Auto assault described in court

A witness testified that he was pinned against the Rock-a-Way bar wall by a driver charged with ramming into two cars and four people in the bar's parking lot. The witness was on crutches at the district court hearing.

BY DARRELL CLEM

Gordon Pelto had no time to run as the 1990 Mustang raced toward him while he was walking to his car from the Rock-a-Way bar in Westland, near the Garden City boundary.

The 28-year-old Westland man heard an engine racing and headlights shattering as the car slammed him against the exterior wall of the bar on Ford Road near Wildwood.

"I remember being pinned up against the wall, and I was holding onto the wall and trying to push the car off," Pelto testified Thursday in Westland 18th District Court.

"I heard an engine racing and glass breaking. Then I looked down and my legs were pinned to the wall," he said.

Pelto, using crutches to walk, testified during a preliminary hearing that ended with Carl Wayne Boone, 22, of Wayne being ordered to stand trial for ramming a car into a crowd of Rocka-Way patrons.

Boone is accused of hitting four people and two vehicles as he sped away from the bar, where he had been thrown out after fighting with a female companion. He was driving the woman's car without her permission during the 2:05 a.m. Jan. 31 incident, she testified.

Pelto, who suffered injuries to both legs, spent 15 days at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after the incident, but he said his treatments are expected to continue for six months. Three other men were hit but received lesser injuries.

Boone, who remains jailed in lieu of a $50,000 bond, faces up to 10 years in prison if convicted on four counts of

Post Office goes first class

Moving up: Shoppers seem to like the new Westland Center post office branch's location and appearance, post office employees say.

Post office opens new mall branch

The Westland Center Postal Office branch is moving up in the world - and shoppers and employees love the change and a new conversation piece in the branch's en-

On Monday, Reb. 28, the branch moved to the main level of the center, next to Nino's Pizza, across from the Gap and a few feet from the J.C. Penney court on the center's southwest corner. The move is the first since the branch was first. located in the center's concourse eight years ago.

The conversation piece is a chrome mall box, the only one in the country, in the cepter of the en-trance, said Jack Truesdell, supervisor of customer services.

"Many customers are asking if it's a real mail box," Truesdell said. He assured them that it is: The chrome is part of a renovated entrance that will serve postal box patrons and offer stamp vending machines round-the-clock.

Lookin' bright: Michael Allen, a window distribution clerk, shows off the chrome mail box at the new entrance of the Westland Center branch.

Schools, teachers ready to talk

By MARIE CHESTNEY STATE WRITER

Contract negotiations between the Livonia Board of Education and teachers are slated to begin as soon as the dust settles after the March 15 statewide special election. The contract expires Aug. 31.

"We've delayed starting negotiations until we know which one pass-' said John Rennels, assistant su perintendent for business for the district which includes the northern section of Westland.

On March 15, voters will either approve or reject a hallot proposal which, among other things, will decide if the state sales tax is raised to 6 percent from 4 percent and slash homeowners' property taxes for school operations to either 6 or 12

If Proposal A is rejected, the state income tax rate will jump to 6 percent and the school property tax bill for most homeowners will be cut to 12

Stalking defendant appears in court

BY DARRELL CLEM

Glancing across a courtroom at the Westland woman he is accused of stalking, a Garden City man mouthed the words "I love you" on Thursday as a court officer led him to a holding

The gesture from Larry James Grossman, 42, came after he appeared before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos for a pretrial hearing on stalking and malicious destruction

Grossman is accused of stalking the woman - his former girlfriend since Oct. 4. He has gone to her house several times - once kicking in her front door and chasing her to a bedroom, Westland Detective Sgt. Timothy Speir said.

Free blood-pressure tests

The Westland Mall Walkers will sponsor a free blood-pressure clinic at their monthly session Wednesday morning. Nurses from Garden City Hospital will be on hand from 8-9:30 a.m. in the mall's lower-level auditorium. The group's meeting will start at 9:30 and include a video on high fblood pressure, presented by Dorls Wilcox, a registered nurse and a Garden City Hospital community services educator. The clinic and meeting are open to the public, said John Mersch, who said the goal of the program is to increase the public's awareness of the dangers of high blood pressure. Interested persons may get information on the group and program from Mersch, 422-0397.

Senior Resource Department's senior of the month for March. Doherty, 74, has lived in Westland for 34 years and has been active in the senior department, its advisory council, and its travel organization. She is a registered nurse who retired in 1961. She served in the Army Nurse Corps for 31/4 years, stationed in Africa, Italy and France. She is also involved in St. Bernadine Church's 50-Plus Club, having served as treasurer and secretary and on the church's parish council.

Fitness through dancing

will launch a new "fitness funning through dance" program today. Line dancing, special-occasion dancing, partner dancing, ballroom dancing, and freestyle will be offered. The class will be taught by a professional instructor with the fee set at $2 for Friendship Center members. The program is described as a "fun and entertaining dance program." It will be held 3:30-4:30 Mondays in the Westland Friendship Center, 1119 N. Newburgh near Marquette.

On Thursday, 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos added a charge of car theft at the request of prosecutors.

Rock-a-Way doorman John Giocomarra, 25, testified that Boone was physically thrown from the bar after he fought with a female companion and another man who tried to break up the fight.

Giocomarra was among several people who went outside when they heard that Boone was acting suspiciously in the parking lot. Giocomarra testified that Boone drove the car forward, over a concrete parking block, and pinned Pelto to the wall.

Giocomarra said he heard Pelto scream, "My legs!"

Giocomarra, too, was brushed by the car and escaped injury by jumping onto the hood of another car, he testified.

"He came right towards me," Giocomarra testified against Boone. He estimated that Boone was driving at 30 to 40 mph.

Bar employee Don Hendrix, who had gone to Rock-a-Way even though he wasn't working that night, testified that he and another man broke out the window of the Mustang and tried to stop Boone.

"I was dragged for 10 feet (by the car)," Hendrix testified. He was treated at Annapolis Hospi-

Defense attorney Alvin Fick argued that Boone meant no harm and that he was driving erratically because he was afraid of being attacked in the bar parking lot.

"He was in fear for his life at that point," Fick said.

But Bokos rejected Fick's arguments and ordered Boone to stand trial.

Man stabbed in dispute resulting from $5 bet

BY DARRELL CLEM

A Wayne man who tried to collect on a $5 bet testified Thursday that he was stabbed three times by a Westland man who owed the money to him.

Kenneth Holt, 31, said he was stabbed once in the back, near his spine, and once on each side while he was fighting with Clayborn Douglas Dean, 39, over the mon-

"I asked twice, nicely, if I could have my $5," Holt testified in Westland 18th District Court.

Holt didn't see Dean holding the four-inch imitation buck knife before he was stabbed, he said, "but I felt it in my back."

Holt testified before Judge C. Charles Bokos during a preliminary hearing that ended with Dean being ordered to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

The stabbing occurred Feb. 17 in the living room of Dean's residence on Menominee, in Westland's Norwayne neighborhood, Holt said. The bet stemmed from Holt's claim that he could drive Dean's car — without a license plate — to a gas station and back without getting stopped by Westland police, he said.

Holt testified that he had just met Dean through a friend earlier that same day. They shared some drinks, he said.

Holt testified that Dean reneged on paying the $5 bet after Holt drove the car to a gas station, and the two fought at Dean's residence.

Dean and his girlfriend left the house after the stabbing, and Holt testified that he drank from a fifth of vodka before he walked to a neighbor's house and asked a woman to phone the police department for help.

Holt was treated for his injuries, but they weren't life-threatening. In a lighter moment Thursday, he testified that the injuries to his sides were cushioned by "my love handles, which I now call my life savers.

Under questioning from a defense attorney, Holt denied that he, too, was armed during the fight, though he did admit that he is a "knife enthusiast."

Prosecutors noted in court Thursday that Dean has served time in prison previously for larceny, stealing a car and committing sexual offenses against a mi-

A Booth Street gunfight that left a Westland man with seven pellet wounds has resulted in criminal charges against him and his accused attacker, police said.

The wounded man, Joseph Earl Justin, 32, of Westland, faces charges of felonious assault and illegal transportation of a loaded firearm. He could face up to four years in prison if convicted.

Justin is accused of driving his van to the 36300 block of Booth with a loaded 12-gauge shotgun to confront a 27-year-old man whom he believed was responsible for earlier threats made against him over a girlfriend.

When Justin arrived at the Booth Street residence, the 27year-old's father came out of the house with a shotgun, and a subsequent shootout left Justin with seven wounds, said Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe. The injuries were not life-threatening.

The 52-year-old father, George Patrick Merlino Sr., faces a charge of causing injury by unlawfully discharging a firearm, Stobbe said. He could face up to one year in jail if convicted.

Both men are scheduled to appear in Westland 18th District Court on Thursday for preliminary hearings that will determine whether they should stand trial on the charges.

Both have been released from custody on personal bonds.

The woman's attempt to escape spent time at the Psychiatric Intervention Center in Westland, him by locking her bedroom door failed when Grossman kicked in that door, too, but the woman managed to run past him and flee the house, Speir said.

Grossman also damaged the woman's car, Speir said.

But Bokos ordered Grossman to be evaluated at a state forensic center. Despite Grossman's assertion that he has no mental problems, Bokos told him, "I think it's appropriate that we find out."

Grossman left the state at one point, but returned and began stalking the woman again, Speir

A trial date hasn't yet been scheduled. If convicted, Grossman could face a year in jail for stalking and 90 days for malicious destruction of property under $100, Speir said.

For many reasons, negotiating a contract in the year Michigan dramatically changes the way it funds schools will be difficult, said both Rennels and Nancy Shaw, president of the Livonia Education Association (LEA).

Rennels pointed to the financial uncertainty hovering over all districts until they know for sure how the new school funding plan adopted affects them individual-

"There'll be a lot of items on the table, and resolving them will be difficult because of economic uncertainty," Rennels said. "Things will get easier once we see what kind of money we have.

"But given the change in funding, negotiations will be more protracted. We'll be dealing with issues that are near and dear to the hearts of employees, such as health care.'

Lying on the bargaining table also will be a lot of issues that have little to do with finances, Shaw said. These include increased stress on classroom teachers because of new job demands, a constantly changing curriculum, and even changes in the state tenure act.

"These will be difficult negotiations, mainly because of state changes and mandates." Shaw said. "The teachers' job has become more and more difficult. Teachers are being asked to deal with children with more needs, and with kids from dysfunctional families. There are more needy kids in regular classrooms.

"Plus, there's the demand on teachers to raise MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) scores. The state wants to increase the number of hours in school over the next few years.

"It's not just a matter of salary, but all these program requirements.'

Both Shaw and Rennels predicted a surge of teacher retirements this year. They attributed this surge both to the demands and changes already mentioned and to the fact that teachers might prefer retiring under a contract with which they are familiar.

Rennels estimated the number of teachers eligible for retirement at close to 500.

Right now, Rennels said, Livonia has a good mix of younger and older teachers. But an increase in retirements could help financially, because retiring teachers would be replaced by teachers at the lower end of the salary scale, and because the district won't have to pay unemployment benefits for laid-off teachers. Rennels

Negotiations also will take place during the time the district switches from one administrative team to another, July 1. Both sides said the new superintendent, Ken Watson, will bring a "good rapport" to the negotiations.

Jefferson Elementary students learn fire safety

Planning escape routes from a burning home can take the panic out of the first few moments that follow the raucous screeching of a smoke detector.

