Mayor wins pension veto battle

Council members, who didn't have the votes to override a mayoral veto on planned pension increases, were critical of media coverage of the dispute.

The Westland city council backed off trying to override a mayoral veto Tuesday after hearing from people who were upset with planned increases in pension benefits for retired police officers and firefighters.

In a surprise move, councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli announced at the special meeting that she will not vote to override Mayor Robert Thomas' Nov. 18 veto. The councilwoman said she was contacted by more than 100 people who were opposed to the planned increases, approved by the council on a 4-2 vote Nov. 15. Under the city charter, at least five council votes are needed to override a mayo-

Cicirelli's change of position may have been academic because of a potential conflict of interest which may have prevented councilwoman Sharon Scott from voting on the override, She abstained at the Nov. 15 council meeting because her huband, Ted, a retired Westland fire chief, would have benefited from the pension in-

Tuesday night, Scott said she would also have abstained from voting on the veto override.

City attorney Angelo Plakas sent the mayor a legal opinion dated Monday questioning if Scott would be able to vote on the override.

Several council members criticized what they felt was one-sided media coverage of the dispute and urged that the city quickly start looking at the larger issue of pension benefits and how they are funded.

There were about 15 to 20 retirees in the audience along with other residents who spoke up to urge the council to reject the pension increases.

Police to man station at shopping mall

Westland's police department wants to remain proactive in deterring crime this holiday season.

That's why it opened a new police mini-station last week in the lower level of Westland Center.

This is the seventh year that the city police have been assigned to details at the center, but the first year that center management has provided space for a formal mini-station.

The award is given to the students with the highest GPA for the previous semester.

Woman sentenced to life for murdering boyfriend

A Westland woman was sentenced Tuesday to life in prison for fatally stabbing her boyfriend and setting his bed on fire to cover up the crime.

Kylleen Hargrave Thomas's sentencing came 25 days after Detroit Recorder's Judge Wendy Baxter found the defendant guilty of first-degree murder and arson in the Oct. 11, 1991, death of Manuel 'Joe" Bernal, 42

The outcome of Hargrave-Thomas's case is expected to be appealed.

The defendant stabbed Bernal two times in the heart while he was sleeping in a second-story bedroom of his colonial home at 625 Lansdowne in Westland, and then she set his bed afire to cover up the crime, the judge ruled.

Even before Tuesday's sentencing, Hargrave-Thomas knew she faced life in prison without parole for Bernal's death. That term is mandatory for a first-degree murder conviction in Michigan. Bernal's mother, Helen, has told the Observer that she believes "justice was done." Families of the victim and defendant attended the trial.

Hargrave-Thomas had been free on bond but was placed in custody after she was convicted on Nov. 5.

Assistant Wayne County prosecutor Michael Reynolds portrayed Hargrave-Thomas as a jilted girl-friend who was angry that Bernal had ended their relationship — at his mother's advice.

With his face and body charred by fire, Bernal was found dead in his bed about 7:20 a.m. when a neighbor saw fire in an upstairs window of Bernal's residence and phoned for help. Firefighters found the body when they arrived on the scene.

Hargrave-Thomas had maintained her innocence all along, and her family members have stood by her. Shortly after the Nov. 5 guilty verdict, the defendant's father indicated to reporters that his daughter was innocent and that a murderer was still loose. But Judge Baxter ruled otherwise, pointing to testimony of witnesses that indicated Hargrave-Thomas was seen driving toward Bernal's house on the morning he was found dead.

Bernal was killed by someone who came through his garage, Reynolds said, and the only person Bernal had given a garage-door opener was the defend-

Police said Hargrave-Thomas also made remarks about Bernal being murdered, even before she had been told whether Bernal died naturally or at the

An Inkster man who stabbed a Westland man six times - claiming he was fending off a rape attack - has been sentenced to spend 20 to 30 years in prison.

Tuesday's sentencing of Christopher Young, 39, came seven months after he fatally stabbed Jeff Dansby, 41, in the bedroom of Dansby's residence in the Blue Garden Apartments on Cherry Hill, between Venoy and Merri-

Young, convicted of second-degree murder by a jury, was sentenced by Judge Prentis Edwards, who presided over the murder trial that ended Nov. 17 in Detroit Recorder's Court.

Young is expected to appeal the verdict.

Dansby was killed during the early morning hours of March 20. Young murdered Dansby, former head cook at Garden City's In announcing its verdict, the jury sent a strong message that it didn't believe Young's claim that he was only acting in self-defense.

Speakeasy Lounge on Ford west of Merriman, after the two men smoked crack cocaine and drank whiskey in Dansby's apartment, the jury concluded.

In announcing its verdict, the jury sent a strong message that it didn't believe Young's claim that he was only acting in self-defense. Young said he was forced at knifepoint to perform oral sex on Dansby, and that Dansby then was going to rape him.

Young has contended that Dansby set down the knife and started to rape him. Young said he then picked up the knife and stabbed Dansby, who was stabbed three times in the heart and three times in the back.

Assistant Wayne County prosecutor Jane Crammer questioned why Young never phoned Westland police to report the incident, if he was only acting in self-defense. Instead, she pointed out, Young killed Dansby and then robbed him of his wallet, his 1979 Chevrolet Caprice, a television, stereo and a videocassette recor-

Young sold the items to get money to buy crack cocaine, Crammer said. Young made a statement to police that led them to Dansby's car, which had been sold for $75 to a River Rouge junkyard.

In his appeal, Young is expected to try to get his statement thrown out as evidence. He had tried - unsuccessfully - a similar move in the trial that just con-

Three men have been charged with robbing a Livonia couple at gunpoint Sunday evening outside the Best Buy store in Westland, on Cowan west of Wayne Road.

Three men escaped with $23, but Livenia police captured three suspects a short time later, when a car matching the description of the getaway vehicle was stopped on the Jeffries Freeway, Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

The robbery occurred at 6:45 p.m. Sunday, when the Livonia man and woman got out of their car and were approached by three males - one carrying a handgun — in the Best Buy parking lot, Stobbe said.

The three robbed the man of $23, but the woman escaped by running across the parking lot as one of the robbers chased her, failing to catch up with her, Stobbe said. The men fled in a 1991 Mustang.

Westland police notified nearby departments, and Livonia police arrested three suspects a short time later after stopping a car on the Jeffries Freeway, Stobbe said.

Charged with armed robbery are Victor Deihl, 25, and Ricardo Donald, 23, both of Inkster; and Emmett Wilder, 21, of Dearborn Heights. Deihl, accused of carrying the firearms charge. Not guilty pleas were entered on the charges. The defendants were arraigned on the charges Monday before 18th District Judge Gail McKnight, and a $15,000 cash

All of the suspects could face a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted of armed robbery. Deihl would face a mandatory two-year prison term if convicted on the felony firearms charge.

Center safety: Carol Rutz (at the rostrum), Westland Center's general manager, talks to a group of law enforcement officials at last week's announcement of a new program aimed at improving safety for mall shoppers.

Terry was unable to provide previous crime statistics but stressed that serious crimes, such as a murder or abduction, have never been committed in the mall.

"It's difficult to measure crime that does not occur," Terry said of the crime-prevention approach.

Some criminals will be deterred by the sight of a police officer, Terry said.

Mall security personnel will also continue in their positions. Some 50,000 cars come to the mall on holiday weekends, according to Carol Rutz, a mall marketing representative. There are 80 stores in Westland Mall.

Terry noted that the city of Southfield operates a permanent year-round mini-station at Northland Mall.

A recent published survey based on shoppers' perceptions had Westland Center ranked as the fourth safest mall in the Detroit region, Rutz said.

Even if funds were available, it does not seem appropriate to now fund the elementary instrumental music program in isolation of other programs and services which have been cut from the budget," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli..."It appears we are once again going to have to prioritize our programs and services for the 1994-95 school year and make further cuts after the state completes its school finance reform and determines the resources that would be available to Livonia Public Schools.

Additional resources would robably not be available in the 1994-95 school year to resurrect the program to its funding level in the 1991-92 school year when at its prime, Marinelli said

But some board members proposed taking the $158,000 fund equity and stretching it to buy back as much of the instrumental music progam as possible.

"Elementary principals had some kind of dislike for the program because of the many class interruptions," said trustee Joseph Laura.

Added trustee Kenneth Tim-ions, "The pecking order of priorities is not etched in stone.

Jon Holtfreter, a band and or chestra director at Emerson Middle School, and Mary Anne Duluk, a Livonia parent with children involved in middle and high school bands, have both presented proposals to restore the program. The proposals were briefly discussed at the meeting.

However, detailed analyses were presented in the board's information.

We need to decide that it's a priority and take the decision away from finance entirely," Clulow said. "Every student should have exposure. I don't care if they can only play Mary Had a Little Lamb."

One was a woman who said her retirement income is only $10,000 far less than most of the police-fire retirees earn.

"I don't live — I exist," she told the council.

Larger issue cited .

On the larger issue of how pensions are to be funded, council president Charles Pickering urged people to look at the big picture and look at the entire pension program and its funding.

City finance director Michael Gorman told the council that the city pays more than $2 million a year for all city retirees' pension and levies about 2 mills ($2 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) to fund it.

Pickering also challenged the media to look at the larger pension program which would be reviewed before the next city budget

What prompted residents' complaints is the administration's disclosure that most of the two departments' retirees receive more than $20,000 a year - with two getting more than $40,000.

One of those, former police chief Michael Frayer, contacted councilman Thomas Brown who said Tuesday night that Frayer didn't ask for the proposed increase and had no discussion with anyone on the issue.

According to Brown, the former chief said there's a need to address the pension program, and if Fraver received any increase he would re-direct it.

Cicirelli defended her earlier vote on the pension improvements, saying that it's not accurate to say that the council vote this month opened a Pandora's

That box was really opened in 1988 by another city council, she Foes respond

The councilwoman added that state law allows communities to make changes in retirement bene-

Some residents even came to her local law office without appointments to comment on the planned increases, Cicirelli said.

In providing the background of the dispute, she said that the is-sue came up last year and was discussed by Brown and Mehl. Then a council study committee was formed with Cicirelli joining them, she said. It was that recommendation that was approved by the council Nov. 15 which triggered the dispute.

Echoing some of her comments was councilman Kenneth Mehl, who said the council is being criticized for something that started

In knocking the one-side media coverage, Mehl said that the recent dispute brought to a head something that's being going on for years.

He said he hopes the same me dia coverage of the pension dispute is the same when the next employees' union contracts are approved. (All unions have their contracts expire the end of this month, said personnel director Kent Herbert.)

Mehl also questioned why the pension benefits of city directors weren't publicized. "The issue must be resolved in a fair manner," he said. According to a report to the administration from the city's actuarial firm, the fire and police retirees are paid $1.66 million a year with the actual first-year increase to be $51,701.

Mayor Thomas, who was out of town because of a previouslyplanned vacation, sent a letter to the council which reiterated his position that it's unfair for one group of retirees to get an improvement in benefits.

Angela Hospice open house will showcase new facility

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER

Sister Mary Giovanni Monge helps terminally ill patients participate in their last joys of life.

Now Monge, founder and president of Angela Hospice Home Care Inc., is celebrating the opening of a new facility at 14100 Newburgh. The center's previous location was 36995 Five Mile Road.

"It's the first-of-its-kind in Michigan, a free-standing facility built specifically for hospice patients," Monge said.

The new center was officially dedicated on Nov. 21. A public open house is scheduled for 1-3 p.m. Sunday.

"Within a day or even an hour's worth of care, the patient and caregiver may go through a lifetime of emotions," Monge said. "For the patient, it may be the joy. of simply knowing the love of family or the feeling of a gentle caress as they drift asleep. For the family or caregiver, it may be the joy of a late night conversation with the loved one about memories long forgotten or a simple squeeze of the hand to ensure them that the care they are providing is sweetly embraced.

Hospice care also affords this tenderness to people with no one to care for them and nowhere to go. Inpatient care, respite care and pain management are provid-nar given by Dr. Cicely Saunders, founder of the hospice movement in England, Monge realized that southeast Michigan was lacking in services to care for the terminally ill without taxing monetary resources and insurance. After 11 years of research and participation, Monge founded Angela Hospice Home Care Inc. in 1985, under the sponsorship of the Felician Sisters of the Presentation Province

The number of patients grew from 20 in 1986 to 158 in 1992. This year more than 200 patients and families have received Angela Hospice Care, said Tracy Schroen, hospice director of public relations.

Some 850 people have been served. Some 50-60 patients are served daily in their homes now.

The facility will begin accepting in-house patients after Jan. 1.

Monge was born Patricia Ann Monge in 1944, She was the third of 12 children - four girls and eight boys.

Her parents live in St. Damian's parish, Westland. She attended all eight years of elementary school at St. Michael Catholic School in Livonia. She attended high school at the Felician Academy in Detroit.

By the eighth grade, Monge chose a religious career. She was especially buoyed when she léarned she could be both a nurse and a nun at the same time.

"I felt like I was in heaven," Monge said.

She entered the postulancy June 13, 1963, 10 days after her namesake, Pope John XXIII died. She made her final vows on Aug.

Most of her 25 years in religious life were spent at the Mother-house in Livonia, working as nurse's aide and director of nursing in the infirmary.

Monge earned her associate's degree in nursing from Schoolcraft College in 1974, bachelor of arts in gerontology from Madonna College in 1977, bachelor of nursing in 1981 and master of science in administration in 1985 from Madonna College.

For five years, she was a member of the nursing faculty at what is now Madonna University, a member of St. Mary's Hospital nursing staff for one year and she taught hospice education for two

Q. Why do renters receive a $40 million income tax break under this plan?

A. House Taxation Committee co-chair Willis Bullard Jr., R-Milford, replied:

Nobody believes landlords will reduce rent when their property taxes are cut. Under the homestead credit portion of the income tax, 17 percent of rent is deemed to be the renters' share of property tax.

The cut is designed to give renters a break and is expected to induce renters to support whatever constitutional amendment might be placed on the ballot.

At this writing, the bill containing the renter benefit had not been drafted. Q. Is the homestead credit left intact?

A. Yes, but it will be reduced because property taxes will be reduced. Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, said the cost of rebates to the state will plummet from the current $800 million to $80 mil-

The homestead credit - alias the "circuit breaker" - is a state income tax rebate you get when your homestead property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of income. For senior citizens, the rebate is 100 percent of the excess; for others, 60 percent.

