Schools respond to violen

An increase in school violence has prompted the school administration to propose the use of unarmed private security guards for the district's secondary schools. The district wants to improve the safety of students and employees.

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Alarmed by school violence, Wayne-Westland officials will consider hiring unarmed private security forces to guard the outside of the district's high schools and junior highs.

The school administration could recommend the proposal to the school board as early as Feb. 8.

Some board members have hedged on possibly hiring armed guards or police officers to patrol school hallways, saying they don't want a prison-like atmosphere to haunt schools.

But the administration appears prepared to suggest that unarmed guards should be placed outside of secondary schools, though security

"They would not be armed. I can say that definitively," said Bill Taylor, associate superintendent for em-

Mayor won't accept 7-percent pay raise

Mayor Robert Thomas said he will keep the freeze on a proposal to increase his salary 7 percent.

That decision means that the mayor, elected in late 1989, is entering his fourth year of his first term getting the same $68,310 salary since taking the position - forgoing about $9,000 in income during his four-year term.

Under the 1989 pay hike approved by the Local Officers Compensation Commission, the mayor's salary was boosted to $70,359. During the campaign later that year in which he defeated Mayor Charles Griffin, Phomas said if elected he wouldn't accept the higher salary

The commission, which meets every two years, froze the salaries of elected officials when it last mbt in 1991.

Even though he is refusing to accept the raise, Mayor Thomas said Friday morning that the commission's recommendation is fair and equitable" and that the panel "did a good job and did its homework" but that he is bound by my (1989) campaign promise.

I don't want the commission to think because of my decision to refuse the raise that it made an error in recommending raises," he

On Wednesday morning, the commission debated the merits of continuing the financial freeze for elected officials or if a raise is considered how much it should

After 45 minutes, the commission agreed 4-2 to approve a 3 percent raise, effective in early March, for one year and a 4 percent increase for the following 12 months.

The commission's action boosts the salary of individual city council members, who auto-matically receive one-seventh of the mayor's salary. Following the 1989 commission pay action, the council accepted the pay increas-

On paper, the mayor's new salary will be $72,470 starting next month and $75,368 the following year. The salary for each council member will be $10,353 this year and $10,767 the following year. Currently, each receives $10,051.

The commission heard an ap peal from James Estep, who said he was forced to accept an earlyretirement buyout from General Motors, that salaries of the city's elected officials should continue to be frozen.

'I feel the council is overpaid for what they do," he said.

Estep also criticized the "push and pull" practice of public employees in other communities getting raises, prompting local officials to use that as a comparison to justify a pay increase.

The commissioners supporting the pay hikes were chairman Rev. Jack Spitza, Phil Gram, Albert Gaura and Richard Honaker. Opposed were William Raglin and Reasther Everett.

Raglin was opposed because he wanted to get budget figures before voting on any raises because "I want to know what we have to work with.'

Everett described herself as the stingy one" in questioning where the money will come from to pay for raises.

The commission heard a report that other Westland municipal employee unions or supervisory groups received raises last year ranging from 71/2 to 8 percent for two years for most employees. The one exception was the firefighters union which received an arbitrator's award of 17 percent over two years.

The commission was established under a state law in the 1970s to eliminate the ongoing political problem in most communities in which elected council members were able to vote on their own pay

Under the law, the council has 30 days from the time it receives the commission's report to reject the raises. If no action is taken or the council fails to reject the pay increases, the increases will be implemented in 45 days.

Commissioners noted that in the late 1970s and early '80s, the mayor's salary was far less about $7,000 - than those paid to department heads.

The group also noted that the actually dollars involved in the proposed raises - about $4,000 a year in a budget of more than $25 million - wasn't as important as the message it would give to local residents who may be struggling financially.

Compared to other nearby comparable cities this year, Westland's mayor is in the middle of the salary range. The other cities surveyed were Livonia ($84,400); Dearborn ($73,473); Taylor ($70,709); and Dearborn Heights ($58,383.61).

The salary schedule for Westland's department heads has a maximum of $58,431 with the actual salaries ranging from $47,756

Two Westland appointees dumped in 'control' feud

BY LEONARD POGER

Mayor Robert Thomas insists that he replaced two directors of the Municipal Service Bureau board because he wants a change and that more changes on city boards and commissions are planned. 🔍

But one of the removed MSB directors said the mayor's action was a move by Thomas to "control" the quasi-public organization.

Mervin Simpkins, ousted in January after being on the board for nine years, told the Observer that he feels the mayor wants control of the MSB board.

Thomas "may be doing a good job as mayor, but he wants control," commented Simpkins, ousted last month along Richard Honaker, also a nine-year board member.

Honaker declined to comment on his ouster by the mayor.

The new board members are Michael Gorman, Thomas' finance director, and Robert Bianconi, a real estate appraiser who does financial analysis for subsidized apartments and also serves on the city's police-fire departments' pension board.

The issue of control over the MSB board surfaced more than two years ago when Thomas, in his first year as mayor, tried to fire municipal golf course manager Carl Morton. But the mayor was told by the bureau he didn't have the power to do anything with the bureau, other than to name its five-member board. The control issue bubbled to the surface again last summer when he urged the city council to drop the bureau and put the municipal golf course and sports arena operated by the group directly under the mayor's administration and the recreation department.

That problem erupted when the administration pointed out a potential legal point relating to the city's insurance liability if someone is hurt at the arena or course.

ly said it wanted to fix the insurance problem instead of putting the arena and course under the city's recreation department as proposed by Thomas.

The mayor said Friday that replaced Simpkins and Honaker be-

"I just wanted to make cause changes. He added that he felt "more comfortable" with the two appointees. Thomas said he may make changes on all city boards and commissions.

The bureau was formed in the late 1970s by the city to provide a less-costly method of operating the municipally-owned arena, on Wildwood near Hunter, and the golf course, on Merriman south of Cherry Hill.

Over the years, the arena has required financial subsidies from the city council but is now breaking even, the council was told last

Among other measures, Taylor plans to recommend to the board next week that an in-house suspension program be launched at all secondary schools, in hopes of such as the Franklin shooting, keeping some student offenders in school and off the street.

Instead of being suspended, students would come to school for four hours a day, mostly in the afternoon, and be supervised in a closed setting, separate from regular classrooms

Pupils would qualify for the inhouse program for infractions such as minor insubordination, tardiness, truancy and repeated failure to complete homework.

Students would continue to be expelled for serious offenses such as bringing guns to school.

The in-house suspension program — if approved by the board - would be offered at each of the secondary schools, except the Ford center, Taylor said.

The four-hour program would be scheduled so that students could ride buses home in the afternoon, but they would be required to find their own latemorning transportation to school.

One school, Marshall Junior High, would offer a full day of inhouse suspension so that district officials could compare it with the half-day program, Taylor said.

Wanted: Mentors caring enough to reach out to troubled youth

By LEONARD POGER EDITOR

WANTED: Men and women who are energetic, good listeners, willing to work with troubled youths and who feel they can make a difference in the life of a youngster. They must also believe that an investment in youth today is an investment in our society of tomorrow. Call 467-7904.

That's that the type of mentor the newly organized Westland Youth Assistance director wants to be confidents for troubled boys and girls 7-16.

"The only skill needed is to be good listener," said Ronaele Bowman, who started Dec. 1 as program director.

The qualifications are that applicants be 21 or older and have no police record. Bowman added that all applicants are screened, have their references checked, and are interviewed before being named a mentor.

Bowman said she is also making numerous public appearances in her current drive to recruit mentors. Those appearances are to be before the Westland Business and Professional Women's Club, Lutheran High School Westland, Goodfellows, Host Lions Club, Jaycees and Soroptimist Club as well as the Livonia Exchange Club which includes many Westland residents.

Bowman will also distribute fliers to local schools.

Those picked for the program will undergo a 15-hour training program, to be held 6-9 p.m. Wednesdays, starting Feb. 10, in a Bailey Recreation Center meet-

A professional trainer will lead the session. Bowman will attend to answer questions and also observe the mentors to see "their strengths and weaknesses and see what kind of youths they would be matched with.

She said 10 people have volunteered for the mentorship program so far, divided evenly between men and women.

Bowman said the new program is a "cost-efficient, communitybased program of delinquency prevention." It will provide an individualized treatment plan for local youngsters who are have truancy, vandalism, anti-social behavior, shoplifting and behavior problems in school or at home.

"The emphasis will be on the behavior of the present," she said.

