Engler taps Bokos for judgeship

Veteran city attorney Charles Bokos will succeed Thomas Smith as one of the city's two judges. He was named by Gov. John Engler to fill the vacancy. There's a possibility that an unsuccessful candidate for the position may run against Bokos in two years.

By DARRELL CLEM

Longtime Westland city attorney C. Charles Bokos, reaching a career landmark, has been appointed to succeed 18th District Judge Thomas Smith, who retired nearly two months ago.

Bokos, saying he's "elated and excited about the opportunity," learned of his appointment by Gov. John Engler during a Thursday morning telephone conversation with the governor.

Bokos, 53, won the $93,817-a-year post by beating out Sandra Cicirelli, a local attorney and Westland City Council member, and Sant Ayyash, who ran a distant second when he challenged Judge Smith in the 1990 election.

Bokos expects to be seated on the Westland bench in early August.

"I feel that I can impart the kind of justice, fairly and impartially, that the community would want," he said.

Bokos will have to win in the November 1994 election to fulfill the remainder of Smith's six-year term, which expires in 1996. Although Cicirelli had earlier indicated she would oppose him, she declined to discuss her plans on Friday.

"I don't think this is an appropriate time to discuss that issue," she said.

Bokos plans to resign immediately as city attorney and as half-owner of the law firm of Bokos and Plakas. Mayor Robert Thomas said Friday he will recommend that Bokos' partner, Angelo Plakas, be named the new city attorney.

Council President Charles Pickering said Plakas could be confirmed during

Woman's new job's on track

By TAYLOR LINCOLN

Sheryl Richmond began working as a firewoman on the locomotives at Greenfield Village because she was bored with her work as a ticket taker.

At first, she regarded her job as a hobby for which she earned spending money. Now, her fascination with trains has left her with new career ambitions.

"I love it, it's great. I've put in a resume to Amtrak — I want to be an engineer," said Richmond of Garden City, who is the first and only woman to stoke the fires for the steam locomotives at Greenfield Village.

Every Saturday and Sunday, Richmond gets to Greenfield Village at 5:30 a.m., cleans the locomotive engine, and starts the fire which powers the train.

"The fire heats up the water, the water creates the steam, which creates the pressure that powers the cylinders," she explains.

During the day, Richmond shovels a half-ton of coal into the stove to maintain the fire. It's hard day, and she doesn't get a break — for 12 and a half hours.

"I'm there from 5:30 in the morning until 6 o'clock at night. I'm there the whole time. I don't get off the train for any reason except to use the bathroom," says Richmond, 25, who worked full time as a dental technician until recently.

"I've built up my shoulders quite a bit. I've gotten a lot more muscular since I started to do this," she said.

"I don't even get a break for lunch hour. I usually get a frozen dinner like lasagna in those little cardboard things and set it up on the boiler. By lunch time, it's hot."

Although the train runs on the grounds of a museum and doesn't go very fast, the equipment is authentic. One of the steam engines, the Torch Lake, was used in the coal mines in the Michigan's Upper Peninsula. The

Winter tops in school election spending

By DARRELL CLEM

Campaign expense reports show that the top vote-getter in the June 8 Wayne-Westland school board election also spent the most money, in what ranked among the most expensive district races ever.

Retired school principal Francis "Bud" Winter, a Canton Township resident, plunked down $6,156 for his first-place finish, meaning he spent nearly $2.97 for each of the 2,074 votes he received.

Winter got far more bang for his buck than the next big spender, defeated incumbent Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek. She shelled out $5,121 for a fourth-place finish among eight candidates who competed for two seats.

Kozorosky-Wiacek's spending amounted to nearly $4.16 for each of the 1,233 votes she received.

While Winter and Kozorosky-Wiacek spent enough to treat each voter to lunch at McDonald's, other candidates might've had to ask voters to split the tab.

Soccer time

The Wayne-Westland Soccer League will register players for its fall season on three Fridays — July 31, Aug. 14 and Aug. 28, to fill existing teams. The registrations will be held at the Wayne Community Center, on Annapolis and Howe, between Wayne Road and Venoy. Games will start the week of Sept. 8 with the season closing Oct. 31. Interested persons may call 468-7786 for specific information on fees and age limits.

Insurance tip

State Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, reminded persons 60 and older that they save on their car insurance premiums by waiving coverage of work-loss benefits. The legislature approved the waiver of the coverage last year to allow retirees to get a lower insurance premium.

PLACES & FACES

Campaign stop

Another state senator, Robert Geake, a Northville Republican, will be at the Westland Convalescent Center Tuesday, for a campaign stop. Geake, a state representative or senator for 20 years, is seeking the Republican nomination in the new 13th congressional district. The primary is Tuesday, Aug. 4. The GOP nominee will face U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, in the Nov. 3 election.

Story hour

The Westland recreation department and Civitan Club are co-sponsoring a summer story hour every Wednesday morning at Bailey Center, on Ford east of Newburgh, for youngsters between 4 and 6. The program is held 10:30-11:30 a.m. now through Aug. 12.

College honors

Two Westland college students have been named to the dean's list of their respective universities. Dawn McKendrick of Westland was named to Olivet Nazarene University's dean's list for having a grade point average of 3.35 or higher. The school is in Kankakee, Ill. McKendrick, a 1988 graduate of Franklin High School, is the daughter of Carol Ann McKendrick and a business major. She attends Olivet on a President's Scholarship and is a member of the Business Club. Paulino Eldridge, a University of Toledo senior in the college of education and allied professions, made that school's dean's list for having a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

Mayor wants same legal firm Bokos from page 1A

BY DARRELL CLEM

Gov. John Engler's appointment of C. Charles Bokos as 18th District judge has raised questions about Bokos' apparent successor as Westland city attorney.

Mayor Robert Thomas confirmed Friday that he will recommend to the city council that Bokos' law firm partner, Angelo Plakas, be selected as the new city attorney.

"I don't see any reason to switch (firms) at all," Thomas said. The firm of Bokos and Plakas has served the city for 16 years.

Even though Bokos plans to quit the law firm, ending a 23-year partnership with Plakas, some questions have been raised about Plakas representing the city in court cases that could come before Bokos once he's on the bench.

"There could be a potential con-flikt," council President Charles Pickering said Thursday, the same day Engler named Bokos as the successor to Judge Thomas Smith who retired May 29.

"That is a real concern that I have," Pickering said. "I don't know if we'll get a good answer, but we will have to deal with it."

Pickering appeared optimistic that the potential problem could be overcome, and he indicated that he doesn't believe the council will turn down the mayor's recommendation to name Plakas as city attorney.

In fact, Plakas' confirmation could come as early as today, during the council's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall, Pickering said.

Mayor Thomas said it's possible that Bokos couldn't hear certain cases handled by Plakas for a period of two years or so, in order to avoid a conflict of interest.

But those cases could be heard by the other 18th District judge, Gail McKnight, the mayor said.

Moreover, the city could opt in certain cases to hire an attorney outside Plakas' firm to handle cases that come before Bokos, Mayor Thomas said.

"Those details will have to be worked out," he said.

Plakas agreed Friday and said, "We're going to make sure that we cover all bases in that regard."

Immediately after learning of his judicial appointment, Bokos said he would resign as city attorney and quit his position with the firm of Bokos and Plakas. He is half-owner of the firm.

Plakas, meanwhile, said it's too early to speculate on what changes his firm might make in the wake of Bokos' departure.

a council meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today (Monday).

Bokos, city attorney for 16 years, had eyed the judgeship amid long-standing rumors that Smith would soon step down. Smith, elected Westland municipal judge in 1967, and elevated to district judge two years later, announced in February that his last day would be May 29.

Bokos' appointment came after he and other candidates were interviewed separately by a bar association panel and the governor's office.

As city attorney, Bokos has handled numerous cases in 18th District Court.

"The court has been very important to me, and the city of Westland has been good to me," he said. "I know the court backwards and forward."

A 27-year attorney, Bokos said becoming a district judge marks a lifelong dream. "It's something I've always looked forward to doing," he said.

David Wiacek, 18th District Court administrator, predicted an easy transition because Bokos is familiar with the court and its staff.

"I think he'll hit the bench off and running," Wiacek said. "We'll miss Judge Smith, no doubt about it. But the staff is excited."

Mayor Robert Thomas said the council has lost a highly qualified attorney, but the city has gained an equally qualified district judge.

"On the one hand it's a loss, but on the other hand it's a gain," Thomas said.

Bokos, who lives on Millwood Drive in Westland with his wife, Hilda, has been with the firm of Bokos and Plakas since 1969. He received his bachelor's degree and doctorate in law from Wayne State University.

office, the Observer learned that:

- Winning candidate Richard LeBlanc of Westland ranked third in spending but placed second in votes, becoming the other winner. He spent $2,680 for 1,467 votes, or nearly $1.83 for each vote.

- Former board member Mathew McCusker ranked fourth in spending, but received enough votes for a strong third-place showing that nearly marked a comeback from his 1991 defeat. The Westland resident spent $1,723 for 1,324 votes, or about $1.30 for each vote.

- Two-time election loser John Albrecht of Westland plunked down $1,370 for 940 votes, ranking fifth in spending and votes received. He spent nearly $1.46 for each vote.

- Candidates Steven Lind, Kenneth Raupp and Michael Flemming, who ranked sixth through eighth, respectively, in votes received, didn't have to file expense reports because they spent less than $1,000 each on their campaigns.

Winter's $6,156 tab showed that he spent $1,321 more than the top winner in last year's school election, when No. 1 Vicki Welty spent $4,835.

Welty's campaign had been considered expensive by some political observers — that is, until expenses for Winter and Kozorosky-Wiacek came in.

When asked about the latest expenses, Thomas Svitkovich, a former Wayne-Westland deputy superintendent who saw many elections during his 28½ years in the district, said, "I can't recall someone spending more than that."

The biggest spenders usually shell out $2,000 to $4,000, said Svitkovich, who left the district June 30 to accept a Flint-area superintendent.

Winter: Record, not money, produced win

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Money boosted — but didn't buy — his Wayne-Westland school board victory, first-place finisher Francis "Bud" Winter said.

The 63-year-old retired educator and Canton Township resident attributed his impressive win in the June 8 race to support from a cross-section of supporters that ranged from his former students to senior citizens.

"I believe my reputation for fairness, yet firmness, is really what got me elected," said Winter, who ended a 37½-year education career when he retired in 1989 as Wayne Memorial High School principal.

Winter spent $6,156 on his school board campaign, the Observer learned from newly available campaign expense reports at the Wayne County elections office. His spending made his candidacy one of the most expensive ever in the Wayne-Westland district.

The bulk of his money came from a fund-raiser that drew 350 supporters.

The money helped Winter pay for campaign literature that got across his message of wanting to return Wayne-Westland to the "lighthouse district" it once was. But he believes his tenure as an educator played a more important role.

"My record really speaks for itself," he said.

Both Winter and Richard LeBlanc, who won the other board seat at stake, also said they were seen by their supporters as independent-minded candidates who wouldn't come to the board carrying political baggage.

LeBlanc spent only $2,680, but won the second seat at stake in an election that saw the defeat of incumbent Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, who spent $5,121.

LeBlanc, a Westland resident, said the money he raised helped him buy the campaign literature and signs that made his candidacy much more visible than his failed election bid in last year's race.

Although he spent 3¼ times more than he spent in 1991, LeBlanc also attributed his victory to harder work. He attended numerous community events, sent out mass mailings, courted absentee voters and spoke to groups of people that his supporters gathered at their homes.

Despite waging an expensive race, incumbent Kozorosky-Wiacek of Westland lost her re-election bid and blamed her defeat on a bitter mud-slinging campaign by her political enemies.

Her campaign committee has filed a complaint with the Secretary of State's office, claiming that three of her critics violated state elections laws by failing to include a disclaimer saying who paid for campaign fliers mailed to some voters.

The state is looking into the complaint, filed against William Ziemba, a former Westland City Council member, Carol Gillentine, a Wayne-Westland custodial employee, and Fredric Hagelthorn, who had earlier launched an unsuccessful recall attempt against Kozorosky-Wiacek.

Francis "Bud" Winter: A retired school principal, he leads in vote tally.

District may hike fees for 'pay to participate'

BY TAYLOR LINCOLN
STAFF WRITER

LIVONIA

Students who "pay to participate" in the Livonia school district may be paying more than reported in last month's projections.

The additional costs will result from the school board finance committee's July 13 recommendation to the board of education to increase student contributions for extracurricular activities as one of its methods to trim an additional $1.6 million from the budget.

The board had already cut $7.2 million in June — part of which was offset by implementing "pay for participation" — but was forced to make additional cuts when the July 1 state aid bill drained more from the budget than anticipated.

Last month, the board, whose district includes the northern section of Westland, said "pay for participation" fees could not exceed $100 per student per sport. The new plan calls for raising an additional $197,000 by increasing rates for non-academic athletics and activities.

"We think the top amount will probably be in the area of $140. We will not charge the full amount if, in fact, underwriting that particular activity doesn't cost that much," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli.

In addition to increasing "pay for participation" fees, the finance committee accepted six other suggestions from Marinelli, which are expected to save the district $1.4 million of the necessary $1.6 million.

According to trustee Jim Watters, the committee has agreed to cut the additional $200,000 out of the operations budget — which encompasses maintenance and custodial services — and will determine the specific nature of the cuts at a special finance committee tonight prior to the regular board meeting.

Aside from increasing the "pay for participation" fees and agreeing to cut the operations budget, the board agreed to eliminate three full-time elementary teaching positions, reduce the capital improvement budget by $315,000, and cut the science center, located at Whittier School in Westland.

Other financial gains were realized by a bookkeeping adjustment, which will shift an estimated $520,000 in bills from the latter part of the '92-'93 year to the early part of the '93-'94 year, and an administrative change in the way Blue Cross/Blue Shield is billed for prescription drugs which will save $140,000.

"I think it's a success of the administration when you look at a school system as vast as (the) Livonia (district), the number of students here, and the number of classrooms," said Watters. "I think the administration has done a fantastic job in presenting material to the trustees."

