Big turnout expected for tax vote

Westland's city clerk is projecting a turnout of 40 percent for Tuesday's statewide vote on Proposal A. If the proposal passes, the sales tax will be raised to replace school property taxes. If it fails, the income tax will go up.

By DARRELL CLEM

An estimated 40 percent of Westland's registered voters are expected to cast ballots in Tuesday's statewide Proposal A election, said city clerk Diane Fritz.

The city has 50,849 registered vot-

Ready to open: King Kone owners Eugene and Jeri Zuzow, holding their infant son, Nikolai, taste their ice cream in preparing for their five-cent special this Saturday.

Couple pursue ice cream dream

A couple who bought a King Kone ice cream, custard and yogurt business two years ago hope that it will have better luck this summer than in the past two.

Eugene and Jeri Zuzow are planning to open for the season Saturday with a five cent special, fol-lowed by a "Cruise Night" on Tues-days at which people with classic autos can be served by carhops wearing poodle skirts and roller skates.

Jeri Zuzow said that when she and her husband bought the site on Ford just east of Merriman two years ago, business was slow because of frequent rain and chilly temperatures. Last year, the couple had another bad year because Ford Road was being resurfaced, making it difficult for drivers to get in and out of their business.

The property they bought in 1992 has a lot of history, they said. It was formerly occupied by Jack's Drive-in, a hamburger stand, in the Schools say tax proposal fails kids

BY MARIE CHESTNEY

If taxpayers care about kids and the quality of their education, then they'll vote against Proposal A in Tuesday's statewide special election.

That's the gist of advice given Monday by the Livonia Board of Education. The trustees didn't endorse outright the statutory plan that will go into effect if Proposal A fails.

But they did call the backup statutory plan "better for the interests of the school district," which includes the northern section of Westland. 'We are neither supporting or opposing," said trustee Sue Thompson. 'We're just saying what will benefit the district the most, and ask voters to use that in making their decision." Up to now, said board president

James Watters, most discussion of both plans has centered on the "dollars and cents" impact each plan will have on individual taxpayers. "But we haven't heard too much about the

The ballot plan also would trigger other tax changes, including a 50cents-per-pack increase in the cigarette tax, a 0.2-percent reduction in the income tax rate, and the imposition of a 6-mill tax on most homestead property. If Proposal A is rejected, the sales tax would remain unchanged. But the state income tax would rise from 4.6 percent to 6 percent (with higher personal exemptions), the Single Business Tax would increase 0.4 percent and a 12-mill tax would be imposed on most homestead property. The trustees cited the following reasons the district fares better under the statutory, or higher-income-tax,

■ It provides a greater potential for

City council approves condominium development

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

The council had delayed a decision two weeks earlier, asking Chawney to meet with residents who op-posed the project. He agreed, though he stressed that his project already met all of the legal requirements to build the condominiums.

Councilman David Cox sat in on the meeting with residents and reported to the council Monday that most people have accepted the plan, even though he

6-year effort wins historic designation for school

By DARRELL CLEM

Westland's Patchin Elementary School has been declared a historic site by the Michigan Historical Commission.

The long-anticipated honor caps six years of tireless work by principal Donald Massey and other supporters to bring recognition to the school on Newburgh Road, south of Warren.

"It's that kind of interest and enthusiasm that gets the job done," school board member Laurel Raisanen said after Massey made the announcement at last week's school board meeting.

Massey and other Patchin supporters have drawn sweeping praise from school officials and Patchin-area parents.

"Wayne Westland is on the map now as a historic site because of your efforts," Superintendent Larry Thomas told Mas-

Patchin was first built as a log cabin in 1834 by former resident Abel Patchin. The school was situated close to the southwest corner of what is now Newburgh and Warren.

In 1852, a one-room school was built on the current site, which is on the east side of Newburgh. The old bell from that school has been returned to Patchin by longtime resident Wilfred Green, who pro-

In 1921, the one-room school was replaced by a three-story brick building. That school, in turn, was replaced in 1965 by the current school.

For historical purposes, it's not a specific building — but the Patchin site — that has been declared historic. A school has been on the site for 142 years, while the log cabin that used to stand across the street dates back 160

A formal dedication for the historic site isn't expected until September because Massey and his supporters are trying to get state officials to change the proposed wording on the historic marker. The state has proposed that the marker's heading read, "Nankin Township District No. 3." That was the official plat name for the site when Westland was Nankin Township, but Massey said children and parents have always referred to the school as Patchin.

In another hitch, some historyminded residents say that Patchin should be spelled with an "e" instead of an "i." Both spellings are found on historic documents, so the Michigan Historial Commission agreed to include both spellings in the text of the historic marker.

Massey and others also would like to have both spellings included on the marker's heading - replacing Nankin Township District No. 3.

"We hope the historical commission will approve the words we submitted," Massey said.

The marker will cost $2,000. and Massey has said the school's PTA will donate the money upfront. However, Patchin supporters in April will begin selling limited-edition commemorative plates at $25 each to repay the Massey and others are excited that their efforts have paid off. Any doubts about Massey's knowledge and enthusiasm disappear when he gets involved in a conversation about Patchin.

"Every time I go there (to Patchin), I get a history lesson of the community, and I appreciate it," school board vice president Mathew McCusker said.

EPA representatives will be present to answer questions from residents about future cleanup activities at the former dump, used during the 1950s and early 1960s by 3M Co. in Wayne, the county, and Crestwood Development Co.

She was previous ly a partner in another resale business, Victoria's Attic, on Ford near Wildwood, before deciding to open her own store.

In separate interviews, Hill and Pilot talked of how and why they got into the rapidly growing resale

Hill, born and raised in Taylor, said she grew up in a small business environment with both parents in real estate. After graduating from Taylor Kennedy High School, she took business classes at Oakland Community College.

But why the resale clothing business?

"I used to shop in those stores for Christmas gifts. and then put the items in bags from Saks Fifth Ave-nue,'' she said.

More recently, Hill appeared on the "Kelly and Company" local TV talk show, in a feature on bargain hunters.

When co-host John Kelly heard that Hill put resale purchases in Saks bags, he quipped that she was a "bag lady." On the TV show, Hill described how she saves money by shopping resale stores. Before opening her Westland business in late January, Hill worked at two car rental agencies and helped her brothers in their own window and construction business. Hill said her business is designed to look like a boutique instead of a used clothing business.

She offers a bargain table for the "real pennypinchers," with most of the items being nondesigner of out-of-season clothes.

Hill also sells clothes on consignment, accepting clothing that is fashionable and in season. Proceeds are divided by Hill and the cosigner.

The business has a "request register" which allows customers to have their name, clothing preferences and size on file to be called when something comes in they would be interested in.

Pilot, who attended Franklin High School in Livonia and later received an associate liberal arts degree from Schoolcraft College, said that she was always interested in small resale shops and looked for unusual clothing items.

She feels her business is different than others because of its location — across the street from Westland Center, which gives her visibility.

Pilot, who opened her business March 1993, said she always shopped at resale stores because she 'loves it" and finds unusual clothing.

"I always wanted to open my own shop one day,"

With a variety of dresses and gowns on hand, customers "can dress like a movie star with full-length furs and sequin-beaded dresses.' "They can dress for success with tailored suits

Southfield shooting victim attended local church

BY ALICE COLLINS STAFF WRITER

The green sign splashed across the plate-glass front window of the little Bagel Factory shop in Southfield reminds customers to. "order your green bagels today" for St. Patrick's Day.

Inside on Monday, all of the bins were filled with bagels of all varieties.

But they were no longer fresh. And the popular establishment wasn't open.

The bagel outlet in the small strip shopping center on 12 Mile just west of Telegraph was closed early Sunday morning after owner Corrie R. Schmidt, who attended services at St. Theodore Catholic Church in Westland, was shot to death during a robbery at his Schmidt, 37, of Livonia, and three employees were working just before 6:30 a.m. when two men, one carrying a high-powered handgun, came in. They made it clear it was a holdup and locked the employees in a back room. Then, while robbing Schmidt, they killed him and fled with an undisclosed amount of cash.

"We're trying to reconstruct what happened and why they shot Mr. Schmidt," said Southfield police spokesman L. A. Moore. "The employees couldn't see what happened."

Police were called at 6:23 a.m.

Corrie R. Schmidt

by a taxi driver "who happened to come upon the scene. He saw that a robbery was going on inside and he heard the shots. He went to a telephone nearby and called us. But he didn't notice a vehicle they might have been driving," Moore said.

Schmidt was pronounced dead at the scene from a single gunshot wound. Police are withholding the location of the wound for investigation reasons, Moore said.

Schmidt's death came as a shock to family, friends and owners and employees of other storefront businesses in the area. Southfield area residents and business persons are so concerned and angered that police and the Southfield Chamber of Commerce began hearing from those who wanted to do something to help. As a result the chamber has established a reward fund.

"This is still so difficult to comprehend," Schmidt's fatherin-law, Jerry Uhrhammer, said Monday afternoon. Uhrhammer had just arrived from Tacoma, Wash., and was at the Bagel Factory waiting for an insurance representative to arrive. Schmidt is survived by his wife, Jo-Ann, and their three children, 9-month-old Jacqueline, 31/2-year-old Tyler and 7-year-old Kelsey.

"Right now Tyler still thinks his daddy is coming back," Uhrhammer said. "Kelsey's being very brave. Jo-Ann is a very strong person. What a tremendous loss. There's no reason for Schmidt bought the Bagel Factory in Southfield in 1988 and turned it into a thriving business. He worked day and night to make it succeed.

"He'd get up in the middle of the night and work long days, then he'd come home and still be a great family man," said Uhrhammer. "We never thought about something like this happening. We worried more about him having a heart attack."

Uhrhammer said the Bagel Factory would be reopened. "But right now we're just not sure

Meanwhile, the Star Deli next door is selling bagels "temporarily," Star owner Sid Neyman said. "His customers are coming in an asking why it's closed. So we're just filling in until it reopens.

"He was a very nice, hard-working man. It's a terrible shock,"

Neyman said.

Nevman said the killing hasn't increased a fear of robberies. "I think it is something that just happened."

The Schmidts moved to Livonia in 1991 and attended St. Theodore Catholic Church in Westland. He received a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in 1980.

Furneral services were conducted Wednesday at Our Lady of Plymouth, followed by burial at Jinenez, both of North Carolina.

Testing of 300 miles of water lines off to slow start

By Darrell Clem

A company hired to test Westland's water system for massive leaks is moving slowly, a city official said Monday.

Pitometer Co., which was awarded a contract in December, has tested only 12 meters from which water flows from Detroit to services director. The company is expected to test more than 300 miles of water lines.

The water system became a campaign issue during last year's mayoral race, when former Councilman Kenneth Mehl estimated that the city is losing $3 million a year because of water leaks.

St. Pat's parade has local flavor

By M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Shamrocks will be blooming on the avenue as the 35th annual St. Patrick's Parade kicks off at 2 p.m. Sunday in downtown Detroit.

"Ireland -- Detroit; Let the Future Begin" is the theme for this year's parade, honoring the patron saint of Ireland and recognizing the contributions made by the Irish to the nation and the community.

Joining dignitaries including Archbishop Adam Maida and Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer from whose campaign slogan the theme was adapted -- will be grand marshal Clifford Sullivan of Detroit and Maid of Erin Maura Newell of Allen Park and her court, Mary Thomas and Molly

O'Rourke of Plymouth Township. Also on hand will be the Court of St. Brigid: Queen Maureen Lewis of Livonia, Nancy Mack and Kathleen Corbett.

Pipe major George Tait and the Celtic Pipes and Drums of Birmingham will lead the way for parade general chairman and retired city councilman Jack Kelley, and a host of honorary marshals and federal, state, county, local, police and fire officials.

Appointed in 1962 by then-Mayor Jerome Cavanagh as Detroit superintendent of motor transportation, Sullivan is being honored for "his countless civic" and charitable activities as well as his concerns for social justice," said parade co-chairman Joe Sullivan also worked as a Recorder's Court probation officer and for the Detroit Board of Assessors and the Detroit-Wayne Joint Building Authority before retiring last year.

He was the 1993 recipient of the Father Clement Kern medallion Award, having exemplified "concern for the community and for the poor in the spirit of social justice, the kind of concern shown by the late Monsignor Kern, longtime pastor of Detroit's Most Holy Trinity Parish," Parksy said.

The six-division parade, to include marching units, bands, clowns, "floats, and novelty groups, will assemble at Third and Michigan, proceeding west along Michigan Avenue to 14th Street. The reviewing stand will be at the northeast corner of Michigan and Wabash.

Among the marchers will be Livonia's Dan O'Kennedy, American League for an Undivided Ireland president, and 1987 grand marshal John Early of Redford.

Also marching will be Miss Redford Township Laurie Kay Honbaum, who should feel at home with the Redford Union High Marching Band and Clowns Around Redford nearby.

Birmingham's "Noodles the Clown," also known as Dick Wiseman, will be there, as will the Garden City High School Marching Band, the John Glenn High School Marching Band, and "007 the Clown" and Associates of Birmingham.

Other entrants are: 'the Irish-American Teamsters of Redford; Livonia's Monaghan Knights of Columbus, led by grand knights Lawrence Kenney; Jack Dunleavy and Marty Burke of Dunleavy's Pub & Grill in Farmington; and Livonia's "Dial-a:Clown," Robert

The numerous honorees will include Westland's Nora Riordan of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, longtime supporter of the Irish community. Irish families will be marching together in the "Calling of the Clans Marchers" unit.

For more information on the parade, call the parade office at (313) 963-5745.

SMART bucks trend, ridership on the rise

Ridership on the SMART bus system defied national trends with a 7.6-percent increase during the last six months of 1993, according to SMART.

Suburban Mobility Authority Regional Transportation carried 303,294 more passengers between July and December than were carried during the same period in 1992. Total ridership for the last six months of 1993 totaled 4,273,928 compared to 3,970,634 riders carried between July and December 1992.

Nationally, bus ridership declined 3 percent during the third quarter of 1993, according to the American Public Transportation Association's latest report. During the last three months of 1993, SMART's average weekday ridership exceeded levels from two years ago, a trend expected to continue through this year., February weekday ridership is expected to run 12.5 percent above 1993 levels and 4.5 percent ahead of

"Once we started focusing on getting people to jobs, our ridership started to jump almost immediately," Michael Duggan, SMART's interim general manager, said in a press release.

SMART is now looking at revamping the route system to make it more effective in getting people to where the jobs

"We made a lot of changes to the SMART system last year. Our $1.50 AnyWhere fares, new buses, transit ambassador training for our drivers and new maintenance programs all have made the system one of the most reliable and easy to use bus systems in the country," said Duggan in the press release.

Speakers try to dismantle Arab, Chaldean stereotypes

By LARRY O'CONNOR

Both speakers were given 20 minutes apiece to dismantle misconceptions and stereotypes involving 1,000 years of Arab and Chaldean history.

Time may never be on their side, but Terry Ahwal and Joseph Kassab managed to build more of an understanding about those respective communities Tuesday.

Both spoke at the monthly Farmington/Farmington Hills Multicultural/Community Council Forum at the Farmington Training Center.