It can save lives, too, Jefferson Elementary School students learned Monday morning.

Last year, 90 children under 10 perished in Michigan fires, more than in any other age group, according to the Michigan Auto Club, which put on the safety program. There were 218 state fire victims in the state last year.

To help erase these tragic numbers, AAA Michigan again is holding some 300 fire safety programs reaching an expected 90,000 kindergarten through sixth grade students statewide.

The 30-minute sessions by AAA Michigan safety consultants feature a smoke chamber to demonstrate how smoke detectors work, how to select primary and secondary exits and how to protect against deadly smoke.

The Jefferson students learned:

■ How to escape quickly from a burning home, with emphasis on establishing a gathering place, such as at a driveway, for family members.

"Results of recent research indicated that to escape fires children were often crawling under beds or hiding in toy bins rather than getting out of the house," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan community safety services manager. "We realized that we had to teach children how to help themselves."

■ Various fire prevention tips, such as stressing that matches should be regarded as a tool, such as a drill or power saw, and not as a toy.

■ How to crawl to a door once a smoke alarm sounds and to touch the door with the back of the hand to determine if it is hot and, if so, to crawl to a different means of escape, such as a win-

"One of the most important" things this program teaches is that children must not panic but instead react quickly and rationally to fire danger," said Basch. "Planning escape routes beforehand helps accomplish this."

Safety talk: Auto Club representative Renee Ramos demonstrated to Jefferson School students how smoke spreads during a typical house fire.

Louis Ansara was reported in serious but stable condition after 90 minutes of emergency surgery at Botsford Hospital, Farmington

He and relatives own several Big Boy restaurants in the community.

Mrs. Leila Ansara, who shot herself in the family garage, was reported by relatives to have been suffering from postpartum depres-

Women who suffer postpartum depression describe feeling overwhelmed and, at times, even panic-stricken after giving birth.

But could those effects lead a mother of four to shoot her husband twice while her children slept and then turn a gun on herself?

A woman who suffered from postpartum depression and founded a support group said they could.

"Unfortunately, I had four of the group members call me and tell me, 'It's too bad we didn't get to her. We could've helped,"' said Farmington Hills' Kathie O'Donohue, who started a local chapter of Depression After Delivery that meets twice a month at Providence

Mr. Ansara. 41, is expected to recover after being shot two times by his wife, Leila, 29, while he slept in their home early Thursday

After the shooting, he managed to dial 911 from a bedside phone. The family's four children were asleep during the incident.

After firing the shots, police say, Mrs. Ansara put the .38 caliber handgun in a linen closet, went to the family garage and started both cars in an attempt to asphyxiate herself with carbon monoxide.

She then found another gun, a .44 caliber pistol, and shot herself in the chest.

Big question: Why?

The question that remains is why. "That's what we're trying to find out," police Inspector Thomas Godwin said. "There was something. We know that.' Police were expecting to talk with Louis Ansara on Saturday. According to Godwin, family members and neighbors interviewed said they were unaware of any problems between the couple.

A family member issued a statement Thursday saying Leila Ansara was being treated for postpartum depression after the birth of their fourth child in September. The Ansara children, ages 4, 3, 2 and eight months, were staying with a relative after the O'Donohue said she's not aware of all the details involving Leila Ansara, but it's not uncommon for a violent act to be attributable to postpartum depression. The hardest part with postpartum depression is recognizing there is a problem, she said.

"I wonder if people were taking it seriously, because people don't," O'Donohue said.

"We've had suicidal women in our group who have had doctors tell them: Go home, put your feet up and have a cup of tea.'

Commission enacts residency ordinance

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW

The Wayne County Commission adopted an ordinance Thursday requiring that all future county government employees live in Wayne County.

Currently, of 5,137 county employees (not including the courts), 439 live outside Wayne County.

There was no word by press time on whether Wayne Coun-Executive Edward McNamara would veto the ordinance. Even if McNamara does veto the ordinance, it appears the commission has enough votes (10) to override the veto.

Although a residency requirement has been in effect for Wayne County civil service employees since 1977, commissioners wished to set a policy that would also apply to upperechelon appointed officials. like, for example, the personnel director.

The ordinance, introduced by commissioner Bernard Parker, D-Detroit, says, "Each person who is hereafter hired to a position as an employee of the county of Wayne shall maintain their principal residency within Wayne County. The chief executive officer shall place the highest priority upon implementing this policy when bargaining with each (union) of Wayne County employees.

Furthermore, Parker's ordinance gives the commission and the executive the leeway to waive the residency requirement "in those cases where particular skills are required which are not possessed by a county resident."

The ordinance passed 11-4 with the following commissioners voting no: Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township; Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and part of Livonia; Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton Township, and Edward Boike, D-Taylor.

At Thursday's meeting, McCotter said, "I find it ludicrous to use the '70s for a public policy paradigm for the '90s. We're hurting the people who can least afford to be hurt."

Amann said he supports the "spirit" of Parker's intent, but "I'm not alarmed that less than 10 percent of our employees live outside of the county.'

Amann complained that very little background information was given to commissioners on Parker's ordinance. He said he didn't know how many county employees lived outside the county until he read it in the Observer, and he didn't know about the 1977 residency requirement until the commission meeting.

Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, supported the ordinance. "If the community is good enough to work for, it should be good enough to live in," she said. "If you work for Wayne County you should live in Wayne County.'

Boike said he fears that neighboring counties will adopt similar ordinances, thereby limiting the job possibilities of Wayne County residents.

The governments of Oakland, Washtenaw and Macomb counties don't have residency requirements for their employees. Monroe County does.

Palace takeover concerns employees

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

With the recent acquisition of Oakland University's Meadow Brook Music Festival, the Auburn Hills-based Arena Associates now stands to be more competitive in the already crowded Detroit music market.

President Thomas Wilson doesn't see Meadow Brook and his company's two other properties, The Palace of Auburn Hills and Pine Knob Music Theatre, as competing with each other, how-

"Although Pine Knob and Meadow Brook are outdoor amphitheaters operating during the same season, we see a complementary - not a competitive situation," Wilson said.

"With the increased popularity of outdoor tours during the summer months, having two facilities gives us the flexibility to provide the appropriate size facility for a show as well as offer more entertainment during the time of year people want to enjoy the Michigan outdoors."

The move will allow the organization to develop a variety of acts, he said. At a 7,500-seat capacity, the woodsy Meadow Brook stands nearly half the size of Pine Knob and offers a third of The Palace's seating.

The Oakland University Board of Trustees voted Thursday to approve the organization's bid to operate and manage Meadow Brook beginning this summer. Former managers Brass Ring Productions and Olympia Arenas Inc. which book shows into and run Detroit's Fox Theatre, Joe Louis Arena and Cobo Arena — "chose not to renew their contract under the existing conditions of the agreement," said Paul Bissonnette. Oakland University's vice president for finance and administration. Brass Ring and Olympia Arenas, which had run the venue since 1992, refused to comment, referring all calls to Oakland University officials.

University President Sandra Packard said every attempt was made to hammer out an agreement with the Livonia-based Brass Ring and Detroit's Olympia

"We have gone out of our way to get them to stay on, but they had other business decisions that they had to make," Packard told the trustees at their meeting.

The move will allow Arena Associates more leverage in booking shows, Wilson said.

"It will be fun because, first of all, it's a wonderful place to watch shows. It's a great niche for us because we can go to artists or managers and sort of say, 'In this stage of your artist development, where do you see them playing, a small amphitheater . . . or a bigger amphitheater?''

Arena Associates will be responsible for all event bookings, marketing, group sales, public relations, parking, security and ground maintenance for the festi-Before Brass Ring and Olympia

Arenas began operating the venue in 1992, Meadow Brook had been operating on a $1.5-million deficit. Meadow Brook has been on the upswing financially since then; however, last year longtime summer tenant the Detroit Symphony Orchestra moved its shows to Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Despite that, Arena Associates' Wilson said with Meadow Brook he hopes to duplicate the success he has had with The Palace and Pine Knob. Since its opening in 1988, The Palace has been voted "Arena of the Year" by Performance magazine and twice by Pollstar magazine. The group took over Pine Knob 31/2 years ago and put $12 million in improvements into the amphitheater. It has become the nation's highest-grossing and mostattended amphitheater.

"We will put improvements into it and program it and book it and breathe a lot of life back into it like we did up north," he said comparing Meadow Brook to Pine Knob.

Concert goers will not see too many major improvements this year, however. Because Arena Associates got involved so close to the summer season, the changes will be aesthetic, he said.

"This year it will mostly be

Tardy commissioners tee off local woman

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

A Westland resident chewed out Wayne County government's 15 commissioners Thursday for starting their meeting a half hour

"I've been sitting here 32 minutes looking at a cocktail party," said Dorothy Smith, referring to the way commissioners and officials invariably mill about before meetings begin. "I'm not interested in watching people standing around having a good time. Every time I've been here (the meeting) has not started on time.'

Noting that the commission's agenda says the meeting will start at 10 a.m., Smith said, "Somebody here is a big liar.'

Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, told Smith that at least eight commissioners must be present to have a legal meeting. The meetings begin late, Beard said, because that's how long it takes for at least eight commissioners to show up.

Said Smith, "If they can't get here you're going to need some new commissioners somewhere."

Said Beard, "You echo my sentiments exactly."

County commissioners are paid $43,000 a year in base salary. Each of them is entitled to spend an additional $60,000 a year in office expenses.

ART ON THE EDGE

Photography relates story of homeless

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Where words fail, art communicates.

Photojournalist Guy M. Warren documents the homeless with hopes that furthering awareness of their pains and struggles will trigger the concern to find long-term solutions.

For those brave enough to look, Warren puts the word homeless into human terms. Using the stark. stripped-down elements of black and white photography, he graphically illustrates what it means to tough it out on the streets of Seattle, San Francisco, San Diego, Boston, Washington, D.C., New York City and Detroit.

Urban Park-Detroit Art Center will exhibit this powerful 45-piece series, "Living on the Edge: Homeless in America," March 11 through April 4 at the Greektown gallery, 508 Monroe in Trapper's Alley.

At an opening reception 6-9 p.m. Friday, March 11. Warren will talk about the stories behind these images that haunt. He asks all who plan to view the exhibition during its run to bring a can or two of food, a blanket or a few dollars to benefit the homeless in a Detroit area shelter.

"I began the project because I recognized a need to bring a greater awareness to the problem of homelessness in the U.S.," he said. "I also felt a need to contribute whatever I could to help. In this case it is through my craft.

"Granted the problem of homelessness is of enormous proportions all across the United States, It's obvious that I can't even begin to scratch the surface of the problem, but I can help."

Through the lenses of 35mm Nikon and Leica cameras, Warren focuses on a kaleidoscope of people in order to straighten out misconceptions: disabled Vietnam veterans, the unemployed, mentally ill, young as well as old, and those who've simply fallen through the cracks after suffering a series of bad breaks.

Hersh goes solo for 'Makers'

■ Throwing Muses has always been Kristin Hersh's band. Last week, however, she stepped out to promote her solo record "Hips and Makers."

By Christina Fuoco

Kristin Hersh fights other people's notions that being a housewife is a bad thing. For her, a family life and music career go hand in hand.

... . I think working makes me a good mother and being a good mother makes me a good musician," said the dimunitive Hersh. "I also think being a housewife is a job everyone should do, at least for a little while — it gives you a great big dose of humility. You have to work hard in your life. I don't trust people who don't know that.'