Watters credited the board with implementing "pay for participation," however.

"The pay to participate is really the board's way to see that we have the athletic opportunities that we've had in the past. The administration was not in favor of that idea but the trustees listened to the community of parents and students."

Both Marinelli and Watters said holding a millage election was not a viable alternative this year, but that if the state were to make similar cuts next year, there might be no alternative.

"We will have lost $8.8 million this year based on our state funding alone," Marinelli said.

"My own feeling is that if we're going to sustain a round of cuts next year, we will have to go to our citizens and explain that we need additional funding to continue running a school system with the services they're used to."

Watters said the state's "Robin Hood" policy, under which some of the money of wealthier districts is distributed to poorer districts, would make it more difficult to get a millage approved.

"We've been used to the home rule policy and keeping money here in our system, and now those funds are going to the state, and the state is distributing the funds to other districts."

Cops ring in jewelry robbery suspects

Two Detroit men spent the weekend in the Westland police lockup after a jewelry theft from the Crowley's Store in the Wildwood Plaza and a chase by two police departments. The two men were arrested in a house on Detroit's west side.

The police said they would seek a warrant from the prosecutor's office Sunday charging the men, 22 and 23, in the theft of an unknown quantity of rings.

A theft took place Friday night when two men asked a clerk to look at a ring, said Sgt. Timothy Abramski of the Westland police special investigative units. The clerk told police he showed them a ring and was then shoved away by the men. They grabbed three trays of rings in the unlocked counter.

A short time after fleeing the store on Ford and Wildwood, Westland Patrolman Chris Clark spotted a car matching the description of the robbers' car going east on Warren Road at Venoy.

Detroit police chased the car starting on Joy near Outer Drive after being alerted by other departments.

The passengers ran from their auto after hitting a parked car. They then ran through nearby backyards and into a house as pursuing officers lost them. But neighbors directed officers to the house where the men were arrested.

Police leery of 'Shack Bash' fund-raiser for DARE

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Even though Westland police say they won't accept his money, a Westland man planned to move ahead last Saturday with a neighborhood party to benefit a police department anti-drug program.

"We can raise money without their help," said William Kero, organizer of "Shack Bash '92" on Emerson, south of Palmer between Venoy and Wildwood in the Norway neighborhood.

Westland police denounced the neighborhood picnic and said they don't want the proceeds for their DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program because alcohol will be involved.

Not only will the picnicers be allowed to bring beer and other alcoholic beverages, some of the 13 sponsors for "Shack Bash '92" are alcohol distributors, DARE officer David Hooper said.

"We kind of washed our hands of the thing," Hooper said. "The guy probably had good intentions, but we just can't give our support to it."

Endorsing an event involving alcohol would clash with the DARE program's strong stance against alcohol and drugs, Hooper said.

Kero, a self-employed building maintenance worker, also encountered opposition from the Wayne-Westland school district, which refused to let the parking lot of nearby Lincoln Elementary School be used by people attending the party.

Superintendent Larry Thomas has taken a strong stance against school property being used in any way for events involving alcohol.

Kero distributed fliers noting that a $5 donation for admission, food and beverages would be given to DARE. The picnic also was to include a dunk tank, drawings for prizes, horseshoe competitions, volley ball and other activities.

Tickets were even sold through Ticket Master. Kero hoped to raise $1,000 and said he still plans to donate it to DARE.

Police Lt. Al George said DARE officers won't directly accept donations from the party.

"But if (Kero) comes over to city hall and says he wants to make a donation to the DARE program, we really have no way of stopping him," George said.

Kero confirmed Friday that picnicers would be allowed to bring beer and other alcoholic beverages to the party, which was to begin at 2 p.m.

"If somebody wants to bring a cooler, we won't stop them," Kero said. "But if they get overintoxicated, they're out of here."

Police were concerned about potential problems at the party, including security problems and the potential that minors could consume alcohol.

"We've had more police calls in that area than normal," Hooper said.

Earlier, Kero had hoped that police would be on hand for the pic-

A 23-year-old Westland man accused of causing a head-on collision that injured the daughter of a city official is expected to become the first Westland resident charged under a tough new drunken driving law.

Westland police arrested the man Thursday but released him until they receive results of a blood-alcohol test that they believe will prove he was legally drunk.

The man has been accused of crashing his 1970 Ford head-on into a 1989 Dodge being driven by Terri Lee Saenz, the 24-year-old daughter of Westland City Council President Charles Pickering.

Saenz remained in stable condition Friday at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia — three days after her left leg was broken during the head-on collision that occurred just before 1 a.m. on Merriman north of Hines Drive.

Saenz's husband suffered a fractured leg, but their 8-month-old son Brandyn, strapped in a rear car seat, escaped injury. Both were taken to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, and released.

"That car seat saved that baby," Officer Steven Frazer said Friday.

The arrested driver is expected to be arraigned this week and charged under a tough drunken driving law that took effect Jan. 1. If convicted, he would become the first Westland resident to face up to five years in prison for causing a long-term incapacitating injury, Frazer said.

Frazer described the man as frightened but cooperative.

The accident occurred as the man was driving north on Merriman. He sideswiped a 1991 Chevy van, ran off the road, returned to the road and then hit Saenz's car head-on.

Saenz suffered the only serious injury in the accident.

Westland police had to pry her from her crushed car, Frazer said. She is expected to undergo surgery this week.

The man, who's expected to be charged, was treated and released at Annapolis Hospital, Wayne, after the accident.

MRI unit takes to the road

An advanced diagnostic technology is now on wheels for local patients.

Oakwood Health Services, which operates Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, announced that it has a mobile Magnetic Resonance Imaging unit, one of two in the country, said a spokeswoman. The other is in Florida.

The state-of-the-art technology is capable of acquiring detailed images of the human body in a short amount of time, allowing more patients access to its capabilities, leading to earlier diagnosis and treatment of disease, said Trish Christie, Oakwood spokeswoman.

The mobile MRI unit will provide a needed service to persons living in western Wayne County, including Garden City and Westland.

"At this point, the unit is going back and forth between Oakwood Hospital and the Southgate center," said Lynne Duluk, MRI services supervisor.

"Eventually, it will travel between all six sites," she said, referring to the hospitals run by the health services organization.

The new equipment supplements the permanent MRI unit at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, installed in May, 1989.

"The mobile technology will enable us to serve the communities' needs for MRI services in a more convenient manner," said Duluk.

MRI images are of such clarity and detail that physicians are able to pinpoint brain lesions, identify problems of the spinal cord, the knee, abdomen and other organs and tissues.

"Most of the MRI scans performed at the mobile sites will be done on an outpatient basis," she added. "We will mainly do scans of the central nervous system (the brain and spinal cord) for tumors or lesions, and orthopedic injuries to the knee, wrist, ankle or hip."

Mobile unit: Everett Woods of Westland has headphones placed on him so he could enjoy music while using the new mobile MRI unit. Placing headphones on Woods is Carolyn Wolf, an MRI tech at Oakwood.

Commission challenge

Ethics become issue in county board race

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

The 10th district Wayne County Commission race boils down to one issue: incumbent Maurice Breen.

Breen, a former Plymouth Township supervisor finds himself embattled on several fronts as he fights to retain the Livonia/Plymouth-Northville area seat.

Patrick Downes, one of three Republican challengers in the Tuesday, Aug. 4, primary, said he's running because of "Maury Breen and some of the things he's done."

Downes, 24, has issued campaign literature alleging Breen unfairly profited from a 1986 land sale by deliberately withholding information that was a partner in the group selling the land. (For more on the issue, see related story.)

Breen, 59, is also embattled on several other fronts.

He is among several local politicians linked to the controversial Western Townships Utilities Association sewer project — where allegations of cronyism and abuse of power have swirled since a newspaper investigation earlier this year.

Even Breen's 1991 appointment to the commission has become an issue, involving several job switches among people also linked to the sewer project.

Challengers take aim

Not surprisingly, challengers are making the most of Breen's troubles.

While Plymouth Township resident Downes has been the most aggressive, fellow challenger Thaddeus McCotter is stressing "my integrity" in pointed reference to Breen.

"I'm running because of my commitment to public service," the 23-year-old Livonia resident said.

Clayton Stacey, 63, who says he's known the incumbent for more than 25 years, is also making issue of the allegations against Breen.

"You don't take a public job with the idea of making yourself rich," the Plymouth Township resident said.

The controversy has enlivened a normally placid district. Former incumbent Susan Heintz faced no challengers in 1988 or 1990.

Differences of opinion

Likewise, the challengers differ little on the issues. All call themselves fiscal conservatives — though Stacey favors the proposed 0.5-mill increase for programs to benefit needy county residents. Others called the ballot proposal ill-conceived and poorly worded.

All generally agree that poor condition of county roads is the biggest local issue.

While accusations against Breen are the biggest campaign issue, Breen calls the accusations all size, no steak.

The sewer project's use of principals in the Plymouth-based law firm Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk — all political allies of Breen — was a "natural thing," he said.

"There aren't that many law firms that specialize in municipal law, plus many of the involved communities had already used these people for other projects," Breen said.

The WTUA, including Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships, banded together to connect to the Ypsilanti treatment plant rather than tap into the proposed regional "super sewer" that would have linked them to Detroit.

"I still say this will save our residents money in the long run," Breen said.

As for the job switching — Heintz left the county commission in early 1991 to join Gov. Engler's staff, former state representative Gerald Law replaced Breen as supervisor, while former Northville Township supervisor Georgina Goss replaced Law.

Breen, though, said the situation "wasn't a conspiracy."

"I know from my own experience I was pretty burned out (being supervisor)," he said. "Susie came to me because she thought I'd have an easy time being confirmed. When you leave, you want someone with a similar philosophy to replace you and, philosophically, we're all close," Breen said.

Both he and Goss were subsequently elected to their new posts, though Goss and Law also face tough re-election challenges this year — and the same allegations.

Breen defends land deal with developer

A 1986 land sale involving then-Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen looms large in Breen's 1992 re-election bid for county commissioner.

GOP rival Patrick Downes alleges Breen unfairly profited from the land sale — charging the property was rezoned, improving its marketability, without township officials' knowledge Breen was a principal.

"For the $500 cost of a 'Letter of Credit,' Maurice Breen and friends pocketed a real profit of $876,000," charges Downes in literature sent to likely voters.

Breen acknowledges he profited from the sale but says Downes "has his facts wrong."

"It was made public that I was involved," Breen said.

As for Downes' charge the sale was contingent on rezoning, Breen said: "I have no knowledge of that."

The facts, according to both sides: former state land was bought by a contingent including Breen, his brother and two other principals seven years ago and sold one year later to Plymouth-area developer Robert DeMattia and subsequently rezoned from residential to industrial.

Downes said he has the answer — a personal code of ethics in which he vows to, "comply with both the letter and spirit of all conflict of interest regulations and disclosure requirements."

But codes, like land deals, could be only as good as the paper on which they're written.

Geiger pledges NEA support for Clinton

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

NEW YORK — As a Democratic convention orator, Keith Geiger got high marks from one of his bosses.

"Oh, great! He's a real bragging point for us," said Livonia school board member Dick McKnight, Clinton delegate from Westland.

"You know, he's technically on a leave of absence. We approve it every year," said McKnight.

A former Livonia math teacher, Geiger is president of the National Education Association and a resident of Fairfax County, Va. In fact, with Virginia's delegation seated next to Michigan's, Geiger literally sat behind McKnight when his 10 minutes at the convention rostrum were over Wednesday night.

The transplant Geiger was as close as any Michiganian got to a place on the Madison Square Garden rostrum in front of 4,000 delegates, 15,000 media folks and thousands more of the party faithful.

Geiger appeared at 6:45 p.m. in the middle of a pack of speakers on "Democratic Values" that included former presidential hopeful Sen. Bob Kerrey and vice presidential short list contender Lee Hamilton.

He got at least as good a reception as any and a far better one than Manhattan Borough president Ruth Bessinger.

"Wonderful! You could actually hear him up here. He has a teacher's voice," said Gail Nolin, a Clinton delegate from Sylvan Lake and Michigan Education Association official.

So was it tough for a teacher used to addressing classes of 25 or 30 to get up in front of 4,000 delegates?

"There's half as many here as at our NEA convention," replied Geiger afterwards. "We have 8,000 delegates, twice this size. With the noise level in here, you're talking to the TV audience. But it's unexplainable to look over the crowd to see the screaming and yelling." Geiger told the convention, "I pledge that 2.1 million members of the NEA will work in every city and village to elect Bill Clinton."

How could he make such a pledge on behalf of a union with a large contingent of Republicans?

"All the surveys taken of member have been consistent — one-third, one-third and one-third (Democrats, Republicans and independents)," Geiger said. "At our conven-

What if you developed disturbing sensations in your right or left arm? At times the arm felt cold, then numb, later felt swollen, then for a while went weak. What if these odd feelings came suddenly, stayed for an instant to hours, then left for days? What if you found that positioning the arm over your head brought on these changes?
You will may have Thoracic Outlet Syndrome.
The major arteries and veins, and the group of nerves that supply the arms start from the heart and neck. At the upper edge of the first rib, these structures come together and travel through the axilla until they reach the upper arm. There the blood vessels and nerves diverge into the networks that supply blood and sensation for the extremity from the shoulder to the fingers.
If either the large vessels or major nerve roots are pinched at some site in the axilla, then you can undergo the experiences described above. What arm problems you encounter depends on whether the nerve, artery, or vein is the structure impinged upon, or if more than one site of pressure exists.
You may be told by a friend you have carpal tunnel syndrome. However, do not be surprised if your physician sends you to a vascular specialist to test blood flow through the arm, or to a neurologist to assess if the nerves in your axilla are intact.

Clinton camp stresses jobs, economy to local delegates

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

NEW YORK — Bill Clinton's campaign manager told key Michigan congressmen he will cooperate with them on an industrial states consensus strategy in Clinton's bid for the White House.

