Union money bolstered victors

Money talks in Wayne-Westland school board elections. The two winners in the June 14 vote also were the biggest spenders. Both received large donations from local employee groups.

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

Bolstered by donations from school employees, the two winners of the June 14 Wayne-Westland school board race spent more campaign money than did their three competitors, county records showed.

Patricia Brown, who ranked second in votes among five candidates, easily ranked No. 1 in spending by shelling out $3,496 for her first bid at public office, according to campaign expense reports examined by the Observer at the county clerk's office.

Mathew McCusker, the top vote-getter, placed a distant second in spending — doling out $2,350 in a triumphant return to the board from which he was ousted in 1991 after serving 81/2 years.

The two biggest contributors to the campaigns of Brown and McCusker were listed as the Wayne-Westland Educators Political Action Committee and the Wayne-Westland Building Administrators Association, county records showed.

Sharon Felan, appointed to the board last summer, ranked third in votes and third in spending in her unsuccessful election bid. She spent $2,262 on her campaign — only $88 less than McCusker.

The two remaining candidates, fourth-place finisher John Brady and fifth-place Robert Paquette, didn't file expense reports because they ap-

Man charged with beating wife to stand trial

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A Westland man has been ordered to stand trial amid allegations he beat his wife of 32 years with a rubber mallet and forcibly held her to the floor as she bled.

Walter Philip Vansant, a 54year-old retired radiologist, could face up to four years in prison and a $2,000 fine if convicted of felonious assault in the mallet beating of his wife. Rebecca, 51.

Vansant was ordered to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court after he voluntarily waived a pre-liminary hearing Thursday in front of 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos in Westland.

The decision to waive the hearing averted court testimony Thursday and resulted in Vansant's case being automatically bound over for trial in the Detroit criminal court.

Vansant is accused of beating his wife in the head with a rubber mallet on the morning of June 24. He is charged with striking her with four blows and holding her Vansant's preliminary hearing had initially been scheduled for July 15, but was delayed at the request of his Westland attorney, Michael Bradley.

At that time, Bradley had indicated that a separate hearing may be needed to determine if Vansant was emotionally and mentally competent to stand trial and aid in his own defense, said David Wiacek, 18th District Court ad. ministrator.

On Thursday, however, Bradley told Judge Bokos, "I see no need to have a (competency) hearing."

The St. Anthony chapel of the 62-year-old Duns Scotus Friary closed its doors in March 1992. The Southfield landmark was being sold to developer LoPatin and Co. for $10 million and was proposed to be transformed into a business conference center and golf course.

Later, LoPatin withdrew its proposal and the property was again up for sale.

A dispute between the city and representatives of Dun Scotus over preservation of the architectural landmark may be resolved under a compromise agreement now being worked on.

Under the agreement, the city would shelve plans for a restric tive ordinance designating the former seminary as an historic district. In return, Franciscans would agree that any future improvements or additions to the property must be architecturally sensitive and compatible with all buildings.

A historic designation ordinance would regulate changes to the facility and could hamper future development, the Franciscans have maintained.

The closing of Duns Scotus and its chapel created a storm of controversy from those who attended services there and many others who simply visited the campus to enjoy its beauty and serenity.

The Metropolitan United Methodist Church of Detroit, one of the largest congregations in Michigan, has canceled its option to purchase 50 acres of the former Duns Scotus Friary in Southfield.

Church officials said they had an agreement with the Franciscan Province which owns Duns Scotus giving Metropolitan until Oct. 15 to study the feasibility of buying the property and moving to the 175,000-square-foot sanctuary in Southfield.

Metropolitan senior minister Dr. William K. Quick did not return numerous phone calls.

About 80 percent of the Metropolitan congregants live in Oakland County, according to Southfield city administrator Robert Block, and the Southfield location would have been convenient.

"I'm disappointed because the proposed use for a seminary would have been perfect," Block said. "But Metropolitan has deep roots in Detroit and I admire church officials for holding fast. Too many bedrock institutions have left the core city.'

In the meantime, Southfield City Council members who hadn't yet learned of Metropolitan's most recent decision, went into closed session following their regular meeting Monday to discuss possible acquisition of the remaining 60 acres on the north side of the property.

Franciscans are asking $3 million for that parcel of land. The city, however, isn't currently interested in buying the property because the price would be prohibitive, according to Steve Hurite, city council president.

Mayor Donald Fracassi has been urging city officials to study the fessibility of acquiring the en-

Salvation Army begins work on community center

Local residents will get a new Salvation Army facility next spring to house a variety of educational, social and neighborhood services.

For low-income persons and retirees, the facility on Venoy near Dorsey in Westland will be a privately owned and operated community center.

For the Salvation Army, which held a groundbreaking ceremony last week for its new center, the $1.15-million building represents "an opportunity for hope as well as development of a new sense of good will and spirit," said Lt. Col. Clarence Harvey, the organization's divisional commander.

"We are committed to the physical and spiritual needs of western Wayne County," Harvey said.

When the building is opened by its planned completion next March, it will house senior citizens' activities; youth programs; community recreation; latchkey; parent-child relationship programs; emergency food, clothing and shelter assistance; counseling; life and work skills; and afterschool activities for school-age children.

The Salvation Army has promised to pay $750,000 of the estimated cost, with $400,000 to come from a major fund-raising effort in the communities to be served by the center. The fundraising will end by Thanksgiving, said a Salvation Army spokes-

When the center is opened, it will replace a small facility opened several years ago on the second floor of a small retail strip across the street.

At the groundbreaking ceremony, Mayor Robert Thomas told the estimated 50 assembled Salvation Army and public officials that he recalls the site of the new center as he was growing up and living in the nearby Norwayne neighborhood.

"I walked across this field hundreds of times on the way to and from Wayne Memorial High School," Thomas recalled.

The Bell Co. is the contractor with Carne Associates, the architect and planner for the building.

Budget nightmare strains Livonia Board of Education

By Marie Chestney Staff Writer

When it rains, it pours. And a drenching rain is now hitting some members of the Livonia Board of Education, as trustees make decisions that used to be routine but which increasingly have become more traumatic because of Livonia Public Schools' budget crisis.

The decisions Livonia trustees now make are made against two dark and looming backdrops.

The first is the district's bid for a 1-mill tax increase to fund sports, extracurricular activities and some elementary programs. This proposal on the Aug. 30 ballot does not have the unanimous backing of the trustees. Some say the 1-mill tax increase needs the trustees' unanimous endorsement to get passed in these tough economic times.

The second major hurdle finally got jumped Monday when the trustees adopted the district's $104-million budget for 1993-94. The board passed the budget after a lot of last-minute debate. It also did so without knowing how much money the district will lose once lawmakers pass the 1993-94 state school aid bill in Lansing.

When the school aid bill gets passed, the district could wind up with more than the $772,613 shortfall the budget now shows.

On Monday, some trustees argued over nearly every item that appeared on the short agenda.

Trustee Joe Laura once again showed his opposition to the Aug. 30 special election by opposing an amendment to it now required by the recently passed Senate Bill 1.

The amendment, approved 6-1, spells out how much extra money
— $3,296,555, to be exact — the 1-mill property tax increase, if passed, would bring into the district in the next school year.

"I would much rather see the board drop back, educate the community and then go for a millage," Laura said. "But should the millage fail, I will fight to keep sports and activities in the budget. What we take away from our kids today can never be re-

4-3 budget split

Laura and trustees Ken Timmons and Sue Clulow all opposed adopting the budget Monday. The board passed the budget by a 4-3 vote.

Timmons and Clulow said they preferred to wait until they could be walked, line-by-line, through the budget by administrators to make sure it reflected board decisions.

Because they had just gotten the budget the previous Thursday, the two trustees said they hadn't had enough time to read and understand it.

"I'm uncomfortable voting until I see if what I had in my mind is in this budget," said Clulow.

Timmons said he isn't "antibudget," but that he had about 30 or 40 questions that need answers. He also read a two-page statement criticizing parts of the budget.

"To ask people for more money, we have to be able to look them right in the eye and tell them that we have done everything we possibly can to cut the budget," Timmons said. "But I see very few meaningful cuts except for general education classroom teachers."

Timmons criticized the district for cutting the elementary budget at a time when "our fourth-grade MEAP scores are embarrassingly low." He said real estate agents in nearby communities now use MEAP scores to tout their own district's scores in an effort to sell home buyers on their own community.

"Whether we like it or not, and no matter what we are told, these reading and math scores are important to Livonia for many reasons," Timmons said. "Surrounding districts are using our scores to compare property values, and we don't compare very favorably. We must put more money into elementary classrooms, not less."

Trustee Richard McKnight disputed figures presented by Timmons, saying the district is spending $777,000 more on elementary education than it did last year. He said many of the cuts are coming from such support services as maintenance and community education, with less coming from general education.

Laura suggested the $104 million-budget may have "overwhelmed the capacity of the board."

"We need executive summaries, a 'Dick and Jane' kind of thing," Laura said. "It's a frustrating document. We owe it to the district, its employees and its taxpayers to come up with the most thoughtful budget we can."

Superintendent Joseph Marinelli assured the trustees that the budget represents the wishes of the trustees. "There is no deviation."

Recalls planned

If the budget isn't passed, Marinelli said, recalls of teachers can't begin.

There currently are about 220 teachers on layoff, said Edward Navoy, assistant director for personnel.

Marinelli suggested the budget be adopted Monday and then later amended, if necessary.

Laura also opposed another agenda item, the appointment of Ronald Anderson of Hudson, Mich., as an assistant principal at Riley Middle School.

In light of the large number of layoffs, Laura said it was "extremely insensitive" to hire an administrator from outside the district.

"It's amazing that we don't have someone talented enough out of 1,000-plus people," Laura said. The district has 1,040 teach-

Five of the eight finalists for the job were candidates from inside the district, Navoy said.

Ken Watson, superintendent

Ken Watson, superintendent designee who also serves as the director of secondary education, said it has been three or four years since someone from inside the district has been promoted to the administrative ranks.

Both Laura and Timmons voted against Anderson's appointment.

The last item on the agenda to rankle Timmons was the recall of three full-time administrators, Christina Brynski, Grace MacFarland and Adele Sobania, and four part-time administrators, Edward Hill, Frederick Price, Dean Schutz and M. Jill Streit

Once again, Timmons read a two-page statement.

"At the same time we are asking the public for more monies for the regular services and student activities, we are now being asked to reinstate these administrative positions before we even know our budget or if the millage attempt will be successful," Timmons said.

"Unfortunately, it could very well happen that we end up with all of these additional non-instructional positions in place and no student activities and elementary level enrichment — and increased class sizes to boot."

The recalled administrators, McKnight said, are those who would be directly responsible for an improvement in test scores.

He also said the seven administrators had to be recalled before recalls could start for teachers.

Car dealer blasted by Jessica fans

By KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

The hubbub has died down, but for a while Cadillac dealer Don Massey was being confused by some with an Ann Arbor flight service owner of the same name who provided air transport for 2-year-old Jessica DeBoer.

In the much-publicized Jessica case, her Ann Arbor adoptive parents lost their court fight to keep the toddler they'd raised for two years, and were forced to give her up to her Iowa birth parents.

And when the public confused the Ann Arbor flight service owner Don Massey with the Plymouth Township car dealer, the calls came flooding in last week.

Henaughen and another Massey assistant took the calls, starting Aug. 2.

"They said they were never going to step near the dealership to buy a car, but now we're getting positive phone calls," Henaughen said.

