exhibition," some 70 drawings created by Lennon between 1968, when he was with The Beatles, and 1980, the year of his death.

But Ono's enthusiasm for her late Jiusband's art work becomes clear as she talks about the black humor, political satire and "honest love feelings" depicted in the pen and ink drawings on display 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day through Sunday at the Omni International Hotel in Detroit.

The common theme is honesty. He believed in it," she said of the exhibition that's on a 50-city U.S. tour. She often refers to Lennon in the present tense, as if he were still alive.

Unquestionably, Lennon is better known for his music than his art work. But his drawings -- relying primarily on a single, sweeping line that reflects a minimalist approach - have gained increasing attention since his death.

A line from his song "Instant Karma" comes to mind: "We all shine on." A student at Liverpool Art College from 1957 to 1960, Lennon continued to draw even as The Beatles crashed the '60s rock music scene and defined the future of music.

"John's songs and art work really parallel each other," One said. "The only difference is that the art work is visual. His art work confirmed that he's a truly talented person, kind of a renaissance man.

Often, Lennon's animated-type drawings have been snubbed by the highbrow art world, which Ono said couldn't. seem to reconcile that a rock musician could produce meaningful art work. Many attitudes have since changed, however.

Eroticism and peace

A controversy in 1970 illustrates the furor over some of Lennon's works. A portfolio composed of images of his marriage to Ono and his romantic and erotic love for her - was partially seized by Scotland Yard after an opening at the London Art Gallery.

about that," One recalls. She admits she's a little embarrassed now by some of the drawings, but they were done at a time in life when she "didn't think twice" about the subject matter.

The exhibit also showed scenes from the couple's "bed-in for peace," their plea for world peace.

"That hed in is a legend now," Ono

Despite the AIDS epidemic and a general just-say-no mentality that has become widespread. One said she still believes that today's teens understand - and can relate to - the free lifestyle of the '60s.

"A lot of 17- and 18-year-olds are into the '60s. They know more about the '60s sometimes than I do," she said.

Lennon's humor

The intense, serious nature of much of Lennon's music sometimes overwhelmed him, but his humorous. side occasionally emerged in his drawings - even though is was sometimes black humor.

"Because his music was so serious. he was telling himself in his drawings to have a sense of humor," Ono said.

"Nothing Is Impossible" shows Lennon walking on water. He apparently wanted to humor the fans who often saw him - and perhaps his fellow Beatles - as somehow beyond human, larger than life.

Another drawing, "American

"Obviously John wasn't very happy Dream," depicts a large round, pleshaped bed that the couple shared for about six months. In the sketch, their heads are side by side and they're smiling. Underneath, the caption reads: "An American Pie Bed."

Lennon had always believed that people sitting at a round table - as opposed to a square one - could better communicate. And he wanted a round bed.

"It never really worked very well. We. still felt more comfortable in the regular, bed," One said.

Serious art

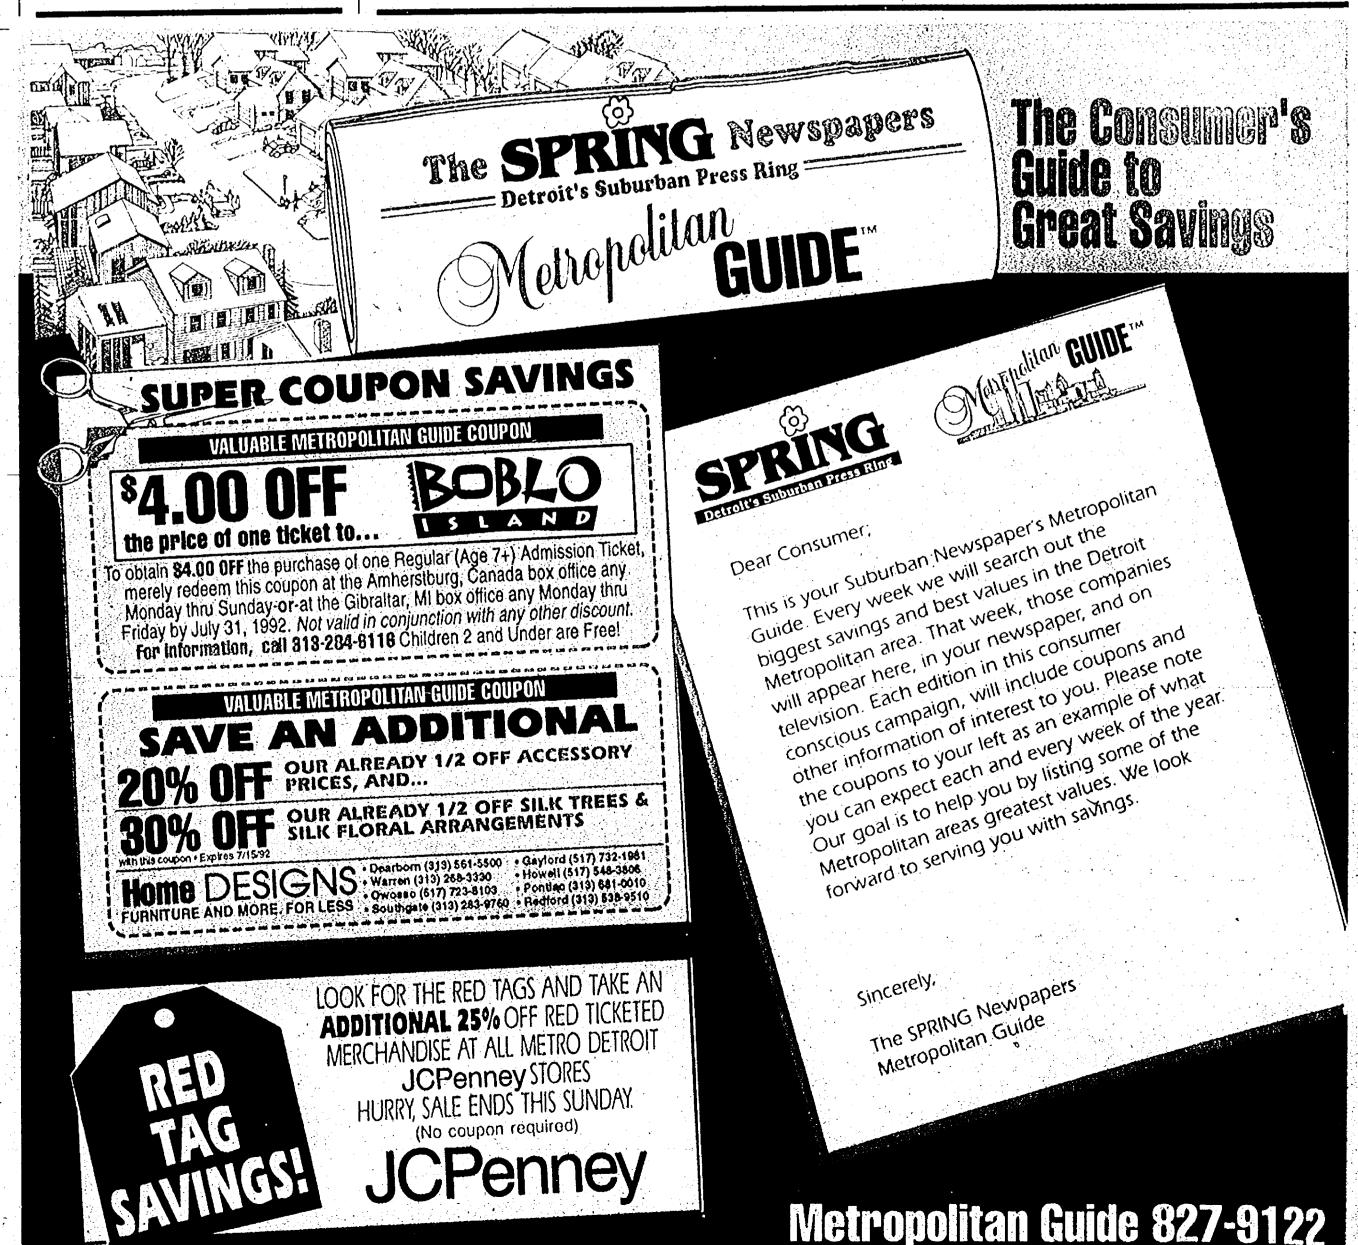

One has a difficult time choosing a favorite drawing from among Lennon's works, but she remains fond of "Bag One," which, with a one-brush stroke, shows the couple intertwined. They appear as one; their figures form an almost circular sketch.

"It's me and John, the yin and yang. And it represents man and woman, harmony," she said.

When he first drew "Bag One," Lennon was disappointed and wanted to discard it. One convinced him to keep it. To her, the drawing could have been

"I believe I saved it," she said.

Some of Lennon's art also emerged during his trips to Japan. He bridged the gap between Eastern and Western cultures, One said.

New economic club president sets goals

Support of member-owned businesses will be a major focus of Hellen Walker in her role as the new president of the Women's Economic Club. At one time, almost all members were employees of large corporations.

Hellen Walker, director of technical systems for Michigan Bell and a Southfield resident, recalled how thrilled she was to attend her first Women's Economic Club luncheon 15 years ago.

"I remember being very, very impressed and feeling very good about the experience," she said. "When I go to a meeting today, I come away with the same feeling. I feel motivated, feel charged up and say I'm ready to conquer the world."

Walker, 43, now president, has some big plans for the organization, which is open to men as well as women.

"One of the goals I have for the club this year is to encourage support of member-owned business.

"Thirty years ago at the inception of the club, the vast majority of members were employees of major corporations. That's still true, but we're finding that increasing numbers own their own busi-

At times, Pat Buntele feels cut off from the outside world.

Buntele, president of the Accon Group in Farmington Hills, a homebased distributor of computerbased purchasing, receiving and inventory control software, started her own business three years ago. -- .

But that career decision has had some drawbacks in addition to what one might expect (ie. the hard work, iong hours, struggling to make ends meet) - it has brought a feeling of

There are no associations, few resources and little help for the homebased business, she said.

That is changing.

Grace Smith and Toni Bonner, partners in a new venture called the GT Group, are beginning to reach out to the segments of the homebased business industry

After more than a year of planning, and even more time in the idea stage, the two have launched HomeBiz PRO, a newsletter for the homebased business owner.

"It's surprising someone hasn't done something like this already,' Bonner said.

Both she and Smith are veterans in the homebased business world; she as a marketing consultant and Smith as a communications and sometime desktop publishing professional.

"More people want to become their own bosses today because of lifestyles and income," she said. Also, with the downsizing of corporate America, more middle managers are finding themselves out of work and with an unexpected opportunity to start a business.

Businesses vary from computerrelated, general contracting and photography to calligraphy and catering, she said. "They aren't just arts and crafts anymore.

Setting up

The goal of the newsletter is to inform people on the legalities of what is required of home businesses and ways to market and improve business.

"Just because they could work in corporate America, doesn't mean they can market their business, balance the books or any of a number of tasks," she said.

While in the business world, these people had subordinates doing many of the jobs they must now do themselves, she said.

"They have the expertise in one or two areas, but not in all areas."

Practical information

Smith said each HomeBiz PRO will include information on the industry, resources, marketing hints, features on topics like health care and retirement, guest columnists, suggestions on improving professional image, and tips on husiness etiquette.

