ty moves to secure schools

The city council president is irked that the city administration didn't ask the council to support a police officer assigned to John Glenn High School.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Concerns have been raised that Westland city officials may not be doing enough to help the Wayne-Westland school district with inhouse security at John Glenn High. Concerns also have emerged that the wake of budget cuts that eliminated secondary busing. City Council President Charles Pickering raised the concerns last for 7 p.m. today (Monday) for council discussion of those issues, among others.

On the John Glenn security issue, Pickering said he was disturbed that the council never heard of a request for help that school officials made to the city police department.

School officials had inquired as to whether Westland might be able to help the district pay the cost of placing a police officer at John Glenn, amid increasing fears of school violence.

Last week, Police Chief Emery

Price confirmed that the department currently has no money in its budget to split the cost with the district.

Pickering first learned of the request when he read an Observer news story noting that the city of Wayne unlike Westland - has indicated strong support for the security proposal.

The story quoted Wayne Police Chief John Colligan, who attended a recent Wayne-Westland school board meeting to support a joint effort between his department and the school

Silent 'creeps' vandalize Halloween display

Hollday message: Dawn McDonough displays the front yard sign she made to display her anger at the thieves who stole her Halloween display.

Dawn McDonough cried after thieves made off with a large and expensive Halloween display from her front lawn early Thursday morning.

I was heartbroken and then I cried," said McDonough, who had paid about $1,000 over the past seven years for the missing items.

After she calmed down, the woman said she created a front yard sign which expressed her anger at the "creeps" who made off with the dis-play.

Stealing the display, put up early Wednesday evening, couldn't have been easy, said McDonough, 35.

"I went to bed about midnight (Wednesday) and noticed the missing display about 5 a.m.," she said. The thieves were so quiet that her two dogs apparently didn't hear anything. Usually, the dogs bark at anyone approaching the house, at 733 Wildwood south of Cherry Hill.

Now I'm afraid to put up my Christmas decorations on the front lawn." she said.

Step-dad on trial for sexual abuse

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A 15-year-old girl testified in court Thursday that her stepfather sexually abused her on two occasions at their Westland home when she was 13.

But a defense attorney called the girl "an incorrigible child" who disobeyed her mother and stepfather, ran away from home and got into trouble for being truant from school.

"She has a motive to fabricate this story," attorney Richard Rosenberg said during a preliminary hearing in Westland's 18th District Court.

The stepfather, 32-year-old Ronald Wayne Triplett, has been charged with two counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct, on charges that he fondled the girl on two occasions between February and November of 1991.

The charges emerged after the girl told a youth counselor about the alleged abuse.

Judge Gail McKnight found the girl's testimony credible enough to order Triplett to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court. Pending trial, he remains free on a personal bond. If convicted, he could face up to 15 years in prison.

Statements made in court revealed that the girl's mother believes Triplett. The child is now living with an aunt and uncle, who accompanied her to court on Thursday.

The girl testified that the first incident occurred in February of 1991 while she and Triplett were lying on a bed watching television in a basement bedroom of their Ackley Street residence in southern Westland.

The girl said she sometimes watched the television in the room where her stepfather and mother slept because it was equipped with the only videocassette recorder in the house

'We were laying on the bed watching a movie," the girl testified. "The next thing I knew, I felt his hand between my legs."

The girl accused Triplett of putting his hand inside her shorts and underwear. She said she "jumped up and ran upstairs" to her own bedroom. but she didn't tell her mother, who was cooking.

"I felt uncomfortable saying something like that to my mom because we don't have a close relationship," the

At one point, Rosenberg asked her, "Was it your habit to get into bed with him (Triplett)?"

"This was not something I did every day," she responded. "I was watching a movie.

Under further questioning from Rosenberg, the girl denied that she "had it in for him," meaning her step-

The girl said the second incident occurred several months later when her stepfather rubbed her buttocks in the same hedroom. The girl said she had been sleeping on the bed while her mother and stepfather were out for the evening, and that the abuse occurred after they came home. Triplett is scheduled to appear in Recorder's Court on Oct. 7 for an arraignment.

Gangawareness program planned

The panel discussion will be held from 7-9:30 p.m. Thursday in the Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford east of Newburgh, directly behind City Hall.

"Keeping Our Community Gang-Free" is the title of the program, which is limited to adults, Voyles said.

LEA pushing for a pay freeze

Today's meeting of union officials should determine the next step the Livonia Education Association will take in its quest to get teachers to approve a pay freeze for coaches and other extracurricular school workers.

The LEA threw out a vote on the freeze taken on Sept. 14 because not enough teachers showed up to vote

LEA president Nancy Shaw declined to comment on the vote, or on what the teachers' union will do next, until after today's meeting of the LEA's representative

The LEA could seek another vote, or it could drop its quest.

On Sept. 14, a quorum, or 51 percent of LEA members, was needed to have the vote count. The LEA was about 20 teachers shy of the 475 teachers needed to clared the vote invalid.

In an Aug. 2 letter to LEA members, Shaw outlined the reasons why the Livonia Board of Education had asked teachers to consider a 1993-94 freeze for school employees listed on Scheddistrict. The two are planning to split the cost of placing an armed, plainclothes police officer at Wayne Memorial High School.

Initial reports had indicated the officer would be unarmed, but Wayne police officials last week confirmed that the officer would, in fact, be armed.

Colligan hailed the plan as a way of placing a police "ambassa-dor" or "liaison" at Wayne Memorial. He put a positive spin on the proposal and downplayed the need for added security in a district that - like others - has seen an upswing in recent years of guns, knives and other weapons in schools.

Last week, Pickering indicated that Westland, like Wayne, could afford to help the school district hire a police officer for the city's only high school, John Glenn. The city and district would each pay about $22,000, officials have

Pickering said last week he plans to raise the issue today during a study session on several topics that begins at 7 p.m.

City officials also will discuss whether traffic lights or added crossing guards are necessary for busy intersections that some junior high and high school students are crossing on their way to Busing for secondary students was eliminated this year because of a $14-million school district shortfall, but could be restored if voters approve a 6-mill tax increase in a special election Oct.

Safety concerns have been raised about two intersections in particular: Venoy-Avondale and Merriman-Annapolis.

"By law we're responsible for the safety of those children." Pickering said during a council meeting last week.

"Why are we waiting?" he "To wait as long as we've waited, I think, is wrong."

July 4 death a drowning

Drowning has been has been listed as the cause of death for a Westland man pulled from a swimming pool at a Garden City home

The Wayne County medical examiner had left the cause of death unspecified for Joe Scalf, Jr., 21, while awaiting toxicology reports.

Scalf and his girlfriend, a 16-year-old Westland resident, had been swimming in a pool at a home in the 28000 block of Krauter owned by a relative of the girlfriend. None of the girl's relatives were home at the time.

The girlfriend told officer Scalf fell face forward into the pool and she was unable to pull him out of the water due to his larger size. Two neighbors heard her calling for help and pulled him from the water before firefighters and police arrived.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER In a rare outburst, Westland

City Councilman Thomas Brown lashed out at his six colleagues and threatened to sue them when they refused last week to vote on a motion he proposed.

Brown, a veteran Westland political figure, angrily chastised his colleagues and said he is "tired" of their behavior, which he considered deplorable last Monday.

The dispute arose as the council considered filling a zoning appeals board vacancy. A decision on the appointment had been postponed two weeks earlier because two council members, Sharon Scott and Terri Reighard-Johnson, were absent.

At that time, Brown agreed to postpone a decision until the full seven-member council could vote on it, though he had suggested former Councilman William Ziemba for the appointed post.

When the issue came before the full council last Monday, Scott spoke up before Brown and nominated Westland resident Harold would back down, city attorney Angelo Plakas ruled that Scott's motion should be considered first. Plakas indicated that Brown's earlier motion was, in essence, voided when the issue was postponed.

But Brown, a former mayor and state representative who has been on the council since 1985, became infuriated and blasted his colleagues for what he considered attempts to bypass his proposal.

"We will vote on my motion first," he charged. Otherwise, he warned, "It'll be settled in (Wayne County) Circuit Court, and I will have my own attorney.'

Council president Charles Pickering stood by Plakas' opinion, but in the end the matter was postponed again. Brown, meanwhile, asked for Plakas to put his opinion in writing.

It was Brown who asked that the appointment be postponed again for two weeks, but his colleagues at first refused to second his motion.

That, too, angered Brown, who said he is "tired" of the council's behavior and said Westland residents also "should be tired" of it.

To ease the tension, Councilman Kenneth Mehl finally agreed to second the motion to postpone the appointment, saying he did so 'as a courtesy to Mr. Brown,"

A majority of council members agreed to postpone the item, including Brown, Mehl, Scott, Pickering and Sandra Cicirelli. They outnumbered council members Glenn Anderson and Terri Reighard-Johnson, who wanted to reach a decision last week.

Fry for the position, prompting Brown to assert that his earlier motion should be considered first. When neither Scott nor Brown

Gun-toting student charged as a juvenile

By TEDD SCHNEIDER STAFF WRITER

A Livonia Franklin High student has been charged as a juvenile for bringing a gun to school on Sept. 16.

The student, 14, is also facing disciplinary action by Livonia Public Schools, a district official said Thursday.

The boy, a Livonia resident, has been remanded to the Wayne County Youth Home pending a

Officers were called to the school after a teacher observed suspicious behavior by the boy.

When confronted, the boy admitted he had two weapons — a BB gun and a .32-caliber pistol in his book bag, school officials told police.

The boy at first told police his mother asked him to hide the guns for her but later said he stole

Police said the guns weren't loaded and the pistol appears to be old and inoperable.

District policy calls for displinary action up to expulsion in such cases, said Jay Young, director of community relations.

Incidents are handled on a 'case-by-case basis" and school officials will take several steps, including meetings with the boy and his parents, before making a decision, Young said.

Students bringing weapons to school, particularly guns, isn't common for Livonia, Young said.

However teachers received additional in-service training this year on how to handle such inci-

Area group attains goal: alcohol-free dorm rooms

By Charles D. Mcewen Special Writer

Thanks to a small, persistent group, western Wayne County students can now sign up for alcohol-free rooms in their dorms at all state-funded colleges and universities.

Ferris State and Central Michigan University have alcohol-free dorm rooms available for the first time this year. They join a dozen other state-funded universities already offering this option,

Michigan State University, which last year reported a ho-hum response, reports this year it has had requests for drug and alcoholfree housing from 30 percent of its dormitory applicants.

"I just say that's super," said state Sen. Dave Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who has been part of the move toward offering students such a choice. "This is just giving kids options. Now, I don't see why we shouldn't go after the privates (colleges).'

