Shoppers mourn loss of Crowley's

Shoppers at the Crowley's store liked its convenience and values, but the company is having financial problems. The planned closing will leave the retail strip with two vacancies in a six-unit center.

Local shoppers said they are "distressed" or just plain disappointed at the planned closing of the Crowley's store on Ford and Wildwood.

Schools urged to keep sixth hour, sports

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

Livonia school district residents made two points at a budget public

■ Don't cut the sixth hour next year for middle and high school students. Don't cut varsity athletics.

You can't cut the sixth hour," said David Marshall. "Competition for jobs is getting tougher. If we can't give our kids a good high school education, they won't get a good college education.

"I've been waiting eight years for together a best-case scenario wherein by kid to get to high school to play cuts could be limited to $3 million if my kid to get to high school to play varsity sports, and now you're telling me he can't play. I'm not happy.

The two cuts are just a small part of $12 million in program and staff cuts that could take place next year under a worst-case scenario put together by the administration. Under this scenario, the district, which serves the northern section of Westland, issued layoff notices last week to 231 teachers.

The administration also has put Proposal A passes on June 2. This scenario restores both the sixth hour and varsity sports.

Debate tonight

At 6:30 tonight (Monday), the school board begins three nights of debate on both the administration's proposed budget and on whether to endorse Proposal A.

Fewer than 200 residents attended

Wednesday's public hearing, substantially less than the number who attended last year's hearing when the district began its first year of major program cuts.

Sandi Doyle said the low attendance was due to "total disgust," not to apathy.

'People think the school board will do what it wants to do, regardless of what we say," Doyle said.

The district must adopt its budget

Right to Life honors mother

BY ANNE SULLIVAN STAFF WRITER

Many may believe the traditional American family is dead but don't tell the Clos family of Westland.

Mary Ann Clos has spent the last 27 years rearing a traditional family. The mother of nine was selected as the 1993 Mother of the Year by Right to Life-Lifespan organization.

Clos received three nominations for the award. The first was submitted by her husband, Lawrence, and his was the winning nomination. Her daughter Amy Watts also nominated Clos as did the Right to Life-Lifespan chapter at St. Mary's Church in Wayne.

"I feel pleased," said Clos during an interview in her homé last week. "Initially, human nature tells you a lot of people do a lot of things and deserve this recognitition and you wonder 'Why me?' And you want to be a little embarassed.

"I'm pleased because it's another way my husband says he loves me and he appreciates me and is dedicated to our life together. And with my daughter, it's nice when your kids grow up they think you were OK."

She and her husband are 1965 graduates from Wayne High School who first met in their 10th grade English class. They married in their sophomore year of college at Eastern Michigan University. Both graduated with Mrs. Clos getting a home economics degree.

"We beat the odds," said Clos.
"Neither of us ever dated anyone else" and the marriage worked.

They had their first child a year after they were married, and after the second child was born, her husband went to war. She taught night school for a year and a half when her husband was in Vietnam.

She admits people look at her strangely when they learn she has nine children. And she is often asked why an educated couple would have so many children and how they came up with so many names.

"I say how many friends do you have, how many people do you know, they have different names."

Happy at home

She's happy in the decision she made and the life she lives. As a stay at home mom, she acknowledges she can't always buy for her children everything their friends have. But to Clos, who has tried to teach her children not to be materialistic, there are things more important a mom can do than bring in a few extra dollars each week.

"I think it's real important for a mom to be home," said Clos. "In this day and age it's difficult to provide for your family. I'm very fortunate my husband has a good job. It's important to me to be here when my kids come in the door and call 'mom' or to be here if I'm needed, or they want a snack.

"What I'm doing is a real important job. It's very fulfilling. I have no great desires to push a time clock at this time. Nobody could pay me enough money (to equal) the feelings of appreciation and being needed I have at home and have from my kids."

On the surface her life may look like an episode of "Leave It to Beaver," but Clos has taken the bad with the good.

"We're open to the gift of life," said Clos, who admits her attitude wasn't always this way.

"We decided that each son we had would have Lawrence for a middle name, as part of their father's name, and all the girls would have Ann, as part of my name."

When their fourth child was born 17 years ago, it was the first time her husband was in the delivery room with her. The plan was to name a boy Jeffrey Lawrence. Her second son was born with birth defects.

"Larry had to come and tell me. He said 'He is a real special gift from God, he will have a hard time and I want him to have my name to help pave the way.' And that's why we named him Larry II, all the rest of the boys have Lawrence for a middle name."

Obstacles overcome

Realizing their child had birth defects both frightened and created an awareness for the Closes.

Mother of the Year: Mary Ann Clos won Mother of the Year honors from the Right to Life-Lifespan organization this year after her husband, Lawrence, nominated her for the award.

"You go through life thinking everything is perfect, and it's not. We decided to have another baby right away and I miscarried, that was painful. Then we decided to let go, and whatever God gave us, we were open to the gift of life."

Clos gets her motivation and fulfilment from the feeling of being needed by her children and husband

In addition to caring for her family, Clos is active in her church, has worked as a volunteer with the American Cancer Society. Currently she spends time working with the Right to Life Wee Care program. She and Watts sort donated items for mothers to be and create layettes for babies of mothers who choose to give birth.

Like any parent, Clos said there are many times when she feels like pulling her hair out, just because she's at home doesn't mean there are no tribulations.

"You just learn when to react to and when not to react. I don't yell if a glass of milk is spilled, it's just cleaned up. I don't get mad often, but when I do, the kids know it's serious."

Doing the right thing

To Clos, the award is an affirmation that she is doing the right thing. "The life I'm living is right and the recognition is a shot in the arm. By being and doing for other people I've gained recognition. Some honor and credit goes to (my family) for being there, providing the opportunity for me to share my life with them."

Her children range in age from 3½ to 25. And although she said the thought of going back to work has crossed her mind, it won't be until she's finished rearing her family.

New post master promises efficiency

BY ANNE SULLIVAN STAFF WRITER

With 27 years of service in the Postal Service, and experience in both mail room operations and administration, Florence Richardson has taken over as post master of the Westland post office.

Richardson's duties are to oversee the operation of the facility on Wayne Road which serves Westland, Canton and Wayne.

In her new position, Richardson enjoys meeting with the public, something she didn't have the opportunity to do in her previous positions.

She has no immediate plans for changes, but said she has some

"For my customers and employees I have an open door policy," said Richardson. "I try to repond to my customers in a timely fashion. There are days I'm in meetings all day and my secretary lets them know I'm not available, but I'll get back to them because I want to resolve their problem —if they have a problem — as quickly as possible."

She plans to go out once a week and randomly talk with a customer to see how they feel the operation is going at the post office.

Her goal is to provide adequate and timely service to the custom-

She began her career as a mail clerk in 1966 in Baltimore, Md. Although it was a repetitive job with lousy hours (5:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m.), she and her co-workers kept their minds active with brain teasers. "We'd play a game and scramble words," Richardson reminisced as she sat in her new office. "We'd guess a word and come up with a word like 'output' and then come up with words from that word."

In 1971, Richardson moved into adminstration and became a position as payroll clerk in the finance department in Baltimore.

Two years later she moved into the budget department and was the only female there from 1973-74. She said it was fun, but there were plenty of long hours. During her tenure in the budget department, she took several assignments out of town, including a two-year stay in Philadelphia as accounting assistant from 1982-83, and as acting director of finance in Charlotte, NC from 1986-87.

Richardson was promoted to controller for the Detroit division in 1987. She came to Westland in December.

The new postmaster has many funny memories from her years working at the post office. When she was the budget department manager, she had three people working for her. The department was computerized and this particular day they were supposed to be off the computer by 5 p.m.

At 4 p.m., a crisis developed because a relatively new employee hadn't started his daily entries. Richardson had to keep the whole department there until the work was done. One employee came to her with a problem about staying that day. "She told me she had a hair appointment and had to go. I told her she could go home with me and I'd fix her hair," recalls Richardson. "We worked until 1 a.m. and any time we'd remember that we'd start to laugh.

Another co-worker missed an out of town class reunion, but no one left until the work was done. "We all worked together to get the job done."

Richardson, 50, lives in Southfield with Aldrow, her husband of 29 years and three children, Thant, Linnard and Kelsy.

SourceClub brings out area's bargain hunters

BY ANNE SULLIVAN STAFF WRITER

Crowds came by the hundreds Wednesday morning to check out the new Meijer SourceClub.

The huge warehouse, owned by Meijer's Inc. in Grand Rapids, offers everything from cereal to computers at warehouse prices in the new structure on Warren Road at Newburgh, Westland. People came from throughout western Wayne County to check out products and prices. Many were comparing prices between the Meijer owned warehouse club to the Kmart owned PACE warehouse around the block.

Meijer executives were on hand to direct shoppers where they needed to go and vendors were demonstating products for the grand opening.

Company executives were excited about the opening of the fourth warehouse-type facility in Michigan, and stressed the importance of a Michigan-based company providing jobs in the state.

Meijer, a former Observer Newspapers reporter, was searching the new store for clothes and admitted his wardrobe came from SourceClub, except the sport coat which came from Meijer's.

Meijer executives selected the Warren-Newburgh site, across the street from the Westland Meijer store for two reasons. The parcel was large and available and there was plenty of traffic in the area.

