Foster home to give kids haven

A planned foster care home for children would provide them and their caregivers a "time out" from an abusive family environment. The program, which would have the foster home in the southwest section of Westland, is expected to start next month.

A private social service organization wants to help rescue children of a supervised home with "loving, caring adults," said Ouida Cash, executive director of Youth Living Centers Inc., a private, nonprofit group low Creek apartment and townhouse residents.

The seriousness of the problem was reflected in Christmas "gift lists" from children in YLC programs last winter.

Mentioned most frequently were "a safe home and family throughout the year," said Cash, whose agency is located in a former Wayne-Westland elementary school in the Cherry Hill-Middlebelt area.

The Safe Stay program, expected to start next month following state Department of Social Services approval, would provide a "safe and nurturing environment for children," she said.

The foster care services would be financially supported through the Michigan Department of Social Services. Users of the foster home and services would not be charged, Cash said.

The program would also allow par- or primary-caregiver grandparents to have the children tempo-

Athlete starts Olympian fund-raising

BY BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITER

Westland's own Olympian hopes to make tracks to Belgium this summer.

Erika Benjamin, 29, is the world record holder in the 5,000-meter bike event in the Paralympic games and will attempt to improve her times if given the opportunity to compete.

"It won't be easy, but I would like to try," Benjamin said, who works as a dish washer for Douglas Food Co. in Garden City.

"I just found out we can go to Belgium, and I have to have $2,000 by June to make the trip."

The U.S. Cerebral Palsy Athletic Association event in Belgium will serve as a qualifying event for the Paralympic games in Atlanta, Ga., in 1996. Athletes must turn in $1,000 by next month and another $1,000 before June to compete.

In the past, athletes have been given more advance notice of the competitions and therefore more time to gather funding. Benjamin, a John Glenn High School graduate, said the deadline for this event concerns her.

Benjamin trains almost every day on her bicycle. When weather allows, she can be seen riding through the city streets and she does her speed training on a local track. During the winter months she rides a stationary bike in her apartment.

She is coached by John Waterman. Benjamin has traveled to Florida, Holland and Barcelona for competitions. It was in Barcelona that she beat the world record in the 5,000 meter by more than 1 minute and took home the gold medal.

She was also named Athlete of the Year in 1993 by the U.S. Cerebral Palsy Athletic Association.

"People see us and think we are part of Special Olympics," Benjamin said. "They are for the mentally challenged, and I am physically challenged. Special Olympic athletes get support, but we don't."

Marlene Doran and the Westland Civitans have been supporting Benjamin's endeavors for several years. Doran said it will require a lot of work to gather the money needed for the Belgium trip.

Donors may send checks to the Westland Civitans, P.O. Box 45, Westland 48185.

Compost season

Westland residents can start using the municipal public service department's compost and rubbish transfer services, starting next week. The city announced that the compost season will begin next Monday, April 4, and continue through Dec. 2.

Compost must be clearly marked on cans or plastic trash bags and be placed at least 10 feet from conventional trash containers.

PLACES & FACES

All brush and limbs must be tied in bundles of four-foot lengths and weigh no more than 50 pounds. No cardboard boxes will be picked up. The rubbish transfer station will open Friday, April 8, at the DPS yard, on Marquette, just east of Newburgh.

For larger vehicles, the fees are $15 for small pickups or vans, $22 for a standard pickup or 4x8 trailer, $27 for 4x8 and 5x8 trailers, $33 for 5x10 trailers, and $45 for larger trailers. The station will be open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

Car or truck tires won't be accepted. Conventional rubbish, household furniture and appliances will not be accepted at the transfer station. For information, contact the DPS at 728-1770.

A private social service organization wants to help rescue children "from a river of misery," its director said.

"We're going upstream to make sure those children don't fall in." The rescue program is in the form of a supervised home with "loving, caring adults," said Ouida Cash, executive director of Youth Living Centers Inc., a private, nonprofit group which provides a variety of programs and services for children.

Cash outlined the program, called Safe Stay, at a recent meeting of Wil-

Prosecutor concludes career

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Retiring: After a lengthy legal career, including many years with the out-county prosecutor's office, Howard "Mickey" Phillipart is retiring this week.

After 26 years, the prosecution rests

BY LEANNE ROGERS

His bar association membership card lists Howard Phillipart Jr., but anyone who has even a nodding acquaintance with the veteran prosecutor knows him as Mickey.

Even certificates and awards hanging on his office wall are made out to Mickey. It's a nickname bestowed on Phillipart as a child by his father and used during his days as an amateur flyweight boxer fighting at Olympia during the 1940s.

A Redford Township resident, Phillipart is retiring at the end of the month after 26 years as a Wayne County assistant prosecutor, the last two years heading the out-county office in Westland.

"The Garden City community will miss having him as a resource to call on," said Garden City police chief David Kocsis. "Mickey was a great guy just to talk with. He always had a great story and a smile. Some people are sour, but he's never been that way."

During his years as a prosecutor Phillipart was especially known for having a good relationship with police officers, who don't necessarily hit it off with attorneys from either side of the aisle.

Compost season

Westland residents can start using the municipal public service department's compost and rubbish transfer services, starting next week. The city announced that the compost season will begin next Monday, April 4, and continue through Dec. 2.

Compost must be clearly marked on cans or plastic trash bags and be placed at least 10 feet from conventional trash containers.

PLACES & FACES

All brush and limbs must be tied in bundles of four-foot lengths and weigh no more than 50 pounds. No cardboard boxes will be picked up. The rubbish transfer station will open Friday, April 8, at the DPS yard, on Marquette, just east of Newburgh.

For larger vehicles, the fees are $15 for small pickups or vans, $22 for a standard pickup or 4x6 trailer, $27 for 4x8 and 5x8 trailers, $33 for 5x10 trailers, and $45 for larger trailers. The station will be open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

Car or truck tires won't be accepted. Conventional rubbish, household furniture and appliances will not be accepted at the transfer station. For information, contact the DPS at 728-1770.

Working the phone

'Don't hang up!' Wayne-Westland school Superintendent Larry Thomas was busy on the phone recently dealing with a money problem, but it had nothing to do with school finances. He raised some $1,162 in "bail money" for a Muscular Dystrophy Association fund-raiser. He was "arrested" and held for one hour at the Holman Pontiac dealership. The "bail" raised by Thomas was the most raised by any of the 28 "defendants" that day, said a MDA spokeswoman.

Meeting tomorrow on status of old dump

A public informational meeting will be held Tuesday night to update residents on testing and cleanup plans for a former dump in Westland's northwest section.

It will be held by the county at 7 p.m. in Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, directly behind city hall.

It follows a similar public session held March 14 by the federal Environmental Protection Agency on the status of the former dump, north of Warren Road and west of Central City Parkway, adjacent to two apartment complexes. Those two meetings attracted a total of about 60 people.

Tuesday night's meeting will have representatives of the county's new department of environment and 3M Co., which admitted earlier this year that it dumped some industrial wastes in the dump which was used by that firm, the county and Crestwood Development Corp., which built the nearby apartment complexes, up through the early 1960s.

In announcing Tuesday's informational meeting, county spokeswoman Irma Clark said that "available historical information indicates that small amounts of industrial materials, perhaps less than 1 percent, were deposited with the municipal refuse prior to 1962."

While all tests conducted by the county have shown the site to be safe, the EPA has ordered test excavations and possible full-scale waste removal activities.

"Wayne County, Crestwood Development and 3M instead have fenced the site and have been conducting further testing of the air, water and soil, in addition to removing any exposed landfill materials," she said.

At one of the two March 14

EPA informational meetings, County Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, disputed the federal government's comment that the county has been uncooperative in moving ahead with testing of the site.

Man arraigned in March 6 holdup

A Brighton man was arraigned March 21 on armed robbery charges in connection with the March 6 robbery of the Dandy Oil-Marathon gas station on Ann Arbor Trail at Merriman.

Gregory James Krachenfels, 37, was brought to 18th District Court in Westland from Lapeer County, where he is awaiting trial on another armed robbery charge. He has also been charged with four armed robberies in Oakland County and is being investigated for others.

After entering a not-guilty plea on behalf of the defendant, Judge C. Charles Bokos set bond at $100,000 cash security and Krachenfels was returned to the Lapeer County Jail.

While a not-guilty plea was automatically entered for him on the gas station robbery, Westland police Sgt. Donald Haigh said the defendant has the chance to change his plea when the case reaches Recorder's Court.

The Dandy Oil gas station was held up March 6 by a man wearing a ski mask, dark sweat pants and leather gloves claiming to have a gun. Two similar robberies were reported at the same gas station earlier in the year, but Krachenfels, who grew up in the Westland area, has not been linked to either of those.

If convicted, Krachenfels could face up to life in prison. A felony firearm charge could not be filed as no weapon was recovered.

Man shot fleeing would-be robber

Westland police are investigating a shooting and attempted robbery involving a Wayne man and a hitchhiker.

Wayne resident Anthony Crider, 31, was shot in the face with a small-caliber weapon at about 7:45 p.m. March 16. He was treated and released March 17 from Henry Ford Hospital.

According to police reports, Crider was driving in the city of Wayne when he picked up a hitchhiker. At Inkster Road and Van Born, the hitchhiker reportedly attempted to rob Crider. To avoid the robbery, Crider started to drive off and was shot.

Crider, according to police Sgt. Donald Haigh, drove himself home and then to Annapolis Hospital, Wayne. He was transferred to Henry Ford Hospital where he was interviewed by police officers.

He was released from the hospital early the next morning with the bullet still lodged in his jaw area.

Police say the shooter is an African-American, light-complected male in his 20s, about 5 feet 8 inches and between 160 and 170 pounds.

Whale of a winner: P.D. Graham second-grader Brandon Maddox accepts a stuffed whale, his prize in a school raffle, from Becky Jener. Money collected from the raffle, about $800, will be sent to the effort to save the star of "Free Willy."

Whale-O-Meter: P.D. Graham fifth-graders Mandy Bies and Stacey Guidot were pleased to fill in the thermometer that measured the amount of money they raised to help save the "Free Willy" whale. The students have collected $800 for the whale and are hoping to collect an additional $200.

Graham students sea way to save Keiko

STAFF WRITER

How far will you go for a friend? It was the theme of the box office hit "Free Willy" and now thousands of fans from around the world are doing what they can to save the real-life Willy, Keiko, now in poor health at a Mexico City aquarium. P.D. Graham Elementary School fifth-graders have taken the cause to heart and hope to send a check for $1,000 to help give the killer whale a future. Cindy Parmeter's class learned about the plight of the whale, and a Tampa, Fla., school's effort to save him, on a national news program. They started out writing letters back and forth with the Tampa students and preparing a segment on the whale for the P.D. Graham "TeleGraham News" program that the fifth-graders produce on video. "They wanted to do more," Parmeter said. The teacher found a stuffed toy killer whale in a shop and discussed with her class the possibility of hosting a raffle to collect money for the effort to save Keiko. "At first we set our goal at $500 and we earned that in just two days," Parmeter said. The goal was increased to $800 and that was reached in time for the raffle. The district's teachers union agreed to chip in $100, and now the class is working to collect an extra $100 in donations to bring their total contribution to $1,000. The students have been studying the plight of endangered species and class president, Brandi Hunt, said the information has helped her better understand the importance of protecting all animals. "If they're going to be held captive, they should be treated better," Hunt said. "We're not going to stop until he's freed." There is a plan in the works to save Keiko from an imminent death. A world-renowned marine biologist is working to locate the whale's family in Iceland waters and hopes to gradually re-release

Keiko into the wild. The effort will cost $5 million and is still in jeopardy due to the perilous condition of the whale and an opposition campaign waged by some water parks. Keiko's tank is too small, the water is too warm, he is underweight and suffers from a skin disorder as a result of an inefficient water filtration system in his tank. Parmeter's class is now writing to makers of "Free Willy" which has netted more than $100 million and making a plea to them to help with the effort. They also continue to correspond with the class in Tampa watching for updates on Keiko's condition.

Murder trial starts Tuesday

BY BARBARA WILSON

The family members of slain Garden City resident Robert John are bracing themselves for the trial which they say might finally let them put their 25-year-old son to rest. Jury selection is scheduled to start Tuesday in Detroit Recorder's Court in the second-degree murder trial of Robert Miguel, 42. John, father of six minor children, was shot with a rifle the night of Aug. 21 in front of the Miguel residence on Wayne Road, just north of Ford, Westland. Police said the two families had argued earlier. Miguel's wife has told the Observer that her family was under attack from the John family when the shooting occurred. The version from Tommy John, the victim's father, is that his family members had gone to the Miguel house to make peace. Miguel is free on a $60,000 bond. The John family would feel better "if we get justice as it should be," said Polly John, the victim's mother. "Emotionally, it is still hard." Polly John said she and her family have been seeking help to overcome depression since the death of Robert John. The victim's children are still having difficulty coping with the death of their father, she added. It's been especially difficult, Polly John said, knowing that Miguel has been free on bond.

The Johns have been vocal in the proceedings leading up to the trial this week. In January they made a formal request that the judge and the prosecutor assigned to the case withdraw because they said the criminal justice system was siding with the defendant. They were particularly upset when the trial date had been delayed from Jan. 24 to June 6. After their complaints, Circuit Judge Paul Terranes and Wayne County Prosecutor Lisa Lindsey took over the case. The trial date was then changed to this week's date. "We feel now that we are treated better, but we just want justice done," Polly John said. The entire John family plans to attend the trial this week.

Kids win praise in toddler rescue

Aaron Nason and Josh Walter went to Madison Elementary School Wednesday morning just like they do any other day, but by the end of the day they were heroes. Nason and Walter, both fourth-graders, were preparing to return to their classroom after recess when they noticed a toddler standing in the middle of the road. The 2-year-old had managed to get out of the house on his own. The two boys alerted their teacher and a rescue effort ensued.

Aaron Nason Josh Walter

Walter, who noticed the toddler first and started to shout to the teacher. Nason was the focus of attention Friday when Madison principal H. Phillip Buerk gave each student a certificate for their quick thinking. "You helped out a little guy who could have been in a lot of trouble and we're really proud of you," Buerk said. Nason said he has a baby niece at home now and is ready to watch out for her, too. "I know little ones can get in a lot of trouble," he said.

