Schools seek tax-hike support

A school board committee is expected to unveil a millage request Tuesday. More than 100 community leaders have been invited to hear the proposal and are being asked to get behind the fall effort to save school programs.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

With $14 million in budget cuts looming, a Wayne-Westland school tax proposal for an October election is expected to emerge Tuesday evening during a crucial meeting. A three-member school board committee is expected to issue a recommendation for a specific tax proposal and an election date during the public session scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Dyer Center on Marquette, east of Newburgh Road.

The recommendation will be decided by the full seven-member board during a special emergency session that will be subsequently called by board president Francis "Bud" Winter — possibly later this week.

Despite an anti-tax mood among school district voters, the board hopes to gain widespread support for a tax increase to restore programs and services that have been eliminated or dramatically slashed for the coming school year.

"It's devastating, just like Hurricane Andrew was or like the floods in Iowa are today," board vice president Mathew McCusker said Friday. "If the quality of the school district goes down, the quality of the entire community goes down.

The debilitating budget cuts are to be implemented this fall, eliminating all extracurricular activities and halting transportation for junior high and high school students. Nearly 200 employees have been laid off, in a move to dramatically scale back programs and services such as school libraries.

The budget crunch, termed a crisis by school officials, emerged after district voters in April soundly rejected a tax renewal. Moreover, local residents in June joined voters statewide in defeating Proposal A, a tax-shift plan

Scouts: happy campers

BY DARRELL CLEM

An older person could tire out just listening to 8-year-old Toni Ward of Westland talk about her summertime activities.

"I've been swimming and cating lunch and learning how to take care of animals and making necklaces and carving soap.

Whew! All in a single breath.

Such is life for 130 Girl Scouts who attended a weeklong summer camp last week in Westland's Central City Park.

For six hours a day, girls from Westland, Garden City, Canton Township, Wayne, Belleville and Dearborn Heights had fun — mostly in the sun - at the Wayne-West-Jand Girl Scout Day Camp. The few raindrops that fell didn't dampen their enthusiasm.

The theme, "Outdoor Adventures," marked the camp's 10th year in the park.

The youngsters learned to tie knots, handle knives safely, pitch tents and make decorative jewelry boxes from cardboard.

Benefits coming

Several fund-raisers are planned this summer for the Westland police department's Drug Abuse Resistance Education program. One golf benefit will be held Thursday, Aug. 19, at Faulkwood Shores Golf Club, sponsored by Westland Travel. Two hole-in-one contests will be held, by North Brothers Ford and Jack Demmer Ford. In each contest, a new car will be awarded to the first golfer who sinks a hole-in-one. Application forms are available at the police department, on Ford east of Newburgh. The fee is $75.

Another golf outing, the fourth annual North Brothers Ford event, will be Saturday, Aug. 28, at Fox Creek Golf Course, Livonia. The fee is $60. Raffle tickets are being sold this month and next under the sponsorship of the Westland Chamber of Commerce and North Brothers. The proceeds will benefit the DARE program. First prize is a Caribbean cruise for two; second is a replica of President John Kennedy's desk and chair. Third is a 21-inch color television. The drawing will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 23, at North Brothers, on Ford at Farmington Road.

Hockey greats coming

Two of the Detroit Red Wings' greatest players will be at autograph sessions on Saturday, July 31 at Play Ball, a sports clothing and card business on Warren Road, one block west of Wayne Road.

Gordie Howe will be signing autographs from 2-4 p.m., while Alex Delvecchie will be on hand from noon to 2 p.m. Tickets are $12, which covers both sessions. Advance tickets are on sale.

Start the music

Four John Glenn High School musicians are among 180 high school students attending Western Michigan University's 42nd annual summer music camp. The students will take part in special instructional programs for the two weeks, ending Saturday. The Glenn musicians include clarinetists Erika Ollifa and Heather Allsteadt, bassoonist Anne Galbraith and percussionist Sammye Hicks. The summer program will conclude with a series of public recitals and concerts scheduled for Thursday through Saturday on the campus in Kalamazoo.

Joseph Marinelli, lame-duck Livonia school superintendent, is one of three finalists to head the Warren Consolidated Schools in Macomb County.

Marinelli, hired by Livonia five years ago, announced last month he would resign as soon as he obtains another position and would leave no later than June 30.

Marinelli and two other finalists for the Warren superintendency had their communities visited last week by a special school board committee.

The other finalists are Paul Stamatakis of Dearborn Heights No. 7 Schools and Ted Culver of Pinckney Schools, who was a Wayne-Westland district finalist a year ago.

Former Warren Superin-tendent George DePillo announced his retirement from the 14,250-student school district in early March. The three applicants were selected following interviews July 8-10 with seven people from Michigan school districts. They had been selected from 32 applicants who met the qualifications and criteria developed by the school board.

More than 50 people attended one or more of the interviews of the seven candidates in person at the district's administration building. Those attending the Saturday morning session received an evaluation form from the board for all seven applicants.

"We're sincerely interested in what the residents and employees have to say about the seven applicants that we se-lected for interviews," said a school board spokesman.

The school board has tentatively set July 27 for formal reporting of the visitations, second interviews if needed and a possible selection.

A court ruling has been delayed on whether a Westland man should stand trial on charges of beating his wife of 32 years with a rubber mallet.

A preliminary examination for 54-year-old Walter Philip Vansant, a retired radiologist, was postponed Thursday at his attorney's request in Westland's 18th District Court.

"The defendant, according to his attorney, is emotionally and mentally unable to assist in his own defense," said court administrator David Wiacek.

The hearing, which will determine if Vansant should stand on a charge of felonious assault, has been delayed for a month, Wiacek said.

Vansant has been accused of hitting his 51-year-old wife, Rebecca, four times in the head with a rubber mallet and holding her down on the floor for an hour as she bled, Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe has said.

The couple was in the process of getting a divorce when the incident allegedly occurred about 7:15 a.m. June 24, Stobbe said.

Rebecca Vansant told police that she was attacked while she was watching television in the family room of the couple's house. She reported that the assault was unprovoked.

The wife reported that she fell forward after being hit by the rubber mallet, hitting her forehead on an unknown object and cutting her head, police reports said.

Her husband eventually phoned for an ambulance, and she was treated at Garden City Hospital for lacerations on her forehead and on the back of her head, police reports said.

Walter Vansant was arraigned June 25 on a charge of felonious assault. A plea of not guilty has. been entered on his behalf.

He has been released from custody on a personal bond. He could face a maximum sentence of five years in prison if convicted, Stobbe has said.

Graduate earns an 'A' for perfect attendance

BY SUSAN ROSIEK STAFF WRITER

From the time she started first grade to her last day at Churchill High School, Paula Hearn of Westland never missed a day of school.

That's right. Perfect attendance for 12 years.

It's an honor that eludes most students by the time they finish their first year of school, but with lots of determination and a little luck. Paula Hearn is among a very select group. How select is uncertain, but school officials can't remember the last time a student accomplished perfect attendance for such a long period.

"It's very, very unusual," said Jay Young, spokesman for Livo-nia Public School. "In fact, I've been here for 13 years and I can't ever think of it happening," said Young.

Hearn, 17, graduated last month from Churchill High School with a 3.4 average. She is the daughter of Joe and Tesa Hearn and the oldest of four children.

"It was quite an event around here." said her dad, Joseph Hearn. "We're very proud of her. She's a good person. She's a sevious person — she follows through; she an asset to the community." he said.

Her dad admits Paula was a little lucky, too. She had measles and chicken pox during the summer, so she never missed any school for illness.

"We never encouraged her to go to school if she was ill but she's a healthy person," said Joseph Hearn, adding that "Paula seemed inspired from the second or third grade. It became her goal it was a tough achievement.' Paula says her perfect attendance "just sort of happened" up until the sixth grade when she received an award. "Then as high school approached, my parents encouraged me to continue." said Paula.

In addition to her perfect attendance at school. Paula has never missed a day at work. Since April 1992, she has worked at Clyde Smith & Sons on Newburgh Road. During the school year she. worked part-time; full-time during the summer.

At Churchill, she was a member of the wind ensemble, the marching band and treasurer of the German club. To top if off, she took a trigonometry class at Schoolcraft College last spring.

Late next month, she starts classes full-time at Schoolcraft where she won a trustees scholarship. She'll study electronics and music and hopes to combine the two majors in a career.

"I'd like to create new keyboards or a company like Yamaha," said Paula, who plays the flute and oboe and sings in her church choir.

So far none of the other Hearn children - Edward, 12, Cathy, 7, and Rachael, 4, --- are following in Paula's footsteps. But her dad is quick to point out that Edward and Cathy "are fine students." Rachael has yet to start her school career.

Asked if she plans to continue her quest for perfect attendance throughout college. Paula said:

Club scholarship provides winner with opportunity to further career

Yvonne Bell, who grew up in Garden City, is the winner of the Westland Business and Professional Women's first scholarship award.

Bell, 43, will use the $1,000 scholarship to get an accelerated bachelor's degree from Concordia College in Ann Arbor.

The BPW initiated the scholarship to allow a Westland woman who is entering or re-entering the work force the opportunity to further her education.

Bell wants to use her college studies to further her career in health care management, she said at the BPW dinner meeting last week. She is a program assistant in the quality assurance department of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor, where she began working nearly three vears ago.