There's a tendency to lump Arab-Americans into one profile, failing to recognize the religious, ethnic and cultural differences among those from the Middle East, Ahwal said. From those generalizations, stereotypes metamorphose into an unrealistic cari-

"The mythical Arab, we are the 'B-B-B' as they call us: belly dancers, bombers and billionaires," said Ahwal, an executive assistant to Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara. "I've yet to meet any of those people."

Kassab, vice president of the Chaldean Assyrian Foundation, discussed how to overcome such barriers. He suggests such things as starting a leadership conference and having translators available.

"Prejudice is a major factor in destroying this bridge," he said.

He also said there is a distinction between Chaldean-Americans and other Arab-Americans. Many Chaldeans immigrated to the United States from northern Iraqi villages. Though they speak Arabic, Chaldeans have their own language, which is a major dialect of Aramaic.

A woman in the audience didn't like the term Chaldean

"We are from Iraq. We are Iraqis," Haifa Mansour said. "I have an objection for this word."

An estimated 250,000 Arab-Americans live in the Detroit area, according to Ahwal. This area also boasts the highest Chaldean population in the United States, with 60,000.

Yet misunderstanding persists.

While asking a question, a person in the audience pronounced the word A-rab, which is considered derogatory. The correct pronunciation is Air-ab. He was politely corrected.

The Rev. Suzanne Paul, minister of the Universalist Unitarian Church of Farmington, said there is a perception among high school kids that Arab youths are more aggressive.

"Is there any foundation for that?" Paul asked.
It is one of many stereotypes Ahwal refutes. She also addresses common ones.

Many Arab-Americans own party stores, Ahwal said. She points out many are also doctors, lawyers and engineers. Many Arabic people live in Dearborn, but a considerable number reside in Farmington and Livonia as well.

And, despite what's depicted in the movies, not all of the Middle East is desert and added Ahwal, "The first came! I saw was at the Detroit Zoo."

Some generalities are more disturbing, though, especially ones that paint Arab-Americans as terrorists

Before the World Trade Center bombing, there were no acts of terrorism committed by Arab-Americans in the United States, Ahwal said. They are critical of U.S. policy in the Mideast, but support the country, she added.

In broad brush strokes, all Arab-Americans are thought to be Muslim. Many, though, are like Ahwal and Christian.

"Again, Muslim people are not all Arab and all Arab people are not Muslims," she said. "Therefore, when you look and judge Arabs, please judge them by who they are and not on a stereotype."

Seminary deal falls through

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

The deal to sell the former St. John's Seminary in Plymouth Township is off, says the Archdiocese of Detroit which owns the property, yet a developer said he's still talking with the archdiocese about the project.

Eric Lindquist of the development firm Windmill Pointe Interests said he has communicated in the past month with attorneys for the archdiocese, about continuing his plan to develop a senior housing center on the former seminary property at Sheldon and Five Mile roads. But in a statement Friday, Archdiocese of Detroit director of communications. Ned McGrathsaid, "The Archdiocese is now pursuing other options."

An earlier agreement between the two parties was terminated in November, McGrath said. "The agreement was contingent on Windmill Pointe Interests providing evidence of its financing, which did not occur," he said Friday.

"The status of the property has reverted back to what it was prior to the purchase offer being accepted," he said.

"Considering its distinguished history and reputation, it is still hoped that the St. John's property can and will retain much of its original identity," McGrath said.

But Lindquist said last week, "I'm still communicating by mail with the archdiocese," adding "We feel the archdiocese will cooperate. We feel the contract is still in full force and effect.

"They said they'll reinstate it after they review the financial data," Lindquist said, adding, "We're waiting on a response,"

Lindquist plans to establish 1,750 independent living units at the 175-acre site for seniors, plus 175 assisted care units and 175 nursing care units.

Senate hopefuls divulge ideas

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

In the heart of suburbia, four Democratic U.S. Senate hopefuls said government should do more to save cities — big and small and slow the paving of green

One advocated mass transit; another said Chrysler's Tech Park would have been better placed in Highland Park; yet another blamed lenders and insurers for "red-lining" black areas.

Oakland University's Democratic Club hosted a two-hour panel Monday of four people seeking to replace three-term Sen. Don Riegle when he retires Jan. 1. Professor John Klemanski, moderator, raised the question of urban sprawl on the campus in Auburn Hills, the city that set off the regional furor over eating up 40 percent more land for a 6-percent population growth over 20 years.

Reverse policy

State Sen. John Kelly of Grosse Pointe said the federal government should reverse its policy of "encouraging green-field development" by ending tax breaks for "companies which relocate there" and "give incentives for people who do historic preservation and downtown development, not just of major cities but of small towns which have been completely abandoned" by government.

"It's time we hold back on new highway extensions . . . that have taken people away from their cities," said Kelly, a four-term legislator. Sen. Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor said, "Perhaps I shouldn't say the following, but I looked at the that could have done if that investment could have gone into Highland Park (a Detroit enclave and previous headquarters for the automaker): We have to look at the economic ruin that's left behind.

"We need incentives for private capital to flow to older cities to avoid the social and economic costs of unemployment and crime when capital flows out of cities," said Pollack, a three-term legislator and former school board mem-

Macomb Prosecutor Carl Marlinga called mass transit "a longrange, visionary thing," noting it helps European cities avoid sprawl. "The highway sprawls across our country have damaged our cities.'

Marlinga advocated "empowerment and enterprise zones" where businesses would be given tax breaks for moving into older urban areas and revitalizing them.

Former lawmaker William Brodhead of Bingham Farms said, "First of all we need to look at red-lining of credit and insurance (which) aren't readily available in the inner cities. A big part of that has to do with racial discrimination.

"We need tax credits for hiring the unemployed, for renovation of older buildings rather than the building of new buildings, and (President Clinton's) 'cops on the' beat' program to put 100,000 new police on our streets," Brodhead said. getting people off welfare. Brodhead supported Clinton's four principles of "universal coverage, effective cost containment, affordability, and a mandate to every employer to provide cover-

Brodhead told of a waitress with three children on welfare working part-time because the restaurant employing her doesn't provide health-care benefits. She gladly would have worked full time if it didn't mean losing health care. "I can't afford to take the full-time job," Brodhead quoted her as saying.

Kelly said health care "is a question whose time has come. We have 39 million people without health insurnace; 20 million. particularly in construction trades, who go without health insurance; and 20 million who are locked into their jobs for fear of losing health insurance."

Kelly said he will advocate shifting welfare dollars to "early education development academies to break the cycle of wel-

Pollack said $67-100 billion a year could be saved by "eliminating the (health) insurance industry" and substituting a "onepayer system" for covering hospital and medical bills. She said that would be less costly than Clinton's plan. "It would not as does the Cooper plan, sometimes called 'Clinton Light' - exclude pre-existing conditions such as cancer, diabetes or AIDS," she said.

"The welfare population is women and children," said Pollack, who advocated health care, child care and transportation for getting them off welfare.

Marlinga agreed with Pollack on health care. He deplored what he called a false picture of welfare recipients as being there for decades. Core of the problem is the low-paid working poor. "A lot of people on welfare would gladly get off, but the jobs they're offered do not have health care provided," Marlinga said.

Missing-persons proposal sails through House, 99-0

BY TIM RICHARD. STAFF WRITER

Jerry Vorva recalled the time when, as a Plymouth police officer, he saw a young man standing on a road overpass.

"I said to my partner, 'Let's check this out.' My partner hadn't noticed him," said Vorva, now a state representative.

"The young man took off. We didn't pursue him.

"Hours later, we learned he had died in traffic after falling from the bridge. We also learned his mother had filed a missing-persons report on him that morning.'

Vorva chatted in the House chamber as 98 other representatives perused his bill to require that law enforcement agencies immediately enter missing-persons reports into the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN)

There were no questions. There was no debate. Vorva's bill sailed through, 99-0.

"Different departments have different policies," said Vorva, whose district includes the city and township of Plymouth and part of Livonia. "If we do it for autos (enter auto thefts into the LEIN system), we should do it for people.

"Officers would hear it broadcast on the car radio. A hard copy would appear at every LEIN terminal.

'Often he (an officer) will stop a car, and something just doesn't look right. He may even see the missing person. But if the report isn't in the LEIN system, precious minutes are lost," he said.

Missing-persons reports fall into two broad categories; errafit adults off on a spree, often with a person of the opposite gender, and children.

"Many missing adults don't want to be found. When they are, they can just be deleted from the LEIN system," Vorva said.

Children are another matter. Vorva recalled a California case in which a girl was reported missing and her suspected abductor described. The report didn't get into the LEIN system. While the girlwas still alive, police stopped the abductor on another matter but had no reason to hold him. By the time the abductor was apprehended, the girl had been killed.

"Police with LEIN information could have caught him before she was killed," Vorva said.

The House last week advanced a bill to rename I-96 "AMVETS Memorial Highway." House Bill 5371 is sponsored by Rep. Vincent Porreca, D-Trenton, cochairman of the House Transportation Committee.

Voters, here's the lowdown on Proposal A

By Tim Richard

Whatever voters decide Tuesday, Michigan this year will see a massive transfer of school funding responsibility from local districts to the state.

Both Proposal A on the ballot. and the statutory plan B shift the $10-billion burden off local school districts to the state school aid fund.

"School boards will be out of the millage business and back into educating," said Gov. John Engler, with a slight exaggeration. Districts that had been spending more than $6,500 per pupil will be allowed to levy "hold-harmless" property taxes to maintain their degree of comfort. Others, under limited circumstances, can ask voters for "enhancement" money. The tug-of-war started last July when the state Legislature abruptly voted to repeal all property taxes for school operations. After five months of preaching, posturing and negotiating, lawmakers came up with two plans for replacement money.

Both involve reinstating part of the property tax, but with a difference: The money will go into the state school aid fund rather than into local treasuries. In time, every public school child will be worth at least $5,000 in aid to his or her district and, for many suburban districts, up to $6,500.

State funding will be the most massive change in school funding in history. The changes will be even bigger than the 1964 income tax and the 1930s sales tax.

Proposal A

Proposal A must go before voters because it involves amending the Michigan Constitution. It would:

Raise the sales tax from 4 percent to 6 percent and dedicate new revenue to the school aid fund, where it would be constitutionally protected from the Legislature.

■ Limit assessment growth to 5 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. (When a property is sold, it would be reassessed to half the market value.) This so-called "cap" is expected to be popular in suburban and lakefront areas with rising residential values. A caller to this newspaper insisted it's "the principal long-term advantage" of the whole school finance reform movement.

■ Levy property taxes of 6 mills on principal residences and 24 mills on all other property mainly business and second homes. Many southern Oakland districts - Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham and Southfield would see no cuts from the current system because of the "holdharmless" taxes.

Require a three-fourths vote in the Legislature to raise those property tax rates.

■ Trigger other tax laws — a 0.75-percent tax on real-estate transfers, a 50-cents-a-pack increase in the cigarette tax, 2 percent more on interstate and international telephone calls, and so on. It would cut the personal income tax from the current 4.6 percent to 4.4 percent. It also would keep the single business tax (SBT) at 2.35 percent instead of raising it, as under plan B.

Chief champions have been Engler, chambers of commerce, manufacturers, the real-estate industry, the Farm Bureau and the townships association.

Backup plan

The statutory plan - also called the "backup plan" or plan B - requires no vote of the people because it was enacted by the Legislature. No voter approval is needed. If Proposal A loses, plan B would:

■ Raise the personal income tax to 6 percent. The per-person exemption, however, would be raised from $2,100 to $3,000.

■ Levy property taxes of 12 mills on principal residences (double the rate under Proposal A) and 24 on all other property (same as Proposal A).

■ Raise the single business tax to 2.75 percent and the cigarette tax by only 15 cents a pack. The real estate transfer tax would go to 0.75 percent.

Most Democratic gubernatorial candidates favor plan B. Tobacco companies are funding the anti-A campaign because they fear neighboring states will raise their cigarette taxes by huge amounts if Michigan's Proposal A is adopt-

Second biggest source of anti-A money is the Michigan Education Association, the teachers union in most districts outside Detroit. Other labor unions also oppose A. So does the Michigan Municipal League, an association of cities and villages which fears its state aid will be cut by the constitutional amendment.

'Fairness' issue

Enemies of A say the sales tax falls unfairly on lower-income groups because it taxes consumption. Income taxes fall on both consumption and savings and hit high-income families relatively harder.

Enemies say Michigan would lose money to Washington under Proposal A because the sales tax is not a deduction under the federal income tax, while the state income tax is deductible.

Engler calls the income tax "a job killer" because it falls on savings and investment, discouraging business expansion. He notes the U.S. has the lowest rate of personal savings in the industrial world because of its heavy taxes on income and capital gains.

Engler calls the deductibility argument irrelevant because twothirds of Michiganians don't : itemize their deductions anyway. And he notes that groceries and ... prescription drugs are exempt from the sales tax, easing the burden on low-income folks.

·Backers of A also say the income tax is unfair because MEA pensions, and the pensions of other governmental employees, are exempt from income taxes. Backers of A insist that may be the chief reason MEA is so adamantly opposed to A.

For years polls have shown the sales tax is the least unpopular Michigan tax. For that reason, Proposal A has led in the polls. But Michigan voters have been in the habit of "if you don't understand it, vote no" - an advantage of the opposition.

Late issues

Since the reform plan was adopted Christmas Eve, lawmakers of both parties have sought to change the bills, with Republicans the most successful. Items:

■ Homestead affidavits — original filing deadline was March 1. It has been pushed back to May 1. ■ Real-estate transfer tax — originally it was 2 percent under Proposal A beginning Jan. 1 and 1 percent under plan B beginning

Wanted: White families

Wayne Center seeks homes for white kids

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW

The Wayne Center, a foster care agency specializing in children with mental retardation, epilepsy, cerebral palsy and autism, is reaching out to the suburbs to find more white foster parents.

The agency has 39 foster families on its roster, but 32 of them are black families in Detroit. The suburban families live in Garden City, Belleville, Wayne, Dearborn Heights and Romulus. Just four of them are white families.

Why the concern about race? According to Western Wayne Center team director Laura Pollaccia, it's preferable to place black children with black families and white children with white families because the experience is less traumatic for the children and some of the families will only accept children of like race.

There are at least 10 specialneeds children waiting to be put in foster homes, five of them white, but there aren't enough foster homes to accommodate them. Although foster families of all races are welcome, white families are needed most, Pollaccia said.

There are at least 10 special-needs children waiting to be put in foster homes, five of them white, but there aren't enough foster homes to accommodate them.

The way it works is this: Children enter the system through the Department of Social Services, area hospitals or the county's mental health department. Then Wayne Center and Wayne Community Living Services, a similar agency, try to place the children in foster homes.

In other cases, the biological parent(s) of the child voluntarily give the child up because caring for him or her is difficult. "They know they can't care for the child themselves, but still care about the child," Pollaccia said.

Wayne Center's goal is to put the children in foster homes for six months to a year, while training the biological parents in methods to cope with the disabilities of their children.

Of the 19 children currently in foster homes administered by Wayne Center, Pollaccia estimates five will ultimately be returned to their biological parents. The remaining children will be put up for adoption.

