BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A new report citing two decades of academic decline in Wayne-Westland schools could provide a much-needed impetus for change, school officials say.

The highly critical report, called a proaches to educational programs curriculum audit, notes that efforts to improve classroom instruction have been stymied in a district suffering from a battered reputation.

"Few noteworthy efforts have occurred to maintain excellence and achievement by modifying the approaches to educational programs and classroom instruction," the 164page report concludes.

The findings are based on a landmark study by an outside auditing team that worked under the auspices of the Arlington, Va.,-based National Curriculum Audit Center.

The six-member panel, commissioned by local school officials, issued its report after visiting every Wayne-Westland school in September and talking with educators and community leaders. The study marked the first of its kind ever launched in Wayne-Westland.

Despite its critical nature, the report should be viewed not as an indictment of the 16,500-student district, but as a springboard for long-needed improvements, said Norine Blake, associate superintendent of instruction and planning.

Mall planned for 'eyesore'

Homeowners in Westland's northeast corner may have to put up with a neighborhood eyesore for a while longer.

Although a developer wants to demolish the long-vacant former Cooper School for a new strip mall, the city's planning commission and administration recommend that the city council reject the rezoning proposal.

The council is scheduled to discuss the rezoning at a study session scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in its conference room in City Hall.

If the council position on a controversial commercial rezoning of last month is any sign, then the Cooper property rezoning is expected to be denied by the council.

In the dispute last month, the council unanimously rejected a rezoning proposal which would have allowed a large Kroger supermarket, Wal-Mart membership warehouse business, and smaller retail businesses on the northwest corner of Ford and Central City Parkway.

The Cooper property, on the southeast corner of Middelbelt and Ann Arbor Trail, was built in the 1930s when there was an independent Cooper school district, later consolidated Friends have combed an 80mile stretch from Detroit to Ingham County, searching for clues on back roads and in malls and other public places.

Husack said some of Elkins' friends have begun to question whether the John Glenn High School graduate may have disap-1970s. "There seemed to be a yearning for the '70s instead of dealing with the realities of today," Blake said.

Amid troubling times, many teachers and administrators have worked hard to provide a quality learning experience for Wayne-Westland students in the tough times of the '80s and early 90s," the study says.

No leadership

But the audit's findings point out deep-rooted problems that have undermined those efforts. Despite "considerable" evidence of school-based planning, the study found "little or no curricular leadership" from the school board or the central administration.

However, the report later notes that new Superintendent Larry Thomas and a revamped school board appear hopeful of "a recovfor Wayne-Westland, But the auditing team stressed that those hopes "must be transformed into actions and commitments.

Amid a lack of central leadership, most long-term planning occurred at individual schools, and "the district is operating more like a confederacy of schools than a system that is focused, directed and responsible" to its students, the report said.

Auditors found "no systematic or effective plan for curriculum development' in the district. Moreover, the school board has failed to establish district-wide goals and objectives, the study found.

Curriculum varies among schools, the auditing team learned. Moreover, the panel said, "grading practices, report cards, lesson plans, (student) grouping practices, promotion and retention practices, and homework practices vary from school to school."

Auditors also found little use of achievement tests in revising curriculum, even though parents and many school officials themselves have continually demanded better student scores on the state Michigan Education Assessment Program, or MEAP, test.

noted that: ■ The Cherry Hill alternative school is often viewed and referred to as "the prison" where troublesome students are "sent" for discipline, rather than an education.

■ Some evidence supports the widespread perception that schools in low-income neighborhoods, with more minority students, receive fewer resources than other schools. But, the report added, "the perception is not viewed by auditors as categorically accurate."

The report contains a series of recommendations for improving the district. Those range from setting board policies - a goal already underway - to adopting a curriculum-driven budget and addressing inequities among schools.

"There's not one recommendation that I'm surprised with or that I would challenge," Blake said. The report, she said, could lead to changes aimed at reversing two decades of decline.

The report contains a wealth of information that will be discussed at length in a series of special school board sessions that will be open to the public. Blake said. The meetings haven't been sched-some rates will go up while others will go down.

There may also a realignment of channels to meet the law's new definition of "basic" cable service. the notice said. "New rules may result in the addition or deletion of broadcast TV stations, This may in turn require the deletion of some cable channels," the company said.

In an interview last week, Perry said that while many of the new law's provisions have not yet been defined by the Federal Communications Commission, it's clear that there will be several key issues that will increase the economic costs for Continental.

One potential impact for residents is the elimination of the $5.95 monthly charge for basic cable services.

Currently, those persons have to pay the higher $18.75 monthly charge to obtain the popular movie channels.

Perry said the new law prohibits that rate structure, forcing the company to eliminate the $5.95 fee and forcing subscribers who want the movie or premium channels to decide if they want to pay the higher $18.75 charge to obtain them.

Under the current rate structure, those paying the higher fee are financially subsidizing those paying the lower fee, Perry said.

Another financial impact under the new law is that broadcast channels, such as 2, 4 and 7 in the Detroit area, will be allowed to charge the cable companies for carrying their programs. If that happens, it's likely those costs will be reflected in higher rates, Perry said.

The hearing will start at 7 p.m. in the city council chambers, City Hall, 36601 Ford, east of Newburgh.

Another economic impact of the new law, Perry said, is that Continental is expecting higher costs of complying with the legislation. Those costs are also to be reflected in subscriber rates. •

Since Continental started its local system in the spring of 1984, it has boosted rates 151 percent - to $18.75 from $7.45.

But Perry said the higher charge reflects the doubling of the number of channels available to subscribers. And among those 58 channels, some such as CNN, have vastly improved their coverage in the past 81/2 years, she stressed.

In recent years, Mayor Robert Thomas and several city council members are opposed the size of rate increases although the officials have no control over them.

The legislation also requires the city council to decide by late this month if it wants to have control over rates. The decision will be in effect for three years. Perry said.

The new law, adopted by Congress last fall, contains a timetable for the FCC to act on numerous provisions this year or next.

One provision, to be decided by April 3, is to establish rules and procedures for establishing "reasonable rates for basic cable service" and "shall establish criteria" for determining, in individual cases, whether rates are unreasonable." Perry said 70 percent of Westland households, or 22,000, subscribe to cable.

The average subscriber pays and average $30 a month for cable services, or nearly $8 million. Of gross revenues, the city of Westland receives 5 percent, or nearly $400,000.

Cable commissioner Jo Johnson said the group has invited U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Ypsilanti Township, and Rep. John Dingell to attend the hearing or have a staffer stand in for them.

When Congress was debating the cable control bill last summer and fall, the legislation's supporters argued that it would control the increase of rates or even reduce them while also promoting more competition in the cable industry.

Not surprisingly, the cable industry disagreed, saying that the bill's provisions would lead to higher charges for most subscribers and increase its costs of doing business.

Film spotlights coney contest at hot dog stand

Dresses a dog: Nick Marabeas puts ketchup on a hot dog for a waiting customer. Marabeas, owner of Hefty's, played the role of one of two short-order cooks in the film.

Quite a feat: Pat Moore holds the record for eating 19 coneys at Hefty's in Redford, earning him top spot in the Gallery of Gastronomic Fame.

A full house: Hefty's was busy Monday night for the "sneak preview" of the film on Redford's famed coney

John Prusak, longtime Wayne-Westland school district media teacher, was so taken by Hefty's Hot Dog Stand that he made a movie featuring a suburban landmark and the restaurant's longrunning coney dog eating contest.

"I was infatuated with the restaurant," said Prusak, 45, who returned Jan. 4 to Hefty's on Grand River, west of Beech Daly, for a media showing of the 30-minute film. "It's homey and there's no other like its kind. Hopefully, my film will be one of a kind."

Prusak, a media teacher at the William Ford Vocational/Technical Center, is a former art teacher who was previously on the Lin- in Redford for 27 years. coln Elementary School faculty.

The film, entitled "Hefty's," premiered Saturday at the Old Redford Theater at Lahser and Grand River in northwest Detroit. Proceeds will benefit Detroit Area Film and Television and Children's Hospital of Michigan.

"I feel like a nervous father," Prusak said moments before the media showing. "I hope they like the film because I still want to eat co-wrote the film's story with Richard Rockwell of Huntington Woods. "I always liked it because it was unique, and I made the film because I wanted to share a positive part of Detroit with the rest of the world. It's a quiet film, no murders or rapes. It's a story of changing values.

"I would like the film shown in educational circles, like colleges and high schools, as a discussion piece that people can talk about,' Prusak said.

Rockwell said plans are to enter "Hefty's" in film festivals with the hope of gaining recognition for the movie before seeking avenues of distribution.

The story line centers around a millionaire, portrayed by Christopher Howe, who decides to try to break the eating record of 19 coneys in an hour as proof to himself that he can do something on his own that his money can't buy. In the process, he learns valuable lessons and finds a surprise friend.

The film was shot in just 12 weekend days during the spring of 1983, but lay dormant for 10 years due to lack of funding, Prusak said. It was finally completed with financial support from the Public Benefit Corp. and the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Other grant funds and additional private donations paid production costs, estimated at $25,000 to $30,000, Prusak said.

Prusak has been making films, mostly documentaries, for 20 years. He is probably best known for his work as cinematographer on "Roger & Me."

Prusak's volunteer crew for "Hefty's" included several of his students and friends who have gone on to successful professional careers, including Sam Raimi, who plays the cook. Raimi also wrote and directed the "Evil Dead" films and "Darkman."

19-year-old man pleads guilty of beating teen

A 19-year-old Westland man pleaded guilty Friday to charges of beating and kicking a local teenager who wanted to drop out of a "skinheads" gang.

Chris Bugosh could face a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison when he returns Feb. 9 to Detroit Recorder's Court for sentencing on a charge of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm.

Two of Bugosh's friends who went to trial and were convicted of identical charges have already been sentenced. James Kirsten Kight, 22, is serving two to 10 years in prison, and Jamie Gates, 18, is serving three to 10 years.

Westland police accused the three teens of severely beating and kicking a dissident skinhead and dumping him in a ditch. The victim spent four days in Garden City Hospital for injuries he received during the March 6 beating last year.

The beating occurred during a party on Avondale, northwest of Palmer and Newburgh, Court testimony indicated the defendants beat the victim in a basement and then drove him to Van Buren Township, where he was dumped in a roadside ditch.

Severely injured, the dissident skinhead managed to stagger to a nearby house for help, and his family was telephoned, police have said.