The impetus for substance-free housing goes back to 1987. That's when a West Bloomfield freshman entering the University of Michigan was unable to match up with a roommate who would not use alcohol or drugs in her room.

At that time, it was easy to find a roommate who didn't smoke simply by checking a box on the liest convenience. housing application.

In 1989, Honigman, then a state representative, proposed legislation that would force statefunded universities to offer students that same choice of an alcohol-free dorm room.

The legislation was proposed at the behest of a group of Birmingham and West Bloomfield residents and the West Bloomfieldbased Maplegrove Center for Chemical Dependency Treat-

Under the threat of this legislation, the universities - some more quickly than others - began offering alcohol-free rooms on their own. Last year, all the universities except for Ferris and $\overline{\text{CMU}}$ cffered this option.

Judge puts pressure

That upset U.S. District Judge Bernard A. Friedman, a member of the citizens' group and a strong advocate of drug and alcohol-free dorm rooms. He wrote to the presidents of Ferris and CMU, saying:

"A substance-free environment option can only benefit students without detriment to the university. I would certainly appreciate knowing what the reason is for not offering such an option and hope you will respond at your ear-

The response at Ferris has been to create an alcohol-free dormitory, which houses about 420 students. This dorm also has a substance abuse counselor and written information, such as pamphlets and brochures.

'Students will not consume or store alcohol or drugs in their dorm rooms and they will not return visibly intoxicated," said Barb Spedowski, secretary for residential life. "Those that violate these rules can lose privileges. Repeated violations can result in the student being kicked out of the dorm.

Spedowski has seen initial reluctance from some students who believe that it's a dorm just for students with serious substance abuse problems. "Others just feel that it is uncool to live there," she free dorm, this year only had enough applicants to fill one floor for each gender. At Eastern Michigan University, about 24 percent of new students in the dorms and 19 percent of returnees ask for an alcoholfree roommate. "I tried to have an entire alcohol-free dorm," said Colleen Tompkins, who handles housing for EMU. "But I could only fill seven of nine floors.'

Parents not helpful

Tompkins said that at times parents fill out the requests for the alcohol-free roommates. "The parents think that if they put their children in an alcohol-free dorm, they won't ever drink," she said. "That isn't necessarily always the case."

"The big problem college students have is that they party,' said Dr. Michael F. Boyle, medical director of Henry Ford Health System's Maplegrove Centers for Chemical Dependency Treatment. "They don't drink socially. They drink for the express purpose of getting totally and completely wasted.

"Although they don't suffer from the diseases that long-time alcoholics experience (like cirrhosis of the liver), college students do often have short term memory loss, which decreases learning capacity.

To do well on an examination, a student needs good short term memory recall. Alcohol also affects coordination, which makes students more likely to get into automobile accidents. Lack of coordination also will affect a student athlete's ability to do well in sports."

Boyle said there are three types of students who request or should request a substance-free room:

Dome aid plan could cost race track cities

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Race track cities like Livonia and Northville are in danger of losing their state aid because it's being dragged down by the Pontiac Silverdome.

Temporary winner is state Rep. Charlie Harrison, D-Pontiac. He persuaded a legislative budget committee last week to lump $800,000 in Silverdome aid, which Gov. John Engler would like to veto, with $450,000 each for Livonia, Northville and Hazel Park and lesser amounts for outstate cities with horse racing.

"They're setting it up so the governor will veto the whole thing," said Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, whose district includes Ladbroke DRC track in Livonia. "Last year Engler vetoed the Silverdome money.

"That money belongs to the race tracks," said Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, whose district. includes Northville Downs. "They're all afraid of Harrison. It's typical dirty politics. They're not doing the right thing.'

Under the Michigan Constitution, every appropriation must be a single line item. The governor may veto line items.

Harrison, who is running for mayor of Pontiac in November, wants to lump money for several cities into a single line item, hoping Engler will feel forced to sign it. The House and Senate are likely to act this week.

Bankes and Vorva fear Engler will veto the lumpy line item any-

"I'm preparing a one-line supplemental appropriations bill with the race track money," Bankes said. But still she shook her head at the prospect of getting it passed. Engler and other lawmakers want to discontinue the 1980s practice of passing "supplementals" - money bills that come after the general fund budget has supposedly been engraved in granite.

Cities with horse racing tracks get special aid because they incur costs for police, fire protection and traffic control. The theory is that the race tracks - with a grandstand, barns and a parking lot - generate too little local property tax revenue. Former Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara used to say he would like the DRC property re-developed for industry.

The race track cities used to get $900,000 each in state aid each year. Their current allotment - if they get it - would be half that. In a small city like Northville, losing the state aid would be a budget disaster.

Lawmakers glare

Key lawmakers also are glaring at the race track aid.

"This is an industry in decline," said Rep. Bill Bobier, a Republican farmer from Manistee County. Bobier is a co-chair of the Appropriations subcommittee on the agriculture budget, which covers horse racing. "There is a deemphasis on horses in agriculture and a decline in 4-H fairs.

"The basic security of the track could fall on track owners. It's not mandated in law that cities do it,' Bobier said.

Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, targeted the agriculture budget "pork barrel" for slashing to provide more money for schools. He accused Harrison of "holding hostage" the entire agri-culture budget to keep in his Silverdome subsidy.

Horse racing generated $21 million in state revenue last year -$19 million in wagering taxes, the rest from un-cashed tickets, fines and license fees. Cost of running the racing commissioner's office is $2.8 million.

Welborn also wants to kill the $6 million the state spends on prizes for races and aid to cities with tracks. "If the public safety costs to cities with recetracks is outweighing the benefits they get from horse-race tourism, then perhaps these cities should get out of the gambling business," he said in a series of position papers.

"Some of that money is needed for regulation of the industry, but about $15 million is spent on horse and racetrack promotion. It would be better spent on K-12 education.

"I am willing to accept the criticism that comes from those who have become dependent on government grants. It is a small enough price to pay for the education of our kids," Welborn said.

Glory days gone

The 1950s were horse racing's glory days in Michigan.

Ladbroke DRC, where throughbreds run, saw its peak attendance of 29,570 on Memorial Dav in 1952; Northville Downs' record was 9,610 in May of 1950; Hazel Park lured 28,726 on Memorial Day 1965, according to state records.

Ladbroke DRC's wagering last year was $149 million, up 4.8 percent from 1991; attendance was up 4.4 percent.

But the standardbred tracks, which feature harness racing, saw only a 0.12 percent increase in wagering, to $227 million, and a 2.7 percent decline in attendance during 1992.

Newsletter editor Bill Ballenger, who was racing commissioner until 1983, advocated for more state promotion of horse racing, arguing it was a better payoff (in the 80 percent range) for bettors than the state lottery (45 percent).

Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, a member of the budget committee, deplored the fact that Michigan is considering casino gambling while horse racing declines. She was the only member of the panel to oppose the agriculture pill.

High court ruling favors drug firm

Two women unable to bear children are unable to collect damages from drug companies because they waited more than , three years to sue, the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled.

The high court upheld, 4-3, the legal ruling of Wayne Circuit Judge James Mies, of Livonia, in favor of Abbott Laboratories, E.R. Squibb & Sons and Eli Lilly & Co.

"The applicable period of limitation for a products liability action is three years," wrote Chief Justice Michael Cavanagh. "We hold that the statute of limitation bars Judith Harrington's and Jean Moll's lawsuits."

The high court majority said the women should have "consult(ed) with the legal and medical community in order to ascertain the full extent of (their) damages and to file suit" within three years of learning they were damaged and unable to bear children.

The women's attorney, Charles A. Barr of Detroit, was disappointed that Cavanagh, with his liberal reputation, sided with the drug companies. Cavanagh's opinion was joined by Justices James Brickley, Dorothy Comstock Riley and Robert Griffin, all Republican nominees to the court.

The apparent culprit: a drug called DES, a synthetic estrogen taken by the women's mothers in the 1950s. Doctors prescribed it for pregnant women who had a history of miscarriages. But DES's damage to their daughters' reproductive organs did not become apparent until the daughters reached their 20s and wanted to have children of their own.

Thus, the time when the young women discovered their abnormalities became all-important to Judge Mies.

Jean Moll, a Roseville resident born in Highland Park, became aware of her problem in April of 1975 but didn't file suit against Eli Lilly until Dec. 30, 1986. In 1988, Mies granted the company's motion for summary judgment (no trial).

Judith Harrington, now a Virginia resident, was born in Detroit in 1955 and became aware of her exposure to DES late in 1974. She became pregnant in 1984 but miscarried. On Dec. 30, 1986, she too filed a suit, which Mies summarily dismissed.

The Supreme Court said a jury's purpose is to try facts. "We do permit courts to determine a case when only a question of law exists. . . This question is to be decided as a matter of law by the trial

Animal abuse

Senators try to toughen punishment

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

People who torture, neglect or maltreat an animal face tighter laws and stiffer penalties - including mental health treatment - under two bills before the state

'The thrust of my bill is an animal in a neglected state," said Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, sponsor of one mea-

"There is a correlation between extreme cases of animal abuse and human abuse," said an aide to Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, sponsor of the second. "Ownership (of an animal) is not a factor. Both (animal and human abusers) come from dysfunctional families.'

The Judiciary Committee last week sent both bills to the Senate floor after hearing heartbreaking testimony from humane society and county animal control offi- County animal control officer,

"Leslie Williams is a striking example of what animal abusers are capable of," said Gary Tiscornia of the Michigan Humane Society. Tiscornia said he is a resident of Milford, where Williams performed one of his four 1991-2 serial killings.

Tiscornia told of dogs and cate. starved to death, with owners put on probation; puppies whose collars became embedded in their necks as they grew to adulthood; a neglected cocker spaniel whose leg rotted off; a dog shotgunned to death for "chewing up a few things" in a house; a cat named Chico set on fire whose owner escaped with a misdemeanor charge; and a German shepherd struck by 20 blows from a hatchet and thrown down a sewer whose assailant got only 30 days in jail.

Walter Rodabaugh, Lapeer

told of a woman who was paid to care for six horses but neglected all and let two starve to death. 'We supplied $5,000 of treatment at county expense. The woman got the horses back at no cost," he Rodabaugh told of an owner who let an 88-pound Doberman pinscher waste away to 28 pounds. After the county spent $1,000 restoring the dog to health, the owner was neither fined nor required to make restitution, Rodabaugh said.

A man who used a baseball bat on a 15-pound dog was later sent to prison for child abuse. "SB 605 would have let us give that man some treatment. That's what he needed," Rodabaugh said.