The single mother of a 9- and 11-year-old and an adult son, Bell admitted that she never applied for a scholarship before. "I am thrilled and tickled at winning the (BPW) scholarship, which is an honor," she said. "My kids are also happy for me." Bell and Kristie Smith, a University of Michigan-Dearborn marketing student who also applied for the scholarship, were guests at the dinner meeting and received complimentary club membership. The scholarship winner said she was born and raised in Garden City, living there for 21 years before moving to Westland.

She received her high school diploma through the Garden City school district's adult education program, attending evening class-68

Bell first enrolled in a college in 1986 after working 17 years as a waitress in two area restaurants.

"A divorce at that time forced me to realize that I would need to further my education to achieve a professional position to support my family," she wrote the scholarship committee. Four years later, she received an associate degree in medical records science from Schoolcraft College.

That helped her get the VA Hospital position, first working in the medical records department before being promoted six months ago to her current post.

Besides working and raising two elementary school-aged children, Bell was active in church and Scouting groups. She is a Christ the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church board of education member and a representative of the Canton Township church's extension fund. She taught Bible school, weekday school and cochaired the church's annual free Thanksgiving dinner for needy families.

After being a leader in her daughter's Brownie troop, Bell is now a den mother for her son's Cub Scout pack.

Bell hopes to complete her degree requirements in 13 months.

A Wayne-Westland citizens committee that hopes to raise community money to pay for extracurricular student activities remains optimistic, despite low attendance at its meetings and the resignation of two of its 16 board members.

In addition, two people have resigned from CSCE's 16-member board of directors since June 28. citing time constraints. However, they have indicated they will remain active in the committee.

"As far as I'm concerned, we're running all (extracurricular activities) or none," he said.

CSCE leaders also have tried to allay fears that their fund-raising plans could detract from the district's efforts to pass a tax increase to restore a wide array of educational programs and services that have been cut.

"I'm still positive about what we're trying to do," leader Donald Mead said.

4 The committee, Community Support for a Complete Education, hopes to raise corporate money and sponsor telethons, raffles, auctions, lotteries, dances and other activities to support extracurricular programs.

Those programs cost $850,000 a year.

"It's going to be a hard job," Mead said Wednesday, during CSCE's second public meeting. "If we don't get more people, it's going to be an even harder job."

About 50 people attended the group's kickoff meeting June 28 at Westland's Bailey Recreation

Mead predicted that grassroots involvement will increase when CSCE launches its first fund-raiser and parents see that the group is serious. A specific event has not yet been scheduled.

CSCE leaders have tried to allay fears of some parents that the group's primary goal is to save athletics. The leaders have repeatedly stressed that they want to support all extracurricular activities.

"It's not just an athletic organization," Mead said Wednesday. "We've been called that a few times by a few people, but that's not what this is.

Another executive board member, Terry Hewer, agreed.

CSCE members have conceded that they won't be able to raise the money needed to restore extracurricular activities for the coming school year. However, they are encouraging the school board to approve a plan allowing students to pay to participate in the activities.

If a pay-to-play plan is approved, CSCE hopes to raise at least some money to help reduce the cost to students. The per-pupil cost has been estimated at $360.

The school board has appointed a task force to study pay-toplay. A recommendation from that panel is expected soon.

'Drivers' won't see youth home

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Two young boys accused of joy-riding in two Wayne-Westland school buses are not expected to be placed in a youth home, police said.

Because of their ages, 7 and 8, the boys will likely remain in their parents' custody, even if they are charged and found guilty, said Sgt. Christopher Johnson of the Wayne Police Department.

The boys have been blamed for playing "bumper cars" inside the Wayne-Westland bus yard and causing minor damages to nine school buses and a van. The vehicles received scrapes, bent fenders and broken mirrors during the June 28 evening spree.

The youngsters were able to start the buses because district mechanics failed to remove the keys. The bus garage is on Howe Road, south of Michigan Avenue, in Wayne.

Wayne police have filed reports about the case with juvenile court authorities in Detroit, and juvenile prosecutors will decide whether the boys should be charged, Johnson said.

"I don't know if they're going to be charged," he said. "Because of their ages, I don't know their ability to formulate right and wrong. It's on the fence, this time.

Johnson indicated it's "real questionable" that the boys would face any serious charges.

"But it's entirely up to juvenile (authorities) at this point," he said.

The boys' parents have been in "full cooperation" with police, Johnson said. When asked if It's possible the youngsters could be removed permanently from their homes, he replied "Absolutely said Randy Liepa, the district's chief fiscal officer. U School officials have indicated they may try to recoup some of the repair costs from the boys' parents, although Liepa said, We really don't know right now.

Wayne police have refused to release the identities of the boys - even to school officials.

'We don't even know who they are," Liepa said.

Wayne County officials begin budget cut battle

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Part II of the Wayne County Budget Battle opened Friday as the executive and legislative branches of Wayne County government began arguing about how to close an $11.75 million deficit.

Commissioners voted 9-4 to approve a roster of cuts that's vastly different from the cuts suggested by the executive branch. Deputy Executive Michael Duggan said Executive Edward McNamara will veto the commission's action, but 215 layoff notices will go out this week anyway. It was unknown at press time just who would be laid off.

'This is the most irresponsible action I've seen in nine years in county government," said Duggan, who went on to call the commissioners who voted against his plan a "phony group of hypocrites.'

Commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, voted against the commission's cuts. Commissioner Kay Beard, D-

McCotter particularly objected to the commission's cut of $600,000 in public services rent and utilities because he doesn't think it's possible. "If you can't get 600 grand out of rents and utilities, where are you going to take it from?" he said. "Elected officials should sacrifice before the general public. One of McNamara's most controversial suggestions was to take $500,000 from the commission's $6-million-plus personal budget.

The commission voted to eiiminate half of that cut, but still reduced the salaries of commission and executive branch appointees by 31/2 percent.

The commission also voted to contribute $500,000 less to the abused and neglected children's fund than McNamara wants to contribute.

Fight looms over state school aid bill

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

A big fight over the same sized pie.

That's how the battle over school aid is shaping up in House and Senate appropriations committees.

On one side will be Reps. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, and Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. They will try to keep outstate lawmakers from taking away state payments for Social Security and retirement from their suburban districts.

On the other will be senators trying to eliminate all state categorical payments so that per-pupil spending in poorer districts can be raised.

"Get your amendments drafted," chair Bob Emerson, D-Flint, told members of the subcommiton school appropriations. "We'll have serious discussions Tuesday. There are substantial differences."

Here are the numerical tools House members are working with: Student enrollment - projected to drop 0.6 percent to 1.65 million in fall. Total state aid - up 0.5 percent to $3.54 billion.

Per pupil aid - up 1 percent to $2.140.

"Recapture" of categorical aids up 9 percent to $79 million. "Recapture" is a takeaway item the amount Lansing subtracts from school districts with high property tax bases with the left hand after voting it with the right hand.

Components of the total state aid dollar figure are taking a significant turn. The $3.54 billion stricted fund that includes part of the sales tax and the Lottery, which will rise 9.4 percent to $2.6 billion; and a general fund contribution, which will be cut 20 percent to $832 million. On balance, it's an increase of 0.5 percent and most will go into job training.

Chief reason for the declining general fund component is a decade of hefty increases for prisons.

Bankes said she will seek to guarantee the bulk of the job training money goes to the "at risk" unemployed, people on the economic margins, rather than retraining already skilled workers.

On the Senate side, Dan De-Grow, R-Port Huron, is reported ready to attack all categorical money, Social Security and retirement payments to wealthier suburban districts.

Both House and Senate ver sions reflect, to different degrees, Lansing's tendency to put as much of a flat budget as possible into general school aid (up 4.7 percent) and reduce line items for special programs.

To suburban districts, most of which receive no state aid because of high property tax bases, it's a continuation of the bad news they've had for the last five or so years

All districts will be expected to absorb up to 25 percent of their Social Security costs. But wealthier districts will be told to shoulder up to 50 percent of the cost. And when "recapture" is figured in, a district like Bloomfield Hills may get next to nothing from that state line item.

One exception may be an $18 million item for schools with high enrollment growth.

Bill gives non-smokers more space in restaurants

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Cleaner restaurant air? Or overrégulation of business?

The clean air side won a 79 to 16 battle in the state House of Representatives as it approved a bill to require that half of all restaurant space be reserved for nonsmokers.

Since approximately 85 percent of Michigan's population are nonsmokers," said sponsor Greg Pitoniak, D-Taylor, "I believe state law needs to move closer to protecting their right to dine in a healthier environment."

All area lawmakers agreed with three exceptions: Rep. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester; Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, who said the bill "would restrict the private property rights of any entrepreneur who operates a restaurant or small business, and Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, more than 50 seats. Township.

Pitoniak's bill, which was sent to the Senate, would:

Start with the presumption that food service establishments are nonsmoking facilties and that management may designate smoking areas.

Increase nonsmoking seating requirements to at least 50 percent versus the current 12 to 24 percent in establishments with Allow smaller establishments to permit up to 75 percent smoking.

In 1992, said Pitoniak, the Environmental Protection Agency blamed "environmental" smoke for some 3,000 lung cancer deaths among nonsmokers.