Hersh, in town last week for a pretour performance at Record Time in Rochester, has worked hard. For the last decade, she has been the catalyst behind Throwing Muses, which formerly included step-sister Tanya Donelly. Her new project is a recently released 15-song acoustic solo album "Hips and Makers." Although she thought at the time that acoustic music was "wimpy," Hersh is pleased with the project and had a simple reason for doing it.

"My husband (manager Billy O'Connell), he made me do it," she said with a chuckle during breakfast at the Omni Hotel in Detroit.

The album, which includes a guest appearance by R.E.M.'s Michael Stipe, hasn't found its way to too many radio stations' playlists. Locally, CIMX and WDET have played cuts off her album, but program directors in other areas have chosen not to play it because they were already "playing too many women," she said.

"They can't play too many men, though. . . . I never had to worry about it (with Throwing Muses) because I always sounded too much like a guy," said Hersh, who sounds nothing like a man. "Good music is all the same and bad music is all sic, the 27-year-old Hersh said, is that it misrepresents her generation. She cringes at the title "Generation

"Before people started talking about Generation X, our generation was a quiet generation that didn't want to get married if we were going to get divorced. We didn't want money or fame. Now it's all 'Reality Bites' and the Pearl Jams of the world that they call Generation X."

The music industry, she added, is "just selling this horrible candy and it's just bad for you."

She does like a few bands namely Sugar, Pond and the Meat Puppets.

'Whenever I'm pregnant, all I want to hear is the Meat Puppets," said the mother of Dylan, 7, and Ryder, 2. "I even went into labor during one of their shows but I never told them that.'

Her strong sentiments about music is what caused her to temporarily break up the Throwing Muses in June 1992.

"I cared so much about music. I was so sick of it being trashed."

She wasn't about to change Throwing Muses' direction in order to widen her audience, she said.

"I didn't want us to turn into a trendy band. Tanya really had ambitions. The songs she was doing weren't really Throwing Muses songs.

Hersh pursued a solo career. Donelly, also a former member of the Breeders, formed Belly, last summer's darlings of the music

Soon afterward Hersh, the self-described "nicest person in the world," drummer David Narcizo, bassist Bernard Georges reformed the band without Donelly. Having been in Throwing Muses since she was 14, Hersh realized how theraputic her band was for her.

"If I couldn't write songs, I would get really sick. They would just get stuck inside of me," the Rhode Island resident said.

Later this year, the band will release its next album "University." The title is a play on the fact that most Throwing Muses fans are college students but it also works well in the marketing area. Her record label has already made up sweatshirts that read "Throwing Muses Univer-

"University" was an album that Throwing Muses almost didn't record. Due to financial problems, the band was going to break up again. Fortunately, she said, she was able to work out the band's problems and continue her career that she desperately loves.

"I'm in my favorite band. I love it. I really, really love it.'

Although he feels uncomfortable about the situation, it taught him a valuable lesson in human relations.

Warren shows great compassion for the less fortunate, hiding their faces whenever possible to preserve their dignity.

"One guy is totally silhouetted; you can't see who he is. It could be anybody," Warren said. "If I were digging in the trash cans. I wouldn't want the world to see me. There's people walking by, but nobody says here's a couple dollars for a hamburger. Another guy is sleeping in a shopping cart. I watched people walk by. They ignored him like it was commonplace."

Warren began the series in earnest the spring of 1991 as a book project, but the stimulus dates back to 1984. A focal point in the exhibition, the photograph is one of two color blow-ups. Warren took it in New York City while touring with ZZ Top and Detroit's own Iggy Pop as a photographer's assistant.

Large concrete columns loom above a small heap of a man asleep on the steps. It is daylight.

"There's a lot of violence in the shelters so they spend the nights wandering the streets and sleep during the day," he said. "Living in groups, the younger stronger ones take care of the weak.'

Warren's wife Elaine, who has provided support throughout the project, points out that the problems of Phoenix's homeless differ greatly from those in Anchorage. However, they all share a common need, the need for human companionship, a little kindness, a nod to their existence.

"Many migrate with the seasons: many in southern California had come from up north," she said. "It's so easy to be homeless.

Most people are scared of them because in the backs of their minds they realize that could be them. Who doesn't live from paycheck to paycheck?

"The photographs show they're touchable, that they're brothers, they're sisters. We all go through life seeding, planting and watering seeds. If you realize it will come back to you, it's easy to give."

Warren's inspiration for the series came from photographers who recorded the plight of Americans during the Great Depression. Dorothea Lange, Margaret Bourke-White and Walker Evans serve as heroes. In spite of the fact he suffers periodic bouts with depression. Warren plans to continue his social documentary until the homeless cease to exist in this country.

"Why does anyone go out and document this horror? Because they're living less than dogs. Stop world, look," he said.

Two years of searching for a space finally brought Warren's exhibition to light. Gallery owners balked, fearing it would be unprofitable. Arts commissioners declined; the subject matter was too

Urban Park gallery director Dave Roberts makes it his policy to show work on the cutting edge. But his reason for exhibiting Warren's documentary series on the homeless came straight from the heart. The images moved him.

"I was compelled to exhibit the work of Guy Warren because not only are the images compositionally strong but also because Warren is attempting to educate and motivate his audience," said Roberts. "The black and white photographs in this exhibit are on one hand technically superb and on the other hand urge an audience

"Here we have an example of the inherent literal interpretation of the photographic image being used in a manner that transcends the traditional art exhibit.'

Thanks to Roberts at Urban Park, Laura Hardy at Nelson's Gallery in Livonia who provided frames at cost plus volunteered to cut the mats, Detroit artist Janelle Agar for framing assistance, artist/illustrator, Gwen Dietrich and typesetter Monica Zander of A.R. Brasch Advertising in Southfield, 50 percent of the sales of Warren's prints will be donated to a homeless shelter in the Detroit area.

"The minute I saw Guy's photos I knew I wanted to be a part of this project," said Hardy.

He carried his image into his 20s and his band Sweaterfish. Musically, Sweaterfish - which also includes guitarist Eric Livingston, bassist John Hobbs and drummer Paul Valente - reflects all of their styles. The band has been compared to a string of groups ranging from Bauhaus to. strangely enough, the Kinks.

said.

Sweaterfish fan Mark Chownyk describes the band as "refreshingly melodic and disturbingly surreal." It's the classification of "Goth pop" that annoys March.

"Since I have a slim vocal range ... there's not too many famous people out there (with voices like that),"explained March whose band covers Bauhaus' "Bela Lugosi's Dead." He describes his band's moody feeling as "brooding with dark overtones."

Although their blend of gothic rock and shoegazer pop is many times considered "retro," March believes that their music is valid today.

"I think it's kind of timeless," said March, while seated in Hobbs' lavish black and white Royal Oak apartment which ironically blends modern and classic art. Hobbs added that Sweaterfish is representative of the music each member enjoys.

"We're just attracted to music that's just kind of timeless. I'm still a big Bauhaus fan and I'm also a big Cure fan . . . Hopefully that influences our music, too,' said Hobbs who personally is flattered by comparisons to An unexpected fan of the band turned out to be the legendary New York club CBGB. Sweaterfish was asked to play CBGB only a month after Hobbs submitted materials about the band. That's amazingly quick for any club.

Their September 1993 show was taped by video director Peter Wallach of Peter Gabriel's "Big Time" fame and son of actor Eli Wallach. Hobbs met Wallach while the two were working on a TV commercial in New York. Sweaterfish was flattered but slightly uneasy that someone of that stature was at their gig.

"I was nervous because I know he's worked with some big people ... with huge budgets. We were all nervous being in the club in the first place," Hobbs said. Although Hobbs used his connections to get Wallach to film their show, they got the CBGB show based on their talent alone, he

Part of Sweaterfish's attraction is their down-to-earth attitude and realistic lyrics - two traits that many people can relate to.

'Our shows are pretty angstfilled. There's real power behind them. A lot of people can associate with it," March said.

Sweaterfish performs Thursday, March 10, with Fiction and Bright Black at 3-D, 1815 N. Main St., Royal Oak. For more information, call (810) 589-3344. Other upcoming performances include Friday, March 11 at the Magic Bag Theatre Cafe, Woodward Avenue north of Nine Mile Road, Ferndale, with Bent Lucy and HAL,(810) 544-3030; Saturday, March 19, at the Majestic, 4140 Woodward Ave., Detroit, with Borgia Popes and Caelum Bliss, (313) 963-7680; Friday, April 1, at Lili's, 2930 Jacob, Hamtramck, with the Trash Brats. In response to your question, I asked a prominent attorney knowledgeable in this field. He said the answer is no, parents can not be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, or with child sexual abuse for providing their son with a subscription to "Playboy." In this case the law is sensible, which is more than can be said for the parents who hired the stripper.

Tiffany & Co., in the Somerset Collection in Troy, captures springtime's sense of renewed hope with a limited-edition scarf and fragrance set that inaugurates a new program entitled "A Decade of Promise to The Twenty-First Century."This program, launched in concert with the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, is dedicated to advancing breast cancer awareness in the United States. Tif-1 fany's is one of the national sponsors of "Race for the Cure," scheduled for Saturday, April 9, at The Detroit Zoo.

The artfully designed gift set pairs a 3.4-ounce Tiffany eau de parfum spray with a symbolic silk scarf featuring pink ribbons and golden suns on a pink-and-gray background ($100). The design embodies the spirit of hope and optimism as a new decade dawns. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of this gift set will benefit the foundation.

If you collect scarves or frame them as art, you must discover Kitty Green's creations. An awardwinning graphic artist and illustrator, Green meshes those artistic disciplines in her new venture painting on silk.

Taking a cue from nature, each of her original design scarves reflect her love for the forms and colors of the landscape that surrounds her. The vibrant floral and organic "canvases" are painted with fiber-reactive dyes to become permanent works of art. "They're paintings that just happen to be wearable scarves," says Green.

Scarf smarts

Though they are decorative enough to dress a table or drape on the back of a chair. Green prefers them worn inventively as accessories tied in nonscarf ways. She offers her tying expertise to all who are interested. Kitty Green scarves are available by calling Green at her Royal Oak studio, 398-

So you can't afford a Picasso or Matisse or Gauguin. Why not frame one of their masterpieces silk-screened on a cotton or silk-scarf? The Print Gallery, 29203 Northwestern Highway in Southfield, floats the scarves in shadowbox frames. My favorite is Van Gogh's "Irises" ($176). The artful border substitutes as matting for the "painting." Wear Lautrec across your shoulders or tie Monet's "Lilies" around your waist. The cotton scarves are $25, silks are $49.

For the male art lover, the Print Gallery also displays art ties, including Markus Pierson's "Romantic Encounters" ($35) and DaVinci designs.

Other dealers in tie art include Hudson's and Jacobson's department stores where famous and not-so-famous images come down from museum walls, leaving their frames behind.

Mervyn's and Penney's have ties with cartoon characters that evoke a smile or two in even the most serious of board rooms.

Trunk show suits hard-to-fit men

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAH WRITER

- Portly gentlemen and those who need the longer lengths will get special attention during Burberry's semiannual trunk show March 10-14.

"It's their chance to customize our standard product at no extra charge, said Cynthia Feemster of Burberry's at the Somerset Collection in Troy. We will have four tables filled with hundreds of fabric swatches from which customers can select suits, slacks and blazers in different patterns and solids in silk, linen and wool. For the customer who likes to purchase two pair of pants with every coat, this is the time to order."

service for the past four years each spring and fall, Feemster said. The company's buyer-representative, Paul Goring, attends to ensure that Burberry's customers get the customtailored looks they are after.