With a cartload of merchandise, her hopes were to find one place to shop for all her "Some things are cheaper, some are not," said Tandoc. "In the end, I'm breaking even I don't want to waste time (going to different stores) My time is kind of consumed. I want to go to one place and buy everything.

Terri Cavanaugh of Plymouth was also comparing prices at SourceClub with PACE. "I wanted to check it out. So far, the computer section is nicer than PACE, but I'm here to compare prices.'

SourceClub is open to both customers and businesses. Jim Con-nell of Westland joined the club last week when Meijer Inc. came to his place of employment with membership applications.

"It's much more orderly than PACE, at least so far, it's new, said Connell who was shopping for supplies for work. He shopping for home items for his wife.

School plans birthday party

By LEONARD POGER Editor

Lincoln Elementary School is planning a gala birthday party next week.

The school, which serves the western half of the Norwayne neighborhood, will mark its 50th anniversary the week of May 17-21 with activities or events scheduled for each day.

Resource room teacher Jan Tomlinson, chair of the school committee planning the birthday week, said the highlight will be a birthday dinner on Wednesday night, May 19 in the school, on Grand Traverse between Venoy and Wildwood.

"Theme of the birthday week will be 'Past, Present and Future,'" Tomlinson said. The school was built in 1943 with an addition opened in 1967. The school's first students were children of parents who moved into the temporary" housing for new employees at the new Willow Run bomber plant in Ypsilanti. The estimated 1,100 housing units, built by the federal government in a rush to provide housing for bomber plant workers, sold the buildings, mostly duplexes, to private owners in the late 1950s.

The birthday week, Tomlinson said, will start with a staff breakfast at 8 a.m. Monday, May 17. in the school. During the day, students will decorate classroom doors with a birthday theme.

"Community cake day" will be observed the next day with cake served to students at lunch time. Parents and school employees will be served between 1-2:45 p.m.. There will be display boards in the gym, made up of old photos and materials relating to the school's history.

On Wednesday, May 19, students and employees will take part in a "'50s Day" with each grade level planning its own activity, program or event, Tomlinson said.

An estimated 75 persons, including the school's first teacher, Elizabeth Boyd, have been invited to the birthday dinner that evening.

Among those to take part will be state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, who was a PTO president at Jefferson School, which serves the eastern half of the Norwayne neighborhood.

John Glenn High School students, directed by drama teacher Simonne Grzesik, will perform as clowns in the production of "Planet of Perfectly Awful People" for students and parents.

by June 30. If Proposal A fails in the June 2 special election, the board has scheduled meetings for June 7, 8, 9 and 15 to make the budget final.

Trustee Joe Laura told residents that whatever was said at the hearing about Proposal A, they should not view it "either as a threat or an incentive to vote for" the proposal.

Suzanne Clulow, a school board candidate, gave the board three options to consider adopt an incentive package to get teachers to retire; sell' the district's "unused land; and endorse Proposal A.

Cutting the sixth hour, said Cindy Boyd, would make it harder for graduates to get into a good college.

If the sixth hour is cut, administrators have said the number of credits needed to graduate must be reduced.

Jeanne Franczak called cutting the sixth hour "unthinkable."

Keep varsity sports, said Bob Catanzarite, and let parent groups administer and pay for them.

Because children need to come to school "ready to learn," Joan Bryan urged the district not to cut back on such support programs as SAFE.

Mary Duluk questioned if politics influenced cuts recommended for popular, highly visible student programs.

"I hope you're not doing this to get us to pass a millage," Duluk said. "I deeply resent you playing politics with my kid's education.

Becky Morr, a SAFE teacher at Tyler who has not been pinkslipped, called the six staff cuts in the SAFE program scary.

"Experts tell us early interven-tion is necessary," Morr said. "We see disruptive behaviors. We live in a culture where parents find it difficult to say no to kids, yet we hope kids say no to peers and pressures. What expense willthere be to schools, to families, if we don't have SAFE?'

Julie Noble, a SAFE teacher, also urged keeping the program so that youngsters can develop both socially and emotionally.

Jonathan Mezzadri, a student, called the loss of the sixth hour "intensely devastating."

Ronald Smaldone criticized the district for not putting the amount of dollars saved next to proposed cuts on the list sent home to parents.

"There's a 4-percent cut in transportation. Does that mean K-6 kids must walk to school?" he asked. "When you send this sheet out, explain how much the cuts are worth."

At a time when educators should be looking at new ways to educate so graduates can compete, the district is falling backward, said Geri Goff.

The loss of varsity sports will do "more harm than good," said Stevenson student Kristyn So-

Ed Gautzer called Proposal A 'probably the best, most realistic compromise" school districts will get from Lansing. If Proposal A fails, trustee Sue Thompson said the district will continue to back and campaign gram will not be cut. Steve Naumcheff, former president of the Livonia Education Education, urged the district to not discount what happened in Kalkaska Kalkaska closed earlier this year rather than face cuts. "We need leadership, the cour age to take on the state if necessary," Naumcheff said. "I wish you would dig in your heels."

Dan Leonard, who recently dropped out of high school, called cutting the sixth hour "a big mis-

Whatever cuts are made, they should be fair, said Carlo Arciero.

"You have a duty to make sure the people who you serve believe that this is a true, fair process and that the cuts are fair," Arciero said.

Pastor: Post office shooting victim a 'fighter'

Sandra Brandstatter will recover from Thursday's Dearborn Post Office shooting because she knows how to fight back, said her

"She's very feisty," said the Rev. William Lindholm of Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church in Livonia.

Emotionally, she's a fighter. In fact, the whole family is like

Redford Township and has lived with husband Mark the past four vears in Livonia's Brookwood Estates subdivision, off Six Mile between Middlebelt and Merriman. The couple has a 6-month-old son, Mark Jr. Neighbors mostly kept quiet

Friday at the family's request, saying only that their "fingers were crossed" for a full, speedy recovery.

"We intend to respect their pri-

Jody Kirsch, Brookwood Estates Homeowners Association president, said the association likely will do something for the Police said Brandstatter was shot once in the back and twice in the head by Larry Jasion, who she reportedly beat out for a promotion several weeks ago.

Jasion, 45, shot two other em-'ployees - one who died and one, before killing himself.

Brandstatter remained in critical condition Friday at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, although a staff doctor said she is improving.

"She's out of the woods with respect to her heart rate and blood pressure, which had been quite unstable before today," said Dr. Paul Haydon.

movement in her legs.

"It's difficult to know how that will progress. She hasn't been able to speak very clearly, and we'll have to bring in some physical therapists when she can," Haydon said.

Livonia resident Bruce Plumb, 43, suffered gunshot wounds to his back. Plumb is a motor vehi-

Haydon said Plumb was "ready to be released" Friday afternoon. Plumb moved to Livonia from Melvindale when he remarried in Lindholm, at the hospital Friday, said Brandstatter's family had been attending church regularly for 20 years.

"The new series of guidebooks on adoption, written particularly for members of different religious or cultural groups, should help to clarify adoption issues and provide helpful tips about how all of us can assist adoptive families,' said Haveman. McPherson said the finished work represents the collaboration of more than 30 Jewish leaders in Michigan, "The result is testimo-

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on May 19, 1993, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. DST, at the Board Room, the Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1993 of an estimated additional proposed millage rate of .0558 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1992.

The Board of Trustees has the complete authority to establish that 2.27 mills be levied in 1993 from within its present authorized millage

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1992 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by an estimated two percent

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the College District. In the event that state equalized valuation as finalized is for any reason higher than the estimate used for this hearing, the Board of Trustees must hold another public hearing before levying millage on any higher valuation.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Trustees may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by the Board of Trustees.

SHOPPING CENTERED

LINDA BACHRACK

Eyeing the sun can be expensive

ntil now, I assumed that most sunglass shoppers were alike in their annual quest for the suitable frame. In the past few weeks, the department stores have miraculously transformed walls and display cases into receptacles for hundreds of styles of summer eyewear. (What took up all that space before?)

Anyway, for years I have muddled through pair after pair of sunglasses, staring in those tiny little mirrors and pushing inconveniently-placed price tags away from my nose. I assumed most everyone followed this routine, trying and discarding, becoming increasingly frustrated as each new silhouette began to look just like the last.

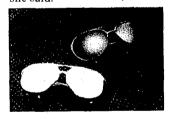

Boy, was I mistaken. There are legions of you to whom sunglass shopping is hardly routine. You look for much more than a flattering color and shape. You are knowledgeable about ultraviolet rays, blueblockers and photochromes, and moreover, you are brand loyal and specific as to which frame you prefer.

Let me share with my peers, the not-so-savvy sunglass consumers, some of the knowledge I have gained through researching this column.

About those Revos

It all started with my son Marc, a Michigan State student. He informed me that he planned to spend what amounted to most of his life savings on a pair of Revo sunglasses. "Expensive, but the best," he explained.

So I ventured into SunVision at Twelve Oaks Mall where store manager Sue Cherry gave me a quick seminar on shades. According to Cherry, Revos are hugely popular, but for good reason. Originally designed by NASA, Revos eliminate all UV rays while, at the same time, enhancing clarity of color. "They're the most functional lens made,

They also feature a blueblocker that cuts through blue light, eliminating fog and haze, and the new polarized lens cuts glare on the water.

The updated styling make them a No. 1 choice for the college set. But they'll set you back a hefty sum, $160-$275. We picture the Revo "aviator." In a considerate attempt to comfort me, Cherry added, "but they're made to last a lifetime."