Forget Jimi, Lenny; try Jason

He's been compared to Jimi Hendrix and Lenny Kravitz. His smooth, soulful voice has been likened to Peter Gabriel, Sting, Seal and even D'Arby. But Jason McCauley Berry would prefer to be judged on his own merits.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

The first time Jason McCauley Berry laid eyes on pop star Terence Trent D'Arby, he saw a "ray of light." "When I saw him for the first time, I thought I had to get hair like that," Berry said with a laugh. "I didn't even know what it was called or anything."

A few years later, after friend and fellow musician Geoff Corman of Black Mali got dreadlocks, he followed.

Now, Berry's hair and guitar styles have collected for him comparisons to Jimi Hendrix and Lenny Kravitz. One club's radio spot even advertised his show as "If you love Jimi Hendrix or Lenny Kravitz, you'll love Jason McCauley Berry.'

Berry sort of sees the comparisons as shallow. 'It's just the obvious comparisons that they latched on to, the dreads, we're a trio, a black guy leading two white guys," said McCauley Berry about his band, The All Night Fish Market.

STREET BEATS

He admits there's a few viable comparisons. They deal with the respective musicians' musical tastes, however, not styles.

"Me and Lenny don't have much in common except I'm just as confused as he is about the state of music, about what's hot." "He's so into the '70s . . . I don't think I've completely given up on something new.' Berry said, however, that some comparisons are nice.

'Jimi's a guitar God; any comparisons guitar wise is flattering, but I have a long way to go.' His smooth, soulful voice has been likened to Peter Gabriel? Sting, Seal and even D'Arby. It seems he's brought on some of those comparisons himself, doing covers of Seal's 'Crazy" and D'Arby's "She Kissed Me.

"It's weird; I really dig these cats. I know that's (comparisons) gonna be a hurdle that I'll always have to face.'

Berry has only had his band since early this year when he graduated with a degree in classical guitar from Olivet College. Berry prepared himself for his band by joining Weeping Rachel prior to graduation. In high school, he gigged with a "positive" rap band and a heavy metal band.

Although he plays mostly bluesy rock, Berry said he feels "rap to me is the only music." 'Rap is what rock'n'roll used to be. It's still developing in all these different divisions. It's the only music I can get into."

Along with doing original material, he has rapped at his shows. Recently, he did a medley of DAS EFX and Brand New Heavies/Grand Puba raps. But because he's antsy about performing new stuff, he dumped them.

We have to keep the pace of our writing at a steady click," he said. "I get bored. Plus there's the people who have never seen us before. I'm trying to please both sets of people.' He also works hard to please his band. "I never tell (bandmates) Frank (Corl) and Tim (Carney)how to behave on stage; I just say, do what you do, develop your own thing.'

Jason McCauley Berry performs Saturday, Aug. 7, at Alvin's, 5756 Cass. Detroit. For more information, call 832-2355. He also performs: Aug. 14 at Earthfest at the State Fairgrounds, State Fair and Woodward

MUSIC NOTES

As Dwarves fans probably (hopefully) figured out last week at the band's show at the Marquee in Detroit June 19, guitarist Hewhocannotbenamed really isn't dead.

The story, which said Hewho was killed in a bar fight, was concocted by Hewho and vocalist Blag Dahlia. Dahlia convinced his band's label Sub Pop records that it was true. When officials at the Seattle label found out it was a hoax, Hewho and the boys were officially dropped from Sub Pop.

Stylish hipsters now have their own discount card. The Avant-Carde allows holders to receive discounts on vary music items at independent stores, such as The Beat Hotel in Berkley, The Record Collector in Livonia and Repeat the Beat, including the Plymouth store. They also can get into clubs like Industry in Pontiac, the State Theatre and The Shelter, both in Detroit, for reduced cover.

The card, which sells for $10 per year, also provides discounts at stores that sell accessories, art, books, clothing, coffee, collectibles and lingerie. Hair salons and new age stores are also included.

For more information, call founders Lew Perrotta and Wendy Sorek at 476-1634.

Plymouth-Canton/Plymouth-Salem's radio station WSDP 58.1 FM is looking for bands to appear on its local band show. For more information, call Sweena Aulakh at 451-6266.

Warren Zevon has joined the production team of "Route 66," NBC-TV's remake of the popular 1960s television series. Zevon has written and performed an original composition for the show's theme. His new responsibilities include composing and scoring all music featuring in the series. The show stars Dan Cortese ("MTV Sports" host) and James Wilder ("Equal Justice").

"I'd rather her be with me than try to explain what's happening over the phone," he said.

"We're a good team."

Def Leppard's tour may close by the end of the year, but currently they're touring with labelmates Ugly Kid Joe. The bands will play Pine Knob Music Theatre Friday, July 23. Ugly Kid Joe bassist Cordell Crockett said the camaraderie between the two bands is "amazing."

"It's cool; we jam together. They're the nicest guys," said Crockett.

Ugly Kid Joe, which has scored hits with "Cats in the Cradle" and "Everything About You," visited Pine Knob last summer as well opening for Ozzy Osbourne. Crockett was probably the most memorable member.

Ugly Kid Joe has made a name for itself by touring with acts like Ozzy. This is sort of what Crockett expected.

"I had visions of playing big shows but I never thought about the interviews, the photo sessions, signing autographs.'

But he does like seeing the world.

"It's amazing where playing a bass guitar can bring you around the world.'

Def Leppard and Ugly Kid Joe per-form at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 23, Pine Knob Music Theatre, I-75 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston. Tickets are $22.50 pavilion or $20 lawn. For more information, call 377-0100 or 645-6666.

ox screening reunites Rhett, Scarlett

By JOHN MONAGHAN

8A×

You have the limited-edition collectors' plates. You've memor-124d each line of dialogue, every thord of the Max Steiner score. You even stood in line for your copy of "Scarlett," the long-awaited sequel to Margaret Mitchell's original novel. So it's not surprising that you're off to catch "Gone With the Wind" once again during its current run at the Fox Theatre through July 25. Try these reasons to justify seeing it for the 35th time:

■ The history — The fascinating details in the "Making of Gone With the Wind" documentary may have piqued your interest. You want to see if the burning of Atlanta (actually the old "King Kong" sets) still looks real now that you know how it was done.

The King — Some biographers and former leading ladies will tell you that Clark Gable had horrible breath, but he looks fantastic as Rhett. He was originally reluctant to take the part (he thought it was too big for him), but this remains by far his greatest role.

Goose bumps — The swooping crane shot that reveals countless dead and wounded soldiers at the railroad station. The silhouetted shot in the setting sun where Scarlett looks to tomorrow, only topped by Rhett's "Frankly, my dear...." final line.

The color — For years, prints of the 1939 MGM classic had faded to washed-out sepia. The green fields turned brown and everyone's skin registered rosy pink. The silver anniversary re-release Sof the film, funded by colorization king Ted Turner, restored new prints back to their former glory. And, of course, the fabulous Fox — The movie reportedly never played here before and it looks great in such opulent surroundings. There will also be an organ concert before the film and a souvenir program/theater tour guide given to each moviegoer.

on the good old days before the Frankly, you don't give a damn that "Gone With the Wind" is war, just like the entire film does. And what can you say about a back in town. You've seen it, mayfilm whose second most memora-ble line is "I don't know nothin' be even liked it, but don't plan to shell out a sawbuck to catch it 'bout birthin' no babies?' again. Chance to just say 'no' appeals to taxpayers

Question: As a committed teacher for more than 20 years, it seems like we are getting bashed by some of our public. Millages are going down, while teacher strikes are seen as holding a hammer over the heads of residents. Are we educators losing the confidence of the public? What are your thoughts about millage issues and teacher strikes in today's environment?

Answer: Let's look at the issues individually!

Millage, bond issues

This is the only voting opportunity in which citizens can go into a booth, close the curtain and say no. It has to be a great feeling for some residents frustrated with rising costs in all areas - food, clothing, cars - to say no to a tax increase.

Name one opportunity, other than a school millage or bond issue, in which a resident can say no to a cost increase. There are none! All other cost increases in our country are determined by company boards of directors or through our political representatives.

Recently, at a backyard party with some auto executives (some driving $40,000 cars), whose kids are now out of school, a recent millage issue in my community came up. They made it clear they were tired of paying school taxes and therefore voted no on the June 1993 school millage. Their kids' education was paid for by other taxpayers over the years.

I asked the execs why I didn't get an opportunity to vote yes or no on that $400 window-sticker price increase on the car I wanted to buy. They laughed and thought I was joking! I said, "I don't think it's funny. As you have a right to vote on a school cost increase, I want the right to vote on a car cost increase. I want my right to say no.'

Their answer was, "Car costs go up every year." My response was, "Do you think educational costs go down every year?

Indeed, a school millage is the only opportunity for frustrated residents to say no to a cost increase. And, in fairness, some simply can't afford a higher millage!

Teacher strikes

Teacher strikes this fall will gain about as much sympathy as Israel and our country have for Saddaam Hussein. With IBM laying off another 50,000, plants and air bases closing, and college graduates with no jobs, these situations indicate to me (a former president of the Plymouth Education Association) that a teacher strike this fall will accomplish nothing more than driving away residents who might otherwise have been swing votes in future millage elections.

One supportive parent (whose pay has been frozen for two years) told me "they (teachers) can walk 'til they wear their legs off at the knees . . . as far as I'm concerned.'