"We will not bring in our preconceptions. We will not send somebody in (to dictate). There will be a consensus strategy," said David Wilhelm, the Chicagoan who is Clinton's campaign manager.

"We'll decide mutually what's best," Wilhelm told reporters after addressing the Michigan's delegation's Friday morning caucus and huddling intensely for about 10 minutes with Sens. Carl Levin and Don Riegle, Reps. Sander Levin, Bill Ford and John Dingell, and state AFL-CIO president Frank Garrison.

Dingell, the state's longest serving Democratic lawmaker, and Carl Levin appeared to be doing the most talking.

Wilhelm said Clinton will concentrate on economics and jobs in an attempt to bring Michigan back into the Democratic fold.

David Wilhelm, Clinton's campaign manager, said Clinton will concentrate on economics and jobs in an attempt to bring Michigan back into the Democratic fold.

Despite the euphoria of party unity, Democratic strategists said they were wary about an ABC poll showing Clinton with a 17-point lead over President George Bush. After the 1988 Democratic conventions, nominee Michael Dukakis had exactly a 17-point lead over Bush, too.

"I'm very worried that people will relax or Republicans will crank up their dirty tricks," former Gov. James Blanchard told the caucus.

A quarter hour later, Sen. Tom Harkin of Iowa gave delegates exactly the same warning.

Clinton will start his campaign with a 1,000-mile train trip to St. Louis, but Michigan isn't on that itinerary, Wilhelm said. "We'll come back to Michigan," he promised.

In all the questions, the name of running mate Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee didn't come up.

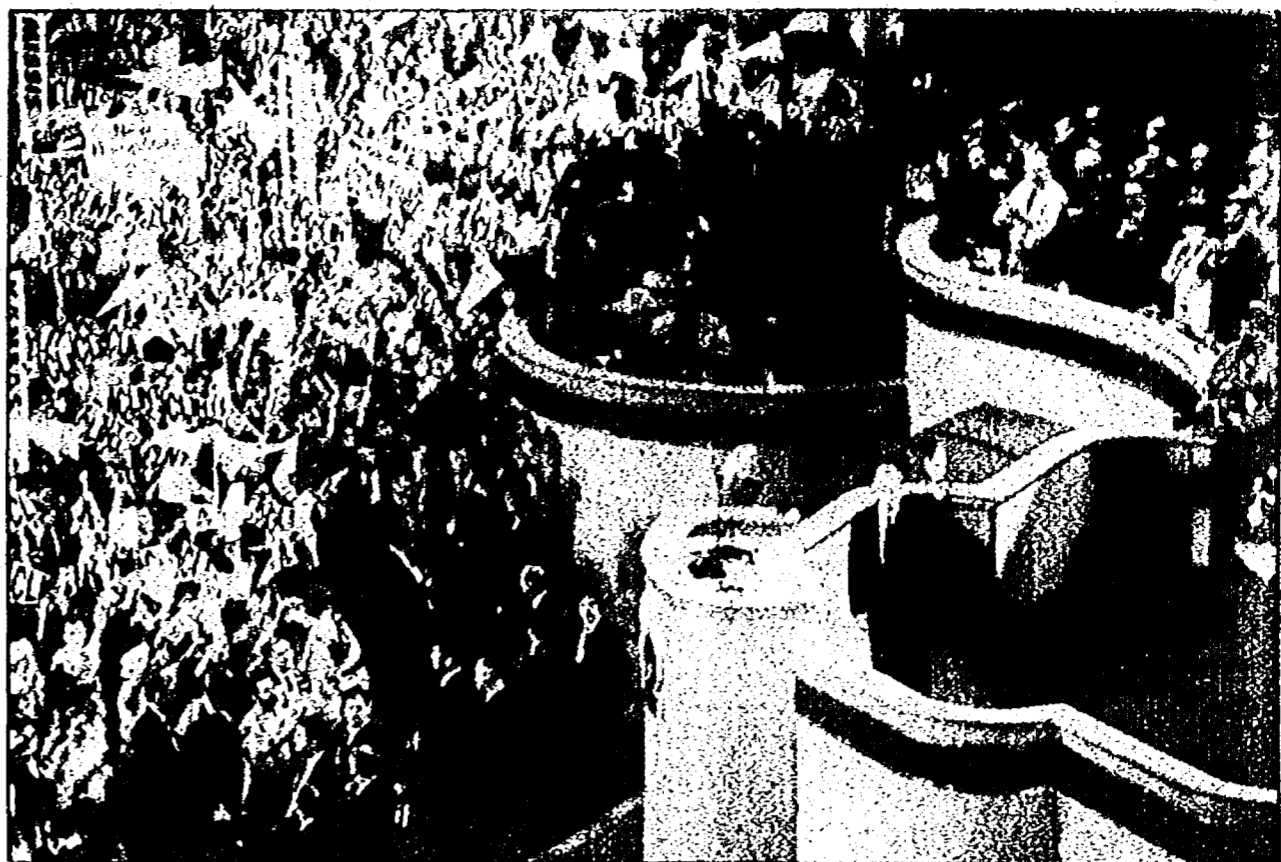

The ABC poll showed Clinton with 45 percent, Bush with 28 and Perot with 20.

Blanchard announced Michigan's tally at Thursday's presidential nominating session: 120 for Clinton, 35 for former California Gov. Jerry Brown, four for "other."

Although that job normally goes to the delegation chair, state Democratic chair Gary Corbin turned the honor over to Blanchard because of the latter's close and long association with Clinton.

It further fueled delegate speculation that Blanchard would have a major job in a Clinton administration.

In other delegation business, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara asked Democrats to oppose two issues on the Nov. 4 ballot:

• "Term limitation can be very, very devastating. We have Dingell, Ford and Carr (in key committee positions). There is a great desire of Southern states to tap into Great Lakes water. We can't afford to lose our seniority rights." The proposal would amend the constitution to limit U.S. senators to two terms and U.S. representatives to three terms.

Gov. John Engler's "Cut and Cap" property tax cut would hurt local units of government. "It has to come from somewhere," McNamara said, referring to the state's obligation to make up lost revenue to school districts. He predicted Lansing would cut aid to cities, townships and counties, that fire and police service would be affected; and that local units would have to seek tax increases.

Area delegates say Clinton benefits from Perot pullout

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

NEW YORK — They're happy Ross Perot quit, but most Michigan Democrats would have been happier if the wealthy Texan had stayed in the presidential race longer in order to do more damage to incumbent George Bush.

"Mr. Perot spoke out forcefully for change, and a number of people listened, but Bill Clinton stands for change as well," state party chairman Gary Corbin said just hours before the Arkansas governor made his acceptance speech Thursday.

"We put out the welcome mat (for Perot supporters). His withdrawal will help Democrats, ultimately. In a three-way race, the incumbent has the advantage. It's up to the Democrats and Clinton to earn the support of Perot people."

Most area delegates were optimistic Democrats would benefit, on balance, from Perot's exit.

"He basically said the Democrats got our act together," said Ron

Thayer, development vice president of Channel 56 and long-time Democratic operative. "I wish he'd stayed in longer."

Terry Awhal of Livonia had a different perspective. The spokeswoman for area Arabs and a Clinton delegate thought the entire campaign was a Perot ego trip, not a serious run for the White House.

"Perot wants the limelight. Look at Iran this rescue of hostages."

Sour on the Big Apple, our reporter heads home

Most Democrats I'm covering like big cities and are thrilled about New York. And in truth, the locals have treated us marvelously.

But my view of the Big Apple will forever be jaundiced by two signs in the window of a chain restaurant.

The first: "Hiring — $4.25 an hour."

The second: "Not participating in a national promotion because of local cost factors."

Um, er, fellas, $4.25 is minimum legal wage.

Aggravating my view was this sign on a parking garage: "Parking reduced to $4.44 for 1 1/4 hour."

In other words, it costs, on a bargain day, twice as much to park your car as to hire human labor. This isn't my kind of town, even if it does have the Philharmonic and the art museums. Sorry.

In economic terms, New York City is suffering from the opposite problem of the southeastern Michigan region.

Here, there are too many people crowded together, labor is cheap, land is expensive. At home we suffer from urban sprawl: paving cornfields, manicuring lakeshores and abandoning the big city and older suburbs.

Macy's department store was kind enough to give visitors a red tote bag, if you could find your way through the maze of corridors to the right department. Sure, it was promo, but it was nice.

But Macy's is kitty-corner from Madison Square Garden, where 4,000 delegates, 15,000 media types and a multitude of hangers-on congregate each afternoon. Streets are jammed with delegate buses. Shoppers can't get in, according to a remark we overheard by a floorwalker.

Macy's sign boasts it's the nation's largest department store. It made this native Detroitier sad because that honor once belonged to the downtown J.L. Hudson store, which towers three or four stories higher but has been shut down since 1982.

We press types are supposed to be guardians of the English language, so I have to beat up a bit on Bill Clinton, a man who otherwise is one of the most knowledgeable politicians I've ever covered.

Clinton misuses the word "investment." He applies it to all kinds of government spending programs, particularly when he talks to business audiences. The programs may be worthy, they may help the downtrodden, but they are government spending, not "investment."

You can see why. Clinton is positioning himself as a middle-of-the-road moderate, much like Eisenhower in 1952 and Gov. Jim Blanchard in 1982. Among middle-of-the-roads, "investment" is a nice word and "spending" a dirty word.

Democrats actually rejected a Paul Tsongas amendment to the platform that used "investment" correctly: "The viability of our manufacturing base is the essential component of (a thriving) economy. To strengthen the private sector, we will create an investment tax credit for all businesses. And instead of creating a capital gains windfall to the wealthy and those who speculate, we commit to a targeted capital gains tax cut for securities held long term."

A differential to start-up companies will be provided."

Now that, friends, is investment used properly. It lost.

The Democrats are friendly, exuberant, talkative and easy to cover. But I have one complaint, and it is scored double fortissimo for brass and tympani: They make the weekly press pickup credentials (tickets to the Garden) EVERY DAY. That's four trips, 18 blocks to the Ramada, 18 back, a $10 cab bill for the round trip, an unpleasant hike through a cement steam bath if you walk, an hour or more out of the middle of the day (pickup time is 10 to 2, sessions don't start until 5).

In short, wasted time, wasted money, aggravation.

Republicans issue the entire week's credentials at one time.

I don't know who the author is, but many Democrats were using this clever description of the three presidential contenders:

George Bush — "An aristocrat who thinks government should work for his class."

H. Ross Perot — "An autocrat who thinks government should work for him."

Bill Clinton — "A Democrat who thinks government should work for all of us."

Sen. John (Jay) Rockefeller of West Virginia delivered this variation to the Michigan delegation caucus Wednesday morning prior to Perot's retreat:

"George Bush hates government. Ross Perot disdains government. We Democrats like government."

'92 Democratic convention embraces Year of the Woman

At age 2, I landed in New York in mid-July as an immigrant to a land of freedom. Forty-five years later, I landed in New York in mid-July to be part of the Democratic and Democratic process.

As the gavel fell to announce the formal beginning of the campaign, veterans of other conventions and first-timers like myself had strong feelings of anticipation.

After several hours of welcoming remarks and reports, Texas Gov. Ann Richards, chair of the convention, was introduced, and what had been an almost chaotic atmosphere of personal discussions suddenly quieted to a polite undercurrent. As she spoke, there was an immediate sense of awareness among women delegates that somehow this convention would be different.

Indeed, as U.S. Sen. Barbara A. Mikulski of Maryland spoke and was followed by five impressive women Senate candidates, I knew this was "the Year of the Woman." Excitement and camaraderie filled the room. Women cheered loudly and displayed signs as their issues were raised.

Carol Mosley Brown, Barbara Boxer, Jean Jones, Lynn Yeakel and Diane Feinstein became not only candidates but symbols of a political awakening. Women who hardly knew each other could perceive each others' thoughts at a glance in Madison Square Garden.

There were three keynote addresses, but I couldn't help focusing on Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas as she called for better health care, protecting a woman's right to choose, and an end to all forms of bigotry.

Next morning the daily Women's Caucus drew several thousand — delegates and non-delegates, newcomers and experienced hands, young and seasoned women — to hear women Senate and House candidates. Some in the audience were affiliated with Emily's List and the Women's Political Caucus; others were about to be affiliated. What drew them together was a sense of minority status and a feel they could make a change.

A surprise: Gov. Bill Clinton chose this gathering as the only one he would speak to on Tuesday. He assured them he understood their concerns: child care, medical coverage and choice. Hillary Clinton was there, too, as a signal she would make a difference.

I had an opportunity to speak with Diane Feinstein, the California candidate who had been in my home several years before for a fundraiser as she raced to her next event.

The women of New York were able to combine with women of all states to create an event which took on new forms and meanings. They set a tone for the entire country.

A fundraiser to support women candidates raised more than $750,000. It was clear women were being educated in the issues and importance of campaign financing. Actress Glenn Close emceed and showed her support. I heard from numerous sources this was a financial and political success.

Certainly times have changed for women. They demonstrated throughout the Democratic convention and the Women's Caucus that they are ready to accept the responsibilities of office and want to ensure their voices are heard on issues which impact on them.

Through their own networks, information is passed along. As a small child, I came to America to find freedom. In New York last week, I found the ability to express and learn about freedom as a Michigan delegate and as a woman living in the United States in "the Year of the Woman."

Zina Kramer, who operates Events Marketing in Bingham Farms, was an at-large Clinton delegate to the national convention.