Severely injured, the dissident skinhead managed to stagger to a nearby house for help.

The victim was beaten because 'he decided he didn't want to belong to the group anymore. Westland Detective Sgt. Russell Nowaczck has said.

Kight and Gates also have received a one-year sentence for a separate incident in August 1991 in which they beat a local teenager in the head, face, back, chest and legs. Brass knuckles and a wooden board were used during the beating, police have said.

Like Kight and Gates, Bugosh also was charged with aggravated assault in that incident. He has pleaded guilty in Westland's 18th District Court and is expected to be sentenced by Judge C. Charles Bokos after his appearance next month in Recorder's Court.

The August 1991 beating occurred in a field near Manufacturer's Drive in Westland. Court testimony has indicated the victim was beaten because he shot a plastic gun at a girl whom the defendants knew.

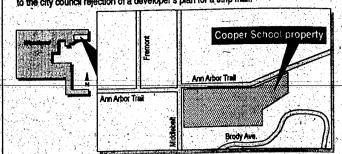

Although Kight and Gates already have been sentenced, Bugosh had fled from authorities after posting $500, or 10 percent of a $5.000 bond. He recently was found and arrested.

Boarded building: The former Cooper School, on a site where a developer wants to build a strip mall, has had its windows covered with plywood for many years.

Rezenting Cooper

Westland residents may have to wait to see what develops on the former Cooper School property. The city planning commission and administration have recommended to the city council rejection of a developer's plan for a strip mail.

into the Livonia school district. The elementary school was vacated in 1967 when a newer Cooper elementary school opened a half-mile away on Ann Arbor Trail between Inkster Road and Middlebelt. The older building was used briefly as the city's first senior citizens' center and then vacated.

In recent years, homeowners who live in the subdivision behind Cooper have publicly expressed concerns that the deteriorating building is becoming a neighborhood eyesore in a highly visible location.

The planning commission, which recommended unanimously Jan. 5 that the council reject the rezoning, said it based its decision on several factors.

One is that the proposed rezoning "would be detrimental to the public interest" and would lead to potential commercial overbuilding in the area, which has a similar strip mall across the street.

The commission also noted that there is no market study or documentation showing a need for more commercial development in that area

Another factor for recommending denial is that the city's future land use plan calls for the property to be developed in its current zoning classification for low-density office and commercial uses. Robert Asmar is president of the Farmington Hills company which owns the property, bought from the Livonia school district years ago.

Asmar's proposal includes nearly 49,000 square feet of retail space, specifying a hardware store, drug store, smaller retail businesses and a Burger King fast-food restaurant on the prop-

Council considers naming parks director

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

Westland may soon have a new parks and recreation director.

Chuck Skene, head of the City of Plymouth recreation department for 18 years, is awaiting word from the Westland City Council, which will be asked

Tuesday night to confirm the recommendation of Mayor Robert

"It's a chance to go to a larger community," Skene said. "I'm looking forward to that. We couldn't come to a conclusion on the (Plymouth) residency issue.

His departure is sparked by Plymouth voters' rejection in November of an amendment to the city charter that would have allowed non-residents to serve as city department heads.

A long time Plymouth employee, Skene is a Westland resident.

Trustee hopefuls stress commitment to serve

By Susan Rosiek Staff Writer

Their expertise ranges from law to engineering to money management but candidates vying for an appointment to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees said their interest in education and a desire to "give something back to the community" is the prime motivator in applying for the board post.

Sixteen people have applied for two vacant seats on the board, Trustees Mary Breen, Steve Ragan, Michael Burl , Harry Greenleaf and Patricia Watson will appoint two new board members on Wednesday.

Process continues

On Jan. 6, the board interviewed five applicants. Last week seven were questioned. Four candidates - James McCann, Win-ifred Fraser, Christopher Vary and Richard J. DeVries - will be interviewed at a special meeting Wednesday, Jan. 20 after which the board will vote on two appointments.

Those appointed must run in a special election in June. The appointments are to fill the vacandles of former trustees Jeanne Stempien, who was elected to the Wayne County Circuit Court, and Thaddeus McCotter, elected to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Candidates interviewed last week were Kathleen E. Payne, law school professor from Plymouth Township; David M. Ozog, health care marketing consultant from Livonia; Malcolm Campbell, a dentist from Plymouth; Catherine Broadbent, human resource director for Plymouth Township and a Westland resident; Robert L. Place, an engineer recently retired from General Motors who lives in Plymouth Township; John J. Walsh, an attorney from Livonia and Lawrence J. Regan, a recently retired financial consultant from Merrill Lynch who lives in Livo-

Funding, college improvements and the role of a trustee were among the questions most asked by board members.

Payne, a law professor at Detroit College of Law and former educator in Garden City Public Schools, told trustees she was seeking the appointment because of her life long interest in education and her commitment to help the college "continue to make its invaluable contribution to the community Payne has taken continuing education classes and swims at Schoolcraft. She has served on curriculum, faculty development, finance and academic standards committees at the law school.

"I am familiar with the issues facing an education institution and capable of addressing them, wrote Payne in her application to the board.

"While the college employs its own counsel to do legal work, it would be helpful to the board to have a lawyer as a member," said Payne, adding that although she doesn't have "any political connections or party affiliations" she would seek the office in June if appointed Wednesday.

Grad seeks seat

Ozog, who will graduate from Schoolcraft this semester, told trustees he "has a personal desire to to see Schoolcraft continue to serve the community.

He said his experience in marketing, commercial real estate. finance and experience as a student at Schoolcraft would be an asset to the board.

He views the role of trustee as a guardian and believes that the college should strive to improve classes offered outside the main Livonia campus.

Ozog is a graduate of Stevenson High School in Livonia and attends the University of Michigan-Dearborn where he is a student in psychology and business.

If appointed he plans to seek election in June.

Campbell, a dentist practicing in Dearborn, works with students at the University of Michigan and University of Detroit schools of dentistry in a mentor program that he initiated.

Campbell views the role of trustee a policy maker - "not one involved in day-to-day operations.'

"I am impressed with what I've seen at the college. The administration is doing a fine job. The board works well together," said the Plymouth resident adding serving as a trustee would be "challenging, stimulating and constructive.

Broadbent, who earned an associates degree at Schoolcraft College, says the college can improve by soliciting ideas from alumni. She also holds a bachelor's degree in business management from Madonna College.

On generating income for the college, Broadbent says land development is a viable option followed by millage.

"Last would be a tuition increase," said Broadbent.

She said complying with the American Disabilities Act, employment issues and prayerless graduation ceremonies are some of the more immediate concerns facing trustees.

No stepping stone

"I want this position to serve the community - not as a stepping stone to higher office," Broadbent, who lives in the Westland portion of the Livonia School District.

Place, who recently retired from middle-management post at GM, said his broad manufacturing business background, engineering approach to problem solving, and vital interest in education for future leaders are just a few reasons he would be a valu-

Place, who holds a bachelor's of science degree from General Motors Institute, said the college must look for innovative ways to raise money - not property taxes. Tuition increases he said should be "in step with inflation."

Place said the college serves many different facets of the community from the typical 18-yearold high school graduate to the mature adult student to those seeking futher training or retrain-

"We must tailor to the needs of our customers," said Place, whose son attended Schoolcraft College after serving a tour of duty in the military.

Walsh, an attorney with Lewis, White & Clay in Detroit, is active on the political action and government relations committees of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce. He also serves as a director of the Livonia Jaycees.

Walsh called Schoolcraft "a tremendous asset to the community and its students.

"Preservation and enhancement of the college's reputation and program is increasingly important as four year colleges become more and more out of reach for students seeking higher education. "Community colleges in general have become and will continue to be a reason alternative for many students," wrote Walsh in his application to the board.

Skills match needs

Walsh told trustees that his experience in municipal finance. fund-raising and the governmental process; his internships during college at the executive and legislative levels along with his knowledge of the political environment at the local, state and federal level, will help him make decisions as a board member.

'There's a strong match between my skills and what the board needs," said Walsh, who received his law degree at Wayne State University. Walsh said he plans to seek election to the board in Juné.

Regan, retired from Merrill Lynch, told trustees that board membership would be both intelectually stimulating and useful.

Regan told trustees that although he's unfamiliar with how the college is funded, he would bring 25 years of expertise in money management to the board. He said the board must look at cutting expenses not just increasing revenues.

'Education must be available at a relatively low price," said Regan, who has a son attending Schoolcraft.

Kecskes last saw her niece during a fifth birthday celebration. Soon afterward, the grandparents adopted the child out to a couple that Kecskes said is believed to be living in the Westland-Garden City area.

The family lost contact with the niece, but Kecskes began searching for her five years ago, when Christina would have turned 18.

"I thought that since she was an adult, she could make her own decisions about whether she. wanted to see me or any of the family," Kecskes said.

But Kecskes doesn't know if the niece knows how to get in touch with family members on her mother's side, so she decided to try to find her.

I just want to let her know that she's got a lot of family members who care about her," Kecskes said. "She doesn't even have to come see me if she doesn't want to. But I want her to know that she has an aunt who cares about

The last time Kecskes saw her niece, the girl's full name was Christina Jean Martin. She had assumed the last name of her paternal grandparents.

The girl was born Dec. 10, 1969, in the former Wayne County General Hospital, Westland. But Kecskes said she has been unable to find Christina's hospital records. Kecskes doesn't even have a Social Security number.

Opaque keeps strings attached to music

■ The Opaque honed its live skills at many low-profile Detroit-area shows. Six months later, it played the first of four Club X shows, cementing its future in the local music scene.

By Christina Fuoco Staff Writer

Leather-jacket clad musician Jim Flynn no longer has to worry about being called names like 'pansy violinist.'

As a part of The Opaque, the much sought-after musician and his cohorts are quickly being recognized as Detroit's top up and coming band. That is, at least to

"There's the occasional naysayers who we quickly eliminate," said Flynn with a laugh.

"Sometimes we rub people the wrong way for what we're doing I've been called every name (in) the book playing my instrument. Now I can get in their face and give it to them," he added.

Lead singer Dirk Schwarzhoff jokingly explained Flynn's frustrations further.

"Jim no longer feels the need to take steroids.

Flynn's playing

It's Flynn's violin playing that raised The Opaque's status within the local music scene. Throughout 1991 and 1992, the Dearborn resident spent time doing guest stints with bands like Rhythm Corps, Red C and The Hope Orchestra - all with the intention of aiding The Opaque.