Not everyone covets Revo sunglasses. Smaller, retro-styled classic frames are "in" and many of the manufacturers offer tempting versions. Seren-(they darken and lighten), relaxing the eye ($140). Vuarnet has a loyal following. And Maui Jim glasses are made especially for sensitive eyes

A Los Angeles-based vendor, Oliver Peoples, distributes to select retailers including Steven Franklin Optics at The Boardwalk in West Bloomfield, Originally a tool and die company, its frames are vintage-look, very small and very hip. 'The clip-ons are most popular," said Franklin.

Then there's the grandfather of classic, the Ray-Ban, handed down by generations of devotees since 1937. The aviator style was developed by Bausch and Lomb for the U.S. Army Corps and today they still exceed exacting requirements for glare protection and optical performance. They're the only choice for Jim Bologna of Grosse Pointe.

Jason Christopoulous prefers the Ray-Ban "Wayfarer," "because they'll never go out of style."And we picture the 'cat.'' another classic copied by numerous manufacturers.

Christopoulous also owns a pair of trendy "M Frame" Oakleys, an ultra- contemporary, updated sporting look worn by major league baseball players. SunVision stocks the Oakley "Blades" ($110) and "Razor Blades" ($100), as well as "Frog Skins," "Mumbos" and the new "Sub-Zeros" for the tennis playing, BMW set ($40-$135).

Sue Cherry calls the Oakleys "a cut above." They're the lightest frame on the market and feature a plutonite lens.

Be aware that the most inexpensive frames offer only 60 percent UV protection and no warranty. But if you're looking to make a statement, go for the Mickey Mouse glasses with the flip-up shades ($19.95) or join Zana Roy at Banana Annas in Birmingham, "They have the coolest black cat-

Nordstrom's news welcomed

After 25 years of cornfields and Christmas trees, the northeast corner lot at Big Beaver and Coolidge in Troy will finally get a permanent tenant . . . and the community couldn't be happier. Hello! Somerset

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

When developer Nathan Forbes addressed the Fashion Group of Detroit a few weeks ago, he was asked about the long-brewing plans for Somerset North, a.k.a. Somerset II, a.k.a. the empty lot across the street from the Somerset Collection.

He grinned and said something about 1996, but refused to speculate on possible tenants, admitting only that that's his specialty — bringing special retailers to the Detroit mar-

Then someone let the cat out of the shopping bag. Rumors were published that Nordstrom's is coming . that Hudson's wanted to be close to the new action.

Thursday morning, the retail media applauded enthusiastically when the rumors were confirmed at a press conference and the architectural drawings were on display.

Somerset II will open in the summer of 1996 and will be connected to the Somerset Collection by a climate controlled aerial walkway. There will be three levels of shopping in an architectural style that matches Somerset South. Hudson's will anchor the east end, Nordstrom's the west end. In between, 410,000 square feet of additional retail space are up for rent, as are two restaurants and a performing arts stage.

Elsewhere in the mall, sales consultants were discussing the news.

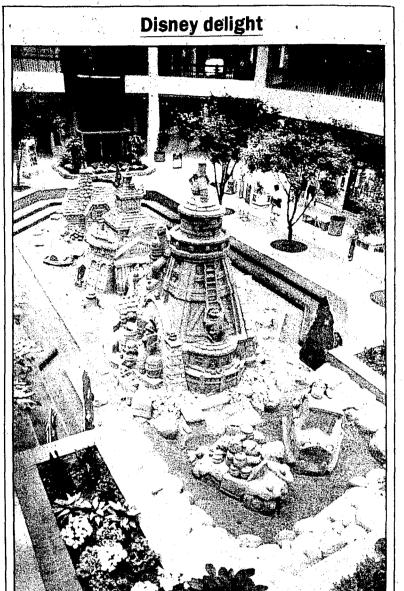

'Lots of new retail positions coming to town," a Saks Fifth Avenue employee said. "This will put us seasoned professionals in a good bargaining position. The skyway will move shoppers through both centers. Hopefully, nearby office workers will be more likely to leave their buildings and shop, walk and eat lunch here.'

Her associate wasn't so upbeat. "All these department stores will divide up the shoppers," she said. "If you divide the shoppers, you divide the profits.

Dennis Coury just bought a new home in the tony Somerset North Estates subdivision, where his yard backs up to the proposed new shopping center.

The windows in my family room look out on a view of the Somerset Collection and Big Beaver Road my cityscape, I call it," said Coury. 'You'd pay big bucks for a place with a view like this in Chicago or New York. I don't want to see another Oakland Mall built on this site.

"I'm trusting the Frankel people to build a center with attention to architectural detail, landscaping and aesthetics," he continued. "If there's

Classes link kids to international pals

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

A new kind of shop has opened in downtown Plymouth with the aim of putting local kids in touch with their counterparts in Japan, Ireland and Mexico — via computer.

Futurekids, in the Westchester Mall at 550 Forest, is a computer school for children 3 to 13 years. Futurekids offers classes, summer camps and field trips designed to help kids master the computer.

Plymouth's location is one of 1 Futurekid "schools" around the world. The corporation is headquartered in California. Locally, it's owned by Karen and Hiro Ota of Plymouth.

Karen, former manager of the University of Michigan's Child Development Center in Dearborn, said she was attracted to the company because she "recognized the need."
"Computer literacy is an absolute necessity for our children," she said.

"Our programs help children build a strong foundation of fundamental learning skills, attitudes and knowledge - tools that can truly empower their lives now and in the future.

Futurekid classes are small. Each group has four children and two computers. The educational components are built around age-appropriate computer science. Each child has time to interact with the computer and work at his own level.

Skills taught include: keyboard, word processing, computer-assisted math and reading, logical thinking, communications, graphics and design, desktop publishing, data base management, environmental simulation and animation. Elementary robotics is also introduced.

Futurekids plans to incorporate a worldwide electronic bulletin board in its curriculum. This will enable children to communicate with other children in more than a thousand cities around the globe.

Lawmakers 'whittle away' Prop A, senator says

By TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler's promise that local school districts wouldn't lose money if Proposal A passes June 2 may have a $10 million leak

'Take this money off, and you whittle away at things people think are in Proposal A," warned Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, as the Senate stripped out money for several area school districts.

"This makes it more difficult to pass Proposal A," agreed Sen. Jim Berryman, D-Adrian. "Our credibility is at stake."

Proposal A is the elaborate constitutional amendment that would give a cut in school operating taxes, take 2 cents more in sales taxes and guarantee every district $4,800 per pupil. Says Engler's campaign literature: "Every school district will receive a 3 percent increase.'

"No they're not," said Berryman.

"If we keep rapping people on the knuckles, I'm going to pull off (supporting Proposal A)," said Bouchard.

What they lose

The Senate rejected a Bouchard amendment to the school aid bill that would implement Proposal A. The action will cost Farmington and Walled Lake school districts $1 million each next year alone and more in later years.

Other losers: Avondale, $289,000; Birmingham, $733,000; South Lyon, .$441,000; Novi, $411,000; Whitmore Lake, $106,000; and Bloomfield Hills, $289,000.

"I wouldn't lose a whole lot of sleep over these districts," said Sen. Dan De-Grow, R-Port Huron, an advocate of pulling funds away from what he considers wealthy districts.

Here's how they'll lose it:

Bouchard Wednesday won passage of his amendment to the $1.1 billion school aid bill that would base 1994 state aid on current year spending.

The Senate Thursday recalled the bill, removed Bouchard's amendment on a 30-7 vote and based state aid on current tax revenue. The difference: The affected districts had declined to levy all their authorized property tax millage to balance their budgets. Instead, they dipped into their bank accounts to meet expenses. Thus, their taxes were lower than their spending.

"We're penalized for being fiscally conservative," said Bouchard.

'You're punishing those people for not levying the full amount. They're not all rich school districts," agreed Berryman.

'It's $10 million we don't have," said

How they voted

Area senators voting yes: Bouchard,

Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, George Hart, D-Dearborn, and David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield.

Voting no: Robert Geake, R-North-

Absent: William Faust, D-Westland. Eight Republicans and six Democrats supported the Bouchard amendment while 15 Republicans and six Democrats opposed it. Among the opponents was Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing.

House agrees

The battle was briefer in the House, where the Bouchard amendment was offered by Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford. The roll call was counted. Speaker pro tem Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, saw a blizzard of red (no) lights on the tally board and declared it defeated.

The House passed the bill 98-0 and sent it to the Olds Tower across the street for Engler's signature.

Freshman Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, had a thumbprint on the new bill. Her amendment to cut teacher retraining funds from $2 million to $1 million was rejected by the House but added in the Senate and retained in the final

"There used to be five subjects for teacher retraining. They got $3.8 million," said Whyman. "But four of those subjects were moved to another area of the budget. There was only one remain-

"The funds were cut to $2 million, but the program should have been funded at $800,000. I thought I was being generous in offering $1 million."

Whyman also won an amendment to a library bill limiting voter-approved millage levies to 10 years. "Conceivably it could have been forever," she said.

Competition for Hudson's

"Nordstrom's will give Hudson's a run for the money," said Judy Collins of Grosse Pointe. 'My family shops at Nordstrom's whenever we travel. Their service is wonderful. You can't always find help at Hudson's when you

"I think it's great, just great that Nordstrom's is coming to Detroit," said Alice Baker of Bir-mingham. "There will be more jobs created, more values for shoppers, the competition will keep other stores on their toes.'