"The youths will be motivated to function cooperatively, to respect themselves and others, and totake responsibility for that ac-

The philosophy of the program, she added, is that "many youths who have behavior problems lack the experience or expertise in coping with the pressures placed on them at home, in school and in their neighborhoods with other peers. Their behavior problems are symptons. The staff persons (which include Bowman and program assistant Carol Germain) and volunteer mentors help the ouths explore the causes of such behavior and how to handle problems more positively.

Youths get involved in the program through parents, the youngsters themselves as well as referrals from local schools, police department or juvenile court.

The value to the mentors in the program is that they help prevent violence and substance abuse in society, Bowman said. "The volunteer can make a difference in someone's life."

Persons interested in the program or being a mentor may contact the Youth Assistance Program, 467-7904.

Longshot pays off: Michigan woman finds niece

Becky Kecskes knew it was a longshot when she asked for the media's help in finding a niece she hadn't seen in 18 years.

But she gambled and won, and Friday she was on her way to Nashville, Tenn., to be reunited with her niece, Christina.

Kecskes, a Monroe County resident, telephoned the Observer in early January to ask for help in her search for her niece, on the mistaken belief that she now lived in the Westland-Garden

Kecskes' family lost contact with Christina when - at age 5 authorities took her from her mother (Kecskes' sister) amid allegations she had been abused.

The niece lived with her paternal grandparents - and then in a series of foster homes.

Kecskes began searching for Christina five years ago, when she would have turned 18.

"I thought that since she was an adult, she could make her own decisions about whether she wanted to see me or any of the family," Kecskes said.

Kecakes had heard that her niece lived in the Westland area. but she encountered numerous dead-ends until she sought help from the media in early January, touching off an unlikely chain of events that helped her find Chris-

First, the Observer agreed to tell her story, amid hopes that any local residents who might know the niece would contact the

The published story caught the attention of Channel 2, which called the Observer and asked to be put in touch with Kecskes, who then repeated her story in a television report.

The TV report caught the attention of one of Christina's adoptive relatives, and the relative telephoned Christina in Nashville and told her about it.

Christina, in turn, telephoned Channel 2 and asked to be put in touch with Kecskes, completing the chain of events that brought the two into contact late last week. Kecskes and one of her brothers left Michigan on Friday to drive to Christina's Nashville home for a visit.

"I am so tickled," Kecskes said, in a telephone call Thursday to the Observer, "Nobody had ever told Christina about her mother's side of the family, but she always knew we were out there.'

Kecskes and her niece talked for 11/2 hours Thursday night. Kecskes learned that her niece now has a child of her own, a 7month-old boy.

She also learned that Christina moved to Nashville only in late 1991 and that the niece lived most of her life in the metropolitan Detroit area.

"She lived in Rockwood from '86 to '91, and that's where I grew up," Kecskes said.

In a bizarre twist, Kecskes learned in her conversation with Christina that the two of them even knew some of the same people in the Rockwood area.

"I just couldn't believe it,"

Kecskes is eager to tell Christina about the many relatives she has never known. For the trip to Nashville, Kecskes took along numerous pictures to help Christina learn about her family. "I'm just going to give her a big hug when I see her," Kecskes said. She hopes that Christina also will pay a return visit to relatives in Michigan. Kecskes thanked the media for taking an interest in her story. She said it appears that fate brought her in contact with her

"It just wasn't meant to happen until now," she said Friday, shortly before she left for Nashville for a weekend trip.

Military academies attract graduates

By DIANE GALE SPECIAL WRITER

The next time you think about escalating college tuition costs, consider sending your child to a top-notch institution where all expenses are paid and students earn salaries.

The U.S. military academies also pay for uniforms, food and lodging.

The payback is a five-year commitment for the Army and the Air Force, according to Leo Schuster, principal of Franklin Junior High School in the Wayen-Westland district.

Schuster told a story about a young man from the district who could not afford to pay college tui-

"This guy is in a top-notch institution and he's doing beautifully," Schuster said. "I like to see these kids, who probably couldn't go to (the University of) Michigan or Eastern (Michigan University), because they couldn't afford it, and they can go and get a solid education.

Most cadets have completed their five-year commitment usually as an officer — in the army or air force by the time they're 27.

Schuster rattles off the perks of attending an academy as if he was selling his own business instead of talking about an all volunteer job as zone area coordinator primarily for the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, New York State. While he recruits for West Point he often passes along information for the naval and air force academies.

13 in academies

Currently 13 students from the district's two high schools Wayne Memorial and John Glenn are attending services academies. Of the 72 schools that are in Schuster's recruiting zone, mostly including communities with zip codes that begin 481, Wayne-Westland has the highest rate of acceptance into the academies.

"I feel proud and pleased that voungsters from this community can do so well," said Schuster adding that the district is patriotic and also boasts one of the highest rates of people in Michigan who enter the military.

"People of this community aren't aware of the fine programs in this district. People are very critical of our school district and I can say I've got kids who went to this school (Benjamin Franklin) graduated from high school and went on to an academy.

And that's not an easy accomplishment.

To get into West Point, students must pass rigorous testing and qualifications. The test inty based on grade point average, academic test scores and generally being in the top 10 percent of their classes.

Another 30 percent of the evaluation is based on leadership ability, athletics and participation in school activities.

The final 10 percent is based on a physical and health exam. After applicants are accepted they have to be nominated by a U.S. senator, U.S. congressman or the vicepresident of the United States. Only 1,400 cadets, of 14,000 applicants, enter West Point annu-

"Not every Harvard or Yale student could get into West Point, because they probably don't have the physical ability or leadership ability," Schuster, a Novi resident, said. "You have to be well rounded."

And once they're accepted, the hurdles aren't over. The physical and academic requirements are tough. Saturday classes are common. "Every cadet is an athlete and every athlete is a cadet,' Schuster said. "You will participate. In the summer time they go through military training."

The highest number of scholarships are given to students at Harvard, Yale and West Point. The academic programs at the academies are "second to none," said Schuster, a former Wayne memorial assistant principal and former John Glenn assistant principal and teacher.

They are patriotic students, people who want to give something back and who want to do something for their country.

The former Marine said he enjoys his volunteer work, because it gives him a chance to give back to a system that benefitted his sons. Capt. Eric Schuster of West Point and Lt. Kurt Schuster of the Air Force Academy.

Students get information

"The government really provided a $250,000 scholarship for both of my sons," Schuster said adding they traveled to Europe, Korea and other places during training.

Schuster holds regular meetings to expose students - usually starting at the junior high schools - to what the academies have to offer. He tells them what classes they should take and that involvement in school activities is important.

"When I got into the service I had an opportunity to go to (the U.S. Naval Academy) Annapolis," Schuster said adding that he didn't know enough about the academy to follow through.

Lawmakers say pay-raise is small, reasona

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Risking significant political damage in the process, three area state representatives voted for a 5-percent pay raise last week, but said the raise is justified because it's really small.

"There's never a good time for a pay increase when you're a public official, but we ought to get them now and then," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, who helped block the move by Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, to refuse the raise, which was proposed by the State Officers Compensation Commission.

SOCC's job is to suggest a pay increase for elected state officials every two years. In 1991 the legislature refused to accept a 13-percent raise suggested by SOCC. Kaza and others opposed the they did in 1990.

budget is tight and it would look bad for representatives to take a raise while cutting the budget in other areas.

The new annual salaries, which go into effect Jan. 1, 1994, are: $112,000 for governor, $84,000 for lieutenant governor, $112,000 for supreme court judges and $48,000 for legislators.

The vote to overturn SOCC's suggested raise would have passed on a two-thirds majority, but missed that mark by five

The new raise will go into effect four years after the last raise, which works out to a 1.25-percent increase per year, not enough to keep up with inflation. So in real spending power the representatives will make less in 1994 than "Five percent over four yers is not out of line," said Rep. Ja Dolan, R-Farmington Hills who voted two years ago to turndown a 13-percent raise, but votd last week to retain the latest raie.

Rep. William Keith, D-larden City, voted for the raise, rguing that "for the effort require to be a good state legislator, the s a responsible salary."

Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights, also voted against the raise. "I felt that the general public was overwhelmingly op-posed to it," he said, noting that the fiscal 1993 budget has to have another $400 million carved out of County officials get raises, too

Wayne County elected officials will also benefit from the pay raise state officials got last week when the House failed to block it. In 1989 the county commission passed an ordinance tying the annual salaries of the county executive, clerk, treasurer, sheriff, prosecutor, register of deeds and commissioners to the governor's

The county executive's salary is set at 97 percent of the governor's pay, so current Executive Edward McNamara's take-home goes

The salaries of the other county officials are slaved to McNamara's.

