Voters back sales tax

Nearly 60 percent of Westland voters supported Proposal A, which will raise the state sales tax. With homeowners looking forward to a major property tax break, school officials remained worried about the financial impact on their budget.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland voters favored Proposal A by a 3-to-2 margin Tuesday, preferring a sales tax increase instead of higher state income taxes to pay for public education.

City voters supported the proposal 59.5 percent to 40.5 percent, casting 11,378 votes for it and 7,728 against it, unofficial totals showed. The margin of victory was significant — but not as overwhelming as statewide results.

In a heavy turnout, 37.5 percent of Westland's 50,849 voters went to the polls — nearly 9 percent more than voted in the city's November mayoral race. City clerk Diane Fritz came close with her 40-percent prediction.

Proposal A won in 37 of the city's 41 voting precincts, lost in three and tied in one.

"I think the proposal is very bad for low-income people," voter Jennifer Marck said as she walked into Edison Elementary School to vote Tuesday afternoon. She and her husband are in the process of buying a house.

"I think property taxes and income taxes are much better for people who don't have much money," Marck said. "A sales tax hurts because there are certain things that everybody has to buy."

Though she rejected Proposal A, Marck didn't relish having to choose between a sales tax increase and an income tax hike.

"I feel like we had no choice at all," she said. "And I thought a lot of the commercials were unfair. I don't think they've been telling us the whole picture."

Westland's Mike McCarthy, a 36-year-old construction worker, voted for Proposal A.

"I just don't think we can afford the higher income tax," he said. "I think the sales tax is more fair."

McCarthy noted that out-of-state residents who spend money in Michigan will also pay the higher sales tax, boosting in-state revenues.

McCarthy expects to fare better with Proposal A than he would have under the backup plan. Moreover, he helped his retired parents compute their finances and said they, too, will be better off with the proposal.

The Wayne-Westland school board took no official position on Proposal A. With its passage, however, Superintendent Larry Thomas said the district — at best — should be able to maintain current programs.

"I don't believe Proposal A is going to help education as it was advertised to do," he said Wednesday.

Many school programs were slashed last year amid a severe budget crunch, and Proposal A won't provide the money to restore them, Thomas said. His administration will have to look for "new ways" to improve finances, he said.

The board will have to borrow money more frequently, Thomas said, because state-aid payments to the district will arrive later under the new financing plan than in the past.

"The cash flow," he said, "is going to be terrible."

Although the district will receive nearly 3 percent more in state revenues, Thomas said the board this year had to use nearly $7 million from its general fund balance to pay for programs.

"We're probably going to break just about even under Proposal A," he said.

Tax-weary Westland voters — who have routinely rejected local tax proposals — welcome the property tax cut that accompanied school-funding changes.

But, despite the sweeping changes and Proposal A's passage, school officials remain worried. New projections indicate the school board will end the fiscal year with a mere $31,472 in surplus dollars — compared to $6.7 million of one year ago.

Proposal A

$6,000 trip raises fury

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Despite strong opposition from their colleagues, three Wayne-Westland school board members will attend a weeklong national convention in New Orleans that will cost local taxpayers about $6,000.

Board members Mathew McCusker, Patricia Brown and Debra Fowlkes are registered to attend the National School Boards Association convention April 7-13 in the lively Louisiana city — the state's largest.

But some board members, citing severe budget problems and an earlier moratorium on out-of-state travel for school administrators, strongly criticized the decision.

"It appears improper," board member Richard LeBlanc said, adding later, "It has the appearance of being a perk."

Board president Francis "Bud" Winter chose the trio to attend the convention, despite a recommendation from Superintendent Larry Thomas that only one of the board's seven members make the trip.

"I don't think that there's anything improper about what we're doing at all," Winter said.

His decision has drawn heated criticism from LeBlanc and board members Laurel Raisanen and Vicki Welty.

"I feel that you are acting as a whole board in some of your decisions," Raisanen told Winter during Monday night's meeting.

Raisanen chastised Winter for the $6,000 expense that comes amid a "huge" budget crunch. The district's

Group trying to protect nature site gets reprieve

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland citizens committee has received a significant boost in its effort to protect a 50-acre nature area northeast of Palmer Road and Wildwood.

The group has been given six months to seek grant monies amid hopes of protecting the wooded area known as Sassafras Trails, which could otherwise be sold to developers by the Wayne-Westland school board.

The committee also wants to transform the old Wilson school — on the same site — into a nature and science education center that would complement Sassafras Trails.

The school board has decided to give the committee, Sassafras Canopy, until Sept. 1 to seek grant monies. Even if the group succeeds, however, questions remain about who would own the property and oversee it.

The board has considered the possibility of selling the land, once used for student field trips. But, bowing to mounting pressure from citizens and local government officials, the board has declared a six-month moratorium on the issue.

Opposition to the possible sale increased during Monday's school board meeting as Sassafras Canopy drew support from Canton Township clerk Loren Bennett and Westland City Council members Charles Pickering, Sandra Cicirelli, Glenn Anderson and Sharon Scott — all of whom attended the session.

Bennett urged the board not to err as he said the Plymouth-Canton board did when it sold land near Cherry Hill and Palmer for a 40-acre subdivision.

Pickering warned that — if the land is sold — the city council can't block a developer from building on it as long as zoning requirements are met.

"Once you let go of it to a private interest, you have lost that control," he said.

Pickering indicated that the city should consider joining efforts to preserve Sassafras Trails. He voiced concerns that the citizens committee might have a difficult time getting a grant.

Already, some board members have said they won't vote to sell the land.

"Every time I go down Wildwood, I want to see the trees there," board vice president Mathew McCusker said.

Board member Richard LeBlanc, however, said he wants the school district freed from liability for the land because crimes have occurred there. At least one sexual assault has been reported in the area in recent months.

If Westland city officials agreed to assume responsibility for the land, LeBlanc said, "I would vote to give it away today."

Jack Smiley, executive director of the Detroit Audubon Society, commended the board for delaying any decision about Sassafras Trails.

"I think this is a very wise and prudent move," he said, saying the land is "rich" in wetlands and animal life.

If sold, the money from the sale wouldn't go far in solving the school district's financial problems, Smiley said.

He commended nature and science programs in Birmingham, Troy and Ann Arbor and said, "I want to see Wayne-Westland schools back up there in that regard, as well."

Some developers have indicated an interest in buying the land. But district officials are telling the potential buyers — for now, at least — that any sale is on hold.

In another development, the board agreed Monday to lease 11,000 square feet of Wilson school — or 25 percent of the building — to a day-care company for three years. But there was no talk of selling the property, a signal that Sassafras Trails supporters found encouraging.

Livonia to offer course in Japanese

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Come September, Livonia will join the growing number of school districts across the nation which offer a course in beginning Japanese.

The one-hour pilot program will be taught at Stevenson High School by Melisia Pytlak, a foreign language and social studies teacher at Holmes Middle School. Pytlak, recently certified to teach Japanese, helped write the course she will teach.

The Livonia Board of Education approved the course for one year Monday.

"We're trying it for the first time, so we need the flexibility to change," said Ken Watson, director of secondary education. "We will monitor it and at the end of the year we will evaluate it and make a decision about what to do next."

After one year, the course could be expanded into all three high schools, or even dropped if it doesn't generate the minimum 19 students needed to fill the class.

Because it is tough to find teachers certified to teach Japanese, it could also be one of the classes telecast districtwide when the district gets its new technology in place.

The class will be open to all high school students. But, realistically, most of the students will come from Stevenson as students from other schools would have to transport themselves for a one-hour class.

The course is the first non-Western language to be taught in Livonia Public Schools. Educators increasingly believe Japanese is the second most important language in today's global economy.

The course will stress both the language and the culture of Japan. Because Japanese is a difficult language to learn, Watson said parents might be surprised at the lack of fluency at the end of one year of study.

"We must make it clear to parents that they won't be as fluent and that there'll be more emphasis on culture," Watson said.

Besides English, the district now offers courses in French, Spanish and German.

Trips from page 1A

$6.7-million budget surplus of one year ago is expected to plummet to just $32,472 by June 30, based on the latest projections.

Much of the uproar over the New Orleans trip occurred behind the scenes, but the issue spilled into public view Monday when Winter, Brown, McCusker and Fowlkes voted to reschedule an April 11 board meeting that the convention-goers would have missed.

Raisanen and LeBlanc opposed changing the meeting. Welty was absent Monday, but she told the Observer earlier that she sided with the board minority.

Winter, defending his decision, cited the importance of having board members attend convention classes dealing with such topics as youth gangs, year-round school, multicultural education, public relations, curriculum issues and school-community partnerships, among others.

"It is important that our district have representation at this conference, and each of the three board members will be required to attend different classes so that

'It appears improper. It has the appearance of being a perk.'

Richard LeBlanc

they can report on the topics when they return to the district," Winter said Monday, reading from a prepared statement.

"Unlike past school boards, this school board has a monstrous task that lies ahead," Winter said. "With the undertaking of new school boundaries, the middle-school concept, increased violence in the schools and several other issues, it is important that board members be exposed to as much information as possible, not only at the state and local level, but at the national level."

Winter said he chose Fowlkes and Brown because they are the newest board members. Fowlkes was appointed in January, and Brown was elected last June.

Winter selected McCusker — the board's "most senior" member — because he is among 21 directors with the Michigan Association of School Boards.

McCusker "will be very active with that group while in New Orleans," Winter said.

Winter said he has given board members specific assignments. For example, Fowlkes will learn about human relations issues and Brown will study what other districts are doing to develop nature centers, he said. Wayne-Westland has been under fire from residents to use 50 acres of undeveloped land it owns near Palmer Road and Wildwood for environmental education.

In criticizing the New Orleans trip, LeBlanc said board members can learn about similar issues by attending less-expensive, in-state conferences.

Raisanen implied that Winter's decision violated a moratorium on out-of-state travel that was imposed last year, amid budget cuts. But Winter said the ban applied to district administrators — not board members.

LeBlanc said some administrators have contacted him to register complaints about the New Orleans trip.

At one point, Brown lashed back at critics by implying that one board member could have saved money last year by driving daily to a conference at the Westin Hotel in Detroit, instead of spending four nights there.

Brown didn't name the board member, though she was referring to Welty. Welty was out of town early this week and couldn't be reached for comment.

Incinerator authority pushes for approval to sell electricity

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

Efforts are moving forward to sell electricity generated by trash burned at the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority.

Several steps are still needed, including getting a $5-million grant for air pollution controls already approved but not awarded by the state Department of Natural Resources.

Council members of the five-city authority — Garden City, Westland, Wayne, Dearborn Heights and Inkster — are being updated on the project, which has been in progress for over three years.

"This waste-to-energy project is recycling in a real sense. Waste is becoming something useful. Contrary to what you might hear, this does fit with recycling," said Tom Barnett of Central Wayne Energy Recovery, a limited partnership operating a joint venture with the authority.

After lengthy negotiations, an agreement has been reached with Detroit Edison, which will buy electricity generated by the waste-to-energy project. Barnett said he expects the Public Services Commission to approve the agreement later this month.

The plan is to reopen a third line at the incinerator, taking the daily capacity to 800 tons, and generate electricity through new boilers that would be installed.

For the member communities, part of the benefit of selling the electricity would be to stabilize the fees charged for solid waste.

A concern among the communities has been whether they can find enough additional trash from non-member contacts to produce the energy sold to Edison.

The member communities have reduced tonnage sent to the incinerator through composting and recycling programs. By 1995, state law mandates the elimination of grass clippings and leaves from basic trash disposal.

"The composting has been successful. Grass has been a real problem at the incinerator," said authority executive director Erik Schaeffer.

Although the tonnage processed will be reduced due to composting and recycling, Schaeffer noted the materials being removed are difficult to burn, increasing energy costs.

The private partner will be responsible for getting the additional solid waste, Barnett said.

"We are aware that the additional waste is a concern. We are talking with neighboring communities and private haulers," he said. "It's a chicken-and-egg thing. Livonia and Dearborn want to see that the authority is committed to this."

The DNR is delaying the $5-million Solid Waste Alternative Program grant, Barnett said, over some regulations and requirements that were being placed on the project. He said he expects that will be resolved within the next two weeks.

Barnett said he expects the service agreement with the authority to be completed by mid-1994, additional waste to be secured by the end of the year, permits to be obtained by in early 1995, and — following a construction period — the facility to be ready to operate in mid-1997.

Young readers face DoubleDare

Westland middle or junior high school students who patronize the Noble Library in Livonia can get involved in the annual Battle of the Books DoubleDare.

Registration is scheduled next month for the reading planned for seventh- and eighth-graders. The "battle" will be held at noon Saturday, May 14, in the auditorium of the Livonia Civic Center Library.

The kick-off meeting will begin 7 p.m. Thursday, April 7, in Room B of the Civic Center Library. Pre-registration is required and may be done by calling Kathleen Monroe, director of adult services at the library, at 421-7238 or young adult librarian, Keh Bignotti.

The Battle of the Books DoubleDare is a contest for teens based on the Nickelodeon game show DoubleDare. Participants earn prizes by answering questions about books from the official list of battle books.

Those interested in participating should form teams of four readers with one adult sponsor. Registration forms are available at Noble, Sandburg or Civic Center library. Sample questions and strategies for winning will be discussed at the April 7 kick-off meeting along with complete battle rules.

At the actual contest, two teams battle each other on stage in each round. Teams take turns answering questions from the books or perform physical challenges if they can't answer.

School board questions M. L. King Day policies

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Wayne-Westland parent has touched off a debate after claiming that her daughter was treated unfairly for missing school — and a final exam — on Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday.

Sandra Barrow's daughter Ecole, a John Glenn 11th-grader, had a perfect attendance record this school year until she stayed home Jan. 17 to observe King's birthday. The girl nearly lost academic credit until her mother fought the issue and a teacher let her make up the exam.

Barrow's concerns have sparked a larger debate about whether Wayne-Westland schools should close down for King's birthday, and whether attendance policies are unfair at John Glenn and Wayne Memorial High.

At Wayne Memorial, students may opt out of a final exam if they have a perfect attendance record. At John Glenn, students may avoid finals if they have missed no more than two days.

However, individual teachers may require all students to take the exam, and that's where Wayne resident Ecole Barrow encountered problems, her mother has said.

Confusion over the different policies has sparked some support for Barrow's position that schools should close down for the King holiday. In fact, school board member Debra Fowlkes said during Monday night's meeting that she is "committed" to making King's birthday a school holiday.

Fowlkes also called for a uniform attendance policy for the two high schools.

Superintendent Larry Thomas, who said he believes a King holiday should be considered, noted that officials would have to negotiate such a decision with district employees. The proposed holiday could be subject to talks as early as this year.

Wayne resident Val Wolf addressed the board and labeled it "frightful" that John Glenn and Wayne Memorial have different attendance rules.