"I wanted us to be able to get into the market not from the outside because that would have been too difficult," Flynn ex-

This year, he plans on committing himself to The Opaque.

"I've had the pleasure of playing with other local and national acts. I've stopped doing that. There were reasons for that when I did it.

In the beginning, Schwarzhoff was gigging through Europe with the band Shock Therapy on its tour with Primus. Bassist/lyricist Mark Jordan Ristich and future drummer Scott Spellman were pursuing other projects. Upon Schwarzhoff's arrival home, Flynn, Ristich and Schwarzhoff all University of Michigan-Dearborn students - and Spellman, of Orchard Lake, hooked up.

Integrated talents

Schwarzhoff and Flynn first worked together in 1988 in the band 2nd Order Thinking .The band saw the emergence of Schwarzhoff's guitar and vocal ability, and then-lead singer Flynn's electric violin, a custom pickup mounted on his greatgrandfather's 150-year-old violin. They integrated those talents, along with Spellman on drums, into The Opaque.

In early 1992, the group decided to hone its live skills by playing many low-profile Detroit-area shows. Six months later, The Opaque played its first of four Club X shows at the State Theatre. From an outsider's point of view, it seems as if The Opaque debuted at Club X. Schwarzhoff said that was the plan.

"It took a year of scheming to do that," the Dearborn resident said with a grin. "It wasn't that easy. We packed a lot of shows into the first few months."

The group now is planning to release its first tape "Wishlist" in about a month. The three-song release captures The Opaque's alternative rock sound elegantly laced with Flynn's aggressive violin playing, and Ristich's intelligent lyrics.

"I try to work in something of a narrative so that you can get characters that will say things sometimes you're afraid to say," said Ristich about his lyrics.

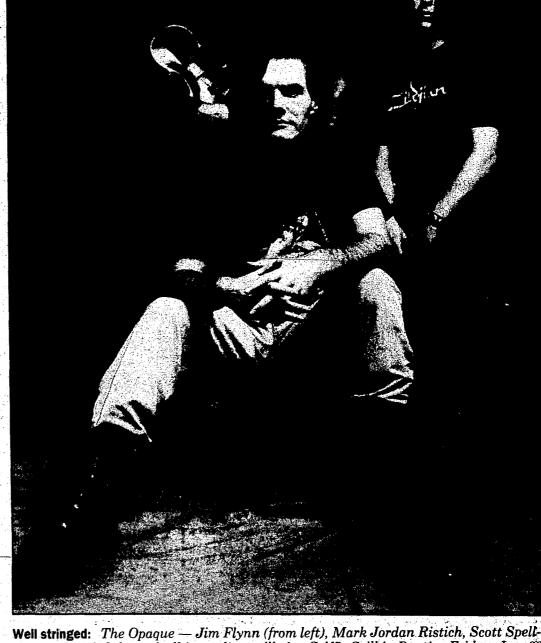

That, the Royal Oak resident said, lends honesty in The Opaque's work.

"I think when you do that for one thing you get honesty for the way you look at life. It can provide the person listening to it withsomething they can grab onto except for someone mulling about how terrible their life is.'

The version of "Wishlist" available to the public may include a bonus track. The group's work is also included on the "Dream Catchers" and "Tremor" compilation CDs.

On the band's immediate 'wishlist" is a record deal. Judging from the band's 1992 successes it shouldn't be out of reach. The Opaque, who has opened for established alternative acts like Echo and the Bunnymen, won the Detroit Music Awards' "Best Video" prize for the video to the song "Kiss Goes Corrupt." The quartet has also applied to play at the prestigious South by Southwest music conference in Texas in March. The band, who recently played Chicago and Indianapolis, is also planning an East Coast tour for spring.

Flynn realizes that fans remember the band mostly because of him. He admittedly loves the attention, but loathes bands who use him as a "Band-Aid,"

"It's been tried with other rock'n' roll formats. It's simply a Band-Aid. (In) this I'm doing my thing and everybody else is doing their part as opposed to a Band-Aid application which I really resent being used as."

It's that equality that makes this band in his career the most worthy of attention, Flynn said.

"We've completely turned it upside and try to make sure we sounded like no one in Detroit or anyone else in the U.S.A." he added.

The Sex Pistols may endorse "Anarchy in the U.K.," but Daddy Stitch members find democracy works fine for them.

"It's (run) this country for a couple hundred years, I guess it'll work for us," said Jarrod Wolny,

Apparently it has. Utilizing these democratic means, Daddy Stitch has just released their first tape, "Fly South." Instead of one or two members footing the bill for it, the group chose an evenkeeled method. Daddy Stitch funded the tape entirely with money earned from 20-30 shows. The hard alternative rock band will celebrate the release with a performance on Friday, Jan. 22, in the Burns Room in St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit. The show will bring Daddy Stitch a room closer to accomplishing its immediate

"We're shootin' to play right here on this stage," said Wolny dragging on a cigarette under the dim light of the chilly, closed St. Andrew's Hall. The business-minded group doesn't expect to earn its money back. Daddy Stitch intends on selling only a limited number of the tapes. The rest will be sent to record companies with the hopes of landing a record deal

"The purpose of the tape is a tool to garner recognition, not to make money," explained the group's burly lead singer Mike Apostolou.

So far, Daddy Stitch has received wide Detroit-area exposure by supporting national acts like Jesus Lizard. Apostolou hopes the band can expand on its opening act experience.

"We just want to play a good show with a compatible national band," said Apostolou citing The Pixies, Mudhoney and Dinosaur Jr. as examples. "We're confident of our music and I think we're ready to play on that level."

So confident that Apostolou is hoping to make Daddy Stitch his career. "I can't speak for the whole band but I eat, sleep, live and breathe this. This is what I want to do. I don't want to go to school. I don't want to do nothing. I don't even want to work. I want to make it with this band," explained Apostolou who cites his mother his "biggest influence."

"We're not asking much," said Wolny with a laugh.

The majority of the group which also consists of bassist David Bingham, drummer Shawn Grzyb, and guitarist Nick Fiori are former members of Anti-Social Degenerates. After "five years of getting nowhere," according to Bingham, the group broke up. Shortly afterward, they formed Daddy Stitch, a "hardcore" yet melodic band, Grzyb said.

"They got a lot of hooks, they're rough enough yet catchy enough,' said Apostolou.

Through their songs and their lyrics - which concentrate on 'dames and situations," Apostolou said — they hope to move audiences.

"What other medium is there that can move you like music? Books are the only thing that can compare to music." says Bingham. "You can buy a feeling on a tape."

Daddy Stitch holds a record release party Friday, Jan. 22, in the Burns Room at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Call 961-MELT for more information. Upcoming shows include Friday, Jan. 1 29, at The Ritz, 101/2 and Gratiot, in Roseville, with Loudhouse (778-6404) and Saturday, Feb. 6, at Paycheck's Lounge, 2932 Caniff, in Hamtramck, with Loose Stools (874-0909).

Response recognized who he is and what he has to do

To The Editor:

I am appalled at the response of Barbara Schiff in her "advice" column of Nov. 9, titled "No good solution for his situation." It serves as a classic example of the dangers of media psycholo-

A very troubled reader who signed "No Longer Capable of Standing Suffering," tells Ms. Schiff that he is seriously contemplating suicide because of a host of physical disabilities. He is, however, leading a productive life in which he has managed to acquire a post-graduate degree by age 29 despite his multiple surgeries and pain.

Ms. Schiff tells him that as an apparent "rugged individualist," he has the last say. The alternative - staying alive - she describes as "sacrificing himself" for the sake of those who love him. In other words, she gives this λ_{b}

Surely, a trained therapist should recognize depression when she reads it. How could she not suggest counseling? Just because she has "no good solution" for him, does not mean that others in her field would be as helpless and hopeless. I hope he — and other readers who may have empathized - is still with us and that he reads this and seeks help to restore value to his life. He has contributions to make and he is a valuable human being.

A Very Concerned Reader

I received this letter some weeks ago after having already addressed these concerns in a previous column. The issue is very imindividual permission to kill him- portant and so I welcome the opportunity to discuss it further. Concurrent with this letter there was a message on my voice mail from a man who said, "You need to have more discretion in answering these letters, but I enjoy I assume that this man was also referring to the column criticized by this writer.

There are times when a patient is dying and a doctor with all good intentions offers hope. But a few patients do not want false hope; they want the bleak cold facts. In the letter that the voice mail and the letter to the editor refer to, it was understood that the writer had been on medication and had been in therapy.

My answer was written with that understanding. It was also written with the knowledge that there are untreatable cases of depression. I respect the writer's intelligence too deeply to try to fluff that fact even though it is fluff that some people need and want in order to get by.

If a person needs to base his or her sense of security on a delusion, we need to accept that delusion and not take it away. If a person bases his or her life on the truth, wants to know the worst scenario and is capable of handling it with grace, then it is his or her right not to have those beliefs taken away. Many don't want the bitter facts, but some do.

Without an argument, pharmacology has changed the treatment of mental illness. Patients who only 10-20 years ago would not have been able to live productive lives now often do. But it is not a cure-all, and sometimes there is resistance to complying with a doctor's recommendation to take pills even though they are help-

Psychotherapy, also, can save lives -– sometimes. Neither is it a cure-all: Recommending it to someone for whom it has not been helpful seems a cruel joke, lacking in empathic understanding.

There are those of us who take a spiritual path to peace and those of us who face a bleaker honesty and in so doing find the ability to problem solve. People are capable of a great deal, if not deluded by what some have called "fairy tales." Those who respect their ability to develop-grace-under pressure need to be recognized, too. This is who they are and this is what they have to do.

It is true that great people have helped others through the spiritual route; it is also true that millions of others have been aided in their development through the cerebral, intellectual, cognitive functioning of the "miracles" of.

the brain.

Game" opens at carnival, appropriate enough since it has more twists and turns than a Tilt-a-Whirl. The latest from Irish writer/director Neil Jordan doesn't always make the best narrative sense (it's almost three movies in one), but it has supremely clever moments of emotion and free-wheeling style.

The acclaimed new picture, which plays for a second weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre, opens with a black English soldier (Forest Whitaker) taken hostage by a group of IRA types who hole up in a rundown country house. Unless one of their people is released, the soldier will die.

Fergus (Stephen Rea) befriends the soldier, Jody, during his assigned watch. As the hours drag by, the men share cigarettes, past experiences and dreams until it becomes painfully obvious that the hitman will have an unusually hard time shooting the doomed soldier when the time comes.