Prosecutor John O'Hair's pay is 90 percent of McNamara's, so he goes from $93,000 to $98,000.

The pay of Clerk Teola Hunter. Sheriff Robert Ficano and Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz is 75 percent of McNamara's, so they go from $78,000 to $81,000.

Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood gets 70 percent of McNamara's pay, so he oes from $72,000 to $76,000.

Wayne County's 15 commissioners get a base pay f 40 percent of McNamara's pa, so they go from $41,000 to $43,00.

The commission chaiman, currently Arthur Blackwel, D-Detroit, gets an addition! $12,000 over and above the base ay.

WASHINGTON - A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regiment can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in re-cent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often over-looked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Theremogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited

Scientist seeks cancer clues

By Mary Lou Song Staff Writer

For a decade, Virinder Moudgil and his team of scientists at Oakland University have been researching RU486, not for its use as the controversial abortion pill, but as a potential cancer-fighting agent.

Now, he says he is one step closer to tapping that potential.

"First, we had to establish condition, to see how it works in normal tissue before we can see how it works in cancerous tissue."

Moudgil, who has studied progesterone for more than 20 years, is now studying the effects of RU486, an anti-progesterone, on breast and uterine tissue. In normal tissue, estrogen and progesterone help grow and maintain cells.

While no evidence has shown that estrogen or progesterone cause cancer, the two hormones seem to enhance the growth of cancer once it begins, he said.

Tamoxifen, which blocks the flow of estrogen to some cells, is already used in the United States as hormonal therapy for post-menopausal women with breast cancer. Moudgil said he has begun work to show that RU486 stunts the growth of cancer by blocking the flow of progesterone to cancerous cells.

"At least give it a chance," Moudgil said of RU486. "Don't ignore the possibilities totally. Even if there are no benefits, at least we tried. If the other effects are not there, then we will know and simply accept it.

"But we must seek the truth. If we find the truth, then we go on. But not to seek it is a mistake. The social obligation of a scientist is to seek the truth. In that way, I'm doing my duty as a scientist."

But for some scientists, research on the drug in the United States has been hampered by government policies. Mougdil said that while he has been luckier than other researchers in the United States, he supports scientists in Europe who have easier access to the drug.

"It was my opinion

"It was my opinion for many years, that as long as we had the White House attitude promoted by Presidents Reagan and Bush, who had very strong pro-life influences, that it would be difficult to explore the potential," Moudgil said.

With President Bill Clinton taking the helm, the White House may be more supportive of research efforts and potential uses of RU486.

"With the thange in administration and attitude, the time has arrived," he said. "We can start an aggressive effort to examine all the potentials of this very unique drug."

While Moudgil admits that the public recognizes RU486 as an abortion pill, he said there is still much to be learned about its effects. One mystery is that 96 percent of women who use RU486 as an abortion pill are affected. The other four percent don't respond to a single dosage:

House Dems share power only on paper

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Despite a 55 to 55 House deadlock. Republicans may be right when they say they're the winners in the "shared power" deal.

On paper, it looks like an even split. Republican Speaker Paul Hillegonds of Holland and Democratic committee chairs rule in January, March and May. Democratic leader Curtis Hertel is speaker in February, April and June while Republicans hold committee chairs.

But look beyond numbers and your high school civics lessons.

In the past, Democrats had not only a 60 to 50 majority; they used the power of committee chairs to bottle up legislation that the full House was likely to pass. Exam-

House Judiciary Chair Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, would sit on abortion restriction bills.

■ House Judiciary subcommittee Chair Lyn Jondahl sat on bills to outlaw assisted suicide.

Speaker Lew Dodak, D-Birch Run, used a fast gavel adjournment in the middle of a roll call to prevent an auto insurance reform bill from becoming law.

■ Appropriations chair Dominic ("Godfather") Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, used both political and personal prejudices in parceling out pork, programs and patronage. Now that Jacobetti's 18-year tenure is under fire over staff spending, even Democrats are admitting he was a problem.

Rules changed

Veteran Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-

Livonia, understated the case when she said, "My Republican colleagues and I still believe we have a philosophical majority, and that will help produce an atmosphere geared toward accomplishing our policy goals."

It's not a mere philosophical majority on policy matters that Republicans and conservative Democrats enjoy. It's the opportunity this year to bring pet measures to the floor without a procedural donnybrook.

The fine type in the "shared power" agreement spells out still another advantage for Republicans. Republican leader Hillegonds gets to refer "all Republican sponsored bills and joint resolutions to committee." Hillegonds also gets to make the committee assignment for Senatepassed bills sponsored by Republican senators. Democratic leader Curtis Hertel has the same power over Democratic bills and resolu-

In the past, Democratic Speaker Dodak, who was defeated for re-election, assigned all bills to committees. Certain committees became known as burial grounds for bills that Dodak or his predecessors — Gary Owen, Bobby Crim and Bill Ryan — didn't like.

Suppose a bill is locked up in committee because five Republi-cans support it and five Democrats are opposed, leaving no majority to report it out, Well, 12 times a year, a co-speaker may cast an "extraordinary vote" to bring the bill to the full House they benefit from bringing up more bills for floor votes.

Finally, both parties will have equal numbers of committee staff, caucus staff and personal staff. Dodak had used his power to strip Republicans he particularly disliked — such as Margaret O'Connor of Saline - of even office staff.

Those 55 Republicans aren't a monolithic bloc, however. Hertel insists Democrats have a philosophical majority on auto insurance, for example.

Senate shifts

Meanwhile, on the Senate side, Republicans increased their majority by two when Gil DiNello of Macomb County switched his affiliation after the election.

Few gifts actually improve with age. Your bank sells one of them.

You can count on one hand the gifts that actually get better as they get older. There's only one, though, you can buy at your bank: a U.S. Savings Bond.

The longer Savings Bonds are held, the more they're worth. You buy Savings Bonds for half their face value. They earn competitive, marketbased interest — compounded semiannually, when held for five years or more —with a guaranteed return. And they're absolutely safe.

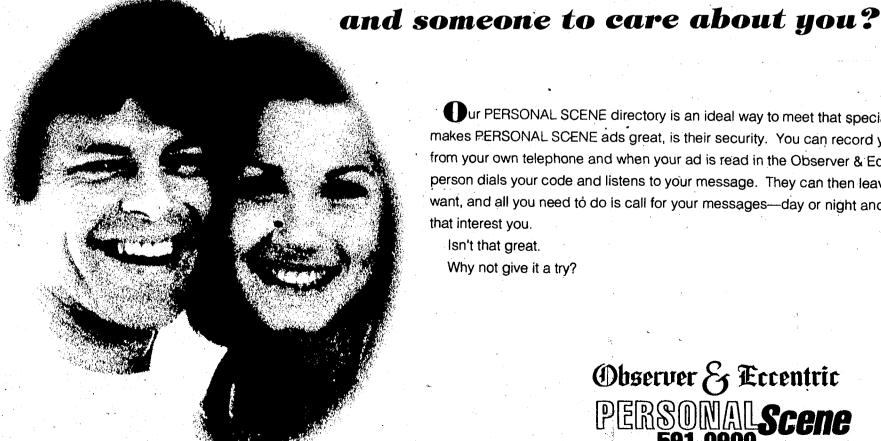

Savings Bonds are easy to buy, too.

Order them at any fullservice bank, savings and loan or credit union, and ask for a gift certificate to give now. When the person receives the Bond in the mail, you and your gift will be remembered for years to come. Visit your bank for

Remembering isn't fun for this anniversary

here's some guy in New York whose job it is to look up anniversaries and then newspapers go out and do local stories about them.

The latest to be dredged up is the 25th anniversary of the year 1968. I won't be celebrating. Any sentimentality is wasted on that year.

No, I won't drag myself through all the details, but here's a box score for the year: Robert Kennedy assassinated, Martin Luther King assassinated, the Tet offensive in Vietnam and Richard Nixon elected.

Anyone of those events would have made it a memorable year, if you look at things that way. A much younger co-worker recently expressed nostalgia for that era because of the social change that took place.

It didn't seem so much fun at the time. I was 20 that year and spent it at Wayne State University, wondering if I'd be plucked up at any moment and dropped into Vietnam.

Like others, I went back and forth between wanting to either go over there to kill the little guys in black pajamas or head north to Canada. Either option seemed better than waiting around.

Then there were the assassinations. I shook hands with Robert Kennedy in Detroit's Kennedy Square and within a month he was dead. King was dead just about the time I started listening to him.

And by the fall friends were asking where I was going to be when the revolution came.