Joe Rivard, director of operations for Jacobson's in Birmingham, agreed.

'We welcome good competition," he said when asked if he was worried about losing customers to Nordstrom's. "Competition makes everyone do better. It's good for the community,"

Sue Sorenson, spokeswoman for Dayton-Hudson in Minneapolis, had this to say. 'We welcome Nordstrom's. too," she said. "Competition is good for everybody. In Minneapolis and Chicago we are already in the same malls with Nordstrom's. In some stores our sales are higher than Nordstrom's "

Hudson's president Dennis Toffolo reaffirmed the importance of Hudson's Oakland Mall store, less than three miles away.

"There will be very little customer transfer to this new store from other Hudson locations," he said. "The Somerset location just gets us closer to our customers and that's the number-one concern in our customer surveys convenience.

Market strives to be no mere party store

By CHERYL VATCHER Special Writer

Vintage Wine and Deli Market is celebrating its first anniversary this spring.

The market on Ann Arbor Trail west of Middlebelt recently expanded to include its own pizzer-

"We are very unique," said E. J. Jonna, owner. "We are a small quality market. We decided to remodel it last year from a basic party store."

"He stressed that the business, which serves nearby neighborhoods in Westland, Garden City and Livonia, strives for high quality and fresh pizzas.

'Most pizzas are frozen," he said. "Our dough is made fresh every day, and instead of limited amounts of toppings, we put on

They also cater to graduation and corporate parties.

Another expansion that adds to the market's uniqueness is its line of Iowa and Nebraska beef.

Handling the meat department is the former butcher of Standard The store also has deliveries for Meat Markets in Garden City.

He'll do "cuts" for customers. If a patron wants to know about dif- -ferent recipes, Tom will pass them on.

E.J. says that since he and brother Vince went into business in 1984, they always wanted a complete market.

"We wanted it to be a full service for our customers so that they could buy all they needed here," he said.

"We wanted this to be a friendly shop. We even take orders out to the cars," he said.

E.J., who has a teaching degree, said he loves people and the retail party store business.

He helps in every department, and is in charge of the grocery and meats departments.

As best sellers in the meat department, is porterhouse steaks and pork chops. He feels that they beat the pants off of supermarkets in this department.

There are 20 other employees. About two thirds are full-time and from the neighborhood area.

handicapped persons.

They take pride in the weddings they cater. 'We do complete beveraging. We deliver to them and provide more of service than others. We provide literature on how to set up the parties, such as how many glasses per keg," he said.

"We are real professionals. We don't oversell our customers," he

He knows most of the customers by their first names. "Customers are first. We have a large selection of items. We have quality and keep the prices down," he said. Older brother and partner

Vince takes care of the beverages, weddings, and the finances. 'This consists of bringing in new products like wines," he said. "We are a full service market; people get good service. I help people choose their wines. I have taken classes on them," he said.

He also dreamed of having this kind of market all along.

'We had a dream of what we wanted to reach farther on down the road," he said.

He works an average of six days a week, sometimes seven.

In a recent week, he handled about 15 weddings, twice the normal business.

They stay at the parties until it ends, making sure they don't run out of anything. "It's service that you get nowhere else," he said. The store has 7,000 square feet, almost triple its previous size.

"I think that the size is correct for the personal touch, and offering a good variety," he said. We also have you-bake-it pizza. The customer can take it out of here and bake it at home. It's a full pizza and it's not frozen. Some people call an hour in advance because they know we sell them quickly. Sometimes 400 can go out in a week," he said.

"I really enjoy weddings and taking care of the customers," he Vince is 32, married, and the father of a daughter, 2. E.J., 29, plans to marry in July.

Blood drive worker honored

There is an angel among the blood drive coordinators at the Red Cross, American Southeastem Michigan Blood Services Region.

Gabrielle (Gubby) Daniels earned her wings when she took over as blood drive coordinator at Westland's Divine Savior Catholic Church last year.

Daniels, a resident of Plymouth, was one of more than 350 coordinators honored at a recent blood drive coordinators recognition ceremony.

Divine Savior Church has seen a dramatic increase in collections since Daniels has been the coordinator, Kochan said.

At her first drive in the fall of 1992, Daniels did so well recruiting parish members, 85 pints of blood were donated, much higher than the goal of 65 and nearly triple last fall's campaign.

The church now sponsors two blood drives a year and was proud to report that at its last drive in March, more than 100 pints of blood were collect.

"Gubby is one of the region's finest coordinators," said Richard Folsom, regional rep: resentative for American Red Cross/Southeastern Michigan Blood Services Region. "She leaves no detail untouched."

Daniels, a retired secretary, describes herself as a goal-ori ented person, making every effort to top her previous, achievements.

People or groups interested in organizing a blood drive may call 494-2746.

POINTS OF VIEW

Fun starts when Mother Nature pulls the plug ars were running out of gas conveniently near Spike's Keg O' Nails tavern in Grayling, and the locals were draining their lawn mowers and selling a couple of gallons for $10, while barmaids were pouring gallons of beer by candlelight. The reason: The power went out.

It was a scene from TV's "Northern Exposure" There were fishermen at the bar, which was lit by candles. My oldest kid was flirting with a barmaid, not for love, but for food. The grill was shut down and she was the keeper of the nacho chips. It worked.

I had a few anxious minutes. No, I wasn't out of gas. It was a question of whether the beer would stay cold through a three-hour power outage. But such worries disappeared when I realized I could switch to Jim Beam, an action for which I needed no prompting.

The television was off and the guy next to me at the bar sat playing solitaire. He was from West Bloomfield and had run out of gas. He later paid a local $12 for a couple of gallons. And we accuse the Arabs of price gouging.

Life without TV was a delight. It saved me from the weekend coverage of the gays and lesbians marching in Washington, D.C. When it comes to deciding between homophobia and supporting gay and lesbian causes, I'll take fly fishing for trout.

That's why I was sitting at the bar. Last weekend was the opening season for trout fishing in our state. Yes, there's the stereotype of the fisherman doing more to put a dent in the beer supply than in the numbers of trout. But then again, there are reasons for stereotypes.

My sons and I took refuge in Spike's after a day on the AuSable River that started with temperatures in the 30s and a few patches of snow in the woods, and ended at about 7 p.m., when we fished through what we later discovered was a tornado.

We headed to the south branch when the temperature hit about 60. It stayed that way for about two minutes before the hail-bearing storm came along. My kid asked: "Is the sun supposed to come out in the middle of a storm?" A barmaid at Spike's later assured me that when the sun acts in such a manner, you are in the middle of a tornado, but at the time I was blissfully ignorant

I did have the fatherly concern to tell the kid not to touch his metal reel when the lightning was striking. I didn't want to see another kid at risk, as the do-gooders and social workers now call it.

Those folks even have a new campaign going aimed at social drinking. They contend social drinkers may overcorrect their children. Most kids I know could stand some overcorrection.

Not wanting my kid to be at risk of being overcorrected, I wasn't heading to Spike's, but ended up there anyway. The entire town of Grayling was without power when we arrived, and the folks at Spike's left a candle in the window.

Others followed the beacon, and by 9 p.m. the place was filled and I did switch to Jim Beam so as to save the cold beer for others. Power outages do call for certain personal sacrifices.

Then about 9:30 p.m., Hank Williams Jr. started singing again on the jukebox, the TV came back on, and the beer coolers went back into action.

But some how it just wasn't as much fun as before.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers and is at risk of having an addiction to fly fishing, but is having trouble quitting because his sons are co-dependent. He can be reached at 459-2700.

Suffering no motive for state's speedy action

t was a little over a year ago when I received a fax from my friend, Shelly. In keeping with Shelly's morbid sense of humor and apparent dislike of me, the fax was a gift certificate good for a complimentary visit from Dr. Jack Kevorkian.

The scratchy reproduction was quickly circulated throughout the office, drawing all sorts of chuckles and comments. We all felt the idea was in very poor taste, and we all wished we had thought of it first.

Jack Kevorkian had become something of a local celebrity for his part in the budding controversy surrounding assisted suicide. Kevorkian's notoriety made for easy pickin's for the local comedy crowd. His seemingly transitory fame had even propelled him to the point where his name had become a verb: To Kevorkian someone or something was to put a quick end to it. The macabre comedy was fueled by the circus-like atmosphere of the new coverage of Kevorkian's actions.

After a few months, and a few more assisted suicides, the humorous novelty wore off, leaving only the ugly controversy over this hotly disputed issue.

Oakland County prosecutor Richard Thompson became the primary opponent of Kevorkian's efforts. Thompson's well-publicized battles with Kevorkian's attorney, Geoffrey Fieger, were often punctuated by name-calling and mutual contempt.

Soon after, this became a full-blown three-ring circus when those frolicsome folks in Lansing — our governor and our Legislature — got into the act by hastily passing a bill making assisted suicide against the law in Michigan.

Our elected officials seldom act this quickly on anything, but with Michigan becoming known as The Suicide State fast action had to be taken to relieve the high anxiety over at the chamber of commerce. There's no time for the customary gridlock when your image is on the line.

All the legal and political wrangling seemed to be directed at Kevorkian rather than the issue of having the right to die. The rights of suffering people had little to do with the speedy legislative footwork.