Michigan Education Association

The MEA has done wonders for * teachers over the years, and I benefited from their efforts. In these tough times, members of the MEA and the MEA leadership will show their "colors."

If it comes down to increasing elementary student class sizes from, for example, 24 to 38 children, or taking a pay freeze, I would assume the MEA and teachers, who supposedly got into the profession to help children, would take a minimum increase or a pay freeze.

A teacher pay freeze, of course, would mean that the superintendent and other administrators would also take a pay freeze.

And if those who know me say. "Well, he's retired now and changing color," that's not true. I have never voted no on a millage issue, and that includes during my retirement years.

Teachers' salaries and benefits in Michigan are among the top four when compared to those in other states.

Times are tough in Michigan right now. Communities need this time to see what is finally coming down from Gov. John Engler and his Lansing buddies.

This fall, it will be interesting to see whether teachers in districts with a cash crunch go for a strike or for a 'vote for kids" — the same scenario educators have used on parents in school millage elections for the last 30 years.

If teachers want to maintain the confidence of a public that has cared for them so well since negotiations started in 1965, it's now their moment to demonstrate they recognize the tough economic times of the '90s.

Will they vote for "kids" or for money? A teacher strike this fall will have residents using a new word: anathema, a thing or person to be greatly detested.

Parent involvement necessary to child welfare hese are difficult times for parents. It isn't easy for children. The excesses of pop culture constantly bombard them, from Madonna and other rock stars to the lurid drug and sex stories found on network television. What child above 5 hasn't heard of Long Island Lolita?

We also can't shield them from harsh local or global realities, whether butchery in Yugoslavia or starvation in Somalia. What's worse, many negative media messages are aimed right at children.

While children know more at earlier and earlier ages, they also want more. Society has spawned much of this Time-stressed, two-income families must rely on day care centers as well as the latchkey. Children are independent as never before, living in their worlds of Nintendo and MTV.

Our problem as parents is twofold. On one hand, the experiences of children continue to get ahead of value system and family standards. At the same time, quite frankly, many parents are timid about enforcing limits of behavior. I'm talking about limits at all levels: from the family dinner table and regulation of viewing and reading material to dating curfews, driving privileges and even choice of friends.

Good parenting demands standards of behavior for the sake of a child's positive development. What is our own homework that we need to complete before setting this value system?

First, know what you are talking about. Read the magazines your children want to read; watch the movies and television shows they want to see. Know which heavy metal records contain vulgar or obsene lyrics; know which movies feature scenes that don't fit your family's value system. Dealing from such knowledge will establish credibility when you set limits.

THOMAS HERBST

Our problem as parents is twofold. On one hand, the experiences of children continue to get ahead of value system and family standards. At the same time, quite frankly, many parents are timid about enforcing limits of behavior.

Second, know your children's friends, their peer group. Don't worry if the living room rug gets dirty. I don't mean to be smug, but let's get away from this overly secretive world that today's children inhabit. Encourage your children to play with their friends in the presence of your entire family. Take your children and their friends with you on that trip to the hardware store.

When children know you, they will trust you.

Third, know the parents of your children's friends. A good way to start is when your teen, for instance, is attending a party outside your home. Pick up the phone and introduce yourself to the host parents. Make sure that adults will supervise the party. Again, base your actions on knowledge, not first emotions.

When done properly, what might have seemed to be old-fashioned behavior becomes reassuring behavior to children. Remember, we all harbor as many or more fears than we articulate

By doing the things I have mentioned, we go a long way toward embracing the responsibilities as well as the rights of parenthood. Above all else, you must be in charge of your child's agenda. Guide and mold the "common sense" that will lead to responsible, consistent decision-making powers throughout life.

Sound value systems lead to respect for family and self, and, in turn, respect for others — a foundation of our entire society.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Cherry growers cheery about this year's crop

rops are failing because of record rains and flooding along the Mississippi River, but this has been a good summer for farmers in Michigan, especially cherry growers who are looking forward to a record harvest.

The Cherry Marketing Institute, a national research and promotional organization representing tart cherry growers, predicts this year's crop will be one of the biggest ever. This will ultimately lower prices on one of my favorite snacking foods - cherries.

Just how big a cherry crop is big? Jane Baker, marketing coordinator for the Cherry Marketing Institute, said latest figures for June indicate a crop totaling 329.7 million pounds, up dramatically from the 215 million pounds harvested last year.

In Michigan, tart cherries are grown from Ben-ton Harbor to Elk Rapids with Traverse City, and the Grand Traverse region, serving as the heart of cherry country. Leelanau County has the most cherry trees, and is therefore titleholder of the largest crop of tart cherries in the state.

Harvesting cherries

The third week of July is usually the peak of the harvest. Cherries are harvested with a mechanical shaker which resembles an upside-down umbrella.

Momma never was one to get too excited about cherries. Jam and jelly making were left to Aunt Phyllis. Big sister Rosie, who undoubtedly inherited momma's feel "for the perfect pie crust," made the cherry pies.

Cherries that made it home usually were sweeter varieties. I remember them so well. They were kept in a colander in the refrigerator for snacking.

According to the Cherry Marketing Institute, sweet cherries are grown primarily in the Pacific coast states. Michigan ranks fifth in production of sweet varieties of cherries including Emperor Francis, Rainier and Schmidt. Bing cherries are not grown in Michigan; the Schmidt variety is similar.

In the past, most of Michigan's sweet cherries were processed — many of them into maraschino cherries.

Most of the tart cherries harvested in Michigan are processed into canned cherry pie filling and dried tart cherries. Dried cherries are similar to raisins, packed with flavor, they make great snacks and are tasty additions to lots of recipes.

Pie filling

If there's one thing that cherries are noted for, it's their ability to adapt to a variety of recipes. Canned cherry pie filling can be used to make a delicious and quick barbecue sauce — just stir in

A Janes' Gang favorite is a casserole made by mixing canned cherry pie filling and canned sweet potatoes together in a greased casserole dish that's baked for 30 minutes at 350 degrees F.

Here's a dish to try later in the summer, when acorn squash becomes more plentiful. Top acorn squash halves with butter and brown sugar, drizzle a can of cherry pie filling on top and bake the squash halves at 350 degrees F. one hour or until tender for a sweet vegetable treat.

Add tart cherries to muffin batter. They'll boost the taste and nutrients in everything from cornbread to any kind of sweet muffin mix.

Planting the seed

European settlers had hardly stepped on the soil of the New World before they began planting cherry trees.

Peter Dougherty, a Presbyterian missionary, is credited with planting the first cherry orchard and, in essence, starting the cherry industry in the Grand Traverse region. Against the advice of an Indian farmer who had grown other fruits in the area. Dougherty planted a cherry orchard in 1852 on the Old Mission Peninsula. Much to the surprise of the Indians and others, Dougherty's cherry trees flourished and soon other residents of the area planted trees.

The area proved to be ideal for growing cherries because Lake Michigan helps temper arctic winds in the winter and cool the orchards in the summer.

Today, there are more than 2 million cherry trees in the Grand Traverse Region.

Tart cherries are available in many forms. In addition to tart cherry pie filling, they are available frozen in individually quick frozen poly-sealed bags, a concentrate that can be reconstituted into juice or used for flavoring and food coloring. Dried cherries both sweetened and unsweetened can be snacked on or used in baking. cereals, meat sauces or trail mixes. Don't forget specialty cherry products like cherry butter, cherry wines, cherry sausages and sauces.

The Janes Gang loves cherries. See recipes inside for new ways to prepare cherries. Bon Appetit!

If poets would just come down to earth and look about, they'd forget about romance and dedicate sonnets to fruit.

Chapoutier makes memorable Rhone wines

Throughout France, a new generation of family winemakers has emerged with some exceptional and stellar wines. The baton has passed from father to a son or daughter who was educated at the world's best winemaking schools. Nowhere is this better exemplified than at M. Chapoutier in France's Northern Rhone Valley. The House of M. Chapoutier was founded in 1808 and has been managed by the Chapoutler family for six generations.

In 1988, Max Chapoutler turned over winemaking duties to his son, Michel, who took charge with enthusiasm. To gain more concentrated flavors. Michel turned his attention to the vineyards.

"Everything that makes a great wine is in the soil and the vines," he said. "My aim is to reduce the winemaker's signature in the wine, to downplay the character of the grape varietal and go back to the earth.'

Although the winery is in Tain-I'Hermltage in the northern Rhone, Chapoutier produces wines from both the northern and southern regions of this marvelous winegrowing area. Chapoutier's more than 200 acres of vineyards, in six appellations of the Rhone Valley (Condrieu, Cote Rotie, Crozes-Hermitage, Hermitage, St. Joseph and Chateauneuf-du-Pape) are organically farmed.

'In the Chapoutier vineyards, we've done more than replace chemicals with natural products,' said 30-year-old Michel Chapoutier. "That's biological farming, not organic viticulture. Our vineyards are deep plowed two to three times annually to remove weeds. No herbicides are ever used. Shallow roots develop when topical chemicale are applied. Deep roots are needed for absorption of the natural chemicals in the soil.

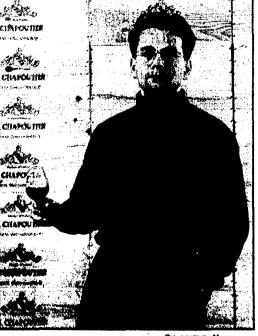

"Three years ago, specifically selected trees, flo-wers and hedges were planted around the vineyard periphery to harbor predators of vineyard parasites.