Smith said the HomeBiz PRO is designed to meet the needs of everyone from the person thinking of starting a home business to the person who is already established.

Smith said most of the feedback on the first issue has been positive, and suggestions from readers will help the newsletter to evolve.

"People think it's practical, but they want more how to articles how to start a home business, how to market it, how to keep books.

"They want to learn as much as they can as quickly as they can," Smith said.

Setting goals

The newsletter is only part of the GT Group's plans for homebased husinesses. The company also provides consulting in marketing, communications and training assistance for homebased businesses.

The duo's long term objective is to launch a statewide association for homebased businesses. "We're thinking about conferences, trade shows and workshops," Smith said.

Future goals for an association could be working toward providing group health insurance, education seminars and maybe even lobbying.

Bonner said the immediate plans are to keep working on the newsletter and provide subscribers with practical information that can help them operate more efficiently.

"It isn't the only thing a person starting a business needs, but it's a good start,"Bonner said.

All of that sounds fine to Pat Buntele who, after three years of working out of a bedroom of her home, said she was beginning to rethink the idea of a homebased busi-

She may still set up sliop in an office, she said, but the biggest advantage of a newsletter devoted to the needs of the home-based business person is it helps to reinforce that she is not alone.

A newsletter may not have all the answers she needs, she said, but it will help spark her imagination and think of things that she might not have thought of otherwise.

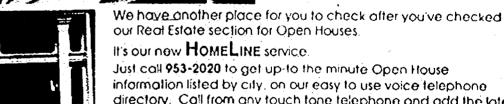

"It's something we (in homebased businesses) have been lack-

Even the good 'ol nickup has a sein a couple of 1 months, one of cret life, led mainly by the fact that it is cheap, insurable, and California teenagers think it's hip, or whatever California teenagers say these days ...

Oddly enough, light trucks have another inscrutable side -- they so far have been more or less immune to Japanese competition, and hence are carrying a disproportionate share of whatever slim profits are left in this market. The tooling scems to go on forever, the engines are standardized and inexpensive to manufacturer, and single-model volume is as good as a Chery sedan was in the good old days before niche marketing.

There are some strange reasons for this lack of success of the Japanese. One being that there is virtually no Japanese home market for a US style truck - the engines and chassis are too large for Tokyo roads. A few cynics follow this upwith the observation that without a appedict, but it's clear that the last Japanese manufacturing base to profitable enclave for the U.S. inflood the U.S. market, the Japanese simply aren't interested. In an odd sort of way, domestic, trucks have managed to out-engineer the Japanese as well, providing more power, durability and overall improvement from year to year. It's also worth noting that some imports ed light trucks are slapped with a 25. percent tariff ... the only such protective measure in the U.S. marketplace.

For all these reasons, Toyota has up to now stayed out of direct competition with U.S. light pickup manufacturers, even while it was quietly developing a mid-size pickup of its own.

Toyota seemed to be waiting for a signal from Washington that the anti-Japanese sentiment was changing. Last week, the U.S. Trade Commission's decision to rule against the U.S. manufacturers on the anti-dumping case opened the gate, and now Toyota is charging in The end result is not easy to dustry is now under attack:

Summer dangers

Offer safer options for youth

ow that school is over for the summer, parents should be giving some thought to how their children will be spending their time.

Left to themselves, without direction, kids will spend hours in front of televisions, playing video games or on the telephone. Each one of these activities is fine, in moderation. To avoid excess, alternative activity needs to be planned.

The Suburban Life section of the Observer recently contained an excellent list of suggested activities for the summer months. Hopefully, you read it and saved it. If not, check that recycling bin before it ends up on the curb.

The parks and recreation department has a list of summer programs and classes, including activities at a nearby park or at neighborhood schoolgrounds. And there are a variety of choices at the city pools, city parks, the ice arena, ball diamonds, soccer fields, nature trails, etc. The parks and rec office also sells tickets at discount prices to area attractions such as Bob-Lo, the Detroit Zoo, Four Bears Waterpark, Cedar Point, King's Island, Sea World, etc.

Stop by the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA on Wayne Road south of Cherry Hill to investigate the swimming pool, gym, fitness center, children's day camp and summer schedule of activities. The Y accepts memberships in the summer, too, and many answers you find to relieve summer boredom also will be useful this fall and winter.

And don't forget the library. A good book is probably the best substitute to television's electronically-fed storylines. What a wonderful thing to do this summer — introduce your youngster to the fun of reading. Libraries also have music tapes and records, videotapes of all kinds, computer software games, storytime hours, puppet shows and many other summer activities.

Day trips with parents also are great summer activities. Try Belle Isle, the Dossin Great Lakes Museum, the art institute, historical museum, Fort Wayne, Greenfield Village, Henry Ford Museum, Edsel Ford Mansion, Tiger Stadium, Maybury State Park, bicycle trails, Kensington, Camp Dearborn, Hudson-Mills, the other metro parks and nearby lakes, beaches and picnic grounds.

And there are also many choices made available by private enterprise, such as roller rinks, miniature golf, go carts, batting cages, slot carracing, golf driving ranges, new and used book stores, etc.

For a productive summer, make specific plans for your children. When school opens in the fall, and the teacher asks, "What did you do this summer?" hopefully your child will have a lot more to say than just, "Oh, I watched TV, played videos and stuff."

Court ruling becomes burden

he right to choose is dangling by a thread. A 5-4 Supreme Court decision has left women with the right to an abortion, though states can impose a myriad of restrictions as long as it doesn't present an "undue burden."

While the ruling is nebulous, the future is clear: States will pass one restriction after another and then pro-choice proponents will make challenges in the courts.

Even more dangerous is that two Supreme Court justices voting on the choice side (Henry Blackmun and John Paul Stevens) are both past 70. Chances are, the person who is president in January 1993 will most likely appoint at least one Supreme Court justice.

For those who want to see the Supreme Court keep abortion as a legal option, the answer is to vote for a pro-choice presidential candidate.

Legislatively, federal representatives and senators can circumvent any future crosion of abortion rights by enacting the Freedom of Choice act. The act would restrict states' ability to set limitations more so than the current Supreme Court test allows.

States don't have to restrict abortions, and Michigan's Legislature shouldn't.

Individuals who feel strongly that a right to privacy in matters relating to reproduction should not only tell their friends how they feel but should also let the candidates know during the campaign. Then use pro-choice as one of the deciding factors when casting ballots in the August and November elections.

Already one group has emerged to support candidates who are clearly pro-choice. Women in Politics, a loosely-organized bipartisan coalition of pro-choice Oakland County women, is recruiting pro-choice voters to actively campaign for candidates of their ilk. It's more than lip service, it's sending out letters and knocking on doors. It's also giving financial support.

No one should doubt that individuals who are pro-life will use the same methods to get candidates elected who mirror their beliefs.

While the heat is off the Supreme Court for the moment, the temperature should rise in state and federal campaigns. Candidates are abundant this summer. They're out looking for supporters. Don't allow a candidate to waffle on this issue — or any issue. Ask direct questions and don't settle for less than a direct answer.

Too many issues of individual rights are at stake, and sound bites and slick campaign literature aren't going to change that. It's time for candidates and voters to stand up and be counted.

There is no shame in telling either voters or candidates that a person favors having a choice, which is not the same as being pro-abortion. It should be up to the woman to decide her fate, without having governmental interference in possible options.

Pro-choice voters have to speak up or the freedom to choose will disappear right along with the confetti swept from floors of election night celebrations this November.

Concerned by cuts

was deeply concerned about the recent announcement by the Bush Administration that the U.S. plans to massively reduce its remaining nuclear capability by a whopping two thirds of what is left after previous cuts. I believe such massive cuts are not justified and in fact put the very liberty of every citizen at the mercy of the word of a nation which has never kept a major treaty in 50 years, but now claims to have changed.

I believe this whole "change" in the U.S.S.R. is a hoax to get the tens of billions we are now pouring on them. Occasionally a story slips through our pro soviet news media, indicating that the KGB is still calling the shots over there. After our nation and the west has been bled dry, a quick staged "coup" will put the "bad guys" back in power, Our government can then explain the wasted billions as a "mistake" as was done for the billions wasted in Vietnam, on a no-win war.

I urge your readers to inform their representatives in Washington that further cuts in our military capability, including the latest cut of two thirds of our present nuclear arsenal, is endangering our very liberty. This may bode well for the new world order, but not for the citizens of the U.S.

I also urge them to let their representatives know that the interest on the national debt is approaching the size of our total budget for defense. We can no longer afford to play Santa Claus, even if the cause was good. No more billions for Mr. Bush's friends, the Soviets.

MEA losing leadership clout uestion: A few weeks ago, you wrote that the MEA leadership can't expect teacher raises of 7 percent (or more) next year. We have worked for years to get salaries, we have worked for years to get salaries, working conditions and fringe benefits to a decent level. What do you see happening?

Answer: Bluntly, I believe the MEA, the strongest and most powerful union in the state, may soon become an artifact in the Smithsonian Institution. That's a bold statement, not an angry one, inasmuch as I was one of a group of teacher union presidents who fought for the right to negotiate in the mid-60s.

Nevertheless, there is no doubt in my mind that the MEA is a target in Gov. Engler's commitment to fiscal solvency.

Look at the facts! Unions, teachers' or otherwise, are losing the battle at an alarming rate, i.e. the air controllers, Caterpillar, Krogers, GM's Willow Run plant.

Shifting money from the wealthy district to poorer districts (the Robin Hood Act) does not generate citizen support for school tax increases in the wealthy (out-of-formula) districts. Dumping FICA payments onto the local districts and freezing property taxes is all money that went into teacher salary agreements in the past. Not anymore, That money is gone.

Let's look at an example, the Plymouth Canton district in which I was once president of the teacher organization.

In two years, that district lost a total of about $6.8 million from the property tax freeze, the Robin Hood Act, state FICA cuts and entitlement money for such items as transportation and vocational education. That translates into a loss of 56.5 positions so far. This scenario is being played out in other Observer & Eccentric communities as well as outstate.

And this is just the tip of the iceberg. If Engler's "cut and cap" plan is approved by voters in November, property tax assessments will be rolled back by 30 percent over three years and assessments will be capped at 3 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. That translates into less money for books, salaries and fringe benefits.

The 7 percent raise received by teachers in many districts is only for those at the top of the salary schedule. All others receive an additional 3 to 5 percent raise as they move up each rung in what some cases can be a 12-step schedule. Add on fringe benefit increases, and the actual total is about 12 to 13 percent a year, or approximately 37 percent over the life of a three year contract.

Educators have been getting good raises for the last 20-plus years, and I believe they have deserved the raises. But there is only one source for money, and that is to lay off even more teachers and administrators and increase class sizes.

If Engler's "cut and cap" measure is approved in November, I envision:

- Few teacher strikes, more districts working without a settled contract. As one board member told me, "They can walk 'til they wear their shoes out. There is no money."
- The great, committed teachers will still be doing a great job.
- The angry teachers will still be angry.
- There will be more buyouts, more teachers getting out.
 Many teachers will start asking for what
- we are paying $400 to $500 in MEA annual dues.

 The MEA has done an outstanding int for

The MEA has done an outstanding job for Michigan teachers, and I am proud to have been part of that effort. But if Engler's "cut and cap" bill passes, the MEA, as it is presently structured, will have lost much of its power.