My answer was always Cleveland, probably for the same reason that W.C. Fields always said "I'd rather be in Philidelphia." Being anywhere than where you were would have been better.

where you were would have been better.
At 20 you're supposed to be chasing girls, getting an education and learning how to drink whiskey. You aren't supposed to be worrying about politics and war. There's always plenty of that stuff to deal with.

JEFF COUNTS

This really struck me this past Christmas when my living room was full of 20-year-olds from Livonia, Farmington Hills and Westland — all friends of my 20-year-old son.

My son's girlfriend, a Farmington High School graduate, doesn't have to worry about my son being sent on a tour of Southeast Asia.

Sure, there are worries. AIDS has certainly put a dent in dating and the employment future for these college students is grim, but at least these kids can talk about a future.

It wasn't like that in 1968. Things are better now. Sure it sounds romantic to think back about student protest, social change and rock and roll. But the flip side to that tune was violence, drugs and hopelessness.

There was a reason hippies headed to the hills to make candles and stare at their navels.

It sure beat reality in 1968.

Tax plan is O/K

he Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency Board of Education supports the Olmstead/Kearney Proposal for School Finance Reform and Property Tax Relief. We are convinced that the education of our children is an absolute necessity in providing for a society that will be productive, competitive and stable. We urge other boards to join us in supporting the proposal.

Education, however, cannot be completely isolated from other human services. Children and adults should be provided adequate local and state services to enable them to have physical and mental health resources, environmental protection, social services and those other programs that enable individuals to be productive and reasonably secure citizens.

We, therefore, urge human service providers to align with us in the O/K reform movement and join us in an effort to seek adequate state funding to provide these programs.

We urge the governor and the legislature to close state loopholes, and review abatement procedures, and if state revenues are determined to be inadequate for the funding of the O/K Proposal, to increase state taxes or fees sufficient to meet the needs of the state. Personal services taxes, income taxes and increased sales taxes are but a few that should be reviewed.

Let us unite to provide all youngsters with adequate food, housing, clothing, health services, family assistance, personal protection and education, to make our state the greatest.

Think about move was visiting the area over the holidays. I saw reports on the TV about General Motors Corp. families moving to Arlington. The G.M. families here don't know if they'll survive in the next few years.

It wasn't that many years ago when lots of Michigan families came to Texas believing there were jobs. A lot of them ended up moving back, and losing. I don't want to see history repeat itself.

My point is, please come for the right reasons. Have an education that will back you up. Jobs are harder to come by, unless you're educated, or can start your own business. Most of the businesses down here are small and the wages are lower, on average. The state taxes are high, 7.75 percent. Insurance is double, and there are surcharges galore for just about everything. The laws here are not as protective as in Michigan.

I lived in Michigan for most of my life, and in Westland for 25 years. It's a very different way of life. I hope my letter helps some people to think differently about Texas, and move for the right reasons.

Media errs in coverage

ome media people around town are taking an awful chance when they print or broadcast the name of someone who has yet to be arrested or arraigned.

That happened in the case of Jeffrey Richter, a West Bloomfield resident arrested Jan. 22 and charged under Michigan's new anti-stalking laws. A West Bloomfield woman made the complaint against Richter; he was arraigned Saturday.

We waited until he was arraigned to print his name. In the meantime, we ran detailed stories including everything but Richter's, and the victim's.

Here's how the arraignment of Richter came about: The victim filed a complaint with the West Bloomfield Police Department, which pursued a warrant through the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

The police got the paperwork — a felony warrant under the new laws — and then spent what turned out to be a very short period of time tracking Richter down. The time from the granting of the warrant to Richter's arrest was three or four days.

That's very good police work, but not so good media work. As soon as the warrant was issued, most media outlets used Richter's name — prior to his arrest. That's dangerous for two reasons:

■ What if the warrant hadn't been served? A lot can happen between the time a warrant is issued and executed. For instance, the complainant can drop the charges, which is not an uncommon occurrence.

If the charges had been dropped, police wouldn't have been able to make the arrest. But in the meantime, most of southeast Michigan knew some guy named Richter had been hunted for stalking a woman.

That's hard to recover from. Had Richter not been arrested, a lot of journalists would have been scrambling to unravel the damage they did to him by naming him in connection with the crime.

■ One is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The act of arraignment is the first public step in the legal process to charge an individual with a crime. At that time, the public has a right and obligation to know the name of the suspect.

Ask yourself this question: Would you want your name spread all over town in connection with a crime — if you hadn't yet been formally charged with the crime?

PHILIP SHERMAN

The point is that a person's name, unless that person is a prominent individual in the community, probably won't mean anything to the vast majority of the people who read, see or hear it. It's the details of the crime that need to be aired.

The only exception I can think of is when police believe an individual can be an extreme danger to a community such as a serial killer. In that case, the community has to be able to protect itself, and part of that would mean running the risk of printing the suspect's name.

But under normal circumstances, when an arrest is made and there's finally an arraignment, that's the time to make public the name of the alleged offender.

It's your wedding day: put on perfection

The ceremonies of life require special attention to detail and intricate planning. Few occasions allow us the luxury of expressing our dreams and fantasies. Our wedding day is one of those rare times when we can "put on perfection," as poet John Donne bids brides-to-be.

If you are joyously planning an upcoming wedding, you know this to be true. You've undoubtedly spent countless hours debating china and crystal patterns, selecting flatware and silver serving pieces, in hopes that your choices will endure.

And on the day itself, nothing less than perfect will suffice. The dresses, the flowers, the music and the cake, are all seemingly endless details. that will transform the sacred ceremony into an expression of your tastes and of your heart.

Luckily, there are some local merchants and experts who can guide you through this arduous process and can even provide you with some cher-

Brides often ponder an appropriate token of appreciation and love to give to the members of the wedding party. Rene Haefner of Farmington Hills discovered the exquisite perfume bottle ($42.75) pictured, and shared her discovery with me.

The Genie Bottle, as it is called, is displayed prominently at the Bon Ton Shoppe, 23320 Farm-

The legendary genie is said to make all your wishes come true as he transports you to a land of bliss and romance. Thus, a fitting gift for those you cherish.

Gift-giving is, of course, an integral part of the wedding ceremony, but it begins long before the wedding day. Showers are held to provide the bride and groom with those necessities of house and home that all of us eventually accumulate over years of marriage.

Fondue, anyone?

How many fondue pots have you sold in long-forgotten garage sales? Someone was a lucky recipient of your faddish '60s discard. Fondue is "in" again, according to the folks at Crate & Barrel in the Somerset Collection. The fondue set pictured ($39.95) is requested by a majority of the 50,000 brides-to-be in the Crate & Barrel registry. This set features a white enamel pot with six forks and ceramic dipping bowls. The addition of a beechwood lazy Susan ups the price to $84.95. Perfect for a casual newlywed get-together.

I encountered Kathy Sherldan of Troy while browsing the multi-level Crate & Barrel store. Kathy especially liked the white-on-white ivy embossed ceramic bowls and platters newly featured in a large display.

"White serving pieces always make great gifts," she said. "They can be formal or casual." Her mother, Anne Daly from Rochester Hills, agreed. You never tire of white and it will go with any color china the bride may have chosen.

Reining in on getting hitched

More than 800 listeners nibbled at their chicken salad, heard a guest speaker playfully discuss communication differences between the sexes, oohed and ahhed through an hourlong bridal fashion show, and then met with 75 different manufacturers representatives to discuss crystal patterns, bedsheets, bouquets and honeymoon lingerie.

"Think about all the special touches you can incorporate into your wedding day to keep the memory alive," she said. "Include the reading of a poem. Steve Myers is a former schoolteacher who grew up in Grand Haven, then went to teach in Japan in 1970 at the age of 28, learned the language, married Suzuki and returned to Michigan in 1978.

Ken was born in Grand Rapids in 1979, lived in Japan from 1980 to 1982, then returned to Michigan. He says that Japanese was his first language, but father Steve says both Ken and his sister Jun (pronounced joon) grew up with two tongues, English and

"That's of course what hap-pened," Steve said. "They get straight A's."

For Ken and Jun, the English and Japanese languages were simple, spoken around the house and around the neighborhood as they were.

Other languages have not been as easy to come by. Steve believes that the best way to learn a language is to live in a place where it's spoken.

So Ken was boarded with a family in Vera Cruz, Mexico for a whole summer two years ago when he was 11 years old. Then last summer he stayed with a family in Seoul, South Korea, where he learned not only the Korean language, but how conservative Korean families can be. He wasn't allowed in the yard without permission, for example. And he wasn't permitted to close his bedroom door at night.