"They would generally start off with the fact that they're Cadillac owners and they would indeed never set foot in this store." "I would explain it was indeed

Here's a list of some of the contributions received by candidates in the June 14 Wayne-Westland school board race, in which winners Patricia Brown and Mathew McCusker beat competitors Sharon Felan, John Brady and Roberta Paquette.

■ Brown, who by far had the most detailed list of contributors: Wayne-Westland Educators Political Action Committee ($850); Wayne-Westland Building Administrators Association ($500); school board members Francis "Bud" Winter and Leonard Posey ($25 each); Detroit Iron Works, a company owned by Brown's father ($250); Glen Shaw & Associates ($200): Westland City Council liaison Joseph Benyo ($100); State Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, ($25); Westland City Council member Thomas Brown ($100); Wayne Memorial High School principal Ronald Stratton ($25); former Wayne-Westland deputy superintendent Thomas Svitkovich ($25); former Superintendent Dennis O'Neill and wife Charlene ($50); Westland city attorney Angelo Plakas ($50); council member Kenneth Mehl ($25); council member Sharon Scott ($50); Westland city clerk Diane Fritz ($25); 18th District court officer and former school board member Andrew Spisak ($25); and Arthur Wood, president of the school district's hourly workers union, ($25), among others.

■ McCusker: Wayne-Westland Educators Political Action Committee ($500); Wayne-Westland Building Administrators Association ($500); school board member Leonard Posev

($30); Westland City Council president Charles Pickering ($40); former school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill ($50): school district attorney Stewart Slatkin ($100); the district's executive assistant to the superintendent, Gary Dell ($50); and Glen Shaw Jr. ($100), among ...

Felan: Her husband, Donald ($1,270); school board member

Vicki Welty and husband Keith ($100); school board member Richard LeBlanc and wife Cheryl ($50); the Metro Wayne Democratic Club ($60); Michael and Rosemary Miller ($30), among others.

Brady and Paquette did not file campaign expense reports. They received filing waivers that are granted to candidates who spend less than $1,000.

parently spent less than $1,000. The filing requirement is waived for candidates spending less than $1,000, according to the county clerk's office.

With strong support from school district employees, running mates Brown and McCusker scored decisive victories in an election that saw only a 51/2-percent turnout among 61,207 registered voters. No school tax issues were on the June 14 ballot.

Vote totals reported on election night gave 1,750 votes to McCusker; 1,723 to Brown; 1,228 to Felan; 839 to Brady; and 572 to Paquette.

Brown and McCusker replaced Felan and longtime trustee Fred Warmbier, who did not seek re-election to the sevenmember board. The victors joined board holdovers Leonard Posey, Francis "Bud" Winter, Vicki Welty, Richard LeBlanc and Laurel Raisanen.

Of the five candidates, Brown and McCusker were seen as the most critical of Superintendent Larry Thomas, who ended his first year in Wayne-Westland on June 30. Thomas has had rocky relations with some employee groups, including the building administrators union that contributed money to Brown and McCusker.

Thomas' supporters feared the election of Brown and McCusker could signal problems for the superintendent, who is now in the second year of a three-year contract. Even on election night, McCusker boldly declared, "We're here to take the leadership of the district back.'

That same night, however, both Brown and McCusker denied that firing Thomas was one of their goals. Both cited passage of a tax increase as their No. 1 priority, amid hopes of restoring $14 million in budget cuts.

Since then, the board has approved Oct. 18 as the date for a tax election, though the board hasn't reached a consensus on what the ballot proposal will be. That decision is expected Aug.

Top winners: The junior varsity cheerleading squad from John Glenn High School took top honors July 21 in a competition at the University of Toledo. Their coaches are Vivian Eldridge and Vicki Porter.

S'craft begins building student services center

With 152 people looking on, Schoolcraft College officials happily broke ground Wednesday for a $7.8 million student services center.

However, a large hole had already been dug in the ground Monday as the non-ceremonial portion of the construction slightly preceded the ceremonial por-

"It was exciting to come to work Monday and see the equipment moving the soil," said Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell. "When you come out here and see the back hoe and the bulldozers it's really exciting times.

Also observing the groundbreaking were city, township and state officials from Schoolcraft's territory, i.e. the school districts of Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City, Northville and Clarenceville.

Schoolcraft board of trustees chairman Steve Ragan said it's a good thing that the college can erect this 61,000-square-foot building without selling bonds or asking voters for new taxes. "This is an example of government doing something right," he Even Adelard "Butch" Raby, Schoolcraft's vice president of business, was excited. "This is one of the few things we do in my end of the operation where there's a tangible result in the end,' 'No one gets excited about the audit reports.

Staffers brimmed with enthusiasm, too. "I think it's wonderful," said Judy Considine of the institutional advancement office as she distributed complimentary pens to the guests. "I can't wait!"

The building, designed by Redstone Associates of Southfield, will occupy an acre to the south and west of the library. It's expected to be finished in October 1994 and ready for occupancy in January 1995.

Half of the construction cost will be paid for by the state. Schoolcraft pays the other half with money it's been saving for a few years.

When everything is finished, students should be able to knock off all their paperwork needs under one roof, and the college will have 17 additional classrooms.

The offices of registration, admissions, cashier, learning assistance and counseling will move in, as will the placement office, accounting, purchasing, the Women's Resource Center and part of the busi-

The child care center, currently occupying a house, will move into the cinder-block building vacated by the counseling department. The four houses currently harboring the accounting office, purchasing office, women's center and child care center will be sold or razed.

The three-story building will also hold 12 new classrooms, including four computer labs. Five additional classrooms will be opened in the Liberal Arts Building when the learning assistance center moves.

The general contractor for the new building is Quadrants Inc. of Wixom. The mechanical contractor is the W.J. O'Neil Co. of Livonia and the electrical contractor is Meacham Electric of Wixom.

Legislator suggests many tax hikes

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler might be loath to discuss what new taxes he prefers to fuel state schools, but one of his fellow Republicans is positively roiling with ideas to retrieve $5.6 billion in school property taxes Lansing shot down Point military academy alumni Thursday, state Rep. Glenn Oxender, R-Sturgis, poured out suggestions for new taxes at such a rate that Southfield resident Ed O'Neil remarked, "It's like trying to take a drink out of a fire hydrant. A lot goes in."

Oxender, who chairs a committee on finding new sources of tax Speaking to a group of West money to replace the school property tax, suggests that 10-15 mills of property tax be reinstated, plus a 6-cent sales tax, higher income tax and higher single business

Livonia resident Tom Hagan said Oxender "presented a good argument. Something has got to be done to cover the cost (of state schools)." But Hagan doesn't want the result to be a net tax increase. "The one thing we don't want to do is pay more taxes," he

Oxender freely admits that 'what I think is going to happen and what's going to happen are two different things, (and) there are a lot of people who differ with me up there (in Lansing)." But the West Point men, he added, said they "had more confidence in state government" after he spoke.

School districts are permitted to collect property taxes through August 1994, so the 1993-94 school year is safe, but after that there's no money for them until Lansing wrings it out of us with new taxes.

Engler is reluctant to discuss the inevitable new taxes, saying instead that we should design a new system

'Orlando' bends genders again at DFT

By John Monaghan Special Writer

"Orlando," playing for a second weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre, can be both a trial and an inspiration. Based on Virginia Woolf's 1928 novel, the British film focuses on the title character whose life spans 400 years, first as a man, then as a woman.

Although the movie can often seem twice as long as its 92 minutes, it succeeds as a dizzying mix of romance, fantasy and sexual politics. It also sports eye-popping costumes.

Almond-eyed Tilda Swinton plays Orlando and she's very easy to watch, a good thing since she's featured in almost every frame. If you're expecting a magic trick of sexual ambiguity a la "The Crying Game," there's little doubt that this is a woman playing a nobleman and favorite of the queen, is pathetically naive. He is sensitive to the suffering going on around him, but remains too weak to do a thing about it.

Although likable throughout, the early Orlando, an English

Orlando believes that a woman should love him simply because he desires her to. When a strongwilled Russian princess resists his advances, he is thrown for a loop. "I am England and I adore he cries, a line later tried on Orlando when he is a she.

The sex switch occurs overnight. Like the man-to-cockroach transformation in Kafka's "Metamorphosis," Orlando simply äwakes one day to find he has turned into a woman.

'Different body; same person," Orlando says. Wrong. The character now changes from a privileged and dull male into a three-dimensional, independent person. The irony flows thick.

Woolf fans point out that the movie cleverly incorporates the writer's personality and penchant for wandering, shown visually in the asides Orlando delivers regularly to the audience.

Some of these prove irritating. An early scene shows Orlando stroll past a crude performance of Shakespeare's "Othello," at the time a brand new drama. "Tremendous play," he says to the camera almost with a wink. Too

The movie is broken up into sections entitled Sex, Politics, Society, Poetry, Birth and Death. Although dealing with some heady subjects, director Sally Potter successfully infuses "Orlando" with a light, ethereal spir-

It's the visual beauty of the movie that will stick with you long after after the socio-political agenda. Early on, a killing frost has enveloped England, forcing the nobility to don ice skates and the peasants to simply freeze or jump from ice float to ice float, a la Griffith's "Way Down East."

The movie is about changing times, and at one point Orlando literally walks through the raging battlefields of the First and Second World Wars. Past and present also link in the musical score. which infuses electronic sounds, angelic voices and traditional strings.

The film takes Woolf's novel to its logical conclusion in the present day, where Orlando, having completely lost her land and status, finally finds some measure of peace. In the late 20th century, she discovers that androgyny isn't simply tolerated - it's fashion-

'With this tour, we get a deli tray everyday; this is the first time we had a (tour) bus," said lead singer Robin Wilson from a pay phone amid the clattering of the shopping carts in a Long Island, N.Y., grocery store.

We had to stop and get a squirt development in the band."

The band is touring with reggae/

Pine Knob on Tuesday, Aug. 10. Aside from the major tour, during the last couple months Wilson's band has blossomed into an MTV favorite with the song "Hey Jealousy" off the year-old album "New Miserable Experience.

Wilson said he thinks the single has finally taken off because it's a "summertime" song.
"'Hey Jealousy, 'Allison Road,

'Mrs. Rita,' all of the songs off the album make me think about summer

Anti-depressive medication has kept reader alive

SCHIFF

My name is

July 5, regarding anti-depressive drug treatment. The letter was signed "No Longer Depressed."

I have been on anti-depressive medication since about 1981. It has kept me alive. I was very interested in the com-ments "No Longer Depressed" made about how long it took her to decide she needed antidepressive medication.

I hear so many different comments on my taking medication. There are so many people I speak to who react negatively. I try to educate them as I go along.

When they say "you get dependent on those medications," I try to explain to them about people using insulin for insulin-dependent diabetes. I explain that in my disease, there is a lack of the proper level of neurotransmitters in the brain or that the neurotransmitters are not getting across the synaptic junction.

I tell them the reason I look as good as I do and seem as well-adjusted as I do is because of medication. I've tried every kind of anti-depressive medication, including electroconvulsive therapy; only one has worked. Thank God for it. I take as much of it as I can, so that I can be 100 percent functional, but I am only 60-70 percent functional. I lead a pretty normal life.