Q. Will pensions of retired governmental workers be taxed?

A. Not under this proposal, said Bullard. Engler's proposal would have required a tax after Jan. 1, 1994, but "we can't get it out of committee. Democrats won't give it a single vote."

He added: "My pension, the governor's pension and teachers' pensions are not taxed. It's not

Q. Under the House team proposal, districts that spend

$5,000 to $6,500 would get a 3-percent increase in the 1994-95 school year. Three percent of what - of spending or revenue? Around here (Livingston County), many districts dipped into their fund balances (bank accounts) to balance their budgets this year. So their spending is higher than their revenue

A Bullard says there has been a lot of argument on this point, but so far the prevailing view is that it should be a percentage of revenue.

Teacher health care debated in Lansing

By TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Backers of the Michigan Education Association say its health insurance operation is superior to commercial insurers'.

Battleground is a state Senate panel considering bills requiring school districts to buy health insurance on the basis of competitive bids. The bills, by Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, are aimed at breaking up the alleged monopoly of MESSA (Michigan Education Special Services Association).

"Commercial carriers would skim the good risks and leave us the bad risks," said Dale Robertson, a lobbyist for Blue Cross and Blue Shield, which is allied with MEA against the bills.

Our competitors compete by avoiding risks. They cherry pick. But this puts us (MESSA and Blues) at a competitive disadvantage because we cover a lot of. groups. It's spread across geogra-veal their loss experience, includ ing claims exceeding $5,000.

MESSA refuses to release its loss experience by school district, as Robertson said, because it calculates on the basis of broad geographic regions, not bargaining units, and covers everyone.

As Blues vice president Paul Austin explained: "In health care, if you can eliminate 3 percent of the high risks, you can lower the cost (premium) by 50 percent. We don't differentiate between good and bad risks MESSA doesn't experience rate (individual districts). It spreads the risk over a larger pool.

"We don't vary rates by age and gender. We take all comers," added Blues vice president Bob Kasperek.

'7 weaklings'

DiNello, the former Democrat who now battles with organized labor, said many elected school boards are composed of "seven weaklings who don't have the guts to stand up to the MEA."

Kevin Harty, a Lansing attorney for school boards, said "not MEA units have struck over the MESSA, but there have been teacher "slowdowns" during bargaining in support of MESSA. Harty said MEA has been unable to motivate its members with any other issue as much as MESSA.

Asked by Welborn if school boards had raised "slowdowns" as an unfair labor practice by the union, Harty said, "Most of our clients don't want to spend the money chasing down something for which there's no remedy."

Asked if he ever had seen a contract between the Blues and MESSA, Harty said no because

'they said it's a trade secret."

Supporting the bills, Tom White, lobbyist for the Michigan Association of School Boards, said requiring MESSA and the Blues to reveal loss experience would "level the playing field" between them and commercial in

14 area state legislators took MEA PAC dollars

Mackinac Center, a politically conservative group attacking the Michigan Education Association, provided a list of area lawmakers who received cam paign contributions from MEA

Of 19 senators, 10 were Republicans and nine Demograts. Area senators receiving MEA PAC funds were Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, Mat Dunaskiss, R-Oxford, Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, Robert

Geake, R-Northville, and George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn. Of 74 representatives, 28 were

Republicans and 46 Democrats. There was no breakdown of the amount going to each party. Area representatives receiving MEA PAC funds were Lyn Bankes, R.Redford, Justine, Barns, D.Westland, Maxine Berman, D.Southfield, Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, Jan Dolah, R-Farmington Hills, William Keith, D-Garden City.

MADD begins red ribbon campaign

The Wayne County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving kicked off its annual red ribbon campaign last week.

The idea is to tie a red ribbon on your car somewhere to let others know that you don't condone drunken driving.

MADD president Darlene Hodges said more than 100 people at-tended the breakfast at Livonia's Embassy Suites where Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, Livonia councilwoman Laura Toy and victims Helen Molnar and Victoria Totten spoke.

The demand for red ribbons, Hodges said, is greater this year than last year. "We got overwhelmed this year and we Safety Administration. That's can't keep up with the demand," down from more than 19,000 she said. "We're still trying to get volunteers to cut more. 422-6233 to volunteer your ser-

Between Nov. 1-19, MADD distributed 441,000 ribbons. To get your ribbon, call MADD and they will mail one to you; or pick one up at area public schools, police stations, Kroger and Spartan supermarkets, St. Mary Hospital, area churches and Caldwell Florist in Livonia.

In 1992, more than 17,000 people died nationwide in alcohol-related traffic accidents, according to the National Highway Traffic deaths in 1991.

In 1992, alcohol-related traffic deaths made up 45 percent of the total traffic deaths nationwide. As a percentage of the total, alcoholrelated deaths tend to rise during holidays, representing

■ 75 percent of 1992 New Year's Day traffic deaths.

■ 56 percent of 1992 Memorial Day and Independence Day traffic deaths.

■ 53 percent of 1992 Labor Day traffic deaths.

ing traffic deaths. ■ 49.5 percent of 1992 Christmas respectively.

Wayne County MADD has scheduled its annual candlelight -vigil memorial service remembering drunken-driver victims for 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6, at the Metropolitan United Methodist Church in Detroit.

A candle will be lit and a bell tolled in honor of each victim. The public is invited to attend.

Also, on Saturday, Jan. 22, Wayne County MADD will have a fund-raiser bowling tournament at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park. The entry fee is $15. First, ■ 56.5 percent of 1992 Thanksgiv- second, third and fourth place prizes are $150, $75, $50 and $25, choolcraft College's Wind Ensemble will present its annual Christmas concert Wednesday, Dec. 15, at the Radcliff Center community room, 1715 Radcliff, south of Ford, east of Wildwood. There will be musical rendi tions by James Nissen, William Schuman, Haydn Wood and other traditional holiday works. Refreshments will be served. Donations will be accepted. The concert will start at 7:30 p.m.

Santa coming

anta Claus will appear noon to 4 p.m., Sun-day, Dec. 12, at the Real Estate One office, 35015 Ford, between Wildwood and Wayne Road. The office staff is soliciting donations of cash or canned goods for the Salvation Army community center on Venoy near Palmer. Children will be offered free treats and a photo taken with nnapolis Hospital in Wayne is sponsoring its annual Tree of Lights project to encourage people to donate a light in honor or memory of a loved one. A minimum donation will illuminate one light, said hospital spokeswoman Maureen Murphy. The annual Tree of Light ceremony is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the hospital's circle drive on Annapolis, just west of Venoy. The Tree of Light is sponsored by the hospital's auxiliary. The names of persons honored or memorialized, along with those of their donors, will appear in a "Book of Honor" to be displayed next to the tree in the Annapolis lobby. Contributions will benefit patient care at the hospital, owned and operated by Oakwood Health Services For information, call Edith Lobsinger, 728-9677.

Groups or individuals are welcome to submit announcements for this column. Information should be directed to Leonard Poger, Observer editorial department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or faxed to 591-7279.

Utley tells kids to get serious

Determination keeps Mike Utley going. The former Detroit Lion, confined to a wheelchair since breaking his neck during play two years ago, recently brought his message of serious living to Frost Middle School.

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

True grit, courage and determination. These are words that all describe Mike Utley, the former Detroit Lions guard who broke his neck playing football and is now a paraplegic mostly confined to a wheelchair. When he was an offensive lineman for the Lions, those words fit Utley to

And they still fit — since his accient — whether he's pushing his wheelchair, lifting weights five days a week in a Denver gym, or traveling the country as an ambassador for the Mike Utley Foundation. The foundation raises money to seek a cure for spinal cord injuries.

Facing 750 Frost Middle School students, including some from Westland, on the day before the Lions Thanksgiving Day game against the Chicago Bears, Utley spent a lot of time giving advice to students. Since his injury, Utley returns to Detroit every Thanksgiving to root for his former teammates.

Interspersed with snippets on what his life is now like, Utley laid down the following rules for the Frost stu-

Set goals, he told them. Believe in yourself. Challenge yourself and make it happen. Keep physically fit.

Don't do drugs. Go for it; you'll figure out the details later. Fear no one. Be the best you can be. Adapt. Do whatever you have to do to get where vou want to go.

"Don't let one day slip by; you'll never know when it's going to be taken away," Utley told them. "Every day I get up I say 'Thank you, God'

In coming to Frost, Utley was fulfilling one of the goals he now has set for himself, being a good role model

He respects himself; he wants kids to respect themselves, too.

He follows healthful eating habits. He wants kids to eat well also.

He strives to do better in whatever task he undertakes. He wants kids to excel also.

And he doesn't want kids to flinch before a challenge. "Take on as much as you can," he urged the Frost stu-

Utley spoke to the students in a gymnasium decorated with signs that read, "Go, Mike," "Thumbs Up, Mike" and "Frost Welcomes You."

Speaking to them from his wheelchair, he told of another goal he has set for himself.

"I know I can never play football again, but one day, I will walk again. One day, it will happen. Will I use crutches? A cane? I don't know. If I'm not walking within the next five years, it will be in the next five years after that. And if I never walk, I will try to do so all my life.'

Thousands of Lions fans remember Utley for the gesture he made as he-was carried off the field after his injury. He flashed the "thumbs up" sign, his way of saying "I'll be back

Since then, "thumbs up" has become Utley's trademark.

Today, except for the inability to walk, he's nearly 100 percent self-sufficient. He has 15 percent use of his legs. He drives a sports car, plans to ski this winter and even jokes about bungee jumping. Through lifting weights he has regained much of the weight and upper body strength he lost after his injury.

The Frost students peppered the ormer lineman with questions.

What gave you the courage to go on after your injury? "What keeps me going is people like you pushing me."

Do you look up to anyone? "My Mom and Dad."

Benefit is one big laugh

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

Comedian Joel Zimmer will likely recall his childhood when he takes the stage Dec. 6 at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle.

He's one of the featured performers in the benefit for the Epilepsy Center of Michigan. As a child, Zimmer had three epileptic seizures.

Medication brought the seizures under control, and Zimmer took his last dose of medication at age 14. He can find humor in the situation.

"When I had my first seizure, my dad put his fingers in my mouth and discovered I was teething.'

Zimmer is part of First Annual Laugh Revue! that benefits the Epilepsy Center. A pre-show reception is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. and show time is 8:30 at the Royal Oak club.

For ticket reservations, call the center at 351-7979.

He played this past week-'Chaps'' in Kalamazoo, and has played at other colleges in the Midwest Following the benefit on Monday, he performs at an East Lansing club Dec. 8-11, and Dec. 30-Jan. 1 at the Main Street Comedy Club in Ann Arbor.

To come up with new material, Zimmer said he brainstorms while working at his home computer terminal. "Anything can be made into a joke if you have the right angle on it.

"I usually try to write four or five times a week, specifically for new material.

Zimmer has also been seeking some work doing commercial voiceovers.

The Epilepsy Center of Michigan reports that epilepsy affects more than 90,000 people in Michigan. With daily medication, many can live free of seizures

House OKs charter schools, area lawmakers split

Rep. William Keith couldn't understand why Gov. John Engler was so excited about House pasage of a charter schools bill

"The governor's bill has been watered down, modified, into public school academies. He didn't even get the name 'charter schools," said Keith, D-Garden City, who has chaired the House Education Committee half of his 22 years in Lansing.

The governor wanted a commission of his friends to issue charters, like the Jobs Commission did with retraining for Steelcase - tantamount to corporate welfare. Under his bill, the departments of Social Services, Corrections or any other could have issued charters," Keith said after Monday's long floor battle.

Instead, only public school districts, intermediate (county) disty colleges will be able to issue

And those bodies, instead of issuing charters to anyone, may issue them to a group in which at least 50 percent of the board members are certified teachers

Keith didn't mention it, but the compromise he helped engineer dealt a sharp blow to the religious right in requiring use of an "outcome based" curriculum.

Their (MEA's) big fear was that we wouldn't return all the money ($6.9 billion in repealed local property taxes from Senate Bill 1). They're getting a 6 percent

'Most extensive'

Nevertheless, Engler called the academies bill, now before the Senate, "the most extensive, expansive charter school bill in the country.

Better Schools, headed by Amway president Dick DeVos, said Michigan will benefit from innovative new schools" but favored more sweeping reforms. The House approved the bill 65 to 34 with dissents coming from five Republicans and 29 Demo-

Observer area lawmakers opposed were Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, and Justine Barns, D-West-

Bankes, whose Livonia and Redford school districts have been cool to choice and charters, said: "The way to improve public education is by fully funding and strengthening the current system, not by creating another level of bureaucracy and calling it 'charter schools.': . . . (It) fails to guarantee the same quality education for all of Michigan's children.'

Barns has opposed most of the reform bills, fearing they will hurt creativity. But we should have alpublic schools.

'Some creativity'

Voting yes besides Keith were Republicans Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, Deborah Whyman of Canton and Democrat Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

Vorva, a particularly vocal supporter of charter schools, said, "Somewhere, you'll get some lowed creative people other than certified teachers to start them. That isn't union busting.

Vorva supported amendments by Rep. David Jaye, R-Utica, that would have exempted academies from using certified teachers and certified administrators. They went down 16 to 84 and 37 to 61, respectively.

The academies bill doesn't mies. Advocates say they could be chartered for specialized academic or even disciplinary programs. They could cover all 12 grades or ust a few

An academy could not levy taxes. It would not be a legal school corporation but would operate as a nonprofit corporation with a board of directors and bylaws. A majority of the board would be certified teachers.

Misplaced priorities

Brown fighting wrong target

Place needy on your gift list

oesn't Wayne-Westland school board member Trish Brown have enough to worry about in the next year or two without getting involved in personal and political hassles?

Apparently, Brown, on the board since July 1, doesn't think so.

She got into a shouting match last week with former board member Sharon Felan, who served nearly two years before losing her own election bid five months ago.

The shouting match took place during a break midway through the Nov. 23 board of education session at which Felan was upset because Brown voted against an administrative recommendation which Felan thought in advance Brown was supporting. The dispute was in a small hallway behind the school board meeting room, out of the public's view, but within earshot of dozens of people

The next day, Brown filed a report with the Westland police department claiming assault and battery. The board member refused to discuss her version of the dispute, but her attorney, Sandra Cicirelli, said "it was my understanding" there was some pushing as well as "ranting and raving."