But it couldn't have been all bad, because Ken, a seventhgoing back next summer to brush up his Korean. "Then I think I'llgo back to Mexico and get my Spanish back up," he said.

Ken began teaching for the first time at Cranbrook school in Oakland County in 1989 at the age of 10. Steve and his wife were already teaching at Cranbrook, and Steve thought it would be cool if Ken taught Japanese to elementary-age students. So he did

That worked out well and led to a cable TV show (teaching the Japanese language) with Metro-Vision cable. The show, which now features Ken and sister Jun, airs 6:30 p.m. on Wednesdays in Livonia and at 7 p.m. Monday and 4 p.m. Wednesday in Farmington and Farmington Hills.

A member of Schoolcraft College's Talented And Gifted program advisory committee took note of Ken's TV show and told admissions counselor Robert Burnside about it, suggesting that perhaps Schoolcraft would like Ken to teach Japanese to the 8-to-14-year-old kids in the TAG pro-

Technically, Schoolcraft couldn't hire someone as young as Ken, so his dad was hired instead.

Real smart: Ken Myers, 13, and his sister Jun, 11, teach a Japanese language class on public access cable TV in Livonia. Ken also teaches Japanese to young children at Schoolcraft College in the Talented And Gifted program. Standing behind Ken and Jun is their mother, Izumi Suzuki.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Pancakes: they're not just for breakfast or every meal, every course, from appetizer to dessert, there's a pancake. A traveler could circle the globe and find some form of this international favorite - in sizes as small as quarters and almost as big as manhole covers stacked for breakfast, glorified for dessert, stuffed for entrees, rolled and sliced for hors d'oeuvres.

Call them hotcakes. Call them crepes.

Call them blini.

Call them palacsintak.

Call them pfannkuche — they're all pancakes.

Pancakes are much closer to man's original bread than our baked loaves.

It was on hot stones set before the hearth fire that simple "ashcakes" of ground cereal and liquid were baked in the days of the caveman

Can you imagine what the poor souls had to go through to get syrup or honey? Today's pancakes are a fluffy, tender, civilized version of an ancient bread.

Pancake traditions

Pancakes have been known to be intertwined with religion, tradition and legend. Jewish people eat them on their holidays - during Hanukkah, latkes, potato pancakes.

During Passover pancakes are made with matzo meal and no leavening. During Shavuoth, when dairy dishes are eaten, cheese blintzes, which are similar to pancakes, are served.

In early Christian days, when Lent was a time of abstinence from meat as well from animal foods like milk, cheese and eggs, pancakes became a treat for the day before the beginning of Lent.

Shrove Tuesday pancakes are still eaten in many countries. In England, Shrove Tuesday is often called "pancake day".

Pancake legends

Let's not forget the old North American legend about Paul Bunyan. He had a pancake appetite so big that, according to legend, he needed a grill with a corral around it, and grain elevators to hold

Concrete mixers were said to have churned the batter which emerged in 4-foot waves onto a griddle greased by cooks who skated over it with slabs of bacon tied to their feet. (Sounds like some of the Janes clan at the last family reunion!)

cakes. Basically, all start with a batter consisting of flour, butter, eggs and milk. Taste and texture differences begin with the addition or omission of a leavening agent such as yeast baking soda or baking powder.

Should you prefer to use yeast, it would be best to allow the batter to "ripen" for at least 6 to 8 hours before beginning to cook.

Personally speaking, I think the lightest pancakes are achieved by the separation of the egg yolk from the egg white with the yolk being beaten into the batter and the white being beaten separately until stiff but not dry, and then gently folding the egg white into the batter and pouring the batter immediately onto a hot, greased griddle.

Prepackaged mixes with names like Bisquick and the locally favored Jiffy mixes mean that pancakes can be made with the simple additions of egg and milk.

Whereas I would be the first to admit that a box sits on my pantry shelf for a quick breakfast fix, the homemade version that requires the cook to sift the flour, and includes an arsenal of leavening stirred into melted butter and buttermilk, is still a personal favorite.

The shake-and-pour mixes available on grocery store shelves are a virtual recycler's nightmare and after trying a batch, yours truly would rather make a batch from scratch than deal with the lumps

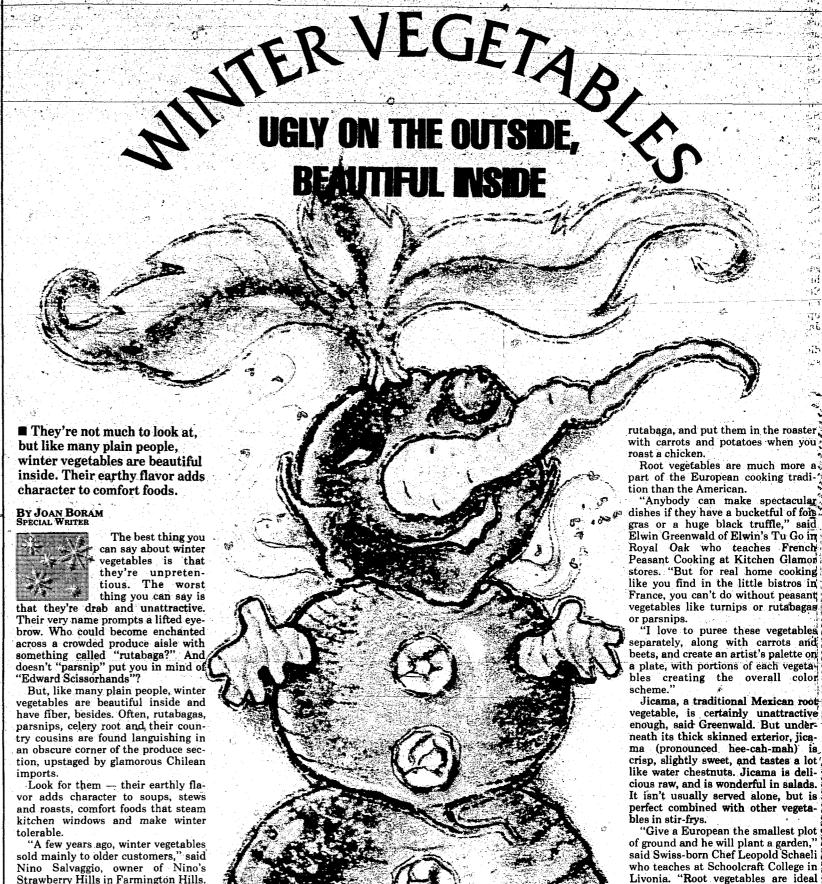

Here's a secret tip used by the great chefs before they begin to cook their favorite pancakes. Heat up the griddle or fry pan from the start with a small amount of grease or butter to coat the pan bottom. After the pan is heated significantly, pour out the grease, wipe with a clean cloth and add more fresh grease or butter and heat accordingly.

Then, just before the pan begins to smoke, add your batter. Always throw out your first pancake, as it only begins the seasoning of the pan and collects too much of the pan taste.

Then, repeat with the grease and you're in business. Stuffing them, rolling them or whatever. . I Root vegetables are much more a part of the European cooking tradition than the American.

"Anybody can make spectacular," dishes if they have a bucketful of fois gras or a huge black truffle," said Elwin Greenwald of Elwin's Tu Go in Royal Oak who teaches French Peasant Cooking at Kitchen Glamor stores. "But for real home cooking like you find in the little bistros in France, you can't do without peasant vegetables like turnips or rutabagas or parsnips.

"I love to puree these vegetables separately, along with carrots and beets, and create an artist's palette on a plate, with portions of each vegetables creating the overall color

Jicama, a traditional Mexican root vegetable, is certainly unattractive enough, said Greenwald. But underneath its thick skinned exterior, jicama (pronounced hee-cah-mah) is crisp, slightly sweet, and tastes a lot like water chestnuts. Jicama is delicious raw, and is wonderful in salads. It isn't usually served alone, but is perfect combined with other vegetables in stir-frvs.

Give a European the smallest plot of ground and he will plant a garden,' said Swiss-born Chef Leopold Schaeli who teaches at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. "Root vegetables are ideal for the small garden because you can leave them in the ground until you want to eat them. In some cases, freezing actually improves the fla-

Celery root is knobby and misshapen, but Shaeli said it's a favorite with Europeans. It has the delicate flavor of celery, to which it's related, and adds a lot of depth and mellowness to soups and stews.

"There's so much you can do with these vegetables once you past their rough exterior," he said.