You wouldn't believe what other doctors, who are not psychiatrists, say about this. You don't know how many comments I get. An orthopedic surgeon told me if I just take a yoga class, I won't be depressed anymore, and then I

'Orlando' bends genders again at DFT

By John Monaghan Special Writer

"Orlando," playing for a second weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre, can be both a trial and an inspiration. Based on Virginia Woolf's 1928 novel, the British film focuses on the title character whose life spans 400 years, first as a man, then as a woman.

Although the movie can often seem twice as long as its 92 minutes, it succeeds as a dizzying mix of romance, fantasy and sexual politics. It also sports eye-popping costumes.

Almond-eyed Tilda Swinton plays Orlando and she's very easy to watch, a good thing since she's featured in almost every frame. If you're expecting a magic trick of sexual ambiguity a la "The Crying Game," there's little doubt

As far as the story is concerned. the ruse works, especially in the early 17th century, when the men dress more gaudily than the wom-

nobleman and favorite of the queen, is pathetically naive. He is sensitive to the suffering going on around him, but remains too weak to do a thing about it.

We feel bad when a famous poet writes a barb-filled sonnet about his wealthy benefactor-tobe, yet at the same time know that the criticisms are essentially true.

Orlando believes that a woman should love him simply because he desires her to. When a strongwilled Russian princess resists his advances, he is thrown for a loop. "I am England and I adore you," he cries, a line later tried on Orlando when he is a she.

The sex switch occurs overnight. Like the man-to-cockroach transformation in Kafka's "Metamorphosis," Orlando simply awakes one day to find he has turned into a woman.

"Different body; same person," Orlando says. Wrong. The character now changes from a privileged and dull male into a three-dimensional, independent person. The irony flows thick.

Woolf fans point out that the movie cleverly incorporates the writer's personality and penchant for wandering, shown visually in the asides Orlando delivers regularly to the audience.

Some of these prove irritating. An early scene shows Orlando stroll past a crude performance of Shakespeare's "Othello," at the time a brand new drama. "Tremendous play," he says to the camera almost with a wink. Too

The movie is broken up into sections entitled Sex, Politics, Society, Poetry, Birth and Death. Although dealing with some heady subjects, director Sally Potter successfully infuses "Orlando" with a light, ethereal spir-

The film takes Woolf's novel to its logical conclusion in the present day, where Orlando; having completely lost her land and status, finally finds some measure of peace. In the late 20th century, she discovers that androgyny isn't simply tolerated - it's fashion-

Like its main character, "Orlando" has a dual quality that makes it stand alone as the year's most difficult and dreamy work of s models and dancers elegantly paraded around the drawing room of an Edwardian manor, I ogled their velvet-trimmed waistcoats and cut-away jackets, ruffled poet blouses, brocade vests and multiple strands of pearls, and the word I jotted on my note pad was "overdone.

Yet, in that instant, the narrator at Hudson's Fash Bash '93 benefit explained in his best Queen's English that "it's proper to be overdressed if one is overeducated." In the blink of an eye, the opulence of Old England metamorphosed to the pulsating frenzy of Carnaby Street, where 'the fantastic becomes for a moment universal.'

Thus were the new fall fashion trends presented. The looks spanned generations and cultures and captured the moods of the decades. "Each trend is so totally different," observed Deb Bartels of Rochester Hills. She noted that, though the production flowed, the fashion's didn't. She was more impressed with the theatrics than the actual

In a show that took us from medieval times to post-modem industrialization, and from Edwardian England to turn-of-the-century America to Indochina, there were a few constants. If you're looking to update your wardrobe but can't embrace an entire trend, contemplate the following "new ba-

Start with white

The white shirt is a key element for your fall ensemble. It's ruffled down to the cuff for a romantic took, ascoted to peek from underneath a long fitted jacket or oversized and French-cuffed to wear with suspendered trousers or leggings. Let those cuffs hang loose.

Vests are everywhere. The gothic look pairs lace-up velvet vests with sheer chiffon skirts or black leather vests with fluid crushed velvet pants. Edwardian vests are intricately patterned in silk brocade, and long loose vests show up in knits, wools and tweeds for casual wear. Nary a head was uncovered in last week's fashion extravaganza. Berets seem to be the chapeau of choice, but crocheted skullcaps, snug little cloches and floppy velvet mobcaps provided fashionable crowning

The boot is the shoe that will complement any era or trend this season. Look for lace-up granny styles in leather or suede, blacks and browns. Ankle boots are popular but kneehighs are really fashion-forward. Heels are flat or gently shaped.

No rules

Obviously there are no rules. Dress to express your personal style and feel free to mix those styles. One decade blends into the next, Romantic combines the femininity of velvet and silk chiffon with the modernism of leather and spandex, while the "immigrant" look encompasses a melange of textures and proportions, unconstructed "city Street-inspired looks sport sophisticated military detailing. Saad Gumma of West Bloomfield favored a brick-colored leather peacoat from the modern industrial segment of the show. And the audience buzzed over the stunning red officer's coat with black velvet trim and brass buttons.

Evening wear exhibited Middle Eastern and Oriental influences with red and black column dresses, Nehru jackets, veils, uneven hemlines sarong skirts and bare shoulders. Darlene Richards of Southfield felt that the Suzy Wong-inspired claret gown pictured captured her mood. Patty Bohnke of Rochester Hills agreed that the red and black "Indochine" gowns were her show favorites. "I'll take a white fur, too," she added, marveling over the beauty of the winter wonderland finale

Impressive, theatrical. exciting and dramatic were words used to describe the grand production that was Fash Bash '93. Will the trends catch on here or are they generally too fantastic to be universal? I bet you won't be able to resist a little velvet, and you better grab your favorite piece now Concert in the mall: Once a month Laurel Park Place shoppers enjoy Detroit's finest jazz musicians performing in the Jazz Pizazz series. In July, the Johnny Allen Trio was jamming - that's Al Martin on bass, John Allen at the piano and Bobby Welch on the drums.

Is mall music settling or nettling?

Shopping areas use music to create atmosphere, make you feel at home, and entice you to linger longer - perhaps parting with a few more dollars. Does it work? It all depends on whether or not you like the music.

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

There's a joke on the comedy circuit that goes something like this: A woman walks into an apparel store demanding her money back for a blouse she purchased earlier.

When the sales associate asks the reason for the return, the customer replies: When I got home I realized I didn't like the blouse, I liked the music playing in the store when I bought it.

Funny? Well, retailers aren't laughing. The music, they argue, is played to promote sales and create a pleasant atmosphere nothing detrimental about it.

"Mall Muzak" typically comes from a package of recorded background music, provided for broadcast to shopping centers, restaurants, factories and other such establishments. At Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, for example, mall management has three stations to choose from, and a fourth filled with holiday music when the season comes

"It's all hooked up to our paging system," Elaine Kah mall spokes-woman explained. "We can broadcast music and interrupt when we have to make announcements or page someone. There is a classical channel, a New Age channel and FM 1, the contemporary music channel. We usually have the con-temporary channel on in the mall."

'We pretty much play the contemporary music in the common areas of the mall," said Bill Checks, marketing manager

But in the individual stores it's a song with a different beat.

"Like our jams?" asks an employee of Attivo, above the hip hop drum rhythms permeating every corner of the store. "Our customers do. We get the fourhour tapes from our corporate offices in Maryland that we play. The music creates the party atmosphere that appeals to young shoppers. It's fun to shop at At-

The Lerner stores likewise air long-playing tapes of music created by their corporate offices.

"Sometimes I get tired of hearing the same songs over and over again," one manager who wished not to be identified confided. "Especially when I hear one that I don't like and I know I'm going to hear it five or six more times a day. We play contemporary pop tunes now, but I like the oldies we used to play.

The music selected for a store is supposed to compliment the merchandise and appeal to the target customer. Nowhere is this more apparent than at the Compagnie Express Internationale and Structure stores. A demand for the European look is fostered through tunes sung in French and Italian by pop stars of those coun-

When Hudson's remodeled their store at the Oakland Mall in Troy, they added a commons area with a highly polished grand piano to serenade shoppers with live music while they browsed.

"Actually we have pianos at our

Oakland, Ann Arbor and Grand Rapids stores," said Chris Morrisroe, Hudson's spokeswoman. "It rounds out the atmosphere in those stores and it helps to relax shoppers. We hire a pianist to play during peak shopping hours. No complaints so far, but LOTS of compliments.

Nancy Rhen of Troy is one of Hudson's guest pianists. She loves to play for shoppers and really enjoys it when they stop to make a request, or thank her for playing.

"They'll say things like, your music made my day, or, your playing is so elegant," she said. Some hysbands stand near the piano and listen while their wives go shopping. I think a message comes across that Hudson's cares about their shoppers and they're willing to go a step beyond.

That's the thought behind the highly successful Jazz Pizazz concerts at the Laurel Park Place in Livonia each month.

"A free concert is always appealing," laughed Mike Buescher of Laurel Park Place. "And when you add superb jazz musicians, good acoustics, informal modeling and the great atmosphere of Laurel Park Place, you've got a winning formula." Buescher said the series is in its second year and there are plans to continue it.

But not every shopping area is musical. At Neiman Marcus in Troy it's so quiet you can hear a

"We consider music distracting and so none is piped in," explained spokeswoman Marilyn Connor. "We prefer a quiet, relaxing, peaceful atmosphere.

Chocolate usurps smoke as filler of important rooms

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Thaddeus McCotter, a Republican county commissioner from Livonia, noticed something funny last week while hanging out with a gang of Democrats.

Recalling the old stereotype of politicians sipping brandy in smoke-filled rooms, McCotter found it odd to see commissioners Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, Edna Bell, D-Detroit, Bernard Parker, D-Detroit, and Ricardo Solomon, D-Detroit, eating chocolate and quaffing Diet Coke in Plawecki's office.

McCotter, who has been known to savor a Camel or two. characterized the scene as "chocolates and mints in a smoke free environment. It's clean livin' downtown.'

Plawecki, who also represents Redford, said it just goes to show that commissioners 'can sit down and get along.'

Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton, said chocolate is a fine thing to have in county government. "The Democrats are in charge here, so we're trying to be sweet," he camp," Checks said. "And this is through the hearts of our shoppers, who by the way don't all show up with hundreds of dollars in their pockets. These are regular people who generously bid what they can.'

In 1992, Checks received 162 celebrity items to sell. This year, he's got more than 400 and merchandise is still coming in. He suspects the hottest item will be Madonna's autographed baby blue box filled with cassettes, videotapes and photographs

While the auction goes on in the center court, other areas of the mall will feature puppet shows, musical performances and local acts. There will be hot dogs and other refreshments for sale throughout the mall - all proceeds to benefit MDA.

For Checks, the tireless quest for items to be auctioned off is a labor of love.

"We're helping children," he said. "The mall merchants, the community, our mall manager Jeanne Hildebrandt — all have a commitment to the

POINTS OF VIEW

Perot supporters nibble at educational theories

n a Royal Oak park pavilion on the muggy evening of July 14, I spoke to a gathering of United We Stand America members and interested parties. UWSA is the increasingly influential national Perotist (as in H. Ross) political watchdog organization. Loretta Adriaens, the leader of a Troy chapter, had invited me and one other speaker to come and expound upon how to improve Michigan's education

Had I known at the time what Debhie Stabenow and John Engler were going to do, I would have begun my speech with a denunciation of politicians who make political hay by risking kids' futures.

Immediately upon entering the park, got bitten by monster mosquitoes, so I was in an irritably itchy mood by the time I ascended my soapbox (actually the top of a picnic table in the pavilion). I had arrived early to chat with some of the audience individually in order to gauge what I was into, and thus surmised that my prepared speech — an extensive attack on colleges out of touch with the real kindergarten through grade 12 world - might be too lengthy for much of this crowd to sit still for. Accordingly, I launched right into my 22 sure and easy ways to fix our schools.