Bouchard's bill would amend the penal code to prohibit a person from wilfully and cruelly killing, maiming, mutilating or sexually assaulting an animal.

A violator could get a year in prison, be fined $1,000, ordered to perform 240 hours of community service and be prohibited from owning an animal.,

Bouchard noted his bill also covers transporting an animal with its feet tied together (except for taking it for medical care); failing to provide a rack so the animal could stand or lie down: abandoning an animal; and allowing an old, diseased or disabled animal to suffer unnecessary torture or pain.

A Senate Fiscal Agency analysis there was no way to determine how many more convictions, more jail time and more fine revenue would result from Bouchard's bill. In 1992 eight persons were convicted of feloniously destroying an animal.

S'craft secretaries get new contract

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College's secretaries union has something in its new three-year contract that no other union at the college has.

The 56 members of the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel may now get free birthcontrol pills.

The secretaries union had been without a contract since June 30, 1992. The members ratified the new agreement Sept. 9. The board ing on their position on the pay of trustees approved it Sept. 22.

Terms of the contract call for raises of 5, $4\frac{1}{2}$ and 4 percent over the three-year period, which is what the last union to settle with Schoolcraft received. The new contract expires June 30, 1995. The raises are retroactive to June 30, 1992, so the secretaries get a bonus check for somewhere between \$1,200 and \$1,600, depend-

Currently, the secretaries are already into the second raise because the contract was signed so late. The pay range goes from about $22,700 to about $30,000 now and will rise by 4 percent after June 30 next year.

Employees also receive longevity pay and a benefits package which includes medical, dental, optical; rension, disability, paid vacation and shift premium.

Board of trustees chairman Steve Ragan called the contract 'very generous" on Schoolcraft's part, adding, "I think our secretaries are compensated extremely

The new contract also calls for free cancer screening, an increase in the life insurance and an increase in the disability income insurance.

Humane Society plans fundraiser

Students win right to alcohol-free dorm rooms

It's been six years since you unsuccessfully tried to get the University of Michigan to pair you with another freshman roommate who didn't use drugs or alcohol.

Guess what? You would no longer have that problem at the U-M, or at ang of Michigan's public colleges and universities.

This fall the last holdouts — Central Michigan University and Ferris State began offering students the choice of an alcohol-free dorm room.

Central Michigan now offers the option to sign up for a roommate who doesn't drink or use drugs, just as they have for a long time allowed students the option of a roommate who doesn't smioke.

Ferris has created a full alcohol-free dormitory, which about 420 students have selected. The dorm comes complete with a substance-abuse counselor and written pamphlets and brochures. It has been a long struggle to arrive at this moment — but to the best of my knowledge Michigan is the first state in the nation to assure their public university students this right.

You helped make that happen It was both an exercise in standing up for individual rights and in showing that a small band of persistent people who either have or know how to mobilize clout — can make a difference.

Remember that it took the threat of legislative action, proposed by thenstate Rep. David Honigman, at the request of people like Judge Bernard Friedman and representatives of Maplegrove Youth Treatment Center in West Bloomfield.

Remember that it took actual testimony before the House Committee on Colleges and Universities — of young people like you and Eric Worley of West Bloomfield, community activists like Kitty Burch of Bloomfield Township, and the judge — to drive home the point.

And it took coverage and editorials by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers to keep the issue in front of the man — remember what a nice guy he is got angry. He wrote to the heads of both universities, mincing no words and demanding accountability:

A substance-free environment option can only benefit students without detriment to the university. I would certainly appreciate knowing what the reason is for not offering such an option and hope you will respond at your earliest convenience.

It's no coincidence that this year they complied.

Remember when Oakland University, Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan set up their programs? They were first.

Well, they've only gotten stronger. This year, 21 percent of U-M dorm students; 24 percent of new students and 19 percent of returnees at EMU; and 84 residents at the primarily commuter

OU are in alcohol-free housing. In 1991, Michigan State University the state's largest university joined the fold. The first year, 800 signed up for the option. Last year, MSU reported a decline to 2 percent. But this fall, 2,256 of 7,631 — about 30 percent — made the request.

What about Michigan's private colleges, you ask? Well, just as the public schools did at first, they either deny that the problem of drinking and drugs in dormitories exists at their schools or they refuse to get involved.

Now that I have the choice as a parent, I'd think twice before I'd send my child to a school that doesn't deal in reality — and won't offer a truly safe haven if he or she wants it.

Love, Mom.

ore and more frequently I get invited to speak at various reunions where the reuniters grow increasingly long in the tooth. Recently I spoke at a reunion of Macomb College's highly successful but longdefunct division of basic education, which I directed in the early '70s.

It was nostalgia time to see so many of that liberal old guard who marched on the Warren Tank Arsenal during the Vietnam War, brought in Jane Fonda and the Black Panthers to speak at student seminars, organized a Black Student Union, set up an urban bus line to attract Detroit students, and did other deeds which didn't delight our board and president.

Our activities ultimately got the 3.000-student division disbanded and its director suspended for insubordination. (We had the last laugh, though. Ex-division members organized politically to elect a new board which fired the president.)

I've also been asked to speak at a growing number of high school reunions of increasingly ancient classes, including Detroit Pershing High's '66 class and Southeastern's '63 class. I was track coach at both schools and had state champion runners in both classes. The Southeastern gathering on Sept. 18 filled me with particular nostalgia, because over the time-weathered span of three decades. I had forgotten what a fine class that '63 bunch truly

Principal Margery Readhead made sure that academic standards were high and girls' skirts were low. Whenever a teacher sent a student wearing a short skirt to the principal's office, Miss Readhead would have the girl kneel. If the skirt didn't touch the floor the kid got shipped home to change.

It is against that sheltered backdrop that I contemplate some of the other kinds of educational change which have occurred during the past three decades. Not only are the skirts shorter, so are the funding levels for the public education to which most of us owe our professional success. So, too, are student attention spans - due to a junky, fast-fed, rappy diet of MTV soundbites. So are performance standards. The change is particularly devastating in hardcore urban areas stricken by poverty, drugs and gunplay.

And talk about deia vu! I've returned from retirement to develop a guidance program at Detroit's Adult High School, a stone's throw (or an Uzi's range) from where I used to teach, coach and administrate at Martin Luther King High and Butzel Junior High. Every day a thousand students including kickouts from other schools, parolees, certified SEIs (severely emotionally impaired) and some strife-scarred 30-year-old comebackers - stream into the big, battered building to earn diplomas. There are two counselors, one academic department head for all departments, and no metal detector. Random gunshots have been fired into my office. At night all phones and other hardware (what there is of it) are disconnected and locked in the vault in the hope they will still be there the next morning. Jim Solomon, my colleague from the King High days, is the beleaguered program's chief administrator. (Donations can be mailed to the Trombly Adult High School, 7630 Harper, Detroit 48213.)

Despite debilitatively short staffing and funding levels, Solomon and his intrepid troops strive valiantly on their students' behalf.

Miss Readhead would be proud.

Dr. K. C. Nair, Chief of Psychiatry at St. Mary Hospital, will discuss the causes, symptoms, and treatments of depression, followed by a short video. Participants complete an anonymous written form, which screens for symptoms of depression, and have an opportunity to discuss the results of the report with a mental health professional.

This nationwide program is sponsored by the American Psychiatric Association, National Institute of Mental Health, Harvard Medical School Department of Psychiatry, National Mental Health Association, National Manic-Depressive and Depressive Association, and McLean Hospital in Belmont, Mass.

Pre-registration encouraged/Walk-ins welcome.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Packing lunch boxes isn't an easy chore

've got a great idea for a support group that people like you and me would flock to join. It could be called "Parents Making Lunches," "PML" for short.

Yes, I too am a parent who struggles every school morning to pack nutritious, tasty, edible lunches that won't end up in the trash. I have a nine-year-old, and a seven-year-old who, if they had their choice, would love it if I packed nothing but chocolate chip cookies, fruit roll-ups, juice boxes and pretzels

I know I'm opening up myself for fire and brimstones here, but after looking at my kid's mimeographed hot lunch choice sheet, their desires would probably be just as nutritious as those microwaved quasi-chicken nuggets and tater tots they would buy if they had their choice.

Packing lunches

I do make somewhat of a feeble attempt to pack nutritious lunch box items, but I will be the first to admit that it's so much easier to plop a few slices of deli turkey between Wonderbread, spread it with "I Can't Believe It's Butter" and pray it gets eaten before the shark bites, cookies and 10 percent juice box.

I've done everything "Woman's Day," "Family Circle" and "Parents" magazines suggest. I've tried to plan lunches in advance with the kids, and involve them in planning, cooking and packing it. As I can see first hand, packing a nutritious lunch in the morning while searching for leaves, seeds, permission slips, book orders and tennis shoes requires the patience of June Cleaver, the coolness of Fred MacMurray and the help of Alice

My kids should consider themselves lucky that they even get a lunch, let alone something from every step of the newfangled food pyramid. You would think that kids growing up in the home of a chef and food writer would be exposed to nothing but the best in lunch box edibles. Last week, I had a few extra porcupine meatballs left over from dinner and stuffed them in a pita. I would have died for a lunch like that, especially since I was on deadline and opted instead for an apple quartered and dipped in Skippy.

My daughter came home and screamed "don't you ever give me your meatloaf suprise again!' even after I reminded her, like momma did me, of those poor starving children.

I went to one of momma's "Tupperware Parties" and wrote a check for those sandwich containers that at 8:27 a.m. you can never find the lid for. My kids reminded me that those are the things you use in first grade, not second and fourth.

On a more positive note, I do ask that the kids at least bring home their sandwich bags and yes, they do get reused. I figure they're good until I begin to notice little fuzzy black balls forming in the corners. I think I do a darned good job considering my wife's idea of packing a school lunch is to give the kids each $2.50 in a baggie.

School lunch programs

Which brings me to yet another pet peeve, that of school lunch programs. I'm looking at the Livonia Public Schools Elementary lunch menu, wondering just what the fat content is on the menu for Sept. 29 that includes a cheeseburger with chips, pizza with pepperoni and/or chicken nuggets with tater tots. The only item that looks somewhat nutritious is the Julienne Salad offered on Sept. 23 and again on Oct. 7.

In my wildest dreams I can't imagine what the "cook's choice" is on Oct. 4. I will admit to the argument that I'm sure, given a choice, my kids would definitely opt for tater tots over nuked and canned mixed vegetables. Furthermore, why are fresh salads and vegetable sticks available only twice weekly?

My kids might not always make the healthiest choices when it comes to selecting food, but I know deep in my heart, when it comes to making that choice that they at least think about it.