Changing climes follow geology in state's history

p North they don't read the environmental writers in the big city papers or hear about the 'greens" on the local country-western station. So last week no one, not even Gitchee Manitou, knew a global warming trend is affecting the climate.

It was in the 40s at night and low 60s during thể day with leaden, overcast skies and winds howling out of Canada at 20 or 30 miles an hour. That was in the northern Lower Peninsula. The Upper Peninsula was 8 degrees colder. The Fourth of July weekend usually is one of the warmest of the year. Not in 1992. But campers didn't seem to

The biggest bunch of spoiled softies Lever saw were at Indian Lake State Park a couple of summers ago. No. roasting hot dogs around the fire for those dudes, no aroma of fresh fish trying. The campground is near Manistique, where they have pizzerias.

Did those campers walk to town for pizza? Never. Did they pile into the family van and drive in? Fat chance. No, those denizens hiked all the way to the camp pay phone and ordered pizza delivered to the campground.

It was an obscenity, the worst display of human behavior I have seen since the San Francisco convention of 1984. I won't go back to Indian Lake.

We did compromise a little bit by camping at a state park with electricity. The chap next door was from the area and knew more than a little about the Wisconsin professor who erected platforms on dead trees in a nearby flooded area. Ospreys, cousins of the bald eagle, nested on one platform. Through binoculars we got a good glimpse of junior osprey poking his head above the nest of sticks waiting for mom and dad to bring a dinner of

We hardly saw the woman in the camper on the other side. No sitting around the campfire singing "Home on the Range" for her - not when she had the blue glare of a television to distract her from the songs of the Baltimore orioles and rose-breasted grosbeaks in the

One chill morning, a father and son moved in nearby. Dad was unshaven and bleary eyed. They had been in northern Ontario, got fed up with the frost (literally), packed up the previous evening and drove all night back to Michigan. I offered him a cup of coffee.

"Thanks, that's the first coffee I've had in three days," he said. "We wanted to camp in a provincial park with electricity, but there were no spots left. I only brought an electric coffee maker, so I was out of luck.

Now, this man turned out to be capable of catching two fish to my one, but I still felt a bit smug about having an old-fashioned aluminum percolator - and about being able to use the open-pot method in a pinch.

But this is about the weather. Our camp was in the northern lower peninsula, not far from limestone sinkholes formed cons ago by warm seas, not cold lakes. It's a short drive from the Pigeon River State Forest where they drill for oil made from tropical plants tens of millions of years ago. I made a pilgrimage to a favorite gravel pit and added several fossils of tiny sea animals to the collection. And I climbed hills formed when the two-mile thick glaciers rececled 12,000 years ago.

Michigan's climate has changed due to natural forces, long before anyone invented the depleted ozone layer. Indeed, the climate has changed in our lifetimes. My dad used to tell us kids about his camping trips as a young

'We didn't use hot water and shaving cream to shave," he said. "We'd splash cold water on our faces, let it freeze, and use the flat end of an axe to knock the ice off our faces. The whiskers came off with it." Wow, that must have been cold.

In an area once covered by tropical torests, shallow seas and glaciers, a week in the 60s doesn't seem so bad. Not when the pike are biting and the predator birds are making a comeback.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the? local implications of state and regional you played sports, or how hard you studied, what really mattered in that little New Hampshire school was what color you were and how much moneyyour Daddy had. And though that was 25 years ago, the equation hasn't changed that much.

While I can understand the anger telt by those on society's bottom rung, while I can feel the mistrust of blacks by whites. I cannot stop the rage which grips me at the injustices perpetuated on people of color by those intent on maintaining the status quo, just as they cannot shake the indifference which drives the wedge deeper still and further fuels a smoldering rage.

We're too different, those who have given up on the dream of racial equity declare. Different culture, different values, different mannerisms, different agendas. There's no way we can ever pull the races together; better to maintain separateness and ensure personal growth and satisfaction.

I disagree. As a man who has had a foot solidly anchored in both cultures for a quarter century, I see more similarities than differences. Work, health, happiness, justice and peace drive us all and could form a tie that binds.

Opportunity based on contribution is a belief shared by both black and white. The final truism embraced by many in both camps that no man is an island could, if given the chance, lead us from the path of further alienation.

I can understand the anger that fuels the violence of the inner cities. I can understand the indifference of the majority that drives the rage of the minority. I can't understand how we have allowed the anger and indifference to rise unchecked, nor do I understand how to fix it. Have you got any ideas?

Mental health agency expects to stay open

By Taylor Liscoln

Suburban West Community Center, an agency responsible for providing out-patient mental health treatment throughout western Wayne County, has apparently survived its current budget crunch, and may have improved its relationship with its chief source of funding - the Detroit-Wayne County 258 Board.

"We made big progress. We are not going to go bankrupt in the middle of August." said Thomas Herzberg, director of Suburban West, in reference to a meeting held earlier this month between Suburban West and the Detroit-Wayne County Board.

Suburban West entered this year with a $134,000 debt, and is projecting a $116,000 deficit this year. Herzberg had threatened to close the operation for several weeks at the end of the 1992 fiscal year to reduce expenses, until the Detroit-Wayne County Board promised to advance money to Suburban West.

"We still have a lot of issues to resolve, but I'm optimistic we can work things out" Herzberg said,

One of the key issues concerns the Detroit-Wayne County Board's expectation for individual agencies to increase the amount of money they can raise by billing Medicaid for their services.

The Michigan Department of Mental Health has pressured local boards (such as the Detroit-Wayne County Board) to supplement their budgets by increasing Medicaid receipts, because Medicaid expenditures are partially reimbursed by the Federal gov-

The Detroit-Wayne County Board has held its allocations to Suburban West at $1.05 million per year over the past three years, with the expectation that Suburban West would increase revenues by billing Medicaid.

Although Suburban West has nearly tripled its Medicaid revenues since 1989 ($83,000 to $203,000), the increase has not kept pace with expenses.

Herzberg contends that Suburban West has been given an unreachable Medicaid expectation because only 25 percent of its clients are eligable for Medicaid.

"They're maintaining the position that we are not maximizing our Medicaid billing, which we accept to some degree, but they did say they would review our expectation," he said.

Suburban West officials believe the agency has been underfunded by the Detroit-Wayne County Board since it opened in 1978. Herzberg, who has run the operation since its inception, has complained the agency has not received an equitable amount of funding in relation to other agen-

Although the Detroit-Wayne County Board would not offer an opinion on Suburban West's efficiency, Pat Hauser; chairwoman. of the Suburban West Board of Directors, said the Detroit Wayne County Board "has not been happy with Suburban West."

"We have not had a strong administration," she said. "The people who set up the agency --Tom (Herzberg) and the rest of them - are program people. They didn't have good organizational skills.

She believes that the problem has been solved. "We are much better now. We have our books in order. We can easily show them what our problems are."

Herzberg agreed, "We've gone from being a more and pop organization, in terms of records, to a highly detailed computer system." he said, attributing much of the progress to the fact that the agency hired an accountant 18.

Although it has survived its current crisis; Suburban West is not equipped to make substantial gains against the mental illnéss problem in the area. Merely to be eligable to receive services, people must have either been hospitalized or be on the verge of doing serious damage to themselves.

The Observer/Thursday, July 9, 1992

People who are eligable for services can only visit a therapist once every two-to-four weeks. "That's not a whole lot of face-toface contact," Herzberg said.

"There are a lot of programs we would like to work with, but there just isn't enough money," Hauser said. "The pressure is on the bottom layer. You try to provide the services, but you can't provide the services for free.

Former Michigan Department of Mental Health Director Tom Watkins, a member of the Detroit-Wayne County Board blames the state for disregarding the plight of mentally ill people.

"I think that what you're seeing is that times are tough and that vulnerable people are not a priority," he said. "We cannot continue to ask more and more of providers (mental health agencies) and provide less and less.

"We're not talking about throw-away people, we're talking about real people with real

For its part, the state points out that it increased the number of dollars it put into mental health in 1992, including to the Detroit-Wayne County Board.

"When the statements come out and say the state mental health hudget has been cut and we know we put additional millions into mental health in a tough year, that draws a reaction from us," said Department of Mental Health communications director Tom Delloach.

According to DeLoach, the De troit-Wayne County Board is projected to receive $268 million in 1992, up from $260 million last year - a 3 percent increase. He did concede that the increase will do little more than act as an inflation adjustment.

Vocational ed a major part of Suburban West program

By Taylor Lincoln Staff Writer

Suburban West Community Center's vocational training program is one of several approaches to mental illnesses which hope to eventually stabilize or reduce the need for mental health treatment in Michigan.

The vocational training program, which is located at Suburban West's Partial Day Center on Schoolcraft near Inkster Road in Redford Township, aims to helppsychiatrically disabled people become independent members of society by providing simulated job training, placing them in jobs, and lending them support in their employment.

"People who are mentally impaired are made to feel like they're losers, that they have nothing to contribute, and they lose their sense of self worth," said Frank Verdejo, director of the partial day program.

"When people have work and have an identity, those problems are solved. We don't have to get into psychiatric and medical treatment and terminology," Verdjo explained.

Suburban West's vocational training program differs from some of its predecessors because it focuses soley on patients with psychiatric problems, as opposed to developmentally disabled peo-

People with psychlatric problems frequently have normal intelligence and competence levels, but have difficulty sustaining jobs. Developmentally, disabled people, have functional limitations.

"For many years, these two populations were lumped together and given the same services," Verdejo said. "In the past 10 years the system has realized that they are under the same umbrella of mental illness, but really need to be treated differently."

With the proper treatment, people with psychiatric problems can frequently become independently functioning members of society. Because the vocationals training program is directed toward this population, the program trains its clients for jobs which will challenge them.

Typical job-training programs for mentally ill patients teach them to do menial work, which can be insulting to intelligent psychiatrically troubled people.

Rather than teaching clients to do janitorial and dishwashing jobs, the Suburban West program teaches clerical skills and potentially higher paying maintenance skills, such as carpet cleaning.

Verdejo cites one client who got a job as a tour director at Greenfield Village and now works as a conservation consultant for Detroit Edison.

"This is a client who had a chronic history who was not expected to do well," he said.

The partial-day program offices include a clerical-skills room, which is equipped with computers and a color copy machine, a simulated restaurant kitchen, an industrial cleaning supplies room felients use the supplies to perform paying jobs for area businesses), and a mock apartment to help teach living skills.

The computers have up to date versions of Microsoft Word and Word Perfect word processing. software.

have computers in here a couple to meet the need," he said.

of years ago, they'd laugh at you." Verdejo said. "These were supposed to be things that the normal population couldn't handle, much less disabled people."

According to Verdejo, the results have been excellent. The program was designed to place eight people per year into jobs, and has succeeded in placing at least 10 people per year.

As with many mental health programs, the vocational training program lives under constant economic uncertainty. The program is in the final year of a three-year grant from Michigan Rehabilitative Services (MRS) and the Suburban West Center, which operates the partial day program, has an uncertain financial future.

The partial day program is further hampered by the fact that many of its patients, although they are disabled adults, are incligible for Medicaid due to the incomes of their parents. The state Department of Mental Health has leaned on agencies to help sustain themselves by increasing Medicaid revenues.