, Well, since there were no neutral witnesses to the entire 11/2-minute argument between Brown and Felan, it's best for the police department to complete its investigation and let the city attorney decide if there's any evidence to warrant Felan being charged on a misdemeanor.

people only think about the needy dur-

Other than those directly involved, no one is sure what happened in the back hallway, but it isn't the first dispute about a school board vote or policy matter - nor the last.

Brown is setting a bad example for public officials who need to be thick-skinned as a basic "job requirement."

Will other board members (or administrators) run to the police station every time there is a shouting match or a finger pointed in their face by a private citizen?

There are certainly better ways to handle conflicts and disputes.

Aren't there more important school district issues to deal with — such as balancing a budg et cut earlier this year by nearly $14 million and deciding which programs and services to keep or eliminate?

The political smoke behind the fire is that Felan plans to apply for a vacancy on the school board when trustee Leonard Posey's resignation takes effect Dec. 31. Possibly, board members who have someone else in mind for the vacancy want to discredit Felan even before the vacancy

What ever the motivation for filing a police complaint, the Observer suggests that both sides calm down and learn to settle their disputes in a more civilized manner.

Brown, particularly, should learn to focus her energies on more important things — such as maintaining a quality school system during a period of fewer dollars.

Changes are needed

he city charter should be amended to provide more effective représentation from city hall. Politics in Westland has become a cesspool, with various "insider groups" vying for control. No one has any regard for the interest of citizens. The taxpayers and their tax dollars are treated like a piece of meat to be fought over by the various "pressure groups." Reforms are desperately needed.

I suggest the following charter amendments:

■ There should be term limits placed on the office of mayor. The mayor should be limited to one five-year term: (Currently, the terms are for four years.) People serving one term could run again in five years. They wouldn't be allowed to serve consecutive terms. This would ensure that an incumbent would never again be able to crush a challenger with "campaign contributions" from "interested" people, contractors

City council members should be elected partly from wards or districts partly on an "at large" basis. All sections of the city should have a voice at the council table. The present "at large" system allows the wealthy and influential northern part of the city to impose its agenda on all sections of the city. A ward systemwould make it cheaper to run for council and would give each part of the city a representative at the council table. I suggest that five council people be elected from a ward system and three members be elected at large. Council people should be limited to two consecutive terms of four years each. Campaign contributions in city elections should be limited to $200 per person. And lawn sign use should be restricted under the sign orment, they are expensive, and they insult the intelligence of the voters. The sign ordinance should be amended to restrict the use of these costly insults to the voters' intelligence. Registered candidates for city elective positions who agree to the above limitations on spending should be given free 15-minute blocks of time on the cable-TV system's governmental channel to make their arguments to voters.

The current system desperately needs reform. Some of my suggested reforms are old ideas like the ward system and term limits. Some are new like the use of cable TV for campaigning.

Taken together these reforms could make future elections cleaner, more informative and more representative of the wishes of the majori ty of local residents

Oppose any hike in real estate transfer tax

Editor's note: The House Taxation Committee in Lansing is considering a bill to raise the real-estate transfer tax to $11.10 per $1,000 of price from the current $1.10. Gov. John Engler has proposed an even steeper increase: to $40 per $1,000. Refer to Senate Bill 888 and House Bill 5110 when writing to your legislator, State Capitol, Lansing 48913.

n partial response to the call for school financing reform in Michigan, House Bill 5110 has been introduced, which, if adopted, would impose a 4-percent real estate property tax on the transfer of title to real estate in the state.

The proposed 4-percent transfer tax covers both new and used homes. It would be imposed on the seller of real estate when the title is transferred to the buyer or, in the case of land contracts, when the land contract is executed.

For example, if a used home is sold for $100,000, the seller will be required to pay 4 percent, or $4,000 as a Michigan transfer tax when the deed from the seller to the purchaser is recorded. New home sales are also covered so that if, for example, a builder sells a new home for $200,000, the builder will be required to pay a Michigan transfer tax of $8,000 when the deed from the builder to the home buyer is recorded.

Even a person who builds a home on a lot they own must pay this new tax.
Mortgage bankers, along with real estate sales people and professional home builders, oppose the new transfer tax as proposed as well as any increase in the Michigan transfer tax on real estate. Every resident of the state should also oppose this tax for a variety of rea-

First, new and used home sales in our state will certainly be reduced as a result of the imposition of this large new tax. Second, it is likely that sellers of used homes and builders will try to pass this new tax cost on to home buyers in the form of higher prices, which will create unnecessary inflation for housing prices in Michigan.

Additionally, the new 4-percent transfer tax proposal is unfair. It is a regressive tax because it disproportionately affects low- and moderate-income home buyers who will be required to pay a larger portion of their income in order to buy a home. Also, senior citzens and other sellers may see the proceeds they receive from the sale of their homes reduced due to this new tax.

In addition, the tax would place a heavy burden on people who, for one reason or another, move frequently while imposing no burden at all on those who remain in their homes year GUEST COLUMNIST

THOMAS R. RICKETTS

Mortgage bankers, along with real estate sales people and professional home builders, oppose the new transfer tax as proposed as well as any increase in the Michigan transfer tax on real estate. Every resident of the state should also oppose this tax for a variety of reasons.

after year. No other state has a real estate transfer tax anywhere near as large as the one being proposed for Michigan

According to the most recent data available, the proposed Michigan tax of 4 percent, or $40 per $1,000, is more than 10 times larger than the national average of .38 percent, or $3.80 per $1,000, for the 40 states that had a real estate transfer tax: It is also 36 times larger than the existing Michigan transfer tax of .11 percent, or $1.10 per $1.000.

The inequity of the transfer tax relative to other states could have farreaching consequences for Michigan. Consider this example:

A young couple buys a home in Michigan in December 1993. The couple pays $100,000 for the new home with a $5,000 (5 percent) down payment. It has taken this couple five years to accumulate this down payment, not an uncommon period of time to save this much money.

In 1994, the young couple is transferred by their company and must sell their home. The home sells for $100,000, the amount paid for it a year earlier. During the year, the couple made payments on their mortgage and reduced the mortgage amount by, say, $1,000.

After paying off the balance of the loan, $94,000, and then the 4 percent tax of $4,000, they only have $2,000 left for a down payment on a new house:—$3,000 less than they started with. If the couple is moving out of state, the transfer tax offers them no incentive to ever move back. If they are moving elsewhere in Michigan, they would still be penalized for circumstances beyond their control.

Certainly, it is necessary to find new approaches to funding Michigan's school system. A reasonable increase in the so-called "sin" taxes, the Michigan income tax or the Michigan sales tax, which will place part of the tax burden on nonresident visitors to our state, are examples of alternatives to the onerous transfer tax being proposed. All of these avenues should be explored before we allow a new tax burden to be placed on Michigan's homes.

Speed trackers can become SMART move for drivers

he cop car's lights were flashing. I saw them down the street at the entrance to my subdivision as I walked my dog one evening last week.

Of an inquiring (you might say nosy) nature, I included that leg of the subdivision in my walk, although I usually bypass it for a shorter route.

As I approached, in my guise of dog-walking, I saw that one of West Bloomfield's finest had pulled over the driver of a white Mercury of some denomination. The unhappy silhouette of a young woman could be seen through the driver's side window.

He was making the usual cop noises of asking for a driver's license and registration. But then, as I walked close by, headed for home, I heard in a more soothing tone: "Take it easy, it's okay."

I don't know what finally transpired, whether or not she was ticketed for whatever he pulled her off Walnut Lake Road for doing. But, it made me feel that at least he understood her anxiety and was doing what he could to ease it.

Like you, I distinctly remember every time I've been stopped for a moving violation. Once was for driving through a yellow light on Farmington Road. The second was for driving too fast on Lone Pine Road near Cranbrook School (you practically have to keep your foot on the brake to adhere to the speed limit-there). And another on Lincoln near Seaholm High School in Birmingham — again for going ever so slightly (in my estimation) over the speed limit.

In each case, the sudden appearance of the police car, the flashing lights, the motion to pull over created a knot in my stomach. In each case, I was upset for the rest of the day. And in each case, I thought to myself that a warning from the policeman would have had the same impact on me as the ticket.

So that's why I got so excited when I read about the portable speed tracker recently purchased by police departments in Birmingham and Bloomfield Township, operative in Farm-

Sign of the times: Speed trackers are becoming a more common — and more efficient — way of policing traffic in our suburbs.

ington, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield, Auburn Hills, Livonia and Westland and under consideration by Beverly Hills.

Called SMART, short for Speed Monitoring Awareness Radar Trailer and not to be confused with the bus system, it gives the posted speed, then the speed of the nearest oncoming car.

It's designed to be placed in residential areas and near schools to let drivers know how fast they are going.

It can be used by itself, near an unstaffed cop decoy car or a police officer can run its radar and issue tickets.

"If we can go without issuing tickets, that's fine," said Birmingham police Comm. Richard Dimock.

"I don't think most drivers mean to speed," said Hugh Cox, public safety director in Beverly Hills.

They understand that in a residential setting drivers can't compare their speed to other drivers and may not realize how fast they're going. And they believe once most drivers see they're going too fast, they'll voluntarily slow down.

Cost of each unit is $8,000, thanks to the Oakland County Traffic Improvement Association, which had the foresight to buy them in bulk for resale to our communities.

So a unit essentially gives a community an extra traffic cop for a location each day at much less cost.

And it gives me, you and our upset young lady the chance to realize just how that speedometer has crept up and to slow down on our own. We'd take that option in a heartbeat—no matter how nice the cop.

Keep court settlements open to public's view

f you mess up, hide the evidence. Then get a court order to seal it. That's what they do in both government and business. There ought to be a law against it.

Consider James Harkrader, who in 1989 sued two Livonia school administrators when he was denied tenure as a coach and teacher. He said one principal pressured him to use the principal's son more often on the junior varsity basketball team.

The case apparently was settled out of court. A reporter called Harkrader's home to find out what happened. No comment. Can't talk.

Typically, when a governmental or big business defendant pays off, it requires that the plaintiff, as a condition of payment, agree to keep the terms a secret and seeks a court order to seal the casefile.

That hurts the public. We as voters and taxpayers can't learn how badly our public officials are screwing up and misusing our tax money.

In 1989 John Briggs III sued Upjohn Co., maker of Halcion, in Muskegon, because the drug's, side effects were a factor in his attempted suicide and resulting maining. Briggs' attorney, Richard Toth of Southfield, engaged in a process called "discovery" to probe Upjohn's records. The parties agreed Briggs' side would return the 2,500 pages of documents. Upjohn contended the documents contained trade secrets.

Toth later asked the court to set aside the deal because the documents pertained to "the means and methods employed by (Upjohn) to obtain (Food and Drug Administration) approval for the marketing of Halcion in the United States, defendant's knowledge of the health risks associated with Halcion, and defendant's strategies for marketing Halcion in such ways as to minimize publication of these risks."

I hear the Upjohn line a lot. I strongly suspect the companies are lying.

Well, Upjohn won 2 to 1 in the state Court of Appeals last June. Judge Clifford Taylor took the narrow view that a deal is a deal, and that the trial judge failed to review the documents before lifting the gag order. Taylor and E. Thomas Fitzgerald said nary a word about health risks.

As I said, there ought to be a law. In Lansing, Rep. Michael Griffin, D-Jackson, addressed-half the problem with House Bill 4577. Applied to governmental units, it says any deal to settle a claim or suit "that prohibits disclosure of the agreement or any terms of the agreement is against public policy and void."

Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, sought to amend the flaw by making the bill apply to all suits, not just those against governments. Five Republicans and one Democrat shot down Gubow's amendment in the House Judiciary Committee.

Gubow was right because:

■ Upjohn is a publicly traded stock. This writer owns shares and would appreciate knowing how management erred.

■ Others who believe they were harmed by Halcion shouldn't have to repeat the expensive "discovery" process that Briggs went through.

We need a law to prevent court ordered coverups.

about four percent from the comparable 1993 bill. Setting post-Cold War priorities, the bill (HR 2401) reduces active duty strength to-1.62 million troops toward a goal of 1.4 million by 1999.

The bill cuts missile defense spending sharply, to $3 billion, while shifting the emphasis from space-based "Star Wars" defenses to ground-based interceptor systems that are portable from theater to theater. It caps the B-2 bomber program at 20 aircraft, grants a 2.2 percent military pay cut effective in January 1994, and gives the force of law to Pentagon policies against openly gay conduct by service personnel.

A yes vote was to pass the bill Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, Dale Kildee, Sander Levin and William Ford. Voting no: Joe Knollenberg.

Mining Claims: By a vote of 199 for and 232 against, the House rejected an amendment setting a tougher environmental test for allowing mining of federal land. The vote occurred during debate on a bill (HR 322) to reform the Mining Law of 1872. Under the amendment, the departments of Interior and Agriculture could have banned mining if they feared only 'significant' ecological damage as

A yes vote was to make it easier for the government to ban mining on public lands. Area representatives voting yes were: Klidee. Voting no: Carr, Knollenberg, Levin, Ford.

Mining Law Reform: The House passed, 316 for and 108 against, a bill to revamp the law governing the mining of hardrock minerals such as gold, silver, copper, zinc and platinum on federal land in 12 western states including Alaska. The bill (HR 322) overhauls an 1872 statute that was designed to spur settlement and economic development of the West.

Under the bill, the approximately 2 000 western mining operations must begin paying royalties to the Treasury on the minerals they extract. Claim holders no longer are allowed to obtain title to the land, which they now can do at a cost of $2.50 or $5.00 per acre. The bill also requires environmental reclamation of scarred lands, to be financed by royalty revenue.

A yes vote was to pass the bill. Area representatives voting yes were: Carr. Kildee. Levin, Ford. Voting no: Knollenberg.

Not much happening on the Observerland boys basketball scene these days. Just:

■ Redford Catholic Central coach Bernie Holowicki closing in on victory No. 600 (he's at 595).

■ The Western Lakes turning into the land of the giants, a kind of suburban Jurassic Park, where 6-11 centers roam in both the Lakes and Western divisions.

■ Wayne Memorial moving into the Mega Red Conference after a decade of dominance in the Wolverine A.