Giving away much more would be unfair to the movie, which has a much-publicized twist. Even if someone does have loose lips and gives it away, there's enough here to hold your attention.

One of these things is Rea's performance as the shaggy

Fergus, who walks through the film in a perpetual daze, battered about by circumstance and other people's desires and deception. Sensitive, tough and thoroughly unpredictable, he's easily taken in by the rough charm of the soldier, well-played by the beefy American actor Whitaker ("Bird").

Miranda Richardson ("Enchanted April") and Adrian Dunbar ("Hear My Song") play fellow IRA freedom fighters. She's the epitome of femme fatale, part chameleon, part black widow, who shows her attraction to each of the film's male characters at one time or another. He's a textbook IRA man — ruthless and unwavering in his duty.

On another level, "The Crying Game" means emotional manipulation, something that writer/director Neil Jordan has become a master of after seven films.

In his most popular works, "Mona Lisa" and "The Miracle," he created characters who were almost cliches from the outset. Yet, he has an amazing way of making you emotionally involved even when bizarre coincidence and predictability shake your willing suspension of disbelief.

His movies are often so loose that you might get the idea that Jordan is making them up as he goes along. Look closer and you will find a director who probably Unlike Hitchcock, whom Jordan certainly compares to in terms of red herrings tossed about, the director allows his performers considerable freedom. The improvisational tone of the conversations (especially between Fergus and the soldier Jody) work amazingly well here.

The movie's a dazzler visually, both polished and realistically low budget at the same time. The opening shots at the carnival with the familiar ferris wheel and games of skill, are seedily rendered. He used similar seaside trappings to lend an almost surreal edge to "The Miracle."

POINTS OF VIEW

Public has misconceptions about education system

UESTION: I heard the massive $10 million Sandia Laboratories study of public education, funded by the U.S. gov-ernment, was such political dynamite that Washington buried the results. Is that true?

ANSWER: The renowned and prestigious New Mexico Sandia National Laboratories, in 1989, was commissioned to complete a government-funded $10 million study of public education that was so explosive, Bush and then Clinton totally ignored the results during their

It started when Rear Admiral James Watkins was sworn in as President Bush's Energy Secretary in 1989. The admiral was directed to order researchers at the Sandia Labs to provide ammo for his charge about the sad decline of public education. It was hoped the study would support their movement for the privatization of education, which Bush advo-

When the White House saw the Sandia results, it went ballistic, ordering it

However, the Oklahoma Observer got its hands on a copy Jan. 25, 1992, and I got a copy from a "friend." The final draft of the study carried a phone number at the bottom, but callers are told:
"no more copies". . . "it's outdated." (A 1991 study outdated? Come on now!)

Under pressure, Watkins did appear at a news conference in Oklahoma City to answer questions. When asked why copies were not available, he replied: ' results are not what he anticipated and did not jibe with the opinions of '50 state

The findings basically did not support Bush's strong advocacy for funding private Schools of Choice with public dollars and for the privatization of education using public funds. Look at the Sandia study findings below, a study whose intent was to support the opinions of some politicians and some journalists as to how bad public education is.

■ Fiction: Our children, because of frill subjects and non-academic school activities are "dumber" today.

Sandia: Today's students IQ(s) are seven points higher than their parents and 14 IQ points higher than their grandparents on the Wechsler and Stanford Binet Intelligence Tests, according to the Sandia study. The typical cut off point for giftedness is now about seven times greater than the IQs of the present political leadership which is doing all the complaining about public schools.

Fiction: The falling Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores are a clear indication of a failing public school system.

Sandia: The SAT scores, since 1975, have increased for Caucasian, black, Asian, American Indian and Mexican American students as individual groups. Original scores in the mid-60s didn't include diverse populations, and tests were given primarily to middle and upper class Caucasians. Now, however, current scores appear to be lower since the scope of the student population and the type of institution of higher learning they attend have broadened.

Educational Testing Service, the developer of the SAT test items, has admitted that the SAT today is much more difficult than it was in 1975. Indeed, item difficulty checks are run each year, and if a test quest is found too easy, it is dropped for a tougher test question.

Fiction: The United States already spends more money on public education than most other countries.

Sandia: Japan, Austria, Denmark, West Germany, Canada, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland (many non-industrialized countries) spend more money on public education than the U.S. Belgium, Italy, Australia and the United Kingdom spend less. We rank ninth among the industrialized nations in per-pupil expenditures, spending 14 percent less than Germany and 30 percent less than Japan per student.

Fiction: The drop-out rate in the United States is a disgrace. Sandia: The U.S. drop-out rate is declining and never been lower. When the drop-outs who return to school and graduate late are counted, the graduation rate is 85 percent, which is the best in the

■ Fiction: Washington's expenditures for teachers each child has increased dramatically over the years. Sandia: The Sandia study says Washpercent of special education costs. In reality it never bore more than 12 percent. And the cost of a full time equivalent special education student is $17,600 (according to Phi Delta Kappan editor Pauline B. Gough). Government has treated general education the same. Fiction: The number of college graduates is declining, especially women.

ington, in 1975, promised to bear up to 40

Sandia: We have the highest rate of earned bachelor degrees in the world, and female enrollment surpassed males in Many other findings negate that mental set some people have when they read about a bad situation in one school and then generalize to all public schools in the country.

As a former teacher, administrator. college instructor and parent of four children, I have many criticisms of our public school system. But politicians, the media and investigative reporters should study more of the facts and realize America's public education system is not perfect but still one of the best in the world.

Hopefully there won't be one. But if there is, I'm 100 percent behind having women in combat and homosexuals in the services. It's the level playing field idea that ultra liberals are always talking about. We need to create one.

Since we've kept women and homosexuals out of combat during previous wars, it's now their turn. If we do that, it levels out the playing field for the heterosexual males who have fought our previous wars.

Area Dems head to Clinton inaugural festivities

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

If anyone is plotting a coup in Wayne County, this week would be a great time to spring it because Democrats are off to Washington D.C. for the inauguration of Bill Clinton.

Not only will Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and at least 20 executive department officials be on the beltway schmooze circuit come Wednesday, but half the county commissioners, the chief circuit court judge, the county clerk, the undersheriff and the sheriff's head spokeswoman will join the hundreds of thousands of people (plus the members of Fleetwood Mac) to witness the first Democratic inauguration since 1977.

County commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who confesses to voting for Gerald Ford the last time a Democratic presidential candidate was successful, will tote his wife and two young daughters to the extravaganza just as soon as his Mercury Sable is out of the shop, Kaufman, accompanied
"My 7-year-old Lindsay is just, wife and two youngsters."

At first, Lindsay Amann figured her pop was tight enough to rate an overnight stay at the White House, but daddy con-vinced her that couldn't happen hecause Bush is moving out. Amann's commission district

Kaufman, a Plymouth Township resident, said the excitement of this venture is "tempered by the thought that I'll be one of 200,000 people running around to with two semi-beplaces haved children. My 11-year-old wants to know why I can't guarantee that she can meet Bill Clin-

The judge also remarked that he had to pay $70 for a new dress his wife will wear in Washington, "Everybody says I'm lucky it wasn't more," he said. "I'm just a public servant on a fixed income." The Kaufmans and the Amanns are also staying at the same hotel, the Hyatt of Arlington, Va., for $160 per night per room. That might sound like an incredible sum to you, but it's chump change by inauguration

Candace Avery, the main spokeswoman for Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, said she's paying more than $300 a night for three nights in D.C. land.

Perhaps to save money for the hotel bill, Avery will nide the rails to Washington on Amtrak, the federal government's passenger train company. "It's a 12-hour trip," she said. "But I don't mind. I've got two good books."

Cooking with soul on the newest holiday

Stuck with the midwinter blahs? Maybe it's time you ventured into the kitchen for some creative cooking.

Why not do some cooking with soul in honor of one of our lesser known national holidays, Martin Luther King Day on Jan. 18?

Soulful cookbook

I can't think of a better reason to try out some recipes from "Sylvia's Soul Food" by Sylvia Woods and Christopher Styler, (Hearst Books, 1992, New York, $17). Ample warning: This is no diet food cookbook.

If you've ever been to New York or possibly read Gael Greene in the New York Times, you've probably heard of Sylvia Woods, also known as the Queen of Soul Food.

Woods has been barbecuing, smothering, baking and frying New York City's legendary soul food for 30 years in her world famous Harlem restaurant.

You have to understand that I'm a big fan of the locally produced Steve's Soul Food restaurant on Grand River in Detroit, but being a Yankee from Wyandotte, I've tried to prepare lip-tingling ribs, sweet potato pie and greens with minimal success.

That is, until I got a copy of "Sylvia's Soul Food" within finger-lickin' reach of my kitchen stove. Before now, I had to rely on a takeout from

Comfort food

The simple term "soul food" conjures up stickto-your-ribs delicacies like fried chicken, corn bread, black-eyed peas and cobbler.

Even though we never called it as such, momma could whip up a batch of fried chicken, giblet gravy and biscuits as light as a cloud faster than you could clean a chitlin.

We called it "comfort food," but little did I know that it was nothing short of good old down home cooking. This down-to-earth cookbook featuring recipes that lack the necessities of a Cuisinart is sure to inspire and give new meaning to your basic corn bread, fried chicken and steamed

You don't have to be a fan of "soul food" to enjoy this book; simply reading the recipes for secret ingredients like cane syrup instead of pancake syrup will certainly add new dimensions to what you and I love to eat - just good old basic food, simply prepared and served with love.

Preparation tips

And if the so-called secret ingredients won't tempt you, you'll certainly enjoy the preparation tips like rubbing down your ribs and roasts with salt, pepper and crushed red pepper and then allowing them to sit overnight in the refrigerator to develop a flavor all their own.

There's even a recipe for barbecue sauce that uses a 16-ounce bottle of Red Devil Hot Sauce (I tried the recipe and my lips tingled for a week!) that recommends never boiling or the sauce will turn dark and thin out.

If you're thinking of expanding your kitchen repertoire to include some great soul food the book is a must-have, but there are local soul food aficionados that do a pretty remarkable job.

Sweet potato

In addition to Steve's restaurant in Detroit, you can check out a company called Sweet Potato Sensations in Detroit, 532-7996.