Former state Department of Mental Health director Tom Watkins, who currently sits on the board of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board, regards the vocational training program as one of several underfunded, innovative programs which could eventually teduce the state's mental health costs as well as enhancing the lives of people who suffer from the Illnesses,

"These are tough, tough times, but there are also some excellent programs and services available. "If you told people that we'd. There just aren't enough dollars

Jarvis takes over lead role for Pats

By C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

The philosophy may be old, but it's proven: If it's not broken, don't fix it.

That kind of thinking seems to have been instrumental in the hiring of Livonia Franklin's new girls varsity basketball coach — Mary Jarvis.

Jarvis succeeds Dan Freeman, who stepped down. as coach to become athletic director. Freeman was wen acquainted with Jarvis; she'd been Franklin's junior varsity coach the past four years, and prior to that served as freshmen coach for three years.

If those ties to the program Freeman developed the past six years aren't strong enough, consider that Jarvis graduated from Franklin in 1984 (as Mary Pollard). She went to Henry Ford CC for two years and played volleyball before attending Eastern Michigan to complete her degree as a special education instruc-

She was first recruited to coach Franklin's freshmen team by Tim Newman, who coached Franklin's varsity before Freeman. "He felt I always had a leadership ability," said Jarvis.

She said she never had deep-rooted hopes to be a varsity coach. "I really didn't plan on doing that," said Jarvis. "I did want to move up to junior varsity after coaching the freshmen."

Her thoughts on taking over the varsity changed when Freeman moved up to AD a month ago, replacing George Lovich. "I wanted to make sure the program continued with the excellence it had under coach Freeman," said Jarvis,

Certainly, Freeman was thinking along the same lines. Said he of Jarvis: "She's very strong in terms of teaching fundamentals and skills of the game. Our philosophies are very similar; there are no major changes there. And she lives near the high school. She knows the kids and community well."

Indeed she does. As Jarvis noted, some of this fall's team will have played for her for two years already. "The girls know me," she said. "They know there won't be a lot of massive changes. There will be stability.'

What there won't be is a Dawn Warner to elevate Franklin to the upper echelons in Class A. Warner, runner-up in the state's balloting for Miss Basketball, is headed for Western Kentucky this fall. With, her leading the way, the Patriots were 18-4 last year.

Possible problems could arise. For one, Freeman will still be close to the program as AD, although he wants to maintain his distance. "I'll have to stand back a little bit, which will be hard to do," he admitted. "But I'm sure she'll make it her program, and she should. She'll have to step in and put her signature on the team."

Another potential problem is the new pay-to-participate program being implemented. Due to a budget crunch, all players, whatever their level (freshmen, JV or varsity), will have to pay a flat rate to join a

Jarvis believes it could have a more adverse affect on the freshmen and JV teams than the varsity, adding she was taking a wait-and-see attitude.

As for her shortened summer - practice officially opens Aug. 10 - Jarvis said, "Who cares? I'm really excited. I'm looking forward to this."

And why not? She's been associated with Franklin sports for a long, long time.

Rich Mile purse draws big field

Even if he couldn't call Saturday's 44th Michigan Mile at Ladbroke DRC, McKee wouldn't want to miss watching the state's richest race, Saturday's program begins at I p.m. and the Michigan Mile (actually a 11/2 mile course) is scheduled to begin at 5:15 p.m.

"This is our biggest race of the season, like our Super Bowl," said McKee, who is recovering from a cold but plans on calling the Mile. "There's excitement, the best horses, jockeys, purse, prestige."

For the second-straight year the purse will be $250,000 with $150,000 going to the winner. Black Tie Affair won last year's Mile by 21/4 lengths and was the first winner of the race to go on and be named the North American Horse of the Year.

Eleven horses were entered in last year's Mile and as of Tuesday, Ladbroke DRC publicity manager Michael Tanner expected at least Whiz Along, who entered last year's race with 52:1 odds to win, placed second. Tanner expects long shots to have as good a chance at the winner's circle this year.

"Last year most of our 'long shots' were genuine 'long shots,' Tanner said. "This year, even our 'long shots' will have a real good chance. It will be a good betting race."

Opening odds weren't posted Tuesday but the favorite figures to be Chief Honcho, according to Tanner. Chief Honcho has eight wins in 23 career starts and will be ridden by hall of same jockey Pat

Other early favorites, according to Tanner, include Discover and Cozzenc's Prince.

McKee won't bet on the Mile and when calling a race doesn't have a favorite horse. He lives in Fenton with wife Chris and their three daughters (21/2 year-old Meagan and 15-month old twins Melissa and Lindsey), who already are race fans.

PASS television regularly shows Ladbroke DRC races and McKee's voice can be heard announcing the races. His children watch the PASS reruns with as much interest as Sesame Street.

Hines Park, Caesars tied at top

Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury moved into a first place tie with Little Caesars in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League with a doubleheader sweep against the Tecumseh Green Giants Sunday at LaCass Park in Windsor.

Hines Park, which won the opener 3-2 and second game 11-5, is deadlocked with Caesars at 13-7, just three points ahead of second place Walter's Appliance (11-7-1).

In the first game, Jeff Paluk hurled a complete game, striking out nine and allowing just two runs, none of which were earned. He scattered five walks.

"Jeff struggled with his control." Hines Park coach Dave Carroll said. "But I think Jeff said to himself that there was no way he was going to lose that game. He fell behind a lot of the hitters, but when he needed to make a good pitch, he Hines Park tallied all three runs in the third inning. T.C. Raptis paced the offensive attack with a 2run homer.

In the nightcap, Hines Park scored seven runs in the sixth inning thanks to a pair of RBI doubles from Keith Bozyk (Redford Catholic Central/Adrian College) and Tom Davey (formerly of Plymouth Salem High).

Hines Park collected 15 hits, including three apiece from Davey and Joe Weidenbach.

Geoff Allen (ex-Plymouth Canton) was the winning pitcher, going the first six innings and fanning five. He allowed three runs and five hits. Raptis came on and pitched the seventh, giving up two runs.

Walter's struggles

It wasn't the way Walter's coach Mike Keller wanted Sunday's twinbill with Delwal at Ford Field to turn out - a 10-2 loss and an 8-all deadlock.

Ironically, Walter's entered the

"Those were a couple of tough games," Keller said. "You like to at least split on Sunday, but we're still in the hunt."

In the opener, Delwal outhit Walter's 11-6 thanks to three hits apiece from Jason Valente and Mike Pesci (ex-Farmington Harrison). Valente contributed a pair of triples, while Pesci nailed two Todd Boike was the winning pitcher, going the distance, fanning five and walking four.

Steve Ross (Redford CC/Henry Ford CC) struggled for Walter's giving up all 10 runs and 11 hits in just five innings.

In the second game, Walter's blew an 8-1 lead by allowing Delwal to tally seven runs in the seventh inning. The game was halted after eight innings due to the 21/4 hour time limit rule.

Tom Kretschmer and Pesci each had two-run singles to pace Delwal in the seventh.

"Delwal showed a lot of guts." Keller said. "We were outplayed. It's too bad we let the game get away."

Overaitis suffered the loss for Walter's in relief of starter Sean Henkel (Livonia Stevenson/Madonna).

Each team tallied 11 hits. Overaitis, Jason Gabel (Livonia Churchill/Central Michigan) and Chris White (North Farmington/Henry Ford CC) had two hits apiece for Walter's. Pesci led Delwal with three hits and two RBL

Caesars sweeps

Caesars took a pair from Ann Arbor Wendy's Sunday at Ford Field, winning the opener 11-10 and the nightcap 5-4.

The wins put Caesars in a first place tie with Hines Park at 13-7.

In the first game, Dave Roman provided the spark on the mound and at the plate.

Roman, the Franklin product now at Henry Ford CC, was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Brandon Endicott. He came on with the bases loaded in the fifth and fanned the side. He struck out five of the six batters he faced.

Roman also excelled offensively, belting two triples and a double as Caesars rallied from a 10-2 deficit.

Gary Pierce (ex-Westland John Glenn) had the game-winning RBI single in the seventh. Jim Solak added two hits in four trips.

Lance Sparks was the losing pitcher. Chad Grieve tallied a tworun homer in a losing cause for Wendy's.

In the second game, Mark VanAmedeys was the winning pitcher for Caesars in relief of Andrew Margolick (North Farmington/Southern Cal).

Caesars trailed 4-3 going into the bottom of the seventh. Margolick scored to tie the game and then Solak (3-for-4 and three RBI) delievered the game-winning RBI triple. Derek Grove added two hits for the winners.

Team Canada meets Livonia stars

Team Canada is coming to

No, not Wayne Gretzky and Eric Lindros, but baseball version's of the national team north of the border.

The Canadians, not to be confused with Montreal's prohockey team, will take on the Livonia Collegiate League (20and-under) All-Stars, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday at Ford Field. (Admission is free.)

'We've had 39 in camp and we'll be down to 20 players by the weekend," said Team Canada general manager Bernie Soullierre. "Right now we're identifying talent and building our team for the future.'

After going 2.6 in last year's Pan American Games (held in Cuba), Team Canada failed to qualify for the upcoming Barcelona, Spain Olympics.

Coached by former Chicago Cub and Philadelphia Phillies minor league pitcher John Upham, Team Canada is gearing up for next week's exhibition series against Team USA, which includes stops in Millington, Tenn., Louisville and Philadelphia. Prior to Saturday's game against the Livonia League, Team Canada will play an exhibition Friday in Eastpointe.

Team Canada is also gearing up for next year's World University Games in Buffalo, N.Y.

The Canadians feature pitcher Daniel Brabent, a 19-year-old from Longueuil, Quebec. The 6.

Ryan Duffy, a 6-3, 185-pound lefty from Sombra, Ontario, is another pitcher with pro potential. The team's top slugger is John Cann, a 6-4 switch-hitting first baseman from New Castle, New Brunswick. The 22-year-old Cann attends the National Baseball Institute in Vancouver, B.C.

The Livonia Collegiate All-Stars counter with several area players including starter Scott Niemiec, a catcher who plays for the University of Michigan. Niemiec also helped Plymouth Salem High win the 1991 State Class A championship. He plays for Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury in the summer circuit.

Niemiec will be joined in the starting lineup by Jeff Pendell, a shortstop who normally plays third for Walter's Appliance. Pendell is a Livonia Churchill High product who plays for Madonna University.

Yet another starter is Westland John Glenn High product Jerry Shippe, who will open at second. He plays for Little Caesars.

Kevin Young, also of Walter's, will start in the outfield. He enjoyed an outstanding freshman season at Central Michigan after starring at Farmington High.

Key reserves include Tom Davey, a first baseman from Hines Park who played for the '91 state champs at Salem; second haseman Joe Brusseau of Walter's, who prepped at Redford Bishop Borgess before going on to Madonna; and outfielder Paul Pirronello, a Redford Catholic Central grad who recently completed a stellar season at Henry Ford Community College. Pirronello is headed for the University of Detroit-Mercy.

LCBL manager Mike Keller (Walter's) will also have his own right-hander Steve Ross, formerly of Redford CC and now with Henry Ford CC, as part of the pitching staff.

The Vardar III Boys Under-19 and Under-15 teams each won championships and the Vardar III Under-16 team was a runner-up.

The U-15 team, coached by Mike Lupenec, beat the Michigan Wolves 2.0 in the final. Vardar III U-15 won its first three games of the tournament by a combined score of 13-1 and beat Rochester's USL Travelers 1-0 in the semifinal.