"That's not fair," she said. Some, including board member Richard LeBlanc, have questioned whether any student should be allowed to opt out of final exams. Other officials have noted that exams typically aren't scheduled on King's birthday.

In a related development, principals of the two high schools said Monday that they have seen some benefits of letting students miss final exams based on good attendance.

Wayne Principal Ronald Stratton said more students now have perfect attendance, which he said could lead to better work habits.

"Companies want people who come to work every day," he said. John Glenn Principal Dennis Connolly provided some statistics regarding his school's policy.

A survey of 81 teachers showed that 84 percent let students opt out of exams if they miss no more than two days, while 10 percent don't, he said. The question didn't apply to other teachers — most of whom teach impaired students, he said.

Virtually all of the teachers who let students opt out believe that the policy has improved attendance, Connolly said. Most of the teachers said they plan to continue the policy in their classrooms, he said.

The policy at John Glenn began this semester, Connolly said.

"Judging by the first semester, I would say it's very successful at John Glenn," he said.

Meanwhile, longtime National Association for the Advancement of Colored People activist Jim Netter spoke about King's birthday and said students receive conflicting messages about its importance. Noting that the Wayne-Westland district serves Westland, Wayne, Inkster and Canton Township, he said the cities of Wayne and Inkster observe the holiday while Westland and Canton don't.

But Netter suggested that the school district should observe King's birthday as a holiday, so that students wanting to attend community functions honoring King could do so without the risk of losing credit.

Gallery owner displays children's art

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Purple and yellow dragons, green and orange elephants, and horses with spots color the show of art created by Livonia school district children being displayed at a gallery through March 31.

Laura Hardy, owner of Nelson's Gallery in Livonia, and art teacher Susan J. Slavik assembled the 36-piece exhibit not only to showcase the work of students but to allow the community a chance to see what students are doing in the visual arts.

"I wanted to do a show of kids art ever since first owning my business back in 1989," said Hardy. "I thought it would be fun. Kids' art is uninhibited."

Held in conjunction with the schools' Youth Art Month, art teachers from 18 elementary schools in the district, which includes the northern section of Westland, submitted two pieces of art which Hardy framed at cost for the exhibit.

The guidelines suggested teachers choose the art works from a specific art lesson. The learning objectives of the lessons are listed on a card next to each piece on the wall.

"The art teachers voluntarily met with Laura to discuss the best ways to make this happen," said Slavik. "We wanted a diversity of products from kindergarten through sixth grade.

"We didn't want to focus on a contest, rather on excellence. We wanted it to be in conjunction with the school district's arts festival (which opened March 14).

Hardy and Slavik initially discussed the project when Slavik was producing a calendar of children's art from Cass last fall.

"I think that the arts are a very vital force. Many in the community don't get to see that; and this gives them the opportunity to take advantage of it."

Two of the students' mothers thought the project served multiple purposes as well.

"It's a self-esteem booster. They feel like a celebrity. I think it's nice for the children to have their art matted and framed," said Wendy Kolodzy, whose daughter Allison is exhibiting an abstract work.

"Ever since we learned her work was one of those chosen for the show, she's been beaming. She's always loved art," said Orozco. "Certainly things like this help motivate. It encourages them to try other things."

The children had their own reasons for applauding the project. Using mixed media, Allison Kolodzy created a windy spring day with kites on handmade paper.

"I'm excited because I never had anything happen like this before. It honored me that people respect my painting," said Allison, a fourth-grader.

Elizabeth's Orozco's mixed media painting captures what life must have been like in the days of clipper ships. After studying reproductions of 19th century maritime paintings and discussing the big ships, she created the work illustrating the age of commercial navigation. Dark, foreboding waves seem ready to topple the white sailed beauty.

"I thought it was fun. We got the lesson about the clipper ships and got to paint. I like painting," said Elizabeth.

Along with Orozco and Kolodzy's, pieces not to be missed are: a green and orange elephant by Danny Lapping, grade one at Garfield; an impressionistic landscape by Sara Geppert, grade four, Taylor; a running horse by Daniel Trubak, grade two, Grant; Matisse-like floral by Michaela Wasek, grade two, Cass; an abstract acrylic by Sara Makmoura, grade three intermediate, Webster; spotted horse by Victoria Rankin, grade two, Cleveland; Rousseau-like floral by Casi Pasciak, grade six, Hoover; unknown animals by Cathie Randall, grade four, Tyler; and acrylic pumpkin by Mike Pyrkosz, grade six, Buchanan.

On exhibit: Alison Kolodzy (left), fourth-grader at Cass Elementary, and Elizabeth Orozco, fifth-grader at Kennedy, show the works they have on display.

Optimistic and anxious

Lawmakers react to Proposal A's challenge

BY CHRIS MCCOSKY
STAFF WRITER

Observer area state representatives and senators reacted to the overwhelming passage of Proposal A with a mixture of surprise, cautious optimism and anxiety Wednesday.

"I was shocked at the numbers, really shocked," said State Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, whose district includes part of Livonia.

"In June of 1993, Livonia voters failed Proposal A by 32 percent. They passed it by 65 percent Tuesday. Redford Township was around 60 percent for it. People really do want property tax relief."

People also want a quality education system, thus the sense of caution and anxiety in Lansing.

"Proposal A is better than it was before," said Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, who supported the backup plan. "But I am very concerned that there won't be enough money for schools. That's the main concern. The governor has cut all kinds of deals. We are really going to have to be watchdogs to make sure there is adequate funding for schools."

Keith is worried about the instability of sales-tax revenues.

"Everybody was fighting against millages, but they were a stable source of income," he said. "A sales tax fluctuates. When times are good and people are buying things, then there will be money. But when times go bad, the money will dry up."

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a supporter of Proposal A from the beginning, disagrees.

"That is a red herring," said the senator whose district includes Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and Canton. "You could say the same thing about income tax. During a recession when people are out of work, the state collects less money. The people have made the right decision. We have the revenue to fully fund education with this package."

Legislators seem to be split on that.

"I would have preferred that a plan (for school funding) be in place before we did this," said Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, who was opposed to the proposal.

"We were under the gun and I just hope we didn't move too quickly. Dan DeGrow (a Republican state senator from Port Huron) has been very involved with this and said he thinks schools will be in good shape for 10 to 12 years. I hope he is right."

Causing some doubt for Faust and others is the fact that the money just might not be there.

"We've already made major cuts in state governments and we'll need to make more," he said. "They are getting very painful."

State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, said the people of Michigan have sent a very clear message to Lansing. "They said two things: People do not want their income taxed. They despise direct taxation on productivity. And secondly, they are tired of special interest groups ruling the agenda in Lansing. This was, as much as anything else, a defeat of the MEA (Michigan Education Association)."

Vorva, whose district includes part of Livonia, said that the MEA and the tobacco industry formed an "unholy alliance" in an attempt to defeat the proposal.

"The people saw through that," he said. "They saw two groups who would normally be diametrically opposed to each other coming together simply out of greed."

"People saw that they pushed their own concerns over the good of the general public, and they aren't going to stand for that anymore. They aren't going to stand for politicians sucking up to special interests anymore. This vote signals a change in the way politicians will have to do business here."

Family first: Amann ends race for Congress

BY SUSAN ROSIEK
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann ended his race for U.S. Congress Monday, about one month after entering the race. Amann said he was doing so for the "good of my young family."

Amann also said he would not seek re-election to the Wayne County Commission. Instead, he'll practice law, care for his family and "get back into public service sometime in the future, but I don't know where or when."

"I am convinced that in the near future I cannot in good conscience compatibly serve as a congressman for the 13th District while serving as a father for my young family," wrote Amann in a statement to his supporters.

"After spending five days last week in Washington, D.C., I have a greater appreciation for what it takes to serve in Congress. The rigors of representation in Washington, D.C. would require that I would have to uproot my family but not be around to nourish its growth."

"Although I am deeply concerned about America and I recognize the opportunity for me to serve in Congress may never come again, my family's needs will never be greater than in the next several years. My family comes first," Amann said.

"The perceived power in Washington, D.C. holds a fraction of the magnetism of a strong and loving family. Congress will thrive without me, but my family would not," he added.

Amann was the first Democrat to announce for the seat long held by his mentor, Democrat William D. Ford, who announced his retirement in late January.

The only other declared candidate in the race for the 13th District is Republican John Schall of Ann Arbor, formerly of Livonia.

Observer communities in the 13th District are Garden City, Westland, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township and the southeast section of Livonia. The district also includes part of Washtenaw County.

Candidates reportedly exploring a run for the seat are Democrat David Geiss, a former aide to Ford, and Republican Cynthia Wilbanks, a former aide to U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell. Westland Mayor Robert Thomas also has been mentioned as a possible contender in the Democratic primary.

Amann insisted his departure is about "me and my family" and not about support or raising money "or some brokered deal."

Some had speculated that Amann would have a tough time raising the necessary money because he could not garner United Auto Workers money or support. He said his fund-raising had taken off and he also had lined up an impressive list of endorsements in the short time he was in the race. They included a host of officials from throughout the district.

"Washington, D.C. has changed dramatically since I've worked there. Every moment they're not legislating, these people are out raising money," said Amann, adding, "The tough part is, I don't think the time will come again for me to run for Congress, but I'm a father and that time won't come again either."

A Wayne County commissioner

since 1991, Amann and his wife, Mary, have two daughters, Lindsay, 8, and Lauren, 5. The Amanns live in Wayne. In private life, Amann is an attorney with the Livonia law firm of Brashear, Tangora and Spence.

Amann said he would not seek re-election to the county commission because "others had plans and announced for the seat, and it wouldn't be fair to upset their plans now." The commission district includes Canton Township.

Burce Patterson, an attorney from Canton Township who works as the director of planned giving at Eastern Michigan University, is running as a Republican. Democrat Ken Warfield, the mayor of Wayne, is also in the race.

A graduate of John Glenn High School in Westland, Amann earned a law degree from the University of Detroit and Georgetown University. While studying in Washington, D.C., Amann served on Ford's staff. He also worked as assistant county executive for criminal justice under Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and was instrumental in setting a noise-abatement policy among the Federation Aviation Administration, Metro Airport and the airlines.

Amann announced his bid for election in front of the Jack Demmer auto dealership on Michigan Avenue in Wayne. He announced his withdrawal by fax Monday, hoping to alert supporters before they found out from someone other than him.

At Providence Hospital, we've recognized women long before they won the vote. Since 1844 when Providence opened its first hospital and began caring for single and widowed mothers and their infants, we've been listening to what women need and want from health care professionals.

And we've learned a lot. We've learned that women want not only the best medical staff and equipment in a program is one of the largest in Michigan with nearly 4,500 babies born each year.

Providence is popular among expectant mothers for many reasons, one of which is our extensive range of birthing options including comfortable LDR (labor, delivery, recovery) rooms and a freestanding family birthing center.

At Providence, we are proud of our beyond. And Providence physicians are dedicated to providing that care. They specialize not only in obstetrics, but also in gynecology, family medicine, internal medicine and general surgery. Other Providence specialists offer care in nurse-midwifery, infertility, laser laparoscopic surgery, menopause, osteoporosis, nutrition, urogynecology and gynecological oncology.

Programs to keep you healthy.

hospital, but also quality care. Women want to be listened to and respected by medical professionals who are kind, skilled and experienced.

Many women take their health for granted. Our experience has shown that women are so busy taking care of others, they sometimes neglect themselves. Pregnancy is often the first time an adult woman chooses a doctor and a hospital. And for many, the choice is Providence. In fact, our obstetrical pro-ability to provide an outstanding level of care for all the families we serve. Our specialists in maternal-fetal medicine assist high-risk mothers through pregnancy, labor and delivery. Our neonatologists care for ill or premature newborns combining love with the wonders of medical technology.

More than just babies. At Providence, we believe women deserve quality health care through all of life's stages — from birth to menopause and

Preventive medicine and health education are integral parts of Women's Services at Providence. Our Breast Health and Education centers offer mammography combined with information and education on performing monthly breast self-examinations. # Area Irish-Americans hope new accord will bring peace

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

When the Joint Declaration for Peace in Northern Ireland was signed by the British and Irish prime ministers in December, it raised hopes for the first time in 25 years that Europe's longest running conflict might finally end.

Local Irish-Americans aren't sure whether the agreement isn't just another failed initiative.

More than 3,100 people have been killed in the "Troubles" in British-occupied Northern Ireland. Unionists want to remain part of Britain, while Irish nationalists want a united Ireland.

The British say in the agreement they have no "selfish, strategic or economic interest" in Northern Ireland and that they will "encourage, facilitate and enable" the reaching of an agreement among the people of the island, even if that agreement is to have a united Ireland. The document also promises that if the violence ceases, after three months all parties can take part in negotiations on the future of Northern Ireland.

The agreement enables the loyalist minority in Northern Ireland to veto any provision that may arise, something Livonia's Dan O'Kennedy, national vice president of the Irish-American Unity Conference, finds troubling.

"Loyalists represent only 20 percent of the population of all of Ireland and 1.6 percent of the United Kingdom. Giving those people a veto is undemocratic. They have had a veto since Ireland was partitioned in 1920. In every decade since, there has been violence, but the worst has come about in the last 25 years," said Kennedy, who's long worked for peace in Northern Ireland and founded the Redford-Livonia chapter of the IAUC.

"While British troops remain in Ireland to support that veto, there can be no peace. It's a dead end that will bring nothing but violence and injustice."

Father C. Richard Kelly, pastor of St. Thomas a' Becket in Canton Township, has visited Northern Ireland several times.

"Healing will take a long time, but I would like to think the peace process is on its way to fruition," he said. "The general populace in the North wants peace. I think what the Irish Republican Army is fighting for could be accomplished diplomatically and that the English could be coaxed out of Ireland," said Kelly, adding that the IRA no longer speaks for the general population.

Westland's Dea Devine, born in Ireland and host of WCAR Radio's "Irish Hour," just wants the killing to stop.

"There isn't a blade of grass worth another drop of blood. By killing people, we haven't helped anyone and we haven't freed Ireland. Peace is going to be a hard thing to accomplish for the simple reason that we have Protestants who don't want to come under a Dublin government."

A forgotten part of the equation is the people in the south of Ireland, said Devine. "A recent poll done there showed that a higher percentage of people in the South said they want no part of the North. They have problems of their own. That point hasn't been brought out in America at all."

Father John Sullivan, pastor at Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth, is hopeful peace may become a reality.

"My prayer and hope is that this is not just all political, and that folks get down to the fact that these are real people. For so long, families have been hurt on both sides in a country that takes great pride in being so family conscious."

"This is the time maybe when we need to look at families today, not at past centuries. What about our children and the future of our families? I have great hopes that maybe now we can get over the politics and get to what really is important."

