Charges fly in school board feud

School member Trish Brown filed a police complaint against former board member Sharon Felan, alleging that Felan shoved her during an argument over an administrative staffing matter. Felan strongly denies the charge.

By Leonard Poger

Wayne-Westland school board feuding reached a new peak last week with board member Trish Brown claiming that former board member. Sharon Felon assaulted her during a break in Tuesday night's meeting.

Brown filed a complaint with the Westland Police Wednesday, and it is being investigated, officer Debra Matthews said.

On Friday, Felan emphatically denied assaulting Brown and told the Observer that she and Brown got into a 1½-minute argument over Brown's opposition to filling one of two curriculum department vacancies.

The feud comes five months after Felan, on the board for nearly two years, was defeated in hersbid for a full term. Winners in June were Brown and Mathew McCusker.

Previous feuds have involved the forced resignation of superintendent Dennis O'Neill two years ago, the subsequent hiring of superintendent Larry Thomas and millage increase elections.

Felan said she took Brown's charge "threat to scare people from speaking out on school issues.

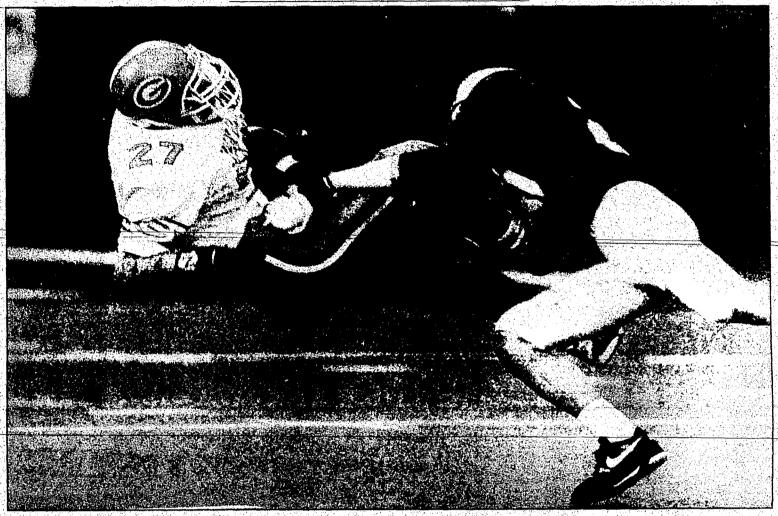

She said she believes Brown also wanted to discredit her, Felan's, likely bid for the seat held by trustee Leonard Posey, who expects to resign Dec. 31. The remaining six board members have until Jan. 20 to choose replacement for When contacted by the Observer Friday, Brown refused to talk about the incident and referred all inquiries to attorney Sandra Cicirelli.

Felan also has retained an attorney, Michael Ostrosky. She said she plans to sue Brown to protect her "reputa-

Posey to quit by year's end

By LEONARD POGER Editor

Leonard Posey, the Wayne-Westland school board's first African-American member, dropped the other shoe Tuesday night, announcing he will resign Dec. 31, six months before the end of his term.

A school board member for nearly four years, Posey disclosed Oct. 25 that a job promotion will force him to move to New Jersey. He has been making frequent trips to the east from his home in Inkster, which became part of the district following a 1985 annexation.

Posey, 39, was recently promoted to vice president and managing director of Drake-Beam Morin, a human resources and management consulting firm. The promotion requires Posey to spend more time in the company's New Jersey office and less in its Troy

In a lengthy farewell statement, Posey Tuesday night reflected on his school board tenure, which began when he was named to a vacancy created by the resignation of trustee Kenneth Barnhill.

Posey said he had high hopes when he joined the board in December 1989, but several goals he developed weren't accomplished. (See related

Alternative education program criticized

Students in a newly reorganized Wayne-Westland alternative education program are upset by high school teachers' putdowns, the board of education was told Tuesday night. The program was reorganized and implemented in late August with the closing of the Cherry Hill Alternative Education program, housed in the former Cherry Hill High School, Inkster. Superintendent Larry-Thomas admitted Tuesday that while there are problems in the program, they are being worked out. He stressed that the revised program, formally known as Multi Ventures Program, is better than the previous one. Under the former program, secondary school students were clustered in the Cherry Hill Center. Since August, they are assigned to Wayne Memorial or John Glenn High Schools,

'We care" about the program's students and "are going to make it better," Thomas added. The problem surfaced in public at Tuesday's school board meeting when two students and several parents of students told the board that the new program is valuable and is giving their sons or daughters a second chance at a high school educa-

The Rev. Neil Cowling, a local pastor, touched off the discussion in disclosing a "survey" by a Wayne Memorial High School teacher which was really a solicitation of "problems" by other faculty members relating to the MVP students.

The schools "shouldn't look down at children and young people," Cowling said. Thomas responded that he is "not happy" with the reported survey and that the administration had nothing to do with it.

One ninth grade girl at Wayne complained of "discrimination" by the staff, saying she and classmates were segregated in the school and not allowed to go to restrooms unescorted as non-MVP students are.

Police spokeswoman Matthews said that when interviews with Brown, Felan and potential witnesses are completed, information will be turned over to the city attorney's office to decide whether to prosecute.

An assault and battery charge is a misdemeanor and carries a maximum penalty of $500 fine and/or 90 days in jail, Matthews said.

Cicirelli told the Observer Friday that "it is my understanding that Felan was ranting and raving and pushed" Brown during a break in the school board meeting, and that a shouting match

Brown contacted Cicirelli, she said, to find out what "her remedies would be" to keep Felan away from her. The attorney said Brown and Felan have had past problems.

Felan admitted getting into an argument with Brown in a hallway just behind the board meeting room. The loud voices could be heard by others in the audi-

But the former board member said that while she pointed her finger at Brown, she did not touch her or push her.

Felan recalled the incident and events leading to it this way:

During the meeting, the board rejected 4-3 the superintendent's recommendation one of two curriculum department vacancies be filled. Brown voted with the majurity, although Felan said Brown led her to believe in a telephone conversation several weeks ago that Brown would vote to fill the

In that one-hour conversation, Felan said, they talked about the importance of filling the curriculum jobs and other issues.

"I felt confident that her vote (this past Tuesday) would reflect the filling of one of the two posts," Felan said.

The former board member planted say at she and Brown worker in school projects exether and for that the relationship between the two was improving.

During the Tuesday debate on the curriculum positions, Felan observed that Brown had eye contact with Brown's roommate, a Wayne-Westland teacher, in the audience. Shortly after the vote, the board took a break with

Brown and the roommate walking out to the hallway behind the meeting room.

Felan said she saw Brown and the roommate talking. Felan walked up to the two and asked Brown "what's the deal?"

Brown asked what she meant by the question.

Felan called Brown stupid and said that her vote on the curriculum posts was stupid.

Felan said Brown accused her flander and started yelling back.

Felan also said that Brown called her a bitch and would sue her for slander

Felan said she responded by telling Brown, "You have to be exposed for what you are."

Felan said that during the argument, board member Vicki Welty approached the two to ask them to quiet down. About the same time, school administrator Gary Dell also told Brown and Felan to return to the board meeting room.

Board blocks administration plan

The Wayne-Westland school district will have at least one curriculum department vacancy filled - with or without the school board's blessing.

The hoard Tuesday night rejected 4-3 an administration request to fill one of two vacancies, but superintendent Larry Thomas said at the conclusion of the board discussion that he will make lateral transfers to fill at least one of the positions.

One board member hoped Thomas would first seek board approval, while a colleague admitted that the superintendent has the authority to make lateral transfers.

At issue is whether the district should fill budgeted vacancies when the board faces a financial

Jane Kuckel, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, said that people in those jobs would have responsibilities for staff development and curriculum development.

The community's perception, said board vice president Mathew McCusker, is that the district is trying to fill management posts before restoring all of the school library clerk positions eliminated months ago.

The administration is projecting a new $2.6 m liner revenue drop, and the district isn't restoring all of the library clerks whose obs were eliminated in a provious budget cut, McCusker said.

He disputed Thomas in saying that the district, if it approved the superintendent's recommendation, would be adding an administrator, not just replacing one.