There is no official "trunk" with the trunk show, just binders of the season's color and fabric samples spread out for customers to feel and peruse. At the trunk show, shoppers can see the complete set of samples available to Burberry's tailors.

Sales consultant Alan Rosen said the suits are priced between $595 and $795. All are made of 100-percent natural fabrics no blends. Since all Bur-Burberry's has offered the trunk berry's suit pants come with pleated slacks, the trunk show takes special orders for plain front pants.

> Burberry's suits are made under license agreement by J. Schoeneman of Fifth Avenue in New York. Suits can be special ordered within a few days if. they are in stock in New York. The trunk show suits take six-eight weeks to deliver.

> When these suits are completed, the customer must return for a final fitting where minor tailoring is performed in house to hem pant legs and shorten or lengthen sleeves.

The Burberry's Troy location leads the nation in the number of orders taken during trunk shows, Feemster said.

"Which is pretty amazing since one of our locations is in the business-suit capitol, Washington D.C." she said. "Of course, our sales staff has cultivated our trunk show invitation list over the vears. When hard-to-fit customers stop in, we refer them to the shows and then send them reminders when the show date approaches

Burberry's also makes house and office calls. There is shopping by appointment for men who can not visit the store during regular business hours. The Burberry's staff is prepared to make style and coloring recommendations to its customers. A complete line of shirts, ties and other accesssories is available.

MALL WINS MASONRY AWARD

The Masonry Institute of Michigan will award the Farmington Hills-based firm JPRA, the "M Award" for its Excellence in Masonry Design of the Somerset Collection in Troy. The exterior of the mall, according to the masonry judges, "has a timeless building palette which includes a richly colored Cranbrook brick, broken by strong horizontals of buffcolored Mankato stone.'

The new main entry, "rotunda court" includes free-standing columns, soffits and fascias clad in various thickness of Mankato stone. The entry drive, area walkways and landscape walls were designed to encompass brick masonry. A jury from Cornell Uni-

POLO SPORT AT HUDSON'S

Ralph Lauren targets buyers 18-45 years with a new line of skin-fitness products, complete with a new fragrance debuting at Hudson's this week. Each product in the Polo Sport line was formulated with Pacific Sea Kelp and algae extract to enhance the products' ability to hydrate, soothe and nourish. The Polo

Sport fragrance is a clean, citrus scent enhanced with woody notes. The products come in a bright, cobalt blue bottle inspired by the shape of a water bottle with the top patterned after the design of a bar bell weight. It features the red, white and blue RL pennant. Some of the products include cologne spray, face and body soap, hair and body wash, post-shave relief balm, alcohol-free hair gel, deodorant, and face and body sports cream. Prices range from $10 for a lip balm to $45 for a 4.2ounce cologne spray.

Silver medalist warms to pride of local folks nless you were a particularly close observer of the Winter Olympics in Lillehammer, you probably never have heard of John Coyle - even though he's from Oak land County.

But like Nancy Kerrigan, of whom vou may have heard more than you care to, he won a silver medal for skat-

Coyle, a West Bloomfield resident. Southfield Christian graduate and frequenter of the Birmingham Ice Arena. was a member of the U.S. men's 5,000. meter short track speed skating relay team which took the silver Feb. 26.

Coyle, 25, was honored Thursday, not by a parade through Disney World. but by a ceremony in the Birmingham Public Schools' bus garage, where his mom, Dorothy, works.

He was surrounded not by hordes of strangers trying to decide whether to shake hands with Mickey Mouse or a skating doll, but by friends, family and local officials who are genuinely proud that he represented their corner of the world so well.

Coyle, unlike Kerrigan, who quickly traded the cold of Norway for the warm, monied skies of Orlando, stayed for the closing ceremonies — a ceremony that imparts the history and spirit of the Olympics upon participants as well as those watching from the stands and from televisions around the world.

Coyle, unlike Kerrigan, didn't have a television crew following his every move, even so close as to pick up ungracious remarks. Kerrigan's disappointment in losing was overheard by the world.

She complained that Oksana Baiul was delayed because the 16-year-old Ukranian orphan probably had to redo her make-up after her emotional response to winning.

JUDITH DONER BERNE

In truth, it was because Olympic officials had trouble locating a rendition of the Ukranian National Anthem for play at the ceremony.

It's very hard to imagine Coyle making such a remark.

After marching in to the red, white and blue-decorated bus garage, with his girlfriend, Billie Thomas, getting a hug from his mom and a pat from his dad, he confessed: "This is great, I never expected anything like this."

And unlike Kerrigan, he didn't talk of should haves, would haves. Perhaps his expectations weren't gold, as hers surely were, but perhaps they were or will be, in a future Olympics.

He too has trained — 15 years worth in a type of skating that never holds the pot of gold at the end that figure skating promises — particularly as a member of a relay team.

So along the way he also picked up an engineering degree from Stanford.

"There were a lot of times when things didn't go well and money was tight," Coyle acknowledged. He said his dad kept him at it --- never wavering in his support.

Like Kerrigan, after all that effort, Coyle may have initially been more in touch with his personal feelings. Most of her interviews have revolved around with her own views of her performance 136 ("flawless") and seemed to have little Jhi relationship to her representation of ..បន the United States.

'When you win it, you think, 'That's great,' "Coyle said."

Then: "But when you come home (to the U.S.) you find out you didn't do it just for you but for all these people. I really feel happy about it."

And in that spirit, Coyle may actually end up richer than Kerrigan. Because whether she will be able to feel the pure happiness of the American people through all that silver is a real question.

John Coyle gave his silver medal to his dad for safekeeping. Nancy Kerrigan gave hers to Mickey Mouse.

Dual finance plans neglect needed school reform ichigan's politicians have shown scant leadership in planning and implementing public school reform. For the most part, so have Michigan's universities.

Rather, the state's stalwarts in this revolutionary arena have been present and recent-past school district executives from the greater metropolitan area such as Bill Keane and Mike Flanagan of Oakland and Wavne County Intermediate School districts; John Schultz, Deborah Anthony, and Beverly Stone of Rochester, Gary Faber of West Bloomfield; and Observer & Eccentric columnist Jim "Doc" Dovle of Troy; soon-to-be Farmington superintendent Bob Maxfield and his past and present Berkley colleagues Sam Flam, George Blaney, and Tresa Zum-

Others have included John M.

Hoben, Mike Homes and Shirley Spaniel of Plymouth-Canton; Dave Snead of Detroit; Terry Follbaum of Centerline; Marian Ginopolis of Oxford; George DePillo of Warren Consolidated; Beverly Geltner and Karen Roth of Southfield; Betty Davis of Pontiac; and Bob Docking, Gary Doyle, and Dan White of Bloomfield Hills fighting the good fight for reform.

I included the ideas of most of these educators in my Third Annual Telford's Telescope publications when I was Rochester's assistant superintendent of schools (although I doubt many of them wanted this fact publicized at that controversial and tumultous time). Public school chieftains, though, can't reform the system without help from higher education — nor can they do so without the active good will and good faith of legislators.

JOHN TELFORD

Michigan's government in general, and its governor in particular, have failed monumentally to provide the ed ucation to which all of the children in this state are entitled. Even so, I've met with one former legislator - gubernatorial candidate Howard Wolpe — and am impressed.

I specifically liked his metaphor.

about not removing the patient's heart until a replacement is available - reference to Gov. John Engler's and Sen. Debbie Stabenow's opportunistic initiative to remove the property tax as school support without having a ready replacement.

The "replacements" our Lansing leaders finally came up with (which we'll be forced to choose between on March 15) are like Tweedledum and Tweedledee in that each offers schools the same amount of money. What is really needed, however, is still more money for districts with large pockets of deprived students — and much more creative short- and long-range planning for the state's entire educational institution.

Since I'm obliged to support either Proposal A or its backup, I will vote for A — the sales tax specified in the Engler-supported ballot plan. It appears and to do the lesser harm to Detroit, which was can absorb no more damage. Unlike the shi backup statutory (income tax) plan, Proposal A gives the voter a say in what he will pay by choosing what and whether to purchase.

The statutory plan lacks the 5 percent cap on tax increases, and it also immediately hits hapless Detroiters with a crushing 9 percent income tax.

Still, what I'd really like to vote for right now is a new governor. And I'd also like to vote for a new Legislature, almost without exception. We need new leaders who have the rare courage to face up to hard choices - and the uncommon wisdom to envision them.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, is a former assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District.

Edison plans area tree trimming

In March and April, Detroit lines can carry electricity and Edison will trim trees in 39 communities, including Canton Township and Livonia.

The work is part of the company's $236 million reliability improvement plan to reduce the number of power outages and storm damage restoration time. Trimming trees to provide a 10foot minimum clearance with electrical wires helps to reduce the impact of storms on the utility's electrical system.

Trees that touch energized pose safety hazards. In addition, interference from just one tree can cause outages that affect hundreds of customers served by the same electrical circuit.

Line clearance crews, in the final year of an accelerated program, trimmed 800,000 trees in 1992 and 750,000 trees last year. The utility will trim trees beyond 1994 on a three and a half to fouryear cycle. During the past year, Detroit Edison has reduced the number of customer outages by 50

CHEF LARRY JANES

There's a vinegar for every style of cooking

emember when buying vinegar meant choosing between distilled, cider, red or white? Now, as grocery carts whiz up and down aisles, shoppers stand with profoundly puzzled looks as they stare at an enormous selection of vinegars.

What's a person to do when confronted with raspberry vinegar selling at $4 a pint on a shelf next to Balsamic vinegar that sells for $12 pint. A a few inches away is distilled white vinegar, which costs just $1.39 a gallon.

And those selections, friends, are at the local grocer. Have you checked out the vinegar shelves at gourmet food stores lately? Although there seems to be as many vinegars as wines, there is no reason to feel catatonic in the presence of such abundance.

Vinegar still simply means "vin aigre," sour wine, and is a by-product of fermentation. The production of wine is merely a way station in the process of making vinegar, and the number one job of a winemaker, according to Bob Trinchero of Sutter Home Winery, "is to stop about halfway through the natural progression to vinegar."

Like wine, vinegar can be made from anything that ferments, including molasses, berries, melon, maple syrup, potatoes, barley, malt, beets and even whey.

Prehistoric beginnings ____

Vinegar has been around since someone accidentally discovered it in prehistoric times when a barrel of fruit was forgotten in a far corner of some cave. We know that Babylonians used it as a preservative and were canny enough to flavor it with herbs. Vinegar is frequently mentioned in the Bible. Greeks and Romans kept vinegar vessels and dipped their bread in it.

There are several types of vinegar. Distilled white is the sharpest and strongest and is made from ethyl alcohol. It is as colorless as water and has no flavor other than its acidity. It is used primarily in pickling, and, in the case of the Janes Gang, as a Mr. Coffee cleaner. Legendary for its cleaning properties, distilled vinegar makes windows sparkle, removes spots, stains and odors.

Malt vinegars are produced from malted barley and potatoes that are first made into a crude beer that is often converted into acetic acid. It is filtered and aged. The British douse malt vinegar on fish and chips, and is one of the main ingredients in Worcestershire sauce.

Most popular variety

Cider vinegar, made by the first settlers from hard cider, is the most popular variety in America. The cider is aged and fermented in redwood casks for one-two years. It ends up in everything American from catsups to pickles. Cider vinegar is also a great salt remover for snow-dampened shoes.