I met the owner at a recent cooking demonstration in Rosedale Park. She sells her family secret sweet potato pie, cookies and sweet potato cheesecake at the Western Market, the Char-Broiler and the Majestic Market in Southfield, and Savon Super Foods in Detroit.

Cassandra Taylor, who dubs herself the Detroit area's sweet potato sensation, wouldn't share her secret recipe, but rumor has it that it's relatively close to the one in Sylvia Woods' cookbook.

Good soul food restaurants are virtually nonexistent in the suburbs, and if you haven't yet tried Steve's in Detroit, you might also want to check out the New Detroiter on Jefferson between downtown and Belle Isle.

Good ribs are available at the Bone Yard locally, but if you're looking for something to really tickle your lips and reek of soul, it's worth the drive to Steve's or the New Detroiter.

Kitchen folk who are looking for soul-food-like alternatives for Martin Luther King Day can easily whip up a batch of corn bread, macaroni and cheese, and steamed greens. All of which are great accompaniments to traditional soul food dishes.

■ Join the party; celebrate Chinese New Year. Cook Chinese food at home, or eat out at area restaurants which are planning special dinners.

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Most of us are taking down holiday decorations, but area Chinese-Americans are unpacking theirs to celebrate the new year. Join the party; celebrate the Year of the Rooster at area restaurants which are planning special dinners and events Jan.

Unlike our New Year's Eve which is always Dec. 31, the Chinese New Year, based on the lunar calendar, is celebrated on the first day of the first moon, which is different every

"According to the Chinese zodiac, the current lunar year is the Year of the Rooster," said Yin-Fen Pao of Farmington Hills. "Before the Western calendar was transmitted into China, the lunar calendar predominated Chinese people's life. For Chinese farmers, the lunar calendar was used as a guide for sowing and harvesting.

Each of the 12 years of the Chinese Zodiac falls under a different animal sign.

"Each animal in the Chinese zodiac has its own character and personality. A certain year of birth picks up the certain animal in the zodiac, and thus assumes the distinctive traits of that particular animal," said Pao.

People born under the sign of the Rooster — 1945, 1957, 1969, 1981 and 1993 — seek wisdom and truth. They have a pioneering spirit.

"The person born in the Year of steadiness," said Pao. "The rooster to set new routines, and resolve to is regarded as a symbol of luck and auspice.'

Marco Chin of Mon Jin Lau Restaurant in Troy said that people born during the Year of the Rooster are hard workers, shrewd, and definite in decision making, often speaking their mind.

the Rooster should be a person of ... If you guessed this is a good year be on time, you're right.

'In China, the new year celebration is just like Christmas is here," said Shen Yu of New Peking Restaurant in Garden City. "People are off work for two weeks. Family and friends get together and visit. The children receive money in red envelopes. Red means good luck,"

Before the feasting and celebrating, there is much work to be done. We pay our bills, and take care of problems so everyone can relax, and get off to a good start in a brand new ear," said Linda Parker of Hunan Palace in Farmington Hills.

All sweeping and cleaning must be done before the holiday. "To sweep after the new year begins is to risk sweeping away good fortune," said Chin.

"My mother and grandmother would cook for three days to get ready," said Parker. "The family gathered for dinner around a round table. There would always be special foods like whole fish that you don't cook everyday. You must have whole fish at a traditional Chinese New Year dinner. It means good wishes for the new year, and good things to

The crispy whole fish prepared for Chinese New Year dinners by Chef Jack Dai at Hunan Palace is a feast for the eyes and palate, and a lot of work to make.

Dai, who has more than 20 years of experience, debones a whole grouper, reassembles it to look like a whole fish, and cooks it. Served with a sauce, the fish is crunchy on the outside and moist inside. You don't have to worry about biting into a bone because there aren't any.

If you want to learn more about Chinese New Year celebrations, here are two options to consider.

The Chinese American Educational and Cultural Center of Michigan is hosting a Chinese New Year Festival, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 23 at Oceania Inn Restaurant, 68 N. Adams, Rochester Hills.

There will be more than 50 types of Chinese cuisine, workshops and cooking demonstrations, food sculpattached to the label or the neckband. Over the years, we've come to respect the knowledge of Robert Haas and his son Dan at Vineyard Brands in Chester, Vt. Bob Haas made his first trip to France to select wine in 1954. 'When I visit in spring, the smell of the smoke coming from the hurning vine prunings in the vineyards of Burgundy remind me of how some things have not changed," he said. "Many things have changed, however," said Dan Haas, who now selects the Burgundies imported by Vineyard Brands. "The economics of grape-farming in Burgundy have improved dramatically in the last decade, and the purchase price of a grand cru vineyard has escalated to a million dollars for a 2.50-acre parcel. There was something slightly off about each of the better vintages in the decade of the 1980s, but 1990 may be described as a perfect vintage. Buy 1990 or don't buy red Burgundy.

With the high cost of land in Burgundy, many producers are overcropping and we believe there's a lot of high-priced junk on the market masquerading as top-quality 1990 Burgundy. Recently, we tasted 11 estate-bottled red Burgundies imported by Vineyard Brands. All the wines were superior to exceptional and worth your consideration.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

Look for the following Domaines: Mongeard-Mugneret, Trapet Pere et Fils, Rossignol-Trapet, Henri Gouges, Joseph Matrot, Jean-Marc Boillot. Pierre Bitouzet and Enenne Sauzet. Expect the starting price of the best estate-bottled Burgundies to be around $25. They quickly escalate to between

How can you tell the Burgundy is estate-bottled; and not a negociant wine? In addition to the French phrase "mis en bouteille au (or par) domaine," the words proprietaire or proprietaire-recoltant must be on the label. The translation is; 'bottled at (or by) the property" with the additional words roughly meaning "by the owner" or

'In a great vintage such as 1990, the terroir (a' French word denoting the sum total of site, soil and; microclimatic influence) is showcased and more: pronounced differences are evident among the specific sites," said Haas. "The wines have deep color! and supple fruit; they are drinking well now, but; will also age well for 10 to 20 years.

Cloverleaf Market in Southfield sells more estate-bottled Burgundies than any other retailer in the nation. Jim Lutfy of the Cloverleaf agrees with Haas' assessments.

"Negociant Burgundies carry the stamp of the producer," he said. "Among negociant bottlings, there's very little taste difference between a Pom-

- 4 skinless, boneless chicken breast halves
- 6 tablespoons peanut oil 1 tablespoon minced fresh ginger
- 1 teaspoon minced garlic 1 tablespoon cornstarch mixed with 11/2 tablespoons water
- Sliced scallion greens for gam-

ish (optional)

Combine the sauce ingredients in a bowl and reserve.

To prepare the breading, place 4 cup of the flour in a large shallow bowl or plate. In another bowl, beat the eggs, and in a third, combine the remaining 1/2 cup of flour with sesame seeds and salt and pepper. Arrange these next to each other on a counter.

Wash the chicken breasts and trim any excess fat. Pound with a mallet or rolling pin to 1/4-inch thickeness, Then dip, one at a time, first in the flour. Pat off any excess and dip in the egg. Lift the meat, allowing excess egg to drain back into bowl, and then dip and coat with the flour and sesame seed batter. Reserve on a platter.

Heat 4 tablespoons of peanut oil in a 10-inch skillet over mediumhigh heat. Fry the chicken breasts, two at a time, until golden, 3 to 4 minutes per side. (Reduce the heat to medium if the chicken is browning too quickly.) Reserve on a platter.

While the last batch is finishing, heat the remaining 2 tablespoons of oil in a small skillet over medium heat. Sautee the ginger and garlic until their aroma is released and then pour in the sauce. When it comes to a boil, reduce to lowest heat. Drizzle in the cornstarch mixture while stirring constantly, and remove from heat as soon as the sauce thickens.

To serve, slice each chicken breast into 1/2-inch strips along the width and place on dinner plates. Spoon on the sauce and garnish with scallions, if desired. Serves 4.

The 1990 wines have been compared to the exceptional 1947 vintage, except the 1990s should prove to be more cellar-worthy, considering improved winemaking technology employed in Burgundy today.

In addition to Burgundies, other Vineyard Brand wines to consider are the Rhone wines of the Perrin family. Chateau de Beaucastel is always a superior Chateauneuf-du-Pape. At half the price is Coudoulet de Beaucastel. This vineyard borders the Perrin's Beaucastel, but is just outside the appellation. pounds total) 11/2 teaspoons salt

1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes

1/2 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper

2 to 3 cups white wine vinegal Barbecue sauce (see recipe)

To make the ribs easier to handle, cut each slab between the middle bones into 2 equal pieces. Rub the salt, black pepper and red pepper into both sides of the ribs. Place ribs in a deep baking dish, cover them, and refrigerate overnight.

Preheat the oven to 450 degrees F. Pour the vinegar over the ribs and bake 11/2 hours. Rotate the ribs two or three times during baking and spoon some of the pan juices

Remove the ribs from the baking dish and place in a single layer on baking sheets. (Line the baking sheets with aluminum foil for easy cleanup). Bake at 450 degrees for 1 hour. The ribs should be tender and well-browned. This can be done up to a day in advance. Cool the ribs, cover tightly, and refrigerate. Bring to room temperature for about T

To finish the ribs, preheat the oven to 400 degrees F. Cut the slabs between the bones into individual ribs. Place the ribs in a baking dish large enough to hold them comfortably. Speen enough of the barbecue sauce over them to coat lightly. Cover the pan with aluminum foil and bake until heated through, about 20 minutes. Serve with additional barbecue sauce on the side. Makes 8 servings.

BARBECUE SAUCE

16 ounces Red Devil Hot Sauce

21/2 teaspoons crushed red pepper flakes small onion, sliced 1 small stalk celery, sliced 3 cups tomato puree 11/2 cups water

11/2 cups sugar 1 lemon sliced

Combine all the ingredients in a heavy pot and heat just until hot. Don't bring to a boil or the sauce will turn dark, and become thin. Cool the sauce to room temperature, strain it, and store it in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator.

Makes about 5 cups. It keeps for at least a month.

Tasty sandwich packed with fiber another bowl of oat bran cereal? Are you tired of eating the same bran muffin each day to ensure you get enough fiber in your diet? There's an alternative. According to the Canned Food Information. Council, some of the highest fiber foods available are packaged in

Yet, most people are confused about how much fiber to consume, the different kinds of fiber and the best way to regulate their fiber intake. Fiber is divided into two categories: soluble and insol-Tuble, both of which you need in order to maintain a healthy diet.