Patrick Butler is a Westland businessman whose grandparents were born in Ireland. His hope is for the violence to stop, Ireland to be united and its culture restored.

"This conflict dates back to when Britain was a colonial power and Ireland was part of the colonial conquest. I suppose that particular world told them that was the right thing to do. But I think we've become a little more enlightened. I would hope we have, anyways."

When you have a baby it should be a wonderfully close time for you and your family. That's why the Miracle of Life Maternity Center at St. Mary Hospital has you at the center of its visiting policy.

WHY A LOT OF BABIES SEEM LIKE DISTANT RELATIVES

Instead of asking you to conform to limited visiting times or placing barriers between family members, at St. Mary you decide who can visit and when.

All private rooms

We believe you know best when you want visitors and when you need time alone with your baby. That's why all the maternity rooms at St. Mary are private. So a family member can even stay overnight if that's what you want.

Real family care.

Your baby can stay in your room even when family members are visiting. We accept your definition of family. Grandparents. Children. Aunts and uncles.

Your best friend. If you call them family, so do we. It's that simple.

Our physicians even examine babies at your bedside so you and your family can watch and ask questions. So if you want real family-centered care, call St. Mary Hospital. Call 313-591-2882 for a free brochure, personal tour, or a physician referral.

County parks plan marshmallow drop

Forget the robins and ground-hogs, departing Old Man Winter has a sweet tooth.

A the frigid, dreary winter finally begins to give way to spring, the last blizzard of the season is officially scheduled for Good Friday and only at Wayne County Parks locations. That's when a storm of 20,000 marshmallows will fall from the sky (actually a helicopter). Children who will collect the treats and turn them in for prize filled eggs.

The event is the county's Ninth Annual Great Marshmallow Drop set for 11 a.m. at Nankin Mills in Westland and 9 a.m. at Elizabeth Park in Trenton. In case of inclement weather, the drop will be Saturday, April 2.

Youngsters will be divided into age groups to make certain the young ones can collect their share of treats.

The Great Marshmallow Drop is begin co-sponsored by WNIC-FM 100.

McNamara seeks new term

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara declared his candidacy for a third term last Friday at his annual St. Patrick's Day party at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

A crowd of more than 1,000, including Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and numerous candidates for statewide office, were on hand for the announcement.

"We have done so much — and there is still so much to do," McNamara said in a press release.

A Livonia Democrat, McNamara was elected to the county's top office in 1986 after many years as Livonia mayor.

The prospect of creating new partnerships for Wayne County gave McNamara the incentive to run, he said. "We have a number of initiatives where we are bringing government, the community and the private sector together," he said. "I want to bring those partnerships together, and use that momentum to move Wayne County forward."

Among McNamara's recent accomplishments are:

- The start-up of the new HealthChoice insurance plan for the working poor.
- The creation of a county department of the environment.
- Expansion of Metro Airport.

Dump stirs debate among officials

The federal government wants to move ahead with testing a former dump site to make sure it is safe, and a county commissioner disputes claims that the county isn't cooperating.

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Federal and county officials disputed Monday whether the county is cooperating in finding out if a long-dormant dump contains toxic materials.

The conflict surfaced late in a two-hour informational hearing held by the federal Environmental Protection Agency in Westland's Bailey Recreation Center.

At issue is determining if there are any hazardous materials in the former dump, north of Warren Road and west of Central City Parkway, adjacent to two apartment complexes.

The EPA argued in favor of opening up the site and finding out what's there.

"We feel strongly about trenching the property," said Ralph Dollhopf, EPA official.

A preliminary investigation last year said there were hazardous substances on the property.

On the need for expensive testing and possible cleanup, he was disputed by county Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, whose district includes the dump site.

She insisted that the county has been cooperating and that it continues to want "to do the job right."

But several among the approximately 25 people in the audience urged the EPA to avoid limiting any testing.

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

EPA session: The federal Environmental Protection Agency's Ralph Dollhopf (standing at far left) presented information to 25 persons at an informational session held Monday to discuss a former landfill in the northwest section of Westland.

The county, Crestwood Development Co., which built the adjacent apartment complexes, and 3M Corp., which formerly operated a plant in the city of Wayne, have been named as the "potential responsible parties" of the dump and may be liable for paying cleanup and/or removal costs.

The company has already opposed the government's unilateral administrative order issued in early January directing those involved to proceed with more testing to determine if toxic materials are on or under the property.

In a 4 1/2-page letter to EPA administrator Carol Browner a month ago, Beard said it is "unconscionable to me" to be a party "to such irresponsible action," referring to the EPA order.

Beard said that the county has been cooperating with the federal agency, although several residents suggested that the county, Crestwood and 3M have been resisting any major and expensive testing.

The commissioner added:

"As governmental entities, we must exert extra effort to openly communicate, acknowledge mistakes and work cooperatively to address the enormous problems we face. Needless adversarial and confrontational stands do not serve our mutual goals."

Her letter also detailed the actions the county has taken to make sure the site is tested to protect the public and environment.

Beard stressed that an earlier inspection of the property concluded that there was no imminent threat to the public safety or environment.

Dollhopf outlined the history of the site to two separate audiences Monday afternoon and evening.

Slides of the dump taken within the past year showed that 55-gallon drums were visible on the property, adjacent to the William Holliday Nature Preserve.

Among those attending the afternoon session were Cheryl Grundstadt and Katherine Pare of Westland, who were among the leaders in an environmental feud with the Livonia Public Schools nearly two years ago.

Stingray swimmers wind down season

The Stingray swimming team has gone through a major change in the 14 months since it changed coaches.

But the change hasn't stopped the squad from competing.

The competitive swim team is sponsored by the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA and includes youngsters from Westland, Garden City, Canton Township, Plymouth, Livonia and other communities. The team's membership peaked several years ago with nearly 70 swimmers. It dropped in half after the coaching change, but then gradually regained some of its membership.

The team's season will end next month. Persons interested in the squad for the following season may contact Chris Cooper, the Y's physical fitness director, at 721-7044.

Everyone knows someone with diabetes.

Fourteen million Americans are living with diabetes. Unfortunately, more than half do not know they have it because diabetes can strike silently. Many will first learn about diabetes when they are treated for one of its complications - kidney disease, blindness, amputation, heart disease or stroke. Know the early warning signs of frequent urination, unusual thirst, extreme hunger, frequent infections or blurred vision. While there is no cure for diabetes, every day research brings hope. The American Diabetes Association is the nation's leader in the fight against diabetes - funding research, education and patient services.

14 million reasons to find a cure.

Until there's a cure, there's the American Diabetes Association.

Cable rates

Council's priorities misguided

The Westland City Council wants to save local cable TV subscribers money under powers granted last year under a new federal law aimed at cutting cable rates.

Based on the March 7 council action, the Federal Communications Commission must act on the request of the city, which wants to cut rates, and Continental Cablevision Co., which wants to maintain the rate schedule adopted last September.

The council, with apparently little else to worry about, recommended that the basic cable rate be slashed 11 cents a month.

Now that's a real savings for the city's 23,000 cable subscribers, most of whom pay $25 and up.

Frankly, with all the problems facing the city — vacant commercial buildings, expenditures increasing faster than revenues, to name a couple — the council should spend its time on more important things.

The Observer doesn't have a specific cost-breakdown of how much time city employees, council members and the assistant city attorney spent studying the rate structure of Continental and its impact on local subscribers.

But it may be close to the $49,000 a year that the council wants to save cable subscribers.

The recent council action reflects a serious flaw in its problem-identification process.

At recent public hearings planned to get residents' input on cable rates, there has been a virtual no-show.

That means that cable subscribers are satisfied with existing rates or not concerned enough to attend a public hearing to voice their opinions.

So if subscribers aren't worried about cable rates, why should the council be?

Even when the rates were adjusted last September, there was no outcry from subscribers. At that time, half had their rates cut about $2 a month while the other half saw an increase of the same size.

If the council really wanted to save residents real money, it should look for ways to curb municipal spending, especially this spring when it holds several weeks of hearings on the city administration's proposed budget for the new fiscal year.

In an operating budget to come in at about $30 million, there is plenty of opportunity for the council to trim a few bucks from various city accounts — such as out-of-state junkets or turning back part of their salaries into the general fund.

The bottom line is that there is no evidence that people are upset with their cable rates. If they are, they know of several options open to them: They can cancel their subscriptions or reduce the number of premium channels.

Councilman Glenn Anderson said at the March 7 session at which the rate "cut" was recommended to the FCC that he was disappointed that the city couldn't be more involved in controlling cable rates.

Hopefully, Anderson will get over his disappointment as he and his colleagues prepare to tackle Mayor Robert Thomas' proposed budget next month and make real choices on spending priorities.

It's high time for laws, action

New efforts to prosecute perpetrators and help victims of domestic violence are overdue.

Stories on domestic violence — especially major incidents that end in death or serious injury — are sadly becoming a regular feature in suburban newspapers.

An Oakland County woman is bludgeoned to death by her estranged husband in a Farmington dental office; a Garden City man barges into his former girlfriend's house in Westland; a Farmington Hills woman, reportedly undergoing treatment for depression, shoots her husband and then kills herself.

These highly publicized cases get front-page treatment.

"Garden-variety" domestic violence — undramatic and often even unreported to police — is just as troubling and tragic. And sadly, these incidents too are becoming more and more common in our communities. Livonia police, for example, make about a dozen domestic trouble runs during a typical week.

Left untended, these are the festering sores that can and do tear the social fabric of our communities.

But it doesn't have to be that way.

The keys to beating the domestic violence problem are three-fold: legislation from Lansing, local support/education groups, and intervention in each home and every neighborhood where such ugliness occurs.

Yes, we need stronger laws that pave the way for easier prosecution of domestic violence cases. And the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers supports a package of 14 bills moving through the Michigan Legislature to accomplish that.

Many of the bills (which begin with HB 4357) have been approved in both chambers, with three still up for passage in the House. Then they need Gov. John Engler's signature.

Included in the package is legislation that would:

- Draw up and follow specific guidelines on issuing restraining orders.
- Require criminal prosecution for violation of restraining orders.
- Require police agencies to develop policies for responding to domestic violence calls and give victims written information on available community services and legal rights (Birmingham police already do this).
- Force judges and magistrates to accept a domestic violence complaint even if it's not signed by the victim.

Increased funding for community agencies that provide shelter and education to victims of domestic violence should also be a priority. Oakland and Wayne Counties, with a combined population of some 5 million, have just two major agencies — Haven (810-334-1204) and First Step (313-459-5900) — charged with this task.

Finally, people who live close to people who are victims of such abuse can't turn away. The victim needs real help — not criticism or lectures. It's necessary to understand that as bad as their situation may be, it's the only one they know.

No woman, man or child should have to live in fear in the one place on earth they call home.

Conference defended

I have recommended that three Wayne-Westland school board members represent our district at the National School Boards Association Conference in New Orleans April 7-13.

According to board policy, board members are encouraged to attend at least one national conference and as many in-state conferences as possible each year. However, because of financial constraints, I have asked board members that only three of our seven board members attend this year's national conference. Those board members are vice president Mathew McCusker, treasurer Trish Brown and newly appointed board member Debra Fowlkes.

It's important that our district have representation at this conference and each of the three board members will be required to attend different classes, so that they can report on the topics when they return to the district.

Unlike past school boards, this school board has a monstrous task that lies ahead. With the undertaking of new school boundaries, the middle-school concept, increased violence in the schools and several other issues, it is important that board members be exposed to as much information as possible, not only at the state and local level, but at the national level.

Fowlkes, our newest board member, has had no formal training or past experience to prepare her for the types of decisions she must make as a board member who oversees a $90 million budget. I have asked Fowlkes to also investigate and learn more about human relations issues.

Brown, who has attended board meetings for years as a reporter and editor, also needs more exposure to educational issues and how other districts are responding to those issues. I have asked her to dedicate a portion of her time to learning about what other districts are doing with respect to nature centers like the one the district owns at Sassafra Trails. She has also been asked to attend a class that focuses on violence in the schools.

McCusker, our most senior school board member, is also one of 21 directors who represents the Michigan Association of School Boards and will be very active with that group while in New Orleans.

Please don't be fooled by people who say these events are not important. Some of the topics at this year's conference include: the challenge of change, year-round schools, nurturing student success, gang resistance plan, the board's role in math reform, what constitutes an effective multi-cultural education program, school district public relations, how to cut budgets and avoid hurting kids, preparing students for life in the work place, programs that work to reduce prejudice in America's schools, the principal's role in site-based decision-making, the board's role in the curriculum process, and others.

Brown has decided she would not attend any in-state conferences and would only attend the national conference this year. McCusker attends most in-state events because of the important role he holds with the Michigan Association of School Boards. Fowlkes attended the most recent in-state conference to gain more knowledge about her role as a board member.

Unfortunately, there is no formal training required to become a member of any school board of education. That is why these learning experiences are important for all board members and school districts.

Get back to business

Let's face it. The middle class is in trouble. The great postwar prosperity bubble seems to have burst for the American middle class.

Historically speaking, the "middle class" has always been an "endangered species." Large middle class populations are almost always associated with nations that are in their "imperial phase."

Like it or not, the U.S. has been an "empire" for the better part of the 20th century. We often hear commentators speak of the "Imperial Presidency." The politically correct late 20th century term for "empire" is "super-power."

Empires provide the economic "habitat" in which the middle class can thrive. This habitat consists of "great influxes" of the world's wealth into the "Imperial Economy." Historically, these great influxes of wealth have been achieved by armed conquest — as in the cases of ancient Egypt and Rome.

In modern times, the great influxes of wealth are achieved by international trade. The United States is no longer the great trading nation it once was. From 1900 to 1950 our industries were the envy of the entire world. Every modern nation wanted to "Americanize" their industry in those days. American commerce dominated the world's markets. The two World Wars certainly helped. Great wealth flowed into the United States economy.

Eventually — the wealth was shared — and the great post-war American middle class was born.

It's different now. Wealth is quickly flowing out of the United States economy. Consumption is king — debt abounds. The welfare state is rampant. Political nonsense is heard everywhere, usually spoken by people who want to get money from the government and its taxpayers.

How do we restore the middle class? By restoring American business to a position of world dominance and by abandoning the politics of jealousy.

Cut the capital gains tax to zero. Abolish the ability of labor unions to set "industry-wide" wage levels through "pattern bargaining." Abolish property taxes on business property — what better way to keep our factories from wandering off to Mexico! And make the politicians listen to our great business leaders.

In short, restore competitiveness and cut the socialist nonsense. Restore the old motto: "The business of America is business." That is how we became prosperous in the first place. There is no other choice!

Walter Warren, Westland

POINTS OF VIEW

Phone company's got wrong number on billing

Are your phone bills excessive? Do you know what services you are paying for as included in the one-line description of local service charge on your monthly bill?