■ Early signs that the talent cycle may be on an upturn among the Livenia public schools, thanks in part to some transfers and talented underclassmen.

Other than that ..

Actually, 1993-1994 could be one of the hottest Observerland hoop seasons in some time. There's a load of blue-chip talent (seven returning All-Area players and a couple of eye-popping freshmen), there's at least one legitimate state title contender (Borgess in Class C), and there ought to be some exciting conference battles, especially in the Western Lakes and Mega Red.

Mega Dead

We won or shared the Wolverine A title seven of the 10 years the league was in existence," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry, "And I like to think we can contend in this Mega Red. But then I look at our competition: Belleville, Fordson, Woodhaven and Monroe - not to mention Garden City and Taylor Truman who I don't know much about - I mean, that's a strong conference:

It is. But Wayne, despite losing four starters, will be one of the area's strongest (and speediest) teams. With seniors Gerald Adams, Rod Hardison and Courtney Howard running the show, the Zebras will press-run-andgun from tipoff to final buzzer.

Wayne will also showcase the area's most promising newcomer: freshman Lorenzo Guess

"He's an exceptional athlete," Henry said. "He's 6-2, has a good all-around game, shoots well from the perimeter and is very strong inside. A player like this comes around once in a very great while."

Land of giants

The consensus among the coaches is that Northville and Plymouth Salem will rule the Western Lakes.

Northville will feature a front court that goes 6-11, 6-6, 6-4 and a back court that goes 6-2 and 6-0. Josh Williams is the 6-11 player, and reports from the summer camps and clinics say he's gotten stronger and more confident.

Salem, of course, will be driven by James Head, who averaged 14 points per game last year.

But not everybody is ready to concede the title to those two.

"Let everybody talk Salem and Northville right now," said Westland John Glenn coach Mike Schuette. Then at the end of the year they can all talk John Glenn."

Glenn has its own 6-11 giant in junior Guy Rucker, a go-to scorer in senior Tony Goins and enough team

The 1993 edition finally broke through. It did not come easily, though. A pair of five-set wins, first over Spring Arbor in the championship match of the NAIA District 23 Tournament and then over Cincinnati Mount St. Joseph in the Bi-District playoff, were necessary.

"There was a lot of pressure put on us (this season) because Northwood was out, plus Julie (Wood) and I were coming in," said senior middle hitter Kari Van Deusen.

Two freshmen, a sophomore and two transfers are among the top seven players. No one associated with the team - including the coach — has ever reached this level of competition.

That's the dark side. Here's the bright: Two players, Van Deusen and Julie Wood, have competed

Also, Abraham has been to the past two NAIA Tournaments as an observer. "I've talked to a lot of coaches," he said. "I know some teams have gone out there and lost every game, after getting caught up in all the hype." He's learned enough to avoid that pitfall.

Third, Northwood's success at past tournaments is noteworthy. The Northwomen reached the tournament semifinals in '91 and have been to the quarterfinals on two other occasions. That speaks well for this region's strength in volleyball. And Madonna has battled Northwood for first place in District 23 for the past few years.

Talent is there

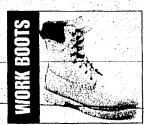

Madonna is seeded eighth among the 20 teams contesting for the championship, hosted by Point Loma Nazarene. Included in its five-team pool is No. 1 seed Montevallo College (Alabama), which comes in with a 42-3

There's an appropriate title to be put to Schoolcraft College's men's basketball game Tuesday. against Siena Heights' junior var-

But there's more. The victory also evened the Ocelots record at 4 4. They have one nonconference game remaining - Saturday at home against Kellogg CC (3 p.m.) before opening Eastern Conferaction Wednesday against

St. Clair CC (7:30 p.m. at SC). The win over Siena Heights came from a two-man offensive attack Sophomore Steve Whitlow got into foul trouble early and was ineffective, playing just 21/2 minutes in the first half. He finished with six points. But Todd McNeil and Abu Hamilton picked up the slack

SCHOOLCRAFT

McNeil did the damage in the first half, scoring 13 points to lead SC to a 36-35 advantage at the break; he finished with 16.

Hamilton did the rest. He had eight in the opening 20 minutes before exploding for 20 in the second half, for a game-high 28.

Last Saturday, SC traveled to No. 1-ranked Owens Tech (Toledo), the defending NJCAA II champions. No upset was forthcoming, but the Ocelots kept it close, losing 97-83. The win raised Tech's record to 6-0.

McNeil's 28 points and 10 boards topped SC. Hamilton had 21 points and six boards, and Whitlow contributed 16 points, seven rebounds and four assists.

Madonna skid hits 7

Bill Sharpe insists the results of the first two weeks of Madonna University's men's basketball season — seven games, seven losses, the last two by lopsided margins have not dimmed his otherk. Disappointed? Certainly.

'We're not happy at all," he said after the Fighting Crusaders absorbed a 52-point thrashing at Wayne State Monday. And they're not happy. I'm starting to adjust to the idea that we're going to have to take more time with these kids than I thought.

Sharpe's optimism going into the season could be perceived as noble. Perhaps brash. But, among those familiar with the talent level in the NAIA, it seemed highly unrealistic.

A team consisting of 10 freshmen, two sophomores, two juniors and a senior should not contemplate a championship season. A team that loses one of its few strong pivot players -6 foot 7 Ken Taylor, from Westland John Glenn, an academic casualty - should expect trouble

At Wayne State Monday, Madonna got just that. The Tartars, one of the top teams in the NCAA Division II, routed

the Crusaders behind a school-record for points, 136-84 Madonna's trip to Ohio Do minican Saturday was no better: à 131-106 lashing. .

"Our expectations were way high," Sharpe said. "Probably too high. I thought we'd be close to:500

Although the Crusaders had stretches in both games during which they played solidly, there were far too many in which they were outperformed. They allowed Wayne State to score the game's first 10 points but crawled back into it by the midpoint of the first half.

With eight minutes left, the deficit was just 34-29. Then in those final eight minutes, the Tartars outscored Madonna 36-5. Michael Aaron's 23 points and 12 from Livonia Churchill grad Randy Calcaterra sparked WSU's first-half surge. The bulge grew to 60 points midway through the second half.

Aaron finished with 33 points. Calcaterra had 19. Mark Herron netted 13. Derek Hardy and Brian Koscielski had 12 apiece. Bernie Burnett had 11. and Scott Armstrong totaled 10. WSU (now 3-0) outrebounded

The Crusaders got a strong game from Shawn Branum, 31 points: Kurt Carlos scored 12. But leading scorer Mike Slone was 0-for-10 from the floor; the team was a mere 30-of-90 (33 percent). "For us to ever win, we have to improve our shooting," said Sharpe. "We can get away with this offense if they're shooting well."

The Crusaders haven't been, not against WSU nor against Ohio Dominican. They trailed 66-51 at the half against Dominican; for the game, Madonna made less than 44 percent of its floor shots (Dominican hit nearly 60 percent).

Donnell Foster's 23 points paced the Crusaders against Dominican. Brandon Slone scored 21, and Mike Slone added 14. Dominican got 29 from Jerry Lanier, 27 from Mike Bell, 17 from Brad Wolford, 16 from Brad Marzetz and 13 from Steve Antritt.

Once again, Madonna was outrebounded — this time by a 53-36 margin.

Such figures do not build confidence. But Sharpe believes his team could turn it around, quickly.

When and how - those are questions without answers.

that has been working hard and starting to come together. I think we're going to have a real competitive year. Overall, we have decent speed and a lot of game experience. Our weak ness is how strong we'll be in terms of team rebounding. We aren't big so we'll have to do some things between the time the ball is in-bounded up to half court to create some problems. We'll press as much as we can and be a little more directed offensively.

speed and depth to press and run for four quarters.

Rucker, by the way, has gained 20 pounds over the summer. He won't be moved out of the paint as easily this season.

The little guys

The three Livonia teams 🐣 Churchill, Franklin and Stevenson — will look like Lilliputians next to the Northvilles and Glenns of the league, but they won't be as easily beaten as they were a year ago.

"With public schools, it all runs in cycles," said Stevenson coach Jim McIntyre. "We've had some rough years, but now we're starting to see some good young talent coming in. In the next couple of years, we'll be right up in there again."

McIntyre will try to offset the Spartans' height disadvantage by deploying a pesky, pressing and trapping defense triggered by seniors Brad Morgan, Chris Chichila and Kevin Szczembara and sophomore Jim Grewe.

Churchill, maybe the area's scrappiest bunch, will get a boost after the holidays when 6-5 sophomore Jay VanWagner becomes eligible. He transferred from Stevenson.

First-year Franklin coach Larry Jackson is the beneficiary of a talented transfer, as well. Jason Maschke, a 6-4 senior, came over from Catholic Central and should fit well into Jackson's up-tempo

Jackson is also developing 6-6, 14-year-old Matt Bauman.

'He's a bit like Shawn Bradley right now," Jackson said. "He's got the body, but not the strength. By the time he's a junior, we hope he's around 6-8 or 6-9 and power-

Bernie's milestone

As you might expect, veteran Catholic Central coach Bernie Holowicki is downplaying his quest for 600 wins.

"I'm just not concerned about said Holowicki, whose record stands at 595-210. "It's like I tell the kids, you can't force a great play. It just has to happen. That's how I feel about the victories. Just let them happen.

The wins might be hard to come by this year. Holowicki lost two players he was counting on to be team leaders.

Damian Baskerville, a second team All-Area player last year. was asked to leave Catholic Central and enrolled in Detroit Cass Tech. He won't be eligible until Joey DeLong, a strong 6-6 front court player, moved to Bad Axe.

"We're shaky right now," Holowicki said. "We need some-body to step up and be our top man.

He hopes seniors Andy Slank ster, Joe Daly and Andy Kummer will move their games up a notch.

Still, look for Holowicki to bag -No. 600 early in January.

record. Other pool foes are Westmont (Calif.), 25-9; Nova (Fla.), 29-6; and St. Andrew's (N.C.), 25-10. They are unseeded.

Abraham, like Van Deusen, is confident. "I'm really excited about it," he said. "We are defithink we can play with any of these teams.

"They're-really playing strong right now. Getting over that hill in the Bi-District (against Mount St. Joseph's) gave them a whole lot more confidence.

The abilities of Van Deusen,

Wood, setter Mazie Pilut (from Redford Bishop Borgess), outside hitter Kelly McCausland (Redford Union), middle hitter Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson), and outside hitter Mo Paulin (Livo-nia/Farmington Hills Mercy)

Van Deusen led Madonna in kills with 581 (a .415 kill percentage, 4.3 a game) and in blocks with 428 (3.15 a game) during the regular season. Martin was next in both, with 527 kills (and a team-best 463 average, 4.2 a game) and 310 blocks (2.5).

Paulin led the Crusaders in digs (801 total, 5.89 per game) and was third in kills (340, .332, 2.5), while Wood was second in digs (576, 4.5) while collecting 306 kills (.281). McCausland had a strong all-around season with 265 kills (.312, 2.0), 295 digs (2.2) and 251 blocks (1.96).

Pilut was extremely impressive at setter, totaling 1,675 assists to kills (12.8 per game). She also had 340 digs (2.6).

"The key is simple," said Abraham. "We have to maintain a good, sound defense, and pass and serve well. And we have to block at our best.

If the Crusaders keep focused on the goal at hand, those keys can be reached. Which could take them a long way toward an NAIA title, and another step up the athletic ladder for Madonna.

Borgess moves to Final Four in Class C

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

Maxann Reese couldn't do anything about the last three minutes of Tuesday's Class C girls basketball quarterfinal against host Goodrich but she made everything happen in the third quarter.

Reese scored 10 of her teamhigh 17 points in the third quarter to lead a 14-0 run as the Spartans pulled away for a 52-45 victory before a sellout and one-sided crowd at Goodrich High School.

Borgess, 21-4 overall, advances to the Final Four for the first time to play Williamston (25-1) at 4:15 p.m. Friday in a semifinal game at Battle Creek's Kellogg Arena. The championship is 6 p.m. Saturday.

Reese made five-of-seven shots in the second half before fouling out with 3:06 remaining. Reese also spent several minutes on the bench in the first half after picking up two fouls in the first three minutes of the first quarter.

The Spartans shot 20-of-44 from the field but were only 8-26 at the free-throw line.

Maxann played tremendously, that third quarter was as spectacular as she's played," Borgess coach Dave Mann said. "I just wish she'd use her noggin a little more on defense because she really made the game exciting by fouling out. It would have kept my blood pressure lower."

Goodrich scored eight-straight. points after Reese exited for good, pulling within 45-40 after a threepoint play by Christina Marshall with 2:42 remaining in the game.

Goodrich had an especially shaky start, missing its first nine shots to fall behind 10-3 after one quarter. Guard Carrie Nance, one of the top freshmen in the state, scored the Martians' first field goal with 1:18 remaining in the first quarter and led Goodrich with 21 points on 5-12 shooting.

Senior guard Marnee Koon. who averaged 16 points per game, missed all three of her field-goal attempts but gave the Spartans trouble with her quickness.

"Marnee, Mo Drabicki (Livonia Stevenson) and Brandi Bentley (Marian) are the three quickest we've seen," Mann said.

Adrian ousts Franklin girls from state tournament

Editor's note: The game story from the Class A girls basketball regional final on Wednesday, Nov. 24, matching Livonia Franklin and Adrian, was accidentally omitted from the Westland editions on Monday.

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Livonia Franklin's second trip ever to the Sweet 16 wouldn't have been so sour had it not been for such a terrible opening eight minutes of basketball

The Patriots couldn't dig themselves out of a 19-5 first-quarter hole, falling to Adrian in the Class A regional girls championship at Ann Arbor Huron, 50-35.

The loss ended Franklin's Cinderella run in the state tournament. The Patriots bow out with a 12-13 overall record.

Adrian, 22-2 overall, advanced to the state quarterfinals Tuesday at Lansing Eastern.

Senior point-guard Amy Wetherbee, a four-year varsity player, was the catalyst for the victorious Maples. The Morehead State (Ky.) signee finished with 15 points and seven assists.

"Amy is just a great passer, but she's also averaging 39 percent from three-point range," Adrian coach Dave McKelvey said. 'She's just a great kid who never leaves the gym. She just epitomizes the good old American work

Jill DeKeyser, a 5-foot-4 senior, added 10 points, while Tatum Warner contributed 10 rebounds and eight steals.