Admittedly, Kevorkian is not a very embraceable man. He is unpretentious to the point of appearing eccentric. His gaunt appearance and clinical demeanor do not fit the stereotype of the kindly old doctor. He is clearly a man on a mission, but only he knows for sure if it is a mission of selfless mercy or self-aggrandizement.

Frankly, the man and his methods matter very little. What matters most is the concept for which he stands: the right of a terminally ill individual to end his or her own life as an alternative to suffering the physical and emotional agony of waiting for death to come on its own. Without a doubt, that right needs to be framed by responsible legal guidelines, but it must remain a viable option for those whose condition allows no other chance of relief.

When our pets become aged and irreversibly ill, we end their suffering by having them "put to sleep." It is the humane thing to do. Yet we are forced to deny that humanity to our loved ones when they face a death which is certain in every respect except the day and the hour of its arrival.

I've seen people suffer in agony no animal would ever be forced to endure. I've seen family members, friends and total strangers decline to the point that their vital statistics were the only discernible measure of life. I've stood next to a hospital bed and begged God to bring a merciful end to the ravaged shell lying before me. I doubt those righteous individuals who oppose assisted suicide have had the same experience.

This issue is not about Jack Kevorkian, nor is it about knee-jerk politics or playing God. It is not about narrowminded, short-sighted legislation or insensitive office humor. It is about each of us having the right to die when that is all there is left to do.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Momma's cooking impossible to beat onest to gosh, I've been planning to write this column for the past year. As luck would have it, it's surfacing the day after Mother's Day.

I pride myself for my punctuality, so even if this comes off like a belated Mother's Day story, rest assured that the facts are true and in my opinion apply 365 days a year.

A funny thing happens when you write a column and get your picture in the paper 52 weeks a year. One of the perks of this job is that I frequently get stopped by readers at the grocery store, the deli or at a restaurant who say "hi" and comment on my

I also get regular and Voice Mail, not to mention hundreds of "here, try my favorite recipe for . . . postcards and letters. And if there's one question or comment that comes to mind, ya'll ask about my momma. Understandably so, since I probably mention her more than any other source.

Well folks, momma's doing fine. I mentioned to her that I would be writing this about her and asked if I could mention her name and offer a little background.

She darn near chocked on a jelly filled Dunkin' Donut when I asked. So I won't get into anything personal other than explain to you the influence she's had on me, and offer the information she's

The truth

Let it be known that I don't actually call her "momma." As long as I can remember, it's always been "ma" and she's called me "Lee." Momma called Grandma Lory "ma" and I can remember Grandma Lory calling Mimmy LeFleur "ma."

Momma is the Janes Gang matriarchal cook. Nobody cooks better than momma and no one has

Not to say that Aunt Phyllis' potato salad isn't the best I've ever tasted or that my older sister Rosie's cherry cobbler gives me goose bumps, but when it comes to cooking, momma beats 'em both hands down.

Momma's tools

What amazes me is that she can do this with the same set of pots and pans she received as a wedding gift 55 years ago. I bring her Cuisinarts, Trident cutlery, exotic herbs, breadmakers, Calphalon cookware and the latest gadgets.

She smiles, mumbles a thanks, tries them and then they end up covered with doilies on the steps leading to the upstairs. I'm a good cook, but I need my tools. She's a better cook and relies on what she has.

I read cookbooks the way she reads the Michigan Catholic newspaper. The kids talked her into a self-cleaning oven about five years ago. Last week I stopped by to visit and found her on her hands and knees in the kitchen cleaning the oven by hand. Dad was in the basement scrubbing the oven racks in the laundry tub.

When asked her why she doesn't just "flip the switch" she replied that "you gotta get down and wipe it out anyway, so what's the difference?"

Cooking secrets

When it comes to cooking, the lady has no peers. I spend 12 hours cooking down a Bordelaise sauce and offer her a taste and she says it tastes like her beef gravy with mashed up carrots and onions in Momma's idea of a fancy restaurant is the Friday fish fry at the local Dom Polski hall. She loves McDonald's Quarter Pounders, Wendy's chili and Sander's Hot Fudge Cream Puffs, yet she can bake a pan of pork chops so tender that they fall off the bone and beg to be eaten with lots of bread to soak up the luscious juices.

Her biscuits could bring Colonel Sander's to his knees, not to say anything about her infamous German Chocolate Cake that she now makes only for my birthday.

What's her secret, you ask? I asked her and her pat response was "it's not what you have, it's what you do with what you got.'

I'll pass along her recipe for biscuits that I "borrowed" from the old recipe box with a worn out picture of the Mackinac Bridge on it but it won't taste like her's. Momma would never use a fork to cut in the fat - she'd use her fingers.

She would never cut them with a biscuit cutter - she'd use her favorite glass dipped in flour. She'd never use a $20 air cushioned baking pan like mine, but instead the one she won at Cousin Janice's wedding shower 23 years ago and, lastly, she'd never bake them in an oven that was cleaned by tossing a switch.

She knitted me a potholder a few years back and for some odd reason, it's the only one that feels good. I wonder why. I love you, ma.

■ May is National High Blood Pressure Month. Cut back on salt, and processed foods to lower your risk of developing high blood pressure.

BY ANNE LEHMANN SPECIAL WRITER

For everything there is a season including high blood pressure. May is National High Blood Pressure Month, a time to think about the silent killer which afflicts 61 million Americans annually, almost half of whom do not even know they have

What is particularly insidious about this problem is that there are no overt symptoms, and when left undetected and untreated, high blood pressure can be life threatening.

According to the American Heart Association, which has an office in Lathrup Village, "high blood pressure in adults is a consistently elevated blood pressure of 140 mm Hg (millimeters of mercury) systolic and/or 90 mm Hg diastolic or higher."

Factors which increase the risk of a person developing high blood pressure include heredity, race (blacks are more likely to develop the problem than whites), sex (males are at a higher risk than women), age, obesity, heavy alcohol consumption, use of oral contraceptives and a sedentary lifestyle.

According to the American Heart Association, those with high blood pressure, or hypertension, are at greater for developing heart attacks, congestive heart failure, stroke, atherosclerosis, blood clots and kidney

Although this sounds ominous, the fact is that high blood pressure can be controlled with medical supervision

Potato chips taste saltier, but contain less sodium than cottage cheese Low sodium doesn't mean healthy. People on a low sodium diet usually have to lose weight as well so the fat and caloric content become important considerations as well. Although potato chips are lower in sodium than cottage cheese, the nutritional density high in protein, low in calories - makes cottage cheese a better choice.

Recently I read an article that said American women are taking great pride in the accomplishments of Hillary Rodham Clinton. Smart, competent and career-oriented, Clinton, like so many of us, is a wife and mother who juggles many different responsibilities and roles.

Statistics which show our society has changed, especially for women, are quite revealing. In 1973, 45 percent of married women worked outside their homes; in 1991, 75 percent of mothers with children between the ages of 6 and 13 were working outside their homes.

With more and more women bringing home the bacon, and then having to cook it, recipes that are easy, imaginative and nutritious best fit the needs of the career-minded women of the 1990s.

in conjunction with good eating and exercise habits.

"The best way to control high blood pressure is to avoid it in the first place," said Debra Finkelstein of West Bloomfield, a registered dietitian who was recently named Dietitian of the Year by the Michigan Dietetics Association. "The way to do that is to lower the amount of sodium in one's diet."

It sounds simple enough, but the fact is that as salt-loving Americans, we consume 10 to 15 times more sodium per day than the 3,000 mg the American Heart Assocation deems acceptable. Besides the sodium which occurs naturally in food, we are a population with a penchant for fast and processed foods and hands which reach almost reflexively for the salt shaker when we sit down to

Why do we love salt so much? "It's an acquired taste," said Finkelstein who works at the Women's Health and Wellness Centre in Farmington Hills. "Working moms, for example, depend on such childhood staples as macaroni and cheese, processed cheese and meats, fast foods. without realizing how alarmingly high in sodium these foods are.

Kids learn to love salt early and continue to seek that flavor as they get older. It is a problem, o however, that can be remedied quite easily.

"Cut back on salt gradually and learn to use other natural flavor enhancers like herb mixtures and lemon juice," said Finkelstein. 'The truth is cutting back on salt let's you experience the natural flavors of food."

Also, the American Heart Association recommends losing weight. Typically an elevated blood pressure comes down significantly when a person loses weight.

Although people think of the salt shaker as the main culprit in high blood pressure, the fact is that processed foods pose an even greater pitfall.

"Canned vegetables and soups, processed cheese, things we typically think of as healthy are in fact laden with salt," said Dr. Muriel Wagner, a registered dietitian with a Southfield practice. "Even frozen vegetables are packaged with added salt."

Salt is inexpensive, freezes well and gives people a taste they like so manufacturers use it. It is therefore up to the consumer to be wary and read labels

"Stay away from foods which list more than 140 mg. of sodium per serving on the food label," said Wagner. There are so many wonderful low sodium alternatives on the market today that lowering one's sodium doesn't have to make a person feel compromised.

For example Wagner brings along a bottle of low sodium soy sauce when she goes out for Chinese food. "I ask the cook to prepare my meal with it. There really are simple solutions if you plan ahead," she says.