The Chinese and Japanese are known for their rice vinegars, made from sake with a subtle tang and lightly sweet taste. Rice vinegars are used in hot and sour soup, for pickling, and sauce for spring rolls and pot stickers.

The Germans are known for their potato vinegar, and the French have fruit and overpriced wine vinegars made from what else? - overpriced wines. The saying in France is "you can't make good vinegar from bad wine."

Shoppers can find wine vinegar, sherry vinegar, champagne vinegar and fruit-infusion vinegar, compliments of the French. Of all the vinegars available today, none occasions more comment or popularity than the aceto balsamico.

Balsamic vinegar is the rich, viscous vinegar that is made only in a tiny section of northern Italy around the city of Modena.

There are others that claim to be Balsamic, but good cooks know that the best comes from Modena. What makes Balsamic vinegar from Modena such a find? Sweet grapes are cooked down and filtered and allowed to ferment slowly in a series of wood casks. Its name refers to its health-giving properties as in balm of Gilead, and to the flavors extracted from the barrels of the various woods in which it has aged. It is transferred each year to one of a series of successively smaller barrels of oak, juniper and chestnut, among others. Darrell Corti, food importer and one of the most knowledgeable Americans on the subject of vinegars, says that "in 10 years it's a reasonable ■ Swimsuit weather will soon be here, so shape up during National Nutrition Month with help from dietitians at local hospitals.

By Keely Wygonik STAFF WRITER

"Nutrition Fuels Fitness" is the theme of this year's celebration of National Nutrition Month, which is sponsored by the American Dietetic Association.

Exercising good nutrition is a weighty matter in Michigan. According to the Michigan Department of Health, we have a lot to lose. Only two other states, West Virginia and Mississippi, have a more overweight population than Michigan.

It's time to shape up. Dietitians at your local community hospital can help. In celebration of National Nutrition Month, they are hosting programs to whet your appetite for low-fat food including a nutrition fair and healthy cooking demonstrations.

Learn why diets don't work at a nutrition clinic hosted by St. Mary Hospital in Livonia 7-8 p.m. Tuesday, March 15: The fee is $8. Call (313) 591-2983 to register.

At Garden City Hospital, registered dietitians will answer your questions about healthy food choices 9 a.m. to noon Thursday, March 10, and 1-3 p.m. Tuesday, March 22. Call (313) 458-4330 on those days to talk to a dietitian.

Another way to get answers from a dietitian is to call the tollfree Nutrition Hotline for the American Institute for Cancer Research 1-(800) 843-4114 weekdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Importer selects finest wines from France's southern Rhone

Robert Haas, owner of Vineyard Brands, typifies an importer with impeccable standards. He has been traveling the world since 1950, hand-selecting wines for U.S. import. Vineyard Brands exclusively imports wines from the Perrin family in the southern Rhone. Brothers Francois and Jean-Pierre Perrin are renowned for the wines of Chateau de Beaucastel, Coudoulet de Beaucastel, and La Vieille Ferme.

"We use the traditional grape growing and winemaking methods established by my grandfather," said Francois. "There are two essential concepts: organic grape farming and heating the whole grape before fermentation to extract flavor and color without using sulfur dioxide. Additionally, it should be noted by the consumer that Beaucastel wines are not filtered." A statement related to this is made on the label on the back of the bottle.

Pape, all 13 permitted grape varieties are plant- budwood necessary for the 85 acres of vineyard ed. However, the mourvedre grape at 30 percent of the blend, sets the Perrin style for Chateau de Beaucastel Chateauneuf du Pape. The dominance of mouvedre kéeps Beaucastel unique among its neighbors who tend to prefer a greater percentage of grenache and less mourvedre.

Coudoulet de Beaucastel is vinified in the same manner as Chateau de Beaucastel but is made from just four grape varietals: mourvedre, grenache, syrah and cinsault. The vineyards are adjacent to those of Beaucastel across a road separating appellation Chateauneuf-du-Pape from the Cotes du Rhones. This makes Coudoulet de Beaucastel an excellent value for those in the know. Include Coudoulet in a blind tasting of Chateauneuf-du-Papes and you will be convinced.

La Vieille Ferme is a negociant firm created by Jean-Pierre Perrin. He has been able to produce wines of style and distinction at reasonable prices because he is very adept at selecting grower's wines for blending to a consistent style.

"With the 1992 vintage we changed the vinification of La Vieille Ferme Cotes du Luberon Blanc," Perrin reports. "We now employ 10 percent barrel fermentation, which makes the wine rounder and fuller with greater length."

Haas and the Perrin brothers have teamed up in a joint California venture called Tablas Creek Estate Vineyard in Paso Robles. The winery At Cheateau de Beaucastel in Chateauneuf-du- will produce Rhone-style wines exclusively. All comes directly from Chateau de Beaucastel

Wine selections of the week

The wines of the Perrin family imported by Robert Haas through his company Vineyard Brands span the price gamut. La Vieille Ferme wines find few peers in their price range and the wines of Chateau de Beaucastel are at the wine pinnacle in the southern Rhone.

From La Vieille Ferme we recommend: 1992 Cotes du Luberon Blanc ($7); 1992 Reserve Blanc, Cotes du Rhone ($8.75); 1990 Cotes du Ventoux Rouge ($7); and 1990 Rouge Reserve, Cotes du Rhones ($8.75). You can find lower prices than those quoted in several area wine stores.

Not to be missed under the Coudelet de Beaucastel label are 1992 Cotes du Rhone Blanc ($22.75) and 1991 Cotes du Rhône Rouge ($15.75). Best selections from Chateau de Beaucastel are 1991 Chateauneuf-du-Pape ($28) and 1990 Chateauneuf du Pape ($40). On second release special order, your retailer can get both the 1986 and 1983 Chateauneuf-du-Pape at $42 and $57 respectively. Ask about these if you're interested.

Crittenton Hospital is also hosting a Nutrition Health Fair, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, March 24, and a program titled "Nutrition Facts: The New Food Label," 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, March 30. Both programs will be at the hospital, 1101 W. University Drive, Rochester.

Reservations are required for the food label program. The fee is $10 per person and includes an information packet. Call 652-5630 to register. No reservations are required for the nutrition health

"During the nutrition fair, we'll give people a chance to sample some healthy food items to see how good some of the products are," said Vikki Lasota, clinical nutrition manager at Crittenton Hospital. "There's been a radical taste improvement in low-fat items." The fair will also feature healthy cooking demonstrations.

games and contests to get people excited about nutrition.

The label workshop on March 30 will clear up a lot of the confusion that exists over new labels required by the U.S. Food and Drug Adminstration on all food packages by May.

A registered dietitian will lead participants through the maze of new terms and explain how to choose healthy food products.

"Studies show that 78-80 percent of us look at food labels when we shop, but we have a hard time interpreting them," said Lasota. While the Great Pyramid is visually appealing, consumers are also having difficulty understanding the concept of the new USDA Food Guide Pyramid.

At the bottom is the bread, cereal, rice and pasta group. You should have 6-11 servings a day. The next level has two groups vegetables (3-5 servings a day) and fruits (2-4 servings a day). The third level also has two groups - milk, yogurt and cheese (2-3 servings a day) and meat, poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts (2-3 servings a day). At the very top are fats, oil and sweets, which you should use sparingly.

"The overall message is to select foods that together give you all the essential nutrients you need to maintain health, without eating too many calories," said Lisa Martin, registered dietitian at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, vineyards. Planting will be completed in 1994-95. "The first vintage will not be released until European vine stock represents 70 percent of vineyard production." Haas reports. The first commercial wines are expected to be available in 1999 - a Haas milestone to usher in a new millenni-

Perrin assessed vintages of the 1990s. He considers 1990 "one of the best" from the southern Rhone and projects optimum drinking of Chateau du Beaucastel Chateauneuf-du-Pape in 2010. There was a difficult harvest in 1991. "We bulked out 50 percent of the juice," he said. "The wine we bottled is soft and fruity and good to drink now." Better fortunes were experienced in 1992, and Perrin used the words "ripe, extracted, elegant and pleasantly soft" to describe the wines. He expects the 1993 wines to show better than 1992s and rates them "more in the style of the 1988."

Mark your calendars to meet Vineyard Brands' Robert Haas at the Ann Arbor Art Association's annual Winefest, Saturday, April 23, at Radisson on the Lake Hotel in Ypsilanti. The reception starts at 6 p.m., followed by a live auction at 7:30 p.m.

Haas is serving as this year's honorary chairman. Tickets are $75 per person. For advance ticket information, call the Art Association, (313) 994-8004. In past years, ticket sales have been brisk, so reserve early if you're interested.

BALSAMIC VEGETABLES

- I quart white wine vinegar 22/3 cups water
- 1/2 cup extra virgin-olive oil 1 tablespoon coarse salt
- ¼ cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon fresh ground
- black pepper 11/2 teaspoons chopped fresh basil or 1/2 teaspoon, dried
- 3 medium bell peppers, cut into strips 3 medium yellow bell peppers.
- cut into strips 1/2 medium head cauliflower, cut into bite sized
- flowerettes 10 pearl onions, peeled 1/3 cup balsamic vinegar

In a 4-quart heavy non-aluminum saucepan, combine the wine vinegar, water, olive oil, salt, sugar, pepper and basil. Bring to a boil and simmer 2-3 minutes.

Drop the peppers and cauliflower into the vinegar and return to a boil. Cover and cook 2 minutes. Remove vegetables with a slottled spoon, leaving the marinade in the saucepan.

Place the vegetables in 2 one quart jars. Add the onions to the hot marinade and cook 5 minutes. Remove onions with a slotted spoon and add to the vegetables. Boil the marinade, uncovered for 5 minutes. Remove from the heat and stir in balsamic vinegar and pour the marinade over the vegetables in the jars. Cover all pieces, adding a little liam-Morrow).

See Larry Janes column on more white vinegar, if necessary. Cool, cover tightly and refrigerate. Makes 2 quarts.

BALSAMIC VINAIGRETTE

- 18 large cloves garlic, cut into ¼ inch dice
- About 3/3 cup extra virgin olive
- 3-6 tablespoons balsamic vi-
- negar
- 3 tablespoons red wine vine-
- I tablespoon dark brown sugar Salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste

In a medium skillet, slowly cook the garlic in the olive oil over very low heat for 8 minutes or until bare ly colored. Remove garlic with a slotted spoon and reserve. Turn the heat to medium high and add the vinegars to the oil.

Cook for 1 minute or until the acid has diffused slightly. Add the brown sugar and allow the mixture to bubble slowly for 1 minute. Taste for a sweet/tart balance. You might wish to add a little extra brown sugar or balsamic vinegar to taste.

If the dressing is too sharp, boil for a few moments to boil off some of the vinegars acid. Stir in the reserved garlic and season with salt and pepper. Set aside until ready to serve. Serve over greens, Parmesan Reggiano and Prosciutto and toss lightly. Makes about 1 cup.

A SNACK WITH A LITTLE POP

Popcorn has been enjoyed as a popular food for as long as native Americans have inhabited the Americas. One of five types of corn, popcorn orginated on this continent and was used by the Aztecs (among others) as both a food and a decoration. During the first Thanksgiving at Plymouth in 1621, Massasoit, leader of the Wampanoags, offered popcorn as an after-dinner treat. Popcorn gets its pop from the fact that each kernel contains a tiny amount of moisture. When heated, this moisture turns to steam and expands sufficiently to explode its housing. The soft starch inside the kernel expands to give popcorn its characteristic shape and texture. One ounce of plain popped popcorn contains only 100 calories and 1 gram of fat.