Insoluble fiber, or roughage, is found in canned vegetables, such as green beans, potatoes and corn, and serves to speed the passage of food through the digestive system.

Soluble fiber, found in canned beans, lentils, peas, mandarin oranges and apples, among others, also helps move food through the digestive system and may play a role in lowering blood cholesterol levels.

While Americans currently consume an average of 11 grams of dietary fiber daily, the National Cancer Institute recommends an increase to 25-35 grams a day.

An easy way to increase the amount of fiber you eat, while adding variety to your diet, is to include many green vegetables. But it's tough to beat beans when it comes to fiber. Beans are among the few foods that contain significant amounts of both soluble and insoluble dietary fiber.

Low in fat and price, beans are the ideal choice for people seeking additional fiber. Canned limas, navy, kidney and garbanzo beans are good sources of iron and B vitamins, and like all vegetables and fruits, contain no cholesterol.

Many new varieties of beans. such as black beans with cumin and spices, picante beans with tomatoes, peppers and spices, and pintos in chiles are now available on grocery shelves. Canned beans are the convenient alternative. The canning process takes care of the soaking and cooking, so the beans are ready to serve with little effort.

More than 40 different kinds of beans are available in cans, as well as dozens of other fruits and vegetables. Here's a recipe to try.

FALAFEL

- Vegetable cooking spray 34 cup sliced green onions and tops "
- 1/2 cup sliced celery 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 can (15 ounces) garbanzo beans, drained
- 1 can (15 ounces) pinto beans, drained, rinsed
- 1 egg
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons flour 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 2 cans (15 ounces each) whole tomatoes, drained, coarsely chopped
- ½ cup chopped cucumber 2 teaspoons sliced black olives
- 1 cup no-fat plain yogurt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried mint leaves 4 pita breads, cut into halves

Spray small skillet with cooking spray and heat until hot; saute onions, celery and garlic until tender. Process beans in blender or food processor until smooth. Mix pureed beans, egg, Iemon juice, flour, cumin, salt and pepper; mix in sauteed vegetables. Form mixture into 8 patties. Spray large skillet with cooking spray and heat until hot; cook patties over medium-low heat until lightly browned, about 5 minutes on each side.

Mix tomatoes, cucumber and olives; mix yogurt and mint. Serve falafel in or with pita bread; serve with tomato and yogurt mixtures. Makes 8 servings.

Nips of nature cure winter's discontent

The winter landscape offers a peaceful stillness. There's a certain magic in the beauty of a snowfall and the glimmer of ice crystals on tree branches. Though there are pleasures to be enjoyed outside in the cold, crisp air, the warmth of the indoors invites contemplation and perhaps a twinge of

To cheer a gray day, bring a little nature inside with a lifelike bird that sings a lilting song. Touch and motion activated, this bluebird ($10) can be placed on a window sill or tied to a plant branch where he will delight with his chirping. Your cat will be fascinated!

"I picked it up and just smiled," said Erica Densel of Birmingham. Her friend, Stephanie Ignash, agreed. "You can have the sounds of spring . in your house every day.'

The Breezy Singers, which include a hummingbird and a goldfinch, are available at Natural Wonders in Twelve Oaks Mall, Novi. If you prefer the actual presence of your feathered friends, consider the MagicWindow bird feeder that suctions to your window pane. You can see them, but they can't see you.

Another interesting way to bring the outdoors in is with the award-winning video, Earth Dance ($19.95). Stunning footage of the sea, the sky and the forests fills the screen as contemporary music provides the dramatic background.

Botanical prints

A reader called to share her discovery of a new gallery in Birmingham called Barclay's, 280 Merrill. She raved about the helpful staff and the 'gorgeous botanical prints" that her husband bought her for Christmas. I was equally intrigued with this purveyor of antique art.

The Paxton botanicals of which the caller spoke are wonderful early 19th century English prints, hand-painted to depict various exotic species

Claude Monet's gardens at Giverny. Sink into a chair with your little one and delight in "Linnea in Monet's Garden." The book includes photographs of the famous Impressionist's paintings and Monet family snapshots ($11.95). Your child's first art book is made even more enchanting with the addition of the Linnea rag doll ($13.95), charmingly dressed in her gardening outfit.

For your winter's discontent - a cheerful burst of color. The Blossom Well is a carved marble bud vase with a silver enameled steel stem support ($25). A single bloom in an elegant vase brings just a touch of spring to your bedside table.

"This is the perfect gift, especially for a winter birthday," said Abbie Dawson. "The design is so unusual, and who can resist fresh flowers in January?"

Van Gogh's 'Sunflowers'

The window of the DIA shop features mosaics adapted from Vincent Van Gogh's "Sunflowers." These colorful designs include a box ($245), a round mirror ($895) and a classic urn ($595).

Not to be missed and furthering our spring theme are Tiffany lamp replicas. My favorites are the Peony floor lamp ($1,648) and the Wisteria table lamp ($698).

Another wonderful art book that pairs photographs and recipes in a celebration of the seasons is our own Cranbrook Reflections ($19.95). This culinary collection created by Cranbrook House and Gardens Auxiliary features beautiful scenes of

Mall uses promotions to beat the band

It's hard to come up with sales gimmicks year-in, year-out. But Livonia Mall marketing director Bill Checks manages to do so. His themes have included the Wild West; the Red, White and Blue; and next week, The Fabulous '40s.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

"When you're working promotions year after year, you keep your eyes open for trends, crazes, fads," said Bill Checks, marketing director at the Livonia Mall.

'I've noticed young people discovering big band music, movie buffs celebrating the 50th anniversary of Casablanca and the popularity of the old shows on cable TV. I knew I had a theme here for my winter sidewalk

The Fabulous '40s will return to the Livonia Mall Jan, 28-31 via a special series of events and programs. Highlights include The Over 40 Dance in the Club Community Room, and a free concert by the Jimmy Dorsey Band under the direction of Jim

"We have 300 $6 tickets to sell to the dance, which will be Thursday, Jan. 28, from 7-9 p.m." Checks said. 'The Community Room will be decorated to resemble a '40s nightclub complete with tables and palms. Entertainment will be provided by oneman band Rennie Kaufmann performing music from the '40s like Tangerine' and 'All of Me.'

"If the city grants me a one-day liquor license I plan to serve wine, cheese and fruit. If not, we'll have non-alcoholic champagne. There'll be plenty of room to dance besides," he

On Friday, Jan. 29, beginning at 5:30 p.m. the mall will be filled with music made popular by the Dorsey Band, credited with putting the jukebox industry in business.

This concert will be free and again we'll have room for dancing," Checks

There will be 40 prizes awarded throughout the '40s event, including a CD player and '40s CD collection, and tickets to Stars of the Lawrence Welk Show debuting Feb. 5 at the Palace in Auburn Hills.

"I expect this event to draw as many as 10,000 people to the mall in four days," Checks said. "Hopefully, they'll do some shopping at our win-ter sidewalk sales while they're here." Both Record Town and Musicland in the Livonia Mall admit that sales of '40s music is on the rise.

"Give Harry Connick Jr. all the credit for turning on consumers in their 20s and 30s to music from the 1940s," said one employee. "Addi-tionally, we sell a lot of Glenn Miller, Frank Sinatra and Harry James recordings to the senior citizens who shop in the early part of the day. CKLW plays a lot of '40s music and listeners stop in looking for these hard to find recordings."

"Also, popular vocalists like Sinead O'Connor, Michael Bolton and Robert Palmer are doing '40s classics. Believe it or not, Tony Bennett is the best-selling vocalist these days.'

What's Livonia Mall's theme for the Summer Sales?

Checks would only say, "Stay

And the Livonia Franklin High School sophomore standout swimmer may be the first significant casualty of the Livonia Public Schools' pay-to-participate sports plan.

When school budgets face crunch time, extracurricular sports are traditionally first in line on the chopping block.

But under a $140 per-person, per-sport fee compromise plan. LPS saved sports for 1992-93. Or did they?

Franklin varsity boys swimming is no more, a decision that was postponed for at least a month by athletic director Dan Freeman until he could no longer salvage the program.

Only 11 kids originally paid to participate, but the LPS council, made of up ADs, principals and members from the board office, requires certain minimums for each varsity sport. For instance, basketball, according to Freeman, requires seven to make up a bona fide Cobb and his teammates searched the halls, put up posters and tried to recruit any available swimmers before they opened the season Dec. 19 at the Western Lakes Relays at Plymouth Salem.

One eventually came into the fold, but it was discovered that three others were ineligible, leaving the number at nine. It's nearly impossible to field a swim team with only nine, particularly for dual meets.

Freeman and Franklin Principal Mike Fenchel waited until Franklin's second scheduled dual of the season, Jan. 7 against Farmington Harrison, before dropping the bad news.

Cobb's dream dunked

"I'm biased because of my kid, but it affects the whole team," said Wayne Cobb, Randy's father. The kid was totally bummed out when we got the letter (dropping the program). It's hard for a kid that young to face rejection.

The appeal process to let Cobb and any others compete as individuals could be exhaustive and Freeman and Fenchel are in the process of requesting a hearing before the MHSAA's executive staff and representative council, but that group doesn't meet again until Feb. 17 in East Lansing. They would petition for a waiver to let Cobb compete as an individual in the WLAA meet, Feb. 24-26, at Salem, giving him at least one chance to make a state cut.

"Nothing is appealable, they don't have a swim team, and they're not on our list as a bona fide team sponsored by the school," said Warren McKenzie, assistant director of the MHSAA's executive staff. "You must be a member school to compete in our state meets."

Goins fuels Rockets' victory

Westland John Glenn's inside tandem of Ken Taylor and Tony Goins proved too much for Plymouth Canton Friday night. The Rockets moved to 5-1 overall with a 10-point victory.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI

When someone asks Tony Goins about the Band-Aid on his finger, he can smile and say proudly, "I cut it on the rim."

Goins, Westland John Glenn's 6foot-4 junior forward, had a lot to be proud of Friday night at Plymouth Canton. Besides throwing down two impressive dunks, and almost a third, he scored a career-high 21 points in Glenn's 76-66 Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball vic-

Goins also held Canton's star forward Bryan Whittle to two points and four rebounds. As for the bloody finger, it came after his steal and dunk that gave the Rockets a 65-50 lead with 3:19 remaining.
"When I pulled the rim down, it snapped up and hit my hand," said Goins, who now has seven dunks in six games. "I haven't gotten the chance to do my favorite one yet. Maybe when the time is right.'