Steve Tramontia and Jeff Fliss (Canton), both Olympic Development players, scored in the championship game for Vardar III, which is undefeated (32.0-1) in its age tion, scoring eight goals and two as-was Alex Garn, another Olympic Development Player.

"And the Lightning bolt will strike again next year," Lupenec predicted. "The kids are showing up (on Vardar III) because of the coaching staff. We're all ex-players and we can relate to the kids better than old parents. We're serious about our program. Our goal is not to win the state, in particular, but to get national recognition."

The U-19 Vardar III team had an even easier time, taking the championship with an 8-0 win over the Dearborn Strikers. The U-19 Vardar III won three earlier Wolverine. games by a combined 11-0 score and beat the USL Travelers 4-1 in the semifinal.

Travis Roy (Livonia Stevenson) proved to be a fine first-year addigroup this summer. The goalkeeper sists for coach Matt Paukovits. And to think, Vardar III U-19 did it without five of its best players who missed Monday's championship game for various reasons.

"Last year's team was tough to beat," Paukovits said. "We've had some shoes to fill after losing some key people but we've made some good additions like Mike Gentile and Jeff Cassar (both from Livonia Churchill)."

The Vardar III U-16 team reached the final before losing to Chicago Pegasus 1-0. It was the first loss of the year for Vardar III U-16. Dave Ambroziak (Redford Catholic Central and Livonia) had a chance to send the game into overtime but was stopped on a penalty kick late in the second half.

"In order to win you have to put the ball in the net," Vardar III U-16 coach Vince Dusevic said. "We split halves. They won the first half, we won the second half."

Ambrosiak sent the penalty kick toward the right side of the net and the Chicago goalkeeper guessed right and made the save.

"I go to the right side every time," said Ambrosiak, who was perfect in six previous penalty kicks with Vardar. "On the rebound, I saw the ball, went for it, got hit from behind and they cleared the ball out."

Madonna's Racer adds help

It wasn't supposed to be like this. Madonna University softball coach Dave Racer didn't think he'd have much to replace for next season, if anything at all. Everyone on his 22-18 team had eligibility remaining; all that need be done during the off-season was a bit of fine tuning.

Then came the hammer. His team's top freshman, catcher Kim Supron from Livonia Ladywood, hurt her shoulder and underwent surgery after the season. She will miss next season.

Then both pitchers, Tracy Vachon and Kristen Wasil, told Racer they probably would not return. Suddenly, a team that might have been good enough to contend for the NAIA District 23 title had gaping holes to fill.

Two months after his season concluded, the holes gape no more. Racer has completed a significant fectuiting campaign, one that has made Madonna a far better team in nearly every aspect.

The key to any team is pitching. and although Vachon - just a freshman - showed considerable promise, Racer believes the two players he's signed "are better than what we had. First, there's Dawn Terrasi, a 1990 Monroe High School graduate who played as a freshman at Wayne State. Terrasi, who throws in the mid-60 mph range, was 17-5 at WSU, allowing 110 hits and 32 walks in 1541/3 innings while compiling a,1.04 earned run avo

As a senior at Monroe, she was 16-2 with a 0.48 ERA, striking out a school-record 133 in 131 innings.

Terrasi decided to leave WSU because "I got burned out there." Clashes with the coaching staff didn't help, either, but after a year away from the college game and some time spent playing for the Munroe Merchants, a fast-pitch summer team, she "decided to get back at it. I'm having fun again."

Several of her Merchants teammates play at Madonna - Kay Lee Davis, Hughana Wilkie and Holly Jondro. So does new recruit Jennifer Pinter, a catcher from New Boston Huron.

That helped convince Terrasi to come to Madonna. As for Pinter, she was an accidental discovery. Racer was scouting a game between Monroe St. Mary's Catholic Central and Pinter's New Boston-Huron squad. He was interested in St. Mary's catcher, Teresa Lucio, but she wanted to major in pharmaceuticals, so she enrolled at Ferris State.

Pinter, though, caught Racer's eye. Although her team struggled through a 7-16 season, Pinter shined; she led the Chiefs in batting (.456), runs batted in (28) and runs scored (31). She had planned on majoring in physical therapy and attending Grand Valley State, but changed her major to nursing and her school to Madonna.

A better battery

Now, she could be the team's starting catcher. "I'm glad I might be able to start right away and not sit on the bench," said Pinter, who was all-Huron League and all-Region. Racer now thinks Pinter might be better than St. Mary's Lu-

His second pitching recruit is also from the downriver area: Lynda-Weichel, a 1991 Gibralter Carlson graduate who attended Monroe Community College for a year. She was 15-5 as a senior at Carlson, and will have four years of eligibility at Madonna. Like Terrasi, Weichel throws in the 60s.

"You get a girl throwing in the mid-60s, and she's bringing it," said Racer.

Those three - Terrasi, Weichel and Pinter - are the backbone of Racer's recruiting class because they play key positions that needed filling. "We definitely had to find a catther" after Supron's loss, 'said Racer. His other objective was developing his team's depth so that injuries won't decimate the team which is what happened last sea-

He went far beyond that. Three of A competitive situation his five recruits could get starts in the outfield, or cause a lineup shuffle that might force a pair of veterans to switch positions.

Change in the wind

Racer is considering changing Jenny Marquette, a two-year starter at shortstop, to center field to better utilize her speed. That would necessitate moving all-district centerfielder Megan Armstrong to right

And who would fill Marquette's void at short? One of two freshmen: Michelle Birchmeier, from Redford Thurston, or Geralyn Kepshire, from Redford and Ladywood.

Birchmeier, who signed with Madonna in March, finished her final season at Thurston filling in for injured pitcher Sue Drotar. She still excelled, batting .455 with eight doubles, seven triples, two homers and 33 RBI. She was 7-5 on the mound with a 1.40 earned run aver-

She said she was hoping to get a shot in the outfield, too, but she may have to wait her turn.

First, back to short and Kepshire, who played third base and was a part-time catcher at Ladywood. Racer believes she could play short; Jill Burt is entrenched at third for the Crusaders.

Kepshire, who batted 349 with four doubles, two triples, a homer and 19 RBI, decided to attend Madonna partially "for an opportunity to play softball." That may convince her to try short.

Whatever happens in the infield, the outfield will be, in Racez's words, "very competitive." Joining Armstrong and leftfielder Jondro and perhaps Marquette - in the search for a starting spot are Carolyn Nagel, also from Thurston, and Kelly Allor, a first-team all-stater from Birmingham Marian.

Allor, a centerfielder who lives in Farmington Hills, posted some impressive numbers: .484 average, nine doubles, seven triples, six homers and 42 RBI. She had been contacted by University of Detroit Mercy and Hillsdale, but chose Madonna because it was closer to Nagel had also been contacted by someone else - Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Jack Grenan. Nagel at first committed to SC, but later changed her mind.

Her initial feeling was she would be better at basketball, but after receiving honorable mention all-state following her softball season at Thurston, she thought differently. She batted .411 for the Eagles.

Birchmeier, her closest friend, had much to do with her change in heart. But the chance to go to a four-year school in pursuit of a degree was the pivotal factor.

Madonna's most valuable player last season was Davis, the team's first baseman, and the Crusaders made a move to back her up with another potent bat by signing Sheri McLaughtin, from Monroe Jefferson. An all Huron League selection, McLaughlin batted .420 last season and drove in 29 runs.

In all, the additions paint an interesting picture for the Crusaders. "Last year, some of the girls didn't like it when the new girls came in and battled them for their spots," said Racer. "But the pressure's only going to make them better,"

Wildcat cagers take pool

The Western Wayne Wildcats started well but suffered a setback Tuesday in the 11-and-under AAU girls national basketball championships in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Wildcats were pool-play champions and advanced to the Round of 16, but their first game at that stage ended in a 50-48 overtime loss to Oklahoma.

Coach Gary Schwan's team trailed by 15 points (34-19) in the third quarter but rallied to tie the score at 44 with 55 seconds left in the game.

"The good thing was how our kids fought back," Schwan said. "The sad thing is we didn't make some shots at the end. We could have won it in regulation, but we missed a jump shot right at the end."

Laura Schneider (Canton) and Kristin Lukasik (Canton) paced the Wildcats with 16 and 10 points, respectively. Schwan also acknowledged the defensive effort by Amanda Abraham (Plymouth).

"She did a nice job on defense and, believe me, there are some really good players here," he said. "One player made five threes against us. The skill level in girls baskethall is really growing.

The Wildcats gave away a height advantage at every position against Oklahoma and were further disadvantaged when post player Lauren Mctaj (Northville) played only a half after she reinjured an ankle.

"Everybody we have played has been bigger," Schwan said,

Meet The Faces Behind Most Medical Advances.

Before any medical project can break new ground, it has to get off the ground. And that takes money. We urge you to contribute to the hospital of your choice. Your help could mean a solution to many of today's most pressing medical concerns. The first of which is, quite frankly, funding.

Give To Your Local Hospital. Give To Life.

Of all the hot issues on the market these days, there's one that can help protect you in a crash. The Salurn SLA with its spaceframe construction. At $9,225, it's one of the safest investment whicles going

In business for a little over a year, the Spitlers are surprising neighbors who gave them 60 days. They've turned the former Driftwood Lounge into a comtortable restaurant with booths that offer privacy. Local groups including the Redford Chamber of Commerce and Rotars Club hold their meetings in the restaurant's banquet room which seats 50 people. The Spitlers also sponsor area softball teams, and participated in the recent Livonia Spree.

Todd graduated from Farmington High School, and earned a bachelor's degree in hotel and restaurant managemet Heather in the library at school.

Book is must when quality care counts

By Reffecca Haynes

Making a decision on long-term care for a loved one may be one of the most difficult decisions a fami-

But some of the burden has been lifted from concerned shoulders, thanks to a new book put out by Citizens for Better Care. "The Michigan Long-Term Care Reader" 1992 edition helps to answer questions on how to choose a nursing home, home for the aged or adult foster care program, as well as explaining the differences among the three.

This is the first time we've actually published a book," said CBC assistant director Bob Gordon. "For years, we've been publishing booklets that are essentially the different chapters of what is now the book.

"It just kind of dawned on us that together this would make an excellent book on long-term care." Although Gordon said there are many publications on long-term care, others provide national information but can't get specific about programs, rules or regulations in Michigan, "The Michigan Long-Term Care Reader" does, he said. "A lot of professionals are telling us that to have all of this information between two covers is invaluable," he said. "The regulations we refer to are changing all the time. We update the material, and wherever it's at next January, that will be the 1993. edition. Topics such as Medicare and Medicaid, long-term care insurance, discrimination, admissions contracts, guardianship and options, dementia care and hospital discharge planning are some of the other areas touched on in the book.

Readers will also learn how to appeal officiál decisions, what facilities are and aren't required to provide, how to get better care and how to file complaints about bad care.

Ireland trip is 'thrill of lifetime' for teens

ART EMANCELS, STATE PHOTOGRAPHER

Special friends: Amy Root (left) and Jessica Kennedy have shared a lot of things since age 4, but nothing quite like the five-week study trip to Ireland they embarked on Tuesday.

They've been friends since age 4 and have shared everything from elementary school to dentists. Now they're sharing a thrill of a lifetime - a fiveweek trip to Ireland.

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

They've shared elementary school, the orthodontist and dance lessons. Now they're sharing the thrill of a lifetime - a trip abroad.