Nutrition and proper food choices should be an ongoing subject at home and school. Food is universal and you can learn about it whether you're studying geography, math or science. Teachers can't do it all, they need the support and the assistance of parents like you and me.

Lunch bunch: It's lunchtime at Hayes Elementary School and students are enjoying their homemade lunches. Felicia Cline, 7, a second grader, peeks inside her lunch box packed with a banana, sandwich and chocolate cupcake.

Lunch and recess go together. Kids are often in a hurry to eat so they can go outside and play with their friends. They won't take the time to peel and eat an orange. Here are some ideas for packing a nutritious lunch they'll eat.

By KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

It's lunchtime at Hayes Elementary School in Westland. Want to guess what kids are eating and throwing Apples are tossed after a couple of bites, some oranges and bananas before they're even peeled, but small cans of applesauce, fruit cocktail and peaches are gobbled up.

in individual serving size packages. Some moms are packing turkey sandwiches, pretzels, dried fruits, and tortilla chips into their children's lunch boxes. I spotted a few pita bread sandwiches, too.

Kids will tell you they hate vegetables, even if they're peeled and cut into bite-sized pieces.

Lunch boxes are high tech — insulated, with freezer blocks to keep things cold. Some kids even pack their lunches in small coolers.

"More kids are staying at school for lunch than going home," said Hayes principal Jerry Nehs, recently chosen Michigan's Principal of the Year. 'About two-thirds of the kids bring their lunch to school, one-third buy.

What is true at Hayes, is also true across the country. Neiman Marcus recently conducted a random lunch box mail survey to 3,000 households with children ages 6-12 across the nation. They found that almost 62 percent of children take their lunch to $Fight\ temptation$ with healthy snacks

How is the average, working woman supposed to cope with maintaining a low-fat diet in today's busy world? This is the question I asked Andrea Agge of Westland. With constant temptations in her pathway not only at work, but also at home, I was curious as to how she manages to eat a low-fat diet. Agge said that some of the reasons she needs to watch what she eats are high blood pressure, high cholesterol and a desire to lose a few pounds. Her husband, Max, is also plagued by some of these problems so they need to help each other stay on the right track.

Agge works at DMC Medical Offices in Livonia. It is here that she has to be really careful about her diet. Because there is no cafeteria in the building, going out for lunch is a common alternative to brown bagging it.'

Unfortunately, fast food is extremely high in fat. Here are some ways Agge limits the fats in her lunch when she goes to a restaurant. She usually orders salads that have no eggs or cheese. She requests her salad dressing "on the side" in a separate container so she can control how much she puts on her salad.

It is here that an otherwise healthy, low-fat, low calorie salad can suddenly become a high fat nightmare! For example, one tablespoon of ranch dressing can have up to 10 grams of fat! And, the little cup that holds the dressing can have up to three tablespoons of dressing in it. That can add 30 grams of fat to your healthy lunch.

Agge also grills most of her meats, uses skim milk instead of whole milk, and has a bagel in the morning instead of a doughnut. Some of her favorite low-fat snacks are pretzels and dried apple snacks to satisify her sweet tooth.

Agge does admit it is easier to eat low-fat at home now that her sons, Scott and Mark have

Capture the look of 'The Age of Innocence'

Capture the look of "The Age of Innocence" in your own home and win an elegant coffee table book (valued at $50) filled with photos and information about Martin Scorsese's film "The Age of Innocence."

To enter, send a color photograph of your most elegant table setting by Monday, Oct. 11, 1993 to: Keely Wygonik, Taste/Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150.

The first 25 entries will receive a pass (admits 2) to see the film at selected theaters.

The winning entry will receive "The Age of Innocence" book and the winning photograph will be printed in the Oct. 18 edition of the Observer & Eccentric Taste section. For more information, call Keely Wygonik, 953-2105.

'The Age of Innocence," a

Columbia Pictures' release, is based on the Pulitzer Prizewinning novel by Edith Wharton about a man caught between two women and two worlds. The drama is played out against the opulent backdrop of New York in the 1870s, a time of Morgans and Vanderbilts.

Rick Ellis, an expert in food presentation and food history, drew on his collection of over 4.000 American cookbooks to determine unique menus for each of the seven dinners served throughout the film. 'The type of food and preparation they had then was not so much different than from today," said Ellis, "they just served more of it, a lot more.' Indigestion was a chronic complaint. The food was overcooked with heavy sauces. The focus was on the look of the food and the presenation.

chelle Pfeiffer stars as Countess Ellen Olenska at a dinner party in "The Age of Innocence. Enter our contest by sending us a color picture of your most elegant table setting.

Pack a lunch your children will enjoy

See related story on Taste front. My kids always eat their lunch when I: Use different breads like pita, lavosh, soft tortillas, sub buns and of course anything homemade.

Make peanut butter sandwiches on a bagel or homemade soft pretzel.

■ Pack vegetable sticks and include a container low-fat. ranch dressing for dipping.

Make banana, zucchini or pumpkin bread and spread it with cream cheese and sunflower seeds

■ Peel, slice, seed, cube, section, quarter their favorite fruit.

■ Make sauceless burritos, soft taco's and wrap them ala Taco Bell style.

■ Include homemade granola, not the fatty cereal-box kind.

■ Use a cookie cutter to cut off the crust and make the sandwich fun to look at and eat!

Pack chicken legs and include a Handi-wipe or a baggie with a damp napkin.

■ Cut basic sandwiches into small triangles and skewer them on long toothpicks.

■ When I have time, I slip a quarter or two in a baggie along with a note to choose something healthy and then remember to ask them about their choice when they get home.

some pretty hot stuff entered in the 15th Annual Michigan Championship Chili Cookoff held at the Lark Restaurant in West Bloomfield on Sept. 19. As one of 18 judges, I got to taste the 40 chilis entered in the contest. Winners were chosen from 18 finalists which included eight District winners. For the second year in a row, John Janes, of Wyandotte won the cookoff. His chili, appropriately named, "Lightning Strikes Twice Chili.

Second place went to Ken Horgan, 1993 District Winner, who brewed a delicious batch of Livonia Firefighters Firehouse Chili.

Third place went to Anne Bowers of Belleville; fourth, Marilyn Fredericks of Farmington Hills, and fifth to Cookie Hewelt of Lakeland.

Best Booth was awarded to Ed Gallaudet of Birmingham whose booth was sponsored by Ducks Unlimited, and Showmanship was won by John Mikulak of

It was fun to visit the cooks before the serious work of judging began. Everyone puts a lot of heart and effort into their chili. The cookoff at the Lark is special because event proceeds are used to award 10 scholarships of $1,000 to deserving culinary arts students from Michigan.

Paul Huyck of Farmington Hills, 1991 Michigan State winner, cooked up a batch of his Michigan Heat Chili. This year he added cilantro to his recipe. Earlier this year, Huyck won the Oxford District Chili Cookoff.

Chefs Curtis Rellinger and "Chili Joe" Wnuk, who recently published their first cookbook, 'Excuse Me Waiter, There's A Fly In My Soup!" were brewing a batch of their famous "Chili Joe & Chef Curtis' Chili.

The two presented a cooking demonstration at Hudson's Fairlane on Saturday, and plan to do more in October. Their cookbook is now being sold at Hudson's

Other local cooks participating in the cookoff included — Jim Adamski, Redford; Ken Brundage, Livonia; Kathleen Cummins, Birmingham: A. Michael Ford, Farmington Hills; Vaughn Irish, Walled Lake; Mike Maiman, Birmingham; H.L. "Bud" Pickett, West Bloomfield; Gary Ray, Livonia; Charlie Robertson, Birmingham; and Nick Roncone, Birmingham.

Here's the recipe for the Livionia Firefighters Firehouse Chili

Lisa Rudy takes a gastronomical tour of restaurants offering dinner for two for under $25.

By LISA RUDY Special Writer

I'm not exactly sure if it was the decorative men's room urinal-turned flower planter prominently displayed outside the Traffic Jam & Snug Restaurant or simply the unusual name itself that beckoned me inside, but the moment I decided to take the green light into this place I was glad I did.

The Traffic Jam & Snug (T.J.'s for short), located just minutes from Wayne State University's campus, has a lot to boast about, and its menu is just one of the unique things this place has to offer. OK, yes, so T.J.'s does have its very own pamphlet, citing historical and culinary facts and figures, and even a brewery tour that's conducted out back on a monthly basis. And there IS a sign inside the front door that states: "Please form a line to the left." But don't start feeling like a tourist just yet. Go inside.

T.J.'s many dining areas (I think I counted eight) are warm and inviting, featuring a huge fireplace in the front room, tapestry-topped booths and seats throughout, interesting paintings and prints, and a second level that gives patrons an overview of downsteirs diners and that ever increasing line forming to the left.

Fresh flowers bedeck the tables and just about every other empty space not filled with some trinket or another — even old fruit crates placed here and there in odd places throughout the dining area look tastefully chic.

A bakery, a prewery and a dairy are all housed on site, and guests are encouraged to view what all is going on inside the kitchen here. With the help of Detroit & Mackinaw Brewery, T.J.'s is able to offer some very unique brews to its guests, making the restaurant Michigan's first "brewpub. Greenapple Ale seems to be the favorite.

T.J.'s "whatever's in the fridge" philosophy extends to both the bakery and the main kitchen, with daily surprises to keep you on your toes. This place is famous for their bread of the day - vegetable surprise, cheddar, sourdough, there's just no

A homemade cheese platter, Pesto Pasta Pillows and Fire and Ice Armadillo eggs are just a few of the appetizers. T.J.'s, incidentally, has won awards over the past years for their housemade

Burgers and sandwiches range from spicy lentil burgers and the Ratatouille Cheddar Broil to the more traditional Jam-Burger (half pound of ground round) and the classic BLT

Even meatloaf gets jazzed up with bits of carrots, apples, currents and leeks, and T.J.'s does a tremendous job of making a meal out of an acorn squash by stuffing it with wild rice, roasted corn and sweet peppers. Chicken and seafood are also offered in one form or another.

Desserts are all homemade and T.J.'s even takes the credit for making their own ice cream. They pile it high to look like Mt. Everest. Chaesecake, shortcake, muffins, cookies, everything's whipped up according to what's in season, keeping with the "no cans in the kitchen" motto. And if your feeling the least bit guilty about dessert don't bother. T.J.'s also offers a treat called the 'Itty Bitty.

A butcher, a baker, a pamphlet maker — T.J.'s seems to have it all. But hurry, the line is forming to the left.

■ A producer with the code name "Yoda" and an independent record label out of Chicago have made Frank Allison one happy musician with the release of his "Pig Out" album.