Do you realize that the monthly billing for Touch-Tone service is $2.43, and yet it is cheaper for the telephone company to provide than the old rotary dial service? If you subscribe to "call waiting" service, did you realize that the monthly rate increased by 26 cents effective Aug. 1, 1993? Does it seem that many of your calls fall into the category of zone or toll calls?

Historically, we looked at price increases for utilities as being the norm. However, in the past few years, telephone companies throughout the country have been forced to reduce rates.

Costs are declining — interest rates and yields on investments are down. Technological changes have allowed Michigan Bell to reduce maintenance and to serve more customers with fewer employees.

You have undoubtedly read about the past and planned layoffs of thousands of employees at Ameritech. Michigan Bell and its parent Ameritech are not reducing their work force to improve service — it is simply to cut costs.

The Michigan Public Service Commission, which was supposed to act as a surrogate for competition, allowed excessive rates to be put in place and the Legislature recently deregulated the industry.

Regulation background

Some background might be helpful. Michigan Bell/Ameritech was until recently regulated like other utilities by the Michigan Public Service Commission. In PA 179, the Michigan Legislature passed the Michigan Telecommunications Act of 1991. I understand, but do not have evidence, that the Legislature acted following an extensive lobbying effort by the telecommunications industry.

Unfortunately prior to this legislation, the Public Service Commission did little to effectively regulate and aggressively seek price reductions during times of stable prices and falling interest and capital costs. Ratepayers thus continue to pay high prices while Michigan Bell recognizes ever-increasing profits.

In other states, the reduced costs have resulted in reduced rates. However, the same is not true in Michigan. Yes, I do admit that with great fanfare Michigan Bell announced it was reducing its toll rates. However, as you all realize, the toll rates were too high in the first place.

This was easy to see when you compared a comparable call in length from here to Ann Arbor with a call out of state. Michigan Bell merely reduced its rates to keep out the competition — namely the interexchange carriers who unfortunately cannot compete on the same basis because they offer 1-plus dialing.

Poor regulation

As I stated, the Public Service Commission never did an adequate job of regulating. Even recently, the commission refused to require Bell to break out the various services included on the one line on your bill and identified as local service charge. If you want a breakdown, you must call the phone company.

That one line includes the monthly service for the local basic service as well as charges for services such as Touch-Tone, call waiting, call forwarding, and inside wire maintenance agreements known as Linebacker or Linebacker Plus.

Each distinct service or package of services carries with it a specific charge. There is absolutely no reason each service and charge is not broken out on each

GUEST COLUMNIST

bill. Bell is obviously concerned in that if a customer sees each item broken out separately along with the cost of each, the customer may choose to cancel one or more services.

Do you know what additional services or options you have signed up for the cost? Perhaps there are services that you never use and wish to cancel. It's all too easy to overlook these potential savings without adequate detail.

No big announcement

If you subscribe to call waiting, the rate increased 26 cents per month effective August 1993. No, there wasn't the big announcement that accompanied the toll rate reduction. It was buried on page 2 of the July billing as the fourth item under "Important Notices."

Only 26 cents per month or $3.12 per year you might say. However, next to Touch-Tone, call waiting is one of the most, if not the most popular option.

Did you receive a bill insert on 976 services offered by Bell? Most states attempt to control the abuses often found in 1-900 and 976 services, but not Michigan Bell.

An Ameritech representative told me that the brochure entitled "976 Information At Your Fingertips" was meant to be informative and not for the purpose of advertising these services.

Personally, I didn't need the information and I object to Bell including this information with my bill. Furthermore, if it was merely information, why did Bell include the following language "It's simple, helpful, valuable, and convenient — try it today!"

If you own a business and advertise in the yellow pages, have your rates increased annually? The profits from the yellow pages are supposed to offset costs in providing local service — residential and business. Michigan Bell, like all other phone companies, set up a subsidiary to provide and sell these services.

The subsidiary is not regulated. Some of the revenues flow back to Bell but these companies are known to realize excessive returns with the excessive profits going to the shareholders — not the ratepayers, as intended.

If your phone fails

Has anyone signed up for the Linebacker or Linebacker Plus? These services are designed to provide maintenance on your inside wiring which is no longer owned by Bell. The cost of these services are $1.95 and $2.95 per month, respectively.

The theory is that a monthly fee will guarantee you free service should something happen to the wiring inside your home. For the extra $1 per month — $12 per year, Bell will provide a phone if yours fails.

I won't argue for or against the merits, but you should evaluate the monthly cost and the number of times you have availed yourself of the service.

If you live in an apartment and signed up for this service because the service representative told you how much a service call would cost in the event you had a problem with the wiring, please check with your apartment manager.

As the wiring is owned by the apartment owner, in all likelihood he or she is responsible for the repairs and thus the service may be of no value.

Recently, Michigan Bell along with the other Ameritech companies initiated a policy known as the Preferential Service Plan. If service is required, preferential treatment is granted to customers who pay the most.

In other words, if you're a subscriber to the lowest basic service and your bills have been kept to a minimum, your service request will be filled after a large user.

Is there anything that can be done? You could call your legislator, but I've had little success with that. If you, like me, are upset about receiving an "information brochure" on 976 services, let them know.

If enough people voice their concerns, we can overcome the failures of the Michigan Public Service Commission and the successful lobbying efforts by Michigan Bell.

I suggest that everyone review their monthly billing. Call the phone company. Find out what's included in the local service charge. Eliminate those unnecessary services.

Call every month to get the details until Bell finds it easier to supply the information with each billing. If you're unhappy with the price increase, let them know.

Bank's struggle doesn't alter CEO's compensation

If you think teachers in the Michigan Education Association have the soft life — big salaries, 50 percent of salary when they retire! Plainly, a lot of jobs have moved out to the suburbs.

Michigan National Corp., the financial services company in Farmington Hills with 160 branch banks, has given chairman Robert H. Mylod a real deal, the walking definition of "golden parachute."

Mylod, 54, is of more than casual public interest these days. Heine Securities Co., a Wall Street investment firm, is buying up MNC stock and wooing shareholders to support sale of the bank.

Consider this background: MNC's earnings per share have plummeted from $12 in 1989 to barely $3 in 1990 and less than $4.50 in 1992 (last available year). Its non-performing assets figure was in the $100-million range in 1988-89; since 1990 non-performing assets have topped $300 million. MNC plans to close more branches.

"Mediocre," said the Heine firm. "An underperformer," said the Detroit Free Press.

A suburban city manager who let the streets crumble and the library deteriorate to an equivalent extent would be in deep trouble with the city council.

Mylod's performance has merited a salary of $530,000 since last April 20, up $14,000 from the prior year. He got no bonus or new stock options, but shucks, he hardly needed any. Look at last year's proxy statement (page 13, fine print):

TIM RICHARD

Mylod's contract gave him the option to purchase 200,000 shares of the corporation's common stock at $17.69 (rounded off) per share. In 1992, he exercised that option, investing $3.5 million. His stock was worth $10.25 million by the end of last year.

If he retires at 60 with a salary of $714,000 and 15 years service, his estimated pension will be more than $356,000.

Ah, but suppose MNC is sold and the new broom sweeps out our hero within two years. Mylod's severance benefits will be:

"(1) a lump-sum payment equal to three times the greater of the executive's annual salary in effect at the time of the notice of termination; or the executive's average salary based on the previous five calendar years;

"(2) a lump-sum payment equal to two times the highest annual bonus paid during the prior five calendar years plus a pro rata portion of any bonus the executive shall be deemed to have earned for the year termination occurred . . .

"(6) a payment of $10,000 for outplacement services;

"(7) an office, secretary and automobile for two years and

"(8) the continuation of equivalent life, health, hospitalization, disability and other similar benefits. . . (page 14 of the 1993 proxy statement).

Job training is the cure

Monday morning I went down to the Fox Theater to catch President Clinton's opening speech at the jobs conference.

Driving in, I was struck at how easy the rush-hour drive was. Who would have thought that morning rush hour traffic in Oakland County is lots worse than Detroit! Plainly, a lot of jobs have moved out to the suburbs.

It's worthwhile reflecting why.

Begin with the history of the automobile industry, when the rise of manufacturing and the tremendous increase in labor productivity made possible by assembly-line technology spurred a great demand for labor at wages that seemed impossibly high at the time.

Faced with the choice between $5 an hour and life on the farm, countless thousands of people moved north to the manufacturing centers. They didn't need great job skills. For most, all they had to do was turn up on time and withstand long hours and boring work. For that, they got good-paying jobs with good benefits and a ticket to the middle class.

But then other countries discovered how to do assembly lines, with equally unskilled labor, but paid at wages far below American standards. And suddenly, with a giant sucking sound, it seemed as though our manufacturing jobs were going to previously underdeveloped countries. America and Europe had a big unemployment problem. And we had a jobs conference in Detroit.

What to do? There are two schools of thought.

One is to argue that the unemployment problem is caused largely by governmental policies which drive up the cost of labor so that employers are deterred from hiring.

The solution, therefore, is to attack these policies where possible and to tolerate — indeed, encourage — jobs at very low pay, the only way new jobs are ever created. Trying to do anything about job training or workforce skills is silly, in this view, because the workings of the free market will resolve everything.

I happen to think this school of thought is both dangerous and wrong.

PHILIP POWER

It's dangerous because it's a recipe for systematic impoverishment for many of our people.

It's wrong because in ignoring the skills part of the equation it neglects reality. Consider the following breakdown of unemployed people in America:

- Those with no high school degree: 12.6 percent.
- Those with a high school degree: 7.2 percent.
- Those with post high school training: 5.7 percent.
- Those with a college degree: 3.5 percent.

Plainly, skills do matter.

So the question is how best to help both employers and workers act in both their interests to acquire, cheaply and efficiently, the skills necessary for high productivity and for good wages.

Historically, the marketplace in skills is pretty poor. Think of truck driving and cosmetology schools training folks at great cost for jobs that don't exist. Suppose, instead, that the job-training system concentrated on information about what skills will be needed for the jobs of the future.

The new world of job training — the world discussed earlier this week in Detroit — concentrates on information, not on outmoded governmental programs of the past.

That's exciting and it's good the discussion is taking place here in Michigan.

Martin locks up 189 state title

Livonia Stevenson junior Craig Martin completed a perfect season Saturday in the 189-pound division in the state Class A individual wrestling tournament at the Kellogg Center in Battle Creek.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

As a high school athlete, Craig Martin has it all. No wrestler can do it any better than he did.

The Livonia Stevenson junior won a state championship and completed an undefeated (41-0) season Saturday when he claimed the 189-pound title in the Class A tournament at Battle Creek.

"I don't know what to say except I'm happy," said Martin after he defeated Jeff Nadig of Saline 5-1 in the championship match. "I'm just kinda coping with it all right now. I worked hard and it all paid off."

He had beaten Nadig in the regional final and had to guard against overconfidence after defeating Troy senior Garrett Gould — the other pre-meet favorite — in the semifinals Saturday morning, 14-12 in overtime.

"The coaches bring you back down to earth and help to get your head focused," he said. "There's so much time between that match and the finals you get settled down and relaxed. You get everything off your mind and start preparing all over again."

Martin won his first two bouts by 6-3 and 9-6 decisions, but had been anticipating a possible clash with Gould, who eventually finished third with a 55-1 record.

"You're supposed to take one match time, but I couldn't help looking forward to it," he said. "I was really nervous. A lot of people wanted to see that match, and I planned on giving them the best match I could."

Martin was behind 6-2 early but proved resilient and eventually found a move he knew would work, using it to score a takedown in overtime to beat Gould.

"I had a double underhook on him, but the first time it didn't work because it went out of bounds," Martin said. "I knew that was open. I tried the same move and made sure it was in bounds."

"He's a strong kid; he's beaten a lot of people, but I still didn't give up. I just kept going after it. He tired out before me, and I took advantage of it. I won't down talk him at all; he's a great wrestler."

Stevenson coach Don Berg said Martin was rewarded for his hard work and conditioning by being able to pull out a win over Gould.

"You have to be able to go nine minutes — six minutes in regulation, two in overtime and 30 seconds in sudden death — so we condition for nine," he said. "The running, the pushups, all the stuff we do paid dividends in that match."

Martin scored an early takedown against Nadig and was in command the entire time. While few points were scored, Nadig was unable to get off the bottom and was never the aggressor.

Martin qualified for state but didn't place as a sophomore; however, the experience proved beneficial.

"I learned a lot last year," he said. "If you win one, you can't get too relaxed because if you have a bad match you don't go on."

"Last year I was kinda overwhelmed. This time I could get my nerves to work for me in a positive way instead of against me."

Martin would like the opportunity to defend his title next year as long as he stays at the same weight.

"I've been at '89 since I was a freshman," he said. "I bulked up a little but haven't grown. As a freshman, I

Cooley deals CC 73-62 defeat

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Throughout the season, the Redford Catholic Central basketball team got used to proving people wrong. So being an underdog Tuesday against state-ranked Detroit Cooley was nothing new.

On Tuesday, however, the clock struck midnight for the Shamrocks, as Cooley ended CC's season with a 73-62 defeat in the Southfield regional.

The Shamrocks, who proved the skeptics wrong during the regular season after winning the Catholic League Central Division and playoffs, ended the season 17-6 overall.

"We've been underdogs all year and have been trying to play through it," said center Joe Daly, who ended his CC career with 13 points. "It was a satisfying season, but obviously it's disappointing that we didn't meet our goal of going all the way. All of (the seniors) are taking it hard. You never want it to end, but it does."

The state-ranked Cardinals (17-6) play Detroit Murray Wright for the regional title Friday. The Pilots easily defeated Dearborn in the first game of the Southfield twin bill, 70-50.

After the game, CC coach Bernie Holowicki left in question whether he will return — or be asked to return — as the Shamrocks' coach for a 24th season.

"It's disappointing to see the season end," Holowicki said. "This is a great group — one of the best I've ever coached. There is no doubt I will miss the seniors. I'm very proud of them."

Senior Andy Slankster scored 14 of his team-high 16 points in the fourth to lead the Shamrocks. Junior Mike Ridley added 11.

Guard Brian Ponder led the Cardinals' attack with 25 points. Cooley also received strong games from Devon Hale (16), Brian Williams (15) and Luther Bule (11).

After recovering from a 12-4 deficit, CC rallied to tie the score at 12 to end the first quarter. The Shamrocks led by as many as three in the second, but trailed 28-27 at halftime.

Cooley received a spark from Williams — the team's lone senior — who doubled his season-point average in the first half and converted six-straight free throws to give Cooley the halftime lead.

The Cardinals made 27 of 37 free throws compared with 16 of 23 for CC.

Despite seven points in the third from Daly, the rejuvenated Cardinals squad tallied the final eight points of the quarter to take a 47-38 lead.

With Slankster leading the way, the Shamrocks clawed back to close the margin to 50-44 with 6:23 left, but an 8-0 run by Cooley put the game out of reach.