Wayne resident Dorothy Overton has been a Wayne Center foster parent for 15 years. Until recently, she had three foster children. Two were adopted and one, a 15-year-old schizophrenic girl,

The first step is to attend one of the orientation meetings held the first Thursday of every month at Wayne Center's Detroit office.

· Then a social worker will "do an intensive study of the family.' Pollaccia said. The state police will check to see if the applicant has any prior arrests or convictions, with special attention given to abuse and neglect charges.

Everyone living in the applicant's home is required to have a physical. A minimum of four personal references are required.

Pollaccia said about one-third of the people who attend orientation meetings leave the meeting still wanting to be foster parents. Of those, half will be approved. It takes three to six months to be certified. Single parents are wel-

Under Proposal A, the rate will continue to be 2 percent from Jan. 1 to about April 1, 1995. Reason: Democrats withheld votes to give the law immediate effect, delaying the cut until 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

■ Farm tax — as written, farm homes and contiguous land are taxable at the lower homestead rate. The Farm Bureau and Engler want all farmland taxed at the lower rate. Engler's critics have jumped on him for seeking that change.

Cable company appeals to FCC after city council orders rate cut

Cable-TV subscribers will save pennies a month if the city council is successful in cutting Continental Cablevision's basic rates. However, the final decision is up to the Federal Communications Commission.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Continental Cablevision has been ordered to reduce the rates it charges Westland residents for basic cable service - a move that would save the city's 23,000 subscribers $49,000 a year.

Continental will have to reduce its monthly charge by 11 cents for Westland subscribers if the order approved by the Westland City Council - stands. The rate for basic tier services would drop from $10.37 to $10.26.

Continental has been accused of using "an incorrect inflation factor" in setting its benchmark cable rates. However, Continental officials indicated Monday that rates were set based on the information they had at the time.

Councilman Glenn Anderson said he is "pretty disappointed" that the city can't be more involved in keeping cable rates in check. 'But at this point I guess this is all we can do," he said.

Anderson did, however, suggest

Headlee hems and haws on Proposal A stand

By LARRY O'CONNOR STAFF WRITER

Call it the Headlee hopscotch. The Farmington Hills-based tax fighter is dancing around taking a public stand on Proposal A.

Headlee was asked point blank by an audience member during a question and answer session Tuesday night at Oakland County Community College what he thought of the ballot proposal March 15, Headlee hedged. He promised the governor he wouldn't get involved in the campaign. But what about the latest effort at school finance reform?

said. "I guess that would depend. However, McMaster doesn't think on whether you are right-handed or left-handed."

The retired chairman of Alexander Hamilton Insurance Co. was at OCC's Smith Theater to speak on strategies for management success.

Polls indicate success of Proposal A could fly or fail with a Headlee endorsement.

According to a poll by Gov. John Engler's office, 35 percent of the respondents said they're waiting for Headlee's opinion before deciding which way to go. Another 30 percent indicated his views would affect their vote.

Bill McMaster, chairman of "It's a matter of whether you Southfield based Taxpayers want your right arm broken or United, said he is disappointed your left arm broken," Headlee Headlee is not taking a stand.

it affects Headlee's standing as a tax-cut crusader.

'We, frankly, talked to him about it," McMaster said. "We

"I think we're guilty of overlooking the obvious, Dick Headlee doesn't need to take a position on A as long as he continues to support the governor's efforts promised not delivered — to cut property taxes by 20 percent."

A secretary at Alexander Hamilton said she has received several calls from people wanting to know how Headlee would vote.

Still, the namesake of the 1978 Headlee Tax Limitation amendment doesn't feel compelled to take a stand.

"No, I'm not going to," Headlee said. "I like the sales tax. I like uniformity; I don't like non-uniformity. It's a quandary.

"I feel a major responsibility to be cautious, and encourage people to really understand what's taking place."

The ballot plan (Proposal A) calls for a raise in the sales tax from 4 to 6 cents on the dollar. The backup plan calls for a 30percent hike in the income tax.

The sales tax plan also calls for a 5 percent assessment cap and would lower the Farmington school homestead millage rate to 22.24 mills from 32.8 mills. A mill is $1 of tax for $1,000 of state equalized property value.

Critics say, though, the plans create non-uniform tax rates for homeowners and business property owners. Thus, it establishes separate classes of taxpayers.

The income tax plan would lower the Farmington school homestead millage rate to 20.42 mills. The tax rate for businesses and second homes would be 32.42 mills compared to 24 mills in the ballot plan.

"It (the income tax hike) is a rotten plan," Headlee said. "If Proposal A fails, obviously the backup plan is not a backup plan.'

Headlee said he met with Engler recently. They had a twohour meeting to discuss the plan that would fund public education.

Some see Proposal A as a mandate for Engler's four years as governor with a November election approaching. A proposal to raise the sale tax last June was shot down by voters.

Had this not been an election year. Headlee said he would have been more likely to take a stand.

"My preference was to not mess with the constitution, but to carburetor-adjust the taxes: cigarette taxes, other taxes and to roll back property taxes," Headlee said. "In 1991, as you recall, my suggestion was to roll the assessments back 3 percent every year until you reached 40 (percent). I think we had a pretty well-balanced system at the time.

"This thing we have now introduces something I'm uncomfortable with. Yet I prefer the sales tax over the income tax. I think a sales tax is much better for job creation, much better for the economy."

Area skater to perform in March with Ice Capades

Southfield skater Scott Driscoll, a U.S. Professional Champion who once gave up touring and performing, is back on the road with Dorothy Hamill's Ice Capades production of "Cinderella . . . Frozen in Time" in a role he says fits him better than a gläss slipper.

Hart said senate Republicans and the state insurance commissioner David Dykhouse have announced plans to move the fundraiser to another location because of the public outcry.

"It shouldn't have to take public pressure to get Michigan's insurance commissioner and Republican state senators to do the right thing," Hart said.

"My legislation would create the Michigan Insurance Consumer Protection Act," he said. "It would mandate the election of the . insurance commissioner and give the commissioner the broad oversight and regulatory powers needed to guarantee fair and affordable rates.'

According to Hart, before Michiganians see real insurance rate relief and fairness, they have to take back control and have a voice in the rate-setting process.

ne open seat on each of the Wayne-Westland and Livonia boards of education will be filled in the annual school board election Monday, June 13.

Residents interested in running for the school board in either the Wayne-Westland or Livonia districts have until Monday afternoon, April 11, to file nominating petitions.

In the Wayne-Wayne district, Debra Fowlkes, named to a board vacancy in mid-January, will decide if she want to run for a four-year term. In the Livonia district, trustee Joseph Laura is seeking re-election to a four-year term.

What you have to do to have your name placed on the ballot is fairly simple. Stop by the central administrative offices and ask the election clerk for a nominating petition and for instructions.

. The Westland Observer hopes that interested residents will seriously consider running for the school board. The community needs independent candidates who think in terms of what's best for students and taxpayers, not for administrators, teachers and fellow trustees. Sometimes incumbents get so close to the "in crowd" that they forget who the real people are.

No good results, though, in having a challenger who is not interested to public education or deeply committed to each student's welfare. Neither is it helpful to have a candidate who knows little about the local school system. But knowledgeable, sincere, committed candidates with time to serve on the school board is a definite need for the community.

Some people close to the school board believe that life is wonderful and we can go on electing incumbents forever because these great leaders

When people close to the throne begin talking that way, that's a sign the board has become institutionalized and has lost touch with reality. The main reason the notion of term limitation has merit is that representative bodies need an infusion of new blood so it can keep it touch with its roots and not elevate themselves to the lofty levels of never-never land.

There are no specific, written criteria candidates must ascribe to when picking up nominating petitions. The Observer, though, does have a set of criteria it relies upon when interviewing candidates for purposes of endorsement. It wants candidates who have lived in the district long enough to be aware of its characteristics and needs, who have been involved in volunteer activities, who have served in a districtwide capacity, who have some experience in decision-making and consensus building, who regularly vote in school elections, who have attended school board meetings, who know what the issues are and can speak to potential solutions for existing problems.

We know there are residents who meet this standard. We have interviewed and endorsed challengers in the past. We do not view incumbency as including any claim to an automatic return to office.

'A' adds protections

On March 15, I will be supporting Proposal A. I urge all registered voters of the 41st District to please participate in this special election.

The choice on March 15 will be which new tax structure will replace the old burdensome property tax dependent system that funded our schools. Both reform measures are better than our current system of funding K-12 schools. State law will now dedicate the revenue from replacement taxes, plus existing budgetary commitments, to the school aid fund. As the revenue from state dedicated taxes increases, school revenue will grow.

It is my belief that the ballot plan provides all of us with stronger protection against higher property taxes. Under Proposal A, the state Constitution will be amended to include a cap on annual assessment growth on all property. Not to exceed 5 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. It will further require a threequarter majority of the Legislature to change local school operating millage rates. The backup plan does not provide these protections because it is legislatively enacted and is subject to the whims of future Legislatures.

The backup or statutory plan leaves vulnerable many Oakland County districts. If the ballot proposal fails and the statutory plan goes into effect Oakland County will once again be subject to the old "Robin Hood scam."

For the past several years a majority of legislators from various parts of the state have seen fit to rob Oakland County of tax dollars raised locally, and gave those dollars to school districts unwilling to raise taxes to support their schools.

I sincerely urge your support of Proposal A on Shirley Johnson, House of Representatives

Healthy outlook

Coping skills can help with society's stresses t's unfortunate that contingent with living in a fast-paced world of the highest technology, our daily lives are governed by stringent expectations of high volume production of fine quality goods.

Inevitably, such a scenario has resulted in families with children at risk for substance abuse due to the decreased time for working parents to provide for the adequate nurturing of their children.

Of necessity, these youngsters need encouragement to build for themselves a healthy sense of self, as well as develop good interpersonal and social skills, to effectively cope with the multiple stresses present in daily living.

The task of developing effective coping skills may be achieved in a number of

These include: making use of positive support systems in the school environment, increasing the awareness of the causes and effects of substance abuse, exposure to alternative substance-free social and recreational activities through access to community, cultural and recreational programs, and increasing opportunities for the development of personal and financial independence.

There are a number of reasons cited in research for substance abuse. Poor family relationships, an inability not to succumb to peer pressure, low self-esteem, easy access to substances, are but a few factors predisposing children to such an addiction.

It becomes imperative that children be made aware of their own strengths and abilities to enable them to find comfortable and appropriate support groups outside the home environment.

Increasing our beliefs on the effectiveness of the very basic principles of self-reliance and greater benefits reaped from delayed gratification with long-term efforts need to be reinforced.

As adults, it becomes even more important to be "real" role models for children to readily emulate. Leading lives that are productive and that include the provision of quality time for the nurturance of healthy and happy children is imperative.

Sometimes, it's just a simple matter of developing skills for scheduling for busy parents. The learning of venues for the productive and creative expression of stress from work, such as taking walks, exercising, reading, etc. . . may also be a n an out-of-town trip, I had a car windshield repaired. As the garage owner worked, I made out a check with the garage's name.

"Say, could you make that out to me personally?" he asked. "I'm going through a divorce, and my wife has all my stuff tied up."

I wrote out a new check with the sneaking suspicion that he would just cash it without logging it into the "revenue" account of the garage's books. No income tax to pay that way.

You see that a lot. A carrier of a daily newspaper asked that any checks be made out to "cash." People say domestic workers ask to be paid in cash. A retiree doing consulting work for a corporation asks to be paid in cash. Ditto with the guy who pulls out a stump or does some carpentry work.

That's the revenue side. Consider the cost side.

An artist of my acquaintance had a free-spending spouse whose hobby was raising and showing dogs. Now, raising purebred dogs is not a money-maker. So a professional friend advised the artist to have his spouse start a pie-baking business — just sell a half-dozen pies a day and charge the depreciation and some cash expenses on the van to the business. The pie business runs at a paper loss. The artist has more revenue yet reduces his tax obligation.

Many business people — including those in agribusiness — charge off household expenses to the business. They have a real advantage over those who work for a company whose business office peruses expense accounts very carefully.

Income taxes have been stretched to the breaking point. Rates are so high that it becomes worthwhile to hide income and pad expenses. Your chances of getting caught are about the same as the proportion of drivers who are pulled over by state police for going 73 in a 65 mph zone — next to zero.

as I recall. At that point, the federal deficit was $220 billion. In other words, if Uncle Sam could have collected all the income tax he was due, we would have had a balanced budget.

European nations have eased off on the income tax and shifted to valueadded taxes (VAT), which is a glorified sales tax. Gov. John Engler was quite correct in opting for Proposal A with a 2-cents sales tax increase over plan B, the statutory plan, with its income tax increase. Income taxes just don't work anymore.

Organized labor, still living in the '30s, hasn't got the message. The anti-A argument is that the income tax is "fairer" in its impact because you tax all income — savings and consumption — whereas the sales tax falls only on consumption:

The New Deal economists had another reason for preferring to tax incomes and savings. They thought there was too much saving and that it was draining money from the economy. The New Deal consciously sought to increase consumption spending. Today the U.S. has the lowest rate of personal saving of any industrial country.

Garage mechanics, domestics, tradesmen, retirees doing consulting, dog breeders and a zillion small-business owners are light years ahead of organized labor, the League of Women Voters, liberals still fighting the class warfare of a bygone era and other income tax proponents.

Proposal A's sales tax is far preferable to plan B and a vast improvement over the current property tax gorilla. Here's one worker who's voting yes March 15.

Proposal A falling victim to political maneuvering n this age of special interest politics, an occupational hazard for politicians is to confuse support from leaders of vocal interest groups with approval of ordinary folks who actually vote.

Gov. John Engler now is in the process of falling prey to that ailment as he continues to tinker with Proposal A, trying to tack on support from various lobbies by ceaselessly fiddling with the content less than a week before next Tuesday's vote. Here's a short list of examples:

The original ballot plan called for taxing rented farmland at the business rate of 24 mills. The Michigan Farm Bureau threatened opposition. Engler immediately promised to push legislation to allow all farm property to qualify for the lower rate of six or 12 mills.

Engler originally recommended a 4 percent real estate transfer tax. In order to pass the legislation, the tax was negotiated down to 2 percent in the ballot plan and 1 percent in the backup statutory plan. Still nervous about support from the real estate industry and citing "increased state revenue expectations," the governor then pushed through a bill to reduce the tax to 0.75 percent.

■ A video lottery game, Keno, was originally supposed to raise $100 million a year. But Engler now says it won't. He wants a different game in the mix, something called Powerball, a multi-state lottery.

State elections director Chris Thomas said over the weekend he has "never seen" so many last-minute changes in a state ballot plan so close to the vote.

Partly in response to this pattern, the political rumor mills are speculating about two other major changes in Proposal A, both designed to buy special interest support:

One story is that if Proposal A passes, Engler will push legislation cutting the sales tax on new and used cars, costing something like $250 million in annual revenue and locking in support from the Michigan Automobile Dealers Association.

The other deal supposedly in the works was to get Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer's support by changing the way the ballot plan treats tax increment financing authorities (TIFAs), right now the preferred method of fixing Detroit's budgetary ills.

Taken together with what is certain to be a confusing and manipulative ad campaign against Proposal A put on by the strange alliance between the tobacco industry and the teachers unions, all this last-minute insider finagling is likely to confuse voters already confused enough.