It's not quite the grand tour of Europe, but it is a bit more than last year's train trip to Toronto to see "Phantom of the Opera."

Jessica Kennedy, 15, and Amy Root, 14, left Tuesday evening aboard an Aer Lingus 747 for five weeks of study, sightseeing and adventure in a country they've only heard about from family. members or learned about in school

They've ventured into U2 country -

"Oh, God, mayle I'll he next door to them," said Amy of the popular Irish rock group.

"They'll be here on tour," Jessica countered.

"They could come home for a visit." During the trip, Amy will have a oneweek home stay with a family in Dublin, home of the U2 band members. Jessica will be staying with a family in County Meath, drawing good-natured ribbing about farm life from her friend after Jessica's mother, Jane, failed to find County Meath on the map.

Jessica and Amy have been friends since they were 4 years old. They attended St. Michael School together. Amy is a sophomore at Ladywood High School; Jessica a junior at Livonia Stevenson High School.

They have shared involvement in the Detroit St. Patrick's Day Parade, Irish dance classes, even a business, JessAmy, a housecleaning service that had their parents as customers.

But the Ireland trip is the biggest thing they've shared to date.

"I'm not sure whose more excited, the kids or their families," said Amy's mother, Maureen. "Amy's been packed for a month."

A week before the departure and Jess sica admits she hasn't packed a thing. Her mother is still washing her clothes after a week at youth camp.

The teens are allowed two suitcases and a carry on bag for the trip. Amy literally drags two bulging pullams out of a closet and announces that even with That she can't fit in her terry cloth bathrobe.

Busy 5 weeks

The twosome, along with some 150 students from throughout the United States, are spending the first of three weeks at St. Brendan's College in Killarney, County Kerry, studying Irish literature, history, language, music, dance and culture in general. After a one week stay with a home family, they will finish out their studies at Wesley College in Dublin.

Living in dormitories at the Irish boarding school, the students also will be treated to field trips to such places as the famous Abbey Theatre, the ancient Newgrange tomb which predates the Egyptian pyramids and Britain's Stonehenge and an Irish football

Teens face tough

By SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Dr. Henry Woodworth sees it as the "streeting" of America's youth, the wholesale withholding of mental health services from teens.

Strong talk from a man who is dedicating his life to helping mentally ill children and adolescents, but for Woodworth, it's part of the reality of dealing with to-'day's health care system.

"It's a tough population (teens) because they don't thave their own power structure," he said. "And unless parents are active in getting them care, they don't get it until they fall into the public sector."

Cindy Schroeder agrees with Woodworth. She sees stoday's troubled teems being treated like "throwaways." Society doesn't know what to do with them or

"What gets me is the kid with a behavior problem; becăuse it's considered a conduct problem the kid can end up falling through the cracks," Schroeder said. "What we need to say is that legally we need to work with these kids and legally say that the medical system needs to get involved."

Woodworth is a child/adolescent psychiatrist and Schroeder director of adolescent services at the Ardmore Center in Livonia. The 105-bed private psychiatric hospital provides in-patient and partial/day treatment programs for adults and adolescents.

Like other treatment facilities, Ardmore has been runder pressure to reduce the length of in-patient treatsment. Where treatment once lasted up to three Smonths, the average to day is 17 days. As a result, the astalf has learned to be creative, stretching available resources as far as possible.

:A new way

Teens coming into treatment find there is little, if any time, to sit around and do nothing. That old notion that psychiatric treatment as checking out of the world and into the Holiday Inn is paste,

. "We keep the patients very busy; we help them de-Nelon coping skills and a new lifestyle, Woodworth said: "We have patients who come on the unit who want to go back to the old place because it's too hard here and two weeks later they're talking about the new skills they've learned.". =

The staff looks on what they're doing as prescriptly care, very focused and direct in addressing the proff. Jems of the teen, whether it is a mental illness or Aual problem of mental illness and chemical dependency.

By utilizing non-addictive anti-depressant drugs, support groups and a very structured setting, the staff works to reconnect the teen with his or her family and Society. They work to "empower" the teen, to give him for her the coping skills to control their problems.

Society is very competitive and the disenfranchised teenager feels that he failed in the competition," Woodworth said, "When a teenager drops out, he's not challenged. He needs to talk to about it, get support and be challenged. .

"We need to engage the person where he's at then and there."

Ardmore has been innovative in dealing with shrinking health care payments. One innovation has been the care continuum. The same therapist follows the patient through in-patient treatment into the partial/day programs, giving stability to the treatment

Helping themselves

It also has tapped self-help groups, putting the teens in touch with people who have the same problems. It "destignatizes" the illness and shows that the illness needn't keep the patient on the outside looking in. "People can and do recover from their illnesses, so we try not to label these kids as sick," Schroeder sald. "That label is indication of what you think of people. We look on their problems as roadblocks to a healthy lifestyle."

"While some (treatment programs) try to find out what's wrong with a person, we try to find the roadblocks that keep them from being responsible," Woodworth added. "In treatment, we peel away the layers of behavior and then it's in partial care when a lot of the critical issues come to a head.

"When they pull through they feel good about themselves. It becomes real to them and they take what they have learned here and put it into practice."

The teens spend at least two weeks in the in-patient program before being moved to the partial program where they attend school for prost of the day, reporting for treatment from 1 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. According to Woodworth, it as important that the yeens get in as much school us possible. School is like their job and they have to keep connected with it, he said.

The partial program incorporates floses of group therapy, lectures and multi family sessions.

Healthy family

Family therapy is a necessary component of the treatment program. Recognition, understanding and acceptance of each person's role in necessary for restoring a healthy family life, according to the staff.

Parents need to intervene early and take aggressive action dealing with their child's problem but many hesitate to because they are "ashamed of what has happened," Woodworth said. They like their children feel like "fallures."

Student exchange seeks local families

Host families are needed from the Garden City, Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin attendance areas for high school students from Europe, South America and Asia for the school year beginning in September.

English-speaking students, aged 15-18, will arrive in Michigan in late Aug ust and return home either in mid-January or mid-June 1993. They are participants in an exchange visitor program of the Amer. ican Institute for Foreign Student Scholarship Foundation. They have their own spending money and ingdical insurance.

"She's been giving me her two cents worth everyday," said Amy. "I don't think you need this; I thìnk yoù should take this.' "

While it might sound like advice she doesn't want, Amy has been passing it on to Jessica: "Jessica, Christy says you should bring batteries . .

Their high school friends also offered their own suggestions. Amy's friends told her "to take lots of photos;" Jessica's friends told her "totake lots of money."

It was a thrill, they said, to be accepted for the trip, but it was more v exciting walting for the plane tickets and Irish Way T-shirts they wore to New York and on to Shan-. non, Ireland.

The Irish Way trip costs more than $2,700 but both Jessica and Amy received scholarships to defray some of the expenses. Jessica's scholarship was from the Ancient Order of Hibernians, while Amy netted two from Hibernian Life Insurance and the Irish American Cultural Institute; sponsor of Irish

 Amy also placed fourth in a national essay contest and received a $100 prize that's a part of her spending money. And if she listens to her mother's advice - "I told her to saye her souvenier buying for last and budget her money" - she'll have enough to buy gifts like a Waterford crystal bud vase for her

That gift is meant to replace a bud vase her sister Colleen broke when she served Jessica and Amy breakfast in bed when the former was at the Root home for an overnight stay.

Jane has advised Jessica to buy something personal, like a necklace, to remember her trip to Ireland.

Not much of the summer will be left when the two teens return. For Jessica, swim conditioning will fill her days before school starts Sept. 8. Amy will have a two-week breather before she heads back to school.

And while Amy concerns herself with the weather conditions in Ireland, her parents are looking to their youngest daughter Collech who has already announced her intentions to be a part of an Irish Way trip. And then there's the youngest Root, Sean, but he's too young to voice an opinion, and Jessica's young brother Jucy . . .

But the realization is this: today's teens can be out and about without someone knowing what they're doing. The nice suburban teen can have crack-dealing friends in the city and vice versa. That teen can connect very quickly and be in deep trouble very fast.

In therapy, the team tries to let the family know that how they responded to the problem "is because they love their child not because they ignored it," Woodworth said. "When they come here, they realize that we're not here to place blame but to help their child recover and help them deal with the problem," he added. "Afterward, the family does better; it has the means to address the problem better and will resolve it down the

This is the handwriting of a young woman who chases rainbows. Her sunny disposition makes her popular with all who know her.

Our writer is also upbeat, spontaneous, friendly and generous. She enjoys amicable relationships with people. She empathizes with others and can be counted on to lend a helping hand when needed.

Loyalty-can be observed in her legible handwriting. This includes loyalty to the things in which she believes as well as to her friends

Early in life she learned that the judicious use of time was a major contributor to success. She can distinguish between the essential and the extraneous and then move right on to the nitty gritty.

This is an intelligent young woman. She probably enjoys anything that is a challenge to ther mind. Some intuition can also furnish answers and insights.

In her work, she is thorough, conscientious and organized. Many of her goals are set at a level of challenge and she is not alraid to work hard to accomplish them. Details may be a bit bothersome, however.

The ability to articulate and express ideas and feelings is natural to our young writer. I suspect she is seldom at a loss for words. A little habit of rationalizing when things don't work out

Signs of a mature-29-year-old are evident. Cultural awareness is also present.

Some resentment is contained in this handwriting. Although it is not a large amount, I feel it is worth mentioning as it can waste emotional energy if not checked.

When her legible, up-slanted signature is considered with the text it tells us she presents herself as she is. She does not feel a need to hide behind a facade.

Have confidence in your partner

"Trust your partners and they will be true to you, Treat-them greatly and they will repay you." -Emerson;

Within the seven levels allowed a partnership to describe high-card content and shape, exemplary technique and judgment are mandatory if maximum bidding effectiveness is to be achieved. The consequences if you're not precise are most often consequential. Many of "the old school" of standard American devotees argue that complex systems used by the modern stalwarts have smothered the use of judgment. Not so, but recognize that abuses can destroy bidding systems and ultimately the partnership.

If you have total confidence in your partner's ability, a series of wellfounded bids tells much. Here are two examples of what I mean.

Sitting south you hold:	1	The bide	ding

After North's third call, you know this about partner's hand: (1) At least 17-plus H.C.P.; (2) Shape is 3451 or 3460; (3) None of your points is wasted. Slam should be investigated by asking for aces.

After North's third call, you know this about partner's hand: (1) He ;-transferred you to hearts and bid diamonds twice. He must be at least 5.5 in the red suits with strong interest in slam as he passed up a no trump game; (2) Your three aces should guarantee 12 tricks. If you bid six diamonds, you may be missing a grandy. 4NT in this sequence would be ace asking.

Barbara Frank of Southfield is a very trusting partner whose wonderful personality is supplemented by many fine attributes. Four no trump by North on his third turn to bid was unusual for the minors as it was obvious from the hidding that there was a strong spossibility of such a fit. Barbara's six club call was aggressive but motivated by confidence that North had something. Unfortunately, not much. True, she was lucky to find the diamond honor on side, but West might have bid again with that card in his arsenal. With clubs behaving, declarer had no trouble getting to duminy twice which won for her two hearts, a heart ruff, five diamonds and five clubs:

Much can be said for the defense cashing its spade ace against a slain, but West had visions of defeating the contract and abstained from that play.