"We knew they could shoot," Ponder said. "The first half, we were playing like we were just happy to be out there. In the second half, it was more like life or death."

CC was in foul trouble all game as Slankster, Justin Hoener, Anthony Hesano and Andy Kummer fouled out.

"We got in foul trouble, and I think that made us a little gun shy," Holowicki said. "I think we should have attacked the basket more. They were even letting us drive."

Both coaches agreed it wasn't one of their team's better games of the season.

"We just weren't competitive enough tonight," Holowicki said. "We could have shot free throws better, boarded better and finished better. Possibly we were a little intimidated, but they were a very athletic team."

was a light 189 (actually 175). Last year I was right at 189 and this year I had a few pounds to cut."

Stevenson teammate Scott Goldman placed eighth at 140, and Ben Lewis was eliminated early at 171. Both are juniors, too.

Goldman, who was 2-3 in the tournament, lost his final match 12-6 to Holt's Corey Mead, whom he had beaten in the first round, 24-16.

"I tried to let him up, but he grabbed my hand and wouldn't get up," Goldman said. "He wouldn't go takedowns with me, because he knew he'd lose. He just wanted to stay on the mats."

"In the first match, I kept letting him up and taking him down, basically. (The final) was a little frustrating. I wanted to go takedowns with him, because that way I knew I would win."

It was Goldman's first trip to the state meet, and he looks forward to another opportunity as a senior.

"This was the first step to becoming a state champ. That's my goal for next year," he said.

"I wish I would have done better, but I guess I can be happy with myself. I thought I wrestled pretty well, but things don't always go your way."

Lewis, a district and regional champion, was upset in the first round by Redford Catholic Central's Dan Krueger, 14-12.

Krueger used it as a springboard to finish second while a disheartened Lewis lost his second match by pin and was eliminated.

"(Lewis) wanted to win too badly," Berg said. "That was it more than anything. It wasn't that he was outwrestled that much. He forgot to relax and do his thing. But give Krueger his

"He was crestfallen after he lost his second match. He just wasn't there. It wasn't Ben Lewis out there. It was Ben Lewis, but not Ben Lewis the wrestler."

Madonna's Florida trip brings home 9-3 record

BASEBALL

This spring trip accomplished about everything Madonna University baseball coach Mike George could have hoped for.

As George explained it Monday, "If you had told me Lou McKaig would be 0-and-2 and Jeff Kugelmann would be 0-and-1, and we'd come back with a 9-3 record, I wouldn't have believed you."

Believe it. Neither of his top two pitchers were able to record a win in Florida, but several others picked up the slack for the Fighting Crusaders.

After losing two of their first three games, they went on to win eight of their next nine. Pitching standouts were Jim Solak, who went 2-0 with a 1.97 earned run average and 20 strikeouts in 13 1/3 innings; T.C. Raptis, 2-0 with a 2.76 ERA in 13 innings; and Sean Henkel, 1-0 with four saves, a 1.34 ERA and 11 strikeouts in 6 1/2 innings.

At the plate, there were several superb performances. Center fielder Scott Anderson batted .375 and led the team in hits (18), runs scored (18), doubles (four) and stolen bases (9-for-9). He also had two triples, a home run and eight runs batted in.

Third-baseman Jeff Pendell had 11 hits, batted .355, scored 10 runs, was 5-for-5 in stolen bases and drove in a team-high 11 runs. Other standouts: Aaron Jones, .417, two doubles, three triples, seven RBI; Craig Overaitis, .375, one homer, six RBI; Solak, .294, two homers, six RBI; and Dan Taylor, .348, nine RBI.

George was particularly impressed with the play of his freshmen, Jones and Taylor. Taylor filled in for starting shortstop Jeff Miller, who suffered a deep thigh bruise in the fourth game and didn't play again. Taylor committed just two errors in eight games.

Madonna ended its trip last Friday in Cocoa Beach by beating Swarthmore College (Pa.) 9-3 on Solak's three-hitter and Stonehill College (North Easton, Mass.) 5-0 on a two-hitter by Mike Grahl (five innings, one hit) and Eric Butler (two innings, one hit).

March 10, the Crusaders played a doubleheader in Jacksonville against University of North Florida and split. They lost the opener 4-2 and won the nightcap 8-4. McKaig took the loss in the opener; Raptis was the winning pitcher in the second game, with Henkel getting a save.

In a single game on March 9, Madonna defeated Maryville University (St. Louis) 5-4, Henkel getting the win in relief of starter Ryan Grabetz. Chris Gajewski's run-scoring single in the seventh won it. On March 7, the Crusaders won twice, 9-4 over Malone College (Canton, Ohio) and 17-4 over Lock Haven (Pa.). Solak got the win in the first; Butler won the second in relief of Grahl.

The win streak started March 6 with a 4-0 win over New Hampshire, Joe Jentzer earning the win, and an 8-4 win over Wilmington College (New Castle, Del.), with Craig Benedict the winner. A day earlier, the Crusaders played three games: They lost 5-2 to Fairleigh Dickinson (Madison, N.J.) and 12-6 to Radford University (Va.), and beat Delaware Tech 3-2. McKaig and Kugelmann lost in the first two; Grabetz won the third, with Henkel getting a save.

They opened the trip March 4 with a 6-1 win over Kings College (Wilkes-Barre, Pa.). Raptis was the winner.

Madonna next travels south to Ohio Dominican for a pair of doubleheaders Friday and Saturday. The Crusaders plan to open at home March 26 with a 1 p.m. doubleheader against Northwood University.

By then everyone should have recovered from the epidemic that knocked out more than half the team a week ago. "The highlight of the trip was winning nine games," said George. "The lowlight was everyone getting sick."

He wasn't sure the Crusaders would be able to play last Friday's games, it got so bad. The illness lingered into this week — seven players were out sick during Monday's practice.

CC's Krueger surprises in 171 class

JOHN STORMZAND/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

By DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Not everyone was awestruck by Dan Krueger's impressive showing in the Class A wrestling finals. The one exception: Dan Krueger.

"I believe I surprised a lot of other people, but I didn't surprise myself," said Krueger after he placed second at 171 pounds Saturday.

He was the talk of the tournament after winning his first three bouts to reach the finals, since he spent most of the season at 160 and had finished fourth in the regional.

"At the beginning of the year, I was sick and real skinny," the Redford Catholic Central junior and Plymouth resident said.

"As soon as I wasn't sick anymore, I started putting on weight, and it got to the point I didn't want to cut it. When I started gaining weight, I felt a lot stronger."

The Shamrocks had one other wrestler place at state: John Spolsky, who was eighth in the heavy-weight division.

Krueger (41-13) pulled an upset in the first round Friday and set the stage for his tournament run when he defeated Livonia Stevenson regional champion Ben Lewis, 14-10.

It was the first time they had wrestled each other since Lewis won by a point last year in the Observerland Tournament.

"I'd been looking forward to it," Krueger said. "I was beating him as a sophomore by quite a few points, but he came back and won in overtime."

"He's placed in a lot of tournaments, and (beating Lewis) made me feel good about what I was able to do."

Krueger, who also lost his first match at state last year, pinned Grand Haven's Matt Horodyski in his next match (1:44) to reach the semis, and he defeated Romeo's Andy Migliano 8-5 to earn a berth in the championship bout.

"Migliano was a big match because the last four years it's been Miglianos versus Kruegers," he said. "Jason (Krueger) beat his older brother twice. It's been almost like a rivalry between us."

Krueger kept with family tradi-

Why leaves remain on some trees

NATURE TRAILS

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

The natural world is full of mysteries, so many mysteries that man will never be able to solve them all. In fact, when one mystery is pursued, new mysteries or questions arise that were not thought of before.

Scientists, naturalists and curious people throughout the ages have wondered how things work in the natural world. How things work is often easier to answer than why they work that way.

One question that people often ask me is "Why don't all the leaves on oak trees and beech trees fall off in fall?" I've never been able to give people a reasonable answer until I watched some squirrels in my backyard the other day.

In fall, water is cut off from the stem to the leaf because of scar-like tissue that forms at the connection. This tissue creates a separation and the leaf falls to the ground. Some oak and beech leaves do not form a complete layer of scar tissue and thus the leaf does not fall off.

That is the standard explanation of how leaves fall off the branches and why some do not, and maybe the story ends there. But why do oak and beech trees do it more than any other kinds of trees? What advantage could the tree derive from not losing all its leaves, if any?

If we could "think" like a tree for a moment, let's branch off with some reasons why it produces so many acorns or beech nuts. When a nut matures and falls to the ground it sprouts into a young tree. If it lands in the shade of the adult tree, it will not survive because it cannot get enough sunlight to produce food.

So the tree needs something to move the acorns to an area where they might survive. Squirrels eat nuts, but they also bury them for future use. Some of those nuts will not be found and may then grow into a new tree. Thousands of nuts must be produced in order for a few to survive.

Oak and beech trees produce an abundant crop of nuts every three years, on the average. Between those years, it's harder for squirrels to find enough food, but the oak and beech trees want the squirrels to stay around so they can disperse their nuts when they are produced.

Fine cast true to tradition of 'Fiddler'

"Fiddler on the Roof" presented by Nancy Gurwin Productions at the Jewish Community Center captures the warmth of this timeless tale.

BY EILEEN OXLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

Whoever said good things come in small packages had a point. What the intimate Aaron DeRoy Studio Theater lacks in size it makes up for in soul.

That soul inhabits Nancy Gurwin's production of "Fiddler on the Roof" presently playing at the theater nestled within the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield. And Gurwin's interpretation, like a line from the beloved Sheldon Harnick — Jerry Bock musical, "keeps its balance in tradition."

"It's pretty true to script — we haven't added or taken anything away," said Gurwin. The show is directed and choreographed by Kathi Bush.

The timeless and touching story of Tevye, a poor Jewish dairyman who struggles to survive in 1905 Czarist Russia, is set against the greater backdrop of that era in which a series of pogroms (persecutions) were organized to drive out the Jews.

It's all about change and, in Tevye's case, his three daughters and their courtships become a metaphor for that inevitable alteration which may not be such a bad thing. They pick men they love and, in varying degrees of rebellion, turn their backs on the old venerable way of matchmaking by embracing the new one of choice.

The realization serves to transform Tevye who, by accepting change, is able to keep his cherished memories but face the future with hope even as he and his family join the mass exodus of Jews who are being exiled from their homeland.

REVIEW

by 12-year-old violinist Aaron Lewis, steps out from the show's side-stage orchestra occasionally (a neat technique) to reinforce that bittersweet message of nothing-ever-stays-the-same through playing the same snatch of sonorous music.

The rest of the cast is excellent with several noteworthy performances. Jac Cortes may not be a fiery Tevye, but his warmth and earliness are certainly endearing, especially when he sings the tender duet "Do You Love Me?" with Diana Reynolds who plays his long-suffering wife Golde with humor and depth.

All the daughters are good with Janet Patton adding a touch of sweet teenaged vulnerability as the youngest, Chara, and Susan Goodman Friedman playing a perky Hodel.

But special accolades must be given to two professional actors who shine above the rest — Paul Silver, a 10-year veteran of the Michigan Opera Theatre, gives a flawless performance as Perchik, the revolutionary student who falls in love with Hodel. And Nina Kircher, who's also had considerable acting experience, makes a wonderfully kibitzing Yentle, the story's matchmaker.

Leading role: Jac Cortes of Keego Harbor stars as Tevye in "Fiddler on the Roof."

Some of the best lines are hers as when Golde remarks that Tziedel and Motel (Kors Van Mourik), a penniless tailor who later marries Tziedel, still "play like children."

"From such children come other children," responds Kircher with admonishment.

Nice touches include the simple, but functional set, and the orchestra composed of keyboard, flute, clarinet and violin which music director Carol Mihalo said she tried to make "as ethnic sounding as possible."

The small band carries many of the show's enchanting tunes including "Matchmaker," "If I Were a Rich Man," and the five-hankie favorite "Sunrise, Sunset."

Like that last song, the Gurwin production of "Fiddler" will leave you "laden with happiness and tears."

Girl's longing for a pet leads to 'Monkey Trouble'

Eva Gregory (Thora Birch) really wants a pet.

And Eva's parents really don't. To them, paws and fur aren't part of the family plan. Mom (Mimi Rogers) believes her nine-year-old daughter can't keep her room clean, much less care for a pet. Her stepfather (Christopher McDonald) says no because he's hyper-allergic to animal hair. Still, despite all the objections and excuses, Eva just can't live without a pet. And neither can Shorty Kohn (Harvey Keitel) in "Monkey Trouble," opening Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters.

Shorty, a two-bit hustler, has made quite a Fagen-esque living over the years by training a capuchin monkey to entertain and "lift" the crowds along the Boardwalk at Venice Beach. Trained to relieve admirers of their wallets and jewelry without their knowledge, the monkey also burglarizes homes.

Now, a couple of uptown crooks want Shorty to put the monkey's felonious skills to work in a heist that could land them all on easy street.

But Shorty has a problem. He's abused his pet a little too much and his monkey is on the run. Desperate, he sets out to find his missing link at any cost in.

Miles away, Eva is startled by a small capuchin that suddenly leaps from a tree. Captivated by the creature's comical antics, she decides to claim him as her own.

As their bond develops, Eva quickly learns that caring for her new friend, whom she names Dodger, is not going to be as easy as she first thought. He goes to the bathroom on the floor, is hard to control, and he's a pain to hide from her friends and her unsuspecting parents.

In the ensuing days, Eva discovers Dodger's dubious talents and attempts to break him from his life of crime. Just as he starts to make progress, she gets blamed for his pocket-picking.

Caught in a growing web of deceit, Eva finds it difficult to deal with her own dishonesty, and she must find a way to set things straight before her monkey business is exposed. But Shorty is onto her and he wants his meal-ticket back.

Writer/director Franco Amurri says his daughter, also named Eva, was the inspiration behind "Monkey Trouble." "She wanted a dog so badly," recalls the director. "And the key issue in our house became whether an eight-year-old could be responsible enough to care for a pet."

A father's love was Amurri's primary motivation for making the film. "I wanted to tell a story based on my own experiences and observations of my daughter's world," he said.

"If I was going to dedicate two or three years to a project, I wanted to make a film my daughter wouldn't have to wait 10 years to see. In the end, I wanted to make a film that families can enjoy together."

Although in real life, Amurri's daughter's longed for a dog as a pet, when developing the story for the screen, the writer/director felt "a monkey would present more interesting possibilities than a dog or a cat."

That one change would eventually translate into enormous challenges for the filmmakers, and resulted in a pre-production period of almost a year and a half.

During that time, an elaborate search was conducted to find a specific type of capuchin monkey to star as Dodger, who is in virtually every scene in the film. The search was complicated by the fact that although there are some 30 sub-species of capuchins, none had ever been trained to appear in a film.