Worse, it illegitimately penalizes those responsible folks who have already voted by absentee ballot. Elections director Thomas estimates that at least one-third of absentee voters already have mailed in their ballots. Most observers figure there will be around 300,000 absentee votes, so as many as 100,000 voters could have made up their minds on proposals whose terms have been changed after they cast their ballots.

That's dirty pool and bad politics combined — the worst of all possible worlds.

This newspaper in the past has supported Proposal A, largely on the grounds that it locks in support for schools in a way that can't be tampered with by future Legislatures and because, all things considered, increasing the sales tax is less damaging to economic growth than hiking the personal income tax.

But we are very concerned with the way the governor is going about selling it.

The conference is expected to draw about 700 girls, according to Janet Johnson, director of education at Cranbrook.

Wayne pulls upset; Glenn in OT

Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn will face off in Friday's Class A district boys basketball final at Romulus. Wayne upset state-ranked Belleville, while Glenn edged Livonia Frankin in overtime.

By BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Nothing really followed script in Wednesday's Class A district boys basketball double-header at Romulus High.

First came the shocker — Wayne Memorial toppling state-ranked Belleville, 58-55.

And if that wasn't enough, the nightcap proved to be even more spellbinding as Westland John Glenn needed to go overtime before outlasting a gritty Livonia Franklin club, 73-

Glenn (17-4) and Wayne (16-5) will meet for the second time this season, but the stakes will be much higher. The city rivals will meet in the district championship, 7 p.m. at Romulus. The Rockets won the last meeting back in January at Wayne. 54-53.

Belleville, which mauled Wayne 74-47 on Feb. 22, was looking for its third straight victory over the Zebras this season.

But the Tigers couldn't stand prosperity, failing to hold a 24-6 secondquarter lead and a 47-32 advantage late in the third period.

Wayne chipped away and eventually caught Belleville late in the fourth quarter.

Howard comes through

Courtney Howard, a 5-foot-11 senior guard who paced Wayne with 15 points, was the hero down the stretch. His three-pointer pulled Wayne to within one, 55-54, with 2:11 to go.

Howard then put the Zebras ahead to stay with a pair of free throws and secured the victory with two more with 28 seconds remaining.

"Don't ask me how we did it. I guess we just didn't quit," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry, whose team outscored Belleville 19-8 in the final quarter. "For some reason we had come up short in the big games this season — Belleville twice, Detroit Cooley and the Glenn game.

"We were just looking to enjoy the big moment just once and it was good to see them enjoy it tonight."

Belleville, which bowed out at 19-3 overall, had three cracks at the basket in the final 16 seconds, including Scott Chatfield's desperation threepointer that rang off the front of the rim as time expired.

Chatfield impressive

Chatfield, a 6-7 senior center, led Belleville and all scorers with 18 points. Guard Mike Foley, who riddled Garden City on Monday with an awesome shooting display (31 points), was held to 11. He fouled out late in the game.

"Courtney Howard has played him all year and I don't think there's a guy who has done more," Henry said. "And (sophomore) Richard Johnson comes in his first varsity game and scores eight points in the fourth quar-

We call him our Rodman. We just wind him up and let him go."

Freshman Lorenzo Guess and senior Gerald Adams contributed 14 and 11 points, respectively, for Wayne.

"Give Wayne credit," Belleville coach Mike Garland said. "We pulled away twice and they came back.

of the state's top high school wrestlers to be training late Tuesday afternoon — the Livonia Stevenson High School pool. But there was the stuffy 80-degree building, bundled up in layers of sweat shirts and sweat pants, a hood covering his head as he ran lap after lap around the pool deck.

Martin is a 189-pounder who has yet to lose a match this year - 37 straight to be exact. He's rated No. 1 in Class A, but Troy's Garrett Gould, a lanky and unorthodox wrestler with a 50-0 record, is waiting in the wings in a potential semifinal matchup this weekend at the state individual championships in Battle Creek.

Making weight

Right now Martin is two pounds over the limit. His last weigh-in is at 7 a.m. Friday.

"At first it was hard to keep the weight off," Martin said, "but toward the end season it's been stabilized. I can keep it down pretty well now."

Martin ignores the normal temptations of your everyday teenager. He prefers fruit to pop, chips and candy bars. Working a part-time job at Hungry Howie's, Martin goes for salads instead of

Stevenson coach Don Berg not only keeps a watchful eye as Martin runs his laps, but monitors his "During the middle part of the

Being the state's top-ranked er. It also puts stress on you." Martin and his teammates get up each morning for an abbreviated practice prior to class. They return to the mats for a 21/2-3 hour workout in the afternoon. With a rare Saturday and Sunday off last weekend, Martin went out on the road, putting in 4-6 miles each day. Then it was off to Hungry

Howie's Pizza.

"Craig shows an awful lot of dedication," Berg said. "He's a strong mat wrestler, very determined.

Middle school program

Except for rolling around as a voungster with his two older brothers, Martin never wrestled until he joined the eighth-grade team at Riley.

"It started out in the little old junior high program," Berg said. 'That's where he came from.'

The program also spawned two other Stevenson state qualifiers, Ben Lewis (171 pounds) and Scott Goldman (140), both juniors. Another junior, Chris Mullett (145), missed qualifying this year, but made the cut last year.

"I played a little soccer, but then I got into football," Martin said. "I liked wrestling, and for some reason, it appealed to me. For me, I had no idea it would . come to this.'

*As a freshman on the varsity, Martin posted a respectable 15-12 record. Last season, Martin finished 36-4 and qualified for state.

"Last year the whole thing at state was a bit overwhelming, but now I don't think I'll be as nervous," he said.

"We missed free throws down the stretch (two of seven), but it should have never come down to that. All we had to do was hold the ball."

Glenn escapes Patriots

In the nightcap, Franklin, despite a 10:10 record, nearly played giant killer against the taller Rockets, who needed to rally during the final 11 minutes to escape with the win.

Franklin, shooting four of 19 from the floor, trailed 12-9 after one quarter, but took control in the second period to take a 28-24 lead at intermis-

The Patriots, playing their best basketball of the year, hit nine of 14 shots in the third quarter, but led by only two,

After Glenn pulled even at 52-52 with 4:51 left in the game. Franklin coach Larry Jackson was slapped with a bench technical after arguing with officials.

Tony Goins made two free throws and Glenn capitalized by scoring six unanswered points.

Rucker looms large

The Rockets, going to their inside tandem of 6-foot-9 Guy

'Rucker (26 points) and 6-4 Goins (15 points), held a 66-58 advantage with just under two minutes to play.

But the never-say-die Patriots sent the game into overtime on a pair of three-pointers, including a long banker by Greg Maple, followed by a clutch half-hook from Jason Maschke with only 12 seconds remaining to tie it at 66-all.

Goins then lost the handle on the ball on a drive to the basket, turning it over with 4.4 seconds to play.

With a chance to win it by going the length of the court. Franklin bungled the inbounds play when Maple threw laterally out of bounds to teammate Paul Kruschka.

"We were going to run the play we used before and we forgot it was a violation," Jackson said. "We used it against Walled Lake Central and got a decent shot."

The turnover gave Glenn possession under its own basket, but Goins' short jumper missed the mark.

Glenn made seven of 11 free throws during the extra session and took advantage of the absence of Franklin senior pointguard Clemente Herrera and Kruschka, both of whom fouled Herrera, who played a brilliant floor game, finished with a team-high 16 points. Franklin committed only 12 turnovers on the night.

Five in doubles

Franklin's four other starters scored in double figures including Maschke (15), Kruschka (13), Mark Baluk (13) and Maple (11).

"Give Franklin credit, they're a very, very good ballclub," Glenn coach Mike Schuette said. "They hit some very tough shots. They're certainly not a 10-11 team."

Albert Jones, a sophomore guard who hit some clutch free throws in OT, contributed 16 points for Glenn. Brent Washington added 10.

But it was the play of Rucker, who also blocked seven shots, which turned the tide, particularly in the second half. He had 18 second-half points.

"We talked about getting him the ball before the game,' Schuette said. "But I guess we had some guards who didn't follow those instructions in the first half." Franklin had 22 fouls to Glenn's 14.

The Rockets made 17 of 30 free throws compared with Franklin's seven of 13.

Churchill, CC reach finals

Any illusions of a comeback Novi carried into the second half Wednesday against Livonia Churchill were quickly dispelled. The Chargers stampeded into Friday's Class A district basketball final by routing the Wildcats 62-46 at Northville.

Churchill (7-14 overall) faces Plymouth Salem for the district championship at 7:30 p.m. at Northville. The Rocks (18-3 overall) reached the title game with a 53-48 win over Plymouth Canton in Wednesday's second semifinal.

With Bill Morris powering inside for 10 points, the Chargers opened up a 26-16 lead at halftime. Novi, which whipped Livonia Stevenson in its first district game Monday, never mounted any serious second-half threat.

On the contrary. Churchill outscored the Wildcats 10-2 in the first 3:25 of the third quarter, and Ethan Jerome made certain the Chargers stayed in command. The senior wing popped in three three-pointers in the period and scored 11 points, helping extend Churchill's lead to 44-26.

Novi, which finishes at 8-14, never got closer than 13 in the fourth quarter. Jeff Anderson's 19 points led Churchill; Jerome scored 17 and Morris had 13. Novi was led by Greg Pierman with 13.

Churchill coach Tom Lang's strategy was to attack Novi's quickness. "We thought if we could play them man-to-man, spread our offense out and put them in a one-on-one situation, we'd do all right," he said.

They did.

REDFORD CC 54, REDFORD 48: The Shamrocks had to rally in the fourth quarter Wednesday to beat Detroit Redford, 54-48, in a Class A district semifinal game at Southfield High School

CC, 16-5 overall, will play Detroit Henry Ford in Friday's 7 p.m. championship game at Southfield.

CC trailed 35-34 after being held to three points in the third quarter but enjoyed a 20-13 advantage in the fourth quarter to eliminate the Huskies. Senior center Joe Daly was the only CC player in double figures, scoring 20 points and grabbing eight rebounds. Senior guard Andy Slankster added eight points, while senior guard Anthony Hesano and junior forward

Mike Ridley scored seven points each. Redford, which plays in the Detroit Public School League, finished the season 6-12 over-

Maurice Taylor, a 6-foot-8 senior center who signed early with the University of Michigan, scored 30 points with five blocks and eight rebounds in Henry Ford's 80-59 win over Redford Union in Wednesday's other semifinal game.

III JOHN GLENN 73, ROMULUS 87: Westland John Glenn (16-4 overall) overcame a sluggish start to earn a victory Monday over the host Eagles (7-14) in a Class A district opener. Glenn fell behind 12-2 at the start, but pulled shead at halftime, 36-32. The Rockets, getting a key reverse rebound jam from Tony Goins with 3:17 to play for a 64-58 advantage, outscored Romulus 22-19 in the decisive fourth quarter. Goins, a 6-foot-4 senior, led Glenn with 23 points and 10 rebounds. Sophomore guard Albert Jones scored 18 of his 21 in the first half.

Guy Rucker and Savon Hubbard contributed 12 and 11 points, respectively. Antoine Stoudemire and Tore Turner each scored 17 for Romulus. Rodney Smithchipped in with 13. MOVI 64, STEVENSON 68: Novi's balanced attack proved too much for Livonia Stevenson to handle in Monday's Class A district basketball opener at Northville.

The Wildcats led all the way in posting a 64-56 triumph. An indication of how lopsided it got: The Spartans closed the game with an 11-1 run over the final 21/2 minutes, and still lost by eight.

Four Wildcats reached double figures in scoring, led by senior guard Greg Pierman's 18 points. Junior guard Jason Fannon added 13, and junior forward Shawn Kelly and sophomore forward Chad Dicken netted 10 apiece. Stevenson (6-15) was led by senior forward Brett Ferris' 12 points. Sophomore forward

Jim Barlow scored 10 and sophomore guard Jim Grewe had nine. The Spartans trailed 32-21 at the half and

49-36 going into the last quarter. FREDFORD CC 72, SOUTHFIELD 52: The site changed, but the outcome remained the same. Southfield High School, hosting a Class A boys basketball district for the first time since players in double figures with 17 points on eight of 11 shooting. Senior center Joe Daly, continuing his torrid shooting (8-10 from the field), scored 16 points, senior guard Andy Slankster 12 and senior guard Anthony Hesano 10.

CC junior forward Mike Ridley scored nine points and also led the Shamrocks with eight rebounds. Charles Cartwright led Southfield with 16 points and Ray Pope added 13.

St. Mary ousts pesky Clarenceville, 76-61

By Steve Kowalski

Livonia Clarenceville interim boys basketball coach Rick Larson watched Orchard Lake St. Mary play Detroit Pershing Saturday afternoon at the University of Detroit Mercy's Calihan Hall.

St. Mary, a Class C school, gave the defending Class A champion Doughboys a battle and Larson a headache. Pershing won, 70-67.

"We were a little awe struck," Larson said. "Both teams were dunking on each other, both were running.' Larson wasn't sure how his players would respond to St. Mary in Tuesday's Class C district first-round game at Redford-Bishop Borgess.

But underdog Clarenceville answered the call, hanging tough most of the way before losing to St. Mary, 76-61.

St. Mary, the Catholic League C-D Division champion which improved to 14-7 overall, advances to tonight's district semifinal against Southfield Christian at Borgess.

Clarenceville's season ends at 10-10 overall.

"I thought tonight might get ugly, but our guys have got too much pride to let it get ugly," Larson said.

Senior guards Mark Kalaj, John Kalaj and Chris Smith each ended their careers by scoring in double figures. Mark Kalaj had a a team-high 22 points; John Kalaj scored 15 and Smith 10.

Larson, 24, isn't sure if he's returning to Clarenceville, either.

Larson became interim coach midway through the season when head coach Rob White resigned and said he has not been told about his status for next season.

"I really want the job, but if I can't get anyone to give the commitment, I'll look elsewhere," said Larson, who works as an environmental chemist. "I'm ready to be a head coach."

Larson gets an endorsement from 6-foot-6 junior center Mark Berry, who closed out the season with 11 points.

"I'd love to have him back," Berry said. "He's a good coach, knows what he's doing. He's not just a coach, he's a friend. He can be hard on you, but it helps in game situations.'

St. Mary outscored Clarenceville in every quarter, but couldn't pull away until the fourth. The Eaglets led 12-9 after one quarter and 34-28 at halftime. Mark Kalaj's basket cut the deficit to 45-40 late in the third quarter before St. Mary scored five-straight points for a 50-40 lead.

The Eaglets outscored the Trojans 13-8 to start the fourth quarter and open up a 65-50 lead.

Junior forward David Bowens scored a game-high 25 points to lead three Eaglets in double figures. Juniors Darryl Adams and DiAllo Johnson scored 16 and 15, respectively, and freshman guard Kylo Jones added nine.

St. Mary second-year coach Denny Butcher knew the Trojans would present problems.

"I saw them play once and knew 23 and his cousin were good players," Butcher said. "Basically, I thought those two kept them in the game. We did not come out aggressively and that's my fault as coach. In districts, there are no free lunches. You have to respect everybody, and I give Clarenceville a lot of credit." Butcher gave the 6-foot-4

Bowens the assignment of guarding Berry.