Speeches wow delegates

NEW YORK — The speeches are Great. Great. Great. . . great. . . Some delegates like Stella Evangelista were of a continuous emotional high as Democratic big names like Ted Kennedy, Jerry Brown and Mario Cuomo unleashed their speeches. "I've never been in anything like it. It's contagious. Once you come inside, you get hooked," said the Bloomfield Hills pediatrician from the Philippines who will be voting in only her second presidential election. "Electrifying. A once-in-a-lifetime experience," she went on. There was a reason: "There was martial law in the Philippines — no elections there for 20 years. It took 10 years to get our citizenship papers. My first vote was for (Gov. James) Blanchard in 1986." Son Marcus, 20, one of six children of the Dr. Evangelista, is getting a taste of Democratic politics, too, as a gofer intern for the national committee. He's a liberal arts student at the University of Michigan. Dave Katz, a Livonian at his first national convention, finds one can get information overload at a convention. "NACO (National Association of Counties) had a conference," said the chief of staff of Wayne County, Executive Ed McNamara. "I went to some of that kind of stuff. It's not terribly invigorating." "I've never been to New York before. I'm a frog out of water. I'm enjoying it. I went to a play — 'Man of LaMancha.'" In contrast, Bertha Bowerman, a Tsongas delegate from Birmingham, said, "I really don't want any publicity."

DOUG ASHLEY

Keith Geiger: A former Livonia math teacher who is now president of the National Education Association pledged that "2.1 million members of the NEA will work in every city and village to elect Bill Clinton."

tion, 88 percent voted to endorse Clinton. That's the strongest showing for a candidate we've had since we've been endorsing. "Some of his strongest (NEA) supporters were Republicans because George Bush has done nothing," he said. Clinton told the convention that "12 years of White House policies have dimmed American children's dreams." He accused the Reagan and Bush administrations of "the politics of child neglect." "Children cannot vote. We must be their surrogates. . . They're tired of politicians who think kissing babies is a substitute for vaccinating them," he said to cheers. Geiger gave Bush an "F" as an education president, using an old schoolmaster adage: "It's the lowest grade I can give." "The cold war is over, but millions of children are still out in the cold." "Gov. Bill Clinton and Sen. Al Gore will bring help to school employees," Geiger said, concluding with his pledge to bring 2.1 million NEA members into the presidential fray. Geiger did indeed have to speak over crowd noises. Convention officials didn't turn off the hall lights, raise the sound level and put a spotlight on him as they did for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Shrugged Darlene Berent, a Jerry Brown delegate from Madison Heights: "It was OK. I don't think most of the people paid any attention at all. None." "A wonderful job of crystallizing educational issues," said former schoolteacher Maxine Berman, a legislator from Southfield and a Paul Tsongas delegate. Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara and U.S. Rep. Howard Wolpe were so busy talking that they hardly knew Geiger had spoken. McNamara recalled how in 1976 he and Geiger sat as "bored delegates" during unending speeches. "It was great," said Dave Katz, a Livonian and McNamara's chief of staff. "I was going to school in Livonia when he taught. He's very charismatic." "He did very well," said Ron Thayer of Southfield, "considering a lot of people don't pay attention in you're not a Jesse Jackson."

Clinton benefits from page 7A

Look at GM (where he criticized management style after selling his data company to the automaker). Ross Perot is going to be a VIP forever. "It's gonna help us," said state party treasurer Larry Daitch, Birmingham lawyer and convention visitor. "Now there are two clear choices. People who want change will be with us." Shopping center developer A. Alfred Taubman, sitting with the delegation on an "honored guest" pass, saw Perot's dropout cutting two ways. "First, conservative voters who are disenchanting will go for Bush.

Second, women's rights voters — those interested in choice — will go to Clinton." Taubman's response was interrupted by a shoulder-slapping U.S. Sen. Carl Levin. "Welcome home," he told Taubman. "One of my greatest supporters. Welcome home." "My guess," said Birmingham marketer Zina Kramer, "is a fair number of those interested in Ross Perot are not strongly committed (to others). I'm not sure whether they'll wind up helping Bush or Clinton. I ran into someone who called a Las Vegas bookmaker a month ago to bet on Ross Perot, and they wouldn't take the bet." "Very helpful," said Mickey Meltzer of the Perot withdrawal. A Birmingham Clinton campaigner, Meltzer said, "An election is a referendum on the incumbent. Until Perot dropped out, there was division on where (dissatisfied) people would go. We could get 'em with our candidate and program; but now it's easier and cleaner." "I'm concerned because now the Bush camp will do everything to attack Clinton — negative and derogatory," said Stella Evangelista, a Bloomfield Hills pediatrician and Clintonite.

Spotlight on education

Teachers flex union muscle at convention

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

NEW YORK — Eileen DeHart, a Westland Clinton delegate, thinks AFSCME, the government employees union, may have the biggest bloc of votes at the Democratic National Convention.

Keith Geiger, a former Livonia teacher who heads the National Education Association, says the honor may belong to school employees: 372 delegates and alternates.

But to Luigi (Lu) Battagliari, education is clearly the winner for Democratic attention in Madison Square Garden, in caucuses and on nominee Bill Clinton's agenda.

"What's exciting to me as an educator is the speeches bringing education to the forefront. There's a commitment to children and their well-being," said the Clinton alternate from Rochester Hills.

"The Reagan and Bush administrations have talked but done nothing about it. When they talk about education, they say it's 'throwing money' at it. But when they talk about the Pentagon, they say 'allocating funds.'"

Battagliari, a first-time delegate, teaches in Fraser's program of alternative education for at-risk children, aged 12 to 17. "Of the 15 in my program," he said, "only two or three come from Norman Rockwell-type families. The rest come from single-parent families, go from one school to another."

Raised in Dearborn, Battagliari earned degrees from Michigan State in 1972 and 1976. After heading the Fraser Education Association, he now is president of Local 1 covering 16 Macomb districts with 4,400 teachers, bus drivers and school staff.

Programs like Head Start and at-risk kids are vital additions to Clinton's interest in education, Battagliari said. "The money for at-risk programs comes from recapture, the (state) Robin Hood plan."

In New York he attended a reception for U.S. Rep. David Bonior, who faces a tough re-election battle in his now Macomb-based district. "Bonior's the best thing that ever happened to Local 1 next to Clinton and Gore," Battagliari said.

He's getting his own taste of Oakland County politics as a Democratic candidate for the board of commissioners.

NEA members also got together with those from the American Federation of Teachers. "We had a joint reception Sunday night, and Monday the New York teachers sponsored a boat tour around Manhattan," said Gail Nollin, a Waterford elementary teacher and whip for the Clinton caucus.

The question of whether teachers or state-local government employees are the biggest bloc in the Democratic convention wasn't entirely resolved. But DeHart of Westland shed some comparative light on AFSCME's strength:

"We're equal to the fourth-largest state. Only California, New York and Texas have more delegates here."

Metro cuts parking rate for summer travelers

Summer travel from Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport will be a little easier on the pocketbook, thanks to a special discount offer announced by Wayne County.

Now through Labor Day, Sept. 7, daily parking rates will be reduced in parking decks and yellow Lot, (just past the traffic light on Rogell Drive).

The airport's summer parking special reduces close-in deck parking from the normal $9 per day rate to $6 per day -- just one dollar more than the airport's green (long-term) parking lot rate. In addition, the daily parking rate for the airport's yellow lot has been reduced from $6 to $5. Rates in all other airport lots remain the same. As always, free shuttle service to and from the terminals is provided from all on-site airport lots.

Travelers with parking questions can call the airport's recently installed airport parking hotline at 1-800-642-1978.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Olives and olive oil have ancient history

I really can't tell you which I enjoy more, strolling through a Greek grocery breathing in air scented with Calamatta olives or stirring a few anchovy-stuffed olives in a vodka on the rocks.

I love olives! Whether they're served on a steaming botana or sliced and tossed with some cherry tomatoes and a light vinaigrette, I love 'em even more.

Olive history

The olive is one of the oldest known fruit crops. Man grew olive trees even before recorded history. It is not known when the wild olive was first brought under cultivation. But records point to the limestone hills of Attica, the Greek peninsula, as the seat of its first cultivation. The olive is frequently mentioned in the Bible.

The Spaniards brought the olive to California in 1769. In the early Franciscan missions, the fruit was pressed for oil and used in cooking and for lamp fuel.

At last count, there were over 15 million acres of olive trees in the world. Each year, over 9 million metric tons of olives, and more than 3 million tons of olive oil are produced. There's no doubt that olive oil, especially the more trendy upscale pressed virgin varieties, are hot sellers in local delis and specialty stores.

Prices range from under $2 for domestically produced varieties to more than $30 for some of the more exotic venues.

The countries bordering the Mediterranean Sea grow most of the world's olives, with Italy and Spain taking top honors in both the production of olives and olive oil.

The olive tree is adapted to a hot, dry climate; and does well on many different soils. For bearing fruit, it must have water, along with good drainage. Trees come into production at five years of age, but are not in full production for at least another 10-15 years. They are long-lived however, because it is known that trees brought to the United States by the Spaniards are still bearing fruit.

Harvesting methods

For the production of high quality table olives, the fruit must be picked by hand. Harvesting olives for oil is usually done mechanically, either by knocking the fruit from the trees or by shaking.

Methods for processing olives for the table vary widely. There are three different methods. The traditional Spanish method which has unripe yellowish-green olives being fermented. Secondly, the American method in which half-ripe reddish fruit is fermented, and lastly, (my favorite) the Greek method, in which fully ripe, dark purple fruit is preserved.

In most processing methods, a weak solution of lye is applied to neutralize the bitter principle. The lye penetrates the olives and hydrolyzes the bitter taste. Then the lye treated olives are immediately rinsed and soaked in water with frequent changes to remove the lye.

The washed olives are then placed in fermentation tanks and barrels and covered with brine. The use of lye is not allowed in Greece; instead, they rely on the brine to lessen and mask the bitterness, hence the different taste.

Processing olives

Olive oil is produced by mechanical extraction of the ground fruit. Traditionally, this involves three steps — the crushing of the fruit, the pressing (usually two-four times), and the separating of the oil from the liquor.

Most table olives are prepared commercially in ready-to-serve form, using one of these methods. Canned or bottled green Spanish olives are usually pitted with the pit cavity being stuffed with pimentos, onions, almonds, anchovies or other edibles.

Canned, ripe American olive production is centered in California. The olives are picked when they are yellow to red in color, cured, and packed in enamel-lined cans, covered with a salt solution, sealed, and sterilized.

Black, naturally ripe olives from Greece are kept on the trees until they are fully matured and completely dark. The fruit is brined with a frequent change of water to hasten the softening of the bitterness. Sold mostly by bulk in Greek groceries and some smaller stores, they come whole with pits intact.

Olives are low in calories with the average large olive coming in at about five calories each. So the next time you want to swizzle one in your martini, what the heck, ask for two!

SPAIN

In the spirit of the summer Olympic games, embark on a culinary voyage to Espana, the land of explorers. Discover culinary treasures like paella and gazpacho.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

The party is just beginning in Spain. There are two events to celebrate — the summer Olympic games, and 500th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus whose voyage was financed by Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand of Spain.

Don't forget Spanish explorer Juan Ponce DeLeon who discovered Florida in 1513 while searching for the mythical fountain of youth. Now it's your turn to explore and discover Spain's culinary delights.

"Spanish food is not hot, but it has a lot of flavor from herbs like rosemary, thyme and cilantro," said Angelica Rivadeneira of Beverly Hills who lived in Spain for two years.

Like Michigan, Spain is on a peninsula bordered by the Atlantic Ocean and Mediterranean Sea. Fish and shellfish are abundant and featured in many dishes. Vegetables and fruits of all kinds flourish. Spain is known for olives, and Valencia oranges. Olive oil, garlic, saffron, paprika, rice, chickpeas, and smoked sausage are also prevalent in Spanish cooking.

Paella is the national dish. According to legend, it originated centuries ago in Valencia when field workers cooked a communal lunch of rice, vegetables, seafood, chicken, and sausages in a shallow iron skillet (paella pan).

"In Spain when families have picnics they cook paella outside over a fire made from orange tree branches," said Rivadeneira. "The orange wood gives it a special flavor."

Gazpacho, a colorful, chilled tomato, cucumber soup, is another popular dish.

"Spain is old in tradition, the cuisine is part of that tradition, and it continues," said Ismael Durin, manager of Don Ricardo's Spanish restaurant in Redford Township.

Lunch is the main meal of the day in Spain, and is served at 1 p.m. Dinner is served, 8:30-10:30 p.m. (Tappetizers) precede dinner, and are served around 6:30 p.m.

Spanish wine producers make Olympic strides

FOCUS ON WINE

Spain's acceptance this year as a member of the European Economic Community has given Spanish wine producers a challenge. They've been forced to compete on a quality level with the best wines of Europe or drown in a sea of wine.

During the decade of the 1980s, Spanish producers prepared for the quality challenge in a country with unusual grape varieties perfectly adapted to the soil and climate. One short feature doesn't do Spanish wines justice. There are sherries, cava (Spanish sparkling wine) and magnificent Riojas on the threshold of greatness to be enjoyed.

If you've not discovered these wines, let the Olympic spirit get you started searching out the superior wines of Vega Sicilia and Pesquera from the Ribera del Duero region. Producers such as Miguel Torres in Penedes and Cordorniu's Raimat estate are soaring to new heights with well-priced bottlings.

Try your hand at matching Spanish wines with tapas — the appetizer-styled dishes unusual to the Spanish way of life which offer the perfect excuse to chat with friends over a glass of wine.

The origin of the word tapa, which literally means cover, goes back to Andalusia in the south of Spain, around the middle of the last century, from the name given to a slice of ham, cheese or bread used to cover the wineglass served to the horsemen as they arrived at the roadside inn tired and thirsty. The tapa protected the wineglass from dust or rain. In fact, the tapa was free — the patron paid only for the wine.

Before lunch, and the dinner hour in Spain, bars and taverns fill with friendly groups carrying on animated conversations while nibbling small portions of anything edible, from almonds and olives to tiny fried fish or sausages.

Not far from the French border, close to the Pyrenees, the Rioja region has been producing table wines since the 12th century. The name Rioja is a contraction of the Rio Oja, a mountain stream in the area which flows into the River Ebro. More than 40 bodegas (wineries) are currently producing Riojas that you will recognize as sensibly priced, flavorful wines made principally from tempranillo and mazueto grapes.