Chapoutier elaborated the methods of maintaining an average vine age of 50 years in their vineyards. Since individual vines are free-standing (not supported on a wire trellis), it is possible to replace an individual plant when it dies or is no longer a good producer.

"Grape vines are like people, some have a longer life," Chapoutler said. "There are some vines on our estates that were planted in 1901 and they are healthy with flavorful fruit."

Located on some of the Rhone's steepest hillsides, the vines are severely pruned and today's yields are 20 to 30 percent less than they were before Michel took charge. In the cellar, Chapoutier replaced large chestnut casks with small oak bar-rels coopered in Burgundy, 20 to 30 percent of nation's second largest producer: As a rule, it isn't necessary to peel plums before cooking. The peels add to the flavor and aren't unattractive.

It's hard to judge maturity of dark-skinned plums by color, but try to choose fruit that's full colored for its variety. Ripe fruit is slightly soft at the tip end and gives when squeezed gently.

Nectarines

Or you could imagine Joyce Kilmer writing — "I think that I have never seen a poem as lovely as a nectarine."

No less an authority than "The Joy of Cooking" states that nectarines are a cross between a peach and a plum. They aren't. Nectarines were cultivated in China as a distinct variety of fruit at least 2,000 years ago.

The nectarines we buy today are much improved over older varieties. They're larger and redder.

"Michigan-grown nectarines aren't appreciated enough," said Maiorani. "They're juicy and very tasty, but they lack the 'star quality' of the California product. Customers who try them are delighted with their flavor.'

Choose nectarines that have an orange-yellow (not green) background color between the red areas. Ripe nectarines give to gentle pressure but are not as soft as a ripe peach. Generally, nectarines can be substituted when recipes call for peaches.

Apricots

"I could not love thee, Dear, so much/Loved I not 'apricots' more," Richard Lovelace. Apricots are the most fragile of stone fruits, and very difficult to which are new each vintage.

"I don't believe that the oak itself brings any complexity to the wine," Chapoutier said. "It should offer the wine a slow oxidation potential. The problem with chestnut is that it allowed too much oxidation.

"To have flavorful wines, you need flavorful fruit. You get this when the vineyard has low yields and the grapes are picked at peak ripeness. If grapes are picked too early, they have higher acidity which I consider cheap wine insurance. Winemakers who don't know their fruit look for high acid profiles in their fruit as a safeguard. I don't worry about acidity, I look for fruit flavors to make the best wines. It's a myth that wines with higher acidity will have a longer life. A wine should be balanced with generous fruit.'

In the past, a limited number Chapoutier wines have been available in this market. The good news is that many more are being made available. The following tasting notes are only a sampling. Chapoutier wines span the price spectrum from just over $10 for a 1990 Cotes du Ventoux to $51 for the best wine 1990 Hermitage "La Sizeranne."

The 1990 Chapoutier Tavel "La Marcelle" ($21.50) is a rose wine produced from 100 percent gre-nache. "With this wine, I do what we did in the Rhone 100 to 150 years ago when rose wines from the Rhone were held in high esteem," said Chapoutier.

If you think that a rose is a whimpy wine, then try this one with spicy food and watch it work.

1990 Hermitage Blanc "Chante Alouette" ($39) is 100 percent marsanne. The taster is immediately charmed by the orange zest aroma. To discover the difference soil makes, try this wine side-byside with the Chapoutier St. Joseph Blanc ($24) which is also 100 percent marsanne. The Hermitage is full and rich with exceptional body as is the St. Joseph, but it tastes completely different due to the soil elements.

1991 Chateauneuf-du-Pape "La Bernardine" ($27) is highly perfumed with phenomenal length.

find at their peak. They're usually picked green so they'll survive the trip to market, and they just never develop the true delicate apricot flavor.

Most of the Michigan crop is processed, and only 6 percent of the California crop is sold fresh.

A good fresh apricot is precious, so eat it at once, perhaps with a dollop of yogurt or creme fraiche. Look for plump fruit with as much golden orange color as possible. Avoid fruit that's pale or greenish yellow, very firm or shriveled.

Cherries

"Oh my luve is like a red, red, cherry/That's newly sprung in June." (Robert Burns).

The pits of several species of cherries have been found in the Stone Age deposits of Swiss lake dwellings and in the mounds and cliff-caves of prehistoric America. The early colonists brought cultivated varieties with them.

In Michigan, the first commercial crop was harvested in Traverse City in 1896. The dark, sweet, Bing cherry was developed in the Western hemisphere and named for a Chinese workman.

Sweet cherries increase in size, sweetness and depth of color as

FRENCH STONE PEACH TART

- Buttery Pastry Crust
- 11/2 cups all-purpose flour ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 egg yolk, beaten
- 2 tablespoons milk

Combine flour and salt in a mixing bowl. Cut butter in until mixture is in pea-sized pieces. combine egg yolk and milk. Mix into flour mixture, and stir just to mix. Do not over-stir!

Form into a ball, adding more milk if necessary.

Roll dough to fit 11-inch tart pan

(with removable bottom). Fit pastry dough into pan and trim excess. Place waxed paper over dough and fill with dried beans. Bake crust at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Remove paper and beans, and bake 3 more minutes.

GLAZE

1/2 cup apricot preserves 2 teaspoons water 1/8 teaspoon almond extract Filling

3 cups peeled, sliced, ripe, Michigan peaches ---(To peel peaches, pour bolling water over peaches, let set for a couple of minutes, no longer. Skins will slip off easily.) 1 tablespoon glaze

1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened

Heat preserves, water and almond extract until smooth. Stir 1 tablespoon glaze into softened cream cheese, and spread mixture into butter pastry shell. Arrange peaches artistically over filling and brush with remaining glaze. (Glaze may also be spooned over peaches). Refrigerate 1 hour and serve. (This tart must be served the day it is made.)

Summer school features big dog, little bugs

New Morning School of Plymouth Township is in the midst of its annual summer fun classes, called "Discovery Days" for kids aged 3-6 years.

According to teacher Marilyn Romack, students meet for 90 minutes a day, three days a week for two weeks to learn a few things while drawing, assembling and catching any number of arcane stuff.

The idea, Romack said, is to combine activities with education so that the lessons might better adhere to the neurons and synapses of the children's minds. 🕴

Jennifer Goshorn teaches a class called Peanut Butter Picasso, where kids "get to do a lot of crazy things with food that they can't do at home.'

What kinds of things, pray tell? How about finger painting with pudding, lathering toast with milk and food coloring, then crafting bread sculptures. The result, Goshorn said, is that there's "as much education as there is fun in the classroom, and that's what makes it enjoyable.

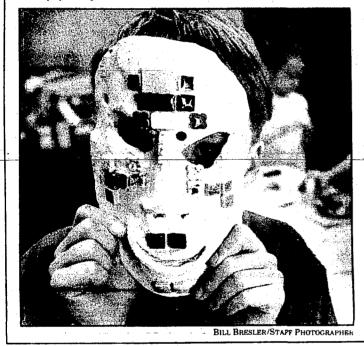

Tammy Jenkins, a Westland resident, taught a class called Fun Physics, where kids embarked on projects like assembling breath-powered rockets from paper cups and construction paper. "It's easier to learn something if you have something to remember it by," like the paper rocket you built, Jenkins said

Fran Brady taught a class called Creepy Crawly, where kids caught bugs, drew pictures of butterflies created faux bugs and baked "sugar cookies that looked like ladybugs, but were very tasty.'

Brady, who ordinarily teaches in the Wayne-Westland district, said it was nice to have a small class at New Morning, where summer class sizes are limited to 12 kids each.

In another class, called Romping with Rudy, kids crecalled . ated telescopes from toilet paper tubes and drew pictures of Rudy, a big friendly rottweiler dog owned by teacher Bonnie Schneider.

New Morning's regular classes will assemble again in the fall. Romack reports that there are openings in the preschool and kindergarten classes. Altogether, New Morning is a cooperative that has about 110 students ranging from preschool to the eighth grade. Students come from throughout western Wayne County. Parents who do volunteer work for the school get a break on tuition. Call 420-3331.

Spread the word about umbrellas century ago, a lady didn't make an appearance in public without her three must-have accessories. Her kid gloves were essential to her wardrobe; her short, high-button shoes were the only style in her armoire; and a parasol with a folding handle, often trimmed in lace and ruffles, swung from her gloved hand and protected her from the rain or sun.

Umbrellas were actually introduced in ancient Mediterranean and Oriental civilizations, and often associated with high rank. They vanished from Europe after the collapse of the Roman Empire and were reintroduced during the late 16th century as elegant fashion necessities. Often made with shades of silk and shafts of ebony or ivory, parasol manufacturing grew steadily in importance until, by the end of the 1800s, it was a major industry in England.

We can look to the charming artwork of Victorian illustrator Kate Greenaway to realize the importance of the umbrella, even in children's attire. Her frolicking lasses are often seen dancing with their parasol or leading a procession, umbrella held high. Her 1883 and 1886 almanacs feature bonneted umbrella-toting young girls.