High Westland (9-12). Jeff Webber, a senior center, contributed 12 points and 10 rebounds. Senior guard Wendell Green added 10 points and 10 assists.

Lutheran Westland, which couldn't overcome a 26-9 first quarter deficit, was led by senior guard Jimmy Hoeft's 13 points. Jon Smolka and Matt Purdy chipped in with 10 points spiece, while Chris Tiernan added nine. ■ INTER-CITY 95, HURON VALLEY 29: On Monday, host Allen Park Inter-City Baptist (15-5) rolled in Class D district tourney against out-opening ceremonies included introductions of the officers of the local associations, the press and other notables who were on hand. Hall-of-Famer Mary Mohacsi threw the traditional first ball in which $50 per pin was pledged by the Bowling Centers Association to the Capuchin Soup Kitchen. Mary raised $350 with a seven-count. After the national anthem and the announcement of Let the Games Begin, the ladies took to the lanes.

The Elite from Redford Lanes was the team leader after the first week. Kimberlie A. Torchala and Cynthia M. Kuppke from Fountainview Lanes were the top doubles team followed by Debra Flake and Nina Glymph from Redford Lanes.

The top five in the singles event: Susan M. Fleck (153 average) from Mayflower Lanes with 759, including 172 pins in handicap: Deborah O'Connor (143) aslo from Mayflower Lanes with 757 (196 handicap), Nannetta Thomas (146) From Drakeshire with 752 (189 handicap), Sharon E. Schmidt (148) from Hartfield Lanes with 752 (184 handicap), and Jo Ann Harrison (140) from Redford Lanes with 750 (204 handicap). The leader in all-events is Louise Traylor from Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills with a total of 2230 pins, including a nice handicap of 813 added to her 1417 actual. The women's event will conclude Sunday, March 20, followed by the Men's City Tournament, which begins the following weekend at Cloverlanes. ■ Garden City is the home of some of the area's finest bowlers, and this fact comes to light even more with the recent victory by Rick Eiermann in the Stroh's Beer Michigan Majors Bowling Association Tournament at Friendly Sterling There were a total of nine records shattered before Eiermann emerged victorious. He was perfect in his final game to complete a perfect weekend. Eiermann rolled only the second 300 game on a MMBA televised show and was the first bowler to collect the added bonus of $1,000 from the Stroh Brewery for a perfect game rolled on the TV show. Eiermann beat Joe Hill of Battle Creek in the final match 300-239 with the added thrill of having his wife watching. He also had a 300 game in the ualifying round, set a record for the highest 12-game finals (3063 total/255 average) and averaged 253.75 on TV. Only one word can describe this performance: awesome. Other Observerland bowlers cashing

Shamrocks do it again, 2-1

By Steve Kowalski STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central hockey coach Gordie St. John chewed on mints behind the bench during Wednesday's Class A quarterfinal game against Trenton.

Someone should have given him Rolaid's to watch the suspense-filled game played before a capacity crowd at Wyandotte's Yack Arena.

"They (his players) don't have any respect for the old man," St. John joked. "My heart won't last through one more of these." The Shamrocks staged another rousing finish, scoring two goals in the last 5:32 to beat Trenton 2-1 and gain their second-straight Final Four appear-

Once again it was senior center Jon Heady orchestrating the comeback. Heady, still playing on a sore foot, assisted on the game-tying goal by linemate Chris Gonzalez at 9:28 of the game-winner at 12:05. Just four days earlier, CC scored two goals in the last 2:49, with Heady getting the gamewinner, to beat Birmingham Brother Rice 2-1 in the regional final.

The No. 1-ranked Shamrocks, 22-1-2, meet East Kentwood in Friday's 6 p.m. Class A semifinal game at the Flint IMA Arena. East Kentwood, 18-6-1, beat Okemos in another Wednesday quarterfinal game, 4-1.

CC's No. 1 line of Heady, Jason Couture and Gonzalez made rush after rush on Trenton goalkeeper Ed Pilch.

After a scoreless second period, Heady stopped the drought when he picked up a loose puck and slid a back-handed pass to Gonzalez, who was all alone in the slot. Gonzalez buried the shot to tie the score 1-1.

"It was lucky, I was just there," Gonzalez said. "Number 27 (Jason Loger) was shadowing Heady all night and 12 (Mike Cullen) was on Couture so I figured I'd be open sooner or lat-goalie saw it." Heady played about half the game despite his foot injury, suffered in the last regular season game. "I don't think I can sit out and watch my team play," Heady said.

Trenton's plan was to stop CC at the blue line, but St. John said defenseman Mark Holdridge and Gonzalez did an excellent job throughout the night penetrating the enemy zone.

Trenton finished the season 17-4-2 overall, losing three times to CC.

"We didn't feel safe (with the 1-0 lead)," Trenton coach Skip Howey said. "I told them not to look at the clock. Heady's a good player, very hard to defend. He got a couple opportunities and he capitalized:".

Florida trip brings sunshine to Lady Crusaders

SOFTBALL

After Jerry Abraham decided to accept the job of coaching Madonna University's softball team in December, it took him no time at all to spot two big problems: the roster and the schedule.

The roster problem was one of numbers - there weren't enough players. Abraham solved that, at least partially, by picking up a few players from Madonna's vollevball (which he also coaches) and basketball teams and adding a couple of walk-ons. The schedule presented a different dilemma. The opening trip to Fort Myers, Fla., included games against NCAA Division I schools like Oklahoma, Boston University and Boston College, schools with athletic budgets that dwarfed Madonna's.

Tuesday, Madonna pushed across six runs in the last two innings to nip Fairleigh Dickinson 6-2. Jennifer Pinter doubled in two runs to start the four-run fifth-inning rally, and Holly Jondro drove in two more — including the game-winner - with another double. Jennifer Czach added a run-scoring single in the sixth and some solid defensive work in right field, and Ronnie Ronco had two hits. The game was the Crusaders' seventh of the trip - and, surprisingly, it was their fifth win. Dawn Terrasi allowed 10 hits and a walk, but just one earned run, After examining the schedule, it while striking out eight in seven against two losses.

Livonia dentist stars in 'Guys and Dolls'

BY ROY GOODMAN SPECIAL WRITER

The Bloomfield Players have consistently made a point of presenting musicals with plenty of roles for children, and they have consistently done very well with their young cast members, so "Guys and Dolls" was an unusual choice for them.

I'm pleased to say that the Bloomfield Players definitely did it justice.

The obvious choice to play Nathan Detroit was Larry Miller, a Livonia centist who has made something of a second career playing adorable scoundrels for the Bloomfield Players, Dr. Miller put just the right amount of edge to his performance, just the right amount of wheedling, just the right amount of con man.

Kay-Ellen Murphy was a surprise choice as Sarah Brown. Her diminutive stature landed her the part of an adorable ingenue in the Bloomfield Players' production of "Hello, Dolly," but here she wasn't typecast. At first she was a bit too innocuous, but following a very effective and very funny drunk scene, she was able to put some real fire into her character.

Murphy packs a big voice into her small frame. Her romantic partner, F. Patrick Devine as Sky Masterton, was a trifle laid-back in his spoken lines, but more than made up it with his singing.

The Bloomfield Players succeed in their productions by finding amateurs with real star quality to fill the starring roles. In "Guys and Dolls" the star was Miss Adelaide, played by Sheri Brown, who brought glamor to the role along with her singing and dancing abilities. I thought that she should have spent more time singing in her own excellent voice, less affecting a grating Brooklyn accent and copying inane vocal tricks from Faith part of Arvide Abernathy, and he Prince's Broadway performance, but in spite of this she made the show.

The supporting cast was perhaps the best I've seen yet from the Bloomfield Players. As Nicely-Nicely Johnson, Kevin Lee Branshaw was the most impressive vocalist in a cast of impressive vocalists. He was nicelynicely aided and abetted by Philip Lukasik and Les Jones as fellow gamblers, especially in the wonderful "Fugue for Tinhorns."

The rest of the gamblers were very good. The Save-A-Soul missionaries were very good. The dancers were better than very good, especially in "A Bushel and A Peck." Thanks to Valerie Mould's imaginative choreography, I enjoyed that number even more than I did in the professional production.

First lady makes agent her servant

To the American public. Tess Carlisle (Shirley MacLaine) is a national treasure, a revered former First lady; but behind closed doors, she is a crotchety, strong-willed matron whose life. seems to have one purpose: to see just how many of Doug Chesnic's (Nicholas Cage) buttons she can push before the Secret Service agent blows up.

Born to dominate, this mercurial, unreasonable woman really knows how to unsettle the young agent, who is assigned to protect her in retirement after her husband, the president of the United States, died in office.

Doug lives by the rules, which, after all, are designed to protect Tess; but those rules prevent the former First Lady from living her life the way she wants to in "Guarding Tess," a TriStar Pictures presentation of a Channel production opening Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters.

Tess loves to prick Doug's professional demeanor and test just how many rules she can bend in the unbending agent's presence.

It isn't simply that Tess likes tormenting Doug. She has her agenda, which is to make Doug her human reclamation project. She will keep kicking him until she kicks him right into some enjoyment of life.

Hugh Wilson directs the script he co-wrote with Peter Torokvei. Ned Tanen and Nancy Graham Tanen are the producers of the film, which was shot on location throughout Maryland and in Washington, D.C.

opening the door to an unconventelligence, respect, wit and strength of character. When danger becomes a reality, Doug's admiration and love for Tess direct his actions, overriding his precept that an agent must follow the rules.

"Doug is straightforward, very focused, very direct," Nicolas Cage said. "But he is also one of those guys who joined the Secret Service because he likes the adrenalin rush that comes from a high-action job. The problem is, in the service of Mrs. Carlisle, he is basically a waiter or a butler." To compound the problem,

PREVIEW

Tess is frequently irritated with Doug for adhering to rules that restrict her privacy and freedom.

Shirley MacLaine says: "I understand Tess' plight: no privacy, surrounded by people who are at her beck and call when she'd rather be left alone. I think it rankles her that the taxpayers are Eventually Tess signals a truce, paying for protection that she doesn't really want. Only because tional friendship founded on in- the president and the country want Tess to have protection does she go along with it.'

Nevertheless, when Doug's three-year tour as head of her protection detail is over, Tess refuses to let him go.

"Tess is frustrated, but she respects Doug," said MacLaine. "She knows he's intelligent, he's her equal. He's got integrity and values, a sense of dignity and a sense of balance. He's the only one she wants to play her games with.'

Cage points out that Tess' desire to play games is precisely what makes it difficult for Doug to do his job.

There are more former presidents and former first ladies alive than ever before in the country's history, and "all of them are entitled to protection for the rest of their lives," director and co-writer Hugh Wilson says.

Talking with Secret Service agents, Wilson became fascinated with the way protection details function. He was especially intrigued by the dilemma presented when VIPs grow weary of the ever-watchful presence of guards.

"This is an invasion of privacy, no matter how delicately it's handled," said Wilson.

The agents, however, have their own frustrations, Wilson learned, especially when they are regarded as little more than gofers with guns. Inviting Peter Torokvei to work with him, Wilson began writing a screenplay about the delicate relationship between the protected and the protectors.

In addition to MacLaine and Cage, the cast includes Richard Griffiths, as Frederick, Tess' personal nurse; Austin Pendelton as Earl, her chauffeur, and Edward Albert, as Tess' grown-up but still dependent son, Barry.

Secret servant: Agent Doug Chesnic (Nicolas Cage) finds himself performing duties not covered in the Secret Service manual while guarding former First Lady Tess Carlisle (Shirley MacLaine) in the comedy "Guarding Tess."

Too many plots make 'Angie' very confusing

AP — "Angie" is a well-intentioned but confused film that spi-

called "Sybil." Just who is Angie? Is she an strong-willed woman facing matrimony and maternity (and not necessarily in that order)? Is she an abandoned girl searching for her long-lost, free-spirit mother? Is she a romantic looking for love in all the wrong places? Is she a new mother facing the tragedy of a baby born with severe medical problems?

As a result, this effort chugs along in an odd, episodic fashion. It's so stewed in melodramatic mush and cheap bathos that when you walk out of the theater, you'll feel like you've seen four half-hour soap opera episodes instead of one movie. Just what is this story supposed to be about? For simple plot purposes, it's the adventures - and misadventures - of Angie REVIEW

(Geena Davis), an Italian woman brought up in Brooklyn, an only child, "which, in a Catholic neighborhood like Bensonhurst, made me feel like a Martian."

But she finds safety and comfort with her best friend, the evertacky Tina (Aida Turturro). When Angie learns she's pregnant, all would seem joyous exGandolfini).

That sets in motion an illconceived affair with the everscowling Noel (Stephen Rea), a high-powered lawyer who nonetheless has time to spend afternoons strolling through the Metropolitan Museum.

This affair has the seeds of a light-hearted romance until the arrival of the baby, when the film suddenly takes a dark turn — the infant is born with a serious de-

Feeling a little confused? Irritated? Agitated? Annoyed?

All are appropriate responses. There just isn't enough of one stoboyfriend-lunk Vinnie (James Coolidge employs not a whit of ry to hang on to. Acting quite good in 'The Prisoner of Second Avenue'

tions' current staging, I think I finally figured out why I have always hated Neil Simon's "The Prisoner of

Thanks to

SRO Produc-

Second Avenue." Written in the 1960s, when everybody's personal problems were the fault of "society," "Prisoner" presents us with Mel Edison, a middle class Manhattanite who is breaking down under job strain, he world's indifference and life in the big city.

We, the audience, are supposed th think "Yes, life certainly is terrible. It's a wonder I haven't cacked up myself." Well, with the perspective of the 1990s and Ralph Rosati's interpretation of Mel (as both actor and director), we see our hero for what he really ik; a whining, irritable little nudge ho has managed to survive to the age of 50 only because he is married to a saint.

I mean, there really is an awful lot not to like here. Oh, by the way, as you may have guessed from the author's name, this is supposed to be a comedy.

ON STAGE

"The Prisoner of Second Avenue"

- ★Curtain time: 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 2 p.m. Sundays, through March 20.

REVIEW

My personal prejudices aside, the acting in the show is quite good. Rosati consistently brings out Mel's bad side, and then manages a very credible transformation into a calm and nurturing Mel at the play's conclusion.

Real life wife Judi Rosati plays Mel's wife, Edna, with both passion and good comic instincts. The two of them are at their best as Mel slips into his nervous breakdown at the end of Act I and at the end of the play as Mel manages to save Edna from falling into the same darkness from which he has just returned.

"Prisoner" is fairly close to being a two-person show, with just a brief appearance by Mel's brother and three sisters. One can't help wonder if Simon didn't throw these four in just to give his. leads a scene in which to catch their breath. Although each part' is played adequately, even the cast members look like they're not quite sure why they are there.

Dennis Broadhead is quite good as Harry, the overbearing brother, and deserves a better part next time for his effort.

In closing, I might suggest to SRO that Neil Simon has written some wonderful plays in recent year ("Rumors," "Broadway Bound" and "Brighton Beach Memoirs" to name three) and I might question why SRO, along with so many other groups keeps dragging back tired, dated material like "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

Mark S. Carley is active in local community theater, both onstage and behind the scenes. He is a member of the Birmingham Village Players and Ridgedale Players in Troy.