Finally, every diet needs to incorporate a wide variety of tasty and healthful foods. Low salt doesn't meal low taste. In fact, with a little creativity, those with high blood pressure can learn to eliminate salt and still eat a diet that is rich in flavor and nutri-

Perk up your meals with nutritious dried fruits little box of rayour mother would pack in your school lunch? Well, raisins aren't just for lunches any-Dried more! fruits are wonderful sources of potassium and iron, as well as fiber.

We already know they're great in cookies, cakes, and breads, but they're also fabulous as part of every meal, from start to finish.

Raisin-Onion Sauce is a tasty, versatile sauce. It can either be served warm over poultry or ham, or refrigerated and served as a salad dressing. In main dishes, like Chicken in Creamy Fruit Sauce, raisins perk up the taste with a touch of sweetness. Instead of plain rice, try Fruited Rice with Cinnamon.

You'll love this deliciously different combination. It is important, however, to keep in mind that dried fruits are also high in calories - so reduce the serving size when comparing to regular fruit.

As you try these raisin recipes, follow my tip for preventing the dried fruit from sticking to the knife while dicing - spray the knife blade with nonstick cooking spray. Now, how's that for "raisin" your raisin awareness?

RAISIN-ONION SAUCE

- 1/2 cup diced onion
- ¼ cup golden raisins 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon
- vegetable oil 14" cup water
- I tablespoon each rice vinegar, Dijon-style mustard, and honey

In small microwavable mixing bowl combine onion, raisins, and oil and stir to combine; cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave on High (100 percent) for 4 minutes, until raisins are plumped, stirring once halfway through cook-

Transfer mixture to blender container; add remaining ingredients and process until smooth. Return mixture to microwavable bowl: cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave on High for 2 minutes, until flavors blend. Makes 4 Servings (about 1/4 cup each)

Each serving provides: 4 Vegetable, 1 Fat, 1/2 Fruit, 15 Optional

Substitute missing ingredients

LO THIFI FI

trating than to get all ready to do some baking and realize that one of the ingredients is "missing." You were sure you had it on hand, but no such luck. In out to the store, ing more frus-

Before you run out to the store, here are some emergency substitutions that could be used in a pinch.

To make your own half and half for a recipe, use seven-eights cup of milk plus one-half tablespoon butter to equal one cup. One cup of heavy cream is made by mixing three-fourths cup milk plus one-third cup butter. Use this only when a recipe calls for heavy cream in cooking or baking, as this will not whip.

Sour cream can be made by using three tablespoons melted butter plus seven-eights cup sour milk or seven-eights cup buttermilk plus 3 tablespoons melted butter equal one cup. Don't use this making a dip, but for baking purposes it will work. Puree' cottage cheese in the blender with a little yogurt or skim milk to make a low-fat version of sour cream.

Cream cheese can be made by blending one cup low-fat cottage cheese with ¼ cup margarine to equal one cup. One cup of skim milk plus two tablespoons melted butter will equal one cup whole milk. (Think about that butter next time you reach for a glass of whole milk.) Low-fat plain yogurt can replace an equal amount of buttermilk in any recipe.

If your milk is just starting to turn sour, sweeten by adding a pinch of baking soda.

Oil substitutes

When substituting vegetable oil for a solid vegetable shortening, butter or margarine, use one-third less. Use two templaces one tablespoons of oil to replace one tablespoon of hard shortening. For a perfect product, don't substitute oil for a solid shortening. Instead, find a recipe that has been tested using oil. It is not recommended substituting light or extra light margarine for regular margarine in cakes or cookies.

The water content is very different so you would have to change the proportion of the other ingredients to make up for the added water. Regular margarine is about 15 percent water, light is 40 percent and extra light can be as much as 58 percent. This really changes a recipe proportion changes a recipe proportion.

Dried herbs can be substituted for fresh ones, use about one-third the amount called for in the recipe. One tablespoon instant minced onions, rehydrated equals one small fresh onion. Three teaspoons chopped fresh parsley will substitute nicely for one teaspoon dried. One-eighth teaspoon garlic powder is equal to one small clove. If your dried herbs are more than a year old they have probably lost their fragrance so you may want to increase the amount used.

You can make your own fresh garlic salt by slicing three cloves of peeled garlic into an empty shaker, then fill the shaker with salt. Shake into salads, soups, vegetables, meats or whatever. When the garlic dries out, just replace it with fresh slices, it will keep for a long time.

Plain unpopped popcorn loses moisture and will not pop when it starts to dry out. There isn't enough water inside the kernel to expand from heat to make it pop.

Popcorn that dries out won't pop. When you notice that a number of kernels in the pan aren't popping you'll need to re-condition it. Put about three cups of popcorn in a quart jar, pour one tablespoon of water into the jar, and put the lid on tightly.

Shake the jar every five or 10 minutes, until the popcorn has absorbed all the water. Leave the jar capped tightly on the shelf for a couple days, after that the popcorn should pop perfectly. For long term storage, refrigerate or freeze the popcorn so it will not dry out.

Choclate substitues

Milk chocolate cannot be substituted for other chocolates in recipes. It is made from chocolate liquor, milkfat, milk solids and the rest sugar. The same goes for instant hot cocoa mix, it is a mix of sugar and dry milk solids and does not made a good substitution for regular cocoa.

Substituting chocolate syrup for other chocolate in baking is also not recommended for a good product. To replace one-ounce of unsweetened chocolate, use one-fourth cup of cocoa mixed with two teaspoons of any kind of shortening. For semisweet chocolate you'll need one-ounce of unsweetened chocolate plus four teaspoons sugar.

Before you throw up your hands in disgust because of a missing ingredients, look through your cupboards and see what substitution can be made used. Cookbooks also have substitution suggestions to help make the perfect food product.

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER Hot stuff: Maria Ruedinger creates an abstract wall sculpture with electrifying color and light.

Her artwork lights night

By LINDA ANN CHOMIN

rtist Maria Ruedinger manipulates neon and hotly-colored paint into electric wall sculpture. Subdued lighting created by the artwork sets the mood for anything but a quiet evening at home.

"I love the way neon looks, the colors, the way it looks at night," Ruedinger said. "Most of my pieces are for the bedroom because you can turn off all the lights. Neon sets a mood to it.

Ruedinger fabricates the metal canvas and bends the glass for the abstract works of light in her commercial sign shop, IDMN (Innovative Design Manufacturing and Neon) in Plymouth's Old

'It's a fun medium to work in," she said. "Depending on the color of glass and colors surrounding it, the color of the neon changes according to the other colors you're using. It's not a flat medium. It jumps out at you."

A line of green, yellow and blue neon shoots like an arrow across an untitled abstract, playing off the blue spheres and flat planes of color on the

"Because neon is liquid light, your eye is going to focus on the neon. I like the painting and neon to work together. They play off each other.

Ruedinger became interested in the medium after earning a liberal arts degree from the Universi ty of Michigan in 1985.

"My parents were going to give me a trip to Europe after graduation. With the job market so tight, I asked to learn a trade instead.

Six weeks of apprenticeship with Freddy Elliott of Neon Stuff in Kansas provided her with the basics of blowing glass. She spent the next three months honing the craft in Los Angeles at Hollywood Neon.

"It's a different medium – blowing glass with a hose instead of on the end of a blow pipe. The glass used in neon comes four feet long already blown in a tube. We take it from there and manipulate it.

In 1986 Ruedinger returned to Michigan, setting up her own shop, Accent Neon in Ann Arbor. Working between the two flames of a ribbon burner and a crossfire torch with a blow hose clenched between her teeth, Ruedinger's enthusiasm for neon flowed naturally.

"I get enthralled in neon . . . the whole idea of manipulating light to make it say something to you," Ruedinger said. "Every piece of neon has to be bent up by hand. The high lead content means it doesn't have to be annealed like furnace-worked glass because it doesn't shatter when it cools."

The high-energy painting contrasting the mellow light of neon takes shape as a sketch.

'You just start drawing. You come up with 10 concepts before you hit on one that will say something to you.

Two years of welding courses at Washtenaw Community College prepared Ruedinger for the next step, fabricating the metal that serves as can-

"I make up the box and get that primed, then I start painting. I use sign painter's paint. The reason I work in metal is because neon's high voltage so it's highly combustible. It needs a transformer to run . . . 110 volts isn't enough.

Ruedinger adds texture to the pieces by applying the enamel-based paints first - "I like to throw lacquer over it. You get a chemical reac-

Her work remains in a state of flux.

Goal setters: Psycho Cafe - Dan Monroe (from left), Bruce, Kudanian, Adam Reed, Scott Spencer and Joe Race — are focused on two things: being the best local rock band and signing the best record deal.

Psycho Cafe: Menu for success

Psycho Cafe has but two career goals musically: to be the biggest local band and sign the best record deal. Big goals, but the band is accomplishing them with the help of producer Gary

BY KYLE GREEN SPECIAL WRITER

Bands always establish career goals which usually dissolve faster than the band's unity.

Psycho Cafe is no different than other bands.

It is a five-member rock band which has established two distinct goals: to be the "biggest local band' and to "sign the best record deal."

What keeps Psycho Cafe on track and a step ahead of others is the fact that it has the backing that other bands can only dream about --

Gary Spaniola. The name may not sound familiar offhand, but Spaniola won the outstanding producer award at the second annual Motor City Music Awards, held at the State Theater in Detroit in April.

Spaniola has worked with other ocal and national acts, such as the Romantics, Ready for the World, Bitter Sweet Alley, and the "Beverly Hills Cop" soundtrack.