Crash injures 2 John Glenn students

Two John Glenn High School students were treated for head injuries Friday after being involved in a two-car collision on Merriman at Rush, Garden City. "If they had been wearing seatbelts they would have escaped injury and probably would not have had to go to the hospital," said traffic officer Mel Maier. "The accident caused both of them to strike the windshield." The students, a 17-year-old Inkster resident who was driving and a 16-year-old Westland resident who was a passenger, were heading north on Merriman when the accident occurred at 7:22 a.m. The Inkster youth was making a left turn onto westbound Rush and pulled in front of an oncoming southbound car driven by a Livonia man. "It was nearly a head-on collision. The southbound car had gone through a green light and was going about 40 miles per hour," Maier said. "The (teen-age) driver went over the steering wheel and broke a piece of the windshield." Both teenagers were transported to Garden City Hospital by the fire department's rescue unit, treated and released. Maier said the Livonia man, who was wearing a seatbelt, complained of head, neck and back pain but declined treatment. The Inkster resident was ticketed for failing to yield to oncoming traffic.

Howell closes book in Livonia

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

There'll be a new man in charge of the "nuts and bolts" of running the Livonia school district starting July 1.

After 30 years with the district, which includes the northern section of Westland, director of operations Art Howell will retire June 30.

His successor will be David Watson, assistant principal at Churchill High. The school board named Watson to the $82,000-a-year post last Monday, March 21.

The operations director is in charge of all the behind-the-scenes functions that keep the district running.

This includes purchasing, warehouse operations, data processing, transportation, maintenance, printing, food service and environmental control. It even includes deciding whether to close schools because of bad weather conditions.

"It's completely different than teaching, but you're still involved with teachers and kids," Howell said. "My job is keep the schools clean and safe."

Before his 18 years on the business side of education, Howell was a teacher at Johnson Elementary, an administrative intern at Coolidge Elementary, an assistant principal at Cleveland Elementary and a junior high assistant principal at then-Riley Junior High.

Since joining the central administrative staff, he's served as business administrator of building services, assistant director of business services, assistant director of operational services and director of operational services as well as director of operations.

Howell plans to stay in the area and join a weekday golf league. He also plans to take classes in cooking and Spanish. His wife, Clare, still works for the district.

Howell has been a driving force in the building program now under way. Seeing school buildings upgraded has been the "best part" of his job, he said.

The "worst part," he said, is having to say no to parents who want their child bused to school for safety reasons but who live too close to a school to qualify for transportation.

One part of his job he won't miss, he said, is getting up at 3 a.m. during the winter to see if snow conditions warrant the closing of schools.

Watson, a 1964 graduate of Livonia Bentley High, was named the district's outstanding young educator in 1975 by the Livonia Jaycees. He has a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

The biggest challenge Watson will face in his new job, Howell said, is "reprioritizing to keep the buildings in shape during a period of diminishing resources."

Watson said he plans to follow in Howell's footsteps in giving residents schools in which they can be proud.

"When I started here as a second grade teacher, (the district) was a great place to be and that continues today," Watson said. "I want people to continue to be proud of their schools."

rarily in the foster home for short periods during a time of family violence and crisis, Cash said.

The director cited a recent incident in which a grandmother called her agency in desperation.

The woman was caring for three of her grandchildren, ages 3, 5, and 7; was planning to undergo knee surgery; and was also caring for her cancer-stricken husband.

"I just need help for a week," the grandmother told Cash.

The foster home would provide that help for families who sometimes just need to have the children in another environment while adult caregivers work out their problems, she said.

"We want a program in which parents in crisis can come for help and early intervention," she said.

There would be no charge for the program, which will include medical and other services, Cash said.

Her agency is reluctant to contact DSS to care for the children because the state may place youngsters in a facility and not return them to their parents, she said.

Cash added that there is a major financial savings for newborns in a family in crisis.

The cost of caring for that infant at Hutzel Hospital and Children's Hospital in Detroit is $1,600 daily, she said.

At the YLC's planned foster homes, the cost is projected at $150 a day.

The organization has two foster homes, both in the Palmer-Newburgh area of Westland. One currently can handle up to eight children at a time.

Planning for the program was helped by a $660,000 grant from the Skillman Foundation. Ongoing operational costs would be reimbursed by the state.

Cash said several local businesses have already contributed to the program, including quantities of diapers from the Westland Kmart and Dearborn Heights Target stores as well as help in decorating the children's bedrooms in the foster care program.

The home also has a guest bedroom to be occupied by a parent or relative who has to get away from a crisis environment at home, Cash said.

Under the program, a child would be allowed to stay in the foster care for a maximum of 30 days a year.

In a written description of the program, Cash said it is designed to provide "safe, temporary shelter and a broad range of services to children from birth through 10 at both at-home and center-based family support and preservation services."

The program is also geared to strengthen those families and provide them "time out" at times when the chances of abuse or neglect are greatest.

Cash said the need for crisis nurseries and respite care centers has been documented both nationally and in Wayne County.

Those interested in using the program or volunteering products or time for the program may contact Youth Living Centers, 728-3400.

Hundreds protest drug lifer law

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

More than 400 people packed the Wayne Community Center Thursday to protest a state law that has put almost 200 people in prison for life without parole since 1979.

The prisoners were convicted of a 1978 law informally called the "650 Lifer Law." If the amount of cocaine or heroin seized in an arrest is 650 grams or more, the folks arrested can be charged with the Lifer Law.

Meant to put "drug kingpins" in prison for life, the law has been used to incarcerate minor players in the drug business, including cocaine couriers, and in many cases their unwitting accomplices. Of the 188 Michigan prisoners serving life sentences under the Lifer Law, 73 percent are first-time, non-violent offenders, said Dennis Louney, an aide to state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is considering legislation that would modify the Lifer Law. One alternative, sponsored by Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, gives lifers a chance for parole after 30 years. The other plan, sponsored by Faust, authorizes parole after 10 years. Furthermore, Faust's bill would be applied retroactively.

The 60 people who spoke at the public hearing Thursday, many of whom have friends or relatives in prison, clearly preferred Faust's plan.

Westland resident Linda Fannon, whose son Gary has been in prison since 1987, drew applause when she testified that "murderers, rapists and child molesters get paroled every day," but her son, a first-time offender, has no chance at parole. The law, Fannon said, "has failed miserably (and) has allowed blatant selective prosecution."

Rev. Robert Starkey of Port Huron noted that from 1979 to 1983 there were six convictions under the Lifer Law. But in 1987 there were 14 convictions, followed by 24 in 1988 and 53 in 1989.

If all the people convicted under the Lifer Law were "drug kingpins," Starkey remarked, the Michigan drug problem ought to be licked by now.

Plymouth resident Ed Fisher called the Lifer Law "sick, sick, sick," adding that prosecutors use the law to score political points.

"Sick minds are using this mandatory sentencing to make names for themselves," he said.

Marty Reisig, a Birmingham attorney and former federal prosecutor, testified that the "pursuit of justice is destroyed when we have extremes of leniency or extremes of harshness." Reisig noted that folks convicted of Michigan's lifer law would have received far lighter sentences in federal court. "We've got something out of whack here," he said.

Jeffrey McCarty of Detroit said this to Sen. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison: "I can pull a gun out right now and shoot at you with the intent to kill and miss your heart by a millimeter, and I get a chance for parole."

The Lifer Law, McCarty said, "is inhumane, it's barbaric, it's animalistic."

"Guys will miss Mickey because he had a police-officer mentality; he wasn't strictly an attorney," said Garden City Detective Sgt. David Harvey. "Mickey knew where we were coming from, and what we were asking for. If you got turned down (on a warrant request) and at times you did, it was for a good reason."

Philippart would look at the whole case and what the officer was trying to accomplish with the warrant, Harvey said, adding that over the years he learned a lot about writing warrant requests.

"He'd help you use all your tools. The majority of times cases are solved by the patrol officer or not solved at all," Harvey said. "As the detective you have to take responsibility as officer in charge. Some attorneys use that to treat you like dirt. Mickey was not like that. He always treated you like a professional."

"I've been available and listened when people needed an ear. I like people," Philippart said. "The reason I like out-county is that it's like an old-time prosecutor. You get to know the judges and cops. I've had cases of dog fighting, one of cattle rustling, and a lot of domestic violence."

After attending Sacred Heart seminary and a brief stint in the Navy, Philippart decided to follow his father's career choice by becoming an attorney.

Asked where he attended law school, Philippart responds like any good Catholic school graduate. "There is only one law school — the University of Detroit."

Philippart was admitted to the bar in 1951, the same year his father died, and joined his father's firm in private practice. Philippart and his wife Elizabeth, who had nine children, were married that year.

In 1968, two of the couple's children, boys 3 and 5, went with a neighbor to the zoo. While they were out, the neighbor decided to include the children in a flight of a small private plane. The plane developed a gas leak and exploded, killing in midair everyone but the pilot.

A short time later his friend, William Cahalan, then Wayne County prosecutor, asked him to join the prosecutor's staff.

"He said I was a sensible person and he needed me. I figured $18,000 a year was good," Philippart said. "He and (current prosecutor) John O'Hair have both been good bosses."

Robert Sage, who was Philippart's boss at the out-county office until his retirement two years ago, said he was sorry Philippart was leaving so soon.

"He was my right arm. He handled a lot of sexual assault cases, heavier homicides and conspiracies," Sage said. "We called him Capt. Smut because was in charge of pornography cases."

Besides being a favorite of police officers, Sage said Philippart was also well liked by circuit court judges. "He knew how to keep the docket moving," he said. "He's a great guy. I suggested after 17 years in private practice he get on the right side and he took my advice. He's been an asset to the prosecutor's office."

One of the first things on the agenda for Philippart and his wife after his retirement, a trip to Alaska.

"I guess I get a little nostalgic. It's time to step down. They'll miss you for about a week," he said.

Drug cases bound over

Two men were bound over on unrelated drug charges Thursday.

Reuben Vincente Perez of Westland was bound over on charges of possession with intent to deliver a controlled substance.

Perez was in 18th District Court Thursday for a preliminary examination on charges that he was found in possession of thendritmetrazine. He waived the exam and bond was continued and Perez was released until his arraignment in Recorder's Court.

If found guilty, he could face up to seven years in prison.

Eric Joseph Hans of Dearborn was bound over Thursday on one count of delivering cocaine under 50 grams.

Hans waived his preliminary examination and is being held on a $15,000 cash or surety bond.

If found guilty, he could face a prison term of one to 20 years and up to $25,000 in fines.

Upset parent arrested

Inkster police arrested a parent at Hicks Elementary School Wednesday afternoon when she demanded her child be released from school.

The woman said she was unhappy with the school and insisted her child be turned over, according to Carol Johnson, the district's director of elementary education.

"We have a procedure we follow when parents want to take their children out of school and she did not follow that procedure," Johnson said.

When the parent went right into her child's classroom, disrupting activities, school personnel phoned Inkster police.

Officers tried to subdue the woman when she assaulted one of the officers. The woman was taken into custody.

Plymouth area residents get honorary SC degrees

Tom Bohlander

Schoolcraft College will award honorary degrees to Gov. John Engler, Plymouth Township resident Tom Bohlander and Plymouth-Canton Schools Superintendent John Hoben at commencement ceremonies Saturday, May 7.

Engler will deliver Schoolcraft's commencement address. According to a college board of trustees resolution, Engler "has led the state toward economic recovery. Under his leadership, Michigan moved from 34th to 24th in its ranking as one of the best managed states in the country. The Cato Institute of Washington, D.C., ranks him among the top three governors in the nation for his fiscal policy."

Bohlander is the owner of 10 auto dealerships in Michigan, Ohio and New Hampshire, including Sunshine Acura in Farmington. As a member of the Schoolcraft Foundation Board of Governors, Bohlander co-chaired last year's golf tournament fundraiser and was instrumental in bringing five pro golfers out for the event.

Bohlander is also on the Michigan Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, the Plymouth Township Zoning Board of Appeals, the Plymouth Township Planning Commission and the Plymouth International Ice Spectacular Board of Directors.

Hoben, who is retiring July 1, has been superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools since 1971.

"I deem it quite an honor," said the Plymouth Township resident of the honorary degree. "I'm very appreciative of their efforts."

Starting as a teacher, Hoben moved on to become a counselor, guidance director, principal, coordinator of Plymouth Community Schools Secondary Education and assistant superintendent for instruction before getting his current job.

Hoben has also served as president of the Plymouth Rotary Club, Plymouth Building Authority, Network of Outcome Based Schools, director of the Michigan Association of School Administrators and a board member of the United Fund and YMCA.

Schools may borrow to buy computers under bill

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

School districts may borrow — going outside their operating budgets — for computer equipment as well as buildings, under a controversial state Senate bill.

"Telecommunications and technology-related services" are included in the list of things for which a school district may issue bonds. The bill amends a law passed last December allowing schools to sell bonds to renovate portions of buildings, libraries, athletic fields and other physical facilities.

Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, won approval of an amendment saying that computer services must be treated as an operating expense. Bouchard's amendment also limits the length of time for repayment to the life of the equipment.

Another amendment removed computer software from the bonding list.

The Senate last week passed the bill 31-2 over the long, loud protests of conservative Republicans Doug Carl of Utica and Jack Welborn of Kalamazoo.

All area senators voted yes except William Faust, D-Westland, and David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who were absent.

"What heretofore were called operating expenses, and subject to operating millage, we are now going to say can be covered by debt millage," Carl said. "School districts can do an end run (around tax limitations)," he said.

"This is outrageous. Bond salesmen out there will make lots of money urging districts to borrow, borrow, borrow," he said.

Carl said voters approved Proposal A March 15 believing that school operating taxes would be held to 6 mills on homes and farms and 24 mills on business property and second homes — rates he called "sacrosanct." Permitting school districts to pay for computers outside their operating budgets would "circumvent the intent of the people."

"We are again flaunting the taxpayers by passing this type of legislation right after Proposal A," agreed Welborn.

He said it was all right to pay for wires and outlets for computers through a bond issue when a building is constructed or renovated. "It seems to me they (schools) ought to have enough money to operate efficiently and purchase those (computers) out of operating funds without having to bond," he said.

"We should allow a school district the option of putting a new roof on or to remodel a classroom without doing the entire school, but I think you are going too far with this proposal that allows them to go in and bond for computers and technical programs.

"That should be an operational cost, not a cost put into bonds, spread into the future so future generations pay for it, rather than it being pay-as-you-go," Welborn said.

The brief battle exposed a long-term tendency in school budgeting: using the operating budget to pay salaries and requesting special millages or bond issues to pay for renovations, repairs and improvements of physical plant.