Glenn's first-year coach Mike Schuette (who needs a step ladder to touch the rim) seemed as impressed with Goins' defense as he was with his nine-of-14 shooting. Senior center Ken Taylor also was tough on the Chiefs, making 11-15 shots for a game-high 22 points and nine rebounds.

Both teams are headed in opposite directions. Glenn has won five of six games, while Canton is zero for the New Year and 1-7 overall.

"Goins took up the challenge, he played Whittle face-to-face," Schuette said. "We played pretty well, inside, I thought, and it was nice having (sophomores) Guy Rucker and Brent Washington off the bench.

Whittle made only one of four shots, had four rebounds and came out of the game after injuring his leg with 2:05 left when trying to prevent another dunk by Goins.

'Whittle didn't seem like he had his legs tonight," said Canton assistant Charlie Paye, still subbing for ailing coach Dave Van Wagoner. "The trainer said he had a possible broken fibula. When Whittle came out of the game he said he dislocated something in the past.'

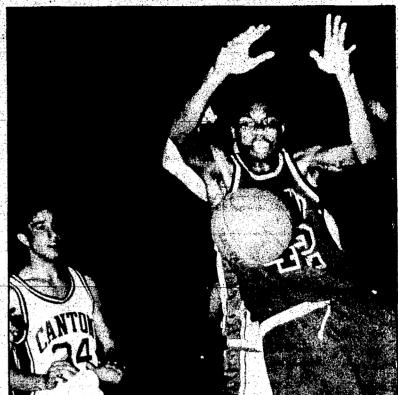

Glenn led 33-30 at halftime and made 17-22 shots in the second half to pull away. The Rockets, who enjoyed a 19-5 rebounding advantage in the second half, scored 11 straight points in the third quarter to go from a 37-32 lead to 48-32.

Goins started the spurt with consecutive baskets, John Miller drilled a three-point shot from the top of the key and added a baseline drive, and Taylor ended the run with a layup.

Senior point-guard Aaron Scheffer didn't score during the third quarter but he might have played his finest game with 16 points, six rebounds and several impressive assists for easy Glenn baskets.

"When we play well, it's because we play with five on the floor," Schuette said. "Scheffer played a good game in South Lyon (on Tuesday) and a good game tonight, too. He made some sweet passes underneath, didn't he."

Canton looked like the team with a winning record early, leading 18-14 after one quarter and 30-29 late in the first half. Junior guard Matt Paupore and senior center Owen Crosby triggered Canton's early start, combining for 18 first-half points.

But Crosby scored only two of his 10 points after halftime and Paupore was the only consistent scorer, finishing with a game-high 30 points on 12-24 shooting (including three shots from three-point range). Canton committed only eight first half turnovers before turning the ball over 13 times in the second half.

"The first half was probably our best half of the year," Paye said. "We had good movement in our offense and got the ball to the person who was hot (Crosby). The kids gave a good effort and if we keep it up we'll win down the road.'

Observerland rinks haven for pro talent

By Chris McCosky Staff Writer

When you think of hotbeds of hockey talent, you think Canada. You think Windsor, Toronto and those obscure-sounding places like Medicine Hat and Moose Jaw.

If you think United States, you might think Minnesota or Massachusetts or upstate New York. It would probably be a while before you got around to thinking about the Observer & Eccentric area. Well, think again.

"When you look at the quality of the players produced in this area really unbelievable," said Craig Button, the director of amateur scouting for the Minnesota North Stars. "This area produces more quality players than any other area in the U.S. I'm from Montreal, but the North Stars asked me to move here (Ypsilanti) three years ago because the depth and breadth of hockey talent is so good."

The area Button is talking about is southeastern Michigan. And when he lists the great players from this area he includes the likes of Pat Lafontaine (Waterford), John Vanbiesbrouck (Detroit), Craig Wolanin (Grosse Pointe), Kevin and Kelly, Miller (Lansing) and Kevin and Derian Hatcher (Sterling Heights) and Jimmy Carson (Grosse Pointe).

Still, the largest concentration of talent in southeastern Michigan comes from the 12-community O&E area. There are now 23 players from the O&E area playing professional hockey, nine in the NHL.

The nine are: Adam Burt from Westland (Hartford); Mike Donnelly from Livonia (Los Angeles); Mike Hartman from West Bloomfield (Tampa Bay); Al Iafrate from Livonia (Washington); Todd Krygier from Northville (Washington); Mike Modano from Livonia (Minnesota); Chris Tancill from Livonia (Detroit); Mark Howe from Lathrup Village (Detroit); and Rich Kromm from Livonia (New York Islanders).

"That's quite an accomplishment for an area in the U.S.," said Chris Coury, a Red Wings scout and the general manager of the Little Caesars' AAA elite hockey program. "You take a place in Canada like Toronto and you have a quarter of a million kids playing hockey. There's almost as many kids playing hockey in Toronto as there are in the entire U.S. So to have that many quality players come out of one area like that is really impressive."

System breeds quality

It's not difficult to see why this area produces such a high quality and quantity of hockey talent. The steps up the ladder of success are all securely in place. They need only to be climbed.

"There is a good system in place here and excellent facilities for development," Coury said. "It all starts with the local associations and the communities really do a good job of getting them started and getting them exposed to the game."

The Livonia Hockey Association the largest in the area with 725 members, introduced the game to Tancill, Modano and Donnelly. Infrate couldn't get into the overcrowded LHA and wound up cutting his hockey teeth at the Winter Wonderland facility in Detroit. Burt got his start with the Redford Hockey Association. Hartman played first in the Oak Park house leagues before joining a Southfield travel team. Krygier, Donnelly, Hartman and Kromm honed their skills during the summer in A.J. Baker's Midwest Summer Hockey League in Plymouth.

Garden City, Westland, Plymouth, Birmingham, Southfield and Wayne also house strong amateur hockey programs.

"Because of the strong local programs, we are able to target the good players at an early age and get them into the more elite programs," Coury said. "The better the program, the better the instruction and competition, the better the player.'

There is certainly no shortage of elite programs in the metro Detroit area. Coury's Little Caesars program features 250 teams, including seven elite (AAA) teams between the ages of 11 and 17. Compuware sponsors the Tier II Junior A Ambassadors in the North American Junior Hockey League and the Detroit Junior Red Wings in the Ontario Hockey League. The United States Hockey League (Junior A) also recruits heavily in the metro Detroit area.

"The big advantage of playing in the Detroit area is its proximity to Canada," said Button. "These kids in the elite programs are always competing in the big tournaments in Canada. You just can't beat that quality of competition.

'I just got back from a tournament where the Little Caesars' team played against teams from Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal and they lost in the fi-

Talent boom or bust?

Yet, there are those who believe the area's talent pool is drying up.

"The players you are talking about the Modanos and Infrates and Hartmans - were a product of the late 1960s and early 1970s, a great growth period in U.S. hockey," said Jack Vivian, an Ann Arbor-based scout for the New York Islanders. Right now, this area is very thin as far as talent. Things are healthy in this area through the midget level. But after that, it's real bad. The level of play in the NAJHL is really on the decline. I don't see any Mike Modanos coming through. I don't think we will see anybody in the next four or five years that would be comparable to those guys."

Erie (N.Y. Rangers)

Coury agrees.

"In actual fact, there is less talent today even though there are more opportunities for players," he said. "It will be interesting to see what happens in the next few years."

Wayne bumps off Belleville

By NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

It's hard to call a game important this early into the high school basketball season, but when Wayne Memorial and Belleville meet, the game is alwave vital.

The winner of the matchup is usually in the driver's seat to capture the Wolverine A League. The two teams have each won the league title twice in the past four years, and if history repeats itself, the Zebras have started their excursion to the title in dramatic Behind two free throws by senior guard Dontez Prewitt with 19 seconds remaining Friday, Wayne escaped with a nail-biting 50-49 victory over the host Tigers.

There's no one on the team I'd want more at the line in that situation," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said.

Prewitt, who led a balanced Wayne attack with 10 points, was held scoreless in the second half until he drove through the free-throw line and dished off a pass. The Tigers' Doug Walters was called for a block.

With the home crowd roaring, Prewitt calmly sank both free throws to give the Zebras a onepoint lead.

"I've always wanted to be in that type of situation," Prewitt said. "I was nervous and kind of scared, but had confidence. I knew my teammates had confidence in me and were behind Prewitt's heroic free throws proved almost meaningless ás: Belleville's Nate Griffin drew a foul on Wayne's Nate Bishop with nine seconds left. But the senior guard missed both free throws and Wayne was able to pull out the win.

Wayne improved to a perfect: 8-0 overall and lead the league with a 5-0 mark. The Tigers fell to 5-4 overall and 4-1 in the

'We have a one-game lead and that's all we have," Henry said. "We have to play Belleville two times a year, maybe three times if you include the districts. We're happy now but there are too many big games down the road.

The Zebras took awhile to get going as they went nearly three minutes before scoring. Fittingly, it was Prewitt who got Wayne going with a tip-in and three-pointer.

After the teams dueled to a 10-10 first quarter, Belleville jumped out to a 24-19 advantage. Wayne went on a 7-0 run hefore Doug Walters' triple at the buzzer gave the Tigers a 27-26 edge.

The Zebras dominated the shooting turn cold. The Tigers made only three of 15 shots as Wayne took a seemingly comfortable 41-34 lead into the final quarter.

For the game, Wayne converted 19 of 49 shots (39 percent) compared to Wayne's 20 of 47 accuracy (43 percent).

The Zebras led by as many as 10 in the fourth quarter before Belleville came back on a 11-2 run, cutting deficit to 47-46 after a triple by Garland Johnson (11 points).

After a Bishop free throw gave Wayne a 48-46 advantage, Johnson made a spectacular underhand scoop and was fouled. He made the ensuing free throw which gave Belleville a one-point lead with 33 seconds left, before Prewitt's free throws put Wayne back on top.

Junior forward Ralph Truitt paced the Tigers with 12 points. Rod Hardison added 10 points for Wayne.

Ten different Zebra players scored.

Henry is looking forward to Friday - the last day junior point guard Andre Graves' ineligibility (academics).

"By getting him back, we will be getting our best point guard and a good leader in the game at the same time," said Henry, who added that his play may make Wayne a great team, instead of a good team.