Thomas disagreed, saying that the curriculum positions are budgeted and even if filled the department would have fewer people than the previous year.

Board treasurer Patricia "Trish" Brown agreed with her colleagues that curriculum is "the heart and soul" of the district.

In defending her opposition to

Thomas' recommendation, Brown said "some students don't have textbooks — it's like having a car without wheels,"

Besides Brown and McCusker. other board members objecting to the posts being filled were Francis 'Bud' Winter and Leonard Posey: In favor were Vicki Welty, Laurel Raisanen and Richard Le-

In supporting Thomas' recommendation, Welty commented that she's sorry that both positions aren't being filled now.

Since curriculum is vital to what goes on in the classroom, the filling of the positions would be only a restoration, Ra sanen said:

On the other side of the dispute, Winter renewed his laticism of the administrative reorganization, feeling there are duplicated efforts.

"We should work smarter," he

Thomas said he hopes that the public interviews of candidates would start the first week in January with a board decision on Posey's replacement the following week.

As expected, Posey's colleagues praised him for his talents and integrity as a board member.

McCusker said that he wanted a resident of the former Cherry Hill school district on the Wayne-Westland board ever since the annexation was completed eight years ago.

Francis "Bud" Winter, board president, said that Posey "is a fine human being" and was "fair and humane to all. He treated everyone with

Trustee Vicki Welty said that Posey was a mentor and

Other board members also praised the departing Posey. In his hand-written resignation letter given to Winter at Tuesday's board session, Posey said:

'As a result of the increasing lemands my job places on me, find that I am no longer able to fulfill my obligations as a trustee/member of the board of ducation. I therefore submit to my resignation, effective Dec. 31, 1993. Best wishes to you and the entire board."

Posey was board president during difficult contract negotiations with the Wavne-Westland Education Association. which represents nearly 1,000 teachers in collective bargaining matters.

When Posey said last month that he will not seek a new term in next June's board election, he was uncertain whether he would fill out his term when it expires June 30 or resign before then.

After being named to a vacancy in late 1989, Posey was elected to a four-year term the following June.

School get partial nod to pursue redistricting plan

The Wayne-Westland school administration will be allowed to continue planning for a proposed middle school concept and district-wide boundary changes which would result in major school attendance changes.

But it wasn't easy.

The board of education Tuesday night wanted to make sure its action was only to endorse the continued planning, not approval of specific plans.

When the procedural and semantic smoke cleared, they agreed 6-1 to endorse the continued planning of moving ninth graders to the two senior high schools from the four middle schools and to make boundary changes.

Board president Francis "Bud" Winter said he "wholeheartedly endorses the concept" but is worried about the financial impact, especially in light of the administration's recent warning of possible "drastic" spending cuts in the wake of reduced state revenues.

Winter also wants more community involvement in the study. to include more parents.

Mathew McCusker, board vice president, cast the only dissenting vote on the endorsement motion because of the financial uncertainty

I support the middle school concept and appreciate the effort of the administration and teachers in making a recent presentation (to the board) but I can't vote for something if we have no idea vhat it will cost," he said.

"This isn't the time to institute a new program, especially without broad community input," he add-

Superintendent Larry Thomas told the board that the administration has been looking for on year at ways to improve the educational programs in the district.

He urged the board allow the administration to move forward with the planning of a middle school and boundary changes which would, if approved, provide more equitable educational opportunities.

A task force recommended to the school board several weeks ago that the district move toward a middle school concept to replace the junior high format, which now has seventh, eighth and ninth graders together.

In the past, proposed school boundary changes have generated opposition from parents whose students are forced to change sorry that the program isn't working as planned.

Colleagues Francis "Bud" Winter, Mathew McCusker and Leonard Posey were more critical of the administration in not planning the revised program better.

Winter, board president, said that he voted against the revamped program last summer, saying it was "ill-conceived" but gave it his "wholehearted support" and now is a member of the program's advisory task force.

Winter, a former Wayne Memorial principal, blamed the "leadership" for any problems with the program and is upset that some students are suffering. But he added that he likes that other pupils are succeeding.

Posey said that "a lack of planning and preparation led to the problems we're hearing about"

Group protests war toys

BY PAT MURPHY STAFF WRITER

For the eighth consecutive year, WAND (Women Acting for a New Direction) has tried to call attention to what its members see as a link between war toys and violence in the United States.

"War toys glorify violence;" said national WAND president Arlene Victor, who was one of about 60 people to picket the Toys-R-Us outlet on Telegraph Road south of 11 Mile in Southfield.

She said WAND traditionally pickets from 11 a.m. to noon onthe Friday following Thanksgiving, customarily the busiest shopping day of the year. The onehour protest is more a symbolic attempt to educate customers, not to impede their shopping.

"We want people to think twice before giving war toys to children when they're so young and impressionable," said Victor.

One store clerk, who asked not to be identified, had a different view, however. "They (protestors) stick around until the media get here, then they split."

Carrying signs such as "Stop Militarizatin of Children for $$$," Santa Doesn't Drive a Tank,' and "Peace Begins in the Playground," the protesters picketed the entrances and distributed literature. One pamphlet recommended nonviolent toys — such as building blocks, erector sets or fingerpaints — as alternatives. The protest was peaceful, with no interference with customers, said Toys-R-Us spokesman, Michael Cullen, inventory control manager. "As long as the protest didn't interfere with customers, we had no problems.'

WAND is not a pacifist organization, said Harriet Benjamin Nor do its members advocate unilateral disarmament.

"But we want to promote non-violence," she said. "And we want to start with the children.

May Davidson said she has been part of the WAND protest for several years. "I think the message is starting to get across,' she said. "There may not be any studies to show it, but every year we get more and more acceptance. More and more people tell us they wouldn't have anything to do with war tovs.

Several shoppers agreed. Jackie Montgomery of Birmingham, for example, said she agrees war toys promote conflict and aggression. "I think there's a definite link be-tween toys and violence," she Demita Tuff of Wayne had similar thoughts as she shopped for her youngster. She said she was previously opposed to war toys, but the protest served as a reminder. "War toys glorify violence instead of negotiation," she said. "I don't buy them because there are so many better toys avail-

Shopper Connie Abrams of Birmingham said the protest did not influence her shopping patterns because she does not believe in a direct link between war toys and violence

Choirs set to perform at county light show

System's "Festival of Lights," open for business through Jan 9, is a huge hit with the public so far, parks officials report.

The 4.5-mile-long light show along Edward Hines Drive features gigantic displays of ani-mated snowmen, a North Pole village, larger-than-life skiers and ice skaters, a Loch Ness monster and lots of other lighted displays.

The show is a fund-raiser for the parks department. A $5 donation per car is requested.

Parks events coordinate Anastasia "Tessie" Pitses said that things couldn't have fallen in place much better than they have. "I've never felt so great about a special event," she said. "Our whole staff is just flying high.'

show by driving down Hines Drive from the intersection of Hines and Merriman to Outer Drive or Warren Avenue.

The hours of operation are 7-10 p.m. seven days a week, weather permitting. There will be no show on Christmas. Cars may approach the intersection of Hines and Merriman from any direction except through Hines Park.

Pitses reports that 1,400 cars drove through the light show on Tuesday alone, and donations topped $1,000 in the first two days. Although the 'requested" donation is $5. Pitses said some people were more generous. "We're getting people who are handing 10s and 20s and saying, 'Keep the change," she said

McNamara was honored with the first ride through the light show, bringing along his children and grandchildren to appreciate the aesthetics.

Grandson Andy, 4, sat on the county executive's lap and surprised grandpa with how well he behaved. "That's the first time the kid has been quiet since he was born," McNamara said.

Commuters who use Hines to get to and from work should note that the road will be closed to regular traffic from 6:30 to about 10:30 p.m.

Drew Carey, wearing his crew cut, glasses and dark suit with thin tie, looks like he could have been a volunteer for the 1968 Hubert Humphrey campaign. He is one of the stars of the upcoming NBC series "The Good Life," and will headline the benefit, "The First Annual Laugh Revue."