It is possible even today to complete an outfit with an eye-catching bumbershoot. Forget those boring black nylon Totes. Walk into Lisa Parks' eclectic boutique in Birmingham and look up. There, hanging like decorative artwork from the ceiling, are an array of colorfully patterned umbrellas.

'You really need an umbrella for each season," said Parks. "At least a light one and a dark one. It can accent an ensemble and make a fashion statement while, of course, being entirely functional."

We picture the Liberty design ($60), a vibrant splash of red-orange tomatoes bursting from the vine on a black background. 'Glyph," a black on white southwest Indian motif of cave pictures. or petroglyphs, adorns Parks' window. Other stunning designs include the whimsical "Raining Cats and Dogs"; "The Country," an elegant jacquardlike green-on-black negative image of forest animals; a fun melange of vintage postcards and cowboy kitsch; and a gorgeous purple and white Victorian scene that depicts cupids and birds with stylized suns and a seashell border. All have velcro fasteners and some have shoulder straps.

Two for brew: Tom Cory Sullivan of Birmingham serves coffee at the Grand Cafe in the Cook Building in downtown Farmington to Karen Heidacker of Rochester Hills and Tim Baessler, who lives upstairs in the Cook building.

Coffee shops brew the good times

It's enough to make Juan Valdez stand up and shout. The successful rebirth of the Coffee House on Mainstreet and in some malls is proof that what goes around comes around. For the enlightened crowds of the '90s, that's news that is good to the last drop!

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Take away the smoke-filled rooms, add imported granita and espresso machines, hang a few reproductions of classic paintings, decorate in mahogany wood with brass and frosted glass accents, plan a few poetry readings and book a folk or jazz musician, and voila! There you have it, the Coffee House of the hip and happenin'.

When the Grand Cafe coffee house opened last week in downtown Farmington, it joined the ranks of such establishments as The Java House in downtown Rochester and Royal Oak, The Outback in downtown Plymouth, The Coffee Exchange in downtown Birmingham and The Coffee Trader in West Bloomfield.

Proprietors report standing room only crowds on weekends and a clientele that ranges from medical students sipping coffee while studying textbooks to couples in their 60s discussing the latest summer film over an espresso and fresh fruit tart.

"Coffee houses of the '90s are an alternative to the smoky bar scene," said Jimmy Mazzola, who with his partner Arthur Handy operates The Javas in Royal Oak and Rochester. "There's a new awareness of the wonderful ambiance of the new coffee houses and folks old and young seem to appreciate a place to read, meet, take a first date, discuss the doings of the day.

"Coffee shops are inviting, relaxed, not pretentious. They're replacing the bistros of the '80s and the disco bars of the '70s.'

Jenny Stieger of West Bloomfield said she and her friends bicycle up to the three-month-old Coffee Trader in West Bloomfield's Crosswinds Mall "to meet other kids and talk."

To help her associates successfully create, package and market their mall projects. Maccardini called on 20 years of experience in the retail sector to suggest five courses of action. She

Of course, traditionalists out there will want to opt for a tasteful beige Burberry Check umbrella from the original Burberry's of London in the Somerset Collection. The fine cotton poplin style features a one-piece continuous teak handle ($190).

"The handle is like a walking stick," said general manager Patricia Rosen. Burberry's is known for its raingear, and once you own the classic trench, a scarf and an umbrella are needed accouterments. Though Burberry's bumbershoots are guaranteed to stand up to the hardest of winters, Rosen can even direct you to the country's premier umbrella repair shop, Uncle Sam's in New York, if you should need a minor adjustment.

You know, the umbrella business has expanded to include a variety of sun shades. There are beach umbrellas and market umbrellas. even umbrella strollers. Remember the old collapsible, one-position stroller that was a welcome introduction in the late '70s? Well, the all-new umbrella stroller is improved beyond compare.

Clamp one on Bellini, the children's furniture and accessory store at 1875 Woodward in Birmingham, carries the Pliko stroller by Perego ($239). The navy dotted and striped carriage folds like a golf bag to fit in the overhead compartment of an airplane, yet it has a three-position recliner, a front bar restraint and a full bonnet or hood.

'It's great," said Sharyl Ackerman, a satisfied owner. "It lays back, it's lightweight, it's really all you need. I keep mine in the trunk of the car.

Bellini also offers Le Parasol, a clip-on umbrella in a variety of patterns and colors. Clamp it onto the stroller or baby carrier. Perfect for the beach ($27, special order only).

Finally, to add a decorative touch to a sunroom, Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place in Livonia displays hand-painted canvas umbrellas. The oversized sunflower and the tropical garden designs are both unique works-of-art ($35). Matching directors' chairs and watering cans complete the collection.

Owners Pat and Robert DuPell transformed a former Domino's pizza outlet into a sleek, Eurostyled coffee house complete with framed artwork, designer drinks and a no-smoking atmosphere.

"It's a quiet place to stop in and have a conversation," said Darryl DuPell, the day manager. "The music stays in the background. There's Yahtzee and backgammon games for whoever wants it. Lots of newspapers to read. Customers are welcome to linger. You can't hang a 'No Loitering' sign in a coffee house."

Thought stimulator

Coffee houses have a long history linked to literacy, politics and philosophy. The coffee tree is native to Ethiopia where historians believe the first coffees came from. Traders took the beans to the Middle East and from there into Europe in the 1600s.

Europeans were sold on the stimulating hot beverage and coffee houses serving the drink sprang up everywhere. Coffee houses became centers of literary and political discussions, which so worried King Charles II that he banned them as "seminaries of sedition," according to World Book Encyclopedia.

However, the beverage had become so popular he was forced to reopen the shops. From 1650 until 1850, there were 500 coffee houses in London alone.

Before newspapers came along, people visited coffee houses to learn news of the day. With the advent of newspapers, reporters found them a natural source of news and gossip. Businessmen kept regular hours at coffee houses, which eventually became separated according to the professions and religious beliefs of the clientele. This eventually led to the establishment of the private club. Espresso, brewed by forcing steam through finely ground darkly roasted coffee beans, grew popular in the 1940s. Espresso was the beverage of choice in the coffee houses that flourished on college campuses. In the '50s and '60s, beatniks and hippies frequented coffee houses to enjoy poetry readings and folk singers who performed their social commentary to music.

Brewing success

Business is brisk at The Coffee Exchange in downtown Birmingham these days. Owners Nemir Nadhir and Ed Miri have done so well in the 15 months they've been pouring java that they are opening two new coffee houses at the Boardwalk in West Bloomfield and University Plaza in Rochester Hills.

"We see all ages, all crowds," Nadhir said. "During the day, it's a business crowd, ladies lunching, walkers stopping in for a drink. At night, it's a place to go with a date, after a movie, or just a place to get out of the house for a drink and dessert and meet others."

Behind the Outback Gallery in downtown Plymouth, a cozy coffee shop is entering its second year serving an assortment of drinks and desserts. The gallery upfront lends itself to poetry readings 7-9 p.m. Thursday.

Owner Denni Englehart said Friday evenings are the busiest, a place to see and be seen.

That's the hope of Bob and Dennis Secuda, entrepreneurs who want to see their Grand Cafe (a few doors up from the Civic Theatre in downtown Farmington) become a community gathering place:

"We studied, we meticulously worked out details, we went firstclass in preparing this coffee house," Bob Secuda said. "We're perfectionists and I think patrons will see that when they visit our establishment."

It's really quite a place.

Custom counter orders travel via computer to the kitchen where chef and manager Jack DuBay creates 'soups, specialty salads and unique sandwiches. Patrons can sit at tables or on long-legged stools where the lamps can be adjusted for reading or romance.

Sense of fun

The artistry of Janisse Lahti Larson and Dennis Larson leaps off a giant wall mural of ripe, red coffee beans over to a side wall where they've humorously turned some classics into charmers. The American Gothic, Whistler's Mother, a famous Dali, Lichtenstein, and a portrait of George Washington — all manage to be holding coffee cups. Thought-provoking wisdoms have been lettered across the coffee house's beams by the artists. Janisse has painted whimsical coffee art along the walls of the staircase leading into this lowel level beanery.

Tom Corey Sullivan of Birmingham works at the Grand Cafe and will also get a chance to perform his folk music on Tuesday evenings beginning at 7 p.m.

"You know what I like best about this place?" Tom McCoy, a Farmington retiree, said during his second visit to the Grand Cafe. "It's comfortable for a man. It's genteel. You don't feel conspicuous sitting here. I don't have to scream over loud music. I'm not rushed. It's very sophisticated."

Lois Taylor of Farmington just finished lunch and said the food was delicious.

"I'll be back," she said. "The place is lovely." The Grand Cafe sells 38 flavors

The Grand Cafe sells 38 flavors of coffee, granita drinks (coffee and fruit), 40 different flavored Italian sodas prepared from allnatural syrups with soda water, 14 custom hot steamed coffees and six ice-chilled coffees.

There is also a dessert menu and different chocolate fondues with fruit are served after 5 p.m. each day.

Most coffee houses stay open until 11 p.m. or midnight on weekends. Decaffeinated brews are also available, along with teas and soft drinks.

urged them to: ■ Adopt and use modern technology to operate centers as well as evaluate sales.

■ End the adversarial role between tenant and owner, insisting that both sides work out "good deals" which lead to cooperation toward fighting high retail taxes, lowering insurance costs and establishing safe, secure shopping centers.

Maccardini challenged the audience to "create excitement" in their tenant mixes and merchandising.