But it was the floor play of Wetherbee that made the differ-

Between her and number 54 (DeKeyser), they make you come out and guard them," Franklin coach Mary Jarvis said. "And when you do that, they have the big people to go to inside. They're just a well-rounded team.'

Franklin, cracking under Adrian's intense half-court, doubleteam pressure, committed 10 first-quarter turnovers and made only two of nine shots from the

"Our rebounding was horrible, they (Adrian) just killed us," Jarvis said. "And we knew that would be important. Adrian just dealt with the pressure better than we did. They were more re-

Franklin, however, would not quit. The Patriots were only outscored 31-30 over the final three quarters.

'It also took us awhile to get the game jitters out, but that's part of being a young team, Jarvis said. "They've never been in a big game like this, while Adrian has seven seniors. And one girl has been on the varsity for four years.

Franklin, which returns all five starters next season, loses only one player to graduation (Tabetha

"We have to keep working hard in the off-season," Jarvis said. "There's still some things we need to work on. We have to have more consistency and be more fundamentally sound.

Sophomore guard Tracy Rynk-iewicz scored 10 points to lead Franklin, but shot only three of 16 from the floor. Kellie Main, a 5-10 sophomore, added eight points.

Jaclyn Deane, a 6-foot junior who had 13 points and 12 rebounds in the regional semifinal win over Taylor Kennedy, was held to five points.

Franklin shot only 28 percent from the floor (13 of 46) and three of nine from the foul line.

But the Patriots, who settled down after the opening quarter, finished with only one more turnover than the Maples (22-21).

"We had too many games this year where we had a good first quarter, then a bad second quarter," Jarvis said. " We need confidence and maybe this is the first step. There's potential here. Next year, when we're here, we'll have a game like this under our belt."

Also on Wednesday, Nov. 24, host Milford Lakeland won its hockey season opener, 4-1, despite being outshot 24-21

by Livonia Franklin (1-1).

Joe O'Connell scored Franklin's lone goal in the third period from Kevin Bernard and Pete Tilt

Patriot goalie Pete Stasevich played well in the nets; turning away 17 of 21

"Four or five players played a good game, but the rest sat back and watched." Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said. "But we're a young team and hope fully we'll improve step by step.

OCC falls to Lansing

The Oakland Community College men's basketball team is off to a rocky start.

A 26-point effort from Norris Burgess paced Lansing Community College to a 112-96 victory over the Raiders Saturday night.

The loss dropped OCC to 2-4. Lansing is 3-1.

Harold Golson scored 26 points, and Craig Martin 22 for OCC. Mark Galbraith pulled down a game-high 11 rebounds.

The Raiders will play in a fourteam tournament Friday and Saturday at Macomb Community College.

'Christmas Carol' captures Dickens' spirit is Meadow Brook Theatre's annual gift to the community and to itself. It is always the season's hottest ticket. And well it should be. Dickens' famous

The venerable Booth Colman returns for his 12th year as Scrooge. Colman is the consummate Ebenezer Scrooge as he hunches over his wad of pound notes and riffles through them with lightning speed. He snarls out "Bah! Humbug!" with vigor. But he is equally convincing as the contrite, sad and lonely Scrooge who vows to mend his ways and as the gleefully giddy Scrooge who sets out to "keep Christmas better than any man in this old world or any old world ever

The other annual highlight is Peter Hicks' ingenious set. Hicks makes masterful use of Meadow Brooks' comparatively small stage to suggest a variety of Victorian settings, each nicely individualized to fit the characters. The set rotates, opens and closes with the swirling motions of a busy London in the holiday season.

ed the Dickens' story to stage, keeps things moving smoothly about this miniature London, capturing in each ghost the essential meaning that Dickens intended. Generally, Nolte finds the right tone and language for each scene. In two places he falters. The scene with the schoolboy Scrooge is played at an odd slow motion when it should be lively with youth. The young, inexperienced actors are forced into a stilted Victorian tableau when they would be more at ease just being young. The later, surreal gathering of human vultures goes on too long, though it is fairly well staged. The time would be better spent on the hurried ending.

But these are small complaints. This is a top notch production of the oft told tale with fine performances from a large and highly competent cast. Especially noteworthy are James Anthony as the pitiful ghost of Marley, Joseph Reed as the robust Ghost of Christmas Present, Paul Hopper as the good Bob Cratchit, Mary Benson as his loyal and goodhearted wife and Philip Locker as the intoxicated with joy Fezziwig.

Movie brings magic of 'The Nutcracker' to life

most beloved ballet comes to this holiday sea-

Angels and sugarplums, candy canes and mice, a prince, a young girl, a mysterious old man, and a Christmas tree that grows and grows, all set the stage for "George Balanchine's The Nutcracker'

The film, now showing at metro Detroit movie theaters, combines the grace of the New York City Ballet performance with the bright-eyed innocence of Macaulay Culkin to create an entertaining holiday offering for all ages.

Taken from the classic E.T.A. Hoffman tale, Balanchine's "The Nutcracker" is, according to Balanchine, "a serious thing wrapped in a fairy tale."

In the story, young Marie Stahlbaum is given a nutcracker doll on Christmas Eve by her mysterious godfather, Herr Drosselmeier. That night the young girl finds herself in a strange world governed by Herr Drosselmeier. As toys, furniture and the Christmas tree grow, mice creep out of the shadows to haunt her.

The Nutcracker, who has been transformed into a live soldier, wages battle with the Mouse King and carries Marie off to a snowy forest where she awakens to find her Nutcracker has become a handsome prince. The two are led to a mystical, magical place.

"The Nutcracker" marked its 100th anniversary in 1992. Originally presented at the Maryinsky Theatre in St. Petersburg, the ballet is the work of French-born choreographer Marius Petipa and the composer Peter Ilyitch Tschaikovsky. The ballet received harsh criticism at its beginning, but has lived on as a classic holiday treat

'Mrs. Doubtfire," now showing at metro Detroit movie theaters, stars Robin Williams as Daniel Hillard, an out-of-work voiceover actor, who will do anything to be with his three children.

Unfortunately, the things that his kids love about him his wild sense of humor, his carefree view of life — are traits which prevent him from being the husband his wife Miranda (Sally Field) needs him to be.

After 14 years of marriage she has asked for a divorce and has been granted temporary custody of the children, in spite of Daniel's emotional protests. So when Miranda advertises for a housekeeper, the clever but desperate Daniel, disguises himself as an elderly British woman, and gets the job.

You'll want to bit the road with 'Josh and S.A.M.'

BY AP NEWSFEATURES

From Bing and Bob to Butch and Sundance to Thelma and Louise, movie couples have beenhitting the road in search of whatever. Of all the road pictures, none more bizarre has come along than "Josh and S.A.M."

Boy runaways are nothing new. But what about 7- and 12-yearolds who drive from Texas to Canstretch and along the way believability quotients hit new lows. But two gifted young actors, Jacob Tierney and Noah Fleiss, are so engaging that you're compelled to go along with them.

The first half-hour of "Josh and S.A.M." makes you think you have blundered into some sitcom about disjointed families. Josh and Sam are troubled boys tossed back and forth-by-their divorced parents. The mother (Joan Allen) lives in California and is more concerned with her French boyfriend (Ronald Guttman) than with her sons.

The Florida father (Stephen

Tobolowsky) has a new wife and two stepsons who taunt Josh as a "Dispatched back to their mother, Josh and Sam have a forced landing in Dallas. After an adventure in which Josh fears he has killed a man he and his little brother take off for Canada. The movie also takes off.

Josh has convinced Sam that he is, in fact, a S.A.M. (hence the confusing acronym of the title). It stands for Strategically Altered Mutant, a child donated by his parents to the Pentagon to be programmed as a future warrior. The only way to escape the programming is to reach Canada, outside the Pentagon's control.

The pair manage to drive their stolen red sportscar, dodging concerned adults and suspicious cops along the way. They encounter a hitchhiking runaway (Martha Plimpton) who becomes their unwilling accomplice in the trek.

If you've seen a new movie lately, either good or bad, we want to hear from you. Call Keely Wygonik, Entertainment editor, 953-2105, -movies. If you reach her voice mail, leave your comments, name, city and day-time phone number. To fax comments, dial 591-7279. Or write: Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

The end of the journey comes as no surprise, but it's suitably

With his soulful dark eyes and expressive face, Canadian Jacob Tierney carries the film with a wide range of emotion. He has real star quality. Newcomer Noah Fleiss acts like a veteran, without the preciousness of some child performers. Martha Plimpton affords an ideal counterpoint to the bickering brothers.

Frank Deese's script meanders like the country roads the boys travel, but he has written two believable roles for the young actors. Film editor Billy Weber-in his directing debut handles the youngsters with understanding. Credit also should go to Don Burgess for his photography of the West's scenic beauty.

"Josh and S.A.M." was produced by Castle Rock Entertainment for Columbia Pictures. The producer was Martin Brest.

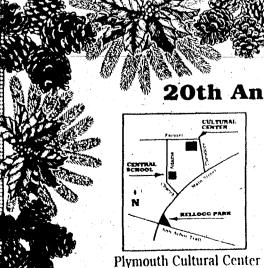

"Josh and S.A.M." is now showing at these suburban movie theaters: AMC Abbey, AMC Southfield City, AMC Wonderland, Nov Town Centre and United Artists Fairlane.

Shuttle maneuvers worth tracking

There will be two events of note in early December: The most complex space shuttle mission to date will be launched, and the Geminid meteor shower will put on its annual display. The odds of the former getting off the ground on schedule are about as good as having clear weather conditions to observe the latter.

The goal of the shuttle mission will be to repair the earth-orbiting Hubble Space Telescope. In perhaps one of NASA's greatest blunders, the telescope was launched with mismatched optics, making a portion of the telescope unusable.

The challenge for the shuttle crew will be to install corrective optics to solve the problem as well as replace the solar-cell arrays, gyroscopes and various aging electronics, and adding a wide field and planetary camera. Of the seven crew members, four will be "space-walking" during five sixhour excursions. Like all shuttle missions, this—is—not something that skywatchers can view directly, but it is worth mentioning.

Let's all wish them success.

On the evening of Dec. 2, a line drawn from Castor through Pollux will bring you to the moon.

Castor and Pollux represent another blunder, although this one is not of NASA's doing. Many years ago, when the Greek letters were added to the proper names of the stars, Castor was designated Alpha Geminorum and Pollux was given Beta.

This makes perfect sense because they are the first and second brightest stars in Gemini. However, modern measurements of the intensity of these two stars shows that Pollux is actually a bit brighter than Castor. So in the case of Gemini, the star with the second letter of the Greek alphabet is brighter than the star that was designated with the first letter. (It's possible that the luminosity of Pollux increased during the past few centuries.)

Notice the bright star below the moon on the morning of Dec. 3rd. This will be Procyon (PRO see on), also known as the Little Dog star. Procyon is the eighth brightest star in the sky and the fifth closest to us. It always rises slightly before Sirius (SEER e us), the Big Dog star. Sirius, the brightest star in the night sky, will be found below Procyon, near the west southwest horizon.

Dominating the southeastern morning sky with a brightness even greater than that of Sirius, will be the planet Jupiter. This will be the only planet easily visible before sunrise. Both Mercury and Venus will be in the morning sky, below and to the left of Jupiter, but Mercury will be difficult to see in the glare of morning twilight, and Venus will be just barely above the horizon.

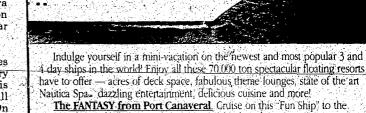

The moon will be found directly below the star Regulus (REG you lus) on the morning of the 5th. Regulus represents the "heart" of Leo the lion. On the following morning, at 10:49 a.m., the moon will be at last quarter phase. It will be starting the last quarter of its current orbit around the earth.

Follow the waning (decreasing) crescent moon across the predawn sky beginning with Dec. 9. The bright star directly above the upper cusp ("point") of the crescent on the 9th will be Spica (SPY ka), the brightest star in the constellation of Virgo.

On the morning of the 10th, the moon will be located below Jupiter and to the right of Alpha Librae, also known by the tonguetwisting name of Zeuben El Genubi (ZOO ben el gen YOU bee). The name means "The Southern Claw" and is derived from the ancient time when this star was a part of Scorpius Libra became a separate constellation long ago, but the name of this star remained the same.

The moon will be 11 degrees above and to the right of Mercury on the morning of the 11th. This will be the last morning you will be able to see the moon easily. On the following morning the moon will be located directly between Mercury and Venus, but it will be extremely difficult to see.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1993

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

It's merry, merry month of December

ingle bells, jingle bells, more holiday on the way. Oh, what funit is to have family together-ness, winter school break just two weeks away

December is the month that puts us in the spirit of giving and doing. It's the month that we so will-ingly turn the focus away from ourselves and spotlight those closest to us. Those individuals we really love and admire or those folks we simply feel darned good about because of their welcoming smiles and winning personalities.

The point is December is a month for sharing and caring-celebration. It's a "let's do" month like June or July, except "let's do" is done sometimes wearing layer upon layer of outside clothing

With the dawn of December comes the brisk kiss of winter air instead of the healing heat of summer, or the unpredictable cool of fall. December is a "we" instead of "me" month. We will go shopping; we will visit grandma and grandpa; we will decorate the tree.

It's a month that each day is filled with excitement and anticipation of good things to come. Innocence, hope and those special sparkling gleams from eyes of children make December the best month of the year.

December is action-packed - family and friends are primary. Here are some activities to "wrap up' the year to do with and for others:

Dec. 2 - Make a December activities calendar and trim with Christmas holly.

Dec. 3 - Have each family member design and make a Christmas ornament.

Dec. 4 - Make some sweet treats like cranberry

Dec. 5 - Perform a play like the story of Christmas.

Dec. 6 - Go shopping for fruit, nuts and small gift items to include in holiday gift baskets. Take a friend along.

Dec. 7 - Decorate the office at work with memos of holiday wishes.

Dec. 8-Go to a movie. Enjoy the buttered popcorn Dec. 9 - Declare today a Santa hat day.