Born and raised in Cleveland, Carey has been practicing the stand-up craft since 1985 — and now, his star is truly on the rise. "The Good Life' has been billed as an "Odd Couple' for the '90s." NBC has high hopes for the show, which is currently slated for NBC's mid-season schedule and may premiere in the enviable post-Super Bowl

In addition, Carey also recently appeared in an October Showtime cable special, "Human Cartoon." In addition, he is a veteran of several guestappearances on "Late Night with David Letterman" and "The Tonight Show." In fact, it was Carey's appearance on "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson that served as his big break.

"Friends who were there told me Car laughing so hard that he had to hold on to his desk so he wouldn't fall out of his chair," Carey said in an interview with "The Hollywood Reporter." "He called me over at the end of the set, sat me down and kept me there the whole show. Within weeks, I was turning down offers I would have crawled across broken glass to get before that ap-

Lest anyone make a false assumption that this is a bandwagon-hopping "unplugged" thing going on, a movement which he says they predated by a couple of years anyhow, guitarist Michael Levitt matter-offactly proclaims that the Luddites 'don't sound like anything you've heard before.

Lisa Pisarkiewicz-Goedert, a photography/arts major at Wayne State (where the core members came together a few years ago) and a classically trained vocalist who used to do lead throat chores for synth-rockers Liquid ID, calls the Luddites a "theatrical" and "anti-machinery' conglomeration. Sons of Soul: Tony Toni Tone — from left, Timothy Christian Riley, D'Wayne Wiggins, and Raphael (Ray) Wiggins — opens for Janet Jackson at Joe Louis Arena on Saturday and The Palace of Auburn Hills on Sunday.

Musicianship important to Tony Toni Tone

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Three years ago, Tony Toni Tone redirected hip hop with their clever musicianship interwoven with catchy lyrics.

The 1990 album "The Revival" produced three hits — "Whatever You Want," "Feels Good," and "It Never Rains In Southern California."
With their new record, "Sons of Soul," they took it a step forward. This time they hired a steel guitar player to play on the album something not exactly standard in rhythm and blues or hip-hop music.

'He was spooked," singer Raphael (Ray) Wiggins said about California guitarist Peter Corant. "He's in his 60s or something. He never played on this type of music. When he got the tape and listened to it, he was surprised . . . really shocked.'

With the Tonys' track record, it's no surprise that the Tonys ventured onto this turf. Drummer Timothy Christian Riley said the Tonys' musicianship is a nod to the past.

'We pay homage to the tradition of R&B because we are a self-contained band that really plays, appreciates and understands the rootsiness of the music. But we are of the hip-hop generation. So it's just a natural part of our mentality to create much the same way rappers do,' Riley said.

Exercise in understatement

'Ruby' gets simple, subtle treatment

heroine, wanders rather aimlessly through life in the Sunshine State, While Ruby discovers some piece of mind by film's end, viewers may find themselves wanting more from this low-key slice of life.

An admittedly "small" film playing exclusively at the Main Theatre in Royal Oak, "Ruby" is an exercise in understatement. Granted, not every movie has to climax with an earthquake, but writer/director Vincent Nunez goes out of his way to show us the mundane.

Ruby does her job dutifully, dusting off the display counters and stocking beach towels and sunglasses for the upcoming busy season. She meets regularly for lunch with an ambitious fellow

Off the job, Ruby writes in a diary, musing on life, love, and the reasons why we get out of bed in the morning. She comes to profound conclusions about women after dropping by a topless bar, desperate after being turned down every business short of McDonald's.

Despite all this helpful exposition, it's still a mystery what her life back home was really like. She mentions grandparents, a mother who died not that long ago, and even hints at a boyfriend, apparently the same one who throws a boot at her before the opening credits.

Florida has its own man troubles in store for Ruby. Against her better judgment, she sleeps with a handsome playboy named Ricky (Bentley Mitchum), who also happens to be the boss' son. When she tries to break off the relationship, he threatens her with her job.

nursery and, for a while, looks like a real catch. Then he starts to show his gloomy and condescending side, and we weigh with Ruby the comfort of an intimate relationship and the compromises that will inevitably follow.

Ashley Judd (of the famous country music family) follows the movie's aesthetic well, forcing you to read into long stretches of silence and reflection. Though Judd has been praised for her subtly shaded performance, I'm still not sure if she's acting introspective or just plain dull.

She can't end her dead-end relationship

don't know how I'm going to start explaining this, but here I'm 30 years old and I've

with this one guy rather ex-BARBARA clusively for the past six been very good to me and loves me with a passion and loyalty I've always appreciated, but I just don't think I'm "in love" with him and never have been.

I have told him this, and I really hated to because it crushed him and broke his heart, yet he still chooses to see me and go out with me, although not quite as frequently as we used to. I have always been kind of unsure about that since I know he still harbors secret hopes and dreams that I may someday "change my mind" and want to marry him. I know I never will.

It's just been hard to totally "drop" him because he acts so nice and happy to be with me. I can never find the heart to tell him I never want to see him again. (We have had many fun times together, and I care about him and hate hurting him.)

OK. Here's the rub. Two weeks ago I met another guy and started talking with him, and boom, it was almost like we were instant soulmates! We clicked and got along fabulously and neither of us could believe it!

However, this guy lives in Florida and was only visiting our state for a high school class reunion. (We went to the same school, believe it or not.)

Naturally, we'd like to see each other again, and I would like to fly down there for a week around Christmas. We'll see what happens and take it from there. Both of us are looking forward to it.

Now the hard part, I've never mentioned this new guy to the boyfriend," mostly because it all happened so quickly and because he lives so far away. If he lived around here, I surely and informed him that I would be going out with him. I don't like being secretive.

Please give me your opinion on this situation. Thanks, Bar-

Tanya

Dear Tanya,

Thank you for communicating your powerful inner feelings. My response may seem to you to be too simple for such a complicated problem. However, since we were children we were taught that you can't have your cake and eat it, too. This principle still holds true. It behooves you to be honest with your friend of six years.

Tell him the truth in as kindly a manner as you can; it then becomes his responsibility to solve the problem. If he needs help getting on with his life without you, he should find an experienced psychotherapist. If you can't handle the separation on your own, it would be helpful for you to seek counseling, too.

I can understand your feelings of responsibility for this man's happiness and self-esteem. However, if he really would feel suicidal then there is sickness in his relationship with you that requires treat-

Just one more word of warning. The relationship with the man in Florida is of too short a duration and occurred under too unusual of circumstances to be sure that it is as wonderful as you now think. Further, information is needed in order to have a more accurate understanding of him and of your relationship with him.

Good luck, keep in touch. Your experience may be of value to other readers.

No gimmicks, just good music

Best Kissers in the World, Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac, Thursday, Nov. 25:

Just as the Seattle music scene started sounding stale, Best Kissers in the World comes along without the two G's - gimmicks and grunge and throws a wrench in that theory.

The Seattle quartet - led by former Pontiac resident Gerald Collier — kicked off their thunderous set with their hit song "Pickin' Flowers For" off of their MCA debut EP "Puddin." The next 11/2 hours the band ripped through songs off their latest album "Been There" including "Miss Teen U.S.A.," "Bleeder," "Present At Your Party,"and "Four Letter Name for Lame." Collier's powerful voice - which resembles the range of Kevin Cronin of REO Speedwagon's voice without the cheesiness — carLIVE REVIEW ried well over lanky Jeff Stone's hypnotizing guitar solos, Dave Swafford's aggressive bass and Tim Arnold's driving drum rhythm. Best Kissers momentarily drove away from their "love gone sour" themes to do a rocking cover of "Hot Child In The City."

Best Kissers is one of those bands that program directors have a hard time with. They're sort of alternative rock, sort of tongue-in-cheek pop/rock, with a little album fock credibility thrown in. If more radio stetions take chances and start playing this band, Best Kissers could have a hit album on their lips. Their Thursday night show definitely proved that.-

A fourth potential Republican candidate, Judy Miller of Birmingham, has expressed interest in the Senate seat, but has not formally announced her campaign. If she announces in time, organizers say Miller will be welcome at the fund-raiser

The race for this Senate seat opened up when Democratic incumbent Donald Riegle an-nounced he won't seek re-election. To date there are three Democratic candidates and one Libertarian, plus the three Republicans.

Romney was the latest of the Republicans to announce her candidacy, taking the plunge on Nov.