Proponents said technology is increasingly necessary and too expensive to be covered out of operating budgets. They argued that business borrows to buy machinery and amortizes it over a period of years through depreciation accounts.

LIVE REVIEW

Fan appeal: Pearl Jam.

Pearl Jam scores a KO with its fans

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Pearl Jam drummer Dave Abbruzzese said in a 1992 interview that playing live shows with his band is like fighting Mike Tyson. If that's the case, Pearl Jam knocked out Detroit area audiences in the first round.

Performing two sold-out shows last weekend — March 19 at Detroit's Masonic Temple and March 20 at Ann Arbor's Crisler Arena — Pearl Jam reinforced their status as one of the top-selling acts in rock. Stripped-down stages adorned with only with a few toys and burning candles didn't hinder the show a bit.

Tormented reluctant superstar/lead singer Eddie Vedder growled through 2½ hours of hits — and a cover of Neil Young's "Keep on Rockin' in the Free World" — in near perfection. (Like the 1992 Lollapalooza Festival, "Jeremy" was left off the set list.)

Unlike the Crisler Arena show, Vedder strapped on a guitar for most of Pearl Jam's Masonic set, complementing guitarists Gossard and McCready. In Ann Arbor and Detroit, bassist Ament traded his bass for a slim stand-up model during "Glorified G" and "Daughter" off their latest self-titled album.

Shortly after taking the Masonic Temple stage, Vedder mumbled what so far has to be the understatement of the year: "We're going to be here for awhile. We're going to play some songs. No big deal."

Proving that bands and audiences feed off each other's energy, the Masonic Temple crowd stayed primarily subdued due to a subtle request by Vedder and the abundance of security and police officers. The singer, unkemptly dressed in a dark T-shirt and jeans, stomped in small circles. He released some energy during "Leash," walking along the edges of boxes lining the stage, and swinging back and forth over the audience from rope ladders hanging from the lights.

At the end of the show, Vedder downplayed his role as teen idol, tossing cigarettes into the audience. Toasting the crowd, he advised them to enjoy their youth, let the past be the past, and look forward to the future.

Energy was no problem at the Crisler Arena show. Sweaty fans crammed up against the stage barricade and began body surfing long before Vedder slowly approached the front of the stage, head down, smearing black cream around his eyes. Once he was finished he led the band into a rendition of "Jeremy." The stage looked like an elevated slam pit with Vedder, leading the group, thrashing around the stage and dragging his microphone stand along with him.

Even Vedder seemed somewhat surprised by the energy of the Crisler Arena crowd. He offered an explanation: "The other night we had a bomb scare. Last night some crazy people snuck backstage. Then tonight I heard a few people escaped from (a mental institution), and you can tell who they are by their yellow bracelets."

The main floor crowd, given yellow bracelets to wear, wasn't insulted the least bit.

Although the Ann Arbor show was plagued by unsecure parking and overwhelmed, poorly marked ushers, most fans weren't fazed. As the band tore through "Why Go Home" from their debut album "Ten," fans seemed to take the chorus to heart. Leaving early wasn't on their mind.

Us3: Hip-hop and all that jazz

■ If you listen closely, you'll again hear the jazz musings of Reuben Wilson, Big John Patton and Art Blakey on "Hand on the Torch." Such samples are turning up in Us3's new release.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

While Us3 producers Geoff Wilkinson and Mel Simpson were recording their debut "Hand on the Torch," they never thought about bringing their blend of jazz and hip-hop to the stage. But when their first live show turned into a near riot, they thought well, maybe there was a demand for it. "It was like one of the Beatles' gigs in the '60s," said Wilkinson via telephone from England about his mid-1993 show in Japan. "They actually pulled the (original) trumpet player (Gerard Presencer) off the stage. He was used to playing jazz in England, and he goes all the way to Japan and got pulled off the stage by screaming Japanese women."

"We started thinking that there could actually be a demand to do it live."

For that show, the band took six musicians with them. Since then the revolving band, which stopped at Detroit's Fox Theatre on Saturday, March 12, with UB40, has expanded to nine pieces. (Wilkinson and Simpson are the only two permanent members.) The musical force, which averages age 24, uses a few recordings (samples) at live shows, but mainly the work of saxophonists Tony Coltrane and Ed Jones, trumpeter Dominick Glover, bassist Geoffrey Gascoyne, drummer Cheryl Alleyne, keyboardist Timothy Vine, and rappers Rahsaan Kelly, Kobie Powell and Tukka Yoot. Although their stripped-down show in Japan was successful, Wilkinson and Simpson decided they owed it to the audience to play most of the pieces live.

"We thought the audience deserved it, really. Jazz is a music that has to be experienced live, I think. We wanted to make it completely live in order to do justice to the music and not cheat people," Wilkinson said.

While researching what other jazz/hip-hop bands were doing, they discovered that the shows lacked improvisation, which links the two music genres. Using samples was stale, Wilkinson said. Improvisation is what stirs up excitement.

"Would an audience rather see the two guys that produced the album on stage, or would they rather see really hot soloists? I know which one I'd choose," he said.

Education is key

When the Wilkinson and Simpson created Us3, their original intent was to educate the public on the merits of jazz. As its tool, the band uses samples from the Blue Note Records' archives whose rights were awarded to them after they sampled pieces without permission. The duo's first student was the Jamaican-born rapper Tukka Yoot, a current member of the lineup who they discovered in a studio.

"Tukka is kind of a great example of how I think we've got people into jazz, really. I've seen him buying John Coltrane CDs. I know he wouldn't have done that before. He would have bought his reggae records. We've managed to open his ears to jazz," Wilkinson said.

After his show at the Fox Theatre, Yoot said his discovery of jazz has brought his career full circle.

"I felt when I heard it that I had been missing something," Yoot said patting his face with a towel. "Now I listen to it all the time when I'm home. Educate is what the Us3 project set out to do. It worked. It rebounded onto me. I'm sure if I was convinced, we could convince others."

Us3, whose lyrics are written by Yoot and fellow rappers Rahsaan Kelly and Kobie Powell, educates subtly. There is no preaching.

"Educate" is a horrible word when you involve it with music. We just kind of wanted to open the door and if people wanted to come through that door, it was there for them. I believe that young people have a real problem having access to jazz," Wilkinson said.

Radio and record company marketing specialists gear jazz toward an older audience, which alienates younger people, he said. Apparently, young people are paying attention to Us3. The video for the first single "Cantaloup (Flip Fantasia)" — sometimes affectionately known as the "bitty bitty bop" song — was included in MTV's trendy "Buzz Bin." Aside from that it has become a dance club hit. Many Us3 fans are unaware that they're learning something by Herbie Hancock other than "Rockit." The track uses excerpts from the musician's song "Cantaloupe Island."

"They don't know they're actually dancing to Herbie Hancock. We get sort of a perverse delight out of that as well. It's a bit subversive," he said with a laugh.

A fine sample

"Hand on the Torch," which refers to the passing on of the jazz tradition, surprisingly is the only Blue Note album that has sold more than 500,000 copies. The legendary blues label's archives has included works by Reuben Wilson, Lou Donaldson, Big John Patton, Art Blakey & the Jazz Messengers, Thelonious Monk, Grant Green, Bobby Hutcherson, Horace Silver and Donald Byrd, all of whom are sampled on the record.

"At first I thought that was amazing, but then I thought 'It's a real shame,'" said Jones, who met Wilkinson at a "Jazz Rap Weekend" in England. "It's a real tragedy" that legendary artists haven't achieved that status, he added.

For rapper Yoot, it was a "dream come true." He sees it as repaying his idols for influencing him.

In return, jazz purists have lauded the group's effort.

"We anticipated probably a lot more criticism from the jazz purists. In Japan the jazz purists seem to accept it straight away. Like in Japan, they think really seriously about jazz and they really took us to heart, which was phenomenal. I think even the purists that might not like what we're doing accept it. One of the things were trying to do is get younger people into jazz. Everyone understands that and accepts that."

Some have vehemently opposed what the duo is doing, however. "The one thing that we have been accused of is tearing pages out of the (jazz) Bible. But our 'stock in trade' answer to that is if we're tearing pages out of the Bible, then we're sanctioned by God."

Spontaneity counts for Howling Diablos

BY MARK E. GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

The Howling Diablos may not be who you think they are. In fact, they're hoping not. The element of surprise is one of the big components of their enormous local popularity.

Depending on what night of the week you see them, the time of night you walk in, where it's at and who's sitting in with the core group that night, you're as likely to see one of the most amazing blues bands in town as you are a screaming rock'n'roll or envelope-pushing free jazz band. Although they may begin the night with a straight-ahead Detroit blues groove, they'll just as likely end with the Johnny Evans affectionately calls a "nut out."

"Our shows are always real spontaneous," said founder and saxophonist Evans, "to the point where we'll play tunes and the band doesn't even know them. If you create that kind of space where magic and cool stuff can happen, a lot of time it will."

Evans and co-founder Martin Gross, both longtime local music veterans, have been working together for more than a decade, and the chemistry is almost tangible. Singer/songwriter/guitarist Gross is a veteran of the Progressive Blues Band, the Bop Cats, the Urbations and Little Tino and the Hawaiians, who had the hottest single in Detroit in 1984 with "Crazy 'Bout Those Tigers."

Capra meets the Coens in Proxy'

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

It's New Year's Eve. Snow drifts by a troubled man perched atop a skyscraper ledge 44 floors high — not counting the mezzanine. How he got there and whether or not he'll jump was a familiar springboard for old Frank Capra movies like "Meet John Doe" or the ubiquitous "It's a Wonderful Life."

Mr. Capra, meet the Coens. Brothers Joel and Ethan, the writer/director team of "Barton Fink" and "Raising Arizona," have breathed new life into the shop-worn premise of "The Hudsucker Proxy," a fictionalized account of the inventor of the Hula Hoop and a visually dazzling tribute to fast-paced comedies of the 1930s.

Tim Robbins plays Norville Barnes, a recent graduate of the Muncie Business School, who lands a job in the mail room of Hudsucker Industries circa 1958. With the death of the company president and controlling interest up for public sale, Hud honchos want a new leader who can bring stock down, so it can be purchased for pennies.

In short, they want an imbecile, and they think they've found one in Barnes. After all, the earnest Midwesterner walks around with sketches of his new product idea, basically a circle drawn in the middle of a sheet of paper. "You know," he says, shocked that no one else recognizes its brilliance, "for kids."

You know the rest of the story. That invention, the Hula Hoop, becomes a Baby Boomer phenomenon, catapults Barnes and Hudsucker to the top, and leaves Board Chairman Sidney J. Mussberger (Paul Newman) fuming, intent on breaking the young prodigy he personally advanced.

Enter Amy Archer (Jennifer Jason Leigh), a Pulitzer Prize-winning newspaper gal who becomes Barnes' secretary to get the inside scoop.

The Coens, along with "Evil Dead" director and former Detroit Sam Raimi, have scripted a clever little piece of nostalgia, full of wisecracks and overlapping dialogue. And while the emotion of the story gets overpowered by set design and crazy camera angles, it easily ranks as the year's niftiest picture.

In one of the movie's several well-edited sequences, a lone Hula Hoop rolls from an alley down the street and into the path of a little boy. Viewed from above, the shot recalls the apes eyeing that mystical monolith at the opening of "2001: A Space Odyssey."

MOVIES

At this exact moment, an elementary school has let out for the afternoon. As the boy picks the toy up and starts to swivel and shake, a pack of screaming school kids round the street corner and stare in amazement at what they see. The Hula Hoop, formerly a bust, officially becomes a craze.

For his part, Robbins plays the role with congeniality and "gee whiz" American enthusiasm. It's a pleasure to see him doing slapstick with Paul Newman, who too rarely gets a chance to let his silver hair down.

Blink and you'll miss cameos by character actors Peter Gallagher (as a slick Italian crooner) and Steve Buscemi (as a beatnik coffeehouse server). We could stand to see more of them, along with Bruce Campbell, another former Detroit and star of TV's "Brisco County," as Smitty, the newspaperman.

As gum-snapping newswoman Archer, Jason Leigh does a dead-on impersonation of Jean Arthur and Rosalind Russell. She's about 20 years out of time, but it hardly matters to the Coen brothers, whose movies read like pages of a 20th century history book, thrown up in the air and then hastily reassembled.

Dennis Gassner's set design is a knockout, especially the Decora skyscraper that houses Hudsucker. The mail room, inspired no doubt by "Metropolis" and "Brazil," is a nightmare of cables, tubes and feverishly working drones. The top-floor board room, meanwhile, is an exercise in monumental sparseness — only the heavy-lacquered board table and a ticker tape machine backed by the city in silhouette.

Some may see "The Hudsucker Proxy" as a one-joke movie, and indeed it does lose momentum after a while. It's the invention that the Coens bring to virtually every shot that keeps you twisting to this engagingly oddball comedy.

If you have a comment for John Monaghan, call him at 953-2047, mailbox 1866, on a Touch-Tone phone, or write to him care of Street Scene, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

Evans was on that Teenage Records 45, too, as well as putting in frontline time with the Urbanations, who were managed by former MC5 manager, politico and impresario John Sinclair. It was Sinclair who, inadvertently, was responsible for the formation of the Howling Diablos.

"The first gig the band ever played was at the Michigan Gallery," Gross remembered.

"The first gig was a Gary Grimshaw art opening," Evans interjected. "He and I used to do this thing with John Sinclair called the Blues Scholars. He played drums, I played saxophone, and Sinclair would read his poetry. We were supposed to do that at the Michigan Gallery, and Sinclair had gone off somewhere, and Gary called up and said 'Why don't you and Martin put a band together for the opening?'"

Gross is quick to pay allegiance to the local poetry scene, as well, calling Mick Vranich and Wordband a particular favorite act.

"The band kinda grew out of more the poetry scene which, to me, is where the Howling thing came from, like Ginsberg's 'Howl,'" he said. "I never wanted it to sound like a rockabilly band or anything else. Some people do draw those conclusions."

Rockabilly they most decidedly are not. Muddy Waters and Archie Shepp influences abound, and there are hints of stylistic predecessors like the MC5 and the Contemporary Jazz Quintet and peers like Was (Not Was), Fishbone and whatever else the band absorbs. Bassist Mike Hollis and drummer Vin Eg (whose other band Sponge was just signed by Sony) make up the core of the band. However, the surprises always lay in which of their turntable selection of guitarists is on a sessions — Michael King, Bobby East of Killing Floor, Tim Diaz of Red C, or Jeff Grand of the Butler Twins blues band.