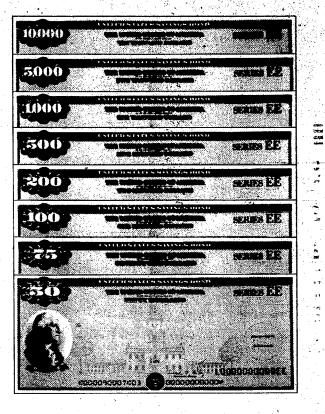

"What creates the value, is how we tenant our center. How we take care of our center. How we market our center and what wrapper we put around it architecturally," she said. "That is the secret to creating value."

Jeanne Hildebrant of the Livonia Mall, attended the Idea Exchange and called it "interesting and successful."

"It was a good day," she said. "The audience was attentive. I especially enjoyed the roundtable discussion on mall security where I learned a few things from the experts. I also found the panel discussion on super stores, or big box users, very interesting."

The International Council of Shopping Centers was founded in 1957 as the trade association of the shopping center industry. It has more than 25,000 members in 44 countries. Services to its members include conventions, conferences, state and regional Idea Exchange meetings, legislative action, professional accreditation programs and a monthly magazine, "Shopping Centers Today."

Quiet Gumbleton served CC well; he deserved better

Jack Gumbleton doesn't have the gift of gab like Ernie Harwell, but he has something else in common with the Hall of Fame announcer.

Both men were forced out of a job they did so well and loved for many years.

Harwell, despite showing no signs of retirement, was removed from the broadcast booth after the 1991 season by radio station WJR-760 and the Tigers, who were seeking a fresher approach.

Gumbleton last month was told his contract as hockey coach of Redford Catholic Central would not be renewed despite winning his 400th game last winter while leading the Shamrocks to the state championship game.

Under new ownership of Mike Ilitch, Harwell was asked to return to the booth this summer for one last hurrah.

But Gumbleton won't get a second chance. Gumbleton might not have talked a great game and kept all the CC parents happy, but he kept his players in line and maintained a winning percentage near .700. In this age of spoiled athletes and equally spoiled parents we're losing a coach who preached discipline and sportsmanship.

A guy who actually told his players to watch their mouth first, and then their opponent.

"I know of times Jack chose to go into a contest having disciplined someone for an act, and the act of discipline at that time meant more than the win," said Warren Mackenzie, assistant director at the Michigan High School Athletic Association. "Discipline was first. I've never known him to be anything other than a first-class gentleman. But I do understand times change, people and things.

CC junior forward Frank Novock liked his coach's approach but indicated some of the players had a problem with Gumbleton's discipline.

"There weren't a lot of players in favor of his methods, some of the things they couldn't stand - he didn't allow swearing, and only allowed black tape on the stick," Novock said. "Kids now-adays don't want to do what they're told."

A fine image

Catholic Central, a school whose logo says 'Teach me goodness, discipline and knowledge, should love Gumbleton.

But for a guy who guy with all those qualities who devoted so much of his time for a minimal coach's salary, he's getting a rotten sendoff. It would have been nice if the CC administration called him in and said, "Jack, you've had a great run; why not coach one or two more years and call

Dignitas romps to Mile win

It's no secret, picking the winner of the state's richest, most prestigious thoroughbred race. Simply wait until just before the race, then put money on the three longest odds.

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Forget the charts. Never mind recent performances, who's beaten whom, the caliber of competition. If Saturday's 45th running of the Michigan Mile, at Ladbroke DRC in

Livonia, proved anything, it was that the charts don't always tell the whole story

Dignitas is a prime example. His race previous to Saturday's Michigan Mile was the Stephen Foster Handicap on June 19 in Louisville. Dignitas was in the Foster until it counted; then he faded, finishing sixth, well behind winner Root Boy.

The chart only reveals that Dignitas "lacked late response" in the Foster loss — which is accurate. The reason he lacked a late response wasn't provided, however.

Until Saturday's Mile. Dignitas, with Larry Melancon aboard, had the response this time, overtaking favorite Root Boy down the stretch to collect the $120,000 first prize in the $200.000 race.

Root Boy hung on for second, with Powerful Punch edging Split Run by a nose for third. It kept, alive what is becoming a tradition in the Mile: Longshots reign. Dignitas went off as a 22-to-1 shot, paying $47.60 to win. Last year, Classic Seven carried 35to-1 odds into the winner's circle. Only nine times in 45 Michigan Miles iuries.

Ex-Stevenson swimmer Morrison improving

Former Livonia Stevenson all-state swimmer Bryan Morrison returned home Wednesday from Nice, France, where he was seriously injured last month while on vacation.

The 19-year-old Morrison, an engineering major and swimmer at Michigan State University, was transported to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor where he is being treated for serious neck and back inleft hand and most of his left leg. Morrison, scheduled to remain in U-M Hospital for four weeks of rehabilitation, sat in a wheel chair on Thursday. Morrison said he expects to know more this week about if and when he will be able to walk again.

"I fidget a lot, thinking about getting all my movement back," said Morrison, who was vacationing with MSU swimmer Kamp Purdy. "I want to make it back and go to school. I'm still planning on both walking and swimming."

There also was no television in his room

"I'd just point and hope they'd un-derstand," he said. "Sometimes I couldn't get my message across.'

Some of Morrison's relatives, including his mother Bonnie Morrison and grandmother Donna Danboise, flew to France to be at his side.

Morrison said his flight home to the United States was delayed two weeks because he kept having spasms in his left leg when it was being "The first word we heard was they thought he wasn't going to live," she said. "The second word was he'd be paralyzed from the chest down. Then they said he'd walk someday. Then they narrowed that down to three to six months. We're very fortunate. To the God above, we give thanks."

Morrison's father, Jay Morrison, was unable to obtain a passport to go overseas and is thankful to see his son recovering at a local hospital.

"When I first heard about it I was performance? "I knew something was wrong with him in the Stephen Foster he just wasn't himself that day,' "He jockey Melancon explained. moved up to second, then flattened out. We found out something was wrong with him, an infection.

"Today he was himself." According to assistant trainer Chris Goodwin, Dignitas "had an excuse for his poor performance in the Stephen Foster — he had a lung in-fection. We didn't find it until after the race, and that explained a lot of things. We cleared it up, and he worked nicely at Churchill and we knew things were back to normal."

Indeed. The race couldn't have broken better for Dignitas. Melancon figured there were some speedsters to contend with, and he didn't want to get caught up with them. "I wanted to lay off the pace," he said. "My main concern was, I didn't want to move too soon.'

He didn't. Punchy, Dave's Bold Boy, Candid Cameron and Root Boy were early leaders, but their margins were never much, and Dignitas rode the rail just behind. Root Boy got to the lead before the stretch run, with Punchy inside of him. Powerful Punch was running third, but slid outside entering the stretch run, creating a hole that Dignitas obligingly slid through.

The stretch duel was between Dignitas and Root Boy, who went off as the 2-to-1 favorite. Unlike in the Stephen Foster, Dignitas ruled this time.

'He ranks among the best I've ever ridden," said Melancon, a 37-year-old who's been racing thoroughbreds for 22 years. "He's definitely right up there with them."

He also up there as champion of. the Michigan Mile.

Like Harwell, Gumbleton would have gone for it.

Instead, they tell him all his faults and his contract isn't being renewed:

They said he has trouble communicating with and motivating players.

Well, Windsor Massey High School coach Robert Marchand scrimmaged Gumbleton's several times and he was impressed at how organized and motivated the Shamrocks were.

"He's terrific," Marchand said. "His teams forecheck extremely well, he has a terrific forechecking system and forechecking is all drilling and motivation. When I played his team I was upset our discipline was not in the same league as CC's.'

And this from former player Matt Surowiec, 88-91: "He didn't go out of his way to get the guys pumped up, but if you can't get pumped up you shouldn't be playing at this level.

A lot of parents moan about lack of playing time for their kide

Well, playing time is hard to come by at a school like CC which draws players from anywhere in the western suburbs.

He's too old and last year's playoff run, which included six games in 13 days, took a lot out of him.

Well, I remember the Alpena coach saying how tired he was after beating CC 2-1 in the Class A final.

🖿 He can't recognize talent. How'd he win 70 percent of his games?

An open ear

Gumbleton wanted his players to play by his rules, but he didn't turn away when they made suggestions.

Midway through last season when CC's defense was struggling and needed more depth, Gumbleton cut defensemen Kevin Pederson and Andre Jurkiewicz in the preseason. After some prodding by the players to get the two on the team, Gumbleton found a couple extra uniforms.

'It was a smart move and it really helped us," said Novock. "We wouldn't have gone as far without them.'

Too bad the CC administration didn't listen to the majority of coaches and players who know Gumbleton.

Morrison broke two vertebrae and suffered some compression in his spine in a freak diving accident off the Mediterranean coast near Monte Carlo.

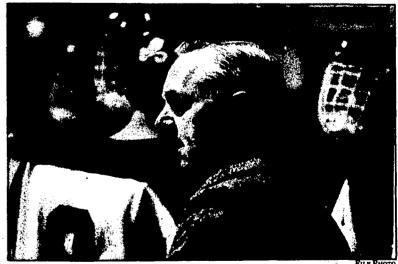

Morrison, talking from his hospital bed, said he can't remember the accident and still can't move his left foot, -

Morrison spent about four weeks in a France hospital, where he was unable to communicate with the French-speaking doctors and nurses or anyone else, for that matter, with no telephone in his room the first 3¹/₂ weeks of recovery.

straightened out after surgery. "The doctors said they hadn't seen that in 10 years and were scared by 'Morrison said. "But a neurologist it,' came in and said it was normal for the kind of injury I had.'