Long active in Republican party politics, Romney has never held elected office, but worked as co-chair of the Reagan/Bush finance committee in 1984. She has also been a regular commentator on "CNN & Company." Her other television appearances have included "The Larry King Show, 'Good Morning America," and she was a political analyst for De-troit's Channel 7 during the 1992 presidential election.

Ordinance benefits Realtors and the public

n the end, area Realtors will prosper at the hands of a Southfield ordinance they dislike...

The ordinance, aimed against blockbusting, forbids real estate companies or their sales people from soliciting homeowners who have put their names on an anti-solicitation list.

The state Realtor's Association, which opposes discriminatory practices, disagrees, saying it can police its own. And rather than being a case of preventing blockbusting, they say the ordinance is unfairly directed at a certain industry, that it violates the constitutional issue of free speech and that it can be misapplied.

The ordinance, which has been on the books since 1978, has been in the news lately:

■ Earlier this month, the Southfield City Council toughened the law's of $200 plus court costs. Before, penalties could range from a suspended sen-tence up to $500 and up to 90 days in

A suspended sentence will no longer. be allowed under the new measure, which will take effect later this year.

One councilman, Eli Robinson, led the move for the mandatory fine after he was solicited twice. One of those solicitations resulted in a $75 fine; the other earned a suspended fine

■ The same week in the first-ever bench trial on the ordinance, Century 21 Elegant Homes in Lathrup Village was ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $700 — one of the largest penalties assessed since the law has been on

Although there have been more than 60 convictions in the 15 years the law has been in effect, all have been the kers pleading guilty or no contest. And sentences have been left to the judge's discretion.

Just as interesting, 46th District Judge Bryan Levy also ordered the firm to have company officers or employees perform community service.

Yet both prosecutor and judge agreed it wasn't a deliberation of source field sordinance, but rather that the agent involved had been poorly supervised.

The next week, in the first jury trial on the ordinance, Century 21 Today of Redford was assessed a $100 fine, $500 court costs and a year's probation. And they are due back on three more violations in the coming weeks

The truth is, none of the fines are going to make much of a dent in profits. But the community service component, if properly devised, might help the agents involved understand more about the heart of the Southfield community they're selling - especially if they don't live there.

Both the law's new teeth and the sentence's bite send the message that the Southfield community really is serious in its efforts to retain an integrated community. It puts the real estate industry on alert that non-intent can'ts be an excuse in such a tragile situation.

In the long run, it will profit the real estate industry, too. Instead of falling home values, it can sell stable neighborhoods where the houses are in demand and command high prices. But it's not just a real estate industry problem. After all, most of what they do serves us - their clients. We must share responsibility with them. I always remember Laura Norberry, head of the former Birmingham Wom en's Center who moved from Birmingham to Southfield some years back. She longed to be part of a more diverse community. She has recently moved again — to another Southfield address

When we reach Norberry's level of maturity, diverse neighborhoods will be where we move to — not away from. And Southfield, in this suburban area, can be the leader of the pack.

but Realtors plan to fight solicitation rule

ow many times are we at home eating dinner with our family or just plain relaxing when the telephone rings, and to our dissatisfaction, it is someone trying to sell us something or conducting a sur-

Sometimes we are actually interest ed, and yet other times we are merely courteous and, at the right moment, we disengage ourselves from the discussion by explaining our lack of interest or concern. These telephone calls may be harmless enough, and even if we are not interested in the subject matter, the slight inconvenience is not really so

On Dec. 20, 1991, the former President, George Bush, signed into law the Telephone Consumer Protect Act (TCPA) setting forth various rules identifying restrictions as to when telephone solicitors may call homeowners as well as commercial telephone users.

In addition to various other rules and regulations, TCPA requires the telephone soliciting entity to maintain a "do-not-call-list" so that, in the even a homeowner does not want to be called in the future, they are then placed on a "do-not-call" list and no further calls are to be placed to this: homeowner.

. However, this "do-not-call" list is only applicable to that particular company so related entities and/or other entities stand unaffected, and this homeowner may be solicited or contacted for purposes other than the initial contact.

Respecting needs

TCPA's focus was to respect the needs of business while recognizing the rights of privacy of citizens; as such, these lists have to be reviewed prior to telephone calls being commenced by the soliciting company. Although telephone solicitors may find TCPA overly restrictive, at the very least it is a law that is uniform to all telephone solicitors, no matter what their trade, calling or profession. By virtue of this uniformity, the law is fair.

The City of Southfield has enacted Ordinance 9.383, which provides for homeowners to place their name on a list with the City of Southfield. This ordinance strictly prohibits only real estate salespeople to solicit these homeowners by telephone, mail or otherwise, in an attempt to see if the homeowner would like to sell their home. This law is not uniform in that the only persons prohibited under this ordinance are real estate salespersons. Thus, any other professional, paraprofessional, tradesman, handyman or person selling a service or item has the ability to solicit homeowners.

The City of Southfield claims that its restrictive ordinance is reasonable because it attempts to prevent "blockbusting," a technique whereby residents start selling their homes because the area is increasing with minority residents (in this case, black residents). However, this argument by the City of Southfield is greatly flawed when one realizes that there are Federal and State Civic Rights Acts and Fair Housing Laws, which already strictly prohibit such activity.

Until recently, Southfield's ordinance proved to be a mere nuisance to the real estate profession because if a salesperson violated the ordinance, he/ she was given a small fine and/or placed on probation and the matter was closed. Because the ordinance was a mere nuisance and because the fine imposed was usually small, the ordinance was never challenged and a seemingly unconstitutional ordinance has stood for approximately 10 years. However, now the City of Southfield and its legal department shall be challenged in the courts as to the constitutionality of this ordinance.

More punitive

Several months ago, a real estate salesperson pled guilty to violating this ordinance and the judge in the matter imposed a relatively small fine. This time the law department for the city was not satisfied and one of its attorneys wrote a letter to the state of Michigan Department of Licensing requesting that a review be made of this person's license when it came up for renewa

To make matters worse, the Southfield City Council was not satisfied with the city ordinance and has enacted an amendment to this ordinance calling for mandatory sentences against violators because the council felt the judges in the 46th District Court were not taking these matters seriously

The judges of the 46th District Court responded in writing to the council and said that its proposed ordinance amendment would, in effect, restrict judicial discretion in imposing sentence on violators of this ordinance. Consequently, the judges were against this ordinance amendment.

Some think the City of Southfield has gone too far with this amendment and the real estate profession is now striking back with promises of constitutional challenges. The Constitution of the United States, as well as the Constitution of the State of Michigan, proclaim equality for all. The First Amendment grants protection of freedom of speech to all persons, while the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution grants equal protection for all citizens, thereby prohibiting restrictions on any group or class of people.

In fact, Southfield Ordinance 9.383 ostensibly violates both the First Amendment as well as the Fourteenth Amendment by restricting only real estate salespersons from soliciting residents of Southfield who put their names on this special list. Any other person or entity may solicit Southfield

Going to court

The Realtors and various memberhin groups have coalesced to take on the City of Southfield and its restrictive ordinance banning real estate solicitations and the fight promises to be a long battle that could take years. The real estate membership groups and offices would feel differently if Southfield's ordinance had uniformity to all types of solicitation, as does the TCPA. That law, in addition to the Civil Rights laws and Fair Housing laws, already regulates the very solicitation at

Unfortunately, Southfield's ordinance has no degree of uniformity as it singles out a group of licensed professionals, and the city is banging hard to enforce this ordinance to which there is absolute impuissance by real estate sales people until a court of law deems the ordinance unconstitutional.

Perhaps the intentions of the city to spare residents from unwanted solicitation was well meant; however, as the old saying goes, "the road to hell was also paved with good intentions.

Fundraiser features former Bush labor secretary

When former Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin was growing up in Chicago, she was a Democrat.

'Mayor Daley didn't let them in," Martin said of Republicans. 'He didn't think we needed them." Martin, now on the faculty at Northwestern University, joked that she didn't even see a Republican until she was 19.

But Martin changed parties and went on to serve as an Illinois state legislator from 1977 to 1981. She went to Washington to represent the 16th Illinois District from 1981 to 1991 in Congress.