By Christina Fuoco Staff Writer

Frank Allison is every record producers' dream. In speaking about the recording of his next album, Allison has nothing but respect for the producer, whom he'll only call "Yoda."

'He's a smart guy; he's Yoda. You don't tell Yoda what to do," said Allison with a cheshire cat grin. (That respect is something most record producers only fantasize about.)

With further probing, Allison leaks that this "Yoda" character is really a "famous Motown producer' but won't reveal his full name. He admits that the collaboration is a little bizarre but it should bring about some interesting results.

"Country soul. That's what we'll end up with," the Manchester resident said.

His simple professionalism has in turn inspired Allison.

'He does it really simply," Allison said. "He knows where the mic goes, instead of (some producers) taking like five hours to set up.'

His first album for them is the recently released live CD, "Pig Out." The album was recorded, appropriately enough, at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor on Sept. 26, 1992. The gig was Allison's farewell store with original Odd Sox Dan Beckett and bassist John Boyle. Devout fan Jeff Taras, part owner of P.J.'s Records in Ann Arbor, wanted to capture the moment on tape so he rented $900 worth of equipment and hired producer Mike Clark to record the show. It wasn't intended for public purchase.

"He told me he had $800-900 worth of equipment and I told him, 'You're a crazy man,' " Allison said. "I didn't think any more of it."

Allison - now teamed with gui

If you thought the band Forehead Stew was spacey, your hunches are correct.

The four-member band has one ultimate plan: to make enough money to start a multi-conglomerate corporation, build a space ship and fly into outer space.

Best of all, fans who collect 10 UPC symbols from their releases can enter to win 10 spots to travel with the band. Forehead Stew fans can begin collecting those UPC symbols late next month when it releases the 7inch single, "House of Reason" and "Water." It's a joint venture between the band and Third Gear records. However, frontman Al Sutton sees one hitch holding back astronomical project - namely the pricey corpora-

"As soon as we learn to play our instruments, we will be a damn good (money-making) band," Sutton said.

The members have no qualms about stating they have no true musical talent - except drummer Jeff Fowlkes. Nevertheless, that has never delayed the members from creating a wash of rock with angry, hard-edge music

More vivid than anything on screen is the imagined picture of film buff Martin Scorsese in a New York movie palace circa 1961, drinking in the stunning compositions and fluid camera work of Anthony Mann's "El

Flash ahead 30 years. Scorsese, now a famous movie director, has put his name above the restoration of one of his favorite epics. The Detroit re-release coincides with the opening of his own "The Age of Innocence" and the films have a surprising amount in com-

Both directors play with the wide screen image like kids in a toy store. A character's face looms in the corner of the screen while blurred action goes on behind it. Even during the talkiest scenes, the camera remains in constant movement.

And then there's all that glorious color.

Along with the re-recorded soundtrack, color is the crucial element restored for the "El Cid" re-release. The deep reds dance again on the costumes, flags and blood-soaked swords. The skies and ocean, faded through time almost to brown, are again a deep, deep blue.

Charlton Heston stars as Rodrigo Diaz de Bivar, whose mercy on Moorish prisoners early in the film brands him El Cid. The name means "one who is both compassionate and a great warrior" and it's this blend that brings him fame.

Based on the real-life warriorhero who drove the Moors from 11th-century Spain, the Hollywood El Cid has all the trappings of epics of the time. There's the ubiquitous balance of the love plot with the action plot, here with Sophia Loren as his betrothed Chimene, daughter of the king's champion.

A bizarre turn of events leads El Cid to kill his future father-inlaw in a sword fight. The dying man's wish to his daughter is to exact revenge on his killer. 'Now," he says, "you must act as a son would.'

Chimene heeds his wishes for awhile, watching coldly as El Cid engages in a brutal match of jousting and sword-fighting to prove his innocence through God. Only long after they are formally married through the king's edict, does she succumb to his consider. able charms.

With "Ben Hur" and "The Ten Commandments" under his shirt. Charlton Heston could play parts like this in his sleep. He's surprisingly lively here, thanks in part to the ever-exotic Loren, a great improvement over his usual romantic co-stars like Jean Sim.

"El Cid" works best in the first half, with its elegantly executed fight scenes. Director Mann is still best known for a series of James Stewart westerns ("Winchester 73" remains the best), and he brings an Old West sensibility to the heroes and landscapes of medieval Spain.

By film's end, the epic battles with the black-cloaked Moors grow almost tiresome. The threehour movie is more than redeemed when our hero gallops off into history in one of the strangest moments ever realized

Is "El Cid" really worth all this adulation? Perhaps not, but it's always a treat to see epics (especially when lovingly restored) on the big screen. My only wish is that I was sitting not at the AMC Abbey Theatre, but at the Fox downtown, where a movie like this can really shine.

'Europa, Europa' serves up strange, but true story

True story: The 1990 German film "Europa, Europa' weaves an odd but true tale of a young German Jew who dodges Nazi violence only to end up serving in the Germany army.

If it wasn't based on a true story, the interesting and often moving 1990 German film "Europa, Europa" would be too strange and ironic to be plausible. A young German Jew, uprooted by Nazi violence, ends up serving not only in the German army but being placed in elite school for Hitler

The film begins with a bris, the ceremonial circumcision of Jewish infants. The German narrator. who says he recalls his circumcision, notes he shared his birthday with an Austrian who would heavily impact his life - Adolf Hitler. Maybe the bris is ingrained in the man's mind because that circumcision could later reveal his true identity and cost him his life.

Solomon Perel is a young teenager when Hitler Youth and Brown Shirts attack his father's store and rampage in the family's home at the back. His elder sister is killed in the assault, which spurs the survivors to move to Poland where his father had been

Before long, the safe haven is eliminated as Germany invades Poland and Perel's strange journey begins. Fleeing the Germans, Perel and his brother run smack into the Russians who are invading from the east. After the two are separated during the chaos, Perel finds himself spending two years as an orphan being indoctrinated as a Communist Young Pi-

Things could be worse, so Perel settles into a routine at the Communist orphanage. Then the Germans invade and its every orphan for himself. Among a group of locals captured and on the verge of being summarily executed, Perel manages to lose his papers and claim to be a be a "good" German.

A nice looking, well-spoken youth, Perel is used as a translator and becomes the mascot of the soldiers. Living in fear of being discovered as a Jew, Perel is also tremendously confused by the brutal, anti-Semitic soldiers who are very kind to him. As time passes, things don't get simpler for the teenager.

After inadvertently becoming a war hero, Perel is adopted by a German officer and rewarded by enrollment in an elite Hitler Youth School. The lunacy of the Nazi doctrine is pointed out as Perel is used as an specimen of the noble Aryan during a class teaching "scientific" methods to recognize Jews.

Marco Hofschneider is very good as young Perel, whose thoughts of his family are never far from the surface, especially as he tries in vain to catch a glimpse of his parents through the covered windows of a trolley car that travels through the ghetto without stopping. It's a painful, impossible situation that through will, quick-wittedness, and very importantly, luck, Perel manages to mood of the office is chummy. I am uncomfortable with my co-workers' familiarity with one another, so I keep to myself. I don't talk about my personal life; I attempt to keep the teasing to a minimum.

My attitude, so different than the others, is an unpopular one. That's OK; I can live with that. What I can't live with is the behavior of one particularly physical co-worker. I don't know if it makes a differ-

"I don't know what category of rock you would want to call us, said guitarist Matt McGuire. "Industrial is a misused word . . . so to call us industrial is not so."

The band formed when friends McGuire and Andy Sutton started recording themselves beating and hitting objects in their families' garages in Mount Clemens.

At that time, neighborhood friends, the group Tangent Image, stored its equipment in the Sutton's garage. They attempted to assembled the instruments and even spray-painted the equipment cases - all without prior Once the members of the band discovered this, the equipment was removed but the musical bug stayed behind.

The two decided to form a band; Andy Sutton on bass and McGuire on guitar because he had musical experience playing a saxophone. They both taught themselves chords, eventually bought a drum machine and suddenly they were a band.

Andy's older brother, White Room Studios record producer Al, who possesses no vocal background, later joined as lead singer and now the twosome became a trio with a programmed drum machine.

"It was hard," said Al Sutton, remembering the days with the drum machine, "because it was a live band playing with a drum machine and it didn't work. "I always wanted a live drummer."McGuire added. "You have more of a live feel."

Eventually, the machine broke down and when they tried to fix it, the programming was erased so the members settled on a live drummer. After several drummers, Forehead Stew is happy with Fowlkes who they said gives the band its concise sound.

This unity, the members feel landed them a spot at the South by Southwest Music Conference in Austin, Texas, last spring.

"That was the first time that we played and didn't screw up because it seems as though we always screw something up," Andy Sutton said.

"It's like we had this 'we don't care' attitude, but we played bet-ter than we ever had," Al Sutton

The band has acquired a select following in the Detroit area, which tagged along to Austin, unknown to Forehead Stew. Today, the members are more in tune with their followers, music and goals.

"People like honesty and if we are honest to our music, that will shine through," Andy Sutton said. "As soon as we learn to play our instruments we will be a damn good band."

Forehead Stew performs along with Walk on Water at the Im-pound, 17320 Harper, between Cadieux and Moross, Detroit, on Saturday, Oct. 2. For more information, call 884-9441.

Stationery stores pamper in paper

n Sept. 21, 1837, in the midst of a national fluancial panic, Charles Louis Tiffany and John P. Young opened a small "Stationery and Dry Goods" store at 259 Broadway in New York. The original cash book records the first day's receipts of $4.98.

Tiffany's future as an arbiter of style and quality was not assured in those early years, as New Yorkers harbored unruly, often gaudy tastes, reminiscent of the Victorian era. However, by 1883, Tiffany's took a strong stand for curbing exuberance in engraved cards and stationery in the interests of good taste:

"Some ladies' notepaper is brightly decorated. Among the designs are landscapes, birds, cats, . . But such fancy stationery is little used except for the western and out-of-town trade. The illuminated papers are rather shunned by ladies of fashion and quiet good taste . . .

And on the subject of calling cards:

'A young lady does not have a separate card until after her first season in society. Her name previous to that time is always engraved beneath that of her mother's . .

Even today, though subtle decoration is certainly acceptable, the company adheres to a conviction that correspondence issued on Tiffany & Co. stock must be restrained and appropriate. Wedding invitations, for instance, should not go out under both the bride's parents names if they are divorced. The "yes" or "no" return card is firmly vetoed, and off-white or ecru paper engraved in black is strongly advised. And please, no tacky, gushy quotations or photographs. Customers are counseled on proper phrasing.