"It's not the easiest way to go for making money in the music business," said Gross of the band's diversity.

"We've never tried to think of a hit, or thought of what we can do to be famous. It's always just being real truthful with this music and having faith in that. That's why we do it."

The Howling Diablos play Siera Station, 15110 Mack, Grosse Pointe Park, Saturday, April 23. Call (313) 822-1270 for more information. They will also perform at the Q Club, 29 S. Saginaw, Pontiac, Saturday, May 14. Call (810) 334-7411 for more information.

'Kalifornia:' A close call with crime

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

When faced with true, soulless evil, how would your average bleeding-heart intellectual respond? Would a close encounter with an utterly remorseless killer cause a change in the attitude that criminals need treatment, not incarceration and punishment?

On some levels that's the question posed by the 1993 film "Kalifornia" in which a writer and his girlfriend take along a killer and his girlfriend on a cross country drive. The writer, having spent his advance, needs help with expenses as he and his girlfriend, a photographer, visit the scenes of murders committed by serial killers.

David Duchovny and Michelle Forbes play the trendy leather jacket-clad pair who maybe aren't as sophisticated and worldly as they might like to think. Duchovny's character in particular is fascinated and attracted by the sordid and twisted tales of mass murderers.

"You can't let stereotypes get in the way," he says after meeting their new travel companions.

There is a jarring contrast with the other couple, played as white trash personified by Brad Pitt and Juliette Lewis in the most memorable performances in the film. Pitt's greasy-haired and unkempt Early Grayce murders without a minute of remorse then makes a gift of a dead girl's shoes to the rather dimwitted Adele.

Early and Adele live in a rundown trailer, certainly not a mobile home, in the middle of what appears to be a junkyard. Early, who is already on parole, can't hold a job, telling his parole officer that they didn't treat him right.

Faced with jail, Early decides it's time for him to relocate with Adele. He tells Adele people think quicker in California because of the heat and by law each month's rent is free.

Duchovny's Brian is the smug sort who sees himself as superior to the harmless but primitive Early. In the end, the writer doesn't have a clue to who he is really dealing with in Early.

Forbes' photographer warms up to the hapless Adele and tries to help her. It's her suspicions of Early that spark the upclose violence that was surely inevitable anyway.

In one scene, the violent Early perfectly mocks the writer's amateur psychologist questions about how he feels when assaulting someone. The two even do a little shooting together.

Lewis' Adele, barely surviving on her meager wits and self-delusions, is the truly tragic figure of the quartet.

One of the things you might question about "Kalifornia" is whether the writer learned anything from his brush with terror. By the end of the journey that's not totally clear.

"Kalifornia" is available on tape at local video stores. If you have a question or comment, call LeAnne Rogers at (313) 953-2103 or write her at The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

LINDA BACHRACK

Getting "pinned" is a fashion must

Historically, rites of passage have been commemorated with an appropriate pin. If you stop to ponder the decorative pin, you'll recall that your dad received a pin upon retirement or for 25 years' service to his company. You may have gotten pinned by your college boyfriend, a prelude to an engagement ring. That cherished pin was his fraternity insignia and probably still sits in the bottom of the jewelry box.

Jewelry designer Leslie Ann Pilling owns Presence II, 29260 Franklin Road in Southfield. She reminded me of an even-loftier purpose given the pin. In the military, pins are used as symbols of rank and seniority. As campaign buttons they become political, used throughout history to reflect personal ideals and opinions.

Your mother may have positioned her fancy brooch just so on a suit lapel, or maybe she threw her cashmere sweater over her shoulder, securing it with a pearl sweater guard.

Those same bejeweled pins are back, but the styles and presentations have changed. The "guard" might be arranged asymmetrically on a blazer pocket or worn like an epaulet on the shoulder of a jean jacket ($60). Today, pins are everywhere. Pilling designs pin enhancers for pearls, hat pins to group on an oversized sweater, ($40) and pins attached to long necklaces that drape across the body ($198).

Many women collect scatter pins to cluster on a collar or coat, tiny hugs or frogs or butterflies. "Pins are even used as home accessories," says Pilling, pointing to a large gold mesh bow that forms a curtain tie-back.

Pin point plans

"Pins are a focal point. A woman takes the time to select them and put them on as an essential design element." She suggests displaying a pin collection on a beautiful pillow in the bedroom.

Rhapsody in Beads is a medley of original beaded compositions by Beth Stone of West Bloomfield and her mother Ina Katz of Southfield. The two have designed and exhibited their beaded pins for the past few years and find that their customers appreciate their one-of-a-kind creations and enjoy collecting them. While Ina's designs are more uniform in color and involve a focal point vintage bead, Beth's creations are more contemporary and sculptural. See their striking pins at Objects of Art, 6243 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield.

Pin reminders

As in the case of campaign buttons that communicate a political preference, charities often offer pins to communicate a concern for a cause.

Two Hands Inc. encourages disabled, disadvantaged and seriously ill children to create designs for enameled pins that include pineapples, giraffes, ice cream cones and kites ($12.50-$16). The Alliance for Homeless and Disabled Artists employs homeless people to craft sparkling pins of recycled Mardi Gras gowns and costumes ($18-$38). Examples of these pins look terrific grouped on the brim of a baseball cap. They're available at select Hudson's stores.

More perfect pins include Tiffany's "Fireworks" burst with the radiant colors of pink rubelite, violet tanzanite and sparkling diamonds. This spectacular pin collection explodes in showers of cascading gemstones ($18,000-$35,000) at Tiffany & Co. in the Somerset Collection in Troy. The "Race For the Cure" pin by Carolee depicts the figure of a female runner with a pink-enameled ribbon accent ($25). The pin is available exclusively at Neiman Marcus and proceeds benefit the Susan G. Komen Foundation for breast cancer research.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Malls & Mainstreets next week:

- A new feature: Customers nominate their favorite salespeople for service that is "More Than You Bargained For."
- Bachrack shops for the latest swimwear styles.

Make-up artistry

Trish McAvoy cosmetics keep it simple

Trish McAvoy's cosmetics line debuted at Jacobson's with the make-up artist herself demonstrating shortcuts to beauty. She shared some tips with customers at the Laurel Park Place store last week.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

Trish McAvoy, 43, is in town this week launching her neutrals-only palette at Jacobson's — in the Laurel Park Place store in Livonia and the Briarwood store in Ann Arbor.

After more than 20 years as one of New York's top makeup artists, creating the faces that filled Vogue and Harper's Bazaar, McAvoy produced her own line of cosmetics in 1975.

Until last year, she sold the products only to clients who visited her Central Park studio. Last year, she offered the line to Bendel's Department Stores, with an instant success she hopes to duplicate at select Jacobson's this year.

Radiating the warmth that is also the trademark look of her cosmetics, McAvoy said makeup should be applied in a "fun frame of mind."

"The women who come to the McAvoy counter are the 16-year-old dressed in combat boots and 53-year-old dressed in a Chanel outfit with combat boots," she said with a wide smile. "I would use words like 'natural,' 'classic,' 'simple,' to describe my makeup philosophy."

McAvoy said she originally created the line for professional makeup artists and models. It differs from other cosmetics because the pigment is richer and there's a variety of yellow-based products, which McAvoy believes are more natural and attractive on most faces.

To illustrate her point, she wiped the green eyeshadow and orange lipstick off the face of good-humored Anita Durham of Farmington Hills. Within 10 minutes, Durham's repowdered and blended visage was the envy of onlookers.

"Gee," Durham said, seeming not to miss all the color. "This makeup feels so light and looks so natural."

"I just enhanced your own good looks," McAvoy reassured. "That's what it's all about."

A second feature of McAvoy's line is the natural animal hair brushes, which are in demand by anyone who knows makeup application. The brushes are a one-time purchase guaranteed to last for years.

McAvoy's line is priced $15-$63. The shades are advertised as "trans-generational and trans-racial."

When a customer leaves a McAvoy counter, it is only after she has repeated on one side of her face, what the professionals have showed them on the other side. Customers also take home a personalized, shaded face chart to use as a guide for applying McAvoy's products themselves.

All proceeds from the sale of McAvoy's Lashbuilder go to benefit

Toontown at Plymouth Animation Station

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

What's up, doc? Bugs Bunny, the quintessential smart aleck, has arrived in downtown Plymouth. Bugs brought with him Popeye, Goofy, Ren and Stimpy, too. Cartoon lovers couldn't be happier.

The new Animation Station, at 550 Forest Ave., cut the ribbon on a gallery that boasts a large selection of vintage Disney cels and drawings, as well as art from Warner Brothers, Nickelodeon and other major animation studios.

Owners Vern Mitchell and Charles Eveleth left a holiday kiosk at the Livonia Mall to house their production cels, limited-edition cels, lithographs and other merchandise under a larger roof.

Plymouth's Downtown Development Authority is thrilled that the men chose Plymouth.

"With the addition of the Animation Station, we continue to improve our central business core," said Steve Guile, DDA director. "The Animation Station is a unique destination store that will attract shoppers from beyond the city itself."

According to Eveleth, animation art is hot on the East and West coasts and in Florida. "But it's catching on in the Midwest," he added. "If you love cartoons, you're apt to be a collector. Anyone with a Mickey Mouse hanging from their key chain is a collector, whether they realize it or not."

The merchandise at the Animation Station ranges between $50 and $5,000. In addition to selling cartoon works of art, the shop is a full-service gallery offering framing, cel repair and custom backgrounds for cels. It also houses stuffed cartoon celebrities, posters, mugs and other unusual toys.

"Buying a cartoon cel is like buying a piece of your childhood," Eveleth said. "And it's guaranteed to make you smile every time you look at it."

Mitchell wants customers to know that if the Animation Station doesn't have what you're looking for, it'll be able to tell you where to find it. Plans call for guest appearances by famous animators to the gallery to coincide with special events in downtown Plymouth.

The Animation Station is open Monday-Saturday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday noon to 5 p.m.

For more information call the store at (313) 455-0190.

POINTS OF VIEW

Whitewater a side issue when it comes to winter

You know it's been a long winter when the term "Whitewater" makes you envision a trout stream instead of the two condos, really double-wide trailers, in the Ozarks that Bill and Hillary Clinton lost money on.

Like most of my neighbors in Livonia, I found the layers of snow, ice and frigid temperatures were more of a subject of interest than hearing about how Clinton lost money on a land deal.

The winter was so long that there are four new neighbors that I didn't even see move in, several new babies and probably others on the way. My wife wants me to check the birth rates next September. She contends the long winter will produce a mini-baby boom.

Perhaps she's right. For me, a Jimmy Buffett song about cabin fever got me through the winter. The line I liked best was about shooting six holes in the refrigerator. I listened to it as I stared out at my frozen back yard while drinking Jack Daniel's.

As February and then March dragged on, the weathermen kept telling us that this really wasn't such a bad winter. It was closer to normal than have been the last few.

If that's true, and next year if we have a rerun, I've made a list of things to do to pass the time. Here it is:

- Learn the names of the Livonia School Board members and write letters to them complaining that kids should be kept in school from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the winter so they won't be in the house bothering their parents.
- Read my tax bills and figure out if

JEFF COUNTS

I'm really receiving my fair share of city services for the money I pay.

- Devise a way to sneak an empty paint can into the trash so I won't have to hold on to it for life.

- Follow the instructions on my hot water heater and drain it every week so the rust doesn't gather at the bottom. That way the thing will last 10 years longer.

- Read all the warranties on the various things I own and act accordingly.

- Learn to program my VCR, or at the very least, learn how to set the clock so it isn't blinking.

- Learn how to run the washing machine and turn on the dryer. This would be a step toward domestic peace.

- Clean, arrange and pack my fishing gear so that when trout season starts I can get out of the house quickly without searching for my waders.

- Buy tickets to the Fisher. Showing you have culture is more than knowing the difference between canned beer and bottled beer.

- Read "War and Peace" before the dust that has been gathering on it since my college days is more than an inch thick.

I plan to keep adding to my list for the next few weeks of what we miserable slobs in suburban Detroit optimistically call spring, but is really winter. And if past practice holds true it will probably end up gathering dust next to "War and Peace" come next winter, and out will come my Jimmy Buffett tape.

Parents need to be kept informed of child's performance

QUESTION: Overall our school district and its programs are excellent. But I have a complaint. Why is it some teachers don't inform parents early in the school year when their child isn't doing what he is supposed to be doing? Our 10th grade son failed a class the first marking period of the school year and we didn't find out until we received his report card. We called the school but the teacher didn't return the call. We are not blaming the school for his lack of effort. But aren't there any phones in the school? This is not right!

ANSWER: I agree! Parents have a legitimate right to be kept informed and notified immediately if there is any sudden or unusual change in school performance or behavior by their child.

As a first-year teacher of science and math in the Grosse Ile School District, a community with many professional people, I learned that lesson fast. I was having the typical first-year teacher problems; that is, kids working on your head to see if you are for real. And, as a result, some students were not performing as well as their potential and past performance would indicate. It was my fault as much as their fault.

Nevertheless, my first six-week report cards went home with some solid B students getting C(s), some "A" students getting B(s), C students getting D(s) and a few students failed for lack of effort and for disrupting the class.

I was blown away at my first parent-teacher conference trying to justify how I could lower a student grade because of poor classroom behavior. Parents, rightly so, pointed out that the class performance and behavior were separate issues.

Most of these parents were kind and reasonable; a few saw an opportunity to create a scapegoat for their own lack of control over their child. But all clearly indicated to me they wanted to be informed in a timely fashion . . . not after the fact. These parents were right. I was dead wrong. And devastated! But not stupid.

The solution that came to me was so simple. A written progress report; not used much back in the late 60s. A report that would go out after the first three weeks of the school year or anytime a parent needed to be notified of a child's performance.

The standard form I developed was very simple, very objective, saying:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Jones:
You should be aware that your son John:

(1) Has not been turning in homework

(2) Failed the last test (and other items).

One or both would be checked. The parent response was most positive.

But oh . . . those little devils. Some kids soon caught on and intercepted any letter to their parents in a school envelope to see if it was from Doyle. So, re-grouping, I sent the letter out in a plain envelope. But they recognized my handwriting. So typing the name and address of the parents became a necessity. But then they checked all letters with no return address . . . and some kids were "steaming" letters open. What creativity!

I got nicknames like the Mailman (and others that I won't mention). Being tenacious, letters were sent to the office where the father or mother worked, and then the victory was mine.