Nothing makes Mary Denning happier than seeing people smile as they walk into her cake shop in Westland. She's won numerous prizes for her cakes, but the challenge to do something she's never done before that makes her grow as a pastry chef, not prizes, motivates her to keep entering contests.

In December, for the sixth year in a row, Denning took home the first-place, best-of-category trophy in a contest sponsored by the Detroit Metro Bakers & Allied Club.

Denning grew up in Westland, and lives in Garden City. She began taking cake decorating classes from the Wilton Company when her kids were small, and discovered she had a knack for it. As her children grew, so did her talents, and pretty soon Denning was teaching classes.

She got a job at Iversen's Bakery in Detroit. worked there two years, left to work at Baker's Loaf in Southfield, and after two years, was hired by Farmer Jack's to manage the cake-decorating department. She traveled to different stores, teaching cake decorating, and left to open her own shop.

'It's neat to have a job where someone pays you to do what you want to do," she said. For Valentine's Day the shop is decked out with tiny heartshaped single serving cakes, truffles, chocolate Valentine cards, Valentine baskets, decorated cupcakes, cookies and other treats.

Valentine treats: Mary Denning knows a lot of sweet ways to say "I love you."

Denning enjoys sharing her talents with others and for the past four years, she's taught two classes at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn advanced pastries and hotel and restaurant desserts. Her students have won prizes in various culinary arts contests which brings her a lot of joy. For the past four years, she has also served as president of the Michigan chapter of the International Cake Exploration Society, and has written articles about cake decorating for various trade publications.

Family:

Mary and her husband Charlie, a lathe operator, have been married 23 years. They have two children. Jennifer Still who is married to Scott, and Jerry. Jennifer works at the shop and is studying elementary education at Eastern Michigan University. Her brother helps out on vacations, and in the summer, and is studying engineering at Central Michigan University. Mary's father-in-law, also named Charlie, is retired, and comes to the shop every day to sweep, wash dishes, and lend a hand better to peel with a paring knife

■ Celery root — Delicious in salads: julienne, grate or shred, celery root and serve with slices of beets, carrots and tomatoes with a vinaigrette sauce.

■ Jicama — Mexicans like jicama sliced, and sprinkled with chili powder, lime juice and salt. Chill and serve with drinks, or slice jicama and serve with dips as an alternative to crackers.

■ Kohlrabi — Strictly speaking,

Kohlrabi isn't a root vegetable, but a swollen stem formed above the ground. If you're ambitious, you can stuff cooked kohlrabi shells. Otherwise, serve raw, in soups or stews, or stir-fry.

■ Parsnips — Delicate with a sweet, nutty taste, serve parsnips raw or diced, and add to stews and soups during the last 15 minutes of cooking. Bake with apple wedges, a sprinkling of brown sugar and orange juice for 50 minutes in a 325 degree oven.

■ Rutabagas — Larger, rounder. denser and sweeter than turnips, serve rutabagas raw, or in soups and stews. Mash cooked rutabagas and season with butter, brown sugar and cinnamon.

■ Turnips Cultivated as a staple food for about 4,000 years, serve turnips as a crudite with vegetable dips or mix shredded raw turnip with salad oil and lemon juice accented with mint for a refreshing salad

■ Ginger — They don't come much homelier than ginger, but you can beat it for enlivening foods with its distinctive flavor. Knobby ginger root (actually a rhizome) has dull brown skin, fibrous flesh, and a spicy hot flavor when mature. To use ginger, rinse and scrub, peel with a paring knife. Thinly slice, sliver, grate, or chop to use in stir-fries, marinades, salad dressings or wherever your taste dictates

Weygandt-Metzler wines Discover new and different

Did you ever yearn to be the first to stumble upon something new, different and exciting? If so, then you'll appreciate the story of Peter and Maria Weygandt and their discovery of virtually undiscovered wine - undiscovered. that is, until they began the business of importing it to the United States four years ago.

Peter Weygandt caught the wine bug while in law school in New York City. He read about wine extensively and became a frequent visitor to Manhattan's fine wine shops. He and his wife, the former Maria Metzler, who is fluent in French, began taking trips to France's wine regions. They delighted in discovering wines that were not available in the U.S. and decided to obtain an import license. They formed Weygandt-Metzler Importing Ltd., a veritable cottage-industry importing firm operating out of their Unionville, Penn. home.

The soul of Weygandt-Metzler is France's small domaines. These wines are new entries into the Michigan wine scene. So new, in fact, that the first shipments arrive today. If you've been stuck in a rut with your wine-drinking habits, make a resolution to discover new tastes from some estate producers you've probably not wines heard of before.

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Master Sommelier Fran Kysela, who for his tender age of 35 years has a vast knowledge of French wines, is national sales director Weygandt-Metzler. This spring, he will become a partner with the Weygandts and the company name will be changed to include Kysela.

Kysela, who makes his home in Virginia, is no stranger to Michigan. He did his Master Sommelier internship at Detroit's Whitnev and the now-closed London Chop House.

Chateau de la Greffiere ($10) produced from 45-year-old vines. We find many chardonnays too oaky to harmonize with delicate seafood, but that's not the case

The wines of Provence are delightfully fruity and fresh, but those making their way to the U.S. are frequently disappointing. The 1990 Domaine des Aspres Rouge ($8) produced from syrah, grenache and cabernet sauvignon is highlighted by lush, rich berry fruit and a peppery finish representing a big mouthful for the money white wines find a Vouvray from France's Loire Valley too sweet for their taste. If this is your position, for a new experience, try the 1990 Benoit-Gautier Vouvray Sec ($12). Sec means dry in French.

Chateauneuf-du-Pape aficionados might want to sample an unfiltered wine from this renowned southern Rhone region. 1990 Robert Sinard Domaine Saint Laurent Chateauneuf-du-Pape Non-Filtre ($17) produced from 35- to 40-year-old vines is complex and very well balanced with long-last-ing peppery flavors. "This is a new wave style," said Kysela.

Straight from the heart

Wear your heart on your sleeve, or any place else for that matter. These handmade pins from bits 'n' pieces feature romantic and comic Valentines from the early 1900s. Each one (covered with Lucite) is embellished with odds and ends like charms, rhinestones, chain links and bits of old jewelry. Some sayings are direct: "I want some." Others are coy: "Be mine?" Sisters Cathy and Mary Adams shop flea markets and antique shops to make their one-of-a-kind baubles which, they say, make great conversation pieces ($20-$30). For information, call 540-4206.

Let 'em eat cake

The folks at Home Bakery in downtown Rochester worked up the design for this tasty alternative to a traditional candy heart box. This 10inch Victorian sweetheart cake may look like a box of chocolate-covered petit fours, but it's all cake, promises Lois Hennessey, who runs the familyowned shop with sisters Laura and Lynn Kuczaj da. The pink and white, two-layer cake (all edible) features a hand-shaped gum paste bow, cornelli lace and poured chocolate frosting over the "can dies." This special order heart cake takes seven hours to make, but it's worth it, they say ($68). For information, call 651-4830.

Malle and Irons do 'Damage' in their latest film

Louis Malle's best movies focus on the incongruity of relationships. Remember the May-December romance between Susan Sarandon and Burt Lancaster in 'Atlantic City," Wally Shawn's awkward and hilarious "Dinner with Andre" and the mother-son coupling that climaxes "Murmur of the Heart"?

So it comes as little surprise that "Damage," Malle's latest, pairs a distinguished member of Parliament (Jeremy Irons) with his son's attractive young girl-district. Just in most predictable in its provaca-

Despite it's shop-worn view of obsessive love, "Damage" has a resonance. Malle, who has been making movies here and in his native France since the 1950s, works the story for all it's worth.

Irons' brilliantly played politico is introduced as a stuffy, passionless man as stiff and methodical at home as he is at work. His wife, the daughter of a veteran cabinet minister, pushes him into higher positions of power. When Michael MOVIES finds out about his son's new surprising, almost inexplicable flame, Anna, he's openly cynical about how long it will last.

Michael meets Anna and is stricken by her subtle mysteriousness. She calls him for a rendezyous he calls her for another, and soon he's tailing Anna and son Martin on a trip to Paris, spying on them through a hotel window across a courtyard.

'Damage" can be viewed as either a sophisticated study of reck-sex scenes. Anna and Michael engage in ecstacy on the kitchen counter, on the floor, in a Paris alleyway, and once even in bed.

"I can't see past you," Michael confesses during one of their trysts, obviously thrown for a loop. She is cool, however, and uncomfortable with her lover's plan to leave his wife. "Why do you want something that you already have?'