The character of red Rioja wines, rich in color and tannin, develops from the unusual, extended aging in oak casks which is a regional tradition. Conde de Valdemar, a producer with more than a century's experience producing Rioja is relatively new on the American wine scene. About 20 years ago, this fifth-generation family bodega began to depart slightly from the traditional Rioja wines. Today, they are without a doubt some of the finest Riojas on the market.

The Torres family has owned vineyards in the Penedes near Barcelona, and produced wine since the 17th century. Their entry into the world market began in 1858. Today, Torres is the largest individually owned producer of premium Spanish wines, and the number one selling Spanish table wine in the United States.

Available in bookstores "The Catalan Country Kitchen," ($22.95), authored by Marimar Torres, President of Torres Wine North America, includes 100 recipes and sample menus. It is an excellent way to learn how to prepare tapas, paellas and just about everything that's culinary Spanish. It also includes valuable information on pairing food and wine.

Discover paella and other Spanish culinary treasures

See related story about Spain on Taste front. The paella recipe is from Weight Watchers New International Cookbook, 1985. The gazpacho and Polla A La Chilindron recipes were supplied by Chef Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroom Restaurant in Southfield.

PAELLA

- 1/4 cup olive or vegetable oil, divided
  - 13 ounces chicken cutlets, cut into cubes
  - 1 cup diced onions
  - 3 small garlic cloves, minced
  - 1 cup red bell pepper strips (3-inch by 1/4-inch strips)
  - 2 medium tomatoes, blanched, peeled, seeded and chopped
  - 12 ounces large shrimp
  - 6 ounces uncooked regular long-grain rice
  - 1 teaspoon each salt and crumbled whole saffron
  - 3 cups boiling water
  - 1 1/2-pound lobster, cut into pieces (green sacs removed)
  - 4 ounces diagonally sliced smoked beef sausage
  - 8 each small clams and small mussels, scrubbed
  - 1 cup fresh or frozen peas
  - Garnish: lemon wedges
- In 8-inch nonstick skillet heat 2 tablespoons oil; in batches, add chicken and cook until browned on all sides. Remove from skillet and set aside.
- In same skillet heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil over medium-high heat; add onions and garlic and saute until onions golden, 2 to 3 minutes. Reduce heat to medium-low, add peppers and tomatoes, and cook stirring occasionally, until liquid evaporates and mixture becomes a thick paste, about 30 minutes (be careful not to burn).

Preheat oven to 400 F. Shell and devein shrimp, leaving tail "feathers" on; set aside. In paella pan or 14-inch nonstick skillet that has a metal or removable handle combine rice, tomato mixture, salt and saffron; pour in water, stir to combine, and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and arrange chicken shrimp, lobster pieces, sausage, clams, mussels, and peas over rice. Set pan on bottom oven rack and bake until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender, about 20 minutes (do not overcook). Remove pan from oven and let stand for 5 minutes. Serve garnished with lemon wedges. (Serves 8).

GAZPACHO

- 1 cup and 2 Tablespoons, tomato puree
- 1/4 cup cracker or matzo crumbs
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 2 cloves garlic, mashed
- 3/4 Tablespoon tabasco
- 3/4 Tablespoon Lee & Perrin Worcestershire
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup Heinz or other good wine vinegar
- 1 quart beef bouillon

- 1 branch celery, dice 1/2-inch
- 1 tomato, peeled, seeded, diced 1/2-inch
- 1 green pepper, seeded, diced 1/2-inch
- 1/2 cucumber, peeled, diced 1/2-inch
- 1/2 bunch scallions, sliced 1/2-inch
- toasted croutons
- chopped green olives
- chopped hard boiled egg

Using wire whip, in a stainless steel, ceramic or glass bowl, mix first 7 ingredients to a smooth consistency. Add all liquids and mix again. Cut celery, tomato, green pepper, cucumber, and scallions, add to soup. Taste and correct seasonings if needed. Refrigerate at least four hours before serving. It will keep 2 days, refrigerated. To serve, ladle into cups, top with croutons, eggs and olives. Yields 2 quarts, approximately 9 servings.

POLLA A LA CHILDRON

- 4 Tablespoons olive oil

- 3-3/4 pound, chicken, cut up into chunks
- salt and pepper
- 1 Tablespoon chopped garlic
- 1 large onion, sliced thickly
- 1 red pepper, seeded and cut into strips
- 1 green pepper, seeded and cut into strips
- 4 medium tomatoes, peeled, seeded and diced
- 6 green olives, pitted and cut into halves
- 6 black olives, pitted and cut into halves

2 anchovy filets, mashed

Season the chicken with salt and pepper. Into a nonstick skillet, pour the oil and heat up; over moderate heat saute the chicken until brown on all sides. Remove and set aside. Add onion and garlic to the pan and cook until translucent. Add peppers and tomatoes, and cook over high heat to evaporate most juice. Add olives, anchovies and chicken, cover and stew over low heat about 1/2 hour until chicken is tender. Serve with steamed rice on the side. Serves 4.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON—A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete, bitter food tablet would help ease world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated, "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave."

Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it, says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great," she added.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug-free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Barcelona Chicken: Boldly seasoned and created for health-conscious, time-conscious cooks, Barcelona Chicken is a festive combination of chicken, artichokes, onions and tomatoes.

GARLICKY SHRIMP ESPANOL

- 1 medium onion, cut into 1/2-inch wedges
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 Tablespoon olive oil
- 2 medium tomatoes, chopped (2 cups)
- 1/2 cup Pace Picante Sauce
- 1 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed

- 1 teaspoon ground coriander
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 pound large shrimp, shelled and deveined

- 1 large green pepper, cut into short, thin strips

- 1 Tablespoon lemon juice
  - 1/4 cup thinly sliced green Spanish olives or ripe olives
  - Hot cooked rice or pasta
  - Lemon wedges (optional)
- Cook onion and garlic in large skillet over medium-high heat 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Add tomatoes, picante sauce, thyme, coriander and salt; mix well. Bring to a boil over medium-high heat. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 5 minutes. Stir in shrimp and green pepper; cook uncovered over medium-high heat until shrimp are cooked through and peppers are tender, 5 to 6 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir in lemon juice. Sprinkle with olives; serve with lemon wedges, if desired, and additional picante sauce. Makes 4 servings.

- 3/4 cup Pace Picante Sauce
- 1/4 cup dry sherry
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
- 2 to 4 Tablespoons coarsely chopped cilantro or parsley, as desired
- 6 servings hot cooked rice

Place chicken in single layer in shallow dish. In medium bowl, toss artichokes and onion in flour. Add remaining ingredients except cilantro and rice, mixing well; pour over chicken. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours or overnight, as desired. Transfer chicken and sauce to large skillet, arranging chicken in single layer. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until over low heat 15 to 20 minutes or until chicken is cooked through. Remove chicken from skillet and arrange over rice; keep warm. Increase heat to high; cook sauce, stirring constantly and scraping up browned bits from bottom of skillet, 2 minutes or until desired thickness. Spoon sauce over chicken and rice; sprinkle with cilantro. Serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 6 servings.

BARCELONA CHICKEN

- 6 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
- 1 package (9 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts, thawed
- 1 medium onion, cut into 1/2-inch wedges
- 2 Tablespoons flour
- 1 can (8 ounces) whole tomatoes, cut-up, undrained

- 2 teaspoons chopped fresh parsley

In small saucepan heat margarine until bubbly and hot; add onion and garlic and saute until softened. Add flour and cook, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes.

Gradually stir in water, add broth mix and, continuing to stir, bring mixture to a boil. Continue to stir and cook until mixture thickens slightly; stir in remaining ingredients. Reduce heat to low and let sauce simmer, stirring occasionally until flavors are blended, about 5 minutes. Serve immediately or let cool, then transfer to container, cover, and refrigerate until ready to use. Makes 4 servings.

Each serving provides: 1 fat, 55 optional calories. Source: Weight Watchers Favorite Recipes, 1986.

A bad night bodes well for Mills

■ A disappointing night at the Bank Cafe in her home of Ottawa, Ontario, might have spelled the end of Lynn Miles' singing career. But it didn't. Trained as an opera singer and an accomplished guitarist and pianist, Miles has gone on to produce two records and tour the United States and Canada.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

In her possession were 300 songs, not one played before an audience. Lynn Miles might have been deemed paranoid as she was prolific, but actually it was a case of her feeling quite vulnerable.

When the Sweetsburg, Quebec, native tells how she became so guarded of her solitary works, the feeling is understandable and makes her songs all that more precious much like the pristine voice from which they originate.

One night, Miles was singing cover tunes at the Bank Cafe in her home of Ottawa, Ontario. The place was full of chatter, no one bothering to notice the singer-songwriter on stage plying her trade.

"I got off the stage after the third song of my set and ran downstairs and cried and cried," said Miles, 33, who performs as part of the La Casa Folk Music Series Friday, July 24, at Birmingham Unitarian Church. "It's very dehumanizing to be on stage and not have one person listen to you. I decided I wasn't going to do that anymore."

Miles has come a long way since. She shunned cover tunes, releasing two albums of her own songs and has emerged as one of Canada's finer up-and-coming musical exports.

Her latest, "Chalk This One Up to the Moon" (Snowy River Records, Box 130, Station B, Ottawa, Ont., Canada K1S), is a ripe collection of vivid songs culled from personal experience and forged in sterling folk and country settings. They speak to a restless melancholic romanticism, which is a universal feeling but perhaps more so in the vast trappings of Canada.

"The Venus Motel," a torchy number impeccably sung unstrained in Miles' classically trained voice, tells the story of a lonely woman of 30 who works at the front desk of the inn and wonders if tomorrow will be the day she finds love. Down the road, a man sits in a diner waiting to muster enough courage to pursue his love interest.

The song leaves the pairing unresolved. Do they eventually meet?

"Yeah, I think so," Miles said.

"It's Hockey Night in Canada," a willowy folk pop lament, is a metaphor for what Miles perceives as the old boys club mentality that exists in her country. She was inspired to write the number after a well-publicized sexist joke was made by a member of Parliament while in session on the anniversary of the "Montreal

Como esta?: Canadian native Lynn Miles may have cried after a disappointing night at the Bank Cafe in Ottawa a few years ago. Scheduled to perform at the La Casa Folk Music Series this weekend, Miles' tears have turned to smiles as she scores successes singing her own songs rather than covers.

Massacre."

"It's Hockey Night in Canada" decries violence, not only against women, but in general. Miles says reaction to the song has been mostly positive.

"Some people think it's a male bashing song. I'm not a male basher. . . I just want everybody to get along."

Miles was trained in voice by an opera singer and is an accomplished guitarist and pianist. She cites Emmylou Harris as one of her main influences vocally. "She (Harris) has sort of this pure, angelic voice," Miles said. "It's pure, but it knows a lot at the same time."

In terms of songwriting peers, Miles was inspired by the likes of Neil Young, Gordon Lightfoot and Bruce Cockburn. She purposely didn't listen to Joni Mitchell when she was younger for fear she would end up inadvertently sounding like the Canadian artist.

Miles started out performing covers while she continued to write her own songs. After the dreadful night at the Bank Cafe, she gave up performing regularly and taught music for awhile.

But unlike that evening at the Bank Cafe, one person was listening. Frank Taylor and his wife regularly attended Miles' shows. He convinced Miles not to quit and, as result, became her manager. Her career continues to blossom, leading her to tour Canada and perform in the United States.

So, like the character in her song "The Venus Motel," someone was there.

"And I didn't even know it," she said.

Lynn Miles will perform as part of the La Casa Folk Music Series 8:30 p.m. Friday, July 24, at Birmingham Unitarian Church, 651 N. Woodward, at Lone Pine Road. Tickets are $10 in advance; $12 at the door. For information, call 646-4950.

Making waves at the beach with custom-made swimsuits

BY CHARLENE MITCHELL
SPECIAL WRITER

With metro Detroit's long awaited summer tentatively here, it's swimsuit time again! In case you are planning on purchasing a new one, most stores in our area are still overstocked due to slow sales during the unseasonably cool temperatures in May and June.

Swimsuits are still as difficult as ever when it comes to finding one that looks good on you and fits the way you like. . . but don't give up hope just yet, newer styles with a "real woman's" figure in mind make swimsuit shopping less stressful than in years past.

If it suits you:
At the Bob-bette Shop in Waterford, a designer suit like this white one-piece with matching jacket can cost $50-$80.

"We make it extremely easy with our custom designs," says Carol Bross of Beach Bound in downtown Birmingham. "What we do is work with clients by appointment. A designer takes their measurements; the customer then selects from a group of styles which best match her figure, and we go from there."

Beach Bound has been in business for years, and they've manufactured more than swimsuits for area women who swear they'll never buy another suit off the rack. One suburban mother of four with a hard-to-fit torso has had six swimsuits made at Beach Bound.

"I just never felt I looked good in a swimsuit until I had one made," the shy customer said. "Now I walk around our pool freely and when my husband and I go away on vacation he loves to see me in my suit even without the cover up."

Owner Bross said her service is basically for every woman.

"We can make suits for women with perfect figures as well as petite, tall, thin, or overweight women."

According to Bross, two-piece suits are more popular than tanks this year because of the higher cut waist which comes up to the naval or above rather than the skimpier bikini cuts.

The high cut sides give the illusion of longer, slimmer legs which balances well with the higher waist line so that younger, well-shaped women are also attracted to the style.

Strapless, underwired tops are more popular than the triangle tops, mostly because of the support they provide, and the assistance in providing cleavage, even with small-busted women. Only very large-busted clients are advised to stay away from the strapless tops, Bross aid.

Patterns are more popular than solids at Beach Bound, although muted colors, such as coral, turquoise and other Southwest shades, are gaining in popularity.

"Last year's rush toward neons is something we aren't experiencing this year," said Bross.

In addition to the swimsuits, Beach Bound makes matching skirts, shorts, jackets and visors for their clients. With more than 100 fabrics available, many clients order several pieces which are interchangeable, not often possible when buying regular retail.