Simply, the best

Etiquette aside, Tiffany & Co. has remained a leader in graphic design and craftsmanship throughout its history. Tiffany redesigned the Great Seal of the United States and created the invitations marking the openings of the Brooklyn Bridge, the Statue of Liberty and the Ziegfield Follies.

Today its stationery products bear an exclusive Tiffany watermark and contemporary designs are offered alongside classic motifs drawn from extensive archives. Look for Tiffany-designed stationery in "The Age of Innocence," the movie adaptation of Edith Wharton's novel. Where else could you coordinate invitations and place cards with vour china and silverware pattern? Pictured is the Audubon pattern bordering invitations ($45), place cards ($22) and a cup and saucer ($75). The Somerset Collection store in Troy offers exclusive typefaces for engraving or Tiffany's Design Department will custom design monograms, letterheads or logotypes for any of its products.

If you never thought of Tiffany & Co. as a stationer, stop in and take a look at its oldest ongoing product category. You'll find exquisite note cards, invitations, announcements, guest books and an exclusive selection of holiday greeting cards.

Old world village has retail charm

A new shopping center will open next week without escalators, a food court, big-name anchors or discount prices. Instead you'll see strolling musicians, Victorian towers and merchandise from the world market.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

The Aldridge Family of Bloomfield Hills is about to take shoppers back in time and across the ocean with the opening of its Canterbury Village on Stan and Sue Aldridge and their grown children have combined entertainment, unique merchandise, and a Dickensinian setting on the former William Scripps farm near Lake Orion to create "someplace you can take your out-of-town guests.

The 21-acre project has been under construction for the past two years, and not all the buildings and restaurants will be open next week, according to Stan Aldridge, who also owns and manages the Indianwood Country Club, north of the new shopping village, and the Lakewood Shores Resort in Oscoda, which includes a 36hole golf course.

"But the biggest attraction, the Always Christmas Castle, is ready to go and the grounds are prepared," he said. "We've attempted to recreate an Old English festival village. Some of the buildings have been restored; others are new. A few of the 16 shops will be ready, and next year the grand banquet hall will be open for parties and weddings. We will also have a mail-order catalog next year, and each month a different festival with clowns, musical entertainment and strolling characters.'

When Canterbury Village is complete, there will be a fast-food restaurant, a more upscale banquet facility (a castle with eight towers,) a fudge shop, a tea room, a candle shop, a children's clothing boutique, a jewelry shop, a glass shop, a flower and basket shop, the Christmas store, a toy store, a candy store, and an "antiques row." Each shop has been meticulously designed in Tudor style with oak paneling, leaded- and stained-glass windows. There are fireplaces and carpeted staircases that create the backdrop for the collection of merchandise brought in from around the world.

"Look at these Christmas tree or-naments," Aldridge said as he lifted an embroidered gold, six-inch sphere to the light. "We've got the most unique items from Poland, the Philippines, Germany, China, Austria, France and Italy. Most of them are handmade. My wife and I have shopped around the world to find these pieces. We've got them at competitive prices, too. There's something for everyone. I guarantee it."

In the 16-foot, animated Christmas Castle, garlands, holiday swags, lights, St. Nick figurines, and thousands of ornaments are grouped according to theme and color. Many of the newly hired sales staff admit they're on board to earn money and receive discounts on the lovely merchandise.

"And that's all right," Aldridge said with a wide grin. "I like a lot of this stuff myself." The ornaments are priced from $1.50 to $16, depending on the size and detail. The place is designed to give Frankenmuth, the state's top tourist attraction, a run for its money.

Refusing to compare the two retail operations, Aldridge said he hoped to attract the "four million people who live within 45 minutes of Canterbury

Security issues draw retailers to seminar

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

The way to keep gangs and terrorists away from malls is through a program of Zero Tolerance, local retailers learned from a panel of police and security experts last week.

And taking the plan to heart, a few malls hinted at the imminent opening of police "mini stations" right on their premises. "Don't let the bad guys get a foothold in your establishments," instructed Michael St. James, director of Threat Management Systems of Birmingham. "You can't stop a preplanned, unanticipated incident because they happen too fast. You're up against a time factor of just seconds. But you can put your security dollars into prevention. You can foil incidents through interception. This works if you have an excellent communications system.

St. James warned the gathering of mall security and management officials of a "new kind of male." Quoting a recent criminologist's report, St. James said that a generation of "cut throat kids," currently 10, 11 and 12years-old are beginning to commit crimes, including murder, without remorse. He blamed the influences of violent television and movie scenes on young minds growing up without parental guidance.

"Unbridled testosterone is the most dangerous chemical in the world today," he said. "You've got to brace yourselves for the storm that will hit your malls. The way to do this is through intelligence and communica-

St. James outlined the following precautions:

Round Robbins. Merchants notify security immediately by phone when anyone suspicious or threatening arrives on the scene. Merchants should note descriptions and directions of Retail Responsibility. No selling jackets in rival gang colors off racks near a store entrance. Creates an opportunity for gang members to "mix it up" while shopping. Retailers should not sell merchandise that could be used for drug paraphernalia, like zigzag papers.

■ Eliminate the rap and hard rock music from stores. Replace it with classical or popular music, especially in the areas where kids gather, like the fast food restaurants.

■ Let shoppers know someone is always watching. Put security cameras with monitors at the front doors so shady characters know you've got a clear picture of them.

■ Don't give undesirables a "pass" to hang around. Cups with a logo can ment as visibly transparent as possibe used as an excuse to loiter around an establishment if they're hand held

■ Limit ingress and egress to areas that can be monitored by using fences and landscaping around shopping centers.

■ Have a visible police presence at the mall to establish the turf on the side of the law.

Increase parking lot patrol. Officers from the Livonia Police Department's Youth Bureau advised retailers to be aware of graffiti - the first sign a gang has arrived on the scene. Retailers should document the graffiti with photos, notify police of the incident, then remove it before it can be crossed out or countered by a Police also advised mall security officers to evict persons who commit assaults or vandalism at their centers. The ban should be followed up with a certified letter sent to the offender's residence confirming the ban. This will aid the prosecution in court.

There's nothing like a famous scorned woman - who happens to be an aging sex symbol stimulate literary interests.

Just ask the folks at Bookpeo ple Inc. in the Orchard Lake Mall where Ivana Trump spent 90 minutes Monday publicizing her second novel, "Free to Love.

Although Ivana, as she's known to jet-setters in Europe and the United States, insists her books are not autobiographical, bothnovels focus on Katrinka Kovar, a beautiful Czech skier who marries

'I read her first novel and I can hardly wait to read this one," said Hope Gomez, who said she made a special trip from Melvindale to West Bloomfield to see Ivana.

Her enthusiasm was tempered with practicality, however. Gomez said she would wait to buy the book. "It (the price, $23) is a little steep. I'll wait for the paperback, or until the price comes down."

for the book shelves. "People like autographed copies," explained Rissa Winkelman, owner of Bookpeople who termed Ivana's appearance a rousing success.

"People loved her. She's very tall, thin and beautiful," said Winkelman. With a chuckle she added, "and I hated her for it."

Stacey Kellow of Southfield bought Ivana's book as a gift for a favorite aunt. She thought the author was something special. She's so charming, so personable."

For Jana Stewart of Bloomfield Hills, seeing Ivana and getting an autographed book was a special treat. "I sat near her once on a ski lift in Aspen," she said. "She seemed so real then, just like she does today.

Stewart had a special interest in the former Mrs. Donald Trump. She and Ivana were both born in Czechoslovakia. Much of their conversation was in their native tongue.

Like others book-lovers, Angela York, also of Bloomfield Hills, seemed aware of Ivana's triumphs and trials - her life as a former model and member of the Czech woman's ski team whose storybook marriage to one of the richest men in America ended in a messy divorce.

Referring to Ivana's success as an entrepreneur of designer clothing, jewelry and cosmetics, York said, "I admire her for being her own woman."

Sara Green of West Bloomfield said she liked Ivana because "she seems so down-to earth." After learning Green works for Weight Watchers, for example, Ivana acknowledged the importance of diet and exercise. "I do a lot of aerobics," said the 44-yearold mother of three, who has a master's degree in physical education. "It keeps the flab off the hips and tummy."

Freda McCammon of West Bloomfield liked Ivana's easygoing style and her statuesque beauty. "He (former husband Donald Trump) must have been a fool . . . and a pain.'

Debra Steinberg of Bloomfield Hills thought so too. "I can't imagine him (Donald Trump) leaving her (Ivana) for a showgirl. Ivana is elegant, educated and charming. The showgirl is so

The showgirl, of course, was Marla Maples. Not only did Donald Trump leave his wife — while publicly cavorting with Maples he publicly humiliated Ivana with comments to the gossip-hungry

Irish immigration examined

David Bird, chairman of Cobh Heritage Trust, Ltd., a group that has established a major heritage center focusing on the experience of 19th century immigrants from Ireland, will present an illustrated lecture at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Avenue in Dearborn.

It will be entitled "The Cove of Cork: Gateway to the New World." The civic center is on the southwest corner of Michigan Av-

Wild Thing re-signs

Do you think he became the "Wild Thing" while at Yale University?

Anyway, that's the nickname bestowed upon Lars Richters by the Detroit Rockers soccer club. Richters, a Livonia Stevenson grad and currently Nick O'Shea's assistant coach for Schoolcraft College's women's team, signed a new contract for the National Professional Soccer League 1993-94 sea-

Richters has played sparingly with the Rockers the past two years, filling a variety of roles. In 1991-92 he appeared in 36 games, registering five two-point goals and scoring 14 points. Last season, he played in 26 games and had four twopointers and 10 points.

The Rockers open training camp next Monday at Beechwood Arena, in Southfield. The club will host an open tryout at 10 a.m. Saturday. Any players interested should be at the arena by 9:45 a.m.

The tryouts have reaped benefits before. In 1990, the Rockers signed midfielder Doug Landefeld as a free agent after a tryout. Landefeld is still with the club.

League's best

Mill Coleman, a junior wide receiver at Michigan State from Farmington (Harrison), is atop the Big Ten in catches per game. Coleman caught seven passes for 57 yards in the 36-14 loss at Notre Dame, including a touchdown. His performance earned him Spartan of the Week honors.

For the season, Coleman has 15 catches (7.5 per game) for 169 yards (11.3 per reception) and one

Record-setter

On Sept. 17, Notre Dame blanked Michigan State 6-0 in women's soccer. Ragen Coyne, the Irish's All-American midfielder, recorded three assists in the victory, giving her 11 for the season a new school record.