But something was lacking. My focus was totally on negative aspects. So I decided to "accentuate the positive."

Another form letter was developed as a follow-up. This form letter said something like: "I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how much your daughter has improved in my class. Her homework, attention to task, test scores, behavior, attitude (whatever) has greatly improved and it is a pleasure to have her in my class."

The feedback from parents was amazing. People want teachers and building administrators to be open and caring; caring about their child.

And the teacher not returning a phone call is inexcusable. If teacher contracts in Michigan weren't so powerful, that teacher should be suspended without pay for a reasonable amount of time. But please, first call back and check to see if a student aide took the message and dropped the ball. Principals and building secretaries I know simply do not let this happen.

One of the worst scenarios I ever experienced was as the new assistant superintendent in a quality Michigan school district. It was an October parent-teacher conference in the high school gymnasium. I shook the hand of a supportive parent. He and his wife sat down in front of the teacher. The parent asked, "How is my kid doing?" The teacher said, "He failed this first marking period. You will be getting the report card tomorrow."

Totally insane! Parents have a right to know and a progress report should be standard operating procedure. Hey, even my gas station tells me when I'm low on oil . . . before the engine is blown away.

Alcohol-free club — hooray

The announcement that the University of Michigan is to build a nightclub for alcohol-free partying is welcome news. If I had my "druthers," it would become mandatory curricula for all high schools and universities. Not many of today's young adults have had the advantage of the learning experience of the '20s and '30s prohibition era.

Flint then had more horse-drawn vehicles than horseless carriages. For some, it became a weekly family ritual to travel the dirt roads to Frankenthum, a small German farming community, yet to become famous nationally for its cooking. During brief visits, family members enjoyed "all you can eat" fifty-cent chicken dinners and children gained the experience of drinking one glass of "near" beer, today's non-alcoholic beer, in the Fischer's hotel dining room. Parents considered both a part of a learning experience. Later on, as young adults, most of those same children would survive the second phase of that educational experience.

Having an inquiring mind, like most young people do, the second phase of learning about social drinking, was hard to swallow. Much to their chagrin, and after becoming deathly sick a few times, they learned that the occasional social drink is not what can kill a person. It is what is added to that drink that makes it potent.

Most would also learn that abstinence and moderation are conducive to a more happy, successful and enduring lifestyle. The alcohol-free nightclub is a laudable approach for improving the educational process. It will eliminate many traumatic head and heart aches of future generations.

When you have a baby it should be a wonderfully close time for you and your family. That's why the Miracle of Life Maternity Center at St. Mary Hospital has you at the center of its visiting policy.

WHY A LOT OF BABIES SEEM LIKE DISTANT RELATIVES

Instead of asking you to conform to limited visiting times or placing barriers between family members, at St. Mary you decide who can visit and when.

All private rooms

We believe you know best when you want visitors and when you need time alone with your baby. That's why all the maternity rooms at St. Mary are private. So a family member can even stay overnight if that's what you want.

Real family care

Your baby can stay in your room even when family members are visiting. We accept your definition of family. Grandparents. Children. Aunts and uncles.

Your best friend. If you call them family, so do we. It's that simple.

Our physicians even examine babies at your bedside so you and your family can watch and ask questions. So if you want real family-centered care, call St. Mary Hospital. Call 313-591-2882 for a free brochure, personal tour, or a physician referral.

Local commissioners want officials' names off signs

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Commissioner Michelle Plawecki objects to signs throughout the county announcing "A better road is on the way" because county Executive Edward McNamara's name is on each sign.

"I've had people calling me up asking why his name is on those signs," said Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, whose district includes most of Redford Township.

It bugs Plawecki that signs at county maintenance yards have McNamara's name on them, but not the name of the local commissioner.

"The commissioner's name should be on the sign, she said, because people need to know who to complain to.

"Ed McNamara is not the one who takes constituent complaints," she said.

As a result of Plawecki's protest, a proposed ordinance has emerged from the commission's committee on roads, airports and public services.

Sponsored by commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, and Ricardo Solomon, D-Detroit, the ordinance would prohibit "the erection of signs which bear the names of elected officials," calling that practice "tantamount to the expenditure of public funds for the purpose of political campaigning."

The commission is expected to discuss the proposed ordinance

Tuesday, March 29, and vote on it as early as Thursday, April 7.

Plawecki is unhappy with the ordinance as currently written. She wants it to say that, if the county executive's name is on a sign, then the relevant county commissioner's name has to be on the sign, too.

Amann, who also represents Canton Township, said Friday he believes Plawecki doesn't have enough support for that.

"As far as I'm concerned, I don't want to see any of our names on signs," Amann said.

McCotter, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, has said he doesn't want his name on county signs.

McNamara did not return the Observer's phone calls by press time.

Draft says 'any person' can paint

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Although it likely will be altered if it becomes law, the initial draft of the Wayne County Commission's proposed sign ordinance permits "any person" to cover McNamara's name with spray paint on any sign in the county.

Section III of the ordinance, in part, reads, "Any person shall, however, have the right to enter upon county property or right-of-way at any reasonable time for the limited purpose of removing, erasing, or painting over the name of any elected officer which may appear upon a sign, vehicle, or equipment, provided that this work is done in a safe, neat and unobtrusive manner without defacing the remainder of the sign, equipment or vehicle."

When that portion of the proposed ordinance was read to Amann, he said, "That's crazy. Someone doesn't know what they're doing."

Amann predicted an early demise for that sentence.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Master the technique of eating artichokes

I think it was Julia Child who said - "The artichoke is the only vegetable that, when you finish eating it, you have more on your plate than when you started." We never ate anything as elusive as an artichoke in Wyandotte not because it wasn't available, but because the only vegetable we ate was corn.

I can to this day, recall the first time I ever encountered an artichoke. I was just a lad fresh out of high school, and was interviewing for a cook's job at the Top of the Flame, at that time a gourmet eatery on the top floor of what used to be the Michcon Gas building at the foot of Woodward downtown. Fortunately, I was accompanied by my neighbor's mother who was one of those gracious elevator operators that have gone the way of 10 cent ice cream cones.

Twila was her name and fine dining was her game. She acquainted the taste buds of this little ole boy from Downriver to the taste of life in the big city. I don't think I liked the taste of my first artichoke, especially when I found myself putting more effort into eating it than anything else. It was but a week later that I discovered the tasty thistle steamed and marinated at a little cozy bistro dubbed the Kickapoo on Grosse Isle. I have been a faithful admirer ever since.

Amongst it's other devotees, the artichoke is regarded as a thing of epicurean elegance and delight. It first came into prominence as a food-stuff in 16th century Italy. It has gone on to win acceptance as a delicacy by many of the cognoscenti of the Western world, but is curiously left unknown or disdained among people's everywhere. My guess is that in addition to its velvety and buttery taste, it is indeed just a plain edible thistle with thorns.

Eating tips

An artichoke is by far the only vegetable I can recall that is so demanding to eat. There are three phases to enjoying an artichoke. The first is the most fun and requires the fingers. This stage consists of dismantling, one by one, the artichoke's outer layer of petals also known as bracts and dipping their fleshy lower tips into melted butter or a sauce. The petals are placed between the teeth and then gently pulled, extracting fleshy tidbits from their flowery base. There are some 40 odd petals so pluck, dip and nibble from a basic artichoke.

Phase two is the most exacting and requires the dexterity of a surgeon. Once the petals are enjoyed, the diner must coordinate the fingers and a knife in unison to extract and dispose of the inedible center, usually referred to as the choke. Unskilled laborers will leave fragments of the choke and yes, to consume the choke will, for a lack of better terms, "choke" you.

This done, phase three simply requires the diner to cut the remaining artichoke heart into bite-sized morsels, again to be enjoyed with a sauce or butter.

An unadorned artichoke is one of the least fattening foods on earth, averaging a mere 25 calories. This virtue, however, diminishes when the vegetable is accompanied by artery clogging butter, mayonnaise and hollandaise sauce.

Cooking methods

One of the best ways to enjoy an artichoke is to steam it. Ah, but that technique too deserves some special remarks. To first prepare an artichoke, the cook, to avoid any possible injury of the diner, should snip off the thorny tips of the artichoke petals. Best done with kitchen scissors, the artichoke will then have to be placed in an acidulated bath to keep from turning brown - (an acidulated bath is 1 quart of water mixed with 1/2 cup lemon juice).

Next, the long rubbery stem must be chopped off as close to the base as possible to facilitate standing. Yours truly prefers to remove about a dozen or so of the petals surrounding the base as these are usually tough and chewy, even after steaming.

Next, "X" marks the base with a sharp paring knife, about 1/4 inch deep to facilitate cooking and ensure a tender heart. At this point the artichoke can be steamed, covered for upwards of 30 minutes or boiled for about the same time. You can discern the doneness when a sharp paring knife is inserted into the base and easily pulls out.

Serve the artichoke immediately at this point, you can stuff the artichoke with a mixture of bread stuffing, eggs and/or meat.

"Having the same bread my family is having on Easter perpetuates the tradition," said Dr. Robert Majewski who grew up in Massachusetts. "We can't always be together, but can share the same bread."

Majewski, has lived in Livonia with his wife Judy and their sons, Mark, 11 and Matthew, 4 for the past four years. He learned how to bake the sweet citrus flavored raisin bread called babka from his mother when he was 10, and is passing the tradition on to his sons.

In addition to baking bread for family and friends, Majewski sends a loaf to his former instructor Dr. Chet Glomski in Buffalo, New York.

"When I was in dental school a friend of mine and I decided to bake Easter bread. We gave the extra loaf to Dr. Glomski. The first year I graduated from dental school I sent him one as a lark on Palm Sunday. He sent me a very nice thank you. I've sent him one every year. This is the 23rd year in a row," said Majewski a dentist at Mott Children's Health Center in Flint.

Since graduating from dental school, Majewski has finetuned his bread baking skills. His sons enjoy helping him.

On this particular day, Matthew is standing at the counter grating lemon peel, while his brother helps braid dough. Judy stands back watching. Baking bread is a father and son project.

Because of health concerns, Majewski reduced the amount of eggs in his mother's recipe, substituting two eggs, plus four egg whites for four whole eggs. The only noticeable difference is a lighter colored batter.

Southern cook cuts fat in 'down home' recipes

LAURA LETOBAR

Beth Mele of Livonia has a great recipe for those of you looking for an easy way to fill a lot of tummies. Mele moved to Livonia two years ago from Baton Rouge, La. As a clinical physicist at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, she is responsible for assisting physicians in administering radioactive implant therapy. Because her schedule sometimes keeps her at the hospital at all different hours, she likes to prepare recipes that are easy and provide leftovers for lunches and late dinners.

She is a wonderful cook but does not like to use all the fat most of the "down home" recipes require. Many Southern recipes call for a "roux." This is a flour and oil mixture that is used to thicken a stew or make gravy. Mele says it takes practice and patience to make a proper roux.

Start by melting the butter or oil in a pan. Add equal parts of flour, stirring continuously. The flour and oil will make a paste. As the paste cooks, it turns a rich brown color. If not watched carefully at this point, it will quickly burn, and then you have to start over.

Although it does thicken the recipe nicely, it will add a large amount of unnecessary fat to the recipe. Fortunately, Mele believes it is not necessary in most recipes.

In her makeover recipe, I eliminated the thigh meat because of its high fat content. By using only boneless, skinless chicken breasts, I reduced the total fat from the chicken from 115.6 grams of fat to 30 grams.

By eliminating the oil for the roux, 66 grams of fat was omitted. Substituting turkey sausage for andouille sausage saved 22 grams of fat. Andouille sausage is a spicy hot sausage that has a strong garlic flavor. Many southern cooks use it, especially in Cajun recipes.

After visiting New Orleans in October, I became addicted to Cajun food. There is nothing else like it. And, from what I am told, New Orleans has some of the best restaurants in the United States.

The only restaurant I really wanted to eat at was K. Paul's. It is owned by chef Paul Prudhomme. There is no way to describe how wonderful his food is. But it is very high in fat. Fortunately for all us Cajun lovers, he has published a new book called "Fork In The Road," (Morrow, New York 1993). These are favorite Cajun recipes with the fat reduced. If you do check out this book, I highly recommend trying two recipes — New Shrimp Remoulade and Shrimp Bascom. Both are absolutely incredible and fun to make.

For a complimentary issue of the "Laura's Fat Free Kitchen" newsletter, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to H.W. Publications, P.O. Box 9324, Livonia 48151-1324. # Bread from page 1B

To enhance the citrus flavor of the bread, Majewski uses pure orange oil. He uses golden raisins, because he prefers the flavor.

Like their father, Matthew and Mark are drawn to the physical part of making bread — cracking eggs, grating lemon and orange peel, and kneading the dough. "My participation is eating," said Judy.

"I like the kneading, the smells. It still amazes me everytime I watch the yeast grow," said Majewski, his sons nodding in agreement.

Majewski, like many other Polish Americans, still colors his Easter eggs in a natural dye made from yellow or red onion skins, or beet peelings.

One of his favorite childhood memories is an Easter game that involved tapping Easter eggs with his brothers and sisters. You and another person tap eggs, if your egg doesn't crack you're the winner. "The eggs dyed in onion skins were the strongest," he said.

Another Polish tradition is for the oldest person in the house to greet each guest with a wedge of blessed hard-cooked egg and wish him or her good health and happiness.

Wedges of hard boiled eggs are often eaten with a little bit of horseradish as a reminder of the bitter suffering of Jesus Christ.

On Saturday, Majewski and his family will pack bread and other Easter food into a basket to take to their church, St. Edith's in Livonia, to be blessed. Many suburban churches offer this service. Italian Americans also take Easter foods to church to be blessed.

To learn more about Polish Easter traditions attend the Swieconka Easter Luncheon Sunday, April 10 at the American Polish Cultural Center, 2975 E. Maple Road (15 Mile Road at Dequindre in Troy). Doors open 1 p.m., luncheon served 2 p.m. The cost is $18 adults, children five to 12, $9. Proceeds will benefit a newly established college scholarship fund. Call (810) 689-3636 for tickets.

Before the luncheon Polish folk artists, including Marcia Lewandowski who serves on the board of directors of the center, will demonstrate palm weaving, Easter egg decorating, paper cutting and other crafts. The luncheon menu includes traditional Polish Easter foods — ham, roast pork loin, roasted sausage, Polish potato vegetable salad, and beets with horseradish.