The former labor secretary in the Bush Administration, Martin, 53, was the featured guest last Tuesday at a campaign fund-raiser for Livonia native John Schall.

Schall, a former White Heatstand Staffer and Cade to Martin, now lives in Ann Arbor and is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress in the 13th District.

which includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia. The winner of the GOP primary will face U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, in November 1994.

During her speech, Martin described working the precincts in Chicago. The everyday concerns of voters — finding jobs, adequate health care and the like - are what matter.

win elections, and we're starting to get those memories back, That's what the Republican Party has to do again," the former public schoolteacher said. She joked about her Chicago aunt who voted a straight Democratic ticket last November, "even though she has been gone 10 years.'

Martin, who was 1988 Illinois Quayle presidential campaign, spoke to about 125 Schall supporters in the Burton Manor.

Earlier that day, Martin spoke in Ann Arbor, discussing the "glass ceiling" that women in management face.

During her evening appearance, which attracted a number of prominent Republicans, she encouraged those attending to think about the country's future. "The next generation of Americans, that's what elections are really supposed to be about."

In her former congressional district in the northwestern corner of "We forgot a little bit how to Illinois, "Money that goes to Chicago, that's what we call foreign That part of the country served as the site of one of the Lincoln-Douglas debates in the mid-19th century.

Abraham Lincoln's opponent was trying to reach a compromise position on the issue of slavery, and cited his belief in the U.S. Constitution and its emphasis on states' rights.

Lincoln cited the Declaration of Independence statement "that says all are created equal. A stunning moment in history," Martin said. She's still moved by the thought that someone defined that more than 100 years ago.

"The basic decency and goodness of the American people" are what matter, she said.

Cathy Soave of Livonia enjoyed Martin's speech.

Soave, a communications specialist with Benchmark Resources in Troy. "I'd like to see more of her, I'd like to hear more from her.'

Loren Bennett, Canton Town ship clerk, was also impressed. He agreed that political leaders need to be out talking to people, and that leaders should set high standards.

'Government can't do everything for everybody," Bennett said. "We should empower people to accomplish their fullest.'

Martin, who has two daughters, was introduced by former U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth Township, who is seeking the GOP nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Pursell praised Martin, with whom he served in Congress, saying "she began to go after the congressional system of perks.'

Fóllowing her 1991 appoint-"She impressed me," said ment as labor secretary, Martin made committee presentations on labor issues which impressed Pursell. Martin also had the distinction of helping George Bush, then vice president, prepare for his debate with Democrat Geraldine Ferraro during the 1984 cam-

> Republicans were concerned about Bush having to debate a woman, a first in presidential campaigns. Martin stood in for Ferraro during the practice sessions. She later went on to the Bush Cabinet "to provide some leadership for women in America," Pursell said of Martin, who serves on the board of Ameritech and other corporations.

Prof battles cancer, wins state honor

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER A few years ago Schoolcraft College employees were saddened by the thought that bio medical engineering instructor Larry Scharmen was about to die.

Scharmen had a cancerous lump in his abdomen the size of a basketball. Chemotherapy left him with virtually no hair and 60 pounds underweight, his trousers held up by nothing but suspen-

"Everybody was praying for him and hoping for him, but it didn't seem like the odds were with him," said one college administrator.

Scharmen's boss, assistant dean Fernon Feenstra said, "We never gave up on him, and he never gave up on us.

A healthy looking man of 44 years now, Scharmen still gets choked up when he contemplates the experience. The lump is still there, wrapped around a kidney, but it's small now and the cancer has been in remission two years.

Scharmen figures he owes his life to the fact that his family doctor left town to set up practice elsewhere. Scharmen had complained of stomach pain to this doctor, only to be told it was just indigestion.

The next doctor Scharmen hired recommended a CAT scan and the cancer was noticed in time to save Scharmen's life.

The experience wasn't all bad though. Scharmen had a rare opportunity to see from a patient's point of view how the bio medical equipment he specializes in works. Doctors, he said, freaked out when he demonstrated a knowledge perhaps surpassing their own of the machines he was hooked up to. "A lot of the equipment they worked on me with, I knew," he said.

Out of the classroom for four months while during treatment, Scharmen found the return to teaching to be therapeutic indeed. recognized sometime," Scharmen

Jahan Azizi, a bio medical technician at the University of Michigan Hospital, was one of Scharmen's first students at Schoolcraft in 1985, the year Scharmen arrived from an 11-year tenure at Walled Lake Schools.

'He's one of the greatest teachers I had," Azizi said. "He's good at simplifying tough material and he makes you feel worthwhile.

He's more like a role model." Plymouth resident John Wheeler recently earned his bio medical technology degree under Scharmen's tutelage and now works for the L.N. Stevens Co., repairing physical therapy equipment. Wheeler claims Scharmen as one of his favorite teachers.

'He's real energetic," Wheeler said. "And he really cares about his students.

With that in mind, it's not surprising to see that Scharmen maintains files on all his former Schoolcraft students. As the college's bio medical coordinator, Scharmen supervises an internship program that puts 12 to 22 students in hospital internships maintaining bio medical equipment every semester. "Quite a few of them get hired where they do their internships," he said, and the average starting pay is $28,000 per year. Raised in Utica, Mich., Scharmen discovered early that he possessed God-given mechanical ability. "I can remember fixing engines as early as about age 7, he said, recalling the lawn mowers he repaired.

He graduated from Oakland University with a physics degree, working his way through college by testing new equipment at Control Data in Rochester. That led to teaching the operation of the same new equipment and Scharmen had found his calling.

He began taking education ourses at OU and eventually landed at West Bloomfield High School, where he helped start that school's electronics program.

Since 1985 Scharmen has been at Schoolcraft and figures he'll be there until retirement. His 19year-old daughter, Amy, is a Schoolcraft student, although the family lives near Howell, and son Wes, 17, plans to begin college: soon. Both Scharmen offspring aim to become engineers, like their father.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Secret's out: Momma's pumpkin pie, shortbread

hope your holidays are progressing smoothly, both in and out of the kitchen. Here are some of the questions (and answers) that have been popping up this holiday season. Diana from Southfield is looking for a homemade replacement for a product called "Pan-Eze." You simply brush this mixture over bakeware for a practically non-stick effect.

"The Pillsbury Complete Book of Baking" recommends 1/4 cup shortening and 1/4 cup all-purpose flour, blended together until smooth. Keep the mixture in an airtight container in the refrigerator. It will last for 6 months. Use this mixture for recipes that call for greasing and flouring any pan. Sandy Gilbert from Rochester requested a recipe that ran a few years back for my Momma's pumpkin pie. I found this one that ran three years ago, and it's still the best pumpkin pie you'll ever sink your teeth into (just don't tell Momma I gave out the recipe);

MOMMA'S PUMPKIN PIE CRUST

1/4 cups all-purpose flour Dash salt

Pinch sugar

12 tablespoons (1½ sticks) cold butter

Sift the dry ingredients. Using a metal fork, cut in the butter in small chunks to make a crumbly dough. Add a few drops of ice water until dough begins to stick together.

Wrap dough in plastic and refrigerate for 30 minutes. Sprinkle counter with flour and roll out dough to about '8-inch thick. Place in a pre pared pie pan (Momma uses Pyrex) and pick bottom with fork tines.

For pumpkin pie, prebake crust in a 400-degree oven for 15 minutes.

PUMPKIN PIE FILLING

2 cups pumpkin puree (canned or fresh)

2 cup light brown sugar

1/2 cup dark brown sugar 1 teaspoon ginger

1 teaspoon allspice

2 teaspoons cinnamon 1 teaspoon nutmeg

Pinch salt

3 cup heavy cream

3 cup whole milk 4 eggs (at room temperature)

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Pour into prepared crust and place in a 375-degree oven for 30-35 minutes. Cool on a wire rack before cutting to avoid a soggy bottom crust. Makes 1 pie.

Nina Gregory from Canton called to request an authentic Scottish shortbread recipe. I was paging through some cookbook mail and came across this recipe from a Toronto cookbook store. It was the winner of their 1992 shortbread recipe contest. I made it, and thought I'd died and gone to heaven.