In addition to teaching Dodger the rudimentaries of screen acting, his trainers were faced with the challenges of having him, run, retrieve, climb trees, perform tricks on the back of a moving bicycle and hang from a flying kite, all on the director's cue.

A New Line release, "Monkey Trouble" is rated PG, (Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers).

Frank Drebin returns to work in 'Naked Gun' sequel

Frank Drebin is back — with all-new adventures, all-new dialogue and many new costumes in "Naked Gun 33 1/3" opening Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters.

The second sequel to the original smash hit finds now-retired Lt. Frank Drebin going undercover after discovering a terrorist plot.

Leslie Nelson stars in "Naked Gun 33 1/3: The Final Insult" with Priscilla Presley, George Kennedy and O.J. Simpson, all of whom are repeating their roles from "The Naked Gun" and "The Naked Gun 2 1/2." Also starring is Fred Ward. The cast includes Anna Nicole Smith, Kathleen Freeman and Ellen Greene.

Directed by Peter Segal from a screenplay by Pat Proft, David Zucker and Robert LoCash, the film is a Paramount Pictures release and rated PG-13 (Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for attendance of children younger than 13). It was produced by Robert K. Weiss and David Zucker.

The film, a moving account of a man's search for destiny, is punctuated by the usual pratfalls. On a far deeper level, the intrepid, now-retired police Lt. Frank Drebin is drawn undercover after coming upon an unconscionable terrorist plot — all the while trying to ignite the hot-burning embers with his new wife, Jane Spencer-Drebin.

"The success of the 'Naked Gun' movies is pretty remarkable when you remember they're based on a TV program that was canceled after only six episodes," said co-writer and producer David Zucker.

The challenge is in making a third movie of a series is always how to retain the elements that audiences love so much while moving the film into new arenas.

"That's why I decided to shoot the film in a dark, French impressionistic style," said director Peter Segal. "I wanted to bring that soft, fuzzy look to the screen."

Back in tow, again recreating his starring role as Lt. Frank Drebin, is Leslie Nielsen. Priscilla Presley, once again appears in the film as Jane, O.J. Simpson as the ever-hapless Nordberg, and George Kennedy as the venerable Capt. Ed Hocken.

"I'm very comfortable being in a movie that's as silly and stupid as 'The Naked Gun,' said Kennedy. "Don't forget, I made something like 47 'Airport' movies. If I could survive that, I can survive this. Not everything is art you know."

FAMILY LIFE

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

A sick child: What should a parent do?

This reminder is to parents about dropping off sick children at the day-care home or center. A family day-care home provider in Livonia left a pleading message on my voice mail to please explain to parents about the necessity of having backup care for children too ill to participate in daily activities.

She wanted readers, who have children enrolled in early childhood education/preschool programs, to be aware of the problems, particularly the discomfort children often experience when they are ill, and their need to be home. The Livonia family day-care provider wanted this printed so that it might help other child-care professionals who might have similar problems.

First of all, all families who have children enrolled in day care need a responsible, accessible, available person to serve as a backup or as a substitute caregiver. This backup person should be used occasionally when the child is too ill to go to day care, provided the parent cannot care for the ill child at the time, and when the day-care center is closed for whatever reason.

When children are first enrolled in a preschool program, during the interview or enrollment process, the director or provider will ask if parents have backup caregiving arrangements. The center or day-care home director usually will give parents a handbook that goes into detail about their health policy and procedures for handling sick children. It should further explain what action the staff will take when children become ill while in care.

Keep kids at home?

Parents know their children, and the child-care professional expects them to. Parents are the primary caregivers and know the little signs their particular child will give. A signal is not well - a tug at the ear, an unusually quiet nature, sudden whining or clinging to a parent.

Children often show parents signs of not feeling well in ways sometimes only parents can tell. That's what makes parents better at giving their child that special emotional, nurturing support needed when they are ill. Possible medication, bed rest, and a favorite soft toy and parents are the best remedies for flu, ear or tummy aches, and other childhood illnesses that often prevent children from attending day care.

Children should stay home or should be sent home when these signs occur:

(1) Fever - If a child has a temperature of 100 degrees or above taken by mouth, 101 degrees or above taken rectally or 99 degrees or above taken under arm.

(2) Diarrhea - If child has two loose or watery stools, even if there are no other signs of illness. This may occasionally be caused by new foods a child has eaten, but may call the parent to find out if this is the likely cause.

(3) Vomiting - Any vomiting is a reason to send a child home. The exception is babies who may burp up food following a feeding (this is not vomiting). Motion sickness (from use of play equipment or riding in a car or other vehicle) which goes away after the motion stops would not be a reason to send a child home.

(4) Rash - Any rash illness should be checked by a physician. Any red or blotchy marks on face, trunk or arms and legs is a reason to send a child home. The child should remain at home until well after chicken pox, measles, rubella and other viruses have subsided. A child with scarlet fever should be treated with an antibiotic for 24 hours before returning to day care.

If a physician diagnoses a child as having Fifth disease, the child does not need to stay at home if he or she feels well. The exception is allergy and mild diaper rash already known to the parent are not reasons to send a child home.

(5) Crying and complaining for a long time - Anytime a child is not him- or herself and is complaining about discomfort or just cranky and crying more than usual for that child.

(6) Injury - Whenever an injury is serious enough to need a physician's attention, a parent should be contacted to take the child home.

While not an emergency situation (no need to have the child picked up immediately), children with impetigo, lice, pinkeye, pinworms, ringworm, scabies and thrush (canthida) should remain at home until successfully treated.

Parents be attentive to their child's signals and symptoms of illness before hand. A parent being attentive when symptoms first occur and taking necessary action can help a child to recover faster. Thus, by calling your child's pediatrician, or giving a child needed time to simply rest,

Yoga shapes up body and spirit

For most people, getting in shape means working up a sweat in aerobics class or pumping iron at the gym. But for those who aren't into those kinds of workouts, there's yet another way that can get your body in shape physically and spiritually - yoga.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

If aerobics is a Corvette and weightlifting is a Dodge Ram, is yoga a Yugo?

Yes and no. Yoga isn't flashy like aerobics, and it won't give you a Charles Atlas body. But it can tone and stretch your muscles, tweak your posture, regulate your breathing and wash away the tension that dogs you like an IRS agent with a quota.

"A lot of the people who come to yoga are the people who can't do aerobics and can't jog," said Shirley Gill, who teaches yoga in the Clarenceville schools' adult education program. Even folks with artificial limbs and arthritis will find yoga agreeable with their disability, Gill said.

"The rest of the world is saying, 'Hurry up and get it now,'" while yoga "helps you accept that everything doesn't have to be done quickly."

Yoga is a 5,000-year-old life-embracing philosophy that is part spiritual and part physical exercise. It's not a religion per se, but some people use it to feel closer to God.

Bloomfield Hills resident Pamela Spiro, who teaches yoga in Birmingham, is Jewish, but uses yoga as "my way of connecting with God every day." To Spiro, yoga "is just about giving love and receiving love."

Although "most people don't want to hear about the spiritual aspect," Spiro said, "it all leads to the same truth."

The Encyclopedia Americana of 1991 defines the yoga philosophy like so: "... man's bondage results from identification of the soul with the body and... his liberation is attained through the knowledge of their separateness. The soul's essence, pure intelligence, is obscured by mental activities, whose suppression is the main purpose of yoga."

However, most yoga instructors here concentrate on the physical exercise aspects.

Livonia resident Karen Farkas has been a yogi (someone who practices yoga) for 25 years. Before yoga: "I never did anything athletic; I hated gym," Farkas said. After yoga: "I feel confident in my body. I know I'm strong. I'm very strong."

"Yoga practice promotes a flexible and young spine and a strong back," added Farkas, who has taught yoga for about eight years in the Livonia Continuing Education program.

Yoga is a slow, deliberate form of exercise, Farkas said, emphasizing the stretching and releasing of muscles that bring a "tremendous sense of relaxation."

Still, yoga is not easy either. "Because it's so challenging it tends to give you this sense of self-confidence, self-acceptance," Farkas said. "It increased my self-confidence a hundred fold."

Jana Kelly, a social worker who teaches yoga part-time in Southfield and Birmingham, got hooked 20 years ago when she saw yoga demonstrated on television. Kelly describes yoga as "internal (and) very mental. It's kind of a personal vacation. It nurtures self-care, which can be very helpful to people."

Some humans are turned off by the internal and mental portions of the practice, Kelly said. "I'll do the body work, but don't tell me about God," she said they say.

And that's entirely possible. The Yoga Association of Greater Detroit will have its 11th Yoga Day on Saturday, April 16, at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads in Livonia.

The day is divided into four sessions made up of six sub-sessions, each covering a different aspect of yoga. There will be six to nine instructors per session, all gleaned from the ranks of the yoga association, including Spiro, Farkas, Gill and Kelly.

For $45 you may partake of all four sessions. Two sessions cost $25. A hot vegetarian lunch will be served for $7.50. Those attending may also bring a sack lunch. For more information call Schoolcraft College Continuing Education at (313) 462-4413 or the Yoga Association Coordinator at (313) 293-0224. Class size is limited and pre-registration is required.

Those attending should bring an exercise mat and blanket and dress for exercise.

Kelly said the program is designed to benefit beginners and current practitioners alike. Kelly will person

Parents find support with CHADD

Lori Dow knows what it's like to have a child with attention deficit disorder. She has three sons, exhibiting different forms of the hereditary syndrome.

Her first son has ADD with hyperactivity, the second without. When the third son started exhibiting ADD tendencies, it was easier to spot because the family "was very educated" about the disorder.

Roberta Zarea, on the other hand, is still learning. Her 6-year-old daughter was diagnosed with ADD last March. She also has an expressive language disorder and audio processing disorder.

"She's unpredictable; she's not consistent in her behavior and her learning skills," Zarea said. "It's very common to have other learning disorders with ADD."

Dow is president and Zarea is a member of Children and Adults with Attention Deficit Disorder of Northwest Wayne County, which will sponsor a workshop for parents and professionals at the Holiday Inn Livonia-West on Saturday, March 26.

The workshop will focus on "Activating Parents and Professionals in the Special Education Process." Running from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., it will be presented by CAUSE (Citizen's Alliance to Uphold Special Education).

The workshop will delve into such topics as the law, participation in the individual education-planning process, initiating due process, communicating effectively, resolving conflicts, and laws on adaptation of the workplace for the disabled.

The cost is $20 for box lunch, materials and workshop; or $13 for the materials and workshop only.

CHADD is a parent-based organization formed to better the lives of individuals with ADD and the people who care for them. It also promotes teamwork and partnership between parents and schools.

"Parents and schools have to be positive and supportive of each other, rather than fighting with each other," Dow said. "And parents need to be assertive and know their rights."

"We try to educate parents and give them support; we try to educate the community. But our biggest challenge is working with the schools for the betterment of the child."

Zarea's daughter and Dow's three sons are among 1.75 million American children who have been diagnosed with and treated for attention deficit disorder. It's estimated that another 1.75 million will go undiagnosed into adulthood.

Children with ADD are characterized by symptoms of inattentiveness, impulsiveness and sometimes hyperactivity which start before the age of 7 and last for at least six months. In all, there are 14 symptoms of the disorder, and a child must exhibit eight to be diagnosed with ADD.

"Impulsivity is such a factor that that's what gets them into trouble," Dow said. "They don't think before they act, and a lot of what they do isn't age-appropriate. They're emotionally immature, so they do a lot of things that aren't age-appropriate."

Children with ADD need to be taught what is acceptable and not acceptable, but a lot of the ordinary behavioral techniques don't work. One that does work is ignoring the negative behavior and emphasizing the positive behavior.

But ignoring the negative behavior can draw comments from strangers, even family members, who don't understand why a parent isn't dealing with an unruly child, according to Zarea.

Most times the hyperactivity subsides as the child gets older, but residual effects of ADD - like the inability to focus and stay on task - remain. And as the child gets older, he or she learns coping mechanisms, so ADD isn't such a disability, Dow said.

"No two children with ADD exhibit the same symptoms or require the same help," she added. "That's why it is so difficult for the schools that want to have a formula for educating these kids, so parents and schools have to work together to come up with an individualized program."

ANNIVERSARIES

Writer is cautious and takes few risks

Martin

James and Alice Martin of Novi celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Oct. 11 with a trip to the Upper Peninsula. The couple exchanged vows at St. Paul Lutheran Church and lived in Livonia until 1990, when they moved to Novi. They have two children, James Jr. of Novi and Kelly Rynicki of Livonia.

LaGrow

Westland residents Richard (Dick) and Janet LaGrow recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

The couple exchanged vows on Feb. 20, 1954, at St. Gabriel's Church in southwest Detroit. She is the former Janet Guilfoyle. They lived in Detroit until 1961 when they moved to Westland.

The LaGrows are the parents of three children — Linda Hunt of Peachtree City, Ga., Mark LaGrow of Inkster and Lori LaGrow of Taylor. They also have three grandchildren.

Members of St. Theodore Catholic Church in Westland, the LaGrows planned to renew their wedding vows at the church, followed by a brunch with family and friends to mark the occasion. He is employed as a warehouse manager for Docustore in Dearborn, while she is a receptionist at Family Physicians Center in Garden City. Together, they enjoy golf.

Fennelly

Edward and Harriet Fennelly of Livonia were the guests of honor at an anniversary dinner Feb. 12 at the Steak and Ale Restaurant in Farmington Hills, followed by a small party at the home of their son, Dennis.

The Fennellys, residents of Livonia since 1968, marked their 50th wedding anniversary that day. They exchanged vows on Feb. 12, 1944, at All Saints Church in Detroit. She is the former Harriet Formaz. They renewed their wedding vows as part of the anniversary celebration.

The couple has six children — Susan McGillivray of Livonia and the late Ronald McGillivray, Bill and Mary Fennelly of Taylor, Dennis and Joann Fennelly of Farmington Hills, Lynn and Howard Trejchel of Livonia, David Fennelly of Canton and Edward and Cathy Fennelly of California. They also have eight grandchildren. Their children are treating the couple to a second honeymoon in Lake Tahoe. A trip to visit their son, Edward, and his family in California was included. A former Detroit police officer, he is a retiree of Chrysler Corp. in Highland Park. She is a homemaker.

Carlsen

On Dec. 26, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Carlsen of Livonia celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with 100 guests at The Crossings in Canton. The Carlsens have been residents of Livonia for 24 years.

At one time there was one area (CHADD) chapter with some 600 members. It has since broken up into nine different chapters throughout the metropolitan area. The Northwest Wayne chapter takes in the Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Redford Union, South Redford and Northville school districts, and has more than 200 members.