POLISH BABKA BREAD

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 2 packages yeast
- 6 to 7 cups flour (may need a little more)
- 4 eggs beaten (or use 2 eggs plus 4 egg whites)
- 1 tablespoon orange rind, grated
- 1 tablespoon lemon rind, grated
- 1 cup raisins (golden raisins are best)
- 1 tablespoon vanilla or amaretto

Dissolve 2 tablespoons sugar and yeast in the water, heated to 105 to 115 degrees F. Melt the butter and dissolve the remaining sugar in the scalded milk. Add one half of the flour to the milk, butter, sugar mixture and mix well. Beat the eggs, adding the salt and vanilla. Combine the milk and flour mixture, the eggs and the yeast. Mix well, adding the raisins and the orange and lemon rinds. Add remaining flour.

Knead dough for 5 to 10 minutes, adding flour to keep it from getting sticky. Let rise, until doubled in bulk. Punch down the dough.

Form into loaves — traditional form is a braid; one tube or bundt pan works well also.

Place dough into well-greased pans. Let rise again, until doubled in bulk. Bake in 350 degree F. oven for 45 minutes. After 15 to 20 minutes, check loaves; if the tops are browning too quickly, cover with aluminum foil. Also, brushing the loaves with melted butter adds a nice glaze. Yield two loaves, or one large bundt pan size. Recipe easily doubled.

Recipe submitted by Dr. Robert Majewski of Livonia.

POLISH EASTER BREAD

- 1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1/4 cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees)

- 2 teaspoons grated orange peel
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup lukewarm milk (scalded, then cooled)
- 1 cup golden raisins

Beat margarine and sugar in large bowl until blended. Beat in egg yolks until well blended. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Stir yeast mixture, orange peel, lemon peel, cinnamon and salt into margarine mixture. Stir in flour alternately with the milk, beating well after each addition, until soft dough forms. Stir in raisins. Cover, let rise in warm place until double, about 1 1/4 hours. Stir down dough; spoon into greased and floured tube pan 10 by 4 inches, or 12-cup bundt cake pan. Cover; let rise until double, about 1 hour.

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Bake until bread is golden brown, 35 to 40 minutes. Cool 5 minutes. Remove from pan; cool completely. Sprinkle with powdered sugar if desired. Yield 1 loaf.

Artichoke dip tasty, easy to prepare

See Larry Janes' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

ARTICHOKE

- 4 artichokes
- 1 lemon, halved
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil

Cut off and discard the stems of the artichokes with a stainless steel knife. Break off the tough outer leaves and cut off the top 1/4 of the artichoke.

Snip off the thorny tips of the artichoke leaves with scissors and rub the edges with half the cut lemon. Arrange the artichokes in one layer in a large saucepan and add enough water to come halfway up the sides of the artichokes. Drizzle the artichokes with the remaining lemon juice and the oil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Bring the liquid to a boil, covered, then reduce the pan to a good simmer and simmer the artichokes for 25-45 minutes or until base is tender.

If you've been to a party in the area, you've probably enjoyed this artichoke dish without even knowing what you were eating. It's an old favorite that bears repeating. It's not only tasty, but also easy to prepare.

HOT ARTICHOKE DIP

- 1 (15 ounce) can artichoke hearts, drained — (purchase artichoke hearts in water or brine, not pickled or marinated)
- 1 cup real mayonnaise
- 1 cup Parmesan cheese (preferably freshly grated)

Drain and rinse the artichoke hearts and chop fine. Place in a bowl with mayonnaise and Parmesan cheese. Mix well. Pour into a lightly greased baking dish and place under the broiler for 5-10 minutes or until golden brown. Serve with crackers, party bread or breadsticks.

Chef's Secret: Try this recipe with some cooked, crisp, crumbled bacon or stir in a finely grated small onion. It can also be baked at 375 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes, uncovered, or until golden. Make this dip with real mayonnaise as salad dressing with separate while cooking.

Substitutions cut fat in Italian dish

AP — Whipping cream, bacon, eggs and cheese load classic carbonara down with fat and cholesterol. But that doesn't mean you have to forgo this great-tasting Italian dish. With a few ingredient substitutions, you perform a delicious and healthy recipe makeover:

- Use evaporated skim milk in the sauce. It's a flavorful alternative for cream, has fewer calories and almost no fat.
- Trade bacons. Ounce for ounce, turkey bacon has half the fat of pork bacon.
- Oust the butter. The original recipe had 4 tablespoons of butter; the new one has none.
- Add peas, please. Lean peas and red sweet pepper flavor the carbonara sauce and add color.
- Cook the egg. Concerned about eating raw eggs? You cook the egg for this healthful carbonara sauce.
- Sprinkle lightly with Parmesan cheese. Just a little goes a long way.

2 slices turkey bacon, sliced crosswise into strips
 1 beaten egg
 1 cup evaporated skim milk
 1/2 cup frozen peas
 1/4 cup chopped red sweet pepper
 1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
 1/2 cup freshly shredded or grated Parmesan cheese (about 2 ounces)
 Ground black pepper

Cook linguine or spaghetti according to package directions.

Meanwhile, spray a medium saucepan with nonstick coating. Cook bacon in saucepan until crisp and light brown. Drain on paper towels. Wipe saucepan clean with a paper towel.

For sauce, in the same saucepan combine egg, milk, peas, sweet pepper and crushed red pepper. Cook and stir over medium heat just until the mixture coats a metal spoon (about 6 minutes). Do not boil. Stir in bacon and half of the Parmesan cheese. Heat through.

Immediately pour sauce over hot, cooked pasta; toss gently to coat. Transfer to a warm serving platter. Sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese and black pepper. Serve immediately. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

The Asian Accent line consists of 12 items which offer an array of sauces, pastes and coconut. The selections are priced from $2.50 to $3.85.

Here's a recipe to try.

ASIAN ACCENT CHICKEN AND PEANUTS

How to keep produce fresh

Here are some tips from the Michigan Department of Agriculture to keep in mind as you prepare fresh food for you or your family.

■ Many shoppers place fresh fruits and vegetables into plastic bags provided by grocery stores. These bags are a convenient way of protecting the produce while shopping or during the trip home. But fresh food should never be stored in closed, plastic bags because condensation that occurs may hasten ripening or cause the growth of mold.

■ Never place washed produce back into a bag that once held unwashed food; you don't want to contaminate clean food with micro-organisms.

■ Wash fruits and vegetables in cold water.

■ Some fruits and vegetables, like strawberries and mushrooms, have a high water content and should only be washed just prior to eating. Store these foods away from washed produce in the refrigerator.

■ If you have any questions about fruits and vegetables or food safety, call the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Food Division (313) 873-1060.

Lentils and rice, one pot meal

Protein plays an essential role in maintaining health, but many health experts are calling into question the amount of protein Americans normally eat. Since our meals typically focus on meat, poultry, eggs, cheese and other protein-rich foods, we often consume as much as twice the amount of protein we need each day. According to the American Institute for Cancer Research, the recommended daily allowance of protein is 50 grams for women ages 25-50, and 63 grams for men.

Studies have shown that countries where people eat large amounts of animal protein have a higher incidence of heart disease, diabetes and colon or breast cancer. However, although high-protein foods such as meat and dairy products are often high in fat — which is known to increase cancer risk — not enough is known about protein itself to rule it out as a potential cancer risk factor.

Until further research is done on the health effects of protein, the American Institute for Cancer Research recommends choosing low-fat protein sources as part of a healthful diet. Eating skim and low-fat dairy products and extra-lean cuts of meat is a good start, particularly in modest portions (three or four ounces of meat per meal). It is easier to cut back by replacing some animal protein with extra plant protein from dried beans, potatoes, pasta, dee, or com, and use just a little meat or cheese for flavor. Whole-grain cereals and breads are also good protein sources.

Look at protein as an important part of your diet, but not the most important part. Most Americans can cut back on protein without jeopardizing their health. By shifting the focus of your meals to give equal attention to meats, fruits, vegetables and grains, you can provide better balance to your diet and help avoid health problems associated with an excess or deficiency of any important nutrients.

Lentil Rice Delight provides a meal in one pot, since the lentils and rice combined make a good low-fat protein source. The fat and calorie content is already fairly low for a whole meal; however, you can reduce it even more by substituting white wine, low-fat broth, or water for the oil.

- ¾ cup brown rice, uncooked
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 2¼ cups water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup lentils, rinsed
- 1½ Tablespoons lemon juice
- 5 ounces, frozen spinach (or ½ pound fresh spinach, stems removed)

Saute the chopped onion and garlic in the oil (or white wine, broth or water). Add the rice and curry; saute 1 or 2 minutes more. Add the water, salt, lentils and lemon juice, and simmer 45 minutes, covered. Add the spinach and simmer a few more minutes until the spinach is tender.

If a spicier flavor is desired, add a dash of hot pepper sauce or chili powder before serving.

Each of the 2 servings (2 cups each) contains 9 grams of fat and 480 calories.

VITAMIN E FOR MUSCLE SORENESS

Preliminary research seems to indicate that vitamin E supplementation may reduce the muscle damage that accompanies rigorous exercise routines. The evidence that led to this conclusion comes from a study of 21 normal young and older men who took part in an exercise program for 48 days. Half the men took 800 international units of vitamin E, while the other half took a placebo. Muscle damage in each man was assessed on the basis of biopsies from the younger men's leg muscles and the presence of by-products of fat oxidation in the urine of all the men. The results showed that the group taking vitamin E, an antioxidant, exhibited less exercise-induced muscle damage than the placebo group. Bearing this in mind, exercisers may want to take vitamin E to reduce muscle soreness and inflammation.

Vitamin E not only reduces muscle soreness and inflammation, but it is good for your skin, too! Supplementing a healthy diet with the right combination of vitamins and minerals can improve your overall health. The GOOD FOOD CO., a natural food supermarket, offers a tremendous variety of quality natural foods, along with vitamins and supplements to keep you in peak condition. P.S. The older exercising men mentioned above seemed to benefit most from vitamin E supplementation during the Tufts University Human Nutrition Research Center study.

Bake a batch of hot cross biscuits for Easter

Family fun at Easter time can include more than coloring eggs and hunting for chocolate bunnies. Baking together offers a double bonus: quality time with your children and delicious results the whole family will enjoy eating.

There's even a history lesson to be teamed when you select a traditional recipe with a contemporary twist. Hot cross buns, a not-too-sweet yeast roll flavored with currants and topped with icing in the shape of a cross, is an English bread that predates Christianity. These buns first were baked to honor the Goddess of Spring. Later, when the Christian faith came to England, bakers slashed a cross on the tops of the buns, and the buns became associated with Good Friday.

Because they rely on yeast to make them rise, traditional hot cross buns require both care and time. Hot Cross Biscuits, on the other hand, are much quicker and easier to make.

A biscuit at its most basic requires just five ingredients: flour, baking powder, salt, shortening or butter and milk. Because they use baking powder instead of yeast for leavening, biscuits are sometimes referred to as "quick breads."

Some biscuit recipes call for buttermilk and baking soda; others use grains such as oats in place of some of the flour. Many biscuit variations include additional ingredients such as dried or fresh fruit, nuts, spices, even chocolate chips. And not all biscuits are sweet. Cheese, herbs, olives, shredded carrots, sun-dried tomatoes, diced ham, chilies and other savory ingredients are also found in biscuit recipes.

So how should a biscuit look and taste? According to Karen Doherty, a manager in the Quaker Kitchens, a perfect biscuit is light and tender with a golden brown crust and straight, even sides. When baking hot cross biscuits, or any other biscuit, Doherty has these tips:

■ Combine dry ingredients thoroughly to evenly distribute the baking powder.

■ When substituting oats for part of the flour, either quick or old fashioned oats can be used. Biscuits made with old fashioned oats will have a heartier texture and whole-grain flavor. Oats may be substituted for up to one-third of the flour in recipes for biscuits, muffins and other breads.

■ For the flakiest biscuits, use chilled butter, margarine or shortening and a pastry blender, two knives or your fingertips to combine the fat with the dry ingredients. The mixture should look like coarse crumbs.

■ Add milk all at once and stir just until the dry ingredients are moistened and the dough clumps together.

■ Knead dough quickly and gently 6 to 8 times on a lightly floured surface just until no longer sticky. Too much flour and overkneading the dough will make biscuits tough.

■ Roll or pat dough to an even thickness, usually 1/4 inch.

■ Cut biscuits with a floured biscuit cutter and a straight downward motion.

■ Avoid twisting the biscuit cutter or biscuits may rise unevenly.

■ Brush tops of biscuits with milk, melted butter or margarine before baking for richer brown tops. If desired, sprinkle with additional oats.

■ Bake biscuits in a preheated hot (425-450° F.) oven until light golden brown, and serve hot.

HOT CROSS BISCUITS

- 1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
- 1/2 cup (5 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon) margarine or butter, chilled
- 1/2 cup dried currants or raisins
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 3/4 cup buttermilk
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter, melted
- 2 tablespoons Quaker oats

(quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

icing

1/2 cup powdered sugar

1 to 2 teaspoons buttermilk

Heat oven to 450 degrees F.

Lightly grease cookie sheet. In large bowl, combine first 7 ingredients; mix well. Cut in margarine with pastry blender or 2 knives until crumbly. Stir in currants and orange peel. Add buttermilk, mixing just until moistened. Turn out onto lightly floured surface; knead gently 6 to 8 times.

Roll or pat dough to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut with floured 2 1/2-inch biscuit cutter. Gather dough scraps together (do not knead); reroll and cut until all dough is used. Place on prepared cookie sheet. Brush tops with melted margarine and sprinkle with remaining oats. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until light golden brown. Remove to wire rack; cool 3 minutes.

For icing, combine powdered sugar and buttermilk; mix well. Using a small spoon, drizzle icing on each biscuit in the shape of a cross.

Kroger offers Parisian sourdough

Parisian Sourdough French bread and rolls are now available, freshly baked at local Kroger Stores. The flash-frozen par-baked sourdough products are shipped frozen, thawed just before baking, browned in Kroger ovens and offered piping hot to consumers.

The Parisian line contains no fat, no sugar, and no cholesterol. Look for it at these Kroger stores — 33523 Eight Mile, 30935 Five Mile in Livonia; 5720 North Sheldon, Canton, 44505 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, 33300 14 Mile Road, West Bloomfield, and 5866 Middelbelt, Garden City.