SCOTTISH SHORTBREAD

1 cup butter, room temperature

3 cup fructose (Fruit sugar available at some grocery stores and all health food stores) 1 cup cornstarch

1¼ cup all-purpose flour.

Cream butter and fructose until very light and fluffy. Sieve the cornstarch and flour together and gradually beat into creamed mixture. Knead until smooth Press this mixture into a 12-by-8-inch square pan. Smooth top and mark into shortbread "fingers." Prick with a fork. Bake at 325 degrees for 50 minutes.

If shortbread begins to brown too soon, turn oven down to 300 degrees. Recut fingers and sprinkle with fruit sugar while warm.

ool in pan Rita Judge of Livonia bought a pie on election day that I donated for my kids' school PTA fundraiser. She liked the pie so much that she requested the recipe. This Fudge Pecan Pie is sinful and loaded with calories. But it's also easy to make and great for a holiday buffet.

Make your child's sweet dreams come true this holiday season by visiting the land of the "Nutcracker." The Sugarplum Fairy reigns in this magical land of bonbons, chocolate, and cookies. Your children will love the story, and the sweets that are a part of it.

Sweet dreams - "and visions of sugarplums danced in their heads." Make your child's dreams come true this holiday season. Visit the Land of Sweets, a kingdomruled by the Sugarplum Fairy in "The Nutcracker," Tchaikovsky's classic ballet which has been delightingaudiences for over 100 years.

Denise Kwas of Livonia enjoys baking, and learned a lot about sugarplums and sweets working on the Sugarplum Reception being hosted by the Michigan Ballet Theatre Company after the matinee performance on Saturday, Dec. 11. (See related story). She even found recipes for Russian teacakes and bonbons, which are represented in the ballet.

Jewish community nourishes kosher food pantry

BY ANNE LEHMANN SPECIAL WRITER

Think of Hanukkah, and two things come immediately to mind - menorah candles and potato pan-

Although most Jews gather with friends and family to share these traditions, which this year will be celebrated from sundown Dec. 8 to sundown Dec. 16, there are 5,000 people throughout metropolitan Detroit with little to celebrate. They are unemployed, elderly, new immigrants, disabled, working poor, and people who live below the poverty line and often go hungry

For these people there is Yad Ezra, which means "helping hand" in Hebrew. The only kosher food pantry in the state, Yad Ezra has distributed hundreds of thousands of pounds of food since opening in February 1990.

According to Gary Dembs, co-founder and past president, the pantry was begun when a study revealed that nearly 3 percent of Jews needed assistance. "Our feeling was that we couldn't let even one Jewish person go hungry because kosher food wasn't available or because an individual felt uncomfortable asking for or collecting edibles. These were the people we targeted," Dembs said.

The recognition that the hunger problem affects all people has really brought the Jewish community together," said Jeannette Eizelman, Ynd Ezra's executive director.

For more information about volunteering or donating to Yad Ezra, call 548-Food.

Reform, Conservative and Orthodox synagogues have food collection bins in their lobbies and participate in the annual High Holy Days food drive. Additionally, student volunteers from area Hebrew schools do community service, while whole families and individuals young and old distribute food, stock shelves, and sort and deliver food to those unable to make it down to the pantry.

For example, Geri Rosen of Southfield, her husband Hal and their 14-year-old son Jacob spend several hours each Sunday working at Yad Ezra. They

'Children learn by example. We weren't going to just drop him off and leave," Rosen said. "So here we are two years later, feeling very gratified about being able to help out.

Nutritious staples such as beans, rice, peanut butter, flour and sugar line the shelves of the warehouse in Oak Park. Donations add diversity to the basic list, so that there are different things available at various

This includes specialty items provided for the Jewish holidays. For example, last year during Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, apples and honey were available. Last year, Hanukkah candles were distributed along with the year-round staples of potato latkes and applesauce. "Maybe this year we'll be lucky and someone will donate sour cream," said Eizelman.

Yad Ezra works closely with the Food Bank of Oakland County. According to Eizelman, if unkosher food is offered to them, it is taken to the Oakland County. Food Bank. "We never refuse an ofkosher food is offered to them, it is taken to the Oakland County Food Bank. "We never refuse an offer." said Eizelman.

> The favor is returned when there is a surplus of kosher items. "There is an incredible cooperative spirit among hunger activists throughout the community," Eizelman said.

The annual food drive this year gleaned close to 30,000 pounds of food, but Yad Ezra also has been creative in developing alternatives for fund-raising.

For example, in the past year many families celebrating their Bar and Bat Mitzvahs opted to decorate their tables with festive food baskets in lieu of expensiveflowers. These reusuable centerpieces serve adual purpose-they look beautiful and help those in need.

In addition to providing food Yad Ezra offers referral rvices for those individuals with additional needs.

Creamy dessert has place in history

the ultimate milchig (dairy) dessert, can be traced to Hanukkah celebrations during medieval According to Joan Nathan, a Jewish cooking expert and the author of "The Jewish Holiday Kitchen," during the Middle Ages it became customary to eat cheesecake in memory of the widow Judith. Legend has it that Middle served the Assyrian general Holofernes cheesecakes and wine which he feasted on so heavily that he fell asleep. Judith beheaded him and saved the Jews from death.

"Of course, those cheesecakes were nothing like the ones we know today," said Nathan. Her research shows Judith's versions were probably rather lumpy and tasted more like savory cheese pancakes because they were made from the curd of soured cream that was hung from a bag and allowed to drain. "The cheesecake's taste and historical significance, however, grew over the years, sald Nathan. "The Jews carried cheesecake recipes to all the places of their wanderings.

Today, some Jewish families honor Judith by serving cheese latkes (pancakes) during Hanukkah while others prefer rugelach (a cream cheese cookie). Another optfon is a more traditional baked cheesecake. Though not made with traditional ingredients, Light Pumpkin Praline Cheesecake is both deliciously indulgent and in keeping with our more health-conscious diets thanks to lower-fat dairy products and a wholesome wheat germ crust.

Whereas the classic graham cracker crust relies on butter for its flavor and crunchy texture, this wheat germ crust uses just a small amount of melted margarine in combination with an egg white and brown sugar.

Low-fat cottage cheese and egg substitute replace the traditional cream cheese and whole eggs to reduce the amount of fat and cholesterol in the filling. To duplicate the smooth, creamy texture inherent in higher fat cheeses, the cottage cheese is pureed in a blender or food processor. The remaining filling ingredients are added in two parts, and the mixture is blended again.

To allow time for the flavors to fully develop, bake the cheesecake early in the day, or even the night before, cover and refrigerate. The garnish — pecan halves and a drizzle of lite maple-flavored syrup — is as elegant as it is easy.

LIGHT PUMPKIN PRALINE CHEESECAKE

Crust

11/2 cups wheat germ

CUP femily parties that sugar 3 tablespoons margarine, melted 1 egg white, slightly beaten

Filling One 16-ounce carton (2 cups)

1 percent low-fat cottage cheese

1/2 cup canned pumpkin 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar

1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon Dash of ground cloves Dash of ground nutmeg 1/2 cup egg substitute or 4 egg whites, slightly beaten

20 pecan halves (optional) 2 tablespoons lite maple-fla vored syrup spray 9-inch pie plate with no-stick cooking spray or grease lightly. For crust, combine wheat germ and brown sugar. Add margarine and egg white; mix well. Press mixture onto bottom and sides of prepared pie plate. Bake 8 minutes; remove from oven.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly

For filling, place cottage cheese in blender container or food processor; cover. Blend until smooth. Add pumpkin, brown sugar, vanilla and spices; blend well. Add egg substitute; blend just until all ingredients are combined. Pour into crust. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until center is almost set. Cool completely. Refrigerate 3 hours or overnight.

Just before serving, arrange pecans on top of cheesecake; drizzle with syrup. 10 SERVINGS

TAKING THE LOW-DOSE ROAD

Many people have latched on to niacin supplements as a means of lowering their blood cholesterol levels. Studies show that people who took an average 1,300 milligrams of slow-release niacin daily were able to raise their levels of high-density lipoprotein. (HDL. the "good" cholesterol) by 18 percent. At the same time, their fow-density lipoprotein (LDL the "bad" cholesterol) levels decreased by 13 percent, and total cholesterol decreased by nine percent. Many other studies have touted the use of megadoses (more than 2,000 mg.) of niacin to achieve beneficial effects. However, as these higher doses are more likely to cause negative side. Many people have latched on to more likely to cause negative sideeffects, we would say "why use megadoses when the 1,300 mg, dose worked so well in the studies?"