The group meets the third Thursday of the month at the Livonia Civic Center Library. Sign-in is at 7 p.m., with the meeting — sometimes featuring a speaker, — sometimes a video or a rap session — at 7:30 p.m.

For Dow, the group was a god-send. Her oldest son was diagnosed at 8 years of age and being involved in CHADD "gave me power as a parent." "I can't imagine how a parent can do it without information," Dow added. "It's difficult keeping the family dynamics when you're challenged by ADD, but I couldn't imagine doing it without the good support system of CHADD and my husband."

For more information about the workshop or organization, call 380-0847, or write to CHADD of Northwest Wayne County, P.O. Box 531303, Livonia 48153-1303.

Dear Ms. Green, I am most interested in what you see in my handwriting. M.K. No city given

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

I have been going to have you analyze my handwriting. I should have done it then and again now, as my writing has changed so over the years. I write much larger than I used to and my lower case E and R no longer look like E and R except in my signature. I am right-handed.

I am a 44-year-old wife and mother of a houseful of kids and animals. Laundry itself is a full-time job, although I always fit in the time to walk and read.

In studying today's handwriting, I get the feeling of a beautiful woman who is struggling with conflicting emotions. The wide spacing suggests one who needs privacy in her life. She maintains a rather distant relationship to her environment.

Interest in people is not her first priority. She can work alone and does not need a great deal of social involvement to feel fulfilled. As a neighbor or friend, she would not be intrusive.

Through hard past experiences, she has learned that not everyone can be trusted. She is cautious, takes fewer risks and sticks with what she knows will work best for her.

Within this woman is a warmth of feeling. However, her inability to get close to people may be a source of frustration and indecision to her.

This is a modest person who does not seek the limelight. She has a strong need/desire to get along smoothly. She does what she can to promote a peaceful atmosphere, often acquiescing to others and their wishes. She has learned to be adaptable to various circumstances. In her home, she may feel she is the last one to count.

She has also learned to exercise control over her emotions. There is both secrecy and anxiety in this handwriting. Has she found it necessary to conceal the truth at times?

Our writer is very sensitive to personal criticism. Probably, she has heard too much in the past. Encouragement or compliments would be more acceptable. This woman is a creative thinker. Her mind is often working ahead, coming up with solutions to problems. In her work, she pays patient and deliberate attention to details. I suspect orderliness was drilled into her early in life. She is a persuasive talker. Words and ideas flow for her. Possible talents are literature, art and/or music. Keep walking and reading. They are two of the most rewarding things you can do!

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are all helpful. Objective feedback is welcome.

Nominees sought for Hall of Fame

Some women easily make their mark in society. They appear to be "naturals" and they continually strive to improve the world around them. Their personal and professional achievements, strong minds and personal goals make lasting impressions on everyone they meet.

If that description reminds you of someone you know, she may be the perfect candidate for the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame.

The Michigan Women's Studies Association, sponsor of the Hall of Fame, is accepting nominations for its 11th annual celebration of Michigan women. Hall of Fame inductees exemplify a spirit of innovation and dedication that provides a great number of role models. Honorees from the past in both historical and contemporary categories have been leaders in diverse areas, such as suffrage, entertainment, science and business. Candidates must have been born in Michigan, have achieved prominence within the state or have been a state resident for an extended time after reaching prominence elsewhere.

Candidates may be living or dead and will be evaluated for unique achievements in a chosen field; contributions of an enduring nature to the social, cultural, economic or political well-being of the community, state or nation; service or commitment which significantly advances women's status in society; and character qualities and personal goals which would make the candidate a positive influence on youth and a role model for women.

The deadline for nominations is March 21; the awards banquet will be Oct. 20 at the Novi Hilton. Nomination booklets are available by writing the Michigan Women's Studies Association, 213 W. Main, Lansing 49933, or by calling (517) 484-1880.

can prevent a mildly ill child from becoming seriously ill.

Also by keeping a child home when they are ill, can help to minimize the spread of germs. By being an attentive, take-action parent when your child becomes ill also can minimize the number of days spent away from work or from your child's center. Ignoring the signs can only prolong illness, keeping children from getting the necessary care they need, while adding undue stress by being away from your job.

When children come to day care not able to actively participate in the daily activities, not only are they frustrated and unhappy, the caregiving staff is unhappy as well. Staff people become frustrated when they are unable to provide necessary care for a sick child. This is especially true in family day care where a provider has up to six children at a time; without another adult on site to attend to the other five healthy children in care.

In a larger setting, a staff person may be assigned to care for the mildly ill child, until the parents or authorized person comes to pick the child up. However, suppose in a center classroom there are 18 3-year-olds, with two caregivers. If one has to be away with a mildly ill child for long periods, then the remaining teacher will have 17 children to care for alone.

This example by no means is exaggerated. Unfortunately, in many centers the reality is with staffing, caring for ill children becomes a problem. Child-care professionals are more comfortable reading colorful Dr. Seuss stories to children, rather than having their center or home turned into a doctor's office or hospital.

Remember parents, when it comes to making sure your child is healthy enough to go about their regular schedule, make it a priority since your child depends on you most.

ROLL CALL REPORT

Area Dems kill ethics probe

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending March 4.

HOUSE

Post Office Probe: By a vote of 238 for and 186 against, the House killed a proposal (H Res 238) that its Ethics Committee begin probing charges that certain House members embezzled from the House Post Office in a stamps-for-cash scam. With this vote, the House adopted a Democratic leadership motion that tabled a Republican bid for an immediate probe. Earlier, the House approved a separate Democratic resolution to defer any House probe until after federal prosecutors complete an ongoing criminal investigation of the matter.

At issue was a court disclosure last July by former House Postmaster Robert Rota. Pleading guilty to his involvement in the scheme, he told authorities "several" members of Congress illegally received cash from the post office.

The allegation came after the House completed an internal probe of the post office scandal. The House has not looked into Rota's charges. The U.S. attorney investigating the scandal took a stand against H Res 238, saying it could compromise his probe.

A yes vote opposed an immediate Ethics Committee investigation of the post office scandal. Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac, Dale Kildee, D-Flint, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Ford, D-Ypsilanti. Voting no: Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham.

Immigration Issue: By a vote of 78 for and 329 against, the House rejected an amendment requiring school districts to tally and report the number of students who are illegal aliens or have parents who are not legal U.S. residents. The amendment was proposed to a bill (HR 6) renewing the Elementary and Secondary Education Act that remained in debate. The counting requirement was aimed at schools with high concentrations of disadvantaged students.

A yes vote favored the counting requirement. Area representatives voting no were: Bob Carr, Dale Kildee, Joseph Knollenberg, Sander Levin and William Ford.

Education Bill: By a vote of 128 for and 287 against, the House rejected an amendment that sought to block creation of a new education program. The vote preserved the program. It occurred during debate on HR 6 (above).

At issue was whether to spend $10 million annually for pilot projects that would help disadvantaged students in selected districts make the transition to elementary school from preschool program such as Head Start.

Amendment supporters said the transition assistance should be provided nationwide through normal funding channels in the bill, not parceled out to a small number of school districts. Dan Miller, R-Fla., said "scarce federal dollars" should be spent on "broad national education concerns rather than on specific constituencies."

Amendment foe Jolene Unsoeld, D-Wash., said: "We need to support these young children early in their education. Research shows that without this support in those early years, we can expect increased school failure, higher dropout rates, all of which are more costly in the long run."

A yes vote was opposed to new federal education program. Area representatives voting yes were: Knollenberg. Voting no: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford.

SENATE

Budget Amendment: By a vote of 63 for and 37 against, the Senate rejected a proposed amendment to the Constitution (S Res 41) whose main sponsors were Paul Simon, D-Ill. and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah. Supporters fell four votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to send the legislation to the House.

This was the stricter of two balanced budget proposals before the Senate. It allowed annual deficits only with the approval of three-fifths majorities of Congress, or when both houses agreed by majority vote that the country faced war or a national security crisis. It required three-fifths majorities to raise the debt limit, and majorities to raise taxes.

A yes vote supported the Simon-Hatch amendment. Michigan Senators Carl Levin, D, voted no and Donald Riegle, D, voted no.

Substitute Amendment: By a vote of 22 for and 78 against, the Senate rejected a balanced budget constitutional amendment that was a scaled-back version of S Res 41 (above). This offering by Harry Reid, D-Nev., also allowed deficit spending only when three-fifths majorities of both houses voted to allow red ink, or when the nation was in or near military conflict.

But it applied only to the federal operating budget, exempting capital spending such as for public works projects. It allowed deficits in times of recession. It exempted Social Security receipts and expenditures from calculations of whether the budget is balanced. And it proposed no change in procedures for raising the national debt, limit and levying taxes.

A yes vote supported the Reid substitute. Sens. Levin and Riegle both voted no.

Keep these numbers posted at business office

According to the research of a Detroit law firm, all businesses in Michigan should have 16 messages posted on their walls.

The government isn't trying to mandate interior decorating standards; the posters define employees' rights.

Acrylics on canvas catch curator's eye

Plymouth's Carol Walkiewicz had never exhibited her artwork before, despite dabbling in the world of acrylics and brushstrokes for upwards of 30 years.

But Atrium Gallery's Pat Jania of Novi jumped at the chance to exhibit six of the former Westland resident's contemporary acrylics on canvas.

"It takes awhile for artists to finally make that decision to sell their work," Jania said. "She finally made that decision. And this is her first show."

"We like to present unusual styles and unique pieces," Jania added, "and these are entirely different than anything we've had because they're so contemporary — and we consider ourselves a contemporary gallery."

"It's exciting because they're so different."

Four large abstracts and two smaller paintings by Walkiewicz are on exhibit through March at Atrium Gallery, 109 N. Center, in downtown Northville. They range in price from $150 to $750.

The work exudes a floral feeling even though it represents just a series of short brushstrokes. Says Jania: "It's bursting forth with color, like the opening of a flower. The flow of color is quite interesting."

Despite what the eye sees, Walkiewicz doesn't set out painting in still life. "It's more a feeling she manages to create on canvas through the movement of her brushstroke," said Jania, gallery co-owner with Heidi Eizelman of Farmington Hills.

An art teacher at Annapolis High School in Dearborn Heights for the past 27 years, Walkiewicz flirts with realism but prefers abstraction when at the easel in her home studio.

"Abstraction lets me express myself better and, besides, I enjoy it more. Sometimes I have a theme in mind, but other times I play with colors, shapes and forms. I don't want every piece to say a particular thing."

Jania's floral interpretation doesn't surprise Walkiewicz, who likes to grow flowers in her garden. "I like natural things like plants and flowers, and that's probably apparent in my work."

The 4-year-old gallery carries a lot of blown-glass. Walkiewicz' pieces especially complement those of Birmingham glassblower Stan Megdall.

"Some of our prettiest pieces from Stan have a jewel tone — teals, magentas, golds, lapis blues, purples, deep colors instead of a pastel look," Jania said. "Carol's pieces have that quality."

As a youngster growing up in Grosse Pointe Woods, Walkiewicz loved to design and make things. Often, she experimented with different materials. She remembers transforming gift wrapping into an animal or a doll. Later, she made doll clothes from her own designs.

"I was never much of a pattern person," she said. "I've always wanted to design things."

Walkiewicz didn't start to paint until college. She earned a bachelor's degree in design from the University of Michigan and a master's in art education from Eastern Michigan.

Plymouth taps new arts director

■ The Plymouth Community Arts Council begins its 25th year with a new executive director and promising plans for new, expanded headquarters.

BY JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

A Latin phrase engraved in a Pewabic tile on Randy Lee's desk sums up her philosophy of the arts:

"Art is long and time is fleeting."
"That's a loose translation of Hippocrates, and one I heard my dad say many times growing up. I didn't completely understand it then. Years later, my sister and I saw the phrase on a wall at the Detroit Institute of Arts — suddenly the meaning was clear," said Lee, newly appointed executive director of the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC).

Lee took over the part-time position in January from Christine Illas, who left for a full-time job with a Farmington Hills marketing firm. Illas will stay on the board of directors as a volunteer and handle communications and promotions, said Karen Tripp, PCAC president.

"This job is perfect for me because it blends the two areas I'm most enthused about — education and promotion of the arts. I'm looking forward to making things that I've been committed to actually happen," said Lee of Plymouth.

The executive director's job is one of two paid positions at PCAC, a mostly volunteer-driven group with 350 members. The council promotes the arts through exhibits, art rental, classes, concerts and education, such as the Picture Person/Music Appreciation program it brings to Plymouth-Canton schools.

It also sponsors the Damaris Student Fine Arts Awards and adult art education at Center for Creative Studies, Detroit.

"Randy has unsurpassed passion for Plymouth and for keeping arts activities happening here. I think she's put in 80 hours a week since she took over and the job only calls for 25," Tripp said. "Christine's (Illas) marketing know-how helped increase the council's visibility. Now we need to increase programming to meet the community's needs. Randy's education background can only enhance the council and its programs."

PCAC celebrates its 25th anniversary this year and plans a long-awaited move from cramped quarters downtown to the former Jehovah Witnesses Kingdom Hall, 774 Sheldon Road.

The Plymouth City Commission approved preliminary plans Feb. 7 for the arts group to buy the 4,000-square-foot building on a land contract arrangement with the city.

PCAC's annual operating budget is about $100,000, which comes from fund-raisers, program fees, memberships, grants and donations. And like most other arts groups, it hasn't seen much state support since the mid-1980s, when Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs grants were around $7,000 a year.

So, like her predecessor, Lee says fund-raising will be a priority.

"Arts groups in larger communities may not be suffering as much as those in smaller places because they have a greater population to draw from. Smaller arts groups need to look to other sources of income and beef up programming to reach more people. We'll enhance our efforts with corporate fund-raising," Lee said.

In addition to aggressive fund-raising, Lee has five other long and short-term goals:

- Relocate PCAC headquarters to the former Jehovah Witnesses building by spring 1994 and begin renovations. The church includes a stage for concerts and has the space needed for art/music classrooms and the art rental gallery, now at Dunning-Hough Library.
  - Add programs for senior citizens, including monthly art appreciation classes and three to four yearly trips to the Detroit Institute of Arts.
  - Generate more volunteers, which translates into new ideas, Lee said.
  - Increase programming.
  - Increase membership.
- Lee taught first grade in Ann Arbor before sons Christopher and Matthew, now age 19 and 17 respectively, were born. She's been a PCAC volunteer since 1983 and, before becoming executive director, agreed to co-chair its murder mystery fund-raiser earlier this month at Laurel Manor Banquet & Conference Center, Livonia.

She also co-chairs Plymouth Study Group, whose membership includes 150 Plymouth-area women, and is director of Excellence in Education, a Plymouth-based group that awards study grants to Plymouth-Canton youths.

She hasn't dabbled much in arts and isn't a musician, but Lee's appreciation of the arts is strong and deeply rooted. Her family, who moved from Livonia to Plymouth in 1969, fostered the arts with regular outings to the Detroit Institute of Arts, theater and symphony, she said.