Parisian Sourdough Bakery, established in 1856, began the tradition during the California Gold rush of the mid 1800s. It was founded by a French family who had experimented with variations of the American sourdough starter that was widely available in the Northern California gold mine fields.

Each loaf of Parisian sourdough requires up to 24 hours of carefully supervised production time. Once a portion of the original 1856 "starter" is mixed with flour, water and salt, the dough is allowed to rest for up to 17 hours. When baked to a deep golden brown, the Parisian crust is a hearty bite of sourdough flour.

Pork association offers tips for storing ham

Here are some ham storage tips from the Michigan Pork Producers Association.

■ Place purchased ham in original wrapping in refrigerator 7 to 10 days. Slices should be used within 3 to 4 days.

■ Vacuum-packaged hams, unopened, will keep at least two weeks in the refrigerator.

■ Canned hams should be refrigerated until ready to use.

■ Leftover cooked ham should be tightly wrapped and refrigerated promptly after the meal and can be stored in the refrigerator for 4 to 5 days.

Freezing deteriorates ham quality. If you must freeze, wrap tightly and store in freezer up to two months.

Operator: 'Can you help Moffatt make this call?'

Maybe getting an audience with the Pope is easier than getting a return phone call from Redford Catholic Central High principal Father Joseph Moffatt.

Following the retirement (or was it forced resignation?) of longtime basketball coach Bernie Holowicki, Redford Observer sports editor Steve Kowalski can't seem to get in touch with the CC principal.

Steve has had plenty of contact with CC public relations man Greg Grabowski, but breaking the inner circle on Breakfast Drive has been impossible.

What is Father Moffatt trying to hide from? We can all read between the lines, but why not put the rumors to rest Father?

It's apparent, at least for now, that Holowicki did not leave under his own volition. In fact, Holowicki, who is the state's third winningest high school coach with 612 career wins, must be planning to get back into coaching somewhere else, otherwise he'd be coaching next month in the McDonald's All-American High School All-Star Game. Holowicki is also reportedly taking one week of his summer basketball camps to Garden City.

Holowicki, 62, did probably his finest job coaching this year, leading the Shamrocks to the Catholic League championship and district title over Detroit Henry Ford.

I'm sure that made it even more difficult when CC and he parted ways.

Father Moffatt can run his school the way he wants, but let's get the facts out in the open and tell us the real reason why Holowicki isn't returning. Did parents start pressuring the principal?

All we want to ask is a few questions. What is the big deal? If there was a difference in philosophy between the two parties on the way the basketball program was run, why not admit it and get on with hiring the next coach.

That's basically what happened when Ladywood fired Ed Kavanaugh.

At first, principal Mary Ann Smith was reluctant to talk to me, shoving off all questions on athletic director Sal Malek.

But to her credit, she did return my phone call and cleared up quite a bit regarding the circumstances surrounding Kavanaugh's firing.

Father Moffatt can take a cue from Sister Smith.

We don't need a private audience, just a return call.

Glenn tournament run

Some people may laugh, but Westland John Glenn was very close to winning the state Class A basketball championship.

This tournament run they made was not a fluke.

Glenn played to the level of its competition all year, and with a few breaks, could have been playing Friday at the Breslin Center against Detroit Public School League champion Detroit Murray-Wright in the semifinals.

Glenn nearly beat Battle Creek Central in the quarterfinals despite a hostile crowd, out-of-state officials and two questionable calls down the stretch.

Tony Goins, the 6-foot-5 senior forward, is my vote for Observerland Player of the Year. Nobody in this area had a better season.

Also, if Guy Rucker, Glenn's 6-10 1/4 junior center continues to improve, who is going to stop him next year? All he needs is a summer on the weights and learn a couple of post moves.

Juniors Brent Washington and Savon Hubbard made great strides during the districts and regionals. Sophomore guard Albert Jones is a talent.

But the big question remains for next year: Who is going to replace Goins?

One candidate is 6-8 junior Eric Reppke, who played little this year, but shows a smooth shooting stroke. There also may be some help from the JV team, but Reppke needs to give coach Mike Schuette a commitment this summer.

If Reppke develops, Glenn and Battle Creek Central, another team loaded with underclassmen, could face each other again late in the tournament.

Thoughts of spring

I wonder if Carrie Cunningham is still on the pro circuit?

I'm still scratching my head over the "no contest" hockey decision made by Churchill principal Rod Hosman and Franklin principal Mike Fenchel. Could you do that in football? Also, what does the Michigan High School Athletic Association have to say about protest decisions regarding disqualified players?

Don't be surprised if Glenn's baseball team gets to the state finals, too.

Spartans covered in all events

Livonia Stevenson returns an experienced and talented girls track team for the 1994 season. The Spartans, coached by Paul Holmberg, boast a strong nucleus. Depth is the team's main concern.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Most area coaches would like to be in Paul Holmberg's shoes.

"We have an outstanding person back in just about every event," said the Livonia Stevenson girls track coach. "But we're looking for backups. We don't have that depth."

With 65 girls on the roster, Stevenson once again will be competitive in the Western Lakes Activities Association. (The Spartans open their dual meet season 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at home against city rival Franklin.)

Last year, the Spartans finished third in both the regionals and WLAAs to Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton.

Holmberg lost distance standout A.J. Koritnik to graduation, along with Stacy Prais and Dina Belleperche.

Koritnik was tops in Observerland in the 3,200-meter run (11:21.4) and was ranked in the top 10 in the 1,600 (5:17.6). Belleperche was sixth in the discus (106 feet, 4 inches).

The leading returnee is first-team All-Area high jumper Colleen Lesondak, who cleared 5-6 as a sophomore. She is a regional champion.

Senior Cathy Bacile was a top 10 area performer in the long jump (16-3/4) and 200 dash (26.8).

Also back is senior Jill Eupizi, who clocked a 15.9 in the 100 hurdles, and senior Rachel Clark, second in the area in the discus (114-11) and eighth in the shot put (33-1/4).

Yet another standout is All-Area cross country performer Bridget MacKinnon, a senior who went 5:26.9 last season in the 1,600, and 11:31.1 in the 3,200. Sophomore Jeannette Stojcevski returns in the 300 hurdles (49.3).

Other Spartan returnees include juniors Nicole Lanctot (hurdles/400), Kelly Prais (middle distance) and Kelly Levine (hurdles).

Sophomores Michelle Catenacci (400), Colleen Creehan (distance) and Lynn Knapp (distance) should also add depth, while seniors Laura Flanagan (shot put/discus) and Julie Cahill (distance) also figure prominently for Holmberg.

"We have fewer kids out than we've had in a long time," Holmberg said. "We have only 18 freshman."

A lot of area coaches, however, would trade shoes with the Stevenson coach.

Westland John Glenn

Pay-to-play has hurt the Rockets' program, but coach John Kitchen retains some outstanding individuals on his 35-member squad, led by first-team All-Area long jumper Courtney Brown, who cleared 16-7 as a sophomore.

Glenn must replace the graduated Lisa Rankey in the shot put (34-9) and discus (107-0), as well as Karen Deschaine in the high jump (5-2).

Brown, a junior who scored 107 points last season, can also run the sprints. She'll team up in the relays with 100 dash state qualifier Felicia Bailey, a junior who ran 12.7.

Senior Lori Trussler returns in the 100 hurdles (16.4), while freshman Marjorie Brooks of Marshall Junior High has already clocked a 13:17.0 (indoors) in the 3,200.

Other Glenn notables include junior high jumper Elizabeth Swanguarian (4-10), senior Akua Saulsberry (sprints), senior Gretchen Schroeder (distance), senior Katie Niman (sprints), freshman Latoi Messner (sprints), senior Michelle Molitor (distance) and Shannon Porter (hurdles/middle distance).

At the Huron Relays, Glenn's 1,600 relay team of senior Tina Moore, sophomore Ursula McKinnie, sophomore Vernesia Lawson and senior Yasemin Ahmed took a surprising fifth.

Livonia Ladywood

Second-year coach Robert O'Brien is optimistic as the Blazers, 68 strong, prepare for Tuesday's dual meet opener at Ypsilanti (4 p.m. start).

"We're a real young team again," O'Brien said. "Last year 70 percent of our team was freshmen. We still have a large group of underclassmen, but with the squad of returners, we should get our dual meet record up and improve our finish at the Catholic League meet (fourth place) and regional."

Senior Lyndi Paling went 16.0 in the 100 hurdles a year ago before going down with an injury. She will also compete in the shot put.

Junior Nicole Clausen went 12.8 in the 100, while sophomore Lindsey Soter posted impressive numbers in the long jump (15-4) and 100 dash (12.9).

Three of four runners return for Ladywood's 800 relay (1:50.1) including Shannon Swish, Clausen and Soter.

Other returnees include sophomore Stacie Johnson (long jump/high jump), junior Sarah Dixon (distance), sophomore Julie Brown (distance), freshman Chrissy Johnson (distance).

Livonia Franklin

Rick Lee, now in his third year as head coach of the Patriots, will miss Karen Potempa (32-10 in the shot put), but will bank on some young talent.

"We're having fun, we're working hard," Lee said.

Lee is looking for senior leadership from co-captains Jessica Brothers (sprints), Dawn Hunt (middle distance), Sarah Pridemore (sprints) and Carrie Smith (100 and 200).

Top juniors include Robyn Angolanto (hurdles), Mary Brumwell (sprints), Kim Eagan (high jump), Heather McAllister (hurdles), Leah Morski (distance), Heather Sampson (shot put/discus) and Muriel Sanders (sprints).

Sophomores Christy Tarek (shot put/discus), Suzie Lukofsky (distance) and Leann Harrigan (distance) will also contribute.

Freshman Janine Bosman, who can run the 100 to 400 and long jump, "is a real talented young lady," according to Lee.

"She shows a lot of enthusiasm and energy," said Lee, who has 34 participants this spring.

Freshman Sarah Byrd, a sprinter, should also help.

Livonia Churchill

Coach Kelly Graham has a squad of 37 entering the 1994 season.

"We're definitely young and inexperienced," said Graham, a former All-American High School hurdler and Big Ten performer at Indiana University. "We have a few girls who have run three to four years and that will carry us over."

The Chargers will miss Amanda Burdeno, who threw 33-7 last year in the shot put.

Junior Karen Dawley returns in the high jump after clearing 5 feet last year. She will also run the hurdles and 400.

Another junior, Heather Boni, is a top-notch sprinter (12.8 in the 100). She can also move up to the 400.

GUY WARREN/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Long Jumper: Cathy Bacile is one of the top returnees for Stevenson. She is also a sprinter.

Lora Efursy (400) and Jenny Jenkins (shot put/discus) are the only experienced seniors. Junior Candace Ribar (distance) also returns.

Sophomores and freshman will shore up the rest of the team.

Leading 10th-grade performers during the preseason include Laura Gauci (hurdles), Jenny Buddenborg (hurdles), Becky Couyoumjian (sprints), Kristy Scovel (shot put) and Erin Sharp (distance).

Freshmen sprinters Jeannette Martus and Amanda Eszes also show promise.

Wayne Memorial

Coach Bob Lynn has his back against the wall.

With pay-to-play having a profound effect on the turnout, the Zebras have only 14 competitors this spring.

"Pay-to-play has devastated Wayne," Lynn said. "A lot of them said the money ($167 per sport) was too much."

"We'll have a skeleton crew, but the people we put out there will be competitive. But beyond that we don't stand a chance of winning a meet because we don't have enough." Lynn lost All-Area shot putter Kim Morrow (37-10) to graduation. She also ranked third in Observerland in the discus (112-7).

Also lost to graduation is All-Area 300 hurdler Tranessa Burroughs (46.6).

Sprinter Crystal Milliner (12.9 in the 100) also quit the team.

That leaves Kim Shonce (high jump) and Bernadette Prevo (800) as the only seniors.

Other contributions should come from sophomore Jessica Walk (800), junior Nicole Lacroix (hurdles), sophomore Tia Bush (sprints) and Junior Donna Williams (sprints).

"Lacroix looks promising, she's made a lot of improvement," Lynn said.

Lutheran Westland

Last year, Lutheran Westland shared the Metro Conference title with Harper Woods Lutheran East.

"Our goal is to repeat or be alone in first," Lutheran Westland coach John Gerlach said. "Based on our returnees, we have a good chance of repeating."

Gerlach, who has 33 in camp, is concerned about scoring points in the field events.

The Warriors lost Sarah Pfeiffer (15-10 1/2 in the long jump) to graduation, but just about everyone else returns.

Angel Azzopardi, a Class C state qualifier last year in the 3,200, leads a corps of seniors that also includes Alici Koch (distance), Stephanie McChes (hurdles), Jennifer Merrill (shot put/discus) and Kim Wheeler (sprints).

Juniors Emily Schroeder (sprints/high jump) and Andi Evans (hurdles/long jump) area also back along with sophomore middle distance runners Katie Sernett and Heather Locke.

Gerlach is also looking for help from any one of 13 freshman.

C'ville drops track

Livonia Clarenceville's Dick Davis prematurely announced his retirement from coaching.

"We do not have a team," he said. "We had only nine girls and eight boys sign up, but only eight showed up all together."

"We tried to get one going, but there was not enough participation. I'm planning to retire from teaching next year."

"Hopefully they will make an effort to bring it back."

Underclass rules mat team

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Remember the names and faces of the wrestlers on the All-Observers first team. You'll be seeing and hearing about most of them again next year.

The 1994 honor squad is dominated by underclassmen. Only three of the 14 first-teamers are seniors. The remainder consists of nine juniors and two sophomores.

Four are repeat selections: Redford Thurston junior Luley Haddad and Livonia Stevenson juniors Scott Goldman, Chris Mullett and Craig Martin.

Livonia Churchill junior Josh Banks, Farmington senior Mike Prough and Redford Catholic Central senior Liam O'Donohue were second-team picks a year ago. CC junior Dan Krueger made the jump from the third team.

Coach of the Year honors go to the Livonia Stevenson staff headed by Don Berg. It was a team effort by Berg and assistants Jim Carlin, Ben Lewis, Mike Krause and Bob Mounro that made the Spartans the No. 1 team in Observerland.

ALL-AREA TEAM

John Spolsky, 275, Redford CC: Spolsky (sophomore) placed eighth in the heavyweight class at the state tournament. He was second in the regional and won the district title. He also was the Observerland champion and placed second in three other tournaments. Spolsky was 40-6 this year and has a 43-7 career record.

"John is one of the most exciting wrestlers to step on the mat in recent years," CC coach Mike Rodriguez said. "John qualified for state in his first season on the varsity and still has two more shots at it."