Within 20 minutes I was done, and it was the second speaker's turn. This lady, an "outcomes-based education" opponent from West Bloomfield, was clenching a copy of my now-legendary Telford's Telescope," the Rochester Community Schools' publication from which that school board nervously distanced itself after a 1990 attack on me by a belligerent bunch of concerned conservatives there. Less than a thou sand copies of the 1990 edition were printed, and I don't know how the West Bloomfield lady got her hands on one, but I noted that she had underlined several paragraphs.

She began to grill me and rant against its contents — and against Michigan's Public Act 25, P.A. 25 calls for schools to spell out their goals and outcomes — certainly a reasonable expectation. Sheila Schmittel, Rochester's longtime and just-retired board of education member, cautioned prior to her departure, "Let's not get emotionally involved with buzz words. Outcomes-based education is the latest educational jargon to cause concern among educators and parents. I'd hope we'd look at what the income is and the outcome we'd expect." Amen.

The West Bloomfield lady — and much of the pavilion audience - were most concerned that P.A. 25 is going to "force" schools to teach children values. This is something they see as more suitable for home teaching, particularly as it relates to sexuality and the even more explosive issue of homosexuality. (Unless, of course, the values are "Christian" values, and then it's OK with them to teach these in public schools.)

The problem with such viewpoints is that not only does Christianity have no monopoly on values, but a glance at the local and national news on any given day shows us that many American homes are failing to teach any kind of valuing - Christian or Moslem or Buddhist or otherwise. Thus far, contemporary schools and churches haven't been too successful at teaching it either. Since the terrible feelings of offense against being exploited, ridiculed, robbed or physically and spiritually violated are truly universal, public schools' educating against such evil needs to be formally required, and its approach — constitutionally — must be secular rather than religious.

After the program, Adriaens said she hadn't realized I was such a lightning rod. I answered that this crowd was easy compared to some I'd faced. Actually, the mosquitoes bothered me more,...

aybe it is simply a foggy recollection of my youth, but life seemed much simpler back then. The choices we faced were fewer and easier. Most people enjoyed, or at least tolerated, a mundane sameness in their lifestyles.

Then the idea of variety was introduced to the masses and things have never been the same since.

In what seems to be part of this national trend to make things far more complicated than they need to be, we have been overtaken by the vast array of breakfast cereals.

There are hot ones and cold ones, healthful ones and good-tasting ones, good old American ones and even one which has a "European heritage" and a name that sounds like some kind of nasal discharge.

Breakfast never used to take a lot of thought. Bacon and eggs were standard issue for adults and cereal of the kids. There were only two basic kinds of cereal for kids then: the heavily sweetened kind we all liked, and the stuff our parents bought.

At our house, our typical weekday breakfast was two pieces of buttered toast dunked into a steaming cup of iava laden with milk and sugar. Nothing like a heavy shot of sugar, grease and caffeine to keep one's mind razor sharp until lunch time.

Ah, but the times, they are a-change ing'. Current information says breakfast is the most important meal of the

If I had to place blame for this cereal nonsense, it would probably be on legendary Grape-Nuts pitchman Euell Gibbons. It was he who informed us that some parts of a pine tree are edible. This led to all sorts of weird combinations of organic matter such as grains, fruits, nuts, leaves, bark and, of course, fiber.

Gibbons knew the value of dietary fiber, but before he could see his cause reach its current frantic state, he passed away, probably from some sort of massive colonic spasm.

Despite the wide array of choices, I still anguish over finding a cereal which is good-tasting, nutritionally sound and costs less than $5 a box.

Maybe this anxiety is why I keep having this recurrent dream where I walk down a cereal aisle, armed with one of those high-powered squirt guns loaded with a gallon of milk.

I keep blasting away at the boxes until I am awakened by the words of a reporter saying, "Police are quite sure it is the work of a cereal killer . . . .

RK SURGERY

INFORMATION BULLETIN

RK Surgery is short for Refractive Surgery. It is a surgery for myopia or nearsighted people to potentially eliminate the need of eye glasses or contact lenses. It is performed in an office outpatient setting without the use of laser. Laser Refractive Surgery is performed with an Excimer Laser and is called Photo Refractive Keratoplasty and is also performed as an outpatient.

The Michigan Eyecare Institute feels this is a wonderful procedure for thousands of people but not all people are candidates.

The doctors at the Michigan Evecare Institute have had more years of experience with RK Surgery and Excimer Laser Surgery than any other doctors in the midwest. Dr. Myers is the first doctor currently practicing in Michigan to have performed the procedures. Dr. Myers and Dr. Rubinstein are the first doctors in Michigan to have performed any type of surgery with Excimer Laser.

The Michigan Evecare Institute recommends if you are contemplating Refractive Surgery to investigate how many years the doctor you are electing to perform the procedure has been doing it and how many patients they have performed it on. Also you may ask how many lectures and papers they have written concerning their data. results and methods.

The doctors of the Michigan Eyecare Institute have lectured internationally about Refractive Surgery and Excimer Laser Surgery and have taught the procedures to other ophthalmologists for 15 years and welcome you to visit their offices for a consultation or free evaluation as to whether you or your family members or friends are a candidate for the procedure.

Please cut this bulletin out and use it for a reference if you are contemplating Refractive Surgery. The Michigan Eyecare Institute has 4 offices in Southeastern Michigan. Call 1-800-676-EYES for further information.

Will meteor shower turn out to be a storm?

highlight of August skies is the annual Perseid (PER see id) meteor shower, which will reach its peak this Wednesday evening and goes through morning of the

RAYMOND E. BULLOCK 12th. Meteor showers are named for the constellation from which they appear to radiate, in this case Perseus, and this shower is always one of the year's best. You can expect to see 50 "shooting, stars" every hour, which is about one every minute. In 1993, however, this shower could be a record breaker; it could turn into a "meteor storm" and provide the spectacle of a lifetime! The operative word here is COULD. However, as often is the case astronomical predictions can be controversial. According to the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain, this year's shower won't be any more spectacular than usual. They predict the Perseid shower of 1994 will be the one to look for.

Meteors are more commonly known as "falling stars" because they look like little stars falling from the sky. Some American Indians thought they were stars running from danger. But they have nothing to do with stars; meteors are rocks falling out of

Out in space there are rocks, stones, grains of dust, and other rubbish tumbling around. If one of these objects falls into our atmosphere, it heats up because of friction, burns, and gives off light. A patient skywatcher can expect to see a few sporadic (occasional) meteors any clear night.

Many of these meteors are orbiting around the sun in well-defined streams. They may be trailing along as the debris of a comet, or they may be the remains of a comet that disintegrated long ago. When the earth passes through more meteors than usual can be seen, and we can predict precisely when that will happen.

It just so happens, Comet Swift-Tuttle, the comet which is associated with the Perseids, came through the inner solar system in December 1992. On Wednesday evening, the earth will cross the orbit of the comet and be located very near where the comet was on Dec. 30. This will take us through what ought to be the main swarm of the debris, and the resulting display of meteors could be truly spectac-

A "meteor storm," when many meteors per SECOND are visible, is extremely rare. The last one ocin November 1966, and was best seen from the western United States. Comet Swift-Tuttle takes 130 years to complete an orbit around the sun, so the last time it came through the solar system the Civil War was raging. We just happen to be at the right place at the right time in 1993! While an actual meteor storm is very difficult to predict and might not occur, the Perseids should still be much better than usual.

The best meteor display occurs between 2 a.m. and sunrise, but plan on observing as soon as the sky darkens. Perseus will be rising in the northeast after sunset and will be nearly overhead at sunrise, but the meteors can appear in any part of the sky. Their trails can be traced back to Per-

Meteors burn up about 20 miles above the surface of the earth, but if an exceptionally large meteor fails to burn completely, it could strike the earth and produce a crater. Most of Earth is covered with water, so any meteor impact is more likely to produce a big splash than a big crater. Is it possible to be hit by a meteor? Well, the chances of that happening are truly "astronomical!"

While you are observing the Perseids on Thursday morning, look for the waning crescent moon in the southeast. Below and to the right of the moon will be the "eye" of Taurus, orange- red Aldebaran (al DEB a ran). The color sun and will not be visible. of a star tells us a lot about it. Bright orange-red stars are fairly cool (as stellar temperatures go), rather old, and very large.

Follow the moon as it slides through the morning sky from the 14th through the 16th. Six degrees below and to the left of the moon on the 14th will be bright Venus. On the following morning the moon will be five degrees below Venus and, on the 16th, you will find Mercury six degrees to the left of the moon. Mercury will be only four degrees above the horizon and difficult to spot.

New Moon will occur at .3;28 p.m. on Aug. 17. The moon will be located between the earth and the Saturn will be at opposition on the evening of the 19th. The planet will be located opposite the sun, as seen from the earth, and will rise in the southeast as the sun sets in the northwest. Saturn will be visible all night, will drift across the southern sky in Aquarius, and will set as the sun rises.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Time invested in pickles well spent

hen a farmer looks at cucumber vines, he daydreams about sparkling jars in the fruit cellar filled with all kinds of pic-

Between the garden and table, there are many hours invested in making old-time greats — freshpacked dills, bread and butters, piccalilli, chowchow, icicle pickles and many others with fanciful names:

I say invested because that's exactly what the home gardener and canner is doing, "investing" in time well spent making pickles that will be enjoyed for many months to come.

There are basically two kinds of cucumber pickles - brine cured (also called fermented) and quick process or freshpack.

In the brine cure, vegetables are kept in brine until fermentation is complete (about 4-6 weeks ). Experts agree that these pickles, if well made, are worth the time and attention they require.

But many quick process pickles are equally delicious. Some quick process pickles can be canned immediately after a brief simmer in a brine solution, others age gracefully being nurtured on the refrigerator shelf and kept chilled to a crisp perfec-

Right ingredients

In order to make the best pickles you have to start with the right ingredients.

Slicing cucumbers, grown for salads and fresh eating, do not make the best pickles. Waxed cucumbers from the local grocer are totally unacceptable.

Immature cucumbers make the best pickles and the pros agree that it's best to can them immediately after picking or as soon as possible after Cucumbers that have been picked more than 24 hours before canning make pickles that are hollow, shriveled and tough. A secret Grandma Lory passed down to momma was never use any cucumbers that float in the water while you're washing them; they're usually hollow.

Pros also use good dry onions in the pickling process as fresh onions do not pickle well. As any good pickler can tell you, always use clear vinegar with a specified acid strength of 5 percent or 50 grains. This information should be on the bottle

White distilled vinegar gives pickles the best color. Cider vinegar may darken pickles, but some home canners prefer its flavor and aroma. Salt is the major ingredient in brine and pros prefer a pickling or canning salt over table salt. The additives in table salt to prevent caking make the brine cloudy while iodized salt may darken pickles and retard fermentation.

Pickle fanciers use only the freshest spices for the best flavor. Whole spices help produce pickles of superior color. Fresh dill as opposed to dry is preferred. The use of sugar or other sweetening agents is occasionally used and again, the canner should use pure sugar, cane or beet, unless the recipe specifies other sweeteners.

Lastly, it is important that you have good, soft water. The minerals in hard water interfere with the curing process.

Canning equipment

As far as the correct equipment is concerned, professional canners use only stainless steel cookware and utensils.