Smart 'cookies' follow simple advice

AP - Baking cookies for your family is worth the extra effort, but when you're doing it on a busy schedule, you want guaranteed success. That's why it pays to know how to prevent the most common cookie baking problems.

Problem: Cookies are tough

Solution: This can happen when the butter or margarine or shortening isn't adequately mixed into the sugar. To be sure, beat them with an electric mixer onmedium speed about 30 seconds to soften it, before adding the sugar. Using high speed may sling the butter out of the bowl. Low speed isn't powerful enough to cream the butter or margarine as much as necessary. For really stiff batters, you may have to use a sturdy, free-standing electric mixer, rather than a hand-held mixer, to get the batter thoroughly tain too much flour, perhaps because the flour has not been measured properly. You'll have better luck if you use graduated measuring cups (plastic or metal) for measuring dry ingredients. Spoon flour into a dry measuring cup; and level it with the straight edge of a knife or spatula. Another way to avoid dry cookies is to check the cookies a few minutes before. the end of the baking time so they do not overbake. Problem: Cookies spread into each other during baking.

Solution: Spreading occurs when the cookies are too large, or are not spaced far enough apart on the baking sheet. It is also possible that the dough is too thin, either from using too little flour or too much liquid. Another factor that can cause spreading is cookie sheets that are too generously greased or that are hot from the

Problem: Cookies have an une ven color Solution: Good air circulation in your oven aids even baking and even color. When you arrange the cookie sheets in your oven, allow 1 to 2 inches between the sheet and the oven walls and door. And, if your oven is small, don't put one sheet directly over another, as that also results in poor air circu-

Problem: Cookies are too.

Solution: If only the bottoms are too brown, chances are the baking sheet was too close to the bottom of the oven or the cookie sheet was too dark or dull. When you're shopping for a cookie sheet, look for a shiny, heavy gauge aluminum sheet with very low sides or no sides at all. Avoid dark cookie sheets because they absorb heat and may cause overbrowning on the bottoms. If the cookies are too brown all over, either the oven is too hot, the cookies are smaller than the recipe specifies or the baking sheet was touching the sides of the oven.

Problem: Cookies stick to the baking sheet.

Solution: Sticking can happen when the baking sheet is not sufficiently greased or when certain high-sugar ingredients, such as candies or raisins, burn on the sheets. You can prevent sticking by removing the cookies from the baking sheet almost immediately Non-stick cookie sheets can also help, although they can affect the cookie texture. The baked results are a little thicker, with very smooth bottoms. If you're using insulated baking sheets, expect cookies to be paler in color with a soft-set centers and thin edges.

Let's wrap it up and do it right

s you ponder your gift list this holiday season, don't forget to give some thought to the wrapping. Your presentation could be a present unto itself with a little imagination and a hit of ingenuity. You'll find that the pleasure of a beautifully wrapped gift is in the giving as well as in the receiving.

For simple yet distinctive wraps, embellishplain brown craft paper with a combination of jute and wired gold or red tibbon. To personalize, dip a pencil eraser in black paint and dot the package and the ribbon. Or cut a star-shape into the eraser and paint a golden celestial look onto your wrap. With very little investment in time or money, you've created a clever gift wran that will stand out under anyone's tree.

If you need a little more inspiration for eyecatching wraps, look no farther than the window of Barbara's Paper Bag, 147 Pierce in Birming Venture inside to choose from the shelves of specialty ribbons, including wired metallics, gold. rope, velvets, plaids, satins and printed Christmas designs. Of special note is the elastic zed wired mbbos. In red in gold that can be shaped to your heart's desire.

Barbara's has all manner of gift bags, and a size to hold the largest stuffed bear or the timest jewel ry hox. I especially like the stocking-shaped bags decorated with scenes from Winnie the Pooh or The Nutcracker or sprinkled with snowflakes (large stockings, $3.25; small, $2.25). Mickey friends brighten assorted-shaped bags, and tissue paper is printed to match. Angels and Santas and peppermint sticks adorn stillmore bags. Fill with red, green and gold tinsel for a fun and festive look. Or opt for the traditional red plaid or Barbara's signature red-and-white-stripe paper with green satin ribbon (This wrap is complimentary with purchase) Luminaria are often difficult to find and Barbara's offers green or red Christmas tree-design bags (65 cents). Also found, a great selection of wine bottle bags (good for ties, as well as libations) and heart or star-shaped gift boxes covered in decorative paper. New this year are recycled urinted with holiday desi They look great filled with solid color or plaid tis-

Once you've picked your paper or your bag, add a decorative touch with a holiday sticker - maybe a wreath or a silver bell, a snowflake or a Christ-

If, by chance, you can't seem to find exactly what you want, Barbara's can special order personalized ribbons printed with a name or message ($22.80 for 100 feet) and custom bags in a variety of sizes and colors. Allow 10 days for your order.

At Twelve Oaks Mall, shop Scarlet Letters for artistic papers by Marcel Schurman ($2 per sheet) and enchanting gift bags by Mary Engelbreit, Gordon Fraser and Claire Bannister.

Most of the large specialty stores offer free gift boxés. Neiman Marcus tucks your purchase inside an elegant gold box with a red top; Jacobson's customers receive a shiny silver box. Simply add a gorgeous iridescent ribbon from the new Lec's Specialty in the Somerset Collection. The chôides are endless.

That's a wrap!

SC steals a win

f only it was like this every game . Midway through the second half, School-craft College was trailing. But Ocelots' coach Dave Bogataj could sense a pattern evolving one his team just might be able to take advantage

"We fell behind by nine in the first couple of minutes in the second half, then we cut it to four," Bogataj said: "I turned to my assistant coach, Mitch (Fyke), and to Kim (Kotlewski, the trainer), and said, 'If we can keep it close and play two minutes of defense, we can steal one.

That turned out to be the script. SC overcame a nine-point deficit in the last two minutes to shock host Glen Oaks CC 96-95 Tuesday.

There were plenty of heroes for SC, which evened its record at 3-3. At the forefront was Todd McNeil, the 6-foot-7 sophomore center who burned Glen Oaks for 38 points on 15-of-22 shooting - including the biggest basket of the game, the go-ahead score with four seconds left.

But McNeil would never have been in that position if not for Steve Whitlow. With the deficit at nine and just two minutes left, Whitlow drained a three-pointer from 22 feet as the shot clock ran out. Glen Oaks, which was hardly shy putting up shots, missed and the Ocelots responded quickly, with Whitlow again hitting from three-point

The nine-point cushion had shrunk to three, with 1:40 left.

SC went to a press and Abu Hamilton got the steal. Fouled driving to the basket, he converted both free throws and with 52 seconds to go the difference was just one point.

More pressure on defense resulted in an SC foul, but Glen Oaks could not convert either free throw. The Ocelots missed on their possession, with Glen Oaks retrieving the rebound - and running the ball. An unnecessary driving layup proved disastrous when McNeil held his ground, blocked the shot, snatched the loose ball, then called timeout.

Figuring Glen Oaks would expect Whitlow to take the final shot, Bogataj had him inbound the ball to Hamilton, who sped past the startled Glen Oaks defenders before dishing off to McNeil for the game-winner.

McNeil also led SC in rebounding with 12. Whitlow contributed 24 points, nine boards and four assists, and Hamilton had 21 points and five assists. Schawn Brown paced the Ocelots with six assists and combined with Melton Stoudemire, Ricky Mitchell and Mark Cady to help them handle Glen Oaks' press.

Donnie Hackworth netted 32 points for Glen Oaks (2-2). Kyle Hamlin had 19 and Scott Hall 16.

John Glenn can't stall Tractors

■ Westland John Glenn, making its first appearance ever in the state football finals, came up just short in the Class AA title game against Dearborn Fordson, 12-7.

By BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

It was a sad ending to a glorious football season Saturday for Westland John Glenn at the Pontiac Silverdome. With an offensive line averaging 264 pounds per man, Dearborn Fordson, aptly nicknamed the Tractors, captured the state Class AA championship, bulldozing to a 12-7 victory over the Rockets.

It was Fordson's first state title in four trips to the championship final.

The Tractors, who lost their season opener in overtime to Detroit De-Porres, finished the season with 12 straight wins.

Glenn bowed out with an 11-2 record, losing only to a pair of state champions, Class A winner Farmington Hills Harrison and Fordson.

Freshman tailback Kamal Jaafar. substituting in the second half for the injured Ali Saad, scored the gamewinning touchdown on a 1-yard run with only 3:08 remaining. The drive, covering 72 yards in 12 plays, consumed 7:08 of the clock.

The number four kept coming up all week in practice," Fordson coach Jeff Stergalas said. "The kids reminded me it was our fourth playoff game, my fourth year as head coach and our fourth trip here.

And now today we come back in the fourth quarter. Even when it was crunch time, our kids just kept saying, 'Don't worry coach, we're going to come back.'

Using a hurry-up offense, Glenn made one desperate, last-ditch effort during the final three minutes of ac-Quarterback Brian Morrison, who was 10 of 20 on the day for 137 yards and one TD, hit Jeromey Cosby out of the backfield for 16 yards and Bryan Besco for 28 more to move the team down to the Fordson 38.

Rally falls short

The drive stalled as Fordson's defense stiffened after Morrison failed to connect on three of four passing

"It was an outstanding game, but of course I wish it had turned out differently," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. "We really had an unbelievably tough road to even get here. We had to go through a pay-to-play thing ($167 per student, per sport), and we didn't even know if we'd have it until August 2nd when our school board

'For these guys to get to this point, continue to work and train hard under the adverse circumstances, is credit to this group. It's just a great bunch of kids who play hard and are great to coach. It's a special team. It's a group I'll really miss.

It was a defensive struggle all the Michael Saad took it in from 5 yards out with 3:53 left in the third quarter, but Salame's extra-point attempt was blocked by Glenn's Dave Irwin as the Rockets clung to a 7-6 advantage.

"We had talked about coming out for the second half and mounting a touchdown drive," Gordon said. "Looking back, I can't really point to that as a turning point because we

Fordson defense holds

Early in the fourth quarter, Glenn took the ball all the way down to the Fordson 28, but were denied on fourth-and-8 as Morrison's pass, intended for Derek Besco, was broken

Fordson began its game-winning drive with 10:16 to play.

The Tractors made three quick first downs, but got a break when the Rockets were penalized 15 yards for pass interference. On the play, Ali Barakat's pass was fired well past the intended receiver.

Two plays later, Barakat fumbled at the Rockets' 12 after gaining eight yards on a quarterback draw but was able to fall on the ball to keep the drive alive. Jaafar scored three plays later to put Fordson ahead for good.

You know when that big offensive line comes off the ball that they mean business," Gordon said: "We needed a big play in there, a fumble recovery or something, but nothing bounced our way today.

"Looking back, we gave them too much yardage on first down. That's the most important down because ond and third.'

Big clumps of yards

With Fordson churning out big chunks on the ground, Glenn's secondary found itself tackling more than covering.

It was a physical game and I gues we didn't play as physical as they did," said Irwin, a 5-foot-8, 150pound senior.

"They were pretty big," senior Jake Henry said of Fordson. "They just cleared the way, ou could see it coming, even though they were quick and used good fakes, but it was tough to get to with those blockers in your

Westland John Glenn senior defensive back Dave Irwin got his helmet on the football, but he couldn't get his hands on it.

With Glenn leading 7-6 midway through the fourth quarter of Saturday's Class AA state championship at the Pontiac Silverdome, Irwin caused Dearborn Fordson quarterback Ali Barakat to fumble at the Rockets' 12vard line.

But Barakat recovered his own fumble after gaining eight yards on a quarterback draw and three plays later, freshman tailback Kamal Janfar scored from 2 yards out to cap a 78yard drive and give Fordson its first state championship, 12-7.

"I stuck my helmet in on the ball and it popped loose," said Irwin, who blocked an extra point attempt after Fordson's first score in the third quarter, "When I looked at the pileup, I saw (teammate) Jake Henry on the bottom and I thought he had the ball but then I heard the referee say 'Blue ball.'

Barakat, who also directed a 12play, 72-yard scoring drive in the third quarter, said he just happened to be in the right place at the right time. The Tractors also got help earlier in the winning drive when Glenn was penalized for pass interference on an overthrown pass on second-down and nine from the Rockets' 38.

The guy (Irwin) hit the ball with his helmet, it bounced, then came right back," Barakat said. "I went after it and wasn't going to let go. The refs said, 'Blue's got it,' and the other team was saying, 'We got it.' "
Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said

the significance of the pass interference penalty was "huge Jaafar finished with 10 carries for 92 yards, gaining 23 yards on five attempts during the winning drive. The Tractors needed a strong effort from Jasfar in the second half with starting tailback Ali Saad on crutches after hurting his knee in the first half.

"I told the freshman he's got to pick it up - and he did," Fordson coach Jeff Stergalas said.

The 19 points were the fewest scored in a Class AA final game and that's just the way Fordson likes it Glenn quarterback Brian Morrison completed a Class AA championship game record 10 passes in 20 attempts for 137 yards and led the Rockets to Fordson's 28 early in the fourth quarter, but a fourth-down pass intended for Derek Besco inside the 10 was knocked down.

Glenn also reached Fordson's 38 in the last minute after a 28-yard pass to Bryan Besco but four straight incompletions ended the Rockets' hopes of a first state title.

'We like to put the game in our defense's hands," Stergalas said.

Fordson gained 205 of its 225 total yards on the ground. Glenn tailback Tariq Horne finished with 101 yards on 19 carries but had only 32 yards on 10 carries in the second half.

The Rockets had 92 yards on 24

Harrison wins Class A crown By Dan O Meara Staff Writer Williams scored the Harrison touchdown on a 1-yard run.

Farmington Hills Harrison is considered a small football team. but the Hawks always have an edge with 230-pound junior Nick Williams in their backfield.

The Hawks (11-2), led by one record setting effort and a nearagain Friday II. the Class A cham plonship game.

Williams rushed for 168 yards on 28 carries to lead Harrison to its sixth state title and fourth in six years with a 12-9 victory over Midland in the Silverdome.

"Anybody who's human would ay he'd like to have the record." Williams said. "But I'm happy with what I got. We have plenty of great players, and all of us have had our day. I'm just very proud to be a state champion.

Despite its lack of size, Harrison relied on a power attack with Williams at tailback during the playoffs, and the Hawks used that approach again to defeat Midland

Harrison cutgained Midland 170-101 on the ground and 230-153 overall. Pesci completed five of 14 passes for 60 yards and Wallace five of 17 for 52.

The Hawks started well and took charge early with their power attack, but they were their worst enemy at times and probably should have had more than a 3-2 halftime lead.

The Chemics controlled the ball for the first 8:18 of the period and went 78 yards in 16 plays to take a 9-3 lead on Brent Wallace's 16-yard pass to Dave Twomley.

Harrison responded with a 70vard drive on its next possession to regain the lead (10-9) after Gove kicked the extra point. Williams dashed 46 yards to the Midland 14, leading to the TD with 10 seconds left in the third.

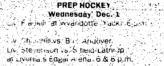

"I thought 'OK, we've got plenty of time, let's keep our composure (after the Midland score), Harrison coach John Herrington said. "I stopped my impulses to throw deep and get it back right away - 'just do what we've been doing well' — and Nick popped one outside."

The Hawks faced another crucial test when Midland's Joe Danna downed Chris Stanton's punt at the Harrison 1 yard line with 8:58 remaining.

With Williams running the ball, the Hawks used six minutes of the clock and drove to the Mid land 41. On third-and-seven at the Harrison 15, Joe Pesci passed 13 yards to Kevin Bryant, who made an acrobatic catch for the first down.

The Hawks punted from the Midland 41 and let the defense do its part. A penalty and a Tim Bares sack for a 12-yard loss pushed the Chemics back to their Stanton ran out of the end zone, giving up a safety and accounting for the 12-9 score instead of punting from there.