Matt Michalski, 103, Farmington: Michalski (sophomore) is the Observerland, Western Lakes Activities Association and district champion at 103 pounds. He also placed second in the regional, third in Oakland County and fifth in the state. Michalski was 36-9 this year and has a 45-15 career record.

"Pound for pound, it would be hard to find a more competitive, determined and dedicated athlete," Farmington coach Al Beyar said.

Jason Milne, 112, Garden City: Milne (junior) is the Observerland, Mega Conference and district champion at 112. He also placed first at the Riverview tournament and second at Garden City, Redford Thurston and the regional.

The state qualifier set the school record with 88 takedowns this year and the junior record for single-season wins. He was 32-10 this year, was named co-MVP of the Observerland tournament and has a career record of 68-25.

"Jason improved a tremendous amount since last year with hard work and determination," Garden City coach Phil Freeman said. "His winning attitude in the wrestling room rubbed off on the rest of the team."

"Jason always tries to learn from his losses and keep his wins in perspective. Sometimes he works so hard you have to force him to take a break."

Josh Banks, 119, Churchill: Banks (junior) won the Observerland title at 119 and qualified for state. He was second at the Berkley tournament and third at Trenton, Garden City, the district and the regional.

gional. Banks was 26-7 this year and has a career record of 56-24.

"Josh grew as a wrestler this year," Churchill coach Brent Withington said. "His wrestling has been an inspiration to the team, and I'm looking forward to Josh's accomplishments next year."

Luley Haddad, 125, Thurston: Haddad (junior) won the Class B state championship at 125 pounds. After finishing third at Observerland, he didn't lose another match and finished 40-2.

He was first at the Thurston, Dearborn Fordson and Dearborn Invationals, won the Mega Blue title and placed first in the district and regional meets.

Haddad, who was third in the state at 119 last year, has a 103-22 career record. He has a 3.6 grade point in advanced courses and is the junior class president.

"Luley is a gentleman and a leader off the mat, a fierce competitor on it," Thurston coach Bill Cohan said. "He has a spirited outlook on life that you can't coach. He is a great student of the sport and a fine young man."

Steve Horvath, 130, Garden City: Horvath (senior) was the Observerland and district champion at 130. He placed second in the Riverview tournament and third at Mount Clemens. Horvath was 23-8 this year and had a 54-43 career record.

"Steve comes from a wrestling family and possesses great natural ability, which he worked hard to perfect in practice," Freeman said.

"Steve was a varsity wrestler from the first day he walked in the wrestling room. He has great technique and quickness, and he learned moves as quickly as they were taught."

Chris Jaztremski, 135, Stevenson: Jaztremski (junior) won championships at the Observerland, Western Lakes and district tournaments. He led the Spartans in nearfalls with 51 and placed at every meet. Jaztremski, who plays noseguard on the football team, was 32-10 this year and has a 52-34 career record.

"Chris is a very strong wrestler," Stevenson coach Don Berg said. "He can bench press 260 pounds, and it shows on the mat. He likes to lock up and throw. He learned this year not to force the throw and tries not to muscle it. He is a hard-nosed wrestler on the mat and a gentleman off the mat."

Mike Prough, 140, Farmington: Prough (senior) was the Observerland, WLA, district and regional champion. He placed fourth in the Oakland County tournament. Prough was 35-8 this year and had a 75-21 career record.

"Mike had an excellent wrestling career as a result of his hard work, intensity and never-give-up attitude," Beyar said.

Scott Goldman, 140, Stevenson: Goldman (junior) was eighth in the state at 140 and was the Observerland champi-

He was second in the WLA, district and regional meets. Goldman, a defensive back on the football team, was 34-11 this year and has a 77-31 career record. He has the school record for career takedowns (251).

"Scott is a great athlete and can excel in many sports," Berg said. "He is gifted with natural talent and a great work ethic. He is awesome on his feet. Nobody in the state can take people down like he can."

Chris Mullett, 145, Stevenson: Mullett (junior) won tournament titles at Trenton and Plymouth Salem. He was second in the WLA and district at 145, second in Observerland at 152 and third at Catholic Central.

"Chris is a well-balanced wrestler and athlete," Berg said. "He is very strong for his size and extremely talented. His work ethic is what makes him so good. I never have to push him in practice; he pushes himself and others."

"Chris has the heart of a lion. He's a starting linebacker at 5-foot-10, 155 pounds, and one can see how tough he is."

Liam O'Donohue, 152, Redford CC: O'Donohue (senior) was the Observerland, Catholic League and Troy district champion at 152. He was 39-15 this year and posted a 78-32 career record.

"Liam is a hard-working young man who put it all together in his senior year," Rodriguez said.

Brian Kolb, 160, Westland Glenn: Kolb (junior) placed sixth in the state, finished fourth in the regional, won the WLA championship and was second in Observerland. Kolb had a 41-12 record this year.

Dan Krueger, 171, Redford CC: Krueger (junior) competed most of the season at 160 but had an outstanding post-season run at 171. He won the district title and, despite placing fourth in the regional, was the state runner-up. He was a Catholic League champion and placed third in Observerland at 160. He was 43-13 this year and has a 78-25 career record.

"Dan is blessed with great talent and ability," Rodriguez said. "I believe he has finally found his place in the sport of wrestling. He's a winner."

Craig Martin, 189, Stevenson: Martin (junior) is the Class A champion and the only undefeated wrestler in the area at 189. He won every tournament he entered — Trenton, Garden City, Salem, CC, Observerland, Western Lakes, district, regional and state.

Martin set six school records this year and was co-MVP of the Observerland tournament. He also won a state freestyle championship last summer. Martin has a 90-19 career record.

"Craig is a very dedicated wrestler who worked harder than anyone in his weight class," Berg said. "It showed in the state semifinal match when he won in overtime (14-12 over undefeated Garrett Gould of Troy)."

"He is very mature for his age. He is on a higher level of thinking than most high school kids. I would have to call him a man among boys."

"He is quick and agile but as strong as a bull. Craig will be back to defend his title at 189 pounds. You can bet on it."

COLLEGE SPORTS

Madonna to host defending NAIA champ St. Francis

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

What a way to welcome the nation's No. 1-ranked baseball team in the NAIA: with all sorts of new additions.

That's exactly what Madonna University has planned for this week's invasion of the Saints from the College of St. Francis (Joliet, Ill.), winners of the NAIA World Series last season.

Madonna coach Mike George hopes the team's field, located at the former Livonia Bentley, will be upgraded with the addition of a scoreboard (donated by Pepsi Cola) and a press box/refreshment stand.

BASEBALL

And he hopes his team will be improved with the addition of a new coach — Greg Haeger, a Livonia native and Redford Catholic Central graduate.

Haeger will take over the duties as George's pitching coach. He has the proper credentials: Haeger played first base and pitched at the University of Michigan until 1990. He missed a great part of the '90 season after wrist surgery that limited his at-bats.

The injury resulted in his switching from first base to the mound near the end of the season. He didn't get much time in pitching — Haeger estimated about eight innings in five appearances — but that June he was drafted by the Tigers as a pitcher.

He was part of the club's Class A Lakeland team that won the championship in '92, but the following off-season Haeger wrecked a knee that required reconstructive surgery. The club released him a year ago.

At Lakeland, Haeger said he was "doing a lot of everything — spot starting, long relief, set-up, just about everything." His injury occurred during a pickup basketball game. "I was doing something I shouldn't have been doing," he said.

Haeger hopes to add only positives to Madonna's pitching, even with his late start. He was added to George's staff last week after his roommate, Sean Maloney, a former Madonna player, told George about his availability.

His 2½ years pitching in the minor leagues can only be a help to Madonna's staff. George had been without an in-season pitching coach; Mark Falvo had worked with his staff during the pre-season, but Falvo also coaches Dearborn Divine Child's team and was unavailable during the season.

The Fighting Crusaders will need the help against St. Francis. Steve Ochman, a senior righthander who was 6-2 with a school-record 1.51 earned run average in '93, is the staff ace. Ochman is 0-1 thus far this season, but he's listed as one of the top four players in the NAIA.

Three hurlers have two wins apiece for the 9-9 Saints, none with previous varsity experience as a starter: seniors Chad Capista and Chris Rentz, and Bill Jones, a junior.

St. Francis' hitting is paced by junior first baseman/outfielder Dave DeHaan, who is currently hitting .344 with two homers and 27 runs batted in. Junior shortstop David Rydberg is hitting .377, and junior centerfielder Kerry Paprockas is batting .333.

Madonna won't come into the game lacking, however. The Crusaders were 12-4 after taking two of three from Ohio Dominican March 18-19.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

For more information, call Paul Soucy at 525-1387.

LIVONIA RANGERS 2ND

The Livonia Hockey Association Squirt B Rangers, sponsored by Buddy's Pizza, fell 1-0 to Calumet in the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association state finals recently at the Southfield Civic Center.

The Rangers finished the year 33-7-3 overall.

In the state playoffs, the Rangers defeated the Woodhaven Panthers (3-0), Dearborn Cougars (4-1) and St. Clair Shores Hawks (2-1). They also played host Southfield Omaha to a 1-1 draw.

In the win over the Hawks, Dan Ross and Chris Wrigley scored goals, while Greg Parsons and Scott Hines drew assists. The defense was led by Jon Green and Megan McLeod.

Goalie Kevin Marlowe posted the shutout over the Panthers.

Wrigley led the Rangers in tournament scoring with four goals and two assists.

LYSC WINGS 1ST

The Livonia Youth Soccer Club Wings recently finished undefeated en route to a first place finish in the under-13 A Division at Total Soccer in Farmington Hills.

Members of the Wings, coached by Larry Schlanser and Mark Walsh, include Danny Basse, Adam Bresnay, Adam Coulter, Rob O'Mell, Brian Pankow, Brian Prost, Kevin Sierzega, Mike Slowik, Scott Smith, Joe Suchara, Matt Schlanser, Mark Sicilia, Ken Taylor, Jason Trost, David Tweadey and Gavin Walsh.

ROTH WINS HAMMER

Western Michigan University junior Kurt Roth (Livonia Churchill) recently took first place in the hammer throw with a heave of 162 feet, 6 inches at the prestigious Florida State Relays (March 19 in Tallahassee, Fla.).

Roth also finished 10th in the discus with a toss of 127-2. It was the first outdoor meet of the season for the Broncos.

FARRELL HONORED

Whitman College (Wash.) senior swimmer Kathy Farrell (Wayne Memorial) recently earned honorable mention honors after finishing 13th and 16th in two freestyle events at the NAIA Championships in Federal Way, Wash.

Farrell, an art major, also received honorable mention recognition in five relay events.

Emons from page 1C

If Shawn Respert is graduating in May, maybe he should test the NBA waters. By the way, how's old coach Mike Fusco doing in Hudson?

Did anyone see Mike Modano get dropped to the floor? The stretcher that was carrying Modano fell to the ground while he was being transported into an ambulance. He suffered a concussion after being hit by the Rangers' Mark Messier, but came out of it

OK. I hope the kid hits the 50-goal plateau.

Can the Red Wings get Chris Tancill back? He's still playing in Kalamazoo.

They should have had two separate state volleyball tournaments this year. One for Portage Northern, and another for the rest of the teams.

Richland Gull Lake, the state Class B volleyball champions, is coached by Wayne Memorial grad

Kim Poteau.

I'm looking forward to Steven-son wrestling next year.

Churchill grad Debbie Nuckles-Rodgers, a firefighter who now lives in in the state of Washington, is playing outfield for the Silver Bullets, the new touring women's-professional baseball team.

At 35, she's definitely in a league of her own.

How would this man compose a PERSONAL SCENE ad? Perhaps something like this:

LONG-HAIRED printer, well known for electric persona, enjoys getting (kites) high in the rain, revolutionary thinker, ingenious inventor, seeks like-minded travel companion for frequent visits to France.

"Setting too Good an Example is a kind of Slander seldom forgiven."
—Benjamin Franklin, 1753

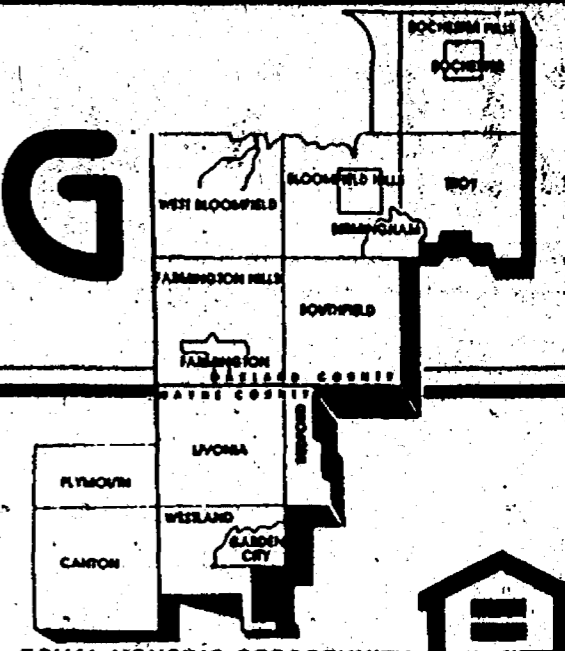

Personal Scene Ads in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers allow you to record a message in your own voice over the phone. That way when people see your ad in the paper, they can dial your code, hear your message and leave a message of their own. You can call, day or night, to get your messages. It's fast, it's easy, and it helps people find out more about each other. Look in today's classifieds or call your Observer & Eccentric ad taker and ask about our introductory offer. There may be a printer in your future, or a trip to France, or a walk in the rain. It pays to advertise.

Simple, honest, straightforward. How else would you expect to lease a Saturn?

By now, you've probably heard about the Saturn buying experience. No hassles, no pressure, no fuss, just common courtesy, along with a pretty great car.

Well, the way we see it, your experience shouldn't be any different if you want to lease a Saturn. After all, what could we possibly gain by making things any less straightforward than they have to be?

SmartLease payments based on 1994 Saturn SL Sedan, 5 speed, AC, MSRP $11,210 excluding taxes, title, license fee and insurance. First month's lease payment of $168 plus $200 refundable security deposit and down payment of $1,000 for a total of $1,368 due at lease signing. *Option to purchase at lease end for $6614. Payments total $6048.

GMAC must approve lease. Mileage charge of $0.15 per mile over 36,000 miles. Your payments may be higher or lower. Lessee pays for excessive wear and use.