Morrison's grandmother said the prognosis is remarkably better than the first few days after the accident.

in shock and didn't want to believe it could happen over there," he said from Morrison's hospital room. "You feel helpless, don't know where he's at, how he's doing, if you can get over there. The last week (in a France hospital), they put a phone in and as soon as I found out I called.'

Ousted coach: Redford Catholic Central decided to not renew the contract of hockey coach Jack Gumbleton for the 1993-94 season. Gumbleton led CC to three Class A regional titles and two state championship appearances in 15 years.

Gumbleton is not returning. Gumbleton wasn't a vocal coach but he preached discipline and good sportsmanship, according to the players.

If there were problems on his teams, the players said, they came from parents who felt their kids weren't getting fair ice time.

"As a captain, I noticed a few of the kids who dldn't get ice time, their parents had complaints, but that's the way the game goes," said Mike Giordano, who was a senior right winger last year. "Just because their kid doesn't play, you can't take away from the coach.

Frank Novock was one of CC's leading scorers in his only year on the team last winter as a junior, Novock said he liked Gumbleton's style but some of his teammates objected to Gumbleton's rules, which included no swearing.

land's hockey "Coach of the Year" to a coach without a job. Gumbleton will not have his contract at Redford Catholic Central renewed for the 1993-94 hockey season despite winning his 400th game while guiding the Shamrocks to the Class A final last winter, CC athletic director Bob Santello said.

Santello, reached Friday at the schooi, said Gumbleton is being removed because "basically, the administration felt it was time to make a change.

Gumbleton's teams won three Class A regionals and reached the state final twice in 15 years. The 1992-93 team finished 19-6-4 overall and lost to Alpena in the championship game, 2-1, despite losing three potential star players before the season to travel hockey teams.

"We have always felt that Jack was a gentleman and represented Catholic Central well," Santello said in a press release. "However, we feel that at this juncture in our hockey program, it is necessary to seek new direction. "Obviously, I don't want to go into great detail as to the reasons for not renewing his contract, but simply stated over the years, we have had some serious problems in the area of communication between the coach, his players and their parents."

Gumbleton, who wouldn't say his age but is probably in his late 50s, sald he planned on remaining CC's coach. "Yeah, I would have come back, at least for one year," said Gumbleton, who teaches at Pierce Middle School in Redford. "I really enjoyed working with the players. Look at (new Red Wings coach Scotty) Bowman. Age doesn't mean anything.'

Gumbleton won two state crowns at Detroit Benedictine in the 1970s and also coached one season at Hillsdale College and three at Oakland Community College before taking over at CC in 1978-79. Each of his previous coaching jobs ended because hockey was dropped as a sport, Gumbleton sald.

Several former and current CC players contacted by the Observer said they were surprised to hear

Ocelots sign soccer talent

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Last year was nearly disastrous. This year's early picture is quite the opposite.

The Schoolcraft College women's soccer team struggled through a losing season in '92, mustering just a 7-8-3 record. It was so bad, SC administration officials figured it wasn't worth the expense to allow the Lady Ocelots even attempt to win the to NJCAA national championship.

They just weren't good enough. All that has changed. True, two strong players from last year's team have completed their eligibility: sweeper Amy Krajewski, still attending SC, and who's keeper Kim Owczarzak, who will attend St. Bonaventure in New York this fall.

But six others are certain to return, and three more are possibilities. The certainties. Kelly Greaves, a midfielder: Becca Ravmor, a defender-midfielder; Cindy Tolstead, a defender; Tiffany Graves, a defender-midfielder; Dee Lorenz, a utility player; and Kara Kramer, a forward.

The three others who may be back are Jami Alex, who suffered a knee injury playing basketball for SC and is still rehabilitating it, and Shelly Archibald and Joi Hazinski. Should they add their names to the list of returnees. the Ocelots will have a nucleus to build around - one that finished the '92 campaign with six wins in its last eight matches.

However, that's not the best news. One must examine the list of recruits coach Nick O'Shea has landed to find that.

Thus far, nine players have giv-which means he should take his biggest team ever into camp. That isn't the highlight, though --- the players coming include some topnotch talents.

Improved scoring

"This year's squad is definitely better than last year's," said O'Shea. "We're improved up the middle.'

That they are, particularly with the addition of Danielle Priebe, who played sweeper for O'Shea's Livonia Churchill team but is projected as center midfielder, allowing Raymor (from Plymouth Canton) to switch from midfield to sweeper.

"She's more offensive than Becca," said O'Shea. "And (Priebe) played for me for four year at Churchill, so she knows what I want.'

Offense was SC's biggest problem last season. It shouldn't be this year — not with the addition of Priebe, Andrea Zawislak, a teammate of Priebe's at Churchill, and Christina Stancil, a '92 graduate from Canton.

"We never could find someone who could score consistently, said O'Shea of last year's troubles. Zawislak, who possesses "lots of speed," and Stancil will combine with Kramer to upgrade the forward line immensely.

Zawislak was a 12-goal scorer and team co-captain last spring at Churchill, earning first-team all-Western Lakes Activities Association honors. "She's lightning-fast," said O'Shea. "And she scored some big goals for us."

Stancil is tough in front of the net, which should combine well with Zawislak and Kramer.

The biggest soccer story of the season will be keeper Jenny Emmett's comeback. The Plymouth Salem product missed her senior season due to leukemia; she had to have bone marrow transplants. That was two years ago; she has recovered enough to resume playing, and is playing in the Great Lakes Women's League this summer.

"She's working hard, but she needs to get her timing back," said O'Shea. "After two years, it takes a while to get your timing back."

More depth

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Others who could crack the starting lineup as freshmen are Kelly Reeves, a defender from Canton; Jodi Grabowski, a stopper at Sterling Heights Henry Ford; Amanda Thomas, a midfielder from Royal Oak Dondero: and Tracy Nelson, a '91 graduate from Dearborn Edsel Ford who played one season at Missouri Valley before transferring.

Karen Price, a defender from Farmington Hills Harrison, will add depth to the squad.

Reeves, like Stancil and Raymor, is a product of Don Smith's Canton program, which reached the Class A state semifinals this season. "What I like about them, Don teaches them how to win. said O'Shea. "And that can go a long way.'

Grabowski was described as "a tough player" when she played at Henry Ford, and Thomas had "decent skill at midfield." Nelson was a "versatile. intelligent plaver I can move around." She missed a year at Missouri Valley due to a knee injury, but has since recovered.

"We have a solid core, but we'll have to play as a unit to make a run (at the NJCAA title)," said O'Shea. "It can take a while for players to get used to a new coach. But the good thing is, there are six returning who are used to me plus two from my high school team.

'If we can start off where we finished up last year, and go from there. . .

E ACADEMIC ATHLETES

The academic honor roll was created in 1990 to recognize students at MIAA schools who excel both on the field and in the classroom. Since its inception, it has grown steadily: from 281 in its first year, to 311 in 1991 and 358 last year. This year, it once again reached new heights, totaling 382.

Several of the honorees were from the Observer area:

E HOOP CHAMPS

Four age-group champions were crowned to end the Westland Youth Athletic Association's 1993 basketball season at the Bailey Recreation Center.

The Lakers won the freshman division (8-, 9- and 10-year-olds), capping a 16-0 season with a 40-34 victory in the championship game. Members of the team, which also won the regular season crown, were Aaron Wilson, Bobby Allen, Matt Patterson, Matt Nowak, Billy Gaszi, Shane Nowak, Matt Steede, Ryan Silva. Derek Sullivan and Rick Londberg. Steve Patterson and Dennis Nowak were coaches.

The junior division (11-12) had two champions - Rockets and Sixers. The Rockets won the regular season with a 12-0 record. Team members were Juwante Dawson, Reggie Spearman, D Jairala, Brian Pietowski, Ian Mullins, Jason Gloster, Karl Calloway, Geoffrey Gholston, Mike Wilkins and Tom Waddell. Terry Edwards and Charles Calloway were coaches. The Sixers won the junior playoff tournament, however, beating the Rockets 70-65 in the final. Members of the Sixers, who took second place in the regular season, were Adam McGahan, Brandon Spaulding, T.R. Bates, Jason Repasky, Keith Martin, Jason Sadowski, Jeremy Stuart, Brad Nugent, Jason Malloy and Brad Wilkes. Coaches were Mike Schweizer and Keith DeMolay.

The intermediate division and tournament champions were the Rockets, who finished 15-1. Team members were Paul Stuart, Bill Broadway, Albert Jones, Dave Drys, Trevor Davey, Bryce Loughlin, John Albrecht, Michael Harrison, Paul Reno and Paul Robertson. John F. Albrecht was the coach.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

> Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it--takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item ... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that meansyou should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

P.S. When you place your garage sale ad, you're entitled to a free garage sale kit containing two signs, an inventory sheet, tips for a successful sale, sale tags and stickers. Just pick up your free garage sale kit in our office when you place your ad!