Wide-ranging palette accents Livonia show

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Tulips by the bunches have sprung up at the Palette Guild's annual art show, continuing through March 31 in the lobby of Livonia City Hall, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Along with spring flowers, 17 members of the club display landscape, still life, portraits and genre scenes in styles ranging from realism to abstraction and impressionism.

Media include oil, watercolor, acrylic, mixed, pastel, collage, colored pencil and oil pastel, all reasonably priced from $30 to $500.

"It's a pretty good show this year," said chairwoman Evelyn Henry of Redford Township. "We have a diversity of work."

Ralph Glenn, chairman of the art department at Madonna University in Livonia, judged the 86-piece show, awarding first, second and third place as well as eight honorable mentions.

First place went to Helene Zelenka for the oil triptych, "Tulips No. 1."

"Overall, the quality of the show was very high on the basis of very effectively being able to handle their technique subject matter," said Glenn, a Bloomfield Hills resident.

"The tulips," he said, "were very sensitive, very soft and ephemeral."

Hedwig Reincke won second place for a dynamic "Volcano," painted in watercolor. Explosions of orange color the work with a lively energy.

Glenn found it difficult to decide between two artworks for third place so he awarded two of them. Third-place winners were Anna Helkowsky for a large-scale painting of "A Leaf" and Madeline Tabock for "Lady in Red," a collage.

"The second-place watercolor, all the passion and feeling of the painting comes through," Glenn said.

"The two third-place winners," he added, "were a collage related to Ori

Back by popular demand, Laurel Ralaenen of Westland will teach a continuing series on pastel portraiture beginning Friday, March 18. Class times are 10 a.m. to noon, 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

To register, call gallery director Norma McQueen at (313) 261-0379 or stop by The Art Gallery at 30116 Ford Road in Sheridan Square. Hours are noon to 5 p.m. Thursday to Saturday.

■ CLARIFICATION

Among the Observerland artists whose work is on exhibit at the Michigan Art Exchange in Plymouth is Judith Mouchot of Redford Township.

Her name was misspelled in a March 3 story about the new artists cooperative gallery. Mouchot is an oil painter.

The gallery held its grand opening Sunday. It's inside Forest Place Mall, 470 Forest, one block west of Main.

ental painting built up in multiple layers of paper — and the leaf, very contemporary in feeling with a soft background.

Honorable mentions went to Evelyn Henry for "Nature Walk," pastel; Anna Helkowsky for "Orchid," mixed; Florence Hirschmann for "Lilacs & Pink Tulips," oil; Hedwig Greene for "Pansies," watercolor; Sofia Taj for "Eastern Phoebes Nesting," watercolor; Dorothy Rohe for the watercolor "Dogwood in Black Vase" and "Waterfall, Blue Ridge"; and Marie Tuthill for "Winter Scene," watercolor/mixed.

Rachel Rion of Livonia paused while taking in the show to compliment Tuthill's "Winter Scene."

"It looks like Carl Sandberg's home," Rion said.

Along with the delicate snow landscape by Tuthill, not to be missed are "White Lightning," an oil of a horse wading through a stream by Maybelline Greenberg, "On the Edge," an oil of bird perched on a wire fence wrapped with grape vine by Taj; the impressionistic acrylic "Water Lilies" by Callie Thomson; "Dream Cottage," by Maybelline Greenberg; "Here and Gone," pink azaleas against a greenish black background rendered in pastel on black paper by Evelyn Henry; Tarkay-like "Lady in Red" by Madeline Tabock, collage, and, to add a little whimsy, a play on clothespins titled "Illusions of Depth," pencil drawing.

Founded in 1954 by a group of women in the Redford-Livonia area, the Palette Guild's 45 members meet the fourth Monday of the month at the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five.

Exhibit hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Number one: Helene Zelenka won first place in the annual spring Palette Guild show for an oil triptych featuring pink tulips.

Explosive: Second place was awarded to Hedwig Reineke for the watercolor, "Volcano."

The gallery is in the U-M Art and Architecture Building in Ann Arbor. Call (313) 763-4417.

■ THE ARTISTS' GALLERY
Sunday, March 20 — "Creating Jewelry — A Sensual Experience," a display of jewelry by Annette Berenholz, will be presented March 19 to April 24. Reception 1-4 p.m. Sunday. The artist uses a variety of precious stones, and sterling silver as well as gold. The metal is stretched, heated, bent, heated again and finally polished, making a refined object of beauty that has vitality and integrity. Also, April is Michigan Glass Month. Works by Marie Snell, Joyce Gottlieb, Bernie Merritt and guest artists, and glass jewelry from all over the country, will be featured. Glass jewelry, Venetian glass beads and a demonstration by Kris Peterson will be shown Saturday, April 23. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday, in Orchard Place Mall at 30905 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills, (810) 855-8832.

■ CENTER GALLERIES
Tuesday, March 22 — "War Toys" by California sculptor Bella Feldman continues to April 15. The artist will discuss her sculpture, including "War Toys," 11:45 a.m. Tuesday at Boughton Auditorium, in the Center for Creative Studies Institute of Music and Dance Building at John R and Kirby in Detroit; a reception and informal discussion of "War Toys" will follow immediately at Center Galleries. Admission to the slide lecture and gallery talk is free and open to the public. Feldman's assembly of 26 small-scale "toys" is disarmingly childlike and potentially lethal. Created in response to the Gulf War, they bristle with antennae, threatening projections and razor-sharp saw blades. Installed on the floor like children's toys left out after a day's play, they imply that playthings may lead to destructive impulses. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, closed April 1-4, in the Park Shelton Building at 15 E. Kirby, ground floor, Suite 107, Detroit, (313) 874-1955.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday, to 8 p.m. Tuesday and by appointment, in the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center at Henry Ford Community College, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn. For more information, call 845-9634.

Employee training a Village Green key

By Doug Funke Staff Writer

There's no sense reinventing the wheel as far as a Farmington Hills apartment construction and management firm is concerned.

An in-house orientation and training course based on similar programs at McDonald's and Disney has made a difference in how employees approach their work and profitability, a key Village Green Management executive maintains.

"Our main goals, number one, are to increase the level of performance of all our employees," said Terry Schwartz, CEO of Village Green Management. "Second would be better performing communities for our customers."

"Third, having highly qualified people translates to a better bottom line. We add value to the assets of our clients," he said.

All new employees participate in a daylong orientation program that includes such topics as human resources, fair housing and stress management.

Those inclined to the management and leasing side then have three days of training in company operations/computers and two days in sales.

Maintenance specialists have their own courses after the first-day orientation.

A two-year, post-graduate executive intern course is available for employees who aspire to higher management.

"Our employee turnover is considerably lower than it was in the '80s," Schwartz said. "Last year, with 70 communities, our site manager and maintenance supervisor turnover rate was 17 percent. In this industry, you're looking at 50 percent."

"Our employees have a greater understanding of client goals and objectives than most others in this business," he said. "Because of that, there's more focus."

And consistency.

"We manage probably the most diversified portfolio of anyone in the U.S.," Schwartz said, adding that Village Green oversees about 12,000 apartment units that it owns and 8,000 owned by others. Village Green employs about 700 in nine states.

Schwartz and Jonathan Holtzman, chairman of the Village Green Companies, started the training program five years ago. Virtually all employees on board before it was instituted have since gone through, too.

"I always felt and Jonathan believes that you set people up for failure if you just throw them out there to do the job," Schwartz said. "If people are inconsistent, why have a large company?"

"We're different. We push. We have expectations. I think you shake out those who aren't quality. You'll see it right away," Schwartz said.

Jackie Green is assistant manager at Village Green of Waterford.

"I guess the most valuable part of training was process and delivery of information," she said. "It was very useful and very practical. Sales training was the most helpful. I liked that part mostly because of the enthusiasm."

Lisa Gale joined Schwartz's team about four years ago and will soon manage Village Green of Franklin.

"There's a lot to learn, especially when you're new," Gale said. "It's the we-care philosophy — they really stress that."

Village Green has made its program available to its clients and other management firms in non-competitive parts of the country.

Bonnie Bursky, assistant vice president for Acquest Realty Advisors in Bloomfield Hills, has sat in on some of the training sessions.

"It seemed rather unique to me, to see someone so involved that the leasing staff had the company's message and objectives in mind, to understand the value of tenants and how to market effectively to them," Bursky said.

"Years ago, there wasn't much training," Schwartz said. "You had to be a self-starter. My experience is there's some level of training in most of the leading companies."

"As for smaller companies, they bring someone in one day a year for seminars. If there's an apartment association, in our neck of the woods there is one, it opens it up for members of smaller companies to send people."

"I believe in-house we offer the broadest training throughout the nation for a company our size," Schwartz said.

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I am a developer who is planning on doing a site condominium. I have not engaged an attorney to put the documents together, but think that I will have to record a master deed in the near future because the municipality in question is thinking about passing a regulation that will inhibit my ability to do a site condominium. Do you think I am best off to record the master deed as soon as possible, notwithstanding the quality of the document and then deal with the municipality thereafter?

the development of site condominiums.

On the other hand, I question why you have waited until this point to consider engaging legal counsel in developing your condominium. A condominium project should be carefully planned out by the developer before the master deed is recorded.

Presumably the master deed can always be amended to correct any problems that have occurred, but I would make every effort in the interim to retain competent and experienced legal counsel to assist you in the preparation of the master deed and to otherwise advise you as to whether or not you will have a problem with the municipality in completing your site condominium project, among other things.

The Classic: Fieldstone and wood siding grace the exteriors of both condominium models, the Classic and the Regency, at Boulder Park in Bloomfield Hills.

Boulder Park: upper-end condo living

There hasn't been all that much new residential construction in Bloomfield Hills recently, mostly due to a lack of building sites, one developer/builder maintains. That's why he figures his project, which offers luxury and freedom from maintenance chores, should be inviting.

BY DOUG FUNKE

Boulder Park in Bloomfield Hills isn't your typical subdivision, even for Oakland County.

Just 10 detached condominiums will be built on a 3.90-acre site off Woodward Avenue, north of Lone Pine Road.

Wineman & Komer Building Co. in Southfield developed the parcel and offers two models - the Classic, 3,100 square feet with a base price of $445,000, and the Regency, 3,400 square feet at $475,000.

The association fee for maintenance of the common grounds, collection of trash and snow removal is $200 per month.

"People here are well established in their careers and are looking for less obligations in work and maintaining houses," said Richard L. Komer, president of Wineman & Komer.

"You have fine shopping in this area. In this market, a lot of people belong to the Bloomfield Hills Country Club and some other clubs.

"Now, we have three physicians and one attorney. They're empty-nest-type people, people in their 50s, basically. One owner here has two children who attend Cranbrook. The others are older or their kids are in college," Komer said.

Tom Wilson - Executive of the Year

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Tom Wilson, a Rochester Hills resident, may be the ultimate insider's insider.

The 44-year-old actor turned business executive is president of the Palace of Auburn Hills, Detroit Pistons, Pine Knob and Detroit Neon.

He must be doing something right.

Since the late 1980s, the Palace became the first arena named Best New Venue and Arena of the Year in successive years by Performance magazine. The Pistons won two NBA championships. Pine Knob experienced a refurbishing.

"To have a successful organization, you have to have a passion for it, not only the work, but for the people in the organization and everything the organization stands for," he said.

The personable Wilson also is involved with the wider community, including the Boy Scouts of America, CATCH, William Beaumont Hospital and the American Cancer Society.

Wilson obviously commands respect for his capabilities and accomplishments. He recently was selected Executive of the Year by the Oakland Executives Association, an organization for professionals and senior corporate managers.

Following are edited excerpts of a recent interview with Wilson:

What do you see as your role being president of so many different enterprises?

Wilson: For the most part, when there are so many different entities, your main responsibility is to get good people to work for you and with you - I like with you better - provide some direction for these people, then get out of their way.

How do you prepare for a job like yours?

Wilson: It's marketing, public relations, sales. It's all of the same things you do whether you sell widgets or rock 'n' roll.

I was an actor in California and I would film at the Forum with the Lakers. I got to know the people. I went from acting to working in the marketing area for hockey and basketball.

When I started here, there were five people working for the Pistons. Almost everything you do around here, I've done.

A lot of people with the Pistons came in with telemarketing. That's probably one of the toughest jobs there is. Only the strongest survive. That's how I came up.

When we were at the Silverdome and we had a lot of promotions and the trucks came in, I was down there, myself, unloading.

You have a basic business background - I majored in business administration at Wayne State - and you get in sports.

Over the course of 15 years, I went from basketball, to the Palace to Pine Knob, each one being a logical extension of another.

What's your typical day like?

Wilson: I come in around 6 a.m. and work out and get upstairs between 7:30 and 8. From then on, there is no typical day.

I believe in "managing by walking around." The more places you are, the more information you're able to disseminate and the more you're able to learn.

I may spend some time talking with Billy McKinney (general manager of the Pistons) about the team, then talk with the marketing people and then I'll spend time with the financial people.

You do have a life as far as planning out a schedule, but many times you are led by what's going on around you. Some (meetings) are impromptu, some I walk in on and become part of, some are scheduled.

What's your management philosophy?

JIM RIDER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Admired executive: Tom Wilson, who oversees an entertainment empire in suburban Detroit, has been selected executive of the year by an association of professionals and senior corporate decision makers.

Wilson: I think trust is a huge factor in working with people. And giving them the ability to fail is important - in addition to giving them the ability to succeed.

I think loyalty is very important. You have to show that every chance we get. We have very little turnover here. Top people have been here 15 years.

The other thing is I think you have to set a tone - commitment to excellent you talk about - below which you cannot step.

How many people work for your various organizations?

Wilson: About 250. Everything from marketing, to box office, to regular security, personnel, TV, radio. Payroll (not including players) is probably over $10 million per year.

We have another 1,000 to

Simple, honest, straightforward. How else would you expect to lease a Saturn?

By now, you've probably heard about the Saturn buying experience. No hassles, no pressure, no fluff, just common courtesy, along with a pretty great car.

Well, the way we see it, your experience shouldn't be any different if you want to lease a Saturn. After all, what could we possibly gain by making things any less straightforward than they have to be?

The Saturn SL
 ($168/Month *1000/Down 36/Months)
 SmartLease payments based on 1994 Saturn SL Sedan, 5 speed, AC, MSRP $11,210 excluding taxes, title, license fee and insurance. First month's lease payment of $168 plus $200 refundable security deposit and down payment of $1,000 for a total of $1,368 due at lease signing. Option to purchase at lease end for $6614. Payments total $6048.

GMAC must approve lease. Mileage charge of $0.10 per mile over 45,000 miles. Your payments may be higher or lower. Lessee pays for excessive wear and use.