She broke the previous record of 10 (shared by Mimi Suba, '89, and Alison Lester, '91), and she did it in just six games.

Through six games, Notre Dame is averaging 5.2 goals per game while surrendering just two all season. The Irish were 6-0 going into last weekend.

Perfect so far

Going into Saturday's game at St. Francis, Northern Michigan University was a perfect 3-0. And placekicker Kurt Buterbaugh was perfect as

The sophomore from Garden City booted two extra points and connected on field goals of 32 and 33 yards in the Wildcats' 28-14 victory over Saginaw Valley State Sept. 18.

For the season, Buterbaugh is 6-for-6 on extra points and 4-for-4 on field goals, for a team-high 18 points.

Soccer stars

Seniors Nikki Johnson (Livonia Churchill) and Sara Hayes (Plymouth Salem), and junior Ayana Nash (Plymouth Canton), were instrumental in helping Siena Heights women's soccer team reach the final of the third annual Mello Classic Soccer Tournament. The Saints, ranked 19th in the NAIA, lost 1-0 to defending champion Missouri Valley in the final, but all three were named to the all-tournament team .

A pair of Redford Catholic Central grads were instrumental in Michigan State's 3-3 tie with University of Detroit-Mercy Wednesday at MSU. Senior midfielder Jon Petoskey collected a pair of assists, raising his team-high total of assists to five He has seven points. Senior forward Steve McCaul (Livonia) had one assist, giving him five points for the season. The Spartans were 3-3-1 going into Saturday's match at Indiana.

CC overpowers DeLaSalle, 14-0

Sophomore John Spolsky scored two second-half touchdowns Saturday as Redford Catholic Central gave Warren DeLaSalle its first loss, 14-0. The Shamrocks are 1-0 in the Central Division, the Pilots 0-1. Both teams are 3-1 overall.

All alone

By DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

The conventional wisdom says a good football team makes its own breaks, and Redford Catholic Central made plenty Saturday night in defeating Warren DeLaSalle 14-0.

The Shamrocks capitalized on one of four fumble recoveries to break a scoreless tie and get some hardearned points at Livonia Clarence-

CC's Joe Pongracz fell on a De-LaSalle fumble at the DeLaSalle 29yard line early in the third quarter, and that led to the first of two touchdowns by sophomore fullback John

"I told our back (Jeff LaChapelle) to make sure he came up real strong on the option," CC coach Tom Mach said. "The end did a good job and forced the pitch, and LaChapelle caused the fumble. The weather (rainy, wet and slippery) was a big factor and affected the play of both teams, but the Sham-rocks were better suited to deal with it than the Pilots. CC lost one fumble and had a pass intercepted.

"The weather didn't help us any," DeLaSalle coach Ross MacDonald said, adding his team can't use its quickness on a wet, muddy field. You get bogged down in this stuff and it hurts you."

CC was able to rush for 146 yards, with tailback Freddie Taylor getting 99 on 23 carries. Spolsky added another 45 on 10 attempts. Quarterback

Barry Lingelbach was 3-of-7 passing for 53 yards.

The Pilots had 157 total yards -83 rushing and 74 passing. Matt Mlynarek rushed for 47 yards on 11 carries, and quarterback Mark Julien was able to complete just four of his 13 passes.

This kind of game doesn't hurt us too much," Mach said. "We're pretty much ground oriented and we have the type of backs who can run in almost any conditions.

"The way we run the game in tight, whether it's a good field or bad one, we're going to run pretty much the same plays.

At the start of the fourth quarter, Julien's pass on fourth down at the CC 38 was incomplete, giving the Shamrocks good field position.

That led to an 11-play, 62-yard drive that ended with an 8-yard run by Spolsky. Adam Borchert kicked the second of two extra points.

"You don't want to get caught in a short-field situation with them," MacDonald said, "but we came here to win. You can't run at them all the time. You're not going to beat them unless you take some chances.

"Field position is a real key in these kind of conditions," Mach said. Even though we have backs who can break it, they're slipping and sliding in this weather."

DeLaSalle got as close as the CC 19 at the end of the first half, but Andy Short recovered Julien's fumble on the last play. CC's best shot was a 40yard field goal attempt by Borchert.

"In the second half, we played our brand of football a little more than we did in the first half," Mach said. "I was happy with the way we played. We caused things to happen. When fumbles happen it's because of hard

Given the field conditions, the Shamrocks have an excellent shortyardage go-to man in the 5-foot-9, 215-pound Spolsky, who carried a few tacklers on his second scoring run.

Churchill suffers consecutive losses

Troy Athens, the No. 2 ranked Class A boys soccer team, on Friday beat No. 3 Livonia Churchill, 3-2, in a non-league game.

The victory at home gave Athens a 7-0-1 record. Churchill, which was upset Wednesday by Farmington, 1-0, fell to 4-2-2 overall. Junior forward Chris Przygoda scored twice for the Red Hawks, including the eventual winner with about six minutes remaining. The teams were tied 1-1 at halftime. Farmington's victory over Livonia

Churchill Wednesday might be considered a big upset by some, but Falcons coach Luke Juncaj is taking the game as just a regular win.

"I don't consider it much of an upset," he said. "We expected to win the game. Churchill is a good team but we're a good team, too.

The Falcons (3-2) scored the game's only goal at the 28-minute mark of the first half. Nate Weist took a cross from the right side and headed it toward the Churchill net. The Chargers goaltender made the save, but junior midfielder Sean Noble deposited the rebound into the Wayne is 3-1 overall and 3-0 and in first place in the Mega Conference Red Division. Monroe fell to 2-2 overall, 1-2 in the Red.

The Zebras were outgained 291-278 in total yardage but came up with timely plays from beginning Freshman quarterback Lorenzo Guess was intercepted twice but completed eight-of-20 passes for 106 yards, including another touchdown pass to wide receiver Gerald Adams. Running back Reggie McCarthy rushed 12 times for 82 yards and one TD and Willie Bush scored once and had 53 yards on 12 carries

The Zebras enjoyed a 21-14 lead after three quarters but overtime seemed a certainty after Monroe scored with 2:47 remaining in the fourth quarter. Monroe quarterback Mike Pollzzie completed a 35-yard TD pass to Delon Montague to make the score 21-20. But instead of going for the tie with the point-after kick, Monroe elected to go for two points and was stopped by the Wayne defense.

Wayne started the game in explosive fashion as Jeff Anderson recovered a Monroe fumble on the opening kickoff. Four plays later, Bush went in from the eight for a 7-0 lead. Monroe struck quick, however, as Tom Smith raced 67 yards on the first play from scrimmage to tie the score 7-7.

The Zebras went ahead 13-7 after one quarter, scoring on a 13-yard run by McCarthy to cap a 66-

But Monroe enjoyed a 14-13 halftime lead, scoring on a one-yard run by Smith. The score was set up by a 19-yard interception return to the Wayne Gerald Adams gave the Zehras a 20-14 lead in the third quarter, catching a 20-yard TD pass from Guess. A two-point conversion pass to Jason Overton was good.

ESTEVENSON 24. N. FARMINGTON 10: Livonia Stevenson made it four wins in four tries with a rare Friday afternoon triumph over host North Farmington.

The Spartans, who gained 345 total yards, are 2-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. North fell to 1-3 overall, 1-1 in the WLAA. The senior combination of quarterback Kevin Szczembara and wide receiver Brad Morgan enjoyed another productive day. Szczembara completed 10-of-17 passes for 165 yards and touchdowns The Spartans fell behind 7-0 in the first quarter after a two-yard run by fullback Jeff Kong and the point after by Scott Lord. Morgan, who caught six passes for 101 yards, put the Spartans on the scoreboard with a 15-yard TD reception in the second quarter.

The Spartane added a two-point safety on in the second quarter on a tackle behind the line of scrimmage by Chris axtrembaki but North went ahead 10-9 at halftime on Scot Lord's 27-yard field goal.

Lord's 27-yard neid gosi.

The Spartans took the lead for good, 17-10, in the third quarter on Gade Clark's five-yard run, capping a 40-yard drive. Joe Bracali caught a two-point conversion pass. The Spartage finished the scoring in the fourth quarter on 25-yard pass from Szczembara to Chris Mullett, who strad-dled the sidelines without going out-of-bounds. Clark led the Spartane with 126 yards on 27 carries. Besco added an eight-yard run in the second quarter to put Glenn ahead 35.7 at halftime. Cosby added a one-yard TD run in the third quarter and Jason Kitta scored from six yards out in the fourth quarter. Brian Besco was credited for a two-point safety.

Farmington, which was held to 29 yards rushing, scored in the first quarter on a 26-yard pass from quarterback Mike Tokar to Sam Lewis. Tokar completed 9-21 for 113 yards.

MORTHVILLE 43, CHURCHILL 6: The Chargers fell behind 43-20 after three quarters before scoring in the fourth quarter. The loss leaves Churchill winless in four games.

Mark Hanselman, a senior guard, picked up a teammate's fumble in the end zone to end the Chargers' only scoring drive. Senior quarterback Eric Kelly ran in the two-point conversion to give the Chargers eight points.

Northville scored on a pair of pass interception returns. Brian Jackson returned an interception 34 yards for a score and also scored on a 63-yard run.

Spartan effort

Stevenson beats Pats, stays unbeaten

By NEAL ZIPSER, STAFF WRITER

The Livonia Stevenson girls basketball team on Thursday defeated host Livonia Franklin, 43-28, despite shooting 28 percent from the field.

Stevenson coach Wayne Henry couldn't explain the Spartans' inability to convert many easy, and often uncontested shots in the paint. Despite the struggle, the Spartans stayed undefeated at 7-0 overall and 2-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"For whatever reason, we missed a ton of shots from right underneath the basket," Henry said. "If we make those shots, we play loose. I don't think the team is anymore satisfied with this game than I am.

Stevenson made 15-of-52 shots from the field and committed 22 turnovers.

The game didn't look much better from the other bench as the Patriots lost the ball 28 times and shot only 27 percent from the floor (11-for-40) in losing their third game in a row and falling to 4-3 overall and 0-2 in the WLAA. The Spartans made Henry happy earlier, jumping out to an 18-1 lead. Stevenson scored the first seven points of the game, sparked by the first of three triples by forward Kim Olszewski. After a Franklin free throw, the Spartans went on an 11-0 run, again featuring an Olszewski three-pointer.

"Kim was struggling until the game against Redford Union Tueşday (a 58-49 win)," Henry said. "She has struggled, and it doesn't matter if you're a professional like Rodney Peete or a high school player, you're going to put pressure on yourself. Hopefully she's more relaxed now.'