Popcorn not only offers more fiber than such snack foods as potato or corn chips, but it is also low in fat. But if chips are your snack food of choice, come in and try one of the many brands we carry that are made without artificial flavoring or linseed oil. Some of our brands are lower in fat, too. The GOOD FOOD CO., a natural food supermarket, is Michigan's largest discount natural food source. We offer greater variety and better prices on natural foods than you will find in any other supermarket. We are conveniently located at 42815 Ford Rd. If you have any questions, please call us at 981-8100, Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00, and Sundays from 10:00 to 6:00.

P.S. One ounce of plain popped popcorn also provides 4 grams of fiber, as well as some fron and niacin.

Select foods that will help you fortify your health

Food fortifies our bodies in an amazing number of ways. Certain nutrients help our immune systems (the series of barriers that protect against invasion from bacteriar viruses and other harmful organisms) slow down changes that can occur with aging, and. lower risk of cancer and heart dis-

Some of the most fortifying foods are fruits and vegetables. Citrus fruits, cantaloupes, sweet red and green peppers and papayas are especially nutritious because they are all packed with vitamin C, an important antioxidant. Antioxidants lower the risk of cancer and cataracts by preventing damage to vital cell structures that can come from substances produced during normal body reactions. Vitamin C also blocks the formation of cancercausing nitrosamines, reducing the danger of stomach cancer.

Leafy green and dark yellow vegetables have other important health boosters: beta-carotene, the form of vitamin A found in plant foods; and folate, a B vitamin. Both are important to a strong immune system, and both work to lower cancer risk.

Broccoli is a good combination source of vitamins A and C, as well as a cancer- fighting substance called sulphoraphane. Broccoli is a cruciferous vegetable, as are cabbage, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts. Protective substances in cruciferous vegetables, called indoles, have been linked with lower cancer risk.

Whole-grain breads and cereals provide dietary fiber, which seems to lower risk of colon cancer, and vitamin E, an immune system booster and another antioxidant that can lower cancer risk. Grains also contain selenium, another type of antioxidant that is also found in seafood and lean meats.

Fish are good sources of omegathree fatty acids, especially fish from cold waters such as salmon, tuna, and sardines. These fatty acids help protect against heart disease and may lower cancer risk. Fish and shellfish also contain zinc, vital to the immune system. Getting zinc from seafood and other foods (lean meats, whole grains and low-fat dairy products) is safer than taking large doses of zinc supplements, which can actually weaken the immune system.

Easy Seafood Stew, a recipe from the American Institute for Cancer Research, combines carrots, garlic, onion, and other vegetables with fish to provide a wealth of nutrients. Serve it with whole-grain bread or rolls.

EASY SEAFOOD STEW

- 2 cups tomato juice, preferably salt-free
- 1 cup water 2-3 medium potato
- 1 cup carrots, slice
- 4-6 green onions, slice 1.2 cloves garlic, mince
- 1 cup celery, slice I bay leaf
- 1/2 teaspoon basil 1/2 pound fish fillets (preferably white-fleshed fish such as cod, flounder, or sole 1/4 to 1/2 pound sea scallops Pepper to taste

Combine the tomato juice and water in a large saucepan or pot and bring to a boil. Meanwhile, peel the potatoes and chop them into halfinch cubes. Add them to the juice mixture when it is boiling and lower the heat to a simmer. Chop the carrots, onions, garlic and celery and add to the pot. Add the bay leaf. Simmer the mixture for 15 more minutes, or until potatoes are ten-

If the scallops are large, cut them in half. Cut the fish into chunks the same size as the scallops, and add the fish and scallops to the stew. Add more water if necessary for desired consistency. Simmer for about 5 minutes, or until the seafood is white and opaque, but not overcooked and rubbery. Season with a dash of pepper, remove the bay leaf, and serve.

Cranbrook hosts syrup festival

Forget counting calories! Natural cooking is the rage these days, according to Vera Ambrose of 2 Unique catering in Bloomfield Hills.

"With all that measuring, weighing and counting calories, people who diet seem to lose sight of what's good for them. I can't imagine that low calorie diet drinks, for example, are going to benefit you in the long run," Ambrose said. "Natural foods, without preservatives, give your body what it needs."

Pure maple syrup is an ingredient that can add a naturally sweet taste to any dish and, according to Ambrose, can easily take the place of plain sugar or artificial sweeteners.

The perfect opportunity to learn more about the maple sugaring process and buy 100 percent pure maple syrup is during Cranbrook Institute of Science's Maple Syrup Festival. 1-4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, March 12-13, and 19-20. Admission is included in the regular museum fee of $5 for adults and $3 for children 3-17 and senior citizens. Children under three are free. Dress warm and wear comfortable, water-resistant shoes or boots.

During the festival, visitors will learn how to identify and tap maple trees, collect fresh sap, use an evaporator to boil the sap into syrup, and make maple candy.

Here's a recipe to try from Vera Ambrose and Kelli Lewton of 2 Unique Catering.

Grab a head-start on easy to make weekday dinners

One practical solution to the weekday "what do I make for dinner?" blues is cooking "big" on the weekend so you have extras later in the week when time is at a premium.

The basic idea is to select one part of the menu that's easy to make enough of for more than one meal. A whole roasting chicken, boneless chicken breasts, and larger cuts of lean beef and pork such as beef top sirloin steak and pork tenderloin all fit this crite-

After cooking, half of the poultry or meat is covered and refrigerated for the second meal. To ensure both safety and freshness, the following food safety tips are important.

· Wash hands, cutting board and knife thoroughly with hot, soapy water before and after handling uncooked poultry or meat.

■ Immediately after cooking, cover and refrigerate the extras. To speed cooling, cut roasts or steaks into smaller pieces and arrange chicken breasts in a single layer on plate.

■ Use cooked poultry or meat within two days or freeze for longer storage.

■ Be sure to thaw in the refrigera-

The recipes that follow were developed in the Quaker Kitchens to illustrate the concept of cooking big on the weekend for weekday dinner dividends. Half of the Seasoned chicken breasts are served hot, topped with a colorful Caribbean-inspired salsa. The extra chicken is refrigerated and served cold a night or two later in a main dish salad.

Because skinned and boned chicken breasts have a tendency to dry out, Peppery Herbed Chicken Breasts With Mango Salsa feature a wheat germ coating. When used as a coating, wheat germ not only seals in the juices to ensure moistness, it's an ideal way to add flavor and a crisp texture to skinless chicken breasts. A combination of curry powder, oregano, paprika, garlic powder and black pepper imparts a zestiness that's complemented by the sweetness of the mango salsa.

With the extra Herbed Chicken Breasts in the refrigerator ready to go, the second recipe takes minimal time to assemble. Even the dressing is a snap. Thawed frozen apple juice concentrate and white wine vinegar make a flavorful base, and there's not a drop of oil. To further streamline Quick Parinesan Chicken Salad, buy a bag of ready-to-use mixed salad greens from the supermarket produce section. Additional wheat germ sprinkled on top provides an easy "nutrition boost." A twotablespoon serving of toasted wheat germ is a good source of six essential vitamins and minerals. including vitamin E, and contains two grams of fiber.

Here are some recipes from Kretschmer wheat germ.

Served corned beef on St. Patrick's Day

AP — Some things just go together: like St. Patrick's Day and corned beef. If you've never cooked corned beef from scratch, make this the year to try it. You'll be surprised at how simple it is.

A corned beef brisket is purchased ready to cook. It should be simmered - not boiled - until tender. A glaze always makes an attractive and tasty finishing touch. The orange juice and brown sugar glaze featured in this recipe does double duty as a glaze for the vegetables. Root vegetathles like carrots and onions are often found on traditional Irish

BRAD EMONS

Mechanic puts fix-on tourney

r. Goodwrench has opened shop in Observerland, just in time for March Mad-

How about a little diagnostic work, for starters. from your certified auto mechanic? Open up the hood, please.

And speaking of starters, let's rev up some high school basketball information as the state boys tournament unfolds (not to be confused with manifold) tonight.

I've put in some exhausting hours handicapping each area team.

Let's go over the checklist before we turn the ignition and give it a go. (Records are through Friday).

OIL, LUBE & FILTER

Redford Catholic Central (14-4): Probably the area's most surpris ing team after winning the Catholic League championship. Detroit Henry Ford, with shot blocking and rebounding whiz Maurice Taylor, provides a major obstacle in Class A district at Southfield. This Shamrock team should keep on humming into the regional.

Plymouth Canton (14-6): Shortly after the holidays, somebody. mounted a V 8 engine in this vechicle. This is another team with a lot of get up and go. Kudos should go to coach Dave Van Wagoner for getting the Chiefs this far. Rival Salem stands in the way at Northville. but Canton, led by sharpshooter Matt Paupore, is ready to roll

TUNE-UP

Redford Bishop Borgess (13-7): The Spartans are playing in their an garage and could get through in Class C: but Catholic League A East, West champ Orchard Lake, St. Mary may be the favorite. Guard Charles Smith is quiet, but silky smooth for Borgess. The loss of Perry Robinson (left team) won't make a difference

FRONT-END ALIGNMENT

Plymouth Salem (17-3): Won several close games throughout the year, but late season tailspin, plus adversity, has the Rocks feeling a bit shaky. If healthy, senior center James Head needs to play more with the fire of a Dennis Rodman if the Rocks are going to get through the Northville district.

Westland John Glenn (15-4): We know 6-foot-9 Guy Rucker can block shots and rebounds like a Cadillac (not Anderson), but how about getting him the ball more in post position? The Rockets have a tough road to hoe at the Romulus district with the likes of the host Eagles. Livonia Franklin. Wayne Memorial or state ranked Belleville (in the fi-

COOLING SYSTEM

Farmington (13-7): Want to drag? Check out that dual exhaust. Let's squeal some tires. This is by far Observerland's most hot headed group, but the talent is there if they play together. Coach Denny Mikel's team is the favorite at Bloomfield Hills Lahser. A rare trip to the regional is not out of the question

WHEEL BALANCING

Wayne Memorial (15-5): Coach Chuck Henry has had to change the sparkplugs a few times this season. If the Zebras are firing on all Pistons (not Detroit), they could challenge Belleville and Glenn. Wayne needs to connect more on a consistent basis from the perimeter Watch out for freshman Lorenzo Guess

MUFFLERS & TAILPIPES

Livonia Franklin (10-10): The Patriots are capable of giving just about any Obsenerland team a battle, but a weak bench a lack of team defense keeps them from pulling off that big upset. A dangerous team, however, because they can run the floor and score

Farmington Harrison (11-9): The Hawks did not make the Western Lakes playoffs, but belonged there anyway. Calvin Pruitt is a formidable post player. Farmington can't overlook this team Wednesday night North Farmington (10-10): Another team capable of winning the wide-open Lahser district. They have size (Evan Ellis and Scot Lord) and a capable guard in John Pennala running the point. Lost to Glenn last week by only two.

STRUTS

Redford Thurston (16-4): Joining the Mega Conference's Blue Divi sion did wonders for this team. The Eagles have enjoyed a banner season, but getting through the Class B district at Bloomfield Hills. Andover district is remote. Waiting in the wings is Birmingham-Detroit Country Day, which lost Chris Webber to Golden State, but signed a sensational freshman named Shane Battier.