Aluminum reacts with pickling liquids and cast iron, unlined copper or galvanized steel combine with pickling acids and salts to form very small quantities of harmful substances.

Experienced canners know it's important to have good jars. They check jars for chips and cracks, and scrutinize lids for rust, bends and cracked rubber seals.

Jars should be sterilized for any pickle recipe that calls for processing the pickles less than 15 minutes. I sterilize my jars in the dishwasher, and keep them there during the drying cycle until I'm ready to use them.

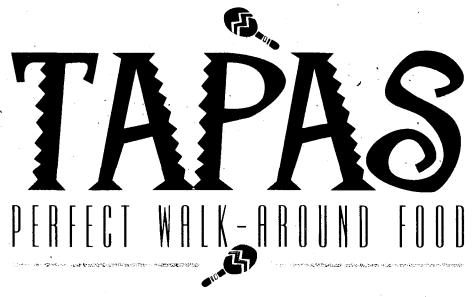

Open-kettle canning is no longer considered safe for canning pickles and relishes. There is always the danger of spoilage organisms entering the food when transferred from kettle to jar. Processing jars after filling them destroys yeasts and molds and also helps achieve a good seal.

Helpful cookbooks

So if you're thinking like a farmer and can't wait to fill the shelves in the fruit cellar with the freshest tastes of summer, you might want to check out "The Farm Journal's Freezing and Canning Cookbook," (copyright, 1978, Ballantine Books) by Nell Nichols and Kathryn Larson.

At under $5, its a worthwhile investment to any one anticipating home canning. The Kerr and Ball canning jar companies also have step-by-step books available, and there are lots of canning books at your local library.

Tapas: A tasty variety of hot and cold tapas offered to guests to nibble at Bill Thee's summer picnic.

Hot and cold tapas are the perfect walk-around food. They're portable, tasty, and not too filling, so guests can nibble on them all day.

By Joan Boram Special Writer

Twice a year, for the past 21 years, Bill Thee has thrown a three-day feast for 100 family and friends. From dinner at 6 p.m. on Friday until lunch at noon on Sunday, the Bloomfield Hills resident serves foods and wines of the country or region he has selected as the gastronomic focus.

For the 1993 21st annual Summer Picnic, (as opposed to the annual Winter Picnic, held in his basement), Thee served foods and wines of the Iberian Peninsula.

Saturday was given over to hot and cold tapas, delicious morsels that Spaniards nibble on while schmoozing with their friends in tapas bars.

'Tapas are perfect for the kind of get-together we have on Saturday," said Thee, who takes a week's worth of vacation to prepare for the feast.

"Friends come in from around the country — former classmates from U of M and Notre Dame, coworkers, family, my parents fly in from Florida everyone wanders around talking to people they may not have seen since last year. Tapas are a perfect walk-around food: they're portable, they're tasty, unique, and not too filling, so guests nibble all

On the official "menu" that accompanies the season's picnic, Thee listed nine kinds each of cold and hot tapas, but in reality there were many more. listed on a blackboard that encouraged guests to pace themselves so they'll have room for delicacies

"I try to maintain an even flow of tapas, bringing out a tray every 15 or 20 minutes," said Thee. "Usually one or two that go well together. One of my favorites is empanadas - ground veal with tomatoes, cumin and other spices. I use a prepared puff pastry; just put dabs of the veal mixture on a sheet of pastry, cover it with another sheet, and stamp out empanadas with a ravioli cutter. Empanadas actually benefit from freezing, which gives the flavors a chance to develop.'

Thee credits his suppliers for the success of his picnic — his philosophy is — "use simple ingredients, but only the very finest."

Most of his produce comes from Strawberry Hill in Farmington Hills. J.R., a butcher at Fisher's Market in Birmingham, always finds Thee what he wants, even if it's something weird like 10 pounds of pork fat, on short notice.

To show his appreciation, he invites suppliers to the annual event. They enjoy the festivities, and it means a lot to see their contributions to a Russian, Tex-Mex or Spanish feast.

See TAPAS, 3B.

Family makes an effort to have dinners together

Every day is different at the Campion house in Southfield. Everyone is busy, but they make a concerted effort to have a home-cooked meal together nearly every day.

Their front door often resembles a revolving door, with people coming and going all the time. Roberta Campion is director of alumnae relations for her alma mater, Mercy High School in Farmington Hills. For the past 10 years, she's also directed and choreographed musicals at the school, and she is the choreographer for the school's show choir, the

Slice cucumber as thin as possible. You can substitute large firm cucumbers for seedless cucumber if you wish. Place cucumbers in a bowl, cover with a plate and place a heavy weight on plate to drain cucumbers. Drain after approximately two hours.

Mix salad dressing with milk to a runny consistency. Add red wine vinegar, mix well. Add sugar to taste, salt, pepper and dill weed.

Mix cucumbers with dressing, marinate in refrigerator until serving time.

Add lemon juice to home canned tomatoes

Tomato canning season will soon be here, and Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, wants to remind all canners of the importance of adding bottled lemon juice to their home canned tomatoes.

Adding bottled lemon juice to canned tomatoes raises the acidity of home canned tomatoes to maintain their safety.

Remember: Add 2 tablespoons of bottled lemon juice to each quart of tomatoes before processing. You may substitute  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon of citric acid for the bottled lemon juice.

Process canned tomatoes according to recipes given in the 32nd edition of the Ball Blue Book or given by the USDA.

Call the Food and Nutrition hot-line Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 858-0904.

There are so many different varieties of tomatoes now-a-days that have such different levels of acidity, there is no way to know if the acid is high enough.

The event, a benefit for the school, is just part of what's keeping mother and daughter busy. They're also working on plans for Mercy's 50th anniversary celebration in 1994.

"Even when we're in rehearsal for a show, we try to make the time to sit down together to eat dinner," said Roberta. "It's about the only time we see each other."

Dinner might not be anything more elaborate than hamburgers. Vinczie and Roberta cook a lot of dinners in advance for days when they don't have time to cook. Spaghetti, meatloaf, and Vinczie's homemade soups are family fa-

"All you have to do is make a salad and you've got dinner," said Roberta, who shares cooking responsibilities with her mom. Vinczie enjoys making Italian dishes and soups, Roberta enjoys making the Polish dishes she learned from her maternal grandmother, Helen Renkas.

Michael helps by setting the table, chopping vegetables and making salads. Patrick also helps with prep work, and enjoys cooking too. It was his idea to put grated cheese on top of sauteed zucchini featured in our Super Supper recipes.

A family secret is cutting the end off a cucumber and rubbing the two ends together before slicing. Roberta and her mom swear this makes the cucumber less bit-

Roberta and Vinczie shared recipes for Polish meat patties, which can be prepared in advance and reheated, creamed cucumbers, which taste better when allowed to marinate overnight, julienned carrots with brown-sugar glaze and sauteed zucchini with Colby cheese. They round out this meal with parsley-buttered new potatoes and fresh rolls. For dessert, vanilla yogurt with fresh peaches.

What's your strategy for getting dinner on the table after work? We want to hear from you. ### Tapas from page 1B

"I've covered every kind of . cooking except Scandinavian, South American and Austrasaid Thee. "And I'm lian, sure I'll get to those eventually. Spanish is the only cuisine I've repeated, although the menus have been different both times. Guests especially love the tapas, and I love making them."

According to Dama Maria del Carmen, who was given her honorary title by King Juan Carlos of Spain in recognition of her promotion of Spanish culture through her dancing, tapas bars have a special social function in Spain.

"In Spain, home entertaining is not common," said del Carmen, of Garden City. "So thousands of tapas bars have sprung up where we can meet with our friends, drink a little dry fine sherry, and snack on tapas. Everybody orders a different tapas, so the table is covered with little dishes, and we all help ourselves. Many tapas bars have their own unique recipes, and some specialize in one variety, such as mushroom or chicken wing tapas.

Originally, the tapa was a slice of ham or chorizo sausage placed over the mouth of a wine glass, and served compliments of the house. It's no accident that ham and sausage make one thirsty! Eventually, there were hundreds of varieties of tapas and they're no longer free. According to del Carmen, tapas are also a convenient way to fill the long hours between meals. In Spain, breakfast is often a cup of chocolate and Churros (pastry).

Lunch is eaten at 2 or 3 p.m., and dinner is typically served at 10 p.m. While a Spaniard will rarely eat tapas in place of a meal, they do keep him from starving between meals.

"Generally, we'll have tapas and a glass of wine at about 11 a.m., perhaps some sausages or ham cut in thin slices or Salchichon (a Spanish cheese similar to feta), served on crusty bread, some olives, and slices of cantaloupe or honey-

"Lunch could be a rich soup, served with a salad. Then, we meet with our friends around 7 p.m. for tapas and conversa-

Perfectly delicious pickles easy to make

See Larry Janes' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

BEST EVER BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES

6 pounds pickling cucumbers (about 32 four-inch cucumbers)

1/2 cup canning/pickling salt ice cubes

- 1 quart 5 percent acid strength
- 4 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed 1 tablespoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon ground tumeric
- 1/2 teaspoon white pepper
- 3 pounds sliced onions

Wash cucumbers. Cut 1/8-inch slice off both ends. Slice crosswise, no more than 1/8-inch thick. (The thinner the better.) Layer cucumber slices and salt in a glass bowl or crock and cover with ice cubes. Allow to stand three hours in the refrigerator or until cucumbers are crisp and cold. Add more ice if needed.

Drain well. Combine vinegar, sugar, mustard seed, celery seed, ginger, tumeric and pepper in an 8quart kettle. Bring this mixture to a boil; boil 10 minutes. Add cucumbers and onions; bring back to a rolling boil. Immediately pack into 8 hot pint jars; filling to within 1/4 inch of top of jar. Wipe jar rim; adjust lids.

Process in a boiling water bath for 15 minutes. Start to count time when water in canner returns to boiling. Remove jars. Makes 8

REFRIGERATOR SUN PICKLES

Fresh pickling cukes to fill a 1 gallon, wide mouth jar (about 7 to 8 pounds)

- 2-3 quarts vinegar
- 3 sprigs fresh dill

3 cloves garlic, chopped fine Wash cucumbers. Cut 1/4-inch off each end. Cut cucumhers 1/4-inch thick. If you want them whole, make a slash 1/4-inch deep throughout the cucumber, enabling the vinegar to penetrate into the spear. Pack cukes into jar. Do not over pack. Add vinegar, dill and garlic.

Simple fruity topping heavenly

AP - The best way to showcase summer's luscious fruits? Serve them with this simple topping and let the fruity fresh flavors burst through. It's as easy as whipping cream. You can also serve this heavenly topping over slices of cake, gingerbread or fruit

LEMON HONEY TOPPING

- 1/2 cup whipping cream 3 tablespoons honey
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel

Chill a small mixer bowl and beaters of an electric mixer. In the chilled bowl combine whipping cream, honey and lemon juice. Beat with an electric mixer on low speed about 5 minutes or until soft peaks form (tips curl). Gently fold in the lemon peel. Serve immediately or chill for up to 1 hour. Makes about 1 cup topping.

Enter our tomato sauce contest

There's still time to enter our class on canning tomatoes and contest. We're looking for recipes for delicious, versatile tomato sauces that capture the essence of vine-ripened tomatoes.

If you have a recipe that was handed down or originated in your kitchen, we want to hear from you.

Contest finalists will be asked to bring a sampling of their tomato sauce to Kitchen Glamor, 26770 Grand River in Redford Township at 12:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 23, for judging.