Couple: Real life husband and wife Ralph and Judie Rosati star as Mel and Edna Edison in SRO's production of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

misconceptions and stereotypes involving 1,000 years of Arab and Chaldean history.

Time may never be on their side, but Terry Ahwal and Joseph Kassab managed to build more of an understanding about those respective communities Tuesday.

Both spoke at the monthly Farmington/Farmington Hills Multicultural/Community Council Forum at the Farmington Training Center.

There's a tendency to lump Arab-Americans into one profile, failing to recognize the religious, ethnic and cultural differences among those from the Middle East, Ahwal said. From those generalizations, stereotypes metamorphose into an unrealistic cari-

He also said there is a distinction between Chaldean-Americans and other Arab-Americans. Many Chaldeans immigrated to the United States from northern Iraqi villages. Though they speak Arabic, Chaldeans have their own language, which is a major dialect of Aramaic.

An estimated 250,000 Arab-Americans live in the Detroit area, according to Ahwal. This area also boasts the highest Chaldean population in the United States, with 60,000.

Yet misunderstanding persists. While asking a question, a person in the audience pronounced the word A-rab, which is considered derogatory. The correct Ahwal refutes. She also addresses

ROLL CALL REPORT

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Feb

HOUSE

Disaster Aid: By a vote of 337 for and 74 against, the House sent the Senate a $9.72 billion emergency spending bill (HR 3759) that includes $7.78 billion to help the Los Angeles area recover from last month's earthquake. The spending will be added to the FY '94 deficit rather than offset by cuts (see next issue). Illegal aliens can receive funds under the bill only for emergency medical care and sustenance.

The bill provides $1.2 billion for the Defense Department, along with $410 million for recovery from last summer's Midwest floods and $315 million related to the San Francisco area's .1989 earthquake.

For Los Angeles, the bill provides $4.7 billion for temporary housing and infrastructure repairs, $1.4 billion for highways, $1.1 billion for loans to individuals and small businesses, a $500 million White House contingency fund, $250 million for urban grants, $225 million for rent subsidies, $165 million for general school expenses, $80 million for grants to low-income college students whose means were reduced by the earthquake and $21 million for veterans' health care.

Supporter Julian Dixon, D-Calif., said Los Angeles residents "deserve to be beneficiaries of the same goodwill and swift emergency relief that the Congress has demonstrated in the face of the nation's other recent natural disasters."

Opponent John Boehner, R-Ohio, sald: "For the last five years, Congress has passed over $20 billion in disaster assistance, most of that not paid for, but simply added to the debt."

A yes vote was to pass the bill.

Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac, Dale Kildee, D-Fiint, Joseph Knollenberg, r-Birmingham, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and William Ford, D-Ypsilanti.

Deficit Issue: By a vote of 178 for and 240 against, the House rejected an amendment to offset the $9.72 billion cost of HR 3759 (above) with equivalent cuts in a wide range of federal programs. This vote preserved the bill as an emergency measure whose outlays for earthquake recovery and other purposes will be added to the FY '94 deficit.

Supporter Sam Johnson, R-Texas, said Congress "has to realize there are two emergencies facing this nation. One of them is the devastating earthquake that hit Southern California, and we need to help them now. The other and more important, I think, is the emergency facing the nation of our national debt. The current debt stands at over $4 trillion, and the interest alone is $213 million."

Opponent Richard Durbin, D-III., said inflicting budget cuts "in the name of helping earthquake victims is dead wrong. It is morally wrong for us to create this choice fornia in some shelter there sits a homeless person watching this debate wondering if this Congress will ever finish all this hot air in time to deliver the kind of assistance they need to put their lives back in order."

A yes vote was to put HR 3759 on a pay-as-you-go rather than deficit-spending basis. Area representatives voting yes were: Joseph Knollenberg. Voting no: Bob Carr, Dale Kildee, Sander Levin and William Ford.

Defense Funds: By a vote of 158 for and 260 against, the House refused to remove Department of Defense funding from a California earthquake disaster relief bill (HR 3759). The vote preserved $1.2 billion in the bill for DOD humanitarian and peacekeeping operations in Haiti, Somalia, Bosnia and Iraq.

Sponsor Barney Frank, D-Mass. said: "It makes a mockery of the fiscal discipline we have begun to subject ourselves to, to simply say that because there was an earth-quake in California we will give the military an additional $1.2 billion."

Opponent Robert Livingston, R-La., said peacekeeping missions are weakening defense preparedness. "What we are doing is feeding hundreds of thousands of people all over the world and the U.S. armed forces are sucking up the cost of this great humanitarian effort," he said.

A yes vote was to remove Pentagon money from the disaster-recovery bill. Area representatives voting no were: Carr, Kildee, Knollenberg, Levin and Ford.

SENATE

State Department Budget: By a vote of 92 for and eight against, the Senate sent to conference with the House a bill (S 1281) authorizing $12.5 billion for the fiscal 1994-95 budgets of the State Department, United States Information Agency, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and several other foreign affairs agencies and missions.

The bill takes a step toward consolidating Cold War-era international broadcasting operations, while keeping news operations of Radio Free Europe, Radio Liberty and the new Radio Free Asia relatively free of government control. It orders studies into streamlining the foreign affairs bureaucracy, but also increases the number of assistant Secretaries of State from 15 to 20. The bill offers President Clinton sense-of-the-Senate advice for dealing with Bosnia, North Korea, China, Russia, Cuba and other problem spots.

A yes vote was to pass the bill.

Michigan Senators Carl Levin, D, voted yes, and Donald Riegle, D, voted yes.

School Prayer: The Senate adopted, 75 for and 22 against, an amendment in behalf of "constitutionally permitted" school prayer. The vote occurred during debate on a bill (S 1150) setting voluntary nationwide educational standards and providing $420 million in grants to induce public schools meet those goals. To receive money under the amendment, schools must permit prayer to the extent it is permitted by the Supreme Court. While the court says officially organized prayer is unconstitutional, it has not specifically outlawed informal prayer initiated by students.

Sponsor Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said "Supreme Court precedent indicates that students have a right to engage in religious activities in the schools if those activities do not materially disrupt other activities in the school."

Opponent John Danforth, R-Mo., called the amendment "a federal mandate... that local governments and local school boards must permit voluntary prayer in school or else they lose federal money."

A yes vote supported the amendments. Michigan Senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegie both voted no.

Sisters of Mercy get $3 million in property sale

BY BILL COUTANT STAFF WRITER

Farmington Hills and the Sisters of Mercy shared the limelight at Monday's regular city council session to mark the sale of more than 27 acres of Mercy property to the city for just more than $3 million.

"We're delighted this worked out both for the Sisters of Mercy and the city," said Mayor Larry Lichtman.

Lichtman presented members of the Sisters' leadership team and Robert McQuaid, who chaired the committee that studied and made recommendations on the center, with "ambassador medals." The Sisters, in turn, presented the city with pictures MSRP $19,990 and '94 Mercury Congar and a history of the property.

Sister Gretchen Elliott, president of the Sisters of Mercy Regional Community in Detroit, said the city's plan to continue using the center for senior programs as well as cultural events. educational programs and recreation were in keeping with the center's tradition and the Sisters' mission.

The sale of the property, which includes a wing of the building and an additional 20 acres of at $.11 per mile Credit appropriate land, was closed March 2.

"We were, as a council, very Credit I total amount of monthly happy our prayers were answered and you didn't ask for more money," quipped councilman Terry Sever.

Cold spell ups use of gas, electric

Natural-gas deliveries and electric sales by Consumers Power sharply increased in February as cold weather and Michigan's rebounding economy increased customer demand, according to a Consumers Power press release.

Temperatures in February averaged five degrees below normal. Gas deliveries of 58.6 billion cubic feet set an all-time February monthly record, 14.2 percent higher than the former February record, set in 1979.

Electric sendott-in February also was strong and increased 5.9 percent compared to the former monthly record set last year. An all-time February hourly peak electric record of 5,398 megawatts was set February 8, 7.9 percent higher than the former hourly peak record set last year.

"We anticipate strong electric sales and gas deliveries throughout 1994 as the Michigan economy continues to expand," said CP president Michael Morris in the press release.

Consumers Power, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corp., is Michigan's largest natural gas and electric utility, serving six million of the state's 91/2 million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

FAMILY LIFE

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

Introducing kids to money management

n many families, each member takes part in keeping a handle on family spending. Budgeting the family dollars is one of children's first and most real examples of how and where money is spent, and how much should be saved. It gives children a preview of how a small business might operate.

When children experience firsthand how a parent's loss of job, a drop in income, or a prolonged illness of a family member can have a devastating strain on the family's budget, they, too, develop a higher consciousness of saving and budgeting.

Most children, especially young ones, have limited knowledge of the technicalities of spending - where and when priority dollars must be spent. Children do, however, recognize that where they once may have visited McDonald's once or twice a week, those visits may become less frequent when the family decides to tighten up spending.

Here are some ways families can save a buck here and there. Penny- and dollar-pinching can mean more for you and your family.

Take bag lunches - Instead of spending $3 or more a day for fast-food lunches, save by going to the grocery store. Buy enough simple food favorites (luncheon meat, fruits and veggies) to last the entire week. Buy snack food in bulk and avoid using vending machines at work or school.

Buy in bulk - Save on household products, such as toilet paper, soap, coffee, canned goods, etc. When you buy is bulk, dollars can then be targeted to something else instead of running back and forth to the store for more of the same.

Pay yourself - Take out 10 percent of your take-home (net) pay and bank it. Try not to touch it. If you can do more, do it! Do less, if you must, but do something about saving money.

Conserve energy - Turn lights out after use and rely on natural light whenever possible. Close doors to keep heat in rooms in the house. Watch TV less and spend more time reading or having family rap sessions.

Recycle - The most familiar recycling is beverage bottle returns. Every 10-cent deposit saved on returning empty bottles can be viewed as a small investment toward purchasing other food items.

Clip coupons - Coupons can trim up to $20 or more off the family grocery bill. Shopping on double-coupon days can mean bigger savings. Organize your coupons according to food groups and expiration dates.

Garden - Grow it yourself. It's nutritious, fresh and fun. The whole family can take part in gardening. Children love it, too. If they can grow it, they are more apt to try new vegetables, and perhaps like them.

Find junk treasures - Resale is a popular way to pinch pennies. A dollar spent at a resale shop to purchase anything from toys to clothes to furniture can go much further. You can get some great items at resale stores at big-time bargain prices. I love it! Run family garage sales - Include extended family members in on this money-making and savings venture. Grandma, Grandpa, aunts, uncles, cousins and in-laws can bring their good throwaways to the garage sale. This will add more variety to the selection. Bake - Instead of buying commercial doughnuts or muffins to go with milk or coffee, bake a dozen or more muffins. Refrigerate for freshness. Add as much fruit or bran as you like. This way you can control your fat intake and count calories better. You'll know exactly what's in your

Don't procrastinate - Pay bills on time to avoid late fees and high interest rates. You might think that $15 late fee added this time on a bill is OK, but think again on what you could have purchased with it. Better yet, $15 saved.

Do it yourself - Again if you can do it yourself, then do it. Save dollars by making small repairs around the house, such as fixing leakyfaucets, unclogging drains, painting, repairing small appliances, laying carpeting, tiling floors and wall papering.

Use measuring cups - Waste less when you take time to measure. Measure food amounts and detergent instead of pouring out mounds. Waste not, want not; waste, and have not.

Save extra change - Take the extra change you find around the house, hidden under the couch, between the chair cushions or in your car and start putting in the family petty cash fund. Pennies, nickels and dimes soon turn into dollars.

Pins and needles: A fitting job

Bonnie Bentley and Karen McDermott have lives filled with pins and needles. The reason being their ability to create custom clothing for weddings, proms, costume parties and the like.

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

You could say Bonnie Bentley is a speed demon of sorts. Seated in front of her Singer sewing machine, its clickety-clack sounds more like a roar as the needle dances across a piece of white satin, destined to be the collar of a pink bridesmaid's

All done? Bam. The needle stops dead in its tracks.

This isn't your average portable home sewing machine, and Bentley isn't your average seamstress. Hers is a commercial machine she uses to ply her trade - custom dress designs - at Bonnie's Bridal in Livonia. Partner Karen McDermott prefers the Singer home sewing machine.

"I've been dreaming about this for a long time," Bentley said of the new shop. "I worked at home for 10 years and took up almost half of my home with a sewing room, fitting and changing rooms. My husband is so glad I'm out."

"I gave up a lucrative career (doing direct sales) to work with Bonnie," McDermott said with a

They opened the shop in the Village Fashion Mall on Merriman north of Seven Mile in mid-December and being one of the few shops in the area that does custom work, they've been busy ever since.

The two women decided to tackle a shop of their own when they "got wind" that the owner of a bridal shop in the mall was retiring. They inquired into purchasing the business but eventually decided to wait until that shop had closed before opening their own business.

"We learned a lot about business in three days," McDermott said. "We had to make a lot of decisions, and I don't think we made a bad one."

Working relationship

McDermott, a Garden City resident, first met Bentley, who lives in Farmington, when she worked at a bridal shop with Bentley's mother. The two women met, and Bentley ended up working for McDermott for awhile. Their roles reversed when

Bentley started working out of her home, with McDermott working for her for six years. Bentley's interest in sewing dates back to high school. In fact she credits her sewing teacher Darlene Marohnic at Livonia Churchill High School with inspiring her to become a professional dressmaker. After winning the Hudson's Teen Sewing Contest and attending Eastern redesigns it.' Michigan University, Bentley went on to perfect her skills working at bridal shops and out of her home.

McDermott's inspiration was closer to home . . . her mother. A seamstress, McDermott recalls her mother was always sewing at home. She learned a lot, so much so, that whatever else she needed she picked up during her first year of high school. After that, she "actually taught" the freshman sewing class her junior and senior years.

"I also (later) had three children, and I learned that sewing at home was very economical," McDermott said. "And when people heard I liked sewing at home, like the manager of a store, I started doing all kinds of sewing at home."

Their work can been seen in every corner of the 1,700-square foot shop - a wedding dress encrusted with crystal beadwork, a white cowboy hat decorated with ribbons, flowers and silver studs for a western theme wedding and four pastelcolored halter dresses destined for a cruise ship wedding.

And then there are the prom

"The prom girls are fun," said McDermott working on the cowboy hat. "They get carried away then have to ask their Mom if they can wear it. Then the Mom comes in and Bentley makes her own patterns for the custom clothing. Sometimes, her clients bring in photographs of dresses, wanting the top from one and the bottom from the other. She also provides silhouettes so they can draw what they would like the dress to look.

Scissor magic

"Sometimes, I just cut right on the material; other times I make a paper pattern, if I think it's something that will stay in style for awhile, "she said. "I think with our business, people are surprised that custom-made is no more expensive than ready-to-wear."

It takes the due about an hour to cut out and assemble a bridesmaid's dress for fitting. That's without a zipper and buttons and the finishing work which depends on how well the assembled dress fits.

Fashionable evening benefits First Step

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

If all goes according to plans, First Step, the Western Wayne County Domestic Violence Project, will get a financial boost courtesy of Zonta Northwest.