BRAKES (DRUM & DISC)

Livonia Stevenson (6-14): Believe it or not, the Spartans have a shot of reaching the Northville district final with a victory tonight against a mediocre Novi team (the winner plays Churchill). Coach Jim Mointyre and assistant Tim Newman, however, will have to reach deep into their bag of tricks to pull that off.

Livonia Churchill (6-14): The Chargers are trying to lay a foundation for the future under coach Tom Lang. But the new models are not in just yet, so Churchill must use the same old parts that have lacked offensive consistency all year long.

TRANSMISSION

Redford Union (7-12): The Panthers open district play at Southfield against arguably the state's premier inside player -- Maurice Taylor of Detroit Henry Ford. The Michigan signee is the Detroit Public School League's best shot blocker since Terry Tyler. If Taylor doesn't show up. however, RU has a chance.

Garden City (5-15): Coach Greg Williamson has a monumental task ahead of him tonight against state-ranked Belleville. Can't we bring the old-timers like Rick Drewitz, Dave Jackson, Harold Slade, Jack Hayes and Dave Niles back one more time to teach this Belleville team a real lesson?

Lutheran High Westland (9-11): The Warriors won the West Olvision of the Metro Conference, but now they're playing against the big boys (Tuesday against host Bishop Borgess). Chris Tiernan, John Smolks and Jimmy Hoeft can score, but can Lutheran Westland withstand the Spartans' full-court pressure. Livenia Clarenceville (10-9): Can interim coach Rick Larson puti a Steve Fisher at tournament time? At least we know, as Bo Schemon each "He's a Clarenceville man." The bick of the dre pits the Trojans against Catholic League playoff champ Orchard Lake

CC knocked off path by Traylor

Redford Catholic Central's path to the Operation. Friendship boys basketball championship faced a major obstacle Saturday — the wide body of Detroit Murray-Wright's Robert Traylor.

By Steve Kowalski STAFF WRITER

If there is a high school basketball player capable of stopping Detroit Murray-Wright junior center Robert Traylor in the low post, Traylor is still looking for him.

"It's possible (to find someone)," said Traylor, a 6-foot-9, 290-pounder. "But I can't give you the exact name.'

Traylor scored 26 points and grabbed nine rebounds as Murray-Wright defeated Redford Catholic Central, 79-61, in the Operation Friendship game Saturday at the University of Detroit-Mercy's Calihan Hall.

Traylor turns 17 this year. Imagine how big he'll be when he quits grow-Traylor made nine of 13 shots, including three monster dunks, and also helped redirect several CC shots in the paint. The Shamrocks led 14-12 after one quarter and trailed 35-31 at halftime before making only eight of 29 shots from the field in the second half.

Murray-Wright, 15-3 overall and ranked No. 1 in Class A, led 51-46 after three quarters and scored the first nine points of the fourth quarter to stop CC's upset bid.

CC fell to 14-5 overall.

Isiah Carter, a 6-7 junior forward who looks puny next to Traylor, scored 10 of his 12 points in the second half for the Pilots. Senior guard Edward Novell contributed 15 points and fed Traylor for several easy baswith 6:55 remaining that gave Murray-Wright a 59-46 lead.

Murray-Wright outrebounded CC 45-34. CC made only four of 19 shots in the fourth quarter and was 19 of 57 for the game (33 percent).

"No. 54 (Traylor) is a franchise, there's no doubt about it," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "We doubled on Traylor a lot and left 12 (Novell) open too much. I'm not happy with the way we played. Before the game, we were in awe of 54 and lost some edge. We had a satisfied look that what we've accomplished is fine."

Senior guard Andy Slankster and 6-6 senior center Joe Daly played gutsy games for CC.

Slankster scored 21 points, including a trio of three-point shots, and Daly did his best against Traylor, scoring 17 points on six-of-nine shooting to go with a game-high 11 rebounds. Senior guard Anthony kets, including an alley-oop dunk Hesano scored 11 points despite missing a lot of time because of foul trouble.

> Daly has shot a sizzling 74 percent (25 of 34) since the Catholic League playoffs began.

> The Shamrocks trailed by as many as 10 early in the third quarter but Justin Hoener's three-point play cut the deficit to 44-41 with 3:01 remaining. Murray-Wright failed to score on its next possession and CC could have tied the score, but Mike Ridley's three-point attempt was no good.

"If we make that, we got them rockin' and they have to play a little differently," Holowicki said.

A layup by Novell and a putback by William Messenger put Murray-Wright up 48-41 in the last minute of the third quarter.

Ridley, a junior guard, made only two of nine shots and scored five points. Senior guard Andy Kummer was held scoreless.

Poglits' pounding gives Blazers title

By Brad Emons

Livonia Stevenson coach Kelly Graham succinctly summed up Saturday's Class A district volleyball tournament at Livonia Franklin.

"We just couldn't stop that girl," she said. "Wo knew ahead of time what was coming, but still . . . We tried, but it just didn't work."

That girl wasn't Marlo Thomas, but 6-foot-3 Livonia Ladywood junior Anne Poglits, who registered 40 kills on the day and was instrumental in leading the Blazers to a 15-8, 15-4 win

Poglits, hitting from all angles, front row and back, had 22 kills in a 16-14, 15-6 semifinal win over host Livonia Franklin. She followed that up with 18 more and six blocks against the Spartage.

"Anne was kind of hurting today, but she did a good job of mixing it up," Ladywood coach Tom Teeters said. "And she didn't make many errors."

Poglits' junior sidekick, 5-7 setter Renae Rozell, had 28 assists in the victory over Franklin. She added 21 against Stevenson.

"We put a lot of pressure on Renae because she has to run a 5-1 attack," Teeters said. "She has to do a lot. She has to come off the block and that's difficult."

The Blazers, who advance to Saturday's regional at Berkley against the Ferndale district champion; also received solid district performances from 5-9 sophomore Stacey Judd (15 total kills) and 5-9 senior Kristy Walker (15 digs vs. Stevenson).

But the team's unsung player, according to Teeters, was Jill Wilson, a 5-5 sophomore.

"She's just stepped up and done a great job on serve reception," he said. Franklin (21-11-7 overall), led by senior outside hitter Lenay Truchan, made a strong upset bid against Ladywood in the first game. The host Patriots were serving at 14-all in the first game, but couldn't get over the

"The key game was that first Franklin game," Teeters said. "If it would have turned out differently, we could have been in trouble.'

Franklin's answer to Poglits, 6-1 junior Jaclyn Deane, had five kills and two blocks, but didn't get enough sets to hit compared with her Ladywood counterpart.

"A couple of points and it could have gone either way . . . we played a decent game," said Franklin coach Ann Hutchins, whose team finished 21-11-7. "She (Poglits) is a good player and Walker's serve reception was

"I think we had a letdown in the second game, but I thought we challenged them well. Lenay was all over the place. She showed her senior leadership. She took charge."

"But I can't say anything negative because it's been a great season. The seniors have been so positive."

Stevenson, which captured the district title last year, bowed out with a 21-11-7 record.

CC advances on Heady's heroics, 2-1

By MARTY BUDNER. STAFF WRITER

Jon Heady has scored some huge goals for Redford Catholic Central in the past couple of

He added to his legend Saturday evening in the Class A regional championship game against archrival Birmingham Brother Rice.

A senior winger playing over a badly injured foot, Heady notched the goal that lifted the Shamrocks to a thrilling 2-1 victory before an overflow crowd of nearly 2,000 spectators at the Redford Ice Arena.

CC (21-1-2) now plays Trenton at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Wyandotte's Yack Arena in the state quarterfinals. Heady's goal came just 24 seconds after junior forward Danny Hunt had tied the game for CC at 1-1 with 2:17 left in regulation time.

CC fans will recall that Heady scored a goalwith 12 seconds left in regulation time to force overtime in last year's regional semifinal clash against Livonia Stevenson. Then he won the game in overtime.

The Shamrocks, who lost and tied Rice during the regular season, were very fortunate in this Brother Rice dominated the first two periods, outshooting the Warriors by a 22-7 margin. The only Rice tally came early in the game when Mike Jalaba wristed a shot home after a scramble in front of the net.

The Warriors could have had four more goals had it not been for the fine play of CC's senior goalle Michael Brusseau. One of the best saves came just before CC's opening goal, when Brusseau stopped Rice forward Dale Rominski from five feet out on a hard wrist shot.

CC finally started to attack midway through the final period. The pressure paid off when Hunt scored on a breakaway late in the period off assists from Eric Vaquera and Jeffery Lacha-

Then it was Heady's time to shine. Heady picked up the puck at his own blue line, skated hard down the right side, beat a Rice defender and cut into the net, where he shot the puck toward Rice goalle Kris Arthur. The puck deflected off of Arthur's stick and into the upper corner of the net.

Rockets escape; Patriots nipped

Tony Goins' 10-foot jumper with only five seconds left proved to be the game-winner Thursday as host Westland John Glenn captured the fifth-place game in the Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball playoffs against North Farmington, 50-48.

The Rockets enter state-tournament play at 15-4 overall, while North is 10-10.

Down 46-40 with 1:35 to play, Glenn charged back to outscore the Raiders 10-2 down the stretch.

Guy Rucker's put-back off a missed free throw tied it at 48. (Rucker, Savon Hubbard and Albert Jones also made baskets during the comeback run.)

Rucker, a 6-foot-9 junior center, scored all 13 of his points in the second half. He did not play in the first half, but also grabbed 10 rebounds and had five blocked Goins wound up with nine points and 12 rebounds.

Glenn coach Mike Schuette started five seniors in the regular. season finale. The Rockets led 24-16 at halftime. Senior Dave Mruk had a pair of three-pointers as Glenn led 12-7 after one quarter.

Scot Lord and Evan Ellis tallied 19 and 16, respectively, for the Raiders, who made only 10 of 21 free throws (47.6 percent). Glenn was three of 11 (27.2 per-

W.L. CENTRAL 71, FRANKLIN 70: On Thursday. Scott Emert hit a dramatic three-pointer with four seconds remaining to give host Walled Lake Central (11-8 overall) seventh place in the WLAA playoffs against Livonia Franklin (10-10).

With 48 seconds to go, Franklin's Paul Kruschka (16 points and eight rebounds) made a pair of free throws to put the Patriots on top, 70-68.

Franklin missed a chance to put it away with 35 seconds to go when a made free throw was waved off because of a violation. The Patriots also missed a one-and-one with 15 seconds to go, setting the stage for Emert. The Central guard caught a pass after teammate Dan Ogle saved the ball from going out of bounds. Craig Hill scored 24 points to pace Central.

Emert added 19. Senior forward Jason Maschke had a team-high 24 for Franklin. Mark Baluk chipped in with 10 before fouling out. Greg Maple also grabbed eight free throws.

HARRISON 52, STEVENSON 50: Aaron Weiss scored a team-high 12 points Thursday, including the game-winning free throws with five seconds to play to give host Farmington Harrison (11-9) the WLAA consolation win over Livonia Stevenson (6-14). Charles Bambenek and Calvin Pruitt each added 10 points for the victorious Hawks. Pruitt also grabbed 10 rebounds, while Kevin Bambenek added eight points and nine assists. Rick Smith contributed eight points. Brett Ferris paced Stevenson and all scorers with 24 points. Teammate Brad Morgan contributed 14, including four 3-pointers. The Spartans played without top scorer Chris Chichila (injured finger).