Before the judging, from 1-2 p.m., Chef Larry Janes and Lois Thieleke home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, will teach a free making sauce. Those attending ·the class will have an opportunity to taste sauce made by the three finalists and pick their favorite. The winner will be announced at 2 p.m.

First prize is a $50 gift certificate redeemable at Kitchen Glamor stores; second prize is $25 worth of canning supplies; third prize is a copy of "Bert Greene's Kitchen - A Book of Memories and Recipes," (Workman Publishing, 1993).

Here are contest requirements: ■ All recipes must be typed or printed, and the finished product must resemble a homemade tomato sauce that can be canned or frozen for later use. Recipe should make a maximum of four quarts of sauce.

List ingredients in order of use; then describe the cooking process. Explain how you use this sauce, and why it's so versatile.

■ Include your name, address and a daytime telephone number with recipe.

■ Recipes must be sent to: Keely Wygonik, Taste editor, Observer Eccentric Newspapers Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, Mich. 48150; or faxed to 591-7279; and postmarked no later than 5 p.m. Monday, Aug. 16. Recipes become the property of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Finalists will be required to sign an affidavit stating the recipe is original and not copied from a magazine, book or other publica-

■ The top three finalists will be notified by Thursday, Aug. 19, and will be asked to prepare a sampling of their sauce to be judged at Kitchen Glamor in Red-

Mocha malted coffee cooler refreshing on hot day

AP - The big comeback of iced coffee touches family chords for me. Years ago, my father drank it every summer night with dinner. When I made it, he'd always be sure to tell me that it was just exactly the way he liked it. Since then. I've come to love iced coffee the traditional kind my father drank, as well as many new variations. The chocolate malted milk

- 1/4 cup dry white wine
- 1/4 cup water 4
- 2 cloves
- 1/s teaspoon saffron

brushed clean

Salt and freshly ground pepper 1/2 pound very small mushrooms, stems removed.

Heat the oil in a small, deep casserole. Add the onion and garlic and saute until the onion is wilted. Stir. in the tomato sauce, wine, water, cloves, saffron, salt and pepper. Simmer, covered for 45 minutes. adding more water, if necessary,

Add the mushrooms to the cooking liquid and simmer 5 minutes more. Turn off the heat, cover and let cool. Refrigerate overnight. Serve cold or at room temperature.

LAMB MEATBALLS IN BRANDY SAUCE

- 1 pound ground lamb 1 egg
- 2 cloves gartic, mashed to a paste or put through a garlic press
- 2 tablespoons chopped pars- -
- salt 1 tablespoon coarsely ground
- pepper
- 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons dry red wine
- I tablespoon olive oil 1 small onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons brandy, prefera-
- bly Spanish 41/2 teaspoons tomato sauce

1/2 cup beef or lamb broth

Combine the ground lamb, egg, garlic, parsley, salt and pepper. In a separate bowl, soften the bread crumbs in the wine, then add the crumbs to the meat mixture. Mix well. Form into about 30 bite-size

Heat the oil in a large casserole and brown the meatballs on all sides. Add the onion and continue cooking until it is wilted. Pour in the pan, ignite the liquid and stir until the flames subside. Add the tomato sauce and the broth. Salt to taste. Cover and cook slowly for 45 minutes. (May be prepared ahead.)

MUSHROOM TOAST

- 1 tablespoon olive oil 1/2 pound mushrooms, stems trimmed, brushed clean, and coarsely chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced 1 tablespoon minced parsley
- 1 tablespoon minced cured ham
- Sait and freshly ground pepper 4 slices good-quality sandwich
- bread, crusts removed 2 tablespoons grated cheese, preferably Manchego or Par mesan

White sauce

enne pepper

3 tablespoons butter 3 tablespoons flour

1/2 cup plus 3 tablespoons milk 1 tablespoon dry white wine Salt and freshly ground pepper A generous grating of nutmeg A generous sprinkling of cay-

To make the white sauce, melt the butter in a saucepan and add the flour. Cook for a couple of minutes, then add the milk and wine gradually and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Season with salt, pepper, nutmeg and cayenne.

In a skillet, heat the oil until it is very hot. Saute the mushrooms over high heat for about 2 minutes. If the mushrooms give off liquid, evaporate before continuing. Add the garlic, parsley, ham, salt and pepper and turn off the heat. Combine the white sauce with the mushrooms mixture and stir in the cheese.

Toast the bread very lightly. Cut each slice into two triangles and cover with the mushroom mixture. Broil until golden about 1 minute. (Note from Bill Thee: This is our most popular appetizer. Can be made two days in advance. We bake the triangles in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes.)

GARLIC AND TOMATO BREAD

- 5 tablespoons very fruity olive
- 4 cloves garlic, mashed to a paste or put through a garlic

- 4 34-inch slices cut from a coarse-textured bread
- 1 very ripe, juicy tomato, cut in half

Combine in a cup the oil and garlic. Toast the bread slices lightly, then brush with the oil and garlic and rub well with the cut tomato. Repeat for the other side of the bread. (May be prepared ahead.) Toast again, briefly, to crisp, and serve warm.

OLIVE PASTE AND BLUE CHEESE CANAPE

- 1/4 pound pitted cured black olives
- 1 large clove of garlic, mashed to a paste or put through a garlic press
- 2 tablespoons pine nuts 3 tablespoons olive oil
- ¼-inch slices long crusty loaf bread
- 1/4 to 1/2 pound blue cheese. such as Cabrales, Roquefort or Gorgonzola

Place the olives, garlic, pine nuts, and olive oil in the bowl of a processor and chop as finely as possible.

thinly on bread slices. Cover wi blue cheese. Decorate with a piece of black olive.

SPICY LAMB BROCHETTES

Start preparation 1 day in advance

- Marinade: 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 small onion, slivered
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley 1 teaspoon paprika, preferably
- Spanish 1/2 dried red chili pepper, seed-
- ed and crumbled Few strands saffron, crushed
- ¼ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ teaspoon cumin
- Salt and freshly ground pepper

Combine the marinade ingredients in a bowl. Add the lamb, stirring to coat well. Marinate in the refrigerator overnight.

Arrange the meat on six 7-inch brochettes (meat skewers). Grill on the upper rack of the broiler not more than 3 minutes to a side, basting with the marinade. Serve at

Exercise, eat less to control creeping weight gain

The average American gains about 30 pounds between the ages of 25 and 55. Weight gain during these years typically creeps on at about one or two pounds a year. One day we look at the scale and say — "Where did all this come from?"

Research suggests less exercise is a major reason for "creeping weight," said Karen Collins, a registered dietitian for the American Institute of Cancer Research. Even if we eat the same amount as always, if we burn off fewer calories, the extra will be stored as fat. In addition, as we are less active, we lose metabolically active muscle tissue, and therefore burn up even fewer calories each

Some researchers believe that a modest weight gain as we age is normal and not associated with any increased health risks. But it does make sense to look at your lifestyle to make sure that any weight gain is likely to remain

People experiencing middle-age weight gain often say, "But I eat the same way that I always have!" That's part of the problem. Our metabolic rate, the rate at which we burn up calories, slows down two to three percent each decade over age 30.

mhining lower activity Jec. a. wer i tabolic rate means t. -d wer alories as we get older. So lating the same as you did 10 years ago would be expected to cause weight gain.

Break the habit of automatically taking the same portion you've always taken, and then eating it all just because it's there. Instead, focus on your physical hunger signals; if your stomach tells you to stop eating, that's the time to stop, regardless of how good something tastes or how much vou've "always" eaten.

Roth enjoys new balance in golf game

eff Roth certainly seemed like a man content with life during Thursday's opening round of the Buick Open at Warwick Hills Country Club.

As the the skies provided a sparkling blue backdrop with temperatures in the low 70s (and no humidity), Grand Blanc's morning weather was a golfer's paradise.

Not even a first-round 75 (3 ever par) could spoil Roth's day in the sun.

"It doesn't get any better than this," said the former All-State golfer from Plymouth Salem High. "I guess I was disappointed, especially because of the ideal conditions.

"You ask any of the guys (PGA pros) and they'll tell you these are as good of greens as they'll play all year. And with the weather the way it was, the course setup was just perfect for me. Normally I like it fast, but not long."

Second Buick appearance

Roth, who earned a spot in the Buick 10 years ago, actually has come full circle in his golf career.

He was a little nervous at the first tee, but was not overwhelmed by the experience. It was like he was back playing on the local par-3 course with his buddies during his days as a youth in Wiscon-

'I've had just enough experience to feel comfortable out here with these guys," said Roth, who has played as a qualifier in two National PGAs, not to mention stints on the South African and Ben Hogan tours. "I shot a 66 in the practice round (Monday), so I knew I had it in me. The conditions were perfect for a good round; that's why I'm disap-

Roth, however, has a real job. He's been the head pro at the Flint Golf Club for the past five years. (He shot a 67 on his home course in sectional qualifying to earn one of four local berths in the

Felt good coming in

"I got in plenty of practice, at least eight or nine practice rounds," he said. "Over the last two weeks I've been running the men's and ladies invitationals at my own club, so I haven't really been able to challenge myself the way I like. But in a way it was good; I got my mind away from the game and the tourney.'

After moving to Plymouth when he was 13, Roth's family joined Farmington Country Club Basically a self-taught golfer, leaning on advice from his father, Roth became more serious and proficient in his play as a teenager.

He led Salem to the 1974 state Class A crown and ventured to Tucson to play for the University of Arizona, changing his game under the tutelage of John Gibson

PGA Tour aspirations

Ten years ago, Roth made a serious bid to play the PGA Tour on a regular basis, joining the likes of the Normans, Kites, Stewarts and Prices.

"It's tough out there, and I learned there's a difference between making a living and just making ends meet," Roth said. "Right now I just want to do the best job I can at the Flint Golf Club and be there as long as I can. It's a nice job.

Right now Roth is more than happy to be one of the state's best pros, while getting a regular paycheck and raising a family in nearby Flushing.

Wife Maureen spent the day carrying Jeff's bag, while the two little ones, Jeffrey, 3, and Justin, 2, were being caddied elsewhere.

'She helps me relax, and she's one of the stabilizing elements for me out here," Jeff said. "Her personality helps me. Sometimes I tend to be real talkative, especially with all the people who are here. I start to smile and it's easy to get side tracked. She keeps me from getting too excited, good or bad. I feel positive when she's around.

Friends in gallery

Roth, the former pro at Birmingham Country Club, estimated that anywhere from 30 to 70 of his friends and acquaintances were watching in the gallery during his round.

"It's nice doing it here because I have so many friends in the area," he said. "It was kind of nice; I

That made the errant drive at No. 4 and the double bogey at No. 10 not so hard to swallow.

On Friday, Roth rebounded under cloudy and rainy skies to shoot a 70, lowering his two-day to-

Roth, however, missed the cut by a mere stroke. "It's nice to jump in and out (of the PGA Tour) once in a while," he said. "Right now I feel I have the best of both worlds.

Hines Park run ends in Altoona

Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury

couldn't get past Baltimore in the All-American Amateur Baseball Association regional Saturday in Altoona, Pa., falling one victory short of going to the nationals in Johnstown.

BY BRAD EMONS

When the All-American Amateur Baseball Association tournament gets under way today in Johnstown, Pa., the field will be without the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League cham-

Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury, the LCBL's representative, fell one game short in its bid to make the 20-andunder national tourney, falling to Baltimore in the AAABA regional Saturday in nearby Altoona, 12-2.