It was no easy task getting Spaniola on Cafe's side. Actually, it took persistence and patience.

"We had sent him three to four tapes over the last year and he hated us," said drummer Joe Race The tapes were primarily live vided a cassette recorded on four-cuts. It wasn't until the group protrack equipment that Spaniola heard the band's potential. Spaniola decided to produce the band's threetrack self-titled release on Baltic Records.

The group is now working with Spaniola for a larger record deal. Besides a solid contract, the members also feel they are accor plishing their first goal now that Detroit's Z-Rock, WDZR, has picked up one of their songs. Detroit's Z-Rock, a national radio station broadcasting from Dallas to 22 affiliates, has picked up the song

"Black Cat" on local rotation. Other local radio stations have played the group's material in the past, but the commercial success has caught the group off guard.

"We didn't know we were on the air," said guitarist Bruce Kudanian about mate Duffy Monroe. "We were driving in my car and I heard it . . . It was great they played one of our songs."

"It was just sort of cool to hear it on a normal format," Monroe added. Normal format is not exactly what the members have in mind with their energetic and at times abstract

"I don't think we sound like any other band in Detroit," Race said.
"It's ear-catching, but I'd say it's

The band collaborates as a unit, each member presenting ideas and others either feeding off them or throwing them out, which has left bruised feelings behind.

"I don't think any one of us can write a total Psycho Cafe song," said Spencer. "You have to come to practice with an open mind."

"We can write for any band," Race said. "We can write for Jane's Addiction . . . or Whitesnake, but we have to keep focused."

Bam Boom puts art in reach of bands

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Climbing the ladder of the local music industry, Glynn Scanlan learned that presentation weighs just as much as talent with record company reps and fans.

So Scanlan, now the drummer and vocalist for the band the Junk Monkeys, started working on that theory

"The first tape I ever did in high school, I Xeroxed them (the tape cover) off," said the graduate of Livonia Franklin High School.

Realizing how hard it is for bands to have affordable artwork done, Scanlan hooked up with graphic artist Amy Griffiths a year ago to create the Dearborn-based Bam Boom Graphics and Productions.

There was nobody doing it at the time," Scanlan said about his and Griffiths' decision to start the company. "I just said, 'I like to do this and with my brains and you know how to work with the computer . . . Let's do

Changing: Tommy Chong has found there's still laughter after parting with Cheech Marin, his partner in the '70s.

Chong: Comedy without Cheech

The more things change, the more they stay the same.

While Tommy Chong is no longer half of the successful comedy duo Cheech and Chong, he is still a very funny man.

And yes, drugs admittedly still play a key part in Chong's life and humor. Counter to any governmental statistics or claims, Chong believes that drugs, particularly marijuana, are more popular now than they were when he and Cheech Marin made a name for themselves with their "Up in Smoke" brand of humor.

"In the '70s, it was just the musicians, the students and the Deadheads," Chong said in a recent interview, alluding to the legions of fanatical Grateful Dead fans. "Garcia and the boys are still the highest-grossing band in the world. Look at their audiences. They're not saying no, that's for sure.

Chong believes that the benefits of smoking marijuana outweigh the harm and that peo-

A word from our sponsor ... He pops up on commercials everywhere, whether it's radio or television. Thom Sharp, the pride of Dearborn, is also a major supporter of Tiger Stadium (hear that, Mr. Ilitch?). He'll pump you up ... You've seen him on "Saturday Night Live" as the host of "Weekend Update." While he makes an appearance at Pine Knob later this summer, you can catch Kevin Nealon a bit earlier at the MalnStreet Comedy Showcase in Ann Arbor May 20. Call 996-9080 for reservations.

Don't be stupid ... Get to Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle for Texan Bill Engvall May 20-22. One of the funniest men touring clubs today, Engvall is probably best known for his observation that stupid people should wear signs - that way we wouldn't ask them anything important. He actually used to sell the signs, too! Call 542-9900 for reservations.

Last chance live? ... Legend is a label that is not wasted on Richard Pryor. Now fighting Multiple Sclerosis, Pryor is out on tour to prove the fact that he is not dead, and to earn enough money to avoid bankruptcy. The State Theater on May 28 could be his last live performance in the Detroit area. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets or call 645-6666 ple now smoke it in the privacy of their own homes and offices to relieve stress.

"There is no reason that it shouldn't be legalized, except political correctness," Chong said. 'Pot dealers' biggest customers are lawyers. They're hip. They work hard, and they like to relax. It can make a bad deal great.'

Wearing that political incorrectness on his sleeve is the reason Chong cites for his success in comedy and film. It also led to the break with his former partner now part of the cast of "Golden Palace," the old "Golden Girls" series as revived by CBS.

'Cheech and I fell out because he wanted to go the straight route," Chong said. "There's no animosity. It was just creative differences. He went a route that I would never go, and I went the route that he was tired of going. That was the end of that."

As a comedy duo, few could rival the success of Cheech and Chong during the '70s and early '80s. It all started when Chong, a native of Edmonton, Alberta, had an improvisational group in Vancouver, working out of his brother's nightclub. Marin saw the group perform. Chong knew Marin was an actor and asked if he would be interested in joining.

He did, starting the partnership that produced classic comedy albums featuring famous bits like 'Santa Claus and His Old Lady' and "Basketball Jones" and hit films like "Up in Smoke," "Things Are Though All Over" and "Still Smokin'." Some of the duo's recordings have been recently been reissued on compact disc and remain strong sellers.

'We have to sue to get all the royalties," Chong said with a laugh, "but the albums still sell really well. Our stuff is timeless. The '70s have come right back but l don't see anyone pulling out any Flip Wilson records."

As a result of this '70s revival, Chong now is out on tour about half of every month, playing larger comedy clubs. Despite the lack of his old partner, there is no evidence that Chong has missed a comedic step.

"My act is the Tommy Chong attitude that people love to see, he said. "I may trot out some of the old characters now and then and do some bits. The act changes every night, but overall it keeps getting better and better.'

Tommy Chong will appear Tuesday at Chaplin's West, 16890 Telegraph Road, Detroit. Call 533-8866 for reservations.

'Chocolate' serves up emotional feast stand out.

By John Monaghan Special Writer

"Like Water for Chocolate," currently at the Maple, is a sensual Mexican feast set around the early part of this century where tradition stands in the way of true love. Not the newest idea granted, but its spicy and fantastical handling makes it unforgettable.

Tita (Lumi Cavazos) and Pedro (Marco Leonardi) fall madly in love at first sight. But because she is the youngest of three daughters, Tita may never marry. Instead, according to Mexican tradition, she must care for her widowed mother on the family's ranch until the elder woman dies.

Pedro, in what he thinks is a perfectly acceptable solution, marries Tita's sister Rosaura so he can remain near his true love. Mama Elena (Regina Torme), no angel herself when it comes to marital fidelity, warns the young lovers that she recognizes their 1987 Danish hit "Babette's Feast" because again we have a repressed woman whose strength channeled through magical meals. During preparation of Rosaura's wedding cake, Tita's teardrops fall into the batter, causing guests who eat the cake to sink into a deep depression.

Later, as Tita's passion for her brother-in-law grows, her quail in rose petal sauce acts as an aphrodisiac and sends the diners to different parts of the ranch to satisfy their passions. Gertrudis, the middle sister, runs naked into the woods where a soldier gallops by and whisks her away on horse-and reality.

Adapted by Laura Esquivel from her best-selling novel, this is also unabashedly a woman's movie. While Pedro and Tita's love remains central to the story, it's the relationships of the women that Leonardi's Pedro, after all, is a stiff. Tita, who has sacrificed so much, who has all the passion, finally asks him in desperation, "Why didn't you just steal me away from the start?'

While 'Cavazos' Tita simmers quietly, Torme's Elena grows more tyrannical as her clutch over the family weakens. When Gertrudis runs away to become a prostitute and Rosaura and Pedro move off the ranch, Elena's mistreatment of Tita nearly drives

Not all of the ingredients come together in "Like Water for Chocolate." The musical score, though at times lush, is also surprisingly pedestrian.

The narrative device which the story is recalled by Tita's great niece who still prepares the family recipes - is obvious and more than a bit trite. It might, however, explain those bizarre moments, since the story has apparently passed down through generations.

Though it doesn't go overboard with color (it uses a palette of deep textured browns), the movie is packed with metaphors and visual symbols. Esquivel and director Alfonso Arau set the movie on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande at a time when revolutionaries, along with Tita, make painful and often deadly breaks from tradition.

Franklin coaching moves an Kennedy has resigned as varsity boys basketball coach at Livonia Franklin High after just one season, according to school athletic director Dan Freeman.

The former University of Detroit captain, who could not be reached for comment on Friday, reportedly has signed a contract to play professional basketball in Germany. He joins another U-D basketball alumnus, ex-Redford Catholic Central High standout Greg Wendt, in the German pro

Dan Kennedy

Kennedy, 26, became the youngest head coach in Observerland last season after just one year as a junior varsity coach at Redford Bishop Borgess High. The Patriots finished 9-13 overall in Kennedy's inaugural season.

"For me it's bittersweet," Freeman said. "I'm happy for Dan because it's a great opportunity for him, but it's a sad time for

Franklin High School because we're losing a quality young man, somebody the players could relate to. They respected not only him, but the way he

"It's going to be difficult to find someone of his caliber to replace him. The opportunity is a oncein-a-lifetime thing for the young man. It's an opportunity he should explore.'