Another store that does a tremendous swimsuit business is the Bobbette Shop in Waterford. Owner Harriet Dunskey personally does the buying and keeps up with fashion trends. Over the past couple of seasons, Bobbette has included more daring and unusual styles by designers like Bill Blass, Roxanne and Catalina. Most suits are coordinated with matching cover-ups.

"Instead of just the usual over-the-head type cover-up, we're selling a lot more skirts this year, long skirts with slits up the sides," said Dunskey. "A lot of ladies don't want to show off their legs, especially if they aren't tanned yet."

Perfect fit: At Beach Bound, custom-made swimsuits accentuate the positive like this two-piece, strapless bikini. But the price tag for that perfect fit runs $65-140.

Expect to spend $65-140 for a custom made suit at Beach Bound and $50-80 for a basic designer suit at a regular retail store, such as Jacobsons or Hudsons. Around this time of year most stores begin clearance sales, but with summer-like weather making a late arrival most retailers are holding off on the sales and hoping for a wave of purchases in July and August.

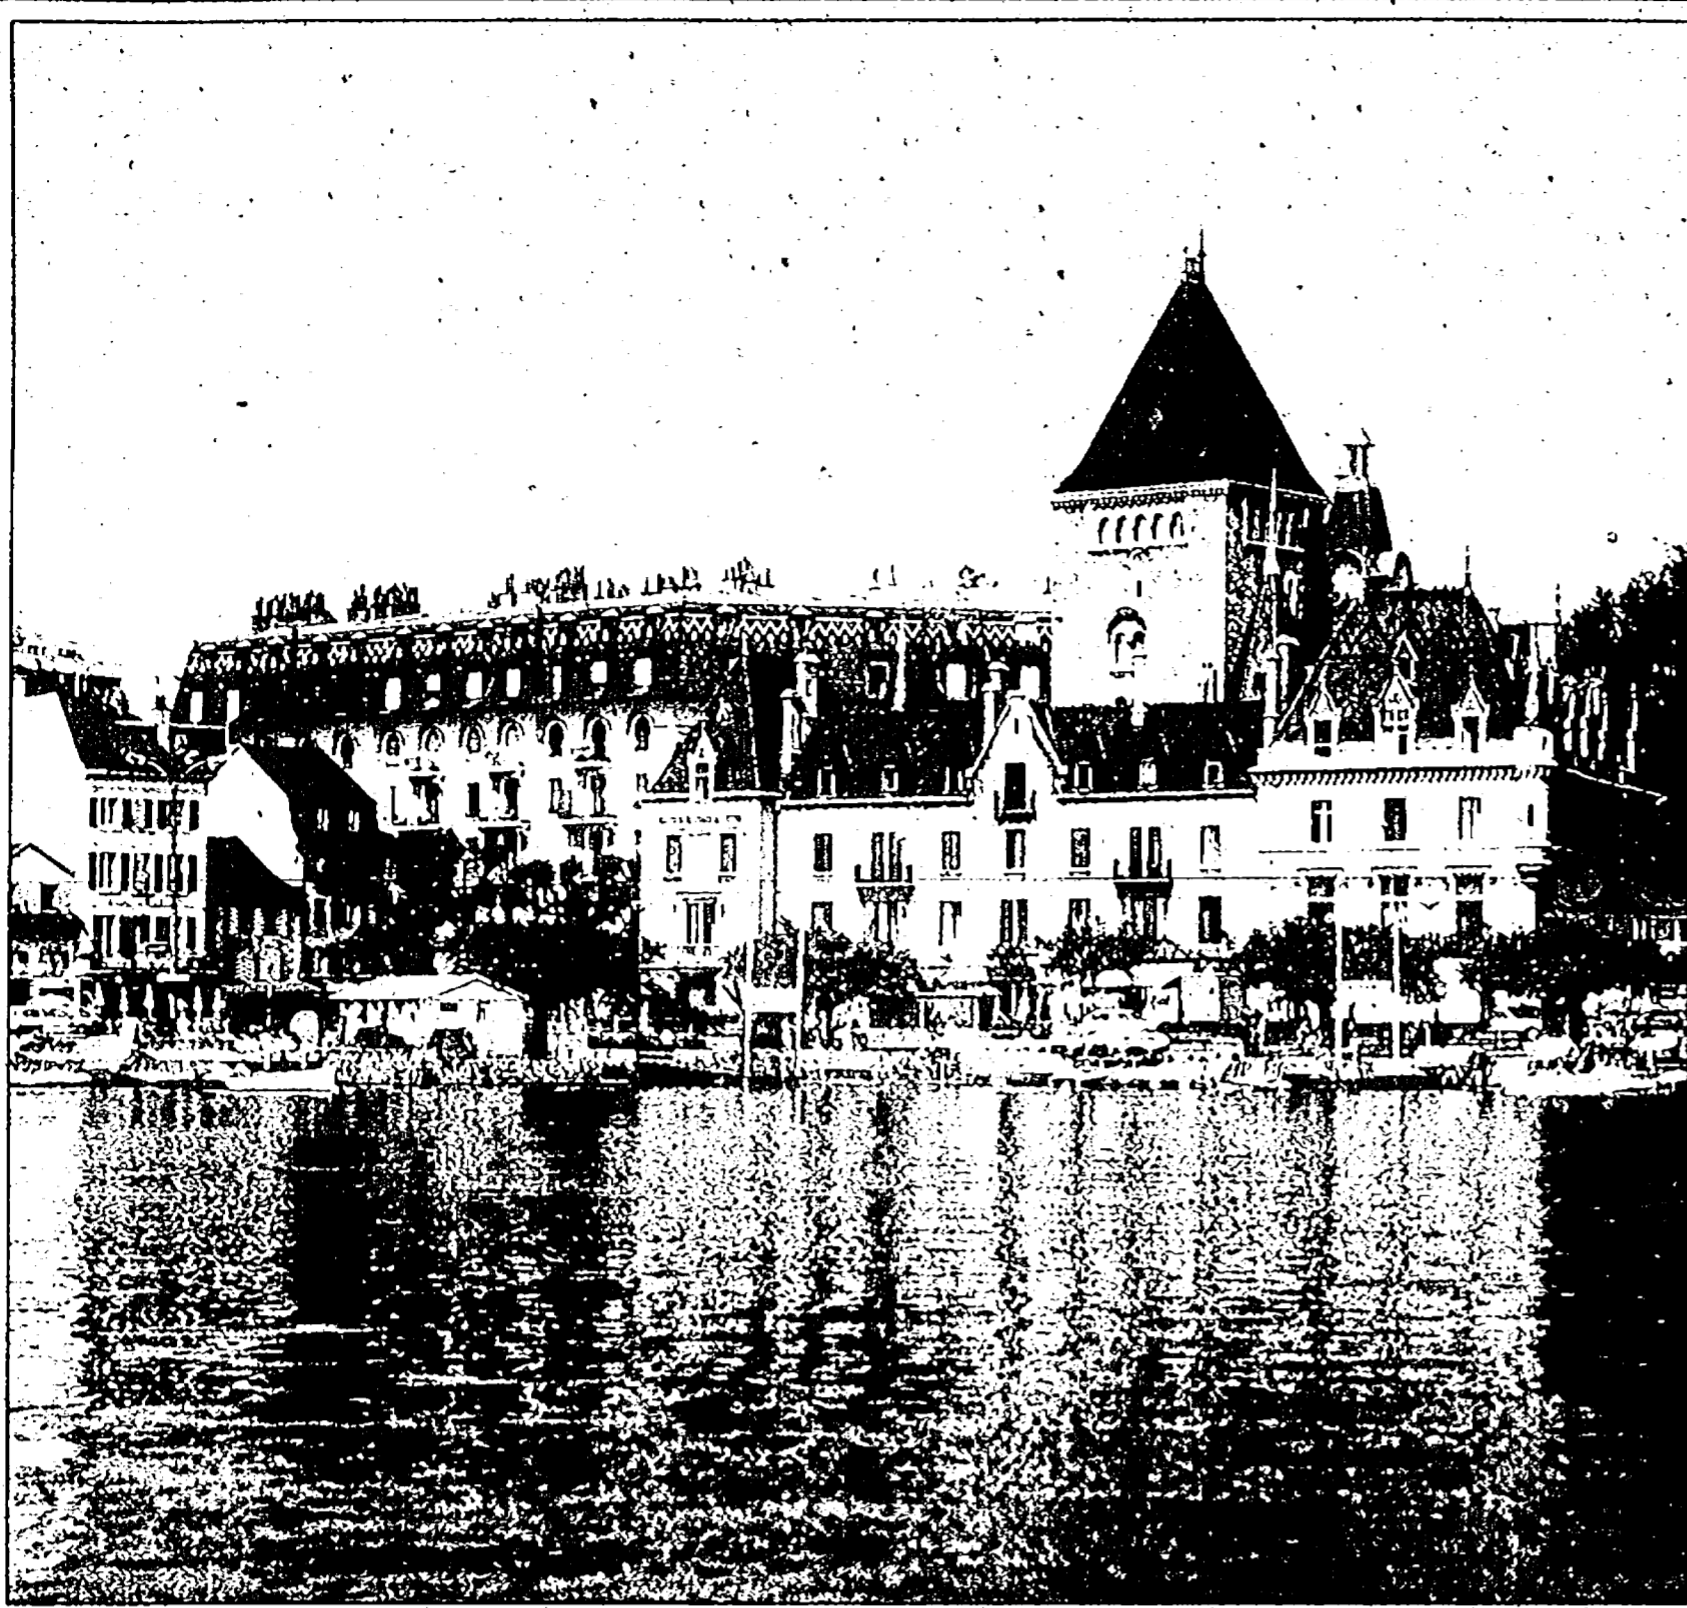

"I sell swimsuits all year because so many people travel to Florida and the Caribbean during the cold months," said Dunskey. "To our customers, several swimsuits are an absolute necessity to the wardrobe!"

With more styles to choose from, and stores that will make a suit to fit, there's no reason why any of us should have a problem getting into the swim of things this season.

Lausanne: The Olympic City

Swiss sport international HQ

BY PAUL HOFMANN
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

As top athletes from all continents warm up to compete for gold medals in Barcelona, scores of international sports officials in the lake city of Lausanne, Switzerland, are already at work planning the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta.

The preparation, financing and marketing of the Olympics require an organizational effort comparable to mounting a world's fair or a space program — and it's all done in this pleasant city on the north shore of Lake Geneva.

Lausanne proudly displays itself the Olympic City, calling in its official logo the five linked rings superimposed on the outline of its 700-year-old cathedral. The headquarters of the International Olympic Committee is in a 19th-century chateau and an adjacent steel-and-glass structure in the western lakeside suburb of Vidy at 9 Route de Vidy (telephone 6216111).

The founder of the Olympic Games of the modern era, the French educator Baron Pierre de Coubertin, is buried at the Montoie Cemetery nearby.

Work is in progress on a large new Olympic Museum to house photos, posters, medals, flags and other memorabilia of all Olympic Games, including such artifacts as a bobsled built by Swiss sportsmen for the 1912 Olympics in Stockholm. The museum is to open on June 23, 1993, the 99th anniversary of de Coubertin's call for the first modern Olympics in Athens.

Until then, there is still plenty to see and to do in Lausanne, Switzerland's fifth largest city. Built on five hills, it is a cosmopolitan city with spectacular views of the lake and the snowcapped ranges and peaks of the Savoy Alps across it.

Thousands of students at Lausanne's university, a prestigious hotel school and several private boarding schools help make Lausanne far more vivacious than most Swiss cities and towns.

Lausanne is 38 miles northeast of Geneva and linked with that city by a much-traveled lakeshore road. Direct trains to Lausanne depart from Geneva Airport every 15 to 30 minutes from early morning to late at night, taking 45 minutes for the trip with a stop at Cornavin Terminal in Geneva.

What to see

The Metro, a combined subway and cog railway, is the fastest way of getting from one tier of the city to another, climbing from the Ouchy section on the lake to the railroad station and farther up to the city core in 6 minutes.

An extension leads to the western suburbs. Transfers to the municipal bus and trolley lines are free within an hour of buying the Metro ticket. The fare is 68 cents for up to three stops, $1.35 (prices at $1.57 Swiss francs to the dollar) for longer trips. Children pay 68 cents for any distance. From the Centre Ville (city center) stop an elevator carries passengers up to a pedestrian overpass that leads into the heart of Lausanne.

Walk to your right toward the Place St. Francois. Named after the 15th-century church on its north side, the lively square is, for short, Sainfe to the Lausannois.

The imposing post office opposite the church rises on the site of an old house, La Grotte, where Edward Gibbon lived from 1783 to 1793, completing his monumental "History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

North of Place St. Francois is the Place de la Salud with the Fountain of Justice and the dignified Renaissance facade of the 15th-century City Hall. Photo and art shows are often held in the arcades of City Hall (free admission).

A stairway proceeds to the hilltop Cathedral of Notre Dame. When the Gothic church, with a massive square tower and red-tiled spires, was consecrated in A.D. 1275, a pope, Gregory X, and a king, Rudolf of Hapsburg, were on hand.