CHURCHILL 61, W.L. WESTERN 58: Ethan Jerome (18 points) and Jeff Anderson each made two free throws in the final seven seconds Thursday, securing Livonia Churchill's WLAA consolation win at Walled Lake West-

Churchill finishes the regular season at 6-14, while Western is 0-20 entering state district play.

Adam Bowser and Bill Morris contributed 13 and 10, respectively, for the Chargers, who outscored the Warriors 18-10 in the decisive final quarter. Junior forward Paul Whiting scored a game-high 20 points for Western. Freshman guard Mike Massey added 17. Both teams struggled at the free throw line: Churchill, 16 of 30 (53.3 percent); Western, 16 of 24 (66 percent). III CLARENCEVILLE 50, LUTHERAN NORTH 48: Senior forward Mark Kalaj closed out the regular season in grand style Thursday with 21 points, 13 rebounds, seven steals and six assists in Livonia Clarenceville's Metro Conference crossover win over Mount Clemens Lutheran North.

Clarenceville made only eight of 15 free throws on the night (53.3 percent, but connected on five of six in the final quarter.

Cousin John Kalaj added 11 points and nine rebounds for the victorious Trojans (10-9, 6-7), who won on Senior and Parents Night. Kyle Simmons had 17 points, including five 3-pointers, to lead the Mustangs (12-8, 8-6). Tom Potter added 12 points.

North was minus 6-6 All-Metro junior center Kevin Murawski (21 points per game), who is out for the season after ripping a tendon when he cut his forearm on a backboard.

Spartans, Churchill fall

By Steve Kowalski

Senior forward Jon Heady can do wonderful things for Redford Catholic Central's hockey team, even playing on a bum leg.

Heady, returning ahead of schedule from a leg injury, scored a goal and had two assists Thursday to lead CC to a 6-1 victory over Livonia Stevenson in a Class A regional semifinal game at Redford Ice Arena.

Heady injured his leg in the final regular-season game and sat out last Tuesday's 9-1 first-round playoff win over Livonia Franklin. He played despite pain against Stevenson.

"Jon Heady on one leg is as good as any I know," Stevenson coach Matt Mulcahy said. "Good players play in pain. They're an excellent team and having Heady gave them a psychological lift."

CC, which needed a controversial goal to beat Stevenson in overtime during last year's regional, used its speed and finesse to gain a 5-0 lead after two periods.

Senior forward Jason Couture scored two goals and had two assists for the Shamrocks.

Stevenson had a chance to take the first lead in the second minute of the game, but sophomore forward Brian Calka's backhand shot on a breakaway was stopped by a diving CC goalie Mike Brus-

Less than a minute later, Heady stole the puck in Stevenson's zone and scored at 1:49 for a 1-0 lead. Heady slid the puck on the ice and beat Stevenson goalie Eric Rosenau on the short side.

At 5:18, junior forward Chris Gonzalez tipped in a shot from the point by junior defenseman Mark Holdridge to give CC a 2-0 lead. The Shamrocks made the score 3-0 at 8:55 of the first period when Heady back-handed a pass Couture, who back-handed the puck past Rosenau.

"Jon Heady is just in another realm, he really is," CC coach Gordie St. John said. "He understands the game, puts himself in the right position and sees the whole ice surface like few players do.'

Rosenau settled down after the shaky start but the Spartans. missed an opportunity to score midway through the second period. With Brusseau caught behind his net, the puck slid out to Calka, who missed the wide-open net with a shot.

"Calka's a good player, too, he has the best hands on the team,' said Mulcahy, whose team finished 15-9 overall.

Again, CC wasted no time responding as Jeff Helner scored less than 30 seconds later for a 4-0 lead.

Couture, who had two assists, scored his second goal at 9:07 of the third period to give CC a 5-0

Stevenson fought off a fourminute CC power play to start the third period and the Spartans got on the scoreboard with a goal by senior forward David Gorton Senior defenseman Kevin Pedersen, assisted by Helner and Tony Spezia, closed out the scoring for CC in the third period.

M SOUTHOATE 6, CHURCHILL 2: Livonia Churchill's Class A tournament hopes were dashed Thursday in the regional semifinals at the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena. The Chargers, 10-0-1 over the last 11 games, couldn't get past Southgate Anderson as Tony Migliaccio led the winners with three assists. The Titans jumped out to a 2-0 first period lead on goals by Jason Kemp and Brian Ma

Churchill's Justin Young scored on a power-play at 13:27 from Dan Higham to cut the deficit to 2-1 after one period. Southgate upped its lead to 4-1 after two periods before Dan and Dave Higham teamed up for another Churchill power-play goal in the third. The Titans then put it away with two unanswered goals. Churchill bowed out with a 15-7-1 overall

"Dave Elenich was out after he sprained his ankle Tuesday (versus Grosse Pointe North) and that hurt us," Churchill coach Jeff Hatley said. "Defensively we missed his presence, We skated with three defensemen and I think those guys got a little fatigued. And the puck didn't bounce our way. It just wasn't out

The Titans outshot the Chargers, 18-16. "They (Southgate) played a good defensive game," Hatley said.

For the game, Lutheran Westland shot only 25.8 percent from the floor (15 of 58). Tiernan was a respectable six of 10, but the normally reliable Jimmy Hoeft (13 points) suffered through a five of 22 shooting performance.

"They played a diamond-andone on Chris (Tiernan) and we were able to get some wide open shots in the second half." Wiemer said. "It's not like we didn't have good looks at the basket. But when we didn't make them, we'd get only one shot."

Lady Ocelots ousted

The performance of Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team at the NJCAA II Region 12 Tournament last week proved something after all.

After the Lady Ocelots lost 69-49 at Henry Ford CC in the opening round of the Michigan Community College Athletic Associaton Tournament Feb. 21, many at SC thought there was no reason to go to the even-tougher regional tournament and travel to Muskegon CC for it.

With coach Jack Grenan unable to get time away from work, it seemed likely SC would pass. But instead, with assistant coach Will Broner taking over the coaching duties, it was decided to give it a shot.

The Ocelots got a clutch free throw from Dawn Newlin with two seconds left to edge Flint Mott 65-64 in their first game Wednesday, then battled St. Clair CC - ranked third in the NJCAA II — all the way before falling 87-82 Thursday.

"I didn't do anything differently," said Broner. "I think it was that suddenly, the players started to believe in what they can do.'

Broner has been Grenan's assistant for six years; these were the third and fourth games he has substituted for

The win over Mott was anything but easy. The two teams had split their regular-season series, and both games were close. SC's halftime lead was only 33-31.

With the game tied and the clock running down in the second half, Newlin was fouled. Following a Mott timeout, she missed the first free throw but got the second one to fall for the game-winning point.

Tricia Kazyaka led SC with 16 points and nine rebounds. Alisa Wechter had 14 points, Angie Cerne 12 and Cindy Muha 10. Sonya Booth triggered Mott's attack with eight three-pointers and a game-high 29 points.

Against St. Clair, which has won three-straight Eastern Conference titles, SC fell behind 45-34 at the half and never caught up. However, the Ocelots battled throughout.

"We hung with the thirdranked team in the country," said Broner. "The effort was there. We made some mental errors, but we overcame them."

SC trailed by 16 midway through the second half before making a run that sliced the deficit in half. St. Clair's Karen Pruitt popped in two threes, however, late in the game to decide it.

Pruitt finished with 21 points, including five triples. Alicia Kollmorgen led St. Clair with 29; Jenny Storm added

Churchill goes down in district

BY BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem reasserted itself Saturday in the Class A district volleyball tournament at Livonia Churchill, capturing the title with a 15-7, 15-1 win over rival Canton.

The Rocks, now 38-6-6 overall. looked more like the team that had gone 11-0 during the Western Lakes Activities Association regular season schedule.

They wiped out a week's frustration on the same court after being stung the previous week in the WLAA playoffs. The Rocks were ousted pool play on a tiebreaker by one point.

Ironically, Churchill, the WLAA playoff champion, was eliminated in Saturday's semifinals by upstart Canton, 15-10, 15-focused, that's all," Salem cocoach Brian Gilles said. "I'm not saying getting eliminated last week was the sole reason we came back and played well today.

"We had a tremendous week of practice and it showed in the way we played. I just think we were too good a team not to come through this thing."

The fired up Rocks won their second straight district crown as junior Paula Dombrowski recorded 14 kills on the day. Teammate Julie McGurrin served nine aces. In the final, Karen Gundry and setter Erin Koch each contributed four kills. Sophomore Shellye Sills had two blocks. Koch finished with a total of 36 assists in four games. "This week we were ready," Salem senior captain Jamey Viau said. "We had to come out play confident. Last week we came out kind of scared. We were unsure what would happen."

The Rocks were completely sure of themselves against Canton, pulling away after struggling to a 7.5 lead in the opening game. Salem continued that momentum, dominating the second

"Our serve reception and passing broke down," said Canton coach Melinda Cain, whose team bowed out at 9-19-5 overall. "Salem played real well. They have a solid team and both coaches (Gilles and Allie Suffety) do a solid job."

Behind the hitting of Ndu Okwumabua and Kristie Drinkhahn, along with the serving of Amber Wells, Canton was able to stun host Churchill.

"We just clicked against Churchill," Cain said. "We set up a new defense and it worked. And we didn't miss any passes. Every pass was right there.

Churchill, which had beaten Canton in three previous meetings, bowed out with a 21-9-7 record. "For whatever reason, we were not the same team today," said Churchill coach Mike Hughes, who loses three seniors to graduation, including All-WLAA selection Aimee Cousino. "We had four bad practices in a row and it showed. Not everybody was into playing this day.

"Ndu played really well, but their other kids did a good job of giving her the ball. Give the Canton kids credit."

"To win, we really have to keep doing the fundamental things." Viau said. "We have to keep working on our serving and our passing, and be confident."

Garden City's Sixbey blocks Glenn district bid

By Steve Kowalski

Garden City assistant girls vollevball coach Jim Marszalek must have had one eve on the flag and the other on his players during the national anthem Friday night.

As the Cougars were getting ready to play Westland John Glenn in the Garden City district final, their focus was noticeable.

"Before the match, Jim said during the anthem he looked at them and they weren't goofing around, weren't even smiling, Garden City coach Nikki Stubbs said. "Everyone had on their game faces.

The up-start Cougars held hands during the anthem and then held off Glenn, 15-13, 16-14, to win their first district in Stubbs' four years as coach.

Inconsistent was the best way to describe Garden City's play during the regular season. But the Cougars, who advance to the Wayne Memorial regional on Saturday, put it all together with a 15-6, 15-3 win over Belleville in the district opener and a 15-17. 15-1, 15-8 win over Wayne in the semifinal.

Senior hitter Yvette Sixbey showed why she earned a scholarship to the University of Oklahoma, collecting 13 kills against Glenn. She had 14 against Belleville and a mind boggling 29 against Wayne.

Senior hitter Jammie Ostrosky and sophomore hitter Colleen Wutke supported Sixbey at the net, helping the Cougars gain an advantage against Glenn's hitting sensation Lynn Little.

In both games, Garden City held off late Glenn comebacks.

Setter Jenny Woody broke a 9-9 tle's definitely a power hitter but tie in Game 1, serving four straight points for a 13-9 lead. But Glenn's Christi Wyrybkowski, one of eight seniors on Glenn's roster, played a strong match and served four straight points including an ace for a 13-