Good news

She shares message of joy and hope

Talking about sex probably isn't the first thing in Mari Carpenter's job description, but she found her self doing just that last year.

As national news director for the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). Carpenter handles a variety of media questions, including many related to the denomination's 1991 report on sexuality.

It got thresome, very thresome, but it was healthy for the church," Carpenter said. The report, which had advocated changes in church stands on homosexuality, extramurital sex and other areas, was turned down by the largest Gener al Assembly vote in denominational history

That vote made people realize the Presbyterian church hadn't died and gone into oblivion, said Camenter, who recently visited Plymouth for a National Federation of Press Women tour, followed by the organization's annual conterence in Lansing

Carpenter's been on the job with the Louisville, Ky, based denonmation for 14 years. She began with the southern church, and became news director for the entire denomination with the merger of the southern and northern church-

Tve always liked to write. Eve written since I was in high school." said Carpenter, who worked on Texas newspapers for 28 years.

She covered the swindling seandal of Texas financier Billie Sol Estes in 1962. She's proud of that reporting and of the coverage of the 1991 church report on sexuality Carpenter, National Federation of Press Women president, was involved in reporting of two topranked stories nearly 30 years apart, one in the secular press and one in the religious press

Her duties include running the newsroom for the denomination's General Assembly, held this year in Milwankee in early June. Durcoordinate press conferences.

staffers put out a weekly news brief packet for church leadership, of in-depth religion coverage. along with a monthly tabloid for pastors and elders.

Carpenter handles all pressonquiries, and contributes articles to the "Presbyterian Survey" and "Presbyterian Outlook" magazines. She coordinated the TV appearances of former Middle East hostage Benjamin Weir, a Preshyterian minister whold been teaching in Beirut.

She takes one month out of the year to travel to a global missions area. Carpenter's visited 83 countries, and will add Thadand, the Philippines, Indonesia, Singapore and Bangladesh to that list in November.

The denomination has some 3 million members in the U.S. and 169 million worldwide. "That's because we've been real strong in global missions for more than 150

Her work has given Carpenter, a fifth generation Presbyterian, a chance to see what the church does around the world. She speaks at many churches, and appreciates that opportunity because we don't impart the good information. very well in news anymore.

Carpenter was 51 when she made the move from newspapers into public relations

"I thought I might be doing a really dumb thing." She hated her first two months on the job, but then got to enjoy it and tried to make it better, by adding such things as overseas reporting

No regrets

"I really am glad I made the change." Her travels have taken her to such places as Sandinista headquarters in Nicaragua, a small church in Cuba, the former Soviet Union, eastern Europe and elsewhere.

Some of the toughest trips I've made have been in Africa Often. the people she meets in remote Atrican villages have hever even seen a water faucet, let alone such in ventions as television

She's found that in many cases: ing that annual meeting, she and U.S. newspapers, particularly other staffers put out a daily news - smaller ones, give short shrift to paper, handle media relations and coverage of religion. Some larger publications, such as The New During the rest of the year, York Times and The Wall Street Journal, recognize the importance

Many major news stories, such last year's war in the Middle East, are religion stories, but some journalists assume religion coverage is by definition dull and dowdy, she

"If we don't have sense grough to realize that, there's something rarely misses church on Sunday, wrong with us. The ones who have healty gotten into it know better."

The survival of the Orthodox Christian church in Russia's a stoty that hasn't been told well yet. she said. Eskimo Presbyterians are titles starting to move into Siberia to es-

"You have to learn it, like any other beat. There are just some fantastic religion writers in this nation and I highly respect them." She appreciates the fact that the 1991 sexuality report was covered sto its conclusion.

Discrimination: It hurts us all

Is it possible that focusing too much outrage on the humiliating sexual harass. ment of a group of female naval offecers is to miss the boat? Certainly the treatment they received at: the hands of some drunken navy chieftains is to be deplored. However, this was only a symptom of something much larger. even larger than the United States

It is always easier to deplore symptoms than it is to treat diseases and admit to problems at their source. One cost of such a focus is that we fool ourselves into thinking that we have solved a problem that we have not even touched It is also true that in focusing on symptoms we run the risk of being very inconsistent, thereby losing whatever credibility we might have had.

Thus we can decry specific sexual: harassment situations while feed-ling, or at least turning our backs, to so many more subtle forms of sexual harassment, forms that give use to the very behavior we condemn. By the same token, we can become incensed at blatant and violent racism while ignoring the fact that institutional and widespread racism is still very much in place.

Some choose to carry banners for . the unborn while ignoring the rights of the already born around them: Others can shout their slogans for pro-choice while ridicaling the choice of those who follow a different drum than their own Consistency does not seem to be a virtue among those who focus on symp-

It is certainly sad when a woman in the Navy is treated by fellow officers in a way that would provoke national outrage if the officers were of another navy holding the woman captive in wartime. But again, we don't get many medals for consistency. What kind of credibility can we expect to project if while decry ing specific acts of sexism, we wink areatore acceptable brands of sex-

Often we are satisfied to separate it into degrees. "Soft porn" and "hard poin" are no less than degives of the same thing. Soft sexism and hard sexism are still sexism. They both carry the same message. Sexism, racism, ageism or any other brand of human disrespect is always hard on those toward whom it is directed. When people are victimized; there is no such thing as Soft

It has been said that it any one person in society is enslaved then we are all enslaved. Discrimination, and the prejudice which fuels it and gives it permission, has many faces, but in the end it is the same thing. It is the willingness to dehumanize the human for our convenience or-

The fact advertising by making women into is that in a society where excuses objects for the purpose of selling ever can be found for continuing discrimination at any level, discrimination at all levels is not only possible, but inevitable.

Tremember a young woman once telling me that she was a little bit pregnant. As ridiculous as that statement is, it is no more ridiculous than believing that we can have a little bit of sexism, or a little hit of racism, or a little bit of ageism, without eventually giving birth to full-fledged inhumanity.

Sexism does not begin with a few drunken naval officers. It begins with a society that creates and then pernetuates discriminatory attitudes. Until we can get at those, no matter the cost of behavioral change on the part of all of us, the names will change but the game will continue.

Drains Run Slow?

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind.
In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to root-clean out your pipes ... and KBEP them clean with Plumb Ctean. It clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. No other product has the Plumb Clean formula. That is what allows it your pipes, with every use. This gook to liquely even years of build up. Plamb Clean will clean the deposits along the entire length of the entire length of your pipes, it will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, we stand behind Plumb Clean with a money-back guaranteel Don't be confused. Plumb Cleane is the brand with the money-back guarantee right on the label.

Saves Money. A 1 lb. jar of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, it would take over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments: Plumb Clean costs about 35g per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

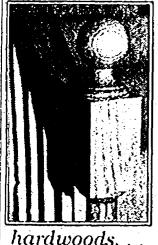

Independent laboratory studies show Plumb Cleams more effectively breaks down organic waste than all other products tested. So, if your drains have the "slows", act now. Get safe, guarante ci Piumb Cteans today! Available only at: 32191

Artist took a chance to realize a longing or Ed Ferguson, a lifelong passion for painting proved too strong.

So the Livonia painter dropped the security of a 20-year advertising career to strike out on his own as a full-time artist.

He remembers the calling well. It came in late 1990, while he headed advertising and public relations for Sibley Shoes.

"I became overwhelmed by something inside of me," said Ferguson, whose surrealistic and abstract work is done mainly with acrylic on canvas.

"My whole life I'd been telling people I was an artist, yet I had nothing to really show them. It kind of all swelled up. I talked to my wife, then went out and started painting." Two abstracts from Ferguson's new "Affairs of the Heart" series are part of the Mid-America Invitational. The show, featuring 60 Michigan artists, runs to July 31 at The Artists' Gallery in Southfield.

Ferguson was invited to take part even though he's not a member of that artists' cooperative. "I feel very honored," he said: "There are some very skilled artists represented in the show.

Ferguson belongs to the Livonia and Farmington artist clubs as well as the Scarab Club in Detroit.

'Audience of my heart'

Last month, Ferguson moved to a Franklin studio. He's perhaps best known for his nine-part "Habitat" series, meant to prick social awareness. He says he "reaches the audience of my heart" by tackling environmental and social issues.

"As an artist, the whole reason I do things is to try to involve people in my beliefs," he said. "Both my wife, Beverly, and I are involved in environmental causes. We're concerned not only for our future but also our daughters' future and, eventually, their children's future."

"Habitat" themes include rainforest destruction, killing of harp seals, homelessness, domestic abuse. world peace, urban violence and industrial pollution.

He first met almost exclusive resistance to the stark paintings. Then their power took hold.

"As an artist," he said, "sales are wonderful but when somebody says an image of mine is so powerful they can't turn it out of their mind, that's probably the ultimate compliment.'

Ferguson's two-part "Silhouettes" series boasts an environmental theme but with spiritual overtones.

"It's more surreal because of the presentation of some things that aren't real at all, like a multicolored eagle's head or green hands entering a desertscape," he said. "People are expected to look and wonder what's going on. I'm taking situations people can relate to and understand and presenting them in such a way that I hope promotes new thoughts."

Moving into abstract

Ferguson will explore movement, composition and color in "Affairs of the Heart," his new abstract series, now at five pieces.

"Using the heart as a takcoff point, I use splattering and other techniques to loosen the painting up and produce something that'll fulfill a niche my art hasn't so far - something folks are more apt to hang in their house."

His intent is for the viewer to pause and give thought. "I still want to maintain use of a powerful presentation. But I don't try to explain the pieces. I just try to do an explosion of color, with shapes associated with joy but also sadness. I'm not even sure where the series is going."

"Heartfelt," one of Ferguson's two pieces at The Artists' Gallery, seems to portray the expansiveness of life. Upward streaks of red, orange and yellow draw the eye to two hearts: a large red, upbeat heart representing joy and a small blue, protruding heart representing gloom. Different hues of green, symbolizing life, circle each heart.

"There's still a lot of black, darkness, starry-sky effect in 'Heartfelt' but there's a lot more optimism, too," says Elaine Redmond of The Artists' Gallery.

"The streaks are like a fountain of joy ascending. Ed's 'Habitat' pleces aren't heavy in color but are heavy in content. These newer pieces of the heart almost turn that rage into a celebration of life."

Since moving Into art full time, Ferguson has sold more than a dozen pieces either on commission or at showings:

While satisfying a longtime dream, working as a full-time artist hasn't been easy.

Says Ferguson: "It's the scariest rollercoaster ride I remember having in my adult life, but it probably has been one of my best years -- personally, mentally and physically."

Sculptor to be honored at benefit for gallery

At its annual fund-raiser Monday, July 13, the Detroit Artists Market will salute sculptor Silvo Barile and his concrete and iron artworks in the historical sculpture garden behind his Redford Township bakery.

The Detroit Artists Market pays tribute to Barile at its annual fundraiser from 5:30 to 9 p.m. Monday, July 13, in the fruitful gardens behind Barile's Redford Township bakery.

Tickets are $15 for this one-day exhibition, sale and celebration of Barile's concrete artwork in the garden from which they were created.

"It's fantastic that the art community is paying homage to Silvio. He is one of the great visionaries," said Sergio DeGiusti, Redford Township sculptor.

DeGiusti is co-chairing the event with Hope Palmer and Tom Phardel. Event sponsors include prominent local artists and collectors.