The game, played at Veterans Memorial Park, was stopped after eight innings because of the 10-run mercy

Last year Walter's Appliance went all the way to the AAABA finals before losing in the championship to New Orleans.

But the LCBL had a different row to hoe.

Penalized because the Livonia Parks and Recreaton Department couldn't budget a trip to send a representative to the league in the AAA-BA's winter meetings in Boca Raton, Fla., Hines Park was forced to qualify for one of two spots during a weeklong seven-team regional.

"Walter's made a good run last year, and we had hoped to do the same," Hines Park manager Ken Wandzel said. "We looked good here at times, but the way bracket was set up, I guess it wasn't meant to be.'

Detroit, Baltimore going

Detroit, which got a break by getting a bye into the final, met Baltimore Saturday in Altoona for the regional title.

Hines Park bounced back from its opening round game loss Tuesday to Washington, D.C. (11-6) with wins on successive days against Milford, Mass., Cleveland and Detroit.

Saturday's bid, however, fell short when Baltimore broke a 2-2 tie in the fourth with a five-run outburst. Steve Newberger and Jason Triolo keyed

Court coverage

Baltimore, which out-hit Hines Park 17-7, sent starter Jeff Paluk to the showers and added three more against Mark Temple in the fifth before getting a pair off Brian Paluk in the eighth.

Ed Gundry tripled twice in a losing cause, while Tom Davey also had two hits, including a two-run single.

Baltimore reliever Jason Hucks, who came on in the third, held Livonia scoreless the rest of the way to pick up the win.

Livonia clobbers Detroit

University of Detroit Mercy's Lawrence Scheffer clubbed two homers in Hines Park's lopsided 11-1 victory Friday over Michigan Sports.

The draftee from Little Caesars socked a solo homer and clubbed a two-run shot in the eighth to close out the victory. Brian Burns added two hits for the Winning pitcher Andrew Margolick tossed a five-hitter in going the distance. He walked only one.

"He threw a great game, there were only two hard-hit balls the whole day," Wandzel said. "Scheffer, the night before, went through the entire Detroit lineup with Andrew and told him how to pitch to each batter.

On Thursday, UDM-bound Steve Ross (Redford Catholic Central) scattered nine hits and three walks over nine innings, lifting Hines Park past Cleveland, 6-2.

Jim Solak, an outfield draftee from Walter's, had a solo homer.

Davey belted a three-run double in the first, while teammate George Leung also collected two hits. Shortstop Gary Pierce also made two key defensive plays.

LCBL bounces back

On Wednesday, Hines Park mountd a 13-hit attack in a 9-5 win over Milford, Mass., as Scheffer knocked in four runs, including a three-run Solak and Leung each contributed three hits, two runs and an RBI.

Kapla, the right-hander from Eastern Michigan and Redford CC, pitched the first six innings to earn the decision. He gave way to Del-Wal pick-up Todd Boike.

But Ross had to come on in the eighth, going the final 11/3 innings, to earn the save

Hines Park, the LCBL regular season and playoff champs, closed out the summer with a 25-9-1 overall

Sellers' 4 goals not enough, Wolves nip Bulldogs

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

`The Bulldogs were the more tenacious team Thursday as they beat back a challenge from the Wolverines to win the Metro Summer Hockey League title, 8-7.

The Wolverines, who finished last in the Eagle Conference, had hoped to do as they did in 1988 when they came from nowhere to win the postseason playoffs after winning once in the regular season.

'We played these guys before and beat them 15-10," Bulldogs player/ coach Cory Almas said. "I think we thought it would be a rout, but they came to play. I guess we got the better of them. We played tough defense.

The Bulldogs, champions of the Bakes Conference, were the favorites Thursday and proved it as they overcame a good test from the Wolverines.

Joe Sellers of Plymouth paced the league champions with four goals. Chris Freeman had two goals and one assist, Jeff Lupu a goal and three as-Almas, Tom O'Brien and Chuck fensive play. We wanted to make sure our forwards were coming back and checking

"We didn't play as well as the first two playoff games. But we're just out here to have fun and winning makes it a lot more fun.

A heated third period was full of suspense, and the score was still in doubt until the Bulldogs won a faceoff in their end with 21/2 seconds

Wolverines player/coach Jason Weber tied the scored at 5-5, but the Bulldogs scored the next two and appeared to have the situation under control with 7:42 remaining.

Pad save: Goalie John Weidenbach, from Michigan State, deflects a potential goal from the Wolverines.

Freeman made it 6-5 and the Wolverines made a critical mistake that led to the next goal. Sellers got a short-handed goal, scoring on a re-bound shot by Matt Allen, who found himself alone on a breakaway. The middle was left open for Almas and Sellers as well.

'We were putting on a heavy forecheck at that time," Weber said. One of their guvs snuck up and caught us napping.

'I was trailing (Allen) in case he missed it," Almas said. "The puck hopped over my stick and went right onto the stick of Joe Sellers. That was kind of a lucky break for us. Tim Vosnick got the Wolverines back within a goal (7-6) a half minute later. The Wolverines pulled goalie Kevin Brady with 50 seconds left, but then Sellers scored an empty-net goal for the Bulldogs. The it's-not-over 'til-it's-over game wasn't over as Jim Hubenschmidt kept the Wolverines in it, scoring a goal (8-7) with 11 seconds to play. An icing call brought the puck back for the faceoff near the Bulldogs net with 21/2 seconds on the clock.

Weber had one goal and five assists for the Wolverines. Peter Bourke one and three, respectively. Matt Cor-

M WENSLEY NAMED COACH

Spring Arbor College Athletic Director Hank Burbridge recently announced the hiring of Livonia native Lyle Wensley as men's soccer coach.

Wensley replaces Terry Fretz, who compiled a 12-26-4 record in two years at Spring Arbor. Fretz leaves Spring Arbor to take a high school teaching and coaching position in the Grand Cayman Islands.

Wensley, 25, is a former three-time National Christian College Athletic Association All-American at Spring Arbor. He graduated from Spring Arbor in 1989 and is currently working toward a teaching certificate at Eastern Michigan

"I want to see the program get back to where it was in the 1970s and early '80s when it was a national power," Wenslev said. "I'm going to work hard to make sure the team plays together and not as individuals It will be Wensley's first collegiate coaching experience.

'It'll be a challenge for me, but I enjoy coaching more than anything and will put a lot of effort into the job," Wensley said. "My three brothers all played soccer at Spring Arbor and I think of Spring Arbor as home in a lot of ways.

He also coaches a youth club team in Livonia and is a former JV coach at Livonia Churchill High.

As a senior at Allen Park Inter-City Baptist High in 1985, Wensley was voted the state's Mr. Soccer by the Michigan High School Soccer . Coaches Association. His older brother Del Wensley was the Cougars' soccer coach from 1987-88.

II RUNNERS EARN PLACES

The Spitfire Track Club. coached by Mike and Betty Krafchak, earned a pair of places Aug. 1 in the Junior Olympic Track and Field Nationals in Baton Rouge, La.

In the 17-18 Young Women's Division, the 3,200-meter relay team of Lynda Sebestyen (Plymouth Salem), Tracey Cavin (Plymouth Canton), Bridget Mackinnon (Livonia Stevenson) and Sarah Hamilton took sixth overall in 9:58.0. Hamilton, the anchor leg, recorded the fastest 800 split in 2:24.

In the 15-16 Girls Intermediate, the 3,200 relay squad of Leaf Retherford (Salem), Laura McWilliams (Canton), Meghan Barresi (Canton) and Kim Czaplicki (Salem) finished 13th in 10:23.13. Retherford, the lead-off runner, had the top 800 split with a clocking of 2:30.

'I thought we represented the state of Michigan and the Observer area kids well," Mike Krafchak said. "The kids really worked hard. It was very hot down there, 85 degrees at night, but it was a worthwhile experience.

"We had to raise $3,000 in two weeks, but the community was very supportive and I'd like to thank them for their contributions.

CARDS 1ST ACE

Scott Wixson, 26, of Westland, scored a hole-in-one using a 5-iron on the 193-yard No. 10 hole July 31 at Bonnie Brook Golf Course in Detroit. He shot a 45.

M ALEXANDER TRIUMPHS

Livonia's Ann Alexander shot 44 and 40 for an 84, capturing low gross honors, to win the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association championship flight Aug. 4 at Heather Highlands in Holly.

■ WESTLAND RACER 1ST

Steve Cronenwett of Westland held off heavy pressure from Steve Gunge to win the 30-lap Late Model feature event July 31 at the Flat Rock Speedway.

Cronenwett led every lap and displayed some smooth driving as the rookie held back the defending champ the entire way, picking up up his first-ever win in the late model class after moving up from the Street Stocks in the Automobile Racing Club of American-sanctioned series.

Westland's Craig Pace took fifth in the 15-lap ARCA Figure 8 feature, while Kale Asztalos was the pole qualifier ARCA Street Stock race. Redford's Tom Selmi finished third in the Feature, while Asztalos took fourth.

Former Westland Observer carrier Delano Voletti, a catcher for Dearborn Stitt Post No. 232, collected 16 hits in 22 atbats for a .727 average, including three homers and 20 RBI, at the National Amateur Base ball Federation 15-16 year-old regional tournament held July 28-Aug. 1 in Maumee, Ohio.

The Dearborn Divine Child High senior, a transfer from Livonia Franklin, has helped Stitt to a 50-6 overall record and a berth in the NABF World Series in Northville.

Mr. Influential

Chapman had impact on Indy race car series

■ Jim Chapman is one of four people from the Birmingham-Bloomfield area considered among the most influential individuals in Indy Car racing, according to a recent magazine article.

BY STEVE STEIN STAFF WRITER

On a clear day, you can see for miles from the balcony of Jim Chapman's downtown Birmingham apartment.

It's a spectacular view from the sixth floor . . . and a symbolic one. When it comes to Indy Car racing, the Birmingham-Bloom-field Hills area is in the penthouse of power.

Chapman, 77, who recently retired as director of racing for PPG Industries, which is sponsor of the PPG Indy Car World Series, was named the Most Influential Person in Indy Car Racing for the 1983-1993 decade by Indy Car Racing Magazine.

He's one of four men with Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills ties who were selected to the magazine's top 10 list as part of the publication's 10th anniversary.

No. 3 is Roger Penske, owner of Penske Racing, Indy Car racing's most successful team during the decade. A Bloomfield Hills resident, Penske is chairman and chief executive officer of the Penske Corp.

William Stokkan, another Bloomfield Hills resident who is chairman of the board of Championship Auto Racing Teams (CART), was named the fourth CART world headquarters is in Bloomfield Hills.

John W. Frasco rounds out the local quartet. The Bloomfield Hills resident was the first chairman of CART and its chief executive officer until 1989. He now heads his own law firm, based in Bloomfield Hills.

Who came in at No. 2 on the Most Influential list? Tony George, owner/president of Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

No one could argue about Chapman's selection as No. 1. Well, maybe he could.

Chapman is a modest guy who is quick to give the credit for his successes to his associates. The dozens of trophies, plaques and other awards in Chapman's apartment make it obvious what his racing colleagues have thought of Chapman began guiding PPG's fledgling racing program in February 1981, when he contracted his public relations agency to represent PPG. At the time, PPG's annual contribution to the CART prize fund was $200,000. Now, it's nearly $4 million.