■ Freeman also announced last week that varsity boys soccer coach Frantz Lamarre's contract will not be renewed. Both the boys soccer and basketball jobs will be posted shortly (within the school district), according to the Franklin athletic direc-

Lamarre went 40-31-10 in five years with the Patriots. His 1992 team finished 13-3-3 (best in school history) while gaining a co-championship with Farmington in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Freeman declined to comment on the specifics surrounding Lamarre's dismissal other than to say, "We have not be able to contact or locate him."

Attempts by the Observer to reach Lamarre were unsuccessful. His home phone number is no longer in service. Freeman said that Lamarre, a native of Haiti, is no longer employed by Peterson Spring Co. of Southfield where he worked the past 12 years as a draftsman.

Observerland champs repeat

■ Redford Catholic Central held off an inspired Plymouth Canton team to regain the Observerland Boys Track Relays

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

McKeon's Law, not Murphy's Law, ultimately won out Saturday during the 23rd running of the Observerland Boys Track Relays at Redford Union's Kraft Field. Heavy favorite Redford Catholic Central overcame some bad luck and a determined effort by Plymouth Canton to win its second consecutive championship. It was CC's third Observerland title overall.

Led by senior Eric McKeon, the Shamrocks scored a team-high 83 points, but needed a victory in the meet's final event, the 1,600-meter relay, to earn the first-place trophy. Canton wound up second overall with 75 points, while neighbor Plymouth Salem gained third with 67. See statistical summary.

With Canton trailing by only two points, 73-71, heading into the final event, CC had to finish two spots ahead of the Chiefs to clinch the team

McKeon, CC's do-it-all performer, made sure by anchoring a first-place (3:30.3) 1,600 effort. Others on the foursome were Marc Eden, Brandon Dalziel and Chris O'Keefe. Canton, spurred the gutsy effort of Kevin Gudeth, closed the gap on the final leg, but wound up fourth (3:32.4).

"I was trying to save myself to start, pick it up on the backstretch and go for it on the straightaway,' said McKeon, who also won the open 100-mete dash (11.1) and was a member of the victorious distance medley squad. "I knew the meet was on the line, but I didn't get nervous. When I run, I just go. I try and block everything out.'

Livonia Stevenson led the meet coming out of the field events with 26 points, while Canton was second with 24. CC and Westland John Glenn were third and fourth, respectively, with 21 and 20.

Things, however, started to go sour when Eden, CC's No. 1 hurdler and one of the best in the area, crashed and burned in the 110-meter highs. His fall resulted in zero points. He was, however, able to compete in his remaining events.

The Shamrocks also muffed a baton exchange in the 800-meter relay, not to mention that key distance performers Damon Harris and Joe Leo could not make the meet because of High-wire act: Carl Olszewski cleared 6 feet, 4 inches to lead all individuals in the high jump during Saturday's 23rd running of the Observerland Boys Track Relays, held at Redford Union's Kraft Field.

"I had to start making switches in the middle of the meet," CC coach Tony Magni said. "It seemed like everything that could possibly go wrong did. If Eden had gone down, I don't think we could have won it. He came back good. He ran real well.'

Canton showed consistency throughout afternoon and evening for best showing since 1986. The Chiefs placed in every event with the exception of the open 100, pole vault and open 1,600.

"I think our sprinters came out and surprised a few people," Canton coach Bob Richardson said. "We took a second in the 800 relay and a fourth in the 400 relay with season bests in

"And we knew we'd be close with the distance kids or just behind CC."

Dave Yack, Shawn McNamara, Todd Smith and Jeff Keith (4:27.0 split) teamed up for a win in the 6,400 relay (18:36.1). The Chiefs also overhauled CC in the 3,200 relay as Justin McClain, Matt Demey, Keith and Gudeth (2:01.0 split) were clocked in "This was the best day of the year so far," Richardson said. "John Martin came through in the hurdles and sprints. He was in four events, and that's a heavy day.

"Our weightmen (shot put and discus) came through with a second and fourth. And our high-jumpers picked up a second where we had hoped for a fourth.'

Plymouth Salem, meanwhile, came on strong to overtake Northville for third in the team standings.

"I'm very pleasantly surprised," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "We had a tough week - Tuesday (dual meet loss to Canton), Thursday (loss to Farmington) and Saturday. They surprised me, but they worked hard.' Senior Don Johnson was Salem's workhorse. He was a member of the Rocks' victorious 400, shuttle hurdle and long jump relay teams. Johnson also went 14.9 to finish third in the 110 highs.

Southfield-Lathrup's Maurice Wilson edged Farmington Harrison's Don Bryant to tie a meet record with a time of 14.7. (Wilson and Bryant now share the Observerland mark with Paul Bialowicz of Redford Bishop Borgess, Mike White of Plymouth Salem and Jason Belaire of Livonia

But the man who eventually tipped the scales in CC's favor was McKeon. "He'll run anything," Magni said. "He would have run the four-mile (6,400-meter) relay. He doesn't question anything. He knew where we needed him.

"He'll always do something to win for the team.'

Crusaders fall short in NAIA bid, 2-1

Madonna University's women's softball team gave Northwood Institute all it could handle in Friday's NAIA District 23 playoff championship game before finally calling it a season.

Northwood scored two runs in the bottom of the fourth inning and held off a seventh-inning rally by Madonna to win the District 23 championship, 2-1, at Concordia College.

Madonna, which won two of its first three games in the doubleelimination tournament, ended the season at 18-26 overall.

The Crusaders had just one error in the final loss, three in the last three tournament games.

"We've been playing over errors all year long," MU coach Dave Racer said. "We played very well in the tournament, and I'm very proud of them.

Three errors in the last three games really made a difference, and we got great pitching from Dawn Terrasi. They're a running team, and we shut down their running game.'

Terrasi, a junior, allowed seven hits, no walks and struck out one. Northwood scored its two runs with three straight hits (a single, double and single) with two outs in the fourth inning.

The Crusaders' only run came with two out in the seventh.

Michelle Birchmeier (Redford Thurston) began the rally with a walk. Lynda Weichel's single sent Birchmeier to third. Birchmeier came home after an error by Northwood's second baseman on a grounder by Hughana Wilkie.

Northwood ended the threat by striking out MU's leadoff hitter. Megan Armstong, with Weichel on second and Wilkie on first.

MU will lose two players, pitcher Kristen Wasil (Garden City) and Armstrong, to graduation.

'They were both team players," Racer said. "Megan's been with us three years and is a competitor. Kristen had a great attitude. It's going to be hard to replace that."

A tough start

The tournament started Thursday in a manner Racer had hoped to avoid. The Crusaders committed four errors, which led to six unearned runs, in an 8-4 loss to first-place Siena Heights.

Madonna scored a run in the second on Birchmeier's single, and got three in the fifth, two coming home on Kim Supron's single.

It wasn't enough to overcome the Saints. They pushed across four runs in the first off Terrasi, three of them unearned. They added three more in the third and another in the fifth. Robyn Humes got the win, throttling the Crusaders on just five hits.

Defense was Racer's biggest worry entering the tournament. In the second game, Madonna found

Racer takes credit for a large part of it. Birchmeier, a natural outfielder, had struggled at shortstop most of the season. It was her error that led to Siena Heights' four-run first inning in the first game.

Rater switched Birchmeier to center field for the second game and she excelled. Armstrong came in from the outfield to play short.

Madonna did not commit an error in the second game and had just one in the third game. The Crusaders eliminated secondseed Aquinas with a 7-1 victory, then knocked top-seed Siena Heights from the tourney with a 4-3 win in Thursday's last game.

They broke a 1-1 tie against Aquinas with a three-run fourth inning, two scoring on Birchmeier's double, then iced it with a three-run seventh, hammering 1992 district player of the year Jodi Borowicz for 10 hits en route. Chargers lose pitching duel

When pitchers like Kelly Holmes and Karen Jose go headto-head, you expect a low-scoring, suspenseful softball game like the one played Thursday at Livonia Churchill.

It was high school softball at its best as Holmes and her Plymouth Canton teammates eked out a 2-1 victory in nine innings over Jose and the Chargers.

The win gives the No. 2-ranked Chiefs (10-2) the early advantage in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association at 4-0. Churchill is 3-1 and

The game was scoreless through eight innings as the pitchers dominated. Holmes (19) and Jose (12) combined for 31 strikeouts and issued two walks

Canton had five hits and the Chargers' three. The Chiefs made one error, Churchill three.

"I think both coaches knew we had the two best pitchers in the area, and both are going to keep them in the game," Canton coach Jim Arnold said. "It's just a matter of which team is going to make a mistake first.'

The Chiefs eventually got their break in the ninth inning, scoring both runs on an error.

Lisa Nicastri singled and Tina Schafer walked, and both advanced on a sacrifice by Holmes.

On a failed bunt attempt, Karrie Drinkhahn (running for Nicastri) was caught between third base and home plate. When the throw went to third, she headed for home. The third baseman threw over the catcher's head, allowing both runs to score.

Churchill got its run in the bottom of the ninth. Chrissy Daly reached base because of an error on her bunt and scored on a twoout, infield single by Stacey

"To get two (runs) off Holmes is tough," Churchill coach Dana Hardwidge said. "The kids were sort of down after going all that way and letting them score, but