Juliette Binoche, best known as the heroine in the pretentious 'The Incredible Lightness of Being," makes an intense and quietly powerful femme fatale. On the rare occasions when she does talk, she dredges up a troubled past. Damaged people, she says, survive even when the rest of the world crumbles around them.

Miranda Richardson, a busy actress in recent months with "The Crying Game" and "Enchanted April," has the thankless job of playing the cuckolded wife. Try as she might with emotional fireworks at the end, she brings little new to this familiar role.

Irons has also traveled this road before in "Swann in Love' and especially "Betrayal," Harold Pinter's experimental tale of marital infidelity. The script for "Damage," based on a popular novel and adapted by David Hare, is so bleak that it makes Pinter look like Monty Python.

'Damage" retains its literary qualities and keeps the action appropriately claustrophobic. It heaps on the irony and foreshadowing while rarely allowing any joy into the characters' doomed

Darkness defines "Damage" but it doesn't make it especially enjoyable to watch. Dramatic, screechy violins back a movie that expects its audience to be patient enough to recognize the welldrawn characters swimming beneath a murky surface of routine British sex and scandal.

and your readers. The district teaches a health curriculum 80 hours in length; three forty-five minute classes are on homosexuality. In these classes, it was to be taught that 10 percent of the population is homosexual and that homosexuality is an inborn trait that cannot be 'caught" or learned.

Further, it was also to be taught that pedophilia, or sex with young children, is primarily a problem of heterosexual men, not of homo-

Conservative groups argued with these claims. They contend that the 10-percent figure is much too high and that only 1 to 5 percent of the population is homosexual. The district has agreed to change its instruction to be more in alignment with this contention.

Also, as I understand the changes, they will contain a more balanced view of homosexuality. The conservative groups are concerned that the instruction advocated, not just described, a homosexual lifestyle, and because the groups applied pressure, it will be now be taught that pedophilia is as prevalent in homosexuals as in heterosexuals.

Most of the parents in the district support tolerant education about homosexuality, but those who don't are vociferous in their arguments.

Since this controversy began I have heard many things about it. Recently, a friend told me that she has known many men who were accosted by other men during childhood and adolescence. To her, this means that pedophilia is more common among homosexuals. She said that she thinks that young boys are ushered into a gay lifestyle through these experiences. Is this true? Another friend said that her child said that after learning about being homosexual she would never want to be because the lifestyle is too hard. I had always thought that if you were born gay you had little choice. Do you know the answers to these questions? Do we need to worry that our children will be taught to be homosexual, or can we relax with the understanding that they are getting a well-rounded education that includes a humanitarian acceptance of many different kinds of people?

I thank you for your attention to this subject. Chris

Dear Chris

These are excellent questions; but let the reader beware, there is no final word. No one knows all of the answers. These issues are new and the changes in our culture are young; we do not yet have good. unbiased statistical studies that could help us to a clear view.

Homosexuality, since it came out of the closet, has been a hotly politicized issue. Whenever an issue is politicized, statistics are used for persuasion and not for discovery of the truth. When an issue is politicized, the numbers that are quoted will depend on one's bias, not on any consideration of balance and fairness. Authoritatively voiced statistics were thought to be a sophisticated argument until people caught on to the farce. We have learned that they often lie.

Throughout the nation, this is sue is being debated. Even the most thoughtful educators and parents can't agree about what is best for the young people they sincerely want to educate.

Whenever we educate, we find that there is a percentage of our audience that will ignore our instruction no matter what we do. For example, if the instruction is on safe sex, some, let's say 25 percent, will not use condoms regardless of what they are taught. Another, let's say 25 percent, wouldn't have sex with or without any instruction on the issue. So that is a ballpark figure of 50 percent for whom instruction made no difference. We are left with 50 percent who could change the way they think or act as a result of what they are taught.

We hope that with this group the education we provide will lead in a positive direction. In my example of safe sex, that would mean less promiscuity and greater vigilance about using condoms. In the case of homosexuality that would mean greater tolerance without idealization of a homosexual lifestyle and no experimentation with it. But even with the very best of intentions, there will probably be a small number of students who are highly impressionable and already in a state of chaos, and who will not use the education in the positive way we had hoped for.

Homosexuals will say there is zero percent chance of this happening. Homophobics will exaggerate the percentage upward. Unfortunately, we do not know the accurate statistics either way,

With this choice and with any other choice there is a price to pay. Each person has a right to be respected for his or her choice. As well, we are all responsible to be aware of the danger of our choices, however small.

County autistic kids bound for Washington D.C.

BYRALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

A little late for the inauguration, but still pumped up like bi-cycle tires in spring, 11 autistic students from Garden City's Burger Center school will trek east in March for a visit to Washington, D.C.

Most of these students in the future will never have the opportunity to travel on their own, said Burger teacher Debby Furlow, and so the importance of a simple extended field trip grows in accordance with the condition of the children involved.

Borgess owns glass in victory over CC, 70-68

In a battle of Catholic League Central Division basketball rivals, Redford Bishop Borgess held on for the victory against Redford Catholic, Central, 70-68.

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

When it comes to rebounding, Redford Bishop Borgess cleans the glass with Windex.

The Spartans, bolstered by the play of frontliners 6-foot-5 Perry Robinson 6-3 Charles Smith and 6-8 Randy Whitfield, went to the backboards with a vengeance, squeaking out a 70-68 Catholic League Central Division victory Friday over visiting Redford Catholic Central.

Robinson collected a team-high 27 points to go along with 13 rebounds. Smith, also active around the hoop, added 19, while Whitfield contributed 14 points and 15 rebounds. Junior guard Rahzar Riley also got into the act, scoring 11.

The win gives Borgess an 8-3 overall record and 4-2 slate in the divi-

"We were relentless on the boards, but we also took a pounding to do it,' said Borgess first-year coach Glen Donahue, who notched his 600th career coaching win, which includes 515 in the college ranks and 75 in high school. "Rebounding saved us. Sometime we've got to play some defense."

The Spartans couldn't check 6-5 senior forward Brian Paluk of CC, who peppered the nets for a gamehigh 32 points on 12 of 20 shooting from the floor.

Despite Paluk's heroic efforts, CC fell to 5-7 overall and 3-3 in the Cen-

"We played hard and that's all we can ask, win or lose," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said, "We played hard and smart, but they killed us on the boards, almost two to one. In the second half it seemed they had four or five tips every time.'

The Shamrocks, however, stayed right with the taller Spartans.

Paluk notched his fourth 3-pointer of the night to pull CC within one, 69-

68, with 24 seconds to play. That came after Robinson had given Borgess a four-point cushion with a pair of free throws at the 1:22 mark.

With 20 seconds to go, Borgess turned the ball over, but CC couldn't capitalize as Whitfield got a piece of Paluk's shot in the lane.

Spartan reserve guard Wendell Green was then fouled.

He made the first of two free throws with nine seconds left to put Borgess ahead 70-68, but missed the second.

With the two teams battling for the rebound, an inadvertent horn sounded as Robinson grabbed the shot and Officials stopped the action.

After a conference, it was deternined that the play was ruled dead by the whistle resulting in a jumpball situation. The possession arrow pointed CC's way, giving the Shamrocks new life with seven seconds left.

"The rule reads that the horn cannot stop play," said Donahue, who questioned the call. "When the refs stopped it the ball (by Robinson) was already in the basket.

The Shamrocks, however, never got a shot off as sophomore guard Damian Baskerville (12 points) stripped as time expired.

Donahue said. "I told them (during the timeout) don't let them get off a Catholic Central's attempt to get the ball into Paluk's hands never materialized.

"We didn't want to tie, we were going for the win," Holowicki said. We had hoped to get the ball to Brian for three because he was red-hot today.

Junior guard Andy Slankster chipped in with 15 points for the Shamrocks, including a three-point shot that beat the buzzer to end the third quarter, pulling CC to within a pair, 54-52.

He also gave CC a brief 59-58 advantage with 5:11 left, converting a three-point play after an acrobatic tip-in.

Jeff Gutt, a 6-3 senior, also came off the bench to score 11 for the Shamrocks. "Bernie's team is well-coached, and they ran a lot of good plays,"

Donahue said. "They're fierce competitors

"And we knew Paluk would have to play a great game for them to beat us and he did. He's a fine player, and you have to take your hat off to him.

Rockets get even

BY BRAD EMONS

Westland John Glenn threw a monkey wrench into the Lakes Division wrestling race Thursday.

The Rockets jetted into Livonia Stevenson's gym Thursday and came away with a convincing 41-22 dualmeet victory.