The professional women's organization and Jacobson's of Laurel Park Place will stage "First Step into Spring," an evening of food, fashions and fun, Wednesday, March 23.

"It's more of an evening, a gala event, rather than a fashion show and dinner," said Pam Gomoll of Zonta, who is helping plan the benefit.

Jacobson's will be the backdrop for the 6:30-9 p.m. benefit. There will be two major fashion ishows throughout the evening, featuring men's, women's and children's wear, "encompassing all price points," as well as two smaller women's sportswear shows. Guest model will be Mona Shane, wife of WXYZ sportscaster Don Shane.

The show will encompass all of the designer fashions featured at the store - Donna Karan, JAX, Theo Miles," Gomoll said. "It'll encompass all the price points you can see in the store . . . from moderate price to top of the line."

Scattered throughout the store will be displays from up to 14 area restaurants, providing food samplings and beverages for participants. Musical entertainment will be provided by a Livonia Symphony quintet, a jazz trio with singer Karen Hofbauer and a solo by singer Kathleen Phipps prior to a raffle that has top prizes of a $500 Jacobson's gift certificate, a stay at the Mission Point Resort on Mackinac Island and a night at Westin Hotel in the Renaissance Center.

A highlight of the evening will be the launch of a new cosmetic line by Trish McEvoy. Her cos-

We must discover and emphasize the nature of our unity

REV. DAVID STRONG

I live in a place of great diversity. I experience a wide range of racial and cultural differences. I relate to people who are homeless or experience mental problems. I also work with professors, doctors and lawyers.

This mix of people is a very stimulating environment.

We who live in this environment talk about diversity and how it can work for us. Even more important, we realize that we must discover and emphasize the nature of our unity.

I believe that Dennis Archer was elected mayor of Detroit in part because he seems to be a person who can symbolize unity among diverse people. I believe that churches and other institutions in our society need to work toward a goal of unity.

What is happening in Europe is a terrible lesson of what we might face. Nationalism is rising in parts of Europe because political leaders stress a unity of the majority at the expense of the minorprovide security in a time of uncertainty.

Most religions have a unifying center. God is one. The universe is one. Natural life must be sustained because it is the work of the creator. Most religions emphasize love and peace at the center of life. However, we live in a time when many religious leaders fail to lead us toward this critical unity.

I like to proclaim that we are all one. We are all connected in ways of which we are now only dimly aware. The economy of the world is becoming one integrated economy. The environment of the planet is one. Most religious teachings ities. A narrow unity seems to have not caught up with this real-

Some of the people who think about the future of the planet say that economics will be the driving force to demonstrate our oneness. Why will religion not take a lead in creating unity among people and all creation?

I discovered something long ago: Religious leaders are often way behind their followers in this matter of unity. When I was a young boy, Roman Catholic priests and Protestant ministers pushed the thought of how different we were. The kids wanted to be in one community together. A few kids grew up thinking that everyone should be like them. Most

Our physical separation is a great barrier to our unity. Physical separation of people who are different breeds fear and misunderstanding. Prejudice is like weeds in the garden. Prejudice can grow unseen until the rooting out of it becomes painful.

Our greatest challenge is to acknowledge one God and one planet earth and transfer this belief into unifying behavior. This is the religious challenge of our age. We can preach about love and God. Unless we behave as though this core unity affects people, we live out a lie. We must work at this challenge. Our future depends upon our commitment to the certainty that we are all one.

These days they are seeing more straight styles and a more sophisticated look in wedding fashions. Bentley says it's because brides and their attendants are getting older, and "they don't want that pretty little girl look." Some brides even opt for dressy suits that can be worn again.

"My favorite is flower girl dresses." McDermott added. "Even measuring them is fun . . . 21-21-21, no curves to contend with."

Unusual creations include a bridesmaid's dress for a dog (made to match the rest of the wedding party) and apparel for a Hawaiian wedding complete with floral print shirts and shorts.

But the prize for most unusual goes to a prom dress. Made of black satin, it had a 2-foot high stand-up collar, a bodice that "plunged to the belly button," a chiffon train accented with spider webs that hooked onto the girl's fingertips and a lace-up floorlength skirt with a 2-inch gap between the front and back.

"The mother just loved it,"

Bentley said.

The twosome spend plenty of time at the shop, sometimes up to 18 hours a day, creating the traditional and the unusual. While they appear to be very much alike, they say they are different.

McDermott has three teenagers which "takes care of any free time I have." Once active in the PTA and the Girl Scouts, she does play volleyball in an over-30 league. She admits she brought a pillowcase to work one day to mend because she "doesn't sew at home very much anymore."

Evangelist holds revival at church

Newburgh Baptist Church in Westland will have revival services Sunday, March 13, through Friday, March 18.

The services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday at the church, 37055 Joy.

The speaker will be Dr. D.M. Hardison, staff evangelist of Atlantic Baptist Bible College in Chester, Va. Born in Jamesville, N.C., Hardison was raised by his grandparents on a small farm, after his mother died in childbirth. In his preaching, he often uses illustrations that reflect upon his rural upbringing.

A passing breed of old-fashioned preachers whose love and respect of the Scriptures cannot be doubted, he offers no other solution for man's ills than the Lord.

Hardison has been a full-time evangelist for 17 years and has spent more than a quarter century as a pastor. He has started two independent Baptist churches and has helped start several others. He also is the founder of Atlantic Baptist Bible College and has served as its president for many vears. He is one of the directors of the college and has been since the sehool started in 1960.

Hardison has been active in the ranks of Independent Baptists for many years. He was a member of the first such church to be organized in Tidewater, Va., in the late 1940s, and served as the president of the North Carolina and Virginia Independent Baptist Preacher's Fellowship. He has also served as president of the International Fellowship of Fundamental Baptists.

He has preached at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., and has written a book, "The Country Parson." He has traveled extensively, leading several tours to the Holy Land, and has preached in Germany, England, Israel, Greece and the Bahamas.

For this revival, Hardison will speak on such subjects as prophecy, revival, heaven, hell and Christian living.

You share the same body, the same life-giving nutrients for nine months. Each of you affects the other in countless ways.

Why is it then that many hospitals treat you and your baby like completely unrelated people?

OUR NURSES SEE THEM AS STILL BEING ATTACHED

You stay in your room. Your baby stays in the nursery. And you're each cared for by a different nurse.

A better way

At St. Mary Hospital we offer a better way to begin. A personal nurse takes care of you and your baby together to encourage the best possible start. So your nurse can tellhow your comfort level, moods and medication may be affecting your baby. And how your haby's behavior influences you. This new way of caring is called mother-baby nursing.

Mother-baby nurses

With mother-baby nurses, you can learn by watching the nurse care for your newborn at your bedside instead of out of your sight in a nursery. If you have a question about your baby, the nurse can answer it immediately. You won't have to wait for the "baby nurse."

The Miracle of Life Maternity Center at Sk Mary Hospital has mother-baby nursing all the time.

More support, more education. It's a better way of caring. To learn more about the benefits of mother-baby nursing call 313-591-2882. Ask for a free brochure, tour, or physician referral.

I he only thing as pleasant aș buyıng a Saturn is leasing one.

We hope you've heard how unstressful we try to make it for you when you visit a Saturn showroom. (Because who needs more stress, right?) Anyway, we take the same approach to leasing as we do to everything else. So if leasing a Saturn is better for you than buying one (and we can help you figure that out), then great. The only important thing is to find out how pleasant driving a Saturn can be.

GMAC Disclaimer: GMAC must approve lease. Mileage charge of $0.10 per mile over 45,000 miles. Lessee pays for excessive uvar and use. See your participating retailer for qualification details. You must take delivery from retailer stock by March 31, 1994: Payments may be slightly higher in Alabama, Arkansas, Hawati, New York, Texas, and Virginia. Poinsettia's season can last through year s your Christmas poinsettia beginning to look a bit "out of season"? There are a couple of ways to prolong its life. One way requires specific steps to get it to re-bloom, while the other is more carefree and will work if you aren't too particular about when it re-blooms.

"Remember that poinsettias are a tropical plant. Their home is South America. They don't like drafts and need areas with plenty of light," said Jeff Jones of Plymouth Nursery, 9900 Plymouth Road in Plymouth.

"Since they're photo-responsive, they flower according to day length. The easiest way to get them to flower is to mimic the natural light. From September on, they need light from daybreak to dusk. It takes a lot of effort to get them to re-bloom. It's

"It might be better to start new each holiday season.

Taking steps

The specific steps, according to the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association and Paul Ecke Poinsettia Ranch, are:

In March or early April, when bracts fade, cut back the original stem to four to eight inches, removing most side branches, leaving about three to four green leaves per shoot. The buds in the uppermost leaf axils will then develop and grow.

Re-pot, if necessary, when old growth is cut away, or when new growth is beginning, then place the plant in a warm, sunny area. Continue watering and lightly fertilize every three to four weeks.

After the last frost date (and night temperatures are above 50° F.), sink the pot to the rim in the ground in a well-drained, slightly shaded location. Between July 15 and Aug. 1, cut off the terminal portion of the shoots for a bushier plant with more shoots. If plant gets leggy, prune again.

Bring the plant indoors before frost and continue to water and fertilize. Then about Sept. 21, until Thanksgiving (or Oct. 1, until Dec. 15), set the poinsettia in a dark closet every evening at 6 p.m. until 8 a.m. the following morning (14 hours) or cover it with a cardboard box for the same amount of time to eliminate light. This allows the plant to set bud and flower. Night temperatures should be from 60 to 65 degrees Fahrenheit. When in the light, rotate the plant each day so all sides get even light. This forces the green bracks to color.

After this time, either on Thanksgiving or Dec. 15, discontinue the dark treatment. Place the plant in a sunny area with at least six hours of direct sunlight. Reduce water and fertilizer. Color should begin to show in about six weeks from the beginning of dark period.

Wandering: It can lead to wonderful photos

When planning your travels this year, try to include a "wandering" trip. I do them often and they sure pay off with rewarding photographs.

What do I by mean 'wandering'' trip? It's one where there's no set itinerary, no set plans, just getting there and wandering or hanging loose for the duration of the trip. It's not even knowing where you might be from day to day or where you might be spending the evening. Sound fun and exciting? It is! And your photographs will be all the better.

Whether it's a local photography trip for a few days or an extended vacation overseas, wandering is the way to go.

My wife and I spent five weeks in Europe this way and doing so sure compensated us with good fun and good photos. We had ourpersonal belongings, camera gear, a rental car and no itinerary. I remember leaving the Frankfort Airport and asking my wife, "Well, which way to you want to go?" We played it one day at a time deciding which direction or which country we wanted to head

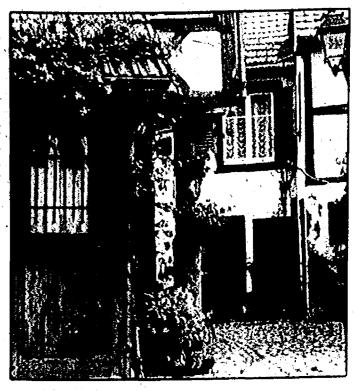

Our wanderings took us to nine countries, mostly visiting small villages. This way, we saw the real Europe, met the real people and got the real photographs.

At times we literally stumbled onto picturesque subjects - a charming village, a delightful person willing to pose for the camera or an off-the-beaten-path' street scene. Bed and breakfast proprietors, despite the language barrier, were most helpful in pointing out little-known areas for taking great

One of my favorite stops of the trip was a quaint village called Turckheim nestled near the German border. We happened onto it quite by accident. And how enchanting it was - cobblestone streets, colorful flowers on window ledges, storks nesting on tiled rooftops . . . a photographer's delight. The photograph shown here was one of many taken in this captivating French town,

You'll be amazed at what you'll encounter on a wandering trip. You'll have a great time and you're sure to bring home many memorable and gratifying photographs.

Another option On the other hand, Rita Miller of Birmingham has been enjoying her poinsettias for many years with the following care:

She prunes the plants to four inches when the leaves fall off -"they look scraggly" — and lets a few leaves remain. She sets the plants in a large west window of her house until the ground can be worked.

"I leave them in the same pot unless roots are coming out of the bottom, which is seldom, and put them in the ground where they 'go crazy," she said.

At the end of summer. Miller returns them to the west window then begins applications of regular houseplant fertilizer. She eliminates the dark treatment and enjoys the foliage, then the color when the poinsettias are ready (yellow flowers, called cyathia, also appear then) --sometimes in December, February or the spring, but this year they performed for the Christmas are very susceptible to white fly, so at the first sign of trouble, spray with an insecticidal soap. Repeat the treatment as needed.

tion of the Marshall Historical Society," says Paula Little, flower show designer. "We've included plant material and gardening styles typical of turn-of-the-century gardens. We've also tried to duplicate a typical town square of that period, where people would go to hear a political speaker or fire hall band."

A wall mural will provide a background of buildings from Marshall. The mural is the volunteer work of William L. Brudon, Ann Arbor artist and U.M professor efferitus of art and medical illustration.

The entryway leads visitors to the show's major exhibit section, in which eight fully landscaped gardens, designed and prepared by nurseries and landscape designers, continue the theme of classic and enduring gardening styles.

The most intricate and novel of those will be French parterre pathways adorning the walkways that connect buildings. Each walkway will contain a geometric flower and plant bed pattern "such as the doughnut and bowtie shapes traditionally associated with the formal French parterre style," Little said.

The Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show includes a standard flower show produced in cooperation with the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan. This show within a show includes horticulture and design exhibits that showcase the talents of amateur horticulturalists and designers throughout the state.

For the second year, the show has added a new category that features horticultural vignettes with live plant material.

Special exhibits never before staged at the flower show include a miniature garden railroad display, complete with dwarf conifers and a miniature European village, presented by the American Conifer Society/Central Region. The Metropolitan Detroit Flower-Growers Association will provide a traditional floral clock exhibit.

LEASING CHIEF

PREMISYS Real Estate Services named David M. Jeup to leasing director for Prudential Town Center, Southfield.

Formerly of The Hayman Co., he joins PREM-ISYS Marketing Services, an affiliate of The Prudential Realty Group. He will assist in leasing the 2.2-million square feet in the office complex.

Jeup is a licensed real estate sales agent and builder in Michigan.

LOCK INTEREST RATE

Bingham Farms-based Rock Financial, an independent mortgage bank, has reintroduced Mortgage First to home buyers. It allows consumers to lock today's low interest rate and receive full credit approval before shopping for a home.

"Mortgage First meets the needs of aware consumers who are buying a home this spring but want the protection of today's low rates," said Daniel Gilbert, Rock Financial president.

Mortgage rates again have dipped. "We're actually only 1/2 percent to 1/4 percent higher than the 23-year low we saw in mortgage rates last October," Gilbert said. "This has played exceptionally well into the hands of our Mortgage First clients. They get to put to rest fears that rates will jump up this spring just when they are about to buy.'

With branches in Michigan and Ohio, Rock Financial is one of the Midwest's largest residential lenders. It closed more than $1 billion in retail mortgage lending in 1993.