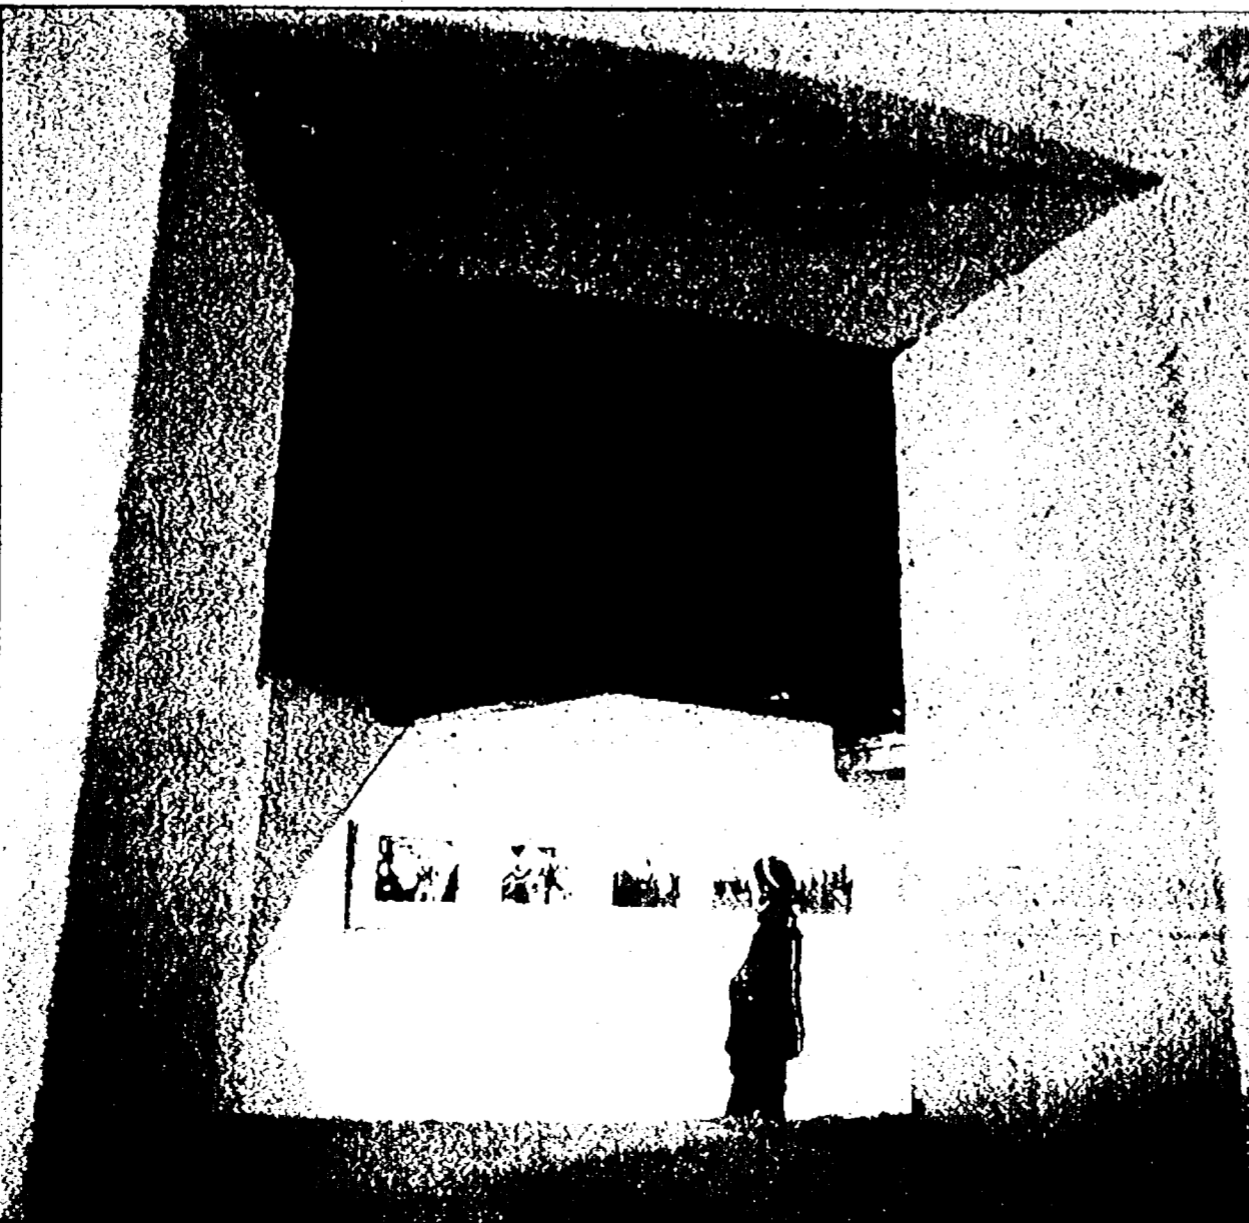

Photo exhibit: The Musee de l'Elysee in Lausanne focuses entirely on photography, some of which is displayed in dramatic contemporary settings.

Link up with Irish, Scottish golf courses

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

The game of golf is closely linked to Scotland.

Avid American golfers often dream of playing the Old Course at St. Andrews, the birthplace of the game. But there are more than 400 other courses in Scotland to lure golfers across the Atlantic.

What's more, devotees claim there is nothing like golf in Ireland, where battling a stiff Atlantic wind at a course such as Ballybunion is part of the enjoyment.

"For golfers, it's like going to Mecca," said Gordon Dalgleish, president of PerryGolf, an Atlanta-based company that offers golf holidays to Scotland, Ireland and other overseas destinations.

"It's become a very popular thing to do," said Gary Galyean, publisher of "The Golf Letter," a monthly publication subtitled "The Newsletter of World Golf."

"The real attraction is that the golf played in Scotland and Ireland is completely different from what's played over here," said Galyean.

"It's played hard, firm and fast. It's a ground game with low shots that roll to the green. That's because of the nature of the turf and because of the wind, which is relentless."

Anyone who has ever seen a golf course in Ireland, for example, would find it difficult to equate it with the lush, tree-lined fairways of American courses.

Irish courses resemble hilly, grass-covered sand dunes, more suitable for grazing sheep than for hitting and finding a small white ball.

"They're called links courses and they were formed by a retreating sea," said Galyean.

"Therefore, these courses are always beside the ocean, treeless, undulating and on sandy ground. The bunkers were originally holes dug by the sheep to get out of the wind, which is always blowing."

Playing golf overseas was once considered an expensive indulgence. But that's no longer the case.

A variety of tour companies have set up affordable programs in which golfers spend a week in either Scotland or Ireland.

They may play five or six different courses and still have time for sightseeing.

"We recognize that people do other things besides golf for four hours a day," said Marc Mink president of Owenoak-Castle Tours of Darien, Conn., which offers golfing trips to Ireland and Scotland.

"About 80 percent of our clients have us customize their trips, depending on their needs. They may have a non-golfing spouse or want to spend a few days touring."

Owenoak-Castle's "Seven Days in Ireland's Southwest" package is offered, in conjunction with flights on Aer Lingus.

It includes playing golf at the course at Lahinch, the Old Course at Ballybunion, the Killeen Course in Killarney and the Waterville Golf Club on the scenic Ring of Kerry.

Prices for the trip range from $890 in off-season (October to April), to $955 in June and September and $995 in July and August. Airfares vary, but they range from $499 to $699, with departures from New York or Boston to Ireland's Shannon airport.

Softball champs

Heads You Win, an under-16 Livonia team, won the Girls Junior Softball League championship earlier this month. Heads You Win rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to defeat the Garden City Rockets at Garden City Park. The win left Heads You Win with an 11-1 overall record, one game ahead of the second-place Rockets.

Terry Spaw's single scored Jill Wilson from third base for the winning run. The rally made a winner out of pitcher Becky Jansen, who improved her record to 10-0 as a pitcher. Jansen allowed 10 hits, struck out two and walked two.

Sara Wojtowicz led Heads You Win's 13-hit attack with three hits and an RBI. Nicole Newell had two doubles and two runs scored, while Sarah Camp and Jaclyn Deane had two hits and two RBI apiece. Catcher Sonja Hlushchenko also had two hits and caught two pop-ups. Single hits were by Jansen, Jenelle Mazaris, Beth McPherson and Missy Valle.

Other players on the team include Shannon Weakley, Michelle Berez and Melissa Little. Robert Jansen is the head coach for Heads You Win and he is assisted by Bob Spaw and Rob Jansen. Heads You Win, which also won last year's league title, will play in the state championship the first week of August in Lansing.

Brand new start Sharpe to lead Madonna men's basketball

It's been four years since Bob Whitlow resigned as coach of the Madonna University men's basketball program, virtually taking the program with him. Whitlow cited a lack of administrative support among his reasons.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Bill Sharpe knows what he's getting into. He should, anyway. He's been through it before.

Sharpe, a Canton resident, was signed last week to restore Madonna University's men's basketball program for the 1993-94 season. The 43-year-old Missouri native has plenty of collegiate experience, including the last four years as an assistant under Joe Zabrzanski at University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Sharpe aided Zabrzanski in bringing UM-D's program back to varsity level last year. It wasn't the first time Sharpe had helped build a program from scratch: In 1973, he put together the first men's basketball team at Maryville College, an NCAA Division III school in St. Louis.

He'll need all that experience at Madonna. When Whitlow left in 1988, he said a lack of administrative support was a key factor. Whitlow did not want to have to spend time fund raising for his program. When he left, the program was canceled.

Sharpe has a different attitude.

"I'm going to have to do fund raising," he said. "That's a reality. It's going to have to happen because a small college can't support athletics. I just assume I'll have to do that. In fact, I offered to."

Indeed, Sharpe has already begun. A boys basketball skills camp is scheduled for Aug. 10-14 at Madonna (cost is $75; for further details call 591-5138).

Starting from scratch

Much more will be needed, to be sure. But if nothing else, Sharpe is confident.

"Two years ago, I went to Ray (Summers, Madonna's athletic director) and asked him when they were going to get a men's basketball program. He told me in a couple of years, and I told him I wanted to be the first to submit a resume."

Sharpe's enthusiasm had its effect.

"I think we're getting an experienced coach and a proven recruiter who knows the NAIA," said Summers. "His recruiting philosophy is well-suited to ours. Like (Duke's Mike) Krzyzewski, he stresses academics. He's also like (Georgia Tech's Bobby) Cremins in that he'll take the marginal student and work with him."

Sharpe, who played basketball at MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Ill., until injuries to both knees sidelined him, knows the importance of education. He had his scholarship revoked but went on to get his bachelor's degree at Webster University in Missouri and his master's at the University of Michigan.

"I hope (my recruits) understand the reason they're here," said Sharpe. "The major thing you have to do is prepare them for an education. I want to run a squeaky-clean program emphasizing academics."

Emphasizing local recruits

As far as recruiting goes, Sharpe has defined his area of concentration. "I've got to go to Livonia and the Catholic League," he said. Bringing in local people has to help put the program in the public's view, and recruiting the Catholic League should help the caliber of play. Also, as Sharpe said, "We're a Catholic university."

Although the program's reinstatement is being met with optimism — as Summers said, "When I say everyone's excited about it, I mean everyone from the administration on down" — it won't come easily. Summers said Sharpe would have the same of financial support as the school's other varsity sports (baseball, volleyball, softball and women's basketball).

But that hardly guarantees success. At St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake, men's basketball was dropped as a varsity sport last spring just a few weeks after winning the NAIA District 23 championship for the second-straight season. St. Mary's was expected to be ranked among the top 10 teams in the country next preseason. And it was the only varsity sport the school offered.

"It's hard to compare that with our institution," insisted Summers.

Of course, there's a positive way to look at that, from Madonna's viewpoint. Madonna now reigns as the only small Catholic college in the area, which should aid recruiting.

And that, without doubt, is the light in which Sharpe would choose to view it. After Maryville he left coaching for several years, then took an odd path to get back into it.

A year to get settled

"Four or five years ago, I made up my mind I wanted to get back into it," he said. So he became a part-time security guard at the Palace. "I wanted to see, and learn from, the best players around," he said. The move paid dividends when he aided one of his work mates, Kyle Lynch, with his jump shot. Lynch was a player at UM-D, and when an assistant coaching position there opened up, Lynch suggested to Sharpe to apply. Zabrzanski hired Sharpe after a phone interview.

Bill Sharpe
Madonna men's coach

"What can I do to repay Joe?" said Sharpe of his former boss. He smiled as he answered his own question: "I can beat him. That will show him he taught me well."

Madonna and UM-D could develop into quite a rivalry, considering the proximity of the schools. But first, Madonna must patiently build its program; the first step is just becoming competitive. Sharpe said he won't pursue large numbers of junior college players, either, and try a short-cut to success.

Having a year to work at putting the program together will help. That formula worked well for Madonna softball coach Dave Racer — next season will be the program's third, and the Crusaders should challenge for the district title.

It won't come so easily for Sharpe, simply because there's more competition for men's basketball players.

How quickly, and how far, the program advances will be dependent upon administrative support — particularly in scholarships.

Taking aim:
Jennifer O'Donnell of Farmington, only 18, is headed for Barcelona, Spain, for the 1992 Summer Olympic Games in archery. She is one of the youngest Olympians from Michigan to attend the games.

O'Donnell targeting Barcelona

BY DAN O'NEARA
STAFF WRITER

Jennifer O'Donnell of Farmington has traveled thousands of miles to compete, practiced countless hours and devoted much of the last four years to one goal.

Her objective was to make the U.S. Olympic team in women's archery, and her efforts were so rewarded at the Olympic Trials in May. Now she has a new goal.

"I'd like to be in the gold medal match," the 18-year-old O'Donnell said. "I wouldn't be going if I didn't want to bring home the gold."

O'Donnell will leave Wednesday for the Summer Games in Barcelona, Spain. The Olympics begin July 25 and end Aug. 9, with the archery competition slated for July 31 through Aug. 4.

"I'm excited. It's been my goal the last four years and it's finally here," she said. "I'm happy about it, but there are a lot of other things I'd like to do. I'd like to medal at the games, and I'd like to go again in '96."

International competition is nothing new for O'Donnell, one of three women on the U.S. team who has been to Poland, Norway, Italy, Cuba, Japan and Finland for tournaments in the last three years.

The World Championships in Poland last year were good preparation for the Olympics, according to O'Donnell.

"I finished 17th, but that was my first major competition with people who are the best in the world," she said. "I had been shooting well enough to compete with them, but I never had. I didn't have enough confidence and got blown away by it all.

"I wish I would have done better, but I'm glad I had those kind of problems. I'll be able to deal with that kind of pressure, and I'll know what to expect when I get over there."

Getting there took a lot of time and effort. O'Donnell, who has been competing seriously since 1987 with the Olympics as her aim, spent her junior year of high school at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. She returned to graduate from Farmington High School in 1991.

"It helped me a lot," she said. "I got to work with sports psychologists, get on a weight-training program and practice more. It made me more aware of what I was doing and more knowledgeable of my equipment and form."