Devon-Aire closing creates concern

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

Devon-Aire Ice Rink manager Bob Kukla answered the telephone at about 7:40 Thursday night but he couldn't talk.

"Can you call back after nine o'clock? Kukla asked. "I'm right in the middle of Open Skate and I've got over 200 people here to-

Devon-Aire, as usual, was abuzz with people and a Zamboni machine but a year from now there might not be any noise coming from the building on West Chicago east of Merriman Road in Livonia.

Devon-Aire, which remains a popular spot for Open Skate and a practice facility for the Livonia Hockey Association and Livonia high school teams, is scheduled to close not only for winter but for good on March 1.

Devon-Aire, one of two ice rinks owned and operated by the city of Livonia, was sidelined as the city tries to trim $2 million from its 1993 budget of $38.5 million. Twenty-six full-time jobs were lost in the new budget and Devon-Aire was one of many facilities to either be shut down or continue with reduced hours.

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett said Devon-Aire over the last four. years has operated at an approximate loss of $63,000 per year. Another concern with Devon-Aire if it remained open are repairs, such as replacing the roof, which would cost as much as $200,000, according to Bennett.

Mark Nelson, a member of the LHA's Board of Directors, doubts that Livonia's remaining rink, Eddie Edgar Arena, will be enough to accommodate everyone. Nelson said the closing would cut our association (teams and players) in half."

The LHA has used Devon-Aire mostly for practices, while Eddie Edgar Arena, which has bleachers, is used for games, practices and skating lessons.

"We didn't set out to close Devon-Aire," Bennett'said. "We had to go to each department, including the Mayor's office, police, fire, Department of Public Works, Parks and Recreation, and had to find ways to trim the budget. It's a painful decision but there are a lot of painful decisions."

Bennett is "certainly interested in pursuing ideas that would serve to keep Devon-Aire open. but under the current budget constraints, (the city) can't do it."

The LHA is the largest hockey association in Michigan, according to secretary Linda Henderson, with 42 teams and approximately 774 players. The LHA has formed a committee to look into the possibility of keeping Devon-Aire open.

Nelson, chairman of the committee, said the LHA is considering buying Devon-Aire from the city and taking over operations and maintenance. There also is the possibility another enterprise or non-profit organization could buy the rink, he said. Bennett said he sent the LHA a report on how much it would cost to own and operate the rink.

"We don't feel Devon-Aire has been singled out - the city is trying to keep Devon-Aire open, not only for the LHA but for recreational skaters," said Nelson. 'I've never been pessimistic, always optimistic. It may involve. the association to take an active role in operating the rink, it might involve raising ice rates. We're exploring different ways to do it."

Kukla can't imagine only one rink in Livonia.

"I sit here, see what goes on and ask myself 'Why?" he said. We have people in here tonight from age two to 81 and they look forward to this. Someone needs to take it over and do a good job."

Penalty time costs Shamrocks, 4-3

Redford Catholic Central hockev coach Jack Gumbleton has implored his players to stay on the ice and out of the penalty box.

His words apparently fell on deaf ears. Perhaps actions will speak louder than his words.

Wednesday night, the Shamrocks were slapped with 28 minutes of penalties which Allen Park Cabrini converted into three power-play goals and a 4-3 victory over No. 2-ranked CC at the Allen Park Ice Arena.

Churchill dry spell proves costly

Don't be surprised if Livonia Churchill basketball coach Tom Lang posts the following advertisement in the school's hallways next week: "Wanted: Top gun. Player(s) capable of contributing 15 to 17 points on a consistent basis.'

"The kids play hard all the time," said Lang, after his Chargers succumbed Friday to Western Lakes rival North Farmington, 48-39. "I just can't get anybody to step forward and be a scorer for and I play everybody. I couldn't be happier with the defense. They're aggressive and they never quit. But in this conference, we won't win many games scoring in the 30s.'

Mark Rutherford's 12 points kept Churchill close for 31/2 quarters. In fact, Churchill got within five points midway through the final period before North iced the victory from the free throw line. North hit 16 of its 31 free throws, including six of seven in the final minutes by John Pennala. Churchill hit just five of 12 from the stripe.

"They were much bigger than we were and the big guys always seem to get the advantage," Lang said. "But if we had been able to do better from the line, we'd have hung right in there.'

Doug Dolak led North with 13 points and 6-7 center Evan Ellis tallied 10. The Raiders are 2-0 in the conference, 4-3 overall.

Churchill falls to 0-2 in the conference, 1-5 overall.

Junior Calvin Pruitt led the victorious Hawks with 16 points and nine rebounds. Don Bryant, Ryan Cahill and Keye Smith each added 11 points. Jeremy Teachman dished out seven assists.

Harrison is now 1-6 overall and 1-1 in the Western Lakes. Stevenson (3-3, 1-1) played without top scorer Chris Chichila, who underwent surgery for a broken finger. Brad Morgan and Adam Roy scored 11 and 10 points, respectively, in a losing cause.

SALEM 77, FRANKLIN 63: Unbeaten Plymouth Salem got a tougher-than-ex-pected battle Friday against host Livonia Franklin before earning the WLAA triumph.

James Head, a 6-foot-6 junior, paced the victorious Rocks (8-0, 2-0) with 17 points, 14 rebounds and seven assists. Brothers Mike and Brandon Slone chipped in with 13 and 12 points, re-

LPS, however, rarely grants indistrict transfers because of athletic reasons.

The LPS semester term ends Jan. 29, but the MHSAA may not act or even grant a hearing about Cobb until Feb. 17 unless Roberts or the representative council speeds up the process.

The other alternative is to petition the MHSAA (by April 15) to run a cooperative swim program with another school next season.

Because of low turnouts at two schools, Walled Lake Central and Western now compete as "Walled

But there are no guarantees that would be approved when the MHSAA meets in May.

Meanwhile, Cobb and his teammates sit back wondering what move they should make.

The first move should involve a member of the LPS administration, either Superindentent Joseph Marinelli or Director of Secondary Education Ken Watson.

They should get on the horn with

Roberts and get some kind idea of what is forthcoming by the MHSAA. The MHSAA can eliminate the red tape and show compassion in this kind of case. It's hard for me to believe the MHSAA continues to look the other way when certain Detroit Public School League basketball powers can recruit from all over the metropolitan area. They also look the other way when parochial schools accept student-athletes on scholarship.

Give a kid like Randy Cobb, who also happens to be an all-A student, a break.

Crusaders come back down to earth

Reality set in for Madonna University's women's basketball team Thursday.

The Lady Crusaders visited Spring Arbor College for a game against the pre-season pick to win the NAIA District 23. They took with them a perfect record (2-0) in district play.

That record did not remain that way for long. The Cougars rolled to a 49-25 MADONNA lead by halftime and coasted to a 90-60 triumph, a win that raised their district record to 2-1 and made them 7-10 overall. Madonna slipped to 2-1 in the district, 8-10 overall.

Mary Bieniewicz (from Farmington Hills Mercy) and Cheri

Sangregorio each scored 12 points for Madonna. Stephanie Niebauer added 10, while April Blanton grabbed seven rebounds. For Spring Arbor, Kristin Nobach had 18 points and Liz Chriscinske netted 17

Turnovers spelled the difference. The Crusaders had 34 in the game, many forced by Spring Arbor's pressure defense.

Stevenson pins Salem

Heavyweight David Ross of Livonia Stevenson came through in the clutch Thursday, pinning his opponent Ryan Guiliani in 1:45 to give the Spartans a 35-28 wrestling victory over visiting Plymouth Salem.

It was only Don Berg's second dual meet victory against Salem in 10 years as coach.

"We're young, we have only two seniors in the lineup, but we're getting better," said Berg, who last beat the Rocks in 1988.

Stevenson, now 3-0 overall and 2-0 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association, took a 29-28 advantage into the final match after 189-pounder Craig Martin won his bout on an injury default against Salem's Phil Haynes.

The Spartans trailed 13-0 and 22-4 in the early going, but rallied behind wins from Jon Sata (125), a 10-1 winner over Dan Barnett; Scott Goldman (140), a 13-2 decision over Steve Hughes; Chris Mullett (145), a pin in 5:17 against Aaron Lapinski; Mike

We will follow David's career. ■ The Wayne-Westland Bowling Association held its annual 700 tournament last weekend at Westland Bowl.

The event, which is open to bowlers who have at least one 700 series to their credit, had a starting field of 90 competitors. The competition was narrowed to the final five for locally televised step

The finalists were Westland's John Hurley, Jr., Livonia's Bob Brown, Inkster's Richard Farr, Livonia's Jeff Hanson and Inkster's Tuck Miller.

Every match was close and exciting, including the final event, which Hurley decided in the last frame. Hurley won the $1,000 prize along with the first-place trophy.

Such is not the case. The problem doctors face in treatment stems from their knowledge that the pain car come daily and do so for years. Given this condition, use of strong pain killers such as narcotics is precluded.

If you are young, use of narcotics brings possible addiction. If you are elderly you have no such concern. However, taking even low dose codeline brings on the possibility of drug related loss of coordination and equilibrium; you are at substantial risk for a fall. In turn, injury can bring on a broken hip, leg or skull. Any of these complications cause expense and distress far beyond the joint pain you presently feel.

In treating arthritis, physicians must rely on mild pain relievers in addition to heat, rest, medication and time.

Tucker 50th anniversary

Fred and Shirley Tucker of Englewood, Fla., formerly of (30 years) Farmington, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, Nov. 21.

They were married in Farmington on Nov. 21, 1942.

They were childhood sweethearts. Fred was in the military during World War II and the Korean and Vietnam Wars. He retired in 1976 when they moved to Venice, Florida in 1979.

They celebrated with a family dinner given by their three sons, Larry, Mark and Glenn, their wives and grandson at Brighton House, Brighton.

Their daughter Cheri, her husband and granddaughter of Venice, Florida gave a party for them on Saturday, Nov. 21.

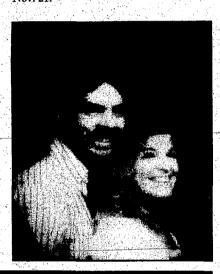

Boruff-Steller

Larry and Flo Boruff of Garden City announce the engagement of their daughter Sherri to Mark Steller, son of Tom and Linde Steller of Howell.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Gar-den City High School and is attending Henry Ford Community College for a career in the medical field.

Her fiance is a graduate of John Glenn High School and is employed by Northwest Airlines as a mechanic.

A June wedding is planned in St. Dunstan Church.