Dec. 10 - Donate clothing and food to the Salvation Army and homeless shelters. Dec. 11 - Take the family ice skating. Have all family members dress wearing a shared favorite Dec. 12 - Sing the "Twelve Days of Christmas"

Dec. 13 - Visit the elderly at the neighborhood convalescent center.

Dec. 14 - Trim and decorate the tree. Dec. 15-Have a taste-testing smorgasbord, serving and sampling favorite foods enjoyed during the holiday season. Include various ethnic

Dec. 16 - Have a gift scavenger hunt. Dec. 17 - Rent a family movie video that makes everyone laugh. Dec. 18 - Take a senior citizen shopping or assist them in gift wrapping.

Dec. 19 - Host a Sunday breakfast or brunch.

Invite friends, family and neighbors. Dec. 20 - Give a special monetary offering from your family, civic group or church to a charitable foundation or organization. Dec. 21 - Visit Children's Hospital in Detroit.

Get permission to bring toys, books and fun games Dec. 22 - Buddy up or take your group to visit people in the neighborhood or closest hospital. Sing Christmas carols to lift spirits.

Dec. 23 - Have a gift-wrapping marathon. Dec. 24 - Show good neighborhood spirit and unity by tying a big red ribbon around trees on the block. Also each neighbor leave on an outside light for Santa's arrival. Dec. 25 - Celebrate with those you love. Keep blessed thoughts and pray for world peace. Dec. 26 - Save the gift wrappings and bows for arts and crafts projects. Make a collage,

Dec. 27 - Give your employees a certificate of appreciation or some other expression of gratitude. Dec. 28 - Take your children on a "We love living" walk to promote good health and together-Dec. 29 - Attach each family member's photo to their New Year's resolution.

Dec. 30 - Make plans for a prosperous New

Dec. 31 - Dress up in your finest duds and go somewhere special. Break out the glitter, the fancy shoes and suit coat.

When you sleep: Barbara Moore of the Enuresis TreatmentCenter goes : over a sleep chart with a 10-year-old client from Rochester Hills.

Center dries up bedwetting woes

Enuresis is a problem for those who endure waking up to wet beds and sopping wet bed clothes. It can stifle social interaction at all ages and leave its sufferers with low self-esteem. But help is available from a woman who understands what it's all about.

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Barbara Moore has a file filled with letters. Others are taped to the wall and even more are in frames scattered around her office. The wording is different, but each and every one carries . heartfelt the same message thanks for her help.

Thank you for all your help," wrote Jonathan Rice of Livonia. "There once was a time when I never thought I would be dry. I like doing the exercises because they help me stay dry. I don't like doing them because they take too

Rice is among children and adults who have learned they can overcome enuresis, or nighttime bedwetting, and its emotional and physical side effects, with the help of Moore and her staff at the Enuresis Treatment Center in Farmington Hills.

Thething I hearmost is I wish I had known about you.' "Moore said. "I had a waitress follow me out of a restaurant and say, 'You mean it's not my fault?' I and dormant until triggered by things like guess that's why it feels so good to help—stress or anxiety (secondary wetting). people and to know you've changed

Moore has spent 15 years helping people overcome their enuresis. It's a job that has its roots in raising her own family. Her daughter began wetting the bed at age 6. It took two years to overcome the problem and while her daughter was seeing a psychologist.

Moore gathered every bit of information she could on enuresis

She came up with her treatment program "by trial and error over a period of years and kept adding to it" until it became what it is today. The treatment involves a bio-feedback, physiobehavioral method of changing the patients's deep sleep pattern into the more typical pattern of a non-bedwetter. It is drug-free and non-invasive and employs development and strengthening exercises to reinforce the urinary system.

Some 20 million children and adults wet the bed, many of the adults because of defective urinary organs, weakened muscles, descending bladders and other physical problems that make voluntary control around the clock difficult.

Sleep problem

Enuresis, however; is caused by an abnormal deep sleep pattern. It is inherited and can start at birth and continue on (primary wetting) or lay Amongyoungsters, enuresis affects 10-15 percent of 5-year-olds. The number drops to about 5 percent for childrenages 10-15 and 1-2 percent for 16to 18-year-olds. And almost three times as many boys as girls wet the bed, according to Moore.

Hello, it's me: Cleo, the office cockateel, is used to putting clients like 7-year-old Jonathan Rice of Livonia at ease when they visit the center.

LeAnn Strasser is looking forward to walking down the aisle on her wedding day.

William Platt is anxious about starting his fresh-hopes of getting gainful employment.

Three different people with a lot in common. They are in various stages of recovery from accidents involving closed head injuries. And in this season of giving thanks, they are thankful for the recovery they have made with the help of Personal Therapists Inc.

Strasser, Platt and Popiolek were among a group of clients from the Livonia-based rehabilitation agency who chose Thanksgiving to speak about the good things in their lives. All members of a personal self-esteem class, they decided to practice their public speaking while telling whomever would listen what they were thankful for.

"I lost a lot when I had my accident, but I've got a lot to be thankful for," said Strasser in a slow halting voice. "I was 19 years old when I got in a motorcycle accident with my boyfriend Rick. He died, so I feel real lucky to be alive.

Optimism and ambition appear to be guiding forces in this writer's busy life. She is able to see a light at the end of a tunnel which has not yet been built.

Determination is long, strong and cannot be missed. Until she has completed what she set out to accomplish, she does not give up?.
There is also an independent side, and she appears to persist in some independent ways.

This is a serious young woman who is conscientious about her obligations. She is willing to assume responsibility. She seems to vacillate between getting right down to business and dallying a little. Once she begins to execute her duties she is both precise and careful. Punctuality may not be her highest priority.

There is an intensity to her as she goes about her work. This handwriting carries heavy pressure and when considered with the total picture suggests vitality and a competitive nature.

The extreme entanglement in her handwriting lines tells us she is restless and searching. She seeks change and variety in her daily living. She probably has a great deal of nervous energy and must be on the move almost constantly. Whether on the job or at home, she dislikes being confined to small areas. She needs freedom and room in which she can move around. She also needs social activities. At times I rather suspect she gets over-involved to the point where she finds herself chasing her tail.

There is a little irritation here.

In need of a gift? Why not a basket

Tis the season to be jolly and day to an organization that need think about all you have to do to get ready for the holidays. There are trees to trim, cookies to bake and gifts to buy.

And one person willing to help with one of those tasks.

"Let us take care of one of your major responsibilities . . . the gift buying," said Pam Vann of The Gift Basket.

The Gift Basket can provide custom gift baskets for both personal presents and corporate gifts.

Operating out of her Livonia home, Vann offers a variety of popular "theme" baskets. Her own creative efforts coupled with the customer's ideas make terrific gifts at Christmas.

'We have a gift for everyone on your list regardless of age from the child to the grand-parent," she said. "Maybe you want to hide that special gift you are planning to give, such as a jewelry item, inside a basket."

In the 10 months since starting her business, Vann has created baskets for a wide variety of customers, ranging from a 60th birthed several identical baskets to use as recognition gifts.

"Because of the positive response from customers, my confidence has grown in developing original designs and experimenting with decorations and accessories," she said.

The average person gradually drifts through the four stages of sleep to the deepest level. If sufficient bladder pressure develops, the person is able to awaken. The enuretic person, however, drops swiftly to the deepest level of sleep and stays there for longer periods of time. As a result, when the brain is notified of sufficient bladder pressure, he cannot awaken and returns to deep sleep after the involuntary urination. For some, the wets can be a dribble; for others, they can be full-blown

The deep sleep pattern is the same pattern found in sleepwalkers or people who have night terrors. Moore said. But while "all bedwetters are deep sleepers, not all deep sleepers are bedwetters."

The sleep pattern can have a detrimental effect. When the child plunges into a deep sleep, he doesn't get a good sleep, so he awakens not rested and sluggish, according to Moore. As he gets to the fifth-sixth grades, the lack of rest can affect him academically - an appearance of a disciplinary problem, not paying attention or episodes of daydreaming.

'I have a college student who is a bedwetter who said he couldn't focus, that he felt like he was drifting," Moore said: "He said, 'I know I'm bright but I can't do it; I have to work on the bedwetting

The treatment involves both the parents and children. While parents record everything that happens and learn how to interrupt the child's sleep pattern, the child has to drink more fluids to develop the bladder which almost always increases in size. Once the bladder has enlarged, the treatment turns to strengthening mus-

"The exercises depend on what the child needs," Moore said. "We have them drink more rather than less to help develop the bladder. If you restrict their fluids because they wet the bed, it implies they're doing somthing wrong, that they're different.'

The whole program can take three-four months, then there's two months of testing, including a gradual reduction in the exercises to try and force bedwetting. Then the patient is weaned off the program completely.

Sensitivity counts

Keeping in mind that it's difficult to talk to strangers about bedwetting, Moore has staffed the center with counselors who are nurses, social workers and the like who are sensitive to the need of the clients. There also is a psychologist, Lyle Danulof, to deal with the psychological problems,

Parents, children and adults see an improvement fairly quickly, usually within the first twothree weeks, Moore said. And by the end of the program, strong friendships have developed between the counselors and clients.

Flowers, candy, cookies, even a party complete with cupcakes are ways the staff is thanked for their work and cameras even show up to take snapshots of favorites, including Cleo, a cockateel, who claims the reception desk as its domain and gladly greets each and every person who walks in the

In his letter, Daniel Clark included drawings of a caped crusader, Enuresis Man, and his rival, The Evil Wet Face. He was thankful for the help and the new freedom the treatment gave him. He also wrote: "I'm gonna miss you . . . you've been a great buddy through all this stuff . Don't go thinking I'm going to forget you. I'll never forget you, Barbara . . . never.'

Introducing The Market Rate CD. Wall Street Thrills Without Wall Street Chills.

This year we're offering you a blue chip opportunity to invest in a new kind of two-year CD. One that allows you to go after Wall Street's potentially higher rates without risking your principal. Your Market Rate CD can be opened with a low $2,000 minimum deposit. At the end of each 52-week period, your interest is calculated based on the average change in the 5 & 1 500 reported in The Wall Street Journal. And at maturity, you're guaranteed a 100% return of your FDIC-insured initial deposit. The new Market Rate CD. Now the best way to lock in the market's high earnings potential is with a CD that has no risk to principal.

Lock Up A Rising Rate With A CD That Won't Lock You In.

Every six months of its initial two-year term, our Rising Rate CD gives you a guaranteed increase in your interest rate without locking you in. The rate earned for each six-month period rises as the chart above indicates, giving you 4.75% APY during the final six-month period.* You can withdraw all of your investment within the first 10 term without penalty. Or you can make a partial withdrawal without penalty as long as you maintain a $1,000 balance. And the minimum deposit amount is only $1,000. The Rising Rate CD. The liquidity you want, with the guaranteed interest growth you need.

Kind word: Difficulty speaking hasn't slowed Jimmie Duncan, who chats with Dr. Dennis Bellehumeur after the Thanksgiving program.

was among the guests on hand to hear the testimonials.

"I've made really good accomplishments ... my speech is a lot better and I can walk short distance with a cane," she said. "I've got my own apartment, and I've got a man. My goal is to walk down the aisle and meet my lovey Tom and marry him,

Fiance Tom Gribble beamed at her announcement. In his senior year at Madonna University, where he's studying sociology, he understands what Strasser has been through. He, too, suffered a closed head injury in 1985 as the result of an automobile accident He suffered a ruptured blood vessel and his brain was close to shutting down from the increasing pressure when doctors operat-

The two met at PTI - "It was love at first sight for me," Gribble said. "I saw him and thought 'I've got to have him,' "Strasser said.

PTI is the thread that weaves through the lives of these people. In Michigan since 1987, PTI offers a program that uses the community to the maximum to achieve successful rehabilitation of its clients.

It provides a wide range of therapies — physical, occupational, vocational and speech and language - and neurobehavioral intervention. It has a six-bed residential facility and eight supported apartments where clients learn to live as independently as possible.

'We work for zero exclusion,' said Jeffrey Lin, vocational coordinator. "We do group and individual therapy in the community not in the hospital and that's the important thing. We want to do everything we can for them in the home, in the workplace, in the recreational area."

While PTI works to make its clients as productive as they can be, it also serves as their advocate, coming up with creative ways to pay the bills.

'It costs $1,200 a day to keep them in psychiatric hospitals, and we cost far less," Lin said. (PTI costs 50 percent or more.)

Many of the clients who spoke told of the trials and tribulations of getting the right kind of rehabilitative help.

A football player, Platt suffered two broken legs, dislocated shoulders and a head injury in an accident two years ago. A native of-Windsor, he credits his physical conditioning in surviving the accident. As soon as he could he went into the gymnasium and taught himself to walk, but eventually turned to PTI to get the rehabilitative therapy he couldn't get in Canada.

"I'd like to thank my family, friends and PTI and its staff," he said. "I've come a long way in such a short time. I'm thankful to be able to go back and get an edu-

Kathleen McKeon took the long way to PTI. Also in an accident, her symptoms were slow to develop. Doctors did tests and more tests as her symptoms progressed from memory loss to seizure problems to grand mal seizures

"My bat wasn't connecting with the ball," she said. " My memory was gone. My brother was in an accident and in a coma for three months and his memory was better than mine. I heard that I ought to be locked up because I couldn't take care of myself.'

Two of the seizures caused further damage, and she was on the verge of a third one when she caught up with Dennis Bellehumeur, a clinical psychologist and PTI vice president. She doesn't remember that day, but credits Bellehumeur in getting her hospitalized and into the PTI program.

'I subsequently started attending PTI, and I got information; I got support. I started feeling better; I started sounding better. What it boils down to was I was laughing again. I saw a part of the old me coming out again.

"This program and the people" have gotten me where I am today. I know now I will get better and ee a light.'

Recovery hasn't been as comolete for Jimmie Duncan, who walks with the help of crutches and has difficulty speaking. He may never be completely independent but just doing work around the PTI office has changed him, according to Lin.

"He's in the residential setting and once he got out and into a work routine, he started wearing a jacket and glasses," Lin said. "Work for him isn't a $100,000 a year job; work was something that keeps him busy.

Duncan has found reason to smile and laugh. And one of the people who makes him chuckle is Sharon Brown who was in an accident six years ago and ended up

The doctors had told her parents she "would never walk, talk-or see again," but she walked to the podium, looked squarely at the audience and said: "If it wasn't for my family and God, I wouldn't be here. I'm just so thankful to be here today.'