Then came The Trials at Tempe, Ariz. O'Donnell was among 70 women vying for a spot on the Olympic team, but only a handful were in actual contention.

"It was only my second outdoor tournament of the year, but as long as I shot well I stood a good chance," she said.

After two days of qualifying, O'Donnell survived two days of elimination rounds and placed second. She will be joined on the team by Denise Parker (18) of Utah, a member of the '88 team, and Sherry Block (21) of Colorado.

"I was actually more relieved than anything because The Trials were over," O'Donnell said. "I didn't have to worry whether I was going or having everyone be disappointed that I didn't make it."

The Olympic format in archery has been changed to make the sport more appealing to a television audience. In the past, the eight remaining archers competed simultaneously for the top three scores and medals.

In 1992, qualifying will be done the first two days, with archers competing in a FITA (shooting 36 arrows from each of four distances). The field will be cut to 32, and a step-ladder elimination process will begin, culminating with the gold-medal match between the two remaining archers.

"I like the format a lot because, though there is more pressure, it makes you concentrate more," O'Donnell said. "With 12 arrows, you know every arrow counts. You don't get caught up in the score as much. You want to make sure every arrow is going in the middle. Before, with 36, if you messed up on one, you could recover."

"With the elimination format and big scoreboard under the target — it shows the score of the arrow as it hits the target — it will be quick and fast-paced," she said.

O'Donnell will have the support of her father, Jack O'Donnell, a former archer who got her involved in the sport and will also make the trip to Barcelona.

"I think he had more confidence in me than I did for awhile," O'Donnell said. "I think he's happy for me making the team and seeing all the hard work pay off."

Hines Park holds narrow lead

Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury clung to its slim hold atop the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League standings Wednesday with a 2-1 win over Little Caesars at Ford Field.

The winners improved to 16-9, one point ahead of second place Walter's Appliance (15-8-1).

"We have three big games coming up with Walter's and that should tell us the story," Hines Park coach David Carroll said. "The league is real competitive this year. I think you could throw a blanket over all of us and watch to see who will come out on top."

Scott Rodgers (Plymouth Salem/Kent State University) tossed a two-hitter through six innings against Caesars.

Rodgers walked the first batter in the seventh before giving way to Jeff Paluk, who retired the side and earned the save.

Rodgers struggled with his control throughout the game, walking eight.

"I credit our catcher Scott Niemiec (Salem/University of Michigan) with settling Rodgers down when he needed it," Carroll said. "Niemiec really took control of the game. That's why he's such a fine catcher. When Scotty would walk someone, Niemiec would settle him down."

COLLEGIATE

Vince Sacco knocked home Jason Riggs (ex-Plymouth Canton) for the first Hines Park run. He then stole third base and later scored on a wild pitch.

Livonia Franklin product Dave Roman (Henry Ford Community College), went the distance and suffered the loss for Caesars.

Walter's wins easily

Louie McKaig (Madonna University) tossed a three-hitter Wednesday to lead Walter's Appliance to a 7-1 win over Ann Arbor Wendy's at Ford Field.

McKaig worked all seven innings and fanned six, while walking just two.

Mike Grahl took the loss for Wendy's after allowing seven runs in five innings.

Walter's tallied four runs in the second inning thanks to a two-run double from Craig Overattis (Franklin/Henry Ford CC). Jason Gabel (Livonia Church Hill/Central Michigan) added an RBI single.

Gabel, on a torrid hitting pace of late, also contributed a two-run double in the fourth inning.

Raindrops fall on Delwal

Delwal added another rainout to its list Wednesday, having to cancel a game with the Tecumseh Green Giants at Farmington High.

"The field conditions were just too poor," Delwal coach Bob Peterson said. "We have a lot of games to make up. That might work in our favor because we have less losses than anybody else in the league."

Delwal is 13-7-1, four less games than first place Hines Park and three fewer than second place Walter's.

Leaf draft pick learns trade

By C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Within a couple of weeks, Dave Burke should have a better idea where his hockey future lies.

The Redford Union HS graduate has spent the last four years playing for Cornell University, in Ithaca, N.Y. He was drafted in the sixth round in 1989 by the Toronto Maple Leafs, and there's a good chance Burke will go to their training camp in September.

But it isn't a certainty. "If things don't work out, I'll look for an independent team in the IHL (International Hockey League) or perhaps European hockey," he said.

In an effort to help himself, Burke has inquired about enlisting the help of Paul Soucy, director of the Livonia Boxing Club. His reasons are self-evident: Hockey is a rough sport, and he wants to be able to defend himself.

Burke appears quite able to do so. He's 6-foot-1 and weighs between 205 and 210 pounds. As a defenseman at Cornell, he served as team tri-captain, scoring five goals and assisting on nine others last season. Cornell finished second in the Eastern Collegiate Athletic

HOCKEY

Conference playoffs and went 14-11-4 overall.

But Burke had just 30 penalty minutes, so while his size might indicate an enforcer-type, his other attributes don't. He graduated in May with a 4.0 grade-point average.

Ask him about boxing and how it fits into the National Hockey League's style of play, and Burke becomes quite eloquent. He wrote a paper for one of his classes on hockey marketing, and fighting was a big part of it.

"I really don't want to make a big deal out of it because I'm not a fighter," Burke said. "But as long as fighting is a part of hockey, I want to be able to defend myself."

"If the situation arises in training camp, I don't want to have to back down. I want to be able to take care of myself."

It is not something he relishes. Unlike many hockey fans, he dislikes fighting. "As a player, I certainly enjoy the physical aspect of the game," he said. "But I'm not real happy that fisticuffs are a part of it."

He believes hockey must pursue a different image if it is to flourish as a professional sport. "It has been gun to suffer as it competes for entertainment dollars," he said.

There are proposals currently being considered by NHL executives to curb, even outlaw, fighting. Burke, however, is pessimistic. "I know there will be a lot of resistance. They would have to do a lot of convincing to get it done."

But there's always hope. "If it does happen, it bodes well for the future," he said. "This is a rare opportunity to present to the public a different type of game."

Still, as Burke noted: "It won't be determined by altruism, but by dollars and cents."

Something similar could be said of Burke's own future. If he does go to the Maple Leafs' camp, his odds of making the team won't be high. He has no contract; management apparently wants him to earn one in camp.

"It makes some sense, but so many players have contracts before they go into camp," he said. "You have to be so much better than they are to make it."

Westland America rallies to win

Westland America rallied from two-run deficit in the top of the seventh inning last week to beat host South Lyon, 11-4, in a Little Caesars Mickey Mantle League (15-16 year-olds) baseball game.

Mike Reys' bases-loaded single, scoring a pair of runs, proved to be the game-winner. Westland America struck for nine runs during the assault.

Winning pitcher Aaron Scheffer and Brian Morrison, both of Westland John Glenn High, each went 3-for-4 for the winners, now 14-1 in league play (tied for first).

MANTLE

Scheffer, a right-hander, pitched seven strong innings to pick up the victory. He struck out 12, scattered five hits and walked only two.

Earlier, Westland America blanked Dearborn, 15-0, in a six-inning game at Rotary Park.

Jeff Lance (Redford Thurston), Mitch Rivet and Scheffer each had three hits.

Rivet, who struck out eight and walked only three in four innings while allowing just one hit, picked up the victory. David Kapla (Redford Catholic Central) finished up.

Westland America also defeated host Ann Arbor in eight innings, 8-7, as Scheffer, Lance and Ben Rhodes each collected two hits.

Scheffer also knocked in a pair of runs and worked the final two innings in relief of starter Darric Terry to gain the win.

Area's best seek Team Challenge

10-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Larry Walker and D.J. Hochstein, both of Garden City, will join Lee Snow of Farmington Hills as captains in the first National Team Challenge.

ida and Nebraska.

Larry Walker's team includes Troy Stus of Garden City, his father, Gene Stus (recent star of the PBA senior television bowling series), Paul Grauzer of Westland and Mike Torchia of Southgate.

The Hochstein team includes Dave Hamilton of Garden City, Jeff Dreyfus (a professional from Ft. Wayne, Ind.) and Karl Brubaker of Garden City.

Lee Snow has a supporting cast of Dan Ottman of Troy, Tony Daljeppo, Greg Lewis and Steve Allen.

The event will take place at Cherry Hill Lanes in Inkster. It's the first stop on a 12-city tour around the United States. The tour leads up to the Grand Championships.

The event will be televised on Prime Network Television, which reaches about 25 million homes across the country (except in our area).

Pro Am Sports System (PASS) will show a rebroadcast of the event in our area. The time and date has not been announced.

Any ABC/WIBC sanctioned team is eligible to compete and can sign up at the lanes at least 30 minutes prior to the start of competition.

The date is Saturday, July 25 for the elimination rounds and Sunday, July 26 for the semi-finals and finals.

Each team will bowl a pair of three-game blocks on the first day (beginning at noon). The 10 highest scoring teams will qualify for 15 more games under the Baker System on the second day.

The Baker System involves all five bowlers in a single game score with the leadoff bowler rolling the first and sixth frames. The second bowler rolls the second and seventh frames, and so on.

The top teams will then qualify for the televised finals of the two-game Baker System elimination matches at 2 p.m.

This is a scratch event (no handicap), therefore, the higher average bowlers tend to take part.

This could be really interesting to watch and with the free admission. The trip may certainly be worth while.

Ontario fishing trip worth it

GREAT OUTDOORS

BILL PARKER

Booming like a rock drummer's bass, my heart kept the beat as a steady chorus of zzzzzzz came blaring from my fishing reel.

"Nice fish," I thought. "Nice fish."

I'd been fighting him for close to 10 minutes now and after his third run to deep water, my opponent seemed to lose his will. I was able to work him close enough to the boat to identify it, but as soon as he saw the boat my reel began BUZZZZING again. The six-pound-test monofilament was stripped from my openface as the ferocious Northern Pike bolted back into deep water.

My partner, Brian Goemare, and I had patiently trolled this lake in Northern Ontario for the better part of two hours without a hit. We'd been marking fish on our Hummingbird all afternoon but this was the first one we'd actually encountered.

He was 30 yards behind the boat when he decided to feast upon my chartreuse and orange Rattle-Trap. After an exciting 15-minute fight — including four strong runs — a seven-pound, 31-inch Northern pike was finally in the net. Although nowhere near a record catch, the Northern — the biggest I've ever caught — was certainly a trophy in my eyes. It was a cold, windy afternoon, but the battle had left me dripping with sweat and excitement.

A trip to paradise

A feeling of exhilaration had swept over me the day before as the DH C-3 Beaver (four passenger sea plane) touched down on the surface of Northern Ontario's Easey Lake.

"Yea!" I exclaimed "Welcome to paradise."

A nearby pair of Loons seemed equally inspired as they erupted into a welcoming chorus while we unloaded our gear from the plane.

Spending a week in a rustic log cabin in the remote Canadian wilderness may not sound like paradise to some, but to this angler it was one step short of heaven.

I had dreamed of a fly-in fishing trip to Canada for many years. Last fall, myself and three friends, Goemare and Neil O'Dwyer of Lake Orion and Larry Axsome of Auburn Hills, decided on a trip.

We drove 150 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie to the town of Hawk Junction where we hooked up with our hosts Mary Haight and Kelly Culhane, co-owners of Hawk Air Ltd. We flew another 30 miles into the wilderness before arriving at Easey Lake.

The fun began later that afternoon as Brian broke the ice and caught the first fish of the trip. Trolling an orange and brown Hot-N-Tot, Goemare landed a relentless 28-inch Northern over a weed bed in 15-feet of water.

We spent the first five days of our trip on Easey Lake, catching mostly pike as well as a few walleye and perch, then flew to another lake — Little Missinaibié — 30 miles to the east for a walleye bonanza on the final two days of our trip.

Feasting on fish

The excellent walleye and pike fishery in Northern Ontario is certainly no secret to Michigan anglers. But when we got to the sea plane, base and heard about a 10-pound walleye and a 23-pound Northern coming out of the area two days before we arrived, our excitement rose to another level.

Despite less-than-favorable weather conditions which included high winds, rain and cold temperatures (30s at night and 40s to 50s during the day), we managed to acclimate ourselves with Easey Lake and find some productive holes within the first couple days.

We caught our fill of three to four-pound pike and feasted on fish each night. The bigger, trophy-sized pike we were searching for just didn't seem to be interested in our offerings of night crawler harnesses, jigs, minnows, flat fish, Dardevles, Rapalas, spinner baits and the likes.

Little Missinaibié turned out to be a walleye haven as we boated more than 100 fish in a day-and-a-half of fishing. Once our new found friend George Deacon, an outfitter from Union Lake who works for Hawk Air, showed us where the fish were, crawler harnesses and jigs tipped with night crawlers or minnows turned into walleye magnets. Color seemed to be insignificant. I started out using a chartreuse jig, but found equal success with brown, orange, green and white.

Beaver and beaver huts were too numerous to keep track of and there were daily demonstrations of building and gathering by nature's original carpenters. Ducks and ducklings were ducking our boat in nearly every bay and a sneaky weasel stole an 18-inch walleye from a livewell at our camp on Little Missinaibié.

I'm already making plans for a return trip next year. If you're an avid angler and enjoy frolicking in the wilderness, you're missing the boat (er plane) if you don't drop in on our neighbors to the north.

le, pike, whitefish and perch that branded the trip outstanding. It was a combination of Canadian hospitality, great fishing and wildlife encounters that fulfilled my longtime dream.

From pre-trip lists of what gear to bring and maps of the lakes we were fishing to a midweek check including ice delivery and tips on where and how to catch the fish, our hosts did all they could to ensure that we had fun and success.

The lakes we fished are located in the Châpneau Game Preserve so wildlife was plentiful. Loons were numerous on Easey Lake and serenaded us regularly with nature's most beautiful melodies. A proud Bald Eagle swooped over our cabin on the second day of our stay at Easey Island and bull and cow moose were feeding daily on aquatic plants at both lakes.