STUDYING UP

Members of the Century 21 Great Lakes Division top-producer masters program who attended a retreat at Sawmill Creek Resort in Huron, Ohio, were: Yoshiko Fujimori of Century 21 Row, Livonia; Marcia Sheppard, Century 21 Suburban, Plymouth, and Sanford Norman, Century 21 Town & Country, Birmingham.

MEW LEADER

Capitol Bancorp Ltd., a Lansing-based multibank holding company with subsidiaries in Farm ington Hills, Ann Arbor and Portage and Lansing, has named David Toepp of Farmington Hills as president and CEO of Mortgage Connection, a mortgage banking subsidiary.

He joined Mortgage Connection in 1992 as vice president and residential lending manager.

Your home a key to tax savings

If you're a homeowner, here's some good news from the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs: The Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1993 left many of the tax deductions available to you intact.

Be sure to take advantage of these -deductions and tax breaks when pre-paring your 1993 return:

■ Points — If you acquired a mortgage last year in order to purchase or improve a principal residence, you can generally take a tax deduction for the points, or loan origination fees, in the year paid.

However, points paid on a loan to purchase or improve a second home do not qualify for a full, immediate tax deduction; they must be deducted over the life of the loan. This same rule applies to points paid when refinancing a mortgage. However, if part of the refinancing proceeds is used for improvements, a portion of the points may be deducted in the year paid.

■ Mortgage interest — Under current law, you can also deduct interest on mortgage loans obtained to acquire, construct or substantially improve your primary residence and a second home. The mortgage must be secured by the residence you purchase, construct or improve.

You may deduct mortgage interest on a total of $1 million of acquisition indebtedness and $100,000 of homeequity indebtedness on such residences. These amounts are halved for married individuals filing separate returns. A transitional rule enables you to deduct all interest on mortgage loans you obtained on a principal or second residence prior to October 14,

■ Property taxes — Generally, you can deduct any real estate taxes charged against your property. Owners of cooperatives should note that they may be able to deduct their proportionate share of real estate taxes assessed on the building itself.

■ Rental expenses — If you rented out your home or a vacation property, a percentage of your expenses may be deductible as a business expense. These include costs paid for taxes, interest, fire and liability insurance, advertising and cleaning services.

You can also deduct fees paid for repairs, such as repairing driveways or fudng gutters. Improvements to rental properties, however, must be depreciated; that is, the cost of the item is written off as an expense over, a period of years.

■ Home improvements — Home improvements that add to your home's value, prolong its life or adapt it to new uses are considered capital improvements that have important tax consequences. Although such improvements, which can include adding a new room, installing a sidewalk or replacing old wiring, are not tax deductible, they increase your home's basis; that is, your total investment in the property, including the purchase price and related fees.

Increasing your home's basis enables you to reduce the gain you realize from its eventual sale and the tax you would pay on the gain. If you sold your home last year, be sure to dig out receipts that can help you calculate the cost of your capital improve-

Tax deferral on sale of a residence - If you sold your principal residence last year or are planningto do so in the future, you may defer tax on the profit. To do so, you must meet two conditions: You must purchase or build a new personal residence two years before or two years after the sale date of the old residence, and the cost of the residence you buy must be equal to or greater than the adjusted selling price of your old residence.

■ 55 or Older Exclusion — If you are age 55 or older when you sell your principal residence, you may elect to exclude $125,000 worth of gain on its sale. (The exclusion is $62,500 for each married person filing separately.) In addition to meeting the age requirement, you must also meet an ownership and occupancy test. Be aware that this is a once-in-a-lifetime tax break. Married couples can take only one lifetime exclusion between

■ Home-Office Deduction — If you work from your home, you may also be able to take a tax deduction for a proportionate share of the costs associated with operating and maintaining your home. However, strict tax rules apply to this deduction.

Finally, be aware that some of the tax deductions generally available to homeowners, such as those for mortgage interest and property taxes, are phased out for high-income taxpayers. Check with your CPA to determine your eligibility for these deduc-

Master deed compliance — a must for co-owners

Q. We have a coowner in our condominium who says that even though our documents say that they are supposed to comply with the rules and regulations, that there is nothing in the Condominium Act that requires this, and that he goes by "the law. 'Can you help us in evaluating this situation?

A. First, the Condominium Act of 1978 specifically provides that each unit co-owner, tenant, or non-coowner occupant, shall comply with the master deed, bylaws, and rules and regulations of the condominium project and this act.

Moreover, by becoming a member of the association, a co-owner agrees by contract and covenant to be bound by the condominium rules, regulations and restrictions embodied in the condominium documents.

Therefore, both based on statute and contract law, a co-owner, tenant or non co-owner occupant is obligated to comply with the condominium documents.

THE ART OF THE DEAL

Real Estate

Matters

By Richard Halmekangas G.R.I.

The give-and-take characteristic of negotiating for a home is likely to involve offers and counteroffers. By rejecting only a single provision on a buyer's offer, a seller technically rejects the entire offer. However, in the spirit of compromise and/or making his or her requirements known, a seller can make a counteroffer. This might take the form of a fresh purchase contract identical to the buyer's offer except for the seller's changes.

The counteroffer may also be written on the back of the original offer, accepting the buyer's terms with certain specific changes. Beyond even that, the original offer may be returned with the unacceptable items noted and proposed substitutions. Either way, a counteroffer is more of a proposal of mutual agreement than a rejection.

Construction industry lauds its own

Every year, professionals involved in the construction industry in Michigan nominate what they believe are the most functional, best-looking buildings in the state. And every year, including this one, area firms receive their share of award recognition.

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Architects and contractors headquartered in our coverage area played key roles in six of 10 buildings recognized this year as award winners by the Construction Association of Michigan.

The projects, which included new, renovations and a combination of the two, ran the gamut from an automotive assembly plant to a library to a comedy club/restaurant to schools.

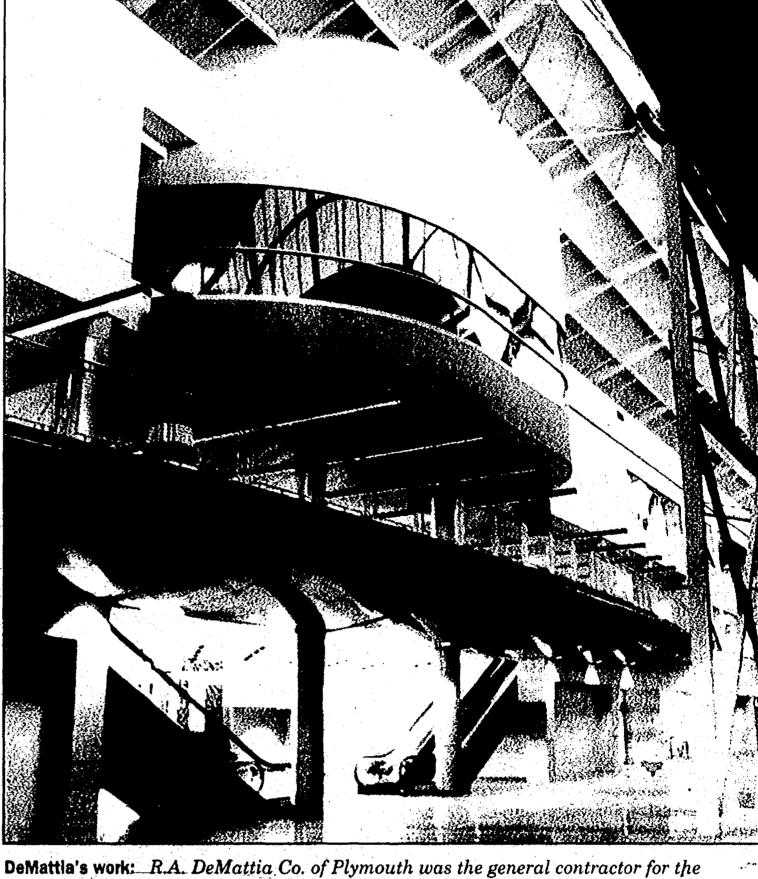

A.J. Etkin Construction, based in Farmington Hills, was the general contractor for the First of America-Arcadia Commons in Kalamazoo and the William Ford Elementary School in Dearborn.

TMP Associates in Bloomfield Hills was the architect for Walled Lake Middle School in Commerce Township and Ford Elementary.

R.A. DeMattia in Plymouth served as contractor for the Focus Hope Center for Advanced Technologies in Detroit. Barton Malow in Southfield played a simi-lar role with the Chrysler Jefferson North Assembly Plant, also in Detroit.

Victor Saroki & Associates in Birmingham designed The Second City comedy club/restaurant in Detroit. Gunnar Birkerts and Associates, also in Birmingham, designed the Frances Willson Thompson Library at the University of Michigan-Flint.

"The showcase awards give local construction companies a way to acknowledge quality work done by fellow construction professionals," said Curt Hacias, CAM president. "The recognition is particularly significant because winners are before taxes. That's enough and we don't owe a dime. I can go to banks then and say, Now lend me some money' (for capital acquisitions).

At the Professional Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan annual convention in February in Grand Rapids, Denise McHenry, vice president and account executive at Cambridge Underwriters Ltd. in Livonia, received the Distinguished Award as "Insurance Agent of the Year.'

This year, we'll do close to $3 million in revenues.

All from tuition? Howard: Yes.

How much do charge and what do students get for their money?

Howard: For the 32-week radio/ TV course, it's $5.895. For the 48week electronics course, it's $7,600. There are different payment plans. Some qualify for assistance.

Classes are four hours a day, ive days a week. We'll start a class every month. We put in last vear about 490 students. If you ook at what's in the system at any time, it will vary - 300, 340, 350.

We graduate about 80 percent and last year we placed 78-85 percent of available graduates, people actively looking, in jobs.

Are prospects expectations sometimes unrealistic?

Howard: You can't promise a ob. It's dumb and we can't do that by law. What we really sell here is education. You have to work at it.

We use the term' entry level.' We tell people, 'There isn't one of you who is a threat to Bill Bonds. J.P. McCarthy, Dick Purtan.' You have to get started wherever there are openings in the job market. Those aren't in major cities.

We stress that starting salaries aren't high in this business. In a small town, you can make $200-$250 a week and live pretty nicely. So what is your marketing strategy? Howard: Our customer is the TV or radio station. Our product is our student. A lot of people, as they get to be 40, 50, 60, are already established economically and can't afford to start over.

We target 18-year-olds, high school graduates up to 25, 26. Then we have to superimpose socio-economic factors. We're looking for people with the means to come to school privately.

We have a young lady who goes to high schools who makes artangements with speech and radio classes to make a pitch. We do a lot of radio advertising, TV advertising.

Dick Kernen (vice president/industry relations) always makes sure radio and TV stations are aware of what we're doing. In our placement department, in addition to Kernen, we have you need somebody and we have a pointed to the name Howard.

graduating class coming up, tell us what you need and we'll try to fill your order.

We have 45 full-time employees. All of our instructors are full time. The only two part-timers I have are in the electronics field.

You mentioned that you had several broadcast school competitors when you got started and none now. How did you manage to survive?

Howard: It's credibility. I don't know how to expand on that.

Career academies and Columbia were franchise schools. I only had one.

It was tough in the beginning. I managed to borrow enough money - I borrowed on a life insurance policy and used my car as collateral — to put in two full-fledged radio studios. We had the students in a real studio rather than sit at home and send in a tape for review.

Little by little we started to grow.

I was the major player in this school, whether it lived or died. That's why I like to see students have some personal financial involvement (paying for their education). They appreciate it more.

Who do you see as your competitors?

Howard: We don't have a school, per se. Colleges and universities teach broadcasting. Some of the high schools have upgraded their equipment.

A lot of customers tell us, not to put down colleges, they would rather hire from us because of hands-on experience.

Competition is more self-imposed because of the nature of the business. All of our planning is geared to the year 2000. We're trying to stay state of the art.

It's going to be television, computer, telephone. When you tie it all together, that's going to be the information highway.

Our whole move to 30,000 square feet at Nine Mile and Evergreen, probably this summer, is predicated not on adding more students. The ultimate goal is to go as far as the information highway will take us. This school will be a hub.

How did Jerry Liebman ever become Specs Howard? Howard: When Westinghouse wanted to switch from soap operas to top 40s, the head honchos came back from lunch, saw my Coke-bottle glasses, and said, Hey, specs.' Then they said, 'What's your last name?'

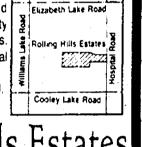

When I told them they said, 'Specs Liebman — nah.'

They opened a telephone book four who work with customers. If at random and, fortunately,

E CONTRACT AWARDED.

Nederman, Inc., Westland was awarded a $4.1 million contract to install vehicle exhaust extraction systems for the New York City fire department. The company will install its pollution control systems, Nederman MagnaTrack, MagnaStack and MagnaRail, in 221 firehouses and on more than 500 pieces of fire apparatus.

The groundwork for the project started in 1985, when the New York fire department began studying firefighter exposure to diesel fumes in its firehouses. In June 1992, Nederman and two other manufacturers installed equipment for a six-month trial in 10 firehouses. "During that time, the firehouses recorded in excess of 5,000 emergency responses per year, per house, and Nederman equipment demonstrated an outstanding performance record," the company said.

graph. "The development of affordable housing, neighborhood renovation and helping at risk youth are at the center of Home Depot's commitment to the metro-Detroit area," said Ken Ubertino, Home Depot's vice president of merchandising.

The Pontiac store is the first of five stores to open in metro-Detroit this year. Other stores are planned in Redford Township, Canton, Northville Township and Warren.

GC1 AVIS FORD GC1 CHAIRMAN AWARD WINNER

Congratulations

This week, all Ford Motor Company Employees will receive a well deserved Profit Sharing Check. In the past, many of you have used a portion of this check as a down payment on a new vehicle. Because of this, we at Avis Ford feel we can best serve you by having a "Private Sale" just for plan buyers and their families. This Saturday, March 12th, we will be open from 10:00 A.M. until 4:00 P.M., just for you.

On display in our showroom, you will be able to see all of the new 1994 cars and trucks. We will be highlighting:

- · the 1994 Aspire "Economy Car of the Year"
- · the 1994 Mustang "Car of the Year"
- · the 1995 Windstar "Van of the Decade"

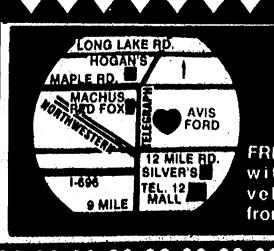

We will also have 100 conversion vans for you to look at. We carry:

- · Elite America's #1 Luxury Conversion Van
- · Mark III America's #1 Selling Conversion Van

Ford Motor Credit is mailing all of you a letter with some great Red Carpet Lease deals. You will be able to get a new Taurus at $239 a month, a new Probe at $209 a month and a new Ranger at $129 a month. These are just some of the deals, so keep an eye on your mail box this week.

Also on Saturday, we will have over 200 previously owned cars, trucks and vans ready for delivery. Please be sure to ask about our new "Used Car Lease Program;" it really lowers your payments! We want you to know that in 1993, over 1700 A and Z plan buyers traded in their used vehicles at Avis Ford. The reason for the huge number of trade-ins is that at Avis Ford, A & Z plan buyers get more money for their trade-ins. Thank you for a job well done. See you Saturday!

Open Saturday, March 12, 1994 10:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M.