In six of the Spartans' seven wins, they've taken a big early

"There's nothing wrong with getting off to a 18-1 lead but it's what comes after that," Henry

"It was probably nerves on our part," Franklin coach Mary Jarvis said. "We needed time to adjust to the game. It hurts that we have to give up so many baskets before we get into the game."

Senior guard Mo Drabicki scored six of her game-high 12 points in the first quarter. Drabicki added five rebounds and five assists.

"Tracy Rynkiewicz played good, solid defense on her," Jarvis said. "We talked about not letting her beat us.

Olszewski and Stacey Nichols scored nine each for Stevenson. Ann Marie Aquino helped the Spartans gain a 32-27 rebounding edge with 11 rebounds.

Franklin began the first of several comeback attempts later in the first quarter when forward Mary Bagazinski stole a Stevenpass and nailed a threequarter The buzzer-beater made the score 18-5.

Bagazinski paced Franklin with 10 points, while guard Rynkiewicz added nine.

Two free throws and a lavup by Rynkiewicz closed the margin to 19-11 at 5:10 of the second, but that was the final first half basket for the Patriots as Stevenson led 22-11 at halftime.

The teams played cat and mouse in the third quarter. Jumpers by Bagazinski and Rynkiewicz closed the score to 23-15, but the Spartans countered with layups by Drabicki and Nichols. After a triple by Olszewski made it 30-19, Franklin scored the final five of the quarter to close the gap to 30-23 entering the

"You have to give them credit," Henry said. "When they made their spurts, they played loose and made their shots. They didn't seem initimidated by us after the first quarter. The girls felt at halftime they were in enough control of the game, but I can't guarantee that I felt the same way.

The Spartans put any Patriots' comeback hopes to rest as they reeled off five unanswered points in the fourth quarter. The killer was a layup and a free throw by Nichols. Stevenson's bench scored the final six points of the game to increase the final margin.

Harrison beats Patriots, 17-6

Even though Farmington Hills Harrison had one less day than normal to prepare for Livonia Franklin, the Hawks still didn't expect the type of football game it received from the winless Patriots on Friday.

It took Harrison a while to get going, but the Hawks still managed to pull out a 17-6 victory that didn't reflect the type of game it was.

The Hawks' record improved to 3-1 overall and 2-0 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Franklin hasn't won in its four games this season and has left new coach Jim Karoub puzzled and frustrated.

"We've played four good games this season and have come up empty," Karoub said. "Somehow the kids' heads are still up and they're optimistic. I don't know how because I'm Harrison's Jason Granger fumbled on the first play from scrimmage giving Franklin the ball at the Hawks' 30-yard line. Three plays later, Greg Maple threaded a 28-yard scoring strike to Dennis Hall, who somehow caught the ball between Harrison's Kevin Bryant and Dave Hensel. The extra point was missed, giving Franklin a 6-0 lead 3:54 into the game.

The Hawks took the ball at was turned over on downs.

their own 43 after a squib kick. On the next play, fullback Nick Anderson rambled down the sidelines 57 yards for an apparent touchdown. The play was called back, however, on a holding penalty.

"We put ourselves in a hole early," Harrison coach John Herrington said.

Harrison took the lead late in the first after capitalizing on an 8-play, 64-yard drive. The drive ended when Anderson exploded through a huge hole over center to scamper 15 yards into the end zone. Brock Gove's point after made it 7-6.

Franklin moved the ball well on Harrison and had many onlookers wondering if the Patriots were going to beat the the Hawks for the second consecutive year (Franklin won 3-0 last season).

But Franklin's frustration began on its next possession. The Patriots used a strong passing attack and ground game to control the clock and move the ball, but problems came when Franklin entered the Harrison 20-vard

Failing to capitalize in scoring territory proved to be the difference, according to Karoub. After Maple drove Franklin to the 17, the drive stalled and the ball

Franklin got the ball right back when Joe Pesci's pass was deflected at the line and intercepted by Kevin Carr at the Harrison 32.

Strong running by Jesse Shakarian (15 carries for 67 yards) set up wide open targets for Maple. On a fourth and 10, the senior quarterback connected with Ryan Bayer down to the five, but Chuck Bambenek knocked the ball loose, and Hensel recovered the ball in the end zone for a touchback.

"We made a lot of mental mistakes on offense," Karoub said. "When you're within the 20, you have to get some

It took Harrison just three plays and 0:18 to increase its lead to 14-6. After a 24-yard pass from Pesci to Granger put the ball at the Harrison 44, Pesci threw a perfect pass on a slant pattern to Bryant, who leaped and caught the ball in stride to go untouched 56 yards for the score. Pesci firished completing 5-of-10 passes for 137 yards.

"Bryant did a nice job for us today," Herrington said. "He Herrington said. "He can be a spectacular receiver."

As Franklin bottled up Granger (seven carries for 10 yards), Anderson exploited the Patriots' defense by gaining 75 yards rushing in the second half and 119 total on 19 carries. He helped the Hawks maintain 287-198 advantage in total of-

"Physically, we played with them," Karoub said. "We wanted to take their speed away. We wanted to do that by playing a 5-2 defense — something Franklin hasn't done in at least 20 years. The team executed that well."

Herrington thought it was Karoub's defensive tactics that gave Harrison fits.

"They had lost three real hard games, and we prepared hard for them," Herrington said. "They came out with a completely different defense, and we had to

We began driving them off the ball in the second half. We had plans to use Nick at tailback, which we had to do when they took our speed: We were forced to go inside" Franklin took the second half kickoff and drove to the Harrison 18. That drive ended when Hensel picked off a Maple pass and returned it to the 20. Once again the Patriots got the ball back as Davis Zach stripped the ball from Anderson, and Michael Koitek pounced on the re-

SC women end 3-game losing skid

There were some shaky moments, but at least Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team put one on the right side of the ledger Wednesday by beating Eastern Michigan's club team 5-2 at SC.

It was the Lady Ocelots' first win since they captured the season-opening tournament at Monroe CC in New York, and it ended a three-game winless streak. SC is

The Eagles actually scored first, on an Ocelot defensive error in front of their own net. Dee Lorenz evened it a short time later on a penalty kick, awarded after an EMU player was called for a hand ball in the box.

It was the first of three firsthalf goals for SC. Kelly Greaves put the Ocelots ahead, assisted by Jodi Grabowski, and Danielle Priebe made it 3-1, on an assist by Tara Shook.

Lorenz converted her second penalty kick in the second half after she was taken down in the penalty area by the EMU keeper. Shook rounded out SC's scoring, netting the fifth goal.

The Ocelots have their second true test coming this weekend when they visit St. Louis for games against Meramec Saturday and Florissant Valley Sunday.

Men's soccer

SC men's soccer coach Van Dimitriou did what he wanted and made it work in Wednesday's 5-1 victory over Delta CC. The win improved the Ocelots' overall record to 7-0-1; they are 5-0 in Re-

"Coming into the game, I wanted to start a few different kids, give some playing time to some of the guys who haven't gotten much," Dimitriou said. "Everybody got a chance to play, so evervbody's happy.

A lot of different players may have accumulated field time, but the same familiar names accounted for the goals. Fadi Bazzi opened and closed the scoring for the Ocelots, getting a goal in the 14th minute on an assist from Vince Troiani, and netting his second in the 75th minute on an assist from Andy Cosenza.

Troiani cemented his starting role by scoring twice, to go with his assist. The Livonia Churchill grad got his first goal, and SC's second, in the 37th minute, Adam Carriere assisting. His second came on a feed from Ryan Piper in the 55th minute.

Joe Perron was responsible for the Ocelots' third goal, with Piper getting another assist, in the 48th minute

A.J. Wise scored for Delta directly on a restart just outside the penalty area. Gordie Collins was in goal for SC.

Danielle Pfeffer, Kristin Barnes and Danielle Sheehy each turned in strong all-around performances to enable the Ocelots to post a 15-12, 15-10, 15-4 straight-set victory over Macomb CC Thursday at ACUVUE® Disposable Contacts Can Make the Difference..

LIVONIA - Patients have been curious about disposable contact lenses since their introduction four years ago. This interest has, through the free trial contact lens program offered by Acuvue and Surevue translated into a resurgence in contact lens wear. In fact, of all new contact lens patients and existing wearers being refit, 63% enter into disposable contact lens wear.

The doctors of Suburban Optometric-Dr. Lawrence E. Beecher, Dr. Ned B. Grover, Dr. David J. Beecher, and Dr. John P. Jacobi - have a few ideas as to why this is the trend in contact lens wear. They've innovatively applied the Acuvue and Surevue disposable contact lenses to suit their patients'

Dr. Ned B. Grover cites the increased comfort and clarity.

With the use of disposable contacts, he has transformed patients who have failed in conventional (one pair per year) soft contact lens wearers into success stories. He feels disposables make sense for those clean pair! who demonstrate poor contact lens hygiene, dry eyes or allergic complications. Before the complications of deposited or soiled lenses, such as irritation and redness arise, you replace the lenses with a fresh, clean pair!

"From the time of its launch, when most others rigidly prescribed Acuvue disposables as extended wear lenses, we took it a step further and developed daily wear programs," notes Dr.

We had many patients who either had no desire or were poor candidates for extended wear. We're glad that Surevue was added to the product line so that we had access to a lens that was easier to handle for daily wear.'

The premise for Acuvue being initially positioned as an extended wear lens was the belief that frequent contact lens replacement rid a patient of the common risks associated with extended wear.

The doctors of Suburban Optometric realized all along that a conservative approach toward extended wear was necessary. For this reason, the doctors approach extended wear in a very individual manner.

According to Dr. John P. Jacobi, "Extended wear, whether disposable or not, stresses the eye's immune system and therefore subjects the eye to a great risk for a sight-threatening infection. Some patients do well with the maximum wear schedule of six nights in a row, while others can only tolerate two or three successive nights of wear."

If you're interested in a hassle-free contact lens wear along with clarity and comfort, the doctors agree disposable contacts should be considered. Acuvue, Surevue, and Suburban Optometric have set up a risk-free trial of these lenses. Your trial pair of Surevue or Acuvue will be free to you.

Join the ranks of success by calling 525-8170. You'll be protected and enhanced by a team of concerned and thorough doctors and staff.

Yet another decision that can affect your health.

A standard driver-side airbag may not seem like a big deal. Or a spaceframe with "crumple zones" that help dissipate the energy of a crash. Or even optional anti-lock brakes. Combined, however, they make your decision to buy a Saturn > that much easier to live with. MSRP or the 1993-812 is $11,795 including retailer preparation transportation and options additional