Likewise, thanks came from Popiolek who credited PTI with his progress, Nerico Johnson who has returned to school to get his high school diploma and Paul Hugler who offered thanks for the support of his parents and the therapy program.

The last client to speak was Chris Belanger, also from Canada, who was struck by a drunken driver while walking to his uncle's house. The car was traveling at 60 miles per hour and Belanger was tossed onto the hood. He fell off in front of a volunteer rescue sta-

"My tongue had lodged in my throat and I was hemorrhaging from my head," he said. "The man saw me fall into the ditch. He did a tracheotomy and whatever. I went to four different hospitals and by the grace of God, I'm here today."

Child's playing is outstanding

BY AVIGDOR ZAROMP

Joshua Cullen, at the age of 9, is an outstanding planist. At the Nov. 14 Plymouth Symphony Or-chestra concert at Novi High School, he performed a movement from the Piano Concerto K. 488 in A major (No. 23) by Mozart before a capacity audience.

His musical and artistic grasp is of the kind that one finds only among mature and accomplished

His playing goes beyond clear scales and technically correct arpeggios. His phrases are, for most part, well-rounded annd shaped. The intensity of the octaves in the bass and the fullness of his chords constitute an amazing feat for someone whose palm is barely large enough to span an octave.

Born in Hawaii, he lives in Livonia where he studies piano with Mary Siciliano. He has participated in Master Classes at Interlochen and at the University of Kansas, studied in Vienna with Paul Badura-Skoda, one of the foremost authorities on Mozart's music, and is travelling to Russia to perform with the Moscow Symhony Orchestra.

Even the most gifted child has some growing and expanding ahead, as Mozart's own early symphonies attest. There were some weak phrases in his performance, but these were only minor exceptions to his unmitigated strong and unusually mature approach

As this event was geared for an audience with many young school children, only short selections were performed. Other works on the Musical Safari, as this event was titled, consisted of popular selections from "Beauty and the Beast," "Disney Magic," "The Muppet Medley" and John Williams's Olympic fanfare and Theme. A more mainstream Classical selection was Britten's Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra. Trudy Bradley, from WQRS, was the narrator in this work, and she also introduced the

Exhibit shows spirit of Christmas

Members of the Plymouth and Livonia Wards of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints are hoping their creche and quilt display will point the community to the noncommercial spirit of

"Our focus is to help turn thoughts away from commercialism to the reason for the season," said organizer Linda Day. "We want to replace commercialism with the spirit of peace and goodwill.

In its sixth year, the display features more than 600 creches representing at least 30 countries. It is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, Dec. 3, at the Livonia Ward, 31450 Six Mile at Merriman Road. It will also be open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, 1-9 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6. Admission is free.

Christmas concerts will be presented by congregation members of the two wards 7-8 p.m. Friday, by Ward Presbyterian Church's Madrigal Singers 4-7 p.m. Saturday, by Stevenson High School's choir, the "Village Singers," 7-8 p.m Sunday, and by Churchill High School's choir, Chorata 7-8 p.m. Monday.

Kathy Facione, a Livonia teacher, Leslie Snow, a homemaker, and Richard Thorderson, a Wayne State University associate provost for academic affairs and former Livonia school board member, are co-chairs for this year's exhibit

Attendees are often surprised that there are creches from non-Christian countries like China, Indonesia and Russia, said Day, a professional storyteller.

How to savor the precious gift of time

More than six years ago, the Relief Society, the Livonia ward's women's auxiliary, hosted its first creche display at a mother-daughter Christmas party.

"Every year, attendance has doubled," Facione said.

Since then congregation members are ever-alert to picking up new and unusual creches. Even the church's foreign missionaries are looking for creches, Day said.

Miniature creches measure 3 inches or less. One creche is made from Israeli olive wood.

Quilts are equal attention-grabbers at the exhibit, Day said. Sue Cleary, owner of Automated Transcription Inc. in Livonia, is one of 10 women providing handpieced, hand-appliqued quilts for vive winter in Michigan despite the cold and the depleted food supply. To do so, they adapt in many different ways. Deer lower their physiological requirements so they do not need as much food. They also grow a winter coat of long fur that helps insulate them:

Other animals live off stored fat and rest during bad weather and cold temperatures. Raccoons, skunks and opossum exhibit this kind of adaptation. During warm days, they seek food where they can find it.

One way animals adapt is by taking advantage of new situations. Those animals that cannot adapt are more likely to die.

Man has created many situations to which numerous animals cannot adapt. We no longer see those animals in urban and suburban areas. But man also has created situations to which some animals can adapt.

Under a deck, for instance, is a great place for animals to seek shelter. It's inaccessible and during winter it may be warm because it is next to a house. Skunks will take advantage of these conditions without hesitation. Some animals even take advantage of our holidays. I recently saw a fox squirrel chew its way into my neighbor's pumpkin. The pumpkin was outside for decoration but somehow the squirrel knew there were seeds inside the super squash. It chewed its way inside and then poked its head. through the hole to grab a mouth-

Squirrels in our backyard chewed through our used pumpkins too. Actually, if they had had access to the carved front, they would have realized that there were no seeds inside. Instead it looked like the monster pumpkin just swallowed a squirrel. Animals will do what they have to in order to survive. To help them, we can provide good seeds during winter and add shelter by piling used Christmas trees in the

VICTORIA DIAZ

Visit country schools via new Canton book

anton possesses a long and colorful history that reflects, in a very real sense, how the American countryside has changed during the last century. I've been looking at just a piece of that history this week via "Canton's Country Schools." a newly published book compiled by longtime Canton resident Joan Cavell Palmer and commissioned by the Canton Historical Society.

Its 445 pages are a delight to examine, even if (as in my case), you've had no significant connection with Canton's history. In fact, it would make an especially suitable gift for all Michigan history buffs on any holiday list.

Packed with class photos, teacher photos, a history of each of Canton's 10 country schools, class rolls, teacher lists, excerpts from students' journals, notes from school board meetings, reproductions of documents, programs, even some school lunch menus and information on the weather and wind velocity on long-ago school days, this detailed "story" makes for a fascinating visit to yes-terday, no matter what your background.

Former students' memories

One of the more intriguing facets of "Canton's Country Schools" are the pages devoted to former students' memories of the country school experi-

Many, for example, appear to remember exactly what they took to school for lunch each day (peanut butter and bologna have enjoyed big popularity with kids for a very long time now). Others recall chilly classrooms (and even chillier outhouses); punishment meted out for comparatively minor offenses, like passing notes or talking in class; field trips to places like Hines Park or Detroit; spelling bees (and a dictionary for the winner); the smell of wet coats and gloves in the classroom on winter days; drinking from a communal pail and cup in the days of typhoid and polio epidemics; trudging to school through snowbanked fields.

Palmer says that "Canton's Country Schools' took her a little more than three years to complete. At one time, a typesetter for the Plymouth Mail, she helped a friend, Diane Wilson, put together 'Cornerstones," a history of early Canton families), several years back. Subsequently, she got to know even more about Canton's past when she updated disheveled Canton cemetery records over a period of time.

Eventually, a history of Canton's rural schools seemed something that simply needed to be done, she says. After presenting her thoughts on the matter to the Canton Historical Society, she was quickly taken up on the idea and was granted financial backing for the project from start to finish by the group.

She admits to feeling a little nervous about setting out on such a major undertaking at first

"I'm not a writer," she says. "But, after awhile, I reasoned that I could simply take other people's words and compile them. And that's essentially

But where and how to start?

Loads of research

She interviewed dozens of people, asked others to fill out questionnaires, tracked down documents, souvenirs, old photos. She placed ads in area newspapers, seeking any kind of related information or response from individuals who had former connections with the schools. News of her project seemed also to travel rapidly by word-ofmouth, she says, and many people she hadn't previously contacted came forward to provide muchneeded information.

Many of the school records she sought out could not be located through the usual channels. (It is rumored that the records were destroyed in a fire at the Bartlett School several years after the rural Canton schools discontinued classes in the mid-

By a stroke of miraculous luck, though, many records, photos and invaluable memorabilia had been saved by area individuals and families and most were more than eager to share them with Palmer as she worked on the book. Some material, in fact, was stored in her own attic. (Her husband, Warren, and many members of his family attended rural Canton schools. He was a student at the Hanford School in the 1930s.) The project was a family affair in another way, too. Joan Palmer's niece, Leslie Joan Cavell, proofed copy, listed resource material and indexed the book.

Walk offers holiday decorating tips

■ Sparkling decorations and scents of bayberry and evergreen, a feast for the soul, await visitors to the fifth annual Christmas Walk to benefit Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

If you're looking for simple, inexpensive ways to fill your home with the sights and scents of an old-fashioned holiday season.

consider the fifth annual Christmas Walk hosted by Friends for Development of Greenmead 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4.

Visit eight Livonia houses filled with hundreds of ideas sure to transform your home into a sparkling wonderland this holiday season. Pick up ideas for making decorations from everyday items found in the home. Learn how one floral designer creates candle holders from oranges that release a scent of sugar and spice as the wick burns.

Tickets are $7 in advance or $8 he day of the walk. Proceeds benefit he restoration and preservation of the Alexander Blue House at Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village.

"People will be able to get ideas for their own homes and to appreciate what has been decorated in . these homes," said Dee Dee Ditmar, walk co-chairwoman.

Designers from eight Livonia flower shops will add their special spice to the homes: Market Street Florist, Flowers from Joe's, French's lowers & Gifts, George's Livonia Gardens, Hearts & Roses, Premier Designs, Silk Flowers & Things and VIllage Green Florist.

Festive accents dressing Peggy and Bob Fisher's 1920s Craftsmanstyle bungalow will inspire visitors to create holiday trimmings by recycling nature's bounty. Grapevines, pine cones and evergreen boughs harvested from their back-yard become wreaths; strung popcorn, a garland, Chuck Redding of Market Street Florist expands upon this concept while keeping to a palette of pink, blue and mauve.

"I'd like people to know that everything I do, they can do because we basically use everything in their house," said Redding.

"It's just the ideas that they have to come up with, and go out and spend $1.50 for six oranges. Even in n a chalf something for Christmas.'

Media include oil, acrylic and watercolor paintings, pastel, pen and ink, colored pencil and charcoal.

An opening reception to announce the award winners will take place 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6. The public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Juror for the show is award winning artist, Barbara Demgen of Livonia. She will award prizes in four categories: Best of Show; First Place (2) in wet and dry media, $40; Second Place(2), $25; Third-Place (2), $15; and five Honorable Mentions.

Show visitors will vote for the winner of the People's Choice Award to be announced at the art association's next meeting.

Demgen, an artist for more than 30 years, earned a master of fine arts degree at Marygrove College in Detroit and a bachelor of science degree from Wayne State University. She retired 11/2 years ago after 27 years of teaching art in Birmingham and Livonia schools. The last four years of her teaching career, she worked with gifted visual art students in the Creative and Performing Arts program in Livonia Public Schools. She has exhibited in one-woman shows at Atrium Gallery in Northville Livonia City Hall, Greenmead Historical Village and Marygrove College.

"There's landscapes, floral, still life, a good variety of work at very affordable prices," said Norma McQueen, GCFAA president.

B BOOKMARK ART

Livonia resident Federico U. Acerri's bookmark artworks - collage, abstraction, whimsy, poetry -- will be on display in the Livonia Civic Center Library second-floor showcases Dec. 1-29. Known as the Mad Monk, he's a self-taught artist who has studied calligraphy, printmaking, pottery and still life. His first love is pen and ink splashed with color.

I like to combine words with drawings, making them both into a single piece of art that rely on each other for their message and intent,' Acerri said.

Art Beat

His bookmark art is "very unusual and very different," said Livonia arts commissioner Lee Alanskas, in charge of the display cases. "1 thought they showed a lot of creativity and imag-

The Mad Monk, an artistic device to grab the viewer, "is both religious and somewhat of a rogue," Acerri said. "He takes religion seriously, life seriously, his relationships seriously, but he also knows that the only real way to take all these things seriously are with a certain joy and would hope that they would think about what they see with a certain seriousness and love, with an appreciation for the shortness of life and the pleasure, pain and love of relationships.

"I don't expect the viwer to see what I see but 1

M SATURDAY ART

The Wayne State University College of Education Saturday Art School students includes 13 Observerland residents: Doug Bingham, Heather Earnley, Andrew Grant, Kyle Grant, Elizabeth Kmieciak, David LaGory, Patrick LaGory, Karen Mitchell, Kelly Mitchell and Christopher Rayle, all of Livonia, and Kristin Chapman, Meghan

Chapman and Brad Nawrocki, all of Westland. About 150 grade and high school students from across the area take part in the 10-week fall visual arts program. Their drawings, paintings and self portraits are on exhibit 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays to Dec. 6 in the Community Arts Gallery foyer, Cass and Kirby, Detroit.

Greenmead's Friends spotlight 7 Livonia homes

By Linda Ann Chomin Special Writer

Whether you're looking for decorating ideas or simply trying to conjure up a little holiday spirit, the fifth annual Christmas Walk hosted by Friends for Development of Greenmead Saturday, Dec. 4 offers seven Livonia homes shimmering with magical sights, scents and sounds.

Along with the Simmons/Hill House Museum at Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village, six homes trimmed by floral designers from eight Livonia flower shops provide plenty of inspiration this season.

Joshua Simmons III built the main farmhouse at Greenmead. then called Meadow Brooke Farm, in 1841. Decorations by a dedicated group of Greenmead volunteers will focus on an angel and star theme this year to trim its Greek Revival architecture in "A Heavenly Christmas."

Sherwin Hill, a prominent Detroit attorney, purchased the. sprawling farm in 1920, re-naming it Greenmead after his wife Jean's family home in Baltimore. Many of the furnishings are original to the home. Also on the tour:

French's Flowers & Gifts does the avant-garde decorations for a 1967 two-story home with four bedrooms. The home was recently redecorated reflecting the latest in ultra-contemporary design.

Premier Designs takes on the dramatic changes created when major renovations were made on a tri-level built in 1962. Only the second to own this home, the present occupants have added to the lower-level, family-room French doors leading onto a sunken patio, and a fireplace with a raised hearth extending to the patio, which serves as an outdoor bench.