A major turning point in Chapman's efforts to make the Indy Car series the success it is today was bringing the Indianapolis 500 into the fold in 1982. Chapman's negotiations with the late Joe Cloutier, then the president of Indianapolis Motor Speedway, resulted in the agreement.

When he announced his retirement last year, Chapman was praised by his associates in the sport and auto racing journalists across the country for his professionalism and class. They said there was no better ambassador

Most Influential Person. The for Indy Car racing than the Southern Gentleman.

While racing dominated the latter stages of Chapman's professional career, he's also wellknown as the man who became close friends with Babe Ruth during the last years of the Bambino's life.

After serving in the U.S. Air Force during World War II, Chapman left the editorial staff of the New York Times to join Ford Motor Company in Detroit as regional director of public relations.

In a stroke of public relations genius, Chapman hired Ruth as a consultant to Ford's sponsorship of American Legion Junior Baseball, at the time the only junior baseball program in the United States.

Even though Ruth was suffering from throat cancer and spoke in a raspy voice, he traveled across the country with Chapman for more than two years. Ruth made appearances at junior baseball tournaments, sports banquets and other events.

"Every time we arrived somewhere, the people lined up to see the Babe," Chapman recalled.

Ruth died with Chapman at his bedside in August 1948. Just a few weeks earlier, Ruth presented Chapman with his only good luck charm, a 1922 silver dollar. The dollar was made into a money clip with the inscription, "To Jim Chapman: A wonderful guy and a real friend. Babe Ruth. 7-17-48."

"No book or movie done on the Babe has done him justice,' Chapman said. "Sure, he was funloving, but he was a very intelligent person.

"He did things in a grand style, and he was loved not only by fans, but by his fellow athletes. No athlete has ever been more popularthan Babe Ruth.'

Chapman, who first moved to the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills area in 1951 and has been very active in community and church ac. tivities, continues to work in his Birmingham apartment even though he has retired. He's acting" as a consultant to PPG racing. About 3 p.m. each day, Chap. man stops working and sits down in his easy chair to read and sometimes watch TV. A voracious reader, Chapman plows through newspapers, magazines and books with amazing speed.

His schedule is quite different" than the past dozen years, when he'd be traveling nearly year, round to races and off-season banquets.

Chapman's friends are encour. aging him to write a book about. his experiences. He's thought's about it, but it's not in the works

"It takes a lot of self-discipline to write a book, and I don't know if I have that after years of writing short things like press releases and memos," he said.

In the meantime, Chapman is perfectly happy to work a few hours a day and finally enjoy living in a city he's loved for many years. His four children and eight grandchildren all reside in nearby Oakland County communities.

"There are seven restaurants within two blocks of my apartment, there's a Broadway-type theater a block away, and shop-ping is very close," Chapman

Indy Car racing's "loss" has become Birmingham's gain.

Saginaw Bay is place for bass fishing

Bay provides Michigan anglers with some of the best sport fishing in the midwest. With 1,143 square miles of surface area (from Point Lookout near Au Gres to Sand Point near Caseville and south to the Saginaw River) covering a sand, clay, rock, and gravel bottom walleye and yellow perch tend to dominate the fishery. So why is Roland Martin - host of the cable TV show on TNN "Fishing With Roland Martin" coming up from Florida to do a show on the bass fishery in Saginaw Bay.?

"The bass fishery in Saginaw Bay is probably lower Michigan's best kept secret," explained Rochester's Art Ferguson III, one of Michigan's premier professional bass anglers. "There is such an abundance of bass out there it's incredible. There are a lot of walleye and perch fishermen out there, but not a lot of people pounding the bass every day. You don't catch a lot of five and sixpounders, but they're out there. And two and three-pounders are everywhere. Pound-for-pound I consider it the best bass lake in Ferguson will guide Martin around the bay when he comes up to tape the show. The duo is also hoping to take in a couple tournaments - the Wayne County Bass Anglers Open on the Lower Detroit River and the Michigan Bass 'N Gals Open on Lake St. Clair while Martin is in town.

"Roland Martin is the most famous bass fisherman that ever

It's no secret lived," said Ferguson. "He's been that Saginaw to 17 B.A.S.S. Masters Classics and he's been the National B.A.S.S. Angler of the Year something like nine times. I've never had the opportunity to fish with him personally, but he's one of my idols. It will be a great honor to be in the boat with him.'

Ferguson, who runs a guide service on Saginaw Bay, Lake St Clair and the Detroit River during the summer, guides on Florida's Lake Okeechobee during the winter months. He works out of the Roland Martin Marina, which is where he first met the living leg-

"He's wanted to come up to Saginaw Bay for five years," added Ferguson. "We hope to spend about four days on the water.

The winning edge

Ferguson has already spent a lot of time on the water this summer and has achieved very favorable results. In eight tournaments so far he has finished first three times, second three times, seventh once and eighth once.

Ferguson and Rochester resident George Hoffman opened the season on May 22 with a secondplace finish in the Professional Bass Fishermans Circuit tournament on Saginaw Bay. Using Bulldog spinnerbait and Gitzits with Bulldog jig heads the two hauled in a six-bass limit that weighed 18.87 pounds. Ferguson teamed up with Redford's Marnie Harris on June 19th and won the Backlashers Bass Club's Lake St. Clair Open. They caught an eightbass limit that weighed 25.02 pounds, again using Bulldog spinnerbait and jig heads with Gitzits.

On June 24th Ferguson and Birmingham's Robert Sultsman joined forces to place second in the Bass Anglers Sportsmans Society Motown Classic on St. Clair.

They boated a 10-fish limit that tipped the scale at 20-pounds, 1ounce. Livonia's Ed Dietrich joined Ferguson on June 26 in the PBFC tournament on Lake St. Clair. Using Bulldog spinnerbaits and Bomber crankbaits they took top honors in the tournament with a six-fish limit that weighed 14.80 pounds.

"The reason I throw Bulldogs is because they come with Gamagotsu hooks," explained Ferguson. "They're absolutely the sharpest hooks out of the package."

Ferguson teamed up with Hoffman in two other tournaments. On June 27th they used Bulldog spinnerbait, Slug-O's and Berkley Power Worms win the Macomb County Bass Anglers Open with a six-fish limit that weighed 14.02 pounds. The defending champs of the Michigan B.A.S.S. Federation Circuit were back in action July 18 as they placed second in the Federation opener on St. Clair. Rat-L-Traps and resulted in an eight-fish limit that weighed in at 20.84 pounds.

Ferguson is also currently in the top eight of the Michigan Division of the Operation Bass Redman Tournament Trail after two of six scheduled tournaments. He placed eighth out of 142 anglers in the Red Man opener on Saginaw Bay and placed seventh out of 128 anglers on July 25 in the Red Man tournament in Muskegon.

Ferguson is off to a great start this summer and with Roland Martin headed his way the success will surely continue.

(Anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encourged. Send information to: Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009 or fax information to 664-1314. Bill Parker can be reached by phone 6-10 p.m. on Monday evenings at riveau, Justin Weber and Andrew Perry also scored for the Wolverines. Tony Ferrero had a first-period goal for the Bull-

"We were just trying to have fun," Weber said. "Then the playoffs came around and we thought we'd pick up the intensity - and it worked out real well. We beat the two first-place teams (the Eagle co-champion Huskies and Broncos), to get here and we're real happy with

The Wolverines were fast starters in the first and second periods, scoring the first goal each time and gaining the early momentum.

They managed to play the Bulldogs, who peppered Brady with 21 shots in the first period, to a 2-2 tie until the winners scored a pair in the last two minutes.
The Wolverines scored what would have been the tying goal (5-5) late in the second period, but it was disallowed because of goalie interference.

"We were going with two lines so we could get out to an early lead, then maybe sit back and play tight defense," Weber said.

'They've got a lot of speedy forwards, and their defense was moving the puck real well. They wore us down; fatigue got to

Lodish carries load for Bills

By MARTY BUDNER STAFF WRITER

Fight! Fight! Fight!

Those words could represent the three wishes of boxer Mike Tyson. They could be the agenda for Bob Probert's summer workout schedule. Or, they could be the lyrics for the local high school football cheerleading squad.

But, in this story, those words apply to Mike Lodish's attitude toward the upcoming professional football campaign.

Lodish, the ex-Birmingham Brother Rice football all-star, is beginning his fourth season as a member of the Buffalo Bills. And he admitted he's in another fierce fight to retain his spot as a reserve nose tackle for the threetime defending American Football Conference (AFC) champi-

"Every year I have to make the ball club, and this year's no exception," said Lodish after last Friday's exhibition opener against the Detroit Lions at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"There is a lot of good talent and good competition around here. But I'm going to keep giving it one hundred and ten percent until the end of August. Hopefully things will fall my way.

"If they don't, they don't. But I'm planning on being here, and I'm working hard and I'm dedicating myself to being here," he

Lodish, who turns 26 years old on Aug. 11, said the preseason camp competition seems to bring out the best in him.

The 6-foot-3, 280-pound lineman currently is listed as the No. 2 nose tackle behind six-year yeteran Jeff Wright. The Bills' outstanding defensive line also consists of five-time pro bowler Bruce Smith and third-year pro Phil Hansen.

Second-year pro Jim Gray and rookie John Parella, the Bills' second-round draft choice, figure to offer Lodish the stiffest competition. Parella played three quarters of Friday's loss to the Lions while Lodish played the third quarter and a special-teams slot with the kickoff return unit.

"Things never change. It gets harder every year," said Lodish. 'You always wish you had a solid spot, but may the best man win, so to speak."

Bills coach Marv Levy said Lodish is a hard worker who "loves to practice and is a pleasure to have on the team." However, he stopped short of saying Lodish has a spot locked up.

'There are very few guys who are a lock on a football team,' said Levy. "Everyone has to work for their jobs.

"Mike is an outstanding competitor who has a motor that goes all the time. He dropped some weight this year and I think that has benefitted him. He's down about 10 pounds. I think he beefed up a little too much last year and maybe it slowed his reactions down a little.

"Now he's looking a lot quicker and he has a few years of experience under his belt," he said. 'He's a real asset to our team.'

Lodish also was an asset to Brother Rice football for four years, helping lead coach Al Fracassa's Warriors to the 1983 Class A state championship. He was voted "hard-nose" player of the year in 1984 by his Rice teammates and made The Eccentric's all-area first team in both 1983 and 1984.

He went on to play collegiate ball at UCLA, where he was considered to be one of the strongest players ever to wear a Bruins uniform. As a senior, he was an Outland Trophy candidate (given to the nation's top defensive line-

Bills in the 10th round of the 1990 draft. In his three-year pro career, Lodish has played 44 games (starting six) and has been credited with 50 total tackles and four

Lodish was selected by the

He also holds the unique distinction of having appeared in Super Bowls in each of his first three seasons as a pro.

"It has been a great honor to be (in the Super Bowl) for three straight years.

WONDER

Childhood is a time of wonder. Parenthood is a time of wonder, too. Wondering if baby will look like mom or dad. Wondering when baby will say those first words. Wondering when baby will take that first step.

Let's take the wonder out of making it the first birthday.

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome—or SIDS—is responsible for nearly 40% of all deaths of infants in the U.S. between one month and one year of age. It's a solvable problem, but one that requires a great deal of understanding, support and medical research.

To learn more about SIDS—and ways you can help—call the SIDS Alliance at 1-800-221-SIDS or write to us at 10500 Little Patuxent Parkway, Suite 420, Columbia, Maryland 21044.