With one divisional meet left, Glenn, Stevenson and Plymouth Salem are all tied with 3-1 records.

"We had four get pinned against Plymouth Salem (a three-point dual meet loss), but tonight we had only two get nailed . . . some nights you get fortunate," Glenn coach Dave Hill said. "When a pin is worth six points, one match could make it a 12-point swing one way or the other.

"Stevenson is a good team, and it was a close match, even though the score may not indicate it."

Glenn got a lift from junior 125pounder Mike Henry, who held on for a 6-3 decision against Stevenson freshman Jon Sata.

It was one of the most entertaining matches of the night, along with 130pound bout between Stevenson's Chris Jaztrembski and Glenn's Matt Douglas (won by Jaztrembski on a 12-8 decision).

Henry had control throughout much of the match, but nearly got pinned during the waning seconds of the third period.

"I just had to go out and wrestle smart," said Henry, who is now 16-7 overall. "I met him (Sata) this year in another tournament, and I won by two points, so I knew it would be

"I kind of messed up on one move." Stevenson's Dan Christenson (103) staked his team to a 4-0 lead by opening the meet with a 13-0 decision over John Haile, but the Rockets went on to score five pins - Anthony Underwood (112), Aaron Teague (119), Matt Graca (135), defending state champion and unbeaten Mike Reeves (160), and Shawn Arbogast (heavyweight).

Brian Kolb, a 171-pounder, clinched the victory for Glenn by scoring a 17-5 decision against Ben

"Their 171-pounder (Kolb) was impressive, he really dominated and wrestled well," Berg said. "To win a match like this you have to win seven matches, and that means you have to have seven horses. We didn't come to wrestle in a couple of places, and Glenn came to wrestle.

"We just had some plow horses tonight, but I know they can wrestle better. They're young. We go with six sophomores, two juniors and a freshman. They're not overly experienced, but they're coming.

· Stevenson pulled to within 21-19 on the scoreboard after Scott Goldman (140) and Chris Mullett (145) scored pins, but Glenn got moving again when 152-pounder Gerry Simoneau decisioned Mike Hernandez, 16-6.

Stevenson's only victory among the final five matches occurred at 189, where Craig Martin upped his record to 18-0 with a 5-1 decision over Jim

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton was missing more key basketball players than Livonia Churchill, but that didn't stop the Chiefs from having more points Friday.

Though it had two starters and a key reserve on the bench. Canton won its third consecutive game with a 65-42 victory over the visiting Chargers.

The Chiefs are 3-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 4-7 overall, Churchill 0-5 and 1-9.

Canton was minus Matt Paupore and Bryan Whittle from its starting lineup and Ted Docks, who could have played but didn't because of a sore foot. Paupore was disqualified after getting two technical fouls in the last game, and Whittle has missed the last three with a leg injury.

Assistant coach Charlie Paye, who continues to substitute for coach Dave Van Wagoner, used all eight remaining players in a successful rotation.

"(The wins are) coming at a good time," Paye said. "The kids have confidence in themselves that they can play with people. It showed the kids, with teamwork, they can beat people."

Paye cited the play of seniors Brad Paskievitch, who started in place of Paupore and scored a game-high 22 points, Owen Crosby, Al Hollingsworth and Ryan top scorer, Mark Rutherford, who injured a foot Tuesday. He averages 10 points and 10 rebounds.

Rutherford's presence would have made a difference but probably not enough to change the outcome, according to Churchill coach Tom Lang.

"He's our rugged player inside, and he holds us together," he said. "It's hard when you lose a boy like him. He plays so aggressively inside, and he makes those other guys play harder.

"Our inefficiencies are we don't have size, and my little kids have a hard time against some of those bigger kids. But they battle right to the end.

Drew Jurcisin sank three threepoint baskets and scored nine of his team-high 11 points in the second quarter to get Churchill within five (29-24), but the Chargers couldn't get any closer.

Paskievitch made it 32-24 at halftime with a triple, and the Chiefs scored the first eight of the second half. Paskievitch had nine points in the third quarter as Canton played a running, freewheeling period and extended its lead to 51-31.

"The intensity Canton came out with was the difference," Lang said. "They played a terrific man-to-man defense and took us out of our offense in the first quarter. I think Canton was the reason we didn't do well.

"I think not having their two guys in the lineup caused some of those boys to play harder. I wondered how they could lose (seven) games. Their best scorers were not in the game, and those kids were dynamite."

Churchill 3rd-period blitz ices Patriots

Livonia Churchill 'tallied three power-play goals Friday en route to a 5-1 Suburban High School Hockey League victory over city rival Franklin in a game played at Edgar Arena.

Churchill is now 10-5-1 overall and 9-0-1 in the league. Franklin falls to 4-7-2 overall and 2-6-2 in the SHSHL. After a scoreless first period, Churchill's Shawn Thomas broke the ice with a power-play goal from Brian Jakowinicz and Corey Swider. The Chargers made it 2-0 on another power-play goal, Swider from Steve Grom and Jakowin-Franklin's Jeremy Klosowski closed the gap to 2-1 with a pow-er-play goal from Nader Warra and Scott Weier. But Churchill broke it open in the third period with three unanswered goals — Jody Milam (from Jakowinicz and Todd Siedlaczek), Swider (unassisted) and Grom (from Mark Woloch and Jason Samelko).

"Franklin played a strong defensive game and did a good job shutting down our offense," Churchill first-year coach Jeff Hatley said.

After a scoreless first period, Trenton rang up four goals in the middle period to Stevenson's one — Ryan Gusick from Ryan Schmidt and Scott

Mark Peterson cut the deficit to 4-2 at 7:01 of the third period on assists from Doug Gulau and Mike Lan-

Trenton, however, answered late in the third with a goal against Steven-son backup netminder Mike Stanbury, who came on for the third period in place of starter Daryl Chamberlain, who could not finish after injuring a knee in the pregame warmups...

"We're running out of bodies," Stevenson coach Matt Mulcahy said. "Daryl's knee tightened up after the second period, but Mike came on and did a nice job.

"The kids played hard, but we had trouble getting up and down the ice. Trenton was a step faster and quieker. We played a good first and third period, but we only had 15 shots on net."

The loss dropped Stevenson to 8-6-1

FRANKLIN 6. ANDOVER 2: Livonia Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt called it "our best game of the entire year, we played three solid periods of hockey."

Sledz drives Clarenceville to victory

Livonia Clarenceville, behind 19 kills from Tracy Sledz, won its Metro Conference volleyball showdown Thursday against host Mount Clemens Lutheran North. 15-8, 5-15, 15-6.

The win gives the Trojans, who shared the title last year with North, a 5-0 conference mark. Clarenceville is 14-5-3 overall.

Sledz hit at a .441 clip to pace the winners. Other offensive standouts included Wendy Roy (six kills), Mi-

Madonna escapes Grand Rapids It seems this race could go the games. Tonight we played real full distance.

There won't be any easy winners, that's for sure. Madonna University's women's basketball team knows it — the Lady Crusaders had to repel a late Grand Rapids Baptist charge to hold on for a 70-67 victory Thursday in Grand Rapids.

Madonna's win helped muddle things further atop the NAIA's District 23 standings. Spring Arbor kept its hold on first place, beating Tri-State — which had been tied for second - to improve to 7-1. Aquinas, one of the three teams tied for second going into Thursday's games, topped University of Michigan-Dearborn (another team tied for second).

Which leaves Aquinas in second by itself at 5-2. Tri-State, Michigan-Dearborn and Madonna are all tied for third at 4-3.

Crusader coach Bill Potter was pleased to escape with the victory Thursday. "I was really happy with the effort, especially on defense," he said. "Our defense has been lacking the last couple of Still, Baptist (13-7 overall, 2-5 in the district) nearly caught the Crusaders, who had a nine-point lead with a minute left. But they missed two one-and-one free throws and Baptist turned both into three-point baskets.

With three seconds left, Baptist's Emily Ashbaugh — who had cashed in two triples earlier - stole Madonna's inbounds pass and got off a shot. Fortunately for the Crusaders, it missed.

Stephanie Crelley and Stephanie Niebauer each scored 19 points to lead Madonna (10-12 overall). Crelley also had eight rebounds and five assists. Dana Seveech added 11 points and seven boards. For Baptist, Marcy Bell poured in 30 points, Jandi Hillaker had 13 and Jodi Hillaker chipped in with 11. "We've got to steal a couple more off the road now," said Potter, whose team played at Aquinas last Saturday, travels to Concordia Tuesday, then returns home to host Spring Arbor at 7 p.m. Thursday.