Two rear bedrooms with atrium doors opening onto a bi-level can-tilevered deck offer a panoramic. view of the wooded area behind the house. Enlarged by a bay window with built-in seating, the kitchen boasts new cabinetry and into their home 19 years ago, they slate floor. 'Cell' paintings full of life

In a way, you could call Beverly Fishman's paintings works in progress

They are finished, but represent a continually changing process. They convey a sense of fluidity and something not static. They are alike the cells they resemble.

'That's life," said Fishman, who was appointed artist in residence and head of the department of painting at the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills last year. 'That's what the cell does.

An exhibit, "Hybrids: New Work by Beverly Fishman," continues at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, 1221 Woodward, to Jan. 23. Another exhibit of Fishman's work continues at the Susanne Hilberry Gallery, 555 S. Woodward in Birmingham, through Jan. 15.

The pieces are collage paintings of photo-based laser copies and acrylic paint on curved wood panels. Introducing a new energy into painting, the artist makes images of cellular positions.

The history of painting is centuries old, the technology

I'm using is 25 years old. "Hybrids is a good title. I think hybrid is . . between the technology and painting that I'm using."

The very process Fishman uses in her work is like the regenerative process of a cell. The artist takes an image from a scientific or medical text and alters it with a four-color laser copier - stretching, flopping, coloring, distorting and copying it. After the images are cut and glued onto plywood panels, Fishman paints in colors to link the forms. Sometimes she draws or paints on a copy and recopies it.

Years ago I was interested in the body, interested in who we are, what we are," the artist said, explaining how the work

The cell is a very powerful source to talk about a lot of ideas that are current right now (such as cloning).

The oval or circular shape of the works is like a microscope lens. The viewer is invited to examine the work and extend that examination to himself or herself. Some of the works are joined in the center like a locket. They still carry the idea of self and identity because sometimes hair or other reminders of a person are carried in a

A landscape or galaxy is suggested by some of the pieces. They encourage the viewer to extend examination even further, just as discoveries concerning the cell can lead to more questions rather than sealing them off.

Think art as you shop on holiday trail

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER

Holiday shoppers take heart and think art. The Detroit Institute of Arts has timely gift-giving suggestions for all ages and inter-

A replica of Auguste Rodin's "The Think er" has been a DIA bestseller, says Kathryn Darby, retail operations director.

"The Thinker is a perfect example of the type of merchandise our shops carry," Darby said. "We purchase items that reflect the quality of the DIA's permanent collection to make it possible for customers to own a bit of the museum's 100-year legacy," Darby said.

"The Thinker," which can be seen outside the DIA's Woodward Avenue entrance, was originally created as part of Rodin's larger work, "The Gates of Hell" — an ornamental door for a proposed Palace of Decorative Arts.

Sculpted on a small scale in proportion to the door, "The Thinker" looks at the scenes of human passion and pain. Two sizes are available: a $95 (12-inch) and a $175 (17-inch).

The DIA museum shops, which are in Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi and the Somerset Collection in Troy, are open during mall hours. A third store is at the museum in Detroit's New Center area.

Another unique holiday gift is a geometricshaped deck prism paperweight. Historically the deck prism was placed strategically on the deck of a boat so it would cast light into the living quarters below. The original is in the Seaport Museum in Mystic, Conn. Legend claims the Great Pyramid in Egypt used the same concept to light its interior. The DIA suggests displaying alone on a desk ($19.95) or atop a lighted base ($27.50) oanstone is also av dlesticks, 12-inch decorative plates and soap dishes. Each item looks well alone or grouped together on a credenza in the office or on a coffee table.

Mined in Africa, the soapstone is colored with vegetable dye and incised with traditional patterns such as lions, elephants, rhinoceroses and zebras.

The carving of soapstone is a dying art form among African tribesman, who traditionally passed the skill from generation to generation. The pieces range in price from $15 to $85.

The DIA's collection contains original pieces, including an antique nephrite jade beaded necklace carved during the Ching Dynasty (1821-1851) to a lapis-and-silver-beaded necklace accented with a silver finger nail guard even a stunning necklace of onyx and goldplated beads featuring ancient Egyptian hieroglyphics.

For a more traditional gift, the DIA shops "The Columbian Collection," a collection of gold-washed, Columbian-made jewelry sold exclusively in museum shops across the country.

It was made famous by actress Angelica Houston a couple years ago when she wore one of its stunning six-inch lizards for a Vanity Fair cover.

The Collection is owned by Fran Nanetti, formerly of Huntington Woods, who brought the latest designs with her from Columbia to the stores in late October.

The Collection is exclusively offered in Michigan at the DIA shops. Prices range from $50 to $250.

DIA officials say that the unique pieces, cast in brass and plated in 24-karat gold, are fashioned entirely by hand by mountain artisans using the lost wax process.

The Columbian Collection offers large earrings, bracelets, cufflinks and pins. The cufflinks and tie tacks are shaped like frogs, turtles, lizards and even little South American people. The cufflinks cost, $55; the tie tacks

A cuff-like bracelet made of a half-dozen or more of the reptiles is matched with a tiger'seye or jadeite beaded necklace with the same turtle shape used as the matching pendant.

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer aids Toys for Tots

To help bring holiday joy to needy kids, Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate sales associates, in cooperation with the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves, are participating as Toys for Tots sponsors.

Their 17 branch offices serve as official collection centers for new unwrapped toys until Dec. 24.

In addition, the offices will be hosting Santa parties and other events: ■ Dec. 4 — Noon to 4 p.m., West Bloomfield, 33030 Northwestern

Highway. Free pictures with Santa when you drop off a new unwrapped toy. Refreshments. Stuffed stockings for children. Visit with a U.S. Marine. ■ Dec. 10 — 4-10 p.m., Birmingham, 534 S. Woodward. Read stories with Mrs. Claus and enjoy an evening with Santa. In conjunction with the city of Birmingham's midnight shopping spree. Enjoy hot chocolate and doughnuts. Drop off a new unwrapped toy and get your picture with Santa. Stuffed stockings for chil-

Growth solid at RE/MAX

The RE/MAX Detroit Metro Region experienced sales dollar volume growth of nearly 25 percent ($255.3 million, up from $191.9 million) for the third quarter of 1993 over the same period last year, said Edward LeVoir, regional director.

"Extremely-low interest rates continue to boost housing sales," LeVoir said. "First-time and move-up buyers are taking advantage of the opportunities now available. Our market offers a large supply of affordable housing. With the median price of a home in the Detroit area under $90,000, we are well under the national median price of $108,400."

The RE/MAX Detroit Region has 350 associates working from 25 offices in the tri-county area.

The National Association of Realtors also reported a 15.1-percent increase in housing sales in the U.S. for the third quarter.

dren. Visit with a U.S. Marine.

■ Dec. 10-11 - 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Troy, 901 Tower Drive. Drop off a toy for the barrel. Refreshments. Stuffed stockings for children.

■ Dec. 11 — 1-5 p.m., Livonia, 19241 Newburgh. Free pictures with Santa when you drop off a new unwrapped toy. Refreshments. Stuffed stockings for children.

Deerhurst: 'practical, affordable'

Success often breeds success. Uniland, which built Hunter's Pointe in Westland, has followed up with another project just down the road. Even though the models are still under construction, deposits already have been placed on about 20 units at Deerhurst.

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Build a functional condominium with some nice amenities for $100,000 or less and people will come, look and buy.

That's the thinking of Rex Rosenhaus, a Farmington Hills developer/builder, who's in the process constructing models at Deerhurst in Westland.

His company, Uniland, plans to erect 87 units on a 10-acre site off Central City Parkway, between Ford and Warren.

All will have two bedrooms. A twostory townhouse of 1,200 square feet with a one-car attached garage and no basement is currently priced at $82,900, a single-story ranch of 1,100 squarefeet with a two-cargarage and basement, $101,000. Buyers can choose either model with or without a basement and a one-ortwo-cargarage. Other options include decks, fireplaces, ceiling fans and automatic garage-door openers.

The models should be finished this onth, but deposits have been placed on 18 units, Rosenhaus said.

"We try to provide a spacious and practical home for the way people live today in an affordable price range, he said. "We find people who are attracted to a condo lifestyle want a

Concierge helps others fulfill wants

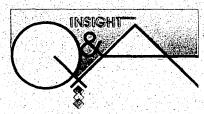

BY DOUG FUNKE

Forsomeone who dislikes tending to some of life's little details for herself, Francine Finucan, 40, of Troy earns a living doing for others as a concierge, or glorified errand runner.

The former waitress, restaurant manager and dental assistant has operated her business, Executive Concierge Services, out of her home for about four years now.

Finucan's first job was arranging for and moving a client from one residence to another. Her big break came when the Somerset Park Apartments in Troy hired her to put together appreciation parties, then promoted her othr services to tenants.

Capital investment to establish her business in terms of dollars was fairly low - "I guess it came to less than $1,000" - but the cost has been extremely high in terms of time, energy and emotional involvement.

Until a year and a half ago, Ficunan worked full time as a waitress and another 40 hours a week nurturing her

How did you build your network of suppliers and client base?

For basic things I knew people wanted - flowers, limousine service, catering, dry cleaning - I have a (referral fee) contract with vendors. Others came up as needed. I just recently started with a moving company because I was getting so many requests.

Island living is unique. The act of crossing a waterway to your home separates you from the hectic pace of mainland life. At Island Harbor the separation is complete since arriving home and arriving at your boat are one in the same Island Harbor is a residential/marina slip condominium community on the south end of Grosse He. Twenty four townhouse and ranch units are planned to surround the just completed 32-slip marina, which handles boats up to 30 feet. The marina provides Island Harbor residents unobstructed access to the Detroit River and the ability to literally dock boats at their back doors.

more carefree and maintenance free lifestyle, but still want the privacy of their own home.

Based on patterns at similar condo projects built by Uniland in Westland, Hunter's Pointe, and in Woodhaven, Silver Creek, most residents probably will relocate to Deerhurst just a few miles from their current residences, Rosenhaus speculated.
"Those we seem to be attracting, 70 percent are retirees or near retirees that are selling their homes in the general area and still want to be around friends and family," Rosenhaus said.

Twenty percent are younger, single people between 30 and 50. We have nurses, doctors, lawyers who may be divorced or single by choice. Then 10 percent are purchased by younger people or young couples just starting out. their first home-buying experience," he said.

Many customers who have built up large amounts of equity in existing houses buy a condo from him and a time share or another condo in warm-weather communities, Rosenhaus said.

models in popularity among elderly buyers, said Laura Tauber, project manager at Deerhurst. That age group has no interest. in climbing stairs whatsoever,

They also don't have much interest in clubhouses, swimming pools or tennis courts. Tauber added. So to reduce construction costs and keep maintenance expenses as low as possible, none of those amenities will be included

However, the units themselves exhibit some nice touches. The ranches have vaulted ceilings in the living room, kitchen and dining area. The townhouses have high ceilings in the upstairs bed-

All units contain a double. kitchen sink, dishwasher, garbage disposal, range/hood fan, private entry, first-floor laundry and at least a bath and a half.

Janet Harris, a sales rep in Silver Creek, shows the same models there that will be built in Westland. Walk-throughs in Woodhaven comment on the lighting, large windows and ceiling treatments, she said.

"The most common thing is people say it's so open," Harris noted. "They say, I expected it to be small, apartment like."

Rosenhaus said he's especially proud of the sound control hetween units. "We actually used two separate stud walls separated by an air gap of an inch and a half so there's no shared contact," he Deerhurst is serviced by the Wayne-Westland schools.

The property tax rate, subject to change depending on revised school financing plans, is currently $64.59 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. That means the owners of a $95,000 condo would pay annual property taxes of just over $3,000.

The monthly maintenance fee has been set at $80. Jackie and Anthony Gerbasi, retirees, plan to move into a ranch in Deerhurst from a home in Livonia, They liked what they saw when they visited similar models in Silver Creek.

"We have a larger house now and want to scale down," Jackie said, "We're going with a ranch. We don't want up and down. We thought it would give enough space for the two of us. I realize in location, everything is close by shopping, restaurants, access to expressways."

Andrea Markham, 33, plans to buy a townhouse in Deerhurst. It will be her first home-owning experience. She became impressed with Uniland while renting in Hunter's Pointe.

'I just like the way the set-up is, the way it's laid out, real open, spacious, not boxy, "Markham said. "I live in a townhouse where the bedrooms are upstairs. It's modern, real cozv.

VOICE MAIL DIRECTORY

Your 24-Hour Voice Information Connection

After Hours Classified Advertising:

> 591-0900 644-1070

Voice Mail® allows you to place your

Observer & Eccentric Classified ad from your touch-tone telephone anytime! You may place, change, or cancel an ad at any time. Just call us at the appropriate classified number, and listen as the operator guides you through the steps to change or place your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower than you usually do. If it's after 5 p.m. on Tuesday, your changes will be made for the following Monday paper. If it's after five on Friday or the weekend, your changes will made in time for Thursday's editions.

AdSitter: 953-2040

It's always in, even when you're out. When you add Ad Sitter to your ad, Voice Mail® allows you get messages and responses when you're not at home to answer the telephone.

Up to 50 messages can be stored for you for seven days in your personal Voice Mail® box. Take the wear and tear out of dealing with your ad responses with Ad Sitter. Eliminate those dinner interruptions or early morning calls. To add AdSitter to your own ad, call 591-0900 or 611-1070.

Personal Scene: 1-900-454-8088

Available 24 hours a day, this popular new directory lets you easily respond to a Personal Scene ad. Call 1-900-454-8088 for only $1.49 per minute and when the system answers follow the easy instructions (be sure you have the 5-digit number that appears in the ad you've selected) and be ready to leave a message if you think you've found someone you'd like to meet. To place your own free five-line ad. call 591-0900 or 644-1070, today...

HomeLine: Builders' Hotline 953-2020

Homeline is available 24 hours a day Tuesday through Sunday. It lets you listen to Open House listings placed by local Realtors according to price and/or location. It's an easy way to find out when homes are going to be open. If you're a Realtors, one of our helpful salespeople will be glad to arrange for your Open House to be listed on HomeLine.

Builders! Hotline found in Building/ Business section every Thursday, is a great way to find out about the new construction in your area. Call 953-2020 and use the Hotline number to get detailed information about new home and condo construction.