"This is classic stuff that deal with history, deal with his vision of history," DeGiusti said, "It's a free-for-all. It's his property. He does what he

The Roman Coloseum, Michelangelo's David, Leonardo da Vinci, the Lincoln Memorial, the Statue of Liberty, John F. Kennedy, Pope Paul II and Caesar Augustus stand proud, built with simple honesty.

"I love art but it's got to do good to us," Barile said in an interview in his historic sculpture garden. "When it comes to art, it has to be honest. I'm a simplist. I see things as they are, the honest reality."

Barile pointed to the words inscribed in concrete on the monument: "The Unity and Spirit of America.'

"It's so simple and beautiful. It's honesty," Barile said. "The word honesty is very powerful. Honesty is very crucial in business, in life. Courage is important and virtue is its best reward."

Barile begins a sculpture by digging a hole in the ground, a negative that he fills with Quikrete. His current project is the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Beneath the cement, he lays a skeleton of ironwork.

The Greeks would actually carve them on the ground," Barile said. "When I was a little boy in Italy during the war, I used to make my own toys out of clay: motorcycles, trucks. I like to do historical figures, people I respect. I like people who have done good for humanity."

Art as reflection: Silvio Barile on the sculpture, "The Unity and Spirit of America," inscribed the gown of the Statue of Liberty with the words honesty, courage and virtue. The little Native American boy on the right is clad in a Detroit Tigers uniform.

Ausonia and Detroit.

Barile was born in the southern part of Italy, in the small town of Ausonia, half way between Rome and Naples.

He came to this country by way of the Statue of Liberty at age 17 in 1956, after spending several years with his family in a German concentration camp during the war.

After a brief stay in New York, he settled in Dearborn.

Historic hall open for tours

Now through Sept. 5, Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester Hills will be open for viewing every day.

Meadow Brook Hall was given with all its furnishings as a gift to the people of Michigan by Alfred and Matilda Dodge Wilson, founders of OU. It is now maintained as a self-support-ing cultural institution of the university.

The hall is an easy drive, right off 1-75, the OU exit. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday. The last tour is at 3:45 p.m.

Admission is $5. adults: $3, children 5-12; free, children under 5. Admission to Knole Cottage is $1 for all ages. Call 370-3140.

SOUTHFIELD CIVIC CENTER GALLERY

To July 10 - Works by Joseph Zitka. Zitka, who died at 41 in 1971, was a true Renaissance man. Not only did he paint, but he learned to play seven instruments, of which drums were his forte and wrote more than 200 poems. He took courses at what is now the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. He accomplished the equivalent of a life's work between the ages of 34 and 41. His love of art drove him to complete 40 paintings in various media and more than 1,000 sketches. A native Detroiter, he became a pharmacologist and worked as a research chemist with the Burroughs Corp., but art was always his first love. Hours: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 26000 Evergreen, 354-4717.

■ PARK WEST GALLERY

Shopping center board

Rebecca Maccardini, director of operations for Forbes/Cohen properties, has been elected to the luternational Council of Shopping Centers board of trusteess. She will serve as the vice president of committees

Based in New York, ICSC is a 25.000 member trade association of real estate developers, retailers and members of the financial community that services shopping centers.

Maccardini is an ICSC certified Maccaradinimarketing director and was the first female trustee named to the eight-member board when she served in the early 1980s.

Kelly Services expansion

Kelly Services will expand its Troy headquarters by approximately 60,000 square feet. Kelly is renovating the former Kimberly Scott building, which it purchased, and which is just east of the present building.

A conference center and enclosed link are being built to join the two buildings. The exterior on both sides of the link will be landscaped to provide a courtyard, patio and walkways.

Employees are expected to move into the former Stott building in August. Construction of the conference center and link is expected to be completed by Luckenbach/Ziegelman and Partners of Birmingham designed the conference center, annex renovation and the link. Ford and Earle Associates of Troy is designing the interior of the facilities. John Grissim and Associates of Farmington Hills is the landscape architect and site planner for the expansion project. Contractor is Jonna Construction and Co., based in Bloomfield Hills.

Jensen Group forms

Birmingham builder/developer David Jensen has announced the creation of the Jensen Group with the addition of architectural and interior design services. The new units are called Woodlyne Architecture and Woodland Interiors. The original Jensen business units. Kitchens by Jensen and the David Jensen orp., specialize in renovation and luxury house building respectively.

Jensen Group offices are open during their redesign at 595 S. Eton.

Design firm expands

Snyder Szanter & Peters is expanding its Farmington Hills office at 27260 Haggerty. The firm opened in 1990 as Snyder Szantner Architects by Clifford Snyder and Robert Szantner. Gerald Peters joined the firm in 1991 as a principal.

Builder Paul Eisele, owner of Specialty Woodworks Inc. in Howell, said his only regret about the project is that it isn't more strict in its architectural controls. He wishes all homes were required to rigidly adhere to historical standards.

"That way, we could have ended up with a mini-Greenfield Village," he Eisele said he thinks a development of historical homes could be a very successful project. "We seem to have had pretty good response so far. People like old houses," he said.

Eisele ought to know; he's been selling replicas of historical homes for 25 years. "Almost everything we do is historical," he explained.

Eisele said he spends a great deal of time researching building plans of oldhomes. All of the structures he's building are based on the original blueprint designs with minor modifications for today's building standards such as plumbing and electrical.

Realtors suggest lawyer involvement before sale

By R.J. King --Special Writer

No one wants to get burned when buying a new home, especially when prudence proves to be the better part of hindsight. If after moving in, the basement leaks, the furnace blows up and the staircase gets a had case of the shakes, a buyer may rush out to hire the nearest attorney.

But in a new push, the National Association of Realtors (NAR) maintains that an attorney should be consulted before a buyer ever takes possession of a house. Under state licensing laws, real Estate agents are required to recommend that Juyers retain a lawyer from the outset to protect their rights.

Thike the vast majority of real estate agents, I recommend to the buyer that they get an attorhey," said Alan Nelson, real estate associate for Snyder, Kinney & Bennett in Birmingham. "Butmost people don't use them because it's an expense they'd like to avoid."

In most real estate transactions involving a home, once a huyer decides to make an offer, the real estate agent will ask the buyer to sign a stan: dard document outlining the offer and the terms and conditions, and present it to the seller. Since a buyer may not have time to hire an attorney to review the document before the offer is made, he should insert in the offer a home inspection clause and an attorney review clause, either by typing or writing the information in by hand.

Over the last five years, the use of home inspection clauses in offers has become fairly routine, though not universal. But attorney review clauses are more rare than random.

The NAR maintains that both a home inspection and legal review can be accomplished, on average, within five business days.

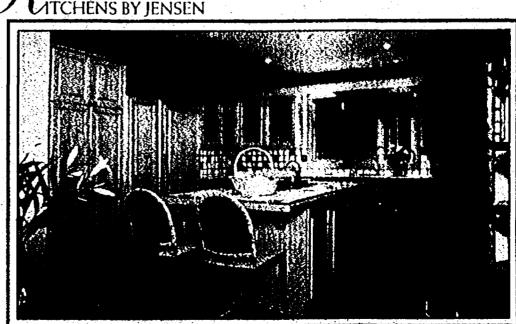

Home inspections often takes three or four hours, depending on the size of the home, and are generally priced under $400.

An attorney review, a service available at most law firms, generally takes one or two days to complete, depending on the work load of a respective firm. Costs range considerably, but most are

Like the other builders in the development, Reginek said she has built historically inspired homes before, but never within a development beforé.

"Why put up another subdivision of modern homes -- there are enough of them aiready," she said.

"I think it you ask people what' they like, they like this," she said, referring to old-style homes. "It's not for everyone, but people are getting back to the family,'

Reginek said she lives in an older home and tries to instill the charm she is attracted to in her own houses. She believes that the projects that do the same will be those to succeed in the future.

"These are the types of homes that require a family. That's what I think this development is trying to

The contemporary homes that became popular in the 1980s and appealed to the young upwardly mobile generation are beginning to lose their luster for the new generation of homebuyers, she said:

"There are still some people who like the modern look, but you're going to have to have places where families can live," Reginek said.

"If a buyer agrees to buy a home. the seller will say: 'Here's the keys. Do you have the money?'-The buyer will say: 'Wait a minute. Let's talk about a few items first.' And if nothing is written on paper, when a problem does develop, you get into an I-said-you-said debate.'

To avoid relying on oral agreements, which are much tougher to prove in a court of law than the written variety, McKenney strongly recommended that potential buyers get all points of contention and agreements with a seller on paper.

"Before you sign any document involving a real estate transaction, have it examined by an attorney,' McKenney said.

Meanwhile, in the case of a home inspection, a buyer should plan on

Open interior spaces by removing, repositioning walls

There is nothing carved in stone about the position of interior walls in your home.

These partitions were built where they are either to perform some structural fluties that would have been too costly to accomplish another way or to suit the interior design fashions of the day.

But, as'times change, tastes also change, and building methods change, too.

What was considered convenient and attractive in the 1950s - to say nothing of the 1850s - is often cumbersome when matched with present day lifestyles.

In the past 20 years, one of the most notable design shifts has been the move toward opening up greater interior space in a home.

The clearest example of this is

(AP) - The Senate approved legislation aimed at preventing massive taxpayer bailouts of two government-backed enterprises that together stand behind $900 billion worth of home mortgages.

The measure, approved 77-19, would tighten federal oversight of the Federal National Mortgage Association, called-Fannie Mae, and the Federal Home Loan Mortage Corp., or Freddie Mac.

Both enterprises are owned by stockholders but are chartered by Congress and back loans that are implicitly guaranteed by the federal government.

The bill would create a new office within the Department of Housing and Urban Development charged with regulating the two enterprises, and require the two firms to retain capital to cover potential losses. It would also require them to increase their business with low- and moderate-income families

• 1 Floor, 2 Bedroom, 2 Bath Models

Critics said the measure did not go far enough. They complained that Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac should be required to hold more capital to protect themselves against losses, and questioned whether HUD was too close to the enterprises to aggressively regulate them.

But Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac both supported the mea-

The bill also carried unrelated amendments dealing with hazardous waste cleanups.

One would limit efforts by polluters to force municipal governments to help them pay for cleaning up waste.

Another would make it easier for lenders to avoid having to pay for environmental cleanups on foreclosed property they obtained, if the lender learned of the pollution problem after taking over the property.

Vaulted ceilings abound in the Crown Jewel, increasing the open, airy feeling of a spacious plan. An old-fashioned covered porch gives a country flavor to this medium-size, two-story home. Arched windows add a contemporary touch.

One novel feature is a small balcony that overlooks the living room. Two dormer windows bath the balcony, living room and entry area in natural light. A fireplace with a wide tile hearth spans the corner directly under the balcony.

The only other room that faces the street is called a swing goom, so named because it can swing from one use to another. Brightened by a stack of windows with an arch at the top, it could be an art studio, home office, sewing room or media from. Add a closet, and you have a guest room or fourth bed-the sun nook even brighter than the rest of the house. And because it's separated from the kitchen and family room by half walls, light spills over into these areas as well. Sliding glass doors open onto a deck that is also accessible from the master suite.

The kitchen is large enough to handle two or three cooks at a time. A central work island does triple duty by combining extra counter space with a cooktop and eating bar. Other kitchen amenities include a dishwasher, a pantry and double sink that faces into the sun nook.
